

Arab Warns U.S. Against 'Retaliation'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Saudi Arabia's oil minister says the Arabs could reduce their oil production by as much as 80 per cent if America, Japan or Europe take measures to counteract reductions and embargoes in Arab oil production.

"Our oil weapon is far more powerful than what you see now. In fact we did nothing at all so far," Ahmed Saki Yamani said in Copenhagen Thursday. "We could cut production by 80 per cent." Yamani issued the warning during a television interview when he was asked to respond to Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's comment suggesting U.S. retaliation if the Arab oil squeeze continues.

Kissinger said Wednesday, "It is clear that if pressures continue unreasonably and indefinitely, that then the United States will have to consider what countermeasures it may have to take."

Some suggested countermeasures have been halts in exports of food grains and other materials to Arab countries.

Yamani said he did not doubt there are countermesures available, but he said any such actions would be a gamble that might force the economies of areas such as Western Europe and Japan to collapse.

The Arab oil producers have stopped oil shipments to the United States and the Netherlands and reduced overall production by 25 per cent, with another 5 per cent reduction planned each month until Israel withdraws from Arab territory captured since 1967.

Saudi Arabia's King Faisal said in Lebanon he will never compromise on the oil restrictions against the United States, Japan and Western Europe until the Arab demands concerning Israel are "unconditionally met."

But in London, British and Indian diplomatic sources said Saudi Arabia, by far the largest Arab oil producer, is unlikely to continue using oil as a diplomatic weapon because of fears by Faisal of provoking reprisals.

In other developments, the Shah of Iran, whose country is the only non-Arab oil producer in the Persian Gulf, called upon Arabs to abandon their use of oil as a diplomatic weapon. "Oil is like bread," he said. "It should not be withheld in peacetime."

In Canada, Prime Minister

Pierre Elliott Trudeau said his government will reveal a series of measures next week aimed at ensuring adequate supplies of gasoline and heating oil this winter. The government is expected to prohibit the sale of gasoline on Sundays and make petroleum allocations at the wholesale level.

In Brussels, Common

Market officials told representatives from its nine member countries that the organization's Commission on Transport was trying to determine what common actions may be taken to combat the oil shortage.

The West German government hinted that it may soon broaden its fuel conservation powers. Chancellor Willy

Brandt told his cabinet that the oil squeeze could seriously affect the German economy. He did not rule out "social, structural and economic repercussions."

The Saudi state radio reported that the Philippine government has come out in support of the Arabs in the Middle East conflict. The radio said that Foreign Minister Carlos Romulo delivered a message from Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos to Faisal outlining his position.

After the meeting with Faisal, Romulo was quoted as saying that the Philippines regarded continued Israeli occupation of Arab territories conquered in the 1967 war as an "aggression and violation of the United Nations Charter." He further echoed the Arab call for restoration of "the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people."

Pleiku Air Field Pounded As Red Offensive Awaited

By CARL ROBINSON

Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Communist forces battered the Pleiku airfield this afternoon, wounding 23 persons in the heaviest shelling in 10 months, government military sources said.

South Vietnamese warplanes, helicopter gunships and artillery retaliated, but the results were not immediately known, field reports said.

At the same time, South Vietnamese military officers cited new intelligence information which they said indicates the Communist command is preparing for a general offensive during the dry season next year.

At a background briefing for 40 Vietnamese and Western newsmen, these officers said the Communists had pulled back two thirds of their main line North Vietnamese and Viet Cong units from the front lines in South Vietnam for refresher training emphasizing the combined tactics of infantry, armor and artillery.

The officers did not specify how many troops were involved nor did they predict a date for the offensive. The dry season runs from late December until the end of June.

It was the first time that South Vietnamese officials had publicly claimed North Vietnam had pulled some of its forces back for refresher training and linked this to plans for an offensive. South Vietnamese officials, including President Nguyen Van Thieu, all along have been predicting a general offensive but had cited other evidence in the past such as the construction of new supply roads, airfields and missile sites in South Vietnam.

The South Vietnamese officials told newsmen that the Communist command had conducted a big troop exercise in the northern sector of the demilitarized zone stressing the new tactics three months ago.

Since then, the North Vietnamese reportedly have used the tactic of coordinated infantry, armor and artillery attacks in overrunning four government outposts along the Cambodian border.

At Pleiku, in the central highlands, government military sources said 30 rockets slammed into the air base, some tearing through the roof of the terminal building and others hitting the control towers.

First reports said 19 military men and three civilians were wounded. There were no reports of any deaths.

At least two twin-engine Caribou transports were reported damaged along with the terminal building and the tower.

It was the third time since the cease-fire went into effect Jan. 28 that Pleiku airfield had been shelled.

The attack marked a pattern of intensified fighting in the highlands, where both the government and Communist sides are maneuvering for land and population control.

Sources said South Vietnamese officials in Pleiku verbally asked representatives of the International Commission of Control and Supervision in Pleiku to launch an immediate investigation into the rocket attack, but the commission's field team refused until it receives a formal written request.

Pleiku is about 240 miles northeast of Saigon.

In Cambodia, Associated Press correspondent Matt Franjola reported that government armored cavalry and infantry troops attacked insurgent positions along a seven-mile strip of Highway 4 and succeeded in recapturing Mohasaing village and cleared two miles of roadway.

Mohasaing, 36 miles west-southwest of Phnom Penh, was evacuated under pressure Thursday and the rapidly deteriorating situation along Highway 4 prompted the Cambodian command to rush in a multibattalion task force backed up by more than 50 armored vehicles.

Record Space Stroll

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — A record space walk behind them, the Skylab 3 astronauts turn their attention to a huge comet which is streaking toward the sun from the far reaches of the solar system.

This afternoon they plan to aim a camera at the comet Kohoutek, which now is 140 million miles away, to start an extensive series of Kohoutek studies which will span several weeks.

Gerald P. Carr, William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson were to spend much of their day regrouping and storing space suits and other items used during a Thanksgiving Day space walk.

In 6 hours, 34 minutes and 35 seconds outside, Pogue and Gibson loaded film in four telescope cameras, developed several scientific experiments and repaired a stuck antenna.

Their outside excursion was 3 minutes and 25 seconds longer than the previous record set by two Skylab 2 astronauts last Aug. 6.

Flight Director Neil Hutchinson said Pogue and Gibson did a "remarkable job. They worked slow and steady on a tough job. You've got to give those guys a great big star."

Hutchinson said experimenters were especially pleased that the space walkers were able to restore the antenna to nearly full operation, about 80 per cent of capability. It was stuck in one position and was almost unusable in an earth resources experiment which gathers data on snow, ice, oceans and earth's terrain.

On the eighth day of their planned 84-day space journey, the astronauts today start their scientific research in earnest. The first target will be Kohoutek, the giant comet which has excited the world of astronomy like no other event this century.

Israeli, Egyptians Meet; Dayan Fears 'New War'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli and Egyptian envoys met for two hours today at a desert highway checkpoint to discuss troop withdrawals from the Suez war front. They agreed to meet again Saturday.

U.N. sources in Cairo said the Saturday meeting would deal once again with the crucial issue of a cease-fire boundary acceptable to both sides. Negotiators had dealt with the same problem at a session Thanksgiving Day.

Radio Israel said Maj. Gen. Aharon Yariv and Egypt's Lt. Gen. Mohamed Gamasy resumed talks for the sixth time in a U.N. conference tent on the Cairo-Suez road, the tip of the Israeli front 60 miles from the Egyptian capital.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan warned that the Middle East war had not ended but was just beginning. In a speech before the Israeli Bar Association he urged fellow Israelis to have steady nerves in the event of new hostilities.

He said the Soviet Union had resupplied Syria and Egypt with weapons since the October fighting. "We are facing not the end of the war, but the beginning with the Syrians and the Egyptians, and I don't know about the other fronts," he declared.

Foreign Minister Abba Eban returned from a visit to the United States and told newsmen the Israeli government had not yet decided whether it could attend a Mideast peace conference in December.

Eban said he had pointed out to U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and other officials that the government could not make significant commitments for the future until after the Israeli elections set for Dec. 31.

Israeli newspapers, summing up Thursday's meeting on the Cairo road, said the decision to continue daily talks signaled progress in the discussion of a principal issue: how to separate the opposing forces.

The key stumbling block in the talks continued to be disagreement over the drawing of a new cease-fire line as stipulated in the six-point accord worked out earlier this month during a visit to the Middle East by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

Egypt claimed the Israelis made significant advancements after the first U.N. imposed cease-fire on Oct. 22 and has demanded that the Israeli forces return to where they were on that date.

But Israel said the positioning of the two armies on Oct. 22 cannot now be determined and has suggested the opposing forces return to their respective sides of the Suez Canal with a six-mile demilitarized zone on both banks.

The issue has taken up added significance since a return of the Israeli forces to what Egypt purports to be the Oct. 22 line would free the encircled Egyptian 3rd Army and force the withdrawal of Israeli soldiers from the Egyptian city of Suez.

Egypt and Israel completed their exchange of war prisoners Thursday as a final group of 166 Egyptian POWs flew to Cairo and 17 Israelis captured in the October war arrived in Tel Aviv.

Women soldiers who had awaited the Israeli POWs in a steady rain at Lod International Airport hugged and kissed the returning prisoners — 16 pilots and a tank commander. Four of the men were on stretchers when they arrived.

Egyptian authorities have kept newsmen away from the landing sites as their prisoners returned. In all 8,301 Egyptian prisoners were exchanged for 241 Israeli prisoners, an Israeli spokesman said.

The figures did not coincide with previously announced figures of prisoners held by both sides.

Striking Ford's Canada Plants

TORONTO (AP) — A strike at Ford Motor Co. of Canada Ltd. plants "is on," a spokesman for the United Auto Workers union announced today as a 10 a.m. EST deadline passed without a contract agreement.

The strike affects 15,000 workers at Ford plants in the Ontario communities of Oakville, Windsor, Talbotville near St. Thomas, Niagara Falls and Bramalea, near Toronto.

Jerry Hartford, spokesman for the UAW, said the major issues blocking agreement on a new contract were company refusal to accept clauses making overtime voluntary and retirement after 30 years service.

Wall St. Troubles And Gloom Due Energy Crisis

NEW YORK (AP) — To many Americans it may seem only a dark cloud on the horizon. But to those who make their living on Wall Street, the energy crisis already has brought a deluge of trouble.

Since Oct. 26, the stock market has suffered one of its sharpest declines ever, inflicting paper losses estimated at more than $100 billion.

Market experts agree the slide is a result of investors' fears that scarcities of energy will derail economic growth across the country in the months and years ahead.

The gloom along the narrow, crowded streets of the nation's financial capital lifted a little Wednesday as stock prices staged a moderate rally.

"This is an indication this country can survive," said Peter W. Haas, a specialist who works on the New York Stock Exchange trading floor. "A little energy crisis isn't going to slow this country down."

But his optimism was far from universal.

"This rally can't last," a clerk said as he hurried across the littered trading floor. "The energy crisis will overcome it."

Out on the street, Jesus Andros, a hot dog vendor, was glum.

"Nobody has time to buy," he said. "When the market goes down, nobody comes out to walk and eat. Yeah, the energy thing is killing me already."

A few steps away from the exchange stands Trinity Episcopal Church, a quiet contrast to the high-rise buildings packed around it.

The Rev. Robert Ray Parks, rector of the historic church, oldest in New York, said some top bankers had told him "the energy crisis and the crisis of confidence may disturb the market for the next three years."

He added: "This old church has weathered many a crisis down here."

Couple Speaks Vows In Father Should Play Candlelight Ceremony To Win With Son

In a candlelight ceremony at 4:00 p.m. Thursday, the wedding of Miss Lela Lynette Paramore and Robert Dennis Norville was solemnized in the First Free Will Baptist Church.

The Rev. Charles Crisp of Greenville, pastor of the bride, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Henry Paramore of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Fannie Norville and the late George Norville of Falkland.

Preceding the ceremony, a program of nuptial music was presented by Miss Donna Hines, organist, and Miss Elaine Vernelson, soloist, who sang "The Twelfth of Never," "Whither Thou Goest" and "The Wedding Prayer."

