

Greenville Tobacco Market Ends Record Season

The Greenville Tobacco Market paid out $50,139,158 during the 1973 auction season, an increase of some $9,052,877 above the 1972 figures, according to J. N. Bryan, sales supervisor.

With the Greenville market holding its final sale of the 1973 season on Thursday, Bryan reported that the $50,139,158 paid for 56,425,086 pounds of leaf this year represented an overall average of $88.86 per hundred pounds.

Bryan said that the season average was an increase of $1.20 per hundred over last year's $87.66.

Total poundage in 1972 amounted to 46,869,306, the sales supervisor noted, while the money paid out totaled $41,086,281. This year's poundage figure reflected an increase of some 9,555,780 pounds over 1972 totals.

Thursday marked the 57th sales day of the season, Bryan said, adding that the figure represents a local record. In addition, the Greenville market opened on the earliest date in Eastern Belt history, July 31, as sales began on a limited basis.

Bryan, who termed the 1973 season "an outstanding and successful year," said that, "We want to thank farmers for selling their tobacco in Greenville this year and we will be looking forward to selling their tobacco in 1974."

The official also suggested that farmers schedule their tobacco with the warehouseman of their choice in Greenville as early as possible for the 1974 marketing season.

"Early scheduling will make the operation of the 1974 selling season as successful as the 1973 marketing year," the supervisor added.

Paul Gatlin, representing Simpson, which was a runner-up; Mrs. Sylvia Wheless, upcoming president of the association; and guest speaker, Dr. J. E. Legates, dean of agriculture at N. C. State University. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

First Place Development Award Earned By Grifton

The town of Grifton was named first place winner in the village and small town category at the 10th annual awards banquet of the Coastal Plain Development Association last night at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

Other recipients in the village and small town category were: Robersonville, second; Greenwood Heights, third; Elm City, and Cofield, fourth.

The town of Simpson received honorable mention in the large rural area category. Other winners in that group were: Saratoga, first; Uniontown-Darden, second; and Old Sparta, third.

Small Rural category winners were: Swift Creek, first; Dunbar, second; and Toisnot, third. Anti-litter and beautification contest winners were: Small Rural—Toisnot, first; Leggett, second; and Lewiston, third; Large rural—Uniontown-Darden, first; Bryantsville, second; and Old Sparta, third; Small town and villages—Greenwood Heights, first; Robersonville, second; and Cofield, third.

The ten-county area competing in the contest included Beaufort, Bertie, Edgecombe, Halifax, Hertford, Martin, Nash, Northampton, Pitt, and Wilson.

Industry appreciation winners included industries located in Wilson, Nash, Bertie, Martin and Edgecombe County. The industries were chosen for their contributions to the improvement of their communities through civic endeavors, economic contributions and promotion of employer relations.

Dr. J. E. Legates, dean of the school of agriculture and life sciences at North Carolina State University, was the keynote speaker.

The 1974 officers of the Coastal Plain Development Association named last night include: Mrs. Sylvia Wheless, Greenville, president; Mrs. Norman Hawkins, Rt. 1, Grimesland, secretary; Tommy Gregory, Halifax, treasurer; J. B. Barnhill, Hobgood, first vice president; Charles Harvey, Rocky Mount, second vice president; and Hilton Carlton, Wilson, past president.

Members of the industrial committee include: William Howell, Rocky Mount; Edward H. Jones, Washington; George Harris, Jackson;

Community Development Committee members are: Mrs. Lucille Drake, Merry Hill; Haywood Harris, Williamston; and Mrs. Murray Edwards, Rt. 4, Tarboro;

Recreation and Travel Committee: Hugh B. Johnson, Wilson; John Jones, Greenville; and Gerald Butler, Halifax;

Agriculture Committee: R. Winslow Bone, Nashville; R.G. Whitley, Como; and Lloyd Tippet, Washington;

Youth committee: Mrs. Douglas Eason, Jackson; Mrs. Gale Church; Mrs. Patsy Bowers, Williamston;

Home Economics Committee: Mrs. R. D. Richards, Rt. 1, Sims. The presentation of awards was made by Mrs. Sylvia Wheless.

Grifton will receive $100 and a commemorative sign for placing first in the event. Sponsored by the Grifton Resources Improvement Program, some 20 community leaders participated in the oral, written and slide presentation which showed improvements made in Grifton during the past year.

Among the accomplishments cited by the Grifton group included the year-round recreation program, the police department, Little League, and the establishment of mini parks in the area.

Skylab Crew Begins Its Marathon Flight

Bd. Of Governors Rejects ECU Med School Amendment

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—The University of North Carolina Board of Governors today approved a $30 million state-wide medical education program, but turned back an effort to authorize a four-year medical school at East Carolina University.

The governors approved the medical education program by a vote of 22-7.

Earlier, the board rejected an amendment offered by board member David J. Whichard II of Greenville that would have authorized a request for $25 million for initial development of a degree-granting school at ECU. Whichard had attempted to substitute the $25 million for a proposed expenditure of $277,000 to upgrade the one-year medical school at ECU.

The program was unveiled Thursday night by UNC President William Friday at an informal session of the board. It won the immediate endorsement of ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins.

The plan is based on recommendations made in September by a panel of out-of-state medical consultants.

The bulk of the money, $29 million, would be used to expand five Area Health Education Centers in North Carolina and establish four new ones, one each at Greenville, Fayetteville, Greensboro and the northwest region of North Carolina.

The centers, a key recommendation of the medical study panel, would provide clinical training centers for interns, residents, third and fourth-year undergraduate medical students and students in related health fields. Other proposed expenditures include $277,000 to strengthen the ECU program, and $90,000 to establish 15 medical scholarships for qualified but financially disadvantaged North Carolinians.

Most of the money for ECU would be for strengthening the program in order to meet accreditation standards.

The program outlined by Friday is in addition to the university's regular 1974-75 budget request which has already been submitted. That request includes $125,000 for strengthening the ECU program.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — Three rookie American astronauts sped into orbit today on the start of man's longest planned space journey, an 84-day "holiday cruise" aboard the Skylab space station.

"This is really great," flight commander Gerald P. Carr told Mission Control as the astronauts and their Apollo ferry ship rocketed into a successful orbit more than 100 miles above the earth. "It's smooth as glass."

During the marathon flight, which will span Thanksgiving, Christmas and New Year's, the spacemen are to conduct extensive studies of the sun, earth and man. They'll also take an unprecedented look at the great comet Kohoutek, a visitor from outer space now streaking toward the sun.

Marine Lt. Col. Carr, 41; Air Force Lt. Col. William R. Pogue, 43, and solar physicist Dr. Edward G. Gibson, 37, began the final Skylab trip on the power of a Saturn 1B rocket that thundered into a clear blue sky right on schedule at 9:01 a.m. EST.

Ten minutes later they were in orbit and immediately began the 17,400-mile-an-hour chase to track down the 85-ton Skylab, which is the size of a five-room house.

The station passed over the Cape Canaveral area several minutes before launch. By the time the astronauts reached orbit, it was over Yugoslavia.

With mission commander Carr at the controls, the Apollo was to be guided through a series of five rocket firings to gradually close the gap. Docking was scheduled for 5:25 p.m.

Pipeline Bill

By W. DALE NELSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon signed today the Alaska pipeline bill, clearing the way for work to start next year on the $4.5 billion project to tap America's richest known oil field.

"About three years late but better late than never," the President said.

Construction of the pipeline, to run 789 miles from the Alaskan Arctic, had been stalled for three years by environmental lawsuits.

The pipeline is to be completed in 1977. The White House said, and is to carry some 600,000 barrels per day initially, increasing eventually to 2 million barrels per day. That amount of oil would represent about 8 1/2 per cent of today's total U.S. petroleum consumption.

Kennedy Boy Will Lose Leg

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 12-year-old son of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., reportedly is suffering from bone cancer and will have to have his right leg amputated, it has been learned.

The son, Edward M. Kennedy Jr., was to be told today of the diagnosis and the necessity of the amputation, it was learned. The Kennedy family declined to confirm the report but was expected to issue a statement later in the day.

The Kennedy boy has been undergoing tests since Tuesday at Georgetown Hospital.

Bone cancer is a relatively rare form of cancer. But it is one of the most common types of cancer in young people 10 to 20 years old and the fourth-ranking cause of death from cancer among boys under age 15.

Like any form of cancer, it can endanger life. But many cases are considered curable through surgery, radiation or radiation combined with drugs.

Egyptian POWs Returned Home In Near-Secrecy

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egypt freed another 28 Israeli prisoners of war and Israel sent 294 Egyptians home this morning on the second day of their prisoner exchange.

Premier Golda Meir tearfully kissed the returning Israelis as air force Phantom jets swooped low over Lod International Airport to welcome them home.

But the Egyptians, like some 450 others who were returned on Thursday, were received in Cairo in conditions of near secrecy as the Egyptian government tried to minimize the fact that Israel captured 8,221 Egyptians and Egypt captured only 238 Israelis in the war last month. Another nine Israelis captured more than three years ago also are being freed.

By noon today, 54 Israelis had been exchanged for nearly 750 Egyptians, a Red Cross official reported.

The exchange is to take about a week and is arranged so that the last Israelis will leave Cairo simultaneously with the departure of the last Egyptians from Israel.

In exchange for Egypt's agreement to the prisoner swap, Israeli troops on Thursday transferred control of the Suez end of the Cairo-Suez highway to the U.N. peace-keeping force.

Traffic authorized by the agreement worked out earlier this week was moving in and out of Suez, the town at the southern end of the Suez Canal, under U.N. supervision today.

But the Israelis retained the right to block traffic not covered by the agreement, and on Thursday they prevented a group of newsmen from Cairo from going to Suez.

The International Red Cross was assembling a convoy in Suez to take wounded troops and civilians from the town to Cairo. Medical authorities in the Egyptian capital said more than 1,400 wounded were jammed into the 300-bed hospital in the town, which had been isolated by the Israelis since Oct. 22.

Informants in Cairo reported that the Israeli breakthrough to the east bank of the Suez Canal during the war had resulted in a shakeup in the Egyptian military command and severe re-bukes to a number of officers.

The sources said one reason for the Israeli success was the lack of a central command along the canal front.

The benefit boosts would be financed by expanding the taxable wage base from $10,800 to $13,200 — meaning that a worker and his employer who each paid a maximum $631 in Social Security taxes this year would be paying $772

$30 Million Outlay On Medical Education Is Termed 'Smokescreen'

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Rocky Mount Mayor John Minges said that a plan scheduled to be presented to the University of North Carolina Board of Governors today, which calls for the expenditure of some $30 million in the field of medical education is "just another case of throwing scraps out to the people and a smoke screen."

Minges, chairman of Citizens For Better Health Care—a "grass roots" organization formed in mid-October to seek improvement of health care in the state—was commenting on a plan outlined by UNC President William Friday at an informal meeting of the Board of Governors Thursday.

Based on recommendations made by a panel of out-of-state medical consultants presented to the Board of Governors in September, the plan outlined by Friday at an informal meeting of the Board of Governors Thursday.

