

Deadlocked

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — Security Council members report progress in negotiations on the makeup of the U.N. military force for the Middle East.

But they say a U.S.-Soviet deadlock continues over participation by countries from the Soviet bloc and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Ambassador Peter Jankowitsch of Austria, the council president for November, told newsmen a nine-hour closed session of the council Thursday "resulted in further progress" and would be continued today.

But U.S. Ambassador John A. Scali said there was "still a divergence" on some matters.

The United States opposes the participation of Poland in the force, while the Soviet Union is opposing Canada.

Informed sources said the council's eight nonaligned members proposed that both be accepted but their participation be limited to logistic support activities. This was reported acceptable to the Russians, but the Americans still opposed Poland.

Scali, asked if he was ready to veto participation by Poland, replied, "I just hope it won't come to a veto."

The nonaligned council members — India, Indonesia, Guinea, Kenya, Sudan, Panama, Yugoslavia and Peru — drafted their compromise Thursday after the council failed earlier to choose among about 30 countries who have offered troops.

Unexpected Drop In Unemployment

By BILL NEIKIRK

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

The nation's unemployment rate took a sharp and surprising downward turn last month, falling to 4.5 per cent of the work force, the lowest jobless rate since March 1970, the government said today.

The unemployment rate matched the predictions of the Nixon administration, which had forecast earlier this year the jobless rate would drop to 4.5 per cent by the end of the year. The unemployment rate had remained stuck at 4.8 per cent since June.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics said the big decline was posted because employment was extremely strong in October, rising by 570,000 to a total 85.7 million on a seasonally adjusted basis.

It was the second straight month that the number of people with jobs had risen, indicating that the nation's economy is perhaps much stronger than even government economists have been saying.

The economy has been slowing down its rapid pace of the first part of the year, causing government economists to predict that unemployment would probably rise in the months ahead rather than go down as happened in October.

In the past year, the nation's unemployment rate dropped a full percentage point from the 5.5 percentage point level of October 1972. In March 1970, the national jobless rate was 4.4 per cent.

Strong gains in employment were concentrated in the manufacturing sector and affected mainly adult men, the department said. Of the 570,000 rise in employment, adult men accounted for more than 300,000 of the increase with the remainder divided about equally between teen-agers and adult women.

As a result, the number of people out of work dropped a seasonally adjusted 210,000 last month to 4.1 million.

The jobless rate for adult women fell from 4.8 to 4.4 per cent and for adult men from 3.1 to 2.9 per cent. The declines were concentrated among those age 20 to 24.

For other major groups, the jobless rate remained about the same as it has for the past several months. For teen-agers, it was 13.9 per cent, heads of households 2.7 per cent, and married men 2.1 per cent.

But for black workers, the unemployment rate declined from 9.4 to 8.3 per cent, primarily because of reduced joblessness among black teenagers, the department said.

The department said that total employment has grown by 3.2 million since October 1972, "an unusually large increase for a 12-month period."

Full employment is usually considered to be a jobless rate of four per cent, but the Nixon administration has left strong doubt whether it can realistically bring the rate to that level without triggering even more inflation than prevails now.

The department said nonagricultural payroll employment increased by 305,000 in October, thus making up the bulk of the over-all rise.

Average weekly earnings went down by 82 cents in October to $147.63.

'Many Questions' On Missing Tapes

By BROOKS JACKSON

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

A Watergate prosecutor said in court today many questions remain to be answered about White House claims two tape recordings don't exist, but a presidential lawyer said that apparent discrepancies could be easily explained.

The prosecutor, Richard Ben Veniste, said he intended to call at least eight present and former Nixon administration officials, including former White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman, to testify about the White House's claim that two crucial Watergate conversations went unrecorded.

Ben Veniste said that two days of testimony by White House witnesses "raised many questions which still have to be answered."

U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica indicated a full-blown hearing was on tap and denied a request by White House lawyer J. Fred Buzhardt to delay proceedings until Monday.

"It is the desire and aim of this court to get all the information," Sirica said. He said he saw no reason why testimony could not continue today.

Ben Veniste opened the day's court session by detailing discrepancies and questions he said had been raised in earlier testimony.

—A Roman numeral one had appeared on the back of a box containing a tape which the White House says ran out on an unattended recorder hours before President Nixon's crucial conversation on April 15, 1973 with his then-counsel, John W. Dean III. Ben Veniste said there has been no explanation as to who wrote that notation or if a "Part Two" tape exists for that day.

The April 15 conversation is one of two the White House says went unrecorded. In it, Dean has testified, Nixon indicated complicity in the Watergate cover-up.

—The same tape box bears the notation, "Full. Tape removed," for Monday, April 16. But a Secret Service technician who minded the tapes said that on other occasions when tapes ran out, he sometimes wrote "tape ran out" on the back of the box. Ben Veniste said the notation "Full" could be read two ways, either that the tape had run out or that it had almost run out.

—The prosecutor noted that Secret Service Technician Raymond C. Zumwalt had changed his testimony about why two days of presidential conversations were recorded on a single machine with only a six-hour supply of tape. At first, Zumwalt said, a switcher had failed to turn on a second machine for the April 15 date. Later, he said, he remembered that the switcher hadn't been set to operate that day because it was on a weekend.

—A White House archivist testified that the official diary of President Nixon's minute-by-minute whereabouts on April 15 was revised after more than three months, on July 26, the same date Watergate prosecutors subpoenaed nine White House tapes and related documents. The archivist, John Nesbitt, said this was only a coincidence. But Ben Veniste said it raised another question about the reliability of White House evidence.

—Ben Veniste said no proof had been presented that the other Watergate-related conversation, a June 20, 1972, telephone call from Nixon campaign director John N. Mitchell, had been received on an unbugged telephone. The White House showed logs indicating Nixon was in his second-floor residence when the call came in, and Zumwalt testified that only one bugged telephone, in the Lincoln Sitting Room, was on the second floor.

That conversation between Nixon and Mitchell took place three days after the break-in at Democratic headquarters at the Watergate.

—Ben Veniste noted that there are discrepancies between Zumwalt's original notes and his later record listing who took out tapes from storage, and when they were returned. The prosecutor noted that no record has been presented at all of what happened to stored tapes after their existence became known publicly in mid-July. He said the White House has presented no evidence that anyone had searched for a recording of the June 20 Mitchell talks.

Among witnesses scheduled to testify today was presidential aide Stephen V. Bull, the man who removed batches of tapes from storage starting last April 25, 10 days after the President learned that Dean was offering his damaging testimony to federal prosecutors.

Buzhardt presented two witnesses on Thursday in an attempt to convince Sirica that the two conversations weren't recorded.

Eggdrop Test

ROCK HILL, S.C. (AP)—Fifteen shoe-box-sized packages, each containing an uncooked egg, were dropped 1,000 feet from an airplane Thursday.

It was a contest between sixth graders and student teachers from Winthrop College.

The eggdrop was a science project at Rosewood Elementary School in Rock Hill. The object was to build a container that would keep the egg from splattering.

By late afternoon the sixth graders were ahead, having salvaged three unbroken eggs to the teachers' two. However, five packages that fell into a wooded area were still unaccounted for.

Golda Says 'Reassured'

By KENNETH J. FREED

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

Whatever it was that was ailing in the relationship between Israel and the United States, President Nixon apparently had the tonic.

Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir came to the United States in a hurry this week seeking "answers and clarifications" to questions and problems that developed between the two countries because of the Middle East war.

But, in the time it took Mrs. Meir to eat breakfast with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and talk to Nixon for 80 minutes Thursday, the troubles seemed to vanish.

"There is no pressure" by the United States for Israel to make concessions on cease-fire lines," she told reporters. She said there were never any American conditions placed on the supply of arms.

"I was reassured of something I had known very much before," Mrs. Meir said in an opening statement. "We hold common goals; the cease-fire must prevail and a 'true and lasting peace' must be arranged.

The White House meeting ended with the Israeli leader "confident the friendship between us will be enhanced and will grow."

When asked why, if everything is so satisfactory, she rushed to Washington, Mrs. Meir responded, "Just to find out that there was no pressure."

She added that the United States has no "detailed plan" for peace and "maybe for lack of time" there was no discussion with Nixon of an ultimate Middle East settlement.

On this matter, she said, the dispute over a cease-fire could be solved by "moving forces on both sides," perhaps in large numbers.

This would straighten the cease-fire lines, make them "more coherent" and easier to enforce, she said.

Her plan would involve the "moving of large numbers of soldiers, but without jeopardizing the rights of either party."

This was an evident reference to the 20,000 soldiers of Egypt's 3rd Army, which is trapped at the southern end of the Suez Canal's east bank.

The theme of direct negotiations was played often in her news conference and in her talks with Nixon and Kissinger.

Mrs. Meir will leave for Israel Saturday.

Meanwhile, members of the United Nations Security Council say there has been progress in negotiations on the makeup of the U.N. military force for the Middle East, but that a deadlock between the United States and the Soviet Union continues over the role of Communist nations.

It was understood the Soviets opposed Canada sending a logistical support unit to help the military force. The United States reportedly was opposed to a compromise plan that would include a Polish unit with the Canadians.

School Bonds Well-Backed

By NOEL YANCEY

Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP)—A proposal to issue $300 million in state bonds for school construction on which the people vote Nov. 6 is being submitted to the people with impressive support.

Not only were the bonds approved by overwhelming majorities in both houses of the General Assembly, they have received the endorsement of Gov. Jim Holshouser, Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt and state Treasurer Edwin Gill.

Many statewide organizations are backing the bonds including the North Carolina School Boards Association and North Carolina Association of Educators.

In addition, the bonds have been formally endorsed by a majority of local school boards and boards of county commissioners.

"All of us who support public education in North Carolina, who want to see it continue to progress and improve in carrying out its unique mission, have a responsibility and an obligation to see this proposal adopted by the voters of North Carolina on Nov. 6," the governor said in a recent speech.

In his endorsement of the bonds, Gill, who is ex officio a member of the state Board of Education, said the state can issue them without increasing state taxes.

"Not only as state treasurer, but as a member of the state Board of Education, I know the needs to be met, and I recommend a high priority be given our public school needs," Gill said.

So far, no organized opposition to the school bonds has developed.

Leading the campaign in support of the bonds, is Rep. Lane Brown, D-Stanly, chairman of a group called Sound Investment in Tomorrow's Education (SITE). Brown sponsored the legislation in the General Assembly.

Brown explains how the $300 million figure was arrived at: A survey conducted by the state Board of Education of local school officials indicated building needs totaling $1.2 billion. Brown says past experience shows each state dollar generates three dollars for school construction at the local level.

He said news of the mishap was delayed because the project is "a secret and sensitive one" aimed at finding a new way of producing fissionable uranium for weapons and power plants.

