

Senate Committee Seeks To Get Nixon Testimony

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Watergate committee today sought contact with White House lawyers to determine whether there is any possibility for panel members to meet with President Nixon to obtain his account of the Watergate scandal.

Committee Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., said after an executive session that the committee would be willing to meet with the President in the White House and question him — if necessary without Nixon testifying under oath.

“We’d be happy to have him come down here and testify under oath,” Ervin said, “but this relates to a meeting with him in the White House.”

The action followed a discussion behind closed doors of a letter to the committee by one of its members, Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn. Weicker proposed that committee members seek a private White House meeting with Nixon and publish a record of the meeting afterward.

Committee lawyers were instructed to meet with presidential counsel to determine if the proposed White House meeting with Nixon was possible.

The new initiative came as the committee prepared to hear the testimony of four witnesses called by the Republicans to discuss alleged so-called dirty tricks perpetrated against the Nixon re-election campaign last year.

The first witness was Truman Campbell, county Republican chairman in Fresno, Calif.

The others were identified as Mike Heller of Los Angeles, who is said to have information about the distribution of anti-Nixon leaflets, and Truman Campbell, the county Republican chairman in Fresno, Calif.

Meets Today With Moroccan King Kissinger Begins Arab Parleys

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger conferred today with King Hassan II of Morocco before taking his Middle East peace mission to Tunisia and Egypt. Israel reported new clashes with Egyptian troops on the cease-fire front.

Arab leaders at the same time were conferring busily. Diplomatic sources in Beirut reported that an Arab summit conference has been scheduled tentatively for mid-November in Algiers.

King Hussein of Jordan, known to favor a summit of Arab heads of state, flew to Saudi Arabia for the latest top-level Arab consultation to be announced.

Kissinger's tour of Arab capitals began Monday night with his arrival in Rabat, where he had a midnight meeting with Hassan. A U.S. spokesman said the talk was “wide-ranging and very friendly.”

Kissinger was to fly to Tunis later today for a talk with President Habib Bourguiba and then continue on to Cairo tonight.

Egyptian government spokesman Ahmed Anis said in Cairo that Kissinger's talks with President Anwar Sadat would be “of paramount importance.”

Kissinger's aides said he expects no spectacular breakthroughs on his trip but is trying to work out a procedure for Boumediene is trying to line up another Arab summit conference in Algiers, and press reports said Egypt and Syria were ready to attend.

Col. Moammar Khadafy, the outspoken Libyan strongman, visited Damascus after stops in Cairo and Baghdad. Khadafy, who contributed no troops to the war and criticized Egypt and Syria for starting it, was reported trying to rally resistance to the cease-fire.

Udall Predicts 'Severe' Crisis

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Former Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall says Americans are “energy pigs” whose nation is operating on misguided assumptions that the energy crisis is a short-term problem.

Udall told a University of Virginia audience Monday night that the energy crisis is so severe “you can expect your first cold shower in about 60 days.”

For Americans to dream of relying on Arab oil or to depend on increased drilling in the United States are foolish, shortsighted solutions, he said. Udall said the United States already is the most-drilled country in the world and oil supplies are becoming increasingly inaccessible.

He said energy conservation is the only practical long range solution and that Americans must prepare themselves for the end of the era of cheap energy.

He predicted the demise of the automobile culture and called for the rejuvenation of public transportation.

He also warned of the possibility of gasoline rationing in a few months, and he predicted gasoline prices probably would reach $1 a gallon for the average motorist within a year.

Then, in an unusual gesture, the 44-year-old king walked Kissinger back to his villa just outside the palace.

Kissinger and Hassan first met Monday night at the king's summer house in the Souissi section of the capital. They were alone, except for a State Department interpreter, from shortly before 11 p.m. until after midnight.

City Begins Work On Intersection Of Dickinson, 10th St.

The City of Greenville, with the cooperation of the Greenville Utilities Commission, Seaboard Coast Line Railroad, and the North Carolina Department of Transportation, has begun construction on the redesign of the Dickinson Avenue and Tenth Street intersection.

City engineer Charles Holliday said that the project includes both the redesign of traffic lanes and the installation of an improved traffic signal system.

Holliday noted that the new traffic signals will be coordinated with railroad crossing signals and designed to improve the safety and traffic handling capacity of the intersection.

The city engineer said that the improvements are “another effort by the city to improve traffic movement and circulation within the Central Business District area.”

He pointed out that the recently constructed portion of Reade Circle, from Fifth Street to Evans Street, has begun to relieve some traffic congestion at Five Points and at the intersection of Fifth and Cotanche Street.

The Dickinson Avenue-Tenth Street intersection improvements, he said, is the second such traffic improvement project to get underway in the central area of the city within the past few months.

Holliday said that the project, barring unfavorable weather, should be completed within the next two weeks.

He said the project is a “very good month for construction” as work progressed in various stages on the 17 buildings.

Industry Cutoff

RALEIGH (AP)—State officials say that about 180 North Carolina industries and institutions with a dual capacity of burning natural gas and fuel oil have been told not to expect any natural gas this winter.

Gov. Jim Holshouser and his energy panel plan to meet with the Utilities Commission Wednesday afternoon to discuss the problem.

The natural gas cutoff will run between November 16th and April 15th and could result in temporary shutdowns and layoffs.

Notices were mailed during the past two weeks by the state's three major gas companies—Piedmont Natural Gas, North Carolina Natural Gas and Public Service Co.

Experts estimate that in order to make up for the natural gas cutoff, the 180 customers will need 97 million gallons of fuel oil.

Hall estimated that only $10 to $15 in copper piping was taken but he said that some $1,000 in damages were inflicted. Another incident over the weekend resulted in four more buildings receiving pipe damage but the total was not as high as the Oct. 30 incident, he said.

Executive director Joe Laney said that the Greenville Police were notified and have been asked to increase security measures in the area.

The site inspector reported that delays in the delivery of materials are holding back the close out date for units on the west side of 14th Street and they will not be ready for occupancy by the end of the month as anticipated.

Vandalism, Theft Hamper Newtown Project Work

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
The Newtown Project is some 70 per cent complete but work progress has been hampered by two incidents of vandalism and theft, according to site inspector Ralph Hall.

Hall told Housing Authority commissioners Monday night that October was a “very good month for construction” as work progressed in various stages on the 17 buildings.

Hall reported that 16 of the buildings are under roof and the 17th structure is undergoing roofing work now with the closing in construction about 75 per cent complete on the unit.

On Oct. 30, he pointed out, someone ripped out copper water lines in two of the buildings, breaking off some of the pipes at ground level. Cement that had already been poured in the piping area will have to be torn up in order to replace the damaged sections, he reported.

Hall estimated that only $10 to $15 in copper piping was taken but he said that some $1,000 in damages were inflicted. Another incident over the weekend resulted in four more buildings receiving pipe damage but the total was not as high as the Oct. 30 incident, he said.

The average work force on the job was 66 employees, compared with 58 during September.

Announce Grant For New City Rescue Vehicle

The City of Greenville has received notification from the North Carolina Department of Transportation and Highway Safety of approval of an $8,300 grant for the purchase of an emergency rescue vehicle.

City Manager Bill Carstarphen said that the record of emergency rescue service to the Greenville-Pitt County community.”

He also expressed appreciation to the Governor's Highway Safety Program for assistance and cooperation in securing the grant.

In making the announcement, Carstarphen credited the Greenville Fire Department and Rescue Squad for “an outstanding record of emergency rescue service to the Greenville-Pitt County community.”

He also expressed appreciation to the Governor's Highway Safety Program for assistance and cooperation in securing the grant.

The Greenville Rescue Squad, it was pointed out, provides emergency service to the city and to a large area of Pitt County, as well as to the motoring public at large.

The squad currently operates two older model rescue vehicles. The City Council recently appropriated funds for the replacement of one vehicle

Local Facilities Not Expected To Feel Gas Cutoff

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
For the time being, at least, no Greenville facilities are expected to be affected by a curtailment of natural gas announced by state officials Monday.

Officials said some 180 industries and institutions have been told not to expect any natural gas this winter due to a priority policy of Transco Energy — the firm which supplies natural gas to the Eastern Seaboard States — to supply homes in the northern and middle Atlantic states before supplying industries.

Initially only industries with dual capacity for gas and oil or other fuel will be affected by the ban, although if matters worsen, other industries could suffer. Homes and businesses would not be so severely affected.

Greenville Utilities Commission Director Charles Horne explained this morning that the commission has received word from North Carolina Natural Gas (Greenville's supplier which purchases its gas from Transco, that the local distribution system will be held to 3 million cubic feet of gas per day.

“This means,” Horne noted, “that we must curtail all of our interruptible loads in order to stay within the 3,000 cfm limit.”

He said East Carolina University will be off gas until April, but noted, “this is a customary thing for them.”

Mixed Voting Picture

RALEIGH (AP)—Early reports indicated moderate to heavy voting in the cities and a light turnout in rural areas as North Carolina voted today on liquor by the drink and two state bond issues.

State Elections Director Alex Brock said, “People have a habit of voting early, especially those going to work. It's expected that there will be a good turnout in the early voting.”

A check of several precincts in Raleigh showed the early voting was moderate to heavy.

Will Tabulate

The Daily Reflector will tabulate election returns at the newspaper office tonight. Poll holders are reminded to call The Daily Reflector office, 752-6166, as soon as results are available.

At Charlotte, a “substantial” turnout was reported in the first three hours by William Culp, elections board secretary. He was standing by a prediction of 65,000-75,000 turnout in the county and 45,000-55,000 in Charlotte, where the interest also was on the race for mayor and city council.

At New Bern, a 45 per cent voter participation was predicted with a lighter vote in the county.

Public Hearing Set On Proposed Changes To Subdivision Ordinances

Pitt County Commissioners yesterday scheduled a public hearing for December 3 to hear comments on proposed changes to the county's mobile home and subdivision ordinances.

Commissioners also took under advisement a proposal that would make Pitt County residents eligible for participation in the National Flood Insurance program. In effect, commissioners will be required to establish regulations — a flood plain zoning ordinance — restricting the construction of buildings within the flood plains of the county.

In other action yesterday commissioners approved an amount, not to exceed $3,500, for landscaping of the county parking lot beside the court house, and approved expenditure of $4,557 for renovation of the entrance to the county jail to meet state safety requirements.

Officials said the biggest change involves the requirement that in the future, streets within subdivisions must be paved to meet the requirements of the State Highway Commission. Commissioners were told that in the future, the state will not take over roads within subdivisions unless they are paved.

Commissioners also allocated $1,269 for a nutrition program for the aged.

Under the plan — coordinated through the Mid-East Commission with other counties in the Mid-East region — persons 60 years old and older falling below the poverty level will be eligible for free meals at selected times.

The director noted that the site, which would be the location for 122 new housing units if negotiations are successful, has met not only HUD guidelines but has received approval from the Office of Economic Opportunity. A preliminary site report has been completed and submitted.

