Arab Govm'ts Warned Of 'Retaliation' To Embargo

By KENNETH J. FREED
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has signaled the Arabs that a long oil boycott would threaten the success of Middle East peace negotiations and could bring U.S. economic retaliation.

"Those countries who are engaging in economic pressures against the United States should consider whether it is appropriate to engage in such steps while peace negotiations are being prepared, and even more while negotiations are being conducted," he told a news conference Wednesday.

Kissinger said, "It is clear that if pressures continue unreasonably and indefinitely, that then the United States will have to consider what countermeasures it may have to take."

Such retaliation, which was not specified, would come about "with enormous reluctance," he said, but the Arabs must realize the United States will not give in to economic pressure."

"Our course will not be influenced by such pressures," Kissinger said.

Kissinger gave no details about countermeasures available to the Nixon administration if the Arab oil embargo continues indefinitely.

However, indications of contingency plans have come from other officials. Undersecretary of State William Porter, for instance, said Tuesday that economic blackmail "will be a two-edged sword."

Without leveling a direct threat against the Arabs, Porter pointed out that "North America produces much of the food and industrial goods in international commerce."

Other government experts acknowledge that the Arabs could make up any immediate shortage in U.S.-supplied food from other sources, but they claim such alternate suppliers are unreliable as witnessed by the uneven harvests in the Soviet Union.

Porter, these sources said, pointed to the most likely area of U.S. economic power concerning the Arabs, when he spoke of the important American role in investment opportunity, technology and assistance.

As an example, they said Saudi Arabia may be out of oil by the end of the century even though it is presently holder of the largest petroleum reserves in the world.

If Saudi Arabia is to convert to a viable, diversified economy it will need access to U.S. investment markets as well as technological know-how, they said.

Kissinger also again leaned hard on the failure of major members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization to stand by Washington.

First, he said that European complaints of not being fully informed and consulted, particularly concerning the U.S.-Soviet confrontation, were unjustified.

In any event, "It is," he said, "a root fact of the situation that the countries that were most consulted proved among the most difficult in their cooperation."

Yet Another Gap Turns Up In Nixon Tapes

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House has a new tape mystery to explain in court — 18 minutes of conversation blotted out by a tone on one of the subpoenaed Watergate recordings.

The disclosure on Thanksgiving Eve caused U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to say the White House should voluntarily turn over all subpoenaed tapes and materials or the court should take custody of all material under subpoena and put it under 24-hour guard.

He gave the White House until Monday to respond.

"This is just another instance that convinces the court that it has to take some steps," Sirica said, "not because the court doesn't trust the White House or the President ... The court is interested in seeing that nothing else happens."

The tone obliterates part of a conversation between President Nixon and his former chief of staff, H. R. Haldeman, on June 20, 1972, three days after the break-in at Democratic party headquarters in the Watergate office building.

J. Fred Buzhardt, one of the President's lawyers, said he and another attorney discovered the gap in the conversation on Nov. 14 while preparing an index and analysis of the tape.

It "contained a tone and no conversation," Buzhardt told the court. "The phenomena occurs in the course of the conversation in question. That is, not at the beginning or end."

Richard Ben-Veniste, a lawyer on the special Watergate prosecution staff, said after court "there is the potentiality of obstruction of justice or contempt of court," but that he did not want to prejudge the situation.

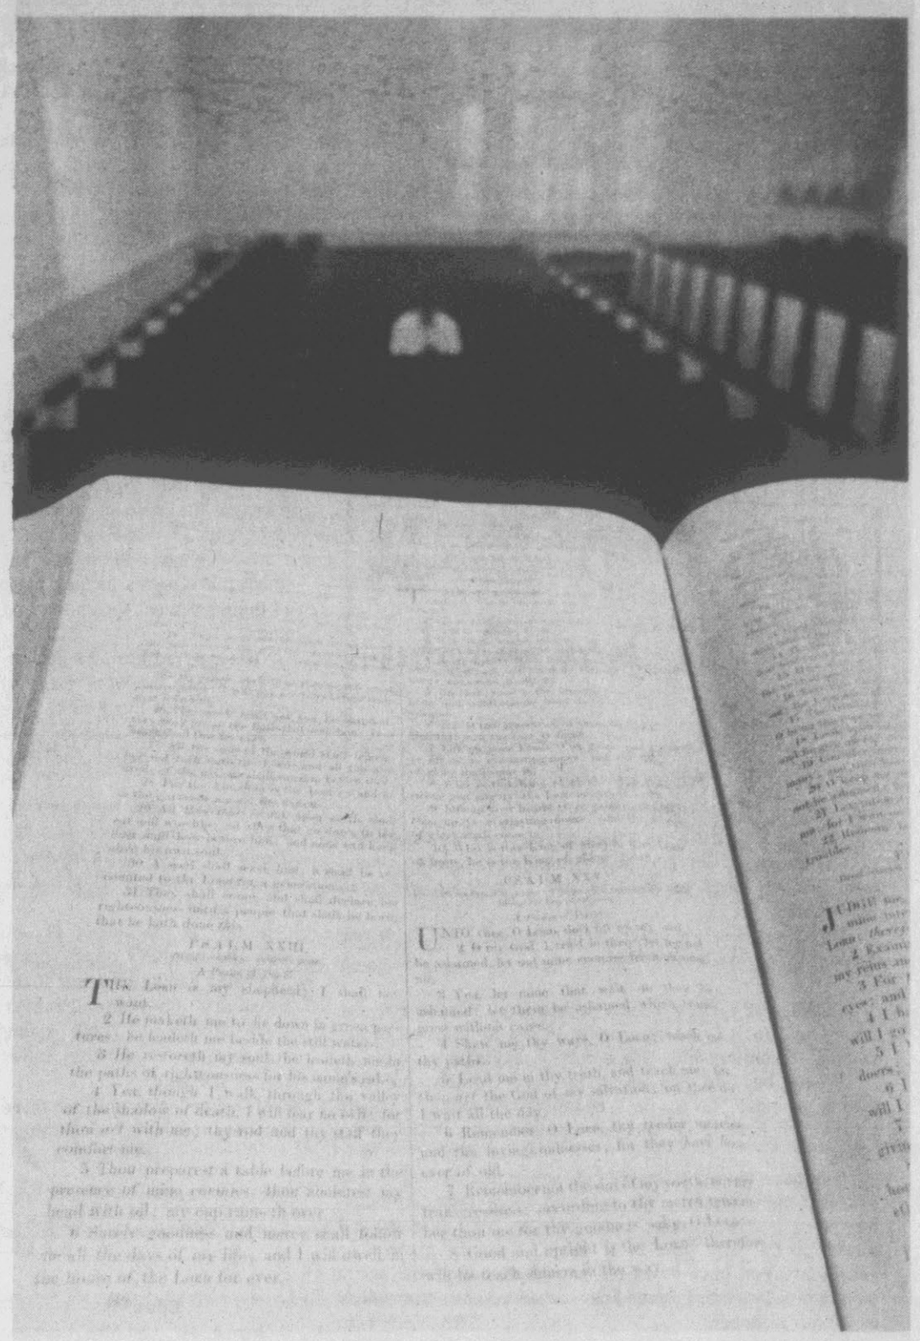

Sirica ordered all parties into court Monday to continue "with the investigation into this matter." He said if the tapes are turned over to the court they will be placed under a 24-hour guard.

It was the fourth instance of problems with the materials subpoenaed by the Watergate special prosecutor since the White House gave up its three-month fight over making any of the tapes available to Sirica.

A week after agreeing to comply with a court order to turn over nine Watergate recordings and related material, Buzhardt disclosed that a telephone conversation of June 20, 1972 never was recorded and that the tape ran out before a subpoenaed conversation on April 15, 1973.

Then, as Sirica held a lengthy hearing into that problem, the White House said it would make the President's dictated recollections on April 15 available. But later, Buzhardt testified the dictation belt could not be found.

No previous mention had been made of any gap in the June 20 tape of the Haldeman meeting and Nixon indicated as recently as Saturday that he had personally listened to it earlier this year. His personal secretary, Rose Mary Woods, said she spent 29 hours transcribing it, said she had difficulty hearing portions — but spoke of no long interlude when only a tone could be heard.

Space Walk Today

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The Skylab 3 astronauts reported today that their space suits were in good shape for two of the crewmen to take a four-times-around-the-world Thanksgiving space walk.

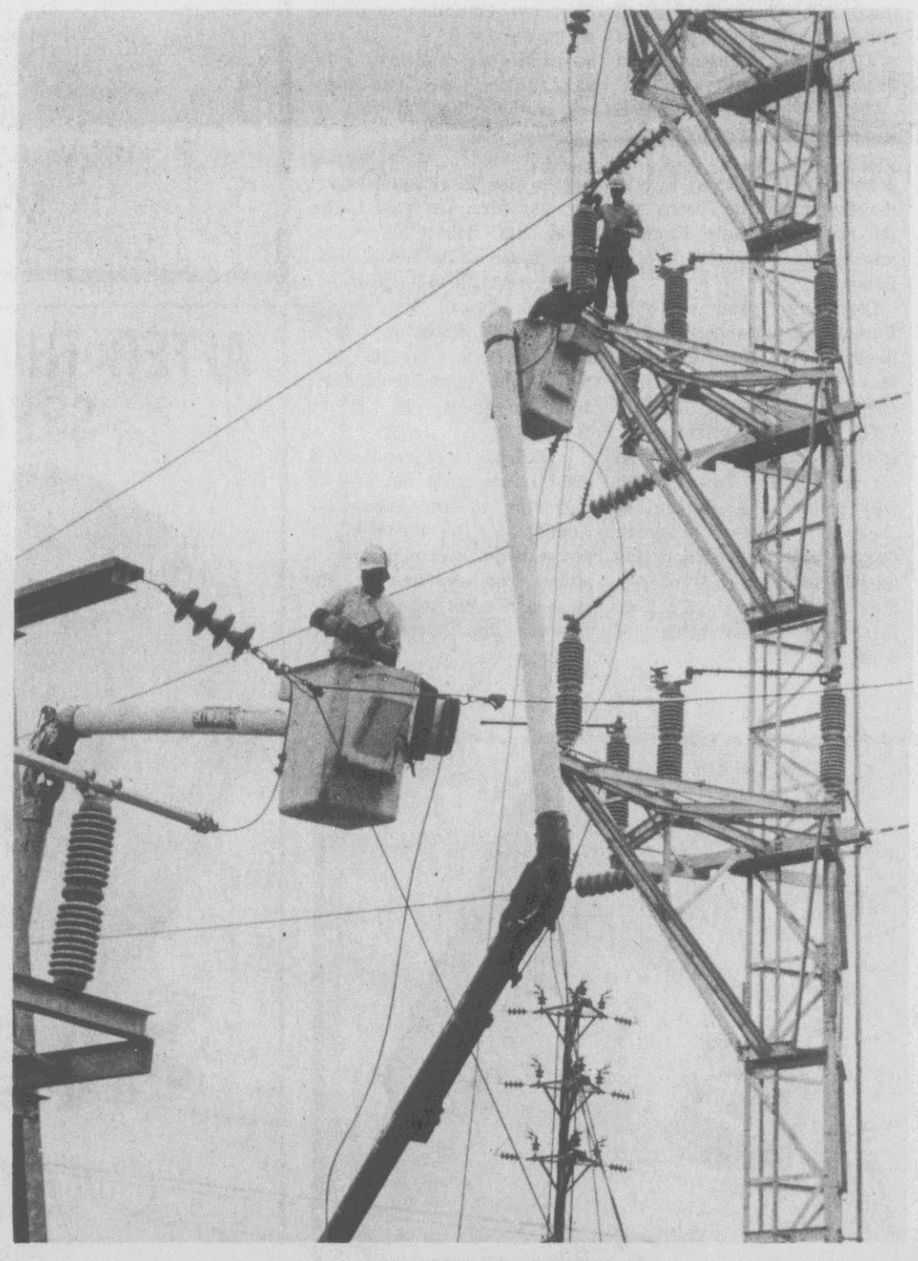

They said damp mildew areas on suit inner garments had dried overnight. William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson prepared to don the suits and step outside their orbiting laboratory about 11:10 a.m. EST to begin a scheduled 6½-hour stroll.

While the Skylab station circled the globe four times, 270 miles high, Pogue and Gibson were to load telescope film, mount scientific experiments on the spacecraft hull and attem8t to unjam a stuck antenna.

Commander Gerald P. Carr was to monitor from inside the station.

There had been some concern that the space trek might have to be delayed 24 hours if the mildew areas found Wednesday night had not dried by this morning.

On waking today, Carr checked the garments and reported: "They look okay. About the same as last night, but they don't smell as bad. The mildew specks haven't disappeared, but they're fading into the background. And they're extremely dry."

Capacity Increased

FINAL HOOKUP...Greenville Utilities Commission workers and contract crews make the final hookup before energizing some seven miles of high-voltage line and the new power substation on Greenville Boulevard at the Norfolk-Southern Railroad crossing yesterday. Utilities officials said the new line, designed to carry 115,000 volts, and the substation cost about $400,000 and is designed to increase the capacity of the distribution system on the East side of town. By 1975, the 115,000 volt distribution system will be expanded to serve the entire town. Work began on the substation 16 to 18 months ago, while construction on the transmission line began about one year ago. The final tie-in, placing the line and substation in permanent operation was completed about 2:30 p.m. Wednesday, without interruption of power to any customers. Utilities officials noted that the substation and line will be operated at reduced boltage—34,000 volts—until the complete transmission system is replaced with the 115,000 volt equipment.

Will Air Ulster Accord

LONDON (AP) — Details of a still-secret compromise agreement to share power between Protestants and Catholics in Northern Ireland were released by informants today.

The compromise reached in Belfast Wednesday will be formally unwrapped before Parliament today by William Whitelaw, the British administrator of Northern Ireland.

The Ulster power-sharing agreement gives the mainly Protestant Unionists six seats on a governing executive, the largely Catholic Social Democrats four, the nonsectarian Alliance one, and leaves one seat vacant, sources said today.

In addition, the informants said three non-voting advisory positions will be given to the Social Democrats and the Alliance in exchange for their agreeing to a minority share of the Northern Irish cabinet.

Britain has pushed hard for giving Catholics a voice in provincial government as the first step toward ending more than four years of sectarian bloodshed between the Irish Republican Army and hardline Protestant groups.

Severity Of Winter Is Said The Big Factor In Local Fuel Oil Outlook

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The severity of the winter may determine just how ciritcal the fuel oil situation becomes for area consumers, according to local distributors.

"We're on a day to day operation," declared Johnny W. Brown of the Pitt FCX Service. Brown said that, "We have been trying to meet the needs of our regular customers" but he added that the firm is not taking any new accounts at this time.

Noting that fuel oil is "getting scarce," he contended that there is "no way of telling what the situation will be like tomorrow."

"I hope we have a mild winter," commented Raymond P. Grady, manager of Allied Petroleum Corp. here, distributors of Texaco products. "In fact, I'd like to see the temperatures we've been having continue."

Grady said that the company is operating under an allocation system that applies to all products and so far, allocations have been "about the same" as received last year. "We've had no word yet on what to expect after the first of the year."

The manager added, "Right now, we are able to supply our regular customers but we are not able to take on any new ones." He said that "a lot depends on how bad the winter is."

Leon Moore of Leon Moore Oil Co. reported that he is trying to keep his customers supplied with oil and so far he has been able to meet those needs "but it's just hard to predict what's going to happen."

Moore, pointing out that his company is purchasing petroleum products on an allocation system, as are other distributors under the government imposed mandatory system, said that he expects allotments to be cut ten to 15 per cent "sometime in December or early January."

"I would certainly urge everybody to conserve every bit they can and cut their thermostats back," he added. Moore said that conserving now may help in the long run.

Walker Allen Jr. of W. L. Allen Oil Co., Gulf products distributors, said that his firm "anticipates being able to meet the needs of our regular customers." He added that "we are trying to maintain our business at last year's level as far as customer accounts are concerned."

Allen said that if the company is able to purchase what it expects to be allocated, based on last November and December purchases, "we should be able to meet our needs."

Under the mandatory allocation system that went into effect Nov. 1, distributors that purchased petroleum products last year are

Just 36 Percent

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Thirty-six per cent of the graduates of North Carolina's three medical schools remain in the state to practice, compared with a national average of 42 per cent.

The Uniiversity of North Carolina, Bowman Gray and Duke medical schools have produced 4,352 graduates from the founding of their four-year programs through 1967. Of these, 1,563 are practicing in North Carolina. UNC, the only one state-suppported, has the highest retention rate, 51 per cent. Bowman Gray is 43 per cent and Duke 27 per cent.