The AEC said the device, an advanced model of an experimental gas centrifuge, was nearly destroyed "during test-stand operations" and that a number of other experimental units and support piping were also damaged.

"Approximately four ounces of uranium hexafluoride (a gaseous mixture) were released in the building, but there was no radioactive overexposure of personnel," said the AEC.

Moorer Affirms 'Alert' For Real

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, has criticized those who charge that President Nixon's calling of a worldwide military alert last week was unjustified.

"The alert was not theatrical, as some have said," he told newsmen Thursday following a speech to the International Law Society at Duke University. Such critics, he added, "did not have access to all the facts."

Offer Bill To 'Extend' DST

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. James G. Martin, R-N.C., has co-sponsored legislation to extend Daylight Savings Time through the entire year.

Martin, who represents the Ninth District, cites the energy crisis as a major factor in support of year-around daylight time. He says studies indicate that the proposed system would reduce America's fuel consumption by at least two per cent.

Gerald Ford Says House Should Continue Inquiry

By JIM LUTHER

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —

Vice President-designate Gerald R. Ford says the House should go ahead with its investigation to determine whether President Nixon should be impeached.

The Michigan congressman said he doubts there are grounds for impeachment, but conceded the basis for such action can be anything a majority of the House considers it to be.

"The House of Representatives should proceed with consideration of impeachment to help clear the air." Ford told the Senate Rules Committee Thursday as the panel opened hearings into his nomination to succeed Spiro T. Agnew as vice president.

The public hearings will resume Monday with more testimony from Ford and from members of Congress, who generally have praised the selection of Ford, a House member for 25 years and Republican leader for nine.

In four hours of testimony,

Ford:

—Said it might have been better had the White House disclosed earlier that two of the nine tapes subpoenaed in the Watergate investigation did not exist. The disclosure was made Wednesday.

—Said that on issues of executive privilege, a president should seek a balance between confidentiality and the public's right to know.

—Denied being a conduit for dairy-industry contributions to members of Congress.

—Denounced as lies allegations by former lobbyist Robert N. Winter-Berger that Winter-Berger gave Ford $15,000 to pay Mrs. Ford's medical bills.

—Repeated that he will not be a candidate for any political office in 1976.

In his opening statement and at several points during the hearing, Ford said he wants to "be a ready conciliator and calm communicator between the White House and Capitol Hill, between the re-election mandate of the Republican President and the equally emphatic mandate of the Democratic 93rd Congress."

Ford expressed the hope that "some of the damage" caused by Nixon's handling of the Watergate case can be repaired by the choice of Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, for attorney general and Leon Jaworski for Watergate prosecutor as well as the surrender of Watergate tapes.

Ford, who made no apologies for being a strong

Nixon supporter, said that on at least two occasions he had recommended to top-level White House aides that the President turn over the tapes to the courts to see if the recordings could shed light on any presidential involvement in the scandal.

Nixon agreed to yield the tapes last week and only after firing Watergate Special Prosecutor Archibald Cox, a move that resulted in the resignation of Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson and brought a flood of calls for Nixon's impeachment.

South Of The Border, It Might Have Been Pat Nixon For VP

By DIANA PAGE
BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Women are playing major roles in Latin American politics this year in a way that would be hard to imagine in Washington, D.C.

When President Nixon was faced with the problem of choosing a new vice president, did he give a moment's thought to Mrs. Nixon or consider his daughters Julie or Tricia could carry the Nixon name on into the 1976 elections?

In Argentina, Mrs. Juan D. Peron was sworn in as the first woman vice president in the Americas on Oct. 12.

The same day in Colombia, the daughter of former President Gustavo Rojas Pinilla was proclaimed a presidential candidate.

Venezuela's former strongman Marcos Perez Jimenez has his wife running for the senate and his daughter running for the Chamber of Deputies as a test run of their political strength before trying for the highest office.

South America has allowed many women to aspire to high political office, but so far only when supported by strongmen.

Peron, who ruled Argentina from 1946 until 1955, surprised many when he chose his third wife, Isabel, as vice presidential running mate in the recent elections which restored him to power.

During the first Peron era, his popular second wife, Eva, was forced to give up her aspirations to the vice presidency because the military stood firmly against the idea of a female commander in chief.

The fiery, blonde Eva, a former radio actress who whipped up the common people in support of Peron, was still the most powerful woman in Latin America when she died in 1952 of cancer.

Maria Estela Martinez, who took Isabel as her stage name, was dancing in a cabaret in Panama when she met Peron in 1956, a year after he was overthrown by a military coup and forced into exile. Isabel gave up her stage career to become Peron's secretary and they were married in Madrid four years later.

Isabel has done her best to make her peace with the memory of Eva, extolling her virtue and trying to emulate her political zest.

Peron sent her out to do most of the campaigning for the Sept. 23 elections, visiting the provinces and calling at orphanages and hospitals.

It was Eva Peron's political influence that inspired Colombian dictator Gustavo Rojas Pinilla to launch his daughter Maria Eugenia, then in her 20s, on her political career in 1954 by making her secretary of the National Social Assistance Service.

Before her father came to power in 1953, Maria Eugenia had led the quiet life of an officer's daughter, educated in convent schools. She is the wife of a conservative senator, Samuel Moreno Diaz, and mother of two sons.

Her real political experience began after her father fell in a coup in 1957. Maria Eugenia publicly defender her father against the charges of graft and abuse of power brought against him by the Senate. She ran for the Chamber of Deputies in 1962 and was reelected in 1964. She won a Senate seat in 1966 and retained it in the 1970 elections.

Her father lost the 1970 presidential elections to Misael Pastrana Borrero by only 65,968 votes. The next presidential elections are scheduled for next April 14, but Rojas Pinilla, 73, suffering from diabetes and a heart condition, has decided to let his daughter run on the ticket of his National Popular Alliance (ANAPOL).

(Maria Eugenia is now in her 40's but she is the only person listed without a birth date in the Colombia "Who's Who.")

In Venezuela, Marcos Perez Jimenez is trying to decide whether or not to have his wife, Flor Chabaud, or his daughter, Margot, run in the Dec. 9 presidential elections. For the time being, both are candidates for Congress.

Perez Jimenez took over the government of Venezuela in 1952 and was overthrown in 1958. The constitution prohibits him from running for public office because he has been convicted of corruption during his presidency.

Margot, 27, has embarked on her political career with more enthusiasm than her mother, who dutifully goes along with the ideas of her husband of 28 years.

Experts Warn That Combing May Harm Hair

CHICAGO (UPI) — Girls who brush their hair 100 strokes daily to keep it healthy and shining may be hurting rather than helping their crowning glory.

Experts, meeting at an American Medical Association conference in Chicago, warned that excessive brushing and combing actually damage hair.

The most degradative hair care process is combing. This is due to the force applied in repeated strokes.

"Brush and comb to groom, not to treat," said Dr. Norman Orentreich, of New York, who developed the hair transplant. "There is good evidence that it causes hair loss."

As for that healthy, vibrant, glowing hair referred to in commercials for hair tonics and other such potions, the doctors said that there is no such thing.

"The plain, unadorned—bald, if you will—truth is that hair is as dead as any fibrous cord, even when it is being manufactured within the follicle," said Dr. William Montagna of Beaverton, Ore.

Since hair is dead, the experts agreed, it cannot be "fed" with "protein or lemons or anything else."

The hair experts, however, said there was no truth to the tale that frequent shampooing of hair produced baldness. They suggested that hair should be washed only as frequently as necessary and that more frequent washings could break hairs.

Persons with very oily hair could shampoo daily, they said, while persons with dry hair would do well to go four to seven days without shampooing, if there is no unusual exposure to dirt.

The experts also agree that it is impossible to identify people through examination of hair.

"The size, color, distribution and wear of hair cuticles differs so widely for each person that the practice of using hair for individual identification by those in forensic medicine has gradually become obsolete and outmoded," Montagna said.

"One wonders how many innocent human beings were convicted of crimes they never committed on such less-than-circumstantial evidence," he said.

Science, the conference concluded, cannot identify people from hair, despite what detective stories say.

DEAR ABBY: We just moved to a place that's close enough to my husband's job for him to come home for lunch every day, and that's my problem.

I don't want to sound like a selfish wife, but, Abby, having George home for lunch every day has upset my whole routine.

For years I've given my family [four school-age children] a good hot breakfast every morning, and I never saw them again until the kids came home from school, and George came home for supper. Now, here comes George home for lunch every day! It cuts into my day something terrible. He's not the kind of man who can get his own lunch. I have to prepare it and serve it to him. [A little "snack" won't do for him. He likes a MEAL at noon.] Also, he gets amorous when we're home alone, but that's another letter.

I feel guilty just writing this, but I need some advice. Should I come right out and tell George to buy his lunch?

DEAR RUINED: Tell George you married him for better or worse—but not for lunch. A lot of women would welcome your problem, but since you feel otherwise, honesty is still the best policy. So level with George, and hope for a fair compromise.

DEAR ABBY: About that Jewish girl who was selected to represent her county at a horse show, which happened to fall on the Jewish High Holy Days: Even if the girl can't participate on a Jewish holiday, why not let the horse participate with another rider? Surely, the horse isn't Jewish. Half the team is better than none.

A. C. IN RIO RANCHO, N. M.
DEAR A. C.: Maybe so, but another reader suggested that scheduling an important sports event on a Jewish holiday was thoughtless and inconsiderate. "In fact," he said, "it was downright UNCHRISTIAN!"

DEAR ABBY: My mother in law, who lives with us, told my husband that spotted eggs are not fit for human consumption, so now my husband insists that I go thru dozens of cartons in the supermarket to make up a box that doesn't contain a spotted egg. If my mother in law finds a spotted egg, she disposes of it in the garbage.

I feel embarrassed rearranging cartons of eggs in the supermarket. Personally, I don't think there is anything wrong with spotted eggs, but would appreciate an expert's opinion.

H. IN AURORA
DEAR H.: I am not eggs-actly an eggs-pert on this subject, but Dr. Hamre at the University of Minnesota is, and he said: "Spotted eggs are just as fit for human consumption as any other eggs." So, since the price of eggs these days is no "yolk," tell your mother in law she's mistaken.

PRETTY AND SMART IN S.F.

DEAR ABBY: I am a male, age 52, married for 30 years, and I am still very much alive in every respect.

For several years now, my wife, who is a very attractive woman, has come to bed fully clothed in her uniform of pajamas which are buttoned high up around her neck and tightly secured at the waist, the wrists, and ankles. There is just no getting in anywhere.

She also has yards of toilet tissue wrapped around her head to keep her hairdo intact, and the whole paper-head is covered with a ridiculous ruffled nightcap.

