

Precedent-Setting Action

Hospital Receives HEW Funds

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt Memorial Hospital has received the long-awaited $2 million loan that will start the bid-taking process for construction of a new hospital, according to an announcement from First District Congressman Walter B. Jones.

The loan was secured through the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare under the Hill-Burton Act.

Pitt Memorial is one of the first county hospitals to go the HEW loan route. It had been encouraged to seek a $2 million Hill-Burton grant, but cutbacks in Hill-Burton funds and an end to all direct grants caused the change of direction. Considerable legal work done through the Local Government Commission and other agencies because it was a precedent-setting action.

There was rejoicing at Pitt Memorial yesterday afternoon when the call from Congressman Jones' office came. The news was given out on the public address system and all the staff and employees expressed their delight. Hospital Administrator Jack Richardson said. A call to the N. C. Medical Care Commission in Raleigh revealed that every detail for securing bids was in readiness. Wednesday, Sept. 26 was set as the day to begin advertising for bids and the receiving of bids is planned for Thursday, Nov. 8 in the County Commissioners' meeting room at the Pitt County Courthouse.

The opening of bids will be done three years and five days after a $9 million bond issue was approved by Pitt County voters. If construction begins soon after the first of the year, hopefully the new hospital will be put into use during the last half of 1976, Richardson said.

Upon completion, the hospital will provide 301 general beds, each in a private room, 14 psychiatric care beds, and 55 rehabilitation beds. It will be located across from the Greenville Nursing Center. Besides the $2 million loan, the county expects to spend $685,891 in revenue sharing funds, $9 million voted in a bond issue, and $1,143,000 federal funds and $350,000 in state funds, the last two for the rehabilitation center to serve the East.

Beds in the halls and use of everything from closets to former stairwells to restrooms for treatment and care of patients points to the need Pitt has for a new hospital facility.

THE WINNER — Billie Jean King holds the winner's trophy high in the air after she defeated Bobby Riggs in the $100,000-winner-take-all tennis match in the Astrodome in Houston, Tex., last night. Mrs. King set Riggs down 6-4; 6-3; 6-3. (AP Wirephoto)

A Third Round
Of Gimmickry
Is Too MuchBy WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
HOUSTON (AP) — Bobby

Riggs is screaming for a rematch with Billie Jean King, and Billie Jean says she'll think about it. Let's hope both come to their senses and forget it. Tennis' so-called "Battle of the Sexes" was cute and different the first time. It was exciting the second time when the project got into the hands of a Hollywood entrepreneur named Jerry Perrenchio.

But a third time? The sports public would gag on it. With all of Bobby's buffoonery and Billie Jean's militant responses, the idea now has worn thin. Nobody would pay to see a rematch of Bobby and Billie Jean just as nobody would pay to see Margaret Court get another crack at the 55-year old guy who hustled her into a match in which she was ridiculed before the world on Mother's Day.

What does it prove anyhow?

Bobby Riggs, middle-aged, joints creaking and reflexes slow, beat Mrs. Court, whose record of national championships makes her undisputed queen of the courts, 6-2, 6-1.

Billie Jean, 29, winner of five Wimbledon but a walkout in her own national championships this year, came back Thursday night and beat a weary, party-pooped, energized old man 6-4, 6-3, 6-3.

So spin the computers, probe the experts, make national surveys, and what do you get?

On one day, Riggs, a master craftsman and con artist, can beat the best woman player in the world. On another he can't hold a racket to a plucky and determined women's champion.

So Bobby gets another shot at Billie Jean, or Margaret gets another shot at Bobby, or popular little Chris Evert, the machine-like marvel from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., gets into the act.

Who cares?

Bobby and Billy Jean have done their "chauvinist pig" bit. People loved it while it lasted. Both come out of it richer if not wiser—$200,000 for King and $100,000 for Riggs. But they've exhausted the goose that lays the golden egg.

Let Bobby find another hustle. Let Billie Jean find another war to wage. Both have done the sport they play and love a service. Tennis has been exposed to the world in a new light. It's now a big-time sport. It can stand up to football and baseball in drawing fans into the big arenas.

Consumer Prices
See Sharp JumpBy ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices jumped 1.8 per cent in August, the sharpest rate of increase in 26 years, the government reported today. The biggest one-month jump in food prices, since 1933 was to blame.

The rise in over-all consumer prices was 1.8 per cent unadjusted and 1.9 per cent on a seasonally adjusted basis, both the highest since September 1947.

The Labor Department said surging prices for meats, poultry and eggs accounted for about 80 per cent of the steep rise in the Consumer Price Index last month.

Consumer food prices leaped a record 6 per cent in August, more than in any month since the 9.4 per cent increase in July 1933.

Government economists had predicted the disastrous price report for August following the record-breaking boost in wholesale prices recorded earlier following the removal of price restraints.

A price freeze that began June 13 ended for food on July 18 and for almost everything else on Aug. 12.

Food prices included in the index were collected between Aug. 7-9 and prices for other items were collected throughout the month, the government said.

Nonfood items jumped five-tenths of one per cent after seasonal adjustment, slightly above the average for recent months. The cost of services, soared seven-tenths of one per cent, the largest monthly rise in nearly three years, and was due primarily to increases in mortgage interest rates, the department said.

The figure showed that the prices of food purchased in grocery stores increased more in August than in any other month since World War I, surpassing even the inflationary post-World War II surge.

Grocery prices were up 7.4 per cent unadjusted and 7.7 per cent on an adjusted basis, the highest since the government began keeping records on a seasonally adjusted basis in 1946.

The government said most of the August increase was due to unusually sharp advances in poultry, eggs and pork.

Beef and veal prices also rose sharply even though the freeze on red meat prices was not lifted until early in September.

Prices also rose for bread, milk and most other food items except fresh fruit and vegetables.

Americans also paid more to eat out, with the cost of restaurant meals and snacks rising 1.1 per cent.

With the August report, consumer prices have risen at an annual rate of 10 per cent over the past six months and 7.5 per cent over the past year.

The August jump in consumer prices pushed the over-all consumer price index to 135.1, meaning that it cost consumers $13.51 to buy a variety of goods that cost $10 in the 1967 base period.

A sampling of prices showed that meats, poultry and fish rose 16.6 per cent from July to August and were 40.7 per cent higher than a year ago.

In the nonfood area, apparel prices rose in August instead of declining as they usually do in the summer months.

Prices for houses, home maintenance and repair commodities and fuel oil also increased.

However, the government said the effect of these increases were moderated somewhat by declines in prices of new and used cars.

Asks For Governor
Position

Former Republican candidate for Congress R. Frank Everett of Hamilton said he has written a letter to Gov. James C. Holshouser asking for the Governor's position on the ECU medical school.

"As one of the many citizens of Eastern North Carolina who is interested in the medical school at E.C.U., I wish to find out your position on this issue," he said.

"You stated earlier that you were going along with the report of the Commission, which was appointed to look into this matter. I think most people in the beginning felt this Commission was stacked and their report is what everyone expected.

"I feel that you owe it to the people of Eastern North Carolina to let us know what your position is on this very important issue. We really hope you will give us an answer at once. If we don't get an answer, we will assume you are going along with this report, which makes you opposed to the medical school at E.C.U.," he concluded his letter.

Medical School
Report Before Governors' Bd.

CHAPEL HILL (AP)—A report recommending against a four-year medical school at East Carolina University will be taken up by the Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina System today and the board chairman predicted in advance it would be adopted.

Board Chairman William Dees of Goldsboro at first said no action would be taken at the meeting at which a team of consultants which made the recommendation will explain their report.

However, he said a daylong meeting Thursday had shown such "unanimity of opinion" that the board might vote Friday in favor of the teams' recommendations which call for a system of area health education centers.

A motion to approve the report, however, is expected to arouse opposition. Reginald McCoy of Laurinburg, a strong supporter of a four-year medical school for ECU, said there would be a countermove to stall the issue by referring it to a subcommittee.

Meanwhile, a prominent legislator, Rep. Horton Rountree, D-Pitt, sharply criticized Gov. Jim Holshouser for holding a briefing session at which only 20 members of the General Assembly heard an explanation of the report.

Rountree said the governor's action has freed the General Assembly "to adopt, revise or discard the report in its entirety."

Rountree, a strong supporter of ECU in its drive to get a degree granting medical school, said he was amazed Holshouser "would take it upon himself to brief legislators on a report held confidential by the members of the Board of Governors before the Board of Governors had a chance to meet and review the report."

Holshouser described Rountree's statement as "utter nonsense." The governor, meanwhile, admonished the board of governors to be fair in its dealings with the 16 state universities it governs, and he admonished the 16 universities and their trustees after the board has reached a decision to "support the governing board."

Warning?

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Egypt has secretly warned Palestinian guerrillas that it plans to break the three-year Middle East cease-fire soon, the Lebanese newspaper An Nahar reported today.

The warning was discussed in a nine-hour emergency session of the executive committee of the Palestine Liberation Organization under top guerrilla leader Yasir Arafat in Beirut Thursday, An Nahar said.

A guerrilla spokesman said a statement about the executive committee's meeting was to be issued within 24 hours. He declined to comment on the reported Egyptian warning.

An Nahar called the meeting a Palestinian guerrilla summit.

Agnew,
Nixon
Confer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amid continuing rumors that Vice President Spiro T. Agnew may be considering resigning, he and President Nixon held a lengthy private meeting Thursday afternoon.

A White House spokesman said today that, "the President and the vice president both agreed there would be no report or discussion on the meeting."

Further, the spokesman said, the two agreed that "there would be no discussion or comment on the various rumors and stories based on unidentified sources." This referred to the continuing reports, including one from a high Republican source, that there was a likelihood of Agnew's resigning in the very near future.

The President and Agnew held their hour-long meeting in the Executive Office Building. Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said both had agreed "that no one on the White House staff or the vice president's staff was authorized to discuss this matter."

It was the first substantive face-to-face meeting between the two since Sept. 1, when Nixon returned from a two-week stay in California and made a session with Agnew his first order of business in Washington.

Since then, they have met on three occasions, but White House spokesmen indicated they did not have a chance for any substantial discussion.

The surprise development came as Agnew's office was reporting overwhelming public support for him following the latest state of reports that he might resign because of a political graft inquiry.

Sees School
Affray Tied To 'Drugs'

"From the evidence I have, the trouble seems to be a continuation of a fight downtown Wednesday night over a contention centered around drugs," Robert Alligood, principal of Rose High, said about the two outbreaks of student fighting at the high school on Thursday.

Shortly before school took in Thursday morning, fighting broke out in the smoking area adjacent to one of the entrances of the school. Alligood and his staff broke up the disturbance which involved about eight male students.

"During the lunch hour, sporadic fights broke out again," Alligood said this morning, "and I felt it was time to get the police over, so I called them to come in."

"We got things calmed down and it was quiet for the rest of the day. A few parents came in to help. We're going to make an effort to have more ready to come in in the future at times when we feel they're needed."

Thursday afternoon Alligood made an announcement that all students were to go directly to their classrooms Friday morning without lingering outside or in hallways.

"We had a few police over here this morning as a matter of getting started for the day. As of now (11:00 p.m.) everything is quiet and we're hoping to keep it this way." Police left after school had taken in.

Alligood said three of the students involved in the fights Thursday were treated for minor injuries. "Altogether there's about 15 students we've pinned down as being involved and we're continuing investigation. Some of this group have been suspended. There'll be prescribed consultations and hearings with parents of each student suspended," Alligood said.

About this first disruption of the 1973-74 school year Alligood said "Any time there's a problem, we're going to do what needs to be done. We're going to take whatever steps are necessary to maintain good order in the school."

Senate Limits
'Enlisted Aides'
Among Military

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has voted to sharply limit one privilege of military rank: the enlisted aide.

By a 73-9 vote Thursday, the Senate agreed to allow the aides — or "indentured servants" as Sen. William Proxmire calls them — only for the three highest ranks in each service.

The action came as the Senate opened debate on a $21.4 billion weapons bill.

On top of cuts already ordered by the Defense Department, this means the number of personal aides will be reduced from the present 1,245 to 218 at an annual saving of $18.4 million.

