Boys Set Man Afire

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — A homeless derelict who was doused with gasoline and set afire by four laughing teenagers managed to name one of his attackers before he died, police say. Charles Scales, 38, was sleeping in an alley behind an abandoned building Saturday night with two other men when the boys, all about 15, poured gasoline on him and lit it, police said Sunday. Officers said the youths also set fire to Emmett Sprattling and tried to burn the other man, who ran away. The victims and the attackers were black, a police spokesman said. No arrests had been made late Sunday.

Labor Chiefs Angry

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — The AFL-CIO convention approved a resolution today calling on President Nixon to resign and urging Congress to impeach him if he doesn't.

The action by the 2,000 delegates representing 13.4 million members of organized labor came shortly before Sen. Daniel K. Inouye said Nixon should resign because Americans "have suffered enough" and "must be spared this new pain and trauma."

The delegates rose to their feet to applaud a resolution by the organization's executive council calling for the resignation or impeachment.

No dissenting votes were recorded from the floor.

The AFL-CIO said the resignation of Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson and the firing of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox were shocking and "absolutely unprecedented" and said that if Nixon does not resign, "we call upon the House of Representatives forthwith to initiate impeachment proceedings against him."

Threaten Friday Strike

DETROIT (AP) — United Auto Workers President Leonard Woodcock says his union will authorize a national strike of the Ford Motor Co. for Friday if a contract agreement is not reached today. If a 10 a.m. Friday strike were authorized, negotiators would have until that deadline to reach agreement on the three-year pact. The union must give Ford at least three days' notice of cancellation on the current pact, which has been extended since it expired Sept. 14. Woodcock said on Sunday that a strike, which would involve about 185,000 Ford workers in 28 states, could be avoided although Ford apparently has made no concessions on the union's demands for voluntary overtime and an early retirement plan for foundry workers.

Missing File Probed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The FBI reportedly is investigating the disappearance of a confidential federal file on the Florida savings and loan association run by associates of Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo.

The Baltimore Sun reported in today's editions that the documents are missing from the offices of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board and that the board reported the incident to the FBI.

An FBI spokesman confirmed that an investigation was under way of missing board documents. But the spokesman said he did not know if they related to the savings and loan association run by Rebozo's associates. Rebozo is a Key Biscayne neighbor and close friend of President Nixon.

The Sun quoted a bank board spokesman as saying one of the documents was a report involving the application by the association — the Key Biscayne Savings and Loan Association — for federal deposit insurance.

The board approved the insurance application last July 18 after first rejecting it. This turnaround is currently being investigated by the House Banking Committee to determine if Rebozo used his influence with the administration to swing the approval.

UN Cease-Fire Resolution Is Accepted By Israel And Egypt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israel and Egypt accepted a United Nations resolution calling for an in-place Middle East cease-fire today as the first step toward ending the Arab-Israeli war.

High sources in Amman said that Jordan also would abide by the Security Council appeal for a halt to the fighting after 17 days of the fourth Middle East conflict since 1948.

The Syrians kept silent but were expected to follow Cairo's lead. Iraq, the other major Arab participant in the war, announced its refusal to abide by the U.N. resolution, but this was not expected to affect the truce efforts significantly.

U.N. officials at first said the cease-fire would start at 12:49 p.m. EDT. U.N. headquarters in New York later officially set the start at 12:50 p.m. That would be 6:50 p.m. in the Middle East.

But as the deadline approached, tough fighting was reported near the Golan Heights and on the western bank of the Suez Canal.

Syria said its troops were locked in a fierce battle with Israelis for control of a strategic position on Mt. Hermon overlooking the Golan Heights battleground.

Cairo said Egyptian infantry and tanks were attacking the Israeli invasion force on the western side of the canal in an apparent attempt to push them back as far as possible before the cease-fire hour.

Cairo radio announced four hours before the cease-fire deadline that Egypt would stop fighting. The Israelis agreed to the U.N. proposal hours earlier in a statement issued from Tel Aviv. But both sides objected to proposals in the U.N. resolution dealing with the steps to be taken for permanent settlement.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, meanwhile, flew into Israel for talks with Premier Golda Meir on the cease-fire deal he worked out in Moscow over the weekend with Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev.

Iraq, which has troops, tanks and planes fighting with Syria, said over Baghdad radio it would not accept the Security Council truce resolution, sponsored by Russia and the United States. The Iraqis cited a policy of "refusing negotiations, peace and recognition of the enemy." But their refusal was not expected drastically to alter the military situation.

The immediate test appeared to be whether the Egyptian, Syrian and Israeli forces, engaged in a bitter war since Oct. 6, could now stop fighting. The Israelis have taken more Syrian territory than they held before the war started, and a chunk of Egyptian territory west of the Suez Canal. The Egyptians having recaptured some of the Sinai peninsula occupied by Israel since 1967.

"President (Anwar) Sadat, as supreme commander of the armed forces, has ordered the General Command to cease fire at the deadline set by the U.N.

Security Council, provided the enemy abides by it," Cairo radio said.

The Israeli government announcement accepting the call also set conditions, insisting Israel would continue its refusal to withdraw from the Jordanian, Syrian and Egyptian lands captured in 1967 unless the Arabs agree to a peace treaty.

The Security Council truce resolution was adopted early today after an emergency Sunday night meeting. It called for the in-place cease-fire 12 hours after its adoption at 12:49 a.m. EDT.

The Alternative Of Impeaching Nixon Today Becomes War Cry

By MICHAEL PUTZEL

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Impeachment of the President, an almost unthinkable alternative a few days ago, is suddenly a war cry for some and on the lips of many after the weekend firing of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox. Members of Congress, away from Washington for the Veterans Day holiday, expressed shock and dismay at the rapidfire developments that left President Nixon in legal limbo and the attorney general and his deputy out of their jobs.

At least 28 members of the House, where impeachment proceedings must begin, supported initiation of steps to remove Nixon from office. Most were liberal Democrats, but dozens of others in both House and Senate, including some ranking Republicans, said impeachment would now be given serious consideration.

The first formal steps are expected to come Tuesday when Congress returns from the long weekend. Several impeachment resolutions are likely to be introduced, and Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr. of the House Judiciary Committee will be asked to launch an inquiry to determine if grounds for impeachment exist.

White House aides Melvin R. Laird and J. Fred Buzhardt sought to dismiss the talk, predicting that Congress would await the outcome of a White House compromise plan to release partial transcripts of Watergate-related tape recordings authenticated by a senior senator.

It was that plan that precipitated the latest Watergate crisis when special prosecutor Archibald Cox rejected it, saying a summary could not be used as evidence in court and his acceptance would block further efforts to obtain White House documents he needs to make his case.

President Nixon then ordered Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson to fire his special prosecutor, and Richardson resigned rather than comply. The job fell to Richardson's deputy, William D. Ruckelshaus, who also refused and was fired.

Solicitor General Robert H. Bork, No. 3 in command at the Justice Department, thus became acting attorney general and fired Cox. The Watergate special prosecution force was dissolved.

Nixon is under federal court order to surrender the tapes to U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica for the judge's inspection and decision on whether to turn them over to a grand jury as evidence. Sirica's order was upheld by the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, and Nixon declined to seek a Supreme Court review before the order went into effect at the end of the week.

Sirica, who is out of the city until Tuesday, directed his staff to research alternatives for his next step, which could include holding the President in contempt of court.

Meanwhile, a spokesman for Cox's 80-member special prosecution force, announced that the team was determined to carry on under the mantle of the Justice Department and would show up for work Tuesday without Cox. But whether the force will be allowed to remain apparently is up to Bork, who is to announce the future of the Watergate probe Tuesday.

And, outside the White House, the normal weekend quiet was shattered by motorists spontaneously demonstrating their support of sidewalk pickets who flashed placards reading "Honk for Impeachment."

Demo Chairman Hoping Time Can Heal Wounds

RALEIGH (AP)—Members of North Carolina's Democratic Executive Committee have criticized party chairman James Sugg of New Bern for not calling the committee into session since August 1972.

"If other people are like I am, they are kind of losing interest in a party when you're on an executive committee that is supposed to set policy and the chairman hasn't the guts to call it into session," former gubernatorial hopeful Hugh Morton of Wilmington said.

Morton's comments and those of other committee members were reported in today's edition of the News and Observer of Raleigh.

The newspaper quoted Sugg, who was praised by Democrats attending the Vance-Aycock Dinner in Asheville during the weekend, as saying he had not called a special meeting of the committee because time was needed to heal wounds left over from the 1972 campaign when Democrats lost the governorship and U. S. Senate seat.

"After the election there was so much emotion and speculation as to why things went the way they did. There was too much bitterness and rancor for people to sit down in harmony. We needed time to heal this division," Sugg said.

Party rules require the committee to meet at least every two years.

Dr. Lavonia Allison, chairman of the Durham Executive Committee, said a meeting was needed because "we ought to discuss the future direction of the party, how to pull it together, how to get it into shape to win elections."

Another committee member, Jane Patterson, chairman of the Guilford County Committee, said that "all we want is a general rap session. We want to get involved in party affairs. We don't want to sit here and vegetate. It seems that Sugg is afraid to call the committee into session and I don't understand why."

"He's afraid the McGovern people, the blacks and the labor people are going to get together and kick him out. But that's not true. That just wouldn't happen," said Charles Winberry of Rocky Mount, former president of the Young Democrats.

The current YDC president, Thomas Barringer, publicly acclaimed Sugg's leadership during the meeting in Asheville.

Other praise came from party leaders such as Hargrove "Skipper" Bowles, the party's nominee for governor in 1972. "Keep him," Bowles told other Democrats.

Area SBA Office Will Open Here Tomorrow

The U.S. Small Business Administration will open an area office here tomorrow at 319 South Evans St. to serve 33 eastern counties.

The formal opening — at 2 p.m. ribbon cutting — will follow a 12:30 p.m. luncheon at the Greenville Golf and Country Club at which time Marshall Parker, associate administrator of the Procurement and Management Division of the Central SBA office in Washington, D.C. will outline details about the local operation.

The opening of the local area office was announced by George W. Marshall, district director of the SBA for North Carolina, who said Paul H. Behlau, loan specialist from the Miami SBA office has been appointed as officer-in-charge of the Greenville facility.

The SBA is involved in working with banks and other lending agencies in making loans to small businesses to help them get started or to enable them to expand; working with communities in development programs; and working with businesses in management assistance programs.

According to Parker, "We hope to assist the state effort to continue to develop tourism and the seafood industry in the coastal area and . . . to work with state people in their industrial development."

Marshall pointed out that the SBA, in the past, has co-sponsored workshops and other projects with East Carolina University and community colleges in the area. "With the opening of the new office, it makes it possible to make studies for industrial and technical research for future industrial development," he noted.

Behlau has been a loan specialist traveling out of the Miami office since 1967. Prior to that time he was a revenue officer with the Internal Revenue Service from 1958 until 1967.

He received his B.A. degree from the University of Miami and served three years in the Navy during World War II and was in the construction business before entering governmental service in 1958.

The area has been served in the past by a monthly circuit rider from the SBA office in Charlotte.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Another advice columnist keeps insisting that homosexuals are "sick." She says: "Thousands of homosexuals have written asking me where they can get straightened out so they must consider themselves twisted, or they wouldn't be asking for help. Occasionally I hear from homosexuals who are at peace with themselves, but they are few and far between. I believe the majority of homosexuals would be straight if they were really free to choose."