I wish she would get one of those lovely nightgowns I have given her out of the drawer and wear it, so I could tell I was sleeping with a woman. I just can't stand those pajamas and that helmet!

Does any other man feel the way I do? I hope to see your answer before the fire goes out.

ANTI P. J.'S IN CAROLINA

DEAR ANTI: Yes, most of them do. Women, what are you saving your lovely, feminine nightgowns and halos for? It's later than you think.

A woman who goes to bed looking like a scarecrow reminds me of the bride who came to her own wedding in rollers—because she wanted to look nice for the reception.

Rollback On Prices Set

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Winn-Dixie Inc., one of the largest retail grocers in the Southeast, will roll back prices below Phase IV levels in North Carolina, South Carolina, Virginia, Georgia and Florida to compensate for overcharges, the Internal Revenue Service said today.

Karl Kristofferson, a spokesman for the IRS' Greensboro office, said the price cuts will refund nearly $250,000 worth of overcharges in the five-state area. The refunds are scheduled to be completed by Jan. 5, 1974, he said.

The Raleigh division, which serves 135 stores in North Carolina, South Carolina and Virginia, will refund $100,753.46 in grocery, meat and produce items.

Refunds of $143,585.93 will be made at 235 stores in Florida and South Georgia operated by the firm's divisions in Jacksonville, Fla., and Miami.

The refunds follow an IRS investigation began on Aug. 22 that ruled the firm not in compliance with the Economic Stabilization Act.

A Real Campaign By Zealots

We don't know exactly how the liquor by the drink vote will come out Tuesday. We must say, however, that if organization and clarity of purpose determines it, the dry forces won't have any trouble winning.

Those who oppose liquor by the drink knew where they were going from the start. They approached the campaign with a zeal that comes only from believing absolutely in your cause. They were smart enough to sell their cause, not as a dry measure, but as one which would keep alcoholic control with the state through ABC stores.

The proponents' campaign has sputtered from the start. Its messages have been late coming and they have really not been clear. Curiously their campaign has apparently been underfinanced, certainly not in keeping with the determined efforts which have gone on for years to obtain mixed drinks for urban and resort areas.

It is not our purpose here to tell people how to vote on this issue, since more than most issues, this one is a matter of conscience. However, based on the strong and efficient campaign waged by the drys, and the weak and confused one by the proponents, we would not be surprised to see liquor-by-the-drink laid to rest on Tuesday.

Favorable Vote Needed On Clean Water Bonds

One of the ballots voters will find at the polls on Tuesday calls for a vote for or against the amendment to the clean water bond act.

The bonds have been approved previously by the people and the General Assembly and this ballot will merely allow the Legislature to go on and spend the funds.

The bonds will provide grants to local government units for construction, improvement or expansion of wastewater treatment facilities.

It almost goes without saying that these funds are essential in North Carolina as we are to keep our rivers and streams clean.

We strongly urge a favorable vote on this ballot.

Democrats In An Angry Mood

By JOHN KILGO
RALEIGH — A former Republican legislator told me: "Gov. Holshouser now has a tiger by the tail."

A Democrat serving the State Senate said: "The water will turn a different color when the Legislature gets to Raleigh."

And an Eastern legislator said: "The Republican administration is becoming one of political hacks." They're all talking in the wake of the firing of 100 state highway employees by State Transportation Secretary Bruce Lentz.

The Democrats who sit in the Tar Heel Legislature felt like they were holding a time bomb in the 1973 session. Republican Gov. Jim Holshouser had been elected and the people were watching to see if the Democratic-controlled Legislature was going to try to sink him by playing petty politics.

"I was one of the leaders in saying go slow," says Democratic State Sen. Eddie Knox of Charlotte. "The people put in a Republican governor and we had to be careful. But I believe the water will turn a different color when the Legislature gets to Raleigh. The Legislature will make it tougher on the Governor and we'll have grounds on which to do it. By firing all of these people, they're doing exactly what they said they wouldn't do."

Sen. Knox says he can't believe that all of the people being fired by the Holshouser administration are incompetent.

"The firings haven't been justified, at least in my eyes they haven't been," Knox says. "People are definitely upset about it. The Legislature will be more hardened next year than it was earlier this year."

James Johnson, a maverick Republican who lost to Jesse Helms in the GOP race for the U.S. Senate nomination and a man who served in the Tar Heel Legislature, says: "I talk to a lot of these legislators and in my opinion, Gov. Holshouser's got a tiger by the tail."

"It looks like wholesale firings are going on up there now," Johnson says. "The Democrats won't take that sitting down. I know for a fact that many Democrats are steaming about the shake-up of the Highway Patrol. The Legislature is going to take away as much of the Governor's power as they can when they get back to Raleigh next January."

An Eastern Senator who asked not to be named, but who is a leader in the Democratic Party, said: "We let Holshouser have an extended honeymoon because we didn't want to look too political. But now they're firing people for no reason. In some instances they're putting political hacks in to take the place of competent people. We'll have plenty of grounds to challenge the Governor next time and I'm sure we'll do it."

In the meantime, Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt has appointed a special committee on personnel practices to investigate the firings.

"I personally feel people are being fired to make room for Republican," Hunt says.

And former Gov. Bob Scott says: "It looks like Washington all over again." Any way you cut it, you won't have trouble next year remembering that Gov. Holshouser and the legislative majority are from different parties.

RELIGION AND INSURANCE

Some people regard their religion the same as they would a life insurance policy. It is something to be kept under lock and key. It has small immediate value but it will have great value when they die.

With one hand these people lay hold on religion and with the other they do their daily work. They do not recognize an immediate relationship between what they profess on Sunday and what they do on Monday. These people would be aggrieved and insulted if you called their attention to the fact that they did not, in business and social life, put any of their religious beliefs into practice. They would remind you tartly that spiritual laws work in spiritual situations but that when one is dealing with dollars and cents he has to be realistic and do what the situation demands.

The life insurance concept of religion is no religion at all. For religion to be meaningful it must be both a matter of belief and action. The two can never be separated.

The Line Of Succession

WASHINGTON — Because of all the talk about impeachment and resignation, this country has suddenly taken a very careful look at the succession of the President of the United States.

According to the Constitution, as interpreted by the White House, only male heirs may succeed the President if for some reason he cannot carry out his duties. This eliminates Julie Eisenhower and Tricia Cox.

The nearest male heir to take over the Presidency would be Mr. Nixon's brother, Donald the Prince of Marriott as he is known at court. Donald is much more of a free spirit than his brother Richard. Since he never thought he

ART BUCHWALD

Next in line of succession would be Edward Nixon, the President's youngest brother, a dashing young aristocrat known as the Duke of Seattle. Edward has served his brother on very important missions including picking up cash from the President's loyal subjects when no one else could be trusted with the job. Unlike his brothers, Edward has managed to stay out of the limelight, and it is not certain if he would have the mass appeal of Donald who knows Howard Hughes personally.

After Edward comes President Nixon's nephew, Donald Jr., known as Bonnie Prince Don to distinguish him from his father. There has been some talk that Donald Sr. might step aside and persuade his brother Edward to give up rights to the throne, so his son, Bonnie Prince Don, could be crowned President.

Bonnie Prince Don, though still a young man, has had great experience in international relations working for Count Robert Vesco who was exiled to Costa Rica when he got into financial difficulties with the Chancellor of the Exchequer.

The one problem of Bonnie Prince Don's assuming the Presidency is that he is too young to serve, and a regent would have to be appointed to run the affairs of the country. The nobleman most talked about to serve as regent is Bebe Rebozo who holds the title of the Duke of Biscayne. The duke is probably the closest intimate of the Nixon family, and has served the President by administering the vast land holdings that the Nixons have accumulated in the last five years.

But after Bonnie Prince Don, there are no more male heirs in line for the Presidency.

Therefore, someone would have to be found outside the Nixon family.

On Tuesday, November 6, you will go to the polls to vote on the $300 million School Bond Referendum. We ask that you vote "FOR" its passage. This money is desperately needed for construction, renovation and repair of school facilities. Please consider these facts:

1. If the School Bond Referendum is approved,
 - a. The Pitt County Schools will receive $3,063,802.50.
 - b. The Greenville City Schools will receive $1,483,574.67.
 - c. The total Bond proceeds to Pitt County will be $4,547,377.17.
2. The money allocated to our school administrative units is a direct grant from the State. IT DOES NOT have to be repaid by the citizens of Pitt County.
3. Passage of the Bond Issue will not require any increase in State taxes. North Carolina can afford to issue the bonds under its present tax structure.

Your vote "FOR" the School Bonds will be a vote for the school children of Pitt County.

'No Delay' On Fuel Shortages

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Faced with a worsening of the fuel shortage, a key senator and the White House energy adviser have agreed to act "without delay" on an emergency plan.

Senate Interior Committee Chairman Henry M. Jackson said he and White House adviser John A. Love agreed on quick action because "the crisis is much worse than all of us anticipated a week ago."

The two met after a reassessment of the effect of the ban by nine Arab nations on oil shipments to the United States. Recent figures more than doubled previous estimates of the loss in oil imports, Jackson said.

"There'll be a lot of things turned off the moment that last ship comes in," the Washington Democrat said. Jackson has introduced legislation to deal with the fuel shortage. However, the administration disagrees with several provisions.

There were these other developments on the fuel shortage: —Auto travel became more expensive in many areas of the country, with price increases of as much as three cents a gallon at some gas stations.

Phillips Petroleum Co., citing increased costs of foreign crude oil, raised its wholesale prices by three cents a gallon for gasoline and heating oil. Sun, Union and Skelly oil companies announced price hikes of one cent per gallon. Dealers immediately began to pass the increases on to the consumer.

A number of airlines diminished the number of flights. The nation's three largest airlines — American, Trans World and United — dropped 80 flights to conserve fuel. Other cuts were announced by Delta, North Central, Piedmont, Continental, Frontier, Eastern and Northwest Orient.

All of the airlines said they were cutting back on "low-load" flights, which are not heavily traveled.

—Canada, the United States' top source of foreign oil, said it is raising its federal export tax on crude oil by almost 400 per cent.

The tax will increase from 40 cents a barrel to $1.90 a barrel, effective Dec. 1. The current price of Canadian crude is $4.20 a barrel at the Alberta wellhead, and Canadian Energy Minister Donald Macdonald said if that rises, the export tax will be reduced a like amount to keep the export price constant.

The United States is currently importing just over a million barrels a day of crude oil from Canada.

Pitt Work Force Shows Seasonal Decline

The civilian work force in Pitt County in September was estimated at 34,040—a decrease of 4,990 from the July period. According to James E. Hannan, manager of the local Employment Security Commission, total employment decreased by 4,150 to a September total of 33,340. The majority of this decrease took place in agriculture.

