Israeli Jets Strike At Syrian Targets

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli jets launched bombing raids on Damascus and Cairo today in a major escalation of the Middle East war.

Ground battles raged along the Suez Canal and the Golan Heights.

Associated Press correspondent C.C. Miniclier reported from Cairo that "we are in the middle of an air raid." He made the report in a telephone call to the AP bureau in Athens, but the line went dead immediately thereafter.

Israeli Phantom jets bombing in Damascus heavily damaged the Syrian Defense Ministry and the government radio station across the street.

The Lebanese Defense Ministry said Israeli jets struck an army radar station 18 miles east of Beirut and there were reports of Israeli armor crossing into noncombatant Lebanon as the four-day-old conflict widened.

The Israelis also claimed hitting military airfields deep inside Egypt.

But Cairo said that on the ground its tanks were pushing back Israeli armor in the Sinai and had stabbed nine miles into the desert captured by Israel in the 1967 war.

A Syrian communique said the Israeli jets hit civilian targets in the capital of Damascus and on the outskirts of Homs, 90 miles to the north.

"This aggression caused some civilian casualties," the communique said.

The United Nations headquarters in Jerusalem said a Norwegian air force captain working as a U.N. military observer was killed in his home along with his wife and young daughter during the Damascus strikes.

Israeli officials in Tel Aviv said their jets in Syria were hitting military headquarters and radar sites. The raids were in direct retaliation for Syrian missile attacks on civilian settlements in Israel, they claimed. An Israeli military spokesman said the Phantom pilots reported "very good hits."

Syria threatened retaliation for the raid on Damascus and Tel Aviv residents were warned by loudspeaker trucks to double-check blackout measures and stock up supplies in their air raid shelters.

Associated Press correspondent Elias Antar reported from Damascus that the three Israeli raiders scored direct hits on the Defense Ministry and the Syrian broadcasting headquarters across the street. He said the noontime strikes inflicted heavy damage on both buildings and more than half a dozen ambulances carried away the dead and wounded.

A house about half a mile away also was hit, Antar reported.

Kuwait, the rich oil-producing sheikdom on the Persian Gulf, said its forces were mobilized "to do whatever is necessary" to help Egypt and Syria against Israel. The Kuwaiti government said Oil Minister Abdul Rahman Salem el-Atiki also proposed an urgent conference of Arab oil nations to debate the role of their oil riches in the war.

Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev said in a message to President Houari Boumedienne that "Syria and Egypt must not stand alone in their battle with the perfidious enemy."

The message, released today by the Algerian press service, made no mention of Soviet intervention in the conflict.

Browning Is Named For Court Post

Gov. Jim Holshouser today announced the appointment of Robert R. Browning, local attorney, as a Special Judge of the Superior Court.

Browning will succeed Marvin Blount Jr., also of Greenville, who resigned the special judgeship effective Oct. 1. Browning will complete the remainder of Blount's term expiring on June 30, 1975.

Browning, 37, was named by Holshouser in January to the State Highway Commission. After the Legislature abolished the commission effective July 1, the Greenville attorney took a seat on the new State Board of Transportation.

A spokesman in the governor's office said that the date for swearing in Browning as Special Judge has not been set but that the attorney would resign his seat on the Board of Transportation prior to assuming his new duties.

Born in Greenville, he attended Greenville High School, graduated from Duke University in 1957 with a A.B. degree in political science and received his J.D. degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill in 1966.

From 1957 until 1962, he served as an aviator in the U.S. Navy. He is now a lieutenant commander in the Naval Reserves, Judge Advocate General Corps.

Browning is a member of the Greenville law firm of Owens, Browning and Haigwood. He is a member of the board of directors of the Greenville Rotary Club, president of the Pitt County Duke Alumni Association, a Deacon of Immanuel Baptist Church, member of the board of directors of the Bank of North Carolina, N.A., a member of the board of the Greenville Sheltered Workshop, and a former member of the Greenville Parking Authority.

He is married to the former Mary Ann Williams of Virginia Beach, Va. and they have two sons, Mike and Scott.

Tar River Fish Kill

RALEIGH (AP)—A major fish kill on the Tar River below Greenville has been reported by the state Office of Air and Water Resources.

A spokesman said Monday that about 2,000,000 small menhaden, a species of fish, were found dead over the weekend.

Investigators have not yet determined the precise cause of the kill.

They theorized Monday that the low flow of the river, caused by lack of rain, had restricted its ability to absorb waste materials and still maintain enough dissolved oxygen to support fish life.

They did not rule out the possibility of a discharge of pollutants into the river causing the kill.

Menhaden, 3-5 inches long on maturity, are caught for bait, oil, and animal feed.

Eight Children Died

JERRY CITY, Ohio (AP) — Eight brothers and sisters, all less than 10 years old, died early today in a fire that swept their trailer home while their parents were away at work, authorities said.

Frank Paden, owner of Paden Mortuary in North Baltimore, identified the parents of the children as Mr. and Mrs. Jesus Trevinio of the Dale Roe Trailer Park.

He said the Trevinos were at work at Bowling Green State University, 10 miles north of Jerry City, when the fire broke out.

The children were identified as Santos, 1; Carlos, 2; Jesus Jr., 3; Nieves, 4; Rita, 5; Maria, 6; Santiago, 7, and Jose, 9.

Dr. Roger Peatee, Wood County coroner, said the children apparently died of asphyxiation.

Jerry City Fire Chief George Loomis said he was checking the possibility a small space heater may have touched off the blaze that started at about 5:45 a.m. and swept through the small trailer.

Loomis said neighbors reported hearing an explosion in the trailer before smoke started pouring from the windows.

Court Backlog Is Cut

RALEIGH (AP)—The state administrative office of the courts says substantial progress has been made in reducing the backlog of cases pending in the superior courts of North Carolina.

The court administrator, Bert Montague, said significant improvements have been made in almost all the counties which were considered serious problem areas at the start of the year.

Montague said counties experiencing significant improvements included Wake, Pitt, New Hanover, Alamance, Forsyth and Gaston.

Platform Committee

RALEIGH (AP)—State Republican Chairman Frank Rouse Monday appointed an 18-member platform committee for the state Republican convention headed by State Sen. Hamilton Horton of Winston-Salem.

The group includes members backing Rouse for reelection as party chairman, some backing Thomas Bennett of Morehead City who is running with Gov. Jim Holshouser's blessing for the chairmanship and some who are considered uncommitted.

Bennett said the composition of the committee appeared "okay to me."

Urges School Bonds

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser urged members of the North Carolina Association of Educators today to seek public acceptance of a proposed $300 million bond issue for public school construction.

The bond proposal will go before voters Nov. 6.

Holshouser, in a speech prepared for the NCAE District 6 convention, said "this bond proposal is a fiscally responsible way for our state to assist the local communities in meeting their school building needs."

"All of us who support public education in North Carolina, who want to see it continue to progress and improve...have a responsibility and an obligation to see this proposal adopted by the voters of North Carolina on Nov. 6," Holshouser said.

Israel Fund Drive

CHARLOTTE (AP) — About 400 members of Charlotte's Jewish community gathered Monday night at a local synagogue and were urged by local leaders to contribute all the money they could to help Israel finance its defense in the latest outbreak of Mideast fighting.

Al Segal, a member of the executive committee of the United Jewish Appeal, told the group that Charlotte Jews had been given a goal of collecting $400,000.

He said "over $100,000...has been collected today."

Segal urged the crowd to "make contributions like you have never made before. This is an emergency, truely an emergency."

Property Acquired In CBD Project

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Three complete parcels and severences on two others have been acquired in the Central Business District Project since early September, it was reported at Monday night's Redevelopment Commission meeting.

Real estate officer Kirby Boyd told commissioners that the old Carolina Telephone building on the corner of Washington Street and Dickinson Avenue was acquired as well as a structure owned by Fountain Harrington on Greene Street. In addition, a residential structure held by Wachovia for the Taft children and Eastern Realty was purchased, Boyd said.

He reported that severences on the Greene Street side of the Tucker Building owned by Pitt County and on the Evans Street side of the old Maxwell Brothers building now occupied by Taff Office Equipment Co. were purchased.

Boyd noted that a strip on another parcel is near the closing stages and should be purchased soon.

Two structures will be taken down as soon as the demolition contractor can work them into the schedule. Boyd said that the house owned by Harry Brown on the corner of Seventh Street and Dickinson Avenue is ready for demolition as well as the building which formerly housed P and S Motors on the corner of Greene and Dickinson. The P and S building was purchased from Wyatt Brown.

The real estate officer reported that five parcels in Southside were purchased from George Saad and one parcel on Griffin Street, owned by Jerry Spain, was acquired in the project area. Options were obtained on seven other parcels it was noted, and the papers are being drawn towards purchase.

Boyd added that six structures in Southside are now vacant and are ready for demolition.

Southside project manager Bruce Jackson said that one person who was relocated from Griffin Street in the project area qualified and received a Replacement Housing Payment.

Commissioners approved a not-to-be-acquired agreement with Saad for Parcel 6-9 on Perkins Street. Jackson said that the owner indicated that he planned to rehabilitate the property himself and bring the structure there up to code standards.

The agreement stipulates that Saad rehabilitate the duplex structure to meet minimum code standards within six months. The building is currently substandard, it was noted.

A revised schedule of salary ranges for members of the Redevelopment Commission staff was approved which authorizes a one-step increase in salary for each person. The commission budget was set up to reflect the anticipated revised schedule in order to bring the pay scale in line with the city's scale, assistant director J. C. Lamm explained, so the action does not mean a new increase.

The city is in the process of revising personnel policies and pay scales and when the new plan is complete, the Redevelopment Commission will then review its pay scale according to position description. Similar action was taken earlier this month by the Housing Authority.

Two staff members were authorized to attend an accounting and financing workshop cponsored by the Carolinas Council of Housing, Redevelopment and Code Officials in Greensboro on Oct. 29-31.

Executive director reported on activities at last week's annual National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials conference in Atlantic City. Attending from the local office were Laney, T. I. Wagner, Jackson, and Mrs. Sallye Streeter.

Tabulating

The Daily Reflector will tabulate returns tonight from the municipal election which is underway today.

The nine precincts in Greenville are being used for today's voting. Farmville voters are participating in a municipal election at the Farmville precinct.

Poll holders are reminded to call The Daily Reflector at 752-6166 as soon as results are available.

Kuwait Presses Oil War Talks

KUWAIT (AP) — Oil-rich Kuwait called today for an urgent conference of the Arab oil nations "to debate the role of oil" in the new Arab-Israeli war.

The Kuwaiti government said Oil Minister Abdul Rahman Salem el Atiki was communicating the proposal to Saudi Arabia, Iraq, Libya, Algeria, Qatar and Abu Dhabi. Most of the oil ministers are now meeting in Vienna for price negotiations with the major Western oil companies.

The announcement said Kuwait is prepared to host the conference to determine how their oil could be used as a weapon against Israel.

Since the war began Saturday, there have been a number of Arab calls for a halt in oil shipments to the United States, Israel's chief backer. But the only action was Iraq's nationalization Sunday of the small Iraqi holdings of two American oil firms, Exxon and Mobil. And they were considered of no significance in the over-all production picture.

Price Of Milk Continues Rise

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—The retail price of milk in North Carolina continues to climb, and the end is not in sight.

Five major milk processors announced penny per quart retail price increases Monday.

And, the State Milk Commission was scheduled to meet today to consider yet another wholesale price increase request from the state's dairy farmers.

