Mayor West Re-Elected In Light Turnout

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
Mayor S. Eugene West rode heavy support in the city's larger precincts Tuesday to an impressive reelection victory over councilman W. E. (Bill) Dansey.

unofficial tabulations compiled by The Daily Reflector, West received 3,181 votes in turning back the challenge of Dansey who polled 1,687. Greenville voters, turning out in light numbers in regard to total registration, returned four members of the present City Council to their seats and elected two new members to the city governing board. With veteran incumbent Percy Cox leading the field in council vote totals, present council members Dr. Frank Fuller, Mrs. Mildred McGrath, and Clarence Gray were all reelected and will join Joe Taft Jr. and John Howard on the new board. Cox unofficially received 3,535 votes while Fuller tallied 3,244, new comer Taft 3,092, Mrs. McGrath 3,027, Howard 2,920 and Gray 2,479.

Howard is a former member of the Council. Although the possibility existed under the city's new election system, the need for runoff did not materialize as all six of the top vote getters received majorities. In fact, out of the nine candidates running, eight received majority figures including incumbent John Taylor (2,376) and V. W. (Pat) Thomas (2,305) according to the election process, the top six are automatically elected if they receive majority totals. Linda Medlin, running for the first time, received 1,203 votes.

According to Mrs. Myra Cain, chairman of the city Board of Elections, the total council vote amounted to 24,181, unofficially, with the majority figure being established at 2,016.

West carried six of the nine precincts, including Elm Street Gym, Gardner Fire Station, the American Legion Building, the Rotary Building, Fifth Street Fire Station, and the Courthouse while Dansey received more votes in Precincts One (Meadowbrook), Three (Third Street School), and Four (West End Fire Station).

Precincts Seven and Nine gave the incumbent the largest margins as voters at Elm Street favored West 759 to 224 and the citizens voting at Gardner Fire Station gave the mayor 818 votes to 246 for Dansey. West polled 482 votes at the Rotary Club Building while Dansey received 204. At the American Legion Building, the margin was 385 to 188 in West's favor while at Fifth Street Fire Station, West outpolled Dansey 255 to 183. The Courthouse precinct voted 142 to 50 in favor of West.

Hearing Set For Propane Gas Rates By Utilities

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
The Greenville Utilities Commission last night set a public hearing on the question of adjustments to natural and propane gas rates, approved bids received for three new pickup trucks, agreed to advertise for bids for two large transformers and reviewed the status of propane gas supplies for the coming winter.

Commission members gave tentative approval to a natural and propane gas rate hike last night, pending a public hearing on the proposed increases set for October 23. Utilities director Charles Horne indicated that the utilities' gas department consistently loses money in its operations, and indicated that the rate hike — passing along increases in the commission's cost — should help remedy that situation.

He noted that natural gas prices — the cost paid by the commission for gas — has increased twice in the past 30 days and that the cost of propane gas has also increased. The average increase for uninterrupted natural gas service (mainly individual home users) amounts to approximately 16 per cent, while the average hike for interruptible service (large users such as manufacturing plants) averages 12.4 per cent. Under the proposed hike for uninterrupted service, the present $1.50 minimum would increase to a $2 minimum charge and add a 2.1 cents per hundred cubic feet charge across the board in the other rate structure. (For example, a person using 10,000 cubic feet now pays $19.28 for gas while under the new rate, the charge would be $21.93.)

Interruption service rates would increase from the present 64 cents per thousand cubic feet to 72 cents per thousand cubic feet. Under the proposed new schedule, propane gas rates would increase an average of 20 per cent with the current $1.80 minimum moving to a $2 minimum charge. An across-the-board 15 cents per 100 cubic feet would be added to the current rates under the new schedule. (A home-owner now using 2,000 cubic feet per month now pays $12.80 while the same individual under the new rate would pay $15.85.) The rates, if given final approval, will become effective November 1. The propane rates, Horne explained, are based on commercial prices available locally. Commissioners were told that enough propane gas should be available to fill the needs of local commission customers during the coming winter.

Gas superintendent William F. Weston told the group that an estimated 125,000 gallons of propane gas will be needed to supply customers during the year. He said the commission has 72,000 gallons committed at the present time. Horne explained that in light of the U. S. Government's allocation program, 80,000 gallons of propane will probably be secured from one of the commissions' three suppliers who up until this time has refused to contract to supply the 80,000 they did last year. Horne noted, too, that the commission is no longer taking on large industrial customers for natural gas, but is limiting new service to serve residential customers only in light of the fact that North Carolina Natural Gas — from whom the commission purchases natural gas — will not increase the city's allocation for either firm or interruptible demands. The cost of electricity to the commission is constantly increasing, Horne told commission members, in light of fossil fuel adjustment costs. According to the director, the average fuel cost per 1,000 kilowatt hour (KWH) has been 60 cents over the past few months, with the adjustment cost for September being 71 cents per 1,000 KWH. Horne, who said the fossil fuel adjustment cost has not been passed along to the consumer, said the figure for October will be 85 cents per 1,000 KWH. The fossil fuel adjustment cost is paid to Greenville's supplier — Virginia Electric and Power Co. — to offset that firm's increasing costs for oil and coal. Since January, GUC has paid $194,700 in fossil fuel adjustment (Continued On Page 12)

'Pleased' By Vote

S. Eugene West, now entering a seventh term as Greenville's mayor, was asked this morning to comment on his feeling about his victory.

Congressional Leaders Support Administration

"I am very, very appreciative of the vote and the support given me by the citizens of Greenville," the mayor said, referring to the results of Tuesday's municipal elections. "I hope I will be able to lead the city of Greenville in an orderly and progressive way for the next two years."

Commenting on the results of the election for City Council members, Mayor West said "I am pleased with the council selected by the people and look forward to working closely with them."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon conferred with congressional leaders today and won unanimous support for his administration's efforts to halt the Middle East war. Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, who reported the unanimous support, indicated the congressional leaders were told that it could be a long conflict.

Joyner Again Winner

FARMVILLE—Farmville's incumbent mayor was re-elected by a large margin and for the first time in Farmville's history, a woman has been chosen by the voters as a commissioner here.

Mayor Will Joyner gained a fourth term, with 932 votes over Jimmie Lee Smith, with 269 votes. Mrs. Sarah Albritton led all male contenders for one of two seats on the Town Council, with 925 votes. Second in votes and therefore also a newly elected commissioner is Durwood T. Little. Displaced was W.C. "Bill" Garner, who received 288 votes and "Hap" Nichola, who did not seek reelection.

Indicted

RALEIGH (AP)—The former director of the Pitt Action Committee poverty agency in Greenville faces an indictment charging that he embezzled almost $19,000 in antipoverty funds. A federal grand jury returned the indictments Tuesday against Melde Brooks Newton, now a school teacher in Rich Square. One count charges that between May 31, 1969, and May 31, 1972, Newton embezzled or obtained by fraud $15,455 of Economic Opportunity Act funds.

Linkletter Cites Family Communication Failure

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
Art Linkletter, famous television and radio entertainer who has become a nationally recognized expert on drugs in the years since his daughter, Diane died an LSD-induced death called the strengthening of the American family the only answer to this colossal problem. He quoted a study by two psychologists who taped with permission in a number of American homes 24-hours-a-day for several weeks and then fed the information into a computer to find that there was an average of only 17 minutes of meaningful conversation a week between parents and children. He also expressed his horror at a cabdriver who told him he was working at two jobs in order to give his three children more for Christmas than he had as a child. "That man is denying his children the most precious gift he could ever give them, his own companionship and conversation and other personal expressions of love, to give them material things. How can parents who think like this expect their children to come to them in times of stress for understanding and support to overcome peer pressure to try things like drug use, running away, suicide, vandalism, and illicit sex?" he asked. He got applause for the statement, "Any father who tells his son not to smoke marijuana and comes home smashed from the country club every Friday night has lost already." He continued, "And there's not much difference in escape on marijuana or barbiturates by the young and by their mothers who take tranquilizers to stay calm and pep pills to wake up or to lose weight." Loss Changed His Life He mentioned Diane Linkletter's death only (Continued On Page 12)

Bridge Player Trains Herself To Forget

By ROBERT MUSEL
LONDON (UPI) — There are some who have to train themselves to remember and then there is Rixi Markus, one of the world's great bridge players, who has to train herself to forget.

A woman who can recall 150 deals hand by hand and who needs to be given only the first cards to recite many of the hands in a championship does not, as she says, want to "overburden" her mind.

One day recently the Mrs. Markus her opponents never get to see in competition, a gracious old world hostess radiating easy charm and friendly warmth, took time off from a crowded schedule of tournaments and authorship to discuss her new book, "Common-Sense Bridge" (Random House). She had passed a sleepless night with a toothache but no one would have guessed it.

The new book carries forward Mrs. Markus' belief that tournament or money bridge is a game where the prizes tend to go to those whose play is bold and aggressive and imbued with "killer instinct." "Handle your partner with great care," she says, "be polite to your opponent but show no mercy."

This bold philosophy does not seem to square with the pleasant lady who was a 13-year-old prewar bridge prodigy in Vienna, and she likes to tell about another woman player who, after an informal chat over cocktails, exclaimed: "You're so nice—away from the bridge tables, I mean."

"A lot of people say things like that," she said, not at all displeased. "When they say they like me socially but are inclined to hate me in competition I always reply that I don't want to be liked at the bridge table. I'm most anxious to make friends in the bridge world but I am more interested in being respected and feared during play. Frankly it gives me a great advantage."

Out of Rut

Mrs. Markus considers "Common-Sense Bridge" a "different" kind of bridge book and one that gets closest to imparting the kind of play that took her to European and world championships. It is aimed at the middle grade player, "the millions who have played for years, have reached a certain standard and gotten stuck. This will help them out of the rut. The average player longs to be a Master. Not everyone can make it but this will help."

Over giant asparagus spears and the first fresh Scottish salmon of the season she was asked what steps she would suggest for improving the play of the ordinary bridge enthusiast.

"Play with players who are better than you are," she said. "Watch the play at first class tables. Play for stakes so high that it will hurt you to lose. If you cannot afford to lose you will watch your step and learn to discipline yourself. Make a special effort not to take risks at the start of play. A game is easier if you start with a few successful boards.

"Learn to count cards. Counting must become automatic. You hold five spades, four hearts, three diamonds and one club; therefore the other players must have the missing eight spades, nine hearts, 10 diamonds and 12 clubs. Listen to the bidding and you will already have some information about the cards held by the other three players. Then one player will become declarer, and his partner's hand will go down after the opening lead.

