Unit Planning Is Given Okay

By TOM BAINES

The Greenville Housing Authority has been authorized to resume planning activities on 105 housing units here as specified in the Preliminary Planning Contract with the Department of Housing and Urban Development.

Joe Laney, the Authority's executive director, explained Tuesday night that when the suspension was placed on current housing programs by the president in January, a stipulation was made to honor prior commitments under the annual contributions contract.

The Authority had 17 units under the annual contract and an additional 105 units under a preliminary planning agreement with HUD. Laney said that the local board has been notified by HUD that units under preliminary planning will now be considered for funding.

The director, noting that the 105 units are the first new units in quite some time to be considered by HUD, said that the Housing Authority is investigating several possible sites for the new units and the owners have been contacted.

Laney said that he has requested HUD representatives to come to Greenville next week to conduct preliminary site inspections in order to determine whether the sites meet the criteria specified by HUD. If a site is secured, plans would call for development of the 105 units as well as the 17 previously authorized under a N.C. 22-D project. Some 15 acres would be desirable as a project site in order to achieve the desired density of approximately eight units per acre, it was noted.

Currently, the Authority has 453 units under management and 78 under construction.

Ralph Hall, site inspector for the new town project, reported last night that August was an "excellent month for the contractors" in the Newtown area with various phases of work being completed.

Work is progressing well and currently the project is some 20 per cent ahead of schedule. During the month, he reported, average employment on the site was 55 as compared with an average of 32 in July. The desired manpower load is from 50-60, he said.

Money-wise, the project is approximately 50 per cent complete, Hall noted.

Curbs and gutters have been completed in all parking lots, the inspector noted. He added that materials are coming in about when needed now and HUD inspectors appear to be satisfied with the work done in the project.

Laney reported that a letter was received from the Post Office indicating that cluster-type mailboxes would be provided at the Newtown site. The director said that the Authority advised the Postmaster that it was felt that cluster mailboxes would not be adequate, especially in the area involving 32 single-family units provided for the elderly or handicapped.

Laney said that he, the Authority's chairman and architect met with the Postmaster and were informed that the cluster mailboxes were a new type and would serve 14 units per cluster. The Authority representatives requested conventional unit mailboxes for the 32 single-family units and asked that if the new cluster-type boxes are now available, single boxes be provided for each unit.

Chairman Woody Crumpler emphasized that no mailboxes should be on 14th Street in view of the heavy traffic on the street.

Mrs. Saliye C. Streeter, director of tenant affairs, reported that average rent for N.C. 22-1 (Meadowbrook) during August was $35.03 and all 65 units were rented. Average rent in N.C. 22-2 (Kearney Park) was $38.06 and all 160 units were occupied.

In N.C. 22-3 (Moyewood), residents paid an average of $38.13 during August and all 188 units were occupied while rent in N.C. 22-4 (Moyewood) average $33.50 with all 40 units occupied.

Mrs. Streeter reported that July and August were spent working on applications for continued occupancy in the four subdivisions.

Commissioners Approve Jail Air Conditioning

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County Commissioners Tuesday afternoon approved spending more than $6,400 for air conditioning and refrigeration units for the Pitt County Jail and okayed hiring two men for the Sheriff's Department to help in transporting mental and alcoholic patients to and from Cherry Hospital in Goldsboro.

Included in the $6,400 set by commissioners for the jail was a 7½ ton air conditioning unit to serve the office, booking and kitchen areas ($1,900) and a 50-cubic foot freezer and 50-cubic foot refrigerator ($4,500).

Sheriff Ralph Tyson told the board that the two additional men were needed to help transport patients to the state hospital in Goldsboro in light of new state laws which went into effect September 1.

Tyson said persons now committed to Cherry have to be returned to the county every 90 days for a hearing in District Court, thus requiring added trips to the Goldsboro facility.

Commissioners were told yesterday that Pitt County will receive about $40,000 in funds to be used for alcohol education and rehabilitation in the coming year in light of a 1973 General Assembly bill that sends 5-cents per bottle of whiskey sold back to the counties for education and rehabilitation purposes.

ABC Board member Van Fleming told the board that the local ABC board is sponsoring a seminar here later this month for board members and other interested persons in the eastern part of the state to discuss ways of using the state funds to their maximum advantage.

In other business yesterday commissioners reappointed W. A. Gaskins to the Board of Trustees of Pitt Technical Institute; adopted a resolution approving Greenville's Positive Action Program for the 1973-1974 fiscal year; and approved investments of county funds made during the month.

At a dinner session, Commissioners met with Dr. Robert May, director of the Pitt County Community Health Department who will be leaving the post as soon as a new administrator can be hired for the department.

Dr. May, who has been health director here for two years has reorganized the department and in effect, phased himself out of a job—at his request. He has told commissioners the job can and should be handled by a trained administrator, rather than a medical doctor; using local physicians as consultants and to staff health department clinics.

At yesterday's session, Mr. May outlined for Commissioners in graph form where Pitt County stands in the field of health and encouraged the board to require health directors to present to commissioners with detailed health data about the county. He indicated such information would enable commissioners to continue to make sound judgements about the operation of the county agency.

The physician told the board that citizens' health needs can be divided into two general areas, "environment health needs and personal health needs."

Environmental health needs involve such things as air, water, food and soil pollution, protection and monitoring, while personal health needs involve acute care, chronic care and prevention.

Acute and chronic care, he explained, are primarily met by the private medical sector, however "with some governmental support for the indigent segment of the population."

Preventive health care needs, "has been and still is the primary responsibility of the government through public health departments."

There are 89 physicians in Pitt, Dr. May told the board, with a ratio of one medical doctor per 798 citizens.

PARIS (AP) — Three Arab gunmen took over the Saudi Arabian Embassy today and demanded a plane to fly them and at least five hostages to an unnamed Arab capital, police reported.

The gunmen, who claimed to be members of a Palestinian splinter group, said they would trade the hostages seized in the embassy for the release of a high-ranking Palestinian resistance leader, reported to be held in Jordan or Kuwait.

After negotiations conducted by calling messages back and forth from the ground to an upstairs window, police reported the gunmen seemed to be softening and were asking only to be allowed to leave unharmed.

Police Commissioner Jean Bucheton said the Arabs claimed to be members of a Palestinian faction called Al Icab, meaning the punishment. Seizure of the embassy puzzled guerrilla groups in Beirut. They disclaimed any connection with the action and said they knew nothing of a group called Al Icab.

The takeover occurred on the first anniversary of the Munich Olympics massacre of Israeli sportsmen by the Black September terrorist group, but there was no apparent connection.

As the negotiations at the embassy wore on, the gunmen put back by one hour the deadline for a bus to take them to Orly airport. The new time set for the embassy was 5 p.m. local time or noon EDT.

Three of the hostages were reported to be the Saudi Arabian cultural attache, the embassy accountant and a translator.

The Kuwaiti ambassador to France was acting as an intermediary between the Palestinians and the police, Bucheton reported.

"We are waiting to see how the negotiations turn out," he said. "Any intervention is absolutely out of the question for the time being."

The three men burst into the embassy about 10 a.m. and neighbors heard shots fired in the two-story building on a quiet street near the headquarters of the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development. First reports said a madman was barricaded in one of the offices.

Delia Is Ashore

GALVESTON, Tex. (AP) — Remnants of tropical storm Delia churned up high winds today after pausing in the Gulf of Mexico and finally muscling ashore near here.

Two storm-related deaths were reported.

Early today, the National Weather Service reported that Delia still was able to muster winds up to 50 miles per hour in a few squalls.

The dying storm, which never quite achieved hurricane force, lingered near Palacios, just down the coast from here.

Rains accompanying Delia filled city streets in some areas near the coast and sent streams and bayous overflowing into low areas. Residents of more than a dozen southeast Texas counties were warned that 5 to 10 inches more rain could cause additional flooding.

State police blamed Delia for a highway crash in which two riders in a pickup truck died after swerving in front of a heavy truck near Anahuac, east of Houston. The victims were Danny K. Lester of Cedar Park, and Timothy O'Connor of Lafayette, La.

After lingering in the Gulf of Mexico for three days, Delia moved across the coastline Tuesday with winds gusting up to 68 m.p.h. at Galveston and hitting a sustained peak of 64 m.p.h., well below minimum hurricane force of 75 m.p.h.

Appealing Rule On Nixon Tapes

By TOM RAUM
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In an unusual legal twist, both the White House and special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox plan to appeal a court order for presidential Watergate tapes.

The White House said it would file its papers Thursday in an attempt to block efforts to force President Nixon to turn over the tapes.

Cox's appeal will seek "clarification or modification of the standards and procedures to be followed in determining what parts of the evidence will be presented to the grand jury," the prosecutor said. He did not elaborate.

Although neither side has yet filed papers, Hugh Kline, clerk of tp3 Circuit Court of Appeal, Tuesday set Sept. 11 as the date for oral arguments.

Meanwhile, U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica was scheduled to meet today with lawyers for Watergate figures Jeb Stuart Magruder and James W. McCord to determine whether the two men may continue lecture tours on Watergate. Sirica may also meet with Magruder personally, Magruder's office has indicated.

Magruder, former deputy director of Nixon's re-election campaign, cancelled a speech set for today at West Virginia University that was to kick off his national lecture tour.

McCord, convicted of participating in the June 17, 1972, Watergate break-in, already has been tentatively ordered by Sirica to stop his lecture tour.

Cox has asked Sirica to prohibit Magruder and McCord from making the tours.

Special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox won the first round in the court test on whether President Nixon may withhold tape recordings involving Watergate figures. Appeals are expected to move to the Supreme Court no matter which side wins in the appellate division.

Nixon's deputy press secretary, Gerald L. Warren, would not discuss Tuesday what the legal brief would argue.

Sirica ordered Nixon last week to turn over the tapes for his private judicial examination, but postponed the order to give the White House a chance to appeal.

Thursday had been set as the deadline for Nixon's attorneys to file a formal notice that they intend to make such an appeal. The tapes involve conversations between Nixon and top aides, and the President has said he won't release them—even for private inspection—unless ordered to do so by the Supreme Court.

The Supreme Court is in recess, and doesn't reconvene until October. Some sources believe it could be near the end of that month before the high court reaches a decision.

In another development, the Senate Watergate committee prepared to end its summer recess with a closed-door session next Tuesday to hear a confidential report from its investigators on political espionage and campaign finances.

The seven members will then decide when to resume their hearings and which witnesses to call.

Withdrawal Agreement

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — U.S. and Thai officials have agreed on the withdrawal of 70 more U. S. planes and 1,510 American airmen from four Thai air bases.

Prime Minister Thanom Kittachorn said today the withdrawals will begin Thursday at Korat Air Base, in northeast Thailand.

The United States withdrew more than 100 planes and 3,550 U. S. Marines from another Thai base last week.

No plans have been announced for withdrawal of any of the 80 U.S. B52 bombers stationed in Thailand. Thanom said they would remain "until the military and political situation in Southeast Asia and Indochina reaches a peaceful solution."

It will be unanimity.

Jenkins Takes Post Command

Capt. John T. Jenkins assumed command of Highway Patrol Troop "A" here yesterday, replacing Capt. R. F. Williamson, commander of the 24-county Troop since March 1970.

Capt. Williamson was transferred to Fayetteville where he assumed command of the Patrol's Troop "B" there.

Capt. Jenkins, a native of Littleton in Warren County, joined the Patrol in 1947 and served for 12 years in Craven County before moving to Rocky Mount Troop A's District 5, which includes Pitt and Edgecombe Counties as a corporal. He was transferred to Greenville a short time later, then in October 1961 promoted to sergeant and moved to Goldboro.

Four years ago the officer was promoted to the rank of captain and placed in charge of the 13-county (153 uniformed men) Troop "C" in Raleigh, after serving two years as a lieutenant at Fayetteville.

"Troop 'C' is an outstanding troop," Capt. Jenkins commented, "but we are glad to come back to Greenville."

As Troop "A" Commander, the officer is in charge of the 136 leaped from a second-floor window and was apparently seriously injured. Police said they understood the man to give his name as Al Sharif Jaffa, a member of the embassy staff.

The man was carried from the embassy on a stretcher and taken to a hospital.

A sobbing young woman who said her uncle and father were trapped inside the building estimated that 16 to 20 persons are normally working in the chancellery before noon. A number of them are French employees.

The Saudi Arabian ambassador, Sheikh Mohammed Ali Reza, was not in his office when the terrorists arrived.

He later joined the Kuwait ambassador in negotiating with the gunmen. Shutters were closed at the upstairs windows of the embassy, but from time to time one shutter would go up slightly and one of the three men would stick out his head to talk in Arabic with the Saudi ambassador who served as interpreter for the police.

Seek Fair Salaries

Chancellor Leo W. Jenkins has promised the East Carolina University faculty "to do all in my power" to work for equalization of faculty salaries throughout the University of North Carolina system.

Dr. Jenkins called on individual faculty members and faculty organizations to push such an effort for equity on the 16 campuses. The ECU chancellor said he recognizes that it is "very discouraging" for faculty members to see counterparts at other institutions enjoying large salary differentials. He said he feels strongly that those teaching identical courses at the various institutions should receive equal salaries.

"I am in favor of equalization of faculty salaries," Jenkins said. "Salaries should be based not on geography but on training, experience and work. I will push with all in my power for comparable salary levels for those of equal rank, similar training and similar teaching responsibilities."

"It is unfair to favor one over another simply because of the institution at which he teaches," Jenkins said.

He called on ECU's delegates to the University of North Carolina Faculty Assembly to put the matter of faculty salary equalization on the agenda for thorough discussion, adding that he felt that on "any matter in the interest of faculty welfare there will be unanimity."

Kiernan Named Business Head

Richard D. (Dick) Kiernan Jr., head of the Specifications Office at Burroughs Wellcome Co. here, has been named by Pitt United Fund campaign chairman Bill Dansey to serve as chairman of the Business I division of this year's fund drive.

"I have found that in the short period of time that Dick has been living in Greenville since coming here with Burroughs Wellcome that he has done more than his fair share towards bettering the community that he lives in," the campaign chairman commented in making the announcement.

"In being a very active member of the Greenville Jaycees and a member of their board of directors, I feel that Dick has demonstrated his ability to do the job that he has undertaken."

"I do not feel that I could have found a better person for this position," Dansey said.

Kiernan, born in the Bronx, New York, earned his A.A.S. degree from Rockland Community College in Suffern, N.Y., and then graduated from Fairleigh Dickinson University in Teaneck, N.J. with a B.S. degree in chemistry.

He was associated with Lederle Laboratories in Pearl River, N.J. prior to joining Burroughs Wellcome in 1969. Kiernan moved to Greenville in the Spring of 1970 with the company to help set up the Control Laboratories at the new plant.

As a member of the Greenville Jaycees, Kiernan was selected for the 1973 Spoke of the Year award, which is presented to the Jaycee recognized as the outstanding first-year member. He has also received both the Speak-up and Freedom Guard awards as a Jaycee.

Kiernan is married to the former Yvonne Brenner of Oakland, N.J. and they have a son, Ricky, and a daughter, Kelly Ann. The Kiernans attend St. Peter's Roman Catholic Church here.

"I am proud to have been asked to assist Bill Dansey in this year's United Fund campaign," the new chairman noted, "and I am looking forward to working with the small businesses in the Greenville community to afford them the opportunity to join with us in the United Fund in bettering our city

Consider Buy Power Lines

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

FARMVILLE — The Farmville Board of Commissioners agreed Tuesday night to pursue plans to buy electric line from Jim Craft's property just west of Farmville on Highway 264-A to Lewis' Store about four miles out.

The City of Wilson has agreed to sell the lines at a cost of $30,901. The Commissioners also decided to look into buying lines from Wilson from Lewis' Store to Grimes Lewis' Store.

Condolences were expressed to Mayor Will Joyner on the death of his wife, Mrs. Virginia Joyner and a resolution of sympathy was proposed to be sent to the Mayor and to his son, Charles.

A committee was appointed to discuss with the County School Board the possibility of buying the Junior High School property and athletic field if and when a new school building is built. The site on North Main Street has been mentioned as an ideal location for a new municipal building.

Engineer Van Lewis advised the Board to have Fred Wood, Solid Waste Supervisor, come over and inspect the back end of the new cemetery property owned by the town for possible use as a landfill. The action was approved.

Service charges for turning back on electricity after cutoff for nonpayment was raised from $3 to $5.

H. P. Norman and Bill Oakley's offer to tear down the old bath house at the municipal pool for $200 was approved. A new one will be built between now and next summer.

A map showing property owners was asked for following consideration of extending Cameron Street to Highway 264 to provide another artery into Farmville from the Highway.

An open registration day this Saturday was approved. Registering may be done at Cecil Lilley's office on E. Wilson Street.

It was agreed to investigate the possibility of leasing or buying the building next to the Town Office for use as additional space for the office. Mrs. Daisy Holmes Rogers owns the building reportedly soon to be vacated.

A bid by J. M. Edgerton and Son Company of Goldsboro for $10,481 for a heavy-duty backhoe and loader tractor for the Water Resources Department was accepted.

Wholesale Testing Of Students Useless Without Expert Knowhow

By DONNA JOY NEWMAN-CHICAGO (WNS) — When children talk about tests, you hear things like, "I got a 90," or "I got a B."