Proxmire's amendment to curtail the program was only a sidelight to the start of debate on the weapons-procurement authorization bill for the current fiscal year.

That debate, which continues today, is expected to center on attempts to stretch out the development of some expensive weapons systems, to eliminate some systems altogether, and to reduce U.S. troop commitments abroad.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., urged the Senate not to let its emotions push the nation into another round of escalating the arms race with the Soviet Union.

"We know what we can do and they know what we can do," Humphrey said, arguing for consideration of domestic needs before voting to speed up weapons development.

But others, led by Sens. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said America should not be lulled by a spirit of U.S. Soviet detente into lowering its military profile.

Watergate Court
Returns To Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Court of Appeals, having failed to obtain a compromise settlement of the White House tapes controversy, returns to the constitutional questions in the dispute.

Special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox and the White House notified the court Thursday that their "sincere efforts" to reach an out-of-court settlement "were not fruitful."

The court had asked a week earlier that the attempt be made.

If the search for a compromise failed, the court had said, "This court will discharge

Assembly Given Free Hand: Rountree

Gov. Jim Holshouser's action yesterday in briefing key legislators on a report by a team of consultants to the Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina studying medical training programs in the state "gives the General Assembly a free hand to adopt, revise or discard the report in its entirety, in complete disregard of the Board of Governors," Pitt Rep. Horton Rountree said.

According to the legislator and supporter of East Carolina University, "I am amazed that the governor of this state would take it upon himself to brief key legislators on a report held confidentially by the members of the Board of Governors before they have had a chance to meet and review the report."

According to Rountree, who indicated the question of an expansion of the current one-year medical training program at ECU will come before the General Assembly when it meets in January, "a cursory review of the report shows a complete disregard of the efforts that have been made by the North Carolina General Assembly at East Carolina University.

"After all," the lawmaker noted, "it was the efforts at ECU that was the catalyst that prompted the General Assembly in all of its efforts to expand medical education to relieve the doctor shortage in this state."

The consultants report recommended that the one-year program at ECU not be expanded and that no new four-year medical school be established at any state supported school.

Instead, the consultants suggested, clinics providing residency and internship training for physicians should be established across the state and additional state funds given to two private medical schools in North Carolina and one in Tennessee for support of North Carolinians enrolled in medical schools there.

The report also suggested relaxation of requirements for licensing of foreign-trained doctors in an effort to encourage such persons to locate in North Carolina and enter practice.

Follow Up On 'Gift From God' To Teach Deaf

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: A college girl wrote that she felt she had a "gift from God" to teach deaf people to talk, but she was "torn" because her parents feared if she pursued that profession she might end up marrying a deaf person.

May I comment? Our son, who is one of the finest speech therapists in the country, married a perfectly normal girl, but had he married one with a speech defect, we would have loved her no less.

When I saw our son take a crippled, retarded child on his lap, and help that boy utter his first audible word, I cannot explain the feeling that came over me. That boy looked up into my son's eyes as if to say, "Thank you," and my son looked down into the eyes of that child as if to say, "You are going to learn to talk!" [And subsequently the child did.]

Let me tell you, all the money in the world couldn't buy the thrill I experienced at that moment.

Thank you, Abby, for telling that girl that if she feels she has a "gift from God" to teach the deaf, to pursue that calling. She will never regret it.

PROUD FATHER

DEAR FATHER: Working with the handicapped is one of the most rewarding of all careers. It takes a special kind of human being to do it, and I sincerely believe that those who do are indeed "gifted" by God, and chosen for the privilege.

DEAR ABBY: I noticed this real pretty girl who just started to work where I work. She seemed real friendly and always smiled and said hello when she saw me. (It's a big office, and we work in different departments.)

I asked her if she liked movies and she said yes, so I asked her when I could take her to a movie of her choice, then she said she didn't like them all that much, so I let the matter drop.

A few days later, I asked her if she would like to have dinner with me at a nice restaurant, and she said she was on a diet to lose weight so there wouldn't be much point in that.

I asked her if she liked music, thinking I could take her to some kind of concert and she said music gave her a headache.

Abby, I am 27, and she's about 22, so it can't be that I'm too young for her. Please tell me how I can get a date with this girl. I am told I am a nice young man, but I must be doing something wrong. I'm no run-around, but I've never had trouble getting dates before.

BATTING ZERO

DEAR BATTING: Wake up and smell the coffee! The chemistry is wrong. She's not interested, so turn your attentions elsewhere—where they'll be welcome and appreciated.

DEAR ABBY: This may help the young couple who were "in trouble" and couldn't find a minister who would marry them because neither belonged to any church:

Every commissioned officer of the Salvation Army is an ordained Christian minister, authorized to perform marriage ceremonies which will be legal and binding in every state of the U. S. Because the girl was pregnant, she couldn't have been married in the Salvation Army's chapel, but she could have a proper legal wedding.

Please pass this information on, Abby. Many may not know. I am a soldier of the corps.

Non-Traveling Inspector Seals Ocean Liners And Airplanes

BOSTON (AP) — Hilda Packard boards a dozen airplanes or ocean liners each week, but she rarely goes beyond neighboring Connecticut.

The North End section mother of three is an inspector for the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

She had never been on a ship before assuming her position with the Boston office two years ago. Now she's familiar with areas on freighters and luxury liners that most passengers never see.

She checks store rooms for meats, fruits, vegetables and plants from countries on the department's prohibited list. She seals the storerooms, which can't be opened until the ship leaves Boston Harbor.

It's not unusual for Ms. Packard to make a surprise return visit to a ship to make sure her seals are intact. It's also not unusual for her to be on the job at 3 a.m.

"Oh, sure, I'm sometimes concerned about the hour and being alone," said the only woman agriculture department inspector in Boston. "But I try not to dwell on it, and I take all the precautions I can. Once I get to the docks, there's usually a customs inspector and other officials there."

There are fewer than 20 women in similar positions throughout the country, Ms. Packard said. But dealing with shipboard personnel is sometimes easier because of her sex.

"A few of the (male) inspectors complain that some provisions masters on ships argue about regulations. It might get pretty heated. But I've never had that happen."

"The seamen usually go out of their way to be accommodating. They're not used to seeing a woman doing this job," she said.

Ms. Packard earned a degree in agriculture from the University of Vermont. She was hired by the agriculture department out of college, first working in the animal disease lab and later as head of the Boston lab.

Her job now is "to keep foreign plant pests and diseases and animal diseases out of the country. The Newcastle disease attacking hens in California is the kind of thing we try to prevent," she said.

Foreign aircraft are boarded for inspection of galleys and cargo. If Ms. Packard finds any indication of insects or disease, the cargo is confiscated and destroyed or sent back to the country of origin.

She recalled the case of a little boy who carried home to Florida "a couple of cute snails" from the islands. The lawns of his neighbors were soon crawling with giant snails which chewed up all the greenery in sight, she said.

"Right now, I spend a lot of time in the lab identifying various snails. And, of course, many inspectors do their own lab work on the produce they confiscate," Ms. Packard said.

The work is demanding. There's not much time for Ms. Packard to spend with her three daughters.

Demo Chieftains Seek Head Off Divisive Battle

By DON McLEOD
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic party leaders seek to head off a divisive fight today as the party's reform commission meets to consider new guidelines for picking 1976 national convention delegates.

National Chairman Robert S. Strauss set the tone Thursday when he warned the warring factions to compromise.

Strauss said the American public is "sick and tired of those on either side of the political spectrum who create ill will where there is none, exaggerate points of issue and controversy where there should be compromise, take cheap shots at the leaders and standard-bearers of our party...and use reform as a tool to destroy individuals, destroy institutions and advance private goals and personal ambitions."

Strauss recommended the scrapping of the controversial "quota" system, more assurance that elected officials are included in party affairs and limits on the application of proportional representation.

All three actions already were expected, but Strauss' added voice appeared to be a notice to diehards on both sides of the ideological struggle that he expects them to join the compromise.

The commission, headed by former Baltimore Councilwoman Barbara Mikulski, scheduled two days of discussions beginning today on rules-change proposals covered in six regional hearings over the summer.

Although no actual rulemaking was expected this weekend, Ms. Mikulski, as she prefers to be called, hoped to create a drafting committee to prepare proposals to be acted on at a commission meeting in October.

But a dissident coalition of labor, southerners and old-guard Democrats was opposing the naming of a drafting committee, preferring instead to have the new rules hammered out by the full commission.

However, neither this nor an effort to have some 80 members added to the commission, more than doubling its size, was given much chance of success after Strauss began applying pressure toward conciliation.

Whatever the outcome of the power struggles over the guidelines, some substantive changes are expected before delegates are selected for the 1976 national convention.

Although assurances will remain that women and minorities may not be discriminated against in the delegate selection process, specific language is expected which would forbid challenges to delegations simply on the ground that they lack mathematical balance.

The next biggest item is what to do about proposals to give each candidate a share of a state's delegates proportionate to his support in that state. A decision on this is necessary because the last convention outlawed winner-take-all primaries.

Home Fuel Allocations Appear Almost Certain

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House appears almost certain to impose mandatory controls on wholesale distribution of home-heating oil, propane and perhaps diesel fuel, informed sources indicate.

A decision has been made, subject only to presidential approval, to impose mandatory allocation of propane and to ban switching from coal and other high-sulfur fuels to scarcer low-sulfur petroleum, a source said.

Presidential proclamations on those two decisions are expected within a few days, a source said.

John A. Love, director of the White House Energy Policy Office, the public and other sources in private have indicated strongly that at least home-heating oil and probably diesel fuel would be brought under mandatory allocation. The remaining question seemed to be whether all petroleum fuels including gasoline must be controlled.

"Mandatory allocation" would apply only at the wholesale level and avoid direct rationing of fuel among consumers.

Last Aug. 9, Love proposed "for comment only" a mandatory allocation plan which would distribute fuels in proportion to past distribution, after setting aside 10 per cent for assignment by state governments to priority users.

For the guidance of states, that plan suggested that priority users might include sectors of the food and energy industries, health and sanitation services, police and emergency services, freight and public passenger transport, public utilities and telecommunications.

Meantime, Cost of Living Council Director John Dunlop said Thursday gasoline retailers will be allowed to raise prices by one or two cents a gallon soon, probably by Oct. 2.

Dunlop's announcement to the Joint Economic Committee of Congress came after an intense effort by gas station owners to have the ceiling prices in effect since Sept. 7 raised. Some dealers had shut down in protest and others had said they were planning to do so.

Nine-Month Work Year Plan Outlined

GREENSBORO (AP)—A university professor has proposed a nine-month work year in business and industry as a means of improving employee morale and increasing productivity.

Dr. Arthur L. Svenson, Burlington Industries professor of economics and administration at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, said Thursday, "Adoption of the nine-month year, within the frame of a 40 — or less — hour, five-day work week yields benefits to employee and employer alike — benefits which can prove healthful and productive."

Speaking at a meeting of the Greensboro chapter of the Society for the Advancement of Management, Svenson suggested using the nine-month year as an alternative to the three-day work week or the four-day week.

He said that innovations to shorten the work week by lengthening the work day "have run afoul of the physiological factor of fatigue," resulting from abnormally sustained periods of work.

He said that instead of boosting worker motivation, these plans produce a rapid "performance relapse to monotony and boredom."

The nine-month work year proposal, said Svenson, calls for employees to be given three months "free from work" and is intended to revive the concept of "vacations are recuperation."

N.C. Home Ec Association To Meet At ECU

Members of the North Carolina Home Economics Association, Region F, will gather at East Carolina University Sept. 25.

Meeting in the ECU Home Economics Building, the group will participate in programs designed to increase their knowledge of and commitment to the home economics professions.

Associate Professor Elisabeth Schmidt of the ECU Food, Nutrition and Institution Management faculty and several of her students will serve dinner at the meeting.

Dr. Vila Rosenfield, chairman of the ECU Department of Home Economics Education, will preside at the meeting. Chairman-elect is Rebecca King of Raleigh.

Guidelines Said Hospital Threat

RALEIGH (AP)—A legislative subcommittee was told Thursday the Nixon administration economic guidelines for hospitals constitute a threat to the quality of patient care and to the financial stability of North Carolina hospitals.

