Prisoners Of War Begin Return To Israel, Egypt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli and Egyptian prisoners of war began coming home today with Red Cross flights of wounded men arriving in Cairo and Tel Aviv.

In an emotion-filled scene the wounded, some walking and others carried on stretchers, came home to Israel and a cheering welcome.

Defense Minister Moshe Dayan, on hand to greet the returnees, declared: "At last we have arranged things by talks, like human beings, instead of by tank fire and exploding grenades."

In contrast to the lively welcome in Tel Aviv, the first plane bringing home Egyptian POW's taxied to a remote part of the airport tarmac. A senior officer said it had been impossible to plan for a public welcoming with the POWs' families present.

As part of the prisoner exchange deal, Israel agreed to give U.N. forces control of the highway from Cairo to the town of Suez and the Egyptian 3rd Army in the Sinai Desert.

While the cease-fire firmed on the Suez front, Syria reported an artillery duel on the Golan Heights, the fifth break in the truce on the Israeli-Syrian front in 10 days.

A communique broadcast by Radio Damascus said an Israel engineer unit advanced close to a Syrian position and the Syrians destroyed a bulldozer. An exchange of tank and artillery fire followed.

An agreement on the exchange of prisoners between Israel and Syria has yet to be worked out.

The International Red Cross said it expected the Egyptian-Israeli prisoner exchange to take about a week.

Egypt said it was returning 238 Israelis captured during the October war, plus another nine captured in military operations prior to 1970. The Israelis had estimated earlier that Egypt captured about 350 of their troops during the 18 days of fighting along the canal.

Israel also revised its count of Arab prisoners, saying it had a total of 8,221 Egyptians to be freed.

Israel also said it captured 368 Syrians, 13 Iraqis and 6 Moroccans, and that it believes the Syrians are holding at least 127 Israelis. Syria took no part in the prisoner exchange negotiations, but Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan said today he hoped the Syrians would agree to a swap.

Arrangements for the prisoner swap were part of an agreement completed Wednesday by Israeli Maj. Gen. Aharon Yariv and Egyptian Lt. Gen. Mohammed Gamazy in another one of their meetings at Kilometer 101, where the cease-fire line crosses the Cairo-Suez highway.

A U.N. spokesman said that in addition to the prisoner exchange, the two generals worked out arrangements to put into effect four of the other five points of the cease-fire agreement negotiated by U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger last week.

Winter Fuel Problem Confronts Pitt Hospital

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt Memorial Hospital is meeting the challenge of the looming fuel shortage as best it can, Hospital Administrator Jack Richardson said this morning.

The hospital uses natural gas as its primary fuel source, with a back up system of fuel oil. Like several industries in Greenville, it has a contract with North Carolina Natural Gas saying that its gas service can be interrupted at any time when residential demands are high.

"Charles Horne of the Greenville Utilities Commission has promised us that we will be the last of the interruptible customers cut off," he said.

He added that a petition has been filed with the Secretary of the Interior to have the hospital allocation of fuel oil increased. The problem is that the hospital has needed only small amounts of fuel oil in the past beause it has used it only during very cold periods when the gas was diverted to residential users. This year's allocation is supposed to be not above that of last year. Last year's allocation was 17,000 gallons, an amount that could be used in short order if it had to be relied on entirely, since the amount used would be at least 45 gallons an hour. This is why the petition was needed.

The Federal Power Commission may order a curtailment plan for Transcontinental Gas Pipe Line Corp., the major supplier of natural gas in this state. North Carolina officials have appealed the plan. The U.S. Court of Appeals in Washington has issued a temporary stay in the FPC order, pending full consideration by the court.

What the FPC proposes to do is discontinue service by Transcontinental to "interruptible" customers.

Horne said the hospital and other interruptibles undoubtedly will be cut off more this year than ever before, but he added that it will still depend on the weather, with high use by residential customers determining when they will have to make the switch to oil.

Richardson said meetings have been held with department heads throughout the hospital and that heat in non-critical areas has been turned back as much as possible. Lights and other electrical equipment is being used as little as possible, also, he added.

"This is just a drop in the bucket, though," he said. "Our boilers run in the summer, as well as the winter because we have so much equipment run by steam, and of course, much of our vital life-and-death facilities and equipment are electric, and our use is round-the-clock.

"Buck Sitterson and I are going to Raleigh next Tuesday to a hearing on the fuel situation. We'll be doing everything we can, because our needs are those of sick and injured people," he said.

Weigh Tax Or Rationing

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration is weighing taxes on fuel use against rationing as the best way to reduce energy consumption. Officials hope there still is a choice.

The White House said Wednesday the view that gasoline rationing would be only a last resort was shared by President Nixon and Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, who has favored a high gasoline surcharge to discourage unnecessary consumption.

But Nixon's top energy adviser, John A. Love, and Interior Secretary Rogers C. B. Morton have predicted that rationing would be necessary by early next year.

Love has said both rationing and fuel taxes may be needed.

In an effort to resolve this question, an energy task force headed by the Office of Management and Budget has made recommendations on fuel taxes its first order of business.

A key administration official who declined to be identified told a newsman Wednesday the task force planned to submit its tax recommendations "within a week."

He said the President "would like us to avoid a rationing system if we could, but most of the senior advisers agree there should be a rationing plan."

The situation holds the potential for a power struggle between Morton's Interior Department, which presumably would manage rationing, and Shultz's Treasury Department, which presumably would administer tax programs.

The administration official said fuel tax proposals could include not only a stiff tax on gasoline usage, but also surcharges on consumption of electricity and natural gas.

Within two or three weeks, he said, recommendations are expected from the task force on the need to ration home heating oil and the need to extend wholesale fuel allocation — now applied to home heating oil, diesel and jet fuel and kerosene — to gasoline and other petroleum products.

In about a month, he said, the task force should produce recommendations on gasoline rationing.

Hazard Stage In Pitt

"We're appealing to everyone to be real careful about outdoor fires," Bobby Joyner, Pitt County Fire Marshal said this morning.

With little rainfall recorded in the past several weeks, Joyner said grass fields and woods in Pitt County have become extremely dry and subject to the quick spread of fire "Conditions are approaching the hazardous stage," he said.

Six grass fires took place in the county in the past two days, according to Joyner. Three of these occurred on Tuesday, three on Wednesday.

"Two of these," Joyner reported, "got out of control and reached into the woods. These were on Rural Road 1510 south of Bethel and on Rural Road 1739 south of Greenville."

"We're asking farmers and others not be burn unless absolutely necessary, and if they do burn an area, to be extremely cautious in keeping a close watch."

Joyner also asked that hunters and hikers be careful about smoking in grassy or wooded areas.

Gearing Up For A Cold Winter

RALEIGH (AP)—Citizens of Raleigh apparently are gearing up for a cold winter.

Department stores Wednesday reported booming sales in electric blankets and heaters, and regular blankets.

Store managers said sales were running two or three times as much as normal.

Contractors reported an increase in inquiries about changing homes from oil to electric heat.

Skylab Launch Friday

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Space Agency officials report everything is "go" for launching the Skylab 3 astronauts Friday on man's longest space voyage.

Skylab Program Director William C. Schneider said late Wednesday there were no foreseeable barriers to launching after he checked the status of the Saturn 1B rocket, the Apollo spaceship, communications, ground support, weather and the astronauts.

The countdown for the 85-day mission progressed smoothly toward a liftoff at 9:01 a.m. EST Friday. The weather forecast calls for partly cloudy skies, light winds and a 70-degree temperature.

Astronauts Gerald P. Carr, William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson planned to sharpen flying skills today by zipping over central and south Florida in T38 jet planes. A space agency spokesman said they also find flying a good way to relax.

Also on their schedule today was a brief physical examination to gather baseline data for in-flight and post-flight comparison.

The launching has been postponed twice for a total of six days because of cracks that were discovered in the Saturn 1B. As a result, eight stabilizer fins at the base of the rocket were replaced to prevent a possible breakup in flight.

The 22-story booster is to thrust Carr, Pogue and Gibson and their Apollo ferry ship to a link-up with the 85-ton Skylab space station, which is orbiting unmanned 270 miles above the earth.

If they remain aboard 85 days, they will break by nearly a month the present space endurance mark of 59½ days held by the Skylab 2 crew.

Patrol To Clamp Down On Motorists Failing Heed School Bus Rules

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County motorists had best observe state laws that require drivers to stop for school buses taking on or discharging students, or face the prospect of being charged with a law violation and court action for their failure to do so.

Capt. John T. Jenkins, commander of Highway Patrol Troop A, reports that there has been a marked increase in the number of reports of drivers failing to stop for stopped busses over the past several months. He said Troopers have been advised to be especially watchful for such violations and take "appropriate action" against violators.

Capt. Jenkins explained that the law is not limited to school buses alone. It includes, he noted, privately owned buses operated by private schools, churches and Sunday Schools, and marked "school bus," "church bus" or Sunday School bus," and are equpped with displaying a mechanical "stop" signal on the left side of the vehicle.

The Patrol officer said vehicles approaching a stopped bus (displaying the "stop" signal) from either direction (front or rear) is required to stop, whether traveling on two, four, or five-lane (roads with four travel lanes and a center turn lane.)

The only exception, the officer explained, involves buses operating on roadways separated by an "intervening space or a physical barrier" such as on four-lane roads where two lanes are separated from the other two lanes by an "island" of wide grass median strip.

In these instances, the officer noted, drivers following or traveling in the same direction as the bus must stop, but drivers meeting the bus across the median or barrier need not stops.

According to Capt. Jenkins, the law is designed to protect children who might cross a highway to get onto a bus or get off a bus and cross to their homes.

He noted that bus drivers are not authorized to use the mechanical "stop" signals that swing from the side of the vehicle unless they are picking up or discharging passengers.

Persons violating the law, according to the captian, are guilty of a misdemeanor and upon conviction can be subjected to a fine of up to $200 and imprisonment up to 90 days.

In addition to the possible fine and-or jail sentence, drivers convicted of passing a stopped bus get five points credited against them—the highest number of points for any traffic law violation.

'Phase One' Of Project Ended

Phase One of a projected three-year street resurfacing program in Greenville has been completed, it was announced by City Manager Bill Carstarphen.

The official said that the initial phase, handled by Barrus Construction Co. at a contract cost of $48,512, involved a little over five miles of resurfacing work that called for some 3,800 tons of asphalt.

Phase Two, for which funds have been appropriated in the 1973-74 city budget, consists of an additional 9.25 miles of street work, he reported, and is expected to cost in the neighborhood of $80,000.

