

Complete Search In Ramsey 'For' Expanding Of Med School Lawful Arrest OK'd

By VERNON A. GUIDRY Jr.
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court voted 6 to 3 today to give police blanket authority to conduct a complete search of anyone they arrest lawfully. The decision represented a victory for advocates of greater police latitude and brought a sharp dissent from the court's three liberal members. In one of two search cases decided today, the Supreme Court overturned a ruling by the U.S. Circuit Court here which had told police they were only entitled to a "pat down" search when they arrested a District of Columbia man on an outstanding traffic warrant. In searching the man, police turned up a cigarette package with heroin capsules in it.

Under the Circuit Court ruling the heroin could not be used as evidence because the search exceeded constitutional limits. Under today's Supreme Court ruling the heroin can be used as evidence.

"It is the fact of the lawful arrest which establishes the authority to search," wrote Justice William H. Rehnquist for the majority. Justice Thurgood Marshall wrote in a lengthy dissent in which he said that the court had retreated from long-held principles by holding that the fact of the arrest "always establishes the authority to conduct a full search of the arrestee's person..."

He was joined in dissent by Justices William O. Douglas and William J. Brennan.

"The majority's approach represents a clear and marked departure from our long tradition of case-by-case adjudication of the reasonableness of searches and seizures under the Fourth Amendment," Marshall said.

Judge Listens To Watergate Tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge is continuing to listen to White House tapes while, 500 miles away, technical experts are taking a second look at the 18-minute gap in one of the recordings.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica is focusing on the tapes of two presidential conversations on March 21, 1973, which were among the subpoenaed tapes turned over to him three weeks ago.

Sirica planned to listen to the two conversations today and make certain that copies of them made last Thursday are complete and accurate.

Once he has verified their accuracy, the judge will give the copies to special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

The March 21 conversations were among four that the White House turned over without any request that all or parts of the conversations be withheld from the Watergate grand jury.

On Monday, Sirica gave Jaworski copies of the recordings of presidential conversations of March 13 and 22. No claims of executive privilege had been asserted for them and Sirica turned over the copies as soon as he had verified their accuracy.

Meanwhile, technical experts in Cambridge, Mass., were continuing their study of the 18-minute gap in the subpoenaed tape of a June 20, 1972, conversation between the President and his former chief of staff, H. R. Haldeman.

They were trying to determine not only what might have caused the 18-minute segment to be obliterated by a hum, but also whether the conversation can be recovered.

Sirica said he hopes to have their report by the end of the week.

When he completes the chore of listening to all the tapes, Sirica must rule on the White House claims that all or parts of three of them should be withheld from the grand jury.

The White House said that the parts it asked to be withheld contained no discussions of Watergate or related matters.

In a memorandum filed with the court last August, then-special prosecutor Archibald Cox had said the President met with John W. Dean III, then White House counsel, and Haldeman and that "the sole subject was the Watergate break-in and wiretapping and the subsequent cover-up."

Dean told the Senate Watergate committee that he left this meeting with a clear impression the cover-up would continue.

Meanwhile, for the first time since disclosure of the existence of the presidential tapes last July, the special prosecutor's office had an undisclosed number of the tapes, which it was studying to determine if they contained evidence needed by the grand jury.

Healing NATO Wounds Tried By Kissinger

By ANTHONY COLLINGS
Associated Press Writer
BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger today reaffirmed the United States government's support for its European allies.

He said he will meet soon with the foreign ministers of the nine Common Market countries for more "frank exchanges" about the Atlantic relationship.

"We owe our European allies respect for their sensibilities so they don't feel they've become objects of policy," Kissinger told a news conference at the end of a two-day meeting of the foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Kissinger and French Foreign Minister Michel Jobert clashed sharply at the opening of the two-day meeting Monday. But they had breakfast together today. And a French spokesman said Kissinger at the final NATO session paid tribute to Jobert for his contribution to the new Atlantic Declaration of principles now being drawn up by the allies' permanent representatives at NATO headquarters in Brussels.

The French spokesman said the ministers agreed the declaration, which Kissinger proposed last spring to put new life into the alliance, would be published on NATO's 25th anniversary next spring.

The 15 foreign ministers in their communique summing up the meeting said the new declaration was needed in view of "the profound changes" taking place in the world. They said it should "serve to guide the alliance in its vital tasks of maintaining peace, improving East-West relations and promoting greater security and well-being."

Kissinger was to fly to London later today for a major speech Wednesday night on U.S. policy. U.S. officials in Brussels refused to discuss a report in the Baltimore Sun that a foreign intelligence or police agency had warned of a plot to assassinate Kissinger. The officials said regular security measures were being taken.

The French foreign minister during the meeting Monday charged that the agreement last June between President Nixon and Soviet leader Leonid I. Brezhnev to lessen the risk of nuclear war subordinated NATO's role and cast doubt on America's commitment to defend Western Europe.

Kissinger said Jobert was misinterpreting the agreement and if it continued, he would have to conclude that it was not inadvertent. He said the Nixon-Brezhnev agreement to consult in times of crisis to avert nuclear war did not negate U.S. protection of Europe but in fact enhanced it.

Today Kissinger was making a highly visible effort to smooth over the clash. In addition to his breakfast meeting with Jobert and their appearance at the NATO session together, he told his news conference, "It would be a mistake to consider these meetings as an arena of titanic confrontation."

In the conference communique, the ministers said they were encouraged by East-West contacts "over a wide field." "They recognized, however," the statement went on, "that international peace remains fragile and stressed once again the importance for the alliance of maintaining to the full its defensive and deterrent military capacity."

Larceny Lottery Irritates Police

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP) — The owner of an auto repair shop here, upset at the rash of recent thefts in his area, has raised the ire of city police by proposing a larceny lottery.

Ed Dresh says he wants neighborhood merchants to each kick $10 into a pot, with the cash payoff going to the next theft, robbery or burglary victim.

The idea "doesn't do much" for the image of the Wilmington police, a spokesman for the police department said Monday.

Rocky Resigns

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller announced today he was resigning effective next Tuesday and would not seek a fifth term as governor of New York.

The 65-year-old governor said he would devote his time to two national commissions. He said he had concluded after careful consideration that he could perform "a greater public service to the people of New York State and the nation" by devoting himself to the two bipartisan groups, the Commission for Critical Choices for Americans and the National Commission on Water Quality.

Public Meeting In Ayden

AYDEN—A potential new industry for the town of Ayden will be discussed at a public meeting at Ayden's town hall tonight at 7:30 p.m.

According to Pitt County Development Commission Executive Director James Horne the president of the proposed new industry, Charles Winslow of the Winslow-Atkins Equipment Company will be at the meeting to make a presentation on the company and answer questions. The company currently holds patents on a number of component parts used in the manufacture of rail freight cars and has expressed an interest in locating its production and headquarters' facilities in Ayden.

In addition to the company and the Pitt County Development Commission other groups to be represented at the meeting include the town of Ayden, Ayden Industries, Inc., Ayden Economic Council, U. S. Small Business Administration, N. C. Division of Commerce and Industry and Seaboard Coast Line Railroad.

James Ramsey, speaker of the North Carolina House of Representatives today said he favors expansion of the one-year medical school at East Carolina University.

In addition to expressing his support for expanding the ECU medical program, Ramsey said he feels the 1974 General Assembly will authorize at least a second year program to be added.

Ramsey's predication came as he talked to newsmen following his appearance on an early morning television show, WNCT's Carolina Today, here today during which he expressed support for expanding the ECU program to a two-year medical school.

A Democrat, Ramsey is from Person county and was first elected to the N. C. House of Representatives in 1963. He graduated from Roxboro High School and received his undergraduate degree and law degree from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Ramsey said the budget "controls most of the policy" set by the General Assembly, and "involved as a part of the budget" facing the 1974 session will be "money appropriated for health care services."

He predicted that the General Assembly will approve the "funding of the second year medical school" at ECU, as well as additional money for mental health and for expanding the Area Health Education Center (AHEC) programs. (The AHEC program has been recommended by the Board of Governors of the University of North Carolina as a means of improving health care in the state, rather than expanding the medical school program at ECU.)

According to Ramsey, "one of the critical needs" of the state is "more general practitioners in the field." He indicated that the only way to get more doctors is to "educate more doctors."

"With funding a second year (program at ECU) and the Area Health Education Center (one is proposed for Greenville), you've got the total program needed for a four-year school at ECU." (The AHEC's, under the Board of Governor's recommendations, would serve as clinical training facilities for medical students, including interns and residents.)

What about a four-year degree granting medical school at ECU?

According to Ramsey, "I would not be surprised if this General Assembly authorizes a degree granting program (a four-year medical school) for general practitioners" for the Greenville school with the expansion of the school to a four-year program taking place over a period of several years.

The House Speaker said even though the General Assembly might expand the medical school at East Carolina, "I think we are going to have to keep the program under the Board of Governors."

"There has been some movement to take medical education out from under the board, or create a special commission. I would personally be opposed to this. I think we've got to keep it under one umbrella."

Aside from the question of medical care, Ramsey said with a $300 million credit balance in the state treasury, he sees "some tax relief, plus funding of all major programs that need to be funded."

He indicated that one form of tax relief that might come from the 1974 session would be the abolition of the manufactures inventory tax. "Our sister states have abolished it," Ramsey noted, saying he feels it would help attract new industry to North Carolina.

Ramsey said the question (Continued On Page 14)

'Leftover' Snow From Television For Greenville

Two television specials last night, "Frosty the Snow Man" and "The Perry Como Winter Show" must have left a few remaining snow flakes for the Greenville area.

Snowflakes began falling in the Greenville area early this morning but by lunchtime, all signs of snow had disappeared.

The high temperature for the 24-hour period ending this morning at 8 a.m. was 57 degrees and the low for that same time was 32 degrees. At 8 a.m. the temperature was 34 degrees and by 11 a.m. had dropped to 33 degrees.

The Tar River level was reported at one foot.

School officials reported at 11 a.m. that both the city and county schools would remain open for their full schedule.

Local Bus Traffic Is At A Standstill

Local bus traffic, with the exception of one afternoon connection to Rocky Mount, is at a standstill in the wake of a strike by Carolina Trailways drivers.

R. W. Minton, manager of the Greenville terminal, said that no Trailways connections are available here as the strike has halted all service.

Minton said that for the present time he is closing the terminal here during the day and is opening from 5 p.m. until 6:35 p.m. each day to meet a bus operated by Seashore Transportation Co. that runs from Morehead City through Greenville to Rocky Mount.

The manager noted that Seashore Transportation, based in New Bern, is currently terminating the east-west trip in Rocky Mount and local travelers would have no further connections after reaching that city. The bus does return to Greenville at 3:15 a.m. each morning, he said, for a trip back to Morehead City.

Minton said that local travelers who wish to make a bus connection for Raleigh can catch one out of Kinston at 3:30 p.m. but he advised that travelers contact the Kinston terminal for details on travel schedules.

Under normal operations, Trailways makes some 17 stops in Greenville.