Monday's increase was the fourth in ten months in the state. If the Milk Commission approves the farmers' request today, another increase would be added on almost immediately, industry sources said.

The processors which raised prices Monday were Sealtest, Borden, Long Meadow and Pine State. Coble said it would raise prices Thursday.

Spokesmen for the processors said the farmer had taken all of the previous price increases and that the latest one was needed to cover increases in other production costs, including power and gasoline.

Murder Charged In Shooting Of Pitt Countian

A Rt. 1, Ayden man has been charged with murder in the Friday night shooting death of 60-year-old Lubbie Dixon, also of Rt. 1, Ayden.

Pitt Sheriff Ralph Tyson reported that Charlie Brown, 72, was arrested Saturday morning and charged with first degree murder.

Sheriff Tyson said that Dixon was shot around 10 p.m. Friday apparently after an argument at Brown's house. Dixon was shot in the face with a .12 gauge shotgun, it was noted.

A hearing for Brown, who is being held in the Pitt County Jail without privilege of bond, has been set for Oct. 15. Investigation of the incident is continuing.

Conservation Of Energy To Get Priority

WASHINGTON (AP) — With the Middle East war casting new shadows over U.S. fuel imports, the Nixon administration is preparing to launch a campaign to enlist public support in conserving energy supplies.

President Nixon scheduled a noon hour meeting to receive a citizen's advisory committee's report on energy conservation and the White House arranged for a quartet of top administration officials to follow up with a briefing on the report's recommendations.

The recommendations were expected to outline steps that can be taken by the government, private industry and individual consumers to help ease predicted fuel shortages this winter.

The briefing by Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton, Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent, presidential energy adviser John A. Love, and consumer adviser Virginia Knauer was expected to include a plea that the public help save scarce supplies by setting home thermostats at slightly lower levels.

The chairman of Nixon's Oil Policy Committee, Deputy Treasury Secretary William E. Simon said during the weekend that a three degree lower thermostat setting could save 12 per cent of the fuel oil and 14 per cent of the natural gas used for space heating.

Other recommendations were expected to range from less frequent automobile trips to lower speeds by jet airliners.

The forecast last week of fuel shortages this winter prompted Nixon to impose a mandatory allocations system. Government experts are openly worried about the increasing U.S. dependence on oil imports, especially in view of the new fighting in the oil-rich Middle East.

According to the latest forecast, the United States this winter will need to import 131 million barrels of distillate oils—used mostly for home heating. This compares with 80 million barrels imported last winter.

McConnell Heads Pitt UF Unit

Pitt United Fund campaign chairman Bill Dansey announced that Dr. Bill McConnell is heading the Professional I Division of this year's fund drive.

"I think that Bill, in his few short years here in Greenville, has demonstrated a concern for the underprivileged in our area, not only through his medical practice but through his civic actions," Dansey said.

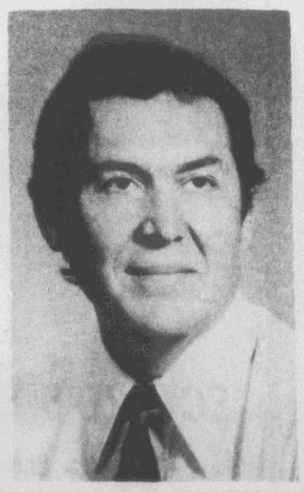

He added, "I think that Bill will make the ideal Professional I Division chairman and will do an ample job in meeting his goal."

MConnell, a Fort Blackmore, Va. native, earned his degree in biology and chemistry from East Tennessee State University and then attended the Medical College of Virginia where he received a degree in pharmacy from the School of Parmacy and his Doctor of Medicine degree from the School of Medicine.

He served his internship at the University of Tennessee Memorial Hospital and Research Center and completed his residency at the Duke University Medical Center. McConnell was awarded a radiology research fellowship at Duke following his residency.

Auto Insurance Day Of Confrontation, Change

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Today promised to be a day of confrontation and change in auto insurance in North Carolina.

It was to be a day of change because the assigned risk plan was due to be replaced by a system known as the North Carolina Reinsurance Facility.

It was to be a day of controntation because Commissioner John R. Ingram promised Monday to go to court to try to block the state's auto insurance companies from implementing a long-dalayed 7.4 per cent rate increase.

Abolition of the assigned risk plan ends a 26-year period in which North Carolina motorists considered poor risks because of their age, marital status, sex or driving record, were assigned arbitrarily to an insurance company.

About 640,000, or 27 per cent, of the drivers in the state fell into that category.

Under the reinsurance facility, all drivers will be able to purchase insurance from the company of their choice, obtaining immediate coverage with no fear of cancelation.

The plan was first proposed in the state after a study commission saw it in operation in Canada. Ingram tried to start it through administrative action, but he was blocked by the insurance companies. The legislature then enacted it into law in May.

The plan does not directly affect the premium rates paid by motorists, Ingram said.

Under the plan, insurance companies will be entitled to take a policy from a high risk driver and assign part or all of their liability to a "reinsurance pool" participated in by all companies doing business in the state on a proportional basis.

The policy holder, however, will not know if his policy has been placed in the pool, and he will continue to do business normally with the company of his choice.

Meanwhile, Ingram and the insurance companies appeared headed for a legal confrontation over Ingram's efforts to delay a 7.4 per cent rate hike the companies have been seeking since 1971.

Ingram last Friday ordered the companies not to implement the increase until December 1 or until a suit over Ingram's plan to change driver classification procedures is settled, whichever comes later.

But the companies Monday said they were going ahead with the rate increase, starting Wednesday. They said Ingram's order of Friday has no effect since it is under appeal.

Ingram had told the companies not to start collecting the increase until a shakedown period he considers necessary for the reinsurance plan has been completed. That, he said, would be December 1.

Furthermore, he said, the increase could not take effect until the classification system is settled.

No Problem With Wedding Gifts

(Editor's Note: Following is the last of three articles on the forthcoming marriage of Princess Anne and Mark Phillips.)

By JOHN WOOD

LONDON (WNS) — When it came to the question of picking wedding presents for their daughter and future son-in-law Queen Elizabeth and Prince Philip decided on a pearl necklace and tiara for Anne. Diamonds, of course, as was the brooch which also came the young bride's way.

But for Mark Phillips there was only one suitable choice — and the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh were as one in its selection: Two crack horses with complete riding tack.

For without a doubt both Anne and Mark were brought together by their mutual love for horses, and it is clear that their passion for riding will play an important part in their life together as man and wife. Indeed so keen is the Queen's daughter on the subject that on the very day she was supposed to go for a secret sitting for her wedding dress she suddenly called up to cancel the appointment.

The surprised Susan Small representative was told: "Princess Anne is competing at a horse show at Tetbury tomorrow, and she wants to get some last-minute training in. She will come for the fitting next week if that is convenient.

There are not many brides-to-be who turn down a chance to get a first view of their wedding dress — to go riding or for any other reason.

Disappointment

It was Anne's greatest disappointment in her life when her mother's horse, Doublet, was injured a year before the Munich Games and because she did not have a really suitable mount all her hopes of becoming a member of the British team in Germany were dashed. Even so, she flew to the Olympics to watch Mark Phillips and his team mates triumph by bringing home the coveted gold medal, and to her closest friends she confided that she would be training hard to get onto the team for the Olympics at Montreal in 1976. And unless he loses form badly, her husband-to-be Mark will almost certainly be in the running again for selection.

"To be on the same team as Mark competing for Britain will fulfill an impossible dream" Anne said recently in the company of several of her horsey friends.

It was Mrs. Cherrie Hatton-Hall who was Anne's teacher for five years who told me: "Even when she was fourteen years old Princess Anne was showing the tremendous competitive spirit and determination which has now made her a contender for Olympic honors.

"She was always determined to get her way and when she was riding her horse High Jinks I had a awful row with her about her crash hat. She just did not want to wear it, for fear of being mollycoddled. In the end I had to appeal to the Queen to talk to her, for I did not want the responsibility of her suffering some serious injury in case she fell. She was always very daring and never showed the slightest sign of fear."

Furious

Mrs. Hatton-Hall said that Anne was always determined to win. Once she was competing with her team at Wembley when things went wrong.

"After the contest was over Anne came storming into the changing room and tore a strip off one of the girls on her team whom Anne believed was responsible for the disaster that had overcome them. 'You silly little. . . . . ' said Anne. She went so hard for the poor girl, the daughter of a bishop, that she burst into tears. The atmosphere was electric in that changing room, but you realize at a time like that Anne is a girl who cannot stand second best. She has to win."

During the past few years Alison Oliver has been Anne's teacher. More than anybody else, she has been responsible for the Queen's daughter winning the European title at Badminton and putting her onto the verge of selection for the Olympic Games.

They have become so close that Alison is now more of a personal friend and confidante to the Queen's daughter than a mere instructress.

"Anne is a fine rider," she told me. "Apart from her natural feeling for horses she is, in addition, not remotely nervous. Many riders are nervous to a degree, but not Pricess Anne.

"Some people — and Anne is one of them — are born with an affinity for horses. When the Princess had an operation I went to visit her while she was recuperating and she was furious, because she was wasting time out of the saddle. Even when still half unconcious I was told she was talking about when she could start riding again. That is dedication for you!"

Rendezvous

Once British newspapers had gotten wind of the couple's feelings for each other, hundreds of photographers were given orders to track down the couple at all costs and take pictures of them. In order to dodge the journalist, Anne and Mark used to hide in a horse-trailer called Romance. And it was in the back of this vehicle that the couple eluded the waiting press men and curious sightseers to be alone together during the months before their engagement. True, they had to share the cramped space with Mark's horses and with the dogs who came along — and the wonder of it was that they were able to do any wooing at all!

Certainly both Anne and Mark had the loyal co-operation of such well known show-jumpers as Jane Bullen, Mary Gordon Watson, Major Derek Allhusen and Debbie West. These were the friends who helped them keep their romance a secret for a long time, for in the special arena of horse-jumping there is a loyalty and devotion to each other which sometimes gives outsiders the impression that this is a world quiet apart from all other worlds.

By a strange coincidence the same Alison Oliver who was asked several years ago to train Princess Anne, was also the woman responsible for bringing Mark Phillips up to international class as a horseman. At Winfield Row near Ascot Mrs. Oliver could be seen almost daily with either one or the other of the couple, shouting instructions and pointing out mistakes.

Horses are the bond that unites Mark and Anne. Aside from that, she is headstrong and rebellious; he is level-headed and practical. Both are fiercely competitive. It will be an interesting match.

Film Shown To Group On Wednesday

Prior to the opening of the meeting of the St. Peter's Woman's Club Wednesday evening, Mark Meltzer presented the film "The Possible Dream."

Meltzer is external vice president of the Greenville Jaycees and the film is in conjunction with their project "The Need for a Four Year Medical School at East Carolina University."

After the film, Meltzer and Charles Marston, co-chairmen of the project, encouraged the women to write to their representatives to back the program.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Father Spillane, moderator. The President, Mrs. Yvonne Kiernan, welcomed Marianne Hayes, who was a guest for the evening. Mrs. Kiernan congratulated the women on the success of the flea market and the annual picnic.

It was noted that the annual card party would be held Feb. 22 instead of in November.

Mrs. Peggy Hill will replace Miss Pat Grosse as treasurer.

The decoration motif for the evening was Halloween. Mrs. Fran Restar, Mrs. Evelyn Brannigan and Mrs. Marietta Keeping served refreshments.

ECU Woman's Club To Meet

The East Carolina Woman's Club will hold a workshop meeting Thursday, Oct. 11, at 8 p.m. at the Elm Street Recreation Center.