The figures are through 1967, the latest available because that class is just beginning to practice. Most graduates have had to go through three years of military service in addition to an average of 40 months of internship and residency.

Despite the lower retention rate, the number of doctors per 100,000 population in North Carolina is growing. There were 102 in 1963, 107 in 1967, and 113 in 1971.

The highest number of doctors registered in North Carolina was 6,313 in 1971. Last August, 5,979 were registered.

Compromise Attained On Panel Probing Personnel Firings

RALEIGH (AP)—A fullblown confrontation between Gov. Jim Holshouser's administration and the Democratically-controlled General Assembly may have been avoided Wednesday when the governor and a special Senate committee on personnel reached an agreement.

Holshouser, a Republican, and Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, a Democrat, announced a compromise had been reached during a two and one-half hour luncheon meeting at the Governor's Mansion.

The compromise provides that:

—The Senate Special Committee on Personnel Practices will restrict the scope of its activities, steering clear of political investigations.

—Holshouser will permit 17 Department of Transportation personnel officers to testify before the committee.

—The time in which fired state employes may appeal to the state Personnel Board will be extended.

—The committee will allow testimony by administration witnesses in response to testimony by dismissed employes.

—A member of the governor's staff will sit with the committee when it is in session.

Holshouser said the accord would eliminate "the tone of a witch hunt or legislative lynch squad."

Hunt said he was pleased and that "this is precisely what I had in mind when I appointed the committee"

During committee sessions which preceded and followed the luncheon meeting with the governor, the committee heard from Emmett Burden and Floyd J. Bass, representing the two major state employe associations, and V. Lee Bounds, former state correction commissioner. All said morale among state workers is at a low ebb as a result of personnel practices of the Holshouser administration.

Hunt appointed the special Senate committee last month after Transportation Secretary Bruce Lentz announced 101 highway division workers had been fired, transferred or demoted.

The governor called the committee inquiry a witch hunt and presumably ordered the personnel officers not to heed invitations to appear Nov. 14.

Under the agreement, the panel will not inquire into the alleged involvement of Holshouser appointees in the campaign of Thomas S. Bennett for state GOP chairman. This eliminates a possibility of major political embarassment for the governor.

Life On Range Still Appeals

By WARREN WINTRODE
Associated Press Writer

GURNSEY, Wyo. (AP) — It's roundup time on the Frederick ranch, and Ruth Frederick wouldn't miss it for the world.

Miss Frederick, owner of the 60,000-acre cattle spread, rides her horse right along with the boys as they drive some 300 head of cattle to a holding pasture, preparing them for sale.

Not that it is unusual for ranch women to herd cattle in Wyoming — they do it all the time. But Ruth Frederick is 78 years old.

"I've been driving cattle since I was a kid and I don't feel any different now than I ever did," said Ruth, a twinkle in her eye as she prepared lunch at her farmhouse just north of Wheatland. The farm, one of three owned by Miss Frederick, is located about 45 miles south of the ranch which sprawls into both Goshen and Platte counties.

Ruth, who was born on the ranch and has lived in the area all her life, said she learned to ride horses about the time she started walking.

"Ruth still rides her horse in the roundup," quipped her foreman, Ray Blunt, "but we don't let her drive the pickup any more. She almost drove it over a cliff the last time.

"Not so," said Ruth. "Wasn't even near the darned thing."

And so it went as Miss Frederick and Blunt, who has worked for the Frederick family for the last 45 years, shared their lunch with an unexpected visitor.

The lunch was simple but hearty — cold, home-raised roast beef, fried bacon, cold beans, rye bread, avocado, fresh lettuce, bananas and strong coffee.

One gained the impression the two were just biding time, waiting for the chance to get on their horses and ride the range.

They do that just about every single day. Ruth and Ray drive the 45 miles to the ranch, check out the situation with Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Nordeen, who manage the spread, and then saddle up the horses.

In two years, Blunt has put 97,000 miles on his pickup, most of them between the ranch and farm.

"It's not too hard to get out cattle where we want them to go," said Miss Frederick. "We feed them cake and all you have to do is holler and they come."

Ruth also rides her horse on other occasions, like the Old Timer's Parade this summer in Guernsey, but not as much as she used to.

In 1914 at the age of 19, she won the women's steer roping and relay racing contests at the legendary Cheyenne Frontier Days Rodeo. "I quit riding competitively shortly after that," she said.

Miss Frederick and her three brothers took over ownership of the ranch in 1950 following the death of her mother. Her brothers are now dead, and the ranch is Ruth's.

She and Blunt lease out about 40,000 acres and run their cattle on the other 20,000 with the help of two nephews, the Nordeens and occasional ranch hands during the busy roundup season in the late summer and early fall.

Ruth talks fondly about her late parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Frederick.

"My father was in the U.S. Cavalry at Ft. Laramie and was a cook in Company K," she said. "His outfit witnessed the Custer Massacre at Little Big Horn from a nearby hill.

"Dad took up squatters rights on the land where we have our ranch and then homesteaded it," she said. "In the 1890s he sold some of the land and they opened up an iron ore operation there. It's the largest open-pit iron ore mine in the world."

Ruth also said her father served in the Wyoming Legislature in the early 1900s and originated the design for the state flag. "But he didn't get credit for it," she said.

But now lunch is over, neighbors are dropping in and Ruth and Blunt are getting anxious to drive to Torrington for a calf auction.

They'll take their calves to that market and sell their steers and heifers to several buyers, some as far away as Iowa.

"Hope you enjoyed the lunch," said Ruth as she cleaned off the table.

Certainly did. And another thing that's certain: for Ruth Frederick, home is on the range.

Letters Of Thanks At Special Time

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR READERS: On Thanksgiving Day we thank God for our blessings. My personal blessings are many. Among them are the many letters I receive from those who read my column.

May I share a few letters with you that have made me thankful that I am Dear Abby:

DEAR ABBY: How does a person say, "Thank you, for saving my life?" I will be grateful to you for the rest of my days for recommending Overeaters Anonymous to me.

I have been in this group for five months and have shed 58 pounds! "O. A." is a beautiful fellowship of people who are all hurting for the same reason—compulsive overeating.

You have helped thousands of people like myself. I was told that one chapter alone received more than 20,000 letters from hurting people. I am able to wear blouses and slacks for the first time in 17 years. I am so grateful to you, Abby. You have given me new hope, happiness, and a feeling of self-worth I never knew possible. Love from all of us "O.A." members. GRACE IN L.A.

DEAR ABBY: I will forever be thankful to you for your column giving the Euthanasia Council address, [250 W. 57th St., New York] so I could send for a Living Will, demanding that I be allowed to die with dignity when my time comes.

When an animal gets old and sick, everyone says: "Aw, put the poor thing out of its misery," but human beings are kept alive in "convalescent homes." [Convalescing from what?]

It is just as natural to die as it is to live, so why deny God's will, and prolong needless suffering with transfusions, tubes, needles and drugs?

I could write about what happened to my mother. What was done to her was brutal. I even felt sorry for the poor doctors who knew all hope for recovery was gone, but who kept that poor 90-year-old alive month after month, not wanting to be accused of "murder." What nonsense!

Until euthanasia—which is not "mercy killing," but simply NOT prolonging life uselessly—is understood, I wish I were a horse with a broken leg. God love you.

DOROTHY L. IN MANCHESTER, CONN.

DEAR ABBY: Thanks for telling me to write to Fredericks of Hollywood to order a false fanny. I ordered one and have never been happier. I have a fairly nice shape, but am so flat in back, nothing looked good on me. Also I am so boney, sitting for any length of time without a cushion was sheer misery. Now that I have this padded girdle, I look great and feel wonderful.

GLORIA IN GREAT FALLS, MONT.

DEAR ABBY: I have YOU to thank for this letter which I just received from my sister-in-law:

"Dear Agnes:

Now that it's Thanksgiving, I thank God for relatives like you with whom I can be perfectly frank!

For years our families have been exchanging Christmas gifts. At first they were modest little toys for the kids, and some inexpensive dodad for the grownups. Somehow it got out of hand, and every year the gifts became more costly.

Let's face it, the spending, shopping, gift-wrapping and delivering has become a chore, so let's knock off buying presents for the adults, and just send gifts to the youngsters this Christmas. I will if you will, okay?

This idea isn't original. I got it from Dear Abby's column. It makes a lot of sense, doesn't it?

Love,
YOUR COUSIN SUE"

Tyson-May Families To Hold Annual Reunion

FARMVILLE—Decendants of the Tysons and Mays, pioneer families in Pitt County, will meet Sunday for the 53rd annual reunion of the two families.

The meeting will be held at 10:30 a.m. in the Major Benjamin May DAR Chapter House here.

The speaker for the reunion will be Allen Churchill, assistant professor with the Department of Continuing Education, East Carolina University.

The Tyson Family Reunion was organized in 1920 by the late Grigg Tyson who was the first president of the reunion. In 1932, the Mays joined the Tysons, and the reunion became formally known as the Tyson-May Reunion.

Cornelius Tyson was the Revolutionary War ancestor of the Tyson Clan. Major Benjamin May married Mary Tyson, the daughter of Cornelius in 1765.

The program will include special music and a memorial service. Miss Tabitha M. DeVisconti, genealogical chairman, will give a report. Officers will be elected during the business session. A covered-dish lunch will be served at noon in the banquet hall of the chapter house.

Officers of the reunion are Robert W. May of Farmville, president; E. Bruce Beasley III of Washington, vice president; Miss Nancy Jane Carroll of Farmville, secretary; Mrs. Henry T. Smith of Fountain, treasurer; and Miss Devisconti, genealogist.

Committees working with the Executive Committee with the arrangements are: nominations; publicity; invitation; decorations registration; food. Serving on the committees are:

Decorations, Miss Nancy Lewis; Mrs. Margaret Speight; Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Little; Food, Mrs. Robert May; Mrs. Joan Tyson; Miss Etna Lewis; Nominations, John B. Lewis Jr.; John F. Tyson; Miss Nancy Lewis; Registration, Mrs. Evelyn Horton Wright Jr.; Invitations, Miss Devisconti; and Publicity, E. Bruce Beasley III.

Invitations to descendants of the families were not sent in Farmville or the immediate vicinity, for the reunion, as descendants are expected to attend. The presidency of the reunion is alternated annually between the Tysons and the Mays.

'Holiday Customs' Program Held By Opti-Mrs. Club

"Holiday Customs In Other Countries" was the program topic for the meeting of the Opti-Mrs. Club of Greenville on Tuesday night.

Club members gave the program on the following countries: France; Germany; England; Japan; Mexico; Thailand; Holland; Belgium; Sweden; and Luxemburg.

During the business session conducted by President Mrs. John Trotman, reports were given by Mrs. Charles Ross on Operation Sunshine, which is a club project, and on the club's Christmas party scheduled for Dec. 18 at 8 p.m. at the home of Mrs. Tracy Medlin.

A report on possible projects for the Greenville Nursing and Convalescent Home was given by Mrs. C. P. Shaw. Members will contribute flower bulbs to the nursing home and the project will be headed by Mrs. Shaw and Mrs. Larry Good.

Other holiday projects planned by the club are giving repairable toys to the Fire Department for distribution, aiding a needy family, giving clothing to the Salvation Army and giving gifts to a foster child.

The club will also provide some type of Christmas activity for girls at the Sunshine Center.

In observance of Youth Appreciation Week, Mrs. Max Stephenson, Mrs. Jim O'Brien and Mrs. Good spoke on "Youth-Appreciation Observation," which was recommended by the N. C. District Governor Mrs. Katherine Smith.

Mrs. Gene Ward was welcomed as a new member.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. O'Brien.

Our Blessings Still Dominate

On this Thanksgiving Day there are ominous signs that we are running out of the things that have made this the land of plenty.

Suddenly there is an energy crisis. We are being urged to reduce the temperatures in our homes and it is likely that very soon we won't be able to get in our automobiles and travel where ever and whenever we want.

Prices of food have soared and we are told that it is because food supplies are short. This, too, may get worse.

Over the past couple of weeks Wall Street has been in near panic as investors worry about the effects of an energy crisis on the nation's huge industrial complex.

Hospitals, government institutions and the industries of our state make their case for reasonable fuel allotments to governmental boards, and all of them have a reasonable plea to offer.

So this Thanksgiving, 1973, seems more a time to worry than to give thanks; that is, until we stop and think. We are still a big and bustling nation. Perhaps in the past we have been blessed with too much and we have been created a way of life that is entirely too wasteful. It is possible, though that our wasteful habits can save us, for we have far more room to cut back to real essential needs than many societies of the world.

If we conserve our energy and our food supplies there is no reason there won't be enough to go around. In the meantime we have become aware of our problems soon enough to develop new energy sources for meeting our growth needs. We can reverse the philosophy of restricting farm production and we are confident that the farming industry can produce far more under new policies of encouraging production.

We have much to be thankful for today and, most important, we can be thankful that we have the people with the will to meet our problems head on and come up with solutions. It can be done and we think it will be done.

Facilities Are In Poor Shape

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — North Carolina operates 182 buildings used for the housing, care or treatment of a variety of clients in the state Division of Mental Health Services.

All are "woefully inadequate."

That is the conclusion reached by a team of architects and engineers inspecting the facilities in an inventory of the mental health system commissioned by the Mental Health Study Commission headed by State Sen. Kenneth C. Royall Jr. of Durham.

Jerry Switzer, project architect with the consulting firm of Henningson, Durham and Richardson, said his team visited four mental hospitals, four centers for the mentally retarded, three alcoholic rehabilitation centers and the N.C. Orthopedic Hospital in Gastonia and Wright School in Durham in making the survey.

"A key consideration now in treatment of these problems is to humanize surroundings — and all are woefully inadequate," Switzer said.

"The team found only isolated buildings where amenities are provided for the privacy, dignity, comfort, and safety of residents," Switzer said, and the report reached these conclusions:

Dull, Dull, Dull

"Surface monotony created by uninspired color scheme and lighting of poor quality combine to produce spaces which are harsh, drab, and detrimental to the rehabilitative needs of the residents;

"Multi-bed dormitories are crowded, over-populated, and have little provision for privacy;

"Lack of privacy or proper equipment for personal hygiene generally exists ...toilets without partitions, doors or seats;

"Patients are deprived of individuality and given little provision for territorial identity."

The report also maintained that physical conditions add little to proper care and treatment of patients "and many act as a deterrant."

Of all the buildings surveyed, only Dorothea Dix has a fire alarm system which would meet code standards; all of the campuses except the three alcoholic rehab centers have buildings which don't comply with fire exit requirements; the Orthodpedic Hospital, Caswell Center and Wright School have "hazardous violations" in structures; almost all buildings either don't have a nurse call system or the system isn't working.

The key question facing the Mental Health Study Commission is whether these facilities should be upgraded, or the money spent in different directions.

The total consultant report to the commission pointed in the direction of more community treatment emphasis, outreach and early detection and prevention of mental illness, not just custodial care.

A Major Shift

"A change in attitudes and ideas toward treatment of patients has brought about a change in directions," Sen. Royall commented.

Consultants to the commission pointed out that most of the state's institutions developed under the old concept of an asylum. They were designed to provide regimentation, control and care of patients and became large warehouses for storage of people in the least expensive way possible.

"The buildings, equipment and furniture were designed for mental institutions," one member of the commission said.

"But we don't buy that sort of thing anymore. And, we don't foresee major capital improvement investments since there's no need to upgrade facilities that will be phased out as programs change," he added.

Here are the highlights of conditions found at the institutions:

John Umstead Hospital — structures generally in good condition; interiors harsh, cold, hard, dull and monotonous; inadequate comfort and privacy in toilets; ground unrelieved by landscaping; lighting below minimum levels and poor quality; no nurse call system.

Cherry Hospital — some structures very poor; major highway cuts through campus; low light levels and dull colors produce drab atmosphere; fire alarm system not adequate, smoke doors not provided and toilet rooms lack comfort and privacy.

Broughton Hospital — patient areas crowded, lack privacy or comfort and poorly lighted; compliance with exit and fire protection requirements sporadic; toilets inadequate for comfort or privacy.

Dorothea Dix — structures vary from good to very poor; interiors hard, cold and dull; heating, ventilation and air conditioning varies; dormitories over-populated and no privacy; smoke doors not provided; lighting below minimum levels.

Murdoch Center — structures good; dormitories crowded and lack privacy; high noise level; colorless finishes and dull lighting produce drab, austere atmosphere; fire alarm system inadequate; toilets lack privacy and comfort.