"The manufacturing sector showed an increase of 1,570 workers and the non-manufacturing sector an increase of 590 workers," Hannan explained. "These gains were offset by the 6,600 decrease in the agricultural segment. The unemployment rate decreased by 1.8 percentage points from the July period to 2.1 percent of the civilian work force in September.

The nonmanufacturing sector should show an increase of approximately 400-500 workers by mid-December due to seasonal changeovers, inventories and other end-of-the-year activities.

Four more have joined the task force of Greenville's VISTA. The new arrivals, two men and two women, bring the total to 11 workers in addition to Charles Lane, VISTA director. The quartet of new members also include the first local volunteer worker.

From Winamac, Indiana, Mrs. Gloria Roth is a former teacher in elementary schools of her home state. She says she hopes to work in the areas of consumer problems and home economics. Sharon Hiner, whose home town is Covington, Virginia, is a graduate of Madison College, Harrisonburg, Virginia. A major in social work, she will probably work in VISTA's job development field.

A native of Ithaca, N. Y., Zane Katsikis majored in hotel administration at Cornell University, and expects to be working with a food cooperative that is one of VISTA's local projects.

The first local volunteer for VISTA, Kenneth Foscue, is a native of Kinston who has been living in Greenville for the past four years. He attended East Carolina University, majoring in sociology, and will most likely be working to help organize a food cooperative building, possibly in the Meadowbrook area.

All four have just completed the VISTA training program in Atlanta and reported to the VISTA office here on Wednesday this week. Each of the four are beginning a one year period of volunteer service with VISTA.

Episcopalians A Dedicatory Canons OK'd Recital Sunday

ASHEVILLE (AP)—Episcopalians excluded from baptism, confirmation and holy communion for violating church canon on marriage and remarriage have been restored by the three North Carolina bishops.

New canons on marriage were adopted at the 64th General Convention last month. They replace a canon referring to church members who had been married "otherwise than as the word of God and the discipline of (the Episcopal Church) allows," which directed the clergy to refer the case to the diocesan bishop for a judgment before receiving such persons to the sacraments in question.

The bishops said Thursday that since this section of the canon was deleted, "all persons presently under discipline, either self-imposed or church-imposed, regarding the sacramental ministrations of the church under that canon are restored as of Nov. 1, 1973."

ORGANIST . . . Joseph H. Goodwin will present the dedicatory recital of the Casavant Organ at Memorial Baptist Church. The program will take place at three o'clock Sunday, with the public invited to attend.

DAR Gives Scholarship

Miss Jean Marie Ogburn of Greensboro has been awarded a scholarship by the North Carolina Society, Daughters of American Revolution.

The award, valued at $600, to Miss Ogburn was announced today through Mrs. C.O. Jeffress of Greensboro, state chairman of the DAR student loan and scholarship committee. Miss Ogburn was sponsored by the Rachel Caldwell Chapter of Greensboro.

Miss Ogburn, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. S.L. Ogburn, is studying for a degree in nursing at East Carolina University.

The DAR scholarship program is designed to give assistance to worthy students enrolled in accredited institutions of higher learning. Awards are based on character, need, citizenship, student activities, scholarship, interest in the specific field of study, and general ability as evaluated by school, technical and community officials.

Customs Vary Town To Town

NEW YORK (UPI)—Custom in the newer African nations varies not only from country to country but from village to village within that country.

Some African women are completely subordinate to their husbands. Others head up and run their own businesses.

Opened Her House To Strays—Killed

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Marion Razete, a 67-year-old widow who was an epileptic and feared living alone, opened her house to human strays of all ages and races.

Thursday she was found dead in her North Miami house. She had been beaten and strangled. Her body was discovered by a young Vietnam veteran she invited home after he tried to panhandle a quarter from her.

Police said they are seeking two long-haired young drifters who accepted Mrs. Razete's hospitality a few days ago.

"We expected it. We warned her," said one neighbor as police combed the dead woman's house and yard. "She took those people in for company, I guess. We could see what class of people they were."

Friends told police Mrs. Razete's husband, Vincent, died two years ago. Fearing she would be victimized, he had left her a trust fund which was administered by a lawyer.

Mrs. Razete had taught music after her husband's death and played piano at local concerts.

But she was afraid to live alone because she suffered epileptic seizures and so she took in homeless men and women, friends said.

Police said Mrs. Razete's sheltering of the homeless had caused problems in the past.

One man who stayed with her came back and tried to break into the house. Her telephone service was cut off because one boarder ran up a $600 phone bill.

"She was eccentric, but at heart a very charitable woman," said her attorney Thomas Balikes. "She had moments of great compassion and tenderness."

Graham Opens Crusade Tonight

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham starts a crusade tonight in the 20,000-seat St. Louis Arena.

The services, which will continue daily through Nov. 11, will wind up his 1973 crusade schedule.

It will be the first time in 20 years that he has returned to St. Louis. His crusades have drawn 4,137,350 this year, a record since his crusades started in 1947. Another 200,000 are expected during the 10 days in St. Louis.

On Sunday at three o'clock, organist Joseph Harrison Goodwin will perform a program of organ music in the dedicatory recital of the Casavant organ recently installed in the new Memorial Baptist Church, in Greenville.

The program will open with a service of dedication by the minister, Rev. C. Norman Bennett, Jr., using Lobe den Herren's Praise to the Lord, the Almighty, and the Litany of Praise and Dedication.

Following the service of dedication, Goodwin will present an organ recital of music by composers ranging from the 16th through the 20th centuries.

Selections to be played are: Medio Registro Alto de Primer Tono, by Francisco Peraza, a 16th century Spanish composer; Louis Nicholas Clerambault's Basse et Dessus de Trompette; Two German Chorale Preludes: Nun Bitten Wir, Dietrich Buxtehude; Gottfried August Homilius' Durch Adams Fall; Toccata in D Minor and Fugue in G Minor by Johann Sebastian Bach; Trois meditations sur le Sainte Trinite, Jean Langlais; and Ralph Vaughn Williams' Rhosymedre.

Goodwin, a native of Wenatchee, Washington, grew up in Charlotte. He is a 1970 graduate of East Carolina University with a BA degree in Spanish, and has studied organ with Dwight Meynard at Northwestern University, Dr. E. Robert Irwin at ECU, and Richard Peek in Charlotte.

The organ was constructed in Saint Hyacinthe, Quebec, Canada, by the Casavant Brothers. It is a two-manual and pedal organ of 22 stops and 31 ranks, divided into three

Let The Buyer Beware

Manhattan Island is a case in point. Bought from the Indians for beads, the problem is now ours.

Its poverty and wealth, its shame and glory, its tragedy and gaiety—all are the buyer's responsibility. So we possess this great city—with no one to take its problems off our hands.

If we had it to do over, wouldn't we build our cities with more respect for spiritual values . . . more concern for each other . . . more attention to the blueprints of the Architect of life?

That's what usually happens to man. He tries his own way first.

On Manhattan Island, as in every village and city, churches have their doors open to searching souls. Now that we've tried our own way and lived with the results . . . isn't it time to try His?

Questions And Answers On By-The-Drink Question

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP)—Here are some questions and answers about the issues and facts on the North Carolina liquor by the drink referendum scheduled for Nov. 6.

What will happen if the voters turn down the liquor by the drink question?

Essentially nothing. The state's liquor distribution system would stay the same as it is now.

What if the voters approve liquor by the drink?

Even if the referendum passes, there is no absolute guarantee that mixed drinks would ever be served in North Carolina. Passage of the referendum would enable counties which already have ABC stores to take steps to authorize sale of mixed drinks within their boundaries.

A county could do this in two ways: through a vote of the county commissioners, or through a second, local referendum. Twenty per cent of the registered voters in the county could force a referendum by signing a petition.

What type of system would the counties be authorized to establish if they decided to approve liquor by the drink?

Liquor by the drink permits could be obtained by restaurants, hotels and motels which had Grade A health ratings and seating capacity for more than 50 people. According to the statute passed by the 1973 legislature, they would have to be engaged "primarily" in selling either food or lodging.

But the statute would allow them to set up separate cocktail lounges, in which customers could be served at tables without having to buy either food or lodging. Restaurants and lounges which wanted mixed drink permits would have to give up their brown-bagging permits, but they could still sell beer or wine.

Will restaurant and motel owners make profits from the sale of liquor?

Under the proposed system, restaurateurs and motel owners would buy their liquor by the bottle from the ABC system, then resell it in individual "drinks." Experience in other states indicates that the price of a drink would range from $1.25 to $1.50.

This has been one of the major campaign issues of the anti-liquor by the drink Christian Action League. Its president, the Rev. Coy Privette, says the "exorbitant" profits from the sale of mixed drinks will give restaurant and motel owners the incentive to become "liquor pushers." Privette contends that one of the virtues and main tenets of the present system is that the state makes all the profits.

"We're not against free enterprise, but we are against exorbitant profits from the sale of our number one drug problem," he said recently. John J. Ryan, chairman of Citizens for Choice and Control, says "Profit is something Americans understand just like taxes and wages. It's part of the American way of life."

An Associated Press study of liquor by the drink under the similar Virginia system found restaurant owners indicating they made a profit of about $18 per bottle on liquor by the drink, buying the liquor for about $5 and reselling it for about $24.

This is another of the major areas of disagreement between Citizens for Choice and Control and the Christian Action League.

Ryan predicts an "orderly transition" and a slight decrease in liquor consumption, due to the replacement of brown-bagging. "People's habits will stay basically the same except they will have a convenience they don't have now."

"Now in North Carolina, you can buy an entire gallon, take it out and do whatever you want with it. But you can't order one drink. There are many fine and orderly people who would like to buy before dinner and not have to buy and carry a whole bottle," he said.

He denied that liquor by the drink would tempt people to drink. "People who are not interested in drinking are not going to take it up because it's available, any more than people who enjoy smoking are going to give it up because of the health warning on the package."

Privette said liquor by the drink would make alcohol a "merchandised commodity" in North Carolina. "The first thing that would happen when you walked into a restaurant would be the waitress asking 'Would you like a cocktail?'"

"Liquor is available in North Carolina now, but it's not accessible. You have to find an ABC store," Privette said. Availability, he believes, is the key to sales. "Exxon knows this. They know if they have ten stations in good locations in Raleigh, they'll sell more than with two or three."

What would be the impact of a negative vote on the state's economy?

Ryan says the "hospitality" industry would be adversely affected. "If you can buy a drink in any major city in the eastern United States which has a convention center but not in North Carolina, the North Carolina city is definitely operating at a disadvantage."

"The furniture market at High Point is telling us right now that they're beginning to lose some of the big furniture buyers because they're being given hospitality in Dallas and Atlanta vastly superior to anything we can compete with in North Carolina."