Bids on the second phase of the project will be secured in the Spring of 1974, Carstarphen explained, and resurfacing is expected to be underway during the early summer.

The final phase, scheduled for 1975, will consist of almost 14 miles of city streets and is expected to cost approximately $120,000.

The city manager noted that the three-year program is being financed by shared revenue funds already committed by the City Council to support a community-wide street resurfacing program.

"When the project is completed," he said, "we expect to have all streets throughout the community in top flight condition." He added, "We are pleased to have this first phase completed and we feel it represents a real improvement to the community's street system."

Don't Gripe About Money

By Abigail Van Buren

c 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is nothing new. It's my mother in law. My husband and I are the proud parents of a new baby, and I have returned to work part-time. Since we didn't know a reliable sitter, I asked my mother in law if she would babysit while I worked half days, and I offered to pay her. To my surprise, she accepted!

Abby, most grandmothers would be insulted if they were offered money to stay with their grandchildren. This is her first grandchild.

My husband and I have been fighting about this ever since it came up, and he says I am wrong—and if I don't feel right handing his mother money, I should just stick it in her purse and not make a big deal out of it.

Abby, do you think I'm wrong? I wonder just how many grandmothers accept money for taking care of their grandchildren? WORKING MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: You failed to mention an important factor. How well off is your mother in law? If she must work in order to support herself, obviously she can't afford to sit gratis. In any case, you'd have to pay another sitter, so why gripe?

DEAR ABBY: I write a syndicated newspaper column titled "Bernstein on Words." Recently I received the following letter:

"Dear Mr. Bernstein:

While celebrating my 45th wedding anniversary, I recalled that 40 years ago my wife had an affair with another man. My question: Was I, or am I a cuckold?"

Abby, all that came to my mind was that juvenile jingle, "How much wood would a woodchuck chuck if a woodchuck could chuck wood," with a variation something like, "Just how old is an olden cluck when an olden cuckold's he?"

However, since this question seems much more up your alley than mine, how would you answer it?

TED BERNSTEIN:
CONSULTING EDITOR, NEW YORK TIMES

DEAR TED: If the wife had only one affair—even briefly—her mate was a cuckold briefly. If she had another one, he's a cuckold for sure. If she's had them off and on over the years, he's not a cuckold—quite the reverse. He's an old kook!

CONFIDENTIAL TO "TIGHT LIPPED AND EXASPERATED IN DETROIT": Whether you sell your kisses for a dollar apiece or a hundred dollars is beside the point. The principle is the same. Kiss that Lochinvar goodby, with a handshake.

The double ring ceremony was conducted by the Rev. L.E. Payton. A program of organ music was presented by Ray Dail.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William E. Chancey of Rt. 1, Greenville, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal gown fashioned with short puffed sleeves, empire waistline and the neckline was trimmed with lace and tulle covering the bodice. The skirt extended in a chapel length train.

Her matching headpiece was attached to an elbow length veil of illusion and she carried a bouquet of white bridal flowers.

Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. William Lloyd of Rt. 4, Greenville.

The honor attendant was Gail Blalock of Greenville. She was dressed in a formal yellow gown and carried a long-stemmed chrysanthemum.

Eddie Lloyd of Greenville was best man and ushers were John Thomas Sawyer of Fountain, and Jesse Blalock of Greenville. Eddie Lloyd of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

Student Assignment A 'Must'?

North Carolina is among several states whose higher education desegregation plans were rejected by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare.

It has been reported that plans were rejected for Arkansas, Florida, Georgia, Oklahoma, Pennsylvania and Virginia. Louisiana and Mississippi have been told to submit plans by Nov. 30 or face court action.

A letter to Gov. James E. Holshouser suggested numerical goals for integrating the state's campuses, with an implication that black campuses should become one-third white.

Among the suggestions was a biracial committee to assist in preparing a plan.

The rejection of the plan must be disappointing to those who worked long and hard to develop a plan that they felt would be suitable to North Carolina's system of higher education.

We frankly don't see how the directive can be net without assigning students to university campus, rather than allowing students to choose their universities as has been historically true in North Carolina.

It is obvious, though, that more work will be required to satisfy the Department of Health-Education and Welfare.

Defend-Israel Pledge Needs 2nd Thoughts

If Secretary of State Henry Kissinger goes through with the proposed treaty in which the U. S. government would guarantee to defend Israel if attacked, it would probably be approved by Congress. The pro-Israel element in the Senate is extremely strong.

The irony is that its most vociferous members include many of the same individuals who strongly objected to the U. S. honoring the same commitment to South Vietman.

It's very easy to agree to such treaties. Honoring them is something else. Both Secretary Kissinger and the Congress should weigh the grave inherent risks such a defend-Israel treaty entails. At this hour, and as far into the future as one can foresee, that kind of promise involves a readiness to confront Russia and all its satellites if need be. Our European "allies" would not and will not be involved. They've already made their position clear.

Enforcing At Local Levels

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—City and county officials across the state have been sent copies of a model ordinance to be implemented locally in control of sedimentation pollution.

The state's Sedimentation Control Commission is urging local governments to set up the machinery to issue permits and enforce the rules covering soil-disturbing activities as adopted by the 1973 General Assembly.

"It is important to note that local governments are given the option under this legislation of developing and submitting to the commission for approval local ordinances for control of sedimentation. If approved. . .such control programs could fulfill the enforcement of the state act," said James E. Harrington, secretary of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources under which the Sedimentaion Control Commission operates.

Hope For Response

State officials hope local governments will respond since they are candid in admitting that the state doesn't have the manpower to supervise and enforce the new regulations.

The commission is currently operating as a two-man office, with Clarence B. Shimer as coordinator, and one man on-loan from the federal Soil Conservation Service.

The purpose of the program is to reduce the amount of stream or lake pollution due to construction activities, reducing the amount of soil washed away and helping to eliminate future flooding of streams due to the buildup of washed soil in the streams.

The bulk of new regulations are slated to take effect July 1, 1974, and Harrington is urging local governments to take prompt action, with the hint that if they fail to do so, the state will.

"We feel that this opportunity provides local governments with a meaningful way to immediately enter into the important work of controlling damage and pollution from erosion and sedimentation. . .rather than have another state agency controlling such activities," Harrington wrote in a cover letter to local officials.

He also promised technical and educational assistance for implementing the local program from the state commission, from the U. S. Soil Conservation Service, and from the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service.

Three Rules

While the major part of local enforcement is not required until next year, the General Assembly included three mandatory provisions which are currently in effect:

—A buffer zone must be kept between any consturction work and a nearby stream or lake;

—Angle of slopes are regulated and any exposed soil on a slope must be planted or otherwise covered within 30 days;

—Any tract larger than one acre cannot be left exposed for more than 30 days unless active construction is underway on it.

Going beyond those mandatory controls, the model ordinances sent out by the state would require that local permits be issued before land-disturbing activities could be carried out, and that erosion control plans might be called for when local officials review the application for a permit.

Any project of more than five acres would require a permit and erosion control plan without option.

Copies of the erosion control plans would be submitted to local Soil and Water Conservation District officials at the same time it goes to the local governmental officials, allowing for their review and reaction as well.

Specifically excluded from the law, as included in the model ordinances, would be farming activities; timber production activities; and projects carried out by local, federal or state government agencies—or funded by governmental agencies.

There are currently three areas in the state with local sedimentation ordinances in effect: Raleigh, Forsyth County and Winston-Salem, and Transylvania County.

Local ordinances, once drawn up to suit local peculiarities such as terrain and soil conditions, will be submitted to the state's Sedimentation Control Commission for review and approval.

Bennett Plans 'Olive Branch'

By JOHN KILGO

Tom Bennett, the new chairman of the North Carolina Republican Party, says he will "extend the olive branch to those Republicans who opposed me for chairman and try to convince them that our party will be wide open."

"We will certainly include Frank Rouse and his supporters in our future plans," Bennett told me in an interview. "I'm not a vindictive man. I'm not the kind of person who would want to kick out the people who opposed me. Gov. (Jim) Holshouser is not that kind of person."

The key issue in the campaign between Bennett and Rouse turned out to be Gene Anderson, Gov. Holshouser's top aide. Rouse and Anderson became bitter enemies.

I asked Bennett what role Anderson would play in the Tar Heel Republican Party.

"I'm certain Gene will play a prominent role as the Governor's number one assistant," Bennett replied. "However, I have also discovered in working with Gene that I find him to be very cooperative and interested in the Republican Party.

"I think Gene has been made to look like the big bad bear that he really isn't," Bennett continued. "As party chairman I'm going to work cooperatively with the Governor's office and with whoever is working with him, just as I will work with Frank Rouse."

Bennett says he doesn't think the Republican Party in North Carolina is as badly split as people say it is. He says the vast majority of Republicans at the state convention supported him for chairman.

"I fought a clean campaign," Bennett said, "and I will be able to go to those who supported Frank and put out the olive branch. I don't think our party has permanent injuries."

Bennett says his top priority will be to put together a sound budget, pay off the party's debt, and then get ready for the 1974 general elections, especially those concerning Republicans running for the General Assembly.

The new GOP chairman says he will also be traveling across North Carolina meeting Republicans and offering his services to help build local organizations for the GOP.

"We want to bring unity to our party," Bennett said "and I know we can do it."

Meanwhile Rouse told me in a sepearte interview that he thinks it'll be a long time before some of his supporters get over the chairmanship fight.

"We didn't know what we were up against," Rouse said. "You don't get beat like I did and not feel it. The Governor fought me with all he had. I thought Republicans were strong enough to hold out for their convictions but I guess I was wrong."

Rouse says one of his closest friends came up to him shortly before the GOP convention and said he had to go for Bennett because he couldn't resist the pressure any longer.

Rouse says he'll remain interested in politics but added: "I neglected my business for two years. Now I'll be back in Kinston trying to put that back together. This will be a full time job for me I assure you."

Winter Health, Comfort

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — With the fuel shortage and predictions of severe cold in the months ahead, here are some sicentific tips to winterize yourself for health and comfort.

—Wear loose clothing, creating an insulating layer of air between the skin and clothes. Layers of clothing can be added or removed as necessary.

—For a bit of extra warmth, put your coat over a warm radiator before going outdoors.

This could help not because the coat is warm, but because it is dry. It will soak up moisture from the outdoor air, and gain heat. This is reverse evaporation. The coat won't feel wet, because the moisture is taken up inside the fibers of cloth.

A heavy suit and coat, well dried out, will generate as much heat in a short time this way as your body normally produces in an hour or two, by one estimate.

—Keep house temperature under 70. A good deal of research shows the 65 to 70 range is best for a feeling of well-being.

