Nixon Discloses Financial Status

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The text of President Nixon's financial disclosure statement:

With the documents and papers released today, I am making a full disclosure of my financial affairs as President of the United States. No previous President, to my knowledge, has ever made so comprehensive and exhaustive a disclosure as I am making today, with regard to assets and liabilities, expenses and income, during his tenure of office.

The purpose of my release of these papers is to answer questions that have arisen, to remove doubts that have been raised and to correct misinformation that currently exists about what I have earned, and what I own.

President Nixon saved almost $235,000 in federal income taxes between 1969 and 1972 by donating his personal papers to the federal government and taking deductions for them, White House aides said Saturday.

Nixon paid a total of $78,651.10 over the four years, they said. If he had not taken the deductions for his papers, Nixon would hve been liable for a total tax of $312,651.10. Thus he paid only about one-fourth what he would have been taxed had he not donated the papers to the National Archives.

In 1969, the figures showed, Nixon paid $72,682.09, and saved $63,333 through deductions for his papers; in 1970 he paid $792.81, saving $32,099; in 1971 he paid $878, saving $65,678; in 1972 he paid $4,298.17, saving $73,796.

In addition, Nixon has a $90,000 tax deduction from the donation available for 1973, should he choose to claim it.

Nixon's aides contended that had the President sold his papers rather than giving them to the archives, his return would have exceeded what he saved by donating them and claiming the deductions. They did not guess how much more the papers would have been worth if Nixon had sold them.

The President said he would turn over all his financial statements to the Joint Congressional Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation to review the procedures he followed. He said he would abide by its decision.

Presumably, if the committee rules Nixon erred in his deductions, he would agree to return $171,000 claimed as deductions for 1970-72. His aides said the statute of limitations had run out for the 1969 deductions, but he would voluntarily give the $63,333 he saved that year to the federal treasury if the committee rules against him.

The President's aides said if that happens, Nixon would be charged 6 per cent interest on those years but no penalty.

Impeachment Inquiry To Go Into Action

By HOWARD FIELDS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The confirmation of Vice President Gerald R. Ford apparently proved to be a dry run for the House Judiciary Committee's investigation of grounds for impeaching President Nixon.

Committee staffers said Saturday that the impeachment inquiry, which began officially in October, will swing into full tilt this week now that they have completed their investigation of Ford.

Several of the staffers said they anticipate the impeachment probe will take much longer, assuming that Nixon offers the same defense as each of the 12 officials impeached in the past —that it is "politically motivated." But the White House has not yet indicated how fully it will cooperate with the committee.

"If he (Nixon) wants us to impeach him or get off his back, will he come forward and cooperate?" a committee aide asked. "The role of the President is a significant one in terms of proceeding."

The 22 committee staffers who were assigned to the seven-week Ford investigation will form the bulwark of a 45-member staff for the impeachment inquiry. Anticipating charges that it is "politically motivated," the staff notes that not one word was leaked to the news media about some 100 formal interviews that were conducted in 14 states during the Ford inquiry.

The committee's 38 members —21 Democrats and 17 Republicans —will be briefed by the staff next Tuesday on a mountain of material that already has been collected and the field of candidates for a special counsel to oversee the proceedings. The field has been narrowed down to four from more than 100 prospects, according to sources.

One committee staffer said there has been some pressure from some of his colleagues to issue subpoenas soon to demonstrate that the committee is not stalling. But he indicated subpoenas are not likely until at least January after a special counsel has been hired and he has determined what materials are needed.

Ask Truckers To Abandon Protest

By RICHARD LERNER

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Teamsters President Frank E. Fitzsimmons concluded a meeting with President Nixon Saturday by asking the nation's truckers to abandon their protest of fuel shortages. But a dissident group of drivers promised to press ahead with plans for a two-day work stoppage.

Fitzsimmons, Nixon's strongest ally in the labor movement leadership, met with the President for 50 minutes in the Oval Office and then conferred for about one hour, 45 minutes with chief energy official William E. Simon.

He said the discussions hinged on the truckers' request that highway speed limits, which have been reduced to save fuel, be restored to 60 m.p.h. and that strict controls be placed on the rising cost of gasoline and diesel fuel. He added he was confident the President would give "due consideration" to the truckers' needs.

"I urge truck drivers everywhere to exercise patience and discipline while the issue is being resolved," Fitzsimmons told reporters after the White House session. "I do not condone blockages or nationwide strikes."

Mike Parkhurst, editor of an industry publication, "Overdrive," meanwhile declared at a news conference on the steps of the Capitol that as many as 100,000 drivers would join in a two-day shutdown Thursday and Friday.

"Neither Frank Fitzsimmons nor President Nixon has the influence or the power or the respect to stop the shutdown," Parkhurst said.

Egypt Hammers Israeli Positions Along Suez

By United Press International

Egyptian artillery hammered Israeli positions along the West Bank of the Suez Canal Saturday, wounding 10 Israelis soldiers, a Tel Aviv command spokesman said. Small arms activity was reported on both sides of the canal.

In Israeli-occupied Jordan, an Israeli military governor was wounded by a terrorist's grenade in the city of Nablus. The Israeli casualties were a record toll for a single day during the Middle East cease-fire.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived in Brussels NATO talks, a prelude to his trip to Middle East.

In Tel Aviv, th military command said the Egyptian artille.y on the West Bank of the canal opened at a position southeast of Nafisha, in the Ismailia district of the canal. Israeli artillery returned the fire, the command said.

The command said elements of the Egyptian 3rd Army, using small arms, opened fire seven times on Israeli positions on both sides of the canal. There were no reports of casualties.

Saturday's incidents brought to 32 the number of frontline wounded reported by Israel since the cease-fire began Oct. 24. Seven Israeli soldiers have been killed, according to command reports.

In Cairo, Egypt announced it would attend the forthcoming Arab-Israeli Middle East peace conference in Geneva, Dec. 18. However, Egypt warned it was remaining in a state of "total mobilization".

Skylab's Gyroscopes Recover After Faltering

By THOMAS G. BELDEN
UPI Science Writer

HOUSTON (UPI) — One of Skylab's last two working gyroscopes faltered again momentarily Saturday, but flight controllers said the vital device that keeps the spaceship on course recovered with no ill effects.

Skylab 3 crewmen Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue, uninhibited by the minor problem, photographed Comet Kohoutek out of a space station window and were twisting the lab out of its normal position in orbit to collect data on the earth.

The 6,000-mile earth photography sweep started over the Himalayas in Nepal and ended in the outback of Australia. Information collected with the crew's powerful cameras will be used to map remote areas of Nepal, aid weather forecasting in Thailand and chart the ocean floor off Java.

It was the third time in a week the gyro had fluctuated in its performance. Flight controllers said possibly the lubricant on a bearing in the erratic gyro had become too cold, causing the spinning wheels in the device to slow down.

But the officials said after the slowdown both of the spaceship's gyros were "working beautifully." Engineers continued efforts, though, to devise a scheme to avoid continued erratic behavior.

Clyde and Betty Owens Give $10,000 to ECU

Clyde P. and Betty Owens of Greenville have made an unrestricted gift of $10,000 to the East Carolina University Alumni Loyalty Fund for university development, ECU officials announced today.

Owens, a 1959 ECU graduate, is president of Printed Paper Products of Greenville and Rocky Mount. "East Carolina University has always been very dear to me and my family," Owens said. "It has a special meaning due to my being a graduate of the University and also because of my business affiliation in the Greenville area.

"I am keenly aware of the rose of the university in the development of the Greenville community, as well as the larger Eastern North Carolina community. There are many requests for one's dollars and I felt that in the long run I could do the most good for the most people through this avenue."

Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, ECU Chanellor, said "Clyde and his wife, Betty, are to be commended for their interest in and support of the university. It is through loyal alumni and friends such as Clyde and Betty that ECU will acquire the necessary extra support needed to attain the degree of excellence we are all seeking for our university."

Don Leggett, Director of Alimni Affairs and Foundations, said, "ECU is fortunate to have dedicated alumni and friends such as Clyde and Betty Owens. This gift is one of the largest single gifts received from an individual for the Alumni Loyaly Fund, and it will be a tremendous boost to the Fund as well as to the efforts of the university to support outstanding projects which need additional funding to supplement state-allocated monies."

Owens is originally from Beaufort, N. C., and is the son of Clyde M. and Kathleen Owens. Mrs. Owens is the former Betty Stokes, daughter of Mrs. Bessie Stokes and the late Roy Stokes of Ayden.

Owens' firm deals in the sale and manufacture of business forms, and does consulting work in the area of computer systems. The Owens reside at 105 Oxford Rd., Greenville, with their two children, Clyde P. Jr., 12, and Kelly Lynn, 5. They are members of Oakmont Baptist Church, Greenville.

Two Businesses Were Robbed

Two Greenville businesses were illegally entered and merchandise taken early Saturday morning, according to Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon.

Investigations into both cases, the Kwik-Pik on Hooker Rd. and Womack Electronics, 505 Pennsylvania Ave., continue.

According to Cannon, both incidents occurred between midnight and daybreak.

Approximately $600 in merchandise was stolen from the Kwik-Pik. Extensive damage was done to the front glass door when a large object was thrown through the glass to gain entrance.

Entrance to Womack Electronics was made by forcing open a rear door, according to Cannon. The amount of merchandise taken has not been determined.

Snow, Rain In N.C.

By United Press International

North Carolina's first winter storm of the season brought snow to the western mountains, high winds and heavy seas that threatened beach erosion on the coast and cold, rainy weather to points in between Saturday evening.

The National Weather Service predicted that from two to four inches of snow could accumulate in the northwest and central mountain sections before precipitation ended Sunday.

Travelers advisories were posted for Saturday night and early Sunday in the northern and southern Piedmont areas as well as the mountains, with the weather service predicting that rain would be mixed with sleet and snow to possibly create hazardous driving conditions.

On the coast, the weather service had storm warnings posted Saturday afternoon and evening and said there was a strong possibility of beach erosion along with coastal flooding in time of high tide. Winds built up to 25 to 45 miles per hour Saturday. Tides were reported two to three feet above normal.

New Hospital For Duke

DURHAM, N. C. (UPI)—Duke University trustees Saturday authorized retention of architects to draw up plans for constructing a new 614-bed hospital.

The cost will include some renovation of the present hospital, construction of a new one and interest on borrowed money.

"This major additional facility is a bold commitment by Duke's trustees to excellence in medical service and training," said Duke President Terry Sanford.

Kohoutek Comet Not So Bright

By CHARLES P. WALLACE
United Press International

The Christmas comet Kohoutek, hurtling through space on a momentous journey around the sun, has proved a disappointment so far to astronomers and amateur stargazers who hoped to witness a celestial spectacle.

But astronomers said that this weekend the great comet was on the threshhold of becoming visible to viewers in the United States without the aid of telescopes or even binoculars.

That wasn't the case in New York Saturday morning, however, where about 1,000 persons who gathered at the South Street Seaport Museum to welcome Kohoutek didn't see anything but a heavy haze.

Crossing the path of Venus Saturday, Kohoutek was to be within 60,870,000 miles of the sun Sunday. It is to come within 13 million miles of the sun Dec. 28, then whip around it and cruise out of the solar system, missing earth by 75 million miles.

Some astronomers say Kohoutek will not be visible again for million years.

Latest predictions are the comet will be most brilliant in early January in the southwest part of the sky just after sunset.

Evidence Of Push In 1974 For 4-Year Med School

RALEIGH (AP)—There is increasing evidence that a push will be made in the 1974 General Assembly in behalf of a minority report recommending a four-year medical school be built at East Carolina University.

The minority report, signed by eight dissenting members of the Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina, was presented Friday to a gathering of North Carolina legislators.

The lawmakers were told the state should not only adopt the health education program proposed by the Board of Governors but should also build the ECU medical school.

The minority report was presented by David J. Whichard II of Greenville. It said:

"The growing numbers of qualified North Carolinians who cannot gain acceptance to medical school, our continued dilatory actions pertaining to minority student enrollment within our state, and the ever worsening shortage of practicing physicians in the majority of North Carolina's counties—all of these factors and many more—demand attention and action now, not seven or even two years hence."

The lawmakers were told the health education program proposed by the Board of Governors would cost $25 million in capital improvement funds, $9 million for operating funds in 1974-75 and that this would increase to $20 million a year by 1979-80.

The cost of a four-year medical school at ECU would include $27.3 milion for capital improvements immediately. It would increase to $47.1 million if a new 250-bed teaching hospital is built later, or drop to $33 million if an existing hospital is remodeled for the teaching hospital. Additional operating funds for the medical school would total $3.2 million for 1974-75 and $8.9 million by 1979-80.

The estimated cost was provided by Mercer Doty, director of fiscal research for the General Assembly, and his assistant, J. D. McLawhorn.

The health education program recommended by the board's majority was outlined by William Dees, chairman of the UNC Board of Governors. It was based on recommendations of a panel of out-of-state medical consultants headed by Dr. Ivan Bennett.

The health education program calls for expanding postgraduate training facilities for doctors in the state's community hospitals through an expansion of the Area Health Education Center (AHEC) program already started by UNC.

Two Die In Separate Williamston Fires

WILLIAMSTON — Two residents of this city died due to injuries received in fires Friday, according to the Williamston Police Department.

N.J. Woman Wreck Victim

WILLIAMSTON — A 56 year old Newark, New Jersey woman, Ethel B. Latham was killed instantly here Friday when the auto in which she was a passenger was struck in the side by a pick-up truck traveling north on highway 17-13, operated by Donald P. Gabriel.

According to the Williamston Police Department, the victim was a passenger in an auto operated by her husband, George C. Latham who was traveling east on E. Main St. in Williamston. According to the accident report, Latham pulled into the path of the truck operated by Gabriel.

O'Donald Williams, 21, died Friday evening at approximately 6:20 p.m. when he was overcome by smoke when he entered a dwelling occupied by his elderly, blind grandmother in an attempt to rescue her. The elderly lady was later rescued by the Williamston Fire Department. Cause of the blaze was thought to have been from sparks from an old heater falling upon a piece of furniture in the same room.

A second fire victim, James G. Speller, died in his home on Broad St. when a two burner oil heater exploded at approximately 7:03 p.m. Friday according to the Police Department.

Mass Grave Found In Cambodia

By ARTHUR HIGBEE

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — A mass grave containing the bodies of more than 100 persons —some of them children— believed to have been executed by rebels was reported uncovered Saturday by Cambodian troops.

The decomposed bodies were apparently the remains of people executed after insurgents last month overran the town of Tram Khnar, 21 miles southwest of Phnom Penh on Highway 3, according to Capt. Ouch Chan, a local commander.

Col. Am Rong, the high command spokesman in Phnom Penh, said he had received no word of the reported discovery but would investigate.

Tram Khnar was evacuated Nov. 4 after 100 persons were killed in a heavy rebel attack. But days later more than 100 of its inhabitants, mostly soldiers and their dependents, were still missing.

In South Vietnam, a government military spokesman reported 39 Communist cease-fire violations in the 24 hours ended at noon Saturday, the lowest number for such a period since the Jan. 28 truce agreement.

"It is very sudden and difficult to understand," said the spokesman, Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien.

Elsewhere in Cambodia, rebel forces continued their pressure on Highway 4, which has been cut off by the insurgents at a point 36 miles from Phnom Penh for almost a month.

The Cambodian military command said that four government soldiers were wounded and three rebels killed Saturday in fighting two miles north of the provincil capital of Kompong Speu, on Highway 4 about 25 miles southwest of Phnom Penh.

The road, which links the capital with the deepwater seaport of Kompong Som, was lined with a steady stream of refugees, their belongings in high wheeled carts drawn by teams of oxen, seeking relative safety in Kompong Speu.

The refugees were from villages on both sides of the highway which came under attack during the night.

In South Vietnam, Hien said that government troops had "completely" recaptured the Central Highlands district town of Kien Duc, 110 miles north of Saigon. The town was taken by the Communists earlier this week.

But UPI reporter Ken Wagner in Gia Nghia, capital of Quang Duc province 12 miles east of Kien Duc, said military officials told him, "we have not completely recaptured the town. There are still a few strong points of North Vietnamese."

Wagner said light to moderate fighting was reported in Kien Duc throughout the day.

Getty Abduction Case Like A Bizarre Novel

By MICHAEL ROSS

ROME (UPI) — Five months ago Sunday, J. Paul Getty III, hippie grandson of the American oil billionaire, left the Piazza Navona after an argument with three unidentified youths. He has not been seen since.

The alleged abduction of the 17-year-old high school dropout is either a bizarre kidnaping or a fantastic hoax.

What has happened since the night of July 9 would make a best-selling detective novel if only the subplots could be kept straight: money, intrigue, an international police search, beautiful young starlets, bickering between members of one of the world's richest families, a human ear sent through the mail.

Italian police at one point toyed with the notion that the whole plot came from the film version of Graham Greene's novel "Travels With My Aunt," which young Getty had seen shortly before he vanished.

But things have gone further than most believable fiction.

First there was the ear.

A human ear, purportedly Getty's, was mailed to a Rome newspaper along with a note threatening to dismember the youth "piece by piece" unless a $3.4 million ransom was paid. Police said the ear probably was Getty's, but that they could not be certain.

Then an anonymous call to another Rome newspaper directed its reporters to a signpost along a superhighway near Rome. Inside an empty paint can they found five poor-quality photographs allegedly showing Getty with his right ear severed and a note in the youth's handwriting begging his billionaire grandfather, J. Paul Getty Sr., to pay the ransom.

Getty Sr. had previously refused to pay a cent, saying he feared succumbing to blackmail would subject his 14 other grandchildren to abductions.

A family spokesman in London also said Getty Sr. had his "own ideas about the kidnaping," indicating that perhaps even he believed the kidnaping might have been a hoax.

Martine and Marie Zacher, two German models with whom young Getty was staying at the time of his disappearance, told police the youth had often talked of staging his own abduction to get money from his grandfather. Investigators openly speculated he may have run off to France with a Belgian girfriend, one of the many actresses who helped get him modeling jobs to support his hippie existence away from home.

Police have never discounted the hoax theory but, five months after Getty's disappearance and a manhunt involving Interpol that spread into West Germany and France, they are no longer emphasizing it.

From London there came additional signs of strain within the family.

Pope Revives Carriage Ride

By PETER J. SHAW

ROME (UPI) — Pope Paul VI, reviving a century-old tradition in an age of energy crisis, rode in a horse-drawn open carriage through Rome's rainswept streets Saturday night to pray before a statue of the Virgin Mary.

Seated in a black landau drawn by a single white horse, the red-caped pontiff journeyed from the Vatican to the Piazza di Spagna in the heart of old Rome on the Feast Day of the Immaculate Conception.

A light drizzle fell during the two-mile ride from St. Peters Square through streets taken over by pedestrians because of a weekend driving ban.

A cheering, grumbling, shoving mob of several thousands jammed the piazza and adjacent streets to watch the 76-year-old pontiff arrive.

Pope Paul spent about 10 minutes in prayer beneath the bronze statue of the Madonna overlooking the piazza from atop a marble column.

As head of the Vatican state the pontiff is exempt from the government-ordered ban on all but essential driving, but he chose to ride in a 19th century landau.

The visit to the Piazza di Spagna, which last month along with surrounding streets was permanently closed to most vehicle traffic, marked the 119th anniversary of the 1854 proclamation by Pius IX of the dogma of the Immaculate Conception — the belief that Mary was born without original sin.

Children-Youth Services

RALEIGH (UPI) — A joint state legislative committee will conduct statewide hearings on a proposal to create a department of services for children and youth.

Co-chairman Rep. T. Clyde Auman, D-Moore, and Sen. Lamar Gudger, D-Buncombe, said parents with exceptional children could be heard on the proposal to put 22 agencies concerned with their special needs under one administrative agency.

Meetings are scheduled in Charlotte Dec. 19, Asheville Dec. 20, Greensboro Dec. 21, Raleigh Jan. 1 and Kinston Jan. 4.

Seeks To Impound Museum Funds

RALEIGH (AP)—A Wake County Republican legislator wants Gov. Jim Holshouser and the Advisory Budget Commission to impound funds appropriated for the new North Carolina art museum.

Rep. Ward Purrington told a news conference Friday he was concerned over "recent 'speed up' actions by the Art Museum Building Commission." Earlier this week the building commission directed the architect to begin grading and other preparations at the site west of Raleigh.

Purrington called for impoundment as a means of halting construction until the controversy over the museum site is settled. He introduced a bill in the 1973 legislature calling for the museum to be built in the downtown area, but the measure was killed in committee. A similar bill is still pending in the Senate.

Sen. Ralph Scott, D-Alamance, chairman of the budget commission, said he was "in favor of going ahead" with the museum.

Jack Childs, the governor's press secretary, said he was "almost sure the governor has not had a chance to discuss the matter."

Land Conservancy Proposed

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina's secretary of natural and economic resources says proposed legislation to establish a land conservancy corporation could save the state millions of dollars in land purchases.

James E. Harrington told a Senate-House subcommittee Friday the present state property purchase procedures prohibit the state from moving fast enough. The proposed land conservancy corporation would be an independent, public corporation governed by a board of trustees.

A $50 million bond issue to finance park and recreation land acquisition is also being proposed to support the conservancy's purchases.

He told the subcommittee the state was recently outbid 2-1 on one of the last available beach properties sufficient for a state park in northeastern North Carolina.

"If the state had been able to move quicker we probably wouldn't have lost out on that property," Harrington said.

Plumber Requires Letter

SEATTLE (AP) — Reginald the Plumber will fix your pipes, if you qualify.

Applicants are judged on the basis of a written request. Call Reginald and you'll hear a taped message:

"This is Reginald the Plumber. If you have a plumbing problem, please write down the nature of the job and why you need a plumber in 50 words or less and address it to me. If it's an emergency, please write 'rush' on the face of the envelope. All letters will be judged for neatness and orginality. Thank you."

Reginald Anderson says, "I started that taped message on my business phone about three weeks ago to curb business and for the fun of it."

He says the only problem is most people are so amused by his taped message his business hasn't decreased.

"Their letters reflect that they appreciate the humor," he said. "A doctor's letter requested me to reply in 50 words or less if I could get to the job he had."

Anderson says he phones the letter writers and takes care of their problems, "giving priority to the seriousness of the problem."

But, he added, "like most plumbers, I'm not going to let a family with flooded floors wait."

Develops Oil From Shale

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — The chairman of Occidental Petroleum Corp. says his company has developed a method of producing large quantities of low-sulfur oil from Rocky Mountain shale.

Dr. Armand Hammer said that the method developed by Occidental could produce large quantities of low-cost oil within three to five years, with little or no environmental damage.

Hammer reported the results of testing at a meeting Friday of the Southern California Associated Press News Executive Council.

The extraction method involves drilling into shale deposits and taking the oil by heating the shale to a high temperature.

Hammer quoted a private report by the Stanford Research Institute as saying: "As presently conceived there will be no shale ash disposal above the ground and very little disturbance to the surface."

Occidental controls about 4,000 acres of oil shale land in Colorado.

Hammer said he thinks the cost of producing oil from Rocky Mountain shale could be brought down to about $1.18 a barrel.

But he said that federal government involvement might be necessary to make such a project feasible.

The Rocky Mountain states contain enough oil to supply the United States for 140 years at the 1973 rate of petroleum use, Hammer said.

Soviet Truck Uses Propane

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet Union is testing an experimental truck that runs on propane gas instead of gasoline, Tass reported today.

The news agency said the reason for the experiment was that the system is cheap and doesn't pollute the atmosphere.

Tass gave no indication whether the authorities were hedging against a future gasoline shortage.

The agency said five propane trucks were already undergoing tests on the streets of Moscow. First impressions, Tass said, were that "the machine is reliable and needs only insignificant adjustments."

Apparently the experiment is brand new because Tass said the test vehicles have only covered "their first dozens of kilometers."

No Need To Search For Locking Caps, Gas Cans

By SUSAN PRICE
Reflector Staff Writer

If you're trying to get a locking gas tank cap or a five gallon gasoline can to help combat gasoline shortage in Greenville, you might as well forget it for the next few months.

Every dealer in the city is sold out of both items, except a few dealers who have odd gasoline caps.

But even if you do get a gasoline can, Police Chief Glenn Cannon advises against carrying them. Cannon said he "strongly encourages people not to carry cans because they are dangerous."

"It can cause the car to explode. In fact, an explosion of five gallons of gasoline is about equivalent to a blast of five or more sticks of dynamite. And it isn't so much the gas as the vapors that can cause an explosion."

Most auto parts dealers in the area have been sold out of locking gas tank caps and gas cans for anywhere from a few days to two weeks.

Sherwood Johnson of Evans Auto Parts said, "We could have sold 1,000 of each item if we had them last week. The warehouses are out, the manufacturers are out. . .the whole country is sold out."

Ben Gibbs, manager of Pitt Motor Parts Inc. noted that "the industry wasn't geared up for the great demand for the gasoline cans and caps. We sold out a couple of days after the President's second speech."

Dealers across the city have the locking gas tank caps on order, but most expect little response to those orders for the next couple of months. A spokesman for Greenville Motor Parts said that out of an order of 175 gas tank caps, he received only six.

Ben Gibbs at Pitt Motor Parts said a new device of spring steel in a cone shape is soon to be on the market. The device is to be inserted in the gas tank to prevent gasoline from being siphoned out.

Gibbs explained that gas can be put into the tank after the inexpensive device is inserted, but cannot be siphoned out. Most service stations in the area are expected to have supplies of the device within a couple of weeks.

Advice To Indians-- 'Get Out Of Bars'

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Delegates to the National Tribal Chairmen's Assocation convention were told to "get out of the bars" by a South Dakota Indian leader.

"Our people are starving while you are here playing," Robert Burnett, Rosebud Sioux tribal chairman, told about 60 fellow tribal leaders Friday. "Get out of the bars. I've seen too much playing here."

Burnett, commenting after hearing a final version of a position paper drafted by the tribal leaders, said it was too weak and too vague.

"We need to know exactly what is meant by self-determination," he said. Self-determination is the theme of the convention, which ended today with installation of officers.

One Officer, Two Cadets Join Local Police Corps

One new officer and two police cadets—beginning a new training program within the department—have joined the Greenville Police Department, according to Chief Glenn Cannon.

Jackey Daniels, a Walsonburg native, has been added to the department as a member of the Uniformed Division, the chief explained.

Daniels, who graduated from South Greene High School in Snow Hill in 1969; spent four years in the U.S. Marine Corps, including a tour in Vietnam, and assignments at Camp Pendleton, Calif and Camp Lejeune.

According to Cannon, Willie Reid Jr. and David L. Rogerson, both 20 years old, have joined the departments as police cadets. He said the two men—who will not be armed—will perform routine duties, under the supervision of regular officers, as part of a training program.

The chief said the program is designed to have the cadets trained and experienced in the department's operations so when they reach the age of 21 they can be sworn is as regular officers and be able to perform as regular officers without a delay.

Reid, an Elizabeth City native, is married to the former Linda Henby of Greenville. He graduated from Camden County High School in 1971 and spent two years in the U. S. Marine Corps, stationed at Camp Lejeune, before joining the police department here as a cadet.

Rogerson, also a veteran of two years with the Marine Corps at Camp Lejeune, is a native of Rockville, Md. and is a 1971 graduate of Robert E. Perry High School in Rockville.

Both Rogerson and Daniels are single.

Tax-Cutting Deserves Caution

Gov. Holshouser is absolutely correct in saying he would be "extremely cautious" in recommending tax cuts next year.

The governor took this approach after "looking at the energy crisis and what it can mean in its impact on the highway fund and general fund revenues."

"As you know, the revenue patterns in recent years have shown an increase in revenues," the governor said at a press conference. "Yet this increase might be adversely affected by the energy crisis as it worsens."

North Carolina has enjoyed large surpluses recently thanks to revenue sharing and a booming economy. Now, however, everyone throughout the nation and the western world is worried about the effects of the energy shortage on the economy. We don't think the worst will happen and, in fact, we think the adjustments are being made right now to keep our industries humming and most jobs intact.

Nevertheless it would be a mistake to institute tax cuts next year with the economic outlook unclear. Add to that the fact that federal revenue sharing is new and something that could be changed or discontinued in the future and we have the prospect of some future administration having to reinstate any taxes which might be cut next year.

We have frequently said that we believe the tax paying public would rather see their taxes settled down, rather than paying a little less this year, only to have it increased the following year.

We believe the administration and the Legislature will do best to leave the tax structure alone in 1974. If economic growth continues, we can't get hurt; if it doesn't we won't be scurrying around in 1975 looking for new taxes to replace those which were dropped.

Heir-Apparent Poses Threat

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—The remorseless, crumbling erosion of President Nixon's standing where it counts most—in the bosom of his own party—has now moved to a point of maximum danger with the accession of Rep. Gerald R. Ford as the nation's 40th Vice President.

The fact that Mr. Nixon now has an heir-apparent, in the view of highly-places party leaders, will lead to two inescapable actions:

First, louder, more insistent public demands from his own party that he tell the truth about all aspects of Watergate, a demand Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, the Senate Republican leader, clearly presaged last week when he said: "Promise of candor is fine but actual complete candor is essential."

Second (and potentially far more damaging to Mr. Nixon), demands by Republicans running for office in the 1974 general election that he either resign or face impeachment.

To many rank-and-file party men in Congress and their leaders, the ringing announcement by Melvin R. Laird that he would be risigning his White House job soon after Ford's vice presidential swearing-in was a clear signal.

"Mel was saying," one party elder told us, "that once Jerry is confirmed, obligations inside the party to defend and protect Richard M. Nixon will end."

Whether Laird intended such interpretation, his old congressional colleagues are convinced he was saying, in effect, that he has found the Nixon presidency quite incapable of the top-to-bottom reform so clearly demanded by the Watergate disasters.

Scott's warning that Mr. Nixon "isn't going to get out of this mess unless we have an answer to all of the charges" was no sudden outburst. To the contrary, Scott has been having hours-long conversations with many of his Republican colleagues in the Senate, including many natural Nixon allies, such as Sens. John Tower of Texas and William Brock of Tennessee.

His concern is genuine, and it springs from this: that as the 1974 compaign comes closer, every Republican candidate is going to worry about the Nixon drag on his own race. Scott and his Senate intimates are warning the President that not much time is left for him to make good on his recurring promises to come clean.

Moreover, the menacing instinct of the pack is clearly perceived in party reaction to several White House plays having only indirect connection to the searing issue of the Watergate tapes and overall presidential disclosure. One of these was the seeming attempt on Nov. 29 by Ronald Ziegler, the President's press secretary and hand-holder, to destroy the reputation of J. Fred Buzhardt, the top White House Watergate lawyer.

An ideological conservative South Carolinian of impeccable integrity, Buzhardt was shattered when Ziegler implied he had lost control of his mountainous Watergate workload, but his powerful political friends were furious. Such White House aides as Bryce Harlow, Laird and even chief of staff Alexander Haig actually interceded against Ziegler. Why, then, did Ziegler make his snide remarks?

"Because," one knowing official said, "Nixon felt Buzhardt wasn't enthusiastic enough about the official explanation of the lost 18 minutes (on the June 20, 1972, White House tape) and he told Ron to let him have it."

Again, no proof exists. But the universal Republican reaction was that Mr. Nixon was selling out a loyal aide, as he had so many others in his desperate attempts to pin the blame elsewhere.

Finally, a speech made by a middle-level White House aide, Bruce Herschensohn, on Nov. 30 has infuriated Republican loyalists. Herschensohn, a deputy special assistant to Mr. Nixon, ridiculed the U. S. Watergate grand jury indictment of Dwight Chapin, Mr. Nixon's former appointments secretary, on four counts of perjury.

"The nation owes him (Chapin) thanks, not scorn, for the work he did on the President's trip to China and the Soviet Union," Herschensohn told the Los Angeles chamber of commerce. This attack on a federal grand jury by a White House aide traveling the country on taxpayer money has not helped the Pesident with the rank-and-file of his own party now demanding radical change in the Nixon White House.

The accession of Vice President Ford will loosen Republican tongues from earlier inhibitions against public criticism. Although presidential intimates count only around half a dozen Republicans in the House as willing to vote for impeachment today, that miniscule number may now swell with an heir-apparent ready to take over and a President still tied to cover-up.

Relaxed Air Standards A Short-Time Policy

It is regrettable, but probably necessary, that air quality standards must be lowered in North Carolina because of the energy crisis.

Gov. Holshouser requested the State Board of Water and Air Resources to relax air quality standards to allow use of a higher sulphur content fuel oil.

That is something that we don't like to see, but it may be needed in the short term.

It should be made clear, however, that the higher standards will be restored as soon as it is feasible to do so.

Governors At Annual Dinner

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—It was an unusual gathering, all four living ex-governors and their wives sitting together at one table, while from the head table, Gov. Jim Houlshouser, and his guest, Gov. John West of South Carolina, looked on.

Former Gov. Bob Scott said it was the first time all four, of the former governors and spouses had been together. But Scott, the most recent occupant of the governor's mansion, found himself the junior man at the gathering. He had to run the errands—fetching a round of cigars for the group.

Afterward, Scott praised Holshouser's coolness at the podium under the circumstances. "You couldn't help but feel a little sorry for him, sitting up there looking down at four Democrats, representing 19 years in the governor's office.

"And he did right well speaking," Scott added. "But, of course, he wasn't delivering the main speech," the Democrat said of the Republican.

The occasion was the annual dinner meeting of the statewide association of independent colleges. Gov. West delivered the main address, pointing to the success of state aid programs to private colleges as a means of providing more higher education opportunities at lower cost to government.

Dapartment For Children

A proposal to form a new state department for children outlines by a joint committee of the General Assembly is moving toward completion.

Struggling with boundaries for regions in which local councils would operate in overseeing all programs involving exceptional children, the committee last week decided on the 11 congressional districts as the best.

Members of the committee have come to the conclusion that the best way to get control and guaranteed delivery of state services to children with physical, mental or emotional problems is through central control of a state department with a cabinet-level secretary and strong local control through the regional councils.

Full-Time Legislature?

The General Assembly won't convene until January 16, for the first experimental annual session. But you would think the entire assembly was in session on recent days late in the week.

On Thursday, these meetings were going on: joint House and Senate Judiciary I and II; joint committee on coastal and mountain land use; the joint committee on exceptional children; the medical manpower subcommittee; a committee on commercial fishing; and a finance committee group studying licensing boards.

Friday, the activity increased: the judiciary meeting resumed, the land use group continued to meet, and these groups convened—crime study commission, home financing committee, regionalism study committee of the Senate, joint state government subcommittee and the legislative services commission met.

And of course late this week almost all lawmakers came to town to attend a session to receive a report from the medical study group.

Lot Of Visitors

These sunny, late fall days in Raleigh are livened up by hords of visiting school kids touring the state Legislative Building, old Capitol grounds and nearby museums.

The straggling lines are rather quiet and orderly and remarkably unimpressed by most of the sights, until the kids reach the rattlesnake cages in the Museum of Natural History. That turns them on.

The other highlight of any touring group is pigeon-feeding at the Capitol.

A tip for visitors who want to look like a professional: buy your peanuts from the vendor, stand quietly with the white bag in hand (they trust that bag), crush some peanuts shell and all in your hand—don't try to shell them into whole kernels—then wait for the pigeons to start settling on your arms, shoulders and head.

Strength For Today

GENIUS IN ACTION

Someone has said that genius is fifty percent inspiration and fifty percent perspiration.

The great English novelist, Charles Dickens, would probably have agreed with this remark. On one occasion he wrote: "Whatever I have tried to do in life, I have tried with all my heart to do well. What I have devoted myself to, I have devoted myself completely. Never to put one hand to anything on which I did not throw my whole self and never to affect depreciation of my work, whatever it was, I find now to have been golden rules."

Doubtless none of us could ever write with the genius of Dickens, but if all of us could apply ourselves to our chosen tasks with the single-mindedness and concentration of Dickens, the results might be very surprising. Although geniuses can make great triumphs in art and literature, the success of our civilization in providing for human welfare has been the result of the hard, devoted work of millions of people who never felt the spark of genius.

Someone who had been on jury duty said the judge asked that age old question, "So say you all?"

The jurors answered "yes" except for two.

They repoled, "You all."

Police reporter Stuart Savage says someone was stopped by a speed trap for doing 45 in a 35 mile per hour zone.

They only gave the person a warning, however. Seems he was riding a bicycle.

Driving can sometimes have its unexpected moments.

Staffer Jerry Raynor a few days back was leaving the Post Office parking lot. As he started forward after backing, a big new model car backed out directly in front of him. Raynor hit his brakes and sounded his horn. From the passenger side, a small elderly lady got out and walked over to Raynor's car.

"Young man," she raised a finger accusingly, "did you know you blew your horn?"

ALVIN TAYLOR

"Yes, I didn't want to be hit."

"Just a minute," the lady said, and walked back to speak to the driver of the car in which she was a passenger.

"Sister said," she told Raynor, coming back to his car, "Never blow your horn at her again. It makes her nervous and besides, it's very rude to blow horns, you know."

Other Editors Say Policy Of Scarcity

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

A fanciful press release purporting to visualize events in the year 2001 and datelined Washington, D. C., described federal limits on home construction because of "out continuing national wood crisis."

The release also tells how, on January 1,2001, the President of the United States, because of wood and paper shortages, imposed restrictions on the publishing industry and of how "Three of the remaining five newspapers may be forced to suspend operations due to the forest products shortage. . ."

If all of this sounds too far-fetched for consideration, one has only to recall the forecasts of shortages that spokesmen representing another vital resource industry, petroleum, made many years ago pursuant to the imposition of what they saw as incentive-killing regulation and taxation.

Today, there are those who wish to set aside ever-increasing areas of commercial timberlands in nonproductive reserves. They oppose the multiple-use concept of modern timber company forest management that encourages the wise utilization of mature forests for greater output of essential wood products.

They labor under the delusion that a tree is an unchanging symbol of nature that will stand in perpetuity.

This misconception, if carried through into laws and public policies, can bring to reality the wood and paper-starved nation pictured in the imaginary news release of the year 2001.

The gloomy future prophezied in the release need never materialize if common sense and radidly changing forest technology are allowed to prevail.

As forests are harvested and new, faster-growing trees take their place on timberlands of tomorrow—if those timberlands are available to the industry for use—the year 1001 can be a period of wood products abundance rather than scarcity.

A deciding factor will be public understanding of the basic issue of how forests should be used in the years ahead.

Radio Brazil On Air

By DAVID VIDAL

BRASILIA, Brazil (AP) — From Hanoi to Hamburg, a new airwave is competing for listeners with Radio Havana, Radio Peking, Radio Moscow, the Voice of America and the BBC of London.

That seems unlikely company for the ten-kilowatt-strong Radio Nacional de Brasilia.

But "We've gotten letters from the most unimaginable places," according to Jose Mauricio de Carvalho, head of the government station's international division.

Brazil's new international short wave voice has just completed its first anniversary. It is pounding out samba and news in six different languages and the results have surprised even its organizers.

English, French, German, Italian, Spanish and Portuguese may soon be joined by Japanese as a result.

A survey by an "American short wave listeners" association, recently released here, even said the fledgling station had bypassed Radio Moscow and Radio Peking in world listener popularity.

"We don't have official programming and the idea is to show the world the new and real image of Brazil, in a way so as not to confuse information with propaganda," Carvalho says.

Because of its reduced transmitting capacity — the BBC by comparison has over 500 kilowatts of power — "the world" has meant Europe for Radio Nacional.

Burglars entered the drug store of John Burgess in Ayden last night and secured about $150 in loot. The capture included a small amount of cash, a radio, watches, knives, razors and blades.

Entrance was made through the front door by prying it open with a crowbar. The burglary happened sometime between midnight and 6 a.m. No clue has yet been found to identify the culprits.

Whiskey valued at $500 was captured by county officers at Fountain yesterday and a man is held in jail today awaiting a charge of violating the prohibition law.

Officers said the whiskey was found stored in a trap under a smokehouse at the man's home. Twenty-nine cases and one barrel of the beverage were found.

The capture was one of the largest made here in several weeks and certainly one of the most important since national repeal of the dry law.

Alderman will invoke a one-hour parking limit on Evans Street and Dickinson Ave. during the period from now until January 1.

High Interest Rate Questioned

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — When an economy is in trouble and the stock market is falling there arises spontaneously and predictably a discussion of whether the Federal Reserve Board is following the proper policy.

The semiautonomous Fed, as you may know, has great powers over how much money should be in circulation, and therefore over the level of interest rates. And to a great degree, the latter is reflected in economic activity.

Limit the money supply and you force up interest rates which, in theory, should discourage borrowing and lead to a slow down of the economy. Raise the money supply and interest rates drop and economic activity revives.

Interest rates now are near record high levels, the result of policies designed to curb the excesses of the big boom of the past three years. The outlook therefore is a slowdown in economic activity.

And that policy, says John Wright, an investment adviser whose firm, Wright Investors' Service, calls the play on hundreds of millions of dollars of stocks, "is heading us right down the road to disaster."

High interest rates, he maintains, are to a great extent the cause of shortages. Industry delays expanding its plant, and so production fails to keep pace with demand. He believes many oil refineries were delayed for this reason.

Perhaps overly simplified, he argues that high interest leads to slow expansion of existing facilities and discourages new businesses — even leading to monopoly — which leads to shortages which leads to higher prices.

Jobs are being lost and people already are closing out their life savings in American business, Wright says, because they are afraid or because they have no choice, their shrinking stock having been used as collateral for down payments on houses.

Still, he adds, the Fed persists in a restrictive monetary policy that in the past has led only to recession and tumbling stock market. And he notes that Arthur F. Burns, Fed chairman, believes the problem is an oil rather than a money shortage.

What is needed, he maintains, is a complete change of monetary policy that would lead to a lowering of the prime interest rates to 5 or 6 per cent from more than 9, and a reduction in long-term corporate bonds from 8.5 per cent to 7 per cent and later to 6.

"We've given the Fed a franchise to tax the have-nots, all the borrowers, through high interest rates," he states. A "banker's mentality" that high rates are good is governing their thinking," he claims, adding:

"The Fed has not been responsive to national policy, and it won't until we return to what built the country, and that was access to capital at moderate rates."

He sees "a great big red flag flying" over the economy, a warning that we could risk serious disaster unless the Fed releases more money and, to erase any doubts, makes a public statement that it is doing so.

The danger, he claims, is compounded of a lack of faith in government, the energy crisis, and overly high borrowing rates.

Observations From Editorial Columns

Responses To Crisis

Crisis tends to bring out the best, and the worst, in a people. Many Americans are rallying now to do what they can about the energy crisis. They are using less fuel, driving more slowly, giving up their Christmas lighting, etc.

Others are trying hard to exploit the situation for their own ends. Some pressure groups hope to use the energy crisis to achieve their unrelated goals.

Now we see the coal producers trying to get out from under regulations controlling strip miners in the name of the crisis. Industry spokesmen, who have always opposed environmental laws, now call for their suspension in the name of the crisis.

Those opposing school desegregation now say that school busing should stop to conserve fuel.

And now comes the Women's Christian Temperance Union to argue that the production of alcoholic liquor should be barred—to preserve energy, of course.

A crisis, it seems, can be all things to many people. — Anniston (Ala.) Star

Sex And Semantics

A couple of federal agencies apparently have prevailed upon the Census Bureau to change job titles for some 52 occupations so that it will no longer appear that the jobs are the exclusive preserve of men, or for that matter, women.

We will overlook the fact that the two agencies involved, the Manpower Administration and the Women's Bureau, are lagging a bit in tailoring their own names to a unisex standard. What really bothers us is the prosaism of the job titles that have been substituted.

Substituting "flight attendant" for stewardess" is tolerable enough, although lacking in imagination. And promoting busboys to "waiter's assistants" will probably at least make waiters feel more important. But writers are going to mourn the passing of such time-honored job titles as chambermaid. Two Cars For One

Even without waiting for gas rationing, many patriotic or merely cautious Americans are already doing their bit. A used car dealer on Long Island, N.Y., reports that prices of the supercruisers have dropped $500 to $2,000 in a single month as customers convert to the compacts.

One customer traded in a large American luxury car for two small foreign models, one for himself and the other for his daughter. The two small cars combined, the customer explained, used less gas than the single big model. — Memphis (Tenn.) Commercial Appeal

Crate Scooters

A company calling itself, appropriately, Shades of the Past, Inc,. is advertising pre-assembled crate scooters for the kiddies. A crate scooter, or the box scooter as we used to know it, is nothing more than a box set on a wooden plank to which skate wheels are attached front and back. A child could make one for nothing. The re-assembled jobs sell for $12, plus $2.50 for postage and handling. What Shades of the Past, Inc., may have forgotten is that these scooters make a terrible racket. Nowadays they would run afoul of local noise abatement committees, composed largely of old crocks who have forgotten how much fun box scooters used to be. — Charleston (S.C.) News and Courier.

Changing Language

Watergate has added yet another new word to the language.

According to Editor & Publisher magazine, Richard M. Scaife, publisher of the Greensburg (Pa.) Tribune-Review has been named as the second highest contributor to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign. Scaife, an heir to the Mellon fortune, gave $1 million.

Molly Brown, editorial page editor of the Tribune-Review, explains that the donation was in the form of 350 checks to various committees, all in amounts under the limit allowed for campaign contributions. Thus they were, she says, absolutely "non-watergatable," — Beaumont (Tex.) Journal

Common Effort

However much outdoor Christmas lighting adds to the gayety of the season, the absence of it this year will be a mark of patriotic willingness to join hands in a common effort to keep American warm during the winter, and its economy—together with the machines essential to it—on the move.

One dares to suggest that the energy crisis may even prove the catalyst to restore some of the simplicity of Christmas observance long lost in an age of affluent abundance. — Florence (S. C.) Morning News

Gator Growl

A sign appeared in front of the First Baptist Church in Gainesvills, Fla., the other day. It asked the question, "What if God released his tapes on you?"

The reference wasn't just to Watergate. It was also homecoming weekend at the University of Florida. Under the circumstances, that kind of sign could consternate a reprobate Alligator. — Atlanta (Ga.) Journal and Constitution

Opinions In Brief

Killing A Few Hogs In The Virginia Mountains

By JAMES K. KILPATRICK

SCRABBLE, Va.—Tommy and Dorothy Taylor, with sons Tom and Bill and a crew of skilled countrymen, slaughtered hogs on Monday down by the north fork of the Thornton River. It is dying art, and I record the event for a society that may suppose pork chops are born from glassine wombs and laid in supermarket cribs.

There was a time when almost every household in Rappahannock county raised a few hogs for home consumption. Those days are gone. The small butcher shops, which once helped with the cutting, have been done in by the antiseptic requirements of Federal regulation. The supermarkets of Culpeper and Warrenton are just down the road. The old-timers die or move away. Raising your own hogs is hardly worth it.

Yet the custom survives. The Taylors had only two hogs of their own, but Paul Alther had a few, and somebody's aunt had a couple, and by the time the sun came up on Monday morning a dozen pigs were in prospect.

If you had been along, you would have climbed into a pickup truck about 7:30, and rattled around some twisting mountain roads, over a few hills and down a few hollows. You would have walked across a frozen field, past the turnip patch and the woodpile, crunching broomsedge under foot; and if you were a city-born spectator, you would have paused outside the pig pen while Tom and Bill and their father, with Paul Alther, clambered into the enclosure.

