

Express Pleasure At Food Products Plant In Greenville

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Area leaders expressed pleasure this morning at the announcement by Procter & Gamble that it plans to build a food products plant north of Greenville.

Greenville Mayor S. Eugene West who is president of Greenville Industries, observed this morning, "I was glad to have had the privilege of working with Procter & Gamble in their consideration of locating in Greenville. I am glad all details were worked out to their satisfaction and they have finally decided that Greenville is the proper location for their new operation."

He added, "I feel that this industry will be beneficial not only to Greenville but to all of Pitt County. I welcome the opportunity to work with them on any problems that might arise."

Corey Stokes of Ayden, chairman of the Pitt County Development Commission, commented, "I think that it is a stride forward in diversifying our industry. Here in the East, we raise food and up until now we have not had much of a system of food processing."

Stokes added, "This should help us in our agricultural program in the East as well as our industrial development."

"I think we are very fortunate to have one of the top corporate businesses in the country locate here," reflected Dr. J. W. Pou, vice chairman of the commission. "Procter & Gamble fits right in with the high type of corporate citizens we already have in the county."

The commission attorney, W. W. Speight, asserted that "We think this plant coming represents a real Blue Ribbon one for Greenville and Pitt County."

Farmville attorney John B. Lewis, Jr., who serves as commission secretary, said that, "It seems to be an excellent facility that will use not only our farm produce but our labor availability as well."

The executive director of the Development Commission, Jim Horne, said today that, "Naturally, we are pleased at the news. It is extremely gratifying that Procter & Gamble has chosen Pitt County as the place to locate their new plant."

Horne added, "During the approximately 14 months that we have been working with them, I have come to know the P&G representatives as highly capable, professional plant location people. The cooperation of many individuals and groups, both at local and state levels, has contributed immeasurably to the success of this project. We are deeply grateful to them for this cooperation."

B. Alton Gardner, chairman of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners, said, "We are happy to welcome the Food Products Division of Procter & Gamble to our county. It has always been our policy to encourage quality new industry to locate here and most certainly, Procter & Gamble fits this description. On behalf of the Board of Commissioners and the people of Pitt County, we extend them a warm welcome."

In announcing plans to construct a food products plant here that will manufacture Pringle's Potato Chips, Procter & Gamble officials reported that ultimately some 450 persons will be employed with an annual payroll in excess of $2,000,000.

Over 80 per cent of the employee force will come from the Greenville area with hiring expected to begin late next year. Plant construction is not expected to begin until early next year although site preparation will get underway immediately, officials noted.

Identify Victim

Pitt County Coroner and Medical Examiner E. W. Harvey said the body of a man found burned in a fire at the Mark IV Club on Albermarle Avenue here last week has been identified as J.C. Braswell, 21 of 604 Roosevelt Ave.

According to the coroner and Greenville Police Department officials, Braswell was identified from dental work — two partial plates — in the victim's mouth. The cause of death according to the coroner, was "smoke inhalation."

Investigation of the death and of the cause of the fire and explosion that destroyed the club, is continuing, according to Police Chief Glenn Cannon who noted that agents of the State Bureau of Investigation are assisting local officers and the coroner in the case.

Fire Levels 200 Cabins At Camp

DENVER, N.C. (AP)—Fire leveled 200 of 310 cabins Tuesday at the historic Rock Springs Methodist Campground near Denver in Lincoln County, 20 miles north of Charlotte.

The main building, an open tabernacle which can seat about 400, was not damaged.

The summer meeting place was established in the early 1800s on donated woodland. It is listed on the National Register of Historic Places.

The cause of the fire was not determined immediately.

Escapees Found, Local Search Force Praised

Maj. James Langley, coordinator for custody for the Department of Social Rehabilitation and Control in this area, today praised local area law enforcement officers and members of the Greenville Rescue Squad for their assistance during a hunt for two escapees here yesterday afternoon and last night.

Langley explained that two inmates, Jessie Bynum Jr., 18, of Aurora, (a felon serving five years for breaking, entering and larceny and auto theft), and Levon Jordan, 18, of Whiteville (a misdemeanor inmate serving an 18 month term for larceny and 30 days for no liability insurance) escaped from custody at the correctional center here about 1:30 p.m.

Members of the Greenville Police Department, the Pitt County Sheriff's Department and Highway Patrolmen joined correctional officers and tracking dogs in the hunt for the two men, Langley said. He praised the officers for their support and assistance.

According to Langley, both Bynum and Jordan were returned to custody about 7:50 p.m. when they were found on

Chiang Kai-shek 86 Years Old

TAIPEI (AP) — President Chiang Kai-shek, the last of World War II's Big Five, observed his 86th birthday in seclusion today. But Taiwan celebrated with parties, fireworks and a million birthday cards dropped by the air force.

Chiang has not appeared in public since July 1972 and customarily avoids public appearances on his birthday, preferring to celebrate quietly with his family and a few friends.

Informed sources said he remains in reasonably good health and is alert.

Langley thanked the Greenville Fire Department's rescue unit for their assistance in "rescuing" a correctional officer and tracking dog from the lowlands along the North bank of the Tar River a mile West of the N.C. 11-U.S. 13 bridge, after dark.

The major said the rescue squad launched a boat and retrieved the man and dog from the river bank, thus preventing them from having to walk back through the dense lowlands in the dark.

Resort Areas Largely Finance By-The-Drink Drive

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's leading wet organization reports it has received $101,633 in contributions for its campaign favoring liquor by the drink which will be voted on statewide Tuesday.

The report, filed Tuesday with Secretary of State Thad Eure by the Citizens for Choice and Control, showed the largest contribution, $18,655, came from the Charlotte Chamber of Commerce.

The total of $101,633 is nearly $100,000 less than the drys claimed to have raised.

The filing ended nearly a month-long skirmish between Eure and the wets over whether they were required to file a campaign expense report. Eure maintained that the law required that both the wets and drys register with his office and report contributions.

A letter accompanying the list stated that the Citizens for Choice and Control organization was filing in "obedience to" an earlier request by Eure.

The second largest contribution, $15,325, came from the Sandhills area Chamber of Commerce, which includes the resort of Pinehurst.

A total of $50,900 was contributed by Chambers of Commerce in Charlotte, Wilmington, the Sandhills area and Raleigh. Local Citizens for Choice and Control units in the state's urban areas donated about $25,000.

The North Carolina Innkeepers Association contributed $10,150, the North Carolina Restaurant Association $1,300 and the North Carolina Travel Council $3,000.

Individual contributions totaled $5,400.

The Sheraton Motor Inn at Asheville contributed $1,000. Other donations from private resorts, restaurants and corporations included $500 from Westgate Corp., Asheville; $500 from Motel Co. of Salisbury; $1,000 from G. F. Co. of Linville, owners of Grandfather Mountain resort area; and $500 from Sugar Mountain, Banner Elk.

Sadat Says First Peace Step An Israeli Pullback

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Egyptian President Anwar Sadat insisted today that Israeli forces in Egypt must pull back as a first step toward Middle East peace. Premier Golda Meir left Israel for Washington and talks with President Nixon on prospects for negotiations.

Sadat said in a news conference that there will be no exchange of war prisoners until the Israelis move back to the Oct. 22 cease-fire line.

He gave an emphatic "no" to the idea of direct peace negotiations with Israel. But he said once disengagement stars, an international peace conference on the Middle East could begin under U.N. auspices.

Mrs. Meir was expected to combine thanks for U.S. aid in the Middle East conflict with complaints about reported U.S. pressure on Israel to make concessions to the Arabs.

On departure for Washington, Mrs. Meir said, "There are naturally problems that have to be discussed." But she added, "I am leaving with the true feeling that they will be discussed in friendship."

The Israelis permitted more supplies for the Egyptian 3rd Army to pass through their lines. A command spokesman in Tel Aviv said, "Some technical difficulties held up the relief convoy this morning, but 23 trucks are now unloading."

The food, water and medical supplies are for the 20,000-man Egyptian army that Israel says is cut off in the Sinai Desert east of the Suez canal by Israeli forces on the west bank.

The Egyptians claim that Israeli forces took up new positions on the west bank between the Oct. 22 cease-fire and the second truce Oct. 24. Sadat's demand that Israel pull back to the Oct. 22 positions would allow Egypt to link up with its 3rd Army again.

In his news conference, Sadat, who wore a military uniform, said his forces could easily defeat Israeli units on the west bank of the canal and pressure was building up on him to do so.

"Militarily this is easy," he said. "The east bank forces of the Egyptian 3rd Army are well entrenched while the rest and larger part of this army is now behind the Israeli forces on the west bank."

But he said he was holding back to avoid more war and bloodshed.

Sadat's view of an endangered Israeli force conflicted with Tel Aviv's claim that it has the Egyptian 3rd Army surrounded and at its mercy on the east bank of the canal.

Sadat also told a news conference in Cairo that Israel must pull back the troops on the west side of the canal to the lines they held at the time of the first cease-fire on Oct. 22 before he will exchange prisoners of war.

Israel had reported Tuesday that an exchange of wounded POWs was imminent.

Sadat said his officers were pressing him to let them wipe out the Israeli forces on the west bank of the canal but he was holding back to give President Nixon time to prevail on the Israelis to withdraw.

He indicated Nixon and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger this week told acting foreign minister, Ismail Fahmy they believe the Israelis should withdraw.

Fahmy was to be followed in Washington by Israeli Premier Golda Meir, who left Tel Aviv this morning for the United States.

Washington sources said Kissinger plans to pursue his quest for peace in the Middle East by visiting Cairo and other Mideast capitals next week.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan told the Israeli parliament that Egypt has provided a list of 82 POWs — 45 of them injured — and promised a list of all its POWs within three days.

He said there would be an immediate exchange of wounded prisoners and Israel would take the first step by freeing 75 wounded Egyptians.

"We asked them for a full prisoner exchange but we have no promise on this," Dayan said. "But once the wounded are back and once the visits of the International Red Cross are taking place and the lists have been exchanged, I believe the full exchange would follow."

However, Egypt's official Middle East News Agency said the Egyptian high command had ordered a prisoner exchange only after the Israelis "return to the lines of Oct. 22, in accordance of the Security Council resolution."

Al Ahran said today that Egypt had sent a formal complaint to the International Red Cross Committee in Geneva.

$2,512 Grant

The City of Greenville has been awarded $2,512 as a grant from funds available through the Intergovernmental Personnel Act administered by the North Carolina Office of State Personnel.

City Manager Bill Carstarphen reported that he received final notification of the grant approval in a letter from Claude Caldwell, State Personnel Director.

Monies granted to Greenville, Carstarphen said, are to be used for the establishment of an effective Personnel Management System for the city. Travel, training, and salary for a personnel officer will be paid in part by these funds, he added.

The city manager explained that effective personnel management includes pay administration, position classification, employee safety, and training and career development. The city hopes to provide better services to the residents of Greenville aided by effective personnel management, he said.

Student Record In Giving Blood

The two-day Bloodmobile visit to East Carolina University resulted in the collection of 353 pints of blood, according to Pitt Blood chairman Billy Ross.

Ross said that 197 units were collected Tuesday while 43 persons were rejected. Tuesday's collection figure compared with the 156 pints given on Monday when there were 14 rejects.

The ECU visit was sponsored by the Air Force ROTC which conducted a contest to promote campus group participation. Lambda Chi Alpha fraternity topped the group competition, with 23 of its members donating blood. Chi Omega sorority placed second as 22 members offered blood.

A spokesman for the AFROTC reported that the 353 pints represent an all-time high for a two-day collection on the ECU campus.

Ross expressed his appreciation to the AFROTC for its sponsorship and also the Women's Service League and volunteer nurses who were on hand to help. The chairman also thanked ECU for permitting the Bloodmobile to utilize Wright Auditorium for the visit.

"It was a fine turnout and we were real pleased with the results of the two-day effort," he commented.

The Bloodmobile was in Bethel today from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. at the Bethel Rotary Club.

Lady Bird Judges Interior Design Will Nose Rings Catch On In The U.S.?

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

"Young people need to know about good budget decorating," observed Lady Bird Johnson as she discussed her first hours as chairman of the 1974 Burlington House Awards Committee. Budget decorating was prominently featured in the 24 categories that she and her panel of judges were meeting to consider in the sixth annual event to cite excellence in interior design.

Because of distractions, Mrs. Johnson had perused only seven categories — photographs and texts on big boards — although she had started before 9, she said.

"I really can't wait to get back," she commented at lunch. "I'm particularly excited about budget entries because so many young people need that kind of information. I know how hard it is for the four young people working for me to make a dollar stretch to furnish a home well. Not to mention how it affects my own children..."

In answer to her question, "How can this wonderful grab bag of ideas get to Mrs. John Doe on Main Street in a little town?", she was happy to learn that the information would be provided to adult extension groups and others along with colored slides.

Fourth Annual Antiques Show Is Announced

ELIZABETH CITY—The Junior Woman's Club of Elizabeth City is making its fourth annual Albemarle Antiques Show a festive event. The show and sale will open on Saturday, Nov. 3, from 10 a.m. until 10 p.m., and on Sunday, Nov. 4, from 12 p.m. until 6:30 p.m. at the National Guard Armory.

This year, the show has been enlarged to include 28 dealers from eight states along the eastern seaboard. According to Mrs. James Flowers, co-chairman of the event, the show will offer a variety of antiques. Clubwomen, acting as hostesses, and antique dealers will appear in colonial dress. Free refreshments will be available in a county style kitchen.

Professional dealers will be bringing a variety of antiques to the show including: carnival glass; jewelry, copper, brass, pressed glass, china dolls, old maps, early period and wicker furniture. Of special interest to women will be a collection of more than 200 different patterns in sterling silver flatware consisting of active, inactive, and obsolete patterns. The men will be interested in a rare gun collection featuring Winchester 73's, 66's, 92's, and a Henry which was used in the Civil War.

Mrs. Margo Barath, of Edenton Antiques, will be assisting in the production of the event. Proceeds from the show will benefit Heritage House, a group home for girls and the first of its kind in Eastern North Carolina.

One red, white and blue kitchen was blue on one side, red on the other with the paints running up the door to a graphic pattern on the ceiling.

"Kitchens and utility rooms offer a great potential because women spend so much time in them," Mrs. Johnson commented, "and the do-it-yourself entries look exciting. It is so satisfying when you can stand back and look proudly at something you've done."

There were the usual number of things turned into other things.

Bride-Elect Entertained

GRIFTON — Miss Gayle Jackson of Grifton, November bride-elect of Neil Stroud of Ayden, was honored Friday night at the home of Mrs. Edwin Reeves.

Assisting hostesses were Mrs. Walter Patrick, Mrs. Roger Johnson and Mrs. Edward Hart. Mixed arrangements of fall flowers in shades of yellow and orange were used in the living room, where guests were greeted by Mrs. Reeves. Guests were presented to the guest of honor, her mother, Mrs. Bill Jackson, and Mrs. Walter Lee Stroud, mother of the bridegroom-elect. The bride-elect was remembered with a white mums corsage and a gift of crystal.