What say you, Dear Abby? L. A. TIMES READER

DEAR READER: I say if a heterosexual had been raised to believe that his preference for the opposite sex was "sick," twisted, abominable, sinful, and a disgrace to his family, he would ask for help on how to "straighten himself out," too.

Homosexuality IS a problem because an unenlightened society has made it a problem, but I have received letters by the thousands [not just "occasionally"] from gay people telling me that they wouldn't be straight if they had a choice. All they ask is to be allowed to love in their own way without facing the charge that they are "sick and twisted."

I say, love and let love.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 57-year-old grandfather, happy in a third marriage, which, tho turbulent at times, has lasted for 16 years.

I must comment on a letter you printed about this virgin who married a widower and objected to sleeping in the same bed in which he slept with his former wife, now deceased. So disturbed is she by the memories her husband must have of that bed, she disposes of it behind her husband's back. And YOU approved of her getting rid of the bed! Both you and that new wife are out of your minds. What about the man himself? Were not his lips, his arms, and everything else also used in making love to his first wife?

How can she kick this wonderful old love-filled bed out into the street as used merchandise and yet sleep with the man who is also used merchandise?

The logic of the female mind I shall never understand. FRANK IN PHOENIX

DEAR FRANK: Move over. Freud admitted that he couldn't understand it either. But I'll bet a lot of women [including this writer] understand it.

DEAR ABBY: May I answer "STUCK," regarding the nery couple who drop in at dinnertime regularly several times a week?

This happened to us, too, and here is how we handled it: When they appeared at our door we said: "Come in—we were just about to have dinner, but we weren't expecting company. Make yourselves comfortable in the living room, and we will join you AFTER dinner."

A few times of this treatment should get the message across to the "nery" couple, and you'll soon be [as my husband and I are] . . . "UNSTUCK"

CONFIDENTIAL TO N.C.: No one said it better than Horace Mann: "Generosity during life is a very different thing from generosity in the hour of death; one proceeds from genuine liberality and benevolence, the other from pride or fear."

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Peanuts belong to the pea and bean family, the legumes—they aren't really nuts at all. But like nuts, they're always popular in salads and sandwiches, cookies, and desserts—as well as just plain salted. And like peas and beans, peanuts are good in main dishes, in soups and in combination with other vegetables.

Peanuts and peanut butter are well worth a place in everyday menus because of their high food value. The idea of using them often in family meals is nutritionally sound. Peanuts are exceptionally high in niacin, are important also for other B vitamins. Among the vegetable foods, peanuts rate high in quantity of protein. Miss Ethlyn Koon Weds Couple Exchanges Vows In Ceremony On Saturday On Sunday Afternoon

GRIFTON—Miss Ethlyn Jane Koon, daughter of Mrs. James C. Koon Sr. of Grifton, became the bride of Graham Tull Richardson III, son of Mr. and Mrs. G. Tull Richardson of Rt. 2, New Bern, in a ceremony Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in the First Christian Church here.

The Rev. Edwin G. Respass performed the double ring ceremony.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Donna Koon of Grifton.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother, James C. Koon. She wore a white formal gown of chiffon over taffeta. Pearl embroidered lace fashioned the high neckline. The lace details were repeated on the high rise bodice and covered buttons were on the cuffs of the gibson girl sleeves. Her Juliet cap of matching chiffon pearls and lace was attached to a three-tiered veil of silk illusion. She carried a bouquet of white roses, miniature carnations and baby's breath.

Mrs. Robert Evans of Greenville, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Calvin Cameron, of Kinston, sister of the bride and Miss Elizabeth Richardson of Kinston, cousin of the bridegroom. Junior bridesmaids were Karen Cameron of Kinston, niece of the bride, Debbie Koon of Grifton, niece of the bride, Sandra Creech of Kinston, and Cindy Koon of Grifton, niece of the bride. Elizabeth Koon of Grifton, niece of the bride, was flower girl.

The matron of honor and bridesmaids wore formal dresses of orange and green imported print designed with ruffles around the neckline and sleeves. The waists were trimmed with orange velvet. They wore headpieces of orange chiffon double bows with matching veils and carried orange mum corsages.

The junior bridesmaids and flower girl wore long dresses of apple green chiffon over taffeta. The empire waists were trimmed with matching velvet. They carried nosegays of white, yellow and orange pom poms.

G. Tull Richardson was his son's best man. Ushers were Street Richardson of Clinton, cousin of the bridegroom, Calvin Cameron of Kinston and Robert Evans of Greenville, both brother-in-law of the bride, and Jim Ippock of New Bern.

After a wedding trip to western North Carolina and Virginia, the couple will reside in Grifton.

The bride is an assistant cashier with First Citizens Bank and Trust Co., Grifton. The bridegroom is associated with Arm-Rich in New Bern.

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

The room was decorated with greenery, candles, wedding bells and flower arrangements.

Mrs. Joseph Whaley, Mrs. Walter Murphy, Mrs. Wilber Murphy, Mrs. J.C. Koon Jr. and Mrs. Jim Ippock assisted in serving.

The guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Koon.

Mrs. Albert Tyson of Kinston was director of the reception.

The bridegroom's parents entertained the wedding party and guests at a rehearsal.

An after-rehearsal party was held Saturday night at the home of Mrs. Dorman McCotter, Grifton. Mrs. Walter Patrick was co-hostess.

The bridegroom's parents entertained the wedding party and other guests at a rehearsal dinner at the Ramada Inn, New Bern.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Earl Wilson of Ayden, and Mr. and Mrs. William E. Weir of Grifton.

The double ring ceremony was conducted by the Rev. C. H. Overman of Ayden.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, selected a formal length gown of white crepe and Nothingham lace with chapel length mantilla. The bodice featured a high neck and Camelot sleeves. A Nothingham lace ruffle encircled the collar and cuffs of the long sleeves. A lace bib effect trimmed the bridal button overlaid the bodice. The full length flowing gored skirt was accented at the waist back with self-fabric sash with streamers.

The bride chose a double tiered chapel mantilla bordered with matching Nothingham lace, attached to face frame bonnet covered in Nothingham lace and edged with a ruffle. She carried a cascade of miniature carnations.

A program of nuptial music was presented by Miss Kathy Ann Gaskins of Ayden, organist, and Randy McLawhorn of Ayden, cousin of the bride, vocalist, who sang the "Wedding Prayer."

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Wilmington.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. C.H. Overman of Ayden, and the guest register was presided by Mrs. Michael A. Dennis of Ayden, cousin of the bride.

Reception
Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was given by the parents of the bride in the church annex.

The bridal table was covered with a white lace cloth lined with yellow linen and centered with a fall arrangement flanked by yellow candles.

The three tiered wedding cake was served by Mrs. Charlie McLawhorn, aunt of the bride, after the traditional first slice was cut by the couple. Punch was poured by Mrs. Odell McLawhorn, aunt of the bride. Also assisting in serving were Mrs. Mitchell McLawhorn and Mrs. Lambert Howard, both aunts of the bride.

An after-rehearsal dinner was given by the parents of the bridegroom at their home in Grifton. A buffet-style dinner was served.

The table was covered with a white cloth centered with a fall arrangement. The bride and bridegroom remembered their attendants with gifts of jewelry.

MRS. GRAHAM TULL RICHARDSON III

'Brides' On Parade At Guild Meeting Thursday

Carved and costumed "Brides" were on parade at the fall meeting of the North Carolina Chapter of the Embroider's Guild of America, Inc. which met Thursday at Oakmont Baptist Church.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Haines titled their program "Brides in Embroidery" and presented brides in authentic costumes dating from the early Babylonian empire (around 1750 B. C.) to the late 17th century.

As Haines presented the bride, Mrs. Haines gave a brief history of the marriage customs of the period and emphasized the type of needle work used on the bridal dress.

Some of the brides were well-known historical figures such as: Ann Burras, the first English bride in American history, who was married in Jamestown and later lived in Elizabeth City; Pocahontas, who married John Rolfe; and Hannah Hull, a Boston Puritan who was married in 1675.

Some of the other figures shown included a Greek bride of around 450 B. C., a Teutonic Barbarian of Northern Europe wearing a bearskin cape and armed with sword and hunting knife, and a child bride seven years old of the Elizabethan period dressed in velvet with lace and braid.

Mr. and Mrs. Haines, formerly of Philadelphia, Pa., and now living in Wilmington, are members of the National Institute of American Doll Artists. They have always worked as a team. He carves the figure and she paints the figure and designs and makes the authentic and detailed costume.

In the past they were professional puppeteers and their collection of marionettes are housed in the Cooper-Hewitt Museum in New York.

Mrs. Joseph Downing presided at the business meeting and presented the officers for the coming year. They are: President, Mrs. Richard Worsley; President-elect, Mrs. Dan Heizer; Secretary, Mrs. W. Charles Joyner; Treasurer and Membership, Mrs. Charles Carr.

Committee chairman for the next year are: Program, Mrs. Downing; Newsletter, Mrs. Connell Garrenton; Hospitality, Mrs. Max Joyner; Historian, Mrs. Albert Bell; Publicity, Mrs. Bernard Vick; Members-at-large, Mrs. James Bowman of Greenville and Mrs. Hugh Stroud of Kinston.

The guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Donald Koon.

Mrs. Albert Tyson of Kinston was director of the reception.

The bridegroom's parents entertained the wedding party and guests at a rehearsal.

An after-rehearsal party was held Saturday night at the home of Mrs. Dorman McCotter, Grifton. Mrs. Walter Patrick was co-hostess.

The bridegroom's parents entertained the wedding party and other guests at a rehearsal dinner at the Ramada Inn, New Bern.

Mrs. Taylor Gives Program

The Tea and Topics Book Club met at the home of Mrs. Linwood Stoneham Tuesday night. Mrs. Ruth Taylor, executive secretary of the Pitt County Red Cross Chapter, was guest speaker.

She told how the Red Cross helps people in time of emergencies and how they help military personnel and their families. She distributed pamphlets concerning the

If The Arabs Miscalculated—

The Arab nations have agreed to cut oil production by five percent a month in an effort to bring pressure on the United States to modify its support of Israel.

The United States gets only about six percent of its oil from Arab countries but Western Europe and Japan are big users of Middle East oil and can be expected to suffer if the monthly cutbacks continue.

The Arab thinking is that the Western allies of the United States will bring pressure on our country to see that the Middle East war is settled favorably for the Arab nations.

It is a devilish scheme, and with oil products already short throughout the world it has good chances of working. It is easy to say that this is Arab blackmail, which it is; nevertheless the Arab leaders know that their oil is a potent weapon in the current war.

The danger of the scheme from the Arab standpoint is that they could miscalculate. Men have fought to the death historically for food when they were starving. Oil has become so important to modern industrial nations that to cut it off is to create a starvation situation.

It is not likely that the industrial nations have yet reached the point where they will now storm into the Arab countries to "liberate" the oil supplies. Given a desperate enough situation, however, something like that could happen. That, perhaps, has always been the ultimate horror of the Middle East troubles. If the major powers ever began going in to secure their oil supplies that ultimate horror of the Middle East troubles. If the major powers ever began going in to secure their oil supplies that ultimate confrontation which everyone dreads could occur. We pray a solution can be found before that point is reached.

Boom Year In Bond Elections

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — North Carolina voters in 20 communities will face local bond questions on ballots Nov. 6, with 1973 becoming a boom year for bond votes.

