

Settlement Seen Possibly Near On New School Site

Agnew Resignation Said Now Increasingly Likely

The condemnation suit on the site of the proposed new middle junior high school may possibly be near settlement.

At the September meeting of the Greenville City School board Monday night, Superintendent Glenn Cox reported that the ruling of the Superior Court jury last week set $147,350 as a fair price for the 30 acre site east of Hooker Road.

This is $2,650 short of the $150,000 price for the land originally asked by the owners. Declared an excessive price by the Pitt County Commissioners, the site became the subject of a condemnation suit.

To date, legal fees have been paid in excess of $2,000 and there are other legal fees that have accrued since June 1 that have yet to be paid.

"At this point," Cox stated, "I have no information of the owner's intent to file an appeal." If they do, Cox informed, the next route is the Appellate Court. "That court would rule on procedures in the Superior Court hearing, and if o.k., the $147,350 price would remain. If the Appellate Court found an error in the court's operation of the case, it would come back and we'd have to start all over again."

In the event the $147,350 price tag becomes the final price for the land, that amount plus legal fees will run more than the original asking price.

School board members again last night reiterated their unanimous support of the $300 million North Carolina School bond issue that will be before the voters on November 6.

A successful statewide passage will give the Greenville City Schools a little less than $1.5 million for use by the local city schools.

The board reviewed preliminary plans for a campaign of support now being formulated as a joint project by the Pitt County and the Greenville City School systems.

The rest of September will be spent in coordination of groundwork plans with October to be the time for a concerted push to bring the issue before the public.

A major point emphasized by board members is that the top priority in the need of school bond funds is the projected construction of a new middle junior high school, estimated to cost in excess of $2 to construct.

As Cox pointed out, if the bond issue is successfully carried, the money for each school system can be spent in a manner determined by each school board, once a development plan is drawn up and submitted to state officials, and their approval is obtained.

Considerable discussion was spent on the possibility of using from this source an amount sufficient to complete the air conditioning of all the city schools.

Relative to air conditioning, George (Bennie) Dunn asked for and received permission to place at his own expense portable air conditioning units in a sixth grade classroom at Sadie Sautter school, in which Dunn's wife is a teacher. The board granted him this request.

In personnel matters, three resignations were accepted, one election approved, and two maternity leaves of absences granted. The two maternity leaves will be from December 22 through March 19, with interim teachers to receive full instead of substitute salaries with the exception of days the regular teachers are hospitalized. This arrangement is in accordance with new state laws.

In other matters, the school board:

—Agreed to be available during the week of October 7 for a board hearing requested by a member of the school staff;

—Named Mrs. Shank and Henry Dunn as representatives with voting powers to the N. C. School Boards Association Convention to be held in Wilmington on November 1, 2, and 3rd;

—Elected Henry Dunn to be vice-chairman of the board;

—Authorized the school administration to make necessary arrangements within schools to not exceed state imposed maximum class sizes through the use of multi-age groupings in the elementary schools; and —Authorized Greenville city schools participating in establishing a joint Greenville-Pitt County health education curriculum with particular emphasis on drugs. Greenville and Pitt County schools are being considered as one of four such centers in North Carolina.

Cox reported that total student enrollment as of September 12 stood at 5,635. This figure includes kindergarten through grades 12.

Cox also reported that an additional federal allocation

WASHINGTON (AP) — A senior Republican figure says he is 99½ per cent sure that Vice President Spiro T. Agnew will resign, probably this week, The Washington Post said today.

The Post said that it has learned that Agnew has held lengthy discussion in the past few days on the advisability of resigning voluntarily.

The report was not flatly denied by Agnew's press secretary, J. Marsh Thomson, although he said it was "no better a story than the rumors that have been circulating about the vice president recently."

Thomson has declined to comment directly on the substance of the various news reports concerning Agnew's legal difficulties in a Maryland probe of alleged political corruption.

The Post said the unnamed senior Republican it talked to had spent two hours with Agnew last week trying to talk him out of resigning, but was convinced that he had failed and that the vice president would resign.

According to the article, the high-ranking Republican said Agnew is determined to prove that he is innocent of the charges that have been under investigation in Baltimore.

However, the newspaper said the vice president is considering resigning because of the intense pressure on his family and also because of indications that President Nixon wants him to resign.

In the past, Agnew and his aides have repeatedly discounted any possibility of resignation.

Thomson said he did not know who the prominent Republican referred to in the Post report is and said the vice president talked with several persons in the past week. He named Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott and Rep. John McClellan, R-Ill., an occasional tennis partner, as among these, but said he did not have a complete list.

He said he was not aware of any conversations between Agnew and President Nixon since their two-hour conversation in the White House Oval Office two weeks ago.

A source who is familiar with the vice president's thinking said the report that he was considering resigning appeared "totally contradictory to the vice president's whole frame of mind and his predisposition to face up to the case and see it through."

Reward Money In Twin Killing Continues Grow

ROANOKE, N.C. (AP) — The reward money has risen to more than $6,000 for information leading to conviction in the slaying of J. W. Shay, 55, a Roanoke Rapids supermarket manager, and his wife Shirley, 41.

Their bodies were found Sept. 9 in a gravel pit near Charles City, Va., 100 miles from Roanoke Rapids. Police surmise they were kidnapped from their home and beaten to death. Robbery had been suspected as a motive, but police now discount this.

The Roanoke Rapids group of J. P. Stevens textile mills added $2,000 reward money Monday to similar sums offered by the City Council and the governor's office. A citizens group also is raising reward money.

117 Pints Of Blood Donated

The Red Cross Bloodmobile collected one over its quota yesterday, with 117 donors and 27 persons willing to give who were rejected for various reasons.

Mrs. Ruth Taylor, Red Cross Executive Secretary, gave special credit to the Greenville Public Works Department, which had 62 employees turn out to give. City Manager Bill Carstarphen said of the effort, "I am proud and appreciative of the interest of the men and women of the Public Works Department showed for their community through their participation in the Red Cross Blood Drive Monday. Not only do they give their best effort daily providing services to their City, but they also show their concern for its citizens through their contributions. I don't think there is another organization in the community that had as good participation in this Blood Drive as did the City of Greenville Public Works Department."

tioned the example of one Pitt County School that had 17 different meters as one type of thing to avoid.

"We have similar situations, and will end up paying the higher rate for each meter," Cox said. "It's a tough situation."

On lunchroom prices, Cox said "I can see no way out except to ask for an increased in lunch prices at the next board meeting."

Typical food cost information based on nine separate menus, show that the average cost of food alone per plate is 33 cents. When an estimated labor cost per plate of 27 and one-half cents is added, the total cost per meal comes out to 61 cents. Prices

Eaton Corp. Officials Arrive To Announce Plans For Plant

Officials of Eaton Corp. came to Greenville this morning to formally announce plans for construction of a 310,000 square foot facility for manufacturing electric fork lift trucks.

Robert R. Dahl, general manager operations, for the Industrial Truck division of Eaton Corp., had revealed about ten days ago that Greenville had been chosen for the facility. He was here today for a late morning press conference and a luncheon at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Eaton has purchased a 70-acre tract of land on the Nelson farm facing on the new Eastern bypass.

Some 200 people will initially be employed with the number reaching 350 by the end of 1975. Dahl said hiring is to begin shortly after January 1, 1974. Fabricators, welders and assemblers are to be trained in a temporary building to be erected on the site.

(1) The employment figure will level off at about 500 in 1976.
(2) Dahl said he is not prepared to name the general contractor at this time. However, he is hopeful that site work will begin in three or four weeks.

This will be Eaton's sixth plant in North Carolina, Dahl said. He pointed to the aggressive expertise offered by North Carolina's Division of Commerce and Industry as greatly assisting Eaton in the selection of an ideal manufacturing site for the new plant.

Eaton's Industrial Truck Division is the largest manufacturer of electric fork lift trucks in the world. The division also produces Yale trucks powered by gas, LP gas, and diesel in lift capacities ranging from 2,000 pounds to 15,000 pounds.

Eaton is a worldwide manufacturer of automotive, materials handling, industrial and consumer products with annual sales well over the billion dollar mark.

The Industrial Truck Division of Eaton is part of the Materials

Handling group and is the largest division of that group.

Manufacturing and assembly facilities outside the United States are located in Brazil, Canada, England, West Germany and Japan.

Yale fork lift trucks are currently being built in three plants in the United States including Philadelphia, Pa.; Salem, Va.; Roanoke, Va. and Forrest City, Arkansas. The Greenville facility will be the fifth manufacturing facility for the production of Yale fork lift trucks in this country.

The Industrial Truck Division also maintains a completely computerized parts distribution center in Flemington, N.J. The 269,000 square foot facility stocks over 71,000 separate part numbers, and supplies 85 Yale dealers in 130 locations in the United States and Canada.

Dahl, as general manager operations for Eaton Corporation's Industrial Truck Division is responsible for the operations of five Industrial Truck Division plants in North America, and the plant manager of the new facility in Greenville will report directly to him.

He was named to the position in 1972 and he has been with Eaton since 1951.

A native of Chicago, Dahl is a graduate of the Illinois Institute of Technology and holds a BS in mechanical engineering. He is married and the father of four children.

Chrysler Terms Facing Test By Rank-And-File

DETROIT (AP) — A weekly limit of 14 hours of mandatory overtime and retirement with full pension after 30 years on the job were keys to the agreement reached between the Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers.

If approved by 117,000 production workers at Chrysler, the agreement would end the nation's first major industrial strike of 1973. They walked out at midnight Friday when the old contract expired.

"In industrial union terms, it certainly is a breakthrough and precedent setting," UAW President Leonard Woodcock said Monday in announcing terms of the pact with the nation's No. 3 auto maker.

But his glowing statement was not echoed on the picket line outside a key Chrysler plant in Detroit.

"They're still telling us we have to work more than eight hours a day," said John Henderson, a welder at the Mack Avenue plant.

Under the agreement, an employee cannot be forced to work more than nine hours a day or more than six days a week. Other major provisions of the three-year pact included wage hikes of just over five per cent in the first year and three per cent in the second and third years; more inspections of plants in a bid to make them safer; and an extra paid holiday, the day after Thanksgiving. Chrysler production workers now average $5.12 an hour.

The agreement also guarantees wage parity between Chrysler's U.S. and Canadian employees. Canadian workers now receive 11 cents an hour less.

The "30-and-out" retirement package carries no minimum age. It provides a pension boost of $50 monthly starting next March and a total $200 increase by Oct. 1, 1978. The current pension is $500. It also eliminates a provision in the current contract under which retirement benefits are reduced when a retiree becomes eligible for Social Security.

The tentative agreement does not cover the 10,500 UAW-represented white collar workers at Chrysler. Bargaining on an agreement for those employees continued.

Woodcock said he is certain production workers will not be back in the plants before next week because the UAW's contract ratification procedures will take at least that long.

The pact has been approved by the union's International Executive Board and the 13-member Chrysler bargaining team. It must be approved by the 200-member Chrysler Council before it is submitted to union locals for a vote by the rank and file.

More Banks Up Interest Rates

NEW YORK (AP) — Several more large banks have raised their prime interest rate to the record-high level of 10 per cent.

The increases from 9½ were announced Monday despite a government request for supporting data from two other major banks that began the current round of prime rate hikes.

Among banks moving to 10 per cent were Bankers Trust and Manufacturers Hanover Trust in New York, Harris Trust & Savings Bank and the First National Bank of Chicago, the National Bank of Detroit and Mercantile Trust in St. Louis.

The latest increases marked the 18th quarter-point rise this year in the banks' minimum lending fee charged to their most creditworthy corporate customers.

The Committee on Interest and Dividends, part of the Nixon administration's economic controls program, has requested data justifying the current increase from Wells Fargo Bank of San Francisco and First National City Bank of New York, which announced late last week that they were upping the prime to 10 per cent.

The prime rate has no direct effect on interest on loans to small business and the general public. But sustained increases in the prime are viewed widely as an indication that all lending rates are headed higher.

School Budgets Being Eroded By Rising Costs

Spiraling living costs are rapidly eroding guidelines for school budgets in at least two areas—electricity and food—in the early days of the new 73-74 school year.