Mental Health Officials Here On Thursday For Grant Review

Dr. N. P. Zarzar, Director, N. C. Division of Mental Health Services; and Julian Hanlon, nationally renowned Mental Health Consultant, will lead a team of mental health officials to Greenville Thursday for an on-site construction grant review for construction of a new Mental Health Center facility for Pitt County citizens.

Mrs. Myree D. Hayes, Chairman, Pitt County Mental Health Area Board, said an application for a State Construction Grant has been made, which will, if approved, make it possible for a proposed 12,000 square foot Mental Health facility to be built in the immediate future.

The Pitt County Board of Commissioners, in endorsing the construction of a new Mental Health Center, has set aside, by resolution in its November meeting, 6.13 acres of land within the 97.25 acres of land on the Stanstonsburg Road for the new Pitt County Hospital and Allied Health Facility, to be used for the proposed new Mental Health Facility. In addition, the County Commissioners have set aside up to $105,000 as its share for the proposed construction cost total of $405,000.

On the State on-site visiting team, in addition to Dr. Zarzar and Hanlon, will be Dr. James Osberg, Deputy Director for Mental Health Programs; George Adams, Deputy Director for the Eastern Regional Office; Mrs. Sally R. Cameron, Mental Health Grants Coordinator; and Richard

"Dick" Bickel, Chief of Business Services.

The on-site visit will also include a review of programs described in the application, according to Mrs. Cameron.

Mrs. Hayes, in talking about the need for the State construction grant, said, "The new facility will permit us to give a complete line of programs and services to the people of Pitt County. We are cramped for space and without sufficient space the appropriate programs and adequate services cannot be offered. We have some fine plans for the Pitt County Mental Health Center and this is just the beginning."

"We feel the application for the construction grant spells out in detail our needs as well as the comprehensive mental health program which we plan to implement," Ms. Hayes said. Dr. Clinton R. Prewett, of Greenville, has been instrumental in developing the needed programs and services, she informed, as well as the actual writing of the construction grant application. A luncheon will be held Thursday at noon at which time Bob Martin, Chairman of the Pitt County Board of County Commissioners; Dr. Leo Jenkins, Chancellor of East Carolina University; Dr. William Fulford, President of Pitt Technical Institute; Van Fleming, Jr., member of the Pitt County ABC Board; W. W. Speight, County Auditor; and Reginald Gray, County Manager, will be present in addition to other members of the County Board of Commissioners, the Pitt County Mental Health Center Area Board and members of the State Mental Health Services on-site visiting team.

Mrs. Hayes also revealed that at the Dec. 3 meeting of the County Board of Commissioners, it was voted that the five-cents on the bottle of liquor sold in Pitt County be authorized to go to the Pitt County Mental Health Center to be used in the development of programs and rendering of services for alcoholic people.

ABC Board member Fleming has been instrumental in assisting with the development and monies for the Pitt County MHC Alcoholism Program.

Since 1960, the mental health center in Greenville has been known as Coastal Plains Mental Health Center. Mrs. Hayes said the Area Board, in its November meeting, voted to change the name to Pitt County Mental Health Center since the center now serves only the citizens in Pitt County.

Greene-Cannon Vows Exchanged

In a double ring ceremony, Pat Whitlow Cannon and Robert Burton Greene Jr. were united in marriage in the St. James United Methodist Chapel Saturday at 4:00 p.m.

The Rev. Christian White performed the ceremony. Mrs. William E. Cain presented a program of wedding music. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl William Whitlow of Greenville. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Burton Greene Sr. of Greenville.

The bride wore a formal blue jersey silk gown with matching accessories. She carried a white Bible centered with small white carnations and red roses.

Mrs. Floyd Hendrix Jr. of Athens, Ga., sister of the bridegroom, was the honor attendant. Sandra Greene, daughter of the bridegroom, was flower girl.

Larry C. Whitlow, brother of the bride, was best man. Ricky

W. Cannon was acolyte. Reggie K. Cannon and Robert B. Greene III, sons of the bridal couple, were ushers.

A reception followed the ceremony in the church narthex. Mrs. Larry Whitlow, sister-in-law of the bride, poured punch and Mrs. Floyd Hendrix Jr. served cake.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Hendrix Jr. entertained the bride and bridegroom and families at a dinner at the Beef Barn Friday evening.

For a wedding trip to the coast, the bride chose a blue suit with navy accessories and a white cape. She wore a corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet.

During the holidays, they will also travel to Williamsburg, Va. The bride is employed at East Carolina University. The bridegroom is president of Green's Electric Co., Snow Hill.

The couple will reside in Greenville.

Clubwoman Of Year Named Friday Night By Woman's Club

The annual Christmas party of the Greenville Woman's Club was held Friday evening at the club building. Sam Bundy, a state legislator, was guest speaker.

His program topic was "Christmas." Mrs. J. L. Savage introduced the speaker. The "Collegiums," a musical group from ECU, presented several instrumental selections under the direction of Steve Reedy. Two vocal selections were presented by the Chamber group. Mrs. W. A. Pollard was in charge of the arrangements.

Mrs. Ernest Holt, president, gave the welcome and Dr. Sylvester Green gave the devotional.

Husbands and guests of the club members were in attendance.

In a candlelight ceremony conducted by Mrs. Holt, new officers of the Home Life Department were installed as follows: Mrs. Kelly Wallace, chairman; Miss Alya Taylor, vice chairman; Miss Jessie Little, recording secretary; Mrs. Preston Cannon, treasurer; and Mrs. Ethel Ricks, corresponding secretary. Officers of the general club participated in the ceremony. New members who had joined the club during the year were given special recognition and were presented a red rosebud.

Mrs. George Clapp

Mrs. George Clapp received the Susie Moore Ragsdale Achievement Award as "Outstanding Clubwoman of the Year." Mrs. R. P. Rogers, 1972 recipient, made the presentation.

Mrs. Clapp has served as club president, secretary, treasurer and on many committees. She is now serving as Junior Club Advisor, chairman of the Arts Department and on the board of trustees. She is an active member of St. James United Methodist Church and served as president of the WSCS.

Mrs. Clapp is the mother of two daughters and a son and has three grandchildren.

Dr. F. Milam Johnson closed the meeting with a prayer.

A social hour followed the meeting and hostesses were Mrs. Holt, Mrs. Frank Polard, Mrs. Etta Gill, Mrs. I. Alexander; Mrs. Johnson; Mrs. J. C. Galloway; Mrs. H. L. Andrews; Mrs. Troy Barrett; Mrs. Polly Dail; and Mrs. George Fleming.

Compromises— Male Secretary

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (WNS)—Jeannette Akkerman, 42, decided on divorce when she visited her husband's office unexpectedly and found a blonde secretary on his lap. She changed her mind after he explained that "it's difficult to find good secretaries these days, and you have to play up to them to keep them working." "We reached a compromise," the lady told her lawyer. "Mr. Akkerman has agreed to employ a male secretary."

Borrowing Neighbor Never Returns Items

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have a neighbor who makes a habit of borrowing from me, but she never returns a thing. I have to go over there and get it when I need it.

Right now she has my electric mixer, my turkey roasting pan, my poker chips, my popcorn popper and my portable record player. It's not like she isn't over here every day. She could just as easily bring those things back, but she doesn't.

How can I get my things back without losing her friendship? She is a very sensitive person, and I don't want to hurt her feelings.

NO GUTS

DEAR NO: When people with no "guts" lend things to people with an abundance of it, it's bad news.

Don't wait for her to return what she's borrowed. Go to her house and say, "—And while I'm here, I may as well take my things. I might need them."

DEAR ABBY: Our son is a college senior at the state university. He makes no secret of the fact that he and his girl friend [also 21] are shacking up near campus.

We disapprove of this sort of arrangement, and he knows it, but he is 21 and we have nothing to say about his lifestyle. Now for the problem: He asked if he could bring his girl home for Christmas vacation. We know they sleep together at school, but should we let them sleep together in our home?

My sister says, "Don't be a hypocrite. Even if you put them up in separate bedrooms, you know they'll manage to get together some time during the night anyway."

Maybe she's right, but I still don't feel that we should put them up together like a married couple in our guest room.

So, what should I do? OLD FASHIONED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: In your home, you make the rules, so if you disapprove of your son's lifestyle at school, and he knows it, simply tell him there will be no shacking up under your roof. And if he doesn't like it, he can abide by the house rules, or stay in a motel.

DEAR ABBY: To make a long story short, I am in love with my first cousin and he's in love with me. We have been told that first cousins cannot marry because their children will not be normal. Is that right? And if it is, if my cousin has a vasectomy and produces the doctor's certificate stating he has had one, it will make him unable to have any children, right?

So if he can't have any children, that eliminates the problem of whether they will be normal or not, doesn't it?

Please answer this in the newspaper because neither one of us can get mail at home without somebody snooping to see what it was before we get home. Thank you.

COUSIN LOVER

DEAR LOVER: First cousins CAN marry in some states. Check with your clergyman [or justice of the peace] to find out whether your state permits it. [A lawyer will also be able to tell you.]

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212.

Miss Johnette Whichard Weds Robert Turnage

Miss Gloria Johnette Whichard became the bride of Robert Le Roy Turnage Saturday, Dec. 1, at 4:00 p.m. in the Sweet Gum Grove Free Will Baptist Church. The Rev. Roy L. Turnage, father of the bridegroom, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carroll A. Whichard of Rt. 2, Robertsonville. Parents of the bridegroom are the Rev. and Mrs. Turnage of Ayden.

The bride wore a formal length white organza gown designed with a princess neckline and a full organza skirt. The fitted bodice featured an overlay of Venice lace. The sheer lantern sleeves were banded with matching lace.

She wore a white braid hat trimmed with matching Venice lace enhanced with a chapel length veil of illusion. The bride carried an elongated bouquet of white bridal roses interspersed with gypsophylla and touched with maroon pixie carnations.

Mrs. Richard H. Musgrave of Goldsboro, sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Bonnie Wiley of Kure Beach, sister of the bridegroom; Miss Peggy Warwick and Miss Marion Scott of Fairbluff and Mrs. Clyde Malpass of Wilmington.

Don Braxton of Ayden was best man and ushers were Richard H. Musgrave, Marcus Whichard, brother of the bride, and Ray Rouse of Ayden.

After the wedding, a reception was held in the church community building.

Following a wedding trip, the couple will reside at Kure Beach.

The bride is a graduate of East Carolina University and is Mrs. Robert Le Roy Turnage teaching in Wilmington. Her husband attended Louisburg College and is employed with the U.S. Postal Service, Wilmington.

The Rev. and Mrs. Roy Turnage, parents of the bridegroom, entertained the bridal couple at a breakfast at Tom's Restaurant. Guests included members of the wedding party and immediate families.

On Friday night, the bridal couple was honored at a rehearsal party at the home of the bride's parents. Members of the wedding party, family and close friends were in attendance.

Apple sauce, flavored with fennel seed, is interesting to serve with roast chicken.

Tough Life For Rent-A-Santa Coal Puts South In Enviably Position

Associated Press Writer SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Being a rent-a-Santa can be tough.