The bride was escorted and given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal length white organza gown designed with a high collar of chantilly lace. An overlay of the chantilly lace accentuated the empire bodice and extended over the shoulders. Matching lace was featured on the cuffs of the bishop sleeves with organza covered button closures. Chantilly lace edged the hemline of the modified A-line skirt and extended around the edge of the chapel length train.

She wore a three tiered imported illusion veil edged in chantilly lace attached to a Camelot cap of matching lace beaded with pearls. The bride carried a white laced covered Bible centered with a white cattleya orchid showered with white satin streamers.

Miss Marcia Norville, sister of the bridegroom, was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Miss Donna Gail Haddock, cousin of the bride, and Miss Lynette Owens. The attendants wore formal length bordeaux chiffon gowns designed with a high neckline encircled with white Venise lace threaded with bordeaux satin ribbon. The front and back of the bodice featured beribboned Venise lace forming a pinafore effect. Self-fabric covered buttons extended from the neck to the waistline of the gathered skirt. The cuffs of the bishop sleeves were banded in the beribboned lace. Their headpieces were white satin bows with long streamers. They carried colonial nosegays of pink pixie carnations with white pom pons and streamers of pink and white.

Miss Janet Trevathan, niece of the bridegroom, was junior bridesmaid. Her dress was of white silk organza over taffeta with the bordeaux skirt and Venise lace on the neck, cuffs and empire waist. She carried a nosegay similar to the honor attendants.

Miss Trudy Barber, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clyn Barber Jr. and cousin of the bride, was flower girl. Her dress was white silk organza over taffeta with the Venise lace around the cuffs and bodice. Satin bows were on the cuffs and around the ruffled skirt. She carried a basket of rose petals.

Brian Paramore, brother of the bride, was ring bearer. He carried a white satin, lace covered pillow.

The bridegroom's brother, Edward Norville, served as best man. Groomsmen were Wayne Mills of Greenville, Wesley Haddock of Ayden, both cousins of the bride, and Larry Brewer of Greenville.

Mrs. Angelene Venters of Ayden, cousin of the bride, directed the wedding assisted by Mrs. Gertrude Haddock, aunt of the bride, of Greenville. Mrs. Willard Mills, aunt of the bride, of Greenville, presided at the guest register.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Paramore chose a pink formal gown of polyester with matching accessories. Mrs. Norville, mother of the bridegroom, selected a formal gown of emerald green and matching accessories. Both mothers wore white mum corsages.

The grandmothers of the bride, Mrs. Lela Haddock and Mrs. Gertie Paramore, were remembered with white carnation corsages.

Immediately following the ceremony, the wedding party received in the back of the church.

For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride changed into a two-piece beige and ruff dress with matching accessories. She wore the orchid corsage lifted for her prayer book.

The bride is attending J.H. Rose High School. The bridegroom is a graduate of Farmville Central High School and has just completed four months of active duty with the N.C. Army National Guard in South Carolina. He is now employed with Plaza Gulf of Greenville.

The couple will reside in Greenville.

Following the rehearsal Tuesday evening, the bridal couple, guests and friends were entertained at an after-rehearsal party in the church parlor.

DEAR ABBY: Please set me straight. Do you think it's wrong for a father to allow his eight-year-old son to win once in a while?

Father says he is going to play to win because that's what his father did to him. The child gets very upset when he loses to his father all the time. The child loves games like Monopoly and chess. What is your opinion?

A MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Father should play to win. But for a better reason than the one he stated. Children need to learn how to accept defeat with grace and good sportsmanship until they develop the skill to win fairly and squarely.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 22 years to a "Mama's boy." Willie was 35 years old when I married him, and I should have seen the signs then, but I was young and "in love" and not too sharp.

Every Sunday of our married lives, no matter what we were doing, at 2 p. m. Willie would leave me and the children, and go to visit his mother. Then he would come home and throw up, saying my attitude toward his mother had caused it.

When I married Willie, his mother accused me of everything in the book, so I just stayed away from her. She has told me to my face that the quicker Willie gets rid of me and our children, the better off he will be. Also, she could not die happy knowing her son is married to me.

I did leave him three years ago, but I came back after two weeks because he came crying and begging, saying he couldn't live without me. Meanwhile he never told his mother we had reunited, but was forced to when she decided to move in with him.

Willie still calls her every morning, and visits her every evening after work. I am tired of Willie's running to her every Sunday at 2 p. m. and coming home to throw up.

Can you help me?

HAD IT

DEAR HAD IT: Your husband needs help. But from your description of him and his sick attachment to his mother [who also needs help] I doubt that he will seek it. In the meantime, your Family Service Association can provide you with the kind of counseling you need to understand, and hopefully handle, your Mama's boy.

DEAR ABBY: My mother has been running to doctors all her life. Her complaints run from chronic stomach trouble, migraine headaches, high blood pressure, back trouble, to a variety of skin trouble. [Shingles, eczema, psoriasis, and you name it.]

To make a long story short, my mother has become a self-appointed "expert" on everything pertaining to medicine and treatment. She doesn't hesitate to give out medical advice to her friends, and worse yet, she has a pill or ointment for everything.

When I tell her that she could cause more harm than good by giving her friends pills and salves, she says: "Relax, you need a tranquilizer," then she tries to force one on me.

Will YOU please tell her to quit practicing medicine and pharmacology without a license? Thanks.

THE "DOCTOR'S" DAUGHTER

DEAR DAUGHTER: I'll tell her, but I can't guarantee a cure.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

No 'Proof' In Assassination

By MORT ROSENBLUM
Associated Press Writer
CORDOBA, Argentina (AP) — Police suspect the assassination of U.S. businessman John Albert Swint and two of his bodyguards by a band of youths was the work of the People's Revolutionary Army. But they have no proof.

Police originally reported three bodyguards killed, but later said the third was critically injured.

Swint, 56, general manager of Transax, a transmission and axle plant owned by the Ford Motor Co., was killed Thursday when about 15 youths trapped his chauffeur-driven car and the following car of guards and opened up with automatic weapons and shotguns.

Police said the precision of the attack pointed to the People's Army. But at least a half-dozen other guerrilla bands roam through Argentina, including left-wing followers of President Juan D. Peron. The Marxist urban guerrillas have been blamed for much of the terrorism that has swept Argentina this year.

Swint, a native of Georgia, had served as general manager of Transax since December 1971. Ford spokesmen said his wife was in the United States. The couple has two children.

Swint was on his way to work in Cordoba, 450 miles northwest of Buenos Aires, when he found his motorcade blocked by two trucks from the front and by small cars from the rear.

By police accounts, Swint was killed instantly and his guards were mortally wounded in the terrorists' initial fusillade. Police said a tall, blond gunman completed the job with a machine gun burst before the terrorists fled.

Argentina has been swept by a wave of violence that since last January has included a $1 million extortion, murder and about 500 kidnappings. Swint was the first foreigner killed this year.

Last spring, guerrillas assassinated an Argentine Ford executive, and the auto manufacturer agreed to a terrorist demand that it give $1 million in medical supplies and other goods to hospitals and the needy to prevent more attacks.

The hundreds of kidnappings this year have reportedly brought ransoms totalling $20 million. At least six Americans have been victims. Several U.S. firms have reportedly moved their employees out of the country out of fear of attacks.

Two Wrecks On Thursday

An estimated $675 property damage resulted yesterday from two collisions investigated by Greenville police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted in a 2:20 p.m. collision at the intersection of Hooker Road and Cozart Street involving cars driven by William Earl King of Route 1, Grimesland and Denice Rogers Hopkins of Ft. Hood, Texas.

Police, who charged King with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety, estimated damage at $150 to the King car and $225 to the Hopkins vehicle.

Pamala Marie Shockley of 112 Rawl St. was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety and no operators license following investigation of a 2 p.m. collision at the intersection of Greene and Church Streets.

Investigators estimated damage to the Shockley car at $200 and reported an estimated $100 damage resulted to a vehicle driven by Linwood Earl Hyman of 1505 Mills St., the second vehicle involved in the mishap.

Five TV Shows On ABC Axed

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The man with the ax was loose again this week, but not because of Thanksgiving. In fact, he ruined Thanksgiving Day for the stars and staffs of five ABC-TV shows.

His ax, also known as a cancellation notice, fell on a pair of five-season veterans — "Room 222" and "Love, American Style."

It also fell on the second-season "New Temperatures Rising," as well as on two newcomers, "Griff," Lorne Greene's detective show, and "Adam's Rib," a lawyerly love series.

The chop, effective in mid-January, raises to six the number of shows ABC has canceled so far. It smote "Bob & Carol & Ted & Alice" last month.

If you keep track of such things, ABC now leads in this season's cancellation derby, followed by NBC, which has lopped four shows off its schedule, and CBS, which has axed three. All the NBC and CBS cancellations involved new shows. It makes for an amazing casualty toll: out of 13 programs canceled so far, 10 have been first-season offerings.

Be that as it may, ABC is going to try, try again in mid-January and February with four new half-hour series and two hour-long series that now make irregular appearances.

The new half-hour shows are "The Cowboys," based on the recent John Wayne Western of the same name; "Firehouse," a fire-fighting series; "Chopper One," a police-in-a-helicopter show and "Happy Days," a nostalgia comedy set in the late 1950s and concerning a family growing up then.

The 60-minute shows are "The Six Million Dollar Man" and "Doc Elliott," which will appear each week on Saturday and Wednesday nights, respectively. All but "The Cowboys" will premiere in the week starting Jan. 14. The Western show kicks off on Feb. 6.

A sad ratings note was sounded this week for singer Frank Sinatra's return to TV after 2½ years away from show biz.

His fine NBC-TV special, although lavishly promoted by its sponsor, was trounced in the national ratings by a movie, "The Hospital," which appeared on ABC-TV opposite the Sinatra show.

He also was beaten in his first-half hour by a CBS Thanksgiving special, and led CBS in the ratings race only in the last 30 minutes when CBS aired a repeat of a Carol Burnett special.

A good musical note, or series of them, is coming up Sunday morning on CBS-TV. The network is repeating an excellent program of Bach, as interpreted by pianist Rosalyn Tureck.

The one-hour show, which pre-empted "Lamp Unto My Feet" and "Look Up and Live," was first shown at this time last year. If you missed it then, be sure to catch it this time. That's an order.

Eyes Are On Horse-Care

GLENS FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — State Police said today they were cracking down on truckers who mistreat horses while transporting them north to Canadian slaughterhouses.

"We're looking for them now ever since the first incident; you'd have to say so," said a trooper in South Glens Falls.

Two North Carolina men were arrested Wednesday after a routine road check on Interstate 87 in the nearby town of Queensbury and charged with cruelty to animals, police said, the second such incident in two weeks.

Louis J. Weaver, 33, and Timothy Condra, 49, both of Siler City, N.C., pleaded guilty to the charges and paid $250 fines,

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Friday, November 23, 1973—3 to be destroyed. That truck also was overloaded, troopers said.

The two were driving two trucks jammed with a total of 77 horses which were forced to stand on the entire trip, troopers said.

Two weeks ago, a truck carrying about 40 horses overturned on Interstate 87 in the Saratoga County town of Wilton and 11 or 12 of the animals had

Site Is Not Centrally Located

After finding building conditions were not good for the city's new swimming pool at the Evans Park, the Recreation Commission has decided to construct the pool at Guy Smith Stadium.

The fact that quicksand was found on the proposed Evans Park site must have been disappointing to the commission, as it was to us. This site seemed to be a good central location for a community pool, but certainly if the soil conditions were not ideal, it should be abandoned.

Selection of the Guy Smith site does raise some questions in our minds, however. The principal one is that it is far from the center of the city. Guy Smith Park is within sight of Memorial Drive and thus just a short distance from the western city limits. The pool in this location will be many miles away from people who live in north, south and eastern Greenville.

There are projections for another pool in the city, but it is uncertain when a second pool will be built or even whether financing will be available for the second pool in the foreseeable future.