Paul S. Ellison, administrator of the Cleveland Memorial Hospital in Shelby, told the joint health subcommittee, that the economic guidelines burden the hospitals with "serious financial disadvantages."

"While increases in charges are limited under federal economic controls, increasing operating costs mandated by changes in minimum wages and other laws, force many hospitals to operate on an unsound fiscal basis," he said.

Robbed, Forced In Car's Trunk

CHARLOTTE (AP) — An auto mechanic says two gunmen accosted him outside an ABC liquor store Thursday night, robbed him of his billfold with $7 and forced him into the trunk of his car.

The mechanic, Charles H. Carrigan, 31, told police he managed to escape after a harrowing 30-minute ride during which he heard the two robbers say they were going to have to kill him because he could identify them.

Schools Feel Inflation Spiral

School officials have to be more than a little concerned about the inflationary spiral which is eating up their budgeted funds too quickly.

Greenville Schools Supt. Glenn Cox reported to his board this week that unexpected costs are affecting school budgets in the areas of electricity and food during the first two months of the fiscal year.

He reported that 40 percent of the year's utility allotment has been spent during July and August.

Mixed Up In Mixed Drinks

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—A member of the three-man State Alcoholic Board of Control has put himself and fellow members into the middle of the battle over mixed drinks.

Charlotte Attorney Marcus T. Hickman held a press conference in Raleigh this week to, in his words, "set straight three of the misrepresentations of fact that have come to my attention in this campaign."

Hickman, appointed to the state board by Gov. Jim Holshouser, labeled the campaign against mixed beverages a "prohibitionist" movement, and went on to say that if the Nov. 6 referendum goes against the proposed method of liquor by the drink, the next step would be an anti-liquor bill "to have a statewide referendum on the question of brown-bagging-their idea being to return North Carolina to prohibition with all of its crime, corruption and hypocrisy.

Asked if his speaking out on the issue and endorsing liquor by the drink constituted a conflict of interest in light of his position on the state board, Hickman said he was speaking only as an individual and planned to make several civic club talks between now and Nov. 6, in which he "might mention the way I personally feel on the subject...I'm sure I'm going to let the people know how I feel on it," and added that he considers present North Carolina laws "Barbaric and hypocritical."

Asked For Job

Hickman told newsmen that he was active in the campaign for mixed drinks in Mecklenburg County two years ago, and when Gov. Holshouser took office, he added, he asked to be placed on the State ABC Board.

After the session, Hickman was asked what the attitude of the other members of the board is. The chairman is Dr. L. C. Holshouser, who serves fulltime, and George Coxhead.

"We the board members, have discussed the question generally, and I think—while I have not asked them for any sort of a vote or such—that they generally favor it (the mixed drink proposal)," Hickman said.

He noted that the board members had traveled to Virginia to study that state's system, and found it generally working well.

Regarding his statement at the press conference, Hickman said he went over it with his fellow board members, checking the facts and figures, and the other members concurred with his report.

The statement took members of the mixed drink opposition to task for what Hickman labeled "over-zealous selling" in charging that if the mixed drink bill passes Nov. 6 that outlets for sale would increase to as many as 3,000; that the state and local governments would not continue to get the profits from the system; and that more would have to be spent for enforcement.

Hickman's public entry into the liquor battle, and his mention of the other board members, created a stir in opposition quarters.

Opponents React

The Rev. Coy Privette, president of the Christian Action League, said he feels that Hickman—a public official—should not be involved.

Privette, pastor of the North Kannapolis Baptist Church, said he understood that Gov. Holshouser "had asked the people in his administration not to get involved."

The attitude of the governor has been that anyone connected with the administration must make it clear that he is speaking as an individual and not speaking for Holshouser or his administration if a stand is taken on the question.

Privette, however, said he has a letter from ABC Board Chairman Holshouser saying that because the board is regulatory and responsible for upholding the liquor laws, members should not get involved.

"I'm surprised at Marcus (Hickman)," Privette said. "We knew what his position was because of his involvement in the Mecklenburg campaign. But we feel like he shouldn't be involved in the referendum. He can't be a member of a regulatory board which will be charged with interpreting the law, writing regulations, granting licenses and still be impartial."

"He has staked himself out to a very liberal interpretation," Privette said.

Private Club Raids

Hickman also mentioned during his news conference a growing crackdown on private clubs selling liquor, and noted these practices as examples of abuses of present law.

Privette said there is a lot of talk about this across the state.

"They've been going along without anybody saying a word to them for three or four years, and now all of a sudden there's a big crackdown all over the state. People are asking me if this is a device being used by the state enforcement officials to get more interest in voting for the mixed drink bill Nov. 6," Privette said.

He said he had met with Utilities officials and recommendations had been made for reducing costs.

In the food area Cox said the average cost of food alone per plate is 33 cents with labor cost of 27½ cents, making the total cost of the meal some 61 cents. Schools are charging 40 cents for elementary students and 45 cents for high school students.

"I can see no way out except to ask for an increase in lunch prices," Cox said.

The situation does create a dilemma for the school budget. There had been some decrease in utilities rates effective Sept. 1 and perhaps cooler weather will help some in reducing electric consumption. The outlook for an substantial reduction in food costs does not appear good, however.

Unless funds are found somewhere else, the school cafeterias will have no choice but to increase prices and this will put an extra burden on already strained family budgets. It might also push some students into the free lunch program which will further complicate the problem.

We are frank to admit we do not know the answer. If lunchrooms are to be operated the youngsters should receive balanced and nourishing meals. Somehow the basic cost will have to be paid, whether by the students in increased prices or by funds from some other sources.

More Quotas To Be Met By Blood Donors

The Bloodmobile had two good days this week with 117 pints collected Monday and 120 Tuesday, for a total of 237 pints.

This exceed the two day quota of 232 pints and the turnout was very pleasing to blood program officials.

There are other visits ahead, however, with new quotas to meet and every citizens should take seriously his obligation to give blood.

Resignation Not For Agnew

By ROWLANDE EVANS

and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Headline speculation about Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's imminent resignation has not all but persuaded Agnew to prepare a "flat denial" to be issued not at a press conference but through some unidentified forum that would dramatically reach the nation.

The timing is uncertain, but Agnew's mood is not. He has no present intention of resigning, which his friends claim would amount to a confession of guilt. But Agnew refused repeated requests for prepublication comment on the carefully written speculative story by the Washington Post's highly reliable David Broder, who attributed the prediction to "a senior Republican figure strongly in Agnew's corner." Agnew's refusal to deny the speculation was in keeping with his reluctance to make official denials of the swarm of speculative stories about his intentions amid the worst political storm ever to strike a Vice President.

"The 'senior Republican figure,'" according to Agnew's friends, is not Sen. Barry Goldwater, as has been widely rumored, but instead some other Agnew confidant who has seen Agnew for long and intimate discussions in the past few weeks. Out of these discussions emerged the possible rationale for an Agnew resignation.

As has been widely reported, Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson may send the allegations and evidence against Agnew to the House of Representatives rather than seek a criminal indictment. Agnew worries deeply about two possible results if that happens.

First, the House might fail to come to grips with his impeachment, neither voting for impeachment (in effect, an indictment leading to an actual trial in the Senate) nor voting to exonerate Agnew. Should that happen, Agnew would never rid himself of the cloud of guilt.

Second, if the House did come to grips with his impeachment, the process might unleash such a vicious, political struggle that the country, already weakened by the Watergate scandals, could be further polarized to cause serious and permanent damage.

It was lengthy conversation along these lines with the "senior Republican figure" which led to the reports that Agnew was on the verge of quitting, his friends believe. By last Friday, in fact, rumors that Agnew had indeed decided to resign were flying wildly in Washington. As one example of the wild atmosphere Friday, the Justice Department was informed by a wire service reporter that Newsweek had decided to change its cover at the last minute and replace the late President Allende of Chile with Agnew. Did that mean Agnew was about to quit? The Justice Department declined comment. Newsweek indeed considered a change in the cover but in the end decided against it.

One reason for Friday's seething rumors was a subtle change in the phraseology at the Justice Department to answer questions about the conspiracy charges against the Vice President.

Until last Thursday, the department had invariably answered questions by saying "no decision" had been made on whether to send the Agnew case to the grand jury (for routine U. S. prosecution), or to the House for non-routine impeachment proceedings. On Thursday, "no decision" became "no comment"—

Strength For Today

PAID IN FULL

The biblical scholar, Adolph Deissmann, tells us that in the rubbish heaps outside of ancient eastern cities he found thousands of receipts for goods and money written on little pieces of papyrus by hands which centuries ago had returned to dust. And when payment had been made, the Greek word "apeko," meaning "I have received in full," was always inscribed on the bill.

This is the word our Lord used when he spoke of the hypocrites who had received their reward in full. They prayed to be seen of men. They enlarged the borders of their garments and made a great show of their ecclesiastical position. Jesus assured his listeners that the vain satisfaction these men got out of their personal display was the only reward they would ever receive.

It is tragic to see men who are made for great things dissipated by their efforts on little things. Men often trade happiness for the thrill of some low indulgence or kill their conscience that they might be rich.

Other Editors Say Response To USSR

(Charlotte Observer)

The Soviet Union's harsh repression of dissident citizens has brought a reaction. Persons in the United States and Europe are speaking out against the brutal and tyrannical behavior Soviet leaders have practiced while seeking detente with the West.

These reactions probably will not reverse this new Stalinism, but they may succeed in keeping several courageous men alive and somewhat freer than they might have been.

The present focus is the fate of Andrei Sakharov, eminent nuclear physicist and civil rights leader. Since he told foreign correspondents in Moscow recently of his fears of detente without democratization, he has been vilified in the government — control press and threatened with prosecution. Given the fate of others like him in the last few weeks — mock trials and imprisonment — Mr. Sakharov's basic human rights certainly are jeopardy.

The National Academy of Science in this country responded, warning the Soviet Academy of Sciences that arrest and further harassment of him could lead to a curtailment of American scientific cooperation with the Soviet Union. This action is most welcome. It will not be as effective as an official protest from the United States government but it may have some impact.

It would be almost impossible for the United States to insist on changes in internal policy in exchange for closer cooperation with the Soviet Union. The Soviet leaders, however, cannot take lightly Rep. Wilbur Mills' statement that he would oppose the liberalization of trade "if the price is to be paid in the martyrdom" of political dissidents. The chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee has the power to back up his words.

Wreckage Of 'Four Seasons'

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — An executive who pleaded guilty to conspiracy in a stock fraud case which the government said brought him $10 million and cheated investors out of $200 million has been sentenced to a year in jail. There was no fine.

Simultaneously, the job of restoring confidence in the nation's securities system, which was devastated by ineptness, greed, fraud, white collar crime of various sorts, and outdated techniques, has been made the harder.

Four Seasons Nursing Centers of America, the company whose shares were involved, epitomizes the atmosphere of excess and laxity that characterized trading in the 1960s. Big story, lots of promises, loose regulation.

It also exemplified the hopes of many thousands of stockholders who had been lulled into the belief that the millenium had arrived and that henceforth no American with ambition and a friendly broker need ever be poor.

The poor are poor again, and a lot wiser. They left the market, and now the brokers are poor and the mutual funds are smothered under a burden of redemptions. And there is enough cynicism about markets to keep it that way for years.

It is because of these excesses of the 1960s, and the resulting depression of the industry in the 1970s, that:

—The Securities and Exchange Commission has been trying to restructure the markets to eliminate ancient privileges, to give the individual investor the same access to stocks and information as the huge institutions have.

—The Justice Department has been studying the monopolistic methods of the market place and bringing charges against brokers who violated the terms and conditions under which stocks can be sold.

—Accountants have been reviewing their standards and attempting to clarify the reports they issue to stockholders.

—The SEC and the industry have been raising listing requirements and merging the weakest brokerage houses into larger firms, or liquidating those which cannot be saved.

Four Seasons was one of the big glamor stocks of the 1960s. Under the leadership of Jack L. Clark, the nursing home company became the most highly publicized stock on the American Stock Exchange.

Unethical brokers easily talked customers into purchases because of the prevailing mood that you couldn't lose. In 1968 the bigger fool theory was popular; there would always be a sucker on whom you could unload.