"We've already spent 40 per cent of this year's utility allotment after two months. This is a serious problem," Superintendent Glenn Cox told school board members at the September board meeting Monday night.

Cox said he had met with Greenville Utilities Commission Director Charles Horne "in trying to assess the situation. He came up with some suggestions, things we can do." Cox mentioned the example of one Pitt County School that had 17 different meters as one type of thing to avoid.

"The food service does receive reimbursement for free and reduced lunches and earns a little supplemental from sale of ice cream and such extras," Cox said, "but there's no possible way to keep from going in the hole under the current circumstances."

Board members asked Cox to attempt to get figures from other North Carolina schools on their food price problems for use in a comparative analysis prior to the next board meeting.

Miss Mary Lou Atkins Exchanges Vows Saturday

MARTINSVILLE, Va.—Miss Mary Lou Atkins and Leslie Hill Davis were united in marriage at 4:00 p.m. Saturday in the First Baptist Church here. Dr. Chevis Ferber Horne performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Albert Brice Atkins of Martinsville, Va., and the late Mr. Atkins. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Bruce Hill Davis of Rt. 7, Charlotte, N.C. and the late Mr. Davis.

W. Louis Turner, organist, Dr. David H. Lewis, violinist, the Rev. Robert L. Chapman, vocalist, and the Sanctuary Choir of First Baptist Church, under the direction the Rev. Chapman, presented a program of wedding music.

The vows were exchanged in a setting of growing palms, brass arch and spiral candelabra holding ivory cathedral candles and standing baskets of white gladioli, shades of yellow mums and peaches and cream carnations centered with a white kneeling bench. At the close of the ceremony, the bride and bridegroom lighted the Unity candle, symbolizing their being joined into one.

Given in marriage by her cousin, Archie Wesley Viperman, of Stuart, Va., the bride wore a formal Victorian gown of candlelight slipper satin, trimmed with hand-clipped chantilly lace featuring an empire waist. The bodice was made of lace over Brussel netting, embellished with seed pearls, having a stand-up collar and long semi-fitted sleeves appliqued with lace medallions with a lace flounce over the wrist. The A-line skirt had lace medallions, encrusted with seed pearls, appliqued over the skirt and the chapel length train.

Her headpiece was a face-framer Juliet cap made of matching lace, covered with seed pearls and crystals, attached to a shoulder length veil of double illusion. She carried a Victorian bouquet of ivory roses, baby's breath, stephanotis and feathered peaches and cream carnations with ivory satin streamers.

Matron of honor was Mrs. Hinton Arthur Stoudemire of Ridgeway, Va. She wore a formal gown of shrimp chiffon styled with an empire waist. The bodice had a round neckline with an ivory chiffon collar trimmed with ruffled cluny lace and long full sheer sleeves. The skirt fell from a self-fabric band at the midriff, having a sash, bowed in the back, with long streamers. She wore a triple-looped shrimp velvet bow in her hair and carried a colonial bouquet of tropicana roses, yellow daisies, peaches and cream carnations and baby's breath with shrimp velvet ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Dorothy May Eller of Ridgeway, Va. Mrs. Harry Davis Hensley of Martinsville, Va., Mrs. Archie Wesley Viperman of Stuart, Va., and Mrs. Silas Bruce Davis of Mooresville, N.C. They were attired similar to the honor attendant.

Flower girl was Miss Nancy Marie Stoudemire of Ridgeway, Va. She wore a formal gown of white cotton batiste flocked with embroidered pink rose buds, styled with an empire waist, having a ruffled stand-up collar, long full sleeves and belted with a pink satin ribbon streaming down the front. She wore a pink satin triple-looped bow in her hair and carried a princess basket of mixed summer flowers.

Best man was the bridegroom's brother, Silas Bruce Davis, of Mooresville, N.C.

Ushers were John W. Brown, cousin of the bridegroom, of Roxboro, N.C., David K. Harmon of Chapel Hill, N.C., James G. Tucker Jr. of Elizabethtown, N. C., Glen W. Walker of Franklinville, N.C., Charles M. Wilson of Elizabeth City, N.C., and Stephen R. Jones of North Wilkesboro, N.C.

The bride's mother wore a formal gown of pastel pink pebble crepe, styled with a round neckline having a sheer rolled collar tied in the front and long sheer sleeves made of Brussel netting and lace. The bodice featured covered buttons down the front. Her corsage was a pink throated cymbidium no reason for people to treat me, a working person, the way they did."

When one employer, while Mrs. Kahn was hauling an antique sofa up a flight of stairs, told a customer that "Kathy had to be fired because she wasn't the class of person to associate with the customers," Mrs. Kahn fought back. She pushed the antique sofa down the stairs where it splintered at the boss's feet. Then she left the shop. The customer took her to lunch.

"That was the point where I said I'm going to show other people women can stand up for their own rights," she remembered.

Mrs. Kahn, who lives in Austin, Tex., says that she styles herself "an honest activist," and that she will spend the rest of her life doing workshops and helping working people's groups. But she also has a new career.

"I wrote songs and played guitar when I got involved in country music living in the mountains," she said. "One day I realized I was doing a funny picking thing, and realized it was banjo picking. So my husband made me a banjo — a five string — and fretted it by hand. When you're left handed, those things are a problem.

"The new one came from Nashville and is very, very fine," she added.

One album of Mrs. Kahn's songs has already been released, and she is working on the next.

"Being a woman singer-performer is hard," she said. "You're just treated differently because you are a woman. It's a hassle to get booked into clubs even through an agent."

The next project, after the new album, will be a new book on working class women which is, she says, more her point of view. It includes all kinds of women involved in relatively unskilled jobs, how they are treated by their families, how they work and what they think about, she said.

"It will be an organizing tool," she said. "It will help teach problems of the working class. It's all a matter of sharing skills and abilities, resisting all the oppression working class people run into."

Most of all, Mrs. Kahn added, it would be good to change the custom-made assumptions often made about poor people.

Couple To Renew Marriage Vows

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 By Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: This may sound like I'm bragging, and I suppose I am, but this is the way it was:

A couple of weeks ago I was walking past my husband's chair in the living room when he reached out and took my hand and said: "Honey, will you marry me?" [We were married in 1935!] I said: "Are you trying to tell me we aren't married after all these years?" He grinned and replied: "Oh, we're good and married. I'm taking an early retirement, and we're going to start all over again, just the two of us, like we did 38 years ago. If you'd like to go thru another wedding with me, I'd like it, too."

Well, I sat down and bawled. I called a local minister and explained it to him, saying I hoped he wouldn't think it was funny. He said he didn't think it was funny at all, he thought it was beautiful, and he agreed to perform the ceremony for us. [We didn't need another license or blood test.]

My sister, who lives in Bishop, Calif., was my bridesmaid when we were first married, so I called her and asked if she'd do it again. She said: "Tell me when you want me, and I'll be there if I have to take a bus." My brother will be our best man.

This may strike you as nothing special, but it sure means the world to me.

MARRYING DON AGAIN
BALDWIN PARK, CAL.

DEAR MARRYING: I think it's beautiful. Congratulations and God bless you. More couples should renew their marriage vows.

DEAR ABBY: Can a man tell if a woman has had silicone implants to enlarge her breasts? [I don't mean by looking, I mean by touching.]

I've talked to two girls who have had it done, and one says a man would have to be awfully dumb not to know, because hers feel like grapefruit. She said she's not sorry she did it because they look fine.

The other girl said nobody could tell she had anything done.

Are there any telltale marks? What do your experts have to say about this?

CONSIDERING IT

DEAR CONSIDERING: The girl with the "grapefruit" must have had her implants some time ago when harder materials were used. Softer materials are now used that feel like the real thing.

To answer your question: Whether a man could tell if a woman had had a breast implant would depend on the amount of breast tissue she had before surgery and the way she healed. The only telltale marks are the tiny scars under the breasts, which in time become practically invisible. And if a layman tried to prove that a girl had had it done, he'd have his hands full.

The bridegroom's mother wore a formal gown of mint green chiffon, styled with an empire waist, featuring a jeweled stand-up collar, jeweled panel down the center of the bodice, and long sheer sleeves with jeweled cuffs. The skirt was bouffantly gathered, falling from a self-fabric row of piping. Her corsage was a yellow throated cymbidium orchid.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

During the reception, a program of semi-classical and popular piano selections was presented by John Terrel Fulcher Jr., pianist.

Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Armand F. Harrell, Mrs. David K. Harmon, Mrs. Joseph C. Pratt and Mrs. Harry V. Stone. The guest register was attended by Mrs. Robert L. Draper.

For travel on a southern wedding trip, the bride wore a sleeveless coral polyester dress with matching tailored jacket and black patten accessories. She wore a corsage of yellow and bronze cymbidium orchids.

The bride is a graduate of Averett College, Danville, Va., and Cannon Trust School, Brevard, N.C. She is employed as a Trust Department administrative assistant at Piedmont Trust Bank, Martinsville, Va.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Davidson College, Davidson, N.C. and graduated magna cum laude in May of this year from the University of North Carolina School of Pharmacy, Chapel Hill, N.C. where he qualified scholastically for membership in Rho Chi, honorary pharmaceutical fraternity. He is employed as a pharmacist with Eckerd Drug Stores, Charlotte, N.C., and served as a captain in the 329th USAR Hospital, Charlotte, N.C.

Wore Cake Around Waist

HAMBURG, West Germany (WNS)—Flower girl Annamaria Lichter made sure that she would not miss any of the wedding cake after her sister's wedding. The ten-year-old girl got her baker-father to make a doughnut-shaped cake which she wore around her middle during the ceremony.

Young Actress Sees Change Due

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Canadian-born actress Susan Clark says big movie names no longer constitute box office appeal.

"Hollywood is still male oriented, which may account for the fact that there are so many problems at the box office," said the auburn-haired Miss Clark in an interview.

"But people today go to the movies for the picture. Independent producers know this and can make a movie about a scarecrow work. But Hollywood has ignored it," she said.

Miss Clark, 29, says she has played with ten of the great super-stars. But, she adds, she has never been in a film that was a runaway box-office smash success.

In six years she has made movies with Jim Garner, Burt Reynolds, Robert Redford, Henry Fonda, Clint Eastwood and Burt Lancaster, with whom she stars in her newest movie, "The Midnight Man." Her first film co-starred Gene Hackman. She was in "Showdown" with Rock Hudson and Dean Martin.

"That movie is a perfect example of what I mean," she said. "The publicity and advertising department is building up two photographs, one of Dean and one of Rock. They are selling those two names, not the idea that three characters are involved in a movie."

It is frustrating for actresses, but the male-oriented bit isn't new, she added. It has been going on since World War II "when a soldier returned home as a dominant male, a hero with a passionate woman waiting for him, to do his bidding. And it has continued because man must now build himself up. He has learned women are no longer interested in focusing on him."

Theater-trained, Miss Clark went to Hollywood from the stage in England. She won acclaim in Shakespearean theater, and in Canadian roles.

From the time she began her acting career at age 12, Miss Clark says people suggested it would be important to work with big names. Even though she says she "never trusted the Hollywood game," she has learned "about survival by working with top stars." She considers the experience worth the effort.

"To go on a Hollywood set with stars, everything becomes an enormous experience. Egos are sensitive to exposed nerve ends. And you have a labor force (technicians) who have seen actors come and go. They don't care. You get the feeling you are in some enormous machine and you must know what you want or you will be chewed up by it. The stars have the ability to be secure, confident, detached. You can go into it and be vulnerable and not survive or you can find a way to survive," she added.

In the beginning, two women who headed a new talent program on the movie lot would shift through tons of material to try to find a good part for Miss Clark because of her contract. "The next obstacle," she says, was to "get a producer and director to see me work as an actress so I could get the role."

Now she would like to work with her peers, someone like Stacey Keach. She is tired of being supportive and says she doesn't think it is important for her to play with names anymore. She just wants a good film.

Miss Clark says on the stage she is judged by her ability as an actress. But movies, she says, are not the same. If the picture isn't good, she is rated that way.

