Nixon Urges Cash Subsidy For The Poor To Acquire Housing

RALEIGH (AP) — About 20 legislators are scheduled to attend a briefing Thursday morning on the report of a team of medical consultants who have studied the question of whether a four-year medical school should be established at East Carolina University.

Members of the consulting team will be on hand for the session at the executive mansion which is being hosted by Gov. Jim Holshouser. An aide to the governor said the report will be outlined and the legislators will have an opportunity to question the consulting team.

The report has been distributed to members of the Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina and is to be considered at a meeting Friday at Chapel Hill.

Hospital Bd. Awaits Loan

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
A Congressional announcement should come through at any time reporting that Pitt County has received the $2 million loan needed to finance the building of the new Pitt Memorial Hospital, Hospital Administrator Jack Richardson told hospital trustees last night.

"We're sitting on go. As soon as you see the announcement in the paper, you'll know we'll be ready to start the bid-taking process," he said.

Richardson also reported a meeting with Director of Pitt County Social Services Dorothy Bolton about assigning an eligibility specialist in the hospital for the purpose of dealing with patients having Medicare and Medicaid coverage. The hospital would participate in the person's salary at a rate of 12 1/2 per cent, he said.

A vote of thanks was given to the Greenville Service League for a gift of an anesthesia machine valued at $2,500 to the hospital.

The Trustees gave the administrator the go-ahead to finalize a contract of approximately $101,000 with College View Cleaners for laundry service for the hospital. This represents approximately a $5,700 increase over last year's price, necessary because of the high cost of labor and supplies, College View operator Billy Tripp says. The contract should go into effect Oct. 1.

Comprehensive insurance on the hospital building and equipment for the coming year is being put up for bids, Richardson reported.

Board Chairman Ed Warren reported that the gifts committee met and elected officers Monday night. Harry Leslie is chairman and Dr. Joe Pou is vice chairman. Mrs. Betty Speir is secretary and Bill Glidewell is treasurer. Other members are Leroy James, representing the Trustee, Jack Bircher, Joe Clark, Mrs. J. B. Spilman, and Bill Watson. This group will solicit and accept gifts of equipment or money toward equipment for the new hospital.

Dr. John Wooten, Chief of Staff, reported that a committee of the medical staff has been set up to work out details of a plan to have paid manning of the hospital emergency room by physicians as more and more of their income comes from federal sources. This will continue as a discussion topic in the months to come, he said.

Radiologist Dr. Will McConnell told the Board about the hospital and gave them a guide tour of the department. He said the Department, which has three radiologists, 13 technologists, and eight student technologists, begins seeing patients at 7 a.m. each day and continues through 11 p.m., with special 3-11 coverage. He contrasted some figures from previous years to show how use of the x-ray has been increased at Pitt Memorial. In the year 1964-65, there were 31 physicians ordering procedures, he said. At present, there are 83. In 1966-67, about 11,000 procedures were done. Last year, 21,000 were WASHINGTON (AP) — Terming the federal government "the biggest slumlord in history," President Nixon urged Congress today to authorize a new experiment that would provide the needy with direct cash payments to help meet their housing needs.

Nixon said the direct payments should be considered as a potential substitute for massive public housing projects.

In a long-promised special message, Nixon said that the cash payments appear to be "the most promising way to achieve decent housing for all our families at an acceptable cost."

Nixon said that under the direct payment plan, "The federal government would provide qualified recipients with an appropriate housing payment and would then let them choose their own homes on the private market."

Nixon said a recent study shows "it costs between 15 and 40 per cent more for the government to provide housing for people than for people to acquire that housing themselves on the private market."

In 1970, Congress authorized a $150 million experimental program in housing allowances involving more than 18,000 families. Nixon recommended this effort be expanded and that figures be gathered on the cost of safe and sanitary housing in various parts of the country.

Recommending that first priority be given to the elderly poor, Nixon said the cash subsidies "would be carefully scaled to make up the difference between what a family could afford on its own for housing and the cost of safe and sanitary housing in that geographic area."

The President said a final decision on the wisdom of the innovative approach probably would come "late in 1974 or early in 1975."

For the moment, Nixon said, there would be a continuing need to provide some federally subsidized housing projects. But he recommended, as a new approach, that developers make newly-built units "available at special rents for low-income families and the government in return would pay the developer the difference between such rents and fair market rents."

In the field of public housing, Nixon announced he was lifting his Jan. 5 suspension of "the section 23 program under which new and existing housing is leased for low-income families."

Nixon also proposed a major experiment designed to ease the home-buying burden on young families.

He asked Congress for authority to test a program that would gear mortgage payments to expected changes in family income.

"Rather than make the same flat payment over the life of the loan, families would make smaller payments in the earlier years — when they are hardest pressed — and larger payments — or on — when their incomes are higher," Nixon said.

Some Damage By High Wind During Night

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

High winds accompanying Wednesday night's electrical storm caused several problems within the Greenville Utilities power system as well as minor problems on lines owned by Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Malcolm Green, assistant director of Greenville Utilities, reported this morning that high winds apparently concentrated on State Road 1400 which connects the Belvoir and Falkland highways blew down several trees and limbs and knocked out power to customers in that area for some four hours.

Green said that although no power poles were broken as a result of the severe winds, two full crews were dispatched to the scene shortly after 8 p.m. and worked until full power was restored. Several lines were broken as a result of the falling debris in the area, he said.

The official reported that a pole owned by Carolina Telephone went down on the Belvoir Highway in another incident and the breakage shook power wires on a nearby GUCO pole causing protective equipment in the system to automatically shut off the power in that area.

Greene pointed out that although no damage resulted to the power equipment, residents were without current for approximately 45 minutes while crews were isolating the trouble and restoring power. Telephone drops running between the two poles resulted in power lines being shaken by the falling equipment, it was noted, and protective devices in the system read the disturbance as a shortage and cut off power.

A direct lightning strike occurred on a transformer on Greenbriar Drive off Hooker Road, Green said, knocking out

Decline Paying Electric Bill

The Pitt County Board of Education has voted not to pay Greenville Utilities Commission for electricity used at D. H. Conley High School during the months of July and August.

The board's basic reason for not making payment is that the bill at North Pitt is approximately one-fourth of that at Conley. Utilities bills for Ayden-Grifton High School and Farmville Central total about one-fifth of the Conley bill, school officials maintained.

According to Supt. Arthur Alford, the total cost of Conley for the two months was $5,834, after an adjustment of $912.25 had been made by Greenville Utilities. The two-month bill for North Pitt was $1,225.32. That at Ayden-Grifton was $1,085.80 for two months and $1,164.30 at Farmville Central.

"The July-August bill for Conley for last year was $1,554.28 and we used approximately 24,000 less kilowatt hours at Conley this year than last year," Alford stated.

"Part of the problem apparently lies in the adoption by Greenville Utilities Commission of the rate schedule for July and August as proposed by VEPCO from which Greenville purchases current," Alford said.

"The rate schedule proposed, however, by VEPCO was denied them by the State Utilities Commission. Granted Greenville Utilities is not regulated by the State Commission, but a recently adopted schedule effective September by Greenville is the same one that the State Commission approved for VEPCO."

"In as much as Greenville Utilities has adopted effective September, the same rate schedule as approved by the State Commission for VEPCO, it appears to me that Greenville Utilities should have also used in July and August the same

Girls Cannot Hide The Facts

EPSOM, England (WNS) — The physics teacher at the Glyn Boys School here wondered why two students were wearing fourth-form blazers in the sixth-form classroom. He took a closer look and discovered that the boys were girls. Teresa Atkinson, 16, confessed that she belonged in a nearby convent school but had wanted to see her boy friend. Anne Jackson, 16, complained that the teacher took too close a look. "After all, a girl can't hide everything," she said.

TIME TO HIT THE "SAUCE"

Apple season is now arriving. In orchards all across the country, trees hold the ripening supplies of one of nature's most versatile fruits. Whether you choose to buy your apples from your local grocer, or spend a pleasant day in the country picking your own, one of the best and simplest dishes to make is applesauce.

Applesauce is so popular that the Agricultural Marketing Service of the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) bought over 17 million pounds of it during the past fiscal year for use in school lunches and institutional feeding programs.

But it is so easy to make, that you should try it yourself. There's something special about a bowl of fresh, homemade applesauce for a snack or with a meal.

For six servings, you need about six cups of apple pieces. These should be cored, but you can choose not to pare them if you like. Cook the apples in a saucepan with one cup of water (more if the apples stick) and cook until tender — about 10 to 15 minutes. Add sugar to your own taste usually about 1-4 to 1-3 cup.

Depending on the texture of the apples, and your own preferences, you can make the sauce chunky or mashed. If you choose to leave the skins on, you should put the mixture through a food mill or sieve. Cooking with the red skinned varieties will give you pink applesauce.

And that's all there is to it. Dish it up for you family hot or cold.

For interesting variation, you might try cooking the sauce with two sticks of cinnamon, sweetening the mixture with honey instead of sugar, serving the sauce hot with raisins mixed in, or adding a touch of lemon juice for extra tartness.

Applesauce is so easy to make and vary to your own individual tastes that you can easily make it uniquely yours and the object of everyone's praise and delight. We have a very interesting bulletin called "Apples in Appealing Ways" by calling the office.

Pears for the Table

Local pears are in season now and many homemakers have been calling in for information on different methods of conserving them. We have available booklets on canning, freezing, and preserving pears.

If you wish any of these bulletins on pears or apples, please call our office in Greenville. The number is 758-1196.

JOHNNIE ROSS'S SHREDDED ZUCCHINI

A Manhattan cook, devotee of natural foods, fixes squash so as to preserve all its food values and taste like a new vegetable!

4 medium zucchini, 1 1/4 pounds
1/4 cup butter or margarine
1/2 teaspoon salt
1/4 teaspoon white pepper, if desired

Cut a thin slice from each end of each zucchini and discard; scrub in cold water; do not pare. With narrow fleshy side against a coarse grater, and using long downward strokes, coarsely grate zucchini — there should be about 5 cups. In a 10-inch skillet over moderately low heat, melt butter; add zucchini, salt and, if used, the pepper; cook, stirring often, until wilted and hot; or cover tightly and simmer, stirring a few times, until wilted and hot; either way cooking should take only 5 to 10 minutes. Makes 6 servings.

MORNING COFFEE
Honey Bars Coffee

This mild-flavored cookie has a cakelike texture.
1 1/4 cups sifted cake flour
1/2 teaspoon baking powder
1/8 teaspoon salt
1/2 cup butter or margarine
1-3rd cup honey
Grated rind of 1 orange
1 egg
1 tablespoon milk
1/4 cup flaked coconut
1/2 cup chopped (medium-fine) walnuts
1/4 cup (about) sifted confectioners' sugar

On wax paper sift together the flour, baking powder and salt. In a medium mixing bowl cream butter, honey and orange rind; beat in egg and milk. Add flour mixture and beat gently until smooth. Fold in coconut and walnuts. Turn into greased square cake pan (9 by 9 by 1 1/4 inches). Bake in a preheated 350-degree oven until a cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — about 20 minutes. Place pan on wire rack to cool for about 5 minutes. Cut into 24 bars and remove with a small metal spatula; at once roll in confectioners' sugar. Delicious served shortly after baking. If kept, store in a tightly covered tin box.

Answers, Advice For Empty Arms

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: The letter signed "Empty Arms" moved me. [She was the mother who gave up her illegitimate child for adoption, and wondered if the ache would ever go away.]

My husband and I were childless until some incredibly kind and unselfish mother gave up her newborn baby, who an agency placed in our home. My husband and I are bursting with joy, and plan to raise this beautiful little girl in a home filled with love and happiness. When she starts to ask questions, I shall tell her about her wonderful, generous "other mother" who loved her so much she gave her up.