The workshop will be held in prepartation for the bazaar to be held in November.

Members are reminded to bring scraps of felt materials, stretch lace and quart size dish-washing detergent bottles—all mother materials will be furnished.

DONNA MYER'S MEAT LOAF

An excellent recipe for a once everyday dish that sky-rocketing prices and scarcities have made company fare.

1½ pounds ground beef
½ pound ground pork
3 tablespoons flour
1 teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon each pepper, allspice, sage and chili powder
1 can (8 ounces) tomato sauce
1 can (5 1-3rd ounces) evaporated milk, undiluted
1 medium onion, finely grated (pulp and juice)
¼ cup quick-cooking oats

In a large mixing bowl thoroughly mix together all the ingredients. Pack into a loaf pan (9 by 5 by 3 inches). Bake in a preheated 400-degree oven for 25 minutes; reduce heat to 300 degrees and bake 40 to 60 minutes longer. Makes 8 servings.

'Remembered Patient Program' Aids Many

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: To "Camille," who wrote to you of her involvement in remembering lonely patients in a nursing home, and to your fervent hope that the idea "will catch on."

I can add to the story by telling you that in Columbus, Ohio, there is a "Remembered Patient Program" of 15 years standing in one of our hospitals for mental patients. People in the community remember the more than 500 patients who have no families or friends by sending cards and or gifts thruout the year on birthdays and other occasions. Some send money that is deposited to the patients' accounts and that enables them to purchase their own items in the patient commissary.

It is a beautiful sight for the three of us who work on the committee and for the dedicated staff employed by the hospital, to see the birthday cakes and gifts that are delivered by these concerned "friends"; at Christmastime the delivery trucks from local department stores make daily deliveries, bringing gifts to patients who might otherwise be forgotten.

If you know of any who would be interested in this kind of program, we will be happy to provide material.

THE REMEMBERED PATIENT COMMITTEE,
Mel Basch, Helen Bennett & Verna Bowyer

DEAR ABBY: Would you please write something in your column about overly affectionate fathers who encourage intimate body contact [all in the spirit of playfulness] with their teen-age daughters?

This horseplay between my son in law and his 13-year-old daughter involves a lot of wrestling and touching, but I was shocked when I saw them rolling around on the bed [in the parents' bedroom] while my daughter was busy putting on her make-up in the adjoining bathroom.

Abby, this grandchild is just coming into young womanhood, and it's possible for her to become sexually stimulated and aroused by this sort of thing. Soon enough she will be faced with sex play with her peers, which is normal and natural, but such teasing from her father worries me.

I don't want to hurt my daughter by even suggesting that her husband keep his hands off his daughter. She might even be offended.

Frankly, I am ashamed to be writing this letter. I don't think I'm evil-minded, and I'm no prude, but perhaps my son in law will see it and take the hint. If you think I am wrong, please say so. I'll be able to take that, too.

WORRIED GRANNY

DEAR WORRIED: Touching and hugging is a normal healthy expression of affection between fathers and daughters. But you make a good point. Teen-age girls should be taught that their bodies are "private," and not to be manhandled by anyone—fathers included. And fathers should refrain from intimate horseplay with their budding young daughters. As revolting as the idea may be to some, it's possible for parents and children to be turned on sexually by each other, so intelligent restraint should be exercised.

CONFIDENTIAL TO A. IN PHOENIX: Don't look back. There's not a man alive who couldn't retire comfortably in his old age if he could sell his experience for what it cost him.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212.

Pare and slice a cucumber; add to sour cream. Serve with canned salmon and salad greens for lunch.

How N.C. Congressmen Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT

WASHINGTON—Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Sept. 27 through Oct. 3. The House was not in session Sept. 27 and 28.

House

ARTS AND HUMANITIES Passed, 294 for and 106 against, the conference report on the National Foundations on the Arts and Humanities bill, which authorizes the Administration's funding request of $145 million in fiscal 1974.

The foundation provides equal amounts to the National Endowmen for the Humanities and the National Endowment for the Arts, which then distribute grants and subsidies to groups and individuals nationwide. Among the bill's provisions are $200,000 minimum grants to each state art agency and subsidies for touring professional theatre companies which visit communities of less than 50,000 inhabitants.

The Senate is expected to pass the uncontroversial conference report and send it to the President, who favors the legislation.

Reps. Ike Andrews (D-4), Wilmer Mizell (R-5), Richardson Preyer, (D-6) Charles Rose (D-7), James Martin (R-9) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "yea."

Reps. L. H. Fountain (D-2), David Henderson (D-3), Earl Ruth (R-8) and James Broyhill (R-10) voted "nay."

Rep. Walter Jones (D-1) did not vote.

MASS TRANSIT Rejected, 205 for and 210 against, an amendment to prevent federal subsidation of urban mass transit systems. The amendment sought to strike $800 million earmarked to that purpose in fiscal 1974 and 1975. The money—allocated on a formula based on population, number of passengers carried and number of passenger miles—is to be spent on day-to-day operating expenses.

On this vote the House reversed its earlier elimination of the $800 million, Senate-passed authorization. If enacted, this will mark the first time the federal government has subsidized mass transit operating expenses.

House Minority Leader Gerald Ford (R-Mich.) said the President will veto the bill because of this provision.

Those voting for argued against bailing out poorly-managed transit systems. They said only the biggest cities will receive money and called the relief a "special privilege." Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa) suggested the replacing of the Statue of Liberty's torch "with a tin cup," a reference to New York City's large share of the $800 million subsidy.

Those voting against—for the subsidy—said the money will help relieve urban traffic congestion and that transit systems, had hit by rising costs, need the money to avoid fare increases which would chase away customers.

Jones, Fountain, Preyer, Ruth, Martin and Broyhill voted "yea."

Henderson, Andrews and Rose voted "nay."

Mizell and Taylor did not vote.

Senate

TRIDENT SUBMARINE Rejected, 47 for and 49 against, a move to reduce to $642 million the $1.5 billion fiscal 1974 authorization for research and development of the Trident nuclear submarine. The cut would have put back from 1978 to 1980 the delivery date for the first Trident, thus delaying updating of the American nuclear submarine fleet.

Experts say the Trident is faster, quieter, and its missles will have double the 2500-mile range of the Poseidon missles carried on Polaris subs.

The rejection was interpreted as a defeat for Senate forces hoping to trim the military budget to permit increased funding of domestic programs.

Supports of the cut—those voting for—said that combining research with development leads to construction mistakes and cost overruns. They said $642 million is enough to start development and that additional funds can be voted when the sub's design is worked out.

Opponents argued that recent Soviet developments of multiple warhead missles and faster nuclear subs require immediate development of the Trident. Many of them favored the full funding because this will stiumlate the economy.

Sens. Sam Ervin (D) and Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

TROOP CUTS Approved, 48 for and 36 against, a 110,000-man reduction of the 471,000 U. S. troops garrisoned overseas, leaving to the secretary of defense the decision on where the cuts will be made. The Senate set a Dec. 31, 1975 completion date on the pullback.

The measure was adopted after the Senate rejected a proposed 190,000-man cut.

Supporters of the troop cut said U. S. allies must begin to share more of their defense burden. They said maintenance costs for overseas troops drain America's budget and eat up money that can be better spent on domestic programs.

Opponents argued that America must honor its treaty commitments and said that congressionally-approved cuts will erode the U. S. bargaining position in mutual reduction-of-force talks now being conducted with the Soviet Union.

Helms voted "nay" and Ervin did not vote.

MILITARY FUND CUT Rejected, 47 for and 51 against, an across-the-board cut of $500 million from the $21.5 billion fiscal 1974 military procurement authorizations bill.

After failing to cut back specific proposals such as the Trident submarine (above), the B-1 bomber and SAM-D missles, advocates of military spending cuts supported this amendment. Its thrust was to leave the decision to the Defense Department on which weapons system to cut back.

Ervin voted "yea" and Helms voted "nay."

FOREIGN AID Passed, 54 for and 42 against, the $1.2 billion foreign economic aid bill, authorizing funds for fiscal 1974. The bill—smallest since foreign aid was begun with the Marshall Plan—creates people-oriented aid categories, such as food production and population planning. Past bills distributed money according to more generalized loan and grant provisions.

The bill includes $376 million for Indochina, rather than the $632 million requested by the Administration. It also states the "sense of the Senate" that the Chilean junta should not receive aid so long as it is politically repressive.

The bill now goes to conference with the House, which authorized $1.6 billion, an amount favored by the White House.

Supporters cited America's responsibility to underdeveloped nations. They said that categorical aid gives Congress more control over allocations and helps insure that needy people—not foreign bureaucrats—will receive the money.

Opponents argued that America can no longer afford the program because foreign aid creates balance-of-payment deficits. Sen. J. W. Fulbright said the bilateral aid bill is a "cold war relic" designed to buy allies against Communism. He argued for multi-national arrangements, such as the World Bank, to help insulate foreign governments from American involvement in their domestic affairs.

Ervin and Helms voted "nay."

underwear buyer in New York 30 years ago. He kept getting in trouble with his bosses for suggesting things like panties with a zipper and a heart-shaped lock, so he set off on his own to prove that he wasn't the only one who liked the sexy babe.

Today, Frederick's of Hollywood has 69 stores in such supposedly unsexy places like Omaha and Kansas City.

Sales in 1972 were $12 million, a 25 per cent increase over 1971. More than 8 million catalogues featuring more than 500 items are shipped all over the world each year.

In November a collection of catalogues will be released in a 256-page book called "Frederick's of Hollywood, 1947-1973 — 26 years of mail-order seduction."

The catalogues, which are released eight times a year, are filled with drawings of long-haired, tiny-waisted women wearing seductive items like a see-through mesh jumpsuit captioned "No, No Nannette" and tight pants called "Hips Ahoy."

A pleated mini-dress is labeled "Flirty Purty." Another jump suit with cut-outs in strategic places is called "Jeepers Peepers." There are "Fringed Frenzy" nightgowns, "Mate-bait" gold lame evening dresses, and "Sin-sational" hip-huggers.

Every few pages in the catalogue is a picture of dapper Frederick saying things like "Be the MOST with my fabulous originals designed ... to bring out the REAL YOU!"

resist arrest. In terms of the seriousness of the crime, this burglary would rank toward the bottom of the 2.3 million burglaries reported by police every year.

The evidence demonstrated convincingly, expecially as to the four men recruited from Miami, that criminal motivation was altogether lacking. Virgilio Gonzalez testified that he had been told that "we are solving the Cuban situation." Frank Sturgis had the same understanding: "When it comes to Cuba and the Communist conspiracy involving the United States, I will do anything to protect this country."

Sturgis had the reputation of a "soilder of fortune," whatever that means, but the others had no visible taint. E. Howard Hunt and James McCord had served long and honorably with the CIA; Bernard Barker was in real estate; Eugenio Martinez and Sturgis were his associates; Gonzalez was a locksmith. For purposes of probation of parole, all of them, so far as is publicly known, would be classed as "first offenders."

Judge Sirica's requirement was that these defendants "cooperate." With the exception of Liddy, they have. The six men have done everything that conceivably could be asked of them toward clearing up the Watergate mystery. It would take a heart of stone not to be touched by the plight of Hunt. He has been abandoned by the White House that commissioned him. His wife is dead in a plane crash; his children are orphans. How is justice served by keeping him—and the others—in prison?