Some movies click in one place and not in another. She has made two movies in New York and finds it a hostile place. But in other places, such as Clemson, S.C., actresses are still stars and "they cannot do enough for you." They ask "what is it like working with so-and-so? Is it true you fall in love with everyone you work with? Was it really you in those nude photographs in a men's magazine?" (It was.)

Miss Clark is married to producer-director Robert Joseph. She says she has "a private little interest, her own woman's lib thing," — a recently acquired, four and a half acre, 135-year-old farmhouse in Collingwood, Canada.

Author's Hillbilly Women Combine Pride, Humility

By EVE SHARBUTT
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Kathy Kahn says everybody can learn something from poor people, especially from working class women.

The slender blonde author, barely five feet tall, has completed one book of portraits of hillbilly women — daughters, wives and widows of coal-mine camps and mill towns — describing their lives.

Wearing blue jeans and a sweater, carrying her banjo, Mrs. Kahn came to her publisher's office for an interview and went immediately to a blackboard to draw a rough outline of Southern Appalachia.

"I first went to the southern mountains to organize working people," said the author of "Hillbilly Women."

"They have never been recognized except as stereotypes, Hillbillies. Mountain people have always struggled. They scratched their living out of the land. They battled coal mine operators and timber barons and today they are organizing in textile mills, fighting exploitation."

"Women have always been part of this battle. There is no way you can generalize hillbilly women as apathetic. They bounce back and have a lot of fight. Hillbilly women have a strength that comes from pride and humility combined," Mrs. Kahn said.

A seemingly fragile person, Mrs. Kahn might look unlikely as an advocate of the rights of working people. She says that has been her commitment for 10 years.

"I was raised in Washington state," she said. "Although we were never poor, we were a big family. I started working when I was 16 or 17, hoping to get a better education. I never got to college, but I learned a lot about working people. My parents had indoctrinated me with their sort of right-wing, Conservative philosophy. When I started working, I found that was a myth. I knew there was

Farmville To Seek Governor's Award

FARMVILLE — The Town of Farmville has decided to try for the Governor's Award.

The town government has endorsed the idea, which was a suggestion of Tom Thompson, executive director of the Farmville Economic Council.

The Governor's Award program was developed by the Commerce and Industry Division of the N.C. Department of Natural and Economic Resources to aid North Carolina communities in their industrial development efforts. To date, fewer than 70 towns and cities have won the coveted award.

Thompson indicated in a letter to Town Board members and Mayor Will Joyner that, of the five requirements for the Award, Farmville has satisfied four. These four are mainly concerned with formation of a local industrial corporation and provision of industrial date and acquisition of land sites, Thompson said.

The unfulfilled requirement is that of a "Clean Up, Fix Up" campaign. The first step in the campaign is to locate a leader to organize the total effort, he said. Mayor Joyner had appointed an ad hoc committee and charged them with locating a qualified individual to head up the program. The follow members were appointed and will report to Mayor Joyner on their decision: Mrs. John B. Lewis Jr., Mrs. Bill Gordon, Mrs. Carl Beaman, and Mrs. Charles Carr.

Liquor-By-Drink Backed By ABC Board Member

RALEIGH (AP)—A member of the North Carolina Board of Alcoholic Control has broken the traditional neutrality of that group and endorsed liquor by the drink.

Marcus Hickman of Charlotte, an appointee of Gov. Jim Holshouser, made his position known Monday and blasted the opponents of the Nov. 6 referendum question as "prohibitionists."

Hickman said liquor by the drink under the proposed North Carolina statute would strengthen the Board's efforts to enforce the laws and control the consumption of alcohol.

That, he said, was why he endorsed it.

Hickman's membership on the Board has been criticized recently by anti-liquor by the drink forces who remember his support for mixed drinks in the 1971 Mecklenburg County referendum, later declared unconstitutional.

Hickman made three points in attempting to refute arguments of the "prohibitionists."

—Only about 250-400 of North Carolina's 3,000 restaurants are likely to seek mixed drink permits if the referendum succeeds, he said, not all 3,000 as the "prohibitionists" have contended.

—"Prohibitionists" have been misstating the facts when they contend that the current system delivers all profits to the state, Hickman said. In fact, distillers make a profit on every bottle. Hickman also noted that liquor for mixed drinks will cost $5 more in taxes per gallon and that the extra money would go to local ABC systems.

—Hickman also contended that existing ABC enforcement agents would be able to enforce the mixed drink regulations. He said it would be easier than enforcing the brown-bagging laws because under that system, "the drinker has the bottle."

Offers Reward To Stop A Story

VALDESE, N.C. (AP)—Lawyer W. Harold Mitchell has rewards of $11,500 in an effort to stop the lie that he had been shot after being caught by a Valdeese doctor with the doctor's wife at a motel or trailer park near Asheville on July 4th.

Mitchell has offered $10,000 to anyone able to prove that any part of the rumor is true; $1,000 for information leading to identity of the person who originated the rumor that he had been shot and hospitalized in Asheville; and $500 to anyone identifying persons who circulated the rumor.

Mitchell offered the rewards in an advertisement in an area daily, the Morganton News Herald.

The lawyer in the mountain town of Valdese, population 3,000, said he decided to offer the rewards because he feared there would be lingering repercussions in the minds of jurors he would face while representing clients.

He said he and his wife Pat and close friends had tried for weeks to stop the rumor, but the "story just kept coming up."

"I can't believe people will continue to spread the rumor now, as long as they know they will be liable, Mitchell said. "I have studied the slander law thoroughly in the past few weeks, and I certainly would sue them for slander."

He said the rumor also was that nothing had been broadcast or printed "because it had been hushed up under pressure."

Transportation Offered For Crusade

The Greenville Ministerial Association is encouraging individuals and small groups who plan to go to the Graham Crusade to ride together.

St. James Methodist Church is offering the opportunity for anyone interested to sign up for a seat on their bus. If there are 20 or more people interested, the bus will run on that night. Seats are being reserved during this week by calling the church office between 9 and 5 daily, except Saturday and Sunday.

The bus will depart from St. James parking lot at 4:00 p.m. and return about 12:30 a.m. The cost per person to cover insurance and operation of the bus is $1.00.

Those interested should call 752-6154.

Kirk Speaks On Thursday

PHIL KIRK

Phil Kirk, administrative assistant to Governor Jim Holshouser, will be speaking here Thursday evening at the Tar River Estates party room.

The Pitt County Young Republicans will have a social party from 7:30-8:15 followed by Kirk's presentation.

Kirk, at age 25, was the youngest member elected to the General Assembly in North Carolina. He has served as youth coordinator of the North Carolina Republican Party and chairman of the N.C. Republican Party Commission 1971. He was elected to the Council on State Goals and Policies 1972-74.

He was named N.C. Young Republican of the Year 1967 and Distinguished Service Award, N.C. Young Republican 1971.

Tickets for the Young Republican function are $1.00 per person or $1.50 per couple and will be available at the door.

Broadening Support Indicated

The North Carolina AFL-CIO has unanimously endorsed a resolution calling on the 1974 Legislature to allocate the money for a full medical School at East Carolina University.

The 16th annual convention of the labor organization took the action after ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins told them of the pressing need for more doctors.

Jenkins had said that the state needs more doctors.

Fresh Breeze From Capitol

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — There's a fresh breeze blowing out of Washington, D. C., of recent days—one of trust and confidence in local governments to do the job without a strong federal fist hanging over the heads of local officials.

It's still too early to tell just how long this attitude will last or how it will work. But it is refreshing to state and county officials to hear federal officials urging them to get the job done.

For a number of years, and increasingly so, there had been the prevailing philosophy at the federal level that local people were unable—and probably unwilling—to do the job; particularly in areas such as welfare, education, housing and urban development.

A lot of key agency employees who adopted that attitude and fostered the philosophy—if not actual policy—are still in the same jobs. But if the U. S. Commissioner of Welfare is any example, local officials will soon see some major changes in relations taking place.

New Discipline

Robert B. Carleson, the former California welfare commissioner who reformed that state's welfare program, trimmed 265,000 recipients off welfare rolls, increased welfare payments to what he chooses to call the "truly needy," and turned a near disaster into a billion dollar savings resulting in a state surplus of $700 million, is a disciple of the new federal philosophy.

He was in Raleigh recently to meet with David T. Flaherty, secretary of the State Department of Human Resources, and various officials with the state's Division of Social Services.

He is now the U. S. Commissioner of Welfare in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, and advisor to HEW Secretary Caspar W. Weinberger.

Talking about the "California mess" which he reversed, Carleson said the "two big losers were the taxpayers and the truly needy." Welfare cheaters resulted in "swelling rolls, mounting costs and the threat of increased taxes which promised to bankrupt" the state, he said.

The reversal brought about by his reforms resulted in a recent tax rebate by Gov. Ronald Reagan, steady reduction in numbers of welfare recipients and increases to those truly needy aged, disabled and families with dependent children, he said.

Three Steps

At the heart of his reform message were three simple steps which new federal regulations now make possible for states to accomplish:

1. Verification of eligibility information. Not just taking the word of the applicant or person getting welfare payments, but using any available source to make sure the person is eligible.
 2. Prompt and fair hearings for any persons rejected who think they should receive payments.
 3. Provisions to recover any welfare payments made to people who were not supposed to be getting them. Such payments were previously lost.
- The keys to making such a program work, Carleson said, is strong administration and auditing of the system, and local control.
- That local control is all important. Carleson said things had gone so far in the direction of mistrust of local units in Washington that at one time HEW officials were leading state welfare people to believe that a federal take over was coming any day.
- "That is simply not the case. There is no threat of federalization," Carleson said.

To the contrary, he said, the federal level is committed to giving "maximum discretion to local governments," and expressed "great confidence in the states and local governments, and we certainly hope that this new local discretion will not lead to practices which will result in just criticism."

Closely Watched

Carleson warned that there are still plenty of people in Washington in various agencies watching closely and anxiously awaiting the opportunity to reverse the trend away from federal control.

"Whenever anything happens to buttress that point of view (that local government can't be trusted) they make a lot out of it," Carleson said.

Carleson said the objective now is to "remove federal obstructions" and points out that "federal regulations have been so restrictive that they even penalized states for uncovering errors and seeking to correct them."

The new attitude, he said, is a "changing view at the top" affecting all operations at HEW and other departments as well. He admitted that there is some delay in filtering this attitude down through the ranks and into operation, but said regular meetings are being held with regional officers to make certain they get the word.

"I like to think that the states will do such a good job that the people can regain their confidence in them," Carleson said. But the key to it all, he added, is that the states must demonstrate success."

necessary to develop a four year School of Medicine.

"... We know that a start has been made in that direction at East Carolina University after years of struggle."

AFL-CIO president Wilbur Hobby told interviewers that the ECU medical school "will give farm kids and worker kids more of an opportunity than the University of North Carolina would. It's just that kind of school at ECU."

"You're not going to get more doctors in Eastern North Carolina unless they get a school at ECU."

That has been the message from the East for ten years now. The AFL-CIO unanimous support of expansion of the ECU medical school to a full four years is a strong indication of the broad support the school has among North Carolina's populace.

The labor delegates, along with most Tar Heels, recognize that more of the same old medical education programs is not going to solve the grass roots problem of developing first line care physicians for the people. A new approach is going to be required and that new approach can best be made through the new medical school which is developing at East Carolina University.

The AFL-CIO should be commended for its enthusiastic stand in favor of expanding the school to a degree granting facility.

A Personal Fight On The Narcotics Threat

Art Linkletter has personally taken up the fight against drugs following the death of his daughter in a fall from an upper story window, apparently while on an LSD trip.

He has been making speaking engagements around the country, and a local group Starting Point of Greenville Inc., has worked long and hard to arrange a visit here.

Linkletter will speak at Minges Coliseum on Oct. 9 at 8 p.m. and his message is one that all people in the area should hear.

Soviet Blooper By Weinberger

By ROWLANDE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON— An un-welcome incursion into foreign policy by Caspar W. (Cap) Weinberger, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), ended up astounding White House and State Department officials and infuriating conservative Republicans in Congress.