Between now and the end of the year, voters will wrestle with questions involving $98.2 million in local bonds. Most of those elections will be held Nov. 6 in conjunction with municipal elections and the statewide $300 million school construction bond question and liquor-by-the drink legislation.

Passed so far across the state in the first 10 months of 1973 have been more than $108 million in a variety of local bonds.

If all those still pending pass, a likely possibility in light of the voting record so far this year, the statewide total for the year will pass a whopping $206.3 million — a new record high for local bonds authorized.

The total in 1972 was $114.1 million; in 1971 it was $150.7 million.

Record Activity

"This year represents by far the largest run of local bonds to be held on one date. There is a lot of activity on election day; there has been a lot of activity all year," said Harlan E. Boyles, deputy state treasurer and director of the Local Government Commission. That agency regulates local bond activities, processes applications for elections and handles the sale of all bond sold by local governments.

Twelve municipalities and eight counties will conduct bond elections Nov. 6. Two elections are set in December, and one more is pending without a date set.

So far this year, there have been 23 city bond votes, with 21 of them passing for a total of $72.3 million approved; there have been 16 county votes with 13 passing and a total of $35.8 million authorized.

Why has it been such a good year for passage of local bonds?

"We don't really know the answer to that, but it probably means that local officials have done a better job of planning for their bond elections, and of keeping citizens informed on the needs," Boyles said.

And a number of factors have influenced local decisions to go ahead with bond votes creating this year's flurry of activity.

"The continued rise in construction costs has shown that waiting for a better time is an uncertain proposition," Boyles said. "There have been strong indications of a sustained downturn in purchasing power for all of us, and the upward trend in interest rates.

"The fact is, most local governments believe that delay in building will most likely mean higher construction costs.

Build It Today

"There is such an uncertain picture; we're so unsure of what tomorrow will bring, that our advice is to take care of building needs today based on the circumstances of today," Boyles said.

Additionally, because of state direction over local bond votes, solid financial situations and the record for local bond sales and repayment over the years, local bond issues in North Carolina receive favorable attention from buyers.

North Carolina incidentally, is the only state in the union which requires local bond questions to be cleared and guided by a state agency. The Municipal Finance Group at State University of New York at Albany recently issued a report on the system documenting that the central service saves money through lower interest costs, noting that prevailing rates in this state are "significantly lower" than average.

A total of $29 million in bond questions are pending for cities Nov. 6. These include Raleigh's $18 million civic center; Lenoir's $5.7 million water bond; and lesser amounts for water or sewer work in Clinton, Enfield, Eureka, Franklin, Graham, Macclesfield, Mebane, Southport, Stedman and Wrightsville Beach.

County issues pending Nov. 6 total $54.2 million, including $7.5 million for school building in Lenoir County; $3 million for a nursing home in Forsyth; $8 million in water bonds for Caldwell; $2.6 million in water-sewer issues in Franklin; a million-dollar hospital in Martin; $10.6 million for water-sewer work in Union; and a $20 million school bond issue in Wake County. Jackson County has a $500,000 water and sewer question.

Still To Come

A city election is set Dec. 7 in Long Beach on a $2.5 million water program; and Montgomery County will vote Dec. 8 on a $3.2 million school bond question. New Hanover County is set for election on a date yet to be fixed on a $9.3 million hospital question.

October saw two county issues approved, one city question turned down. Cleveland County voters authorized $4 million in school bonds; Columbus County approved $6 million for a county hospital. Star voters turned down a $125,000 water bond issue.

Spiro Followers Sense Betrayal

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The anguished sense of betrayal by Republican conservatives toward Spiro T. Agnew, scarcely relieved by his televised valedictory Monday night, derives from the former Vice President's remarkable success in deceiving them the last two months—typified by his Aug. 18 visit to a political bullroast on Maryland's Eastern Shore.

Agnew travelled that day to Centerville, Md., to boost Robert Bauman, a young conservative state senator running for a congressional vacancy. As Agnew passed through the crowd shaking hands after his speech, he seemed heartened by expressions of confidence in his innocence. Arriving at his waiting helicopter, the Vice President told Bauman how good it was to get free of the Washington malaise if only briefly and then, in his cool, confident manner, said flatly he was being framed on charges of bribery and extortion.

Bauman (elected to Congress three days later) believed Agnew and supported him, publicly and privately. But long before the bullroast Bauman had fastened on Agnew as his leader. A former national chairman of the Young Americans for Freedom, Bauman looked to Agnew as a steady beacon of conservatism in sharp preference to the ideological waverings of President Nixon.

Bauman was not alone in either his acceptance of Agnew's innocence or his preference for him over Mr. Nixon. Thus, the anguish of such conservative Republican politicians today is twofold: not only has their leader been revealed as a common crook, but the very conservative doctrine he has been preaching for five years is now tainted. Was he synthetic from the start?

What adds to the burden for these politicians is that their conservative followers even now maintain a naive faith in the fallen Vice President. In the past week, many a conservative Congressman has studied with mounting horror the Justice Department's 40-page recounting of Agnew's venality, only to go back to his district and find constituents willing to believe Agnew was the victim of a liberal conspiracy. The Monday night telecast further bolstered the remaining rue believers.

That poses a problem even for the Republican party's

Mr. Conservative: Sen. Barry Goldwater. In the week since Agnew was forced out of office, Goldwater's office has been swamped with mail defending Agnew and railing against the Nixon administration.

These correspondents are unaware that, according to a close Goldwater associate, "Agnew looked Barry in the eye and told him he was innocent—a straight-out lie." Goldwater accepted it on face value. On the very day Agnew appeared in federal court, Goldwater was preaching the Vice President's innocence to a breakfast of 80 conservative Congressmen (though Agnew's office unsuccessfully tried to warn Goldwater that morning).

The most famous Agnew profession of innocence was his Sept. 29 fighting speech to the National Federation of Republican Women, in Los Angeles, promising never to resign even if indicted. But his private assurances were even stronger—as in closed-door remarks to a luncheon of Republican Senators in Washington Sept. 26.

Agnew assured the Senators he was guilty of "no wrongdoing" but that his civil liberties had been violated by unscrupulous prosecutors. He pledged never to resign even if requested by the President, adding he would remove himself from the White House complex to Capitol Hill to fulfill constitutional office as president of the Senate while fighting the charges. Although the luncheon was attended by Republican liberals long at odds with the Vice President, they tended to trust him and sympathize with him that day.

All the more natural, then, that conservatives—including some in the White House—should accept Agnew's words at face value. But that ready acceptance has now led some more thoughtful conservatives to ponder hard thoughts.

To pledge that he would never resign while authorizing his lawyers to bargain with prosecutors over his resignation may be more than simple deception but may also involve confusion with reality. Those who personally heard Agnew's face-to-face promises to keep fighting now suspect he may really have believed himself at that moment even while acquiescing in plea bargaining at the same time. Similarly, they wonder whether Agnew, through the last two months and in his Monday night speech, really

"Let's all join hands and give a cheer for our sweet, East-West detente."

A Home For The Agnews

WASHINGTON — If President Nixon had any class he would declare the state of Maryland a disaster area. Several of its leading engineers and builders have admitted to bribery. Its former governor, Spiro Agnew, has been convicted of income tax fraud. Its present governor, Marvin Mandel, has announced publicly he's in love with another woman. He is living in a hotel room but can't afford to pay his bill, and Mrs. Mandel refuses to leave the governor's mansion because she says the governor has taken leave of his senses.

It seems to me that all these problems could be resolved to everyone's satisfaction providing there is goodwill on everybody's part.

What I propose is the following: Since former Vice President Spiro Agnew no longer has any need to live

Other Editors Say Answer Is Known

(Washington Daily News)

When legislative committees come to far Eastern North Carolina and ask our people whether or not we want a four year medical school at East Carolina University, it is just like asking a hungry man whether or not he wants food.

At such a recent meeting in Williamston, a fine cross section of our people, including doctors, lawyers, businessmen, workers, housewives, and others came to express their views. And in unanimous fashion, each pointed to the need for such a four year medical school.

Of anyone wanted to term this meeting "our day in court," then let them do so. The right to speak out and to give one's views is fine and wonderful, but somehow we might ask "what will it mean?"

If we had the answer to that question, then this editorial certainly would be in a different vein, we believe.

As we look ahead and realize that it is the legislature where the real fight will come, we also must look at history and feel that a majority of the legislators will look at the recent Study Commission report, prepared solely by a group of doctors, and conclude that such a four year medical school now is unwise. We can see no other conclusion to draw at this point.

Yet, the present picture gives us ever more challenge to fight harder. ECU has won its fight for greatness, not with educators and commissions, but through the legislative channels.

From what has happened recently, we must conclude that if any relief is granted or any success realized, again it must be through legislative action.

If the present N. C. Board of Governors voted to accept and follow the recommendations of the Study Commission by a vote of 22-8, then many legislators far removed from the Eastern North Carolina scene will look at both the report itself and the vote of the Board of Governors and right there will they find ample reason to be against the proposition.

We see little need for such legislative commissions to come to far Eastern North Carolina. The public opinion here in our part of the state is rather solid.

So many right now must have a feeling of helplessness. But let us not forget that we have always had to fight for what we received.

That situation has not changed a bit.

close to Washington, and since it may be difficult to maintain a $190,000 home without help from the Secret Service, I suggest that he and Mrs. Agnew move into the governor's mansion with Mrs. Mandel. The rent they would pay would go to Gov. Mandel so he can still live in his hotel room.

The Agnews know the house well and would feel very much at home there. Mrs. Mandel would have companionship during these trying times and would be able to cut down expenses since she and the Agnews could share the food costs.

Now the important thing from Maryland's standpoint is that since it seems impossible to have their governor living in the mansion, they would at least have an ex-governor living there, which would give them confidence in their state government.

In ordinary times, Gov. Mandel might object to having an ex-governor moving in with his wife; but these, as everyone will admit, are not ordinary times. I believe Gov. Mandel would be grateful to know that all the bedrooms in the governor's mansion are not being wasted. And there is no doubt

Misled By Old Phrase

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — Street-corner musings of a Pavement Plato:

HAL BOYLE

Mankind was told by Thomas Jefferson that all men have an inalienable right "to Life, Liberty and the Pursuit of Happiness."

That rhetorical phrase from the Declaration of Independence has probably misled more Americans than any other famous utterance in the nation's history, with the possible exception of Vice President Tom Marshall's remark that "What this country needs is a good five-cent cigar."

The truth is that what this country needs is a good two-bit cigar, and that all men have a right to the pursuit of happiness only if a qualifying phrase is added — "within the limits of their mutual responsibility to each other."

The present plight of our generation has been caused mainly by the heedless quest for personal happiness on the part of too many people, young and old, careless of the unalienable rights of others. We all are drowning in our separate greeds and selfishness.

The goal of happiness is, at best, illusory. The harder you pursue happiness self-consciously, the more it flees and evades. The truly happy people are those too busy with other aims to realize they have arrived at happiness.

A better goal than the pursuit of Happiness is the pursuit of a Reasonable Contentment. It is a shame that Tom Jefferson didn't list that as an aim, for he was philosopher enough to appreciate the difference.

No man is wise enough to know how to be happy, but any man with common sense can figure out how to be reasonably content.