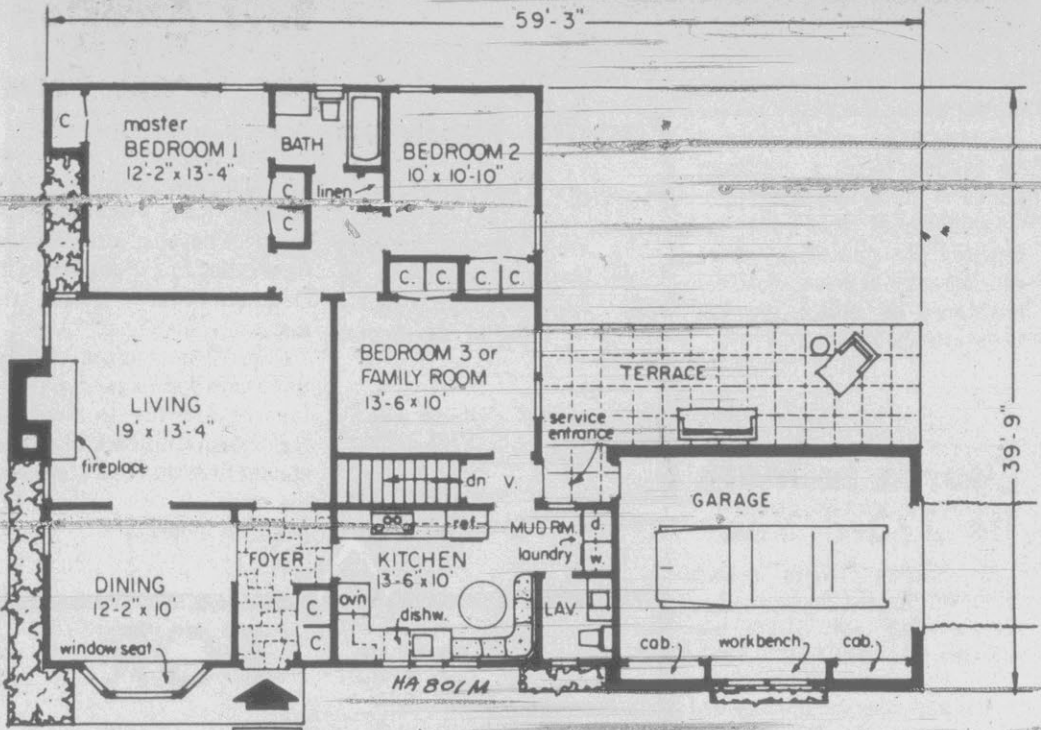

Privette disregards this argument. "That new convention center in Charlotte is booked solid without liquor by the drink. And tourism is now our third largest industry and it's growing all the time."

"All of our tourism is family-oriented, and that's the best kind," Privette added. "We don't have people coming to North Carolina looking for liquor and loose women."

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

WHEN COST is a major consideration, pleasing design also is important and in Plan HA801M the garage was taken full advantage of the design possibilities. It was pulled slightly forward, to create a small wall break so the introduction of brick could be sensibly done. It gives the opportunity to use brick in only a minimum amount—garage only—and still look correct. The forward location also permits the roof to continue across the face of the kitchen in an attractive pent design. Inside, a small, efficient foyer segregates traffic to three areas of the house. The kitchen is compact but has a built-in breakfast seat. The service door is covered by the garage roof. The three bedrooms are clustered around a bathroom. Architect for the 1,305-square-foot home is Rudolph A. Matern, 89 E. Jericho Turnpike, Mineola, N.Y. 11501. Those interested in knowing the price of the blueprint can write to Matern, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Series Of Four Traffic Mishaps

More than $3,800 property damage resulted here yesterday in a series of four traffic collisions, Greenville police reported.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted from a 9:35 p.m. mishap at the intersection of First and Elm Streets which involved cars driven by Clarence Henry Halvey of 104 Rawl Rd. and William Albert Bagwell, Route 1, Ayden.

Police, who reported Halvey was injured in the collision, estimated damage at $600 to the Halvey car and $2,000 to the Bagwell auto.

Bagwell was charged with failing to stop for a stop sign.

Pauline Bostic Clark of Route 3, Ayden was charged with failing to reduce her speed enough to avoid an accident following investigation of a three-vehicle collision at the intersection of Dickinson and Manhattan Avenues about 3:22 p.m.

Officers said the Clark car and vehicles driven by William Thomas Brown Jr. of Robersonville and Frank Webb Jr., of Wilson were involved in the mishap.

Damage was set at $300 to the Clark car, $200 to the Brown auto and $150 to the Webb car.

Cars operated by Iver Joseph Peterson of 401 Belk Dorm and Max Stanley Thompson of 107 North Woodlawn Ave. were reported involved in a 12:55 p.m. mishap on N.C. 43 50 feet South of the U.S. 264 intersection. Officers, who charged Thompson with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety set damage at $120 to the Peterson car and $200 to the Thompson auto.

Both drivers involved in a 3:05 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Tenth and Elm Streets were charged with violations, investigators reported.

According to police, Kay Haire Galloway of Route 2, Creswell was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety while William Lee Daughtry of 120B Glenn Arthur Ave. was charged with failing to reduce his speed.

Damage in the collision was set at $170 to the Galloway car and $70 to the Daughtry vehicle.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hog markets today were mostly 50 lower with tops of 41.75-42.75 at Kinston, Benson and Lumberton; 41.00-41.50 at Rocky Mount; 39.00-41.00 at Wilson and High Falls; 39.50-40.00 at Tarboro and Bethel; 41.00 at Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina FOB dock broilers: Market steady, supplies about adequate, and demand fair. Weights heavy at some points. Some plant closed today. Hens: Market tone stronger on heavy type, supplies about adequate, demand good. Too few sources reporting to release prices.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued its week-long slide today amid continued worries over the Mideast and Watergate.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11:30 a.m. was down 6.40 at 942.43.

Declines led advances on the New York Stock Exchange by about 6 to 5.

In addition to Watergate and Middle East worries, analysts noted that the markwas coming in for continued profit taking following its sharp rise of recent months.

So far this week the Dow has fallen some 38 points, but it had risen about 133 points in the period between late August and late October.

Good news came with the report that the unemployment rate fell sharply in September, but this had little impact on prices, analysts said.

NYSE prices included Chrysler, off 1/4 to 2 1/4; Dow Chemical, down 2 1/2 to 58 1/2; International Paper, up 3/4 to 49 1/2; and Alcoa, off 1/2 to 77 1/2.

The market sold 487,048 pounds of leaf for $421,239 giving an average of $86.49 per hundred pounds.

To date, the market has sold 21,062,664 pounds of leaf for an average of $89.67 per pound for the season.

Land Losses Inventoried

The Soil Conservation Service has just completed an inventory of land losses due to shore erosion on the rivers and sounds in eastern North Carolina counties, according to Roy Beck, district conservationist.

To obtain scientific data on shoreline losses, the SCS used aerial photographs made many years ago and compared them to the most recent photographs available in each county.

In addition, on site inspections were made to determine the height of banks and other factors. Data on exposure, soil type and land use will be used to correlate the rate of shore erosion.

For the 11 counties studied, a total of 6,143 acres have been lost during the approximate 30-year period of study which produced 30 million tons of sediment added to the estuaries.

Landowners who are interested in controlling shore erosion may receive technical assistance by calling the Soil Conservation Service.

Indians Invade For The 'Randle Bowl'

Defensive Back Mike Myrick

Frantz Still Is Question Mark

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Doctors plan to remove a cast today from the left leg of Jeff Frantz, quarterback and No. 1 runner for the South Carolina football team.

Coach Paul Dietzel said that whether he will play against North Carolina State in the home game Saturday night remains problematical.

It will be a severe blow for the Gamecocks if he doesn't, for he has been their Mr. Everything.

He suffered an ankle injury against Louisiana State last week.

South Carolina worked on goal line offense and defense Thursday as it finished contact work in preparation for the game.

N.C. State plans to work out in Columbia, S.C., this afternoon. It will be carrying the colors of the Atlantic Coast Conference against a team which used to be in the conference but is now independent.

The Saturday afternoon schedule for ACC teams is Maryland home to undefeated and sixth-ranked Penn State, Duke at Georgia Tech, North Carolina at Virginia and Wake Forest at Clemson.

Two of the top defensive teams in the nation will be meeting in the Penn State at Maryland game. The Nittany Lions, who have won all their seven games, are No. 1 in rushing defense, allowing an average of only 41.7 yards a game. In their last game they held West Virginia to zero yards in 36 attempts. They are in the top five in total defense and scoring defense.

The Maryland Terrapins, 5-2, are in the top ten in the same three categories.

Each team has allowed only six touchdowns in seven games.

Baby Rams Gain Win

SNOW HILL — Greene Central High School's junior varsity nipped North Lenoir, 6-0, yesterday to remain unbeaten in Eastern Carolina Conference play.

The game was a scoreless deadlock until the final period when the Baby Rams pushed over the lone score of the game. That came on a two-yard run by Anthony Corbett. A pass for the extra point failed.

The win left Greene Central with a 7-0 league record, and a 7-1 overall mark. They close out the season next week with Eastern Wayne.

Greene Central 0 0 0 6-6

Grab yur pun'kins, folks, and come a'runnin' — it's time for the Cinderella Bowl again.

Or maybe it should be called the Pun'kin Bowl — or maybe even as some of the Williamsburg crowd have named it, the "Randle Bowl."

At any rate, no matter what you may call it, it'll all get underway Saturday night at 8 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium when the Indians of William & Mary invade to meet the Pirates of East Carolina.

It's a game that William & Mary has looked forward to for nearly a year — ever since the Pirates downed them 21-15 last year in the game that gave East Carolina its first outright Southern Conference football championship.

In that game, William & Mary had spotted the Pirates a 21-0 lead in the first half, then fought back to cut the lead to 21-15, easy striking distance for a victory. But late in the game, deep in Indian territory, the Pirates held on third down, and the Indians went into punt formation.

It was a fake kick, however, and the booter instead threw a completed pass, good for the first down. As the Indians leaped for joy at the trickery that had worked, an official over near the East Carolina bench tossed a penalty flag into the air, seemingly after former ECU assistant coach Vito Ragazzo had shouted to him.

As it turned out, the flag was for an illegal receiver downfield, whipping out the gain and the first down, forcing the Indians to really punt this time. William & Mary claimed that Ragazzo had called the penalty and not the official. Dallas Shirley, assistant to the Southern Conference commissioner, and in charge of officials, later said that the official had noted the lineman go downfield, but had his mind fixed on a punt situation, and though nothing of it until the play was completed. After conferring with another official, he tossed the flag, and that Ragazzo's shouts about the lineman had no effect on the call.