When psychologists or guidance counselors talk about testing, you hear things like, "He only hit the third stanine on the Otis in the group battery, so I gave him a WISC ('Whisk' in the professional jargon). His full-scale was much higher and in particular his performance was higher than his verbal."

Translated, that means the child took a group-administered intelligence test called the Otis-Lennon and scored rather low so the psychologist gave him the Wechsler Intelligence Scale for Children, an individual test.

Testing of today's school children has become so complicated that teachers need courses in statistics to understand it, and profound evaluation of a youngster through testing must be handled by a psychologist or similar trained professional.

But this does not mean parents must be left out in the cold. As school officials use tests to make more and more sophisticated decisions about the educational programs for children, it becomes more and more necessary for parents to know what testing means.

Two Types
There are basically two types of testing in the schools: commercial and teacher-made. The latter usually serve a limited purpose and questions about them can be answered easily enough by the teacher who gives them.

But the commercial tests often have far-reaching effects on the instructional program your child will receive. These are the tests given to all children in a school district on a regular schedule.

Bought from test publishers, which sell the same tests to school systems all over the country, they can be either, ability (or intelligence) and achievement measurements.

Most are standardized, which means they have been tried out on a carefully selected large group of children from across the country. The scores of this group become the norms against which the performance of every child who subsequently takes the test is measured.

Scores can be expressed as grade and age equivalents, telling, for example, that the child is reading at a fourth-grade level or a 9-and-2-months-old level. Or they may be expressed as percentile ranks or stanines. A child who gets a percentile of 65, for example, has scored higher than 65 per cent of the children in the norm group. Stanines stand for several percentile ranks.

Most of the standardized "paper and pencil" tests are administered to fairly large groups of children at a time.

Everybody agrees that intelligence, if it can be measured at all (and many say that it can't be), is better assessed by a test individually given by a specially trained professional.

A psychologist sitting face to face with a child gears the test to the child, backing up if necessary, basing each step on what the child has just done, encouraging, and making observations about the child's behavior that aren't possible to a test examiner standing in front of a roomful of 50 children.

Process
For instance, a tester watching a child place pegs on a board on an individual test sees the child's process and not just the result.

"You can observe hesitations and notice where the nature of any deficiency might lie," said Dr. Lillian Vittenson, clinical psychologist and professor of special education at Northwestern Illinois University. "For instance, if the child pokes around on the pegboard you wonder about his visual-motor integration."

"You always have to ask, 'Why is the child doing this?' Not, 'Is he smart or dull?'"

Dr. Vittenson said even an individual intelligence test is only a starting point in a complete evaluation, leading the psychologist to more specific tests pursuing possible learning problems.

The diagnostic aspects of testing is one of the latest trends in schools today. More and more schools are using group commercial achievement tests not so much for ranking children as for deciding where to go in the instructional program. Science Research Associates, one of the leading publishers of tests for schools, has a two-phase achievement testing program.

The Assessment Survey is a so-called norm-referenced test which shows a student's percentile rank in each of nine basic subject areas, and 42 sub-areas.

The tests are designed through content planning, item writing, and pretesting in schools all over the country to come up with questions that supposedly reflect what should be taught, is taught, and is learned.

Once the results of the survey are in, teachers who emphasize individualized instruction, sequential learning, and teaching to specific behavioral objectives can use the other part of the SRA testing program, Diagnosis: An

Fall Fashion Show, Luncheon Chairmen

Mrs. H. E. Lowry is serving as overall chairman for the fall fashion show and luncheon planned for ladies of the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Other chairmen are: Mrs. William Monroe, tickets; Mrs. Robert Dominick and Mrs. John Warner, decorations; Mrs. V. W. Thomas, favors; Mrs. Ed Warren, publicity; and Mrs. Jack Thomas, fashion coordinator.

The fall activity will be held at the club building Tuesday, Sept. 11, beginning at noon and continuing until 2 p.m. Mrs. Bill Corbitt will be narrator for the fashion show and Mrs. Kenneth Hite will provide a program of piano music.

Fashions, which will include golf and tennis ensembles, formal gowns, pants suits and daytime dresses, will be supplied by local merchants.

Proceeds from the show and luncheon will be used by the Country Club women for future club improvements and activities.

Mrs. Warren is currently serving as president of the ladies group. She pointed out that the show and luncheon is open to members and their guests.

Instructional Aid.

It consists of multi-question probes into narrow skill areas in an attempt to find out just why the student faltered in certain subject areas of the assessment survey. For instance, a pupil who did poorly in computation of whole numbers would be given probes in addition, subtraction, multiplication and division.

The child's instructional program then can be planned to include the appropriate skill-building.

Grandpa Doesn't Want To Play Daddy Again

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 65-year-old man who has been looking forward to retirement after 40 years with one company. I dreamed of traveling, and now my wife and I can finally afford it. Here comes the problem: Our son just gave us the news that he and his wife are splitting up and he is taking his two sons and she is taking the two daughters, and he wants US to raise the boys! His mother is all for it, and I am all against it. I say, we raised ours and now he can raise his.

As I see it, if he wants to end his marriage and chase skirts again, he can hire someone to look after his children. His mother has always been a softie, and he can get anything he wants from her.

Please, please, help me get my wife to see things my way. I know I am right, but I can't convince her.

TOO OLD FOR KIDS

DEAR TOO: My telling you that I see it your way may not have any influence on your wife's decision, but I think your son ought to paddle his own canoe.

DEAR ABBY: I am 21, married, and have a 14-month-old son whom I adore. Now you'd think with all I have to do I'd be busy enough to keep me satisfied, but I'm not. I keep a clean house, cook three good meals a day, and my laundry is up-to-date.

I want to really be somebody and do something besides housework day in and day out. I'd even be satisfied with a factory job but nobody will hire me. I think it's because I tell the truth on the job applications. I quit school in the 9th grade, which was the dumbest thing I ever did. Now I realize it, but I can't turn back the clock.

Do they have schools for dropouts like me? I want so much to get my high school diploma. I know when my son gets older he will be ashamed of his mother because she didn't even finish 9th grade.

When people use big words and say things I don't understand, I just keep quiet because I'm too ashamed to let on that I don't know what they're talking about.

Please help me, Abby.

FAILURE

DEAR YOUNG WOMAN: I refuse to call you "Failure" because "Failures" are satisfied with their lot, and you are not. You can get your high school diploma thru an adult education program. Get in touch with a counselor at your nearest public high school, or write to the General Education Development Council, 1 Dupont Circle, Washington, D. C. Good luck and God bless.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has a business associate who is also a friend, and he always greets me with a big hug and kiss even tho I don't do anything to encourage him.

My husband doesn't like it and thinks I could do more to control the situation.

I don't want to make a big deal out of it, but I really don't know how I can keep this man away from me without insulting him. Maybe I am too timid, but I can't just tell anybody off. Is there another way?

TIMID

DEAR TIMID: You don't have to tell him off. Greet him with an outstretched HAND [for shaking] instead of open arms for hugging and kissing.

Giving Up Fight With The Sea

We get the feeling that Man has failed in a battle with the sea now that the National Park Service has decided to end attempts to stabilize North Carolina's famed Outer Banks.

The Park Service has said it will no longer try to maintain a stretch of artificial dunes, which continues for 70 miles at Hatteras.

It is a policy which will not only apply in North Carolina but also nationally.

"We're not going to try to fight the ocean any more," James Bainbridge, acting deputy director of the Park Service Southeast office said. "We're going to roll with nature, rather than to try to buck it."

The new policy is going to have repercussions along the Outer Banks since much development will eventually be threatened as the sand strip moves about. But the sands of the Outer Banks have been shifting for centuries as ocean waves constantly crashed in, and awesome storms struck with all their fury.

No one knows for certain just how the Outer Banks will be changed as their fate is left to nature. No doubt new inlets will appear, old ones will close and the various islands will take on new shapes and forms.

There is little doubt, though, that the Outer Banks will be there in some form into the foreseeable future and their wild and untamable nature will forever attract people to explore them.

They Call Him 'Woodenhead'

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — In western North Carolina they don't call Edward W. Jones things like Colonel or Commander, even though he was just promoted and installed as chief of the state's Highway Patrol.

They call him "Woodenhead" up in those hills. Now, you might think a nickname like Woodenhead has a derogatory ring to it. Not so.

It means downright tough, and when those mountain folk call a man that, it's out of respect.

The nickname spread through the hills and coves back in the 30s when a tough, young fellow found himself astraddle a motorcycle chasing bad guys and bootleggers.

Jones had grown up in Moore County and graduated from Cameron High School and Mars Hill College. A series of courses in police work and at the FBI National Academy led him into the fledgling N.C. Highway Patrol in 1935.

His first station was in the Franklin-Bryson City area where some of the bootleggers were as rough as the terrain.

And a rookie highway patrolman riding a motorcycle was fair game.

Shots And Wrecks
He was shot at and missed on numerous occasions, and wrecked the motorcycle several times—usually chasing bootleggers.

But then came the bad one. He had traded the motorcycle for one of those little Ford coupes, and one day got into a hot chase after a bootlegger.

Bullets were swapped and the Ford flipped on a mountain road. The bootlegger left him for dead. But after two months in the hospital, the rookie trooper surprised his friends and family, got out of bed and started a rise through the ranks of the State Patrol leading to the top post.

So when he goes back home these days, people still call Lt. Col. Edward White Jones by the nickname "Woodenhead." But they're thinking about a bullet hole in his riding glove; a pistol broken in half in a wreck and dragged useless from the holster after he'd run the culprit down on foot; a Ford coupe toppling along the road.

He married a Haywood County girl and has lots of relatives in hill country.

He has survived a lot of tough jobs, but the track record for patrol commanders indicates he has a tough one on his hands now.

Jones, incidentally, wrote the textbook on police pursuit driving, has taught courses for the FBI Academy and the Royal Canadian Mounted Police in pursuit driving, and places much emphasis on training.

Politics Caused Shakeup
It was politics—both internal and external—which led to the shakeup in the patrol last week in which Patrol Commander Edwin Guy and three top aides were axed, and an assortment of other personnel shifts made.

Bruce Lentz, secretary of the Department of Transportation, said he rode with troopers on patrol in his study of problems in the patrol.

Both Lentz and Gov. Jim Holshouser's staff gathered a lot of information from people inside and outside the patrol to build their case for the shakeup.

"We found morale at shoe top level... due to a lack of positive, direct leadership," Lentz said.

There was a widespread attitude in the patrol that it didn't matter what a trooper knew or how hard he worked, it was "who you know" that counted in getting good assignments or promotions, Lentz said.

Sources now insist that the state will follow up with a new system to remove politics from inside the patrol, and to relieve political pressure on the patrol from outside sources. Lentz termed the move a significant one, and said one element will be a merit system so that troopers "in the field will know how he stands, not because he is a buddy of old so-and-so, but because he has been tested, evaluated, and had the benefit of counseling with his supervisor."

He also warned patrolmen that getting engaged in party politics is now forbidden: "Any member of the Patrol who uses his position, his uniform, or his badge as an influencing factor to engage in politics will be dismissed."

No Republicans
He added that when the Republican administration took office, there were no known registered Republicans in the Highway Patrol.

The data gathered by Lentz and by the governor's office ranges from citizen complaints that certain patrol members were engaged in partisan politics to information regarding juicy assignments and promotions for troopers who play ball with the right officers.

He added that when the (Continued on page 5)

Soon We Can Worry About Heating Fuels

Schools started back yesterday after a long Labor Day weekend.

When the students and teachers left on Friday the weather was sweltering and for those which were not air conditioned the situation called for short school days.

Hopefully things were better today, and if they weren't we can all take solace in the fact that summer's end is rapidly approaching. Soon we will be worrying about the heating fuel shortage.

Rouse Counts On Sen. Helms

By JOHN KILGO
RALEIGH—Now that North Carolina Republicans have themselves an all-out blood-letting, no matter who says what to deny or disguise it, you can rest assured Frank Rouse felt confident about two things before he took to the friendly skies to announce for another term as GOP chairman.

First, and by all means that most important, Rouse must feel—no, he must know—that he will get help from U.S. Senator Jesse Helms.

Second, after looking at the contest for chairman, Rouse concluded that Tom Bennett, Gov. Jom Holshouser's hand-picked choice, could be had. Looking first at point number one, you must realize the feeling Rouse has for Sen. Helms, who he often refers to as "the man in Washington city."

You may recall a column here a month ago, in which I said Rouse would not run again without Helms' blessing. Before Gov. Holshouser came out for Bennett, a source extremely close to Rouse told me: "Frank's going to do what Jesse says do."

The point of the earlier column—being that Helms was in Rouse's corner—was confirmed in a Greensboro newspaper interview of last week, quoting Sen. Helms as saying all sorts of nice things about Rouse, and refusing a request to come out for Bennett.

It is also known that Sen. Helms has a high personal regard for Rouse, and one of the Senator's close friends told me: "I think anyone who could add two and two and get four knows Jesse feels it would be foolish to dump the man who served as chairman of the Party when the Republicans elected a Governor and United States Senator."

It still isn't known how active Sen. Helms will be in Rouse's behalf. Tom Ellis, a Raleigh attorney who headed Helms' campaign for the Senate, was present at Rouse's press conference when the news was broken that Rouse would run again. Ellis was not there as a spectator. He was there to indicate his support of Rouse.

Now anyone who believes Ellis would choose up sides in this one and go against the pick of Sen. Helms probably stays up late on Christmas Eve waiting for a fat man in a red suit to shoot down the chimney.

All of this indicates the size and intensity of this Republican power struggle. It could conceivably end up with Sen. Helms and Gov. Holshouser knocking heads in public.

It is, of course, the thing to do for Republicans to play down the bad feelings that exist here. Bennett says he wasn't surprised that Rouse ran again, and Rouse says win, lose or sudden death overtime, he'll support Gov. Holshouser when it's all over. Okay, that's for the record. But in reality, Rouse partisans sincerely believe their man and Gov. Holshouser could have patched up their differences, if it hadn't been for gubernatorial aide Gene Anderson. Maybe that's giving Anderson a bad rap, but many Rouse supporters believe it anyhow.

You don't need me to insult your intelligence and tell you how Anderson and Rouse feel about one another. Rouse left a meeting with Gov. Holshouser several months ago, where he had been complaining about Anderson. "You're going to have to work with him," Gov. Holshouser told Rouse. Rouse shot back: "No, I'm not."

Now a word about point two, Rouse feeling he can win. Rouse has worked full-time as party chairman, to the very real point of ignoring his personal business in Kinston. He has made friends and contacts and even his detractors admit he has the capacity to politick 16 hours every day.

Rouse feels Anderson will be liability for Gov. Holshouser, and therefore for Bennett. He feels he has Sen. Helms in his corner. He feels he can outwork Bennett. And he believes he can win. Those who believe Rouse would get into this thing if he didn't think he could win, don't know the enormity of the man's ego.

Strength For Today

THOUGHT AND ACTION
There is a school of philosophical thought which maintains that ideas which do not eventuate in action are useless. The object of thinking should be acting. Of course such a position has its limitations. Many abstract ideas have great value quite apart from whether they lead to action or not, but still, in most cases thought and action should be related as cause and effect.

As Professor William James, of Harvard, expressed it about the turn of the century, "The current of our lives runs in at our eyes and ears is meant to run out at our hands, feet or lips. The only use of the thoughts it occasions while inside is to determine its direction to whichever of these organs which shall act in the way most propitious to our welfare."

The writer of the Epistle of James put the same idea into a Christian context many centuries before the above was written when he said, "Be ye doers of the word and not hearers only."

SOMETHING TO REALLY GET HIS TEETH INTO!

The Slafferty Dinners

MARTHA'S VINEYARD, Mass.—When the meat shortage hit Martha's Vineyard, most hostesses decided to throw in the towel and do no more entertaining—that is everyone except Mr. Slafferty. The Slaffertys for years have given the best dinner parties on the island and we always looked forward to going to their house.

A few days after the supermarket ran out of meat, we got the call to come to dinner. I assumed we were going to have fish.

But when I walked into the house I smelled a succulent roast in the kitchen and my mouth began to water.

I forgot to mention the Slaffertys have three beautiful children, ages 5 years to 3 months old. I asked to see the baby but Mrs. Slafferty said she had a cold and was sleeping.

The dinner was absolutely sensational. The roast was perfect, as was the corn on the cob. Slafferty served a Chateau Hautbrion '67. We all commented on how lucky the Slaffertys were to get meat. Mrs. Slafferty smiled and said, "We have our own resources." About four days later we were invited to the Slaffertys again. It was embarrassing as we hadn't been able to reciprocate.

This time when I walked in I smelled a marvelous charcoal-broiled steak. There was only one child in the living room. Slafferty explained the baby was at her grandmother's and little Stella, age 2 years, was sleeping at a friend's house. Everyone complimented Mrs. Slafferty on the dinner and she seemed terribly pleased.

"Dammit," said Styron as we left, "they have a source of meat on this island that no one else seems to know about."

"Maybe they get it sent over from the mainland."

"No chance," said Brustein. "They have less meat on the mainland than we have over here. Maybe they're dealing directly with a farmer."

"Why don't we follow Slafferty and see where he goes tomorrow?"

"Aw, the hell with it," Styron said. "I'm on vacation."

Three days later Mrs. Slafferty called to say she was giving another dinner party for her weekend guests and was hoping we could make it.

We said we would. The night of the party the house seemed strangely quiet.

"Where is everyone?" I asked.