The director noted that the site, which would be the location for 122 new housing units if negotiations are successful, has met not only HUD guidelines but has received approval from the Office of Economic Opportunity. A preliminary site report has been completed and submitted.

“The Fire Department and Rescue Squad have had a real need for the most modern rescue equipment,” the city manager reported. “This grant will enable the city to meet that need.”

Music Career Turns Fiancee Into A Beast

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My fiance, a talented young man, plays the guitar in a small group, which up until now has played only for their own enjoyment. I have told him repeatedly that I didn't want him to play for the public, whether it be a concert, reception, or dance. He always assured me he wouldn't. Now the group is getting offers, and he wants to play professionally.

Maybe I sound selfish, but I want my husband home nights, so our children will know their father. Most musicians are gone nights and weekends, and have to play in Lord knows what kind of places.

I don't want to force him to make a choice between me or his music because I know how much he loves his music. Yet, I could never be happy as a musician's wife, no matter how successful he became.

I know many girls would be thrilled to have their husbands up on a stage, but I'm different.

STAGE FRIGHT IN WACO

DEAR STAGE FRIGHT: There can be no compromise here. If your fiance loves music, and wants to make it his career, you are forcing him to make a choice.

No man is as miserable as he who sacrifices doing what he wants most to do in order to please his wife. Unless he's the man who does what he wants to do, and has a nagging wife at his elbow reminding him of how miserable SHE is.

DEAR ABBY: In answer to the girl who thought she was getting too much attention from her father in law: She doesn't know how lucky she is. I once had the same problem, or thought I did. Then my husband died at an early age, and my father in law expressed his love for me. To make a long story short, I married my father in law. I was 30, and he was 60. We have had a wonderful life together and are still in good health. I am now 60, and he is 90.

So, don't put down the father in law. Chances are he is a lot like his son, only older.

HAPPY WITH PAPPY

DEAR HAPPY: You don't say where mother in law was when father in law "expressed his love for you," but if she was alive and kicking, shame on Pappy for having traded in his older model for a newer one.

DEAR ABBY: You mentioned that occasionally couples want to be married by a clergyman, but can't find one to marry them because it's a "mixed" marriage.

May I suggest that you refer them to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints [Mormon].

The LDS marriage ceremony is simple, but impressive, and would be performed by an ordained minister recognized by city and state authority. As you know, we have no paid clergy. Our church is run by volunteers.

Since I became a bishop [this last year], I have performed two marriage ceremonies for nonmembers. The first was between a Catholic and a Lutheran, and the second between a Catholic and a Baptist. The church organist played the music and the room where it was held was appropriately decorated. The young couples seemed to like it very much, and you couldn't beat the price. There was no charge.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "JUST A NICE GIRL": The "signals" a girl sends out are the way she walks, talks, and dresses. "Packaging" is important. Some girls dress to invite rape, but they're insulted if a fellow winks at them.

Women Fire Fighters Prove Worth, Have No Regrets

By LEE JAMES
Associated Press Writer
MISSOULA, Mont. (AP) —

Tired of waiting on tables? Why not trade your apron for a summer of danger and excitement battling forest fires?

That's just what a group of young women did, and they say they have no regrets.

"We were always aware we were being watched," says Kate Brown, Ann Arbor, Mich., now a veteran fire fighter. "Like any minority, we had to be superhuman, practically."

The group of 25 women, aged 18-31, arrived at the 800-acre Koo Koo Fire in western Montana to the tune of catcalls, whistles and stares.

Six days later, when they left the fireline with smoke-grimed faces and weary muscles, they had proven their worth in one of the worst fires of the season.

Mostly young wanderers looking for something useful and rewarding to do for the summer, they went into the heat of battle with one day's training, expecting to be employed in the

Auxiliary Plans Dinner Meeting

At the American Legion Auxiliary meeting held Thursday evening, plans for a dinner on Dec. 6 was made.

Committees were appointed to work on a covered-dish meal and to decorate a Christmas tree. Gold Star mothers, Legionnaires, and their wives will be guests of the Auxiliary.

Mrs. Lois Dail, president, and the other Auxiliary members of Unit No. 39 are working on preparations for the remainder of the year.

Members will bring gifts for Operation Santa Claus.

milder mop-up operations at first.

"I think people thought we were screened, pretty well," said Miss Brown, 26, "but we were put right on the fire line."

Five of the girls met in a Missoula hotel coffee shop after 12 days of fire fighting and evaluated their experience.

They remembered near tragedy, practical jokes and their satisfaction at performing hard work previously done only by men.

Dolly Brouder, 27, was deluged with replies when she advertised plans to form the women's group. Two years ago, she had helped form a similar outfit that saw limited action on one fire.

The Koo Koo Fire, located in the Kootenai National Forest, was raging out of control when the women arrived, wearing baggy pants and shirts and hard hats.

A fire boss commented that nothing could have startled the fire-toughened men on the line more than the appearance of women in camp.

Shortly after they arrived, the fire jumped the line twice in the area where the women were working.

"Someone said it was the women who were losing the line," Miss Brouder said. "But others said no one could have stopped it."

The women who gathered in the coffee shop contended that equality was not their main motive for volunteering. Instead, all expressed the desire to earn higher pay and to work outside.

Elise Frank, 21, a petite blonde barely weighing 100 pounds, said she left her home near Princeton, N.J., looking for something challenging to do.

"Fighting forest fires is satisfying work," she said. "You finish the day feeling like you've done something."

All had worked as waitresses before and felt that the fire fighting job was no harder and paid much better.

"I made as much in two weeks as I did the entire summer last year," said Sarah Giant, 20, a University of Montana student whose home is Minneapolis, Minn.

U.S. Forest Service officials praised their work. But, as Miss Brown said, they were always treated "very differently."

Their presence apparently prompted an initiation from the sky.

As they ate lunch one afternoon, a bomber pilot either accidentally or deliberately dropped a massive load of fire retardant on their position.

The women argued over whether the pilot knew what he was doing. But Karen Bennett, 21, Evergreen, Colo., said she was sure it was deliberate.

"He dive-bombed us," she said.

Either way, it was a smelly welcome. Fire retardant is an odoriferous material mostly made up of fertilizer.

Danger became reality to the women, too. As they slept one night, a dead tree crashed into the middle of the camp.

One girl suffered a severe gash on the scalp. Another girl was pinned inside her sleeping bag.

"It seemed to shake up the people who hadn't been under the snag the most," said Miss Brown. "I think some of the guys expected us to get hysterical, but we didn't."

The women had one day of rest before they were sent to eastern Washington to help with the Barrett Fire in the Colville National Forest.

They worked 24 hours their first day on that fire and huddled together during a cold, smoky night on a rocky hillside.

Six days later, they returned to Missoula. It was National Women's Equality Day.

Will Resume FBLA Chapter On Thursday Installs Officers

WILLIAMSTON—Martin County Commissioners Monday adjourned the regular November meeting and will continue the meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday. This was done in light of the statewide School Bond issue being voted on today.

Prior to adjournment, commissioner with regret accepted the resignation of David Brown, assistant Agriculture Extension Agent for Martin County. He is resigning effective November 12 to accept a position with the N.C. Forestry Service.

Action was also deferred until a later date on a request from Weyerhaeuser Company. The company is seeking to have a portion of Rural Paved Road 1565, the Pulp Mill Road abandoned.

Other matters considered and deferred to a later date were a transfer of funds request from the Community Action program, and the naming of committee members to unfilled positions in the Coastal Plain Development Association.

Officers of D.H. Conley Chapter of FBLA for the 1973-74 school year were installed Thursday night. Parents, business teachers, community business advisors, and other guests joined the club in a candlelight service conducted in the school cafeteria.

The club emblem and the theme for the year, "Learning Today To Lead Tomorrow," served as a background for the speaker's podium.

Mrs. Mary Thompson, business teacher and FBLA advisor at D.H. Conley, presided as installation officer. She explained to each of the nine officers their duties and administered to them the oath of office. In order of installation, they were as follows: Dawn Branch, reporter; Beth Hunsucker, parliamentarian; Donna Lambert, photographer; Pam McLawhorn, treasurer; Teresa Baker, historian; Linda Mills, secretary; Vickie Stocks, second vice president; Dora Forrest, first vice president, and Terry Elks, president.

Following the installation, new members were inducted by Terry Elks, president. Four of the club members addressed the new membership on what each of the words in FBLA means. Our first speaker, Kathy Gaskins, spoke on the future and how FBLA prepares us for it. Business and its importance to ones career and life was the topic of Bertha Credle. Pam McLawhorn spoke on the need for leaders and how FBLA molds them. Concluding was Randy Joyner, who spoke on America and her need for us—the future generation—to give her our support.

Persons who would like to join the Chorus are invited to attend rehearsals, scheduled on Monday evenings at 7:30 p.m.

The chorus will sing the entire "Messiah" in three separate performances. The Christmas portion will be sung in December as usual.

The remainder of the work will be sung in early 1974, during the Lenten season and during Holy Week.

The Chorus, composed of Greenville area people of all ages and occupations who like to sing, welcomes additional members.

Bulb Sale

The Greenville Jaycees begin their house to house residential light bulb sale this evening as chapter members undertake a three-night sale campaign.

Project co-chairman Jim Smith said that the Jaycees, working in teams, will begin their bulb sale activities at 6:30 p.m. and continue until 9:30 p.m. The residential canvass will continue on Wednesday and Thursday evenings, he said.

Smith, who reported that the Jaycees wound up the annual business sale today, said that all net proceeds from the light bulb sale will be used to serve charities that request assistance from the Jaycees during the coming year and to finance various yearly projects in charitable areas.

Begin Annual Essay Event

The 25th annual "Ability Counts" essay contest is underway—open to all junior and senior high school students.

The contest is sponsored by the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped, the N.C. Governor's Council on Employment of the Handicapped, and participating Mayors' Committees on Employment of the Handicapped. This 1974 theme is "Community Challenge: Barriers to the Handicapped."

This year for the second time, the President's Committee on Employment of the Handicapped and the AMVETS are also sponsoring a poster contest. The poster contest is open to all high school students, grades 9-12. The poster must communicate the idea of "Hire the Handicapped," not necessarily by words, but by means the artist deems best. The state will probably award the first place winner $50 and a trip to Washington, D.C. to compete in the National contest.

More detailed information has been given out to all of the schools who have students eligible for either contest. Anyone interested in submitting either an essay or a poster, should contact either their school principal or guidance counselor.

Hawkins Loses Review Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court has denied a hearing to Dr. Reginald Hawkins, a North Carolina civil rights leader and a former Democratic candidate for governor, and two other black dentists who claimed suspension of their licenses by the state was racially motivated.

The court declined without comment Monday to hear an appeal by Drs. Hawkins, John P. Stinson and Reginald T. Nash of a state court decision upholding the North Carolina Board of Dental examiners.

All three of the dentists refused Monday to comment on the court decision.

The dental board meted out a 12 month suspension for Hawkins, a 60 day suspension for Stinson and an 18 month suspension for Nash after its investigation into bills they charged a Charlotte-Mecklenburg Board of Education clinic, established in 1966 to provide dental care for poor children. Federal funds supported the clinic. Papers filed in the case said one white dentist's bills were also scrutinized.

