Cease-Fire Talks Break Off; Some Shooting Erupted

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli and Egyptian cease-fire negotiators broke off their discussions today. The Egyptian representative said the situation was "very, very bad," and a U.N. spokesman said no further meetings were scheduled.

Machine-gun and mortar fire erupted about two miles from the site as Israeli Maj. Gen. Aharon Yariv and Egyptian Maj. Gen. Mohamed el-Gamasy met. The session was in the U.N. conference tent at Kilometer 101 on the Cairo-Suez road.

In New Delhi, Soviet Communist chief Leonid I. Brezhnev warned that unless Israel and the Arabs reach an early peace settlement, "a new and even more dangerous military explosion may occur in the Middle East at any moment."

"The hostile armies are confronting each other with their arms at the ready," Brezhnev told the Indian Parliament at the end of a four-day summit meeting with Prime Minister Indira Gandhi.

"It is clear that urgent measures must be taken to prevent new bloodshed and to establish a stable peace."

It was not known whether Brezhnev knew of the latest Middle East gunfire before he spoke.

Shells apparently fired by

Egyptian mortars exploded within 20 yards of a U.N. peace force car that sped across the desert to stop the shooting, which lasted about 30 minutes.

A U.N. spokesman at the conference site did not specify which side started the firing, but newsmen at the scene could see that both the Israelis and the Egyptians were shooting.

No casualties were reported, and it was assumed the negotiations were broken off because Egypt and Israel still could not agree on terms for the withdrawal of Israeli forces from the Suez Canal and the type of Egyptian forces that would be deployed along the east side of the waterway.

Economic Slowdown And Job Losses Are Expected

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

The nation's economy will slow dramatically next year and the unemployment rate will rise to close to six per cent if the Arab oil cut-off continues, President Nixon's chief economist said today.

Herbert Stein, chairman of Nixon's Council of Economic Advisors, said in Washington the fuel shortage will cause economic growth to slow to near-recession levels, but without an actual decline in output of the economy.

Gross National Product, market value of the nation's goods and services and the broadest measure of the nation's economy, will be two per cent lower than it would have been because of the shortage, Stein told reporters.

He said the figures, worked out by a team of government economists, represent the worst economic impact possible because of the shortage.

The unemployment rate is now 4.5 per cent of the work force. If it goes to six per cent as many as one million workers could lose their jobs.

Stein said the economic estimate is based on assumptions that the Arab oil cut-off will continue throughout the year and that the President's policies to conserve fuel will work.

The nation will feel the worst of the economic impact in the first part of the year, he said. He said that maybe the economy would decline in the first three quarters of the year before picking up steam again.

Stein said that prices obviously will be higher because of shortages but he said the picture is so clouded that the administration is not making a prediction on the rate of inflation next year.

New layoffs affecting thousands of workers in the automobile and aviation industries were announced Wednesday.

"There are some difficult days ahead on unemployment," one government economist said Wednesday. He predicted the jobless rate would rise from its present 4.5 per cent but would fall short of the 6 per cent rate forecast widely by private economists.

And Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton said that, if the nation cooperates in the administration's fuel-conservation measures, "We will minimize the impact on jobs."

Meanwhile, General Motors ordered new layoffs affecting thousands of workers. The giant auto maker is slowing production because of slack demand for most larger cars, partly as a result of the gasoline shortage.

The number of workers idled at each plant was not announced.

American Airlines said it was laying off 214 of its 3,700 pilots effective Jan. 2 as a result of flight cancellations caused by shortages in jet fuel. A spokesman said further cuts in personnel might be necessary.

Cessna Aircraft Co. said it will lay off 2,400 workers by Friday night and blamed production cutbacks on President Nixon's reduction of fuel for business flying.

Other layoffs have been made in the chemical, construction and textile industries. Travel and recreation industries also are expected to be hard hit.

In Florida, where tourism is the leading industry, an economist said 180,000 more residents of the state could be out of work by April because of the fuel shortage.

Land-Use Plan Request To Get Further Study By Zoning Commission

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Further study will be given to a request by the City Council for the Planning and Zoning Commission to submit a land use plan, including a possible moratorium, for all rezoning except Medical Arts, Flood Plain and residential for the city's highway entrances.

The joint city-county board, meeting Wednesday night, was in general agreement that a comprehensive land use plan is needed but most members also agreed that imposing a rezoning moratorium may be unnecessary.

Board chairman Louis Clark said that he would be opposed to a moratorium. Noting that a "lot of what we are doing is being done without a moratorium," Clark said that he would "hate to think that we wouldn't accept any request for rezoning, even if a developer had a suitable proposal."

City Councilman Percy Cox explained to the commission that the "Council can see a rash of highway properties being rezoned highway commercial." He said that he is concerned that the property may be rezoned

"for no other reason than to up the price of the property."

Several members expressed concern that a moratorium would be costly to developers and tie the developers hands as far as client commitments are concerned.

City Planner John Schofield suggested that a moratorium be imposed on all rezoning requests in certain specified areas, including land areas where heavy activity is expected. The moratorium, he proposed, would be of a specified duration and would include a detailed description of the area.

Schofield asserted that a moratorium would serve as a tool to delay rezoning requests and provide time for land use study. He added that he felt he could continue to work on a comprehensive land use plan, however, if it was felt a moratorium should not be imposed.

The commission, it was pointed out, has the authority to table or delay requests on all rezoning matters for up to 60 days. Clark said that instead of a moratorium, "I would rather see us take... each request as it comes along and study each request." He added, "I think this board has acted conscientiously in considering all requests."

The joint body voted to approve a request by Phil Carroll and Associates for rezoning a portion of property behind Pitt Plaza from RA-20 to Shopping Center but tabled a request by Carroll for rezoning another portion of the property to Shopping Center and R-6.

The whole tract has some 150 acres, it was noted, and would include 8.8 acres of streets (extensions of Red Banks Road and Arlington Boulevard), 72.6 acres of shopping centers, and 68.7 acres of R-6 or residential usage.

Carroll said that his request is compatible with current rezoning and adjacent property and is conducive to the city's land use pattern.

Schofield opposed the rezoning of strips along the proposed road in the development to shopping center and asserted that traffic in this type of area would be extremely heavy. He asked that more time be given to study of the strip rezoning request.

The area that will be recommended to the Council for rezoning is bounded on three sides by shopping center zoning.

In other business, the commission voted to recommend to the Council that some 78 acres of property owned by Clark and a

Indicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal grand jury today indicted former White House aide Dwight L. Chapin on four counts of lying to a Watergate grand jury.

The indictment charged that Chapin lied to the original Watergate grand jury on April 11, 1973 when asked about the activities of Donald H. Segretti, underground political agent for the 1972 Nixon re-election campaign committee.

The formal charge lodged against Chapin is "making false declaration before grand jury or court."

The charge carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine on each of the four counts.

Barrus Appears Low Bidder

WILLIAMSTON—Barrus Construction Company of Kinston was named the apparent low bidder in a project to resurface 6.3 miles of U.S. 17 from end dual lane south of Williamston to the Beaufort County line.

The bid for the project totaled $125,499.50 and the final completion date has been set as July 1, 1974.

Joyner Named Coordinator In Energy Field

Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner has been given an additional title by the Pitt County Commissioners—Energy Crisis Coordinator.

Joyner said his only jobs so far in relation to the new designation will be to help persons who are unable to get fuel oil for the heating of homes and small businesses. Anyone having trouble should call or write Joyner's office, 758-2008 or P.O. Box 58, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Joyner said his office has no real authority, but will verify whether the person requesting help has called all dealers in the area and will then report to an emergency energy office recently set up in Raleigh.

Pioneer 10 Is Reporting New Jovian Discoveries

By WILLIAM STOCKTON
AP Science Writer

MOUNTAIN VIEW, Calif. (AP) — Data from America's Pioneer 10 space probe of the planet Jupiter already has provided important new discoveries impossible to make through telescopes.

Pioneer, still three million miles from Jupiter, has proven that the big planet has a magnetic field like the earth's.

Most experts agreed such a field had to exist, but its confirmation was important because much of what astronomers believe about Jupiter is tied to the existence of a magnetic field.

A 570-pound spacecraft launched from earth 22 months ago, Pioneer encountered Jupiter's magnetic field Tuesday. By Wednesday it was measuring a field of five gamma, a unit of magnetic strength. Earth's surface magnetic field is about 50,000 gamma.

Based on these early values, certain to increase, Dr. Robert R. Neuman at Ames Research Center here predicted Jupiter might have a surface field of two million gamma, almost twice as high as expected.

Pioneer also has discovered that the Jovian magnetic field wobbles every 10 hours — the same amount of time it takes Jupiter to make one rotation. This has suggested to some experts that the magnetic field may be generated in a manner never encountered before in study of the planets. But scientists said it is too early to explain what strange mechanisms might be responsible.

The spacecraft has found far more gas inside Jupiter's magnetic envelope than is present in earth's. Project scientists said that what means also is unclear.

Finally, measurements of Jupiter's gravitational tug on the tiny spacecraft have revealed that the Jovian gravity and, thus, the planet's mass, is larger than that calculated from earth observation. As a result, Pioneer will arrive at its point of closest approach to the cloud-covered planet two minutes earlier than expected on Dec. 3.

More Than 100 Die In Flaming 7-Story Department Store

KUMAMOTO, Japan (AP) — Fire broke out in a department store crowded with year-end holiday shoppers today and police said perhaps as many as 100 persons perished in flames, smoke and fumes. Another 100 were reported injured.

Police officials said there was some confusion as to the exact number of dead but that the toll could range from 90 to more than 100.

Helicopters flew to the scene 550 miles southwest of Tokyo to pluck survivors from the roof of the seven-story building.

"It was like an inferno full of cries of fleeing mothers and children," one survivor said.

Officials said at least 31 of the dead were women. They added that more victims might be found on the upper floors which firemen were unable to reach because of heavy smoke and fumes.

Masatoshi Tsuruta, another survivor, said:

"I was almost overwhelmed by smoke before reaching a window, from which I escaped by a ladder. I saw people falling down a staircase like an avalanche."

Officials said the blaze broke out while repair work was being done on the store's emergency and fire safety equipment.

The cause of the blaze was not immediately known. The store opened 20 years ago.