Based on recommendations made by a panel of out-of-state medical consultants presented to the Board of Governors in September, the plan outlined by Friday yesterday calls for the expenditure of some $29 million to expand five Area Health Education Centers and establish four new ones (including one in Greenville); provides for $90,000 to establish 15 medical scholarships for financially disadvantaged North Carolinians; and gives $277,000 to East Carolina University to strengthen its one-year medical school program.

The allocation to ECU includes $50,000 to fund a feasibility study to determine if ECU's present enrollment of 20 students should be increased; whether a second year should be added to the present one-year school; or "some other alternative," according to Friday.

Friday said he and ECU Chancellor Dr. Leo met earlier this week and noted that Jenkins was "personally disappointed" that the proposals do not go further.

According to Minges, "the need in this state of North Carolina is for more doctors. The people of North Carolina deserve and should settle for no less than an additional four-year medical school where additional doctors can be trained."

The citizens committee chairman said, "I am pleased to see the help for the disadvantaged," referring to the proposed $90,000 in scholarship funds, "But," he asked, "how does that provide additional doctors?"

"To provide medical scholarships," he suggested, "does not increase the number of doctors," because it does not provide additional space in medical schools presently operating in the state.

"I hope and pray," Minges noted, "that sooner or later, the leadership of this state, and out educational institutions, become aware of the need of the little people; and that is the ability to see a doctor in time of a medical crisis."

Jenkins, who attended the informal Thursday meeting of the Board of Governors, said today that he expressed his "disappointment" that Friday's proposals did not establish a time schedule for developing a four-year degree-granting program at ECU, but added that he did endorse the proposals.

"East Carolina University fits in perfectly with everything now proposed," the chancellor said, "and for that reason I endorsed it." But, Jenkins noted, he told the Board of Governors, "good medical care should not depend on geography as it presently

House Quickly Approves Social Security Hike

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House, rushing to its Thanksgiving recess, consumed just one minute registering enough votes to pass a Social Security bill to help aged beneficiaries deal with the rising cost of living.

After the full 15 minutes allowed for the electronic tally Thursday, the total was 391 to 20 as the House approved the bill giving $2.4 billion more to the 30 million Social Security recipients next year in a twostep, 11 per cent benefit increase.

What little controversy that developed centered on an issue involving federal vs. state funds for a new welfare program for several million old, blind and crippled people.

The House voted, 246 to 163, against a so-called "hold harmless" provision. It would have meant $175 million in federal money to some big states — mainly New York, California, Massachusetts, Wisconsin, Michigan and New Jersey — that would provide supplemental benefits under the new welfare system.

Passage of the bill sent it to the Senate, where the Finance Committee already has agreed in principle to similar terms. The chief difference involves an earlier starting time for the first step in the Senate version.

The House-passed version calls for benefit boosts of 7 per cent beginning with next April's checks, followed by another 4 per cent increase starting in July's checks. Thereafter, cost-of-living raises in benefits would come automatically each June instead of in January, as they do under the current law.

The benefit boosts would be financed by expanding the taxable wage base from $10,800 to $13,200 — meaning that a worker and his employer who each paid a maximum $631 in Social Security taxes this year would be paying $772 next year, a 22 per cent increase.

The benefit increase would mean the average old-age, single recipient who currently gets $167 a month would receive $178 in April and $186 in July, while an aged couple's amount would rise from the present $277 to $296 in April and $310 in July.

The legislation would replace a 5.9-per-cent benefit hike, approved last July and due to take effect from June through December next year.

The new measure also would speed and boost monthly welfare payments to the elderly poor, the blind and the disabled next year.

Kissinger Says Detente Has A U.S. Priority

CAIRO (AP) — U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger told Egypt's most influential newspaper editor that the United States will not allow the Middle East crisis to threaten Soviet-American detente, the editor reported today.

However, Kissinger added: "But at the same time we cannot allow the area to fall into the hands of the second superpower," Mohammed Hassan Heikal wrote in his weekly column today in the semi-official newspaper Al Ahram.

Heikal said that he met for two and a half hours with Kissinger at the American's invitation during his visit to Cairo last week. Heikal said the secretary of state has no complete plan for solving the Arab-Israeli conflict, nor can the Arabs trust the efforts of one man in America.

However, "Kissinger is serious and sincere in trying to find a solution," Heikal wrote.

He said Kissinger told him he was not a negotiator or mediator between the Arabs and the Israelis but was representing U.S. concern and interests in the area.

Heikal reported that Kissinger told him:

"Despite our special relations with Israel, this does not prevent us from improving relations with the Arabs.

"My problem is that I do not have many factors of the crisis in my hand — and I hate failure. As a result, I find myself tackling the problem only relying on my personal reputation."

Heikal said the secretary of state stressed the need for patience and a realistic Arab view that does not expect a settlement around the first corner.

Watergate Radicalized

BUFFALO, (AP) — NBC-TV News anchorman John Chancellor said Thursday that "the evasion and credibility level" of the Nixon administration has radicalized some veteran White House reporters.

In a panel discussion on Watergate with fellow journalists here, Chancellor said some of the Washington reporters have become so "wounded and radicalized by the evasion and credibility level of the administration that their nerves have been stretched to a fine point."

Nearly 700 delegates are attending the 64th annual convention of Sigma Delta Chi which concludes Saturday.

"When we come to a conclusion of Watergate," Chancellor said, "I think those guys should be transferred because it has affected their personal lives."

He said he was worried that one of the results of Watergate may be "that the American people may drift from skepticism, which is a good thing, into cynicism, which is bad."

Panelist James Doyle, former public affairs staffer in the office of former Watergate special prosecutor Archibald Cox, said reporters are more "shell-shocked" by Watergate than radicalized.

Ingram Will Speak Here

N. C. Commissioner of Insurance John Ingram will speak at a luncheon meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Greenville-University City Monday.

JOHN INGRAM

Ingram, a Democrat from Randolph County, was a member of the State House of Representatives before he became commissioner. As the only Democratic representative ever elected from the 27th House District, he introduced bills to end discrimination against auto drivers because of age and to abolish the assigned risk pool, which discriminates against older and younger drivers. Both bills were successful. As insurance commissioner, he is trying to end discrimination in the automobile insurance industry, he said.

Dent Had His Mayors Mixed

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — U.S. Secretary of Commerce Frederick B. Dent got his mayors crossed here Thursday.

When Atlanta Mayor Sam Massell introduced himself to Dent, who was here to address an energy crisis meeting, the secretary beamed, "Congratulations on your victory!"

Massell, who was defeated in the recent mayor's race by Maynard Jackson, had a puzzled look on his face.

"I lost," he told Dent. That ended the conversation.

Appliances Prove Popular Christmas Gifts

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — More than a third of the 820,000 portable electric dishwashers sold in the United States in 1972 were shipped during the last quarter of the year, in expectation of Christmas business.

While a dishwasher may not be everyone's most cherished Christmas present, portable electric kitchen appliances are a consistently popular gift, says the Association of Home Appliance Manufacturers (ANAM). The trade group estimates that about half of all such articles are sold at this season—ranging from 20 per cent of all blenders to more than 50 per cent of corn poppers, coffee urns, electric knives, hot plates, griddles and fondue units.

How much this contributes to the growing energy crisis is hard to determine. A spokesman for the Chicago trade association said fuel for cooking represents only five per cent of the total energy picture. Home heating and lighting, for instance use much more. The spokesman also said it's probably more economical to use small appliances than range-top and oven units for many jobs, unless you cook an entire meal in the oven.

On the other hand, devices such as yogurt makers, electric can openers, ice crushers and popcorn poppers are about as essential to most of us as a third hand. Convenient, yes. Necessary, no.

Yogurt is easily made in Mason jars kept warm in inexpensive, insulated picnic bags, or in vacuum bottles.

An electric can opener is a necessity for someone with hand disabilities, but not for the able-bodied.

Noisy Crushers

Ice trays that make chips or cracked ice in an ordinary refrigerator-freezer unit are widely available at a fraction of the cost of electric crushers, whose chief merit in my book is not so much cost and energy demand as noise pollution.

A pressure cooker with its sealing ring and pressure gauge removed makes an excellent range-top corn popper.

Some electrical gadgets burn less wattage than a standard light bulb but others use 500 or more watts. The cumulative effect of using manual substitutes can help save energy, just as lowered heating thermostats and turned-off light bulbs do.

At the same time, some portable electrical appliances represent economical, useful buys for many households.

A toaster-oven that preheats in two minutes instead of the 10 to 15 minutes required for full-size ovens can roast or bake a casserole for a one or two-member household, make toast, bake or heat small quantities of rolls and cookies.

A blender, like a toaster-oven, is a high-wattage user, but its operating times are so brief that it represents no serious energy drain. In seconds, it can puree cooked vegetables and fruits to make small servings of soup from food that might otherwise be thrown out.

Mrs. Hargrove Gives Program

GRIFTON—Mrs. Inez Hargrove of Oriental was guest speaker at the Monday afternoon meeting of the Grifton Garden Club held at the home of Mrs. H. C. Oglesby.

A national garden club judge, Mrs. Hargrove showed slides and spoke on "Christmas Trees Around The World."

Mrs. H. B. McIver conducted the business session and named Mrs. Dewey Wall and Mrs. Archie Rogers to select a name for person of the year. The club voted to adopt a person for Operation Santa Claus and the annual club Christmas party, when husbands of members are special guests, will be held Dec. 14. Mrs. Wall will be Christmas cookbook chairman.

Mrs. Margaret Mahafeey of Oriental was a special guest. Mrs. F. L. Cox was assisting hostess for the meeting.

Power Of Suggestion Is Indeed Powerful

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 By Chicago Tribune - N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't think I am some kind of nut, but here I go:

Last week I called a friend on the phone who told me she was sick in bed with a miserable cold. She said it started with a sore throat, which developed into a head cold, and she went into all the details, telling me how miserable she felt.

I know this will sound ridiculous, but I no sooner hung up the receiver when my throat started to ache. The next thing I knew, my nose started to run, and the next morning I was down with one of the worst colds I had ever had. I was feeling perfectly fine until I spoke to this friend of mine.

I am better now, but it took five days of medication and plenty of rest to get over it. Is it possible that I got this cold thru the power of suggestion? I've heard of men actually having labor pains when their wives were in labor, and wonder if my cold could have come about thru sympathy to my friend?

DEAR PAN: It's possible. The power of suggestion can be mighty powerful.

DEAR ABBY: I play cards with a woman who is always bragging about her children. Several times lately she has said that her 21-year-old daughter, who is a junior at the University of Iowa, is the only virgin in her sorority. I think this is a terrible reflection on the rest of the girls in the sorority.

I am just dying to put this woman in her place. If she says it again, what should I say? ANOTHER MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Ask her how she can be sure.

Bridesmaids Luncheon Given Miss Jackson

GRIFTON—Mrs. Kenneth Barnes, Cheryl and Kitty Barnes entertained Saturday at a bridesmaids luncheon honoring Miss Gayle Jackson and her attendants.

On arrival Miss Jackson, her mother, Mrs. William D. Jackson, and Mrs. Walter Lee Stroud of Ayden, mother of the bridegroom-elect, were presented mum corsages.

