Pitt Republicans Divided At Biennial Convention

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

A disagreement at last night's Biennial County Republican Convention here over the validity of delegates chosen on the precinct level resulted in a group walking out of the session and conducting their own meeting.

A source for the group said that the validity of delegates who were selected during recent precinct meetings was challenged on the grounds that sufficient prior notices of the precinct sessions were not given and therefore the meetings were not properly or officially held.

The source said that the group called for an open convention whereby all Republicans in attendance could vote but following a ruling by the county GOP credentials committee that held that the delegates were chosen properly, the group left the convention floor.

Dixie E. "Dick" Greene, Pitt County GOP chairman, reported that his request at the outset of the convention for voting delegates to be seated on one side of the District courtroom in their respective precinct voting areas and nonvoting delegates to sit on opposite side was challenged.

Greene contended that all of the necessary notifications in regard to precinct meetings took place as prescribed by the plan of organization of the State GOP Party.

The plan, under Article II, stipulates that "the county chairman shall call precinct meetings within the dates designated by the State Central Committee, after giving ten days' written notice of the time and place of holding same to each precinct chairman, and after giving one week's notice of such meetings in a newspaper of general circulation with the county."

The chairman noted that "in specific clarification of the points, copies of notices of the respective precinct meetings and county convention... were provided."

He pointed out that the credentials committee ruled that the convention would abide by the procedures outlined in the plan of organization.

"To rule that we would have an open convention would have been meant throwing out all the work that was done to organize the precinct meetings," Greene pointed out. He explained that the Pitt County GOP Executive Committee had already determined that the plan of organization guidelines would be followed.

The dissenting source group contended that notices sent prior to the precinct meetings only specified that the meetings would be held at the homes of the precinct chairmen and did not stipulate actual locations.

As a result of the walkout last night, two separate slates of delegates and alternates were selected for the district and state conventions. In addition, two slates of GOP county officers were named. Procedure calls for 44 delegates and 44 alternates to be selected.

The district credentials committee, appointed by the District Republican chairman, would rule on the validity of the delegates chosen last night. The date of the District Convention has not been set.

Officers elected at the scheduled convention included Greene as chairman; Nelson Crisp, vice chairman, Sam Sewall, treasurer; and Barbara Ellis, secretary.

The dissenting group, which met outside the courtroom, elected Jack Wallace as chairman, Sarah West as vice chairman, Connally Branch, secretary, and Barry Shank, treasurer.

The source for the group said that approximately 80 persons left the convention but a member of the county executive committee said this morning that the group numbered approximately 40 persons.

Herb Lee, a member of the executive committee, defended the position of the convention last night, stating that the "Pitt County Executive Committee agreed that delegates should be chosen by precincts. In the past, with the precincts not properly organized, anyone who attended the county convention could vote."

He explained that it is "just a matter of deciding whether the plan of organization would be followed." Lee said that various precinct chairmen "even got on the phone and called members in their precincts to make sure they knew of the meetings."

During the session, Greene read a telegram from Gov. Jim Holshouser saying, "Today, I am in Europe seeking expanded trade and industrial opportunities for our state. But I want you to know that my thoughts are with you as you gather for your county convention..."

The governor added, "Let me congratulate each of you for

Big Expansion For Texasgulf Facility

The Phosphate Operation of the Agricultural Division of Texasgulf, located on the Pamlico River near Aurora, will be making a $43 million expansion in its facilities.

Senior vice president H.V.W. Donohoo, of the head office in Raleigh, announced Wednesday that an expansion program totaling $46 million would begin immediately, with completion date scheduled by late 1975.

Wilton Smith, public relations supervisor at the plant near Aurora, confirmed that $43 million was earmarked for the plant there, with the remaining $3 million designated for expansion of shipping facilities at Morehead City.

"This is in addition to the $23 million expansion program now under construction and due to be completed in late December," Smith said. Smith revealed the $43 million would be centered at the present site. "The original facility was set up so that it could be doubled," he said. "This expansion amounts basically to doubling most parts of the plant here."

Smith added that the program announced Wednesday would result in "expanding our super-phosphoric plant and our mining facilities."

"We are going ahead right away to place orders for critical items of equipment, and when we choose a contractor we will turn these orders over to him."

The new additions at Aurora will include a fourth segment of sulphuric and phosphoric acid plants.

Donohoo revealed the planned new additions will bring Texasgulf's total investment in North Carolina to more than $175 million, making the complex one of the largest phosphate operations in the United States.

Also, the expansions are expected by 1976 to result in an annual domestic and export shipment that will total about two million tons, to include some 1,320,000 tons of dry fertilizer and about 680,000 tons of phosphoric acids used in the manufacture of fertilizer.

The expansion will mean the addition of about 200 employees to the 700 people currently employed at the Beaufort County plant. It will also mean approximately $1.5 million added to Texasgulf's payroll in Beaufort County.

Donohoo said that initially, overseas shipments will be made to South American countries and later to the Far East and Europe.

On Radio Island near Morehead City a sulphur terminal is being constructed. This will accommodate sulphur shipments from Texasgulf mines in Texas, Louisiana and Mexico, which have a total input of more than 600,000 tons of sulphur annually.

"The unique quality of North Carolina phosphate ore, combined with the Texasgulf processing techniques," Donohoo said, "produces some of the highest quality fertilizer materials produced in the industry."

Recently, Texasgulf's data processing department for the U.S. operations, including an IBM 307 computer and data processing personnel, moved its office from New York to Raleigh.

The executive office of the Texasgulf agriculture division is located in Crabtree Executive Park in Raleigh.

General Becomes Chile's President

By ROBERT D. OHMAN
Associated Press Writer

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Gen. Augusto Pinochet Marmabio, a 55-year-old artillery officer, today became the president of Chile's four-man military junta while troops skirmished in the streets with armed supporters of the nation's dead Marxist president.

At a midnight ceremony Pinochet, a powerfully built 6-footer, signed the act of installation for a 10-man Cabinet composed of seven generals, two colonels and an admiral.

Pinochet also is commander in chief of the army, named to the job by Salvador Allende just two weeks before Allende's Marxist government was deposed in a violent coup. The junta says the 65-year-old Allende committed suicide Tuesday afternoon as troops closed in on the presidential palace.

Newsmen downtown, unable to leave their offices and hotels because of an around-the-clock curfew, reported hearing 20 to 30 sustained gunfights during the night and this morning.

The curfew was to have been lifted at 7 a.m. Numerous professional organizations which had endorsed the coup had announced plans of their members to return to work. But apparently because of the armed resistance, the military ordered all civilians to remain off the streets. The announcement said only military vehicles could circulate. This city of three million seemed deserted. Stores and offices also have been closed since the coup began Tuesday morning.

A round-the-clock curfew kept civilians off the street Wednesday as Allende was buried with only his family attending. The junta said the 65-year-old president, the Western Hemisphere's first freely elected Marxist chief of state, shot himself rather than surrender.

Many persons were stranded in office buildings or hotels by the curfew.

As snipers exchanged fire with military patrols in the streets, explosions were heard in industrial areas of Santiago. Gunfights were reported between soldiers and armed workers occupying their factories in protest against the end of Allende's 35-month attempt to turn Chile into a socialist state.

There were reports that 600 leftists surrendered after a gunfight with troops at Santiago's technical university.

Communications were erratic and conditions elsewhere in the nation could not be assessed. A broadcast by the junta declared that normalcy was returning for the 10 million Chileans.

The government radio said the junta — made up of the commanders of the army, navy, air force and police — formally installed themselves at a ceremony at the Bernardo O'Higgins Military School and swore in a 10-man cabinet made up of seven generals, an admiral and two colonels. The foreign minister is Adm. Ismael Huerta Diaz.

There were rumors that Gabriel Valdes, a former foreign minister and now an official of the United Nations, would be named president. Valdes left New York for Chile Tuesday night after the coup but told newsmen in Lima he would not accept the presidency — "I'm happy with what I'm doing now."

The four junta members appeared on television and announced that congress will be in recess indefinitely and that the new government will break diplomatic relations with Communist Cuba. Allende's government was the first South American regime to resume relations with Cuba after isolation of the Castro regime by the Organization of American States in the 1960s.

Grand Jury Sealed Off Under Tight Security

By LEE LINDEK
Associated Press Writer

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — The special grand jury probing alleged political corruption in Maryland resumed work today under conditions of unprecedented secrecy.

Federal court house corridors leading to the grand jury room were sealed off by U.S. marshals with walkie-talkies who refused to allow newsmen within sight of the grand jury room or a nearby elevator.

"No public trials and no public hearings are in this area and it is closed to the public on the orders of the United States attorney," one assistant marshal told a newsmen.

The grand jury is investigating allegations of kickbacks and conspiracy which may involve Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

U.S. Atty. George Beall refused to comment earlier in the day on the grand jury's plans for today, but courthouse sources indicated one or more indictments, probably of other local officials, might be forthcoming.

Asked why the strict secrecy provisions, never before undertaken during this investigation, Beall replied:

"By tradition and statute, grand jury proceedings are secret. Certain steps have been taken to preserve that privacy. Even witnesses going before the grand jury are part of the privacy and we intend to have it."

Within the area cordoned off by the marshals was an elevator by which witnesses appearing before the grand jury could come and go out of sight of reporters.

The source for the group said that approximately 80 persons left the convention but a member of the county executive committee said this morning that the group numbered approximately 40 persons.

Committee Urges Increased GI Education Bill

By WILLIAM DICKE
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Asserting that Vietnam-era veterans are worse off than their fathers, an independent committee urged today that GI Bill educational benefits be increased substantially.

A gap between post-World War II and current benefits "serves to reinforce the belief of today's veteran that he fought an unpopular war and must deal with public apathy about his future," said the Special Veterans' Opportunity Committee said.

The committee, chaired by Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., was formed by the National League of Cities and the U. S. Conference of Mayors. Its 39-page report was based on an eight-month study of veterans' problems, including public hearings at Newark, N. J.,

Cleveland and Seattle.

The committee found that "Many veterans simply cannot afford to use the G. I. Bill."

It also concluded that: —Public reaction to the Vietnam war has been a severe obstacle for GIs trying to adjust to civilian life. —Those who need help most are not getting it from the G. I. Bill.

—World War II veterans had more benefits and greater public acceptance.

The committee recommended that the federal government add to the basic payment of $220 a month for single veterans a voucher to pay 80 percent of his tuition and fees.

The committee did not estimate the cost of its proposals but noted that the G. I. Bill will cost $2.5 billion this year.

State President Visits Patient Circle Tuesday

Mrs. J.R. Holden of Greensboro was the keynote speaker at the Tuesday night meeting of The Patient Circle of the King's Daughters and Sons.

President of The North Carolina Branch, Mrs. Holden spoke on "Humanity In Our Hearts." She related the many changes in one's way of living and the deep concern for all people.

She announced and urged the members to attend the convention of The N.C. Branch to be held in Greensboro Oct. 26-27. Mrs. C.L. Conerly Jr. of Jackson, Miss., president of the International Order, will be the convention speaker.

One of the highlights of the meeting was the presentation of life membership in The International Order to Mrs. Clara Moye Shackell for her outstanding work in The Patient Circle. Mrs. Polly Dail, local president, made the presentation and gave a life membership pin to Mrs. Shackell.

Miss Lucie Shine of Rocky Mount, chaplain of the N.C. Branch, gave the devotional on "The Thrill of Discovery."

During the business session, Mrs. Dail heard the following reports: Miss Mary Wells, chairman of the Indian Department, told of the work of the department in the state and a contribution toward the work was given.

Mrs. J.B. Cutchins, Around the World Department chairman, reported on the work being done by Mrs. Lillian Dickson in Formosa, which is also sup-

Mother Of 17 Says Planning Is Key For Smooth Operation

By JUDITH CAPAR SPARTA, Wis. (UPI) — At 44, Annetta Benzing says she is like any other wife and mother who works to supplement the family income.

What she neglects to mention is that unlike most working mothers, she has 17 children.

With 11 boys, enough to field a football team, plus a half dozen girls ranging from age 7 to 23, Mrs. Benzing would seem to have little time for another job.

But, with the ease of someone who's told her family story hundreds of times before—and probably has—Mrs. Benzing laughs off any notion she has a harder time managing her home and job than other mothers.

"The average days are busy here," she said, "but of course the children do a lot for me so it's not difficult."

The Benzings, Annetta and Francis, 54, own a 320-acre dairy farm in western Wisconsin, and Mrs. Benzing works as a Tupperware manager.

"I work a full week—40 hours—sometimes more. I'm involved in a unit of dealers and I put on a full schedule of parties each week, usually four to five," she said. "But the type of work I'm doing lets me pretty much set my own schedule."

That freedom is a must for her, Mrs. Benzing said, and it has worked out to her satisfaction and the family's benefit. The former beautician has held several jobs during her marriage, but none has paid off as well as the position with the direct sales outfit.

Planning's the key. The key to the smooth operation of the family is planning. All the children have chores to do—the boys outside on the farm with their father and the girls in the home or garden.

Mrs. Benzing feels farm life is ideal for a family so large. "If you're going to have so many children, the farm is perfect," she said. "They have room to move around and play. It's exciting for them because there are so many things they can learn. It also keeps them busy during the summer."

The farm also helps keep the family food bill down.

Mrs. Benzing says she hasn't really noticed food price increases. She does shopping only once a month, but having their own dairy products and beef is an advantage.

"The only advice I can give other housewives on budgeting food money is to buy in quantities and watch and price. You also have to consider that you want to give the family what they like," she said.

Only 11 children live at home now. Some of the boys are working or in the service and one daughter has graduated from college. Although Mrs. Benzing says it's sometimes sad there aren't as many table settings as there used to be, she brightens when she notes how much they love to return home.

The lesson the Benzings have tried to instill in their children is selflessness. "Our family has to share—school clothes, toys, things like giving each other help with schoolwork," she said.

The family tries to spend as much time together as possible, even though it sometimes means having to vacation in shifts and leave some of the children at home.

