UN Peacekeeping Force Moves In

By United Press International
The United States Saturday arranged for a face-to-face meeting between Egyptian and Israeli army officers to plan a convoy of non-military goods to Egypt's beleaguered Third Army east of Suez.

planned 7,000-man United Nations peacekeeping force moved in between Arab and Israeli armies to keep the peace. The meeting will be the first between officers of the two nations in 24 years. The last previous known meeting was in Rhodes in 1949 at the Mixed Armistice Commission headed by the late Ralph Bunche.

The extraordinary U.S. move in arranging the Egypt-Israeli meeting reportedly was taken at the initiative of Israel. The Third Army was trapped late in the 17-day war inside Suez City itself, at the southwest end of the 102-mile Suez Canal, and in the former Israeli occupied zone on the East Bank.

State Department spokesman Robert McCloskey said the United States kept an approving Soviet Union informed on the mediation between the Egyptians and Israelis. Israeli spokesmen said Saturday afternoon that six two-man U.N. peacekeeping teams had moved into the Golan Heights in Syria and 14 other teams were in place along the Egyptian front.

Cairo Friday night and early Saturday and by dawn "some of these men had already taken up positions" between the warring sides, a U.N. spokesman in the Egyptian capital said. The men, all volunteers, were armed with automatic weapons, rifles and pistols. One of their officers said they would use their weapons only in self defense.

Nixon's Claim Evokes Angry Press Replies

By United Press International
President's Nixon's claim that the press was guilty of "outrageous, vicious and distorted reporting" provoked angry replies Saturday from many newspaper and broadcast executives across the country. Nixon's remarks were made Friday night at a press conference where he additionally irritated his audience of newsmen by saying he wasn't angry at the alleged unfavorable media coverage since he only became angered by those he respected. "What really shakes the confidence of people of the United States is not the loss of credibility of the news media, but the fact that corruption in government has reached the point of an all-time low," said Neal Shine, managing editor of the Detroit Free Press.

Pete Lisagor of the Chicago Daily News said: "The President seemed to be obviously defensive and combative and generally attempted to turn questions of substance into diatribes against the media. Broadcast commentators were particularly singled out in Nixon's blast and electron media executives were quick to reply.

The State Department said "as a result of our good offices" Egypt and Israel had agreed to meet "on the ground" to discuss implementing the cease-fire. The agreement "specifically... would permit a convoy of non-military supplies to an Egyptian Third Army which is located on the East bank and that there would be both United Nations and Red Cross personnel involved."

UPI correspondent Richard C. Gross visited one of the U.N. posts on the Syrian front and reported its two observers were filing "all quiet" radio reports to their nearby headquarters while listening to pop music on a transistor radio.

Soviets Test Nuclear Bomb

UPSSALA, Sweden (UPI) — The Soviet Union tested a powerful underground nuclear device Saturday which could be "placed in the megaton class," a spokesman for the Swedish Seismological Institute reported. It was the fourth large-scale Soviet test detected in the last seven weeks. As usual it was not announced in Moscow.

testing ground area in the Arctic, the Swedish institute spokesman said, and was recorded on the instruments here four minutes later. "It is the first time in the last ten years that two such strong explosions happen in the same area during the same fall," the spokesman said. "On the 12th of September this year an underground explosion with a 7.1 Richter magnitude was registered in the area."

An NBC spokesman said "We have been trying to cover a complex major news story fairly and accurately and we believe we have succeeded in doing so." Frank Anderson, city editor of the Long Beach, Calif., Independent Press Telegram, said, "The press didn't make Watergate, just reported it. But I think he just confirms his own bias, the bias he's had since he's been in politics."

The first group of about 80 Soviet truce "observers" arrived in Cairo Saturday. It was expected that more will arrive within the next few days. Russian Communist party leader Leonid Brezhnev has asked for U.S. observers, but President Nixon said Friday he would send Americans only if the United Nations asked for them.

Ben Franklin first toyed with the idea of "saving time" in 1784, but nobody took Franklin's idea seriously until Daylight Savings Time was used during World War I and II.

The Swedish spokesman said the explosion registered 6.9 on the Richter earthquake scale "and such strength probably places it in the megaton class." A megaton is equivalent to one million tons of TNT. The device was detonated at 3 a.m. EDT in the Soviet Union's Novaya Zemlya nuclear test series began Sept. 12 with the explosion of an estimated five megaton nuclear charge in the testing ground in Novaya Zemlya. This compared in size with the 1971 Armitika test by the United States, then the largest ever recorded. The Soviets followed with more large tests Nov. 19 and Nov. 28.

Reg Murphy, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, said "trying to blame a group of dedicated reporters for the outrages of his own administration will make no sense to an American public which is already fed up with the activities of this administration," Murphy said.

The Pentagon, called off another major portion of the alert of American military forces. It left still on alert troops stationed in Europe, the Mediterranean and along the Atlantic coast. Friday, Nixon ordered the nuclear-equipped Strategic Air Command off alert. Six hundred U.N. volunteers from Sweden, Finland and Austria, commanded by Canadian colonel, arrived in

Browning Took Oath Friday As Superior Court Judge

Greenville attorney Robert Browning took the oath of office as a special Superior Court Judge in ceremonies at 11 a.m. Friday in the Superior Court Room at the Pitt County Court House.

followed by reception at the Lawyers Building on First Street where Browning maintained offices as a member of the law firm of Owens, Browning and Haigwood.

The oath of office was administered by resident Superior Court Judge Robert Rouse Jr. of Farmville.

Larry Graham, president of the Pitt County Bar Association told those gathered for the service that the Pitt Bar Association is "proud of Browning, and of his selection as special judge." The new Superior Court Judge graduated from Greenville High School, did his undergraduate work at Duke University and received his law degree from the University of North Carolina Law School.

A lieutenant commander in the U.S. Navy Reserve, Browning was a member of the North Carolina Board of Transportation prior to his appointment as Special Superior Court Judge by Gov. James Holshouser October 9. Browning was named to fill the unexpired term of Marvin Blount Jr., also of Greenville, who resigned the judgeship effective October 9. The term expires June 30, 1975.

Judge Rouse, prior to administering the oath of office, told Browning the appointment is an indication of the "high regard in which you are held."

The Governor, Judge Rouse continued, "has made an excellent choice," and told Browning, "you have the opportunity to render a great service." The official ceremony was

A Special Souvenir

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has parted with a unique souvenir of his 1972 trip to China: his personal gold and blue identification button mounted on a tie clip. Nixon handed the clip to Roland Freeman, a photographer, as he walked out of the East Room of the White House following his Friday night television-radio news conference.

When Nixon paused to shake hands, Freeman informed him it was his first visit to the White House and the President handed him the clip containing the numbered identification button of a type worn by all those who accompanied him to China. Said the President: "That is a good one, a special one — not the kind we give visitors. Don't give it away."

Security Council Deadlocked

By BRUCE W. MUNN
UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — With Soviet and other big power troops barred from the new U.N. Mideast peace force, the Security Council deadlocked in private sessions Saturday over Moscow's efforts to include Warsaw Pact contingents in the international unit. Diplomatic sources said closed door discussions among the 15 council members were tied up by insistence by Soviet Ambassador Yakov A. Malik that troops from Poland or some other member of the Communist Warsaw Pact be included in the 7,000-man U.N. Emergency Force (UNEF).

The sources said U. S. Ambassador John Scali countered Malik's move by offering to have North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) troops excluded from the force if Warsaw Pact forces were banned similarly. The United States balked at Kremlin attempts toward getting Soviet troops into the Middle East battle zones.

As Nixon-Congress Battle Shapes Up Bork Seeks Successor For Watergate Chief

By MIKE FEINSILBER
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Acting Attorney General Robert H. Bork worked Saturday to find a new special Watergate prosecutor whose job—and degree of independence — already were caught in bloody political crossfire between President Nixon and Congress.

President will be asked to concur" before Bork announces his choice some time next week. But Nixon found himself on a collision course with Congress. Democratic leaders of the House and Senate rejected an unacceptable Saturday the President's plan to install a new prosecutor under the same apparent restrictions that Cox had declared intolerable and—in defying them—had cost him his job.

Asked if the result might be two prosecutors, one appointed by Sirica and the other by the administration, Mansfield replied: "Well, let's face that if and when it happens."

Bork, who apparently has put his own job on the line in demanding guarantees of freedom for a successor to Archibald Cox, spent much of the day at his Justice Department desk sounding out prospective candidates and narrowing the list. Department spokesman Jack W. Hushen said Bork had ruled out appointment of former Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson or his deputy, William D. Ruckelshaus, who resigned in protest when the President had Cox fired a week ago. "We're not going down that road again," Hushen said. Senior White House advisers were taking part in the consultations, he said, and "the

"No soap," said Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, on his return from a NATO meeting in Turkey. "I do not believe the new prosecutor will be acceptable to the Congress and the American public under the terms the President outlined," House Democratic Leader Thomas P. O'Neill said the morning after Nixon's news conference. Mansfield threw his weight behind legislation, cosponsored by a majority of 53 senators, empowering Chief U. S. District Judge John J. Sirica to name a new prosecutor and provide that only Sirica could fire him. A similar bill in the House has 106 cosponsors.

The reference of Ervin, chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee, was to Archibald Cox, fired by the President as special prosecutor for disregarding orders not to seek access to White House Watergate tapes. Ervin said in a news conference Friday night he believes the Senate will pass a bill introduced earlier in the day for Congress to choose a special prosecutor who would be responsible to U.S. Dist. Court John J. Sirica.

UAW To Begin Work Monday On Agreement

By EDWARD S. LECHTIN
UPI Auto Writer
DETROIT (UPI) — The United Auto Workers Monday begin the lengthy process of getting its 185,000 members at the Ford Motor Co. to ratify a new three-year agreement with the nation's second largest auto company.

The council is made up of local presidents and other officers. They will be given the details of the contract agreement to take back to the membership at 100 plants, parts depots and research and engineering facilities in 23 states.

Details of the new agreement, finally put together Friday morning after a 21-hour bargaining session, were kept secret by the union. Ratification is expected to be completed in about two weeks. The secrecy surrounding the agreement was believed partially responsible for a rash of unauthorized walkouts at the 10 a.m. Friday strike deadline. Seven plants with 7,700 workers were closed during the first shift but Ford operations were near normal Friday night and plants scheduled for weekend overtime also were working, except at the Chicago stamping plant where 4,242 workers were out. The tentative agreement will

North Carolina Secretary of State Thad Eure, who for the last three years has been head judge of the contest; State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham, who has been master of ceremonies for the past four years; Tom Weaver, editor of the Dunn Dispatch, who has been helping with the contest preparations since it was begun a little more than five years ago; and John G. Thomas, director of radio station WCKB in Dunn, who conceived the idea of a national holleroff. Current hollerin' champion is O.B. Jackson of Salemburg in Sampson County. The next competition is slated for June 15, 1974. Before they had telephones, hollerin' was the way country folks let their neighbors know they were safe and sound.

The tentative agreement, which averted a second strike this year, is believed to closely follow the pattern set at Chrysler during a nine-day strike in September. But it also provides some "frosting on the cake" in the form of early retirement for foundry workers after 25 years rather than the "30-and-out" pension program, won for other Ford and all Chrysler workers. The early retirement for foundry workers was needed, said the UAW, because their jobs was believed part of the cause of early death.

Senator Sam's Album Features Poems, Hymns

Senator Sam Ervin has just become a national recording artist on Columbia Records, according to producers Lonnis McGlohon and Al Ham.

ALBUM COMING... "A Visit With Senator Sam" is the title of an album being released Nov. 1 with many of the senator's favorite poems and hymn lyrics. With the senator are Ayden native Lonnis McGlohon, (standing), a composer now living in Charlotte, and Al Ham, a New York producer.

and well-known composer, says that a single was released this week with the senator reciting BRIDGE OVER TROUBLED WATER. The complete album will be released November 1.

Entitled A VISIT WITH SENATOR SAM, the album contains anecdotes and favorite poems and song lyrics from Senator Ervin's vast library.

The album steers away from political subjects, says McGlohon. "Instead, it is a collection of pieces which show off the senator's brilliant sense of humor and his ability to quote, from memory, hundreds of poems and hymn lyrics."

In addition to the popular song BRIDGE OVER TROUBLED WATER, Senator Sam includes IF I HAD A HAMMER and a McGlohon song, GROW TALL, MY SON.

Lonnis McGlohon is the son of Mrs. Max McGlohon of Ayden. Since graduating from East Carolina University, McGlohon has lived in Charlotte. He is composer of hundreds of works, including three musical comedies, a historical musical drama, religious masses and jazz ballads.

Al Ham is a New York producer, well-known for his record case albums of MY FAIR LADY, WEST SIDE STORY and other Broadway shows.

Jolly
FAYETTEVILLE—Infant Bryan Daniel Jolly three months old son of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Jolly, Jr. of North Quincy, Mass., died Wednesday.

Graveside services were held at 11:00 a.m. Saturday in Lafayette Memorial Park, Fayetteville.

Surviving, in addition to his parents are his maternal grandparents, Dr. and Mrs. Dan Currie of Fayetteville, and his paternal grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Jolly, Sr., of Lumberton.

Faucette
WASHINGTON, N.C.—Mr. Edward Wilson Faucette, 90, of Chocowinity, died Friday at 8:45 p.m. in the Beaufort County Hospital. He had been in failing health for the past two years.

Funeral services will be held at 3 p.m. to day in the chapel of the Oden Funeral Home, with the Rev. Larry Headrick, pastor of the First Baptist Church in Chocowinity, officiating. Burial will be in the Oakdale Cemetery, Washington.

He is survived by several nieces and nephews. The family will be at the home of Mrs. J. W. Faucette at Chocowinity, with whom he made his home for many years.

Mr. Faucette was a retired farmer and automobile dealer, having large farming operations in both Pitt and Beaufort Counties, and for more than 20 years held the Buick dealership in Washington.

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Two Miami optometrists and a Georgia doctor interrupted lucrative practices for a mercy mission to Haiti, where they examined more than 1,000 patients in five days.

"They had us examining people from the minute we got off the plane," Dr. Philip S. Sidran, 32, of Miami said Friday. "Some of the diseases those people had, you only read about in textbooks."

"We saw people walking around with diseases that Americans wouldn't be able to bear."

Sidran, project leader Dr. Richard J. Anton and Dr. Robert Coleman of Tifton, Ga., said they spent $600 of their own money on the trip, which began last week.

"It's something that I've been doing since 1970," Anton said. "We pay our own way and go to the people in the mountains — the people who aren't being helped by the charity groups in the urban areas."

Anton, 33, said his group prescribes medicine and writes prescriptions for corrective lenses.

"To say that these people are poor wouldn't be forceful enough," Sidran said. "It's hard to describe the poverty."

UN Award To Mrs. Humber

A United Nations Distinguished Service Award has been given to Mrs. Robert Lee Humber this year for her continuing dedicated service to the world government organization.

"I would like to express my sincere appreciation to you for the efficient and enthusiastic manner in which you conducted United Nation's Day in the City of Greenville," Mayor S. Eugene West stated in recognition of the award to Mrs. Humber.

"I certainly hope that I can look forward to your leadership again in 1974," the mayor added.

1973 marks the 13th consecutive year Mrs. Humber has headed annual United Nations observances in Greenville, Observance of UN Day in Greenville under Mrs. Humber's leadership has encompassed a number of events, not only on UN Day, October 24, but during the month of October as well.

One Injured In Accident

An accident on N.C. 11 between Bethel and Greenville Friday night resulted in one person being injured and heavy property damage to two automobiles.

As the result of a two-car accident at 11:20 p.m. Friday, highway patrolman George Russ said that Miss Joy Denise James of Bethel has been charged with failing to see that a movement could be made in safety.

Miss Amory Denise Stone, 1100 Nash Street, Wilson, was operator of the second car involved.

According to patrolman Russ, Miss James, driving north on N.C. 11 made a left turn off the highway at North Pitt High School in front of the south bound car operated by Miss Stone.

Miss Stone was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital with injuries. Damage to her vehicle, termed a total loss, is estimated at $750. Damage to the James vehicle has been estimated at $1,000.

Miss Stone was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety.

No injuries were reported.

3 Car Wreck

An estimated $1,000 damage resulted from a three-vehicle collision at Tenth Street 200 feet West of the Greenville Boulevard intersection about 5:18 p.m. Friday.

Police identified the drivers involved as Jennis Morrill Windham of Route 9, Greenville, Susan Dale Bach of 213 Churchill Dr. and Sahron Key Seieroe of Nisland, S.D.

Officers set damage at $275 to the Windham car, $325 to the Bach auto and $400 to the Seieroe car.

Miss Seieroe was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety.

No injuries were reported.

Deformed Infants Permitted To Die

BOSTON (AP) — Forty-three deformed infants were allowed to die with parental consent at a Yale-New Haven Hospital nursery rather than face lives devoid of "meaningful humanhood," two doctors say in a medical journal article.

The article in the Oct. 25 issue of the New England Journal of Medicine was written by Drs. Raymond S. Duff and A. G. M. Campbell, both pediatricians who had worked at the hospital.

The infants from whom doctors withheld treatment — with parental consent — constituted 14 per cent of the 299 infant deaths between January 1970 and July 1972 at the Connecticut hospital's special care nursery. The infants ranged in age from a few hours to several months old.

Individual infants suffered multiple deformities, mongolism, heart and lung defects, intestinal malformations and severe spinal cord and nervous system defects, the doctors wrote.

Campbell and Duff said infants with such deformities would have died a few years ago but now their lives can be prolonged with drugs, oxygen treatment, intravenous feeding and surgery.

3:30 p.m.—Mrs. J. Fred Hamblen will be hostess to the Clio Book Club

8:00 p.m.—Pitt County Alcoholics Anonymous meets at AA Bldg. on Farmville Hwy.

Duff said in an interview Friday the 43 infants died earlier than they would have "because of a specific decision to withhold or withdraw treatment."

"They were severely malformed children who had an extremely bleak outlook and treatment was withheld," Duff said, adding he preferred saying, "We didn't fight to prolong their lives," instead of saying the infants were allowed to die.

The remainder of the 299 died despite an "all out" effort to save them, Duff said.

Duff and Campbell wrote they oppose any attempt to set up general rules on whether a badly malformed infant should live or die.

"We do not know how often families and their physicians will make just decisions for severely handicapped children. But we also ask: If these parents cannot make such decisions justly, who can?"

Charged With Hit and Run

Elbert Green Walden Jr., of Fayetteville was charged with hit and run driving following investigation of a 2:41 a.m. Saturday collision on Glendale Avenue 1000 feet South of the Perkins Street intersection.

Police reported the Walden car collided with a parked car owned by Fred Long of Jacksonville, causing an estimated $1,200 damage to the Long car and about $500 damage to the Walden vehicle.

No injuries were reported.

News of the Day In North Carolina

Uses Helicopter To Attend Rally

RALEIGH (AP)—Secretary of Transportation Bruce Lentz used a state helicopter to fly to a political rally Thursday night, the Raleigh News and Observer reported in today's editions.

Lentz, through a spokesman, confirmed that he used a Highway Patrol helicopter to fly to Rocky Mount, but he said he was unaware that it was going to be a political rally until he got there.

He addressed the second annual Nash County Nixon Day Rally, a $5 per ticket fund raising event. The proceeds went to the Nash County GOP.

The paper quoted Republicans at the rally describing Lentz's helicopter landing in a circle of light formed by the headlights of six Highway Patrol cars.

About 300 persons attended the rally. They heard Lentz speak on the Republicans' new seven-year road plan.

Lentz, on the day before the rally, had fired 100 Department employees, saying that many of them were guilty of political activities.

His use of the helicopter drew criticism from both Democrats and anti-administration Republicans who were asked to comment.

State House Speaker James Ramsey, D-Person, said Lentz's pledges "have turned out to be a false promise. I'd say he speaks with a forked tongue, but that's par for the course."

State Rep. Gilbert L. Boger, R-Davie, an ally of GOP chairman Frank Rouse, said, "It just made me sick, because this is what we fought against (in Democratic administrations) all along."

Lentz said Saturday he would personally pay for the cost of a helicopter trip to a Republican political rally in Nash County Thursday.

$227.7 Million Surplus Funds

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina Advisory Budget Commission has been told it will have $227.7 million in surplus funds to work with in the next fiscal year, about $78 million more than expected.

The commission, which began budget hearings Friday, got the estimate from the state Budget Office. The commission will prepare budget recommendations for the 1974 legislature.

The Budget Office said that because of unspent funds and increasing revenues, total funds available next year will be $1.74 billion. Even after money is allocated for school bonds, kindergartens, and a 5 per cent pay raise for public employees, the $227.7 million will be left.

It could be used for new programs, construction, tax reduction, or a combination of the three.

The commission, in the preliminary hearings concluded Friday, received requests for some $490 million in new spending from state agencies. Among the major requests were:

- $4.1 million to hire an additional 200 highway patrolmen and $10.5 million to expand maintenance and field operations in the Department of Transportation.

- $15 million to replace Craggy Prison in Asheville and Polk Youth Center in Raleigh.

- $9.5 million for new parks and recreation.

- $35.5 million for faculty salary increases and expansion of operations in the University of North Carolina system.

Gibson Sentenced To Ten Years

NEW BERN, N.C. (AP) — Leroy Gibson, head of the segregationist Rights of White People, was convicted Friday on charges growing out of the bombing of an underground bookstore. He was sentenced to 10 years imprisonment and fined $10,000.

The 43-year-old insurance salesman was convicted of possession of a destructive device and possession of an unregistered destructive device in the bombing last May 2 of the United We Stand bookstore in his hometown of Jacksonville, N.C. Judge John Larkins Jr. sentenced him to 10 years on each count, the sentences to run concurrently.

An all-white U.S. District Court jury which deliberated one hour and 40 minutes acquitted him of a third count which accused him of the actual bombing.

The key prosecution witness, Marine Pfc. Robert Daniel Moelter, said he saw Gibson and an unidentified man deposit a brown paper bag at the back of the bookstore the night of the explosion.

Defense attorney J. B. Stoner told the jury that Gibson was on trial for his political views. He said the bombing could have been done by patriotic Marines from Camp Lejeune near Jacksonville, or by left-wing, pro-Communist forces.

Gibson gave notice of appeal but told the court he could not afford the costs. He was freed on his own recognizance until Wednesday, when he was directed to post $50,000 bond with the clerk of court.

Mortgage Rates Said Too Low

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's eight per cent statutory ceiling on mortgage interest rates should be lifted or abolished, according to an N.C. State University financial expert.

Dr. William Wallace, a former member of the Federal Reserve Board of Richmond, said Friday that the ceiling was "unreasonably low" and was preventing savings and loan associations from making home loans.

Wallace said the federal agencies which loan money to the savings and loan institutions were currently charging more than nine per cent interest, making it impossible for them to profitably reloan the money to consumers.

He spoke at a hearing held by a special legislative committee on the home loan interest situation.

Wallace said the ceiling ought to be abolished entirely or set at 2½ per cent above a fluctuating standard such as the long term federal bond interest rate.

Representatives of the savings and loan industry asked the committee to repeal state laws forbidding state and local governments from investing funds in savings and loan associations.

Mrs. Lilian Woo of the North Carolina Consumers Council asked that any legislation have provisions to insure that financial institutions would have to lower their rates if federal rates became lower.

The committee was created by Senate majority leader Gordon Allen, D-Person, who sits on the board of the Roxboro branch of the Home Savings and Loan Association of Durham.

13 Fired From Youth Development

RALEIGH (AP)—Thirteen employees of the Division of Youth Development have been dismissed from their jobs.

Deputy Secretary of Social Rehabilitation and Control Donald Torppa confirmed Friday night that the firings had taken place earlier in the day.

He said he did not have a list of all those dismissed, but they included William Nolan, director of the C.A. Dillon School at Butner; Henry Parker, director of the Samuel Leonard School at McCain; and J.L. Parrish, director of the Youth Evaluation Center at Swannanoa. Torppa said two central office employees, director of religious and moral life J.W. McGinnis and director of education W.A. Ellis had had their jobs eliminated under departmental reorganization.

Torppa said those fired had been dismissed for "incompetence" after a month-long personnel review by the new commissioner of youth development, Dr. John Larkins.

The firings came two days after 100 employees in another Republican controlled division, Highways, were fired.

Nixon Serves Notice, Never Again

By JANE DENISON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, who breached his own legal argument of presidential confidentiality by agreeing to surrender the Watergate tapes, has served notice he will not let it happen again.

After a dizzying week of Watergate developments that began with his firing of Archibald Cox as special prosecutor, Nixon told a news conference Friday night he would resist further efforts by prosecutors to secure presidential papers.

Nixon's stand seemed to signal that he was digging in for even more protracted battles over vital evidence bearing on possible criminality at the highest levels of government.

"I have a constitutional responsibility to defend the office of the presidency from any encroachments on confidentiality which might affect future Presidents in their ability to conduct the kind of conversations and discussions they need to conduct to carry on the responsibilities of this office..." Nixon said.

"We will not provide presidential documents to a special prosecutor."

This was the same argument Nixon made—and lost—in two federal courts this summer as he battled a Cox subpoena for nine tape recordings of his conversations with aides about the scandal.

When Cox refused to obey a presidential order to cease and desist in his quest for presidential tapes and papers, Nixon ordered him fired. Attorney General Elliot L. Richardson resigned in protest and Deputy Attorney General William D. Ruckelshaus also quit.

In the furor that erupted following their departure, including calls for impeachment, Nixon did two things he had said he would never do: surrender the tapes Cox sought for grand jury inspection and approve the naming of another special prosecutor to handle the case. He described it as "our attempts to get a cease-fire on the home front."

Aides said the President would hand the tapes over to U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica early this week.

Nixon said the new special prosecutor, which Acting Attorney General Robert H. Bork will name this week, would have "independence (and) total cooperation from the executive branch" to bring the case to a speedy close.

Bork, who reluctantly fell heir to his new job when Richardson and Ruckelshaus departed, likewise said last week he expected "full cooperation" from the White House. But, he added, he would go to court if necessary to force surrender of vital White House evidence.

"I would anticipate that would not be necessary..." Nixon said Friday. "These are matters that can be worked out and should be worked out in cooperation, and not by having a suit filed by a special prosecutor within the executive branch against the President of the United States."

He said he would furnish "information" from presidential papers to the Watergate prosecutors, but never the papers themselves or anything relating directly to his own conversations.

But it is precisely some of Nixon's own conversations with top aides in which both prosecutors and the Senate Watergate Committee are interested as they probe the mysteries of Watergate and try to find the truth behind it.

Cambodian Truce Broken Saturday

By TRACY WOOD
PHNOM PENH (UPI) — An American Army officer, attached to the U.S. Embassy, was slightly wounded Saturday in a rebel ambush about seven miles south of Phnom Penh.

Earlier in the day, government troops broke their fragile truce with insurgent forces 12 miles southwest of the Cambodian capital, launching a two-pronged attack at Kompong Tuol.

A U.S. Embassy spokesman said the officer was flown to Thailand for medical treatment. The injury was described as a flesh wound.

The spokesman said the officer, who was not identified, was believed to be the first embassy employee wounded in Cambodia. U.S. troops in Cambodia consist of Marine guards and a small detachment of advisers stationed at the embassy.

A UPI reporter who was at the scene said the officer was hit in the left arm as he walked down a highway with about six Cambodian soldiers near Prek Roteang.

There are about six Army officers attached to the embassy who regularly go into the field to observe military operations. They do not take part in the fighting.

According to Cambodian officers in the field, government troops broke the unofficial cease-fire shortly after midnight following the reassignment to a training post of the army commander who had negotiated the truce.

Both sides have tried to maintain the no-shooting agreement since Oct. 7 although there have been periodic outbreaks of fighting, most often sparked by government bombing raids.

Shop Bombed In Belfast

BELFAST (UPI) — A bomb wrecked a shop in the County Armagh village of Newtonhamilton Saturday injuring four firemen and a soldier after experts abandoned efforts to defuse it.

The bomb was planted in the village near the border with the Irish Republic during the night by three armed men.

Army experts tried to defuse the device but decided it was too dangerous to make further attempts and ordered fire precaution measures to be taken.

Police said the firemen were hosing down nearby buildings to protect them against the possibility of fire when the explosion flung broken masonry and glass into their midst.

British authorities earlier in the day reopened the main Belfast-Dublin rail following an overnight shutdown caused by a hoax bomb warning blamed on the outlawed Irish Republican Army (IRA).

Fired For Letter Citing Girl, Agnew

PADUCAH, Ky. (AP) — The resident clerk of U.S. District Court has been fired after writing letters to two newspapers contrasting the penalties incurred by an 18-year-old shoplifter with those levied against former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew.

Mrs. Ernest W. Rivers submitted her resignation Friday after a request for it from the three federal judges who sit in the Western District of the court.

She said U.S. District Court Clerk August Winkenhof of Louisville told her the three judges — James F. Gordon, Rhodes Bratcher and Charles Allen — "were unanimous in their decision."

Gordon said the letters, printed in the Paducah Sun-Democrat and the Louisville Courier Journal, were considered "a reflection on the integrity of the federal judiciary."

In her letters, Mrs. Rivers noted that a young girl had been given a 30-day jail sentence and a $200 fine in Paducah Police Court for attempting to steal a $1.99 bottle of hair lighter and observed:

"I am appalled . . . to think that a sentence of this kind could be imposed upon a young girl when at the same time a man who was elected to the second highest office in the country gets away with bribery and extortion and heaven only knows what other crimes, and the attorney general of the United States asks us to have 'compassion' for him."

"Apparently it is all right to steal if you just steal enough so that you can bargain with the Department of Justice and plead no contest..."

Agnew was fined $10,000 and placed on three years unsupervised probation after pleading no contest to a charge of federal income tax evasion as the result of a federal grand jury investigation into political corruption in Maryland. He also resigned as vice president.

Quake Rattles Florida

COCOA, Fla. (AP) — An earth tremor rattled buildings and shook hundreds of persons awake in the central Florida area on Saturday, but there were no reports of injuries or damage.

Police here said they had received about 100 calls from persons startled awake by the tremor at 2:18 a.m. Police in Orange, Polk and Seminole counties also said they had received numerous reports of the tremor.

Jerry Dunphy, a spokesman for the National Earthquake Information Service in Boulder, Colo., said they had recorded no earthquake in the area.

But he said the tremor could have been too small for recording devices at the center.

PTA Meets On Tuesday

FARMVILLE—Cleve Whaley, president, has announced that the Farmville Parent Teachers Association will meet Tuesday October 30, at 7:30 p.m. in the auditorium of Farmville Junior High School.

The first 30 minutes of the program will be an outline and explanation of the School Bond Issue to be voted on November 6. It is the sincere desire of the Farmville P.T.A., the Farmville Advisory Council, and the Bond Issue Committee that each voter in this area attend this session in order to become aware of the importance of this election in regard to Farmville in particular, Whaley said.

At the end of this program, Charles Carrick, principal, will invite Junior High parents to visit with the teachers to become knowledgeable of the curriculum and programs within the school.

Set Seminar On Medical Ethics

RICHMOND, Va.—"Crucial Issues in Medical Ethics" will be the topic of 21 ministers and professors during the first of the Advanced Study Seminars of the academic year, Oct. 29-Nov. 2, at Union Theological Seminary here.

Participants include the Rev. Richard R. Gammon of Greenville, N. C.

Professor David B. Propp, M. D., of the faculty of the Medical College of Virginia, will lead the discussion with the assistance of our MCV professors. The group will study patients' rights, abortion, and genetic planning, health services delivery, the right to die, and death.

Correction

The correct times for Halloween parties sponsored by the local libraries for preschoolers and elementary children are as follows: Carver, Monday at 3:00 p.m.; Sheppard, Monday at 4:00 p.m.; and East Branch, Tuesday at 10:30 a.m. and again at 4:00 p.m.

Also, patrons are reminded that East Branch and Carver will both be closed Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, October 31 and November 1 and 2 due to library personnel attending a state library meeting.

In Phase II Of Flushing

Phase II of the city's water main flushing operation will begin Monday and continue through Saturday according to Wadie Lewis, superintendent of the Greenville Utilities Commission's Water and Sewer Department.

Lewis said that the department will flush mains in the area bounded by Tenth Street, Charles Street and the 264 Bypass during the hours of 10 p.m. and 6 a.m.

The flushing program is being undertaken by the department in an effort to rid the city's water mains of unwanted rust sediment. Lewis said that he was "100 per cent satisfied" with the initial phase of the operation that was conducted Oct. 23 through Oct. 26.

Lewis, who also noted that it will take time before the lasting results of the program are evident, said that the hours of the flushing operation were chosen in order to lessen the inconvenience to residents as much as possible.

Disappointment In Road Plans

The long-range highway improvement plan has been billed as one which will take road construction out of politics.

It is seen as one which eliminates projects that were previously approved to replace them with projects that will complete some of the major highways of the state.

That may be fine except, unfortunately, it eliminates some projects that seem to us essential. Locally, for instance the project to tie Greenville and Washington together by a four-lane highway has been eliminated. In its place is a project to four lane for about four miles east of Greenville on N. C. 30.

It is difficult for us to understand why this project could not be continued on to Washington, since the distance remaining to the dual-lanes at Washington is relatively short.

The only other project in the Greenville area which was approved is the four-laning of U.S. 13-N.C.11 from Memorial Drive to the Stokes Highway. And this was done on the basis of increasing traffic.

What has to be bitterly disappointing to this area is the fact that no provision is made for a dual lane highway along the route of U.S. 264 leading to the west. There is only vague talk of improving U.S. 64 far to the north of Greenville at some future date, and we must keep in mind that this new program locks in highway projects for the next seven years.

Perhaps this new plan is non-political, but as we see it, there is just as much room for rewarding counties which voted right as any of the other plans of the past. Dual lane roads are planned in the east, it is true, but it is not improper to point out that they lead to the beaches. One of the complaints of the past has been that eastern roads were built primarily to get Piedmonters where they wanted to go.

Notes From A Day At Prison

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—A roughly drawn cartoon, black pencil lines on a tattered sheet of white paper, stays in its place on the bulletin board of a cell block at women's prison while other items may come and go.

The characters are from the popular newspaper feature "Love Is."

The message: "Love Is... Holding your grandson while he snuggles onto your shoulder."

That maternal instinct may be a large reason there are so few women in prison in the first place, and why security measures can be relaxed.

"We don't run away," an inmate said. "Most of us just want to get through our time and get home to the babies."

A Prison Nursery

Some inmates don't wait to get home to their babies. They can visit them in the prison nursery—at least until arrangements are made for foster care or for placement with relatives.

The nursery in the hospital at women's prison has four little occupants right now, including a set of twins just born.

One little baby curled in a tight ball, eyes squeezed shut, may one day find out she has a claim to fame.

The father is a prisoner at Central Prison. The mother is at women's prison on conviction of killing her husband.

Both ended up on work assignment at the governor's mansion on downtown Blount Street.

Work Means Escape

Some people may think prisoners are sentenced to hard labor and want to get out of working.

To the contrary, says G. T. Dixon, superintendent of the west wing at Central Prison. "I have men begging me for work." He has some 50 jobs he can assign to the more than 315 men normally locked up in the five-story cell blocks of west wing—the hard-care areas where prisoners end up for breaking prison rules elsewhere.

"If a man tells me he doesn't want to work, I say fine. It usually isn't long before he is back asking for a job of some kind," Dixon said. Keeping busy on a job at least breaks the routine monotony.

Death Row Is Growing

There are 13 people now on death row. Twelve men at Central, one woman at women's prison. The population is growing since courts no longer have an option in pronouncing a death sentence in certain conviction.

"This is creating a real problem," Dixon said. "These men aren't allowed to mix with other prisoners, to work, and they know they are here for a long time. There's no way out."

There have been no executions since 1961, and not likely to be anymore even though capital punishment laws still stand and the gas chamber is kept in working order.

"At this rate, though, we project we will have 150 people on death row in about 10 years, compounding the problems," Dixon said.

Prisoners Getting Facelifts

A minor boom is on in the operating rooms at Central Prison's hospital—prisoners getting plastic surgery.

"We're averaging two or three a month," said Deputy Warden Nathan Rice. "Mostly it is cosmetic surgery, removing bags under eyes or scars. Of course, it's limited to people who will soon be getting out. There'd be no need in a 30-year man getting a face lift."

Applicants for facelifts must be approved by a committee, and in some cases the surgery involves removal of scars which prison officials feel might have affected the behavior of the prisoner.

"Now I'm not one to think that disfigurement produces a criminal. We've got prison guards with scarred faces and they didn't feel it necessary to commit a crime. But there can be cases in which the person feels that correction of a problem like that would help him get a job," Rice said.