The refreshment table was covered with a white satin cloth and centered with an arrangement of pale yellow pom poms and ivy flanked by candles in silver holders. Smaller bouquets of similar flowers were used throughout the room.

Mrs. Patrick poured punch and Mrs. Johnson served cake squares.

ing to pass on to our maintenance man. I've found two old console televisions that will make a lovely table with their legs cut off and with felt put over the top. Do-it-yourself helps keep old things useful.

"I am embattled against waste. Everything should be reused. We should even go to people who package things and try to convey that we don't need all that fancy packaging — pretty bottles and the like..."

She is a home (two) person, she says. The "ranch house" has been given to the National Park Service, but she intends to use her life rights.

"It is more fair to call it a farm house. It is a big, old comfortable two-story house with an outside staircase built in the style of German builders who had settled in that area. Lyndon had known the house since he was 4. We spent many good times there even before he bought it from his aunt in 1952."

It is cheerfully decorated in pinks and yellows and has a beautiful garden of wildflowers, but it is crowded with memories and Luci and her family visit her there weekends. She still spends four or five days a week in the apartment with terrace above their television station in Austin. She enjoys that arrangement, "but Lyndon always said it meant spending a lot of time in the middle of a big road."

Among the 17 new members of her 24-member board of governors on the Burlington panel were some well-known names, Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, Mrs. James Buckley, Mrs. Claiborne Pell, Mrs. Henry S. Lodge.

One youthful newcomer, Mrs. King-lit Ching of Honolulu, was also intrigued with the budget houses and "had gotten some good ideas from them," she remarked. "Always before, such things have looked stereotyped, but these inexpensive furnishings are beautiful..."

She and young Mrs. Robert (Suzy) Dehlendorf II, who has been a judge for several years, were particularly intrigued with the furnishings, wicker and the like, that might be bought in chain stores and painted. Suzy found the budget contemporary house "with its dime store chairs" in very good taste. In fact she has been an admirer of the English Country Tudor house — she had just moved from one in Atherton, Calif., to one in Winnetka, Ill. — but now she's been impressed with the contemporary one. "It could simplify everything. You could furnish in a nice fresh way with a lot of color for warmth..."

Always one to single out improvisation, Mrs. William McCormick Blair Jr., of Washington D.C. was intrigued with an apartment shared by two girls who had made handsome slipcovers out of cheetah-printed red and green racing stripe bedspreeds. They used them with red accents and tatami matting on the floor.

Kayle Skinner of Seattle, another experienced member of the panel, pointed to a new category — Grand Houses — and were they ever. As she said of the homes which included Mrs. Woolworth Donohue's, "When they get this grand it is hard to tell them apart — they all have elegance in common."

A "garden category" was added in honor of Mrs. Johnson and entries included designs on terraces, porches, decks, windows. An exciting touch and smell garden was entered by the Lighthouse for the Blind.

One can think about gardens in terms of lasting gifts, observed Mrs. Johnson.

"For example, giving a tree for a gift is a wonderful idea. An architect gave me a big red oak tree and I always can point it out to him because it is always there."

DEAR ABBY: About the girl who wanted to have her nose pierced over her parents' objections: I say, let her! It isn't painful, and if it is properly done, no infection should result.

I spent two years in India on an assignment, and while I was there I had my nose pierced in order to wear a small gold ring in it. It is the custom for women and girls in India.

After I returned to the States, wearing the ring in my nose, I was the object of curious stares and many rude remarks, so I removed it. However, I still have the tiny hole in my nose, and will wear the ring in it if it ever becomes the fad or fashion here.

HOLE IN MY NOSE IN LONG BEACH

DEAR HOLE: Of course, one never knows, but I doubt if nose rings will ever catch on in the States.

DEAR ABBY: I want to express my gratitude to you for having the courage to repeat your statement that homosexuality is NOT a "sickness."

I am the director of Adult Ministries for the United Methodist Church in the Hawaii district, and am long past the age when I might appeal sexually to either a female or another male.

Abby, you put to shame some of my so-called "fellow Christians," who have so completely forgotten the teachings of Jesus, that they would deny God's love and compassion for the millions of people who live a lifestyle different from their own.

Thank you, Abby. Whether you believe in Jesus or not, his love shines on you when you write such columns.

MY DEAR REV. METHERED: Thanks. I needed that!

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old girl who has just started to date. I don't go steady with any one guy, but there is one I see more of than the others. I like him a lot, but this dude's hands are quicker than the eye and if I let him kiss me, before I know it, his hands are all over me.

How do I handle such an aggressive guy? CAREFUL

DEAR CAREFUL: When he gets busy with his hands, tell him to cut it out. And if he doesn't, get busy with your foot, and kick him out.

DEAR ABBY: My husband (I'll call him "T") took his life and left me with three minor children. Before "T" was buried, the vultures moved in to pick the bones.

A friend called the morning of the funeral and said if I planned to sell the house to please give him a chance to bid on it.

At the funeral parlor, another "friend" asked me what I was going to do with T's gun collection. Imagine the insensitivity of this man, knowing that my husband killed himself with a gun!

It's been only a week and I have had offers for everything from his clothes to his garden tools.

Thanks for letting me get this off my chest. I was ready to explode. I don't have to sign my name. Everybody in town knows who I am.

Miss Katherine Jordan And Now, Ladies, Butterfly Speaks Vows On Saturday Hairdo For Next Two Years

PETERSBURG, Va.—The marriage of Miss Katherine Lash Jordan of Richmond, Va., to Joseph Winston Timberlake III, also of Richmond took place Saturday at 11:30 a.m. in St. Paul's Episcopal Church here.

The Rev. John Cameron Grainger, rector of the church, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blackwell Jordan of Petersburg, Va., and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Winston Timberlake Jr. of Greenville, N. C.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal length gown of ivory satin peau with an empire bodice with chapel train. Her veil was a full length mantilla of tulle edged with scalloped alencon lace.

Miss Sally Yates Wood of Richmond, Va., was maid of honor and Miss Robyn Timberlake of Greenville, N. C., sister of the bridegroom, was bridesmaid. They wore identical dresses of green shantique and brocade and carried baskets of fall flowers.

Mr. Timberlake was his son's best man. Ushers were Eugene Brittle of Wakefield, Va., and H. L. Kirksey III of Morganton, N.C.

A reception followed the

MRS. JOSEPH WINSTON TIMBERLAKE III ceremony held at the home of the bride's parents.

By MAXINE YEE BEVERLY HILLS, Calif. (UPI) — The micromini didn't do much to hide one's figure. The Butterfly doesn't do much to hide one's head.

Jon Peters, 28, a hairdresser whose clientele numbers among the top screen stars in the country, has created the Butterfly, a closely-cropped hairstyle that he says will lead the way for short styles for the next two years.

In the Butterfly, the hair throughout the head is layered from 1/4 to 1 inch long with the exception of the front, sides and nape. These hairs are left longer, about 1-1/2 inches, to frame the face.

To distinguish the Butterfly from just any closely-trimmed hairstyle, the long front bangs are pulled forward and then reversed. Another characteristic is the two-tone coloring of the hair.

The main body of the hair is dark, with the longer hairs framing the face a lighter shade. With the two-tone effect, Peters says the style resembles a butterfly, with the lightened areas the wings, or as he calls them, "angel's wings."

New and young To add variety to the style, an oil base can be lightly smoothed over the crown of the head to accent the lines of the cut. Peters, who thinks this is his best creation in 15 years of hairdressing, says the Butterfly is appealing because it's "new, refreshing, young and mobile."

"It's nice to be different and not see yourself coming and going," he said.

Although Peters' creation is reminiscent of yesteryear's crewcut, it doesn't reveal a starkly naked head nor does it project a unisexual look. It is, however, easy to care for, and feminine in appearance.

Unlike most hairstyles that are restricted to certain persons with particular bone structures and hair textures, Peters says his Butterfly is the "most universal" hairstyle ever created.

Fits anyone He says it can be adapted to fit any person's shape, color or size by altering the length of the longer hairs.

As to the amount of care the style needs, all that is needed is a dry towel.

Peters began in the hair-dressing business in New York at the age of 13. He opened his first Jon Peters Salon here eight years ago. Peters' last creation was the China Doll in 1970, the forerunner of the now popular shag.

Today's Brides Find First Homes

BOSTON (AP) — Brides today share with brides of previous eras the problem of finding their own homes, one expert says.

Jackson W. Goss, president and chief executive officer of Investors Mortgage Insurance Co. says today's bride may have the impression that the problem of making ends meet budget-wise and home buying-wise are dilemmas of the space age.

"The approximately 1,125,000 women who will marry during 1974 have all heard much about the 'good old days,' and may not fully realize that the generations of brides before them have faced the same problems," Goss said.

"Granted, the new bride may not come across an advertisement for a modern six-room house with two-car garage for $2,300, a la 1934. But she will get a home all the same.

"About 232,000 of 1974's brides will move into their own homes," Goss added.

The president of a firm that works with lenders to insure conventional mortgage loans says today's brides will generally have an easier time than their parents did.

"Unlike the 1930s, when a down payment requirement could run as much as 35 or 40 per cent, the 1974 buyer will be able to acquire a home for as little as five or 10 per cent down," he said.

The 29 cent per pound sirloin steak, which prevailed in 1934, may sound like a budgeter's dream to a woman who pays the 1974 price of over $2 a pound.

"But looking at the other side of the coin, one should take into consideration that family income has burgeoned right along with the cost of living," Goss said.

The median family income for a year is roughly $12,000 today. The 1934 figure was more like $1,200, he said.

"Those brides of 1974 may not find the same price tags that their mothers did when they first married, but they will also not have to cope with that small income," Goss added.

"In fact, 30 or 40 years from now, they will probably talk about 1974, their own 'good old days,'" he said.

Play It Safe This Halloween

Chief of Police Glenn Cannon has urged parents to cooperate in making tonight's Halloween a safe one for their young children.

His first suggestion was that parents encourage their youngsters to trick or treat in their own neighborhoods and that they refuse to accept anything from strangers.

He also suggested that the young people wear light clothes since they will be moving across streets and dark clothing can mean they will be difficult to see.

There was a warning for motorists on this Halloween night. They should be very watchful and attentive. "Children get over-excited and many times fail to realize true danger and may dart into the path of a car without realizing what can happen."

Children should be warned never to go in a home to accept a treat and the treats should be brought home for inspection before they are eaten. Unpackaged and open treats should be discarded. If anything is found wrong with treats Chief Cannon suggested that the police department should be called.

It is regrettable that there is the necessity to warn parents about dangerous treats being given to their children; yet it happens every year somewhere in the nation that a child is given something that could be harmful. We hope that will not be the case in Greenville tonight. Nevertheless, parents should know where their children are at all times and be certain that they call on only those homes that they know.

This can be a happy evening for area youngsters, but due care should be exercised by all concerned.

Indonesia Could Be A Big Supplier Of Oil

The United States is almost deperately casting around for new sources of oil, with Indonesia being a prime prospect.

Indonesia produced nearly 400 million barrels of oil last year. This is expected to rise by 90 million barrels this year. Untapped oil reserves are estimated as much as 15 billion barrels.

The U.S. may find other oil sources around the world to offset set back in middle east oil. The real solution, however, is to find alternative energy sources—those will not leave us dependent on other countries for oil.

Yesteryear Is Not Forgotten

(The following was written by Bruce Phillips, sports editor of the Raleigh Times just prior to the UNC-Chapel Hill game. Phillips is a former sports editor of the Daily Reflector.)

NO, LEO, YOU ARE WRONG
Dr. Leo Jenkins of East Carolina University accuses this correspondent of forgetting his alma mater. That's an injustice. The East Carolina I knew was much different, but forget? Never.

Years following the athletic exploits of the Big Four (boy, is that a dirty word in Piratland) do tend to ease the rabid allegiance you once had for East Carolina. But the nostalgia never vanishes. The East Carolina I knew would never dream of becoming a member of the Atlantic Coast Conference, as it is now. That would have been like comparing Sammy Davis to a troop of vaudeville vagabonds.

The North State was the conference, Jack Boone was the coach, Dick Cherry, Lou Hallow, Claude King and Bobby Hodges were some of the star players, and the big game was with Lenoir Rhyne. The field (it could hardly be called a stadium) held only 5,000 or so and the only bowl game the team went to was the Elks Bowl, and that was held in Greenville with Morris-Harvey the opposition.

Football at East Carolina College was a world of its own. What was happening there was all that counted. North Carolina, State, Duke — they were just schools whose scores you took note of later in the day.

IT WAS A SPECIAL PLACE
Autumn Saturdays in Greenville were beautiful then too. Fit for Tiffany's window. Students, oblivious to time and place, were out early for the endless promenade on Fifth Street.

The excitement took hold, even if many of the students didn't know who East Carolina was playing. The excitement was in the day and being young.

Couples sat under the big willow trees, hands clasped, futures bright. East Carolina was the fairest little college in the whole universe. It was a special place, abounded in ambience. Everybody knew everybody. And it seemed everybody liked everybody.

The football teams did all right. They had winning records. The basketball teams under Coach Howard Porter were the best, always winning the conference. But it wasn't like it is today, playing in the bottom of a chafing dish surrounded by 20,000 frenzied gluttons. Winning and losing was accepted graciously. Perhaps that's wrong, but at the time it seemed right.

Nobody ever went away mad. EVERYBODY NEEDS A DREAM
It was bound to happen, though. Things had to get bigger, if not better. East Carolina got its first taste of the big time when it upset Wake Forest in 1963. It hasn't been able to wash the succulence away since.

The campus began to change. Hugh high-rise dormitories sprung up. A stadium was built. A new basketball arena was dedicated. All of a sudden, it seemed, East Carolina was a colossus, with 10,000 students. East Carolina's football program is like a gyroscope, inexorably on course, no matter what. It will take its place alongside Carolina, State, Duke and other others.

The time has come for the so-called big brothers of the Atlantic Coast Conference to accept East Carolina as an

Strength For Today

A NEGLECTED DOCTRINE

We hear very little in most of the Christian denominations about the second coming of our Lord. Yet during his lifetime he made it very plain that he would someday return. The time and place was of course locked up in the wise counsel of God, but the fact of that return could not, and cannot, be doubted.