"I don't know if I would have so many again—from hindsight it's different," she said. "But I know I wouldn't give any of them up. We're happy and healthy and we have been able to provide."

Pained Mother Needs A Painless Dentist

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am absolutely terrified of going to a dentist. I know I need some work done, but I can't get up the nerve to go. The only times I've ever gone to a dentist were when the pain got so bad I couldn't stand it any more.

I have made and broken so many appointments I am ashamed to make another one, but Abby, I've got to get my teeth taken care of.

I heard that it's possible to put a patient to sleep before doing any work on him. Could you please find out if there is a dentist near me who does this? I live in Beaver Dam, Wis., but I'd drive 100 miles if I could find a dentist who wouldn't hurt me.

Please, don't tell me to "grow up." I am a married woman with two small children who I'd have to take to the dentist with me, and I'm so afraid my fear will show, and rub off on them, too. Help me.

TERRIFIED IN WISCONSIN

DEAR TERRIFIED: I consulted an excellent Minneapolis dentist, Dr. William B. Nienaber, who suggests that you contact your State Dental Society in Madison. Ask them to recommend one or more dentists who use the "relative analgesia" method of sedating fearful patients with nitrous oxide and oxygen to reduce their fears.

You are to be commended for your concern about passing on your fears to your children. Not all parents are so wise and thoughtful.

DEAR ABBY: Several of us have been having an argument which we hope you can settle. Which musical instrument most closely resembles the human voice?

Some say the wind instruments. I say the strings. Will you please ask some of your experts? Thanks.

STILL ARGUING

DEAR STILL: If anyone is an authority on music and sound, it's the one and only Herb Alpert. He says, "The cello—in the hands of the right artist."

Another music master, Lawrence Welk, says, "For the female human voice, it's the violin. For the male, the cello."

Ernest Fleischmann, executive director of the Philharmonic, Hollywood Bowl: "The string instruments, of course."

The lone dissenter, Doc Severinsen, replied, "There can be only one answer. The trumpet!"

It looks like the strings have it.

One Stays In, One Gets Out

LONDON, England (WNS) — Christine Scott, 22, was eligible for parole, but three judges ruled that she must stay in jail until she completes her home management course. Lord Justice Orr said she might be a better mother after she finishes her studies. On the other hand, Brian Gibson Forbes, who has spent 15 years in prison and was due to start another four-year term for breaking out last year, has been freed and put on probation for three years. His fiancée, who met him last October during his escape, convinced the court that their love for each other will redeem Brian from his life of crime.

Girl Awarded For Morality

COMPIEGNE, France (WNS) — Muguet Noel, 23, has been crowned "Rosiere of 1973" in a contest designed to help bring back good morals, fine conduct and gentility. French dictionaries define "rosiere" as "a virtuous young lady who is awarded a recompense most solemnly in some localities. The prize generally consist of a crown of roses." City fathers decided that roses are not enough these days: they also awarded Mile. Noel $40 in French francs. Muguette confided that she has never smoked, drunk alcohol or gone to a dance. "But I dream, and mostly I dream of travelling," she said, then announced that she will spend her $40 on a trip to Paris.

No Joy Felt Over Chile's Coup

Much as we dislike the communism which Chile's President Salvador Allende stood for, we cannot be too happy over the military coup which toppled his government.

Allende was elected in a Democratic election, even though by a minority of the vote, and until the end, he had shown no major inclination to abolish democratic principles, as so often happens in countries which the communist take over.

Athletes' Care Gets Attention

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Two men in charge of the nation's only program designed to reduce death and injuries in high school football and other athletic activities have been asked to speak before the American Medical Association.

Al Proctor, director of Sports Medicine in the N. C. Department of Public Instruction, and his associate, Phil Callicutt, will travel to the national meeting in Anaheim, Calif., in December.

And after less than a year in operation, the message they carry to the physicians will be that there is something which can be done to reduce the possibilities of injury or death in high school athletics.

Physicians are a key part of the program in North Carolina, Proctor said. There are currently more than 130 doctors across the state participating in clinics, working with team coaches and trainers, making themselves available to help in case of emergencies. The state Medical Society has endorsed the program and voted to request that all local medical societies appoint local physicians to committees to back up the program.

Shelby Native
Proctor, a Shelby native and Wake Forest graduate, moved to the state slot after a number of years as trainer for the N. C. State University Wolfpack. Callicutt is a native of Greensboro and has seen duty as professional trainer for the St. Louis Cardinals football team, Florida State University and West Virginia University.

Both believe that injuries and fatalities can be reduced in all high school athletics, physical education programs or intramural sports—and especially the rugged football program—through a combination of physical conditioning, use of proper equipment and availability of trained personnel to respond in case of trouble.

"The object is to prevent these things from occurring if we possibly can... or if they do occur to have someone on the scene who would know something about providing emergency treatment," Proctor said.

The big push right now is for every school to have a fulltime teacher-trainer for athletics; a person not a coach involved in the particular sport underway at the time so they can devote their time to training, not game fundamentals.

Proctor said there are a dozen now functioning in various schools, and Proctor has lined up professional trainers at some 17 public or private colleges across the state to teach clinics for the high school trainers.

He would have eventually had to face election again. It is likely that he had lost enough support so that the voters would have thrown him out when that time came.

It is possible, of course, that Allende might have crushed his political opposition if he had gained the strength necessary to do so. That is the usual course in nation's which the communist take over. Nevertheless we would have liked to have seen his communist regime gotten out through democratic methods, if at all possible.

Military takeovers almost always lead to repression of civil liberties, no matter whether their participants come from the far right or the far left, and we suspect there will be repression in Cuba following this takeover.

We hope the military leaders who brought about this coup will be enlightened enough to restore liberties as soon as possible. Likewise we hope they can bring about whatever reforms are needed to make a free enterprise system breed enough to benefit all the people of the nation, for we believe democracy flourishes best in a nation with a strong and free economy.

Wilson In The Race To Stay

By JOHN KILGO
MONROE—Henry Hall Wilson says people no longer expect him to pull out of the race for the U. S. Senate if incumbent Sam Ervin decides to seek re-election.

"When I announced the last of May," Wilson said, "some people thought I wouldn't stay in the race. That question is now out of the way. Just as I said, I'm in the race to stay."

I interviewed Wilson in a gorgeous, tree-shaded estate, a high-ceilinged house that his uncle built in 1924. A tall, graying man, the blue-eyed Wilson was relaxed and outwardly confident.

He doesn't like to about Sen. Ervin, saying: "It's hard to get into any discussion of issues with someone who hasn't said he's going to run. That goes for Sen. Ervin Attorney General Robert Morgan."

Wilson showed up in Morganton last Saturday for the Sam Ervin Appreciation Day. Did the two men have a conversation?

"I shook his hand in the reception line," Wilson said, "and told him I was there because I appreciate Sam Ervin. I think he appreciated my being there."

Wilson says of Ervin: "I'm assuming he's going to run again."

Wilson says the reaction in North Carolina to Sen Ervin Watergate role "is a mixed bag." Some people like what he's doing, while others don't.

While Wilson doesn't like to talk about Sen. Ervin, he feels he can campaign against the Senator on the record he has compiled in Washington. Wilson talks of such things as a waste in military and North Carolina not getting its share of federal funds.

"We're 12th largest state," Wilson says, "but we're 38th in overall federal funds and last in the amount of federal funds we get back for highways. I'm against higher taxes and increased federal spending. But I'm for North Carolina getting the fair share of the pie. The blame for us not getting it now has to be placed on the people representing us in Washington"

Wilson was away from North Carolina from 1961 until 1973. He served in the administrations of John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson until 1967, and then (Continued On Page 5)

Public Forum

Letters submitted for public forum must be limited to 300 words

To the editor:

What kind of state do we wish to build for the future? What kind of example do we wish to set? How can we cut down the number of deaths on our highways?

These are just a few of the questions each voter needs to think about as he makes his decision concerning the liquor-by-the-drink referendum on Nov. 6.

This is not to criticize those who drink alcohol. We need to help those who have an alcoholic problem. We do need, however, to try and stop the spread and use of alcoholic beverages.

Liquor-by-the-drink will give liquor more respectability. It will put more money in the hands of a few.

On Nov. 6, right here in Eastern North Carolina, we can set the right example for the state, the nation.

Let's defeat this issue on Nov. 6.

Strength For Today

FOR THE NAME'S SAKE
In the Department of Domremy in France, taxes until recently were remitted because of the service which Joan of Arc performed centuries ago in behalf of the nation. Across the tax records were written the words, "Free for the Maid's sake."

"Do it for me." This is the most powerful appeal that friend can make to friend, parent to child, husband and wife to each other. When we do something not just because it needs to be done or even because it ought to be done but because someone we love asks us to do it, the appeal takes on new significance. France gladly remitted taxes to the people living in Domremy because the Maid of Orleans had dwelt there centuries before.

The most potent appeal we can make to God is to ask for something in the name of Christ. We may plead that it is something which by every consideration of duty and sound judgment should be done, but it is much more important to remember that our Lord commanded us to pray in his name.

HE CAN'T PLAY THE GAME BY HIMSELF

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

Soundly Reasoned Veto

President Nixon vetoed the minimum wage bill on September 6, and since the the welkin, as they say, has been ringing. He has been denounced at least 22 times a day, chiefly by liberal Democrats whose odd notion of how best to care for the poor is to herd them into housing projects and to keep them on welfare forever.

The President's veto, in my own view, was soundly reasoned. It ought to be sustained.

The pending bill would raise the federal minimum wage for most non-farm workers, which has been fixed at $1.60 an hour since 1968, to $2 on November 1 and to $2.25 next July. The bill would extend coverage to domestic workers and to certain employees of state and local governments.

Thousands of workers in small retail and service establishments also would be affected.

Nixon's position is that these several provisions, on balance, "would do far more harm than good." He is not opposed to a substantial increase: The administration's own bill would raise the minimum wage to $1.90 at once and to $2.30 three years hence. But he argues convincingly that the adverse effects of an increase can be minimized by a more gradual and less sweeping approach.

The purpose of any increase in the minimum wage is to benefit the low-wage worker. Such a prospective benefit would prove illusory, if it were swallowed up in higher prices; or it could prove disastrous, if it resulted in the loss of a job.

Manifestly, the pending bill would be some contribution toward higher prices. The employer who is compelled to meet a 37.5 percent increase for his minimum-wage workers over an eight-month period, and is further compelled to adjust other wages in order to maintain differentials, is bound to feel the impact in his labor costs. Yet proponents of the bill probably are correct in saying that the inflationary effect of the increases would be small. The best estimate is that the bill would add $1.7 billion next year, or only 0.4 percent, to total wages paid.

The more significant inquiry goes to the prospective effect of this bill in human terms: What about the marginal man or woman who "benefits" by being fired? This is not the sort of benefit that has great appeal. Yet Nixon is quite right in warning the well-intentioned sponsors of this legislation that this likely will be the consequence of their benevolence.

Consider the domestic household workers. The bill would fix their minimum at $1.80 an hour in November, $2 next July and $2.20 in July of 1975. An estimated 671,000 domestics now are paid less than $1.80 and 700,000 are paid less than $2. They are not mere tabulated figures in a statistical report; they are real live human beings, and it is idle oratory to complain that they are being "exploited" or that they are being paid "starvation wages". They are performing honest work at the very edges of the labor market and they earn something, at least, in self-respect.

Is it better for a domestic to earn, say $12 a day at $1.50 an hour, or to earn zero dollars a day—because there is no job—at $2 an hour? To the 16-year-old cutting grass, or to the elderly black maid in a small southern town, the question has fateful meaning. Such marginal workers have more to fear from their benefactors than from their oppressors.

The President also objects, on sound grounds, that it is (Continued On Page 5)

Labor Costs 'Relatively Low'

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The costs of materials and capital rose in 1972 as inflation persisted, so it isn't surprising to find that the cost of labor as a proportion of total industrial sales rose also.

As in any boom, outdated facilities were reactivated, the labor force worked overtime and new workers with inferior skills were pressed into duty. As a result, human and machine efficiency was sometimes strained.

A report just completed by Standard & Poor's, investment adviser and publishers, shows that wages, salaries and fringe benefits consumed 26.4 cents of every dollar of sales in 1972, and forecasts an increase for this year.

But, in reviewing the figures it becomes clear that the labor percentage of costs was relatively low. It was higher than the 1971 figure of 25.9 cents, but that figure was the lowest at since at least 1957.

The study shows that in every year since 1964 direct labor costs accounted for at least 27 cents of each industrial sales dollar, which means the increases now occurring might return the ratio only to the 1960-1970 average.

Some of the labor costs for individual groups also were revealing. Salaries and wages as a percentage of sales amounted to 18.2 cents in the food products category, down from 18.9 in 1971 and 18.3 in 1970.

Labor costs in meats and dairy products totaled 14.7 cents, matched against 15.3 in 1971, less than 14 cents in 1970 and 14.6 cents in 1969. Oil labor costs were 11.4 cents, compared with 11.8 in 1971 and 12.4 cents in 1970.

Official government figures show that output per manhour dropped 0.8 per cent in the second quarter after a 5 per cent increase in the first three months. Direct labor costs this year, therefore, are bound to be higher.

Another study, this one by the First National City Bank, contains information that will shock many Americans. It shows that for the year 1973

Common sense is the virtue you value most highly because you see it so seldom in people.

The sign-up for the reduction of tobacco acreage for the coming year is 99 percent completed today, according to Farm Agent Arnold Wires, head of the Agricultural Adjustment Corporation Progress Campaign here.

The movement is designed to help raise tobacco prices next year.

Winterville went over the 100 percent mark in its sign-up effort today.

The Pitt County Health Department today issued a warning against the spread of scarlet fever and diphtheria.

Records show that the diseases have shown a tendency to spread at this season of the year, and Dr. R.S. McGeachy, director of the department, calls on the public to observe the quarantine law and cooperate with public health workers to hold the disease to a minimum.

A check of records shows that twice as many cases of diphtheria and scarlet fever occur between Sept. 1 and Dec. 31 than during the remainder of the year.