In case you are in doubt yourself, here are a few Guiding Maxims to paste in your fedora:

"Whenever possible, take off your shoes and rest your feet."

"Buy all your clothing one half a size too large — then you won't feel so uptight."

"Avoid buying more than one thing at a time on time."

"If you can't grow up, act as little like an adolescent as you can."

"Take your medicine like a man, but don't, like a fool, gulp that of others."

"Be not the last to forgive your own folly, nor the first to make a new mistake."

"Learn to paddle yourself to safety before you take a canoe into deep water."

"Don't salute everything that is run up a flagpole, or go for a joyride aboard every trial balloon."

"If anybody offers you something for free, do without it."

"Don't argue with any woman who hasn't been safely dead for 10 years."

"If you can't be a hero, don't bore others by telling them why you're a bum."

These maxims should help make you reasonably content. If not, make up your own — or buy a book of proverbs. Wisdom isn't new.

Strength For Today

A PLACE AND TIME TO PRAY

A vicar of the Anglican Church tells of how one Sunday he and a young curate were taken out to an island to hold a service. The oars were manned by a husky fisherman. On the way back a storm arose and threatened to swamp the boat. The vicar was a strong, athletic fellow, and the curate was a small man, unused to heavy exertion. As the waves mounted higher and higher, the vicar and the curate began to pray. After a few minutes the fisherman sang our, "Vicar, you take a set of these oars and let the little fellow do the praying."

There was of course no reason why the vicar could not handle the oars and pray at the same time. Actually, triumph in the Christian life is achieved through both effort and faith.

We should pray as we pull the oars, as we drive the car, as we wash the dishes. There may be mountain peaks traditionally set aside for intercession, but the best place to pray is where we happen to be.

Resistance To Execs' Strains

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — America's largest corporations operate nationally and internationally, and the corporate executive often must bounce from place to place around the world.

Before coming to rest in a posh job at headquarters, he might have to move seven or eight times, landing in a community long enough only to get the kids enrolled in school and his wife accepted at the local garden club.

But resistance is growing. Various studies have shown a reluctance among younger executives to give their all for the company. Many opt instead for less corporate success for more personal success.

One of the latest illustrations of this thinking turned up in a survey by a moving company, Atlas Van Lines.

The survey, taken informally at the company's annual moving forum, showed that about one-quarter of the corporations questioned were encountering increasing reluctance by employees to intercity transfers.

The survey didn't zero in on the specific reasons why, but it suggested that familial motives were dominant. The employees were turning down more money, responsibility and authority.

The family reasons are not clear cut. Studies have shown that many families that move together stay together. The uprootings cause family members to learn to rely on each other and become closer.

Now, a relatively new factor is being introduced into the corporate world. It is the emancipated housewife who no longer is willing to take orders from corporate headquarters.

The American Management Association, which studies and advises men on the way up the corporate ladder, now recognizes the growing competitiveness of the female with the corporation.

In a book entitled "Corporate Wives — Corporate Casualties," the association recognizes that women have been the silent victims of this competition for the men. And the author, Dr. Robert Seidenberg, suggests they are reacting.

"An acid truth that women and men are beginning to face is that denigration of the female is built into our culture," he says. "She is expected to forfeit the human need for individuality, to submerge her destiny in the lives of the men she depends on."

And the men, too often, submerge their destiny in the life of the corporation, taking their families with them.

Well, the women aren't taking it anymore. And they apparently are enforcing their views against frequent transfers. For them, each step up the ladder too often means beginning at the bottom again.

GOP Officials See More Troubles For Nixon

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer
Republican state chairmen say President Nixon's latest action in the Watergate tapes dispute will cause new problems for the chief executive, maybe even an impeachment move.

But the GOP officials oppose such a move and say Nixon was within his rights to fire special prosecutor Archibald Cox.

An Associated Press survey showed the party leaders were surprised by Nixon's dismissal of Cox and dismayed over the departure from the administration of Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson and Deputy Atty. Gen. William D. Ruckelshaus.

Many chairmen said they regretted that the problem had arisen and that a compromise worked out by Nixon had not been accepted by Cox, but argued that the President had the power to act as he did.

"He's the boss," said Kansas GOP chairman Jack Ranson. He said talk of impeachment had been circulating for months "on the part of certain elements of the Democratic party and the news media," but predicted the rumors would die down after a while.

Harry Rosenzweig, Arizona Republican chairman, said, "I just wish a couple of days would pass without some shattering bulletin." He said Richardson and Ruckelshaus were "outstanding public servants and we needed them."

Nixon is under court order to produce White House tapes pertaining to Watergate for judicial review. He has refused to obey, contending that under the doctrine of executive privilege, it is his right to decide whether he will release the recordings.

On Friday, the President said he would release partial transcripts of the disputed tapes. At the same time, Nixon directed Cox to halt his efforts in the courts for the complete tapes. Cox refused and Nixon fired him Saturday night. Richardson resigned rather than carry out Nixon's dismissal order and Ruckelshaus was discharged when he too declined to fire Cox.

William Barrett, the Nebraska GOP chairman, defended the President. "I still feel Mr. Nixon is right in refusing the tapes. He has to protect his office. It's not only his privilege; it's his duty."

Many officials were too surprised to say much. "I don't have too much reaction," commented New Jersey Republican chairman John J. Spoltore. "I was shocked when I read it."

Asked about impeachment, Spoltore said: "I wouldn't know on that. I don't know enough about it."

Delaware GOP chairman Herman Brown said Sunday afternoon he didn't want to comment until he had further information; North Carolina Republican chairman Frank Rouse answered phone calls for comment with a simple, "No."

Ohio GOP chairman Kent McGough asserted: "I don't know what to say."

David Green, Oregon Republican chairman, said, "I'm simply at a loss for words. All I can do is sit here and wait for the next development."

Minnesota Republican chairman Rudy Boschwitz said, "I really don't know what to make of it. You've heard of that play, 'Stop the World, I Want to Get Off.' That's how I feel right now."

N.C. Traffic Claimed Thirteen

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
At least 13 persons were killed in North Carolina traffic accidents over the weekend, including three members of a Brownie Scout troop who were victims of a hit and run in which a Baltimore man has been charged.

The Highway Patrol said Amy Denise Gurganus, Pamela Lynn Manning and Anne Robertson Wilson, all nine years old, were cycling with their troop on a rural road in Martin County when they were struck and killed by an auto.

They were among 16 girls and two leaders on an outing with Troop 537 of Robersonville.

Officers said David Wallace Jr., formerly of Martin County, was held in the county jail under $16,250 bond in connection with the accident.

The 13 fatalities brought the state's highway death toll for the year to 1,506, compared with 1,588 at the same time in 1972.

Lilia Curby Moore, 61, of Clinton was killed Sunday afternoon in a two-car head-on collision on N.C. 403 about seven miles east of her hometown.

Rachel Jackson Reardon, 54, of Henderson was struck and killed by a car on U.S. 1 just north of Henderson.

A 20-year-old Fayetteville man, Mac O'Dell Holder, perished Sunday when a car in which he was a passenger ran off U.S. 19 in Swain County about 15 miles west of Bryson City and hit a tree.

Gerald Franklin Alphin, 17, of Clinton was killed when the car in which he was riding went out of control and overturned on a rural road seven miles east of Clinton in Samson County.

Sammie Ronald Stultz, 28, of Rt. 1, Elon College, died when his motorcycle ran off a rural road in Alamance County nine miles north of Burlington and struck an embankment.

Another motorcycle accident claimed the life of 35-year-old Hurie L. Sales of Roaring River. He died of head injuries suffered when he was thrown from his motorcycle when it ran off a rural road near Wilkesboro.

An 18-year-old Tasley, Va., boy was killed when his car overturned on a rural road in Nash County near Rocky Mount. Officers identified him as Robert P. Lewis.

Ervin E. Whisnant, 44, of Louisburg was struck and killed by a car on N.C. 98 in Franklin County.

James A. Sealey, 59, of Ormonds of Lumber Bridge died when a car in which he was a passenger ran off a rural road near Raeford and overturned.

Nine-year-old Philip Ham-run, was killed when his car ran off N.C. 242 near Bladenboro and overturned.

Organized Against N.C. Death Penalty

RALEIGH (AP) — An organization to work for abolition of the death penalty has been formed by the families of people sentenced to die in North Carolina.

The group of about 45 people met in Raleigh Saturday under the auspices of the North Carolina-Virginia Commission for Racial Justice. It consisted of relatives of most of the 12 men and one woman sentenced to death in the state since the law was changed in January.

Among the speakers was State Rep. Henry Frye, D-Guilford, a leading opponent of the death penalty in the legislature. The legislature this year refused to abolish capital punishment.

The group elected Thomas E. Poole of Robbins and Mrs. Barbara Noell of Chapel Hill as co-chairmen. Poole's brother Samuel was sentenced to death for first degree burglary, and Mrs. Noell's husband Tommy was sentenced for rape.

A pair of decisions by the U.S. and state Supreme Courts in the past year have had the effect of making death the only possible penalty for convictions of first degree murder, rape, arson and burglary.

The U.S. Supreme Court ruled the death penalty unconstitutional where juries were allowed to be arbitrary in applying it; the state court then struck down portions of the state statutes which enabled juries to recommend mercy — and life sentences — in capital cases.

White told the group that, in his opinion, none of the men condemned would be executed. He said he expected intervention either from the courts or the legislature.

North Carolina's gas chamber has not been used since 1961.

believed he had done nothing wrong despite convincing Justice Department evidence.

Thus, agonizing questions are posed for conservatives: Was Agnew's transformation from liberal governor of Maryland to champion of hard-hat conservatism similarly devoid of true philosophical commitment? Was he merely using his natural gift for credibility as he did the last two months from his Aug. 8 press conference down to Monday night's speech?

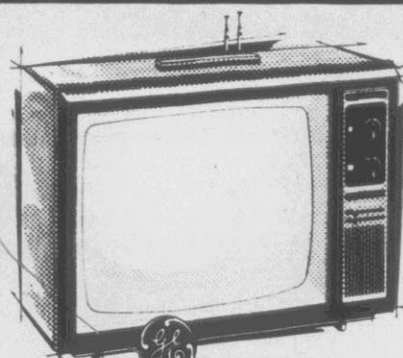

To conservatives who have lost their hero, these dark questions eclipse any of the Watergate horrors in this year of disillusionment and betrayal.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

North Carolina farmers this year could harvest the largest corn and soybean crops in history, but they may face monumental problems before the job is completed.

A shortage of fuel to operate grain dryers has been a possibility and problems with transportation and storage appear to be unavoidable at this time.

"The crops themselves look good," commented grain marketing economist Dr. T. E. Nichols. "If the weather continues to be favorable, we are almost certain to have more corn and soybeans to handle than ever before."

The North Carolina State University extension specialist pointed out that the corn crop may be around 4 percent larger than last year and the soybean crop a whopping 33 percent larger.

Nichols said farmers apparently are anticipating problems and preparing for them as best they can. For example, one estimate indicates that storage facilities have been increased in the state by 10 to 15 percent over last year.

The state is estimated to have grain storage for just under 100 million bushels for all grains. The corn crop alone is expected to total around 112 million bushels and the soybean crop is pegged at around 36 million bushels. However, portions of both crops move out of state and do not require storage.

One decision many growers must make is which crop to store. This requires trying to predict how prices will move following the harvest period. Over the years, corn has returned an average of 19 cents a bushel to storage, ranging from 2 cents to 36 cents, excluding the 1972-73 period in which it rose considerably over one dollar per bushel.