There are the kids who get excited and wet their pants while sitting on Santa's knee. And there are the ones who try to pull off Santa's beard.

Glenn R. Welker of Bountiful, Utah, who says he has about 200 bookings for the season as a rent-a-Santa, recalls his reaction when a 6-year-old became excited while sitting on his knee and Welker suddenly found himself the possessor of a wet spot.

"I just casually shifted my leg and asked the next child to climb onto my other knee," he said.

What about the children who want to pull off Santa's hair and beard?

"It takes a lot of glue, and bands, and pins and wig nets," says Welker.

Welker says he makes $1,500 to $2,000 a year as a rent-a-Santa, asking $22 for house calls, $30 for Christmas Eve and $75 for four hours minimum at retail stores and shopping centers.

Welker and two other Salt Lake City area rent-a-Santas, Tony Zucca and Quid Izatt, see their work as such a big business they're trying to form a central booking agency.

"We want to standardize looks, maintain ideals," says Welker. "We don't want to have people on drugs or alcohol; we want good, clean living standards."

Zucca, a janitorial contractor, says, "There are so many cut-throats out in inexpensive suits who try to make a quick buck, and they ruin it for the kids."

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — An abundance of coal puts the South in an enviable position for dealing with the energy drought, electric power officials say.

The region's two main electricity suppliers—the Tennessee Valley Authority and the Southern Company—rely on coal for about 80 per cent of their fuel generators. That means Southerners probably will not have to dim their Christmas lights or worry about switching from electric to coal-fired heat.

"The only problem we might have as far as fuel oil shortages would be at peak periods when everybody has his heater up full blast," says Jim Wallace of the Southern Co., a holding company for Alabama Power Co., Georgia Power Co., Gulf Power Co. in Florida and the Mississippi Power Co.

"That's when we have to bring in our fuel oil reserves," Wallace said. But he added that air conditioning creates higher peaks in the summer than heating does in the winter.

The TVA's "reliance on coal and hydroelectric energy protects it from current oil and gas shortages which are plaguing utilities in other parts of the country," a special task force has reported to Tennessee Gov. Winfield Dunn.

TVA also serves portions of Alabama, Georgia, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina and Virginia. The authority has assured its users there will be sufficient power for its own system.

Even if utilities are forced to turn to their fuel-oil units, industrial users will be asked to cut back and residential users will not likely face reductions, according to the Southern Co. Spokesmen for the power companies agreed that the unseasonably warm fall weather has contributed to building adequate reserves, but they say a long-range problem exists in assuring adequate power supplies. Nuclear power may provide part of the solution.

"We think nuclear power and coal are going to be the mainstays for the rest of this century," Wallace said. "And 10 years from now it won't be economically feasible to use oil and gas as electric fuel."

Louisiana is the only South-eastern state that faces immediate shortages of power and natural gas. The state produces nearly one-third of the nation's natural gas, and yet its supply situation is so critical a special legislative session was held in an effort to find solutions.

Four utilities that serve the state—Arkansas Power & Light, Louisiana Power & Light, Mississippi Power & Light and New Orleans Public Service Inc.—use generating units fueled by natural gas. When the gas flow faltered, they converted to oil or coal-burning equipment. As a result, their combined oil consumption soared from 900,000 barrels in 1970 to 15.8 million barrels this year.

Now the power companies are pushing for the sale of a new sea-bottom leases off the Louisiana coast—a proposal under study by the U.S. Interior Department.

Nevertheless, Middle South Utilities—holding company for the four firms—has assured its customers that sufficient supplies are on hand for the winter.

Chain Store Refunds Set

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service today said one of the nation's largest grocery store chains, Colonial Stores, Inc., will refund $22,724 to customers in North Carolina and Virginia by March 23, 1974.

The IRS said the refunds are the result of an investigation that showed Colonial's Raleigh, N.C. Division, which includes 74 stores in North Carolina and Virginia, was not in compliance with the Economic Stabilization Act during the period July 19 to Sept. 9, 1973.

W.G. Spearman, vice president of the Raleigh division, said the problem was caused by confusion over regulations during the early days of Phase IV.

"Overcharges if any," he said, "were unintentional and due to a misunderstanding of the regulations through confusion during the change from Phase III to stage A of Phase IV."

The refunds will be passed along as reductions in the price of grocery, meat and produce items below the levels permitted under Phase IV regulations. The Division has already returned $3,090 to the public, the IRS said, leaving a balance of $19,634 to be refunded.

A Backseat For 'Number One'

The fuel shortage problem preys on everybody's mind.

"Viewers-with-alarm" know, and warn the public, that the energy crisis is worse than the White House is ready to admit and that remedial measures must necessarily be stern.

That's all right. If we pull together, Americans can do anything. But will we?

It is common gossip there are people who are hoarding fuel oil and gasoline. . . and black marketeers are ready and able to do business.

They are enemies of the common good; putting self before the common need. By their presence they are generating a greater shortage than the country would otherwise have to overcome.

Looking out for Number One can be laudable; but under circumstances in which we find ourselves today, sharing is the watchword.

There are priorities of national need which entail minor discomfort and degrees of self-denial by all of us. How well we emerge from this period of shortage after a lifetime of surfeit will depend upon the strength of character (an old-fashioned term) demonstrated by the individuals who make up this people.

Under the circumstances, it would be fitting if the President should choose to abstain from travels to and from his California and Florida homes as an example to his countrymen.

A Tiny Fragment Cast Loose In Sea Of Space

Forever a wanderer. That is the fate of Pioneer 10, the spacecraft launched by the United States to photograph the distant planet Jupiter. When its assigned task is done, the spaceship is destined to plunge on and on beyond our own solar system into the infinitude of outer space.

The concept goes beyond imagining. The millions of miles it has faultlessly traveled to complete its mission will eventually be as nothing. . . an inch measured against infinity. . . an hour pitted against eternity.

A tiny fragment of mankind's most advanced technology and inquiring mind has been cast loose upon the sea of space.

Preparing For Fuel Shortage

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK WASHINGTON—Within two days of his appointment as new energy czar, Deputy Secretary of the Treasury William Simon was the target of a humiliating and massive put-down by Roy Ash, fast-rising and highly controversial head of the Office of Management and Budget (OMB).

Ash, skilled as an enemy-picker and bureaucratic fighter both within the administration and on Capitol Hill, told Simon that he, Ash, and his OMB staff would "run" the energy program—and that Simon would handle "policy" matters.

Moreover, one inside operative told us that Ash's OMB men had pulled the energy-crisis files accumulated during ex-energy czar John Love's ill-fated five-month tour in the hostile White House, at least temporarily denying the files to Simon.

But Simon is no one's patsy. When told to his face by Ash that his duties would begin and end with "policy," he replied with two old and honorable Anglo-Saxon words: "Bull s—t."

The power struggle, one of an unlimited number of lesser struggles by which Ash has managed to elevate his power, then went to President Nixon.

But Mr. Nixon, preoccupied by self-preservation and notoriously uninformed about the energy crisis, won't have to settle it. That will be done by Secretary of the Treasury George Shultz.

Shultz, who was instrumental in having his deputy, Simon, put in charge of the energy crisis, has no intention of permitting Ash to interfere with Simon's operations. The word in the White House last this week was that Shultz will cut the mighty Ash down to size.

He'll have plenty of help both inside the administration and in Congress. When Ash testified before the Senate Government Operations Committee Thursday, Sen. Henry M. Jackson of Washington, a key energy expert, tried to make him squirm.

Was it not true, he asked Ash, that the White House had impounded some $40 million last summer that the Democratic Congress has appropriated in a vain effort to force the administration to step up research and development on new fuels? Well, Ash replied, the money was "reserved," not "impounded."

Jackson and other congressional energy experts blame Ash for undercutting former White House energy czars James Akins (now ambassador in Saudi Arabia) and Love. Ash's personal lobbying in Congress against Jackson's Alaska pipeline bill amendment (to restore investigatory powers to the Federal Trade Commission) angered congressional leaders. Tye accuse Ash of trying to persuade Mr. Nixon to veto the pipeline bill in the interest of big business's fear of the Jackson amendment.

Within the administration Ash's OMB infuriated the Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and its hard-pressed boss, Russell Train. OMB slipped a White House position paper to Congress seeking more delay on automobile clean-air emission standards without first clearing it with EPA.

But in taking on the redoubtable Simon, whose neat hair-part and trim Wall Street appearance conceal a toughness of total self-confidence, Ash may have struck his neck out too far.

Senator Richardson? A serious proposal that former Atty. Gen. Elliot Richardson consider moving his official residence next door to New Hampshire from the ancestral home in Boston, and run for the Senate next year, has been made by pro-Richardson New Hampshire Republicans.

Richardson was non-committal when one leading New Hampshire Republican broached the idea soon after Richardson was victimized by the White House in the Saturday Night Massacre of Oct. 20.

A frequent, long-time New Hampshire skier and summer visitor, Richardson would run for the seat of retiring Republican Sen. Norris Cotton. Two of the state's most prominent Republicans are eyeing the Cotton's seat: Rep. Louis Wyman will definitely run; former Gov. Wesley Powell is considering running. Some Cotton intimates think he might wind up running himself.

A Senate seat for Richardson would give the former Secretary of Defense, Health, Education and (Continued on page 5)

Was The Public Harmed?

CBS and ABC found themselves in trouble last month with the Federal Communications Commission. The Commission, making one of those fine distinctions that ornament the law, censured CBS and admonished ABC. To judge from the FCC's letters of reprimand, the charges were pretty well proved: Certain film sequences had indeed been acts of their own employees. The Commission, making one of those fine distinctions that ornament the law, censured CBS and admonished ABC. To judge from the FCC's letters of reprimand, the charges were pretty well proved: Certain film sequences had indeed been staged; and through both networks had disciplined the responsible producers, CBS especially had made only a perfunctory investigation of the incidents.

These were not cases of gross fakery. They involved the substitution of an illusion of reality for reality itself. As the FCC properly remarks, it is a "most difficult area" of judgment. The staging of news with which the Commission is concerned is "the presentation of a purportedly significant event which did not in fact occur."

The question ultimately is "whether the public is deceived about a matter of significance." Be your own judge in the matters at hand. One of the charges against CBS involved a documentary dealing with women in law enforcement. The program, broadcast in June, 1968, at one point depicted two "female deputy sheriffs working undercover for the vice squad." As it turned out, the two women deputies actually shown on the screen were not themselves working undercover for the vice squad. They were in fact deputies, and other women had performed the same kind of undercover work. Was the public seriously deceived?

A second charge against CBS had to do with a film prepared seven years ago in Los Angeles, dealing with the poisoning of a certain seal life at Laguna Beach. Here the allegation was that the film portrayed "dead sea animals" when in fact "the creatures were pickled specimens borrowed from a laboratory at the University of California."

The evidence in support of this charge was not conclusive. One faculty member dimly recalled that he had loaned some of his marine specimens to someone, but (Continued on page 5)

Other Editors Say Reasonable View

(Washington Daily News) We read with more than passing interest only 35.9 percent of our graduating medical students in North Carolina come back to this state to practice.