Slafferty said, "The baby is at Oak Bluffs with her aunt, Stella is off at camp and Robbie is visiting friends."

Other Editors Say Fair To Students?

Students at N. C. State University won't fail courses anymore for the current year. They'll just have a "no credit" notation on their records. This is a new grading system instituted at N.C. State after three years of what a news story called "study, debate and compromising by the University faculty and administration."

Of course, all things have to change, and that must especially be true on a university campus. But, is this a good change?

It says to a young person that your failure won't be held against you even to the point of recording it. Does this policy say, in effect, that the society in which you will work after your college years also won't hold failure against you?

Is a university being really honest with a student when it says to him that he can run the risk of failing without having to stand up to the fact of his failure being included in his record?

A member of the committee that recommended the change had this comment: "We were seeking a grade system that would base grading on achievement and minimize as much as possible the penalizing aspects of failing." Of course grading should be based on achievement. And, it also should be based on lack of achievement. Why should the penalizing aspects of failing be minimized? When a student graduates from N. C. State, he will not find himself in a society which is eager to minimize the penalizing aspects of failing. On the other hand, that society stands ready to invoke the penalizing aspects of failing.

The absence of D and F grades on records means that the student will find it easier to graduate from N.C. State. A student must have at least a C average to graduate. Therefore, when the D and F grades appeared on his record, he had to make more grades above C to get his diploma. Under the new system, he can get nothing above C grades, and still graduate.

Campuses shouldn't be places where the fear of failure is constantly drummed into students. But, neither should campuses be places where the fear of failure is minimized as much as possible.

Campuses should be places where students are helped to prepare for the world after graduation. The incentive that fear of failure can provide has a real place in that world.

Limits For Home Economists

By JOHN CUNNIFF

NEW YORK (AP)—One of the toughest jobs in the world has become that of the home economists, who once could peruse the plentiful foods lists and quickly devise tasty, wholesome and low-cost meals for budget-minded mothers.

Almost every housewife learned the techniques. You shopped around for the buys, you purchased the poorer cuts of meats, used day-old bread, mixed up the leftovers instead of throwing them out or feeding them to the pets.

When beef got expensive, you bought chicken or pork; and when that got too expensive, you used eggs instead.

This was very much the American way, if not by choice then by the necessity of survival in an economy that was reduced by depression or made lean by war.

It can hardly be done any more. There are few bargains except for brief periods during harvest time in some areas.

Imagination and ingenuity, two attributes associated with the home economist, have reached their limits.

Nobody knows when prices are likely to level off. Even government authorities admit inability to foresee the future. One promising forecast after another has left most people economic agnostics.

The most reliable indicator of future retail conditions is probably the index of prices received by farmers. It isn't encouraging: The index is more than 60 per cent higher than a year ago.

Moreover, the direction is up. In the month ended Aug. 15, the index rose 20 per cent, and that means the most optimistic hopes for the following month still will leave it rising swiftly.

In just one month, wheat rose nearly $2 a bushel, from $2.47 in July to $4.45 in August. A year ago, when inflation already was bad, wheat sold for $1.51 a bushel.

A hundred pounds of beef brought the cattle-raiser $33.60 a year ago. In July, the price was $10.60 higher at $44.20. But in just one month, it rose another $7.50 to $51.70.

How about chicken? Try it. In August 1972, broilers brought the chicken-raiser less than 15 cents a pound. In July, it brought more than 26 cents; in August, nearly 38 cents.

Eggs then? They brought the farmer just 30 cents a Safety Record Set By Collins & Aikman Plant

FARMVILLE—Collins & Aikman's Farmville plant has completed one million man-hours without a lost-time accident. The record was reached at 11:30 last Tuesday night.

Beginning with the third shift on Friday morning, all employees were treated to a catered dinner in honor of the occasion. It marks the second time in the past three years that the plant has reached the coveted safety mark.

Farmville amassed more than 1,860,000 man-hours during 1970 and 1971 before the perfect record was broken. Plant management is determined to surpass that figure during the next year.

Milton Barnette, the plant's manager, terms selling in-plant safety "the toughest job in industry."

"Using safe practices while at work is plain common sense. Because such practices are so simple we all tend to ignore the slogans, posters and talks used to bolster a safety program."

"When you combine this natural tendency with the carelessness which can result from familiarity with a job, you've a lot of what might be described as natural barriers to overcome. Consequently, the safety sales job must be outstanding if it is to work."

Barnette emphasizes that the plaques, certificates and other recognition which the plant will receive from the state department of labor and other sources are "frosting on the cake."

"The record is very nice, and make no mistake, we're all very proud of our achievement. But what it really means is that in the past 10 months we've run a huge plant with a lot of employees and no one has been seriously injured."

"That's really what our whole safety program is aiming for... and we've achieved that goal."

Substitute For Buchwald Col. A Gunnery Item

MURFREESBORO, Tenn. (AP)—A Civil War cannon at the Stones River National Battlefield had plenty of powder and shot but no springs for friction primers.

Historian Gregorio Batista found a substitute for the gunnery item no longer manufactured by arms companies: the springs from retractable ball-point pens.

The spring primer pushes an ingited wooden match into the powder to fire the cannon.

Historians say that the artillery was so loud at the battle of Stones River on New Year's Day 1862 that Confederate soldiers stuffed their ears with cotton left in the field from harvest time.

A week later we got the call again and, of course, we went. This time only Mrs. Slafferty was there.

"Where's Ben?" we asked. "He had to go off the island," she explained.

"And the children?" "What children?" Mrs. Slafferty asked.

"Your children." "Oh," she said. "They're around somewhere. Here, have some roast pork."

The pork was stringy and not very good. Nobody had a second portion. This disturbed Mrs. Slafferty who started to cry.

Health Planning Director Named

Roy S. Selby has been appointed Director of the Mid-East Comprehensive Health Planning Program according to Dr. G. Earl Trevathan, Chairman, of the Mid-East Comprehensive Health Planning Committee.

In making the announcement Dr. Trevathan said the Health Planning Committee was established to promote living in the Mid-East Region. In order to achieve this goal Dr. Trevathan added, it is necessary for the providers and consumers of health services of the Mid-East Comprehensive Health Planning Committee to work with other providers and consumers of health services in the region and reach agreement on both the health needs and the resources with which to meet these needs.

Selby, a native of Belhaven, is a graduate of East Carolina University where he majored in Community Social Work. At East Carolina Selby was on the Dean's list and on the honor roll. He is married to the former Letha Daniels of Belhaven. The Selbys have three children and are members of Trinity Baptist Church in Greenville.

Selby will be responsible for developing the Family Planning and Emergency Medical Services components of the Mid-East Comprehensive Health Planning Committee.

Cycle Safety Program Set

To teach beginning motorcyclists how to ride safely, a Yamaha Learn-to-Ride Safety clinic will be held Sept. 8 and 9 at Guy Smith Stadium from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Free and open to the public, the safety program is supported by local and national safety and civic organizations, including the National Highway Traffic Safety Administration.

Persons under 18 years of age must have written parental approval.

The Yamaha Corp. designed the program to counter the rising rate of motorcycle accidents nationwide. Sixty percent of all motorcycle accidents occur to new riders in their first six weeks on a motorcycle.

Each participant will be given a motorcycle orientation program, and, under supervision, will be allowed to ride a motorcycle through a specially designed familiarization course. Total instruction period lasts about 40 minutes, and all motorcycles and safety helmets will be furnished by Yamaha.

Greenville is one of 110 cities scheduled for the program in 1973. According to Yamaha spokesmen, the program is expected to teach 250,000 Americans the safe way to ride a motorcycle this year, and Yamaha will spend more than two million dollars in 1973 to support the LTR program.

Offering more complete "on-motorcycle" training, the Yamaha Rider Safety Course will be held Sept. 22 and 23 at the same location. Persons who successfully complete the Learn-to-Ride clinic may participate in this course.

Milk Prices Given Boost By Government

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department will raise minimum milk prices in federal marketing orders about 13 per cent beginning Sept. 9.

Consumers, however, will not see much change in store milk prices. The department, in announcing the temporary boost Tuesday, said the increase was necessary to assure dairy farmers that milk prices would be closely watched as production costs increase.

The increase will be in effect only for the remainder of September. Meanwhile, officials are studying recommendations for overhauling federal market order price structures which were gathered last week at a hearing in Clayton, Mo.

Officials said most cash market prices in federal orders are currently above the new August base level.

The announcement overlooked recent actions by the Nixon administration to open the door to more imports of nonfat dry milk. Producer organizations have criticized the larger imports as a further threat to U.S. milk prices.

The price increase beginning Sept. 9 will be for Class I or fluid milk used mainly for bottling. Most milk in the United States is produced in areas which have federal marketing orders. Those set minimum prices which handlers must pay producers.

The formula used to set prices in marketing orders is based on prices paid for manufacturing grade milk in Minnesota and Wisconsin. The formula base is adjusted each month to reflect average prices in the Minnesota-Wisconsin series two months previously.

But under the action taken Tuesday, the base price beginning Sept. 9 will be the August average for Minnesota-Wisconsin estimated at $6.50 per 100 pounds.

That will be up 72 cents from the July base of $5.78, which, under normal circumstances, would have applied for all of September. Put another way, the $6.50 level for August normally would not take effect until October.

The hearing in Clayton, Mo., last week included testimony from producer groups in support of a more permanent adjustment in marketing order floor prices. Officials said those would be reviewed while the temporary action is in effect.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Inventories of commercial fertilizer in July were 41 per cent below a year earlier as demands exceeded supplies, says the Fertilizer Institute, a trade organization.

"It's evident that fertilizer application extended into midsummer in many areas because of weather-delayed spring plantings," Institute president Edwin M. Wheeler said in a statement. "The data substantiates reports of all-out efforts by farmers to increase crop production on extended acreage."

Schwarz New March Of Dimes Chairman

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
Dr. Ernest Schwarz, an associate professor of Physical Education at East Carolina University, has been named Chairman of the Pitt County Chapter of the National Foundation of March of Dimes for 1974.

Schwarz succeeds Leland (Lee) Moore of Wachovia Bank and Trust Company, the 1973 March of Dimes chairman.

A native of Philadelphia, Dr. Schwarz is married to the former Jane Cranford. The Schwarz's have one child, Stephanie, and are members of Our Redeemer Lutheran Church.

A veteran of two years service in the U. S. Army during the Korean situation, Dr. Schwarz has been at ECU for eight years. He is a member of both the North Carolina and the American Associations of Health, Physical Education and Recreation.

"We would like to serve more people in this county through the March of Dimes," Dr. Schwarz said. "Fabisch (Air Force Captain Gerald Fabisch, 1973 campaign chairman) did a fabulous job this year, and we are going to try to do an even better job in the coming year."

"For the first time ever, the March of Dimes campaign in 1973 netted contributions exceeding $10,000."

Dr. Schwarz said that plans are to continue the series of fund raising events that have been successful last year—and in recent years.

These include the March-A-Thon, the Mother's March, Jaycettes Coffee Day, Dance-A-Thon as special events, as well as use of conventional mailers and counter collection points.

At the recent meeting for electing officers, Johnny May was named vice-chairman for the Pitt County Chapter for 1974.

Other officers are Mrs. W. A. Allen III of Farmville, secretary; and William Moore, an instructor at Pitt Technical Institute, treasurer.

Board members serving for 1974 are Dr. C. H. Garrington, Bethel; Mrs. Jo Ann Smith, D. H. Conley, and Lee More. Traditionally, campaign plans for the March of Dime drives are worked out during January of each year.

One event planned prior to that time is the attendance of personnel at the regional training meet conducted during the fall each year in Atlanta.

Try A Pizza For Breakfast

By BILL MARTIN
Associated Press Writer
RENO, Nev. (AP) — Instead of pancakes or eggs for your next breakfast, why not wake up to a pizza or a taco?

And instead of bacon or toast, try a chicken salad sandwich or a hot dog! Maybe even bagels and creamed cheese!

According to a University of Nevada-Reno nutritionist, Americans are over-rating the value of a traditional bacon and eggs breakfast.

"Everyone knows you should have breakfast," said Marjorie Stevenson. "So why are people missing it? Maybe they're tired of a stereotyped breakfast."

Mrs. Stevenson said in an interview Tuesday that pizza, macaroni and cheese, chili, tacos — even ice cream or custard pie — make nutritious breakfasts.

"It's unnerving to see my daughter sitting there with a tuna salad sandwich at 7:30 a.m. But she's getting her nutrients. And my son sometimes likes bagels and creamed cheese," she said.

She said it's not important what you eat, as long as you get the right nutrients. She said the body needs protein, but what's the difference if it comes in scrambled eggs, a hamburger or peanut butter?

Mrs. Stevenson said breakfast is the most skipped meal in the United States and one reason is because of the stress on the bacon, eggs, milk, cereal and orange juice meal.

She said an experiment where cooks at a nearby scout camp served tomato soup, hamburgers and french fries for breakfast showed that people expect traditional breakfasts, but could adapt to change.

"Some of the kids thought it was great," she said. "But others were stunned because it didn't mean breakfast to them."

Mrs. Stevenson said eggs are loaded with protein and cholesterol, bacon has protein and fat, but a pizza provides meat for protein, cheese for a dairy product, plus bread and vegetables.

Utilities Crews On Job During Holidays

While many local residents had the Labor Day weekend off, the Greenville Utilities Commission had men on the job throughout the holiday period, according to director Charles Horne.

Horne said that some 100 man-hours of labor were put in by Utilities personnel during the Saturday, Sunday and Monday period involving a variety of emergency calls and services for new residents.

He pointed out that the commission had one man on duty to handle the calls requesting utilities cut-on service and 60 such calls were received and taken care of during the holiday weekend.

With the opening of East Carolina University, the Labor Day period is annually a busy time of the year for the Utilities Commission, Horne noted, as the influx of new and returning students and residents results in a great number of calls for immediate service.

He said that two men were on electrical standby over the weekend and handled a variety of emergency calls ranging from bad transformers to customer assistance. "There was nothing major reported but there was plenty to keep them busy," Horne added.

Limiting Access

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Entrances to the Mecklenburg County Courthouse and access to the U. S. District Court in Charlotte have been limited in an effort to tighten security.

Three of six entrances were locked at the county courthouse Tuesday in a move that County Manager Glenn Blaisdell said was prompted by half a dozen bomb threats this summer.

All the threats proved false, but they disrupted court.

The locked doors can be opened from the inside and can be used in leaving the building.

Blaisdell said an armed deputy sheriff will continue to patrol the front hallways of the building, a move instituted several months ago.

Congress Back From Vacation

By ED LEBRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress returns today from a month's vacation to tackle money bills that carry overtones of the legislators' power struggle with the White House.

First on the Senate's list is an appropriation measure from which the House deleted a special $1.5-million presidential fund. The House also added strictures on the spending of government money for security on such private property as presidential homes away from Washington.

The House Appropriations Committee cut the money from the bill after discussing whether the fund might have been used to finance the special "plumbers" unit of White House investigators. The full House went along.

The Senate Appropriations Committee, however, replaced $1 million, with a provision for reports to Congress on the spending.

Acting after news accounts broke about expenditures for security at President Nixon's California and Florida houses, the House approved language requiring that future spending on private property first be reported to the appropriations committees. The Senate committee deleted the reporting requirement.

The fund and property reporting issues were sent to the full Senate.

The House is to act on a $682-million State Department authorization bill, with a requirement that the department and affiliated agencies must respond to congressional requests for information or lose their funds.

The bill also would give Congress a look at campaign contributions by persons subsequently nominated for ambassadorships.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, interviewed on the eve of the renewed session, said he favors stricter wage-price controls, but that there is nothing more Congress can do to fight inflation.

"We've given the President the authority to act and we would hope he recognizes that phase 1, 3 and 4 are not the type of operations necessary to deflate inflation," Mansfield said.

Price Increase For Cars Delayed

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The first of the 1974 model autos were scheduled to go on sale today without the price increase that automakers had hoped to win from the government.

The Cost of Living Council has not yet decided whether to approve an average increase of $61 per car by American Motors Corp., a council spokesman said Tuesday night.

American Motors, first of the automakers to introduce its 1974 models, had asked the council for permission to put the increase in effect today.

The three other auto companies — Ford, General Motors and Chrysler — also have price increase proposals pending before the council. They are not scheduled to go into effect before Sept. 13 if the council approves the price hikes.

A spokesman for American Motors in Detroit indicated the company hoped for action by the council at the last minute.

But a council spokesman said there was virtually no chance the council would complete action on the price increase proposals that soon.

"We're not going to have a decision until we have made an analysis of the issues and we are doing that as rapidly as we can," he said.

The council held public hearings last week on proposed price increases by the automakers and also by 10 major steel companies.

Council Director John T. Dunlop has indicated a major worry of the government is the effect the proposed increases by steel and automakers would have on the economy and the success of the new Phase 4 anti-inflation program.

Phase 4 provides for a 30-day delay between the time major companies notify the government of price increases and the date they can put them into effect. This gives the council time to block the increases if it chooses.

American Motors asked to put its price increases into effect before the 30-day waiting period expired.