Still, the Indians felt that they had been robbed of the title (or at least a chance at it, for they were soundly beaten by Richmond the following week). And what hurt even more was ECU Coach Sonny Randle, who claimed he was tired of reading in the Virginia press how the Pirates, the Cinderella team of 1972, would turn back into a pumpkin after the Indian game and that Richmond and W&M would play for the title the next week, proclaimed that meaningless game the "Runner-up Bowl."

William & Mary comes into the game sporting a 6-2 record, the same as the Pirates. Their two losses came against North Carolina and Vanderbilt, as they have played one of the conference's most ambitious schedules.

And they have an outstanding quarterback leading the team into the game, seeking their fourth Southern Conference win against no losses, in Bill Deery.

The Indians run from the veer formation, and Deery is the key to the whole thing. He likes to run, leading the team in rushing with 571 yards so far. He can pass too, however, although until last week, the Indians seldom threw the ball. So far this year, he's thrown 51 passes, hit on 18 for 363 yards and four touchdowns. He's had five picked off, however.

The Indians also have another passer in Rip Scherer, who's the number two quarterback. He's hit on 20 of 34 for 265 yards, with five interceptions, too. And the Indians also have a stable-full of running backs for Deery to hand-off or pitch to. They include Doug Gerhart, who's picked up 381 yards in 91 carries, Frankie Prochilo with 441 in 120; John Gerdelman with 379 in 66 lugs, Terry Regan with 220 in 52, and Mark Mollica with 135 in 30.

Only two receivers, Rick Pawlewicz (nine for 213) and Mike Bujakowski (eight for 129) have caught more than half a dozen passes.

The kicking game of the Indians is also a dangerous factor. With Regan handling the placements, he's the leading scorer on the team with 54 points. He's kicked 27 of 29 PATs, five of six field goals, and scored two touchdowns. Russell Brown, the punter, is averaging 42.8 yards a boot. And the team does a good of returning kicks too, with Bujakowski and Prochilo leading the punt returners, and Pawlewicz pacing the kickoff team.

Throughout the year, the Indians have been known for their crushing ground game. They're rolled up 2,854 yards so far this year, 356.8 per game. Of this, 280.6 per game comes on the ground, while just 76.1 comes through the air.

At the same time, however, they've given up a lot of yardage, 355.0 per game, just a couple of yards less than they've gained.

Pointwise, they've also been scored on, as well as scored. They've picked up 233 points, while allowing 174.

"Deery is the key to their offense," Randle said. "We'll certainly have to contain him to win. And we have to slow down that big stable of backs, and their high offensive line. Deery is the most explosive quarterback we've seen this year, but we don't plan to do anything different on defense this game. We know that he likes to run, but we also know that he can throw too."

Despite the fact that the Indian defense has been vulnerable, Randle has quite a bit of respect for it. "They're greatly improved over a week ago, and I'm impressed with what they do. They have some outstanding players like middle linebacker Craig McCurdy, and some big tackles," Randle added. Randle pointed out that William & Mary has taken this game on as a grudge. "They felt they were the better team last year, and they think so again this year." But he didn't think that the emotion from last year was all that important. "When you're playing for the championship, that's about as excited as you can get. They were upset over the 'Losers' Bowl' statement, and they've waited for a whole year. It's been stuck in their craw, but I was just tired of reading about them and Richmond playing for the title and completely discounting us."

Randle feels that the game may boil down to the kicking game. "And also to who makes the fewest mistakes," he added. The Bucs cut their mistakes last week against North Carolina, but he feels they must cut them even more against the Indians.

"I was concerned over our mental outlook at the first of the week, but we've gotten over it. Having the group out on the practice field on Wednesday was a big lift to us. It's super to think that that many people are sincerely interested in us."

The Bucs, 4-0, in the league, will be seeking to put all the pressure on Richmond by winning this week, forcing the Spiders to win their last two to take the title from them. The Indians, meanwhile, would have to beat both East Carolina this week, then stop Richmond in two weeks to claim the crown.

Crenshaw Not Counting Money

By BOB GREEN Associated Press Golf Writer SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP) — Ben Crenshaw, the most highly-touted rookie since Jack Nicklaus hit the pro golf tour, held the lead but wasn't yet ready to start counting the winners' purse in the $125,000 Texas Open.

"It's a good start," the husky 21-year-old said Thursday after his blazing, six-under-par 65 gave him a one-stroke margin after one round of the chase for a $25,000 first prize.

"It's good to start with such a good round. I feel pretty confident. But there's three more rounds to play. That's a long way to go," he said.

"I'm not even going to start thinking about winning yet."

Crenshaw, a three-time national collegiate champion from the University of Texas, was making his first start since gaining his approved player's card as a full-fledged member of the pro tour.

Crenshaw ran in a monster putt—some 60 or 70 feet—for a share of the lead on the 17th hole then wedged to six feet and made the putt for a closing birdie that gave him the lead alone.

Bruce Fleisher, a former national amateur champion, and old pro Pete Brown, one of the few blacks on the tour, shared second with 66.

Charles Coody, a former Masters champion and two-time winner in Great Britain this year, was alone with a 67 in the warm, mildly windy weather on the 6,990 yard, par 71 Woodlake Golf Club course.

Wilson, Cubs Tie

Wilson Fike's junior varsity rallied for a score in the final quarter yesterday to tie Rose High School's Rampant Cubs, 6-6.

The game, a defensive struggle most of the way, saw Rose score first, in the third period. William Joyner got the touchdown, going over from a yard out. A run for the conversion failed.

Then, in the final period, Wilson came back to score and gain the tie. Reggie Rowe scored, also from a yard away, but Rose came back to stop the PAT run and hold to the tie.

Joyner led the Rose offense, running for 96 yards in 19 carries.

Rose is now 4-2-1, while Wilson is 7-1-1. The Cubs travel to Northeastern next Wednesday to close out the year.

Shuffle Still On Atop Poll

Zonk!
That's about what happened to me last week — and like the Pirates of East Carolina, I don't really think I lost.

In picking the Pirates, I felt they could do the job, and they did everything except get the score right. And they were just as unhappy as I was — and not just about my record.

Rose High School's Rampants won again — as I picked them not to do — and I'll stick to my promise. I'll pick them to lose right along, so that they'll have a much better chance to win. In fact, the rest of the poll members ought to give me credit for getting it right, 'cause when I pick 'em to lose, I'm really picking 'em to win.

The high school ranks didn't do me any great shakes this week either, as I missed two, doubling my wrong totals for the year. That brought the high school record down to 39-4. But that's still not bad.

Ayden-Grifton's Chargers are coming off their only loss of the season, and they should be fighting mad. Unfortunately, the team that will have to suffer for it is North Pitt, which has won just once. The Chargers will be fired up, clinching a playoff berth at the expense of the Panthers.

D.H. Conley goes to Farmville Central. The Vikings had a big night against North Pitt last week, and Farmville Central pulled off what might be called an upset over Greene Central. It looks like it might be quite a game, and just for the heck of it, I'll pick Conley to pull it out.

Saratoga is at Robersonville as the Eagles go for the Eastern Plains Conference title. The Eagles have breezed through the conference, and Saratoga should offer them no challenge unless they get Chargeritis.

Plymouth is at Williamston in a game with not much meaning as far as the conference title is concerned. Edenton appears to have that wrapped up, but the Tigers can improve their record with a win. Plymouth has been up and down, but we'll go with the Tigers.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

Finally, Greene Central is at North Lenoir in another Eastern Carolina game. The Rams are probably quite down after losing last week and seeing their last hopes of a playoff spot go down the drain. But North Lenoir is in the midst of a losing streak, and the Rams should be able to handle them anyway.

Now to the Poll:
There are two games which rank as somewhat of a grudge match this week, Rose vs. Wilson, and East Carolina vs. William & Mary.

The Titans of Wilson feel the Rampants (one of four who voted against them for the title last year after a tie) were the one team that did them dirty. While Wilson hasn't had the teams it has had in the past, they'll be up for this one.

Now quite a unanimous vote: Wilson gets the nod, 5-1.

Last year, when East Carolina met William & Mary, four out of six went with the Indians, who felt they got robbed on a late penalty call that stopped on of their drives. This year, however, it's a different story, and we hope we are right here. It's a 6-0 vote for the Pirates.

John Trotman has moved into first place along in the poll with 72-22 record, followed by Sandra Spivey and Jack Whichard at 71-23. George Holland and Tom Baines are next with 69-25 marks, and me, well, it's 66-28.

The Citadel To Catch Richmond On Rebound After Only Defeat

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

Coach Bobby Ross of The Citadel thought Richmond's Spiders might be looking past his Bulldogs in the Southern Conference football race—until their defeat last weekend at Northeast Louisiana.

Now, says Ross, "they can't help but come back angry. That loss is one of the worst things that could have happened." Besides ruining Richmond's unbeaten record, the defeat knocked the Spiders from their No. 20 spot in the national rankings.

The Citadel, 0-4 in conference play and 2-6 over-all, will be at Richmond, 3-0 and 6-1, in one of Saturday afternoon's two conference encounters.

Virginia Military's Keydets, 1-4 and 1-7, will play host to Davidson's Wildcats, 0-5 and 17, in the other with Tom Schultze and David Harper expected to hook up in a wild passing duel.

But the big game will be Saturday night when East Carolina's defending champion Pirates, 4-0 and 6-2, play host to William and Mary's Indians, 3-0 and 6-2, in the first of three games on successive weekends that will decide the league title.

Next Saturday it's Richmond at East Carolina, and Richmond goes to William and Mary on Nov. 17. Of the three, the Indians can least afford a loss, for they play just five league games to six for the Spiders and seven for the Pirates.

Nonleague activity Saturday night has Furman's Paladins, 6-2 against all foes, at Lenoir Rhyne and Appalachian State's Mountaineers, 3-4-1, at Florence State, Ala.

Ross says "I don't think Richmond really has a weakness. I think they probably took Northeast Louisiana lightly, and Northeast Louisiana is a good football team."

He also thinks Richmond will try to do the same thing it has been doing all year—"line up and run straight at us. But they have an excellent throwing game, too. Their quarterback, Harry Knight, is a fine passer and fullback Barty Smith is their top pass receiver."

The Spiders will have to go without sophomore Bobby Allen, their leading rusher, lost for the season with a broken collarbone he suffered against Northeast Louisiana.

After the defeat at Northeast Louisiana, Richmond Coach Frank Jones said "the players can do one of two things—they can lie down and quit or they can get up off the ground. I think they'll get up." His players have been talking that way all week, too.