The two black hogs were waiting, swaying sullenly on their oddly dainty feet, dark suspicion written in their eyes. Bill knelt, leveling a .22 rifle with a countryman's confident ease, and shot the first hog squarely between the eyes. Paul Alther leaped forward with a knife to make the coup de grace. The second hog followed the first, and it was over in a matter of seconds. They dragged the two hogs across the frozen clods to the truck, and rattled back to the riverbank.

There a trench long ago had been dug, maybe two feet wide and two feet deep and six feet long. In a great tub above this trench, water was boiling as the fire licked up from below. Authority now passed—it is a kind of ritual thing—to the presiding expert, a tall leathery man in a bright red hunting cap, Lee Fincham.

I pause to straighten out names. Lee Fincham is the brother of Sleepy Fincham, who used to look after grounds and buildings at the old high school in Washington, our county seat, before they built the new school. Now Sleepy Fincham does some house painting and a little of everything else. Paul Alther is the cousin of Johnny Alther, whose wife Hilda Alther is my wife's right bower. Hilda comes on Wednesdays and Fridays, and we could not make it without her. Dorothy Taylor, Tommy's sparkling brown-eyed wife, was born a Thompson, in a hollow across the mountain just two miles away. I want you to know these people.

Using heavy chains—the hogs weighed about 250 pounds—the crew scalds the hogs one by one in the tub. Then, before the scald cools, everyone madly scrapes bristles. Lee Fincham uses nothing but his gnarled hands. Paul Alther prefers a sharp jar top. The others use knives. In 15 minutes, more or less, a hog is scraped to his clean white skin, hoisted on a tripod gantry, and turned over to Lee Fincham for gutting. They wash the carcass with clean cold water from the river. A gallery of five country dogs sniffs happily around the steaming entrails.

This, of course, is only the beginning. Monday evening the Taylors, joined by daughters Susan and C.C., cut and salted the hams and shoulders. Tuesday and Wednesday they worked on sausage. By Thursday they were through with the lard—the lard that will go into country biscuits all winter along. The Althers and the Finchams had the same tasks to do.

This is country living: bullets, blood, bristles, and hog gallows, the river rippling over rocks and the smoke and steam rising toward a watercooler sky, the dogs frisking and the mountains looking on. The city has its allurements. Believe me, so do the hills have theirs.

Available Facts Rebuff Idea Of Big Recession From Energy Shortage

By GEORGE BRYANT, JR.

As a people, we like our news dished up in superlatives—the biggest, the best, the tallest, the fastest and , especially, the worst. This stuff gets us, even when we know it probably won't wash.

It's well to have this trait in mind in following developments on the energy front. Otherwise, it will be hard to escape the impression that 1974 will be a time of economic calamity—a year of recession or, even, of depression.

Available facts seem to indicate that no such miserable year lies ahead. Sure, with fuel short there will be lots of inconveniences. Homes and offices will be cooler and there will be less leisure driving and less hauling of kids hither and yon. And there will be individual hardship, too. Some businesses will fold. Some jobs will be lost. Profits will suffer. The pinch of inflation will continue and may worsen.

But looked at in overall terms, these things don't add up to a sudden swing from the greatest boom ever to "hard times," as the term is generally used. For perspective, it is helpful to push aside the "dire" interpretations being made of forecasts and consider the range of actual projections.

Start with the "best" being forecast by the better known economists, in and out of government. This pictures 1974 as another year of growth, actually topping the lofty records for this year. True, the rate of growth would slow. But, and note this, the slowing would be from a rate which most observers have agreed could not be maintained under any conditions.

The "worst" predicted is an economy which would actually dip below this year—become the "second highest" ever. Officially, a recession occurs when the gross national product (measure of all goods and services produced) registers an actual decline for two quarters in a row. Such a "recession" was scored in 1971, which, if you recall, was not a really bad year.

Thus, whatever economic settling takes place is expected to wind up somewhere between another, but less frothy, "biggest" year ever and the "second" best year. As of now, the odds seem to be on the side of continued growth next year, but at a rate well short of this year's upward rush.

Other than in the fields of housing and autos there is as yet little signs of an economic slowdown. In fact, the Commerce Department's list of leading business indicators scored a rise in October. The National Association of Purchasing Management reports that only 13 percent of its members say the first quarter of 1974 will be slower than the current quarter. The trend of business investment in the plant and equipment is still sharply up.

There will be big additions to the spending stream next year. Federal spending will shoot up another $20-billion or so and other billions will flow to the public in bigger social security checks—a living cost boost not fully offset by new taxes.

Thus, while the energy shortage will be exerting a considerable down pressure, new stimulants will be introduced into the economy. This adds up to a bad inflationary outlook. There will be developing shortages with demand running strong.

The role of politics in the 1974 economy should not be overlooked. It's major contribution will be to increase uncertainties. Watergate has given the Democrats a heavy club. They will try to increase any advantage they now have by capitalizing on fears of an economic breakdown.

ment we have now we get more results in Europe. But we do have letters from the United States and Canada, showing that it gets there too. We've even gotten letters from Japan — in Portuguese."

Vietnam, the Falkland Islands, Iceland, Central Africa and New Zealand have been some of the unlikely places which have also responded.

This promises to expand next year when new transmitters are installed.

Radio Nacional has just signed a $15-million contract to import 12 transmitters from a Swiss firm. This includes a 500-kilowatt giant which will make Brazil more competitive in the international "war" for short wave listening audiences.

A typical program has popular Brazilian music, news, and a "people and places" look at Brazil. "We have no religious, philosophical or political propaganda," the directors say.

"We cannot offer listeners gold pens or trips to Brazil in promotional drawings as some stations do. Our promotional system is to reply to each and every one of the 500 letters which reach us every month."

Three Die-Hard Demos 'Fired' By Corporation

By JOHN KILGO

Three die-hard Democrats, who worked in a political manner for Cameron Financial Corp., will be out of work at the end of the month and they're still undecided about what they'll do.

The three are Charlie H. Smith, Pete Ellington and Bill Hodge. They were based in Charlotte. Cameron Financial Corp. decided to tighten its belt several weeks ago, and the political threesome were among those who were told they'd be out of work come January 1.

"The three of us hope we can stay together in some capacity," Ellington told me, "but as of right now, we have nothing that looks promising."

Smith and Ellington are known for their political abilities—but both are highly controversial. When you work in politics as long as they have, you're going to make some enemies.

One Charlotte Democrat, asked to react to the firing of the three, said: "Marvelous, marvelous."

Smith and Ellington have been active in past gubernatorial campaigns and also in other state-wide races.

"The corporation let other people go, too," Ellington said, "but we three were the only ones that were newsworthy, or so it seems. Right now we're out on the street. Hopefully, something will break right for us in the next couple of weeks."

George Wallace will be coming to North Carolina to address a Democratic gathering in February—and it is hoped the Alabama Governor can heal some wounds and help unify the Party.

Many Wallace Democrats have been upset since the Party decreed a certain number of blacks, women and young people will serve as delegates and on important committees.

Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, for one, never misses an opportunity to say the Party must be an umbrella wide enough to take in the Wallace supporters. It will be interesting to see how the state's leading Democrats—especially those hoping for higher office—will react to Wallace's visit. One thing's for sure. None of them has forgotten that Wallace won the state's presidential primary.

Most politicians feel the Tar Heel Legislature, which convenes on Jan. 16, will be ready to leave Raleigh by April 1. But even if the business is transacted that quickly, annual sessions are no sure thing. There is strong sentiment among some legislators to meet every other year—and the gas shortage is expected to boot their argument.

Americans Are Less Satisfied With Their Living Standards

By GEORGE GALLUP

(Copyright 1973, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Republication in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.)

PRINCETON, N. J.—In terms of expressed satisfaction with their standard of living, Americans are worse off today than they were a decade ago, with 71 per cent saying they are satisfied today compared with 77 per cent in 1963.

The findings were recorded in a recent nationwide survey which also shows a decline in job satisfaction—from 85 per cent in 1963 to 79 per cent today. In terms of income, 64 per cent expressed satisfaction in 1963, but 61 per cent do so today. Fewer say they are satisfied with the education being received by their children—61 per cent today compared to 66 per cent 10 years ago.

Only satisfaction with housing shows no downtrend, with 72 per cent in 1963 expressing satisfaction with their housing compared to 74 per cent today.

But Levels Remain High

Despite the downtrend in satisfaction with material well-being, these levels nevertheless remain high.

However, the high levels of satisfaction among Americans in terms of standard of living contrast with growing dissatisfaction regarding moral climate of this country and with increasing discouragement concerning the future. These survey findings provide further evidence that material well-being in the United States has not brought contentment.

In a current survey, the percentage of Americans who say they are satisfied with the honesty and standards of behavior of people has declined from an already low 34 per cent 10 years ago to 22 per cent today. In addition, the percentage who express satisfaction about he future facing themselves and their families has declined from 64 per cent in 1963 to 53 per cent today.

Blacks Gained During Last 10 Years; '16-'73

Blacks made significant strides over the last decade in terms of expressed satisfaction with basic circumstances of their lives, yet the gap between blacks and whites remains wide.

For example, the percentage of blacks satisfied with the housing, work, standard of living and income is currently 20 to 30 points lower in each instance than in the case of whites.

Blacks, too, are more discouraged than whites about the standards of honesty in the country and are more pessimistic than are whites regarding the future facing themselves and their families.

Following is the question asked:

"On the whole, would you say you are satisfied or dissatisfied with the work you do. . . your housing situation. . .your standard of living. . .your family income. . .your children's education. . .the honesty and standards of behavior of people in this country today. . .the future facing you and your family?"

The southeastern part of North Carolina

Hard Hit By Fuel Shortage

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Southeastern North Carolina has been particularly hard hit by the fuel shortage. Officials and oil jobbers blame the federal allocation system, and distances to pipelines.

In its rural counties, whose economies rely on agriculture and fishing, cutbacks in the availability of kerosene and diesel fuel hit home especially hard. Jobbers say many of their customers heat with kerosene, and fishermen use diesel fuel to power their boats.

In Pamlico County, filling stations can't get enough gasoline and are closed not only on Sunday, but often two other days a week as well. The plight of Pamlico is repeated throughout the southeastern part of the state.

"We were given 60 per cent of what we got last December in kerosene," said W. M. Baker, co-owner of E&B Oil Company of Pender County. "That knocked a lot of people for a loop. I've got a big business in kerosene."

Baker said reductions have had a major impact on new residents who did not have delivery contracts last year. He is the local coordinator in charge of helping new customers find distributors, but says that in about six cases "I've just had to turn them away." Many of his service station customers close on Sunday and Wednesday, he said.

The diesel fuel cutbacks threaten to disrupt the fishing industry after the New Year. Fishermen said that although present supplies are adequate, suppliers have warned that after Jan. 1 they cannot promise sufficient fuel.

"If they cut us 25 per cent they might as well cut us out," said Captain Dick Skipper of Southport. "That's what the dealer is talking about. We'll just have to go out of business."

In January, many fishermen who usually take out deep sea fishing tourists turn to commercial fishing for about three months until the visitors return. This year, fuel shortages are keeping many of them in port.

"Those that are gearing up (for commercial fishing) are experiencing problems," said Jackie Stevenson of the Brunswick County resources office. "Some are just not bothering to gear up."

Energy Crisis Threatens Japanese "Strip" Culture

By LEONARD PRATT
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — The worsening energy crisis has threatened to end one of Japan's unique television institutions — after-midnight strip shows.

For the past two years, anybody willing to stay up late enough to watch variety shows like the top-ranked "Ginza Night" have been treated to exotic topless dances along with the singers, comedians and whisky ads.

The shows feature dancers from the world over, and just about anything goes. Though they raised a controversy when they were first aired, the shows have become major drawing cards for the late-night programs.

But the world oil crisis that cut Japan's crude oil imports some 18 per cent may change all that. To pare down energy consumption, the government last month appealed to television stations to stop broadcasting after midnight.

Most stations have said they will probably go along with the halt, though not immediately.

Hiroshi Uda, chief editor of the Tokyo Broadcasting System, Japan's largest private network, said the company plans to continue late programming through the year-end holidays.

But Uda added "we regard the present situation as a national crisis in which everyone should cooperate with the government. We cannot indefinitely continue our programs and consume vast amounts of electricity."

Insomniac dance enthusiasts, however, wonder if they couldn't sacrifice some earlier variety shows with less variety.

Trailways Strike Seen Possible

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Unionized drivers say they plan to strike Carolina Trailways at midnight Sunday unless agreement on a new contract is reached. A strike would affect bus service in five states: North Carolina, Delaware, Maryland, Virginia and Pennsylvania.

Berkley Newbill, president and business agent of Local 1437 of the Amalgamated Transit Union, said Friday that the 350 unionized drivers were striking cost of living clauses and other fringe benefits, "but basically it's wages." He said they now earn $17.70 for each 100 miles driven, and are seeking $19, $20 and $21 on a graduated basis in a three-year contract. He said the company's final offer was $18.40, $18.85 and $19.30.

Local Kiwanians Rallying Others

The University City Kiwanis Club here last week adopted a resolution—designed to be circulated among Kiwanis Clubs throughout the state for their endorsement—supporting the establishmen of an additional four-year state supported medical school in North Carolina.

The resolution said the club "deeply regrets the absence of primary medical care in many communities of our State," and recognizes that the establishment of an additional major physician-training facility also represents one of the highest priorities in the opinion of most North Carolina citizens."

Saying that immediate action is required to alleviate the health care problem, the resolution emphasized that "numerous qualified North Carolina students are unable to find positions available in present medical schools."

The resolution continued: "The Kiwanis Club further feels that the North Carolina General Assembly can provide adequate funds for this badly needed public service with a fraction of the currently projected state revenue surplus," and "therefore. . .an additional four-year medical school is the most progressive method of improving primary medical care and. . .the best and most economical means of serving the medical needs of North Carolina.

"We recommend and support the immediate expansion of the East Carolina University School of Medicine to a full four-year degree granting program" the resolution concluded.

One of New Mexico's governors under Spanish rule had a name that was more than a mouthful—Don Diego de Vargas Zapata Lujan Ponce de Leon y Contrerras.

Telemetry Study Is Launched On The Golden Eagle

By MARCUS NEWTON
Greeley Tribune Writer

FORT COLLINS, Colo. (AP) — Bouncing along in a four-wheel-drive vehicle on a prairie cowpath in Northeastern Colorado, the driver stops and points to a couple of black spots on a hill a half-mile in the distance.

The spots on the hill are golden eagles, some of the biggest, most graceful and most beautiful birds of prey in the world.

Making the sighting of the birds is Al Harmata, 29-year-old graduate student in wildlife biology at Colorado State University here.

Harmata has been bouncing around the cow trails for the past four months working on a telemetry study of the golden eagle. As a part of his graduate research at CSU, Harmata has been placing small radio transmitters on the young birds, then tracking the sound emissions in an attempt to answer some questions that have long baffled raptor experts.

In cooperation with the Colorado Division of Wildlife, Harmata is seeking answers to questions on productivity, density and mortality. Mortality rate among young golden eagles is high — some 60-70 per cent never reach adulthood.

At present, Harmata has transmitters on four birds. And he's proved through his tracking that the young birds indeed return to the nest after they first fledge. He recently discovered two young eagles back in their nest a week after they first left it. Raptor experts had suspected this was so.

But the magnificent golden eagles are only a part of the story. The rest concerns Harmata, a New Jersey native who has lived in Colorado for a year.

For Harmata, the eagle study has been especially satisfying. First, because he is finding out some things about the birds that may enable the Colorado Division of Wildlife to cut into the high mortality rate through management.

And second, because Harmata is a double amputee. As a result of his service in the Vietnam war, he lost an arm and a leg. He was fitted with an artificial leg in January 1968, some six months after his injury.

"The most important thing that happened to me at home was that my family didn't treat me like I was different," Harmata recalled. "I was married in August of 1968 to the girl I had dated since high school. My wife, Martha, got me going. She wouldn't let me just lie around."

And Harmata did "get going."

He had always liked working with animals. When he was discouraged from undertaking a career as a veterinarian because of his disability, Harmata decided on a biology major. He obtained a Bachelor of Science degree in biology in 1972.

Becoming more interested in wildlife, Harmata decided to do graduate study and settled on CSU because of the varied opportunities for research.

When the idea for a telemetry study (radio tracking) came up, he decided it would "just have to be with eagles."

"Eagles symbolize freedom and arrogance...and they are so vulnerable to man," Harmata said.

Now, studying the golden eagle is not like doing research in the library. The big birds are crafty, wary and far-ranging. Since they won't come to man for study, man must go to them. That means lots of days and lots of miles traveling the cow paths, observing, learning, planning, hiking and climbing.

"I've found out that I can do all these things," Harmata said. "Sure, it takes me a little longer...but I can do it."

Miss Speir To Memphis

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—Miss Christie Speir, a sophomore at the University of North Carolina, is one of 19 girls who have been invited to participate in the Maid of Cotton competition. Selection of "Miss Maid of Cotton" will be held Dec. 27 and 28 in Memphis.

The 19-year-old contestant is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Speir of Bethel, N.C. She is majoring in political science at UNC, where she is student representative to the faculty, student legislature representative and a member of the Governor's Youth Advisory Board.

Miss Speir is a graduate of North Pitt High School. Her high school activities include serving as Student Body president, delegate to the White House Conference on DChildren, National Conference on Prevention of Juvenile Delinquency, and a member of the Honor Society.

The only other North Carolinian in the finals is Virginia Reinhardt, 21, of Gastonia. Whe is a senior at the University of South Carolina.

The girl chosen as the 1974 Maid of Cotton will make her first appearance at the Cotton Bowl in Dallas, Tex. on Jan. 1 prior to the International Goodwill Tour for American Cotton Industry.

Tutors Back To School

NEW YORK (AP) — Teenagers who had long envied the role of their teachers in the classroom have completed an assignment in which they served as tutors for youngsters in 20 cities across the country.

The 1,500 high school students, enrolled in various youth programs including the Neighborhood Youth Corps, spent eight weeks helping teach thousands of preschoolers through the use of television's "Sesame Street."

The teen-age tutors worked with youngsters in day care and Headstart centers and special Sesame Street viewing centers established in schools, storefronts, private homes and public housing projects in poor neighborhoods.

The tutors used a curriculum developed by the Children's Television Workshop, creators and producers of the TV series, that consisted of play-type activity geared to preparing the youngsters for entry into elementary school. After watching Sesame Street each day, the preschoolers and teen-agers participated in games and songs that reinforced the lessons contained in the day's TV show.

The unique youth-tutoring-youth program was sponsored by municipal agencies and youth organizations in the various cities.

Sometimes Act Like Airplanes

CHICAGO (UPI) — Nighthawks looking for mates sometimes act like airplanes.

In courtship, according to the Encyclopedia Britanica, this bird plunges toward earth and pulls out of the dive with a loud "zoom" as air rushes through its quills—all in the interest of mating.

Funds Granted For Continuing 4 Police Clubs

Funds for the contiunation of three juvenile police club projects in Pitt County were included in a $99,900 grant from the U. S. Justice Department's Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, through the Mid-East Criminal Justice Division this week.

The $99,900 grant was made to continue juvenile police club programs in five municipalities in the five-county Mid-East region.

Law enforcement agencies receiving grant funds included Greenville Police Department ($21,647), Washington Police Department ($28,519), Williamston Police Department ($26,506), Grifton Police Department ($12,307) and Ayden Police Department ($10,948).

These police club programs were begun in 1971 as a public relations and juvenile crime prevention project. The program consists of recreational activities for juveniles. These activities are organized by police officers and the director of each program is a sworn police officer.

During the next twelve month period, efforts will be made to involve deliquents and pre-delinquent juveniles in the program. Through diversion activities and behavior modification it is hoped that the number of criminals in the future will be decreased.

Through monitoring the project quarterly, it has been found that during the past year, the number of juvenile crimes has decreased 54 per cent in the areas of police club programs as compared to the same twelve-month period the previous year, according to Ted Shaw, Mid-East Criminal Justice Division Planner.

Lusitanaia was the name of the westernmost of the three provinces the Romans established in the Iberian peninsula.

Christmas Tree Safety Advice By Fire Dept.

The Greenville Fire Department's Fire Prevention Bureau has compiled some fire-safety suggestions for the Christmas season which they hope local residents will follow and prevent fires from erupting to spoil the holiday season for any local family.

Fire Chief Ray Smith emphasized that candles or open flames should not be used on or around Christmas trees or other decorations. He said only electrical lighting that has been approved by Underwriters Laboratories should be used on trees and other decorations.

The fire official cautioned that light strings should be checked for frayed wires and loose sockets and noted that all cords should be equipped with an on-off switch located away from the tree. Avoid using receptacles under the tree.

Tree needles should be inspected periodically to determine if they are dried or discolored by the heat from the lights.

According to Chief Smith, when Christmas trees are purchased, they should not be brittle and dried out. Trees should be kept outdoors and in water until set up in the home.

The tree trunk should be cut at an angle so it can absorb more water to stay fresher, and water should be added to the container daily.

Trees should not be placed near passageways—because of the possibility of them being knocked over or the possibility of fire blocking the passageway—or near fireplace, the fire official suggested.

And support wires should be attached to trees to prevent them from tilting over.

If you prefer not to have a live Christmas tree and choose, instead to use an artificial tree, "be sure it is flameproof," Chief Smith noted. And he cautioned about using lighting sets with larger bulbs or more bulbs than recommended by the manufacturers of artificial trees.

To prevent electrical shock, lighting sets should not be used on metal trees, according to the offical.

All electrical decorations should be turned off before going to bed or leaving the house, Chief Smith emphasized.

After presents are opened, "dispose of Christmas wrappings immediately, the chief suggested. However, "they should not be burned in the fireplace or allowed to accumulate in the house," he warned.

Chief Smith warned too, that flamabel dolls, toys and clothing should be avoided with purchasing gifts.

Jardin

LUXURY, DIGNITY LAYER FRENCH PROVINCIAL

By Gerry Bishop

Reminiscent of a French country home, the "Jardin" assumes a quiet dignity in its facade and responds with a gentle luxury inside. Five generous bedrooms, two and one half baths, and double fireplaces are featured.

Sheathed in clinker brick and roofed with red cedar shake shingles, the exterior of the "Jardin" is distinguished by its arched entrance, iron railing and carriage lights. Entry is across the veranda and into the gracious foyer with immediate access to living and sleeping areas.

Glowing wood-burning fireplaces brighten the rooms directly beyond the foyer. Substantial sunken living room and slightly smaller family room both merit sliding glass doors to the semicircular terrace, and the family room also fringes a convenient half bath. Either or both of the rooms can be utilized for entertaining, with terrace annex accommodating large groups. Within reach of the family room is the functional kitchen, which assigns a casual dining area.

Bedrooms are arranged in what at first seems a random fashion, with three bedrooms lining the left side of the plan, one open to the foyer, and one behind the double garage. In fact, however, the layout is a useful one, with privacy afforded the three left bedrooms, which include a luxurious master bedroom suite with private bath, dressing area and double closets. The bedroom bordering the foyer would serve as an ideal home office, playroom or television room, and the bedroom behind the garage, edged by a half bath, is an excellent choice for guest quarters.

LUXERY SHAPES THE EXTERIOR AND ARRANGES THE FLOOR PLAN IN THIS FIVE BEDROOM FRENCH PROVINCIAL

Size: 2,522 sq. ft. first floor; 2,522 sq. ft. basement; 546 sq. ft. garage.
Over-all dimensions: 74 ft. by 52 ft.

ON THE HOUSE

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

There isn't much doubt that, among the various types of houses available, the two-story ranks first in the matter of economy.

If you have, let us say, $40,000 to spend for a house, you can get more habitable space for that amount than you can in a split-level, a bi-level or a ranch. That's because it's always a little less expensive to build vertically than horizontally, assuming that similar-price materials are used.

This, though, is not the only consideration in the selection of a house. If it were, we'd all be living in two-story houses, whereas the truth is that ranch residences, with all the rooms on one floor, are the best sellers.

A house should fit a family's life style. People consider many factors when making their choices. And very often they are forced to compromise with their original ideas — as, for instance, when the proximity and quality of schools are more important than large kitchens or family rooms.

Some persons prefer bedrooms on the second floor; some want to avoid stair-climbing; some want each room to be a separate entity; some like the open-plan concept, which creates visual spaciousness and on and on.

Builders want to construct houses that sell. Since ranch houses have been outselling all others, more ranches are being built. And because more ranches are being built, more persons are buying them. But entirely aside from this cycle process, the persons who deal in custom-built houses — architects — confirm the popularity of the ranches. Yet thousands of persons continue to demand two-stories or bi-levels or split-levels because they are better suited to their needs.

A good compromise for families who want a modest-size house but expect additional residents later on is the one and a half-story house. This type of house has everything initially required on the ground level floor, but has an expansion attic that can be finished by the owners when necessary.

Basements are considered a necessity by many familes, not only for their potential as recreational or livable areas, but because they are such spacious storage portions of houses. Yet thousands of families, especially in the warm-climate sections, get along well without them. One advantage of the bi-level, sometimes called a high ranch, is that the basement is far enough out of the ground to permit full windows, making the space more habitable than a regular basement.

In any case, the message is clear: select a house that fits your needs rather than a type that has been recommended to you by a family with a different life style.

(If you're a do-it-yourselfer, you'll want a copy of Andy Lang's handbook, "Practical Home Repairs," available by sending $1 to this newspaper at Box 5, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.)

Q. What is the best soil for pansy plants? (D. E., Charlotte)

A. Pansies do well in a cool, fairly moist soil. If your soil is not naturally fertile, add such as bark shavings, peat moss, compost. Mix well to a depth of six inches. Be sure to select a site that is well drained—pansies will not tolerate wet feet. And, pansies grow best in full sun. When you set plants, be certain that the crown is above ground. (Henry J. Smith, extension landscape horticulturist)

Q. Each year some of our Irish potatoes have a brown streak running from the stem through the potato. The part of the potato not streaked is hard and will not cook soft. What is the problem? (G. B., Greensboro)

A. Brown streaks in potatoes can be caused by several things, but if you grew the potatoes I suspect it is a condition known as "netnecrosis." This disease is caused by fusarium— a fungus found in most soils. On the other hand, the problem could be a virus disease called "leaf roll." This disease would have been present in the tubers you planted. (A. A. Banadyga., extension horticulturist)

Energy Crisis For Every Home

By DOROTHEA M. BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — The energy crisis, unlike some headline-making news, is one that hits home. Every home.

It behooves each homeowner to do what he can to save energy—fuel oil, heting gas, electricity. If he doesn't, it won't be a faceless "somebody" that suffers the consequences. It will be his own family.

From the experts come a welter of tips on how to keep warm using less fuel, how to use appliances most efficiently.

"The single most effective way in which to save heating fuel without sacrificing comfort is to install a humidifier that puts from 15 to 25 gallons of moisture into the air each day," according to John P. Farrell, marketing manager of the Tappan Air Conditioning Division, Elyria, Ohio.

Evaporation Reduced

"Installation of a humidifier, in conjunction with the government recommendation for turning down your thermostat six degrees, could save the homeowner as much as 25 per cent of his fuel bill, while maintaining a lower but acceptable level of comfort. A humidifier, alone, could save 15 per cent of that," Farrell said.

He explained the physiological reactions and laws of physics governing this. "Perspiration evaporating from the skin cools the body. The rate of evaporation and, consequently, cooling of the body, is much higher when the humidity is very low. By increasing the humidity in the house, the rate of evaporation is reduced and the body's natural cooling mechanism slowed."

Farrell recommended also the following general practices for conservation of heat and fuel:

—Wear warmer clothing and turn down the thermostat a few extra degrees.

—Turn the thermostat still lower at night, when you go to bed;

—Install storm windows;

—Caulk and weatherstrip all windows and doors against leaks;

Add Insulation

Guy O. Mabry, vice president of Owens-Corning Fiberglas Corp., says adding insulation to a poorly insulated home can lower home heating costs by as much as 30 per cent—for savings of more than $100 a year for the owner of an average size home in an area with moderate winter temperatures.

Mabry explained insulation is measured in terms of "R" value, standing for thermal resistance. The higher the "R" rating, the greater the insulating effect.

Thickness, he noted, is not a good measurement standard "because a 3 ½-inch fiber glass blanket insulates as well as a 9-inch-thick wood wall, a 4 ½-foot thick brick wall or an 11-foot thick stone wall.

Heat Travels Upward

Attics, he stressed, are the first place to be insulated since heat travels upward and is easily lost without a good "top" to keep it inside the house.

In addition to the attic floor—easy to insulate since it usually is unfinished—a do-it-yourselfer can insulate basement walls, garage walls that adjoin the house, the ceiling of any unfinished space below living space. In paneling a room, insulation can be installed on any outside walls. In addition, insulation can be tucked into baseboard cracks, space around window frames, pipes where they come through wall or floor, baseboard electrical outlets.

Adjust Water Level

Even though the energy required to run home appliances represents only about 5 per cent of all energy used in the country today, homemakers can help reduce this amount with the proper use of appliances and the application of a little thought and some old-fashioned "elbow-grease," say the experts at the Maytag Co., Newton, Iowa.

Maytag notes the water level and temperature controls on clothes washers, used properly, can conserve energy and water.

Adjust water level to the size of the load. Too much water for a small load is wasteful, but too little water for a large load will result in clothes that are not clean.

While it is generally recommended that white clothes be washed in hot water, the homemaker who is willing to "pretreat" soiled areas, will be pleased with the results given by warm water.

For clothes that are slightly soiled, a reduced wash cycle will conserve time and energy.

Wash Full Load

In using a dryer, be sure to remove clothes when they have a little moisture in them. And don't let a load tumble on and on. Be on hand to remove clothes when they're finished. Check venting and lint filters to be sure they are not obstructed.

In using dishwashers, conserve hot water by washing only a full load, Maytag suggests. For many families this can mean once a day washing.

Dishes tht are air dried are just as nice as those power-dried so this is another chance for a savings. When possible, eliminate the dry cycle.

The water heater should be set for 140-150 degrees, the temperature range for most efficient operation. Insulating all hot water pipes helps reduce heat loss, also.

Real Estate

INTEREST DOWN—COST UP

Are you waiting until interest rates drop before you buy a home? Do you think that this will save you money? The home you have your eye on will cost you more in monthly payments two years from now - even if the interest rate drops one percent.

For example, take a home that costs $25,000. With a 20 percent down payment and financed with a 25 year, 8½ percent mortgage, the monthly payment would be $161.00. But two years from now, if prices keep rising at the average rate, the now $25,000 home would likely cost $28,000. If, miraculously, the interest rate decreased to 7½ percent, not only would the down payment be $600 more, but the monthly payment would increase to $165.54. If the interest rate stayed at 8½ percent, the payment would come to $180.32.

So, it's obvious that the overall value of the home - not the interest rate - makes the biggest impact on your monthly payment.

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q. — We have a blacktop driveway that needs patching in a few places. I have some cement patching compound that was left over from a job in a previous house. Can I use it to patch the blacktop?

A. — Save the cement compound for patching concrete. It won't stick well to blacktop.

Q. — Is there any advantage to getting a flexible mortgage, where the interest rates are changed as money marketing conditions change?

A. — There is if interest rates go down. There's a disadvantage if interest rates go up. In the first case, the rate on your mortgage would be reduced. In the second case, the rate would rise.

Q. — Can you tell me something about the merits and demerits of sprayed polyurethane foam as a roofing material?

A. — It would take far more space to go into this subject than I have available. A study of the pros and cons of polyurethane roofing was carried out by the National Bureau of Standards and is available for 75 cents prepaid from the Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington D.C. 20402.

Amateur Diggers Find Relics Of Ancient Indians

HUNTING CLUES TO PAST—In their little roped-off plot, members of a family dig for artifacts dating back to a rather obscure tribe of Indians who were the first real settlers of Kansas City. (UPI Telephoto)

By PATRICK A. MALONE

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — In a nondescript little valley tucked into rolling plains north of the Missouri River, amateur archaeologists are having a great time digging into America's past.

Armed with shovels, garden trowels and an occasional picinc basket, families join young couples, cub scout dens and college students every Saturday for a day of digging into ancient history.

"Beware: Digging is extremely contagious!" warns the brochure on the Searcy Creek Archaeological Site prepared by the Kansas City Parks and Recreation Department. And contagious is the word.

The subject of all the interest is rather obscure tribe of Indians known as the Hopewell. The first real settlers of the Kansas City region, the Hopewells, lived in the area from about 100 B.C. to 700 A.D., subsisting on corn agriculture supplemented by fishing, hunting and gathering wild plants.

The Hopewell Indians lived in round houses constructed from saplings, skins and mud. Archaeologists say they placed great emphasis on burying the dead in earth mounds and made "superb development" of pottery and stone carving.

Dr. Alfred Johnson, professor of anthropology at the University of Kansas and curator of anthropology at the school's natural history museum, has been pleasantly surprised by this experiment in "public archaeology," believed to be the first of its kind in the country.

When the program was first announced this fall, Johnson asked to be allowed to supervise the amateurs along with a contingent of his students for fear that an unsupervised dig would quickly become an exercise in sanctioned vandalism.

"We've found, however, that they really want to do it the right way and really work to preserve the artifacts," the professor said in an interview at the dig.

"Sure," he added, "They're destroying lots of evidence. They are not, after all, professionals."

But this public dig is accomplishing something because in another year the site will be destroyed by excavation crews building a new freeway. The public is thus being used as cheap, quick labor to salvage all that's possible from the site —and having fun doing it. Other sites in the Kansas City area not in immediate danger are being excavated much more carefully.

The amateurs are taught to excavate small parcels of the site marked off every few feet into squares. Once beneath the sod, digging proceeds painstakingly with small pointed trowels and a sieve made of wire screen to separate clods of mud from artifacts such as chips of pottery, arrowheads, axes, tools and an occasional pipe or bead.

The site is really nothing more than an ancient garbage dump, Dr. Johnson noted, but by careful excavation and cataloguing of the contents, much can be learned about the Hopewell life.

When one tousle-haired boy dug up a rock that turned out to be the heel of an ax, an excited Dr. Johnson carried the specimen from group to group, where fascinated listeners heard the story of how an ancient ax was formed and used.

Just one such find is enough to get everyone digging more eagerly than ever.

Carves A Reputation With Wooden Figures

By ROBERT O'MEARA
Associated Press Writer

CLAM LAKE, Wis. (AP) — Jerry Holter has carved a reputation that extends far beyond this northern Wisconsin village.

His crossroads country store hosts an assemblage of historic figures, animals and birds that he has chiseled from native pine. But Holter is no backwoods whittler. He says he has received up to 400 letters a week from people all over the country who have heard of or read about his hand-hewn creations.

"I guess people are fed up with all the artificial, machine-made things on the market today," the 43-year old Holter said.

He credits some of the current interest in his wooden statues to the nostalgic longing for a simpler age when artisans, working only with hand tools, spent days, weeks, or even months, on one product.

Holter carves likenesses of Indians, bears, and eagles, inspired by this land of lakes, forests, rivers and tourists.

Walk into Jerry's combination service station, general store, curio shop and art museum and you're slightly overwhelmed by the stern-visaged group near the door. Eight-foot tall Indians stare down at you. Rampant bears paw the air above your head.

Each figure is carved from a single log of white pine about 90 inches in circumference. The logs, as knot-free as possible, are obtained from timber cutters within a few miles of this southern Ashland County community.

"I stand the log up and don't do anything with it for two or three weeks," Holter said. "I just keep looking at it every once in a while, trying to get a mental picture of what I want to make of it. Then it's just a simple matter of removing the wood I don't want."

The long winters give Holter plenty of opportunity to chisel wood. He said one statue requires about a month of carving, working daily from 5 a.m. to 10 p.m.

Then he takes two or three weeks off from his woodwork before starting another.

Holter began carving when he took lessons in violin-making from an itinerant teacher in his native Rockford, Ill. He never went the way of Antonio Stradivari, but Holter clung to his interest in wood carving.

"In those days, if you wanted a toy, you made it," he said. "We made our own wagons, guns, everything."

Brownies Hold Christmas Party

Brownie Troop No. 355 of Eastern Elementary School and Brownie Troop No. 89 of Wahl-Coats Elementary School entertained the visually-handicapped adults of Pitt County at a Christmas party Thursday at the Elm Street Recreation Center.

Members of the two troops sang Christmas songs prior to serving refreshments to the guests.

At the conclusion of the party, each guest was presented a potted green plant and a plate of sweet treats.

Alice Keene is coordinator of the visually-handicapped adults in Pitt County.

One reason why beef prices rose during the first half of 1973 was the decrease in pork supplies from five to seven per cent.

Program To Be By Pupils

The Fifth and Sixth Year Chorus of Wahl-Coates Elementary School will present a Christmas program for the December meeting of the P. T. A. on Thursday Evening, December 13, at 7:30 p.m.

A play, entitled "Gold, Frankincense and Myrhh" will precede the musical part of the program. The characters are portrayed by Robert Capwell, Bill Cobb, Eric Lee, Blair Smith, Jim O'Brien, John Hendrix, William Frizzell, Mark Martinez, Michael Wallace, William Peterson, Chuck Bennet, Duane Pitt, Paul MacMillan, Troy Perkins. Jeri Bullock and Mickey McGrath . In charge of the sets are Mrs. Betsy Markowski, Mrs. Chiyoko Hay, and Mrs. Jane Keller. In charge of making costumes, were Mrs. Janice Luper and Mrs. Phyllis Smith. Accompanist for the chorus is Mrs. William Cain, and Mrs. Patrice Winstead is assisting the director, Mrs. Vivian Beach. The public is invited to attend.

East Carolina Blasts Davidson By 104-91

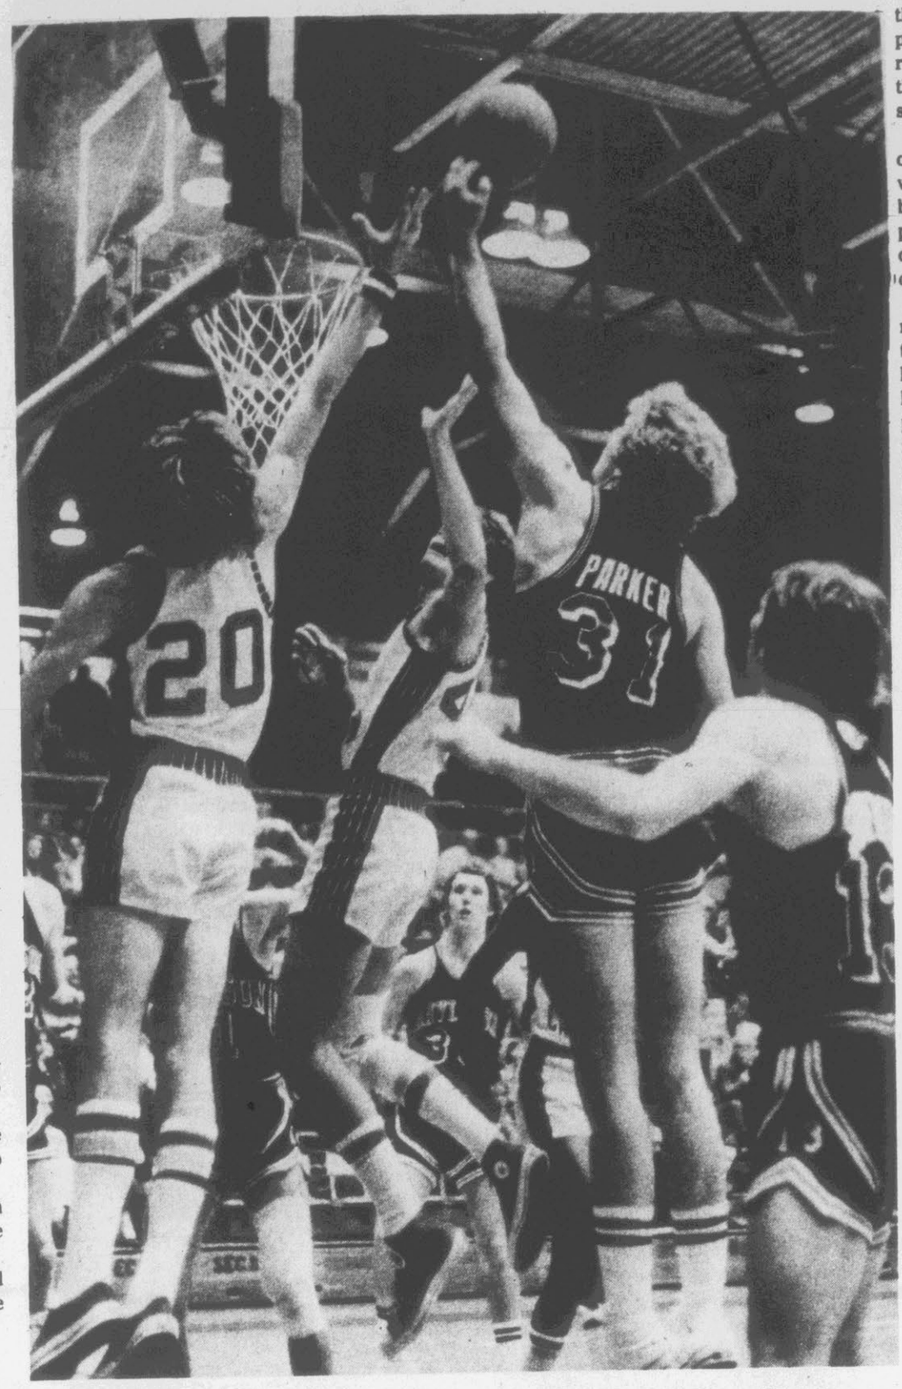
By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Nicky White poured in 20 points in the second half to pace East Carolina University's hustling Pirates to a 104-91 victory over Southern Conference co-favorite Davidson last night.

White ended the game with a high of 32 to lead the Bucs to their first Southern Conference win of the year, and set Davidson down in their league opener.

Roger Atkinson came on with 13 points in the half, all his production, and got a key steal with 4:10 to go, after Davidson had rallied from 17 points down to close within three.

Atkinson's steal upped the Pirate lead to 90-85, and 30 seconds later, White hit again from underneath, and the Bucs time-after-time opened the back door for easy baskets. Atkinson them came back with a three-point play with 2:24 showing to run the lead back out to 10, and that slammed the door on the stunned Wildcats.



WHO WILL GET IT?—East Carolina and Davidson players go up for the rebound in last night's Southern Conference game in Minges Coliseum. Fighting for the ball are ECU's Greg Ashorn (20), and Tom Marsh (right of Ashorn) and Davidson's Sheldon Parker (31). Watching the play are Paul Wagoner (32), Jay Powell (11), Greg Dunn (33) and Mike Sorentino (13) of Davidson. The Pirates won the game, 104-91. (Reflector photo by Tommy Forrest)

Davidson was playing without one of its starters, T.J. Pacorak, who sat out the contest with a bruised heel. But his presence probably would have made little difference to the Bucs who outhustled Davidson all the way.

The fact that the Bucs got so many easy shots was shown by their shooting percentage. They hit on 24 of 29 shots in the second half, for an outstanding 82.8 percent, and had 70.5 per cent for the game, hitting 59.4 in the first half.

Davidson, which shot a fine 57.7 per cent, just didn't plan on coping with such phenominal shooting. The rebounding was almost even, with the Bucs holding a 24-22 edge in that. Only at the free throw line was Davidson able to beat out the Pirates, as they hit on 33 of 38 fouls, while the Bucs made 18 of 28.

Oddly enough, however, three members of the Davidson team fouled out, while none of the Pirates did. Reggie Lee was the only one to get four.

The Bucs defense was like glue, forcing Davidson to do things it didn't want to, and that helped the Pirate cause too. The Bucs constantly hustled, putting on a display that brought a standing ovation from the small crowd in attendance as they finally left the floor late in the game for substitutes.

Throughout the first half of the game, the going was close. Davidson ripped off a five point lead before the Pirates finally scored. They got all five points from Larry Horowitz, who got a basket, then was fouled seconds later, getting two free throws. Coach Tom Quinn was slapped with a technical for protesting the call, and Horowitz added that.

But Robert Geter hit from underneath, and Reggie Lee made a three point play to tie it up, and White hit from the baseline to put the Bucs ahead, 7-5.

Davidson pushed back ahead on a jumper by Horowitz to tie it and a drive by John Falconi with 15:55 to go. They stretched that to as much as six, 15-9 on a three-point play by Falconi with 14:22 left, but again, East Carolina fought back, finally tieing it when Kenny Edmonds stole the ball for a quick break basket by Buzzy Braman at 15-15. Braman got another basket on a goal-tending call to put the Bucs back in front, and Braman stole the ball on the in-bounds play to put the lead out to four, 19-15.

Davidson came back to tie it up at 19-19, then gained a 22-21 lead. They held that, moving out by five, 28-23, before the Pirates came back again to tie it up, then swapped the lead until a four-point play by Geter ran it to 37-34. (This year, it is a two-shot foul for moving under an airborne player.) The Bucs led by as much as five, 43-38, but Davidson rallied and finally tied it up on two free throws by Paul Wagner with just five seconds left, and it was 49-49 at halftime.

White put the Bucs back ahead, and after Davidson tied it once more, Braman hit for a 53-51 edge, and that was the last time Davidson was close. White and Atkinson both added baskets for a 57-51 lead, and after Davidson got another basket, White and Braman each scored to run the lead to 63-53 with 16:25 left.

It stayed right at that level until White hit from underneath, then Larry Hunt got a three point play on a drive to raise it to 15, 78-63. Three minutes later, Atkinson hit to run it to 86-69, but Davison put on a rally right there.

For the next few minutes, it looked like they might pull off a comeback, scoring 10 straight points to cut the lead to just seven. Jay Powell started it with a drive and Falconi made a basket and two free throws. Greg Dunn and Horowitz each scored to trim the lead to 84-77. Mike Sorentino followed with a steal to trim the lead to five with 7:19 left, and it looked as if the Bucs were in definite trouble.

But Geter stopped the string with a basket for the Bucs, and that stalled Davidson, but only briefly. Sorentino drove in again and Falconi made two free throws to trim the lead to three. Geter raised it to five, but two more free throws by Dunn cut it back to three, 88-85 with 4:53 left.

They got the ball back, and were moving to cut it to one when Atkinson stole the ball and raced down to up it to five. then followed White's shot, and Atkinson's three-pointer that upped it to 10 at 95-85 and all but ended it. Davidson closed to within seven once more, but that was it. East Carolina got three free throws from Donnie Owens and a final basket from White to up the lead to 11 with 30 seconds to go, 100-89.

Besides White's and Atkinson's outputs, Geter and Braman each had 14 points, while Owens had 13.

For Davidson. Falconi had 20, Powell had 15, Dunn had 14 and Sorentino had 10.

The Bucs, now 2-2 overall, will play host to Fairleigh-Dickinson on Thursday, seeking to climb above the .500 mark to successfully start a long road trip that will not end until January 14.

Cavs Beat Duke

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP)—Sophomore Wally Walker scored 25 points as Virginia's Cavaliers took an early lead and never trailed Saturday night in posting a 104-82 Atlantic Coast Conference basketball victory over Duke.

Backing Walker in Virginia's balanced attack were Gus Gerard and Bob McKeag, both with 18 points, Al Drummond with 15 and freshman Billy Langloh with 13. Gerard also had 13 rebounds.