Egypt's Sadat In The Saddle

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

CAIRO—In a private talk with the British and French ambassadors one day after the Oct. 6 war started, President Anwar Sadat gave a careful definition of his war aims: first, a short advance into Israeli-occupied Sinai followed by defensive action to hold his position; next, a ceasefire; and finally, diplomacy.

"We could go on fighting forever if we had to," Sadat said, "but we don't want to. We want to get our own land back by diplomacy. If we can't, we will have to fight."

The contrast with the late Gamal Abdel Nasser was stark: not threat to "drive Israel into the sea," typical Nasser hyperbole before the 1967 six-day war which, one Sadat intimate told us accurately, "cost us so much."

But the most significant contrast between the two Egyptian leaders is Sadat's brilliant courtship of King Faisal of Saudi Arabia. If Sadat is to come close to achieving his goal of "getting our land back," the reason will be his clarity in understanding how essential Faisal's backing is to his own purpose.

Nasser exuded charisma and spouted revolutionary rhetoric which always played the grand theme of an Egyptian crusade leading the Arab death struggle against Israel. He talked himself and his country into deep trouble, feeding the skillful propaganda maw of his enemy in Tel Aviv. With enemies like Nasser, Israel scarcely needed friends.

By contrast, Sadat is manifestly, unashamedly bourgeois, non-revolutionary and Western in habit and thought, characteristics quite apparent in the current crisis. Last year he kicked the Russians out of his country, then intensified his courtship of the Arabian King, started in 1971.

That campaign culminated in a rare display of respect. Greeting the King on his trip to Riyadh in the middle of the war, he kissed the tip of Faisal's nose and his forehead—the highest mark of Arab respect.

A few eyebrows were raised here, but the gesture made exactly the point Sadat wanted: that the peninsula Arabs and the Mediterranean Arabs, so different in character and history, must hold together.

Likewise, when Libya's radical leader, Col. Muammar Qaddafi, came here several weeks before the war in frenzied effort to force his union with Egypt, Sadat was conveniently in Riyadh. Qaddafi's discomfiture was taken here as an amusing joke—just right for an upstart.

Before the 1967 war, in contrast, Nasser had his best divisions in Yemen supporting Communist-backed radicals against the royalists allied with Faisal. Little wonder that when Israel launched its invasion and smashed Nasser's Sinai force few tears were shed by Faisal.

This time, Sadat's courtship of the King, whose oil reserves mean unequalled national power, has cemented the Egyptian-Saudite alliance, bringing into being something approaching the vague dream of Arab unity. It would be fool-hardy to predict that this unity will outlast the next phase of the moon, but it exists in rare form today. Faisal, whose oil has more useful clout than America's nuclear arsenal, is playing the leading role.

It was Faisal who strongly urged Sadat to get rid of the 14,000 Soviet military advisers last year and it was Faisal who predicted, wrongly as it turned out, that doing so would bend White House policy from totally pro-Israel to something closer to evenhanded. That error strengthened Faisal's determination to give Sadat what he badly needed in the present round: the oil option.

Sadat's plan to storm the Suez Canal, move east a few miles, hold and gain the rest by diplomacy and oil was weakened by the masterful military counterstroke that put Israeli forces on the west side of the canal. But the plan still holds: forces the U. S. to come to grips with Israel and repossess most of the Sinai peninsula; guarantee the new borders with credible guarantees working both ways—against Egyptian invasion of Israel (which has not happened since 1949) and Israeli invasion of Egypt (which has happened twice)—and try peace.

But Sadat may once again be underestimating Israel's influence over Washington, a subject for a subsequent column.

Guy Smith is Greenville's oldest municipal park, with the stadium built originally for semi-pro and professional baseball which flourished here for a time. The stadium, of course is still there and, while there is additional land, we wonder if that land will be put to best use to construct a swimming pool on it.

No doubt, the Recreation Commission sees the need to use property which the city presently owns since no additional funds are available for purchase of land. It could be, however, that it would be best to approach the City Council for land purchase money if there is a better site available which the city does not presently own. The pool is going to be with us for many years and, given the present energy problems, it may be more difficult in the future for our people to travel to a recreational area.

We don't intend to be totally critical of the Guy Smith site selection. We simply would want to see all possibilities explored before construction on the pool is underway and it can't be reconsidered.

Ills Pinpointed By Specialists

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—"A person who is housed in a tile-decked hall with a drain on the floor and an open toilet in the corner and who is seen going about in diapers or an ill-fitting hospital coverall is, of necessity, perceived as a creature who bears little relation to a human being."

With those words chosen from the 1969 report of the President's Committee on Mental Retardation, the tone was set for a report from a team of specialists analyzing North Carolina's programs in mental health services.

Basics throughout the report are need for community programs, humanization, and outreach for early detection and prevention. Delivered to Sen. Kenneth C. Royall's Mental Health Study Commission, the first phase of the report is an inventory of existing conditions. Yet to come, hopefully by mid-February, will be programs designed to revamp the state's approach to mental health services.

A Critical Look
Detailed studies were carried out in five principal service areas in this first phase of the $250,000 study. Here, in summary, is what was found by the experts who readily admit that most of their comments are negative and critical since that is what is required to pinpoint problems and bring about change.

Dr. Paul Pearson, director of the children's rehabilitation institute at the University of Nebraska Medical Center studied mental retardation and developmental disabilities.

There are some 280,000 people in the state with developmental disabilities; about 152,000 of them mentally retarded.

Only some 50,000 of these are receiving services from any source, and services are fragmented from a number of agencies including mental health, social services, public schools, vocational rehab, etc.

About 2,236 children between ages 6-21, are in four mental retardation centers; 480 receive no training and a number are taken to institutions outside their home regions.

"In a capsule," Dr. Pearson reports, "mental retardation receives little, if any, attention at the regional level and . . . receives the lowest priority in the thinking of area mental health staff. Repeatedly we were told that . . . the mental retardation specialist is at the bottom of the staff ranking order. . . persons in positions of authority have had their experiences and interests in the problems of mental illness rather than mental retardation."

As proof of that, Dr. Pearson notes that the average amount of money allocated per child at mental retardation centers is $240; while at other mental health facilities providing child services it is $675 per child.

Dr. Pearson found the four centers fell far short of meeting human and civil rights of residents. "If North Carolina had by design set out to develop the single most expensive service in the most restrictive setting and with the least cost-benefit, the present system would be the result," the report stated.

Professor William Anderson, Duke University psychiatrist and director of Durham Child Guidance Center, looked at emotionally disturbed children.

Children Neglected
There are some 175,000 in public schools, he found, and concluded that in terms of programs, "Too often, children's services are the left-overs of adult services or may exist in name only."

At mental hospitals, he found a tendency to make do with space not designed for children and children's facilities mixed with other services.

Dr. W. A. Hunt, professor of psychology at Loyola University, studied adult mental disorders, and found these patients at mental hospitals "overshadowed by the rush of alcoholics" for treatment.

Dr. Hunt noted that hospitals have been maintaining essential custodial care over a large body of patients, but can now move in the direction of treatment with drugs. He sees need for research and more community center involvement in that direction.

But he also concludes that "the custodial philosophy dies hard," and that newer techniques of group therapy and other "interpersonal" treatment methods have difficulty getting established in the face of medical or drug therapy techniques.

Dr. J. Matarazzo, chairman of the department of medical psychology at the University of Oregon, studied the area of alcoholism.

32,000 Alcoholics
He found there are some 100,000 heavy escape drinkers in the state, about 32,000 who qualify for the definition alcoholic. "Only a fraction of these persons are now being helped through the state services," he reported. He also noted that alcoholism accounted for a major number of admissions and is the greatest source of readmissions at state hospitals.

Strength For Today

CONTENTEMENT AND FAITH

Many people never enjoy the present because they worry so incessantly about the future. Among many other fears they may be afraid of losing their money or their health, or the love and affection of their children.

Once in a while we come upon a person who doesn't have a great deal of this world's goods but seems to be perfectly happy with what little he has. This may sometimes be a matter of temperament, but more often it arises from the fact that this happy and contented person has a religious faith that really works.

Someone has said, "We do not know what the future holds, but we do know Who holds the future." And that, as a matter of fact, is all that we need to know. If one really has that knowledge to such a degree that it gives him confidence to walk unafraid through life, he has a blessing of great value. Life's richest treasure is peace. And the most satisfying variety of peace is that which grows out of a strong religious faith.

Oil Pipeline By 1978?

By JOHN GREELY

Associated Press Writer JUNEAU, Alaska (AP) — By current estimates it may be mid-1978 before the trans-Alaska pipeline begins feeding oil to an energy-hungry country.

Nobody expected the pipeline which won congressional approval last week to bring an immediate end to the energy crisis. But oil companies which had previously said it would take three years to build the multi-billion dollar project now say it will take closer to four years.

The pipeline will stretch 789 miles south from the oil rich North Slope fields to the ice-free port of Valdez where tankers ferry oil to the 48 contiguous states.

To do the job, the seven oil firms building the pipeline say they need 13,000 workers and up to $5 billion.

Some officials say a reasonable estimate of construction time is 36 to 42 months, with another four to six months to get the line humming with North Slope crude.

Reasons for the tentative extension are intricate.

Charles Spahr, board chairman of Standard Oil Co. of Ohio, told the Alaska Legislature last month that the planned daily production of 600,000 barrels during pipeline warmup would be doubled "almost immediately."

That would mean a total of eight pumping stations to move the oil to tankers in the Gulf of Alaska instead of the three envisioned originally.

A dozen stations will be needed when the pipeline reaches a capacity of 2 million barrels daily. President Nixon has said the Alaska pipeline's eventual output will equal 8 1/2 per cent of current petroleum use in the country.

Environmental stipulations have forced about half the pipeline to be built above ground. That method is more costly and time-consuming than burying it, but is considered safer in icy soil.

When oil was discovered on the North Slope in 1968, cost estimates for the pipeline project were $900 million. Cost is now placed between $4 billion and $5 billion, making it the most expensive private construction project ever.

Three mountain ranges and 70 rivers have to be spanned. Workers will avoid river crossings when fish are spawning and the pipeline (Continued on page 5)

Other Editors Say 'Three Years Late'

(Chapel Hill Newspaper)

For several plausible reasons, some of them sound, Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt's gentle inquiry into the Holshouser administration's personnel firing practices is unlikely to take on the odor of noble public service or sterling legislative leadership.

One of the reasons is the nature of firing practices themselves, those of the Holshouser administration or any other administration. Employees not protected by the State Personnel Act can be fired for any number of reasons, many of them simply a matter of opinion, or for no reason at all. This firing practice was never seriously questioned in Democratic administrations, except by those being fired, and Mr. Hunt's move to question it in a Republican administration will be widely regarded as political rather than sincere concern for state workers.

Another reason the Hunt investigation is suspect is the lieutenant governor's past performance and the gubernatorial ambitions he often wears on his sleeve. There was a bill in the last session of the Legislature that would have curbed the hiring practices the lieutenant governor now deplores. Mr. Hunt had small passion for that bill; in fact, he helped ease it into the deep-freeze. Whether he helped chill it consciously and deliberately makes no difference.

Finally, any restraints that the Hunt inquiry might succeed in imposing on the Holshouser administration would apply with equal force to the next Democratic administration. As the most obvious Democratic pretender to the Mansion, Mr. Hunt will have a hard time convincing the populace that is really what he has in mind.

State workers deserve protection from the partisan and intra-party gales that buffet them with every change of administration. That protection can easily be afforded through the normal legislative process. The extraordinary Hunt inquiry promises, if anything, only to confuse the whole issue.

NEW YORK (AP) — While economists might disagree on the specific changes that the energy crush will force upon the nation, they share a common belief that the United States will be more self-sufficient a decade or so from now.

"The Mideast embargo will be a Sputnik in its effect on the public," says Leif Olsen, First National City Bank economist. "We'll now move ahead with a determination comparable to that which put a man on the moon."

Olsen referred primarily to the development of domestic energy resources, some of which never have been tapped, others exploited only partially, and some which at the present time represent more of a potential than a reserve.