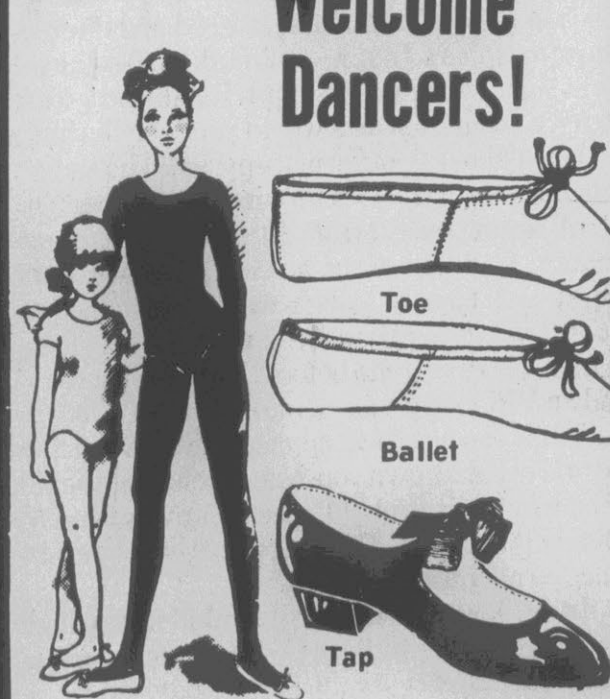

Course Won't Start

The course entitled "Fundamentals of Real Estate" listed in Pitt Technical Institute's fall evening schedule brochure and in a Daily Reflector ad Sunday, will not begin today (Sept. 5) as previously announced.

It is anticipated, however, that the course will begin in late October. Interested persons should contact Pitt Tech's extension department, 756-3130, ext. 38, for further information.

The "Fundamentals of Real Estate" class scheduled for Tuesday nights is already full and no more applications are being accepted for this class.

Standardization Of Tests Discussed

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer
Dr. Gary Hoover of the North Carolina Department of Instruction met with members of the Pitt County Board of Education Tuesday afternoon to discuss the basics of standardized testing and how the test results can best be used.

Dr. Hoover feels standardized testing does not look into the values and attitudes of students. The ten purposes of standardized testing, according to Dr. Hoover, are: determine where the pupil is in development; diagnose strength and weaknesses; determine readiness; administrative decisions; diagnose groups; alternate methods of instruction; experimentation and innovation; monitor individuals; monitor instruction; and provide a model.

"School systems have been testing pupils for 30-40 years now," Dr. Hoover said. "I don't feel we have taken a close enough look at the various purposes the information taken can be used for."

"We hope to break down testing with the teacher, principal, and superintendent so that students can really be helped...to see where local students are as national norm is concerned," Dr. Hoover stated. The standardized test is designed so that a certain percentage of students will answer certain questions correctly and a certain percentage of students will not. Students are usually grouped according to such test scores.

SEED, a project being conducted this year by the Pitt County system, is taking a look at local testing with the hope that a model testing system can be established.

The SAT base requirement for admission into special programs for high school seniors at East Carolina University was changed from 1,000 to 950 by board members. After consultation with some ECU officials, county personnel agreed the base score should be lowered.

Board members Dr. Tom Patterson and Dr. Jack Carson were asked to study the possibility of having persons trained in first aid at all of the county sports activities.

It was suggested that coaches and trainers be given basic first aid instruction as well as the possibility of having a doctor at each sports function. The participation of students in administering first aid was suggested.

The two board members will study the possibilities and what is needed at the county activities and report their recommendations to the board at the next meeting.

Ray Parker, district executive for Boy Scouts of America, was given permission to use the county school campuses as campsites for several weekend camping events scheduled.

Parker told the board he is trying to maintain the scouting program in Pitt County and feels the weekend outings will help. Board members approved transferring two mobile units from Conley High School to W. H. Robinson School so that a demonstration center for students with learning disabilities could be established.

One classroom for teaching the students would be set up while an adjoining classroom, with one-way glass and a speaker system, would be used as an inservice training room in connection with the project. The adjoining classrooms could also be used for other county training work.

Nelson Jarvis was commended for the fine job he did regarding grading and seeding on a portion of the Ayden-Grifton School campus.

Supt. Arthur Alford was granted permission to file an application seeking the establishment of ROTC programs at North Pitt, Ayden-Grifton and Farmville Central. Conley has begun its ROTC program for the second year and a very successful year is expected.

Appointments were made to several local advisory councils. They include: Eugene P. Fleming, Grifton School Advisory Council; Johnnie Williams, Ayden Advisory Council; Dennis Manning, Lyman Hardy and Clifton Clemons, Grimesland Elementary Council; Jimmie Hardee, to complete the unexpired term of Elmore Hodges on the Grimesland board; Robert Wilson, Lyman Hardy and Paul Majette, D. H. Conley Advisory Council.

Board members agreed that Sealtest would provide milk for two Farmville Schools and that Carolina Dairy would serve the remaining county schools. Bread bids from Sunbeam Bread for the 1973-74 school year were accepted. They were: large loaves of bread, 36 cents; hot dog buns, 37 cents per dozen; and hamburger buns, 37 cents per dozen.

School lunch prices, set by the board include: grades one through eight, 45 cents; grades nine through 12, 50 cents; and 60 cents for adults.

The sale of the North Fountain School property to the Union Line Primitive Baptist Association for $24,000 was approved, subject to no upset bid by 5 p.m. Sept. 4.

A salary scale for school secretaries was adopted so that salaries would be on a more equal basis than at the present time.

Handbooks prepared by each school principal for the administration of his school year were approved.

Principals were given permission to charge double shop fees for shop periods of two-hour duration.

Board members agreed that the state law which requires health certificates for all school personnel, including bus drivers and substitute teachers, should be endorsed and that no one be employed by the county system without a certificate.

Board member Dr. Tom Patterson was named to serve as vice chairman of the board of education. He replaces Sam Nelson who resigned earlier this summer.

In other business yesterday, the board:

—Employed Mrs. Robbie Payne as lead teacher in the Migrant Education program;

—Named Gibb Chauncey administrator at the Robinson Media Center. He will keep up with records as well as giving administrative guidance to all itinerant personnel who use the center as home base;

—Approved new personnel for employment.

Grifton — The Grifton Recreation Commission has announced the establishment of a memorial fund for Burnie Brock and Dwight Grifton, two teenagers who drowned in Contentnea Creek last week.

The fund will be used to make improvements at Mattie's Minipark with emphasis on the basketball areas. Donations may be made at the Grifton Town Hall.

Mrs. Arlene Hoot, president of the Classroom Teachers Association of Pitt County, and Mrs. Thelma Switzer, president of the Pitt County unit of North Carolina Association of Educators, were given permission to attend board meetings each month.

GRIFTON—The State Fair Booth committee will meet Thursday at 7:30 p.m. in the old agriculture building at Grifton Elementary School.

A professional designer from Greenville will meet with the committee to explore several possibilities for the exhibit. Mechanical and electrical work for the project must be done soon. The Rev. W. S. Brown, chairman, urges all person skilled in these two areas to attend the meeting.

Grifton is one of eight communities in North Carolina which has been asked to prepare an exhibit for the State Fair.

Cuban Embargo Vote Unlikely

By GEORGE GEDDA
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A special committee of the Organization of American States has convened here with a view toward, among other things, trying to reduce the dominant U.S. role on the hemispheric scene.

On the issue of the hemispheric trade and diplomatic embargo of Cuba, strongly supported by the United States, an unofficial tally indicates a majority of 12 countries now oppose the U.S. stand.

The committee, which opened meetings here Tuesday after several weeks of sessions in Peru, is not expected to directly involve itself with the Cuban embargo. But it was a recurring theme in corridor talk at OAS headquarters.

Virtually all those supporting the U.S. position are military dictatorships or under heavy military influence. Opposed are nearly all of Latin America's representative democracies.

President Nixon supports the Cuba embargo primarily because Havana still supports subversive movements in Latin America, although at reduced levels.

Some countries have defied the embargo by unilaterally establishing ties with Cuba. Venezuela and Costa Rica are advancing proposals designed, in effect, to nullify it.

Venezuela wants to remove the provision requiring mandatory adherence to the embargo by a simple majority vote of the OAS permanent council. The embargo would remain intact but its application would be left up to each country.

Costa Rica seeks to convene a meeting of OAS foreign ministers to determine whether the conditions that led to the embargo still are in effect. A two-thirds majority would be required to continue it.

The United States has pledged to adhere to whatever collective action its OAS colleagues decide, but argues the only proper way to eliminate the embargo would be by a two-thirds vote of OAS foreign ministers. The U.S. appears to have the necessary votes to block the pro-Havana faction from getting a two-thirds majority.

The Energy Crunch:

Supporting the search for new sources of electricity is just one provision of Vepeco's Energy Insurance policy.

Water power

Coal and coal gasification

Oil and natural gas

Nuclear power

Pumped storage power

Solar energy

Geothermal energy

Wind power

And power to be discovered

Vepeco's answer to today's energy crunch and tomorrow's growing demands for electricity is safe, clean nuclear energy. By 1976 half the power we supply will come from nuclear sources.

But we are also supporting the search for still newer sources of electricity. Sources that—like nuclear power—won't be dependent on the expensive and hard-to-get fossil fuels like coal and oil that lie at the heart of the nation's energy problems, or dependent on politically unstable foreign supplies.

What are the possibilities? Solar power is already providing electricity for Skylab. But Skylab's entire electrical output couldn't run an electric range. And here on earth, so much of the sun's light is scattered and filtered by the atmosphere that it would take 100 square miles of solar cells just to supply Richmond with electricity—and the costs would probably be huge.

What about geothermal energy? The same heat from deep in the earth's core that makes "Old Faithful" spurt could, theoretically, be used to convert water to steam to run an electric power plant. But first we'll have to learn how to drill wells that are four times larger than an oil well and 50% deeper than man has ever gone before. Even so, there is already a VPI study to look into it.

While the practical application of power from these and other known sources—including the tides and the winds—is probably decades away, Vepeco is already putting some new sources of electricity into actual operation.

In 1979, water running downhill from a high mountain reservoir in Bath County to a lower one will generate electricity during the day and be pumped uphill again with surplus power at night, when customer needs are low.

In the meantime, whether it's catching the sun or harnessing a mountain stream, if there's a chance it can help meet your needs with power to spare, the utility industry is going to be looking into it. Commitment to new discoveries is a powerful part of Vepeco's Energy Insurance policy.

Arrest 36 In Virginia Drug Raids

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP)—Undercover work by a 22-year-old woman resulted in indictments being returned Tuesday against 36 people on 44 charges of narcotics sales.

The undercover agent, who graduated with honors from Old Dominion University last month, explained that she undertook the work without fee because she had seen "too many of my high school and college friends ruined by drugs and the pushers.

"I did a lot of talking about the problem until I realized during my senior year that unless citizens become involved in fighting drugs there is no way it'll be solved," said the attractive, petite woman whom police identified only as "Miss X."

The circuit court jury returned true bills against the suspects, all but four of them from Virginia Beach, charging them with drug sales mostly along the Oceanfront and Princess Anne Plaza area. The other alleged sales took place in Ocean View and on Shore Drive in Norfolk.

Police said that the majority of the transactions involved marijuana though there were also sales of LSD, amphetamines, and barbiturates.

L. E. F. Buzzy, commanding officer of the Virginia Beach Narcotics Squad, said Miss X is the first woman ever to work as an undercover agent in Tidewater.

"Of course, all the local departments use some female informants, but none of them, as far as I know, have supervised a woman who made so many drug buys.

"She has done as well—and better, in some cases—as the police undercover men we've used at the beach," Buzzy said. "And when you consider that she is not a policewoman and received no remuneration for her work, then you get some idea of all the personal sacrifices she made for the community."

Besides her humanitarian motives in undertaking the work, she admitted, in an interview, that she wanted "some of the excitement and mystery that goes with such a job; it's not something everyone gets a chance to do."

She not only kept up her psychology major while working undercover but she even had a part-time job.

To maintain her cover for moving in the drug culture, she said she tried to keep tabs on fashions.

"Although I was naive and straight before I began, this only required a little trouble because I'm basically a jeans girl," she noted.

There was one disguise, however, that she didn't have to fool with. It came ready-made with her.

"I has to wear braces on my teeth until June and even though it's something a girl my age hates to wear, it helped me at first when I started hanging out in football parlors in Princess Anne Plaza," said Miss X, who even without braces looks much younger than her 22 years.

Asked about her future, she said she'd like to work in a local social services bureau before embarking on "my life's work."

"I want to be a cop and work in law enforcement," she said. By now, I think I've proved that a woman is as effective as a man in police work."

Court Hearing Appeal On Robbery Conviction

RALEIGH (AP)—Was 28-year-old Ronnie Jackson in Union County or his hometown of Bennettsville, S. C., when an armed robbery occurred last Jan. 23?

This question revolves around the appeal of Jackson, who claims he was wrongfully convicted of robbing Weddington's Shopping Center in Union.

The North Carolina Court of Appeals heard arguments in the case Tuesday. Jackson's attorney, David Badger of Charlotte, argued that the court should throw the case out or grant a new trial.

Badger based his argument mainly on two reasons. He said Jackson's trial attorney, Coble Funderburke of Monroe, was not diligent enough to give Jackson a proper defense. Funderburke was appointed by the court. Badger was hired as the appeal attorney with funds collected by residents of Jackson's hometown.

Badger contended that trial Judge Sammie J. Chess refused to hear more than three witnesses among about a dozen from Bennettsville.

The witnesses were prepared to swear, Badger said, that Jackson was working in a garage 90 miles from the shopping center when it was robbed.

Judge Chess cited what he termed a rule of North Carolina courts that only three witnesses may testify to one point.

Badger argued, however, that if it is a rule, it is a rule of thumb and not a rule of the court.

"You could bring in 100 people," Asst. Atty. Gen. James E. Magner told the court, "but the state still has the testimony of two eye-witnesses to the robbery."

Appeals Court Judge Francis M. Parker noted that among the witnesses not allowed to testify were a bank president and a Methodist minister. Parker asked, "Might they not have had more weight with a jury than his employer, his brother and a friend (the three who testified)?"

"The state feels it would still not be sufficient to overcome the testimony of the two eye-witnesses," Magner replied. Badger contended Funderburke had failed to cross examine the prosecution witnesses adequately.

"It seems to me Mr. Funderburke did an adequate job of cross examination," said Judge Naomi Morris. Parker added, "And sometimes you dig a little too deep on cross examination and you get yourself in trouble."

Queen Celebrates Silver Jubilee

By NEL SLIS
Associated Press Writer
THE HAGUE, Netherlands (AP)—The socialist premier of the Netherlands today launched a week-long silver jubilee for Queen Juliana, Europe's longest reigning monarch.

Premier Joop Den Yul in a nationwide broadcast said the 64-year-old queen's direct contact with the Dutch people and concern for their problems showed that "it is still possible for royalty to function in our country."

"By her attitude and behavior, royalty has lost in outward pomp, but gained in real significance," the premier said. "...For a quarter of a century the queen has fulfilled her heavy task as head of state. All who have watched her closely over these years know that she has given herself completely to this task."

The premier noted that the prosperous country of 1973 is different in every respect from the Netherlands of 1948, when Juliana became queen as her people were just beginning to recover from World War II. Den Yul praised her for her help "in seeking solutions to the problems we are faced with."

Today was a national holiday, and the queen, her husband Prince Bernhard and their four married daughters were to visit a Dutch town picked by lottery. On Thursday, the royal family will tour The Hague and meet the country's mayors, members of Parliament and the diplomatic corps.

Juliana ascended the throne on Sept. 6, 1948, two days after her 68-year-old mother, Queen Wilhelmina, abdicated after reigning for 50 years. But talk that Juliana might abdicate in favor of her heir, 35-year-old Princess Beatrix, annoys the queen.

She once told an aide: "I am healthy; I do my duty. Why should I abdicate? I have no intention of doing so."

Use Of Money Is Scheduled

Officials of the City of Greenville today announced plans for the use of some $759,553 in Federal Shared Revenues expected to be received during the 1973-1974 fiscal year.

The report issued by City Manager William H. Carstarphen follows publication of an expenditure plan which appeared in the Greenville Daily Reflector on Sunday.

The report shows plans for the expenditure of $403,081 of the total for operating and maintenance purposes, principally in the areas of Recreation ($283,002) and Libraries ($114,424.)

The remaining $356,472 will go for capital expenditures in the areas of Recreation ($100,000), Transportation ($95,000), and General Government ($161,472).

Carstarphen listed a number of specific capital projects planned for funding with Shared Revenue Funds. They include construction of tennis courts at Hardee-Jaycee and West Greenville Parks, improvement of parking facilities at Evans Park and construction of a baseball field at the Hardee-Jaycee Park.

Street resurfacing accounts for the major capital expenditure in the area of transportation, Carstarphen said. The City Manager also credited the availability of Federal Shared Revenue Funds with significantly reducing pressure on the City's local property tax.

Fireman Injured

A Greenville fireman was hospitalized for observation early this morning after he fell from a one-story roof during a fire at 504B Watauga Ave.

Chief Ray Smith said fireman Carl Brown, 21, was taken to the hospital by the department's rescue unit after he fell while firemen were combatting a fire in the unoccupied Watauga dwelling.

The fire was reported at 12:40 a.m. and responding units found a fire in a second-floor bedroom. The blaze apparently started in a mattress.

Cause of the fire is being investigated by Fire and Police Department investigators.

Arrested Employee In Shooting Of Month

RALEIGH—Maurice A. Weaver has been named the North Carolina Department of Agriculture's employee of the month for August. He is budget officer and head of the Administrative Services Division.