The Cavaliers outshot the Blue Devils from the floor, hitting 57 per cent of their shots to 46 per cent for Duke.

Virginia also controlled the boards, grabbing 39 rebounds to 36 for the Blue Devils.

Bob Fleisher led Duke with 31 points and 15 rebounds while Willie Hodge added 14 points.

Virginia is now 2-1 over-all and 1-0 in the ACC while Duke is 2-1 and 0-1.

Add Two More Names To List

Two more candidates, bringing the number to five, were interviewed by East Carolina University on Friday, for the head coaching job in gootball.

The vacancy was created on Wednesday when Sonny Randle, who had been the head ECU coach, resigned to return to his alma mater, Virginia.

Randle took most of his staff with him, including the man many felt would take the job, Carl Reese. The fob was offered to him on Wednesday as soon as Randle's resignation was turned in, but he refused.

Since then, a number of names have been offered for the job, and Athletic Director Clarence Stasavich, chairman of a seven-man committee appointed by Chancellor Leo Jenkins, said that applications and recommendations continue to flood into his office.

The five believed to have been interviewed include the one remaining member of Randle's staff, Henry Trevathan, one of two alumni believed applying. The other alumnus said by reliable sources to have been interviewed is Clemson assistant Ed Emory.

One former ECU staff member, John Matlock, has also been interviewed, and along with Trevathan, is believed to be one of the top candidates.

Also interviewed have been University of North Carolina assistant Bobby Collins, and Glorida State assistant Jim Konnan, an N. C. State alumnus.

Several others are expected to be interviewed during the next few days, but Stasavich said he didn't know exactly how many the committee would call in for personal looks. One man believed to be coming in for an interview either today or Monday is Alabama assistant Pat Dey. Other people mentioned in connection with the job have been Furman Coach Art Baker, Elon Coach Red Wilson, and Bob Waters of Western Carolina University, But it could not be confirmed whether any of these had actually applied or would be interviewed.

The committee is hopeful that the job can be filled early in the week so that the Pirates would lose a minimum time in recruiting. The first official signing date—non-binding grants-in-aid (except among Southern Conference schools)—was Saturday.

New Staff Announced For U. Of Virginia Football

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va. (AP) — Newly-named University of Virginia football Coach Sonny Randle said Saturday night that five of his assistants at East Carolina will join him at Virginia.

Randle said also that he had retained two assistants from the staff of fired Cavalier Coach Don Lawrence.

Joining Randle from East Carolina, where he won Southern Conference championships the past two years, were Carl Reese, Frank Novak, Larry Van Der Heyden, Warren Klawiter and Ted Schoch.

Joe Mark and Turnley Todd were retained from Lawrence's staff.

Reese was named assistant head coach and will be in charge of the defense. Working with Reese will be Todd and Klawiter.

Novak will coach the quarterbacks, Mark the running backs and Van Der Heyden the offensive line. Schoch will head up the scouting and will also work with the offense.

Randle, a standout pass catcher at Virginia and in the National Football League, said he will personally coach the receivers.

The new coach said he will name a secondary coach Dec. 14.

"All of these coaches are talented and dedicated to their profession and will join with me in a total effort to bring UVA a winning atmosphere and record," Randle said.

It was also announced that Jim West will continue to head the recruiting program.

Elon Upended In Bowl Game

SHREVEPORT, La. (AP)—Sensational freshman running back Wilbert Montgomery led Abilene Christian to a 42-14 victory over Elon College in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletic Champion Bowl football game Saturday afternoon.

Montgomery, a 185-pounder from Greenville, Miss., scored two touchdowns and gained 159 yards rushing on 21 carries. Abilene opened the scoring when Montgomery went over from one yard out in the first quarter and then scored three times in the third period.

Running back Hubert Pickett scored from two yards out, wide receiver Richard Williams took a 68-yard pass from quarterback Clint Longley and then Longley hit David Henson with a 11-yard strike to make it 28-0 at halftime.

Montgomery scored on a six-yard pass from Longley opening the fourth quarter, and Greg Stirman closed out ACC's scoring late in the game with a 17-yard touchdown pass from Longley.

Elon, closing out the season with a 12-1 mark, scored its touchdowns in the fourth quarter after going to a shotgun offense.

Quarterback Joe West threw 28 yards to Alex McMillan for one, and McMillan cracked over from two yards out for the other touchdown.

A crowd of 4,162 saw Longley complete 19 of 33 passes for 341 yards and four touchdowns. Montgomery caught four for 79 yards, and had the crowd on its feet with several long-gainers in which he broke numerous tackles.

West completed 23 of his 43 passes for 271 yards as the two teams combined for a total offense of 951 yards.

'Heels Roll Past Vermont

CHAPEL HILL, N. C. (AP)—North Carolina's Tar Heels piled up a 50-20 first half lead and went on to rout Vermont 103-48 Saturday night before a crowd of 8,800.

Coach Dean Smith used all 16 players as the fifth-ranked Tar Heels jumped off to a 13-point lead in the first four minutes before Vermont scored.

The 55-point margin was the same as that scored Friday night by second-ranked North Carolina state in defeating Vermont 97-42

It was the third consecutive victory for North Carolina. Vermont is now 2-3.

North Carolina, led by Mitch Kupchak with 19 points, got 47 rebounds to Vermont's 16 and had a shooting percentage of 62.9, hitting on 44 of 70. Vermont connected on 24 of 65 for 36.9 per cent.

Brockington Sets Mark; Green Bay Falls To Vikes

By MIKE O'BRIEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

GREEN BAY, Wis. (AP) — Bobby Bryant intercepted three passes, returning one 46 yards for a touchdown and setting up a field goal with another, sparking the Minnesota Vikings to a 31-7 National Football League victory over the Green Bay Packers Saturday.

A national television audience watched the Vikings, fired up following defeats in two of their previous three starts, jump to a 14-0 lead after forcing a pair of turnovers on Green Bay's first three scrimmage plays.

Fran Tarkenton threw touchdown passes of 21 yards to Stu Voigt and 20 to John Gilliam. Rookie Chuck Foreman raced 50 yards for another score as Minnesota, tuning up for the playoffs, mounted a 28-0 halftime lead and coasted.

Tarkenton's scoring pass to Voigt, who swiped the ball from Packer safety Jim Hill, came seven plays after linebacker Jeff Siemon recovered a fumble by John Brockington at the Green Bay 46.

Two plays later, Green Bay's Jerry Tagge overthrew Leland Glass on a sideline pattern. Bryant picked off the ball at the Packer 46 and streaked down the sideline to the goal.

The Vikings made it 21-0 early in the second quarter when Foreman burst off right tackle, shook off several defenders and raced 50 yards to score. It was the longest scrimmage run by a Viking this season.

Tarkenton passed to Gilliam for another touchdown 26 seconds before halftime. Fred Cox added a 15-yard field goal midway through the third quarter after Bryant had made a diving interception, got up and scampered 40 yards to the Packer five.

Practically all of Green Bay's offense was generated by Brockington, who rushed 27 times for 124 yards and a season total of 1,002. Brockington became the first player in NFL history to rush for 1,000 or more yards in each of his first three pro seasons.

The Packers spoiled what would have been Minnesota's first shutout of the season when Jim Del Gaizo passed 17 yards to Barry Smith for a touchdown with 1:47 to play.

Tarkenton, playing only in the first half, completed eight of 12 passes for 79 yards. Foreman gained 100 yards in 19 carries.

Green Bay, which failed to pick up a first down in five third-down situations in the first half, finally marched to the Minnesota 28 early in the third quarter. However, Bryant killed the drive by picking off a pass intended for Rich McGeorge at the 14.

The Packers reached the Viking 26 late in the third quarter, but Bryant deflected a pass aimed at Smith in the end zone. Two plays later, Jim Marshall hit Tagge for a six-yard loss on fourth down.

Kathy Taylor Wins Title

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Kathy Taylor won the national cross country championships held here this weekend to become the U. S. champ in the 16-17 year old women's division.

Miss Taylor, of Bethel, won first place running the two-mile course in 11:02.0. She is a senior at North Pitt High School.

Miss Taylor is also now ranked No. 2 in the nation among runners in her division.

Lu Ann Keel, also of Bethel, finished 12th in the mile-run in a time of 6:02.0. She ran in the nine and under girls division. Miss Keel is among the top runners in her class in the nation as she is ranked tenth in the half-mile run.

Both girls, by placing 25th or better were named to the AAU All-American team.

Tammy Jo Purvis, another Bethel runner, is ranked eighth in the nation for the 880 run.

Hubbard, Blanda, Raiders Ravage Kansas City, 37-7

By ERIC PREWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

OAKLAND (AP) — Fullback Marv Hubbard crashed through Kansas City's embarrassed defense Saturday for 115 yards, including 31 on a touchdown run, leading the Oakland Raiders to a 37-7 victory which moved them closer to another National Football League division championship.

Ken Stabler threw a pair of touchdown passes and George Blanda kicked field goals from 20, 28 and 27 yards for Oakland, leading the American Football Conference Western Division with an 8-4-1 record.

The Chiefs, 6-5-2, tumbled out of playoff contention. Second-place Denver, 6-4-2, plays San Diego Sunday and will face the Raiders here Dec. 16 in a game that could decide the division race.

The Raiders built a 20-0 lead in the first half, limiting the Chiefs' offense to one first-down and 22 net yards. They increased their lead to 23-0 early in the third period on Blanda's third field goal.

Kansas City finally scored on a 66-yard third-period drive which ended with quarterback Mike Livingston running 17 yards for a touchdown.

Stabler threw nine yards to Fred Biletnikoff in the opening period for Oakland's first touchdown. Hubbard went through a huge hole on the left side of the line for his touchdown, and the Raiders were on their way to the easy victory.

In the final quarter, interceptions by George Atkinson and Nemiah Wilson set up Oakland touchdowns. Charlie Smith scored on a 10-yard run and Stabler threw three yards to Cliff Branch for the final score.

The Chiefs' won the pre-game coin toss and elected to kick off. The decision looked good when they stopped the Raiders at the Oakland 31, but Ed Podolak lost a fumble on a punt return, the Raiders recovered at the Kansas City 46 and went in to score.

The Raiders totaled 259 yards rushing, with Smith adding 71 to Hubbard's 115. Stabler passed for 88 yards.

Blanda, at age 46, is enjoying his best season as a placekicker. His three boots Saturday gave him 23 for the season, a career high, and he has missed only eight attempts this year.

The Chiefs had only 24 yards on 12 rushing attempts in the game. Livingston, who scrambled for his touchdown, was the leading rusher with the 17 yards.

The starting Chiefs' quarterback passed for 66 yards, but was replaced by Pete Beathard, who added 51 yards passing in the final period.

The fourth quarter featured a fight near the Kansas City bench. Oakland linebacker Phil Villapiano was ejected from the game after the brawl.

The Raiders tied the 13-year old series with Kansas City at 13-13-2. The Chiefs' last regular season victory here was in 1966.

Rampants Nip Pam Pack For First Win

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

One week ago Friday night, Washington High School romped to a 71-40 victory over the Rose High School Rampants.

This Friday night, the Pam Pack appeared on their way to such a romp again as they worked up a 28-15 lead over the cool Rose team late in the first half.

But strange things happened before the game was over, and when it was the Rampants had posted their first victory of the season, 52-50, over the stunned Pam Pack.

The Rampant defense got tough during the second half, as they allowed only three field goals by Washington in their third quarter of play, and after tieing it, fell back to a four point deficit.

Then, with Robert Brinkley pulling down defensive rebound after rebound, the Rampants charged back, finally moving ahead for the first time at 45-44 on a three-point play by Ronnie Barrett with 5:30 left.

Washington regained it just once more, but the Rampants got three straight baskets to run out by five points, and although the Pack cut it back to as little as one with nearly two minutes left, the Rose five held on to outlast them.

A number of times, the Rampants got overanxious, and nearly blew themselves out of the gym, especially when they got within two of the Pack. But after they finally did gain the lead, they began to play cautiously, and that proved to be the difference as they made Washington come out and foul, and hurry themselves.

The fouls, however, nearly were fatal, as Rose missed two straight one-and-one opportunities that could have sealed it, then finally cashed in on the second of a two shot chance with 38 seconds left.

Washington got the initial lead, but Herb Bynum tied it up with a jumper after a minute and a half as both teams got off to a cold start. Washington moved back out to Neil Weeks' jumper with 5:40 left, then got successive baskets by Albert Spencer and Weeks to up the lead to 8-2.

After Rose scored again, Washington ran off five more points before the Rampants hit again with just 1:14 to go in the period. Mark Gray started the spree with a jumper and Kenny Rogers added the other field goal. He hit one short from the line with 2:25 showing for a 13-4 margin.

Rose came back with two baskets but they still were down, 17-9 as the quarter ended.

The Rampants hit the first two baskets of the second period to close within four, but Washington ran off seven straight to move to an 11-point margin. Spencer hit from the line and Gray nailed in two from the floor. Weeks drove in for a layup with 3:27 left and it was 24-13.

Rose and Washington each scored, then Gray hit off a rebound with 1:45 to go in the half to give the Pack their biggest lead, 28-15.

Rose got two baskets from Tyrone Taft, while Gray hit once for Washington in the remaining time for a 30-19 Pam Pack lead at halftime.

In the second half, Rose went to work. Taft made a free throw and Bynum got four points, two from the floor and two from the line. Taft followed with a jumper and Brinkley made another to cut the lead to 28-30 before Weeks finally hit the mark for Washington.

Randy Van Surdan popped in two free throws, then Barrett hit on a drive, tieing it at 32-32 with 3:20 left in the period.

But Melvin Lodge and Gray each had two free throws to run the Pack back out by four and they held that margin the rest of the period for a 40-36 lead.

After each team scored four alternating points in the early seconds of the final frame, Brinkley hit a jumper to pull Rose within two again. Barrett went up after a rebound, laid it in and was fouled by Cleve Smallwood. The basket tied it up at 44-44, and the free throw put Rose into the lead for the first time during the evening.

Gray hit a jumper with 4:42 left to put Washington back up, but Bynum hit a jumper from the baseline with 4:03 left to return the lead to Rose, and they never lost it.

Brown hit a jumper 25 seconds later, and Brinkley hit on a drive down the lane with 3:10 showing for a 51-46 lead.

Rogers hit with 2:23 to go, then Gray made a shot with 1:55 left to cut the lead to 51-50. Rose missed twice at the line, and then, with 38 seconds to go, Bynum made the second of a two-shot foul to seal it.

Washington missed and Rose controlled the ball, but lost it again with nine seconds to go. Gray tried one last shot to try and tie it up, but it bounced off and the horn sounded before Spencer could put the rebound back up.

Bynum, although cold at times, led the Rampant scoring with 13 points. Taft had 11 and Barrett added 10.

For Washington, Gray had 20, Rogers had 11 and Weeks had 10.

The Rampant Cubs also won their first game of the year, rallying for a 56-51 victory.

They grabbed an early lead and held a 12-11 advantage after one period. Washington pushed ahead early in the second period, however, and pullled away to lead, 26-20 at halftime.

The Cubs fought back in the second period, pouring in 23 points while holding Washington to only 13, and Rose gained the lead back late in the period and struggled to a 43-39 lead. They held off Washington in the final frame, increasing the lead by one, 13-12, to claim the win.

Mike Brewington led Rose with 18 points, while Ray Barnes tossed in 13. Reggie Gorham led Washington with 12.

Rose, now 1-3, plays host to Kinston on Tuesday.

Greene Central Downs Aycock

SNOW HILL—Greene Central picked up another Eastern Carolina Conference victory Friday night, downing the Falcons of Charles B. Aycock High School, 55-44. The Falconettes remained unbeaten in league play with a 37-18 win over the Ewes.

Greene Central's junior varsity came away with a 48-36 win in their preliminary game.

The Aycock girls inched out into a 8-6 lead in the first period of play, and had trouble pulling away in the second frame. They only outhit the Ewes, 6-4, and held a 14-10 lead at halftime.

Greene Central stubbornly held on in the third period also, being outhit only 8-6, as they fell back just two more points, 22-16. But in the final frame, Aycock turned on the gas and roared away to a 15-2 scoring advantage, putting the game away.

Sirts led Aycock with 10 points, while Judith Tripp had the same number for Greene Central.

The Rams wasted no time in challenging the Aycock defenses, rolling up a 23-6 margin in the first eight minutes of play. Aycock cut into that with a 15-12 advantage in the second period, but was still far back, 35-21, at halftime.

The Rams coasted through the third period with a 10-8 edge, running the score out to 45-29. Aycock again rallied, 15-10, in the final period, but were too far back to challenge the Rams.

Moses Barron led Greene Central with 17 points, while Tim Butts added 14 and Jerome Sheppard added 10. Terry Coley had 14 and Gary Davis had 10 for the Falcons.

Greene Central travels to meet Eastern Wayne on Tuesday.

State Ends Warmups; UCLA Next Opponent

By ANDY LIPPMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer

"When they hit their tempo, they're awfully hard to stop. That's an understatement. A better word would be they're impossible to stop."

That's the way Vermont basketball coach Peter Salzberg described the 97-42 pounding his team absorbed at the hands of the North Carolina State Friday night.

"In stretches, State really got it going," Salzberg continued. "they were absolutely overpowering."

It wasn't that the Wolfpack was trying to pour it on. The second-ranked team used 16 players and David Thompson, one of their leading scorers played little more than a half.

Thompson still was able to get 19 points, while the Wolfpack hit for 52.6 per cent. NC State also was outstanding on defense, getting 18 steals, while Vermont was able to hit on only 27.8 per cent of their shots.

In the only other game involving top-ranked teams, 12th-ranked Long Beach State beat 11th-rated San Francisco 65-64.

Top-ranked UCLA hosts Southern Methodist tonight.

North Carolina State doesn't have any more opposition to divert its attention away from a showdown with UCLA in St. Louis Dec. 15.

"The only thing now we don't have to sat is that we're not thinking about UCLA," said Norman Sloan, North Carolina State coach. "Our minds will be on UCLA and exams this week."

Long Beach State gained revenge for a defeat by the Dons in last season's National Collegiate Athletic Association tourney.

The victory also broke a streak of 21 straight home victories by San Francisco.

Long Beach closed with a rush when substitute guard Rick Aberegg hit two 20-foot jump shots in the final minutes.

It was the second loss for San Francisco which lost to Stanford last Monday. Long Beach is now 2-1.

In other games, West Virgina defeated California 76-74 in the Mountaineer Classic, while Oregon State moved into the other slot in the tourney's finals by beating Seton Hall 88-83. Tim Holland scored 20 points to lead Big Eight Conference favorite Oklahoma over San Diego State 92-57 in the first round of the Creighton Classic.

Vanderbilt, with Terry Compton hitting five his first six field goal attempts, defeated Nebraska 82-58 in the Vanderbilt Invitational tourney and will meet Tennessee State which beat Middle Tennessee State 63-59.

Oregon beat Sacramento State 67-53 while Washington defeated Seattle University 81-74. In the Steel Bowl tournament in Pittsburgh, Pitt beat Duquesne 82-65 and Florida State defeated Clemson 68-58.

Saratoga Nips Robersonville

ROBERSONVILLE—Saratoga Central High School picked up a pair of victories over Robersonville's Golden Eagles Friday night in Eastern Plains Conference games.

The Saratoga boys nipped the Eagles, 58-56, while the girls also took a close win, 32-28. Only the Robersonville junior varsity came away with a win, 38-35.

In the girls' game, both teams picked up eight points in the first period. Saratoga held a 6-4 edge in the second frame, however, and took a 14-12 lead into the locker room.

They came back with an 11-6 margin in the third period, running their lead out to 25-18. Robersonville could only outhit them, 10-7, in the final period, and that wasn't enough for the rally to be effective.

Bonnie Overman led Saratoga with 18 points, while Elaine Forrest had 10 to lead Robersonville.

In the boys game, Robersonville looked like a sure winner in the first period, running away with a 20-8 lead. But Saratoga caught fire in the second frame, outscoring the Eagles, 27-16. That charged them back into the game, although they still trailed at the half, 36-35.

In the third period, Saratoga pushed ahead with a 14-6, scoring edge, taking a 49-42 lead into the final period. Robersonville fought back and tied it up at 56-56, but Bernard Cooper hit with 15 seconds left for a 60-58 lead, and Robersonville turned the ball over on the inbounds play and Saratoga ran out the clock for the win.

Cooper led all scoring, dumping in 14 field goals and seven free throws for 35 points. James Langston added 10 for Saratoga. Robersonville was led by Ernest Crandall with 17, while Ricky Purvis had 15 and Tyrone Little had 14.

Robersonville will play host to Elm City on Tuesday.

Bucks Rolling Toward Title

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Milwaukee Bucks have the best record in the National Basketball Association and Friday night they showed why.

The Bucks came out smoking against Portland, rolled up a 29-14 first-quarter lead and cruised to a 116-86 triumph. It was there eighth straight victory and it was no contest.

"They just had a terrible start," explained Milwaukee guard Oscar Robertson, "and they can't catch a team like ours."

Not many clubs can. The Bucks have played 27 games this season and won 23 of them. They lead the Midwest Division by 2½ games. And they have given up fewer points than anyone else.

Elsewhere in the NBA, Boston beat Atlanta 116-112, New York downed Buffalo 113-108, Kansas City-Omaha defeated Philadelphia 113-102, Chicago dumped Cleveland 96-91, Phoenix whipped Capital 114-92 and Seattle surprised Los Angeles 115-111.

Celtics 116, Hawks 112

Dave Cowens scored 11 points in the final quarter to give Boston its 15th victory in the last 16 games. Cowens and John Havlicek finished with 24 points apiece while Lou Hudson netted 30 for Atlanta.

Knicks 113, Braves 108

Dave DeBusschere equalled his career-high with 41 points and also pulled down 21 rebounds for New York. The Knicks rallied from eight points back in the final period behind DeBusschere and Walt Frazier, who finished with 24 points. Randy Smith netted 27 for Buffalo.

Kings 113, 76ers 102

Jimmy Walker scored 12 points in the final period to give Kansas City-Omaha its eighth win against 21 losses. Walker wound up with 32 points and teammate Sam Lacey had 21. Tom VanArsdale and Larry Jones got 20 points apiece for Philadelphia.

Bulls 96, Cavaliers 91

Jerry Sloan scored 19 points as Chicago kept pace with Milwaukee in the Midwest Division. Cleveland played without team captain Lenny Wilkens and it showed as the Cavaliers turned the ball over 30 times. Austin Carr netted 18 points for the losers.

Suns 114, Bullets 92

Charlie Scott poured in a season-high 40 points and Phoenix played a strong defensive game. The Suns broke it open in the third quarter, outgunning Capital from the floor 52 per cent to 33 per cent. Dick VanArsdale chipped in 20 points for Phoenix.

Sonics 115, Lakers 111

Spencer Haywood and Milt Williams led a late Seattle rush that gave the Sonics their first win ever on the Lakers' home court after 20 losses. Haywood and Williams teamed for 19 of Seattle's final 23 points. Haywood wound up with 29 points and Williams had 22. Jerry West got 27 for Los Angeles.

Sanford is the champion of North Carolina 4-A high school football and Sylva-Webster, undefeated now in 34 games, is the 2-A champion.

Co-champions were recognized after Friday night's 3-A title game as East Bladen and Jamestown Ragsdale fought to a 16-16 tie.

Sylva-Webster routed Tabor City, 43-18, while Sanford defeated Greensboro Smith, 14-6, to capture its title.

The Sanford victory came on touchdowns by quarterback P. J. Gay and fullback Tony Mills. Gary Reynolds ran back a blocked punt 17 yards for Smith's only touchdown.

Dickie Woodard scored two touchdowns and passed for another, and ran for a two-point conversion in pacing the Sylva-Webster team, which has only one tie to mar its 34-game streak.

William Neal and Gene McCoy scored touchdowns for East Bladen and Ragsdale scoring was by Jeff Sechrest on a pair of one-yard plunges and a 20-yard field goal by Shorty Rickman.

Gail Goodrich played 58 winning games for UCLA between 1964-65. He has been in two losing games.

Cougars Down Virginia Club

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Memphis Tams were in stormy weather even before the American Basketball Association season began. Owner Charley Finley wanted to unload the franchise and then the Tams didn't get a coach until mid-September when Butch Van Breda Kolff took over.

Unfortunately, Van Breda Kolff has been unable to get his team in out of the rain.

The Tams Friday lost to the New York Nets, 138-102 for their sixth straight defeat.

"There was a time when we were respectable," said Van Breda Kolff. "Now we play teams with speed, we get into trouble.

"I told the guys we can't continue like this. Tonight we didn't even play defense. If they respond and play well, maybe I won't have to make any deals, but common sense tells you that like any business, when you're losing money, you make a move."

In other ABA games, the Carolina Cougars defeated Virginia 115-110, San Antonio beat Denver 116-94, Utah took a 121-113 victory over San Diego and Indiana swept to a 105-97 victory over Kentucky.

In the NBA, Milwaukee beat Portland 116-86, New York defeated Buffalo 113-108, Kansas City-Omaha took Philadelphia 113-102, Chicago edged Cleveland 116-86, Phoenix whipped Capital 114-92, and Seattle beat Los Angeles 115-111.

Spurs 116, Rockets 94

James Silas scored 25 points to lead the Spurs past the West Division leaders.

Cougars 115, Squires 110

Billy Cunningham scored 32 points including three technical free throws with eight seconds remaining to help the Cougars achieve a comeback victory. The Squires bench was charged with the three technicals after Virginia center Jim Eakins was called for charging.

George Gervin had 25 points and George Carter scored 20 to lead Virginia.

Conley Rolls To 75-36 Blitz Of Jags

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer

FARMVILLE—Utilizing an overpowering offensive attack and an antagonistic defense, the D. H. Conley Vikings steamed past Farmville Central Friday night, 75-36.

The win was the fourth in a row for the Vikings and they have moved into one of the favorite roles in the conference.

The Vikings dropped in 33 of 42 shots from the floor for a blazing 78.6 percent while the Jags could never quite find the range hitting on just 12 of 55 for a cool 21 percent. From the free throw line, the Jaguars did a little better making 54.5 percent of their attempts while Conley made nine out of 19 for 47 percent.

The two earlier games were split. In the first contest of the night, the Viking J.V.'s won 69-48 behind Melvin Williams's 21 points, Charlie Keys' 17 and Calvin Hawkins's 15. Farmville was paced by Roy Johnson who had 23.

The Farmville Central girls, however, had a shutout going for almost the whole first half before the Valkyries were able to scratch. They went on the win, 34-11.

Julia Moye put in eight points as she led the Lady Jaguars out to an 8-0 lead in the first quarter. She scored again as the second quarter began to make the lead 10-0 and a bucket by Beth Turnage and two free throws by Sherie Von Schriltz made it 14-0. Turnage hit a free shot later in the period. The Valkyries got the rebound of her missed second shot and Alice Costen took it down for the only Conley score of the half.

All the Lady Jaguars had to do in the second half was to coast along as the Conley girls never warmed up enough to present a challenge. The Valkyries added only three in the third period to be down by 26-5 and managed six in the final frame as Farmville Central got eight.

Moye finished up as the game's high scorer getting 18.

In the boys' game the Jaguars led only once. That was in the first three minutes of the game. The lead vanished in the middle of the period as the lid fell on the Farmville Central basket with a crash.

Robert Dixon put the Jags up first as he scored from 20 feet and a few seconds later added two free throws for the 4-0 lead. Gary Mobley got the Vikings up as he made a pair of charity tosses and a strange play tied tied it up.

The Vikes hauled in a rebound and Clennell Streeter brought the ball down court. He passed it in to Mobley who in turn tried to pass the ball to Larry Daniels as Daniels cut through the lane. The pass was a little late and was almost out of Daniels' reach. He just managed to tap it and his momentum knocked the ball into the basket.

Buddy Phillips put Conley in front on a free throw, 5-4. The Jags got it back on another bucket by Dixon, 6-5, but Phillips hit from outside, 7-6 and after Mike Sutton scored his first basket, Phillips hit again as the period ended, 11-6. The lead never changed hands again.

Sutton's free shot at the start of the second quarter gave Conley a six-point lead, 12-6. Greg Joyner swished in a shot from the free throw stripe and cut the lead to two baskets. Daniels blew one in from the far reaches of the court, 14-8, and added a free shot for three point play.

Farmville Central cut the lead to five on Dixon's free shots and then to three on a pair by Mark Gorham, 15-12. Willie Hawkins slipped in an underhanded layup to boost the advantage back out to five, 17-12, and then Conley dumped in ten straight points zooming out to a 27-12 lead with 1:54 to go in the half. Farmville Central could not get anything to fall in the two minute span. Each time the Jags put the ball up, a pair of Viking hands were there to bring it down.

The last point Farmville Central got in the half was a free throw by Mike Corbett. Mobley and Lawrence Harper canned jumpers for the Vikings to make the halftime score 31-13.

The Jags shot about every chance they had in the third quarter but still could not get many to fall. The Vikings cranked in 21 points to only nine for the Jags. Daniels led the scoring in the period getting three field goals in a row to run the lead out to 44-13 with 4:15 to go in the quarter. The largest lead of the game came at 1:43 on a basket by Hawkins making the score 48-15.

After swapping buckets to open the fourth, Conley ran in four straight as Sutton, Daniels and Mobley's two ran the score up to 63-24. Farmville Central got a pair of free shots from James Carlton and a field goal by Lee Johnson but the Vikings countered with six more points.

The teams traded baskets for the remainder of the game.

The Vikings put four of the starters in double figures. Mobley led the attack with 18, Daniels had 17, Sutton scored 11, Phillips put through 10 and Hawkins added 10 coming off the bench.

Carlton had the most for FC with nine.

The Vikings return home this Tuesday hosting North Lenoir while Farmville Central hits the road traveling to meet Ayden-Grifton.

Oak City Gets Loss From Bath

OAK CITY—Bath High School handed Oak City's Trojans their second straight loss Friday night, taking a 63-52 win.

In the girl's game, Bath also rolled to victory, winding up with a 46-12 rout.

The Oak City junior varsity was the only one to come out with a Trojan victory, winning 52-14.

In the girls' contest, Bath doubled the score on Oak City in the first period, but it wasn't bad, just 8-4. In the second frame, however, Oak City managed only two points, and Bath pushed through eight again. That upped the Bath lead to 16-6 at the half.

Bath continued to dominate play in the second half. They outhit Oak city, 14-2, in the third quarter and ran their lead out to 30-8. The Torjanettes were buried once more, 16-4, in the final period, ending their misery.

Joan Leggett led Bath with 13 points. Diane Duggins was high for Oak City with six.

In the boys' game, the only difference was that it was closer. Bath inched out into a 13-10 lead in the first period of play, then had to keep on struggling to hold off the Trojans. Oak City came back with an 18-15 advantage in the second period, tieing the score at 28-28 at intermission.

In the third period, Bath pushed back into the lead, outscoring the Trojans, 16-12, to take a 44-10 lead into the final period. They outhit Oak City once more, 19-12, to wrap up the win.

Donald Gibbs led Bath with 23 points, while teammate Anthony Singler was right behind him with 22.

For the Trojans, Ronald Duggins had 18, Billy Ross had 16 and Donnie Carr had 12.

Oak City plays host to W. C. Creasy High School on Tuesday.

Runners All-Stars

Three Bethel track stars have been named to the AAU's All-Star team from North Carolina.

Kathy Taylor currently is ranked second in the nation in the 16-17 year old age group in the mile run. Her best time is only one second off the AAU's age group record.

Tammy Jo Purvis, in the 10-11 age group, is ranked eighth in the nation in the 880-yard run, while Lu Anne Keel is ranked eighth in the nation in the 880-

Tammy Jo Purvis, in the 10-11 age group, is ranked eighth in the nation in the 880-yard run, while Lu Anne Keel is ranked in the top ten in the nine and under 880, and has been selected as an All-Star in cross country.

Tarboro's Carter Sugg is also among those to be honored. His time in the 100-yard dash was best in the nation last year.

The All-Stars will be honored at a banquet to be held next February in Raleigh.

Correction

In Friday's story on the karate tournament held here last week, it was reported that Mark Shank was second in intermediate fighting in the peewee division.

Actually, Shank took first place in that division.

The Daily Reflector regrets the mistake and is glad to make the correction.

Southern Nash Edges By North Pitt, 45-42

BETHEL — Southern Nash used the second and third periods to run up a lead on North Pitt, then held on to take a 45-42 victory over the Panthers Friday night.

The Big Orange Machine kept clicking right along, however, romping to a 46-23 victory. North Pitt's junior varsity also took a win, 54-34.

The Big Orange clicked out a 15-8 lead in the first period and were never in trouble after that. They outscored the Lady Firebirds, 17-4, in the second quarter, running their lead out to 32-12 at halftime.

The action slowed in the second half, with North Pitt holding a 5-2 scoring advantage in the third quarter. That ran the lead to 37-14. Both teams pushed through nine points in the last period of play.

Wanda Whichard led North Pitt with 13 points.

In the boys' contest, North Pitt jumped into an early lead, building up a 12-4 lead after one period. But Southern Nash came back and outhit them, 11-8, in the second quarter, cutting the lead to 20-15.

In the third period, the Firebirds pushed ahead, outscoring North Pitt, 14-5. That left ahead, 29-20, with one period to go. The Panthers tried for a rally, but could only cut one point off the lead, 17-16.

Sidney Joyner led Southern with 15 points, while Tommy Minga had 10. For North Pitt, Vincent Barnhill had 19 and David Brown had 10.

The Panthers play host to non-conference foe Williamston on Tuesday.

Williamston Nips Bullets

WILLIAMSTON — Williamston High School got a basket right at the final horn to nip Jamesville, 60-58, Friday night and gain revenge for an earlier loss at the hands of the Bullets.

The Williamston girls rolled to a 66-21 victory in their game, while the Baby Tigers made it a clean sweep with a 47-31 win in the opener.

The Williamston girls jumped away to a 25-2 lead in the first period of their game, as they completely overpowered the Lady Bullets. They held the Bullets without a point in the second period, scoring 11 of their own, to take a 36-2 lead into the dressing room.

In the third quarter, the slaughter continued as Williamston outhustled Jamesville, 22-4, to make it 58-6. Jamesville outhit the subs, 15-8, in the final period.

Bet Brandon led Williamston with 19 points, while Sissy Taylor hand 12 and Fran Hardison had 10. Donna Williams had 16 points to lead Jamesville.

In the boy's game, it was tight all the way. Williamston inched out into a 16-15 lead in the first period and managed to come away with that same margin at halftime. Both teams pushed through 12 points in the second quarter, making it 28-27 at intermission.

In the third quarter, Williamston outhit Jamesville, 18-16, giving the Tigers a little more breathing room, 46-43. But Jamesville wouldn't let them get away, and tied it up with 27 seconds left, 58-58.

Williamston got the ball on a turnover with seven seconds left, and Wayne Hodges popped in the winning basket just as the horn went off to give the Tigers the two-point victory.

Keith Biggs led Williamston's scoring with 20 points, while Joe Purvis had 13. For Jamesville, Horace Hall had 20 and Alvin Grimes added 12.

Special Hunt Days

RALEIGH—Waterfowl hunters who plan to hunt ducks on Game Lands, such as N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission managed waterfowl impoundments, should keep in mind that these areas will not be open for duck hunting the day the statewide duck season comes in on December 6.

These Game Lands which are managed for duck hunting are only open three days per week—Mondays, Wednesdays and Saturdays—and also Christmas Day. The first day that hunters can use these Game Lands to hunt ducks will actually be Saturday, December 8.

All waterfowl hunters—whether they hunt geese or ducks—should keep in mind that these waterfowl areas are only open three days a week throughout the season.

"We don't want anyone to schedule a trip to one of these areas and find out that it's closed the day they planned to hunt," said a Wildlife Commission spokesman. "These managed Game Lands are open only three days a week to help improve the hunting. Should these areas be hunted every day, the ducks would soon leave."

BASS Fishermen Launch Tourneys

MONTGOMERY, ALA—A six tournament qualifying schedule for the 1974 Miller High Life BASS Masters Classic has been announced by the sponsoring Bass Anglers Sportsman Society (B.A.S.S.), a 135,000-member fishing-conservation organization with national headquarters in Montgomery, Alabama.

The professional bass fishing's play-for-pay Tournament Trail will cast off February 6-8 at the famous "Bass Capitol of the World," the St. Johns River area of east-central Forida.

Over $133,000 in awards will be up for grabs in the half dozen B.A.S.S. Invitational Tournaments leading up to the 1974 Miller High Life BASS Masters Classic, a fish-off among the tour's top anglers for the world B.A.S.S. title and a $15,000 winner-take-all purse. The biggest showdown in angling takes place in late October on a "secret lake" announced after the Classic qualifiers are enroute aboard a "mystery flight".

The top 24 point qualifiers, the winner of each qualifying tournament will automatically be seated in the Classic, as will the winner of the '73 Classic and the top individual winner in the 1974 National Federation Tournament.

This will be the seventh year of pro bass fishing contests sponsored by B.A.S.S. with 39 contests and over $425,000 awarded to expert bass fishermen since the first All-American BASS Tournament at Beaver Lake, Ark. in June 1967.

B.A.S.S. in 1972, introduced a "Don't Kill Your Catch" release program at all national sponsored events with a successful release alive of over 83 percent of the fish. The catch-and-release program will again be an important part of the 1974 tournament format with a "bonus" ounce awarded for all live fish weighed-in by contestants. Over 91 percent of the 423 bass caught during the 1973 Classic were released alive to provide further angling sport for the future.

"B.A.S.S. Tournaments have made major contributions in the development of bass fishing techniques, safety, equipment, and bass fishing know-how learned from the tournaments experts, and has helped improve the average fisherman's angling ability," said Ray Scott, president of B.A.S.S. Scott added, changes in the 1974 tournament format are aimed at improving the catch-and-release results and contestant safety during the tournaments. These are: (1) All boats must be equipped with some type of ignition kill switch. (2) No boat equipped with "stick steering" shall be permitted to be used during tournament hours by any competitor; except that boats so equipped, powered by a combustion engine which is rated for 33 or less S.A.E. horsepower, shall be exempt from this rule during the 1974 tournament season. (3) Every boat must have live-well space, properly aerated, to adequately maintain alive a limit catch of bass by both fishermen using the boat.

A maximum entry limit of 200 fishermen has been placed on all national B.A.S.S. sponsored Invitationals. Competition days are Wednesday-Thursday-Friday to clear the lake for weekend anglers.

The angling pros will fish for a total purse of $22,225.00 in each event with the maximum 200 entries. The top 35 anglers share in the tournament prize purse. The top 50 finishers are awareded Classic points- 50 for 1st place, 49 for 2nd, etc. Entry fee is $200 per tournament. Also, there will be daily big fish awards with the lunker champ of the tournament netting a new Ranger TR-3 bass boat, a Super Motor-Guide trolling motor, a Lowrance LFG-400 Locator-Sounder with depth alarm, a Fo-Mac Sur-Temp meter, and a heavy duty Wonder State trailer for a total value of more than $2,750.00 Other daily big fish winners take home $750 and $250. In addition, there is a Chapter Champions Trophy awarded the affiliated chapter being representated by at least two fishermen from the chapter whose combined scores for all three tournament days is greater than any two combined scores from any other affiliated chapter represented. The winning chapter will also win one free entry to a future National BA.S.S. Tournament plus a $100.00 check donated to their respective State Federation.

Jamesville Girls Try To Boost Their Wins

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer

JAMESVILLE—Jamesville's girls basketball team won only two games last year and only three over the last two. This year they have a new coach and the Lady Bullets hope to change things around.

Linc Page is in his first of coaching and has a lot of work ahead if he hopes to produce a winner at Jamesville.

He has a bevy of young players and they do not have much experience. "We have two seniors on the team and they sit the bench. I'm trying to go with the younger players," Page said.

In their first four games, the Lady Bullets have been soundly beaten each time they went to the court. "Against Chowan and Chocowinity we were just outclassed." The Lady Bullets lack a good jumper and height.

They do have Donna Williams, an All-Area player last year back. She has been carrying most of the weight for the club and is averaging in the high teens pointwise. She dumped 23 against Williamston and another time got 18. She is also the team's leading rebounder.

When the Lady Bullets are on offense they try to get the ball to Miss Williams. Her sister Debbie may be able to help out in time. "She is real aggressive off the boards and on defense does not get the points we need," said Page.

Rene Martin has been starting at the pivot position for Jamesville and "shows promise and is a good jumper." She is a freshman.

So far the Jamesville girls have not been able to work the ball inside for close shots. Page attributes this to lack of height. "Our guards handle the press well but can't get inside because of the big girls." The advantage of height of the opponents has also created the same type of problem on defense as Jamesville can't keep them out.

"We try to get inside but most of our points come from outside. The girls are working on screening out and there is some improvement each game. It takes time."

The Lady Bullets play in a 2-1-2 trying to get the guards inside, on a give-an-go. Still they don't seem to get the good shot. "We shoot from downtown," said Page, "We are scoring about the same number of points each game, 24-30."

Jamesville is also hurting for speed. Although Donna Williams is the leading point-getter, she and the rest of the team are slow. "Our guards are slow and our forwards are too so we have to go with a deliberate game."

The defense presents similar problems, most of them based on Jamesville's lack of a tall girl. Against Williamston in their last game, the Lady Bullets stayed with the Lady Tigers in the first quarter to be behind by three, 10-7, but in the second period Williamston began getting their big girls free and zoomed out to a 38-12 lead at the intermission.

Jamesville likes to run a 2-1-2 on defense also but Page is more in favor of a man-to-man. "We just can't handle it now," he said, "We could force turnovers if we could control the boards."

Currently, Page is shuffling his players in and out trying to find a stable line-up. "We have nine players that rotate and we're looking for a good combination. I'm looking for a break there."

Page expects things will pick up next year because of the young players on the squad. "It is just a matter of time before we start playing good. The girls need to see a win," explained Page.

As far as winning goes, Page thinks that a victory soon would do more to help the team than most anything else. Noted Page, "They definitely lack the winning spirit." A win would help pick up the team morale which is at a low point." The more they lose the more disgusted the girls get."

Page feels that one should come in the near future. And if his girls can get the feel of winning for a change, it might be enough to turn them around and headed up to the attic instead of down to the basement of the league again this year.

Wildlife Afield: Try To Figure Out A Lake

By JIM DEAN
"BASS WITH HONOR"

There is no justice in this world. For over two years, I've been trying to figure out a 90-acre black water lack where I often fish.

Everytime I think I've got that lake figured, something happens. Last summer, for instance, I couldn't buy a fish. Finally, I decided to try night fishing. I got up in the middle of the night several times and fished on through dawn. I had one miserable strike and lost the fish.

On another occasion, I decided that the bass in the lake had seen too many big plugs. So I decided to show them a selection of small ones by using ultra-light spinning tackle. On the first trip, I tore them up. Since then, I haven't caught a thing.

Last winter, I decided to try the lake on a frosty day just to see what would happen. I caught so many big chain pickerel that I thought I had finally found the key. Not so. Subsequent trips brought only moderate success.

It would be easy to merely claim that the lake has no fish in it. But, in fact, it has a good, balanced population of bass, chain pickerel, crappie, bluegills and shellcrackers. Fish biologists have checked on the lake.

Maybe I expect too much. The first time I ever fished this lake, the fellow I was with caught a seven and a half pound bass. That is like being dealt a pair of fives face down on seven card stud. You can't win, but you can't fold.

This fall, I again thought I had the lake figured out. I had taken my son Scott to fish for crappies. We had minnows, and although we didn't catch any crappie, we caught several chain pickerel and half a dozen bass.

Ah ha, I said to myself. At last, I have solved the mystery. This is one of those lakes where artificial lures don't work very well. All I need to do is fish with minnows. In late November, I hit the lake with a bucket full of big minnows. In order to be able to prove my hypothesis, I first fished my favorite bank with artificial lures. I fished hard and caught nothing. Then I went right back down the same bank using minnows and caught two bass and a jack. Hallelujah, I proclaimed, I have beaten the lake. As usual, my celebration was a bit premature.

The first week in December, I took a friend of mine to the lake to share my success. We had a two dozen big minnows. We fished very hard for eight hours, and caught one scrawny chain pickerel. A couple of other fellows came past our boat late in the afternoon.

"You do any good?" I asked

"We got a few," he said, holding up a nice string. One of the bass would have gone for four pounds.

"Did you catch them on minnows?" I asked hopefully.

"Nope, never did much good in here with minnows," he replied. "We got these on plugs."

So I'm back where I started. I still haven't figured out how to catch fish in that lake consistently. But I've got a new idea. A friend of mine is going to loan me his haul seine, and I think I know where I can get a couple of sticks of dynamite.

Nantahala Lake Mystery Solved

By JIM DEAN

The curious occurrences at Nantahala Lake in western North Carolina recently have fish biologists for the N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission scratching their heads. But if you look closely, you'll see a smile on their faces.

The tale of Nantahala's "ups and downs" began years ago. When the lake was flooded, fishermen found that it offered poor fishing. Stocking game fish was no answer because the fish had nothing to eat.

So, in 1959, fish biologists decided to try to increase the food supply in the lake by stocking Kokanee salmon. These fish are prolific and stay relatively small. They offer for fishermen, but more important, they offer food for larger predator fish—bass, walleyes and trout.

Alas, the experiment looked more and more like a failure as the years passed and the Kokanee salmon apparently disappeared. Then, a few years back, long after everyone had given up, a few Kokanee were spotted spawning in the Nantahala River.

"We still thought it was merely a remnant population, and would never amount to much of anything," said Don Baker, chief of the Division of Inland Fisheries. "After all, it had been nearly 10 years since we'd put the first ones in."

A couple of years ago, Baker's fish biologists—having given up on the Kokanee—were ready to try some other experiments to increase the food supply in the lake.

It was decided to also try to stock Nantahala with a curious creature known as the opossum shrimp. These small freshwater shrimp are natives of waters far to the north of North Carolina, and the Wildlife Commission got its batch by trucking them in all the way from Michigan.

But despite many checks, the efforts to get forage to survive in Nantahala seemed to be a losing cause. The opossum shrimp—like the Kokanee—virtually disappeared.

This fall, however, while running a gill netting experiment and checking the contents of fish stomachs—still looking for some opossum shirmp—biologists began to find channel catfish whose stomachs were absolutely stuffed with an amphipod ("scud") known by the Latin handle of Hyalella asteca. The catfish had rolls of fat, and the whole thing proved a minor mystery since these particular scuds are not native to Nantahala and were never found in the stomachs of catfish—or any other fish from the lake—before.

The scuds have also been reported in walleye stomachs, and since these scuds are the only deep water species of scud—other than one found in glacial lakes of the north—it is strongly suspected that many fish are feeding on them.

But how did they get there? Baker thinks that the scuds were accidentally stocked along with the opossum shrimp. "In any case," he says "it was a lucky break."

The accidental introduction of scud is not the only stroke of "luck" at Nantahala. A large spawning run of Kokanee salmon took place in Nantahala River during mid-October of this year; far larger than the tiny runs of remnant fish previously found.

"This is strong evidence that the introduction of the scud is beginning to have a really beneficial effect," said Baker. "If Kokanee eat the scud and become well established, we should begin to see a much larger population of good sized bass, trout and walleyes.