The house was decorated with arrangements of pink and white camellias. Luncheon tables were covered with pink lined cloths and centered with bouquets of flowers. Guests' places were marked with miniature rice bags.

Miss Jackson remembered her attendants with novelty jewelry boxes.

Bazaar To Be Held Saturday By CWF

The Christian Women's Fellowship, of Hooker Memorial Christian Church, is preparing for a bazaar to be held Saturday.

Homemade crafts will be featured with a white elephant sale in the educational building of the church beginning at 10 a.m.

Lunch will be served beginning at 11 o'clock and the menu will feature baked ham, green beans, potato salad, pickled beets and rolls. The tickets, priced at $1.50, may be purchased from any CWF members and plates will be boxed to be taken to the ECU Appalachian football game. Luncheon tickets will not be available at the door.

The luncheon and bake sale of homemade items will be held in the fellowship hall of the church, which is located at 1111 Greenville Blvd.

Mrs. Ed Harris and Mrs. Paul Raspberry are serving as co-chairmen of the bazaar. Mrs. Carrie West is luncheon chairman, Mrs. Frank Hill, crafts, and Mrs. Les Turnage, bake sale.

Bride-Elect Entertained

Miss Bonnie Ann Waldrop, November bride-elect, was honored at a miscellaneous shower Sunday afternoon at the home of Miss Ann Askew. Assisting hostess was Mrs. Vance Morris.

The refreshment table in the dining room was decorated with an arrangement of magnolia leaves with candlelight.

Magnetic potholders that cling to the side of a range are a good step-saver.

First Priority Is Productivity

If it's all the same to you, we'll take fuel-rationing.

Why?

Because the most necessary priorities would receive their proper attention. In this case: productivity and health requirements.

To speak plainly, industry and agriculture and business must be served. Convenience and comfort are incidental.

If productivity suffers, it means job layoffs, plant closings, further shortages and zooming prices. Recession fears are not dead; only dormant, and in some circles stirring.

Our economy is already plagued by shortages in a diversity of fields and the forecasts for 1974 strongly indicate more and more of the same.

Productivity is our answer. It means income, employment, markets, adequate supplies of necessities and gadgetries.

Rationing is never popular. There are always those who cheat as well as suspicions and accusation of cheating. But it is the quickest and simplest means of assuring that priority needs are met.

Tar Heels Will Feel 'Crunch'

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — That much talked about energy crisis which appeared so far away and so Washington-oriented has come home to roost.

Tar Heels are beginning to feel the effects. And there's more to come.

Just what does it all mean to the average person?

Already, there are scattered reports across the state of people unable to get heating oil because they don't have a steady record of doing business with a fuel oil dealer.

serious enough that it will probably take a whole series of adjustments to ease the crunch.

Help At Home

How about people at home who run short of heating fuel?

Holshouser said the state's energy experts have the power to allocate fuel oil for critical needs, and have already moved to guarantee the shifting of supplies from shippers to retail dealers guaranteed for home use.

If any Tar Heel residents have a problem getting fuel oil, he said, they should contact state officials: Either the governor's ombudsman Fred Gallagher or Fowler Martin in the energy office located in the Office of Civil Preparedness will handle the complaint.

The governor said similar measures will be taken to insure fuel for industrial operations so that jobs can be secure. "I pledge the full resources of state government to doing whatever we can to keep the homes of our citizens warm and their places of employment open and operating this winter," he said.

He said cooperation and personal sacrifice will be the order of the day. "We are talking about the real prospect of people in North Carolina being put out of work. If our plants are to stay open, we all must do our part to conserve energy."

In weeks ahead, you will see state vehicles traveling slowly down the highways at 50 miles an hour. Effective Dec. 1, you will be driving no faster than 55 miles an hour. Just posting the new speed limits is a job of no little consequence. That's why it will not take effect until Dec. 1.

The governor said he originally planned for the new speed limit to take effect November 21, but highway people begged for extra time to make special speed limit overlays and get them posted on all highways.

Cost Of Change

The cost, incidentally, will be an estimated $35,000 for changing the speed limits, that includes administrative costs, labor, sign posting.

Also, the said state officials will curtail use of two state-owned helicopters. They are used about 80 per cent of the time in law enforcement work. They have been used of late by Corrections Secretary David Jones to deliver letters of notification to people fired from some state jobs, and by Secretary Bruce Lentz of the Department of Transportation to go to a political rally in Rocky Mount.

"I have informed members of the cabinet that they should restrict use of helicopters," Holshouser said, and added that he doesn't consider those specific uses mentioned legitimate.

It also should mean that family needs are allocated on a reasonably equitable basis.

Self-discipline in curtailing the consumption of gasoline and other energy fuels is another way of coping with the nation's problem. But this is also loophole-ridden; inviting personal exceptions and widely varying standards of self-denial.

For a number of years to come we are going to have to get along on something like 30 per cent less energy fuels than we had available last year. It can be done; no question of that. And it must be done; the alternative is worse.

Should Washington not give the highest priority to keeping the wheels of productivity turning this could well be the longest, coldest winter we've known since the days of Herbert Hoover.

A Better Method Of Financing Campaigns

If anything comes out of our political troubles at present, it should be a better method of financing political campaigns.

A news report says the chairman of Ashland Oil Co. admitting making an illegal cash contribution to Nixon's campaign, testified that campaign fund raising "borders on extortion."

That sounds just about right, and it is time we changed it.

Moscow's Big Baghdad Stake

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
BAGHDAD—Bitter recriminations within the Iraq government over Soviet complicity in the Arab-Israeli cease-fire produced an astonishing series of veiled editorial attacks on the Ba'ath government in the Moscow-dominated Communist party press here.

The dispute is important for one reason—as evidence that Moscow, despite vast investment in arms development and influence here, is trying to rope in a wild stallion beyond its control. Yet Iraq is central to long-range Soviet ambitions in Central Asia.

With perhaps a mere thousand active members in the Communist party, the party operates, both above and below ground, as a legal party, with a daily organ that reaches an estimated 40,000 or so regular Iraqi readers. Stung by the anti-Soviet impact of the government attack on the ceasefire, the party organ struck back in several editorials.

The Communist newspaper began with the surprising admission that the Israeli invasion of the west bank of the Suez Canal "threatened the supply line of the (Egyptian) Third Army," compelling President Anwar Sadat to make "persistent requests that Moscow act to guarantee the cessation of Israeli aggression." It next challenged the claim of the Ba'ath government here that Arab "masses" will never accept the ceasefire, by maintaining to the contrary, that a truce is "in harmony with the aims and aspiration of the people."

Considering Washington's eager propensity neatly, and often incorrectly, to pigeonhole such countries as Greece (ostensibly a gallant ally) and Iraq (ostensibly a

To the editor:

An open letter to East Carolina University Football Fans: We're number one! Let there be no mistake! The 21,000-plus fans at Ficklen Stadium Saturday afternoon saw what we would like for more people to see, one whale of a football team in action. Explosive offense, tenacious defense (with special congratulations to Danny Kepley 42, College Lineman of the week), and fine specialty teams, it was all there.

Saturday afternoon will be our last chance to see the 1973 edition of Pirate football in action in Ficklen Stadium. BUT, may we remind you, some post season bowl bids are still floating around unclaimed. We want one! So, let everyone who cares a whit about ECU football keep that fact in mind and turn out for another Pirate victory Saturday afternoon. One reason, it is said, for our not receiving a bid last year was our poor attendance record. If our drawing power can be doubted after this season, we have to wonder why. Nevertheless, let's get out Saturday afternoon and prove to any doubters that we love our Pirates and will follow them to Orlando, Atlanta or where ever we have to follow to see them make it 10-2 for the year. Let's give all the others the chance to see what we have been following all year.

Pirates, we love you.

Strength For Today

REFUSING DEFEAT

About one hundred and thirty years ago a boy named Arthur Kavanagh was born in Ireland without legs. Assisted by intelligent and determined parents, this youngster set about resolutely to overcome his handicap. He lived to be sixty-eight years of age, and with artificial legs not only learned to walk but to ride horseback. Toward the end of his life he was a member of Parliament for fourteen years. At the time of his death a London newspaper referred to him as "one of the most extraordinary men who ever lived."

What was the cause of his triumph over handicap? Courage, hope, and a considerable religious faith. He found his soul in his life-long campaign of achievement. He had to confront certain unpleasant facts, but what he refused to accept was their implication of defeat. He knew that he could not do away with his handicap, but he could overcome it. So he substituted brains and determination for legs.

The New Bundling Plan

WASHINGTON—Everyone is coming up with new methods of helping during the energy crisis. Some ideas are nutty, but others are very practical and should be called to the attention of the government.

Professor Heinrich Applebaum has been studying new methods of sharing heat, and has just written a paper titled "Bundling and the Energy Crisis" which he presented to the Society of Thermostat Inspectors.

Applebaum told me after giving his report, "The place where we waste the most heat in our homes is in bed. America can no longer afford the luxury of having one person sleep in bed all by himself. If we can persuade people to voluntarily share their beds, we could turn down the thermostats in our homes seven degrees."

"Would these people have to be married?" I asked.

"In normal times I would say yes. But this is the biggest emergency our country has ever faced and I think people should be given waivers if they aren't married, at least until the crisis is over."

"Then you consider bed-pooling as a major solution to the heating shortage?"

"Absolutely. We must make Americans feel unpatriotic if they go to bed alone. We must instill a new spirit of bundling in this country."

"It sounds great on paper," I said, "but suppose people refuse to share their beds with others?"

Applebaum pursed his lips. "Then the government will have to step in and take forceful measures. These could include putting a surtax on citizens who insist on sleeping alone. This tax would be so high it would be very unprofitable to refuse to bundle with somebody else. We could also give tax deductions to those who are willing to pool their beds. For example, if Bob and Carol and Ted and Alice were willing to bundle together, they would get 10 per cent off on their income taxes."

"What about people who have to sleep alone, such as policemen, doctors and newspaper reporters?"

"They would have a special sticker put on their beds exempting them from the bundling laws. This sticker would be given only to people who prove their work is so essential they cannot bundle up with anybody."

"How do you think the American people will take to forced bundling?"

"I think the American people will be willing to share their beds with others once Nixon explains it to them. Body heat is still the greatest resource this country has, and we can get through the winter providing everyone—and I mean everyone—cooperates with each other."

"Suppose you have a large empty bed and no one to bundle with? What do you do then?"

"We hope to set up bed-pooling information centers all over the country. All you would have to do is call a

Crisis Chills Stocks

By JOSH FITZHUGH
AP Business Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Wall Street is feeling a chill from the uncertainties surrounding the nation's energy supplies.

The surfacing of the nation's immediate energy worries with in the past three weeks has been accompanied by one of the sharpest drops in stock market prices in recent memory. Since Oct. 29, the paper value of all stocks held has dropped an estimated $100 billion, based on declines in the popular market indexes of between 9 and 12 per cent.

"I've seen no times that quite compare with this," said Lucien Hooper, a market analyst with W. E. Hutton & Co. who has spent 54 years on Wall Street.

