Replaced Damaged Power Transformer

Greenville Utilities Commission repair crews responded to a power transformer failure that darkened a portion of south Greenville Wednesday evening.

WNCT-TV's early evening news show was interrupted due to the total electrical outage to its complex.

Malcolm A. Green, Assistant Director for Greenville Utilities Commission explained that the problem was with a power transformer servicing the Union Carbide complex on the Greenville Bypass, resulting in a 6 1/2 hour electrical blackout. Green stated that the blackout included Lyndale and Brentwood Subdivisions, also business areas on the 264 Bypass from Evans Street east to Arlington.

Union Carbide officials were forced to send home their second shift, but by the time the third shift was ready to report, adequate repairs had been completed and operations at Union Carbide continued as normal.

Repair crews remained on duty for several hours replacing the damaged transformer with a spare one that is kept on hand for such emergencies.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today named Sen. William B. Saxbe as attorney general and approved the selection of Leon Jaworski as new Watergate special prosecutor with full independence and safeguards against being fired.

The President promised not to discharge Jaworski, as he had Archibald Cox, without obtaining the consent of House and Senate Democratic and Republican leaders and top members of the two judiciary committees in Congress.

Nixon appeared personally in the White House briefing room to announce his nomination of Saxbe, an Ohio Republican who is not seeking re-election, as successor to Elliot Richardson, who resigned Oct. 20 rather than follow Nixon's orders to fire Cox.

The President, without answering questions, then turned the podium over to acting Atty. Gen. Robert Bork, who announced that Jaworski would become special prosecutor to pursue "the Watergate matter and related subjects."

Bork said that Jaworski has been "promised the full cooperation of the executive branch." Should Jaworski decide that he needs presidential documents, Bork said, "there will be no restrictions placed on his freedom

Bork said Jaworski, a confidant of the late President Lyndon B. Johnson, would have the same broad mandate which had been given Cox. In addition, Bork said that Nixon has given "his personal assurance" that he will not fire Jaworski without first consulting with the specified congressional leaders and "ascertaining that their consensus is in accord with his proposed action."

The firing of Cox after his refusal to abide by Nixon's orders to drop efforts in court to obtain confidential White House tapes and documents touched off a massive controversy and triggered moves to start impeachment proceedings.

Bork underscored the same point saying: "Mr. Jaworski is not coming on with any limitations on his freedom of action."

Fuels Pinch Is Due

WASHINGTON (AP) — Many American highway and air travelers may feel the effects of the fuel crisis today, as the Nixon administration continues work on legislative proposals for national fuel-saving.

White House Claims Two Key Tapes Never Existed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House said today that by listening to presidential tape recordings made April 14-15, Judge John J. Sirica can hear for himself that the tape ran out before recording a vital conversation with John W. Dean III.

The conversation between President Nixon and former presidential counsel Dean is one of two that the White House says was never recorded. It said so much had gone on in the office earlier in the day that the six-hour reel was filmed. A technical expert said apparently an automatic switching system to a back-up recorder did not work.

request and the judge asked both the prosecution force and the White House to suggest an expert.

Buzhardt told the court Wednesday that a telephone conversation between the President and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, was made on an instrument not connected to tape records. That reduced availability of nine subpoenaed White House Watergate recordings to seven.

"It was not until several weeks ago when the President considered disclosure that review of tapes by him was commenced," Buzhardt said.

"It was not definitely determined that the two conversations in question were not recorded until late last week," he said.

Buzhardt said he would call witnesses to show that the tape had exceeded its capacity of six hours conversation on Saturday, April 14 and early on Sunday — a time when technicians did not routinely check the recording devices.

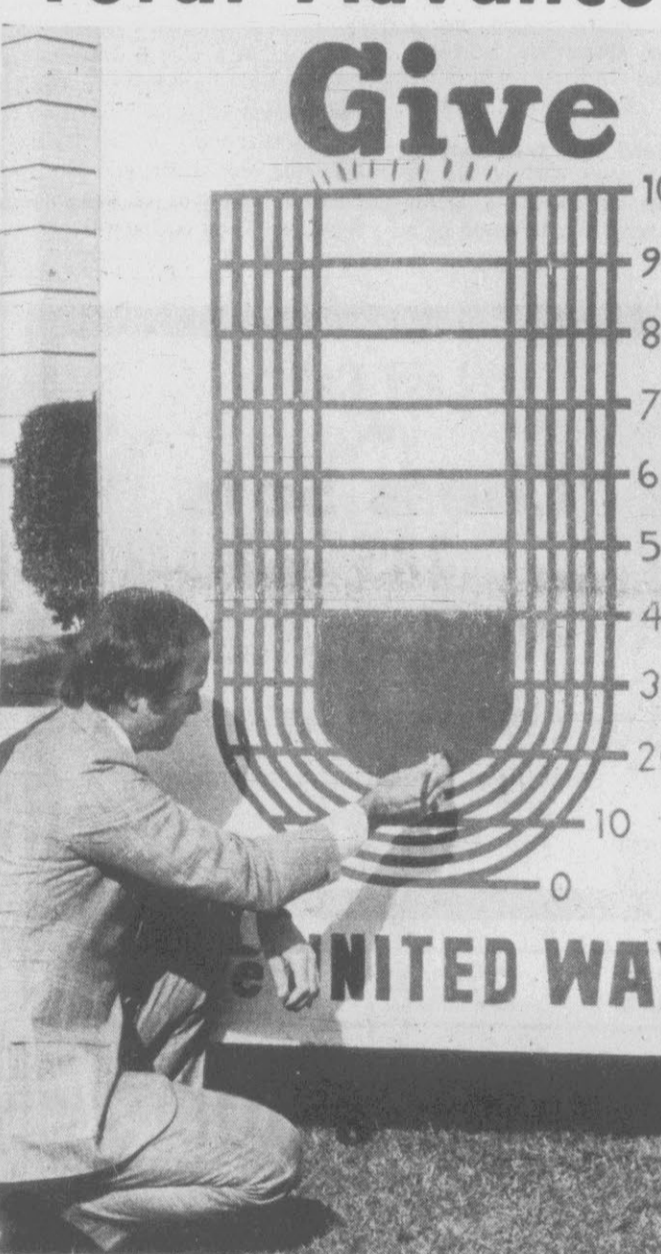

"The judge himself can hearing the running out of the tape," Buzhardt said.

Through all the court fights, high-level statements, and eventual agreement by the President to comply with court orders, the existence of nine tapes sought by Watergate investigators was never questioned.

Deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said at the White House that Nixon had been unaware until last weekend that specific conversations of June 20, 1972, and April 15, 1973, were not recorded.

J. Fred Buzhardt, the President's counsel, told Sirica a four-minute conversation on June 20 between Nixon and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell was on a telephone not connected to recorders.

Pitt UF Sees Contributions Total Advance Give

TOTAL CLIMBS . . . United Fund chairman Bill Dansey paints in the percentage of UF contributions collected to date on the goal board at the courthouse. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Drivers and other consumers can expect the pinch in their wallet, with the Cost of Living Council announcing that the retail price of gasoline and home heating oil can be increased today.

And, for the air traveler, starting today more than 160 daily flights are being cut back because of the shortage of aircraft fuel. Of these, 80 flights are being cut by the nation's three largest airlines — American, Trans World and United.

On the legislative level, the administration is seeking presidential discretion to impose fuel-saving measures, rather than having them triggered automatically.

The distribution of petroleum fuels comes under government regulation today for the first time since World War II.

The move is expected to ease the problems of expected winter fuel shortages, and so far the regulations affect heating oil, diesel fuel, jet fuel and other "middle distillates."

However, the cut in Arab oil supplies could force extension of the rules to gasoline and crude oil, and both Congress and the administration appear ready to set up a standby system for direct rationing to the consumer.

Cox To Become Cambridge Prof

CAMBRIDGE, England (AP) — Former Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox has been named a visiting Cambridge University professor.

The university said Wednesday that Cox, who was fired from his post, will be Pitt professor of American history and institutions for the academic year beginning next October.

Cox, a law professor at Harvard, will be required only to visit Cambridge at least once to deliver a lecture or series of lectures.

The spokesman added that such visiting professorships are decided "long before" the appointments — sometimes as much as a year. He did not say when the decision to appoint Cox was made.

BREAKOUT

DUBLIN (AP) — A hijacked helicopter swooped down into the exercise yard of Dublin's Mountjoy Jail Wednesday afternoon and flew off with three leaders of the IRA's Provisional wing.

Pitt United Fund campaign chairman Bill Dansey reported that approximately 41 per cent of the 1974 fund goal has been collected to date.

Dansey, in filling in the percentage figure on the United Fund goal board on the courthouse lawn, said that UF agencies have collected $71,587.84 of the overall goal of $174,692.84.

The chairman said that "collections are running about average so far but we need to do better." Dansey noted that some of the expected large contributions are still not in including several industries within the Industrial Division.