In making the presentation Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham cited Weaver for his work in designing a prototype budget, at the request of the State Budget Division, for possible use by all state agencies.

The Fuquay-Varina native is a graduate of East Carolina University with a A.B. in Accounting.

Murder Charge Placed

Annie Harris, 50, of Rt. 2, Box 53, Ayden, has been charged with murder in the shooting death of 53-year-old Roosevelt Cannon, according to Pitt Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

Sheriff Tyson said that the shooting took place around 2:30 a.m. Monday at Cannon's Rt. 2, Ayden home.

The sheriff noted that Miss Harris told deputies she and Cannon were arguing and he loaded a .12 gauge shotgun and threatened her. A struggle followed, she said, and the shotgun went off, hitting Cannon in the throat.

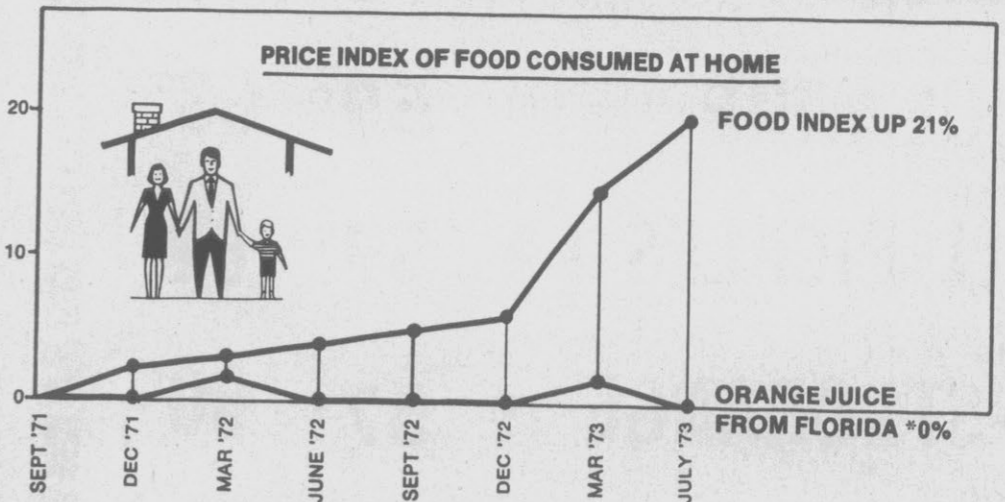

Cannon was dead when deputies arrived, Sheriff Tyson said, and Miss Harris was arrested at 5 a.m. She is in the Pitt County Jail without privilege of bond with a hearing set for Sept. 12 in District Court.

ANITA BRYANT SAYS:

"Thank Goodness—pure orange juice from Florida hasn't gone up in price."

The average price of all brands and forms of 100% Orange Juice from Florida is the same as in September, 1971...the beginning of Phase I...while the average for other food prices has increased 21%.

*Frozen Concentrate and Ready-to-Serve Bottles and Cartons.

Why have we been able to hold our price? Favorable crop conditions and improved methods of growing, processing and shipping. Here are some other reasons Orange Juice from Florida is one of America's best food values.

- It's 100% juice. No chemical or synthetic additives.
- It has a lot more nutrition than just Vitamin C. It's a natural blend of B Vitamins and minerals.
- It's a natural "pick-me-up" because its natural sugars make it a natural energizer.

Ask Public To Attend

Members of the public are being encouraged to attend the regular monthly meeting of the Emergency School Aid Act (ESAA) Advisory Committee, which is being held this month on Monday at 8:00 p.m. in the conference room of the Greenville City Board of Education, 431 West Fifth Street.

Rev. O. J. Rook, chairman of the advisory committee, will conduct the meeting. Charles M. Dickens, Coordinator of Federal Programs, will be on hand to provide technical information and to submit progress reports to the committee.

The primary purpose of the monthly advisory committee meetings is to make recommendations and suggestions for use of $116,620 in funds received by the Greenville City Schools as its share of ESAA funds.

Must Up Black Votes

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Howard N. Lee, mayor of Chapel Hill, says increasing the black voter turnout is the No. 1 problem facing black political leaders.

Lee participated in last week-end's caucus of 16 national black politicians in Colorado to discuss the role of blacks in American politics.

He said Tuesday in Chapel Hill, "We can talk all we want about increasing the role of blacks in the political process. But nothing really matters until we can get blacks to go to the polls. Everything else is just secondary."

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina eggs markets unchanged Tuesday, supplies adequate to short, demand fairly good.

Weighted averages prices for small-lot sales of consumer-grade eggs in cartons, delivered nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites 78.73; medium whites 70.72; small whites 59.13.

Hogs
RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hogs are steady to $4.00 lower today. Tops of 45.50-46.00 at Rocky Mount; 45.00-46.00 Kinston, New Bern, Benson and Lumberton; 45.00-45.50 Tarboro and Bethel; 42.75-43.75 Siler City and Denton; 41.00-43.00 Wilson and High Falls; 46.50 Mt. Olive; 45.00 Salisbury; Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Elizabethtown, Pink Hill, Pine Level, Chadbourn, Ayden and Laurinburg.

Poultry
RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina f.o.b. dock broilers: Market steady today. Supplies adequate and demand fair. Weights desirable.

North Carolina hens: Market tone weaker on heavy tuples. Supplies adequate and demand fairly good. Too few reported to release prices.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices were mixed to-day in slow trading as profit takers moved in after price gains in six of the last eight trading sessions.

Analysts also said there had been little positive news backing the recent rally. But some of the analysts held out hope of a continuation of upward prices after the profit taking.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11:30 a.m. was down 2.03 at 893.36, while advancing Big Board issues held a slight edge over declines.

President Nixon announced a news conference for this afternoon, but analysts said that did not appear to be affecting the market.

The New York Stock Exchange's broad-based index of some 1,500 common stocks was down .09 at 55.75, while the American Stock Exchange's market-value index was down .52 at 100.10.

Paper stocks were among the Big Board's most-active issues as heavy trading in the stocks continued. Analysts generally characterized the paper as solid investment because of a continuing paper shortage and heavy demand. But some doubt was raised today in a major publication as to whether the paper would holdup for the long term.

International Paper, up 1/4 at 45 1/2, was the Big Board volume leader. Hammill Paper was up 1/2 at 17 1/2. But Crown Zellerbach was down 3/4 at 33, and Scott Paper was down 3/4 at 16 1/2.

Oils were generally down as analysts continued to give them a negative outlook because of problems with Mideast nations. Standard Oil of California, second in volume on the Big Board, was down 1 1/4 at 63. Exxon was down 3/4 at 86 1/2.

Beale of Greensboro; nine grandchildren; and five great grandchildren.

Mrs. Futrelle, born in Coolemeec, was graduated from Weaver College in Taylorsville and did graduate work at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. She was a member of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church.

Smith
Renada Annette Smith, eight, died at her home Monday night after fire demolished her home. Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 4 p.m. at Phillips Brothers Mortuary Chapel with the Rev. J. B. Taylor officiating. Burial will follow in the Brown Hill Cemetery.

She was the daughter of William and Lilly Mae White Smith. She was born in Pitt County and was a third grade student at South Greenville School.

Surviving in addition to her parents, are: one sister, Sharon Denise; one brother, William Alton; her maternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Claude Mayo of Baltimore, Md.; her paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Smith of Greenville; her foster grandmother, Mrs. Maggie Hyman of Greenville. The family will receive friends at the funeral home tonight from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Death Claims James Butler

JAMES BUTLER

Dr. James W. Butler, 69, died at his home, 406 Harding St. Tuesday afternoon following several months illness.

The funeral service will be conducted at 10:00 a.m. Friday in the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by Rev. J. Doner Lee, superintendent of the North Carolina Conference of the Pentecostal Holiness Church, Dr. James R. Hailey, pastor of Mt. Zion United Methodist Church at Elm City, and Professor of Religion at N.C. Wesleyan College at Rocky Mount, and Rev. John W. Brooks, retired missionary of Falcon. Burial will be in the Butler Family Cemetery in Falcon.

Mr. Butler was born in Pilot Mountain, the son of the late Rev. and Mrs. Alman H. Butler. He attended the Kinston Public Schools and the Falcon High School. Following his graduation from East Carolina University, he taught school in Sampson and Cumberland Counties. He was affiliated with newspapers in Eden, Clinton and Goldsboro. While in Goldsboro, he served as manager of the Chamber of Commerce, and served as president of the N.C. Association of Chamber of Commerce Executives.

In 1951 he came to Greenville where he served on the administrative staff of East Carolina University until his retirement July 1, 1970. He was an ordained minister and a member of the N.C. Conference of the Pentecostal Holiness Church. He was a past president of the Goldsboro Rotary Club, and had served as District Governor of Rotary International, and was a member of the Greenville Rotary Club.

He was a former member of the Salvation Army Advisory Board in Goldsboro, and was a life member of the Salvation Army Advisory Board in Greenville. Active in Boy Scouts of America affairs for many years, he was the recipient of several awards, including the Silver Beaver.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Gloria Hailey Butler, of the home; two daughters, Mrs. Dale K. Bruseqitz of Memet, Calif.; and Mrs. Ben Shepard of Halifax; four granddaughters; two brothers, Alman H. Butler, Jr. of Alexandria, Va., and Joseph D. Butler of Burlington; three sisters, Mrs. David Edwards of Charlotte, Mrs. Robert M. Walker of Atkinson, and Mrs. J. Kenneth Thomas of Greensboro.

The family has requested that those desiring to make memorial contributions consider the East Carolina University Alumni Fund, the Falcon Childrens Home, and the Greenville Salvation Army.

Commissioners...

(19 in Pitt), the ratio is one per 3,895 citizens.

Taking a closer look at the ratio, the health director noted, however, that the ratio of general practitioners per citizen in the urban area of the county — Greenville, Farmville, Ayden — is 1 per 2,497 citizens, while the ratio in the remaining rural area (31,548 citizens) is 1 per 15,774.

Other data presented by Dr. May yesterday showed: Pitt has a higher perinatal death rate than the North Carolina average — 45.1 to 1,000 compared to the state's 37.3 per 1,000, has a higher infant mortality rate than the state and nation; has a higher morbidity rate for tuberculosis, and has "woefully low immunization levels" in some schools in the county.

Despite these facts, Dr. May emphasized, "your county health agency still has the same size staff as 20 years ago. This is in part the agency's fault — my fault actually."

"I did not acquaint you sufficiently with the health data which you need to make your budget decisions," Dr. May said.

But, he said, "It is in part your fault. You were too kind to me and your health agency. You never demanded the health facts."

He said improvements have been made over the past few years and noted that many of the programs now are serving much greater numbers of Pitt residents than ever before, but noted improvements can and should be made in many areas. "Each of you have my heartfelt gratitude for letting me prove in Pitt County that good aggressive public health is alive and well..." Dr. May emphasized. "This is largely due to the tremendous amount of guts of each member of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners and the guts of your Board of Health members."

"To your final question," the federal legislator said, "Will I support legislation permitting the Federal Home Loan Bank to advance funds to savings and loans low enough to permit them to make mortgage loans to middle income families in times of high interest rates, with the differences between the cost of the fund and the advanced rate charged the savings and loan covered by appropriations... I think this is a sound approach to a problem which occurs in times of monetary disturbances, such as now, which would be feasible and provide a service not now available."

"I would even go so far as to support legislation which would require the Federal Home Loan Bank to adopt this procedure," he concluded.

Jones Speaks To Home Builders

Congressman Walter Jones, speaking to the Greenville-Washington (N.C.) Home Builders Association here last night said, "The more I become familiar with your profession, I am convinced that it must be one of great excitement. If nothing else, on most occasions when you make a new home possible for a family, you are helping them fulfill one of their fondest dreams."

Rep. Jones told the group, "I realize that yours is a hazardous profession. You operate from the peaks of prosperity to the valleys of frustration.

"Most of your problems are not of your making and are beyond your control. You are the victims of what is now known as 'light money', and unreasonable interest rates, and that reasonable financing is so vital to your customers as well as yourself.

"In this connection, both past and present, I trust that my voting record has shown a concern for your problems."

Answering a series of questions put to him earlier by the Greenville-Washington Association, the congressman said, "first...regarding budget cutbacks in areas such as military and space spending in order to achieve a more balanced budget...I join with many who feel that we have spent far too much exploring space, while domestic problems continue to mount here on earth."

However he noted, "In regard to the military...I will never be a party to reducing our defense forces to where it would impair the safety and security of this nation."

With respect to a question regarding a temporary personal and corporate income tax surcharge, the congressman said, "I am conscious that your association sincerely believes that this would tend to control the inflation.

"With corporate profits being at an all-time high, then I would vote for a corporate income tax or surcharge, but with the individual citizen finding the cost of living the highest in history, I am reluctant to promise you that I would vote a personal surcharge.

"On your third question regarding an amendment to give the president the right to reduce or suspend the present investment tax credit in times of credit stringency...I am aware that this question also provides the right of congressional veto.

"Let me assure you," the congressman said, "that I am a great believer in the separation of powers doctrine, and I would not under any circumstances vote for this unless it contained in no uncertain language, the congressional veto."

And, he said, "yes, I will support an exemption from the federal income taxation of the first $750 interest earned annually on saving accounts. I take this position," he said, "for I agree that this would tend to attract additional capital in the areas which would do much for our building program."

"To your final question," the federal legislator said, "Will I support legislation permitting the Federal Home Loan Bank to advance funds to savings and loans low enough to permit them to make mortgage loans to middle income families in times of high interest rates, with the differences between the cost of the fund and the advanced rate charged the savings and loan covered by appropriations... I think this is a sound approach to a problem which occurs in times of monetary disturbances, such as now, which would be feasible and provide a service not now available."

"I would even go so far as to support legislation which would require the Federal Home Loan Bank to adopt this procedure," he concluded.

Charged In Wreck

Robert Michael Kupecki of High Point was charged here yesterday with failing to stop for a red light following investigation of a three-car collision at the intersection of U. S. 264 and Arlington Boulevard which resulted in an estimated $800 property damage.

Police identified the drivers of the other two vehicles involved in the 2:15 p.m. mishap as Christine Godley of 108 Paris Ave. and Therasa T. Shank of 1215 Drexel Lane.

Damage was estimated at $200 each to the Kupecki and Godley cars and at $400 to the Shank auto.

No injuries were reported.

The President held a televised news conference at the Western White House in San Clemente, Calif., on Aug. 22. That had been his first televised question-and-answer session with newsmen since mid-1972 and his first of any kind since March 15.

Area Schools Are Opening Grid Season

Conley Tailback Willie Hawkins

Friday evening marks the kickoff of the 1973 football season for the teams in the Pitt-Martin-Greene area, as seven games are planned.

One other team gets the jump on the others by starting play on Thursday evening. In that game, Jamesville High School will play its first game ever by taking on the Williamston junior varsity.

Friday night's games include Farmville Central at J.H. Rose, Ayden-Grifton at Kinston; Conley at Southern Wayne, North Pitt at Robersonville, Williamston at Gates County, Greene Central at Saratoga, and West Craven at Aurora.

Several games involving area conferences were played last Friday, although only one area team, West Craven, was in action. The Eagles dropped a 20-16 loss to Belhaven in their opener. Elsewhere, in the 3-A Northeastern, Washington tied Rose, 7-7; in the 2-A Eastern Plains, North Johnston lost to Princeton, 7-0; and in other Coastal Plains Conference games, Havelock surprised New Bern, 21-6.

Of the four games involving Pitt County teams, perhaps the biggest interest will be right here in Greenville, when Farmville Central invades Ficklen Stadium to face Rose High School. It will be the third meeting of these two teams, who split their previous two games. The Jaguars won the first game, played in Greenville, while the Rampants gained their revenge in last year's contest in Farmville.

Coach Gene Brewer isn't sure what to expect from his team—or from Rose for that matter. He was on hand last week when the Rampants tied Washington 7-7 with a lackluster performance.

"We've had some pretty poor practices recently," Brewer said. "I'm hoping that they'll snap out of it before Friday night."

The coach didn't make any predictions about what kind of a game to look for. "I don't think we got a true indication of what kind of a team Rose has," he said. "They seem to have a good club, but they just make a lot of little mistakes that hurt them, especially with their wishbone offense. The defense did a pretty good job, however."

Brewer also feels that having one game behind them will tend to help Rose even more. "They've had a chance to get rid of the first game jitters, and they've had a week to iron out those mistakes that you never see in practice, only in a game."

physically. I hope that we're ready mentally, and I think we are. We have some real hard workers and they'll be there when it counts."

Ayden-Grifton's Chargers will be making their first venture into Kinston Friday when they play the Vikings, a team that hasn't fared well in recent years. But the Vikings have a new coach this year, and that might make a difference.

"We're playing a team we've never played before," Coach Mike Overton of A-G said, "and with their new coach, we have no idea what to expect from them. They scrimmaged two weeks ago, but we didn't get a chance to see them.

Meanwhile, the Chargers continue to look like a winner as they prepare for the Eastern Carolina Conference wars. "We're still small in numbers," Overton said, "but I'm more than satisfied with their play." There has been only one injury in the Charger camp, a sprained wrist, and it is not expected to slow anyone down.

"It's hard to say what kind of game we'll be looking for since we know so little about them," Overton said. "Of course we expect some first game mistakes, but not as many as last year, since we've had such good intra-squad scrimmages so far."