Four Seasons was formed in 1963 and its stock exploded upward after the company went public in 1968. It made its debut as a new issue at $11 a share and within months was up to $100 a share. It was a concept stock, a stock with a story.

The story was that Americans, living in small houses and apartments, could not accommodate the elders. Professional nursing homes were the answer, especially Pitt County was prepared today to meet the demands of its indigent population as result of relief garden and canning activities during the summer months, it was revealed from the office of K.T. Futrell, director of the Pitt County Department of Welfare.

From the five large community gardens and 2,600 individual gardens operated during the summer, 70,851 cans of foodstuffs have been canned for the winter, the department statement revealed.

In addition, 880 gallons of molasses, 850 bushels of corn, 1,175 bushels of sweet potatoes, 500 pounds of lima beans, 900 pounds of dried black eyed peas and 471 barrels of Irish potatoes have been conserved to take care of the needy while the wolf is howling around the doors this winter of those who failed to take part in the garden movement.

Persons who refused to plant their own gardens from free seeds provided by the welfare department will not receive aid from relief forces during the winter.

Although an appeal was issued here yesterday by the Red Cross for funds to assist in carrying relief to storm sufferers along the coast of North Carolina, only $15 had been received up to this morning according to W.J. Bundy, chairman of the Pitt county Chapter of the American Red Cross.

since rising Social Security checks made them economically feasible.

You thought big in the 1960s because you had seen it pay off. Fast food franchises demonstrated that what looked like a local operation could be nationally accepted. And look what the motel promoters had done?

Big volume, standardized products and professional management could work wonders. Everyone could see that. That was the mood.

Four Seasons had big ideas, but according to the government, it didn't have the finances to keep abreast of its own vision. It claimed the company inflated its earnings, exaggerated its growth and used false information to get loans.

It went bankrupt in 1970. Clark admitted last June to one of the counts of conspiracy to violate the securities laws. He could have received up to five years in jail and a $10,000 fine. He'll be eligible for parole in four months.

Meanwhile, the securities industry pleads for business.

Networks Agree Ten Percent Decline In To Take Turns

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — There's good news today for Watergate buffs. The three networks say they'll again take turns providing live TV coverage of the Senate Watergate hearings, which resume Monday.

But there's bad news for daytime Watergate viewers. The networks say they'll only cover the hearings live next week. And there won't be any live coverage of the hearings on public TV at all this time.

There'll only be three days of hearings next week — Monday through Wednesday — and it'll be a pattern generally followed until Nov. 1, when this round of testimony is scheduled to end.

Under a plan agreed on by the networks this week, ABC provides live coverage of Monday's session, NBC takes over on Tuesday and CBS has the duty on Wednesday. Each network has the option of carrying the hearings live any day it isn't scheduled to do so.

The networks say they'll "terminate their experimental (rotation) system" after Wednesday's session, although network spokesmen say this doesn't necessarily mean the end of a revolving era.

They say continued rotation coverage in future weeks is possible, but that it'll require a new agreement among the networks. However, no negotiations to that end are planned right now.

The networks adopted the rotational plan last June 5 to lessen the uproar from viewers deprived of game shows and soap operas and to reduce the loss of advertising dollars as

West, Dansey To Talk Issues

The two candidates for mayor, incumbent Mayor S. Eugene West and city councilman William Dansey, are scheduled to participate in a program entitled "Meet the Candidates" on Thursday, September 27.

The occasion will be a Greenville Jaycee dinner, at which both candidates will address the Jaycees on campaign issues. Each candidate will be given approximately 15 minutes each to speak.

Paul Breitman, chairman of the program, says everyone is urged to attend the meeting which is to be held at the Elks Lodge, beginning at 6:30 p.m. The two spokesmen will speak following the dinner.

Fish, like humans, can get seasick if caught in heavy waves for an extended period of time.

the hearings wore on.

They don't say how much the loss came to for the first 37 days of televised testimony, but Broadcasting magazine, a leading trade publication, estimates it at between $7 million to $10 million.

The hearings, which began May 17, were televised live from start to finish for Eastern Educational Network stations by the National Public Affairs Center for Television. But NPACT isn't doing it this time.

It says the stations are broadcasting school service programs and Watergate coverage would conflict with those shows.

But it says it will videotape each day's hearings in full for the Public Broadcasting Service, which in turn will replay the tapes for its 239 member stations at 8 p.m. EDT.

indicating that Richardson was on the verge of momentous decisions involving Agnew.

In fact, it is still unknown how Richardson will decide the question of whether Agnew can be tried before a federal court while sitting as Vice President or whether he must first be removed from office by impeachment.

By Saturday, those rumors had convinced some high administration officials not only that Agnew would quit but that he would be replaced by Richardson. Moreover, they coincided with Agnew's decision to talk out his deepest worries with his political allies, one of whom leaked the Vice President's concern.

However, Agnew's friends downgrade his private expressions of possible resignation by comparing them to President Nixon's similar feelings, revealed to his family two months ago and reported to the press by his daughter, Julie Eisenhower. In each case, they say, the hard decision actually to resign was not approached.

Whatever Richardson may decide and however the charges against him any turn out, Agnew insists to his friends that he genuinely believes himself to be innocent. Thus, to quit and leave himself open to charges that his resignation was a self-confession of guilt, is viewed by the Vice President and his friends as the worst possible course—no matter what he confided to his allies in a moment of anguish.

Measles Cases Cited

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The national Center for Disease Control reported today that there was a 10 per cent decline nationally in the number of measles cases in the first 36 weeks of this year.

Public health officials earlier had expressed concern over the increase in childhood diseases last year.

The CDC said 24,160 ases were reported in the first 36 weeks. But despite what it called the low level nationally, large numbers of cases have been reported in some regions.

The CDC said the increase was reported at 137 per cent in the New England region, 145 per cent in the Middle Atlantic Region, and although the North Central Region reported a decline of 23 per cent, this was still considered high for that region.

The 8,474 cases in the East North Central Region represents 41 per cent of the total number of cases reported in the

Prices Said Beyond Poor

ROME (AP) — The major wheat exporters say they anticipate no immediate wheat crisis, but the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization says the poor nations can't afford the current high prices.

"Although supplies of wheat are tight, there is certainly no crisis situation," declared Richard E. Bell, a deputy assistant U.S. secretary of agriculture.

Officials of the U.N. Food and Agriculture Organization called agricultural experts from the United States, Canada, Argentina, Australia and the nine Common Market countries together Thursday because world wheat stocks are at their lowest level in 20 years.

After the conference, FAO said even if there is enough wheat to go around, developing countries are being forced to cut their imports because of "the high prices, shortage of credit and the expected shortfall of food aid levels."

Supporting Only Food Tax Cuts

GREENSBORO (AP) — The Social Ministries Commission of the North Carolina Council of Churches says any tax cuts should not be at the expense of human needs.

The commission decided Thursday that it couldn't support any tax cutbacks except a rollback on the sales tax on food. It also called for increased spending on prisons and mental hospitals.

The commission authorized the council to become active in three new legislative areas. They are landlord-tenant legislation; impediments to employment of former prisoners; and money for poor families needing day-care services.

Greeting Cards A Mail Bonanza

NEW YORK (AP) — Americans who exchange greeting cards account for nearly 10 per cent of the 80 billion pieces of mail handled annually by the United States Postal Service, reports the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers.

The mail bonanza also represents more than 20 per cent of the 34 billion pieces of first class mail dropped into mail boxes each year.

Franz Schubert Symposium Set

VIENNA (AP) — A symposium on the different ways in which Franz Schubert's works are performed will be held here from Jan. 28 to Feb. 2, 1974.

The meeting will take place in the house where Schubert was born. Now a Schubert museum, the birthplace was acquired by the city in 1969. During the summer, concerts devoted to his works are given there.

THE STRAIGHT-UP MARTINI DRINKER. AN ENDANGERED SPECIES.

It would be a shame for America to lose its last few devoted martini purists. We should all do what we can to save them.

That's why Canada Dry makes gin and vodka especially for this vanishing breed. Gin and vodka with the dry smoothness that a straight-up martini demands. And remember, if they're good enough to please the Straight-Up Man they must be good enough to survive on the rocks.

We're doing our bit. Do yours.

Says Ordinary People Can Shape The World

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — It's a common failing, a typical trap, says Horace E. De Lisser. Ordinary people get the feeling that they by themselves can do nothing to help right the wrongs in the world, that they're too puny to try. De Lisser himself once felt that way. But no more.

"Since the beginning of recorded history, starting with Moses, God has used little people for big jobs," says De Lisser, an aging but feisty, little man. "He even uses a lone, humble little guy like me."

With that unassuming perspective, De Lisser carries on his generally ignored but determined efforts for world goodness-through-prayer. He works out of his small office in Freeport, N.Y. Despite his lack of any special status, he aims high, including overtures to top national leaders. "Whether they listen immediately or not, I know I planted the seed," he says. "And as the Bible promises, 'man sows the seed, but God gives the increase'."

De Lisser, 72, once a wealthy automobile dealer whose reverses jolted him into seeking other values, now devotes himself full time to urging his 10-point plan for a "moral and spiritual awakening and for a new nation under God."

A fine cause, many people would agree, but few see much they could do about it individually. De Lisser says they're simply immobilized by a sense of helplessness in an overwhelming environment. Yet some, like him, try anyway.

Usually unnoticed and unheard, they keep at it, untitled, unrecognized little people, writing to public officials visiting newspapers, convinced that their ideas hold the might of truth that finally will win, whatever the odds, however small their own influence.

"It's time for the little people of the world to get into action and unite in prayer," De Lisser says. "If we individuals change and stand up for principle, we can change the world."

A part of his plan is to get everyone to pause each day at noon for one minute of prayer.

"This ultimately will create the force to change the whole picture in America and the world," he said in an interview. But is it likely? "Through faith and work, it will come. It's catching on slowly, steadily among many people."

Beyond urging this personal discipline, however, De Lisser for three years has been knocking at doors of government leaders, including President Nixon, insisting they consider his pamphlet of proposals for moral rejuvenation, called "Common Sense in Our Present Crisis."

After failing to get any response through private correspondence or visits to Washington, D.C.—a typical experience of many plain people with a cause—he has begun publicly circulating his pamphlet and appeals to Nixon.

He calls on the President to repair the "sin and shame of Watergate" by launching a program to renew the moral principles that gave "our nation its greatness. I believe that you have no alternative but to readlead-or resign," De Lisser writes magisterially, despite his steady fare of rebuffs.

Four Injured In Series Of City Wrecks

Four persons were injured in a series of three traffic collisions investigated by Greenville police yesterday.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a three-vehicle mishap about 9:40 a.m. at the intersection of Tenth and Washington Streets.

Involved in the collision were cars driven by Wingate Rice Burden Jr. of Annandale, Va., and Charles Linberg Carman of 805 West Fourth St. and a parked car owned by Thomas Jefferson Dixon of Route 9, Greenville.

Police, reporting Carman and a passenger in the Burden car were injured, estimated damage at $500 to the Burden car, $400 to the Carman auto and $120 to the Dixon car.

Burden was charged with failing to stop for a stop light following investigation of the mishap.

Gail Taylor of 203 Pairs Ave. was charged with failing to yield right of way when the car she was driving collided with a vehicle operated by Faye Cates Cayton of 1705 Treemont Dr. about 8:19 a.m. at the intersection of 14th and Chestnut Streets.

Investigators, who reported a passenger in the Taylor car was injured, estimated damage at $300 to the Taylor car and $450 to the Cayton auto.

Ronald Matthews, 12, of 2105 Pendleton Dr. was reported injured when his bicycle collided with a car driven by Rodney V. Wilkins of 720 Hooker Rd. about 4:30 p.m. on Hooker Road, 252 feet North of the Millbrook Street intersection.

No charges were made by police who set damage to the two vehicles at $30 each.

McLamb Will Be Preacher

The Rev. Howard M. McLamb, district superintendent of the United Methodist Church, will be the guest preacher at the cornerstone laying service of the Holy Trinity Church, on Red Banks Road, Sunday at the 11:00 o'clock worship hour.

The Rev. McLamb is in his fourth year as district superintendent, having come to Greenville from the office of the executive director of the Conference Board of Evangelism in Raleigh where he served from 1965 to 1970.