Off hand, we can agree that the percentage is rather low, and yet when we examine the statistics carefully and objectively, we find a real measure of satisfaction in them.

For instance at Duke Medical school, only 27 percent of graduating doctors over the years have located in North Carolina. At Bowman Gray Medical School 43 percent of the young doctors have located in North Carolina. But at the UNC School of Medicine in Chapel Hill 51 percent of the graduates come back to this state to practice.

The truth is, we believe, that UNC Medical School accepts far more North Carolinians, percentage wise, than do either Duke or Bowman Gray. As a result far more of the graduates return to this state to practice.

If 51 percent of the graduates at UNC return to this state, is it not reasonable to conclude that at least that percent or more would return to North Carolina to practice if we had a four year state supported medical school at East Carolina university?

We believe it would happen this way. We also believe that North Carolinians should try to encourage both Bowman Gray and Duke medical schools to accept a higher percentage of North Carolinians as medical students. This is particularly true in regard to Duke Medical school.

Of course we realize that both Duke and Bowman Gray schools are private ones and that the state has no real influence on the medical school applications. But a medical student from North Carolina is surely more apt to return to North Carolina to practice his profession than is a student from New York or New Jersey.

The more young doctors locating in North Carolina, the better chance any given community would have of attracting one. That is a reasonable and solid conclusion, as we look at the problem. Arguments do not get us doctors, but turning out more native North Carolinians from our medical schools surely would, we feel.

So the overall statistics might tend to prove one point, while the individual statistics from each medical school prove another.

We firmly believe that if we will train more qualified North Carolinians as doctors, then more doctors will locate in North Carolina.

Suspicious Of Russian Intent

By ARTHUR L. GAVSHON Associated Press Writer BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and other key foreign ministers of the North Atlantic alliance are suspicious of what the Russians are doing behind the screen of East-West detente.

Max van der Stoep of the Netherlands voiced the underlying mood when he told the NATO Council of Foreign Ministers: "We have to ask ourselves if the Soviets did not perhaps put the Arabs up to using the weapon of oil to undercut the economies of the industrialized West. Indeed, we in NATO have to find out if the Soviets perhaps did not instigate the Arab attack on Israel."

The Dutch minister's comment might be attributable to the fact that the Netherlands is the victim of a total Arab oil boycott for its pro-Israeli policy. But the experienced diplomats of Britain, France and the United States also cast doubt on the Kremlin's purposes.

And experts of the NATO secretariat reported the Soviets, despite preaching peace, still are building up their military power at an alarming rate.

Foreign Secretary Sir Alec Douglas-Home of Britain, newly returned from talks in Moscow, came out flatly against the idea of a pan-European summit conference

Back To The Basics

By CHARLES McFADDEN Associated Press Writer SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — They read by the flickering light of a kerosene lamp. Their water is pumped by hand. And the bathroom consists of a tub in the front yard and an out-house in the back.

There is no energy crisis in the lives of Doc and Shelley Dachtler. They say they live like kings, in their own different sort of way.

There's no electricity for the remote log cabin the Dachtlers built nearly two years ago with the help of neighbors. There's no natural gas either. In the summer — and only in the summer — they buy a tank of propane gas to fuel an old refrigerator that sits in a lean-to.

"We could get along without a refrigerator, but I wouldn't want to do that," said Mrs. Dachtler, 28.

When it's time to do the dishes, Mrs. Dachtler walks 50 feet to a well, fills a bucket of water, carries it to the house, heats it on the wood-burning stove and then starts washing — by the yellowish glow of the kerosene lamp. The pump is attached to a windmill, which pumps the water when there's wind.

A foot-powered sewing machine is used to mend clothing. The toilet is a wooden outhouse tool shed behind the house. Bath time means filling an outside tub with water heated on a wood-burning stove.

The Dachtlers moved to the country six years ago after finishing college because they wanted to live as rustic a life as possible. Their first rural home had electricity.

"It wasn't so much seeing the energy crisis coming as far as electricity was concerned," said Dachtler, 29, a University of California graduate. "It was just that we decided to do without it in terms of building a house. We didn't want to be-

By SUSAN PRICE December 10, 1933

Decorations for the Christmas holidays have been placed along principal business streets under the direction of the Water and Light Commission which is in charge of providing electrical decorations for the festive season.

Forces of workmen were busy hanging strings of vari-colored lights across intersections of business streets.

The most outstanding decoration will be the large Christmas tree to be erected at Five Points early this week. The tree will be decorated with hundreds of lights and may be seen for a good distance along the five intersecting streets.

Work on the municipal swimming pool and culvert—two of the most important Civil Works Administration projects for this community—got underway today and will be rushed to completion as quickly as possible.

The central committee of the Civil Works Administration has been called to meet at 7:30 p.m. tonight to discuss other projects in the city.

At a meeting here last week, the need for several more projects was expressed and indications were that they would be presented to the local committee soon.

Energy Crisis Power Struggle

By BILL NOBLITT RALEIGH—"I don't want to sound like the prophet of doom and gloom. I think we can meet this crisis," a worried Gov. Jim Holshouser said of the worsening energy situation.

But in all, it does appear that things will be downhill for Tar Heels, and the governor is already at work on a whole list of steps which might be required.

"I intend to ask the General Assembly for a variety of emergency steps—for authority to implement emergency steps—should the situation continue or worsen," Holshouser said.

Use of low-grade fuels, including coal, will certainly be one of those measures. North Carolina was the first state in the nation to move ahead with clean air regulations approved by the U. S. Environmental Protection Agency. The federal deadline for states to adopt standards is July, 1975, putting this state more than a full year ahead.

Lower Fuel Grades Some relief on those stringent regulations across the state is an expected measure, perhaps establishing an interim period in which lower grade fuels can be burned for a period of time.

This would permit schools, power plants, hospitals, many textile mills, to turn to lower grades of fuel oil, some of which are available, or a higher sulphur-content coal.

But nowhere in his recommendations, Holshouser said, will he call for any steps which "might endanger the health of our citizens."

His two principal concerns, the governor said, are to protect jobs and the health of people. He added that there are no signs at present of any major work stoppages impending in this state due to the fuel situation.

Last week, the governor announced a three-day extension of Christmas holidays for all state employees, except those in critical jobs of law enforcement or health areas. State machinery will come to a halt for a long vacation of 11 days, extending from the close of business Dec. 21, through New Years Day, reopening Jan. 2.

"I wish I were Santa Claus and able to just give our employees these extra days. But I don't feel I can do that with the taxpayers' money," Holshouser said. State employees will be required to take the three days beyond the normal holiday schedule as vacation time.

The shutdown applies to statewide governmental operations as well as those offices in Raleigh, and to the university system.

"It would be nice to simply give our employees three more vacation days, but we recognize that all of us are simply trustees for the taxpayers," Holshouser said.

Lower Speeds Another measure still under advisement by Holshouser is further reduction of speed limits across the state. Already, by executive order, he has reduced the maximum speed to 55 miles per hour. President Nixon appears headed toward a nationwide 50-mile-an-hour limit.

Action by the General Assembly would be required before North Carolina speeds could be taken below the present 55-mile-an-hour level. Trucking industry spokesmen and drivers across the nation have reacted against the lowering of speeds, arguing that the big trucks simply do not operate as efficiently at slower speeds, and the fuel savings is not great.

Holshouser said he has been told that below 55, the big trucks have to use a lower gear, wiping out any fuel savings. Indications are, both nationally and in this state, that trucks might be allowed to travel above the 50-mile limit for cars, by perhaps five-miles-an-hour.

Double Tandems? Sources close to the trucking industry say that not only will truckers fight the slower speeds, but will likely renew a push for double tandem trailers in this state.

For years, truckers have tried to get the law changed to permit one tractor to pull two trailers in a row, as they do in some western states.

North Carolina, and most eastern states, have resisted that move.

At one point, the trucking industry sought a compromise which would allow the use of the double rigs on Interstate highways for long hauls, breaking them down into single rigs when the trucks needed to travel on any highways or city streets other than those meeting Interstate standards.

With the energy crisis on full swing, sources said, the argument will be renewed with emphasis on the fuel savings of moving two truckloads with one tractor.

Strength For Today

THE ESSENCE OF PRAYER

Many people ask, "What is the use of praying when God already knows what we need?"

Prayer is something more than simply asking for things; it is the opening of our hearts to God, an effort on our part to know His will for us, to enter into fellowship with Him. Prayer permits us to take advantage of God's offer to share His life with us and to allow us to share our lives with Him. The fact that God already knows what we need should make us pray with greater confidence. Our prayers are needed not to overcome God's willingness or to give Him some information which we presume He does not already possess about ourselves and our affairs. Prayer is the opening up of a way between ourselves and God which will permit Him to do for us what He wants to do. The significant thing about prayer is not that it changes God's mind but that it changes ours. As a very wise man said, "Prayer cannot change God's purpose, but it can release it."

Saxbe Nomination Is Submitted To Senate

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has formally submitted the nomination of Sen. William B. Saxbe as attorney general to a Senate likely to approve him overwhelmingly.

Hearings on the nomination of the 57-year-old Ohio Republican may begin as early as this afternoon before the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Senate leaders hope to complete action on the Saxbe nomination before Congress ends its current session late next week. Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said the hearings would be thorough.

The likelihood of overwhelming Senate approval of Saxbe was indicated Nov. 27 when the Senate voted 75 to 16 for a bill that lowered the attorney general's pay from $60,000 to $35,000 to permit Saxbe to serve.

The legislation was designed to get around a constitutional barrier that existed because the attorney general's pay had been raised during Saxbe's Senate term. The Constitution bars members of Congress from being named to federal posts whose salary or other benefits have been increased during their terms.

Most of the Democrats who opposed the pay bill said they personally favor Saxbe's nomination but feared it was unconstitutional even if such a bill were passed.

Nixon signed the legislation into law Monday, then submitted Saxbe's nomination formally.

Barring unfavorable dis-losures about Saxbe during his confirmation hearings, Senate observers expect the nomination to pass easily.

Normally, the appointment of a senator to a Cabinet or other high position assures his speedy confirmation, and the action often takes place without any hearings.

Saxbe was appointed Nov. 1 to succeed Atty. Gen. Elliot L. Richardson, who resigned rather than fire Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox. Senate Republican leaders strongly urged President Nixon to name a senator to the post. Solicitor General Robert H. Bork has been acting attorney general.

Only a month earlier, Saxbe had announced he would not seek re-election to the Senate in 1974 but would go home to Ohio and practice law. He had been asked the Governor to repeat a couple of paragraphs for the camera; he obliged; and the film was aired without notice to the viewers that they were seeing a staged replica. Was this censurable?

One of the three charges against ABC, dealing with a student demonstration in Los Angeles, could not be proved at all. The other two incidents involved filmed documentaries on gambling in Las Vegas and police wives in Seattle. Admittedly, the final productions contained staged sequences, but the participants were real gamblers and real wives. Should these sequences have been eliminated, or should viewers have been advised that the scenes were re-created?