Cite 'Mandate' To Change Politically-Oriented N.C. Agency

RALEIGH (AP) — Members of the Holshouser administration have defended its personnel policies as being necessary to allow the governor to take control of an entrenched bureaucracy.

Testifying before a Senate committee in personnel policies Wednesday, Secretary of Transportation Bruce Lentz and three others defended the firings of Democratic career employees.

They said their personnel policies were designed to improve the training and performance of the 12,500 employees in the Highway Division.

They denied that anyone had been fired for partisan reasons. Lentz dismissed the complaints of several fired employees, saying "some of them think that 10, 15, or 20 years service is sufficient virtue to allow them to remain on the job until they decide to retire."

Lentz and Board of Transportation member Troy Doby referred to Gov. Jim Holshouser's "mandate" to change what Lentz described as "the most politically oriented agency in state government."

Doby, who set up the personnel policy in his eight-week tenure as personnel director, said he approached the job with the idea that a Republican administration could not be effective "with a bureaucracy that was almost 100 per cent Democrat."

Doby said too many highway employees owed their jobs to a local Democratic politician and that this patronage system made the highway division "impenetrable" to efforts for change below the highest administrative echelon.

Doby and the others—current personnel director Alfred Boyles and ex-personnel director David Madigan—defended Lentz' right to fire any employee he wished to.

Committee member, Sen. Lamar Gudger, D-Buncombe, questioned each witness about the "massacre in the 14th district" where 22 of the 52 employees fired in October were located.

Lentz said the firing decisions were based on information from a personnel study started by Madigan.

Complaints about various people involved also came, he said, from citizens, the governor's office, and professional staff members.

Lentz said he took the responsibility for the firings. He said he would consider any requests for reconsideration endorsed by the state personnel board.

She'd Like To Frame Her Lawyer Hubby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Tell that doctor's wife to move over! [When she complained to her husband that she felt sick, he told her to take two aspirin and go to bed.] I am the wife of a prominent attorney, and here is my story:

Nearly two years ago when we moved cross country, our van was involved in a serious accident, and most of my prized antiques were destroyed. Yes, they were insured, but we haven't collected because my husband hasn't had time to follow up on the claim.

Last summer our 6-year-old son was hospitalized for two weeks when his counselor at day camp slipped and spilled hot wax over 60 per cent of my son's body! [That was the last time they attempted to make candles at that camp.]

Altho the camp admitted their liability, and provided us with all the necessary forms, we have not collected for the hospitalization, medication or plastic surgery because my husband simply hasn't gotten around to doing the legal work yet.

I have a scrapbook filled with newspaper articles written about my husband, but if you print this in your "Dear Abby" column, I will frame it, and hang it in the bathroom!

MAY DAY

DEAR MAY: It's practically framed. [And so's your old man.]

DEAR ABBY: I sure got a bang out of all those women who wrote that they were married to doctors, plumbers, carpenters and hairdressers, but when it came to performing services for their own families, they wouldn't do a thing.

I am married to a man who provides a personal service, but I sure don't want any of his professional services. At least not yet. He's a mortician.

LOVES LIFE

DEAR ABBY: You are being unfair when you attribute group sex to animals! Some animals mate for life. Some are promiscuous, and some are polygamous, but if you know of any that practice group sex in any form—from foursomes to the whole neighborhood, please name the breed or apologize for attributing human aberrations to the more normal furred and feathered creatures who cannot write to Dear Abby.

A. W. LYONS, PROSPECT, KY.

DEAR MR. LYONS: I apologize for insulting the animals. And in this connection, may I say that man is the only animal that flushes. Or needs to.

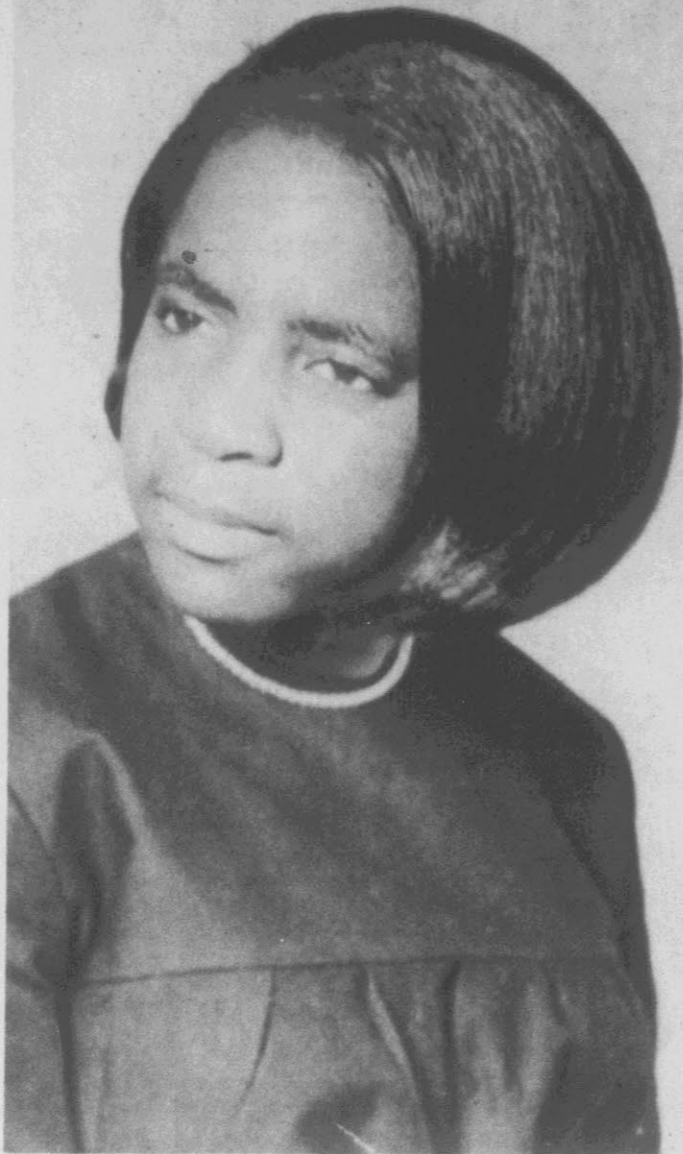

DEAR ABBY: Every time you print a letter about a dog barking, I get three copies of it in three separate envelopes—all meticulously anonymous. They are obviously from the same person.

Since I don't know who the person is, but know he [or she] reads your column, I'd like that person to know that I ignore such gutless infantile tactics, and place anonymous poison pen letters on the same level with barking dogs.

BOWSER IN ALTADENA, CAL.

DEAR BOWSER: You are slightly more charitable than I. I place them lower.

Qualified Women Drive To Success

By JEFFREY ULBRICH
Associated Press Writer
ROCK SPRINGS, Wyo. (AP) — As she wheeled her flatbed truck around the giant Jim Bridger power plant construction site in southwestern Wyoming, 22-year-old Debbie Vase of Rock Springs let out a scornful laugh at the mention of women's liberation.

Debbie is one of about 20 women among the 2,600 workers employed on the project. A member of the Teamsters Union, she is qualified to drive anything from a semi-trailer rig to a pickup truck and has done a lot of cement truck driving.

Her employers are extremely pleased and credit her with being a better driver than most of the men.

The pretty miss has been driving for Bechtel Corp. at the Bridger site for about 10 months and really sees nothing out of the ordinary in what she is doing.

"I don't need women's lib to get a job," she said confidently. "All that stuff is just a little too much. There are other gals out here. One is even a labor foreman. It's not that hard."

Debbie says she has never had a yen to become a secretary or anything along that line. "It doesn't pay well enough." Knocking down $5.60 an hour for her job on the flatbed, she may have reason. She said other driving jobs pay varying rates.

"It's just a job. It may be unique for some people, but it's just a job — if you keep on your toes."

What's it like being outnumbered more than 100 to one by men?

"There are some jerks, but on the whole I've been treated real well. There is a good bunch of men out here and I have been pretty well respected."

Construction workers are known for their frequent, if not continual, use of expletives. Does this bother her?

"They're just words, what the hell," she said as she turned her head showing one of those words written on the back of her hard hat.

Debbie says she may quit for a couple of months' soon, and go up to a hunting camp she runs near Pinedale in Western Wyoming.

An avid outdoorswoman, she just wants to get away from the noise and bustle for a while and hunt, fish and canoe.

Indian Art Form Program Given Members

The Alpha Iota Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa met Tuesday night at the First Federal Savings and Loan Association community room.

The hostesses, Lilah Smith, Gladys Womble, Janie Starling, Jane Davis, and Dorothy Brown served dessert.

Devotions were given by Pauline Spain.

The coming Christmas party was discussed during the business meeting. The party, to which the husbands will be invited, will be held at the home of Elizabeth Savage Dec. 15, at 8 p.m.

The recipient of the chapter's 1973-74 scholarship, Catherine Davis, spoke briefly.

Following the business meeting, Norma Gray instructed the members in one Indian art form. The weaving art form known as Mandalla's representation of the earth, the sun, and the moon, makes a wall hanging, she said.

Mandalla's art was considered a good luck charm among the Indians. This art makes use of any base, for example, embroidery hoops, hula hoops, large or small, which suits the fancy of the creator. The designs also, which are produced by weaving with different colors of yarn, reflect original ideas and color schemes, she pointed out.

She Only Misses Her Hairdryer

HAMBURG, West Germany (WNS) — Ursula Riegel, 27, had only one complaint when her husband of two weeks left her home and said that he would never return. "He took the hair dryer that he had given me as my wedding present," she reported. "I never did get a chance to use it because he and his friends were always at it."

Breaking Point Was His Wife

BRIGHTON, England (WNS) — Michael Yeates, who is known as Mick the Milkman on his daily route, always kept his temper with customers. "Everybody tries to get a rise out of the milkman with insulting stories," he said. "If a lady has an unexpected baby, it's the milkman who gets the blame." Now Yeates, 30, has been fined $75 for punching his wife in the nose. "When she began a saucy story about me, I lost my temper," he explained. "Wives should not expect the same treatment as customers."