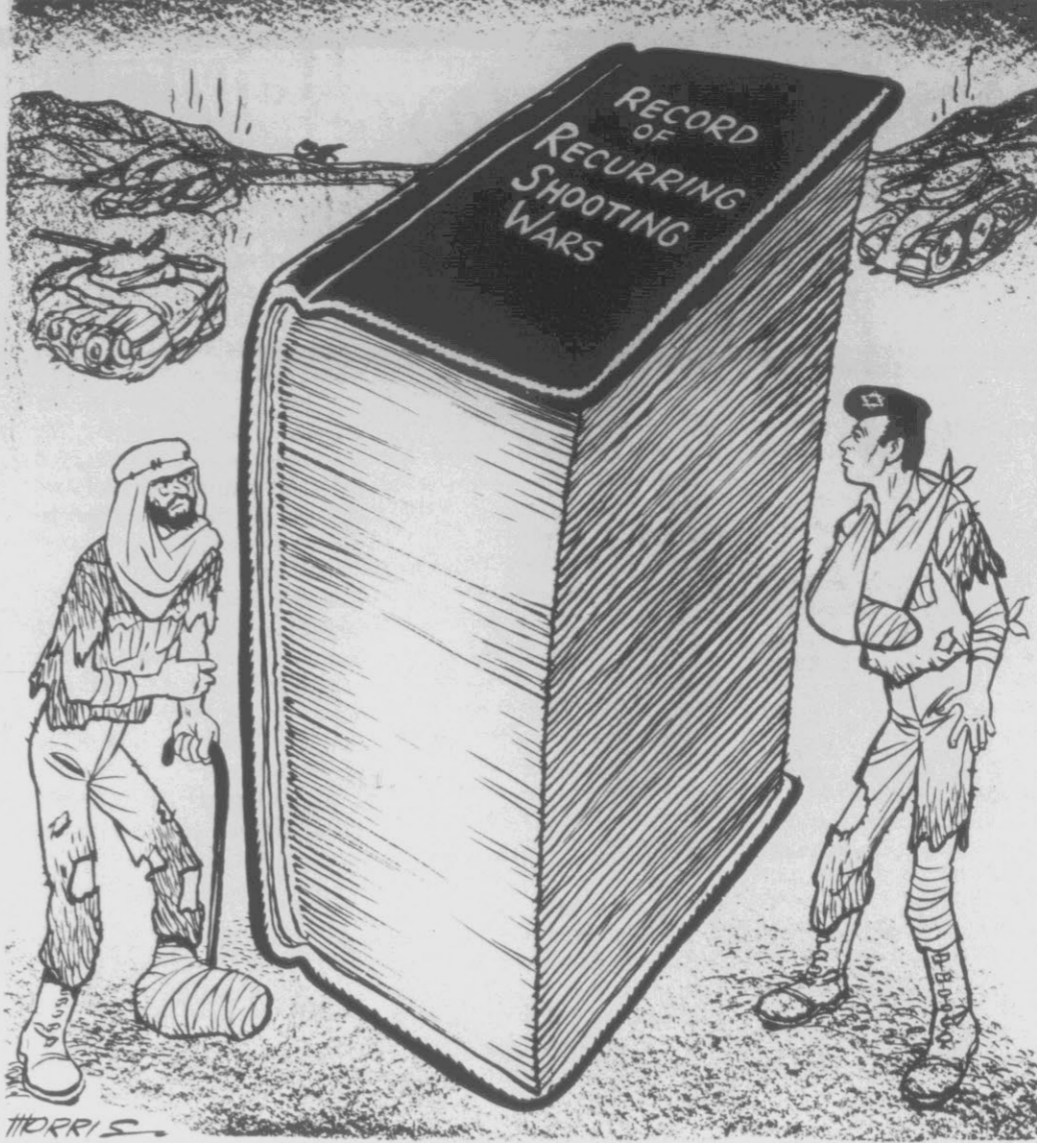

The disposition of the great mass of Christians today to think nothing at all about the second coming is even more unwholesome and un-Biblical than the disposition of some believers to think and talk about nothing else. We need to remember that almost the last thing our Lord did before ascending the heaven was to assure his followers in this regard.

We waste our time when we try to anticipate the Lord's schedule, but we make an even greater mistake when we miss the plain New Testament teaching that Christ will return suddenly, at a moment known only to God himself, and that those who are not ready will bitterly regret their lack of forethought and faith.

Sharing Soviet Secrets

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States is expected to share in the knowledge gained by Israel in its capture of an advance Soviet-built missile unit.

U.S. government sources report the Israeli army captured intact an SA6 anti-aircraft system, which inflicted heavy losses on Israel's U.S.-equipped air force in its first combat test during the latest Middle East war.

U.S. military officials are anxious to learn in detail how the SA6 operates, and how to foil it, because American planes may face it in any confrontation with the Soviet Union. It is believed U.S. experts may work with Israeli technicians in studying the system.

The SA6, used in combination with other Soviet-made anti-aircraft weapons, was credited with knocking down roughly half of the more than 100 airplanes Israel lost in fighting the Egyptians and Syrians.

Most of the downed planes were U.S.-manufactured F4 Phantom and A4 Skyhawk jets.

The deadly accuracy of the Soviet-built weapons alarmed both Israeli and U.S. military officials because they lacked the right electronic equipment to jam or confuse the SA6's sophisticated guidance system.

Experts say the SA6, mounted on tank tracks, is very mobile and is most effective against planes attacking at low level. Many of the Israeli planes destroyed by the SA6 were flying low to strike at Egyptian and Syrian tanks.

U.S. sources said an SA6 missile battery, its radar and guidance equipment were seized intact by Israeli troops after they thrust across the Suez Canal into Egypt on Oct. 16.

The Israeli command spoke of destroying and overrunning Egyptian missile and artillery positions, but the capture of the SA6 was kept secret.

The Israelis captured other Soviet-made weapons already known to the United States from experience in the Vietnam war.

"If you are so good at your work, why hasn't your name been brought out in the Watergate investigations?"

"What do you hear, Jake?"
"I want you to fix it so I can listen in on my wife's private conversation, but no one else can—and not even you."

HAL BOYLE

"What would you charge to rent me some old tapes? I'm a television soap opera writer, and I'm looking for some material with true-to-life dialogue."

"I don't know how much my business partner paid you to tap my telephone, but if you can keep your trap shut I'll pay you twice as much to put a tap on his line for me. He must be stealing twice as much as I am."

"If you don't let me listen the next time you bug a movie star's apartment, Jake, I'll divorce you. As your wife, I should be entitled to get some pleasure out of this dirty work you're doing. Heaven knows it doesn't pay much."

"That was a good idea to bug the old man's dentures, Jake."

40 Years Ago Today

Rev. J.M. Page of Raleigh spoke today to a group at the Methodist Church in Bethel today about the upcoming liquor vote on Nov. 7.

He told the group that if North Carolina voted for liquor, they were setting up a saloon or saloons, themselves, they were masters of the saloons, and they were responsible for all the damage it did or might do.

The world price of gold slumped today despite President Roosevelt's announcement of intention to buy the metal on foreign markets.

However, the price of gold was set at $32.12 above yesterday's $31.96 in the United States

The highest prices of the season were paid by the Greenville tobacco market yesterday, with an average of $20.98 per hundred pounds.

The market to date has sold 37,332,630 pounds of tobacco and the averages have steadily increased over the past few weeks.

Condition Of Economy In U.S.

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — What follows is a compilation of items that, reflected upon, may provide some insight into the condition of the American economy:

—The fuel shortage didn't erupt in the faces of unsuspecting officials, although it might appear that way. Government and industry researchers saw the problem developing a decade ago, but almost no coordinate effort was made to face it.

Same with food. Officials knew that while population was increasing, and that people the world over were improving their diets, the supply of food was not rising sufficiently to take care of demand.

Speaking at the Columbia Graduate School of Business a few days ago, C.W. Cook, chairman of General Foods Corp., observed:

"In 1965, President Johnson appointed a 30-man panel, called the National Commission on Food and Fiber, to make a thorough 18-month study of the subject in its broadest aspects.

"I was privileged to be a member along with topflight agribusiness economists from the academic world, farm leaders, other food processors, food retailers, and consumer representatives.

"Among other findings, our commission concluded that the trend of world demand was outpacing supply and would continue to do so unless massive steps were taken to achieve more of a balance.

"What happened as a result? In effect, nothing!"
—True or false: The United States is a have-not nation in regard to energy resources. False. The just-published "U.S. Industrial Outlook 1974," a Commerce Department publication, might bolster your confidence:

"It is reassuring that this country has almost unlimited energy potential in the form of coal and oil shale. More than half of the world's total reserves of coal are within the United States, and recoverable resources of oil shale are of roughly equal magnitude."

It adds that "large-scale" additions to the energy supply will come from solar and geothermal sources in the 1990s, and that nuclear fusion "could possibly supply energy indefinitely for a substantial part of the world's population."

—Many corporations are enjoying the most profitable year in their history, but that doesn't mean they're happy.

One after another they've boasted to stockholders and brokers about record high profits and then, lest the government was listening, added that price relief was necessary if profitability was to continue.

Union Carbide, for example, "expects the best year in the corporation's history," its chief financial officer, William Pardoe, told San Francisco security analysts this week.

That was half the story. Another officer then cautioned that rising costs of hydrocarbon feedstock and energy would require relief from price restrictions on its products now imposed by Phase 4.

—Pay raises to organized labor in this year of government controls contributed less to corporate stress, although they may have contributed a good deal to strained relations between labor and the administration.

The Labor Department reported that wage-benefit increases in major contract settlements for the first nine months dropped to 6.3 per cent over the life of contract from 7.4 per cent for the entire year 1972.

—There is an element that always believes Americans are into credit over their heads, despite the consistent repayment of that debt by borrowers. Now they have something substantial to think about.

Mortgage loan delinquencies, that is, seems to be edging higher. It might be too early to draw any conclusion other than statistical aberration, but the rate for September rose to .87 of one per cent, highest since February, and one of the highest for any month in the past five years.

declarer ruffing the third. The queen of spades was led and run, and Besse ducked smoothly. Declarer continued with the jack of spades, and Besse ducked again!

Suddenly, declarer became obsessed with the idea that West had started with four trumps headed by the king—an illusion that Besse had created by refusing to win the king of trumps. If that were the case, declarer could not afford to draw another trump, thereby denuding both himself and dummy of trump; for when declarer tried to run the club suit, West would ruff and cash a diamond to defeat the contract.

That distribution could be overcome by abandoning trumps and playing clubs, forcing West to ruff. Thereafter, the remaining trump could be drawn and declarer's hand would be high.

With everything neatly worked out, declarer started on the clubs. On the third round of the suit, Besse discarded his remaining diamond as West ruffed with his low trump. West now led the thirteenth diamond, and there was no way to prevent Besse from scoring his king of spades, for down one.

Two Wrecks On Tuesday

An estimated $625 property damage occurred yesterday in two collisions investigated by Greenville Police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 12:50 p.m. mishap on Tenth Street 30 feet East of the Forbes Street intersection involving a car driven by Delozora Moore of 703 McDowell St. and a school bus operated by Harold White of 603 Howell St.

Investigators, who brought charges of having improper equipment (breaks) set damage to $250 to the Moore car and $75 to the bus.

Callie Lilly Taylor of Route 1, Grimesland was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident yesterday following investigation of an 11:10 a.m. mishap on Tenth Street and the College Hill Drive intersection.

Officers reported the Taylor car collided with a car driven by Robert Harper Sauls of Heath St. Damage was placed at $200 to the Sauls car and $100 to the Taylor auto.

No injuries were reported in the mishaps.

Moose Holding Halloween Party This Evening

The annual Halloween carnival for the children of Greenville Moose members and their invited guests begins tonight at 7:00, and ending at 9:30.

A work party of volunteers labored last evening and part of today erecting booths and preparing prizes, games and refreshments in the lodge's big auditorium.

Civic affairs chairman Bill Shaw said today he expects all to be in readiness for the customary large turnout.

In addition to the games and refreshments, Shaw said there will be a costume contest with awards to the winners.

Another was the AT3 Sagger antitank missile taken by South Vietnamese soldiers last year. U.S. experts tested a number of Sagger in this country and found they could pierce 18 inches of armor. They were believed to have worked on possible countermeasures.

It is true that you earned $25,000 last year in blackmail money on which you didn't pay taxes, but, on the other hand, as you had to dish out $500 a week to keep the cops off your back, you'd have done better if you had spent the same time doing honest work, revolting as I know that must sound to you."

"As a man you taught the business to, Jake, even though we are rivals now, I feel I ought to tell you something as a professional courtesy. The cops hired me to put a tap on your bookie's phone, and I overheard him the other night ordering one of his strong boys to put the muscle on you if you don't pay what you owe him by Friday."

"Frankly, your medical problem has me puzzled, and I call in a consultant. Just how long did you say you had this strange buzzing in your ears?"

"No, I don't want you to tape my business competitor's phone to learn his secrets. What I want you to do is to sell him on the idea of tapping our phones to learn our secrets. They are driving us bankrupt, and if he stole a few they might force him to the wall, too."

"Please, Daddy, don't read me anymore bedtime stories. Just draw me a few diagrams so I can show the other kids in my class how to cheat the telephone company."

"Hi, lover boy, come over right away and sneak in the back way. Don't worry about my husband. He's out on an all-night case. And Jake's such a big dumb ox he'd never think of putting a bug in his own bedroom."

Asthmatic Girl Found Niche In A Football Team

LAURA BROWNE, 11, has something in common with her fellow football players. All are seriously ill with asthma. (UPI Telephoto)

By JOHN J. SANKO
DENVER (UPI) — Laura Browne, 11, a bright-eyed brunette from Miami, Fla., tried cheerleading, but she "goofed the whole thing up." Instead she has found her niche as a starting end on the Lakewood Asthmanauts.

Laura, the only girl ever to play in the Lakewood, Colo., Jaycees eight-man flag football league, has earned the nickname "Hands" from her teammates because of her ability to hang onto the ball. (In flag football there is no tackling. A runner is stopped when a piece of cloth tucked into his uniform—the "flag"—is grabbed by an opposing player.)

"When I was in Florida, they had a football team called the Gators," Laura said. "I cheered for the team and I was terrible. I goofed the whole thing up."

When Laura arrived in Denver for help at the Children's Asthma Research Institute and Hospital (CARIH), she decided to be a good ballplayer—not a cheerleader.

"Someone just said I should go and try for it and so I did," Laura said. "I decided to try for end because it's easier than blocking and rushing. The only thing is that I'm scared if I miss it (the football), they'll laugh at me and tell me I'm no good because I'm a girl."

Laura is the only girl on the Asthmanauts, but she has something in common with her fellow players, including quarterback Dave Rogers, 13, of New York City, and defensive captain and guard Dennis Johnson, 11, of Indianapolis, Ind.

All the players are seriously afflicted with asthma, a respiratory disease that will kill an estimated 6,000 Americans this year. About 9 million Americans, half of them children, suffer from the disease.

CARIH, which depends on contributions to handle the more than $15,000 a year cost per child, takes only the most serious cases. Children are sent to the hospital from throughout the world for special round-the-clock treatment.

The Asthmanauts are made up of CARIH youngsters who were once too ill to participate in competitive athletics. Most of them were surprised to learn they could play.

"My mother wouldn't let me play at all because of my asthma," said a smiling Johnson as he trotted off the practice field.

Assistant coach Rusty Warner, a former counselor at CARIH, said one of the policies was "to try to make everything as normal as possible for the children."

"We don't give them any special instructions," he said. "They all know pretty much what their limits are. They have lived with asthma so long they can tell you when they think they should sit down for awhile."