Finally, the sentences ought to be kept in perspective. The last fiscal year saw 254 burglary cases disposed of in the federal courts. These involved 215 defendants with verdicts of guilty. Of these, 91 were put on probation, 124 put under sentence. The Watergate defendants appear in a classification of "other burglaries," after bank jobs and postal thefts have been accounted for. This group embraced 120 defendants. Only 54 of them were sentenced to prison at all, and only eight of them—including the Watergate Seven—received sentences of more than five years.

If Judge Sirica were now to fix final sentences of a year and a day, which is what 14 of the "other burglars" received, he would be acting precisely in accord with the courts' traditional "sense of justice and relevant principles of law." And these six non-criminals would be free to patch up their broken lives.

obligation, high holidays or the Sabbath."

That Aug. 8 letter from Peirez also complained that commission hearings were not conducted in three states with heavy Jewish population: New York, Pennsylvania and New Jersey. "This commission has frustrated its charge by skipping over these areas in which the majority of Jewish voters live," he wrote. "This is the antithesis of affirmative action (to insure minority representation)."

Fulbright In Danger?

Key advisers to Gov. Dale Bumpers of Arkansas, including some of the state's powerful Democratic politicians, are privately pushing him to run against one of the Senate's most important doves: Sen J.W. Fulbright, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Bumpers, 48, still popular after three years as governor, would be strongly favored to defeat Fulbirght, first elected to the Senate in 1944, in the 1974 Democratic primary. But Bumpers, hoping for a place on the national ticket in 1976 and backed by several Democratic governors as a presidential darkhorse, will think twice about alienating the politically potent peace bloc by opposing Fulbright.

Bumpers's advisers acknowledge that risk but feel it is outweighed by the fact that defeating Fulbright would make Bumpers a national figure and give him a long-term political base.

Moyewood Center Activities Noted

The Moyewood Social Services Center reports many successes since its opening. According to Mrs. Brenda Teel, its director, the Center was responsible for bringing public attention to the need for establishing a day care center. The Center's advisory council endorsed and supported the establishment of the Moyewood Family and Child Development Center, housed at the Social Services Center.

The West Greenville Recreation Center was endorsed by the Council and public attention was brought to the need for Recreation facilities for the West Greenville area.

The Eastern Diabetic Association was organized through the Center.

The Greenville Alumnae of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority assisted several community services projects by sponsoring charm clinics and recreation for the Pitt County Unit from O'Berry Center in Goldsboro.

The Greenville Ministerial Association and the N. C. Council of Churches sponsored a seminar on "The Church and Public Welfare."

A workshop entitled "Sexual Responsibility" was sponsored for senior high school students.

Health services coordinated through the Center included glaucoma screening, sickle cell anemia testing, and tuberculosis testing, and an infant health clinic.

Activities for senior citizens were held, including a nutrition program and creative crafts.

Many Pitt Technical Institute classes are held there.

Early Action On Mental Health

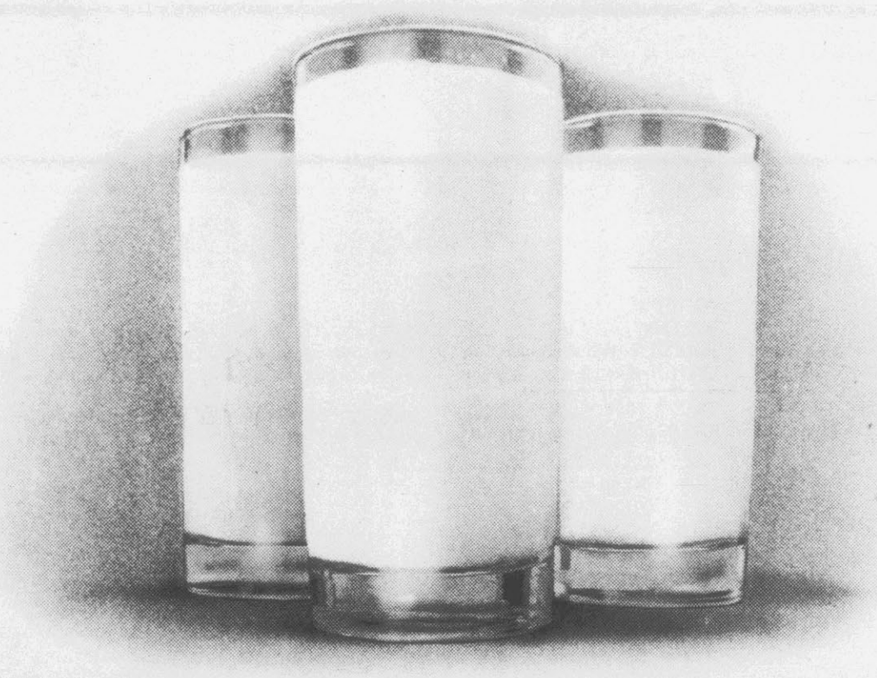

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — North Carolina Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan says one of the first acts of the 1973 General Assembly session likely will be a further revision of mental health laws and commitment procedures.

Morgan, in a talk to a mental retardation council in Winston-Salem on Monday, predicted that current court tests will place the legislature under an obligation to provide equal educational opportunities for the mental retarded. This would follow a precedent set recently in other states, he said.

TAKE ANOTHER LOOK AT US.

AND YOU'LL SEE A LOW-COST WAY TO ½ THE PROTEIN YOU SHOULD HAVE EACH DAY.

Looking for food bargains these days is a big job. Nobody has to tell you that.

Just like nobody has to tell you that protein is an essential part of your daily diet.

Protein helps build strong bodies, repair muscle tissue.

But what's that have to do with milk?

Well, you've grown up knowing milk's a good source of calcium, vitamins, minerals.

But probably, you never knew milk was also a good source of high-quality protein.

And that three glasses of milk a day give you half the protein you should have.

And that when you're drinking milk at home, it still only costs you about 10-12¢ a glass.

That makes milk one of the lowest-priced sources for high-quality protein around.

Today, every little bit of information helps. So, here's more about nature's most nearly perfect food, milk.

Vitamin D fortified milk (three 8-ounce glasses) supplies the following percent of U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances (U.S. RDA)

DAIRY FARM FAMILIES OF THE SOUTHEAST

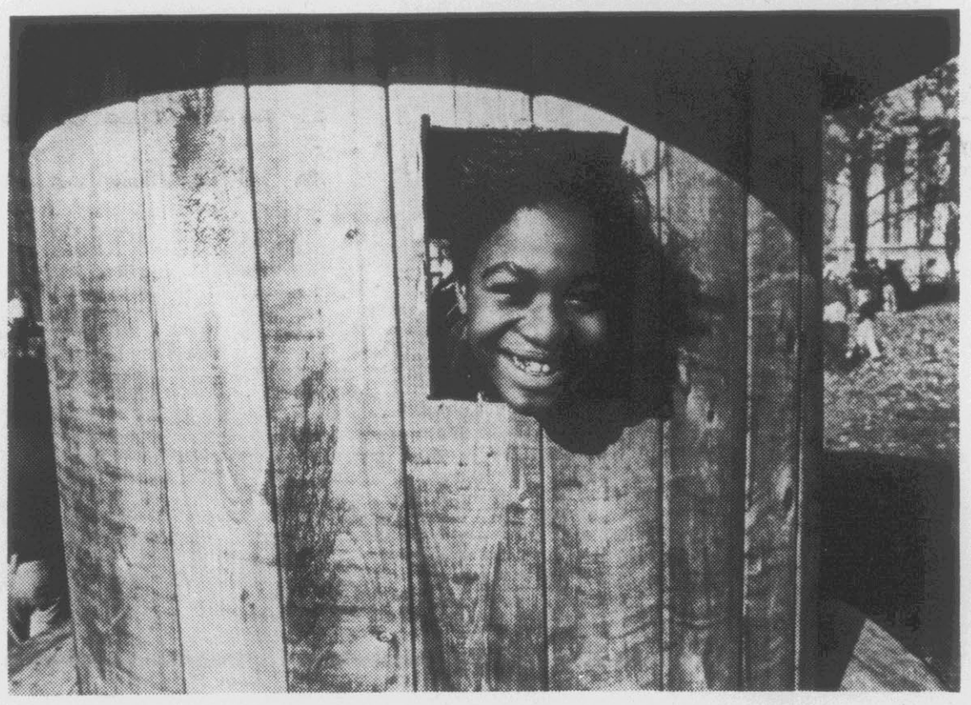

RECYCLING FOR FUN

"You can call it your homemade playground," said a delighted, 10-year-old user of this novel facility in Harrisburg, Pa. "You can build it yourself... it's better to do it yourself," explained another. There are now about 25 of these "recycled playgrounds" across Pennsylvania, an idea dreamed up and carried out by ex-contractor Paul Hogan. They use what could be described as discarded junk—transformed by the kids' imagination into endless series of funny and fantastic playthings.

The basic materials are such things as empty cable spools, old inner tubes, wheelbarrows, pipes, rope and pulleys. These cast-offs are cheap, and the less work of pre-assembling done with them the better, from the children's point of view. The playgrounds need little maintenance. And their popularity is proved by the enthusiastic support of their users.

Sees Effect On Swine Industry

DEEP RUN—State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham said here Monday that recent guidelines published by EPA on effluent limitations for feedlots would have a damaging effect on the state's swine industry.

Graham's remarks came here at the Deep Run Ruritan Club's ladies night.

Outlining his efforts to offset the action the commissioner stated that he had written a letter to the Environmental Protection Agency "strongly protesting their published guidelines," and had asked others in the state to do the same.

Graham noted that he and members of his staff had met during the week with Ed Legates, dean of Agriculture, NCSU, Tom Farmer, executive secretary of the Pork Producers Association and leaders of the state's farm organizations to discuss the effects of the feedlot guidelines on the swine industry.

"We are dealing here with the backbone of America and that is productivity. We must not allow well meaning but over zealous groups to hamper production for if that happens there will be no one around to protect the environment," Graham predicted.

He continued saying," I am not down on the environmentalists and their ultimate goals. However, I am opposed to their means to the end. We are only asking them to be reasonable."

In conclusion the ag chief pledged the full support of the NCDA to the swine and all livestock industries. "We will do everything possible to bring about realistic solutions."

Club Hears Pitt Agent

Miss Addie Gore, Pitt County home economics extension agent, was guest speaker at the meeting of the Junior Woman's Club of Greenville Wednesday night.

Her program topic was on dieting and calories. The program was sponsored by the club's Conservation Department and Mrs. Samuel R. Cox introduced the speaker.

Officers for 1973-74 were elected and will take office in December. Mrs. Matt Gustafson was named president and other officers are: Mrs. Cox, first vice president; Mrs. W.H. Collier, second vice president; Mrs. Larry C. Whitlow, recording secretary; Mrs. Ronald Staley, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. James Shirley, treasurer.

In observance of National Newspaper Week, the Education Department recognized Mrs. John Trotman, woman's editor of the Daily Reflector, and a club member.

It was announced that the Home Life Department would give a Halloween party at Caswell Center's Austin A in late October. The district fall meeting will be held Wednesday, Oct. 16, at the Woman's Club in Creswell.

The Christmas party will be held Dec. 7, Friday, in the Red Room at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

The next club meeting will be held at the Sheltered Workshop.

Davis Talks At Meeting

Dr. Trenton G. Davis, chairman of environmental health in the East Carolina University School of Allied Health and Social Professions, addressed the environmental health section at the recent 62nd annual meeting of the North Carolina Public Health Association in Raleigh.

His topic was "Reeneergizing Environmental Health through Education," and was one of several presentations on the theme of energy and the problem of dwindling health resources, in terms of manpower and money.

More than 1000 public health professionals from across North Carolina attended the meeting.