Investment counselors almost unanimously attribute the sell-off to energy uncertainties. They say investors are frightened by the suggestion that a lack of energy supplies might deal a severe blow to economic activity and growth next year and possibly beyond.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial stocks, probably the best known market average, has fallen more than 110 points, or close to 12 per cent, since Oct. 29. It closed Thursday at 874.55, less than 25 points above the low it reached in August after an eight-month bear market. All but wiped out are the gains scored in an impressive rally in September and October.

Analysts are divided whether the market has yet hit bottom and discounted the worst of all foreseen energy problems. David Wendall of David L. Babson Associates in Boston said he viewed the current situation as a buying opportunity, even though he felt the magnitude of the energy crisis was being un-

Fred Hargett of Onslow County, who has been connected with the Greenville tobacco market for a number of years, entertained tobaccoists, businessmen and several growers at an oyster roast in the Person-Garrett Tobacco Factory last night.

The roast, an annual affair given by Hargett, was marked by speeches by K.W. Cobb, supervisor of sales in the local market, who acted as toastmaster of the affair.

Fire destroyed a barn and stables at the home of L.C. Arthur on the outskirts of Greenville Tuesday at 6 p.m. with an estimated $300 loss.

The loss was said to have been covered by insurance. The origin of the blaze was not determined, but opinion was expressed that a spark from a passing train ignited the wooden structures.

According to Pitt County Health Department officials, there is no "parrot fever" in the area. The disease, carried by birds, was thought to have come into the county with a traveling circus, but reports show that the Empire Shows circus did not go to Farmville as was previously thought.

Wall Street Searches In Vain

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market analysts are as divided as Washington officials on what to do about the energy shortage, and the sinking feeling sets in that maybe there really isn't much that can be done immediately.

While Washington debates the question of higher taxes and prices versus rationing as the better of two dismal choices, Wall Street searches in vain for the positive side of the crisis.

It is naive to assume that stock promoters will ever be stymied about finding short-term purchase recommendations, since their livelihood depends upon them, but they are now straining for choices.

The reason is that the full realization of what an energy shortage means is sweeping the nation like the winter's coldwaves. But while the cold was predictable, a good many Wall Streeters failed to consider the impact of a fuel shortage.

Right up to the present, stock market letters have been filled with the usual year-end promotions for the best prospects for 1974 and tax switch candidates and stocks that look good in a recession and on and on in endless categories.

But where can the stock market go without plentiful energy?

Every household, every job, factory and farm depends upon energy. Rising productivity, which has given the world its current living standard, has been possible by the application of energy. Pull the plug and it all stops.

Indeed, every human body needs energy in the form of food, and it is significant that the Agriculture Department already has acknowledged that a fuel cutback can be expected to reduce the output of some farms.

Lionel D. Edie & Co., the highly regarded economic arm of Merrill Lynch, the brokerage house, concedes that "up until now, we have not expected the energy shortage to have a significant impact on total output in the United States or abroad."

Edie says that it is now attempting to quantify the impact on total production, spending and on various industries, and notes that even before the crisis developed it foresaw almost no economic growth through March.

"Thus it is obvious that it would not take much of a production loss from the oil shutdown to turn these growth rates negative, qualifying the pattern as a recession."

A prolonged shutdown in oil supplies by the Arabs, says Edie, "could mean major recessions in Germany and Japan that could begin by early next year and that could coincide with pronounced weakness here."

Every day that the oil shutdown lasts, says Edie, "the outlook for the next year becomes a bit more negative in terms of economic growth and corporate profits."

The true seriousness of the shortage is partially obscured by the boycott, which leads many people to conclude that the situation is temporary and correctible. But is not, at least for many months.

Informed industry and government officials are talking not of any quick solution but are using words such as decades and lifetime. The problem was coming, boycott or not. It can't be solved by ending the boycott.

Evans-Novak . .

Moscow stooge), the Baghdad-Moscow dispute is worth serious study for its bearing on Moscow's far more important ambitions in Central Asia.

When the Soviet Union first took an interest in Iraq, after the assassination of pro-West Premier Nuri al-Said in 1958, its ever-increasing investment was seen as a hedge against the possible future loss of Moscow's influence in Egypt. But today the Soviet effort here hints at objectives quite different from that and quite beyond the obvious desire to gain a trump card to play in the oil-vital Persian Gulf where Iraq is an ever-larger exporter of oil.

The vast playing field of this more ominous Soviet game stretches from Iraq on the west with its Persian Gulf outlet, balanced economy, ample water and oil-financed industrial development to India on the east.

In between is Afghanistan where a new Soviet-backed regime headed by a radical princeling of the royal family is already raising suspicions in Iran and Pakistan. A Soviet-built all-weather road through Afghanistan to the border of dismembered Pakistan near Quetta threatens western Pakistan where demands for independence by Baluchistani tribes are being fanned by Moscow.

With Iraq as the western anchor, the Soviet game seems clear—first, to use its Asian "zone of peace" to fence in China from access to the Arabian Sea and the Persian Gulf through its ally Pakistan; second, to promote further dismemberment of Pakistan aiming to unhinge western Pakistan and provide Arabian Gulf access to the Soviet Union itself.

It was partly to counter such schemes that Secretary of State Henry Kissinger risked political fury at home to "tilt" toward Pakistan in the 1971 India-Pakistan war. The U.S., Iran, Pakistan, and for the time being China, all have a common interest in opposing the so-called Asian "zone of peace."

Iraq is the western key to Soviet success in this largely hidden intrigue and India the eastern key, just as Iran is the key to American efforts to resist it, with Pakistan a major ally. Thus Iraq, designed by nature as the most independent, unpredictable and potentially richest Middle Eastern state, occupies a critical position not only in the Arab-Israeli struggle but in the unfolding future of Central Asia.

But to take advantage of growing political tensions between Baghdad and Moscow (which Baghdad is at pains to play down), the U.S. first must accomplish Kissinger's mission of ending Israeli occupation of Arab territory. If he can achieve that, Soviet exploitation of Iraq to advance its larger designs will suddenly become far more difficult.

"Without Arab oil we have a potential fuel gap of 25 to 30 per cent next year, and perhaps 50 per cent along the East Coast," Wendall warned.
"I think we should have been more alert to what was going on," said Hooper. "We had been assuming the crisis would not get too serious. Well it's getting very serious. I don't believe the market's overdone its pessimism."

The winter storm is the number one killer among all atmospheric conditions, according to the National Climate Center.

From all over the world people come to visit her at Plymouth Harbor. They speak in many tongues, but their tone of amazement is always the same. How did the Pilgrims do it? How did over 100 men, women and children exist in those cramped quarters and that 67-day voyage across the vast and treacherous Atlantic?
A replica of Mayflower I, this small craft required a feat of seamanship even in these modern times, when she was sailed across the seas to Plymouth. But she is also sturdy and her decks echo with history.
How did the Pilgrims do it? They had an overwhelming goal, great courage and most important of all, tremendous faith. They lived to offer thanksgiving—but as human and frail and frightened as any of us.
A strong faith can be found in your church today. Consider it, won't you?

Connally Disclaims Knowledge Of Deal Over Milk

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Treasury Secretary John B. Connally, the focus of a Senate Watergate committee probe into a controversial milk producers' campaign fund, denies he was aware of any political deal when he recommended that President Nixon increase milk price supports.

The former Texas governor was interrogated by committee lawyers for 2½ hours Thursday evening and told a news conference afterward that dairy industry representatives contacted him about raising price supports in 1971.

His position coincided with theirs, Connally said, but added, "I had no knowledge of political commitments or contributions to the President's re-election campaign." Connally later headed Democrats for Nixon and switched his political affiliation from Democratic to Republican earlier this year.

In December 1971, an attorney for the Associated Milk Producers Inc. (AMPI), wrote Nixon that the Texas-based dairy cooperative was making arrangements to contribute $2 million to the re-election campaign and asked for quick action on cutting imports of ice cream and other dairy products.

The request was granted 15 days later, but three months later, on March 12, 1971, Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin rejected a proposal for a substantial increase in the government support price for milk.

On March 22, the first $10,000 installment of some $427,500 in secret contributions from the dairy industry began flowing into Nixon campaign coffers, and the next day Nixon met with Connally, Hardin, economic adviser George P. Shultz and 16 dairy industry representatives.

On March 25, Hardin reversed his decision and granted a price support increase estimated by the industry to be worth at least $500 million to the nation's dairymen.

Connally said that Jake Jacobsen, an AMPI lawyer, telephoned him prior to the March 12 announcement and asked him to acquaint himself with the subject.

"I told him I knew something about it already, and I agreed that 80 per cent of parity (the Hardin position) was too low," Connally said. The former Cabinet officer added that he conveyed his views to Hardin, Shultz and White House staff members.

Connally did say, however, that Jacobsen told him sometime in 1971 that $10,000 was available for contributions and that Connally was welcome to designate where the funds should go.

"I said I did not want to do so because I was a Democrat in a Republican administration," the former Treasury secretary said.

There have been allegations, apparently from sources associated with AMPI at the time, that Connally received $10,000 or $15,000 for his role in gaining the price support increase. Connally called that charge "a categorical lie.... Anyone that supposes he was present when I received a payment is a categorical liar."

Investigators say they have evidence there was such a sum in a bank safe-deposit box and that Connally may have been offered use of it. But Connally insists he never accepted any such offer, and available evidence tends to support that, the sources said.

However, the same sources said the Texas attorney is now at the center of the committee's milk-fund probe and likely will be called as a witness after public hearings resume on Nov. 27.

Officials from three more corporations that gave illegally to the Nixon campaign testified at the public session Thursday. The witnesses represented Braniff Airways, American Airlines and Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

Testimony during the week indicated that top Nixon fundraisers Herbert W. Kalmbach, Maurice H. Stans and Lee Nunn followed a general pattern in soliciting corporate executives for large contributions.

The executives said they were asked to meet a specific quota, usually $100,000, and to make their contributions before the federal campaign-financing disclosure law went into effect on April 7, 1972.

Alumnae Establish Sorority Chapter

In a closed candlelight ceremony Saturday, the Greenville Alumnae Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority established the Kappa Sigma Chapter on the campus of East Carolina.

This is the first predominately black sorority to be chartered at ECU.

The new chapter was established by Soror Louise Reddick of Roanoke, Va., the regional director of the South Atlantic Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta Sorority. She was assisted by Soror Patti Leary, president of the Greenville Alumnae Chapter and other sorors.

Officers were installed after the charter ceremony. They are Terry Thompson of Elizabeth City, president; Naomi Newton of Marston, vice president; Gloria Williams of Kinston, recording secretary; Debbie Collins of Elizabeth City, corresponding secretary; Carol Caldwell of Whiteville, treasurer; and Linda Ebron of Greenville, custodian.

The new members were honored at a banquet given by the Greenville Alumnae Chapter. The keynote speaker was Soror Reddick. Gifts and messages from other Greek organizations and friends were acknowledged and sorority songs were sung.

Drug Counts Face Youth

Pitt deputies and East Carolina University police arrested a 19-year-old ECU student in his dorm room Thursday night and charged him on two drug counts.

According to Sheriff Ralph Tyson, officers arrested Joe Lynwood Williamson of 226 Aycock Dorm and charged him with possession of marijuana with intent to distribute and possession of cocaine.

Sheriff Tyson said that officers confiscated approximately one pound of marijuana and some $300 worth of cocaine.