The white dentist was allowed to re-examine and correct his work, but the black dentists were not, they said in their appeal. Hawkins had earlier brought successful desegregation suits against local government and the dental board.

An investigation by a board committee preceded that by the full board. The black dentists said they believed the dispute had been settled, with an agreement not to charge for any work which the board challenged, but the dental board began its own investigation that led to the suspensions. The suspensions have been held in abeyance pending appeals.

In responding, the board acknowledged that race might have been a factor, but not in the way claimed.

"If anything, the deck was stacked in their favor solely by consequence of which they were allowed extraordinary latitude," the response said.

Hunters Survive Crash Landing

ALBANY, Ky. (AP)—Three men returning to North Carolina from a hunting trip in Nebraska escaped injury Monday when their plane made an emergency crash landing.

State Police said the twin-engine plane piloted by Paul Teudeau of Fayetteville had landed at Albany and had taken off again, but developed engine trouble and was forced to land in a field. Also on board were William Sexton of Fayetteville, the co-pilot, and Hilman Edens of Raeford, N.C. The plane was reportedly moderately damaged.

No Contest To Tax Charges

WASHINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Dr. Eugene M. Shanahan, Spring Lake physician, has been fined $30,000 after pleading no contest to three counts charging willful failure to file federal income tax returns for 1968, 1969 and 1970.

His wife Joanne, who entered a similar plea Monday to aiding and abetting his failure to file, was fined $300.

U.S. District Judge John Larkins also put them on probation for three years.

The Internal Revenue Service alleged the doctor had gross income of $90,000 for the three years. He was directed to pay all tax penalties.

DR. GINOTT DIES

FIVE POINTS

Eastern Background A Factor

The election of Thomas S. Bennett of Morehead City as chairman of the Republican party brings to a close a long and bitter struggle for party control. Bennett defeated Frank Rouse of Kinston when Rouse conceded the election in the midst of the roll call vote at the GOP state convention in Raleigh Saturday.

Bennett had the support of Gov. Holshouser in his campaign for election to the post of party chairman and therefore Bennett's election likely gives the governor full control of the party machinery.

Tom Bennett strikes us as an able man and we feel sure that he will play an important role in helping to reunify the State Republican party.

We are pleased that an easterner has been chosen to head the Republican party. We assume that Bennett must know there are many, both in and out of the party, who feel that his eastern background had much to do with the backing he received from the governor, the theory being that if a fight was to be waged, then the man to oppose Rouse would be another easterner.

All that is fine with us, too. We hope, however, that Tom Bennett will guard against simply being the resident easterner in the Holshouser organization—someone who can be pointed to as eastern representation while the spoils are divided in the Piedmont.

Bennett made it a point at a press conference in Greenville to say that he was an easterner and in sympathy with eastern needs and aspirations. We firmly believe he meant what he said. Memory doesn't have to be too long, however, to recall eastern Democratic leaders who sat by while their Piedmont counterparts took the cream.

Eastern North Carolina wants nothing more than fair treatment from the state government which its people help support with their taxes and good will. We hope that Tom Bennett will make it clear that he has done a lot for his party, and now he expects this great eastern area of North Carolina to be treated as an equal with the rest of our broad state.

On The Mark For '76 Race

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—Usually there is no scarcity of people jockeying for position to take a shot at the governor's mansion next time around. On the outside looking in for the first time in this century, Democrats seem to have a wealth of would-be contenders—either admittedly interested or at least mentioned often as possible candidates.

But Republicans, busily trying to build and get into gear the machinery of state administration, have surprisingly little to say at this early time about grooming somebody for the state's highest office.

Even though the election won't come until 1976, most professional politicians agree it's seldom too early to at least get a name out front.

And at last, one name has emerged from the GOP ranks as gubernatorial material.

Flaherty Interested

He is David Flaherty, secretary of the Department of Human Resources. Ironically, the several mentions of Flaherty's name by savvy politicians have come from Democrats, not Republicans.

A retired member of Gov. Bob Scott's administration said bluntly: "There's only one Republican in the administration who can even be considered a serious possibility—that's Flaherty. And he would be a serious contender."

A Democrat legislator who has served with Flaherty in the General Assembly said the secretary is probably the only serious prospect for the Republican bid. "And I hate to say it, but he would be a good candidate. He was highly regarded in the General Assembly, and all the comments I've heard are he is doing a good job as secretary."

Recently, as department heads paraded before the Advisory Budget Commission to request change items and increases, most were subject to some probing questions.

Flaherty, after his presentation, received no question, only a "well-done" comment, and a thank you. Afterward, another lawmaker—again a Democrat—commented: "That's the man you can watch for when it's time for the governor's race."

Asked about this quiet but persistent linking of his name to the governor's mansion, Flaherty played the game to the hilt—following exactly the script for a man genuinely interested but not willing to come right out and say so.

Willing To Comment

"I am just trying to be an effective secretary and a good manager in direction of the Human Resources Department," he said.

"And of course I am pleased that in the efforts to coordinate and streamline the operation, better serving our constituents and saving the taxpayers money, I may have brought such favorable observations upon myself," Flaherty said.

"But I don't want anyone to misinterpret my efforts to coordinate and streamline the operation, better serving our constituents and saving the taxpayers money, I may have brought such favorable observations upon myself," Flaherty said.

"But I don't want anyone to misinterpret my efforts or my public reports as anything beyond a desire to do an outstanding job as secretary."

"But," the secretary continued, "I would be less than honest if I didn't say that I have ambitions. Of course I have ambitions to serve the people of this state in whatever capacity I may be of best service."

"And who is to say that somewhere down the line the time may not be appropriate for me to express some interest in becoming governor, but I don't envision that as being a reality right now."

Then, the native Bostonian who has spent 19 years in North Carolina, took to wondering just how Tar Heels might take the idea of a New Englander for governor.

"But you know, North Carolina is getting a lot more sophisticated. I would once have been considered an outsider. But I don't feel that anymore. I think people would judge you on what you are and what you stand for, and not on where you come from."

Flaherty served two terms in the N.C. Senate, in 1968 and 1970 sessions. Before joining Gov. Jim Holshouser's administration he was national advertising manager and head of the plastics division of Broyhill Furniture Industries in Lenoir. He majored in business administration in college and has been out front among state departments setting up management-by-objectives systems.

Among Democrats who have either publicly or privately expressed interest in running for governor next time are Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, highest ranking Democrat now holding office; Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham who has said he wants to run; Dr. Leo Jenkins, president of East Carolina University; Attorney General Robert Morgan, who some sources say may have to run for governor to realize his ambition to get a U. S. Senate seat; and Hargrove (Skipper) Bowles who lost in his race against Holshouser.

Future Eyed By Iran's Shah

By ROWLAND EVANS AND ROBERT NOVAK

TEHERAN—Proof of U.S. "credibility" in pressing Israel to withdraw from its Arab territories in Egypt and Syria captured in 1967 would modify and possibly cancel anti-American production cutbacks by the oil-rich Arab states, the Shah of Iran suggested in an exclusive interview today.

Iran itself, the second-largest Middle East oil producer, did not join the production cutback.

As the leader of 32 million non-Arab Moslems with intimate ties to Washington and correct relations with Moscow, the Shah is by far the most important independent power on the edge of the explosive Middle East.

More to the point, Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi is determined to replace the British as guarantor of the most vital waterway in the world today, the Persian Gulf. Without Persian Gulf passage of uncountable oil tankers, the entire economies of Japan and Western Europe would strangle for lack of oil.

Consequently, the Shah, handsome at 54 with the sleek assurance of total authority and 32 years in power, is to be carefully listened to.

"The United States has always supported the principle of the inadmissibility of acquiring land by force," he told us in the gold-chased office of his Niavaran Palace high in the hills overlooking his capital. "Israel has no choice but to leave the Arab lands it captured in 1967."

But what if that doesn't happen? The Shah, choosing his words carefully, said that Israel could never alone handle a situation in which the Arabs' ally, the Soviet Union, chose to use its power. Only the U. S. could do that.

"But for what reason?" he asked rhetorically. "One cannot expect the United States to risk destruction of itself and the whole world because Israel wants to stay in Sinai."

The Shah also came down hard against U.S.-Soviet participation in any United Nations force eventually established to guarantee Israel's security behind the old, pre-1967 lines. The two great powers should avoid personal involvement, he told us.

"It might seem practical," he said, "but it is not right for the great powers to take responsibility everywhere. That prevents other countries from doing what they should be doing. It creates a situation where other countries simply choose up sides between the great powers and become satellites."

The Shah declined to discuss actual U.S. policy in the Middle East today: the times are too sensitive, he said. But the general feeling was expressed forcibly to us by lesser government officials. It is that Washington's Middle East policy is so muddled that it cannot really be defined.

Starting with the Eisenhower administration's inexplicable withdrawal of the offer to sell arms to Egypt in 1955 and continuing to the present, knowledgeable Iranians call that policy self-destructive at incalculable cost to the U.S. They hope the change implicit in the ceasefire is real and that Israel, with ironclad guarantees, will pull out of Arab land.

Yet, the Shah does not agree that all-out U.S. support of Israel and the consequent Arab appeal for aid to Moscow explain the Soviet Union's growing presence in the Eastern Mediterranean and in Iraq, which has a long border with Iran.

To the contrary, the Shah noted ancient Russian aims for warm-water outlets and recalled that German Kaiser Wilhelm nurtured the dream of a railroad from Berlin to Baghdad and Persian Gulf ports. But the Arab-Israeli struggle has simply handed Moscow greater leverage.

Given obvious and historic Iranian fear of a strong, unified Arab world, the Shah's call for U.S. muscle in dealing with Israel is significant. Iran has close but informal relations with Israel and most politicians here regard a healthy Israel as a vital counterweight to anti-Iranian hostility from such radical Arab states as Iraq.

This Israeli connection, never publicly discussed, is important to Iran. But that calls for a secure Israel on pre-1967 borders, not an Israel whose presence on the Suez Canal enables the Arabs to surmount their intense rivalries; not an Israel, in short, that drives the Arabs close to the very unity which someday might prove dangerous to the Shah of Iran and his country.

Strength For Today

GOD'S LOVE BEHIND ALL

When we have to do what we do not want to do, or bear some burden which grieves our hearts, we are tempted to feel that God is very severe on us. We may even arrive at the point of despair and bitterness where we take satisfaction in imagining that God takes satisfaction in persecuting us.

Yet this of course is a misconception of almost neurotic magnitude. God's attitude toward us is always one of unflinching love and tenderness. If He permits some sorrow to come upon us or allows a heavy burden to be laid on our shoulders, He does so in order that our lives may be made better and stronger. He cherishes a great ideal for us, and He would rather have us deprived of what men call happiness than what He calls blessedness. He knows that it is better for us to suffer some handicap or endure the heavy weight of some burden than to miss the greatness of soul which our courage and endurance will produce.