Also representing ECU at the meeting were Dr. Y. J. Lao of the ECU Department of Environmental Health and Don Dancy, chairman of the Department of Community Health Education.

Alex Haley Relates Tracing A Heritage

Internationally known author, world traveler and lecturer Alex Haley traced for an audience at Wright Auditorium at East Carolina University last night his family history and heritage to Africa.

Haley is writing a book called Roots based on his past eight years' research into his family history and heritage. He has traced his maternal grandmother's family back to a Mandingo youth named Kunta Kinte from the Juffure village, the Gambia, West Africa. This slave, Haley's seventh-generation forefather, was transported to colonial America in the slave ship Lord Ligonier in September, 1767.

Plans are already being made to film the story in The Gambia, England, and the United States.

Haley teaches Black Heritage at the University of California at Berkeley. He is retired from the U. S. Coast Guard and is a free lance magazine writer and has been chief interviewer for Playboy Magazine. He edited the book, Autobiography of Malcolm X, published in 1965.

Reds On Brink Of A Knockout

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — After some belts from Rusty Staub and a couple from Bud Harrelson, too, the Cincinnati Reds are on the brink of a knockout.

Staub hit two home runs and Harrelson hit Pete Rose in a brawl-filled game Monday in which the New York Mets beat the Reds 9-2 and took a 2-1 lead in this best-of-five playoff series to determine baseball's National League representative in the World Series.

Staub's homers drove in four runs, but it was Harrelson's battle with Rose that literally drove the Reds from the field in one of the most bizarre playoff affairs in history.

The final score, despite its importance, was almost anticlimatic after what happened in the fifth inning.

A crowd of 53,967 was buzzing with an apparent New York victory, loudly cheering their Shea Stadium heroes as the Mets forged a 9-2 lead after four innings.

Then came the fifth, when Rose barreled into Harrelson in an attempt to break up a double play at second base.

"He hit me with his elbow," Harrelson said after the explosive game. "I'm tired of being used as a punching bag."

The Mets' gutsy little shortstop said something to the burly Rose. The Cincinnati left fielder gave Harrelson a shove and the two exchanged blows, fell to the ground and tussled in the infield dust.

The battle triggered a floodtide of players from both benches and the bullpens as well. They raced on the field and began fighting among themselves while the crowd noise swelled.

It took five minutes for officials to restore order.

But there was more.

The heat of battle still smoldered in the stands, and some fans got into the act. When Rose walked out to his left field position in the bottom of the fifth inning, he was showered with debris—beer cans, soda bottles, flashlight batteries, a whiskey bottle and other assorted junk.

Manager Sparky Anderson of the Reds didn't like the scene, so he waved in his players.

"I just wanted to calm things down," he said.

It didn't have a completely soothing effect on the vociferous crowd, but the next thing that happened did. In a dramatic grandstand play, the Mets sent some representatives out to left field to restore order.

Willie Mays, Tom Seaver, Staub and Cleon Jones all pleaded with the disruptive fans to quiet down.

It worked.

Everything was relatively tame after that, except for the noisy crowd—whose shouts of joy steadily increased with each Cincinnati out.

"If what happened out there doesn't wake us up now, nothing will," said a grim Anderson, whose defending National League champions face extinction today.

"We'll be aggressive," said Cincinnati pitcher Gary Nolan. "We still feel we're in it."

If Staub keeps hitting in this series like he has been, it'll be a tough job for the Reds.

Staub smashed a bases-empty homer in the first inning and then a three-run shot in the second, when the Mets put it away with five runs.

The shots gave the New York right fielder three homers for the series so far.

Staub unloaded against Cincinnati starter Ross Grimsley with a homer over the right field fence and gave New York southpaw Jerry Koosman a quick 1-0 cushion.

In the second, the Mets got rid of Grimsley. Jerry Grote walked, Don Hahn singled and Koosman beat out a bunt for a base hit to load the bases.

Then Wayne Garrett knocked in the first New York run of the inning with a sacrifice fly and Felix Millan followed with a run-scoring single.

Youth Night Planned

Saturday night at Ficklen Stadium will be Youth Night, and all high school age and under youths will be admitted for just $1.

In addition, several other promotions will be underway, two at the game.

NASCAR driver Benny Parsons, the current Grand National Point leader, will be at the game to sign autographs and to talk about racing. Four sets of tickets to the American 500 at Rockingham on Oct. 21, will also be given away at the game.

Also at the game, radio station WOOW will pick a "DJ for a Day," and award several record albums.

Sunday, the Greenville Putt-Putt will host a number of East Carolina football players, who will be on hand to sign autographs and play putt-putt.

The Pirates, winners in their last four games, will be playing host to Virginia Military Institute at the game, set to begin at 7:30 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium. The Bucs will be out to pull into a first place tie with Richmond by winning their third straight Southern Conference game of the year.

Woody Has Gone From Reserve To 'King' Among Pirate Kickers

James Claybrone Woody has earned a new East Carolina University football nameplate.

For three years he has been an unherald, never publicized reserve kicking specialist. He came to camp this fall as a junior reserve. Now, he is "King Woody," first team place kicker and leader of East Carolina's speciality kickoff team which adopted an unprintable variation of Woody's name.

"King Woody" is turning into a spaceman kicker-distance, that is, with accuracy. His rise to East Carolina fame was fast and a little surprising, even to "King Woody" himself.

"I was still a second teamer when I came here this fall," Woody said recently. "McLester (Ricky, who quit before the season started) had the job and Coach Randle (East Carolina head coach) said that as long as he did an adequate job he would keep the No. 1 spot. Besides, he was kicking better than me and he was on a full scholarship. Those are some pretty good reasons for him keeping the job.

"Really, I don't think there was that much difference between us ability wise. It was just a matter of kicking experience. He had beat there.

"King Woody" used to be "Brain Lick" Woody, and only three games ago. "Against Southern Mississippi, I kept kicking the ball out of bounds on one of the kickoffs," he remembers. "Then the next day on his television show, Coach Randle mentioned "Brain Lock" on the kickoff. That just made me work harder and now I think I'm kicking much better.

"Against Furman, I was kicking the ball really well. I think there are two reasons for that. First, I now look forward to kicking in the game and in front of a lot of people. I'm more confident and I think I can help the team win another Southern Conference championship.

"Secondly, I've gained confidence and my kicking is really improving. I think maybe even Coach Randle is a little surprised.

"At one time, he said that we wouldn't try any field goals and that we would run for the extra points after touchdowns. You don't know how hard that made me work.

"I have a check list sort of thing I go through before each kick," Woody continued. "I've been going through it on every kick, even in practice. That, plus confidence, plus the opportunity to kick more in games is making me a lot better. The check list goes: alignment first, then step quick, swing straight and follow through. I was having a lot of trouble, then Coach Novak (offensive coordinator) told me to think about each little thing and keep cool. Believe me, that advice is really working."

"King Woody" is now on scholarship, quite an accomplishment for a walk-on kicking specialist from Clinton, N.C. He came to East Carolina because "a couple of East Carolina coaches mentioned the school to me while they were recruiting a big lineman who played high school ball with me. Also, Coach Bill Carson, the track coach, talked to me a little bit. I wasn't offered a scholarship, but I decided I'd give it a try.

"I guess I'm not like a lot of other kickers. I'm not real superstitious, I don't think any kicker around is that much better than me and I still think my best kicking is ahead of me.

"I do have an idol. That's George Blanda. You have to think a lot about that guy because he is still kicking very well and he's old. He's really consistent which is my real goal. Now, I have to work on distance.

"I'm getting better and that's because I'm getting more chances to kick. This college kicking is a dream for me. I've always wanted to do it and when I got the chance this fall, I wanted the job more than anything. The bad thing is that it's only a one shot deal. But that one shot is all I ever wanted.

Tables To Be On Sale

Reynolds May and W. M. "Booger" Scales, co-chairman of the North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame Banquet, to be held here on December 4, will be out selling tables today and Thursday, they announced.

The tables, of course, will be for the banquet, to be held in Minges Coliseum, at 7 p.m. Four outstanding North Carolina sportsmen, Jim and Gaylord Perry, Richard Petty and Chuch Simmons, will be inducted into the hall of fame. This marks the first time the banquet and installation has been held east of Raleigh.

Individual tickets to the banquet are also available, from the Chamer of Commerce, at $8 each.

No Changes Among Top 7

NEW YORK (AP) — Ohio State and its six closest pursuers held onto their positions today in The Associated Press college football ratings while Tulane, Kansas and Miami of Ohio joined the Top Twenty for the first time this season.

In their second week since replacing Southern California as the No. 1 ranked team in the country, the Ohio State Buckeyes trounced Washington State 27-3 and received 41 first-place votes and 1,150 points from the 61 sports writers and broadcasters who participated in this week's AP poll.

Nebraska crushed Minnesota 48-7 and got nine first-place votes and 1,032 points. The Cornhuskers thus narrowed last week's margin, which had Ohio State on top 1,118-897.

Alabama remained third with six first-place ballots and 876 points by defeating Georgia 28-14, while Southern Cal turned back Oregon State 21-7 and held onto fourth with one top vote and 782 points.

Michigan, No. 5, received one No. 1 vote and 697 points for a 24-0 win over Oregon. Oklahoma didn't receive any first-place votes but stayed in sixth place with 632 points after downing Miami of Florida 24-20.

The other three first-place votes went to Penn State, which beat Air Force 19-9 and earned 620 points.

Tennessee climbed from ninth to eighth by nipping Kansas 28-27 while Notre Dame dropped from eighth to ninth after fighting off Michigan State 14-10. Tennessee's lead, though, was a shaky 419-417.

Ironically, the narrow loss to Tennessee boosted previously unbeaten Kansas into 19th place.

Louisiana State continued to round out the Top Ten with 416 points. The Tigers defeated Florida 24-3.

Arizona State rose from 12th to 11th, followed by Missouri, Texas, Houston, UCLA, Miami of Florida, Colorado, Tulane, Kansas and Miami of Ohio.

Last week's Second Ten consisted of Oklahoma State, Arizona State, Texas, Houston, Missouri, UCLA, Miami, Fla., Colorado, Southern Methodist and West Virginia.

Oklahoma State lost to Texas Tech 20-7, Missouri downed SMU 17-7 and Indiana beat West Virginia 28-14, knocking the three losers out of the Top Twenty.

Contest Winners

David C. Hayes of 312 E. 12th St., and Stella Braxton, Rt. 8, Box 379F, tied for first place in the Daily Reflector Football Contest of last week.

Both correctly picked the winners in 27 of the 32 games played. Both were three points off the actual point total of 65 scored in Wisconsin's 37-28 victory over Wyoming, with guesses of 62 and 68, respectively.

Several other people also had 27 correct picks, but were further off the point total.

The fifth of the ten weekly contests appears in today's Daily Reflector.