Fishermen are already saying that Nantahala has turned the corner. They report that fishing has improved considerably this year, and it may be that mysterious Nantahala Lake will no longer be known as that big "fishless" puddle west of Franklin.

Passed Up Good Hunting Ground

By JIM DEAN

Deer hunters who seek their quarry in the Uwharrie Game Lands passed up a good tip to get their deer this year.

Before the opening of the season in the Uwharrie area on November 19, the U. S. Forest Service and the N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission urged hunters to spread out into the entire 46,000 acre Game Lands rather than concentrate on the 9,000 acre tract known as the old Uwharrie Management Area.

Many of the other parts of this 46,000 acre Game Land—particularly around Morris Mountain, Dusty Levels, Wood Run, Dutchman's Creek and Roberdo—are very lightly hunted, and yet they have excellent deer populations.

On the second day of the open gun season, a flight over the area confirmed what Wildlife Protectors on the ground had been saying. The old Uwharrie Management area was as crowded as ever with hunters. On opening day during the 1972 season, an estimated 1,900 hunters hunted this area.

From the air, it was apparent that the old, familiar area was still getting the brunt of the concentration. Countless cars and campers could be seen on the logging trails and roads in the area, and the campgrounds were crowded. But in the entire Morris Mountain area, only one hunter's vehicle was spotted. The same was true of the Burkhead area and other parts of the Uwharrie Game Land. Most of this huge forest was virtually desolate.

"I would guess that the reason is because hunters like to go to places where they've been before," said Bob Hazel, Assistant Executive Director of the Wildlife Resources Commission. "I know if I were down there hunting, I'd sure pick one of those other areas. I'll bet you could hunt in Morris Mountain or Burkhead for a week without seeing another hunter in the woods."

Certainly, if the pressure is no greater than the day we flew over, that would be the case.

'Mannix' Predicts TV Cops Will Leave The Air

By JERRY BUCK
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Every week for the past seven years somebody has tried to bump him off, floor him with a right to the jaw or leave skid marks across his tailor-made sports coat.

Mannix, played by Mike Connors, has not only endured, he has triumphed. All the while Mannix was taking his lumps and solving his cases, his show seldom dropped below the top ranks of the ratings.

"Mannix" has had the longest run of any private detective series and was the first of the detectives in the current cycle. In fact, it set off the bulging trend toward police shows. All indications are that by next year many of television cops will be off the force. "Mannix," by all odds, will remain.

"I'd say absolutely that we're going to see a thinning of the ranks," said Connors. "It's like everything else. The airwaves are saturated with cops until people are fed up. All the shows are hurt when you have too many."

Connors, with waves of thick black hair and a tanned, ruggedly handsome face, said, "I don't care what the framework of the show is — black detective, fat, old, young, wheel chair — it's all basically law and order.

"I'm sure what's going to happen is that we'll have 'The Waltons' and 'Apple's Way' and seven more of that kind of low-key, life-happening show. Then people will get fed up with that and an action show will come along and be a smash hit."

That, in a sense, is what happened to "Mannix." It came along in 1967 and marked one of those turning points in television. The era of the spy, the undercover agent and the hero with a fistful of gimmicks was coming to an end.

"Mannix" was a two-fisted private eye, a return to the old tradition. And it caught on. It came, too, at a time when the Western was fading and the public was looking for a more contemporary hero.

Originally, Joe Mannix was just a cog in a big computer-run investigative agency. Connors said, "The basic premise was that I would fight the Establishment and the computerized procedures. That's what intrigued me originally. But you can't do that every week. Somebody's going to say, 'Why doesn't he quit?' Which was the next step, and in the second year Mannix was on his own."

"Mannix" holds its own against the "NBC Sunday Mystery Movie," which offers detectives with gun on hip and tongue in cheek. The light, humorous touch works well for "Columbo," "McMillan and Wife" and "McCloud."

Connors said, "I fought for tongue in cheek cracks early in our show, but the producers said it wouldn't work. Finally, we tried it and I saw that they were right. If you're too cute or too flip it takes something away from the honesty of the character."

The 6-foot-1, 185-pound Connors, of Armenian descent, was born Krekor Ohanian in Fresno, Calif., about 48 years ago.

He won't reveal his exact age. He served in the Army Air Corps in World War II and then entered UCLA where he became a basketball star.

It was on the court that young Ohanian attracted the attention of movie talent scouts. He was planning to become a lawyer, but switched to drama. Later, he attended Southwestern University Law School at night for two years.

He changed his name to Touch Connors and got his first acting job with Joan Crawford in "Sudden Fear."

He married his college sweetheart, Mary Lou Wiley, and sold brushes door to door, waxed floors and put in sprinkler systems until he could support himself as an actor.

A break came in 1959 when he was signed to play a part in "Tightrope."

He went on to costar in such movies as "Where Love Has Gone," "Harlow," "Good Neighbor Sam" and "Situation Serious — But Not Hopeless."

It was during this time that he changed his name to Michael Connors and finally to Mike Connors.

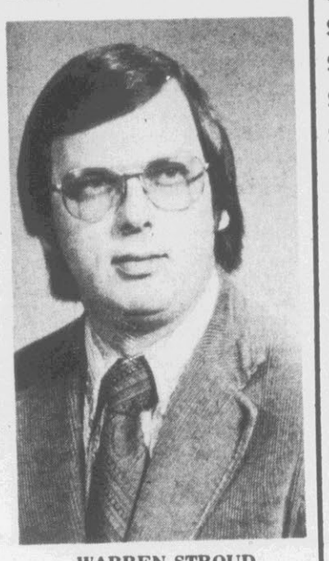
"I have always been a frustrated night club performer," he said. "I think that would be the most exciting form of entertainment. In fact, I tried my hand at it once in Mexico and South America around 1961. If I bombed I could always say that they didn't understand the language. I lasted 10 weeks in Mexico City — but they knew me from 'Tightrope.'"

Connors, who would like "Mannix" to go on for one more year, if not longer, was asked if he wanted to get away from playing detectives.

"I'd love to do comedy," he answered. "Basically, I like action-type characters. If I do a motion picture I'd like to do something on the order of what Cary Grant did in "To Catch a Thief" and "North by Northwest." A very upbeat action picture, which they don't seem to be doing much of any more."

Stroud Will Aid In Drive

Buff Chalk, the 1973-74 fund raising chairman for the Pitt County Heart Association, has announced the appointment of Warren Stroud as Greenville city chairman for the upcoming campaign.



WARREN STROUD

Stroud, a native of LaGrange, is married to the former Evelyn Jackson of Goldsboro, and they have one son, Keith, two.

Employed by WOOW Radio Station, Stroud has resided in Greenville since 1967. He is a member of the board of directors of the Greenville Jaycees.

The following persons will work with Stroud on the campaign: Mrs. Clyde Owens, benefits chairman; David Womack, business day chairman; Dr. Frank Saunders, Heart Sunday chairman; Jerry Cunningham, balloon and tag chairman; and Chuck Connely, calendar chairman.

"We have a tremendous task ahead, but the enthusiasm of the various chairmen indicates that a successful campaign will result," Stroud said. "We also ask for the support of the citizens of Greenville. With this support, we will be able to aid in combating the nation's number one killer, heart disease.

Scholarship Is Awarded

A financial scholarship grant-in-aid in memory of Miss Mabel E. Garriss of Conway, has been awarded to Rose Wiley Massey, a senior in the East Carolina University School of Home Economics.

The award of $150 was made on behalf of Alpha Kappa chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma by Mrs. John P. Stainback of Roanoke Rapids, special scholarship chairman. Miss Massey, of Gaston, transferred to East Carolina from Chowan College and has achieved an excellent academic record, according to Dean Miriam B. Moore. She is a member of the Honor society in Home Economics.

Conspicuous In Odd Costume

PRESTON, Lancashire, England (AP) — Soccer fan Barry Levitt learned in court here the importance of being correctly dressed for the occasion.

After throwing a bottle, which narrowly missed a policeman, Barry, 21, ducked back into the crowd.

But policeman Jack Baldwin told the court he had no trouble recognizing Levitt because he was "very distinctively dressed." Levitt had a pair of red panties on his head and was wearing a long embroidered white coat. Levitt was fined 75 pounds — $187.

TREES FOR SAFE DRIVING

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — In the past year, California planted 1,245 acres of trees and shrubs along the 15,000 miles of state highways. The plantings will continue to help "take the squint, din and danger out of driving," a highway commission spokesman said.

Ala. Lawmakers 'Deskbound'

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Eating their lunch at their desks has become a habit with Alabama legislators. One had to rush to the microphone recently with his mouth full of steak, and was chided for it.

"My mama taught me it was impolite to talk with my mouth full," Sen. Joe Fine of Russellville told Sen. George Lewis Bailes of Birmingham.

Bailes replied between chews: "It's about the only time I can eat, playing traffic cop with this bunch of thieves."

Needless Loss In Texas Peanuts

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Use of improper or poorly adjusted equipment cost Texas peanut growers $1.5 million in damaged peanuts last year.

James S. Denton, area economist for the Texas Agricultural Extension service, said the faulty equipment causes split kernels, loose shelled kernels and foreign material in the peanuts, lowering their grade.

Business Notes

HIGHS REACHED

David H. Rankin, president of Eckerd Drugs Inc., announced that sales and unaudited net earnings after taxes reached all time highs for the second quarter and first six months of the current fiscal year.

Rankin reported that net sales for the 26 weeks ended Sept. 29 were $81,366,000, compared with $67,379,000 for the same period last year. For the 13 weeks ended Sept. 29, sales were $40,301,000 compared with last year's $33,356,000.

Net income amounted to $2,252,000 for the 26-week period, an increase over $2,151,000 in 1972. For the 13-week period this year, income was $1,050,000, compared with $1,000,000 last year.

MAN OF THE MONTH

M. J. "Buddy" Howard, a sales representative with Procter & Gamble Co., has been named Man of the Month in the Atlanta Case Food Sales Division.

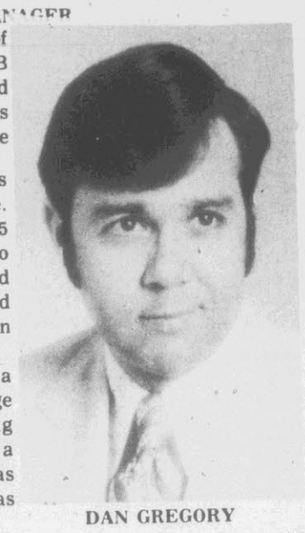
Howard was selected for his achievements in sales and merchandising for the month of October.

NEW MANAGER

Dan B. Gregory, manager of the Durham office of NCNB Mortgage Corp. has been named manager of the company's Home Mortgage Division office here.

A Winston-Salem native, he is a graduate of Guilford College. He joined the company in 1965 and served in the Greensboro office prior to being appointed an assistant vice president and manager of the Durham office in 1970.

NCNB Mortgage Corp. is a member of the NCNB Mortgage Group, mortgage banking subsidiaries of NCNB Corp., a holding company which has North Carolina National Bank as its principal subsidiary.



DAN GREGORY

CONSERVING ENERGY

Thorne Gregory, president of Branch Banking and Trust Co., announced that BB&T offices are taking several steps to conserve energy.

Gregory said that office thermostats are lowered to 68 degrees during working hours, company vehicles are driven at posted speed limits or less, Christmas decorations will not be illuminated, billboard lighting has been cut off, and bank identification signs will not be illuminated after banking hours.

China Is Rich In Incredible Ancient Treasures

By GREGORY JENSEN

LONDON (UPI) — All around it are priceless treasures, the riches of ancient China. But one of the most thought-provoking exhibits in London's current Peking-sponsored show of Chinese antiquities is a photograph of a hill.

"This mound covers the tomb of the Chin Emperor Shih Huang Ti, the unifier of China," the picture's label says. This emperor, who died in 202 B.C., is the one who built the Great Wall of China.

"Incredible treasures are recorded as being buried with Shih Huang Ti" within this huge mound, surrounded by a mile-wide wall. Yet, the label says, "so far archeologists have not excavated it..."

This is a little like knowing the precise location of Troy, or Egypt's Valley of the Kings, and leaving them untouched.

Dig They Must

China holds unnumbered Troys, still untouched. Seven thousand unbroken years of history have honeycombed China's soil with equivalents of many Valleys of the Kings, and most still await the archeologist's spade.

One lesson of the current Peking exhibit is the staggering number of discoveries made in the last 25 years. Another lesson is how many are still left to be made.

"The Chinese are in no hurry," said a British Broadcasting Corp. (BBC) reporter after visiting Shi Huang Ti's untouched burial mound. "They know how much still lies underground. They can afford to wait."

They have waited a long time. A strange combination of circumstances has kept them waiting, and has kept China the richest archeological trove on earth.

The Chinese have always built of wood, and palaces and temples burned or crumbled. Civil disorder and dynastic wars scattered and destroyed the great Imperial collections. With few exceptions, almost nothing ancient remains above ground in China.

Tomb Furnishings

But under the ground are numberless tombs, stuffed with unimaginable riches. The Chinese furnished their dead with everything necessary or desirable in life. Sometimes actual belongings were buried with the dead; sometimes mere funerary models were buried—exquisite works of art representing servants, musicians, horses, houses.

And once buried, the dead stayed buried. The ancient Chinese believed death was merely prolonged sleep.

The dead still owned their houses and lands, and might reclaim them at any moment. Excavation disturbed their slumber, and the very stability of the world depended on the ancestors sleeping on.

Thus serious archeology remained unknown. Only irreverant tomb robbers pilfered tombs to furnish Western museums. A few Westerners tentatively began scientific archeology in the 1920s, but the Japanese war and then China's civil war cut that short.

But with the Communist takeover of 1949 the waiting ended. Archeology simply exploded. Discoveries came faster than people could properly dig them up. Hundreds upon hundreds of sites are now known but not yet touched.

Imperial Riches

Emperor Shih Huang Ti's mound tomb is one. Another is the double tomb of Empress Wu, who hacked her way to power in the 8th Century and then ruled supremely well, and her overshadowed emperor-husband.

Since 1950 alone, writes John Hay in "Ancient China," a book just published to coincide with the London exhibition, more than 400 Stone Age sites have been located in just one river valley. One of them measures more than a million square yards.

Every one of the 385 exhibits in the current show was discovered in the last 25 years. Many of the most spectcular were found less than five years ago.

"Every month brings news of new discoveries in widely separated parts of the country," reported David Bonavia, Peking correspondent of the London Times.

Spectacular Find

The latest spectacular find was announced in October—20 tombs dating as far back as 770 B.C. with what the Chinese news agency called "many rare historical treasures."

"Recent reports tell of the opening of two imperial tombs of the (8th Century) T'ang dynasty," Bonavia wrote. "Discovered in one tomb alone were some 600 funerary objects, mostly ceramic.

"When one considers the prices that T'ang ceramics command on the world market today, ($30,000 to $60,000 for quality objects) one can confidently state that China is sitting on a fortune."

Panama To Employ Students

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — The Panama Canal Co. is planning to hire about 300 Panamanian high school and university students during the 14-week period from Jan. 2 through April 6, 1974, when Panamanian students are on school vacation.

High school seniors over 16 years old are designated as student aides and receive $1.60 an hour and students at the university levels are appointed student assistants and get $1.75 an hour.

Those Good Old Steam Cars; Where Are They Now?

A STANLEY STEAMER (at top) is given a push and at bottom the Cooper Electriv Van IIIB was put into service in Birmingham, Mich. by the Water Department. (UPI Telephoto)

By EDWARD S. LECHTZIN
UPI Auto Writer

DETROIT (UPI) — Could it be back to "the good old days" for automobiles in this gasoline-short era?

At the start of the 20th Centruy, the gasoline-powered car started out a poor third to its steam and electric counterparts. That didn't last long and soon the steam and electric autos were left far behind and nearly forgotten.

Now there's renewed interest in these power sources, the gasoline and oil situation being what it is.

In 1900, when 4,195 vehicles were manufactured in this country, 1,681 of them were powered by steam, 1,575 by electricity and only 939 by gasoline engines. The steamers lasted until the 1930's and they attracted a loyal and vocal following.

"There was an instantaneous leap in response to the throttle, unmtchable by any gasoline car," remembers an aging owner of a steam car.

Oldtimers

At one time in the first 20 years of the century, more than 125 different makes of steam cars were on U.S. roads, bearing such names as the White, Mobile, Locomobile, Lane, Clark, Grout, Gearless, Delling and Doble.

By 1920, just a few remained and in 1925, the Stanley Steamer—the greatest of them all—had disappeared.

The Stanley brothers—twins Francis E. and Freeland O.—built their first steamer in 1897 although, they admitted later, "We knew but little about steam engines and less of boilers." Before the final Stanley Steamer was built in 1925, the company produced 18,000 cars.

"It is graceful and rakish in outline and unlike any gasoline car that can attain an equal speed, it has no odor, noise or vibration," an advertisement for a 1916 Stanley Steamer Roadster said. "It can be run through city streets without attracting the least attention except for its neat appearance."

But the Stanley brothers adhered to an old tradition of craftsmanship and refused to mass produce their cars, relying instead on hand-built bodies to bear their name. They always were behind in their orders and couldn't hope to compete with the innovative methods of Henry Ford.

Fuel Economy Problem

There has been renewed interest in the steam or Rankine cycle engine, but fuel economy remains a problem. In a recent California bus experiment, steam power plants consumed about three times the fuel of a diesel-powered bus.

Other problems include large weight and size, cost, water consumption, water freezing and lubrication.

Another engine being studied, especially by the Ford Motor Co., in this country, is the Stirling engine. An external burner heats a gas—usually hydrogen—sealed inside the engine and the expanding gas drives the pistons.

The experimental engines hve proved to be clean, quiet and economical, but the engine still presents some packaging problems, primarily because of the need for a very large radiator.

From the standpoint of a gasless car, the electric car probably is receiving the most attention. It emits no exhaust fumes and is virtually noiseless.

But it can't travel very far without being recharged, weighs much more than a comparable gasoline-fueled car and would be more expensive to produce until it could be built under mass-production methods.

Battery Power

In discussing the battery electric power plants recently, General Motors President Edward N. Cole said they "simply transfer the problems from the tailpipe of the automobile to the smokestack of the central electric generating station."

Until there is a breakthrough in battery technology, the electric car has a very restricted role in the transportation system, Cole sid.

All the major U.S. automakers took part in the electric car resurgence of the mid-1960's, but admitted in a few years that they had been a little "overenthusiastic" about the potential of major battery breakthrough.

There are a number of electric cars on U.S. roads now, some conversions of regular gas-powered cars and others specially designed as electrics.

The electrics are most often considered as urban vehicles where only short distances are traveled and as the only serious means of shifting part of the energy burden away from the auto's present almost-total dependence on petroleum fuels.

Electric Van

The city of Birmingham, Mich., a Detroit suburb, recently began testing a new electric van developed by the Copper Development Association (CDA). Know as the Copper Electric Van IIIB, it was put into service with the Birmingham Water Meter Department where it will operate with other gasoline-powered vans.

"With the cost of gasoline going up rapidly and the supply situation for the future somewhat uncertain, we are pleased to have the opportunity to test n electric van," said Mayor Ralph W. Moxley.

The vehicle was built specifically for the stop-and-go driving found in suburban use.

Preliminary data showed its top speed was 52 miles per hour with a 95-mile range at a constant speed of 40 m.p.h. In typical metropolitan traffic requiring two stops per mile, the range drops to 53 miles.

It's powered by 36, six-volt, lead-acid storage batteries similar to the batteries used in golf carts.

The low-range and high initial cost is a good example of the reasons the electric vehicle is not ready to displace the gasoline-powered car. The present internal combustion engine may have strong competition in the near future, but not from the steam and electric cars.

Aspirin Safe If Not In Excess

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (UPI) — Aspirin does not cause kidney damage unless taken to excess, according to a study by New Zealand doctors.

A two-year research project by the New Zealand Rheumatism Association has found that aspirin did not cause kidney damage even to patients taking the drug regularly.

Dr. Ron D. Wigley of Palmerston North Hospital, who co-ordinated the research project, said the team did not set out to dispute that aspirin with other combinations of drugs caused kidney damage.

"But under medical supervision, people may take up to 12 aspirins a day and consider their kidneys quite safe," Wigley said.

The most popular and available collector's items among Peruvian antiquities are pottery stirrup-spout water pots.

MRS. EL RAMEY

Mrs. El Ramey's A Dreamer And A Worker

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

FARMVILLE—A dream brought a 12-year-old Lebanese girl to America. A dream of success for her children sustained her through financially trying, though happily married years. A dream reunited her with her mother after 50 years' absence. And Mrs. Essie Abeyounis El Ramey still dreams—"I may go back to Lebanon again in a few years," she said.

"But not to stay," she hastened to add. "Farmville is my home."

Mrs. El Ramey works in Economy Dress Shop here every day except Sunday from 8 to 5:30. Either her needle or her sewing machine are in use constantly. She shortened several skirts for a customer as she talked about her early years:

"My daddy decided to go to America in 1911," she said. "I'll never know whether he was expecting to make his fortune or whether he just wanted the adventure. Anyway, I insisted on going with him. My mama didn't like it, but I cried and got my way.

"We arrived at Ellis Island in the fall of 1911. I was never sure of the date." (Not knowing that date and the name of the ship on which they came kept her from getting her American citizenship for many years, until Farmville friends signed affidavits making it possible in 1960.)

"We first went to Lawrence, Mass., where we had relatives," she continued. "I was planning to get a job in the mill there, but Massachusetts law required that I go to school instead.

"A year and a half later, we moved to Dover, N. H., and I worked in a mill 10 hours a day, counting the tiny wires in weaving frames and adding or taking away some if there were more or fewer than 50. I earned $5.35 a week and Daddy made $7.50 a week, And on that, we saved some money.

"But Daddy began to think of home, my mother, and the other children there.

"So I went to Greenville to live with my brothers, J. R. and R. R. Abeyounis. They ran a mercantile store at Five Points there, where Larry's Shoe Store is now. I went to school where Sheppard Memorial Library is now.

"Then later I went to Belmont Abbey to the Sisters' school. There I was forced to learn pretty good English, because they said, 'Learn the language or don't say nothin.' In Greenville, I'd been able to speak Arabic most of the time among my family and other Lebanese people there."

A Long Courtship

It was in Belmont that she met her husband-to-be, Joseph El Ramey. "My brother sent me some button-up shoes and told me if they didn't fit to take them down to his friend, Joe's store and have the buttons moved a little." Almost 10 years later after school was finished and she had worked as her brother's housekeeper and as a clerk in his store for several years, she married Mr. El Ramey.

"I went out with Mr. El Ramey one time before we were married," she said. "He asked me right in front of my brother if I would like to go and see the movie, 'Birth of a Nation.' I said I'd love to and we went. Going out unchaperoned with a man was really shocking behavior in those days among our people, and I've never known why my brother didn't refuse to let me go."

Another memory centers around Dr. George S. Hatem, featured recently in Parade Magazine as "the most beloved foreigner in China." The now famous doctor lived with the Abeyounises while he was a student. "Shafir was a smart little boy," Mrs. El Ramey remembered. "I'll tell you how smart he was. I had a five-pound box of gum drops Mr. El Ramey had given me secretly. I kept missing candy, so I sewed Shafir's pockets closed. Once he realized that I knew, he came to me and said, 'If you don't let me keep getting your candy whenever I want to, I'm going to tell your brother who gave it to you.' I was caught. I had to let that rascal do exactly what he said till my candy was gone."

"Mr. El Ramey sent five men—his brother, his cousin, Mr. Hatem, Mr. Saad, and Mr. Corey—to ask for my hand in marriage on his behalf. My brother told the five he would talk to me and give them an answer the following Friday. He did not say anything to me and Friday he told them he did not give his consent, that he didn't approve of my marrying someone not from my own hometown of Hammana in Lebanon. Besides, he said, Mr. El Ramey had been in America a long time and had not made his fortune yet.

They Eloped

"After he turned us down, Mr. El Ramey asked if I wanted to marry him in spite of my brother's objections. I said yes. We were not children who didn't know their own minds. He was 41 and I was 26. Lent began the following Wednesday, and according to our families' beliefs a couple had to be married before or wait until after Easter, so we were married on Tuesday.

"We lived in Greenville the first year of our marriage, but moved to Farmville in July, 1925. We opened a dress shop here. Those years through the depression were hard, but our family was happy."

Mrs. El Ramey has three children—Mrs. Charles Edward Matthews of Arlington, Va., Ralph El Ramey, a Wilson insurance agent; and Dr. T. A. El Ramey, a neurologist in Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

"Tommy, six years after he graduated from high school, came home one day and said, 'I want to be a doctor. I've saved $400 and, if you'll help me, I'd like to start to college.' He went over to East Carolina and talked them into letting him in, even though he didn't have the credits he needed. He later transferred to Carolina, got his medical degree at Duke, and was chief resident at Jackson Hospital in Miami, Fla. He worked, his wife worked, and I worked, and Duke University loaned him money for him to make it," she said.

With pay earned during his first six months practice, Tommy gave his mother what he knew she had wished for for many years—a round-trip airline ticket to Lebanon. Friends in Farmville presented her a sizeable gift to help out with incidentals on the trip.

A Welcomed Daughter

For 10 months during 1961 and '62, she strolled the hills of Hammana with her mother and brothers, one a farmer and one a doctor, and their families and friends. Her mother, then 92 years old, was quite alert and active. She was still toasting coffee for her sons' families and washing their handkerchiefs, socks, collars and cuffs, Mrs. El Ramey said.

"Mama told me then that she used to sit and look toward the ocean and wonder if she'd ever see her daughter

"MY HUSBAND WAS A HANDSOME MAN". . .she says. Mr. and Mrs. El Ramey posed for this picture many years ago.

HAMMANA. . .is her hometown in Lebanon. This is a residential area on the outskirts of the town.

"MY PIECEWORK'S NOT FOR SALE". . .Mrs. El Ramey says of the beautiful crocheted, crewel embroidered, needlepoint, and other needlework she does each evening. The needlepoint picture shown here is for one of her granddaughters, she says.

A TOURIST...in her home country Mrs. El Ramey (with camera) visited the Cedars of Lebanon.

On The Local Scene

by Rosalie Trotman

The DAR Chapter House, Farmville, will be the scene of the Jan. 19 wedding of Mary Anne Bilbro and Howard Earl Snyder.

The bride-elect attended Chowan College and is a graduate of Wayne Community College. She is now employed as a certified dental assistant at the University of North Carolina School of Dentistry, Chapel Hill, in the department of pedodonties.

Her finance attended Emory University, Atlanta, Ga., where he was a member of Alpha Epsilon Uplison scholastic honorary society. He is now a senior in the Dental School at the University of North Carolina and is a member of the Delta Sigma Delta professional fraternity.

Karen Gregory and Philip Ray Moore are also planning a Jan. 19 wedding. The couple will exchange wedding vows in the Central Baptist Church, Sanford, Fla.

The bride is a graduate of Seminole High School, Sanford, Fla., and is now a secretary for Shinholser and Logan Attorneys. The bridegroom-elect will graduate this month from Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University, Daytona Beach, Fla.

Mary Ethel Price and Norman Eugene Wood have selected Jan. 26 as the date for their wedding.

A graduate of East Carolina University, Mary is employed by the Trust Department of the First Citizens Banks, Raleigh. Norman is a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, where he was a member of Phi Kappa Sigma fraternity. He is now a real estate broker with Jim Reeves Associates, Raleigh.

Youngsters Begin Grade Teachers

ROTTERDAM, Netherlands (WNS)—Elly Loning, 11, and Beppy Kern, 10, decided that report cards should not be a one-way street. They organized classmated to vote once a month on what marks should be given to teachers. Top grades go to friendly teachers who treat students as equals and who make classes fun and fascinating. "Teachers flunk if they are always serious and frighten us and pick on us and are sarcastic," said Elly. She added that many teachers improved as soon as they began getting report cards.

again. Once she saw me she said she was content to die."

Mrs. El Ramey stayed through the Christmas season with her Lebanese family and visited Beirut, Tripoli, the Cedars of the Lord, and other places of beauty in the land of her birth, but she was never tempted to stay.

A telegram from Tommy while she was there told her of the birth of his first child. And she missed Ralph and his wife and three children and Anisa and her husband and two children. (Tommy and his wife now have three children).

Her beloved Mr. El Ramey, who died in the 1950's is buried in Farmville.

So she returned to her home on Contentnea Street and her store on Main Street here. "Farmville is the only place for me," she said. "I appreciate everybody here more than they know."

ARTIST MAKES

HAMBURG, West Germany (WNS)—Marika Zoff, 28, has given up her sculpture because she is too busy turning out full-length mirrors for the holiday trade. "One mirror is guaranteed to make any stout lady look from 12 to 15 pounds lighter than she really is," explained the artist. The other, which makes skinny ladies look "full and round," is not selling well in prosperous, fat-prone Germany.

Miss Martha Jan Cox Is Bride

MRS. DAN ROGER HARDEE

LEXINGTON—In a double ring ceremony Saturday at 2:00 p.m., Miss Martha Jan Cox became the bride of Dan Roger Hardee in the St. Andrew, U. C. C. here.

The Rev. Terrell Shoffner performed the ceremony. Mrs. Jim Phillips presented a program of organ music.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. James Louis Cox of Lexington, and Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis Hardee of Rt. 3, Greenville.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white organiza gown designed with a high neckline and bishop sleeves. The bodice and beribboned empire waistline was trimmed with sequined scalloped chantilly lace which extended into a detachable chapel length train.

She wore a Camelot cap covered with scalloped chantilly lace with chapel length illusion edged in matching lace. The bride carried a bouquet of white roses centered with a white orchid.

The matron of honor, Mrs. Joe Blackwelder, of Lexington,

Mrs. Joe Blackwelder of Lexington, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. She was dressed in a royal blue velvet gown fashioned with a high neckline, long sleeves, empire waistline, trimmed with tiny pearls. She wore a matching velvet ribbon in her hair and carried a white mum tipped in blue.

Bridesmaids were Miss Andrea Potts of Welcome, and Miss Julia Godwin of Swan Quarter. They were attired like the honor attendant.

Miss Julie Blackwelder of Lexington, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a beige velvet gown designed with a high neckline, long puff sleeves and tiny pearls trimming the waistline. She carried small mums tipped in blue.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Ushers were James Lewis Hardee Jr. of Greenville, and William C. Hardee of Garner, both brothers of the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride selected a lime green coat and dress ensemble with matching accessories. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

After a wedding trip to the mountains, the couple will reside in Lexington.

The bride attended Lexington High School and was a fall graduate of East Carolina University. The bridegroom attended J. H. Rose High School and was a 1973 graduate of East Carolina University where he was a member of Phi Beta Lambda fraternity. He is now employed with Frank IX and Sons of Lexington.

Immediately following the ceremony, a cake cutting was held in the fellowship hall.

The table, covered with a white lace cloth, was accented by white mums tipped in blue surrounded

The table, covered with a white lace cloth, was accented by white mums tipped in blue surrounded by white bridal flowers. Mrs. James G. Cox served the cake and Mrs. James Lewis Hardee Jr. and Miss Janice Davis poured punch.

Good-byes were said to Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Shoaf. Mrs. Keith Moore registered the guests.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Shoaf, aunt and uncle of the bride, entertained at a wedding brunch at the Holiday Inn. The table was accented with arrangements of fall flowers.

Guests included members of the wedding party, relatives and close friends.

The bridegroom's parents honored the wedding party, friends and out-of-town guests at a rehearsal dinner at Berrier's.

The bride's table was accented by fall flowers.

Unequal Lineperson Seeks New Job

By ROGER MARTINDELL
Hagerstown Herald Writer

HAGERSTOWN, Md. (AP) — When it came to raising ladders and cutting cable, Jill Smith found out she wasn't created equal.

She tried to become Maryland's first female telephone "lineperson" recently.

But she wasn't successful.

The 21-year-old Hagerstown woman agreed with her C&P supervisors that she could master the technical aspects of the job, but couldn't raise a ladder or cut a cable like a man. So she left the company.

But she didn't fail in her self-appointed assignment, she said.

She competed for the lineman's position because she wanted a chance to work in a job untraditional for women. She got the chance and has since learned her physical limitations, she said.

"It had to be the best two weeks of my life. It was so different — climbing poles," Miss Smith said.

Her only complaint was that the phone company treated her "too equal."

Despite their skepticism, "the men were very kind," she said.

Except for special efforts by her immediate superiors the company did not make any special arrangements for her employment, Miss Smith said.

Other than asking her if she were afraid of heights and telling her to wear work clothes, C&P did not explain to her the requirements of a lineman's job, she said.

She had never worn work boots before so she had to spend one day of training resting severely blistered feet.

The company did not have work gloves small enough for her.

And she said she did not have a chance to talk over problems peculiar to women with the management.

"I felt very alone. No one ever came up and asked me how I was getting along," said Miss Smith.

"They treated me as an equal and that's why I didn't make it," she said.

The former lineperson declined the offer of an operator's job by C&P because "for me an operator's job is traditional and boring," she said.

Miss Smith, a commercial artist, is looking for another job such as driving a truck or forklift to supplement her income.

She wants a job which pays more than $2 an hour and which makes use of her mind and body, she said.

"I feel women should start working with their minds and bodies more than they do in the traditional jobs where they work in roles created by men," said Miss Smith.

"But I don't think it has to be as severe as to be a lineman," she said.

Holiday Schedule

The Woman's Department of The Daily Reflector announces the following schedule for articles to be published during the Christmas holidays:

All weddings and engagements to be printed on Dec. 23-26 must be submitted by noon Tuesday, Dec. 18.

Other articles and club write-ups will be accepted and printed on a regular daily basis.

Mrs. Tyer To Be Speaker

Mrs. Carol Tyer, of The Daily Reflector, will be guest speaker at the AAUW meeting Monday night at the Developmental Evaluation Clinic. Mrs. Benjamin Lewis, moderator, and Mrs Tyer will comprise a panel addressing itself to current issues in communication.

Refreshments will be served at 7:30 and the meeting will begin at 8:00 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Commuter Across Country Lines

BERLIN, West Germany (WNS) — Wilma Reading, the half-Polynesian singer from Australia, has gone into training for her December performances here. "I am to double by appearing nightly at a theatre and at a night club," she said. "It is a little complicated." The complication: The theater is in East Berlin, and the night club is in West Berlin.

SOCCER POOLS

BRIGHTSTONE, England (WNS)—Dorothy Heathcote, 73, has just won $512,000 in the soccer pools here. "I really don't know anything about soccer," said the retired spinster. "It's just that it's so quiet here on the Isle of Wight that there is nothing else to do but play the pools."

Building Trust Among People Is Woman's Job

By EVE SHARBUTT
AP Newsfeatures Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Gladys Burleigh has held many jobs, all tied by one thread: she feels she has an obligation to young people.

"Our generation has been so remiss in preparing kids for life and caring about them," she said. "I dedicated my life to changing that."

Mrs. Burleigh is executive director of the New York region of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, the first woman to hold the post.

An attractive woman in her 40s, Mrs. Burleigh spends much of her time planning for the future. But the former teacher also recalls lessons she learned from experiences of the past.

"My first teaching job was in rural North Carolina because I couldn't get a job in Baltimore, Md., my home town. I was a starry-eyed, idealistic graduate of Morgan State and it was my first encounter with the back of the bus. The driver told me 'You all ride back there,' and I've never forgotten it.

"I was apprehensive about going south to teach, but I wanted to stand on my own two feet. I managed to survive. For three years I lived there and loved it, but one thing still disturbs me: crops were more important than kids," she recalled.

Mrs. Burleigh organized a band in North Carolina before she went to Georgia and became a band director in Murietta. She says she was the only woman to take a band to the state band jamboree, "where some of those men nearly fainted."

She worked in a Maryland girls' reformatory, which she found the most depressing of her jobs. Then, for a time, she helped find foster homes for children in Baltimore, working for the department of public welfare.

GLADYS BURLEIGH

The period she terms "ten of the greatest years in my life," she spent teaching in New York City, organizing human relations clubs and working with young people she continues to see. Her success brought her to the attention of the Board of Education, and she became coordinator of pupil programs with the office of intergroup education.

"But I learned that the bureaucracy destroyed kids. It was politically oriented, not education-oriented. I feel that unions have ruined the image of the teacher and destroyed his or her credibility. After a while, I felt useless and decided to come out, giving up all my benefits.

"Now I feel useful again. I'm not moving mountains, but I am chipping away," Mrs. Burleigh added.

Among other programs, she hopes this year to institute a special project for ex-offenders.

"There is a lot of talk about crime in the streets but not much is done about it, despite our lip service. People rob in desperation. Many of them are former offenders who can't find jobs. An organization of our type should be more responsive in helping these guys."

The planned assistance includes offering guidance for handling job interviews, how to dress and act for them, and preparation for taking high school equivalency examinations.

"The police-community program we have is pretty good," Mrs. Burleigh added. "We have three separate police systems in New York — city, housing and transit. We try to get them together with people."

Mrs. Burleigh is still very interested in youth programs. She found rap sessions turned off white kids because blacks would often use them to attack and vent hostility.

"So we're working on an international basis with conferences and camps. We hope next year to get kids from several different nations to visit here and meet kids of their own ethnic background, so they can learn themselves about their likenesses and differences," she said.

Mrs. Burleigh admits she is always making plans.

"We don't always know where we're going, but we are always anticipating. A lot of world affairs affect what happens in New York. The energy crisis, for example, could contribute to a rise in antisemitism. The stand taken by Catholics on abortion may react against them. We must plan future programs for that possibility," she said.

She finds it important to work for building trust and understanding among people. "At this point, the country is so totally disillusioned that no one trusts anyone any more," she added.

Mrs. Burleigh says there are many things she still wants to be a part of. In her spare time, she relaxes by playing organ music. She is divorced, and recently completed building a new home in Newburgh, N.Y.

"I can see," she said thoughtfully, "that it's a town I'm going to have to get involved in."

On The Young Side

By MARGARET STEVENS

The senior girls defeated the juniors 18-0 in a Powder-Puff football game held at Ficklen Staduim Thursday.

Senior players were Susie Pittman, Becky Piner, Sarah Willcox, Joanne Durham, Lynn Cargile, Sylvia Carraway, Margaret Carson, Barbara Clemens, Kathy Cunningham, Ann Dail, Jenny Dempsey, Nancy Deyton, Francis Doyle, Faith Entwistle, Delores Johnson, Catherine Joyner, Terry Leggett, Rosalie Varriner, Nance Barber, Lou White, and Lisa Wilson.

Coaching were Scott Wolcott—offensive, Keith Joyner—defensive, and assistants David Walton and Dickie Johnson.

Yesterday the Rose Art Club held a Mini Art Show from 9:00-6:00 at Pitt Plaza. Art students worked for two months making clay objects, earrings, candles, paintings and other articles to sell all under four inches high.

Officers of the Art Club are President, Laura Lang, Vice-President, Karen Buck. Publicity Chairman, Carol Astrow and Secretary, Margot Schaal.

Stuart Wells and Jackie Ferebee will present the "Rose High Report" on WOOW Radio beginning Jan. 7 at 7 p.m. They will continue this report every Monday night for the rest of the school year.

The SGA bought a Christmas tree to place in the cafeteria. Members will decorate the tree tomorrow. The SGA is also sponsoring a school collection of canned goods for the Salvation Army.

Students have worked for months on the original musical "A Christmas Fantasy" which will be held at the Rose High Gym tonight. Admission is free.

A Christmas assembly will be held Friday afternoon at 2:30 with a special presentation of music from "A Christmas Fantasy" by the choir.

Helpful Hints

By United Press International

Turn out unnecessary lights. Save energy.

Plan shopping trips so you can reduce the number of excursions from home to store. Cutting the car trips in half is one way of saving on gasoline.

Fluorescent lighting uses less electricity than incadescent lighting.

Jack-rabbit starts are no way to stretch your gasoline supply.

Keeping the thermostat set at 68 degrees is recommended to all wanting to help conserve fuel. Turn it down to 60 at night.

One sure way to get more miles to the gallon of gasoline: drive a small car.

Make sure the Christmas tree lights are turned off when you leave the house. Leaving them on wastes energy also may lead to a fire.

Cooking Is Fun!

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

A small cookbook called "International Cooking," the recipes collected by the employees of The Long Island (New York) College Hospital, contains a recipe for Zeppole. We've looked long and hard for an easy-to-make and reliable rule for these plain but popular Italian doughnuts and this is it. The recipe was contributed by Amy Stromecki of the hospital's school of nursing and we're delighted to pass along our adaptation of it.

ZEPPOLE
(Italian Doughnuts)

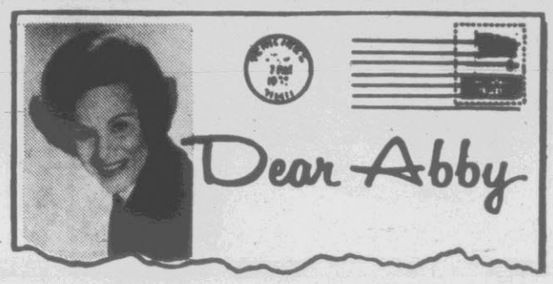
2 eggs
1 cup unsifted flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
Dash of salt
1½ teaspoons granulated sugar
½ pound (1 cup) ricotta cheese
¼ teaspoon vanilla
1 quart (about) corn oil, for frying
Sifted confectioners' sugar

In medium mixing bowl, with medium speed of electric beater, beat eggs until foamy. Add the flour, baking powder, salt, granulated sugar, ricotta and vanilla; beat at low speed until combined; batter will be sticky.

Pour oil into a heavy 3-quart saucepan or deep fryer, filling no more than one-third full. Heat over medium heat to 375 degrees.

Mark off the batter into 4 portions so you can make 9 Zeppole out of each portion. Use a tablespoon to pick up a small amount of batter and with another spoon or a small metal spatula push into hot oil, frying a few spoonfuls at a time; overloading the fryer will lower the temperature of the oil and result in a soggy product. Fry until golden-brown — about 3 minutes; Zeppole will turn themselves. With a slotted spoon remove from oil, drain on absorbent paper and roll in confectioners' sugar. Serve while warm.

Makes 36.



His Sons Need Love And Acceptance

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am 25, and Ken is 40. We've been happily married for six years and have a daughter 5, and I'm expecting again.

My problem: Ken has three sons, 14, 12, and 9, who have been living with his ex-wife, and these boys are hard to handle. I know because we've had them for vacations.

His ex-wife has had three husbands in the last five years, and now she's living with a minor! Ken says it would be easy for us to get custody of his kids now, but Abby, I don't want them. They like me, and I make them mind, but it's so difficult! The older one has run away twice, and the 12-year-old is on probation for shoplifting.

I don't know what I'll do if I have to raise these boys, Abby. I love my husband and don't want to lose him, but I don't think I can handle those wild kids. CRACKING UP

DEAR CRACKING: The boys desperately need love and acceptance. Don't reject them. Your Family Service Child Guidance department can counsel you—and them, too. If they make their home with you, give these problem boys a chance to straighten out. Love creates miracles.

DEAR ABBY: I read an article which stated: "Ninety seven per cent of all married men cheat on their wives—and only six per cent of all married women cheat on their husbands."

I told my husband this, and he said he thought those statistics were way off, that it should have been higher for women, and lower for men.

What do you think? WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: There is probably no other subject about which so many people lie; so where sex is concerned, I wouldn't accept any figure as gospel.

DEAR ABBY: Can a widow celebrate her 50th wedding anniversary if her husband has been dead for 24 years?

My mother wants to place flowers on the church altar and buy a page in the church bulletin to celebrate her 50th wedding anniversary, or in some way to memorialize the date she and my father would be celebrating if he were alive.

Abby, I don't want people to laugh at her, but I have never heard of anything like this. Please help me to guide her. I agree, the day should be remembered in some way, but how should she word the announcement without appearing cuckoo? HER SON

DEAR SON: Your mother could place flowers on the altar in memory of her beloved husband on the day that would have been their 50th wedding anniversary. And she could place such an announcement "in loving memory of my dear departed husband" in the church bulletin.

DEAR ABBY: I have heard that if a man introduces a woman in public as his wife, they are legally married.

If this is true, why is it necessary to obtain a marriage license? NEEDS TO KNOW

DEAR NEEDS: There is a small germ of truth [and then only under special circumstances] in the above statement. Talk to a lawyer in your state about marriage—common-law and otherwise.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Carefully Turns Off T.V. Switch

OLDHAM, England (WNS) — Winifred Fisher made sure to turn off the gas, electricity and water at home before setting off on vacation with husband Robert. What she didn't know was that she had also turned off the master switch of the commercial TV aerial of the entire housing development. Their 70 neighbors on Oswald Street were without TV for three days before officials found the Fishers and got permission to break into their house in order to turn the switch on again.

Chronic Pain Sufferers Get Relief Once A Month

By BRENDA W. ROTZOLL

HANOVER, N. H. (UPI) — A five-minute treatment once a month is helping hundreds of chronic pain sufferers in the New Hampshire area live in comfort without using tranquilizers or drugs.

"The nerve block treatment is a treatment of intractable (unmanageable) pain. During my residency at the Mayo Foundation, patients used to be referred to us for intractable pain after all other possible organic causes had been eliminated. We found by blocking the nerve which caused the pain, the pain eventually sent away in many of them," said Dr. Richard H. Barrett.

Barrett teaches at Dartmouth medical school, was the first anaesthesiologist in New Hampshire, and for 32 years headed the anaesthesia department at Mary Hitchcock Memorial Hospital. He first worked on the technique under Dr. John S. Lundy at the Mayo Clinic.

He said the nerve block not only cuts out pain, in some cases it clears up the condition causing the pain, by restoring circulation.

"The main purpose of it is to keep up the circulation in a given area. Wherever there's inflammation the circulation's apt to be cut down," Barrett said.

"There are a multitude of conditions which can be treatec with it—bursitis, osteoarthritis, which is a degenerative disease of the spine, Bell's palsy—where a patient wakens in the morning with one side of his face paralyzed. This again is due to poor circulation, often after some upper respiratory infection," Barrett said.

He said the nerve block may avoid the onset of gangrene in patients with hardening of the arteries, by improving circulation. And it has been known to clear up a condition called symphatetic reflex dystrophy—where an older person may simply bump a hand, and his whole arm will lose circulation.

"One of the outstanding things which has been helped a lot is the geriatric patient who has osteorthritis, a chronic condition. I have some people in their 90s where I'm blocking it. They get pain relief for about a month so I see them about once a month. It keeps them from getting on any kind of drug medication," he said.

Pain sufferers come to the hospital once a month for an intermuscular injection of procaine or lidocaine in the affected area. They lie down a few minutes, as some of them suffer brief dizziness, then go home again.

There are no special treatment rooms available and they often receive injections in a corner of the anaesthetists' room where patients are prepared for surgery.

"I do somewhat over a thousand treatments a year, on perhaps 300 to 400 patients. I usually do three injections. For some of them that's the end. Some of them I see once a month for the rest of their lives," he said.

"I doubt if there are more than a couple of other places in the country that do any more nerve blocks than we do," Barrett said.

Although the treatment has become better known than in the 40s, "many doctors still don't know about it, or are not willing to spend the time with it," Barrett said.

"It isn't just treating the pain. You treat the whole patient. Pain sometimes is an indication of something else. The nerve block treatment can be used instead of putting patients on tranquillizers and pain relieving drugs," he said.