Weinberger returned from a 16-day tour of health facilities in the Soviet Union and Poland just as Dr. Philip Handler, president of the National Academy of Sciences, was warning the Soviet Academy about harassment of physicist Andrei Sakharov. Government persecution, Handler warned, might lead American scientists to boycott joint U.S.-Soviet projects.

At a press conference the day after Handler's statement, Weinberger attacked—not the Russians but Handler, without checking either the White House or the State Department. "It is better to have dialogue than simply standing off firing brickbats through the daily press," the outspoken HEW chief said.

White House telephones started jangling angrily with complaints from Republican conservatives that the administration was condoning Soviet repression. White House and State Department officials were amazed by Weinberger. The Nixon administration line is to encourage U.S.-Soviet scientific cooperation but officially ignore criticism of Soviet repression that Handler and other private U.S. citizens are making rather than attack it as Weinberger did.

Nevertheless, both Republican and Democratic critics of President Nixon's detente believe Weinberger's blooper, while deviating from the administration line, underscored the administration's policy:

tolerate anything inside Soviet borders in return for friendly U.S.-Soviet relations.

"Secretary Weinberger's statement is an example of just how low this administration will sink to produce a deal at any price with Moscow," Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, the leading Democratic critic of detente, told us.

The Percy Phenomenon

Our scouting trips interviewing rank-and-file voters continue to show Sen. Charles H. Percy of Illinois, whose chances for the Republican presidential nomination are regarded as close to zero by party regulars running better than anybody else against Democratic Sen Edward M. Kennedy.

In two middle-class precincts of the San Fernando Valley in Los Angeles which President Nixon carried by over 60 per cent in 1972, there was not only anti-Nixon disaffection but an inclination to vote Democratic for President next time.

Out of 93 voters (who said they voted 3 to 2 for Mr. Nixon last year), Kennedy had a clear edge against Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, John B. Connally and even California Gov. Ronald Reagan. The results: Agnew, 30; Kennedy, 51; undecided, 12. Reagan, 39; Kennedy, 47; undecided, 7. Connally, 36; Kennedy, 46; undecided, 11.

Only Percy, lesser known than the other three Republicans, ran better than Kennedy: Percy, 42; Kennedy, 36; undecided, 15.

This parallels results we obtained in a scouting trip six weeks ago in Jersey City, N.J. Apparently, hard-shell Republican voters are so anti-Kennedy they prefer any Republican—even liberal Chuck Percy. On the other hand, liberal Democrats with misgivings about Kennedy because of Chappaquiddick could never bring themselves to back Agnew, Connally or

SILENCE

For many, if not most people, one of the hardest things in the world to do is to remain silent. If, for fifteen minutes every day we could empty our minds of the affairs of the moment and sit in inner contemplation of ourselves and our relation to God and the things about us, we could obtain a certain wisdom and patience which we did not have before.

One of the greatest contributions which the Quakers have made to the spiritual life of the world is to teach men the value of solemn silence.

Shift In Foreign Policy

As slowly and imperceptibly as summer shifting into fall, we may be witnessing a change of seasons in foreign policy also. It may be no more than imagination at work—it may be a product more of hope than of reality—but in the field of U.S.-Soviet relations, one senses a welcome hint of autumn in the air.

The impression arises from a dozen sources: Soviet Jews. Wheat. Solzhenitsyn. Sakharov. Radio Liberty. Jamming. The National Academy of Sciences. The Kissinger confirmation. Signs and portents drift through the news like falling leaves. After years of sunny weather with the Soviet Union, the barometer is falling and the nights are turning cold.

Let me try to pull all this together. For the past 30 years, more or less, the makers and shakers of American foreign policy have been divided into two ill-defined camps: on one side the Tolerants, on the other the Intolerants. It is fair enough to speak of the Intolerants as anti-Communists. It never has been accurate to speak of the opposition as "pro-Communists," for their principal leaders—Senator J. William Fulbright, for one—are not pro-Communist. Their guiding rule is toleration. They regard the Intolerants as paranoids, red-baiters, and bores.

Other Editors Say Master of Westerns

(Greensboro Daily News)

Few people have contributed so singularly to American mythology as did John Ford, the celebrated movie director who died recently at the age of 78. In his cinematic career, which spanned more than six decades, Mr. Ford in large measure shaped our vision of the American frontier and the Old West.

There is a certain irony to Mr. Ford's career. He won Academy Awards for four pictures, and they are indisputably among the greatest and most influential the medium has known: The Informer, The Grapes of Wrath, How Green Was My Valley and The Quiet Man. Yet not one of them is a Western, and it was as interpreter and hagiographer of the West that Mr. Ford has his greatest influence on the movie-going public.

Mr. Ford's Western determined the basic form of the genre. One of them, Stagecoach, filmed in 1939, is widely regarded as the greatest Western ever made, but there are many other of distinction: Fort Apache, She Wore A Yellow Ribbon, Rio Grande, Wagonmaster, The Searchers, The Man Who Shot Liberty Valance. They are all marked by the Ford trademarks: a sure grasp of plot, mood and theme; vivid, suspenseful, credible action; and a deep feeling for the natural beauty and magnificence of the West.

More than anything else, perhaps that last is what John Ford gave us: the filmed image of the great open spaces, the endless deep blue sky, the riders silhouetted against distant mountain ranges, the vast canyons and high mesas. He gave us, that is, the visual image from which the legend of the West was formed. It is a legend that embodies both the pinnacles of man against the vastness of nature, and the courage of man in carving a homestead for himself in such formidable territory.

It is essentially a poetic legend, but Mr. Ford scarcely represented himself as a poet. He was a rough and cantankerous person who fought with virtually everyone who crossed his path — almost everyone loved him anyway — and who insisted on doing things his own way. He did not cater to the Hollywood orthodoxy: asked once to explain why he did not show up to received his first three Oscars, he said, "Once I went fishing, another time there was a war on, and on another occasion, I remember, I was suddenly taken drunk."

The Roller-Coaster In Housing

BY JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — If your business is home mortgages or home building, or if your ambition is to be a homeowner, you've learned to hold onto your hat, so to speak.

Every few years housing activity rises to a crest and then hurtles downward like a runaway roller coaster. Businesses and hopes are wrecked by the impact.

It happened in 1960, in 1966 and in 1969, accompanied each time by declarations from legislators that, for social if not business reasons, the ups and downs of the housing market must be flattened out.

Now, after what one observer remarks is enough rhetoric to be measured in millions of board feet, housing is in the midst of another serious tumble. Mortgage rates are rising, money is less available, construction is falling.

In the view of most home-builders and many mortgage lenders, the basic problem is as always — that the Federal Reserve Board is seeking to fight inflation by allowing interest rates to rise.

Higher interest rates supposedly have a multiple impact on inflation: One, they discourage borrowing; two, they encourage people to put their money into savings instead of spending it.

This would appear to be helpful to the housing market, because savings and loan associations are designed specifically to channel funds into mortgages. But it's a bit more complicated than that.

Because they are committed to mortgages, and because it is considered socially desirable to keep money flowing into housing, thrift institutions have traditionally been permitted to offer savers a higher rate than commercial banks.

But now that rate advantage has been reduced to just one-quarter of one per cent. Commercial banks now can offer 5 per cent on passbook savings, the thrift institutions 5.25 per cent, a very narrow advantage.

The more serious regulatory change, however, was in permitting lending institutions to offer a so-

Making Of A Husband

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Courtship makes the courtier. Marriage makes the husband.

When they first met, he swore he would fight through seas of flame to be at her side. After they were married, he cursed aloud if she handed him a piece of hot toast at breakfast.

He used to want to tell her with every breath he took how much he loved her. Now he probably couldn't think of the word love if he needed it to fill out a crossword puzzle.

There was a time when he couldn't keep his hands off her. But that was before they made the trip to the altar. Now if he reaches toward her, she wonders whether she should call the cops or a neighbor for help.

Before they exchanged their marital vows, he told her he wouldn't mind if they had more children than the old woman who lived in a shoe. Well, they stopped coming after four, and now when he comes home from work, he puts wax stoppers in his ears so he can't hear the kids.

Fondly she dreamed of dining by candlelight with him for the rest of their lives. Then he found out that two candles cost 49 cents, and now they eat by the light of a 60-watt bulb.

She remembers fondly how

The North Carolina Tobacco markets should reopen next Monday and Governor Ehringhaus said growers are urged to stand by local warehousemen who are cooperating with efforts to bring about fair prices.

The plea for higher cotton prices was brought to Washington today by 200 businessmen, farmers and political leaders representing virtually every state where the fleecy stable is a big money crop.

While farm administration officials are as anxious as the southerners about getting cotton to 15 cents, they lack enthusiasm for the price raising methods suggested.

Dr. James Parrott and Dr. R.S. McGeachy are among doctors who have traveled to the coast in an effort to help hurricane victims.

Hundreds at the coast are homeless and out of food and fourteen people have been reported killed in the hurricane.

Four Members of one family were drowned during the storm.

Johnnie Allen held the White Sox to two hits today as the Yankees won the first game of a double header 6-1.

Two entrants in the James Gordon Bennett balloon race were rescued in the Canadian wilds today by a telephone repairman. The balloonists cut a telephone wire to prompt their rescue.

Gas Stations Fight Price Rule Five Of Sextuplets In Satisfactory Condition

By MICHAEL J. SNIFFEN

Says Norman Strunk, executive vice president of the U.S. Savings and Loan League:

"The only way savings associations could boost savings rates substantially over a short period would be to require that new borrowers pay unconscionably high loan rates, which in itself would bring residential construction to a halt.

The flow isn't headed only to commercial banks. Many withdrawals are going into other areas where yields are higher. U.S. Treasury and federal agency securities, for example, offer up to 10 per cent.

Neither are thrift institutions the only ones being hurt. Insurance companies are finding customers borrowing the cash value of their policies, at rates limited by law to 5 and 6 per cent, and reinvesting the money elsewhere.

This practice also deprives the housing market, especially that for multifamily buildings because insurers simply have less money to lend.

"Apartment lenders are issuing no new mortgage commitments for 1973 or early 1974 payout," notes Advance Mortgage Corp. It adds that insurance companies are again seeking a piece of the action, a percentage of the builder's profits, in addition to interest on the loan.

The impact on housing is reflected in this estimate of future starts by the National Association of Homebuilders: fourth quarter 1973, 1.7 million; first quarter 1974, 1.6 million; second quarter, 1.5 million. By comparison, the number of starts for the past two years was between 2.25 million and 2.5 million.

Meanwhile, prices continue to rise, leaving no easy solution for the couple contemplating a purchase.

ceilings on retail gasoline were being debated in court elsewhere in the city, representatives of Western gasoline station operators and several senators spent nearly two hours Monday with council officials in a meeting arranged by Sen. Pete V. Domenici, R-N.M.

Bud Walch, an Oklahoma City gas station owner said 25 per cent of Oklahoma City gas stations have voted to shut down because they can't make a profit. Those that have decided to remain open are charging up to 4 cents over the legal price, he said.

The ceilings imposed Sept. 7 forced many stations to reduce prices by up to 3 cents a gallon.

she used to cuddle in his lap for hours at a stretch. Now if she has to sit in his lap for a few moments in a crowded car coming home from a cocktail party, he welcomes her by exclaiming gaily, "All right, folks, make room for the elephant."

When they were courting they never spoke of politics. But now if she votes for the same political candidate as he does, he accuses her of having no mind of her own and mimicking him. But if she votes for a different candidate, he says she is stupid and women shouldn't have the right to vote anyway.

In his days as a romantic gallant, he rushed to take the lightest package from her arms and told her she was far too fragile to carry heavy loads. Now, when they are shopping, he hands her all the bundles, and lets her go first through the revolving doors — so she has to do most of the pushing.

Is this the guy who once promised her the moon? It is. And is it the same guy who now whines about the waste of money if she orders a 60-cent dessert on the one night a month they eat out? It is, indeed.

All in all, she realizes, their life together isn't too bad. She knows she can put up with him, but he has changed so much from the sweet boy she once knew that she wonders if she is at fault.