The Asthmanauts play to win. Through the 1972 season, they won seven straight league championships and 46 of 47 games. All of their opponents are normal, healthy youngsters.

The two nasal cavities found on the snout of most fish are blind pits which function only as sense organs.

Wayne Newton Had To Change His Old Image

By MARIAN FOX
Associated Press Writer
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—
"It's difficult to be a kid at 31," said Wayne Newton, explaining why a few years ago he decided to revise the first edition of himself.

"The old Wayne Newton conjures up an image of a heavier, shorter guy who was almost a character I was doing, it was an act I had done so long," he said by telephone from Las Vegas, where he has become a fixture at hotels like The Sands.

Wayne Newton No. 1 was a chubby, short-haired, baby face, all American-boy who sang in a high-pitched voice that undermined his size. He directed his considerable talents into schmaltzy songs like "Danke Shane" and "Red Roses for a Blue Lady." He was the boy every mother hoped her daughter would marry, or at least bring home to dinner.

"If there were three or four people on stage, I was the straight man," he said. "If they said anything off color, I would look at them like 'What does that mean?'"

Meanwhile, the Wayne Newton that Wayne Newton really was knew exactly what "that" meant, it wasn't his style to acknowledge it. Then, he said, "I decided I was going to grow up, stop being so naive."

Newton said it wasn't a matter of changing himself: "It was just that I decided to be myself instead of this character role I was playing. My old image was so confining."

Newton didn't shuck his image as easily as Clarke Kent switched to Superman. He worked at becoming the Wayne
Newton he really was.

One thing he did was quit eating long enough to lose 90 pounds. At 6 foot-3, he's not exactly a shadow of his former self but, he said, "I have energy I never had before. I feel great."

Six years ago he married a 5-foot-3 Japanese beauty named Elaine. "Someone asked me when I got married if I thought my career would be harmed by the fact that my wife was Japanese," he said. "I remember saying: 'If my talent is not enough to overcome that kind of nonsense, I shouldn't be in the business anyway.'"

Marrying Elaine wasn't part of the master plan to convert Wayne Newton from what he called personality into person, but it served notice that he meant to be what he called "the Wayne Newton I really am."

"I knew I would probably lose some fans in the transition," he said. "But I figured the ones I took away, I probably wouldn't need anyway."

He let his hair grow and put together a nightclub act to showcase his versatility. He sings country, pop, country-pop and easy listening. He's a comedian, an actor and a bit of a dancer. He plays nine instruments.

Newton has been described by a reviewer as "a hurricane, a performer who bursts on stage with enough energy to launch a rocket. He plays more weeks a year in Vegas than any other performer and in one seven-week period appeared before 99,000 people.

He began his career in Vegas in 1959, singing and playing instruments in hotels.

"We did six shows a night, six nights a week for five years," he said. "They say there is no place a young performer can learn today. You can learn if you want to work."

Newton wants to work. "I'm in my 15th week without a night off," he said. "It becomes a way of life. All of a sudden, it's as if you don't know any other thing is going on. But when I work, I work. I don't mix work with play."

When he plays, he has a 22-acre ranch surrounded by an eight-foot block fence, "where the tour buses drive by six times a day." The ranch is his "show place," with tennis courts, a swimming pool, peacocks roaming on the grounds.

He also has a 218-acre spread where he raises "135 head of purebred Arabian horses. Some of the finest stock in the world."

Raising horses is, he said, "a total diversion from what I do.
When I want to relax, I go out in the stable and brush them or take one out for a ride. In a horse-breeding operation, there's always another step.
The challenge is consistently to work toward perfection."

Newton said he would "leave the entertainment business before it leaves me." But the revised edition of Wayne Newton has found acceptance.

"It's not so much what I am to myself," he said. "It's what other people accept me as being. When I record a song now, people don't say, 'That's not the kind of song he's supposed to sing.' People tend not to categorize people anymore. I think that's a healthy thing."

Underpass Just For Animals

EXETER, England (UPI) —
A tiny underpass was constructed under a highway near Exeter to allow nocturnal badgers to follow a path they have trod for centuries.

Badgers will not give up their paths even when roads are built across them and thus are a traffic hazard on English roads at night.

Crossroads And Church Are Bethel's Beginnings

BETHEL — This hundred-year-old town takes its name from Bethel Methodist Church, which was formed about three-quarters of a century earlier. The town was incorporated Dec. 18, 1873 when the population numbered 127, but its history goes back much further. Land grants from 1750-1780 show that Bethel is situated on three different tracts. The first of these was the Andrews land composed of 400 acres settled about 1760 and reaching from what is now the railroad in Bethel to Grindle Creek and to what is Smith Street here. On the north side of what is now the railroad and east of the Andrews land was a 300-acre tract settled about 1700 by Joel Whitfield and later owned by Lenoir Ward. The third tract was 200 acres granted to James Caterhead, a schoolteacher, in 1738, reaching west from Smith Street in Bethel. The first school house in the section was where the D. T. House residence is now. About 1845, Squire Lanier Ward gave a lot for a school a little southeast of the water tank. After Greenville was settled about 1774, a road was built from Greenville to Halifax, which was then the capital. Bethel's Main Street approximately follows this old road. Around the same time the road from Tarboro to Williamston was built. The two formed a crossroads at the corner where Medley Chapel C. M.E. Church now stands. This crossroads was the beginning of Bethel, named for this church, which was then Bethel Methodist Church. The original church was built around 1800. In 1914, the Andrews family donated a lot for the building of a Methodist Meeting House, dedicated Oct. 11. The church was used as a house of worship Sundays and as a school house weekdays. Children living within a six- or seven-mile radius attended this school, where Nathan Hammond was the teacher. About 1840, Oliver Spain built a store at the crossroads and a Post Office was placed in the store and called Bethel Post Office. Spain also built a home for himself nearby. It is still standing, though it has been moved to the Big Oak Road. Bethel became a voting place and a place for the local militia to gather prior to the Civil War. The right of way for the Albermarle and Raleigh Railroad was cleared about 1868, but it was about 15 years before the railroad was built. It ran from Tarboro to Williamston and became known as the Atlantic Coastline. People from throughout the area, including Greenville citizens, had to go to Bethel to get on a train going either north or west, after the railroad was run through Bethel in 1883. First commissioners elected soon after incorporation were Dr. Fernand C. James, Guilford Andrews, James R. Nelson, Andrew Hopkins, and John Bryan. The charter was amended in 1883 and in 1911, the last time the town's size to 247 acres. There was a free public school across Highway 11 from what is now Medley Chapel Church. Bethel was the first town in Pitt County to vote a special tax for the support of schools. A large wooden school building, consisting of one large room and two smaller rooms, was built and the school became graded — the first one in Pitt County, local people claim. Rooms were added, one at a time, until there were eight, when, in 1902, there was "a big day and a big speaking." There also was a private school known as Bethel Academy, founded in 1871, which drew students from throughout the area and some from out-of-state. Some boarded at various homes in town and many roomed in the school itself. Tuition was about $35 or $45 a year, and room and board fees were about $8 a month. The first teacher was Bob Ward, a Pitt County native. Another who taught there for many years was Zack McWhorter, known affectionately as "Mr. Mac." In 1893, the Academy was relocated at the James Hotel, then considered the finest building in Pitt County. Later it was moved back to its original building. The Academy's enrollment suffered during the "Cleveland Depression" of 1892-97, and it yielded to the public school system in 1900. For almost 16 years, the public school was located in the old Bethel Academy building. As throughout its history, Bethel is largely an agricultural center, though it does have several non-farm-oriented industries now. Many of its residents work in Greenville and Tarboro and other neighboring towns, and it uses with pride the slogan—"Bethel, A Nice Place To Live." The present population is about 1850.

BETHEL ACADEMY. . . a private school which flourished from about 1875 to 1900, was housed in this building, still standing in Bethel.

THE OLIVER SPAIN HOUSE. . . moved, but still standing, was the first house built in the corporate limits of Bethel. It was erected around 1840 on the present site of the Andrew Whitehurst home.

Minister Put Cash, Hopes, In Koscot

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A lay minister from Miami says he invested $5,000 in Glenn Turner's motivational Dare To Be Great program with the hope of making enough money to build a church.

James H. Geddes, 47, told a federal court jury in Turner's mail fraud trial Tuesday that he was told he could make $50,000 in just a couple of months. Instead, Geddes testified, he was never even mailed all his sales materials and was later billed an extra $25 for what he had been told were free motivational materials for use in the congregation of his Pentecostal church.

Geddes said he was taken to a sales meeting at which Turner stood on two chairs and worked the 800 persons attending into a frenzy in which they chanted, "Go, go, go" and "Money, money, money."

Turner, Boston attorney F. Lee Bailey and seven other associates are named in a 28-count federal indictment charging that they used the mails to defraud people through the sale

Services Will Begin Sunday

ROCKY MOUNT—Special services will be held at Grace Free Will Baptist Church on Kingston Ave. here beginning Sunday and continuing through Nov. 11.

The Singing Brown Family from Kinston will furnish special music for the 11:00 a.m. service Sunday and return for a concert at 2 p.m.

On Monday through Sunday at 7:30 each evening Evangelist Jack Paramore will speak in revival services. He is a native of North Carolina and now lives in Nashville, Tenn. He is affiliated with the Free Will Baptist Bible College.

Pastor Robert Durham invites the public to attend these services.

The modern boundaries of Afghanistan were established by the British in 1901.

Water Service For Goldsboro

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Water was restored to this eastern North Carolina city of 30,000 Tuesday morning after a broken valve cut off the supply part of the day.

The valve broke at the city's water processing plant as maintenance men tried to install an emergency line from the Neuse River to increase the water supply by two million gallons a day.

The main supply comes from the Little River, a tributary of the Neuse. The Little River fell 40 inches last week, forcing the city to take action against a shortage.

Dr. Jenkins On Board Of Accreditors

WASHINGTON — The American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU) announced that it has appointed three of its members to serve as AASCU representatives to the restructured Board of Commissioners of the National Commission on Accrediting.

The three AASCU presidents named to the Board are: Norman A. Baxter, President of California State University, Fresno; Mames Gemell, President of Clarion State College, Pennsylvania; and Leo W. Jenkins, Chancellor, East Carolina University, North Carolina.

The National Commission on Accrediting is an independent educational agency supported by approximately 1,450 colleges and universities which works to improve accreditation of higher education. The Board has been restructured to include representation of the Federation of Regional Accrediting Commissions of Higher Education, from the Council of Specialized Accrediting Agencies, and representatives from the public sector.

The three presidents will represent the 307 institutional members of AASCU while serving on the Board.

Possibly Late

The mail might be late getting to some state agencies today.

Several months ago the North Carolina government started its own mail service between Raleigh and cities with major concentrations of state government offices — including Greenville.

Early this morning the state's courier — a General Services Administration employee who delivers mail from Raleigh and picks up mail going to the capital — was arrested by Greenville police.

Wesley Eugene Craven, 24, of 401 South Lakeside Dr., Raleigh, was charged with driving under the influence and failing to stop for a stop, light about 3:45 a.m. at the intersection of Third and Evans Street. Craven's bond was set at $300.

EXTENDED WEATHER OUTLOOK FOR N.C.

A chance of rain Thursday, fair and mild Friday and Saturday. Highs will average in the lower 70s and lows in the 40s.

Monday, at 8:15 p.m., is the date for the return of Mid-Atlantic Championship Wrestling to the Memorial Gym, on the ECU Campus on East Tenth Street. The Matches are being sponsored by the Jaycees, with proceeds going to the Boys' Club.

Brute Bernard and Jay York, two grunting villains, along with their manager Beauregarde, go against Sandy Scott and Nelson Royal in the main event.

Scott and Royal are the current Mid-Atlantic Tag Team Champions, and they are two of the most popular wrestlers to ever appear in this part of the country.

The main event will be a one fall bout with an hour time limit.

Midget girl wrestlers are featured in a singles bout that is being given for the kids. Darling Dagmar goes against Diamond

Participants In Rock-a-thon Are Announced

Participants at the Third annual Rock-a-thon to be held this weekend were announced today by the Alpha Phi Omega and Phi Beta Lambda fraternities at East Carolina University.

The Rock-a-thon, a 38-hour continuous rocking match, will be held at Five Points in Greenville from 7 a.m. Friday to 9 p.m. Saturday.

Bob Krainiak will be doing the rocking for Alpha Phi Omega during the entire 38 hours. Mrs. Elizabeth Collins will represent Phi Beta Lambda during this fund raiser.

All proceeds from the event will go to the United Fund. Dennis Barrick, President of Alpha Phi Omega, said he hopes the Rock-a-thon will bring in $3,000.

Farmville Mart Had $88.16 Day

FARMVILLE—The volume of sales on the Farmville Tobacco Market yesterday consisted of mostly leaf and cutter grades. Offerings of other grades remained steady.

Grade for grade prices varied very little as compared with Monday's sales.

Stabilization receipts were unusually light yesterday for this late in the season.

The market sold 494,935 pounds of leaf for $436,323, for an average of $88.16 per hundred pounds. The average last year for that same sale day was $77.56 per hundred pounds.

So far this season, the Farmville market has sold 20,004,247 pounds of tobacco for an average of $89.99 per hundred pounds for the season.

Organizing A New Brigade

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A separate National Guard brigade will be organized in Georgia, the National Guard Bureau announced in Washington Tuesday.

Maj. Gen. Joe B. Paris III, adjutant general of the Georgia National Guard, said the brigade will be formed from existing elements of Georgia's 3rd Brigade of the 30th Mechanized Infantry Division and other elements within the state's current troop allocation.

A spokesman for the state Department of Defense said the most essential part of the change would be having the brigade under the complete administrative control of state officials.

At present, the 3rd Brigade is part of a division that has troops in Georgia, South Carolina and North Carolina.

Gov. Jimmy Carter, South Carolina and North Carolina. Gov. Jimmy Carter said the reorganization, scheduled for Dec. 1, will mean a net increase of 278 guardsmen, including 44 officers.

There are about 9,000 Army guardsmen in Georgia presently.

Program Emphasizes Prevention

By GEORGE A. THREEWITTS
Drugs are not a problem. They never were. The problem is the people who abuse drugs. And the only way to solve the problem is to get the right message to the non-users—your youngsters. That's the premise adopted by the relatively new East Carolina University Regional Drug Program.

Dr. Lionel Kendrick, director of the program and associate professor of Health and Physical Education at East Carolina University, says that the country is spending so much money trying to control the problem that it has neglected the most obvious solution—that is to prevent the problem from occurring in the first place.

For instance, the federal government spends $18,750 to make one drug arrest. It spends $8,500 to rehabilitate one drug addict per year. But only 26 cents per year is spent for each child under 12 years of age to prevent him from becoming an addict.

Kendrick and his two instructors, working under a federal grant and money from the N.C. Drug Authority are involved in a program designed to prevent youngsters from abusing drugs. The program covers 31 eastern counties from Wilson to the coast.

"It's a preventive program," Kendrick said.