With both Allen and Weldon Edwards out because of injuries, Smith may have to take over the running burden for the Spiders. Although he's gained his fame as a blocker, the 235 pound senior is No. 6 in the league in rushing, averaging four yards per carry.

Tremendous performances in the last two games that earned him league offensive player of the week honors both times even though Davidson was defeated have moved Harper to No. 1 in the nation and conference in passing.

Yankees Hire New Executive

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Thirteen years ago, Tal Smith walked into the office of Gabe Paul, who was then vice president and general manager of the Cincinnati Reds.

"He said he wanted to get into baseball," recalled Paul. "I asked if he could take shorthand and he said he couldn't. I told him he ought to learn and that if he could, we might have a place for him."

Three months later, Smith returned. "I can take shorthand now," he announced. Impressed with the young man's determination, Paul hired him as secretary for the Reds' farm department. "He was not a high priced man," said Paul.

"I got $350 a month after some haggling," said Smith. Thursday, Paul hired Smith again, this time as executive vice president of the New York Yankees in a front office realignment. The price this time? "He's in the higher echelon of baseball executives now," said Paul, smiling.

Smith, 40, replaces General Manager Lee MacPhail in the Yankee hierarchy. But he did not inherit the GM title that MacPhail carried before being chosen the new American League President.

"That's nomenclature," said Paul. "It's what you call somebody."

From now on, Paul, who had been called an administrative partner in the Yankee super-structure, will be called president. The No. 1 man remains George M. Steinbrenner III, who's still called general partner. Smith was listed third in the chain of command.

Paul said the Yankees would operate without a general manager. "That is an outmoded designation," he said. Administrative responsibilities will be divided and Smith will carry a good share in that division.

"Titles don't mean anything," Paul continued. "We have a big job to do here and we're most fortunate to get Tal. His background is tremendous."

That background includes the last 13 years with the Houston Astro organization in a number of varied functions, most recently as vice president and director of operations for the Astrodome-Astrohall Stadium Corp.

"I'm delighted to be joining the Yankees," said Smith. "This team has some talented athletes and is making strides. It's an exciting opportunity for me."

In 1956 Frank Robinson, now with the California Angels, was the National League rookie of the year. He played with Cincinnati.

He Wishes To Forget 5th Down

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The folks in New Orleans, and particularly the Tulane football team, haven't forgotten "Fifth-down Fran."

But Fran Curci, now Kentucky's football coach, wishes they would before the 14th-ranked Tulane Green Wave plays his Wildcats on Saturday at Lexington, Ky.

Curci coached Miami, Fla., against Tulane last season when officials in the Orange Bowl lost track of the downs in the final minute of play. The Hurricanes were stopped four times but got the ball for a fifth down.

Miami used the extra down for a 24-yard touchdown pass for a 24-21 victory and Tulane football fans have been yelling foul ever since.

Tulane officials politely asked Miami to give up the victory. Miami officials politely refused.

"As far as I'm concerned that game with Tulane last year is history," says Curci, who shifted to Kentucky at the end of last season. "My players don't know a thing about the fifth down and I was hoping the people down there would have forgotten about it by now."

Curci's Wildcats, 3-4, will need all the help they can get against Tulane. The Greenies, off to their finest start since 1934, are gunning for their seventh victory in as many games.

The Miami Hurricanes, now coached by Pete Elliott, open this week's college football schedule with a game tonight against West Virginia.

On Saturday, seventh-ranked Louisiana State plays Mississippi in the second half of a national television double-header and the first half of a day-night twin bill at Mississippi Memorial Stadium in Jackson.

In the first half of the television doubleheader, Texas, which shares the No. 19 ranking with Auburn, plays at Southern Methodist.

In the second half of the Mississippi doubleheader, No. 2 Alabama plays Mississippi State.

In other Saturday day games, top-ranked Ohio State puts its perfect record on display against the surprising Illinois, No. 3 Oklahoma entertains Big Eight rival Iowa State and fourth-ranked Michigan hosts Big Ten opponent Indiana.

Notre Dame, ranked fifth, is at home against Navy while No. 6 Penn State visits Maryland, No. 8 Arizona State is at Utah, No. 9 Southern California goes to California and No. 10 UCLA entertains Washington.

Also in the daytime, No. 11 Tennessee hosts Georgia; 12th-ranked Missouri entertains Kansas State; No. 13 Nebraska hosts 17th-ranked Colorado; No. 15 Texas Tech is at home against Southwest Conference rival Rice; 16th-ranked Miami, Ohio visits Western Michigan; and No. 19 Auburn hosts Florida.

Besides the Alabama-Mississippi State clash the only other night game involving a Top 20 team finds No. 18 Houston hosting Florida State.

Smith To Try Replacing Wilt

By JACK STEVENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "Nobody can replace Wilt Chamberlain," declares 7-foot Elmore Smith, the professional basketball star who was acquired to do just that.

"Wilt played ball a lot of years and he is much stronger than I am physically. The team knew what he would do and the players had adjusted to him."

When it became apparent Chamberlain was seriously considering a bid to coach the San Diego Conquistadors, the Lakers traded starting forward Jim McMillian to Buffalo in a National Basketball Association swap.

They got the 24-year-old Smith, a product of Kentucky State, in exchange.

"I was happy with the trade," Elmore said. "It gives me an opportunity to develop faster and play with more experienced ball players."

He hadn't really expected to supplant Chamberlain when he arrived and says, "I'm just trying to play my game and so far we've been fortunate."

Comparing Smith and Chamberlain and how adjustments were made on the Lakers, Coach Bill Sharman said, "We're still trying to do basically the same things on defense. Maybe we pick up a little higher and play a little more one on one. When Chamberlain was here we tried to run them into him. We don't do that quite as much with Smith."

"Offensively, we use more plays and patterns. We can use Elmore on both a high and low post as the situation demands. He likes to go out 15 feet, turn and shoot. Wilt never did do that, he wouldn't go out.

"Elmore has great timing, long arms and he can jump well."

The new Laker center has averaged a dozen points a game but his shot blocking has been sensational. In the first game against Portland, he blocked 17.

"I really enjoy playing defense," Smith said. He had averaged 17.3 and 18.3 scoring in his two seasons at Buffalo but didn't play such a defensive game.

"Here we have shooters like Jerry West and Gail Goodrich and I can concentrate more on defense. And we have Connie Hawkins coming in."

Hawkins, the acquisition from Phoenix, didn't report in time for Thursday's practice but could play tonight. Sharman said, "We might free lance and use him three or four minutes at a time. He's great one on one."

Smith was the leading scorer and rebounder for Buffalo last season.

'Drinks' Referendum Authorizes County Decision

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — North Carolina voters go to the polls Tuesday to decide whether the state will remain the only one east of the Mississippi which bans the sale of liquor by the drink.

North Carolina, an early advocate of Prohibition and a strong-hold of fundamental Protestantism, has seen its neighboring states approve the sale of cocktails in recent years—Tennessee in 1967, Virginia in 1968, and South Carolina in 1972.

It has remained, along with Kansas, Utah and Oklahoma, the only states in which liquor is legally available only through state package stores. North Carolina law also allows people to take their bottles—in "brown bags"—into restaurants and lounges, purchase mixers, and pour their own drinks.

The referendum, if it passes, will not in itself bring liquor by the drink across the state. It would authorize counties, either through a vote of their commissioners or a second referendum, to exercise local option.

Counties which decided to authorize liquor by the drink would then have it available only in restaurants, motels and hotels which meet certain health and capacity standards. A restaurant would have to give up its brown-bagging permit to obtain one for liquor by the drink.

If fund-raising and organization are translated directly into votes, however, the election will probably be won by the opponents of liquor by the drink.

Spearheaded by the Christian Action League, they have succeeded thus far in raising more money, buying more advertising, and building a more widespread organization than the proponents.

In addition, they have kept the pro liquor forces on the defensive, chiefly by making an issue out of campaign funding disclosures. Early in the campaign, CAL president Coy Privette, a Baptist minister from Kannapolis, challenged the proponents to reveal their sources of funds.

Privette said that his strategy was to use the political atmosphere created by the Watergate scandals to "needle them to death" on the issue, and he proceeded to do so.

This week, the pro liquor organization, Citizens for Choice and Control, finally gave in to the pressure from Privette, the state attorney general's office, and Secretary of State Thad Eure and delivered a financial report, pursuant to an obscure 1947 statute requiring such disclosures from organizations engaged in "influencing public opinion." The report, to no one's surprise, indicated two things. First the pro liquor campaign is being financed largely by chambers of commerce, restaurants, and the travel industry, the groups which stand to gain financially if liquor by the drink is approved.

The report also confirmed something that had become apparent last month when the pro liquor forces canceled or cut back much of their advertising. Citizens for Choice and Control has not raised nearly as much money as it had hoped.

The report showed them with just over $100,000. By contrast, the CAL had reported contributions of about $163,000 by mid-October and was expected close to $200,000 by the end of the campaign.

The CAL money came mostly from Baptist, Methodist and other fundamentalist churches, the infrastructure of the anti liquor campaign.

The churches have provided the opponents of the referendum with an organization in all of the state's 100 counties, while the proponents, by their own estimates, are organized in only 12.

With money and advertising among the main issues, debate about liquor by the drink itself has often taken a back seat.

The proponents have tried to convince the voters that liquor by the drink will be a better means of controlling the consumption of alcohol than brown-bagging.

They have pointed to the experience of Virginia and South Carolina, where state officials have commented favorably on the matter, to prove that liquor by the drink will not cause increases in alcoholism, traffic deaths, or drunken driving.

The opponents have contended that liquor by the drink, by making alcohol "more available" will lead to an increase in consumption.

They say that it would also subvert the present basis for liquor sales in the state—state monopoly—by allowing restaurateurs and motel owners to profit from it, thereby creating "liquor pushers."

In 1971, a referendum was held in two counties on a slightly different liquor by the drink plan. The referendum was held unconstitutional because it applies to only two counties, but it did perhaps indicate the way the populace will split on Nov. 6.

Urban Mecklenburg County, including Charlotte, the state's largest city, voted solidly wet. But Moore County, a rural district which includes the posh golf resorts around Pinehurst, voted just as solidly dry and North Carolina is, according to the 1970 census, 55 per cent rural.

Citizens for Choice and Control leader John J. Ryan said in an interview during the campaign that he hopes to draw votes largely from the cities. Both sides think the turnout could be a major factor. Ryan said he hopes that municipal elections on Nov. 6 will help turn out the city voter, but he and Privette both agreed that dry supporters are highly motivated and likely to turn out in large numbers.

Set Contest Of Marching Bands

On Saturday afternoon young band members from North Carolina and Virginia high school bands will be showing up at Ficklen Stadium to take part in East Carolina University's First Annual Marching Band Contest, beginning at 3:15 p.m.