Conley's Vikings, meanwhile, get their feet wet right away, having to play Southern Wayne in Eastern Carolina league game—first of the year in the loop.

"I don't know how this came about," Chuck Dunn of Conley said. "The schedule was set up three years ago when the conference started, and they've used the same one ever since then." All of the other teams in the league play their non-conference game first, then swing into the nine-game league series. Southern Wayne and Conley play their non-conference foe later.

"In a way, it's a problem for us, especially having to play one of the contenders for the league title right away," Dunn said.

Dunn looks for the Saints to be a pretty tough team. "They got a lot of players back from last year, and they have a lot of size. That and the experience will make them hard to beat." Dunn noted that although he hasn't seen them in any of their pre-season work, he expects them to be mainly a running team, as in the past.

"I feel like we'll be able to play them a good game," he said. "We have a few more people than we did earlier, and some of those who've come out have some experience, too. It makes me think that we have better than a 50-50 chance to win."

Time To Report

This weekend marks the first full weekend of high school football, and coaches or their representatives are reminded to report the outcome to The Daily Reflector promptly.

Reporters in the Pitt-Martin-Greene area should report all home games, and all away games outside the tri-county area. Reports should be made on Friday nights between 10 p.m. and 12 midnight. Those unable to contact the office at that time should call between 8:30 and 9:30 a.m. Saturday morning.

For games played on Saturday night, calls should be made immediately after the games. Games played on nights other than Friday or Saturday should be reported the next morning.

The following information should be included on all reports: 1) the number of first downs; 2) the rushing yardage; 3) passing yardage; 4) return yardage (yards in returning punts, blocked kicks, short field goals, pass interceptions and fumbles); 5) passes (number attempted-completed-and intercepted); 6) punts (number attempted and average yardage); 7) fumbles lost; 8) yards penalized; 9) score by quarters. All this should be reported for both teams.

In addition, all scoring should be reported in the order it occurred, for both teams. Please have first and last names of people involved in scoring.

Reports should be made to 752-6166, and people calling outside toll-free areas should call collect.

Glover Shaken As Giants Cut

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer

Rich Glover, upset by the announcement that the New York Giants had asked waivers on him, was questioned about his possible future in pro football.

Still shaken and trembling from the unexpected development, the two-time All-American and 1972 winner of the Outland and Vince Lombardi Trophies as the outstanding lineman in college football, replied confidently: "I feel I can make it with any team, at any position on the line or linebacker."

The National Football League team that Glover would like to make it with is the Giants.

And he might eventually get that chance.

In placing Glover on waivers Tuesday, the Giants said if another team claimed the former Nebraska star that he would be restored to the roster. And if he went unclaimed, he would be placed on the taxi squad.

"I never thought this would happen," said the 6-foot-1, 240-pounder who was not selected until the third round of the NFL draft because he was considered too small to be a pro lineman and not quick enough to be a linebacker.

In addition to cutting Glover, the Giants reached Tuesday's 44-player limit by dropping veteran defensive back Otto Brown and rookie wide receiver Walter Love. All NFL teams must get down to 40 players by next Monday.

There was a lot of other player shuffling Tuesday. The Chicago Bears cut four players, including wide receivers Jim Seymour, a former star at Notre Dame, and Bob Wallace, and deactivated offensive tackle Randy Jackson and linebacker Jimmy Gunn because of injuries.

The Detroit Lions, plagued by injuries to defensive backs Rudy Redmond and Wayne Rasmussen, acquired defensive backs Gene Howard and Willie Germany from the Atlanta Falcons for future draft picks.

The San Francisco 49ers sent linebacker Marty Huff to the Buffalo Bills for a draft choice. Veteran defensive tackle Tom Keating, nursing a knee injury, was placed on the inactive list by Pittsburgh, while the Steelers cut guard Ron Curl and defensive end Nate Dorsey.

Quarterback Lynn Dickey, suffering from a hand injury, was deactivated by the Houston Oilers and replaced on the roster by linebacker Paul Guidry. And the New Orleans Saints cut two free agents—tight end Chris Vella and running back Frank McGuigan.

Meanwhile, the Miami Dolphins said that veteran defensive tackle Jim Dunaway suffered a compressed fracture of a spinal vertebrae in last week's exhibition game against Minnesota and would be sidelined at least eight weeks.

Fish Puts Up A Fight

HONOLULU (AP) — Somewhere in the Pacific near here swims a marlin who fought so fiercely to remain free that he hospitalized one of his would-be captors.

Bob Silverman said he and his fishing partner, Tom Prentice, were trolling Monday when Prentice hooked the marlin, estimated to weigh between 100 and 150 pounds.

"The fish jumped into the cockpit, hit me and knocked me flat, then ricocheted off me and knocked my fishing partner flat," Silverman said.

The fish then went overboard.

Prentice suffered no major injuries, but was "scraped raw" on parts of his face, shoulder and hands during the brief encounter, Silverman said.

Despite the injuries, Prentice continued to try to pull in the fish but the spirited marlin finally brook free of the hook.

Silverman said he discovered he was "bleeding quite profusely from my neck." The marlin's bill had penetrated the front of his throat, he said.

Silverman, who underwent surgery, said the marlin's bill "missed the main artery by one-thirtieth of an inch."

Briefs

HIGH ON MILNER
NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Mets' hope for the future is outfielder-first baseman John Milner. "He missed 23 games and he's got 21 homers," said Manager Yogi Berra in mid-August. "Can you imagine that he might be leading the league if he didn't get hurt and miss 23 games?"

Milner hit his first 21 homers in 96 games. In 1972, as a 22-year-old rookie, Milner blasted 17 homers in 117 games.

SEC PICKS LEADERS
BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — Field judge A.C. (Butch) Lambert, of Tupelo, Miss., is the new president of the Southeastern Conference football officials. He succeeds umpire Harvey Hardy, of Lakeland, Fla.

Back judge Dick Pace, of Maitland, Fla., is the new vice president, succeeding head linesman Bobby Gaston, of Atlanta.

Win Mixed Tourney

David Walton and Robin Smith, top-seeded in the Greenville Tennis Club's Mixed Juniors Doubles Tournament, came out on top as the tourney closed.

They defeated the number two seeded team of David Daniel and Lou White, 6-1, 6-3, in the finals of the tournament.

The victors gained the finals with wins over the teams of Jimmie Bowman and Bonnie Lee by default and Brad Brown and Serena Matney, 6-1, 6-2.

The number two team had wins over Tom Stoughton and Marty East, 6-1, 6-7, 6-3. Bowman and Lee beat Bart Greene and Peggy Barber, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2 and Stoughton-East beat Susie Pittman and Tom Brown, 6-4, 3-6, 6-4, in the first round.

A Men's Veterans Singles Tournament will be held Saturday starting at 9 a.m.

Bucs Near Drill End

East Carolina University's Pirates continued to taper off their drills yesterday as they worked toward Saturday's opening game with N.C. State.

The principal activity for the Pirates was work on specialty teams during Tuesday's workout. And the time spent in drills was also shortened.

Coach Sonny Randle continued to worry over the health situation with the Pirates. "We don't have enough people to have a practice with," Randle said. "None of those who were injured last week have returned, and this really hurts us."

No new injuries were reported, however, and Randle said the team is slowly coming around after the conclusion of two-a-day drills.

"The workout wasn't bad, but it wasn't good either," Randle said.

The Bucs kick off their 1973 campaign on Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. in State's Carter Stadium in Raleigh.

North Pitt's Panthers Look For Improved Record In Third Year

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

BETHEL—North Pitt High School enters its third year of football this week, and for the first time, the Panthers have a winning spirit in their camp.

During the first year of the sport, the Panthers didn't even score until the close of the campaign. And throughout the first two seasons, the wins were few and far between.

But now Coach Danny Wilmer feels the Panthers can win. They may not be ready to contest for the Eastern Carolina Conference championship, but they won't be battling for the basement either, the coach feels.

Fourteen lettermen return to the team, including seven offensive starters. "Our overall experience is pretty good," Wilmer said. "But we don't have a lot of depth. There is good experience at every position except quarterback, and we're not really hurting there."

There are two candidates for that position, Fred Glisson and Jeffrey Price, with Glisson having a little more experience in that slot.

One of them will handle the team in the pro-set formation the Panthers lose. Right now the edge seems to be with Glisson, who ranks as an average passer, and a pretty good runner. "He's a smart kid, too," Wilmer said. "He is the type you need for a field leader."

But Wilmer smiles the broadest when he mentioned his tailback, Clarence Mooring, who with 927 yards last year, "was the Eastern Carolina Conference's leading rusher. "If he gets open, he's gone," the coach said. "He's a true college prospect and we're glad to have him back for another year."

Joining him in the backfield will be Jim Glisson, one of two brothers the quarterback has on the team. "He's a strong runner and good blocker too. He has the strength to run over you," the coach said.

The split end will be Marion Barnes, while James Moore will be at the wingback slot. Steve Fuchs will hold down the tight end position. "Barnes has excellent hands," Wilmer said. "He's real talented. Fuchs is hard to bring down when he's got the ball, too."

The tackles will be Milton Alston and Rick Harrell, both veterans. Ken Tetterton and Johnny Vines will be at the guards, and Wilmer calls Vines the best player, pound-for-pound, around. Spencer Barnhill will handle the center slot.

"I think we'll be exceptionally quick. The players are really hard workers and are putting in a lot of extra time. They are just as good as any around—and this year, they have a lot of pride."

On defense, the Panthers will line up in a 4-4. Alston will be at one tackle, while John Moody or Michael Tyson will handle the other. Jim Glisson and Vines will be the middle linebackers.

Fuchs will alternate with Carlos Barnes at one corner, while Tom Glisson, and the third brother will be at the other. Tetterton and either Ronnie Howell or Dennis White, will be the ends. James Carr will be at the safety position, with James Moore and either Jeffrey Price or Marvin Barnes at the halfbacks.

"Our defense should be improved this year," Wilmer feels. "We're going to be quicker, despite the fact that we're not real big. But they do like to hit. It's the best group I've had here, and they have a great attitude."

Wilmer feels that because of these intangibles, the Panthers are going to be improved. "We didn't finish last year, and we figure to move further up this season. "These kids are going to work hard and fight," the coach said.

In the league, he looks for Ayden-Grifton, Greene Central and Southern Wayne to be strong. "There are several other schools with new coaches, and it's hard to say how they'll do right now," he added.

But the Panthers should be on the way up. "We've got to stay healthy and keep up our morale," Wilmer said. "If we do—we'll be winners."

Wolfpack Given Nod By AP In Opener With East Carolina Bucs

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Better late than never, here is the first prediction of the college football season: New Mexico State 27, Drake 12.

The rest of the crystal-balling can't get any better than that...because that game was played last Saturday to open the college season. Hindsight is much easier than foresight.

At any rate, there are 23 games on tap this weekend. A word of warning: any resemblance between the predicted scores and the actual results is purely coincidental.

Last year's regular-season score was 487 right, 196 wrong and 14 ties for a .713 percentage.

The big game this weekend is the revenge clash between Nebraska and UCLA at Lincoln, Neb. A year ago, Nebraska invaded Los Angeles with a 32-game unbeaten string and hopes of becoming the first team ever to win three consecutive national championships.

UCLA ended that dream with a 20-17 upset on Efran Herrera's last-minute field goal.

"All of us recognize the fact that a year ago we were fortunate enough to upset Nebraska and break their win streak," says UCLA Coach Pepper Rodgers. "If it was the other way around, I know we would certainly be looking forward to a rematch—and from everything I hear and read, the Cornhuskers feel exactly as we would under the same circumstances."

It will be UCLA's Wishbone ground game—Kermit Johnson, James McAlister, Mark Harmon and soph Eddie Ayers—against the pin-point passing of Dave Humm, Nebraska's lefty quarterback.

The first legitimate prediction of the season...Nebraska 28, UCLA 14.

North Carolina State 42, East Carolina 27—N.C. State is 17th in the preseason rankings and also Nebraska's next opponent. Both sides potent on offense.

Louisville 28, Memphis State 7—This could have been for the Missouri Valley championship until Memphis quit the conference. Watch for new Louisville Coach T.W. Alley to follow in Lee Corso's footsteps with a trick or two of his own.

Arizona 27, Colorado State 20—Jim Young wins his debut. Sark Arslanian loses his debut.

West Texas State 34, Drake 12—Buffaloes have one of the country's foremost running attacks with Billy Pritchett and Cole Fraley. They're too much for Jerry Heston, Drake's one-man gang.

Mississippi 35, Villanova 7—Southern hospitality? What's that?

Other games:

Grambling 21, Long Beach State 7; Virginia Tech 17, William & Mary 14; Virginia 35, VMI 14; Clemson 10, The Citadel 7; Massachusetts 28, Holy Cross 7; Temple 35, Xavier 0; Texas-El Paso 17, Idaho 14; North Texas State 21, Texas-Arlington 20; Davidson 24, Wofford 17; Dayton 20, Youngstown State 6; Presbyterian 17, Furman 14; Fresno State 20, Cal Poly, Pomona 12; New Mexico State 21, Lamar 14; Northern Illinois 35, Indiana State 7; Pacific 27, Sacramento State 7; San Jose State 28, Santa Clara 14; Western Michigan 14, Central Michigan 10.

Cougars Get Nets' Chones

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—The Carolina Cougars of the American Basketball Association have acquired former Marquette All-America center Jim Chones from the New York Nets.

The Cougars swapped a first or second round 1974 draft choice to the Nets in a deal announced Tuesday. At the same time, the Cougars made way for the 6-11 Chones by sending a center who never saw action with them, 7-1 David Brent, to the Utah Stars for a future draft choice and an undisclosed amount of cash.

Cougar Coach Larry Brown called the acquisition of Chones "a super deal for us. It strengthens us in so many ways."

His acquisition gives the Cougars four centers although one, Mike Lewis, still recovering from an Achilles tendon injury, is not expected back in action until January. The other centers are Roger Brown and Tom Owens.

Chones quit Marquette during his junior year to sign an estimated $1.5-million contract with the Nets.

He was unable to beat out Billy Paultz at center and on being switched to forward by the Nets, Chones said at a news conference in Greensboro Tuesday. "I didn't have the heart to play forward and I didn't really start trying until it was too late."

Chones conceded he should have been more professional about it.

On joining Carolina, the ABA's East Division regular season winner last season, Chones said, "I think I can help the Cougars do a lot of things they haven't been able to do in the past. The things I do best are block shots and rebound."

Brent's move to Utah was the latest in a number of acquisitions by which the Stars hope to strengthen their front court.

Brent, who averaged 25.8 points a game and 20.5 rebounds as a freshman at Jacksonville University, dropped out after his sophomore year to sign with Memphis of the ABA.

He was dealt to the Cougars last year in exchange for Wendell Ladner, but left the training camp in a contract dispute and sat out the entire season.

Utah also has signed 6-9 Roy Ebron from Southwestern Louisiana, 6-7 Pete Harris from Stephen F. Austin and 6-7 Mike Lynn from UCLA via the Los Angeles Lakers of the National Basketball Association.

The Cougars opened their training camp Tuesday at Boone, with some veterans, rookies and free agents on hand. Veterans are due by Sept. 9 and Chones is to report later in the week.

Wasn't Easy To Solve Problem

"He's out," said Bill Virdon of the Pittsburgh Pirates. "He's safe," said Red Schoendienst of the St. Louis Cardinals.

"He's out," said umpire Eddie Vargo. "He's safe," said umpire Bruce Froemming.

Not only were the managers unable to agree but it also took two umpires to figure out what happened in a key play of the Cardinals' 4-2 victory Tuesday night.

Losing 2-0 going into the climactic eighth inning, the Cardinals scored three times and the tie-breaking run was the one that started all the confusion.

Lou Brock was on third base when Pirate reliever Dave Giusti threw a wild pitch. Brock came home as catcher Manny Sanguillen recovered quickly and threw to Giusti, who was covering the plate.

Home plate umpire Vargo immediately signaled "out," but several Cardinals stormed off their bench to protest. Schoendienst insisted that Vargo consult with second base umpire Froemming and he eventually called the runner safe.

"When Vargo asked me if the ball was loose, I said it was," Froemming said, explaining the decision.

In the other National League games, the San Francisco Giants trimmed the Los Angeles Dodgers 3-1; the Atlanta Braves turned back the San Diego Padres 3-0; the Cincinnati Reds beat the Houston Astros 12-7 in 10 innings; the New York Mets defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 7-1 and the Montreal Expos nipped the Chicago Cubs 3-2.

Rookie Dave Parker drove in two runs with a homer and triple as the Pirates took an early 2-0 lead over the Cardinals. Then came the argumentative eighth.

Giants 3, Dodgers 1

Ron Bryant allowed only one hit and got last-out relief help from Elias Sosa to pitch San Francisco over Los Angeles 3-1. Bryant, the National League's top winner with 21 decisions, had a no-hitter going until Joe Ferguson singled up the middle with one out in the seventh.

Braves 3, San Diego 0

Roric Harrison and Joe Niekro combined on an eight-hitter and Dusty Baker blasted a two-run homer to lead Atlanta past San Diego 3-0. Harrison bested Rich Troedson with eighth-inning relief help from Niekro as the Padres lost their eighth straight game.

Reds 12, Astros 7

Pinch-hitter Phil Gagliano drove in the winning run with a squeeze bunt single in the 10th inning and streaking Cincinnati exploded for five runs with two out to beat Houston 12-7.