Tattoo removal is also a popular procedure at the hospital among the men due shortly for release. Especially among some prisoners who got the tattoos while inside and fear the subject matter might be a problem on the outside.

What Level Learning

Prison officials at Polk Youth Center—the facility for 16 to 21 year old prisoners convicted of felons—are puzzled over some statistical data regarding education. Records show that inmates there have a "claimed education of grade 9; but a measured achievement level of grade 6. That means either the prisoners are lying—but they don't have a thing to gain from that—or the schools are passing an awful lot of people along with social promotions," an official said.

We think a truly non-political road plan for Eastern North Carolina, and one which would be aimed primarily at the area's development, would be one that connected the major cities of the east by a network of dual laned highways.

This is certainly feasible and probably it is essential as our area experiences the growth which we see ahead. The Seven Year Highway Improvement Program will have to be revised somewhat, however, if this is to be brought about in the foreseeable future.

Here in Greenville, perhaps a dual laned road leading westward is a "pet project" however, it is like a kidney transplant is a "pet project" to a man who has to have it. If Greenville allows itself to be dealt out on major highways again we can expect economic development to be exceedingly difficult in the future.

Republicans In A Bitter Mood

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON — The overpowering sense of despair and foreboding which filled the House Republican cloakroom Tuesday morning was by no means transformed into jubilation with President Nixon's sudden surrender of the subpoenaed tape recordings at 2 p.m.

Although Republican Congressmen were grateful that the crisis had diminished and immediate dangers of impeachment had disappeared, their resentment toward Mr. Nixon lingered. "Some of us are just getting tired of his crises, of his inability to run the government without another crisis," a senior House Republican told us in anger minutes after the surprise presidential capitulation on the tapes issue.

The bitter mood in the House cloakroom reflected a nationwide bad temper among Republicans. The President's weekend shocks produced an unexpected and unprecedented hostility among his own party's loyalists, influencing his decision to retreat on the tapes and making his presidency even more difficult in the foreseeable future.

In sum, Richard M. Nixon's prestige in his own party is at its nadir. For the first time, many Republican loyalists are looking at him not as a master politician sometimes insensitive to party interests, but as a basic political incompetent, whose surprise moves derive from irresponsibility more than cunning. Considering the trials still faced by Mr. Nixon before the Watergate affair is finally resolved, that judgment by his Republican peers could prove a severe handicap.

Solicitor Eli Bloom was holding court in another city. The judge asked him if he would mind bringing his judicial robe to Greenville, where the judge was scheduled to preside the next day.

Eli was glad to do so. Later as he was carrying the robe up the court house steps he ran into Robert Browning, who has just been appointed a judge, himself.

"Where are you going with that robe?" the new judge asked Eli.

"Oh, I carry it along just in case," Eli answered.

Well, Judge Eli Bloom doesn't sound bad at all.

And hardly is the city election over, before a new bumper sticker has appeared:

"Don't blame me. I voted for Dansey."

Other Editors Say Welcome, Leftists

(Wilson Daily Times)

It is difficult to understand how such a bill can get through the Senate but it did and with it come thousands of Communists and other leftist followers of the deposed Marxist president of Chile, Salvador Allende.

The bill sponsored by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy (D-Mass.) created virtually no notice when it was passed in the Senate by a voice vote as a foreign aid bill amendment, which calls upon the President to provide a haven for the leftist fellows of Allende.

This information comes from Human Events and it tells of the glee expressed by the Communist Daily World on the welcome the bill provides for the Communists from Chile.

The amendment received enthusiastic support on the floor from such other liberal lawmakers as Senator Clifford Case, Hubert H. Humphrey, Stuart Symington, and others. The bill now resides in a conference committee where it is given an excellent chance of remaining in the foreign assistance bill when it goes back to the two chambers for final passage.

While Sen. Kennedy's measure has been sailing so smoothly toward final passage, one of his Bay State colleagues, Democratic Rep. Robert Drinan, has introduced similar legislation in the House of Representatives. The Drinan bill would authorize the state Department to provide asylum to as many as 50,000 Chileans and awaits action in the House Judiciary Committee.

This nation has enough trouble at home now without the security problem such a flood of leftists would create.

Among those who would be allowed residence in this country, under the Kennedy formula, would be many of the estimated 13,000 foreign revolutionaries who are now in hiding in Chile or have been imprisoned by the military government of Chile.

There is just one hope. The Kennedy amendment suggests that the President should be prepared to provide asylum while the Drinan bill would authorize such action.

Posses Riding Again

By RICHARD CHARNOCK
Concl, Idaho (UPI) — Sheriffs' posses once again are riding Idaho's back-country trails in search of cattle rustlers.

Fearing an increase in thefts because of high beef prices, Sheriff Jim Hileman of Adams County organized cattlemen into a protective association to help him head the rustlers off at the pass.

So far, Hilmn's back road patrols and roadblocks have turned up only drunken drivers, game poachers and similar violators.

But he believes their presence and the publicity he gave the posses just before hunting season is going to cut down the illegal beef harvest in his county this year.

"We haven't had near the traffic on these back roads this year as we did last year," he said, adding this reduction has occurred despite a heavy turnout of deer and elk hunters.

Still a felony

Once a capital crime and still a felony if the livestock is valued at $150 or more, rustling always has been a problem for Idaho sheriffs. Rising retail beef prices in recent years have made it a major instead of minor one in the big cattle countries.

"It's been a problem every year but last year one rancher had 12 head taken right out of his lot after he'd brought them in off the range," Hileman said.

Fearing an outbreak of rustling, the sheriff went to the cattlemen and talked them into assessing themselves 10 cents a head to form special, deputized patrols. They travel in four-

40 Years Ago Today

By SUSAN PRICE
October 28, 1933
Governor J. C. B. Ehringhaus today tentatively accepted an invitation to attend the "Golden Weed Jubilee" to be held in Farmville on November 10.

One person was killed and 35 were wounded today in two new clashes in the port Haifa, Palestine between police and Arabs demonstrating against Jewish immigration.

Serious rioting resulted in another clash and a British policeman was among those wounded.

Battle lines were drawn between the police and the surging throngs of Arabs in the district around the railway station.

The Arabs attempted to wreck the railroad station to prevent the arrival of prisoners arrested in Jaffa in connection with an outbreak there in which 13 were slain and many wounded.

The farmers of Pitt County will begin a drive against rats on Nov. 17 through a plan by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

Baits for the killings will be offered at wholesale cost making the special campaign cost 50 cents.

Public Forum

Letters submitted for public forum must be limited to 300 words

To the editor:

All of us in North Carolina will have an opportunity on November 6 to enrich our communities without increasing our taxes. The citizens of Greenville and Pitt County will surely want to vote YES on the school bond issue for the following reasons:

(1). Passage of the school bond issue would not mean any additional cost to the taxpayer. Neither state nor local taxes would be raised. The state would provide each community with funds to be used for school construction or renovation at the discretion of each individual school district.

(2). Improved and extended facilities could alleviate unfavorable conditions in our schools, such as overcrowding, which result in less livability and less learning. We need additional classrooms in order to reduce class size, to provide for an increased kindergarten program, and to expand our curriculum.

(3). Improvement of our school plant would not only benefit our present students and teachers, but would also aid in the growth of our community. If we want to attract individuals and industry to our town, we must provide schools in which parents will be eager to place their children...schools where all children can thrive in an atmosphere conducive to learning and growth.

I am sure that the people of Greenville and Pitt County will want to take advantage of this chance to help their own children, the children of their community, and the future of this area, by going to the polls on November 6 and voting YES for the school bond issue.

Sincerely,
Ina Ostrow

Giving To Schools Questioned

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — It was planned as a largely ceremonial affair by educators and industrialists to encourage donations to the nation's most prestigious private universities.

The institutions of business and education needed each other, it was said. And since big business had the money and the universities needed it badly, wasn't it logical that ideas and money should be exchanged?

Assembled at the University Club were leaders of some great American universities: Harvard, Chicago, Stanford, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Cornell, the University of Pennsylvania.

Joining them were some elite of American industry, many of them members or sympathizers of the Committee for Corporate Support of American Universities. The luncheon would promote the need for contributions, which have fallen off.

The funds needed most, said a booklet planned but not yet published, were those that permitted the universities to establish their own priorities — unrestricted, discretionary funds, rather than those rigidly specified.

Featured speaker was David Packard, Stanford class of 1934, cofounder of the giant Hewlett-Packard scientific instruments company, former deputy defense secretary under President Nixon, former Stanford trustee, long-time friend of education.

"I recognize that for the university, unrestricted money is most valuable," he said after the prime steaks were consumed. "It does not necessarily follow, however, that unrestricted money, used as it has been used is always in the interest of the corporation."

Silence was deep as he explained that times have changed. Almost every college board today must have representatives of students, faculty, alumni, ethnic groups and the like, he said.

"Moreover, much of the power has gone to the faculty, and too often faculty decisions are determined by a militant minority of the faculty."

Because of this and other reasons, he said, "I believe the case for a corporation giving unrestricted funds to a private university can no longer be supported." Contributions should continue, he said, but with strings attached.

In a series of rhetorical questions he presented some reasons. "Is kicking ROTC programs off the campus the kind of leadership we need? Is prohibiting business from recruiting ... the kind of leadership we need?"

Some of the educators looked grim. Packard sounded bitter. "Should these universities serve as havens for radicals who want to destroy the free enterprise system? Should students be taught that American corporations are evil ...?"

Ceremony became controversy. Derek C. Bok, Harvard president, rose to defend the freedom of a great university must preserve even, he said, at the cost of tolerating distasteful, unconstructive behavior.

"Understandably you should give in self-interest," he said, but he urged the executives to interpret self-interest broadly.

The great universities, he said, were a national asset. Their research and scholarship were basic to business and the economy, to the balance of payments, to the nation's competitive position, to health and welfare, to culture.

"The difference between vitality and stagnation in these leading centers of research is only a few million a year," he said. "But to let them stagnate may prove to be hundreds of times greater."

He concluded: "The country is challenged. It's vitality depends on this research. So, we ask you to appreciate the stage in society you have."

The more influential of the two views will be established by the flow of future contributions, but a costly legacy of bitterness remains from the days of campus turmoil. Contributions still aren't back to where they were five years ago.

Strength For Today

DON'T WHISTLE—SING

Very often we hear people talk about whistling in the dark in order to keep up their courage. That may be a helpful expedient when walking through a lonely graveyard at night, but whistling in the dark never makes a person courageous—it simply takes his mind for the moment off the possibility of danger.

What really makes people courageous is the conviction in their hearts that they are part of an unseen, victorious, spiritual order. The truly courageous men are not the ones who try to forget danger, but those who are so conscious of more important things that the danger makes no difference.

Unnumbered thousands of individuals have laid down their lives for causes they believed in, the noblest of which has been religion. And these have gone to their death with weeping, but with singing. The Bible puts a song upon the lips of men. It leads then not to forget danger but to remember the supreme worth of the things for which they suffer.

Observations From Editorial Columns

Mugged

U.S. Secret Service agents surely must have something better to do than seize and smash 2,000 imported coffee mugs. Yet that is what they did recently at a firm in San Rafael, Calif., a suburb north of San Francisco.

The reason given for seizure and destruction of the mugs was that they bore a facsimile of a dollar bill. But they also bore a picture of President Nixon, in lieu of George Washington's, over the wording "THESE DOLLARS." Get it - ha ha - phony as a three-dollar bill?

Granted, the mugs were in awfully poor taste. But poor taste, fortunately, isn't illegal. Otherwise, a good percentage of the population would be in jail. The law against facsimiles of U.S. currency was intended, of course, to prevent their use in place of the real thing. Did you ever try to spend a $3 bill printed on a coffee mug?—Tulsa (Okla.) Tribune.

Sentencing And Justice

Defenders of the criminal justice system in this country make much of the claim that all are equal before the law. A recent federal court decision shows that some are more equal than others, especially if the former are rich.

Brought before the bench for sentencing was Jack L. Clark, an Oklahoman who was president of the Four Seasons Nursing Centers of America Inc., until he pleaded guilty to conspiracy in a stock fraud case in which he picked up a cool $10 million while investors lost around $200 million. Correctly, the government asked for an appropriate sentence of up to five years to show that "the rich, the powerful and the influential" are treated like the common criminal convicted of street crimes.

But in a mockery of justice, Judge Thomas P. Griesa handed Clark a one year jail sentence (thus making him eligible for parole in four months) and decided against imposing a fine.

The symbol for justice is a blindfolded woman holding a sword and a set of scales. In this case, the sword was sheathed, one eye was uncovered to check out the defendant and the scales of justice were dangerously out-of-balance.—Chattanooga (Tenn.) Times

Steak By No Other Name

The meat industry has moved to standardize the names by which cuts of meat are labeled.

The action should be popular with poor consumers who have been bedazzled by such distinctive names as "Delmonico," "his and her steak" and "Yankee pot roast."

Under the new labeling program meat counters would use general names everywhere. These labels will tell where the cut came from on the steer, pig, or lamb.

Markets may still use their own, informal names, but along with the standard terms. It is estimated that the number of names used on meat cuts will be reduced from 1,000 to 300.—Anniston (Ala.) Star

Republican reaction was expected at the White House. "Sure, we're in for a fight," said a presidential aide soon after Mr. Nixon precipitated the new crisis, "but it's our kind of fight." In other words, the White House expected Mr. Nixon's Republican base to mobilize for him against his enemies.

That this would not happen and that the public reaction would differ from all previous Nixon presidential crises were apparent by Monday morning. Republican members of Congress reported the public reaction was overwhelmingly against the President. Whereas reaction to the 1970 Cambodian invasion had polarized along partisan and ideological lines, even Republican stalwarts were outraged by Mr. Nixon's actions this time.

For example, Rep. John Ashbrook found stolid Republican regulars in his conservative central Ohio district were protesting. He even received a telegram from one local party committeeman calling for Mr. Nixon's impeachment. Other Republican Congressmen were amazed to find the same reaction and duly reported it to the White House.

Typical was a meeting scheduled Tuesday between Sen. Richard Schweiker of Pennsylvania and one of his leading conservative Republican backers who had been growing increasingly restive with Schweiker's liberal positions. But instead of complaining about the Senator's record as planned, the constituent spent the entire meeting protesting the President conduct over the weekend.

Such Republican criticism can be partly traced to narrow partisan concerns. Local party leaders grumble that Mr. Nixon thoughtlessly damaged Republican candidates in the off-year elections Nov. 6. In particular, some Virginian Republicans fear heightened anti-Nixon feeling generated by the new crisis may prove the death blow to Mills Godwin in his tight race for governor.

Moreover, presidential willingness to sacrifice Elliot Richardson as attorney general and William French Smith as deputy attorney general in order to get Archibald Cox's scalp as special prosecutor was not shared in the Republican hinterland. Presidential aides soon discovered that the party faithful, while shedding no tears for Democrat Cox, regarded Richardson and Ruckelshaus as two ornaments of the administration and were bitter over their treatment.

Most disturbing to these Republicans was their feeling that Mr. Nixon had blundered badly in putting Watergate back on the front pages at a time when they felt public attention might be turning elsewhere. That criticism, indeed, is shared by Republican members of Congress. In their opinion, not even the removal of Cox made the new crisis worthwhile.

In the view of some suspicious Democrats, Mr. Nixon may have planned all along to capitulate on the tapes issue once Cox was disposed of. In truth, all signs at the White House point to Mr. Nixon yielding to spontaneous bipartisan tumult that neither he nor his political advisers anticipated.

Nor is it clear that he had achieved all that much in purging Cox. Mr. Nixon's surrender of the tapes has not diminished congressional pressure for a Watergate prosecution team totally independent of the White House. In the battle now forming on that issue, the President may get precious little help from resentful Republicans.

A Conservative View Impeachment Talk Is Nonsense For Two Reasons

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON—Talk of removing Richard Nixon from office by impeachment is pure nonsense, but even pure nonsense offers a topic for rational discussion these days. And make no mistake: Impeachment is the talk of this gabby town. Everybody is getting in on the act.

The talk is foolish for two reasons. The first is constitutional, the second political.

Unlike federal judges, whose "good behavior" presents a different and an additional question, presidents can be impeached only for treason, bribery or other high crimes and misdemeanors. The firing of the special prosecutor may be a blunder. The ouster of an attorney general and his deputy may be a tactical error. But these acts simply are not crimes in the constitutional sense. Criminal contempt would be, but Nixon at this writing has not been found in contempt. Two-thirds of the Senate never could be mustered to convict Richard Nixon merely for giving the boot to Archie Cox. Too many senators thought it a splendid idea.

The constitutional question to one side, it is nonsense to talk of removing the President if his successor would be (a) Gerald Ford or (b) Carl Albert.

It is one thing to speak of confirming Mr. Ford as vice president. By law and custom, the sole duties of a vice president are to preside over the Senate, to raise funds for his party, and on appropriate occasions to praise physical fitness, highway safety, and the rule of law. The gentleman from Michigan is abundantly qualified for these obligations.

It is another thing altogether for senators to cast a vote for removal, assuming that Mr. Ford has now been confirmed, that would elevate this pleasantly anonymous person to the highest office in the free world. No way. For all his sins of omission and commission, lamentable as these are, Nixon does have the experience and the sense of command that are vital to the exercise of presidential powers. Jerry Ford does not.

Alternative (b) is beyond contemplation. The Senate numbers 56 Democrats, 42 Republicans, 1 Independent, and 1 Conservative. It is inconceivable that many Republicans, not to mention Harry Byrd of Virginia and James Buckley of New York, would cast a vote on impeachment that would elevate Democrat Carl Albert to the power and patronage of the White House. No way. The necessary two-thirds majority could not be mustered for an act of Republican hara-kiri.

Yet the talk of impeachment has its useful aspect. It has made us look critically at the Twenty-fifth Amendment, and to see that this recent engraftment, dealing with vice presidential nominations, will not do. Until the Agnew resignation on October 10, not one person in a hundred thousand had given more than a moment's thought to the Twenty-fifth. Now, in its first test, the amendment reveals its flaws.

Ford hails from the Fifth District of Michigan, Albert from the Third District of Oklahoma. These are their only constituencies. They have won no others. Now that we are compelled to examine the possibility that Ford or Albert might be catapulted into the presidency, the impossible situation becomes evident. Could the American people accept in peace and obey in war a commander-in-chief who never had submitted himself to the voters as a whole?

Irving Brant, the distinguished historian and biographer of Madison, surely is no friend to impulsive amendment of the Constitution. Yet he had the wisdom to denounce the Twenty-fifth as a "disaster" when it was pending before Congress. Now he has proposed a further constitutional amendment to deal with the situation at hand. His plan would require a special presidential election at the earliest feasible moment after a non-elected vice president had succeeded to the office. The plan makes sense.

To be sure, it seems incredible that the Republic ever again would undergo the traumatic experiences we have undergone lately. But as any Washington reporter will tell you, the incredible event has now become the everyday occurrence. A sinking sensation will not go away that the outer limits of incredibility have yet to be reached. Irving Brant's proposal offers a prudent safety valve for the next such explosion, whenever it comes along.

Everything Suggests A Continuing Price-Rise Without Any Controls

By GEORGE BRYANT

The price outlook is grim, no matter how you read the statistics.

True, the September consumer price index, out this week, was in sharp contrast with August results. The increase of 3.7 per cent annual rate, seemed tiny, compared with August's whopping 22.8 per cent. The explanation is that food didn't repeat its August performance.

But the hard fact is that price inflation still is out of control, with little or no sign of abatement next year or the next. Spreading shortages will continue pushing costs up, no matter what Washington does.

Economists now figure that the average price increase for all of 1973 will be on the high side of 6 per cent. That's nearly double what the gain was last year. And it's also more than double the 2.5 per cent estimated as the annual rate an economy can take without operating under the constant threat of a bust.

There is nothing reassuring in forecasts being made for next year. Nixon economists have even stopped risking public forecasts. But others wheel-drive vehicles, two men per car, and patrol the back roads day and night.

Called "range deputies," they travel continuously. They have arrest powers and they are bonded. They are paid out of the fund raised by the cattlemen's assessment.

"We kind of spearheaded this thing," said Hileman, whose idea has been adopted by at least six other counties in Idaho and is being considered by three more.

Opening weekend "I've always been concerned about the loss of cattle and thought there was a way of curbing it. From the first night it snowballed."

On the opening weekend of the general big game season in this area eight two-man teams prowled the dirt and gravel back roads. They put up spot roadblocks, too, to check travelers.

Most persons stopped have taken it well.

"They've accepted it real well," Hileman said. "We've had no problem at all. The only people who are going to give you any static are the ones with something to hide."

Accurate statistics on beef thefts are not available, but State Brand Inspector J. Burns Beal estimates at least $100,000 worth of cattle have been stolen by rustlers in Idaho this year.

are not so timid. A survey of 46 top financial and business economists made by the New York Stock Exchange averaged out to a 1974 cost of living increase of 5.5 per cent.

But there are a number of reasons why this may turn out to be on the conservative side. They grow out of factors which are near impossible to weigh at this time.

The economic growth of this year, the actual increase in the total of good and services produced, probably can't be duplicated, even if consumer demand isn't withered by rising prices. On the industrial side, production is bumping against ceilings—plant capacity and raw materials.

Costs are being constantly driven up on a host of raw materials, essential materials, which must be imported. These are bought in a world market far removed from any rice ceilings Washington can impose.

Oil is a prime example. We think of it first, as gasoline for our automobiles, and, second, as a fuel to heat our homes. But is also carried the freight, rail and highway, and fuels many electric power plants. The effort in Washington to play down the significance of oil imports is a gimmick linked to Mideast politics.

But overshadowing the inflation outlook is the very real danger that the big labor unions will decide to play "catch up" next year. This year's living costs increases have outrun wage increases, with the result that most working people have suffered a real cut in buying power.

Liquor-By-The-Drink Is Tough Fight To Figure

By JOHN KILGO

This liquor-by-the-drink campaign is hard to figure. The dries raised the money they expected, when the wets are as poor as a hobo 20 miles from town.

One of the most shocking bits of information to be revealed thus far deals with a poll taken by a Charlotte radio station. The wets were expected to win Charlotte-Mecklenburg by a landslide margin. But the radio poll showed 40 per cent of the Charlotteans polled in favor of mixed drinks, 52 per cent opposed and eight per cent undecided. Some 400 registered voters were called and asked their opinion.

Former Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor still says he'll take a close look at running for the U.S. Senate next year if Sen. Sam Ervin doesn't seek reelection.

"I've said all along I wouldn't run against Sen. Ervin," Taylor said, "and I won't. I'll examine my chances very closely if Sen. Ervin decides not to run."

Taylor says there is a good possibility that he'll run for some elective office in the future but he adds: "I'm not going to spend the rest of my life running for public office."

Skipper Bowles is asking Democrats to give Party

Chariman Jim Sugg their total support. Bowles appointed Sugg to the position and wants to see him stay there in a position of power.

The dries feel they're making their point in the mixed drink campaign, and now they have to face another problem. They must get the vote out in the East and in the small towns if their side is to swing the election on Nov. 6.

The big city vote is expected to be fairly heavy. Even if individual polls say otherwise, that vote ought to help the wets. The dries will do well in the East and in small towns, but the question is: Are people concerned enough about the issue to vote in substantial numbers?

The dries will spend much of their time between now and Nov. 6 putting their "get-out-the-vote" machinery into motion.

Sen. Sam Ervin on press leaks before Vice President Spiro Agnew resigned: "I don't blame Agnew for being upset about Grand Jury proceedings winding up on the front page but news people aren't to blame. Their job is to ask questions and get all the information they can. Some reporters I know would ask the corpse at a funeral if he had any last comments he'd like to make."

Opinions In Brief

"Only when people are fully informed about actions of their public officials can they make sound judgments and cast intelligent votes."—Hillsboro (Ore.) Argus.

"In the face of all the current food shortages, many people in Washington still favor curtailment of production, big subsidies, price supports, etc. We simple-minded folk say to let things alone for a while and see if the law of supply and demand will work again."—Belton (Tex.) Journal.

Reagan Gives Kennedy Close Race In Presidential Trial Heat

By GEORGE GALLUP (Copyright 1973, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Republication in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.)

PRINCETON, N. J., — In the latest nationwide presidential trial heat, Gov. Ronald Reagan of California runs a close race against Sen. Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts, with Reagan receiving the support of 43 per cent of voters compared to 50 per cent for Kennedy.

Reagan is currently the top choice of Republican voters for the GOP nomination while Kennedy is the favorite of Democrats.

The closeness of the latest trial heat suggests that the Watergate scandal has not irreparably damaged the Republican party's chances of capturing the White House in 1976, even though Gallup surveys have shown that the GOP has been hurt in terms of party affiliation and congressional strength.

GOP Affiliations At A Low Point

For example, a recent Gallup survey showed that the percentage of voters who classify themselves as Republicans has declined to one of the lowest points yet recorded, with only one voter in four (24 per cent) currently expressing allegiance to the GOP.

An earlier Gallup survey showed Watergate having an adverse effect on GOP fortures at the congressional level and that, as of the time of the survey, Republican loss of House seats would go far beyond the loss that an administration normally suffers in off-year elections.

Finally, the percentage of voters who give the GOP a "highly favorable" rating has declined from 28 per cent one year ago to 19 per cent in the latest nationwide Gallup survey, while the "highly unfavorable" rating has increased from 9 to 16 per cent.

Here are the questions asked in the survey to determine the relative popularity of presidential candidates at this early stage of the race for 1976:

"Suppose the presidential election were being held today. If Gov. Reagan were the Republican candidate and Sen. Edward Kenney were the Democratic candidate, which would you like to see win?"

All those who indicated another preference or had no opinion were then asked:

"As of today, who do you lean more to, Reagan or Kennedy?"

Here are the national results:

Kennedy	50%
Reagan	43
Other responses	2
Undecided	5

The Gallup Poll on Oct. 20 reported that Reagan of California held a clear lead over the field of men who have been discussed as possible Republican nominees.

Reagan received the support of 29 per cent of Republicans in the survey, followed by Gov. Nelson Rockefeller of New York with 19 per cent and former Treasury Secretary John Connally with 16 per cent.

On the Democratic side, Kennedy was found to be far and away the top choice of Democratic voters for their party's nomination, as determined by a Gallup survey published in mid-summer. Kennedy was selected by 40 per cent of democrats, followed by Gov. George Wallace of Alabama with 16 per cent.

The latest trial heat findings are based on the proportion (approximately 75 per cent) in the population who are currently registered to vote out of a total sample of 1,576 adults, 18 and older. The survey was conducted in more than 300 scientifically selected localities in the nation during the period of Oct. 6-8.

GLASS AND NATURAL LIGHT PLAY AN IMPORTANT PART IN THE EXTERIOR AND INTERIOR EFFECT OF THE SPLIT LEVEL DESIGN IN THE "WESTMORE."

By Gerry Bishop

Lavished with natural light on both levels, the "Westmore" employs large expanses of glass to create an outstanding facade and bright, livable interior.

Up three steps from the foyer, the main level of this split level plan outlines living areas to the left and sleeping areas to the right. The long, airy living room terminates in a wood-burning fireplace on one end, contrasted with sliding glass doors to the porch on the opposite end. Bordering dining room and kitchen also open to the porch for relaxed dining in the open air. The kitchen is compact, yet accessible from three sides.

In the sleeping area of the "Westmore," three bedrooms are highlighted by a luxurious master bedroom with double closets. Its private bath is furnished with built-in dressing table and towel closet, while the main bath invites use of its separate tub and shower stall. Each of the bedrooms is well provided with space and closets.

Down a flight of stairs from the foyer, the lower level carves an immense recreation room, which merits a fireplace, access to the roofed porch, and a sizable storage closet. Easily large enough to house ping pong or pool table, and bathed in natural light from windows that span the area, the recreation room offers a choice location for parties, family relaxation, or quiet conversation. Full bath with shower and utility room border the area.

An additional area of the basement might be partitioned into den, play room, or storage area as needed.

Size: 1,763 sq. ft. first floor; 1,763 sq. ft. basement; 459 sq. ft. garage. Over-all dimensions: 61 ft. by 59 ft.

Garden Clinic

Q. My tulip poplar has a scale and black fungus. What treatment could I use to eliminate the problem? (J. K., Smithfield)

A. Use a dormant oil spray. The problem is tuliptree scale, which produces honeydew similar to aphids or plant lice. The sugar in this secretion allows a black mold to grow, which accounts for the discolored leaves and twigs. Apply the dormant oil when there is no active growth on the tree. Follow label direction. Apply a second treatment in three to four weeks if the infestation is severe. (H. E. Scott, extension entomologist)

Q. Will a light frost on gladiolus bulbs ruin them—and how can I tell if they are still all right? (W. C., Jr., Clarkton)

A. A light frost will not harm the bulbs (corms). If they are badly frosted, they will dry out and become very light in weight. (Henry J. Smith, extension landscape horticulturist)

Q. Please advise me where I can get Albrighton and Tennessee Beauty Strawberry Plants. (C. Newton)

A. There are two certified strawberry plant producers in North Carolina: John Goodson, Rt. 1, Box 111, Mount Olive 28365 and Lew's Strawberry Nursery, Rocky Point 28457. Either producer can furnish you with almost any variety that is adaptable to North Carolina, including the newer varieties such as Atlas, Apollo and Titan. (Joe Brooks, extension horticulturist)

Sweat 'Equity' In Dream House

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS
NEW YORK (UPI) — A retired Army nurse in Colorado built herself a $100,000 "dream house", using a $50,000 loan and "sweat equity."

Neither the nurse nor the house is typical, but the so-called "sweat equity"—do-it-yourself labor—is a way that many families are using to acquire the home they want but can't afford.

Take, for instance, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence O. Bulson of Rutland, Vt., who saved $3,400 by taking part in finishing the interior of their three-bedroom ranch home. Or, Mr. and Mrs. Myron Borowski of Sacramento, Calif., who figure they saved more than $4,000 by finishing their own home.

More ambitiously, Byron Frye, a 28-year-old schoolteacher of suburban Minneapolis, Minn., and his wife put $10,000 of their own labor into their three-bedroom, two-bath, split level, doing all finishing work except for plastering which they subcontracted. Miss Margaret Bangerter, a 33-year-old Minnesotan, a farm girl turned beautician, estimates she, too, saved at least $10,000 by finishing her home herself.

Each of these homebuilders work through a division of the Evans Products Co., Portland, Ore., whose Homes Group will erect a house on a customer's lot anywhere in any of the 50 states. It is a leading producer of pre-cut homes and second largest builder of single-family homes in the country.

"Sweat equity and affordable financing are the elements that make Evans unique among the nation's home builders," says William Schmidt, manager of corporate communications. Evans, through three divisions, sells homes directly to the buyer, starting as low as $10,000. From a wide selection of plans—and literally hundreds of options concerning equipment, finishing materials such as roof, siding, windows, paneling, tile, lighting and plumbing fixtures appliances—a customer plans his house. Modifications to suit individual preferences are made by the company's architectural department at no extra charge, except where additional materials are involved.

The company precuts structural lumber, pre-hangs windows and doors, fabricates trusses and other components at factories across the country. It erects a weathertight house, about 60 per cent complete, on the purchaser's lot in an average time of one week and delivers all necessary finishing materials to the site.

Finishing Touches
It is in the finishing—installation of roofing, siding, sheeting, wall board, paneling, electrical, heating and plumbing systems, kitchen cabinets and decorating—that the customer can achieve his savings. He can act as general contractor, hiring professionals for some of the work or, where he feels qualified, do the work himself. Along with finishing materials, the company provides detailed finishing instructions.

Schmidt says the average selling price for houses is $13,700, and the average finished value $25,000 to $26,000.

It's a system, Schmidt says, that makes it possible for many families to acquire a home they otherwise might not have been able to afford.

Evans' financing programs—it has several—also help buyers, although company financing is not required and local sources may be used for either conventional or federally-backed mortgages. Schmidt says the company financed more than half the homes it sold in 1972 and, in 27 years of lending, had experienced less than one-quarter of one per cent default.

"No Snap"
While emphasizing that it is "no snap" to do it yourself, Schmidt says it is a practical way for the family who has thought out carefully just what it can tackle to cut the cost of home owning. He says Evans now is getting "second generation do-it-yourself builders."

Miss Bangerter, the beautician from Minnesota, for instance, said she "likes work, likes to have projects to do. After 14 years of apartment living, I wanted to regain the luxury and freedom of a private home," she said.

She began her planning three years before she moved in.

Vermont Craftsman Holds Year-Long Garage Sale

By BRUCE TALBOT
MARSHFIELD, VT. (UPI) — In 1972, Claude Savoie's year-long garage sale peddled off 24,000 bird feeders, 1,500 doll cradles and hundreds and hundreds of candle holders, tables, hutches, dry, sinks, rocking horses, lazy susans and other hand-made crafts.

Savoie is among Vermont's thousands of highly skilled craftsmen, but he's one of only a few who makes his entire living at his trade.

Early each morning, Savoie steps out his door and goes to work—85 feet away in an old barn converted into a wood-working shop. The day often starts at 5 a.m. because he says that is when the real buyers — many of them tourists — are around.

"Everything on this road opens at 10 a.m.," he said. "I've opened my doors at 6 and catch more business between 6 and 10 a.m. you have to catch 'em before they get to the thruway."

Savoie's garage sale is just that. When the family bought a rural house outside Marshfield, they made the garage into a showroom, pulling the big door up in the summer and installing a temporary wall with a large built-in display window during colder months.

Born in Barre Savoie became a tool and die maker in Hartford, Conn. Eventually, his evening and weekend hobby of woodworking became so enticing he quit his job and moved back to the Green Mountain State.

During his two years here on Vermont Rt. 2, Savoie has come to know and understand the road well enough to build up a thriving three-man business. He's kept it at that level, though, because to do otherwise "would defeat the whole purpose."

When customers—an average of 65 cars a day—pull into his driveway to check over the hardwood tables, rockers and custombuilt cabinetry, Savoie keeps his back to the house and his eyes on the road to survey the day's potential market.

"People deliberately came here all the way from Chicago this summer just to buy one of our shelves," he said. They'd seen it pictured in a crafts catalogue where Savoie does virtually his only advertising.

"We were sitting here one Saturday afternoon, hot and debating if we should go swimming. I said we'd better not because we advertised that we're open seven days a week. Afterwards I said to myself, 'you learned your lesson—never open late or close early.'"

One night last year during the fall foliage season when the state was flooded with tourists, people were knocking on Savoie's door until 11 p.m.

"If a person's good enough to stop, I'm letting him in," Savoie said.

Savoie specializes in antique reproductions, but he's a man who keeps up with the times.

When the ornate State House in Montpelier needed furnishings to fit in with its authentic early American decor, officials called on Savoie to apply his self-taught skills. Ski lodges which now dot Vermont mountainsides have commissioned many items from Savoie.

"In Vermont, with all the land developing going on, it takes lots of tables in law offices to handle deeds, surveys and blue prints," he said. The land boom, many charge, is destroying the state's antique flavor. Savoie feels his products help counter that trend.

"This is what we call our 'Bicentennial chest,'" he said, hauling a small, elegant table chest into the family kitchen.

Thinking three years in advance, Savoie said he designed the chest in a style of the 1740's and will sell a limited, registered number of them during what promises in 1976 to be a bonanza statewide tourist year.

"You know, it's strictly an advantage for us to operate the way we do. We don't have to have an expensive shop downtown; we don't have to have big signs; we don't have to join associations. There aren't any traffic problems and no parking problems. "When it's slow, I can sneak in the house and play with the kids. I want them to go out and get an education," Savoie said, "and if they want to go into the business, fine. If not, fine. If they do, I'll open it up the way they want it."

"Until then," he said, "it's staying just the way it is."

"I MAKE GOOD MONEY AND WE DON'T THROW IT AWAY. AND ONCE A MONTH LIKE CLOCKWORK, WE GO BROKE!"

Alright, let's take a minute to analyze the situation.

Granted you don't spend more money in total than you earn in total. But most families don't live "in total." They live either month to month or payday to payday, and that's where the problems arise.

For while most of your expenses are fixed or predictable, many come as total, and not necessarily pleasant, and sometimes ugly, surprises.

And while the money flows in at a constant rate, the bills arrive in trickles and floods.

So, at any given moment, there can be more money going out than coming in. And if you have two paydays a month, it's easy enough to go broke during one of them.

Company managers refer to this situation as a "cash-flow" problem. Families know it as The Payday Gap.

It's not a sign of reckless spending. But to avoid it you need a sort of money-bridge to help you across that gaping chasm between paychecks. What you need, in fact, is Master Charge.