I only wish I could tell our "other mother" that I would have given anything in the world to have shared her burden during the pregnancy and the birth, and how eternally grateful I am for her enormous sacrifice.

Abby, please tell "Empty Arms" that, anonymous tho she is, I love her with all my heart, and pray that her arms, like mine, will soon be overflowing. OVERFLOWING

DEAR ABBY: I, too, had "Empty Arms" when I gave up my fatherless child 13 years ago. But every year the ache grows more bearable.

I was only 16 then. But I kept my self-respect, went back to school, and worked my way thru college as a waitress.

I am now married to a prominent man in public life, and we have a wonderful family of our own. [Yes, he knew all about me, and it made no difference.] Every year on my first-born's birthday I suffer just a little, but I have no regrets because, in my heart, I know I made the right decision. Time heals. And so does love. BEEN THERE

DEAR ABBY: That "Empty Arms" letter hit me right between the eyes. How I envy her courage and good sense.

When I was young and foolish, I thought I was in love and gave myself to a man who skipped town as soon as I told him I was pregnant.

In those days only the rich could afford abortions, so I had to bear a child I didn't want. I felt my baby would be better off if I gave him to a couple who really wanted a child, but my mother talked me out of it. She said God would punish me for giving up my own flesh and blood.

I had to work two jobs to make ends meet, so my mother, who was a widow, raised my son. He didn't turn out very good. In fact, he's serving time right now for armed robbery, but it's not all his fault. He never had a father's love and guidance.

I want to congratulate "Empty Arms" for doing what she did. I'm sorry I didn't give my son a better break in life. TOO LATE

DEAR ABBY: Tell "Empty Arms" for me that she can get over the ache of having given up her child, but it will take a lot of self-discipline.

I could have written that letter myself 15 years ago, and I confess, I read it thru tear-dimmed eyes. For the first few years, on "his" birthday I used to get smashed. Then with the help of my local Mental Health Clinic [which charged me only what I could afford to pay—and that wasn't much] I learned to forgive myself. I had a lot of growing up to do. But thank God, I made it, and "Empty Arms" can make it too, if she tries. God bless her!

Company represents that the intrastate North Carolina operations for calendar year 1972 were provided at a loss of $581,025 and that after adjustments for known changes and the effect of the proposed rate revision, the 1970 operating results in North Carolina would have shown a loss of $348,256.

The effective date of these proposed rate adjustments has been suspended to allow time for public notice. The Commission gives notice that unless written protests for intervention are received on or before October 15, 1973, the application will be considered by the Commission on the basis of the information contained in the filing and in the records of the Commission.

More Honors For Rescue Squad

Once again Greenville's crack rescue squad has brought home the honors in competition with other squads.

The local squad was winner of first place in first aid and heavy duty rescue competition at the 17th annual convention of the N.C. Association of Rescue Squads last weekend. Last month the local squad placed second in international competition at Omaha, Nebraska.

The squad has previously won one international rescue championship and 12 state rescue and first aid championships.

A plaque was also presented on which appeared the first N.C. Rescue College graduate patch in memory of the late George W. Gardner, who was chief of the Greenville Fire Department for many years. The plaque cities Gardner as the man "who conceived and founded the North Carolina Rescue College."

Greenville and Pitt County have much to be proud of in the Greenville Rescue Squad. The expertise shown in state and international competition pays off in a practical way when the squad's services are needed in local emergencies.

George Wallace Planning Ahead

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK MONTGOMERY, Ala. — The unobtrusive arrival here of a ghostwriter commissioned by Doubleday and Co. to write the definitive autobiography of Gov. George Wallace for pre-1976 publication is the latest sign that Wallace's confinement to a wheelchair may be no greater political hazard than it was to Franklin D. Roosevelt.

"This chair makes it more difficult," Wallace told us in his office. "But it doesn't stop me from being governor." That was late one evening last week, following a two-hour meeting of the state building commission presided over by the governor. As we left at 7 p.m., Wallace's legislative leaders arrived for another hour's conference.

Having recovered from his internal wounds and suffering only minor periods of light pain, Wallace is beginning to think like a presidential candidate again. His mind is an sharp as it was before he was nearly murdered by an assassin 16 months ago. Indeed, the talk in Wallaceand of yet another presidential campaign in 1976, with the Democratic party's vice presidential nomination the real goal, cannot be dismissed as nonsense.

When we last visited a fatigued and pain-ridden Wallace a year ago, he could not stop reminiscing about his phenomenal 1972 primary victories, particularly his sweep in the liberal Democratic bastion of Michigan.

In contrast, Wallace's five 1972 winning primaries plus the five states he won in his third-party presidential campaign of 1968 are mentioned today only in passing. Wallace is not looking ahead, smacking his lips with anticipation and plotting a powerful role in what he calls the "rejuvenation" of the shattered Democratic party.

He has been holding quiet talks with former aides who long ago left him. While avoiding hard offers of political employment, Wallace is making it clear that he wants and needs serious professional help from these old presidential hands. The goal: to rebuild a competent staff of Alabamans for 1976. Among them is the astute Bill Jones, Wallace's oldest political adviser who left shortly after managing Wallace's 1968 third-party campaign; his talents were sorely missed in the inadequately organized 1972 campaign.

Jones and other old Wallaceites are impressed by the miraculous physical improvement of the governor, which has restored his psychological health and ended long periods of deep depression. To them, 1976 looks more promising than the governor's passes at the presidency in 1964, 1968 and 1972.

Wallace is dealing today with a shattered Democratic party which, with the sole exception of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, has no recognizable center of power. Moreover, he is dealing with it from a position of complete dominance at home and wearing what his idolators perceive as the mystical mantle of a hero miraculously immune from death by assassination.

That perception is so strong in Alabama that Republican state chairman Richard Bennett is advising his party not to field any candidate for governor next year when Wallace runs for reelection.

Thus, with only token Democratic opposition in next spring's primary election, Wallace could well sweep to his third term as Alabam's governor with an astounding 70 to 75 per cent of the vote.

One possible contender, former Gov. Albert Brewer, was barely defeated by Wallace in the 1970 primary. But today Brewer confronts a dismal statewide poll which the Wallace camp says was conducted for Brewer by national pollster Oliver Quayle. It shows Wallace ahead of Brewer by over 40 percentage points, according to Wallaceites.

Wallace, in short, appears stronger than ever after his near-assassination, a political fact the national Democratic party cannot ignore as it staggers out of the quicksands of 1972.

Although his old political power was built on a pledge of total racial segregation, Wallace today talks not about race but about the rights of "little people." The populist has eclipsed the segregationist.

Kennedy's speech for Wallace at Decatur, Ala., last July illustrated that no Northern Democrat can afford to ignore Wallace's huge following in the South or his populist appeal everywhere. Thus, unlikely though it sounds today, Wallace may well find himself powerful enough in 1976 either to exercise a veto over the Democratic party's presidential nominee or compel that nominee to take him on the ticket.

Such a turn of political events since his attempted murder in 1972 would be astonishing and incongruous. But over the last decade, the astonishing and incongruous have become the hallmark of American politics, as Richard Nixon — and now George Wallace — are discovering.

King Of Sweden Left A Remarkable Legacy

When King Gustaf VI Adolf died he left his people of Sweden a remarkable legacy.

For instance, there had been generations of peace; his people enjoyed the highest standard of living in Europe and a degree of prosperity and stability the rest of the world might well envy.

The governments over which he presided did maintain a degree of neutrality despite the irritation it evoked from all sides.

King Gustaf presided over a constitutional monarchy in which he held little real power, in a country which enjoyed small influence in affairs of the world. His passing leaves no great gap in ranks of the mighty.

But among the Swedes themselves he left a gap, for he was a well-loved man among his countrymen. That alone makes him quite unique in the world's family of nations, kings, presidents, princes and rulers whose influence shapes history.

Wrong Gifts From Carolina

By JOHN KILGO

Americans have been taught since childhood never to look a gift horse in the mouth. When someone gives us a present, we smile appreciatively and say thanks. Unfortunately, the Russians have had no such upbringing, as Gov. Jim Holshouser and his North Carolina trade mission entourage to Moscow quickly found out.

This is a low budget column and I wasn't able to come up with enough American dollars to accompany the Governor and the eight Tar Heels businessmen to Russia. I understand, however, that the Russians didn't like the gifts the American businessmen tried to lay on them.

Frank Fishburne, an Arden businessman, offered a Russian gentleman a genuine, store-bought cowboy hat, containing the very latest in sweat bands. When Mr. Fishburne placed the hat in front of the Russkie, the Commie rat looked at it without touching and said: "Nyet."

It is also reported that Mr. Fishburne took along some pen sets which advertised his floor conveyor systems and had inscribed in Russian what he thought were the words, "Floor Level Service."

Seems the Russian translation was off a little. It read: "Floor Level Sex."

Picky, these Russians. Gov. Holshouser and his aides tried to convince the Russians to come to North Carolina to look at our impressive tobacco fields, but there is no evidence the Russians would like to do this.

Hindsight is easy to come by, but I believe the Tar Heel delegation bore the wrong kind of gifts.

Next time North Carolinians make the journey to Moscow, I suggest they carry the following:

—A gallon of moonshine liquor, the best North Wilkesboro has to offer. I cannot honestly see a Russian businessman turning down such tidings.

—A folder including the important business passed by the Tar Heel Legislature, to wit: The naming of a state insect and the creation of yet another committee to study no-fault auto insurance.

—A bound copy of Sen. Jesse Helms' speech on the Senate Floor concerning the sale of wheat to the Soviet Union

—A booklet, "How To Drive on North Carolina Highways," by Gene Anderson.

—A dozen Sam Ervin T-shirts.

—A list of state patronage openings, compiled and edited by Frank Rouse.

An autographed picture of Mildred the Bear.

—And finally, so those Commie rats can see what architecture is all about, a picture of the Tar Heel State House.

Such gifts would cause the Russians to melt like baryards butter on an August day. The cowboy hats weren't a bad idea. They just lacked the peronal warmth that interests the Moscow tycoons.

The next Tar Heel delegation might also want to take along some electric blankets.

The last group found the weather in Moscow to be dreary and 46 degrees. When one North Carolinian asked for the heat to be turned on in his hotel room, the tour guide said: "Sorry. We turn on the heat on Sept. 15th. You missed it by one week."

Strength For Today

RESPONSE TO HIGH APPEALS

Many people hold the singular notion that the way to make membership in any organization and particularly membership in the church-attractive is to lower the entrance requirements. Behind such a concept is the theory that people dislike responsibility and will readily join any organization which makes but few demands on them.

History proves such a theory unsound. The great leaders have been the men who demanded the most from their followers. For example,

Francis of Assisi, that saint of the thirteenth century, created an influential order in the Catholic Church which lives to the present day by demanding complete self-sacrifice. As depicted in a recent film, St. Francis exchanged his raiment for a beggar's clothes and took such a strict vow of poverty that he never to the end of his life called anything his own. He consecrated his whole life to humanity, and men flocked to be his followers.

Men respond with their best only when we appeal to their best and demand their most.

A Blackout Is Beautiful

WASHINGTON — The recent decision to eliminate the TV blackout in cities where professional football is played was a crippling blow to those of us who believe in the class system in America.

This country has very few status symbols. The one that meant the most to 50,000 of us in Washington, D. C., was that we could see the home games of the Redskins, while everyone else was shut out.

Those of us who managed to buy, steal or beg tickets to the home games were an elite group of people admired and envied by neighbors and friends.

On Monday mornings we would come to work and join the poor peasants around the drinking fountain who were discussing the game they had either heard on radio or read about in the newspapers. Casually we would mention we had been at the game, then in that patronizing way most season ticket holders have developed, we would give them the highlights—filling them in on the touch-downs, the disputed plays and, if time permitted, a description of the half-time show.