Old Egyptian God Still Plays Tricks

ISTANBUL, Turkey (AP) — An impish little Egyptian called Bes who was playing tricks over 5,000 years ago is causing trouble again, this time in Istanbul.

His activities have drawn complaints from irate tourists and Turkish police are hot on his trail.

Bes was the Egyptian dwarf-god who presided over marriage, and especially over the marriage feast. He tended to get drunk and play practical jokes, some of which went a bit far. In fact they were downright obscene.

He still has a following in some circles here. A statue of the little god found in the ruins of Ephesus in southwestern Turkey and now kept in the museum at nearby Selcuk, has drawn numbers of locals and foreigners fascinated by his aspect.

The statue, a nude one, shows one part of the god on a much larger scale than the rest. Most of the time the statue is kept velied for fear of giving offense, but the custodian will coyly lift the veil if asked.

Postcards of Bes are on sale in Izmir and Istanbul, and recently key-rings with a miniature reproduction of Bes in all his glory have gone on display at souvenir stalls.

Now some female tourists have complained to the tourist police here that souvenir-sellers are approaching them as they step off their ships in Istanbul harbor and thrusting the key-rings and post-cards at them in the hope of a sale.

The police found themselves in a dilemma.The post-cards can be treated as obscene publications, but apparently key-rings are not mentioned in the Turkish law books under "indecency."

All they could do was pick up the sellers for molesting women, and confiscate their stock.

The Archaeological Museum of Istanbul, which also boasts a statue of Bes, is immume from prosecution. Its version was in two parts, and the offending section had long been relegated to a basement.

Bes has now disappeared from the streets, but still lurks inside souvenir shops. Police are on the alert in case he tries to make another sortie.

Rancher Packs Pistol; He Has Herd Of Crocodiles

EDITOR'S NOTE — Ross Kananga, rancher, packs a pistol. Not to fight rustlers, however. But to protect him from his herd. On the north coast of Jamaica, in the heart of a mangrove swamp, Kananga raises crocodiles.

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON
Associated Press Writer

FALMOUTH, Jamaica (AP) — Rustlers don't bother Ross Kananga's crocodile ranch. A sign at the gate warns: "Trespasser will be eaten."

Kananga started his ranch four years ago on 350 acres of mangrove swamp on Jamaica's north coast. He has a herd of 1,217 crocodiles.

The place is called Swamp Safaris, and tourists can visit the ranch to see the swamps and pools where the crocs live and breed. But Kananga's main business is exporting the valuable skins.

"Crocodile skin now sells for $2 a pound and a whole good skin gets $450," Kananga told a visitor as they sat on the veranda of his rambling frame home encircled by crocodile pools. Tucked into his waistband was a revolver, insurance against Kananga becoming a crocodile's lunch.

Kananga comes from Florida where the crocodile is nearly extinct because of massive killing by skin hunters. The World Wildlife Fund reported recently from Switzerland that 15 of 21 crocodilian species all over the world "are already considered as seriously threatened."

Crocodiles are still found in Jamaica, and Kananga, in his late 20's, says controlled farming is the best way to save them. While he and his helpers annually kill some of the crocodiles for skin, other crocs are being hatched at the ranch to replace them.

Crocodiles are greener and have sharper noses than alligators, which are still found in the United States. Crocodiles are more dangerous and can reach 4,000 pounds and 15 feet in length, Kananga said.

Kananga's crocodiles devour 6,000 pounds of assorted meat every week. "Horse, cow, chicken, dog. It's all ground up together.'

Each January, Kananga and his helpers go out into the swamp at night with flashlights and guns to harvest their crocs for the market.

Recently hatched crocodiles are kept in smaller pens. Crocodiles lay their eggs on dry ground. Kananga plans to build 16 artificial islands in the swamp to provide more egg-laying ground.

"When people come here, I show them how dangerous crocs can be and also how gentle," he says. "I can call one of them and he will come to the edge of the water and put his head on my knee.

"Now, that croc there almost killed me one day," Kananga said, pointing to a pair of eyes peering from the middle of the main pond. "He's still after me."

Kananga walked out to the end of a board over the pond. The board is used to call the crocs at feeding time.

"I don't even have to call this one," he said, as the crocodile slid below the surface and headed for the board.

Kananga dangled an arm over the water. The pond boiled up under the board and 350 pounds of crocodile shot into the air, its jaws snapping at his hand.

Kananga quickly pulled it away and got off the board.

"One day I was cleaning out one of the pits and that croc came out of the water after me. Now, usually they stop after a few feet. But this one was unsually aggressive.

"The pen was surrounded by an 8-foot chain-link fence. I grabbed for it, but the fence just came right down. Luckily another guy was nearby and he pulled me out. But the croc tore off my shirt. He was aiming for my kidneys."

Kananga is a slim man with deeply tanned skin, longish hair and lengthy sideburns. His hands are scarred with crocodile bites. "But at least I still have all my fingers." His legs and face bear other scars.

Recently, he began a profitable sideline to his crocodile ranching, the movies.

"Papillon," a film based on the book by Henri Charriere, is being filmed in Jamaica.

"Part of Papillon has been shot on my land," said Kananga. "There was one scene where a guard shoots a crocodile and orders Steve McQueen and Dustin Hoffman to retrieve it. But when they get there, the croc is still alive.

"We tied the croc down and bound its jaws. When the guard fired the blank, I poked it with a stick hidden in the water to make it move around a bit.

"Still, McQueen and Hoffman were pretty scared. When they got up to the crocodile, Steve said to Hoffman, 'You take the head.' "

Kananga himself appears in the latest James Bond spy picture "Live and Let Die," also filmed in Jamaica. He doubles for star Roger Moore when Bond flees the bad guys by running across the backs of three crocodiles in a swamp.

For that brief scene, Kananga received $60,000. He explains why:

"Something like that is almost impossible to do. So, I had to do it six times before I got it right. I fell five times. The film company kept sending to London for more clothes. The crocs were chewing off everything when I hit the water, including shoes. I received 193 stitches on my leg and face."

Still, not all the danger is in the swamp.

Kananga hobbled about the ranch recently with a broken ankle.

Crocodiles?

"No, a motorcycle accident."

Marriages See Decline

CARSON CITY, Nev. (UPI) — Changing life styles may be responsible for a sudden decline in Nevada's lucrative marriage business.

Jack Homever, chief of vital statistics for the Nevada Health Division, said the number of marriages declined four per cent to 49,234 during the first half of the year. In recent years, the number had been rising steadily.

Homever said divorces continued the slow decline of recent years.

"More people are living together without getting married," Homever theorized. "More and more are trying to find the right partner before they wed."

"A couple goes through the adjustment period and then if they are mrried, there is less chance of a divorce," he said. "A couple which doesn't solve the early problems splits up without the need for a divorce. If they decide to get married, the marriage will come after they already have surmounted the initial problems."

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Today's Full Moon has many tests, but if you take them in your stride you can accomplish a very great deal. If you upset present conditions because you are restless and want changes you may land behind the eight-ball.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Get out to the services that inspire you, but use caution in motion. Don't react sarcastically to the comments of others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Although you may feel unhappy with your present financial set-up, this is not the time to make any radical or thoughtless changes. Get advice from experts.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be charming to gain cherished wishes. Don't use radical plan now for social advancement. It could get you into hot water instead.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Keep promises made to others instead of fretting over them. Assist others with their problems, also. Put your religious beliefs to work.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make this a day of rest instead of permitting your overly energetic friends to take you out for strenuous sports. Do something thoughtful for mate.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) You can handle outside affairs well now, so get busy early. Plan what must be done so you improve image with the public.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Check new ideas with a trusted adviser, or you could get into trouble. Don't permit a new contact to get you off the track.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Use good judgment handling any problems today instead of following hunches. Make allowances for an associate who is not feeling well or acting quite right.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) An associate wants to make new arrangements, so listen carefully but don't commit yourself until you have slept over them. Don't give advice.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Show appreciation to one who has done you many favors. Plan time to rest and relax. Don't neglect spiritual studies.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Have a delightful time without spending too much. Find out what one you like would appreciate, then try to please.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Show devotion to home ties since they feel neglected. Steer clear of talks with others that could mean arguments. Think.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will have a mind that literally roams the universe. Plan now to give a fine education to this unusual youngster who can then achieve real fame and fortune. Situations arise very quickly in this life which only proper training will fit to handle satisfactorily. A powerful, fast thinker here. Much travel is denoted.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, DECEMBER 10, 1973

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Matters from the past and unfinished business should be put aside for the day. Show you are willing to be up-to-date in your thinking and in your activities. Put a unique touch to whatever talents and aptitudes you have.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are able to contact those who have the information you need. A condition at home will right itself if left alone. Be logical.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Approach your financial situation from a new position and see where you can cut expenses. Contact business expert for advice.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) If you use a new system you can now get the results you need. You can make progress by joining a new group that fascinates you.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) You can get ahead faster if you adopt a more modern thinking mood. Make new friends who are clever and have true vision.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make improvements to your home so it is more comfortable. Steer clear of individuals who want to lead you in the wrong direction.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find new appliances that will make your work lighter and more profitable. Take up a new hobby that will really interest you.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Studying new outlets and new data can prove interesting and profitable in the future. Contact an expert for the data you need.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Find the right way to gain the favor of regular associates and make your joint alliance more profitable. Be thoughtful to others.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Begin the new week properly by reaching accord with a disgrunted associate. Show co-workers that you are cooperative.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Using a different tactic where your regular job is concerned can make it yield better results. You can now solve old problem.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You can become inspired at new activities at this time. Avoid a tendency to let others take advantage of you. Be more resolute.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make your home more operative and comfortable instead of fretting about its condition. Extend invitation to an interesting person.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those imaginative people who needs right training in order to make the most of fine qualities. Send to schools where old standard ideas are combined with the new. Teach to complete whatever has been started. Ethical and religious training should begin early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for January is now ready. For your copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Righter Forecast (name of newspaper), P.O. Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

First Eastern Carolina Christmas Carol Sing at ECU On December 13

Christmas season 1973 ushers in a new university-community event with a School of Music Christmas Concert and Community Christmas Carol Sing scheduled for 8:15 p.m. Thursday in Wright Auditorium.

ECU Chancellor Dr. Leo Jenkins will welcome the residents of Pitt County and the surrounding area to the first annual "Eastern Carolina Christmas Carol Sing," which will feature the University Orchestra, Wind Ensemble, Chorale, Chamber Singers, and Men's and Women's Glee Club—and the combined voices of all who attend.

Over 200 students and faculty of the School of Music will provide traditional Christmas music which will alternate with audience singing of carols. All carol singing will be accompanied by either the Wind Ensemble, under the direction of Herbert Carter; or the University Orchestra, conducted by Robert Hause.

Leroy Anderson's Sleigh Ride will be the opening number, to be performed by the Wind Ensemble. Carol singing by the Men's Glee Club will be directed by George Packer, and Dr. Charles Moore will direct the Chamber Singers.

Following a brief talk by Dr. Jenkins to open the second and final portion of the program, the ECU Orchestra will perform selections from Tschaikovsky's Nutcracker Suite. The Women's Glee Club, conducted by Miss Beatrice Chauncey; and the University Chorale, under Danny Tindall's direction, will sing seasonal music.

A final group of carols will conclude the evening with the orchestra, choirs and audience all joining in singing Silent Night.

This event is free and open to the public.

Porter Wagoner Show Coming To Snow Hill

Country music stars Porter Wagoner and Dolly Parton will appear in person in Snow Hill on Saturday, Dec. 15, 1973, at the Greene Central High School Gym. Show time is 8:00 p.m. for this program sponsored by the High School Boosters Club.

Wagoner and Miss Parton, operating out of Nashville, both record for RCA Victor records and appear regularly on the Grand Ole Opry. They have been appearing together as a team since 1967 when Miss Parton joined the nationally syndicated Porter Wagoner Television show.

Awarded for the Best Vocal Performance by a Duet two years in a row by the Country Music Association, both have also achieved success as individual artists.

Appearing with Miss Parton and Wagoner will be comedian Speck Rhodes, and The Wagonmasters band, instrumental groups in country music. All members of the road show can be seen regularly on the Porter Wagoner Show on television, which plays coast to coast.

WINSTON-SALEM—The North Carolina School of the Arts will present Lynn Peters, double bass, in recital today at 8:15 in Crawford Hall.

The program, which is open to the public at no charge, will include Concerto in G Major by Telemann, Sonata for Double Bass by Hindemith, Per questa bella mano by Mozart, and Concerto in E minor by Koussevitzky.

Christmas Concert

The North Carolina School of the Arts Chamber Choir, David Partington, conductor, will present a Christmas concert Tuesday, December 11, at 8:15 in Crawford Hall.

Thirteen modern dance students will join the twenty-two member choir in an interpretation of Brahms' Song of Mary, choregraphed by Nelle Fisher. The role of Mary will be danced by Karen Shields.

Ave Maria by Josquin des Pres, Magnificat by Antonia Vivaldi and Motets for the Season of Christmas by Francis Poulenc will complete the program. Harry Nuff, organ, will be the accompanist.

The program is open to the public at no charge.

Members of the chamber choir are Gwendolyn Bradley, Marilyn Robbins, Gale Washington, Marymal Holmes, Wanda Steele, Mary Endress and Debbie Smith, sopranos; Donna Stephenson, Kit Bardwell, Judy Cloud, Kathy Rosen, Esther Young and Jan Elder, altos; Louis Turner, Johnnie Morrison, Patrick Cauble and Walter High, tenors; Sherman Lowe, bass; Steve Woodbury, John Patterson, Bill Williams and Freddie Matthews, baritones.

The danders are: Jennifer Clark, Debbie Pratt, Tammy Groce, Michael Freed, Erica Robbins, Paul Stone, Serena Richardson, Alexander Whitcraft, Joe Jolloway, Martha Curtis, Mariko Deal and Sam Tampoya.

Music On Campus

Readers are asked to take special note that a faculty piano recital by Peter Takacs, previously scheduled for today, has been cancelled.

In the last week of Music on Campus before the Christmas holidays, a two part senior recital at the beginning of the week and a School of Music Christmas Concert later in the week will wind up ECU's musical offerings for the calendar year 1973.

The two events this week are:

Monday, December 10—8:15 p.m., Recital Hall—Linda Metz, senior recital, flute; and Craig K. Mills, senior recital, bassoon.

Miss Metz, of Cary, a student of Beatrice Chauncey, will be accompanied by Donna Grose and Carleen Ragan. She has listed three works for her recital—J.S. Bach's Sonata in C Major, No. IV; Concerto for Flute by Jean Rivier; and Hector Villa-Lobos' Bachianas Brasileiras No. 6.

Craig K. Mills of Richmond, Va., a student of John Heard, is to perform two compositions—Sonata for Bassoon and Harpsichord by John Galliard; and Sonata for Bassoon and Piano by Alvin Etler. He will be accompanied by Donna Grose, harpsichord and piano, and assisted by Wendy Harmon, cello.

Thursday, December 13—School of Music Christmas Concert.

Central News Features Local Poets, Writers

As a special community service for the Christmas season (and afterwards too), Irving Ertis, manager of Central News and Card Company in downtown Greenville, has inaugurated a local writers corner featuring poems, short stories, novels and other writings by local authors.

"I'm happy to be able to do this," Ertis said about this venture, the first of its nature in Greenville. "I hope it will work out well and give people in our community a chance to find something of interest to them." Ertis said he feels "the intellectual interests of the Greenville community will make this a worthwhile venture."

Ertis also manages news outlets in New Bern, Kinston, Havelock and Thomasville.

The biggest number of local writers are those represented in poetry, in 13 separate issues of Tar River Poets published by the Poetry Forum at East Carolina University.

The Tar River Poets series also features the work of well-know Tar Heel and American poets —Sam Ragan, William Stafford, Julia Fields and Robert Platt.

Local poets and writers, many of them affiliated with the Poetry Forum and the Greenville Writers Club, also have been published in Crucible, the annual literary magazine of Atlantic Christian College in Wilson.

More On Writers Contest

In the article carried in last Sunday's art page about the Annual Competition in Poetry, Essay and Short Story in Norfolk, Va., the amount of $22 listed as first prize in the Fanny Rogers Curd Essay contest is in error. The correct amount for the first prize is $200.

Also, not listed in the original story is another category of entry, the Sallie Shepherd Prize in Light Verse, which carries a $75 first prize, $25 second, and $15 third prize.

For entry rules, interested persons are to send a self-addressed stamped envelope (eight cents) to: Irene Leache Literary Contest, c-o Mrs. Fred Martin, 1544 Cloncury Road, Norfolk, Virginia, 23505.

This publication has earned considerable prestige as a first-rate collegiate literary magazine, and draws entries from all over the state.

Local writers whose work appears in available issues of Crucible include Sue Ellen Bridgers, Tom Forbes, Douglas McReynolds, Ann Nelson, Jerry Raynor and Horace Whitfield.

Several of the local writers—Claire Pittman and Douglas McReynolds come to mind—have been published in both Tar River Poets and Crucible.

One promising young poet, Lawrence Blate, whose work was cut tragically short by his death in an automobile accident, is represented in a volume of poetry, A Little of Lawrence. The late poet was brother to a Greenville resident, Mrs. Jules Leshansky.

Ertis said he is also adding to the above mentioned publications Ovid Pierce novels, the Outer Banks legend gooks by Judge Charles Whedbee, Vernon Ward's book of poems, a recently published children's book by Tillie Knowles, and the first book of collected poems published by the ECU Poetry Forum.

Book News

From Sheppard Memorial Library

By KAY TAYLOR

For a relaxing break from Christmas shopping, gift wrapping and decorating put your feet up and enjoy reading a good short story. The following new books are all collections of short stories.

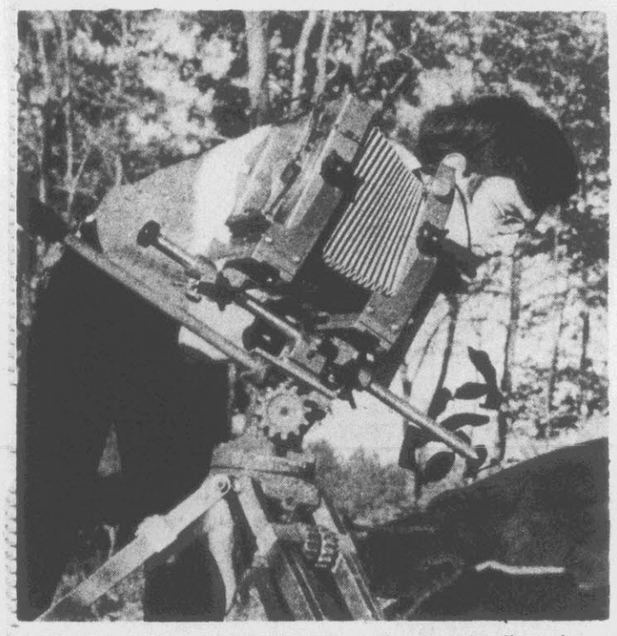
Phoenix Feathers edited by Barbara Silverberg is a collection of tales about mythical monsters on land, in the sea and in the air. Slithering up from the depths of the sea is the kracken, a squid-like creature. Roaming the land is the griffin, a beast with the head of the eagle and the body of the lion, king of the birds and king of beasts; the dragon, a hugh reptile; and the unicorn, a wild ass with a single horn in the center of his forhead. Hovering in the air is the roc, an eagle like bird with such immense strength that it can lift an elephant; the basilisk, a small creature with the head and body of a cock and the tail of the serpent, whose look alone kills anyone; and the phoenix, the most magnificent of the mythical birds. The phoenix, larger than an eagle, is a magical bird. Only one phoenix exists at a time. When it dies, it burns to ashes and is reborn from the ashes.

Phoenix Feathers is filled with interesting tales. Mrs. Silverberg makes the book even more fascinating by including pertinant historical notes about each of the mythical monsters.

Mrs. Silverberg's husband Robert also has a new story collection. Robert Silverberg is a noted science fiction writer and winner of several awards. His latest collection, Unfamiliar Territory is filled with stories of people with extraordinary powers. One couple can travel back in time. Both the husband and the wife have the same goal, return to the time of their grandparents and fix it so the other one will never have existed. Another man can communicate with himself in the past, present, and future. A teenage boy suddenly discovers that he has the power to move objects without touching them. Other stories take place in future civilizations where scientists look back at earth. There is even an imaginative story of time travel in which a travel agency books tours to see the end of the world. Free your mind from the limits of space and time as you read these stories.

For those who enjoy being terrified by a gripping horror story, A Tide of Terror edited by Hugo Lambo is just the thing. These are unusual tales by famous authors. There are stories of ghosts, witches, phantoms, haunted houses, and monsters. Curl up by the fire for these chillers.

The Photo Corner



REVIVAL OF A WORKHORSE. . .The four by five view camera, grandfather of the present day compact camera, is reappearing in the photographer's array of cameras, according to Tommy Forrest, photographer for "The Daily Reflector." Film is inserted in the side, a dark slide is removed, and when the film has been exposed, the dark slide is replaced. Tommy says the good points of this camera are elaborate controls that make precision photography a sure thing. Here, he is shown setting up the workhorse of the 30s and 40s for a planned stilllife. Parker Memorial Print Show On View At Kate Lewis Gallery

A couple of dozen prints by eight recipients of the Alexander Parker Memorial Scholarship and four former East Carolina University Art students form the December exhibit currently on view at Kate Lewis Gallery, in Whichard Building on campus.

In this group, print techniques include lithography, woodcut, intaglio, collograph and serigraph.

There's some color, but black and white or very low keyed colors predominate.

The quartet of former ECU art students are H. E. Smith, now at the University of Windsor, Ontario, Canada; Tom Hammond, University of Georgia; Alvin Dunkle, Theil College in Pennsylvania; and Michael Miller, Chicago Art Institute.

Smith had a show of his prints at the Greenville Art Center last year, and thus the selections from his Faulkner portfolio on view are already familiar. Miller's prints, i.e., "Night Feeders" would be excellent material to illustrate a children's story book where a feeling for fantasy exists parallel with the realism of his work.

Alvin Dunkle's print, "Frozen Pool" is an attractive gray and gray abstraction that seems poised on a fine line between relaxation and tension. Hammond's prints, given to heavy areas of somber shadow, have passages of small text printed in lighter areas.

The Memorial Scholarships are given annually to rising juniors on the basis of outstanding portfolios in graphic arts. The scholarship was established by the parents of art student Alexander Parker following his death in an automobile accident.

This year, eight ECU art students qualifying for the Parker scholarships are represented in this show—Davis Ross, Elizabeth King, Michael Gaston, James Southerland, Mike Goins, Richard Beatty, Paul Harcharik, and David Dunaway. The eight have 20 works in the exhibit ranging from one woodcut by James Southerland to five lithographs by Elizabeth King.

Three prints I enjoyed are Paul Harcharik's untitled collograph, in alternate white areas, black areas, and all shades in between. Interlocking areas complement each other in a stately arrangement of quiet, free flowing forms, contrasted by a single irregular rust colored line in a stark white area.

Donald Dunaway's intaglio, "Lightning, Georgia," is poetic, a softly textured work of warm tonal contrasts, pleasing in the placement of figures and buildings—in a southern summer night.

And Davis Ross' collograph, worked out in indigo and ocher with one highlight spot of deep ruby red, is both a playful and arrogant portrait of a human profile.

Blakeslee Painting To Be Given To NCMA

A small painting, "Still Life With Peaches," by Greenville artist Sarah Blakeslee, is being presented to the North Carolina Museum of Art for the museum's permanent collection.

The presentation will take place at 5:30 p.m. on Tuesday, December 11, following a champagne reception held for the artist, the museum staff, donors who made purchase of the painting possible, and members of the press.

The gift to the N. C. Museum of Art, which is the first work of Sarah Blakeslee acquired for the museum's collection, will be accepted by Acting Director Moussa Domit.

Purchase of the painting was through donations to the Blakeslee Fund, headed by Mrs. Louise Talley, Mason Thomas and Mrs. Nell Dodge. A total of 68 individuals contributed amounts ranging from $2.00 to $50.00 each.

The artist is the wife of another Greenville artist, Dr. Francis Speight.

Gerald Johnson Wins Award

Ceramic Show-Sale Dec. 12

The ceramics guild, a student organization in the Ceramics Department, School of Art, East Carolina University will present an Exhibition-Sale of work from 9:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m., Wednesday, December 12, on the first floor of the ECU Student Union.

Proceeds from this event will be used for the the Summer School Scholarship Fund which grants scholarships to deserving students who wish to attend accredited summer programs and workshops in ceramics.

In the past funds have been raised through participation at the Greenville Art Center's Spring Show with the annual "driveway" sale.

Students have been able to attend such summer programs from scholarship funds at places such as Arrowmont School in Gatlinburg, Tenn., Penland School of Crafts in the N. C. mountains, State University of New York College of Ceramics, and others.

The public is invited to attend the one-day exhibition-sale.

A Review

A Colorful History Of Stamps

United States Stamps and Stories—The Exciting Saga of U. S. History Told in Stamps. Published for the U. S. Postal Service by Scott Publishing Company, 1973, 233 pps, paperback, plus advertising pages, $2.00.

For the boy or girl, teacher or doctor, ditch digger or college student you want to give something that will add a little color to their life, the U. S. Postal Service has come up with a bright, compact booklet likely to become dog-eared and cherished—whether the recipient is a stamp collector or not.

Stamps and Stories, incidentially, is now available over the counter at the Main Post Office in Greenville. A spokesman mid-week said the local post office was making every effort to keep supples in stock, and that 200 additional copies had just been received from Greensboro. If the local post office sells out, it can be ordered directly from the Philatelic Sales Unit, Washington, D. C. (The local post office also has some of the various postage starter units at $2.00 each).

It was not many years ago the Post Office Department was restricted by law to black and white reproductions.

Now with color legal, every stamp issued by the U. S. from the 1847 five and ten cents issues down to and including "Rural America" and the 1973 Christmas stamp is shown in natural colors. Regular issues, commemoratives, air mail, special delivery are treated in full (souvenir sheets are not all shown).

Other U. S. issues are partially shown—revenues, parcel posts, U. S. issues of Shanghai, the Panama Canal, Hawaii and the Philippines, Guam—postal reminders of America's involvement in these places in the 19th and early 20th centuries.

Stamps and Stories is much more than a mere listing and showing of stamps. For one thing, in cooperation with Scott Publishing Company, current catalog values of stamps are given for those interested in the collecting angle.

Interspersed among the listings are capsuled, illustrated histories of important people, and events in American history, listings of U. S. presidents, postmaster generals, indexes, hints on starting stamp collections, color guides, stamp periodical listings, etc.

An international flavor is thrown in with the picturing of foreign stamps relating to America, and there's a fully illustrated listing of stamps of the United Nations.

In brief, this colorful booklet is a miniature encyclopedia of the world of stamps and stamp collecting.

For those who are avid collectors, there's nothing new in these pages. For non-collectors, it's a revelation of the pleasures that can be found studying the bits of gummed paper that carry our mail.

In the hands of young people, this book will surely stimulate renewed interest in the entire spectrum of the American past, and in the men, women, and events that are a part of the American heritage.

'Tis Season Of Arts And Crafts Books

By JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — The country's book publishers, who hope to be ho-ho-hoing it over their Yule sales, are betting that what Americans want under their Christmas trees is something arty or something craftsy.

The art books are a seasonal favorite as they have been for many years—the so-called coffee table books that are gorgeously illustrated and so heavy they can weigh in as barbells.

But another category of books, one that also lends itself to profuse illustration, is coming up strong. These are the craft books that make every man an artist with a wide variety of materials. They vary from beginner to expert advisers — from Advanced Woodwork and Furniture Making, by John L. Feirer and Gilbert Hutchings (Scribners, $14.50) to A Crewel Embroidery Primer, by Constance Bogen (Trident, $7.95).

There are books on macrame, all sorts of variations on needlepoint, leatherworking, crewel embroidery, fiber-working, plastics craft, and there's a new field few are familiar with—Sprang: Thread Twisting, a Creative Textile Technique, by Hella Skowronski and Mary Reddy (Van Nostrand Reinhold, $8.75).

The publishers apparently have decided that while people's fingers are busy, their minds are nostalgic and the result is a rash of show business books.

Disney to DeMille

Some classify as art, as in The Art of Walt Disney: from Mickey Mouse to the Magic Kingdom, by Christopher Finch (Abrams, $35), so profusely illustrated that your childhood favorites spring to mind and you might even find yourself whistling while you work at your needlepoint (there's also a needlepoint book for men by hulking ex-footballer Rosey Grier).

Another beauty is Starring Fred Astaire, by Stanley Green and Burt Goldblatt (Dodd, Mead, $22.50), with more than 800 illustrations —unfortunately all in black and white—that follow Astaire's almost 69 years of dancing. He began when he was 4 and his sister, Adele, was 6, and there's a picture of that act, too.

Other show business greats the publishers suggest for your Christmas gift list include Noel Coward (three books), Duke Ellington, the Marx Brothers, the Gershwins, Dorothy and Lillian Gish, Eddie Condon and Cecil B. DeMille.

People who prefer sports to shows will find the range goes from the more plebian Hockey! the Story of the World's fastest Sport, by Richard Beddoes, Stan Fischler and Ira Gitler (Macmillan, $9.95) to Crowell's Encyclopedia of Dogs, a $25 reference book that's also cute as a cairn terrier, and a great gift for pedigreed dog fanciers.

For the thoroughbred sports fan, Bernard Livingston has written Their Turf (Arbor House, $12.50), a sort of Our Crowd of the horsey set about the first families of thoroughbred horseracing—the Phipps, Vanderbilts, Whitneys and Wideners, as well as about the new crowd, the pros, the tracks. There's even a special chapter on Secretariat with a four-color fold-out of Big Red suitable for framing.

And there are scores more on football, auto racing greats, professional golf, baseball, you-name-it.

Art Is King

Despite the crafts-show bizsports parade of Christmas titles, the art books remain the kings of the Christmas gift book library—and they are royally priced. Generally speaking, they must be if the publisher is to include the elegant color illustrations that make up the bulk of these beauties.

One of the most beautiful is Grandma Moses by Otto Kallir (Abrams, $32.50). It was in Kallir's Glerie St. Etienne that her paintings often hung in one-man shows in New York, and he follows her career lovingly as she uses primitive technique, the simple style, to tell the story of simpler times when ice skating on the hometown pond and horsedrawn sleighs were a way of life in much of America.

Other books that are works of art in themselves include Impressionism, by the editors of Realities, the French magazine (Putnam's $35), and Francisco Goya Drawings: the Complete Albums, by Pierre Gassier (Praeger, $29.95).

Popular Prints of the Americas, by A. Hyatt Mayor (Crown, $12.95) may not be great art, but these prints vary from religious to historical to scenic right on to a number of funny advertising posters that might be the forerunners of "pop art."

They range from an ad for Merchant's Gargling Oil, "a Liniment for Man and Beast," to the May 8, 1909, cover of Motor Sports magazine featuring Motor Matt's Daring Rescue, or The Strange Case of Helen Brady.

Americana

America itself is popular for gift-giving this year, ranging from the Traveller's Guide to American Gardens by Harry B. Logan (McGraw-Hill, $19.95) to the same publisher's two volume American Heritage deluxe boxed set, The Artists' and Writers' America ($37.50) by Marshall B. Davidson.

You also can travel Wild Rivers of North America, by Michael Jenkinson, photographs by Karl Kernberger (Dutton, $10.95) or underwater with Jacques-Yves Cousteau in Three Adventures: Galapagos, Titicaca, the Blue Holes (Doubleday, $9.95).

If you'd rather stay home and play games try Goren on Backgammon by bridge expert Charles Goren (Doubleday, $7.95) or read about Grandmasters of Chess by Harold C. Schonberg (Lippincott, $10) in which even non-chess players can find interesting biographies of the masters, but it's more fun if you know how.

There are a number of just plain interesting books that might make good gifts for someone on your list. They include:

The Imperial Presidency, by Arthur M. Schlesinger (HoughtonMifflin, $7.95); Burr, by Gore Vidal (Random House, $8.95); The Best of Life (Time-Life Books, $19.95), which offers almost 700 pictures; The World at War, by Mark Arnold-Foster (Stein and Day, $10), a one-volume history of World War II; Astounding: John W. Campbell Memorial Anthology of Science Fiction, edited by Harry Harrison (Random House, $7.95); The Harvard Lampoon Centennial Celebration 1876-1973, Martin Kaplan editor (LittleBrown, $29.95), and I Never Danced at the White House, by Art Buchwald (Putnam's, $6.95).

For a stocking-stuffer there's Ave Ogden! (Putnam's, $6.95) in which James C. Gleeson and Brian N. Meyer have taken it into their joint head to translate Ogden Nash into Latin. But it may be all Greek to you.

Writings, personal and family papers given by Lucy Cherry Crisp to the East Carolina University Manuscript Collection

Donates Papers To ECU Collection

Miss Lucy Cherry Crisp of Falkland and Greenville, poet, journalist, and art museum administrator, has donated her personal and family papers to the East Carolina Manuscript Collection at East Carolina University.

Miss Crisp, who Dr. George Washington Carver once described as having "a great spirit," has devoted her life to the advancement of the arts in North Carolina.

During an active career which has spanned almost half a century, Miss Crisp was a columist and feature writer for the Raleigh News and Observer, school teacher, religious counselor at UNC-Greensboro and at the University of Illinois, U. S. O. Club director during World War II, director of the North Carolina State Art Gallery and executive secretary of the State Art Society, director of the Florence, S. C. Art Museum, and director of the Greenville, N. C. Art Center.

As director of the N. C. State Art Gallery from 1947 to 1955, Miss Crisp worked with other art lovers to lay the groundwork for the N. C. Museum of Art which today is nationally famous.

Miss Crisp published the N. C. News of Art (1947-1955) and wrote a Sunday column Tar Heel Art for the News and Observer. In 1956 she published a brief History of the North Carolina State Art Society. During the 1920s and 1930s she was well-known across eastern North Carolina for her News and Observer folk column Byways and Hedges.

As a poet, Miss Crisp published two volumes of verse, Brief Testament and Spring Fever. Her poems have also been published in numerous periodicals and anthologies.

Among Miss Crisp's unfinished works is a biography of Dr. George Washington Carver, a third book of poetry, and a Civil War diary yet to be edited.

Don Lennon, director of the East Carolina Manuscript Collection, said the Crisp Papers "reflect every aspect of Miss Crisp's career from childhood to retirement.

"She was a friend and confidant of such internationally know notables as Dr. George Washington Carver, Lloyd C. Douglas, and Dr. Frank Porter Graham and her papers reflect these friendships," Lennon said.

"Of considerable importance are the voluminous Carver papers which include personal correspondence from the noted Negro scientist, notes of conversations with him, chapter drafts and reference notes for an unpublished biography, and memorabilia of their friendship."

Dr. Carver maintained regular correspondence with Miss Crisp for the last ten years of his life. These letters frequently tell of his work at Tuskee Institute in Alabama and speak of her part of his "dear little prayer family."

Lennon said that the art segment of the Crisp papers is vital to any study of 20th century art in North Carolina. Included is correspondence with such celebrated North Carolina artist as Francis Speight, Claude Howell, Philip Moose and William Fields.

The files also contain letters and reports pertaining to the operation of the State Art Gallery, the N. C. State Art Society, and the beginnings of the N. C. Museum of Art.

Published material in the collection includes copies of most columns, feature articles, newsletters and books authored by Miss Crisp.

One final segment of the collection which should not be overlooked, according to Lennon, are the family and personal papers. These include letters, financial papers, legal records, and other materials of the Gorham and Cherry families dating back to 1841.

Civil War correspondence and a Civil War diary are of particular importance in this group, as are letters of Miss Crisp as a young journalist and teacher.

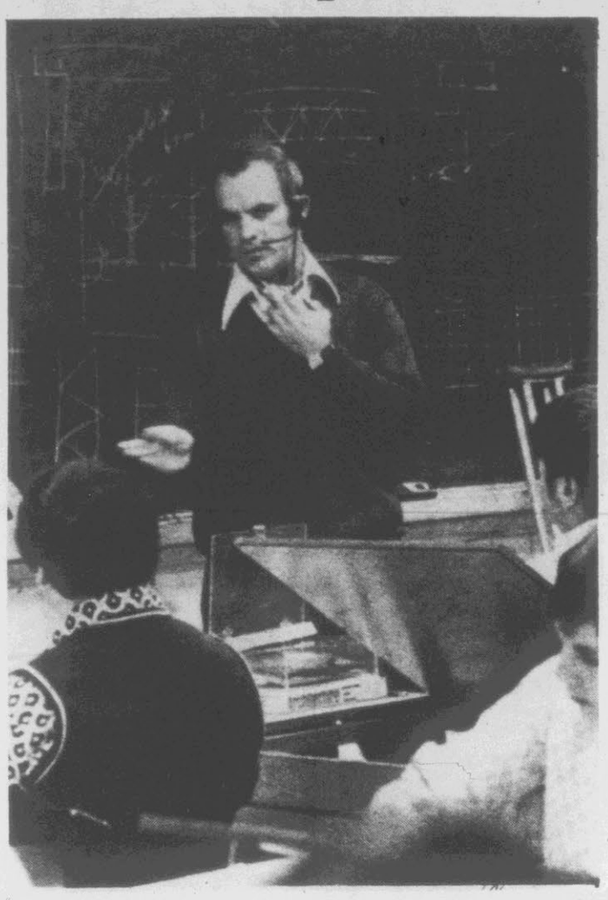
New Type 'Voice Box' Restores Speech To Teacher



PETE BILLICK TALKS to his students using an artificial larynx and voice amplifier. (UPI Telephoto)

By JOHN LESAR

MERRILLVILLE, Ind. (UPI) — "The night before surgery, I shed a few tears, like any other adult would, not knowing what the future might hold," recalled Andrean High School football coach Pete Billick.

Billick submitted to the surgeon's knife May 20 for the removal of his cancerous vocal cords and part of his trachea, not knowing if he would ever be able to talk or teach gain.

But in August, he was back on the footbll field, growling orders to his Andrean 59ers and in September, he was in the classroom, conducting four industrial arts classes in a sure, steady voice.

Three weeks after surgery, Billick was fitted with a new artificial voice box—a voice prosthesis developed by researchers at Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill. Doctors at the university say Billick has displayed extraordinary motivation and spectacular progress in using the new device, described by university otolaryngologists as a "research tool."

In the classroom, Billick uses a sound system to amplify his voice and avoid undue strain. He comes up sounding just a little like James Cagney.

Wondrous Comeback

"I'm not ready to hang it up yet," the 40-year-old teacher said. "I can't say enough about the research and technology that has allowed me to come back."

But Billick is pretty resourceful himself. One day he noticed, on his way to work, that he had forgotten his voice box. He simply fashioned a new one from a few "spare parts" he had with him and some adhesive tape.

The new device consists of lightweight tubes and valves that help the patient direct air to the part of the throat at which maximum vibration can be produced. The tubes are attached to two openings in the patient's throat and, because the new device is placed well above the esophagus, it has the potential of giving voice to patients unable to develop any other kind of speech due to extensive throat surgery.

But the voice box is not the end of the road for Billick. He goes to speech therapy sessions about once a week to learn a system of speaking by using the esophagus.

His esophageal speech is not yet as firm or fluent as the voice he masters with the new voice tubes, but he's working at it and, eventually, hopes to have two ways of talking.

Billick says his football players and students have, if anything, been more cooperative since he returned with his new voicé. He cannot shout but can still keep a class in line.

Northwestern's developers of the new voice box, Dr. George Sisson and Dr. Fred McConnel, say initial results with the first four patients, particularly with Billick, have been encouraging. They plan to test the device on 20 patients before making any claims but are hopeful it will become the most useful and effective "artificial larynx" now in existence.

BATTERING KILLS!

NEW YORK (UPI) — It has been estimated that as many as 20 per cent of all children brought into hospital emergency rooms, or up to half a million children per year, may be victims of some sort of abuse or neglect.

A 1970 study suggested that more children under the age of five are killed by their parents than by disease, the University of Michigan Information Service reports.

Crisp...

Lennon emphasized the research potential of the Lucy Cherry Crisp Papers. "For research into N. C. art, culture and literature, the collection should be a rich source. Her friendship with Dr. Carver and other noted figures will undoubtedly expand the research interest far beyond the bounds of this state and give major national importance to her files.

After the papers are arranged and finding aids prepared, they will be available for research use by interested scholars.

Shaken Scots Review Law Of Responsibility

By william F. WRIGHT

EDINBURGH, Scotland (UPI) — Mary Cairns, a pixie-faced eight-year-old, stood trembling in the prisoner's dock as the judge sentenced her to 18 months detention for stabbing a playmate.

Sobbing, "Mummy, mummy, I want my mummy," the little girl was carried by a policeman from the Glasgow Sheriff's Court to a cell below.

Scotland's Criminal Appeal Court later quashed the Sept. 18 sentence. But the child's appearance in a criminal court so shocked public opinion that the government has ordered a review of Scottish law affecting child crimes.

"There was no need for this child to go into court at all," said Frederick F. Kennedy, chief child delinquency officer for the city of Glasgow, where Mary lives. "My impression was one of almost unanimous public repugnance that this could happen."

Kennedy, in an interview, linked the handling of the case to "minority traditionalist views of an eye for an eye" still lingering in a country with a long history of strict, church-going discipline.

Law Harsh

Mary, now 9, was the youngest child to be tried in a criminal court in Scotland, where the age of criminal responsibility begins at 8, compared with 10 in England and Wales and 16 in most states in America.

"The law may seem harsh, but in practice most of our kids never see the inside of a court," Kennedy said. "They are dealt with under system we think is more enlightened than anything prevailing in England, Wales or the United States."

Under a 1968 law which abolished juvenile courts in Scotland, most children between 8 and 16 who run afoul of the law are dealt with by "children's panels" consisting of three lay members recruited and trained for the job.

The children are ferred by police and prosecution officials to child delinquency officers known as "reporters," such as Kennedy, who study their cases and bring the youngsters and their parents before the panels.

The panels decide whether a child should be sent to reform school or another correctional institution, and for how long, or returned home under the supervision of local child welfare officers.

Judge rebuked

The hearings differ markedly from law courts in that the panels have no power to impose prison sentences, there are no prisoner's docks or witness stands, spectators are excluded from the hearings and the child's name cannot be published.

In the Cairns case, Glasgow Sheriff Archibald Bell, the presiding judge, was widely criticized by child welfare groups for allowing publication of the child's name.

At the appeal hearing, Lord Wheatley, the chief presiding judge, deplored the "unnecessary publicty" given the case and said Mary's Roman Catholic Irish immigrant family would probably never escape from it.

Wheatley excused Mary from attending the appeal, held in a packed courtroom in Edinburgh's grim Gothic Parliament House, where some of Scotland's most notorious criminals have stood in the prisoner's dock.

During the Glasgow trial, the child sat in a large wooden chair between two policemen in the dock, her feet dangling several inches off the floor. When she stood for sentencing she could barely see over the wrougth-iron railing enclosing the dock.

Her voice was barely audible when she pleaded guilty earlier in the trial to stabbing 11-year-old Morag Brown with a bread knife during a quarrel. Morag suffered a partially collpased lung.

"I just cannot understand why the case got into court in the first place," Kennedy said.

Government officials in Edinburgh said that as a result of the Cairns case, Gordan Campbell, secretary of state for Scotland, and Lord Advocate Norman Wylie, Scotland's chief judiciary officer, have ordered a review of Scottish child criminal laws.

Mary, reared in a tough working-class district of Glasgow, spent the two-day appeal hearing in an anteroom reading a comic book and clutching her mother's hand.

Released on three year's probation under psychiatric care, Mary skipped happily from the court house and went home.

Today's Space Age Methods Adapted To Archeology

JERUSALEM (AP) — Tax records of 3,600 years ago, ancient ostrich eggs and an American nuclear scientist have been helping modern Israel trace its history back through the Bible.

In a laboratory in Jerusalem, a California professor who worked on America's first atomic bomb is bringing space age nuclear technique to bear on identifying evidence of the long-dead past. It doesn't work on ostrich eggs, but it does wonders with pottery.

Prof. Isadore Perlman, a 58-year-old immigrant from the University of California, has developed a nuclear scanning technique to "fingerprint" shards of pottery and calculate where they were made, by their chemical composition.

"Although archeologists draw their inferences on ancient history from all possible clues, pottery still makes up the largest single source of information," said the Milwaukee-born scientist.

Perlman puts samples into a reactor, measures their gamma rays, feeds the data into a computer, and out come the pottery's origin and pedigree.

Prof. Yigael Yadin, former military chief of staff and Israel's leading scholar of antiquity, says Perlman's new laboratory at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem "is going to clarify one of the basic problems which archeologists...were not able to solve."

Throughout the rest of Israel, archeologists have been exploring Old Testament ruins with more conventional tools — shovels and delicate brushes.

At Tel es-Shaariyeh — the Hill of Barley — in the Negev desert, Israel's Dr. Eliezer Oren and 50 diggers from the United States, Germany, Holland and France, excavated a 3,600-year-old Caananite town once ruled by Egypt. Ceramic vessels with ink inscriptions show the local residents were paying taxes used for maintaining the local fortress.

Historians have long debated which ancient town the Hill of Barley might cover. Oren says the latest excavations indicate it may be Ziklag, the city that served as a refuge and springboard for David to become King of Israel. Whatever it was, it was abandoned in Byzantine times.

Dr. Gus Van Beek, Curator of Archeology at Washington's Smithsonian Institution, spent a fourth season with 30 American volunteers in the Negev, excavating the remains of Assyrian vaulted ruins from the 7th century B.C.

The dig at Tel Gemmeh unearthed a wealth of finds, including iron spear tips, indicating the ruins may have been an arsenal "possibly built for King Esserhaddon, who ruled from 681 to 669 B.C."

The biggest expedition in the Negev was the fifth season at ancient Beersheba, separate from the 20th-century Arab town that Israel captured in 1948 and turned into a modern city.

Up to 300 student volunteers, mostly from the United States, dug down 3,200 years to the Iron Age and found Philistine remains. They lay beneath the remarkably preserved Israelite city of later days, built of mud bricks.

Finds included an altar with horns at each corner — the first ever found in Israel — so old that its stones had been reused to build a storeroom about 2,600 years ago. The room was apparently wrecked in Sennacherib's campaign of 701 B.C.

Among temple cult objects in the ruins were a bronze dolphin and another strange find — a cluster of ostrich eggs from Hellenistic times.

Vessels were found thrown into the streets from the plundering of Beersheba before its final conflagration. Outside the walls of the fortified city, floors and other evidence showed an Israelite settlement remained until the fall of the Jewish temple in Jerusalem.

No Such Thing As 'Dead Tooth'

NEW YORK (UPI) — There is no such thing as a dead tooth, says Dr. Bertram L. Wolfsohn.

At the annual meeting of the Greater New York Dental Society he said the only dead tooth is found in a dead person. The tooth lives as long as you do while it's in your mouth. His statement seems to contradict the centuries' old belief that once the nerve is killed or removed the sufferer has a dead chopper in his mouth.

Clams and scallops take four to five years to mature in the ocean before they are ready for the frying pan, whereas the oyster reaches maturity in three years.