So far, the Industrial Division has collected $47,554, while the new "200" Plus Division has solicited contributions totaling $15,986.50. Other divisions and their current totals include: Professional I, $1,785; Professional II, $25; Professional III, $75; Advance Gifts, $265;

Business I, $419.50; Business II, $490; Special Gifts, $863.40; Governmental, $270; Goal Buster, $707.88; East Carolina University, $2,031; and County, $1,115.56.

The current $71,587.84 figure, on the basis of townships, includes: Arthur, $146; Ayden, $6,850.50; Belvoir, $217; Bethel, $1,299.76; Chicod, $945.60; Falkland, $26; Farmville, $697.50; Fountain, $138; Greenville, $48,309.48; Grifton, $10,601.60; Grimesland, $364; Pactolus, $209; Stokes, $87; and Winterville, $1,696.40.

Collect 33 Pints

BETHEL — Pitt Blood chairman Billy Ross reported that 33 units were collected here Wednesday as the Bloodmobile made its first visit to Bethel in several years.

Ross, in thanking the local citizens who turned out for the visit, said that there were four persons rejected during the day-long stay at the Rotary Club building.

"I wish we could have collected more," the chairman commented, "but I do appreciate all the hard work that many people put in over there." He offered his appreciation to the Bethel Rotary Club for sponsoring the visit and the volunteer help that took part.

Ross said that the next visit of the Bloodmobile to Pitt County will be in Farmville on Nov. 19 with D. H. Conley School hosting a visit on the following day, Nov. 20.

Lecturer Suggests Children Be Allowed A Concept Of Dying

By CAROL TYER Reflector Staff Writer

"Take your children to the nursing homes and see that the no-children-under-14 signs at your hospitals are taken down," Dr. Elisabeth Kubler Ross said while discussing children's concept of death here yesterday.

paramedical students, and for the general public.

Her lecture Wednesday morning dealt mostly with the dying child himself and his family, though she did touch on ways to foster a healthy adjustment to the deaths of relatives or friends.

learn he is dying. Isolation is one of the worst things about facing death, she said her dying patients have told her.

She said she interviewed dying adults for about five years before she brought herself to interview a dying child, because of her own emotions related to her own young children. "They can tell you in simple verbal or nonverbal language what they feel," she said. "She suggested to the ministers and other persons present that they offer themselves to the dying patient as someone "not too close" to talk to, because "many a dying child and adult has died never verbalizing his feelings for fear of hurting those closest to him."

She gave as an example the daughter of Peter DeVries, written about her father in The Blood of the Lamb. About a year after her death, he listened to a tape made by her in which she spoke of "the game" she and her father had played, neither of them admitting that she was going to die.

the perceptive adult can use to discern their feelings she said. She told of a child who drew tiny figure with a giant tank looming in front of it when he first learned of his impending death—symbolic of a "catastrophic happening over which he had absolutely no control." Before he died, with counseling, he was able to draw a bird with sunlight on his wings, symbolic of freedom and peace.

She also told of a sister of the dead child who drew a gaily decorated house, then telling her that her sister had died a week before Christmas the year before and her father had allowed no "colored lights." She was dreading the approaching Christmas.

She said many children associate mutilation with death, increasing their fear of necessary medical procedures. She advised telling and showing them in detail what is to be done to their bodies and letting them vent their anger before they have to face such procedures.

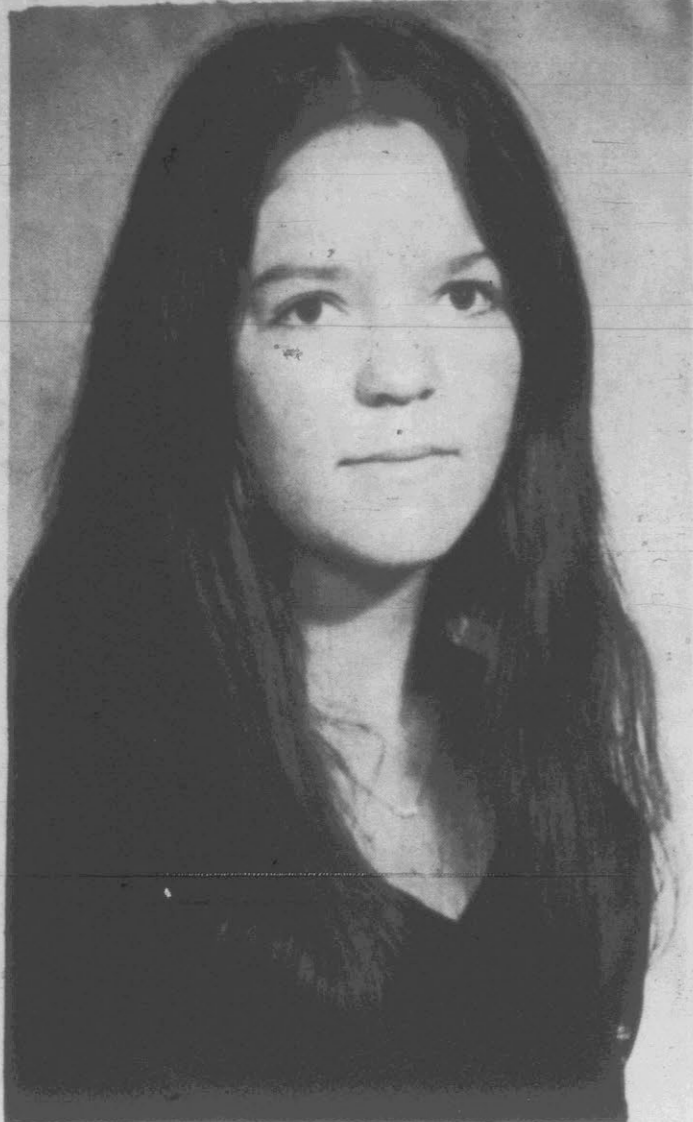

that he will never be deserted by them during his illness.

Parents should be allowed to stay with the child in the hospital, she said. Feelings that a parent or other close person has deserted him when they have died should be dealt with. She told of a boy who became a "model child" after his mother's death, later revealing during counseling that he was "being good, so his mother would stop being mad with him and come back."

Feelings of "being responsible for another's death" should also be dealt with, she said. She told of a nun who told her after a conference like this one that the direction of her entire life had been taken in the "atonement" for failing to carry her mother a drink of water when she died when she (the child) was four years old.

As in the other lectures, she told how to help families of terminally ill patients progress through the various stages of facing death. She defines the stages as denial and isolation, anger, bargaining, depression, and acceptance.

There Is A Time To Disobey Parents

By Abigail Van Buren

© c 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I'm going to have to disagree with you on this one. Obedience to one's parents is not the highest and greatest good, not even for a 13-year-old.

Anyone, even a child, is morally obligated to disobey authority when authority demands something that violates the conscience. This principle was brought home to me by my eldest daughter when she was seven, upon her hearing the story of Abraham and Isaac for the first time. "It's wrong to kill," declared my precocious moralist, "and you should never do what you know is wrong, even if God tells you to." By the same principle, it is similarly wrong to refrain from doing good because one has been forbidden to do it.

Susan's friend, if she is sufficiently courageous, should tell her mother that she regrets the necessity of being disobedient, but that she cannot conscientiously be obedient in this instance. She should then offer to accept whatever reasonable punishment the mother may care to impose, and then endure the punishment with as much courtesy and stoicism as she can muster.

The kind of obedience you advocate for Susan's friend is qualitatively the same as that of the Nazis who were "only obeying orders" when they slaughtered Jews. The matter involved is not so serious as murder, that's all.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT

DEAR FOOD: Your letter is more than "food for thought"—it's an intellectual banquet.

DEAR ABBY: My husband has the women in his office running errands all over town in his 1973 limousine. When I tell him it looks bad, he says their own cars are either falling apart or their gas tanks are empty.

I suggested that he buy a company station wagon and put the name of his company on the door, and have the girls run his errands in that. He says: "I'm not letting the small town gossips run my business just because they have poisoned your mind about how it looks." I told him I poisoned my own mind on the subject. Meanwhile, I drive a small economy car to run my errands.

What do you think about this? THE POORER HALF

DEAR POORER: I can understand your annoyance at having your husband's women employees driving his '73 limousine all over town on errands, but there's a better reason for suggesting he get a company car. It would be a legitimate company expense—and save gasoline!

Exercise Hurts Less Than Its Enemies Would Tell You

NEW YORK (AP) — Exercise is hardly as time-consuming or unpleasant as its enemies would have you believe, one expert says.

Harvard professor Jean Mayer says this erroneous picture comes when figuring exercise as one unbearably long ordeal, walking 11 and one sixth hours to lose a pound or swimming five and a half hours to lose a pound. In a new Blue Cross booklet, "Food and Fitness," Mayer says weight loss occurs whether activity is performed in a few hours or in a year.