Here's how to use it:

Instead of depleting your funds as expenses arise, try to save your budgeted funds for budgeted, anticipated expenses only. Food, rent . . .

And use your Master Charge for those unpredictable expenses that tend to crop up like weeds between paydays.

Managing your finances this way, you can pace your bill-paying to your money-earning.

You won't spend any more money that way, nor any less for that matter. But by stabilizing your cash-flow paycheck to paycheck, you'll be able to breathe more easily day to day.

IT CAN TAKE THE PRESSURE OFF.

Bluegrass Originated In British Isles

By WILLIAM D. LAFFLER
NEW YORK (UPI) — Bluegrass music had its seeds planted somewhere in the British Isles long ago but its tree grew up in the mountains of the eastern United States.

Just as jazz emerged from the brass band music, bluegrass evolved from simple ballads and string instrumentals. The southern mountain strings bands in the Virginias and North Carolinas played a major part in the development of bluegrass.

The old-time music is recreated in an excellent album, "The Iron Mountain String Band" (Folkways FA 2473). It features Eric Davidson on banjo, Caleb Finch on fiddle and Peggy Haine on guitar. Oddly, the band was formed in New York City to revive the old tunes which were passed down from generation to generation. During the 1960s it played numerous concerts in the east and south Atlantic states.

Most of the numbers are brief and to the point, enabling the band to get 19 tunes on the two sides of the record. "Skip to My Lou" is the most familiar tune but others, such as "Louisville Burglar," "Johnson Boys," "Cumberland Gap" and "Black Eyed Susie" are equally melodic.

As this music developed, other instruments were added, among them the mandolin and harmonica

Travel Film on Britain Due Nov. 1

Next on the Travel-Adventure Film Series sponsored by the East Carolina University Student Union is Britain's Holiday Islands, a film by Robert Davis.

The film will be shown Thursday, November 1 at 8:15 p.m. in Wright Auditorium. Admission to the general public is $1.00 per person.

Davis, lecturer, cinematographer, and film producer is one of those individuals who changed an avocation to a vocation and has been constantly engaged in film making since.

Home for Davis is the Trout Valley of northern Illinois — but he travels far from his homestead community to document in film many of the areas of the globe. A native of Kansas City, Missouri, in elementary school Davis acquired an 8mm camera and has been filming everything in sight since. Britain's Holiday Islands covers in full color the island holidays of Great Britain—with visits to the homes of John Keats and Queen Victoria, as well as the streets of Sark Island, where bicycles and carriages replace automobiles. There's also the sights of the Isle of Man, home of the tailless Manx cat, and Dunvegan Castle on the Isle of Skye.

Tickets are now on sale at the ECU Central Ticket Office or may be purchased by mail. Checks for mail orders should include 38 cents additional to cover cost of postage and certified handling.

Graham Film "Time To Run" To Open Here On Nov. 14

Time To Run, a film centered on the desperate search of a young man to find meaning in life, is coming to Pitt Plaza Cinema for a seven day run beginning November 14 and continuing until November 20.

Produced by World Wide Pictures, the film arm of the Billy Graham organization, Time To Run is directed by Jim Collier, with a screenplay by Allan Sloane, an Emmy award winner. Collier has to his credit the production of Two A Penny, For Pete's Sake, and His Land.

Ed Nelson, veteran movie and TV actor, best known for his portrayal of Dr. Michael Ross in Peyton Place, heads the cast of Time To Run, in the role of a hard-driving industrialist.

His son, Jeff, played by Randall Carver, is a rebellious young man at odds with his aggressive father. Jeff's romantic interest, Michelle, is played by Barbara Sigel, who has appeared in a number of TV shows and is making her first starring role in this film.

Jean Winmill, British born actress now the wife of Bill Brown, publicity manager of the World Wide Pictures firm, has the role of the wife and mother in the film. Also in the cast is Gordon Rigsby. Billy Graham makes a special screen appearance at one point.

In Greenville, some local citizens have been organized to promote the film and its message. Charles Barber is executive chairman. Publicity is being handled by Graham Gutting assisted by Matthew Ward, Douglas Helms and Ralph Williams. Frank Little, Jr., is finance chairman; Walter Weed is chairman of churches and counselling, and Mrs. Walter Weed is secretary and prayer chairman. Larry Ward is arrangements director. As part of the pre-movie showing preparation, Gutting said that a 20 minute 16 mm clip, with excerpts from the film and an explanation of the film's purpose, is available to church or other groups.

Another activity planned as a part of the film's promotion is a local "prayer request." Persons who have a prayer request are asked to telephone 756-2983.

In addition, three classes on Christian life and witness courses are scheduled on three successive Sundays in Elm Street Park. These take place today, on November 4 and again on November 11 at 2:00 p.m.

A special premiere of Time to Run was shown on the morning of October 22 for the press, city, school and church officials.

Tickets for Time To Run will be on sale individually or by groups of civic, church and clubs. Group sale of tickets will be at a discount over individual ticket prices.

A COLLEGE DROPOUT. . . Jeff Cole, played by Randall Carver, keeps on the move in a desperate search for meaning to life in "Time To Run."

Organ Recital For Reithmaier

Miss Ellen Reithmaier, faculty member in the school of Music, East Carolina University, will give an organ recital at the First Presbyterian Church in Greenville on Sunday, November 4, at 8:00 p.m.

Ellen Reithmaier

A member of the piano faculty at ECU since 1970, Miss Reithmaier has performed on campus in both solo and chamber programs. The Sunday event will be her first organ recital in Greenville.

Miss Reithmaier holds the Bachelor of Music degree from Alverno College in Milwaukee and the Master of Music degree from the University of Michigan. In her college years, in addition to piano, she studied organ and was second place winner in a regional competition sponsored by the American Guild of Organists. She was also active during those years as organist and assistant choir director in the city of Milwaukee.

For her Sunday recital Miss Reithmaier has selected five compositions: Bach's Prelude and Fugue in G Minor; Giacomini in F-moll, Pachelbel; Buxtehude's Fugue a la gigue in C Major; four movements from Jean Langlois' Suite Breve; and Concerto per Organo, Trombe e Tromboni, in three movements, by Marius Monnikendam.

For the concerto, she will be assisted by Barry Shank, trumpet; James Searl, trumpet; George Broussard, trombone; and Doug Adams, trombone.

There is no admission charge for the concert and the public is invited to attend.

Music on Campus

Music on Campus this week begins with a voice recital today and concludes with two events (one off campus) next Sunday. Events scheduled are:

Today — Antonia Dalapas, faculty, voice recital, 8:15 p.m., Recital Hall, Fletcher Music Center. (Details in The Daily Reflector on Sunday, October 21).

Monday — Percussion Ensemble Concert, Recital Hall, 8:15 p.m. The Percussion Ensemble in this program features three musicians — Sheila Marlowe, soprano; Donna Grose, piano; and Danny Tindall, marimba. Harold Jones is director.

The program consists of the following compositions: The Swords of Moda-Ling by Gordon Peters; Bach's Prelude XXII; Matona, Mia Cara by Lassus; four songs from Webern's Vier Lieder, Opus 12; two Basho Songs (Liberamente and Fast and Light) by Edward Miller; Suite No. 1, for Marimba, by E. J. Ulrich, in three movements; John Cage's Amores, which includes Solo for Prepared Piano; Trio for nine tom-toms and pod rattle; Trio for seven woodblocks; and Solo for Unprepared Piano. The final selection is Sandy Feldstein's Jis for Jive-Jim.

Wednesday — Recital Hall, 8:15 p.m. — The Phi Mu Alpha Concert (Music Fraternity) — Compositions and performers listed are: Concertante by Norman Dello Joio, (first movement), with C. Thomas Richards, clarinet and Robert Sullivan, piano; William Duckworth's Non-Ticking Tenuous Tininable Time (for four electronic metronomes and percussion quartet); Donizetti's Una Furtiva Lagrima, with Keith Wright, tenor Leah Wiggins, piano; and Moore's Under the Greenwood Tree, Tal Faunteroy, tenor, and George Stone, piano.

Thursday — 8:15 p.m., Recital Hall — Miss Elizabeth Fay Gygi, senior recital, piano. A native of Norfolk, Va., Miss Gygi is a student of Paul Tardif. She was a former student of Francis Marsh Buntin of Norfolk and plans to attend graduate school at Brigham Young University in Provo, Utah. For her Thursday recital, Miss Gygi will play Beethoven's Sonata in D Minor, Opus 31, No. 2; Schumann's Romanze in F-Sharp Major; Mendelssohn's Caprice in E Minor; and Three Preludes by Alexander Stryabin.

Sunday — Nov. 4, Recital, Ellen Reithmaier, 8:00 p.m., First Presbyterian Church.

Sunday — Nov. 4, 3:15 p.m., Wright Auditorium — The ECU Symphonic Wind Ensemble, Herbert Carter, conductor.

All programs listed above are open to the public and there is no admission charge. Seating in all instances is on a first-come first-served basis.

NCMA Acquires Rare Old Gun

The North Carolina Museum of History has acquired a rare 17th century Miquelet hunting shotgun for its historical collections.

The Miquelet ignition system was developed in Spain during the middle years of the 18th century, a forerunner of the flintlock system in firearms. Museum people say this one-of-a-kind, custom-made gun was made in Spain between 1630 and 1680. It is

Reep Exhibition At Garden Gallery

"This painting represents an effort to show the unbelievable complexity of nature, a moth, a woods as we might see them, and back to the way the moth might view the same forest," Ed Reep remarked about one of his new paintings.

One of several paintings he calls "a Dual Series," the multi-color canvas is alive with innumerable details structured around a discernable central insect and tied together with narrow ribbons of light "that are symbolic of morning dew on a spider's web," Reep said.

The Dual series, as well as four earlier works of his Greenville series — a tobacco field, the Pitt County Courthouse, a black man in an ice storm, and the geometric framework of a house being demolished — form part of a one-man show of Reep's work that opened yesterday in the Garden Gallery near Raleigh. The show is rounded out with a series of small circular watercolors painted on rice paper.

Speaking about a couple of paintings he has painted this past summer evolving from studies of the minute world of field and forest, Reep said "I felt compelled to make a statement in these paintings, to make an effort to show that the forest defies man's imagination."

These works do more than reflect a well-patterned assemblage of myriad objects in nature all too often overlooked in the daily rush of living.

Reep succeeds in calling forth a warm response of recognition — of fragments of beauty briefly glimpsed and stored away in our memories, a splendid kaleidoscope

In the nature paintings, and in other paintings in the dual series Reep has not spared the colors. Some of his canvasses are literally drenched in vibrant reds, yellows, blues, oranges. Others are somewhat more muted, but are rich in a range of colors as varied as a field of morning glories in full flower.

The name "Dual Series" derives from the Reep's structure of painting in this group. Working on a vertical basis, he repeats the right hand motif or pattern on the left hand side of the canvas. "This is not as simple as it might seem," Reep said, "and of course it's not an exact duplication, one part of the other." The two halves, are nonetheless, finely balanced.

In the circular watercolors, Reep again shows his versatility — going from four by five and five foot square paintings to circular works of about a foot in diameter. Less formal in concept than the paintings, these small abstractions also convey a kinship to nature, especially to things seen as an insect might see them — or in another parallel, as a microscope would reveal the inner beauty of natural objects.

The Reep one-man show will be on view at the Garden Gallery through November. The gallery is located on the Raleigh-Durham highway not far distant from the cut-off for the Raleigh-Durham airport. Viewing hours are 10:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday; and from 2:00 to 6:00 p.m. Sundays.

There is no admission charge and the public is invited to attend.

Book News

From Sheppard Memorial Library

By MARGARET CLARK

One of the most astounding survival stories ever told, Survive The Savage Sea by Douglas Robertson, is an enthralling book that is sure to take its place among the classics of heroic adventure.

At 10 a.m. on June 15, 1972, the 43-foot schooner Lucette, sailed by a Scottish ex-farmer, and his family, was attacked by killer whales in the Pacific and sank in 60 seconds.

Equipped with emergency rations of food and water for only three days, and no maps, compass or instruments of any kind, they decided to make for the coast of Costa Rica, 1,000 miles and an estimated 50 days away. After 37 days, 8 hours, and 40 minutes, the Robertson's ordeal came to an end with a Japanese fishing boat picking them up 290 miles land.

Douglas Robertson tells this incredible story with moving eloquence, sharing with the reader each day's crisis or triumphs, each person's hopes and fears, the tensions and the heart-breaks — and above all, the Robertson's indomitable determination not to die.

Catherine Cookson's The Mallen Girl is the second volume of a trilogy, following The Mallen Streak, which delighted many thousands of readers.

The central character is Barbara Mallen, willful, hot-tempered and imperious. She is also alarmingly beautiful. Yet despite this, as she enters her teens, she is the object of sympathy and concern, for she has become almost totally deaf. When she falls in love with her first cousin and insists he returns her affections, nothing — this his mother's opposition, nor the renewed threat of incest — will stop her in her headstrong pursuit of tragedy.

Against this dark tale of passion there unfolds the heart-warming story of the new owners of High Banks Hall, the Benshams, which brings this engrossing novel of the star-crossed Mallen family to a surprising and gratifying conclusion.

The Salamander by Morris West is a political thriller set in present day Italy. The title refers to a mythical being thought to be able to live in fire and it is adopted as the insignia of one of the chief characters — a vigorous 70-year old industrialist named Bruno Manzini who has managed to survive Italy's turbulent politics over the years. The plot concerns the efforts of Manzini and his protege, Col. Matucci, an intelligence officer, to expose the men who are trying to establish a military dictatorship. The story begins as Matucci investigates a supposed suicide. But the more he digs the higher his investigation takes him. The scenes are set in Rome, Venice, Milan, in exclusive clubs and vast estates — the high society of politics and finance.

Author of the two best-selling novels of our time, The Devil's Advocate and The Shoes of the Fisherman, Morris West has set a story of love, intrigue and violence that holds the reader spellbound from the first page to the last.

Seniors Show

Robert Nordbruch and David L. McGee, both seniors of the School of Art, East Carolina University, have thesis shows in the North Gallery of the Greenville Art Center this week.

Nordbruch, a graphics major, is exhibiting about 25 prints, in color and in black and white. Some are abstract designs, others are more traditional.

About a dozen pieces of linear sculpture, the majority of black welded steel, comprise the works being shown by sculptor major McGee.

Poetry Winners

Beyond The Dream, Dr. William Harrold's book of poetry published in 1972, was winner of this year's Oscar Arnold Young Memorial award.

Harrold was one of several winners announced at the recently held annual Statewide Poetry Day in Asheville. Presently a member of the English Department at the University of Wisconsin, Dr. Harrold was until recently a member of the UNC-Chapel Hill faculty.

First place in the James Larkin Pearson Contest was won by Verne Strickland of Raleigh for his poem Dylan. Gary Reath of Hendersonville was second place winner with Letter to John; and Dr. Lillie Antonakas of Salisbury placed third for her poem, The Wake.

Beware The Falling Leaf, by Mrs. Leona Chunn of Lakeland, Fla., received top place in the Charles A. Shull contest; with Mrs. Charlotte Hutchinson of Black Mountain and Miss Mary Hunt of Little Switzerland placing second and third for Phototropism and The Mathematics of Winter, respectively.

For poets under 18 years old in the Virginia Dare Contest, top three winners were Rebecca Baggett of Raleigh for Riga — 1943; Ann Stewart of Hendersonville for My Shell; and Diane Van Dyke of Newton for Who Loves The Rain.

During the annual meeting, plans were formulated to publish during the coming year Bay Leaves, a compilation of prize-winning poems for 1972-73.

Local Artisans To Be Represented

Craftsmen Fair In November

A dozen local artisans will be taking part in the Tenth Annual Piedmont Craftsmen's Fair, which will be held this year in Winston-Salem.

For a two day period, Friday and Saturday, November 2 and 3, more than 100 booths containing the work of about 125 artisans will be on view from ten in the morning until nine at night at the Memorial Coliseum in Winston-Salem.

Considered one of the outstanding yearly events in North Carolina, the Craftsmen Fair for the fourth year has been designated as one of the "top 20 U.S. travel events" by Discover America Travel Organizations, Inc.

The range of crafts, as in past years, will range all the way from whimsical items like a wooden doll dancing a mad jig on a paddle to intricately woven tapestries and finely wrought pieces of jewelry. Emphasis is on the one of a kind handmade item.

Although most of the craftsmen are from the Piedmont area of North Carolina, eastern and western North Carolina have considerable representation. There are also craftsmen from South Carolina, Virginia, Georgia, Florida, Tennessee and Alabama who are exhibiting.

A popular feature of last year, the Children's Craft Booth, is back again this year. So is the Craftsmen's Choice Booth — in which the best single example of each exhibiting artisan is featured.

The dozen from the Greenville scheduled to exhibit this year are: Charles Chamberlain, pottery; Michael Goins, jewelry; Eddie Smith, Jr., pottery; Sarah Edmiston, bronze; Dot Satterfield, weaving; John Satterfield, jewelry; Don Sexauer, printmaking; Myra Sexauer, weaving; Kelly Adams, photography; Janet Fischer, jewelry; Gerald Johnson, printmaking; and Irene Glover (Beaufort County), pottery.

Admission to the craft fair is $1.50 for adults; 75 cents for senior citizens; $1.00 for students through high school; and 75 cents for students in groups. Parking is free.

Those planning to attend should be prepared to dress warmly, especially the feet, as the fair is being held in the ice hockey rink, with boards laid over the ice.

believed the piece was created for a Spanish nobleman for sport hunting of small birds and game.

With a hinged, folding stock, this Miquelet was originally encased in a tooled wooden box and was most likely carried in the nobleman's carriage for bird shooting as he traveled.

The stock is carved of cherry wood with eight-karat gold and ivory used for trim. The shotgun or "fowler", is only 30 inches long and weighs four pounds. It is approximately 10-gauge and was hand loaded with powder and shot by a ramrod.

The rare piece was donated to the North Carolina Museum of History by the heirs of Dr. George H. Petway of Charlotte and will go on display soon.

According to Curator of Collections, Keith Strawn, this Miquelet is a rare and valuable collector's item. In the 1600s guns this ornate was made for wealthy individuals by skilled craftsmen

Annual Light Bulb Sale Hopes To Wipe Out Smallpox

The Greenville Jaycees launch their annual Light bulb sale on Monday with chapter members scheduled to canvass the local business community through Nov. 6.

Project co-chairman Jim Smith, who is heading the drive with Roger Collins II, said that 15 teams of Jaycees with ten members on each squad will cover the business district.

Smith noted that following the business drive, the Jaycees will conduct the residential sale Nov. 6, 7 and 8 from 6:30 p.m. until 9:30 p.m. each evening.

Teams will again be assigned specific areas to cover. This year, the Jaycees ordered some 16,632 bulbs of assorted watts to distribute. Smith said that each team will have supplies of 130, 100, 75, 60, and 40 watt bulbs as well as soft white, three-way and fluorescent bulbs.

The co-chairman reported that the Jaycees have set a goal of $3,000 for this year's sale. Last year, the chapter collected over $1,900 through the bulb solicitations.

He explained that all profit from the sale goes into the chapter's charity fund for use in a variety of community service endeavors. This is the only fund raising drive conducted during the year by the Jaycees to solicit money for charitable purposes, Smith said.

Most of the funds are used during the holiday season, he added, although there are several community projects funded at other times during the year.

Smith pointed out that citizens can utilize the bulb sale as a means of making a donation for charity even though the actual sale of the bulbs is emphasized.

He said that when two years elapse with no new cases reported anywhere, smallpox will become the first disease ever to be eradicated by man from the earth.

By LEON DANIEL
NEW DELHI (UPI) — The man who heads the World Health Organization's (WHO) global campaign against one of mankind's most feared and ancient enemies believes that smallpox can be wiped from the face of the earth.

"We have at least a 50 per cent chance of eradicating smallpox throughout the world by December of next year," said Dr. Donald A. Henderson, an American based in Geneva and the Chief of WHO's smallpox eradication unit.

"Only four countries—Ethiopia, India, Bangladesh and Pakistan—still have endemic smallpox," said Henderson, here to coordinate strategy in the final phase of the campaign against the killing and disfiguring disease.

"We're on schedule," Henderson said in an interview. "I am optimistic. We've got the people to do the job and we've got excellent vaccine."

No known cure
Henderson and his colleagues are trying hard to work themselves out of a job.

"I think we're all looking for a South Seas island and a rocking chair," he said. Henderson said there is no known cure for what he called "the most devastating disease ever known to man." But, he added, "smallpox is so preventable."

By the 1950s smallpox had been eliminated from Europe and North America through vaccination, Henderson said, and brought under effective control in a number of countries in South America, North Africa and Asia.

The WHO's global eradication program began in 1958.

As late as 1967, smallpox still was considered endemic in 30 countries—in Africa in most nations south of the Sahara, in Asia in Afghanistan, India, Indonesia, Nepal and Pakistan and in South America in Brazil, Henderson said.

So, six years ago, WHO stepped up its campaign with the use of high quality freeze-dried vaccine administered by fast-moving surveillance teams using the latest vaccination techniques in remote villages.

"Logistically, we can't vaccinate everyone in the world," Henderson said, but he added that this will not be necessary to wipe out smallpox. He said that with continued good cooperation from the governments of the four nations where smallpox still is endemic the disease can be isolated and eradicated.

Henderson was asked if the campaign was threatened by the current mass of migration of people stranded or imprisoned as a result of the 1971

Indo-Pak war from India, Bangladesh and Pakistan, three of the four nations which still have endemic smallpox.

"Certainly there is a risk," Henderson said, but added that the governments involved "are doing a good job in checking incoming and outgoing repatriates for smallpox vaccinations."

One of the reasons Henderson is so optimistic that smallpox can be eradicated is that "in areas where it has been knocked out, it has never come back except by importation."

Henderson and his colleagues are confident that they are nearing victory in a campaign that will eliminate one of nature's great killers.

Student Holiday In City Schools

Students in Greenville City Schools will have a holiday on Monday. This holiday is the result of a scheduled teacher workday for the local teaching staff. All school offices will be open.

Teachers will be involved in various activities during the "workday" without students present. Parent-teacher conferences have been scheduled by some while others will be in workshops, preparation of teaching materials, or working on the many administrative details included with their teaching duties.

Late Score Helps UNC Nip Pirates, 28-27

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
CHAPEL HILL — The University of North Carolina fought back in the second half to score 21 points and nip surprising East Carolina, 28-27, yesterday.

But a lot of East Carolina people are going to be wondering about 16 seconds that disappeared from the clock. Sixteen seconds that just might have made the difference as the Bucs drove down field with no time out left, forced to try a 54 yard field goal with four seconds showing.

The last seconds came when North Carolina came back from a 21-7 deficit at halftime to tie it at 21-21. The clock read 9:49 when it was stopped as Sammy Johnson went into the end zone. But when Ellis Alexander kicked the extra point, the clock suddenly read 9:33. And it will probably leave a bitter taste in the Pirates' mouth as their six game winning streak came to an end.

Certainly East Carolina wasn't embarrassed like they were last year when Carolina won, 42-19.

What really turned the game around for the Tar Heels was a fumble recovery late in the third period. East Carolina was driving and had reached the Tar Heel 19 before Bobby Trot, seemingly knocked the ball loose from ECU quarterback Carl Summerrell, and Ted Elkins recovered it. From there, Carolina's offense caught fire, driving on all three possessions after that for scores.

Johnson finished the game with two of the Tar Heel touchdowns, scoring on runs of 32 and 3 yards. Ted Leverenz scored from the seven and Dick Oliver took a six yard pass from Bill Paschall for the other score. Ellis Alexander kicked all four extra points, which were the key difference.

East Carolina scored in several ways. They first got a safety when Danny Kepley fell on Paschall, who had fumbled into the end zone. Then, Jim Woody kicked two field goals, of 43 and 21 yards. The 43-yarder sat a new school record for distance, breaking the old mark of 42 set last year by Ricky McLester against Richmond.

Carlester Crumpler picked up two of the three Buc scores, on runs of three and one yards, while Summerrell got the other on a four yard run. Woody kicked one of three extra points, with the key one being blocked, giving Carolina the one point edge.

East Carolina had the edge in offense, 408 yards to 341 for the Tar Heels. The Bucs had only one turnover, but that was a key one. Had the Bucs scored then, the door would have been slammed.

For the 41,500 in attendance, it looked like the Tar Heels were going to blow the Bucs out after the opening kickoff as they marched 73 yards in 12 plays to score. Paschall hit Leverenz for nine yards on the first play, then James Betterson and Ed Lamens each ran for four. Betterson got four more, and another four by Johnson put the ball over midfield at the 47. Paschall hit Leverenz again for seven and Johnson took a pitch-out down to the 27. After a four yard gain, Johnson gained 11 more, putting it on the 12. Betterson got three and Leverenz, six, before Johnson cracked over right tackle from the three. Alexander kicked with 9:56 left, and the Heels led, 7-0.

East Carolina drove over midfield on their first possession, but were stalled and Jonathan Deming kicked it down to the three.

On the first play after that, Paschall bobbled the snap and managed to keep the ball away from Kepley, accepting the safety. That cut it to 7-2 with 6:30 remaining.

East Carolina drove again, following the free kick. Jim Bolding ran the ball back 23 yards for field position at the 39. Kenny Strayhorn got six yards, then broke away for 11 to the 22. The drive stalled there, however, and Woody stepped in to kick his 43-yard field goal. That cut it to 7-5 with 4:00 still left in the quarter.

The Tar Heels moved over midfield to the 48 before Billy Hibbs recovered a fumble at the 47. That let the Bucs drive again, but they had to settle for a field goal after moving to the two.

Strayhorn picked up eight to the Heel 45, and after three more, Crumpler picked up seven. Summerrell moved it on two runs, and two passes down to the two, hitting Stan Eure for 13 on the last play. But the Bucs were hurled back by the Tar Heels, and took the field goal, and the lead, 8-7 on Woody's 21-yard boot with 13:08 showing.

Late in the half, the Bucs got it back at their 12 and drove for their first touchdown. Slowly they moved it down the field, with Summerrell hitting Eure for 21 yards on a key play to the 42. Don Schink broke away for 19 to the 23, and then Summerrell ran it to the six after passing for four. Crumpler got three yards, then the final three for the 14-7 lead with 2:25 left. Woody's kick was wide.

Bolding put the Bucs back in good position just three plays after the kickoff with a 20 yard interception return, giving him a new season record of 84 yards. That put the ball on the 28. Schink got five, and Crumpler got away on a draw to the four. Summerrell then kept around left end on the second play from there, scoring. Woody's kick with seven second left made it 21-7.

East Carolina appeared ready to put it away as they moved on their second possession of the second half. They drove from their 14 down to the Tar Heel 19 before Summerrell, going around left end, was knocked loose from the ball and Elkins recovered. Just as the safety had turned the game around in the first half, so did the fumble in the second. North Carolina took the ball and moved for their second score.

It took 15 plays for them to move the 80 yards, and they burned valuable time doing it. Freshman Mike Voight got a key 20 yards on one play, but Carolina continually got key third down yardage. Even then, the Bucs appeared to have them stopped, holding for a fourth and six at the 17. But Paschall kept away from the Pirate defense and hit Leverenz at the sideline for a first down at the seven. On the next play, Leverenz took the ball around the left side to score with 12:22 left. Alexander kicked to cut the lead to 21-14.

Jimmy DeRatt returned a punt by the Bucs to the UNC 48 after the Heels stopped the Bucs, and it took only four plays to score. Johnson got seven yards, Voight added six and Petterson got seven. Johnson then broke away from the pack, racing 32 yards to the end zone to tie it up after Alexander kicked again.

Then, 16 seconds disappeared. East Carolina fought back, driving 72 yards in 11 plays. Crumpler started it off with nine yards, but the big play was a 30-yard burst up the middle by Schink, who was only tripped up by Russ Conley, saving the score. Crumpler ran three times for 16 yards and Summerrell put the ball on the one. Crumpler went over from there, and the Bucs were back ahead, 27-21. But Gary Cowan burst through to block the extra point, another key difference in the game.

Carolina, with the clock working both for and against them, drove again, this time for the clincher. The Bucs again apparently had them stopped, with a fourth and eight at the 35, but Paschall hit Earle Bethea for 15 yards and a first down at midfield. Jimmy Jerome broke away for 14 to put the ball on the 23, and then with one minute left, East Carolina's Reggie Pinkney was called for pass interference at the eight. Johnson gained two, and then, Paschall hit Oliver for the tying score. Alexander calmly kicked the extra point, and Carolina had the win.

But the Bucs, probably wishing those 16 seconds were back, didn't give up. Summerrell hit Vic Wilford for 22 and then 16 yards, down to the 37. From there, with four seconds left, the Bucs tried for the desperation field goal, but it fell short, and the Heels had escaped.

Johnson finished the game as the leading rusher with 130 yards, while Petterson had 90. Crumpler led the Bucs with 85, while Schink had 67, Summerrell had 64, and Strayhorn had 56. Summerrell hit 10 of 24 passes for 127 yards. Paschall made good on nine of 11 for 47 yards.

Their hopes of the big upset over, the Pirates now return home to close their season with three straight games, all of them key ones. They face William & Mary on Saturday, then play host to Richmond the following week. Appalachian will close out the season, and the Southern Conference title is on the line from here on in.

VMI Suffers 45-14 Defeat

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)—An 89-yard kickoff return by Dick Pawlewicz and John Gerdelman's 74-yard run lit a fire under sluggish William and Mary and the Indians gained a tie for second place in the Southern Conference football standings Saturday by overpowering Virginia Military's Keydets 45-14.

Two William and Mary quarterbacks threw three touchdown passes, Mark Smith catching two, as the Indians ran their conference record to 3-0 and assured themselves a winning season with a 6-2 overall mark.

VMI, now 1-4 in the league and 1-7 overall, scored after a William and Mary fumble and a bad snap on a punt and had two long passes nullified by penalties, one an apparent 80 yard touchdown play.

William and Mary turned the ball over twice on fumbles and once on a pass interception the first four times it had the ball and the Keydets finally took advantage of a fumble recovery by Danny Bradach on the William and Mary 32.

Four plays moved the ball to the 10, from where Bruce Torbett cracked over tackle for seven yards. He fumbled when hit, the ball rolled into the end zone and guard Oscar Richardson fell on it to give VMI a 7-0 lead.

The score was tied just 13 seconds later when Pawlewicz, a 215-pound junior who plays four different offensive positions, took the ensuing kickoff on the Indians 11, broke up the middle and went all the way.

The Mountaineers added two touchdowns on short runs by Randy Merritt and another by Jim Tucker in bringing their Southern Conference football record to 2-1 and their overall mark to 3-4-1 with three road games to play.

Greg Clark kicked a 32-yard field goal and four extra points to run his NCAA college division record to 60 straight conversions over three seasons.

Lonnie Gibson scored on a four-yard run in the third period for the losing Bulldogs, now 0-4 in the conference and 2-6 for the season.

Wolfpack Bashes Clemson

CLEMSON, S.C. (AP)—North Carolina State, taking advantage of Clemson mistakes and using a slashing ground game sparked by backs Willie Burden and Charley Young, crushed the Tigers 29-6 Saturday in an Atlantic Coast Conference football game.

The victory, played before a regional television audience and 34,000 in the stands, gave N. C. State the inside track in its race for the ACC title. The Wolfpack is now 3-0 in league play and Clemson is 2-1.

Clemson couldn't do anything right in the first quarter as State jumped to a 10-0 lead. The touchdown came on a six-play, 34-yard drive following a Tiger fumble. Quarterback Bruce Shaw took it over from the two yard line. The Wolfpack then added three more points when Ron Sewell kicked a 23-yard field goal.

Twice Clemson seemed to be on the move, but both drives were stopped by penalties. Twice in the second quarter Clemson blew scoring chances, one when a field goal attempt was blocked, and again when a Devon Ford to The Citadel's 37 for the big gainer. Tucker went over from the two.

In the final minute of the period Appalachian scored again, sweeping 59 yards in three plays. After Cocciolletti lost three yards, he passed 62 to Haugbrook for the touchdown.

After a scoreless second period, fresh cornerback David Maher set up a third Appalachian score with a pass interception in the third period. He stole the ball on the Bulldog 45 and returned it to the 30. Seven plays later Merritt scored from the one after two Cocciolletti pass completions.

Harry Lynch who sat out the first half for The Citadel, led the visitors to their third period score, completing three passes in an 11-play, 56-yard drive. It ended with Gibson scoring from the four.

After Clark's fourth period field goal, the Mountaineers moved 81 yards to a touchdown. Roscoe Batts, replacing Cocciolletti, ran 26 yards and passed 42 to Ford to feature the drive, capped by Merritt's scoring run from the one.

Ford ran 59 yards in six carries and Merritt 37 in seven to lead the Appalachian ground game. Ford also caught seven passes for 127 yards and Chuck Hartman caught three for 55 yards to lead the air attack.

fourth down play was stopped six inches from the Wolfpack goal line.

State then turned to its ground attack, using first Burden, then Young, then Stan Fritts, to rip apart the Clemson defense.

Burden was credited with an unofficial 115 yards rushing, and Young and Fritts weren't far behind.

The Wolfpack drove 78 yards in 12 plays for one touchdown, with Burden getting 38 of them, including the last four.

Then it was a 58-yard drive in 12 plays with Fritts going over from the two. Next was an 80-yard drive with Young cracking in from the three.

Clemson got its touchdown on a 42-yard pass from Ken Pengitore to wide receiver Gordy Bengel.

Copeland, a freshman fullback from Charlottesville, Va., finished the day with 155 yards on 23 carries.

His decisive score came six plays after defensive end Bob Meade recovered Ron DeBenedetti's fumble on the Wake Forest 26. DeBenedetti's fumble came on the first play after he had replaced starting fullback Frank Harsh, who had to leave the game with a knee injury.

Gardner, the A-C-C leader in passing and total offense, completed only 15 passes for 140 yards.

The Deacons scored first, taking the opening kickoff and driving 73 yards in 14 plays with Harsh falling on Andy Carlton's fumble in the end zone for the score.

Virginia fumbled away scoring opportunities twice in the second quarter as Gardner lost the ball at Wake Forest's 1 and 8-yard lines.

The Deacons took a 10-0 lead with 2:07 remaining in the half when Chuck Ramsey booted a 43-yard field goal.

Leads Sahara Golf

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP)—Veteran Lou Graham and young John Mahaffey matched two-in-der-par 68s Saturday and remained in a tie for the lead through three rounds of the $135,000 Sahara Invitational Golf Tournament.

Mahaffey, seeking his first professional title, and Graham had identical 54 hole totals of 203, 10 under par on the 6,800 yard, par 71 Sahara-Nevada Country Club course.

Hard-hitting Larry Ziegler moved into contention with a brilliant 65, six under par and just one off the course record.

He was just one stroke out of the lead at 204 going into Sunday's final round in the chase for a $27,000 first prize.

Homero Blancas was next with an erratic 68 that included three bogeys. He had a total 206. Allen Miller and 44-year-old Dow Finsterwald were at 207, Miller after a 70 and Finsterwald with a 71.

Falcons Smash 'Cats

By DANIEL L. TAYLOR
AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (UPI)—Falcon workhorse Chris Milodragovich scored on runs of 18, three and one yards Saturday and quarterback Rich Haynie threw a 28-yard touchdown pass to flanker Frank Murphy to lead the Air Force Academy to a 41-19 win over Davidson.

Davidson stunned the Falcons in the first quarter and scored on their first series of downs after the Wildcats took an Air Force punt on the Falcons' 47-yard line.

Quarterback Dave Harper, using short passes to split end Gary Pomeroy and flanker Walt Walker, moved Davidson to the Air Force 11. Harper hit Pomeroy on a strike in the end zone, and George Weicker kicked the extra point.

Air Force got its first touchdown on the second play of the second period as Milodragovich squirted around left end on a three-yard touchdown run.

Milodragovich scored again the second quarter when he took a Haynie pitch, turned around left end and fought his way 18-yards to the end zone. The Cadets third score of the quarter came with less than two minutes before the half. Dave Reiner ran in from one-yard out. Dave Lawson kicked all three extra points.

TORONTO (AP)—It is supposed to end Sunday for Secretariat.

The big chestnut colt, whose stardom has grown beyond the bounds of racing, will start for the 21st—and last—time in the $142,700 Canadian International Championship at Woodbine.

But the Triple Crown winner is going into his announced final start amid speculation that it will be his next-to-last race if he is upset.

Terps Roll Past Blue Devils

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Maryland, led by Louis Carter, exploded for three touchdowns in the final quarter to snap a tie and roll over Duke 30-10 in the 27th annual Oyster Bowl game.