I am of two minds. Credibility comes in a package marked fragile; it has to be handled with care. The risk in this business of "staging" is that even the best of producers are likely to he couldn't remember this particular incident. No one denied the essence of the story—that marine life had been killed. Assume that the staging occurred: Was it wrong?

Still a third charge against CBS arose in 1968, when a crew arrived too late to film a certain speech by Governor Roger D. Branigan of Indiana. A reporter evidently asked the Governor to repeat a couple of paragraphs for the camera; he obliged; and the film was aired without notice to the viewers that they were seeing a staged replica. Was this censurable?

I am of two minds. Credibility comes in a package marked fragile; it has to be handled with care. The risk in this business of "staging" is that even the best of producers are likely to get carried away. Searching for dramatic effect, they may lose the trail of truth. Reporting and show biz are not the same thing, and the FCC is right in seeking to keep this distinction clear.

On the other hand, the object of a documentary is to tell a story. It is an ancient and a noble art. So long as outright fraud and serious deception are avoided—and so long as "staging" involves no issues of fairness, accuracy and balance—perhaps the practice is defensible. It would be a drab world indeed if story tellers were denied those devices of illusion and embellishment that make a dull account a small work of art.

The famed Provincetown (Mass.) Playhouse was established in 1915 and the following year staged "Bound East for Cardiff," the first of Eugene O'Neill's plays to be performed.

The Dachtlers and their 2-year-old son, Nathaniel, aren't the only ones in the this Sierra foothills area north of Sacramento who are living by choice without electricity. About 30 other families have adopted the same life style. Most are refugees from city life.

The Dachtlers' home, with 677 square feet of space, has a big kitchen and small living room. An upstairs loft serves as a bedroom. Shelves are loaded with home-canned vegetables from the garden.

Dachtler teaches mathematics and reading for three hours a day to first, second and third-graders in the 100-student rural school district. He earns extra cash by tutoring, and walks the six miles to school and back five days a week.

"We live below the poverty level, but we live like kings, I feel, in many ways," said Mrs. Dachtler, a member of the school board.

But it's not always satisfying. "You know, one thing most people don't realize is that it's a lot of hard work," Mrs. Dachtler said. "Sometimes it's cold and wet."

RICHMOND, Va. (UPI) — The Richmond City Police Department will reinstitute a bicycle patrol Monday for the first time since 1934.

Patrolman W. W. Fuller, who suggested the idea, will constitute the one-man bicycle patrol. He will pedal his downtown beat of several square blocks on a 10-speed bike, hoping to save gallons of fuel.

Fire Damages 3 Businesses In Fayetteville

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP) — A general-alarm fire severely damaged three businesses and caused smoke and water damage to others Monday night.

Fire Inspector Arnold Koonce said the fire apparently began in Frank's Trading Co., a heating and air conditioning firm, and the spread was aided by freon gas stored there. Two other businesses in the one-story block building just outside the Fayetteville city limits were heavily damaged. They were an adjoining novelty company and the Tagg Furniture Co., which makes chairs and recliners.

No estimate of financial loss was available immediately. There were no injuries.

About a dozen rural fire departments and the Fayetteville department responded.

Claim Lax Controls Of Livestock Drug

WASHINGTON (AP) — A House committee says that federal food and farm officials have failed to adequately protect Americans from meat that may contain some residue of dangerous drugs used in producing livestock.

The charges came from the House Government Operations Committee in a report on regulation of DES — diethylstilbestrol — and other drugs used in food-producing animals.

Nine of the 18 House Republicans on the 41-member committee attacked the report, however, and termed the panel's recommendations as "vague, redundant of existing policy and shallow in their responsiveness to the issues raised."

The committee said DES and other potent drugs used in animal feed are "often not completely eliminated from edible animal tissue prior to slaughter and are detectable as residues in meat ..."

Some drugs that have been used in animal feed are capable of inducing cancer in test animals, the panel said.

It said two of them, DES and diensetrol, have been linked to cancer in young women whose mothers took the drugs during pregnancy. The Food and Drug Administration has banned use and shipment of both these drugs.

NAMED DIRECTOR

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Wilmer Mizell, R-N.C., today said Mr. Airy, N.C. native James W. York has been named director of the tobacco division of the U.S. Agriculture Department's Agriculture Marketing Service.

Require Report On Adjustment Of Oil Prices

Internal Revenue Service director Charles O. DeWitt announced that all heating oil dealers are required to report price adjustments for No. 2 heating oil.

DeWitt said that price adjustments are to be reported on Form CLC-92 by Dec. 15. Dealers who had sales of No. 2 heating oil during 1972 and anticipate sales during 1973 of less than 3,000,000 gallons may use Form CLC-92-A, he noted.

Forms may be picked up in this area from the Rivers Building, 211 Evans Street, Greenville. Mail or telephone requests for forms should be made to the IRS District Office in Greensboro, the official said.

Appointed Postmaster

H. C. EDWARDS

STOKES—Henry C. Edwards has been appointed Stokes Postmaster, effective this past Saturday. John H. Wise, district manager of the U. S. Postal Service, has announced.

Edwards, 31, has been officer in charge of the office since Aug. 28 and has been a Postal Service employee for eight years. He is now enrolled in a Management Development course at Pitt Technical Institute and has completed various courses provided by the Oklahoma Postal Training Operation.

A graduate of Winterville High School, he is the son of Mrs. C. H. Barnhill Jr. of Ayden. He and his wife, Peggy, have a daughter, Scarlett Ann.

Testimony For Defense

GOLDSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Testimony from defense witnesses was to continue today in the general court-martial of a 23-year-old Air Force sergeant charged in connection with the slaying of two men last June.

In testimony Monday, Mrs. Dorothy Lemley, a clinical psychologist from Greenville, N.C., said she had tested S.Sgt. Chester Willis Collier in September and found him to have a "schizophrenic personality."

Several other witnesses were called to the stand Monday, and testified to Collier's good character. In addition, a number of letters were introduced as character references.

The prosecution rested its case last Friday.

A native of Copeland, Fla., Collier is accused of entering a hospital emergency room at Seymour Johnson Air Force Base in Goldsboro last June and opening fire with a rifle.

Two servicemen were killed and three others were wounded.

Investigated 2 Collisions

An estimated $2,175 property damage resulted yesterday in two collisions investigated here by Greenville Police.

Officers reported heaviest damage resulted from a 4:05 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Dickinson and Pennsylvania Avenues involving cars driven by Larry James Early Sr., of 1719 South Greene St., Linda Bryan McGowan of Shady Knoll Trailer Park and Jefferson Gordon Dildy of Wilson.

Police, who charged Early with failing to yield the right of way at a stop sign estimated damage at $1,000 to the Early car, $300 to the McGowan vehicle and $500 to the Dildy car. Early was reported injured in the collision.

No charges were reported following investigation of an 8:45 p.m. collision at the intersection of N.C.11 and U.S. 264.

Officers identified drivers involved in the collision as Joseph Justice Henderson II of Route 2, Snow Hill and Clarence Lee Burroughs of Route, 1, Ayden.

Damage was estimated at $300 to the Henderson car and $75 to the Burroughs vehicle. No injuries were reported.

SUNKEN REEFS

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Texas Parks and Wildlife Department officials are planning to acquire 12 surplus

"liberty ships" from the federal government, and scuttle them to form artificial reefs off the state's Gulf Coast. Such artificial reefs have produced improved fishing in the past, biologists say, and the World War II ships would make low cost, easily installed reefs.

Bike Larceny Charged Three

Three persons have been charged with bicycle larceny following investigation of two separate incidents here yesterday, according to Police Department Captain W. M. Carr.

Capt. Carr said Larry D. Daniels, 18 of Route 2, Greenville, was stopped about 10:37 p.m. on U.S. 264 near the Evans St. intersection, by Greenville police and charged with operating a bicycle without proper front and rear lights.

Further investigation, the police officials said, led to Daniels being charged with bicycle larceny by East Carolina University officers. The bicycle he was riding, the captain explained, allegedly had been stolen from the ECU campus November 5.

Two 14-year-old boys were charged in juvenile petitions with the larceny of a bicycle from Elmhurst School about 10:40 a.m.

Capt. Carr said the two allegedly took a bicycle belonging to David Johnson of 1725 Beaumont Rd. from the school grounds.

After the two were apprehended, they were turned over to the principal at Aycock Junior High School, where they are students, and the bicycle returned to Elmhurst School.

Nation Could Turn To DST In January

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation could be on daylight saving time by the second week in January, following agreement Monday by a Senate-House conference committee.

The effort to save energy by setting the clock ahead an hour would take effect the fourth Sunday after enactment and Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W. Va., said the bill could be sent to the White House before the end of the week.

The country would remain on daylight time through October, 1975.

The White House requested the energy time bill, saying it could result in savings of as much as three per cent in heating and electricity. Both opponents and supporters of the measure however, have said there are no reliable figures on how much would be saved.

Meanwhile, the Senate passed and sent to the House a bill requiring the labeling of automobiles and major household appliances as to their energy consumption.

The bill also would make $200 million available in loan guarantees in an effort to produce a fuel-efficient car within a decade.

And the measure would require every federal agency to consider the energy shortage in developing and implementing policies and programs.

House action on the measure is not expected this year.

Truckers Claim Speed Saves

CAMBRIDGE, Ohio (AP) — Truckers are betting they can prove to an Internal Revenue Service investigator they can save fuel by driving faster speeds.

An IRS agent was expected today at the Shenandoah Truck stop east of here, where angry drivers have blocked fuel pumps since Thursday.

A spokesman for the truckers said the investigator would ride one of the tractor trailers to check drivers' claims that they get their best gas mileage between 60 and 65 miles per hour.

"We're going to fill up and drive my speed until we run out. Then we're going to fuel up again and go his speed. My bet is we get 15 to 20 per cent better mileage my way," said Art Smith of Corona, Calif.

MIX-AND-MATCH

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (UPI) — The 1968 general elections in Arkansas left political analysts scratching their heads. Carrying the state's majority votes in that year were George Wallace for president, a third party candidate; Winthrop Rockefeller for governor, a Republican, and Sen. J.W. Fulbright for senator, a Democrat.

The Patriots Bowl by Lenox China

Lenox salutes our American heritage with a unique commemorative issue combining historical significance and artistic beauty.

Five leaders who guided our nation's destiny — John Adams, Benjamin Franklin, Thomas Jefferson, Patrick Henry and George Washington — were specially hand-painted for this gracious bowl by the outstanding portraitist, Peggy Peplow Gummere. After the portraits were hand applied to each fine china bowl, they were framed and linked with garlands of 24-karat gold on the Lenox fine china.

Adapted from the captain's service on the first American sailing vessel to trade with the Orient, the bowl is the same shape as those used in the finest homes of the colonies. Because of its historical significance and shape it is an important collector's item. You will be proud to display it as a lasting tribute to our heritage. It measures 9 inches in diameter.

We're not a bunch of contented cows.

We work for Maola, Eastern Carolina's leading dairy.

And we have a vested interest in keeping ahead of the herd.

We own part of the dairy.