He's "2" much
HANK AARON'S familiar uniform number is 44—but his record is full of 2's. Born in Mobile, he was 20 when he broke into the majors. Now, in his 20th season, he holds or is tied for 20 National League records (plus 12 major league records). He's played in 22 All-Star games and 2 World Series.
He was still only No. 2 in the all-time home run race as of midseason 1973—but well on his way to trading that spot to Babe Ruth!
A Message to Newspaper Carriers from Hank Aaron:
"You've Got To Have Pride!"
Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves is best known right now as the man most likely to succeed Babe Ruth as baseball's greatest home run producer. But he's great in every department—in the field, at the bat, and in his will to win.
What's Aaron's secret of success? Pride. "I take pride in what I'm doing every day I'm out there," he says. "You really have to have it in baseball."
Maybe that's why he admires newspaper carriers. They've got pride, too. Determination to get the job done, to serve their customers dependably and well. They earn good money for it, sure—but most of all, they enjoy the satisfaction that comes from giving their best.
And as for that money they earn, a lot of it goes into savings for the future. Like their parents and other Americans, many of them buy U.S. Savings Bonds regularly, either through Newspaper Carrier Thrift Clubs or at the bank. Some day those Bonds may help them go to college or launch a life's career—and meantime those savings are helping their country now.
Being a newspaper carrier is a proud way to go. And now that it's Newspaper Carrier Day again, maybe you'd like to join Hank Aaron—and the Department of the Treasury—in saluting these young people who serve us so faithfully and well.
Take stock in America.
Buy U. S. Savings Bonds
Now E Bonds pay 5½% interest when held to maturity of 5 years, 10 months (4% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen, or destroyed. When needed they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

DUNKEL INDEX

EXPLANATION - The Dunkel system provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opposition rating, weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: a 50.0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40.0 team against opposition of identical strength. Originated in 1929 by Dick Dunkel.

A LITTLE HELP FROM HIS FRIENDS — Cincinnati's Pedro Borbon, center right, finds himself restrained by teammates Johnny Bench, in front, Phil Gagliano (16) and Roger Nelson (45), behind Bench, during an outbreak in the fifth inning of the National League playoff in Shea Stadium between the Mets and the Reds. Both teams emptied their dugouts in the fight. The Mets won the game, 9-2, to lead the best of five series, 2-1. (AP Wirephoto)

Maybe Harrelson Lost Fight, But The Mets Still Came Out On Top

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — "Maybe I did lose the fight," Bud Harrelson said in a subdued voice, "But we won the ball game. That's what really counts."

There was an ugly three-inch scrape over the left eye of the New York Mets' shortstop but little bitterness left in his heart as he looked to the fourth game against Cincinnati today in the National League playoffs and a possible second confrontation with the Reds' fiery left fielder, Pete Rose.

"I don't think this animosity is going to carry over to the rest of the series," Harrelson added after he had regained his composure from the altercation at second base in Monday's third game which triggered one of baseball's wildest brawls.

"I don't hold any hard feelings. Rose is an aggressive professional. I am an aggressive professional. As long as he didn't do it out of spite, I've got no kicks."

Rose, the National League's batting champion, insisted his role in the melee was not ignited by spite.

"I slide hard but I don't play dirty baseball," he said. "I don't think anything would have happened if somebody hadn't hit me while Harrelson and I were down."

It was a play at second base ending the top half of the fifth inning that set off the melee.

The fight was a dilly. But, like most baseball melees, the damage was slight.

The Mets were leading 9-2, the final score of the game, and Cincinnati was batting. There was one out. Rose was on first after a single. Joe Morgan, the Reds' second baseman, hit a ball sharply down the first base line.

John Milner, the Mets' first baseman, fielded the ball and threw to second, where Harrelson was covering, to get the lead runner, Rose. Harrelson shot the ball back to Milner for the double play.

As Harrelson released the ball, Rose slid into the base with feet flying. The two went down together. As they arose, Harrelson said Rose bumped him with his elbow.

"I said something to Rose—I don't know exactly what—and he said something back at me," Harrelson explained. The two started pushing each other around.

In the flick of an eyelash, players poured out of both dugouts. From the Mets' bullpen came nine men, relief pitchers and catchers, like a football team going down under a punt.

Soon fists were flying. Rose and Harrelson were on the ground. Wayne Garrett, the Mets' third baseman who had jumped into the Rose-Harrelson fistfight at the outset, was flailing away. Buzz Capra of the Mets and big Pedro Borbon of the Reds, both relief pitchers, were throwing haymakers at each other.

While the players grappled and others sought to pull them apart, the crowd of 53,967 watched with mixed awe and delight. Theirs was an added dividend—a baseball game with a lively fight for good measure.

Helmets and baseball caps—red for Cincinnati and blue for the Mets—were strewn all over the infield, like remnants of a battle scene.

"I was standing there watching and trying to break things up," said Capra, "and then—pow!—somebody belted me one. I looked around and there was Borbon at my elbow.

"I thought he did it and I let him have one. Pretty soon both of us were swinging at each other."

Borbon was one of the most incensed of the Reds. He swung wildly at anybody within reach and had to be restrained as he was led back to the bench after the situation had cooled.

He inadvertently put on a Mets' blue cap by mistake. When a teammate mentioned it to him he took it off and ripped it with his teeth.

When the brawl was put down and play was resumed, fans in the left field section began tossing bottles, beer cans and garbage onto the field. A whiskey bottle barely missed Rose, the target of the missiles.

With two outs in the fifth inning and the count 3-1 on the Mets' Felix Millan, Rose angrily left his post and walked toward the dugout. Sparky Anderson, the Cincinnati manager, summoned his entire team from the field and shepherded them into the dressing room.

For a few anxious minutes, it appeared the game might not be continued—possibly forfeited to the Reds under rules which make every team responsible for its fans' conduct.

At the suggestion of Charles "Chub" Feeney, the National League president, Manager Yogi Berra and four of his most popular stars—Willie Mays, Rusty Staub, Cleon Jones and Tom Seaver—walked to the left field area and made a personal appeal to the fans.

Houston Knew His Job, Did It; Redskins Slip Past Dallas, 14-7

By TOM SEPPY
Associated Press Sports Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ken Houston says he figured the Dallas Cowboys would be trying to pass to their running back Walt Garrison on fourth down and only seconds left, so the Washington Redskins' safety knew it was his job to stop him.

"I was looking for that play because our rush had been so good," said Houston after the Redskins defeated the Cowboys 14-7 in a nationally televised National Football League game Monday night.

"They had been trying to hit the left flare. I saw him (Dallas quarterback Craig Morton) pump once and I stepped up and was going to hit him.

"As strong as he is, if he had got his feet on the ground, he would have gone on in. I just caught him before he was able to plant his feet and drove him back," said Houston.

Houston stopped Garrison at the one-yard line to preserve the Washington victory.

The Redskins, shut out until the last four minutes, scored two quick touchdowns on a one-yard pass from Sonny Jurgensen to Charley Taylor and a Brig Owens' 26-yard return of an intercepted pass.

Despite the pandemonium that broke out after the Owens' touchdown, which came with 2:33 left, the Cowboys recovered a fumbled punt on the Redskins 31 with less than two minutes remaining.

Morton moved the ball to the Redskins' four with 38 seconds left but was unsuccessful on his first three passes until he completed the fourth down aerial to Garrison on the one with 16 seconds remaining.

Redskins' Coach George Allen, who had been saying all week the contest would be the championship game, said he felt "just as happy as New Year's Eve."

Washington defeated Dallas last Dec. 31 for the National Conference championship and a berth in the Super Bowl.

The victory evened up the Dallas and Washington records at three victories and one loss apiece.

Roger Staubach put the Cowboys into a 7-0 lead in the first period with a 15-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Otto Stowe, and it looked as if the points would hold up the way both defenses were playing.

Staubach was sacked seven times and Washington quarterback Sonny Jurgensen five.

But Jurgensen came back with 2:39 remaining to hit Taylor for the touchdown to tie the score and Owens intercepted Morton's pass 1:06 later.

National Finish Gets Approval

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — It's official now. Cale Yarborough is the winner of Sunday's National 500 stock car race, according to a ruling by the sanctioning National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR).

Yarborough's 1.4-second victory over Richard Petty in the $166,600 race had been protested by Bobby Allison, who finished third, three laps behind the leaders.

Allison, last year's top money winner on the Grand National circuit, says now he may quit NASCAR.

"I figured they would lie out of it," Allison said Monday after NASCAR's ruling gave Yarborough $43,425 for his win in a Chevrolet. "I'm definately considering not running any more NASCAR races. I don't think my sponsor wants to be involved in a cheating game."

Allison, who also protested the Dodge driven by second-place finisher Petty, said he knows both Petty's and Yarborough's cars were illegal.

"One of their own people told me that one engine was so big that they couldn't believe it themselves," Allison said. "They didn't say which one. But that one was a little big and the other was a whopper. And the NASCAR official that told me was in there (where the inspection was held)."

In its statement released Monday, NASCAR all but admitted there was some cheating going on, but the contestants had outsmarted them.

"This decision (to let the Sunday results stand) was made following a meeting of NASCAR officials after reviewing information that showed in a post-race inspection the procedures used to check all of the engine sizes proved to be inadequate," the NASCAR statement said.

"Since the purpose of the pre-race inspections is to determine that the cars in competition conform to the rules prior to the actual running of the race and that this procedure was in effect for the Charlotte race, the results are official."

NASCAR President Bill France Jr. said that a study of all inspection procedures is being conducted. A different procedure for determing engine sizes will be in effect for the two remaining Grand National races, he said.

The top two cars and Allison's Chevrolet received a six-hour inspection by NASCAR officials Sunday after the controversy erupted over the race.

Allison, meanwhile, said he would make a firm decision later this week whether to take his car to Rockingham, N.C., for the American 500 on Oct. 21. "But their (NASCAR's) decision leaves me little choice," he said.

Runners Get Win

Rose High School won its second straight cross-country dual meet yesterday, defeating Wilson Fike. The Rampants finished the meet with the low score of 22 points, while Wilson finished with 33.

Art Klose of the Rampants topped the field, finishing in 10:58, while teammate James Davis was second in 11:00.

Wilson gained third and fourth place with J. Goforth finishing in 11:04, and J. Lucas fourth in 11:08.

A. J. Tyson took fifth for Rose in 11:19, followed by Gary Cayton (R) 11:22; C. King (W) 11:26; Hugh Stokes (R) 11:27; R. Wearden (W) 11:36; and C. Wilson (W) 11:57, rounding out the top ten.

Bertie and South Lenoir visit the Rampants on Thursday for their next meet.

Smith Pacing Southern Scores

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Barty Smith, Richmond's 235 pound senior fullback, has moved out of a tie for first place and taken over the lead in the Southern Conference football scoring race.

The Richmond star scored the Spiders' first touchdown in a 20-17 victory last Saturday night over Furman and boosted his total for the season to six touchdowns and 36 points.

That touchdown moved him out of a stalemate with junior tailback Doug Gerhart of William and Mary, who dropped into a deadlock for second place with sophomore running back Bobby Allen of Richmond. Each has five touchdowns and 30 points.

Allen scored Richmond's two other touchdowns at Furman to tie Gerhart, who was held out of William and Mary's 33-21 triumph over Villanova because of an injury.

William and Mary's tailback-kicking specialist, Terry Regan, held fourth place by kicking four extra points and an field goal against Villanova to run his total to 29 points.

Regan, who now has kicked 41 consecutive extra points in two years, has scored one touchdown and kicked 14 conversions and three field goals this season.

Tied for fifth with four touchdowns and 24 points each are junior running back John Gerdelman of William and Mary, who was shut out against Villanova even though he gained 103 yards, and sophomore running back Kenny Strayhorn of East Carolina.

Strayhorn scored three times and gained 156 yards on 10 carries in the Pirates' 45-0 rout of Davidson.

East Carolina kicker Jim Woody has taken over seventh place with 22 points on 13 conversions and three field goals. He had six extra points and a three-pointer against Davidson.

Another East Carolina performer, quarterback Carl Summerell, is eighth with three touchdowns and a two-point conversion for 20 points. Summerell did not score against Davidson, although he threw a pair of touchdown passes.