His pastorates in the North Carolina Conference include: Fairmont Church, Raleigh; First Church, Hamlet; Davis Street, Burlington; and Jarvis Memorial, Greenville. He previously served a tenure as district superintendent of the Goldsboro District from 1964 to 1960.

He is married to the former Azile Brock of Mount Olive. They have a son and a daughter and reside at 101 Martinsborough Rd.

The public is invited to attend.

Fall Revival Wenger To Speak Series Set At Sunday Services

REV. JESSE BLALOCK

REV. FRANK BLALOCK

Fall revival services will begin Wednesday at the Saint Paul Pentecostal Holiness Church and continue through Oct. 7.

The guests speakers will be the Rev. Jesse Blalock and the Rev. Frank Blalock of Farmville. The Rev. Frank Blalock is pastor of Carson Memorial Pentecostal Holiness Church, Greenville, while his brother is an evangelist.

The services will include special singing and a nursery will be provided each evening. The services are scheduled to begin at 7:30 p.m.

Forrest L. Daniels Sr., minister of the Saint Paul Church, invites the public to attend.

Dr. Arthur D. Wenger, president of Atlantic Christian College, Wilson, will be the guest speaker at First Christian Church of Greenville Sunday for both the 9 a.m. and 11 a.m. worship services.

First Christian will be observing "Higher Education Day" in an effort to promote higher education and to give emphasis to institutions which are affiliated with the Disciples of Christ Brotherhood.

Dr. Wenger's visit will be the highlight of the occasion. Special attention will be focused on Atlantic Christian College which is North Carolina's only institution of higher learning affiliated with and supported by Disciples of Christ. Established in 1902, Atlantic Christian College has an current enrollment of 1,750.

Born in Aberdeen, Idaho, Dr. Wenger holds the B.D. degree from Brite Divinity School, Texas Christian University, and the L.L.D. from TCU. Prior to becoming president of Atlantic Christian College, he held several pastoral and educational positions within the Disciples of Christ Church and its related institutions of higher education.

DR. A. D. WENGER

The public is invited to attend the church services and a special invitation is extended to graduates or affiliates of Disciples of Christ-related institutions.

Revival Series Begins Sunday

Revival services at Wells Chapel Church of God in Christ will be conducted this week by Elder C. D. McNeil of Kinston. Elder McNeil is pastor of the Revival Center Church of God in Christ of Kinston. The services will be held Sunday of next week through the following Sunday at 8 p.m. each evening. The church is located at the corner of Fifth and Hudson Streets in Greenville. The public is invited, according to the pastor, Bishop Wyoming Wells.

Promotions At Sycamore Hill

Promotion Day for students attending Sycamore Hill Baptist Church will be held Sunday from 10:15 a.m. to 10:30 a.m.

Monty Frizzell will be the guest speaker.

Building with power

Technology is abroad in the land. Everywhere big yellow and green machines pound and churn the earth. Highways unroll, apartment complexes rise and amusement parks expand. Our children watch. They know power when they see it!

Some of our children, though, don't know about another power for building. They have not been taught to see it. It is the power of God and it also shakes and moves us. It is necessary for all men—a gigantic source of energy and strength. Take your children to church on Sunday. They will be tomorrow's builders.

November's Comet Display Predicted To Light Sky

By DALLAS LEE
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The 1973 Comet Kohoutek — if true to expectations — will far outshine the famous Halley's Comet of 1910 and do more than a moon landing to demonstrate the staggering mysteries of space.

Astronomers at the Fernbank Science Center here, like scientists at observatories around the world, are preparing to study the rare phenomena, which may be bright enough to be seen in daylight.

The Kohoutek Comet, named for the West German astronomer who discovered it last March, will appear in the pre-dawn sky late in November and remain within nighttime range to the naked eye until mid-February.

At the point of best visibility, says astronomer Bob Hayward, it could be 100 times more brilliant than the brightest star and its tail could extend in an arc as far as 60 degrees from the horizon.

Hayward said calculations by one scientist indicate that the comet is streaking toward the sun from some 279 billion miles out in space — billions of miles beyond Pluto, which is the most distant known planet in our solar system.

Its long, elliptical orbit around the sun indicates that it is part of the solar system, he said, even though astronomers predict that it will not reappear for 50,000 years if it remains within the sun's gravitational pull.

The comet will pass within 75 million miles of the earth. It will pass within 13.2 million miles of the sun on Dec. 28 and then be flung toward the far reaches of its orbit.

After Dec. 28, the comet will appear after sunset and increase in brilliance until hopefully it far exceeds the brightest stars.

The origin of such phenomena is baffling. One theory, according to Hayward's colleague Richard Williamson, is that a swarm of comets surrounds our solar system, several trillion miles from earth.

Hundreds of comets are known to men but only a few have ever been bright enough to be perceived by the naked eye. Halley's Comet, which made an astonishing display over the earth in 1910, is expected to orbit back into view in 1986.

Comets are believed to be frozen gases and other matter, said Williamson. The tails are formed as they vaporize on approach to the sun and the solar wind forces the vapor to stream out behind them.

Although the mass of the comet may only comprise about one-billionth that of the earth, the entire phenomena — from the head to the end of its fiery tail — can cover millions of square miles and actually become the largest thing in the solar system.

But while comets may be next to nothing materially, the appearance of the Kohoutek Comet is a rare and exciting opportunity for scientists.

In fact, the astronomers at Fernbank say NASA is considering a delay in the second Skylab mission so that a Skylab crew will be able to make lengthy observations of the comet in January.

"If comets are leftover material from when the solar system was formed, then we have a chance to see a piece of original matter," said Williamson. "It could help us unravel the mysteries about the origin of the earth and formation of the solar system."

But while the astronomers see the comet as an opportunity to work toward the solution of mysteries, the Kohoutek phenomena prompts even more mind-bending mysteries for the layman who seldom deals in the magnitudes of solar systems, galaxies and astronomical uits.

For example, the theory that clouds of comets lie so many trillions of miles beyond the most distant planet in the solar system leads to questions about how the solar system stacks up against the galaxy as a whole.

Imagine, said the Fernbank astronomers, that you could travel at the speed of light — 186,000 miles a second. A trip to the moon would take 1½ seconds, to the sun less than eight minutes, to the next nearest star 4½ years, said Williamson.

To cross the Milky Way Galaxy — which harbors our sun among billions of other stars — would take 100,000 years. The Andromeda Galaxy — the next nearest galaxy and only one of thousands visible through the expensive optics in earth-bound observatories — would be a trip of 2.1 million years.

Asked what astronomers think about the possibility of life on other planets, Hayward spoke in probabilities.

"If the chances are one in 10 million that there is other intelligent life in our galaxy, and if there are 100 billion stars in our galaxy, that means there could be 10,000 other intelligent civilizations," he said.

"The chances are even higher that you would have some kind of life on other planets," he said, "such as mosses and bacteria on Mars, or perhaps on Jupiter and Saturn."

Wildlife Club Is For Conservation-Minded

THE WILDLIFE CLUB . . . building is situated in a naturally landscaped cleared area of six acres. On the grounds are picnic areas, a skeet range, and a caretaker's house. (Reflector Staff Photo)

In May 1972, President Richard Nixon signed a proclamation, establishing the fourth Saturday of each September as "National Hunting and Fishing Day" in America.

With September here again, men, women and children who are advocates of hunting and fishing will once more have their day. In 1973 the occasion falls on Saturday, September 22.

Members of the local Pitt County Wildlife Club are typical of the many thousands of people throughout the country who make up the vanguard of citizens interested in wildlife, both as a source of controlled hunting and fishing, and in the conservation of flora and fauna. The old original club was established in 1945 and by 1952 had ceased to be an active force. In 1952, the Pitt County Wildlife Club was established with 15 charter members.

Today, the club has a constant membership of about 200, with representation on the list from the Outer Banks to Murphy.

Located near Falkland, a modern one-story brick building situated in a six acre cleared site serves as the club's headquarters. Here emphasis on landscaping has been focused on preserving native trees and shrubs.

Within this six acre area are picnic areas, a firing range, and a skeet range. An archery range is now in the process of being constructed.

In 1971, a large porch, which has been tagged the fellowship porch, has been added to the back of the building.

In addition, to the six acre club site, the club owns about 58 acres of wooded line adjacent to the club. A considerable part of this fronts the Tar River.

Indicative of the growing interest in the preservation of wildlife as part of the club's mission, club members not long ago had a biologist in to evaluate the extent of flora and fauna present on the club's property.

After a thorough study of the area, the report given by the biologist was that the club's property contain's practically ever form of flora and fauna to be found in eastern North Carolina. In addition, the area also has mountain laurel and a few other plants usually not found in this area.

Two Will Serve SBA Council

William E. Dansey Jr. and H. Franklin (Frank) Steinbeck, both of Greenville, have been appointed to serve on the District Advisory Council of the Small Business Administration by Thomas S. Kleppe, administrator of the agency.

Dansey is the owner of the W. E. Dansey Company in Greenville. Steinbeck is president of the Steinbeck Men's Shops in Greenville and New Bern.

The men will take part in the semi-annual meetings where the needs of the local small business community are discussed and the means by which the SBA can help meet those needs.

Dansey, a native of Hampton, Va. and a graduate of East Carolina College, has served as United Fund Chairman, City Councilman, received the 1973 Jaycee Distinguished Service Award, the 1972-73 N. C. Jaycee Freedom Guard winner, and is the First District Republican Chairman.

Steinbeck is a native Canadian and studied at Columbia University before going into business for himself.

He has served Greenville as a District Lay Leader for the Greenville District of the United Methodist Church, Executive Council of the East Carolina Council of the boy Scouts, Methodist Church of North Carolina Laity Board, Trustee of the Methodist Children's Home; and is a charger member of the St. James United Methodist Church.

Consider 2nd Ramseur Bank

RALEIGH (AP)—The state Banking Commission has taken under consideration the application of the Carolina Bank at Sanford to establish a branch in the town of Ramseur where the Bank of Coleridge holds forth alone.

At a hearing Thursday, Carolina Bank told the commission it wanted to provide competitive banking for Ramseur, a town of 1,300.

Inmate Escapes At AA Meeting

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina prison authorities are still looking for an inmate who disappeared into a men's room while attending an Alcoholics Anonymous meeting Sept. 13 and hasn't been seen since.

Superintendent Lewis Powell of the North Central Correctional Center said Robert Littleton, 41, of Kenly was taken to the AA meeting with four other inmates.

Littleton, who was serving 18 to 20 years for second degree murder, asked for permission to go to the men's room and failed to return.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 22, 1973

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is a time to take no chances in any way whether with people or with impersonal conditions. Later you are able to contact influential persons and work out a satisfactory arrangement for the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle any home affairs early so that you can go out for the recreation you desire with good results following. Don't permit others to lead you into spending more money than you can afford.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Smooth out affairs at home in a most tactful way and more harmony reigns for the days ahead. A new outlet is best started in the afternoon. Entertaining at home tonight can be pleasant.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Morning is not a good time for communicating successfully with others, so keep busy at small tasks at hand. Later is fine for shopping, engaging in favorite activities and having fun.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Relegate financial affairs to the afternoon since you are not thinking very clearly during the morning. Obtain the advice you need from a business expert. Evening is pleasurable.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you are forceful with others during the morning, you could alienate good friends. By using tact you get more cooperation. Take advantage of a good opportunity that comes your way.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Study what your true position is with others and then take the right steps to make improvements. Use more up-to-date methods for handling your problems. Strive for more harmony with friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Your friends are apt to be pretty busy in the morning so get in touch with them later. Try not to involve yourself too much in the problems of others. Give advice only when asked.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Morning is not a good time to talk over affairs with higher-ups, so be sure to relegate this to the latter part of the day. Handle civic matters in a precise way. This will pay off.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Some new venture or trip is best started in the afternoon so take it easy in the morning and be courteous with everyone. Do not follow the ideas of a new contact. Use own ideas.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have obligations to fulfill and should get an early start on them, but do so tactfully. Your mate could be in a bad mood in the morning so exercise patience. Strive for happiness.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) A demanding associate wants you to do something you do not like in the morning but if you stall for time, you find the mood changes. Stay with good friends for an evening of enjoyment.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Although you think you have too much to do, if you get an early start your duties will be behind you quickly. Plan time for buying new apparel. Make a wonderful impression on others tonight.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those delightful young people who early in life will need much discipline, otherwise your progeny could get into a heap of trouble. Later a fine, stable individual emerges. There can be a fine career here, especially working with the public in general. Teach early to smile more.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets lower Thursday.