Educate Without Violence . . . They're Too Precious

By DR. HAIM GINOTT

Note to readers: The encounters depicted in my column are designed to serve as a practical guide to improved communication. They are not to be taken literally. They should be adapted to individual ways of speaking.

CAN WE BRING UP babies without using violence in education? Here is an affirmative illustration:

When Mother put 2-year-old Nathan, on a baby swing in the park, he immediately put his hands in his lap. Mother said, "The rule is hands on the front bar," and she placed his hands properly. After she pushed him for a few minutes he put his hands back into his lap. Mother stopped pushing him and said, "The rule is hands on the front bar." Again she placed his hands properly.

After this happened a few times, Mother said, "You have a choice: One, you can keep your hands on the front bar; or two, you can come off the swing."

She put his hands on the front bar and pushed him. When he let go, Mother took him off the swing and said, "I see you made your decision."

A neighbor saw the drama and said, "That's ridiculous. When my baby puts her hands in her lap, I say, "No, no," and slap her hands. She learns faster that way."

"Maybe," Mother answered, "but I feel a child learns what he lives. I don't want Nathan to learn violence."

TEACHING INFANTS, without arousing in them resistance and resentment is the encouraging lesson illustrated here:

Mother served tomato soup for lunch. After tasting the soup, 20-month-old Jonathan announced idignantly, "Hot!"

Mother supressed the urge to do something, i.e., add milk to the soup, transfer the soup to a larger bowl, blow on it, etc. "It's too hot for you," she said. "Hot," Jonathan repeated, more amiably. "Sometimes I blow on soup when it's too hot for you." she said. "Hot," Mother said, demonstrating with her own portion.

"Blow," Jonathan said. He blew on his soup until he was satisfied. "Nice," he said.

"You found a way to make the soup taste better for you," Mother commented. "Yes," he said.

NON-VIOLENT TEACHING is seen in the following:

Frank, 2½, bites other children when provoked. Mother then says, "No biting. People are not to be hurt. We need words." Mother also lets him overhear her positive remarks about him: "Frank knows that there's no biting. I can count on him to use words." Usually he'll chime in with, "No biting. Words."

One day, a little boy yanked his hair. Frank started to bite, stopped himself, came running to Mother and said, "Frank words!"

PETER, 3, AND HIS MOTHER witnessed the following scene in nursery school:

Ted, 2, tried to bite Kim, also 2. Ted's mother stopped him with a resounding smack: "I told you you'll get smacked if you bite," she said. "Remember it for next time." Ted started crying and biting his own arm.

Peter ran over and said, "No Ted, you're too precious."

Ted's mother asked Peter's mother, "Is that what you tell your son? You tell him that his own arm is too precious for biting?" "Yes," Mother answered. "Once, after he bit a child, I told him, 'No biting allowed.' When he went for his own arm I said, 'Your arm is too precious for hurting.' He then found a rubber animal to bite. I'm pleased to see that he has learned that people should not hurt."

THE BEST WAY to deal with young children is to help them find simple solutions to concrete problems, rather than attempt to teach them lofty, abstract principles. Example:

Mara, 2, marked up the wall in her attempt to lift herself up to look out the window. "Feet belong on the floor, not on the wall," Mother yelled. "I can't allow you to put your feet on the wall."

Mara ignored Mother. "But I must teach her to respect property," Mother thought and was about to begin another futile campaign. However, she had second thoughts and changed her approach She said, "If you want to look out of the window, you must stand on this," and she gave her a little wooden foot stool. It solved the problem.

Mother tells Peter: "Hands on the front bar...or you can come off the swing."

Another Drop In Gas Resources

NEW YORK (UPI) — Proved reserves of natural gas in the 50 United Sttes dropped during 1972 for the fourth time in the last five years, the American Gas Association reported.

At year-end in 1972, reserves were estimated at 266.1 trillion cubic feet, a decline of 4.6 per cent from 278.8 trillion cubic feet at the close of 1971, the Association said.

In 1970, reserves posted a gain as the result of 26 trillion cubic feet of new gas found in Alaska's North Slope, it added.

LATIN FEST HELD NORTH OF BORDER

TORONTO (AP) — Toronto's Spanish-speaking population, numbering about 50,000, held its first Latin American folk festival here this fall.

Songs and dances were highlights of the one-day festival.

Buying Vs. Renting
By Dees Whitley

To buy or to rent—that is the question. Both have their place. First, renting can be the answer for families who know they'll only be in the area for a short time or who prefer not to contend with maintenance. It's also the only solution for anyone with insufficient funds for the down payment on a home.

The main disadvantage of renting is a financial one. As living costs rise, so do rents. A lease may protect you temporarily, but when it expires the landlord is free to increase the rent—even under rent control when justified. Rent payment cannot be deducted from income tax as the houseowner can deduct real estate taxes and interest on the mortgage payments.

Your best buffer against inflation is to own your own home. You'll also be pleasantly surprised to find it also is one of the best financial investments you ever made. Your payments will remain level while your resale value will continue to rise.

Classic Now A Musical

SEBASTIAN CABOT makes his singing debut when he stars as Kris Kringle in the new musical version of "Miracle on 34th Street," two-hour holiday special to be presented Friday, Dec. 14 (9-11 p.m.) on Channel 3N-9-11.

"Miracle on 34th Street," a new musical version of the classic 1947 motion picture which will star Jane Alexander, David Hartman and special guest stars Sebastian Cabot as Kris Kringle; Roddy McDowell as department store psychologist, Dr. Sawyer; Jim Rackus as Macy's harassed toy buyer and nine - year - old model - actress Suzanne Davidson as Susan Walker, Kris Kringle's willing co-host and true believer, will air Friday, Dec. 14 (9-11 p.m.) on Channel 9-11.

A combination of original music and traditional Christmas carols will be a highlight of the musical - drama special. Sid Ramin, an Oscar - winner for his scoring of the film "West Side Story," will be musical director and has composed hhe theme music.

"Miracle on 34th Street" is the enchanting story of an old man who professes to be — and well might be — the only real Santa Claus. He brings a new (or a very, very ancient) kind of meaning to Christmas in the lives of everyone he touches with his blithe spirit. Seaton's original screen production of it starred Maureen O'Hara, John Payne, Gene Lockhart, Natalie Wood and Edmund Gwenn as Kris Kringle.

During the production one of the miracles performed by the crew was finding out how to shave off a 20-year-old beard.

Very, very carefully, according to make-up artist Mike Moschella, who had the hair-raising assignment of removing the hirsute adornment that has been actor Sebastian Cabot's hallmark for more than two decades.

The de-bearding was required for Cabot's role as Kris Kringle. As Kringle, the actor wears a full, curly, pure-white false beard which had to be affixed to a clean-shaven chin.

Cabot first grew his own beard in 1950 for an English motion picture, and the result was so distinctive that he not only retained it but "nutured, pampered and refined it," he notes.

Only once since then (for a role in Walt Disney's "Johnny Tremain" in 1957) did he temporarily sacrifice the whiskers — until now.

Make-up expert Moschella had a doubly difficult task in unmasking the Cabot chin. Not only did he have to remove the famous beard, he had to keep it in tact so the actor could resume his more familiar identity for professional appearances scheduled within the six-week "growing out" period.

It required every trick in Moschella's bag of illusions — and an extremely steady hand.

"First we sprayed Sebastian's own beard with a plastic substance," Moschella explained. "This made it cohesive. Then we slowly cut it from his face with clippers. Then we all breathed..."

The real Cabot whiskers then served as a model for a false-beard copy — a false real beard, as it were.

Commented Cabot, "All this so that when my agent calls I can still say, 'Have beard, will travel.'"

Suspense Is In An Elevator

A diverse group of passengers, including a berserk robber (James Farentino) are trapped between floors in a weakened elevator which threatens to plunge them 30 stories to their deaths, in "The Elevator," on "ABC Suspense Movie" airing Saturday (8:30-10 p.m.) on Channels 3, 5, and 12.

The passengers include Roddy McDowall as Marvin Ellis and Craig Stevens as Dr. Stuart Reynolds.

Tougher Questions Favored

President Nixon's estimation of TV news as "outrageous, vicious and distorted" has brought disagreement from 57 percent of the American public, according to a national poll taken last week on behalf of CBS News by the Opinion Research Corp., while 30 percent agree with it.

As shown on CBS' Walter Cronkite news show, the negative was much lower than in a California poll, conducted earlier this month by the Field Research Corp., in which 67 percent disagreed with the President and 30 percent were on his side.

The CBS poll also found that 46 percent of the American people believe press accounts of Watergate wrongdoing and 30 percent believe the White House. Roughly 13 percent believe neither.

Color TV Sets In High Favor

As of October 1, 1973, the total number of color-equipped TV households in the United States increased to 43,400,000 — 65.3 percent of total TV households, according to the National Broadcasting Company's latest quarterly estimate released by Alfred J. Ordover, Vice President, Corporate Planning. This total represents an increase of 6.1 million color TV households since October, 1972.

Ordover observed that during the past nine months, industry sales of color sets were more than 13 percent above the 1972 record level. "If this record-breaking pace continues," he stated, "color set sales will exceed 9 million in 1973 and color penetration will be almost 70 percent by the end of the year."

Como's Show On Monday

Perry Como is completely at ease with The Establishment — whether that is a prototype of the paunchy plutocrat or a group of 10 talented under-30 performers who sing and dance up a storm in his latest television special, "The Perry Como Winter Show," Monday, Dec. 10 (9-10 p.m.) on Channel 9-11.

Como has a standing request for the services of the group whenever he performs onstage. The Establishment joined him in a smash appearance at a Las Vegas hotel and repeated that success later at Lake Tahoe. They appeared on his winter special two seasons ago, and are back this time as guest stars, on his new musical hour.

"I feel comfortable with these kids," says Como, to whom comfort and ease of performance have become a professional hallmark. "Their appeal is universal — there's no generation gap, either musically or personally."

Like Como, The Establishment defies labels and eras. Their music covers the field from "then" to "now" with accent on the now.

Highlights of the special include:

Como in a solo rendition of "It's the Time to Be Jolly" as he nudges his imagination to turn a summery California day into a wintry December. . . .

Como and The Establishment with a medley of seasonal favorites, including "There's No Place Like Home for the Holidays," "The Christmas Song" and "Happy Holidays"...

Fifth Time For Little Drummer

A poor boy presents an unusual gift to the Infant Jesus in Bethlehem in "The Little Drummer Boy," the popular animated musical special for the Christmas season which will be colorcast for the fifth time Sunday, December 9 (7:30-8 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

Greer Garson is off-camera narrator. Jose Ferrer is heard as the villain, Haramed; Teddy Eccles speaks for the dummer boy, and Paul Frees provides the voices for all other characters in the special. The Vienna Choir Boys are featured.

"The Little Drummer Boy" takes its theme from the title song, a Yuletide favorite. The boy, orphaned by bandits, has only one desire in life, to care for his animals (a lamb, a camel and a donkey). Haramed, a villain, kidnaps the boy, intending to make him a member of a band of itinerant musicians. Haramed sells the boy's camel to one of the three kings going to Bethlehem to honor the Christ Child.

The boy gains his freedom and, with two of his animals, goes to Bethlehem to reclaim the camel. He arrives at the manger of the Infant Jesus as the three kings offer their gifts.

The lad can only make one offer-a song.

Bible Stories Will Be Retold

Accounts of Jonah and the whale, Christ's temptation in the desert, Ephron the Hittite, son of Zohar, and a field trip to the Statue of Liberty will be presented on "Marshall Efron's Illustrated, Simplified and Painless Sunday School," a new series for children, on Sunday, Dec. 9 (10:30-11 AM).

In recounting the story of Jonah, the prophet, Efron explains that "a prophet is a person who is singled out by the Lord to spread the Lord's message and make His will known to the people."

Efron relates the temptation of Christ in this way: "Jesus knew He was being tested, and He wasn't going to fail so easy. So He said to Satan, 'Man shall not live by bread alone'. And by that He meant that a man's beliefs and spiritual life are as important as eating."

Abraham's purchase of land to bury his wife, Sarah, is told in Ephron the Hittite, son of Zohar.

The field trip to the Statue of Liberty, says Efron, is "about immigration and the people who came to America with their various customs and religions and their hopes, their dreams and their faith. That's a very important fact about America. Religious fredom in this world was hard to come by, and America was the place that guaranteed it."

RETURNS TO SERIAL

Christopher Lowe has returned to "Search for Tomorrow" after a year of not being involved in the continuing stories on the serial, seen weekdays (12:30-1 p.m.). This is the actor's fourth year as Eric Lawson—a long run for any actor. But considering Chris is only eight years old, that's half a lifetime!

Discussing Elements Of World Peace

A discussion of "the elements essential to a solution of the Mid-East tensions with justice for all parties concerned" will be presented as a one-hour special on Sunday, Dec. 9 (5-6 PM) on Channel 6-7.

The program, "World Peace and the Middle East," will be produced by the Television Religious Programs Unit of NBC News in cooperation with the Division for Film and Broadcasting of the United States Catholic Conference. It will be based on a resolution adopted by the American Catholic Bishops at their 1973 General Meeting.

Panelists will be the Rev. J. Bryan Hehir, Director, Division of Justice and Peace, United States Catholic Conference; the Rev. Dr. Robert G. Stephanopoulos, Director, Interchurch Department, Greek Orthodox Archdiocese of North and South America; and Rabbi Marc H. Tanenbaum, National Interreligious Affairs Director, American Jewish Committee.

ART DECO

Art Deco has come into its own again as the museums, galleries and shops enjoy a revival of the styling trend that swept the world between two world wars. The dominant design of the 1920s and 30s has become the in-vogue of the 70s. That streamlined era of total design that set the fashion for everything from Cartier handbag clasps to the decor of the Radio City Music Hall is accessorizing the homes of many celebrities. Art Deco began its comeback in the mid-1960s. It moved quickly from the new antique craze to an awareness that the objects designed and executed between the wars were more than amusing, but many superbly crafted.

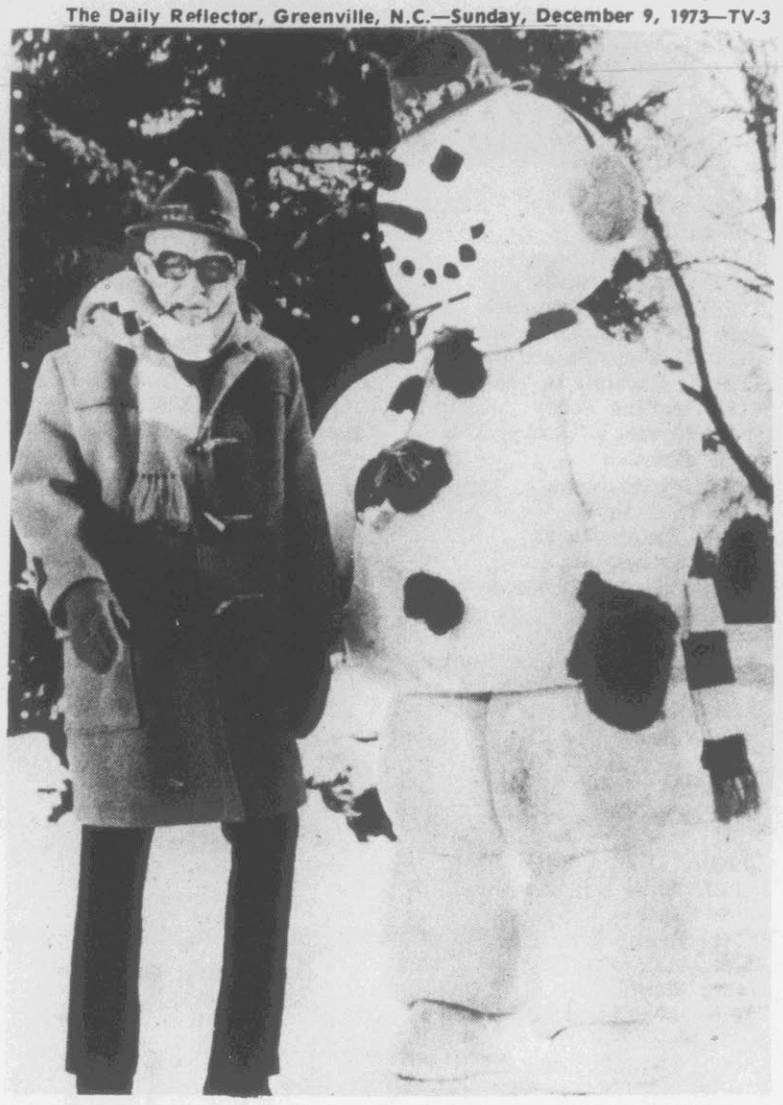
38th Yule Special For Bing

The snow-covered countryside at Sun Valley, Idaho, is the setting for Bing Crosby's 38th annual Christmas show when the "Bell System Family Theatre" presents "Bing Crosby's Sun Valley Christmas Show" Sunday, Dec. 9 (8-9 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

Bing and members of his family — wife Kathryn, daughter Mary Frances and sons Harry and Nathaniel - share the holiday festivities with guest stars Connie Stevens, John Byner, skater Jan Mischa Petkevitch and special guest star Michael Landon.

The show opens with the Crosby clan persuading a reluctant Bing to go to Sun Valley. They travel along by bus, singing "Christmas in Sun Valley," as they are joined by the various guest stars.

John Byner enters the picture in a registration desk comedy sketch. Once settled in Sun Valley, Kathryn, Mary Frances, Harry and Nathaniel shop for a Christmas tree and join in singing, "We Need a Little Christmas."



COOL CHRISTMAS — Bing Crosby stands near a yuletide snowman at Sun Valley, Idaho, where "Bing Crosby's Theatre" special, was taped for presentation on Sunday, Dec. 9 (8-9 p.m., in color) on Channel 6-7.

Bob Hope Will Host

The problems of hiding Christmas gifts from your wife, yule-time difficulties at the White House during the "energy crisis" and the traditional singing of "Silver Bells" highlight "The Bob Hope Special," Sunday, Dec. 9 (9-10 p.m.) on Channel 6-7, as Bob plays host to guest stars Lucille Ball, Shirley Jones and Marie Osmond and introduces the Associated Press All-American football team.

Attempting to hide a diamond bracelet bought for wife Dolores as a Christmas gift, Bob sends the bauble to Lucille Ball for safekeeping. Unfortunately, Lucy thinks the bracelet is a gift from an unknown admirer.

Shirley Jones and Bob play the occupants of the White House who celebrate a chilly yuletide during the "energy crisis," culminating with a duet — "Let's Turn Out the Lights and Go To Sleep."

Shirley sings "Going Out of My Mind," and 14-year-old Marie Osmond does "Paper Roses" (her hit recording), and joins Bob for the traditional duet, "Silver Bells."

Music for the program is provided by Les Brown and the Band of Renown.

WHEN NEW YORK IS DEPRESSED, Harry the cat and Tucker the mouse bring their friend Chester C. Cricket back to Times Square for a try at reviving the Christmas spirit. Chester's very special version of "Silent Night" brings joy to New York, and to "A Very Merry Cricket," a holiday greeting from ABC, airing on FRIDAY, DEC. 14 (8-30 p.m.) on Channel 3W-5-12. Chester and his friends, you'll remember, first came our way in "Cricket in Times Square" last spring.

Being 40 Isn't End Of World

By SALLY QUINN

When a famous beauty reaches 40, it's big news, Elizabeth Taylor had her picture on the cover of Life magazine with headlines, ELIZABETH TAYLOR TURNS 40, as though it were an obituary. This country is obsessed with youth, both for men and women. Old age just doesn't make it. Even men are beginning to dye their hair and lie about their ages. But for women, it just gets worse.

A woman past the first blush of youth is condemned for the rest of her life to hear compliments like "she doesn't have a bad figure for her age" or "she certainly is well preserved."

Women over a certian age learn that they can't wear long hair, that certain clothes styles are too young, that they must grow old gracefully. Husbands can leave their wives for younger women, with hardly an eyebrow raised. But if a woman runs off with a younger man she is thought to be ridiculous. People feel sorry for her. Poor thing, what a fool, he'll never stay with her.

I recently asked a man who was married to a woman 20 years younger how he would feel if his wife were 20 years older than he was. He looked at me in astonishment and replied, "But it just doesn't work that way."

Well, sometimes it does. More and more women are deciding that being saddled with age is what's really ridiculous. And there's one woman who has refused for the last 50 years to get into her rocking chair and do her granny number. That woman is Mae West, who is 81-years-old.

Mae West still wears plunging necklines, body hugging clothes, false eyelashes and blond wigs, she still works out on her bicycle machine each day and lifts 15-pound weights. A lot of people laugh at Mae West, say she is grotesque and absurd, that her way of acting and dressing is tasteless. Mae West laughs back. "They still come up and see me," she said the other day. And they do. "I still get diamonds from young men 17, 18, 19 and 20. They write letters, I send them pictures, and they come up and see me."

She's still going at it, too! She's just finished a book called Sex Drive, the stories of her battles with censorship in the 1930s, and who knows, she may even make another movie.

Riggs, Casals In TV Segment

Bobby Riggs, former world tennis champion and current undisputed tennis hustler supreme, and Rosemary Casals, top-ranking woman's tennis professional, have been signed to guest star in a segment of "Love American Style," in which the feminine court star will make her acting debut on television.

In the upcoming "Love and the Competitors," Ms. Casals and Riggs will portray motorists whose cars are halted alongside one another at a stop sign. They vie with one another for a fast getaway and wind up in a small town jail for drag racing. During their night-long incarceration, they engage in a series of contests to determine who is the better of the two.

Ms. Casals, grand-niece of the late cello virtuoso, Pablo Casals, was last seen and heard on television in her color commentary during the "Tennis Battle of the Sexes," in which Riggs was vanquished by Billie Jean King, Riggs recently guest starred with Mrs. King in an episode of "The Odd Couple."

WRITER ON

Leo Gordon, who has written more television scripts than he can remember, will appear on TV portraying a bank robber in "Money in the Bank," an upcoming episode of "Adam-12." The drama was written by Jerry Thomas.

IN SIGHT

William Shatner, the voice of Captain Kirk on the animated "Star Trek" series, can soon be seen again on the TV screen: as guest star in "Hail to the Queen," an upcoming episode of "The Magician."

MYSTERY DRAMA — Tiffany Bolling portrays Ruth Frazier, a beautiful girl who is involved in blackmail and intrigue, in "Key West," a World Premiere movie on "NBC Monday Night at the Movies" Dec. 10 (in color, 9-11 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

Premiere Movie Is In Store

Stephen Boyd stars as retired CIA agent Steve Cutler, whose dreams of a peaceful life fishing in Florida are shattered when he becomes the target of a revenge-bent tycoon in "Key West," a World Premiere movie to be colorcast Monday, Dec. 10 (9-11 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

Wealthy Prescott Webb (Ford Rainey), deciding to settle an old score with Cutler, sends beautiful Ruth Frazier (Tiffany Bolling) to Key West to deliver an envelope to the former agent.

In an effort to get Cutler to do her bidding, Miss Frazier dispatches four thugs to "soften" him up a bit.

Woody Strode portrays Candy, Cutler's constant companion, and Sheree North plays Brandi, a friend of Cutler who owns a bar.

Also appearing are Simon Oakland, as a general, and William Prince, as a senator — both with a lot to hide.

"Key West" was filmed on location in Florida.

BEAT TIME

Don Ingalls, who wrote an episode of the "Police Story" series, has excellent credentials for this story about a cop on a beat. He was formerly a policeman on a beat.

Hats Topped Off Billy De Wolfe

For comedian Billy De Wolfe, hats have provided a special topping for his career.

It all started with Mrs. Mugratroyd, a characterization for which De Wolfe won instant nightclub fame. Since the night he brought Mrs. Murgatroyd to life by slapping a flowered bonnet on his head, hats have topped off many of his portrayals. His most recent involvement with a hat was his stint as the voice of the villainous Professor Hinkle, a magician whose magical hat controls the action on "Frosty the Snowman," animated musical special to be rebroadcast Monday, Dec. 10 (8:30-9 PM) on Channel 3N-9-11.

"My Mrs. Murgatroyd was so effective that everybody who remembers her think I was dressed up like a woman," recalls De Wolfe. "Actually, the only unusual thing I had on was a woman's hat. Of course, I carried a bag of groceries."

Born William Jones, De Wolfe changed his name on the advice of a manager of the Quincy Theatre in Quincy, Mass., where he worked as an usher after school.

"The manager, who was a retired actor, took me aside one day," recalls the comedian, "and told me the name Jones was too common for an entertainer. He gave me a job as a dancer, but he warned me that I'd never go anywhere unless I changed my name. Then he offered me his own name — De Wolfe."

SMALL TALK — Eddie Albert, as a six-inch "borrower," visits Dame Judith Anderson (portraying a bedridden old lady) for a chat in "The Borrowers," the "Hallmark Hall of Fame" special based on the book by Mary Norton, which will be colorcast on Friday, Dec. 14 (8:30-10 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

Shrinking 6-Foot Eddie Is Intricate

Soup steams in an upturned thimble set on a stove which is an iron door lock; a table made ready for supper is really the top of a crubbing brush supported by the end of four pencils; saucepans hanging on the walls look suspiciously like screw-on bottle caps.

That is the setting in the miniature kitchen which is the home of the tiny Clock family in "The Borrowers," the "Hallmark Hall of Fame" drama special to be colorcast on Friday, Dec. 14 (8:30-10 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

Eddie Albert stars as six-inch-high Pod Clock, leader of the Clock house-hold, comfortable and seemingly secure in its lodgings beneath the floorboards of a Victorian country mansion. Tammy Grimes co-stars as his wife, Homily and Karen Pearson appears as their 12-year-old daughter, Arrietty. In this adaptation of the book by Mary Norton, the Clocks borrow the items they need from the rooms in the house above them. Their acquisitions over the years include a gold watch, a nail file, scissors, cups, spools, a needle, postage stamps, safety pins and even a pill box.

Dame Judith Anderson also stars, the lady of the house, dedridden Aunt Sophy, a lonely soul who is visited from time to time by Pod while on his borrowing expeditions. She believes the tiny creature to be a delusion, brought into focus by her steady sips of madeira wine.

Beatrice Straight appears as Mrs. Crampfurl, a non-nonsense housekeeper, and Barnard Hughes is seen as her husband. Young Dennis Larson is Aunt Sophy's 8-year-old great nephew from Boston, sent to her house to overcome the effects of a recent illness.

Drama Pits Two Brothers

Kirk Douglas stars in "The Brotherhood," a powerful drama which pits brother against brother in the merciless world of organized crime, airing on the "ABC Sunday Night Movie," Dec. 9 (8:30-10:30) on Channel 3W-5-12. Alex Cord and Irene Papas are co-starred.

In "The Brotherhood," Vince Ginetta (Alex Cord), following his discharge from the army, marries his girlfriend, Emma (Susan Strasberg), and goes to work as a bookkeeper for the New York crime syndicate. Vince's older brother, Frank Ginetta (Kirk Douglas), a syndicate board member, instigates a move to replace Frank with his brother, Vince. During a surprise visit from deposed mob leader Don Peppino (Eduardo Ciannelli), Frank is told that his father was betrayed in the past by Bertola and then killed. Compelled by tradition to avenge the killing, Frank brutally murders Bertola and flees to Sicily with his wife, Ida (Irene Pappas), and his daughter, Carmela (Connie Scott).

Rare Props Appear In 'Hawaii Five-O'

It's somewhat common for armed guards to keep an eye on television and movie sets when leading ladies are bedecked with diamonds and other precious stones.

The "Hawaii Five-O" series may claim a first, though, in hiring men to guard a nickel. But it wasn't just any old five-cent piece. It was a 1913 Liberty Head nickel valued by numismatists at $100,000, and it is a prominent prop in "The $100,000 Nickel" episode of "Hawaii Five-O" to be broadcast Tuesday, Dec. 11 (8:30-9:30 p.m.) on Channel 3N-9-11.

The valuable nickel, owned by World Wide Coin Investments Inc., is one of seven rare coins from various private collections which will be seen on the broadcast. They represent a total value of nearly $200,000.

Other coins in the collection include a 1796 25-cent superb uncirculated gem, valued at $20,000; an 1879 $4 gold stella valued at $18,000; a 1795 $10 gold eagle (one of three known) valued at $12,000; an 1855 Wass, Molitar & Co. $50 gold slug valued at $10,500; a 1915 Panama Pacific $50 round gold piece valued at $15,000; and a 1915 Panama Pacific $50 octagonal gold piece.

Worked It Out Together

Being together around the clock appears to be working out for Hollywood's newest husband and wife team. "So far, togetherness is having no untoward side effects," say Rita Lakin and Robert M. Lewis.

The pair's first effort since becoming Mr. and Mrs. is "A Message to My Daughter" airing DEC. 12 (8:30-10 p.m.) on "Wednesday Movie of the Week." Rita wrote the original screenplay and Lewis directed it.

"We found many advantages to out situation," says Lewis. "You can't help taking your job home with you—you don't shut off your mind at six o'clock—and it was great to be able to talk over the film's progress with Rita."

The distaff half of the team adds that she learned a great deal about film production because she spent more time than usual on the set and sat in on every cutting session while the picture was being edited.

Saluting Those Warner Films

A cavalcade of screen idols — including John Barrymore, Humphrey Bogart, Marlon Brando, James Cagney, Gary Cooper, Joan Crawford, Bette Davis and Clark Gable — and the scenes which made them immortals, are spotlighted in a 90-minute special, "Warner Bros. Movies — A 50-Year Salute," which will be seen on "ABC Wide World of Entertainment," Wednesday, Dec. 12 (11:30 p.m. 1 a.m.).

Bette Davis and George Segal will host the movie buff's dream program, to be taped before a black-tie invitational audience by Warner Bros. Television. A staggering list of stars, including Miss Davis and Segal, will appear in a kaleidoscope of historic sequences from Warner Bros. films.

To be seen in the 50-year salute are Lew Ayers, Lauren Bacall, John and Lionel Barrymore, Jack Benny, Ingrid Bergman, Humphrey Bogart, Marlon Brando, Richard Burton, Gary Cooper, Joan Crawford, Doris Day, Olivia de Havilland, Irene Dunne, Errol Flynn, Henry and Jane Fonda, Clark Gable, John Garfield, Benny Goodman, Rex Harison, Richard Harris, Audrey Hepburn, Walter Huston, Al Jolson, Vivien Leigh, Jack Lemmon, Steve McQueen, Paul Muni, Pat O'Brien, William Powell, Dick Powell, Robert Preston, George Raft, Ronald Reagan, Vanessa Redgrave, Edward G. Robinson, Ann Sheridan, Barbra Streisand, Elizabeth Taylor, John Wayne, Natalie Wood, and Jane Wyman.

In addition to the nostalgic appeal of scenes from such unforgetable Warner Bros. hits as "Jezebel," "Casblanca," "Public Enemy," "Little Caesar," and "The Jazz Singer," there will be a special offering of previews from six forthcoming Warner Bros. films.

The past is touchingly recalled when Bette Davis is seen with Leslie Howard in "Petrified Forest," with Errol Flynn in "The Private Lives of Elizabeth and Essex," with Henry Fonda in "Jezebel," and with Paul Henreid in "Now, Voyager."

The beloved Bogart will be beside Ingrid Bergman and Dooley Wilson in "Casablanca," wooing Bacall in the famous "If you want me, just whistle" scene of "To Have and Have Not" and in "The Big Sleep," and with Edward G. Robinson in Key Largo."

The versatile Cagney will be seen again, shoving the grapefruit into the face of Mae Clark in "Public Enemy," hoofing it as George M. Cohan in 'Yankee Doodle Dandy," fighting in "The Fighting 69th," drinking in "footlight Parade," confronting Lemmon in "Mr. Roberts," and dying in "The Roaring 20's."

Cooper will be seen in his Oscar-winning performance in "Sergeant York," dallying with Bergman in "Saratoga Trunk," and with Patricia Neal in "The Fountainhead." There are also clips of Robinson snarling in "The Sea Wolf," and dying in "Little Caesar"; Flynn leading "The Charge of the Light Brigade," dueling in "Captain Blood" and "Don Juan" and at Custer's Last Stand in "They Died with Their Boots on," and Wayne shooting it out in "Rio Bravo" and "Hondo."

Dance director Busby Berkeley will be represented by major production numbers from "Golddiggers of 1935," and "Footlight Parade."

Portrays Lombardi

Ernest Borgnine, who will portray Vince Lombardi, the late great coach of the Green Bay Packers, in "Portrait: Legend in Granite," a dramatic special on Friday, Dec. 14 (10-11 p.m.), did considerable soul-searching before accepting the role of the fiery gridiron genius.

"The prospect was scary," Borgnine admitted. "Playing a fictional character is comparatively simple. You just do your best to understand the role and make your interpretation valid and convincing. But Lombardi - you know that his memory is still fresh and strong in the minds of those who knew him personally and the millions who followed his incredible career. Everyone has his own impression of the man. How can you satisfy everyone - or even most people?

"Then too," continued Borgnine, "I have enormous respect for Lombardi. He was larger than life, a miracle maker. Could I come up with a performance that would do him justice, even in my own opinion? And his family and friends - what would be their reaction?

"But some of my doubts were relieved in talks with David Victor, the executive producer. I had admired his handling of the two other "Portrait" specials - the story of the Duke and Duchess of Windsor, and the story of Pope John, with that magnificent performance by Raymond Burr. I knew the making of the Lombardi story would be in good hands.

"But the clincher was Jerry McNeely's script. All I can say is that it's right. It rings true. I knew that whether I came in for criticism or not, I had to play that role. If I didn't I'd regret it forever."

"In the script McNeely summed it up pretty well." Then Borgnine quoted Lombardi's words from that script: "All right, mister, let me tell you what winning means. It means - and this is all it means - that you're willing to go longer, work harder, give more than anyone else. If you're smaller, you better be sure you're quicker. If you're slower, you'd better hit harder. You know why most people don't win? Because they don't want it bad enough to work harder than someone else. That's why I'm willing to work harder - and anybody who works for me is going to be willing to work harder and that's why we're going to win. Understand?"

Williams Clan United

The songs and sounds of the holiday season will be featured when the entire Williams clan gets together for Christmas at Grandma's house on "The Andy Williams Christmas Show," to be colorcast on Thursday, Dec. 13 (9-10 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

The clan includes Andy, Grandma and Grandpa Williams; the Williams Brothers; their sister, Jane; Andy's teenage twin nephews, Andy and David; Andy's children, Noelle, Christian and Bobby; their mother Claudine Longet; her sister, Danielle, with her sons, Bruno and Franky; and "Shoes," the family dog.

The show opens with Andy, Claudine, the children and "Shoes" taking off for Grandma's house where they arrive to join the others.

The family reminisces and then sings "The World is a Circle." The Youngsters go to work on a Christmas mural and are joined by Andy for "Sing a Rainbow." Then they discover that the Christmas star is missing and the search is on, throughout the house. It leads to the attic, which turns into a fun place to visit, full of make-believe.

The attic visit causes Andy to reminisce about the "Olden Days" prompting a flashback to the Williams Brothers singing a medley of songs, barbershop quartet-style.

Claudine then sings "Christmas Present," followed by other specialty numbers around the attic, including several comedy sequences.

'Go' Teaches Hockey Sport

The elements of hockey are analyzed by Ted Lindsay — who teaches the sport to youngsters at his school in Port Huron, Mich. — on the "GO" show on Saturday, Dec. 15 (12:30-1 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

Lindsay, a former player who will be a color commentator for the 1974 National Hockey League coverage, will show how to select a stick, how to shoot and how to play goalie. These basic elements of the sport will also be discussed by the host of this edition of "GO," Tim Ryan, who will provide play-by-play commentary for NFL games.

'Hotel' Story Dec. 15

Rod Taylor, Catherine Spaak and Karl Malden star in "Hotel," a drama focusing on the lives of inhabitants of an elegant southern hotel, to be colorcast on "NBC Saturday Night at the Movies" Dec. 15 (9-11 PM) on Channel 6-7.

Also starring in the 1967 Warner Bros. release are Melvyn Douglas, Merle Oberon and Michael Rennie.

The St. Gregory, a New Orleans luxury hotel, is owned by the bigoted, irascible Warren Trent (Douglas), whose hold on the property is faltering, with mortgages to meet and undesirable buyers in the wings.

The St. Gregory's tough, competent manager, Pete McDermott (Taylor) wants desperately to maintain the hotel's standards and is especially wary of Curtis O'Keefe (Kevin McCarthy), a ruthless tycoon who wants to add the establishment to his worldwide conformity-stamped hotel chain.

Among the hotel's inhabitants are O'Keefe's mistress, Jeanne (Miss Spaak), an enigmatic French girl who is strongly attracted to McDermott; the Duke and the Duchess of Lanbourne (Rennie and Miss Oberon).

Carried Ball For Carolina

Don McCauley is well remembered as a super running back in the Carolinas.

Just three football seasons ago, he was carrying the ball for the University of North Carolina and breaking every Atlantic Coast Conference record in sight. Don owns 26 ACC and North Carolina records in addition to 4 NCAA marks.

In 1970, he set the NCAA all-time season record for total yards with 1,720. O. J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills had 1,709 yards in his best season at Southern California.

Ranking ninth on the all-time list of NCAA ground-gainers, McCauley is best remembered for his unbelievable stamina. There were occasions when Don would carry the ball several times in a row, especially near the goal where the going gets rough. Opposing defenses could not stop him, despite their knowledge that McCauley would carry. He rushed 603 times in his carrier and scored 35 Tar Heel touchdowns.

Don McCauley was a hero at North Carolina because he got the job done with consistency. His achievements escaped all the national fanfare and fancy contract talks that have surrounded athletes with fewer accomplishments.

Today, McCauley in his third professional season is a bonafide starter for the Baltimore Colts. Don started the fifth game last season and has been a first stringer ever since. As a Colt, in '71 and '72 he averaged 3.9 yards on 236 career attempts.

Don gets paid to run with the football and gain yardage. He does his job well without newspaper articles and wide spread publicity that would usually surround an athlete of his caliber. Despite his present inattention, one day you will see McCauley's name throughout the NFL record book.

Game Of The Year

Nine months late, the college basketball game of the year is finally here. The battle of the undefeateds. N. C. State went 27-0 last season only to be denied a shot at Bill Walton and Company, otherwise known as the UCLA Bruins because of a NCAA recruiting infraction.

This extraordinary matchup will be seen on Channels 3W-5-12, live from St. Louis. UCLA comes into this game with a 75 game winning streak, the longest ever in college basketball. They also have accumulated nine NCAA National Titles in the last decade with the last seven being in succession.

There has been, however, a cloud over the Bruin's last national title, as many fans, especially in North Carolina, believe North Carolina State is the team that would have dethroned the mighty Uclans.

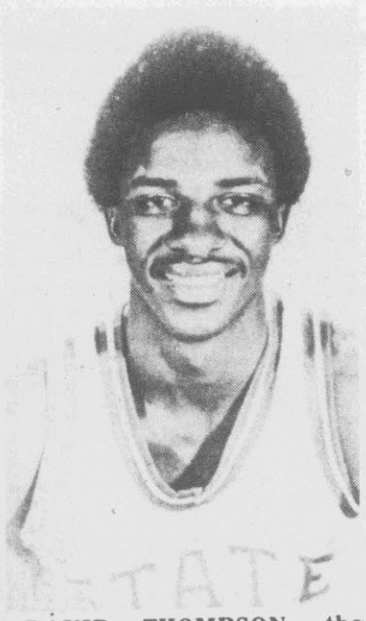
Both teams have much to prove in this contest: who was really number one last year, and who is really the number one team this season.

The Wolfpack will be representing the Atlantic Coast Conference, the strongest basketball conference next to the NBA and ABA. The ACC posted an incredible 72-18 out-of-conference record (80 per cent victorious; last season. At one point last year there were four ACC teams in the Top Ten, and two of them finished there.

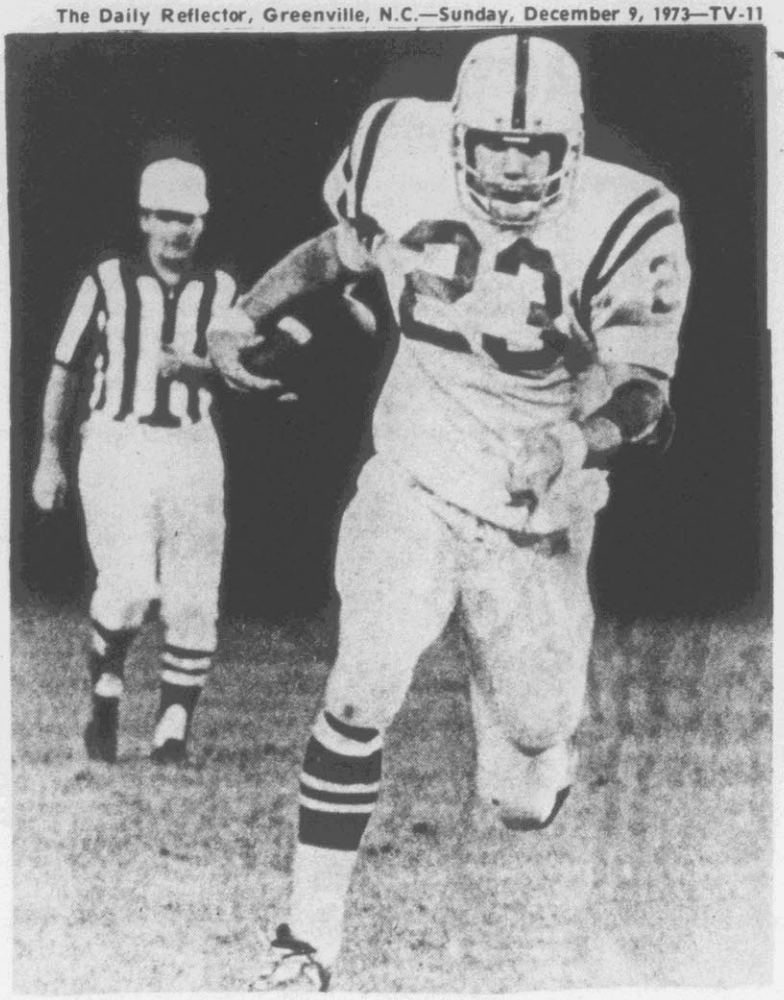
State finished as the No. 2 team nationally last year, but people in North Carolina and around the ACC have other ideas. Wolfpack die-hards believe 7-4 Tommie Burleson can just about neutralize Bill Walton, and none of the Bruins can shoot with David Thompson or Monte Towe.

It is absolutely unbelievable that one team could have a trio like Burleson, Thompson and Towe. Towe, a 5-7 Junior, is the floor leader with deft ball-handling and tremendous long-range accuracy. He was selected a small All America.

Tall Tom continues to improve; he was the ACC's top rebounder and averaged 18 points a game.



DAVID THOMPSON, the sensation consensus All American will lead the Number 2 ranked N. C. State Wolfpack against the unbelievable UCLA Bruins. State will be trying to break the UCLA 75 game winning streak and show the nation who really should be the number 1 team. This game will be televised from St. Louis Dec. 15 on Channels 3-5-12 at 5:15 p.m.



DON McCAULEY (6-1, 214) running back for the Baltimore Colts was a star performer in the Atlantic Coast Conference for the University of North Carolina. He has 26 ACC records and 4 NCAA marks to his credit. In his third year with the Colts, Don has become a star performer for them. The Colts will meet the World Champion Miami Dolphins Sunday, Dec. 9, on Channels 6-7 at 2 p.m.

Michael Redgrave To Appear In Special

Sir Michael Redgrave, one of the most prestigious actors in the English-speaking world, will appear with The National Theatre of the Deaf in their dramatization of Dylan Thomas' classic "A Child's Christmas in Wales" on the "CBS Festival of the Lively Arts for Young People" Sunday, Dec. 16, on CBS

The presentation is one of a continuing series of entertainment specials keyed to the lively arts and designed for young people.

Redgrave, head of a sparkling theatrical dynasty which includes his daughters Vanessa and Lynn, made his professional debut in Liverpool, England, in 1934 as Roy Darwin in "Counselor at Law." Two years later marked his first London appearance with the venerable Old Vic in "Love's Labour's Lost." New York theatregoers first met Sir Michael as Macbeth in 1948, and in 1955 he received the New York Drama Critics Award for his performance as Hector in "Tiger at the Gates."

For his distinguished contributions to the theatre, Redgrave was knighted in 1959.

The National Theatre of the Deaf, a gifted group of deaf actors, is unique in the Western hemisphere (only in Russia is there another repertory company of deaf performers). Founded in 1967 mainly through the efforts of Broadway scenic designer David Hays, now the company's managing director, NTD was funded by a three-year grant of $331,000 from the government's director, NTD was funded by a three-year grant of $331,000 from the government's Vocational Rehabilitation Administration. The company subsequently came into being under the umbrella of the Eugene O'Neill Memorial Center at Waterford, Conn.

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N.Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR SUZANNE PLESHETTE

Is there any similarity between Bob Newhart, who plays your husband on "The Bob Newhart Show," and your husband [Thomas J. Gallagher III]?—N. Roberts, Fairbury, Neb.

● Many. They are two of the brightest, funniest men I know—to me, the two most important qualities in a sustaining relationship. Each is strong in his own fashion. They don't feel they have to prove anything. Both are also active and interested in other things. And both are rooted in middle-class ethics and morals, and believe in fidelity. In other words, they're the kind of people I'd want my children to be like. They also share one trait that makes it difficult to get along with them: a need for privacy. This is difficult for a woman as gregarious as I am, or as Bob's wife, Ginny, is. It is not that they don't want to be with us, they just seem to need time alone. Also, both men sit on their anger and prefer to resolve conflicts by themselves rather than talk them out.

FOR JOE NAMATH

How do you keep your morale up after you suffer an injury that ruins a season for you?—Charles Johnson, Austin, Texas

● The big thing is that thank God you've only got a foot ball injury instead of something like cancer.

FOR TAYLOR CALDWELL, author

I know you've had an interesting life. Have you ever considered writing your autobiography?—J. J. Evans, Birmingham, Ala.

● My late editor at Doubleday asked me about this, and I gave him a three-page outline. His comment was, "No one would believe this!" That was the end of that.

FOR JACQUELINE BISSET

We hear of so much divorce and drug-taking. Do you think actresses can ever be happy?—B. J., Jonesboro, Ark.

● I know that I enjoy life—maybe because I am not driven by a desire for success. I am not consumed by my career. I honestly feel I could give it up if something better came along. In fact, I am happiest in the gap between films.

FOR WILLIE MAYS

Why were you called the "Say Hey Kid"?—G. Barber, Las Vegas, Nev.

● I got that name when I came to New York. I didn't know anybody's name, so when I wanted to talk to a guy, I'd say, "Say-hey." What else was I gonna say?

FOR PAT BOONE

On TV recently you said "Watergate" was mentioned in the Bible. Could you please tell me where?—W. P. H., Newport, Ohio

● It's in Nehemiah, Chapter VIII. The water gate in the rebuilt Jerusalem wall served as the backdrop against which people heard God's law again after many years of ignoring it. The people wept as they realized how far they had wandered from God. Isn't it interesting the way history repeats itself?

FOR SEN. HENRY M. JACKSON (D-Wash.)

It's been charged that the Russians have lobbyists on Capitol Hill. Can this be true?—A. A. J., Fort Pierce, Fla.