Mayer says that bicycling steadily for seven and a half hours might totally exhaust an average man, but vigorous bicycling for half an hour after dinner each evening would add up to the desired seven and a half hours in just two weeks. In a year, this routine would enable you to shed 26 pounds of body fat.

If this regimen is too much for the exerciser, former astronaut James Lovell, another contributor, has other suggestions to help office workers improve fitness, relieve tension and achieve relaxation.

Lovell suggests raising legs parallel with the floor while sitting. Alternate curling feet back toward the upper torso and pointing toes away from the body. Stretch legs as far as possible when curling.

—When the telephone rings, pull in abdomen and continue normal breathing while you speak. —When talking on the telephone or reading, put feet on the desk. This will aid circulation by redistributing blood that tends to pool in the legs and feet after prolonged sitting.

—Rotate shoulders backward in a circular, shrugging motion. This will stretch the muscles of the chest that tend to shorten and cause round shoulders, a common posture deficiency, particularly among those who do a lot of typing.

—Roll your head in a circle. —Stand while reading. Shift weight from one leg to the other and do not slouch.

—Stand up and stretch two or three times a day, perhaps during a coffee break, or lunch.

—Find ways to increase activity while going to and from work. Park the car, or get off the bus, a few blocks from your destination and walk the remainder of the way. Avoid elevator or escalators in going up and down two or three flights of stairs.

Lovell has additional suggestions for a housewife who wants to keep physically fit. He says almost any chore lends itself to some stretching and bending maneuver.

Good Reason To Be Very Happy

The announcement that Procter and Gamble Manufacturing Co. will establish a food products plant here means that one of the nation's oldest and most respected firms will become a part of our community.

The firm announced that the plant will manufacture Pringle's Newfangled Potato Chips, a product made from mashed potatoes and reformed into uniform chips. The stacked chips are packed in an air-tight and moisture-proof container. Once the seal is broken, a plastic cap is provided to reclose the container.

The Pringles product was first test marketed in 1969 and is now marketed in various sections of the nation. It is our understanding that the potato chip product has been well received in the areas where it is now being marketed.

Procter and Gamble announced during the summer that it had purchased a 220-acre site on the Old Creek Road north of Greenville. The plant, which will have ten acres under its roof will use about one-third of this site. Employment will be over 450 people with a payroll in excess of $2 million annually.

It is expected that it will be late 1974 or early 1975 before the construction is completed and production gets underway in full.

Procter and Gamble had sales of almost $4 billion in 1972-73 fiscal year. It employs 31,900 in this country and 15,700 in other nations.

Procter and Gamble has been a highly successful and diversified company. It has a reputation for carefully planning its new products and projects, so that its product lines are almost always successful.

This is one of the great firms of our nation and, like most of our citizens, we are pleased that they have chosen Greenville for the location of this new manufacturing facility.

The Explosion In Knowledge

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Does your four-year-old sometimes mention the President, or the governor? Even throwing in a "Sam Ervin" now and then? Chances are he or she does.

And chances are equally as good that when you were four years old you were still chasing butterflies, not absorbing such information or learning letters and numbers and shapes and relationships from such super TV shows as Sesame Street and Electric Company.

It's all part of the great Knowledge Explosion rocking the youth of our nation—and soon to rock our schoolhouses and homes right to the foundations.

"The public is not even aware of that knowledge explosion—or the tremendous changes taking place among young people and that are taking place in education," said J. Wayne Miller, president of the 52,000-member North Carolina Association of Educators.

Miller, a graduate of Appalachian State University, is principal of the East Iredell Elementary School in Iredell County.

A Developing Trend His job, and his position of leadership in the statewide organization of educators puts him in a prime spot to be on top of developing trends and problems in education.

That knowledge explosion, he believes, is the prime problem today.

"We have got to take another look at all of our instructional methods, particularly in the early grades," Miller said. The students are coming to school already smarter, better equipped to learn more things more rapidly.

But, the schools are still going about business as usual. In fact, the teaching methods and processes are still geared, regrettably, to the "lowest common denominator—the slowest child," Miller said.

"We are going to very rapidly be right in the middle of this knowledge explosion, and we must adjust our thinking to accommodate this."

"More and more children enter school with more knowledge than ever before, through exposure to the mass media, television, magazines, and also to more family experiences out in the world—traveling, conversation and so on," Miller said.

The end result, from the teacher's viewpoint, he added, is that if your college degree is more than five years old, it ought to self-destruct.

"We've got a mammoth job—for teachers, for administrators, for parents, and yes, for school boards particularly—to readjust their thinking on education," Miller said.

Accountability Study Miller said educators are also concerned over a growing need for an accountability system in the whirlwind of change taking place in the classrooms.

"We are accountable to the public. The public has got to understand and support what is taking place in the schools. I think we have public support in the public schools, and I think it will show itself in response to the $300 million school bond issue Nov. 6," he said.

He said that despite criticism that classrooms were abandoning the task of teaching children, "We have never gotten away from the basics—especially in elementary schools." But, how do educators measure their goals and objectives and their success in performance?

That is what accountability is all about.

Even defining the term is difficult at this stage, Miller said.

"It's an intangible thing, and nobody has come up with a clear definition. We want to see if we can come up with a system."

The public is interested in seeing some returns, some method of measuring the results, of the investment in education. Likewise, educators want to be able to say to legislators and parents that if a certain amount of dollars are invested in a certain way in the schools, the returns are likely to be certain specific gains.

Committee Formed An advisory committee on educational assessment and accountability has been formed with 29 members approved by the State Board of Education.

The new committee is meeting this week for the first time with the goal of acquainting members with the concept of accountability in education and to begin studying what North Carolina will do about this problem.

The committee represents a cross-section of people interested in education, including teachers and principals, state officials, school superintendents, businessmen and students.

Deep Water Oil Port Holds Much Promise

A deep water oil port off Morehead could have tremendous impact on North Carolina, much of it good and some bad.

If a study now underway recommends the Morehead location and if concrete plans develop every precaution to protect the environment should be taken.

North Carolina should have assurances that the danger of oil spills is remote.

Detente Given Policy Priority

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

MOSCOW—Although the tea leaves are not yet entirely settled, the Kremlin's inner reaction to the middle East crisis of 1973 is another piece of evidence that detente with Washington has now been enshrined at a pinnacle of Soviet policy from which mere wars between allies of the U.S. and the Soviet Union shall not be permitted to dislodge it.

Even the genuine fright in Washington that Soviet troops might be on the way to the Suez Canal from airfields in Hungary, which apparently led to the worldwide U.S. military alert, failed to have more than momentary impact on the policymakers here.

Before that sensible precaution was taken on Thursday, Soviet officials were quietly praising the way Secretary of State Henry Kissinger was trying to deal with the volatile question of Israel's new positions to the west of the Suez Canal not far from Cairo.

As one of these officials told us: "Your man McCloskey (chief State Department spokesman Robert McCloskey) has used just the right language to describe the effect of all this on detente."

Moreover, there have been many signs that—contrary to charges by high officials in Israel that the Middle East war was plotted, timed and ordered by Moscow—the Russians saw a new outburst of war between Israel and the Arabs as not an unmixed blessing, remembering the 1956 and 1967 Arab debacles. Their explanation of massive Soviet assistance to the Arabs as soon as the war started is self-serving, but it raises important questions about premature conclusions in Washington.

"No agreement we have ever signed with you," one influential official told us, "forces us to drop our backing of the Arabs or affects our long-standing relations with third countries." His claim: Moscow would never sit quietly by without responding to Arab requests for military hardware.

However, Western experts here give testimony that when Algerian president Boumediene turned up at his own request in Moscow on Oct. 14, in the middle of the fighting in the Middle East, he left disappointed following an all-night session with top Kremlin leaders. Nor was there bona fide "exhortation," said one long-time Western expert, by party chief Leonid Brezhnev for Algeria to send troops to the Middle East.

Non-U.S. Western sources say two other pieces of evidence are beyond dispute: that Moscow did not want Jordan to enter the war against Israel and that Moscow did not want Jordan to enter the war against Israel and that Moscow has not pressured oil-rich Arab states to punish the U.S. Why? It might boomerang into a Soviet backlash.

If true, this is all the more remarkable because the Russians have been taking a political pasting in the so called third or uncommitted world for trying to become a bedmate of the United States. One of the chief villains in the non-aligned conference in Algiers last month was the Soviet Union.

Russians in position to know high-level opinions in the Politburo, moreover, went out of their way to defend the U.S. against charges that Washington encouraged the first violations of the Suez Canal ceasefire which were charged to Israel. President Nixon's problem of persuading Israel to make "substantial concessions" on territory, as promised by Kissinger, are fully understood and even sympathized with here.

Finally, the Soviet-controlled press, nearly every word of which—or omission thereof—carries some political significance, has been thunderously silent on both the war and the American-Soviet differences on how to police the ceasefire.

As we write this, not a word has appeared in the major party or government newspapers about the worldwide U.S. military alert.