The Pitt County Post of the American Legion will hold a boxing match Friday at the High School Gymnasium.

Golda Vows To Push War On Terrorists

NEW YORK (AP) — Prime Minister Golda Meir of Israel says her country will continue to intercept and force down foreign passenger planes if such action is deemed necessary to combat Arab terrorism.

Mrs. Meir said Wednesday that a United Nations Security Council resolution condemning Israel for intercepting an Iraqi airliner over Lebanon Aug. 10 was actually "encouraging terrorism."

The United States voted in favor of the Security Council resolution Aug. 15.

Asked whether Israel would continue such moves, Mrs. Meir replied: "There is no doubt."

During an NBC television interview, the Israeli prime minister minimized reports that an energy crisis might force the United States to modify its support of Israel in order to assure supplies of oil from Arab nations.

"I cannot believe that the United States government, nor the United States people, would sell out Israel for oil," she said.

Also on Wednesday Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., called for an international treaty pledging nations to take collective action against terrorism.

"You'd be amazed at the commitments I've got," Wilson said. "A lot of conservative businessmen will be me, because they know I understand their problems. Some people gave Wilson the 'Carpetbagger' label for coming back to North Carolina after a 12-year absence to run for he U.S. Senate.

Wilson says the charge lacks validity. His family first settled in Union County in 1750. He still owns much land there, and took this reporter on a tour that included the homes of his parents, uncles and other kin. He also grew up in blocks of two other political figures—Skipper Bowles and Sen. Jesse Helms.

"The three of us played in the same high school band," Wilson says.

Wilson says women and young people are prominent keys in the electoral process today. And he says the average voter is much more intelligent than he used to be.

Wilson is now making talks across the state, making himself available to the press, and has rented campaign office space in downtown Monroe.

Soon he will start mass mailings, will open a Raleigh office, and will name campaign chairmen in every county.

The fight to capture the Democratic nomination for the Senate will be uphill, but Wilson says: "If I didn't think I could win, I wouldn't be in this thing."

Allocation Program Set

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The federal government will impose a nationwide allocation program for propane gas Friday and is considering the same controls on all petroleum products, an Indiana official says.

Robert C. Morris, executive director of the Indiana Department of Commerce, said he attended hearings in Washington last week on the propane allocation plan.

Morris said former Colorado Gov. John Love, President Nixon's energy director, told him at the time the propane allocation would be announced Sept. 14.

Morris said it will be implemented by the U.S. Interior Department's Office of Oil and Gas under authority of the Economic Stabilization Act.

Some states, including Indiana, have expressed concern that a propane shortage might hinder grain drying, especially if it's a wet fall.

Set Hearings In Mountain Area

RALEIGH (AP)—Public hearings on the proposed Mountain Area Management Act have been scheduled in four mountain counties by a joint legislative committee on water and air resources.

The hearings will be held Friday at the Watauga County courthouse in Boone; Monday at Western Piedmont College in Morganton; October 12 at the Buncombe County courthouse in Asheville; and Oct. 15 at the Macon County courthouse in Franklin.

GREENSBORO (AP)—Delegates to the 16th annual convention of the North Carolina AFL-CIO have more than 100 resolutions to vote on and one of them calls for expansion of the East Carolina University medical program.

One of today's speakers was Dr. Leo Jenkins, ECU chancellor who for years has been seeking a medical school for his university.

In the convention's opening day Wednesday, delegates were asked to support the inclusion of collision insurance in the state's compulsory vehicle insurance law.

North Carolina's insurance commissioner, John Ingram, urged in an address that "every citizen with a driving license and the money" ought to be able to buy collision insurance at "a fair rate."

Ingram said collision insurance should have been included under the reinsurance law that goes into effect in North Carolina on Oct. 9.

The new law is designed to put an end to cancellations of liability insurance, but makes no mention of collision insurance.

Another of the convention's opening day speakers was Wilbur Hobby of Durham, president of the labor organization who is a candidate for his third term and whose prospects for re-election improved with the withdrawal of James Hart of Mebane.

Jenkins told the convention it has been said time and again that every American has a basic right to shelter, to food, to clothing and to health care by a qualified physician.

"Significant strides have been taken to provide North Carolinians all of these but one—health care," he said.

"People oriented organizations such as the AFL-CIO have worked strenuously to improve our citizen's ability to gain adequate housing, decent food and desirable clothing."

"What has been done to insure that the people of this state can obtain medical care? You know the answer; you have heard it for ten years."

"We know we need more doctors."

"We know that even with expansion of the three Piedmont medical schools many qualified North Carolinians cannot find a place."

"We know that North Carolina has the money necessary to develop a four-year School of Medicine.

"Finally we know that a start has been made in that direction at East Carolina University after years of struggle."

Jenkins also proposed college level courses in labor affairs.

He said he and State AFL-CIO President Wilbur Hobby had recently discussed the need for introducing in the college curriculum more data and information on labor trends and contributions. He said he proposed to do something along that line at ECU at the earliest possible date.

Find Body In 1970 Killing

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP)—Police have exhumed a body believed to be the father a 27-year-old North Carolina woman said she murdered three years ago.

Carmella Meglino Robbins of Asheboro, N.C., was committed to a Philadelphia mental hospital for diagnosis last week after she told officials of the alleged 1970 slaying of her father, Frank Meglino.

Mrs. Robbins said she and Toni Parks of Philadelphia pumped four bullets into Meglino's head, dismembered the body and then transported it from Philadelphia to Florida.

She told police her father had sexually abused her when she was young.

Lee County Sheriff's deputies uncovered the body after Mrs. Parks' son pointed out the burial site in a vacant lot in nearby Lehigh Acres. Authorities said the unidentified youth accompanied Mrs. Robbins and Mrs. Parks to Florida, but was not implicated in the slaying.

Police said an autopsy recovered four .25 caliber slugs from the man's head, but positive identification would be determined through dental charts.

Pearson was born in a log cabin on Berry's Mountain in Wilkes County on Sept. 13, 1879.

His best known poem is "Fifty Acres," whose first stanza is:

You are not as afraid of death itself as you are afraid of dying.

The doctor and you share an unspoken secret — the knowledge that there is no real cure for what ails you: the simple erosion of time.

But you go right on taking a patent medicine the doctor didn't prescribe and doesn't know about.

When you see three male teen-agers approaching, you cross to the other side of the street. Better be safe than sorry.

Yep, old-timer, there's no doubt it — you're an old-timer.

unwise to extend federal wage controls to functions of state and local government not involved in federal aid. The number of such affected employees is small (only 74,000), but the principle is large. He also makes the realistic argument that the small retail and service establishments newly covered by the bill "are the very businesses least able to absorb sharp, sudden payroll increases." Such employers could meet the higher wage costs only by cutting back on jobs.

Most of the key proponents of the bill unceasingly proclaim themselves, in their political campaigns, as friends of the poor, the blacks, the young, and the working women of our society. It is a curious act of friendship, I submit, to hold out to these constituents the prospect of higher pay—but no work.

Continuing Grant For ECU Business School

The School of Business at East Carolina University announced that the real estate program has been strengthened through the aid of a continuing grant from the North Carolina Real Estate Educational Foundation, Inc. of Greensboro. Each year the Foundation contributes $5,000 to the ECU School of Business for support of real estate education. Through this continuing support, the School of Business is now able to add a full-time faculty member in the real estate area. Bruce N. Wardrep has been employed as an Assistant Professor of Real Estate in the Department of Business Administration. Prof. Wardrep is completing his doctoral dissertation at Georgia State University in Atlanta, majoring in real estate and urban affairs.

He has experience as a land development analyst in the Atlanta area and is an associate member of the American Institute of Planners. The real estate program at East Carolina University, the state's only such program in a four-year institution, in addition to the business core courses, currently consists of courses in three general areas of real estate. The undergraduate courses include the business law member in the real estate area. Bruce N. ## Glum In Sunshine

SEATTLE (AP) — Rainy, dreary weather is so much a part of the lives of residents here that when the sun does appear, people can't enjoy it, says a psychiatrist.

Nice weather in the Northwest makes people glum because they can usually predict correctly that it's going to get worse, according to Dr. S. Harvard Kaufman.

Kaufman says blue skies and balmy temperatures here activate a deep-seated sense of guilt in most residents.

"People carry around a lot of guilt," the Seattle psychiatrist said. "When they're happy, they wonder when the knife is going to fall. Some of them are even sick that way."

Kaufman says natives are taught from birth that it rains a lot and it's supposed to rain a lot for Seattle to have clear air and green yards.

Senate Okays OEO Director

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's nominee for director of the Office of Economic Opportunity was confirmed by the Senate Wednesday, although there remains a question over whether he will have anything to direct.

The Senate approved the selection of Alvin J. Arnett by a vote of 88 to 3.

However, the President has threatened to veto any further appropriations for the agency, and its current funds end Sept. 30.

Telethon Is On Saturday

The Democratic National Telethon will be broadcast over the NBC Network Saturday from 7 p.m. to 1 a.m. to raise funds for the State and National Democratic Party.

Explaining the purpose of the Telethon, Pitt County Telethon Chairman Sam Bundy said, "For the past several years, political campaigns have been bought and sold as if they were a commodity. Large contributions have become commonplace because too few Americans have been willing to shoulder the financial burden of political campaigns. The Democratic Telethon offers Americans the opportunity to safeguard the integrity of their government by assuming that financial burden."

In conjunction with the Telethon, there will be a Democratic Rally at Reynolds Coliseum during the same hours. It will offer entertainment and an auction sale.

Money is being raised locally through the efforts of the chairman of each of the 26 precincts in Pitt County, Bundy said.

Offer Course At PTI On Small Business Needs

The first series will be titled Financial Control and will include brief studies of business needs such as records-keeping, taxes, finance, insurance and bookkeeping. Local businessmen will serve as instructors.

It is hoped that these programs will develop into regularly scheduled seminars in which small businessmen may gather to openly discuss means of improving their business operations.

The first of six classes will meet Wednesday, October 3, at 7:00 p.m. in the Humber Building at Pitt Tech. Classes will meet each Wednesday from 7-10 p.m.

Persons who are interested in enrolling in these classes should contact Hugh Stanley at 756-3130, ext 38.

Telephone Voices Bring Cheer To 'Unattended'

By GREGORY A. GROSS Associated Press Writer BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Every day, three volunteers of Herrick Memorial Hospital's Tele-Care service use telephones to bring a friendly voice to unattended elderly persons in the San Francisco Bay area — and sometimes save their lives.

"We get very attached to them, although we ever see them," says Tel-Care chairman Barbara Boscovich.

Each day, a different trio of callers makes the rounds among the aged, whom they call Tele-Pets, exchanging friendly banter and making sure they're all right.

"It's amazing the number of people who don't receive calls at all," she says. "Ours might be the only call they receive in a week. 'The Tele-Pets build up a closeness with the lady who calls on Monday or the lady that calls on Tuesday. It forms a regular pattern in their lives.'"

If no one answers, an alternate — a relative, neighbor or building manager — is called and asked to check on the person.

"We have about 40 to 50 real emergencies a year — usually when someone falls," Mrs. Boscovich said.

She recalled one Tele-Pet in San Leandro who didn't answer her phone. The volunteer called the alternate, this time the police, who found the woman in a diabetic coma. She received life-saving treatment in time.

"If elderly people can't provide at least one alternate, we have to turn them away. It's the only way we have of checking on them," Mrs. Boscovich said.

The volunteers, about 30 mostly middle-aged housewives and retired women, make morning calls seven days a week. All are members of Herrick's Volunteer Guild, which started Tele-Care in 1970.

Heavy Demand For Dormitory Phones

Carolina Telephone and Telegraph was deluged with student requests for telephones when East Carolina University opened this month.

Local Manager Don Collier reported that on registration day, Sept. 5, and for the next two days, three locations were set up on campus to handle student applications for telephone service. Two to six service representatives were on hand and a total of 476 orders were taken. By Sept. 13, 1,232 orders had been taken for dormitory phones and 211 for off-campus phones. When these are added to existing student telephones, the totals are 1,265 dormitory and 681 off-campus phones.

Collier said that during the summer six dorms were wired and room jacks installed at an estimated cost of $59,525. The project provided 1,290 more rooms which became potentials for telephone service.

Collier said that the unprecedented demand for phones threw a heavy load on phone company employees. He said one extra crew of a supervisor and ten installers has been brought in and another crew will arrive Monday.

Some installations in the city and county have been taking eight to ten days, but Collier said he expects the normal three-day installation period will again be feasible within ten days.

Fuel Tank Safety Need Cited By Congressman

By PEGGY SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of a House committee overseeing automobile safety says the Department of Transportation is endangering thousands of motorists' lives by delaying standards for better fuel tanks.

Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., said the principal defect in fuel tanks, which makes cars a death trap in event of rear-end collisions, won't be corrected until late 1977 under the DOT timetable.

"Fires in traffic accidents account for between 2,000 and 3,500 deaths annually," Moss wrote DOT Secretary Claude Brinegar.

"Many of these, according to the Insurance Institute for Highway Safety, result from rear end collisions, when fuel tanks rupture, gasoline leaks and ignites, burning to death trapped occupants who otherwise could walk away from such mishaps," Moss said.

Moss noted that Congress gave the DOT power to correct the fuel tank situation in 1966. The department announced in 1967 it would issue effective corrective standards.

Moss held hearings on the rear-end collision risks last spring before his Commerce and Finance subcommittee, which has jurisdiction over motor vehicle safety. He reminded Brinegar twice this summer that the standards were long overdue.

In August, the department announced proposed standards and effective dates.

Helms Supports Aid To Dealers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., is cosponsor of a bill to give relief to small service station operators suffering from price ceilings.

It would allow them to pass on to motorists any price increases they are required to pay for the products they buy for resale. The pass-on would apply as long as the price-control program remains in effect.

"Retail gasoline and diesel dealers are caught in a tight squeeze as a result of increased prices allowed the oil companies," Helms said. "The dealer is held to ceilings based on his Aug. 1 plus Jan. 10 markup, or seven cents a gallon, whichever is higher."