Sullies irregular, demand good.

Weighted prices for small lots sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: grade a large whites: 74.73, medium whites: 67.72, small whites: 50.43.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hogs are mostly steady with instances of $1.50 higher today. Prices ranged from 39.50-44.00. Tops of 42.50-43.50 at Kinston, New Bern, Benson and Lumberton; 42.00-42.50 Rocky Mount; 41.00-41.50 Tarboro and Bethel; 39.50-41.50 Wilson and High Falls; 44.00 Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Elizabethtown, Pink Hill, Pine Level, Chadbourn, Ayden and Laurinburg; 41.50 Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina f.o.b. dock broilers: Prices steady today. Supplies ample, demand only fair and weights desirable.

North Carolina hens: Market tone continued weak for next week. Supplies of heavy type fully adequate and demand fair to good. Heavies, at farm, 26 cents.

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock prices were mixed today in fairly light trading, and brokers said the market was taking a rest after its two-day rally.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, which had added nearly 30 points in heavy trading in the last two sessions, was off 2.78 points to 917.75 at 11:30 a.m. Advances led declines by a narrow margin on the New York Stock Exchange. The broad-based NYSE index of some 1,500 common stocks was off .20 at 57.24 at 11 a.m.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index was off .20 at 102.09 at 11 a.m.

In other news, the Federal Reserve Board disclosed Thursday an unexpected purchase of $150 million of Treasury bills, a move which may encourage lower interest rates, analysts said.

TRW, Inc., was the Big Board volume leader, up 1/4 at 24 1/2, followed by Viacom International, down 1/2 at 8 1/2. TTT fell 1/2 at 35 1/2; Pan American was off 1/4 at 5 1/2; and Fannie Mae lost 1/4 at 21 1/2.

Britons Now Used To Bomb Warnings

By HUGH A. MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent
LONDON (AP)—On station blackboards usually devoted to announcements of late train cancellations, sudden strikes and track repairs, British commuters have grown accustomed to a more dire message:

"POLICE WARNING: Letter and Parcel Bombs. Please take care opening your mail. If in doubt contact police. Do not touch anything that looks suspicious."

On mornings after a big bomb, like the one that went off Thursday at an army barracks in Chelsea, the warning is blared from loudspeaker trucks parked outside the main railroad stations and repeated every half hour on radio and television.

Since the start Aug. 18 of the current spate of bombings, people whose job it is to sort the mail and look after packages have become understandably cautious. And jumpy, which the police regard as a good sign that their campaign to alert the public is taking hold. There have been more than 50 bombing incidents, many of them involving letter bombs.

By the second mail delivery on Thursday afternoon, more than 150 office workers had dialed 999 to advise Scotland Yard about a suspicious looking envelope, usually about the size of a paperback book but sometimes more on the order of a box of chocolates, with a Paris or Dublin postmark.

No new bombs were found. But all day long the white police Land Rovers, each manned by an army bomb disposal expert and a detective inspector, went blaring across the city almost unnoticed in the bright September sunshine.

London is learning to live with the new menace by mail, facing the situation with customary British calm and unflappability. The outrage is there all right, like violence after a Saturday soccer match or a particularly disastrous train wreck. But nothing to lose one's cool over, old chap.

Shoppers in droves still inch their way along Oxford Street, even if they tend to tarry less over the bargain tables and avoid the upstairs tearooms in the big stores for fear of being trapped in an elevator. But it isn't like Belfast, where you enter a shop through an army checkpoint behind sandbags and barbed wire and submit to a search.

The Bank of England and the Stock Exchange had bomb blasts a while back. But the only panic observable among the men with the bowler hats hurrying through the narrow lanes of the financial district is over the state of the pound and the dollar.

Obituaries

Fisher

WINTERVILLE—Mrs. Mamie Lee Hines Fisher died suddenly Thursday at her home here.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday at 4 p.m. at Good Hope Free Will Baptist Church by Bishop Isaac Ryals. Burial will be in the Winterville Cemetery.

Mrs. Fisher was a lifelong resident of the Winterville community.

Surviving her are a daughter, Mrs. Betty Barnes of Greenville; three sons, Tony and James Earl Hines of Winterville, and Edward Hines of Wilson; her mother, Mrs. Ella Waller of Winterville; eight grandchildren; five sisters, Miss Lillie Waller, Mrs. Annie Belle Daniels, Mrs. Lina Green, Mrs. Emma J. Henderson, and Miss Shirley Waller, all of Winterville; two brothers, Alex Waller of Hertford and Jarvis Waller of Virginia. The body will be at Flanagan and Parker Funeral until it is taken to the church one hour before the service. Family visitation will be from 8 to 9 p.m. Sunday.

Gibbs

Mr. Edward M. Gibbs, 59, resident of 115 Fairlane Road, died Monday afternoon in Pitt Memorial Hospital.

The funeral service will be conducted at 11 a.m. Saturday in the Wilkerson Funeral Chapel by Rev. Gerald Peterson, assistant minister of St. James United Methodist Church, and Dr. Ray Silverthorne of Washington, N.C. Burial will be in Oakdale Cemetery in Washington.

Mr. Gibbs, a native of Beaufort County, had been a resident of Greenville since 1940. He formerly owned and operated the E.M. Gibbs Insurance and Real Estate Agency and was associated with the E.M. Gibbs Construction Co. for several years. He was a former member of the Greenville Lions Club, a member of the Greenville Elks Lodge and of St. James United Methodist Church.

An appeals court decision is expected by Oct. 1, when the Supreme Court returns from its summer recess.

Whatever ruling comes from the appeals court is expected to be appealed to the Supreme Court.

In nearly identical letters, Cox and Charles Alan Wright, White House consultant for the tapes case, told the appeals court that they had failed to reach a compromise in three meetings this week.

The court has before it appeals by both the President and Cox from U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica's order that he be given the tapes to determine whether the President's claim that they must be kept secret is valid.

Christine Always 'Felt Different'

By SUSAN PRICE
Reflector Staff Writer

"I feel like I'm beginning to look old and I don't feel old, so I'm going to have a face lift. I believe in that sort of thing."

And that simple statement sums up Christine Jorgensen's philosophy toward her sex change.

Miss Jorgensen spoke last night to a crowd of about 2,000 in the opener of the East Carolina University Lecture series.

Rudolph Alexander, Assistant Dean of Student Affairs, said the crowd is one of the largest ever for a lecture series performance.

The 47-year-old woman was born a male and had a sex change at the age of 24, and has been in the headlines ever since.

She is well read and is a guest frequently on television talk shows and is an entertainer.

Miss Jorgensen said she always felt that she was different, even in her youth; in fact, from the time she began to form a personality.

But her problem was not homosexuality, as most people would think, but a problem of transsexuals.

The answer for Miss Jorgensen, and one she advocates to anyone with such a problem, is to change the body to fit the frame of mind. She always thought and felt things as a woman and so decided that that is what she must be.

Miss Jorgensen said her first realization that something could be done about her problem came with a book called the Male Hormone which dealt with hormone problems and differences between the male and female.

She was the object of research when she decided to go to Denmark to find out what could be done about her problem. And after three years of research and surgery, George Jorgensen became Christine Jorgensen.

And so began her new way of life.

She didn't plan to have the story leaked to the public, but a public disclosure was made to a newspaper against her wishes. She at first hated the invasion of her privacy, and still does for that matter, but now accepts it as her way of life.

And Miss Jorgensen feels that the news of her operation was the beginning of a sexual revolution in the United States.

She revealed that 40 clinics and hospitals now work on transsexual problems and that probably thousands of people have changed sex.

"These are things you do for yourself. We are born alone, we live alone and we share many moments, but no one can do these things for you."

Her story is available to all. She wrote her story and it is called Christine, which was later made into a movie now called The Christine Jorgensen Story.

Farmville Mart Prices Steady

FARMVILLE—Approximately 75 per cent of yesterday's sales on the Farmville Tobacco Market were leaf grades, market sales supervisor Louis Williams reported today.

According to Williams, offerings of cutters and lugs were heavier than any day this week, with primings and nondescript grades accounting for only a small per centage of sales.

Prices on all grades, Williams said, remained steady with the exception of some cutter grades which were $1 to $2 per 100 pounds stronger than on Wednesday.

The Farmville market yesterday sold 445,639 pounds of tobacco for $414,565.46 for an average of $93.03 per hundred weight.

Season totals indicate the market has sold 8,741,784 pounds for $8,135,115.01 for an $88.54 average per hundred pounds.

Mrs. McAdams To Head Pitt Alumni Drive

GREENSBORO—Mrs. Larry W. McAdams of Greenville has been appointed chairman for Pitt County for the 1973-74 Alumni Annual Giving Program of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro.

Mrs. McAdams resides at 207 Cherrywood Dr.

The appointment was announced today by Miss Ruth Wilson of Raleigh, chairman of the Alumni Annual Giving Council.

Mrs. McAdams and other UNC-G alumni leaders in the county will set up organizations to assist in this year's Alumni Annual Giving Program.

There are 173 UNC-G alumni living in Pitt County.

Arrest Man On Shooting Count

A Pitt County man, living near the Craven County line on N. C. 43 South of Greenville, was arrested by Highway Patrolmen last night on charges of feloniously assaulting an officer with a firearm.

Patrol Sgt. D. C. Cockerham, who investigated the incident said Samuel Carrow Jr., 38, of Route 1, Vanceboro, was arrested after allegedly firing a .22 caliber rifle at Trooper J. W. Brooks of Grifton, about 10:45 p.m.

According to Sgt. Cockerham, Trooper Brooks, patrolling along N.C. 43, located a pickup truck—undamaged—in a roadside ditch and recognized the vehicle as belonging to Carrow. The officer then drove a short distance to the Carrow resident, the sergeant reported.

As he drove past the home, Sgt. Cockerham said, Trooper Brooks heard someone call to him. The officer then pulled to the shoulder of the highway and started to make a turn in the roadway. As the lights of his turning car flashed toward the Carrow house, the officer saw "a subject aiming a rifle in his direction and saw the muzzle flash as the rifle went off," the Patrol sergeant reported.

Trooper Brooks then drove about 100 yards away from the Carrow home and summoned assistance, according to the sergeant.

About the time the officers arrive, Sgt. Cockerham explained, "the subject came muzz on the road. He was not armed at this time, and was arrested without incident."

The officer emphasized that neither Brooks nor his patrol car were struck during the shooting.

Bucs Seek Second Win Against Salukis

Defensive End Buddy Lowery

Kenny Moore Has His Goals

Kenny Moore is a softspoken young man with a goal. He is polite and reserved to such a degree that, on first impression, one might be tempted to believe Moore's dream is to become a Quaker minister.

The strapping country boy is so gentle, in fact, that he wouldn't hurt a fly—unless, of course, that fly had on a football jersey any color other than purple or gold.

"I set a goal before the season started," said the 235-pound defensive tackle for East Carolina's defending Southern Conference champions. "I made up my mind I wanted to make the all conference team."

Being the quiet type, Moore decided to reach his goal with actions instead of words.

After a "pretty good" performance in a losing cause at N.C. State, Moore traveled to Southern Mississippi last Saturday and anchored ECU's defensive line in one of its finest hours.

The Harrels, N.C., native ("It has a population of 300, but actually I live outside the city limits.") has eight tackles, six assists and made a crucial fumble recovery as the "Wild Dogs" held the Golden Eagles to 39 rushing yards.

"The man guarding me was bigger and stronger than anybody I've faced. But I was able to get in a good lick and go around him because I was quicker."

Moore was quick alright! Quick enough to personally escort the USM quarterback to the Hattiesburg turf four times

$75,253 Profit Shown By GGO

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—The rain-plagued 36th Greater Greensboro Open golf tournament last April made a profit of $75,253, according to an announcement by the sponsoring Greensboro Jaycees.