In the evenings we would call up relatives who were blacked out and give them a play-by-play description of the previous afternoon's contest. What better way to get back at a brother-in-law you didn't like or a father-in-law who thought you weren't good enough to marry his daughter?

The beauty of being in this upper strata of American society was that you could pass on the status to your children and their children. Since season seats are held in perpetuity, you were assured that your family would always be among football's chosen people.

When taxi drivers, maitre d'hôtels and waiters found out that you had entree to the home games, they treated you with respect. Since this country does not bestow knighthood on its favored citizens, the only way anyone had of knowing who rated in our society was through the annual printed lists of those who were season ticket holders.

The TV blackout engendered pride in local neighborhoods. People used to point out the houses of those who got to see the home games. In school, children of season ticket holders were given favored treatment by the teachers (in hopes that someday a father might

Other Editors Say No Tax Increase

(The Wilson Times)

Congress could not pass an additional income tax, even if the addition would be returned and with interest. The people will not stand for further taxes, especially with the cost of living as high as it is, and no signs of curbing inflation in sight.

Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, met with the President Wednesday and the subject was discussed. It sounds like a plan the head of the Federal Reserve Board would suggest for a tax increas would take some of the anti-inflation burden from the Federal Reserve Board's policy of money and credit restraint.

With the prime interest rate reaching 10 per cent, and the cost of decreasing, the Congress could not put a further tax burden on the people, if it wanted to, because of the opposition.

The President has promised there will be no tax increase, and while you may be able to argue that this would not be a tax increase, as the money with interest would be returned, it is taking money people need to live on.

And when you remember Congress was considering a big salary increase, and all the money the members of Congress receive tax-free, you know the people are not going to stand for additional taxes when it is all they can do to live and pay the ever-rising cost of living.

Such a suggestion as Mr. Burns made is a reflection upon the intelligence of the people. And the President would not try such a method to halt inflation. He has promised the people there will be no tax increases. Although the plan Mr. Burns suggests is roundabout, it is a tax increase and an income tax increase at that.

The headline in The Wilson Daily Times told the story, "If Tax Hike Suggestion Was A Trial Balloon, It May Have Been Punctured." It was punctured before it was suggested, for it is not even sensible, or obtainable.

The only way to stop inflation is for the government to stop spending more money than it gets from taxes. Inflation begins with the government, and only the government can end it.

For Awhile—World's Biggest

By JIM BRIGANCE Associated Press Writer GRAPEVINE, Tex. (AP) — Texas, a big state that likes to do things in a big way, dedicates the world's largest airport Thursday.

The Dallas-Fort Worth Airport is a $700 million venture sprawling over 17,500 acres of North Texas prairie midway between the two cities.

The airport is larger in area than Manhattan Island.

It initially will have 18,500 employees and 81,500 passengers daily — an airport population of 100,000 every day.

When it officially opens for business late next month, it will have 66 gate positions, ultimately 434 for passengers and cargo.

The airport will be completed in three phases. Runways will be 11,400 feet long at first. But plans call for two later runways of 20,000 feet. Planners presume that will take care of anything aircraft designers may come up with in the future.

The airport's 25,000-ton air conditioning system also is the world's biggest, enough to cool three Empire State buildings.

The "world's largest" claim, however, will be lost next year when Montreal completes its Mirabel Airport on 18,000 acres.

The Dallas-Fort Worth Airport dramatizes a new age of cooperation between the two cities, historic rivals.

"There's nothing like being cosigner on a $412 million bond issue to make you friends," says Fort Worth Mayor R. M. Stovall. "It will bring us together economically, environmentally and socially."

The airport was financed through an unusual political and economic alliance that bridged decades of bitter rivalry between the cities.

The land was purchased by the cities, but the construction is being financed through sale of joint revenue bonds.

Airport users will help foot the bill. It will cost 25 cents just to enter the airport property to drop off a friend. A telephone call also will cost a quarter. And there will be a 450-room hotel, restaurants, clubs, shops and other money-eaters to tantalize visitors and air passengers.

Making Of A Wife

By HAL BOYLE NEW YORK (AP) — To her dear fond father, every girl is a princess. But once a man marries her and becomes her husband, she seems to him to act more and more like a wife.

She merely wrapped her Dad around her little finger, but on him she puts an emphatic thumb.

When he was courting her, she used to listen to him by the hour, breaking her silence only with small murmurs of assent. Since the marriage, he thinks later, he has been listening to her by the year.

HAL BOYLE

She used to like for him to correct her in small ways. Now if he dares to criticize her in the slightest degree, she demands, "What makes you think you're so perfect?"

Then she had a cute little habit of humming love songs in her ear. Today she has a big bad habit of harping on the same old tune—"Why can't you make more money?"

On their first honeymoon, they had a laughable, lyrical, light-hearted weekend in a $7.50 a night hotel in Weehawken. For their second honeymoon, she is planning a five-week, ocean-air jaunt to Paris in the company of a couple they both detest.

When they first met, they quickly agreed on one thing: it must have been love at first sight. Today she says, "I must have been blind ever to see anything in you."

Then she said, "All I want to be is your wife." Now she comments wryly, "I must have been out of my mind to tie my life so young to a man like you and a house like this."

In the beginning he thought she looked and cooked like an angel. Alas, since then both his eyesight and his stomach have had second thoughts.

He used to think it was funny when she got jealous if he spoke to another girl at a cock-

The fall term of East Carolina Teachers College began today with the prospect of an enrollment as large as, if not larger than, last year.

Records today showed 350 freshmen and 550 upperclassmen enrolled. This brought the total to that of last year.

Dr. R. H. Wright, president of East Carolina Teachers College spoke of organizations throughout the world to Rotarians last night.

Dr. Wright, chairman of the International Relations Committee of the Rotary club, declared the peace of the world is the object of the organizations.

New York leads the National League today with 88 wins and 54 losses during the season. Washington leads the American League with 95 wins and 48 losses.

Avers Elliott Roosevelt Requested Assassination

By JANET STAIHAR
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A convicted stock swindler says Elliott Roosevelt and a reputed big-time gambler offered him $100,000 to assassinate the Bahamian prime minister.

Roosevelt, son of former President Franklin D. Roosevelt and once mayor of Miami Beach, Fla., called the allegation "an utter and complete fabrication."

Louis P. Mastriana told the Senate permanent subcommittee on investigations Tuesday that the assassination contract was offered because Prime Minister Lynden O. Pindling allegedly failed to grant a gambling license to Michael McLaney. Mastriana identified McLaney as a one-time employee of U.S. gambling kingpin Meyer Lansky.

Mastriana served time in a federal penitentiary for illegal securities dealings in Florida and is serving an eight-year sentence for mail fraud in Texas.

Roosevelt, contacted at his Lisbon, Portugal ranch, said,

"It is an utter and complete fabrication and outright lie made by a man who is a known con-artist and has been convicted, who has been put in jail, who has been adjudged by the courts of New Jersey as a mental incompetent, and who conned me and my associates at one time out of $10,000 in Miami."

Invite the teacher to a game. There was no problem with credit if you could show that you were one of the honored 50,000 ticket holders. Obviously anyone who had the clout to see a professional football game at home was a good risk for any bank or department store.

Don't get the idea it was all peaches and cream, though. As a season ticket holder you were obligated to contribute heavily to charity, usually to a nun who stood at one of the main gates of the stadium. And you were expected to appear in all sorts of weather. As part of the elite class, you had been a example to the less fortunate people in the country who were afraid of going out in the rain and the snow.

Season ticket holders were noted for their chivalry, good deeds and compassion for their blacked-out fellow men.

But now, thanks to a cantankerous Congress, the ball game is over. With one stroke of the pen the President of the United States has wiped out the last vestige of status in this country. He has destroyed our finest privileged class and now made it possible for any Tom, Dick and Harry with a TV set to see football that heretofore was played only for those few of us who really understood the game.

Who says socialism hasn't come to America?

Mastriana said he had had himself adjudicated insane pur-

Two Die As Car Wrecks

GASTON, N.C. (AP)—Two youths from adjoining Brunswick County, Va., were killed Tuesday when the car in which they were riding hit a tree near Gaston in Northampton County, northeastern North Carolina.

State Highway Patrolman Bob Cooper said he had charged the driver with driving under the influence of alcohol and with two counts of manslaughter. He identified him as another young man from Brunswick County, 24-year-old George Davis of Ebony.

Sixteen-year-old Calvin Drumgoole of Gasburg and Calvin Orville Jackson, 20, of White Plains were killed.

Davis was thrown from the car and was treated at Halifax Memorial Hospital in Roanoke Rapids. The trooper said Davis had pulled out to pass, side-swipped another car, and hit a tree a mile north of Gaston on North Carolina Highway 48.

Warns Soviet Of Harassment

LONDON (AP) — Sir Alec Douglas-Home has warned the Soviet Union its harassment of dissident intellectuals is having a bad effect in Britain and other Western countries.

The British foreign secretary urged the Soviets on Tuesday to ease pressure on writers, scientists and others who are assailing the Russian system from within.

The official position was conveyed in a message to the Soviet ambassador.

posely "so I could do anything." Later, he said, "I was examined by government psychiatrists who found me to be of sound mind and legally competent."

Mastriana testified that McLaney, who was convicted in 1971 of a securities violation, gave $1 million to Pindling for a 1968 political campaign. In return, Mastriana said, McLaney was to receive a gambling license in the Bahamas.

"But he didn't deliver," Mastriana said of the Bahamian prime minister.

"They came to me and offered me $100,000 to kill, to whack (Pindling)," said Mastriana.

Mastriana identified "they" as Roosevelt and McLaney. Mastriana said he was paid $10,000 immediately. He said he got $2,500 in a check from McLaney to Roosevelt.

A committee staff member produced a photostatic copy of a check for that amount signed by McLaney and Roosevelt. The committee member said the check had been endorsed by Roosevelt over to Mastriana.

Mastriana said there was no assassination attempt made, because he said he feared he would be unable to escape from the island nation.

Mastriana said he had a concealed recording device on his body and had taped his conversations with Roosevelt. He said the equipment was furnished by the U.S. Postal Service, which he said he had worked for at that time "in an undercover capacity."

A U.S. Postal Service spokesman said there would be no comment on the allegation until a check of the files is completed.

Says Allende Eyed Coup

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — The head of Chile's largest political party claims President Salvador Allende was planning a coup of his own to establish a Marxist dictatorship when Chile's military commanders overthrew him Sept. 11.

Patricio Aylwin, president of the Christian Democratic party, said Tuesday that Allende's hopes of leading Chile "down the road to socialism" had failed and the president was plotting to stage a faked uprising which he would have crushed with his armed supporters and thus established absolute Marxist control.

"The best proof is the enormous amounts of arms that the illegal Marxist militia had," Aylwin said. "They formed a true, parallel army, with fire power equivalent to 12 regular regiments and the active presence of more than 12,000 foreign extremists."

Army patrols digging through the burned out presidential palace and the bombed presidential residence uncovered hundreds of weapons shipped in clandestinely from the Soviet Union and Czechoslovakia, according to the new ruling junta. They included antitank launchers and rockets, light machine guns, automatic rifles, pistols and grenades.

Also found in a safe in the presidential palace, according to the junta, were plans to assassinate the armed forces chieftains, opposition political leaders and journalists. Reports printed in the two newspapers permitted to publish by the junta said the generals were to be slain Monday night while preparing for the Armed Forces Day parade today and commando squads were then to go from house to house eliminating opposition leaders.

Many Applications For Overseas Study

East Carolina University has the largest number of students applying for studies in the 1973-74 international program of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities of any of the more than 20 participating institutions.