Fire Ravages Nursing Home

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — A predawn fire ripped through a West Philadelphia nursing home today, leaving at least nine elderly patients dead and three seriously injured.

Fire Commissioner Joseph Rizzo blamed the death toll on a faulty alarm system at the Washington Hill Nursing Home. He said when firemen arrived on the scene within minutes after the first alarm was turned in, the interior of the three-story cement structure was engulfed in flames.

Most of the 52 patients were trapped in the upper two floors of the building, Rizzo said.

"The flames were really shooting out and prevented my men from going into the building," he said. "I feel the alarm system was not functioning properly."

Rizzo said most of the patients were invalids and were carried out by police and firemen. More than 150 firemen, 75 policemen and 15 rescue units were at the scene.

The Washington Hill Nursing Home was cited last Nov. 26 for 10 violations of the city fire code.

However, the Rev. Wycliffe Jangharrie, administrator at the home for the past 18 years, said the building was inspected by city fire officials two days ago and no violations were found.

He said the home was licensed by the state for a capacity of 54 patients.

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Mike Mansfield is planning to press for a 50 per cent cutback in U.S. overseas forces when the Senate takes up vital military procurement legislation next week, Senate sources say.

However, the sources add that the anticipated Mansfield amendment, broadened from his original proposal to cut half of the U.S. troops in Europe, faces an uphill Senate battle. Thus, it seems unlikely to pose the threat to congressional adjournment feared by some House leaders, they said.

The Mansfield amendment was one reason Wednesday's meeting of Senate and House Democratic leaders listed defense and foreign aid as "the principal legislative complication for the remainder of this session."

They again declared their intention of pushing for adjournment of Congress in October, although dropped any mention of the old Oct. 15 target date.

Later Wednesday, the House demonstrated what could prove to be another barrier to adjournment when it failed by five votes to override President Nixon's veto of a health services bill.

The vote of 273 to 144 marked the fifth time this year that Congress has sustained a presidential veto, possibly indicating that Nixon retains sufficient congressional strength to also block efforts to slash defense spending.

But the Democratic-controlled Congress seems determined to do just that while increasing domestic spending, posing the threat of another executive-legislative battle later this year over appropriations bills. The fight could force the session to drag on.

Congressional adoption of the Mansfield amendment, or anything resembling it, could prompt a veto by Nixon of the $20.4 billion procurement bill.

Sources said the amendment seems likely to fall about 10 votes short of adoption in the Senate. It is believed to have an even slimmer chance of adoption in the House.

When the proposal was first presented in 1971, it failed by a 61-36 vote in May, and a 54-39 vote in November. Mansfield has since expanded the amendment to apply to the 606,000 troops stationed around the world, instead of just the 300,000 in Europe.

In its present form, it would reduce the worldwide total in half over a three-year period.

Faces Death For Murder

WILMINGTON, N. C. (AP)—A 24-year-old man is facing a death sentence in the state's gas chamber after a jury convicted him of first degree murder in the slaying last April of Donald P. Christian, Wilmington businessman.

Christopher Spicer was sentenced Wednesday by Judge Walter W. Cahoon to die Oct. fifth.

Spicer showed no emotion when the verdict was read and directed his court-appointed attorney not to make any motions on his behalf.

Another man charged in the slaying, Isaac Monk, 32, was found guilty last month and sentenced to die. Monk was accused of being the triggerman in the shooting of Christian during a robbery attempt. Spicer and Monk were accused of lying in wait for Christian, 27, as he closed his food products business the night of April 5.

'Mediphone' Help Serves Nation, Helps Abroad

By PATRICK J. KILLEN
CHICAGO (UPI) — Twin brothers en route from Chicago to Louisiana for a Christmas reunion with their mother got into a bone-breaking traffic accident near the Southern Illinois town of Mattoon.

The driver was unhurt but his brother was hurled onto the highway, his left leg a pulpy mass of exposed bones and muscles mixed with debris, gas and oil.

A Mattoon surgeon took four hours to clean carefully the shattered leg and start the job of rebuilding it. The patient, age 20, was alert and anxious to get back to Chicago.

But the next day, the patient slipped into a coma. The surgeon, a good man in his field, was at a loss to determine why.

He quickly dialed the Mediphone number in Chicago—312 782-7888—and told Mediphone director Dr. John Bellows he needed advice.

Within seconds the surgeon was talking to the chairman of one of the major medical research, treatment and teaching centers in Chicago, an expert in handling injuries.

Dr. M: "Professor, I have a patient whose leg was severely injured in a highway accident that occurred approximately 18 hours ago. Immediately post-op, he was alert and responsive. During the night, the life signs weakened. This morning he is obtunded (unresponsive). We can find no adequate medical explanation."

The professor reviewed the pertinent medical information on the twin and concluded that fat from the bone marrow had reached the brain and the lungs through the blood stream.

Professor: "Doctor, if the diagnosis is as I suspect, we shall have to administer diuretics and corticosteroids to reduce the cortical edema."

The medications were given and 12 hours later the youth had regained consciousness and was asking about his friends in Chicago.

Bellows, 64, termed the recovery one of several "exciting" cases in which Mediphone has speeded medical treatment and saved lives.

"That boy would have died without the proper treatment," Bellows said in an interview.

An ophthalmologist with a wallful of honors and several shelves of publications, Bellows originated Mediphone in July, 1972. He describes it as a "nationwide physicians' telephone consultation service" which allows any doctor to get emergency expert advice from a list of 600 specialists, representing every specialty recognized by the American Medical Association.

Revolving File
Competent persons with knowledge of medicine guard

Mediphone's four lines 24 hours a day, seven days a week. They field an average of 100 calls a week, determine where advice is needed and set up conference calls within minutes after consulting a revolving file at their fingertips.

Doctors seeking advice are charged $15 for the first five minutes with $5 going to defray Mediphone costs and $10 to the specialist, a fraction of what he might charge patients on a face to face consultation.

"Our main motives are to help physicians practicing in an area where they can't keep abreast of recent advances and also to see that the public gets the very best care," Bellows said.

Mediphone also reassures doctors they are proceeding correctly, or in some cases provides them with newer methods in handling a problem.

Bellows, an energetic, deeply-involved man, said Mediphone is the only national telephonic consultation service available to doctors. The first telephone consultation service called MIST (Medical Information Service via Telephone) was begun in July, 1969, in Alabama. It remains a state service, generating about 100 calls a day from Alabama physicians to specialists at the University of Alabama Medical Center.

Internationally, Mediphone has received calls from Greece asking for orthopedic consultation and from Canada for information on malaria that a patient picked up in Southeast Asia.

Bellows said doctors in Britain, France and Latin America have asked for help in establishing similar services.

Some of Mediphone's noteworthy cases, according to Bellows, include:

A doctor in Florida with a patient suffering from a coral snake bite was put in touch with a specialist at the University of Texas in Dallas.

—A doctor in Upper Saddle River, N.J., needed quick information for a boy who went into shock after receiving a smallpox vaccination. He got it from a doctor at Children's Memorial Hospital in Chicago.

—A nurse at a state hospital wanted to know what to do with a patient who had swallowed a whole bottle of a popular tranquilizer. Mediphone connected her with a toxicologist working for the manufacturer.

—A doctor in Michigan seeking information on treating a boy with diabetes reached an Illinois specialist who offered advice and later performed a successful transplant of the pancreas on the patient.

"He now lives like a healthy individual," Bellows said.

Will Discuss Bolivia Role

Dr. Isa Grant, medical physician from Raleigh, will speak on the Bolivian Work Team at Jarvis Memorial U.M. Church at the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday.

She and others from Edenton St. Church, Raleigh, went to Bolivia last April and stayed for more than two weeks, helping to alleviate suffering among the people and actually building a Methodist parsonage there.

Dr. Grant will also show slides and speak about 1:30 p.m. at Saint James U.M. Church following a cover-dish dinner at 12:30 p.m.

The Bolivian Work Team consisted of ministers, a director of Christian education (interpreter), nurses, students, teachers, a church sexton, and other workers. The group, paying their own way, was sponsored by the Division of Missions of the N.C.U.M. Conference.

Dr. Isa Grant is the twin sister of Dr. Melene Irons of Greenville.

WACs To Train At Ft. Jackson

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army will begin training WACs at Ft. Jackson near Columbia, S.C., in January, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said today.

Thurmond said the basic training unit represents an expansion of the WAC program. It will become operational in the coming month and will get its first trainees Jan. 7, he said.

"Ft. Jackson is ideally suited for training 12 months a year and this is an excellent choice for the Army's expanded WAC program," Thurmond said.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets were steady Wednesday. Supplies were adequate and demand fairly good.

Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered to nearby outlets:

Grade A large whites 76.73; medium whites 69.19; small whites 56.98.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices held to a fairly even keel today after four straight sessions of declines.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11:30 a.m. was up .53 to 881.85, while advances and declines were about even on the New York Stock Exchange.

"The market decline which began last Friday seems to have about run its course," said Newton Zinder, analyst with E.F. Hutton & Co.

He said the market was wandering aimlessly but "doing very well, considering the negative news on the interest rate front and uncertainties about the possibility of new taxes."

Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur F. Burns said Wednesday President Nixon was sympathetic toward a tax hike.

Also, interest rates have been soaring lately, in part because of tight money policies being pursued by the Fed.

On the NYSE, Telex was up 1/8 to 4 1/2. The company expects a judgement soon on its billion-dollar antitrust suit against IBM.

Other prices included Alcoa, up 1/8 to 72; Digital Equipment, up 2 1/2 to 90 1/2; International Paper, up 1/4 to 44 1/4; and RCA, down 1/4 to 24.

A visit of TV celebrity Art Linkletter to Greenville has been confirmed it was announced at a meeting for the promotion of the visit yesterday afternoon.

Linkletter will speak at Minges Coliseum Tuesday, Oct. 9 at 8 p.m. on the drug problem. Fighting this problem has claimed much of his time since his daughter, Diane, died of a jump from an upper story window during an LSD trip.

Tickets for the talk will be $2 per person. Linkletter's fee will be channeled into a national drug program set up in memory of Diane Linkletter. The local money will be used in a fund being set up to provide a place and a director for a Christian coffeehouse here. Starting Point of Greenville, Inc. is sponsoring the Linkletter visit and is spearheading the coffeehouse project. The East Carolina Drug Program is cosponsoring the visit.

Dr. Al Ferguson spoke to the group, telling about various drugs people use and abuse to fight stress. Stimulants, which increase drive, produce a psychological dependence, he said, as do hallucinogens, which alter perception of self and of reality, LSD is the best known hallucinogen and amphetamines are widely used stimulants, often prescribed for weight loss. They have no real use, Dr. Ferguson said. He added that because of abuse and damage he saw in the Air Force, in his years of practice he has never prescribed them to anyone for any reason.

Depressants are the most widely used drugs, he said. Alcohol is, of course, another, probably the most used. Depressants produce a physical dependence, as well as psychological one, he said, and account for the secondary dependence, the fear of withdrawal, which causes anti-social and criminal behavior.

Dr. Ferguson said he likes to use the work unhappiness interchangeably with stress, and added that, in his opinion, the only true happiness is that found in Jesus Christ, which is why the Christian approach has worked better than any other in the battle against drug use.

Christ removes the cause, stress or unhappiness," he said, "and replaces it with peace of mind and total and unequivocal happiness."

A special guest at the meeting was Steve Stox. Stox is now serving a prison sentence for drug use which began in Greenville several years ago. He called his arrest the "best thing that ever happened to me." He said he has tried every kind of drug and got so low he had lost his will to live before he was arrested. Since he has been in prison, he has been converted to Christ and is whole and full and free of drug dependence, he said. Until his term ends, he is working during the day under a work-release program and is staying at the Pitt County Jail at night.

Harry Allen is chairman of Starting Point and H. W. Lee is in charge of planning and promoting the Art Linkletter visit.

Autopsy Ordered In Ayden Death

An autopsy has been ordered to determine the cause of death of a 21-year-old Ayden woman whose body was discovered Tuesday afternoon near Little Creek southwest of Ayden.

Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that the body of Shelia Mirrie Brown of 126 Barbara Street, Ayden, was found by a fisherman around 2 p.m. Tuesday on the bank near the Little Creek entrance into Contentnea Creek. The site is approximately one and a half miles west of Pleasant Plains Church, he said.

Sheriff Tyson reported that the body, found only partially clothed, had apparently been dragged about 100 yards down a path. Clothes were found 75 yards from the body, he noted, on the edge of the creek bank.

The sheriff said that Miss Brown, who had been living in Ayden only a short time since moving from Brooklyn, N. Y., was last seen in Ayden around 10 p.m. Monday night.

Sheriff Tyson, noting that he is awaiting the results of the autopsy, said that investigation of the incident is continuing.

Gray said other areas he is concerned about are: More and better employment for the lower and middle income citizens by attracting industries which will provide more professional-semiprofessional jobs; continuous efforts towards reducing the polarization among the people in Greenville due to differences in ethnic, racial, religious and geographical origins; increased local support for education; and increased wages for city employees.

"In Conclusion," Gray added, "I sincerely believe that there is an ever increasing need for fair, firm, impartial and honest representation for all the people of this nation and city. choose the heating system that's right for you...

Selecting the heating system for your new home may be one of the most important decisions you will make. Heating system selection is often the key to the comfort, convenience and resale value of your home. Future fuel supplies should also be carefully considered.

Before making the final selection, you should get as much information as possible about operating costs, installation costs, servicing and care and maintenance needed. Shop around, ask questions and do a little research. You can obtain literature from dealers, manufacturers and the U.S. Government.

Whatever heating system you select we recommend good insulation for future operating economy.

* The U.S. Department of Agriculture booklet "Home Heating—Systems, Fuel, Controls" (Bulletin Number 2235) contains many helpful hints. It is available for 30¢ a copy from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402. For additional information on electric heating and on electric heat pumps, request REA Bulletin #142-1, "Electric House Heating" and USDA Agricultural Information Bulletin #306, "Heat Pumps for Heating and Cooling Homes." Both publications are available at the same address for 20¢ and 10¢ a copy respectively.