Helpful Hints

- Don't discard liquid in canned foods. This can cause a loss of as much as one-third of the water-soluble vitamins and minerals, according to nutritionists at the U.S. Department of Agriculture.
- Store canned foods in a cool, dry place where they will not be subjected to freezing temperatures.
- When washing clothes, avoid tangles. Put in a mesh bag belts, aprons, and other items with long ties.
- Turn cuffs down and remove lint before washing pants.
- To clean hard to get at spaces, fasten a piece of cloth to a yardstick with a thumb-tack.
- Cover the food chopper with a clear plastic bag. This will keep it clean and ready for use.
- Store parsley in the refrigerator. Put it in water in a tightly covered container. It will stay crisp longer that way.

The Obvious Question Remains

State Senator Gordon P. Allen, D-Person, reportedly has said that the state should build post-graduate medical education facilities before development of a new medical school.

Sen. Allen is Senate majority leader and obviously will have influence with the legislators. He was reported to have spoken approvingly of the UNC Board of Governors plan for allocating $30 million to expand area health education centers.

He described the ECU med school plan as highly emotional and said he hoped the legislature "would not in a fit of emotion make the wrong decisions."

But, he said he would not oppose expansion of the school and "I would hope that some day they would have the school."

However, he said, "You've got to have the clinical teaching facilities."

Well, that's fine as far as it goes. But the obvious question is still, What is wrong with developing the ECU medical school as the area centers are being developed?

No one has ever maintained that the ECU school could be developed overnight. It will take time to build the proper foundation, as it is envisioned, and if we put off its development on into the future while something else is done, it doesn't take much imagination to determine what is going to be done about the ECU med school.

If the North Carolina Legislature next year puts its foot down and declares that what it had directed on three different occasions is going to be, no one can accuse it of hasty action.

Never has a State Legislature been so defied on a matter than has our Legislature on this issue. Those who have blocked development of the ECU medical school time-after-time despite legislative approval are going to continue to do everything they can to thwart it.

If the will of the people is to be carried out through their elected representatives, as is supposed to be so in a democracy, it will have to be done by prompt and decisive action on this issue by the 1974 General Assembly.

Promise Of A Heated Battle

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—While public attention has been riveted in other directions such as the doctor shortage or mental health problems, a joint committee of the North Carolina Senate and House of Representatives has quietly hammered out a proposal which holds promise of being the hottest issue in the 1974 General Assembly.

At stake are high-budget programs worth more than $204 million currently being operated—often competitively—by 22 different agencies in four different state departments.

And that very fragmentation and competitiveness prompted the committee on Exceptional Children to move in the direction of creating a super-agency for kids which would be a cabinet-level Department for Services to Children and Youth.

The proposed legislation would create the department and the method of naming a secretary to head it, and call for creation of local councils in various regions of the state—which by law would have on them parents of children needing such services—to run the system.

Storm Expected

Rep. T. Clyde Auman of West End, co-chairman of the committee said he expects a storm when the proposal hits the General Assembly.

"But our biggest problem probably will be the agencies involved. All of them are trying to do a good job, but they're so fragmented they just can't handle it."

But Auman predicts the proposal will get favorable attention in the General Assembly since it is well known that sentiment in that body now strongly favors local (or regional) operation of programs and documentation of problems in programs designed to meet the needs of exceptional children is readily available.

North Carolina is the first state to move in the direction of creating a super-department for children, and according to members of the study committee is "plowing new ground."

Impetus for the proposal has come from the Fiscal Research Division of the General Assembly itself, rather than from any of the agencies involved.

In fact, the committee met with and listened to several agency heads in the early consideration of the problem and left convinced that by their competitiveness and their tendency to specialize in a narrow field rather than speaking to the whole child, the agency heads should be bypassed, and they have been to a large extent.

The proposed legislation was drafted by Ray Shurling, a member of the fiscal research staff and formerly in the Department of Administration's systems management division.

Study Carried Out

Shurling also wrote with the aid of a former staffer, Ran Coble, an extensive survey of the situation entitled "A Study of Exceptional Children in North Carolina."

That document has been the guiding hand for the legislative committee as it moved toward the startling position of creating an entirely new department of state government.

In laymen's terms, Shurling compares the current situation involving children with any of a host of problems as that of a man who has a car with the motor missing.

"The state has been operating programs like this: you would take the car to the Ford place to have the motor analyzed; then you would to the Chevrolet place for a carburetor adjustment, and across town to another place to have the spark plugs changed and the points checked. Then, you would end up somewhere else for timing adjustment."

"We have been treating the disease instead of the child; we've been treating the symptoms according to the various disciplines and recognized authorities rather than working toward the whole child," Shurling said.

Auman agreed, and added that a great missing link has been lack of early screening techniques. Most physical, emotional and mental disabilities have waited until a child entered school before discovery. By then it is often too late to straighten out a problem that could have been corrected earlier in life, he said.

Something Needed

"There is a lot of need here," Auman said, "and we only hope that something good can come of this effort, something that will provide services for all children of North Carolina, and provide a good and effective screening program to help solve some of these problems earlier."

As a prime example of the gap in screening programs, Shurling pointed to the new kindergarten program in public schools. He feels that the screening segment should be expanded to include all youngsters.

"What difference is there whether a child is six-years-old and ready to be screened, when earlier screening could help correct the problem," Shurling said.

The Honeymoon Is Now Ended

By JOHN KILGO

RALEIGH — Right or wrong, the North Carolina Legislature feels it has been betrayed, and any honeymoon the Holshouser administration might have enjoyed on legislative turf a year ago, is over.

The Legislature is upset because of the number of people fired by Gov. Jim Holshouser's administration since the General Assembly left town last spring.

"I think the Legislature will treat the Governor fairly," says Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt. "But a number of things the Legislature was given reason to believe wouldn't happen, have happened. In other words, I don't think the honeymoon is going to be nearly as much in bloom in this session as it was in the last one. That's because of a number of things this administration has done. But in the final analysis, I think the Legislature will work with the Executive branch for the best interests of North Carolina."

Republicans maintain that Democratic partisans are blowing the dismissals all out of proportion. They say Democratic governors have fired people, just as Gov. Holshouser did, and nothing was said.

House Speaker Jim Ramsey said the firings were anticipated in the House, and sparked House passage of the State Personnel Bill, which would have prohibited the firing of state employees "except for good cause."

The bill, in Ramsey's words, is now "resting" in the Senate.

"As I indicated," Ramsey said, "the House anticipated this situation. I don't foresee any problems between the Legislature and the Governor."

As for Hunt's select Senate committee to look into the firings and other personnel grievances, Ramsey said: "I'm not sure what the committee is looking for. Jim (Hunt) hasn't said anything to me about it. I hope they do find some answers. Maybe that course is better than the State Personnel bill that the House passed and sent over there."

Rep. Carl Stewart (D-Gaston) says it's hard to tell how the Legislature and the Governor will get along next year.

"There has certainly been a widening of the gap between us during the past few weeks, because of the firings," Stewart said. "And I'm speaking as a Democrat who has not been unfriendly to the administration. Some of the firings, in my opinion, were wholly unjustified."

Stewart says he'll be interested to see what develops during the weeks before the Legislature convenes in January.

"I think the Governor gets along fairly well with the Legislature," Stewart said, "but some of his staff people have great difficulty in this area. I don't see any world shaking issues that should divide the legislative and executive branches during the next session. But the firings have put a gap between us, in my opinion."

Stewart says he can't remember a Democratic administration firing as many people as this one, and he added: "It was the way they were fired. There was an announcement that some would be fired—and then the people involved weren't notified until later. They were kept in suspense. This, in my judgment, was a cruel way to handle it. The morale among state employees is at a low ebb, due to the firings."

Strength For Today

RENOUNCING SELF

An English curate was once talking with an old farmer and the question came up, "What is the greatest impediment to spiritual growth and happiness?"

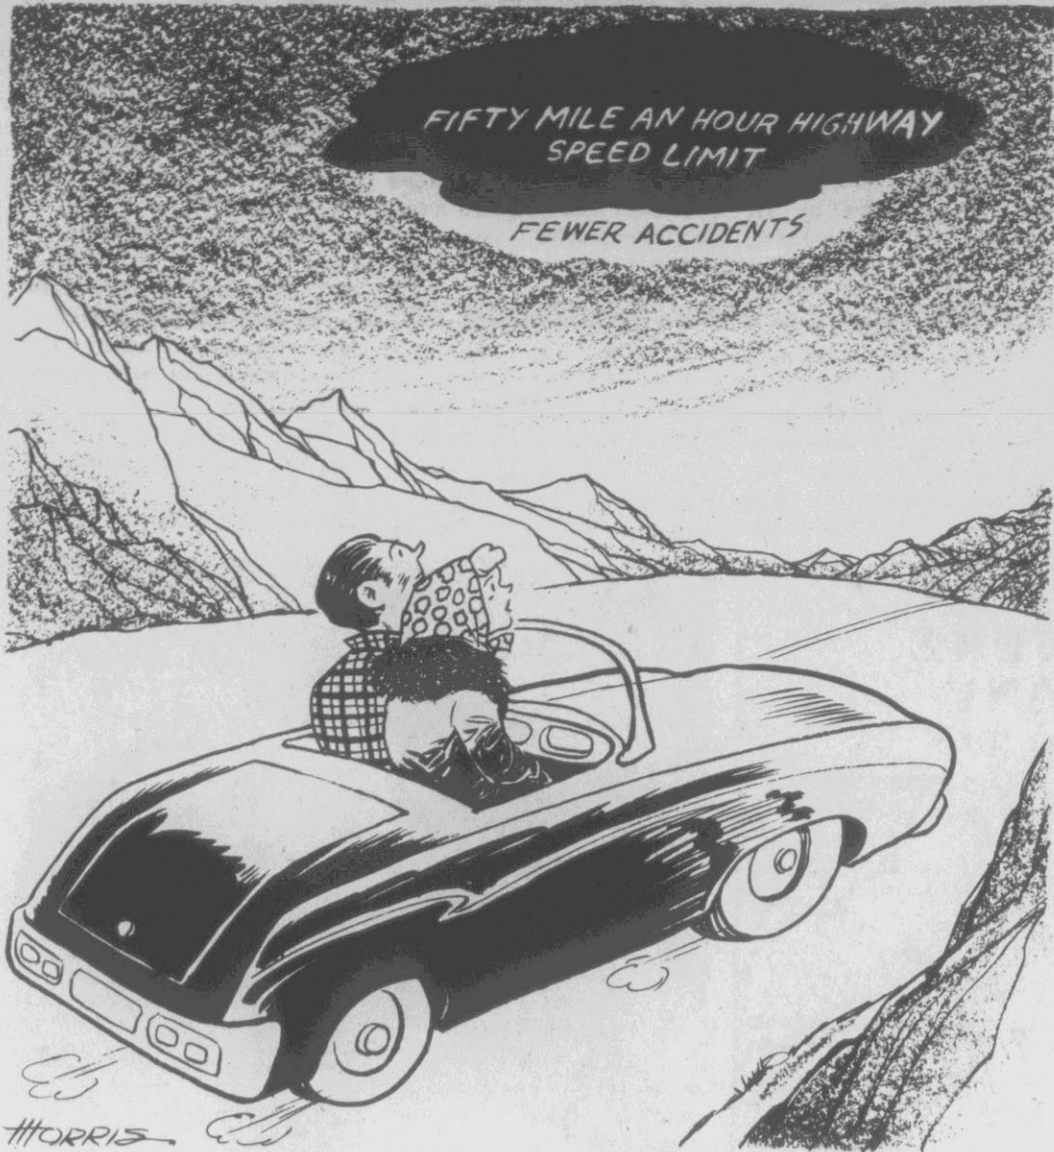

"Surely to renounce our sinful self," insisted the curate. "No," replied the old farmer, "the greatest difficulty is to renounce our righteous self."