An AASCU report showed that as of early September 39 applications had been submitted by East Carolina University students for studies in Italy and Mexico. Substantial numbers of students have enrolled from Adams State College, Col.; Wright State University, Ohio; St. Mary's College, Md.; Glassboro State College, N.J.; Rhode Island College, Grand Valley State College, Mich.; Metropolitan State College, Colo.; the University of Northern Colorado; Plymouth State College, N.H. Also enrolled are students from Louisiana Tech University, Madison College, Va.; Morgan State College, Md.; Newark State College, N.J.; Southern Connecticut State College; Western State College of Colorado. Four land-grant universities and six other institutions also have students at the overseas study centers, the AASCU report said.

Pitt Students On Honors List

WILLIAMSTON — Four Pitt County students were placed on the honores list at Martin Technical Institute for the summer quarter.

They are: Donnie B. Foell of Rt. 8, Greenville; Terence Snowden, 223 York Rd., Greenville; David Jan Williams, Harvey Drive, Greenville; and Clark N. Bainbridge, Shady Knoll Trailer Park.

The Chinese are given credit for discovering the ice cream recipe that explorer Marco Polo brought back to Europe, according to the Dairy Council of California.

Pursued Bandit Into Virginia

EDENTON, N.C. (AP) — A gunman held up a bank in Edenton Tuesday and then was pursued into Virginia before officers lost the trail.

The robbery of the Northside Shopping Center Branch of the Bank of North Carolina was the state's 40th bank robbery of the year. The amount stolen was not disclosed.

Safety Is Key To Additives In Your Food

By WILLIAM STOCKTON
AP Science Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A renewed scientific storm is brewing over the safety of artificial sweeteners, certain to give pause to diet conscious Americans who like to have their sweets and eat them too.

There is new research indicating that cyclamate — banned four years ago as a cancer-causing agent in animals — was accused falsely.

Saccharin, shoved into the void cyclamate left, stands accused of causing cancer in laboratory animals. Already slightly restricted in use, it too now faces possible banishment from the nation's diet.

But however the future of the food additives is resolved in the next months, the decisions probably will bring protest from one or another of the special interest groups involved.

Artificial sweeteners are the mainstay of an estimated $1 billion annual food additive industry.

Some consumer advocates are convinced the sweeteners pose sufficient threat to society to warrant banishment, despite new research.

The questions about cyclamate and saccharin safety are similar to those raised in recent years about monosodium glutamate, a flavor enhancer, and nitrite, a meat preservative. They illustrate a nagging problem that continues to confront scientists and federal regulatory officials: how safe is safe enough?

Many of the safety tests for food additives are potentially inaccurate. All are difficult to reproduce exactly from laboratory to laboratory. Most are subject to different interpretations by experts.

Producing a response to a food additive in a test animal often requires a dose hundreds or even thousands of times greater than normal human consumption.

In a typical study, cyclamates made up 7.5 per cent of the entire diet given to rats. To consume that amount of cyclamate, a human would have to drink several hundred bottles of a soft drink each day.

Nevertheless ... "regulation of the safety of food and drugs must depend upon informed scientific judgement," said Peter Hutt, FDA's general counsel.

"The scientific uncertainty that exists at this moment in history simply requires that safety determinations be made more on the basis of subjective evaluation than objective standards," he added.

This so-called subjective evaluation of experimental data troubles scientists who have been schooled in the rigorous objectivity of the scientific method. It will trouble them more as they attempt to sort out the results from several major artificial sweetener studies both in the United States and Europe and Japan.

The Wisconsin Alumni Research Foundation last year found bladder and uterine cancer in rats receiving 5 per cent saccharin in their diets.

Last May, FDA reported that a saccharin and cyclamate study conducted for them by a private laboratory had found cancer in saccharin-fed animals but not in cyclamate-fed animals.

But a saccharin study sponsored by the National Cancer Institute found no saccharin-induced cancer in rats. NCI sources said preliminary data also indicated no cancer caused by cyclamates.

A massive study with rats at Germany's University of Heidelberg found no cancer linked with either sweetener.

Likewise, a hamster study at the University of Nebraska found no cancer attributable to cyclamate. Preliminary indications were that saccharin caused none.

Industry sources say other studies in Japan, Holland and Canada also have exonerated both chemicals.

Such data forms the basis for a new food additive petition that Abbott Laboratories of Chicago plans to file soon with the FDA seeking permission to resume marketing cyclamate. A panel of scientists convened by the National Academy of Sciences at the behest of FDA is pondering the saccharin evidence and is expected to report in the fall.

Sorting through the conflicting studies will be difficult.

The scientists must first determine if the animal tissues reported as cancerous really are cancerous. Pathologists often disagree about what they see through their microscopes.

A historic 1951 study of saccharin and cyclamate in rats concluded neither substance caused cancer. But when cyclamate was questioned 18 years later, FDA pathologists examined rats' organs which had been preserved and declared they could see cancers overlooked before.

Senile rats, such as those still living at the end of a two-year food additive feeding study, often develop cancer regardless of diet. Statisticians must determine if the frequency of cancer is greater in animals fed the substance in question.

Finally, the experts must determine what caused the animal cancers, once they agree cancers are present in unusually high numbers. Could it be impurities in the sweeteners? Or could the cause be small worms that live in rodent bladders, possibly predisposing the animals to cancer?

Frequently, scientists also disagree about the research techniques their colleagues use.

Dr. Virgil Wodicka, director of FDA's bureau of foods, admits he is alert to possible bias when studying an advisory report of a scientific study. The underlying problem is a shortage of experts in a given field, he said.

"It's painfully easy to count the number of people who know anything about a particular problem we might be concerned with," he said. It is inevitable that people who conduct controversial research and those who evaluate it may be members of a close-knit professional family.

Wodicka dismisses the possibility that political considerations have any bearing on decisions about food additive safety.

How N.C. Voted In Congress

By ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Sept. 5 through Sept. 12.

House
EXPORT CONTROLS—Passed, 220 for and 133 against, a bill to increase the President's control of the export of agricultural and lumber products.

Under present law, critical domestic shortages and domestic inflation must exist before exports can be controlled. The proposed law would permit action if the possibility of either shortages or inflation exists. The bill's intent is to give the President increased control over inflation by increasing his power to control exports.

Supporters argued that the proposed law would give the Administration the flexibility it needs to slow inflation caused by foreign demand for products such as wheat, of which an estimated one-third of the 1972 crop was sold abroad.

Opponents argued that exporting agricultural products helps America's balance-of-payments problems and that additional controls would penalize the American farmer. Some of them argued that foreign buyers will look elsewhere if America reneges on its trade agreements.

Reps. Wilmer Mizell (R-5), Richardson Preyer (D-6), James Martin (R-9) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "yea."
Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L. H. Fountain (D-2), David Henderson (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Charles Rose (D-7) and Earl Ruth (R-8) voted "nay."
Rep. James Broyhill (R-10) did not vote.

VETO SUSTAINED Failed, 273 for and 144 against, to override President Nixon's veto of the Emergency Medical Services bill. The override attempt fell five votes short of the 278-vote, two-thirds majority needed. This marked the fifth consecutive time this year that Congress has sustained a Presidential veto.

The bill would have provided $185 million over a three-year period for training ambulance drivers and hospital emergency room workers. The bill also contained a prohibition against President Nixon's planned closing of eight Public Health Service hospitals around the country.

Those voting for the bill called the measure necessary for improving the country's emergency medical facilities. They said also that the PHS hospitals provide care to persons who cannot afford to get it elsewhere.

Opponents called the bill inflationary. They said the PHS hospitals are out-dated and a drain on the federal budget.

After the veto was sustained a House Republicans introduced a substitute measure that contains the $185 million medical services program, but removes the PHS hospital section of the bill.

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Preyer, Rose and Taylor voted "yea." Mizell, Ruth, Martin and Broyhill voted "nay."

WINE—Passed, 248 for and 151 against, a bill to knock out state laws that permit higher taxes or licensing fees for distributing wines produced out-of-state. Several states have such laws to protect their own wine industries.

Supporters said these taxes discriminate against out-of-state wineries in violation of the Constitution, which calls for a free flow of interstate commerce.

Opponents argued that the 21st Amendment, which repealed Prohibition, gives the states absolute authority over the sale of alcoholic beverages within their boundaries.

The bill now goes to the Senate.

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Mizell, Ruth, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "nay."

Andrews and Rose did not vote.

ACCESS-TO-INFORMATION—Struck, 213 for and 185 against, a proposal giving Congress the power to force the State Department and related agencies, such as the U. S. Information Agency, to provide certain congressional committees with internal documents and communications relating to foreign policy. The rejected proposal would have given Congress the authority to impound agencies' operating budgets if the requested information was not provided within 35 days of a request. The proposal was contained in a conference report of a bill authorizing funds for the fiscal 1974 operation of the State Department. The vote struck the provisions from the bill and sent the bill back to conference with the Senate, which favors the access-to-information legislation.

Those voting for said the access would open classified and sensitive material to public scrutiny and would jeopardize the Administration's ability to conduct foreign policy.

Those voting against argued that access to foreign policy documents is essential for the performance of Congress' role in the conduct of foreign policy.

Mizell, Ruth, Martin and Broyhill voted "yea."

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Preyer, Rose and Taylor voted "nay."

Andrews did not vote.

Senate

RADIO FREE EUROPE Rejected, 29 for and 56 against, an amendment to cut federal funding of Radio Free Europe and Radio Liberty by 50 per cent in fiscal 1975, which begins July 1, 1974. At present these stations receive about 97 per cent of their money from the government.

Supporters of the fund cut argued that the stations are Cold War relics whose sometimes "provocative" programs hinder America's chance of detente with Communist countries. They called their news programs redundant because so many other stations — such as Armed Forces Radio, the BBC and the Vatican network — also broadcast to the Soviet Union and Eastern Europe.

Opponents argued that the radio stations broadcast a valuable American point of view and that a 50 per cent fund cut would put the stations out of business.

Sen. Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay." Sen. Sam Ervin (D) did not vote.

SOCIAL SECURITY Passed, 58 for and 31 against, a new timetable for implementing a 5.9 per cent cost-of-living increase in Social Security benefits. The action, which came as an amendment to a civil service retirement benefit bill, advances the effective date of a previously-passed Social Security increase from July 1, 1974 to the day the measure becomes law. The boost, which now faces House action, would benefit about 30 million persons.

Supporters argued that persons living on fixed Social Security incomes deserve more money during inflationary times. They said elderly couples presently receive a "meager $3,252" yearly Social Security payment — $190 below the Bureau of Labor Statistics minimum "survival budget."

Opponents claimed the increase will cost $2 billion in fiscal 1974 and will "break the budget." Some opponents said if the House passes the measure the President will likely veto the civil service bill because of this "inflationary" amendment.

Ervin voted "yea" and Helms voted "nay."

MASS TRANSIT Passed, 53

for and 33 against, a bill to underwrite operating expenses of local urban mass transit systems, both bus and rail. The bill authorizes $800 million to be doled out over the next two years on a formula of two federal dollars for one matching local dollar. The measure would also provide $20 million for experimenting with free fare bus service in yet-to-be-named cities.

Present law limits federal subsidies to the purchase of capital equipment, such as rolling stock.

Supporters claimed the subsidies are needed to stem continuing mass transit operating losses. They argued that mass transit is cleaner, faster, cheaper and uses less energy per passenger mile than individual automobile use.

Opponents argued against bailing out poorly managed transit systems. They argued that the federal government should support capital purchases rather than underwriting operating expenses, and claimed that the bill will lead to federal control of local transportation systems.

Helms voted "nay" and Ervin did not vote.

Jobs Galore On Highways

CHICAGO (AP) — If you watch cars go by you'll see job opportunities galore.

The jobs are in automotive technology and the people who fill them are service mechanics, parts managers and clerks, salesmen, service station operators and diesel technicians.

They amount to millions of persons who sell, service and maintain America's giant automotive industry.

Robert Tews, chairman of the Automotive Technology Program at Kennedy-King College here, says, "There are no limits to opportunities in the automotive industry."