"This is a pretty ingenious country," said Walter Heller, expressing the view of many economists that the United States is often at its best when faced with a challenge.

"We'll develop our own resources, which are the equivalent of two or three Mideasts, and when we do I don't think energy will be a factor in slowing growth," said Heller, former chief economic adviser to Presidents Kennedy and Johnson.

Otto Eckstein, Harvard professor, consultant and former Johnson administration aide, agrees. "There'll be a major move toward coal, which will be cleaned up. There'll be development of tar sands, shale and the Alaskan Slope. And we'll move ahead on nuclear energy."

Pierre Rinfret, a consultant to business, believes "this will wake the country up. We'll stop penalizing the producer and we'll provide tax incentives to drill in the United States."

In his view, the country will soon begin a massive drive to improve its raw materials supplies, and Congress, while not becoming probusiness, "won't be against the producer."

But turning the goal into an achievement produces problems of time, which right now is in as short supply as energy itself. A nuclear electric generating plant, for example, might take eight years to build — after permission is obtained.

John McLean chairman and chief executive of Continental Oil Co., estimates the development time of a surface coal mine at two to three years, and an underground mine at three to four years. He believes Alaska pipeline deliveries are at least three to four years away.

Regardless of how quickly domestic resources are brought into use, there is a widespread feeling among economists that the days of low-priced energy are over, and that, consequently, so also are the days of energy waste.

"The price of energy has declined in the past 10 years relative to other prices," said Olsen. "This was the decade of air-conditioning in homes and cars, the electric knife and toothbrush. We dreamed up every way to use energy, unmindful of costs."

Now, he is convinced, high prices will force us to be more careful and discriminating. The impact of shortages and high prices, he believes, will be as profound in their way as were plentiful supplies and low prices in the 1960s.

Many economists believe the ascendancy of environmental considerations will be sharply diminished in the immediate and distant future, with ecological and similar issues settling into equal ranking with produc-

One of the lightest sales of the year was reported at the Greenville tobacco market yesterday, but the price situation held firm and growers continued to show satisfaction at the way their tobacco sold.

The official report of the sales showed the market sold 450,114 pounds of tobacco for $39,033.24, at an average of $22.02 per hundred pounds.

Greenville and vicinity were turning their attention today toward the observance of Thanksgiving next Thursday with indications of all kinds of activity suspended as the people offer their thanks for the blessings they have received during the last year.

The highlight of the Thanksgiving Day observance will be a special service at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church. The sermon will be delivered by Rev. W. S. Harden, pastor of the Presbyterian Church and special music will be provided by the Methodist Choir.

Three projects, which will provide employment for a hundred or more men, will begin this week in Pitt County under a Federal Civil Works program.

K. T. Futrell, director of the program and head of the Pitt County Department of Welfare, said about $25,000 would be paid out for the improvement projects.

Mother Regularly Giving Plasma For Young Son

By CATHY STEELE
Associated Press Writer
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — "It's just like planting a garden. You plant the seed, but if you don't take care of it, it won't grow."

Those were the words of a Charlotte mother as she lay stretched on a couch at the Red Cross donating plasma for her young son, who suffers from a gamma globulin deficiency.

Gamma globulin is the protein substance in the blood that enables the human body to fight infection.

The mother must donate blood for her 11-year-old son every three weeks, while the usual waiting period between donations is ten weeks. Through a process called plasma pheresis, however, the donor's blood is separated and the plasma is kept for her son. The red cells are fed back into the donor's arm through the same needle through which the whole blood was extracted.

Dr. Inez Elrod, medical director of the Red Cross Blood Center in Charlotte, explained that the human body replaces both plasma and platelets readily but that replacement of red cells takes much longer. By returning the red cells to the donor, she said, it becomes possible to safely extract enough plasma every three weeks to meet the gamma globulin needs of the recipient.

Four families participate in the plasma pheresis program at the Charlotte Red Cross, donating for immuno-deficient relatives. In addition to the mother who lives for her son, there are two husbands who donate for their wives and a father who donates for his son.

The treatment program was set up by Dr. Rebecca Buckley at the Duke University Hospital hematology department. Dr. Buckley receives a National Institutes of Health research grant to study the use of intravenous plasma injections to treat immuno-deficient patients. About 20 patients are treated at Duke and Dr. Buckley monitors the treatment of the Charlotte patients.

The Charlotte Red Cross began participating in the program last April. Its personnel take the blood from the donors, separate the plasma, red cells and platelets and return the red cells to the donors. The plasma is frozen and stored until the recipients take it to their own doctors for injection.

The platelets are the Red Cross "profit" from the program. That portion of the blood is retained for treatment of leukemia patients.

Conventional treatment of the relatively uncommon blood condition consists of intramuscular injections of large doses of gamma globulin. Such injections are painful and studies have shown less of the protein is absorbed when it is injected intramuscularly instead of into the veins.

The refined gamma globulin currently available cannot be injected intravenously, although researchers are working on a form that will be safe for intravenous use. When that is accomplished, Dr. Elrod said, the plasma donation program will no longer be necessary.

Meanwhile the patients depend on loved ones for their vital supply of the disease-fighting substance.

"I got every sickness that every child gets and my parents said it was always twice as bad," said Mrs. Sandy Massa of Charlotte. "I had pneumonia so many times they stopped counting."

It was not until Mrs. Massa, now 23, was 12 years old, that doctors realized that her susceptibility to disease was caused by a gamma globulin deficiency. Her doctors in Rochester, N.Y., prescribed intramuscular injections, which she took for about ten years.

When Mrs. Massa and her husband, John, moved to North Carolina they were referred to Dr. Buckley. "When we went we had no idea what she was going to do to us," Massa said.

What Dr. Buckley did was run tests on the couple's blood to determine if their plasma was compatible. When she found it was, Massa agreed to give blood every three weeks for his wife.

"Why not, if it's going to help," he said.

Massa spends about two hours at every Red Cross appointment. First a pint of blood is taken from him. Then he waits with the needle still in his arm while the blood is separated in a centrifuge. Next Massa gets his red cells fed slowly back in. The whole process is repeated with a second pint in order to get the two units of plasma Mrs. Massa needs.

Massa said if he remembers to substantially increase his intake of fluids before giving blood, he feels no unpleasant effects. He said the process improves his appetite. "It makes me feel great."

Dr. Elrod encourages the donors to eat extra protein, because that is the one thing lost in giving plasma.

"I eat liver when my family eats Salisbury steak," the mother donating for her son said with a slight grimace. She munched an apple as the blood was being taken.

The protein level of the donors is checked at each appointment before blood is taken. Samples of the recipients' blood are sent to Duke to verify that the gamma globulin levels are adequately maintained through the donors' plasma. If the level drops, the donors are given shots, such as tetanus toxoid boosters, to increase their antibodies.

Mrs. Massa said she is healthier under the plasma therapy than she was with the gamma globulin injections and the young boy's mother agreed her son is doing better.

"In three years he has only missed about seven school days," she said happily. The boy's condition was identified when he was 18 months old and came down with pneumonia. He had the uncomfortable gamma globulin shots until about a year ago, when the family went to Duke for plasma tests.

His father's plasma proved to be incompatible, but his mother's and his uncle's tested out favorably, so two donors are available, if needed.

A cartoon drawing by the boy is pinned to a wall in the Red Cross office. It shows an unwilling donor being pushed into the building with a volunteer waiting to grab him as he enters.

Clearly the scene was created by a youthful imagination, because the smile on his mother's face makes it plain she is no unwilling donor.

ATHENS (AP) — Six tanks stood in Constitution Square, their cannons pointed at the crowd which had surged into the center of Athens. A youth, no more than 20, ran up to one, ripped open his shirt and shouted: "Strike here . . ."

The crowd cheered.

In challenging the tank, the defiant youth was a symbol of the student revolt that shook the Greek capital last week and prompted strongman President George Papadopoulos to declare martial law.

Reporters who witnessed the week's events agree the overwhelming majority of those involved were under 30, many of them high school and university students and young laborers. Thirteen persons died in the fighting which at its height touched virtually every square in Athens and left rubble in most streets in the heart of the city.

Reaction to the rampaging students has been mixed.

"Many do not support them," said a 58-year-old university instructor. "They are being used as cannon fodder in the interests of the old political world, people who themselves had suppressed resistance and thrown persons into jail."

But a 35-year old taxi driver said, "Most people feel admiration for their cause and their materially unrewarding resistance. They have given their blood and hope. But I am embarrassed to admit I would not join them now. I have my work and my family."

The student revolts puzzle the regime which took power in a 1967 military coup. Government officials say privately that most of the students matured under their rule and their text books bear the its symbol, a phoenix and a bayonet-bearing soldier.

Although the government claims to have made major concessions to the students, its propaganda in recent days has referred to the protesters as "an unhealthy minority of thugs and bums backed by the Communists." Universities have been closed and student associations disbanded.

In response there is continued and vocal defiance.

"Those who talk about our material well-being miss the point completely," said a woman law student. "This present revolt is primarily a revolt of intellect because the regime insults the intellect. Their false moralizing and attempt to pose as being free of corruption and violence leaves us unconvinced."

A 24-year-old engineer said: "If there were some fanatics among the organizers last week, there will be many more the next time."

Independent observers noted last week that the demonstrators included members of a variety of political ideologies, including Communists, radicals, and even royalists.

that most efforts are spent in simply detoxifying rather than curing the problem.

Dr. Eric Pfeiffer, professor of psychiatry at Duke University, looked at the problems of aging. He said a survey shows some 53,000 elderly in North Carolina with significant mental impairment, and another 18,000 already institutionalized in nursing homes or state mental hospitals.

Dr. Pfeiffer found elderly patients frequently having multiple mental, physical, social and economic problems; some being maintained in institutions simply by age who could be cared for in a supportive environment instead of an institution.

will be buried below river bottoms except for the Yukon, where a 2,400-foot bridge is planned.

The pipeline also will have to be elevated over earthquake zones, in some areas on pilings 10-feet high. Engineers plan to use a special zig-sag design to enable the half-inch thick steel pipe to absorb shocks up to 8.5 on the Richter Scale.

The 1964 Good Friday quake, which caused extensive property damage, measured 8.4.

The entire line will be wrapped in four inches of plastic insulation to keep the oil, flowing at 145 degrees fahrenheit, from congealing. It will also prevent the heat from thawing the ground.

Most work on the pipeline will run from March to mid-November. Temperatures plunging to 60 degrees below zero will preclude most activity at other times.

rabbits. They spawned like fish. Do you ever regret that we only had two children?"

"No, indeed. Considering the cost of a college education today, I'm eternally grateful for your forbearance in that respect. Anyway, two is a nice number — better than one and far better than none. You know, I've always thought that married people who don't have any children tend to get a little selfish as they get older."

"Many of them do, John. But, in any case, they all get lonelier."

"You know, Elizabeth, you don't have to go on cooking a big Thanksgiving dinner every year. I'd be glad to take you out and spare you all that work."

"I don't mind the work, John. A mother can fix a thousand meals for her family during the year, and nobody notices them. But if her turkey turns out well on Thanksgiving, everybody praises her as if she had passed a miracle. Besides, I'd rather spend Thanksgiving at home. It's my favorite holiday of all."

"Why is that, Elizabeth?"

"Well, the Fourth of July is too noisy, Easter is for little children and for showing off new clothes, and at Christmas everybody expects to get something for nothing — something they may want but don't really need. But to me Thanksgiving has a warmer and more truly religious feeling. People are simply grateful to God for what they have — and the fact that they can share it together."

Will Deliver An Entire Factory

MOSCOW (AP) — Two American firms today signed a $45 million chemical agreement with the Soviet Union to deliver an entire factory here, officials said.

The agreement was concluded between the Lummus Co. of New Jersey and Monsanto of Missouri and Techmashimport, the Soviet agency responsible for importing process technology.

The pact calls for the design and delivery of an acetic acid plant to be constructed in the Ukrainian city of Severodonetsk.