O'Berry Center —forms crowded and lack privacy; austere atmosphere; no nurse call system; toilets lack comfort and privacy.

Caswell Center — structures vary from good to very poor; inadequate lighting and uninspired color schemes;

Jim Hunt Says Friction Absent

By JOHN KILGO

RALEIGH—Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt says a Senate Committee he appointed to look into the firings of state employees ought to be able to make clear that the Holhouser Administration is being fair in its personnel practices, or is basing decisions in this area on politics alone.

Hunt also said he "suspects the committee will think that some additional measures of security for state employees who do their jobs may well be necessary."

The lieutenant governor says he believes the select committee will be able to function well, even though 17 Republican personnel executives boycotted an invitation to appear before the committee last week.

"The committee will be hearing from state employees who say they've been treated unfairly," Hunt said, "those who claim they were fired not because they weren't doing their job, but simply for political reasons. That will be a major part ot this committee's work."

Hunt says the committee ought to be able to show North Carolinians "that the current administration is being fair and basing its personnel practices on merit; or it will show that contrary to their promises, they're basing their decisions on politics alone. This is a matter of letting the public know the facts."

"Beyond that," Hunt continued, "I suspect this committee will think that some additional measures of security for state employees who do their job may well be necessary."

Hunt emphasized that North Carolina does not want a rigid Civil Service system. But he also said the state doesn't want a system where people who are doing a good job are fired arbitrarily.

It comes as no shocking news to you that most political observers feel relatively certain that Hunt will wage a strong campaign for Governor in the Democratic primary in 1976. Some rival Democrats, who have their eye on the same office, have not exactly done hand flips over the naming of this committee.

We asked Hunt about the criticism he's received from among members of his own party.

"You're talking aboout only a handful of people," he replied, "a mere two or three in the Senate and only a handful in the House. The great, great, great majority of Democrats are enthusiastic about the committee and have voiced their support to me and to Chairman Barker. If you did a poll of Democrats, you'd find well over 90 per cent support of it."

Hunt volunterred that "a high number of Republicans" also support the committee. He said two Republicans called him and asked to serve on the committee, buts its membership had already been established. He declined to name the Republicans who wanted on it.

Gov. Jim Holshouser, when asked to comment on the committee last week, joked: "Witch-Hunt committee?" But Hunt says nothing has happened that will keep he and Gov. Holshouser from working for the best interests of the people of North Carolina.

"There's no friction between the Governor and me," Hunt said. "I think we're both politically mature. He's been in the position in past years of criticizing Democratic administrations for what he felt was good cause. I'm sure he can take that kind of criticism."

Hunt went on to say he thinks there are some "highly partisan" people in Holshouser's administration and some in the Senate who "perhaps overreact. But that won't get in the way of the Governor and myself working together for what's best for the people of North Carolina.

Strength For Today

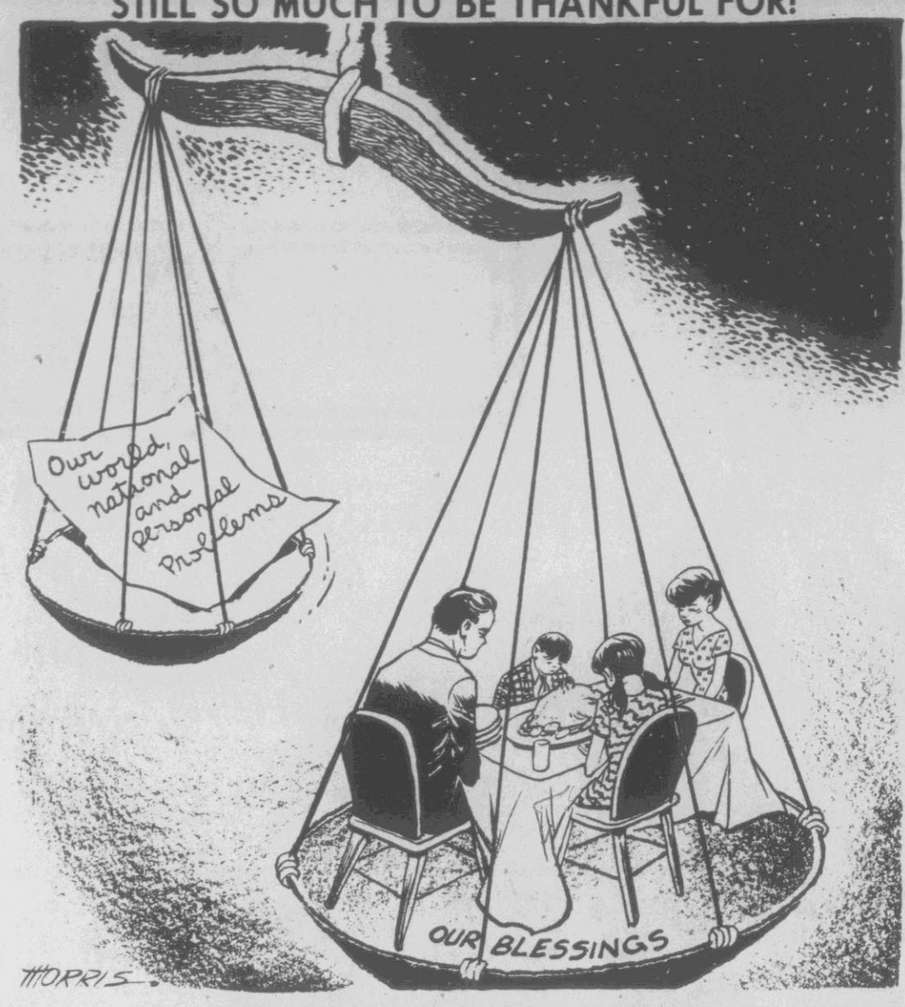

A WORD IN TIME

A retired admiral tells this story about the first time he was under fire. To his horror he started to tremble, and he knew that he appeared to his fellow midshipmen to be as afraid as he felt. But his old captain put his hand on the boy's shoulder and said, "Courage, son; you will be all right in half an hour. The first time I was under fire I felt exactly as you do, only worse."

The right word spoken at the right time has a mysterious way of influencing our lives down through the years. If the captain on this occasion had considered it his duty to be tough with the lad, he might have distorted his whole life and made him into a poor officer. A sneer at a critical moment has ruined many a young person while a word of cheer and sympathy has given him the confidence he needed to build a successful career.

Nothing is insignificant with love behind it. Nothing is trifling if brotherhood inspires it. God loves those who give cheerfully not only of their means but of themselves.

Dangerous Implications

WASHINGTON — Twenty years after the nation should have launched a crash program of energy development, we seem to be rushing pall mall into one. I strongly suspect we are rushing the wrong way.

Two major pieces of legislation now are working their way toward enactment. The first is the National Energy Emergency Act of 1973; it may be too much. The second is the National Energy Research and Development Policy Act of 1973; it is almost certainly too little.

As to the first bill: So far as its general provisions are concerned, dealing with fuel conservation, the legislation plainly is needed to cope with the situation that confronts us at present. This much also should be understood: The bill is fraught with the most dangerous implications for the future. What is involved here is a massive delegation of power to the President. What is further involved, or simultaneously involved, is a weakening of certain economic and political concepts that have been weakened too much already.

Patrick Henry laid down the sound advice, nearly 200 years ago, that in political matters power should be delegated sparingly: "If you give too little power today, you may give more tomorrow. But the reverse of that proposition will not hold. If you give too much power today, you cannot retake it tomorrow, for tomorrow will never come for that purpose."

The Energy Emergency Act pays small heed to Henry's warning. The bill calls for "prompt action by the executive branch" to deal with "severe economic dislocations and hardships, including loss of jobs, closing of factories and businesses, reduction of crop plantings and harvesting, and curtailment of vital public services, including the transportation of food and other essential goods." The presidential responsibility would appear to be comprehensive.

Under this legislation, the President is directed to promulgate "a nationwide emergency energy rationing and conservation program." He is directed to fix priorities on fuel consumption. His authority is to extend to "transportation control." He is to impose restrictions against the use of fuel for certain uses he deems "non essential." No such awesome powers ever before have been delegated, in peace time, to a president.

Given the gravity of the present situation, perhaps some such powers have to be delegated, but they ought to be subject to restraints and checks and balances. The bill provides very few.

There is this to consider too: The bill opens the door to new and still more pervasive federal regulation of the market place; it imposes new federal authority upon the traditional responsibilities of state and local government. The bill appears to require, for one thing, federal subsidies for reduced fares on local transit systems, and we may be grimly certain, following Patrick Henry, that if such subsidies are provided today, tomorrow will never come for their removal.

The second of the two

Other Editors Say 'Three Years Late'

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

President Nixon signed the Alaska oil pipeline bill last Friday. But as he noted in signing, "About three years late."

The energy crunch now makes those three years seem an eternity as the nation tightens its belt and prepares for an uncertain winter.

Construction of the pipeline had been stalled for three years by environmentalist lawsuits. Now the line won't be completed before 1977. Congress, intimidated for three years by environmentalists, finally saw the light and in the face of the emergency rushed the bill through, thereby enabling construction to begin immediately.

Admittedly, the Alaska pipeline won't provide all the oil this energy-hungry contry demands and need. But it will carry some 600,000 barrels a day, increasing eventually to 2 million barrels per day.

That's about 8.5 per cent of today's total U. S. petroleum consumption, but in our current shortage that represents a significant boost.

There are a couple of things in the bill signed by Nixon that he was unhappy about. But he thought the energy crisis was so vital that it overrode this consideration.

Nixon had been urged by Roy Ash, director of the Office of Management and Budget, to veto the bill because of provisions broadening the powers of government regulatory agencies.

Nixon will ask Congress to consider separate legislation repealing these provisions.

In signing the important Alaska pipeline bill, the President noted that there is a "reasonable possibility" that Arab nations will increase their oil exports to the United States and Europe.

He insists the administration is making sufficient progress in negotiations regarding the Middle East that there is a possibility the oil exports from that area will be boosted.

"But even if it happened tomorrow," he warned, "we would still have an energy crisis for this year."

He did not detail what the negotiations included, but one can assume the U. S. made some concessions to the Arab nations in order to continue the flow of oil.

Meanwhile, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield complained that "we are dilly-dallying while the economy burns."

A Hard Liner Speaks

By JURATE KAZICKAS
Associated Press Writer

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Col. Moammar Khadafy, the youthful leader of Libya, scoffs at the six-point plan that brought a cease-fire to the October war in the Middle East. He calls it an Arab capitulation.

"There is nothing except war," he said in an interview. "War is the only solution if we cannot reach our aims.

"Our aims: The only solution to the Mideast crisis is to let the Palestinian people return to their homes and make the Jews who came after 1948 return to their homes because they are citizens of other countries.

"If we cannot reach this aim, there is no other means but war. So war will be a necessity for peace. If it does not happen in this generation, the war situation will explode in another time, if not this year, then in other years."

At 33, Khadafy is the youngest of the Arab leaders. When he first came to power four years ago in a bloodless coup, his youth and passionate exuberance were captivating. He remains as outspoken and committed to the Arab cause as ever.

"We laugh at this six-point plan of peace," he says. "We don't consider it a plan of peace. It's just something to stop the fighting and exchange prisoners. It's like when somebody is ill, he needs surgery, not an aspirin."

Khadafy was interviewed aboard his presidential Boeing 707 jet en route from Tripoli to Belgrade fro a visit with President Tito of Ygoslavia.

Khadafy said the Palestinian question was the only means to unify the Arab nations. "The struggle for Palestine will make the unification strong. There must be an active

The Pitt County Post of the American Legion meeting in regular session last night adopted a resolution condeming the use of the name of the Legion in schemes looking to private exploitation.

"The Legion desires to go on record condemning and deprecating such unwarranted and harmful use of the name of the American Legion and its complement," the resolution read.

The Slaviansky Russian Chorus will give a program of song and dance at East Carolina Teachers College on December 11. This will be the only big public entertainment featuring professional artists offered by the entertainment committee this fall, but others will be offered during the winter.

The chorus is composed of men and women singers appearing in costume. Their work ranges from light and humorous folk songs to the stirring classics of solos by singers of note, and to Russian and Gypsy dances.

They have appeared in most of the musical centers in the world and have been honored by various musical societies in the capitals of Europe.

The Army Plays Dominant Role

By VICTOR L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer

ATHENS (AP) — President George Papadopoulos' use of tanks and troops to quell student-sparked rioting demonstrated the dominant role the army still plays in the affairs of Greece.

One previous precedent was set in 1967 when the army toppled the parliamentary democracy, bringing the then-Col. Papadopoulos to power. Observers say only a countercoup by the army could dislodge him. And there are no signs of that happening.

"They were scared this time so they called in the troops," said a politican who was prominent before the coup. "It was a sign of panic."

One theory circulating here says Papadopoulos brought in the army during the riots last week partly for fear of losing control of it if he let it stand idle during the disturbances. But other views hold that if the strongman president hadn't moved to crush the protests, the rioters would have had time to marshal more support for bringing down the government.

Students were prominent among the rioters. But George Mavros, an ex-Cabinet minister who was put under house arrest Tuesday night, said it was the additional support the students gained that led to the stiff reaction by the government.

Mavros was arrested along with another former cabinet minister John Zigdis and Panayotis Canellopoulos, 71, the premier of the government that Papadapoulos toppled. The government rounded up 46 more dissidents in the capital, bringing the number in custody to 250, and said all schools of higher learning would be closed until Dec. 10.

Students had staged numerous protests earlier this year, beginning with purely academic grievances, but stood alone and were silenced by arrests and a government decree drafting them into the army.

New outbursts arose after Nov. 4, when clashes took place between police and mourners attending a memorial service for the popular George Papandreou, the former liberal premier. The sentencing of five persons in connection with the disturbances led to a four-day sit-in at the Athens Polytechnic Institute.

The sit-in leaders first called for an end to political trials and for academic freedom. But the demands became mixed with calls for the ouster of Papadopoulos, immediate elections and a withdrawal of NATO forces from Greece. Soldiers and police finally stormed the institute early Saturday and ousted the students. Eleven persons were killed in the clashes.

During the sit-in, Polytechnic students used a radio transmitter to appeal to workers to join the protest. About 5,000 of them, mostly construction workers in the Athens area, answered the call and strengthened the antigovernment front.

Closeup Color Pictures Of Jupiter Are Coming

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Writer

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — Starting Monday the hottest radio channels in the universe will be those linking earth and the Pioneer 10 spacecraft.

After 630 days of traveling 494 million miles, Pioneer 10 is moving toward its flyby of Jupiter, the solar system's biggest mass outside the sun.

On Monday Pioneer's system will be directed to aim its dish antenna straight back at Earth for the precise radio operations required to deliver the first closeup color pictures ever made of Jupiter. The spacecraft will be three million miles away from the giant orange and blue striped planet.

The flyby will occur Dec. 3 at a distance of 81,000 miles from Jupiter, which then will be zooming outward in space at 82,000 miles an hour.

In the mission's climaxing week, up to 2,000 command signals will be radioed 620 million miles up to Pioneer's receivers, said Charles F. Hall, project manager.

Through a telescope aimed straight down on Jupiter's cloud tops, Pioneer will be transmitting back data signals from its imaging photopolarimeter.

All this will happen if Pioneer's transmitting and scientific systems survive the encounter with Jupiter's intensive radiation belts. Generated by high energy particles trapped from the solar wind by the planet's magnetic field, the belts are estimated to be a million times more intense than Earth's, Hall said.

The radiation encounter will start about six hours before Pioneer reaches its closest flyby point Dec. 3, he said.

If Pioneer 10 makes it through the radiation belts, then its follower, Pioneer 11, will be steered on a course passing Jupiter at 20,000 miles, or 60,000 miles closer than Pioneer 10.

Already on its way, Pioneer 11 will reach Jupiter a year from now.

Agnew's Job: A Consultant

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has been retained as a consultant for an international trade firm cofounded recently by his longtime associate, Frank Jameson.

Jameson, a former Rockwell International corporate executive who recently married actress Eva Gabor, said Wednesday that Agnew had been on the payroll at J.W. Industries since shortly after his resignation as Vice President.

"We thought it would be a good opportunity," Jameson said in an interview. "I've respected him and known him for a long time. I respect his ability and talent to communicate with people — that's where we can use him."

Jameson declined to state Agnew's salary but added: "I assure you it is not a substantial amount, but more of a consultant's fee — a retainer."

He said Agnew will remain on the East Coast because J.W. Industries is just one of several ventures in which he has become involved.

J.W. Industries was formed by Jameson and Leopold S. Wyler about three months ago and deals in many commodities with primary emphasis on trade in Latin America and the Far East, Jameson said.