Jesus often criticized the Pharisees who were so sure of themselves and so confident of their own righteousness that they looked with disdain on all others. In all ages there are people who likewise are so confident of their own righteousness and so completely unwilling to admit themselves wrong that they come under the same criticism which our Lord passed upon the Pharisees of this day.

Not even the best deeds we do are so perfect that they can bring salvation. We never begin to grow spiritually until we confess our weakness and give the living Spirit of God a chance to do something with our hearts.

SILVER LINING!

No Time For 'Kid Stuff'

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

In his first epistle to the Corinthians, the Apostle Paul laid down some sound advice for all those engaged in the business of exhortation: Speak clearly, he said, "for if the trumpet give an uncertain sound, who shall prepare himself for the battle?"

As the country hunkers down to survive the energy crisis, Paul's question needs to be taken to heart, not merely by the President but by our national leadership totally. With a breath-taking suddenness, Americans are being called upon for all kinds of sacrifices, some minor, some major. Seldom in a peacetime have such demands been made for a spirit of unity and concord.

On the naked issue of ultimate survival, let there be no question: The republic will survive. The measures asked by Mr. Nixon in his messages of Nov. 7 and Nov. 25 will create some hardship and much inconvenience, but there are pinpricks. Western Europe and Japan must endure much more. The great latent strength of America, once fully mobilized, can triumph over this adversity. If the task is tackled in the right way, we will emerge a stronger nation 10 years hence.

But the task demands that the outset, just as Paul also reminded us, that grown men put away childish things. It is kid stuff, and irritating kid stuff at that, for the President to be squabbling with Congress on the matter of who is to blame for the fix we are in. Mr. Nixon regrettably started the quarrel with his vainglorious boast that two years ago he dispatched "the first energy message ever sent to the Congress by a President of the United States." It was not much of a first to brag about. But considering the vast legislative powers vested in Congress, speaker Cal Albert's defensive response was feeble and unimpressive.

If blame is to be allocated, the supply is abundant. There is plenty of blame to go around. As far back as 1953, energy consumption in the United States began to exceed domestic production. The handwriting has been on the wall ever since. No president and no Congress for two decades has done what should have been done. The

Their Trucks Stuck

By MIKE SILVERMAN
Associated Press Writer

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Beverly Cole sat in the cab of her husband's tractor-trailer that had carried 41,000 pounds of bouillon cubes from New York. She sighed wearily.

"At least I'm with him," she said. "I sure wouldn't want him to be stranded out here without me."

Mrs. Cole and her husband, Johnny, who drives for a southern California trucking cooperative, arrived here Monday en route to San Francisco. They thought their stop would be a routine refueling at Jim Davis' Arco Auto-Truck Terminal Inc. — one of the largest truck stops in Northern California.

Instead, the Coles found themselves stranded because Davis had used up the 200,000 gallons of diesel fuel he was given for November under the federal allocation program and wasn't due to receive another shipment until Dec. 3.

Some 30 other truckers here were in a similar predicament.

"I have been stuck here four days and I'll just have to sit until they get some more," said O.C. Sullivan, from Amarillo, Tex. He had almost made it to Morgan Hill, Calif., with his load of furniture from Philadelphia.

"This is a graveyard of truckers from everywhere," he said.

Like the other stranded drivers, Emma and Calvin Salyer, independent truckers from Arcadia, Tex., slept in a bed at the back of their cab, ate their meals at the nearby Truckadero Cafe, and "nearly drank a lot of coffee and sat in the cab."

Some passed the time playing cards and listening to the cafe.

40 Years Ago Today

By SUSAN PRICE
November 29, 1933

Greenville today turned its attention to making last minute preparations for the observance of Thanksgiving Day.

With the tobacco market, banks, courthouse, post office, and other public buildings and stores preparing to close for the day, this year's observance should be one of the most complete in several years.

The highlight of the observance will be the special service of Thanksgiving to be held at Jarvis Memorial Methodist Church from 8 to 10 a.m.

J. C. Latham and W. C. Cherry, prominent tobacco growers of Beaufort County, entertained members of the Greenville Tobacco Board of Trade at a barbecue and Brunswick stew dinner at the Yum Yum Inn last night.

Sixty buyers and warehousemen of the local market were guests of the growers.

Duke University had special honors as four of their football players were picked as members of the Associated Press All-Southern Conference football team.

Honored were Freddie Crawford, captain, Tom Rogers, a tackle, and Horace Hendrickson and Bob Cox, quarterback and fullback, respectively.

The U.S. Dollar In Big Demand

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Remember that weak old dollar that the United States was forced to devalue officially because nobody abroad was willing to pay face value for it?

It's a different dollar now, and foreigners are eager to pay list price for it, despite all the economic problems facing the United States, despite the oil cutback, despite Watergate ...

The fact is that the value of the dollar is now rising against most other well known currencies, and that could mean good news for American tourists abroad, for the U.S. stock market, and for domestic borrowers.

A few examples will demonstrate.

In the Oct. 22-26 period you would have had to pay $2.44 for a British pound. On Nov. 20 you could have had it for a little more than $2.39.

In the same October period you would have had to pay 37.5 cents for a Japanese yen, but about a month later you could have picked one up for less than 36 cents.

These aren't isolated instances. The dollar also has been growing stronger in relation to the German mark, French franc, Dutch guilder, Italian lira, Belgian franc—even when matched against the Canadian dollar.

While some economists were shrewd enough to foresee the trend, a good many other confess to being surprised, mainly because the reasons are hidden at the bottom of a heap of bad economic news.

Perhaps the clearest explanation is to say that the economic problems of the United States, though challenging, aren't nearly so bad as those confronting the nations of Europe, and of Japan. Inflation abroad, for example, is very bad.

As analysts of the First National City Bank put it this week, "After a lull in August, inflation sparked through Europe in September like a flash fire in a hay field." And the absence of oil now adds fuel to the fire.

During September, inflation in Japan raged at 2.9 per cent, a rate which if continued would amount to an annual rate of nearly 35 per cent. In all Europe the rate was nearly 1 per cent, or close to 12 per cent a year.

Even with a continuation of the oil cutback, few analysts expect the United States rate to exceed 8 or 9 per cent. In the 12 months to September it averaged out to "only" 7.4 per cent.

Moreover, the United States trade account has now shifted into surplus. That is, after a whopping $6.9 billion deficit last year, American exports have been exceeding imports in recent months.

Acting on their judgment that the United States is a relatively better place for their money, many foreign individuals and institutions have been investing in U.S. stocks, weak as they are. In the third quarter, foreign purchases of U.S. securities topped $700 million.

The effect of these purchases, should they continue, would be to put a platform under the market, and to some extent exert downward pressure on interest rates.

Spring Planting Faces Uncertainty Over Fuel

Skylab Control Problem Solved

By BARRY HANSON
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Midwest farmers obtained enough fuel for the fall harvest, but spring planting is uncertain.

"If we don't have fuel, that's it," says Paul Overton, who raises wheat, barley and flax near Norma, N.D. "A fuel cut-down would put farm operations on the rocks."

Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz told newsmen here Wednesday that farmers will have to curtail their use of fuel, but they will be given priority.

"There will be shortages, but we think we will get through," Butz said. He didn't go into details.

Government regulations, published this week in the Federal Register in Washington, say priority fuel users, including farmers, will receive 90 to 100 per cent of normal supply.

U.S. agriculture uses between 500,000 and 900,000 barrels of oil a day. Total U.S. consumption is 17 million barrels a day.

Good weather permitted farmers to finish harvesting and plowing in November. Many hurried the harvest by purchasing in October and November the diesel oil allotted to them for December and January. Suppliers set up informal allocation last spring when the diesel oil shipments they received began to fall short of demand.

Farmers often use fuel for grain drying. So far no grain has rotted for lack of fuel to operate dryers. The good weather helped.

The farmers are uncertain about the spring, although President Nixon has called for a record 1974 harvest, sufficient to meet all export demands. Net farm income in 1973 is expected to reach $25 billion, up $5 billion from 1972.

"Anybody's guess is good," says Creston Foster of the American Farm Bureau Federation. "We anticipate we will have to conserve energy of all kinds to make it. With increased acreage next year we know we'll have to have increased fuels."

William J. Kuhfuss, president of the Farm Bureau Federation, says that farmers consume 3 per cent of the nation's gasoline and diesel oil in normal times.

Poultry producers in northern Georgia fear shortages of propane, used to heat their hatcheries in winter.

"There are no fuel supply problems to speak of at the moment, but we are expecting some very shortly," says Howard Parker, an executive with Strain Poultry in Dalton, Ga.

Natural gas, another fuel in limited supply, is used to make anhydrous ammonia fertilizer, widely used in crop farming.

Duffey says 35,000 cubic feet of natural gas is needed for one ton of anhydrous ammonia, enough to fertilize 10 to 15 acres.