"We train teachers and parents to increase their effectiveness in developing the attitudes and values of children," he said.

Kendrick uses what he calls the "Waterpipe Theory" to explain his method for preventing drug abuse.

"You know what happens to a waterpipe with inadequate insulation," he said. "When it runs cold it will freeze and burst."

"That's what is happening with the drug problem. We find a burst pipe and then we spend money on mops and people to clean up the mess when we should be installing better pipe and more insulation," he said.

He explained that you should build a good pipe to start with in a child's life. Then you should insulate his life by building his coping mechanism and controlling his environment.

"When the crisis comes and the windows are thrown open and the heat goes off, everything that you've built will hold," he said.

"Our whole emphasis with teachers and parents," he said, "is to increase their awareness and effectiveness in the techniques of building in some preventive aspects of the drug problem...making them aware of the nature of the problem and the real background causes for it."

"What we are trying to do is offer an habilitation program instead of spending a lot of money on rehabilitation," Kendrick said.

Daughter Of Dead Woman Also Missing

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—The FBI says that the 3-year-old daughter of a woman found dead on a mountainside still is missing.

The two, Mrs. Janet Gail Carter, 24, of Hueytown, Ala., the former Janet Calhoun of Winston-Salem, N.C., and her daughter Christina, had been reported missing in September. Mrs. Carter's body was found Oct. 7 on Clingmans Dome in the Smoky Mountains National Park but it was not identified until last Monday.

The state medical examiner's office in Chapel Hill did so through dental charts. The state FBI office in Charlotte said she and Lindsay Carter of Hueytown were divorced about two months ago. It quoted him as saying his daughter is not with relatives, and he fears she also is dead.

House Heavily Damaged By Tuesday Fire

A house at 311 Airport Rd. was heavily damaged by fire yesterday morning.

Firemen were called to the swelling at 9:15 a.m. and reported heavy damage resulted to a hall, the living room, a bathroom and one bedroom from a fire that apparently started from a floor furnace.

It was the second time in 12 hours that fire units had been called to the home.

Fire officials reported firefighting units were called to the home Monday night when the furnace flooded and became overheated. No damage resulted at that time, officers reported.

Introducing the 1974 Volkswagen.

Our philosophy: Total Transportation.

This year buying a Volkswagen means buying a new idea as well as a new car.

The idea is called Volkswagen's Owner's Security Blanket. It's not just a warranty because warranties don't go far enough. It's a commitment to our owners long after they've signed on the dotted line.

Nobody in the car business has any plan like it. Nobody seems to care enough. Or do enough. Nobody, except Volkswagen.

We like to think of it as Total Transportation because you deserve a car you can count on 365 days a year. And we believe you shouldn't have to keep paying to get what you deserve.

From the minute you drive away in your '74 Volkswagen you'll be secure knowing you've got the world's most advanced new car coverage plan riding with you.

Take a little time to read this and you'll find out how Volkswagen has changed the reasons for buying a new car. You'll also discover that what's behind our Owner's Security Blanket is as exciting as what's under it.

Our 12 month/ 20,000 mile guarantee.

Most car owners drive about 14,000 miles during the first year. So what earthly good is a 12,000-mile guarantee? Volkswagen's coverage is for 20,000 miles—most car companies don't come near that.

This is our guarantee, in plain English: "If you maintain and service your 1974 Volkswagen as prescribed in the Volkswagen Maintenance Schedule, any factory parts found to be defective in material or workmanship within 12 months or 20,000 miles, whichever comes first (except filters and tires), will be repaired or replaced free of charge by any U.S. or Canadian VW dealer."

We guarantee against more than just defective parts.

Volkswagen's Owner's Security Blanket goes far beyond just guaranteeing against defects. Most car companies won't replace a windshield wiper if it wears out. We will. They won't replace a lightbulb. We will.

Take things like brake pads and linings. As long as you have them adjusted when your Maintenance Schedule says so, we'll replace them free if they wear out. Same thing goes for clutch linings and batteries.

And spark plugs and points? We change them free at 12,000 miles and we'll honor that no matter how long it takes you to go that distance. This is unheard of in the auto industry.

24 months/24,000 miles.

We've gone one step further with the insides of our engine and transmission. We guarantee them for two years or 24,000 miles, whichever comes first. Of course we don't cover defects caused by lack of maintenance or abuse.

We guarantee our repairs.

When you're running out of warranty, you're still not out of luck. We'll make the repair free and guarantee the parts and workmanship for an additional 6 months or 6,000 miles.

If the repair takes overnight, we'll lend you a car.

Moving right along, we're committed to keep you moving. So if you're a qualified owner and you find that a warranty repair is going to take overnight, we'll lend you a free car by appointment, for as long as the repair takes.

(And we haven't forgotten owners of older VWs. If your car needs a repair and you need a car, we'll rent you one at a nominal price.)

Express care.

How many times have you heard of waiting two weeks before you can get a headlight fixed? Not at Volkswagen. With Express Care if we can fix something in less than 30 minutes, we'll do it while you wait. No appointment needed for these little repairs, because who needs aggravation?

3 free computer check-ups.

No other car maker in the world has anything like Computer Analysis. (They probably will some day in the future.) Every 1974

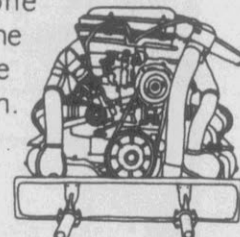

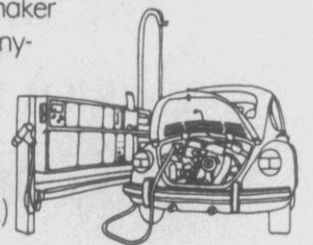

Volkswagen can be plugged into a computer and out comes a written analysis of over 50 vital functions. Everything from your engine compression down to your battery voltage.

Computer Analysis can spot things that even a master mechanic might not see. So we can fix these things while you're still covered by our Owner's Security Blanket.

We're in this together.

We made the car. You own the car. So we're in this together. As long as you maintain your new Volkswagen properly we'll do most of the worrying for you.

That's what Volkswagen's Owner's Security Blanket is all about—once you're a Volkswagen Owner, we're not going to leave you out in the cold.

See your local authorized Volkswagen Dealer.

Ohio Senator Has 'Had It' In Washington

BILL SAXBE is going home rather than battle in the halls of congress. (UPI Telephoto)

By DREW VON BERGEN WASHINGTON (UPI) — Bill Saxbe is going home to Mechanicsburg, Ohio. He's had it with Washington.

Many small town folk who migrate to the big cities do the same thing, but Saxbe is unique because he's a first-term U.S. Senator.

Because he is a Republican, people might think he is leaving because of uncertainty about the Watergate fallout. Or perhaps he has a potentially difficult race for re-election in 1974.

But that's not the case. Most observers felt he would be almost unbeatable if he chose to run.

Then why? Why would a man at the prime of his political career, virtually assured of re-election and a chance to move up on the seniority ladder in Congress, just up and quit?

D.C. Disenchantment Usually outspoken and down-to-earth, Saxbe, 57, gave little indication when he announced his decision at a news conference Oct. 9. He merely cited "personal reasons."

In a subsequent interview with UPI, however, it became clearer. He simply would rather live the rest of his life in the small (pop. 1,200), rural atmosphere of Mechanicsburg, a north-central Ohio farming community, than battle in the Halls of Congress.

An overriding love of cattle raising and disenchantment with the Washington political process made his decision.

"I didn't want to get old in Washington," Saxbe said, explaining he had seen too many of his colleagues do just that.

There's an old adage in the nation's capital about congressmen and senators who catch "Potomac Fever" — "You can't go back to Pocatello."

Not Unanimous Sen. William Bart Saxbe, R-Ohio, hasn't caught that disease.

The decision was not unanimous in the Saxbe household. Saxbe's wife, Dolly, wanted to stay in the nation's capital.

"She likes Washington," Saxbe said. "She likes the life."

But Saxbe admits he misses the "scrambling" that accompanies his cattle breeding and management farm back home. He's got about 200 head now. Most are owned by others, but he cares for them.

"Every day's a challenge," he went on, chewing on a wad of tobacco he had jammed in his mouth when the interview began. "You do most of your business out of your hip pocket."

Government Career

The telephone rang on his desk in his Senate office. He set up a luncheon date the next day in Columbus, along with a suggestion he and his companion go out and look at the cattle afterwards.

Getting 2,000 bales of hay and some equipment was the main thing on his mind.

"My Dad was a cattle buyer," he said. "That's what I always intended to be. I don't know where I went wrong."

Well, the "wrong" included a career in government dating back to 1946, when he was elected to the Ohio House of Representatives at the age of 29. At 34 he was majority leader and at 37 Speaker of the House.

Saxbe then served two terms as State Attorney General before defeating now-Gov. John Gilligan for the Senate seat in 1968.

Known As Independent

His background foretold a lengthy career in Washington and he quickly gained a reputation for independence. He refused to abide by the axiom that a freshman legislator should only be seen, not heard.

Last December, for example, when President Nixon ordered massive bombing of North Vietnam, Saxbe said the President had "taken leave of his senses."

Much of the five years that Saxbe spent in Washington has been devoted to efforts to reform the congressional system.

"They're obviously avoiding the big problems facing the country," he said of his colleagues. "Everything they put off to the next session, and the next session."

"Common Scold"

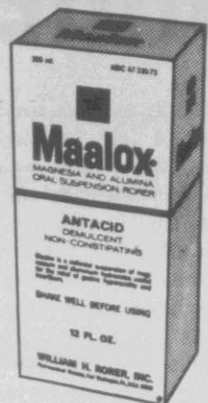

While he would like to continue his role of reformer, Saxbe notes that he would be 65 at the end of another term and might be considered "a gadfly."

"Sooner or later, you become a common scold," he said. "This has been an interesting phase of my life but I'm ready to move on."

That won't happen until his term expires in January, 1975, and Saxbe warns:

"In the meantime I'm going to continue raising hell to get things done."

Foreign Prisons Holding Hundreds Of Americans

By LUCINDA L. FRANKS
United Press International
The William Hayes family have used up their savings and remortgaged their home. Robert Lipner is ill and despairs of ever finishing the novel he has wanted to write all his life. Enoch Strawder, an Air Force man, rusts in an English prison.

Three sets of lives wrecked. Young men separated from their families. Dreams shattered, futures blacked out, all because one day, while they were sojourning abroad, each was found by foreign police with quantities of marijuana, or some other illegal drug, in his possession.

Almost 950 young Americans are presently languishing in foreign prisons around the world on drug charges. There are about 200 imprisoned in Europe and the Middle East. Some, such as William James Hayes, 26, have received draconian sentences—30 years in a Turkish prison—and others, such as writer Robert Lipner, are confined to windowless cells in what are described as unsanitary, disease-ridden jails in Spain. In many countries, there is no differentiation between hard and soft drugs and possession might carry much greater penalties than at home.

The U.S. embassies say there is virtually nothing they can do about the plight of these people; when an American is in another country he is subject to the laws of that country, with no exceptions—unless, that is, he has diplomatic immunity. The most they can do, the U.S. consulates say, is to make occasional visits of charity to the imprisoned.

All of which leaves the common citizen, who has neither riches nor connections, in heavy trouble once he is arrested. He might end up with a court-appointed lawyer or a foreign-born one with little personal interest in seeing an American go free. He is often subject to an unfamiliar judicial system where bail, procedural safeguards, protection against self-incrimination and other principles of justice do not exist.

Guilt presumed
Spanish law, for instance, is based on the Napoleonic code, and as Robert Lipner found out, a man is guilty until proven innocent. Lipner, 43, has been held in jail without bail for four months and it could take a year before a trial date is set.

Lipner was a real estate broker in New York until he gave it all up to write a novel in Spain earlier this year.

He was returning by ferry boat from a vacation in Fez, Morocco, when custom guards searched his car and said they found 77 pounds of hashish fastened to the radiator. Lipner, his wife, Sandra, and their eight-year-old daughter were immediately slapped in jail. Lipner claims that he was forced to admit "technical responsibility" for drug smuggling in order to get his family released.

Mrs. Bea Lipner, a widow who works for a New York publishing house, said she had so far sent about $1,000 to a Spanish lawyer but that he had not followed up the case to her satisfaction and the family had lost confidence in him. Her son's car was auctioned off by Spanish authorities to help meet legal expenses but she has yet to see the money for it. "We are so desperate. No one seems to be able to help us," she said in an interview. "My son is no spring chicken. He wasn't seeking any hippie thrills. I don't believe for a minute he is guilty. He just wanted to write his book and now he's given up hope. He doesn't see any point in even working on it."

Lipner, who claims he is innocent, says a German tourist befriended the family in Fez and one night when Lipner was ill, asked to borrow his car. The Lipners left for Spain shortly afterward. The Spanish lawyer has been unable to locate the German.

Abysmal jails
Mrs. Bea Lipner says the conditions in Cadiz prison, where her son is jailed, are abysmal and that intestinal diseases have spread among the U.S. and Spanish prisoners. Recently, Lipner had to have a hernia operation in the prison hospital and although he came through the surgery satisfactorily he wrote his mother that he would not send his horse to be shot there.

After a series of letters to the U.S. embassy in Madrid, transatlantic calls to her daughter-in-law, telegrams, and care packages to Cadiz prison which her son never received, Mr. Lipner has all but given up hope.

As a last resort, she sent a telegram to Generalissimo Francisco Franco appealing for him personally to send an investigator to expedite her son's case. She has not heard from Franco.

Lipner, when he finally does stand trial, faces, a minimum sentence of six years and a day for possession, or if convicted for drug trafficking, a maximum of 20 years. He also will have to pay a heavy fine which his lawyer says could be $20,000.

The William Hayes family of Long Island, N.Y., have been just about wiped out by similar tragedy. Their son, William James, 26, was arrested in 1970 at the Istanbul airport with 4.3 pounds of hashish strapped to his waist. His parents have spent the last three years trying to get him out of a Turkish jail.

Family savings spent
Hayes, a tall, fair lad who has lost considerable weight in prison, was originally convicted of simple possession and sentenced to four years which, with time off for good behavior, would have been up this summer. But a Turkish prosecutor took the case to the Supreme Court and Hayes was found guilty of smuggling the hashish and given another 30 years.

"We couldn't believe it," William Hayes Sr., a personnel administrator at Metropolitan Life Insurance Co., told UPI. "We thought four years for such a small amount of hashish was harsh enough but we were able to live with that. Now, this 30-year sentence is just ridiculous."

Hayes Sr., was not a rich man before his son's difficulties. Now, however, he has used up the family's savings and taken a second mortgage on his home to pay for Turkish lawyers and a trip abroad to see his son in jail. Recently, some of the financial burden was lifted by "Billy Hayes Defense Fund" set up by the family's friends. They have raised about $2,000 and bombarded New York Sens. Jacob Javits and James Buckley with letters. Javits and Buckley, as a result, have appealed to the U.S. government to ask for Hayes' return to the United States. According to Turkish law, any foreign national interned in a Turkish prison can be sent home to serve his time—but only if his government requests it.