Agnew resigned as Vice President Oct 10 after pleading no contest to one count of income tax evasion.

American Slain By Terrorists

CORDOBA, Argentina (AP) — Terrorists early today shot and killed the American manager of an automobile plant, killed one of his bodyguards and wounded two others in a machine-gun attack, police said.

The American was identified as John Albert Swint. He headed Transac, an automobile parts factory and subsidiary of the French-owned Ika-Renault auto complex.

'Withdrawal' By Telephone

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—A man posing as state Treasurer Thomas Wiseman "withdrew" $15,520 from a state government account by telephone Wednesday, police said.

Police Lt. Harold Woods said the man, identifying himself as "Mr. Wiseman" telephoned the Commerce Union Bank Wednesday morning saying he needed to withdraw the money for a "state project."

Bank officials told police the caller gave a valid state account number.

A short time later, a porter employed by the state was told—by telephone—to pick up the money at the bank and deliver it to a state Highway Bureau office. An employe there was told—also by telephone—to hold the package until someone picked it up.

After the package was delivered, a man identifying himself as a cab driver picked up the money and disappeared.

Wiseman, who did not learn of the withdrawal until late in the afternoon, said, "It was the work of a very smooth con artist who conned a lot of folks."

Wiseman added that his office never deals in cash.

struggle together to restore Palestine."

Why hasn't the Arab world used oil as a weapon sooner, he was asked.

"It's a much more powerful weapon now," said Khadafy, smiling. "Before, the need for oil in Europe and America was not necessary like now, and our production wasn't as great as it is now."

Khadafy had said earlier in the week he would not object to a meeting with U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

"The first thing I would like to discuss with him is where do the interests of the United States lie," he said in the interview. "Is it in Israel or the Arab world? If he has a mind, he must know that there are more interests of the U.S. in the Arab world. Either the United States should be on the Arab side — and don't say Arab, say the right side — or the U.S. should be nonaligned.

major bills prompts equal concern. If our national truly is to achieve "energy independence," the major thrust of a research and development program must be directed less toward fossil fuels and atomic fuels and more toward what the experts call "the exotics" — the energy of the sun, the energy of the wind.

One hears pathetically little talk on the hill of harnessing the sun and the wind. The talk is chiefly of coal degasification, oil shales, offshore drilling, and expediting development of atomic energy plants. The talk, that is to say, is of further exploitation of resources that are either finite or hazardous. The sun and the wind, by contrast, are clean, safe and inexhaustible. If these resources could be mastered—andthey can be mastered—much of the problem would be solved not merely for the here and now, but also for the world and for the future.

Our concerns this winter have to deal with power in two meanings — with political power, and with kinetic power also. The problem is to control the one and to expand the other. If we fail, we can look to the day when two lights grow dim — the lights of freedom, and the light of industry as well.

For Kings, Presidents and you...

This Is Dallas: Ten Years After JFK's Murder

By ROBERT E. FORD
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Still they come. Two or three at a time, sometimes a half dozen. Hundreds daily.

They stop on the narrow street and point upward. They know the window.

It's six floors up the Texas School Book Depository Building. Ten years ago, by Warren Commission account, Lee Harvey Oswald perched up there and murderously aimed a $12.78 rifle at President John F. Kennedy.

On the outside, the reddish brick building shows little change. Some windows yawn open, their blinds hanging every which way. Inside there's nothing. The Texas School Book Depository Co. is long gone.

But the old bricks will never lose the name.

Not far away is the grassy knoll. It's very important to doubters of the Warren Commission's verdict that Oswald acted alone. They say another assassin, maybe more, could have crouched there.

The grass of the knoll is bright green this time of year.

About 200 yards away from the Dealy Plaza area is the John F. Kennedy Museum. Crowds form there often. It's a commercial enterprise, but owners are very conscious of taste. Another 200 yards to the southeast is the city's Kennedy Memorial: four walls of pale white concrete, the top open to the sky. The grounds are well kept.

At the center of the memorial is a small platform bearing Kennedy's name. Along the approach is a granite insert in the concrete. It reads in part:

"...It is not a memorial to the pain and sorrow of death but stands as a permanent tribute to the joy and excitement of one man's life..."

These are the landmarks and this is Dallas, the Big D, the town fate picked for Kennedy's death.

Dallas had been battered by national criticism in the months before Kennedy's arrival in the city on Nov. 22, 1963.

A few militant ultraconservatives had set off some distressing events — jostling of Lyndon B. Johnson and Lady Bird during a campaign appearance, a "National Indignation Convention" which turned into an anti-Kennedy movement, and a physical assault on the late United Nations Ambassador Adlai Stevenson — he was spat upon and struck with a picket sign after a United Nations Day speech.

The events hardly touched the mainstream of Dallas, however. Residents considered them freak outbreaks, the work of a few extremists. But they happened and when the rifle bullets ripped into Kennedy, Dallas for many became a "city of hate."

It became a common theme in those days, even though many wondered how Oswald, a self-styled Marxist, could be equated with the right-wing frenzy. Yet the words were spoken, even in Dallas.

Sarah T. Hughes, the federal judge who in Dallas swore in Lyndon B. Johnson as Kennedy's successor, made a speech not long after the killing.

"There was a climate of hate in Dallas that was not evident in any other place. I definitely think that the feeling in Dallas contributed to the fact that Oswald would do this deed here rather than in some other city," she declared.

Today, however, Judge Hughes believes that the "climate of hate" has to a large degree disappeared. And it is hard to find anger heard among tourists who come to view the street where Kennedy died.

The National Indignation Convention, born as a protest against military aid to Yugoslavia, has disappeared. Its founder, Frank McGehee, a garage owner, is no longer listed in area directories.

In the wake of the assassination, professors and some others at Dallas' Southern Methodist University formed a committee to discuss the issues raised by the murder. Its main object was to change the attitude of Dallas, namely the conservative bent of its politics.

The committee met about three times, but no longer convenes. "I don't know what they accomplished, if anything," an SMU spokesman said.

Dallas today can still be called a conservative city. It's no New York or San Francisco. But the term has lost a lot of meaning in 10 years. There have been a lot of terms and movements since.

To Felix McKnight, vice chairman of the Dallas Times Herald, there has been a shift in attitude in the city.

To him Dallas always has been a tolerant city, but now more than ever before.

The Dallas leadership today, he said, is composed of younger men and women with a high degree of tolerance. The city was "once run by four or five senior heads. No more," he added.

Lives Of Characters In Dallas Tragedy Changed

DALLAS, Tex.(AP) — Change has affected all walks of life in the 10 years since the assassination of President John F. Kennedy. Here is a look at what has happened to some of the characters in the tragedy of Nov. 22, 1963 in Dallas:

Lyndon B. Johnson, Kennedy successor, died of a heart attack on Jan. 22, 1973.

Marina Oswald, Russian-born wife of Lee Harvey Oswald, married Kenneth J. Porter, a sewing machine company employe, in 1964. They have a 7-year-old son and live in Rockwall, a rural area near Dallas, with Oswald's two daughters, June, 12, and Rachel, 10.

Marguerite Oswald, Lee Harvey's mother, lives in Fort Worth, Tex., and still asserts that her son was innocent of the Kennedy murder.

John B. Connally, then the Texas governor who was wounded in the assassination, became secretary of the Treasury and special adviser to President Nixon. He has switched to the Republican party and is considered a contender for the 1976 nomination.

Mrs. J.D. Tippit, widow of the Dallas policeman slain shortly after the assassination, married Harry D. Thomas, a Dallas police lieutenant, in 1967. People from around the world donated money to the Tippit family after the assassination and in 1964 the Dallas Police Department reported the total at $656,391.58. There has been no further public accounting.

Sarah T. Hughes, the District Court judge who administered the oath of office to Johnson, is 76 and holds the same federal judgeship.

Dr. Malcolm O. Perry, the surgeon who attended the dying president, still practices at Parkland Hospital and is now a full professor of surgery at the University of Texas Southwestern Medical School.

Willian Wayne Whaley, who drove the taxicab carrying Oswald from downtown to his rooming house after the assassination, was killed in a traffic accident Dec. 18, 1965.

Earlene Roberts, Oswald's landlady, died of a heart attack Jan. 9, 1966.

Police Chief Jesse Curry retired from the department after 30 years and is a vice president and the security chief of a downtown bank.

J. Gordon Shanklin remains as FBI agent in charge in Dallas.

Forrest V. Sorrels, agent in charge of the Dallas Secret Service office, retired about three years ago.

William Greer, driver of the Kennedy car on Nov. 22, received disability retirement from the Secret Service in 1966 because of an ulcer condition.

Patrolman M.N. McDonald, who grappled with Oswald in the Texas theater and, with help of others arrested him, was promoted to detective and is still with the department.

Guidelines On Meeting Natives

By DAVID VIDAL
Associated Press Writer

BRASILIA (AP) — The chances are slim. But just in case you're caught in the middle of the Amazon jungle face to face with primitive Indians, Brazil has just the thing for you.

A how-to booklet or Indian ABC called "Contact With Indians, What You Should Do" just rolled off the copy machines at the official FUNAI Indian Affairs Agency.

It is primarily intended for the hundreds of soldiers and contracted workers who will begin chopping a new road along the northern frontier of Brazil's Amazon jungle starting next year.

Brazil is one of the few countries in the world where primitive cultures live in isolation inside a modern nation state.

No one knows for sure how many original Brazilians inhabit remote areas of this huge South American nation. But moderate estimates put the indigenous Indian population at 100,000.

This compares with a national census numbering 100 million Brazilians who live in Westernized society.

This society has decided to conquer its last frontier — the Amazon — much like American pioneers conquered the Wild West. But instead of railways the Brazilians are building roads, huge, ambitious roads under unique tropical conditions in the world's biggest forest.

One of these roads is the Transamazon Highway, going from the Atlantic coast west to the Peruvian border 3,350 miles away across Brazil's shoulders, now nearing completion.

Another is the northern perimeter road which will blaze a new trail along Brazil's northern borders cutting through some areas never before visited by Western man.

But an unknown number of men do inhabit the region. What to do when faced with the gap in centuries between you and them?

FUNAI says that for one you should be vaccinated. "The Indian does not have defenses in his organism against the diseases of the civilized peoples."

Point 2, illustrated with a cartoon showing an armed outsider with a dog, oversized boots, a hat and an arrow-bearing Indian behind a tree suggests: "Avoid hunting."

The Indian does not like to see strangers on the land he loves without his permission. Hunting provides the Indian with his food.

If you sight anything to suggest Indians might be around, immediately notify your friendly FUNAI agent nearby, and if a tribe pays the highway camp a neighborly visit, don't stare at the squaws.

You've also got to be understanding if visiting Indians help themselves to your survival rations, geographical instruments or tools. They might not understand your attitude and become irritated.

Don't panic. Point 6 says Indians are generally meek and frequently test the courage of their civilized friends.

It might be better to give than to receive but in the Amazon the accent is on receiving. If during a visit to the camp an Indian offers you something "don't refuse it, you might offend him." And if you want to respond in kind first consult FUNAI.

Point 8 touches on food. "Remember that although you're visiting an unknown area, it belongs to the Indians. So don't destroy farming plots or take anything from them to feed yourself."

Your Western training might lead to clothing offers to help the Indian cover his shame. But "don't give clothes to the Indians," says Point 9.

"Without knowing, you might be transmiting some disease and a simple cold could result in the death of many Indians in a tribe."

An ounce of prevention is better than a pound of cure, so consult your local friendly adds Point 10. When in doubt FUNAI agent.

New Life In Astronomy In New York

BY BARBARA SLAVIN

NEW YORK (UPI) — In the late 1930's astronomers abandoned their telescopes in New York City, saying the dense air pollution and bright lights made serious stargazing impossible. Now they say a new radio telescope at Columbia University will let them stay at home.

The new telescope, they say, picks up radio waves instead of light rays, and radio waves can cut through even the thickest New York City smog.

The telescope, one of two dozen in the United States and the first in New York City, will be ready for use by Christmas. It will be housed on the roof of the Pupin Physics Laboratories building in a 10-foot-tall aluminum dome, next to the old copper-green dome of Columbia's Rutherford Observatory, abandoned over 30 years ago because of increasingly poor atmospheric conditions.

The radio telescope will be used on number of exciting projects. It will let astronomers map our own galaxy, the Milky Way—and learn more about the possibility of life on other planets.

According to Dr. Patrick Thaddeus, who designed the telescope with three Columbia graduate students, the Columbia telescope is "one of a handful in the world" capable of detecting minute radio waves between one and ten millimeters in length.

"The millimeter wavelength band is the only clean band in New York City," Dr. Thaddeus said. Television and AM radio waves—which range from one-to-ten meters in length—will not interfere with the signals from space.

Until now, most radio telescope research was done at the Kitt Peak installation in Tucson, Arizona, or the McDonald Observatory in Fort Davis, Texas.

Dr. Thaddeus, adjunct professor of physics at Columbia and a staff member of NASA's Institute for Space Studies, said their first major project will be to map the structure of the Milky Way.

The Milky Way is actually the edge of a huge dish-shaped galaxy made up of 200 billion stars, one of them our own sun.

Until the advent of radio astronomy, it was impossible to map our own galaxy accurately because of dense "clouds" of molecular gas separating our solar system from the center of the Milky Way.

But the gas molecules emit radio waves that can be detected by radio astronomers.

Most of the gas is hydrogen, the most abundant element in space and the material of which stars are made. In high density areas, ahere stars are formed, the hydrogen atoms combine into molecules which produce no detectable radio signals. However, scientists have recently discovered that the hydrogen molecules are almost always found next to carbon monoxide molecules which emit a detectable 2.6-millimeter radio wave.

The discovery of carbon monoxide molecules in space is a real breakthrough in determining how stars are formed and the origin of life on earth, Dr. Thaddeus said. Until recently, scientists had been unable to detect the presence of organic substances in space.

Tintypes—Nostalgia Gimmick

By CATHY TROST

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — The scene has been lifted straight from the 1850s and deposited in the bustling parking lot of a modern day shopping center.

A man and a woman stand rigid and stern, swathed in velvet capes and bowler hats, looking for all the world like two weary pioneers who took the wrong turn at the Cumberland Pass and ended up at the K-Mart Discount Center.

They are posing for Doug Elbinger, who claims to be the nation's only itinerant tintype photographer and is the enterprising owner of Elbinger and Sun (this "Sun" acknowledges the early photographer's dependency on sunlight).

The 23-year-old entrepreneur and his energetic partner, John Garofalo, tour the country in their specially equipped van, much like the circuits traveled by preachers and medicine men in the 1800's.

They don't seek out isolated mining towns and country villages, however. These modern-day wanderers hit the meccas of suburbia—shopping centers.

Piece of History

In exchange for $10 and 15 minutes of his time, the customer receives a varnished and framed tintype—and a small piece of history.

"The last thing we're selling is a tintype," said Garofalo with a wave of his hands. "We're dealing with nostalgia, a whole different time zone, and our medium to do this is the tintype."

"We think of ourselves as an educational institution. We take the time to explain the origins of the process, exactly how it is done and its historical perspectives."

Original tintypes were popular during the Civl War and for about 20 years afterward. Louis Daguere of France invented the daguerrotype in 1839 but it was an expensive process and did not capture the fancy of the American people. In 1856, Prof. Hamilton Smith of Gambier, Ohio, invented the japanned or lacquered plate, more commonly known as the tintype.

Elbinger spent almost three years researching tintype photography in the archives of the Smithsonian Institution and the International Museum of Photography in Rochester, N.Y.

Antique Shows

He has worked worldwide as a free-lance photographer with credits in the Saturday Review, the New York Times, Detroit Free Press, NBC News and the United Nations Information Agency.

Elbinger and Sun was inaugurated in November, 1972, with a $7,000 loan from "a friend." Some of the money was used to finance the acquisition of six cameras—all exact replicas of 1870 models built by a craftsman in Detroit.

"The business got off the ground after I got some feedback from antique dealers who said tintypes would be a popular attraction at antique shows," Elbinger said.

Garofalo became a full-time partner last March after he saw one of Elbinger's exhibitions at an East Lansing photographic gallery.

They recently completed tours of Indiana, West Virginia and Michigan with a highlight stop at Gettysburg, Pa. Plans for the future include a road trip this winter to Florida, where they have 20 shopping centers lined up.

Bicentennial

"We also stand a chance of getting concession rights during the nation's bicentennial celebration coming up in 1976," Elbinger said. "The tintype would be used as an official souvenir."

The two young men think the market is wide open for their product, and feel they can keep busy for at least three or four more years.