What this adds up to is that Soviet courtship of the U.S. in the form of detente may run deeper and warmer than (Continued On Page 5)

Strength For Today

DON'T LOOK DOWN

If we were to lay a plank between two points a foot or two from the ground, we would walk across the intervening distance with ease, but if we were to take this plank ten stories above the street and after placing it between two points were to attempt to walk across it, we might well plunge to our deaths. It has sometimes been said that a person can climb as high as he wants on a church steeple or a ladder provided he does not look down. When he does that he loses his courage and his balance and falls.

Life can be likened to a ladder. As long as we have our powers unimpaired we enjoy climbing to new heights of achievement. But what we should never do is look back. If we allow our minds to dwell on the possibility of failure when something necessary and right has to be done, we tend to make that failure inevitable.

As a matter of objective fact, the possibility of failure is always present, but as a matter of probability it will be determined in large measure by our mental attitude.

The 'Only' Procedure

WASHINGTON—The current hullabaloo over the appointment of a special prosecutor in the Watergate case is almost entirely irrelevant.

In the first place, we must be clear what we are talking about. We are not talking about a prosecutor in the ordinary sense. The existing machinery of justice is quite sufficient for bringing the ordinary felons to justice. Most of them already have been indicted, including two former members of President Nixon's Cabinet and several of his closest associates.

What we are talking about now is the President himself. You can call it a move to "get" Nixon, depending on your political leaning, or you can call it the logical and inevitable outcome of any investigation of the Watergate affair. But by whatever evidence there is of the implication of the President in the original crime or its cover-up.

Almost everyone is agreed that this is an impossible job for anyone under the authority of the executive branch. Archibald Cox, heaven knows, was willing enough to prosecute the President, and he apparently believed that he had some sort of mandate to do so.

But he discovered soon enough—along with the attorney general and his deputy—that this was not the case. All of them have recognized that any authority granted by the President can be legally revoked by the President. And though, in the circumstances, the political price has been ruinous for the administration, the authority cannot realistically be questioned.

Sooner or later, we have to face it. Under our present system of government, there simply is no such thing as an "independent" federal prosecutor and it is beyond the power of the Congress and the courts to invent one. The plain fact is that the courts, until now, have held that every federal indictment must be approved by an official subject to the authority of the attorney general. Which means, for practical purposes, subject to the authority of the president of the United States.

We can fiddle around with this situation in a number of ways. We can get prosecutors appointed by the courts or by the Congress. We can insulate

To the editor:

I have read with great interest the pros and cons concerning the location of a four-year medical school in Greenville at East Carolina University.

I have also read the entire report of the study committee relative to the medical needs of the state, and have reviewed the audiovisual presentation of Dr. Ivan Bennett, chairman of the group.

This report is thorough, complete, unprejudiced and is well-documented by research and facts. Dr. Bennett is a native of Brunswick County and some of his family still live there. He knows North Carolina and her needs. He is not, as some would picture him, a visionary expert speaking from an ivory tower. He is thoroughly conversant with clinical medicine and medical education. He is a practical physician and knowledgeable medical educator. If he were prejudiced, he might well have recommended the school in Greenville, being a native of Eastern North Carolina. Neither he nor his committee were prejudiced. They were very objective.

The meat of the report is that more clinical facilities and more graduate training programs are needed in the state to attract and provide doctors for the people of North Carolina. The record shows irrefutably that doctors tend to locate where they intern or take their post-graduate training, not where they go to medical school. The leading medical schools in this country are those with in-depth supporting clinical facilities. The great contributors to medicine and physician manpower, nursing graduates and paramedical personnel, as well as clinical advances are those schools located in metropolitan communities with access to large clinical material.

I am a native of Eastern N.C. and a practicing physician. I cannot, however, support the expenditure of funds for a school in Greenville, as there is nothing in the history of medical education or in the findings of this committee to justify a medical school located there. Those pushing for a school in Greenville have found a politically popular issue and are appealing only to the emotions of the people in Eastern North Carolina and are misleading our citizens with false hopes.

I believe the entire situation can be summed up by stating that if one were in the paper business, one would not put a pulp mill in the desert.

Mood Of The Country Is 'Bad'

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The country is in a bad, bad mood, a mood familiar to all of us, a mood that disposes one to view the cup as half empty instead of half full and the sky as partly cloudy rather than partly sunny.

But it can't be denied: an income increase of 182 per cent is in the right direction.

U.S. Steel isn't the only corporation complaining, and companies aren't the only segment of our economy from whence the wailing is heard. It's coming from all directions.

Undeniably, in many ways the nation is in poor shape. Its cities are to some degree uninhabitable. Its railroad system is shrinking. Inflation seems to be chronic. There are shortages everywhere.

Adding to the list: The housing market is being wrecked again by high interest rates, the jobless rate seems headed higher again, pollution persists, the dollar isn't out of trouble, confidence in government is weakened.

Can it get worse? If you're totally engulfed in the darkness you can only see darkness ahead. But with a slight twist of view you might see a few rays of light.

—Despite a jobless rate that persists around 5 per cent, instead of the old goal of 4 per cent, more people are at work than ever before. Of a civilian labor force between 88 million and 89 million, about 84.5 million have jobs.

—Although stock prices, as measured by the Dow Jones industrial average, are stuck just where they were in the mid-1960s, with some blue chips selling at extremely depressed prices, doesn't an opportunity exist?

In more optimistic days, a market in the present condition would be viewed by skillful traders as an exceptional buying opportunity.

—Consumer prices are rising, to be sure. For the 12 months to August they rose 7.6 per cent, as measured by the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development.

But this phenomenon isn't peculiar to the United States. Prices in Canada rose 8.3 per cent, in Japan 12.6 per cent, in France 7.6, Germany 7.1, Italy 11.7, and in the United Kingdom 8.9 per cent.

The inflation problem isn't

The North Carolina Collegiate Press Association will hold its twenty-sixth session at East Carolina Teacher's College beginning Thursday afternoon and continuing through Sunday.

Banquets and discussions will constitute the business sessions of the association's meetings. A dance and either a football game or a theater party will be open for the delegates for entertainment during the convention.

An outbreak of what police termed gang warfare resulted today in the machine-gun killing of one man, the critical wounding of another and the mysterious disappearance of two women in Camden, N.J. today.

An hour after a man giving his name as John Hall was brought into a Camden hospital with three steel jacketed bullets in his body, police found the body of another man with a bullet through his head.

Police said that arrests for the shootings were forthcoming. Lawrence Doran, chief of police said, "I knew who shot these men and there will be arrests soon."

Interest rates are high and in some places it is difficult to obtain credit, especially for a home mortgage. But that doesn't mean that the credit flow has been turned off. Credit to individuals is at a record high.

American families today have close to $140 billion in installment credit alone, including nearly $50 billion for automobiles and $40 billion in personal loans. True, the rates are high but the credit route to the plentiful life is still open.

You can make up your own list of similar contrasts. Agreed, in so doing you won't solve your problems, but you might add a dimension to your perspective.

It is foolish not to see all the clouds in the sky today, but it is equally foolish to ignore the rays of sunshine that filter through.

them from dismissal by the president. But without changing the system, presumably by a constitutional amendment, there is no way that a special prosecutor could prosecute anyone—and much less the President himself—without the acquiescence of the executive branch.

It may be, as many people are telling us, that it was politically unwise for the President to fire Cox and force the resignations of his superiors in the Justice Department. But there is no one, including the people involved, who challenges the legality of the President's action, speak in the name of the "United States."

And, in fact, it cannot be otherwise. As long as the President is still the president — as long as he is the one man vested with the ultimate responsibility to see to it that "the laws be faithfully executed," he is that sense quite literally above the law.

Certainly, a president can be ordered by a court to produce evidence and if he refuses, the political risk can be enormous. But it is quite another thing to hold that the courts have the power to pass on the conduct of the president in a matter of criminal law. They have not tried to do so yet, and it is most unlikely that they ever will.

What can be done—and in my view, what should be done in this case—is to follow through on the impeachment process which is clearly spelled out in the Constitution. The one institution of the government that has an unquestioned right to investigate the conduct of the President is the House of Representatives. To carry out such an investigation, the House could name Archibald Cox or anyone else as its prosecutor. And the courts quite certainly would, under these circumstances, uphold his right to obtain any evidence from the executive branch that he needs.

This is not to say that the House will—or should—vote to impeach President Nixon, or that, if it does, he will—or should—be convicted and dismissed from office by two-thirds of the Senate. The point is simply that this is the only established procedure for investigating charges of misconduct on the part of any president and that there is no good reason for changing the rules in this case.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A fine day for you to accomplish a great deal in social or humanitarian directions with just enough opposition from others to make you feel there is a challenge. Make long-range plans for the future. Don't take risks.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) Plan to contact as many influential people as you can but steer clear of experts who are demanding. Friends can be most helpful to you.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) Avoid a jealous associate and engage in projects that bring you in contact with higher-ups. Try not to quarrel with anyone now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Ideal day to forget routines and get into new outlets that will liven your spirit. Handle correspondence and take time for studying.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Sidestep those who want to take you away from important work you have to handle today. Follow your hunches for best results.