"Now you can see 13 or 14 more cards so you have only to discover the other 25 or 26. After each subsequent trick two of these cards will be accounted for. If you concentrate on counting and accounting for all these cards—even the small ones—you will be very close to becoming a champion."

Mrs. Markus' photographic memory would be a help and so would the run of luck which she says, thankfully, has been with her a very long time. In

Correct Her With Patience

DEAR ABBY: We're trying to teach our 3-year-old daughter table manners at dinner. I say that dinner is a place to be thankful, unwind, enjoy dinner, and have a pleasant conversation. My husband says it's the place to teach our daughter good manners. I agree, but how do you discipline her and let her enjoy her meal without everyone getting upset?

We're going 'round and 'round. Please help us. MOM

DEAR MOM: If everyone gets "upset" when you try to teach your child table manners, there must be something wrong with your method of teaching. Correct her gently with patience, instead of with anger and harsh criticism. And don't pick at her for every little infraction. Let a few things go. Youngsters who are constantly upset during mealtime often develop stomach disorders later.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 19-year-old girl who never had a date.

Well, I met Ralph, this really nice kid at work. He's 24 and on the quiet side. He's not very sharp looking, but he has nice manners and I think he has good character because he's always talking about his involvement in church youth activities. Ralph asked me if he could meet my parents and ask their permission to date me, which I think is rather unusual for a guy these days, don't you?

I invited him over, and my mother said: "He has such nice manners, it's too bad he isn't taller."

My father said: "I never trust a guy who doesn't look you in the eye when he's talking to you, and this guy is one of them."

Abby, I like Ralph, and want to go out with him. Do you think my father could be right?

DAUGHTER VERSUS FATHER

DEAR DAUGHTER: Yes. And he could also be wrong. There are plenty of scoundrels who can look you squarely in the eye and lie like blazes if there's enough to be gained by it. Get to know Ralph better before making any judgments.

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago my sister told me her son had committed a crime and was in prison. [She gave me his address so I could write to him.] She said I am the only person she's told, and to please not mention it to the rest of the family. My sister never told me what her son did or how long he's in for, and I didn't want to question her, fearing it might upset her.

I wrote to my nephew, but didn't have the courage to ask him any questions. I did ask him what I could send him. He answered immediately, and told me not to send him anything because he couldn't accept anything. Can this be true?

Should I write to the warden and ask him what my nephew did and how long a sentence he's serving? Also, it doesn't seem reasonable that my nephew can't accept anything from the outside.

CONFIDENTIAL, PLEASE

DEAR CON: If your nephew advised you that he cannot accept anything, believe him. Don't ask the warden for the particulars of your nephew's crime. If your sister didn't choose to tell you, and your nephew doesn't volunteer the information, refrain from asking. It will come out [and so will he, hopefully] eventually.

Woman Becomes Contractor To Build Her Dream House

SALISBURY, Rhodesia (AP) — There may be other jerry-built houses in Rhodesia, but Su Fleet says that only hers is the real thing.

Su, a Salisbury model, and her architect husband had started building their dream house in the suburbs when disaster struck.

"Our one and only contractor made a mess of it before it was hardly started. And we knew what would happen if we let them carry on.

"We'd have had to pay a lot of money for an inferior job that wouldn't last and wasn't what we wanted in the first place. So I went into Salisbury and tried to register as my own contractor."

Jerry Builders is the new firm's name and Su is director, proprietor, shareholder and key employee.

She was amazed that nobody tried to stop her from forming Jerry Builders.

"They didn't even ask me to lay a brick. All I did was pay $10 (about U.S. $14) with $100 (U.S. $140) deposit. I'll get that deposit back when I dissolve the company.

"So what it amounts to is that for $10 — no experience, no qualifications, no trade tests, nothing — anybody can be a contractor. The only stipulation is that you hire registered labor."

Husband George designed the house. "I hired him for obvious reasons," says Su.

Carpenters, plumbers, electricians and others are hired direct.

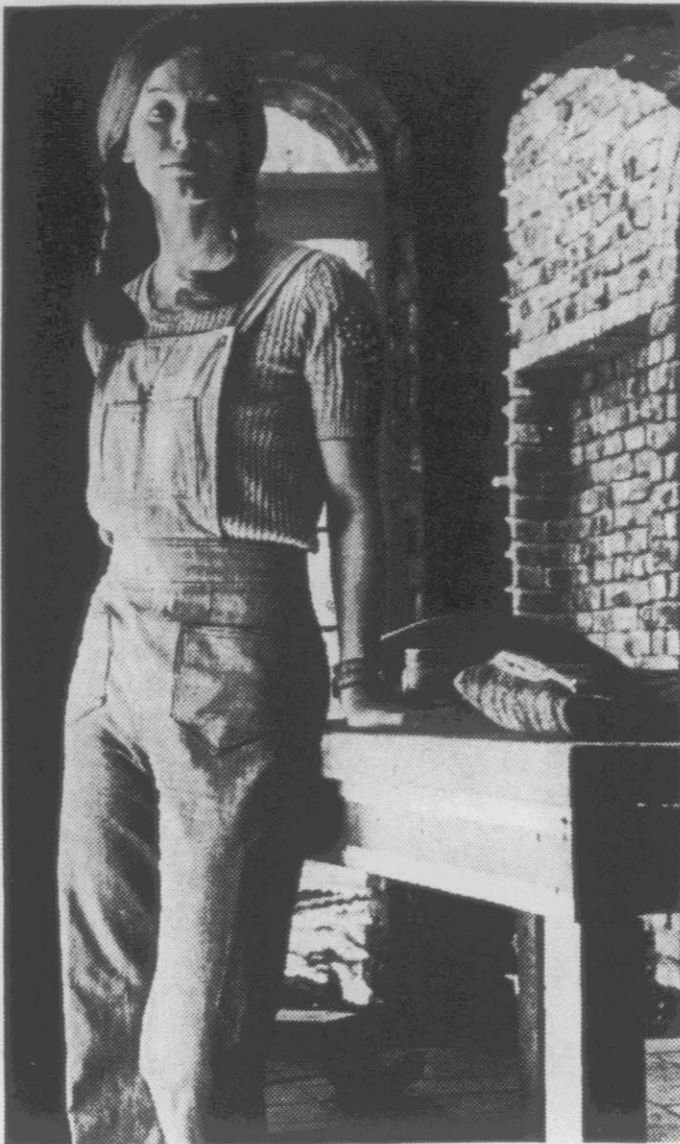

"Normally the contractor does all the hiring for you. But that way you don't know what quality or quantity of materials are being used or even if they are the ones you want. You don't know when it will be finished. You don't know the standards of the workers.

"Once you start stipulating preferences, the costs shoot up. You can't win," Su declared.

George believes that "nobody in this country seems to give a damn about living in jerry-built houses. Nobody cares that they are being taken for a ride. Well, we do."

The dream house is still a shell of rough brick walls. The builders' children play on piles of sand and stacks of lumber. But Su is content.

"At least we'll have the only properly Jerry-built house in the country."

JERRY BUILDER—Su Fleet became her own contractor to get the house she wanted in Rhodesia.

Their Feud Endangers Us All

The Middle East, which has long been a world hot spot, has again developed into a shooting war. Egypt and Syria are engaging Israeli forces on two fronts and at this writing it is difficult to determine in whose favor the war is going.

War has been avoided for the feuding nations since Israel's quick victory in 1967. It has been a smoldering situation ever since, however, and most knowledgeable observers of the Middle East felt that another outbreak of fighting was inevitable.

And so this new fighting came as Israel was observing Yom Kippur.

The Arab nations are far superior in manpower to Israel. At the same time Israel has some of the best military pilots in the world and its ground forces are driven by a zeal to protect their young nation.

It would be far better for the world, though, if this senseless fighting could be halted by the force of world opinion. Hopefully this could be done through the United Nations.

Both the United States and the Soviet Union recognize the great danger to world peace that a Middle East war means. Both of these nations should do all within their power to arrange a cessation of the fighting.

Standoff Over Billboard Poles

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Hundreds of billboard skeletons — bare poles without advertising signs — were slapped up alongside some Interstate highways in North Carolina more than a year ago, and still stand today.

Installed hurriedly by outdoor advertising firms trying to beat a state deadline for enforcing federal bans against billboards, the bare poles are now the subject of a standoff between the state and the advertising companies.

Carolina line.

According to the resolution endorsed by the board, Bracey submitted applications for permits, was denied approval, and proceeded to put the signs up anyway.

One sign was put up alongside Interstate 40 near Asheville when the permit was granted through error.

Most, however, fall in a legally tangled category which involves the effective date of the new law in North Carolina. Highway Administrator Billy Rose said there was "some questions as to the effective date. Federal funds were made available in July, and the board did not formulate the policy until October."

So, between mid-July and October, some 280 signs were built, and in many cases permits were obtained from the state.

It was thought at the time that the effective cutoff date would be October 15. But since then, the attorney general's office has held that the law became effective on the date funds became available — July 17.

Deputy Attorney General Bruce White supported the action of the Board of Transportation to refund the costs of the permits, and order the advertising signs removed.

"I think we are doing the only thing we can do...I think it is perfectly equitable," White said.

The board agreed to declare all permits issued for those 280 signs null and void from the beginning, to refund the cost of the permit, order the signs "unlawful and...a nuisance" and demand removal.

More Legal Tangles?

Highway officials anticipate further legal maneuvering with outdoor advertising firms before the signs come down, however.

Two of the signs ordered removed in another action may constitute an interesting legal case, also.

National Advertising Co. of Charlotte owns two signs located on property owned by W.M. Stewart Jr. on the west side of U.S. 29 near the boulevard leading to the University of North Carolina at Charlotte.

The firm said they will not seek a permit and told the state it could tear the signs down, and told the owner this. But National won't remove the signs themselves. Neither will the state. The board voted to order Stewart to remove the signs within 30 days. This opens the prospect that landowners who lease or otherwise permit advertising signs on their property may someday face the task of removing them if the sign company refuses to do so.

But none of this applies to those bare poles. "We asked the attorney general about them, and we just can't call a set of poles outdoor advertising — if we did that, trees might be labeled the same thing, or some such confusion," Clegg said.

The Transportation Board has moved to clear up another tangle arising from enforcement of the billboard rules.

280 Torn Down

More than 280 signs have been ordered torn down across the state. Several of these were signs which Bracey Advertising Co. of Lumberton put up along Interstate 95 on a 15 miles stretch leading to the South

YDC Support Of Med School Is Significant

The State Young Democrats Club executive committee has endorsed the concept of a four year medical school at East Carolina University.