"Almost anybody is attracted to it," Elbinger said. "We try to gear ourselves towards people who are interested in history because they have a better understanding of what we are trying to do. Other people are attracted to it because they like to get dressed up to get their picture taken."

Aong with all the photographic equipment carried in the van, this partners have built up a collection of period clothing, ranging from Civil War uniforms and top hats to lacy baby dresses and swords, which customers are encouraged to don for the authentic touch.

Gary Owens Has A Literary Side

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Gary Owens, known to millions as the hand-to-ear announcer on "Laugh-In," is a man of many parts. The author part was in town the other day to discuss literary matters.

The matter was his third book. It concerns what to do while holding the phone. One suggestion: "Write a 10,000 word essay on why Vincent Van Gogh would not have enjoyed stereo."

The 119-page volume also has many historical facts about phones, but Owens forgot to talk about them. In fact, he forgot to talk about the book because other matters came up.

Most people think of Owens — a slender, vaguely professorial native of Mitchell, S.D. — as America's weirdest announcer because of "Laugh-In," which NBC cancelled this year after six seasons.

But he insists: "I'm not really an announcer. It's a misnomer."

Finding the right nomer is hard. He's an actor, with some 50 other TV shows in his logbook. He's a voice on TV cartoons and on the 400 or so radio and TV commercials he estimates he does in a year. He also writes and has made five comedy albums.

On top of all that, he's a top-rated disc jockey at KMPC in Los Angeles, a city where he and deejays like him emit the wildest, funniest brand of humor heard anywhere in the United States.

Owens said he got his "Laugh-In" job in a strange way.

He and George Schlatter, then head of the show, were lunching one day at a Burbank restaurant near the "Laugh-In" headquarters.

They went into the bathroom to wash up. Owens, noticing how their voices bounced off the tiles, cupped a hand to his ear like an old-style radio announcer and intoned: "My, the acoustics are good in here."

Whereupon, he said, "Schlatter says, 'Oh, hey, keep that in.' And I said, 'What, you want me to wash my hands on the show?'

"I retained that one character throughout the show," he said, cupping a hand to his ear. "I came on like a 1930s announcer and said things like: 'The Eiffel Tower in Paris, France, is not really made of Eiffel after all.'"

Strip Miners Have Turned Up A Profit In Beauty

By DAVID A. MILNE

BUTLER, Pa. (UPI) — Something that looks and sounds like a new environmental awareness has come over strip miners in Western Pennsylvania.

Operators who cried doom when Pennsylvania passed a tough surface mine relcamation law two years ago now praise it and say they are doing a better restoration job than the law requires. They invite politicians to tour the reclaimed mine sites and see how manmade moonscapes can be erased with no visible scars.

Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp was moved to remark after one such tour that "the companies are on their way to making a garden of Eden out of strip mined lands in Western Pennsylvania."

One reason for this awareness, environmental observers and government officials say, is profit. Strippers have found they can make money by obeying the law.

Land Values Up

Land values have been increasing so much in the region that is has become profitable for mining companies to restore and often improve the land they own and have stripped.

Also, landowners have become so reluctant to lease coal and other mineral deposits that the strippers have to promise perfect restoration or land improvement to win them over.

"We can make new babies, new cars and new buildings, but we can't make new land. That's why we have to use the land that is left wisely."

That is not an environmentalist talking. It' Robert Sechan Jr., owner of the Sechan Limestone Co., and one of the first strippers to realize the profit in reclamation.

In 1968, Sechan purchased 266 acres of land he had stripped under a lease agreement for $100 an acre. His restoration work has turned the strip mine into a real estate gold mine.

Reclamation

Sechan is building a mobile home park on the reclaimed mine land with 1,000 spaces that will rent for $50 per month. Plans include a lake, swimming pool, community center and a wooded picnic area.

That's not all. He has since purchased and stripped about 1,200 acres in the same area and he has started restoration work.

Sechan says he plans to build a shopping center, a 100-unit motel and an industrial park on that land. Negotiations are under way with a motel chain and a soft drink firm, he said.

Sechan said the land he is developing was worthless before it was stripped. It was steeply sloped in places and swampy in others. But when the land was reclaimed, he said, the steeps hills were rounded off and the swamps filled in. On today's market, it would be worth about $2,000 an acre, he said.

Pete Chernicky, owner of the C&K Coal Co., is another stripper who plans to make a profit from reclamation.

Mining improves land

C&K owns thousands of acres at one site in Clarion County. Chernicky said after it is stripped and reclaimed, C&K will go into the business of raising beef cattle on the land.

"Strip mining can improve the farmland in this area" Chernicky said. "There's usually not enough topsoil for good production on hill tops and a surplus in the valleys. When we reclaim this kind of land, we spread the topsoil out evenly so crop production can be improved."

Chernicky said the new emphasis on restoration has helped improve relations with landowners and opened up coal deposits never before available.

"One farmer held out for 40 years against the strip miners who wanted the coal beneath his land," Chernicky said. "When he saw what a good job we were going, he came to us."

No regrets

Willis Elliott, the farmer in this case, said he has no regrets. He stands to make about $100,000 in royalties and C&K has loaned him land to farm while his is being stripped.

Price Of Fuel Famine To American Public Is Cited By Sec. Morton

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Brace yourself for a cold, dim, stay-at-home winter.

To keep the wheels of the economy turning despite mounting fuel shortages, an Interior Department report says, the public must give up:

—Half of its private driving.
—One-fifth of its jet travel.
—One-fifth of its electricity.
—Plus 15 to 25 per cent of its home and office heating.

And, adding insult to injury, air pollution from soot and sulfur will get worse.

Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton referred to the report's findings as he warned Wednesday of possible East Coast electric brownouts, as a result of residual oil shortages, starting in December.

That threat is nearing reality in New England, where Connecticut Gov. Thomas J. Meskill said electric voltage will be cut five per cent from 4 p.m. to 8 p.m. daily starting Monday.

Meskill said the New England Governor's conference had requested the cut by electric companies in the six states. He said the cut will have a minimal effect on consumers.

Without emergency corrective action, Interior's Office of Energy Data and Analysis has told Morton, shortages of residual oil, needed by electric power plants and industries, will start developing about Dec. 3.

Shortages of home heating oil, diesel and jet fuel may begin by the end of January, followed by gasoline shortages starting around Feb. 9, the report estimated.

One of the first things to be done, it said, would be to increase refinery output of residual and distillate oils, reducing quickly their shortage, but doubling the expected gasoline shortage in the process.

"The resulting 21 per cent gasoline deficit can be recouped through a 30 per cent reduction in family, social and recreational driving," the report said.

Interior's gloomy report appeared to move gasoline rationing a step closer to reality.

An early cut in gasoline production, it said, "increases the urgency of reducing demand immediately."

John T. Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council, said there are several ways to reduce consumption, including slower highway speeds and closing of gas stations on Sundays.

The report predicted a total petroleum shortage of almost 3.5 million barrels per day in the first three months of 1974, almost 18 per cent of the nation's potential demand for 19.7 million barrels a day.

The predicted petroleum shortage amounts to a shortage of 8 per cent of the nation's total energy demand, and energy is usually directly related to economic output and employment.

Budget director Roy L. Ash said Nixon would act "relatively soon" on a proposal to ban gasoline sales on Sundays.

eligible to purchase, if available, the same amounts they were allotted the last two months of 1972.

Noting that this year's allocations are based on last year's purchases, Allen reminded that last winter was "fairly mild" and the severity of the coming months will be important in determining the availability of fuel products.

John King of Moore-King-Sullivan Oil Co. reported that his company is "operating on a day-to-day basis." The company distributes Union 76 products.

The supply of heating fuels for distribution of Carawan Oil Co. so far has been "satisfactory," according to Thomas Scoopmire, assistant manager.

The company, which distributes Exxon products, has taken on some new customers, Scoopmire reported, "but whether we will be able to continue to do this is difficult to say." He added that the company's allocations so far have been sufficient to meet the needs of regular customers.

Scoopmire also agreed that much will depend on what situation we are faced with in the coming winter months.

"We are getting what we received last November," explained Frank Jackson of Bell-Roberson Oil Co., Phillips 66 dealers, "but we don't know what situation we will be in next month."

Jackson said that "as of now, we are able to supply our regular customers" but he said that while the company may be able to wait on new customers now, "we can't promise them we'll be able to service them through the winter."

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—A computerized car-pooling plan to affect everyone who drives to work in Charlotte has gathered momentum with the appoinment of a finance company executive, Edwin P. Latimer, as chairman of an energy task force.

7-Year-Old Dies In Fire

CHERRYVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A 7-year-old boy was killed and his father critically burned early today in a fire at their five-room, frame house in Cherryville.

The mother and five other children escaped the Thanksgiving Day tragedy unharmed, authorities said.

Cherryville fire officials identifie the victim as Roger Beam. Authorities said he apparently was overcome by smoke in a bathroom, where his body was found. There was no evidence that he was burned.

The father, Haywood Hoover Beam, in his 50s, was rushed to Cleveland Memorial Hospital in Shelby. He was listed in critical condition with third degree burns over 60 per cent of his body, a spokesman said.

Chief Bob Mauney of the Cherryville Fire Department said the call was received about 12:30 a.m. When fire fighters arrived the elder Beam was lying in the front yard, wrapped in quilts.

Credibility Again Hurt

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — President Nixon's failure to warn Republican governors of a gap in a Watergate tape is a blow to the President's credibility, says the chairman of the Republican Governors Association.

Nixon met with the GOP governors at their Memphis meeting Tuesday and said there were no new Watergate bombshells that he knew about.

"I came out of there assured that we've bottomed out and now I'm not sure that we have bottomed out, because this revelation does call for some further explanation," said Tennessee Gov. Winfield Dunn.

"I'm not suggesting that there has been tampering," Dunn said. "But I think it would be a terrible blow to the loss of the confidence of the people ... It's discouraged me to a degree."

Dunn called a Wednesday night news conference after White House special counsel J. Fred Buzhardt told U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica that 18 minutes of a taped conversation between the President and former aide H. R. Haldeman was obliterated by noise.

Buzhardt said he doesn't think the 18-minute gap in the tape, made three days after the June 17, 1972, Watergate break-in, could be regarded as a bombshell.

"I simply cannot agree that this is not seriously important," said Dunn. "I think I, if I had been with the governors in the President's position, I might want to tell them about this revelation."

Rampants Host Hoggard In Second Round

Offensive Tackle Ron Hunt

Friday night at 8 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium, Rose High School's Rampants will try to make it two in a row in the State 4-A Playoffs.

The Rampants will be entertaining Wilmington's Hoggard High School in the second round of the playoffs. The winner will advance into the Eastern finals, just one step away from the state championship.

Both teams gained playoff berths because of the new alignment this year, which saw more than eight divisions. The state now has 10 and to play to a championship requires four weeks, or 16 teams. Thus, six out of every years, each division will have two entries. Both Rose and Hoggard finished in second place in their division.

Last week, Rose knocked off the winner of Division V, Raleigh Enloe, 26-0. At the same time, Hoggard was beating Division II winner, New Bern, 9-6.

For the Rampants, the victory last week was a stunning one. "We went up there with a game plan in mind," Coach Dave Bumgarner said, "and we fullfilled it just as we wanted to. We felt we could stop their running and passing and we did. Offensively, we made no changes, but we didn't block quite as well in the first half as we should have. We did block better in the second half."

Bumgarner said the Rampants went more with their option play in the second half, and this helped them to gain yardage. "We knew that if we could score after the kickoff (in the second half) we would have the game in our hands. We wanted to force them to do things they didn't do well, and by scoring we did. They like to run off tackle best, but we made them stop this and go to the pass."

The Rampants were also aided by five fumbles turned over to them. "It really should have been 21-0 at the half instead of 7-0" Bumgarner said.

The Rampants came out of the game relatively healthy, but running back Doug Paschal was lost for the remainder of the season with a broken leg. The injury occured late in the second quarter against Enloe. "It's a clean break, but not a bad one," the coach said. "It should heal quickly, but he definitely won't be back this season."

Jackie Savage, who played most of the second half limping, got stepped on during the final play of the first half, and suffered a bruise on his leg. "He's okay now," the coach said.

Hoggard will bring into Ficklen Stadium a fine record, having beaten three teams who beat Rose this year: Jacksonville, 24-13, Rocky Mount, 10-0, and New Bern, 9-6. "They have a very good passing attack," Bumgarner said. "Their quaterback, Jeff Smith throws the ball very well, and he has two outstanding receivers." They include flanker Jim Rouse and end Tony Wilson. "He goes to them nearly all the time."

The Hoggard team also has a good running attack, with George Jackson and Mike Brown doing most of the ball carrying.

"They run from an I formation quite similar to that of East Carolina, except that they bring both of their ends in tight," Bumgarner said.

Defensively, Hoggard runs from two different sets, a 4-4, and a split-6. "They are very physical on defense, and very strong. It's a question as to whether we can move the ball on them. We have to be able to both run and pass. if they have a weakness, however, it might be to the pass."

Bumgarner noted that a little extra time has been spent on passing this week. "Billy Byrd has been working hard with the ends to get the passing game sharpened," he said.

The kicking game could be the edge in the game. "Points after and field goals could determine it," the coach said. Both teams have good kickers.

The winner will advance to meet the winner of the Sanford-Rocky Mount game.

Starting offensively for Rose will be Mike Wallace and T.J. Payne at ends, Ron Hunt and Lee Hill at tackles, Dave Matheis and Jeff Hagan at guards. Ed Connelly at center, Henry Trevathan at quarterback. Jackie Savage at fullback. Lindberg Morris and Keith Joyner at halfbacks.

On defense, it'll be Ronnie Rasberry and Savage at ends, Mike Bryant and Pat Hagans at tackles, Vince Atkinson, Jerry Griffin, Harold Randolph and Mike Brewington at linebackers, and Dickie Johnson, Nat Perkins and Al Heath in the secondary.

Dolphins Would Be Thankful For A Win

By FRED ROTHENBERG
Associated Press Sports Writer

It's the gift-giving season and it's important to solve that annual dilemma: What to give the team that has everything?

The Miami Dolphins, who had everything and won everthing last season, again don't need very much. The Dolphins have already clinched their third straight American Conference East title.

But they would be very thankful if they could get something they've never had before: a victory over the Dallas Cowboys.

The defending Super Bowl champions get their chance today when they travel to Dallas to meet the Cowboys in a 3:30 p.m. EST, kickoff.

But the Cowboys, whose victories over Miami include the Super Bowl VI battle and a 1973 pre-season game, aren't in a gift-giving mood.

Dallas, 7-3, is locked in a NFC first-place tie with the Washington Redskins, who travel to Detroit to meet the Lions for 12:35 p.m., EST, start in today's other National Football League game.

On Sunday, Kansas City travels to Denver; Pittsburgh visits Cleveland; San Diego plays at Oakland; Los Angeles is at New Orleans; Houston hosts New England; Baltimore is at home to Buffalo; the New York Jets entertain Atlanta; Chicago visits Minnesota; the New York Giants are at Philadelphia and Cincinnati hosts St. Louis.

Monday night's game has Green Bay at San Francisco.

Although turkey is the bird of the day, Dallas and Washington will be thinking about the high-flying Falcons from Atlanta.

"We can't depend on a wild card spot in the playoffs now that Atlanta is making such a strong finish," said Dallas Coach Tom Landry.

And for variety, Landry has done some heavy thinking about fish — the Dolphin kind.

"Miami is always difficult and you can disregard that pre-season game," said Landry. "They look just as good on film as their championship team did last year."

The movies Landry has been viewing reveal that Miami has a 9-1 record this season — 26-1 over the past two years — and hasn't allowed a point in the last 10 quarters.

But the Cowboys have some impressive records of their own. They've never lost a regular season game against an AFC club, lead the NFL in scoring and, of course, have never lost to the Dolphins.

The Redskins never lack for incentive with their coach, George Allen, firing them up. The Redskins should know that a return to the Super Bowl may depend on their beating the Lions.

Top Frosh Is Injured

CHAPEL HILL (AP)—A promising University of North Carolina freshman basketball player, Tommy LaGarde, has suffered a foot injury that may keep him out of action for 10 days to two weeks.

Coach Dean Smith said Wednesday that LaGarde, 6-10 forward from Detroit, definitely will miss North Carolina's opener with Houston at Greensboro Dec. 1.

"It's a big blow to us at this time," Smith said.

Lights Out, Game Gone

SNOW HILL—Greene Central's opening Eastern Carolina Conference game with D. H. Conley High School was postponed last night due to a power failure.

Both the boys and girls games had to be rescheduled for a later date. No date was set last night for the games, but a new date was expected to be set Monday.