● The Soviet Embassy does indeed have a staff assigned to the Hill. They come in and out of my subcommittee on national security office, getting material and literature. Anyone who thinks the Soviets are not active up here is not keeping up with what's going on. It would be nice if we could have similar access to people in the Kremlin.

FOR KAREN BLACK, actress

If you could use just one adjective to describe yourself, which one would you use?—P.B.O., Oceanside, Calif.

● Direct.

FOR JULIET PROWSE

You used to be good friends with Frank Sinatra. In fact, if I remember correctly, you almost married him. Do you still see each other?—P. Wingate, Kankakee, Ill.

● I'm married now—and I haven't seen Frank in two years.

FOR SEN. CHARLES PERCY (R-Ill.)

Do you think Watergate has hurt the chances of future Republican presidential candidates?—Scott Haas, Decatur, Ill.

● Not necessarily. In 1924, in the first general election after the infamous Teapot Dome scandal—which was also during a Republican administration—the Republicans not only won the Presidency but also gained three seats in the Senate and 23 seats in the House. I believe voters will recognize that no evidence has ever been offered to connect Republicans in general with Watergate.

Hal Linden cuddles pleasingly plump Mary Jo Catlett and Margret Coleman, who appear with him in "The Pajama Game."

Joy to the Rounder Woman!

By Anita Summer

What better place to discover the charms of plumper women than backstage at the revival of the hit musical, "The Pajama Game?" The cast includes Mary Jo Catlett and Margret Coleman, who tip the scales, respectively, at 185 and 168. Director George Abbott, producer-composer Richard Adler, and Hal Linden, the star, are all fanciers and defenders of the rounder, more generously-built woman.

"My first wife was a plump woman," recalls Abbott, "and for years I wasn't aware there was any other kind. I was originally attracted to her by her mind, legs, hands and healthy appearance." "The Pajama Game" is Abbott's 116th show, so during his long career he has met actresses of all shapes and sizes. "I've always found plump women know instinctively when a man needs to be consoled or comforted. They must have built-in radar. My wife always had a ready, sympathetic ear."

Said Richard Adler: "Men have always enjoyed cuddly women. Paintings from the Renaissance era depict females with rounded bellies and behinds. The first thing that strikes you about Mary Jo and Margret is not their weight, but their lovely features, peaches-and-cream complexions and expressions. They remind you of a Renoir . . . A man doesn't want to feel he's holding another man in his arms. He doesn't want a muscular woman, but one who is soft. It's called Desire of the Flesh, not Desire of the Bone. Men like women to be rounded and 'zoftig.'"

Hal Linden says he thinks plumper women are more relaxed—and so more appealing—because they're less competitive. "If a thinner woman puts on weight, she's a nervous wreck until she loses it. Her personality suffers. But if a plumper woman gains a few pounds, it's not noticeable and, consequently, she doesn't dissolve into a neurotic episode." As a high school student, Linden fell for a girl who was on the hefty side. "It was because of her face," he explained. "She was beautiful. Also," Linden decided, "plumper women are warmer. They give off more body heat."

Are Plump Girls More Affectionate Than Slim Ones?

By John E. Gibson

True or False: Women who are heavier than average tend to be more feminine. (See number 4)

In this quiz, which concerns itself with the ladies, we take a look at the shape they're in.

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Women tend to have specific personality traits, depending on whether their figure is slim, medium, on the "pleasingly plump" side or decidely overweight.

2. Fashion-wise, the cards are stacked against women who are "more generously endowed" than others.

3. People who are overweight tend to be hard to get along with.

4. Women who are heavier than average tend to be more feminine.

5. Women with slim figures tend to be preferred by men who are aggressive, gregarious and outgoing.

6. Buxom women have the greatest attraction for the majority of men.

7. Plump girls tend to be more affectionate than slim girls.

8. People who cause the weight scales to cringe a bit as they approach usually have a jolly, easy-going, take-life-as-you-find-it personality.

9. Most women who are heavy get that way because they eat too much and take too little exercise.

10. Many women are at their best when a few pounds overweight.

ANSWERS

1. True. Studies in both Britain and the U.S. have shown that slim women tend to be the most secretive, the least inclined to wear their hearts on their sleeves, and to be the most discriminating in forming relationships. Those of medium build tend to be energetic, frank, outgoing, and to enjoy the excitement of risk and chance. "Pleasingly plump" girls, it was found, tend to be characterized by love of physical comfort (including food), enjoyment of socializing with others, and a deep need for affection and approval. The obese —or extremely overweight—women are more likely to be troubled with inner conflicts, frustration and anxiety.

2. True. A team of Harvard University investigators, who have completed a study of the subject, succinctly sum up the situation as follows: "For the last several decades, fashions have been tailored for the very tall, narrow-hipped, rather wide-shouldered female figure. Women who are short, stout, or wide-hipped with narrow shoulders have difficulty dressing à la mode." Also, women with more ample endowments are not only at a disadvantage but often feel compelled to take steps to make their figures conform to current ideals.

3. False—as evidenced by National Science Foundation studies of overweight individuals, which showed that people who give the scales a "bad time" actually tend to be quite amenable in most cases, willing to compromise when necessary, quick to adapt to social situations and usually open to suggestion.

4. True. University studies have shown that women who are heavier than average make significantly higher femininity scores on psychological tests and personality questionnaires. They have also been found to have "greater emotional reactivity"—to be more acutely sensitive to the feelings of others.

5. False. Psychological studies have shown that men of this temperament tend very definitely to prefer more generously proportioned women – those whose physical endowments are on the impressive side.

6. False. Psychologist Hans J. Eysenck, who has conducted extensive studies in this area, finds that the majority of men (and they are those whom personality tests show to be reserved rather than demonstrative, controlled rather than impulsive) tend very definitely to shy

AN AMAZING FURNITURE BUY!

EXQUISITELY HAND-PAINTED AND BRILLIANTLY LACQUERED HARDWOOD

ORIENTAL MASTERWORK DYNASTY TABLES

DYNAMIC... DRAMATIC... WITH THE PRICELESS APPEARANCE OF MING DYNASTY ORIGINALS!

THESE "dynasty" tables, as magnificent as they are, are not originals . . . they just look like they are! The priceless tapestry paintings, meticulously reproduced on these exquisite black lacquered tables in the ancient hand-painted manner, hang in remote museums far behind the Great Wall of China, carefully guarded, and until now forbidden to Western eyes. When friends see these stunning tables in your home, they will be convinced you have inherited a fortune, and that you have indeed purchased rare and costly Oriental antiques!

Give any room luxurious elegance . . . colorful new beauty!

Imagine! Each table is hand-painted with traditional Oriental scenes that employ the glowing colors associated with the Chinese since time immemorial, artistic masterworks passed down from generation to generation. Each table is "fine-furniture" hardwood, lacquered so brilliantly, it would appear that coat after coat has been applied, then allowed to dry before the next is applied. The result is a long-lasting, satin-smooth, diamond-bright finish with the appearance of gleaming black patent leather. Unfortunately, the photographs above cannot begin to convey the fairy-tale-delicacy of the hand-painted scenes . . . the depth of the reds, the blues, the greens . . . the blazing opulence of the golds!

2 magnificent styles to enhance and complement any decor!

These gorgeous tables are offered in two styles: a four-shelf free-standing end table, and a versatile corner table. Each is an eye-catching focal point in any room of the home, perfect for your prettiest figurines, music boxes, whatnots! End table is a commanding 30" high, stunning against a wall, or used as a room divider. Two of the shelves are 18" long, two are 9½". Corner table is 27" high, has one 14", one 11¾" and one 9½" shelf. For spectacular matched decorator effect, place both in same room. Lovely accents with any style decor!

Limited quantities of these hand-painted treasuries — order at once!

We cannot promise to offer these tables again at the low price in this advertisement. At only $19.98 each, they are bound to sell out fast. To avoid disappointment, please order at once.

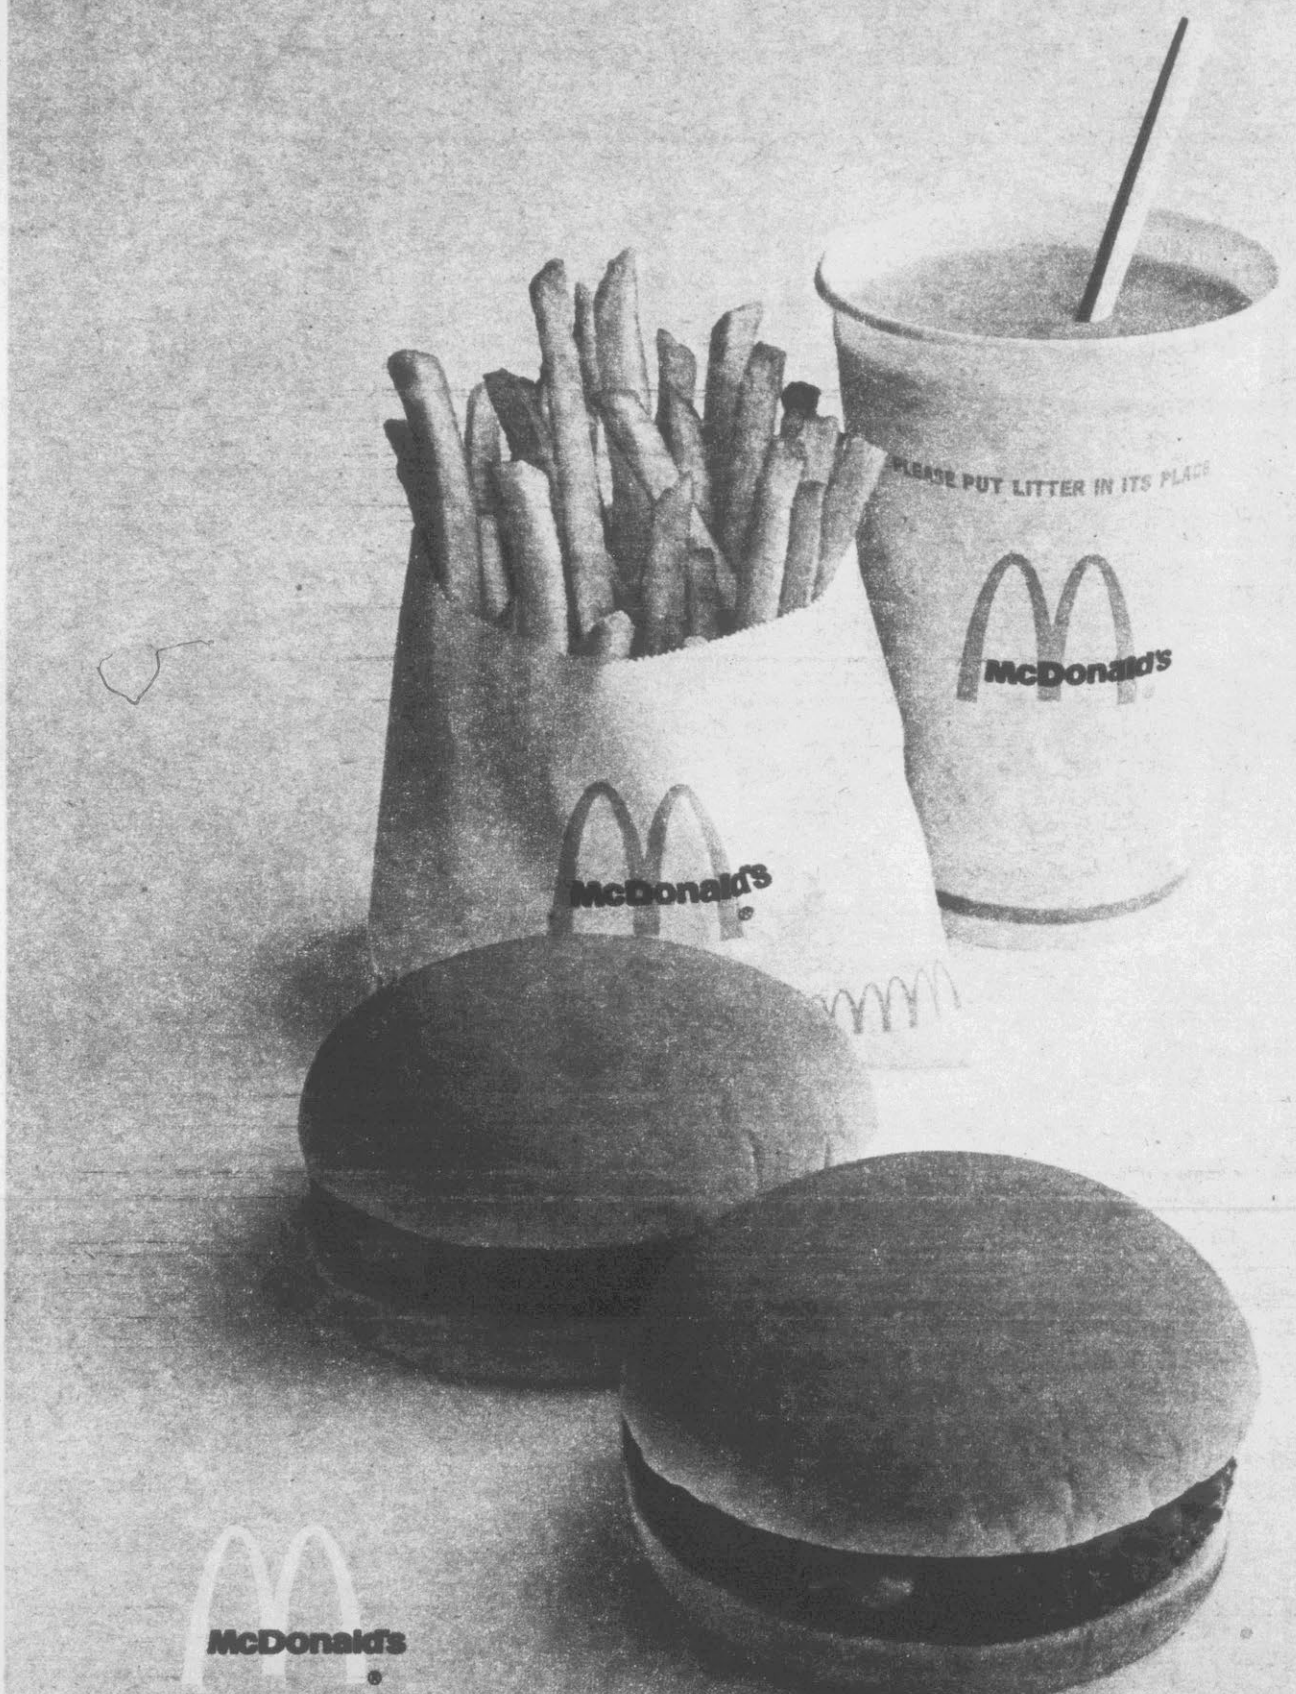
This meal gives you 60% of your daily need for protein with less fat than the average American meal.



Keeping you and your children in good health makes good sense... and good business. And we think our food is as good for you as it is good to eat. We're not suggesting, of course, that a meal at McDonald's gives you all the nutrients you need. You still need a balanced diet that includes a daily intake of fruits and vegetables for other vitamins and minerals.

But it is true that a meal of two McDonald's hamburgers, a McDonald's shake and a regular order of french fries, provides 60% of the daily need for protein and nearly a third of the daily need for most important vitamins and minerals.* What's more, this meal provides a lower percentage of calories from fat (about 33%) than the average American meal (about 40% according to latest published information). The table below indicates specific nutrition information on the illustrated meal.

We want you to enjoy our good food...and enjoy it in good health.

"So Long Till Next Year," a fanciful Christmas painting by Grandma Moses. "Little girls did not go to school much in winter, owing to the cold."

Anna Mary Moses as a bride, 1887.

This charming, nostalgic, evocative sketch of her early life—until her husband's death in 1927—was written by Grandma Moses in 1945. Now it has been printed in a magnificent new book, "Grandma Moses," published by Harry N. Abrams, Inc., in time for Christmas, 1973. In the book, the author, Otto Kallir, writes about Anna Mary Robertson Moses, the American art phenomenon who didn't seriously take up painting until her late seventies.

I, Anna Mary Robertson, was born back in the green meadows and wild woods, on a farm in Washington County in the year of 1860, Sept. 7, of Scotch Irish paternal ancestry.

Here I spent the first ten years of my life with mother, father, and sisters and brothers. Those were my happy days, free from care or worry, helping Mother, rocking Sister's cradle, taking sewing lessons from Mother, sporting with my brothers, making rafts to float over the mill pond, roaming the wild woods gathering flowers, and building air castles.

"1870. Now came the hard years. Schooling in those days in the country was three months in summer, three in winter. Little girls did not go to school

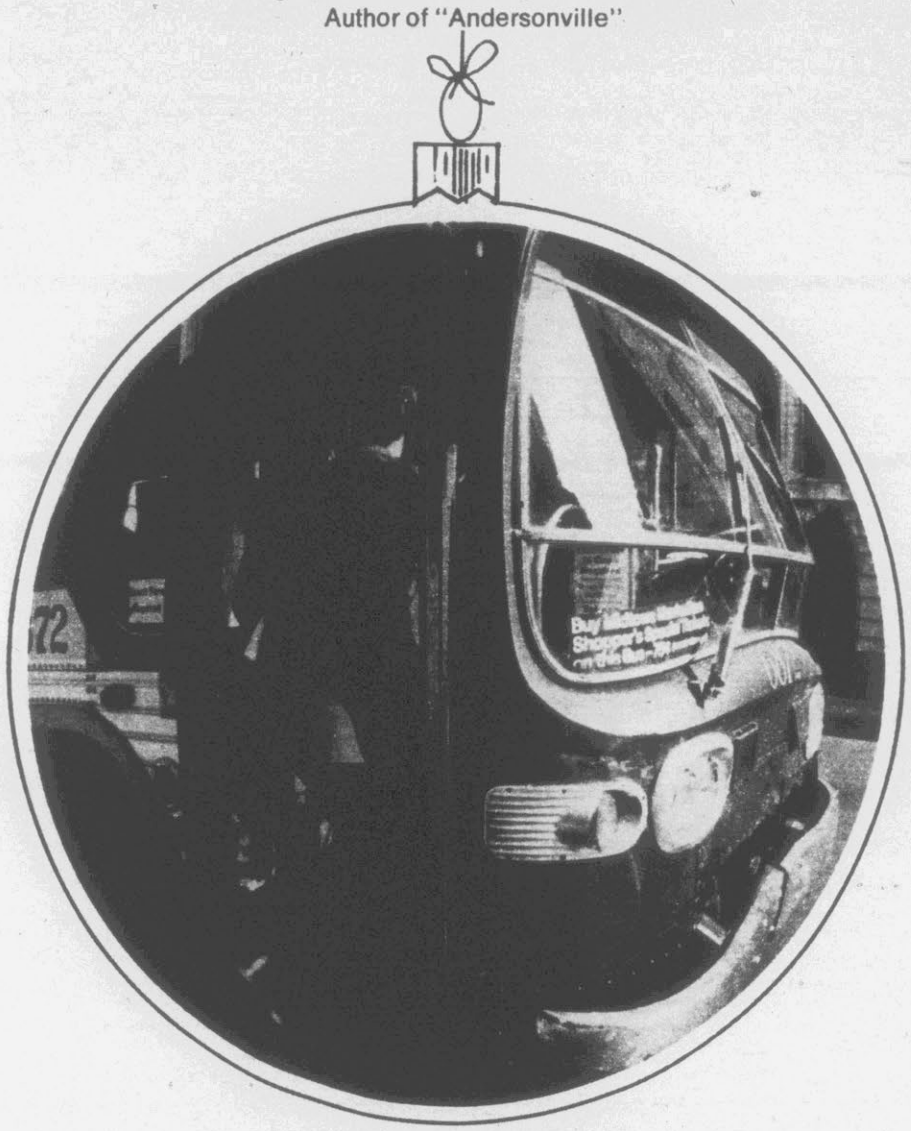
Christmas on a Bus, In the Heart Of the Great City

A Special True Story
By MacKinlay Kantor
Author of "Andersonville"



Dick regarded his fellow passengers: a full load of sad faces, tired faces, cold faces, grim faces.

MacKinlay Kantor

Evening weather spread no Good Tidings of Great Joy as the bus plowed north on New York's Third Avenue. Aboard the bus, my friend Dick Glendinning decided that the weatherman had deliberately attempted to abolish Christmas Eve as an institution.

Rain fell on sooty slush along the sidewalks. Drab figures huddled under umbrellas, hurrying to escape raw unpleasantness. Dick regarded his fellow passengers: a full load of sad faces, tired faces, cold faces, grim faces. Many were carrying gaily wrapped Christmas parcels. Still, they looked sullen.

A scrawny woman got on, her coat pebbled with sleet. She had trouble finding change in her purse. The driver was a hulking man with a thick neck. He growled, "O.K., lady, let's get going." The passenger found money for her fare, but she snarled as she dropped coins into the receptacle.

Sixtieth Street would be next. Glendinning signalled and moved to the front and stood grasping a pole for support. The bus groaned to a stop.

Before getting off, Dick looked first at the driver, then at the sullen passengers. He lifted his voice so that it would carry to the back of the bus:

"You're the worst bunch of sourpusses I ever saw in my life!" he shouted. Then he got off and walked up to his mother's apartment.

Dick and his wife Sally were from Baltimore. They had traveled to New York City to spend Christmas with Dick's mother. When Dick got back, he found Sally alone in the kitchen, making pies.

"Well, was it fun?" she asked.

"It was horrible."

"The club was horrible?" (Dick had been having a drink with some old friends at the Dartmouth Club.)

"No, no, that was fine. It was that Third Avenue bus—"

He told the whole story and concluded, "But at least I had the satisfaction of telling them off!"

Sally was quiet a moment. Then she said, "I don't think that was a very nice thing to do. Maybe those folks could have done with a little cheering up. How might it have been if, instead of glowering at them, you'd wished them a warmhearted Merry Christmas?"

Dick sulked off into the living room, sat in the dark and looked down at cold streets and traffic lights. He felt ashamed of himself. Sally was right. He got up, went to the bathroom and washed his face. When he stopped at the kitchen doorway again, he had his topcoat on and was carrying his hat. He said to Sally, "I just had an idea. I'm going to try to make amends." He went out into the hall and down.

When the next bus came south on Lexington Avenue and Dick stepped aboard, it was obvious that he'd defied the laws of probability. It was the very same bus he had caught on Third Avenue; it had turned around and was now heading back down Lexington.

As Glendinning reached into his pocket for change, the driver lifted his gaze from the street ahead. His eyes narrowed as he recognized the passenger.

"Sourpuss yourself!" snarled the driver.

Dick began, "I'm sorry I said—"

"What the hell's the difference?" The driver turned away and slouched over his wheel.

This time there were a number of empty seats. Nevertheless, Dick sat down next to a boy of about 14.

He nerved himself to begin. Then, out loud, he began singing Jingle Bells. The youth beside him looked as if he were alarmed—then amused. He said, "We had that in school."

"Good. Come on, let's go."

The boy began to sing with him.

Two black women sat just ahead, and they turned and smiled. One said to her companion, "Somebody's happy!" Dick beckoned her and nodded his head. She nodded back, cleared her throat and added a clear contralto.

Dick looked toward the front. The driver was twisting around to see what was going on back there. Other people nearby were humming, and some of them seemed to be singing a little, although they were shy about it.

Across the aisle, a young woman spoke up. "Haven't we ridden in that one-horse open sleigh about long enough?" she laughed. And she began, "The first Nöel the angels did say...."

By the end of the second chorus, half the people on the bus were singing along with her.

Near Twenty-third Street the bus halted. There'd been a fire alarm—just a grease fire in some restaurant kitchen—but a lot of equipment had responded. Traffic was blocked solidly. The bus sat there for a few minutes; then the cops had the driver back up and go around a couple of blocks.

The odd thing was that folks who'd been observing the fire seemed to find that bus with its singing passengers much more fascinating than what they'd come out to watch. Pedestrians laughed and pointed. Dick could hear one man outside explaining to his wife that probably this wasn't a regular Lexington Avenue bus; it was a chartered deal. Some club or

IN THIS GRIND-EM-OUT WORLD, ISN'T IT NICE TO KNOW SOME PEOPLE REFUSE TO GRIND-EM-OUT?

We're sticklers about how Kent is made.

That's why Kent is probably the most quality-tested cigarette made.

We try to get rid of any taste-robbing imperfections before a Kent ever sees the light of a match. (Over 200 different quality checks in the manufacturing end, alone.)

But Kent quality goes beyond that.

We go to 3 continents, 4 countries and 10 states to find the right kind of tobaccos for the milder Kent blend.

To complement this blend, we even invented our own filter, the famous Micronite filter—to smooth the flavor of Kent.

Why are we so adamant about how Kent is made?

Because, that way we can give you the mild, smooth taste that makes Kent what it is: America's quality cigarette.

Christmas on a Bus lodge. "They wouldn't be singing that way unless they belonged to the same club," he explained.

Soon they came to the southern termination of the run. Driver had to halloo to make himself heard. "This is it! Far as we go. Merry Christmas, everybody!"

The five people who still remained, besides Glendinning, got off. And they were all calling a Merry Christmas, too.

"Hey, Sourpuss!" called the driver good-naturedly. "Don't you want off here?"

Glendinning came up front, and dropped into the seat nearest the busman. "I'm going back up to Sixtieth Street."

"Why did you get on again, to ride all the way down here?"

"Because I thought I should try to undo any harm I'd done before."

The driver seemed to be meditating as he moved the big vehicle into position for a wait demanded by schedule.

Dick said, "Say, did you know we may belong to the same club?" He then told the driver what he had heard the pedestrian saying to his wife, back near Twenty-third.

The driver laughed, "Maybe we do at that."

They both tried to think of a name for the club.

The driver said, slowly, "The Great Human Club." Dick agreed that that was as good a name as any.

A few people were getting on. . . . Driver kept looking at his watch. "I'm punctilious," he said with pride. "That's what my CO used to say. You know, I've been thinking about Christmas in Germany, just after the war ended. I was a master sergeant, and we had a truck pool in a little town near Munich. No regular quarters available, so I stayed with an elderly German couple. They were real good to me, and I used to bring them little things. You know: stuff from the PX.

"Anyway, on Christmas Eve I was pretty lonesome. Just sat in my room and moped. Then Frau Ledden came up and knocked at my door and asked would I come and keep Christmas with them. So I went down. Oh, it wasn't much . . . They had their dead son's picture up on the mantel, with green stuff around it. And they had a few candle stubs leftover from the air raids. She'd made some special kind of little cookies for Christmas. Had colored sugar on them. And there was wine."

The bus was fairly full now, and he started the engine.

"They sang some songs, and I wanted to sing with them. They tried to teach me the words."

He began, even while he pulled the door-control levers and moved the bus into gear:

In Betlehem geboren
Ist unst ein Kinderlein. . . .

The driver spoke abruptly. "I'm driving now, and I can't talk while I'm driving." He bellowed, "Get on the job, everybody! Get to singing!"

Although the driver had chanted the few words of German in a low tone, several nearby passengers had heard him. They were smiling and wondering what this was all about.

It was as if those participating in that earlier songfest had left their aura—not just gum wrappers, careless wads of tissue – the litter which any crew of customers abandons – but something more pervasive and persuasive.

Soon all the passengers were joining in: While Shepherds Watched . . . Good King Wenceslaus . . . God Rest Ye Merry Gentlemen . . . Silent Night. . . .

Except for one woman. Her sealskin coat showed patches where the fur had thinned, but there was an unmistakable air of gentility about her. From time to time her glance roved over the carolers, and once she had her handkerchief out.

Dick saw her crying, just for a minute—but she wasn't singing.

East Sixtieth and Third: Dick's corner. He stood up and shook hands with the driver. "Remember the Club," the driver said, and Dick told him he would.

The driver yelled, as Glendinning stepped down, "Goodnight, Sourpuss! Merry Christmas!"—and Dick waved back.

To his astonishment, however, he saw through the glass that the elderly woman in the shabby coat had hurried forward. She said something to the driver – the bus had barely started to move—and the driver stopped again and opened the door. The woman got out.

Dick ran to help her alight. The bus drove away.

She said, "Excuse me. Normally I get off at Sixty-second Street, but I wanted to have a word with you."

Her gloved fingers touched Dick's arm. "You see, young man, I was strengthened by the singing . . . helped very much. But it was impossible for me to join in . . ." She lifted her handkerchief to her eyes. "My granddaughter – There was a motor accident and . . . She was buried this afternoon. I felt that I must explain why I couldn't sing."

Glendinning's voice was a little shaky. He asked if he couldn't see her to her door.

"Thank you. But I'd like to be alone."

When she was halfway to the curb, going north, her white face looked back at him. "It helped," she called. "It helped a great deal," and then she hurried away. Dick Glendinning couldn't see anything for a minute or two.

A Garland of Christmas Verses

By Richard Armour

About Richard Armour

Richard Armour, who writes "Armour's Armoury" for FAMILY WEEKLY, is an English professor who has been writing at least three pieces of verse or prose every morning for the past 35 years. He claims, "My writing is 33⅓ percent inspiration, 33⅓ percent perspiration and 33⅓ percent desperation!" He has written more than 40 books, his latest being "It All Started with Freshman English." Retired as a dean from Scripps College, Claremont, Calif., Mr. Armour lectures at campuses across the country and for (of all things) the State Department!

I.

Christmas is the time of year
Known for happiness and cheer,
Time for being kind, forgiving,
Generous to all the living.
Christmas, too, is something more:
Being trampled in a store
Seeking bargains, on and on,
Getting there before they're gone,
And when wrapped (don't laugh or scoff),
Making sure the price tag's off.

II.

Christmas, time of merry
cheeriness,
Also is a time of weariness,
Time of stamping envelopes
Full of notes with news and hopes
Sent to friends who live no more
Where they did the year before, Likewise getting (quite a plight, too)
Cards from those you didn't write to,
Also duplicated pages
Which to read would take you ages.

III.

How, I ask, could Christmas be
If there weren't a Christmas tree?
Yet there's choosing one just right,
One that's bushy, proper height.
Place an angel or a star
On the top, which seems up far.
Dad will do it on a ladder Held by Mom (he's glad he had her).
Then there's that stern choice judicial:
Tree that's real or artificial?

IV.

Christmas is when people
gather.
Some you welcome, some you'd rather Stayed away. No, that is wrong—
Stayed, but didn't stay so long.
In-laws, outlaws congregate;
Some come early, some come late.
Some are old and some are young,
Most are fun to be among.
"Next year," some say, "we invite you.
Visit us." How they delight you!

V.

Christmas, time of starry skies,
Time for puddings, too, and pies:
Apple, mincemeat, plum, and others,
Baked by sacrificial mothers.
Time of turkey, gravy, dressing, Cooked by recipes—and guessing.
Just this once, forget your diet,
Take a second on the quiet.
One consoling thought, at that:
Santa's happy, and he's fat.

VI.

Christmas greetings, one and all!
Christmas can be quite a ball.
Open presents, hide your sorrow—
They can be exchanged
tomorrow.
Sing a carol, sing like birds,
Hum if you don't know the words.
Stand beneath the mistletoe:
Kiss, be kissed, before you go.
Christmas comes but once a year....
Twice might be too much, I fear.

Some Fond Thoughts, and a Few Dissents...

These Celebrities Tell: "What Christmas Means to Me"

Bisset Weaver Young Gaynor

JACQUELINE BISSET

I had such lovely Christmases as a child. But I think what has happened to Christmas is rather dreadful. It isn't just that I've grown up and out of the marvelous conviction that the mystical sudden appearance of the Christmas tree at six on Christmas morning, lighted and loaded with gifts and ornaments, was really, truly magic; it is my disgust at how commercial Christmas has become. I hate buying presents on cue. I don't even send Christmas cards any more. I like the spirit of Christmas, and I like having people be nice. This is very admirable. I just wish they'd be like that all year long!

DENNIS WEAVER

I attend the Church of Self Realization, and I have come to understand that an individual's peace is carried within him. The object of our senses doesn't have the power to make us happy. For example, you see a hat and you buy it. Then you're happy, you say. But when you get it, almost immediately the pleasure begins to fade away. If it had the power within itself to make happiness, then it would do so for everybody. But it doesn't. So you see, it's what's within you, that creates peace and breeds gentleness. And that's the way I feel about Christmas—it's a time to get in touch with the feelings within you.

ROBERT YOUNG

I'd like to feel that Christmas is not especially different. Betty and I just like to spend several days with our children and our grandchildren, among the decorations. We also enjoy the gift-giving on our patio, which Betty decorates especially for the occasion. That's the heart of a memorable day.

MITZI GAYNOR

Love! Love! Love! is what Christmas means to me. Love of family, love of friends, love of business associates.... I know it sounds Pollyannaish, but Lord! Don't we have to start somewhere?

MIKE CONNORS

To me, Christmas means a time when love of family and friends is more openly expressed. The tragedy of the American family is that the emotion of love is usually buried and only surfaces during the Christmas season. Let's hope the philosophy of the present Love Generation rectifies all that!

SAMMY DAVIS, JR.

I refuse to think of the commercial aspect of Christmas but try to honor the holiday in terms of what it is supposed to mean. In other words, the ethics of the holiday.

SUSAN DEY

I hate to say this, but I think Christmas has become a big pain. It's come to mean a lot of things it shouldn't. Like rushing around like crazy. And commercialism. It's become so commercialized that the fun has gone out of it. Before Halloween I started getting Christmas catalogs, and by Thanksgiving, decorations were up all over and stores were pushing their Christmas items. So where does that leave the warmth and friendliness of Christmas? In the cash register, that's where!

JIM FRANCISCUS

Christmas is more than a day to me. It's a special season at the end of the year that peaks on Christmas Day. It's a time for family in our home, and I like to think it's a time when togetherness is symbolic throughout the world. It's a time when Kitty and I doubly enjoy and appreciate one another and our three lively daughters. Personally, I feel and believe in the timeless tradition that Christmas is the time for giving of yourself.

Compiled by Peer J. Oppenheimer

Connors Davis Dey Franciscus Blondell McDowall Shore Moore Markham Ball

JOAN BLONDELL

That's the time I collect whatever family there is around, and we all get together. It means in. Not going out to parties. But coming together in the home. And I do the whole thing myself when it is my turn. My brother and sister and I take turns having everyone in. We're all so glad to be together, and there's presents for the kids, and it's just a lovely close time.

RODDY MCDOWALL

I believe Christmas means doing things for children. It's the time of the year when one makes a special effort to make things better for them, and to bring them happiness. After all, Christmas really does belong to the children, doesn't it? And since I have no children of my own, I try to do for others. But don't ask me what, or which charities I am involved with, because I won't tell. I feel that is very, very private.

DINAH SHORE

Christmas is a time for tradition, and we try to do it all: the tree, the time-honored dinner and, especially, having the family together to celebrate the occasion. I have always tried to observe one other tradition, and that is to create homemade gifts. I like to hand-paint my own holiday greetings or make fruitcakes or make some accessories in needlepoint. This has always been the essence of Christmas.

MARY TYLER MOORE

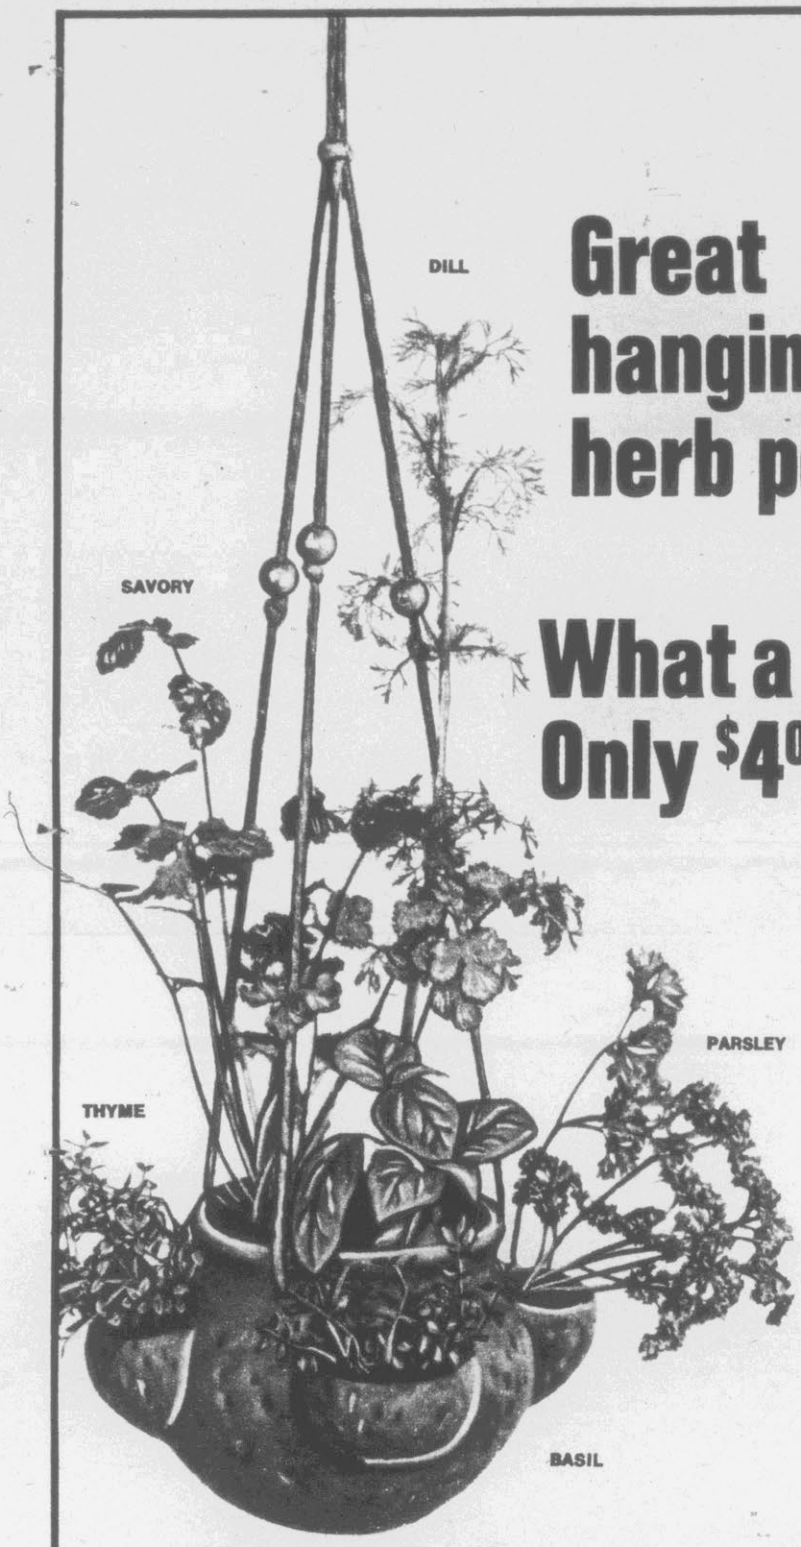
Christmas to me means family—family and presents and wrapping paper and ribbon; a tree and lights and holly and all sorts of decorations, indoors and out; tripping over the dogs and keeping them away from the cookies; Christmas cards on the piano and the mantel and new names hastily added to old lists; and a big, big family dinner — that's what Christmas means at our house.

MONTE MARKHAM

Christmas has always been a special time in our family, but not in the conventional sense. By that I mean we have attempted to keep an expression of love and need for one another throughout the year, and the culmination of that togetherness manifests itself on Christmas Day.

LUCILLE BALL

Christmas means getting together with the kids and all the family at home or in Snowmass, Colo., where I have a condominium. Ironically, I broke my leg skiing right after I bought the place, but that mishap hasn't kept me off skis. I get everyone together and we go cross-country skiing. I just love it. I pack picnic baskets and away we go! This year, because we started shooting my series late and I'll soon be leaving on a publicity tour with "Mame," we'll gather at home in Beverly Hills and have an old-fashioned Christmas dinner with turkey and cranberry sauce and persimmon cake.



Great hanging herb pot—

What a find! Only $4.00

Give Mrs. Wallace Brown a medal for this one—she found it. Grows herbs right in the kitchen. Hangs in the window.

About 6" across—made of clay pot terra cotta stuff. Designed the way the old fashioned strawberry pot was—with a place here—in the center for the stand-up herbs—and four places on the side for the hanging herbs.

Comes complete with loose Nutra soil, that won't cake up—plus seeds for five herbs—savory, thyme, basil, dill, and parsley.

Just plant, add water, hand in good light and bang—you've got yourself a hanging herb garden right in the kitchen. Complete directions.

Herbs you can pluck and use in your cooking. A hanging garden that adds so much to your kitchen. Absolutely wild crazy gift for someone with a kitchen. (Who doesn't have a kitchen?) Money back if not happy—even if you've started it growing—$4.00 complete with seeds. Two for $7.50. Please allow up to two weeks for order processing, plus shipping time.

This week Food Editor Marilyn Hansen makes a frosted cake house. "I've always been intrigued," she says, "by those sugar houses you see at Christmas. I've worked out a recipe that's quick and easy to make."

This Sugar House Is Easy to Make

Marilyn's "Sugar 'n' Spice House" is so beautiful, you can use it as a centerpiece.

SUGAR 'N' SPICE 'N' EVERYTHING NICE HOUSE

Sugar 'n' Spice Cake:
- 1 cup (2 sticks) butter or margarine
- 2 cups sugar
- 4 teaspoons ground cinnamon
- 1 teaspoon ground ginger
- 1 teaspoon ground nutmeg
- ½ teaspoon ground cloves
- 2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract
- 4 eggs
- 3½ cups unsifted all-purpose flour
- 1 tablespoon baking powder
- ¼ teaspoon salt
- 1 cup milk
- Seven Minute Frosting (recipe below) or 1 pkg. (7.2 ozs.) fluffy white frosting mix
- Thin red candy "shoe string" licorice, peppermint rounds, jelly candy slices and squares, multi-colored chocolate candies

1. Preheat oven to 325° F. Grease and lightly flour two 9x5x3 inch loaf pans.

2. In a large mixing bowl with electric mixer at medium high speed beat butter and sugar together until light and fluffy.

3. Add cinnamon, ginger, nutmeg, cloves and vanilla extract; beat at low speed until blended.

4. Add eggs, one at a time, beating well after each addition.

5. Combine flour with baking powder and salt. At medium-low speed, add flour mixture and milk alternately, beginning and ending with flour.

6. Pour batter into prepared loaf pans. Bake for about 1 hour and 20 minutes or until a cake tester inserted into center of the cake comes out clean.

7. Cool in pans 5 minutes. Turn out onto wire racks and continue cooling.

Makes 2 9-inch loaf cakes

SEVEN-MINUTE FROSTING

The Frosting:
- 2 egg whites
- 1½ cups sugar
- ½ cup water
- 1 tablespoon corn syrup
- ½ teaspoon salt
- 2 teaspoons pure vanilla extract

1. In top of double-boiler combine egg whites, sugar, water, corn syrup and salt. Blend with electric mixer at high speed for one minute.

2. Place over rapidly boiling water and beat on high speed until mixture forms peaks, takes about 7 minutes.

3. Remove from water. Add vanilla extract and beat until thick enough to spread, about 2 minutes longer.

Fills and frosts 2 8 or 9 inch layers or 13x9 inch cake or 2 9-inch loaf cakes.

To Assemble the House:

1. Place one of the Sugar 'n' Spice loaf cakes in center of a serving tray or foil-covered cardboard.

2. Spread top with Seven-Minute Frosting; set aside.

3. Cut "roof" out of second loaf (a triangular wedge, cut lengthwise.)

4. Place the "roof" triangle on the frosting of the loaf cake. (Remaining cake may be cut up and decorated as desired.)

5. Spread remaining frosting over entire "house."

6. Decorate using thin red licorice strips to outline roof, windows and doors, peppermint rounds to top roof, jellied candy slices for shutters, etc.

7. If desired make "snow" by using additional frosting over top of serving tray.

much in winter, owing to the cold. Therefore, my school days were limited. Although I was kept busy helping at home and helping the neighbors, when 12 years of age I left home to earn my own living as then was called a hired girl. This was a grand education for me, in cooking, housekeeping, in moralizing and mingling with the outside world.

I went to live with a family by the name of Mrs. and Mr. Thomas Whiteside. They were lovely people, while well along in years.

I was cared for by them as a child of their own.

They were Presbyterians by creed, so one of my duties was to drive the horse "Old Black Joe" to church for them on Sunday mornings and place bouquets on the pulpit in the church and always remember the text. I lived with the Whitesides for three years, caring for Mrs. Whiteside, who was an invalid and finally died. Then I kept house for Mr. Whiteside for a year till his nephew and wife could come and take care of the farm and him.

"In the fall of 1887... I married Thomas Salmon Moses, a farmer by occupation. We left on our wedding trip for North Carolina.... But we never reached there."

I was very proud in those days, could get up such fine dinners for his friends who came from far off to see him. When the minister came and I could bring out the fine linen and the China tea set, and the heavy silver, then the hot biscuits, the homemade butter and honey, with home-cured dried beef—I was proud. But I sometimes now think they came for eats more than to see him.

Then Mr. Whiteside died, and I drifted away from that neighborhood.

1880. Still working as a hired girl, and caring for the sick. Those were busy days.

In the fall of 1887—Nov. 9 it was—I married Thomas Salmon Moses, a farmer by occupation. We left on our wedding trip for North Carolina to take charge of a horse ranch in North Carolina. But we never reached there. We were kidnapped at Staunton, Va. Or I should say, we were "over-persuaded" to go no farther south. So we hired a farm near Staunton for a year, to see if we would like the south.

The people there were overanxious for northerners or westerners to come in and build up the state. They were in a way helpless since the colored help had been taken from them. We remained on this farm one year, then moved farther down the valley onto a 600-acre dairy farm.

"Here I commenced to make butter and ship it to the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. I also made potato chips, which was a novelty in those days. This we continued for several years.

There our ten children were born. And there I left five little graves in that beautiful Shenandoah Valley.

We came back up north to New York State Dec. 15, 1905, with our five children to educate and put on their footing. We bought a farm and went in to the dairy business selling milk and doing general farm work. Here my oldest daughter married and left home. Here my two oldest sons bought a farm and struck out for themselves. And here, on Jan. 15, 1927, my husband died, my youngest son and wife taking over the farm, leaving me unoccupied. I had to do something, so took up doing pictures—first in worsted, then in oil."

How your Horoscope can bring you wealth, love, success and happiness.

by Norman P. Kennedy

Did you know your horoscope could mean the difference between happiness or sorrow; between success or failure?

Picture a long room with doors at each end. In this room there are money, attractive persons of the opposite sex, books that tell you the secret of happiness and many other valuable articles. But, also in this room are bottomless pits, traps, hostile persons and dangerous beasts chained in various places around the room. You must walk through this room, but you may take out of it anything you can.

Now if you had a choice, would you choose to 1) go through the room blindfolded or 2) go through the room with your eyes open and with written instructions on which places and people to visit or avoid.

Of course, all of us would pick the second choice in a case such as this. Isn't it ridiculous, then, that we would choose to go through life, the same situation, blindfolded! Even when there is a means to go through life with a map and our eyes wide open! The means provided is Astrology. The map is our astrological horoscope.