Unjustified Resentment

WASHINGTON—It's a fine way to wind up the "Year of Europe," with Henry Kissinger so disgusted with our NATO allies that he doesn't care what becomes of the alliance and with the Europeans so petrified by the implications of our Middle Eastern policy that they almost wish the alliance never had been born.

The resentment being so feely expressed on both sides—though very unhelpful—also is very largely unjustified.

The Europeans, without any need for consultation, were perfectly aware that the United States had no choice in supporting and supplying Israel, once a massive resupply effort to Syria and Egypt had been mounted by the Soviet Union. Indeed, the lack of consultation of such allies as France, Britain and Germany allowed them to maintain a posture of neutrality in the conflict in the hope—a vain hope, it seems—of appeasing the oil-producing Arab states.

Nor should the United States have been surprised and outraged by the refusal of our major European allies to permit the overflight of their territory or use of their facilities in getting arms to the embattled Israelis.

Europe, after all, depends on the Middle East for about 90 percent of its oil (as compared to about 10 percent for the United States). And so, unless we are to see a return to imperialism, Europe's perception of its own interests in the Arab-Israeli conflict inevitably is different from our own.

In this situation, recriminations of the kind we have been hearing are beside the point. The point is that, so far as the Arab states are concerned, we are in a bad fix. And given the rapidly increasing American dependence on Arab oil, we are all in it together.

President Nixon's rather smug remark that Europeans "would have frozen to death this winter unless there had been a settlement" in the Middle East was, to say the least, premature. For there is no settlement in the Middle East and the prospect of getting one is far from rosy. So far, at least, the Arab oilmen show no sign of relaxing their shutdown of supplies, and the winter may be chilly enough for everybody.

At the same time, there are other less articulated but possibly more legitimate reasons why the Middle Eastern episode has disturbed the Europeans. For many years, there has been a

Other Editors Say Unions' Spending

(The Wilson Times)
There is one investigation to be launched by the Watergate Committee which will have the approval of the majority. This is the investigation of political spending by the unions.

The committee is preparing to subpoena up to 100 top union officials unless they voluntarily turn over to the committee complete records of their political contributions, both in cash and "in kind."

Sen. Sam Ervin, long-time Right to Work advocate and his co-chairman, Sen. Howard Baker, will head the committee, the same team investigating the Watergate situation.

The committee's interest in the political activities of union officials adds a new interest to the need for campaign financing reform.

For the first time in years, the subject of illegal and immoral political activities—financed by union professionals with large sums of compulsory dues—is in the spotlight. There is great need but only a slim chance of campaign spending reforms passing Congress.

On the House side, the House Administration Committee is presently holding on-again, off-again hearings on the subject, but there appears to be a lack of enthusiasm among many of the committee members.

According to news reports, union bosses must submit answers to the committee's detailed questionnaire early this month. Any union boss who fails to answer in detail will be subpoenaed to appear before the committee with the union's books.

The questionnaire asks the union bosses to spell out who received contributions other than cash, meaning contributions of manpower and resources financed with compulsory union dues. This information will be hard to come by.

According to Victor Riesel, columnist, there are estimates that on a cost-accounting basis politicalized labor has spent as much as $60 million in one presidential-congressional campaign. There is no question as to the need for a bill to control campaign spending. The National Right to Work committee, which has been spearheading a campaign to prohibit union bosses from spending compulsory dues on politics, has been in contact with the Watergate Committee and hopes to be asked to testify as an expert witness.

'Public Equity' Plans Advance

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—Public Equity Corp., the company that hopes to make a living suing other companies in the name of consumer justice, won't be in action until nearly a year from now, but at least plans are moving ahead.

Earlier this year, those plans almost came to a halt as its backers became involved in other projects, including some backstage roles with the Senate Watergate committee.

And the arrival of some of the seed money that had been pledged was delayed because the donors lost it in a badly depressed stock market. But it's all in now, some $80,000. Tom Mechling, the founder, says that "counter corporation" should be in action by this time next year, the Securities and Exchange Commission willing. It will be registered with the SEC in February.

Assuming a six- to eight-month period of consideration by the SEC, the company hopes by late summer or early fall to begin selling $2.4 million of shares at $5 a share, or $50 for the minimum purchase of 10 shares.

As profits are made on class action and civil damage suits and the like, they will be plowed back into the company, with only minimal dividends paid to shareholders.

Can shareholders be happy with minimal dividends?

Mechling thinks they can be, and he bases his view on the nature of the people expected to invest: altruistic, idealistic, eager for change, perhaps angry at industrial abuses.

A great deal of emotion exists on the issues in which Public Equity plans to be involved. Millions of Americans are angry over faulty products and pollution, to name only two concerns, but have felt powerless to act.

Given this opportunity, Mechling said, they might quickly absorb the 488,000 shares being offered. Nobody knows if they will, of course, but Mechling, a challenge-seeking youth of 53, distills energy from optimism.

He is, in fact, contemplating possible

PUTNEY, VT. (AP)—The Johnny Appleseed of higher learning in America is an 81-year-old educational maverick who has founded three colleges and is the co-founder of a fourth.

"And if I felt the need of it, I'd start still another one tomorrow," said mild-mannered Dr. Walter Hendricks, 81, his gray mustache bristling in defiance.

HAL BOYLE

Dr. Hendricks became a highly controversial figure in education after going through an orthodox academic career.

Born in Chicago of impoverished Norwegian immigrants, he worked as a copy boy and later salesman of forest land at $10 an acre to help finance his way through Amherst College.

There he graduated a Phi Beta Kappa and began a life-long friendship with poet Robert Frost, whose ideas became the basis for his own revolutionary educational experiments later.

After serving as an aviator in World War I, he took his M.A. degree at the University of Chicago, his Ph.D. at Northwestern, and studied at Grenoble in France. A poet himself, he became a noted Chaucerian scholar and served as chairman of the English department in the Armour Institute in Chicago. He held a high administrative post in the Illinois Institute of Technology when the Army invited him to help found its short-lived American University at Biarritz, France, in 1945.

"That experience changed my life," said Dr. Hendricks. "At Biarritz we had few books, but the 3,000 students were

When the voters go to the polls tomorrow to vote on the question of repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment there will no doubt be confusion because there are two ballots to vote.

Failure to vote both ballots raises the possibility that some may not get all they're voting for.

At the polling places, voters will be given two ballots, one on which to vote for or against a repeal convention and the other to vote for anti-repeal candidates or repeal candidates.

How N.C. Congressmen Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON — Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Oct. 25 through Oct. 31.

HOUSE
PUBLIC HOSPITALS Rejected, 103 for and 290 against, an attempt to close the nation's eight Public Health Service hospitals. The move came during consideration of the fiscal 1974 military procurement conference report, which contains language requiring that the hospitals remain open. The Administration wants to close the hospitals, but with this vote the House directed the Administration to keep them open. Congress last summer attached a ban on closing the hospitals to the Emergency Medical Services bill. The President vetoed that bill because of the hospital provision.

The military procurement bill authorizes $21.3 billion for military hardware, 1660 million below the Department of Defense request.

The House later passed the conference report on a voice vote. The measure is pending

Mt. Olive Dinner

The Free Will Baptist Churches of Pitt County will hold their annual dinner for Mount Olive College Thursday at 7 p.m. at D.H. Conley High School.

Members of the Steering Committee which are coordinating plans for the dinner include the co-chairmen, Rev. Charles Crisp and the Rev. Bobby Bazen, Greenville, the Rev. N.D. Beaman, Snow Hill, Mrs. Randolph Harris, Winterville, and J. C. Boyd, Greenville.

The Pitt County dinner is one of 17 held annually throughout Eastern North Carolina on behalf of Mount Olive College, which is sponsored by the North Carolina State Convention of Original Free Will Baptists.

Eamon Endorsed
By Orange YDC

Tom Eamon of East Carolina University has been endorsed by the Young Democratic Club in Orange County as State Y.D.C. National Committeeman.

Also endorsed was Frank Stephenson of Chowan College as State Y.D.C. president.

fresh out of combat and eager to learn. We had a real mind-to-mind exchange which I think provides the best of all educational atmospheres."

The next year, at the age of 54 and with the full consent of his wife, Flora, he turned his back on his own long academic tenure and founded on his nearby farm the first of his three shoestring-financed revolutionary colleges — Marlboro.

His ideal was a "cafeteria-style college where students could select what they wanted to learn; the faculty changed often; and grades, examinations and formal courses were at a minimum — a university without walls, informal and highly flexible."

Backed by supporters like Frost, writers Dorothy Canfield Fisher and Dorothy Thompson, and explorer Vilhjalmur Stefansson, Marlboro flourished modestly.

Then, in 1951, he decided the board of trustees was too determined to turn Marlboro into a conventional college. He resigned as president.

The very next evening, with a cluster of three students, he founded in the living room of 150-year-old home here what led to his second revolutionary college — Windham. With the help of diplomat Ellsworth Bunker, he persuaded the famous architect Edward Durrell Stone to design Windham a campus.

In 1964 he resigned its presidency for the same reason he had left Marlboro — trustee pressure to make it more like the colleges Hendricks abhorred.

"But at 72 I still hadn't given up hope," he recalled.

So in the old frame mansion of a former Vermont governor in nearby Brattleboro he promptly founded his last college — so far — and named it Mark Hopkins College.

He has since resigned his presidency there but remains a trustee and busies himself writing a book entitled "My Quarrel with Robert Frost."

"I realize that my ideas are applicable only to a small college, and not to a strictly professional school or a big university," he remarked mildly. "But I still think that real education consists of a mutual mind-to-mind adventure between student and mentor — and that the rest is simply trimming."

He is consoled by the belief that Socrates and Plato would have approved of his ideas — and by the fact that many, and perhaps most, American colleges and universities have adopted, at least in modified form, some of the revolutionary educational principles he himself put into practice a generation ago.

besetting fear of super-power collaboration at Europe's expense. Or even worse, the possibility of a super-power confrontation which could involve Europeans in a conflict over issues which they consider at least extraneous and perhaps gravely damaging to their own interests.

There were intimations of both of these possibilities in the Middle East crisis. At this point, it is hard to tell whether Europeans have been more disturbed by the short-lived confrontation which resulted in a worldwide alert of American forces or the current emphasis on Soviet-American detente which, according to administration claims, averted a catastrophe in the Middle East.

These natural concerns, however, have very little to do with the validity or the viability of the Western alliance. In my view, it is quite wrong to expect or demand a total loyalty from our European allies when it comes to American policies and actions outside of the European area. Or to assert, as Kissinger does, that "we cannot hold together if each country or region asserts its autonomy whenever it is to its benefit."

No member of the alliance has asserted its autonomy more insistently than the United States when it comes to matters of global strategy. So far as the administration is concerned, Europe, at this point, is not where it's at. In its approaches to Peking and Moscow, or its efforts to achieve a settlement in the Middle East, European concerns have not been predominant.