Jaguars Down Eastern Wayne

FARMVILLE—Farmville Central rebounded from an opening non-conference defeat to hand Eastern Wayne a 63-53 setback in the first Eastern Plains Conference game for both teams.

The Lady Jaguars bowed, however, 56-50, to the Lady Warriors. Details of that game were not made available to The Daily Reflector.

In the boys' contest, Farmville Central eased out into a 16-11 lead in the first period and were in command throughout the first half of play. They outhit the Warriors, 17-10, in the second quarter and built their lead to 33-21 by halftime.

Eastern put on a rally in the third period, outscoring Farmville, 19-13, to cut the lead back to 46-40. But the Jaguars pulled away again from there, outscoring Eastern, 17-13, to the wire.

Robert Dixon led the Jaguar scoring with 13 points, while Mark Gorham had 11 and Lee Johnson had 10. For Eastern Wayne, Mark Edmonds had 12 points and Ron Coley had 11.

Farmville Central's next outing will be next Friday when it plays host to Southern Nash.

Panthers Get Pair Of Wins

WILLIAMSTON—North Pitt High School took a pair of games from Williamston High School last night, but nearly didn't make it in the girls' game.

The Big Orange Machine won its opener, 41-37, but it took two free throws with no time left and an overtime to do it. The boys' won their game, 70-54.

In the girls' game, the two arch rivals squared off in a thriller. North Pitt moved out into the lead in the first period, 12-6, but Williamston came back with a 10-8 advantage in the second frame. That cut the lead to 20-16.

In the third period, the Big Orange moved away again, 13-6, to up the lead to 33-22. But in the final period, North Pitt couldn't find the basket at all as Williamston ripped off 13 straight points to take the lead for the first time, 37-33.

But with the horn sounding, North Pitt was fouled, and Kathy Manning made both ends of the one-and-one, tieing the game and forcing the overtime. The Pant-HERS made the first point, a free throw, but Williamston hit a basket. After that, however, it was all North Pitt as they pushed through five more points and held Williamston scoreless for the victory.

Miss Manning led the Pant-HERS scoring with 13 points, while Wanda Whichard added 10. Sissy Taylor and Bet Brandon each had 10 for Williamston.

In the boys' event, North Pitt had no trouble after opening minutes. They streaked away to a 19-6 lead in the first period and cruised through the second. The Tigers outhit them, 17-15, in that frame, but the Panthers still led, 34-23 at intermission.

In the third frame, North Pitt kept moving, dumping in 20 points, while limiting Williamston to only half that number. That rant the Panther advantage to 54-33. Williamston got a small rally going in the final period, outshooting North Pitt, 21-16, but to no avail.

David Brown led North Pitt with 25 points. G. Brown had 23, and J. Purvis had 14 for Williamston.

North Pitt travels to Ayden-Grifton on Tuesday, while Williamston goes to Oak City.

Conference Crowns On Line Over Weekend

By JOHN NELSON
Associated Press Sports Writer

Titles in the Southeastern, Big Ten and Pacific Eight conferences are among those on the line over the long Thanksgiving weekend as nine of the top 10 college football teams play in nationally televised games.

Also on the line in those nationally televised games are two Rose Bowl berths and six unbeaten records.

The weekend begins today with Alabama meeting Louisiana State for the SEC championship, and Air Force playing Notre Dame. Friday, Oklahoma takes on Nebraska, and Saturday, No. 1 ranked Ohio State meets Michigan for the Big Ten title and the visiting team spot in the Rose Bowl, and UCLA and Southern Cal clash for the Pac-8 crown and the home team spot in the Rose Bowl.

LSU Coach Charles McClendon thinks his seventh-ranked Tigers are meeting "the best team in America" in the No. 2-ranked Crimson Tide.

Both the Tide and LSU are teams of great depth. Alabama Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant has used as many as 70 players in a game.

Ben Martin's unranked Air Force squad would like to be the first service team to beat fifth-ranked Notre Dame since Ara Parseghian became coach in 1964.

Irish quarterback Tom Clements has directed a powerful running offense that has kept Notre Dame unbeaten this season, but in his last appearance against Pittsburgh he was severely hampered by a pulled abdominal muscle.

"With the week off, Tom should be back in perfect health for our game against the Air Force," Parseghian said.

Nebraska, rated 10th nationally, will be the underdog for the first time in nearly four seasons when it meets third-ranked Oklahoma. But Nebraska Coach Tom Osborne says he and his players won't concede that unbeaten Oklahoma is unbeatable.

Powerful USC, ranked ninth, meets No. 8 UCLA in a rivalry that could produce sparks even with much less at stake.

Southern Cal is 8-1-1 and UCLA is 9-1-0. John McKay has admitted that he's coached more powerful Southern Cal teams, and Pepper Rodgers, the Bruins' coach, will test the theory with one of the nation's most explosive scoring teams.

Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler admits "emotions will be very, very important ..." when his fourth-ranked Wolverines meet Ohio State, and he is glad he's playing at home.

Schembechler has not lost a Big Ten game at home since he became coach in 1968. "Both teams will be extremely high for the game," Schembechler says. "No team can ever get too high."

Cougars Draw Is Not Pleasing

By ROBERT H. REID
Associated Press Writer

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — The Carolina Cougars, despite an enviable combination of a winning record, hometown talent and a basketball-hungry state, haven't been able to find box office success this season.

Cougar officials believe a mixture of economic jitters and a weak early season schedule is responsible for their trailing four American Basketball Association teams at the gates despite a 17-5 record and second place in the ABA east division.

"We're feeling the pinch," said Bill Gullion, manager of Carolina's Charlotte office. "People are being very cautious on how they spend their money. They may be saving for the good games."

The Cougars are looking to their game against division-leading Kentucky in Charlotte Dec. 1 as "a good barometer." Carolina defeated Kentucky in Cincinnati, Ohio, earlier this season.

Crowds at the 11,666-seat Charlotte Coliseum dropped as low as 3,243 for a game against Memphis. Last Saturday's game there against Utah drew 6,714.

Figures for games in Raleigh and Greensboro, where the Cougars play their other "home games," have been roughly the same. In the 15,000-seat Greensboro Coliseum, the largest crowd was 8,891 for the Nov. 16 game against New York. The one game in Raleigh's 12,400-seat facility drew 5,835.

The Cougars were trailing Kentucky, Indiana, Utah and New York in attendance at last report, according to Cougar publicity chairman Ted Malick. He adds, however that the decline may be affecting all sports.

"Attendance in the NBA is way off," he said. "It's just a product of our times. I think people are concerned about the economy, the instability of the government, and we just raised our ticket prices by a dollar."

North Carolinians have been known to turn out 3,000-strong for college intrasquad basketball games. Cougar strategy has been to recruit local college stars in hopes their fans will transfer allegiance. Carolina's lineup includes Billy Cunningham, former University of North Carolina star, and Tom Owens, who played for the University of South Carolina.

The home schedule for the coming weeks includes such league teams as Kentucky, Denver and Utah.

Cousy Quitting As King Coach

By FRED ROTHENBERG
Associated Press Sports Writer

Bob Cousy, associated for so long with the amazing string of successes compiled by the Boston Celtics during the 1950s and '60s, has submitted his resignation as coach of the Kansas City-Omaha Kings of the National Basketball Association.

After the Kings lost to the 76ers Wednesday for the second night in a row, this time by a score of 103-90, Cousy made the announcement.

"Based on what I saw the last two nights, with this type of letdown the last two games, some people will think it (the losses) had something to do with it," Cousy said.

"But for the good of the team and since we are building with so many young players, I think it's a good idea to have someone new step in and familiarize himself," he added.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Detroit Pistons overcame the Phoenix Suns 107-104 and the Los Angeles Lakers downed the Capital Bullets 106-97.

In the American Basketball Association, the New York Nets romped over the Utah Stars 105-92; the Kentucky Colonels buried the Virginia Squires 145-115; the Memphis Tams tripped the Indiana Pacers 108-99 and the San Diego Conquistadors walloped the Carolina Cougars 139-125.

The best record the Kings could achieve under Cousy's guidance was 36-46, attained in 1969-70 and last year.

This season the Kings are 620 and in last place in the Midwest Division.

Gail Goodrich, the league's third leading scorer, who was held to six points in Tuesday night's loss to the Knicks, hit for 24 points and led the Lakers to a 106-97 victory over the Bullets.

Q's Down Cougars

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Rookie Bo Lamar scored 36 points Wednesday night to lead the San Diego Conquistadors to a runaway 139-125 American Basketball Association victory over the Carolina Cougars.

For the Cougars it was only their sixth loss in 23 games this season, but put them percentage points behind the Kentucky Colonels in the race for the ABA Eastern Division lead.

Lamar scored 20 points in the first half as the Q's moved to a 73-67 margin at halftime.

San Diego expanded the score to its biggest margin, 109-89, with 50 seconds remaining in the third period when Lamar snuck in for a layup.

The Q's, now 7-12, got 24 points from forward Stew Johnson and guard Chuck Williams added 16 for San Diego.

Billy Cunningham led the Cougars with 22 points while Steve Jones had 18 and Mack Calvin 16 for Carolina.

The Q's introduced two former National Basketball Association players briefly before the game's end—Travis Grant and Flynn Robinson. Earlier in the day the Q's cut Paul Stovall and Jerry Pender, both first year players, to make room for Robinson and Grant.

Indians May Be Challengers

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Fiery Coach Ed Ashnault goes into his second year at the College of William & Mary with prospects quite a bit better than last year.

During that freshman year for Ashnault, the coach brought in a fine crop of first year men like him. For a long time, they battled along, then began a rise that made them the fifth place team in the Southern Conference. They topped that off by upsetting The Citadel, 97-72 in the first round of the Southern Conference Tournament before bowing 79-76, in a hard-fought game with Davidson.

This year, those freshmen have become mature sophomores, and Ashnault is picked to battle it out for third place with Richmond, and possibly become a contender with Davidson and Furman for the title.

"We have a much better schedule this year," Ashnault said. "We had 10 at home and 15 away last year. This year, we have 12 at our place and 13 on the road."

On some of those road trips last year, things went very hard on the young Indians. In one swing of four away, they lost three. Then, on a six-game outing later in the year, they lost five.

"But it helped us," Ashnault said. "We gained a lot from it."

This year, one of the teams on the schedule is Old Dominion, a team that has long wanted the Indians on their slate. Old Dominion, prior to becoming an independent institution, was a branch of William & Mary. "I don't know why they want us so bad—I guess because of the old connection," Ashnault said. "The only objection I have to playing them is that they are a college division team. They feel it is a great rivalry. They say they can fill the SCOPE (Norfolk's arena), so I'm happy to play them. It helps Virginia basketball."

Last year, Ashnault started six players from time to time. They included three freshmen, a sophomore, a junior and a senior. So five of them are back.

They include the three freshmen, now sophomores: 6-5 Mike Arizin, 6-11 Matt Courage, 6-1 Ron Musselman; the junior, 6-4 Tom Pfingst, and the senior, 6-7 Mark Ritter.

They represent the starters for Ashnault so far.

But another junior is also knocking on the door to the starting lineup—6-6 Gary Byrd.

"We may have three freshmen who are in fact as good or better than the three freshmen we had last year," the coach said. "But none of them are going to start. All will play a lot, however, but I'm not going to put the pressure of starting on them."

The Three include 6-10 Dennis Vail, 6-3 Don Satterthwaite, and 6-7 Jim McDonough.

"Vail looks like a man among kids out there. He looks much older than his 18 years. McDonough has amazing timing in jumping to block shots. He makes up for the fact that he isn't really tall enough to do it. He had 27 points and 14 rebounds in one of our early scrimmages. Satterthwaite had 28 in the scrimmage and felt comfortable doing it. He has the potential to be one of the best players I've ever had," Ashnault added.

While everyone is picking the Indians to finish high in the standings, Ashnault isn't sure where they'll be. "I really don't know how good we are. Maybe we're beginning to turn the program around, but we just don't know yet. The conference is all coming up, so that adds another problem. Davidson and Furman are still up there on top, but the rest are improving."

He added that he would like to be as pleasantly surprised by his team this year as he was by it at the end of last year.

Ashnault also gave the tournament a boost. "It's a benefit to the conference because it gives the rest of the teams hope when they are out of the running for first place. Seven of the eight teams in the league want it every year.

"And I believe that if we can't win the tournament after we've won the regular season, we don't deserve to represent the league. You have to be ready to go when you get into the NCAA, and this is a good way to get ready for it."

Oak City In Win Over Bears

OAK CITY—Oak City High School gained a pair of victories over Bear Grass last night.

In the boys' game, Oak City took a 55-42 win, while the girls won their contest, 31-28.

In the opener, Oak City slipped into a 4-3 lead at the end of the first period. Bear Grass came back with a 7-6 advantage in the second period and the two teams were tied at halftime, 10-10.

Oak City got what proved the winning margin in the third period by outscoring the Lady Bears, 10-7 for a 20-17 lead. Both teams pushed through 11 points in the final period to hold the Trojanette lead.

Diane Duggins led Oak City with 19 points, while Kay Rawls had 10 to pace Bear Grass.

In the boys' game, the opening was just as tight as both teams tossed in 10 points each in the first frame. But in the second the Trojans pulled away outscoring Bear Grass, 19-9. That left the Trojans ahead, 29-19.

Both teams slowed in the third period, with the Bears holding a 9-8 advantage. They still trailed, however, 37-28. Oak City outhit them, 18-14, in the final period to insure the victory.

Bill Ross led Oak City with 17 points while Ronald Duggins had 13 and G. Harrington had 12. For Bear Grass, Hilton Armstrong hit 13 and Mark Gardner and Alan Crawford each had 10.

Oak City hosts Williamston on Tuesday, while Bear Grass' next outing will be next on Tuesday, Dec. 4, when Oak City pays a return visit.

Four Arrested In N.C. Bank Holdup Yesterday

BANK ROBBERY ARRESTS—Three of four men arrested in a bank robbery at Hertford Wednesday are shown with officers who arrested them at Elizabeth City shortly after the robbery. (APWirephoto)

HERTFORD, N. C. (AP)— Four men have been charged with bank robbery in Wednesday's holdup of a drive-in branch of the Peoples Bank and Trust Co. of Hertford.

It was North Carolina's 46th bank robbery this year.

The FBI identified the four as Vernon Tyrone Riddick, 17, Ricky Riddick, 20, Keven Marquel Christian, 22, and Russell Lee Epps, 20.

They were jailed in Elizabeth City under bond of $25,000 each, pending a hearing.

The FBI said four men, one with a shotgun, entered the bank Wednesday morning and demanded money. They were given money and, according to a witness, fled toward Elizabeth City in a car.

A car fitting the description was stopped about 45 minutes later, according to the FBI, and an undisclosed amount of money was recovered.

Holiday Lighting Will Be Limited

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP)— The Christmas season, which officially gets its start in Charlotte with the annual Thanksgiving Day Carrousel Parade, will lose some of its glitter this year.

Downtown decorations, which traditionally came on with the windup of the parade, will not light up today.

For the first time in 18 years, there will be no overhead Christmas lights on South Boulevard in Charlotte's Dilworth section.

The Duke Power Co. Christmas tree atop its downtown office building will not be lighted.

The 750-foot tower at Cotswold Shopping Center will not have the strings of lights with which it has been decorated in years past.

At the SouthPark shopping mall, Christmas lights will shine but some of the high overhead lights will be cut off to balance the extra power need.

In neighboring Gaston County, the town of McAdenville is taking a drastic step. Since 1955, citizens and the town's textile mill have joined to turn the community into a breaktaking display of Christmas lights.

Mill officials say more than one million persons drove through the town last December to see the trees, houses and lake ablaze with colored lights.

This year, it is reported, there will be only a token few.

Charlotte's downtown Christmas decorations will not be turned on until Friday at 6 p.m. and then, according to Jack Miller of the Central Charlotte Association, they will burn only at times when stores are open.

This means that lights which used to burn seven nights a week until 11:30 p.m., from Thanksgiving until New Year's, will be cut off at 9 p.m. and will not burn on Sundays.

Miller added, "We might turn them off for a while in December and turn them on right before Christmas. We're trying to stay flexible and roll with the problem as we see how it is going."

900 Pounds Of Pot Is Missing

COQUILLE, Ore. (AP) — The Coos County sheriff's office is looking for 900 pounds of marijuana. Again.

Sheriff's officers confiscated the weed last month after it was found growing in a field. Two area residents were charged with criminal activity in drugs, and the marijuana was held as evidence in a building regularly used to house road equipment.