Rose Goes For Second Win At New Bern

Not long ago, there was a popular song, "Eli's Comin'" and it might be well for the Rose High School Rampant defense to take it to heart.

This week, the Rampants, 1-0-1, after two games now, travel to New Bern to meet the Bears, and Eli Smith, one of the top running backs in the East.

The Rampants go into the game following their 24-7 victory over Farmville Central, the last of their 3-A opponents. This week, they'll venture against a 4-

A team for the first time.

Also for the first time in many years, the meeting with the Bears will not be a conference game. Under the new alignments, New Bern is a member of Division II, while the Rampants belong to Division I. The game is a non-conference one, and will only have a bearing in the long run on the overall won-lost mark, and in the conference race should there be a more-than-two-way tie for the title or for the second playoff berth.

Coach Dave Bumgarner expressed a great deal more pleasure after the victory over Farmville than he did following the 7-7 tie against Washington. "We played a much better game," he said. "If we had played the week before like we did against Farmville, we would have been much better off. But I think there were other factors in that first game too that we didn't have — the excitement of the first game, the heat, and the fact that we had so many going both ways."

Against Farmville, the Rampants went nearly with a complete two-platoon system. "The only time someone played on the other side was to give us a chance to talk briefly with someone else," Bumgarner said. "For the most part it was full two-platooning. We've used 33 people so far in the two games." Bumgarner noted that the platoon system allowed the coaches a chance to talk with the offense when they were off the field. "We couldn't do that when so many were going both ways," he said. "The defense, if they are hitting doesn't need to be talked to so much, but it helps to talk with the offense, especially the quarterback."

The quarterback position, manned by sophomore Henry Trevathan last week, proved to be one of the bright spots of the game. Trevathan called most of the game himself, and proved to be a cool operator under pressure. He also brought a renewal of a passing attack to the Rampants, hitting seven of 13 for 109 yards and a touchdown.

For his play, Trevathan was presented with the BAGUBA award for this week, as the outstanding player. Helmet stars were also presented to Doug Paschal, Nat Perkins, Scott Wolcott, Harold Randolph, Al Heath, Trevathan and Mike Wallace.

"They gave us the quick outs and the slants," Bumgarner said of the Farmville defense. "Henry threw the ball well, but three passes that should have been caught were missed. Still the passing opened up our entire offense."

Bumgarner also remarked that sophomores, five of them, are filling key jobs and doing as outstanding a job, considering the pressure on them. Besides Trevathan, the sophomores include center Ed Connolly, running back Doug Paschal, linebacker Mike Brewington and punter Paul Farmer.

"The seniors are also doing a great job, with most of them on defense," the coach added. "I think our offensive line also blocked well this past week."

Another phase that is pleasing Bumgarner is the place-kicking of Wolcott. He's four-for-four on extra points, and has kicked a 22-yard field goal, seemingly with little effort. "If we get down to a fourth down, and are even close to the 30, we'll be going for the three points," Bumgarner said. "Scott has that range, and getting three points instead of none means a lot, especially early in the game. And those three can add up."

Against New Bern, the Rampants will be hard pressed on defense, mainly to stop the tough running of Smith. Smith picked up 106 yards in the first half of the Havelock game, lost by New Bern, 21-7, and last week, against West Cartaret, when the Bears won, 14-7, he injured a toe and saw only little action. Ernest Ballard replaced him and picked up 64 yards in 14 carries. Fullback Duke Williams had 73 yards in 14 carries.

Williams, used mostly for his blocking when Smith is in the game, weighs in at 215, and stands 6-4. He plays a tackle spot on defense.

New Bern has a fine quarterback in Dennis Stillely, and Bumgarner said he was quite impressed with his play last year. So far this year, however, he hasn't thrown like he did during the 1972 season.

"They have five or six guys who go both ways," Bumgarner said. "That might make a difference for us late in the game if they get tired." New Bern operates out of the power-I, and uses a 4-4 defense similar to that of the Rampants.

The game is slated to start at 8 p.m.

The offensive starting lineup for Rose has Mike Wallace and Ronnie Rasberry at ends, Ron Hunt and Jeff Hagars at tackles, Jay Jester and Dave Mattheis at guards, Ed Connolly at center, Henry Trevathan at quarterback; Lindberg Morris at fullback, and Nat Perkins and Doug Paschal at halfbacks.

On defense, Rose will start Pat Hagan and George Martin at ends, Tim Toates and Mike Bryant at tackles; Jerry Griffin, Jackie Savage, Mike Brewington and Harold Randolph at linebackers, Dickie Johnson, Al Heath and Keith Joyner in the secondary.

Elsewhere in Division I last week, Northeastern lost to 3-A Edenton, 14-7; Northern Nash dumped 3-A Bertie, 24-7; Rocky Mount rolled to a 20-6 win over 3-A Tarboro, and Wilson nipped Raleigh Sanderson, 5-0.

Friday's schedule also has Raleigh Broughton at Wilson, Goldsboro at Rocky Mount, Northeastern at Bertie, and Washington at Northern Nash.

Holtz Cautions Looking Ahead

Coach Lou Holtz has cautioned his 17th-ranked North Carolina State football team not to look past this Saturday night's home opponent, Virginia, to its game with second-ranked Nebraska the following Saturday.

Holtz said Wednesday that Virginia played almost errorless ball in its 16-0 opening victory over VMI last week, and could be the surprise team in the Atlantic Coast Conference.

The N.C. State Wolfpack trounced East Carolina 57-8 in its opener.

The Wolfpack's leading pass interceptor, Bob Divens, broke his collarbone in practice Tuesday, and will not play against Virginia. Holtz said that in addition, three of his defensive tackles have health problems. Starter Doug Carter has a virus but practiced Wednesday. John Goeller has a bruised kidney and another substitute, Frank Haywood, has a severely cut nose.

Virginia practiced under the lights in preparation for the night game. Offensive backfield coach Casto Ramsey told his men that despite the opening victory, "We have to execute better than we did last week. We have to block better and to break more tackles. Practice hasn't really been good this week, and I know we'll have to improve by game time."

At Maryland, Coach Jerry Claiborne said he was pleased with the pass defense. The Terraps also worked on the kicking game in preparation for Saturday's home opener against West Virginia. Steve Mike-Meyer made a 47-yard field goal. Maryland has a 7-4-2 edge in the series, but the Mountaineers have won the last two games, 20-10 in 1970 and 31-7 in 1969.

Nineteenth-ranked North Carolina has lost two second-string defenders for its home opener against William and Mary Saturday afternoon. Tackle Scott Reynolds has a sprained back and defensive back Mike Shuster has a bruised shoulder.

This will be the 10th meeting between the schools, and William and Mary will be looking for its first victory. North Carolina has won seven and there have been two ties. William and Mary opened last week with a 31-24 victory over favored Virginia Tech.

Other games for ACC teams Saturday are Duke at Tennessee in the afternoon, and Florida State at Wake Forest at night.

Jack Burke Jr. will captain this year's US Ryder Cup golf team.

Another Good Day

East Carolina's Pirates, going into their final day of practice in Greenville before heading South, had what Coach Sonny Randle described as a third straight day of good workouts yesterday.

The Bucs again had one-on-one drills yesterday, sharpening individual skills.

East Carolina also worked on its game plan for the Southern Mississippi game, with the possibility of some lineup changes taking place for the game.

East Carolina will wind up its practices today, and will fly to Hattiesburg, Mississippi, Friday, holding their final workout there.

The game is scheduled to begin at 8:30 p.m. Greenville time.

Oakland, Baltimore Begin To Countdown To Divisional Titles

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

There is magic in the American League air these brisk September days and almost all of it is centered in Baltimore and Oakland, where the Orioles and A's are beginning to count.

The numbers game intrigues teams in first place and that's where both of these clubs have been spending their time for the last month.

The Orioles swept a Wednesday two-night doubleheader from Milwaukee 4-1 and 5-3, reducing their number for clinching the East Division title to 12. Any combination of Baltimore victories and-or Boston defeats totaling a dozen, puts the Orioles in the playoffs.

Oakland's favorite digit right now is 13. That's what it will take to win the West for the A's after they dropped a 5-0 decision to the Kansas City Royals.

Elsewhere in the AL Wednesday night, Boston defeated the New York Yankees 7-1, Texas beat Minnesota 5-2 and California edged Chicago 6-5. Cleveland and Detroit were not scheduled.

Baltimore's Jim Palmer won his 20th game in the opener, marking the fourth straight year he's reached that measure of pitching excellence. Rich Coggins drove in two of the Orioles runs and stole two bases in the opener.

Then the rookie outfielder tripled, touching off a two-run Oriole rally that broke an eighth inning tie and completed the sweep.

Palmer shrugged off talk that he might be zeroing in on the American League Cy Young Award. "You don't think much about that," he said. "A pennant and World Series are more important than personal goals."

Oakland ran into Hal McRae's hot bat. McRae boomed a pair of home runs, one of them with two Royals on base, leading Kansas City to victory.

Paul Splittorff and Doug Bird combined to pitch the shutout which left the Royals five games back of the A's in the AL West.

The homers were the 14th and 15th of the season for Yaz. Ron Swoboda connected for the Yankees, giving New York its only run in 31 1-3 innings this season against Moret.

Rangers 5, Twins 2

Tom Grieve's two-run homer helped Texas to a 5-2 victory over Minnesota with rookie Rick Henninger earning his first major league victory.

Rich Billings also drove in two runs for the Rangers with a single.

Angels 6, White Sox 5

Bob Oliver's two-out single in the bottom of the eighth inning broke a tie and gave California a 6-5 decision over the Chicago White Sox.

Gary And Arnie Favored, But Miller Feels He's The Choice

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

HILTON HEAD ISLAND, S.C. (AP) — Gary Player and Arnold Palmer are the favorites in the $150,000 Heritage Golf Classic.

Johnny Miller doesn't think they should be.

"I think I should be the favorite because I think I can win it again," said Miller, the 1973 U.S. Open titleholder, before teeing off today in defense of the Heritage title he won last Thanksgiving Day weekend.

The skinny, blond Miller, who offered the observation in his usual quiet, thoughtful way, has some good arguments in favor of his statement.

"I'm playing good enough to win right now," Miller said.

"I played good enough to win the World Series of Golf last week. I just picked the wrong year. I shot 140 (par for two rounds) over the Firestone Country Club course and 67 on the last day. That's pretty good on that course."

"It's just that Tom was phenomenal."

Tom Weiskopf—who withdrew from this event—won the World Series by three strokes over Miller and Jack Nicklaus, who tied for second.

"I really played very well," Miller continued. "And I'm hitting the ball straight. That's what you've got to do here. I think I have a very good chance to win it again."

Miller's accuracy could serve as a big boost on the swamp and ocean-bordered Harbour Town Golf Links, a 6,600-yard, par 71 layout that places a premium on the precisely-controlled shot.

While it isn't long in comparison with most tour courses, it's one of the toughest. The winning score usually is near par. Miller won last year at 281, only three-under.

He followed that with his record triumph in the U.S. Open and has fully recovered from any let-down following that victory. He chased Weiskopf to the British Open crown, then fished second in the World Series of Golf. He's won more than $120,000 this year.

Player, the little South African who performance this season has been hampered by a slow recovery from major surgery, comes into this tourney fresh off a triumph in the Southern Open.

"It wasn't my best night with the fastball," said Steve Rogers. "It wasn't my best night with the slider. And it wasn't my best night with the curve."

All the Montreal Wonder Boy could do Wednesday night was throw the ball, hope for the best—and win.

"I guess you could say my pitching was good but my throwing was bad," said the 23-year-old rookie after leading the Expos to a 2-1 victory over St. Louis that further confused the National League East race.

"I just had to pump myself up," said Rogers, who twice loaded the bases with none out but escaped trouble each time. "I guess I was a little tight. I probably didn't warm up enough."

While giving up six walks and six hits, Rogers held the Cardinals down long enough for Bob Bailey to deliver the knockout blow—a ninth-inning homer.

The victory, the ninth in 12 decisions for the rookie right-hander, moved the Expos within one game of the top in the zany East race.

The Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Chicago Cubs 4-2 to move into first place by a half game over the Cardinals and the New York Mets nipped the Philadelphia Phillies 3-2 to move 2½ games back in fourth place. The Cubs were in fifth, three games behind.

In the other National League games, the Cincinnati Reds tripped the Los Angeles Dodgers 7-3 and the Atlanta Braves whipped the San Francisco Giants 10-4.

Pirates 4, Cubs 2

Bob Robertson's three-run homer led Bruce Kison and Pittsburgh to a 4-2 decision over Chicago. With one out in the fourth inning, Willie Stargell walked and Manny Sanguillen singled. One out later Robertson followed with his 14th homer of the year.

Mets 3, Phillies 2

Blackout Bill Approval Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House is expected to approve today a bill that would lift the local television blackouts of home pro football games that are sold out three days in advance.

The Senate passed a similar bill last Thursday by a vote of 76-6. If the House approves the bill, sponsored by Rep. Torbert H. Macdonald, D-Mass., there is a strong possibility that some of Sunday's National Football League season openers would be shown locally, a precedent-shattering situation.

Pete Rozelle, NFL commissioner, indicated last week during legislative hearings that the league would not wait for President Nixon's signature before lifting the TV blackout once the Congress has indicated its preference.

Should the House pass the bill today, proponents hope to send it immediately to the Senate with the hope of having that body adopt the House version.

The bill then would be sent to the President for his signature and enactment into law. A White House spokesman said Nixon would sign the measure when it reaches his desk.

If the Senate does not adopt the House version, the two bills would go to a conference committee to hammer out one bill acceptable to both the House and Senate.

Brook Valley

Brook Valley Golf and Country Club will play host to the annual Inter-Club Golf Tournament this weekend. The tournament is held every year in conjunction with the Greenville Golf and Country Club, alternating sites.

An 18-hole round will be held Saturday, with the final 18 on Sunday. Between 90 and 100 golfers from the city are expected to take part in the tournament.