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) An associate who thinks along modern lines has the right answers for a perplexing problem. Home tie is too demanding for the right advice.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) You can incorporate a new system now that will make your work more efficient and profitable. Show more understanding for a co-worker.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) Plan to be with person you really like during your spare time today. Try to make others feel happier. Don't be stingy with compliments.

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) Planning improvements to home or just relaxing there is fine now. Listen to one whose judgment you respect. Dress in good taste.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) Elevate your consciousness so that you make more of your life and become more affluent in the near future. Use positive thinking.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) Listening carefully to what clever persons have to say will help you get ahead much faster now. Stick to experts you can trust.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) You have a fine mode of thinking now and can take care of problematical affairs in a most intelligent way. Be an optimist.

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) Anything of importance that is puzzling to you should be studied carefully now. Don't go off on any tangents. Be more progressive.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will be one of those progressive individuals who can have much success provided you give a good education. Teach your progeny to understand others better and to be more cooperative. A government connection would be fine here or whatever has to do with property, management, banking, etc. "The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

NEW YORK (AP) - The stock market turned mixed today amid investor concern over the Midwest and the Watergate affair.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11:30 a.m. was up 2.18 to 958.76. This came on the heels of a 30-point fall over the last three days.

Declines led advances on the New York Stock Exchange by nearly 2 to 1, however. Brokers noted that today's advance took in only the blue chips, with most of the market showing broad losses.

NYSE prices included British Petroleum, up 1/4 to 15 1/2; Natoms, up 2 1/2 to 65 1/4; International Paper, down 1 to 50 1/4; Mobil, off 1/2 to 57 3/4; and Fairchild Camera, up 3/4 to 75 1/2.

On Wednesday, the closing Dow fell 11.96 to 956.58 in moderately active trading.

THURSDAY AFTERNOON, NOVEMBER 1, 1973

Rose Goes To Wilson For 'Grudge Bowl'

Rose High School's Rampants, coming off a "must" win over Northern Nash, now find themselves headed for what may be the "Grudge Bowl" in Wilson Friday night.

Last November, following the final game of the season, Wilson and Goldsboro found themselves tied for the championship of the conference. A vote was scheduled between the six coaches of the league because the two teams had played to a tie in their only meeting, giving no clear winner.

Goldsboro had decisively crushed Rose High School on the night prior to the vote, while Wilson had defeated Rocky Mount. At the vote, the coaches from Wilson and Rocky Mount voted for the Titans, while Goldsboro, Rose, New Bern and Kinston all cast their ballots for the Cougars.

And for some unexplained reason, Wilson chose to cast all its disappointment against the Rampants. Players, coaches and fans alike promised themselves revenge on Rose High School come the 1974 season. "They have publically stated that they want to beat us as badly as they can," Rose Coach Dave Bumgarner said. "They would like to score 100 points on us."

Bumgarner is at a loss to explain why Wilson feels this way about Rose and not the same way toward to other three schools. "At the end of the season, I felt that Goldsboro was the best team in the league. No team handled us like they did. I felt that they deserved the post-season berth, and if I had it to do over again, I'd vote the same way."

So the Titans will be after blood from the Rampants, and while the two are actually battling for second place in the Division I standings and a good shot at a playoff berth, that takes second place to the "Grudge" that the Titans have been carrying for 51 weeks.

Last week, the Rampants took an early lead, then had to rally to gain a 14-12 victory over Northern Nash.

"We had to win to get back into the race," Bumgarner said. "Right now we are in good position—as good as anyone. If we win the rest of our games, we would automatically gain a berth, and we even have a good chance to win even if we were to split and end up in a tie with everyone."

Bumgarner was pleased over the blocking of the Rampant line, but was displeased with the fact that the backs seldom found the holes. "We ran for 213 yards, which was not bad, but we should have completed some passes, and we had one long run that was called back by a quick whistle."

"Films of the controversial 771-yard run by Jackie Savage showed the official at the spot of the quick whistle had not blown the play dead, but started on downfield with Savage and his defenders as Savage spon off tacklers to break loose. The play however, served as an inspiration to the Rampants, and then came back even stronger.

"Moving a few players strengthened our game," Bumgarner said. Savage was moved to the fullback slot for the injured Doug Paschal, who saw limited action carrying the ball and was used mostly at halfback as a blocker. Keith Joyner also switched to the offense and ran well, scoring one touchdown. "We hit them hard," Bumgarner added.

The coach praised Northern Nash as being a "darn good team that will be strong competition."

The coach noted that the Rampants are in good physical condition for the Wilson game, and that punter Paul Farmer is expected to be back this week, along with linebacker Vince Atkinson. Both missed last week's game.

The Titans, meanwhile, haven't been the Titans of old. They sport only a 3-3-2 overall mark and are 1-1 in the conference, having beaten Northern Nash, 14-0, and fallen to Northeastern, 19-17.

"But they have tradition behind them, and they are going to be highly motivated by their feelings, too," Bumgarner said. Wilson attacks out of the Houston veer offense, and Bumgarner says they run much like N. C. State's offense. "They can pass if they have too, and sometimes even when they don't have to," he added.

The best part of their game, however, is their defense, which has allowed only 85 points in the eight games so far. "They run out of a 4-4 defense, and they've been very stingy."

Top player for the Titans appears to be quarterback Stan Johnson. "They have several running backs, but no one with the power and ability of people like Carlester Crumpler."

And Bumgarner believes that their grudge is the biggest thing in the game.

Rose will be out to up its record to 2-1 within the league and 5-3-1 overall with a victory.

They will be trying to do something they haven't done this year, however win two in a row. The Rampants have alternated victories with losses since the beginning of the season.

The starting offensive lineup for the Rampants, will have Mike Wallace and T. J. Payne at ends, Lee Hill and Ron Hunt at tackles, Dave Mattheis and Jeff Hagan at guards, Ed Connelly at center, Henry Trevathan at quarterback, Jackie Savage at fullback, and Lindberg Morris and Keith Joyner at halfbacks.

On defense, Rose will start Ronnie Rasberry and Savage at ends, Pat Hagans and Mike Bryant at tackles, Vince Atkinson, Mike Brewington, Harold Randolph and Jerry Griffin at linebackers, and Al Heath, Nat Perkins and Dickie Johnson in the secondary.

Kickoff is set for 8 p.m. in Wilson's Titan Territory Stadium.

One other conference game, plus one non-conference affair are set tonight in Division I. Rocky Mount will play host to Northern Nash in the other league game, and Northern Nash must win to have any hopes of a playoff berth.

Northeastern will be playing host to Havelock in a non-conference game.

Vidnovic Back For Virginia

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Nick Vidnovic, North Carolina's senior quarterback who was injured five weeks ago, is ready to play again in the game at Virginia on Saturday.

Sophomore Billy Paschall, who has been directing the team, is expected to start, with Vidnovic replacing freshman Karl Hoffman as the backup quarterback.

Vidnovic quarterbacked the Tar Heels to an 11-1 record and the Atlantic Coast Conference championship last year. They are 3-4 this season.

Doctors found he had cracked three spinal vertebrae in the second game of the season against Maryland. "They've healed over like cracked ribs," he says. "I've been working out in practice for the past two weeks. I've also been lifting weights to strengthen my upper body. My timing is almost back now. I think that by Saturday I'll be 100 per cent."

Virginia hasn't beaten the Tar Heels in the last four years. The Virginia Cavaliers ended a three-game losing streak by defeating Wake Forest 21-10 at home last week, and now are 3-5.

Clemson Coach Red Parker says that the next opponent, Wake Forest, despite a 1-6 record, has begun to move the ball in the last two weeks against South Carolina and Virginia. He added that defensively the Wake Forest Deacons "have started all their games real well, but the offense has gotten them into trouble by mistakes. The linebackers are the backbone of their defense. And they have brought in nine junior college transfers they have helped them."

"If we don't play well, they'll beat us."

Wake Forest has beaten the Clemson Tigers only once in their last 11 meetings. The game will beat Clemson.

PROCLAIM PIRATE DAY—Greenville Mayor S. Eugene West has proclaimed Saturday as "Coach Sonny Randle and East Carolina Football Team Day" in Greenville, as the Bucs play host to William & Mary in the first of three key Southern Conference games that could lead the Pirates to their second straight Southern title. Mayor West, second from right, presents a copy of the proclamation to Coach Randle, second from left, during a pep-rally held during the Pirate practice yesterday. Brakefield Feels He's Found Quarterback For Mountaineers

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

Before preseason football practice began, Appalachian State Coach Jim Brakefield observed that "the biggest question mark is our quarterbacks." Now, with the Mountaineers having recovered from their worst start in history—three straight defeats—to boost their over-all record to 3-4-1. Brakefield thinks he may have found the quarterback he had been hoping would solve the problem, Phil Cocciolletti.