"People continue to buy more cars," he explains, "and, spurred on by consumer groups, the government, personal experience and the auto industry itself, the public demands proper service and maintenance because of pollution and other factors."

The technicians and mid-management personnel who will service car owners are trained in theory classes and "hands-on" labs, which include a 12-car service bay and small engine, heavy equipment, body service and diesel laboratories.

Milhaud Work's Premiere Held

CARLISLE, Pa. (AP) — Dickinson College's 200th commencement weekend this year included the premiere of "Promesse de Dieu" by French composer Darius Milhaud.

Milhaud accepted the commission for the work in 1971 and completed it in January 1972, while living in Paris.

It is an a capella choral work in four movements. Its text, in Latin, is from the Biblical books of Isaiah and Ezekiel. Performance was by 40 students from the Dickinson College chapel choir and the Collegium Musicum.

Bloodmobile Meets Goal

Some 120 pints of blood were collected at the Red Cross Bloodmobile yesterday, meeting the day's quota of 116 and putting Pitt County over its two-day goal of 232. Some 237 pints were given during the two-day visit.

"We're just so happy to think the goals have been met for the past two visits," Red Cross Blood Chairman Billy Ross said. "We really believe our Pledge Bank is beginning to pay off already, although we're a long way from our goal of recruiting 5,000 potential donors."

Between 1,200 and 1,500 pledge cars have been turned in so far, he indicated, adding that he and other Blood Bank workers are available to talk to any group in the county about the Blood Program. "Anyone needing a speaker on the subject may contact me or call Mrs. Ruth Taylor at the Red Cross office," he said.

Ross thanked the Greenville Moose Lodge for the use of its facilities, and also for the members who greeted donors. Women of the Moose helped out with calling and of course, the Greenville Service League volunteered their services as always.

Three firms who had a large percentage of their employees as donors were Burrough-

Recalls Sleeping During Crisis

LONDON (AP) — Where was Prime Minister Harold MacMillan during the 1962 Cuban missile crisis when President John F. Kennedy delivered an ultimatum to the Soviet Union to withdraw its weapons?

Asleep in the cabinet room of No. 10 Downing Street.

MacMillan recalled in an interview today that Kennedy would phone him two or three times a day to consult and because of the time difference the calls often came through at 5 a.m. So he slept in.

MacMillan said Kennedy was under great pressure to seize Wellcome Corporation, Winterville Machine Works, and Brody's Department Store, he noted.

Twenty-five persons were rejected as donors yesterday and 27 were rejected Monday.

Horse, 2 Mules Killed

WINTERVILLE—Two mules and a saddle horse were killed near here Tuesday night when they were apparently struck by lightning on the H. A. Shivers farm.

Shivers, who lives approximately one mile west of here, said that he found the dead animals this morning out in a pasture.

All three animals, he noted, were found under a tree and burn marks were evident on the tree bark. "It looks like the lightning struck the tree and then ran through the tree down to where they were standing," Shivers related. "I knew what had happened just as soon as I saw them under the tree."

He said that the incident probably occurred between 8:30 and 9 p.m. during a severe lightning storm. No other animals were in the pasture.

Shivers noted that he and his wife were in their house not far from the pasture when the storm occurred but as far as he could determine this morning, there was no other damage on his property.

He estimated the value of the three-gaited saddle horse at $500 and $100 for each mule.

Gets One Year For Big Fraud

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack L. Clark, who was accused of pocketing $10 million while investors in the nursing home chain he headed lost $200 million, has been sentenced to a year in prison.

The 47-year-old Clark is the former president and chairman of Four Seasons Nursing Centers of America, a once glamorous stock issue on the American exchange.

He pleaded guilty on June 4 to charges of conspiracy to defraud investors in the Oklahoma City-based corporation.

Four Seasons built a chain of 26 nursing centers and three child care facilities in Texas, Illinois, Wisconsin, Kansas, Ohio, Arizona, Nevada and Louisiana.

Cuba immediately, "but that almost certainly would have caused the seizure of Berlin."

The Energy Crunch:

Energy Insurance means not putting all your eggs in one basket.

We know that your uses for electricity — and the number of customers we serve — will continue to grow, so we're already making plans for 10 years from now and are studying our customers' needs 20 years in the future.

One of our primary concerns in planning for the future is fuel. Because the same supplies of coal and oil that lie at the heart of today's "energy crunch" are also major fuel sources for the generation of today's electricity. And these fossil fuels aren't just becoming harder to get; they're becoming increasingly expensive, too.

So to continue to meet your growing demands for electricity economically and still have power to spare, in the future Vepco will be turning more and more to entirely new sources of energy — sources that will help us maintain a sensible "balance of power" for generations to come.

By 1976, half of our electricity will be produced by safe, clean nuclear power. That's a record the electric industry as a whole isn't expected to meet before 1990. And nuclear power is the lowest cost new method of producing electricity available to us today.

And in 1979, we'll be using water running downhill from a high mountain reservoir in Bath County to generate electricity during the day and pumping it back uphill with surplus power at night, when customer needs are low.

As a result of new power sources like these, we plan to meet all your demands for convenient electric living and still maintain generating reserves from 15% to 18%.

But, best of all, we'll be producing this future electricity from a reassuring balance of nuclear, fossil, and water power: a balance of power that's your energy insurance that Vepco is doing everything possible to avoid an electric energy shortage in our area.

Rams Try To Invade Favorite's Circle

Ayden-Grifton's Chargers have moved into the driver's seat in the Eastern Carolina Conference, but Greene Central's Rams, runners-up last year, are flexing their muscles, and may be ready to make a run at the favorite's role.

The Chargers whipped Southern Wayne, one of the teams they had to beat, 34-14, last weekend, while the Rams were rolling over last year's champs, Southern Nash, 31-0.

This week, Southern Wayne entertains Greene Central, and the rest of the league will be watching for the outcome of that as a key to what the rest of the year has to offer.

Ayden-Grifton, meanwhile has a home date with D.H. Conley, which came up with its first win of the year last week, downing winless C.B. Aycock, 18-9.

In other Eastern Carolina Conference action last week, Farmville Central whipped Eastern Wayne, 20-14, and North Lenoir downed North Pitt, 46-12.

This week in the conference, besides the Ayden-Grifton-Conley and Southern Wayne-Greene Central encounters, Aycock hosts North Lenoir, North Pitt is at Eastern Wayne, and Farmville Central is at Southern Nash.

In the Northeastern Conference, Williamston and Roanoke Rapids continued to show their strength last week, rolling to victories. The Tigers pounced on Robersonville, 22-0, while Roanoke Rapids beat Oxford, 16-7. Elsewhere Ahoskie beat Gates County, 37-6; Bertie lost to Northeastern by 19-13; Edenton downed Perquimans, 25-12. Tarboro lost to Durham Jordan, 28-12, and Washington surprised Northern Nash, 26-25. Plymouth was idle.

This week, Ahoskie is at Northeastern, Bertie at Havelock, Edenton hosts Gates, Plymouth entertains Robersonville, Roanoke Rapids hosts Perquimans, Tarboro is at Northern Nash, Washington is at home to New Bern, and Williamston goes to Murfreesboro.

In the 2-A Eastern Plains, Elm City fell to Belhaven, 18-14; Lee Goodward dropped a 30-4 decision to Coats, North Johnson bowed to Smithfield-Selma, 13-0; Rock Ridge fell to Bunn, 16-21; Saratoga was ripped by North Duplin, 52-0; South Edgecombe lost to Rosewood, 47-14; while Robersonville fell to Williamston, as stated above. Only West Edgecombe in the league won, beating Fastman, 48-0.

This week, Elm City is at Chocowinity, Lee Woodard at Rock Ridge, Robersonville at Plymouth, Saratoga at Rosewood, South Edgecombe at Zebulon, and West Edgecombe at Coates. North Johnston is open.

Finally, in the Coastal 3-A,

East Cartaret beat White Oak, Havelock won its third straight downing Camp Lejeune, 28-0; Jones tied Pamlico, 6-6; West Cartaret beat Jacksonville, 10-6; and West Craven fell to Swansboro, 12-8.

Friday, East Cartaret is at Whiteville, Bertie is at Havelock, Jones goes to West Cartaret, and West Craven goes to Pamlico.

Perhaps the toughest job in the Eastern Carolina loop this week belongs to the Vikings of D. H. Conley, next in line for the Chargers of Ayden-Grifton.

Although Conley won last week, Coach Chuck Dunn wasn't real happy with the game. "We didn't play any better than we did against Southern Wayne. The difference in the game was that we had Willie Hawkins." The big back ran for 197 yards in the game.

Calvin Hawkins, another member of the Conley running attack is still suffering from a pre-season injury, and will miss this game too.

"We had 226 yards in penalties last week, and that speaks for itself," Dunn said of the Bycock game. "We certainly have to do better."

Dunn singled out Hawkins for his offensive effort, and cited Lionel Streeter and Stencil Hines on defense. "We really didn't have a lot of bright spots."

Against the Chargers, the Vikings will have to play a different game to stay on the field. "We expect them to be real tough. They run well and they throw well," Dunn said. "They have a big, rough experienced defense. I said they were the team to beat in this conference at the start of the year, and nothing has happened to change my mind. We'll have to play a perfect ball game to beat them." Ayden-Grifton's Mike Overton

Prepare For SIU

Coach Sonny Randle began to put the East Carolina Pirates through more intensive drills as the Bucs went into in-depth preparation for Saturday night's game with Southern Illinois University.

The Bucs are putting in some new wrinkles they feel may be effective against the Salukis. The team also broke down into various specialty units to work with special emphasis put on the pass defense.

"Southern Illinois has changed in every respect from the team I was last year," Randle said. "That includes attitude and their desire to play football. They scored 28 points on a very strong team last week, and, like Southern Mississippi, they are big and fairly fast."

All of the Bucs came out of that game healthy, and participated in the 2½-hour workout yesterday, which included more of the one-on-one "Purple Pride" drill which helped to turn the Pirates after prior to the Southern Mississippi game.

The contest with Southern Illinois, on the Salukis' field, will get underway Saturday at 8:30 p.m. EDT.

North Pitt's Clarence Mooring

Slates Given

Cards Hope To Fall Into 1st

By FRED ROTHENBERG
Associated Press Sports Writer
Leaners used to only count in horsehoes but now St. Louis Cardinal Manager Red Schoendienst is counting on a leaner in his sport.

"If we can keep on winning and if we're leaning the right way, maybe we can fall into first place," said Schoendienst after the Cardinals beat the Expos 7-4.

The victory, coupled with the Pirates' 6-5 loss to the Mets, pulled St. Louis to within 1 1/2 games of Pittsburgh's front-running pace in the National League East.

Elsewhere in the National League, Philadelphia and Chicago split a pair, the Phils taking the first 5-2 and the Cubs the second 3-2; Cincinnati blanked Houston 1-0; San Diego dropped Atlanta 9-4 and Los Angeles downed San Francisco 3-1.

Match To Be Fun

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ
Associated Press Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — The $100,000 winner-take-all tennis showdown between Billie Jean King and Bobby Riggs in the Astro-dome will be like no other tennis extravaganza ever held. Promoter Jerry Perenchio has seen to that.

"It's certainly going to be more fun than Watergate," Perenchio said of the internationally televised battle of the sexes that has been tagged "The Match of the Century."

To be sure, the match has captured the fancy of the nation and will have a wider audience than the Watergate hearings. It'll be beamed into 40 countries and be shown nationally by ABC.

The scene surrounding court-side for Thursday night's match on the floor of the Astrodome will look more like a college football rivalry than a tennis match.

"We're going to have a cheering section for both of them," Perenchio said. "Bobby will have 'Bobby's Boosters' and Billie Jean will have about 100 women players on her side. We're going to try to have some fun with this thing."

Five-time Wimbledon champion Billie Jean has played all over the world. Riggs, who won the 1939 Wimbledon title, has played in some pretty bizzare matches.