—The recommended bedroom temperature is 50 to 65 degrees. In some tests, volunteers said they felt more refreshed after sleep in that range rather than warmer or colder rooms.

Opening windows wide so the bedroom temperature drops to 30 to 40 degrees doesn't bring any additional benefit. And it takes more fuel to warm up the room during the day.

—Keep relative humidity indoors at about 50 per cent. Volunteers said they felt better and functioned better at middle humidity.

And this humidity is tougher on germs riding around on droplets of moisture. The salt concentration of water droplets then becomes more dis-

Of Judges And Newsmen

On Oct. 15, the U. S. Supreme Court entered a laconic order: "Case No. 72-1511. Dickinson v. U. S. The petition for a writ of ceritorari is denied. Mr. Justice Douglas would grant certiorari."

Few persons paid much attention to the order. It came at a wild time in the news, coinciding with the Agnew resignation, the Ford nomination, and the losing round for the President in the case of the Watergate tapes. Yet the Supreme Court's refusal to review the sentences imposed in Louisiana upon Larry Dickinson and Gibbs Adams will rank among the most significant and most ominous events of this term. The effect is to give new and powerful meaning to the concept of "judicial supremacy," and simultaneously to jeopardize the people's right to know what goes on in their courts.

Let me try to give both sides. The case arose two years ago this month in Baton Rouge, where a black civil rights activist, Frank Stewart, had been arrested on a charge of conspiracy to murder the mayor. Stewart denied the charge absolutely and contended that he was the victim of trumped up accusations by the state. After various legal maneuvers, the case wound up before U. S. District Judge E. Gordon West for a hearing limited to the single question of whether Stewart's indictment was contrived or legitimate.

As the hearing began, Judge West made a stunning announcement: "It is ordered that no, no report of the testimony be taken in this case today shall be made in any newspaper, or by radio or television, or by any other news media."

That breath taking edict, amounting to absolute censorship of the press, was intended to protect the defendant from the possibiity that pre-trial publicity might jeopardize the selection of a jury later on. Judge West was doing his duty as he saw it, and there is no reason to challenge the sincerity of his intentions.

Dickinson and Adams, reporters for the Morning Advocate and State Times, had a duty of their own. They could not possibly submit to any such gag upon a free press. They therefore wrote accurate, straighforward accounts of the hearing. Judge West promptly found them guilty of criminal contempt and fined each of them $300. The effect of the Supreme Court's order of Oct. 15 was to uphold Judge West.

There is no question that Judge West's gag order was in flagrant violation of the Constitution. This was the ruling of the 5th U. S. Circuit in August, 1972, when the case came up on appeal. In an opinion by Chief Judge John R. Brown, the Circuit Court held that West's blanket ban on publication of court proceedings "so far trangresses First Amendment freedoms that any such absolute proscription cannot withstand the mildest breeze eminating from the Constitution."

It was readily apparent, said the Circuit Court, that "no decision, opinion, report or other authoritative proposal has ever sanctioned by holding, hint, dectum, recommendation or otherwise any judicial prohibition of the right of the press to publish accurately reports of proceedings which transpire in open court." Judge West's order was "constitutionally unacceptable, and hence illegal."

But having said all that, the Circuit Court nevertheless ruled that the order had to be obeyed. The two reporters should have ought immediate judicial review of West's ban. The publication of news "can be enjoined." Newsmen are Potato growers in Bethel will assemble in the Bethel auditorium tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. to discuss next years acreage and the marketing of Irish potatoes.

A. F. Mercker, secretary of Interstate Early Potato Committee and E. B. Morrow, State Horticulturist, will discuss the crop.

All farmers interested in growing potatoes are asked to attend the meeting.

The director of the Pitt County Health Department was in Farmville today to investigate the possibility of cases of parrot fever in the community.

The investigation followed receipt of information from the State Health Department that a traveling circus known as Bruce Shows was carrying birds infected with psittacosis.

The statement said the circus was reported to have exhibited in Kinston and later in Farmville.

Persons who got birds from the show are asked to contact the Health Department to help decrease the chance of human infection from the disease.

Carolina will meet Duke Saturday in the State championship game in Durham.

A New Auto Tax?

(The Raleigh Times)

Automobiles are properly defined as personal property — but if another way can be found to tax them with more revenue coming to local governments that other way should be followed.

At present, automobiles are supposed to be listed for taxation with other personal property. The flaw in the plan is that many taxpapers, estimated somewhere between 5 and 15 percent, don't bother to list their automobiles. The result is that many cars go untaxed, and many local government miss out on taxes they shold have.

In Wake County, the tax officials make a valiant effort to check the state license registration list against the tax listings here. During the last fiscal year, the Wake officials located $3,500,000 worth of untaxed automobiles, and even that astounding total didn't include all the untaxed cars in this country. The officials just didn't have time enough to finish the job.

A state legislative subcommittee has approved a bill that would substitute an excise tax on motor vehicles for the present system of listing them as personal property. The owner would have to pay the excise tax at the time license plates are purchased, and the state would send the money to the local governments. It has been estimated this would mean a $13 million increase in local revenues across the state.

Rep. Robert A. Jones, Rutherford Democrat, sponsored the measure. He says that the only people the bill could "hurt" are those who aren't paying the taxes on their vehicles. The people who do pay their taxes will join Jones in being unable to "work up any sympathy for them.

The measure is to go to the 1974 legislature for action. If it is enacted, it wouldn't become effective until 1976, which should provide ample time for preparations necessary to change he system of tax collection.

The new system won't bother the citizens who have been paying their vehicles taxes. They'll be paying approximately the same amount, but at a different time.

JUSTIFIED ANGER

There are few things in the world that cause more trouble than anger. And yet anger in itself is not necessarily wrong. We are told that on a number of occasions our Lord was angry. But it was always at men who in their cruelty, avarice, or selfishness made their fellow men suffer. Our Lord had not a word to say against those tormentors who nailed him to the cross. He maintained a dignified silence in the presence of Herod, and his conversation with Pilate displayed not the least resentment over injustice.

Jesus used anger as it is supposed to be used. So, for example, when some of his contemporaries put their own man-made rules before human welfare and made the temple unfit for worship with their merchandising, his anger welled forth. But he was never angry with those who abused him. The things which most often anger us angered him not at all. He saved his anger for situations which we sometimes readily condone and for persons with whom we often find ourselves on the best of terms.

Lawmen Question Gun Control

By RICK SCOTT
Associated Press Writer

North Carolina law enforcement officials in some of the state's largest cities believe that strick gun control and registration alone probably would have little effect on the number of murders in the state.

Top police officials in Raleigh, Durham, Charlotte and Wilmington, and the head of the State Bureau of Investigation, commented in a survey by The Associated Press.

They felt that the courts and trial judges already have the power to deter crimes involving guns by handing down stiffer penalties. Generally, the policemen favor minor changes to limit the availability of some guns by some people.

But, they said, strict control and regulation would likely create a mountain of paper work and would probably fail to deter criminals who wanted a gun for killing.

The officers took issue with a recent published statement by a Florida professor that loose gun control in the Deep South is a factor in the higher homicide rates in the section.

"It's not the people who buy guns legitimately who give us the most trouble," said Chief H. E. Williamson of the Wilmington police. "I think we've got laws on the books now to take care of guns if the courts would enforce them. We need tougher penalties for people who use guns in the commission of a crime."

The people who give police trouble, Williamson added, probably wouldn't register their weapons anyway. Williamson said help might come from laws allowing more thorouch search procedures and stiffer jail terms for people who commit a crime with a gun.

FBI statistics showed there were 17.0 murders per 100,000 population in Wilmington last year. Other North Carolina cities included Raleigh at 18.7 per 100,000; Charlotte at 17.6; and Durham at 17.2

The murder rate in some large Northern cities was lower, according to the FBI. Chicago had 11.5 murders per 100,-000 population. Dr. Eugene Czakoski, chairman of Florida State University's Department of Criminology, said recently he was convinced that loose gun control in the South has resulted in a higher murder rate.

"I doubt that's the reason," said Durham police Chief W. W. Pleasants. "I'm in favor of some type of control on guns. I don't think we should throw it open and allow everyone who wants one to have a gun.

"But, I can see a lot of complications in total gun registration," Pleasants added. He said he would go along with a law to require gun registration by convicted felons.

Educator Finds Politics Is 'Helpful'

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Wirter

"Faculty members at ECU (East Carolina University) are encouraged to be involved in political activity—provided it doesn't interfere with their academic responsiblities—and I think this is good," Thomas Eamon, newly elected president of the state Young Democrat Clubs said.

Eamon, an assistant professor in Political Science at ECU, was elected at the state YDC meeting last weekend. He will take office in January.

His students gave Eamon a standing ovation when he appeared for his first class after returning from the state convention. "I would say this (being state YDC president) particularly from the standpoint of teaching, will give me a definite advantage in explaining things to the students. . .being involved in politics myself." Eamon teaches courses in state, local government and contemporary southern politics.

He is the first YDC head—since the organization was founded in the late 1920's—to be a member of the teaching profession. "Most presidents have come from the legal profession or the world of business. . .over half of them lawyers," Eamon explains.

"I've been interested in politics since I was about five-years old," Eamon says. He lived in Onslow County for the first years of his life, then moved to Durham when in the fourth grade.

After receiving his undergraduate degree at the University of the South at Sewanee, Tenn. and his masters from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, Eamon joined the ECU faculty in 1971. That year he served as state YDC secretary.

Active in YDC activities since 1965, when he was at UNC, Eamon has served on a number of committee posts. He actively sought the state YDC presidency for several months. His opponent, E. Frank Stephenson Jr., of Murfreesboro—director of admis- at Chowan College and head of the Historic Murfreesboro Foundation, as well as the state Jaycees candidate for the Ten Most Outstanding Men in America—conceded the election after falling behind 18 to 187 after only 12 counties had cast their ballots at the meeting.

Eamon considers himself "a political moderate. . .but at the same time, the term can be somewhat deceiving," he notes. The new president says he is after getting things done and said, in his opinion, "the moderate approach is the most effective.

"I want to bring people from all walks of life into the organization. I'm interested in bringing in more people from minority groups, and even more business and professional people.

As far as the organization goes, I would like to get clubs in even the smallest rural counties where we don't have any clubs now." Eamon emphasized.

Another major goal, "one we will be working for," is "a Democrat comeback in the mid-term elections." The party, according to Eamon, needs issues "we can sell to the people of North Carolina. But I don't think we ought to go off on wild tangents."

He noted, "I'm personally interested in coastal and mountain land planning."