A spokesman for Lummus said it was the first U.S.-Soviet deal that involved a completely equipped production plant. He said previous deals were for separate pieces of equipment only.

The plant will produce 150,000 tons of acetic acid annually by 1978. The chemical is a major "building block" of the petrochemical industry.

Under the agreement, the Soviet Union will provide a 10 per cent down payment and the rest will be financed in the United States. Spokesmen for the two American firms said the financial arrangements have not been completed.

However, they said the Export-Import Bank was expected to extend its "standard" terms which would range from eight to 15 years.

The acetic plant's process was recently developed by Monsanto and is currently used at the firm's Texas City, Tex. where Soviet engineers are to be trained before the Severodonetsk factory begins production.

The deliveries are scheduled to begin "within one year," a Lummus spokesman said.

House-Trained Pig Said A Better Pet Than Dog

GRASSY KEY, Fla. (AP) — When Tim Andersen's pet wants to step outside for a few minutes, he doesn't go to the door and bark or meow. Packer oinks. Mainly because he's a 350-pound, house-trained pig.

House trained!

"All I did was watch him close for about three days," explains 14-year-old Tim. "Everytime he would make a mess I'd rub his nose in it, spank him hard, and take him out."

"He's smarter than any dog you ever saw. I'll talk to him and he grunts right back," Tim says.

The porker shares Tim's bed and otherwise does what all good house pets are supposed to do, say Charlie and Verna Andersen, Tim's parents.

Tim acquired the pig while visiting a relative in Colorado last summer. He says he had dreamed for years of having such a companion.

Tim says Packer strolls about on a leash and defends against intruders. How? Just by walking fast toward them.

Packer is five months old and gaining four or five pounds a day.

"He'll grow to about 800 pounds," says Tim. "The size doesn't bother us ... just more pet to love, I guess."

Mrs. Andersen says Packer is friendly enough with the family although he owes total allegiance to Tim.

"I've spoiled him some," she says. "For Thanksgiving, I cooked him some corn bread special and he spent all day following me around the kitchen rubbing up against me to show his appreciation."

The family says Packer presents only two problems: food and travel.

His cracked-corn and barley chow, which disappears from his bowl at a 15 pound-a-day clip, requires a weekly drive to Miami. Pig food is not easy to come by in the middle Florida Keys.

And Packer is sometimes a little difficult to explain to motel managers.

Enters Plea Of Innocent

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (AP) — Soybean magnate Dwayne O. Andreas pleaded innocent in U.S. District Court today to making $100,000 in illegal contributions to Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey's 1968 presidential campaign.

An innocent plea also was entered for his company.

Andreas had been charged by the federal special prosecutor's office with using $100,000 in funds from the First Inter-oceanic Corp., of which he is chairman, as donations to the campaign of Humphrey, a Minnesota Democrat.

Joseph Walters, Minneapolis attorney, represented both Andreas and the corporation in court and entered the innocent pleas for both. Andreas did not appear before Judge Earl R. Larsen. The Minneapolis millionaire reportedly was in Europe.

The counts against Andreas, 65, and the corporation, charged that four contributions of $25,000 each were made to Humphrey campaign organizations in Illinois in 1968 in violation of laws governing contributions.

Larsen ordered Andreas to post $1,000 personal bond when he returns to Minneapolis and attorneys were given until Dec. 21 to file motions. A hearing on any motions will be held Dec. 27.

Kennedy Candidacy Is Opposed

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ten years after the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, his brother and political heir, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, is under increasing political and family pressure to forego a 1976 presidential bid.

Many Democratic leaders across the country, interviewed in recent weeks, would prefer that the Massachusetts senator stay out of a 1976 race they hope will return their party to White House control.

They fear that the lingering impact of the Chappaquiddick incident, in which a secretary in Kennedy's car drowned, could counteract the gains they expect to receive from voter reaction to the Watergate scandals of the Nixon administration.

A Kennedy candidacy, they say, could create an unnecessary note of division in what most party leaders hope can be a relatively united Democratic party.

In addition, even before his 12-year-old son's right leg was amputated last week in an effort to arrest bone cancer, Kennedy was under strong family pressure to forego a 1976 race.

The senator revealed this in an interview, filmed before his son was stricken but shown Wednesday on NBC's "Today" show. He said, "My wife Joan and my sisters, mother and nieces and nephews are uniformly against" a 1976 candidacy but that he hasn't made up his mind and imagined they would back whatever decision he makes.

He is the sole survivor of four Kennedy sons, two of them assassinated in the presidency or its pursuit. He has considerable family responsibility with three children of his own as well as the 13 fatherless children of his two brothers nearing maturity.

It was this family situation that prompted Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield to say on NBC's "Meet the Press" last Sunday that he hopes Kennedy doesn't run. Kennedy's current Senate term runs out in 1976.

However, Mansfield said he felt Kennedy could probably have the presidential nomination almost for the asking if he wants it.

Most other top Democrats would disagree. It is clear that Kennedy would have to battle other Democrats for the presidential nomination.

Sens. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, Lloyd M. Bentsen of Texas and Walter F. Mondale of Minnesota are already out making soundings and Govs. John J. Gilligan of Ohio and Daniel Walker of Illinois are among many others expressing interest.

While a Kennedy decision to run would probably narrow the field, some of these would almost certainly run in any case.

Kennedy has indicated that he plans to campaign actively for fellow Democrats in 1974 but won't decide on a presidential race until the following year. He needs to do less advance preparation than other potential candidates because of the reservoir of Kennedy supporters around the country.

Egyptian Editor Warns Israel May Resort To Atomic Bombs

CAIRO (AP) — Egypt's most influential editor said today that in any new round of fighting in the Middle East Israel may resort to atomic bombs. He said it is urgent for the Arab world to put up a unified strategy to produce or get nuclear weapons.

Mohammed Hassanein Heikal, editor of the semiofficial newspaper Al Ahran wrote: "In a moment of danger the Arabs could get the bomb from either the Soviet Union or China, but if they refused the upcoming Arab summit conference has to set up a unified commission to produce it."

Heikal said he had been told that Israel already had atomic bombs.

He suggested the Arabs should allot between $250 and $770 million to produce the weapons. Heikal also disclosed that Egypt tried three times to obtain an atomic bomb, but failed.

The first time, efforts by the late President Gamel Abdel Nasser were hindered by huge expenses needed to produce the bomb, and the second time efforts to get the bomb from China in 1967 failed, he said.

On the third occasion, in 1970, Libyan President Moammar Khadafy tried to buy an atomic bomb, "but has learned that such bombs are not for sale," Heikal said. He did not disclose the name of the country from which Khadafy tried to buy the bomb.

Heikal said his reason for discussing nuclear arms was recent information he received from a well-informed American visitor who he said has good contacts with U.S. decision-making sources.

Heikal said the visitor told him discussion of fears that Israel might use atomic bombs came up during a luncheon in Washington on the sixth day of the October war. He said the luncheon was attended by a "minister" in President Nixon's administration and a prominent member of the House Armed Services Committee.

Computer Helps MIT Composers

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) —

The sonorous tones of a Bach fugue wafting out of the new music composition room at Massachusetts Institute of Technology don't come from an organ. They come from a computer.

MIT's Studio for Experimental Music is a place where composers can write complex music and immediately hear it played back by a computer, instead of having to hire a symphony orchestra to do the same work.

Its director says it is the first computer center established solely for the composition of music.

In the music studio, still being set up in two rooms of an engineering building, "visual display," "input" and other computer talk blends with words like grace note and French horn.

"This is basically a music project, not engineering," said Prof. Barry Vercoe as he hooked an organ keyboard to a Digital PDP-11-45 computer.

Beside him, the computer pumped out a Bach organ fugue. Its red lights flashed rhythmically with the music.

The music, which sounded eerily like a real organ, had been coded into the machine with an electric typewriter keyboard.

Once the system is installed, however, composers will be able to write on organ keyboards and see the notes appear on a staff flashed on a television screen.

The computer will be programmed to imitate a variety of instruments besides the organ. And the composer will be able to play back his work as soon as it is written and get a reasonable idea of what it will sound like when performed by live musicians.

"We want a system where composers can get the privacy and feedback they need to compose," said Vercoe.

"We're using little tricks of mathematics to create new sounds," he said. "We're not trying to replace the orchestra here. We're trying to add to it."

Will Permit Politics But No Marxists

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Chilean junta member Gen. Gustavo Leigh says a committee of jurists is preparing a new constitution "which will allow political play but prevent letting the country fall into the chaos that we had under Allende."

Leigh and other junta members spoke in a Mexican television interview Thursday night. The interview was taped in Santiago.

Leigh did not say when the new constitution would be ready or when it might go into effect. "It'll be a modern and agile constitution which will replace the old one ... It will be a long process to finally approve it," he added.

Gen. Augusto Pinochet, the junta president, said the overthrow of Marxist President Salvador Allende on Sept. 11 was "the only solution to clean the country of the situation which was destroying it."

He said the decision for the coup was taken when "Allende refused to heed reason from the workers unions, the congress, the courts and all the other governmental powers."

"We have information from documents found that Allende was planning mass assassinations in the middle of September which would have taken the lives of at least 1 million people who opposed him," he added.

Junta member Adm. Jose Toribio said Allende killed himself. "We are not assassins. I talked to Allende by phone when he was still inside the palace and offered him a DC6 to take him and his family anywhere he wanted to go. He rejected the offer and if he committed suicide that was his personal action," Toribio said.

Parts Shortage For Car-Makers

DETROIT (AP) — The nation's auto manufacturers are starting to run up against parts shortages caused partly by the energy crunch.

Industry observers say the situation, which has not caused any major problems yet, will deteriorate with a worsening of energy shortages.

Thus far the major shortages are in materials derived from natural gas and petroleum. They are used for interior trim and wiring.

"The plastics industry is extremely dependent on petroleum, and that may prove to be a problem in the future," said one auto industry spokesman.

General Motors and Ford say they are suffering acute shortages of interior materials like dash boards and panels, which are made from plastics. In some cases the automakers said they have assembled cars minus an armrest or dashboard. The parts were installed later when they arrived at assembly plants.

A more serious problem reported by Ford, GM and Chrysler is a shortage of wiring harnesses. The wiring harness is the basic electrical system of the car, connecting the battery to the headlights, taillights, dashboard and other systems.

Industry spokesmen attribute the problem to a shortage of polyvinyl chloride, which is used to insulate the wire. Since the wiring harness is the first system installed during assembly, the shortage has an immediate impact on plant work.

"If you're missing an arm rest, you can go ahead and build the car," said one spokesman. "But if you're missing a wiring harness you can't."

Industry spokesmen say a major factor in the vinyl problem is a jump in demand for the substance. They said part of that jump is an increase in use of plastic pipes for home construction. One spokesman also said the auto industry's need for polyvinyl chloride insulation was increased by the ignition-interlock seatbelt systems required in all 1974 models.

Some plant officials said they are running out of vinyl for car tops and seat covers. Industry officials are now looking at the possibility of limiting vinyl trim options.

Irving Invented A Flying Sleigh

NEW YORK (UPI) — By 1809, Washington Irving was describing Santa as a jolly Dutch citizen looking very much like Father Knickerbocker. But the famed novelist began to wonder how Santa, on a horse, could get to all the nation's rapidly-increasing homes on Christmas Eve.

So Irving invented the familiar reindeer-drawn sleigh. And that's how Santa, a century before the Wright Brothers and their flying machine, zoomed off into the skies.

FIELD OF GOLD

SNETTISHAM, England (UPI) — An Iron Age torc, or necklace, was recently found in Snettisham's "field of gold" which already has surrendered enough ancient jewels to modern plows to earn farm workers $10,875 in rewards since 1948.

Airplanes Want To Avoid Birds

NEW YORK (AP)—To help steer airplanes away from localities where they might be endangered by birds in flight, bird watchers are working with the U.S. Air Force.

The Air Force has signed a contract to take the masses of data accumulated since 1900 in the National Audubon Society's Christmas Bird Count and put it on maps so that training flights can be routed around areas of concentration for large birds such as ducks, geese, cranes and pelicans.