But it's unlikely either has ever played to the accompaniment of an entire marching band.

Adding to the noisy throng, expected to reach 40,000, will be the University of Houston marching band.

"When something like this catches on, it just runs its own course," Perenchio said. "It's helped take the people's mind off Watergate and inflation. They needed something to laugh about."

Both Riggs and Mrs. King apparently will be laughing all the way to the bank regardless of who wins.

Although billed as a winner-take-all match, the loser may net as much as $100,000, Perenchio said.

Perenchio is a partner with Riggs in all of his side promotions such as tennis endorsements and commercials.

Maryland Picked To Upset North Carolina

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Do you know the only college football team in the country to face USC two weeks in a row?

The answer is Georgia Tech, which entertains the No. 1-ranked University of Southern California Trojans on Saturday. Last weekend, favored Tech got caught looking ahead to USC and lost...to USC...41-28. That USC, however, was the University of South Carolina.

The upcoming USC, coming off a 17-0 struggle against Arkansas, isn't likely to be that kind to the Yellow Jackets despite the following ungrammatical words of caution from Coach John McKay:

"If we don't play better this week, even though Georgia Tech got beat, they've got better players than Arkansas. We have to play at Atlanta in the afternoon and we're in over our heads unless we play quite a bit better than we did."

The prediction: Southern Cal 42, Georgia Tech 14.

Last week's count was 41 right—including the Michigan-Iowa (31-7) and Arizona-Wyoming (21-7) scores on the nose—13 wrong and two ties for a percentage of .759. For the season, it's 56-21-2—.727.

Nebraska 45, North Carolina State 17: Nebraska beat UCLA 40-13. N.C. State is smaller and quicker than the Bruins. Nebraska beats all kinds.

Alabama 38, Kentucky 13: The series stands 25-1-1 for Alabama. Kentucky opened its new field last weekend by beating Virginia Tech but the Wildcats are about to become a 1-1 team in Commonwealth Stadium.

Michigan 28, Stanford 10: Wolverines get even for that 1972 Rose Bowl defeat.

Texas 30, Miami, Fla. 6: And Miami still has to play Oklahoma, Houston, Alabama, Florida, Notre Dame, etc., etc.

Penn State 35, Navy 13: Joe Paterno takes it easy on Navy's George Welsh, a former Penn State aide.

Notre Dame 42, Northwestern 7: Notre Dame gets its Irish up.

Tennessee 31, Army 7: Tennessee's Bill Battle, a former Army assistant coach, has fond memories of West Point. The feeling may not be mutual for long.

Louisiana State 28, Texas A&M 7: Bayou Bengals have been known to stumble against the Aggies...and that's no Aggie joke.

Arizona State 49, Washington State 20: Sun Devils become moon devils in the Arizona night.

Houston 38, South Carolina

14: South Carolina's Paul Dietzel has gone to the Veer...but Houston's Bill Yeoman invented it.

Oklahoma State 30, Arkansas 20: Razorbacks gave it their all against Southern Cal and may not have too much left.

UCLA 35, Iowa 7: Bruins have had two weeks to dwell on their loss to Nebraska. Iowa is between Michigan and Penn State.

Colorado 38, Wisconsin 10: Nebraska is next for Wisconsin. Gone Wisconsin.

Pitt 20, Baylor 17: Panthers stunned Georgia with a 7-7 tie and may be better than anyone thought.

Tulane 21, Boston College 14: One of the better games of the week.

Upset Special of the Week—Maryland 24, North Carolina 22. Tar Heels' record 15-game Atlantic Coast Conference winning streak comes to an end.

Fritts Back As A Starter

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The 14th-ranked North Carolina State football team, which will need all the help it can get when it plays at No. 2 Nebraska Saturday, will have All-Atlantic Coast Conference full-back Stan Fritts back in the starting lineup.

He broke his hand in pre-season practice and has been running behind another junior, Roland Hooks in the first two games. He has carried 20 times for 104 yards.

Coach Lou Holtz also said Tuesday that defensive tackles John Goeller and Doug Carter, who had been hampered by minor ailments, will be available for the game at Lincoln, Neb.

At Virginia, backfield coach Casto Ramsey said, "We used several sets of backs against North Carolina State last weekend, and the new sets worked out well. We'll be working with some more this week, and we may use some different ones."

We could use as many as six running backs during the game with Missouri."

The Cavaliers will meet 20th-ranked Missouri at Columbia, Mo.

North Carolina Coach Bill Dooley said, "Maryland's front four may be the best we will see all year. We'll find out this week just how good our offensive line really is."

Dooley said the key defensive men for the Maryland Terps are middle guard Paul Vellano, tackle Randy White and back Bob Smith.

North Carolina will have the advantage of playing at home.

Wake Forest Coach Chuck Mills said much of this week's practice will be aimed at the defensive sets of William and Mary, which will be met at home Saturday night.

He said flanker Rich McGuire was having knee problems and may miss the game.

Hunter Reaches 20th For 3rd Year In Row

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer
Chief Bender...and Lefty Grove...great names out of baseball's hallowed past.

Their legends now are being revived...because of Jim Hunter's steadily brilliant pitching. The Oakland A's ace right-hander, American League leader in winning percentage last year with a .750 mark on a 21-7 record, is bidding strongly to lead the league again. His current 20-4 record, an .833 percentage, is the best in the AL.

No AL pitcher has finished with the best winning percentage two years in a row since Grove did it three consecutive years, from 1929-31. The only other American League hurler to accomplish the feat was Bender, in 1910-1911.

Ironically, both Grove and Bender pitched for the A's...when the team was in Philadelphia.

Hunter reached the 20-victory mark for the third straight season Tuesday night as the A's edged the California Angels 5-4 and maintained their 7 1/2-game lead over Kansas City in the AL West race.

In other AL games Tuesday night, Baltimore downed Detroit 6-2, Kansas City defeated Minnesota 4-3, Boston topped New York 4-2, Cleveland overcame Milwaukee 6-5, and Texas beat Chicago 7-2.

Orioles 6, Tigers 2
The Orioles moved closer toward clinching their fourth East title in the past five years—they finished third last year—beating the Tigers 6-2, and reducing their "magic number" to five over runner-up Boston.

Royals 4, Twins 3
Kurt Bevacqua drove in two runs with a triple and a sacrifice fly, and scored another, pacing Kansas City's 4-3 decision over Minnesota. Amos Otis smashed his 26th homer of the season for the Royals, giving him 278 total bases for the year, a club record.

Red Sox 4, Yankees 2
Bill Lee hurled a seven-hitter against the Yankees for his 17th triumph, and became Boston's biggest left-handed winner since Mel Parnell won 21 games in 1963. Homers by Reggie Smith, his 19th, and Cecil Cooper, his second, backed Lee's pitching in the Red Sox' 4-2 victory.

Indians 6, Brewers 5
Pinch hitter Johnny Ellis, the first batter to face reliever Chris Short in the bottom of the ninth, slammed a two-run homer, lifting Cleveland to a 6-5 victory over Milwaukee and thwarting Jim Colborn's bid to become the first 20-game winner in the Brewers' brief history.

Rangers 7, White Sox 2
Jim Spencer's two-run homer and Jeff Burroughs' 27th homer of the season supported rookie Jim Bibby's five-hit pitching and helped Texas beat Chicago 7-2.

In the National League, it was: Cincinnati 1, Houston 0; St. Louis 7, Montreal 4; New York 6, Pittsburgh 5; San Diego 9, Atlanta 4; Los Angeles 3, San Francisco 1, and Philadelphia 5, Chicago 2, then Chicago 3, Philadelphia 2.

1974 Chevrolet

A better-than-ever way.

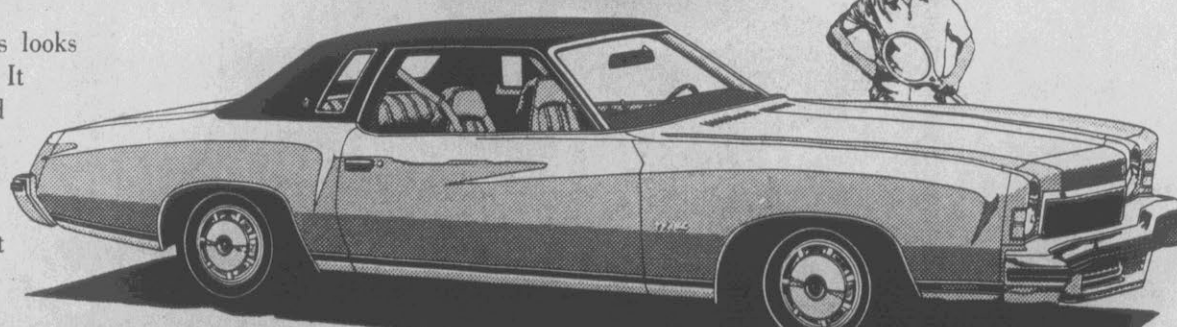

When the wheel belongs to you, the road goes anywhere you say. And it's so much better with a '74 Chevrolet.

Caprice Classic. Introducing an elegant motor car, just asking to be enjoyed. Outside: an imposing new grille and, on the Coupe, a distinctive new roof line. Inside: peace, quiet and convenience. With standard power steering to do most of the turning, standard power front disc brakes to do most of the stopping, and a standard Turbo Hydra-matic transmission to do the shifting. If you want the luxury and comfort of a car that leaves little else for you to do but enjoy the ride, you don't have to look beyond the '74 Caprice Classic. However, the freedom of the open road begins with the freedom of choice:

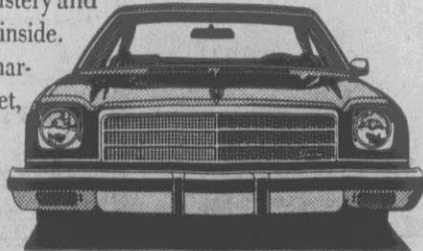

Monte Carlo. You'd think its looks were everything, until you drive it. It has steel-belted radial tires and a refined radial-tuned suspension. Power steering and power front disc brakes. We think you'll appreciate how well it handles, how smoothly it rides. For it's as elegant mechanically as it is in appearance.

Vega GT. This year's version of last year's Motor Trend Economy Car of the Year. (And Car and Driver Readers' Choice as Best Economy Sedan for the last three years.) With a reshaped nose, bigger bumpers, nicer carpeting, new stripes and new colors. Plus more good things to make it better. See what it's like to drive a winner.

Camaro. The way it looks is the way it goes. Quick, sleek and nimble. With a low, wide stance, responsive steering. And comfort that's rare in a car that handles so well. Plus classic new styling, and plushness from the cut-pile carpeting up.

Malibu Classic. A luxury Chevelle, new this year. With full foam seats. A fold-down front armrest. Wood-grained vinyl accents. Elegant inner door panels. Extremely tasteful upholstery and cut-pile nylon carpeting. That's just inside. The exterior is just as classic, in character and in detail, as the interior. Yet, it remains mid-size. And, it remains all Chevelle. With Chevelle handling and at a Chevelle price. Now that you've looked, come and see the new Malibu Classic—and all the 1974 Chevrolets. The ones shown here, plus Impala, Nova, Corvette, pickups, vans and all our new cars and trucks.

Rams Seek Role...

was quite pleased with his team's win over Southern Wayne. "It was a fine team effort," he said. "We got a lot of individual effort, too, but I'd hate to single out any one. Everyone did their job."

Overton added that the offensive line had the best blocking he's seen since coming to Ayden-Grifton.

He emphasized, however, that his team couldn't afford to look ahead to Greene Central. "In this league, with 10 teams, anyone can beat you if you're not ready to play. We're going to have to play them one at a time."

Conley, he noted, will be hard to handle with the running of Hawkins. "They going to be fired up for us, especially coming off a victory."

Farmville Central got its first win of the year, beating Eastern Wayne, but Coach Gene Brewer didn't feel like the team performed much better than it did against Rose a week earlier.