Mets 7, Phillies 1

Tom Seaver fired a four-hitter and struck out 13, pitching New York over Philadelphia 7-1. Seaver raised his season strikeout total to 218, tops in the National League. It was the fifth time this year that Seaver has struck out 10 batters or more in one game.

Expos 3, Cubs 2

Rookie right-hander Steve Rogers won his third straight game, limiting Chicago to five hits as Montreal nipped the Cubs 3-2.

American League scores: Boston 2, Baltimore 1 in 12 innings; Detroit 2, New York 1; Cleveland 5, Milwaukee 4; Minnesota 6, Kansas City 0; Chicago 14, Texas 0 and Oakland 4, California 3.

Sounds More Like Football

By HAL BOCK

In recognition of the fast-approaching football season, the Chicago White Sox scored two touchdowns complete with extra points against the Texas Rangers Tuesday night.

Playing baseball, the White Sox ran up a football-like 14-0 score against the Rangers with Carlos May contributing a two-run homer and Jim Kaat tossing a five-hitter.

It was Chicago's sixth straight victory and the 10th in the last 11 games for the White Sox, who've been using a rookie-dotted lineup. Freshman Bill Sharp led a 13-hit Chicago attack with three hits and two runs batted in.

Elsewhere in the American League Tuesday night, Boston nipped Baltimore 2-1 in 12 innings, Detroit edged New York 2-1, Cleveland overtook Milwaukee 5-4, Minnesota shut out Kansas City 6-0, and Oakland trimmed California 4-3.

The White Sox jumped Jim Bibby for five runs in the first three innings and then exploded for six runs in the sixth inning with May's 17th homer touching off the rally.

Red Sox 2, Orioles 1

Ben Oglivie's leadoff homer in the 12th inning boosted Boston to a 2-1 decision over Baltimore and cut the Orioles' first place lead in the American League East to five games over the Red Sox.

Tigers 2, Yankees 1

Rookie Ron Cash's first major league hit drove in Detroit's winning run as the Tigers trimmed the New York Yankees 2-1.

Cash, purchased by the Tigers from their Toledo farm club Tuesday, drilled a second inning single off Mel Stottemyre, 13-14, to deliver Detroit's deciding run against the Yankees. Duke Sims had singled and raced to third on an error before Cash delivered his hit.

Twins 6, Royals 0

Bert Blyleven's four-hit pitching moved Minnesota past Kansas City 6-0. It was the eighth shutout this season, tops in the majors, for the Twins' right-hander, 17-14.

George Mitterwald's two-run double gave Blyleven a quick lead in the first inning. The Minnesota pitcher said that early edge helped. "I'm usually nervous before a game anyway and when we get a couple of early runs, I can really challenge them," he said.

Indians 5, Brewers 4

Frank Duffy's two-run ninth inning home run lifted Cleveland to a 5-4 victory over Milwaukee.

The Brewers took a 4-2 lead into the ninth but John Loweinstein's leadoff homer put the Indians within reach and then, after Charlie Spikes drew a two-out walk, Duffy tagged his dramatic shot.

A's 4, Angels 3

Oakland's Ken Holtzman became the third 20-game winner in the majors this season, besting California 4-3. He joins Wilbur Wood of the Chicago White Sox and Ron Bryant of the San Francisco Giants, who reached 20 earlier.

It marks the first time Holtzman has ever won 20 in a single season.

National League scores: Montreal 3, Chicago 2; New York 7, Philadelphia 1; St. Louis 4, Pittsburgh 2; Cincinnati 12, Houston 7 in 10 innings; Atlanta 3, San Diego 0; San Francisco 3, Los Angeles 1.

Braless Tennis Now The Thing

By WILL GRIMSLEY

AP Special Correspondent
FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP)

—First it was women's lib and now it's braless tennis.

"You've come a long way, baby," is more than a sign on the white shirts worn by the girls who play the Virginia Slims circuit.

"I frequently play without a bra—why not?" said Julie Heldman, formerly of New York now of Houston, the girl who sent top-seeded Billie Jean King to the sidelines Monday in the U.S. Open Championships.

"Someone suggested after the match that I didn't have on a bra," dark-haired daughter of magazine publisher Gladys Heldman added. "That's not true. I was wearing a thin dress and I would have been embarrassed if anything had shown through."

"But I think the primary consideration is to be comfortable. A lot of the girls don't wear bras."

This revelation may come as a little bit of a shock to the staid administrators of the sport, who have attempted to keep the game in corsets and high-button shoes.

"I remember back in Boston when I was playing," said a woman champion of the 1930s, "they made us wear bandos, white vests or things under our dresses to make us look flat."

"It was ridiculous."

Miss Heldman said the girls who shun the upper under garments on the tennis court include Rosemary Casals, Kris Kemmer and Ingrid Bentzer.

Miss Bentzer, a blonde Swede, drew a rebuke from U.S. tennis fathers two years ago for appearing at Forest Hills in what the officials said was a see-through dress. They made her take it off—but not in public. Ingrid was enraged.

"There was nothing provocative about the dress at all," she said. "It only looked like a see-through dress."

Dedicating 17,500 Acres Airport In Texas, Soon

By PRESTON MCGRAW GRAPEVINE, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas cities of Dallas and Fort Worth will dedicate the third weekend in September and open to commercial planes Oct. 23 a $700 million, 17,500-acre airport with enough concrete on it to pave a four-lane highway 210 miles long. The airport is so big that if it were placed across Manhattan, the northwest runway would extend into Newark, N.J., and the southwest runway into Brooklyn. It covers parts of two counties and has taken sections of four towns between Dallas and Fort Worth. Dallas-Fort Worth airport will be the world's largest in land area until the new Montreal airport (18,500 acres) opens in 1975. Even then Dallas-Fort Worth will have some claim to superlatives. It is projected for 13 terminals against six for Montreal. The airport will open with four half loop terminals to accommodate nine airlines. The huge half loops are built on either side of an expressway that runs through the center of the airport. Passengers drive down the expressway, turn off at the loop operated by the airline they are using and park inside the loop. The airline's curved terminal building forms the outside of the loop and arriving and departing planes are parked against it.

long, leisurely approach and land." Taking off, a pilot will not have to climb rapidly, cut back power or change direction suddenly because of the noise his plane is making. A terminal loop can handle 18 jumbo jets at one time or a 24-plane mixture of jumbos and smaller jets. If and when the 13 terminals are completed, they can handle 234 jumbo jets at one time. The new airport is the outgrowth of a Dallas-Fort Worth feud, so bad at one time that the late Amon G. Carter, publisher of the Fort Worth Star-Telegram, brought his own lunch when he visited Dallas. No Love Lost Dallas had built up Love Field, only six miles from downtown, from an old World War I airbase. After World War II, Fort Worth spent $44 million developing Greater Southwest Airport, halfway between the two cities and south of the new airport. The airlines complained that they could not land and take off from two airports 10 or 11 miles apart on every flight. They abandoned Greater Southwest for Love Field, because that was where most of the business was. That put Fort Worth residents in the position of having to come to Dallas to use a commercial plane. The Civil Aeronautics Administration in 1965 finally told the two cities to quit arguing and get together on a single regional airport. Dallas and Fort Worth did and the feud apparently was laid to rest, with economic benefit to both cities. Furthermore, the area between the two cities is rapidly expanding, with raw, unimproved farmland selling at $25,000 an acre. Construction of the new airport has been accompanied by problems. The main one is what to do about Southwest Airlines, a three-plane commuter operation flying between Dallas, Houston and San Antonio. Holdout Airline Dallas and Fort Worth taxpayers are paying for the new airport's land. But nine airlines—not including Southwest—signed an agreement to underwrite bonds to provide the rest of construction costs and to move out of Love Field when the new airport opened. Southwest said that since it had not signed the agreement—it opened for business a year after the others signed, in fact—it will stay at Love Field. Southwest said it will go broke if it has to move to the new airport, with a $12 taxi fare or a $2.50 bus fare to Dallas and Fort Worth. Airlines competing with Southwest on the Dallas-Houston-San Antonio routes said they could not leave Love Field if Southwest stayed. Dallas and Fort Worth went to U.S. District Court in an effort to make Southwest move. U.S. District Judge William M. Taylor Jr., in a you-can't-have-your-cake-and-eat-it-too decision, ruled that Southwest might remain. The Dallas city council wants Love Field to remain open as a general aviation facility, despite complaints about noise. Judge Taylor said Dallas does not have to operate Love Field, but if it does Southwest can use it. Everything Costs The two cities have appealed to the 5th U.S. Circuit Court. Officials said that if Southwest and competing airlines stay at Love Field, taxpayers may find themselves helping pay off the bonds the airlines underwrote. The first year's operating budget of the new airport will be $54,390,849. The airport board said no tax revenues will be needed to meet it but every possible source of revenue at the airport will be tapped. Merely driving in, turned around and driving out costs a quarter. A whole day's parking costs $3. Airtains, the between-terminals transportation system, costs a quarter. A telephone call that costs a dime anywhere else costs a quarter. The only bargain appears to be the toilets. They cost 10 cents.

Step Backward Once inside a terminal the farthest a passenger will have to walk to a plane is 120 feet. At Dallas Love Field, which the new airport will replace, it is two thirds of a mile from the terminal to the farthest gate. "We took a giant step backward in designing the airport," airport executive director Thomas M. Sullivan said. "In the early days of commercial aviation, an airport had a small parking lot facing a small terminal building. There was a single ticket counter. You parked your car, walked in, bought a ticket and walked to your plane. That is the idea of this airport." Passengers and freight will move between terminals on a computer-operated system of 40-passenger rubber-tired cars moving through concrete guideways.

Anik Brings TV Color To Yukon
INUVIK, The Yukon (AP) — There's a new boom in the Yukon these days — in the sale of color TV sets, now that live television is being brought to the Territory by Anik I, the world's first domestic synchronous communications satellite built by the Hughes Aircraft Co. Nellie Cournoyea, Canadian Broadcasting Corporation northern service station manager here, reported that the logical Hudson Bay store sold 17 color sets in two days. But one that she owned a black-and-white set, and didn't understand that she had to get a color set to get a color picture.

The Masters Of Country Music There To Teach

By DEBORAH BOWDITCH
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—
Roy Acuff was in the fifth row, dancin' fiddler Mack Magaha, fiddle in hand, was lecturing—and no one was taking notes.

Class as usual: Fiddlers on Fiddles and Fiddling at the University of Tennessee—Nashville.

Some of the students flipped on tape recorders. Others just listened. They were all ages and all types. Working men and women in their 30s and 40s, elderly music lovers, professional musicians and long-haired, blue-jean clad young people.

They weren't there for credit or grades. They were there to learn about the major country music and bluegrass instrument from the masters. And the masters were there to teach.

UTN, primarily a night school which caters to working adults, began bringing commercial music into the classroom two years ago with its much-publicized songwriting course.

The fiddling course, which has the sponsorship of the Country Music Association and the Grand Ole Opry, is the second step in a commercial music program at the only state-sponsored university of its type in Music City, U.S.A.

"Music education must be brought kicking and squawling into the 20th century," said Dr.
Guy Bockmon, professor of music who left the UT Knoxville campus to organize Nashville's program. He hopes to coordinate other UT campuses with the project, possibly requiring senior music students to work at least part-time in Nashville as a prerequisite to a degree.

"I'll be disappointed if I don't get it started this school year," he said.
The idea for the fiddling course came from Bud Wendell, general manger of the Opry, who asked university officials if there could be a link between UTN and the Grand Masters Fiddling Competition at Nashville early in the summer.

As a result, the competition was taped for use in the course and a formal schedule was set.
"The talented people needed are here," says Wendell. "We are fortunate to have them here. Maybe this couldn't be done anywhere else."

Lead teachers for the course are Howard "Howdy" Forrester, a veteran fiddler with Acuff, and Dr. Perry Harris, a surgeon with an unquenchable enthusiasm for fiddling. The two, along with Bockmon, are present at every class meeting and offer supervision when questions run out or lecturers lose a train of thought.

Magaha's lecture came during the next to the last class meeting of the six-week term.
"You don't ever hear any hits on fiddle," he told the class.
"One reason I believe is we keep saying fiddles are old-timey."

Then he slid his fiddle under his chin and played Yackity Sax. On a wooden floor, the sound of tapping feet would have been nearly as loud as the music.

"I played it for Chet (Atkins) and he made a hit of it," he said. "It could have been a hit on fiddle if we'd gotten anybody to listen."

And he explained his technique. "My daddy told me to stroke the bow up, like this.
And another man told me to stroke down. I sort of switch back and forth." He twisted his arm up and down, bending the bow in all directions. The class laughed approval.

Magaha was joined at the lecture room's front by fiddler Johnny Gimble, who dropped by with a troupe of relatives, and Forrester for a medley of songs to close the class. Forrester played a 1720 Guarnerius violin, newly bought by Acuff, who declined to perform.

"Could you do a three-way waltz, a nice, slow pretty one?" called Bockmon from the back of the room. And the class had become a show, an obvious joy for both the performers and their audience.

"Next week let's everybody come up here and fiddle," said Forrester as the students rose to leave or spend a few minutes chatting privately with one of the instructors.

Car Warranty Remedy Needed

By EDWARD S. LECHTIZIN UPI Auto Writer
DETROIT (UPI) — One of the things that puzzles those shopping for a new family car is the matter of warranty.

Most owners don't read it and don't know how good—or bad—it is until they have problems with the automobile.

Even if the car is repaired, the owners often are less than completely happy with the hassle they had to go through.

A recent survey by a Boston College marketing class of 609 new car owners in the Boston metropolitan area found 22 per cent of the owners who used the warranty were not satisfied with it. The one bright spot was American Motors' 101-word "Buyer Protection Plan."

While AMC didn't get a 100 per cent rating by the owners of its cars, it fared much better than its bigger competitors. While not perfect, AMC's warranty at least is setting an example the rest of the industry might imitate, concluded Dr. John Hasenjaeger, assistant professor of marketing at Boston College.

A warranty is supposed to assure the purchaser of a new automobile that defects in the car will be repaired within a specified time. But the consumer complaint logs attest to the fact that auto warranties have fallen far short of being an assurance of minimum level of customer satisfaction.

The Federal Trade Commission has proposed a "Quality Control Act" to assure consumers receive cars without defects and there are proposals to license mechanics.

Remedy Needed

That some remedy is needed is pointed out by the statistics gathered in the Boston College survey. There are, perhaps, more accurate reflections of consumer attitudes gathered in more scientific studies, but the survey does point out general problems.

Just over half of the 609 drivers surveyed did have to use their warranty coverage. Of these people, almost one-third had trouble with the warranty work that was performed and had to seek further remedies.

Of all those who did have warranty work performed, 73 per cent eventually did get the problems resolved satisfactorily. Approximately 12 per cent could not settle their problems with the dealership and had to go up the ladder to the zone office, directly to the manufacturer or use the company hot line.

In terms of overall customer satisfaction, an average of 22 per cent of these new-car owners who used their warranties said that based on their experience, they were definitely not satisfied with the performance of their new car warranty.

Ivan Never Had It So Good; Life In Moscow Today

Editor's Note: Although much has been said about the switching to "Westernization" of Moscow in recent years, life there still is vastly different from life in most western capitals. This dispatch provides a general, broadly based picture of how Ivan Ivanovich, the archetypal Muscovite, lives.

By PETER J. SHAW

MOSCOW (UPI) — Ivan Ivanovich, the archetypal Muscovite, has never had it better. He's born free of charge, pays nothing for his schooling, is guaranteed shelter and a job.

His is a far richer life than any previous generation of ordinary Russians enjoyed.

Still, Ivan is a long way from the life styles obtainable in the West.

A visitor may doubt that anyone can be content in a society where, for example, stores fail to satisfy consumer wants and needs, where two or more families are often forced to share the same apartment and where new apartment buildings look shoddy before the first occupants move in.

But that is looking at it through Western eyes. Ivan sees it from the perspective of a man looking up. His grandparents were trod upon by tsarist rule. His parents found life better under the Soviets and Ivan himself can see the day when he may have his own apartment, his own car and a dacha in the country.

Early Years Easiest
Ivan's easiest years are his early ones. From his costless birth and pre-school care through his free education, he is carefully guided in "the socialist way." If his mother works, babushka (grandmother) or detsky sad (kindergarten) will look after him. A compulsory eight years of education is to become 10 years by 1975. Between ages 10 and 15, Ivan may become one of the 25 million Young Pioneers, a red-neckerchiefed version of Scouting dedicated to "bringing up children in a spirit of love for their Motherland, devoted to the Communist party and friendship among people."

Between 14 and 28 he may join the 28-million-member Komsomol (Young Communist League), which seeks to bring up conscientious and highly educated young builders of a Communist society, devoted to their socialist Motherland.

From the Komsomol, Ivan may be tapped for membership in the 14.5 million-strong Communist Party.

After his mandatory two years in the armed forces, Ivan will be a student or a wage earner. As the latter, his weekly toil averages 39 to 41 hours over five or six days.

Ivan and Natasha
The organization for which he works usually provides him with a free or partly free vacation and active cultural and recreational programs.

Ivan and Natasha, his average female counterpart, can vote at 18 unless legally certified insane. They generally cannot marry before that age without parental and official consent.

The Soviet constitution guarantees them "freedom of religious worship" and provides for "freedom of anti-religious propaganda." The manner of their state-guided upbringing ignores the former and inculcates the latter.