Report Peron Is Recovering

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—President Juan D. Peron is recovering from a recurrence of bronchitis, his doctors say.

Peron, 78, became ill Wednesday. Government sources denied reports he had suffered a heart attack or stroke. He remained secluded Thursday in his suburban residence. He was expected to be away from his office for several days.

Suburbanism Is Being Postponed

RIVERHEAD, N.Y. (AP)—Here on the eastern end of Long Island, Suffolk County plans to try and fend off creeping suburbanism and to retain some of its agricultural atmosphere by preserving farm land. Many of the farms have already been bought up by speculators who lease them back to the farmers while awaiting the proper time for development.

County legislators have agreed to spend $45 million in a three-year period on the preservation project. One possible method is for the county to buy development rights of the land for about 70 per cent of its value, and let farmers continue to farm it.

'Mail Early' Campaign Begun

Greenville Mayor S. Eugene West has proclaimed Nov. 26 through Dec. 1 as "Mail Early Week."

West said the postal employees are striving once again this year to effect the timely delivery of billions of greeting cards, gifts and other holiday mail pieces and that local citizens should express thanks to the dedicated postal employees.

During the "Mail Early" week, West encourages everyone to deposit their holiday mail, to take special effort to insure full and correct addresses on all mail, to complete ZIP codes; and to package securely.

Postmaster Lloyd Mills is urging local residents to post their domestic and foreign Christmas mail one to two weeks earlier than the Postal Service originally recommended, so that the energy shortage will not interfere with on-time deliveries.

The new "Mail Early" schedule is as follows:

Nov. 23—all surface parcels to Alaska and Hawaii; international surface greeting cards to Canada and Mexico;

Nov. 24—Airmail greetings and parcels to Armed Forces in Canada, Arctic, Africa and Azores; international air parcels to Africa, Near East, and Far East;

Nov. 27—Airmail greetings and parcels to Armed Forces in Belgium, Denmark, England, Finland, France, Germany, Greece, Italy, Norway, Netherlands, Portugal and Spain; international air parcels to Europe, South and Central America;

Nov. 29—International air parcels to Canada and Mexico; Dec. 2—International air greetings to Europe, Central and South America;

Dec. 3—Surface parcels within the United States (except Alaska and Hawaii)

Dec. 4—International air greetings to Canada and Mexico;

Dec. 8—Surface greeting cards within the United States, including Alaska and Hawaii;

Dec. 13—Air greetings and parcels to Alaska and Hawaii;

Dec. 15—Airmail parcels and letters within the United States (except Alaska and Hawaii).

All types of mail not listed should be posted immediately. "The seriousness of the fuel shortage to the Postal Service is underlined," Mills said, "by the fact that in addition to the fuel consumed by commercial air carriers, we require approximately 350 million gallons of fuel to travel 2.25 billion miles delivering the 90 billion pieces of mail that flow through the system each year. Our requirement for the month of December alone is 45 million gallons."

Postmaster Mills said that public cooperation on meeting these new, advance mail early dates is needed to help the post office complete all Christmas deliveries.

Only Three Survive As Ship Breaks Up, Sinks

ASHDOD, Israel (AP)—A small Cypriot freighter broke up and sank in Ashdod harbor today after it slammed into a breakwater in a raging Mediterranean storm. Twenty-one persons were missing and feared drowned, harbor police said.

There were only three reported survivors of the multinational crew aboard the 4,000-ton Annette out of Famagusta.

An Israeli navy search and rescue officer said the Annette had sent up flares shortly after midnight when it ran into trouble.

"We saw people on the ship but could not get to them because of the storm," he said.

Winds up to 50 knots were rolling giant waves across the breakwater and into the harbor, he reported.

"We waited for the crew to jump so we could rescue them, but they did not. We saw the waves washing over the boat and people disappearing," he said.

He said it was "sure death" to approach the stricken Annette in rescue craft, and "we were helpless ... We did not think the boat would sink so fast."

Chief Dan Inbari of the Ashdod harbor police reported that only seven bodies had been recovered, and said: "I want to be realistic. I think we have no chance of finding any more survivors."

Callas Concerts Due In London

LONDON (AP)—Opera singer Maria Callas flew in to London to give two long-awaited concerts at the Royal Festival Hall.

The concerts Dec. 1 and Dec. 2, her 50th birthday, originally were scheduled five weeks ago, but Miss Callas developed a throat infection.

Miss Callas's recent appearance at Hamburg was her first concert in eight years.

Tickets selling at $24 for the festival are fetching up to $100 on the black market.

He said the crew included nine Greeks, five Turks, two Somalis and two Pakistanis.

Also on board were a Greek inspector representing the shipping company and five Israeli workers repairing the ship.

The ship arrived from Gaza where it unloaded a cargo from Romania. Ashdod is 18 miles south of Tel Aviv.

British Blame Oil Firms For Scarcity

LONDON (AP)—The British government today blamed international oil companies rather than the Arab states for fuel shortages reaching danger levels.

Government sources accused the oil companies of diverting non-Arab oil away from Britain to other countries, but oil firms denied they were discriminating against Britain.

The shortages came as a surprise in government circles where a continued flow of oil has been confidently expected since the Middle East war.

During the war, Britain refused to honor contracts for supplying tanks and spare parts to Israel. The Arabs named Britain as a friendly country and promised to continue supplying oil here.

Most of Britain's current supplies come from Saudi Arabia, Kuwait, and the Persian Gulf sheikdoms of Qatar and Abu Dhabi.

But government sources said Britain was not getting its fair share of oil from places like Nigeria and Iran.

Government sources charged the non-Arab oil was being sent by international companies to countries that no longer get

As a result, they said, Britain's oil reserves which stood at a danger level of 70 days supply only 10 days ago are now down to 65 days, the sources said.

The government reportedly has expressed its concern to major oil companies including Exxon, Gulf, Shell and British Petroleum.

Father, Son Die As Home Burns

CHERRYVILLE, N. C. (AP)—An early morning Thanksgiving Day fire at a Cherryville residence took the lives of a father and his 7-year-old son. Other members of the family escaped the burning home.

Authorities said the boy, Roger Beam, apparently died of smoke inhalation. His body was found in a bathroom of the five-room, frame home.

The father, Haywood Beam, 45, died Thursday afternoon at a Shelby hospital.

The mother was reported to have received cuts after breaking a window and leading five other children to safety.

Alabama Rips Louisiana State; Irish Romp To Set Up Meeting

By GUY COATES
Associated Press Writer
BATON ROUGE, La. (AP)—Alabama Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant was tired but jubilant after his Crimson Tide defeated seventh-ranked Louisiana State 21-7, grabbing the Southeastern Conference crown along the way.

"We're awfully happy to be getting out of here with this one," said an exhausted Bryant.

Quarterback Gary Rutledge led second-ranked Bama to the 500th victory of its football history, accounting for three touchdowns.

Rutledge ran 19 yards for the first Tide score in the second quarter, threw a 49-yard touchdown pass to George Pugh later that period, and hurled a touchdown pass to Wayne Wheeler, good for 77 yards, in the third quarter.

A master at the Wishbone attack, Rutledge had to resort to his passing because the vaunted Alabama running game was held in check by LSU's defense.

LSU, running from the I-formation, piled up 21 first downs compared with 11 for Alabama, which only gained 191 yards rushing.

LSU netted 212 yards on the ground, 143 of them coming from tailback Brad Davis who scored the only Tiger touchdown with a 40 yard run in the final period.

Alabama's victory raised the possibility of a battle between the unbeaten in the Sugar Bowl in New Orleans on New Year's Eve. The Tide goes against Auburn next week, while Notre Dame, which defeated Air Force earlier in the day, ends its season next week against Miami before heading for the Sugar Bowl.

It was Alabama's 10th consecutive victory, and snapped LSU's 15-game home winning streak, leaving the Tigers 9-1 to close the season next week against arch-rival Tulane.

LSU meets undefeated Penn State New Year's night in the Orange Bowl.

In other major college games Thursday, Notre Dame defeated the Air Force Falcons 48-15, the Texas Longhorns beat the Texas A&M Aggies 42-13, the Ohio University Bobcats defeated Marshall 35-21, and Southern Mississippi beat Utah State 32-8.

Nebraska is at Oklahoma Friday. Saturday, Ohio State is at Michigan, UCLA plays Southern Cal, Pittsburgh meets Penn State, Texas Tech visits Arkansas, Wake Forest is at North Carolina State, Oklahoma State meets Iowa State and Missouri is at Kansas.

Fifth-ranked Notre Dame, coming into the game a heavy favorite, employed the bullish running of Art Best and Eric Penick to score Coach Ara Parseghian's 19th consecutive victory over service teams since he became coach in 1964.

Best rolled up 125 yards in 11 carries, and Penick had 67 yards on 11 carries with two touchdowns.

Eleventh-ranked Texas, playing the second half without injured running back Roosevelt Leaks, ground out 373 yards rushing, including three touchdowns runs by quarterback Marty Atkins, in defeating the Aggies.

Leaks, who already has set a Southwest Conference rushing record, left early in the third quarter when he sprained his left knee. The victory gave the Longhorns sole possession of the SWC title.

Quarterback Rich Bevely passed for two touchdowns and ran for a third in leading Ohio to victory in its last game of the season.

The Bobcats jumped to a 14-0 first-quarter lead over Marshall. They finish the season at 5-5.

Southern Mississippi, sparked by an opening drive of 73 yards capped by Wilson Plunkett's touchdown, rolled to a 25-0 half-time lead over Utah State. Senior halfback Noel Orange scored twice, once from the nine-yard line and once from the four.

Citadel Coach Taking Advantage Of Special Student Recruiting

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

The Citadel's basketball program has a situation much like that of VMI in that it must fight to show a prospective student that the military life can be a good one.

But The Citadel does have a few advantages that their sister Southern Conference school doesn't. For one, the hazing of underclassmen isn't as great, and the turnover of athletes therefore isn't as great.

And The Citadel has a program by which a serviceman can enter college as a special student. Coach George Hill is using this rule to do quite a bit of recruiting.

His first player landed this way was Oscar Scott, who graduated this past spring. This year, he has two other players coming the same way, Arthur McGriff, 6-3, and Larry Bell, 5-11. Both are expected to bring a great deal of cage experience to The Citadel, especially McGriff, who is 26.

"We need experience," Hill said. "We have only four players on the team in the two upper classes." They are Chuck Cordell, 6-1; Bob Ferris, 6-8; Greg Weber, 6-4, and Jerry Collis, 6-6. And Collis has yet to letter.

Still, however, Hill believes that his starting five this year will be stronger than last year despite the loss of Scott and All-Conference Steve Fischel. "I think we've done a good job of replacing them."

If the Bulldogs get hit by injuries, however, they could be in trouble. "There is a wide gap between our fifth and sixth men. If we are healthy, we could be a factor in who wins the title. I don't think we'll win it, but we could be in the middle third."

Cordell leads the team in both experience and ability. He ranked sixth in the nation last year in free throw shooting, and Hill is glad to have him back.

"He's a fine player, an outstanding scorer and shooter. He's the type player who can break open a game."

Weber, who is a swing man between the front and back court, is regarded as a fine athlete who has quickness and agility. "He's improved more between seasons than any player I've ever coached," Hill said.

Richard Johnson is the third returning starter. A sophomore, he's 6-8 and weighs 215 pounds, the biggest man on the team except for Ferris, who is the same size. "He's stronger and will be better this year. He makes us in real good shape at the post."

The two positions open will probably be filled by freshmen. One of them is McGriff. "He's been All-Tourney in every service tournament he's played in," Hill says. "And he's been playing in them for eight years. He's ready to go with a lot of experience. He's better than Oscar Scott in everything but rebounding."

The other man will be the point guard, 6-0, Rodney McKeever. "He's quicker than anyone in the Southern Conference, I believe," the coach said. "He's tremendous and has all the skills to be an excellent point guard."

The bench, however, is of great concern. Ricky Day, 6-5, could play either the wing or the post. The others include 6-6 John Trimble, Bell, 5-8 Don Server and 5-11 Bill Stearman.