"Nitrogen fertilizer is going to be very tight," he says.

Olaf Anderson, who owns a 1,400-acre farm and ranch near Lemmon, S.D., says he already has had some trouble getting fertilizer.

By HOWARD BENEDICT

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — With a spaceship control problem solved, Skylab 3's astronauts have received an okay to resume maneuvers of the orbiting station Friday.

"Glad to hear that," commander Gerald P. Carr said when informed late Wednesday. "We figured you guys would work out something."

Carr, William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson were told on Tuesday to stop maneuvering the 118-foot-long space station after it was discovered that changing the position was taking much more fuel than predicted.

Maneuvers are required for most earth resources surveys, viewing the comet Kohoutek and photographing star fields. Instead, the spacemen on Wednesday performed medical and solar studies which do not require reorienting the craft's position.

Experts worked with computers and mathematical models to reach a solution. After evaluating the results, Skylab program director William C. Schneider gave the go-ahead to resume the maneuvers.

"But we'll be a lot more careful," he told newsmen.

Schneider said the problem traces back to the loss last Friday through a bearing failure of one of the lab's three main attitude control gyroscopes.

The two remaining gyros can be overloaded much more quickly during maneuvers. Then a network of small jet motors automatically takes over to hold the station steady or guide it to a new position, and that requires a lot of gas.

Honored Sunday School Teachers

Approximately 30 persons were present Saturday night at the steak dinner given in honor of the Sunday School Teachers of St. Paul Pentecostal Holiness Church.

The dinner was held in observance of Gov. James Holshouser's proclamation of N. C. Sunday School Week Nov. 18-25. Certificates of appreciation were presented to each teacher in the following Sunday morning service.

Argentina May See Woman President

By OSCAR J. SERRAT
Associated Press Writer
BUENOS AIRES (AP)—The illness of 78-year-old President Juan D. Peron is forcing political leaders to recognize the possibility of a woman president of Argentina.

ISABEL PERON

When Peron's victory in the presidential election last September swept his 42-year-old wife, Isabel, into the vice presidency, few believed that she would ever succeed him.

But "what nobody believed could really happen only two months ago has become a distinct possibility," one government official comments.

Isabel's selection as Peron's running mate was regarded as a maneuver by Peron to delay naming his successor, a formidable task in view of the leftist-moderate split in the Peronist movement and the aged leader's own charisma.

But a week ago Peron suffered what his doctors described as a "recurrence of bronchitis" that has kept him away from his executive office ever since. Government informants say he now appears to be recovering and may resume his duties next week. But his illness stunned most Argentines, and even once-militant anti-Peronists were genuinely concerned that the old leader might be sidelined. Well-informed sources believe that Peron's health is fading and that the president will be forced to reduce his already restricted work schedule.

"Peron will have to rely now even more heavily on his advisers and key officials; he just isn't fit any longer to keep personal control of the huge political mess that is Argentina," said a leader of the Radical Civic Union, the second-largest party, which has observed a friendly attitude toward its former arch-enemy.

Coinciding with Peron's illness last week, leaders of the Peronist movement and the several opposition parties began a very discreet review of the political implications that could stem from an Argentina without Peron. Friends and foes of Peron agree that the old leader has placed himself in a unique and at the same time dangerous position because no other public figure in Argentina can command his popular support.

The review of the current situation has resulted in wide support for abiding by the constitution's rules in case Peron dies or resigns, sources said. That means installing Isabel Peron, despite the fact that her political inexperience and lack of personal following are acknowledged even by her associates.

Mrs. Peron has sided with the moderates and rightists in the Peronist movement, although she has tried lately to remain aloof from the split Peronist ranks. She is also expected to get the support of the Radical party, whose main concern now is to avoid a return to a military regime.

The armed forces, which ruled Argentina during the last seven years and have been a dominant political force since 1930, appear to accept Isabel's installation as the "lesser evil," according to a reliable source.

Politics Mixed Into 'Official Travel'

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP)—Sen. Robert L. Barker, D-Wake, has ventured into political matters he supposedly wasn't going to ask about but what Barker found was interesting.

Barker produced a photocopy of a memo Wednesday as the Senate committee on state personnel he chairs was questioning David Madigan, former personnel director of the state Department of Transportation. The purported memo was dated September 5 and addressed to Madigan from Tony McCall, the personnel officer for the Highway Division's 14th District.

It was an account of McCall's travels for the week of August 30 and it showed that McCall was spending parts of his time checking western Republicans for their position in the race between Frank Rouse and Thomas S. Bennett for state GOP chairman.

Rouse had contended before he lost to Bennett at the GOP convention this month that state employees were working for Bennett—the candidate of Gov. Jim Holshouser—on state time, in contravention of state personnel statutes.

Rouse aides had been the source of several photocopied memos similar to the one Barker showed Madigan Wednesday.

A typical entry in the memo was for August 30: "(Went to Andrews (N.C.) to see Jeff Brooks (a Jim Gardner supporter in the 1972 campaign) and Grady Garrett. Both are Frank Rouse but would like to meet Tom Bennett."

Madigan at first said "That is a copy of a memo submitted to me." Later, however, he retracted that statement and said only that the memo was similar to those he received from personnel officers.

Madigan said he "did not remember" whether he had seen that particular memo or others dealing with the Rouse-Bennett Sang With The Oratorio Soc.

GREENVILLE, S.C.—Miss Terry Lynn Peede of Greenville, N. C., sang with the Bob Jones University Oratorio Society and Orchestra in Handel's "Messiah" before nearly 7,000 persons last week.

Miss Peede is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. H. Peede of 2602 S. Wright Rd., Greenville, N. C. campaign. The Associated Press later telephoned Brooks at his home. Brooks confirmed that he had spoken with McCall on about the date indicated in the memo. He said the conversation dealt mostly with highway personnel, but he confirmed that he told McCall that he supported Rouse and had never met Bennett.

Madigan said he had never ordered any personnel officers to campaign for Bennett. He said he thought the notations about the campaign on the memo were "offhand comments" and that the personnel officers had done nothing illegal.

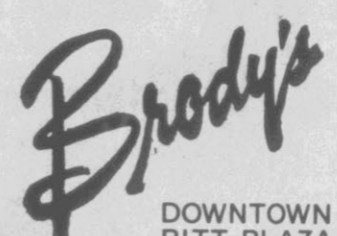

Barker's questioning followed testimony which established that political activity on state time was one of the criteria used by the Holshouser administration in determining whether to fire state employees held over from previous administrations.

Barker brought it up despite an announcement last week that the committee had agreed with Gov. Jim Holshouser not to investigate purely political matters that had nothing to do with personnel.

Holshouser had refused to allow any members of his administration to testify before that agreement was reached.

No Retiring By GMC President

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. President Edward N. Cole reaches the mandatory retirement age of 65 next September but the head of the nation's largest manufacturing corporation doesn't exactly plan on putting up the Gone Fishin' sign.

Cole said he expects to join a half dozen world business leaders in forming a new international air freight company which will use a new type aircraft with the ability to haul 128 tons of cargo or the equivalent of 55 GM Cadillacs.

Cole, GM president since 1967, said the plane will be able to fly nonstop from Detroit to Moscow, where he hopes to develop a market.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11:30 a.m. was down 8.88 to 830.90, while losers led winners on the New York Stock Exchange by 7 to 5.

The Dow has fallen about 170 points in the past month.

Zoning Bd. . .

In presenting plans for the project, Clark said that development would involve from five to 15 years. He noted that with the coming of the new hospital, new services and facilities in the area will be needed. Clark said that medical offices and complexes would be included as well as multi-family dwellings, drug store facilities, and convenient shops for people visiting the hospital.

The developer said that he hopes that by summer or fall of 1976 there will be some medical office construction underway in the project area.

Clark said that he has discussed the project with hospital officials, as well as the chairman of the County Commissioners and the attorney for the county. All indicated their approval, he said.

Members of the joint commission set Dec. 12 as the date for the next Planning and Zoning meeting since the normal meeting date falls on the day after Christmas.

A resolution commending the late I. A. Artis, commission member who died Wednesday morning, will be drawn up and sent to his family. Clark said that Artis was a "real fine gentleman and we are going to miss him."

The Greenville board, meeting following the joint session, approved final plats for Section II of Oakmont Professional Plaza, located on the west side of N. C. 43, and for Colonial Mobile Home Park, located across from Burroughs Wellcome on the Bethel Highway.

City engineer Charles Holliday reported that the mobile home property was developed before the final plat was presented but he has now made an on-site inspection of the area and thoroughly reviewed site plans. Holliday recommended that the final plat be accepted.

Eight Pirates Named To All-Southern

Big Orange Machine Primed To Win Again

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

BETHEL — North Pitt High School's girls will be out to try and recover from a disastrous season last year: they lost a game.

This year, they'll try to follow up the two previous years' record and not lose a one.

The Pant-HERS, who were nearing their 100th straight win, finally were tripped up, losing in the first round of the State Championships last year. It is the only defeat suffered by the team in its history.

Four starters from that team return for this year's season, Linda James, Joy James, Debbie Pollard and Wanda Whichard. In addition, there are three other lettermen, Kathi Manning, Brenda Pollard and Faryce Goode. "Our experience looks pretty good," new coach Peggy Taylor said.

"The ability is there too. It's just a question on their getting used to me as a coach and my type of basketball," Miss Taylor added. "I also look for the conference to be stronger this year."

Asked about the fact that she's taking over a team that has lost just once, and never during the regular season, Miss Taylor admitted that there was pressure. "But they can do it. We might have some rough roads ahead, but as far as I'm concerned we're the favorite in the league." (Ed. note: Miss Taylor was interviewed prior to Tuesday's game with Ayden-Grifton).

The Big Orange Machine doesn't have a great deal of height, or at least the coach doesn't think so. "Joy is our tallest girl. She's about 5-11. A couple of our forwards go 5-9 or 5-10, but our guards are all short."

"Our rebounding hasn't been too good so far. In the first game and in our scrimmages we didn't hit the boards. I think we just need to hustle a little more."

The ball handling has been pretty good with Kathi Manning and Linda James in the backcourt. "Williamston pressed us and we blew our cool, but we got better as we went along, so I think we'll be able to handle it. It just needs a little work."