Soybeans stored from October to June have returned to storage an average of 32 cents a bushel, ranging from minus 8 cents to 92 cents. During the past season, the return shot to a high of over $7.00 per bushel above harvest-time price.

Economist Nichols said farmers should take into consideration the difference in value of the two crops in making the storage decision. The higher the value of the crop, the greater is the amount of money that is tied up in terms of what that money could be earning if the crop were sold and the proceeds invested.

The potential transportation problem may have its largest roots outside of the state. With large crop production anticipated nationally a real bottleneck with rail cars can develop.

One bright spot Nichols sees is an apparent willingness by farmers this year to spread marketing over a longer period in order to take advantage of any sharp rise in prices such as occurred following the 1972 harvests.

Shortage Of Fuel May Spur Year-Round DST

By DAVID C. MARTIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The prospect of widespread fuel shortages has given new currency to an old idea — year round daylight savings time. But it's not likely anyone will be able to sell it in time for the coming winter.

An extra hour of daylight at the end of the short winter days would cut down on the use of lighting, resulting in "substantial energy savings," says Rep. Silvio O. Conte, R-Mass., the latest legislative champion of year-round DST.

But there are those, including the Nixon administration, who disagree, making passage of a year 'round DST bill during the current session of Congress doubtful. The bill certainly will not be approved before everybody sets their clocks back one hour on Oct. 28.

The Department of Transportation recently concluded that "the institution of year 'round daylight savings time would reduce nationwide demand for electricity by not more than one to two per cent."

DOT said, the demand for electricity is principally dependent on electrical gadgets which are operated regardless of how bright the sun is shining.

The nation went to year 'round DST in an effort to save electricity during World War II, but DOT noted that that was before electric toothbrushes and pencil sharpeners.

Great Britain tried it for three years ending in 1971 and found a reduction of nearly four per cent in the number of serious traffic accidents. But DOT said there is insufficient data to enable it to determine whether similar results could be achieved here.

The Department of Justice says there's no way of telling what effect a later sunset would have on crime, although it suggested that would-be felons might simply postpone their activities until a darker hour.

The problem of sending children to school while it's still dark, could be eliminated by starting classes an hour or so later, DOT said.

The controversy traditionally has pitted city dwellers against country folk. Urbanites like the idea of walking or driving home in the relative safety of daylight, while farmers complain that DST, particularly during the winter months, forces them to do their morning chores in pitch darkness.

Farm Scene

By HENRY C. RIDDICK

Each year the stored tobacco moth causes serious damage to stored tobacco on many farms. Most damage caused by this insect occurs between the time the tobacco is cured and the time it is sold. The attack of this insect is confined to flue-cured tobacco and Turkish tobacco, preferably of the better grades, which are those high in sugar and low in nicotine.

The life history of the tobacco moth is similar to most other insects. The moth lays the eggs in or near piles of stored tobacco. The larvae are tiny when first hatched, but grow to about one-half inch in length. They are pinkish-white in color with a reddish-brown head. When the larvae is full grown, it spins a weblike cocoon in which it transforms into a pupae, then emerges as an adult moth. In summer conditions the life cycle from egg to egg averages approximately 50 days. Usually the tobacco moth passes the winter as an adult larvae. In the fall, most of the mature larvae leave the tobacco and migrate to cracks and crevices about the building where they spin loose cocoons of silk in which to hibernate.

Most farmers have either finished, or are nearly finished, marketing their tobacco crop. Therefore, it is a good time to start control measures that will help keep the losses caused by the tobacco moth, to a minimum. As soon as the drop is graded and sold, the packhouse and grading room should be removed from the packhouse and destroyed. No seed, feed, or fertilizer should be stored in the packhouse. If grain or feed is stored in the packhouse, the moths will breed in this material until tobacco is harvested again.

At the present time, we do not know of an insecticide that can be used for controlling this insect. Therefore, it is most important that the sanitation practices outlined above be followed.

When the temperature begins to warm-up in the spring, and moths are seen again, resin strips hung in the packhouse at the rate of one per 1000 cubic feet should be beneficial in helping keep the moth infestation at a low level.

Gambling Helps Build Hospitals

By ARTHUR MAX
TEL AVIV (AP) — Every year, thousands of Israelis are treated in hospitals built with gambling profits.

And about 600,000 students, or almost three out of four Israeli youngsters, attend schools built with easy loans from a gambling organization.

In a country where private betting is illegal, gambling is big business for the government, says Moshe Talmon, the manager of Israel's state-run lottery, Mifal Hapayis.

While some U.S. states debate whether to allow government-controlled gaming, Israel has discovered that playing the age-old numbers racket is too profitable to pass up.

"We average nearly $400,000 each week in profits, which go to building hospitals and schools," said Talmon, who estimated that 600,000 Israelis, or nearly a fifth of the population, buy lottery tickets each week. They are sold at brightly colored booths dotting street corners throughout the country.

A few buyers — as many as 200 a year — get almost wealthy overnight. Two top prizes of $36,000 are awarded weekly. That's enough to start a small business or to buy a small apartment in Tel Aviv's inflated market, which Talmon says is what most big winners do with their winnings.

The idea of the lottery came up in 1949, a year after Israel won its independence. The country was absorbing thousands of refugees from Hitler's death camps and impoverished Jews from the Arab world.

When Israel Rokach, then Tel Aviv's mayor, proposed a municipal lottery to raise money for medical facilities for the new immigrants, the finance-starved government turned the idea into a national institution. Mifal Hapayis began operations in 1951.

Since then, Mifal Hapayis money has built more than one-third of the country's 159 hospitals.

Talmon says the lottery system has succeeded because "we are able to sell our tickets at a reasonable price." Each ticket costs 95 cents and about one out of three tickets wins a prize at least equalling the initial investment.

Talmon says 60 per cent of the $400,000 weekly intake is returned in prize money and 30 per cent is used in public building. The other 10 per cent is spent in running costs.

He says the government-regulated lottery has contributed to keeping organized crime out of Israel.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

Sonny Randle found little to complain about following his East Carolina University football team's 34-0 victory over The Citadel Saturday afternoon.

The only thing that spoiled the game were the six fumbles lost by the Pirates, and even those were somewhat overlooked by the Buc mentor.

"When you go out in front 27-0 in the first half, you've got to expect a breakdown in concentration," Randle said. "That's what happened."

Aside from that, the Pirates did little wrong, completely dominating the Bulldogs. "It was a fine team effort," Randle said. "The entire defensive unit was outstanding. I can't single out anyone. All of them are doing a super job. When you consider that they got past the 50 only once in the first half and never got beyond the 32, you see just how good the defense performed."

Randle felt that for the first 30 minutes, the Bucs played a heck of a game. "Then our offensive concentration broke down, but the defense held up."

Randle was worried going into the game—quite worried. "We were ripe for an upset," he said. "We didn't appear to be in the right frame of mind, and I thought we were in for a dog-fight. But they fooled me—especially the defense."

Offensively, the coach did feel that the team performed well, outside the fumbles. "Crumpler (Carlester) showed that he's back in full form. And Summerell (Carl) had a fantastic afternoon. When he went 12 for 14 passing, I figured Coach Allen (George of the Redskins) might want him on Sunday. There is not a better quarterback in the Eastern United States, and it's going to be a long time before we see another one like him."

Randle also felt that Vic Wilfore is coming into his own now. "He missed the spring due to the Army, and he's just now getting started because of it," Randle said. He also felt that Mike Shea did a fine job taking over for Benny Gibson at tight end. "The whole offensive-line did a tremendous job blocking," he added.

Now the Pirates head into what Randle calls the "toughest three weeks ever faced by a Pirate team." They face the University of North Carolina, William & Mary and Richmond in back-to-back games.

"We can't fumble like we did and expect to be in the game against these teams," he said. "These teams are too good to make those kinds of mistakes against. We have to play almost perfectly, and even then it might not be enough."

When East Carolina and Richmond meet in three weeks, there may be a shot for another television game for the Bucs. That weekend (November 10) is listed by the American Broadcasting Co. as a regional weekend. Richmond is almost certainly going to come into the game unbeaten, and Pirates will also bring a top record in, hopefully, 8-1. At any rate, the conference championship will definitely hinge on the game, and it might be what the NCAA and ABC are looking for in appeal.

The revelation last night by Reggie Jackson of the Oakland Athletics that his life had been threatened if he played is sickening.

What has his country come to when the men who play what is referred to as the National Pastime are in danger of death just for stepping on the field?

Or has this country sunk so low that the National Pastime is now bigotry, hate and ultimately, uncontrolled carnage.

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Ed Sneed had just won his first tournament on the American pro golf tour. He'd won more money in a single day than he had in any previous year. Suddenly he was in the Masters and the Tournament of Champions.

But first comments of the composed controlled 29-year-old concerned those Monday morning qualifying rounds.

He doesn't have to fight them any more. Now he's an exempt player and can enter any tournament he wants.

"The first victory is awfully important to a non-exempt player," Sneed said Sunday after his first-hole, sudden death playoff win over John Schlee in the $150,000 Kaiser International Open Golf Tournament.

"It makes an awful lot of difference," said Sneed, a five-year tour regular who collected $30,092 for the win. "The difference is in being able to budget your time."

"In the last few years I've probably played too much. But I'll keep on playing instead of taking a break and then coming back out and having to qualify."

Sneed made a routine, two putt par on the first extra hole to beat Schlee, who bogeyed it from a bunker. They had shared the third round lead and each matched par 72 on the 6,849-yard Silverado Country Club course in the cool and cloudy final round, finishing the regulation 72 holes with 275 totals, 13 under par.

It was a two-man race all day. Hale Irwin fell out of it quickly, trailed by three or four strokes most of the day and finished third at 277 after a final 73. John Mahaffey, 69-279, was next, with George Archer, Dan Sikes, Bert Yancey, Lou Graham and Jim Ferriell tied at 280.

Rankin Nearing Money Record

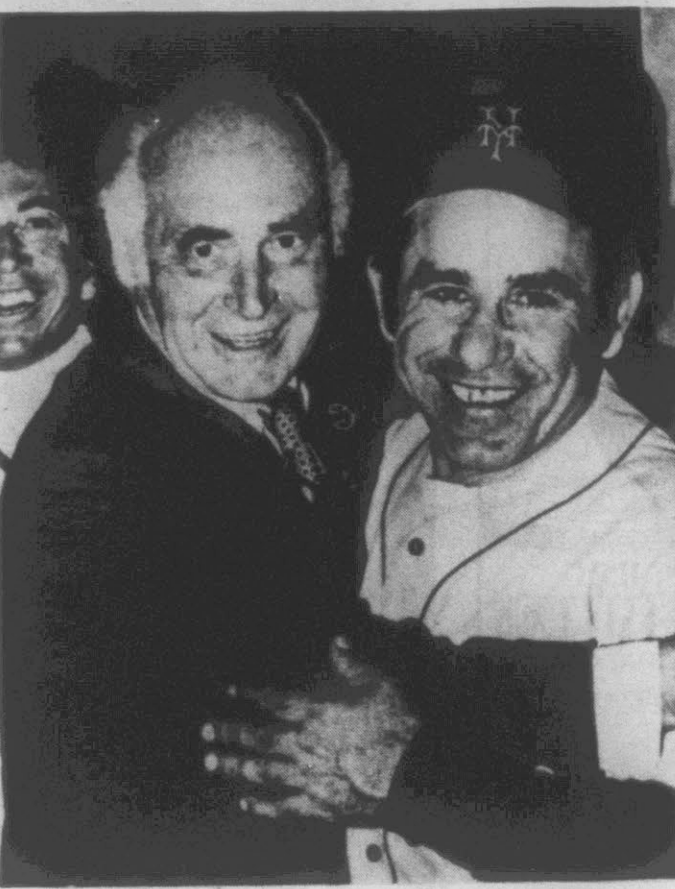

ATLANTA (AP) — Mrs. Judy Rankin appears to have a fine chance of setting the Ladies PGA earning record this year. As the touring women's pros headed into the fall season, Mrs. Rankin led the money winners with $58,597. She led veteran Kathy Whitworth by $10,000.