But she isn't to blame at all. The essential truth is:

Courtship makes a courtier; marriage changes him into a husband.

partisan group of 33 senators wrote council director John Dunlop that the rollbacks required of retailers while other sectors of the oil industry were allowed to raise prices are likely to force many small businessmen to close in a matter of weeks.

The ceilings were defended by Justice Department attorney William C. White before a three-judge Temporary Emergency Court of Appeals hearing four separate challenges to the regulations.

He said ceiling prices are needed to counteract "an inflationary psychology that was gripping the petroleum industry at every level" earlier this year. The government has said the ceilings were intended to roll back unjustified increases made during the spring and summer months.

But Jerry S. Cohen, an attorney for one retailer group said the retail price of gasoline increased only about 7 per cent during the first six months of this year while wholesale prices rose 33 per cent.

At the outset of the session, White revealed that the government has exempted nonpetroleum business, like repairs and tire and battery sales, from price controls for retailers with fewer than 60 employees. He States not to pursue detente unless there is some "simultaneous liquidation of Soviet isolation." Closer ties between Washington and Moscow must be made to depend upon internal reforms within the Soviet Union.

Such intervention should not come hard to the Tolerant camp. After all, those who have gazed with equanimity upon the internal policies of the Soviet Union have not hesitated to bring pressures upon South Africa, Rhodesia, and Greece. The despotism practiced in the Soviet Union is a thousand times more ominous.

Henry Kissinger, an astute diplomat, can make great capital of these events. So long as the Tolerants were in command, he was bound to attitudes of conciliation, one-way detente, and general sweetness and light. If we have indeed reached the end of a long lazy summer, a wiser and harder line will be possible now.

Mankiewicz Out West
Frank Mankiewicz, a senior lieutenant in Sen. George S. McGovern's presidential campaign, may end up working for the fastest anti-McGovern tongue in the West: Mayor Joseph Alioto of San Francisco.

Alioto, running 20 percentage points behind California secretary of state Edmund G. Brown, Jr., for the 1974 Democratic gubernatorial nomination, wants Mankiewicz for a top staff job in his campaign. Surprisingly, Mankiewicz is expressing interest—once he finishes a book on Watergate—even though Alioto led the assault on McGovern in the 1972 California presidential primary. If Mankiewicz says yes, he will join Alioto in November.

Adlai Vs. Who
Don Adams, 37-year-old owner of a Springfield pancake house who has just become the Illinois Republican state chairman, began his new role with a faux pas in Washington last week at a meeting of the state's Republican delegation in Congress.

The strongest Republican against Democratic Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III next year, Adams told the Congressmen, would be State Atty. Gen. William Scott and every effort should be made to recruit him. Adams ignored the fact that the other leading possibility to challenge Stevenson, Rep. John Anderson, was seated in the delegation meeting. He did not even acknowledge Anderson's presence.

By way of protest, Anderson stalked from the meeting before it was finished. Although some Congressmen present agreed that Scott would be a stronger candidate, they felt Adams had blundered—particularly since Anderson is considered much more likely than Scott to challenge the powerful Stevenson.

When this hand turned up in a team game some time ago, both East and South had the opportunity to display their technique. Unfortunately for the losing team, it was the winners who found the right play in each case.

The same auction was conducted at both tables. South felt that, with a good five-card suit and fair intermediate cards, his hand was too good for a one no trump opening bid. Accordingly, he treated his hand as worth 19-20 points, and opened in his long suit. After his partner's major suit response, he jumped to two no trump. North had just about enough to raise to game.

At both tables, the opening lead was the four of spades. When Philadelphia star Robert Jordan held the South hand, East went up with the LAKEWOOD, Colo. (AP) — Eugene J. Stanek is making plans in multiples of six and trying to explain to his 4-year-old son what four new brothers and two new sisters will mean.

Five of the sextuplets born to Stanek's wife 34-year-old wife Edna on Sunday night are in satisfactory condition. One, Julia, is listed as fair. She was receiving oxygen for a respiratory problem.

But doctors were optimistic Monday night that all the babies, which weighed from just under two pounds to just under three pounds at birth, will survive.

"We'd known for about three weeks that there might be five or six," said Stanek, a 31-year-old accountant. "We're all very happy."

"We were hoping for a second child. We didn't really plan for having more than one at a time."

He said Mrs. Stanek was taking a fertility drug, Pergonal, prior to the births. Stanek said he and his wife are expecting the six infants to join their young son Gregory at home in six weeks.

Stanek said he and his wife are concerned about paying "thousands of dollars" in medical expenses that won't be covered by insurance, and he said his plans to look for a house with more room than his current three-bedroom home.

Three obstetricians, 12 gynecologists, two anesthesiologists, several nurses and other technicians were on duty in the delivery room at Colorado Gen-

Air Force's Top Enlisted Man

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Air Force has chosen CM. Sgt. Thomas N. Barnes as its top enlisted man. A spokesman said it was the first time any of the military services have selected a black for the highest-ranking enlisted position.

Barnes, 43, is a native of Chester, Pa. He is now serving as senior enlisted adviser at Randolph Air Force Base, Tex.

In his new job as chief master sergeant of the Air Force, Barnes will advise Air Force Secretary John L. McLucas and Air Force Chief of Staff George S. Brown on enlisted matters.

One boy remained unnamed because Stanek said he and his wife had chosen names for three boys and three girls. The five named are, in order of birth, John, Julia, Steven, Jeffrey and Catherine.

Exxon Dealers Discuss Closing

Slightly Fewer Miles Per Gallon From 1974 Cars

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Environmental Protection Agency released today its 1974 Who's Who of Gasoline Gu-zlers, showing that the season's new cars will get slightly fewer miles per gallon, on the average, than the 1973 models. With some new cars not yet tested, EPA reported an overall average of 15.1 miles per gallon on the 376 vehicles checked, three-tenths of a mile less than the 1973 average. The averages ranged from 24.4 miles per gallon for 2,000-pound cars, to 15.3 mpg at 3,000 pounds, and on down to a low of 8.3 mpg in the heavyweight 5,500-pound class. The most economical car tested was a 2,000-pound Honda

Civic at 29.1 miles per gallon, followed by Toyota's Corolla-1 Coupe and Sedan at 27.1 and 24.8. Rock-bottom among the EPA-tested cars was the 4,000-pound

Ferrari-365 GTB-4 with a 268-cubic-inch engine, flaring one gallon of gasoline to glide a mere 6.4 miles.

Only a drop or two better was a 5,500-pound Oldsmobile Toronado with automatic transmission, whose 445-cubic-inch engine rolled it only 6.8 miles on one gallon.

EPA collects fuel-economy data while verifying antipollution performance in a test that simulates urban driving. The agency issued its first gasoline-mileage listing on 1973 vehicles last April, to encourage fuel economy and thereby reduce pollution and ease the energy shortage.

For 1974 cars, EPA proposed the voluntary display, on new cars, of gasoline-mileage data by weight class and individual model. Most manufacturers reportedly intend to participate.

Within any production run, vehicles of identical design and equipment may vary widely in their actual on-the-road fuel economy, depending heavily on the habits of the drivers.

But EPA says that the test findings and averages provide at least a comparison of relative fuel economy characteristics that can be weighed by car-buyers.

As usual, sheer weight is the biggest mileage-stealer; as auto weight rises from 2,000 to 3,000 pounds, performance drops from the average 24.4 miles per gallon to 15.3, losing about one mile per gallon for every 100 extra pounds.

Above 3,000 pounds, the weight effect works less rapidly, with performance dropping less than half a mile per gallon for each 100 pounds.

The mileage-stickers displayed by participating manufacturers this fall were designed by EPA and will show, at least, the average fuel economy for each weight class and the weight class of the individual car.

As an optional feature, the sticker may also display the specific EPA-tested gasoline mileage for that particular model.

Here is a summary of the average fuel economy and top performers in each of the ten EPA weight classes:

82,000 pounds, average 24.4 miles per gallon: Honda Civic 29.1 mpg; Toyota Corolla-1 Coupe 27.1 and Sedan 24.8.

—2,250 pounds, average 21.5 mpg: Datsun B-210 manual transmission 24.9 mpg; Toyota Corolla-2 Sedan 22.6; Datsun B-210 automatic 22.2.

—2,500 pounds, average 18.9 mpg: Subaru SW 22.7; Volkswagen Convertible-15 at 22.6 mpg; Toyota Corolla-2 Station Wagon 21.1.

—2,750 pounds, average 18.5 mpg: Chevrolet Vega Hatchback 24.6 mpg; Ford Pinto 22.8; Dodge Colt SW 22.8.

—3,000 pounds, average 15.3 pg: Chevrolet Vega Kammback 20.0 mpg; Ford Pinto Wagon 19.6; Toyota Mark II Station Wagon 19.4.

—3,500 pounds, average 13.9 mpg: Ford Comet 19.9 mpg; Volvo-145 at 18.4 mpg; "88" Land Rover 17.7.

—4,000 pounds, average 11.3 mpg: Ford E-100 at 18.9 mpg; Ford F-100 at 16.4; Chevrolet Nova Hatchback at 15.7.

—4,500 pounds, average 9.7 mpg: Chevrolet G-20 Sportvan 12.4 mpg; AMC Matador SW 12.3; Ford E-200 at 12.3; and Plymouth Inter. at 11.8.

—5,000 pounds, average 9.2 mpg: Buick Century Wagon 16.7; Ford Montego Wagon 11.4; Hevrolet Impala Sport Sedan 11.0.

—5,500 pounds, average 8.3 mpg: Cadillac Eldorado 10.4; Chevrolet Impala Estate Wagon 10.0; Buck Estate Wagon and Chevrolet Caprice Wagon 9.6.

PLANT SITE—Hash marks above show the site for the new Eaton Corp. plant which is to be constructed here. The plant will manufacture fork lifts. The site is on

Swedish Premier Sees Struggle For Survival

STOCKHOLM (AP) — Olof Palme, Sweden's premier for the past four years and a severe critic of U.S. policy in Indochina, is facing the most critical battle of his political career.

Sunday's general elections appears to be ending in a tie, with Palme's Social Democrats and their Communist allies winning 175 seats and the three opposition parties winning 175. The opposition is expected to pick up a slight edge from some 60,000 mail ballots that still are to be counted but not enough to give it more seats.

The opposition parties — the Center, the conservative Moderates and the Liberals — demanded that Palme's government resign or call another election. But the premier, whose party won nearly twice as many seats as any other party, said he would not quit unless defeated on a major issue in parliament.

Palme, who succeeded Tage Erlander as chairman of the Socialist party and as premier in 1969, comes from an upper-class family.

"I was born upper class, but I belong to the labor movement," he told an interviewer recently. "I joined the labor party by working for the working class on its own conditions and by adhering to a movement which desires liberty, equality and fraternity between people. As far as I can see, it is more important where I stand today than where I came from."

Palme said his main political aims are to prevent technological advances causing undesirable social consequences, to work for equality in society, to work for broader democracy in all spheres and to give the people joint responsibility and joint influence.

His public opposition to U.S. policy in Vietnam dates from 1968, when he appeared beside a representative of the government of North Vietnam at a demonstration in Stockholm protesting the war.

His criticism continued after he became premier, and last year, when he likened the American bombing of North Vietnam to Nazi massacres in World War II, the State Department told the Swedish government its new ambassador-designate to the United States would not be welcome in Washington. The Nixon administration also has kept its embassy in Stockholm without an ambassador since June 1972.

Indians of the Great Plains apparently made little use of fish, either for food or for ceremonial purposes.

Reshuffling Of SHP Defended

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser has made his first public statements in defense of his controversial reshuffling of the North Carolina Highway Patrol.

Speaking to the North Carolina Motor Carriers Association convention in Pinehurst Monday, Holshouser said the reorganization of the Patrol would make it "the most professional, the most dedicated, the most efficient law enforcement agency in the country."

Holshouser recently ousted many of the Patrol's top officers, including Col. Edwin Guy, the commander.

He told the truckers that the move would help provide safe roads for their trucks.

He also promised them that the roads would be built, "where they are needed, not where some politician wants them."