The action was taken at a meeting in Greensboro last weekend with only two dissenting votes. We feel that the way the younger members of the party feel about this issue will have a great effect on the thinking of the entire Democratic party.

The prospects of developing the medical school are enhanced by this action.

Agnew's Real Target: Nixon

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The intensity of anti-Nixon feeling now beating in the collective breast of many backers of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew can best be gauged by the fact that his brass knuckle attack on Assistant Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen was really aimed at Richard M. Nixon.

"Agnew," one informed Republican says, "wasn't hunting such small game as Petersen. Petersen was simply his stand-in for Nixon."

Evidence in support of that contention is considerable, but one fact, unpublished until now, stands above all others: Agnew had vainly made a private but extremely vigorous appeal to President Nixon himself precisely along the lines of his later public attack on Petersen before the Republican women in Los Angeles last Saturday (Sept. 20).

But the President flatly rejected the Vice President's private appeal in dealing with highly disabling leaks that Agnew said were coming from Petersen and his aides. When Agnew repeated virtually the same attack Sept. 29 — this time with maximum publicity and before a rabidly pro-Agnew partisan audience — the real target was not Petersen but the President.

Thus, the Vice President — admittedly near the end of the political road — harbors deep-seated hostility toward the President which could erupt dangerously. Partly to minimize that danger, Mr. Nixon tried to make clear in his unexpected press conference this week that he is not trying to hound Agnew out of office. That dampened the immediate prospect of open conflict, but scarcely brought true peace.

In telling his press conference that Agnew's decision not to resign if indicted is "proper," Mr. Nixon was responding to intense heat from Agnew's political supporters in the Republican party. But Mr. Nixon, perhaps intentionally ambiguous, left unclear whether he thought Agnew's decision is correct for the country as well as "proper" for Agnew. And he certainly did not endorse the Vice President's attacks on Petersen and the Justice Department investigation.

Indeed, assuaging emotional Agnew supporters firmly convinced that the White House has been trying to engineer Agnew's resignation may be wholly beyond the President's power, whatever he says. Suspicions grown of nefarious White House dealings against Agnew, even if always denied.

Take, for example, the curious, even exotic, trip (financed by tax money) of two top White House aides to Phoenix, with Sen. Barry Goldwater. Goldwater, the most respected Republican party elder, has made no effort to dissemble his strong repugnance for the way Mr. Nixon has handled the Agnew affair and has stoutly defended Agnew.

Vice President Wanted

WASHINGTON — Although President Nixon denied it at his press conference, the White House does have contingency plans in case Vice President Spiro Agnew resigns.

The search for another Vice President is going on quietly, and no stone is being left turned to find the best man for the job.

The head of an executive employment agency in Washington told me he received a call from someone in the White House just last week.

Other Editors Say Efficiency In Govm't

(Durham Herald)

North Carolinians want more efficiency and more economy in state government, and toward that collective goal Governor Holshouser's Efficiency Study Commission has now reported that the state can save about $67 million annually through structural reorganization, "economies in personnel," and realignment of responsibilities.

Some of the recommendations already are being implemented under state government reorganization, which was set in motion in the Scott administration and is now continuing.

Others, such as proposals for elimination of state jobs left vacant for 90 days if they are not considered critical and for phasing out certain positions, remain for official consideration.

And in a recommendation that is a major issue in itself and is certain to spark controversy, the commission has proposed top-level changes for public education that would eliminate the present constitutional office of superintendent of public instruction and would create a position of secretary of education.

The commission has noted that state expenditures have more than doubled in 10 years, from $990 million in 1963 to a projected $2 billion in 1973, and that full-time employment by the state, exclusive of public school teachers, has climbed from 42,000 to 69,000 during the same period.

With state government already large and growing larger, there is good reason for the comprehensive examination of efficiency and economy conducted by the commission, a group of 72 executives who donated their time and effort for the project.

The report, which digs deep into various aspects of state government, emphasizes the need for good business practices. As a whole, the recommendations make a valuable contribution.

Some could be put into effect easily.

But in an area for further examination, some of the recommendations seem to suggest that more power should be placed in fewer hands.

That already has occurred in state government reorganization, and it would be regrettable to see greater centralization of power in the administrative structure at Raleigh.

The aide said, "We're looking for a Vice President of the United States. Do you have anyone on your rolls that we might interview?"

The agency boss said, "No, we don't have anyone listed who is looking for that kind of job. What does the Vice President do?"

"He doesn't do anything."

"Oh, that makes it rather difficult," the agency head said. "Does he have to know shorthand and typing?"

"No, he gets a secretary with the job; also his own staff, a limousine and the use of an Air Force plane. It also pays quite well."

"Let me go through my files. I have someone here. He was the vice president of a large insurance company and ran the claims department. It says here he was indispensable to the company, and the president wouldn't make any important decisions without checking with the vice president."

The White House aide said, "I'm afraid he would be overqualified for the job."

Double Talk Is Needed

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Every body learns at least two languages in his life, whether he realizes it or not.

And if he picks up a foreign language, too, that makes three.

HAL BOYLE

The first language anyone usually learns is the language the people speak where he spends his childhood. Here the native language, of course is American, an offshoot largely of the English language.

The child learns American here because he needs a language in which to say what he is thinking. As he grows older and less truthful, however, he finds he needs a second language in which he can say something — but not at all what he is really thinking.

Slowly picking his way, often by himself, he evolves that necessary second language — double talk. This is usually a mirror image of his native language.

Thus if you were born in New York, you'd learn American double talk; in Paris, French double talk; in Minsk, Russian double talk.

So, while its accent may be national or even provincial, double talk is international, for the need for it arises wherever hypocrisy exists, and hypocrisy, common sense tells us, exists in every land containing

40 Years Ago Today

By SUSAN PRICE
October 10, 1933

Record-breaking prices continued on the Greenville tobacco market yesterday with an average of $15.48 per hundred pounds.

The upswing of prices has affected not only the farmers but interests in every business in the area.

The quality of the tobacco is better and continued offerings of these better grades are expected.

Florida voted today to decide whether the state would be the 33rd in a row to favor repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment or the first in the county to oppose it.

Both wet and dry leaders predicted victory in the elections.

The hook of governmental overthrow which had more than one of its predecessors off Cuba's stormy political stage extended today to President Graux San Martin.

As it washed out on a wave of shifting public opinion, the veteran Nationalist leader, Carlos Mendieta, heard a rising clamor for his reappearance.

Most Cuban leaders are prepared to withdraw support for President San Martin.

JOY IN RELIGION

"Man's chief end is to glorify God and enjoy Him forever."

Thus runs a statement in an ancient catechism. When we first read it we might be somewhat surprised. We should expect to read about duties, about living a good life, or working for the advancement of the kingdom. But this statement puts such considerations aside and instead emphasizes that man's first duty is to glorify God and enjoy Him.

To enjoy God—what a magnificent conception! To walk every day in gladness because He exists. To know that ultimately, because of Him, nothing can overwhelm us. These things constitute joy indeed, and fortunate is the man who has such faith.

All truly great Christians have emphasized the joyful aspects of religion. Our Lord told his disciples to rejoice and leap for joy. He spoke of himself as a bridegroom and of his disciples as members of a wedding party. His indeed is a transcendent yet incarnate joy.

Banking Future Is On Display

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
CHICAGO (AP) — You might see your banking future in the displays at the McCormick Place convention center here. The American Bankers Association is holding its annual meeting, and what do you suppose they've attracted?

Racks of dishes and silverware, displays of stuffed dolls, trays of jewelry. There are Bible salesmen and salesmen of hand-lettered scrolls, and a manufacturer of chimes and carillons who wants banks to ring in the nation's bicentennial.

The Christmas display companies are demonstrating how, with holly and wreaths and candy canes and trees, a bank can transform itself into the spirit of Santa Claus. Christmas is a time for spending, they say.

A grass seed company is urging bankers to offer "horticultural premiums," the suggestion being that the depositor's grass will grow even if his savings might not.

Need it be said that the banks want your money these days, even if they are reluctant to part with theirs in the form of a home mortgage? And they are willing to try almost any enticement, including high interest rates, to get it.

The assortment of premiums on display seems to suggest that if competition by interest rate fails — and to some extent it might have — the banks will be fighting furiously with premiums.

Mere weeks ago some banks thought they had a great thing in their "wild card" CDs — certificates of deposit unrestricted by rate limitations. But then they found a good deal of the money came not from the outside sources but from the passbooks of their own depositors.

The future of retail banking, and to some extent of society too, is demonstrated by the large number of automated, self-service devices that might reduce the bank's overhead, the customer's wait in line — and provide personal service.

One device, designed to operate from the bank's outer wall, is activated by the customer's bank card. Insert the card and a sign appears on the television screen: "Welcome to — bank, where our customers like the way we work for them."

The customer then raps out his request on a device similar to a touch-tone telephone. He might want to make a loan or pay a utility bill or add to his checking account. The TV screen displays the instructions, but if the customer bungles the job a live teller appears on the screen.

At the end of the transaction, assuming the customer performed an act deemed by the card to be legitimate, out comes his receipt or, in the case of a loan, the money. Inside, the transaction is automatically recorded in the bookkeeping system.

The safe companies are here, too, and they have diversified their products to counter the sophistication of those who would do the bank in.

The thief today doesn't necessarily use a gun, although a bullet resistant glass maker is peddling his products. He might try to pass counterfeit bills though, and so the electronic devices are prominent.

human beings more than 4 years old.

The more skillful you become at this second language — double talk — the abler you should be at getting what you want from human society. So it will pay you learn it early and study it well all your life long.

For the benefit of the beginner, here are a few common examples of double talk. In each case, the double talk used by the speaker is in quotes, followed by what he really was thinking:

"I'd rather be right than president of this corporation."

— Anyway, as senior vice president I'll probably live longer.

"I have just begun to fight."

— If we don't start winning soon, we'd better start getting this ship to hell out of here.

"England expects every man to do his duty." Otherwise, it'll be a long swim home for him — or 20 years in the brig without grog.

"I don't mind admitting I had to come up the hard way." — But you'd think at least one member of my family would have left something behind besides debts.

"Oh, no, you're not boring me in the least." — But you might make the situation more interesting if you'd simply drop dead.

"Pardon me, I'm not crowding you, am I?" — What kind of nut are you, anyway? Did you think I'd just let you elbow me out of my place in this line?