Mrs. Rankin this year has taken the Defender-Raleigh Classic, the Lady Carling Open and the Pabst Classic. She has finished among the top 10 in 19 of 24 tournaments in which she has competed.

Williams Wants A Yankee Job

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Williams quit on top as manager of the Oakland Athletics, then parked himself at the telephone to await a bid to try to rebuild the dynasty of the New York Yankees.

"I'd love to manage the Yankees," the mustachioed 44-year-old winner of consecutive World Series titles said Sunday in making public one of the poorest kept secrets in the baseball world.

"But, honestly, they haven't talked to me and I haven't talked to them."

This is an oversight that insiders are sure will be soon corrected.

The Yankees, after losing Manager Ralph Houk to the Detroit Tigers, are looking for a strong, charismatic leader to combat the escalating and fervent fan appeal of their city rivals, the New York Mets, with whom they must share the same stadium next year.

No one fits the mold better than Williams, a popular, articulate man who has proved his worth by carrying three teams, including Boston in 1967, into the World Series, and winning two of them.

Williams' dramatic departure also leaves a void at the helm of the colorful and free-swinging A's, with their roster of heroic malcontents and a maverick owner, Charles O. Finley, who is constantly at odds with the baseball brass.

One of the most widely circulated rumors was that the innovative and unpredictable Finley might meet the present situation with another of his bombshells and name the first black manager of the major leagues.

Williams made the announcement of his resignation in the wild, champagne-popping dressing room of the A's moments after his team had beaten the New York Mets 5-2 in the seventh and climactic game of the Series.

Williams said he was motivated by family considerations. "I live on the East Coast, far away from my family (Riviera Beach, Fla.)," he said. "My wife, Nora, hasn't complained. She's been swell. But I don't like the idea of being away from my children as much as I am. It would be much easier if I had a job on the East Coast."

First Place

RICHMOND, Va. — Kenny Kirkland of Greenville captured first place in the Punt, Pass and Kick's district competition held in Richmond, Va., Saturday.

Kenny, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kirkland of 3008 Maryland Dr., won the eight-year-old competition, and will now advance to the area contest, to be held Nov. 18 in Washington, D.C.

Two other Greenville youths also competed in the contest, but failed to win. They were Gordon Douglas, 9, and Pater Pace, 12.

The competition is judged on accuracy and distance by kicking from a tee, punting, and passing a football, with youths working against those of their own age. Competition will continue through various levels with the finals to be held at the Super Bowl in January, 1974.

OAKLAND (AP) — Now you have to believe—in the Oakland A's.

The New York Mets coined the catch-phrase, "you gotta believe," but the Oakland A's made it unbelievable Sunday by winning the 1973 World Series.

Overcoming dissension, a murder threat to Reggie Jackson, and Jon Matlack, the A's captured baseball's world championship for the second straight year by beating the Mets 5-2 in the seventh game.

"We finally did everything together to win this thing," said Reggie Jackson, the most valuable player of the Series who unleashed a two-run homer in a four-run third inning and made a couple of splendid fielding plays Sunday.

"We are the best team in baseball, no doubt," said Oakland captain Sal Bando in the champagne-drenched euphoria of the winner's locker room, and you had to believe.

The A's were, rocked with internal unrest after owner Charles O. Finley tried to put on the disabled list second baseman Mike Andrews, who made two errors in a game earlier in the Series.

For six games, their usually explosive bats were muffled for the most part by the powerhouse New York pitching staff.

Jackson, probably Oakland's best all-around player, was performing under hazardous conditions. His life had been threatened by a letter writer, who promised to murder him if he played in the Series. Jackson was protected by FBI men throughout the week.

And if all that wasn't enough, the A's had to face the Mets' most effective pitcher in the deciding game—Matlack. The hard-throwing left-hander had given up only one earned run in more than three weeks and none in the National League playoffs or the World Series.

None of these things was enough to stop the A's title quest, though. After all, they had been doing it like this all season—overcoming the odds.

"We went through the entire year with only 24 players and still won the American League pennant," said Bando, referring to the fact that Allan Lewis was used only as a runner this year. "Lewis has speed, but heck, he never won any games for us."

The A's also overcame the benching of Joe Rudi early in the season.

"How can you bench a guy like that, no matter what he's hitting," said Bando. "He could be the best left fielder in baseball."

The A's lost one of their reserve players in the World Series due to a misunderstanding of management. Then, they were down to 23 players after Finley shipped Andrews home to Boston for making two costly errors in last Sunday's 10-7 loss to the Mets.

Andrews eventually returned, but the situation became so controversial that the A's showed open hostility—and even hatred—toward their maverick owner.

"We overcame a lot of pressure," said Bando. "How can you play baseball in a situation like that? We managed to, though. We're really a better team then we showed here. This Series shouldn't have gone seven games—we should have won it earlier."

Before this 70th World Series started last Oct. 13, the defending World Champion A's were favored to beat the Mets—a team that won the National League pennant with an assortment of near-miraculous breaks and bounces.

The ball bounced the wrong way for the Mets in the first game, however, as second baseman Felix Millan made a two-run error that gave the A's a 2-1 victory. Matlack was the loser, although he actually pitched better baseball than Oakland starter Ken Holtzman.

The Mets tied the Series by winning the bizarre second game, 10-7 in 12 innings. After losing a three-run lead in the late innings, New York finally won in the 12th with the help of those Andrews' errors. His mis-cues gave New York three of its four runs in the wild inning.

Suddenly Andrews was gone from the team—and his disappearance created a stir among the players. The official announcement was that he was put on the disabled list because of a shoulder injury, but the A's players knew better.

Some of them wore adhesive tape "No. 17s"—Andrews' number—in memory of Mike Andrews. "The A's felt that the enigmatic Finley had fired Andrews on a whim."

Andrews therefore, wasn't in New York as the A's won Game No. 3, a 3-2 decision over

Veteran Dave Pearson Captures American 500

ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP) — David Pearson won his 11th race in 18 starts Sunday and cunningly suggests that maybe, just maybe, he is the 1973 stock car driving champion.

Pearson, an easy-going 38-year-old veteran, captured the season-ending American 500, and a $107,200 classic, with about as much ease as Jack Nicklaus would have with a 20 handicapper. He led 391 of the 492 laps around the mile-long North Carolina Motor Speedway to finish more than a mile ahead of second place Buddy Baker.

He pocketed $16,775 and boosted his season's earnings to $214,446—best among some 50 drivers who regularly run the Grand National circuit of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

Pearson agreed that his 1973 performance was a remarkable one, but he added:

"It has been unbelievable, the most fun I have had in 17 years of racing. I'd drive a race car the rest of my life under the same conditions."

"You don't accomplish that kind of thing in auto racing

Rams Find Scoring Threat In Defensive End Dryer

Associated Press Sports Writer
The Los Angeles Rams have a new scoring threat as they prepare for next Sunday's Battle of Unbeatens with the Minnesota Vikings. The threat is defensive end Fred Dryer.
That's right. Defensive end Fred Dryer.
Dryer became the first man in the history of the National Football League to record two safeties—worth four points—when he dropped Green Bay quarterbacks Scott Hunter and Jim Del Gaizo in the end zone Sunday as the Rams beat the Packers 24-7.

The victory for the Rams set the stage for their game at Minnesota, NFC Central Leader, which ran its record to 6-0 by beating Philadelphia 28-21.
Elsewhere Sunday, Miami, 5-1, stopped Buffalo, 4-2, 27-6; Washington, 5-1, topped St. Louis, 2-4, 31-13; Dallas, 4-2, outlasted the New York Giants, 1-4-1, 45-28; Pittsburgh, 5-1, downed the New York Jets, 2-4, 26-14; Cleveland, 4-2, drubbed Houston, 0-6, 42-13; Cincinnati, 4-2, edged Kansas City, 3-2-1, 14-6; New England, 2-4, nipped Chicago, 1-5, 13-10; Baltimore, 2-4, shaded Detroit, 1-4-1, 29-27; Atlanta, 3-3, trounced San Diego, 1-5, 41-0, and San Francisco, 3-3, walloped New Orleans, 2-4, 40-0.

Oakland, 3-2, faced Denver, 2-3, tonight in a nationally televised game.

Dolphins 27 Bills 6

"Up until today O.J. was carrying them," said Miami Coach Don Shula after Miami held Buffalo's O.J. Simpson—who went into the game with 813 yards—to just 55 yards rushing. Simpson left when he sprained his right ankle on his 14th carry. The injury was not believed serious. Bob Griese passed to Jim Mandich for two Miami touchdowns as the Dolphins broke a first-place tie with the Bills in the American Conference East.

Redskins 31, Cardinals 13
Quarterback Billy Kilmer

also sprained an ankle but not until he threw two touchdown passes in leading Washington over St. Louis to avenge the Redskins' only defeat of the season. X rays indicated Kilmer had not broken any bones.
Cowboys 45, Giants 28
Calvin Hills rushed for 123 yards and one touchdown; Walt Garrison ran for two touchdowns and Roger Staubach passed for two as Dallas stayed a game back of first-place Washington in the NFC East.
Steelers 26, Jets 14
Pittsburgh stayed on top of the AFC Central when Terry Hanratty came off the bench to throw a 16-yard touchdown pass to Ron Shanklin in the fourth quarter to give the Steelers a 19-14 lead. Roy Gerela had kept the Steelers close with four field goals. Franco Harris, plagued by a bruised knee, ran for 102 Pittsburgh yards after gaining only a total of 53 in previous games.

Browns 42, Oilers 13
Mike Phipps passed for two touchdowns and ran for two more, helping Cleveland stay a game behind Pittsburgh. It was Houston's first game since General Manager Sid Gillman replaced Bill Petersen as coach.

Bengals 14, Chiefs 6
Ken Anderson passed 30 yards off a double reverse to Bob Trumpy for one touchdown and Charles "Boobie" Clark scored on a three-yard run as Cincinnati also remained a game back of Pittsburgh and dropped Kansas City into second place behind Oakland in the AFC West.
Patriots 13, Bears 10
New England quarterback Jim Plunkett set up his own winning touchdown on a freak play in the fourth quarter. Plunkett dropped the ball when he cocked his arm to pass, picked it up and hit Bob Windor with a running 36-yard throw to the Chicago 10. Plunkett then scored on a five-yard run.

Colts 29, Lions 27
Marty Domres, making his first start of the year at quarterback passed for one Baltimore touchdown and ran one yard for another. Former Colts kicker, Jim O'Brien, kicked two field goals for Detroit but missed a 25 yarder. George Hunt bottled three field goals for the Colts.