We've always brought you the freshest milk and ice cream possible. But we didn't stop there. We keep looking for new and better products.

Take Pixie. We didn't want to bring you just another dessert. So we came up with Pixie Frozen Dessert. And you kept coming back for more. Pixie is now Eastern Carolina's favorite frozen dessert.

Or take our low-fat milk, Great Shape. (And did you ever.) Great Shape is fortified with vitamins A and D. It's high in milk solids for taste. Yet it's low in calories. You told us that Great Shape is what milk should have been all along.

Keeping up the quality, keeping up with the times. That's how Maola got to be the leading dairy in Eastern Carolina.

And as long as the owners have anything to say about it, we'll stay that way.

Our people own the dairy. They do a better job.

Coaching Choice May Be Made By Tomorrow

ECU Athletic Director Clarence Stasavich said late this morning that no committee meeting would be held today, assuring that no new head football coach would be named this week.

Stasavich will be out of town for the next three days, returning late Friday from the Southern Conference meeting in Greenville, S.C. "We have reached an impasse," he said, declining to comment on what exactly he meant. "There is a possibility that we will meet Saturday or Sunday. I don't know whether we will interview more people now or not."

East Carolina University may be picking its new football coach by tomorrow, or it may not pick one until next week—depending on action by the selection committee today.

Athletic Director Clarence Stasavich said this morning that he would talk with ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins concerning his wishes on the action, then go from there. Should no decision be reached today, it is unlikely that any would be made this week, since Stasavich and ECU Faculty Chairman of Athletics Cliff Moore will be in Greenville, S.C. for the rest of the week for the semi-annual Southern Conference meeting.

Stasavich was to talk with Jenkins late this morning to find out whether he wished a quick decision or wanted further interviews. Stasavich said that recommendations continued to come in from around the country.

It is believed that a total of ten people have been interviewed for the job. They include the lone holdover from Sonny Randle's mostly departed staff, Henry Trevathan; a former assistant here, now at Louisville, John Matlock; Clemson assistant Ed Emory; UNC assistant Bobby Collins; Florida State assistant Jim Donnan; Guilford head coach and former ECU assistant Henry Vansant; Alabama assistant Pat Dye; Houston Oilers assistant Bernie Miller; N. C. State assistant Brian Burke, and Elon head coach Red Wilson.

Official confirmation was not given by committee members on who had been interviewed.

According to Stasavich, he and the other six committee members are to come up with two names for Jenkins' consideration, listing their first and second choice. Jenkins will then get approval from the ECU athletic committee of the top selection and offer the job to that man. Unless he decided not to accept, the work of the group will be completed.

East Carolina is now in a position where every day that goes by hurts recruiting. The first official, but non-binding signing day for prospects was last Saturday.

And under new NCAA rules, only 30 recruits, including junior college men, can be signed each year. Thus, if a year is lost in recruiting, it takes four years to recover from it.

Pirate Swimmers Nip South Florida, 57-56

East Carolina University rallied from 14 points down with two events to go to defeat the University of South Florida last night in swimming, 57-56.

The Bucs went one-two in three-meter diving, then took the 400-yard freestyle relay event to win the meet.

There was one bone of contention, however. In the 200-yard breaststroke, held just prior to the final diving event, Jeff Shoup of South Florida finished first, while a teammate finished second. Shoup was disqualified for an illegal kick, however, and that cost them the chance to see it up right there.

The two teams split the relay events, with South Florida winning seven events to four for the Pirates in the individual contests. East Carolina's depth enabled them to catch up and take the slim win.

Two new meet records were set in the affair. South Florida's Hadley's time of 1:49.99 broke the meet record in the 200-freestyle, while the 400-yard medley relay team's time of 3:45.69 was also a new mark.

The meet was East Carolina's last until January 12 when they entertain the University of North Carolina.

Summary:

400 medley relay: South Florida (Kozner, Shoup, Jagger, Celotto) 3:45.69.

1,000 freestyle: Connelly (SF) 10:21.85; Ruedlinger (EC) 10:52.23; Green (EC) 10:57.19.

50 freestyle: Hadley (EC)

22.40; Celotte (SF) 22.69; Hughes (EC) 2:13.53.

500 freestyle: Connelly (SF) 4:59.25; Peter (SF) 5:08.29; Ruedlinger (EC) 5:09.23.

200 breaststroke: Gibbs (SF) 2:06.25; Fritz (SF) 2:06.30; Schiffel (EC) 2:06.73.

1-meter diving: Morin (EC) 2:23.41; Kemp (EC) 2:23.61; Kirkman (EC) 2:25.99.

3-meter diving: Morrow (EC) 2:28.70 points; Morin (EC) 2:23.50; Cole (SF) 1:59.10.

400 freestyle relay: East Carolina (Hadley, Hinchman, Bohlken, Vail) 3:19.46.

119: Bill Barrett (R) pinned Tony Jordan, 2:06.

126: Randy Anderson (FC) decided on Butch Foust, 8-3

132: Milton Reel (FC) pinned Danny Bowman, 2:10.

138: Freddie Baker (R) pinned Danny Tyson, 3:46.

145: James Gorham (FC) pinned Tyrone Perkins, 5:43.

155: Gary Locust (FC) pinned Jordy Whichard, 0:31.

167: Harold Randolph (R) pinned Mercer Oglesby, 4:29

185: Floyd Bullock (FC) pinned Ron Goodall, 0:40.

195: Robert Bullock (FC) decided on Ron Hunt, 2-0.

Heavyweight: Jeff Hagan (R) pinned Jeff Flanagan, 2:35.

Three Pirates In Blue-Gray

Three members of the East Carolina University football team will participate in the annual Blue-Gray football game to be played in Montgomery, Ala., next Tuesday night.

Carl Summerell and Greg Troupe were earlier announced for the annual All-Star affair, and Carlester Crumpler was added to the roster yesterday.

Summerell, the Southern Conference's Player of the Year, was the team leader as East Carolina rolled to a second straight 9-2 season. He passed for 1,222 yards, completing 82 of 154 passes. He scored 11 touchdowns with 15 passes and picked up 7 more rushing.

Troupe, an offensive guard, was one of the primary blockers for the Bucs this year, as they made record yardage. Troupe is an outstanding candidate for the Jacobs Blocking Trophy in the Southern.

Crumpler, who was the Southern's Play of the Year in 1972, was injured in the opening game of the year with N. C. State and lost his starting berth to sophomore Kenny Strayhorn. He came along slowly, but still managed to break 1,000 yards for the season. Only the early season injuries prevented him from joining the elite group of 3,000 yard career rushers as he finished up with 2,889 yards for his career. He set Southern Conference scoring records both for single season and career, along with single season and career league marks also.

Barty Smith, Lee Pearson and Pat Kelly of Richmond will also participate in the game.

From North Carolina, Wake Forest will send Chuck Ramsey, the nation's leading punter; from Duke comes John Ricca and Richard Brienza, from North Carolina are Robert Pratt and Phil Lamm.

Richmond's Frank Jones is an assistant coach for the Gray team.

Confusion In Playoff Slots

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Atlanta, Buffalo and Cleveland are on the hot seat. Dallas, Oakland and Cincinnati seem to be sitting pretty.

But then, the ball takes funny bounces in the National Football League. By this time next week, it's possible that the Cowboys, Raiders or Bengals could be sitting in the stands or in front of their television sets, watching the Falcons, Bills or Browns in the playoffs.

It's that confusing as the NFL rushes headlong into the final weekend of regular-season action, with three divisional titles and two wild-card playoff berths still up for grabs — and nine teams doing the grabbing. It all begins the process of deciding who'll vie for the big one, Super Bowl VIII in Houston Jan. 13.

Minnesota, champion of the National Conference's Central Division, is waiting to find out which wild-card team it will host Saturday, Dec. 22 when the playoffs start. It could be Washington, Dallas or Atlanta.

The Miami Dolphins, the defending Super Bowl champions and repeat winners in the American Conference East, will find out this weekend who's going to take the Central title — Pittsburgh or Cincinnati are the contenders — and one will visit them on Sunday, Dec. 23.

Los Angeles, which dethroned three-time champion San Francisco to lock up the NFC West, doesn't know where it'll play on Dec. 23. It could be at Dallas or Washington, whichever wins the NFC East.

And as if that wasn't confusing enough, consider the Dec. 22 AFC playoff game between that conference's wild-card winner and the host West Division champion. Pittsburgh, Cincinnati, Cleveland and Buffalo are all eligible for the wild card and Oakland, 8-4-1, and Denver, 7-4-2, are fighting for the West crown.

The Raiders, who hold a half-time edge, and Broncos meet Sunday in Oakland. The winner takes the title. A tie will also give Oakland the title and knock the Broncos out of the playoffs.

Dallas and Washington, each at 9-4, share the NFC East lead. If Dallas beats St. Louis and Washington knocks off Philadelphia on Sunday, the Cowboys win the title, having outscored the Redskins 34-21 in their two games. In that case,

Los Angeles goes to Dallas and Washington heads for Minnesota. And Atlanta? Well, whether the Falcons beat New Orleans or not on Sunday, all they'd have to look forward to is next season.

Now brace yourself. It gets sticky from here on.

If either Dallas or Washington loses and Atlanta wins, the Falcons are still alive.

If Dallas loses and Washington wins, the Redskins win the title. That's obvious. Then the Cowboys and Falcons would be matched on a points-scored and points-allowed basis against conference foes.

If Dallas wins and Washington loses, or if both of them lose, then the Cowboys get the crown and the Redskins and Falcons are matched for the wild card, using the same point system.

The Bills of Buffalo and Browns of Cleveland are in an even more tenuous situation because more teams have a chance to knock them out of playoff contention. Of course, they can knock themselves out, too. Like the Falcons, Buffalo must beat the New York Jets and Cleveland must defeat Los Angeles to stay in the running.

The AFC Central Division presents the most frantic situation. Pittsburgh and Cincinnati are each 9-4 and lead Cleveland, 7-4-2, by one game.

If Pittsburgh tops San Francisco on Saturday and Cincinnati downs Houston on Sunday, they stay tied — but Cincinnati wins the division title because of its 8-3 record against AFC teams compared to Pittsburgh's 7-4 mark.

In that situation, the Bengals would visit Miami, Pittsburgh would win the wild card and play at Oakland or Denver, and Buffalo and Cleveland would start their vacations.

If both the Bengals and Steelers play to ties on Sunday, the Steelers would win the division with a 4-2 record against divisional foes while Cincinnati, with a 3-2-1 mark against AFC Central teams, would get the wild card.

If both teams lose on Sunday and Cleveland wins, all three end up tied.

Cincinnati is eliminated first because its 3-3 division record is poorer than the 4-2 records of Cleveland and Pittsburgh.

Then Pittsburgh would take the title, having outscored Cleveland 49-27 in their two games, and Cleveland would be matched against Buffalo for the wild card in the points-scored, points-allowed system.

If Pittsburgh wins and Cleveland and Cincinnati lose, the Bengals are matched against Buffalo and automatically get the wild card, having beaten the Bills 16-13.