Bob Barlow recently fired his best round at the club, a 37-39-76.

Farmville

The Farmville Golf and Country Club opened its new back nine holes this past Saturday for the first time. The club now has 18 holes in play, and everyone playing is enjoying the new side, pro Charlie Baker says.

A Member-Guest Tournament will be held this Saturday and Sunday at Farmville. A shotgun start will be held both days at 1 p.m. for the tournament, which has attracted 40 teams.

Greenville

The Greenville Golf and County Club is holding a junior tournament Saturday. The tournament will be a "Better Ball of Pair" for teams of two. With a tee-off start at 8:30 a.m., the tournament will feature two age groups. Boys 12-15 will play 18 holes, while those under 12 will play three holes.

The Greenville Ladies Invitational Tournament will be held Tuesday, September 25 at the club. A 10 a.m. shotgun start will be held for the 18-hole affair. The tournament is open to all women members of area clubs. A $10 entry fee includes a luncheon, a cocktail party, and prizes in each flight. Entrants should send their names, handicap, and whether they desire an electric cart, along with the entry fee, to Mrs. Frank H. Longino, 1914 Forest Hills Drive, Greenville.

Ladies Day will be held Friday at 9 a.m., with a better ball of pair tournament. Ladies may make up their own playing groups.

A men's net and gross tournament was held this past weekend. Molt Massey Jr. took the low gross with 77, while Mike Wooles was second with a 78.

In the net division, Ken Hite won with a 67, followed by Don Patrick with a 68, Bill Collier with a 69, Larry Graham with a 71, and Cliff Everett Sr. with a 72. Merchandise certificates for the winners are available in the pro shop.

Grifton

The Pitt County Ladies Golf League met at Grifton Golf and Country Club last Friday.

In a flight, the low gross went to Harriette White of Greenville, while Joan Hooper of Greenville had low net and Jana Worsley of Brook Valley had low putts.

Mary Herbert of Grifton took low gross honors in B flight, while Bettie Lou Howard of Greenville had low net. Mariam Martin of Brook Valley took low putts.

In C flight, Ann Moon of Brook Valley had low gross, Janie Johnson of Farmville had low net, and Irma Boykin of Grifton had low putts.

ner hit home runs to help New York beat Philadelphia 3-2. Tug McGraw saved the game for the Mets with tough relief pitching in the last two innings, striking out five batters.

Reds 7, Dodgers 3

Pitcher Jack Billingham keyed a five-run seventh inning with a bases-loaded double and scattered eight hits to lead Cincinnati over Los Angeles 7-3.

The Dodgers, who led the National League West by four games less than two weeks ago, thus dropped five games behind the Reds.

Braves 10, Giants 4

Darrell Evans blasted two home runs and Mary Perez drove in three runs with a homer and double to lead Atlanta past San Francisco 10-4. The Giants hit three homers off winner Carl Morton.

American League scores: Baltimore 4-5, Milwaukee 1-3; Boston 7, New York 1; Texas 5, Minnesota 2; Kansas City 5, Oakland 0 and California 6, Chicago 5.

Net Winner

Wilbur Castelov defeated Craig Reid, 6-4, 3-6, 6-3, in the finals of the men's thirty five and over tennis tournament held by the Greenville Tennis Club.

The event scheduled for Sunday afternoon had to be completed Monday afternoon because of rain.

Status Of Butkus Uncertain For Opener; Other Vets Are Out

By FRANK BROWN
Associated Press Sports Writer
Pick the word that most appropriately completes this sentence:
Dick Butkus (will) (won't) start at middle linebacker for the Chicago Bears this Sunday.
The answer to that question depends on who you listen to. The Chicago Daily News said Wednesday that "sources close to Butkus reported that the middle-linebacker fears he may have reached the end of his battle-scarred career" and that the 30-year-old Butkus was suffering severe pain in his left knee.
But Bears coach Abe Giron retorted with, "Dick Butkus is my starting middle linebacker against Dallas, and he'll play on the specialty teams, too. I have no idea where that story came from."

Butkus appeared mystified by the article, not to mention team physician, Dr. Theodore Fox.
"As far as I'm concerned, there is no foundation to the story... As far as I know, he is going to play against Dallas," Fox said.
"I'm no doctor," informed Giron. "I can't practice medicine and I can't say what his physical condition is."
There are two NFL stars who won't have to worry about injuries this season: Carroll Dale of the Green Bay Packers and Johnny Roland of the St. Louis Cardinals.
Dale, one of the few remaining members of the Vince Lombardi-built Packer dynasty of the mid-60s, was placed on waivers by the club. In a 14-year career, Dale caught 425 passes for 8,079 yards and 52 touchdowns, averaging 19 yards per reception—high among active players. He had led the club in receiving three consecutive years.

"It's hard to put into words what Carroll Dale has meant to the Packers," said Coach Dan Devine. "He has always given 100 per cent on the practice and game field."
Roland, meanwhile, announced his retirement after seven NFL seasons. After picking up a club record 3,608 yards on a club record 962 rushes, the 30-year-old Roland decided, "after due deliberation, I thought it was time to retire."
Retirement is the farthest thing from rookie quarterback Bert Jones' mind, though, especially since he was named the Baltimore Colts' No. 1 signal caller.

Colts coach Howard Schnellenberger chose Jones over five-year veteran Marty Domres because of his excellent work in the preseason and for "his ability to get the ball across the goal line."
In another National Football League development Wednesday, former All-Pro tight end for the Baltimore Colts, John Mackey, resigned as president of the NFL Player's Association to take a position with the William Morris Agency—a show business publicity firm. While continuing to help with contract negotiations as he had with the NFLPA, Mackey will also help obtain endorsements and public appearances for athletes.
The former All-Pro was succeeded as president by Bill Curry of the Houston Oilers.

Maravich Is Tired Of Anti-Social Image

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP) — With the start of another professional basketball season only weeks away, Pete Maravich says he has grown tired of being called anti-social.
The Atlanta Hawks superstar, in a philosophical mood Wednesday at the Hawks training camp in Savannah, Ga., said he thinks the label is unfair and compares it to the loser image once pinned on Wilt Chamberlain because teams Chamberlain played for failed to win championships.
Maravich says his being tabbed anti-social is a "rap."
"To talk about raps, I'd have to equate min to his (Chamberlain's)," Maravich said. "Supposedly, I didn't talk to the press and I stayed in the showers 45 minutes after every game to avoid them, anything to keep from making a statement for publication. So I was painted as an anti-social."
"The fact is that basketball is an emotional game and I get emotional about it," he continued. "I like to cool down. And, frankly, when we lose, there are times when I don't feel like talking."
Maravich, speaking casually to reporters, complained that sometimes "a writer comes in and says, 'Pete, the team lost but you had a good game.' What does he want me to do, knock my teammates?"
"And if I had a bad game I know it and everyone else knows it. Athletes have personal problems just like everyone else and there are nights when you don't feel your best. These things are not taken into consideration."
"Despite what some people think, we are not superhumans. We're people just like everyone else."
Maravich, beginning his fourth year in the National Basketball Association, offered a theory on why he thinks athletes often are not given the benefit of the doubt.

"In sports, like in life, people need to have a villain," he said. "That's the way society is. And people are looking for sensationalism. They would rather read about the scandals or why some athlete was fined than read about some guy saving 15 people from drowning. So reporters are out looking for villains."
"And once they pin a rap on you, it is almost impossible to shed," he added.
A bystander noted that Chamberlain, now a superstar with the Los Angeles Lakers which won the NBA title two years ago, was first plagued with the loser label in his college days.
Chamberlain's team, Kansas, lost the 1957 national championship to North Carolina in triple overtime.

"That's the way it starts, with one game or one incident," mused Maravich.

GURKHA BRIGADE

The British Army's Gurkhas—sturdy hillmen from Nepal—have an almost legendary reputation for fierce courage and loyalty. They have served with the British and Indian Armies since 1815, and have won many awards for valor. Though they are short in stature, with an average height of 5 feet 4 inches, they are tough, highly disciplined and wield their traditional weapon, the "kukri," with deadly efficiency. This kukri is the Gurkha's heavy-bladed, curved knife.

Since World War II they've been troubleshooters for Britain in Asia. Now their home base is Hong Kong, Britain's last military outpost east of Suez, where these pictures were taken. Here they share the task of patrolling the colony's 22-mile frontier with China. One battalion, however, is in Britain, where its duties include mounting the guard at Buckingham Palace.

Return Of Gold-Mining Looms

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When the U.S. decided to stop tying the dollar to gold, the price of gold rose to where it may now be profitable to mine small deposits in the South abandoned for many years.

In North Carolina where the first confirmed gold strike in the nation was reported in 1799, "there's been a good bit of looking" by major international mining companies, assistant state geologist Eldon Allen says.

Dr. Vernon Hurst, a geology professor at the University of Georgia, said in an interview Wednesday that people anticipating the price rise in gold have been showing increased interest for about two and a half years.

"There have been some companies looking around in Georgia," he said. With 135 abandoned mines in South Carolina, the state reports renewed interest in commercial possibilities.

Dade Howell, a geologist for the South Carolina State Development Board, said the mining interests are moving cautiously because publicity would almost certainly skyrocket land prices at old deposit sites.

On Tuesday of this week, gold sold for $105 per ounce compared to $34 an ounce two years ago.

The gold ore lodes of the South, apparently the first found in the country, are far smaller than those eventually discovered in the far West, Alaska and Canada.

Scarcities of equipment and manpower during World War II forced the closings of virtually all the Southern mines. "And for the past ten or 15 years," said Hurst, "the price of gold as compared to production costs just hasn't made mining attractive here."

McFarland Will Speak Sunday

FARMVILLE — D. P. McFarland, executive director of the Christian Action League of N. C., will be the guest speaker at the Friendship Free Will Baptist Church Sunday.

He will be speaking at the 11 a.m. worship service.

The church is located at Rt. 1, Farmville.

Joins Reagan Battle To Trim State Taxes

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — James Roosevelt has joined Gov. Ronald Reagan's battle to lower state taxes at the ballot box.

Californians for Lower Taxes announced today that the son of the former president has been appointed to a 12-member committee that will lead the campaign on behalf of the Republican governor's plan.

Roosevelt, 66, a former Democratic congressman and Democratic national committeeman from California, heads a financial consulting firm in Los Angeles.

Others on the committee include David Packard, partner in a Palo Alto electronics firm and former undersecretary of defense.

The Reagan plan to put stringent tax controls into the state Constitution will be decided at a special statewide election Nov. 6.

"Don't smoke to excess, don't drink to excess and don't marry — to excess." — Mark Twain.

Of the numerous mines sprinkled along the piedmont and mountainous regions of North Carolina, Allen said, "there are no known commercial quantities at this time."

But he added, "if the price of gold continues to climb, some of these old deposits may become economically feasible."

In South Carolina, Howell said, some mines would almost certainly yield commercial quantities at $80 per ounce.

In Georgia, Hurst says there are workable deposits, but "no known bonanzas."

The policy of the states now is to encourage all prospectors.

Far-Walking Mule Has A Six-Month Vacation

By SANTOSH BASAK Associated Press Writer

CALCUTTA, India (AP) — After clip-clopping across Europe and half of Asia with a team of American brothers walking around the world, a Portuguese pack mule named Willie Makeit II is enjoying a six-month vacation.

The brothers, David Kunst of Waseca, Minn., and his brother Peter, of Santa Ana, Calif., took to the air today to fly to Australia. They will resume their walk at Perth, where they plan to obtain a Willie Makeit III to pull a wagon given them by the Turkish government from Perth to Canberra and then to Sydney, a distance of 2,400 miles.

Willie II was a gift from the Portuguese government to David, 33, and his 25-year-old brother John, who started to walk around the world in 1970 to drum up support for UNICEF, the U.N. Children's Fund. John was killed last October by Afghan bandits in the Khyber Pass, and after David recovered from wounds he suffered in the ambush, their brother Peter, 28, came back with him to Afghanistan to take John's place.

The Kunsts have arranged for a Calcutta social club, the Tolly Gunge Gymkhana, to look after Willie Makeit II for six months while the brothers try to arrange to get the mule into the United States.

David said they have written to the Minneapolis Rotary Club, Sen. Hubert Humphrey and Gov. W. R. Anderson of Minnesota, asking their help with U. S. restrictions on the immigration of alien mules.

If the details are worked out, the Calcutta Rotary Club and the Shipping Corp. of India will ship the mule to America, and he will join the brothers in California for the last 2,000 miles to Minnesota.

Willie's final 1,000 miles in Asia — from New Delhi to Calcutta — were among his most difficult, David Kunst said.

"We were walking about 25 miles a day, 6 a.m. to 6 p.m.," he reported. "The weather was hot and humid, and Willie Makeit II was sweating all the way."

"The other problem was people. Any place we stopped, there were people around us. Lots of them, and all sorts of faces."

Rode 200 Miles In A Pedal Car

SHELBY, N.C. (AP) — Puzzled highway patrolmen stopped the two men in the odd contraption five times.

What it was was a pedal car, a two-seater with chain drive.

Earl Owensby, 37, who sells the foot-powered cars, and Rick Greene, 23, who works for him, were on a 237-mile trip from their hometown of Shelby to Myrtle Beach, S.C.

They made it to the vicinity of Aynor, S.C., after pedaling all night, and decided Wednesday morning that the 200 miles were enough. The trip took 24 hours and 25 minutes, an average of a little under 9 miles an hour. They claimed a world endurance record for pedal cars.

"You can be a rank insider as well as a rank outsider." — Robert Frost.

The brothers expect to cross Australia in 4½ months. They will go from Australia to Hong Kong if they can get permission for a short walk in China; otherwise they will take a ship to Los Angeles to see Peter's wife and four children, then start the three-month trek to Minnesota. They hope to be there by June 28, four years after David and John set out with the first Willie Makeit, an American mule they left on the Atlantic Coast.

Rhode Island Delegates Said Most Liberal

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Conservative Union has rated Rhode Island's delegation to the U.S. House of Representatives as the least conservative in the nation.