After battling to a 10-10 tie at halftime the Terps went ahead, 16-10, on a six-yard run by Carter, who also passed for two touchdowns.

The play seemed to take the wind out of Duke, who had led only briefly with a sudden touchdown less than one minute into the game.

Following Carter's score, the Blue Devils had only one play before Ken Scott grabbed off a Roger Neighborgall at the Duke 20 and slipped in for the second Maryland touchdown of the fourth quarter.

The Terps gave Duke only one more series before scoring

RED OAK — Rose High School's Rampants, angered by a quick whistle that cost them a touchdown, rose up in fury in the last 12 minutes of the football game to come from behind and take a 14-12 victory over Northern Nash Friday night.

Jackie Savage got the ball midway through the third quarter with Rose trailing 12-7, and hit into the line. He was hit at the 33, after a gain of four, but spun away, only to be hit again. He continued to spin, breaking away just as the officials blew their whistles. The defense continued to pursue him, but he raced away from them to go 71 yards, but all in vain. The play was called back, leaving Rose with a fourth and six, and they had to punt.

Northern Nash pushed from there down to the 36 before Rose stopped them, Harold Randolph led a host of Rampants onto the Knight kicker, Bobby Bryant, blocking the punt and turning the ball over at the Rose 37.

On the second play after that, with no gain on the first, Lindberg Morris took a pitchout around right end, picked up the blocks, and raced 63 yards to put Rose in front with just 25 seconds left in the third period. The defense then took over and held the Knights scoreless the rest of the way.

Rose had grabbed an early lead in the first period when Keith Joyner took another pitchout around the left side to go 21 yards for the score. Mike Brewington had set that up with a 36 yard interception return. Scott Wolcott finished off the scoring with two PAT kicks.

Northern Nash's touchdowns both came in the second period. Lee Dungan scored on a one-yard plunge to climax an 18-yard drive after a fumble recovery, and then Oliver Marshmon pushed in on third down from the one (after the Rampants had twice stopped them within inches of the line) to take a 12-7 lead late in the half. That time, the Knights moved it 63 yards in a 14-play drive.

The two teams finished with almost even statistics too, with Rose holding a slim edge. Northern Nash had 205 yards, while Rose had 211, all on the ground. Northern completed just three passes, while Rose failed to hit.

Neither team offered a threat until midway through the first period when Northern took over following a Rampant punt at their own 38. On the first play from scrimmage Dungan broke through the middle and raced 46 yards down to the Rose 16, where it appeared a sure scoring drive was developing. Dungan got four more on the next play, and then the two teams swapped five-yard penalties. After a yard loss on the next play, Ed Clark broke through to dump Marshmon for a four-yard loss at the 17.

Quarterback Dickie Duke kept around end on the next play, fourth down, but fell short by two yards of the first down. Rose was unable to move it, however, and kicked it away, with the Knights taking over on the Rose 49. Two plays netted four yards, and then Duke went back to pass. Brewington picked the ball off at the Rose 39 and dashed down the sidelines to the Knight 25 before finally being hauled down.

That set up the first Rampant score. Henry Trevathan pushed through the middle for four yards on the first play, down to the 21, then pitched out to Joyner, streaking around left end on the next. Joyner raced all the way, scoring with just 11 seconds left in the quarter. Wolcott kicked and it was 7-0 for the Rampants.

Northern came back with another drive, moving from their own 46 to the Rose 36 before they were finally halted again. This time, they put Rose in the hole with a punt that was knocked dead inside the one yard line.

Rose got out of it, however, as Doug Paschal picked up a first down at the 15, and Savage got another at the 27. But on the next play, Morris fumbled when he was hit at the 27, and Duke picked it up and returned it to the 18.

That set the stage for the first Knight score. Thomas Eley took a pitchout down to the 11, and Marshmon broke over the left guard for 10 to the one. Dungan cracked over right guard on the next play for the score. Northern faked a kick try for the PAT, but Rose dragged down Duke before he could get off a pass, leaving Rose ahead, 7-6.

Rose was held on their next series, and Northern took over on their 37, driving from there for the go-ahead score. Eley picked up six yards on the second play, but Rose appeared to hold and force a fourth down play at the 46. Northern converted as Duke pushed over to the 47 for the needed yardage. After a four-yard gain by Marshmon, Eley broke away for 16. Marshmon ran twice more for seven and 15 yards, and Rose was hit with a five-yard penalty, putting the ball on the six. It took three plays to get a first down at the one, and three more from there before Marshmon finally was able to penetrate the stiff Rampant defense for the touchdown with just 29 seconds left in the half, making it 12-7, after another pass attempt failed on the PAT.

Early in the second half, Northern got across midfield, but just, and had to kick. Rose took it and then came Savage's abortive touchdown run. After the kick, Northern moved from their own 38 to the Rose 36 before they were finally held and on fourth down, the punt was blocked.

Rose failed to gain on the first play from the 37, but that just set the stage for Morris' 63-yarder. The speedy back went into the end zone with just 25 seconds left in the period, and Wolcott's kick made it 14-12.

Rose held on Northern's first possession of the final period, actually throwing them back from their own 42 to the 30. The Rampants then ate up precious minutes by driving from their 38 to the Northern 34 before Duke came up with a pass interception that returned the ball to the Knights with about five minutes left.

They moved from their own 35 to the Rose 46, picking up only one first down, that on a Rose off-sides penalty, then failed to pick up enough for another. Rose took over from there and ran out the clock to preserve the victory. The win lifted the Rampant record to 1-1 within Division I, and 4-3-1 overall. Northern Nash is now 1-2 within the league and 4-4 overall.

Next week, Rose returns to the road, seeking to win their second straight conference game against the Titans of Wilson Fike High School.

Buc Kickers Win Title

East Carolina's soccer team won its first game of the season yesterday but it proved to be a very important one as the 2-0 victory over William & Mary clinched the North division title for the Bucs.

The Pirate kickers now have a 1-6-2 record. They will meet the winner of the South division on Nov. 10 at home. The North includes VMI, W&M and ECU while the rest of the teams of the Southern Conference make up the South.

The Bucs scored once in each 45 minute half to get the win. Tom O'Shea booted in the first one unassisted in the first half and aided by Rick Johnson, Mike Fetchko put in the one in the

Riva Ridge Upset By Point Out In Last Race

By TED MEIER
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Prove Out spoiled Riva Ridge's farewell party in the $110,100 Jockey Club Gold Cup at Aqueduct Race Track Saturday, giving the Hobeau Farm trio of owner Jack Dreyfus, trainer Allen Jerkens and jockey Jorge Velasquez another upset victory over the Meadow Stable millionaire duo of Secretariat and Riva Ridge.

Just as he did in beating Secretariat in the Woodward Stakes at Belmont Park, Prove Out took the early lead, yielded it to Riva Ridge, then took it back on the last turn of the two-mile test and drew out for a 4 1/2-length victory in 3 minutes, 20 seconds.

The favored Riva Ridge, making his last start before being retired for breeding purposes, had nothing left after his early duel with Prove Out and finished last in the six-horse field. He was booed at the finish by many in the crowd of 36,537.

Loud finished second by 13 lengths over Twice a Prince. True Knight was fourth, Our Native fifth and Riva Ridge last.

Prove Out, a 4-year-old son of Graustark, carried 124 pounds under the weight for age conditions. He paid $11, $7.20 and $5.40. Loud, an 11-to-1 shot, returned $8.80 and $6. Twice a Prince, a 25-to-1 outsider, paid $5.40 to show.

Riva Ridge and Prove Out drew out by more than 10 lengths over the rest of the field as they duelled for the lead for nearly 1 1/2 miles. Prove Out, on the rail, gradually pulled away on the last turn as Riva Ridge dropped back and Loud made his strong finishing run.

"He relaxed all the way to the stretch," Velasquez said of Prove Out. "At about the three-sixteenth pole, he took off and ducked in. I think he brushed the rail. I know I had to hold on. We planned never to let Riva Ridge get away and my horse stayed right with him. I never had a horse more relaxed. He was fit and ready thanks to Mr. Jerkens."

Eddie Maple, who rode Riva Ridge, said, "He didn't feel quite right to me, almost from the start. Even when he was on the lead, he didn't seem to be himself. The track was fast even though a little cuppy. But that couldn't have been the cause. He seemed to be through with about a half-mile to go and seemed to have nothing left in the stretch."

Prove Out was purchased by Hobeau Farms from King Ranch for $65,000 in August. This was his fourth victory in six starts for his new owner. He earned a purse of $66,160, raising his 1973 bankroll to $156,700.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

CHAPEL HILL — The scoreboard read UNC 28, ECU 27, but there were few fans from down east who believed it.

Coach Sonny Randle didn't, and neither did his Pirates. They had played well enough to win, and they felt that they came out on the wrong end of several calls that proved to be key ones.

The first came during the third period, when East Carolina was driving, seemingly for another touchdown that would have made it 28-7 and slammed the door on the Tar Heels.

Quarterback Carl Summerell went around left end, was hit and knocked down. The near official blew his whistle, and as he did, Summerell either fumbled or let the ball go, believing the play to be over. A Carolina player pounced on the ball, and another official then ruled it a fumble giving the ball to the Tar Heels.

That changed the momentum of the game, and Carolina went on to score two touchdowns and tie it up.

During the dead ball period, when Carolina was kicking the extra point to make it 21-21, 16 seconds disappeared from the clock. Those 16 seconds could have made the difference at the end when East Carolina, with no time outs left, moved to inside the UNC 40 and had to try a 54-yard field goal, that fell short. Perhaps that 16 seconds would have been time enough to move the ball 10 or 15 yards closer, and the field goal then might have been enough.

Then, on Carolina's final drive, Reggie Pinkney was charged with pass interference at the Tar Heel eight. Randle didn't like that: "I'm very much aware that it was an ACC official on the pass interference call. I know him very well. Our man was going for the ball. Anybody in America knows that it was not pass interference."

Randle wasn't disappointed with the effort the team gave. "Each and every one of the 50 players who made the trip made an important contribution. Our fans also gave us a lift. The players battled their hearts out all afternoon. It was one of the finest efforts ever from an East Carolina team."

But Randle also warned that the Bucs still have their season in front of them, against three Southern Conference teams in the next three weeks, games they must win to successfully defend their conference championship.

Carolina Coach Bill Dooley also had praise for the Pirates. "They are an excellent team and we feel very fortunate to win." Dooley noted that the Tar Heels were able to make the big plays when they had to win the game.

"I take my hat off to East Carolina. They carried the fight to us. I don't think anyone here doubts that they are an excellent football team."

The scoreboard recorded a loss, and so it will go into the books. But East Carolina has nothing to be ashamed of. They played an excellent game. And they can hold their heads high.

Duke Takes State Meet

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina's Tony Waldrop set a course record Saturday as he won the North Carolina collegiate cross country championship.

Waldrop ran the five-mile N.C. State University course in 24:10.8 to better the 1971 mark of Duke's Bob Wheeler by more than five seconds.

Duke had the pleasure of beating the Tar Heels for the team title, however, with Steve Wheeler and Scott Eden finishing second and third. It was the sixth straight team title for the Blue Devils.

Victor Elk of Pembroke State and Dave Hamilton of North Carolina finished fourth and fifth.

Hawkins, Conley Soar Past Panthers By 46-14

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer
HOLLYWOOD—Webster's dictionary defines a hawk as "a bird of prey belonging to the order of Falconiforms." It also defines a hawk as being a person who preys on his fellowmen.

But what D. H. Conley's resident hawk did to North Pitt Friday night would be hard for even Mr. Webster to define. Not only did Willie Hawkins prey on the Panthers for five (5) touchdowns but he also had a yardage feast clawing out 335 (three hundred thirty-five) yards rushing. He added 17 more on a pass play leading the Homecoming victory.

Behind Hawkins, Conley's Vikings handed North Pitt their second worst loss of the year, 46-14, for their sixth loss in seven games. Their other bad defeat came at the hands of North Lenoir by the same score.

In all the Vikings ripped off 448 yards rushing while North Pitt was able to get just over 100 with 118.

Calvin Hawkins helped the Viking scoring punch out with a pair of scores himself, both on short tuns of one and three yards.

North Pitt's Clarence Mooring, their leading rusher had a good night as he ran for 138 yards and scored both the Panthers touchdowns.

Overall, Willie Hawkins has now run for 1369 yards and has scored 94 points.

After a scoreless first period, Conley broke the ice as Hawkins went in on a one yard plunge mid-way through the second quarter. Three minutes later he scored again on a 64 yard sprint.

A third period score by Calvin Hawkins made it 18-0 before the Panthers finally got on the boards with Mooring's first TD. Willie matched it on Conley's next drive to get the 18 point difference back, and after the conversion the score was 16-6.

It took North Pitt just four plays to score again but it was also the last one they were to get.

Willie scored on a 43-yard gallop followed by Calvin's second score of the game. That made it 38-14. With 1:11 left in the game, Willie did it again on a three yard run to finish out the scoring.

The Panthers elected to receive but had to punt after four plays. Conley took the ball on their 44 and marched to the nine of North Pitt where they were stopped by an interception. Four runs by Willie Hawkins got the Vikes to the Panther 29 and a big hole let Calvin Hawkins drive it down to the 10. Two penalties set them back to the 28 but a flare pass to Willie ate up some of it. As Joey Baggett went to the air again he was picked off.

Conley got it back with 2:34 left in the quarter on an interception by Wayne Maness who returned it to the Conley 23 after North Pitt drove to the 18 of the Vikings.

North Pitt held an forced a punt. They could not move it either and gave it back to Conley on their 48. Willie carried twice for six and Calvin lost them all on third down. A penalty on the Panthers got a first down at the 32. Willie swooped through the middle for 32 yards down to the one and on first and goal he dove in for the score.

Conley got it back after forcing a punt and from the Vike 36, Willie Hawkins took a handoff on a right tackle slant and raced 64 yards to get six more for Conley. With 3:01 left in the half, Conley led 12-0, a lead they held at halftime.

Conley took the second half kick and drove it for a score. Beginning at the 26, Calvin Hawkins got the drive going with an eight yard run and Maness picked up five. After a gain of six by Calvin, Willie scampered through the Panther secondary for 19 yards to the Panther 36. Maness pushed in for six and a 15 yarder on the Panthers moved the ball to the 15. Willie moved the Vikings to the seven and Maness added three more. After Calvin carried down to the one, he dove in getting the score.

North Pitt came back with a TD. A sweep by Mooring gained 21 from the 33. He got three more on the same play and a sweep to the right side got 13 to the Conley 20. Mooring found a hole in the middle of the line for 15 to put the ball on the Viking five. Two yard carries by Mooring and John Moody set up the score by Mooring.

An inside kick was recovered for the Vikings by Billy Langley at the 48 and on second down Willie Hawkins ran the rest of the length of the field for the 24th point. Baggett passed to Calvin Hawkins for the conversion.

Four plays put together another Panther score. After getting the Viking kick at their 36, Craig McLawhorn passed to James Moore for 10 yards and hit Mooring on a middle screen for 51 down to the three. Two plays later, Mooring went over. Mooring's run for the extra points made it 26-14 with :27 left in the third quarter.

North Pitt did it in four moves. Conley came back to score their next TD in three. Calvin Hawkins carried twice for 13 to move the ball from the 44 after the Panther kick and Willie broke a tackle and packed it into the end zone 43 yards away for his fourth score of the game.

That was it for the Panthers as they seemed to fall apart after that score. Calvin Hawkins added to the total with 7:27 left in the game getting his second score from the three after the Vikes got the ball on downs at the NP 17.

Willie Hawkins scored his last TD climaxing a 47-yard drive after a punt. A run of 18 yards helped move the drive and one of ten from the 13 to the three set up the last score. Baggett passed to Johnnie Smith for the two point conversion.

North Pitt tried to counter with another score as the game dwindled away. From their 35 they tried to pass but McLawhorn was nailed for an 11 yard loss. Mooring got nine of it back and with two seconds left, Lawrence Harper picked off a pass to end the ball game.

Conley is now 4-3 in the conference while North Pitt is 1-6. The Panthers may not be looking forward to this week's meeting with conference leader Ayden-Grifton after Friday's blasting. Conley has a tough match-up with Farmville Central this week.

Ayden-Grifton Upset, 20-14

LITTLEFIELD — Southern Nash High School, the defending champion in the Eastern Carolina Conference, pulled off the upset of the season Friday night, downing previously unbeaten Ayden-Grifton, 20-14.

The Chargers, who only needed to win to insure themselves of a playoff berth in November, completely dominated the game in everything but the scoring. They picked up over 300 yards in total offense, while holding Southern Nash to less than half that total.

But what went up on the scoreboard made the difference. Ayden-Grifton scored first, picking up a touchdown in the first period. Tom Craft did the honors, going in from two yards out. The PAT kick try failed, and left the Chargers ahead, 6-0.

Southern Nash came back with a touchdown in the second period and grabbed the lead. Al Boone pushed it over from a yard away and Steve Hicks kicked the extra point to put the Firebirds into a 7-6 lead.

Southern then came back to put another score on the board before the period had ended. Melvin Crawley got the points this time, from six yards out, but the PAT attempt failed, making it 13-6.

Ayden-Grifton fought back, with Craft pulling in a nine yard pass from Greg Nelson for the tally. Melvin Stewart ran over the conversion to push the Chargers into a 14-13 lead at the half.

But the Chargers were unable to put another score on the board in the second half, when Southern Nash got the clincher. That came in the third frame, when Douglas Cooper dove over from the one, with Hicks kicking the extra point for a 20-14 lead that they held onto.

The loss dropped the Ayden-

Reggie Smith Heads List Of Baseball Trades

By HOWARD SMITH
Associated Press Sports Writer
They won't have Reggie Smith to kick around at Boston's Fenway Park anymore.

Smith, a 28-year-old outfielder, is headed for St. Louis along with relief pitcher Ken Tatum in exchange for Cardinal right-hander Rick Wise and outfielder Bernie Carbo.

We're happy, the St. Louis bunch is happy and I hope we'll both be happy next September," declared Boston player personnel director Haywood Sullivan.

The long-rumored deal was officially announced Friday, and St. Louis Manager Red Schoendienst promptly declared Smith his starting rightfielder.

The 28-year-old switch-hitter became the target of boos in Boston last August when he missed a pair of routine flyballs in the outfield. The fans felt Smith was loafing, but the outfielder said he couldn't reach the balls because of bad knees.

Smith angrily labeled Boston "a racist city" and sat out for two weeks. He returned to the lineup to have a fine year, however, hitting .303 with 21 homers and 69 runs batted in.

Smith could not be reached for comment.

St. Louis moved quickly to replace Wise, acquiring 36-year-old righty Sonny Siebert from the Texas Rangers for minor league outfielder Tommy Cruz. The Cards also sold shortstop Mike Kelleher to the Houston Astros, assigned pitcher Mike Nagy to Tulsa of the American Association and then completed a busy day by releasing veteran pitchers Eddie Fisher and Lew Krause.

On the managerial front, Dick Williams revealed that he and his former boss, Oakland Athletics owner Charles O. Finley, had a little chat about Williams' quitting as A's Manager and Finley's refusal to free him from his contract.

"Charlie and I get along just fine," advised Williams. "We brought things up to date but he hasn't released me from my contract."

Williams was reportedly headed for the Yankees until Finley decided he wouldn't let his manager go without suitable compensation in money or players or both.

"There is no way that I'm going to go back to Oakland," said Williams. "I've had some business offers outside of baseball that I might consider."

Cincinnati's Sparky Anderson has no such problems with his boss.

"We feel Sparky's the finest manager in baseball," declared Reds' General Manager Bob Howsam, "and he proved it again this season."

That said, Cincinnati awarded Anderson a new two-year contract.

Lamar's 36 Points Leads San Diego Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

When San Diego's Bo Lamar was playing his college ball at Southwestern Louisiana, he practiced the three-point field goal to prepare for the days when basketball would be his profession.

The practice paid off for Lamar in Friday night's game as he scored 36 points—including six three-point goals—in leading the Conquistadors to a 122-102 victory over the Utah Stars.

The rookie's performance set a team record for three-point plays.

In other ABA contests Friday night, the Kentucky Colonels trimmed the Virginia Squires 104-99; the Memphis Tams tripped Indiana Pacers 93-91; the San Antonio Spurs clipped the New York Nets 88-87, and the Carolina Cougars topped the Denver Rockets 109-104.

Lamar, meanwhile, didn't seem overly impressed with the best offensive showing of his young career. "The shots were coming to me all night," he said.

Colonels 104, Squires 99
Kentucky picked up its seventh victory in eight games, going ahead on Walt Simon's basket with 5:24 remaining, then holding on for a 104-99 triumph over the Virginia Squires.

Louie Dampier led all scorers with 21 points.

Tams 93, Pacers 91
Memphis guard Johnny Neumann hit a jump shot with just two seconds remaining—after Indiana's Darnell Hillman missed two free throws that would have won the game for the Pacers—to lift the Tams to a 93-91 triumph.

"It was just a lucky shot," said Neumann.

Spurs 88, Nets 87
San Antonio's Colby Dietrick sank two foul shots with three seconds to go and helped the Spurs to an 88-87 decision over the New York Nets.

Julius Erving's driving layup had given the Nets an 87-86 lead with 15 seconds to go before Dietrick made the winning shots from the free throw line.

Cougars 109, Rockets 104
Billy Cunningham took charge in the overtime period, scored five of his 25 points, and the Carolina Cougars upended the Denver Rockets 109-104 after battling from behind for most of the game.

In the National Basketball Association Friday night, the Boston Celtics bombed the New York Knicks 113-101; the Buffalo Braves trimmed the Cleveland Cavaliers 104-97; the Milwaukee Bucks overpowered the Philadelphia 76ers 98-92; the Chicago Bulls drove past the Houston Rockets 121-113; the Kansas City-Omaha Kings topped the Phoenix Suns 98-93; the Los Angeles Lakers edged the Detroit Pistons 94-92; Portland's Trailblazers crushed the Atlanta Hawks 127-110, and the Golden State Warriors outscored the Seattle SuperSonics 117-110.

San Francisco Wary Of Lee

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A decade ago Bob Lee was getting passes to the San Francisco 49ers dressing room to collect post game quotes for his sports-writing father. Sunday, Lee, as quarterback for the Atlanta Falcons, will be throwing passes against the 49ers, including some of the same men he once interviewed.

Lee's father, Paul Lee, retired Associated Press news editor, will be watching his son from the press box at Candlestick Park.

The 49ers also will be watching Lee closely because he gave them trouble three weeks ago when San Francisco beat the Falcons 13-9 in Atlanta for their fourth straight over the southerners.

"Lee didn't play more than half the game," said San Francisco linebacker Jim Sniadecki, "and he nearly won it for Atlanta. He's much tougher than (Dick) Shiner. He sets up faster and has a quicker release of the ball. And he won't hesitate to run if you give him an opening. He ran for two big first downs against us at Atlanta."

Cape Fear Good Fishing Spot

By JOEL ARRINGTON
Cape Fear continues its winning ways as a late summer and fall fishing spot.

Tarpon, which were there in good numbers last month, seem to have departed, but channel bass have replaced them on Frypan Shoals, which lie off the point of Cape Fear.

I was there with Larry Ely of Wilmington and Rudy Wallace of Winnabow on a recent golden October afternoon. For the last hour before sunset we had the kind of action on old drum they used to write about years ago when large channel bass were plentiful.

Recent reports of drum catches at night had led us first to New Inlet, about four miles north of the point. We fished the ebb there for over an hour without success before Wallace suggested we try the edge of the shoals.

J. W. Johnson of Wilmington and Buddy Baker, race car driver of Charlotte, had left New Inlet in Johnson's Mako about a half hour earlier, and when we joined them at the point, Johnson was hooked up to a fish. We anchored two hundred yards northeast of him and a long cast from the breakers. I baited with a spot head, cast into deep water east of the shoals and put the rod into a holder.

Before I could stand up, the line started out against the lightest possible drag. I let the fish run a few seconds, then set the hook three times. The channel bass ran off about a hundred yards of 14-pound test line while I tightened the drag. It made several shorter runs, with me gaining line between them. This one weighed about 20 pounds.

For nearly an hour we waited for another strike and had about concluded that we had lucked into a vagrant pair of fish when Fry had a pickup. Then Wallace whooped that he was on one, and immediately I was too.

Three rods with three channel bass is what drum fishing is all about. With some luck, we boated them and released one. In only minutes we were all hooked up again. This time, I could only hang on, for it was obviously a much larger fish than anything we had caught earlier.

They don't lead very well, as anyone who has caught an old drum knows, so it was more than 15 minutes before I was able to bring the drum along side. Wallace gaffed it in the jaw, removed the hook and quickly weighed it on boat scales. The pointer went to 40 pounds and Wallace slid the fish overboard.

Soon after that, with the sun melting into horizon, Baker released a channel bass that would have weighed about 30 pounds, making nine we had caught in what seemed like minutes.

The season for old drum and puppy drum, as the small ones are called, begins in September at Cape Fear and extends into December. Channel bass are mostly absent in winter, but appear again in March.

The most consistent method for catching them, at least when they are not in dense schools, is baiting with cut bluefish, menhaden, spot or mullet. In spring, squid is good bait. Hooks should be 5-0 to 9-0, depending upon the size of the rest of your tackle. Thirty pound-test on a conventional reel is none too large, but anything under 12-pound test is stunting.

When channel bass are in tight schools, they are suckers for a cast metal squid or heavy spoon. You can still find them that way at times in Pamlico Sound in summer and along the coast in spring and fall. Perhaps the most likely spot of all is the point of Cape Fear.

BIG COBIA — D. W. Branch of 1812 Rosewood Dr., Greenville, shows off this 70-pound cobia he caught off the Oceanana Pier recently using spot bait and a 20-pound test line. It took about 45 minutes to land the big fish.

Wildlife Afield: Here's One Way To Help The Wildlife Population

By JIM DEAN

More people care about the future of wildlife populations in North Carolina than ever before. They see cities expanding into farmlands, and farmlands replacing dense forests. They see swamps being drained and natural streams being channeled.

Naturally, many people who love the outdoors are wondering what will become of this state's priceless heritage of wildlife as civilization gnaws at the remaining wild areas.

Much of the concern comes from hunters and fishermen, and rightly so since they were the first conservationists.

Sportsmen stand to lose their sport if wildlife populations diminish.

But not every concerned citizen is a hunter or fisherman. Far from it. There are bird watchers, hikers, photographers, campers and other amateur naturalists who love the outdoors, but who neither hunt nor fish. Their concern about wildlife populations is as genuine and legitimate as any sportsman's.

These folks—like the sportsmen—want to know what they can do to preserve North Carolina's abundant wildlife for the future. They want to know not only because they enjoy seeing wildlife, but more important, because they know that the health of wildlife populations is one of the keys to the health and welfare of the human race. Or, in other words, man cannot exist in a world that cannot support wildlife because man breathes the same air, uses the same water and lives on the same good earth.

The problem has been that many people have no idea what steps they might take to help protect wildlife species. They know that prime wildlife habitat is disappearing in many places, but they don't know what to do about it.

Strange as it sounds, one of the best ways to help—even for the person who has no interest in hunting or fishing—would be to purchase a hunting or fishing license.

How in the name of blazes, you may ask, can that help? Here's how. More than anyone else, the hunters and fishermen have poured huge amounts of money into sound conservation practices to insure a future for wildlife. The programs paid for by sportsmen include biological research, wildlife management, habitat improvement, protection from poaching, and others. These programs benefit all forms of wildlife, not just those species that are hunted.

For example, while some people were wringing their hands at the rapidly increasing loss of prime wildlife habitat, sportsmen were footing the bill for a new two million acre Game Land program in North Carolina to improve wildlife habitat and protection. The program is cooperative one between the N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission, the U. S. Forest Service and large private landowners to work out a progressive wildlife management program on these two million acres. It's working. True, both hunting and fishing is permitted on these lands, but these sports are carefully regulated to insure that sportsmen only harvest the excess crop. In return, funds from licenses go toward improving wildlife populations and habitat on these and other areas.

The result is that by purchasing a hunting or fishing license, you are putting money directly into programs to help wildlife populations prosper.

Some people, of course, find it ironic that those who use wildlife—hunters and fishermen, for instance—are the very ones doing the most to protect it. But that's not really hard to understand, if you think about it.

You can be a part of this conservation effort by going to your nearest sporting goods store. They've got licenses for sale, and you can be sure your money will be used to help wildlife populations. After all, that's why licenses are sold.

Director Named By Bass Group

MONTGOMERY, Ala. — Richard E. Coleman, 29, a fisheries research biologist at Mississippi State University, has been named executive director of the newly-formed Bass Research Foundation, headquartered here.

Coleman, a native of Pine Bluff, Ark., will assume his new position Jan. 1, 1974, according to Ray Scott, chairman of the executive search committee which selected Coleman for the pioneering effort. "We consider ourselves extremely fortunate to have found a man of Coleman's diverse talents and abilities," Scott commented.

Coleman is a graduate of the U. S. Military Academy at West Point and has served as a Green Beret team commander, and as a rifle platoon leader in Vietnam. Among his decorations are the Purple Heart and the Bronze Star for valor.

His interest in biology, which dates back to his high school days in Pine Bluff, led him to resign his Army commission and enter graduate school at Mississippi State, majoring in fisheries research and management.

His first task is the selection, with the help of a nominating committee, of a scientific advisory board which will evaluate and establish priorities for various research efforts to be funded by the Bass Research Foundation. Members of the nominating committee are: Dr. Thomas Wellborn, Mississippi State University; Dr. Roy Heidinger, Southern Illinois University; Mike Lembeck, California Dept. of Fish and Game; Dr. Eugene Hester, Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife, F. G. Banks, Florida Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission; Sam Spencer, Alabama Game and Fish Commission; and David Newton, environmental affairs director, Bass Anglers Sportsman Society.

Coleman said the foundation plans to act primarily as a funding agency for research projects aimed specifically at improving black bass fishing.

"We expect to be most heavily committed to research efforts which offer practical results which can be applied to the science of fishery management," Coleman said.

Financial support for the foundation is expected to come from Bass Anglers Sportsman Society and numerous industries related to bass fishing, as well as individuals and non-profit foundations.

Farmville Gets Upset Win, 14-13

FARMVILLE—Greg Joyner passed for one touchdown and ran for another to lead the Farmville Jaguars to a 14-13 upset of the Greene Central Rams, Friday night.

The Jags pushed over a score with 10:35 left in the game and Barry Johnson's kick gave them the point they needed for the win.

Greene Central had scored first with a 79 yard run by Miles Briggs. That came on the second play of the game and with 11:06 left in the first period.

Farmville Central came right back to go ahead by a point. Joyner capped a 65 yard drive going in from the one. Johnson made the extra point with 4:53 to go in the quarter.

Greene Central scored halfway through the second period as Tim Butts took a 37 pass from Jerry Carraway and Jerome Sheppard added the PAT giving the lead back to the Rams, 13-7.

It stayed that way until the fourth quarter when Joyner threw to Jojo White who went 65 yards for the tying TD. The kick gave the Jags the win.

Farmville is now 5-2 in the conference and a game ahead of the Rams who are 4-3.

Game Postponed

EDENTON — A freak accident has delayed the completion of the Edenton-Williamston High School football game.

The contest, begun Friday night, had advanced as far as halftime, with Edenton in a 13-7 lead. During the halftime activities, a light broke loose from one of the utility poles around the field, and cut the power line as it fell, blacking out the field.

The two teams will pick up action at the start of the second half on Monday evening at 8 p.m. in Edenton, with no admission being charged to the rest of the game.

Bull's Misfortune Is Milwaukee's Happiness

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
It's been Chicago's misfortune to be located in the same division with the Milwaukee Bucks.

And it was Calvin Murphy's misfortune to be located on the same basketball floor with Norm Van Lier Friday night.

The Bulls made it unpleasant for the Houston Rockets by winning their fifth straight game 121-113. Yet the Bulls still trail the Bucks by one game in the Midwest Division of the National Basketball Association.

And Van Lier made it unpleasant for Murphy by engaging in a wild slugging match.

For his fist fight with Murphy, Van Lier was ejected from the game while Murphy stayed around to score 32 points.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Boston downed New York 113-101; Buffalo beat Cleveland 104-97; Milwaukee defeated Philadelphia 98-92; Kansas City-Omaha tripped Phoenix 98-93; Los Angeles nipped Detroit 94-92; Golden State outscored Seattle 117-110 and Portland crushed Atlanta 127-110.

Celtics 113, Knicks 101
John Havlicek scored 34 points and Dave Cowens netted 29, rallying the Celtics to a 113-101 victory over the Knicks.

Havlicek sparked a 16-4 scoring spree in the final period that helped carry Boston to its triumph over the defending world champions.

Bucks 98, 76ers 92
Kareem Abdul-Jabbar poured in 35 points, grabbed 18 rebounds and blocked six shots in pacing the Bucks to a 98-92 victory over Philadelphia.

It was Milwaukee's fifth straight triumph.

Kings 98, Suns 93
Rookie Ron Behagen and veteran Sam Lacey paced the Kansas City-Omaha Kings, playing without high-scoring guard Nate Archibald, to a 98-93 victory over the Phoenix Suns.

Behagen, out of the University of Minnesota, scored a high of 20 points and had 11 rebounds. Lacey chipped in with 19 points, 12 rebounds and five steals.

Braves 104, Cavaliers 97
Jim McMillian scored 14 points in the fourth quarter on his way to a 36-point performance and helped the Braves to a 104-97 victory over the Cleveland Cavaliers.

Warriors 117, SuperSonics 110
Cazzie Russell pored in 41 points, 14 in the final quarter, and paced the Golden State Warriors to a 117-110 over the Seattle SuperSonics.

Lakers 94, Pistons 92
Laker guards Gail Goodrich and Jerry West split 57 points between them, pacing the Lakers to a 94-92 victory over the Pistons.

Trail Blazers 127, Hawks 110
Sidney Wicks, hitting on all 12 of his free throws, scored 30 points to lead Portland to a 127-110 victory over Atlanta.

The Trail Blazers took control of the game in the third period when they outscored the Hawks 37-21.

Robersonville Wins Rout

ROCKY MOUNT—Frankie Spruill ran for two touchdowns and Nino Hayes ran back two interceptions for scores as they led the Robersonville Golden Eagles to a 48-0 win over South Edgemore, Friday night.

Robersonville got all they needed in the first as they pushed over two scores. Robin Fowler got the first as he went in on a four yard run. Spruill got the first of his pair a few minutes later as he broke loose for a 63 yard scoring scamper. Jeff Warren took a pass from Kim Knox for the conversion.

Hayes opened the second quarter with an interception and returned it 90 yards for a score as South Edgemore was threatening to score. Fowler kicked the PAT. Spruill scored again this time on an 18 yard dash and Fowler's kick made it 28-0 at the half.

Rickie Spruill got another six for the Eagles as he hauled in a 40 yard pass from Matt Wilson but the conversion attempt failed. Marshall Lawrence kept the barrage going as he returned a punt 60 yards for the Eagles and again the conversion was not good.

Hayes finished the night's activities with his second interception. This time he went 30 yards and Jimmy Stalls ran in the extra points.

Frankie Spruill had 92 yards rushing in five carries and Fowler carried four times for 64.

Carolina Mountains Endangered By Development

Text by Lee Southerland, Appalachian State University News Bureau

BOONE—Not so long ago the N.C. mountains were described by a host of adjectives all projecting images of natural, unspoiled and undeveloped land. Now people familiar with the area squirm and smirk at such descriptions.

The new bulldozer architecture has gouged out and shoveled mountains aside to provide flat areas for shopping centers, trailer parks, junk shops, and a whole network of places for chicken, pizzas, burgers and even seafood delicacies to please the palates of tourists.

Everybody talks about what has happened and what can be done. So far very little has been done.

Land planners and zoning specialists agree that unless something is done quickly, the area called "the great escape" by one developer may become another place to escape from.

In response to haphazard land development and lack of land use regulation, a Planning and Zoning Education Program was started two years ago at Appalachian State University.

"Our program is really a response to lack of initiative by city and local governments to do something about irresponsible land development," John Shore, coordinator of the program, said. "People in rural areas haven't had to deal with this kind of problem before and we are trying to help educate them about what can be done."

The program, which works with area community colleges in a consortium, has provided information to several thousand people through presentations to public officials, civic and community groups on basic principles and practices of land use regulation.

Last year the project, funded by the state and federal governments, sponsored a series of radio spots explaining land use planning and advising the public of its program.

Seminars, short courses and workshops designed to make the public aware of the problem and offer alternatives to alleviate and prevent destruction of the area's natural beauty have been held.