Hereford Places

A local man placed third in the Maryland Marathon held recently in Baltimore.

North Carolina Track Team member, Eddie Hereford, who is an ECU student, ran the 26 mile, 385 yard course in two hours, 26 minutes, and 50 seconds.

First place was won by Vic Nelson of Kentucky with two hours, 22 minutes, and 56 seconds; and second by Martin Ande of Nigeria, with two hours, 24 minutes, and 17 seconds. Fourth was taken by Mike Savino of Baltimore and fifth by Till Luft of West Germany. There were 396 participants.

Hereford will be defending his first-place title at the Raleigh Marathon, his next race.

Conley Rolls By Ayden-Grifton

LITTLEFIELD—C. H. Conley High School's wrestling team rolled on last night, gaining a 70-6 rout over the Ayden-Grifton Chargers.

The victory was the 31st in a row for the Vikings without a defeat. Ayden-Grifton has yet to pick up a victory this season.

The Vikings won every match but one, as Ayden-Grifton won their lone match by a pin. Of the 12 Conley wins, 10 came by pins, one by decision and one by forfeit.

Heavyweight: Carmon (C) won by forfeit.

Rampants Tie Jaguar Matmen

Rose High School won the final match of the evening by a pin to pull out a 36-36 tie with Farmville Central's wrestling team last night.

The Jaguars had earlier defeated the Rampants in a dual meet, winning at Farmville Central.

Farmville Central won seven matches, while the Rampants won only six, but all six of the Rose victories came by pins. Two of the seven Farmville Central victories were by decisions, and that allowed Rose to pull back and gain the deadlock.

Summary:

98 David Lazzo (R) pinned Willie White, 1:59.

105: Tommy Manning (R) pinned Fernando Ward, 4:22.

112: Ronald House (FC) pinned Andy Rogers, 3:57.

Biggest Win— For Two Days

UCLA, N.C. State In Top Positions On Poll

Robersonville Boys Recovering From Hurts

By JOHN NELSON
Associated Press Writer
Western Kentucky Coach Jim Richards calls his team's upset of No. 8 Providence "the biggest win of the season, at least until we face Butler Thursday night."

The unranked Hilltoppers, paced by Mike Odemns' 20 points and 10 rebounds, upset Providence 89-84 Monday. It was an upset in every sense of the word, as expressed by Providence All-American center Marvin Barnes. Western now has won four in a row and Providence is 1-1.

"We played bad and they played good," Barnes said. "But the big thing had to be their holding us away from the boards in the second half."

Providence outbounded Western 29-17 in the first half, but the Hilltoppers controlled the backboards in the final half, 27-21.

In other major college games, No. 5 North Carolina defeated Kentucky 101-84, No. 13 Alabama beat Virginia Tech 75-64, and Oklahoma State defeated Texas 83-73.

Senior center Bobby Jones pumped in 21 points and pulled down 12 rebounds to spark North Carolina to victory. Kentucky now has lost three straight, while North Carolina is undefeated in four games.

T.R. Dunn came off the bench midway through the first half to score 12 points and spark Alabama's Crimson Tide. Virginia Tech took an early lead and held it through the first half, leading by as many as 10 points, but the Tide fought back in the second half to tie the score 47-47 with 12:48 left. Dunn also had three assists, a blocked shot, four steals and nine rebounds.

Guard K.C. Kincaide scored a career-high 27 points to lead Oklahoma State's Cowboys over Texas. The Cowboys hit four straight buckets — three by Kincaide — early in the second half to take a 10-point advantage.

Oral Roberts University defeated Hardin-Simmons 120-91 in one of the night's highest scoring games. Sam McCant paced Oral Roberts with 31 points as ORU boosted its record to 2-0.

Both Tennessee and Mississippi put 117 points on the board in scoring easy victories. Tennessee, with five players in double figures, defeated South Florida 117-90, and Tom Jordan and Den Hudson scored 18 points each to lead Ole Miss to a 117-66 drubbing of Arkansas.

Len Kosmalki Tennessee's 7-foot pivot man, led the Volunteers with 31 points, connecting on 14 of 22 shots from the floor.

Ole Miss shot 60.2 per cent from the field in its triumph over Arkansas.

James "Fly" Williams, last year's national scoring leader, had 37 points to spark Austin Peay State to its third straight victory, an 89-69 defeat of Louisiana College.

The sophomore also grabbed 11 rebounds and hit 15-29 shots from the field.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
UCLA and North Carolina State, two powerhouses gearing for a showdown battle this weekend, easily maintained the top two places in this week's Associated Press college basketball poll.

The Bruins, who are now 3-0 after defeating Southern Methodist 77-60 Saturday, remained No. 1 with 1,022 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters in poll results released Monday. UCLA also collected 45 of 52 possible first-place votes.

North Carolina State, 2-0 after crushing East Carolina 79-47 and Vermont 97-42, is second with 910 points and six first-place ballots.

The Bruins will fight to retain the top spot when they play the Wolfpack Saturday in St. Louis.

There were no changes among the top five. Indiana, 30, retained its No. 3 spot with 750 points, followed by Maryland, 1-1, with 691 points and one first-place vote and North Carolina, 2-0, with 580.

Notre Dame, 4-0, climbed from eighth to sixth with 509 points while Marquette, 4-0, remained No. 7 with 500 points. Providence dipped from sixth to eighth with 364 points and Louisville, 3-1, remained ninth with 262 points.

Memphis State, 4-0, jumped from 20th to 10th with 176 points for the biggest gain of the week.

Penn improved from 16th to 11, Long Beach State remained 12th and Alabama improved from 18th to 13th. Rounding out the Top Twenty are Arizona, Kansas State, South Carolina, San Francisco, Syracuse, Jacksonville and Southern Cal.

Reflector Sports Writer
ROBERSONVILLE—Some of the injuries that the Robersonville Golden Eagles sustained in their long football season have carried over to basketball and has contributed to the Eagles' slow start.

Head Coach C. E. Atkinson feels that once the players off the football squad heal up, they will be a much better team. Along with experience, they need to get over them as Robersonville enters a new conference this year.

There are five back from last year's team but only two of them were starters. There are also several new faces, mostly juniors, and one sophomore.

The Eagles have back a All-Martin County player. Ernest Crandall, 5-10, who averaged around 15 points a game last year. He is scoring about the same this season, being in double figures in each of the four games the Eagles have played.

Also back this year is Jeffery Spruill. Spruill is a 6-2 senior who averaged ten points a game last season. Spruill is not yet up to par in his playing and is "Shooting real bad," said Atkinson.

Percy Morning returns as well as Marshall Lawrence and William Rhodes. Rhodes is the tallest on the team at 6-3.

So far this year, the Eagles have been getting close to 60 pints a game. But their biggest problem has been their inability to get the ball inside. "We need to block out better," said Atkinson. "We are getting beat inside and on the boards."

The Eagles have several good scorers and so far the point totals have been pretty well bunched together. "We score most from the outside on a zone," said Atkinson. "But inside on a man-to-man we just have to wait for the shot."

Atkinson feels that his team is not getting the offensive rebounds as well as they should be. "We are not getting second and third shots. (Ricky) Purvis is leading in offensive rebounds."

The Eagles also like to run the fast break and can handle it fairly well when it is run against them. On defense, Robersonville goes from a 1-3-1 zone with the guards pressing up court as the opposition brings the ball up. They are also getting their share of rebounds.

For the first three games the Eagles kept the action away from inside but Saratoga was able to penetrate last Friday. In that game, the Eagles lost by two points. The guards play aggressive according to Atkinson.

One weakness in the Eagles' game is free throw shooting. This is one area that only can improve with time. "They need to work it out. Some of the young ones get tense and jittery," said Atkinson.

One other factor in the Eagles' performance is that several of the team were on the football team. Nino Hayes was one and Atkinson thinks that when he gets over those bruises he still has left, he will be able to help the Eagles out a lot coming off the bench. "He is a good shooter against the zone."

There are nine players Atkinson feels he can use and not lose much on either offense or defense. Spruill and Atkinson need to come around, too. "When they are in they give the team a lift on their inside play."

Looking to the new set up which they are in Robersonville is hoping to have something to say about the eventual winner. "Everyone is looking to South Edgemore, Elm City and Saratoga. Once we get together, and can get selective shots we will start surprising people."

Los Angeles Crushes Giants

By RON ROACH
Associated Press Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Chuck Knox, rookie head coaching sensation of the National Football League, kept his Los Angeles Rams cruising on a steady course toward the National Football League playoffs.

Alex Webster, New York Giants' coach, was badgered to compare the Rams with Dallas and Washington, one of which plays Los Angeles in the NFL playoffs Dec. 23.

For Webster to compare this hapless 2-10-1 team with the 11-2 Rams, who sailed away the National Conference West crown more than a week ago, seemed rather moot after a 40-6 Ram victory Monday night in a nationally televised game.

Knox refused to state his preference between Dallas and Washington, but Webster obliged.

"The Rams are a real fine football team, the finest running game all around that I have seen," said Webster. Led by Lawrence McCutcheon's 80 yards in 11 carries — taking the youngster to 1,014 yards this season — the Rams rushed for 219 yards.

"Comparing them with Washington, it's tough to make a comparison. We were down in personnel when we played the Redskins and they have a fine offense with runners like Larry Brown and three good receivers, but in summary I think the Rams are better.

"Comparing them against Dallas is also difficult. We played very well against Dallas, although they beat us. The Rams and Dallas' defenses are equal. Dallas throws a lot more offense at you. It's a tossup," said Webster.

Knox was able to clear his bench in the second half after the Rams broke away from a 14-3 lead on McCutcheon's 11-yard touchdown run and linebacker Isiah Robertson's 49-yard touchdown return of a Norm Snead pass.

Ram quarterback John Hadl, whose 19-yard pass to McCutcheon put the Rams ahead 14-3 in the second quarter, waved a hand in a steady motion and spoke of Knox.

"He's the same way every week—that's the secret of his success," Hadl said of a the man who took over a team that was only 6-7-1 in 1972. "The head coach sets the personality for the team."

WASHINGTON—Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Nov. 29 through Dec. 5.

MILITARY RACE RELATIONS Failed, 178 for and 226 against, to restore $1.25 million cut from the Department of Defense appropriations bill.
The money was earmarked for paying the salaries of 700 of the 3,255 persons employed as race relations counselors for the armed services. In rejecting the amendment the House agreed to the staff reduction.

The House later passed the overall bill and sent it to the Senate.
Supporters argued that the counselors helped the armed services avert racial outbreaks, such as occurred on the aircraft carriers Kitty Hawk and Constellation. They said the money saved is insignificant in the overall defense department appropriation. Rep. Floyd Hicks (D-Wash.) said the cut was a "slap in the face" for those seeking to minimize racial conflict.

Opponents defended the fund cut as a necessary part of reducing the military budget. They said that despite this "modest" cut, more than $40 million will be spent annually on race relations. Some opponents said that some race relations programs—such as "rap sessions" and "touch-feel games"—undermine military discipline.