The 6-foot-2, 187-pound junior, who saw some service in a backup role last year, has come on strong in recent games.

"I thought Cocciolletti played his best game of the year," said Brakefield after the Mountaineers whipped The Citadel's Bulldogs 31-6 in a Southern Conference scrap last Saturday. "It was the best game we've had from any of our quarterbacks and it made a big difference. All year this has been a problem."

Cocciolletti completed 13 of 21 passes for 261 yards and one touchdown in the triumph and was runner-up for conference offensive player of the week.

"Our passing game was the most effective it has been, especially our screen pass," Brakefield said. He noted The Citadel was caught in a blitz situation three times with Cocciolletti hitting screens each time for more than 40 yards.

One was a 62-yard scoring play to Charlie Haugabrook.

Brakefield also praised the play of freshman halfback Devon Ford, who has been a pleasant surprise to the Mountaineers. Ford caught seven passes for 127 yards.

"For the first time this year we finally broke some big plays," Brakefield added. "This, of course, is very good for your team after being contained by your own mistakes for so long."

The triumph boosted Appalachian to 2-1 in the conference and into fourth place a few percentage points ahead of Furman, 3-2.

Saturday Proclaimed Pirate Football Day

Saturday has been proclaimed as a day for the East Carolina University football team by the City of Greenville.

A proclamation designating Saturday as "Coach Sonny Randle and East Carolina Football Team Day," was read to the Pirates yesterday afternoon by Greenville Mayor Eugene West during a practice break, as several hundred fans and supporters gathered to wish the Bucs well in their quest for their second straight Southern Conference Championship.

East Carolina will play host to William & Mary Saturday at 8 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium. It is the first of three key Southern Conference games for the Pirates, who must win all of the games to be assured of the title.

Members of the ECU band were on hand to play the school fight song, and cheerleaders led a few impromptu cheers. Mayor West, ECU Chancellor Dr. Leo Jenkins, sportscaster Dick Jones, and Coach Randle each spoke briefly at the rally, designed to perk up the spirits of the Pirates following their heartbreaking 28-27 loss to the University of North Carolina last weekend.

The Mayor's proclamations reads:

"Whereas, the City of Greenville has encouraged the development and expansion of East Carolina University; and

"Whereas, the City of Greenville recognized and appreciates the East Carolina Pirates Club for their efforts and abiding cooperation to the East Carolina Athletic Program; and

"Whereas, their efforts have found approval with students, teachers, parents and the general citizenry, who themselves have always demonstrated unlimited cooperation and spirit in support of this great Football Team and Coaching Staff throughout our City; and

"Whereas, East Carolina Football Team will meet with William and Mary College in the next game; and

"Whereas, we honor Coach Sonny Randle, his entire Staff, and the East Carolina Football Team for their outstanding achievements,

"Now, Therefore, I, S. Eugene West, Mayor of the City of Greenville, North Carolina, do hereby proclaim Saturday, November 3rd as "Coach Sonny Randle and East Carolina Football Team Day" and urge the citizens of this City and community to lend their support and cooperation to these deserving individuals."

Tickets for the game are still available from the East Carolina ticket office in Minges Coliseum.

Petty: 'I Met The Best And I Got Beat' In Race Of Champions

San Antonio Nips Cougars In Overtime

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Richard Petty said, "I met the best and I got beat. It's as simple as that. Under other conditions, it might have been different. Who knows?"

The International Race of Champions at Riverside last weekend brought together for the first time under one format 12 of the greatest drivers in the history of motor racing. Petty, rich from his share of $1.5 million in prize money, was one of them.

It was like matching Hank Aaron, Willie Mays, Johnny Bench, Willie McCovey and eight other super hitters together in a home run contest—all using the same bat and aiming at the same left field fence.

The super drivers got behind the wheels of identical race cars and they went head-to-head in a trio of match races. For $75,000 in prize money, their prestige on the line.

Between them they had won an incredible 32 national or international championships, over 250 major professional auto races, and in excess of $7 million in purses.

Helped by a meaningless final Can-Am event of the season, they packed 88,417 people into the Riverside International Raceway.

Six of them will go on to a final race at Daytona Beach, Fla., Feb. 15—for another $65,000 in prize money—and one of them will wind up with a nebulous title of champion of champions.

After the first three races at Riverside, how did they feel about the concept, about matching talents with people with obviously different professional backgrounds?

"It's fabulous," said Denis Hulme, twice a world driving champion and twice a Can-Am titleholder. "Auto racing is a show, and we are hired and paid to please the spectators. I believe we did, and I'd come back again and again if I were asked."

"Well, I got beat," Petty said. "But even had I felt my cars were equal to the others, and I don't think they were, I'd have been outdriven. I just don't have as much experience on road courses."

Both Hulme and Petty were eliminated in the first three rounds and will not be among the six who go on to Daytona Beach.

"It's great, and I hope they'll continue to have the series," said Bobby Unser, the USAC speed merchant who with road racer George Follmer wound up with the most points after the first three races.

Follmer said, "At first, I thought the strictly oval track drivers like Petty, David Pearson and A.J. Foyt would be at somewhat of a disadvantage in sports cars like the Porsche Carreras and on road courses like Riverside. But it turned out that these guys are hot dogs anywhere they race and under any conditions."

Pearson, Foyt and Unser, with backgrounds on oval courses, will join Mark Donohue, Peter Revson and Follmer in the finale at Daytona Beach. It provides a three-three, oval-road matchup.

SOMETHING FOR EVERYONE

GREENDALE, Wis. (AP) — There's something for everyone at the WIBC Championship Tournament. The three divisional average format, special squads for senior women and a tournament for coeds lure hundreds of newcomers each year and keep veteran bowlers on the tournament trail.

Nearly three-quarters of a million women have shared the fun and excitement of the previous Championship Tournaments as well as almost $5 million in prizes.

Tommy Heinsohn gave the Boston Celtics a mental whipping and they made the Cleveland Cavaliers pay for it.

After being chewed out by the boss, the Celtics chewed up the Cavaliers 128-110 in the National Basketball Association Wednesday night.

"We were sky-high tonight," said Heinsohn.

And for good reason. Before the game, the fiery Boston coach gave his team an earful for losing a 102-99 decision to the Cavs last Sunday.

The Celtics' victory was their fifth in eight starts and moved them into a virtual tie with idle Buffalo for the lead in the NBA's Atlantic Division.

In the night's other NBA games, the New York Knicks trimmed the Houston Rockets 102-91 and the Detroit Pistons beat the Seattle SuperSonics 114-107.

In the American Basketball Association, the Denver Rockets beat the New York Nets 107-104; the Kentucky Colonels walloped the San Diego Conquistadors 146-105 and the San Antonio Spurs edged the Carolina Cougars 101-99 in overtime.

Don Nelson and Don Chaney sparked Boston to a 17-point lead in the first seven minutes and the aggressive Celtics went on to their easy victory over Cleveland.

Knicks 102, Rockets 91
Dave DeBusschere and Willis Reed led New York on a fourth-quarter surge. The Knicks entered the last quarter with a 75-68 lead but opened it up to 19 points behind their two big guns. Reed led the Knicks with 21 points and DeBusschere had 20.

Pistons 114, SuperSonics 107
Dave Bing and Curtis Rowe combined for 19 points in the final period to help Detroit beat Seattle 114-107. Bing scored 28 points overall and Rowe had 21 to power the Piston attack.

Rockets 107, Nets 104
Rookie Mike Green hit a lay-up after a blocked shot to put Denver ahead with 51 seconds left and the Rockets held on to beat New York. The Rockets rallied from a 16-point deficit in the third quarter to snap a three-game losing streak.

Colonels 146, Conquistadors 105
Kentucky tied an ABA rebounding record and set five team marks in beating San Diego 146-105. The Colonels grabbed a club-record 83 rebounds. Sixty of those were defensive rebounds to tie a league record.

Spurs 101, Cougars 99
James Silas scored six points in overtime, including the deciding field goal, to lead San Antonio to a 101-99 triumph over Carolina. The Spurs rallied to tie the game at 91-91 at the end of regulation play.

Finley Placed On Probation

NEW YORK (AP) — Owner Charles O. Finley of the Oakland A's has been put on probation for his conduct during the World Series. The Associated Press has learned.

office confirmed Wednesday night a report that the Oakland owner had received the notice of the probation at the same time he was hit with a $7,000 fine earlier this week.

Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn's letter to Finley notified him of the fine and also stated:

"I also determine that you personally shall be placed on probation until further notice and warn you that further conduct not in the best interest of baseball may lead to disciplinary action against you as provided in Article 1 of the major league agreement."

Article 1 gives the commissioner the power to remove an owner from a club if he feels it is in baseball's best interests.

Finley was unavailable for comment.

The controversial Oakland owner was fined for various misconducts during the recent Series with the New York Mets. The most notorious of his escapades was the Mike Andrews case.