"After all, money can't buy happiness." — But if you've got the right kind of dough, baby, you can buy me.

"So nice of you to come." — You can do us an even bigger favor by being the first to leave, too.

Look, don't you have someone who is very presentable, likes to play golf, and make fund-raising speeches and won't bug anyone because he has nothing to do?"

"I'll check. Wait a minute. This may be the person you're looking for. He's 49 years old, very good-looking, is a fantastic speaker, a great athlete and is a nut about leisure time."

"That sound pretty good. Where is he?"

"Well he was indicted in some building scandal in St. Louis, but he'll be available right after his trial."

"No," said the White House aide, "on second thought I don't think he's the person we have in mind."

"I have a card on another executive here. He's now working for an oil company but wants to improve himself. He's a very attractive fellow, active in his church, involved with community affairs, has a lovely wife and is a lawyer by profession."

"He sounds good," the White House aide said.

"He also serves on the board of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People."

"Oops! Who else have you got?"

"I don't know. Most of the people registered with us are very talented. I'm not sure they would be interested in a job that didn't have any responsibility. Say, wait a minute, there was a woman who came in the other day and..."

"I tell you what I'll do," the agency head said. "I'll start scouting around to see if I can find anyone with the qualifications you have in mind. I'm sure we can find someone to fill the job. Is there any chance for advancement?"

"You can tell your clients that if the person keeps his nose clean and doesn't bug anyone in the White House, he could move up to President of the United States in 1976."

"Say, I might even be interested in the job myself," the agency man said.

"What's your name?" the White House aide asked.

"Dean—John Dean, but I'm no relation to the one who..."

The White House aide slammed down the phone.

Bright Outlook For Year 2000

NEW YORK (UPI) — By the year 2000 the average work week will be 31 hours. It is predicted retirement at age 55 or less will be commonplace. There will be about 50 million retired persons. They will live to age 80 or 90 and keep middle-age health and vigor virtually to the end of their lives.

That glowing report comes from the University of Nebraska-Lincoln.

Recording Debut For Sen. Ervin

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin, who has become something of a television celebrity in his role as the bushy-browed chairman of the Senate Watergate hearings, has launched a recording career.

The 76-year-old Democrat from North Carolina may not have the moves of Elvis Presley or the voice of Frank Sinatra, but Columbia Records likes his rustic drawl so much that it's helping him make his show business debut just in time for Christmas.

Al Hamm, the record company's New York producer, thinks the record ought to sell at least 500,000 copies the first week it is released, sometime between Nov. 1 and Christmas.

Tentative titles for the record are "Conscience of America" or "Senator Sam at Home."

Ervin, in a voice that belongs to a man who likes to sit around on Saturdays in western North Carolina and tell stories, talks about everything on the recording — about family recollections, moonshiners, court cases, young folks, America and, as he is wont to do, about the Bible and poetry.

The one thing Ervin doesn't chat about is politics.

"It's a very nonpolitical record," said the record's associate producer, Loomis McGlohon of Charlotte.

"He (Ervin) just tells stories about people like Judge James E. Boyd of Burke County, N.C. who once tried a fellow named Joshua Hawkings."

The story goes something like this: As Joshua was approaching the bench, Judge Boyd asked him: "Are you the Joshua who made the sun stand still at Jericho?"

"No sir," the man replied. "I'm the Joshua who's accused of making the moonshine in Burke County."

Jesse Harris, director of the Greenville Human Relations Council will speak on matters related to the School Bond referendum that is coming before voters on November 6.

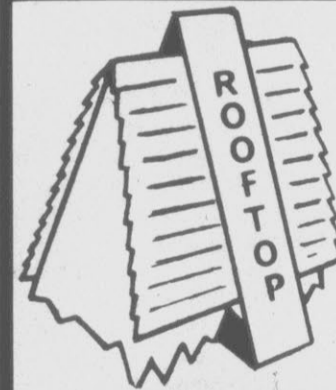

Robert Steward, principal at Third Street, notes that refreshments and classroom visitations will follow the meeting. Reginald Girdharry, the school's PTA president, has requested that members of the Third Street School executive committee arrive at 7:30 p.m. for an executive session.

Farmville Mart $91.48 Day On

FARMVILLE—The Farmville Tobacco Market yesterday averaged $91.48 per hundred pounds after selling 540,340 pounds of tobacco for $494,281.

According to Louis Williams, sales supervisor, the volume of sales Tuesday was heavy. Offerings consisted of mostly leaf and smoking leaf grades. Marketing of cutters and lugs showed a large increase in volume as compared with last Thursday's sale.

Prices continued steady on practically all grades. The demand for quality leaf grades was strong.

BIRDSEYE VIEW--The 9-mile Rio-Niteroi Bridge snakes its way across Rio's beautiful Guanabara Bay.

New Bridge For Rio Planned To Be A Key Link

By BRUCE HANDLER
Associated Press Writer
RIO DE JANEIRO (AP) — A 9-mile bridge, billed as the "largest structural complex" in bridge-building history, is nearing completion across Rio's famous Guanabara Bay.

Brazil's military-run government hails the $160-million Rio-Niteroi Bridge as another major step in this country's rapid drive toward progress. Some people who live near the new bridge, however, are having second thoughts.

"There is nothing extravagant or Pharaoh-like about this," Transportation Minister Mario Andreazza told a reporter recently. "This is a useful project — a project of highway linkage that will serve nearly 10 million people."

But Joao Batista Catete Silva, head of the Public Works Department of Niteroi, an already overcrowded city of 350,000 across the bay from Rio, declared: "Where will we put 20,000 cars a day? This whole plan was imposed on us."

The bridge will be a key link in Brazil's Atlantic Coast highway, which runs 2,500 miles from Natal, at the tip of the country's northeastern bulge to near the Uruguayan border, and is almost all paved. Despite the fact that you can see Niteroi from downtown Rio, it now takes 45 minutes to get there by ferryboat or two hours in a car on a bumpy 70-mile road that circles the bay. The government predicts that 5.5 million vehicles will cross the Rio-Niteroi Bridge in 1974 — the inauguration is set for January — and that this figure will jump to 12 million by 1984.

There have been plans to connect Rio and Niteroi for nearly a century. Emperor Pedro II okayed an underwater railroad tunnel between the two cities in 1876, but the project never got off the drawing boards.

Work on the present bridge officially began in 1968, during a visit of Queen Elizabeth II to Brazil. British banks financed part of the cost, British material and equipment were imported during the construction, and two British firms are in the Brazilian government-run consortium now coordinating the work.

The bridge's early days were marred by delays, cost overruns and fatal accidents.

As of July, 1973, more than 20 construction laborers and engineers had been killed while working on the bridge. Some 7,000 men work on it every day. The six-lane bridge lies on a series of huge pillars and will be 235 feet above the water at its highest point. Each pillar is as tall as a 45-story building but has half its length anchored in the thick mud under the bay. There will be a 300-yard clearance between the two middle pillars, to allow ships of all sizes through.

U.S. Biggest Arms-Seller

By JOSEPH W. GRIGG
LONDON (UPI) — Down at Greenwich on the River Thames the public rooms of the 300-year-old Royal Naval College are bristling with weapons. There are models of warships and aircraft, radar and gunnery equipment components, range finders, guns, pocket compasses—thousands of items of the most modern military hardware.

A Defense Ministry spokesman said, "They constitute the largest exhibition of naval equipment ever mounted by our defense sales organization."

All of it carries a sales price tag. In British embassies abroad defense attaches proudly show off a glossy 900-page illustrated catalogue of arms the British government is ready to sell.

The 16,500-ton British naval support ship Tarbatness calls all year-round at ports of friendly countries to demonstrate military hardware the British government offers for sale.

All this illustrates the fact that selling arms is big business today, with governments out in front making hard sell pitches against each other.

They have not entirely ousted the small men who sell mostly second hand weapons and equipment to "national liberation movements" and small developing country governments. But the big deals are being clinched by governments themselves. The United States, the Soviet Union, France and Britain between them knock off more than 80 per cent of the estimated $15 billion a year market. Britain ranks a poor fourth in this field.

The United States, according to British defense sources, leads the world in weapons sales with an estimated total of at least $5 billion a year. Most of the sales are to other North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) countries, the Far East, Israel and Latin America. The United States also is in the process of re-equipping part of the Spanish navy to the tune of about $250 million.

British defense experts say the Soviet Union runs the United States a close second in the arms sales league. No figures are available of the sums involved, but the Soviets armed North Vietnam, re-equipped Egypt and Syria with billions of dollars worth of arms after their defeat in the 1967 Six Day War with Israel, and has equipped all members of the Communist Warsaw Pact alliance.

According to the British experts, France ranks third in the arms selling business, to the tune of more than $1.25 billion annually. Only recently the French Defense Ministry said France is negotiating the sale of between 34 and 38 Mirage 3-E fighter bombers to Saudi Arabia. French officials said the sales drive was started after the United States showed reluctance to sell Phantom jets to the Saudis. Paris reports say France also may sell Crotale (Rattlesnake) ground-to-air missiles to Saudi Arabia and Libya.

Britain's military exports this year will be worth $1.012 billion compared with $862.5 million last year and $250 million six years ago, according to Defense Ministry figures. A recent announcement that Britain has sold eight Harrier "Jump Jet" (VTOL) fighters to Spain for $30 million sparked an angry summer political storm in Britain. Labor opposition leader Harold Wilson branded it an "outrage" that Britain should sell to "fascist" Spain.

Rural Kings' Power Dims

NURRY PASHA, Egypt (AP) — Donkey-riding rural kings of Egypt may soon lose their traditional thrones.

For centuries these shabby-looking "Umdas," clad in galabias (long, flowing robes) have wielded enormous power over their fellahin (peasant) subjects. This was clearly demonstrated in 1858 when the Umdas extended their subjects' help in the formidable task of digging the Suez Canal.

The Umda, who receives no salary, listens to complaints and settles minor disputes, and serves as a link with the distant government in Cairo. He has sole authority to raise taxes or to exempt persons from paying taxes. He can also draft persons into the army or order their homes searched.

Assisting the Umda as village law enforcer are Ghaffirs, galabia-wearing policemen, who carry rifles which date back to World War I.

Khatab Mohamed, the Umda of the 2,500 residents of this village of Nurry Pasha, says things are changing.

"I am elected for five years and if the people of the village are disappointed they could choose another Umda."

Some politicians in Cairo would like to do away with Umdas, but the peasants like them and trust them.