This new attraction in the list of homecoming events is under the direction of George Neff, Director of The Marching Pirates, and his assistant, graduate student Gary Beauchamp.

North Carolina towns who have accepted invitation to send bands are Aurora, Jacksonville, Oxford, Plymouth, Rocky Mount, and Smithfield. Virginia bands will be reporting in from Chesapeake and Richmond.

Judges for this first annual event are: Kenneth W. Large, Director of Bands, East Tennessee State University; Bill Scott, Band Director Elizabethton, Tennessee, High School; and Joseph Secrest, Band Director of the North Wilkesboro High School.

Beauchamp said "the bands will be judged in two classes, A and B. A class are those with above 64 members in the band while B class bands have below 64 members."

"The first place winner in each of the two classes will get to perform during the half-time of the homecoming game Saturday night, and second place winners in each class will perform in the pre-game activities."

The public is invited to attend the 3:15 p.m. marching band contest at Ficklen Stadium. There is no admission charge and the contest may be viewed from any place in the stadium.

Wool Blankets Smother Flame

NEW YORK (UPI) — In a fire emergency you've heard advice about wrapping the victim in a blanket to smother flames. It makes a difference which kind of blanket. The wool blanket is the one of choice. Wool smothers flames.

Some synthetics can add fuel to a fire. For this reason fire departments have stopped recommending blankets for smothering flame. However, the wool blanket still works as well as for this purpose. The Wool Bureau therefore suggests you mark your wool blankets—for safety's sake.

Two-Minute Test Available

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new two-minute blood test for gonorrhea is available for professional use. Field studies have shown the test is accurate about 80 per cent of the time.

The manufacturer says studies with this new diagnostic test indicate it is useful for screening for female carriers of gonorrhea. About 80 per cent of such women are not aware they have the disease. Female gonorrhea carriers constitute an important reservoir of the disease, contributing to the current gonorrhea epidemic, public health sleuths report.

Exceptions To Wifely Roles

NEW YORK (UPI) — Women remain subservient in most of the world, especially outside the large cities. But there are some surprising exceptions.

In the Philippines, for example, where the husband is head of the family, his wife often controls family finances; she may do business without her husband's consent and has the right to dispose of any property she brought to the marriage. Filipino husbands often consult their wives on business and you may find a wife included in business negotiations.

The Worry Clinic The Contrast In Personality

Louise had two suitors. But married the one who made her feel more important. He was an extrovert. But many extroverted girls crave the bossing that an introvert offers them. This explains why talkative wives often pick quiet but dominant husbands!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE Y-565: Louise G., aged 27, faced a crucial marriage problem.

27, faced a crucial marriage problem.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I was given a big 'rush' by two very attractive men.

"One was a chemist and making a good salary as head of his own firm.

"The other was a salesman and also earning a good income.

"Both men were fun to be with and of the same religion as I am.

"But I finally decided to marry the salesman.

"Dr. Crane, do you know why?"

"When I shook my head, she continued:

"Well, the salesman always seemed to be cheerful and good talker.

"The engineer was a little inclined to be bossy and sometimes would hardly say a word, especially if he were angry.

"For then he'd pout or sulk for a while.

"The salesman, however, might be tired, but he would always turn on a show of enthusiasm.

"And I felt more important when I was dating the salesman.

"For he'd ask my opinions and lean on me for advice.

"Now that we are married, I also find that he relies on me to look after him, and that inflates my ego, too.

"For he never hangs up his clothes but tosses them over a chair at night or drapes his necktie over a doornob.

"Dr. Crane, is this characteristic of salesmen vs. chemists?"

Introvert
Vs
Extrovert

Yes, the usual introvert tends to be more self-sufficient.

He doesn't wish to be dependent on others and feels uncomfortable at being under obligation to anybody.

Biblical Abraham showed this introverted trait when he refused to accept any reward for rescuing a captive king from the enemy.

Read Genesis, Chapter 14, to see this typical introverted attitude, for therein Abraham said:

"...I will not take from a thread even to a shoelatchet, and I will not take anything that is thine, lest thou shouldst say, I have made Abram rich."

Contrast Abraham with the Prodigal Son, who represents the usual extrovert.

If your first two children are of the same sex and close together in age, the oldest usually tends to be like Abraham and the younger like the Prodigal Son!

For the 2nd child mixes well with people; is a talker and wheedles favors or money from his associates.

He takes naturally to sales work, for he is not as timid about ringing doorbells and meeting strangers.

But he is also less likely to pay attention to details, so he may be a star salesman but lacking ability to balance his check book.

The oldest child (introvert) thus may deflate a girl's wish to feel important, by his very independence and bossy attitude.

The extrovert (2nd child) leans on his wife and makes her feel essential because in childhood he was accustomed to having his older brother look after him.

In marriage, therefore, he relies on his wife to nursemaid him, get his clothes pressed and laundered, and handle the checkbook.

Introverts cherish grudges much longer than extroverts and stick to their goals through thick and thin.

Extroverts shrug off goals if the going gets tough, for they figure, "What's the use? I'll compromise on something else."

Send for my booklet "Vocational Guidance," including the Introvert-Extrovert Test, enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. They are fun for parties, too!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Opening lead: Jack of ♠
To many players, the sight of 100 honors is like a red rag to a bull. For a handful of points, they are prepared to play in the wrong game contract. Today's South let honors blind his judgment, but fortunately he possessed the skill to redeem himself in the play.

Not even the strictest theoretician could take exception to the first two bids in the auction. However, South's rebid is open to question. His hand almost certainly will produce seven tricks at a no trump contract, and nine tricks usually are easier to make than ten. He should have been prepared to give up on his honors and simply rebid three spades, offering North a choice of contracts. With North as declarer at a no trump game, ten tricks can be made on any lead.

West led the jack of clubs, and declarer was faced with the prospect of four losers in the minor suits. It was unlikely that West held the king of clubs, but the finesse couldn't cost, so declarer tried the queen from dummy. East won the king and East Carolina University's Symphonic Wind Ensemble, or more simply, the college band, will be giving a program of notable contemporary music Sunday afternoon at 3:15 p.m. in Wright Auditorium.

Herbert Carter directs the ensemble. The soloist is New Bern's Jesse Nelson, now a senior music major at ECU. Nelson was solo trumpet player with the U.S. Army Field Band in Washington.

The ECU Symphonic Wind Ensemble has a total of 18 different instruments, ranging from the piccolo and flute to trombone, tuba and percussion instruments, with 51 musicians in the band.

"We're happy to be able to present what we feel is an excellent program of contemporary music," Carter said. "The main selection is Vitorrio Giannini's Symphony No. 3. It's one of the few works in the repertoire of available major works for winds and percussions."

Giannini's Symphony No. 3 in four movements, "Allegro Energico," "Adagio," "Allegretto" and "Allegro con Brio."

Five other compositions make up the program: Alan

Hovhaness' Prayer of Saint Gregory; in which Nelson will be trumpet soloist; Fanfare for the Common Man, by Aaron Copland; Howard Hanson's Fanfare for the Signal Corps; Vincent Persichetti's Chorale Prelude: Turn Not Thy Face; and Henk Badings' Transitions.

"I think Greenville people will be interested in recalling that Giannini and Persichetti have both visited the ECU School of Music and worked with the bands here," Carter said. "They are among our top American composers today." Giannini was at one time president of the North Carolina School of the Arts in Winston-Salem.

Carter said that Persichetti's Turn Not Thy Face is from the composer's book of contemporary hymns. "The arrangement we will play has been rescored by Persichetti from his hymn book."

The Sunday Symphonic Wind Ensemble concert is free and the public is invited to attend.

Scholars At ECU Homecoming

More than 100 high school scholars from across the state will experience the excitement of homecoming festivities on a university campus when they attend the Annual Scholarship Weekend, Nov. 10-12 at East Carolina University.

Dr. Donald Bailey, Dean of the General College and chairman of the "Scholarship Weekend Committee" is expecting 150 students to visit the ECU campus during the weekend. The students are selected from the National Merit Semifinalists and high scorers on the Scholastic Aptitude Test. "Homecoming is always a big event at East Carolina University," said Bailey. "And it is a good time to acquaint the visiting scholars with the programs and student activities on the ECU campus."

The students will also receive information and advice concerning National Merit and ECU Academic Scholarships.

Highlights planned for the visitors include the ECU-University of Richmond football game and homecoming parade on Saturday, a variety of music shows on campus Sunday afternoon, a banquet Sunday night with ECU Chancellor Dr. Leo Jenkins as speaker, and class visitations on Monday. Also scheduled are interest group meetings, tours, films and panel discussions.

For 1973-74 East Carolina University awarded 17 Academic Scholarships to gifted and promising entering freshmen students and has enrolled eight National Merit Scholarship winners. They will receive certificates of honor at the Scholarship Weekend banquet Sunday night.

Scholarship Weekend originated with the Gifted Student Committee in 1964 and has increased in popularity and effectiveness each year. Because of its growth, the program is now the responsibility of a special Ad Hoc Committee appointed by Dr. Robert L. Holt, Vice Chancellor of ECU. Students, faculty members and administrators make up this year's 31 member committee headed by Dr. Bailey.

$50,000 Bond In Slaying Case

MONROE, N. C. (AP) — A Charlotte man charged with wounding one hitchhiking Coker College student and trying to rape another has been ordered held in $50,000 bond for trial next month.

David Hoke Lindner, 24, was placed under bond at a hearing Thursday. He is to be tried at the Dec. 17 term of Superior Court in Monroe.

The students, Michael Seaward, 18, and Wanda Isenhour, 19, had been hitchhiking to the school in Hartsville, S.C., on Oct. 20 after their own car broke down.

Death Sentence In Slaying Of Chief

GREENSBORO (AP)—A Greensboro man has been sentenced to die in the North Carolina gas chamber for murder in the slaying of a police chief, marking the first death sentence handed down in Greensboro in at least 10 years. Kelly Dean Sparks, 25, convicted in Guilford Superior Court Thursday, was sentenced by Judge J. William Copeland, who set the date of the execution as Friday, Dec. 12.

Sparks was convicted of first degree murder in the fatal shooting June 30 of Gibsonville Police Chief George Lee Lashley.

The 31-year-old police chief was slain as he investigated a car with four occupants parked before dawn on a side road near Gibsonville.

Sparks' three companions testified they had met the night before in a Greensboro restaurant and had driven to Gibsonville with plans to rob a physician of drugs. They told the court they had parked on the side road to wait until the office opened the next morning.

The defense gave notice of appeal and the judge said no appeal bond would be allowed. Sparks did not take the stand and the defense offered no testimony.