Holshouser urged the trucking industry to help conserve fuel during his speech, the first he has made since returning from a European trade mission this weekend.

His warning was echoed by Martin Cromarty, an official of the American Trucking Association.

Cromarty said a "fuel shortage will translate rapidly into a transportation crisis followed very shortly by an economic crisis."

EATON PRODUCT—Shown above is a fork lift truck of the type that will be manufactured in the new Eaton Corp. plant. Eaton manufactures electric, gas, LP-gas and diesel for lifts with capacities from 2,000 pounds to 15,000 pounds. The plant here will have 310,000 square feet. It will employ 200 people initially with employment expected to reach 350 by the end of 1975.

Wets Suffering Financial Woes

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Reluctance of community leaders to identify with a pro-liquor campaign and an unfavorable tax ruling on contributions have put the financial squeeze on a drive to win approval of mixed drink sales in North Carolina.

"If we don't start getting some more money pretty soon, we're going to have to wrap it up," said Bill Hoge of Charlotte, a volunteer worker for the wet force, Citizens for Choice and Control.

The group seeks passage of a Nov. 6 referendum that would legalize mixed drink sales in certain establishments on a county option basis.

The Internal Revenue Service ruled last week that contributions by businesses and individuals are not deductible for federal income tax purposes. And, that includes contributions to Chambers of Commerce that are diverted to the campaign, a spokesman said.

The anti-liquor forces, on the other hand, are receiving much of their financial support through church contributions to the Christian Action League, a Protestant organization headed by the Rev. Coy Privette of Kannapolis.

The IRS also said contributions made to churches as a donation to the dry campaign are not tax deductible, but a spokesman said separating such contributions from other church gifts is almost impossible.

Southern Honor For Ken Moore

Saturday night in Hattiesburg, Mississippi, the Wild Dogs of East Carolina found rebirth and dragged down Southern Mississippi, 13-0.

One of the chief reasons for the defensive charge of the Pirates was the play of 233-pound senior Kenny Moore.

Moore had eight individual tackles and six assists as the Pirates' defensive unit held the Golden Eagles to only 39 yards on the ground. Moore was also in on six other tackles.

He led the defensive charge that sacked the Southern Mississippi quarterback 13 times, and was in on eight of these sacks, having four all to himself.

In addition, he recovered a fumble.

"Moore was largely responsible for neutralizing Southern Mississippi's inside running game," Coach Sonny Randle said. "He had a lot to do with keeping the pressure on the quarterback, too, and overall played one heck of a game."

For his play, Moore, a tackle from Harrells, became East Carolina University's first Southern Conference Player of the Week of the 1973 season.

Bill Anderson, Furman's junior defensive end, was the runner-up for his play against Appalachian, as the Paladins won, 17-0.

Offensive honors went to senior quarterback Harry Lynch of The Citadel, who hit on eight of 16 passes for 134 yards, and accounted for a total of 195 yards, plus two touchdowns, in Citadel's 25-13 win over Presbyterian. Richmond's senior fullback Barty Smith, who had 109 yards rushing in Richmond's 42-0 win over Davidson, was the offensive runner-up.

Brakefield To Follow Randle

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Appalachian State Coach Jim Brakefield, whose team has suffered two defeats in a row, apparently is taking a page from the book of Coach Sonny Randle of East Carolina's defending Southern Conference football champion Pirates.

After an opening-game 57-8 shellacking at the hands of North Carolina State, Randle said just about everything nasty he could about his squad and went about making wholesale changes.

It apparently worked, for the Pirates upended Southern Mississippi 13-0 in their second appearance last Saturday night.

Now Brakefield is faced with a similar problem in the wake of a 42-7 whipping by Western Kentucky and a 17-0 defeat at the hands of Furman's Paladins last Saturday night in the first conference game for each club.

Brakefield got the nasty words out right away.

"We just stunk," Brakefield said after the game. "They beat the hell out of us."

The changes began Monday with Brakefield installing sophomore Roscoe Batts as the Mountaineers' No. 1 quarterback.

The possibility of replacing junior Phil Cocciolletti if the Appalachian offense didn't improve had been mentioned by Brakefield. He apparently felt the defeat at Furman was reason enough.

Brakefield said Cocciolletti made numerous ball-handling mistakes in the first two games, but he still was alternated with Batts and another sophomore, Bruce King, in Monday's workouts.

Despite what he'd said Saturday night, Brakefield said he was pleased with the team's showing Monday.

"Our offense looked as good as it has in any practice this season in goal line situations," said the veteran coach.

"Our kids really worked hard," Brakefield added. "They are really ashamed of themselves for the poor game they played against Furman."

Before the season started, Brakefield had said, "We think

Madison Nips Bucs

Madison College of Virginia, ranked ninth at the end of last year among soccer teams in the country, squeezed out a 2-1 victory over East Carolina University here yesterday.

Mike Northey scored early for Madison on an assist by Ray Laroche. It remained 1-0 at the end of the first half.

In the second half, nearly the mid-point, East Carolina tied it up on a goal by Mike Fetchko, with an assist by Tom O'Shea. It stayed at 1-1 until the closing minutes of the game, when Nino Altomonte scored the final Madison goal with Laroche again assisting.

The loss dropped the Pirate record to 0-2-1 for the year. They are on the road against the University of North Carolina for their next match on Wednesday, September 26.

Hank Hits Number 711; Johnson Ties 2nd Baseman Homer Mark

By FRED ROTHENBERG
Associated Press Sports Writer

Hank Aaron hit another home run and there was a homer record tied in Atlanta.

But relax. You didn't sleep though Nos. 711 through 713. It wasn't Aaron's record.

Dave Johnson performed two remarkable feats Monday night when the Atlanta Braves blanked the San Diego Padres 7-0.

He belted his 42nd homer of the 1973 baseball season, tying Rogers Hornsby's mark set in 1922 for most trots around the bases by a second baseman.

But then he performed the near-impossible. He stole some of the thunder from Aaron, who belted No. 711 two batters earlier and now needs three more career homers to catch the ghost of Babe Ruth.

"Dave's your man tonight," said Aaron, who now trails Ruth's lifetime homer mark by three. "He's the one who caught a ghost."

In the other National League games, Montreal edged St. Louis 5-4, then the Cardinals beat the Expos 12 in 12 innings 5-3; Pittsburgh overpowered New York 10-3; Houston downed Cincinnati 5-2; Los Angeles pounded San Francisco 7-1 and the Philadelphia-Chicago game was rained out.

Pirates 10, Mets 3

Willie Stargell drove in four runs with four extra base hits, including his 40th homer of the season, powering the Pirates to a 10-3 victory over the Mets to remain one game atop the National League East.

Expos 5-3, Cards 4-5

Felipe Alou's two-out ninth inning pinch single tied the score and Alou came around to score the game-winner on a weird single by pinch hitter Ron Woods for a 5-4 opening game victory.

The Cardinals came back to take the second game. Bernie Carbo's ninth-inning home run tied the game in the ninth and his 12th-inning single untied it in the 12th, helping St. Louis to a 5-3 victory.

In between Carbo's two hits, both teams sweated out a one-hour, 12-minute rain delay.

The split left the Expos one

New Name For Auburn Stadium

AUBURN, Ala. (AP) — The Auburn University football stadium was renamed Thursday in honor of head Coach Ralph "Shug" Jordan, who led his team to a 10-1 season last year.

Cliff Hare Stadium officially became Jordan-Hare Stadium when the Alabama Senate and House passed a resolution to that effect. The school's Board of Trustees previously approved the change.

Rob Hunt Has Knee Surgery

MONTREAL (AP) — Second baseman Ron Hunt of the Montreal Expos had the medial cartilage in his left knee removed Thursday.

Dr. Bob Broderick, the baseball team's physician, described the operation as "uncomplicated and successful."

Hunt, 32, was injured Aug. 8 in a home-plate collision with catcher Dave Rader of the San Francisco Giants. He missed a month of play and then last Sunday, in a game against the New York Mets, tore the cartilage when he lurched out of the way to allow teammate Ron Woods to charge in for a fly ball in shallow center field.

In 1924 Hawaii had its only unbeaten, untied football season.

game back of Pittsburgh and St. Louis 2 1-2 games behind.

Astros 5, Reds 2

Cesar Cedeno and Bob Watson slammed homers, leading Astros to a 5-3 victory over Cincinnati that snapped the Reds' seven-game winning streak.

Dodgers 7, Giants 2

Willie Davis slugged his 16th homer and drove in two runs to back Don Sutton's eight-hit pitching, pacing the Dodgers to a 7-2 decision over San Francisco.

The scores in the American League were: Baltimore 5, New York 4 in 10 innings; Minnesota 8, Kansas City 3; Texas 10, Chicago 3 and Oakland 3, California 2 in 13 innings.

Blasts 1.6 Rule

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)—Red Parker, Clemson football coach, blasted the 1.6 rule of the Atlantic Coast Conference Monday, saying it restricts his recruiting in competition with other conferences and independents.

The ACC requires prospective athletes to have a predicted 1.6 grade average on a 4.0 scale.

Parker said the ACC is the only conference retaining such a rule. "While our recruits must have a predicted 1.6, any other conference in the nation may recruit players with a C average in high school."

"This puts us at a disadvantage when recruiting in our region against the SEC (Southeastern Conference) teams and independents or when we recruit in the North against a team like Penn State," he said in a talk to the Greenville Touchdown Club.

Parker, in his first year at Clemson, sends his team against Georgia Saturday. It was idle last week after beating The Citadel, 14-12.

HARD CATCH—New York Jets' Rich Sowells (46) hits Green Bay Packers' Jon Stagers just as a pass from Packers' Scott Hunter arrives. Stagers hit the

Green Bay Charge Smothers Joe As Packers Rip New York By 23-7

By MIKE O'BRIEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
MILWAUKEE (AP) — Ken Ellis had just been awarded the game ball, but his frown hardly reflected it.

"That last touchdown pass is still in my mind. Darn! It will take me a week to get over that," the young Green Bay cornerback fretted.

Ellis needn't worry. He was victimized on a 17 yard touchdown pass from Al Woodall to David Knight, a pair of reserves, with 27 seconds left Monday night, but by that time

Ellis and his Packer defensive mates had driven the New York Jets' brilliant quarterback, Joe Namath, to the bench in abject frustration.

Smothering Namath when it counted and running a relentless ball control offense directed by their own quarterback, the much criticized Scott Hunter, the Packers thrashed the Jets 23-7 in a nationally televised National Football League opener.

Namath, who led the NFL in touchdown passes and passing turf hard on his back, but managed to hang onto the ball. The play was good for 24 yards in the Packer victory. (AP Wirephoto)

Palmer Still Has An Effect

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer
MURFIELD, Scotland (AP) — Notes from the pro golf tournament trail:

Arnold Palmer now is 44 years old and hasn't won a major championship in 10 years.

But the dynamic man still exerts a magical effect on galleries all over the world. He's still the No. 1 target for autograph seekers no matter where he goes, with everyone from kids to grandmothers jostling each other for a chance to get near him.

But, one tour comic, watching the usual milling mob scene surrounding Palmer, suggests that it all will end by September of 1974.

"After that, Arnold will never sign another autograph," he said. "It's not that his popularity is diminishing," he said. "It's just that by that time everyone in the world will have an autograph."

U.S. Open champion Johnny Miller would like to see another major tourney in the magnitude of the current Big Four, added to the schedule late in the season.

"Maybe a Tournament Players Division championship or something like that," Miller said.

"At this time of the season it's hard to get up for anything. You really don't have that much to look forward to. You just kinda go, whooo," he said and let his body sag.

"After the PGA everybody is just kinda playing out the string."

George Knudson of Canada is the latest of the touring players to grow a mustache. The style once was called Fu Manchu. Now it's Kung Fu.

Fred Marti was talking about the recent slump that has plagued him.

"Every swing is just the same," he said, and made a pass at an imaginary ball.

"Just like that every time," Marti said, making the shoulder turn. "I hit it and yell, 'get lucky.'"

The Firestone Country Club in Akron, Ohio will be the site of the 1975 PGA National championship. The prestigious American Golf Classic, usually played on that tough course, will drop off the schedule for a year.