Arkansas River Project Biggest

LITTLE ROCK (UPI) — The development of the Arkansas River for navigation, flood control, hydroelectric power generation and other purposes was the largest civil works project ever undertaken by the Army Corps of Engineers.

The 448 mile system now is in use from its mouth at the Mississippi River to Catoosa, Okla.

Training Area Active Again

LONDON (AP) — The ghost village of Imber, in Wiltshire, which was evacuated in 1943 to provide U.S. soldiers with a realistic training area, has been converted into a mock Northern Ireland town.

British troops will be given training in anti-urban guerrilla warfare.

Watergate Changed Role For GOP Chairman Bush

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

George Bush thought his main job as Republican national chairman would be to convert President Nixon's 1972 landslide victory into a "New Republican Majority." Then came Watergate.

It led the 48-year-old Texan to become a party spokesman seeking to separate the Republicans from the scandal enveloping their own administration.

"There has been a need to put the party role into perspective," the former ambassador to the United Nations explained in an interview. "There has been a need to get that message across, the fact that the national committee is not responsible, that the party is not involved."

Though Bush renewed the now-familiar Republican litany that Watergate won't hurt the GOP at the polls, he conceded he has become more cautious about party prospects in the 1974 congressional elections.

He said the loss next month of Republican-held governorships in New Jersey and Virginia, which some party leaders see as a growing possibility, "wouldn't look good at all" but added that a string of GOP successes in recent local elections is proof "this isn't going to wipe out the Republican party."

Discussing his eight months on the job at GOP headquarters on Capitol Hill, Bush also said: "There's been a recovery" in the flow of contributions, and the committee will be able to meet its $5.5-million budget, about three times as much as the Democrats, without further staff cuts or borrowing.

"The controversy surrounding Vice President Spiro T. Agnew cannot help the GOP but, as for the effect on elections, 'I don't think one could possibly measure that at this point,'" Bush said Agnew's 1976 presidential prospects certainly have not been enhanced, but he added that vindication could change that.

—The launching of 1976 presidential soundings by Govs. Nelson A. Rockefeller and Ronald Reagan, Sen. Charles H. Percy and John Connally is encouraging. "We seem to have a wealth of qualified talent," he said. "I can't help but look at the Democrats and think, in this particular area, we're in pretty good shape compared to them."

—In line with an effort to make the national committee "a little more election-oriented," he stepped up party programs to provide assistance to candidates and potential candidates.

These include weekly campaign management schools, and at least three "New Majority Workshops" to stress ways of seeking support from those whose first GOP vote was cast in 1972 for President Nixon.

"These workshops will hopefully demonstrate to party leadership and candidates how to attract so-called New Majority voters, how to attract them to Republicans when you don't have a presidential race on," Bush said.

He said special effort will be made to increase GOP strength among minorities and among ethnic groups.

Bush forecast close races in two gubernatorial elections next month.

In Virginia, Democrat-turned-Republican Mills E. Godwin is locked in a tight race with Lt. Gov. Henry Howell, running as an independent. In New Jersey, Rep. Charles Sandman, who unseated GOP Gov. William Cahill in the primary, is running against Democrat Brendan Byrne.

"I think they're both very important," Bush said. "But I don't see either of them as a test of Watergate."

He said if the GOP lost the governorships, both captured from the Democrats four years ago, "it wouldn't look good at all. We wouldn't like that."

"Of course," he said, "if we won the two, I would hope we would get tremendous acclaim, having pulled off the impossible in a year when others would have thought it would have been impossible to win anything."

Since Auld, his wife and two young children moved into the house a year ago they've been in the front line. When two windows were shattered in five days, Auld threatened to seek an injunction in the courts.

WOMEN IN OFFICE
SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Figures compiled by the Texas Women's Political Caucus show that women hold 6.4 per cent of the elective offices in the state. Of the 18,309 elected officials, 1,174 are women.

In discussing the 1974 elections, Bush avoided any prediction that the GOP could win control of the House or Senate — which would take a net gain of 26 in the House and 7 in the Senate. He talked in terms of avoiding further losses.

"Maybe we're just euphoric," he said, "but we think we have a chance to turn around what is the normal off-year syndrome, namely that the party in power loses seats in the off year."

Bush noted that President Nixon has said he will campaign for Republican candidates in 1974, and the chairman said those who hope to succeed the chief executive should follow the example of Nixon's all-out 1966 stumping for GOP congressional candidates.

"We'd like to see all these candidates out trying to help elect other Republicans in 1974," he said. "It might be a good thing for them to do for their own future, too. It didn't hurt Nixon any."

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices slid lower today in generally heavy trading.

Analysts said the fighting in the Mideast and some profit taking after recent substantial gains were the primary reasons for the drops.

At 11:30 a.m., the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 4.59 at 969.60, while declining Big Board issues had a more than 2 to 1 lead over advancers. Half an hour earlier the Dow had been off 7.08.

IBM was delayed in trading today for the announcement of its earnings. It announced third-quarter earnings of $2.81 a share, compared to $2.21 for the same period last year.

IBM and Telex were not traded Tuesday. The U.S. District Court judge who last month had awarded Telex $352.5 million in an antitrust suit with IBM said Tuesday he had made substantial errors in computing the award and would hold a new trial on the penalties. International oils, with substantial losses in market trading Monday and Tuesday, generally were down fractionally today amid continued investor worries over the effects of the war in the Mideast.

Procter & Gamble was lower by 1 to 95. The company said Tuesday it expected lower first-quarter earnings.

Among the oils, Exxon was down 1/4 at 90 1/2; Texaco, off 1/4 at 31 1/2; Royal Dutch, down 1/4 at 39 3/4; but Standard Oil of California was up 1/4 at 68.

Cluett Peabody, down 1/4 at 8 1/2, was the Big Board volume leader, followed by Merck & Co., up 1/4 at 88 1/2; Boise Cascade, down 3/4 at 17 3/4, and Bausch & Lomb, up 3/4 at 48 3/4.

The Big Board's index of some 1,500 common stocks was down .30 at 59.24, while the American Stock Exchange market-value index was down .17 at 107.70.

National General warrants were the Amex volume leader, down 1 3/4 at 14 3/4.

briefly, saying he was at the Air Force Academy in Colorado to make a speech when the news came. "No one who has not actually experienced the loss of a child in this fashion can ever know how terrible the loss is," he said. "It changed my life. I became determined to learn all I could about drugs and help other parents not to have the heartbreak my wife and I did, and to save as many children as possible from such a fate. Being a victim does not make one an expert, but it gives him a powerful motivation to find out. I visited prisons and crisis centers and crash pads and good neighborhoods and ghettos all over the country, learning all I could and I've become part of several programs to combat the problem."

All the proceeds from his new book, Drugs At My Doorstep and from talks like this one go into the Diane Linkletter Fund, administered by the University of California School of Medicine, which helps in various ways to fight drug addiction. He also supports financially from his own income from entertainment and several businesses many drug combat enterprises from halfway houses to the salary of an undercover agent in California, he indicated.

He traced the history of drug addiction in the United States from the Civil War, when the advent of morphine and the hypodermic needle caused a wave of addiction, not improved by the substitute developed in 1898, heroin. Alcohol is the most abused drug of all, he said. Commenting on the recent drug wave, he said LSD are considered "stupid" by youngsters today and that heroin and amphetamines use is declining, but that use of barbiturates and a new synthesized barbiturate, methaqualone, is the problem now, along with marijuana.

Marijuana grows all over the world he said, but varies in strength according to the amount of sunlight it gets and to what part of the plant is used. He said a person's response depends both on his stability and what mood he happens to be in when he takes it. He also cited studies which shows that habitual users deteriorate both in their ability to remember and think clearly and in their ability to discipline themselves.

He congratulated local people on their desire to start a coffeehouse ministry here that they plan to call Starting Point. "It should serve to help young people out with all their problems, not only with their struggles with drugs, he said. "Lend it your full support. If you help 20 kids in a year and surely there'll be more, it will be worth thousands. And if you save the life of only one child, it will be of untold value. I speak as a father who knows when I tell you how precious the life of one child is," he said.

Freedom Award

was honored after Linkletter's talk by witnessing the presentation to Linkletter of a Freedom Foundation Award. Joseph Butterton of Valley Forge, Pa. made the presentation on behalf of Gen. Omar Bradley. "We love our children, too, and we appreciate what you're doing for them and that is why we're giving you this special Freedom Award," Butterton told Linkletter.

cent of the total registration." She said that although official figures will not be available until Thursday, the turnout yesterday represented roughly 40 per cent of the total registration, or slightly over 4,900 voters. She added that both figures were tentative and could vary either way according to the results of the canvass.

In the 1971 municipal elections, some 4,355 voted out of a registration of 9,086 or roughly 48 per cent. This year, there were 12,286 eligible voters on the books.

Commissioners also agreed — as a formal policy — to turn over to the commission's attorney, for legal action if necessary, the collection of amounts due the utilities for such things as damages to poles, water lines and other installations, caused by accidents, construction work or other causes.

cost to VEPCO. The commission awarded a contract to Phelps Chevrolet Co. to supply three 1974 model trucks to the commission for a total cost of $8,231.70 as low bidder for the vehicle. Other bids received included $8,607.20 from Bill Haddock Chrysler-Plymouth and $9,614 from Hastings Ford. The board also approved advertising for bids for two transformers needed — one at the East Carolina substation and the other at the Southside facility — to allow for 110KV delivery voltage on transmission lines over the GUC system in 1975.

Bids for the two units will be accepted November 5 and delivery of the transformers — expected to cost in the neighborhood of $100,000 each — will be about December 1974.

At present the delivery of electricity is at 34 KV. The increase in delivery voltage will be needed to insure an adequate supply of current to meet the demands of GUC customers in coming years, it was pointed out.

Commissioners approved two new policies last night. They voted to eliminate the policy to supply gas to post lanterns at a flat rate. With only one customer taking advantage of the $1.50 per month charge for gas post lanterns, the board agreed to supply lanterns through metered connections.

Commissioners also agreed — as a formal policy — to turn over to the commission's attorney, for legal action if necessary, the collection of amounts due the utilities for such things as damages to poles, water lines and other installations, caused by accidents, construction work or other causes.

Chargers Alone In First; Face Aycock

One game past the halfway point in the 1973 football season, Ayden-Grifton's Chargers have emerged as the sole possessor of first place in the Eastern Carolina Conference.

Following their 50-14 rout of Eastern Wayne, the Chargers are 4-0 in the conference, while previously unbeaten North Lenoir fell to Southern Nash, 16-0, dropping out of a tie for first.