"The problem is that we are waiting until the trouble is here," Shore said. "Most legislation has been reaction to development rather than action aimed at planning to prevent the problem in the first place."

For this reason, the Planning and Zoning Program has urged adoption of a state mountain area management bill. The 1973 General Assembly stalled action on such a bill and is now holding hearings to examine how the mountains can best be preserved.

Shore said the Boone-Blowing Rock area has been one of the areas hardest hit by development in the mountains.

"Five years ago the drive along the 321 by-pass from Boone to Blowing Rock was reasonably attractive," he said. "Now with continued development the area is becoming a solid strip of commercial establishments. We are not against tourist areas, but we must plan for their location."

He said the 15 other counties in Northwestern N. C. served by the program can learn from the experiences of Watauga County, where Boone is the county seat. Maggie Valley and Cherokee are two other areas of the county. All three of these areas are developed tourist centers.

"The mountains are under pressure to develop all the land for tourist resorts," Shore said. "We must think about what this can mean to the people who live here. If our economy becomes unbalanced or overly dependent on tourism, we will lose in the long run. When times get hard, vacation and recreation are the things people cut out first."

Much of the pressure to develop has come hand-in-hand with technological developments that make snow skiing feasible in the South. The N. C. mountains are now a year-round recreational area and a popular place for people from urban areas to have second homes.

"Building a ski slope is a traumatic thing for the vegetation of the mountains," Shore said. "It takes careful planning and awareness to prevent erosion."

But subsequent housing development is a bigger problem than the ski slope itself, according to Shore.

He said larger developments have done a better job of planning than smaller ones, because "the big developers realize good land use planning can save them money."

"People are also more willing to invest in a place they think is protected," Shore said. "Developers are beginning to make money by advertising what they do to protect the environment."

Clustering of houses can conserve open areas and allow developments to make better use of its land, Shore said. In contrast, strips or rows of houses usually cause over crowding and a loss of privacy.

He said the main problems have come from "spin-off-tourist attractions trying to get money from traffic going to and from resort areas."

"Clustering or grouping these shops and eating places together would be more sensible and more aesthetic," Shore said. "If they were in one place, tourists would visit more of them and it would prevent continual development strips along the road."

If adequate parking was provided at the shopping areas, clustering could also alleviate much of the traffic congestion.

Aside from the destruction of the natural beauty of the mountains, the Planning and Zoning Education Program is concerned with the disregard for the ecological balance.

The need for city or county flood plain zoning is crucial now in some areas, including Watauga County, according to Shore.

The probability of serious floods is increased by construction of buildings on flood plains that normally take care of water drainage.

The water flow of two creeks in Watauga County has been blocked by intensive development on the 321 by-pass between Boone and Blowing Rock.

"These creeks have flood plains which are nature's way of taking care of floods," Shore said. When buildings encroach on flood plains, they act as dams. Water builds up and floods will be more serious."

If the county had a flood plain zoning law, the area would be studied to determine where the maximum possibility of floods are and where it is safe to build.

"It is impossible to get flood insurance for property unless these precautions have been made," Shore said. "It is another example of fast construction with little planning and disregard for the natural environment."

Shore said an anti-development attitude is growing among mountain people because so much development has been done without concern for preservation of the things that attracted the development in the first place: an abundance of vegetation and the view of a mountain side or valley.

"Local governments have made some attempts at land planning in Asheville and Buncombe County, Ashe County, Watauga County, Davie County and Avery County," he said. "But more comprehensive planning is needed all over the mountains."

"Ideally a plan should be made that studies population, economy, water, soil, topography and land use," he said. "Then, the citizens can determine how they want their community to grow in the future."

Shore said one reason zoning laws have had difficulty passing on a local level is the fear local officials have of being voted out of office.

The Planning and Zoning Education Program has shifted its early emphasis from awareness of the problem to training public officials and citizens in the planning process.

But the fact remains that mountain people have done a better job of selling their land than planning for it.

PROGRAM COORDINATOR. . . John Shore shows the devastating effect becoming gullied. The slope in this photograph is rapidly becoming gullied. poor planning in land use can have.

A 17 year old UNC-Chapel Hill freshman writes about the life and work of a well known Tar Heel

"Down Home Truths From Senator Sam Ervin"

(The following article is adapted from the introduction to Down Home Truths From Senator Sam Ervin, by Bruce Tindall. Bruce, 17, is a freshman majoring in U.S. History at the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill. He is the son of Dr. and Mrs. George B. Tindall of Chapel Hill.

CHAPEL HILL — "Sam Ervin, said Hubert Humphrey, 'is the right man at the right time in the right place.'" Over the past three years, Sam Ervin has been in all the right places: uncovering Pentagon surveillance of private citizens and politicians, criticizing government snooping into its employees' lives, blasting bureaucratic secrecy, arguing against impoundment, defining the difference between executive privilege and "executive poppycock," and protecting the Constitutional rights of American Indians.

His recent emergence as superstar brought to national attention gifts long known to his Tar Heel constituents and his Congressional colleagues. In his home state, and in the Senate, Sam Ervin has been famous for years not only for his sharp constitutional knowledge, but also for his ability to entertain while he is persuading. He is the successor to Alben Barkley as Congressional story-teller.

Everyone recognizes Samuel James Ervin Jr. The old country lawyer's name is a household word and his face is a household picture. Those unbelievable eyebrows, those huge jowls, those spectacles suddenly appearing and disappearing on his face, that tattered green Constitution slipping in and out of his pocket, are all familiar sights.

But one of the founders of the 6,000-member Sam Ervin Fan Club said, "I think he's flattered, but he's a little uncomfortable about the publicity too." And when Senator Ervin's picture appeared on the cover of TIME, his wife, "Miz Margaret," Ervin, said, "There's Sam on the cover. It's so embarrassing!"

Whether or not he likes the publicity, Sam Ervin is now in the same category as his Watergate committee colleague, World War II fighter Daniel Inouye, whom Howard K. Smith called "an authentic American hero." Not only a political hero; Ervin is also a World War I veteran decorated for bravery. He won the Distinguished Service Cross as well as the Purple Heart, the Silver Star, and the French Fourragere.

Before joining the Army, Ervin had studied at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, from which he was graduated in 1917. He and Carl Durham, who later became Congressman, lived in the same boarding house. Every night, Durham said, the students would sit around on the porch listening to Sam Ervin. Durham's grades suffered because he spent so much time being entertained, but, he said, Ervin managed to get straight A's.

In 1917 Ervin went off to fight in Europe, and returned the next year. In 1919, without ever having gone to a law school, he passed the bar examination.

Although he had qualified as a lawyer, he wanted to get more legal training. He went through Harvard law school "backwards" — he took third-year courses first, and then took first-year courses and got his diploma. He once said that a Lexington newspaper gave him a great compliment: "In an editorial I said I was a Harvard graduate, but that no one would suspect it."

Ervin returned permanently to Morganton and went into practice with his father, Sam Ervin Sr. In those days, lawyers were like Methodist circuit riders, and they would spend the night with the judge in each town they visited. After the day in court was finished, the Ervins would relax with the other lawyers and the judges, swapping jokes and stories.

In 1922, when Ervin was out of the state, some friends put his name on the Democratic ballot as a candidate for the General Assembly. He was surprised at his nomination, but he accepted it; he was even more surprised when a Republican Burke County elected him.

During his term in the legislature he was instrumental in the defeat of a bill which would have outlawed the teaching of evolution in the public schools. "Such a resolution," he said, "serves no good purpose except to absolve monkeys of their responsibility for the human race in general and the North Carolina Legislature in particular."

The question of whether evolution was "true" was irrelevant to Ervin: the issue was freedom of speech.

Ervin also argued that a mere law, a "weak-kneed resolution," could not protect the Christian religion. He used the same line of reasoning years later when he said that Federal civil rights legislation would not be enough to end racism, and that no group of people could "law its way" to a better future.

In 1935, Ervin became a criminal court judge, and in 1937 he was appointed to the Superior court. He served there six years, and then went back to the practice of law in Morganton.

His appointment to the Supreme Court of North Carolina in 1948 recalled him from private life. He had no ambition to be named to the high court — "I didn't even know there was a vacancy," he said.

When U.S. Senator Clyde Hoey died, Governor William Umstead appointed Justice Ervin to fill the vacancy.

Richard Milhous Nixon, Vice President of the United States, administered the oath of office to Senator Sam Ervin on June 11, 1954.

Senator Ervin was appointed to the committee studying possible disciplinary action against Wisconsin Republican Joe McCarthy. Many Senators thought McCarthy was too strong to oppose safely, but Ervin was glad to serve on the committee. He said the reluctant Senators were like the people invited to the "great supper" in the Biblical parable: "They all with one consent began to make excuse."

Ervin urged the Senate to censure McCarthy. His verdict was that McCarthy was "guilty of disorderly conduct by 'flyblowing' — a South Mountains expression for "smearing." Ervin spoke on and on, telling story after story, ridiculing McCarthy as he had ridiculed the "monkey bill" three decades earlier.

A North Carolina professor said "they hardly knew what to do about old Joe McCarthy until Sam Ervin hung a few mountain stories on him."

The next month, by a vote of 67 to 22, the Senate censured McCarthy.

During the civil rights movement, from 1957 to 1965, Ervin gained the disapproval of the liberal establishment, which saw him as just another Claghorn-type demagogic Southern politician opposed to equal rights for black Americans. While it is true that Ervin usually voted against civil rights measures, his reasons for doing so went far beyond those of the anti-civil-rights bloc. He was worried about the unnoticed provisions of the bills that might be used to destroy civil rights instead of to protect them. That same concern for constitutionality has made him the leader of the civil libertarians in the seventies.

Ervin was ahead of his time during the civil rights debates. Prophetically, he warned that Congress should not give up too much power to the executive branch. He argued that no matter how much good the bills were supposed to do, they would confer far too much power upon the President and the Attorney General, and that in the future the power might be used for bad purposes instead of for good.

Sam Ervin was born in 1896, the same year that segregation was established as the law of the land in the Plessy vs. Ferguson decision. He is a product of his times, or perhaps of times before his own. Even to this day he conjures up the evil spirits of Thaddeus Stevens and Charles Sumner and assumes — perhaps rightfully so — that the mere mention of the stolen election of '76 will stir his audience's blood. And at least a vestige of paternalism, the White Man's Burden, must necessarily accompany Ervin's old-fashioned Constitutionalism.

But segregation and white supremacy, which must have impressed themselves deeply upon Sam Ervin during his youth, cannot be called major reasons for Ervin's opposition to civil rights measures. His decisions on the North Carolina Supreme Court bear this out. It is difficult to find a case in which race entered into conscious consideration. He issued his decisions in cases, both capital and trivial, on the basis of the law.

When his speeches from the civil rights era are compared with his more recent civil liberties stands it becomes clear that Senator Ervin really does base his opinions on the constitutionality of each separate proposal.

Today, of course, segregation in public accommodations has disappeared, and despite Sam Ervin's misgivings about integration 20 years ago, the States are still united and our legal system survives intact. Ervin grew up in the age of Jim Crow. That principle has been somewhat eroded over the years. The generation born since 1950 has seen its decline. Yet the Senator has bridged the generation gap: teenagers all over the country are wearing "Uncle Sam" T-shirts.

And besides Ervin's unifying the generations, Ervin fans occupy the political spectrum, as one newspaper said, between the far, far left and the John Birch right.

Ervin has taught a better civics lesson than any high school can offer, using as his text a document that transcends generations, a platform more unifying than that of any political party: the Constitution of the United States of America.

Ervin often quotes Saint Paul, who said, "All things are lawful unto me, but not all things are expedient." Sometimes Senator Ervin finds it lawful and expedient to add emotional arguments to his repertoire — for example, an impassioned plea for the victims of overzealous government snooping and prying — and sometimes the Senator bases his reasoning solely on cold, hard logic, leaving out the emotion. But his appeal to the Constitution is the unchanging, consistent part of his persuasive reasoning.

Ervin is almost too dogmatic about the constitution. Washington lobbyist Marvin Brateman said, "What Ervin doesn't have is a profound understanding of social change as, for example, Frank Porter Graham had. But he has an unusual ability to think of the Constitution as it relates to individual people."

Not only does Sam Ervin scrutinize every proposed law for possible infringements upon the Constitution, he is also very reluctant to change that document itself, when a Federal or State law could accomplish the same objective as a constitutional amendment. The New York Times magazine published an article in 1970 under the heading: "Sam Ervin thinks the Constitution should be like mountain whiskey — undiluted and untaxed."

Ervin opposed "diluting" the Constitution with the 24th Amendment in 1962, because only five states still used poll taxes at that time. He suggested that the relevant state laws could be repealed with less trouble than a Constitutional amendment would take.

For much the same reason, he opposed the Equal Rights Amendment, which was approved by Congress in 1972 after half a century of delay, and is now nearing ratification by the States. Ervin said that the legitimate purposes of the amendment could be carried out, in most cases, by invoking laws already on the books. He regarded the amendment as overkill.

Ervin, incidentally, has one of the few female administrative assistants (top aides) on Capitol Hill, Patricia Shore.

One suggested amendment Ervin opposed on general principles was the one introduced by the late Senator Everett Dirksen in 1966 and re-introduced after his death by his son-in-law, Howard Baker, to permit "voluntary" non-denominational prayer in public schools. "What is a non-denominational prayer?" asked Ervin, who was afraid the amendment would come dangerously close to destroying the constitutional barrier between church and state.

There were two recent amendment Ervin supported. When Lyndon Johnson was serving without a vice-president, Ervin led the campaign for passage of the 25th Amendment, which provides a method for filling a vacancy in the vice-presidency.

And, although he opposed the 1970 bill to lower the voting age because it was unconstitutional, Ervin supported the 18-year-old vote, and helped add the 26th Amendment to the Constitution in 1971.

On occasion, even Sam Ervin has gone along with violations of the Constitution when the necessity was, in his opinion, overriding, but arguments of necessity are the rare exception rather than the rule.

Ervin finds it necessary to have a draft to insure a strong national defense, but draws the line at spying and surveillance for reasons of "military security."

He found the Vietnam War necessary, but went to the Supreme Court to defend Alaska Democrat Mike Gravel's right to reveal the Pentagon Papers under Gravel's Senatorial privilege of immunity.

He finds it desirable occasionally to accept less liberal rules of evidence than the Supreme Court allows, in order to convict criminals, but he does not find it necessary to ignore the Constitution for the sole purpose of giving political advantages to "law 'n' order" extremists.

Ervin's national prominence, in fact, began in 1970 when he was the chief opponent of the "bill to repeal the Fourth, Fifth, Sixth and Eight Amendments" — the District of Columbia Omnibus (or, as he called it, the "Omnibus") Crime Bill.

In regard to this bill, it is important for those who charge Ervin with racism to note that the bill's no-knock and preventive detention provisions applied only to the city of Washington, which has an overwhelmingly black population. Ervin's consistent stand against repressive laws is strong evidence for his claim that he favors equal rights for all Americans of all races and all generations.

By 1970, Sam Ervin had had considerable experience in trying to persuade the Senate to vote his way, beginning with his anti-McCarthy oration in 1954 and continuing through several anti-civil-rights filibusters (he called them "educational debates"). He did the same thing to the Omnibus Crime

Bill he had done to McCarthy — he "hung a few mountain stories" on it.

But even the ultimate weapon, down home truths from Sam Ervin, could not stop the Omnibus Crime Bill in the overheated election year 1970. Still because of his attempt to repeal the no-knock and preventive detention clauses, Ervin gained the respect of civil libertarians who had shunned him because of his opposition to civil rights measures.

Long recognized as the Senate's expert on the Constitution, Sam Ervin was chosen in 1973 to head the investigation into what has turned out to be widespread crime, corruption and conspiracy in the 1972 election.

The United States Senate Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities is presently conducting a businesslike investigation. "If you like to watch grass grow," said one reporter, "you would have loved the first day of the hearings."

Some have charged Ervin with unfairness in the investigation, but Senator Barry Goldwater, who presumably would not approve of a partisan Democrat, said soon before Ervin's investigation stated, "I'd trust him with my wife's back teeth."

Ervin himself does not aspire to a higher office: in fact, he did not seek either of the two highest offices he has held, Supreme Court Justice and U.S. Senator. "He is a man who is beyond ambition," said Senator Edward Kennedy.

The Ervin re-election campaign spent only $30,000 in 1968, and returned 20 per cent of the campaign contributions to the donors. A North Carolina politician said Ervin "holds himself above what he considers to be the petty political arena."

Mail from North Carolinians has been running heavily in Ervin's favor. His accusers are a minority. The description of Sam Ervin by his classmates in the 1917 U.N.C. yearbook still holds true:

"Everything he meets reponds, and at once a sympathetic friendship ensues. Like Midas, he has that magic touch which makes everyone he meets his friend; and consequently he is liked by all."

Kit Carson Image Is Disputed

By JOHN LEAHIGH
TAOS, N.M. (UPI) — Indians from the Taos Pueblo have renewed their 19th Century war against Kit Carson, the legendary figure in the romanticized "winning of the West."

The prevailing popular image of Kit Carson the scout and Indian-fighter places him in a class with such frontier folk heroes as Daniel Boone and Davy Crockett.

But many Indians, especially the Navajos, see little difference between Carson's treatment of their ancestors and the massacre at My Lai.

A coalition of Indians and Chicanos, mostly members of the Taos GI Forum, is demanding that Kit Carson Memorial State Park in this northern New Mexico town, where Carson had his home, be renamed for an Indian who died in World War II.

A state law to make the name change will be introduced in the New Mexico legislature in January by State Rep. Samuel F. Vigil. The bill would rename the park in honor of Santiago Lujan, a Taos Indian with a Spanish surname who was an army sergeant in World so much as a negative "slap in the face to the establishment," but as a positive effort to bring recognition for representatives of some exploited people in American history.

"They say their position that Carson was a 'tramp' responsible for the deaths of many Indians is supported by a realistic examination of his role in history."

The New Mexico Cultural Properties Review Committee opposes the name change.

"Though some would condemn him for his brief career with the Army and his actions under orders, the same type of criticism, some day might be directed against veterans of our wars of recent years," the committee said in a formal resolution.

GI Forum President David Fernandez of Taos fails to see this as a valid argument in defense of Carson.

Scout's honor

At Taos, where Carson spent his declining years and where his body is buried, the state park and a variety of streets, institutions and businesses bear his name.

The Boy Scouts' council with the largest area in the 48 contiguous states bears Carson's name. The Kit Carson Council of the Boy Scouts of America covers the northern half of New Mexico and parts of Arizona, Colorado and Utah.

The area includes the Navajo and Hopi Reservations, and Navajo boys make up about 25 per cent of the council's membership.

Council President Harold Sullivan of Albuquerque doesn't want to enter the controversy.

"I have no desire to create a story where there isn't one," he said, declining further comment.

GI Forum President Fernandez, however, hopes the controversy will provide a new perspective "from which the present governmental, religious and economic institutions may view what has come to be called 'the minority question.'"

"Unfortunate"

"Why should a tramp who came out of nowhere be given such disproportionate recognition when today the very people whom he brutally subjugated are still largely ignored, unknown and unrecognized?," Fernandez asked.

The State Cultural Properties Review Committee says it is "unfortunate" that the GI Forum calls Carson an "Indian killer."

"History points out that as commander during the Mes-calero Campaign of 1862-63, he (Carson) disregarded the order to 'kill Indians on sight' and, during his Navajo 'round-up,' conducted as humane a campaign as possible under the circumstances," the committee said.

But Fernandez answers this view of history with a quote from the book "Bury My Heart at Wounded Knee" by Dee Brown which describes Carson as a "tramp, renegade and Indian killer who laid waste to Navajoland, and in the process destroyed fields, villages and crops, as well as destroying large numbers of Navajo men, women, and children."

STAFFORD SPRINGS, Conn. (AP) — Wild birds aren't supposed to be friendly with human beings, but nobody apparently ever told Chippy the partridge.

For the last three years, Chippy has been a regular companion of Gildo Gregory, the sexton of St. Edward's Church.

"He just came walking out of the woods," Gregory said. Chippy will often follow Gregory around from one end of the churchyard to the other. "Once I play with him I can't get rid of him."

Gregory said he tried feeding Chippy, "but he wouldn't eat. All he'd eat was leaves and things."

Gregory says the start of a day may find Chippy waiting for him to arrive at work. "He knows my truck. When I stop to unload the riding mower he's right by the truck. Sometimes he jumps up on the front seat," he explained.

Some nights, the bird even follows the truck down the dirt road until it's out of sight, he said.

Chippy visits Gregory during the warmer months and then disappears between fall and spring.

New England wildlife experts say the bird-man relationship is unusual. Similar instances, however, have been reported.

"We have a naturalist up here who feeds wild birds, and we've heard of a few cases where a wild bird or animal takes to someone," William Mincher, a Maine Fish and Game official, said. He added, however, that while a wild bird may take a fancy to one individual, it may not always be tame for others.

Gregory agrees. "No one else can get within 100 feet of Chippy."

VIENNA (AP) — More than half of the apartments in the Austrian capital are cleanly heated, being warmed either by gas or electricity or getting their heat piped from a "long-distance furnace," which does not cause air pollution.

The report comes from the city government.

Vienna also boasts that with more than 50 per cent of its total area occupied by parks and gardens, it must have the cleanest air of any capital in the world.

In figures released by the American Kennel Club, the poodle remains the most popular breed of all dogs, for the twelfth straight year.

PUMPKINS, PUMPKINS, PUMPKINS. . . again in all shapes and sizes fill the yard of Mrs. Luke Pace of Rt. 2, Greenville.

HALLOWEEN

Halloween—a time for sheer joy for youngsters and the young at heart. "Tricks or treats" and wonderful costumes fill the youngsters with delight on this day for youth.

Homes are filled with candies and decorations that welcome not only Halloween but the entire autumn season.

Huge jack o'lanterns peek mysteriously from dimly lit porches as miniature ghosts wander from door to door on their yearly journey for tricks or treats.

Lawns along several country roads abound with bright pumpkins for sale, pumpkins simply begging the passerby to "take me home."

Most of the elementary schools in the area are planning classroom parties for Halloween.

An old-fashioned carnival will be held for the students at Eastern Elementary School from 1 to 3 p.m. Wednesday. Booths will be set up on the school grounds to provide games for the students.

Tickets are on sale now at St. Raphael School for a carnival to be held there Tuesday night from 6 to 9. Anyone interested in attending that carnival can get a ticket from a student at the school.

Brownie Troop 499 of W. H. Robinson School will hold a Halloween party Wednesday afternoon from 3:30 to 5 p.m. for troop members.

A carnival will be held Wednesday night from 5 to 8 p.m. at the American Legion building sponsored by Pace Academy. The public is invited to the carnival, which will provide over 20 games and prizes for the best costumes. A homemade Brunswick stew supper will be served.

A Christmas Bazaar will also be held at the carnival.

At Garrett Dorm on the ECU Campus, several Halloween activities have been planned.

Early in the evening, a group of underprivileged children will meet at the dorm and go "trick or treating" from there. Later, they'll return to the dorm for Halloween games in the basement.

At 9 p.m. a party will be held for residents of the dorm with food, music, games and costume contests.

Helpful Hints

Reflective fabric trim put on clothing of children or adults who bicycle at night shines 185 times brighter than white paint when a motorist's headlight focuses on it. However, the trim lights up only to the driver. This enables the motorists to have a long distance warning of anyone who may be in the street.

Bill Blass, Yves St. Laurent, Anne Klein—now it's easy to have a closet full of clothes by one of these top name designers, if you sew. Over a dozen of the most famous American and European couture designers have had their unique creations translated into patterns that are available to the person who sews. The pattern supplier is Vogue Couturier.

On The Local Scene

by Rosalie Trotman

Crafts almost lost to other areas of the country still thrive in the Coastal Plain, such as spinning, weaving, basketry, wicker furniture weaving and others.

Over 70 craftsmen will participate in the 1973 Coastal Plain Arts and Crafts Fair, a juried show and sale, to be held at Tarrytown Mall, Rocky Mount, Nov. 8-10.

In addition to the booths which will be open each day of the fair, special demonstrations are scheduled for the three days. Cloth collage, needle weaving and painting will be demonstrated each day, with rug hooking and woodcarving featured Thursday, Bargello and fabric sculpture will be shown Friday and chair bottoming and shell crafts on Saturday.

A full schedule of "mini demonstrations" begins with spinning at 11 a.m. Thursday. A "country kitchen" will be filled with baked and canned goods.

B. D. Williams of Rocky Mount, one of the few remaining craftsmen who make the old fashioned bow basket familiar to antique hunters, even cuts his own oak saplings to prepare splits for weaving. Mrs. R. O. Harris of Garysburg turns corn shucks into dolls, wreaths and flowers.

Mrs. A. G. Strickland, also of Garysburg, weaves pine needles into baskets, trays, bottle covers and a variety of other items. Stuffed toys and dolls will be shown by Frances Tarleton of Tarboro.

Gordon Davis of Rocky Mount paints, carves and does woodwork, but his speciality is carved and painted family coats-of-arms, which he does on order. The nationwide revival of interest in patchwork has not passed North Carolina by. Mrs. Frank Eason of Williamston will have patchwork pillows and Mrs. B. D. Williams of Rocky Mount will offer quilts.

Saying Boo To Costume Prices

NEW YORK (UPI) — The nation's biggest maker of Halloween costumes this year says "boo" to price increases.

If it helps take the pain out of costs rising all about you these days this bit of news ought to cheer you. Your kids can do their spookin' as devils, skeletons or witches at 1973 prices.

Alfred R. Fischer, sales manager of the Ben Cooper Costume Company, said in an interview that "we're holding the 1972 line."

The price of costumes ranges from $1.29 to $2.98. Accessories—hoses, wigs, hats, beards and such—run from 19 cents to $1.98.

Fischer said the costumes are mostly for those under 12. "After that age," he said, "the accessories are used for do-it-yourself costumes."

The Halloween man said boys and girls have a choice of 200 characters—ranging from comic strip to movie characters with practically everything in between, including playland biggies such as Raggedy Ann and Raggedy Andy.

Fischer said during the last 15 years Superman has moved into a top spot, followed, 10 years ago, by a Batman craze. This year among the hot characters are Spiderman, Charlie Chaplin, and Laurel and Hardy.

Clowns, princesses, astronauts, cats, lions, and Casper the Ghost are other all-time favorites among Halloween costumes. Casper is made by a Copper competitor—"number four."

Inside the costume works, it's already Halloween, 1974. "Our designers started working on next year's line six months ago," Fischer said.

The wig part of the business isn't as great as it could be. Too much competition from real hair-dos of an unusual type, Fischer said.

In recent years, according to Fischer, the accessories part of the Halloween industry has grown considerably.

He attributes this to the fact that more teen-agers and adults of all ages are having Halloween parties.

Bazaar, Bake Sale To Begin Friday Night

The East Carolina University's Woman's Club has announced plans for a bazaar and bake sale to be held at Elm Street Recreation Center.

The two-day event will be held from 7-10 p.m. on Friday, Nov. 2, and from 9 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Saturday.

The bazaar will feature needlecraft, Christmas tree decorations, stocking stuffers, wastebaskets and candles. Christmas tree ornaments will include handmade bird nests and candy canes. Both indoor and outdoor plants will be available.

All homemade baked items will be features of the bake sale of which Mrs. Peggy Brinn is chairman.

Mrs. Carol Smith and Mrs. Carol Dohme are serving as co-chairmen for the bazaar.

All proceeds from the annual affair will be used for the scholarship fund at East Carolina University.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. J.H. Farmer of Rt. 1, Stokes, announce the engagement of their daughter, Dorothy Jean, to James Harold Forrest, son of Mr. and Mrs. J.B. Forrest of Rt. 2, Ayden. The wedding will take place Nov. 18.

Wilkerson-Tomskey Vows Deaf-Blind Children Camp Exchanged On Saturday

NEW ORLEANS, La. — The marriage of Miss Ellen Logan Tomskey and William Holton Wilkerson was solemnized here Saturday in a candlelight ceremony at 7:00 p.m.

The Rev. John Stone Jenkins and the Rev. Hunter Huckabay performed the double ring ceremony in the chapel of Trinity Episcopal Church. A program of organ music was presented by Mark Ritchie.

Parents of the couple are Dr. and Mrs. Gilbert Charles Tomskey of New Orleans, La., and Mrs. Edwin Cisco Wilkerson of Greenville, N.C., and the late Mr. Wilkerson.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of candlelight silkened organdy styled with a dutchess neckline, short sleeves, empire waistline and attached train. The gown was appliqued with bouquets of blossoms of embroidered candlelight peau d'ange lace.

Her short candlelight mantilla was bordered with peau d'ange lace. She carried an arm bouquet of white rubrum lilies and eucalyptus leaves.

Mrs. Michael Dean Charbonnet of New Orleans, La., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She was attired in a floor length gown of bittersweet chiffon fashioned with a circular godet skirt with capelet bodice. A self-fabric rose accented the slightly raised waistline. She carried a bouquet of mid-century lilies, chrysanthemums in fall colors with eucalyptus leaves.

Edwin Cisco Wilkerson Jr. of Tuba City, Ariz., brother of the bridegroom, was best man and ushers were Charles Perkins Gaskins Jr. of Washington, D. C., and Michael Dean Charbonnet of New Orleans, La.

The couple will reside in Greensboro, N. C.

The bride graduated from Sullins College, Bristol, Va., and from the University of Georgia. She taught last year at St. Andrews Episcopal School, New Orleans, and plans to teach in

MRS. WILLIAM HOLTON WILKERSON

Greensboro. She is a member of Chi Omega and is a member of the Junior League of New Orleans. The bridegroom graduated from the University of Carolina at Chapel Hill and is now a branch manager for First Union National Bank, Greensboro.

A reception was held following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents. The receiving rooms were decorated with arrangements of white seasonal flowers.

The canopied patio, where the guests assembled, was lighted by candles. The gardens featured flowering plants of the season.

Dr. and Mrs. Samuel Logan, aunt and uncle of the bride, entertained at a noon brunch Saturday at their home honoring the wedding party and out-of-town guests.

Mrs. Edwin Cisco Wilkerson, mother of the bridegroom, entertained at the Versailles Restaurant following the rehearsal Friday. Mr. and Mrs. Monroe Lyons of New Orleans entertained the bridal couple at a cocktail party Thursday.

WATERFORD, Conn. (AP) — When a visitor asked Susan D'Accona if she was enjoying herself at camp she clapped her hands and nodded. It was her way of saying she liked riding horses, swimming in the ocean and sleeping outdoors for the first time in her life.

Susan is deaf and legally blind. But with help from an oral interpreter she left little doubt how she and nine other deaf-blind children felt about the three weeks they spent at the Oak Hill School's seaside camp.

The private Connecticut school has sponsored a camp for blind children for the past 15 summers. This year was the first time children who were also deaf were included in the program.

"It's gratifying to me to see them take part in all of the activities. I think it's fantastic," said camp director Paul Farina.

Farina said the deaf-blind children showed no more reluctance than any youngster about doing something for the first time.

"We teach them the same things normal children learn at camp," he said.

Most of the children have some useful sight despite being legally blind. But the deaf-blind youngsters stand out because they verge on being hyper-active, Farina said.

"They're always running. They always want to be exploring. It's a real job for the staff to keep them in place," he said.

The deaf-blind children ranged in age from 7 to 16. To prepare for them the camp staff had to learn the deaf sign language and also some new discipline techniques.

Because they are so active the counselors have to use more force in dealing with them than with the rest, Farina said. Anyone who knows the story of Helen Keller and how she was taught knows what he means, he said.

The other campers took a special interest in the deaf-blind children, said camp counselor Karen Quinn.

"If they ran off the others would help to bring them back.

End Charade, Tell Children

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a 40-year-old woman with children away at boarding schools. My husband and I are divorced, but we haven't told our children about it for fear they may hate us for life.

The children go to school in Ohio. I live in North Carolina, and my husband lives in California. Whenever the kids come home, he flies down here and brings enough of his clothes with him to make them think he is still living here with me. He is complaining that it is getting to be a terrible expense, and if I am going to continue this pretense I will have to start paying for his transportation.

I am only a part-time cocktail waitress and make just enough to live in comfort. My husband is paying for the children's education. Please, help me.

T. IN N. C.

DEAR T.: Put an end to the ridiculous charade and tell your children that Daddy doesn't live there anymore. They'll survive.

DEAR ABBY: I am an 18-year-old virgin and proud of it. My problem is whether to remain a virgin. Half the guys I talk to want virgins for brides. The other half want girls with experience so they know what's going on when they're honeymooning. What do you think?

Another problem: One night my boy friend and I were sitting in his car making out in front of my house. We weren't doing anything indecent, but a nosy neighbor told my mother about it, and now she won't let me go out for a month.

Can you help me?

MISS NO NAME

DEAR MISS: Stay sweet as you are. And endure your penalty like an obedient daughter. And don't ever make out in a parked car again. It's dangerous in more ways than two.

Ring enlarged to show detail.

Couple Speaks Vows Friday

Miss Deborah Marlene Simmons became the bride of Kenneth Roland Manning in a candlelight ceremony Friday at 7:00 p.m. in the Parkers Chapel Free Will Baptist Church.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Zeno Simmons of Rt. 5, Greenville, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore an original formal length bouffant gown of white peau d'ange lace and organza featuring long full sleeves ending in bridal points. Lace trimmed the high neckline and layers of organza edged in lace extended from the waistline into a full chapel length train.

She wore a shoulder length veil of illusion attached to a princess crown of pearl petals. The bride carried a cascade of miniature white carnations and baby's breath with satin ribbons.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Earl Manning of Rt. 3, Greenville.

The Rev. Harley Brown performed the double ring ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Debra Speight, organist, and Phillip Cooper, soloist.

The vows were spoken before a chancel background of jade greenery centered with a fifteen branch candelabrum. Fifteen branch spiral candelabra were used on each side flanked with nine branch candelabra filled with white chrysanthemums, white gladioli and jade foliage. The sanctuary windows were decorated with a lighted taper. The couple knelt on a kneeling bench for the benediction. The couple lighted on taper together symbolic of being united.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Roger Simmons of Rt. 5, Greenville, sister-in-law of the bride. She was dressed in a floor length empire gown of multi-floral lavender silk designed with a scooped neckline, long puff sleeves and sashed in lavender velvet ribbon with long streamers in back. The gathered skirt was of purple chiana crepe. She wore a headpiece of lavender net attached to a purple loop bow and carried a colonial bouquet of miniature pink carnations with satin streamers.

Bridesmaids were Martha Manning of Rt. 3, Greenville, sister-in-law of the bridegroom, Jean Farmer and Brenda Farmer of Rt. 1, Stokes, Peggy Oakley of Rt. 6, Greenville, and Joyce Anderson of Rt. 5, Greenville, all cousins of the bride.

Their dresses, headpieces and bouquets were identical to that of the honor attendant. The bride's gown and attendants' gowns were made by Mrs. Mary Roebuck.

Angela Simmons of Rt. 5, Greenville, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She was dressed like the bridesmaids and carried a nosegay of miniature pink carnations with satin streamers.

The bride's mother selected an aqua dress with matching accessories. The mother of the bridegroom chose a harvest gold ensemble with brown accessories. The mothers and grandmothers were presented white carnation corsages.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and Howie Keel of Rt. 1, Greenville, was ring bearer. Ushers were Bobby Manning of Rt. 3, Greenville, brother of the bridegroom, Roger Simmons of Rt. 5, Greenville, brother of the bride, Ronnie Rogerson of Winterville, Tony Dixon of Grimesland, and Tommy Eastwood of Rt. 6, Greenville.

The wedding was directed by Mrs. Nell Eastwood. Vickie Coward presided at the register and programs of the service were distributed by Terrie Briley.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside at Rt. 2, Greenville.

The bride is a senior at North Pitt High School. The bridegroom is a graduate of D. H. Conley and attended Lenoir Community College. He is employed at Pitt FCX.

An after-rehearsal party was held Thursday night for members of the wedding party and brides.

The bride's table was centered with a silver candelabrum with an arrangement of white and pink carnations.

On The Young Side

Rose High students are getting in the Halloween spirit this week with plans for masquerade and hobo parties.

Prizes for the worst as well as the most original and most authentic costumes were awarded Saturday night as the members of the Saturday Night Youth Group masqueraded in hillbilly, Indian, and other assorted outfits.

The party was held at Nancy Barber's house. President of the youth group is Steve Midgette with Nancy Barber as secretary.