A Long Island attorney, John Sutter, has taken on the Hayes case free of charge and is working with the senators. "The injustice of this case is that the American principles of double jeopardy do not apply in Turkey. Hayes was tried twice for the same crime, something which would not happen in his own country," he said.

"Billy has a lot on the ball," his father said. "He was on the wrestling team at school, wanted to go into journalism, and had a good future. We're going to get him out. I don't care what I have to do or how high I have to go. We're going to get him home."

Circumstantial Case
When Mrs. Odessa Toliver of Monroe, La., heard her son, Air Force Sgt. Enoch Strawder, 23, station in Britain, had been sentenced to seven years in jail for conspiracy to peddle drugs, she could not—as the Hayes' could—afford a trip overseas. So instead, she wrote furiously to her congressman, lawyers, doctors, the mayor of Monroe, the British immigration department, the court where her son was tried, and even got up a petition.

Strawder was arrested in London two years ago in a raid on the home of a fellow Air Force man. Police seized large quantity of pills—"uppers and downers"—and a British court finally convicted Strawder and two others of conspiracy to peddle the pills. Mrs. Toliver says her son was convicted on circumstantial evidence and she has appealed to U.S. and British authorities to re-examine his case.

"None of it did any good. Nobody answered my letters," said Mrs. Toliver. "I've gone through torture worrying about my son."

Enoch's stepfather, Hotson Toliver, who spent 24 years in the Air Force, can't understand why the U.S. military cannot do anything to help him.

"He was never in any trouble of any kind before," Mrs. Toliver said. "My younger son had planned going into the service after his brother, but now he's a bit leery about it. He feels that if it hadn't been for the Air Force, his brother would not be in jail in the first place."

Mexico Tops List

Although Spain, Turkey, and Britain are three of the most publicized places where frequent drug arrests of Americans occur, in fact they are relatively far down on the list of countries which have imprisoned the most U.S. citizens.

Mexico tops the list, followed by Canada, and then Germany, with 110 civilian Americans, including four young women, serving time on narcotics convictions.

A U.S. State Department spokesman sums up the drug sentencing situation like this:

"Young travelers better know what they are up against when they use drugs. What happens to you in court depends on where you are and how the officials of that country feel on a particular day.

"If a judge feels particularly hostile to hippies, or drugs, or even just Americans, then you might find yourself in the position of the mouse being hit with a sledgehammer."

Elm Disease In South Dakota

PIERRE, S.D. (UPI) — A survey by the South Dakota Department of Game, Fish and Parks has verified that the Dutch Elm disease which started on the Eastern seaboard has reached 30 counties in eastern and southern South Dakota. The American elm and the green ash are the dominant tree species in most South Dakota cities.

POSSUM WIGGLE

Fountain Native New President Of Alumni Ass'n

BUIE'S CREEK—Fountain native E. Bruce Beasley III was elected president of the Campbell College Alumni Association during the school's homecoming last Saturday.

In welcoming Beasley as president of the 12,500-member Association, Campbell President Norman A. Wiggins noted Beasley's achievements since his graduation from Campbell in 1966. He is assistant director of the Mid-East Economic Development Commission, president of the Washington Jaycees, Heart Fund chairman for Beaufort County, and a member of the Board of Directors of the Washington Chamber of Commerce.

Beasley said Campbell, with a student body of 2,200 is the third largest private college in North Carolina. It is supported by the Southern Baptists and private contributors.

Collecting Stamps For White Siberian Tiger

A white Siberian Tiger for trading stamps? It's not in the catalogs, but in North Carolina a tiger for the state's new zoo is what Distributive Education students are trying to get by soliciting trading stamps.

In Greenville, at Rose High School, Jasper Perry and 55 DE students have started a local campaign to collect trading stamps to help purchase a Siberian Tiger, considered one of the most beautiful animals in the world.

Recently, Mrs. Jim Holshouser kicked off the campaign by donating some books of stamps to students in Raleigh.

"We've gotten a fine start," Perry said, "with over 115 books already collected. These were collected from parents of our DE students who are enthusiastic about helping out."

Perry said the students would be collecting up until Christmas. "We're hoping people will join in on this project," he said, "and we'll be happy to get any amount of redeemable trading stamps, from a few to full books. People who want to give stamps can mail them to Rose High School in care of me or drop them by the principals office."

"We're keeping a list of contributors, and this will be sent to the state headquarters," Perry added.

SOUTHPORT, N. C. (AP) — Five persons aboard a 54-foot sailing yacht were rescued last week when the vessel sank in the Atlantic Ocean off the coast of North Carolina, under a battering by high seas and winds accompanying tropical storm Gilda.

The ketch-rigged Inisfree, of Canadian registry, sank off the mouth of the Cape Fear River in 75 feet of water last Friday evening after a day-long effort to save it, according to the Coast Guard.

First word that the vessel was in trouble was received at 2:20 a.m. last Thursday, a Coast Guard spokesman said. The sinking was logged at 7:43 p.m. Friday after hours of pumping failed to keep up with the water the vessel was taking aboard.

The owner, one of the three who were last to leave the stricken yacht, was identified as Alex Rigby of Toronto.

Boatswain Mate Glen Hawkins, who skipped a 44-foot lifeboat from the Oak Island Coast Guard station near Southport, said he was told the sailing vessel wandered over Fry- ing Pan Shoals in the high winds and seas and began leaking when it raked the bottom.

Hawkins said two persons from the Inisfree were put aboard the Fry- ing Pan Light Tower, although one of the two fell in the water and had to be fished out by light tower personnel.

The yacht, which had been under power, lost its engine when it ramed the light tower, Hawkins said.

A pump was transferred from the lifeboat to the yacht and two others were added after being brought to the scene by a Coast Guard helicopter.

Hawkins said the lifeboat arrived on the scene shortly before 10 a.m. and the effort to save the vessel continued until nightfall.

The lifeboat managed to tow the larger vessel toward the lee of the shoals, getting assistance from the National Oceanographic and Atmospheric Administration vessel, Peirce.

"By 7:38 p.m. the Inisfree was low in the water and the situation was severe," Hawkins said. The Peirce, which had taken over the tow, was directed to drop its line at 7:40 p.m., Hawkins said, and three minutes later the big sailing vessel disappeared beneath the waves.

Nine Patrols At Camporee

H. B. Sugg School in Farmville was the site for the Sunrise District fall camporee. Nine patrols from all over Pitt County participated.

First place was won by the Eagle patrol of Troop 414 from Stokes. They received the Joyner Award given in memory of Scout Chris Wilson. The Joyner Award was donated by Troop 191.

The Flaming Arrow patrol, of Grimesland of which Chris was the leader before his death, won second place. They received a basketball.

The Roaring Lion Patrol from Fountain, although smallest in number, received third place honors and received a touch football.

The spring camporee is scheduled for March, 1974. It is hoped that the Spring camporee will see triple numbers of patrols participating. The "Scout Wagon" which helped to house patrols at this camporee is available for patrol and troop camping by calling 752-5500.

GREENSBORO (AP) — Police have charged a North Carolina A&T University student with murder in connection with a fatal shooting Tuesday.

Chester Harris, 24, was charged in the slaying of 32-year-old Harold Farrington. Both were listed as having residences in Greensboro.

Officers said the shooting occurred in a parking lot on the A&T campus. Harris was arrested at the scene, officers said.

Police said Farrington was shot with a small caliber handgun. A motive was not determined.

Action On Kerner's Taxes

CHICAGO (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service says civil court action on deficient 1969 income taxes has been under way for seven months against former Illinois Gov. Otto Kerner.

Kerner, a Democrat, already faces a prison term for bribery, conspiracy, mail fraud and tax evasion.

An IRS spokesman said the government is seeking more than $12,000 in taxes on deductions Kerner made for donating his personal papers to the Illinois Historical Society.

Court records indicate the papers were appraised at $73,375 by a Lincoln scholar.

Kerner, who is on leave of absence as a judge from the 7th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, was sentenced to three years in prison last February in connection with dealings in Illinois race-track stock while he was governor. The conviction is under appeal.

Tripp; 514th Sergeant George Pleasant; Lt. Col. Lee G. Harris the battalion commander; and 514th company commander Capt. Bobby G. Webb.

Church Ends 'Action' Aid

NEW YORK (AP) — The Episcopal Church has dismissed the director and five-member staff of a controversial special program which for six years funded community action projects among the poor.

"The church doesn't want a program with a black image any more," said the program's director, Leon Modeste. He disclosed Tuesday that he and the rest of his staff, all black, had been fired effective at the year's end.

The dismissals came in the wake of the denomination's governing convention in Louisville, Ky., which had ordered a reshuffling of operations for aiding minorities.

The special program since 1967 has administered church grants totaling $7.5 million to some 300 community action groups, mostly black.

Opponents contended the grants sometimes went to support revolutionary-style groups. But backers of the program said the no-strings-attached aid promoted fresh trust in the Episcopal Church among blacks.

The church's executive officer, Bishop Roger Blanchard, said in confirming the dismissals that they had been necessitated by the convention's realignment of the special program into a new umbrella section for minorities.

Council Favors School Bonds

Members of the Ayden-Grifton Advisory Council have endorsed the $300 million school bond issue facing eligible voters on Nov. 6.

Council members encourage all eligible voters in Pitt County to vote "yes" next Tuesday.

The 1973 North Carolina General Assembly enacted legislation to allow the voters in the state of North Carolina to decide on the question of providing $300 million in state funds to assist city and county boards of education in providing adequate school facilities.

If approved, the Pitt County Schools system will receive $3,063,802.50 to meet the construction and renovation needs now and in the future.

Entertain Visually Impaired

A recreation program for visually impaired adults is now underway, meeting every first and third Thursday at the Meadowbrook Center.

So far six persons are enrolled in the Greenville Recreation Department program, according to Gail Lytle, an ECU Parks and Recreation major who is Recreation Department intern helping out with the program this quarter. The supervisor is Alice Keen.

At a meeting yesterday afternoon, the group familiarized themselves with bingo cards adapted by Miss Lytle for the blind and told ghost stories.

Col. Harris who gave a brief outline of guard activities urged the employers present to support the National Guard. He explained that it is less expensive to employers to have an employee who is an active guardman than to have an employee on active duty with the military.

Bosses attending last night's session were asked to fill in forms indicating their support for the National Guard, and wall plaques will be presented to them at a later date.

Intra-County Games Highlight Weekend

Ayden-Grifton's Chargers, rolling along with no troubles in the Eastern Carolina Conference, suddenly find themselves with only a share of first place instead of all of it.

And they can thank last year's champion, Southern Nash, for that.

The Firebirds pulled off a 20-14 upset Friday night, giving the Chargers their first loss of the season in the league. It prevented Ayden-Grifton from clinching one of the two playoff berths that the conference has this week, but they should be able to do it this week.

Elsewhere, Charles B. Aycock pulled off its first victory of the year, stunning Eastern Wayne, 19-13, while D.H. Conley ripped North Pitt, 46-14, Farmville Central nipped Greene Central, 14-13, and Southern Wayne pulled into a tie with Ayden-Grifton by downing North Lenoir, 29-6.

This Friday, Ayden-Grifton goes to North Pitt, seeking to wrap up a berth, while Southern Wayne is at Eastern Wayne, after the same thing. Aycock goes to Southern Nash, while Conley is at Farmville Central and Greene Central is at North Lenoir.

Edenton is close to clinching the title for the Northeastern Conference after downing Williamston, 13-7, in a game started on Friday but not completed until Monday due to a power failure. Ahsokie, the only team with a chance to catch the Aces, beat Washington, 35-8, while Bertie beat Tarboro, 32-7, and Plymouth downed Roanoke Rapids, 21-6.

This week's games sent Ahsokie to Tarboro, Bertie to Edenton, Plymouth to Williamston and Roanoke Rapids to Washington.

Robersonville has clinched at least a tie for the Eastern Plains Conference title with its 48-0 win over South Edgecombe. The Eagles can wrap it up with a victory at Saratoga on Friday. Other league results saw Elm City beat West Edgecombe, 21-8; Saratoga drop Lee Woodard, 28-6; Rock Ridge upset North Johnston 17-2.

Friday, besides Robersonville at Saratoga, Lee Woodard is at Elm City, South Edgecombe is at North Johnston, and Rock Ridge is at West Edgecombe.

Charger coach Mike Overton felt his team outperformed Southern Nash, but fumbled away their chances to win the game. "We moved the ball on them, but we fumbled it away when we'd get into good field position," he said. "We also set up a couple of their scores by fumbling deep in our own territory."

"I just don't know how to explain it. You go along all season, and all your mistakes seem to come at once."

Overton did have praise for some players, singling out Milton Brown for his play both offensively and defensively. "The defensive unit played pretty good even though it gave up more points than in any other game. They had their backs to the wall too often, however."

This week, the Chargers go against North Pitt with the chance to sew up that playoff berth again. "We have to forget last week," Overton said. "We must win the last two to retain the number one playoff berth, and the schedule would seem to be in our favor. And now I don't think we'll have any trouble getting up for the rest of our season—no matter who we play."

North Pitt's Danny Wilmer, whose team found it hard—well, impossible—to contain Conley's Willie Hawkins, now must face the brunt of the Charger attack. "He's tough," Wilmer said of Hawkins. "We just let them run all over us, too. You can't win when you get run over like that,

and they whipped us bad."

The Panthers also got bad news when Jeffrey Price left the game with a broken collarbone and will be out for the rest of the year. "That leaves us with only 18 players," Wilmer said.

He praised Clarence Mooring for his running in the game, and John Moody for his blocking.

"They're going to be mad," Wilmer said of Ayden-Grifton, "and are going to want to take it out on us. They probably realize that they can lose and will come ready to play. We are going to have to play 100 per cent perfect to stay in the game. We'll try to do the best we can—we're not going to lay down, that's for sure."

The job North Pitt had last week is placed on the shoulders of Farmville Central, fresh from its big win over the Rams of Greene Central—stopping Willie Hawkins.

"The victory helped out a little bit," Farmville Central Coach Gene Brewer said. "The defense, after the game got started, did a real good job. We missed some opportunities on offense, and we should have done better. After Jerry Carraway (the Ram quarterback) got hurt, they weren't able to throw as much, and he's a real good passer."

Wardell Blow, George Gay and Chester Ellis drew praise for leading the defensive charge against the Rams. "The whole defense performed well," Brewer said.

Brewer feels that Conley has a real good ball club. "Hawkins is an outstanding back," he said. "And Calvin Hawkins is also a fine runner. Obviously, we're going to have to try and find a way to stop them."

Conley's Chuck Dunn felt that North Pitt gave Conley a much tougher game than the score indicated. "Willie had a pretty good night, but he had good blocking. You can't do it by yourself."

Dunn said that the game was much closer than the score indicated. "We were ahead only 28-14 in the third quarter. They played us a heck of a game, and we finally broke it open in the fourth quarter. Overall we played well. We didn't fumble, but the defense suffered a let-down in the third period when we got three touchdowns ahead. They came up with some quick scores, and then we tightened up again."