And, he said, there is a "good chance" that the state YDC will endorse the formation of a four-year medical school, possibly in January.

"This has been a very bad year as far as politics and politicians go," Eamon said. "We need to try to restore people's confidence in Government and politics. . .do this through our own example. . ."

He noted, "I don't claim we Democrats have a monopoly on that which is good in politics... but we are going to have to take the initiative in restoring some conficence in government."

As head of the state YDC, Eamon will preside over an organization composed of 18 to 26 year-old Democrats he hopes will number 50,000 within the next two years. . .and 100,000 within about four years.

"The YDCs in North Carolina are generally considered one of the best YDC organizations in the whole country," Eamon explained. "Former governor Terry Sanford is a former YDC president, and within the last five years, seventh district Congressman Charles Rose of Fayetteville and Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt of Wilson have served as presidents of the YDC.

The job, according to Eamon "will require tremendous traveling to speak at meetings," but he noted, "I've been working hard within the organization over the past several years and have been accustomed to spending the time."

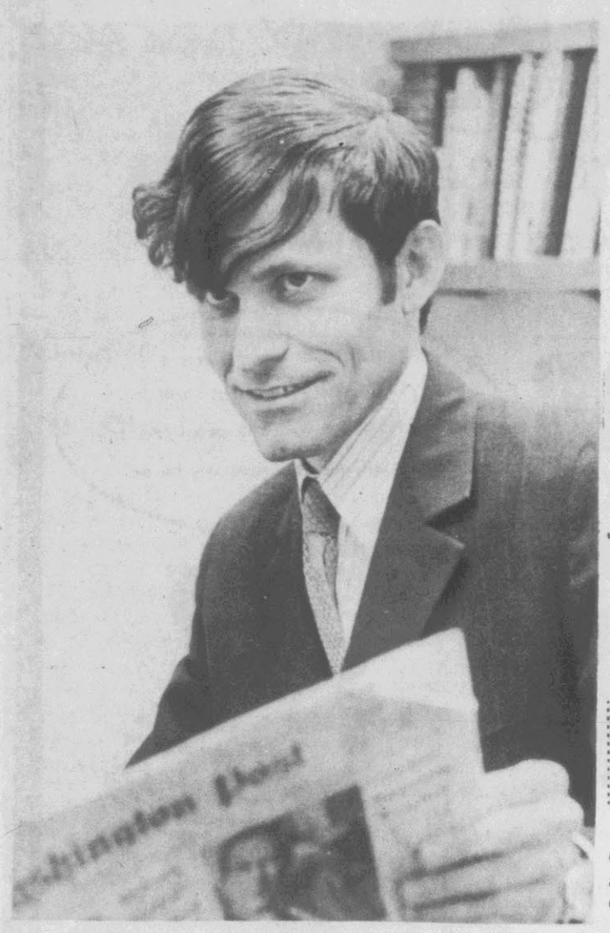
He said, "In a two party system, we are going to have to have parties that represent fairly wide ranges of opinion, and I am certainly interested in bringing a number of different views into the Democratic party."

Reflecting again on his academic career, Eamon said, "out of 11 in our department, I'm active in Democrat affairs, then John East is an active Republican. We're somewhat more politically oriented than most departments.

Eamon added, "I enjoy teaching and communicating with the students in class.

"I find students today quite idealistic, but at the same time their idealism is tempered by a little more realism about the world than three or four years ago. . .more tolerant of other views than in the late 1960s.

"I think it's good they are more concerned about social matters and government in general than they were in the 1950s and early 1960s."



TOM EAMON. . .New state Young Democrats Club president.

Royal Newlyweds Will Fly To Barbados

By ED BLANCHE
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Britain's royal newlyweds, Princess Anne and Capt. Mark Phillips, spent their wedding night at the country home of one of her cousins before flying today to Barbados for a honeymoon on the high seas.

The year's most celebrated wedding couple were booked with 18 other passengers in the first-class section of British Airways Flight 695 to the British island off the northern coast of South America. The Britannia, the luxurious royal yacht, awaited them there.

The airline said no special arrangements were made for the 23-year-old daughter of Queen Elizabeth II and her 25-year-old husband of one day — but one official did note that drinks were complimentary in first class.

Anne and Phillips were accompanied by one bodyguard, 30-year-old Detective Sgt. James Beaton.

The couple sail aboard the Britannia Friday from Bridgetown, the capital of Barbados, for a cruise of nearly three weeks that will take them through the Caribbean, the Panama Canal and 1,000 Pacific miles southwest to the Galapagos Islands.

The princess and Phillips will leave Galapagos by plane on Dec. 4 and make a series of visits to Ecuador, Colombia, Jamaica, Montserrat and Antigua on the way home. They return to London on Dec. 17.

After their wedding festivities in London Wednesday, Anne and her army captain slipped away to Thatched House Lodge, in the royal park at Richmond, on the southwestern outskirts of London. The secluded mansion is the home of Anne's cousin, Princess Alexandra, and her husband, Angus Ogilvy, and the Ogilvys turned it over to the Phillipses for the night.

The newlyweds made their getaway by driving to Chelsea Hospital in a horse-drawn carriage for an "official visit" and ducking out in a limousine.

Last night, detectives stood silent vigil in the shadows of the trees around the white mansion. The Daily Mail reported that the first thing the couple did was switch on the television set to watch reruns of their wedding ceremony.

A royal spokesman said they had a quiet dinner by candlelight — a diplomatic touch in a nation threatened with power blackouts and coal shortages.

Editors Will Hear Nixon

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — The White House says President Nixon will address The Associated Press Managing Editors Convention which opens here Friday.

The president will present his views on all issues facing the nation when he attends the convention Saturday, officials announced Wednesday night.

More than 340 American and Canadian newspapermen and their families were expected to attend the five-day event at Disney World.

The impact of Watergate on the press and nation and recent advances in newspaper technology were to share the spotlight on the convention program.

The vice chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, U.S. Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., was to anchor a "Watergate Day" Monday.

Managing editors also were to hear from Washington Post writers and editors, whose stories helped break the Watergate coverup.

citizens too, said the Circuit Court, and they must suffer the consequences of flagrant, intentional disregard of the mandates of the court.

Where does this leave us? The hearing before Judge West, having to do with alleged misconduct of public officials, was of compelling public interest. The people had a right to know of the testimony, and the people had a right to know of it then, not days or weeks or months later, after the process of judicial review had run its course.

If judges can issue flagrantly unlawful orders gagging a free press, and then impose fines or jail sentences for their violation, judges become tyrants. Be refusing even to review the case, eight of the nine justices of the Supreme Court now have condoned both censorship and tyranny. This is not law; this is despotism. Those of us who live by the news will have to combat it as best we can.

couraging to bacterial life.

—Food is your fuel for body heat. Protein and fat are turned into heat fairly quickly, so meals containing large amounts of them can be helpful during severe cold spells.

—You also produce heat by physical activity and exercise. But don't overdo it if you're not used to it.

—For skin comfort, you might have to cut down on number of baths. Your skin is drier, and more likely to itch in winter. Oil and sweat glands are less active. One skin specialist advises shorter baths, rinsing well to get rid of all the soap, patting the skin dry rather than rubbing, and using oils or creams if necessary.

—Good general health makes your body more efficient. Cheerfulness and relaxation promote health. The snap of winter can make you feel spunkier and even more aggressive, but remember it can do the same to other people you live with or meet.

—The old idea that wet feet promote sniffly colds has fast been losing ground. But wet feet in winter mean cold feet which can contribute to accidents. There's less sense of foot position, and you're more likely to stumble or slip on icy pavements.

—For cold feet at bedtime, try to relax so constructed blood vessels in the feet open up to normal size so feet warm up. Children usually don't have any trouble.

A warm bath, or massaging the toes, may also do the warming up.

Or you can put your cold feet up against a snugly warm and already snoozy bedmate.

With that stunt, you're on your own.

According to Keeter, the Winterville Recreation Commission, consisting of 30 members appointed by the town board of aldermen, has had a successful year. Approximately $4000 was raised by barbecue dinners, sale of fire extinguishers, garbage bags, and by the support of the Parent-Teacher Association. A bake sale is scheduled for November 21.

President Vincent announced that the Bloodmobile would be at the D. H. Conley High School, Tuesday, Nov. 20 and urged the support of Ruritans and the community.

GM Would Relax Emission Controls

By WILLIAM E. SCHULZ
Associated Press Writer

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors is urging adoption of a plan to save gasoline by taking emission controls off about 40 million late-model cars. It claims savings could amount to five billion gallons a year.

The savings could be more than three times greater than that in 10 years if proposed federal emissions standards were relaxed, General Motors President Edward N. Cole said in an interview Wednesday.

His statement came as plans for gasoline surtaxes or rationing continued to be discussed in Washington.

"We've got some people in Washington who are acquainting people on the Public Works Committee with this proposition," Cole said. "It's being put into perspective."

The five billion gallons is seven per cent of the 69.2 billion gallons of gasoline used in U.S. passenger cars in 1971, the last year for which figures are available, according to the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers Association.

Other motor vehicles used 28.2 billion gallons of gasoline, the association said.

Cole said the idea is to remove emission control devices required by federal law and change ignition and carburation on 1970 through 1974 models. Some 10 million cars were sold in each of the four years.

Drug Arrest Here Yesterday

Two 20-year-olds who identified themselves as East Carolina University students were arrested here early yesterday on drug law violation charges after officers stopped the car in which they were riding near the intersection of Chestnut Street and Watauga Avenue.

Chief Glenn Cannon identified the two as John Gilcrist Cranfill and Charry Clee Pillard, both of 920 College View Apts.

He said both Cranfill and Miss Pillard were charged with possession of marijuana. In addition, Cranfill was charged with driving under the influence while Miss Pillard was charged with public drunk.

Bond on the marijuana charge was set at $500 each while bond in the liquor cases was set at $50 each.

The arrests occurred about 1 a.m.

$83.93 Day On Farmville Mart

FARMVILLE—The Farmville Tobacco Market yesterday averaged $83.93 per hundred pounds after selling 119,952 pounds of tobacco for $100,670.

"Notwithstanding the fact that yesterday was the next to last day of the 1973 auction season, the quality of tobacco was better than in the past several days," said Louis Williams, sales supervisor of the Farmville market. "The average was also better."

Most of the volume consisted of primings, leaf and cutter grades. Several piles of leaf grades brought about 90 cents per pound.

To date, the Farmville market has sold 23,802,156 pounds of tobacco for $21,259,149 giving a season average of $89.32 per hundred pounds.