There is a log-jam for second, with four teams just one game behind the Chargers, including Farmville Central, Greene Central, North Lenoir and Southern Wayne. All post 3-1 marks.

In other action last week, Southern Wayne ripped Charles B. Aycock, 37-0, Greene Central pummeled Conley 32-7, and Farmville Central bombed North Pitt, 39-6. This week, a prime battle sends Farmville Central to Southern Wayne with the victim in this one falling further behind. Elsewhere, Aycock is at Ayden-Grifton, North Lenoir is at Conley, Eastern Wayne is at Southern Nash and Greene Central hosts North Pitt.

In the Northeastern Conference, Ahoskie surprised unbeaten Roanoke Rapids, 19-0, last weekend, leaving Edenton, a 12-8 winner over Tarboro, all alone in the league's lead. Other results say Plymouth down Bertie, 20-14, and Williamston over Washington, 22-21.

Plymouth visits Ahoskie, Washington is at Bertie, Roanoke Rapids is at Edenton, and Tarboro goes to Williamston in this week's action.

Robersonville and Elm City stand atop the Eastern Plains Conference, with 2-0 marks. Robersonville blasted Lee Woodard, 49-0, last weekend, while Elm City topped South Edgecombe, 34-6. In the other games, West Edgecombe beat North Johnson, 13-12; Saratoga won its first game, downing Rock Ridge, 15-13.

The two leaders collide this week, with Robersonville visiting Elm City, while Lee Woodard is at North Johnson, Rock Ridge is at South Edgecombe, and West Edgecombe is at Saratoga.

Finally, in the Coastal Conference, Havelock pulled into a tie with West Cartaret in the early standings, both now 1-0, after a 34-0 rout of West Craven last week. In non-conference games, East Cartaret remained unbeaten with a 22-16 win over Camp Lejeune, Jones Senior was dumped by Jacksonville, 46-7, and West Cartaret lost to Kinston, 6-0.

East Cartaret visits Jones Senior, while West Craven plays out of the conference against Roseboro-Salemburg. Both Havelock and West Cartaret are idle this week.

The biggest job of the week in the Eastern Carolina loop belongs to Farmville Central as they take on the veteran Southern Wayne Saints.

Farmville Central is coming off one of their better wins, a victory over North Pitt. "We played better," Coach Gene Brewer said. "The main thing was that we were ready to play when we went on the field. We didn't have to get up on the field, and we didn't make as many mistakes either."

Brewer singled out Ronnie Wilkes for his running of the ball against the Panthers. "Our defense did a pretty good job overall," he added.

The Saints, however, are another story. "They're tough. They have a good ball club, with most of their players back from last year. So they have plenty of experience. They are primarily a running team, with good backs and good speed."

Brewer's opponent from last week was quite unhappy over his team's loss. Danny Wilmer of North Pitt felt the Panthers "just laid down and quit."

"I don't have any praise for anyone. We didn't play well. We did make some changes in our lineup to try and get something going, but the people we put out there apparently didn't want to play either."

Wilmer did note that several of his top players didn't suit up for the game. Two, Johnny Vines and Marion Barnes were injured and John Moody was sick.

"We've only got 19 players left," he said.

This week, their assignment is no easier, as they play tough Greene Central. "I know they'll be tough," Wilmer said. "They run out of the pro-I and they have a real strong defense. They go after you pretty hard. But then, I guess all of your games are tough when you're 0-5 and you're played a team that, 4-1."

Another team that came out on the short end this past week was Chuck Dunn. "We played give-away most of the night," Dunn moaned. "We had two fumbles and a pass interception on our first three possessions. That kind of set the tone of the game. We were behind before we even got started." Dunn felt that his Vikings didn't block or tackle well. "We started four sophomores in the offensive line, and this makes a difference too."

Defensively, Dunn singled out Eddie McGowan and Klye Edwards for their play. Edwards intercepted two passes. Offensively, Johnny Smith, who caught four passes, including one for a touchdown, drew laurels.

This week, the Vikings have a chance to help out the Chargers with a win over North Lenoir. "They're 4-1, so they must be pretty good," Dunn said. "We know they run a lot of sweeps, that they have a good defense and are good hitters."

Ayden-Grifton's Mike Overton, sitting atop the pile, feels his Chargers cannot relax, even though they are playing winless Aycock. "We can't afford to look ahead," Overton said.

Against Eastern Wayne, the coach felt the Chargers had another good team effort. "They made some mistakes and we were able to capitalize on them. They did about what we expected of them."

Greg Nelson, who passed for 253 yards, and Milton Brown, who caught 147 yards worth of them, drew praise, as did freshman William West, who came in to spell Tony Koonce, and picked up 88 yards. "He did real well for a freshman," Overton said.

He had praise for the entire defensive unit.

"We know Aycock has a young ball club, and they've had their ups and downs. If we play ball we can give them a good game. They run from the slot-I and like to throw."

"I don't anticipate any looking ahead. We're playing Aycock this week, and that's the only team I'm interested in," he added.

Tentative Agreement May End Strike Early

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Commissioner Mike Storen of the American Basketball Association said the league had reached a tentative agreement early this morning to ward off a possible players' strike.

Storen was meeting in Indianapolis with the league's player-representatives, Bill Melchioni of the New York Nets and Roger Brown of the Indiana Pacers. Storen said the two representatives wanted to contact Arlan Preblud, the players' attorney, in Denver, before officially resolving the dispute.

Efforts to call Preblud were unsuccessful but the league was hopeful of reaching him early today.

Frank Goldberg, chairman of the ABA's negotiating committee, also was in Denver for the telephone hookup.

If the players and the club owners fail to settle the contract differences involving pension rights and travel accommodations, the ABA season may not get under way tonight.

Melchioni, secretary of the players' association, said late

Tuesday night that seven of the league's 10 teams had voted to authorize a strike after negotiations had broken down.

The key issue, Melchioni said from Indianapolis where the Nets were scheduled to play the Indiana Pacers tonight, is over pensions. The players are demanding that the age of eligibility for receiving a pension be lowered from 65 to 55.

Players also are demanding first-class travel on trips of more than one hour. Currently, the ABA furnishes second-class or coach fares on trips of less than two hours' duration.

Tonight's schedule, which would be postponed unless a late settlement is reached, has New York at Indiana, Memphis at Utah and San Diego at San Antonio.

Paschall Puts Magic In Heels

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Bill Paschall, the University of North Carolina's baby-faced quarterback, has put a touch of scoring magic in the Tar Heel attack in his seven quarters of football action this fall.

Since coming off the bench against Missouri, Paschall personally has tallied 20 points — a team high for the year — thrown passes for two touchdowns and, in general, kept the Tar Heels rolling offensively.

Most everyone at Chapel Hill seems pleased with Paschall's performance except Paschall himself. "You can't be happy when you lose," he says.

Paschall got his chance at quarterback when the Tar Heel's two top signal callers, Nick Vidovic and Chris Kupec, went out with injuries.

But Missouri defeated North Carolina and, in his first start last week, Paschall's team was edged by Atlantic Coast Conference arch rival North Carolina State, 28-26.

Paschall and his Tar Heels get another chance to put a win on the board Saturday night when they face Kentucky of the Southeastern Conference at Lexington, Ky.

At College Park, Maryland Coach Jerry Claiborne, whose team has allowed only one touchdown from scrimmage this season, hopes his Terps can keep their record intact Saturday against powerful N.C. State.

"There's no question that State is the best team we've played this season," Claiborne said Tuesday. "They have a super offensive team, with four backs as good as any in the country."

The game at Raleigh, N.C., will decide the midseason leader in the ACC football standings. The Wolfpack is on top now with a 2-0 record, with Maryland in the runnerup spot at 1-0.

The only other intraconference game on Saturday has Virginia's Cavaliers traveling to "Death Valley" for Clemson's homecoming. The Cavaliers held their first full-scale practice of the week Tuesday.

Joe Mark, Virginia's assistant head coach, says his team will be meeting a strong opponent. "We will have to execute more consistently on offense against Clemson. They have a very hard nosed, aggressive defense, especially their front four people."

In other games Saturday for ACC teams, Wake Forest hosts independent South Carolina in a night game and Duke hosts Tulane in an afternoon contest.

Campaneris' Homer Lets A's Win, 2-1

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
OAKLAND (AP) — Oakland shortstop Bert Campaneris, the 155-pounder dubbed "Baby Ruth" after home runs in two straight games, predicts the A's will win their way into the World Series again today.

"I don't care who's pitching, we'll win," declared the explosive little infielder whose 11th-inning leadoff home run beat Baltimore 2-1 Tuesday and gave Oakland a 2-1 edge in the American League playoffs. The defending world champions will represent the American League a second straight year if they beat the Orioles' ace right-hander, Jim Palmer, today. He shut them out 6-0 in the opener of the best-of-five playoff series.

Oakland left-hander Vida Blue didn't last through the first inning in that one but he'll be back facing the Orioles again.

"We have a well-rested Blue who has shown he can pitch well against anybody," said Oakland Manager Dick Williams. "Certainly we have a chance against Palmer."

Campaneris hit only four home runs during the regular season but he led off the second game of the championship series with a homer and ended the third game with one. That provided the pitching victory to southpaw Ken Holtzman, who threw a three-hitter.

Campaneris, who was suspended the final three games of last year's playoffs when he threw his bat at a rival pitcher, said he hit a slider, low and inside, for his game-winning homer.

"I wanted to throw it further inside," commented a disappointed Mike Cuellar who had allowed only three hits before Campy's homer.

The A's victory put all the pressure on Baltimore and Palmer.

"We have our backs to the wall," admitted the hurler who won 22 games and lost nine on the season. "If I don't pitch well and we lose, we're eliminated. I'll try to pitch the same way I did in Baltimore."

Earl Williams got Baltimore off to a 1-0 lead in the second inning when he slammed a Holtzman fast ball over the left field fence, the Orioles' first homer of the series.

Holtzman then retired 14 batters in order before walking Tommy Davis in the seventh.

Oakland didn't score until the eighth, when Manager Williams' strategy paid off.

He sent Jesus Alou up to hit for catcher Ray Fosse and Alou golfed a blooper into left field for a single. Fleet Allan Lewis went in to run for Alou.

Williams had selected Angel Mangual originally as the pinch hitter for second baseman Dick Green but, with a bunt the obvious play, he switched and used Mike Andrews.

The bunt went to Cuellar, who was off balance when he fielded it. So he threw to first—the sacrifice working. Campaneris struck out but Joe Rudi banded a broken-bat single off his fists to score Lewis from second.