NATO exists only because each member of the alliance, including the United States, perceives it to be in its own interest to assure the ability of Western Europe to defend itself militarily and politically against the power of the Soviet bloc. Disputes over global policy have occurred in the past and will surely recur in the future. But these disputes are grounded on an assumption of a common destiny. And as long as a sense of common destiny remains, the validity of the alliance itself is assured.

before the Senate. Those voting for argued that these hospitals are antiquated and costly and should be closed. They also cited the parliamentary argument that House rules prohibit attaching such non-germane amendments to a conference report.

Opponents argued that the hospitals serve indigent and merchant-seamen patients who cannot afford adequate health care elsewhere.

Rep. Wilmer Mizell (R-5), Earl Ruth (R-8) and James Martin (R-9) voted "yea."

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L.H. Fountain (D-2), David Henderson (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Richardson Preyer (D-6), Charles Rose (D-7) James Broyhill (R-10) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "nay."

Instructors At Boston Meeting

Geneva Helms Yadav and Rosalie J. Splitter of the East Carolina University School of Home Economics faculty were among 110 members of the Eastern Region College Professors of Textiles and Clothing meeting in Boston last week.

Mrs. Yadav is current treasurer of the ERCPTC and has been selected to chair the nominating committee next year.

DRUG EDUCATION Passed, 372 for and 13 against, the drug and alcohol abuse education bill, authorizing $90 million over three fiscal years, starting in 1974, for school and community education programs.

The bill provides categorical grants under specific funding areas, such as assisting state departments of education, developing school curricula, and training teachers and law enforcement officials.

The Administration, in opposing this bill, argued that a general revenue sharing approach would be better organized and less costly to the federal treasury. They also said that categorical grants allow Washington to dictate how local officials must spend their money.

Just before final passage, Administration supporters withheld a planned amendment that would have forced a vote on the issue of categorical grants vs. revenue sharing. They cited "technical" problems with their amendment.

The overall bill was then voted upon with a minimum of controversy.

Jones, Henderson, Andrews, Mizell, Preyer, Rose, Ruth, Martin, Broyhill, Taylor voted

"yea."
 Fountain did not vote.

SENATE
VETO SUSTAINED Failed, 54 for and 42 against, to override the President's veto of the United States Information Agency bill. The attempt fell ten votes short of the two-thirds majority needed to override, and marked the eighth consecutive veto this year that the House and Senate have sustained.

The President vetoed the $216 million authorization bill because of a provision demanding congressional access to USIA documents. Under this vetoed provision, Congress could have cut off the agency's operating funds if it failed to obtain desired information.

Supporters of the override attempt — those voting for — argued that such access to information would keep Congress informed on what the USIA is doing. Some senators argued that national security classifications are used to hide documents that are simply embarrassing. Opponents generally agreed with the President that the legislation would have destroyed the confidentiality that is "essential to sound policy and effective administration." Sen. James Buckley (C-N.Y.) called the attempt "a naked encroachment" by Congress on the executive branch.

Sen. Sam Ervin (D) voted "yea." Sen. Jesse Helms (R) voted "nay."

IF ALL YOU SEE ARE 3 GLASSES OF MILK... LOOK CLOSER.

YOU'RE REALLY SEEING 1/2 THE PROTEIN YOU SHOULD HAVE EVERYDAY.

Sure, you're looking at 3 glasses of milk. No one's trying to kid you about that. But there's a lot more to that milk than you might think. There's calcium, vitamins, minerals. But you probably knew that already. But milk's got even more for you. Because it's a food. It's got high-quality protein. And your body should get a good supply of protein each day. One glass gives you 19% of the protein you should have. Two glasses, 38%. And three glasses give you more than half the protein you should have each day. We're not trying to confuse you with statistics. We're just trying to show you that milk can be an important part of your daily diet. And at still about 10-12¢ a glass served at home, an important part of your budget. And that makes milk one of the lowest-priced sources of high-quality protein around. Today, every little bit of information helps. So, here's more about nature's most nearly perfect food, milk.

Crumpler, Niklason Sweep Honors As Southern Players Of The Week

As the top week of the football season for East Carolina University's Pirates opened, they got the word that they had swept Southern Conference honors for their play in the William & Mary game last Saturday.

Gary Niklason was tagged as the Southern's Defensive Player of the Week this morning, following the announcement last night that Carlester Crumpler was the offensive standout in the league. Crumpler, who came into the game late in the first period, then rushed 24 times for 160 yards, scoring two touchdowns, sparked the Pirates from the minute he appeared in the game, turning around a somewhat stifled offensive performance in the first quarter. After that, the Pirates began to click with their blocking, while Crumpler ground out yardage, and quarterback Carl Summerell hit seven of 10 passes for 109 yards.

For the big senior, the game marked the high point of the year—so far. It was his biggest production of the year, and ended all worries about his performance. Crumpler had been injured in the opening game of the year against N.C. State, losing his starting job to sophomore Kenny Strayhorn. But Coach Sonny Randle never doubted the greatness of the All-American candidate, and brought him along slowly, until about three weeks ago, he began to show signs of being the old Crump once more.

Then, Saturday night, he made a believer out of William & Mary, and showed that he was still one of the best—if not the best—backs in the South.

"Crumpler came off the bench to give us a tremendous lift when we needed it the most," Randle said. "Although he played only a little more than two quarters, it was his finest effort of the season and one of his finest ever."

Niklason, meanwhile, was a terror on defense. By the time the game was over, he had been credited with 20 tackles. He also blocked a punt and caused a fumble from his inside linebacker position.

The 208-pound senior from McLean, Va., had the principal job of stopping William & Mary's Bill Deery, and effectively stopped the Indian offense.

"After grading the game films, I can assure you that Niklason's performance was as near flawless as you can get," defensive coordinator Carl Reese said. "His primary task was to stop Deery. Just look at the statistics and you can see that he certainly did the job."

The selection of Niklason was the third time this year that the Pirates have received a defensive player honor, but Crumpler's selection was the first offensive laurel for the Bucs.

Claims That He Meant To Miss

By RON ROACH
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The UCLA Bruins lead the nation in scoring, averaging 46.7 points a game, but one point they didn't score is the controversial subject at the UCLA campus.

Efren Herrera, UCLA's senior soccer-style kicking specialist, said he missed the extra point kick on purpose after the last score of Saturday's 62-13 rout of Washington to show his anger for not being allowed to kick a third-quarter field goal.

Coach Pepper Rodgers aid

Monday that Herrera's future on the UCLA team is up to his teammates.

"I told him I would have an answer for him later as for his situation on the team," Rodgers said. "I want him to sit down and talk with his classmates. They have to find out what he meant."

"He apologized to me but it's a matter of whether Efren can regain the confidence of his teammates. It's hard to ignore that a kick was deliberately missed."

The Bruins, leading 35-13, had driven to the Washington 23 when on fourth down they ran instead of calling upon Herrera, the No. 2 all-time scorer at UCLA who last week was listed by Rodgers as among his players deserving national honors.

In the locker room Saturday, Herrera's eyes were misty as he said, "I've tried eight field goals this year. That's ridiculous...they don't care about me. I want to feel a part of the team but when they went for it on fourth-and-two, they cut me out of it."

Rodgers said he would have been accused of running up the score against Washington if he'd allowed Herrera to attempt the field goal when the Bruins led 35-17.

Air force senior flanker Frank Murphy of Chicago competed as a sprinter on the Falcons' indoor track team.

Few Tickets Remaining

All student guests tickets for Saturday's East Carolina-Richmond football game will be withdrawn from special sale on Wednesday at noon, and sold to the general public, ECU officials said today.

The tickets may be purchased at special prices by the students until noon Wednesday, after which they will be placed on general sale at the usual $6 price.

Officials also said that there are a few general admission tickets remaining on sale in the South stands, but that they are going fast. People wishing to attend the game should plan to get their tickets immediately.

Aycock Switched

E. B. Aycock's final football game of the season has been moved up a day, and will be played on Wednesday, instead of Thursday, as originally scheduled.

The Phantoms, still seeking their first victory of the season, will be playing host to Bertie Junior High School. Kickoff time is set for 3:30 p.m. at the Aycock field.

Svare Is Out At San Diego

By BOB EGELKO
Associated Press Sports Writer
SAN DIEGO (AP) — The short, unhappy reign of Harland Svare is over.

The husky, former linebacker resigned as coach of the San Diego Chargers Monday and resumed the general manager's job he held before taking over coaching duties from Sid Gilman with four games to play in 1971.

Ron Waller, a former Los Angeles Rams' running star who has been the Chargers' special teams coach since 1972, was named coach by owner Eugene V. Klein for the rest of the National Football League season. Klein said he'd name a new coach next year.

Svare, 43, the target of heated abuse by the home fans all season, appeared relieved as he made the announcement at a sports writers' luncheon.

"The losses have been very hard on me, hard on my pride and my dignity," he said. "I haven't shown my emotions. I've kept it inside."

"It was my decision. I think I'll find my general manager's chair very comfortable. At least now I won't have to explain why we turned the ball over."

The Chargers were beaten 190 by the Kansas City Chiefs Sunday, their third shutout loss this season. They are 1-6-1 this year after a 4-9-1 record and their only last-place finish in 1972.

The fans hung "Sack Svare" banners from the railings, booed a hurried mention of "the Charger coaching staff" at the pregame introductions, and watched as a group pelted Svare with wads of paper as he strode off the field, head high, at the end of the game.

Klein, who refused to give Svare a vote of confidence two weeks ago, praised him as "a remarkable judge of talent," but added, "He wasn't getting it (winning) done."

Svare, linebacker on three conference champion New York Giant teams in the 1950s, coached the Los Angeles Rams from 1962 to 1965, spent a year as a stockbroker, then became an assistant coach with several clubs before joining the Chargers as general manager in 1971.

Waller, who played for the Rams from 1955 to 1958, became the first player ever drafted by the Chargers after turning down an offer to buy the new franchise in 1960. But his comeback attempt was thwarted by a knee injury.

After several years he wound up coaching in the Continental League and won three straight championships before joining the Chargers as assistant in charge of kick and kick-return teams.

Waller said he took the job "strictly on an interim basis." He said he planned a more freewheeling attack, and would deactivate the injured Unitas in favor of third-year quarterback Wayne Clark, who is to compete with rookie Dan Fouts for the starting job.

Alabama Closes On Ohio State

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Runner-up Alabama has narrowed the gap on No. 1-ranked Ohio State in what seems to have become — for the time being, anyway — a two-team chase for college football's national championship.

The Buckeyes of Ohio State blanked Illinois 30-0 Saturday and received 35 first-place votes and 1,146 points from the 62 sports writers and broadcasters who participated in this week's Associated Press poll.

Alabama also posted a shut-out, 35-0 over Mississippi State, and earned 14 first-place ballots and 1,096 points. Last week, the difference was 1,148-1,052.

There was no change among the next five teams, either — Oklahoma, Michigan, Notre Dame, Penn State and Louisiana State.

Oklahoma defeated Iowa State 34-17 and polled seven No. 1 votes and 910 points. Michigan, a 49-13 winner over Indiana, received one top vote and 888 points.