Falcons 41, Chargers 0
Atlanta ran in five touchdowns against San Diego, including two by Dave Hampton, and completely bottled up Dan Fouts, the Chargers' rookie quarterback.
49ers 40, New Orleans 0
John Brodie came off the bench to throw a touchdown pass late in the first half to give San Francisco a 7-0 lead, and 49ers went on to turn the game into a rout.

Southern Conference Winners Not Completely Happy

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
East Carolina's Sonny Randle was unhappy about lost fumbles, William and Mary's Jim Root almost couldn't believe he had a defensive unit and Furman's Art Baker thought his Paladins were sluggish.

Those were the winning coaches in Saturday's three Southern Conference football games, so you can imagine how the losers felt.

Randle's defending champion Pirates took over the league lead at 4-0 with a 34-0 romp over The Citadel's Bulldogs. Root's Indians held third at 2-0 by outlasting Davidson's last-place Wildcats 51-35 and Baker's Paladins held off Virginia Military's Keydets 19-13.

Richmond's unbeaten Spiders, 3-0 in the conference, boosted the league's image with a 38-17 triumph over West Virginia for their sixth victory this year and 10th in a row over a two-season span, tying them with Houston for the longest major college win streak.

The conference went two for two against outside foes as Appalachian State's Mountaineers rallied from a 21-7 deficit for a 28-21 decision over Wofford.

"In the first half we played as good as we could have played," said Randle of his Pirates' 27-0 lead at intermission. "In the second half there was a natural letdown."

Carlester Crumpler, the 1972 conference player of the year, ran for 98 yards and three touchdowns and sophomore Kenny Strayhorn, who has been starting ahead of Crumpler since the first game, scored once while gaining 64 yards.

"I think we can throw on anyone, and the game showed that our running game complements the passing game thoroughly," said Randle. Quarterback Carl Summerell hit 12 of 14 passes for 175 yards and ran for 49 more yards and the other touchdown.

Randle said "our offensive line did a great job in the first half blowing them out." But he didn't like those six lost fumbles.
"Summerell makes their offense what it is," said Coach Bobby Ross of The Citadel. "He's just a fine athlete and he hurts you in many ways."

Tulane Coach Bennie Ellender said his team reached a peak even though it didn't score a lot. "This was the best overall performance we have had offensively," he said. "We were down there so many times and just didn't score. We need a lot of work on our goal line offense."

Tailback Doug Bynum scored both Tulane touchdowns. His first came on a six-yard run to climax a 49-yard drive in eight plays after freshman Martin Mitchell returned the opening kickoff 42 yards.

Ross said "we just didn't play good football, offensively or defensively. We seemed to stand around all day. There were a couple of times when we had a chance to make it a ball game and get some momentum, but we would turn the ball over"—four fumbles, two interceptions.

Davidson quarterback David Harper completed a league record 37 passes in 58 attempts for 374 yards and three touchdowns, and the last-place Wildcats led William and Mary 27-13 until the Indians erupted for 17 points in a 2½-minute span in the third period.

The Indians' Bill Deery ran for 138 yards and two touchdowns and passed for another. Frankie Prochilo got 86 yards and Mark Mollica 75 as William and Mary rushed for 419 yards. Davidson's Gary Pomeroy caught 13 passes for 128 yards, Walt Walker 11 for 113 yards.

"We could have died, but we didn't. Of course, they could have, too, but they hung in there," said Root. "Harper really had a hot hand. He just put it in there. He throws the short pass better than anybody we have seen."

Of the Indians' scare, Root said "I told my players there is no such thing as a sure thing. On paper, Davidson should have been the weakest team we played. They didn't do anything we didn't expect, but just did it better."

Furman freshman Larry Robinson broke a 71-yard scoring run on the third play from scrimmage, the second time he's done it this season, and finished with 151 yards on 22 carries for the Paladins against VMI. It was his third straight game over 100 yards.

But the Keydets closed the gap to a touchdown midway the final period and had two late chances to pull it out until first Vince Perone and then Keith Downey intercepted passes at the Furman 14.

"Downey was the man of the hour. He made a great interception when we had to have it," said Baker. "We feel very fortunate to win."

Baker said he didn't "mean to take anything away from VMI, for they played very inspired football, but we were not sharp on the offensive line."

Mistakes, three fumbles and three interceptions, once again plagued VMI, and Coach Bob Thalman said he was "upset with our performance. I don't know how to prevent the fumbles except to go back and teach them all over again how to cover up the ball."

Linebacker Pat Kelly and fullback Barty Smith led Richmond's first victory over West Virginia since 1961 and only the second in 17 meetings. The Spiders intercepted six passes, three of which they turned into a 21-3 halftime lead.

Kelly intercepted two passes, one setting up a score and the other halting a West Virginia drive, knocked down four passes and had 11 tackles and 12 assists. He said "I wanted this game more than any game we played."

Smith, besides his usual great blocking job, ran 17 times for 80 yards and two scores and caught four passes for 56 yards. He said "we knew we could beat 'em, but we knew it would be tough."

"It wasn't a fluke, we beat them pretty good," said Richmond Coach Frank Jones. "We prepared for them real well, both ways, and went out and beat them. They are a mighty good football team."

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — When Navy's new football coach George Walsh played the sport at the U.S. Naval Academy, he quarterbacked the Midshipmen to 17 victories — a record — seven losses and three ties. Walsh's career passing records still rank fifth in academy records.

Walsh spent 10 seasons coaching offensive backs under Coach Joe Paterno at Penn State.

Tulane Lost 5 Chances

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—Tulane beat North Carolina 16-0 but both coaches wondered why the score wasn't bigger.

The unbeaten Green Wave failed to take advantage of five scoring opportunities Saturday night. One was a touchdown pass cancelled by a penalty and again when the Tar Heels stopped Tulane for no gain on two straight attempts to score from one yard away.

North Carolina Coach Bill Dooley said simply, "We got beat by an outstanding football team. Tulane is the most outstanding team we've played this year and that does include Missouri."

Tulane Coach Bennie Ellender said his team reached a peak even though it didn't score a lot. "This was the best overall performance we have had offensively," he said. "We were down there so many times and just didn't score. We need a lot of work on our goal line offense."

Tailback Doug Bynum scored both Tulane touchdowns. His first came on a six-yard run to climax a 49-yard drive in eight plays after freshman Martin Mitchell returned the opening kickoff 42 yards.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Whatever is new, untried about the future that interests you is fine, but avoid the past, including legal matters and whatever limits you. The aspects indicate one wants to be cooperative, but it is difficult to do so because too much emotionalism is apt to be present. Try to be more objective and smile.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) Forget home anxieties; be with persons you like, or who can help you advance. Personal aims should be given precedence over business ones. Keep calm, poised.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Listen to bigwigs' suggestions to get ahead faster. Busy yourself with public and vocational duties. Wasting time foolishly would be foolish indeed.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you study those new interests well, you can make them successful and start wheels rolling in right direction. You are inspired. Steer clear of moochers.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Work on unfinished projects which can now bring real benefits. Some new form of entertainment could be what you need to perk up your spirits. Be happy.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Listen to associates and go along with them. Bring those new plans to attention of right persons and get their okay. Forget things you can't change.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Install that new system to get all those tasks done efficiently in jig time. Keep an eye on your wallet. Much care in driving, motion is important.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Meet with interesting persons who can help make your life more prosperous, satisfying. Drive carefully and keep out of trouble with the law. Evening good for recreation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Avoid tangents, get busy improving conditions at home and pleasing kin and make life happier for all concerned. Put good ideas across. Think, act.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Study your surroundings and see where you can make improvements. Discuss aims with one who is fond of you and get cooperation. Enjoy the social in p.m.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Plan how to increase income through intelligent efforts. Avoid an associate who get out on the wrong side of the bed. Don't argue unnecessarily.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are thinking very clearly now and can coordinate your efforts best with those of allies for mutual benefits. Get into interests that are remunerative. Advance.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Contact advisers for pointers needed to make your operations more successful, personal or business. Romance does not need broadcasting around if it is to be satisfactory.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those delightful young people who likes to cooperate with others and become part of interesting projects that are run by bigwigs. But you must teach early to be more objective instead of so emotional, otherwise there can be little success here, despite the ability for doing accurate and neat work. Teach early to stick to principles and use willpower. Give a thorough grounding in music and good manners.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Halloween Has Christian Roots

NEW YORK (UPI) — The name Halloween means the evening before All Hallow or All Saints' Day, Nov. 1.

Although now known as the eve of the Christian festival, Halloween long antedates Christianity. In ancient days it was believed that of all nights in the year Halloween was the one when ghosts and witches were most likely to wander.

Prove Effectiveness Of Anti-Tank Weapon

By FRED S. HOFFMAN

AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A

U.S. antitank missile, sent to Israeli forces for the first time, is proving highly effective in the current Middle East fighting, Pentagon sources report.

Sources said the TOW missile is among a variety of new U.S. weapons which have been rushed to Israel since the latest Arab-Israeli war broke out on Oct. 6. Some of these weapons, including the TOW, were battle-field-tested in Vietnam.

The Israeli army went into this new war without any special antitank weapons, U.S. military sources said. Cannon on Israeli tanks had destroyed Egypt's Soviet-made armor easily during the 1967 war and Israeli generals apparently felt they could do without new types of antitank weapons.

But heavy tank losses suffered by the Israeli army in the early stages of the new war with Egypt and Syria reportedly changed the minds of Israeli commanders.

Many Israel tanks reportedly were knocked out by Arab soldiers firing two kinds of Soviet-supplied antitank missiles called Sagger and Snapper.

U.S. military experts are interested in how the newer American weapons, flown to Israel on an emergency basis, are faring against Soviet-built equipment in desert-type war.

Reports to the Pentagon speak of the TOW as being "very effective." The missile's name is an acronym for "tube-launched, optically tracked, wire-guided missile."

The TOW is a relatively simple, lightweight weapon which can be fired from a tripod, a jeep, an armored personnel carrier, or a helicopter.

Also sent to Israel was the LAW, an infantryman's light antitank rocket which scored well against North Vietnamese armor when fired by South Vietnamese soldiers last year.

Congressman A Chameleon?

Lola's teacher deserves special praise for urging her students to debate current practical problems in politics. Note how many legislators nowadays are modern twins of Biblical Aaron and Pontius Pilate, both of whom were 2-legged chameleons! Beware!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
CASE Y-549: Lola B., aged 17, is a senior high schooler.
"Dr. Crane," she began, "I am taking a course in Civics, and our teacher wants us to have a debate.
"Recently a Congressman from our district vowed that he'd always vote for whatever a majority of his constituents wanted.

"Is that a sign of a statesman or merely a demagogue?"

Chameleon Congressmen
Alas, far too many of our state and national legislators imitate the chameleon.

That creature is a lizard that changes its color to match its environment.

Biblical Aaron was thus a "chameleon priest," for Moses had made him the head of the clergy for Jehovah.

But when Moses stayed overly long on Mt. Sinai, to get the Ten Commandments, the people demanded of Aaron that he make them an idol, so they could worship like the surrounding pagans.

And Aaron apparently didn't have any deep religious convictions, but was chiefly concerned with just remaining the top priest.

So he immediately ordered the Israelites to doff their gold bracelets, earrings, etc., and toss them into a pile.