Tournament Chairman Steve Brodie released the figure Thursday.

A veteran defense and a sophomore-dominated offense will go up against the East Carolina University Pirates in their third game of the season Saturday night.

But Bucs go into the game after their outstanding victory over Southern Mississippi, 13-0, while Southern Illinois' Salukis come in after a 34-28 loss to tough Northern Illinois in their opener.

And despite the loss, the Salukis rank as a much tougher team than was first thought.

Offensively, the Salukis put up five sophomores, three juniors, two seniors and a freshman on their depth chart's first team for Saturday night's 8:30 p.m. (EDT) game. Only four of those, the two seniors, one junior and one sophomore, have earned letters.

Defensively, however, it's a different story. There are six seniors and five juniors on the team. All six seniors lettered, as did two of the juniors, giving Southern Illinois plenty of experience.

The meeting of these two teams will be the sixth. East Carolina has won three of those, including last year's meeting in Greenville, 16-0.

Southern nearly pulled out a victory in the game against Northern Illinois, ranked by some as among the best in the country. They turned a busted play on a field goal attempt into a 7-0 lead in the first period, but fell behind as time went on. They put forth a fine rally in the final period, coming back to trail by the final margin, and having the ball at midfield with two minutes left. But they fumbled away their chance and Northern held on for the victory.

Southern put together a well-balanced attack to put up 297 yards in offense in the game, running for 187 and passing for 110. Tailback Larry Perkins, listed as the second stringer for Saturday, was the leading ground gainer with 56 yards, while number two quarterback Dennis O'Boyle ran for 54. He, however, is listed as questionable for the game because of an injury. First string tailback, freshman Melvin Moncrief followed with 43 yards and 14 carries, tops on the team. Fullback Steve Weathersby finished with 33 yards.

Through the air, quarterback Fred McAlley hit on five of 11 for 62 yards, while Perkins hit a tailback pass for 36 yards. The top receiver was split end Bruce Puhr, who caught three for 66 yards.

Perkins also ranks as a dangerous man in the open field. On kickoffs last week, he broke away for runs of 56 and 24 yards, while Moncrief ran two back for 45 yards. Bruck Corbin, who is keep on punts ran three back for a total of 55 yards.

McAlley, who didn't do any running against Northern, was hampered by a pre-season ankle injury and was purposely told not to run. This week, however, he's been turned loose to scramble with the ball.

The Pirates go into the game after what Coach Sonny Randle termed "one of our greatest especially after the week before."

Randle termed the team's effort unbelievable. "We changed some things during the week, and we went after it in a different manner. We wanted to bring out some enthusiasm and we feel we did."

During that week prior to Southern Mississippi, Randle made several lineup changes, and going into the final drills before Southern Illinois, he feels that they have paid off well. "The people we played did a heck of a job for us," he said.

The Pirates go into the game in good physical condition, missing only Butch Strawderman, a linebacker who missed the first two games. He is expected to be ready to play against Furman in next week's home opener.

Randle feels that there is not a great deal of comparison between Southern Illinois and Southern Mississippi, but that doesn't mean that Saturday's game is an automatic victory.

"If we put forth an effort like we did last Saturday, nobody is going to beat us," Randle said. "But we can't believe that we're going to get the same effort every week. It just doesn't happen that way."

Southern Illinois, according to Randle is a relatively young team, even though they have a lot of upperclassmen on defense. "They are a lot different from the team we beat last year," he said. "They certainly play with a lot of enthusiasm, and they act like they enjoy playing. I'm sure they feel strongly that they can beat us. They'll certainly pull out all stops to try to win."

Randle noted that the Salukis have taken a lot of skill people and put them on the offensive unit, and for this reason, he believes the offense is stronger than the defense. "I didn't think they'd score that much against Northern Illinois, so that shows that their offense is a lot stronger than we had anticipated. It'll be hard to keep them off the boards."

Southern also has exceptional speed on the team, and likes to go outside.

Another factor in the game is that Southern has an artificial playing surface, and this will be the first time that East Carolina has played on such a field since facing West Virginia in 1971. "I don't think that it'll be much of a factor, however," Randle said.

Nevertheless, the Pirates certainly would like to pick up another victory prior to their first Southern Conference game, and their home debut, set next Saturday night in Ficklen Stadium against Furman.

Kinston Tonight

Rose High School's Rampants seek to get back on the winning track tonight as they play host to the Kinston Vikings.

Rose goes into their third game of the year with a 1-1-1 record, while the Vikings are 1-1, having snapped a 13-game losing streak last week by downing Enloe.

Game time will be 7:30 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium.

Hunter Is Doing Well

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—Greenville's Al Hunter, only three weeks into his collegiate career, and facing his first game this Saturday, has already found the eye of Notre Dame coach Ara Parseghian.

Hunter, who was one of the most sought-after running back in the country last year, rushed for over 1,200 yards in his senior season.

"He's the number two half-back," Assistant Sports Information Director Bob Best said. "And that's very good at this stage. He's only been up here three weeks."

Best also said that Hunter would be one of the double safeties back for kickoffs when the Irish take the field against Northwestern Saturday afternoon.

"He has been doing real well," Best said. "Ara is quite high on him and feels he will be a top player once he really learns our system."

Rose Jayvees Defeat Kinston

KINSTON—The Rose High Jayvees won their second straight game of the season here Thursday as they toppled Kinston 16-6.

The Jayvees grabbed a second quarter lead as Jay Chenier tossed a 17-yard scoring strike to Andrew Newton. Chenier then passed to Jeff Barber for the two-point conversion and the 8-0 lead.

Kinston came back in the third quarter to score as quarterback Robert Brumcati broke loose on a 55-yard run. The conversion attempt failed and Kinston trailed by two.

The visitors added to the margin in the fourth quarter when halfback Andrew Newton, who gained 155 yards in 29 carries for the Rose squad, scored on a one-yard run. The try for the conversion failed and Rose led 14-6.

Rose iced the game minutes later when Curtis Keys tackled Brumcati in the end zone for a two-point safety and the final 16-6 margin.

Coach Bud Phillips singled out Newton for his offensive showing and Barber for his punting during the game.

The Jayvees entertain the Jacksonville Junior Varsity next Thursday.

East Carolina Favorite Of Poll

Yes, sir, I gotta do something about getting all those high school games on the poll.

Last week's results didn't do a lot to anybody's ego on the poll, although everyone was quite satisfied to miss the East Carolina-Southern Mississippi game.

And if there was a log-jam last week, there is even more of one this week. The difference in first to last is a mere one game. And guess who is in last place.

Thank goodness it is only by one game, although it's getting so even that is tough to overcome, and some of the long shots I'm getting with this week may tend to push me down even further.

All of the group, except for this writer, are deadlocked with 17-7 records. Then comes me, 16-8. Neither are marks to be especially proud of.

In the high school games, excluding Rose, the record is intact, however. We haven't missed one yet.

Let's see if we can keep that going.

Conley visits Ayden-Grifton in the first cross-county meeting of the year. The Chargers flexed their muscles last week, while Conley picked up its first win. Ayden-Grifton must stop Willie Hawkins. Conley must stop the whole Charger offense. Ayden-Grifton, naturally.

Farmville Central travels to Southern Nash as the Jaguars seek their second league win. The Jaguars weren't improved according to their coach, but they won last week. Southern got badly mauled by Greene Central and this is a toss-up. We'll stick with Farmville Central.

Robersonville goes to Plymouth, seeking to snap back from a hard loss to Williamston. The Eagles will find it tough here too; meeting another 3-A team. We hate to do it, we'll pick Plymouth.

Willie Announces End Of Playing

NEW YORK (AP) — As it must for all men, age has caught up at last with Willie Mays.

In a press conference that wasn't as emotional as he thought it would be, Mays announced Thursday that he would end his active playing career at the conclusion of this season. "You just can't play at 42 the way you did at 20," he admitted.

At 20, Mays was a fleet center fielder who often outran fly balls and set a standard of fielding and hitting that has rarely been matched. At 42, he has struggled through his final season, troubled by a series of nagging injuries and limping along with a distinctly unMays-like .211 batting average.

"I've had a love affair with baseball," said Mays. It was an affair that started on the sandlots of Fairfield, Alabama, developed in baseball's Negro Leagues at Birmingham and flourished in the majors with the Giants in New York and San Francisco and finally was allowed to diminish gracefully for the last two seasons with the New York Mets.

"I thought I'd be crying now," Mays told a packed Shea Stadium press conference. "Maybe I'll cry tomorrow or the next day, but not today. I've got too many friends in this room to feel sad."

It is baseball which should be sad. The departure of Mays robs the game of one of its most colorful figures, a classic superstar who could do everything. "No one has the idea he's a superstar," said Mays. "When I left Birmingham, I knew I could play baseball. I consider myself a complete ballplayer."

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

Williamston goes to Murfreesboro to meet a former Albemarle Conference foe. Dink Mills has the Tigers moving now, and Murfreesboro should not present any problem to them.

North Pitt goes to Eastern Wayne, trying to get things going. Eastern will be coming off their second straight loss, and many feel they aren't that bad. They'll find out Friday, and we pick Eastern.

Finally, Greene Central goes to Southern Wayne. The Saints must win this to have a chance to get back in the race, while Greene Central must win the stay deadlocked with Ayden-Grifton. It should be another fine game, but the Rams should win.

Now to the poll results:

First, Rose will be entertaining Kinston. The Vikings snapped a 13-game losing streak last week, while Rose was losing its first game of the year in New Bern. This week's game has a lot of physiological background to it. The Vikings are hungry, but then so should be the Rampants. Our poll picks Rose to be the winner, by a 5-1 advantage. The lone Kinston vote is mine, and I hope I'm wrong.

East Carolina this week finds itself in a unanimous situation for the third straight week. The first two weeks, however, they were picked to lose. This week, there is not a sole on the panel that doesn't believe the Pirates can win it.

The whole poll:

Only Bridge-Jumping Is Left For Bobby Riggs

By MICHAEL A. LUTZ

Associated Press Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — Bobby Riggs' next big spectacle may be a leap off Suicide Bridge in Pasadena, Calif., while Billie Jean King is just happy to have made a spectacle of the 55-year-old hustler and to have won $200,000 to boot.

Screaming, delirious women-slibbers lit up more brightly than the rocket-shooting Astro-dome scoreboard Thursday night when Mrs. King showed the devastating swiftness that won her five Wimbledon titles in defeating self-proclaimed male chauvinist Riggs, 6-4, 6-3, 6-3 in the internationally televised battle of the sexes tennis extravaganza.

"Bobby Riggs has just been flushed down the toilet," shouted women's pro tour member Madeline Regal of Sweden after Mrs. King's straight sets victory before 30,472 Astrodome fans and millions more TV viewers.

Mrs. King, one of the most decorated warriors for equal women's rights on the pro tennis circuit, said she had waited 18 years for this match with Riggs.

"Ever since the day when I was 11 years old and wasn't allowed in a photo because I didn't have a tennis skirt on, I knew then that I wanted to change the sport," the 29-year-old Mrs. King said.

Riggs, who claimed he would set women's tennis back 20 years against Billie Jean, looked every bit his age after the match. Riggs appeared to tire as early as the first set and had trouble getting his first serve going.

Nor could Riggs, the aging 1939 Wimbledon singles champion, match Mrs. King's continual strong ground shots, which never let up.

Riggs was so sure of victory, he had vowed he would jump off the Pasadena Bridge or the London Bridge in Arizona if he lost.

It was a $100,000 winner-take-all match, but television and other rights were expected to boost the winner's share to about $200,000 and give the loser about $100,000.

Despite his constant barrage of criticism against women's tennis, Riggs was a gracious loser.

"What happened?" Riggs asked. "Billie Jean was just too strong for me. She was too quick in the exchanges. I thought I had her out of court many times but she made the shots."

"I never felt better. I felt great warming up. I didn't have a good day serving but she didn't get any breaks. If anybody got the breaks it was me."

Mrs. King didn't budge an inch during the match and she also held her own with Riggs' pre-match gimmickery. Mrs. King made her entrance on a carriage, borne by four muscular males like a reigning Egyptian queen.