An announcement can be expected soon—possibly this week—that Palmer's home course, the Laurel Valley Golf Club at Ligonier, Pa., will be the host club for the 1975 Ryder Cup matches against Great Britain.

That would make it appear that the team championship may be a thing of the past. Laurel Valley was, for a few years, the site of that annual $200,000 tournament. It dropped off the schedule this year to make way for the U.S. Open at nearby Oakmont, Pa. and now is out of the running for the 1975 season.

Other schedule notes: Look for the St. Louis Classic to be dropped from the slate of events in 1974...The Greater Milwaukee Open is another doubtful event for next year...The Philadelphia Classic will move out of its usual spot just before the U.S. Open and will be played later in the season next year...

yardage last year, completed 16 of 32 for 203 yards against the National Conference's No. 1 pass defense of a year ago.

But after the Jets' first series, which ended in a missed 41 yard field goal attempt by Bobby Howfield, Namath couldn't lead the Jets past mid-field until 7:41 remained to be played. By that time the Packers had sacked Namath three times and intercepted him once in rolling to a 23-0 lead.

"I was throwing early," a disgusted Namath said. "After our first series, they (Packer linemen) started coming good. I wasn't throwing worth a damn, anyway."

The Packers' Chester Marcol kicked field goals of nine, 37 and 10 yards, while Hunter threw a 19 yard scoring pass to tight end Rich McGeorge and led a fourth quarter march capped by John Brockington's one yard touchdown run.

An interception by Ellis set up Brockington's touchdown, while a pair of fumble recoveries by safety Jim Hill led to two other scores.

Praises Duke After Defeat

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
There was praise for all in Duke's 21-17 football loss at Tennessee.

Coach Mike McGee said his Duke Blue Devils played well, although the loss was painful.

He said, "Condredge Holloway was the difference. He is the quickest quarterback we have ever faced."

For playing a dominant role in the Vols' three touchdowns the little speedster from Huntsville, Ala., has been named the Associated Press Southeastern back of the week.

Tennessee, which had to overcome a 10-point deficit at halftime, is 10th ranked in the latest AP poll. It had been No. 9 before the Duke game.

McGee told his squad that this week's home opponent, Washington, is an outstanding young team with excellent speed and good personnel despite a loss to Hawaii.

North Carolina, which meets Maryland in an Atlantic Coast Conference game, was reported in excellent physical condition following the 37-27 victory over William and Mary. The Tar Heels were ranked No. 19 last week, but have fallen out of the top 20. They did receive votes this week for the select list.

Tar Heel Coach Bill Dooley said this year's edition is the Maryland team he has seen in seven years at UNC.

North Carolina State, which climbed three spots to No. 14, meets Nebraska, No. 2, at Lincoln. The State Wolfpack has a new first stringer at defensive left tackle. Dan Meier has replaced Frank Haywood, who started against Virginia. Meier is the fourth man to be listed as No. 1 at the position since the season started.

While making the shuffle, Coach Lou Holtz praised his other defensive tackle, junior Sam Seneca, for playing "the finest game of his career" against Virginia.

Virginia Coach Don Lawrence told his team it can't afford to make the mistakes against Missouri which it made against N. C. State. He said Missouri, which will be playing on its home turf, may be the best team on the Cavaliers' schedule.

Southern Cal Still On Top But Challengers Are Right Behind

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Southern California again is the No. 1 team in the Associated Press college football poll. That's no surprise, since the Trojans have owned the top spot since the first week of 1972.

What is surprising is the capricious reaction of Southern Cal's coach, John McKay.

"I don't know or care whether we're rated No. 1 next week," he said Saturday night after the Trojans had recorded a 17-0 victory over Arkansas in their opener. "I didn't even think we should have been No. 1 last week."

McKay changed his line Monday, saying that USC deserves the top spot. A poll of 60 sports writers and broadcasters who participated this week gave the Trojans 38 first-place votes and a total of 1,106 points.

But Nebraska, Ohio State and Alabama, the next three ranked teams, will be out to challenge Southern Cal as the college football season enters its second week.

McKay was skeptical of the teams' chances of bumping USC from the lead, however, especially those of Ohio State, which defeated Minnesota 56-7.

"I'm not impressed with Minnesota," McKay said wryly. "They've won about three games in 10 years."

Nebraska, idle last weekend, received eight first place points and 995 points overall, and the Buckeyes took third with 11 votes for first and an aggregate of 944.

Last week the spread between the first three teams was 1,168-1,121-838.

Alabama jumped from sixth place to fourth by virtue of their 66-0 rout of California. The victory earned the Crimson Tide two first-place votes and 809 points.

Michigan topped Iowa 31-7 to retain its hold on fifth place with 666 points. Texas, which doesn't open its season until Friday night, fell from fourth to sixth with 615 points.

Penn State, the only other first-place vote-getter, took seventh with a 20-6 defeat of Stanford.

Rounding out the Top Ten were Notre Dame, which begins its season Saturday against Northwestern; Oklahoma, which clubbed Baylor 42-14 to move from 11th place to ninth, and Tennessee, which dropped from ninth to 10th despite a last-minute, 21-17 triumph over Duke.

The Second Ten included Louisiana State, Auburn, Arizona State, North Carolina State, Florida, Houston, Oklahoma State, UCLA, and Colorado, with Bowling Green and Missouri tied for 20th.

Oklahoma State, Bowling Green and Missouri are making their first appearance in the Top Twenty. They replaced North Carolina, which came from behind to trip William & Mary 34-27, and Texas Tech, which rallied for a 29-22 victory over Utah.

Last week's Second Ten was Oklahoma, Auburn, Arizona State, Florida, LSU, UCLA, North Carolina State, Houston, North Carolina and Texas Tech.

Gals Line Up Behind Billie

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
HOUSTON (AP) — "I saw Bobby Riggs on television with Howard Cosell the other night," said Peggy Michael of Pacific Palisades, Calif. "He made me sick."

The girls on the ladies' tennis tour are closing ranks and lining up behind Billie Jean King in Billie Jean's $100,000 match at the Astro dome Thursday night against the 55-year-old hustler from Newport Beach, Calif.

They're all flaunting buttons which read: "Billie Jean Is No. 1."

"I think we'll all die if she doesn't win," said pretty, 20-year-old Kristien Kemmer of Los Angeles. "She just has to win."

"I'm sure she will, too. I've never seen her play better."

Miss Kemmer was one of Billie Jean's two victims as the 29-year-old champion of the feminist movement warmed up for the $2 million court spectacular by winning a doubleheader in the women's tournament at the outlying Net Set Racquet Club.

Playing erratically in the opening match but picking up steam in the second, Billie Jean beat Cynthia Doerner of Australia 6-0, 6-4 and Miss Kemmer 6-0, 6-2.

She showed no ill effects from a recent virus infection that contributed to her withdrawal from the recent U.S. Open Tennis Championships at Forest Hills.

"I am very healthy again," Billie Jean said after the two-hour test under a boiling sun. "I am very ready for the match."

The five times Wimbledon champion was loose and talkative in a hastily called press conference after her tournament debut here, but she warned that she would not be as readily available in the next three days leading up to the nationally televised battle of the sexes.

"I plan to work and rest—I will not be able to give any more interviews," she insisted. "I hope you people understand."

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Promises broken, by you or others, is likely to be the order of the day. You would be wise to carry through with whatever promises you have made. Curb the urge to let restlessness take you from one interest to another.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Being most careful in motion is important now so you can avoid accidents. Guard your words, too, so that you don't offend others. Count your change when shopping. Listen to a pal's advice.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't invest unwisely whether in a small or larger way or you could regret it later. Endeavor to be more understanding of others. Study a new activity that could be profitable in the future.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you come up with some ticklish matter at home, you could destroy the harmony that exists there now. Wait until a better day before you engage in a new outlet that interests you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Instead of feeling sorry for yourself because you are not getting ahead fast, become more active in the right channels. Take time to improve your appearance. Attend the social tonight.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Personal relationships are more important today than monetary dealings, so keep focused on the former. A personal aim can be reached easily now. Control your temper. Avoid one who bickers.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Making sure to handle public duties in the morning makes it possible later to gain personal aims of importance. Obtain the facts and figures that are vital in your line of endeavor.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have a new plan in mind and getting it to work quickly can bring success in the near future. Study your responsibilities well and know what should be done about them. Be more cheerful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Show that you are scrupulous in handling any obligations and promises you have made. If you endeavor to run away from your duties, you could get into much trouble. Be more self-reliant.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Make sure you don't enter into an argument between an associate and a higher-up. Show more courtesy to others and make progress through own efforts. Avoid one who is troublesome.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get busy with work you have to do and avoid trying to get away with anything, or you could get into trouble. Acquire the new implements that can help you to do your work better. Be wise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) It would be wise at this time to avoid expensive amusements. Sidestep one who brings up subjects that are depressing. Show more kindness to loved one. Engage in favorite hobby tonight.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) An argument between you and one at home could become serious so make sure you take steps to avoid it. Make plans to handle your tasks more efficiently. Satisfy your curiosity through study.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people who will do so much looking on both sides of any situation it will be difficult to make up the mind as to which is right. Give the spiritual training that will help to make decisions quickly and well. The education should be directed along artistic lines.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

The Greenville Chapter of the Association of Childhood Educators International will hold its first meeting Wednesday at 3:45 p.m. at Elmhurst Elementary School.

J.W. (Jim) Jenkins of the Division of Kindergarten and Early Childhood Education of the Department of Public Instruction in Raleigh will be the guest speaker.

His work during the past five years has consisted largely of coordinating activities leading toward the development of a public school kindergarten system for North Carolina.

Everyone interested in the kindergarten program in Greenville is invited to attend the association meeting.

Her Delivery Proved Faster

The 'Worry Clinic' 'Empathy' Will Clear The Air

Eileen's sex problem is more deep-seated than she realizes. Her husband claims it is her snoring! But that's a symptom of a more basic erotic dilemma. Once she solves that, he will be glad to leave the guest bedroom and come back to her.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE Y-521: Eileen G., aged 37, has a widespread sex problem.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "my husband has moved out of our bedroom and now sleeps in the guest room.

"For he says my snoring keeps him awake!

"But I didn't even know I snored!

"Yet he claims I sleep on my back and start buzzing loudly within 10 minutes after I go to bed.

"He is a nervous, jittery type, so he claims I am the main cause of his insomnia.

"Dr. Crane, I want him back in our double bed, so what can I do to stop my snoring?"

Boudoir Problems
Snoring is not likely to occur unless you are sleeping flat on your back.

So one quick remedy is to see that such buzz saw sleepers lie on their side or on their tummies.

But this is often difficult for obese people.

And Eileen is quite plump, having borne 4 babies each of which left her with almost 10 pounds extra weight.

"Eileen," I asked, "how much did you weigh when you reached the end of your first pregnancy?"

And she told me her original bridal weight of 125 had zoomed to 145 by the time the first baby was born.

Now, eventhough she wasn't pregnant, her weight was 165. As a result, her bulging abdomen made it difficult for her to sleep on either side, since the extra blubber pulled on her internal organs and produced pain.

Obviously, too, she couldn't sleep face down, for that 40-pound protrusion felt as if she were lying across a big water-melon.

As a result, Eileen (and most people who are obese) tend to lie flat on their backs.

This permits the lower jaw to sag, so they breathe simultaneously through both their mouths and nostrils.

As a result, the soft palate (uvula) flaps back and forth when they inhale, thus making that buzz saw sound.

One ideal way to stop snoring is thus to diet till you can sleep on your abdomen or on either side.

Meanwhile, any elastic band that goes under your chin and over the top of your head will keep your lower jaw from sagging.

Pioneer New Englanders even sewed a prickly knot of wood on the back of their nightshirt, so when they started to roll over on their back, it would prick them painfully and warn them to sleep on either side.

But Eileen's husband would not be so jittery at night if she would offer him more enticing boudoir cheesecake.

That's difficult for a fat woman to do, since a bulging abdomen makes a wife look like a good old motherly soul, instead of a siren.