Five players have 18 points each—quarterbacks Harry Lynch of The Citadel and Bill Deery of William and Mary, wide receivers Stan Eure of East Carolina and Dinky Jones of Richmond and kicking specialist Terry Carter of Richmond.

All but Carter have scored three touchdowns each. Carter has kicked 18 extra points.

Two conference games are scheduled Saturday night with defending champion East Carolina, 2-0 in the league, playing host to Virginia Military's Keydets, 1-1, and Furman's Paladins, 1-2, entertaining Davidson's Wildcats, 0-3.

Richmond is host to Southern Mississippi in the Tobacco Festival game in the only afternoon action.

Nonconference games Saturday night have William and Mary at Vanderbilt, Appalachian State's Mountaineers at East Tennessee and The Citadel's Bulldogs at home against Tennessee-Chattanooga.

Deery Honored; Kenny Runner-Up

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)—Quarterback Bill Deery, who guided William and Mary's Indians to a 33-21 victory last Saturday over Villanova, today was named Southern Conference offensive football player of the week.

Deery, a 5-foot-10, 175-pound junior from Oaklyn, N. J., ran 21 times for 132 yards and hit four of nine passes for 34 yards in the Indians' fourth triumph in five starts.

He scored William and Mary's first touchdown on a one-yard run in the first period, then hit Paul Pavlich on a two-yard scoring pass in the fourth period that gave the Indians a 23-14 lead.

On the pass, Deery started as if to turn the corner, was surrounded and managed to get the ball underhanded to Pavlich in the end zone.

It was the first complete game of the season for Deery, who suffered a shoulder injury in William and Mary's opening victory over Virginia Tech. Since then, he had seen action in all the Indians' games but had been used sparingly in several.

"Billy came up with the big play every time we needed it," said William and Mary Coach Jim Root.

Deery barely beat out sophomore running back Kenny Strayhorn of East Carolina, who ran for 156 yards and three touchdowns on 10 carries in the Pirates' 45-0 rout of Davidson.

The defensive player of the week was senior safety Gene Williams of Virginia Military, who turned in six touchdownsaving plays—three last-man tackles and three interceptions inside the 10-yard line—in the Keydets' 23-6 triumph over The Citadel.

Profits Aren't Shameful Facts

Dick West and his newspaper colleagues are the best hope for salvaging our great Republic. For politicians still try to stampede voters by the propaganda that Big Business makes huge profits. It is newspapers that explode such Communistic fallacies!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE Y-538: Dick West is a superb editorial writer for the famous Dallas NEWS.

"Dr. Crane," a mutual friend informed me, "Dick West wrote a splendid editorial recently which 'shows up' the brain-truster economic ideas still in vogue on many college campuses!

"To be specific, he cites the fact that a sizable percentage of Americans, including college youth, believe U.S. Corporations average 28 percent profits AFTER TAXES.

"And another survey showed that the public apparently deemed 10 percent to be about right.

"Yet American business averages not 28 percent or even 10 percent but merely 4 percent.

"And that 4 percent is paid via inflated dollars worth barely half their face value!

"Why don't Liberal Arts College economic professors tutor their students in the true facts!

"For Dick West wisely warns that 'Profit to business is as water to a fish; neither can survive without it.'

"Certainly the colleges, endowed by American business, should not become accessories to the usual political propaganda that accuses Big Business of huge profits!"

Golden Goose

Rabble rousing politicians try to inflame the ignorant (and that includes college youth) by claiming Big Business is bloated with excess profits!

Even the 4 percent stated by Dick West last March, 1973, is high, for that is GROSS profit, BEFORE TAXES!

Take a look at the actual figures on profits on each dollar of sales by American corporations over the past 6 years.

Note the contrast between the profit BEFORE and AFTER taxes:

Year	Before	After
1966	6.1 percent	3.6 percent
1967	5.5 percent	2.9 percent
1968	5.5 percent	2.9 percent
1969	4.6 percent	2.3 percent
1970	3.7 percent	1.9 percent
1971	3.8 percent	1.9 percent

The above figures are cited by the American Economic Foundation to show the terrific "cut" by Uncle Sam and state taxing boards, long before the 31 million stockholders get a penny on their invested savings!

Gov. Ronald Reagan also stated earlier this year that taxes now take 43 percent of the total earnings of the average worker in America.

Yet legislatures keep crying for MORE taxes, plus new things to tax!

Why don't they cut down on taxes and employ more of the efficiency of private business firms?

Because they are selfish and thus want to expand the number of tax-supported workers on the backs of us creative workers, out on the rigorous firing line of production.

For the more governmental employees, the easier the present legislators can insure their reelection at the polls in 1974.

The Dunn Survey (Conn.) showed that every government worker thus sways an average of 4 votes for the party in power.

But the average American, whether Republican, Democrat or Independent, doesn't want to kill Big Business, for it is still the goose that lays our golden eggs!

So send for my booklet "Common Fallacies in Logic," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Revoked 4 Notary Public Commissions

Secretary of State Thad Eure has announced the revoking of commissions of four Notary Publics in the state in the past month.

He said two commissions were revoked because a parent's consent to marriage was notarized when someone other than a parent signed. Another was revoked because the Notary knowingly notarized a signature that she knew was not signed by the person but by someone else. The last was revoked because an automible title was notarized without the signer being present.

"With some 48,000 active Notaries in the State of North Carolina, this would seem to be a small number of revocatons. However, it sets a record for a single month or even a year. A thorough investigation is made of each and every complaint that is received concerning any notary in the State. Only if a complaint is filed with me can I possibly know of any misconduct. This office published a Manual for Notaries Public that is free to each applicant or to anyone requesting a copy. It sets forth the duties and responsibilities of Notaries and contains Chapter 10 of the Feneral Statutes pertaining to Notaries Public as rewritten by the 1973 General Assembly," he said.

COMMUNITY COLLEGES

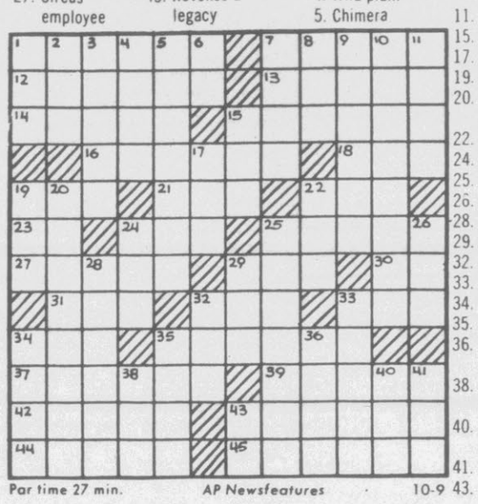

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Enrollment in California's 92-campus community college system will reach an estimated 981,000 during the 1973-74 school year, according to the chancellor's office.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1973

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Grasp the new and forget the old at present, for many apparently insoluble problems connected with unfinished projects require some time before finishing. There are all kinds of possibilities in a new set of constructive circumstances now coming to your attention. Keep wide awake.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A newcomer can now give you the right slant for gaining your finest aims. Avoid one who is depressing. Plan a trip that can be pleasurable.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get into new interests that could lead into something very worthwhile. Reach a better understanding with a bigwig. Use tact handling difficult situation of long standing.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Go after the information you require for a new interest. Study newspaper for new ideas you need. A good day for advancement.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Find modern methods that can help make your operations far more efficient, profitable. Forget argument with loved one and make life pleasant. Cheer others.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Find some new associate who can add new life to present operations. Discuss ideas carefully. Steer clear of an ally who is unreasonable today. Take mate out.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find new system that will help you plow through all that work efficiently. Take new health treatments that can be helpful and make you more dynamic, charming.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get together with allies and improve some project so that it becomes truly successful. Gad about and study more modern trends. Drive with care and improve diet.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Get out of that rut and investigate new interests that could prove profitable. Buy the new accessories that will improve your wardrobe. Do nothing impulsive.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Enjoy favorite recreations. Try to please your mate more. Come to a true understanding and be happy. A good day for making recordings.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Some new approach at home can make a whale of a difference and get excellent results. Buy new furnishings for home. Invite friends in tonight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Your mind is keen and you can put across excellent deals, start a better working method. Make notations of new ideas to remember them. Command a greater income.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Read trade, business journals for information needed to have a greater income. Talk to that business person you have long avoided. He's not as way-out as you think.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those youngsters who will do well in New Era professions, so slant the education along such lines and at the right schools. The mind here is excellent and the willingness to work hard is apparent early. The inventive bent is pronounced also and humanity could be much benefitted by such. Give the spiritual training early that brings inspiration. Make sure the diet is right during childhood.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU.

Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for November is now ready. For your copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Righter Forecast (name of newspaper), Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

Opening lead: Five of ◇ Getting a receiver open in the end zone is only part of the job. To score a touchdown, you have to hold onto the ball!

South did well to get to a grand slam with a combined North-South holding of only 26 points in high cards. North had intended reversing into spades after opening one heart, but when his partner responded in his second suit he showed his power by leaping to game. Once North announced at least nine cards in the major suits, South knew that his partner would be short in clubs—thus any losers in that suit could be ruffed in dummy—so he set his sights on a grand slam. Four no trump elicited the welcome news that his side possessed all the aces. Six clubs was a variation of the Grand Slam Force, requesting partner to bid seven if he held two of the three top trump honors. North duly obliged.

The opening diamond lead was won in dummy and the king of spades revealed the 3-0 trump break. The ace and king of clubs were cashed, and declarer tried to ruff a club in dummy with a low trump. East overruffed for down one. [It would not have helpded declarer to ruff the club high, for he would still have to ruff a second club and East would then be able to overruff.]

While the 3-0 trump division was unfortunate, declarer could have made his slam despite the bad break. At trick two, he should have led a low spade from dummy to his ace. If East shows out of trumps, declarer can ruff two clubs in dummy without fear of an overruff, and still have the king and jack of trumps to draw the two outstanding trumps.

When West shows out of trumps, however, declarer must ruff two clubs with the king and queen of trumps, getting back to his hand with a red-suit ruff. After ruffing the fourth round of clubs in dummy, declarer leads the nine of trumps and passes it, taking the marked finesse for the ten of trumps. He can get back to his hand with a ruff to draw the ten with the jack of spades, and the last two tricks are declarer's — a good club and a trump.

Women On Front Lines In Middle East's War

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli women dressed in tight khaki miniskirts are on the front lines in the Middle East war, driving jeeps and treating the wounded.

Thousands of men were pulled from their homes to combat units on five minutes' notice, and many of their wives were called to reserve duty for auxiliary jobs.

"I was glad they called," said Tova, a nurse from Tel Aviv. "I was nervous until I got my orders. I felt as though the war was passing me by and I couldn't do anything. I wanted to help."

Israeli women are conscripted at age 18 and serve 20 months in uniform.

Exceptions are made for married women. Mothers stay at home, but marriage alone is no bar to reserve mobilization during crises.

Women reservists were sent to the Golan Heights and near the Suez Canal, operating switchboards, monitoring radar, doing office work and helping in field hospitals.

No women are put into combat, although they are trained in the use of small arms during their regular military service.

In Israel's first war—the fight for independence in 1948—women soldiers carried guns and fought alongside men in the front lines. Premier David Ben-Gurion then ruled that women should no longer fight.

However, reliable sources reported that some of Israel's casualties in the latest fighting were women.

"When the shells are falling 21 miles from the border, it doesn't really matter if you are on the front line or not," Tova said.

"There is always a chance of getting killed, but it's better than sitting home. All my friends are in the army. It's like a family."