Girls Capture Tennis Victory

ROCKY MOUNT — Rose High School's girls' tennis team recorded their seventh victory of the year against four defeats yesterday, downing Rocky Mount's Lady Gryphons, 8-1.

In claiming their third straight win, Rose won five of the six singles matches, then swept the three doubles events.

Rose was to close out their regular season today in Wilson. They will then take part in the sectional tournament, to be held the next week in Wilson, with the state finals to be held in Chapel Hill the following week.

In exhibition matches, Catherine Garrett downed Kitty McGee, 6-2, 6-3; Brenda Harrison downed Corbey Bullock, 6-1, 6-2; and Jill Carney beat Wanda Spikes, 6-0, 6-2, for Rose, while Rocky Mount's Allison Sellers beat Kathy Still, 6-0, 6-4.

Summary of matches:
Susie Pittman (R) defeated Helen Williams, 6-3, 6-3.

Becky Piner (R) defeated Renee Halcomb, 6-4, 6-1.
Lou White (R) defeated Jenny Horne, 15-13, 6-3.

Sara Wilcox (R) defeated Teresa Joyner, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1.

Robin Smith (R) defeated Laura Nobles, 6-3, 2-6, 6-4.

Julia Ward (RM) defeated Helen Waldrop, 4-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Pittman-Piner (R) defeated Williams-Halcomb, 8-4.

White-Wilcox (R) defeated Horne-Joyner, 8-4.

Cassie Deyton-Peggy Barber (R) defeated Bennett-Beth Persall, 11-9.

Greens In Win

The Green team rolled to a 38-14 victory over the Blue team in 7th and 8th grade tackle football yesterday at the Elm Street Park field.

The Green team pushed over three scores in the first period to wrap it up. Ronnie Chapman passed to Richard Nunn for a 25-yard strike, and then Nunn ran two yards for the second score. Michael Shank added the extra point. Chapman closed out the scoring in the period with a 10-yard run.

The Greens sandwiched two scores around the first by the Blue team in the second quarter. Shank scored on a five yard run and Chapman hit Nunn with a 10-yard pass for the other, with Thil Hurley scoring the extra point. The Blue score was a 65-yard kickoff return by Robert Williams, who also made the extra point, making it 32-7 at halftime.

The Blue got a score in the third when Donald Little recovered a fumble in the end zone, and Williams got the PAT. In the final period, the Greens added a score on a 15-yard scamper by Nunn.

The Greens now lead the league with a 2-0 record, while the Blues are 1-1. The Gold and Orange, who meet on Thursday, are both 0-1.

Lakers Did Not Miss Big Wilt

By BERT ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Sports Writer
How much will the Los Angeles Lakers miss Wilt Chamberlain?

Hardly at all, if their season-opening game can be used as a barometer.

The Lakers, playing without the 7-foot-1½ giant who jumped the National Basketball Association club recently and signed as player-coach with the San Diego Conquistadors of the American Basketball Association, began their NBA Association campaign with a 117-97 victory over the Chicago Bulls Tuesday night.

Despite his absence, Chamberlain was the major topic of conversation after the game.

"I don't think anybody is going to miss Chamberlain the way people might think," said Los Angeles Coach Bill Sharman.

"I've been under terrible pressure for several seasons with Wilt in the lineup because I thought I always had to out-play the big man," said Jerry West, the Lakers' All-Star guard. "With him gone now, I am not going to play as tight."

West didn't appear tight against the Bulls, firing in a game-high 28 points, including 10 during a third-quarter spurt when the Lakers burst from a 66-66 deadlock into a commanding 82-71 lead.

Gail Goodrich added 26 points for Los Angeles, and Chet Walker topped Chicago with 26.

In other NBA openers, defending champion New York squeaked past Detroit 101-100, Atlanta trounced Capital 128-114, Buffalo edged Houston 107-105 in overtime, and Golden State's game at Cleveland was postponed because of a wet floor.

Walt Frazier scored 27 points and Dave DeBusschere had 23, but it was Bill Bradley's second-half shooting that triggered New York's come-back victory over Detroit and gave Coach Red Holzman his 300th victory with the Knicks.

Bob Lanier paced the Pistons with 29 points, 20 in the first half.

Lou Hudson scored 41 points, Pete Maravich had 24 and Walt Bellamy collected 23 while Jim Washington grabbed 24 rebounds for Atlanta in the team's easy victory over Capital. Mike Riordan led the Bulls with 26 points.

Bob McAdoo, last season's Rookie of the Year, hit a 25-foot shot with two seconds left in overtime, lifting Buffalo past Houston. McAdoo, a doubtful starter because of a broken nose, finished with 31 points and 21 rebounds. Rookie Ernie DiGregorio had 17 points and set a Braves' club record with 14 assists in his pro debut.

Calvin Murphy topped Houston with 31 points.

Rose Cracks Homer To Tie Up Series

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — They threw an apple, a tennis ball and an egg at Pete Rose, but the only flying object he cared about was a baseball.

to give the Cincinnati Reds a 2-1 victory over the New York Mets and tie the National League playoffs at two games apiece.

"I wasn't thinking about a home run, I must confess, but I wanted to hit that ball all the way to the airport," said Rose, who apparently felt he struck a blow back at the Mets' fans for their animosity toward him.

Rose had been the object of scorn here ever since his fight with New York shortstop Bud Harrelson, a scuffle that triggered a full-scale melee during Monday's bizarre game.

"Sure, I heard them booing at me every time I showed my face," said Rose. "They kept throwing things at me, too. But that only makes me play harder."

Cast as the villain, Rose heard the boos once more as he stepped to the plate in the top of the 12th inning to face New York reliever Harry Parker.

Someone threw an apple at Rose, but he brushed it aside with his bat, looking darkly toward the stands. Then came the tennis ball and the egg.

It was reminiscent of Monday's affair, when Rose was showered by pop bottles, beer cans, batteries and a whiskey bottle in left field. The garbage shower took place after the Rose-Harrelson fight and the resulting battle royal.

The fans remembered Monday's infamous "Rose-Bud Incident" and continually hissed the Cincinnati left fielder before he pumped Parker's 2-2 fastball out of sight over the right field fence.

Then the 50,786 fans were dramatically silent, for the most part, as Rose circled the bases with his right hand held high in a clenched-fist gesture of victory.

Rose singled twice and walked before smashing his second homer of the this five-game series.

Until Rose's winning hit, the fourth game of the National League playoffs was full of other pulsating drama. The Mets had taken a 1-0 lead in the third inning on Felix Millan's run-scoring single and George Stone protected that slim advantage until the seventh. At that point, Tony Perez slugged a home run, his first hit in 15 at-bats in this series, to tie the score at 1-1. After Stone walked Andy Kosco with two out, Tug McGraw came on the scene and pitched scoreless relief through the 11th inning.

Tom Seaver, the ace of the Mets' pitching staff, meets Jack Billingham in today's game.

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League record for rushing in a single season is 1,863 yards—at the moment, that is.

league's single-game rushing record with his 250 yards in the Bills' 31-13 season-opening romp against New England.

"These guys have been telling me I'm going to get 1,800 yards or more," Simpson said after the victory over Philadelphia. "and Reggie keeps saying I'm going to get 2,000."

Others nominated for Offensive Player honors included quarterback John Hadl of Los Angeles, rookie running back Chuck Foreman of Minnesota and, with a special mention, punter Jerrel Wilson of Kansas City.

Hadl completed 10 of 16 passes for 179 yards—including touchdown plays of 38, 15 and 69 yards—in the unbeaten Rams' 31-26 victory over Houston.

Foreman rushed for 114 yards on 16 carries in the unbeaten Vikings' 23-9 triumph over Detroit.

Wilson averaged a booming 50.8 yards on six punts, the last one a 62-yarder with 1:47 to play that wrecked any hopes Denver had of going for a game-winning field goal and preserved the Chiefs' 16-14 victory over the Broncos.

Look out, Jim Brown. Your once "untouchable" record may be crumbling.

With less than one-third of the season gone, O.J. Simpson is more than one-third of the way to breaking it. And if guard Reggie McKenzie and his teammates on Buffalo's offensive line have anything to say about it, he'll run it into the ground—which just happens to be what O.J. has been doing to the opposition.

Impossible? Hardly. He's already got a brilliant 647 in his four games, more than half the 1,251 he amassed last year when he won the league rushing title. And if he can stay healthy and keep up this phenomenal pace, he'll wind up this year with well over 2,200 yards.

Take last Sunday. Take any Sunday, for that matter: But last Sunday is typical. The Bills gave O.J. the ball 27 times and he ran with it...and ran...and ran....

GOLF, Ill. (AP) — The Western Golf Association said Tuesday it will post its biggest purse ever—$200,000—for the 71st Western Open next year and boost first prize to a record $40,000.

Championship scheduled for the Royal Selangor Golf Club in Kuala Lumpur, Malaysia, have been changed to avoid conflict with the Muslim fasting month.

The men's competition, originally slated for Oct. 9-12, will be played Oct. 30-Nov. 2 and the women's tourney, formerly planned for Oct. 2-5, will be played Oct. 23-26.

The World Amateur Team Championships are played every other year and are contested by three four-player teams representing member countries of the World Amateur Golf Council.

CINCINNATI (AP) — Goal-tender Rocky Farr, who walked out of the Cincinnati Swords training camp two weeks ago, claiming he wasn't given a chance with the parent club, the Buffalo Sabres of the National Hockey League, has returned.

Paul Curtis, a defenseman who played with the Los Angeles Wings and the St. Louis Blues, was also assigned to the Swords of the American Hockey League.

The additions forced the Swords to send defenseman Jack Taggart and center Wayne Chrysler to Charlotte of the Eastern Hockey League.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Relief pitcher Pete Richert of the Los Angeles Dodgers checked his mail at the club office Tuesday and took possession of what may be the most post, post-season award.

It was the 13-year-old Southern Association Rookie-of-the-Year trophy. Hal Potten, league president, sent the trophy along with a letter.

Potten said he discovered the trophy while cleaning out a store room, and "why I didn't find it before now, I'll never know."

Richert, who had a 19-9 record at Atlanta in 1960, also was the Southern Association's Co-Player-of-the-Year that season.

King Faisal's Oil Decision Poses Risks

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent
What enigmatic, 69-year-old King Faisal of Saudi Arabia does in the current Middle East crisis can have an immense impact on world politics. Even the Soviet-American detente may be at stake.