Soc. Elects 32 Trustees

RALEIGH—The North Carolina Symphony Society elected 32 Trustees at its Annual Meeting Wednesday at the Velvet Cloak Motor Hotel in Raleigh.

The new Trustees, from communities throughout North Carolina, will serve two-year terms on the 63-member Board of Trustees.

Among the newly-elected Trustees are seven who have never before served on the Board. The Society welcomed these new Board members, including Mrs. Ted Barnett of Lincolnton, Mayor Thomas W. Bradshaw of Raleigh, Harold Delaney of Chapel Hill, Mrs. Roland H. Hayes of Winston-Salem, Mrs. Charles Jones of Pinehurst, Mrs. William Stevens of Lenoir and Mrs. Wallace Schorr of Wilmington.

Other Trustees elected to serve through 1975 include longtime supporters who continue their service on the Board.

Emphasized at the annual meeting were four pressing needs of the orchestra—higher salaries for musicians and staff; longer playing season, with a 45 week season as soon as possible; a larger orchestra, with 90 musicians as the goal; and a permanent home for the North Carolina Symphony and staff.

Psychologists report their studies show happy employes are more likely to become lifelong employes.

Assessment Hearing In Ayden On December 10

AYDEN — The Ayden Town Board Monday night set Dec. 10 as the date for a public hearing to discuss assessment resolutions for Stokes Street and New Circle Drive.

The hearing will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Ayden courtroom.

The board passed a resolution to appropriate and make available to the Metropolitan Sewage District — which includes Winterville, Ayden and Grifton — interim financing need prior to the approval and sale of bonds, to be repaid by the district when the sewage treatment facility is in operation.

The board approved curb and gutter for Edgewood Street.

After discussing whether or not the board would be responsible for paying Carolina Telephone and Telegraph for the installation of underground telephone cables, it was decided to table the matter until the board's workshop session on Dec. 3.

Town Manager Don Russell explained he had received a letter from Carolina Telephone and Telegraph stating that the company will install its telephone cables underground along a portion of Lee Street at a cost of $5,735, which the town of Ayden must reimburse the phone company for.

Also, the town would be responsible for repairing sidewalks that would be damaged during the installation.

The phone company would give the town of Ayden $500 at the completion of the project.

Board members questioned whether or not the town has the authority to pay Carolina Telephone and Telegraph for the installation of telephone lines.

The board heard a recommendation that stated self-service gas stations should not be allowed in the town of Ayden. The matter was turned over to the town planning board.

AMC Seeing Record Sales

DETROIT (AP) — Riding the crest of the small-car wave, American Motors Corp. reports it has nearly tripled its 1972 earnings of $30.2 million.

AMC reported on Wednesday net earnings of $86 million, or $3.18 per share for the fiscal year ending Sept. 30, making 1973 the most profitable year in the company's history. The previous high was $60.3 million earned in 1959 when AMC had virtually no domestic competition in the small-car market.

AMC is the nation's fourth largest auto maker.

However, the company pointed out that the earnings figure include extraordinary tax credits resulting from losses in earlier years. Without the credits, profits from current operations would be $44.5 million, or $1.65 per share, the company said.

AMC's earnings came on record sales totaling $1.7 billion, compared with $1.4 billion in fiscal 1972, the previous high.

Pfeiffer College Delays Opening

MISENHEIMER, N.C. (AP)—Pfeiffer College will delay opening of the spring semester by two weeks and hold commencement a week early to conserve fuel, it was announced Thursday.

The decision, which will shift the opening from Jan. 14 to Jan. 28, was made because the college faces a 15 per cent heating fuel reduction, according to a spokesman for the public information office.

The college hopes to save about 70,000 gallons through its action.

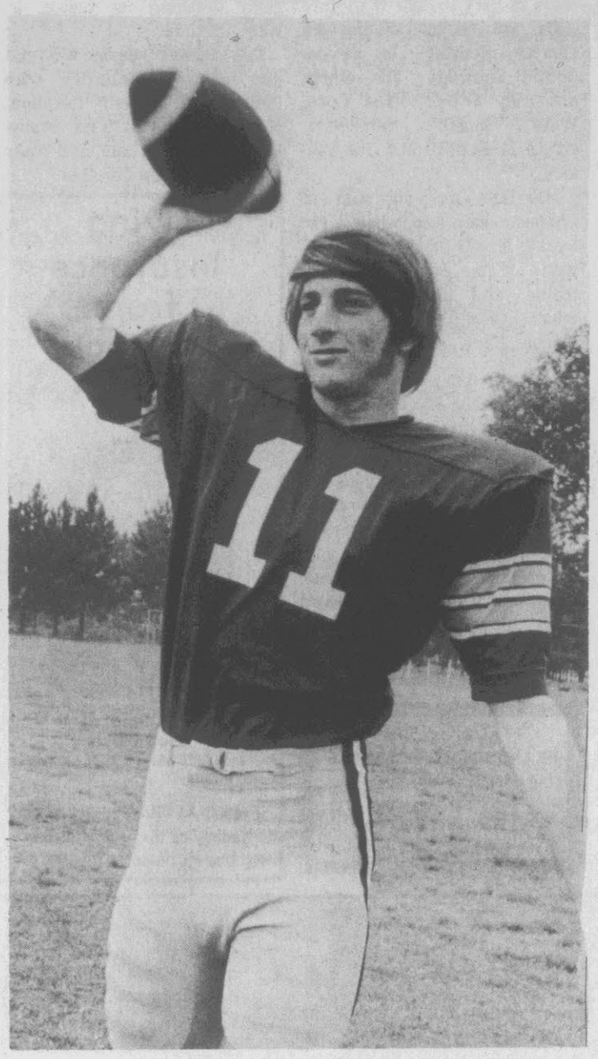
Rose Opens Playoffs Against Enloe



Defensive Back Dickie Johnson

For the first time since 1965, Rose High School's football team is headed into the State Playoffs. Friday in Raleigh, they'll meet the Eagles of Enloe High School, with kickoff set at 8 p.m.

The Rampants won their way into the playoffs last Thursday night with a 7-6 victory over Northeastern High School, one of the toughest teams in Division I. The Eagles of Northeastern lost three of the four games they played in the league by a total of nine points. They were beaten 6-0 by league champ Rocky Mount, 14-12 by Northern Nash, and 7-6 by Rose.

Rose, in winning, ended the league year up with a 3-1 record, in second place behind Rocky Mount. This year, Division I is one of those in the 4-A picture that was given two berths in the playoffs, extended to four games this year under the new alignment situation.

For the Rampants, it's their first trip into the playoffs since the 1965 season when they were the Northeastern 3-A Conference champions. Rose went unbeaten that year until the Eastern Finals, the last stage in the playoffs at that time. They were beaten by Tarboro that year, a member of their own conference, whom they had earlier beaten.

Coach Dave Bumgarner felt that the victory over Northeastern was a good one, especially considering the ability of the Eagles. "I can understand the competition they gave everybody," he said. "They have an excellent team. But they had a lot of people going both ways and this could have hurt them in the end."

Bumgarner also pointed out that the Eagles wasted a couple of their time-outs early and this hurt them late in the game. "At times we made them do what they didn't want to, and this hurt them too. They are certainly going to be a tough team next year."

The Rampants came through the physical game in good shape for this week's contest.

"Our defense played a very good game," Bumgarner praised. "The offense wasn't able to move the ball much, so the burden fell on our defense. and I haven't said enough this year about our assistants. Jim Brewington and Ronald Vincent work with the defense, and they've done a heck of a job."

The Eagles of Enloe present another formidable opponent for the Rampants. "They are a very strong team," the coach said. "They are similar to a lot of teams we've met this year in that they are big up front and have fast backs."

Defensively, Enloe lines up in a 5-2 or sometimes in what Bumgarner refers to as a Tennessee 5-2, which resembles more of 5-3.

"We expect a hard-fought contest," he added. "I imagine that they remember the game we played up there last year." During the regular season, behind the running of Al Hunter and Reggie Perkins, the Rampants rolled to a 61-13 victory.

The Eagles, who went through their conference without a loss, have a number of outstanding players. They include Wayne Burden, brother of the former Enloe star Willie Burden, who is a split end; Andrew Stricklin, who broke his leg last week and will be out for the rest of the year, and who was the leading ground-gainer; Wes Summer, the quarterback; Donald Upchurch, a running back; Richard Mills, who replaced Stricklin; and Brooks Satterwhite, a defensive lineman.

"They are a well-rounded club," Bumgarner said. "They are largely a senior club too. They have seven juniors and one sophomore with the rest seniors."

Offensively, Enloe runs from the Houston veer except on short yardage situation when they use the power I. "They didn't pass much against Broughton, but they can, I understand."

Bumgarner is uncertain what type of game to expect, but notes that the Rampant defense must stop their running attack, and that Rose must be able to move the ball too.

There is no tomorrow in the playoff series. A loss will end the season. A tie would be broken by yardage gained. And the winner goes into next week's game as the home team against the New Bern-Hoggard winner.

The probable starting offensive lineup for Rose has T.J. Payne and Mike Wallace at ends, Lee Hill and Ron Hunt at tackles; Jeff Hagans and Dave Mattheis at guards, Ed Connolly at center; Henry Trevathan at quarterback, Jackie Savage at fullback, and Lindberg Morris and Keith Joyner at halfbacks.

Defensively, the Rampants start Ronnie Rasberry and Savage at ends; Pat Hagans and Mike Bryant at tackles, Vince Atkinson, Jerry Griffin, Mike Brewington and Harold Randolph at linebackers, and Al Heath, Nat Perkins and Dickie Johnson in the secondary.

UPI Says It's ECU

United Press International, in its bowl roundup story published today, stated that East Carolina University would meet Miami of Ohio in the Tangerine Bowl Game to be played December 22 in Orlando, Fla.

A UPI representative told the Daily Reflector that the story, sent out of Florida, mentioned the game with no further comment, in the roundup. East Carolina officials say they have not received a bid from the bowl. Officially, no bid can be given until 6 p.m. Saturday.

Officials of the bowl are expected to be in Greenville this weekend.

Watson's 62 Vaults Him Into World Lead

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Golf Writer

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP) — Obscure Tom Watson, admittedly dazed with delight and grinning broadly in the wake of the best round of his career, suddenly turned straight-faced and deadly serious.

"I just hope I hold on to it," he said after a stunning, nine-under-par 62 had given him a six-stroke lead Wednesday in the fifth round of the World Open Golf Tournament, an eight-round affair that offers a record $100,000 to the winner.