Members of the planning committee are Steve Midgette, Nancy Barber, Sylvia Carraway, Terry Leggett, Lorraine Rayford, Blanche Rayford, Keith James, Nancy Troutman, Falvette Futch, and Carol Hackett. Mrs. Fay Barber is advisor.

Tonight at 5:00 The Oakmont Youth Group is having a hobo party. Anyone may come and all are asked to dress as tramps and bring one can of food. Participants will meet at Oakmont Baptist Church where the contents from all cans will be poured in one pot and heated over a bon-fire for supper. President of the groups is Terry Leggett.

Council for Christ is also having a Halloween party. It is planned for tomorrow night at 6:30 at the home of Sylvia Carraway. All are invited and the program is a surprise.

Moans of "Well, at least this one doesn't count" and "What does algae have to do with English anyway?" echoed through the Rose Cafeteria as many Juniors struggled with the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test-National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test (PSAT-NMSQT). Many students took this two-hour test Tuesday morning during their study holiday.

Friday, many seniors took an armed forces aptitude test. This two hour exam shows student ability in many different areas.

Council for Christ members will have tickets available to the Billy Graham movie, "Time to Run," at a discount this week. This movie will play at the Plaza Cinema November 14-20. Starting today a Christian Life and Witnessing course will take place at Elm Street Park. The course will last from 2:00 until 4:00 and is opened to everyone.

Business Meet Held By WOTM

The program of the convocation being held today was read at the business meeting of the Women of the Moose Chapter 1308 Thursday night. Several members will be in attendance.

Volunteers for sorting the clothing collected by Moose members and Scouts Monday night during the Moose's annual clothing drive were asked to contact Peggy Jamieson, clothing bank chairman.

Betty Diehl announced that she will be selling fruit cakes as a special green beanie project. Interested persons should contact Mrs. Diehl at 752-3221 or Ada Jones, 752-5794.

Following the sick and cheer report given by Liz Moore, Senior Regent Dorothy Anderson concluded the meeting.

Pitt Native Named To Post

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Bethel native, Dorothy Jones Spearman has been named Special Assistant to the General Counsel of the National Labor Relations Board in Washington.

Mrs. Spearman has been serving as Confidential Assistant to NLRB General Counsel Peter G. Nash for more than two years. In her new position, she will be Nash's closest adviser and will have a broad range of administrative duties.

The daughter of Mrs. Johnnie May Jones, Church Street, Bethel, Mrs. Spearman's promotion caps more than a decade of outstanding Federal government service with the Department of Commerce, Bureau of Public Roads, Department of Labor and the NLRB, Nash said.

In an interview, Nash said the Bethel native would be directly involved in all NLRB policies affecting the Agency's clericals requiring his attention.

"Mrs. Spearman's duties will include travel to all NLRB offices throughout the fifty states," said the General Counsel. "In her travels, she will conduct clerical staff meetings and have that valuable, personal contact with our regional clerical personnel."

He stressed the NLRB had too long underestimated the key role the clerical staff

the General Counsel at meetings, participation in all case agendas, coordinating the flow of all cases and matters demanding the personal attention of the nation's principal prosecutor of unfair labor practices.

Mrs. Spearman will execute numerous other assignments given on a day-to-day basis. An important aspect of her new job will be the assumption of newly created duties of direct liaison between the Presidential-appointed General Counsel and the NLRB clerical staff in Washington and the regions, he said.

In an interview, Nash said the Bethel native would be directly involved in all NLRB policies affecting the Agency's clericals requiring his attention.

"Mrs. Spearman's duties will include travel to all NLRB offices throughout the fifty states," said the General Counsel. "In her travels, she will conduct clerical staff meetings and have that valuable, personal contact with our regional clerical personnel."

He stressed the NLRB had too long underestimated the key role the clerical staff

plays in the effective functioning of the Agency.

"In our desire to expeditiously produce a quality legal product, we often lose sight of the fact we could not function as we do without the dedicated and skillful work of our clerical staffs."

He called the Mrs. Spearman's appointment "tangible recognition of this fact."

While discussing Mrs. Spearman's new duties, the NLRB General Counsel emphasized her qualifications for his assignment.

"Her experience in clerical positions at the Commerce and Labor Departments and as confidential assistant here at the five-member Board makes her experience invaluable in this position," he said.

He noted the fact he had worked closely with his new assistant for more than four years in his present position and while serving as Associate Solicitor and later as Solicitor at the Labor Department.

"Her inherent intelligence and her extraordinary disposition combine to make her particularly well qualified to fill this key position," he added.

Mrs. Spearman is a 1954 graduate of Bethel High School. In 1959, she graduated from North Carolina Central University with a major in business education.

Following graduation, she joined the Commerce Department in Washington. She later transferred to the Bureau of Public Roads but after only a few months of service returned to Commerce. In 1968, she joined the Solicitor's staff at the Labor Department but came to the NLRB in August 1971 when President Nixon named Mr. Nash General Counsel of the Agency.

Mrs. Spearman was salutatorian of her high school class, she played basketball, engaged in debating and Student Government and was active in dramatics. She was voted the most outstanding girl of her graduating class.

At North Carolina Central University, she served on the steering committee and was active in the Business Club.

After coming to Washington, she met and married in 1961 Lawrence R. Spearman, a fellow government employee. They have two sons, Darryl, 11 and Jeffrey, seven.

In a family of males she has developed into an avid sports fan. She lists cooking, swimming, badminton, ping pong with the family, and reading as her other hobbies. The new NLRB official tries to visit her home state and friends on a regular basis. In addition to her mother, she has two brothers, Louis and J.B. Jones, and two sisters, Mrs. Rosa Grimes and Mrs. Evelyn Knight, living in Bethel. In Washington, she has a sister, Mrs. Mildred Weaver, and two brothers, Chester and Curtis Jones.

"With my close association with the local members of my family and my regular visits home, I am able to keep in touch with back home news and local issues. I do not intend to lose my Tar Heel heritage," she said.

Miss Carolyn Mickey Named 'Sweetheart'

Miss Carolyn Jane Mickey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mickey of Rt. 5, High Point, has been selected sweetheart of East Carolina University's Tau Chapter of Phi Sigma Pi, national honor fraternity.

A 21-year-old senior, Miss Mickey is majoring in business with a concentration in economics. Presently she carries an academic average of 3.4 and has been selected for the Dean's List.

Her main interest is horseback riding, having ridden competitively since she was nine. She has also ridden for Forest Mendenhall. Other hobbies include tennis, reading, jogging, and deep sea fishing.

Before transferring to ECU, Miss Mickey matriculated at Davidson County Community College for two years. There she was a Dean's List student, a member of Phi Theta Kappa (junior college division of Phi Beta Kappa) as a freshman, and recipient of a nomination to 'Who's Who in American Junior Colleges.'

Also at Davidson she achieved

Miss Carolyn Jane Mickey

a green belt in judo, was a member of the Drama Club, and was secretary of the Student Government Association.

Phi Sigma Pi is the oldest fraternal organization on the East Carolina University campus. They just recently won their eighth consecutive "Outstanding Chapter in the Nation" award.

Dr. Richard C. Todd of the ECU History department is the fraternity's advisor.

He noted the fact he had worked closely with his new assistant for more than four years in his present position and while serving as Associate Solicitor and later as Solicitor at the Labor Department.

"Her inherent intelligence and her extraordinary disposition combine to make her particularly well qualified to fill this key position," he added.

Church Choir Entertained On Thursday

Members of the choir of Salter Path United Methodist Church on Bogue Banks were guests of Dr. Leo Jenkins, chancellor of East Carolina University, and Mrs. Jenkins for breakfast Thursday at the chancellor's home.

The choir of 32 voices features a father-son combination. Victor Salter, the organist, organized the choir and his son, Dwayne Salter, is pianist. Other accompanists include Charles Smith, bass guitar, and Otis Pittman, rhythm guitar. In addition to traditional, stately church hymns, the choir specializes in gospel music in a style which the pastor, the Rev. Foster L. Reynolds, describes as a "natural God-given gift." Few of the choir members have formal musical training. Only a few read music.

Reynolds said the choir has performed before audiences and on television programs in three states. "It is music which will communicate with almost anyone," he said. "It is a free flowing expression of the feelings of the soul."

Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins attend the Salter Path church while at their summer home near Atlantic Beach.

Between Us There Are Means By Which Parents Avoid Fussing

By DR. HAIM GINOTT
Note to readers: The encounters depicted in my column are designed to serve as a practical guide to improved communication. They are not to be taken literally. They should be adapted to individual situations and individual ways of speaking.

IT IS NEVER HELPFUL to engage in acrimonious polemics with children. What helps most in moments of stress is an open and unassuming statement of feelings and expectations. To illustrate:

Beth, 7, came home from school on Halloween, dropped her books and said, "Ma, where's my trick-or-treat bag?" Mother said, "Here's your bag and here are your slacks. It's cold outside."

Hysteria ensued. Beth did not want to wear slacks. She feared it would spoil her costume.

Mother decided not to stand and argue. She said, "That is not how we communicate in this house. We talk, we don't scream. Now, I am too angry for conversation. I'll see you in a few minutes, when my anger subsides." When Mother returned, she found Beth in her slacks and costume ready to go.

HERE'S ANOTHER EXAMPLE where Mother invited compliance by avoiding explanations and reasoning. Instead, she granted her son in imagination what she could not give him in reality:

On Halloween morning, Wally, 8, said, "I don't want to go to stupid school today! 'I'm not going!' Mother answered, 'I too wish there were no school on Halloween. It's too bad I'm not running the Board of Education. I would declare a school holiday. You would get into your costume right now and go trick-or-treating.'"

Said Wally: "It's too early to start now." He got dressed and went to school.

In the afternoon, Wally didn't want to wear his jacket, although it was cold outside.

Mother said, "If I had my way, I would switch Halloween to the last week in August, between camp time and school time. It would be hot, and you wouldn't need to wear your jacket. The day would be longer and you'd have more time for fun."

Wally put on his jacket and left without another word of protest. Mother tentatively did not tell

Wally why he should go to school in the morning or wear his jacket in the afternoon. Instead, she talked to his heart and imagination. She allowed him the right to his feelings and wishes, even if they could not be fulfilled at the moment.

BY TREATING their children's requests with respect, parents can avoid quarrels. Example:

A movie for sixth-grade children was shown in the library. Norm, a third-grader wanted very much to see it. "Why can't I go?" he kept asking. Mother said, "I wish I were in charge of the film. I would allow ALL the children to see it." You can't do that," Norm replied. "There is no room for all the children in the library." His complaints ceased. In this incident, Mother allowed her son to answer his own question. By abstaining from explaining, Mother avoided a predictable sequence of useless questions and answers. (—Why can't I go? —You are too little. —So what? —There is no place for every one in the library. —Why can't they show the picture in a bigger auditorium? —I don't make the rules. —So why can't I go?)

Mother's sympathetic granting of her son's wish in fantasy helped him deal with reality.

Researcher Is Pushing Octopus As Food Item

By BRUCE DUNFORD
Associated Press Writer
HONOLULU (AP) — With meat prices skyrocketing, housewives are turning to cheaper protein sources, such as cheese, fish and even horse meat.

But if you suggested octopus, they'd probably turn up their noses, says marine biologist William F. Van Heukelem, even though the eight-legged mollusk isn't the huge, slimy, deep sea villain many believe.

On the contrary, Van Heukelem said, the octopus is generally small, very shy, surprisingly tasty and is popular as a food in much of Asia and in Mediterranean countries.

The main drawback to Americans and North Europeans is the appearance of the animal and the stories they've heard about him. To them it's like eating insects," Van Heukelem said. "Of course, I suppose you could chop it up like hamburger or cut the tentacles off, but the idea would still be there."

Van Heukelem is pursuing research aimed at making commercial raising of octopuses feasible. Getting the American public to accept octopus as a meal will take time, he admits.

Working at the University of Hawaii's Institute of Marine Biology on Coconut Island in Kaneohe Bay near here, Van Heukelem recently succeeded in bringing a Mexican species of octopus through a complete reproductive cycle in captivity, a scientific first.

It was the technical key to commercial production of the mollusk.

When compared to beef, pork or other animal sources of protein, the octopus' reproduction and growth rate and proportion of edibility seem fantastic.

Van Heukelem, 31, who has been researching the octopus for nearly 10 years, said it is "an extremely efficient food converter. It converts 50 per cent of the food it eats to growth," compared to 10 to 15 per cent for most other animals.

The octopus reaches a marketable weight, one pound, in five and a half months and reaches a more profitable five-pound weight in just two more months, he said.

Van Heukelem said octopus is 85 per cent edible, low in fat and high in protein. The only part of the boneless animal discarded is the intestines.

Octopus has a mild taste, something like tender abalone. A female of the Mexican species lays 500 to 3,000 eggs. She broods the eggs for about six weeks, until they hatch, and then she dies, Van Heukelem said.

Increasing the water temperature in the laboratory tanks ten degrees warmer than the ocean environment caused the octopuses to grow three times faster than they would normally, he said.

Van Heukelem selected the Mexican species for his research because it doesn't have a larval stage as do most other species. The Mexican species develops directly from the egg into an octopus form, giving it greater chance for survival in the laboratory, he said.

Van Heukelem now has some 15,000 eggs developing in huge wooden tanks at the institute and he expects 80 per cent will reach maturity if he can afford to feed them that long and find enough space.

While the creature favors crustaceans, such as crab and shrimp, Van Heukelem said these are too expensive. But, he said the octopus also likes shark meat and tilapia, a nuisance fish common to Hawaiian waters.

He sees promise for locally-raised octopus in the market here, where 95 per cent of what is sold is imported frozen from Japan.

Fish Return To Hudson

NEW YORK (AP) — A species of fish known as the "lafayette" or the "spot" is returning in large numbers to the lower Hudson River from which it disappeared in 1939.

Dominick Pirone, environmentalist at Manhattan College and the College of Mount St. Vincent, said water-pollution enforcement the past three years has improved the fish environment in the lower river.

The small striped fish, with the characteristic spot behind its gill cover, was plentiful before the lower Hudson got dirty more than three decades ago. Since 1939, it has rarely been found north of Norfolk, Va.

Pirone's students recently began fishing off the New York City shore as a study project.

"We really expected to catch only whiteperch, eels and small striped bass, along with an occasional snapper bluefish," Pirone said. "When the 'spot' started showing up, and in large numbers, it was quite an ecologically encouraging surprise."

Hunting A Rare Albino Bison

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Fish and game officials say they will try to capture a rare white buffalo near Chitina during the weekend.

If captured, the bison is scheduled to go to the Alaska Children's Zoo here, where officials say its survival chances are far greater than in the outdoors.

Albino bison, because of coloration and genetic makeup, appear less able to handle Alaska's long winters. Records show that the 11 other white bison known to have been born in Alaska have either failed to survive harsh winter conditions or have fallen prey to poachers.

The Isaak Walton League of America is paying for the expedition.

May Have Use For Waste Item

PULLMAN, Wash. (AP) — Washington State University researchers may have a use for a waste product of the nation's new pollution control equipment.

Engineering researchers say "fly ash" may replace plastics for use where fire hazards are feared. It's a lightweight fireproof substance, the residue left when coal is burned in electric power plants.

"Lives have been lost because burning plastics have often spread the fire and because toxic fumes generated by burning plastic were inhaled," said A.A. Johnson, chairman of the College of Engineering at Washington State.

MOROCCAN MILLIONS
RABAT, Morocco (UPI) — Morocco now has 16 million inhabitants the Health Ministry said. It said it expects the national population to reach 22 million by 1980 and 50 million by the year 2000.

ONCE IN CENTURIES
NEW YORK (UPI) — In 1940, Easter fell on March 24. Since the introduction of the Gregorian Calendar in 1582, Easter fell on March 24th just once before, in 1799. There will be no Easter on March 24 until the year 2391.

Mother 'settled' the issue: she left the room without argument; Beth put on her slacks.

Streisand Special Friday

Barbra Streisand, who will star in her own special, "Barbra Streisand And Other Musical Instruments," to be broadcast Friday, Nov. 2 (9-10 p.m.) on Channel 9-11, is today a household name.

Television certainly helped her in her rapid upward climb during the 1960s. Three shows won over viewers: "My Name is Barbra," "Color Me Barbra" and "Barbra Streisand: A Happening in Central Park." Otherwise, apart from guesting on other shows, she has made her way into the household-name category through the theatre and the cinema.

Miss Streisand gained a Hollywood Oscar for her performance as Fanny Brice in the film of "Funny Girl," which she played on the stage as well, both on Broadway and in London.

But it was not sufficient for the off-beat Brooklyn girl to win an Oscar. She had to cause something of a sensation in doing so because she shared the triumph with Katharine Hepburn, and it was only the second time in Oscar history that the prize had been shared.

Barbra Streisand is that sort of a girl.

A favorite adjective to describe her is "kooky." But she's a "kook" only in jargonese manner. Behind it all lies a very shrewd and talented girl. Co-producers of the "Other Instruments" show are Gary Smith and Dwight Hemion. Interviewed separately, both came up with exactly the same reason for her success: Her love to work and her love of perfection.

Barbra hasn't reached the top by chance, and if there is one thing she's proud of, it is that she has attained stardom without having her nose fixed, her teeth capped or her name changed (well, almost; she dropped the middle 'a' of Barbara in a sort of thumb-to-her-nose gesture when asked to change her name).

She agrees that she is not oil painting and doesn't conform to any of the beauty attributes so commonly considered to be essential for stardom. It's her personality and her talent that count.

Somehow, because she comes from Brooklyn, people have the impression that she has struggled up from nowhere, but the fact is that she had a comfortable - enough upbringing. Her father was a teacher.

She was born on April 24, 1942, and was performing by the time she could take steps far enough to reach her mother's lipstick. She sat in front of the television set and copied the commercials. Though she never had an acting, singing or dancing lesson, she proved that she needed none.

Agents weren't interested in her at first, but they took note when she won an amateur talent contest which took her to New York's Bon Soir club, and that in turn took her into a musical revue titled "Anything Evening With Harry Stoones," an off-Broadway production which, far from reaching Broadway, lasted just one night.

More club work, including New York's Blue Angel, preceded her return to the stage in the Broadway musical "I can Get It From You Wholesale." Miss

Streisand won personal acclaim for her performance, a Tony nomination and the New York Drama Critics Award for "best supporting actress."

She also married the show's leading man, Elliot Gould, though the marriage is now in a state of suspended animation.

She recorded an album, and it was a hit. She performed at the White House for President Kennedy and later for President Johnson. Then in 1964 "Funny Girl" opened, and the girl whose voice had been said could make a ballad sound as if it were being played on a mighty pipe organ was there in a big way.

Her interpretation of the life of Fanny Brice won wholehearted acclaim from audiences and critics alike. Later, London fell at her feet when she appeared there in the same show. And the film took the world by storm.

Television success followed, with a multi-million - dollar contract with the CBS Television Network granting her full creative control over her television specials.

In recent years, apart from her best-selling albums, she has spent most of her time in movies.

Success, she is reported to have said, is like having 10 melons and eating only top half of each one. She can afford that.

Peggy Counts Added 'Firsts'

International championship skating star Peggy Fleming has many firsts to her credit.

Eighteen first place championships, to be exact.

Now she has another "first" coming up - a TV first, "Peggy Fleming Visits the Soviet Union," a presentation of the "Bell System Family Theatre" filmed entirely on location in the USSR and featuring top Russian performers. It will be colorcast Sunday, Oct. 28 on Channel 6-7, (8:30-9:30 p.m.).

Actually there are a dozen "firsts" connected with this production, according to executive producer Bob Banner and producer Dick Foster:

-The first co-production of an entertainment special by an American company and the USSR.

-The first filming of an American star performing in the Moscow Circus and with the Moscow Ice Ballet.

-The first filming of the Kirov Ballet for United States television.

-The first time American and Soviet cameramen worked jointly on an entertainment production.

-The first filming for United States TV of the Moscow Puppet Theatre.

-The first filming in a USSR recording studio.

-The first United States TV production ever scored in the USSR under the direction of an American conductor and using the Soviet Television and Radio Symphony Orchestra.

-The first such TV special to be telecast simultaneously in both the United States and the USSR (same day and local time).

-The first TV filming within the Palace of Catherine the Great.

-The first filming of a musical production number on the frozen Bay of Finland.

-The first filming of the original Andreev Balalaika Orchestra for Western Television.

-The first time Soviets have scheduled special performances for the exclusive purpose of filming portions of this special.

Peggy performs her opening number, "Midnight in Moscow," at the Yublani Stadium in Leningrad. She is seen next skating on a frozen reflecting pond adjacent to the Palace of Catherine the Great, with the Corps de Ballet and featured skaters of the Moscow Ice Ballet performing the "Festive Overture."

Martyr's Profile On Sunday Program

The "Directions" series profiles Father Maximilian Kolbe, Polish priest and martyr who has been beatified by the Roman Catholic Church on "The Man Who Said, 'Yes' to Life," SUNDAY, OCT. 28.

The program is in connection with the Catholic Church's 1973 Respect Life Program and features the film, "Victory in Death," about the life of Father Kolbe. Also included on the program is a conversation with John Cardinal Krol, Archbishop of the Philadelphia Archdiocese and President of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops. Cardinal Krol is interviewed by News Correspondent Bob Young concerning the Roman Catholic Respect Life campaign.

"Victory in Death," produced by the Copernicus Society of America, tells the story of how father Kolbe gave his life to save a man under unusual and moving circumstances. While a prisoner at the infamous Auschwitz concentration camp during World War II, Father Kolbe substituted himself for a fellow prisoner who had been selected for death. Pope Paul VI has called Father Kolbe "probably the brightest and most glittering figure" to emerge from "the inhuman degradation and unthinkable cruelty of the Nazi epoch."

Born in a small Polish village in 1894, Father Kolbe had an early calling to the priesthood. He was ordained after completing studies at the Gregorian University in Rome. He was the founder of the Militia of Mary Immaculate, an organization devoted to reverence for the Virgin Mary and opposition to war and self-indulgence.

Travel With Make A Wish

"Make a Wish," the children's series, takes young viewers to New Orleans to march with a jazz band composed of teenagers and to the Silver Springs (Fla.) wildlife refuge to search out alligators, wild monkeys and other residents of the national landmark preserve, Sunday, Oct. 28.

The journeys are part of the Peabody Award-winning program's study of the many meanings and associations of two key words, "heart" and "silver."

In the opening segment host Tom Chapin, singer-guitarist, notes there are people with "a lot of heart," and one of them is Danny Barker, a jazz musician who is helping young blacks to retain their heritage of jazz music and to make new contributions.

GLENN CORBETT guest stars as an ex-football player, and Jenny Sullivan plays the girl he pursues after he has had his wife killed, in "Divorce - Murderer's Style," the second hour of suspense on "The Mystery Double Feature: Mannix Barnaby Jones," starring Buddy Ebsen as private detective Barnaby Jones, Sunday, Oct. 28 (8:30-10:30 p.m.) on Channel 9-11.

WILDERNESS KING — Wab, a giant grizzly bear, turns to defend himself against his enemy, rancher Colonel Pierson (Chris Wiggins), in this dramatic scene from "King of the Grizzlies," a first

- run motion picture that comes to television Sunday evenings, Oct. 28 and Nov. 4, on "The Wonderful World of Disney," on Channel 6-7.

Giant Star A Giant Task

The star of Walt Disney Productions' "King of the Grizzlies," a first-time movie now airing on "The Wonderful World of Disney," is a seven-year-old, 10-foot tall, 1300-pound bear named Big Ted.

Because the giant grizzly could never really be trained for his movie debut, his handlers set up a six-month conditioning course to accustom him to react to simple commands. It required patience, understanding, and lots of candy. Ted had a weakness for sweets.

The film, which is the sensitive story of a Cree Indian and his friendship with a grizzly in the Canadian Rockies in the late 1800s, was made in 1968. In the big dramatic scenes that called for Ted to stand on his hind legs and growl fiercely, his animal handler would give him verbal cues and eventually Ted would raise up to his full 10-foot height. Of course after such a trick, Ted naturally wanted to be rewarded. A jelly sandwich was the answer and just as quickly as it was tossed to him, it vanished in his cavernous mouth.

Off-camera, Big Ted amused himself by chasing cows. He loved to chase them only if they kept moving. Once they ran out of breath and stopped, the bear lost interest in his little game.

One of the most interesting aspects of the filming of "King of the Grizzlies" concerned not the bear itself, but the men who trained him. Winston Hibler, a producer with 23 years of hard-learned experience with animals, knew he faced his toughest problem in getting the bear to act in the first place.

DOUBLE DUTY FURNITURE

Double duty furniture has never lost its popularity, and now there is more of it than ever. This is probably true because these pieces are perfect in 20th century homes, which are often cramped and short on space. They solve a multitude of decorating problems and are great values, since they function as several pieces, yet take up only the space of one. One of the favorites is the wall unit that provides storage space for many things, and often has a built in desk, as well as drawer space. It brings distinction to the area.

Our carpet collection will bring distinction to your home or business. Let us show you the way. Eastern Carpet Inc., 602 West Greenville Blvd., Greenville. 756-1944. "Where There's Always A Sale."

Miss Hamilton Avers Wicked Witch 'Dead'

Even though several generations of children know Margaret Hamilton as the wicked witch of "The Wizard of Oz," Miss Hamilton insists: "The witch is dead. She melted at the end of that film."
 More than 30 years later, Margaret Hamilton is seen — not as a green witch but a nosy neighbor who thinks she sees little green monsters — on "Sigmund and the Sea Monsters," Saturdays (11-11:30 a.m.) on Channel 6-7.
 Miss Hamilton has turned down countless offers to play the wicked green witch since 1939, when "The Wizard of Oz" was released. She said: "I suppose I've turned down a fortune too, but I just don't want to spoil the magic. Little children's minds can't cope with seeing a mean witch alive again."

 She says only once did she play a character similar to the green witch and that was in "The Life of Hans Christian Andersen." "I played an angry woman, not a witch," she said, "but even though I refused the green makeup, the lights and costumes made me look very much like the character of the Oz movie."
 "Many times," she said, "I see mothers and little children and the mothers always recognize me as the witch. Often, they say to the kids, 'Don't you know who she is? She's the witch in 'The Wizard of Oz!'" Then the kids look so disappointed and say, "But I thought she melted." It's as though they think maybe I'm going to go back and cause trouble for Dorothy (Judy Garland) again."
 Miss Hamilton appeared in her first motion picture, "Another Language," starring Robert Montgomery and Helen Hayes, in 1933. When she got the role in "The Wizard of Oz," she had no idea it would become such a classic.
 She said: "There was a jitters scene that was taken out of the film. I asked why and they told me they didn't want to date the film. I asked, 'How long do you think it will last?' and the answer was, 'About 10 years.' I thought this was an overly optimistic attitude but the film has outlived nearly everyone associated with it."
 Of the headliners in the cast, she said, only Margaret, Ray Bolger, and Jack Haley survive. All of them still get requests for photographs and autographs from Oz fans. Margaret estimates she sends over a thousand photos each year.
 At 70, Miss Hamilton has enjoyed a long, enjoyable career as an actress. She has appeared in nine Broadway plays, including "Fancy Meeting You Again" and "Dark Forest," as well as off-Broadway and regional theatre plays.

WON'T PLAY WICKED WITCH — Margaret Hamilton, who appeared as the Wicked Witch in the classic movie, "The Wizard of Oz," says she won't revive the character despite persistent requests. Miss Hamilton appears as a nosy neighbor on "Sigmund and the Sea Monsters" series, colorcast on the NBC Network Saturdays on Channel 6-7.

Among her 70 film credits are "State of the Union" and, more recently, "Brewster McCloud." She has appeared in many TV shows as well as TV commercials.

Matthau And Bergman In Comedy Film

Walter Matthau and Ingrid Bergman star in "Cactus Flower," a comedy to be colorcast on "NBC Monday Night at the Movies" Oct. 29 (9-11 p.m.) on Channel 6-7. Co-star Goldie Hawn was named Best Supporting Actress for her role in this 1969 release.

Playboy-dentist Julian Winston (Walter Matthau) makes a habit of telling his girlfriends he is already married to ward off any ideas they might have about matrimony.

His receptionist-nurse, Stephanie (Miss Bergman), aids Julian in his deception and manages to run his dental office and bachelor life smoothly.

Hospital Care Is Reviewed

Hospital care - how good is it? The question will be examined in depth by doctors and other men in medicine in a wide-ranging discussion of contemporary hospital practices and treatment in a special program entirely devoted to the subject, on "The Dick Cavett Show" on "ABC Wide World of Entertainment," Tuesday, Oct. 30 (11:30 p.m.-1 a.m.).

Cavett's guests for this program include Dr. Henry Barkowitz, resident physician at Jacobi Hospital, Bronx, N.Y.; Dr. Harry Levy, currently not practicing medicine, but serving as an advisor at Mount Sinai Medical Center, New York City; and Dr. Sidney Wolf, Director of the Health Research Group, affiliated with consumer protectionist Ralph Nader's activities in Washington, D. C.

Additional guests for this special program will be announced later.

Monday, Oct. 29 - Preempted for ABC's "NFL Monday Night Football."

Wednesday, Oct. 31 - Jimmy Hoffa, the former labor leader; attorney Melvin Belli, and Charles Ashman, author of "The Best Judge Money Can Buy."

Thursday, Nov. 1 - Representative Wayne L. Hays, outspoken Ohio Democrat; Helen Gahagan Douglas, the former California Congresswoman who was defeated by Richard Nixon in a contest for a Senate seat in 1948, and author and playwright Gore Vidal.

Friday, Nov. 2 - Simon Wiesenthal, known as "the man who found Adolf Eichmann," and who has also tracked down scores of other Nazi war criminals from a headquarters in Vienna, and Rod Colbin, noted fencer.

Severinsen To Host Special

Doc Severinsen, one of the music world's best-known trumpet soloists and conductors, will host the New Year's Day special, "Doc Severinsen's Rose Parade Preview," to be colorcast Tuesday, Jan. 1 (10:45-11:30 a.m.).

The program, originating in Pasadena, Calif., will follow the colorcast of the 25th annual Junior Orange Bowl Parade from Coral Gables, Fla. The specials will kick off NBC-TV's special New Year's Day holiday schedule, which includes live colorcasts of the 85th annual Tournament of Roses Parade and the Rose Bowl and Orange Bowl football classics.

In addition to serving as host of "Doc Severinsen's Rose Parade Preview," Doc also will perform on the 45-minute special.

BARBARA RUSH, as the star of the daytime serial in which Dick Preston (Dick Van Dyke) also stars, is enraged when she reads in a gossip column that he said she kisses like a dead mackerel, on "The New Dick Van Dyke Show" Monday, Oct. 29 (9:30 p.m.), Channels 3N-9-11.

Jim Brown In Taut Drama

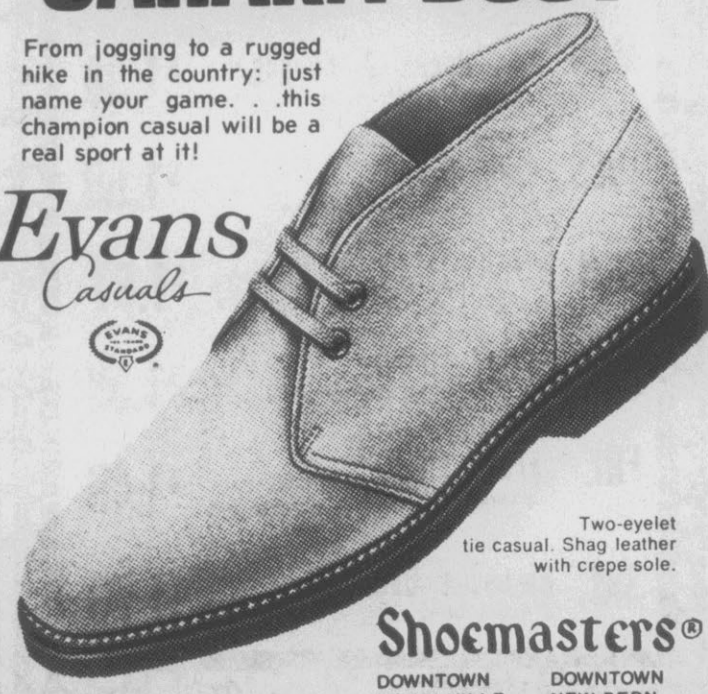

Jim Brown and Academy Award-winners George Kennedy and Fredric March star in "... tick... tick... tick...", powerful topical drama concerning the explosive results of a political change in a southern community, in color on "The CBS Late Movie" Tuesday, Oct. 30 (11:30 p.m.) on Channels 3N-9-11. Lynn Carlin and Don Stroud co-star.

After a deep southern county goes to the polls for the first time since the black community has been enfranchised, without getting a single white vote, a black man, Jimmy Price (Brown), is elected sheriff. But, facing the antagonism of whites who refuse to accept a black sheriff, and blacks who seek to foment racial hatred, Price finds himself on the rim of an explosive volcano. Kennedy plays the deposed white sheriff trapped between honor and duty and the reality of conditions. March portrays the town's iron-willed mayor, who becomes the caustic catalyst for a formidable alliance.

Barbara Eden A Worker

Barbara Eden is an actress who believes in working. She also believes that you can't always be a winner.

"You can drive yourself insane by trying to pin down whether a role is absolutely right for you before you do it," the beautiful blonde who used to delight audiences by coming out of a bottle on "I Dream of Jeannie," explained recently. "You can also waste a lot of time pondering these decisions, time that could be better spent acting."

Barbara's method is to decide that a proffered role has merit and jump right in and do her best with it. "I could spend a lot of time at home thinking about game plans and deciding just where my career is going and how a role fits in with my career, but I don't."

"Take this character, Francine," she said, referring to her starring role in "Guess Who's Sleeping in My Bed?," airing on "Wednesday Movie of the Week,"

'Chase' Is Traditional

For American movie audiences, the "chase," much like a bag of popcorn, has been a staple part of the filmgoer's diet.

Starting back in the earliest film days, cowboys have been chasing Indians. Robbers have been chasing speeding trains while being chased by bands of deputies and lawmen. Boys have been chasing girls, and girls have been doing their share of man-chasing.

Good guys in every shape and form have been chasing and have been chased by an infinite variety of bad guys.

But few moments of film chase scenes have kept the audiences quite so close to the edge of their chairs as the car-chase scenes that thrilled both critics and audiences in "Bullitt," the taut action-thriller on "The CBS Thursday Night Movies" Thursday, Nov. 1.

Director Peter Yates, the man behind all the motion, outlines exactly what tools he had to work with to create what one critic called a "screeching sports-car slalom over the Frisco hills."

First ingredient was the organization. "Action has to be choreographed," explains the director. "You have an awful lot of people who have to organize things. When you're talking about action, you're talking about really considerable organization. It also involves the lives of the people taking part, and in this case it was Steve McQueen himself, so obviously everybody felt they had a very large investment."

Added to total organization is the elusive ingredient of chance. The director has to be prepared for the filmically exciting unexpected: "You still leave yourself freedom, as a director, for the things that might happen," says Yates.

Oct. 31 (8:30-10 p.m.). "All I can say is that she's a marvelously kooky lady and I had fun playing her. How she would fit into a career game plan, I couldn't say."

Miss Eden, at first, was going to turn down the role. "I thought it involved too little action on my part and too much reacting," she explained. "Francine is a fall guy. Then I decided it would be fun to do, especially playing broad. Then I made the major decision...not to second guess myself. That way, you can clear your mind and get down to the basics of how to approach a character."

That still left a problem. How do you portray a girl who allows her ex-husband, played by Dean Jones, to move back into her house along with his new wife, their baby and their dog?

"As a victim of course. Francine is a beautiful victim," Barbara explained. "She's good-hearted and lets people, expecially her ex-husband, take advantage of her. It's a fun role and I think I've won one."

'Ordeal' Not All Acting

The dramatically rugged beauty of Red Rock Canyon in the Mojave Desert of California serves as the Arizona background for "Ordeal," the "Tuesday Movie of the Week" drama, airing Oct. 30.

The 90-minute film about a man's fight for survival against the elements of nature stars Arthur Hill, Diana Muldaur and James Stacy.

It's a complete change of characterization for Hill, who stars weekly in the title role of "Owen Marshall, Counselor at Law." Instead of his usual impeccably-tailored suits and well-groomed appearance, he wears dirty, tattered slacks and shirt and an ever-increasing growth of beard.

Red Rock Canyon was chosen by producer William Bloom and director Lee H. Katzin because it was the only area they could find that looked realistically like an Arizona desert.

"We searched in Arizona for weeks," says Bloom, "but all the desert areas there were so green, from heavy rainfall, that we couldn't use them and we ended up 90 miles from Hollywood."