Bond for Williamson, who listed a 2210 Wheeler Road, Raleigh address, was set at $5,000 on each charge and a hearing was scheduled in District Court here on Dec. 10.

The sheriff said that while deputies were in the dormitory, someone broke a mirror off the left side of the county car and threw it through the windshield. In addition, deputies discovered a radio antenna broken off the car when they returned. Damages to the vehicle was estimated at $160.

One Injured In Accidents

One person was reported injured and an estimated $1,800 property damage caused in two collisions investigated here yesterday.

Officers reported Mary Perkins Johnson of Route 6, Greenville was injured in an 8:05 a.m. collision on Fifth Street just west of the Holly Street intersection.

Police said an estimated $1,000 resulted to her car when the vehicle collided with a fire hydrant, then struck a tree and a concrete wall.

No charges were made by officers who said an estimated $10 damage resulted to the fire hydrant.

Jeffrey Lynn Hall of 400E Eastbrook Apts. was charged with operating left of center and no operators license following investigation of a 2:25 p.m. collision on Fifth Street just east of the Rotary Avenue intersection.

Officers reported the Hall car collided with a vehicle driven by Keith Zebulon Vance of College Trailer Ct.

Damage was estimated at $100 to the Vance car and $700 to the Hall auto.

Church Bond Sale Is Held

Sales of $300,000 in church bonds for new facilities at Trinity Free Will Baptist Church were completed in less than 48 hours this week.

The bond sales, for the construction of a new sanctuary and educational building at the intersection of Golden Road and the U.S. 264 ByPass, began Monday night and the last bond was sold at 8:07 p.m. Wednesday.

The sales program was set up in the church and directed by Professional Church Bond Services, Tom Lilly, director. More than $160,000 in bonds were sold the first evening of sales.

Rev. Al Davis, pastor of Trinity Free Will Baptist Church, was presented $1,000 in bonds by the Adult Sunday School Classes for his efforts in implementing the program.

The new church, with contemporary styling, will be begun soon and construction is expected to be completed within about a year.

Walter Joyner, the Rev. Clyde Joyner, and David E. Joyner, all of Bridgeport, Conn., and Billy L. Joyner of Milwaukee, Wis.; 28 grandchildren; 11 great grandchildren; five sisters, Mrs. Luvenia Little, Mrs. Lottie Blount, and Mrs. Penny Lang, all of Greenville, Mrs. Carrie Lang of Washington, N.C., and Mrs. Hattie Little of Norfolk, Va.; two brothers, June Lang of Greenville and Willie Lang of Philadelphia, Pa.

The body will be at Hemby Memorial Funeral Chapel in Fountain from 6 p.m. Saturday until one hour of the funeral. Family visitation will be from 7 to 9 p.m. Saturday.

Rogers

ROBERSONVILLE—Mr. Joe Rogers died Wednesday morning in Robersonville Township Hospital.

Funeral services will be conducted Monday at 1 p.m. at Robersonville Baptist Church by the Rev. Henry Brown. Burial will be in the Everetts Cemetery at Averetts.

A Martin County native, he spent most of his life in this community. Surviving him is a granddaughter, Mrs. Marjorie Crandell of Newark, N. J.; eight great grandchildren; and one great grandchild.

The body will be taken from Flanagan and Parker Funeral Home to Apostolic Redeemer Church of Christ in Robersonville Sunday afternoon.

Smokescreen

...North Carolina must put all of its genius together to make a massive attack on our great problem of insufficient, modern medical.

"The expansion of residency centers and Area Health Education Centers will need doctors, and the sooner ECU gets on with the task of training more (doctors) the better off our state will be," Jenkins emphasized.

(The AHEC's—as proposed by the consultants report and recommended for funding by Friday—are designed to provide clinical training facilities for interns, residents, third and fourth-year medical students and students, in related health-care fields. The five centers to be expanded include facilities at Charlotte Memorial Hospital, Wake Memorial Hospital in Raleigh, New Hanover Memorial Hospital in Wilmington, Memorial Mission and St. Joseph's Hospitals in Asheville and a program at hospital in Tarboro, Roanoke Rapids, Wilson and Rocky Mount. New centers would be established in Greenville, Greensboro, Fayetteville and a location in the northwestern part of the state yet to be selected.)

Commenting on the proposals outlined by Friday, Dr. Edwin Monroe, Vice-chancellor for Health Affairs at ECU said, "all this exciting massive expenditure of funds, as far as I can tell, still does not provide any more seats for North Carolina students to go to medical school."

And Monroe emphasized, "I am very disappointed that no time table is presented for the future of the ECU program becoming a degree granting school."

Only two states had more Civil War battles than—Missouri's 1,162.

Will Entertain At The Armory

A local man, Huey Harrison, will be featured in a country music show at the local National Guard Armory Saturday night at 7:30 and 9:30.

He will be on the program with Melba Montgomery of the Grand Old Opry.

Named Officers Of Scouting District

New officers were named Wednesday to serve the Sunrise District for the 1974-75 scouting year.

Named by the nominating committee were: Bernard Haselrig, district chairman with responsibilities for the Boy Scout program; Glen Jetter, commissioner; the Rev. W. B. Moore, vice chairman, Cub Scouting; the Rev. John Taylor, vice chairman Explorers; Walter C. Fields, vice chairman, advancement; and George Joyner, vice chairman, activities.

The new officers will be installed at the district banquet scheduled for early January.

The Scout District has adopted several new principles of operation, it was pointed out. The district committee will now serve for a period of at least two years and the district will operate with chairmen heading the three programs of scouting; Cub Scouts, Boy Scouts, and Explorers.

Under the new plan of operation, the chairman and his committee will be responsible for all phases of a particular program area, including training, organization of new units, advancement, activities, recruiting volunteers, and rechartering of existing units.

N.C. Invokes Burning Ban

RALEIGH (AP)—Outdoor burning has been banned in North Carolina to guard against additional forest fires.

The state Forest Service announced Thursday an indefinite cancellation of all permits for outdoor burning.

This is the fall forest fire season. There have been fires scattered throughout the state in the last week, mostly in the east.

A major fire was burning in Holly Shelter Wildlife Preserve in wooded, swampy country along the coast in Pender County. But the Forest Service said there was no immediate danger to business or residential property. Men and equipment from outside the coast were called in to help. Tom Hegele, a Forest Service fire prevention specialist, said Thursday that the fire probably would burn for several days.

Hours after the fire was extinguished, some of the building's estimated 200 residents remained unaccounted for, officials said.

Found Guilty Of Wiretapping

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Sheriff James R. Taylor of Surry County was given a suspended sentence of 18 months imprisonment after being found guilty Thursday of illegal wiretapping.

Taylor testified he had tapped the telephone of Alene's Beauty Shop in Mount Airy last summer. But he said he had done so with the permission of the owner, Mrs. Alene C. Draughon, in an attempt to catch who had been making obnoxious calls.

Mrs. Draughon, a former secretary in the sheriff's office, denied giving him permission. Taylor said he would decide Monday whether to appeal.

Job Titles

WASHINGTON (AP)—It's official in the U.S. Census Bureau: don't say firemen, say firefighters; and don't say laundresses, say launderers.

They are examples of 52 changes adopted by the bureau's occupational classification system to eliminate sex-stereotyped job titles. The suffix "men" has been dropped from most of the titles and replaced by the "worker" or "operator," the Labor Department said.

"It is not realistic to expect that women will apply for job openings advertised for foremen, salesmen or credit men. Nor will men apply for job vacancies calling for laundresses, maids, or airline stewardesses," commented Carmen R. Mayni, director of the women's bureau.

Rep. Chisholm 'Investigated'

NEW YORK (AP) — The New York Times reported today that Rep. Shirley Chisholm, the first black woman elected to Congress, is the focus of federal investigations into three areas of suspected wrongdoing.

Citing unnamed law enforcement sources, the newspaper said the central investigation concerned possible misuse of a $23,000 surplus from the Brooklynn Democrat's 1972 congressional campaign.

The newspaper, in a dispatch from Washington, did not indicate what the other two areas of investigation were but reported that an administrative agency and not the Justice Department was believed to be involved.

Mrs. Chisholm, who campaigned for the Democratic presidential nomination last year, was quoted by the Times as saying:

"I don't want to talk about it. I expected it. People are fishing for Shirley Chisholm."

Says Voluntary Cutbacks Futile

Award Goes To Reynolda House

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina Utilities Commissioner Hugh A. Wells said today the nation's energy crisis is "so acute that no amount of voluntary reduction of consumption can hope to provide the solution."

Wells told a news conference he wanted to make it clear he favors the conservation of energy. But he said "the measures being suggested by the Nixon Administration to deal with the crisis are superficial and unrealistic."

He proposed in a prepared statement that the federal government "immediately institute by appropriate legislation (1) an Energy Resource Corp., and (2) an Energy Bank."

Named Director Of State GOP

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina Republican chairman Thomas S. Bennett has appointed Grady Franklin the party's executive director.

Franklin, 24, was an aide in Gov. Jim Holshouser's campaign and worked on the now defunct patronage recruiting team.

Bucs Close Out Season Against ASU

Unless a bowl bid comes to East Carolina University, 18 seniors will be playing their final game in an East Carolina football uniform Saturday afternoon.

That's when the Pirates will be playing host to Appalachian State University, with kickoff slated for 1:30 p.m.

The Pirates are hoping, of course, that before another week has passed that they will be invited to participate in the Tangerine Bowl in Orlando, Fla., but they are not forgetting the business at hand.

Appalachian State is not going to be any pushover, despite their 3-6-1 record. In the later part of the season, they have been quite tough, and last Saturday night, they gave South Carolina all the Gamecocks wanted for a long time.

At the half of that game, the two teams were deadlocked 7-7, and it took a tremendous second half effort by South Carolina to gain the victory.

There is also the possibility that the Pirates, after being sky-high for three straight weeks, are due for a letdown, and against a team like Appalachian, it could be fatal.

A loss, of course, would just about kill any bowl changes for the Pirates. A victory, however, especially if it is a big one, could push them into the national rankings next week and just about assure a bid.

Getting that victory might be a problem.

First the Wild Dog defense must stop the offense of the Mountaineers, led by quarterback Phil Cocciolletti. For a while this year, the Mountaineers were unsettled on their field leader, using at times Roscoe Batts of Rocky Mount. But Cocciolletti finally gained the upper hand for the job.

Going into last week's game, Cocciolletti had hit on 53 of 118 passes for 874 yards and four touchdowns. Ten of his passes had been picked off, however, giving Jim Bolding, the Pirate safety man, a chance to break the school record for interceptions.

Bolding has seven, tying the mark held by Bobby Ellis, and his total also has tied for the national lead in interceptions to date.

Bob Steelman has been the leading receiver so far, with 16 catches for 311 yards and one score. Dwight Gates had 15 receptions for 256 yards and two scores. Chuck Hartman had 13 for 245 and Devon Ford of Goldsboro had 12 for 169.

In the running game, fullback Jim Tucker is the leading rusher out of the wishbone formation with 317 yards. Clinton Bradshaw had 296 yards, while Charlie Haugabrook had 203. Three other runners had over 100 yards, Ford, Batts and Randy Merritt, as the Mountaineers have used a lot of players.