Notre Dame pulled down one first-place vote — its first of the season — and 746 points for a 447 trouncing of Navy while the four remaining No. 1 ballots and 714 points went to Penn State, which beat Maryland 42-22.

Louisiana State received 580 points for a 51-14 rout of Mississippi.

Previously unbeaten Arizona State's 36-31 loss to Utah dropped the Sun Devils from eighth place to 14th, enabling Southern California and UCLA to move up. Southern Cal rose from ninth to eighth by walloping California 50-14 while UCLA climbed from 10th to ninth with a 62-13 drubbing of Washington. Missouri, which dropped out of the Top Ten a week ago, moved back in with a 31-7 triumph over Kansas State that lifted the Tigers from 12th to 10th.

The Second Ten consisted of Nebraska, Texas Tech, Texas, Arizona State, Houston, Tennessee, Miami of Ohio, Kansas, Kent State and Pitt.

The Top Twenty, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

Dey Quitting Golf Head Job

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Joseph C. Dey Jr., 64, is retiring as boss of the $8 million golf tour at the end of next February, when his five-year contract expires.

A leading candidate to succeed him as commissioner of the Professional Golfers Association's Tournament Players division is Sam Gates, 67, New York lawyer. Gates represented the touring professionals in the bitter battle when they threatened in 1968 to break away from the PGA and go forth on their own.

Others mentioned for the post are Jack Tuthill, longtime director of the tour, and Gardner Dickinson Jr., veteran player who has been active in affairs of the tour.

J. Paul Austin, chairman of the Tournament Players Division Policy Board, announced Dey's pending retiring in a statement Monday. The board, composed of four tour players, three PGA officials and three businessmen, is meeting in Pinehurst. Austin has appointed a committee to investigate the qualifications of possible candidates and recommend a successor.

Dey was named commissioner in 1969 after serving 34 years as executive director of the U.S. Golf Association, which supervises amateur golf. He said he plans to devote his time to personal work after his retirement.

Dey, a former sports writer at New Orleans and Philadelphia, was making $40,000 with the USGA and a reported $60,000 to $75,000 with the PGA, although his PGA salary was never officially revealed.

Steelers Hold Off Redskins For Victory

By D. BYRON YAKE
Associated Press Sports Writer
PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Steelers, licking quarterback adversity with big offensive plays, a stubborn defense and a little good fortune, have widened their lead in the American Football Conference Central Division.

Down to back-up quarterbacks Terry Hanratty and Joe Gilliam because of Terry Bradshaw's separated shoulder, the Steelers held off a late charge to defeat the Washington Redskins 21-16 Monday night in a nationally televised National Football League game.

"We've got somebody up there taking care of us," quipped Steeler tackle Joe Greene, who recovered one Redskins' fumble and fell on two others by the Steelers.

Hanratty lasted only a half before aggravating a rib injury, but he staked the Steelers to a 14-6 lead on touchdown passes to Preston Pearson and Ron Shanklin.

When the ailing Hanratty left the game early in the third quarter, the lead was in the hands of Gilliam, a second-year man who was on the Steelers' taxi squad last week.

Steeler Coach Chick Noll said Gilliam threw some good passes, some bad ones and some when he shouldn't have. "We wanted to move on the ground once we got the lead," Noll said, "but Joe's talent lies in his ability to throw the football."

Gilliam fired a 46-yard touchdown pass to wide receiver Barry Pearson six minutes into the fourth quarter to give the Steelers a 21-9 lead. But on the next series, Gilliam passed on second-and-12 at the Steeler 22 — a time when Noll felt he should have stayed on the ground — and Brig Owens made his second interception of the night.

Six plays later, Billy Kilmer hit Larry Brown with a 17-yard, out-of-bounds pass to trim the Pittsburgh lead to 21-16.

Washington got the ball with five minutes remaining, and a pass interference call against

Par Is Broken

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—The leaders in Monday's first 18 holes of qualifying for the $500,000 World Open Golf Tournament took apart the par 71 No. 1 course of the Pinehurst Country Club. They play the tougher No. 5 course in the final 18 holes today to determine the 63 who will be among the 244 shotmakers in the tournament, which opens Thursday and runs for 144 holes through Nov. 17.

All the first 13 low scorers Monday played the No. 1 course. Four were tops at 65, six under par.

Pirates Look Same To Jones

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
Coach Frank Jones of Richmond's Spiders didn't really find out anything he didn't already know when he watched East Carolina's defending Southern Conference football champion Pirates maul William and Mary's Indians 34-3 last Saturday night.

"East Carolina is just exactly like I thought they'd be," says Jones, whose Spiders go to Greenville, N. C., Saturday afternoon to meet the Pirates in the game that could decide this year's title.

"They're not any different from last year," says Jones, whose Spiders took a 21-0 licking in 1972 from the Pirates. "They won the championship last year and they haven't changed."

East Carolina, 5-0 in league play and 7-2 over-all, can wrap up a second championship by beating the Spiders, 4-0 and 7-1. Should Richmond win, the Spiders have a Nov. 17 date at William and Mary while East Carolina is playing host to Appalachian State. The race could boil down to those two games.

The way Jones sees it, East Carolina has "an excellent tailback" in Carlester Crumpler, who apparently has recovered from early season injuries; "a great quarterback" in Carl Summerell, and "they have a good defense."

As for Crumpler, "he's the boy that makes them go. He's so big and he cuts so well."

Defensive back Bobby Saunders says, "It's going to be our toughest game of the season. Summerell can pass, but he can run, too."

"I think we're gonna get back at 'em," says center Ramon Perez. "It's been a year since they beat us and it's been on everybody's mind. This East Carolina game is the one, and I think we're gonna put it all together."

Jones says he wasn't surprised, as were a lot of people, at the decisive fashion in which East Carolina beat William and Mary—which until the defeat was still in contention itself. "William and Mary is beat up," says Jones. "You just can't lose the kind of personnel they did—a tailback, a guard, two linebackers."

He has something of the sage kind of problem in that sophomore Bobby Allen, who was the Spiders' leading ground gainer the first seven games, is out for the season with a broken collarbone. The game "is for everything. It's gonna be an excellent football game," says Jones.

As for Richmond's strategy, he isn't tipping his hand.

"We'll just have to go down there and play it very sound and very thorough," says Jones. "We'll just have to wait for the breaks and see what happens."

Coaches Say: Blame Coach

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Hanging out the College Football Wash: Attention disgruntled Arizona State and Tennessee fans: The man to blame for your team's upset losses is the coach. Who says so? The coach.

"Utah was mentally ready to play and we weren't," Arizona State's Frank Kush stated after a 36-31 loss to Utah. "It's the head coach's job to get his team ready, so credit that fault to me."

Tennessee was nursing a 31-28 lead over Georgia in the final three minutes when Coach Bill Battle elected to gamble on fourth-and-two at his own 28-yard line. The Vols lined up in punt formation, but the snap went to the short man, who was stacked up for a two-yard loss. Georgia promptly took it in for the winning (35-31) touchdown.

"Georgia didn't play well enough to win," Battle moaned, "but they didn't have a stupid head coach. I blew it. It was stupid to do in the first place. We had been working on the sweep and I thought if we could get a first down we would win the game. It was a stupid call regardless."

"You worked like heck to win," a disconsolate Battle told his players, "and I blew the game."

Quarterback Condredge Holloway disagreed.

"You don't need to apologize, Coach," he said. "We win as a team, we lose as a team."

Following top-ranked Ohio State's 30-0 victory over Illinois, Woody Hayes was asked if there's any competition between his offensive and defensive units.

"There are some people who would like to see that happen," he said. "No, our offense works together with our defense. The defense gives the offense the ball with good field position and the offense never gives the ball over to the defense on the short side of the field."

"It's an integral thing, and that's why our offense had the ball for more than 45 minutes Saturday. We do that to people." people."

Texas Tech is 7-1 and apparently bowl-bound, but don't say that to Coach Jim Carlen. He's worried about Texas Christian, the Red Raiders' next opponent, who surprised them 31-7 and 17-6 the last two years.

"If you get in a street fight and get knocked down twice, you remember that more than a guy who never gets you," Carlen says. "I avoid bowl reps. I avoid 'em like the plague. The TCU Bowl, that's my personal bowl."

Miss Heaven Lee, an exotic dancer in a Nashville night spot, did an impromptu striptease during the third quarter of Western Kentucky's 42-8 victory over Middle Tennessee State at Murfreesboro. It started when Miss Lee, guest of a Middle Tennessee fraternity, was introduced to the crowd.

Bucs Take 4-1 Victory

East Carolina University's soccer team gained a 4-1 victory over Methodist College yesterday.

Each team scored once in the first half of play, but East Carolina came back to score three times in the final half to wrap up the victory.

Tom O'Shea scored once on an assist by Bob Gebhardt, while Pete Angus scored on an assist by O'Shea. Tom Tozer and Mike Fetchko each scored unassisted goals for the Pirates.

The lone Methodist goal was scored by Charles Kennedy.

East Carolina is now 4-2 for the year, while Methodist is 5-7-1.

The Bucs, champions of the Northern Division of the Southern Conference, will meet the Southern champ, Appalachian, for the overall league title on Saturday at 10 a.m. at the Ficklen Soccer Field.

Atlanta Turns Race Around

ATLANTA (AP) — The passing arm of a freckle-faced quarterback and the perseverance of a coach who refused to buckle under outside pressure are two ingredients that explain the dramatic turnaround of the Atlanta Falcons as they race for National Football League playoff berth.

The Falcons, holders of a four-game winning streak whose victims are the Bears, Chargers, 49ers and Rams, experience the first glimmer of their resurgence in Bob Lee.

Lee replaced veteran quarterback Dick Shiner and saw some action in the Falcons' Oct. 7 loss to San Francisco. It was at a time when critics and stadium sign painters were demanding Coach Norm Van Brocklin's ouster.

What had started out as a football town filled with contender fever was turning into a cauldron of malcontents carrying signs reading "No more Dutch treats" and "Fire Van Brocklin."

Before the 13-9 loss to San Francisco that Sunday, owner Rankin Smith said he had no intention of firing Van Brocklin. It turned out to be a Sunday of hope.

"Since that time we've just persevered and hung in there," the Dutchman said. "If you just stay with people, eventually things will work out."

Perserverance has paid off in the string of four victories. The last win came Sunday on the toe of an Italian-born placekicker of Hungarian extraction, Nick Mike-Mayer. Mike-Mayer booted five field goals to bring the Falcons from a 10-0 first quarter deficit to a 15-13 victory. His game-winning kick came with 52 seconds left from 16 yards out.

The win lifted the Falcons to within one game of National Conference West-leading Rams, who held a three-game lead two weeks before suffering losses to Minnesota and Sunday's defeat to Atlanta.

Meanwhile, Lee has hit on 67 of 109 passes for 972 yards and five touchdowns while suffering three interceptions.

Contest Winners

Two E. B. Aycock seventh graders took top honors in this week's Daily Reflector Football Contest.