Naturally, with Hawkins gaining over 300 yards, he couldn't be left out of any circle of praise. "Calvin played well both offensively and defensively. Dallas Wade, Eddie Bunch and Joel Dunn also did a good job on offense, and Keith Gould, Lawrence Harper and Wayne Maness played well on defense," Dunn said.

"Farmville Central has always been a tough football team—I've been around Pitt County long enough to know that. They are sound and they don't make mistakes. It should be a very tough game. They're coming off a big win and it's Homecoming for them too. We expect to have our hands full."

Seaver Given Young Award

By ED SCHUYLER JR. Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Seaver once said he'd be happy to last five years in the majors. Today, he is the owner of a second Cy Young Award as the National League's best pitcher.

"When I first started playing, I told my wife I'd be happy to get five years in the big leagues," the New York Mets right-hander said Tuesday after winning his second Cy Young Award in seven seasons in the majors.

"Now I want to pitch until I'm 35," added the 28-year-old Seaver, who became the fourth pitcher in the 18-year history of the award to win it more than once and the first in either the National or American Leagues to win it without at least 20 victories for the season.

But Seaver, who posted a 19-10 record, and led the NL in strikeouts with 251 and in earned run average, 2.08, won comfortably over reliever Mike Marshall of Montreal and Ron Bryant of San Francisco, the league's only 20-game winner.

In voting by a committee of the Baseball Writers Association of America, Seaver got 10 first-place votes and 70 points after being named on 21 ballots, more than any other candidate.

Marshall, who was 14-11 with 31 saves in 92 appearances for Montreal, got nine first-place votes and 54 points in posting the best Cy Young showing ever for a relief pitcher.

Bryant got three first-place votes and 50 points for his 24-12 performance. However, his ERA was 3.53 and he was the first National League 20-game winner to fail to record a shut-out since Willie Sherdel of St. Louis in 1928.

Others receiving support were Jack Billingham of Cincinnati, who got the other two first-place votes and 30 points; Don Sutton of Los Angeles, seven points; Fred Norman of Cincinnati, three points, and Dave Giusti of Pittsburgh, one point.

"It means an awful lot to me because of the name that's on it and because it goes to one pitcher in the league—and that's it," said Seaver after joining Sandy Koufax of Los Angeles, 1963-65-66; Bob Gibson of St. Louis, 1968-70, and Denny McLain of Detroit in the American League, 1968-69, as multiple Cy Young Award winners.

"I really didn't think I'd win it," said Seaver, who also won in 1969 when he had a 25-7 record. "It was really a surprise because of the importance of winning 20 games. But all the other numbers (innings, strikeouts, earned run average, etc.) were there and I'm glad the voters looked at them."

"I think I pitched well enough to win 20," he added.

Swapped Problems

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The Phoenix Suns had their differences with controversial Connie Hawkins and the Los Angeles Lakers were unable to come to terms with holdout Keith Erickson, so the two National Basketball association teams swapped problems.

Los Angeles hopes to gain added scoring punch at forward and Phoenix is looking to bolster an erratic defense.

To obtain Hawkins, 31, hampered by injuries this season, the Lakers Tuesday traded Erickson, 29, who never reported to the club this year because of a salary dispute, and their second choice in the 1974 NBA draft.

Hawkins has played four years in the NBA after two in the ABA.

With Phoenix Hawkins has been accused of lackadaisical play, skipping practices and showing up late.

"I've had trouble sustaining concentration for really long periods of time," said Hawkins. "I'm going to try concentrating more and be more serious about basketball."

The 6-foot-8 Hawkins may lack some defensive skills but he has averaged 20.7 points a game at forward, where the Lakers have two rebounding specialists—Bill Bridges and Happy Hairston.

Erickson, in his eighth year, played previously with San Francisco and Chicago. He remained a holdout, reportedly demanding that his salary, said to be $90,000 a year, be raised to $150,000. It was reported he spurned a Lakers offer of $105,000.

Green Is Grid Champ

The Green team downed the Blue, 21-12, yesterday to capture the league championship in the 7th and 8th Grade Tackle Football League, sponsored by the Greenville Recreation Department.

Danny Carmon scored in the first period for the Green, going over from four yards out. Richard Nunn picked up the extra point for a 7-0 lead.

Michael Shank came back in the second quarter to score from two yards away and Carmon ran over the PAT to up the score to 14-0 at halftime.

The Green put it away with one more in the third period. Carmon again scored, this time from 50 yards out. Nunn picked up the extra point to up it to 21-0.

The Blue scored when Robert Williams took back a 36-yard pass interception. Then, in the fourth period, the Blue scored again, with Williams taking a 55-yard pass from Frank Novak.

The Green finished the season with a 5-0 record, while the Blue was 3-2. The Gold finished third with an 0-4 record.

Quarterback Joe West

West Guiding Elon's Unbeatens To The Top

ELON COLLEGE—Since Joe West became the number one signal caller at the start of the 1971 football season, Elon's Fighting Christians have come out the losers in only six of 30 encounters, and the performances of the 6-1, 174-pound quarterback from Greenville have been the primary reasons for that imposing record.

West, who transferred to Elon from East Carolina University, brought with him a great passing arm and the ability to read defenses exceptionally well. The result has been that Elon has been quite successful on offense, and the Maroon and Gold of Coach Red Wilson isn't afraid to put the ball in the air at any time or from any place.

In leading Elon to a perfect 8-0 record thus far in the 1973 season and 11 straight wins over the past two seasons, West has passed for 1,122 yards and eight touchdowns, completing 81 of 146 passes (55.5 per cent) along the way. He's averaging 140.3 yards a game through the air and leads the tough Carolinas Conference in both individual passing and total offense. He was the passing and total offense leader in the conference a year ago as he gained All-NAIA District 26 and honorable mention All-State honors. This year he seems headed for an even better season.

"I don't know if I'm having a whole lot better year this season than last," said West, "but I do feel I'm doing a better job as far as play selection is concerned. I also feel I am reading defenses much better."

With West at quarterback, Elon has begun using the pass with greater success than ever before as the product of Greenville Rose High School has passed for 3623 yards in his 30 games as a Fighting Christian. He has connected on 291 of 529 aeriels, a 55.0 per cent completion average, and his tosses have resulted in 25 touchdowns for the Fighting Christians. West has scored once on the ground himself in his three years under Wilson. But the personal success he has enjoyed isn't what is most important to him.

"I want it to be known that I played for the most successful team and best team ever at Elon," West remarked. "I'd like for us to win a third straight conference title and then go on from there. I also want it known that Elon plays as good a brand of football as does some of the other schools in the area."

Although West considers the Fighting Christians to be basically a running team, he feels Elon's opponents know they will have to stop the Elon passing game as well as the running attack if they want to beat the Maroon and Gold.

"We are a ball control team," he admitted. "Teams that play us know they have to stop our running and passing, not just one or the other. I don't consider myself to be a 'mad bomber' either.

"I like to stay in the pocket because then I have four receivers instead of just two to throw the ball to," he added.

One of the things West emphasized most about the 1973 edition of the Fighting Christians is that he has a number of fine receivers to throw to. That presents added problems to the Maroon and Gold foes.

"We have had 11 different players to catch passes for us this season, and four of those have caught 11 passes or more," West said. "All our people can catch the ball, and that makes it hard for our opponents. They may stop one of our receivers, but they can't stop them all."

One of Elon's married players, West was wed to the former Teresa Garner of Greenville in August.

Holtz To Visit Former Mentor

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS The football game at South Carolina Saturday night will be a sort of homecoming for Lou Holtz, coach of the North Carolina State Wolfpack. He was an assistant on the staff of the South Carolina coach, Paul Dietzel, during the 1966 and 1967 seasons.

"This is the best team Paul has ever had at South Carolina," says Holtz, who scouted the Gamecocks in their heart-breaking 33-29 loss to undefeated and seventh-ranked LSU. "And the whole key is No. 12, Jeff Grantz. He's Superman, squared. Whenever he has the ball, something is going to happen. If there is a better veer quarterback in America, I hope we don't see him."

South Carolina, on three passes from Grantz to tight end Marty Woolbright, was on the LSU 12-yard line when time ran out on its chance for victory. Grantz accounted for 276 yards in total offense, 196 of them on 11 completions in 19 passes.

South Carolina, a former member of the Atlantic Coast Conference, is now independent, while the North Carolina State Wolfpack leads the ACC with victories in all four league games and a 5-2 over-all record.

In games Saturday afternoon for ACC teams, Maryland will be home to Penn State, Clemson will be home to Wake Forest, Duke will be at Georgia Tech, and North Carolina at Virginia.

Virginia is averaging over 200 yards a game rushing and nearly 200 passing. It will be the eighth game in a row that the North Carolina Tar Heels have played against an outstanding offensive team.

Regan Moves Into Tie For Lead In Southern Conference Scoring

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Terry Regan of William and Mary, who hasn't had as much running time this season as he'd probably like, used both feet last Saturday to move into a tie with Barty Smith of Richmond for the Southern Conference football scoring lead.

While Smith, the season-long leader, was being shut out in the Spiders' 14-8 defeat at Northeast Louisiana, Regan was scoring 15 points in William and Mary's 45-14 romp over Virginia Military.

The junior tailback-kicking specialist ran for one touchdown, kicked six extra points and booted a field goal as he boosted his season's total to 54 points, the same as Smith.

While Smith has scored nine touchdowns, Regan has two TDs, 27 conversion kicks and five field goals.

Two players who failed to score and who were tied for second place last week are now deadlocked for third with 42 points each.

They are sophomore running backs Kenny Strayhorn of East Carolina and Bobby Allen of Richmond. Each has seven touchdowns, but Allen is finished for the season with a broken collarbone he suffered at Northeast Louisiana.

Furman kicking specialist Al Standiford of Furman moved into fifth place with five conversions and a field goal in a 40-21 victory over East Tennessee. Standiford has 19 conversions and seven field goals for the season.

Another kicker, Jim Woody of East Carolina, is sixth with 39 points on 24 conversions and five field goals. Woody kicked one extra point and two field goals in the Pirates' 28-27 defeat at North Carolina.

East Carolina quarterback Carl Summerell, who ran for one touchdown against the Tar Heels, is seventh with 38 points on six touchdowns and a two-point conversion.

There's a three-way tie for eighth with 36 points each among running backs Doug Gerhart of William and Mary and Carlester Crumpler of East Carolina and quarterback Bill Deery of William and Mary.

Gerhart and Deery failed to score against VMI, but Crumpler scored twice against North Carolina and now has scored six times in the last three games.

Crumpler was the conference player of the year last season when he set four league records, including 17 touchdowns and 102 points for one season, but he has been running behind Strayhorn most of this season after being hurt in the Pirates' opening game.

Memphis Nails Cougars By 11

By HOWARD SMITH

Associated Press Sports Writer "First place ... how about that," crowed Buffalo rookie Ernie DiGregorio. "They said it couldn't be done."

But the Braves did it Tuesday night, shading the Seattle Supersonics 105-103 to move into first place in the National Basketball Association's tough Atlantic Division.

Buffalo has now won four straight games and leads its division by a half-game.

In other NBA games, the Atlanta Hawks coasted past the Phoenix Suns 122-101, the Milwaukee Bucks buried the Kansas City-Omaha Kings 112-78 and the Portland Trail Blazers rallied to edge the Los Angeles Lakers 114-112.

In the American Basketball Association the Memphis Tams defeated the Carolina Cougars 110-99 and the San Antonio Spurs beat the New York Nets 104-92.

DiGregorio, Bob McAdoo and Randy Smith shared scoring honors for the Braves with 21 points apiece, but the issue wasn't settled until Smith sank a pair of free throws with just one second to play.

The Sonics were setting up a final shot and Dick Gibbs bounced a pass toward Spencer Haywood. The ball went through Haywood's legs and Smith picked it up near the foul line with six seconds left.

Smith dribbled the length of the court in a race against the clock and got to the basket in time to get fouled by Dick Snyder. Two free throws later, the issue was settled.

Hawks 122, Suns 101

Pete Maravich pumped in 31 points and Lou Hudson added 21 as Atlanta made it four wins in their last five games. It was the sixth straight loss for Phoenix.

Bucks 112, Kings 78

Milwaukee posted its seventh straight triumph and ninth in 10 games on the year. The Bucks led by just four points at the half but increased the margin to 18 by the end of the third period, hitting 17 of 24 shots from the field in the quarter.

Blazers 114, Lakers 112

Elon Climbs To Eleventh Place

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Powerful Tennessee State remained on top and once-mighty Delaware almost tumbled out of the top ten in the Associated Press' weekly College Division football poll.

Tennessee State ran its record to 7-0 with a 21-6 decision over Southern University last Saturday. That was impressive enough to earn 28 of 45 first-place votes from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters Tuesday. Tennessee State collected 874 points.

Delaware, riding a 20-game winning streak two weeks ago, was beaten by Temple 31-8. It was the Blue Hens' second straight loss, against six victories, and virtually ended their hopes for a third consecutive college division national title.

Delaware fell from second in the poll last week down to 10th this week.

Hawaii, 6-0, took over second place after edging Nevada-Las Vegas 31-29. The Rainbows picked up six first-place votes and 775 points.

Western Kentucky jumped from fifth to third on the strength of a 34-7 romp over Morehead State. Western Kentucky, 7-0, collected 635 points and two first-place votes.

Cal Poly-SLO, 6-0 after beating Fresno State 28-14, remained fourth with 529 points and five first-place votes. South Dakota, 7-1, advanced one spot to fifth after beating Augustana, S.D. 28-21.

Louisiana Tech, also 7-1, climbed two places to sixth following a 26-7 victory over Southeastern Louisiana. Wittenberg got two first-place votes and held seventh place after topping Mount Union 35-17 for its seventh straight victory.

North Dakota State, 8-1, moved up two spots to eighth and got one first-place vote after trimming South Dakota State 24-14. Boise State, 6-1, crushed Montana 66-7 and jumped from 11th to ninth. Delaware was 10th.

Completing the top 15 were Elon, Nevada-Las Vegas, Grambling, Carson-Newman and Eastern Michigan. Elon had one first-place vote.

Wounded Justice Department Plans To Carry On

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Raw from the wounds of Watergate, the Justice Department is putting on a brave face and turning inward to mend.

It was to have been the show piece for a law and order President. It became a house beset by one morale-shattering upheaval after another.

As the scandal unfolded with the spring, one attorney general was accused of crimes and other standard bearers were accused of impropriety. The mood was glum.

President Nixon turned then to Elliot L. Richardson and William D. Ruckelshaus, two administration men who stood untouched and generally regarded as honorable, truthful, upright. They were sent as the rescuers to convince a doubting public that Justice, too, housed those virtues.

"There was a ferment of ideas, an enthusiasm they generated," an associate recalls now.

With Richardson as attorney general and Ruckelshaus as his deputy, debate bounced incessantly around the burnished walnut conference table. Memos flew like wildfire.