On the opposite side of the field, the Pirates will be trying to do well enough to impress the bowl scouts who will be in attendance when they go on offense.

Leading the way is Southern Conference Player of the Year candidate Carl Summerell, who leads the team in total offense with a 143.1 yards a game average. Summerell had hit on 78 of 145 passes for 1,148 yards and nine touchdowns. He has also run for 283 yards and seven more touchdowns.

Summerell's chief targets are Stan Eure (25-440), Vic Wilfore (17-332) and Mike Shea (17-223). Between them, they have caught eight touchdown passes.

On the ground, Carlester Crumpler has moved ahead of Kenny Strayhorn in yardage, and needs only 142 to pass 1,000 again this year. Strayhorn meanwhile had 784 yards, while fullback Don Schink had rushed for 402. Jimmy Howe had 226 as his reserve.

Jim Woody is the leading scorer on the team, having picked up 56 points so far this year. He's set a new school record for PAT's, with 32, and has kicked eight field goals, just one shy of the school record.

A number of Pirate records are within reach. Reggie Pinkney, with two kickoff returns, could tie the school mark of 19. He needs just 46 yards to tie the record of 447 returned. Bolding, of course, has already tied the interception mark with seven and has snapped the yardage mark by eight years already.

In career records, Summerell needs 266 yards to tie the all time yardage mark of 3833; Crumpler needs 13 carries and has already broken the rushing yardage mark; Summerell had tied the pass completion mark of 194, and has snapped the yardage in passing; Summerell also needs three scoring tosses to tie the record of 27; Crumpler has also tied the mark for touchdowns and points with 34 and 204 respectively.

The records, naturally, are secondary — victory is primary.

There are a lot of other things involved too, but Coach Sonny Randle, with his second straight Southern Conference title tucked away, says this one if "for our seniors, first and foremost. The rest is gravy."

He did admit, however, that there is a lot riding on the game.

"We certainly can't afford to take Appalachian State for granted," Randle said, "They have everything to gain by beating us. It would make their season for them."

"They gave South Carolina a real battle for a half. That alone tells us what kind of a football team they have," he added.

The coach said that they run the ball quite well, and they will give the Pirates somewhat of a problem on defense since they run from the wishbone, something the Pirates haven't seen so far this year.

"Cocciolletti is a fine passer, and ASU may be the most improved team in the Southern this year. They have an outstanding defensive lineman in Ron Reynolds (who originally came to East Carolina)."

"We have to get ready. They fly around a lot and they really get after you. And we can't afford to let them upset us now," Randle warned.

For the 18 seniors, there will be plenty of memories brought up as they stop on the field for the last time — the rebuilding of the program as freshmen, their near winning season as sophomores and now two straight Southern Conference titles as juniors and seniors. They'll leave big shoes to be filled.

Still Waiting

East Carolina University's bowl hopes remained muddled today, despite an Associated Press story this morning saying that the Pirates had received the bid.

United Press International said yesterday that East Carolina had been selected to play in the Tangerine Bowl in Orlando, Fla., on December 22, but college officials said they had no word from the bowl except that ECU was one of those in contention.

This morning, the Associated Press reported that a Louisville, Ky., television station announced that Kentucky had turned down a bid to the bowl, and that East Carolina would now receive it.

Again, officials at East Carolina say they have had no word from the bowl committee.

The committee is expected to meet sometime early next week, but may not make its decision until the following Monday, Nov. 26, following the completion of most of the teams' season. According to NCAA rules, no official bid can be given until 6 p.m. Saturday.

For those who might wish to make their desires known to the committee, they may write or telegraph Bob Willis, P. O. Box 5645, Orlando, Fla., 32805, or call him at 305-424-5814.

No Proof Of Dirty Tricks

NEW YORK (AP) — National Football League officials say they have been unable to substantiate any claims that Oakland played "dirty tricks" on the Pittsburgh Steelers during last Sunday's game in Oakland.

The Steelers, who won the game 17-9, complained afterward that the Raiders smeared their uniforms with a greasy substance, under-inflated the ball, and wrote obscenities on one of them. The Steelers also complained that the Oakland Coliseum clock was not operating properly.

"We've completed our look into the situation," Don Weiss, NFL public relations director, said on Thursday.

"Pittsburgh talked about clock problems, apparently involving an Oakland field goal on the last play of the first half. All six officials said there were no problems with the clock," the NFL official said.

"As for the deflated ball, all were checked as prescribed by rule, by the game officials prior to the game," Weiss said.

The leopard was made by a taxidermist. Its coat is a modacrylic textile fiber made by Union Carbide from several basic chemicals. It's called Dynel.

For versatility, Dynel probably has no equal. We can make it as soft and warm as fur. Or almost as tough as steel.

You'll find it in blankets, work clothes, toys, jewelry. In carpets, towels, drapes, paint rollers.

And since Dynel is chemical-resistant, durable and virtually nonflammable, it's used for laminated boat decks. For tents. As overlays for storage tanks and air ducts.

But Dynel is most famous for something else. It's great for making wigs. For blondes and brunettes and redheads.

Remarkable fiber? We think so. But haven't you found that a lot of remarkable things come from Union Carbide?

Come closer. It's only a modacrylic.

Pirates, Rose Panel's Picks

I'm wondering if I waited too late to make my move. Last week's results showed that we have climbed out of the basement — or maybe it was that George Holland came down to join me.

We recorded a 10-2 week last time out and gained ground on everyone.

There is still a deadlock at the top of the heap between Sandra Spivey and John Trotman, who have 89-28 records for the season. Jack Whichard is next with an 87-30 record, followed by Tom Baines at 86-31.

Then come George and I with 84-33 records. Watch out Baines, here I come.

The high school scene is just about over. All of the regular seasons games have ended, and the playoffs are underway.

Friday night, three area high schools are involved in the playoffs.

First, in the 2-A ranks, Robersonville will be meeting Fuquay-Varina at Williamston. The Eagles have sailed through their conference with little or no opposition. But now the going gets tough. Fuquay-Varina has been in the 2-A ranks for a while, and Robersonville hasn't. Maybe the change doesn't mean that much. We're really unsure how this one will go, but we'll pick Fuquay simply on experience, experience in the 2-A ranks that is.

Ayden-Grifton will be playing host to Ahsokie, ranked by some as the top 3-A team in the East. The Chargers had only Southern Wayne as competition this year. They are thin in numbers and that could hurt them too.

However, they seem to get the job done. There is no way we can compare any results, but we'll pick Ayden-Grifton on the basis of their home field.

In the 4-A ranks, Rose travels to Raleigh Enloe tonight in a first round game. The Eagles were crushed last year by Rose with Hunter and Perkins. But this year, it might be a different story. Our poll has taken a look at the game, and they see it this way: Rose to win by a vote of six to two.

Then, Saturday afternoon, the Pirates of East Carolina close out the regular season with Appalachian State University. The Apps have been coming on strong in recent weeks, and the Pirates simply cannot overlook them.

They must win to keep their bowl hopes alive, and they must win big if they are to vault into the Top 20 this week.

Our panel of experts is solid on this one: East Carolina is the unanimous choice.

Paladins Seek To Reap Another Southern Conference Cage Title

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
(One of a series)

Joe Williams, the mustachioed coach of the Furman Paladins, is enjoying life in the foothills of South Carolina. Recently, he and his family bought a farm outside Greenville (S.C.) and spent much of the time during the summer working around it.

And Joe calls himself a country-boy at heart.

But this year, he'd really like to go to town.

Looking at what he has to work with—a fine crop of basketball players, it appears that he has definitely planted the seeds of success in the basketball arena in Greenville. And that, come February and March, he's going to be harvesting a lot of honors.

The biggest honor he hopes to grab off is another Southern Conference basketball championship, his third in four years, and another trip to the NCAA basketball tournament.

If all that comes about, Farmer Williams might be thinking of enlarging that farm to a plantation.

When Williams came to Furman a few years back after a highly successful tenure at Jacksonville, he had some pretty good players, but not the type he wanted for his system of basketball. "But we decided to go ahead with our method of playing so that when we did have the players we wanted, everyone would be ready for it," he said.

This year, as he enters his fourth year, he feels he has what he wants.

Chief among these are two junior standouts who led the Paladins last year. They are 7-1 Fessor Leonard and 6-9 Clyde Mays, two strong players in any league. "They are practicing much better this year. They are working as a team both offensively and defensively. They are learning what the other is going to do and responding to that. And I'd have to say that they have the two post positions pretty well wrapped up."

Under Williams' system, there are two post men, two in the wings and a point man to lead the whole thing. "We've lost some reserve strength inside, but Bud Bierly (6-6) should give us more quickness and speed, and better defense there. He's aggressive and rebounds well."

On the wings, Craig Lynch (6-6) was nearly a starter last year, but he's had trouble with a foot injury and his status is uncertain right now. Michael Hall, a 6-4 junior could take over one of the wing spots. Williams considers him to be a very talented rebounder with good leadership qualities. "He just needs to learn to control the ball better," he added.

The second guard spot on the wings will probably be between Todd Brenizer (6-3) and freshman Bruce Grimm (6-1). Brenizer also has injuries, and Grimm right now is the lead man. "He may be one of the best ball handlers on the club," Williams said. "He can make passes other people can't. He's a good outside shooter."

Backing up the wing position will be senior Gary Clark, 6-5, whom Williams says will see a lot of action.

At the point position, a real battle is going on between 5-10 Baron Hill and 5-10 Ed Kelley. Right now, Hill too is among the injured, moving Kelley into the starting role. "He's a good pressure man and makes the team look good," the coach said. "His responsibility isn't to score a lot of points, but to keep us from losing."

Another who might break into that position is 5-10 junior college transfer Phil Garrett, named "Best Man Under 6-0" in the National Junior College Tournament last year.

"Many of these people will be back next year," Williams said, "so we have things going for us. But the breaks make a good team, and we do have some problems. We have a tough December schedule (Minnesota, Richmond, Davidson, and Niagara all on the road) and we've had trouble playing people that we think we're not supposed to beat. We have to get that out of our minds. Once we do, we'll be on the way."

Farmer Williams, however, had better keep his shotgun handy because a group of Wildcats live just up the road across the state line. Davidson College is picked by most of the experts to give the Paladins the most trouble in the conference race, and a 20-game trip through Australia earlier this fall gives the Wildcats a great advantage over the rest of the league.

Injured Players Playing Big Role In Richmond, Indian Game

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

The status of several injured players may determine whether Richmond's Spiders or William and Mary's Indians wind up in second place in the Southern Conference football race and have their best football seasons in more than 20 years.

Meanwhile, Coach Sonny Randle of East Carolina's two-time league champions says he's not afraid of a letdown by the Pirates just because they've already won the title and have only Appalachian State's Mountaineers with which to contend.

These are two of the three Saturday afternoon conference games on tap on the last weekend of the season for league teams.

Richmond, 4-1 in the league and 7-2 over-all, plays at William and Mary, 3-1 and 6-4. East Carolina, 6-0 and 8-2, is at home against Appalachian State, 2-1 and 3-6-1.