Natasha is guaranteed equal rights with men, including equal wages, "in all spheres of economic, governmental, cultural, political and other social activity." In practice, however, men hold the bulk of the top jobs, particularly in government. Although liberated in principle on the work front, Natasha still has to shoulder the burdens of housekeeping and childrearing. Ivan remains tsar of the house.

When they are first married, Ivan and Natasha probably will have to share an apartment with another family—40 per cent of Muscovites do. So Ivan's chief desire today is a home of his own.

State Apartment
His dream home is either a state apartment or cooperative. State housing, more spartan and cramped than cooperatives, is allotted chiefly on urgency of need.

Cooperatives make up about 15 per cent of Moscow's housing and are organized by factories, institutes and government offices. Each member makes an advance payment of 40 per cent of the cost of his apartment, which may total as much as 10,000 rubles ($13,800)—expensive by Soviet standards. The state covers the balance with loans at a rockbottom one-half per cent interest repayable over 15 years.

The next hurdle is furnishing the apartment. The Soviet furniture industry cannot keep up with demand and Ivan may have to wait one or two years for a good living room suite. Equally hard to come by are bits and pieces Westerners take for granted, such as stylish door handles, shower curtains, durable pots and pans, glassware.

Natasha will have a stove but refrigerators can be in short supply and washing machines even more so. A refrigerator costs the equivalent of two months' average salary, a washing machine one month's pay and a large-screen television set, black and white, about three months' worth.

By Western standards, Ivan is poorly paid. The average monthly wage for factory and office workers is 130 rubles ($179). A family's over-all monthly income is likely to be double or triple that amount, however, because about seven out of 10 wives work and Soviet law forbids unemployment.

Special Fund
The "social consumption fund" adds on average 46 rubles ($63) a month to Ivan's income in payments and benefits. The fund, budgeted for 73 billion rubles ($100 billion) this year, supports free education and medical care, pensions, Social Security, paid leaves, student grants, vacation accommodation, upkeep of kindergartens and nurseries and many other social and cultural services.

Rent, including communal services such as sewage, heating and electricity, is generally no more than five to 10 per cent of a family's monthly income. Rents have remained constant for 35 years.

Ivan pays no Social Security and gets a tax-free pension from state funds. Income tax is levied up to a maximum of 13 per cent. Ivan is generally eligible for pension at 60, Natasha at 55.

—PART TWO—
Shopping for food and clothing is perhaps the most frustrating and time-consuming part of daily life for our typical Muscovites, Ivan and Natasha.

Several American-style self-service supermarkets have been introduced recently in Moscow and are a booming success. But the queue system predominates still. Official studies have shown Natasha spends two or three hours a day in lines to do her daily shopping. She queues to see what's available, joins a second line to pay and then gets in a third line to receive her purchase.

Food mauls Ivan's pocketbook. He pays from 1.09 rubles ($1.50) to 1.34 rubles ($1.83) for a box of 10 eggs. Two kilos of apples (4.4 pounds) will set him back 1.52 rubles (2.10). Meat is priced cheaper than in the West—a kilo (2.2 pounds) of beef costs two rubles ($2.76) in a state store—but cuts and quality cannot be compared. Butchers flail at sides of marginal meat with a shorthanded version of an executioner's axe. The purchase is based on weight, not cut or quality.

Ivan is by nature an apolitical individual who traditionally grows restless only when there is not enough bread to eat or vodka to drink. Authorities have taken pains to ensure that, although luxury goods may be nonexistent or in short supply, the basic staples of Ivan's everyday life are maintained.

Expenditures for food and clothing average 60 per cent or more of the monthly family budget. For food and clothing he cannot find in state shops, Ivan may turn to the farmers' markets and the black market—if he is willing to pay their prices.

A one kilo (2.2 pound) chicken in a state meat shop may cost about three rubles ($4.14), but the free market—sanctioned by the state because state farms alone cannot supply all food demands—may seek and get double the price for a better quality bird of the same weight. Potatoes may be five times as expensive on the farmers' market, but they will be fat and unbruised.

High clothing prices do not reflect quality and Western women judge Soviet fashions off-the-rack to be poorly made. But styling and colors are improving and Natasha no longer has to look drab. A pair of quality women's shoes costs from 20 rubles ($27.60) to around 50 rubles ($69). A moderate dress or coat sells for about twice what it would cost in the West.

Good Public Transit
Men's suits are mediocre and run around 75 rubles ($105). A good quality man's shirt, usually imported, can cost as much as 15 rubles ($21).

Unless he owns a car—unlikely because there are only an estimated 66,000 privately owned cars in Moscow, a city of 7.4 million residents—Ivan gets to work on one of the world's best and cheapest public transport systems.

For any distance the metro (subway) and diesel buses are five kopecks (seven cents), trolley buses four kopecks (six cents) and trams three kopecks (five cents). Taxis, some dilapidated, are equally expensive—10 kopecks (14 cents) a kilometer (six-tenths of a mile). Drivers of private and state-owned cars make a fast ruble by taking in passengers unable to flag taxis.

Owning a car is one of Ivan's dreams within reach—if he has between 4,930 rubles ($6,800) and 9,000 rubles ($12,420) and plenty of patience.

The wait for a Volga (9,000 rubles), a Zhiguli (5,500 rubles), or a Moskvich (4,930 rubles) can be one to several years. Sometimes bribes decrease the waiting time but there is no guarantee—the business is a ripe orchard for Soviet confidence men.

The new car owner then faces a major problem of service and maintenance. The 250,000 automobiles in Moscow have to rely on less than 100 gasoline stations for fuel and the 66,000 cars that are privately owned have to fight for repair space and spare parts, both lagging far behind car production.

Dining Out Dreary
When Ivan wants a drink, he buys a half-liter bottle of vodka or Soviet cognac and drinks it at home. On rare occasions he and Natasha go to a restaurant. There are no bars for the average Russian as Westerners know them, and relatively few restaurants.

When he gets to the restaurant, the door will probably be locked although the establishment is half-empty. He may wait an hour or more before the doorman admits him—and the tables will still be half-empty.

Ivan and Natasha may want the beef stroganoff or chicken Kiev listed on the menu but the waiter says they're not available. If served, they may arrive at the table cold or lukewarm. There is a gradual improvement, however, in the service and food quality of the major restaurants, especially those frequented by tourists from the West.

WON'T YOU HELP US TO HELP HIM TO HELP YOU?

YOU MAY be seeing a new businessman in your neighborhood in the next few weeks. He (or she) is willing and eager to make a success of managing his newspaper route. He's got a lot to learn. How to make delivery in the right way and at the right time. How to keep accurate records. How to collect properly, pay for his papers and make a full profit. Most of all, how to keep his customers happy all of the time. Sometimes, it's not too easy.

OUR CIRCULATION DEPARTMENT tries to select the best possible young people for each route. We try to teach, train and advise them in the basics of their first business venture. We hope they will give you the best service possible.

IF YOUR SERVICE isn't just right, we'd like to ask a favor of you. Won't you let us know? If he's forgotten to deliver your paper, we'll remind him. If he is unnecessarily late, or teases your cat or isn't collecting at the proper time, please tell us. He really wants to serve you well, and we want to help him.

IT'S HARD FOR US to know which of our new carriers needs some special help. That's where your phone call to our circulation department can show us where to direct our efforts. All of us want you to be happy with our newspaper and service.

FDA Could Be Very Wrong

Thaddeus saw and believed. But in Christ's day, many saw but "Kowtowed to Kings" and thus let their local doctors call Jesus a "quack," as the FDA now tries to besmirch Dr. A. C. Ivy, the world's greatest living physiologist, even admitted so by Russia!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE Y-508: Thaddeus W., aged 29, is a Georgia clergyman. "Dr. Crane," he began, "my father has been a victim of crippling arthritis for 3 years. "He finally was confined to a wheel chair.

"He couldn't even feed himself, for his joints were 'frozen,' and no medical treatments had been of any avail.

"But one day Mother read him your column about the possible value of the ocean's water-soluble trace chemicals.

"You had mentioned your father-in-law's case, whose right hip had been frozen via arthritis for a dozen years, and then it loosened within 4 months after he drank a little ocean water daily.

"Well, Dad asked me to bring him back some jugs of sea water when I drove to Jacksonville, Florida, for a ministerial conference.

"And he started taking about a quarter of a glassful daily, distributed in small amounts in milk, tomato juice, etc.

"Within a month, he was feeding himself!

"In two months he was up, walking with a cane.

"Now 4 months have passed and he is apparently completely over his arthritis, for he is back on the farm, operating it as he formerly did.

"If some one or more of these 44 trace elements in the ocean water made this remarkable improvement in Dad, why don't more people try a little sea water daily?"

"For they could go to the oceans or Gulf of Mexico at little cost or else have friends along the shoreline send them a little ocean water."

Kowtowing To Kings
"Why didn't more of Christ's contemporaries go to Jesus for his miraculous cures?" I replied.

Probably 25,000 blind, deaf cripple and leprosy folks were within the sound of Christ's voice during his 3-year ministry.

Yet he healed only a few, including one group of 10 lepers.

Why didn't the others rush to Jesus for similar healing?

Probably for the same reason that 6,000,000 cancer victims have died in the last 20 years during which time the FDA and AMA have had a pathological panic lest Dr. Ivy's horse blood hormone be used.

"Kowtowing to Kings" is Fallacy No. 3 in the booklet below.

It refers to the meek acquiescence by most laymen to the dictates of any popularly accepted authorities.

In Christ's day the clergy regarded him as an impostor and the medics considered him a quack.

So at least 24,000 of those 25,000 blind, deaf and leprosy folks remained enslaved by their ailments because they uncritically "Kowtowed" to what compared with our present FDA and AMA.

Remember
Remember the medics have often been wrong, as when they attacked Dr. Jenner for his smallpox vaccination discovery and tried to ostracize Pasteur from his native France.

In Hungary, they hounded Dr. Semmelweis into an insane asylum; then later erected a statue to him as one of the world's greatest doctors!

A clergyman in Mississippi had a cancerous wife who had been sent home to die within a month.

Desperately, he tried sea water on her, and she bounced back from 85 pounds to her normal 115. She seemed O.K. for 4 years, till he moved away and the new doctors pooh-poohed trace chemicals. Then she died!

Send for my booklet, "Common Fallacies in Logic," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

ECU Graduate Earns His PhD.

WILSON — Philip G. Witherington, assistant professor of biology at Atlantic Christian College, has been awarded the Ph. D. degree in marine science by The College of William and Mary.

Dr. Witherington's research interests are in the fields of ecology and invertebrate systematics. His dissertation was a study of the hermit crabs collected by the International Indian Ocean Expedition with notes on their distribution and zoogeography of the Indian Ocean.

A native of Fayetteville, he received the B. S. and M. A. degrees from East Carolina University. He is married to the former Joyce Dildy of Farmville. They make their home in Farmville.

Excavating Treasures

VIENNA (AP) — Archaeologists here are currently replacing the workmen digging Vienna's first subway tunnel because of the many fascinating relics that have been found in the excavation, which is to pass under the Karntnerstrasse, Vienna's most elegant shopping street, and near St. Stephen's Cathedral.

Among the discoveries are the remains of a chapel dedicated to Marie Magdalena, that once stood in the cemetery that formerly surrounded St. Stephen's. Also unearthed were parts of a 13th-century Romanesque crypt and remnants of a Gothic vault. The latest find was a tombstone from the Roman period, when Vienna was called Vindobona, and was only a fortified camp for the Roman legions.

Some of the historic treasures will be installed in Vienna's museums.

Brazil Industry Rapidly Growing

RIO DE JANEIRO (UPI) — Brazilian manufacturing industries are rapidly increasing their production and sales, the Ministry of Industry and Commerce reports.

The ministry said that in the first third of 1973, sales of phonographs increased 107 per cent, sales of motor vehicles 23 per cent, air conditioners 46 per cent and transistor radios 69 per cent, compared with the corresponding period of 1972.

Opening lead: Ace of ♠
By forcing declarer to overruff with a high trump, the defenders will often succeed in promoting an extra winner for themselves in the trump suit. The best way to counteract this attack is to find an alternate play to overruffing.

After South opened the bidding with one no trump, North used the two club response to check on his partner's major suits. When this revealed a 5-4 fit in the heart suit, North had sufficient values to contract for game.

West developed a promising attack when he selected the ace of spades as his opening salvo. East encouraged with the ten, and West continued the suit to his partner's king. A third spade was played, and West ruffed with the nine.

Declarer's first instinct was to overruff. However, sober reflection showed that this play was unlikely to gain. There was no way to avoid losing a club trick on the hand, so to make his game declarer had to bring in the trump suit without loss. Therefore, East would have to hold the king of hearts, which could be picked up with a finesse.

A careful study of the trump spots showed that, unless the suit originally divided 2-2, declarer would have to lose a heart trick if he overruffed. East would cover the queen of hearts when led and, though declarer could take the ace and cash the ten, the eight would be promoted to a winner. Nor would it help to lead a low heart from dummy, for the seven would force the ten and the king-eight would have to score a trick.

Declarer's reply was simple but effective. Instead of overruffing, he discarded dummy's low club—a trick he would have had to lose in any event. The defenders had no counter. Declarer could get to dummy to take the trump finesse, and after drawing all three of East's trumps he could ruff his club loser at his leisure.

THIS CITY IS WHERE I LIVE, PETER... AND FROM UP HERE YOU CAN APPRECIATE HOW BIG IT IS--HOW INDESCRIBABLY DIRTY IT IS!

TAKE A LOOK THROUGH THIS TELESCOPE--I'VE GOT IT FOCUSED ON A PARTICULAR SPOT...

WELL... WHAT DO YOU SEE?

TREES... A LAKE... I THINK--NOT SURE, BUT I THINK I SEE SOME ANIMALS!!

Plan A New Restaurant

Your House Restaurant, featuring a fast-food menu, is scheduled to open here on South Memorial Drive in approximately three to four weeks, according to James Moore, secretary-treasurer of Your House Inc., Greensboro. Moore said that the new restaurant will have seating accommodations for 31 persons and will operate on a 24-hour schedule.

The official reported that Your House will offer a menu that includes four different kinds of steaks as well as sandwiches and other general menu items. Eggs, waffles, and homemade pie will also be served, he said.

Walter Whitehurst of Greenville will serve as vice president and general manager of the new facility, Moore pointed out, and restaurant employees will be hired from the Greenville area.

The Greensboro-based chain currently operates ten Your House Restaurants in North Carolina.

Alcohol Oldest Drug Abused

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — About 4.5 million Americans currently employed in business, industry and government have problems with alcohol, Arthur D. Little, Inc., reports. The resulting cost in absenteeism, sick pay, high accident rates, low productivity and poor executive decisions is an estimated $8 billion annually, or $32 million each working day.

PUBLIC NOTICES

NOTICE OF RESALE

WHEREAS, the undersigned Trustee in that certain deed of trust, executed by P. Davison and wife, Della P. Davison, and assumed by Willis J. Stancill and wife, Dorothy H. Stancill, to Dink James, Trustee for First Federal Savings and Loan Association of Greenville, Greenville, North Carolina, dated October 20, 1967, of record in Book H-37, at page 48, of the Pitt County Registry, foreclosed and offered for sale the land hereinafter described; and

WHEREAS, within the time allowed by law an advanced bid was filed with the Clerk of the Superior Court and an Order issued directing the Trustee to resell said land upon an opening bid of NINE THOUSAND THREE HUNDRED FORTY-TWO AND 50/100 Dollars, $9,342.50.

NOW, THEREFORE, under and by virtue of said Order of Resale signed by Sandra Gaskins, Assistant Clerk of Superior Court of Pitt County, and the power of sale contained in said Deed of Trust, the undersigned Trustee will offer for sale upon said opening bid at public auction to the highest bidder for cash at the Courthouse door in Greenville, North Carolina, on Friday, September 14, 1973, 12:00 o'clock noon all the following described lot or parcel of real estate located in the City of Greenville, Pitt County, North Carolina, and more particularly described as follows:

On the East side of Rotary Avenue and on the South side of First Street and BEGINNING at the Southeast corner of the intersection of First Street and Rotary Avenue; and runs thence in a Southerly direction with the Eastern boundary of Rotary Avenue 57 feet to the dividing line between Lots No. 11 and 12 in Block "F" of Highland Pines Subdivision; thence in an Easterly direction with the dividing line between said Lots No. 11 and 12 in said Block 109.5 feet to the Western boundary line of Lots No. 20 in said Block and Subdivision; thence in a Northerly direction with the Western boundary line of said Lot No. 20 in said Block 48.8 feet to the Southern boundary line of First Street; thence in a Westerly direction with the Southern boundary line of First Street 109.2 feet to the BEGINNING. The same being Lot No. 12 in Block "F" of the Highland Pines Subdivision as shown on the map of the same duly registered in Map Book 2, at page 216, of the Office of the Register of Deeds of Pitt County, to which reference is hereby directed for more accurate description, and further being conveyed to Addie Johnston in said land subdivision. This being the same property conveyed to R.M. Garrett by deed from M. Addie Johnston, dated January 2, 1939, and recorded in Book V-22, at page 29, of the Pitt County Registry.

This property will be sold subject to outstanding taxes and assessments. Highest bidder required to deposit ten (10) per cent of bid. Sale remains open ten (10) full days for confirmation.

This the 29th day of August, 1973.