Sheriff Tony Zarbano says the pot has disappeared. A spokesman for the district attorney said photographs would be used as evidence in lieu of the real thing.

ABC-TV Replacing 5 Network Shows

NEW YORK (AP) — The ABC television network will present four new half-hour series in January and February to replace five current evening shows that are being cancelled.

The network announced Wednesday that it was cancelling "Room 222," "Love, American Style," "The New Temperatures Rising Show," "Griff" and "Adam's Rib."

The first two programs were in their fifth season, "Temperatures Rising" in its second season while the last two had premiered this year.

ABC earlier had announced the cancellation of a new comedy series, "Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice."

Three of the new half-hour series slated are action-adventure shows — "The Cowboys," based on a John Wayne film; "Firehouse," about fire fighters, and "Chopper One," dealing with two policemen who work from a helicopter.

The fourth new series, "Happy Days," is a situation comedy about a family during the nascent years of rock 'n' roll in the late 1950s. It stars veteran Broadway actor Tom Bosley.

In addition to the four new programs, ABC will air on a weekly basis two hourly shows — "The Six Million Dollar Man" and "Doc Elliott" — which now appear on a semi-regular basis.

The network also moved two current series to new schedules. "Toma," currently a Thursday night series, will be seen Friday nights while "Owen Marshall," a Wednesday show, will appear Saturday nights.

Small Town Wants Border Station Manned Fulltime

By STEWART POWELL

PITTSBURG, N.H. (UPI) — Beatrice Little runs Baldwin's general store in this papermill town of 748. She worries that drugs and draft dodgers will start coming through the U.S. border station 23 miles away now that it has cut back to winter hours.

"We've been asking to have that station manned for 24 hours a day for as long as I can remember," Mrs. Little said. "Washington won't listen. They've got a big racket all their own. That's what I think.

"They say the reason they can't keep that station open 24 hours is because of money. Well, they'd have the money if they didn't spend it on Watergate and all that foolishness."

The station is manned 16 hours a day in the summer and eight hours a day Oct. 28 to June. The Canadian station 100 yards away for cars entering Canada is open 24 hours a day.

The U.S. Border Patrol recently caught five Haitians and a Canadian coming into the United States illegally.

Looking For Work

"I assume they were coming in to find work," said Chief Border Patrol Agent Peter Lovejoy.

"This is one of the largest arrests for smuggling aliens into New Hampshire in several years," Lovejoy said. He said aliens rather than drugs are the chief border patrol concern along the Canadian line.

Cars entering the United States when the U.S. station is closed are forced to drive 30 miles on back roads to Beecher Falls, Vt., to pass through a 24 hour station.

Occasionally a Pittsburg resident is picked up by the border patrol for crossing while the station is closed. Usually fines are placed on file and not paid unless there is a second infraction.

"Every time somebody is stopped it is a hot issue for a couple of days and then everybody forgets it," said Selectman Burnham Judd Jr., part time custodian at the border station for the past decade. "To us in the town it's a terrible inconvenience."

Too Little Traffic

Judd said that on an average summer day some 35 cars pass through the station coming into the United States at New Hampshire's only crossing point. In the winter the number drops off to one or two cars daily. Despite frequent letters to the state's congressional delegation, the answer is always the same, Judd said: There is too little traffic for a 24 hour station.

"I cleaned out my desk of all the old correspondence or I'd show it to you," he said. "I wish now I had kept it."

Judd, who also works as one of the town's three part-time police officers, said the fear of drugs coming in may spark action by government officials. Gov. Meldrim Thomson has recently cited the possibility of drug traffic flowing through the sometime unmanned border station.

Judd said he didn't believe in petitions but said he'd do "almost anything to get that station opened up."

Fear For Children

The owners of Camp Otter, the nearest business to the border—12 miles away—fear drugs coming in. Mrs. Doris Widlund said she "wouldn't know a drug person if I saw one," but said she is upset.

"I think as upright citizens we are worried about the effect this might have on our children. We don't want the drug problem here in Pittsburg," she said.

The feeling is pretty much the same down the road.

"I am vitally concerned," said Mrs. Martha Von Dohrman, whose family owns John's lodge and cabins, 14 miles from the border on First Connecticut Lake. "When that border station isn't manned, it's open to all kinds of contraband."

She said with more traffic on U.S. Rte. 3 to Quebec City and back, things are changing in the remote northern area.

Takes Just One Car

"We used to go out and leave our homes unattended and unlocked. Now you have to be increasingly concerned when you go out about those undesirable elements passing through," she said.

"It just takes one car to come in and drop something. People here don't want their children subjected to this. People don't care how much traffic there is into that station. It only takes one car to peddle dope."

Winston Young, principal of the town's only school, grades 1-12, said there has been no increase in drug use at school.

"I'm sure as far as the town is concerned nothing unusual has happened. It's just if there's going to be a station, it ought to be manned."

Women Joining Executive Ranks

NEW YORK (UPI) — Women at last are breaking into the open competition for top executive posts in American business, Handy Associates Inc. reports. Handy publishes a statistical barometer called the National Executive Mobility Index. Until now female executives have been too few to measure statistically in the index. But in the latest edition, women comprised 4 per cent of the top executive candidates.

DUTCH FATALITIES

THE HAGUE (UPI) — The number of persons killed in road accidents in Holland rose to 3,246 in 1972 from 3,167 in 1971, the Central Statistics Office announced.

Alaska Town Buys Iteself

WHITTIER, Alaska (UPI) — This seaport town, born during World War II, bought itself recently.

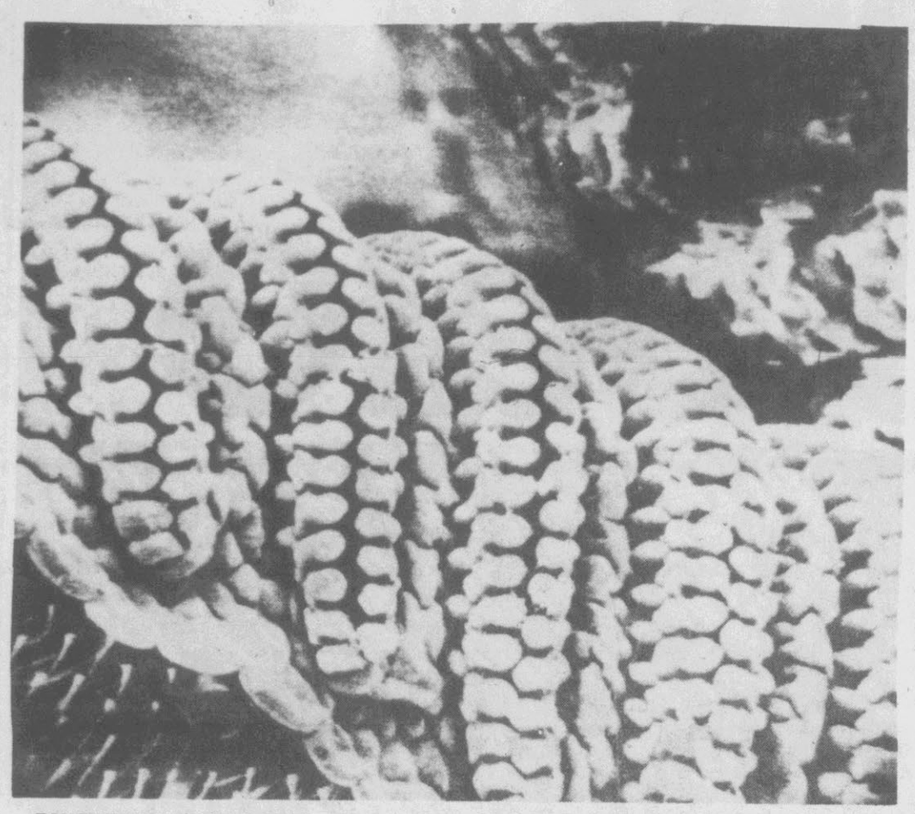

Mayor Bennie Barker handed the General Services Administration a check for $200,000 and in return the city received title to 97.4 acres of land and seven buildings that had been owned by the federal government.

Among the structures in the deal were the 14-story Hodge Building, the six-story Buckner Building, a gymnasium, a school and several small structures.

Barker said the town now plans to develop the area by selling cabins and homesites. It will convert the Hodge Building into a condominium apartment dwelling with a lounge and restaurant overlooking the bay. The Buckner Building will be used as a hotel, ski lodge and commercial center.

Whittier is located on Prince William Sound and is linked to Anchorage, 45 miles to the northwest, by a railroad that was built during World War II to haul supplies from Whittier's ice-free port to military establishments around Anchorage and in the interior.

The only entry into town, other than by sea, is by the railroad which travels through a long tunnel under a glacier-packed mountain range.

Ancestor-Collecting Has Grown As Popular Hobby

By PETER GILLINS

LOGAN, Utah (UPI) — Some people collect stamps and coins —others collect their ancestors.

In fact, tracing ancestors is fast becoming a popular hobby among old and young across North America and Europe.

The Genealogy Club of America, headquartered in this northern Utah university town, was founded in 1969. It now boasts a membership of 10,000 spread through all 50 states, Canada and England.

From the Ancestry House in Logan, the non-profit club publishes a quarterly magazine which gives amateur genealogists pointers on how to dig up facts about long dead relatives —be they kings or horse thieves.

A staff of about two dozen professional genealogists in the United States and the British Isles contributes to the magazine and to a variety of pamphlets and books available to members. The club also checks the credentials of hired researchers and screens out hucksters who try to peddle phony pedigrees.

Non-sectarian

Club president John J. Stewart says Texas and California have more members than any other states. Genealogy is also very popular across the southern States and in Utah, where it is an important part of the dominant religion — Mormonism.

"But we try to keep it strictly non-sectarian," said Stewart, an English professor and associate librarian at Utah State University. But the Mormon record system has proved invaluable to amateur genealogists everywhere, he added.

One of the principal doctrines of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-Day Saints (Mormon) is that members know who their ancestors were. Mormons perform temple work for dead relatives by proxy so they may receive the benefits of the religion in the afterlife.

Joseph Smith, founder of the church, instructed members in the 1830s to begin keeping genealogy records. In this century the church has sent teams of missionaries all over the world to collect or make photographic copies of documents relating to genealogy.

"As a result the church's genealogy library in Salt Lake City is far and away the largest in the world," Stewart said. "And the church does everything it can to encourage people —members and non-members— to come and use the records."

All Age Groups

Stewart said the club membership spans all age groups though most are middle-aged. More women than men are interested in genealogy.

"And it is quite attractive to senior citizens who have a lot of time," he added. "They begin to think of death—the loss of loved ones—and want to do something so they will be remembered."

Many people take up the hobby because they are just curious about where they came from. "It's a matter of personalizing history," Stewart said.

"For instance, you might find out you had a great-grandfather in the Civil War. Then you might discover what division he was in. Then the Civil War takes on a personal aspect.

"Heritage has become very popular in recent years. Perhap's it's a sort of security blanket that people look to in the face of all the frustration of modern life."

Two Ways To Trace

There are two ways a person may trace his genealogy. He may start with a known ancestor and work forward in time, or he may start with himself and work backward. Most people choose the latter course because it's simpler.

"The average person," Stewart said, "will not be able to trace his family further back than 1700. Some believe they can go back to Adam. This, of course, is nonsense."

A major barrier to the genealogist is mathematics. With each generation the number of direct ancestors doubles. If a person were to trace back 20 generations, he would be dealing with more than a million direct forebears.

Another difficulty is the spelling of names. "Some club members have found their family name spelled as many as 200 different ways," Stewart said.

What does the average ancestor hunt cost? "The person who enters into it seriously should plan to spend at least $1,000," Stewart said. "Most people reach a point where they want to hire somebody in a distant land to do research."

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, NOVEMBER 23, 1973

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Consider all aspects of a course of action and prepare to put these in operation with an interesting campaign you now can devise and perfect. Consider what others need and help them.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Handle obligations with dispatch and please all concerned. Conscientiously keep any promises. Avoid one with a bone to pick with you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Consider future trends you desire in association matters and make concrete plans, draw diagrams. Improve public affairs also. Think constructively.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan your time and activities wisely in early a.m., then plow through energetically. Find the best way to improve your health. Plan a trip soon.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Enjoy some amusement that will help you relax, feel happier. You are highly creative and can express yourself beautifully now. Avoid a hypocrite.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) The situation at home is rather difficult but tact on your part will help. Make some concession that insures peace. Keep temper in check.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Shop, keep appointments, handle correspondence and get affairs in fine order. Paperwork is most important. Get out of disadvantageous position.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Study your financial affairs for greater success. Get your relations with others on a better basis. Read your newspaper carefully for opportunities.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Improve health and appearance. Dress well and gad about socially for a good time, meet interesting personalities. Avoid hypocrites.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Handle own affairs wisely and avoid the public. Find more up-to-date system that will make life easier and more prosperous. Avoid shallow persons.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Be sure you know what friends desire from you and do your part. Get out to social affairs that attract you. Avoid troublemaker.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Keep active at important career and public matters. Use your finest talents and make big progress. Look to that person you like for a big favor you need.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Put through ideas that can add to your current knowledge. A new associate has the information you need. You may have a very interesting experience.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be overly determined to have own way, which should be curbed early, but once your youngster has made a decision, nothing can change it, which is good later in life, since it is the key to the success possible in this chart. Teach early to consider the wishes and feelings of others, then fine partnerships can be formed, especially of a business nature. Give good ethical training early.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Gas Chamber In Working Order

SAN QUENTIN, Calif. (AP) — Hopes of closing grim old San Quentin Prison have been abandoned, and its apple-green gas chamber is being kept in working order.

Less than two years ago, Gov. Ronald Reagan announced the infamous penitentiary overlooking San Francisco Bay would be shut by the end of 1974. In subsequent months, inmate population fell from 2,200 to 1,400.

But now the birds that found nests in the deserted five-story south cell block have been chased by a new wave of inmates. The population is approaching 3,000 and rising by 100 a week.

"Other places were getting overcrowded and here was a prison with a lot of empty beds," prison information officer Robert Nyberg said in an interview.

Nyberg said the number of inmates in California prisons is growing because the state parole board has adopted "a more rigorous policy" in refusing paroles and the courts are imposing more prison sentences on convicted criminals.

"There might be a few old-timers here who are glad we're staying open," Nyberg said. "But most people—prisoners and guards—would like to see the place closed."

He said the 122-year-old prison has very small cells, many of which will have to be shared by two inmates when the prison reaches its expected 3,800-man capacity early next year.

He said the two-seat octagonal gas chamber has been kept in working condition. It has been idle since 1967 while courts pondered the death penalty. The California Supreme Court ruled executions unconstitutional last year, but a new state law will reinstate them as of Jan. 1 for 11 crimes.

The former Death Row is being used to segregate troublemakers. Of the 107 men who awaited death there, many—including cult leader Charles Manson—have been transferred to other prisons. The rest, like Robert F. Kennedy's assassin, Sirhan B. Sirhan, remain in other areas of San Quentin.

San Quentin already has a long, bloody history, including the Aug. 21, 1971, violence in which three guards and three prisoners died, including black militant George Jackson.

Taxes Approach Food Budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The federal government claimed 15 per cent of total personal incomes in taxes last year, almost as much as that spent on food, the national Consumer Finance Assn. said.

The 15 per cent in federal taxes compared with 16 per cent of the total $939 billion of personal income spent on food, the association said.

Inventor Helps Palsy Victims

By MARIA BRADEN
Associated Press Writer

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — A 23-year-old University of Kentucky graduate has invented a device for translating the scrawled writing of cerebral palsy victims into legible characters.

He has filed for a patent on the device and says a manufacturer has already expressed interest in producing it.

It's quite an accomplishment for any young man, but for James W. Fee, it's an even bigger feat.

He was born with cerebral palsy and when he was 3 years old doctors told his parents he would never walk, talk or use either hand.

"Mom and Dad didn't believe it," Fee said recently, "so they taught me how."

He attended special classes in New York until he was 13 and then went to a regular school. He was accepted at Pratt Institute in New York and studied chemical engineering there for a year before transferring to UK, where he received his bachelor of science degree in mechanical engineering last May.

Fee plans to continue his studies for an advanced degree and has won a full scholarship from Northwestern University. But he is putting off his studies for a while to work in a project, directed by Dr. Fred Harris at the University of Washington in Seattle, on rehabilitating multiple-handicapped children.

"Harris and I agree on a theory of how cerebral palsy affects people — and we're trying to build devices to help them based on that theory," Fee said. With Harris he was in Lexington recently for a conference on electronic prosthetics (artificial body parts).