Another afternoon family fuss has The Citadel's Bulldogs, 1-5 and 3-7, at home against Davidson's Wildcats, 0-6 and 1-8. A victory would assure The Citadel of a seventh-place finish, but the Wildcats could get a tie for the last two spots by winning.

Two conference teams wind up with nonleague opponents. Virginia Military's Keydets, 2-8, will be at Virginia Tech, where the Gobblers also have won just twice in 10 starts. Furman's Paladins, who have surprised with a 7-3 season, close out their campaign at Louisville.

The questionable performers in the Richmond-William and Mary scrap include Indian quarterback Bill Deery, hurt in last week's surprise 49-42 loss to Colgate, and Spider running back Barty Smith and linebacker Pat Kelly, injured in the 44-14 rout at East Carolina.

Richmond Coach Frank Jones admits "I'm worried about our football team" as a result of last week's defeat. He says

"William and Mary's too good a football team to worry about the past."

Jones says he knows William and Mary Coach Jim Root "wants it as bad as I do. He's a good coach and he's got a good football team."

But Root is wondering whether he really does, saying "we've had to do some soul-searching since last Saturday because we were about as low as you could get after that loss. I've met with each player individually since last Sunday, and I think we'll be ready for Richmond."

Richmond went 8-3 in 1968, but an 8-2 finish would be the Spiders' best since a 6-1 record in 1943. The last time William and Mary won seven games in a season was in 1951.

The best hope Davidson has of avoiding a last-place finish is passing attack. Quarterback David Harper leads the league in throwing, while the Wildcats have the two top receivers in Walt Walker and Gary Pomeroy.

Coach Bobby Ross of The Citadel says last week's 26-21 upset over Furman "was not a fluke victory. What is finally beginning to happen is that the younger players are gaining experience through exposure and it's begun to pay off."

But Ross says Davidson "has one of the best short-passing games I've ever seen. Despite their record, the Wildcats are aggressive and spirited."

Randle thinks pride and the possibility of a bowl bid will be sufficient incentive for East Carolina to make it 15 victories in a row inside the conference over a three-year period.

"We haven't officially heard from any bowl representatives, but we've proven ourselves time and again," says Randle. "If we don't get an invitation to go South, it will be the greatest injustice ever done to a college football team."

As for a letdown after victories over William and Mary and Richmond, Randle says his seniors "have played as winners two years now. I'm sure they won't have any trouble getting up for Appalachian, because they also want to bow out as winners."

VMI must stop the running of Tech's Phil Rogers, a sophomore who needs only 62 yards to become the Gobblers' first player ever to rush for 1,000 yards in a season, and senior James Barber, who has gained 800 yards on the ground.

"We always look forward to our instate rivalries," says VMI Coach Bob Thalman, whose Keydets have beaten themselves with mistakes in a number of games. "We aren't letting their record fool us. They have some outstanding personnel."

Furman Coach Art Baker will be counting on his freshmen, just as he has all season. Quarterback David Whitehurst ranks sixth in the league in total offense and Larry Robinson has moved into the No. 2 spot in rushing with an average of 83 yards per game.

State To Make Bowl Decision

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Willis Casey, athletic director at North Carolina State, which is line for a football bowl bid, says postseason bowl pairings are often made too early. And undue pressure is placed on bowl officials and on teams under consideration, he adds.

"I can't prove it, but I would say every bowl is in violation of NCAA rules. That's my opinion," he said in an interview.

Casey said bowl officials put pressure on teams to accept a bid on threat of finding another team. He also said teams similarly pressure officials by saying they'll play in another bowl if they do not receive an early bid.

"I don't think a coach should have to think about anything but the upcoming game," Casey said.

The upcoming game for the N.C. State Wolfpack is at Duke Saturday. And Casey said that win or lose an announcement would be made after the game on whether the Wolfpack will play in the Liberty Bowl in Memphis, Tenn., on Dec. 17.

N.C. State, 20th ranked, is 6-3, the losses being to Nebraska and Penn State, both in the top 10, and to Georgia.

There is speculation that Kansas, 6-2-1 and ranked 18th, also will receive a bid to the Liberty Bowl.

N.C. State at Duke will be one of three league games Saturday for Atlantic Coast Conference teams. Maryland will be at Clemson and Wake Forest at North Carolina in the others. In addition, Virginia of the ACC will be at independent West Virginia.

Tom Moore, Clemson assistant coach who scouted the Maryland in the 33-0 victory over Virginia last week, gives this rundown on the Terps, who are 6-3 and in line for a bowl bid:

They are capable of scoring a lot of points from their multiple-I alignment. Coach Jerry Claiborne's squad likes to use a variety of formations, and will employ the man in motion in an effort to coax the defense into a mental error which will lead to a quick touchdown.

Maryland is basically a run-oriented team, but split end Frank Russell and tight end Walter White had a total of 50 catches before the Virginia game.

However, it's a rugged defense that is Maryland's strong suit. Maryland is among the national leaders in total defense, rushing defense and scoring defense.

Tailback Louis Carter with 606 yards is the leading ball carrier for the Terps. The offensive leader for Clemson is quarterback Ken Pengitore, with 527 yards rushing and 1,159 passing. Running back Smiley Sanders has carried for 525 yards.

Maryland and Clemson are tied for second in the ACC at 4-1. The leader is N.C. State, 4-0.

Morris Mason, one of the best known figures in University of North Carolina athletics, will watch his final game from the sidelines of Kenan Stadium when the Tar Heels play the Wake Forest Deacons. Mason has been a fieldhouse custodian since 1927.

A Review 'Key Largo' Has Kept Its Quality

If there was nothing else in this movie again is the opportunity to watch a team of veteran professionals perform under the scrutiny of the camera unrelentingly focusing close in. Bogart, Claire Trevor, Thomas Gomez, Edward G. Robinson, the young Lauren Bacall are called on time and again to convince us with an actor's most essential tool—the human face.

In the confined atmosphere of the interior of a hotel where most of the action takes place, Key Largo bears kinship more to a stage play than to conventional movie format.

In this enforced closeness, the gradual build up of tension parallels the growing force of a hurricane coming in. Irritations take on added significance, gathering momentum until the final explosion of fear is given expression when the ganster's moll screams after he has shot the deputy.

Undeniably, Key Largo is a movie dealing essentially with violence. But—and here the changing movie modes of depicting violence during the passage of a quarter of a century strikes home—brutality is not an end in itself. The camera never lingers lovingly over what has now become the trademarks of many current films on violence. In comparison, such acts in Key Largo are more off-stage than on.

The movie abounds in stories within stories—recollection of a war-time buddy relationship; the love a crippled old man lavishes on a group of Indians; the degradation of a once talented, still beautiful woman who made the human mistake of falling in love with a worthless man; and throughout the film, an interplay of jealousies between henchmen who share a common bond of loyalty for a tough leader.

None of these subordinate themes ever overwhelm the basic story, however, but are implied in small, telling touches. It is the successful orchestration of these diverse ingredients that gives Key Largo its ultimate satisfaction as a movie.

For artistry in camera work, and for all around good acting, Key Largo comes off splendidly.

This is a rare opportunity to see a fine film from past years, and should not be missed.

Roadside Fire Thought Due Tossed Cigarette

A cigarette tossed from a car was the probable cause of a fire along the side of the Stanstonsburg Road yesterday afternoon.

Red Oak Fire Department answered the call at 4:32 p.m. An incinerator set afire a part of the Scott Dixon farm near Hamm's Crossroads at 2:05 p.m. with the Grimesland Fire Department's answering the call.

Because of these and seven other grass and woods fires yesterday, Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner reiterated his warning published yesterday concerning any kind of burning until it rains.

Guild Endorses Impeachment

WASHINGTON (UP)—The International Executive Board of the Newspaper Guild has called for the "immediate initiation of impeachment proceedings" against President Nixon.

The board, in a resolution passed Thursday, said such a move was necessary because Nixon did not seem inclined to resign and his term won't run out for another three years.

Other outdoor fires included a woods fire on Clayton Whitehurst's farm on Rural Road 1510, answered by Bethel; a grass and wood fire on Rural Road 1413 near Edgar Warren's residence, answered by Belvoir and Falkland; a grass fire at Johnny Porter's Auto Parts off the Belvoir Highway, answered by Staton House; a grass fire on the R. F. McLawhorn farm on Old N. C. 11, answered by Winterville; a woods fire near Tim Joyner's residence on Rural Road 1572, answered by Staton House; and a woods fire on the Paramore Farm near McGowan's Crossroads, answered by Black Jack and Simpson.

Grifton answered a call to a bean harvester afire in Lenoir County just before 5 p.m.

Grimesland extinguished a blaze in a mobile home in Grimesland owned by William Lancaster. Joyner said there was extensive damage to the interior but that there was no one there at the time. A neighbor reported the fire.

Arrest Two For Soybean Theft

Two 24-year-old Rt. 2, Ayden men were arrested Thursday by Pitt County deputies on charges stemming from the Wednesday night theft of some 35 bushels of soybeans.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that Ernest Lee Moore and Eddie Louis Gay were charged with the larceny of the soybeans from the James Cannon farm on Rt. 2, Ayden.

Cannon reported that the beans, valued at $185, had been left in a truck parked out in a field on his farm Wednesday night. Sheriff Tyson said that deputies recovered some 35 bushels of soybeans Thursday.

Bond was set at $200 for each man and hearings were scheduled for Nov. 30 in District Court here.

Food Stamp Aid Pushed

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina Department of Human Resources is launching a state-wide search for poor people eligible for federal food programs.

"Find and Feed" is the Division of Social Service's name for the project, which it hopes will double the number of people receiving food assistance by 1975.

A U.S. Senate report earlier this year said that 70 per cent of the eligible people in North Carolina were not involved in food assistance programs.

John Kerr, who is chief of the food assistance program, said Thursday the search for recipients was supposed to have started three months ago, but was delayed by bureaucratic confusion and lack of coordination at local levels.

Presently, 203,000 North Carolinians get food stamps and another 60,000 receive surplus commodity foods. Kerr said he hopes to raise the figures to 500,000 by January, 1975.

"It's going to be a house-to-house, eyeball-to-eyeball campaign. We're going to knock on every door in the poorer sections of town and tell the people about our programs," Kerr said.

Kerr said he has written to county officials, asking them to get interested citizens to participate in the program.

He also plans to include leaflets with welfare checks and advertise the availability of the stamps in grocery stores and on radio and television.

To qualify for food stamps, a family of four must have a net income of less than $473 per month. The food stamp program is being phased in to replace the commodity program in the 31 counties which still have it.

Extra Weight Can Cool Ardor

Lorna's "cheese cake" rating in the boudoir has dropped many points. Why? Fat! Obesity! Ugly blubber! So regain your sylphlike bridal figure. Then you can beat the outside siren at her own game. Especially if you employ the other feminine fetishes below!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE Y-571: Lorna B., aged 36, has a sex problem.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "my husband has grown quite platonic with me the last 6 months.

"I thought maybe he was just working to hard at the office, for he has been under a lot of pressure.

"But I find that he has been stopping at the apartment of a young divorcee who works at his office.

"So his office strain apparently hasn't checked his adoration toward her!