If keeping athletes in school proves as tough as it does at VMI, Hill may find himself more and more looking to the service to provide those special students who can play for him.

"Now, therefore, I, Mayor S. Eugene West, proclaim Friday, the 23rd Day of November as Rose High School Football Day in the City of Greenville and urge all citizens of Greenville to lend their support and cooperation to these deserving individuals."

Hoggard Is Here

Begin Practice For Top Races

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Practice began today for two weekend auto races that will decide driving championships in the International Motor Sports Association (IMSA).

Two tighter battles for season titles couldn't have been forecast had somebody written a script for the IMSA series back in February.

Nick Craw of Washington, D.C., who in private life is the acting director of the Peace Corps, and Amos Johnson, a sports car veteran from Raleigh, N.C., are tied with 34 points each in the season standings.

They will decide the title in IMSA's series for compact stock sedans in a 200 mile race that goes off at 7 p.m. Saturday.

Mike Keyser of Towson, Md., author of a book called "The Speed Merchants," and Jacksonville auto dealer Peter Gregg are separated by only 1½ points going into Sunday's finale of the Camel GT series for big bore Corvettes, Camaros and Porsches.

Saturday's race is for $26,000 in prize money, while the purse for Sunday's 250-miler is a record $35,000.

Both events will be run over the 3.81 mile track-road course at Daytona International Speedway.

Craw, formerly director of the Project Hope hospital ship program, will drive a BMW 2002 in Saturday night's race. He has won three times in the seven races this year.

Johnson wheels a Gremlin backed by the American Motors factory. He needs to finish in the top six and ahead of Craw in order to claim the title.

Keyser and Gregg drive Porsche Carreras. Gregg and his driving partner, 23-year-old Hurley Haywood of Chicago, combined in one of the little German machines to win the Daytona 24 hour race last February.

Quebec Shoots; Toronto Wins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Quebec did most of the shooting but Toronto did all of the scoring in the third period Thursday night and the Toros beat the Nordiques 4-2.

Quebec peppered the Toronto net with 24 shots during the final 20 minutes of the World Hockey Association contest but Gilles Gratton was equal to the task. Gratton stopped some 52 shots for the night, as compared to 26 saves made by Quebec's Serge Aubrey.

The Toros, trailing 2-1 after two periods, managed a modest 11 shots on goal during the final period but three of them went in, all in the final five minutes.

In other WHA games, the Minnesota Fighting Saints topped the New England Whalers 7-5, the Chicago Cougars edged the Los Angeles Sharks 4-3 and the Vancouver Blazers whipped the Edmonton Oilers 7-1.

Saints 7, Whalers 5
Minnesota took command with five goals during a 10-minute span in the second period. George Morrison got two of them just 19 seconds apart, while Wayne Connelly, Murray Heatley and Steve Cardwell got the others. Larry Pleau scored twice for New England.

Cougars 4, Sharks 3
Brian McDonald of Los Angeles collected all three Los Angeles goals but it wasn't enough to overcome Chicago. Joe Hardy scored twice for the Cougars and Larry Mavety and Brian Glenwright got the other goals, both unassisted.

Blazers 7, Oilers 1
Vancouver picked up its fourth straight win and first under new Coach Andy Bathgate. The Blazers erupted for three goals within a 36-second span of the second period to break it open. Danny Lawson scored twice for Vancouver and now has 17 goals on the year.

Wednesday's WHA results: Winnipeg 6, Cleveland 2; Houston 4, New England 2.

Wednesday's NHL results: Montreal 4, Minnesota 3; New York Rangers 3, California 0; Atlanta 3, Buffalo 2; Pittsburgh 5, Vancouver 4; Chicago 4, St. Louis 1.

Thursday's NHL results: New York Rangers 7, Buffalo 6; Pittsburgh 4, Toronto 2; New York Islanders 5, Detroit 3; Boston 4, Philadelphia 2; St. Louis 2, Minnesota 1.

Detroit Owner Lashes Lions Following 20-0 'Skin Victory

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
DETROIT (AP)—Bill Ford wishes Detroit Coach Don McCafferty would have stayed around long enough Thursday to give the Detroit Lions "a few choice words."

He didn't. But team owner Ford filled the void with a few of his own following the Lions' 20-0 National Football League loss to the Washington Redskins.

"They just stand around and qualify for the pension plan," said Ford of his players, smiling through his anger. "Talk about a players' strike — it might be a blessing. We should vote for it."

The outcome snapped a three-game winning streak for the Lions in their annual Thanksgiving Day encounters and it was the first time they were shut out since a 27-0 loss to Minnesota exactly four Thanksgiving ago.

Quarterback Billy Kilmer tossed touchdown passes of four and three yards to Charlie Harraway and Charley Taylor in the first and third quarters for the Redskins. Harraway rushed for 107 yards in the game.

Curt Knight kicked field goals of 25 and 23 yards in each of the first two periods for the other scoring for Washington, which remains first in the National Conference East with an 8-3 record.

The Redskins playoff hopes got a decided boost when Miami beat Dallas 14-7 in Thursday's only other game. The Cowboys had been tied with Washington atop the Eastern Division.

Detroit dropped to 4-6-1 in the Central Division.

Washington's best success came on the ground. Detroit didn't have much success either rushing or passing.

In Thursday's other NFL game, the Miami Dolphins rolled to their ninth straight victory with a 14-7 decision over the Dallas Cowboys.

It was a measure of revenge for Miami, 10-1 in the American Conference East. The defending World Champion Dolphins, who have already clinched a playoff berth this year, scored their first triumph ever over the Cowboys. The Cowboys beat the Dolphins 24-3 in Super Bowl VI.

The passing of quarterback Bob Griese, Larry Csonka's running and the clutch defensive play of safety Jake Scott led Miami's success.

The loss put a crimp in Dallas' plans for the National Conference East title. The Cowboys' record dropped to 7-4 as they fell a game behind the Redskins.

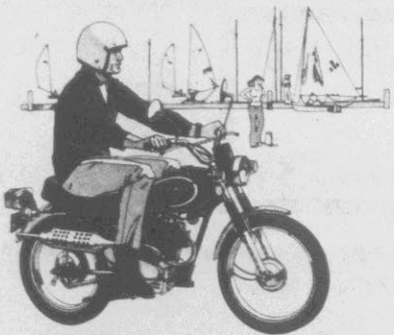

In Sunday's NFL games, its Pittsburgh at Cleveland; St. Louis at Cincinnati; New York Giants at Philadelphia; Buffalo at Baltimore; Chicago at Minnesota; Los Angeles at New Orleans; New England at Houston; Kansas City at Denver; Atlanta at the New York Jets and San Diego at Oakland. In the weekly Monday night game, Green Bay visits San Francisco.

Big Ten Title Is On The Line

By LARRY PALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer
ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — The Ohio State-Michigan clash Saturday will determine the conference championship and Rose Bowl representative again this year, as it has in the last four of five seasons.

There were occasional forays by other teams hinting they'd challenge for the top spot — notably Illinois. But the Illini ran into OSU and Michigan back-to-back and saw a 4-0 conference record ruined with two losses.

So once again it's the Red and Gray Buckeyes versus the Maize and Blue Wolverines — No. 1-ranked Ohio State against No. 4-ranked Michigan — in a nationally televised battle before an expected record collegiate crowd of close to 105,000 at Michigan Stadium.

Last year Michigan was the favorite in the game at Columbus. But OSU thwarted the unbeaten Wolverines twice at the goal line to hold on to a 14-11 victory and win a trip to the Rose Bowl — where the Bucks were demolished by Southern Cal.

The home team has won since 1968 when Coach Woody Hayes' Bucks ran up 50 points against the Wolverines at Columbus.

The game shapes up as a running battle, featuring option attacks led by quarterbacks Cornelius Greene of OSU and Dennis Franklin of Michigan. Hayes and Michigan Coach Bo Schembechler, who was a graduate assistant coach under Hayes at OSU in 1951, pride themselves on their defense.

This will mark the 70th meeting between the two teams, with U-M holding a 39-26-4 lead.

Chinese Grab Golfing Lead

MARBELLA, Spain (AP) — The favored U.S. team of Jack Nicklaus and Johnny Miller, tied for fifth place going into today's second round of the World Cup Golf tournament, has a suggestion for the leaders.

"China, go home," Miller jokingly told Taiwan's Lu Liang Huan and the smiling Lu grabbed the individual leadership with a 5-under-par opening round.

Miller could do no better than a one-over par 73 on the Nueva and Alucya courses. Lu's partner, Hsieh Min-Nan, the individual winner in play at Melbourne, Australia last year, finished with a 71. But with Lu helping, they totaled 138.

Nicklaus shot 69, tied with South Africa's Gary Player, Spain's Valentin Barrios and

Young Replaces Cousy As Coach

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Draff Young, a 31-year-old product of the playgrounds of Washington, D.C., and J.C. Smith University in Charlotte, N.C., takes over as interim coach of the Kansas City-Omaha Kings when the National Basketball Association team plays at Boston tonight.

QB Problems In Grey Cup

TORONTO (AP) — The Ottawa Rough Riders and Edmonton Eskimos have quarterback problems for Sunday's Grey Cup football championship game.

Ottawa's Jerry Keeling, suffering from an injured knee, "is limping a little better," according to Coach Jack Gotta.

And Edmonton's two quarterbacks, Bruce Lemmerman and Tom Wilkins, have minor injuries although "both will be ready," says Eskimo Coach Ray Jauch.

The coaches revealed the information while meeting the press in a news conference Thursday.

Jauch said that he expects all members of his team will be ready to play, with the possible exception of defensive back Billy Cooper. He suffered a pulled hamstring muscle in the Western Conference final against Saskatchewan.

Sanderson Returns To Ice For Boston Bruins

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

"Nobody told me I was going to play tonight," said Derek Sanderson who returned to action Thursday after a stint in the minors to help the Boston Bruins to a 4-2 National Hockey League game against Philadelphia.

"It was unexpected," said Sanderson who got a standing ovation when he skated out on the Boston ice. Sanderson, who was hampered by a training camp injury, scored the tying goal after the Flyers, leading the Western Division, lost their top goalie Bernie Parent with a game misconduct penalty for pushing a linesman at 9 minutes of the first period. Parent had played every minute of every game so far this year.

Cavaliers Get Win With Trips To Line

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Houston Rockets had just been "fouled" to death and Coach Johnny Egan was mad — really mad.

"You saw it — it was ridiculous," said Egan after the Cleveland Cavaliers were given 52 foul shots enroute to a 104-96 National Basketball Association victory Thursday.

To make matters worse for Egan, his team only got 17 free throws.

"They had so many foul shots, it was really something," said Egan. "The first half, we outshot them 21-16 in field goals, but they went to the foul line 19 times to our eight."

In the other NBA games Thursday, the Milwaukee Bucks beat the New York Knicks 107-91; the Golden State Warriors trimmed the Atlanta Hawks 101-99 and the Portland Trail Blazers defeated the Seattle SuperSonics 131-125.

In the American Basketball Association, the San Antonio Spurs beat the Utah Stars 92-84 and the Virginia Squires crushed the Memphis Tams 135-111.

The Cavaliers connected on 36 out of their foul shots, some of them by Austin Carr, who scored 27 points overall. Dwight Davis had 21 points and helped a fourth-quarter surge that powered the Cavalier victory.

Bucks 107, Knicks 91

Lucius Allen led a third-quarter rally that broke open a close game and led Milwaukee past New York 107-91. Allen scored 11 of his 27 points in the third period as the Bucks rallied from a 50-48 deficit.

Warriors 101, Hawks 99

Jeff Mullins scored a layup with seven seconds remaining to give Golden State a 101-99 triumph over Atlanta. Mullins finished the night with 21 points. Pete Maravich led Atlanta with 26.

Trail Blazers 131, SuperSonics 125

Geoff Petrie scored 43 points, directing Portland to a 131-125 decision over Seattle. Petrie, John Johnson and Ollie Johnson led a surge early in the fourth quarter in which Portland stretched a four-point lead into a 115-96 edge with 7:16 left.