Travel into the location site was no cinch, however. As Red Rock Canyon is a state-owned park, it is against the law for any company or individual to build roads into the area. To get to the top of the hill seen in the movie, drivers had to follow in the tracks of the preceding car—and pray a little.

In the key role of a ruthless businessman who is abandoned by his wife and her lover after he is injured in a fall, Hill is left to die on a narrow shelf with a 400-foot drop.

It was an experience neither Hill nor the crew will soon forget. "The cameras and all members of the crew wore safety ropes," Hill recalls.

In another sequence Hill had to lie face down at a waterhole for 45 minutes while various kinds of wildlife, including a deer, a raccoon, a goat and a skunk, ran around. They finally got the shot with an assist from the star who yelled at the fidgety raccoon to stand still.

During the filming Hill also came face to face with a gila monster and some chuckawallas (king-sized lizards).

When the drama opens, Hill is fat and flabby. To achieve this look, his cheeks were puffed out with sponge rubber and his clothes were three sizes too large and well padded. As the drama progresses, smaller size slacks and shirts were worn.

Maharis To Guest Star On 'Shaft'

George Maharis has been signed to guest star in "The Meat-Eaters" episode of "Shaft" starring Richard Roundtree.

McEachin Likes Role In Tenafly

It seemed inevitable that James McEachin eventually would become an actor.

He had tried just about everything else. He had been a clerk, soldier, fireman, policeman, writer, song writer, recording executive, janitor and at one point a cutter in a brassiere factory.

McEachin was born in the small town of Pennert, N. C., but grew up in Hackensack, N. J. The youngest of four children raised by his mother (his father died when he was a child), he enlisted in the Army at 17.

McEachin served for six years, part of the hitch in Korea where he suffered serious combat wounds.

Now Jim is playing a new kind of black private eye, and he's happy about it.

"The role is tailor-made for me," he said. "It's not 'Shaft.' Tenafly has a human quality. He is basically the guy next door, and I play him that way. He's not far away from McEachin. And he has a family. It's important to have a black family on TV. There hasn't been a black family on TV with a father-figure. And he's not a comedian, he's a real father. Actually, it's more than just a black family. It's a family."

McEachin stars in the 90-minute private eye drama "The Cash and Carry Caper" on the "Tenafly" segment of "NBC Wednesday Mystery Movie" Oct. 31 at 8:30 p.m.

"The series parallels so many things in my own life," said McEachin. "I was a cop in New Jersey for four years. Tenafly, the name of the character, is also the name of a city in New Jersey.

"Tenafly is not God's gift to the detective agency," McEachin concluded. You can walk up to him and talk to him. He's accessible. He likes his family but as in every home, there are irritations. He likes people.

An Ovation For Sammy

Anyone want to buy a recording of an ovation? See Bob Wynn, producer-director of "Sammy Davis Starring in NBC Follies."

Sammy Davis Jr. won the standing ovation, from a capacity studio audience in a tension-filled situation.

The occasion was Sammy's throat-straining medley of Anthony Newley-Leslie Bricusse hits for the "Follies" show of Thursday, Oct. 25.

The medley, running 7 minutes and 43 seconds, includes "Once in a Lifetime," "Gonna Build a Mountain," "On a Wonderful Day Like Today," "Who Can I Turn To?," "Talk to the Animals" and "What Kind of Fool Am I?"

It also includes a note — the A almost two octaves above middle C. Sammy went through the entire medley, but Wynn called for a retake because of technical difficulties with the sound level.

Sammy took a deep breath, then sailed into the medley a second time and got almost through it—before tripping on the rapid-fire lyrics of "Talk to the Animals," next to the last tune.

Cat Stevens In TV Debut

Cat Stevens, the rock music singer-songwriter superstar, will make his national American television debut on "In Concert."

The event will also mark the first American concert performance in a year's time for the British singer.

The "ABC Wide World of Entertainment" bi-monthly rock program will devote its entire 90-minute show, to be broadcast on FRIDAY, NOV. 9 (11:30 p.m. - 1 a.m.), to the music of Cat Stevens. Along with Stevens, a number of surprise guests will perform his works before an audience of specially invited guests at the Aquarius Theatre in Hollywood. Among the numbers Stevens will perform is his 18-minute-long "Foreigner Suite," from his current hit album, "Foreigner."

Stevens stated that he selected "In Concert" for his national American TV debut because he favored its style and the wide stereophonic simulcast.

Portable Camera At Jamboree

A revolutionary new mobile camera, the PCP-90, is helping new action-oriented Saturday children's series, "GO," live up to its title.

George Heinemann, Vice President, Children's Programming, says that the lightweight, portable tape camera offers a flexibility and production potential never before realized in television.

"We can get into areas that were once physically inaccessible due to size and weight of our equipment or power needs. Now we are totally mobile and self-contained with our own generator.

"Another major advantage," he continued, "is that we can see our tape right after it's shot, something you cannot do with film."

"GO" and the hand-held PCP-90 have been on the go since the premiere of the series this season. To date, the camera has rolled from a 38-foot speedboat, a police car, a horse, a drag racer, a motorcycle, a helicopter and an open-cockpit airplane and has "walked" a single-strand tightrope.

Different In Private

Gale Gordon, who has mastered the blustery, pompous characterization better than almost any other performer in television, is, in person, poles apart from the Uncle Harry role he plays on "Here's Lucy."

The strident, Uncle Harry voice becomes soft and subdued when he speaks off-camera. And his manner is the exact opposite of the overbearing foil he becomes for series star Lucille Ball's humor.

Gordon is actually a mild-mannered gentleman given to pensive moments. Yet, within his calm demeanor lurks the animated actor who has given radio and television such memorable stuffed shirts as Mayor Latrivia of "Fibber McGee and Molly," Principal Osgood Conklin of "Our Miss Brooks," and Harrison Carter of "Here's Lucy."

What is his explanation for the two vastly different Gordons?

"Long ago I learned early to get away when I leave the studio. To me, acting is a job, and a very nice way to make a living. But I don't believe in taking my dramatic mannerisms home with me.

Trapped Boy In Film Story

A boy is trapped underground with an unexploded World War II German mine in the suspense-adventure film from England, "Countdown to Danger," which has its American television premiere on "The CBS Children's Film Festival" Saturday, Nov. 3 (1-2 p.m.).

While on holiday on the island of Alderney, the boy accidentally falls through a rotting roof into an old German mine store and is trapped. Attempting to free himself, he dislodges a mine which begins to tick ominously. When his young friends learn of his plight, they try to locate a bomb-disposal officer who, unfortunately, is vacationing on the island of Guernsey.

When the officer eventually arrives, he opts to let the boy disarm the mine himself. Success appears to be achieved until a critical situation is encountered and a desperate gamble must be undertaken.

Burr Tillstrom's Kukla, Fran and Ollie with Fran Allison are hosts of "The CBS Children's Film Festival."

Stardom For New Packer

Every season football fans witness the phenomena of the trade. Often when a player is traded, he is reborn. His career as a professional athlete obtains a new dimension as he is transposed from mediocrity into stardom.

MacArthur Lane is a player who has experienced that phenomena which can generally be associated with a trade. The change in total environment from the St. Louis Cardinals to the Green Bay Packers has been the primary factor in converting his relatively dismal career into that of an All Pro.

At Green Bay, Lane was teamed with the Ohio State super star John Brockington (the first man in the history of the NFL to get over 1,000 yards in his first two seasons) to form the most productive running tandem in the NFC. In addition to being one of the most powerful one-two combinations in the NFL, these two stars have become close personal friends off the field. Their comradeship and willingness to block for each other is a significant factor in their success. Of the 2,128 yards gained by the Packers on the ground last season, Brockington and Lane accounted for 1,848 of those yards.

Lane's contribution to bringing the Pack back goes beyond his powerful rushing which accounted for 821 yards last season; he also caught 26 passes for 285 yards. For his efforts in 1972, MacArthur Lane was named Green Bay's Most Valuable Offensive Player.

As MacArthur enters his sixth pro season at age 31, he is determined to do his part to get this young Packer team into the Play-offs.

TALL STORY ABOUT SHOES

Platform shoes are "in," but the ones worn by Alejandro Rey in the movie, "Money to Burn," are ridiculous. They weigh 40 pounds and have not only four-inch platforms, but also metal soles for walking on a magnetized metal ceiling in a safe-breaking scene.

Greene Is Far From 'Average'

When opposing coaches prepare for the Pittsburgh Steelers, their biggest problem is sprawled on the cover of the Steeler 1973 Media Guide. That problem is big, mean Joe Greene who at (6-4, 275) has the grace of a big cat and the inertia of a freight train at full throttle.

With Joe's 4.8 speed in the forty, he is literally all over the field and most of the time in the opposition's backfield.

Mean Joe Greene doesn't think he is "mean". "The image that the name portrays doesn't really fit," said Joe. "I don't think that I've been mean, but because of it, I have received a lot of undue publicity."

If Joe is not mean, then he's just extremely rough. It should be noted that the people who play in front of him labeled him mean, while his coaches consider him a very easy-going, coachable young man.

When discussing Greene's impact on a game, Oakland Raider Head Coach John Madden said, "He can completely dominate a football game. He's one in a thousand, a big strong guy with speed who just happens to hustle like hell."

Greene was generally acclaimed as the top defensive lineman in the NFL in 1972. In addition to being selected as the NFL Defensive Player of the Year by AP and UP and AFC lineman of the year, he won the George Halas Trophy as the NFL's Most Valuable Defensive Player. Despite these and other accolades, Joe is not overly pleased with his performance.

"I have not proven to myself the potential I think I have," said Joe. "I'm not satisfied and I don't believe I will be until I'm the best there is. I guess I'm something of a perfectionist in that respect. I know what I want but I feel that I won't be happy until I'm completely satisfied. And anything short of perfect is average."

When it comes to football, mean Joe Greene couldn't be average if he tried, but with his determination and enthusiasm he just may achieve the degree of perfection he is seeking and be without doubt the best defensive tackle there is.

Will Conduct And Narrate

Michael Tilson Thomas will conduct and narrate "Piano vs. Orchestra," with the distinguished young American pianist Misha Dichter as soloist, in selected movements from three concertos for piano and orchestra on the New York Philharmonic Young People's Concert to be presented Sunday, Oct. 28 (6-8 p.m.) on Channel 9-11.

To illustrate the "contest" that can take place between a keyboard artist and a symphony orchestra in performing a piano concerto, Thomas utilizes a trio of perennially popular works: Brahms' Second Concerto for Piano and Orchestra in B-flat major, second movement; Beethoven's Concerto for Piano and Orchestra No. 4 in G major, second movement; and Rachmanioff's Concerto No. 2 for Piano and Orchestra in C minor, third movement.

MEAN JOE GREENE (No. 75) heads for the Cincinnati Bengal's signal caller Virgil Carter (11). The Pittsburgh Steelers will meet the Cincinnati Bengals, Sunday, Oct. 28 at 4:00 p.m. on Channels 6-7.

New Season For 'The Electric Co.'

"The Electric Company" opens its new season on television with a strong report card, a new superhero cartoon character and new techniques designed to encourage its young viewers to read more by talking back to their TV sets.

The Emmy-award winning series, created and produced by the Children's Television Workshop, makes its debut this year October 22 on the more than 230 stations of the Public Broadcasting Service against a background of growing popularity and critical acceptance by students and teachers and achievement in teaching basic reading skills.

A nationwide study of the show's impact conducted by the Educational Testing Service found that children who watched the program in the classroom made significant gains over non-viewers in the skills taught on the program. And another survey of classroom use reports increased adoption of the series by schools.

A highlight of the third season will be a continuing serial featuring an animated cartoon hero named Letterman who will appear in a daily cliffhanging episode. Voices for the cartoon will be supplied by Joan Rivers, Zero Mostel and Gene Wilder.

This season the educational TV series, watched regularly by an estimated 6.5 million youngsters across the country — half in school and half at home — will employ a new method to get its viewers to read even more. It involves using sophisticated electronic techniques such as computer-generated words that float across the screen and a silent movie method, a throw-back to the Charlie Chaplin era, of print plus silence to encourage the viewers to read the dialogue aloud.

Repeating Ann Margaret

"Ann Margret — When You're Smiling," the one-hour music-variety special that marked the entertainer's first headline TV performance following injuries she suffered in a nightclub accident last fall, will be repeated on Sunday, Oct. 28 (9:30-10:30 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

The special, based largely on material from Miss Margret's nightclub act, will be part of a "Multi-Special Night" on NBC. It will be preceded by "Peggy Fleming Visits the Soviet Union" (8:30-9:30 p.m.).

RIDING HABIT

Andrew Milner, son of "Adam-12" star, Martin Milner, will do some stunt minibike riding in the series-upcoming episode, "Northeast Division."

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR KURT VONNEGUT, JR., writer

In some of your novels you write about a science-fiction author, Kilgore Trout. Is he supposed to be you in real life?—Carol Sawicki, Linden, N.J.

● Kilgore Trout is the lonesome and unappreciated writer I thought I might become. There is still plenty of time for me to become him. So far, I have done a lot better than he has. I have had shoals of relatives around me, and I have been reasonably prosperous. In the worst year I ever had, I made $7,000. In the best year Trout ever had, 1953, he took in $209. He still speaks of 1953 as the year he hit the jackpot. He is modeled after a character in Mark Twain—a man who wrote secretly and hid his life's work in a trunk. The trunk and its contents were destroyed after the man died. Nobody ever read a word he wrote, and yet he was allowed to lead the parade of writers, Shakespeare and all the rest in Paradise.

FOR VALERIE HARPER

(Rhoda Morganstern of "The Mary Tyler Moore Show")

Do you mind being second banana to Mary Tyler Moore on her show?—F. A., Van Nuys, Calif.

● Not at all. First of all, Rhoda Morganstern is a marvelous part. She's funny, she has problems, she has a wide range of emotions. And I love playing her. Also, I see the pressures that Mary is under day after day, and I don't see how she does it. I don't think I would want that.

FOR KENT McCORD, Officer Jim Reed in "Adam-12"

You have such a clean-cut image on the "Adam-12" TV show. Do you really enjoy having your hair cut so short and clothes always neat?—B. Walters, Petersburg, Va.

● When I don't work on the set, like during summer layoff, I let my hair grow pretty long. The last time I even grew a beard. One of the reasons that's nice is because I can go around without anyone recognizing me.

FOR SEN. ALAN CRANSTON (D-Calif.)

Did Abe Lincoln have the same financial problems you folks cry about in running for Congress?—M. B., Hartford, Conn.

● Hardly. When Abraham Lincoln ran for Congress in 1846, his supporters raised $200 for his campaign. He won—and gave back $199.25, saying: "I did not need the money. I made the canvass on my own horse; my entertainment, being at the houses of friends, cost me nothing; and my only outlay was 75 cents for a barrel of cider, which some farmhands insisted I should treat to."

FOR ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

How did you and your twin sister Ann Landers both get into the advice column business? What is your maiden name?—D. T., Ann Arbor, Mich.

● It's not surprising that Ann Landers and I should both pursue the same career since we are identical twins and were exposed to the same influences and had the same backgrounds and education. Our maiden name is Friedman.

FOR BOBBY RIGGS, tennis player

Aren't you exaggerating a little when you say you take over 400 vitamins a day?—Lynne Schaefer, Novato, Calif.

● I am a great believer in vitamins. I know over 400 seems like a lot to be taking in one day, but actually it isn't, because I take them three times a day, and package them ahead of time. It seems like very little to be doing for all the benefit I derive from them.

FOR SUSAN SAINT JAMES of "McMillan & Wife"

On your TV show, you sometimes wear a San Francisco 49ers shirt to bed. The shirt has Gene Washington's No. 18 on it. Any special reason?—Pam Lake, Willow Street, Pa.

● I asked for the No. 18 because Gene Washington is my favorite player, and the 49ers complied.

FOR BEATRICE ARTHUR, star of "Maude"

How do you feel about several critics' comments concerning the moral status of "Maude"? Do any of the lines in the script offend you in any way?—E. Adams, Greenville, N.C.

● No, I wouldn't say anything on the show offended me. We rehearse for a week before the show is taped, so we have all that time to express our feelings about the lines—and those feelings have always been respected.

FOR SEN. BIRCH BAYH (D-Ind.)

Marijuana, heroin, sopers, LSD! Are young people staying away from liquor at least?—H.S., Medford, Ore.

● No, they certainly aren't. Recent studies show that alcoholism is escalating among young people. One study found that one teenager out of every 20 has a drinking problem. The National Council on Alcoholism reports that in 1972, the age of the youngest alcoholic who came to their attention dropped from 14 to 12.

FOR ED McMAHON of "The Tonight Show"

Is it true you and Johnny Carson hit it off the moment you met? Do you really get along as well as you seem to on camera?—Russell Smith, Durham, N.C.

● I first met Johnny about 14 years ago when he was looking for an MC-announcer for a game show. We didn't strike any sparks, and I thought I had bombed. A month later I got the word that I was hired. It's sometimes tough for me to convince people that Johnny and I get along so well, and so I often answer the question with another question: "Do you think we are such good actors we can give the impression that we like each other when we don't?" If we didn't like each other, we wouldn't have stayed together this long.

Mutts' Lib:

Yes, There Really Are Reasons Why This Group Is Setting Up a Howl For a Fair Shake. Read On.

By Alan D. Haas

And now, in this era of revolt, we give you Mutts' Liberation, perhaps the last great cause on behalf of a downtrodden minority. Some 30 million mongrel dogs have at last found a voice (or is it a growl?) and seek the same privileges as their pampered purebred counterparts.

Instead of wagging their way through life at the low end of the canine social scale, mixed breeds are demanding blue ribbons, dog shows of their own and free access to those snobbish grooming salons that discriminate in favor of poodles, Afghans and the privileged haute monde of dogdom.

Their champion and spokesman is James Draper, of Merrick, Long Island, who has formed the American Mixed Breed Association to give mutts "the status that has for so long been withheld by society."

The mixed-breed underprivileged according to Draper, are prepared to withhold love and affection from their masters until and unless their programs are given serious consideration. Their revolt is based on the claim that they outnumber purebreds 30-to-1 across the U.S., and in a democracy they are entitled to more goodies than they are getting. If they don't achieve their rights soon, Draper says, mutt-pack leaders are prepared to march on city halls around the country and leave behind unspeakable souvenirs of their discontent.

"Not only are mixed breeds more populous, but they are more lovable, more affectionate and more gentle than pedigreed dogs, and they don't need special diets or as much medication," says Draper, yapping for the country's largest canine constituency. The AMBA already has several hundred members, and is growing in numbers as fast as a pet-shop window at Christmas. A $3 membership fee brings a certificate acknowledging the dog's "exemplary devotion, obedience and love for mankind." A Mutt-of-the-Year contest and other status-raising activities are in the works for the near future, as the hybrids emerge from their hiding places in the social swamps.

James Draper, champion of American mutts, with his wife Irene, son Kevin, and "mutt" Sandy.

"Instead of wagging their way through life at the low end of the canine social scale, mixed breeds are demanding blue ribbons, dog shows of their own and free access to snobbish grooming salons. . . ."

American Kennel Club) feel about this new militancy among second-class citizens of dogdom? "Any group can form any type of dog association that it likes," says R. H. Carlberg, AKC vice president, with indulgence seeping from every pore. "We can't control such things." However, it is clear from his tone that it will be like baying at the moon for mixed breeds to seek acceptance among the higher echelons of the dog world. The AKC lists 116 registered breeds, "with others knocking at the door." Mutts may have their snouts pressed against the window but they are not about to be admitted to those hallowed halls.

But Draper says the mixed-breed population doesn't care about full integration, only a bigger, fatter share of the horn of pet plenty.

The AMBA is fighting for better protection for mixed breeds from dog-napping, which has reached near-epi-demio proportions. "We want state legislatures to raise penalties for such crimes," says Draper. "If mutts are to enjoy the benefits of democracy, then they should not be afraid to walk the streets at night — always leashed to their owners, of course. Too many dogs today live in fear, and that isn't even a dog's life." Draper wants it known that the clenched paw has been raised, and that in the future, mongrels will defend themselves and their homes from invasion by hostile forces.

Through Draper, mutts are also incensed about the death rate their brothers and sisters encounter on U.S. highways. They want more protection from their masters, who carelessly let them roam free on streets and roads. Another bone of contention is the way guard dogs are treated—often chained and left out in all kinds of weather, given inadequate food and water. "There is no such thing as a bad dog,"

Here's What Mutts Are Demanding

Some other things that dogs from the wrong side of the tracks want, according to Draper, who has owned three mutts of his own:

- meatier dog food;
- more homes for strays;
- laws protecting them from abandonment and from being locked in hot cars on beach days;
- better treatment from dog farms that sell to pet shops.

To build a new and better image for mixed breeds, the AMBA is planning to fight on many fronts: a quarterly newsletter telling about dog heroism and calling for needed new legislation; regional shows for mutts, including obedience demonstrations and the awarding of blue ribbons for outstanding mongrels; pressure for more adoptions and less slaughter of homeless dogs at the ASPCA's, etc.

says Draper, "only dogs that have been mistreated, abused or neglected." Dogs will continue to drop out and become wild unless their masters give them more tender, loving care.

The AMBA will rightfully be growling, too, about how pets are shipped to pet shops in glove-tight containers, without much food and water, or medical care.

Mixed-breed dogs are not inferior, agrees the Encyclopaedia Britannica. It says: "First-generation hybrids between pure breeds show a great deal of vigor and are usually more healthy and hardy than either parent breed. They sometimes become outstanding working or hunting dogs." Facts like these are well buried by the media, according to Draper. "Did you ever go into a pet shop and try to buy a booklet or pamphlet about the proper care and handling of a mutt?" he asks. Nothing there. Just racks of instructional material about cocker spaniels, terriers, dachshunds, etc.

All dogs, he continues, belong to a single species, Canis familiaris, part of a genus that includes wolves, coyotes and jackals. After they were domesticated, dogs were selected and bred for various traits of appearance and behavior. Thus did discrimination originate. Unable to choose their parentage, mutts have been considered nothing to bark about in canine circles. But all that may well be about to change.

Jim Draper, who is dedicated to delivering dogs from bondage, had his first mutt, Sidney, when he was a GI stationed in Germany. Sidney was run over and killed, but Draper, an ex-insurance company executive, replaced him with Gus back in the States. His present dog, Sandy, is a half-terrier of half-unknown origin. Sandy has a platform of his own; he is pushing for vacant lots to be set aside for dogs to romp in and for defecation purposes, when the need arises.

If you want to join the fight for canine equality and express undiluted praise for not-so-purebred dogs, write to James Draper, Box 202, Garden City, Long Island, N.Y. But write soon. Fido's patience is wearing thin.

"Men, and probably women, too, do experience a distinct psychological crisis at around age 40. It has nothing to do with menopause, and only a little to do with the physical effects of aging. But, for better or worse, it changes every man who passes through it."

What Hits a Man When He Hits 40?

By Don A. Schanche

The idea of a male menopause, or "climacteric" as doctors call it, has been around since antiquity, but until recently there was no scientific evidence to support it. Yet almost every man who has lived through his mid-40's has experienced some kind of climactic crisis at that time, and wondered why.

Even young men have come to view the prospect with uncertainty, at best, and dread, at worst. The heroic poet Lord Byron, for example, looked forward with loathing toward middle-age, which, as it turned out, he never reached. "The dreary frontier of age," he called it. ". . . That horrid equinox, that hateful section of human years, that halfway house."

Byron may have over-dramatized it, but psychologists are learning that there is more than a grain of truth in what he feared. Men, and probably women, too, do experience a distinct psychological crisis at around age 40. It has nothing to do with menopause, and only a little to do with the physical effects of aging. But, for better or worse, it changes every man who passes through it.

In fact, the mid-life crisis is but one in a long stairway of critical developmental periods that alter our lives, according to Dr. Daniel J. Levinson, a Yale psychologist who for the past four years has been leading a research team in the first systematic study of the phenomenon.

The earliest of these critical periods already has been charted punctiliously by child psychologists. They range from the so-called Terrible Two's of late infancy to the sexual growing pains of adolescence. But until Dr. Levinson and a few other psychologists and psychiatrists started investigating the matter, most people thought that these developmental stages ended with childhood. Life after adolescence was thought to be a winding, but largely uninterrupted, pathway toward old age.

Actually, according to the experts, the path of adulthood is probably more like a bumpy trail leading up the face of a precipice from which, at any of a number of way stations, one might fall off.

The most critical of these pauses along life's climb, they say, is the one that comes at around age 40, give or take a few years. Dr. Ken Rogers, another psychologist who has studied the problem in London, New York and at Cleveland State College in Ohio, believes it is to blame for many of our most upsetting problems. Statistics have long shown that the years between 35 and 45 are times of especially high risk for suicide, divorce, extramarital affairs, career dislocations and accidents, among other lamentable events.

That, Dr. Levinson says, may explain why some men of great youthful promise, such as the poet Dylan Thomas, kill themselves as they reach 40. He also believes it may explain why such towering geniuses as Picasso do some of their best work after 40, because, conversely, the mid-life crisis can help them to grow.

Mrs. Charlotte Darrow, sociologist member of the Yale team, which also includes two other psychologists and two psychiatrists, likens the mid-life crisis to a man's "horizon." "It is a kind of crest in life," she says, "from which he can look back as well as ahead, and the vista can be troubling."

As he reviews his successes and failures, and anticipates further challenges in the future, he pauses to size himself up. He may not do it consciously, but his subconscious mind will do it for him. He "feels" the weight of disparity between what he once fancied that life held in store for him and what it has produced.

The experience may be devastating, or it may be as exhilarating as a second wind to a long-distance runner. More often it will be something in between. In any case, it will change him, say Dr. Levinson and his colleagues.

One of the 40 human subjects in the four-year Yale study, for example, was a novelist who had often dreamed of fame and artistic success, yet had fallen short of achieving either. At about 39 he began to suffer from a dawning awareness of the disparity between what he had once hoped for and what he had achieved. The resulting emotional turmoil led to strange yearnings, including sexual fantasies. He considered radical changes in his life, but in the end he settled on only one—a complete change of attitude.

"I feel a weakening of the need to be a great man and an increased feeling of, 'Let's just get through this the best way we can. Never mind hitting any home runs; let's just get through the ball game without being beamed,'" was the way he expressed it.

Another subject was a successful corporation executive who tossed away a brilliant management career to work entirely on his own when the vague anxieties of mid-life reminded him that he had not found the independence of which he dreamed as a youth. Still another went off the deep end of self-despair, left his wife, and landed first in jail, then in a hospital.

Each of the subjects was between 35 and 45 when the Yale study began, and it was Dr. Levinson's intention to concentrate solely on how they weathered the then hypothetical mid-life crisis. But as depth interviews and analysis progressed, it became clear to the researchers that there had been several critical developmental stages in each life, not just one at the midpoint. Although the men's life-styles varied widely, from that of blue-collar laborer to prize-winning biologist, the patterns of crisis were similar.

At some time around age 28, the young man enters a period of transition that begins to prepare him for the second major stage of adulthood. He may move, change jobs, leave his wife, or find a wife, but in the end, at around 32, he enters the stage called "Settling Down." The phrase means what it says: He makes a firm adult commitment to his career and accepts the responsibilities of building his life, including home and family, around it. If he doesn't, says Dr. Levinson, "his chances of forming a rea-

Now, medical science has the power to say to you: Follow these 3 simple steps, and BEGIN YOUR "MIDDLE YEARS" AT 70, 80, EVEN 90!

Announcing — an incredibly simple, medically proven, overwhelmingly documented ANTI-AGING program that is designed to:

- give you the lean, glowing look of a youngster past sixty . . .
- retain the strength and grace and power of a trained athlete in your body beyond your seventies . . .
- and keep you in vibrant good health till ninety or more . . . even if you feel "rotten" today . . . even if your mother or father died far too young of diseases that are STILL carried in your bloodstream!

Yes, This Medical "Youth-Building Program" is so Strong That It Can Even Overcome Poor Heredity!

It is so strong, in fact, that it may actually make you look twenty or more years younger than your parents did at the same age . . . at the same exact time that it enables you to live thirty or forty years longer than they did!

We realize, of course, that these facts may seem virtually impossible to you at this moment . . . until you are shown the new medical techniques by which these goals are attained! They are:

1. The most powerful "age-reversing mechanism" known to man . . . which takes exactly six minutes per day . . . may be done by any man or woman, no matter how poor their health today . . . and which is bluntly recognized by one of the leading physicians in this book to give far better "youthifying" results — far faster — than even "cell therapy" treatments costing hundreds of dollars apiece!

2. A direct attack on the stored-up emotional poisons in your body that eat away strength and youth like internal acid, and replace them with never-flagging fatigue! This incredibly simple technique drains out those poisons, and that deadly fatigue, in approximately ten of the most revivifying minutes you have ever spent!

And, finally —
3. A new way to lose weight — not a diet — designed to change your present suicidal eating habits in exactly 48 hours! And, to break at last the vicious fat-multiplying cycle inside your body, that causes you to put on more weight, from less food, than your thin friends.

Let Us Repeat Again: These Medical Techniques Are So Powerful That They Actually REVERSE THE AGING PROCESS — WITHOUT DRUGS!

They cause you, quite simply, to grow stronger and not weaker, as you grow older! And here is the medical documentation to prove it:

In tests conducted at a leading University and Medical School in Southern California, it was discovered that life-prolongation, accomplished this way, not only added decades to potential human life spans, but — even more important — also produced vastly increased vitality and vigor, as well as startlingly heightened resistance to dread "senile decline!" (Reported on page 129 of this thrilling new book.)

As a result of scientific observations and experiments conducted in several different locations in the United States (as well as in Europe and Soviet Russia), it was definitely established that these techniques will enable almost any individual to live beyond 90 . . . and even beyond 100 healthy, productive, thoroughly enjoyable years — even if he or she had tragically short-lived parents or grandparents! In other words, disastrous heredity can now be overcome! (See page 36.)

At a leading Gerontology Research Center on the Pacific Coast, its president bluntly stated that a single one of the techniques given to you here had (in essence): ". . . reversed the aging process and over a period of time restored the characteristics of youth to the bodies of middle-aged men!" (See Page 129.)

And one of his colleagues, discussing the same simple procedure, went so far as to state that it: ". . . relieves joint stiffness, lowers the blood pressure, and reduces the amount of fat in the body tissues. It acts like a miracle drug, and it's free for the doing!" (Italics ours — see page 130.)

But All This Research Documentation Is Only The PROLOGUE To The Real Meat Of This Revolutionary New Book! FOR NOW THE YOUTH-RESTORING PRINCIPLES LEARNED ALL OVER THE WORLD ARE PUT TO WORK — INSTANTLY — FOR YOU!

How to lose weight without counting calories — by harnessing the same exact forces which made you overweight in the first place! (It is not unusual, with these methods, to lose 15 and more pounds the first week — up to 10 pounds the second week — and a good hundred pounds or more, in as little as 15 weeks. And the weight stays off — for decades!)

How to add 10 . . . 20 . . . perhaps even 30 glowing years to your life, simply by avoiding the everyday "Life-Traps" that make you grow old too fast!

How a careful examination of your eye can tell you, with unerring accuracy, if you've eaten the wrong foods that night for dinner . . .

and therefore have to give them up for a few days till your body's digestive powers restore themselves to the correct balance!

Little-known-stress-on-the-heart Number 1 . . . that kills unwary thousands every year . . . and can be prevented simply by reading a single sentence on page 70!

When you must eat . . . and eat . . . and eat if you really want to lose weight!

"Hungry enzymes" that now infest your body! They are the real reason all past attempts to peel off ugly fat have been such torture for you! And you can "command" your body to destroy them — for good — as simply as this! (See page 82.)

Why most people's muscles simply "melt away" as they grow older! (No wonder "old age" to them means ever-growing weakness!) And how you can stop that muscle-melting process overnight . . . and replace it with vibrant new strength!

And More! And More! And More! Like This —

What really causes vigor to drain out of the "aging" body! A simple fluid that if the body gives up too much of, it then dies of old age! And how you can "pump that vital cell-nourishing fluid" right back into your body . . . actually increase your body capacity to utilize by as much as 133% . . . in just a few thrilling minutes every day!

How to exercise your heart! Anyone — no matter what age — can do it! And prevent the greatest tragedy of all — premature heart attack!

Read the line in the middle of page 144 as though your life depended upon it! Because, if you've ever worried about killing your own heart through the worst possible error you can make — this one line will show you how to avoid it . . . forever!

World's easiest exercise program — for men and women who are pitifully out of shape!

How to avoid the man-made diseases! And save your body, and your nerves, at exactly the same time!

What your sleep, or lack of it, is really telling you! And how to ease yourself into a good night's rest again!

What your fingers tell you that can save your life! Listen to them . . . obey their command . . . and you may be able to out-run your own youngster!

If your blood pressure is soaring, you must do this, right now!

World's most effective weapon against demolished nerves! Gets you back to loving life, instead of hating it, in just about ten blessed minutes!

No more nervous breakdowns! And no more un-necessary heart attacks (or strokes!) The technique shown to you on page 197 may banish them from your life — for good!

How to add ten years to your life, by avoiding one little fatal mistake — at night! Before you go to sleep!

How to laugh at old age — at least till you're ninety! A simple program so effective that it may actually cause strangers to think that you are your best friends' grown children!

And Yours To Prove — In Its Entirety — For 30 Days, Entirely At Our Risk!

The choice is yours. This is a book for people who mean business. It costs you nothing! We take all the risk! Fair enough? Why not send in the coupon — TODAY!

SPECIAL ADDED BONUS SECTION

How to survive a heart attack! Why so many heart attacks are the "silent" type, that kill without the victim even being aware he has been seriously ill before! The one warning signal you simply CAN'T ignore! Why HALF of all heart attack victims ACTUALLY KILL THEMSELVES because they just don't know what to do!

What Hits a Man When He Hits 40?

sonably satisfying life structure (and one that can evolve with his further development) are diminished."

Sometime between 36 and 39, he enters another transitional stage, one so profound that scientists have given it the disquieting name, BOOM, for "Becoming One's Own Man." It can be as explosive as it sounds. He is approaching the brink of Mrs. Darrow's "horizon" and the prospect is unsettling. Among other things, he begins to chafe at the constraints and dependencies that have become a part of his "Settling Down" period.

If he's a middle-management man, he feels lost in the company crowd. A factory worker is tired of being told what to do by his foreman. The writer is sick of his critics.

At home he rejects the "mothering" that he once welcomed, even invited, from his wife. He seeks more independence in all of his relationships.

Many married men choose this time to act out their feelings by having affairs with other women, usually young ones who do not have the maternal aura that makes the erring BOOM sufferer feel like a little boy. Others just think about it. Either way, the wife often senses that her husband's libido is searching elsewhere for gratification. Since she usually doesn't understand the crisis that he is undergoing — and may, in fact, be going through exactly the same kind of crisis—their marriage explodes.

"During the BOOM period a man wants desperately to be affirmed by society in the roles that he values most," says Dr. Levinson. "At about age 40—somewhere in the 39 to 42 interval—most of our subjects fixed on some key event in their careers as carrying the ultimate message of their affirmation or devaluation by society."

One of the Yale subjects, for example, wrote a best seller. Another was graduated from a blue-collar job to one that he expected to lead to middle management within two years. Both felt a sense of affirmation, but it was accompanied by uncertainty, because neither of these watershed events quite lived up to what the men had hoped.

At that point they had reached the fourth, and most critical, of adult developmental stages, the "Mid-Life Crisis." It was time to ask themselves, consciously or unconsciously, whether the affirming event, and all that went before it, was really uplifting, or if it was simply another of life's disappointing put-downs.

During this period, what one psychiatrist has called "the internal noise of private anxiety" often becomes so loud that a man gets a distorted sense of what is going on around him. His work may suffer. His intimate relationships may deteriorate. If he has been chafing under his wife's mothering through the BOOM period, he may choose the mid-life crisis to break away from her completely. Or he may just think about it and satisfy himself with fantasies. In any case, he has to find a way to live with the discomfort, or pain, of recognizing the disparity between what he has gotten out of life and what he hoped he would get. No matter what he does, however, he comes through the crisis, in a year or two, a changed man.

"The internal noise of private anxiety often becomes so loud that a man gets a distorted sense of what is going on around him. His work may suffer."

"Even if nothing in his external life changes, the man does," contends Dr. Levinson. "He cannot return to or simply remain in the earlier life structure. Even if the structure stays relatively intact externally, inevitably there are internal changes that give it a different meaning."

When this happens, the man is moving into the post-crisis stage, which the Yale research group calls "Restabilization and the End of the Mid-Life Decade." In effect, this is another and more durable period of settling down that begins at around 45 or so.