Reps. Fernand J. St. Germain and Robert C. Tiernan said they consider the rating a compliment, not a criticism. "I consider it a compliment. I think we have always had a traditionally liberal, progressive evaluation of the delegation," Tiernan said.

St. Germain noted Mississippi's delegation received the union's highest rating. "I don't have any plans to move to Mississippi in the near future. I'm happy that I represent Rhode Island," he said.

The ratings were based on what the union considered 13 key House votes taken before the August congressional recess.

U.S. Gypsy Clans Stick To Ghettos

NEW YORK (UPI) — The first gypsies in America were shipped to Virginia from Scotland by the British in 1715.

There were only nine Roms in the shipment but subsequent immigration, mostly from Eastern Europe, and breeding have brought their number to an estimated 100,000 today. Since gypsies do not cooperate with the U.S. Census Bureau, there is no definite count.

American Rom keep a lower profile than in the 19th and early 20th centuries, when their colorful caravans crisscrossed the East, Middle West and parts of the South. Women dressed in garish silks set off by bright jewelry told fortunes and men repaired metal cooking pots and traded horses and mules.

Fortune telling is still practiced but gypsy men now work as laborers, often in the construction trades and as handymen and gardeners. Most gypsies have traded their carts for a home base in the more squalid sections of large cities, where they often live in storefront properties and watch television like their neighbors. When they have telephones, the numbers tend to be unlisted.

On the road, they are apt to travel in old cars or motor trailers. Except for older gypsy women who cling to Rom costume, most gypsies are undistinguishable from the average ghetto dweller except for speaking Romany as well as English. Men no longer wear neckerchiefs and gold earrings. In some cities gypsies send their children to school, but the education of most youth is sporadic.

Gypsies belong to tribes based on almost forgotten blood ties and have so-called "kings" and "queens", who actually are chieftains and wise old women. The death of one of those in Chicago, New York or Boston is the signal for the gathering of the clan from many parts of the nation. Weddings provide reunions, too, and brides still bartered.

The clan is self-disciplining and gypsies live apart from the mainstream of American life. They are deeply distrustful of strangers, bureaucratic red tape, and police, who they feel have harassed them because gypsies used to be stereotyped as thieves, con-men and child kidnappers.

That Legacy Of Attica Is Shaping Up

ATTICA, N.Y. (AP) — Two years after the bloody uprising at the maximum security prison here, the new superintendent points to changes that proponents of prison reform describe as "modest" and "cosmetic."

Critics acknowledge that major revisions of prison policy are in the planning stage, but they fear that the legislature and the state administration will not provide the money needed.

The five-day convict revolt at Attica Correctional Facility was crushed two years ago today at a cost of 43 lives.

Many reformers expected the legacy of Attica to be a broad revamping of policies in New York's correctional system of 17 prisons and other facilities housing 13,000 inmates.

"All the changes have been cosmetic," said state Assemblyman Arthur Eve. "They talk about new green uniforms, they removed the screens in the visiting rooms, they're allowing outside groups to come in to entertain. But now the whole prison mentality and psychological situation has not changed."

Ernest L. Montanye, the Attica superintendent, cites as examples of reform a committee of 30 elected inmates that has had many of its suggestions implemented, a furlough system that has allowed about 300 prisoners to visit their families, and educational programs.

He adds, however, that with the budget held to about $8 million it has been difficult to find the money needed for extensive change.

Critics of the Correctional Services Department concede that the improvements in educational opportunities, the initiation of work release programs, and the opening of "halfway houses" for convicts nearing release are steps in the right direction. But they contend that these programs are chronically underfinanced and the improvements often illusory.

Educational programs benefit only a fraction of the generally idle inmate population and have actually been cut back in some instances, critics claim, and the halfway house concept has been almost emasculated by legislative budget trimmers.

Out of 1,350 current Attica inmates — 900 fewer than during the insurrection — about 200 are in vocational classes and 60 are taking college-level courses from visiting instructors.

Plans for fundamental changes that would involve a major reorientation of corrections policy are embodied in the department's master plan for the next nine years.

The heart of the plan is a reduction in the number of prisoners held under maximum security and the start of an individualized classification system for rehabilitation.

But the price tag is $276 million, and not many of those in the corrections field believe the funds will be forthcoming from the legislature.

Chile Allows No Newsmen

MENDOZA, Argentina (AP) — A United Nations of newsmen shivered together Wednesday in a 12,000-foot-high Andean pass trying without success to talk their way into Chile.

The group grew to 100 as reporters flew in from Europe, the United States and other South American countries and then drove five hours to the border at Las Cuevas.

Many slept in their rented cars in the 10-degree weather after the few rooming houses filled up. Some had only light sweaters and business suits hastily packed after word came of the coup Tuesday.

"It's horrible up there, terribly cold," said a Uruguayan editor who returned to Mendoza and planned to try again Thursday.

Appeals and threats to the Chilean officials did no good.

A few yards away from the clamoring newsmen, crowds waited on the other side of the border to enter Argentina. The Chilean officials refused to allow any traffic in either direction.

There was no indication when the Santiago airport would reopen, but Chilean officials at the border said it might open today.

Sees School TV Role 'Fun' For New Star Lunch Cuts

WASHINGTON (AP) — As many as 800,000 fewer pupils may participate in the National School Lunch Program this year because of rising food prices, according to a study by the Senate Select Committee on Nutrition and Human Needs.

According to the staff study, one per cent of the children participating in the program drop out of it for every one per cent increase in the price of the lunches.

"The real tragedy of this crisis is that the impact is falling hardest on those low- and middle-income working families whose children are not protected by the law entitling children from the poorest families to lunches at no cost," said Sen. George S. McGovern, D-S.D., chairman of the committee. The full report is part of McGovern's testimony before a Senate Agriculture subcommittee hearing on several bills to increase and revise federal aid to school lunch and breakfast programs.

McGovern and Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., Wednesday introduced an Emergency Child Nutrition Bill that would increase federal reimbursements to local school districts for the programs to compensate for higher food and labor costs, McGovern said.

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Television's newest star lay on a bed in his hotel room here, watching "Huckleberry Hound." His chin rested in his hands. He was deep in thought. "Ricky, come here a minute," the star was told. "We've got someone we'd like you to meet."

Whereupon Ricky Segall, age 4½, got up, clicked off the TV set and made as grand an entrance as one can make when he's only 3 feet 3 and weighs in at 40 pounds.

The tyke is the latest addition to ABC's "Partridge Family" — he actually plays the son of the Partridge's neighbors — and makes his national debut in the series Saturday night.

He and his songwriting and singing parents, Barbara and Rick Segall, were in town to promote the show. Both father and son had guitars, although Ricky's was the size of a ukulele.

As it turned out, he could play on only the bass E string, but what do you want? Segovia?

Papa Segall, a staff songwriter with Screen Gems, which makes "Partridge Family," gave a quick briefing on how his mop-haired, brown-eyed offspring got a part on the show.

"It was a combination of freak luck and the show's desire to add a new element this season," he said.

Segall, who with his wife was born and raised in the New York area, moved to Nashville, Tenn., early this year in hopes of interesting record companies in the Segall songs and act.

While there, he said, a Screen Gems official gave them a listen and liked their songs. He also liked Ricky, a natural performer who by this time had become part of their singing act.

There was a new part opening on "Partridge Family" and Ricky got it. The entire family moved to Hollywood and began a new life with Screen Gems. End of story. Start of interview with star.

The only problem: what do you ask a 4½-year-old star? Perhaps an easy question, like "Do all those cameras scare you?" "Naw," said Ricky, munching on a hamburger. "How do you like performing?"

"Yes, it's fun." "Is there anything else you'd rather do?"

"Naw. Maybe be a baseball player." "Why?"

"Because," he insisted.

Scorched Trees Being Salvaged For Building

By MIKE SILVERMAN
Associated Press Writer
SONORA, Calif. (AP) — The house you live in may be built from trees that once burned in a raging forest fire.

Logging crews now are hauling out scorched lumber from forests throughout California and other Western states, where the worst fires in 20 years have ravaged nearly 200,000 acres of trees and brush.

Lumber company spokesmen say as much as 90 per cent of the wood from trees killed in these fires is useable as commercial lumber — if loggers can get it out of the forests before it becomes infested with insects.

"Ninety per cent of the time a fire will burn the bark and kill the tree, but the fire's burning so fast it doesn't stay in one spot long enough to destroy the wood," said Mark Bevan, chief forester for Fibreboard Corp., a San Francisco-based firm with timber holdings throughout the West.

Bevan spoke above the hum of buzzsaws felling dead trees in the middle of a burnt-out area in Stanislaus National Forest, 30 miles east of this Sierra foothills town.

A fire that broke out Aug. 17 blackened 17,000 acres and changed the face of the forest for a century in the four days it burned out of control. Bevan's employer owns 5,500 acres in the area.

Smoldering hot spots still send up occasional clouds of smoke, the forest floor is coated with mounds of ashes, and the air still is thick with an acrid, burning odor. But loggers already have begun the job of removing up to 1,000 trees a day before the first snowfall interrupts them.

After the trees are felled, they are cut into 33-foot lengths, "skidded" by tractors to the logging roads, and then hauled by truck to sawmills. Here they will be cut into marketable dimensions — much of the fir going for two-by-fours and plywood, the pine for home exteriors and wall paneling.

Logging in a black forest is much the same as in a green one, Bevan said, except the charred wood covers the men with grime and wears out their saws faster. The over-all operation is simpler than usual, he said, because the men are clearing everything out of a given area, instead of cutting selectively.

Bevan said the U. S. Forest Service puts out "salvage sales" on trees killed on its land, selling private firms the right to remove the trees and market their lumber.

Bevan said most mature trees killed in a fire retain nearly their full economic value if removed soon enough. About the only loss is the bark, which normally is sold for garden mulch and landscaping.

"The real loss is in young growing trees that were our future," Bevan said. "They can't even be used for paper, because the charcoal won't bleach out."

A burnt tree less than 20 years old has no commercial value, Bevan said. Loggers either bulldoze them into large heaps and burn them, or let them stand as shade for green seedlings to be planted nearby. By winter, most of the 5,000 acre burn area will be a mass of charred stumps. As soon as the snow melts in the spring, the forest will be replanted with 6-inch tall seedlings.

Shot Policeman Aids In Capture

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A policeman was shot Wednesday as he ran after a man suspected of robbing a bank.

However, Patrolman R. L. Grigsby was only grazed in the hand, and shortly afterwards helped capture the man.

The suspect, Carl Michael Johnson, 25, of Charlotte, was charged with robbing a branch of the North Carolina National Bank in north Charlotte. Authorities said the money stolen in North Carolina's 39th bank robbery of the year was recovered. The amount was not disclosed.

Johnson was held under $100,000 bond for a preliminary hearing on Sept. 25.

IT'S A GAS
NEW YORK (UPI)—Neon, its history and uses are chronicled in the Hallmark Gallery here. The name means new, and was given to the rare inert gas by Sir William Ramsay when he discovered it in 1898 while investigating the components of frozen air.

The 'Worry Clinic' Shrewd Analysis Of Surroundings

Patella's shrewd analysis should wake up the hippies and drones who are drifting through life, waiting for Uncle Sam's hand-outs. It should be discussed in full at all high school civics classes. Note also her excellent grammar!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE Y-514: Patella Pegues, aged 17 was a senior at McLain High School.

She wrote a remarkable essay, later reproduced in the Tulsa School Life and then widely reprinted by the Thomas Jefferson Research Center.

"I was raised as a virtually free American in Watts, a section of Los Angeles that has been called a slum by sightseers and a depressed area by sociologists.

"The neighborhood that I lived in was filled with all the requirements of a slum.

"But as a child, I never noticed.

"I can be considered fortunate because poverty never destroyed or even damaged my ideas or standards.

"Sociologists would probably label me as 'the privileged poor.'

"And indeed I am privileged, but poor I am not.

"Henry Ward Beecher once said, 'No man can judge whether he is rich or poor by turning to his ledger. It is the heart that makes men rich. He is rich according to what he is; not what he has.'

"We moved out of Watts... For the first time in life I realized that Watts had been pictured in many people's minds as a 20th Century 'tobacco road.'

"This was after the riots.
"This was when mass media began to degrade not only Watts, but all lower middle class communities as well.

"After the riots, scores of projects were started. Everybody thought they knew the answer.

"They thought the answer was money... Everyone wanted to study, to analyze, to discuss the lives of the poor.

"As time passed, the people began to believe the stories themselves.

"They no longer wanted to live happily, as in the past, not luxuriously but contentedly.

"The more money that poured in, the more money was needed to satisfy this new thirst.

"I learned through experience that you can't help people who don't want help.

"Now when I revisit Watts and walk around, I see small children sitting on street corners, not playing because they heard on television that the children in the next community have a new playground.

"Now Junior can see that his old ball field doesn't have the same dimensions as someone else's baseball diamond.

"All the bills in the legislature can't stop poverty.

"As a teen-ager and former citizen of Watts, I feel that now is the time to inform the younger generation that... no one owes them anything.

"You can be what you want to be—not disregarding your background but quite often because of it."

Patella's superb essay has been abridged somewhat because of space limitations, but it expresses Christ's doctrine.

For Jesus distinguished between the shiftless, indolent poor vs. the temporary poor who had ambition and would pull themselves upward.

That's why Jesus never went around, house-to-house, healing everybody or handing out free food stamps!

Unless the poor had enough faith and ambition to seek Christ, Jesus let them remain in squalor, to starve or die of their ailments.

"For the poor ye have with you always," He wisely forecast.

Opening lead: Four of ♣
More contracts are lost thru hasty play to the first trick than for any other reason. On this hand, South was guilty of an extreme case of "flying fingers," and paid the penalty.

South's hand does not quite measure up to an opening no trump bid. The five-card suit and two tens bring the hand up to the equivalent of 16 points, the weak doubleton spade is a flaw. However, once North responded in spades, South could show the balanced nature of his hand with a no trump rebid, and North invited game. South was delighted to accept.