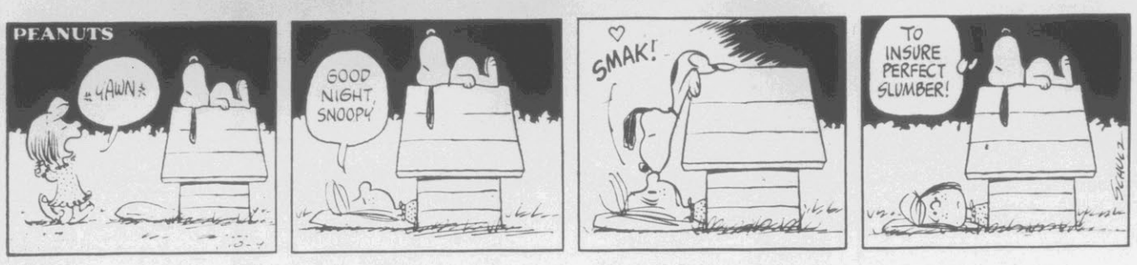

The nurse is working 12 hours a day in an orthopedic ward at a hospital in Haifa, far from the lines. Wounded soldiers are brought there by helicopter from the Golan Heights.

In regular service, many of the women work in paramilitary settlements along the borders, sometimes helping on guard duty. Some become intelligence officers.

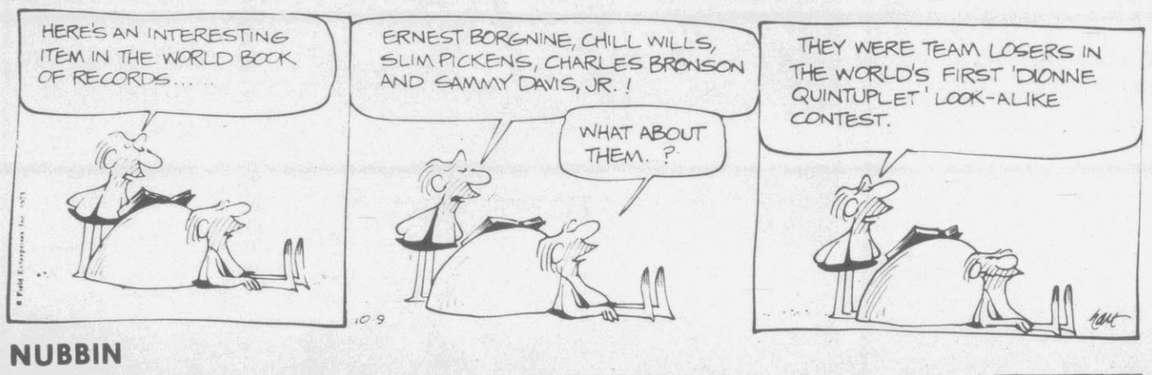

In normal times, the army earned a reputation as marriage broker.

Paratroopers often tell stories of buddies who found love notes tucked into the folds of their chutes. A jet pilot sometimes falls for a girl whose voice he first heard over his intercom at 30,000 feet.

Set Trials For Murder

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Trial dates have been set for early next year for two teenaged youths who claim they are innocent in the slaying of 27 young males here, the worst known case of mass murder in the nation's history.

Elmer Wayne Henley, 17, responded with "not guilty" six times as each of six murder indictments against him was read by state District Court Judge William Hatten on Monday.

David Owen Brooks, 18, said "not guilty" four times on four murder indictments.

Henley's trial was set for Jan. 14, and Brooks will face a jury March 4.

Ted Musick, Brooks' lawyer, indicated he will request a sanity hearing for his client. He said that, if Brooks is found sane, he will ask that the trial be moved elsewhere.

"I don't believe we can get a fair trial here," Musick said. Then, referring to the wide publicity the case has received, he added: "But then I'm not sure where we can."

The two youths reportedly told officers a tale of brutal homosexual rapes and murders.

SALARY LIMITS

OLYMPIA, Wash (UPI) — Nearly half of the registered voters in Washington state signed petitions supporting Initiative 282 which limits salary increases for legislators and state officials to no more than 5 ½ per cent this year.

State Purchaser Faces High Prices And Scarcities

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP) — If high prices and scarcity of needed articles are getting you down, just consider some of the problems that beset Willis Holding.

Holding is acting director of North Carolina's Purchase and Contract Division. As such, he's in charge of buying upwards of $160 million worth of supplies a year—ranging from paper clips to road graders and from soup to nuts.

The energy crisis, rapidly rising prices and shortages of many other items have given his office plenty of headaches in recent months.

This past summer, Holding's office advertised for bids on a list of foodstuffs that included rice, canned peaches, chopped onions and canned cherries. They received no bids at all, and plan to make another effort to buy these items this month.

Holding said the state got only one bid on flour and found that the price had risen from 7 to 12 cents a pound in 90 days.

Like other people, Holding is praying for a mild winter since fuel oil, natural gas and propane—all of which the state uses—are in short supply.

It takes from 50 to 55 million gallons of fuel oil a year to keep public schools, state hospitals, universities and state offices warm.

Normally, a certain supply for all this fuel is under contract at this time of year. But that's not true this year. The supply of No. 2 fuel oil in sight is short of estimated needs, and the state recently has had to go on the open market to buy it.

Another big problem is natural gas which is used to heat some state hospitals, some universities and some state offices.

"I hope nobody will have to close," Holding said, "but may be some agencies will have to keep their buildings cooler than in the past."

Holding's office has had no problem yet with its gasoline purchases—which amount to about 45 million gallons a year. It's got a firm contract that runs out next May.

But like everyone else, the state is paying more for its oil and gasoline. Holding says fuel oil is up 3 to 6 cents a gallon and gasoline up 4 to 5 cents.

Other items that have caused problems for the state purchaser include steel for state license plates, paper, aluminum for highway signs and creosoted poles which the State Highway Division uses in large quantities.

When it was unable to get bids on creosoted poles, Holding said his office arranged to have poles cut on state land and then hired someone to creosote them, but it found only one company that was interested in doing that.

Holding said that when his office asked for bids on steel for license plates it was able to get only one bid and found that the price was up 40 per cent.

According to Holding, paper and paper supplies are in short supply, deliveries are uncertain and prices are up drastically. He said the cost of bond duplicating paper had risen from 80 cents to $1.09 a ream.

Holding says he doesn't expect the paper shortage to ease for about three years. Since demand has outstripped the available supply only new paper plants will ease the situation and new plants would require three years to build and to get into operation.

Also short, Holding said, is wood and better grades of lumber which will affect the cost of furniture and building. The same thing is true of textiles—cotton goods and woolens.

Holding said his office recently opened bids on about 750,000 pounds of sheet aluminum for making highway signs. It found that prices had gone up from 38 to 56 cents a pound.

Holding said the state was able to get through the recent meat shortage "pretty well." He explained that the state Corrections Department operates its own meat processing plant at Butner and that the state had contracts to supply the plant with meat carcasses.

"So, when the tuberculosis sanatorium at McCain ran short of meat, we were able to supply it from the prison meat plant," he said.

$24 Billion In Recreation-Use

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A five-year project to appraise nature in the same currency as a dam or canal has estimated fish and wildlife alone are worth a whopping $24 billion a year to recreation users in southeastern states.

Other areas of the country were not studied.

The study, due for release later this month, hands new ammunition to environment groups that feel the environmental costs of land and water development projects outweigh the economic benefits.

Economist Joseph Horvath, leader of the government-sponsored study, told a newsman the $24 billion estimate for the Southeast was, if anything, on the conservative side.

"You could go to the Supreme Court with this study, it is so thoroughly done," Horvath said in an interview.

That is exactly where it may end up some day, as environment groups continue to file lawsuits to block federal construction projects.

Many projects, such as dams and other major public works, must by law be justified with proof that their benefits are greater than their costs.

But the intangible values of nature have been difficult to estimate in dollars, and therefore have been scarcely counted on the cost side of the cost-benefit equation.

Horvath, chairman of the Environmental Research Group at Georgia State University in Atlanta, said that when he took on the project in 1968 he had to find some way of estimating the dollar worth of environmental intangibles.

The result was the assignment of some 400 field interviewers to question 12,068 households from Maryland to eastern Texas and from Arkansas to Florida—roughly ten times the usual sampling of the established nationwide public opinion polls.

The survey searched out residents who customarily indulged in hunting, fishing, bird-watching or other forms of recreation that depend on fish and wildlife.

They were asked how much a day of such recreation was worth to them, and how much money it would take to persuade them to give up a day of wildlife recreation. A third question was how many days' pay they actually lost by taking time off for such recreation.

The study did not try to evaluate the worth of nonwildlife natural values such as scenery enjoyed by photographers, campers or sightseers.

Horvath said preliminary results showed that wildlife enthusiasts figured such recreation was worth $24 billion a year to them and they would not give it up for less than $31 billion.

He said they actually spent some $4 billion a year on out-of-pocket expenses in pursuing wildlife-based recreation.

Wants Full Fund Report

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt says candidates for elective office in North Carolina should be required to report every penny received and spent in their campaigns.

The lieutenant governor told the Forsyth County Bar Association that the names and addresses of all contributors should be reported and both individual contributors and total spending should be subject to strict limitations.

Hunt said these reforms are needed in state campaign financing. And, he called for an ethics code for members of the North Carolina General Assembly and the executive branch.

He said fines and jail terms should be imposed on violators of some parts of the campaign laws.

Hunt told the group that if candidates do not comply with pre election reporting proce dures, their names should not appear on the ballot, and if they do not comply with post-election reporting, their victories should not be certified.

Oil Leaking Into Yadkin River

WINSTON-SALEM (AP) — City and state officials in Winston-Salem planned to continue searching today for the source of an oil leak into the Yadkin River which forced the city to close down its water intake pumps Monday.

Officials were checking the possibility that the spill came from construction projects in nearby Clemmons or from factories. The city's resevoirs were full when pumping was stopped.

Officials downstream in Salisbury, where water also is drawn from the Yadkin, were alerted.

Season boiled small potatoes with melted butter, lemon juice and minced parsley.

Senior Program By Wm. Ross

William Ross, a senior at Rose High School, presented the program at the meeting of the Elm Street Senior Citizens Club Thursday.

Ross, the Goodwill Ambassador to Brazil, gave a talk and showed slides on his trip to Brazil. He explained the life style of the people and showed scenes of the country and some of its cities.

Mrs. Harriet Roseveare, president, presided at the meeting. The devotional was given by the Rev. Adrian Brown and the speaker was introduced by the Rev. Henry Lofquist.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Lillie Carter, Mrs. Stella Squires, Mrs. Fannie Gilbert, Mrs. Frances Garrett and Mrs. Johnetta Spilman.

When you find the car you can live with, come to us for the loan you can live with. A Planters Simple Interest Loan.

When you finally find the car that was made for you, come to Planters and we'll give you the loan that was made for you.

It's called a Simple Interest Loan, the most modern and convenient way to borrow money ever invented.

Our Simple Interest Loan is designed to give you complete flexibility. You can arrange a loan for a more convenient length of time, you can make your payments any day of the month you choose. If you make them earlier than scheduled you save money on your interest. If you make them later you pay a little more.

If it's more convenient, we'll automatically transfer your payment every month from your checking or savings account.

Either way you'll pay simple interest only on your monthly declining balance, and you'll pay it only for the actual time you use the money. Interest isn't added on automatically at the beginning.

The next time you need to borrow money, come to Planters for a Simple Interest Loan. For a new car or for practically anything else you may want.

It's the best kind of loan you can make. The kind of loan you can really live with.