"The only thing we did better was play a little better defense," he said. "The offense was no better, if as good."

He pointed out that the Jaguars are making one or two little mistakes on nearly every play and that this is hurting the offensive effort. "We just don't have enough experience and this is hurting us," he said.

He did single out defensive end Wardell Blow for his game. "He played an outstanding game," Brewer said. Jeff Wilkes and Lee Johnson, both linebackers, also drew praise.

This week, against Southern Nash, Brewer isn't sure what to expect. "They didn't have a real good game against Vaiden-Whitley, although they won, and Greene Central just overpowered them. We really don't know what to expect. They were primarily a running club in the first game, and they have two backs they like to give to fairly equally."

North Pitt's Danny Wilmer was disgusted as his team's performance against North Lenoir. "We lost the ball 12 times, 10 times on fumbles and twice on interceptions. This is just unheard of. Nobody fumbles that much, but we did. I'm really upset."

Wilmer feels, however, that the Panthers are not that bad a football team. "Our spirit has lost a lot in these first two games. I didn't know that's going to happen from here on out."

Despite four fumbles, Clarence Mooring still looked good running the ball, and Jim Glisson drew defensive laurels.

This week's opponent is Eastern Wayne, and Wilmer feels that it will take an effort to beat them. "They are big and tough and they throw well and run well. We've got out work cut out for us, that's for sure."

Raleigh Graham Crusade Expects Large Turnout

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Advance requests indicate that about 20,000 members of church groups throughout North Carolina are expected for the opening of the Billy Graham Crusade Sunday night.
Seby Jones, local finance committee chairman for the crusade, said the church groups will travel in some 200 buses.
"We are anticipating an average of at least 30,000 persons for the eight nights," Jones said in an interview. He believes it will be one of the greatest events ever held in Raleigh.

North Carolina State University's Carter Stadium, site of the crusade, has a seating capacity of 41,000. A record crowd of 45,500 turned out for the football season opener between East Carolina and N.C. State Sept. 8. However, extra bleachers had been installed and many persons sat on the bank at the south end of the field.
No seating will be permitted on the playing field of Carter Stadium during the crusade, a university spokesman said.
The idea for the Raleigh crusade was proposed early last year, Jones said, and a commitment from Graham was received last fall.

The planning has been going on for months and called for a local fund-raising goal of $326,000. Jones said contributions are still needed to reach the goal.
The money was needed, he said, to defray the costs of advertising, printing, the rent on the stadium, lights, personnel to supervise the parking, guards, and the big job of cleaning up the stadium after each night's program.
"If any money is left over," Jones explained, "it will go into the Graham national headquarters fund for TV purposes."
He added, "This local budget seems to be large in the eyes of some people, but it is a tight budget. We went over it item by item with members of the Graham staff who are veterans at these things."
"We had hoped to televise this crusade for later TV showing," Jones said, "but we could not get the proper lighting."
He noted that the planning and fund-raising has been done almost entirely by local citizens.

Indians Occupy Robeson Office

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP)—Indians seeking either all-Indian schools or more Indian studies in the public school curriculum occupied the office of Robeson County school superintendent Young Allen Tuesday.
Police arrested 27 of them and took 25 youths into custody. All were members Eastern Carolina Tuscarora Indian organization.
Allen refused to meet with the Indians after they crowded into his office. He said he had met previously with their representatives concerning their demands and had concluded that "any effort to discuss problems with more than three of these citizens at one time would produce only negative results."

Tuscarora spokesman Kever Locklear said the Indians wanted authorization for all-Indian schools or for more Indian-oriented courses.
Robeson County has a population roughly one-third black, one-third white, and one-third Indian. Since the early 1960s, its formerly three-part school system has been integrated.
The Indian community itself is split into various political factions including those who consider themselves Lumbees and at least two more militant groups asking for tribal recognition as Tuscaroras.

Revival Begins Thursday Night

Revival services will be held at the Marantha Free Will Baptist Church, located at 1407 E. 14th St., beginning Thursday and continuing through Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

The evangelist will be the Rev. Gordon Hart, pastor of the Grifton Free Will Baptist Church.

The church will be observing homecoming Sunday, Sept. 23.

There will be special singing during the revival and a nursery will be provided.

The Rev. Alvis E. Harris is pastor of the church.

Allen tried to have State Rep. Henry Ward Oxendine, a Lumbee Indian, negotiate with the demonstrators. Allen wanted Oxendine to get the group to designate three people to confer with him.
He said Oxendine's attempts were rejected.
Sheriff's deputies arrested the demonstrators when they refused to leave the building. The adults were charged with disorderly conduct and most were placed under bonds of $500 each. Locklear and two other leaders were placed under $1,500 bond each. The youths were released in custody of their parents.

Sues Policemen For $200,000

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A Lincolnton man is suing 11 Charlotte policemen for $200,000, claiming he was beaten up after a high-speed chase on Interstate 85.
The complaint filed by Richard Grady Binson, 34, in U.S. District Court says he was viciously beaten and kicked after he was pulled from his car on Oct. 9, 1972.
Four police cars were damaged in the chase.

History Not Losing By Retirement

By DR. H. G. JONES
Director of
Archives and History
Written For The AP
RALEIGH (AP) — The recent announcement that William S. Powell had been appointed to succeed Hugh T. Lefler in teaching North Carolina history at the University of North Carolina was good news to Tar Heel historians. It allayed fears that the retirement of Lefler, sometimes called "Mr. North Carolina History," might result in a lessening of emphasis on state history.

The boyish-looking Bill Powell has packed a lot of history into his 54 years, and perhaps no one is more familiar with the sources of North Carolina history.

Ever since he ended a brief career as a newspaperman in 1946, Powell has been mining these sources, first as researcher for the Department of Archives and History, then as a member of the staff, and eventually as the curator of the North Carolina Collection at UNC-Chapel Hill.

From his research have come a stream of published articles and books that make him probably the most prolific professional historian in the state.

In addition to frequent articles in professional and popular journals, his books have included "The Carolina Charter of 1663," "Ye Countie of Albemarle," "North Carolina Fiction, 1734-1957," "Clement Hall," and "North Carolina Lives."

His "North Carolina Gazetteer," published in 1968 won the award of merit from the American Association for State and Local History. A new book, "Colonial North Carolina," will be published later this year. It will be co-authored by Powell and Lefler. Among projects in progress are a documentary edition of the papers of Governor William Tryon and a history of Caswell County.

In 1972, Powell was recipient of the Christopher Crittenden Memorial Award for outstanding service in the promotion of the history of North Carolina. He had just completed his presidency of the organization giving the award—the North Carolina Literary and Historical Association.

In addition to his books and his full-time jobs, Powell served for ten years as editor of "History News," a publication of the American Association for State and Local History; two years as editor of "North Carolina Libraries"; on the board of governors of the University of North Carolina Press; as a member of the Highway Historical Marker Committee and the Advisory Editorial Board of the Division of Archives and History; and on a variety of other boards and committees. He also has been president of the North Carolina Society of County and Local Historians and the Historical Society of North Carolina.

A native of Johnston County, Powell received his B. A., M.A., and M.S. in Library Science from UNC-Chapel Hill.

Well-Suited To Textiles

LUBBOCK, Tex. (AP) — The establishment of a cotton textile plant in the Texas High Plains area is feasible and the prospects for it to be a profitable enterprise are good, according to a joint study made by the U.S. Department of Agriculture and two national consulting organizations.

The study was undertaken at the request of the Texas Industrial Commission, the Natural Fibers and Food Protein Committee of Texas, many local residents and interests, including the Textile Research Center; and Roy B. Davis, widely known leader in the High Plains cotton industry, who has been associated with the research center in recent months.

The report indicated more than sufficient markets for cotton denim blends, cotton denims, cotton twill blends and cotton twills to support a $15 million plant employing some 400 persons.

The Texas Water Development Board has assured that sufficient water exists in the Lubbock area for such a plant. Success of the plant would require experienced management and competitively priced water, electricity, fuels and supporting services. The survey indicated all are available.

Blond Wigs In Ancient Rome

NEW YORK (AP) — Apparently, ancient Romans thought blonds had more fun. Blond wigs imported from Germany or made from the hair of German captives were common, says the World Book Encyclopedia.
Roman women also dyed their hair as part of their routine, and some went so far as to sprinkle their locks with gold dust in their efforts to disarm a Centurion or two.
Women are still sprinkling "gold dust" in their hair, World Book notes. Today, an estimated $3.5 billion a year is spent in more than 180,000 beauty shops in the United States alone.

The common tern, which eats only live food and scorns garbage and flotsam from fishing boats, may fly over the sea as long as 12 hours and cover 200 miles searching for food.

War Widow Is Building A Life In Wilderness

By PATRICK CONNOLLY
Associated Press Writer
ONAWAY, Mich. (AP) — Joyce Nolde, the widow of America's last combat fatality before the Jan. 28 Vietnamese cease-fire, is building a new life in the northern Michigan wilderness.

Lt. Col. William Nolde, 43, was killed when a Viet Cong rocket smashed into his bunker at An Loc 11 hours before the cease-fire began.

"I moved away because I felt I needed to start a new life," Mrs. Nolde said in an interview this week. "We were a close family and had a wonderful life with Bill, but you can't stop or go back."

Mrs. Nolde, 43, said she receives a modest income from her husband's pension and the Veterans Administration. Insurance paid off debts.

She left a ranch-style home in Mount Pleasant last summer to move into a two-story, "comfortable but inconvenient" cottage on Black Lake in the northern Lower Peninsula.

Chilly squalls from the lake veer through the birch, maple and oak forests that wall the cottage off from Onaway, the nearest town, 10 miles away.

She put down the tools she was using to hammer pine siding on the cottage, brushed her hands on her white slacks and said:

"It's our family's philosophy that you don't get ahead if you don't get with it."

Sons Byron, 14, and Bart, 13, live with their mother. A 16-year-old daughter, Kimberle, was married Aug. 25. Another son, 17-year-old Brent, is in high school in Mount Pleasant, and the oldest son, Blair, 20, owns a 40-acre farm near Mount Pleasant.

"I felt the move would give us the closeness and self-confidence the younger boys need in the next few years without a father around," said Mrs. Nolde.

Both Mrs. Nolde and her husband sensed when the other was sick or troubled — even when separated by thousands of miles when he was alive, she said.

"I knew he was dead," Mrs. Nolde said last winter shortly after military authorities officially notified her. She said she had dreamed the night before "that a rocket came in and hit him and he said, 'Don't worry, honey, I'll be okay.' The blast woke me up."

She recalled this week that recently, while she was in bed at the cottage, there was a noise downstairs.

"I went down, and Bill was standing in the doorway," she related. "He said, 'I want you to know I approve of everything you are doing.' When I asked what he was doing here, he said, 'Never mind. I went to touch him. He said, 'No, trust me,' and walked out."

Another evening not long ago,

No Retreat On Detroit's Label

DETROIT (AP) — "Detroit 9000" moviemakers have told mayor Roman Gribbs they won't alter advertising copy for the picture.

Movie ads refer to Detroit as "the murder capital of the world ... where honkies are the minority race."

Gribbs demanded last week that the advertisements be changed, calling them "scurrilous."

"Change your city and we'll change our copy," General Film Corp. executives replied Tuesday. "As long as Detroit continues to have over 800 homicides a year, we will continue to quote Time magazine's line calling it the murder capital of the world."

after a bath, Mrs. Nolde was wearing a robe her husband had given her when "a heavy hand pulled my shoulder from behind," she said.

"I thought somebody had gotten into the cottage. I shuddered and said, 'Whoever it is please, please go away.' When I turned around, nobody was there."

"You can say it's a dream or a trick of the mind, but I know what happened, and I'm as stable as anyone I know," she added.