Dummy had hardly appeared on the table when South called for the heart ten and followed with the deuce from his hand. A diamond was led to the ten, losing to West's queen. Back came a spade, taken in dummy, and a diamond to the king forced the ace. West returned another spade, and since declarer had no more entries to dummy, he was forced to cash the remaining spade honor.

From this point declarer was unable to develop an additional winner, so he had to be content with eight tricks—three in each major and one in each minor.

Had South bothered to count his tricks before playing to trick one, he would have realized that he could come to nine tricks by giving up two tricks in the diamond suit, thereby setting up dummy's nine as the ninth trick. The diamond finesse was unnecessary; what was important was enough entries to the table.

Therefore, South should have won the first trick in his hand and played the king of diamonds. West can take the ace and attack dummy's entries by leading a spade, but declarer remains in control. He wins in dummy and leads a diamond to the jack and queen. West continues with spades, dummy winning again.

A diamond to the ten frees the nine in dummy for the ninth trick. The queen of hearts, carefully preserved as an entry from the start, is the means of getting back to dummy to take a high spade and the diamond.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, SEPTEMBER 14, 1973

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Emotionalism which is widespread today could cause a long series of adverse events, so make sure you are truly cooperative. Don't allow yourself to think about the faults, failings or mistakes of your companions, or you will have a bad effect on them and yourself

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) An associate and a family tie could be at sword's point, so keep neutral for now. Later all is calm and pleasant. Not a good day for entertaining at home, inviting strangers.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Schedule time and activities well, otherwise if you try to do everything at once you wind up doing nothing. Don't try any tricks, either. Put your own inimitable stamp on everything you do.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Put your energy into monetary matters of importance and put off the recreational to a more opportune time. Bringing an adviser and an attachment together is inviting trouble now. Dine sumptuously in p.m.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Not the right day to discuss difficult matters at home, for there could be serious arguments resulting. Even the changing around of a piece of furniture could make tempers fly. Atmosphere is tense even in the outside world.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get busy and accomplish much in the world of activity instead of fretting and fuming foolishly. Plan some time to help a good friend who is having difficulties. Consider own affairs first.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Do errands and shopping important now that you have promised others you would attend to. Listen to what a business expert has to suggest. Follow the best advice given you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Take care you do not sever relations with another under stress, or you could regret it later. Cool off and see whether you are in the wrong. Avoid another who annoys you and save yourself trouble.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Take care you do not go out on some tangent or other and leave important work behind you that needs your immediate attention. Take the exercise that will add to present energy. Evening is fine for study.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study those interests at hand carefully so you know which to center your attention upon first and don't become confused. Show more thought for the one you love. Reach a far better understanding.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Delve into the responsibilities that are yours both at home and in the business world and steer clear of the recreational where you could get into arguments. Accomplish a good deal. Work with vim and vigor.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Not a good day to make important decisions, but fine for getting into all those odds and ends that need doing and require imagination. Have fun with mate.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Being interested in whatever has to do with finances and property can make this a banner day for you. Fine day to plan repairs to property needed to make the winter months ahead comfortable and safe. Work.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those young people who has to be taught early to do any work started in an efficient way, for if shoddiness is not curbed early, the fine promise here can be lessened and the life can become an unhappy one. Teach to cooperate more with others, also, especially family and partners. The mentality here is very good otherwise and there can be considerable success, especially in the field of business, selling, etc.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Mongoli Says Border Violated

By JAMES R. PEIPERT
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — Mongolia has charged that Chinese troops repeatedly trespass on its territory to carry out photo reconnaissance and kill cattle.

An article in the Mongolian paper Utga Dzohiol Uriag — Literature and Art — also accused the Chinese of sabotaging the Mongolian economy, "forced assimilation and ruthless repression" of Mongolians living in China and developing a fifth column among more than 7,000 Chinese citizens living in Mongolia.

Sandwiched between China and the Soviet Union, Mongolia has been a Soviet satellite since a revolution in 1921 aided by the Red Army. It was a Chinese province until 1911, and the Peking still claims large portions of Mongolian territory.

"The Maoists systematically violate the state frontier of the Mongolian People's Republic and concentrate large armed forces along it," said the articler in Utga Dzohiol Uriag. "In the period from 1969 to July 1973, the Chinese conducted 151 military exercises in the frontier zone, at no time more than 50 yards from the border. In the same period there were more than 8,000 instances of explosions and artillery fire by Chinese army units.

"Direct violations of the M.P.R. frontier are also committed. Despite repeated protests from the Mongolian side, Chinese soldiers and officers deliberately cross into Mongolian territory, at times penetrating as deep as 10 to 12 miles, carry out photo reconnaissance, open fire at herds of cattle, and kill rare species of animals protected by law ...

"Needless to say, under the circumstances we have no alternative but to strengthen our defenses, in particular to safeguard our frontiers, and this diverts a great deal of energy and funds from peaceful construction."

Back In School And Whole Inch Taller

ROCKAWAY TOWNSHIP, N.J. (AP) — Jan Ann West-erink, a spunky sixth-grader, is back at school this month — and is an inch taller than she was a few months ago. Big deal!

This might not sound like a "big deal" for a normal child, but Jan Ann, whose parents call her "Jennie," is not a normal child.

Most of her intestines have been removed and replaced with a plastic substitute, and for the past several months she was afflicted with a calcium disorder that caused her to actually shrink two inches.

But now doctors say she appears to be winning her battle against the calcium problem, thanks to treatment she received last month in Richmond, Va.

Most of Jennie's intestines were removed a year ago after a bout with gangrene, and after that she was placed on a special formula to fight the affliction.

But doctors say something in the formula caused her to lose calcium between the bones of her spine, keeping the bones from touching. As a result, she began experiencing severe pain in her back.

Examination revealed she had shrunk two inches.

Since her trip to Richmond two weeks ago, where she was under the care of Dr. Neil Hatcher, an intestine specialist, she has grown an inch. Hatcher says the calcium is being restored as quickly as possible, and even though X-rays do not show it yet, the doctors are confident of her recovery from the calcium disorder.

For Jennie, her victory over the calcium ailment came the hard way. She remains in a body brace that circles her waist and runs to her armpits. The brace holds her spine up so that the calcium will have a chance to grow back properly, doctors say.

'Interested' In House Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — A onetime aide to former Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy, D-Minn., says McCarthy is seriously considering seeking the U.S. House seat from Minnesota's 6th District.

Jerry Eller, Arlington, Va., told the Washington bureau of the St. Paul Pioneer Press that McCarthy is "definitely interested" in running for the seat being vacated by Rep. John Zwach, R-Minn.

"He's been talking to people out in Minnesota and here," Eller said. "He's going to decide soon and announce one way or another."

Eller said he will visit Minnesota next week "to check things out" for the onetime Democratic presidential contender.

McCarthy served in the Senate for 12 years before deciding against seeking re-election in 1972 and served five terms in the House from Minnesota's 4th District before that.

Farmville Leaf Market Prices Continue Firm

FARMVILLE — With few exceptions, prices continue strong on all grades of tobacco sold on the Farmville Market, according to Louis Williams, sales supervisor for the Farmville Tobacco Board of Trade.

For the third straight day, prices have averaged more than 90 cents a pound, Williams said. Volumes of leaf and other grades were more equally divided than on any previous day this week. Leaf grades accounted for top prices. Offerings continued to improve in quality as the middle and top portion of the stalk were reached.

Some 510,696 pounds were sold for $471,096.36, averaging 90.65 per hundred pounds. To date the Farmville Market has sold 6,866,534 pounds for $5,990,310.01, for a season average of $87.24.

Replaced

RALEIGH (AP)—The Holsouser administration Wednesday replaced a career state employe in the Division of Motor Vehicles with the unsuccessful Republican candidate for state attorney general in 1972.

Secretary of Transportation Bruce Lentz said Nick Smith, a Chapel Hill attorney, would become head of the license and theft agency on September 17.

He replaces Gonzalie Rivers, a Democrat who has worked for the state since 1947.

Smith, 35, was defeated by Robert Morgan in the 1972 elections. He has been mentioned as a potential GOP Congressional candidate in 1974.

Prosecutor Cox Studies Alternatives

By DONALD ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If the court battle over access to the White House Watergate tapes is not resolved by mid-November, special prosecutor Archibald Cox may ask Congress to extend the term of the federal grand jury investigating the break-in and cover-up.

A spokesman for the special prosecutor acknowledged that an act of Congress extending the grand jury term beyond Dec. 5, is one of two alternatives now under consideration. The other would be resubmitting the evidence to a new grand jury.

There is concern within Cox's office that the battle over the tapes will not be resolved before the end of the grand jury's term.

A decision from the U.S. Court of Appeals is expected by Oct. 1, with a Supreme Court decision likely by Nov. 1.

But Cox's staff isn't certain that will be the end of the court battle.

The White House has stated repeatedly that the President will abide by a definitive decision of the Supreme Court. But neither presidential press spokesmen nor Charles Alan Wright, the President's attorney in the tapes case, has been willing to say exactly what is meant by definitive.

There is a possibility that the Supreme Court could refer the case back to the lower courts or that its decision, if it went against the President, would require some clarification.

For example, U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica ordered the President to give him the tapes subpoenaed by Cox so that he could listen to them in private and determine if Nixon had a valid claim for withholding them.

But even though Sirica appeared to be upholding Cox's contention that the courts, not the President, should decide whether the tapes could be withheld, the special prosecutor wasn't fully satisfied with the judge's decision.

Cox asked the Court of Appeals to change Sirica's order to permit the prosecutor to listen to the tapes along with the judge to point out the parts essential to the Watergate investigation.

And members of the seven-judge panel that heard the Appeals Court arguments on Tuesday also questioned exactly how Sirica's decision would be implemented. Lawyers for Sirica invited the Appeals Court to add whatever guidelines they saw fit. Thus, if the President accepted a court ruling upholding Sirica's decision, his lawyers still could go back into court seeking clarification or change of the procedures to be followed.

Meanwhile, the grand jury's 18-month term would be drawing to a close and the only way to extend it is through an act of Congress.

A spokesman for Cox said the prosecutor remains "confident a resolution of the tapes case can come in plenty of time." He added that Cox has not yet discussed the possibility of legislation with Congressional leaders.

Mexico Has Trade Show

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Businessmen say you once could hire your own "coyote" to ferret out Mexican deals, but now Mexico is bringing its business to the United States.

American businessman representing concerns as big as J.C. Penney and as small as a West Texas trading post have been here this week to examine Mexican products on display at an exhibition hall.

For his firm, Don Quimby of Dallas examined toilet fixtures, leather soccer balls, and replacement ignition switches for autos.

What would one expect if the corner gas station put an ignition in his car which said, "Made in Mexico"?

"You'd expect exactly what you would expect in American parts or better," said Quimby. "The American people have got to stop thinking of the Mexican manufacturer as the siesta type leaned up against the wall with the moustache."

MOVE OVER, JACK — Robert Carr of Mansfield (Ohio) has the growingest garden. Among his 27-inch beans, 10-inch tomatoes and 2½-pound carrots, a colossal beanstalk towers into the sky. A full 25-feet tall, it does present harvesting problems. Carr is shown atop a 6-foot ladder while the stalk stretches to the clouds. (AP Wirephoto)

Wiretap Policy Is Spelled Out

WASHINGTON (AP) — For the first time Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson has spelled out Justice Department policy allowing national security wiretaps in cases related to foreign intelligence-gathering.

The Supreme Court ruled a year ago that the government could not conduct domestic security wiretaps without first obtaining judicial consent.

The court did not apply its restriction to wiretaps said necessary for national security, and Richardson's statement was the first explanation of policy on those taps since the court action.

Richardson's explanation came in a letter to Sen. J. W. Fulbright, D-Ark., chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. That committee has questioned the role of Secretary of State-designate Henry A. Kissinger in authorizing national security wiretaps on 17 individuals.

In the letter to Fulbright Richardson said that he will not approve any application for electronic surveillance unless it is designed:

—"To protect the nation against actual or potential attack or other hostile acts of a foreign power.

—"To obtain foreign intelligence information deemed essential to the security of the United States.

—"Or to protect national security information against foreign intelligence activities."

Feel Progress In Auto Talks

By PIET BENNETT
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — With the remaining hours in the United Auto Workers' talks with Chrysler Corp. dwindling toward a Friday night strike deadline, a union official says there has been "a feeling of progress."

But the expressions of optimism were not reflected in agreements on any issues still dividing the company and the union after nearly 12 hours of negotiations Wednesday.

"There was a feeling that progress had been made although there is nothing definite to report," UAW Vice President Douglas Fraser told newsmen.

Fraser's remarks were echoed by UAW President Leonard

Woodcock, who said late Wednesday, "I think it is fair to say we have had a very good discussion without reaching any conclusions."

Woodcock added: "We are still hopeful that there will be, and can be, an agreement."

Chrysler apparently was optimistic, too.

The company scheduled 80,550 of its 127,500 union employees to work overtime Saturday, the day after the strike deadline.

"We certainly have not given up hope," Woodcock said, despite the approach of the strike deadline, 11:59 p.m. EDT Friday.

"Since we are still at it, both sides must think there is still an opportunity," he said.

When asked if there is enough time to reach full agreement without a strike, Woodcock replied, "Probably not, but there are other ways."

He would not clarify what he meant, although the UAW leader repeated his insistence the union would not extend its current contract with Chrysler.

Jewish Model Portrayed Arab

NEW YORK (AP) — "The search for an Arab came through my organization," says Manhattan talent agent Steve Kaye. "We couldn't find an Arab so I volunteered."

The bearded 33-year-old Kaye appears in Arab headdress and robes, his arms folded as he holds a gasoline pump to symbolize the "Arab Oil Squeeze" on this week's cover of Newsweek magazine.

Kaye is Jewish. "My emotions were rather mixed," Kaye said Wednesday. "I have family in Israel. My brother is in Kibbutz Yizrael, near Jerusalem, and I sent him a copy of the Newsweek cover. "My wife is delighted, and the whole neighborhood where I live, in Marlboro, N.J., is calling. 'Nobody is outraged.'"