Wade Dean of 1403 Red Banks Road, Greenville, took first place in the contest, correctly picking 25 of the 32 games. He took first place on the basis of his point guess. His guess of 85 was closest to the actual total of 91 scored in N. C. State's 56-35 win over South Carolina.

Second place went to Dennis Ross of 217 Churchill Dr., Greenville. He also had 25 correct, but was further off the point total with a guess of 82.

Four other people also picked 25 right, but were further off in their guesses.

This week's contest appears on the following pages.

Is This Year Of The Kicker?

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Lanarca, Cyprus. Opole, Poland. Petronell, Austria. Budapest, Hungary. Oslo, Norway. Bushy, England. Youngwood, Pa.

Roll call at the United Nations? Nope. Roll call in the National Football League. It is, as some critics have said, the invasion of "aliens and old men" who have turned 1973's Year of the Runner into 1973's Year of the Kicker.

Of the 26 first-string extra-point and field-goal specialists in the league, 10 are imports: Miami's Garo Yepremian from Lanarca, Green Bay's Chester Marcol from Opole, Dallas' Toni Fritsch from Petronell, the New York Giants' Pete Gogolak from Budapest, Kansas City's Jan Stenerud from Oslo, the New York Jets' Bobby Howfield from Bushy, plus Cincinnati's Horst Muhlmann of Dortmund, West Germany; Pittsburgh's Roy Gerela of Sarra, Alb., Canada; San Diego's Raimund Werschling of Mondsee, Austria; and Atlanta's Dick Mike-Mayer of Bologna, Italy.

But have the kickers taken over? Hardly.

Last year there were 817 field-goal attempts and 499 made. At the halfway mark this season there were 435 attempts and 279 made. Project that through the 14-week season and there will be 870 attempts, about 4.7 tries per game, barely up from 1972's 4.4 per game average.

There's a bit of bitterness from imports reacting to the complaint that foreigners have "taken over" an American sport.

"Who's a foreigner?" says the outspoken Yepremian. "I'm an American citizen, I've served five years in the Army. I resent this 'foreigner' business."

"Where did football come from? For that matter, where did baseball, the national pastime, come from? Foreigners? Where was Roberto Clemente born? What about Jesus Alou? Or Bert Campaneris? Or Bert Blyleven?"

Football, it turns out, is foreign, an Americanized version of Britain's rugby which, in turn, has its roots in similar sports going back to the ancient Greeks and Romans. Baseball? It's a derivative of England's rounders. But the idea of hitting a ball around with a stick started 5,000 years ago as a religious rite in Egypt.

The late Roberto Clemente, one of baseball's greatest stars, was born in Puerto Rico. Alou is from the Dominican Republic. Campaneris is Cuban. Blyleven was born in The Netherlands. Yepremian has made his point well.

"Listen," he says with an air of finality, "a kicker's a kicker no matter where he's born. And anybody here who calls me a foreigner is a foreigner himself — unless he's an American Indian!"

Fritsch says he doesn't feel any resentment — at least not from fans or critics. He's taken some razzing, though, from players on other teams. If that has any effect, though, it's the positive kind. "Every time I am on the field I say, 'I am the best.'"

Ladies Results

Harriette White of the Greenville Golf and Country Club captured low cross honors in the monthly meeting of the Pitt County Ladies Golf League in their play on Friday.

Mrs. White won low gross in the A flight. Goldie Chapman of Ayden took low net, while Jackie Baker of Ayden had low putts.

In B flight, Nancy Monroe of Greenville had low gross, while Mary Bruton had low net. Low putts went to Dot Aldridge.

Joann Proctor of Brook Valley and Ruth Billica of Brook Valley tied for low gross and low net in C flight, while Grace Merritt of Ayden and low putts.

The tournament was held this month at Brook Valley.

EXPLANATION - The Dunkel Index provides a continuous index to the relative strength of all teams. It reflects average scoring margin combined with average opposition ratings, weighted in favor of recent performance. Example: A 50-0 team has been 10 scoring points stronger, per game, than a 40-0 team against opposition of identical strength. Originated in 1929 by Dunkel.

Cautious Over Anti-Nixon Mail

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Another conservative Republican senator has attacked President Nixon's handling of the Watergate affair while two others said most of their anti-Nixon mail is inspired by the President's enemies.

Sen. Peter H. Dominick, R-Colo., advised Republicans to declare political independence of the Nixon White House and said the party must cooperate in beginning impeachment proceedings to establish the President's innocence or guilt.

Dominick and Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott called on Nixon to make a complete disclosure of all tapes and documents relating to the Watergate investigations.

Last week, Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., said public confidence in Nixon is so low that his only hope of escape is to appear voluntarily before the Senate. Watergate committee and testify under oath.

However, speaking Monday in Logan, Utah, Goldwater said that Nixon should not resign. "Nothing that has gone on so far makes me think that he should," Goldwater said.

Goldwater said also that he opposes impeachment. "If, however, they can prove that he was dishonest, he should be impeached."

The committee is set to vote on a proposal by Sen. Lowell P. Weicker Jr., R-Conn., who suggested the panel tell the President it is willing to meet him privately at the White House, question him without placing him under oath, and make the transcript of the session public. Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-

Mass., has suggested Nixon resign but Scott rejected that idea.

The mail of most members of Congress has been running heavily against the President. Two senators said they believe it is politically inspired.

Sens. William L. Scott, R-Va., and Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., said they believe most of their anti-Nixon mail is coming from supporters of Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., or is inspired by such groups as the AFL-CIO, Common Cause and the American Civil Liberties Union. All three groups have called for Nixon's resignation or impeachment.

The Virginia Republican said a spot check with the writers of 1,000 anti-Nixon communications received by his office showed 77 per cent had voted for McGovern in the 1972 presidential election.

Another conservative, Sen. James L. Buckley, Con.-R.Y., said however that he believes most of his mail on the subject was a genuine and spontaneous outburst caused by the firing of special prosecutor Archibald Cox and the resignation of Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson.

Meanwhile, a call for "absolute and total disclosure" by the White House and the President came from ousted Deputy Atty. Gen. William D. Ruckelshaus.

And Republican Gov. Thomas Meskill of Connecticut said the President owed the public a better explanation of why he waited so long to disclose that two of his Watergate-related conversations were never recorded.

New Chairman Of Commission

Governor Jim Holshouser today appointed a new Chairman of the Employment Security Commission.

He is Charlotte businessman, Manfred W. Emmrich, southeastern assistant operations manager of the Macke Company, a national machine concern.

Emmrich replaces Colonel Henry E. Kendall of Raleigh who is retiring after 27 years as ESC Chairman.

The new commissioner will have administrative control of the 60 State Employment Offices, including the employment office in Greenville.

Office manager, James E. Hannan, said today he learned of Kendall's retirement this week through an announcement from the Chairman's office in Raleigh.

Arrest Youths For Break-In

Two Havelock youth, one 17 and the other 18, were arrested here early today on charges of breaking, entering and larceny following investigation of an incident at Tar River Cycle Co., 400 South Memorial Drive.

Chief Glenn Cannon said officers charged John Albert Angell Jr., 18 and John Franklin Chaney, 17 after they were discovered coming from the cycle shop about 4:30 a.m. He said the two were allegedly in the process of taking four boxes of merchandise from the business at the time.

Investigation of the incident is continuing.

Jury Rules 'Not Guilty' In Killing Hurt Brother

By JOHN T. MCGOWAN
Associated Press Writer
FREEHOLD, N.J. (AP) — "The only crime Lester is guilty of was having his power to reason overwhelmed by events," Lester Zygmanski's attorney told a Superior Court jury before it acquitted the young man of slaying his paralyzed brother.

The jury of seven men and five women deliberated 2½ hours on Tuesday before acquitting Zygmanski, 23, on grounds of temporary insanity. He had been charged with first degree murder.

Zygmanski admitted killing his 26-year-old brother, George, with a shotgun blast last June as he lay in a hospital bed, paralyzed from the neck down as the result of a motorcycle accident.

The shooting was described by friends and relatives as a mercy killing. In his closing arguments, defense attorney Robert Ansell pleaded with the jury to release Lester "not on pity, not on sympathy, but on the evidence."

Ansell said Lester was "crazed with love" for his brother when he shot him — "The only crime Lester is guilty of was having his power to reason overwhelmed by events."

Malcolm Carton, First Asst. Monmouth County Prosecutor, told the jury that the state had proved premeditated murder, and he asked the jurors to "do what's right... do what's honest.... There is nothing in New Jersey law that says you can take the law into your own hands."

In his testimony, Lester admitted carrying a concealed sawed-off shotgun into the hospital and shooting his brother in the head.

"I walked over and asked him if he was in pain," Lester told the jury. "He nodded he was. I asked, 'A lot of pain, George?' He nodded again.

"I went to him and I said, 'Well, I'm here today to end your pain. Is that all right with you?' He nodded yes, and the next I knew I had shot him."

Pitt Scholars Are Honored

GREENSBORO—Two students of Pitt County were among the approximately 350 sophomores honored for academic achievement at a special reception at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro recently.

They are: Miss Delores F. Harris, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Harris Jr., 1813 Third St., Greenville; and Miss Jeanette J. Little, daughter of Mrs. Jeanette Lee Owens, 114 Pineview Dr., Grifton.

Opening lead: King of ♣

"Are those hands you use in your column really played?" asked a reader from San Diego. "To me, they look like lesson hands that have just been credited to some player or other!"

Well, Oscar Wilde wrote that life imitates art. There was a large American group at the First Monte Carlo International Bridge Festival who will bear witness to Italian star Pietro Forquet's defense on today's hand.

South's opening bid was the weak variety, growing ever more popular in tournament bridge. Sitting West, Forquet doubled for takeout and North raised to three spades as a preemptive measure. When this bid came back to him, Forquet doubled again to show his power. Though he held four hearts, East saw no prospects for ten tricks, so he elected to defend.

West led the king of clubs and East played the jack, thereby denying the queen. Forquet found the killing defense — he shifted to the king of spades! As the cards lay, this sacrifice of the monarch did not even cost a trump trick, for it promoted East's ten of trumps to a trick.

Declarer won in his hand with the ace of trumps, and led a diamond toward the king. Forquet went up with the ace and led another trump, and declarer could not avoid losing one trump trick, one diamond and four clubs.

That meant down two, and 300 points for East-West was the top score on the board.

Our people own the dairy. They do a better job.

At Maola, nobody has the feeling that the company owns him. Because people with every kind of job from route man to President own the company.

And we all know that the better job we do, the better our dairy will do.

So we go out of our way to buy the freshest milk possible. It's funny, but we don't really have to go out of our way at all. Since we're the largest dairy headquartered in Eastern Carolina, we can buy a lot of milk from your neighbors.

After the milk reaches the Maola dairy, well-trained quality control experts pore over it. With a far more critical eye than the United States Government requires.

When our milk leaves the dairy, it leaves early. Our route men know people want their milk on their doorstep when they get up in the morning. And that if We've made our frozen dessert, Pixie, the most popular dessert from coast to Piedmont.