If he does what most of the men who reached it in the Yale study seemed to do, he will keep the same marriage, the same job and the same external way of life. But inside he will begin putting his emphasis on the parts of his life that are fulfilling and, like the novelist who didn't want to get "beamed," avoid or de-emphasize the ones that are not.

Thus many men, perhaps most of them, seem to use the "climacteric," or mid-life crisis, as an occasion for reappraisal, renewed commitment, renaissance and growth, rather than sad resignation. For them there is a silver lining on the other side of what appears, in the midst of it, to be a very dark cloud.

WONDERFUL GIFTS—FOR COLLECTORS AND INVESTORS TOO; EACH PRODUCED IN A LIMITED SUPPLY—WHEN GONE, THERE WILL BE NO MORE!

Rare Limited Edition Collector Plates:

Marvelous Decorations and Excellent Investments as Well!

Every limited edition plate on this page is for the collector with an eye for beauty and an instinct for value. Some are hand made, some hand painted, and some serially numbered—all are superbly crafted. Each is truly an exquisite masterpiece from a world famous art plate maker such as Bing and Grondahl, Royal Copenhagen, Haviland, and Goebel Hummel.

IT'S A WELL-KNOWN FACT that some limited collector's plates are excellent investments but you have to know which ones to buy. We sold the 1969 B & G Mother's Day Plate at $9.00 and today, it is worth up to $275.00. We sold the 1970 Haviland Christmas Plate at $25.00 which now sells for $150.00 and the Goebel Hummel 1971 annual that we sold for $25.00, now brings up to $175.00.

WHAT ARE LIMITED EDITIONS

Each year quality companies like those represented here, produce a limited number of a specifically chosen plate before destroying the mold. Because the demand for these beautiful plates usually exceeds the supply, many "sell out" and become hard to find. As a result, prices rise.

We've sold many in recent years that have increased in price by over 500%.

Plate collecting isn't a new hobby, either. Bing and Grondahl of Denmark produced their first dated Annual Plate in 1895 and have produced one every year since. That 1895 Plate, by the way, sold for 50¢ and is currently worth $2700. More and more Americans are starting plate collecting not only because they make great decorations but because they are good investments and future antiques too.

SPECIAL BONUS: As an incentive for you to buy a collector's item from Joy's this month, we offer the following bonus: When you order any item from this ad, you may also order one 1971 Bing and Grondahl Mother's Day Plate at only $5.95. This famous original B & G "Pussycat" plate sells for around $20 and is hard to find. We're offering this rare plate to you at less than wholesale because we want you to see our beautiful limited edition items. Offer, of course, subject to previous sale, so please order today.

Extra SPECIAL BONUS: A one-year subscription to our renowned Joy's Newsletter, absolutely FREE, when you order any item from this ad. Each month we have many different Limited Edition items of superb quality and we send our members a Joy's Newsletter with pictures and information on these collectibles. You'll also be able to watch how your own plates grow in value. Joy's also pays all postage, handling and shipping charges for any order. If you'd like to try a sample newsletter, please send 25¢ and we'll send you one immediately.

So why not start your collection today, with an order to Joy's, one of America's largest first plate dealers, for one or more of these outstanding plates. (And don't forget, they are Christmas Gifts that will be remembered). Since quantities are strictly limited—please order early.

Ann-Margret:

Pictorial Parade

Ann-Margret: "I can't bear to be separated from Roger."

"I Like Being Dependent on a Man"

"You won't see me going to many parties. It's hard for me to go among strangers. I have the same friends now that I had when I came to this country."

How does a beautiful star feel after a 25-foot fall that resulted in five facial fractures, a broken jaw and a broken left arm? How does it affect her physically and emotionally? At her Benedict Canyon home in Beverly Hills, I found Ann-Margret as attractive as ever, though a bit more made up than before—and a lot more nervous.

FAMILY WEEKLY: Do you have any after-effects from your accident?

ANN-MARGRET: Well, I'm a bit shaky. The left side of my face is still a bit numb, and once in a while I lisp a little. And when I smile, my right side smiles and my left side becomes a bit crooked.

FW: How long do you think it will take until you have recovered fully?

ANN-MARGRET: The doctor told me six months to a year.

FW: What do you remember most of the accident?

ANN-MARGRET: I still have nightmares of the floor coming up at me as I fell. I'll tell you one thing—you won't ever see me on any platforms any more. Never. Ever.

FW: Why did you go back to work so soon after it happened?

ANN-MARGRET: Roger [Ann-Margret's husband, Roger Smith] didn't want me to open so soon. Neither did my mother or dad. But it's like being in a plane crash or a motorcycle accident. You've got to do it as quickly as possible or you may never do it, and that's why I went to the Las Vegas Hilton last November—to prove to myself that I wasn't afraid to face an audience again.

FW: Did you ever have a motorcycle accident?

ANN-MARGRET: Yes. Four years ago. I smashed into a car. I didn't break anything—but I was sure bruised. Still, two days later I was back on my motorcycle.

FW: Do you ride motorcycles now?

ANN-MARGRET: No. The doctor grounded me for a year.

FW: You've been married to Roger quite a few years now. Are you surprised it has lasted so long?

ANN-MARGRET: I was the first person to say it wouldn't last! In fact,

The Fun Begins When The Lights Go Off!

Christmas Ornaments Glow in the Dark, Cost Five Cents!

Won't Shatter, Wear Out, or Burn Out! Guaranteed!

(HOLLYWOOD) Now, for the first time you can decorate your Christmas tree with the amazing new and improved Magi-Glo ornaments that "come to life" when the lights go off!

Glow and Float in Space!

These unique gold, silver, red, green and white ornaments add a festive spirit to the most elegant tree, under ordinary lighting conditions. But listen to the delighted gasps of surprise when you turn the lights out!

Then, in total darkness, your Magi-Glo ornaments continue to glitter, gleam, and glow and give the illusion of gently floating in space!

Won't Wear Out or Burn Out!

Magi-Glo ornaments will brighten your Christmas, year after year after year! That's because your Magi-Glo ornaments can't wear out or burn out! Magi-Glo's microscopic energy units can be charged and recharged indefinitely! And they require no batteries or electrical connections!

Wonderful, Magical Figures!

Designed by American artists, produced by American craftsmen, Magi-Glo designs embrace all the traditional, wonderful, magical figures of Christmas: Cuddly Santa Clauses! Darling Christmas angels! Sparklings stars! Delectable candy canes! Shimmering Christmas trees! Gleaming candles! Caroling bells! And many more!

Discovery is "Accidental"

A TV and motion picture producer accidentally discovered the secret process that makes this spectacular effect possible, while investigating special effects for a science-fiction movie.

Researching phosphorescent materials, he found the only known methods of application (hand painting and silk screening) were often unsatisfactory and always costly. However (because he didn't know that it "couldn't be done") he developed a new method using high speed lithography and injection moulding.

Then, inspiration! He realized that his secret process would make it possible to produce stunning Christmas ornaments. They'd glow in the dark, yet cost less than ordinary ornaments!

Shatterproof Ornaments!

Next, he ruled out breakable materials, so even the youngest member of the family could share the thrill of trimming the Christmas tree. The final choices included specially treated shatterproof materials (durable enough for outdoor display!) as well as metallic laminates on heavy stock.

Excited by the enthusiastic comments of his normally blasé movietown friends, he arranged for exclusive distribution by a reputable mail order firm.

Set of 72 Only $3.50!

The successful result is the availability of Magi-Glo ornaments that glow in the dark with radiant, luminescent color! And they are priced so low that you can decorate your tree lavishly, use them as stocking stuffers, table decorations, and party favors—or even trim Christmas packages you want to "outshine" the rest!

A deluxe assortment of more than 72 individual Magi-Glo ornaments, (averaging over 3 inches in height!), is bargain-priced at only $3.50. That's less than five cents apiece! And quantity discounts make Magi-Glo ornaments ideal for Christmas gifts. You save $1 on each additional set!

Magi-Glo ornaments are the perfect gift for the people who deserve "something more" than just a card!

Magi-Glo's Guarantee

the slim hip-pocket secretary for men

Carry more in less space with no bulge in your jacket or hip pocket. A bound, removable sleeve of transparent holders will display a gallery of credit cards, licenses, photos, membership I.D.'s, etc. You'll also find pockets for business cards, stamps, tickets or whatever. A flip-up telephone/address directory is indexed for 120 listings. Both visible and hidden compartments will accommodate your cash, checks and personal papers. Custom crafted in deeply textured vinyl, it is strong, stain-resistant and feather light, but soft as expensive leather. For a final personalized touch, we include your initials FREE in 14Kt. gold plate and gift boxed.

Style 672 is available in two popular colors: BK-Black BR-Brown

AN $8.00 VALUE FOR ONLY $3.75 POSTPAID

2 for only $6.80 (You Save $.70) 3 for only $9.45 (You Save $1.80)

This new fashionable, personalized French purse with its many exclusive accessories is an incredible organizer. The ingenious yet beautiful design means an end to pocketbook confusion — everything is neatly at your fingertips so you can find it promptly when you need it. Textured craftsmanship on supple, washable vinyl looks and feels like expensive natural grained Italian leather, but is lighter, far more durable and stain-resistant.

All 3 convenient sections have been reduced to a feminine 4¼ inches x 6¾ inches, and safety-snap closed with polished brass clasps.

We also include FREE your initials in 14Kt. gold plate, together with a slim Sheaffer slip-in pen . . . all gift boxed.

Imagine the following conveniences!

COMPARTMENT SECTIONS

1. A roomy, safety-snap compartment for change, cosmetics and other personal items.
2. Flip-up telephone/address directory, indexed for 120 listings.
3. Perforated and replaceable memo pad.

both Roger and I said it wouldn't last.

FW: Then why did you get married?

ANN-MARGRET: We decided to try it because we had such a rough time traveling together when we were not married. You know, checking into hotels and things like that. So we decided we might as well give it a try.

FW: Roger is an actor, producer, writer, manager—what most of all?

ANN-MARGRET: Roger manages only me. But his prime function is writer first, then producer, then manager.

FW: What about his role as a husband?

ANN-MARGRET: Oh, naturally that comes first!

FW: In addition to Roger, you have a business manager, lawyer, agent, publicist—don't you feel like a machine that is being manipulated?

ANN-MARGRET: Not really. I like being properly looked after.

FW: Don't you mind having people run your life for you?

ANN-MARGRET: My father ran my life when I was a child, and then I had a manager named Bobby Rogers. There's always been a man in my life who has managed me.

FW: Do you like being completely dependent upon a man?

ANN-MARGRET: That's the way I want it! I've never tried it on my own. I don't want to. I hope I never have to.

FW: Do you ever get restless?

ANN-MARGRET: I used to. When I did, I'd leave Roger for a couple of days and wouldn't tell him or anyone else where I was going.

FW: Didn't Roger worry when you took off like that?

ANN-MARGRET: The first time I did it, he had the Los Angeles and Beverly Hills police looking for me! When I found out, I came back. After that I called him from wherever I went when I got there. Now, of course, I can't bear to be separated.

FW: You have been quoted as saying you don't want any children. Why?

ANN-MARGRET: That's wrong. I'm dying to have a child, but I'm terribly afraid of dying.

FW: You said your father ran your life for you. Did he or your mother talk you into show business?

ANN-MARGRET: My mom and dad knew I was interested in singing, and they wanted me to have singing and dancing lessons. But they didn't force them on me. They thought it was good for my shyness. It made me meet people. But my mother was never what you could call a stage mother.

FW: When you were little, what did you want to do when you grew up?

ANN-MARGRET: I always wanted to perform in nightclubs! I don't know where I got the idea, but that was always my aim.

FW: If you were so shy, how could you do the nude scenes in "Carnal Knowledge"?

ANN-MARGRET: Believe me, it was very, very rough on me to do it! I am very reserved. To me, nudeness is a sacred thing, something between a man and woman. But I am an actress, and it was an integral part of the story, and so I did it.

FW: Was that the first time you did a nude scene?

ANN-MARGRET: No. Roger wrote one into "C.C. and Co.," which was made before "Carnal Knowledge."

FW: And he talked you into doing it?

ANN-MARGRET: Yes, he did. Because he thought it was necessary for the film.

FW: If you are so shy, do you have a hard time showing emotion?

ANN-MARGRET: Yes. I am a very private person. It is hard for me to work with new people, although I enjoy meeting them. When I first came to the United States from Sweden when I was eight, I never spoke unless spoken to.

FW: How does your shyness show?

ANN-MARGRET: Well, you won't see me going to many parties. It's hard for me to go among strangers. I have the same friends now that I had when I came to this country. Of course, there are a few new ones, but not many.

FW: I can't help noticing that you wear such a big diamond. It might make Elizabeth Taylor jealous! When did you get it?

ANN-MARGRET: It's the engagement ring Roger gave me. He designed it.

FW: Do you like diamonds?

ANN-MARGRET: Do I! I love the way they sparkle! And to me they are a very special investment. That's where I put my money. I am like a child with diamonds and furs. They really turn me on!

FW: After all you have gone through, what do you want out of life?

ANN-MARGRET: To work. I like the feeling of making people happy.

FW: That's why I want to entertain.

What's Behind the

"Collectors are a funny breed; though we may be offered a 1,000 percent profit on our treasure, we are very reluctant to part with it. I have yielded to the temptation to sell in the past—only to have to pay a much higher price later to reacquire the item I sold."

Goebel Hummel's Christmas plate, which sold for $25 in 1971, fetches $175 in today's market.

Although the collecting of china and porcelain plates is enjoying a boom market these days, it is by no means a new hobby.

In fact, it is several hundred years old.

Porcelain plates first came to Europe from China, and porcelain was so rare in earlier times that it was regarded more highly than precious metals—or even diamonds and emeralds. The inventive Germans "discovered" the formula for making porcelain in the 18th century and they set up several plants in Furstenburg and Dresden.

It was the custom in both the 18th and 19th centuries in Europe for friends and relatives to exchange plates filled with cookies and fruits at Christmas-time as gifts commemorating the birth of Christ. These plates were kept or "collected" as mementos of a joyous season. Because of collectors, some of the earliest examples of European plates were saved from being lost.

But how did the collecting of

In 1895, the Bing and Grondahl Co. of Denmark had the bright idea of producing a dated Christmas plate showing a Danish Christmas scene.

These plates were handmade and hand-painted in the now-famous cobalt-blue-and-white sculpted design. They were underglazed and fired in kilns. And what a success story they turned out to be! They were so popular that every year since 1895 there has been a new plate each Christmas. The manufacturers intentionally produce a limited number each year and refuse to make any more after that—thus creating a low-supply and high-demand situation. If your great-grandparents had had the foresight to buy a few of those 1895 plates for 50 cents each, you could sell them today for about $2,500 apiece.

Royal Copenhagen, another well-known Danish porcelain maker, took a good look at the success Bing and Grondahl was having. Result: Royal Copenhagen decided to start its own

Craze for Collecting Plates?

By Gordon Brantley

series of Christmas plates in 1908. Although the first plate made by Royal Copenhagen brings around $1,400 today, their 1911 small Royal Copenhagen Christmas plate can bring as much as $5,000—that is, if you can find one for sale.

In recent years, other quality makers of porcelain and crystal have begun to manufacture annual or Christmas plates. The rise in prices paid for these plates has been spectacular—but nevertheless, it has happened. A well-known tennis-pro friend of mine bought a Lalique Annual Plate for his wife for $25—back in 1965. Imagine her surprise when she saw it offered for sale recently at $1,000!

The renewed interest in plates, and their current rise in popularity, began in 1969, when the Wedgwood Company of England offered a Christmas plate at $25 and the Bing and Grondahl company offered a Mother's Day plate at $9. They were sold out in no time and today command prices of $250 for the 1969 Bing and Grondahl Mother's Day and $200 for the Wedgwood Christmas plate.

You may well ask how realistic these prices are. Although the plates are commanding high prices today, will the upward trend continue? Just how safe an investment are plates, anyway? Of course, no one can predict the future. But let's look back 30 years at the 1943 Royal Copenhagen Christmas plate (up from $5 to $450) and the 1943 Bing and Grondahl Christmas plate (up to $175). It seems likely to me that the Bing and Grondahl or Royal Copenhagen Christmas plates you buy today will be worth much more in the future.

Collectors are a funny breed; though we may be offered a 1,000 percent profit on our treasure, we are very reluctant to part with it. I have yielded to the temptation to sell in the past—only to have to pay a much higher price later to reacquire the item I sold.

What advice would I give a budding collector looking for his first limited-edition collector plate? First and foremost, buy what appeals to you, buy what you think would look nice Haviland-Parlon's "Unicorn" plate has more than quadrupled in price, going from its original $35 to its present price of about $150.

Gordon Brantley, an avid collector, is a leading authority on limited-edition figurines and collector plates.

This... is the L&M moment.

hanging on your wall or standing in your china cabinet. Most of my collector friends buy only what they like. If their plates increase in value, that's just an extra plus. Secondly, buy only from a reputable dealer who gives you return privileges if you're not satisfied with your purchase. A good dealer will only carry limited editions that he thinks have the necessary quality the collector will desire. The manufacturer of the plate should be well-known and should have a good reputation. You'll find plates of quality made by Goebel Hummel, Schmid Hummel, Haviland, Haviland-Parlon, Cristal D'Albret, Wedgwood, Gorham China, Hamilton Mint and Franklin Mint, among others.

Try to find out the number of plates that were made in an edition. An issue must not be too large, but enough plates must be produced to provide for a "secondary" market. Haviland-Parlon, for example, produced a "Unicorn" plate in a quantity of 12,000 pieces that sold out at $35 and now commands a price of $150 in the secondary market. (Their Christmas plate is even rarer; since only 5,000 plates were made, the edition is almost impossible to obtain.) Many collectors like plates by famous artists or commemorating famous people. Franklin Mint's Norman Rockwell Christmas plates have soared in value, as have the Hamilton Mint Picasso plates. You can still buy Gorham China's Rockwell offering of "Butter Girl" at less than $20.

Why the boom in plate collecting? First, it satisfies the human desire to collect things of beauty—and you don't have to be rich to take part. You can pay as little as $10 for a quality collector plate or as high as $1,400 for a work-of-art collector plate. Second, plates are excellent decorative accessories as wall hangings and represent a way to beautify a room in your house. Third, plate collectors find their hobby educational—they learn something about the plate-maker as well as the country from which the plate comes.

Many plates have been good investments and have been considered a hedge against inflation. Still, there is no guarantee that they will continue to double and triple in value every year. So there must be better reasons for collecting. There are. Many plate collectors now are forming clubs and buying plates because they enjoy their aesthetic beauty. And besides the joy of ownership, they have a new form of social activity and a chance to meet the other "plate nuts" of the world.

Smart Cooking

This week, Food Editor Marilyn Hansen makes "packet" dinners. "Once you fix these dishes in their individual foil wrappers, you can use them anytime. Right now—or after you freeze 'em, for Sunday, Monday or Tuesday dinner. They are handy to use also if family members are eating at different times."

Fix Chicken in Foil: Then You Can Cook—Or Freeze

Chicken goes from freezer to oven to table in foil packets. Here's the completed dinner.

- Cranberry Juice with Orange Sherbet
- Chicken-in-Silver*
- Cucumber, Tomato and Lettuce Salad
- Whipped Gelatin with Sliced Bananas
- Coffee Tea Milk

*Recipe given

Water

- 1 egg
- 1 1/4 teaspoons seasoned salt
- 1/4 teaspoon garlic powder
- 1/8 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1 bag (24 ozs.) frozen stew vegetables, unthawed
- 2 cans (8-oz. size) tomato sauce
- 1 envelope (3/4 ozs.) brown-gravy mix
- 1 tablespoon Worcestershire sauce
- 1 bay leaf, crumbled

CHICKEN-IN-SILVER

- 1 broiler-fryer (2 1/4 lbs.), cut in half
- 2 large carrots, cut into 1-inch pieces
- 2 medium potatoes, peeled and quartered
- 1 cup frozen peas, unthawed
- 1 teaspoon salt
- 1/4 teaspoon ground black pepper
- 1/2 teaspoon thyme leaves
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine

1. Tear two pieces of heavy-duty foil, about 16x18 inches, off roll. Arrange chicken and vegetables, sprinkled with seasonings, in center of foil. Dot with butter.
2. Seal foil with double-fold drugstore wrap on top and sides.
3. To cook, place packages in shallow pan and bake in preheated 375°F. oven for 1 hour.
4. Or label foil-wrapped packages, date and freeze. To cook when frozen, bake in preheated 375°F. oven for 1 1/2 hours. Makes 2-4 servings

MEATBALL-STEW-IN-A-PACKET

- 1 lb. ground chuck
- 1/2 cup quick or old-fashioned oats, uncooked

1. In medium bowl combine chuck, oats, 1/3 cup water, egg, seasoned salt, garlic powder and ground black pepper. Blend with hands until thoroughly mixed.
2. Shape into 8 large meatballs.
3. Tear off four 12x18-inch strips of heavy-duty foil. Place 2 meatballs in center of each strip.
4. Arrange stew vegetables around meatballs.
5. Make sauce: In small bowl combine tomato sauce, brown-gravy mix, Worcestershire, 1/3 cup water and bay leaf. Spoon sauce over meatballs and vegetables, dividing evenly.
6. Seal each packet with double-fold drugstore wrap at top and sides.
7. To cook immediately: Place wrapped foil packets in shallow pan and bake in preheated 350°F. oven for 50 minutes, or until vegetables are tender and meatballs are cooked through.
8. Or label packets, date and freeze. To cook when frozen, place in shallow pan and bake in preheated 350°F. oven for 1 hour and 20 minutes, or until done. Makes 4 servings

People and You

Do Troubles Really Come in Bunches?

Ever have a major problem facing your family and then have one member add to everyone's burdens by having an auto accident? Friends tell you, "Well, troubles come in twos and threes." But the auto mishap isn't just bad luck. When you're under great stress—especially (1) trouble with parents and/or inlaws; (2) job or financial pressure; (3) problems in school—you have to be extra careful with your driving. All these pressures significantly increase your chances of having an accident. Also, if you have drivers ages 16-24 in your family, it's important to know that certain types of problems make this age group especially auto-accident prone. If young people are hostile toward life and the world in general, or if they've dropped out of school or are receiving consistently poor grades, their chances of adding a car mishap to their troubles shoot upward. Many parents will sacrifice heavily to help an unhappy, hostile young person buy his own car. The parents hope that somehow owning the car will help him solve his problems and will make him happier. In some instances this may work. However, families should realize that 16-to-24-year-olds who are struggling with the emotional problems we mentioned have, per 100 drivers, an average of ten more accidents and 60 more warnings and violations a year than others in their age group with no emotional problems.

If you use a laxative more than once a week...

Here's real relief from constipation

If you've been taking magnesia, salts, oils or harsh chemical laxatives once a week or more and you're still not satisfied—here's a better way to end constipation worries. Take gentle, effective Serutan. It's different!

Unlike other laxatives that may cause irritation or griping, Serutan, taken daily, forms a soft gel which moistens food wastes and shapes them into a well-formed stool. Serutan produces the proper amount of bulk needed to help bring peristaltic stimulation to your sluggish colon. This is utterly different than forcing your system with harsh chemical laxatives which may dry you out. You can take gentle Serutan every day because it is a pure vegetable hydrogel and contains no harsh roughage, no chemical laxatives. Take Serutan every day to get regular—and keep regular.

Delicious Fruit Flavor

Serutan is available in delicious fruit flavor. Get Serutan fruit flavor or unflavored powder, or toasted granules. When you read Serutan backwards, it spells "natures." And nature's way is best.

TABARIN AND NODDY
His bark is worse than his hoot

Tabarin, a Belgian terrier, and Noddy, an owl, are fast friends. Marjorie Ansell adopted Noddy from the animal welfare center where she works and he and Tabarin have become constant companions. Mrs. Ansell says, "I came into the living room one day and saw the two of them parading round. Noddy was sitting on Tab's back, looking for all the world like a general reviewing his troops. Now Tabarin seems to like giving Noddy rides—and carries him all over the house." One of Noddy's many accomplishments is his ability to bark like a dog. Staying awake while others sleep, his guard-owl potential is great. "When the dog sleeps at night, the owl is awake. If Noddy gets worried about anything, he flies into our room, perches on the end of the bed—and barks!" said Mr. Ansell, a telephone engineer. Tabarin doesn't seem at all distressed by his pal's barking. And so far, he hasn't tried to mimic Noddy. Besides, dogs just don't hoot; but then again, owls don't bark either.

QUOTE: Rosalind Russell tells us, "It always shocks young people who want to go into the theater when I tell them, 'Talent is the last thing you need.' But it's true. You can buy talent. Get a fiddle, and if you take enough lessons, you'll learn to play. More important than talent is self-discipline. It throws them when I say that! But you have to have good health if you want to do anything particularly well. I've worked with actors who are far better than I—but you can't hear them from here to the chair. They lack vitality. And you have to learn how to fail—it's no good if you haven't learned how to pull yourself up from failure. In any field there are many who can't deal with failure—from the moment they experience it, they go downhill. Failure loves failure, so these people will tell you, 'Don't bother to get up and go to a job interview, don't move your not-so-dainty behind.' They're forever pulling you with them. You have to learn to be an individual, be more disciplined, get more energy behind you, learn more, study more. Then if there's a little talent too—it's a nice little asset to have."

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY By Richard Armour

NOT GETTING THE POINT

Our house has full many a useful utensil,
But what I most need and can't find is a pencil.
I'll find one, I think, in a minute, somehow,
But it happens I've need of a pencil right now.
I've a note to take down, and it simply won't wait,
Any time but right now will be slightly too late.

Could it be that the pencil I saw lying here
Just a minute ago could so fast disappear?
Perhaps some ecologist, loose in the head,
Has grabbed it, on hearing the thing contains lead.
There are times, I would say, and to say it I'm willin',
When a pencil's as vital as, say, penicillin.

In a hitherto unreported conversation, Chairman Mao, in a reflective mood, was asked how different he felt history would have been if President Kennedy had lived and Premier Khrushchev had been assassinated instead. As an amateur magician, I have performed for large sales meetings, conventions and a wide variety of audiences throughout the United States. Recently, after performing for approximately 45 children at a birthday party, a little girl six years old came up to me and said, "You certainly had me fooled." Being happy that I had fooled her, I said, "Oh, I did?" She deflated me by saying, "Yes, I thought you were going to be good."

LITTLE EMILY

Ordinary hospital insurance won't help you here...

You need this basic kind of protection that keeps on covering you at home. Mutual of Omaha's "Wide-Range" disability income insurance that provides

UP TO $1,200.00 A MONTH | AS MUCH AS $40.00 A DAY
both IN and OUT of the hospital

Disability Income Insurance—it's probably the first and most important insurance you should own.

This basic kind of health insurance covers you when you're sick or hurt and can't work... in or out of the hospital. The little known fact is, your chances of being laid up at home are seven times as great as for hospital confinement. That's what our records show, and that's why we offer really wide-range protection like this that covers you during and after hospital confinement—covers you even if you never go to the hospital—that provides benefits over and above any hospital-surgical-medical benefits you may receive.

As the breadwinner, you can select the amount you qualify for (from $100.00 to $1,200.00 a month... up to $40.00 a day) to help replace your paychecks when a covered sickness or accident keeps you from working. These monthly disability benefits are all yours to spend as you please for any purpose you choose... yours to use for every kind of bill.

THERE ARE SEVEN REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD CONSIDER THIS MUTUAL OF OMAHA PLAN:

1. You may qualify for up to $1,200.00 monthly income benefits (up to $40.00 a day) to spend as you see fit when you're sick or hurt and can't work!

2. These disability benefits are provided both IN and OUT of the hospital!

3. Your coverage becomes effective immediately for new sickness contracted or injury received after your policy is in force. Pre-existing conditions (old health problems) will not be covered for 12 months. This applies to such conditions shown on your application and not excluded from coverage.

4. Mental disorders are covered the same as any other sickness!

5. Your policy protects you as a passenger in any kind of aircraft—even a private plane!

6. Benefits are provided for disabilities incurred both on and off the job. They are available in addition to your Workmen's Compensation or Employer's Liability coverage!

7. You have this renewal agreement: no matter how often you may receive benefits, Mutual of Omaha guarantees to renew your policy as long as premiums are paid on time. Your premium can be changed only when changed for all policies of the same form and class in your state.

Please note that the amount of the benefit, the premium, and the deductible period vary with the plan you qualify for. And that benefits are not payable for losses caused by war or military service; narcotics, unless prescribed by a physician; childbirth, pregnancy, or resulting complications; disabilities that start after retirement or age 65, whichever comes first.

Get the full facts about this basic protection that can cover you both in and out of the hospital. They are yours for the asking, and you will also receive information about the fine plans to meet your life insurance needs now available from Mutual of Omaha's affiliate, United of Omaha. These facts are yours without cost or obligation if you write to Mutual of Omaha, Reader's Service, Department 1201, Omaha, Nebraska 68131. Or even better, use the postpaid reply card provided for your convenience. Mail it now!

Ordinary hospital insurance won't help you here...

You need this basic kind of protection that keeps on covering you at home.

Mutual of Omaha's "Wide-Range" disability income insurance that provides

UP TO $1,200.00 A MONTH | AS MUCH AS $40.00 A DAY
both IN and OUT of the hospital

Disability Income Insurance—it's probably the first and most important insurance you should own.

This basic kind of health insurance covers you when you're sick or hurt and can't work... in or out of the hospital. The little known fact is, your chances of being laid up at home are seven times as great as for hospital confinement. That's what our records show, and that's why we offer really wide-range protection like this that covers you during and after hospital confinement—covers you even if you never go to the hospital—that provides benefits over and above any hospital-surgical-medical benefits you may receive.

As the breadwinner, you can select the amount you qualify for (from $100.00 to $1,200.00 a month... up to $40.00 a day) to help replace your paychecks when a covered sickness or accident keeps you from working. These monthly disability benefits are all yours to spend as you please for any purpose you choose... yours to use for every kind of bill.

THERE ARE SEVEN REASONS WHY YOU SHOULD CONSIDER THIS MUTUAL OF OMAHA PLAN:

1. You may qualify for up to $1,200.00 monthly income benefits (up to $40.00 a day) to spend as you see fit when you're sick or hurt and can't work!

2. These disability benefits are provided both IN and OUT of the hospital!

3. Your coverage becomes effective immediately for new sickness contracted or injury received after your policy is in force. Pre-existing conditions (old health problems) will not be covered for 12 months. This applies to such conditions shown on your application and not excluded from coverage.

4. Mental disorders are covered the same as any other sickness!

5. Your policy protects you as a passenger in any kind of aircraft—even a private plane!

6. Benefits are provided for disabilities incurred both on and off the job. They are available in addition to your Workmen's Compensation or Employer's Liability coverage!

7. You have this renewal agreement: no matter how often you may receive benefits, Mutual of Omaha guarantees to renew your policy as long as premiums are paid on time. Your premium can be changed only when changed for all policies of the same form and class in your state.

Please note that the amount of the benefit, the premium, and the deductible period vary with the plan you qualify for. And that benefits are not payable for losses caused by war or military service; narcotics, unless prescribed by a physician; childbirth, pregnancy, or resulting complications; disabilities that start after retirement or age 65, whichever comes first.

Get the full facts about this basic protection that can cover you both in and out of the hospital. They are yours for the asking, and you will also receive information about the fine plans to meet your life insurance needs now available from Mutual of Omaha's affiliate, United of Omaha. IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR
BY HAL FOSTER

Our Story: ARN AND PAUL CONTINUE SOUTHWARD, BUT NOW SPRING HAS COME WITH GENTLE RAINS AND WARM SUNSHINE. EACH DAY THEY EXPECT TO MEET OUTLAWS BUT NONE APPEAR.

ONE DAY THEY MAKE CAMP BESIDE A CLEAR BROOK, AND WHILE PAUL TAKES THEIR HORSES TO PASTURE, ARN TAKES A BATH.

FOUR SAVAGE GOths COME QUIETLY OUT OF THE TREES AND TAKE POSSESSION OF THEIR UNGUARDED CAMP.

TO RUN WOULD BE USELESS, FOR A NAKED MAN COULD NOT LONG SURVIVE IN THIS DEVASTATED LAND. ARN WALKS SLOWLY TOWARD THE BARBARIANS, HOPING TO GAIN HIS SWORD BY SOME TRICKERY.

PAUL, RETURNING, SEES WHAT IS HAPPENING AND LETS OUT A WILD SCREAM. THE GOth TURNS TO LOOK AND ARN HAS THAT MOMENT HE HOPED FOR..... A SUDDEN SHOVE AND A FLICK OF THE CLOAK.....

..... AND BEFORE HE RECOVERS HIS BALANCE, ARN SNATCHES UP HIS SWORD AND PUTS IT TO WORK.

PAUL IS ENGAGED WITH TWO OUTLAWS. HE SLAYS ONE, BUT TO ARN'S HORROR THE OTHER STRIKES HIM BETWEEN THE SHOULDERS WITH HIS KNIFE.

AND PAUL CALMLY TURNS AND QUIETS HIM. "AS YOU KNOW, SIR ARN, I AM A MAN OF PEACE, BUT I FIND A SHORT SWORD AND A SHIRT OF MAIL GUARANTEE IT."

NEXT WEEK - Too Many Maids

THE HOLE WAS MADE WHILE I WAS AWAY, ANNIE... BY THE DIRTY DOGNAPPERS WHO'VE BEEN STEALING MY DOGS!

"...WHAT IS IMPORTANT IS THAT ONE IS CAPABLE OF LOVE. IT IS PERHAPS THE ONLY GLIMPSE WE ARE PERMITTED OF ETERNITY." ~HELEN HAYES

ANNIE HAS ACCOMPANIED MRS. TREE TO HER HOME... IN HOPES OF LOCATING THE MISSING SANDY, BUT...

I'M AFRAID I'VE GOT BAD NEWS, ANNIE! ONE OF THE STOLEN DOGS IS THE ONE THAT MIGHT'VE BEEN YOUR SANDY!

© 1973 New York News Inc. World Rights Reserved

BUT WHO... WHY...?

I THINK ED DRISCOLL, THE LOCAL GAS STATION MAN, STEALS THEM... SO HE CAN SELL THEM TO THE UNIVERSITY'S CANCER LABORATORY FOR USE IN CANCER EXPERIMENTS!

GASP! Y-YOU MEAN THAT S-SANDY M-MIGHT...

I'M AFRAID SO, ANNIE! MOST PEOPLE STILL THINK OF THE WORLD'S ANIMALS AS MAN'S PROPERTY... AND NOT AS HIS BROTHERS AND SISTERS!

PRESENTLY...

I'D BE HAPPY TO SEE THEM FIND A CURE FOR CANCER, ANNIE! BUT I DON'T THINK IT'S PROGRESS WHEN MAN IMPROVES HIS CONDITION BY SHEDDING THE BLOOD OF THE CREATURES AROUND HIM!

I HAVE GREAT RESPECT FOR THE UNIVERSITY, ANNIE... BUT SOMETIMES BIG INSTITUTIONS SEEM TO LOSE SIGHT OF THE VERY VALUES THEY WERE FOUNDED TO PROTECT!

WHAT D'YA MEAN, MRS. TREE?

THE UNIVERSITY IS FIGHTING CANCER SO IT CAN SAVE HUMAN LIVES... BUT I FEEL THAT BY PERFORMING EXPERIMENTS ON ANIMALS IT IS TEACHING US THAT SOME FORMS OF LIFE ARE CHEAP AND EXPENDABLE!

LATELY, THEY'VE BEEN FORCING ALL MY NEIGHBORS OUT TO MAKE ROOM FOR A NEW CANCER RESEARCH INSTITUTE! I'VE REFUSED TO SELL, SO THEY...

OH, HI, PETE! COME ON IN AND LET ME GIVE YOU A NICE JUICY APPLE AND...

I-I CAN'T RIGHT NOW, MRS. TREE, BECAUSE I'M... I'M HERE TO GIVE YOU ANOTHER SUMMONS! THIS ONE'S FOR...

B-BUT FOR LAND SAKES, PETE! THAT'S THE EIGHTH ONE THIS MONTH!

I KNOW, MRS. TREE! AN' I FEEL JUST AWFUL BRINGIN' 'EM OUT HERE ALL THE TIME...

...BUT GEORGE BABBITT, THE UNIVERSITY'S BUSINESS MANAGER, IS DETERMINED TO MOVE YOU OUTA HERE, AN' HE'S USIN' ALL THE UNIVERSITY'S CLOUT WITH THE CITY GOVERNMENT TO HELP HIM DO IT!