"I had a four stroke lead going into the last round in Hawaii and I choked," he said the red-headed, freckle-faced Watson, a non-winner in his two years on the pro golf tour.

"I shot 75 in the last round and lost to John Schlee.

"I hope I learned something from that and don't do it again. I hope I don't choke again."

Watson put on an amazing eagle-birdie-birdie-birdie-birdie finish as he swept past front-running Gibby Gilbert with one of the best competitive rounds on record.

The 62 matched the low round of the year on the pro tour and tied the course record set by Gilbert in the first round of this 144-hole, two-week tournament last Thursday. The previous record on the 7,007-yard No. 2 course at the Pinehurst Country Club — generally ranged among the most demanding in this country — was 65 by Ben Hogan.

Watson's 347 total, eight-under-par, left him six strokes in front of Gilbert, who began play in the bright, warm sunshine with a five-stroke advantage.

Cunningham Is Victory Star

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — Billy Cunningham fired in 23 points to lead Carolina Wednesday night as the visiting Cougars downed the Kentucky Colonels 107-102 in American Basketball Association action.

Carolina has accounted for all three of Kentucky's losses in 15 games this season and the Cougars are now only half a game behind the Eastern Division-leading Colonels.

The Cougars outscored the Colonels 8-2 in the final three minutes of play Wednesday night, adding their last two points on free throws after the buzzer.

Kentucky failed to capitalize on several opportunities in the final two minutes. The Colonels missed their last eight attempts, while Carolina was converting its only attempt during the same span—an 11 footer by Steve Jones—for a 105-102 lead with 22 seconds to go.

Kentucky called time out and attempted five more shots—including three from three-point range. The Cougars' Mack Calvin was fouled at the buzzer after claiming a rebound. His two free throws accounted for the final margin.

Dan Issel topped the Colonels with 27 points and Louie Dampier added 25. Artis Gilmore finished the night with 15 points, 18 rebounds, 11 assists and 7 blocked shots for Kentucky.

"It's hard to see where they beat us," Kentucky Coach Babe McCarthy said. "What can you say when the ball refuses to cooperate? We had two shots roll off the rim in the final minute that would have given us the lead. "But I guess it wasn't in the cards," he added. "We committed too many errors. We just weren't sharp."

Cougar Coach Larry Brown said, "It was amazing that we won, considering how wild a game it was. Even when we play good, I feel fortunate that we've won."

Hiller Given Hutch Award

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Detroit Tigers reliever John Hiller has added another bouquet to his brilliant 1973 baseball comeback by winning the Hutch Award.

"This is a real honor," said Hiller from his off-season home in Duluth, Minn. "I know of the great esteem baseball people have for Fred Hutchinson."

Sports Editor Ritter Collett of the Dayton, Ohio, Journal Herald, announcing the results for the sponsoring Fred Hutchinson Cancer Scholarship Fund Inc., said Hiller won by the widest margin in history.

The voting, conducted among major league baseball writers and broadcasters, is for a player who best exemplifies the competitive spirit of Hutchinson, who was the Cincinnati Reds manager when he died of cancer nine years ago.

Hiller was stricken by a heart attack in January, 1971, but came back to post a major league record of 38 saves in 1973. He had a 10-5 record and a 1.94 earned run average.

"Having the kind of a season I did was a great satisfaction," Hiller said. "I'm pleased that people so close to the game as the broadcasters and writers selected me."

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

There was really another reason for the East Carolina-Appalachian State football game time being changed—one that makes a whole lot more sense when you stop to think about it.

Remember last Saturday afternoon? Remember the cold? The East Carolina football staff does. And they began to wonder what it was going to be like at night. If you were out last Saturday night, you might well remember how cold it was.

That's the reason the game time was changed. It wasn't to conserve energy. It was to keep the fans from freezing.

Agreed that it upset a lot of plans. But would you really go out to see East Carolina play a game with very little fan interest if the temperature was in the 30s or 40s?

In all probability there will be officials from the Tangerine Bowl and possibly the Peach Bowl at the game. The Tangerine Bowl officials have already stated that the biggest factor in the game is attendance. I'm sure that East Carolina officials are going to point out to them the big crowds at the State, Carolina, William & Mary and Richmond games. That will help, but a crowd of 13,000 or more will do a lot more talking.

So please come.

Lloyd Jordan is retiring December 31 as the Commissioner of the Southern Conference. And he really doesn't want to.

This year, just after the basketball tournament, the president of the conference, Dr. Francis W. Bonner of Furman, announced that Jordan would "retire" at the end of the year. Jordan didn't like that one bit. He likes being commissioner and was very bitter about his forced leaving of office. And he has constantly brought it to the attention of the press that he is "still the commissioner," and has been "left in the dark" by the officials of the conference on practically everything that is happening.

Well, the Commissioner got his revenge yesterday.

He flatly stated that Richmond's Aron Stewart broke the rules of the conference last year by playing in a post-season charity game in the Tidewater area of Virginia without the written permission of his faculty chairman. The rule calls for ineligibility.

Jordan acted. He suspended Stewart for three games, two of them non-conference, at the start of the season.

Then, he practically threw a blackmail message at the rest of the conference, daring them to dispute his ruling. (The conference could, by appeal, take the case to the executive committee of the conference, made up of faculty chairmen of each school, which could overrule Jordan.)

He threatened to air the conference's dirty laundry if such a thing came to pass. "The hand that points the finger had better be clean," Jordan warned.

He also threatened to turn over all material concerning Stewart to the press if the matter comes up before the committee.

Just who does he think he's fooling? Is it just because the conference office is in Richmond that that school gets away with a slap on the wrist when a similar situation at The Citadel last year ended up with immediate and full suspension?

Jordan has challenged the conference in his final days at the helm. And the conference is hereby challenged to accept that: to take the case to the executive committee and find out just what the heck is going on—blackmail or no blackmail.

Russell Has Unhappy Return To Old City

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Bill Russell returned to Boston and it was an emotional experience — only the emotion was frustration, not joy.

The longtime Celtic star, now the coach of the Seattle SuperSonics, wasn't sentimental — only professional — after losing a 110-104 National Basketball Association decision to Boston Wednesday night.

"I didn't have any funny feeling coming back to Boston," said Russell about facing his former team. "I didn't find myself identifying with the team in green.

"When you're 5-13, you don't have time to think about anything except how to turn the team around."

In the other NBA games Wednesday night, the Portland Trail Blazers tripped the Detroit Pistons 111-108 and the Kansas City-Omaha Kings downed the Houston Rockets 118-116 in overtime.

Boston's sluggish offense was revived by the rebounding of Paul Silas and Dave Cowens as the Celtics erased an 83-80 deficit with a 14-2 spurt in the fourth quarter.

Silas and Cowens cleared the boards and Silas and John Havlicek scored the points—four each—in the stretch that powered Boston into a 94-85 lead in four minutes.

Jo Jo White had 28 points and Havlicek flipped in 24 as the Celtics won their seventh straight game. Spencer Haywood's 22 points led Seattle as the SuperSonics lost their fourth straight.

"We lost to a very good team," said Russell. "We lost our poise in the fourth period and I should have called time out when they were running off all those points."

Trail Blazers 111, Pistons 108

Clutch shooting by Jeff Petrie in the final three minutes helped Portland beat Detroit 111-108. Petrie connected for Portland's final four baskets, including the winning shot with 38 seconds remaining.

Petrie's marksmanship shut the door on the Pistons, who had rallied from an 11-point deficit behind Bob Lanier. The Piston center scored 41 points, 20 in the last period.

Kings 118, Rockets 116

Jimmy Walker scored 31 points, four in overtime, to lead Kansas City-Omaha to a 118-116 decision over Houston. The Rockets' Don Smith missed two free throws with 29 seconds left, but made the penalty shot to tie the score at 106 and send the game into overtime.

In the American Basketball Association, it was Virginia 113, Memphis 108; Carolina 107, Kentucky 102; Indiana 84, San Antonio 83 and Utah 129, San Diego 119.

Gervin Is Key To Win

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

George Gervin has found his confidence but his coach is still looking.

Gervin scored 39 points in leading Virginia to a 113-108 American Basketball Association victory over Memphis Wednesday night.

"It was my best shooting night ever," said Gervin. "I have a lot more confidence in my game now."

Virginia Coach Al Bianchi, who watched his club hit 60 per cent from the field but still need Larry Miller's crucial four foul shots in the last 80 seconds to beat the Tams, felt the Squires played well.

Elsewhere in the ABA, Carolina downed Kentucky 107-102 and Utah beat San Diego 129119.

"Earlier in the season, I was hesitating before I would take a shot or make a pass," said Gervin, who hit 16 of his 21 shots. "That hesitation usually made me make a mistake, but now I'm reacting a lot better and playing my natural game."

Stars 129, Q's 119

Utah reserves Roy Ebron and Glen Combs combined for 40 points in helping the Stars defeat San Diego 129-119.

Ebron, a rookie from Southwestern Louisiana, scored 21 points in just 15 minutes of playing time, and Combs hit 19, including 3 three-point field goals.

Cougars 107, Colonels 102

Carolina's Billy Cunningham scored 23 points and the Cougars scored eight of the game's final 10 points to beat the Colonels 107-102.

The victory pushed Carolina's record against the Colonels this season to 3-1 and moved the Cougars to within one-half game of the Eastern Division-leading Colonels. Kentucky's record against the rest of the league is 11-0.

In the National Basketball Association it was: Boston 110, Seattle 104; Portland 111, Detroit 108; Kansas City-Omaha 118, Houston 116 in overtime.

Frank Howard To Get Honor From Clemson

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Frank Howard, who has devoted more than 40 years to Clemson football, will be honored during halftime ceremonies of the game with Maryland Saturday as a charter member of the Clemson Athletic Hall of Fame.

When he retired as head coach in 1969, his 30 years was the longest in the nation. He also had been Clemson's athletic director from 1940 until 1971.

Howard, who will be 65 next March 25th, will retire in June as the assistant to the vice president for student affairs.

Howard came to Clemson as Jess Neely's line coach 1931. He was line coach for nine years. When Neely went to Rice after the 1940 Cotton Bowl victory over Boston College, Howard was named head coach--after seconding his own nomination.

During his 30 years, teams coached by the Baron of Barlow Bend--for his native town in Alabama--won 165 games, lost 118 and tied 12. His teams went to six bowl games, winning the 1949 Gator, the 1951 Orange and the 1959 Bluebonnet, and losing the 1951 Gator, the 1957 Orange and the 1959 Sugar.

Howard was one of the stars of Alabama's 1931 Rose Bowl team which defeated Washington State 24-0.