Looking For A Franchise Site

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A representative of the National Football League inspected Charlotte Thursday as a possible site for a franchise, and then left to do the same in Winston-Salem.

He is Joe Grippo, whose firm, the Stanford Institute of Seattle, has been hired by the NFL to survey 24 cities.

Grippo talks with planning departments, city officials, highway engineers and the man in the street. "We try to fit the pieces together regarding economics, enthusiasm and growth," he said.

RESIGNING

CLEVELAND (AP) — Rocky Colavito, first base coach for the Cleveland Indians of the American League for the past year, has announced he will resign the post at the end of the current season.

First 4 In Hall Of Fame

Four outstanding North Carolina athletes will be installed in the North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame on December 4 in Greenville, it was announced today.

Co-chairman Reynolds May, and W. M. "Booger" Scales announced that the annual banquet will be held in Minges Coliseum on the East Carolina University campus, with activities starting at 6 p.m.

Installed into the hall this year will be the major league pitching combination of Gaylord and Jim Perry, of the Cleveland Indians and Detroit Tigers, respectively; NASCAR driver Richard Petty, and track star Chuck Simmons.

The banquet will be the first of the series of Hall of Fame inductions held east of Raleigh, and some 800 to 1,000 people are expected to attend. Billy Joe Patton of Morganton will preside at the installation, while Woody Durham, sports director of WFMV-TV, Greensboro, will serve as master of ceremonies.

Beetle Is Killing Southern Pines At A Record Rate

By GEORGE STEIN
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — From the great yellow pine forests on the piedmont of Appalachia to Mississippi, Arkansas and Texas, a small beetle is killing trees at a record rate, a spokesman for the U.S. Forest Service (USFS) says.

Three-quarters of the susceptible commercial pine forests in the South, covering an area of 78 million acres — roughly the size of New Mexico — are now involved in an unprecedented outbreak of the southern pine beetle, according to the Forest Pest Management division of the USFS regional bureau in Atlanta.

A spokesman for the USFS said about five per cent of the threatened 78 million acres — or 3.9 million acres — would be severely damaged by the beetle infestation.

A Sept. 12 USFS report on the status of the outbreak said: "Beetle infestations have increased significantly in South Carolina, Georgia, Alabama and Mississippi. The U.S. Forest Service anticipates no general collapse of the outbreak in the near future."

Wood loss estimates because of the beetle have roughly doubled during the last two years. For the 12-month period beginning in June, the USFS estimates that 580.5 million board feet or 707,500 cords of pine will be lost because of beetle damage.

The beetle, about one-eighth inch long at maturity, first attacks a damaged or unhealthy yellow pine, burrowing between the outer bark and the wood.

What kills the tree is the multitude of winding galleries chewed out by the beetle, thus interfering with sap flow. And if the galleries are not sufficient, often the blue stain fungus carried by the dark reddish brown beetle completes the process of plugging the tree's conductive tissue.

The pine tree responds to individual attacks by production of resin or pitch when can drive back the beetle if the flow is continuous or copious.

What makes the southern pine beetle so dangerous is its ability to identify weak trees, and attack en masse, sometimes thousands of beetle to a single tree.

The mass attack can kill the tree quickly, preventing a sustained resin flow.

Once the beetle has infested a weak tree, the next generation may emerge in ten fold numbers to overwhelm healthy trees.

During a single season, the beetle may go through four to seven generations. By November, beetle activity usually comes to a standstill, and severe winter cold can kill the beetles in trees. Forest pest management texts advise such prevented measures, as culling weak trees, thinning overly dense stands of pine, and operating carefully with logging equipment.

Once a beetle attack has passed from low level to epidemic proportions, three main methods of beetle suppression come into play:

—Timber salvage operations which involve harvesting the dead or dying trees, plus all within a 50-100 foot border area of the infestation.

—Cut and burn operations, where it is impractical to bring out the timber, otherwise the same as the salvage operations.

—Spraying infested trees with pesticides.

The Associated Press polled forest management officials and industry spokesmen in the ten states affected—Alabama, Arkansas, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee, Texas and Virginia—on methods used to control the beetle outbreak.

Where feasible, the preferred method of control is the timber salvage operations. Least preferred is the use of pesticides.

In Virginia, the main method of dealing with the beetle is the salvage operation, but another experimental method is being tried.

J. D. Artman, assistant of the Virginia Division of Forestry, said a synthesized bark beetle attractant is put on a tree to draw as many beetles as possible in a particular area to the "baited tree."

Artman said the tree is then treated with a pesticide that kills the beetle and the developing brood.

This approach is in line with current research on bark beetle pheromone compounds, said Dr. Ching Tsao, associate professor of entomology at the University of Georgia.

H. L. Person, an early researcher in the field, hypothesized in 1931 that the bark beetles were attracted to weak trees by the smell of abnormal enzyme activity.

Once a few beetle attacks are made on a tree, beetles produce a volatile compound which attracts other beetles, experiments have shown.

Several pheromone compounds which have been isolated from the bark beetle and later synthesized have been able to attract many southern pine beetles in the area, experimental data shows.

A side benefit of one pheromone, frontalin, was discovered in 1969 when it was found that the chief predator of the southern pine beetle also was attracted by it, and arrived on the target tree at the same time the pine beetle did.

In Alabama, a state which reported 8,500 spots of infestation, a spokesman for the Southern Kraft Division of International Paper Company in Mobile said the company was cooperating with private landowners by salvaging and purchasing their infested timber.

In Texas, where 9.7 million acres are infested, Dr. Pierre Vote of the Boyce Thompson Research Institute at Beaumont says salvaging accounted for 45-50 per cent of beetle countermeasures, and 40 per cent of the trees are cut down in place.

The Mississippi Director of Insect Disease Control, Charles Green, estimated that 2½ per cent of the 68,000 trees treated between October, 1972 and June 30, 1973 were treated with pesticides, and the rest salvaged.

Since aerial surveys taken before and after salvage operations showed a 50 per cent decrease in the number of infestations, Green said, he thought the effort was making headway.

South Carolina State Forester John R. Tiller estimated possible damage in the state at $12 million affecting 122 million board feet of timber. Salvage operations are underway in 20 of the state's 46 counties.

In Georgia, Gov. Jimmy Carter has declared seven northeast counties official disaster areas because of the beetle.

The biggest problem in Georgia salvage operations, State Forestry Commission Director Ray Shirley said, was a labor shortage for salvage operations.

Except for the Cherokee National Forests, the beetle was not numerous in Tennessee. Charlie Aulds, silviculturist in charge of stopping the beetle for the forest's Tennessee districts, said the problem there was epidemic. Although salvage problems have kept the beetle restricted, he said, "it has the terrific possibility of spreading and getting much worse." In Arkansas, a state forestry commission official said the insect could be stopped before spreading, although 75,000 board feet of pine was salvaged in August.

In North Carolina, where damage is expected to reach 29 million board feet, a spokesman for the state forest service said 32 of the state's 100 counties are affected. The main countermeasure, he said, was to cut out affected trees and destroy them.

The USFS report concluded that the cost of southern pine beetle suppression project proposals for state and federal projects is expected to exceed $2 million in fiscal year 1974.

The 'Worry Clinic'

Driven Into A Platonic Role

Jacqueline's unintentional sexual dominance is driving her husband into a platonic role in the boudoir. So she should let him use the booklet below to restore his ego and make her purr contentedly. Dr. Spoof's permissive education is producing an American matriarchy!

"He is starting to drink to excess and is very caustic and hypercritical of me."
"Dr. Jack Davis has a clinic here in which he deals with marriage cases."
"And he thinks Women's Liberation Movement is driving more men into a platonic role, just by making the women more assertive."

"For the more dominant and successful is the wife, the more her mate tends to lose his virility. Is that true?"

Paging Shakespeare
The most clever Applied physiologist since Christ was William Shakespeare.
And in his "Taming of the Shrew," he neatly outlined the solution to Women's Libbers.
In more modern times, the comic strip "Maggie and Jiggs" likewise shows the perennial problem of marital dominance vs. submissiveness.
Alas, the subconscious craving by the normal women to be erotically mastered, often boomerangs.

Wifely nagging is thus a universal weapon of women to make their chronically acquiescent husbands assert their dominance in the boudoir.
Maggie thus nags Jiggs, subconsciously hoping that she can thus change him from a eunuchoid mouse into an erotic lion.
Same was true of the heroine in Shakespeare's "Taming of the Shrew."
For the most shrewish wife or most vocal women's Libber will change from a scratching, clawing "wildcat" and purr as a happy boudoir kitten, IF.
And that "IF" means, IF her mate shows her who is lord and master of their marital bed!
The usual husband will let his wife run the house and train the children.
Like the Indian brave, he may even let her support the family.
But just as the usual virile

Indian brave would not let his squaw invade his realm of hunting, so the virile modern husband doesn't let his wife dominate the boudoir.
Alas, many husbands are now being emasculated via cigarettes and possibly the female hormones fed to chickens and cattle to tenderize their meat.
The modern, submissive type of education, advocated by Dr. Spoof and many effeminate clergymen, has also tried to mold the modern male into a semi-female, as attested by the zooming homosexual population.
But virile males will always dominate!
For they radiate an aura that fascinates women, since such males were created to attract females, much as free hydrogen and oxygen automatically attract as per the chemical laws of this universe.

stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents and learn how to make your wife purr!
(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)
Studies of Mars indicate the planet's dust consists of minerals that include about 60 per cent silicon dioxide, a concentration close to the average for earth's crust.

The chipmunk, in some dry western regions, has learned to go without water for months at a time.

Hotel-Motel Operations To Be Taught

Pitt Technical Institute will sponsor a 30-hour course in "Hotel-Motel Front Office Operation" beginning Oct. 1 at 7 p.m.
The class will meet each Monday and Wednesday from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. in room 10 for 10 consecutive sessions.
The course is one of a 10-course series program in Hotel-Motel Management. Upon satisfactory completion of all 10 courses (300 hours), one will receive a Pitt Technical Institute certificate.

Cost of each 30-hour course is $2.
The course introduced a person to the basic and principles of the front office. There is study and discussion relating to human relations, roles and functions of the office staff, forms and procedures used from check-in and check-out, legal aspects of innkeeping and front office salesmanship.
Interested persons should attend the first meeting.

JUBILEE MEDAL
MOSCOW (AP)—Princess Shams Pahlavi, sister of the Shah of Iran, has been awarded a jubilee medal marking the 50th anniversary of the Soviet Union as a token of "respect and friendship."

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE Y-523: Jacqueline D., aged 27, attended a Chicago sex clinic.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I have been quite successful in an advertising agency."

"But in my marriage, I seem to be having problems."

"For example, my husband seems to be losing interest in our marital relations."

The bidding:
1 NT Pass 2 NT Pass
3 NT Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Five of ♠

Good defense would be a relatively simple matter if declarer could be obliged upon to show his hand. However, that would rob the game of most of its pleasure, especially since there are many occasions where the bidding and play to the first few tricks make declarer's hand an open book.
No one could criticize North had he elected to pass his partner's opening one no trump. However, his five-card suit and three tens induced him to invite game with a raise to two no trump. Since South had an absolute maximum of 18 points, he was more than willing to contract for nine tricks.

West made his normal lead of the fourth best of his longest and strongest suit, and East's ten was captured by the queen. The diamond suit would have to be developed if declarer were to make his contract, so declarer entered dummy with a club to the ten and ran the ten of diamonds to West's king.

At this point, West paused to take stock. Declarer was marked with the king of spades, for East would have played that card had he held it. Also, declarer probably held the ace of diamonds—if that card were with East he should have won the diamond lead to play a spade through declarer. Finally, declarer was marked with the ace, king and jack of clubs, for East could not capture the ten of clubs.

Thus, declarer was known to have 17 points outside of the heart suit, so there was no way he could hold the ace of hearts. That card would have brought his high-card count to 21 when the bidding marked him with a maximum of 18.

The winning defense was now simple. West could afford to lead a heart away from his king, secure in the knowledge that he would not be presenting declarer with a trick. East won the ace and returned a spade, allowing the defenders to cash four tricks in that suit and the king of hearts for a three-trick set.