Since 1935, Maola has grown to be the leading dairy in Eastern Carolina. But we know that to stay there, we all have to do our jobs well every day.

And we will. Our owners will see to it.

Maola isn't there, people will buy something else. That makes it hard to sleep.

The same energy we put into bringing you fresh milk goes into all Maola products. Our butter pecan ice cream, for example. We roast our own pecans.

The Worry Clinic Moral Training Is The Answer

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

Alma is shocked by the sexual promiscuity among high school girls. She wonders if the "Pill" is the cause. Beware, for the "Pill" merely symbolizes lack of moral training that leads to the tragic sexual disasters outlined below!

CASE Y-555: Alma D., aged 27, is a high school teacher.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "we have been shocked at the number of cases of venereal disease among our teen-age girls!

"Yet our school is located in a suburban area where we draw our students from a supposedly middle to upper class population.

"Is this rapid increase in promiscuity and its resulting venereal disease a result of the 'Pill'?"

"And what can we do to help combat sexual diseases?"

Hen or Egg

Gonorrhea and syphilis are the sexual scourges that are now zooming, worldwide.

Dr. M. C. Candau, Director of the World Health Organization, reported earlier this year that: "Quick action is essential before sexually transmitted diseases become completely out of control."

Despite the use of our new antibiotics, Dr. Candau says "the world is in the grip of a virtual epidemic."

Alas, the victims are usually young people between the ages of 15 and 25 years.

And our Illinois State Medical Society warns that 80 percent of female gonorrhea carriers don't even realize they are infected!

Note the number of reported cases of gonorrhea per 100,000 population in these supposedly civilized nations:

|         |     |
|---------|-----|
| Sweden  | 500 |
| Denmark | 316 |
| U.S.A.  | 308 |
| Canada  | 159 |

And vast numbers of such cases are not reported, due to the shame still attached to venereal disease.

Those figures also do not include the syphilis victims!

Please observe that the highest incidence of gonorrhea is in Sweden and Denmark, which have been the source of vulgar sex literature and "stag" movies, imported to the U.S.A. in recent years.

For when morality declines and the churches lose their influence on youth, then drug addiction, promiscuity and other types of delinquency zoom fast.

Alma thus asks if the "Pill" is the main cause of the epidemic of gonorrhea and syphilis among civilized nations.

No; the "Pill" is merely a symptom of the general decline in moral restraint with its lack of stress on chastity!

The "Pill" is thus an "effect" of the basic moral decay that leads to promiscuity!

For people who figure the only restraint against illicit sex is the clue the syphilis victims!

So America needs to warn youth by vivid movies and lectures which expose the serious medical aftereffects of gonorrhea and syphilis.

These consist of permanent sterility of both male and female victims, plus blindness of newborn babies, gonorrheal arthritis, feeble-mindedness and insanity, heart and blood vessel disease, plus many others!

Indeed, syphilis has been called the great medical "Impersonator," since it can produce many ailments resembling other disease!

You mothers who furnish the "Pill" to your teen-age daughters, instead of proper moral and religious training, are thus accessories to their venereal infection and even serious ailments to your grandchildren!

Send for my booklet "Sex Problems of Young People," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Butter In His Sculpting Recipe Classified Ads

TOKYO (AP) — Take 80 pounds of butter, mix well with flour and spread thickly on a base of polystyrene...

Not very appetizing, perhaps, but when Chef Kenichi Shimanuki of Tokyo's Imperial Hotel concocted this little masterpiece, it wasn't diners' taste buds he was out to capture. It was their eye for art.

For two hours a day he stood over his mixing bowl, working with the dedication of a true artist. And in 10 days it was complete — the figure of a lion, nearly six and one-half feet long, its features sculptured in all their ferocious glory in creamy golden butter.

The lion, a leading department store's symbol, was made to decorate one of the hotel's banquet halls for a reception held by the store here.

The lion now stands in a storage room in the hotel's hors d'oeuvre kitchen along with 20 or so other butter sculptures used periodically as banquet hall decorations.

If roast beef is being served and something is needed to enhance the table, a butter cow might be brought out. If fish is on the menu, a life-size fisherman, complete with net, may well make an appearance.

Neptune, the Arc de Triomphe, and an intricately carved Japanese castle are among the other sculptures kept in storage to be brought out for the appropriate occasion.

The castle, which was displayed at a reception for a singer to represent her latest record, will, like the lion, probably never be used again. But

Find Body Of Baby In Suitcase

MOUNT AIRY, N.C.(AP)—Deputies, notified by an anonymous telephone caller, found the body of an infant in a suitcase Sunday.

The suitcase was in an old barn near Mount Airy.

The body was sent to North Carolina Memorial Hospital in Chapel Hill for an autopsy. Authorities said the State Bureau of Investigation has been asked to assist in the investigation.

having taken two weeks and much skill to create, it too is considered beyond destruction.

The sculptors can be held for long periods of time, because they are worked from a special, inedible kind of butter, made exclusively for this type of decoration. Because it tends to stick to the hands, it is mixed with flour before use. But no other preparation is required.

While the special butter will not turn rancid nor melt, even if left at room temperature, the sculptures cannot be on permanent display because they may get dusty. And butter isn't the easiest thing to use a vacuum cleaner on.

For smaller table decorations,

Court Won't Review Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court has rejected a request to review black activist James Earl Grant's conviction last year of helping two men flee to Canada before their scheduled trials in North Carolina.

Grant's attorneys said in their petition that the jury selection system in U.S. District Court for Eastern North Carolina discriminates against blacks because it is based on persons who voted in the 1968 presidential election.

Grant, 32, from Charlotte, was charged with helping Walter David Washington and Theodore Alfred Hood escape to Canada while they were out on bond awaiting trial on weapons charges in connection with racial violence in Oxford, N.C., in 1970. They won immunity from prosecution by testifying against Grant and the Rev. Ben Chavis in Raleigh last spring, when Chavis was acquitted. Then, last summer, they testified against Grant, T.J. Reddy and Charles Parker on charges of unlawful burning related to a fire at the Lazy B riding stables in Charlotte.

Grant, who is in the federal penitentiary in Atlanta, drew a 25-year sentence in the Lazy B case. The case is being appealed.

tions, regular butter is used and modeled from a block, without the polystyrene base. But these models, of course, have a very short life.

Contribute To Union Fight

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United Mine Workers Union, whose members are on strike at a Kentucky mine controlled by the Duke Power Co., has announced that it is contributing $3,000 to help fight an electric rate increase for the utility in North Carolina.

UMW President Arnold Miller said the donations were being made to the North Carolina Consumer Council of Raleigh and North Carolina Public Interest Research Group of Durham.

About 180 UMW miners have been on strike since July at the Eastover Minding Co. operation in Brookside, Ky. Eastover is a subsidiary of Duke.

Farm Scene

By STEVE C. RIDDICK

Protein Content of Corn: Laboratory analysis of the protein level of normal and high-lysine corn have been running lower than normal this year with the levels generally in the 6 to 8 percent range. We normally use 9 per cent protein for corn in formulating rations.

It would be well for you to have your corn sampled and checked for protein content. If protein content is lower than normal, you will want to re-adjust your feed formula to account for this.

One commercial lab that will run this analysis for $5.00 per sample, is Southern Testing & Research Laboratory, 607 Park Ave., Wilson, North Carolina.

Swine Parasite Program: Pitt County is participating in an intensive State-wide campaign to improve net farm income from hogs through better animal health care. It is estimated that farmers could realize an average of THREE DOLLARS more per hog sold through improved health programs. This particularly applies to parasite control.

There is no doubt that this is one area of our swine industry that needs attention. We feel it will be easy to implement this State-wide program to focus attention on the problem, since it could mean an additional $300,000 annually to our pork producers in Pitt County.

Every hog producer has the opportunity to have his herd parasite problem analyzed and to receive recommendations on how to solve it. He is urged to do this by contacting the Pitt County Extension Office at 203 West Third Street in Greenville. This service is financed through the five cent per head assessment on slaughter hogs that pork producers pay to the N.C. Pork Producers Association.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 8.88 at 928.28. Advancing Big Board issues had a slight edge over losers. The Dow blue-chip indicator lost more than 65 points in the previous six trading sessions.

Westinghouse, up 1/4 at 31 1/2, was the Big Board volume leader, followed by Federal Department Stores, down 1/4 at 37 1/2; First National City Corp., up 1/4 at 47 1/2, and General Motors, up 1/4 at 61 1/2.

The Big Board's broad-based index of some 1,500 common stocks was up .46 at 57.17, while the American Stock Exchange market-value index was up .58 at 105.69.

Nixon's Private Secretary Is Summoned

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Judge John J. Sirica today ordered that Rose Mary Woods, President Nixon's personal secretary, be summoned to testify in the fact-finding hearing into the two phantom White House tape recordings.

Sirica, chief U.S. District Court judge, asked that Miss Woods be notified that she would be a witness after presidential aide Stephen V. Bull testified he saw her listening to tapes and typing at the same time.

"I would deduce it did have obviously something to do with the tapes," Bull said but added he did not know whether the secretary was making a transcript.

Bull testified that on Sept. 28 he was asked by Gen. Alexander Haig Jr., the President's chief of staff, to go to Camp David, Md., to assist the President in reviewing some tape recordings that had been subpoenaed by the special Watergate prosecution force.

Bull said he received about a dozen tapes and returned four or five of them to Gen. John Bennett, a Haig assistant, and left the rest with Miss Woods.

"She kept them at least a week," he said.

"Do you know what happened to the tapes?" asked Richard Ben-Veniste, a Watergate prosecution force lawyer.

A. No sir.

Ben-Veniste asked Bull if anyone else at the White House other than Miss Woods was transcribing tapes.

Bull said that, although he was not certain Miss Woods in fact was transcribing the tapes, he said it was his understanding that only Miss Woods was assisting the President.

"That is my impression," Bull said.

Q. Would you say the purpose is to make a transcript?

Fuel Stops On Carriers

NORFOLK, Va. (AP)—Replacement aircraft rushed to Israel from the United States during the recent Middle East war made fuel stops on 6th Fleet aircraft carriers, the Norfolk Ledger-Star said today.

A "well-placed" Navy source confirmed that the carriers have been serving as stepping stones in the 5,300-mile long flight from the U.S. to Israel.

Many countries had denied fly-over or fueling privileges for the aircraft, mostly A4 Skyhawks.

At the outbreak of hostilities, the Navy had the carriers Independence and Franklin D. Roosevelt in the Mediterranean while the John F. Kennedy was enroute to its Norfolk port after completing a NATO exercise in the Norwegian Sea.

The Kennedy was diverted from a rest stop in Scotland to take up a position in the eastern Atlantic, the Navy said.

The Ledger-Star said the Kennedy served as a mobile island in the pipeline of aircraft.

When President Nixon ordered a world-wide alert of U.S. military forces in response to the Russian threat to send troops to the Middle East, the Kennedy was ordered into the Mediterranean.

At the latest report, the three giant carriers were still at sea in the Mediterranean.