Howard was named Southern Conference coach of the year in 1948, and his teams won conference titles in 1940 and 1948. He was Atlantic Coast Conference coach of the year in 1958 and 1966. His teams have won five ACC championships, more than any other school. Clemson won in 1956, 1958, 1959, 1966 and 1967, and tied with North Carolina State in 1965.

He will be one of the six charter members to be inducted Saturday. The others are Billy O'Dell, Fred Cone, W.A. "Shorty" Schilletter, Banks McFadden and Joe Blalock.

Maryland has not won at Clemson since 1965, when it got by 6-0. It will be the final ACC game of the season for both teams, and the winner will clinch second place in the league. Each is 4-1 in the conference now. In all games, Maryland is 6-3 and Clemson 5-4.

Other games for ACC teams on Saturday will be North Carolina State at Duke, Wake Forest at North Carolina, and Virginia finishing its season at West Virginia.

The regular season will end the following Saturday with Clemson at South Carolina, North Carolina at Duke, Maryland home to Tulane, and Wake Forest at North Carolina.

Comes Home To Bring Victory

By FRED ROTHENBERG
Associated Press Sports Writer

Andre Savard, drafted by the Bruins in the National Hockey League's summer draft, returned to his home province Wednesday night and scored a breakaway goal in the third period to help the Bruins beat Montreal 4-3.

"It's a big thrill to come back and score a goal in Montreal," said Savard, who was unhappy about not being drafted by the Canadiens, but now finds himself with a first-place club.

Elsewhere in the NHL, Minnesota stopped Vancouver 6-3; the New York Rangers and Chicago Black Hawks skated to a 4-4 tie; Buffalo tripped Atlanta 3-1; Detroit edged the New York Islanders 4-3; Toronto sank California 4-1 and Philadelphia nipped Los Angeles 5-4.

There were no games scheduled in the World Hockey Association.

Savard's fourth goal of the season snapped a 2-2 tie.

"The goal happened so fast. I just found the puck on my stick and let a wrist shot go."

Veteran Ken Hodge also scored in the final period for the Bruins, who now enjoy a four-point lead over runner-up Buffalo and five points over the third-place Canadiens.

Red Wings 4, Islanders 3

Henry Boucha's goal at 17:35 of the final period gave Detroit a 4-3 come-from-behind victory over the New York Islanders. It was the Red Wings' third consecutive triumph since Alex Delvecchio was named coach a week ago.

"You can't believe team morale compared with what it was earlier in the season," said Boucha.

"Alex has a good frame of mind," said Mickey Redmond, whose second power play goal at 11:29 of the third period boosted the Wings into a 3-3 tie. "He just lets us go out and play. The game is fun and I think that's the way it should be."

Sabres 3, Flames 1

Larry Carriere, Mike Robitaille and Don Luce each scored goals to lead Buffalo past Atlanta 3-1 and snap the Flames' seven-game unbeaten streak.

Rangers 4, Black Hawks 4

Sheldon Kannegiesser scored from 50 feet out with just 2:47 seconds left to play, lifting the New York Rangers into a 4-4 tie with Chicago.

North Stars 6, Canucks 3

Bill Goldsworthy and Danny Grant scored two goals apiece and defenseman Barry Gibbs collected five points, leading Minnesota to a 6-3 victory over Vancouver.

Leafs 4, Seals 1

Toronto's Paul Henderson scored two goals in leading the Maple Leafs into a tie for third place in the NHL's East Division with a 4-1 victory over the California Golden Seals.

Flyers 5, Kings 4

Kissinger Tells Japan Of Hopes For Oil Solution

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told Japan's leaders today that as political and military differences in the Middle East are settled, he hopes the oil problem will be resolved, a State Department spokesman said.

Robert J. McCloskey said the oil situation occupied a good measure of Kissinger's conversations with Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka and his ministers, but he would not go into detail.

Tanaka told the visiting American that Japan faces its most critical economic situation since World War II because of the Arab oil squeeze.

Tanaka also gave Kissinger a preview of the steps the world's No. 1 importer of oil will take to cope with an estimated 20 per cent cutback in its imports of crude oil next month.

The prime minister emphasized that Japan will forge its Middle East policy independently and that any changes in it will take place without prior consultation with the United States. He made clear that he was asking for advice and information as a friend and major business partner.

The question is what the United States can do to ease Japan's burden other than to point out that Kissinger has prodded the Arabs and Israel toward negotiations that could lead to a Middle East settlement.

Some American businessmen in Japan expect Tanaka's government to switch from its neutral position toward favoring the Arabs, perhaps by breaking relations with Israel. However, the government has repeatedly said it would not take so drastic a step.

With only a little coal and virtually no domestic oil, natural gas or uranium production, Japan depends on foreign sources for 85 per cent of its total energy supply, and more than 80 per cent of its oil has been coming from the Middle East.

The National Federation of Oil Dealers has decided to close the nation's 43,000 gas stations on Sundays and national holidays. And the stations will be open for less hours on other days.

An overture from Libya, meanwhile, has given rise to hope that it may become a new source of supply for Japan. Ambassador Hassan Bukres asked on Wednesday for Japanese technical cooperation to build steel mills, oil refineries and petrochemical plants in Libya, from whom Japan buys little oil. And Libya has nothing to offer in exchange for Japanese help except its oil.

Besides briefing the Japanese on the Middle East situation, Kissinger is giving them an account of his visit to China and his views on the U.S.-Chinese communique. He is also briefing them on the status of his proposals to rejuvenate the North Atlantic alliance and arrange a close association for Japan with it.

Kissinger goes to Seoul Friday for talks with South Korean officials, then returns to Washington.

Many Citizens Refuse To Believe Energy Warning

By JEFFREY D. ALDERMAN
Associated Press Writer

Many Americans see the energy crisis as a real threat and say they are cutting back their energy usage as President Nixon has asked. Others say they don't believe the crisis is as bad as it's portrayed.

"We turned the thermostat down to 69 after President Nixon made his announcement," says Mrs. Stanley Korosec of Cleveland in a typical reply. "It's uncomfortable, but we dress for it. We wear sweaters and put more blankets on the bed."

A random survey shows the most mentioned methods by individuals for cutting back on energy consumption are: driving at an efficient 50 m.p.h., lowering the thermostat to about 68 degrees and turning off unnecessary lights.

"We're freezing," says Mrs. William Fridley of Seattle. "We used to keep the thermostat at 75 to 78 degrees. It's turned down to below 70."

She says her family has decided against buying a second car and her husband is talking about joining a car pool.

"I refuse to buy any more ridiculous appliances like electric knives and can openers. We've got just too many conveniences."

But there are some doubters, people who question the depth of the crisis or pooh-pooh it altogether.

Howard V. McCann Sr. of Middleton, Pa. says he hasn't done anything special about Nixon's call. He says he has always been pretty conservative about his use of power anyhow. He says cutting the speed to a maximum of 50 on Pennsylvania roads wouldn't bother him.

"But I actually don't see any reason for it," the skilled mechanic says. "About this fuel shortage, I'm not sure whether to believe them or not. I can't see where it's at right now."

New York City real estate consultant Michael Levine blames the whole thing on political favoritism:

"I won't comply with the President's request. It's just a tactic by Nixon's friends in the oil business to justify a 100 per cent rise in gasoline prices. We've had the wheat deal, the milk deal — this will be the gas deal."

But Arthur Wildhagen of Champaign, Ill., is quite sure there's a crisis. "No gas station is giving me glasses or stadium blankets or God know what this fall" to get his business.

Wildhagen plans to cover the insides of all his windows which don't have storm sashes and to seal all windows with calking cord.

Ken Patterson, a San Diego businessman, has tried driving on those famous California freeways at 50 m.p.h. "Let me tell you it's tough, with people yelling at you and blowing their horns.

"I'll keep trying, though."

Mrs. Ikebalur Chowdhury, of Jefferson City, Mo., says maintaining a 50 m.p.h. average is easy.

"We've always done that," she says. "My husband always drives at 50. I think he's counted three people he has passed on the highway in his life."

State Cannon

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina Court of Appeals has awarded three Civil War cannon to the state.

The cannon were raised from the Roanoke River last year by a team of historians and divers. They were apparently abandoned by Confederate soldiers from Fort Branch in 1865.

The appeals court upheld a government contention that the cannon fell under a statute giving it title to any archaeological artifacts underwater for more than ten years.

The group which salvaged the cannon complained that the state had allowed them to spend the time and money to salvage the cannon, then claimed them.

Racial Incident Was 'Made Up'

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — A black woman who told police a gang of black attackers abducted her and her white husband and set him afire made up the story, authorities say.

"All this business about abduction and racial incidents was all fabrication," Broward County Sheriff Edward J. Stack said Tuesday. "The couple isn't married, they were evicted from their apartment, both are unemployed, they have no visible means of support.

"The only thing she told the truth about was that she drove the victim to the hospital."

Bryan Kempler, 33, was beaten and kicked in the head, bound with electrical cord, doused with a flammable liquid and set afire, police said. He was listed in serious condition at a hospital.

Officers Tuesday arrested Johnny Herald, 31, of Fort Lauderdale, on charges of aggravated assault.

Herald told police he was drunk and he and Kempler argued about the quality of repair work the victim had done on two television sets, Stack said.

"He admits he got angry at Kempler, beat him up and tied him with electrical wire," Stack said. "We don't know who set the victim on fire, but we are sure there were several other people in the apartment.

"His girlfriend apparently stood by and watched it all happen," he said.

Stack said Kempler's girlfriend, Jeraldine Barfield, 26, told police a gang of 11 black attackers abducted her and her husband Sunday evening at gunpoint in a racial incident and threatened to kill them.

Stack said police became suspicious of Miss Barfield's tale when she refused to lead officers to the site of the attack.

Fear Possible Censorship

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Charlotte and Mecklenburg county public librarians, fearing the possibility of book censorship, have voted to oppose the transfer of policymaking from the library board of trustees to the county commissioners.

They will make their objections official at a public hearing today.

President Lydia Spivey said the library staff association feared that groups might attempt to exert political pressure on the elected county officials in the selection of books.

Funds Drive Is Being Conducted By Rescue Unit

GRIFTON—The Grifton Rescue Squad is conducting its annual donation drive for operating funds.

The appeal this year is being conducted through the mail, according to W.W. Mitchell, Rescue Squad captain, in an effort to reach more Grifton citizens.

Mitchell said the squad had made 105 emergency calls this year. The squad, which has trained, volunteer ambulance attendants on call 24 hours a day, is a non-profit organization.