Finley raised the commissioner's ire—and that of many other parties—when he forced the veteran Andrews to go on the disabled list after the second baseman made two costly errors in the Series' second game, won by the Mets 10-7 in 12 innings.

Buc Kickers Win By 2-0

East Carolina University's soccer team recorded its second straight victory yesterday, shutting out North Carolina Wesleyan, 2-0.

The Bucs scored both of their goals in the second half. Tom Tozer and Dan O'Shea both picked up goals, both unassisted.

Tom O'Shea was lauded by Buc coach Monte Little, for his offensive play, while Brad Smith gained defensive praises. Goalie Bucky Moser also was praised by Little for shutting out the visitors.

The victory brought East Carolina's record to 2-5-2 for the year, while Wesleyan is now 3-5-2.

East Carolina will play host to Methodist College here Monday, and then host Appalachian on Saturday, Nov. 17, at 10 a.m. for the Southern Conference title. The Mountaineers, defending conference champs, won the Southern Division of the conference, while the Bucs won the Northern Division.

Two Aces Are Scored

Two holes-in-one have been recorded recently at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

The first came on the par three, 137-yard third hole. Cameron Dudley aced that, using a seven iron.

The second ace came on the 194-yard, par three, 15th hole. Mike Woolles aced that, using a five iron.

A tournament was held this week for women taking part in a Ladies' Beginners Clinic.

Amanda Loessin took first place in the novice class, while Jenny Moye was second. Third went to Jane Collie, with Lib Respass and Blanche Forbes tying for fourth. They were followed by Janis Martin, Martha Ward and Sara Sugg.

In the intermediate class, Kathy Blount took first, while Bedie Mumford was second.

A Men's Best Ball of Four Tournament will be held at the club on Sunday, November 11. Men may make up their own foursomes and tee off when ready.

ONE OF AMERICA'S NATURAL RESOURCES... MILK.

AND YOU CAN STILL SERVE IT AT HOME FOR ABOUT 10-12¢ A GLASS.

Yes, milk's a natural resource. Because it's a natural food that has high-quality protein.

Protein is a basic building block for your body. And milk is one of the lowest-priced sources of high-quality protein you can find.

Three glasses a day give you half the protein you should have, at about 10-12¢ a glass.

When every shopping trip these days tells you lots of sources for high-quality protein are pretty expensive, that makes milk quite a bargain.

And besides protein, milk has calcium, vitamins, minerals—so much of what's good for you, in fact, that nutritionists have called milk "Nature's Most Nearly Perfect Food."

More than enough reasons why it's nearly perfect for your pocketbook, too.

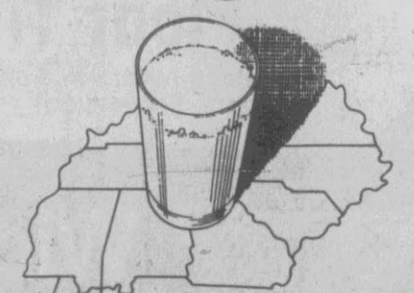

Today, every little bit of information helps. So here's more about milk.

Vitamin D fortified milk (three 8-ounce glasses) supplies the following percent of U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances (U.S. RDA)

DAIRY FARM FAMILIES OF THE SOUTHEAST.

Farmville Mart Had $87.27 Day Killed Hanging Head Out Of Bus

FARMVILLE—The Farmville Tobacco market yesterday averaged $87.27 per hundred pounds after selling 531,665 pounds of tobacco for $436,978.

To date the market has sold 20,575,512 pounds of tobacco for $18,465,167, giving an average of $89.74 per hundred pounds for the season.

The volume of sales yesterday consisted of more cutters and fair grades of leaf than on previous sales days.

"The quality of tobacco, as a whole, dropped considerably yesterday as compared with Tuesday's sale," stated Louis Williams, sales supervisor for the Farmville market. "Offerings of nondescript grades accounted for a large percent of sales."

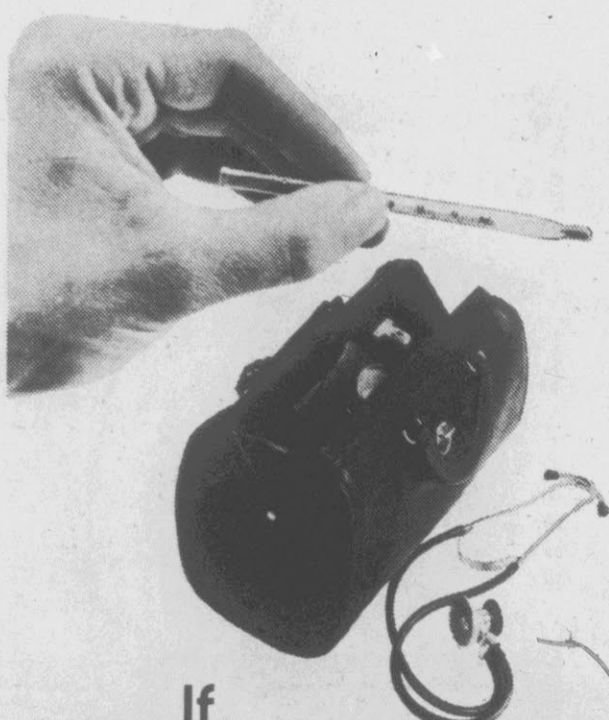

"Grade for grade prices remained steady on practically all grades.

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A 13-year-old junior high school student was killed Wednesday when he hung out of a moving bus and his head hit a utility pole, authorities said.

The driver of the city bus being used as a school bus told police that at one point while driving them home he had noticed several children hanging out the windows. He shouted to them to get back inside.

But students told police that the boy who was killed, Jeffery Porter, continued to hang out the window. They were quoted as saying he put his knees on the seat, his head out a window, and stretched out until his beltline reached the window ledge.

Back Eamon Confirms Rumor Kate Smith Was In Greenville

Tom Eamon, a political science professor at East Carolina University and a member of the Pitt County Young Democrats Club, seeking state office received the backing of Pitt County Young Democrats (YDC) at a meeting on Wednesday night.

As the major agenda item for the meeting, Eamon was given a motion of unanimous support as a candidate for the office of president of the North Carolina State Young Democrats Club. Eamon announced several weeks ago that he was definitely seeking election to the State Club's highest office.

Elections will take place at the YDC State Convention in Charlotte on November 10. Carl Darden, president of the Pitt County YDC announced that the North Carolina Young Democrats Club's Executive Committee has voiced its endorsement of a medical school at East Carolina University by a nine to two vote.

Darden added that members of the Pitt County YDC plan to introduce a resolution at the Charlotte convention calling for full junior party support of the proposed ECU Medical School.

"Aunt Kathryn thought Greenville was a lovely town," Mrs. Robert Andron said yesterday, confirming a rumor that Kate Smith visited here during the weekend.

"Yes, she was here from Friday through Monday afternoon," the famous singer's niece said. "We had a lovely, lovely visit. We shopped, and went out to eat several times, and she went to Mass at St. Raphael's Catholic Church here. She's always liked this part of the country—she visited us in Goldsboro several times when my husband was stationed at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base there—and was quite impressed with Greenville, just as we are."

Asked about the possibility of a personal interview during Miss Smith's next visit, Mrs. Andron said she and her husband and young son, Lee, are moving to Raleigh soon. "We love Greenville, but my husband's work is taking us there," she said.

Her husband is an architect and she is an artist who works at home.

Hers is a small, close family and she sees Miss Smith about every three months, Mrs. Andron said. "We'll be seeing her at Thanksgiving in New York," she said.

Her aunt, a singer of renown for several decades, is quite busy with recording and television specials, and personal appearances, Mrs. Andron said. She was accompanied here by Salvatore Gelosi, "her driver, and bodyguard, and very close friend," she said.

The Worry Clinic

Demonstration Stirs Interest

Prof. Lawrence is a deft member of my "Compliment Club." He realizes, too, the superb value of dramatizing education, which is a form of salesmanship. And the Bible cites, many super salesmen, as shown in today's case.

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph.D., M.D.

CASE Y-564: Lawrence R., aged 27, is a psychology professor.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I am using your textbook for two classes."

"And I want to compliment you on the way you can intrigue the interest of students."

"That's doubly true because of your project book that the professor obtains."

"Now the students know that they will witness a clever classroom demonstration at every class session, so they not only show up on time."

"But many of them ask if they may invite a roommate to one of the classes!"

"That's been almost unheard of heretofore!"

"Your textbook is a splendid salesman for Applied Psychology."

Compliment Club Lawrence is obviously a deft Applied Psychologist.

For he has demonstrated the use of the "Compliment Club" technique on me.

But I appreciate his seeing the effect that classroom salesmanship exerts on zooming enrollments, regular attendance and even the invitation of guest students.

While teaching at Northwestern University, I always set aside one day each semester when students could invite their friends, roommates or families.

We had to use the N. U. Law School Auditorium to handle the crowds, but my classes were always overflowing each semester.