"Could it be that my extra weight is a factor?"

"For I have 3 kiddies and put on about 10 pounds more permanent weight after each baby was born.

"Thus I now weight 154 instead of my original 124.

"But why should extra weight curb a man's ardor so quickly, for my husband is only 37?"

Slender Sirens
Do you wives associate romance with the fat woman of the circus?

Men definitely don't! For men develop many fetishes or psychological "triggers" that set their hearts pounding and arouse their erotic ardor.

You wives better scrapbook this case and keep it handy for daily check-ups, for here are the usual feminine fetishes men worship:

(1) A slender, sylphlike female figure!
You are allowed 10 pounds more than your wedding weight if you were then a normally slender bride.
But beware if you exceed that 10-pound mark.
For a plump (even though jolly) wife subconsciously inhibits the usual husband's adolescent ardor.
For in the teens, a boy links romance with young women, such as his teen-aged coed classmates.
His love for a fat woman is that which he directs toward his mother but not toward a sweetheart!

So Lorna's plump chassis keeps suggesting that she is "Mother"; not "Sweetheart."

And this subconscious bombardment of his brain with the "Mother" image, arouses vaguely the old incest taboo that is present in normal families between children vs. parents.

Vance Packard authored a splendid little book about "The Hidden Persuaders."

Alas, a plump wifely chasis is a major and obvious "Unpersuader" to boudoir romance.

Other fetishes include perfume, soft, silky feminine dress; lace hems and coquetry that includes enough original diffidence to stimulate the male zest for pursuit and conquest.

Wives, please remember that it is her cheesecake in the boudoir; not her roast beef, that a siren employs to win your husbands!

Also, a man may still love his wife, yet patronize an outside siren, for love to the usual male is not synonymous with sex!

He can also satiate his stomach appetite with another woman's cooking, yet still love his wife.

Similarly, he can satisfy one of the varied facets of his erotic hunger with an outside siren, yet still have no love for that paramour!

Wives, regain your slender figure by using my dehydration diet, which will lop off 10 ugly pounds in 10 days.

So send for my diet booklet "How to Lose 10 Pounds in 10 Days," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets).

Deadline Due On Scholarships
NEW YORK (UPI) — Dec. 1 is the deadline for high school seniors making application for ROTC scholarships to college. The scholarships cover full tuition, textbooks, lab fees and provide subsistence allowance of $100 a month for up to 10 months of a school year. About 1,000 of the scholarships are to be awarded to young men and women now in the final year of high school.

For information, write: Army ROTC Scholarships, Department AG, Box 12703, Philadelphia, Pa. 19134. Be sure to include your home address and zip code.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, NOVEMBER 17, 1973

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You have a big opportunity to use the energy now generated to make some long-range plans and a chance to engineer them in such a way that they can put you far ahead of your present position. Be alert at all times.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are tempted to make changes in plans, but this would not be wise. Engage in detailed work connected with it instead.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) The morning can be slow but later you can accomplish a great deal at your favorite activities. Show more devotion to mate. Be happy.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you are careful in motion, you find this can be profitable. Show much hospitality to invited guests. Show that you have poise.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't invest in a worthless venture at this time. Arrange your budget so you know just where you stand now and in the future.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You could be suffering from frustration but this is only negative thinking. Combine good common sense with your intuitive faculties.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Forget a worrisome matter and go out and meet interesting people. Improve your appearance and become a more efficient person.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You must take care of routine duties if you are to expand as you desire. The evening can be a happy time with the one you love.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Provided you take no risks in business matters, the latter part of the day can be very happy in the company of good friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Forget going on a tangent you have in mind. Bringing your talents to the attention of others opens new doors of opportunity.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You may feel like going back on a promise you have made, but it is better for you to carry through or you could get into trouble.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Avoid an associate who can be very annoying. Listen to a new plan with interest which mate has, and go along with it for best results.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Ideal time to join with a partner at whatever improves joint interests and forget dull routines for now. Long talks produce fine results.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be one of those charming young people who may suffer from some health deficiency early in life, but then overcomes it and becomes strong. Direct the education along humanitarian lines such as medicine, research — whatever helps the public. Give finest benefits you can afford.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Tax Short Course Set December 3-4

Registration forms and a program outline are now available from the County Extension Office on the Farm and Small Business Income Tax Short Course scheduled for this area.

The short course, which is sponsored by North Carolina State University, will feature the recent changes in tax laws and regulations.

Edwin L. Yancey, county chairman, said the short course for this area of the state will be held at the Moose Lodge in Greenville, on December 3-4.

A total of four short courses will be held across the state. A fifth short course of a more advanced nature will be held at North Carolina State University in Raleigh on December 10-12.

Yancey said the short course will be primarily for persons who assist other people in filling out both state and federal returns for businesses and individuals.

Instructors are provided by the Department of Economics at NCSU in cooperation with the U. S. Department of Internal Revenue, the N. C. Department of Revenue and the Social Security Administration.

Persons interested in attending the short course are urged to come by the county extension office, 203 W. Third St., Greenville, or to call 758-1196 for an enrollment form.

Church Service To Salute Youth

"Youth in Religion Day" will be observed Sunday at the Holy Trinity United Methodist Church, located on 1400 Red Banks Rd.

The 11:00 a.m. services will be in recognition of the contribution young people make to the cooperative life of the community.

The program will be musical in nature and will feature special musical selections given by the Greenville Outreach Singers, under the direction of Steve Midgett, leader of the group.

The young singers consist of representatives from various churches of Greenville and the surrounding community.

The public is invited to attend.

S. Sgt. Willie M. Smith (above), son of Mrs. Mary E. Wooten of Greenville, participated in an annual field training exercise in northern Greece and northwest Turkey by NATO's Allied Forces Southern Europe. Smith, an aircraft mechanic with the 316th Tactical Airlift Wing at Langley AFB, Va., and other Air Force, Army, Navy, and Marine Corps personnel joined forces with units from Italy, Greece, Turkey and the United Kingdom for "Deep Furrow 73." Smith is a 1959 graduate of C. M. Eppes High School.

Pvt. Pete Davis Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Pete Davis of Rt. 1, Grafton, completed basic training at Ft. Jackson, S. C. During the eight weeks of training, he received instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, combat tactics, military courtesy, military justice, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

Coast Guard Engineman 3.C. Carlton R. Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Willie R. Williams of Rt. 2, Walstonburg, was promoted to his present rank at the U. S. Naval Amphibious Base, Norfolk, Va. A 1970 graduate of Greene Central High School, he joined the Coast Guard in 1970.

Lance Cpl. Carnell Sims, son of Mrs. Dollie M. Sims and husband of Mrs. Lozetta Sims, both of Rt. 2, Snow Hill, participated in a one-month training exercise at Camp Drum, N. Y. The maneuvers included small unit tactics, live fire exercises and use of supporting arms. He is serving with the Third Battalion, Second Marine Regiment at the Marine Corps Base, Camp Lejeune. Sims joined the Marine Corps in February of 1972.

Lance Cpl. Clyde O. Cowey Jr., son of Mrs. Grace M. Cowey of Hamilton, was promoted to his present rank while serving at the Marine Corps Base at Camp Lejeune. A 1970 graduate of Oak City High School, he joined the Marines in April of 1972.

Airman Robert S. Jordan III, husband of the former Emily J. Holiday of Robersonville, participated with NATO's Atlantic fleet in an annual naval exercise in the North Atlantic named "Swift Move." More than 30 ships from seven countries took part in the maneuvers. Jordan, who joined the Navy in 1971, is serving on board the attack carrier USS John F. Kennedy.

Seaman Appren. Bobby W. Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Green Jr. of Rt. 1, Grimesland, returned to his homeport at Norfolk, Va., aboard the destroyer USS Vogelgesang. During the seven-week deployment, he visited Cuba, Puerto Rico and Florida, and participated in naval gunfire support qualification exercises in the Caribbean.

Pvt. James C. Moore, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jasper Tyson of Greenville, completed nine weeks of advanced individual training at the Army Infantry Training Center, Ft. Polk, La. He received general training as a light weapons infantryman and as a mortar and recoilless rifle crewman, in addition to specialized weapons instruction.

Three Senior Bunnies Must Leave The Hutch

By JOHN BARBOUR Associated Press Writer NEW YORK (AP) — When is a Playboy bunny not a Playboy bunny? When she no longer looks like the girl next door, says the New York Playboy Club.

So it is that bunnies Patti Columbo, Carmelita Atwell and Nancy Phillips turn in their cot-ontails within a week, wondering "who the devil is that girl next door?"

They were fired by the New York Playboy Club supposedly for losing the fresh look they had when they came.

Maybe Carmelita, a sultry 28, expressed it best when she said the Playboy "Mother" told her she was going into womanhood and would have to leave the hutch.

"Hell, I became a woman when I turned 18 and had my baby. I didn't join Playboy until I was 21 ... But I'll tell you this, you line us up with the others and pick out who looks best."

The girls say they feel the firing was really a political ploy.

Bunny Nancy, who is the shop steward for members of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees and Bartenders International, says the club just wants "automatons, robots, manipulated employees." She said she's been fired four times and won reinstatement.

"I've had a very fast education in the last 10 years," she says, her dark hair falling over her shoulders. "They run this company like they ran the Nixon campaign. They don't want motivated employees. They want dumb bunnies."

Bunny business is clearly a good job, say Playboy Club officials. Some girls earn $250 to $300 a week for two nights work, they say. By the same token, management knows what it wants.

"Check list of No-No's," says a badly typed work schedule. "Dry, dull hair, wrinkled eyelids, undereye pouches, facial lines, smart remarks, lifeless complexion, crepey neck, crepey skin, flabby underarms, fleshy back, red rough elbows, enlarged veins, thickening waist, sagging bosom, bulging tummy, endless excuses why you haven't lost weight." The check list ends with — "I'm sure you can add to the list."

The fired girls have taken their case to the New York State Commission on Human Rights, charging bias on age and sex. The union is also supporting their case.

Behind the company's move, say the girls, is an effort to get rid of senior bunnies before a new contract is negotiated in May. Eight more jobs are in the shooting gallery, they say.

2 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass
Pass Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♥
Bridge is often a race between declarer and the defenders to see who can get his tricks in first. To lose a tempo can mean the loss of a game.
After North had supported his suit, South's hand was almost the equivalent of an opening bid. Since the texture of his suit was good, he took the slightly aggressive course of jumping to game.

After the lead of the queen of hearts, those declarers who always take a rosy view of life could be defeated by good defense. Assume declarer wins the opening lead and plays a trump p. East wins the ace and shifts to the nine of clubs, covered by the queen. Instead of grabbing the ace, West follows with the seven. Sooner or later declarer must take the diamond finesse, and when East gets in with the king he leads another club. Now, West must score both the ace and jack of clubs for a one-trick set.

Declarer can make the hand by realizing that he is in a race and, since his weakness has not yet been attacked, he is one step ahead. He should win the opening heart lead in his hand and take the diamond finesse immediately. East can win and shift to a club, but he cannot make up lost ground. Declarer simply plays two more rounds of diamonds, discarding a club, before turning his attention to trumps. All he can lose is one trick in each suit except for hearts.