And when a wife vaguely reminds her mate of his mother, then the old incest taboo subconsciously is aroused, thus throwing him into a platonic state.

If you thus wish to avoid snoring and also jittery mates, then send for my medical booklet, "How to Lose 10 Pounds in 10 Days," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

Meanwhile, try to enhance all your present seductive charms, as by diaphanous nighties, perfume, coquetry and deft erotic aggression. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

His Comic Book 'Money In Bank'

WHEATON, Md. (AP) — If you want to see a page in Jimmy Friedman's comic book, it'll be shown with the lights out. That's because pages from the book will be shown via slide projector.

Friedman, a Baltimore advertising man, was asked about seeing one of his books Sunday and his reply was: "No way. It's meticulously sealed in an air-tight container."

But as 35 comic book dealers and over 300 collectors gathered here for a "Maryland Funny Book Festival," he showed a color slide of one panel of a 1941 comic book where Captain America smashes Hitler in the jaw.

On the basis of the slides alone he was once bid $800 for the comic book, Friedman said. "I'm in no hurry to sell," he said, "It is in pristine mint condition and it's money in the bank."

Horsemanship Group Forming

Michael A. Davis, Pitt County 4-H Club coordinator, has announced special interest in the establishment of a horsemanship group.

According to Davis, several club members are interested in organizing a special interest group with emphasis on horsemanship.

Any youth between the ages of nine and 19 may join and membership is not limited to 4-H members.

The members will determine the activities of the club.

Any youth interested in joining the club or adult interested in working with the group may contact Davis at 758-1196.

Ali Bhutto Welcomed

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon welcomed Pakistan's Prime Minister Zulfikar Ali Bhutto today and declared Pakistan's independence and integrity a cornerstone of American policy.

His greeting in the formal welcoming ceremony held inside the White House because of threatening weather marked the start of two days of talks on political and economic problems.

Bhutto, educated in the United States and speaking fluent English, recalled that in the recent past President Nixon had been accused of tilting the United States toward Pakistan in the December, 1971, India-Pakistan war.

"That was a tilt for justice and a tilt for equity characteristic of you as a statesman," Bhutto said.

According to high U.S. officials, Bhutto's visit is expected to bring a promise of U.S. aid to transport prisoners and refugees from detention camps in India, Pakistan and Bangladesh.

in the amount of $1,307.16 in non-food assistance funds had been received.

This money, Cox said, will be used to purchase a convection oven, cooking equipment and a hot food storage cabinet for use at Third Street School.

In the past three years, the city school system has received about $10,000 in similar non-food assistance funds which have been used for cafeteria equipment at all the schools in the city.

Accountants To Gather Here

The Eastern Carolina Chapter of the National Association of Accountants will hold its regular monthly meeting Wednesday, 7:30 p.m., at the Beef Barn here. Guest speaker at the meeting will be Dr. R. Lee Brummet who is the Willard J. Graham Professor of Business Administration at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Persons interested in attending should contact Harold Mills at 758-2549.

Ayden Closing Books Oct. 8

The Town of Ayden will close its registration books for the November 6 election on October 8.

New residents who have lived in the town for 30 days or more; people who have just turned 18, and anyone with a name or address change is asked to come by the town office to change their registration. Some kind of identification is required.

The town office is on West Ave. and is open from 8:30 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Obituaries

Briley

Mr. Lyman G. Briley, 61, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital Monday afternoon after several years of declining health. He resided at 2902 Jefferson Dr.

Funeral services will be conducted at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by his pastor, the Rev. Richard R. Gammon. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mr. Briley, a native of Pitt County, was a service station operator in Greenville for many years. He was later employed by the North Carolina State Highway Department and the Greenville Department of Sanitation. He was a member of the First Presbyterian Church in Greenville.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lillie Dell Briley; a daughter, Mrs. Billy Fields of Danville, Va., a son, Glenn Briley of San Antonio, Tex.; four brothers, Johnny Briley of Raleigh, Earl, Eugene, and Dallas Briley, all of Greenville; four sisters; Mrs. Frank Whitaker, Mrs. Brodie Radford, and Mrs. Bobby Fleming, all of Greenville, and Mrs. Deloy Dowell of Shreveport, La.; and five grandchildren.

Davis

AYDEN—Roy Cleveland Davis, 62, died in Pitt Memorial Hospital early Tuesday morning. Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 2 p.m. at Farmer Funeral Home here with the Rev. Clifford Rice officiating. Burial will follow in the Ayden Cemetery.

He was a retired mechanic and spent most of his life in the Ormondville Community of Greene County. He was a member of Rainbow Methodist Church.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. Lillie Bell Davis of Ayden; six sons, Ed Davis of Clay Root, Richard Davis of Winterville, George Davis of Buffalo, N.Y., Roy Thomas Davis of Charleston, W. Va., William Davis of Winston-Salem, and Jimmy Davis of Ft. Bragg; one daughter, Mrs. Autry Bowen of Ormondville; one brother, Buck Davis of Wilson; two sisters, Mrs. Bessie Hill and Mrs. Annie Beaman, both of Snow Hill; 15 grandchildren.

Corey

Funeral services for Edward E. Corey Jr. will be conducted Thursday, 4 p.m. at Mount Calvary Free Will Baptist Church with the Rev. W.L. Jones officiating. Burial will follow in Brown Hill Cemetery.

Surviving are his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward E. Corey Sr. of the home; four sisters, Mrs. Frances Filmore and Mrs. Marion D. White, both of Greenville, Misses Brenda and Faye Corey, both of the home; and a brother, Anthony Corey of the home.

The family will receive friends Wednesday evening from 8-9 p.m. at Phillips Brothers Mortuary.

Crisp

BETHEL—Wilton Spence Crisp, 51, died Monday. An Edgecombe County native, he was the son of Mrs. Hazel Webb Crisp of Bethel and late William Elijah Crisp.

Surviving him, besides his mother, are two sisters, Mrs.

Hilton Tetterton of Bethel and Mrs. Muriel Moore of Norfolk, Va.; and a brother, Morris Crisp of Norfolk.

The family requests that flowers be omitted. Arrangements are incomplete at Ayers Funeral Home in Bethel.

Hill

Miss Sarah A. Hill, 19, died in a Raleigh Hospital early Tuesday morning.

Funeral services will be conducted at three o'clock Wednesday afternoon at Lane's Chapel United Methodist Church near Vanceboro by the Rev. R.S. Murphy, pastor, assisted by the Rev. Charles Umstead. Burial will be in the Hill Family Cemetery.

The body will be taken from the Wilkerson Funeral Home to the Church one hour prior to the time of service.

Surviving are her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul G. Hill of Vanceboro; and a brother, Kenneth Hill of Vanceboro.

Taylor

Mrs. Geraldine W. Taylor, 53, widow of Frank Taylor, died at Guardian Care Nursing Home in Farmville Tuesday morning.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3:30 Thursday afternoon at the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by the Rev. Phillip Cooper, the associate pastor of Parker's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church. Burial will be in Greenwood Cemetery.

Mrs. Taylor was a native of Pitt County and spent most of her life in Greenville. She was a member of Parker's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church. Her husband died in 1961.

Surviving are two brothers, Russell H. Worthington of Cincinnati, Ohio, and Bernice L. Worthington of Clarksville, Tenn.

Three sisters, Mrs. Frank Anella of Waynesville, Ohio, Mrs. Lillian Lockamy of Greenville, and Mrs. Frances W. Delihl of Springfield, Ohio.

The family will be at the home of her sister, Mrs. Lillian Lockamy, near Parker's Chapel Free Will Baptist Church.

Wilson

Funeral services for Mr. Bennie Wilson, 33, who died Friday in Riverside General Hospital, Newport News, Va., will be held Thursday at 4:30 p.m. at Flanagan and Parker Funeral Chapel with the Rev. David Hammond officiating. Burial will follow in the Brown Hill Cemetery.

Mr. Wilson, a native of Pitt County, spent most of his life in the Greenville community. He had made his home in Virginia for the past three years.

Surviving are his foster mother, Mrs. Kadell Wilson of Greenville; three brothers, Linwood Earl Wilson of New Haven, Conn. Jasper Vines and James Earl Vines, both of Greenville; his father, Ben David Vines of Greenville.

The body will be at Flanagan and Parker Funeral Home. Family visitation will be held Wednesday from 8 p.m. to 9 p.m.

EXECUTIVE OFFICER DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Raymond J. Mulligan of Allentown, Pa. was chosen Monday to become chief executive officer of Liggett & Myers Inc., manufacturers of tobacco and other products.

Sen. Ervin, Jim Hunt To Speak Here

U.S. Sen. Sam Ervin is scheduled to speak here at a Unification Rally September 27, sponsored by the Pitt Young Democrats Club.

Pitt YDC president Carl Darden said today that the Unification Rally will be held at the National Guard Armory in Greenville from 6:30 to 9 p.m., with a barbecue dinner and speeches making up the program.

Primary speakers for the event, which Darden described as "an Eastern area rally" not limited to Pitt County, include Sen. Ervin and Lt. Gov. James Hunt.

Among other notables scheduled to attend the event, according to Darden, are East Carolina University Chancellor Leo Jenkins, First District Congressman Walter Jones, state Democratic party chairman James Suggs and Henry Hal Wilson, a candidate for the U.S. Senate.

Darden said the Pitt YDC is sponsoring the Unification Rally in coordination with the Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee.

"We are projecting about 400 attending," Darden said, but emphasized, "We are hoping for more."

Darden said tickets for the rally—at $5 each—will be available at the door.

Record Day At Farmville

FARMVILLE—Prices on the Farmville Tobacco Market yesterday were the highest of the season.

According to Louis Williams, sales supervisor of the Farmville market, leaf grades were in strong demand. Cutters with good color and grain were selling for $1 to $2 higher than on Thursday. Primings and lugs remained steady.

Non-descript grades accounted for the smallest percentage of the volume than any day this season. Top price paid for any grade was 95 cents.

The Farmville market sold 454,410 pounds for $420,109, for an average of $92.52 per hundred pounds.

To date, the market has sold 7,826,166 pounds of tobacco for $6,870,363, for an average per hundred pounds of $87.79.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Four giant companies — General Motors, Ford, General Electric and Sears Roebuck — are under federal investigation in the biggest case ever of alleged discriminatory employment practices.

The Equal Employment Opportunity Commission said it consolidated numerous complaints against four national corporations and the unions with which they hold contracts into a single case.

Also involved are a major construction union and the contractors' associations with which it bargains. The commission refused to name the companies or unions because of a federal law barring such disclosure until lawsuits are filed. However, all four corporations confirmed they are targets of the probe.

Commission Chairman William H. Brown III said the agency would attempt to negotiate voluntary settlements with those cited. "If settlement cannot be reached, however, the commission will consider taking the cases to court," he said. General Motors, Ford and General Electric issued statements denying the charges, which include allegations of job discrimination on the basis of race, color, creed, sex and national origin. They relate to such areas as wages, benefits, union representation, layoffs, promotion and seniority.

Sears Roebuck had no comment. The unions involved include the United Auto Workers, International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, International Union of Electrical Workers and others in the auto and electrical industries. Only the IUE commented, saying it would cooperate fully in the investigation.

Identities of the construction union and contractors could not be learned.

The charges were the first to be brought by the commission's new National Programs Division, which is headed by David Copus, the attorney who ran the commission's investigation of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co.

The AT&T case resulted in a settlement earlier this year requiring the payment of $15 million in back wages, to women, blacks and others who were found to have been discriminated against. Another $23 million was to have been paid in wage adjustments aimed at elevating women and minority men to equal job standing with whites.

Band Boosters Meet Tonight

The E.B. Aycock Junior High School Band Boosters will hold their first meeting tonight at 8 p.m. in the School cafeteria.

Mr. and Mrs. James Searl of the East Carolina University Music faculty will be principal speakers. Mrs. Searl will perform and give flute demonstrations.

B.L. Hunt, Band Booster president, said all interested parents and other persons are invited to attend this meeting. Members of the School Board, also meeting at Aycock, are expected to make a brief appearance and give words of encouragement.