Raised $8,000 For Greene's Rescue Squad

SNOW HILL—The Greene County Rescue Squad raised over $8,000 Saturday, September 15, on a Radio-Thon conducted by Radio Station WFAG in Farmville.

This 13-hour event was the largest fund raising campaign ever held by the Greene County Rescue Squad Units.

Durwood Murphy thanked all business firms and citizens of Pitt, Greene and surrounding counties for their contributions to the WFAG Radio-Thon. Also, special thanks was expressed to WFAG Radio for providing the airtime and station personnel free of charge to the Greene County Rescue Squad.

All money raised from the Radio-Thon will be applied for Rescue Unit to Hospital Communications. These special type radios will enable the Squad members to give advance notice of patients' condition before arriving at the hospital.

TV Log One Of Sextuplets Is Dead Of Lung Disease

DENVER (AP) — One of the Stanek sextuplets has died from a lung disease common in prematurely born babies. A doctor says three of the other infants show signs of the same ailment.

Julia Stanek lived about 44 hours before severe hyaline membrane disease caused her death Tuesday night.

Doctors at Colorado General Hospital had given her two blood transfusions Tuesday afternoon and a respirator was used to aid her breathing.

Dr. Darrell Miller reported the condition of two of the sextuplets had declined, with both showing signs of the hyaline disease. They are Catherine, Julia's only sister, and an unnamed brother. Another boy, Steven, was reported in fair condition with indications of the ailment.

Miller said that two of the boys, Jeffrey and John, were in good condition.

The babies were about six weeks premature.

Miller said he talked to the mother, Mrs. Eugene J. Stanek, 34, and reported "she was moved by Julia's death, but seemed stoic and very accepting."

Mrs. Stanek was reported in good condition today. She was allowed to stand Tuesday for the first time since the babies were born Sunday night.

The father, 31, was at the hospital at the time of Julia's death but left a short time later.

Miller said of Julia's death, "The blood oxygen level had steadily decreased. Her blood wouldn't clot due to the low oxygen content. One transfusion was performed and it seemed to help. But the problem redeveloped shortly after the second transfusion."

Hyaline membrane disease was described by Ted Wrenn, a spokesman for the hospital, as a film formed on the inside of the lung when air and blood come in contact. The film prevents the escape of carbon dioxide, the gas exhaled after oxygen is extracted from the air.

The lost and found columns in Brazilian newspapers are listed under "founds and losts".

The municipal election will be held Nov. 6 from 6:30 a.m. until 7:30 p.m. in the Rescue Squad Building.

The filing period for candidates will end Oct. 12 at noon and the filing fee is $10.

The 'Worry Clinic' 'Empathy' Will Clear The Air

George and Philip found that their warlike mood dissipated rapidly when they indulged in "empathy." Alas, in time of war, our standard psychological strategy is to dehumanize the foe and depict them as alien "monsters," "Ape Men" and "Huns."

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

CASE Y-520: George and Philip were our oldest sons. When they were 11 and 10 years of age, we were at our farm home in Indiana one school weekend in the autumn.

They had BB guns and decided they were going out to shoot some wild ducks.

So they asked their mother to pack them a lunch, after which they trudged off to Coal Creek, a mile away.

When they stealthily approached a wide spot in the creek, they saw a dozen ducks swimming around.

But the moving targets were difficult to shoot with air rifles so they missed.

And all the ducks flew away, except for one lone sentinel.

As they rushed nearer, thinking they would be able to shoot this final duck, they saw that it was a cripple.

For one of its wings was injured till the duck couldn't fly.

Immediately their warlike mood was changed into a sympathetic spirit.

So they crumbled bread from their sandwiches and tossed it into the pool.

The duck began to gobble up this food and swam within 10 feet of them where they stood on the shore.

"We tried to catch the duck," they later told Mrs. Crane and me, "for it looked as if its left wing was broken."

"And we thought if we could bring it home, you might be able to bandage it."

But they couldn't entice the duck to come close enough for them to reach it.

Please notice the remarkable change from their warlike mood into that of sympathy.

What caused this quick alternation of attitude?

Empathy!

For when the flock of ducks were regarded as an undifferentiated target for their BB guns, they looked upon them as an enemy.

But when they rushed up to that lone remaining duck and saw it was injured, that duck became individualized as a distinctive personality, with whom they could sympathize.

In fact, they soon began to feed it and put themselves into its position, which is what we mean by empathy.

No longer were they interested in shooting it, but they'd have defended it against any other hunters who might then have sought to kill it.

The reverse of this "empathy" process is graphically illustrated in time of war.

Which is why our standard psychological strategy consisted of dehumanizing the enemy.

Thus, the Japanese foe were called "Ape Men" and pictured with teeth as large as those in a horse's mouth.

The Germans were called "Huns."

All of which was part of the technique of depicting the enemy as non-human "monsters" who could then be shot with less revulsion by our American boys.

Except in the case of hopped up drug addicts and psychotics, it is difficult to incite people to engage in routine killing of their own species.

"Don't introduce me to that man," aptly stated Charles Lamb, "for I want to go on hating him, and I can't hate a man I know!"

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Disregarded Objections

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) — The Portland Planning Commission has approved in concept the proposed $90 million Pacific Rim Center to be located near the Marquam Bridge which spans the Willamette River.

The decision disregarded a negative recommendation from the Citizens Advisory Committee of the Portland Downtown Plan. The committee said a proposed 19-story, 400-room hotel in the center was too tall.

The committee also was concerned about inadequate public access to the site's public spaces.

Edward G. Westerdahl III, executive director of the Port of Portland, called the development an "incredibly positive renewal effort on the Willamette River."

Phase I of the project, scheduled for completion in 1974, would include the hotel, conference center and offices, some retail space and a park.

When completed in 1982 the center would have 13 buildings varying in height from 2 to 19 stories.

HANDY HANGERS

CUPERTINO, Calif. (UPI) — The California Fabricare Institute says storing garments in heavy formed hangers will help clothes retain their shape. If a formed hanger is not available, two or more wire hangers can be bound together to give proper shape and support.

To play good bridge it is not necessary to employ a complicated system. However it is vital that you and your partner have a thorough understanding of the conventions you do use. If you don't, you may not be as lucky as the two internationalists who held the North and South cards in today's hand, played in a pair tournament in Israel.

North-South were using two clubs as their only forcing bid. After South had shown a big hand, North's technically correct response was three diamonds, to show a positive response with a diamond suit. However, he elected to respond two no trump, showing at least 8 points and, in theory, a balanced hand. This set the stage for the misunderstanding that was to follow.

On the ace, king and queen of hearts, declarer discarded two spades and a diamond from dummy. Next came the king of diamonds and a diamond ruff with the three of clubs. When this stood up, declarer had nine tricks in the bank. The ace of clubs was the tenth trick. The last three tricks consisted of a high crossruff of declarer's two spades and dummy's remaining diamond, and the grand slam was home.

Note that 13 tricks can be made only in the 3-3 club fit. As the cards lie, no opening lead or defense can set seven clubs!

Enrollment Dip

Preliminary enrollment figures released by East Carolina University for the fall quarter show a slight drop in the number of students attending classes on campus this year as compared with the Fall quarter a year ago.

Officials reported preliminary figures show 9,949 regular full time students on campus and 137 registered for the Evening College for a total of 10,086 students engaged in on-campus studies.

This figure is down from the 10,250 full time and Evening

College students registered for the Fall quarter a year ago. However, officials said the 10,086 figure does not include late registrations.

No breakdown in the number of men and women students, or division according to classification—that is freshmen, sophomore, junior and senior students—is available at the present time.

Network Radio Will Try Series

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Most network radio series were put in their graves by television in the early 1950s.

Well, here it is the early 1970s and CBS is saying it'll start a new radio series on Jan. 6 — in prime time.

There've been no reports of panic in television circles yet. But Sam Cook Digges, head of the CBS Radio Division, and Hi Brown, producer of the coming show, think it could start a new aural trend at the network.

The new series, in the thriller category, is called the "CBS Radio Mystery Theater." It'll run seven nights a week, each 52-minute episode starting at 10:07 p.m. here. There'll be 200 new episodes and 165 repeats.

If the new show clicks, Digges says, it could lead to a new dramatic anthology series, a daytime soap opera and even a new comedy series — in short, a modern minirevival of the golden days of network radio.

Brown, a veteran radio producer whose credits date back to the 1930s, is equally hopeful. But the biggest kick for him right now is the fact that a network is even willing to give radio drama another try.

"It's an emotional jag for me," says Brown, who'll record most of the "Mystery Theater" shows in New York. "I could care less what it does for me financially."

He said the series — each show starts with the sound of a creaking door — will have a permanent host and tell a separate tale each night. The stories will range from the macabre to the occult, Brown said.

The series won't have staff writers or a stock acting company, he added. "It's an open show for all the fresh, proven and unproven talent we can find."

CBS says the series will be offered the network's 250 AM radio affiliates, then to other stations if an affiliate in a given market doesn't want the show.

The CBS-owned stations here and in Boston, St. Louis and Philadelphia won't be carrying the show because they have an all-news format, CBS says. It says other stations in those cities will air the series.

The show is the first new prime-time radio drama series on a network in more than a decade and a half. One new 30-minute series called "Zero Hour" began this summer, but it was sold to individual radio stations and wasn't offered by a network.

Hear Pleas For N.C. Retarded

GREENSBORO (AP)—A commission established by the North Carolina General Assembly heard pleas Tuesday for state help for mentally retarded children under school age, and for their parents.

The North Carolina Mental Health Study Commission was established to study mental retardation, mental disorders and alcoholism and make recommendations concerning these problems to the legislature.

The commission is to make its first report in November and its final report next March.

The first speaker at the Greensboro hearing, Dr. Victor Zinn, asked the commission to make recommendations "for the needs of children rather than on a basis of what programs are available."

Zinn, of Chapel Hill, is director of the Piedmont TEACCH Center, a state program for training autistic children and others with problems of communication and behavior.

He was accompanied by Mrs. Frank Warren of Durham, mother of an autistic child and a member of Parents and Professionals for Handicapped Children.

Autism is defined as an absorption in fantasy to the exclusion of interest in external reality.

Mrs. Warren proposed that the commission recommend the establishment of "one state agency for children in which all (children's) programs would be combined."

Leroy Smith of Walnut Cove, speaking for the Stokes County Association for Mental Health, and for related groups, told the commission, "Stokes County needs sheltered workshops for the mentally retarded, and residential housing, especially for critical periods."

He said there are 165,000 mentally retarded children in North Carolina and that the state provides help for about 40 per cent. Smith, father of a 10-year-old mentally retarded boy, urged the commission to recommend that mentally retarded children be provided for in places near their homes.

Local Legion Post Cited For Efforts

The American Legion, Department of North Carolina Headquarters in Raleigh indicates that Greenville Post No. 222 had conducted a highly successful membership drive.

Ernest Peterson, Commander of the Post, has received a letter from Department Adjutant J. Carroll Wilson reporting that Post No. 222 has exceeded its Legion Membership Incentive Goal for 1974.

A statement of high praise for the local Post was issued by Bruce W. Honeycutt, of Franklinton Department Commander of The American Legion.

Commander Honeycutt said, "The membership of every Legionnaire makes it possible for The American Legion to maintain service for the sick and disabled in hospitals. Memberships make possible all the Legion programs, such as care for needy children, baseball, Boys' State, Boy Scout troops, oratorical contest, community service, law and order, and all the others. I am proud to congratulate Post No. 222 upon this notable achievement."

Post Commander Peterson explained that "The Big Team", the theme of this year's drive, was to remind all America that The American Legion through teamwork will be able to provide a program of better communication with the community and its Veteran citizens, especially the returning Viet-Viet Veterans. He reported that the Post is planning to expand its local programs and activities, depending on the final results of the 1974 membership drive.

—Kevin Thomas, L.A. Times