The "unconventional theory" that Fee speaks of is that cerebral palsy victims can learn to manipulate their limbs if they can get feedback on their movements.

The conventional theory is that palsy attacks the motor mechanisms of the brain — in which case little can be done to cure the disease.

Although children have been in the project for only nine months there have already been concrete results. Harris said two children once thought unlikely ever to be able to walk are now walking independently.

Library Holds History Of Kennedy Presidency

By JAMES R. DORSEY

WALTHAM, Mass. (UPI) — The building is red brick, low slung and ugly, an example of nondescript functionalism that is basic to government architecture. The government owns it and the General Accounting Office runs it.

Most of the windowless bulk of the Government Records Center in this Boston suburb is used to store income tax return forms.

Paradoxically, however, tucked away amid rows of bureaucratic red tape and endless 1040 forms are 20 million pages of the brief history of John F. Kennedy's presidency.

The documents include the late President's personal papers, White House files, government agency records, papers of those central to his administration, and oral histories recorded and transcribed after he was assassinated on Nov. 22, 1963.

Reality and Images

The documents, the responsibility of library director and onetime Kennedy staff assistant Dan Fenn, are the reality of the Kennedy years: Bay of Pigs, Berlin, Vienna, Cuban Missile Crisis, and Vietnam.

The images of the Kennedy years—the tragic but beautiful family, young John peeking out from beneath the desk, a crayon greeting card from Caroline, the rocking chair, the Man of the Sea—these things are there too. They are crowded into a smaller room, run by Kennedy's former aide-de-camp, friend and baseball statistician, David Powers.

Eventually—the family hopes by May 29, 1976, when Kennedy would have been 59 years old—the documents and more than 10,000 mementos will be moved into a $27 million library complex in Cambridge, Mass.

"We want to make this an educational center in politics and the political process," Fenn said. "Then it becomes a living library and the better people understand the process, the less they are going to believe in the cesspool myth—that all important decisions are made in smoky barrooms.

"We have an obligation to handle that material, to package it, to make it useful on a broader basis that includes more than formal scholars."

"Incredible Revelations"

Even when the library is opened in its new location, most of the significant documents still will be closed. Those papers could give researchers a behind-the-scenes look at Kennedy's foreign and domestic policies.

In addition to the documents, the library also has filed approximately 120 tape recordings, most of them made during important White House think sessions. The tapes, like many of the documents, remain classified "top Secret."

"In 30 or 40 years, when some of those tapes are finally declassified, people are going to get some incredible revelations, especially in Kennedy's foreign policy," said one library staff member, who asked not to be identified.

Not all of the documents are closed to public scrutiny for national security reasons, Fenn said. Because of the volume of material, some of it has not yet been read and catalogued. And some of the things were donated by persons who specified that some or all not be made public until after the donor or a person mentioned in the document has died.

But the files of the Central Intelligence Agency (CIA), National Security Council, Pentagon departments and other key agencies are closed, and probably will be into the 21st Century.

GRAB A BUS TO CULTURE

NEW YORK (AP) — In New York, if culture is your thing, you can catch the culture bus. It operates on weekends and holidays and for a single $1 fare enables passengers to visit many of the city's institutions. Riders can get on and off the bus as often as they please. The Transit Authority reports it has been an instantaneous success.

Soviet Mail And Phones Fouled Up

By RAY MOSELEY

MOSCOW (UPI) — In the Soviet Union, the mailman lets rain, sleet, snow and a lot of other things stay him from the swift completion of his appointed rounds.

The telephones don't work either.

Both problems have become so serious that the Communist Party has stepped in to investigate.

Party officials, after being deluged with complaints from angry citizens, ran checks in various parts of the country to determine how quickly the mail moves.

They found that the average delivery time for a letter mailed within the country was 5.2 days, with many letters taking 10 to 20 days to reach their destination, according to the party newspaper Pravda.

False Records

In Riga, 75 per cent of the outgoing mail remained in letter boxes for two or three days before postal workers collected it, officials said.

Citizens in the Kirghizia region complained that mailmen deliver newspapers and magazines only when they feel like it.

Party officials also discovered that Ministry of Communications employes have been falsifying records to cover up mail delays.

Ninety percent of the letters the Party sent out to check the system reached their destinations after long delays. But Ministry reports showed that 90 percent of all letters are delivered in proper time, Pravda said.

As for the telephone system, Party officials reported that citizens often have to dial numbers three or four times to establish a connection. And when they do get through they often cannot hear on the line or a third person comes on the line.

Wrong Numbers

Of 1,500 calls made by Party officials as a test, 382 resulted in faulty lines or wrong numbers, and 88 of 296 public telephones used were found not to be working at all.

In some cities, persons who want to make long-distance calls have to book them several days in advance. Even then the calls sometimes fail to come through when requested, Pravda said.

But it said telephone workers "hide many shortcomings" and consistently report that they have fulfilled or overfulfilled the state plan.

Meantime, they also ignore customer complaints. Pravda said three-fourths of the complaints made in Moscow are never cted upon.

The Party newspaper gave no indication of what steps are planned to correct the situation.

Arkansas Has A Diamond Mine

MURFREESBORO, Ark. (UPI) — This small southwest Arkansas town is the only place in North America where raw diamonds are found.

The "Crater of Diamonds" no longer is mined. The state Parks and Tourism Department bought the old mine and now runs it as a state park.

Anyone can pay a fee and enter the area to hunt for diamonds, which the finder may keep.

Looking To The Skiing Season

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — The winter skiing season will be a bonanza to the doctors and a headache to the medical and hospitalization insurance companies, says Dr. Jack End of Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Co. He said there will probably be 200,000 skiing accidents this winter serious enough to require some medical attention. That will be roughly one injury per 1,000 skiing hours.

More Students Paying Expenses

CHICAGO (UPI) — Students themselves, rather than their parents, are paying the greater part of their college expenses these days, Continental Illinois Bank & Trust Co. says. The bank has published a pamphlet outlining the various ways in which students can raise money for college expenses.

Old Savannah Is Proud Of Past; Hanging On To It

By KAY BROWN

SAVANNAH, Ga. (UPI) — Savannah is a soft, sad old city. A city of green town squares, iron lace fences and freshly painted townhouses that is proud of its history—and acting to hold onto it.

James Oglethorpe founded the city on a bluff above the Savannah River in 1733. Since then, Old Savannah has endured two great fires and two devastating wars. And in modern time, it has endured the creeping decay of urban neglect, a disease that eats at the inner core of all major American cities.

The wealthy and influential live in Old Savannah in restored homes, most dating back to the mid-1800's. While other cities fight flight to the suburbs, the citizens of Savannah are pumping life back into the downtown district.

The movement began in 1955, when Mrs. Anna Hunter, an 81-year-old retired newspaper woman, called six women together to save an historic building on the verge of demolition. The Davenport House, now a museum housing the Historic Savannah organization, was going to be torn down to make way for a funeral home parking lot.

In one night the women raised $33,000 to purchase the building, and later raised more for the building's restoration.

Long Range Plan

"Our goal then," Mrs. Hunter said, "was to put together a long-range plan for the city, instead of waiting from crisis to crisis when buildings were on the verge of demolition."

In a period of several years, the Historic Savannah Foundation had begun to educate the population, and a survey was made of 2,500 structures. Of these, 1,100 were decided to be worthy of saving. At present, 900 structures have been restored or stabilized.

Another turning point came in November, 1966, when a 2-½-square mile area of the old city was designated a national historical landmark, the largest urban area designated as such in the United States.

In 1968, the voters gave the city permission to enact a historic zoning ordinance, which finally went into effect last February.

Rid Williamson, executive director of Historic Savannah, said saving Savannah has been a primary source of community pride.

Regard for Heritage

"Savannah is now known nationwide for its historical district, or for modern-day people living in old homes. And from this our community has developed a regard for beauty, history and heritage, more important values than a community that has pride in a brand new highway system that will probably be obsolete in 10 years," he said.

Businessmen in Savannah, a city of about 120,000, walk to work and home for lunch. Many businesses, governmental offices, the police station, the fire department and the jail are in the heart of the historic district.

Even Broughton Street, the central shopping street now lined with signs and flashing lights, soon will be revamped to fit with the rest of Old Savannah. The merchants have agreed to brick the sidewalks, remove the clutter of signs and rebuild the fronts of many stores.

The waterfront buildings, where cotton factors once bought and sold cotton, now house small shops, restaurants and bars. Six million dollars in federal funds have been designated to revamp and landscape the waterfront area.

"The most important thing," Williamson said, "is to keep the uniqueness and difference of Savannah as a living experience of history. In these days when more and more replicas of history are being made, like Six Flags and Disney World, Savannah is authentic. It is important for people to distinguish the real from the unreal."

The Bath Coup has nothing to do with a revolt of English peasants against the feudal lords. It is the name given to a strategy in the play of the hand at Whist, and subsequently handed down to bridge, which was first employed in the gaming rooms of Bath, England.

In a highly competitive auction, North decided that his honor cards in the side suits were all pulling their full weight. Combined with his spade shortage, this was the decisive factor that induced him to bid on rather than give his partner the option of doubling four spades. As the cards lie, East-West have an excellent sacrifice at five spades, which goes down only two tricks, but they felt they had reasonable defensive chances against five hearts.

West led the king of clubs, and South played low from both his hand and dummy. This is a version of the Bath Coup — a holdup play when you have the ace and jack of the suit in which the king is led. This maneuver forced West to switch his attack, for if he continued with clubs declarer would make two tricks in the suit. West shifted to a spade, but declarer was firmly in the saddle.

He won the ace of spades, drew trump in three rounds and played the ace, king and another diamond. East won the ten and reverted to clubs. Declarer captured West's ten with the ace and ruffed a diamond, setting up dummy's long card in the suit. Dummy was entered with a spade ruff and declarer's remaining club loser was discarded on the good diamond to just make the contract.

Note that declarer is defeated if he wins the first trick with the ace of clubs. East must gain the lead with a diamond, and a club lead thru the jack allows the defenders to score two tricks in that suit.

Youth Sent $5 To Settle Debt

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A Ludington, Mich., youth sent the Tampa Chamber of Commerce $5 to settle a stolen grapefruit debt.

"I was there visiting with five other boys," the youth said in a letter enclosed with a check from his parents. "We were low on funds to get back home and we took some grapefruit from an orchard there in Florida."

The boy guessed that perhaps two or three dozen grapefruits had been pilfered. Without mentioning exactly where or when the raid took place, he asked, "Please forgive me of this wrong as I am sending some money to pay for the grapefruit."

The chamber is giving the money to a Christmas toy charity drive.

BRITTLE ACCIDENT

NEW YORK (UPI) — According to legend, a New England woman around 1890 was making peanut taffy in her kitchen.

Surrounded by rows of unlabeled bottles and jars, she added baking soda instead of cream of tartar to the syrup bubbling on her stove. The result, peanut brittle, a purely American accident.

The Worry Clinic

Gov. Bradford Set A Pattern

Edith's questions should be answered so every grammar schooler can make "Thanksgiving" an everyday affair. And be grateful to Gov. Bradford, who shifted from Communism to our dynamic Capitalism. Thay's why we lead the world today!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE Y-576: Edith J., aged 20, is a college coed.

"Dr. Crane," she asked, "Why was a Thursday chosen for the celebration of Thanksgiving Day?

"And is it true that the Pilgrims adopted Communism when they first settled in America?"

Thanksgiving Facts

Canada celebrates Thanksgiving Day on Monday in the month of October.

Thursday was decreed by Abraham Lincoln in 1864 to be the proper November date for the United States.

Our Thanksgiving falls on the 4th Thursday in November.

Since Thursday celebrating does not overlap with the Jewish Sabbath, this was a favorable weekday for such a choice.

Gov. Bradford, in 1621, decreed a day for thanksgiving to God when the first corn crop was harvested by the Pilgrims.

Almost half of the Pilgrim population had died during the preceding winter when disease, severe cold and near starvation were constant threats.

So the fall harvest of 1621 marked a day of prayer, hymn singing and joyful feasting.

More than 80 friendly Indians came as guests.

But it was a potluck affair, for those Indians also contributed wild turkeys and venison for the main meat course of the prolonged dinner.

Tables were set outdoors so both the pilgrims and Indians could dine together as one big family.

Three days elapsed before the first Thanksgiving ended and the Indians returned to the forest.

But this congenial spirit among the Pilgrims themselves didn't last long. Why?

Because there was no private ownership of land and all the crops were placed in a communal granary.

This was the first communist "cell" in New England!

But it proved a rank failure!

For the young, unmarried men began to grumble.

"We work as hard or even harder than the older married men," they complained.

"Yet we can only take one portion of food while a married man with 3 children gets 5 portions.

"That is obviously unfair!"

So what happened?

The unmarried began to stall around and grow lazy in their farming chores.

Gov. Bradford then shifted from communism to our superb capitalistic system.

And the next year's crop was a bumper harvest. Why?

Because he furnished each man his own private little farm!

And the owner was then entitled to everything he could grow thereon!

This gave incentive to everybody, which launched bumper yields, a higher standard of living and our present superb industrial and farming leadership of the entire world! Gov. Bradford thus changed the entire future economic climate of the U.S.A. by pioneering this "free enterprise" system!

We are still envied by all other nations!

So be doubly thankful at Thanksgiving Day, not just for turkey and other gastric delicacies, but for our dynamic Capitalism vs. Russian Communism and British Socialism!

Eisenhower Aide Running Ski Resort

By BRENDA W. ROTZOLL

LINCOLN, N.H. (UPI) — When the waiting line at the Loon Mountain ski area reaches about 15 minutes, Sherman Adams walks into the ticket booth and halts sales.

He wants skiing, not waiting, on his mountainside, and he sees to it himself that's what his customers get.

That trip to the ticket booth epitomizes the personal control over everything exercised by the man who once was closer to President Dwight D. Eisenhower than any other in government-and left the White House in a scandal that now, by Watergate standards, seems a mini-fuss at most.

Adams, now 74, puts on his cloth sports car cap, gets into his battered green Jeep truck and scoots over the mountain his company leases from the federal government.

In a few minutes the other day he okayed ordering 400 screws to hang some doors, ordered new stringers for an outdoor staircase, discussed snow fence repairs and said where to dig for sand and gravel to bury utility lines.

No Comment

"I know most things but I don't know everything," he said. And that remark covers such things as not talking about current politics, including the Watergate affair. He talks freely so long as the subject stays on Loon Mountain.

He'll tell you his gondola runs for 7,000 feet up a 1,800 foot grade carrying four people per car to a superb view of the White Mountains, or that he has three more chair lifts, serving 120 acres of graded slopes and trails that support a daily ski population of 2,500.

He'll mention the little train on 2,000 feet of track to run skiers from parking lot to lift, or the "Skiwardesses" who care for children too young to slide down the mountain.

But his friends have to say what the Loon Mountain development has done for an economically depressed area whose sole industry is the oft-closed paper mill Adams bossed years ago, or how it is his personal touch which draws the repeat crowds.

Filled Big Gap

"It helped to fill a very big gap when the (Franconia paper) mill went out of business," said Rep. Richard Bradley, R-Woodstock. Bradley's son is one of the 135 persons employed there each winter.

Loon is different, Bradley said, because of the umpteen ideas Adams and his wife, Rachael, had for it—like a pottery barn, arts and crafts fair, bingo on Saturdays, buffet suppers, barbeques on the mountaintop.

"They have made it a very human place. I think that perhaps is the main key to it," Bradley sid.

Adams has been an avid outdoorsman since his Dartmouth days. The son of a grocery store operator, he started work as a log scaler and clerk in Vermont and became treasurer of that company within a year. He shortly became woods boss at the Lincoln mill, a job his neighbors love to recall. "I'm just a damned lumberjack," he is fond of saying.

North Pole Suburb

Adams rose to manager of the mill before leaving for Congress and then the governor's office—New Hampshire's first full-time governor.

While governor, Adams ran Eisenhower's New Hampshire campaign and went on to be his top aide until a 1958 gift-giving scandal rocked the administration. A vicuna coat from an old friend sent him home to the town he once described as "a suburb of the North Pole."

Adams lectured, wrote a book and spent years putting together a group of friends and a Small Business Administration loan to build the $1.5 million recreation area which opened in 1966.

"What you see there is a lot of effort and time and loving care, most of it by this gentleman who is still doing an excellent job," said town selectman George McGee, chairman of the state Water Resources Board.

JAPANESE RADIO

TOKYO (UPI) — Japan ranks second behind the United tates in its number of radio transmitting and receiving stations—a total of 1,000,536. The United States has 2 million stations. The figures include walkie-talkies and two-way car sets.