The shooting has been so-so. "We haven't had anyone to get constant yet. I think this too is a question of getting in more play."

Defensively, Miss Taylor also feels that the team needs to put out a little more hustle. "We got a good scare against Williamston and this should help us. Our next game (Ayden-Grifton) should show us a lot."

Miss Taylor sees Ayden-Grifton as being the top competition for the Big Orange this year. "They have a good club, and should give us a couple of good games."

"We just have to get it all together. We figured that Williamston would be tough, and we expect to have a few more tough ones before we really come around," Miss Taylor added.

Currently, she is using Joy James at the center position, Debbie Pollard and Wanda Whichard at the forwards, and Linda James and Manning at guards.

"We have a little depth in the other lettermen. And I think we showed in the Williamston game that we can go to the bench," Miss Taylor lists the top reserves as Mary Brown and Brenda Pollard.

North Pitt will certainly be challenged more this year, but they're hoping for another banner season.

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Three of the finest backs ever to play in one season, quarterback Carl Summerell and running back Carlester Crumpler of East Carolina and fullback Barty Smith of Richmond, heading the All-Southern Conference football team announced today.

East Carolina's two-time champion Pirates put eight players and Richmond's two-time runner-up Spiders earned six berths on the 24-man squad selected by the Southern Conference Sports Writers Association and votes of seven of the league's eight coaches.

Watching Hurts New Coach Wilt

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — Wilt Chamberlain closed the door to reporters for 20 minutes after the game. You would have to, the way the San Diego Conquistadors played basketball Wednesday night.

"There were so many things that went wrong, I couldn't begin to start talking about them," said Chamberlain after his team lost a 134-108 American Basketball Association game to the New York Nets.

It was just a "super bad game" for the Conquistadors, said their coach.

Perhaps if Chamberlain had played, it would have been different. A court ruling has forced the former National Basketball Association star to sit out the season after he jumped to the ABA.

"He would have taken the play away from us inside, if he had been in there," said Net center Billy Paultz, who led the rout with a career-high 38 points and 19 rebounds.

In the night's other ABA games, the San Antonio Spurs trimmed the Kentucky Colonels 104-99 and the Utah Stars stopped the Virginia Squires 116-105.

The Nets took command of their game early, controlling both the offensive and defensive boards, to lead 33-19 at the end of the first period. Paultz had 16 of his points in the first quarter.

San Diego made a rush at the Nets at the beginning of the second quarter and moved within seven points at 40-33 behind the shooting of Travis Grant, who finished with 19 points.

But Julius Erving and Paultz took over thereafter, helping the Nets' racehorse offense run away from the visitors. Erving finished with 36 points and 14 rebounds as the Nets won their seventh game in the last nine outings.

The Nets, incidentally, out-rebounded the Q's 77-44 and tied a team record in the process.

Spurs 104, Colonels 99

James Silas scored 24 points and Swen Nater added 23 as San Antonio beat Kentucky and knocked the Colonels out of first place in the ABA's East Division.

Stars 116, Squires 105

Ron Boone scored 24 points in 28 minutes of play and rookie Ronnie Robinson provided some help in a reserve role, leading Utah over Virginia 116 to 105.

and Dan Utley of Furman, guard Greg Troupe of East Carolina and center Joe Montgomery of William and Mary. Eure was a tight end last year.

Besides Smith, the only offensive newcomers are tight end Dick Pawlewicz of William and Mary, guard Jim Amhein of Richmond and placekicker Jim Woody of East Carolina.

Amrhein bumped off last year's other guard, Stan Victor of William and Mary, and Woody shaded last year's placekicking specialist, Terry Regan of William and Mary.

There are five repeaters on defense—Kelly and linebacker Danny Kepley of East Carolina, tackle Ron Reynolds of Appalachian State and backs Vince Perone of Furman and Bob Loprete of Richmond.

The ends are Cary Godette of East Carolina and Lee Pearson of Richmond with Vic Moyne of Richmond at the other tackle. The third linebacker is Tony Cloria of The Citadel and the other backs are Gene Williams of VMI and Mike Myrick of East Carolina.

Russell Brown of William and Mary displaced Jay Jones of Richmond as the punter. The other nonrepeater was William and Mary defensive end Ron Chappell.

By contrast with last year, there are 18 seniors and just six underclassmen on the 1973 team.

Godette is a sophomore and Pawlewicz, Woody, Dearman, Kepley and Perone are juniors, Dearman, Kepley and Perone have a chance to make it three in a row if they perform well enough next season.

Jim Perry: From Martin Fields To The Fields Of Big Leagues

(Editor's note: This is the first of four articles prepared by sports writers from across the state for inclusion in the North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame Program. The Hall of Fame banquet will be held in Greenville on Tuesday night.)

By WOODY PEELE
Greenville Daily Reflector

Evan Perry probably would never have guessed back on October 30, 1936, when his wife, Ruby, gave birth to a son that he was starting a pitching dynasty.

That first son, James Evan Perry, came to be known as Jim, and two years later, a brother joined him, named Gaylord, and by the time the two had reached high school, just about everyone in the Farm Life community of Martin County knew that something big was about to happen to the two.

For Jim Perry, the route to the major leagues, and the top of the pitching heap, was not a long one. He pitched in high school, then signed a professional contract. It took him just two and a half years to reach the majors, and he's been there ever since.

Now age 37, Jim is the dean of the American League pitchers, and only Milt Pappas and Don McMahon, both of the National League, have longer major league tenures. They both started in 1957, while Jim came up to Cleveland in 1959.

Growing up in rural Martin County, Jim began his sports career at Williamston High School, where he played all three sports. During baseball season, he pitched, played third base, and sometimes worked in the outfield. His junior year, when brother Gaylord was a freshman, the two alternated on the mound, with the other at third, as the Green Wave worked its way to the North Carolina State Class A baseball title.

"We had seven straight shutout victories in the playoff series," Jim recalls.

Instead of finishing at Williamston, Jim was guided by former East Carolina University Coach Earl Smith to Campbell College, where he took his final year of high school, playing with the Campbell team. "I don't remember my pitching record—it was a winning one—but I hit 410 for the year." Following that season, in 1956, Jim signed a contract with the Cleveland Indian organization and his pro career was launched.

That first year, he played in the rookie league's North Platt (Neb.) club in D ball, and "it seems like I had a 7-8 record that year." The second year, he moved up to the Northern League, playing with Fargo-Morehead, where he had a 15-8 mark.

His third pro year, Jim pitched with Reading, Pa., where he was 16-8, and the following spring, he got his first invitation to try out with the parent team. "I went to camp in February and I made it on the first try," Jim remembers. "I felt very fortunate to make it so quickly."

And into the majors he went, recording a 12-10 freshman year. From 1959 until May 3, 1963, he hurled for the Indians, winning 52 games. Then, in the early days of the season, he was traded to the Minnesota Twins, where he hurled his way to the top of the American League.

During the 10 years he spent with Minnesota, he posted 128 more victories, the most for any righthander in Twin history to that date.

At Minnesota, he posted his first 20-game win season, in 1969, when he was 20-6. The following year, he upped that to 24-12, and captured the American League's Cy Young Award. It was in that year that brother Gaylord also won 20 and the two became the first brother combo in major league history to both post 20 victories in a year each.

The following year he was 17-

17 and the next year 13-16 before being traded to the Detroit Tigers in the spring of 1973. This year, he hurled his way to a 14-13 season, bringing his total wins to 199, leaving him only one short of the historical 200 that all pitchers strive for.

"I'm looking forward to the next victory," he said, then added, "but I always look forward to the next one."

Baseball isn't all of life for Perry, however, although he's won numerous awards for it, including the Man of the Year award in Cleveland in 1960, and several awards from the Minnesota Twins. He was also chosen to the first Topps' All-Star Team, picked in 1959.

During the off season, Jim serves as a director for the Associated Cirtus Enterprises in Minneapolis, where he keeps his off-season home. He also serves as assistant to the vice president of "Home Juice," and as vice-president in charge of publicity for Ever Fresh Co., two companies allied with ACE. He formerly served as a director of the Phalen State Park Bank for three years.

He's an honorary member of a number of civic clubs, and is a member of the Woodale Baptist Church in Richfield Minn. He is also an active member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes.

He and his wife, the former Daphne Snell of Roper, N. C., have three children, a son, Chris, 12, and two daughters, Pam, 8, and Michelle, 4.

Baseball isn't Jim's only love either. While in high school and college, he played on eight straight championship teams. Three years he was a member of the Williamston team that won league titles, then played for five years at Campbell (in those days, a professional was not barred from college athletics except in his pro sport). He served as a captain or co-captain of the Camel basketball team for three years.

"I think it's terrific to get into the North Carolina Sports Hall of Fame," Perry said. "When something like this happens it makes a guy feel great."

"But I had a lot of people who helped me along the way: my parents, a lot of friends who took me places when my father couldn't; my coaches at Campbell, Hargrove Davis and Fred McCall; all my friends in the Carolinas who have helped me; my wife who helped me when times were down; and just the people in baseball in general. And I have to thank the good Lord for having given me health. Without health, you can't do anything. I've been fortunate."

East Carolina University's Pirates open their 1973-74 cage season tomorrow night in Minges Coliseum. The young Pirates will be playing host to the University of North Carolina-Wilmington.

Only three lettermen return from last year's team—Nicky White, Roger Atkinson and Kenny Edwards. The team this year features a number of freshmen, along with several junior college transfers.

The game, which starts at 8 p.m., will be the first look at the Pirates by the public this year. The team was supposed to play a Purple-Gold scrimmage game on Tuesday, but Coach Tom Quinn cancelled it following a rash of minor injuries.

"We're coming along pretty good now," Quinn said. Larry Hunt, Robert Geter and Buzzy Braman are all expected to be at full speed following injuries that occurred late last week. "Tom Marsh is back playing now, but he's not up to 100 per cent as yet," Quinn said yesterday.

And right now, Quinn still isn't sure who the starting five are going to be. "I can just about say that Nicky White and Robert Geter will be in the opening lineup, but that's about all. I probably won't fully decide until after today's practice."