Contributions may be sent to the Grifton Rescue Squad, Inc., P.O. Box 412, Grifton, N.C. 28530.

Sign-Changing By December 1

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina highway officials say they hope to change 5,300 signs to read "speed limit 55" by Dec. 1.

That's the date Gov. Jim Holshouser has set for lowering the legal speed on all state highways from the current levels of 60, 65, and 70 miles per hour.

Deputy Transportation Secretary Jack Hawke said Wednesday that crews would effect the change by pasting overlays of the numeral five on existing signs.

He said the process would begin next week. Signs will be covered with burlap until the changeover date.

The new speed limits cannot be enforced until the signs are changed.

The Worry Clinic

How Dynamic Is Your Boss?

Contrast Walter Morrow with the Chicago editor when they saw the first week's cases of this "Worry Clinic." Then send for the "Employer's Test" and rate your boss. See if he is a "dynamic" executive or a timid "static" type, afraid of his own judgments.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.E., M.D.

CASE Y-570: Walter Morrow was one of the topnotch Scripps-Howard editors of a generation ago.

"Mr. Morrow," said the salesman of Hopkins Syndicate, "we are launching a new column.

"It is called 'The Worry Clinic' and is written by Dr. George W. Crane, North-western University psychologist and pshychiatrist.

"Dr. Crane tries to PREVENT divorce, delinquency and the many other human maladjustments due largely to ignorance.

"So why not test it in your Akron newspaper?"

Dynamic Editors

"Let me read a week's releases," Walter replied.

Fifteen minutes later, he pounded the desk top and exclaimed:

"This is exactly what I have been wanting for a long time.

"It brings psychology down out of the clouds to the home and school and factory and farm.

"Out Scripps-Howard papers have too long ignored the everyday personal problems of readers.

"So sign me up at once for 'The Worry Clinic.' "

The salesman did so, but made this surprising request:

"Mr. Morrow, since you recognize the reader appeal of this new column, would you care to write an endorsement of it for me to use?"

And do you know what happened?

Mr. Morrow answered with a "Certainly!"

Then he stuck a sheet of paper in his typewriter and wrote a strong testimonial, even before he had run it in his newspaper!

Later he put it into other Scripps-Howard newspapers, as at Columbus, Ohio, Denver, etc.

And his quick judgment was amply vindicated, for "The Worry Clinic" always pulls the most mail and rates FIRST among women readers, if it is run side by side with any other advice column.

But contrast Walter Morrow with the editor of the Chicago DAILY NEWS.

When he saw the same original daily cases, he said:

"This is a unique column and has a lot of human interest value.

"But Dr. Crane is too frank, for he criticizes lazy preachers for putting their parishioners to sleep.

"He also attacks professors who lazily coast on tenure.

"And he needles fat, stodgy wives, so I'm afraid of the kickback from readers.

"But if you can sell the column to Milwaukee, St. Louis, Detroit and Indianapolis, then come back to me and I'll sign up, too!"

Which of these two editors illustrates the dynamic executive who knows his stuff and is unafraid?

Which was the man who couldn't trust his own judgment buy had to wait till figuratively the 'seal of public approval' was placed on the merchandise before he'd buy?

William R. Hearst, Sr., was like Walter Morrow, for he knew what had human interest value and didn't wait for outside approval.

Like many other pioneer publishers who really built our great newspaper chains, he actually relished debate.

"Needle the fat, stodgy wives," he urged me, "for then they'll write redhot letters demanding that we drop your column.

"But we'll publish those letters and thus stimulate a violent debate, which will swing pro and con and soon become the best read page of the Hearst newspapers."

Send for my "Tests for Employers," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents and see if your boss is a dynamic executive like Walter Morrow and Mr. Hearst!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Opening lead: Ace of ♣

One of the fascinations of contract bridge is the way the complexion of the hand changes as the play progresses. To illustrate the peculiarities of this game, consider this hand dealt recently during a social game at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Franco Scalamandre.

North's opening bid of two diamonds does not find favor with this department. The hand has five losers and is worth only 21 points, so it is too weak to insist on game. An opening bid of one diamond is sufficient—if partner passes, it is most unlikely that a game has been missed.

However, the resulting contract of six hearts was sound enough. Under normal circumstances, it depends either on a 3-3 spade break or a successful diamond finesse. A glance at the full hand reveals that, with the king of diamonds well situated, the slam should roll home.

That is fine and dandy in theory. In practice, Mrs. Scalamandre, sitting West, opened the ace of clubs and continued with the queen. This gave declarer the possibility of a ruff-and-sluff, and opened up a host of additional lines of play. For instance, declarer could ruff in dummy with the ace, discarding a diamond from his hand, in which case the slam would depend only on trumps breaking no worse than 3-1—a better than 90 per cent chance of success.

Unfortunately for declarer, there was also available a line that offered better than 99 per cent odds of making the slam. That was to ruff low in dummy and discard a diamond from the close hand. After cashing the ace of hearts, declarer could return to his hand with the queen of spades to draw trumps, and could then claim. The line would fail only if one defender was void in spades and had at least two trumps.

Not unnaturally, declarer opted for this latter method of play. Needless to say, it was not a resounding triumph when West ruffed the queen of spades for a one-trick set.

Book Club Is Foster Parent

The Clio Book Club of Greenville is contributing to Foster Parents Plan Inc. for the benefit of Koh Boo Kyung of the Republic of Korea and her family.

KOH BOO KYUNG

Because of the $16-a-month contribution, the family will receive a monthly grant to help buy food and meet other expenses, medical and dental care as needed, guidance and counseling by a trained social worker, household goods and clothing, and opportunities to participate in special training and educational programs.

Boo Kyung lives in the slums of Seoul with her mother, a maid who earns $23 a month; her brother, Il Si, five, and her grandmother. The home is a single room with an attached cooking place. Boo Kyung is a second grader, whose favorite subject is Korean and whose ambition is to be a nurse. Her mother is determined that her children will receive good educations, but she must do it alone, save for the help of PLAN, because her husband, a professional soldier, killed himself several years ago.

All Foster Children must attend school or some training program, and the PLAN assistance often makes it possible for other family members to get training, also. Letters exchanged each month by the child and the foster parents, in this case the Clio Club members are translated by PLAN.

Re-Elected By Research Group

Ussery also, was recognized for his contributing role on the founding committee of the group, and for outstanding service during the past year.

BACK ON JOB

WASHINGTON (AP)—House Ways and Means chairman Wilbur Mills returned to work at his office Tuesday following an operation on his back and said he feels "pretty fine."

USCG Unit Will Be Here

A Coast Guard public information trailer and team will be in Greenville at Pitt Plaza on Saturday from 10 a.m. until 4 p.m. and on Sunday from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m.

Lt. Cmdr. Harry Gard, public information and recruiting coordinator for the Coast Guard Reserve, said that the Coast Guard currently has openings for both part and full time personnel and information on all Guard activities will be available at the mobile unit.

Part time Coast Guard personnel earn over $3.75 per hour and receive a $15,000 life insurance policy, Gard pointed out. He explained that jobs are available for former servicemen of all services. Part timers can retire after 20 years and draw full retirement benefits, he noted.

An occupation specialist will be on hand at the trailer and will be able to explain the different occupations that are available to full time personnel, Gard said.

The public information trailer is a new Coast Guard service, he added.

A SINGING

There will be a singing at the United Church of God Sunday at 2 p.m. featuring the Apostolic Echoes of Elm City.

There will be local singers, also. The public is invited.

ECU Announces Student Admission Policy Change

East Carolina University has announced policy changes on admissions, which officials said will "tend to implement a major recommendation of the Carnegie Commission on Higher Education."

Immediate effect will be the admission of about 200 applicants who had not previously existing requirements.

Dr. Leo Jenkins, chancellor, said the University will open its doors to about 200 promising students, and will provide courses to assist them in removing the deficiencies. Often the deficiency is a poor score on standardized tests, he said.

The Carnegie Commission charged institutions of higher education to "Give aggressive leadership to the achievement of equality of opportunity through higher education—seeking out talent wherever it may be found, providing remedial work to overcome past deficiencies where necessary, caring for the cultural interests of new groups of students. . ."

The Faculty Senate has recommended, and the executive committee of the Board of Trustees has approved, the discontinuance of high school units in a foreign language as a requirement for admission to the University, Dr. Jenkins said.

He empahsized that it is still recommended that high school student take foreign language, and that instruction will not be discontinued in foreign language and it will still be required for the liberal arts degree.

A program whereby "unqualified" students who are highly recommended by their high school guidance counselors might enter, removing deficiencies early is to be expanded, he said. Remedial sections will be offered in history, English, and mathematics, and reading. Introductory classes in the various major areas will be set up, also.

Our plan is to place students admitted on this basis in these special classes, to limit the number of quarter hours that they can attempt during their freshman year and to provide faculty and student assistance to these students until their study habits have been improved and their deficiencies have been removed. They will receive college credit while this process is going on. We hope that the lighter course load of the freshman year can be made up by summer work or slightly heavier course loads in the remaining three years. In this way these students can expect to be graduated on schedule, he said. said.

"I want to emphasize that no stigma will be attached to these students because they do not meet all of our admission requirements. We believe, with the Carnegie Commission, that their problem with the standardized tests is more a result of their deprived environment than their intellectual capacity. Our plan of action is to open up their intellectual capacity through a year of intensive assistance and dedicated teaching.

"We regard these prospective students no as 'high risks' or 'poor risks,' but as 'good risks.' They are like all students; they have the potential to earn a bachelor's degree if that potential is properly nurtured and developed and if they work hard."

"Our Dean of Admissions will be writing to high school counselors about this new program. We hope that they will respond with the same enthusiasm that we have in initiating it," he said.

See Record Employment

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Employment in the Southeast has reached an all-time high of 12,176,500, reports the U. S. Department of Labor.

The department's Bureau of Labor Statistics disclosed Tuesday the regional job total has increased by 456,200 so far in 1973. The increase for September alone was 72,300.

All eight states in the area showed gains in employment during the year but Alabama reported a slight decline between August and September.

Only two of the 32 cities—Huntsville, Ala., and Charleston, S. C.—failed to show increases in employment during the year. Eight cities showed declines in the number of employes between August and September. They were Birmingham, Ala.; Mobile, Ala.; Montgomery, Ala.; Orlando, Fla.; Macon, Ga.; Chattanooga, Tenn.; Knoxville, Tenn.; and Newport News-Hampton, Va.

Twenty-one cities showed increases in employment and three showed no change.

The states included in the report were Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina, Tennessee and Virginia.

The report did not include agricultural jobs.