How does it work? Nature's cosmos imprints each of us at the time of birth – when the umbilical cord is cut. We then become ourselves. Until the cord is cut, we are part of our mother. Why or how we presently do not know. The movement of the large solar bodies then times potentials for events in our lives. Astrology does not cause events but is timing of events. But, it's not fortune telling. It's a prediction of potentials which free will can override.

What does a natal horoscope analysis by a qualified astrologer contain? A natal horoscope analysis contains the best psychological analysis of yourself that you can get today. Because, in a controlled experiment in 1960, astrologers beat psychologists in predicting case histories.

In addition, a natal horoscope analysis includes discussions on the following: financial outlook; taxes and inheritances; early home environment; relationships with family, relatives and parents; lovelife and marriage; children; career and occupation; hopes; wishes and goals; and subconscious attitudes. In a major analysis, a one year forecast is also included.

Many people think that astrology only appeals to "way out" unscientific people. Nothing could be farther from the truth. In fact, studies show that astrology appeals most to intelligent and logical people. Famous scientists Galileo, Carl Jung, Johannes Kepler, Roger Bacon, Tycho Bache and Albert Einstein all believed in astrology.

Your horoscope can help you be in the right place at the right time.

Your horoscope can help you avoid disasters while guiding you to your beneficial opportunities.

Did you know that astrology helped the allies win World War II? The allies employed astrologers. The axis powers started out employing astrologers. But, this was ceased early when the famous astrologer, Karl Ernst Krafft, predicted the exact time and place of an attempt on Hitler's life in 1939. Hitler thought the astrologers were conspiring against him, so they were imprisoned.

Hitler turned back to astrology – too late. He read his horoscope in the last moments of the war as Berlin burned around him.

More on avoiding disaster, came these stories from a recent article in the Miami Herald newspaper. The article tells the story of Mary Kelly, a Miami computer programmer, who heeded the advice of her horoscope which warned her of a wrong medical diagnosis. She avoided an unnecessary operation that would have left her a cripple.

The Miami Herald also tells the story of astrologer Clifford McMullen, who is George McGovern's personal astrologer. He warned McGovern that if he ran for president, that he would win the Democratic nomination, but he would lose badly to President Nixon in the November election.

Your horoscope can bring you wealth. Famous business tycoon, J. P. Morgan, used astrology to acquire his fortune. Morgan did not make a financial move without checking his natal horoscope forecast.

From an article in the Miami Herald came this story:

"Stockbrokers on Wall Street are as likely to call an astrologer in this decade as Hollywood film stars would call a psychiatrist in the last. David Williams, a 75 year old retired financial expert who lives in Clearwater, has made $150,000 from the stock market in 13 years by using astrology as an investment guide."

Your horoscope can show you the way to success and happiness in love and marriage. Horoscopes of Grace Kelly and Jackie Kennedy predicted their current successful marriages, Grace Kelly to Prince Rainier and Jackie Kennedy to Aristotle Onassis.

Princess Grace and Prince Rainier have recently had their horoscopes done together by American astrologer, Keith Clayton. As with these famous people, your horoscope can help you find and keep a lasting and meaningful love relationship.

Now and through the ages a good natal horoscope analysis has meant success for many people. In other cases many men have missed their opportunity; some with tragic consequences, such as Adolf Hitler.

Will you miss your success opportunities? Will you stumble into pitfalls you could have avoided?

Today, right this moment, you can have your natal horoscope cast and analyzed. You can get it for only the cost to make your duplicate copy. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process – FREE. The article below will tell you how. The means are available, but the choice is yours.

HOW TO GET YOUR NATAL HOROSCOPE FOR ONLY THE COST OF MAKING COPIES.

by John F. Ford

Send me your exact time and place of birth. I'll cast and analyze your natal horoscope for research purposes. You may have duplicate copies of your horoscope for only $3.00 – the cost to make your copies plus postage and handling costs. You get the expensive casting and analyzing process – FREE, because of the fact that we must produce your horoscope for research anyhow.

Your natal horoscope will consist of nine pages and over 3,000 words. Your natal horoscope will contain your psychological analysis plus a discussion of the following: your lovelife; financial outlook; marriage, family and children relationships; career and occupations; hopes, wishes and goals; and subconscious attitudes. A horoscope of this type would cost up to $300 if done by an astrologer.

I will cast your horoscope with the help of our 360 - 65 I.B.M. computer, which contains over 24 million bits of information. Your horoscope will not be the worthless type found in daily newspapers. Your natal horoscope will be cast from your exact time and place of birth for you and you alone.

THERE'S ABSOLUTELY NO CATCH. I need this information for my astrological research. I am looking for certain planet configurations. If you are chosen as a research subject, I will mail to you a research questionnaire. If you fill out and return this questionnaire, you will be entitled to extra bonuses.

There is no need to worry about find-ind out about an unavoidable coming disaster thru your chart. As mentioned, astrology deals in potentials. Your free will can override potentials if you know about them. In any case, the policy of qualified astrologers is positive astrology. If there is something negative in your chart, you are told what you can do to make it positive.

To get your horoscope thru this special opportunity, simply fill out the research computer form and mail to the address given on the form. Include the $3.00 copy cost for each horoscope or charge your credit card. There is a limit of two per family. If you don't know your exact time of birth, fill in 12:00 PM.

If you have any questions, call me, John F. Ford, president, The American Astrological Association. Telephone me at (216) 478-2171. Thank you!

I submit my birth data for research. I am now eligible to promptly receive my 3,000 word natal horoscope for only a $3.00 cost to make my duplicate copy. One or two names from my household may be submitted. (Limit of 2 - no exceptions)

Grandma Moses:

Continued

Her Simple Genius...

BY OTTO KALLIR

The autobiographical sketch you may have just finished reading was written by Anna Mary Robertson Moses in 1945. It is an outline of the years up to her husband's death in 1927—that is to say, the time preceding her career as a painter.

The astonishing story of Anna Mary Robertson Moses's development has aroused the interest of the American and the European public for more than three decades. As "Grandma Moses" she has become known all over the world. Wherever her pictures were shown, they met with exceptional response — in the U.S., in Western Europe and in Russia. People everywhere have been impressed by her paintings, which so vividly depict life in rural America, the changing seasons, the daily chores and pleasures of farm life, of which the artist was a part for close to a century.

Although Anna Mary Moses started painting seriously only in her old age, one cannot set an exact date for the beginning of her artistic activities, because, almost without being aware of it, she had from early childhood on done painting and decorating in her home.

"When I was quite small," she once wrote, "my father would get me and my brothers white paper by the sheet, like the kind used for newspapers. He liked to see us draw pictures. It was a penny a sheet and it lasted longer than candy. My older brother loved to draw steam engines, the next brother went in for animals, but as for myself I had to have pictures, and the gayer the better. I would draw the picture, then color it with grape juice or berries, anything that was red and pretty in my way of thinking."

But the inclination for painting, shared also by her father and other members of the family, was always subordinated to the duties and obligations of everyday life. Anna Mary did not have the leisure to develop her talent, either in her early youth, as a young housewife in Virginia, or after the family returned to New York in 1905. But her artistic urge often expressed itself in a desire to decorate objects of daily use around the house.

Two examples have been preserved: a fireboard and a table. She wrote about the fireboard: "One time I was papering the parlor, and I ran short of paper for the fireboard. So I took a piece of paper and pasted it over the board, and I painted it a solid color first, then I painted two large trees on each side of it, like butternut trees. And in back I did a little scene of a lake and painted it a yellow color, really bright, as though you were looking off into the sun light. In the front, to fill in that space, I brought in big bushes. I daubed it all on with the brush I painted the floor with.

"Finally we re-papered the parlor and papered over the picture. When we re-papered the room again a few years ago, we took the paper off the fireboard, but the colors had faded somewhat. That was my first large picture."

About the table, she wrote: "I have an old tip-up table, on which I paint. My aunt gave it to me 35 years ago. It was built for a log cabin.... The table was made of pine planks, under the top between the standards there was a box in which they kept their pewter dishes. . . . "My aunt sent it to me for a flower stand. I have painted scenes on the standards and covered the top with postal cards, and now use it for my easel."

The painting on the fireboard is dated May 10, 1918, and those on the table were done about 1920. These first attempts already show a painterly technique rarely found in works of self-taught artists.

OAKLAND'S JIM OTTO:
"Football's Superstars Make Too Much Money!"

Jim Otto, center for the Oakland Raiders, is not only the "Iron Man" of the NFL—he is also the No. 1 "straight man." The 255-pound, 35-year-old Otto joined the Raiders when the American Football League was formed back in 1960, and is the only original member of the team left. Before the current season began, he had started in 182 consecutive league games for the Raiders. He is the Raiders' offensive captain, has been an All-League center, and is known to his opponents as a man who hustles every minute in every game.... Otto considers himself a "straight man" because he adheres strictly to the old traditions of discipline, dedication and self-denial. "I'm interested in the money I make from pro ball, but I don't consider it as important as having pride in my job," he says. ... Otto is outspoken in his criticism of other pro football players who selfishly insist on "doing their own thing," who are prima donnas who will not give of themselves 100 percent to help the team. "The superstars of this game get too much money, don't care about their teammates, and are undisciplined people who tend to play only in spurts," he says. ... To demonstrate just how "straight" he is, Otto had a picture of himself and his family taken for Christmas cards. The picture showed him in Oakland uniform while his son also wore a football uniform. His wife and daughter held Oakland pennants. "A lot of people in football thought this was corny, but that's just because they don't have pride in their uniform and are only in the game for what they personally can get out of it," he says. ... Otto is a native of Wausau, Wis. He won all-state honors as a center and linebacker for the University of Miami, and set a Miami record for tackles by linebackers.... After receiving his B.S. degree in education, he was drafted by the new Oakland team.

away from center-fold type girls. They prefer the slimmer girl whose physical charms are more conservative.

7. True—according to psychological studies which show that women who are somewhat heavier than what is considered the "ideal figure" tend to be much more affectionate, and to have significantly more enthusiasm for love and romance, than many women who don't have a weight problem.

8. False. Consensus of psychological studies shows overweight people are quicker to suffer from real or fancied slights, more subject to social anxieties, more easily saddened or dispirited by events or circumstances which others might take in their stride.

9. False. Studies sponsored by the National Institutes of Health show that "not all people who are heavy are excessively fat, and that the relative contributions to overweight of bone, muscle, and fat varies from person to person."

10. True. When a woman's natural weight is a few pounds over the norm, she is likely to feel better, look better and radiate more charm personality-wise if she doesn't try to shed poundage to achieve the slenderness encouraged by current fashion trends but which may be quite unsuitable to her constitution and individual body structure. And in such cases, the rigors of a weight-reduction regime may play such havoc with her nerves and general disposition that any attractiveness she may gain may be more than offset by her irritability and jumpiness. Many a woman's personality has suffered when she forced herself to shed pounds she didn't really need to lose, just because she was brainwashed by the fickle tides of contemporary fashion.

Never Have Rough Hands Again!

Most hand creams and lotions try to replace natural skin moisture with unnatural oils and chemicals after hands have become rough. 'Gloves You Can't See' works differently. A few drops rubbed over the hands create an invisible, non-greasy 'glove' that actually seals in the natural moistures and oils your skin produces — seals out detergent, water, dryness before damage can begin. The result is naturally soft, smooth hands that never become rough ... even for real problem hands.

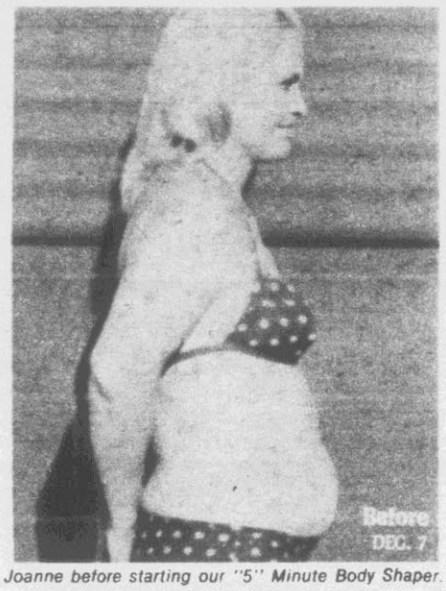
You Better Believe It!...The Cox Family Lost 10½ inches off their Waistline...7½ inches off their Hipline...40 Pounds of Excess Weight... and Shaped Up...In Just 14 Days!

ONE 5 MINUTE EXERCISE, TWICE DAILY, LYING ON THEIR BACKS, WITHOUT GIVING UP THE FOODS THEY LOVE — DID IT!

JOANNE — Weight 167, Waist 33½



Joanne before starting our "5" Minute Body Shaper.

Weight 144, Waist 27

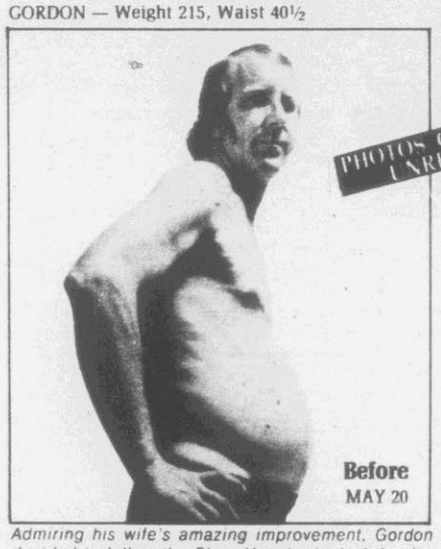
Weight 134, Waist 26

A proud Joanne, slimmed, shaped up after 35 days.

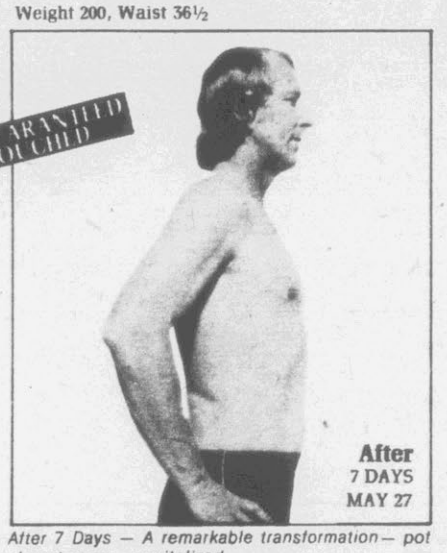
They saw and felt Amazing Results in just 3 days! Using this ingenious "5" Minute Body Shaper Plan in the privacy of their home while watching TV—Did It!

GORDON — Weight 215, Waist 40½



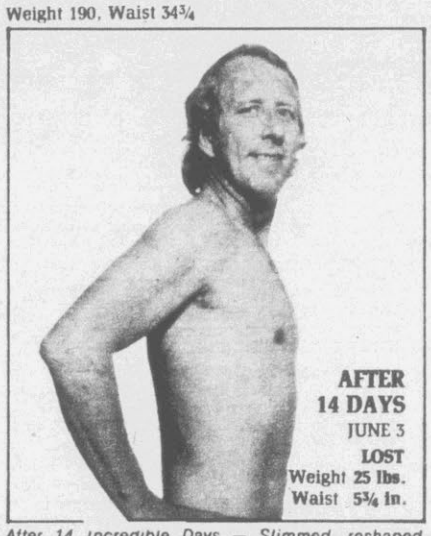
Admiring his wife's amazing improvement, Gordon decided to follow the Plan. How he looked the day he started.

Weight 200, Waist 36½



After 7 Days — A remarkable transformation— pot almost gone — revitalized.

Weight 190, Waist 34¾



After 14 Incredible Days — Slimmed, reshaped, looking 15 years younger, feeling 25 years younger.

Joe Weider, fitness expert and trainer of champions since 1936 says:

"Give me 5 minutes twice daily for only 7 days and you'll lose up to 3 inches from your waistline, up to 6 pounds of unwanted weight, and 'shape up' — or I will return every penny."

LET'S FACE THE FACTS WHY YOU'RE OUT OF SHAPE

You eat the wrong combination of foods, you do not get enough exercise to thoroughly work your muscular, metabolic and respiratory systems daily. Because of this, fat accumulates around your waistline, heart and other body organs, slowing you down, aging your body and destroying your vitality, virility and youth. There is only one way to firm up and shape up: that is through proper exercise and proper nutrition. Effortless exercisers, reducing pills, sauna shorts, weighted belts, dangerous and painful diets and other gimmicks designed to appeal to your laziness will not work and have been exposed by the medical profession as frauds, ineffective and in some cases dangerous. They can only reduce your pocketbook.

Face up to it...If you want to slim down, firm and shape up, you must work off the inches, and there is no safer, faster and more enjoyable way to do it than with our patented, truly miraculous "5" Minute Body Shaper Plan.

HOW DOES THIS INGENIOUS "5" MINUTE PLAN SLIM, FIRM AND SHAPE YOU UP?

Its miraculous slimming action is based on doing one simple "5" Minute Continuous Rhythm coordinated exercise, lying on your back! That's all you do! That's all your body needs to help make up for the lack of activity it doesn't get most of the day. The action is designed to supply your waistline and hipline (where fat accumulates quickest, giving your body a flabby, weak and distorted look) with the activity it needs to slim you and keep you slim. It also burns off excess fat FAST by speeding up your metabolism and respiratory system, using up stored calories, carbohydrates and fats and releasing excess water, thereby shaping and firming up your total body!

It's safer than strenuous gym workouts, beats the time consumption and dangers of gym workouts...or any other vigorous sport.

The unit weighs about 16 ounces and fits any wallet-size case. You can carry it with you and use it — anytime — wherever there's floor space for your body. Even while watching television.

WHAT THE EXPERTS SAY:

Medical Doctors, Chiropractors, Osteopaths, Athletic Coaches...agree its the most successful Waistline-Weight Reducer and Shaping Up Plan ever invented!

"Doctors have always known, exercise done while lying on the back virtually eliminates strains while slimming and reshaping the body. Yours is the finest Body Shaper Program on the market."
RICHARD TYLER, D.C.

"Beats jogging and working out in gyms — and much safer. I lost 4½ inches off my waist in 14 days." — JIM HANLEY, famous athletic coach.

"Miraculous! Weighs less than a pound, is simple to use and beats working out in a gym with 30 different exercisers!" — TOM MINOCHELLO, famous gym owner.

"Based on sound physiological and medical knowledge, it burns fat and shapes the body without strain to the heart or other organs. I lost 12 lbs. of excess weight using it." DR. ANITA D. SANTANGELO, Chiropractic Orthopedics

WHAT COMES OFF IN 14 DAYS?

Individual results vary, but during an average 14-day period you can expect to lose up to 4 inches from your waistline and up to 10 pounds from your present weight. It strengthens your heart and lungs, increases stamina and endurance, improves your digestive function and general health. It also shapes you up — from head to toes. For a "5" Minute Exerciser — it sure does a lot.

*EXPOSING EFFORTLESS EXERCISERS

Reader's Digest (Sept., 1971), New York Times and Good Housekeeping, among others, exposed sauna wraps, inflated belts, weighted belts and effortless exercisers as frauds. Scientific researchers, medical and fitness experts all agree...there is only one way to firm, shape and trim up your body...you must work the inches off!

Because you may have been fooled in the past by "Effortless Exercisers," we are giving you our nonsense Free Trial Offer as shown in the coupon below. We want to prove to you — at our risk — what the Cox family, and thousands of others, have accomplished. You can too!...Safely...comfortably...in the privacy of your own home.

Are The Foods You Are Eating Today STARVING YOUR BRAIN?

Check the three vital symptoms below—and then read how ORDINARY FOODS—used in a new way—may actually be able to REFUEL your vital brain cells, ACTUALLY AVOID OR BANISH MANY KINDS OF MENTAL TROUBLE!

Yes, Dear Friend:

Please believe this—

The man or woman who is a "nervous wreck"—who is "torn apart" by anxiety and tension day after day—may actually be a victim of his own starved brain!

The man or woman who is plagued by a "fading memory"—who no longer can rely on his own good mind to feed back to him the vital information he must have—may also be a victim of that same starved brain.

And, most tragic of all, the man or woman who suffers from really drastic fatigue, depression, overwhelming fits of temper, and other signs of possible schizophrenia or paranoia or other mental disturbance—may also be a victim of his own starved brain!

And now every one of them can do something about it! Can fight that damaging BRAIN STARVATION with ORDINARY FOOD! Can do it in their OWN HOME—with nothing more than a few simple directions, and food you can get in any supermarket!

What Doctors Discovered About The Vital Food Substance That Keeps Your Brain "On The Job".

What is this vital substance that is so absolutely necessary to your well-being? It is BLOOD SUGAR—your body's natural fuel—carried by your bloodstream to every gland and organ. And only recently have doctors discovered that millions of people have TOO LITTLE natural sugar in their blood!

Yes, if you feel that your brain is hampered in any of those three critical ways or if a loved one shows signs of the mental trouble that strikes one family out of every three), your brain may not be receiving enough BLOOD SUGAR. So you are STARVING YOUR BRAIN no matter how well-balanced your diet seems to be!

Can You Restore The Blood-Sugar Balance Of Your Body— And So Restore The Vital Functions That Have Gone Wrong?

Yes, it is possible, practical and EASY in millions of cases! You are invited to send for the book that explains the simple method—a book you read without risk. In it, you are going to see, simply and clearly:

The precise kinds of ORDINARY FOOD, sometimes with a few vitamin "extras", that can restore health to many suffering minds, and has brought even the seemingly insane back to useful, happy living.

How the same ORDINARY FOOD also works wonders for such common ailments as headache, fatigue, irritability, memory lag, anxiety, depression.

How the same ORDINARY FOOD also refuels the entire body, to help you get into splendid youth-condition from head to toe.

Based On Years Of Breakthrough Medical Research!

Behind those statements stands the work of such physicians as Dr. Abram Hoffer and Dr. Joseph Tobin; Nobel Prize winner Dr. Linus Pauling; famed nutrition expert Judge Tom R. Blaine, and other researchers of equal stature. The entire book is the dedicated work of Judge Blaine, who has winnowed thousands of cases to help you see the nutrition cause of your own problems—and how a simple, pleasant way of eating may quickly help you banish troubles like these.

Are you depressed, nervous, unhappy? Read a doctor's story about a woman with marriage troubles who had been deeply depressed and miserable all her life. She got rid of her misery—thanks to simple changes in nutrition and a vitamin you can buy in any drugstore. (page 12)

Does any member of your family suffer from schizophrenia?

Read a letter from a young man who conquered schizophrenia—not through psychiatry—but through simple changes in nutrition. This letter also reveals significant food traps for schizophrenics. Even if you are not schizophrenic, avoiding these same food traps may make a priceless difference to your health and peace of mind. (page 104)

Do you suffer from gastro-intestinal sluggishness?

This (and scores of other common symptoms) can be a warning of blood-sugar deficiency. Read about a simple food supplement that is known by several names. Get it by any name! See how it aids the entire gastro-intestinal tonus. (page 156)

Extra added bonus—

Have you had, or are you threatened by heart failure or stroke?

See why your present meals may contain a "heart mistake" food that nobody ever warned you about before. And why you may be avoiding a delicious type of food that should not bother your heart in the least! (page 126)

Why Did It Take So Long To Discover The Importance Of The Natural Brain-Food Diet In Both Mental And Physical Health?

Because, as you will see in Judge Blaine's fascinating book, blood-sugar deficiency is the GREAT MASQUERADER. Your own doctor will confirm that people have been treated for years for other conditions (such as ulcers, arthritis, every kind of indigestion, exhaustion, blurred vision, paranoid delusion) before it was discovered that blood-sugar deficiency may be the possible cause of all these diseases—and many more! (Of course, we suggest that you consult with your own doctor if you suffer from any of these serious ailments.)

Of course, there still are diehard medical men who go on treating symptoms instead of the basic causes of illness and debility. There still are drug companies who do not like to hear that the best medicine, in some cases, is food alone. There still are psychiatrists charging $50 an hour, for years of treatment—when a month of proper "brain-food" diet, costing no more than your ordinary diet, may do the job. (And a simple test, described in this book, can tell you unmistakably if you suffer from low blood sugar, rather than, for example, high blood sugar, where these rules do not apply.)

So it took courage to write this book—the courage of a dedicated jurist and health researcher who says that WRONG NUTRITION dooms millions to misery; and that the right kind of "brain-food" nutrition can often lift such people onto a high new plane of mental balance, efficiency, and the kind of physical well-being that money cannot buy.

You Are Invited To Read And Use Mental Health Through Nutrition For One Full Month At Our Risk!

The cost is only $6.98 complete, a sum you may save a thousand times over! Should you decide for any reason to return the book, YOUR PURCHASE PRICE WILL BE IMMEDIATELY, FULLY and CHEERFULLY REFUNDED.

ORDER AT ONCE. SEND THE COUPON FOR A NO-RISK COPY! See far, far more than we can tell you here! ORDER TODAY!

FIVE MINUTES THAT CAN CHANGE YOUR LIFE

The moment you receive Judge Blaine's easy-to-read book, turn to pages 37 and 38. In five minutes or less, read the MASTER FOOD-LIST for "brain-food" nutrition! Meats! Seafoods! Vegetables! Dairy products! Desserts! Drinks! The list will delight you—and so will the delicious, hearty meals you eat . . . plus special snacks between meals and at bedtime!

Also in this important book: FOOD SECRETS that brought a full recovery from symptoms of arthritis and senility—special FOOD SECRETS that make old age wait—FOOD SECRETS that help your eyes, help teeth and gums, help the skin to be firm and youthful—FOOD SECRETS that strengthen the entire system of adrenal glands—plus all the especially important FOOD SECRETS (so easy to follow!) that help to strengthen and tonic YOUR MIND, no matter how many years you have suffered!

Try it at our risk, today!

HIS MAY BE THE MOST CONTROVERSIAL BOOK YOU EVER READ!

For in it, a crusading judge opens an entire new vista of hope for the ill—especially for the mentally troubled—and strikes at the very roots of some orthodox beliefs about medicine.

Tom R. Blaine was a practicing attorney in 1920. He has been an Oklahoma state judge since 1942. He began to suspect that even many "insane" people, juvenile delinquents, and actual criminals were in trouble because they suffered from low blood sugar; that is, they simply were not getting enough food for their brains.

Working with physicians and laboratory men, he proved his theory and expanded it. The fact is that almost anyone, of any age, who suffers a lack of vitality, nagging ill-health, and flagging mental powers, may be a victim of low blood sugar. And the best, safest, easiest way to restore the normal content of sugar in the bloodstream is with food and food supplements—exactly as Judge Blaine describes in this trail-blazing book!

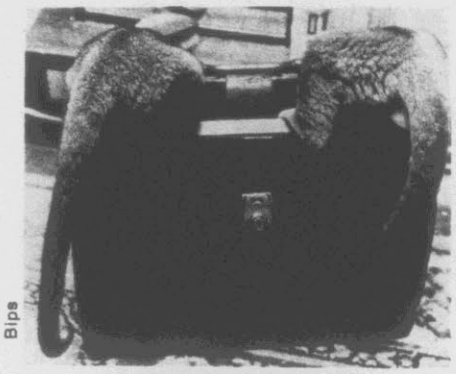
What in the World!



BOTTOMS UP!
Kinkajous Clarissa and Fuzzypeg

In case you've never seen a kinkajou before, this picture won't help much to identify them. But it is indicative of the nosey nature of these soft furry animals from South America, who are members of the raccoon family. They sleep all day and live it up at night (when not dining on fruit and insects). If you are trying to keep anything hidden, don't get a kinkajou. Like these two, named Clarissa and Fuzzypeg, they rifle through everything. Even a briefcase.

The color red causes aggressive behavior in people—like waving a red flag in front of a bull. And this (say the experts) bodes ill for beleaguered firemen in tough city ghettoes. But it's only one of the reasons red fire engines are changing their hue to lime yellow. More firemen, according to a study done by the Ward LaFrance Truck Corporation in Elmire Heights, N.Y., are killed traveling to and from fires than in actually fighting fires. This because of the poor visibility of the red fire truck to motorists and pedestrians. An answer to both these problems is to paint all fire-fighting apparatus lime yellow—a color that has a high degree of visibility and one that causes no hostile response in people. So far, fire departments in Detroit, Newark, Jacksonville, Rochester and Winston-Salem have switched.

QUOTE. From Sen. James Abourezk (D-S.D.): "Instead of insisting that we cannot help someone until his income or our subsidies are adequate to finance a $25,000 home, our bill would make a small, but livable, weathertight, leakproof, safe, heatable home with plumbing a reality for millions of Americans who now live in shacks, car bodies, tents and hovels. There are nearly one million American families with an average rent-paying capacity of $14 a month who need housing. The overwhelming number of them are elderly. It is time we had a national housing policy that speaks to the special needs of rural America." UNQUOTE.

Senator Abourezk

RICHARD THOMAS
Why actors slam doors

Richard Thomas, star of "The Waltons," voices his opinions on actors and discipline: "If anyone but an actor has a problem while a movie is being made, he can have a production conference to try and solve it. If an actor has a problem and holds up work, it is considered childish behavior and a lack of discipline—which is one reason so many actors rely on guerrilla tactics to make a point, like slamming their dressing-room door and not coming out until they get their way. I haven't had to do that yet, but I can sympathize with the actors who do. The time may come when I will do it. But as long as I respect the people I work with and they respect me, I'll do as my parents did—the best I can, without complaining."

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY

NO SHOW

Though we have traveled quite a bit
And seen some scenes, we must admit
Apologies profuse we owe you:
We've not a slide that we can show you.
We have no camera, no tripod;
We bipeds barely have a bipod.
We have no meter that we treasure,
The waxing, waning light to measure.
Our pictures all are in our minds,
And these are hard to screen, one finds.
At least we shall not bore you, for
Our heads are what you'd have to bore
To see, arranged on mental shelves,
The pictures that we show ourselves.

Our three-year-old daughter was playing in the room where her daddy was indulging in a particularly serious game of bridge. She ran over to watch the cards being dealt. Having been forwarned not to talk about the cards in someone's hand, she leaned over to her daddy's ear and said in a very audible whisper, "Sure did get a lot of VALENTINES, Dad!"

The trouble with political platforms is that they are made for running on, not for standing on.
—Lucille J. Goodyear

The gateman at Cape Florida State Park was under orders not to divulge information on the whereabouts of President Nixon's house. One day a determined tourist insisted that the gateman direct him to the house. The gateman refused.

"Well," the man said, "if you won't give me directions, just answer this one question—how will I know when I'm near the President?"

The gateman smiled wearily. "That'll be easy, sir. A Secret Service man will shoot you." —Dean Morgan

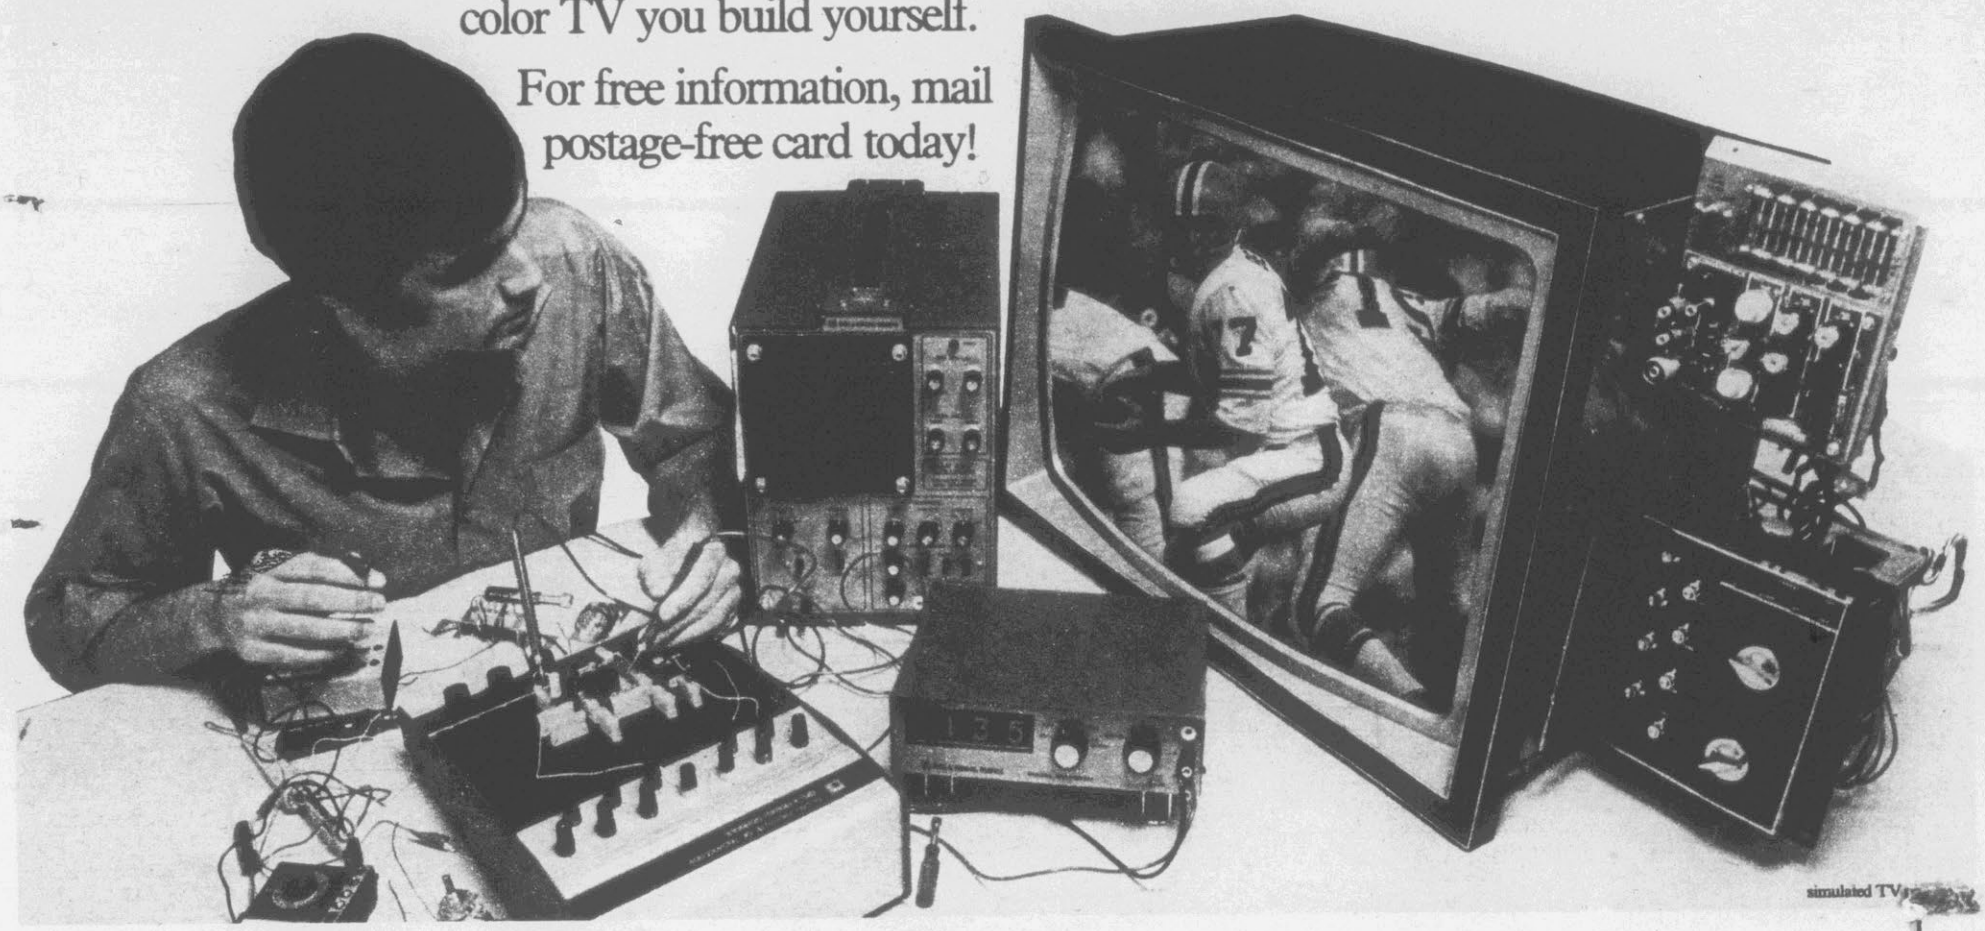
Build your own Bell & Howell solid-state 25-inch diagonal color TV!

It's an enjoyable way to learn valuable skills in the exciting new field of digital electronics and also get a brand-new color TV you build yourself.

For free information, mail postage-free card today!



simulated TV

Enjoy the personal satisfaction of building your own color TV

It's not an ordinary accomplishment. You can take pride in it because you did it all yourself. And you'll find digital electronics a fascinating world to explore. It's an absorbing way to spend your spare time . . . tinkering with the equipment . . . reading up on electronic principles . . . and finding out how they work in practice.

Not just a kit—a complete at-home learning program in home entertainment electronics

Skilled instructors at Bell & Howell Schools have carefully prepared this learn-at-home program in digital electronics . . . the exciting new field that's revolutionizing the electronics industry today. You'll enjoy the challenge of learning something new that could lead to new income opportunities for you.

Follow step-by-step instructions

No one is going to start throwing "diodes and capacitors" at you right off. In your program you start with the basics and take them one step at a time. We call it the learn-by-doing method.

Attend special "help sessions" . . . talk to your instructors in person

A unique advantage of your learn-at-home program is the "help session." Scheduled regularly at Bell & Howell Schools and in cities around the country, these informal seminars give you face-to-face, personal assistance from our instructors. You also meet other students and enjoy talking shop.

Master the most up-to-date solid-state and digital technology

As color TV moves closer toward total solid-state, and as the more accurate and reliable digital systems begin to appear in home entertainment electronic gear, you'll be thoroughly familiar with the most advanced troubleshooting techniques for these sophisticated circuits.

Digital electronics is becoming more a part of our lives everyday—and you can cash in on it!

Digital clocks and pocket calculators are already on the market. Soon, everything from speedometers to stereos to kitchen stoves will have digital readout and control systems in place of conventional dials and needles. You can gain the know-how to build, service or repair this new digital equipment, part-time or full-time!

Consider these important facts about the color TV you build

This Bell & Howell color TV has an ultra-rectangular picture tube and a 25-inch screen measured diagonally—a full 315 square inches of viewing area. The circuitry is modular solid-state with individual plug-in circuit boards to make servicing easier.

You also build and keep the NEW Electro-Lab® electronics training system

Three professional instruments . . . a digital multimeter, design console and solid-state oscilloscope designed exclusively for Bell & Howell students . . . provide you with necessary practical experience during your program. It's the equipment you need to successfully analyze and master the principles of today's digital technology.

Earn extra income part-time or get ready for your own service business

We'd like to tell you more about this fascinating digital electronics program—and how it can lead to a promising future—full or part-time. Mail the attached card today and get all the facts.

NEW from Bell & Howell Schools . . . first time ever offered!

When you build your color TV, we include a complete volume on the "Guidelines For Starting Your Own Repair Business." It gives you all the basics including setting up shop, basic bookkeeping and income tax, small business legal requirements and customer relations. It's just another way we can help people get going in electronics.

STEVE CANYON

GENERAL PHILERIE HAS ASKED SUMMER OLSON CANYON TO GO ALONE ON AN ASSIGNMENT MADE TICKLISH BY CURRENT EVENTS...

MILTON CANIFF

STEVE, I'M SORRY I SAID YOUR NOSE IS OUT OF JOINT BECAUSE I'M LIBBING IT!

I KNOW THIS JOB! I WAS ON SUCH A MISSION WHEN I MET YOU! REMEMBER?

—SO I FELL IN LOVE—AND YOU MARRIED OLSON

WELL—I CAME BACK THEN, AND I'LL RETURN THIS TIME!

I HOPE IT DOESN'T TAKE QUITE SO LONG!

KISS ME AND WISH ME WELL! THINK HOW MUCH MORE FASCINATING I'LL BE WHEN I AM AGAIN YOUR MEEK LITTLE BRIDE!

SO SUMMER FLIES FAST—AND AS SHE CHANGES PLANES...

'ELLO! A YANK BIRD TRAVELING SOLO...

DOUBTLESS ZIPPING OFF WITH WATER-GATE EVIDENCE!

HAS THE AMERICAN WOMAN GIVEN YOU ANY BAD MOMENTS?

NOT A WORD! SHE'S DEEP IN A BOOK BY THOMAS PAINE!

JUST WHO WAS HE?

REGARDEZ! THAT ONE GOES INTO THE BUSH ALONE?

THE YANQUI FEMALE IS SAFE! —ANY MOLESTER WOULD EXPECT HER TO BE—AH —INSECTED! NE C'EST PAS?

ONE COULD BE SNIDE AND REMARK THAT THE YANQUIS TELL U.S.A. BLACKS TO RETURN FROM WHENCE THEY CAME...

AH! C'EST VRAI! CAN IT BE THAT THE YELLOW HAIR THINKS AFRICA MIGHT NOW BE MORE DESIRABLE FOR WHITES?

WHERE IS THE AMERICAN TO GO ALONE IN SUCH TROUBLED TIMES?

SHE TRAVELS TO THE SITE OF THE GÂCHIS BRIDGE! —WHERE I, MYSELF, WOULD NOT VENTURE!

YOUR CUSTOMS SEARCH WAS BRIEF ENOUGH!

SALA! BESIDES HER PERSONAL FRIPPERIES, SHE CARRIED ONLY BOTTLES OF GIFT PERFUME —AND A COPY OF THE AMERICAN CONSTITUTION!

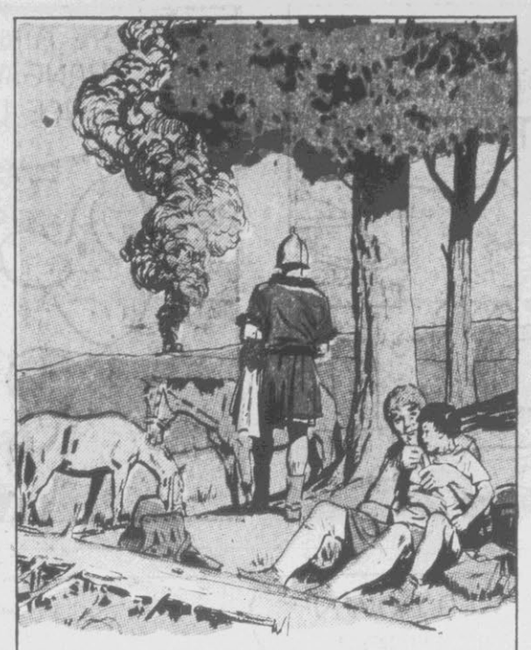
IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR

BY HAL FOSTER

Our Story: ON STOLEN MOUNTS SIR ARN AND PAUL RIDE SWIFTLY AWAY FROM THE CAMP OF THE BESIEGING ARMY. IN THE DISTANCE DE VOLNAY'S CASTLE LOOMS BLACK AND FORMIDABLE. A TRUMPET SOUNDS AND THE DAWN ATTACK BEGINS.



"IT IS TOO LATE TO GO FOR HELP," SAYS ARN POINTING TO WHERE, A LEAGUE AWAY, A TALL COLUMN OF SMOKE MARKS THE PLACE WHERE THE CASTLE STANDS.

PAUL STATES A PROBLEM: "WE SAVED THIS WAIF FROM STARVATION, BUT WHAT WILL WE DO WITH HER? SHE IS DIRTY AND OVER-POPULATED WITH LICE, AND REGARDS ME AS BOTH FATHER AND MOTHER."

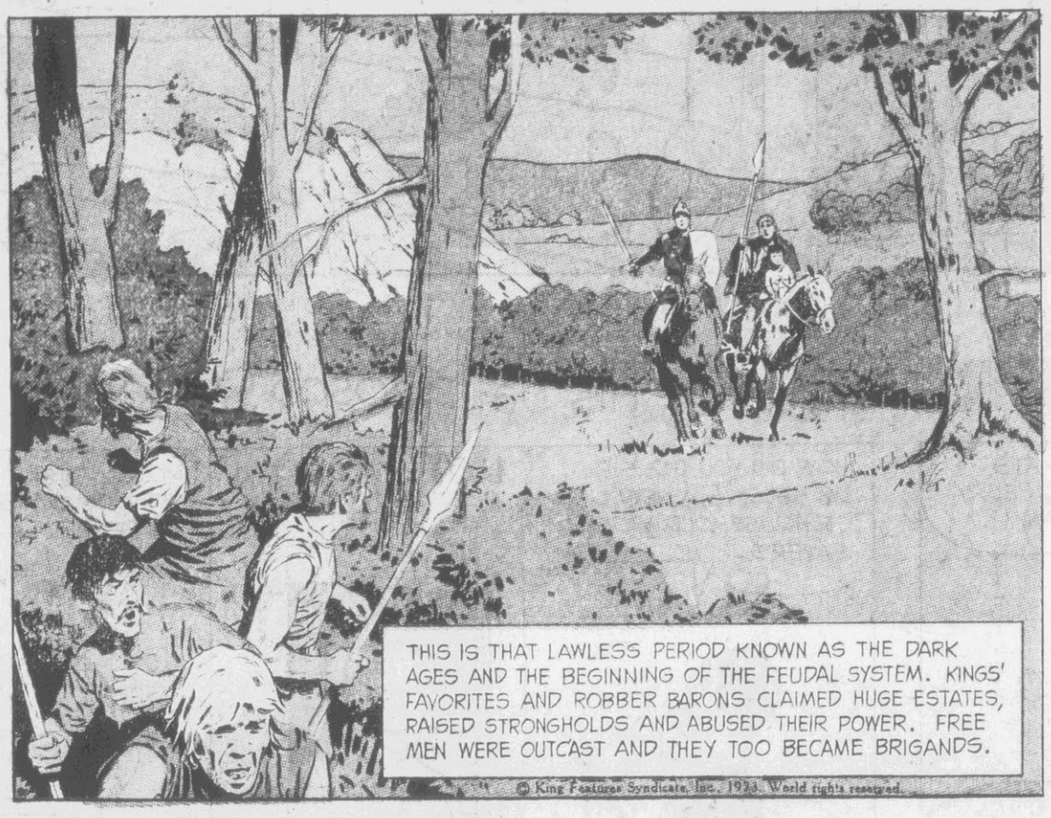
AT THE NEXT BROOK SHE IS BATHED BY SHEER FORCE, FOR IT SEEMS THAT A BATH HAD NOT BEEN A FREQUENT PART OF HER ROUTINE, AND HER PROTESTS RESOUND THROUGH THE WOODS.

AFTER A THOROUGH SCRUBBING SHE IS TOLD TO GET OUT, BUT THIS SHE REFUSES TO DO. SHE HAS DISCOVERED THAT WATER CAN BE FUN AND WANTS TO ENJOY THIS NEW EXPERIENCE.



THIS IS THAT LAWLESS PERIOD KNOWN AS THE DARK AGES AND THE BEGINNING OF THE FEUDAL SYSTEM. KINGS' FAVORITES AND ROBBER BARONS CLAIMED HUGE ESTATES, RAISED STRONGHOLDS AND ABUSED THEIR POWER. FREE MEN WERE OUTCAST AND THEY TOO BECAME BRIGANDS.

© King Features Syndicate, Inc., 1973. World rights reserved.

WITH THEIR CRUDE WEAPONS THEY ARE NO MATCH FOR A MOUNTED AND ARMED KNIGHT, SO ARN AND PAUL ARE SAFE FROM THE SMALLER BANDS.