For salesmanship is the psychological "sparkplug" that zooms business, as well as church attendance, school enrollments, etc.

The first stellar salesman was the Serpent in the Garden of Eden.

He sold Eve on tasting the forbidden fruit.

And that was one of the great milestones in human occupation of this planet, for it forced man to start working, instead of remaining on Divine Welfare!

Abraham was another salesman, who twice traded his wife to foreign kings as the insurance policy on his own life.

His grandson, Jacob, then sold Esau on bartering his birthright for Jacob's tasty bean soup.

Laban deserves praise, too, for selling Jacob on working 7 years to win Rachel for his wife.

Laban then tricked Jacob and gave him the wrong daughter, which Jacob didn't discover till next morning.

But Laban then used more salesmanship and sold Jacob on working another 7 years.

David likewise used salesmanship on King Saul to gain permission to right the giant Goliath.

He backed up his salesmanship with facts, when he cited his previous killing of bears and lions.

Judas Iscariot then sold Jesus for 30 pieces of silver, without which deal Christianity would not have materialized!

Remember, too, that Christianity is indebted to capital punishment for its very existence on this Earth!

And Paul was a super salesman during the first century, A.D., for he sold the new ethical system to many cities, in which he established little sales groups of other fervent disseminators of glad tidings.

His New Testament Epistles are really the Sales Manager's letters to his Mediterranean religious sales crews at Galatia, Ephesus, Corinth, etc.

The bidding:
 North East South West
 Pass Pass 3NT Pass
 Pass Pass

Opening lead: Ace of ♠
 Generally, there is nothing in bridge that disturbs me more than a partner who lays down an ace on opening lead against a contract and remarks: "Just to take a look at dummy, partner!"

As a rule, its costs one or two tricks, a heavy price to pay for satisfying one's curiosity. But there are times when it can be right, as the great Italian star Pietro Forquet demonstrated when he held the West hand at the recent First Monte Carlo International Bridge Festival.

South's opening bid of three no trump was the old-fashioned version of the "gambling three no trump" convention. It showed a hand containing a long, solid minor suit, with two of the three outside suits stopped. The theory is that it is easier to make nine tricks at no trump than eleven in a minor suit.

Correct defensive technique is to try to take your tricks quickly. If you lead a normal fourth-best, the odds are that declarer or dummy will win and you will have to face a barrage of cards in declarer's long minor, often resulting in discarding problems. Therefore, the lead of an ace is sound procedure—this is really a case where you want to study dummy to see if you can find declarer's weak spot.

Forquet led the ace of spades on which East played the ten and declarer, the ace. Forquet was not taken in by the false card, for he knew his partner would have played the queen from a holding of queen-jack-ten. Thus, the spade suit offered no hope of quick tricks.

From looking at dummy, it was obvious that declarer was going to take at least seven diamond tricks, the seven of spades, and the ace of clubs, as soon as he gained the lead. Therefore, the heart suit offered the only prospect on defense. Obviously, if declarer held the ace of hearts, the game was impregnable. Forquet also worked out that if South had a guarded jack of hearts, the defense was equally helpless. If South had the jack, the only hope was that it was singleton. To cater for this slight possibility, Forquet made the brilliant shift to the king of hearts! This collected South's jack, and the ten of hearts continuation let the defense collect four heart tricks in addition to the ace of spades.

Small wonder that his fans consider Forquet to be the world's greatest bridge player.

Lawyer Says Dairy Fund Disguised As Legal Fees

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A fired lawyer for the nation's largest dairy cooperative swears the group disguised illegal corporate "campaign contributions" as legal fees.

Internal Revenue Service and the General Accounting Office. Investigators are seeking to find how much of a reported $384,000 legal bill went into the alleged contributions, who got them, and whether any of the money was used for any other purpose.

The ousted lawyer, Joseph A. Rose Jr., 35, was fired from his job as the San Antonio-based Associated Milk Producers Inc. in September after he told part of his story to FBI agents.

A spokesman for the group said Rose was fired for "failure to carry out his duties."

Rose testified in a lawsuit that the milk producers funneled political money through an Oklahoma City lawyer, Stuart Russell, and that Russell converted it to checks and cash and gave it to the milkmen's chief political staffer, Robert Lilly.

Court filings show Russell received $384,000 in a 10-month period ending April 30, 1972. At least part of the money apparently went for legitimate legal costs, since Russell performed legal services for the milk group during that period.

Rose said Russell acknowledged passing money to Lilly for "political contributions," and became nervous about the arrangement when IRS agents traced some of the money to Lilly. Federal law prohibits use of corporation money for political donations.

Rose said Lilly indicated he knew who got the money, and that he left open the possibility it had gone for something other than campaign funds.

Rose said he felt it was his obligation as a lawyer to get the money back, but that Lilly told him, "It can't be recouped because it didn't go to something like the Committee to Reelect the President. It went direct."

Rose was asked, "By direct, you mean like hundred dollar bills in a brown bag, is that the way you understood it?"

"That is my conclusion," Rose said.

He testified in a tangled lawsuit in Kansas City, Mo., on Oct. 23, and a transcript of his statement became available in Washington Wednesday.

Russell and Lilly couldn't be reached for comment. A spokesman for the milk producers declined to comment on Rose's allegations.

The milk producers have been at the center of another political controversy. Public-interest groups have alleged in court that the milkmen bought favors from the Nixon administration in return for campaign donations.

Kleindienst Says His Silence Was Not 'Perjury'

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Attn. Gen. Richard S. Kleindienst denies he committed perjury by failing to tell the Senate about President Nixon's order to drop an antitrust suit against ITT and his own threat to resign rather than obey.

Kleindienst repeatedly stated under oath during 1972 hearings before the Senate Judiciary Committee that there was no White House pressure on him to halt the antitrust suits against International Telephone & Telegraph Corp.

He acknowledged in a statement Wednesday that Nixon telephoned him on April 19, 1971, and, "without any discussion, ordered me to drop the appeal" of one of the three parallel lawsuits.

He defended his Senate testimony by saying he "was not asked whether I had had any contacts with the White House at the time of this decision, and I did not deny any such contacts."

But an examination of the two volumes of the hearing record shows that Kleindienst was asked repeatedly about the sequence of events on April 19. And he was asked several times if he had ever had any contacts with the White House concerning the ITT case. He repeatedly denied any contacts amounting to pressure or directions and conceded only that the matter may have been mentioned in some of the many casual conversations he had with White House officials.

Kleindienst disclosed for the first time that the controversy forced him to the brink of resignation.

By his account, former presidential adviser John D. Ehrlichman called him on April 19 "and stated that the President directed me not to file the appeal in the Grinnell case ... I informed him that we had determined to take that appeal, and that he should so inform the President."

Nixon called moments later, repeated the order, and Kleindienst then "sent word to the President that, if he persisted in that direction, I would be compelled to submit my resignation."

April 19 was the deadline for the government to notify the Supreme Court of its intention to appeal a lower court decision against the government's challenge of ITT's acquisition of the Grinnell Corp. Kleindienst said he then asked the high court for a 30-day extension "to enable the President to consider my position" and Nixon subsequently "changed his mind."

The Justice Department filed the appeal, but then negotiated an out-of-court settlement requiring ITT to divest itself of three subsidiaries and part of a fourth but allowing it to keep the profitable Hartford Fire Insurance Co.

The controversy has focused attention on whether perjury was committed during the Judiciary Committee hearings in March and April of 1972.

Farm Prices See Decline

WASHINGTON (AP) — Prospects of consumer relief at the supermarket were held out by government economists Wednesday in the wake of a decline in the price of raw farm products.

The Agriculture Department reported a four per cent decline in price between Sept. 15 and Oct. 15. This followed an eight per cent drop the previous month, the sharpest one-month drop in 25 years.

Officials said lower prices for cattle, hogs, wheat, broiler chickens and eggs contributed the most to the decline.

There were higher prices reported for milk, rice, oranges, dry beans and grapes and Administration officials have predicted that retail food costs will begin to slow down as farmers complete record harvests and begin to turn more livestock, milk and poultry.

Seminar For Principals

Between eighty and 100 secondary school principals from across Eastern North Carolina attended the sixth annual seminar sponsored by the Department of Educational Administration and Supervision, School of Education, East Carolina University, today (Thursday).

The seminars provide an opportunity for school principals to meet and "talk to principals about principals' problems," said Dr. Keith Hudson, of the ECU Department of Administration and Supervision, who served as coordinator.

Panelists for a morning session on "Effective Use of Teacher Extended Term Days" were Roscoe Batts of J. W. Parker Junior High School, Rocky Mount, Russ Cotton of Farmville Central High School and John F. Nelson, West Carteret High School, Morehead City. Panelists for an afternoon session on "Improving Principal-Teacher Relationships" were Eldridge Thigpen of Green Central High School, Snow Hill and Duane Linker, Lejeune High, Camp Lejeune. General Discussions followed both panels.