Another humiliation of the Arabs' combined military strength could spell big trouble for the United States should Arab frustration lead to the use of oil for retaliation.

Should Faisal decide to turn off his spigot as a punishment for American support of Israel, the energy crisis would be knocking at the door because the United States has come to rely heavily on assurance of continued flow of Arab oil.

When the new fighting erupted, Iraq announced nationalization of the interests of two U.S. companies in Iraqi oil. Though not significant in the world oil picture, it could apply a prod to other Arab producers, notably Saudi Arabia.

Faisal, a pillar of Moslem conservatism, has shown concern with the future of the Saudi dynasty ever since he pushed his brother Saud aside and assumed direction of the country. One way to assuage revolutionary elements in a nation caught by the clash of modern and feudal might be for the ruler to become an Arab hero.

Faisal probably is convinced that the United States needs him much more than he needs the United States, since non-Arab producers couldn't possibly make up for a Saudi oil cutoff.

The Saudis already had aroused Western concern by indicating they would not necessarily produce all the West might need, that they—like others in the area—didn't want to earn more money than they could safely handle and that they were thinking of conserving riches in the ground, sure of constantly increasing value.

The situation is weaving a tangled world political web. Moscow's leaders have been concerned about keeping alive the spirit of detente with the United States in view of potential benefits to the Soviet economy. But, as Leonid I. Brezhnev said a few weeks ago, the Middle East situation is full of "dangers for the cause of world peace."

One danger is that the Kremlin can't make up its mind whether peace is worth the price of lessened influence. It has shown little inclination to prevent new conflict, and its propaganda to the Arab world has dwelt on the efficacy of oil as a weapon.

Moscow seems to want to link the Arab cause inextricably to an over-all "anti-imperialist struggle" so that any Arab hopes of success must reflect credit on those advocating close ties with the Soviet Union.

But clearly if the United States were plunged into major crisis as a result of the new fighting, the situation could get out of hand. And if it did, the whole structure of the detente could collapse in a new superpower confrontation.

Automation In Welding, Too

SECAUCUS, N.J. (AP) — Manufacturers are increasing investments in automatic welding equipment, according to National Standard Co.'s Auto Arc Division.

Currently, 5 per cent is automatic with potential at 20 per cent. By 1980, one-third of all welding is expected to be automatic.

Companies making more than 100 repeatable welds a day are investigating automatic welding.

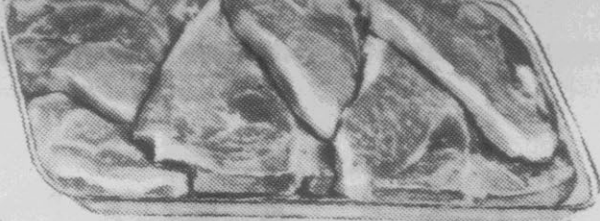

Investigator Is Also A Victim

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Sheriff's deputy Pete Maggard had reason to be peeved while investigating a burglary at a nearby trailer court.

Maggard said he returned to his patrol car to find that someone had removed the red light from atop the vehicle. Officials said the light was found smashed a few miles down the highway several hours later.

Professor's Lifestyle Takes Turn

DOVER, N.H. (AP) — Things that seem ordinary to most career women are extraordinary to Jeanne Gardner.

For the first time in her life, she is financially independent. She comes home to her own apartment filled with bright clothes, skiing and sailing equipment. She goes out at night with both male and female friends, and she can take off for a European vacation anytime she wants.

Jeanne Gardner is 40 years old, but she began her current lifestyle just 10 months ago.

For 22 years before that, she was a nun.

Now she is assistant professor of education at the University of New Hampshire in Durham. She is strong-willed and dedicated to teaching.

"I have been accused of being powerful, overwhelming," Dr. Gardner said. "A male-oriented society just can't accept that. I have my feet on the ground, and it's not always appreciated."

She left the Sisters of Mercy Convent in Cumberland, R.I., last August when she realized she couldn't resolve the questions she had about herself and her status in the order.

"I think the direction of my life changed because the direction of education and thrusts have changed. It doesn't mean that I'm turned off on the church. That has nothing to do with it at all," Dr. Gardner said.

"It's just that my dedication to education is stronger at this point than my dedication to service in the church."

As a teaching nun, Dr. Gardner said she often felt thwarted by the religious community.

"I saw myself doing some different things in the community if they would let me," she said. "As time went on, it became much more obvious they weren't going to let me."

Dr. Gardner earned a master's degree from Rhode Island College and a doctorate from the University of Connecticut while she was still in the order.

She used the time at school to make up her mind about leaving the Sisters of Mercy.

"My belief in the church has not changed" since she left, she said. "My stand on birth control very definitely has. I still can't accept abortion, but that is for my own personal reasons. I think the church would not be in the position that it's in concerning abortion if it had realistically looked at the birth control issue."

"I'm not sorry for that 22-year phase of my life. I think I gained as much from it as they gained from me," she said. "But admittedly there is a need for other kinds of companionship that were not available in the church."

Phone Office Is Expanding

D. A. Collier, district commercial manager for Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, announced today that a $253,000 project is now underway to expand the company's central office local dial equipment here.

The program will provide facilities not only to serve new subscribers in this area, but also to permit higher grades of service for existing subscribers.

"Recently," Collier said, "the growth of Greenville has accelerated the demand for telephone service. As a result, the maximum capacity of present equipment has nearly been reached."

In the past 10 years, for example, telephones in service here have increased from 10,500 to more than 26,200.

"The expansion project here was engineered to enable the company to meet future growth requirements," Collier noted.

Set Halloween Party Monday

A Halloween Party for school children in the Greenville area will be held Monday, Oct. 15, at 1515 Broad St., beginning at 7:15 p.m.

The party, sponsored by the Modern Woodmen of America, will include games, contest and other activities for all ages.

Larry Stox is serving as chairman of the festival.

The 'Worry Clinic' Cheaper Food Available Now

Marie says her dilemma is not lack of boudoir cheesecake but dining room roast beef, which she can't afford. So notice how to feed your family at possibly only 50 percent your present outlay. Smart folks can eat more cheaply!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
CASE Y-539: Marie T., aged 33, has a serious problem. "Dr. Crane," she smilingly began, "my dilemma does not involve what you call erotic calories or boudoir cheesecake. "For I have sent for 4 of you sex booklets via our local newspaper, so I am no longer worried about losing my husband to an outside siren. "But it is dining calories that now are my big worry! "For our income has recently been much reduced by the fact that my husband gave up his full time job to go back to College for some advanced training. "That means we must count pennies and make them stretch, for my husband can work only part time. "With a family of 3 kiddies, that means there are 5 of us at the table. "So how can I feed by family adequate calories, yet stay within my present limited budget?"

Smart Cooks
Actually, the more brains you have (and use) the less you can live on, as in Marie's emergency.

with enough values to insure game. North's diamond response was music to South's ears, and he converted happily to three no trump. The opening heart lead was won in the closed hand and declarer led the jack of diamonds, playing low from dummy. East realized that it would be futile to win the king of diamonds, for dummy's whole suit could then be brought in. The only hope for the defense was to shut out dummy's diamond suit, so East played low smoothly. Thrilled by the apparent success of the diamond finesse, declarer continued with a diamond to the ten. East won the king and exited with a heart. Declarer was locked in his hand with no way to get to dummy. Tho he eventually succeeded in getting the defenders to lead a spade, thereby scoring the queen on a finesse, he could only come to eight tricks—two spades, four hearts and a trick in each minor suit. While declarer could have brought in the whole diamond suit by playing the ace on the second round, there was no sound reason for doing so as the play developed. Declarer's error had been made in his choice of which card to play from dummy on his first diamond lead!

Declarer had available a line that would have given him considerable extra play for the contract. He should have overtaken the jack of diamonds with the queen in dummy. East must hold up, and now declarer, who started with seven top tricks, is up to eight. Before repeating the finesse in diamonds, declarer should test the spades by leading to the queen. When this finesse wins, declarer has his nine tricks and does not need another diamond finesse. He can lead a diamond to the ace, and when the king drops on this trick South ends up with thirteen tricks. If the spade finesse loses, declarer can always repeat the diamond finesse.

For it is the stupid and thoughtless buyers who squander money unwisely to feed a family. If your kiddies are old enough to add and subtract, enlist their help in computing the number of calories per penny in various foods sold at the grocery store. Many fancy breakfast cereals contain but 8 ounces, yet sell at about 65 cents per box, meaning 8 cents per ounce. One ounce of starch or sugar equals approximately 125 calories, so those fancy boxed cereals thus cost one cent for every 15 calories of food value. Plain old-fashioned oatmeal usually beats them all! Shrewd housewives can also get 20 grams of protein from the following 5 food sources but at the priced portions at the right. Beware, for I have mixed up the prices so test your wits in trying to match them correctly. (Answers below).

(a) Sliced bacon (v) 6 cents
(b) Pork sausage (w) 15 cents
(c) Dry beans (x) 19 cents
(d) Peanut butter (y) 45 cents
(e) Beef liver (z) 52 cents
Which one of those foods gives you 20 grams of protein for only 6 cents?
And 3-day old bread costs less, but has the same caloric value. Besides, why pay top prices for velvety bread when you toast it, anyway?

Smart shoppers can also procure bargains on fresh fruits and vegetables late Saturday afternoon, for grocers then cut prices because they know such items may spoil before Monday. But don't bankrupt your food budget to give kiddies fresh fruit juices, for it is cheaper to offer them an all-purpose vitamin ampule daily!
Marie could probably save on water bills, too, for if the hot water heater is in the basement and 40 feet from the upstairs bathroom faucet, the family will waste 476 gallons PER MONTH (& $1.79 electricity bill), waiting to draw the hot water upstairs!
Place your heater nearer the faucets to save money.
And just one dripping faucet (at one drop per second) wastes 210 gallons per month!

- (a) Sliced bacon 52 cents (z)
- (b) Pork sausage 45 cents (y)
- (c) Dry beans 6 cents (v)
- (d) Peanut butter 15 cents (w)
- (e) Beef liver 19 cents (x)

Opening lead: Ten of ♠ Things are not always what they seem to be. A fine defensive effort by East wrought declarer's downfall, but a major share of the blame must attach to declarer himself. South was faced with a difficult decision at his first turn. An opening bid of two no trump usually guarantees stoppers in all four suits, and the diamond suit was virtually unprotected. However, he decided that any other opening bid was likely to produce unnecessary complications in the subsequent bidding, and also ran the risk of having his partner pass