Quinn has a number of people to choose from. White and Atkinson are the only seniors on the club, while Gregg Ashorn, Geter, Marsh and Donnie Ownes are juniors. Sophomores include Edmonds, Al Edwards, and Randy McCullen, while Braman, Hunt, Reggie Lee are the freshmen likely to see a lot of action.

"We've spent this week perfecting some of the things we've been working on," Quinn said. "We're at the point now where we can refine our game. Those who have been able to have had a very physical week of practice. I plan on a full-scale practice (Wednesday), and I'm hopeful that everyone will be ready to go at full speed."

The Pirate fans will be seeing an entirely different look to the team this year. The Pirates are for the most part smaller, but quicker, than in the past.

"With our pressure defense and our running offense we are going to play a lot of people," Quinn said. "We have to. There will be a minimum of eight or 10 people playing. The kind of game we plan to put on the court requires a lot of people. Then too, we have a lot of young players too and we want them to see as much action as possible."

Wilmington presents a club much like that of the Pirates. They do not have a great deal of height, at least in their veteran players.

It is also the Seahawks first game of the year. They return their leading scorer in 6-2 Mike Cherry, who averaged 18.5 points a game and 10.0 rebounds. Also back is 6-4 Dave Prince, averaging 10.6 points, 6-7 center Ernie Lynn, 8.1 points; point guard Belcher Brent, 6.0 points, and two others who alternated a lot, 6-3 Greg Kemp and 6-3 Bobby O'Donnell. They also have a number of good freshmen coming in along with a few junior college transfers.

"We really don't know what to expect from them," Quinn said. "They went 10-14 last year, but expect to be tremendously improved this year."

Following Friday's home opener, the Bucs immediately take to the road, playing Duke University in Durham on Saturday night. That will be the season opener for the Blue Devils.

A junior varsity game between the Baby Bucs and Mount Olive Junior College will open the Friday night slate, starting at 5:45 p.m. in Minges.

State, Maryland Pace All-ACC Football Team

RALEIGH, N. C. (AP)—The Atlantic Coast Conference's two bowl-bound teams, N.C. State and Maryland, claim nine of the 23 places on the 1973 All-ACC football team.

Wolfpack running back Willie Burden was the only unanimous choice of the 109 sportswriters and publicists who voted. Maryland's star defensive tackle, Paul Vellano, missed unanimous selection by four votes in leading the defensive team.

Burden, the conference's leading rusher, led a five-man delegation from North Carolina State to the team, which was announced Wednesday.

Maryland, runnerup to North Carolina State in the final standings, placed four men on the all-star team—defensive linemen Vellano, and Randy White, tailback Louis Carter and defensive back Bob Smith.

Wolfpack players joining Burden were offensive tackle Rick Druschel, guard Bill Yoest and defensive backs Mike Stulz and Bobby Pilz. All but Pilz made the team last year.

North Carolina, which finished sixth in the conference standings, also had four men on the all-star team. Tar Heel tight end Charles Waddell beat out sophomore Bennie Cunningham of Clemson by two ballots to win one of the offensive slots. Offensive tackle Robert Pratt, tailback Sammy Johnson and linebacker Jimmy DeRatt were the other North Carolina players selected.

Senior quarterback Ken Penguore of Clemson topped sophomore Scott Gardner of Virginia by 12 votes to win a team spot, along with Clemson guard Ken Peoples and defensive back Peanut Martin.

Duke's defensive unit landed three men - end Ernie Clark, tackle John Ricca and linebacker Keith Stoneback. Virginia placed center Paul Ryzek, wide receiver Harrison Davis and linebacker Dick Ambrose.

The kicking specialist for the team was Chuck Ramsey of Wake Forest.

The offensive team: Ends Harrison Davis, Virginia, 91 votes, and Charles Waddell, UNC, 45; tackles Rick Druschel, N. C. State, 92, and Robert Pratt, UNC, 55; guards Bill Yoest, N. C. State, 98, and Ken Peoples, Clemson, 46; center Paul Ryzek, Virginia, 82; quarterback Ken Penguore, Clemson, 56; backs Willie Burden, N. C. State, 109, Sammy Johnson, UNC, 74, and Louis Carter, Maryland, 72; kicker Chuck Ramsey, Wake Forest, 88.

The defensive team: Linemen Paul Vellano, Maryland, 105 votes, Randy White, Maryland, 87, John Ricca, Duke, 51, and Ernie Clark, Duke, 48; linebackers Dick Ambrose, Virginia, 93, Keith Stoneback, Duke, 72, Jimmy DeRatt, UNC, 50; backs Bob Smith, Maryland, 80, Mike Stulz, N. C. State, 76, Peanut Martin, Clemson, 62, and Bobby Pilz, N. C. State, 52.

When the New York Mets captured the National League East title one day after the regular season ended, pitcher Tug McGraw marked up his 25th save of the year.

The Pittsburgh Pirates missed a chance to tie for second place in the National League East when they dropped their final game to San Diego 4-3.

Plan Ahead To See Show By Cousteau

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Be sure and set aside an hour tonight for the first of four Antarctic specials by Jacques Cousteau that ABC-TV plans to broadcast this season.

The show, "South to Fire and Ice," marks the start of Cousteau's sixth season on TV. It documents his first expedition to the Antarctic—a crew of 30 was along—and was filmed over a 4½ month period.

Like most of Cousteau's 24 previous shows, tonight's program is brilliantly photographed, low-key in manner and fairly slow in getting underway. But once it gets to its destination, you may be hooked and unable to miss a minute.

One suggestion for those who'll watch it: find a large-scale map of the Antarctic, because you'll need it to get even a rough idea of where Cousteau's team is working at times.

That's the only gripe I have about the show. It never superimposes a map of the area under study, although it does make a passing reference to the "farthest tip of South America."

Afterwards, though, Cousteau's team arrives in such places as Leopold Bay, King George Island and Deception Island without a hint as to the location of these areas in the Antarctic.

It's a minor annoyance, but I wish they'd pop a map on the screen now and then, if only for those of us—myself included—who tend to get lost just on the way to the grocery store.

The most startling thing about tonight's program is that it shows the incredible brilliance of colors in the Antarctic, a region I usually think of as stark white, dotted occasionally by frozen figures in furlined parkas. T'aint so.

The sky is stark blue at times, the ice islands light blue or blue-grey in parts, the sea near the ice almost turquoise, the waters below the ice a soft aqua shade.

Another surprise: Deception Island, a steaming, volcanic island, partly covered with volcanic ash, partly covered by snow and ice and, as Cousteau notes, "ready to explode at any time."

Tragically, it was on this island that Michel Laval, the young first mate of Cousteau's oceanographic ship "Calypso," slipped and fell to his death in late 1972 while helping the 63-year-old diver-scientist film this documentary.

Cousteau dedicates tonight's program to Laval's memory, and an excellent memorial it is. It's also a fine start to an unusually ambitious, thoughtful attempt to show us a world that unfortunately few of us ever will experience personally in our lifetime.

Not Enough Posters Promote Med School Campaign

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Many North Carolina service stations won't be open Sunday, but not because President Nixon has asked them to close.

Their owners say there's not enough gas anyway.

Avery C. Upchurch, executive director of the North Carolina Service Stations Association, said Wednesday that President Nixon's request was "just words."

"It's a matter of supply of gasoline," Upchurch said. "They're going to be closed on Sunday, I promise you that."

Upchurch's association represents more than 700 service stations, most along major highways from I-85 eastward across the state.

Upchurch said he expected a black market to develop in gasoline as supplies get tighter. He said December allocations would be less than November's.

Service station owners are upset with the allocations and with the federal gas price ceiling, Upchurch said.

"We're about to get up in arms now—marching on someone."

DOES YOUR COMMUNITY NEED MEDICAL DOCTORS

SUPPORT EFFORTS TO ESTABLISH A FOUR YEAR MEDICAL SCHOOL AT EAST CAROLINA UNIVERSITY

Project Sponsored By Regional Jaycees

POSTERS...urging support for a four-year medical school at East Carolina University have been placed at businesses throughout Greenville by the Jaycees. Accompanying petitions endorsing the school are at each location.

The Greenville Jaycees are urging area citizens to sign petitions circulated by the chapter supporting the establishment of a four-year medical school at East Carolina University.

Charles Marston, co-chairman of the Jaycee project, said that some 130 posters calling for support of efforts to establish the four-year institution have been distributed around the city and at each poster location there is a petition.

"In circulating these petitions," Marston commented, "we are trying to make people aware that they do have a voice in the medical school issue."

The co-chairman explained that response around Greenville, and in area towns where petitions have been circulated, has been good but the chapter urges citizens who have not signed the petition to do so in order that the project can be completed by the first of the year.

Plans are being made for representatives of the Greenville Jaycees to take the signed petition to Raleigh for presentation to the Legislature at the upcoming session.

Marston noted also that concerned citizens should write legislative representatives and urge support of the four-year school.

The medical school project, he added, has received generally good support from other state Jaycee chapters. The Greenville club contacted most of the chapters directly and asked them to conduct their own poster and petition projects in support of the medical school.

The medical school project has been endorsed by the North Carolina Jaycees. Marston said that a count of existing names on local petitions has not been made but he cited a recent one-day effort that alone resulted in approximately 1,500 names being added to the list. The posters and petitions are located at various business locations, he noted.

Speaks For Impeaching

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—The Nixon administration has become "inoperative" and should be ended quickly, Sen. George McGovern, D S.D. has told University of North Carolina students.

In a speech to a crowd of 4,000 Wednesday night, McGovern said Congress has no alternative but to impeach the man who defeated him in the 1972 presidential campaign.

McGovern cited the list of alleged burglaries and cover-ups by the Administration.

"If all of this does not provide sufficient evidence to start impeachment proceedings, then I don't know what can cause a president to be impeached," he said.

"A constitutional crisis is here and we can no longer accept a government that consistently offers up a 'lie of the week.' We can no longer accept the improbable cases of missing tapes and tape erasures."

Small Addition To Chimp Colony

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A female chimp has been born to one of eight ape residents of Bear Island, scientists at Emory University's Yerkes Regional Primate Research Center say.

The Yerkes Center established the chimp colony on the remote island off the Georgia coast near Savannah in June 1972.

Dr. Michael E. Keeling, a Yerkes veterinarian who visited the island to examine the baby chimp born Saturday said, "The infant appears strong, but we will keep a close eye on the baby because this is the mother's first offspring and she may not be very proficient as far as mothering abilities are concerned."