Then he melted them down and molded them into the infamous Golden Calf, much to the fury of Moses, who was the true statesman.

Similarly, Pontius Pilate was a prominent figure in the Roman Republic.

But Pilate wished to curry favor with the populace, so he changed his Republican courtroom into a democracy.

Remember, in a democracy, the will of the majority prevails, regardless of facts, evidence or justice.

Which was why Jesus was killed by a democracy but would have been released if Pilate had obeyed the rule of the Roman Republic.

In Congress and state legislatures, various committees of the members are supposed to study thoroughly all new bills suggested.

Often, the legislators have access to secret or classified data not available to us laymen back home.

Thus, we laymen might be opposed to a certain bill.

But the true facts and secret documents might prove it really should be enacted into legislation.

So a statesman will vote for what he knows is good for the entire country, not just immediately but for the future, too.

As a rule, newspapers will back up such a statesman and soon convey to the voters back home the new evidence that would help them change their previous opinions and back the new bill.

Alas, chameleon Congressmen might just as well resign and let Dr. Gallup or Lou Harris and other excellent pollsters handle the legislative functions.

For if a majority of the voters is all that determines new laws, Gallup and Harris can derive their opinions in 48 to 72 hours.

Then we'd save each Congressman's $42,500 annual salary, plus about half a million more dollars for his office, telephone and travel expenses!

Any Congressman or state legislator who glibly says he will always vote just as the majority of home folks dictate, is a twin of Aaron and Pontius Pilate, who beware!

Send for my booklet "Common Fallacies in Logic and Political Tricks," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. Use it in Civics classes! (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AKQJ753 ♥5 ♦J3 ♣1062
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
Pass 1 ♦ 1 ♥ 1 ♠
2 ♥ Pass Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Four spades. You have seven sure tricks in your own hand and the odds are that opener will produce three.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KQ1094 ♥74 ♦KQJ9 ♣53
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ 2 ♥
1 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Despite the fact that you have considerably more than you might hold for a one-over-one response, you should pass—you have the wrong values. Partner's bid is a request for control of the opponents' suit. He is telling you that he has two losers in hearts, and that he wants you to go to a small slam with second-round heart control (either the king or a singleton) and to a grand slam with first-round control.

Q. 3—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A72 ♥AQ96 ♦K1085 ♣Q9
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♥ Dble. Reddie. 1 NT ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Double. You have East hanging on the ropes. You have 15 points in high cards and partner's redouble has marked him with at least an average hand. The opposition is in for a rough voyage—you could earn enough to cover your retirement even in these days of inflated prices.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠A6 ♥AQ52 ♦AK972 ♣A3
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♦ Pass 2 ♣ Pass
2 ♥ Pass 5 ♦ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Seven diamonds. You should be able to claim after the opening lead. What could partner have for his two-over-one response and subsequent leap to five diamonds other than an excellent club suit, fine diamond support, and a side singleton or king?

Q. 5—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠A763 ♥Q76 ♦AKJ6 ♣73
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 NT Dble. Pass 2 ♣
Pass Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—It is obvious that West, poor fellow, is in dire straits. By simple arithmetic, we can conclude that he doesn't have a high card in his hand—East and North each have announced a minimum of 16 and you have 7. It is inconceivable that West can win 8 tricks at a club contract, and a double for penalties is heartily recommended.

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♦ Pass 1 ♥ 1 ♠

What do you bid now?
A.—Two hearts. With the promoted value of the queen of hearts and the doubleton club, you have sufficient values to justify a free raise. A bid of one trump would suggest a more robust holding in the overcaller's suit.

Q. 6—You are vulnerable, partner opens with four hearts and you hold:
♠AK1064 ♥Q ♦642 ♣AKJ5
What action do you take?

A.—While there are some complicated methods to find out about partner's diamond holding, they all tend to give away the situation. Our recommendation is to exercise your sporting blood and bid six hearts. Even should partner have two or more diamond losers, the opponents might not lead the suit, in which case there surely will be at least 12 tricks. And if they do lead a diamond, partner might find a singleton, or the ace or king.

Q. 7—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AK93 ♥2 ♦A6 ♣Q98652
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
1 ♣ Pass 2 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—While partner has done nothing to encourage us, giving a mere preference at his second turn, he might still have enough material to produce game. The silence of the opponents at this low level reinforces the impression that partner has some high-card values, so we suggest another move. Bid three clubs.

Q. 8—Both sides vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠KJ62 ♥863 ♦1072 ♣Q94
The bidding has proceeded:

BALTIMORE, Md. (UPI) — Customs officers had to remove 14 tons of bananas from their cartons to get at almost 70 pounds of pure cocaine hidden in false bottoms. The shipment had arrived from Ecuador on a Colombian freighter in early July. A truck driver who came to pick up the bananas was arrested.

Few New TV Shows Face Full Season

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Okay, gang, time for the Fearless Forecast of 1973, in which we predict which new weekly or once-a-month TV shows will prosper or disappear from the tube.

The forecast is made without reference to tea leaves, tarot cards, chicken entrails or their equivalent, the weekly ratings that provide network program chiefs with ulcer material.

It's sheer guesswork and here it is, I guess:

SUNDAY—CBS: "The New Perry Mason Show" is doomed to a mid-season demise, having had a weak case from the start.

MONDAY—NBC: "Lotsa Luck," despite a strong start, is having severe line troubles. There aren't enough funny ones. But it'll go a full season. "Diana" won't.

TUESDAY—CBS: "Hawkins" is good for as long as Jimmy Stewart wants to continue it. "Shaft" will soon be led away to the home for retired gumshoes. NBC: The only place it's "Chase" will lead to is the gate, and quickly. "Magician" will pull a fast disappearing act. "Police Story" will stay and thrive.

WEDNESDAY—ABC: "Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice," good-by, good-by, good-by, good-by. "Doc Elliot" may be a weekly show by mid-season if its scripts heal. NBC: "Tenafly" had a bad start, but has promise and may last a season. "Love Story" definitely will, even though it's enough to make you cry. CBS: "Kojak," airing this week, has a class look and will stay a season or more.

THURSDAY—ABC: "Toma" is in a coma, despite a fair start. It'll be lucky to last a season. NBC: "NBC Follies" was aptly named, as it turns out, and soon will go the way of vaudeville.

FRIDAY—ABC: "Adam's Rib" is getting cracked by CBS movies, but it'll last a season. NBC: "Girl With Something Extra" will survive and a real shame, too. "Needles and Pins" will reap what it has sown — disaster. CBS: "Roll Out" will roll in before January. "Calucci's Dept." died at birth.

SATURDAY—ABC: "Griff" will be recalled by mid-season and put in a dark, quiet room.

Now, a footnote to the Fearless Forecast.

"Snoop Sisters," with Helen Hayes, isn't due on NBC until Nov. 14. But if it's as good as the pilot show, it'll be a winner.

It also will be the last new show in a season that was strung out by a 16-week writers' strike. Generally speaking, it has been a dog of a season in sore need of cancellation.

If it doesn't improve by early 1974, the Fearless Forecast predicts that the book industry will boom and TV sets across the nation will come to life only for football games.

It also predicts a sharp rap in the mouth for anyone who recalls that last year's Forecast said "Maude" would fold.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina hog prices were steady to mostly 50 cents higher today. Tops of 43.50—44.50 Kinston, Benson and Lumberton; 43.00—43.50 Rocky Mount; 41.50—42.00 Tarboro and Bethel; 44.00 Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Elizabethtown, Pink Hill, Pine Level, Chadbourne, Ayden and Laurinburg; 41.50 Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina f.o.b. dock broilers: market steady, supplies barely adequate and the demand good. Weights desirable. North Carolina hens: Market about steady, supplies fully ample on heavy type and the demand slow. Heavies at farm 19 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — President Nixon's dismissal of the special Watergate prosecutor over the weekend, which triggered talk of the President's impeachment, sent the stock market tumbling today. But some of the market's early decline tapered off.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which had fallen more than 7 points in the first half hour, was off 4.74 to 958.99 at 11:30 a.m.

Declines overpowered advances by more than 5 to 1 in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange, despite the absence of many investors because of the Veterans Day holiday.

British Petroleum, unchanged at 14, was the volume leader on the Big Board. Other active issues included Allegheny Power, off 3/4 to 19 1/4 after reporting relatively flat earnings; International Paper, off 1/8 to 51 1/2 after settlement of a 12-week strike at some of its Canadian plants; and Bausch & Lomb, down 1 1/2 to 55 1/2 as profit taking reduced some of its hefty gains over the past few weeks.

International oils bucked the downtrend, and analysts said this reflected good earnings as well as implications of settlement of the Mideast hostilities. Exxon rose 2 1/2 to 93, California Standard was ahead 1 1/4 to 71, and Texaco advanced 1 to 31 1/2.

Telex, which has not been traded since last Wednesday, opened up 1 at 5 1/2. The small computer company had said it faced bankruptcy if it were forced to pay IBM about $22 million for stealing trade secrets before IBM had to pay Telex millions in antitrust damages. IBM later said it would wait for the Telex payment until a federal judge made a final determination about the size of the IBM damage payment.

The Big Board's composite index stood at 58.89, down .60 at 11 a.m., while the market-value index on the American Stock Exchange had dropped .91 to 108.05.

Studio Took Fire Damage

The studios of WOOW Radio at 304 South Evans St. were damaged by fire about 2:35 a.m. Sunday.

Fire units responding to a call found fire in the ceiling of the radio station's control room. Officers reported that the ceiling and rafters in the control room were damaged by the blaze. They also reported some damage to radio equipment in the room.

Firemen said employees of the radio station discovered the fire and retarded its spread by using a fire extinguisher on the blaze before fire units arrived.

A., headquartered in Winston-Salem, has announced his intention to retire as chairman effective April 30, 1974. Trick Or Treat For UNICEF On Sunday

Church Women United will sponsor the local United Nations Children's Fund "Trick or Treat for UNICEF" program Saturday and Sunday.

By giving time and support to the UNICEF program here in Pitt County, volunteers will help give millions of youngsters in Asia, Africa, Latin America and the Middle East hope for a future— youngsters who otherwise might know nothing but hunger, disease, ignorance and despair.

Children here at home benefit, too. As they carry the official orange and black UNICEF cartons from door-to-door, count the funds collected, they learn the job of sharing with children they will never see, but whose problems, they can help eliminate.

Mrs. Matt Gustafson is serving as chairman for the 1973 UNICEF campaign. Her co-chairman is Mrs. Dwight Garrett.

The local campaign will include collecting at several intersections on Saturday. Local children and adults will make house calls for funds on Sunday which has been designated as UNICEF Sunday.

"Youngsters in the developing countries desperately need the programs of improved food production, water supplies, disease control and education that UNICEF provides," Mrs. Gustafson said. "By adding our contributions to this year's Halloween collection, we help add health and well-being to the lives of millions of children."

Last year the program collected $3.4 million.

Considering Bid For Court Seat

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP)—Attorney Russell Frazier says he is considering running for associate justice of the North Carolina Supreme Court.

Frazier, who is black, ran unsuccessfully for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor last year.

He said he did not think his race would be any handicap in the campaign. He would be, if elected, the first black to sit on the state's highest court.

Other candidates for the two seats being vacated include Superior Court judge J. William Copeland of Murfreesboro; potential candidates include judges Earl W. Vaughn and Robert A. Hedrick of the state Court of Appeals.