Spurs 92, Stars 84

San Antonio held Utah to 37 points in the second half and defeated the Stars 92-84. Four San Antonio players, led by Rich Jones' 24 points, combined for 81 points. Behind Jones in the scoring parade were Joe Hamilton with 21 points; James Silas with 19 and Coby Dietrick with 17.

Squires 135, Tams 111

George Carter's first-half scoring and the defensive play of Larry Miller led Virginia to a 135-111 victory over Memphis.

In the NBA on Wednesday, it was: Los Angeles 106, Capital 97; Detroit 107, Phoenix 104 and Philadelphia 103, Kansas City-Omaha 90.

In the ABA, it was Kentucky 145, Virginia 115; San Diego 139, Carolina 125; Memphis 108, Indiana 99 and New York 105, Utah 92.

Many Jealous Males In Error

Lois has such a jealous husband that she even took a lie detector test to allay his suspicions. But still he accused her of outside sexual affairs. So he required the psychiatric facts listed below. Many jealous males misjudge female eroticism!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.C.

CASE Y-577: Lois T. aged 24, has a sexual feud with her husband.

"Dr. Crane," she tearfully began, "my husband has always been insanely jealous of me. "During our courtship, I rather enjoyed having him want to be 100 percent possessive. But since our wedding a year ago, he has made my life unbearable.

"For he constantly accuses me of being unfaithful.

"If I just smile as I greet a neighbor on the street or even at church, he raves for hours after we get home, saying I am having an affair with such a man.

"Yet, I have never even dreamed of dating anybody else. "But still he makes embarrassing scenes, even in public, and tries to confine me to our home, as if I were a prisoner in jail!

"Last week I finally took a lie detector test, just in the hope it would end his false accusations.

"The polygraph showed I was a faithful wife and had NEVER been out with any other man.

"But now he claims lie detectors are the bunk and not reliable.

"Dr. Crane, what's the answer?"

Polygraph Facts
The inventor of the lie detector demonstrated his earliest model before my psychology classes at Northwestern University.

He would ask for volunteers from my students; then urged them to deliberately lie about which card in a deck they had looked at.

But he never failed in detecting their guilt.

And I later read a paper at a symposium at the University of Tennessee Law School, where the polygraph was being analyzed by psychiatrists, police scientists, judges and attorneys.

Prof. Fred Inbau, of our N.U. Law School, as well as attorney John E. Reid, are lie detector authorities.

They show only one per cent error in lie detector tests.

And such errors usually are due to mental unbalance of the subjects for such tests, who are emotionally abnormal, like the murderer of those 8 nurses in Chicago a few years ago.

But if people are normal human beings and the lie detector test is being administered by a trained expert, you can rely on its findings more surely than on eye witnesses!

For eye witnesses often make mistakes and can cause the arrest of innocent men or women who merely resemble the real culprits.

But the problem which Lois faces is her husband.

Such abnormal jealousy as he indicates, may have these causes:

(1) Severe inferiority complex, especially in the boudoir. This makes him think other men are more magnetic and thus can wean his wife away from him.

(2) A previous marriage (or romance) in which he did find sure evidence of his mate's infidelity.

(3) False notion about a wife's erotic passion, as abetted by the Dr. Kinsey report.

Or from verbal reports by customers of prostitutes, who claim that "all women are wildly passionate."

Lois was a normal, relatively frigid wife, so her boudoir inertia thus made him decide she must be dissipating her erotic energy elsewhere.

Send for my booklet, "Sex Problems in Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

It helped banish this husband's false notions about female eroticism. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Billionaire Getty Still Refuses To Pay Ransom

LONDON (AP) — Oil billionaire J. Paul Getty says he is standing firm on his refusal to pay kidnapers for the return of his 17-year-old grandson, missing in Italy for the past five months.

Although some police and relatives claim the disappearance of J. Paul Getty III is a hoax, a photograph purporting to show young Getty minus his right ear was circulated in Rome Thursday.

Along with the package of snapshots was a handwritten letter begging the elder Getty to pay the ransom in return for his grandson's release. It said:

"I beg you, grandfather, please forget my capriciousness and folly. Pay and I will be as you like for good. You, too, Papa. I beg you, forget our disagreements. Forgive me and help pay."

A spokesman for the boy's grandfather told newsmen: "Mr. Getty will never change his mind about his decision to pay nothing." The oilman, considered one of the world's richest men, has said giving in to ransom demands would open his other grandchildren to the dangers of kidnapers.

The youngster's father, who also lives in London, has agreed to pay an undisclosed ransom, according to his attorneys. Persons claiming to be kidnapers at one time demanded $17 million, but since have reportedly reduced the figure to $3.4 million.

Thursday's note and photographs were made public by the Rome newspaper Il Tempo, which said its newsmen found them near the Rome-Naples expressway after an anonymous telephone caller told them where they were.

Police sources said investigators believe the pictures genuine and not retouched. They show a youth squatting on the ground, apparently in a small cave.

Getty vanished five months ago in Rome. A severed human ear and a lock of red hair recently were received through the mail in Rome along with a letter saying that the items were proof the boy had been kidnaped.

There are various explanations why the nine of diamonds became known as the "Curse of Scotland". Among the more popular is that the order for the Massacre of Glencoe was signed on the back of this card. In today's hand, however, that card should have proved to be South's salvation.

With 24 points and a perfectly balanced hand, South was absolutely maximum for his opening bid of two no trump. North had just enough to raise to game.

West made his natural lead of the jack of hearts, East unblocking the queen as declarer won the king. There were eight tricks on top once the ace of clubs was knocked out, and South wasted no time in trying for his ninth trick via a diamond finesse. He entered dummy with the ace of spades and led a diamond to the jack. West took his queen and forced out the ace of hearts, and no matter what South did thereafter, he could come to no more than the eight tricks he started out with.

The diamond finesse was a reasonable enough shot for the ninth trick, but there was a better line available due to the fact that North held the diamond nine. Declarer should spurn the finesse in favor of playing the ace, king and jack of diamonds. This line is certain to succeed in any of the following circumstances: 1) If either defender

Kennedys At Gravesites

WASHINGTON (AP) — Led by family members, thousands of visitors trudged up a grassy hillside at Arlington National Cemetery to visit the graves of the slain Kennedy brothers on Thanksgiving Day — exactly a decade after President John F. Kennedy's assassination.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., the only surviving brother, stood coatless in the morning chill as the family knelt before the grave of President Kennedy, who was killed in Dallas, Tex., Nov. 22, 1963. Each placed a single flower on the granite marker.

Then, the family walked to the simple white cross nearby that marks the resting place of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, slain in 1968.

Among the flowers on the late president's grave were bouquets sent by his widow,

Gas Shortage Hit Some Drivers

No Voyaging In Black Sea

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon quietly cancelled one of its periodic "show-the-flag" voyages into the Black Sea last month in the midst of the Middle East crisis.

The official reason for the cancellation was "operational requirements." There was no elaboration on this.

However, it appears likely that U.S. officials may have been motivated largely by concern that the Russians might regard the presence of American warships in the Black Sea at that time as a provocation.

Ever since 1959 the United States has sent a few destroyers into the Black Sea periodically to underscore that it is not a Russian lake.

The U.S. destroyers had been scheduled to cruise the Black Sea Oct. 22-27. It was during that period that U.S.-Russian tensions were at their height because of the war between the Israelis and the Arabs.

The Russians built up their fleet in the Mediterranean to about 95 ships during the crisis, with many of the reinforcing Soviet vessels coming from the Black Sea.

Meanwhile, the United States strengthened its 6th Fleet in the Mediterranean to about 60 ships. Both U.S. and Soviet fleets there have been reduced since the crisis subsided in late October.

There is no indication when the United States will resume its destroyer cruises into the Black Sea.

Jacqueline Onassis. She and her son John and daughter Caroline, attended a memorial mass at a Roman Catholic church in Peapack, N.J.

A mass also was said at a church here for President Kennedy and included prayers for Edward Kennedy Jr., 12, who is recuperating from the amputation of a cancerous right leg last week.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The fear of running out of gas prompted many holiday travelers to ride trains or buses rather than drive cars for Thanksgiving Day trips. And they probably didn't regret it.

Some cars coughed and sputtered to a standstill on freeways around the country as the fuel shortage became a reality for many drivers.

"We were getting two or three calls a minute this afternoon from motorists stranded without gas," spokesman Alex Parley of the Connecticut Automobile Association said Thursday night.

Many gas stations were reported closed, but whether for lack of fuel or because of the holiday could not be determined.

A spokesman for the American Automobile Association of ice in Columbus, Ohio, said 50 per cent of Thursday's calls were emergency appeals for gas. He said at 8 p.m. only one gas station in the area was open.

Some of those able to find gas had to pay dearly for it. Station owner Harry Simmermon of Monroe Township, N.J., found no lack of business despite prices described as "Thanksgiving blackmail" by one local official.

Simmermon charged 82 cents a gallon for regular and 86 cents a gallon for premium gasoline at his Shell station on Black Horse Pike. Normally he sells regular gas for 38.9 cents a gallon and premium for 45.9 cents.

Those who decided on public transportation didn't have to worry about gas, but they had to hassle with crowds. Amtrak, the nation's passenger rail service, got "every available coach they had out of mothbolls" to handle the load, one regional supervisor said.

A spokesman said Amtrak's system-wide reservations center received 27,000 calls for information on Thanksgiving Day, about 15,000 more than expected.

Standing room only was the case on many of Amtrak's trains, especially the Washington-Philadelphia-New York route.

Greyhound Bus Lines in New York said it expected 50 per cent more travelers than usual for the holiday period.

An additional complication in bus travel was the voluntarily imposed 50 mile per hour speed limit on highways, making for late arrivals. "We've gotten so screwed up on schedules because of the lowered speed limits, that people don't know what the hell is going on," said one dispatcher at Port Authority in New York City.

Motorists in many areas seemed to be complying with the lowered speeds, now mandatory in at least 10 states.

Amtrak employees at various stations around the country indicated it wasn't just the Thanksgiving holiday that accounted for the increase in traffic.

"We're booked solid on all long-distance runs through Dec. 31. The gas shortage has had an awful lot to do with it," said Diane Ruddy, an Amtrak controller in Seattle.

Amtrak employees in Philadelphia said some trains to New York were booked full for weeks and that many passengers were willing to stand all the way if necessary.

Ben-Gurion Still On Danger List

TEL AVIV (AP) — Former Premier David Ben-Gurion, 87, still on the danger list after a paralyzing stroke, received a cable from President Nixon.

"My family and I are praying for your quick recovery ... You have fought long and successfully for Israel and for peace," Nixon said in the cable Thursday. "Now that an opportunity for peace has arisen I anticipate the day you will see it materialize with your own eyes."

Doctors at Tel Hashomer Hospital said Ben-Gurion has spent peaceful nights and is maintaining stability.

Royal Couple Likes To Chat

GRANADA, Spain (AP) — Prince Charles and Lady Jane? Buckingham Palace says reports romantically linking the British heir with the 22-year-old daughter of the Duke of Wellington are "pure speculation."

But beaters accompanying the pair on recent partridge hunts at the Wellington estates 20 miles southwest of Granada say the couple certainly likes to talk, anyway.

"Between partridge they chat and chat," the men said Thursday.

Computer Is For Divers

SCHENECTADY, N.Y. (UPI)—A small "computer" worn on the wrist may soon be another piece of equipment carried when divers descend to the murky depths.

Two General Electric scientists, who are amateur divers in their spare time, developed the device which indicates to the diver where, and how long, he must stop during his ascent to avoid the "bends," a formation of nitrogen bubbles which causes intense pain and often cripples the body.

The computer, about two inches high and two and three-quarter inches in diameter, is not yet available commercially. GE says it will not produce the item, estimated to cost about $100, but may license the patents to other firms.

The scientists, Marcus Borom, 39, and Lyman Johnson, 32, have tested the computer at depths to 165 feet in nearby Lake George.