He said the baby chimp has tentatively been named Sandie.

An Astounding Number Claim Having Seen A UFO

By GEORGE GALLUP
(Copyright 1973, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Republication in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.)

PRINCETON, N.J. — One night a Los Angeles housewife was sitting on her porch when a strange, glowing light attracted her attention. What the woman saw, she recently told a Gallup Poll interviewer, was a "whitish, illuminated disk" which rose from behind a clump of trees and hovered over her house for a minute or two and then suddenly disappeared. "From that moment on," she said, "I was a believer."

An astonishing 11 per cent of the adult population, or more than 15 million Americans, have seen a UFO (unidentified flying object)—double the percentage recorded in the previous survey on the subject in 1966. The figure then was 5 per cent.

In addition, the latest survey shows approximately half of persons interviewed (51 per cent) believing that these flying objects—sometimes called "flying saucers"—are real and not just a figment of the imagination or cases of hallucination.

The same survey shows nearly half of all persons interviewed (46 per cent) believing that there is intelligent life on other planets. This represents a sharp increase in the percentage with this belief since the 1966 survey when the figure was 34 per cent.

It is interesting to note that persons who believe in the existence of life on other planets are far more likely to believe that UFOs are real and not something imaginary. In fact, seven in 10 of those who think there is life on other planets think UFOs are real.

Profile Of UFO Sighter

Analysis of the survey data shows that UFO sightings are not confined to any particular population group. For example, college-educated persons are as likely to have seen a UFO as are persons with less formal education. However, a considerably higher proportion of sightings is reported in the Midwest and South than in the East and Far West.

In addition, persons living in small towns or rural areas are more likely to report having seen a UFO than are persons living in the larger cities of the nation.

Here is the first question asked in the survey:

"Have you ever heard or read about unidentified flying objects—UFOs?"

Almost everyone (95 per cent) has at least heard or read something about UFOs. For something so highly publicized, this finding may, at first, not seem unusual. However, in terms of the history of the public's awareness of other incidents or events, this figure is extraordinarily high. In fact, this awareness score is one of the highest in the 37-year history of the Gallup Poll.

This question was then asked of those who said they have heard or read about UFOs: "Have you, yourself, ever seen anything you thought was a UFO?"

Here are the key findings:

Most inclined to believe there is human life on other planets

are persons with a college background. A majority of this group, 57 per cent, hold this belief.

A Gallup survey in 1971 of top leaders in 72 nations found 53 per cent expressing a belief in the existence of human life on other planets while 47 per cent ruled out the possibility. The survey was of leaders in science, medicine, education, politics, business and other fields, selected by careful sampling methods from "The International Who's Who."

Among those in the current survey of the U.S. public who say they have seen a UFO is the 35-year-old wife of a real estate attorney from Tacoma, Wash.:

"My son just received a new telescope, and we were on the front porch—my husband, daughter, son and I. It was during the smelter strike and all the factories were closed. First my son spotted something through the telescope, then we could see it with the naked eye. There were two humming disks hovering over one of the smoke stacks. They were there for a minute then disappeared.

Shortly afterwards, two chase planes came from the nearby air field."

In Hazelton, Pa., reports a Gallup interviewer, a father and daughter watched five to seven UFOs every night for three weeks. They always appeared between 7 and 8 p.m., coming from the southeast. Each "object" had one light of no color which grew brighter and brighter as it pulsated. The young daughter commented that they looked like the planet Saturn. They came in one group said the respondent, and "hovered for about two minutes above the mountains and then left in a different direction, completely disappearing."

The findings reported today are based on a national survey of 1,550 adults, 18 and older, interviewed in person in more than 300 scientifically selected localities during the period Nov. 2-5. Publishers-Hall Syndicate.

Toll-Free Phone Identified By First 3 Digits

What constitutes a toll-free telephone number?

Don A. Collier, local District Commercial Manager for Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company, said today that there seems to be some confusion in the Greenville area as to how to recognize a toll-free telephone number.

Collier stated, "Only a telephone number such as 800-758-9111 can be called without charge to the person placing the call. The key is the first three digits (800)."

He also stated that a number such as 816-758-9111 is not toll-free even though the area code begins with the digit eight (8).

Be sure the number you are calling is toll-free or you will be billed for the call, he said.

The Worry Clinic Knowledge Of Tact Is Vital

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph.D., M.D.

Andrews offers a classical case to show how people often lack tact. His host had a high I.Q., but on this and several other occasions proved to be a poor diplomat. So tutor you kiddies in tact and do so early, as explained below.

CASE Y-582: Andrew Y., aged 42, was a new Dean at the University of Chicago several years ago. We met at lunch when we were both serving on a College Scholarship Committee.

He represented the University of Chicago while I was Northwestern's appointee and 3 other colleges also had delegates on this committee.

"Dr. Crane," Dean Andrew began, "since you are an Applied Psychologist, I have a case for you to analyze."

"My wife and I were invited to dinner by the President of our University."

"We both felt honored, so we dressed up for the occasion and presented ourselves at the President's home promptly at 7 p.m."

"A butler greeted us, took our coats and then ushered us into a luxurious living room."

"Nobody else was there so we looked around admiringly for maybe 15 minutes."

"Then dinner was announced and we were led into the dining room, where we were seated at a table for two."

"We wondered why the President and his wife hadn't arrived as yet, but felt maybe they had been unavoidably detained."

"When our dinner was served, we slowly began eating, thinking our host and hostess would soon arrive."

"Dr. Crane, they never showed up, nor did the butler offer any explanation for their absence."

"After our dessert, we were led back to the front hall, where our coats were courteously presented to us and we were then ushered out the front door."

"And the President never did explain or apologize for being absent."

"Yet he hadn't forgotten his invitation to us, for the butler knew we were coming!"

"Dr. Crane, I could have had just as good a dinner by staying home!"

"And then I wouldn't have had to shave or get all dressed up for what we figured was an official dinner party!"

Be Tactful

Tact is something that must be learned, much like piano playing.

Usually, a certain amount of I. Q. is required, too, but many people with the I. Q. of a genius are rude and undiplomatic.

For a genius may also live in a home that has a grand piano, yet not be able to play a single chord.

For it requires specific direction of attention to the technique of the piano keyboard, to bring forth harmony therefrom.

Same goes for dealing with people.

You may be as brilliant as Einstein, yet alienate people, lose customers and even enter the divorce court. Why? Just because you haven't focussed attention on the specific rules of the game of marriage of the social amenities in standard use.

So PLEASE tutor your kiddies in tact while they are young.

This involves catechism in their taking the broader viewpoint indicated by the Golden Rule.

To help speed up their acquisition of tact, send for the "Compliment Club" booklet, enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

Coach them on its "Five Laws for Complimenting."

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

WAITING TO BE RUNG IN LONDON (UPI) — In the Greater London area, there were 26,599 persons on waiting lists for telephones at the latest count, the Post Office reported.

Conversation Is Problem-Solver

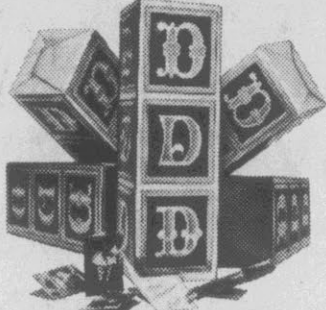

ROYAL CITY, Wash. (AP) — got time on your hands. He's not only marshal for this farming community, but dog staller, meter reader, ambulance crewman, water and sewer maintenance man, park gardener and sometime gravedigger as well.

What's a holiday with George Dickel really like?

Fantastic. Ask anybody who got it last year. Nobody forgets real Tennessee Sour Mash.

Exciting. Ask your travel agent. He'll tell you it's the only way to go.

Easy. Ask your wife. It's gift wrapped at no extra cost.

There's a little bit of Tennessee in every sip.

And during the Yuletide season 45-year-old Salinas puts together the local Christmas pageant because he likes kids.

Salinas says he is satisfied with the jobs he has been doing for nearly three years, for $671 a month.

"I get to do so many things in this type of work. I don't know how I would feel about just doing police work," he explains.

"I kept track of my hours for several months — it was at least 80 hours a week — so I quit doing that."

He gets paid for a 40-hour week by the city, but piles the extra hours on without complaint.

While work takes up the bulk of the day for Salinas, talk seems to be his real strength.

"I'm not just a policeman, but also have to be a sort of preacher, counselor and babysitter," he said. "There are lots of civil disputes which I can usually settle without taking anyone to jail. Plain old conversation works wonders."

His technique of conciliation seems to be working. In early 1971, Salinas says he took an average of two prisoners a week on the 35-mile ride to jail in Ephrata. Now he makes the trip about once a month.

Opening lead: Ten of ♣

It is wrong to consider a particular holding in isolation. The combined assets of either side consists of twenty-six cards, and the correct play in any one suit might be dependent on the holding in another.

Consider today's hand, where South became declarer at a contract of four spades. North had a choice of responses, with two no trump as the alternative. Despite the fact that his hand was perfectly balanced, he opted for the jump raise of opener's suit because most of his strength consisted of two aces, which made his hand more suited to trump play.

West's club attack was won in the closed hand, and the question was how to handle the trump suit. Considering only the spade combination, the safety play to avoid missing the spade position and so losing two tricks in the suit is to lead to the ace, hoping to drop an honor. If no honor appears, dummy is entered and a spade is led toward the closed hand.

Should declarer adopt this line of play? That question cannot be answered without knowing more about the hand. Declarer must lose two diamonds, so he can afford to lose only one trick in the major suits. To take a safety play in spades, which is odds on to lose a trick, would be the height of folly if declarer has to lose a heart trick as well.

Thus, before making a decision in the trump suit, South has to know whether he must lose a heart trick. Therefore, the correct play at trick two is to take the heart finesse. If this loses, declarer cannot afford to lose a spade trick as well, so his best chance is to take the spade finesse and hope for a doubleton king on-side.

As the cards lie, the heart finesse succeeds. Now declarer can afford to take a safety play in trumps—indeed, it would be rash of him to forgo it. When the king of spades drops under the ace, declarer can cross to dummy with a red ace and lead another spade, finessing the ten and making an overtrick.