Gone were the days of John N. Mitchell, Nixon's first attorney general, a man now accused of violating the law he was supposed to enforce.

Gone were the 10 months of Richard Kleindienst, a man who resigned as the scandal lapped close to him.

And gone now are Richardson and Ruckelshaus, who promised justice devoid of politics, promised a Watergate investigation free of outside pressure, and quit as the ultimate act to keep the vow.

Richardson made it his mission to restore public confidence in the Justice Department in a campaign of speeches backed up step by step with action. There were indications he was succeeding. There were even stronger indications that he had cheered disheartened employees languishing for a champion.

Ten days ago, cheer abruptly turned to despair. Ranking officials considered resigning but kept their agony to themselves.

"Where do we go from here? I don't know. No one knows. It's too soon," mourned a division head.

As the week wore on, ranking officials agreed to stay in answer to urgent pleas from Solicitor General Robert H. Bork who became acting attorney general and assumed responsibilities his academic training left him ill-prepared to handle.

With the Watergate case dominating his attention, he urged department officials to carry on as they could have under Richardson.

The uncertainty of a caretaker chief now is compounded by Bork's avowed position on the restructured Watergate investigation and the special prosecutor he is soon to appoint.

Just as Richardson did with the first prosecutor, Bork says he will tolerate no interference with the investigation and the man running it. As did Richardson he suggests he would resign rather than compromise the probe.

If Bork avoids a confrontation forcing him to quit, he could remain for months as acting attorney general. The President seems unlikely to nominate a successor, subject to Senate confirmation, until smoother sailing is in sight on Capitol Hill.

In view of the long uncertain months ahead, Justice Department officials were left guessing about the future of Richardson's pet projects.

Some undoubtedly will collapse, but Richardson himself soon will write Bork urging him to press forward with proposals key to the depoliticizing effort.

Personal advisers to Richardson and Ruckelshaus have agreed to stay at the department long enough to wrap up details of those projects and ease the transition.

Department sources say that one of the most important projects — a top to bottom review of the FBI — probably will continue but may not be carried as far as Richardson and Ruckelshaus wished.

FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley has cooperated with the internal review, but has never pushed it.

Richardson's departure also cast doubt on the fate of legislation he intended to propose to Congress to guard computer files maintained by the FBI and other government agencies from outside snoopers.

The proposal, designed to protect individual rights to privacy, has been circulated to other government agencies for comment and would have been sent to Congress within a few months. Sources said the White House so far has taken no position on it.

Richardson had planned to announce last week a tentative proposal for removing the political endorsements traditionally required for the appointment of federal judges.

He plans to make the same proposal as a private citizen, but whether the administration now will adopt it remains uncertain.

Richardson had been on the verge of creating an inspector general's office as a Justice Department watchdog to investigate accusations of wrongdoing on the part of department employees.

He was almost ready to issue regulations imposing new restrictions on government wiretaps.

Richardson had strengthened the attorney general's authority over U.S. attorneys and at the same time, appointed 16 of them to an advisory committee to give them a larger policy-making voice.

A knowledgeable source predicted that the attorneys, faced with uncertain leadership in Washington, will reassess control over their private baronies.

Two days before his resignation, Richardson issued regulations overhauling the department's management structure. Much of that system will operate as Richardson intended, said officials involved in setting it up.

But one key element — an "executive secretariat" designed as a final filter on research papers going to the attorney general — may fall by the wayside.

The management specialist Richardson had chosen to set up the office had not yet joined the department and probably won't now.

Richardson considered orderly management an essential tool for his long-range goal of bringing coordinated planning to separate parts of the criminal justice system.

He had hoped for more reliable crime statistics and with that data, he envisioned improvements in the apprehension, deterrence and treatment of offenders.

To that long-term end, Richardson granted new research and policy-making authority to the department's think-tank Office of Criminal Justice.

Though Richardson's major projects hang in limbo, others already were written into department regulations.

Plugging A Loophole In The CIA

By Kim WILLENSON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Legislation is being prepared to plug the loopholes in the charter of the CIA that permitted the agency to become involved in such things as the Daniel Ellsberg case.

Rep. Lucien N. Nedzi, D-Mich., chairman of the House armed services subcommittee on intelligence operations, says he has found two such loopholes. One is a narrow opening, he says, and the other is big enough to drive a bureaucratic truck through.

Nedzi's subcommittee held hearings this summer to find out how and why the Central Intelligence Agency agreed to prepare a psychiatric profile of Daniel Ellsberg and then loaned it to the White House "plumbers" group equipment used to burglarize the files of Ellsberg's psychiatrist. Nedzi said his committee will issue a report soon listing the two loopholes and proposing legislation to close them.

The narrower of the loopholes is a charter provision that gives the CIA director power to protect sources and methods of operation.

According to Nedzi, CIA officials raised that provision as a legal basis for its Ellsberg actions, which apparently violated another charter clause prohibiting the agency's involvement in domestic law enforcement.

Although the argument was dropped after members of the subcommittee pressed CIA witnesses on it, Nedzi says he would like to transfer the protection of sources power to another agency—probably the FBI.

The second charter provision empowers the CIA to perform any operations the National Security Council (NSC), may assign it.

Although this usually has been interpreted to mean foreign operations, Nedzi says the Nixon administration contends that operations against domestic radicals and dissenters also fall under the national security blanket.

As such, the CIA could be ordered to involve itself in operations against persons the NSC considered dangerous to the national security—even U.S. citizens acting within the United States.

Nedzi says he will seek legislation to require the President personally to approve any such operations, and would limit them to foreign undertakings.

The presidential approval requirement would prevent any more incidents in which NSC members or White House staffers make requests of the CIA in the President's name, according to Nedzi.

Nixon's former chief domestic affairs adviser, John D. Ehrlichman, is alleged to have asked the agency to assist E. Howard Hunt and other members of the "plumbers" in the Ellsberg psychiatrist break-in.

Spices Add To Potato Flavor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Potatoes don't have to be a monotonous dish. Use a little spice creativity, says the American Spice Trade Association.

The same is true for all the other foods that may appear on the table more frequently in days of high meat prices. A sprinkle of this and a dash of that spice can make a difference when it comes to pleasing the palate.

Plan Regular Ship Visits

RALEIGH (AP)—A Brazilian steamship line plans to establish regular monthly cargo service to the Morehead City port beginning about Nov. 15.

Deputy Secretary of Transportation Jack Hawke said Tuesday Lloyd Brasileiro Steamship Lines has agreed to make regular stops at the port. He added, "This service is a major step forward for North Carolina ports, and for Morehead City. We feel certain it will lead the way to inducing even more regular service to both Wilmington and Morehead City."

The Morehead City port has been without regular steamship service since 1967. Lloyd Brasileiro is one of the major Brazilian lines serving the lumber import customers on the Eastern seaboard.

Hawke's announcement followed a two-day visit to Brazil last week to meet with company officials.

Claiming He Is Informant

TAMPA, Fla. (AP)—A one-armed man who escaped from U. S. Customs agents after his arrest in a reported $3 million marijuana seizure last June says he tipped police to the pot haul.

Terrell M. Moore, 35, of Asheville, N. C., was among seven persons arrested after federal agents seized an estimated 14,500 pounds of the illegal weed from the shrimp boat Nighthawk, in Tampa Bay.

Customs agents said Moore escaped just before a bond hearing. He was recently recaptured.

Moore appeared at a federal court hearing Tuesday and said he had alerted agents by telephone to the nature of the cargo being brought in from Jamaica and to the unloading schedule of the vessel.

Trial of the other six is scheduled to begin Dec. 3.

Under questioning by a defense attorney, Moore declined to say whether he had been promised he would be allowed to escape.

LOWLAND LIVING UP

THE HAGUE (UPI) — Prices in Holland rose by an average of more than 5 per cent in the first eight months of 1973. By summer the price index for family consumption stood at 130.1, compared to the 1969 index of 100.

Firing Of Cox Drew A Barrage Of Criticism From European Press

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS LONDON (AP) — President Nixon's firing of Watergate Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox drew a barrage of criticism in the foreign press ranging in intensity from a chiding "ill-conceived step" in the Japan Times to "democracy vomits" in the London Daily Mirror.

"President Nixon committed an ill-conceived step whose consequences he presumably had not foreseen," said the Japan Times. "It is not surprising, therefore, that an increasing number of U.S. legislators regard impeachment ... as the only avenue left to restrain President Nixon."

The Asahi Shimbun said Nixon's "strongarm tactic is lamentable."

The London Daily Mirror, under a large headline reading "The Late Mr. Nixon," said "the only question that remains is will Richard Nixon display one single spark of decency and remove himself?"

The tabloid devoted the bulk of its first two pages to a fiery condemnation of Nixon. "Whatever the problems of getting rid of their president, no democracy can live on this surfeit of trickery, double-dealing and abrasive contempt for the rule of law he pretends in public speeches to uphold," it said.

The Times of London declared that "the concept of an extra-legal presidency has no place in the American Constitution."

Hong Kong's English-language South China Morning Post called Nixon's handling of the Watergate scandal a "shabby performance." But the newspaper found that the crisis "has strangely illumined the strength of the American scheme of government."

The suspicion that Nixon's domestic havoc was linked to the U.S. troop alert last week was cited by several British editors.

"Even here Watergate insinuates its all-corrupting doubt," said the Daily Mail of the U.S.-Soviet confrontation.

But the Daily Telegraph said the "public campaign against Nixon overreached itself" in the suggestion that the alert was staged.

The Times called the notion that the confrontation was concocted "a sad commentary on the situation in Washington and the standing of the administration."

RALEIGH (AP)—The State Department of Human Resources announced today that a study of the effect of marijuana on monkeys will be made under a $154,000 grant from the National Institute of Mental Health.

The tests, to be made at the University of Puerto Rico, will be administered by the N.C. Foundation for Mental Health Research.

The Worry Clinic Action Marks Lively Church

Unnuchoid Pastors and anemic Music Directors are helping cause the alarming reduction in church membership in America. Parishioners like virile oratory, stirring and familiar hymns, plus a lot of inter and intra-church competition!

CASE Y-548: Our son David, the psychiatrist, has been teaching a Bible Class at a Free Methodist Church in Indianapolis.

"Dad, he called me recently, 'how'd you like to go with me to Danville, Illinois, tonight?'"

"For I've been playing on our church basketball team and a tournament is scheduled for this weekend."

"You've spoken from the pulpits of three of these churches—Indianapolis, Attica, Indiana, and Danville, Illinois, and also Vincennes."

So I agreed to go along and be a rooster.

A high school gymnasium was the location of this 8-city tournament.

Rev. Darold Hill brought up two teams from his Vincennes church.

Each team brought 8 to 10 players, plus wives, sweethearts and other roosters, making at least 75 players and an equal number of us roosters in the stands.

Rev. Hill told me one of his teams was made up largely of Vincennes high school players. David's team from Indianapolis was probably the oldest aggregation, averaging almost 30 years of age and included some former college players.

Despite its age, it won the tournament.

But I mention this athletic competition between the 8 churches to show a salient attribute of a livewire church.

In this age of diminishing church memberships in many of the major denominations, here's how to test a flourishing modern church:

(1) It has a dramatic, livewire orator in the pulpit who documents his Bible texts with true cases drawn from life.

"You must fill the pulpit before you can fill the church," runs a truism that explains why thousands of churches are losing members.

(2) It operates buses to bring in children for Sunday School, as well as oldsters who haven't transportation.

(3) It encourages rivalry between neighboring churches, for competition fills football stadiums and likewise zooms Sunday School enrollments.

(4) It promotes internal rivalry between different age groups or Sunday School classes within its own parish, as by baseball, football and other sports, plus contests on Sunday for the most members in various classes.

Alas, many unnuchoid leaders decry competition, believing rivalry is sinful and an agent of Satan, but that's not true!

Christ believed in keen competition, as proved by the Parable of the Talents and his choosing as Apostles the swimmer, Peter, and the track star, John.

(5) It sponsors summer camps where the youth can be inspired and trained in leadership techniques.

(6) Its music is "earthy" instead of the "Art for Art's Sake" variety that features choirs which try to show off their melodic pyrotechnics with fancy choral arrangements instead of the standard old hymns that enlist 100 percent audience participation.

(7) It doesn't belatedly for a "Key '73" project to make community surveys and urge newcomers to attend its services.

Our seminars are now on "Counseling" jag and so concerned about sociology and the "inner city" (plus the poor, abused North Vietnamese) that they ignore oratory (homiletics).

So send for my booklet "Public Platform Psychology," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. Give a copy to your clergyman! (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 1, 1973

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES. A day when you find yourself in the position to make considerable headway with specific items of a governmental nature. Be sure future plans are on a sound and secure structure. Try to be calm if tensions arise later.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are full of enthusiasm and determination to get things done today, so schedule your time and activities well. Show devotion to mate.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Have a good talk with a trusted associate and you get excellent results today. Have patience with ally who deliberates too much.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make sure you go through with the work you have promised to do. Use common sense methods. Engage in recreations after work is done.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take a little time for recreation early and then handle responsibilities awaiting your attention. Avoid one who is a troublemaker.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can handle the situation at home nicely provided you keep your cool. Don't forget to pay an important bill. Take it easy tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Do whatever will make your regular routines more efficient. Call your friends and relations and show that you are thinking of them.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) A good day to think about adding to your present abundance and begin the new month wisely. Obtain the support you need from a bigwig.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Keep rooted at plans you have started, though they may seem difficult to push through. Friends will give the cooperation you need.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Not a good day for research work so take time for recreation you need to clear your head. Don't argue with loved one over money.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You find that a good friend can help you more than kin today, since this person has the power of the planets. Attend the social.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Go to the proper sources for information you need to get ahead faster instead of wasting time. Find the right appliances you need.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Search for the information you require in order to be successful in your project. You get a missive from out of town that is helpful.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY ... he or she will be one of those fascinating young people who will be very much interested in persons of all walks of life. Give the finest education you can afford which will equip your child for an unusual and rewarding career. Sports are not of much interest here, but religion could be the key.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Await Visit Of Phantom

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Will the Phantom of SouthPark stalk Ivey's Department store this Halloween night?

He reportedly has done so for the last 18 months at the SouthPark shopping center.

At night, long after the crowd are gone and the lights are dimmed, burglar alarms go off. Hidden video cameras catch blurred images of what some say is a furtive figure. Ivey's officials race to the store and find nothing, no signs of forcible entry, nothing missing. Police scour the premises and find nothing.

Maybe the next night, maybe three weeks later, it happens again.

Bob Boggs, Ivey's controller who until a few months ago also was in charge of security for the Charlotte stores, and the Ivey's SouthPark manager, Jim Adams, have a possible explanation for some of the false alarms. They think they may have been caused by changes in atmospheric conditions and in temperatures, vibrations caused by jets passing overhead, and by equipment failures. But there are those images on the video tapes, and the alarms do continue to go off.

The Mute Swan hisses when angry and calls its young with a sound that is described as a feeble bark—and so isn't actually mute.