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L. H. Fountain (D-2), David Henderson (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Wilmer Mizell (R-5), Charles Rose (D-7), Earl Ruth (R-8), James Martin (R-9), James Broyhill (R-10) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "nay."

BLIND AND HANDICAPPED TRAINING Rejected, 160 for and 164 against, an attempt to restore $35 million in federal grants to states for vocational rehabilitation programs.
The bill appropriates $615 million in fiscal 1974 for training blind and handicapped persons for skilled jobs. The funds are disbursed on an 80-20 federal-state matching formula.

After rejecting the fund restoration, the House passed the overall bill and sent it to the Senate.

Those voting for argued that the $615 million level will not adequately fund the requests that states are expected to make. They said the federal government has an obligation to prepare handicapped persons for meaningful jobs.

Opponents argued that more funds can be appropriated later if needed. They said the $615 million level is $26.8 million above last year's appropriation and is all the federal treasury can afford.

Fountain, Andrews and Preyer voted "yea." Jones, Henderson, Rose, Ruth, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "nay." Mizell did not vote.
BUDGET REFORM Rejected, 185 for and 218 against, a budget reform bill amendment that called for pilot testing of new federal programs.

The intent was to give Congress an idea of a program's effectiveness before voting full funding. It included a clause to permit immediate full funding of emergency programs.

After rejecting the amendment, the House passed the overall bill and sent it to the Senate. The budget reform bill is designed to reassert Congress' power over the federal purse by making Congress the prime architect of budget totals and priorities.

Supporters argued that pilot testing would help eliminate programs that look good on paper but don't work in practice.

Opponents, many of whom agreed with the principle of pilot testing, argued that adding any amendments might endanger final passage of the bill. They said that pilot testing should be discussed in committee before being considered on the floor.

Jones, Andrews, Mizell, Rose, Martin and Boyhill voted "yea." Fountain, Henderson, Preyer, Ruth, and Taylor voted "nay."

FILABUSTER Failed, 49 for and 39 against, to halt the filibuster aimed at stripping campaign finance amendments from the public debt ceiling bill. The move to end debate fell ten votes short of the two-thirds majority needed under Senate rules.

Faced with endless debate of the measure, the Senate later agreed to remove the controversial amendments providing for public financing of federal campaigns. Thus the way was cleared for passage of the debt ceiling bill.

Those voting to end the filibuster argued it was "frustrating the majority will" of the Senate. They argued that opponents of campaign reform were "hiding behind" the White House-backed filibuster. Sen. Russell Long (D-La.) said that public financing would make "this a government of people rather than... of money changers."

Some of those voting against is stopped.

Ervin and Helms voted "nay."
TAX REFORM Rejected, 37 for and 46 against, an amendment to the Social Security bill that would have eliminated a tax loophole.
The loophole permits individuals and corporations to deduct their regular federal income tax from preferred income (capital gains and oil depletion allowances, for example) before computing tax on preferred income.

Supporters argued that the loophole permits wealthy taxpayers to pay unfairly low taxes, which inadvertently penalizes lower income taxpayers. They called elimination of the loopholes a first step toward genuine tax reform.

Opponents argued against tampering with preferred income taxes during uncertain economic times. They argued against raising taxes on the oil industry during an energy crisis, and said the Senate should wait until next year when a complete tax reform bill will be considered.

Ervin and Helms voted "nay."
DAYLIGHT SAVINGS Rejected, 31 for and 51 against, an attempt to shorten the proposal for two years of nationwide daylight savings to one year. After rejecting the amendment, the Senate passed the over all daylight savings bill and sent it to conference with the House.

It is expected that daylight savings time will become effective on the first Sunday after Jan. 1.
Supporters argued that one year is enough to determine whether year-round daylight savings time saves enough energy to make it worthwhile. They said the Senate should not lock the country into the longer time period.

Opponents argued that a study of the impact of daylight savings time on energy consumption will take at least a year to prepare.
Ervin and Helms voted "yea."

Some things are worth waiting for. And one of them is the celebration we're planning to officially kick off our new Ramada Inn on the Highway 264 By-Pass.

Jim Woody of the ECU Pirates will be on hand to do the honors Wednesday, December 12th at 5:30 p.m.

Also on hand for the celebration will be other members of the Pirates team as well as Nancy Morgan, homecoming queen, and Harriet Canady, Miss Black ECU.

There will be gypsy musicians and dancers entertaining, so come out and enjoy the fun. Have refreshments, and take a look around. With 120 guest rooms, banquet facilities, the Gypsy Tent Restaurant and the Fortune Teller Tavern, we're ready to show Greenville the kind of special "Welcome Home" hospitality that has made Ramada a favorite from coast to coast.

Zincone Will Be Speaker

ECU Economics Professor Dr. Louis H. Zincone will speak on "Inflationary Controls" Wednesday to the Eastern Carolina Chapter of the National Association of Accountants.

Dr. Zincone, an alumnus of the University of Richmond and the University of Virginia, has been an ECU faculty member since 1969. He has developed computer games for the teaching of economics of health and has served as a consultant to the mayor of Greenville.

The EC Chapter of the Accountants' Association has men and women from throughout Eastern North Carolina as members. Membership available to anyone interested in developing a better understanding of the sources, types purposes and used of accounting and related date to all types of economic activity. Contact Paul Setliff, Area Associate Director, Fieldcrest Mills, Inc., 752-4126.

County Counts Many Suicides

MADERA, Calif. (AP)—Madera, a peaceful city in the heart of the San Joaquin Valley, is suffering from a rash of suicides, many of them teenagers. "Each kid believes he has a right to kill himself if he's tired of it all," said Dr. Fred Cutter, a psychologist and a consultant with the Los Angeles Suicide Prevention Clinic. This year, Madera County has had ten suicides, with half of them teenagers. That works out to a rate this year of about 46 per 100,000 population for the county compared to the state-wide rate in 1970 of 18.8 per 100,000 population.

The Worry Clinic Experts Offer Health Advice

Horace deserves a special compliment. For he enmeshes his students about health problems and helps them extend the lifespan of their parents. Our bodies should attain an age of at least 100 if we offer them proper care!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.
Case Y-592: Horace B., aged 29, is a Science Teacher in High School.
"Dr. Crane," he began, "some of my students have asked me about an appropriate gift for their parents.

"They'd like something pertaining to health, but in layman's language.
"So can you suggest any new book that might fill the bill?
"For many of my pupils have parents who smoke or drink to excess.
"These boys and girls would like to get their parents to quit such bad habits."
Health's-A-Poplin'
That headline is also the name of a fascinating new book (1973). Each chapter there in is the work of an authority in his field.

William D. Ruckelshaus 'has written the chapter entitled: "Is The Automobile Taking Us For A Ride?"
His essay deals with pollution and transportation dangers.
Dr. Daniel Horn, Director of the National Clearing House for Smoking and Health, of the HEW, authors the chapter: "Cigarettes And You."
"Feet or Defeat" is the snappy heading of the article by famous foot surgeon, Dr. Albert Apkarian.
"Seeing is Believing," is also the caption for the chapter by Dr. Charles Aronberg, Diplomate of the American Board of Ophthalmology.
"A Complex or a Complexion" is another intriguing section by Dr. Donald Rosman, Diplomate of the American Board of Dermatology.

"Overfed and Under-nourished" is the caption for a chapter by famous Medical Internist, Dr. Richard E. Welch. And Yoga, authority, Prof. Indra Devi, also has an essay on "Meditation or Medication."
"Acupuncture - A Needle in Time" is the contribution by Chinese medical expert, Leung Kok Yuen.
"Hypnosis - Mind Over What's the Matter," is the clever chapter by psychiatrist, Dr. P. H. Taylor, of California's Camarillo State Hospital.
And a discerning essay is included by Howard C. Long, President of the American Physical Fitness Research Institute.
"Dr. R. K. Bower, Professor of Theology, even has added a chapter on the Bible's perspective concerning total health.

A Tennis Freak Is Shortchanged

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—One of the oddities of life in the summer, spring and fall is that tennis freaks usually don't get to see televised tennis "championships on Saturday and Sunday — they're usually outdoors playing the game then, too.
Question? Why can't major tennis matches be televised on week nights—as in the case of ABC-TV's Billie Jean King-Bobby Riggs duel—so active tennis buffs get the chance to see them?
"That was more of a happening than a tennis match," laughed Roone Arledge, the dapper young head of ABC Sports who gave the nation's last September's historic tennis "Battle of the Sexes."
"Alas, for tennis fans who actually play the game, Arledge says there's little hope of making championship tennis a regular or even irregular nighttime TV event as has happened with ABC's "NFL Monday Night Football" series.
"I really don't see it as a realistic possibility," said Arledge, who was born in a fairly well-known tennis haven called Forest Hills, N.Y. "You have to go back a few years to see how hard I had to fight to get Monday night football on."
Despite that program's ratings success, he said, it's still extremely difficult to get most sports programs on at night.

"Our stations," he noted, "used to complain like hell about our pre-empting regular programming for the National Basketball Association playoffs, for example. And it's a major sports event."
He acknowledged that he gets complaints from tennis and golf enthusiasts during the non-winter months for showing their favorite games on weekend afternoons when they're out playing them.
"Skiers are doing it now," he added, "but there just isn't any time available, not on networks, anyway."

Severely Burned A Second Time

MIAMI (AP) — "Why does God hate me?" Alan McDonald asked from his hospital bed. McDonald, 23, lay in serious condition in the burn ward of Miami's Jackson Memorial Hospital, severely burned for the second time in his life. In 1960, McDonald was doused with flaming gasoline by a playmate. Last week, on an Everglades hunting trip with friends, McDonald was squatting over a bowl of gunpowder making bullets to save money when a spark from a campfire ignited the powder.

bidding his ace of spades, North checked on aces and subsided in six hearts when he learned that there was an ace missing.

The auction and West's length in spades made it unlikely that there would be a trick for the defenders in that suit, so West turned his attention elsewhere in search of the setting trick. Since he controlled the trump suit, he decided that his best shot was to try for a club ruff. Accordingly, he attacked that suit.

West's tactics did not go unnoticed by declarer. After winning the jack of clubs, he led a low heart from dummy in an attempt to draw trumps before the defenders could score a ruff. West won the ace and led a second club, and East's ruff ended South's hopes.

Once South realized that the defenders were trying to maneuver a club ruff, he should have cashed the ace of spades immediately, followed by the ace of diamonds. Now, dummy can be entered with a diamond ruff, and declarer's remaining club is discarded on the ace of spades.

With this groundwork done, it is safe to play a trump from dummy. West wins the ace, but no return will hurt him. If West leads a club, declarer simply overruffs East, ruffs a low diamond in dummy, draws trumps and his hand is high.

In support of hearts, North's hand evaluates to 20 points. He showed his strength with a jump shift to three clubs. When South introduced his second suit, North left his side the maximum room for exploration with a simple preference to three hearts. Since his first bid had created a forcing-game situation, there was no need for any stronger immediate action. Once South showed slam interest by cue-

Have A Bad Reputation

By ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Editor
Associated Press Science Editor
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Comets have been getting a bad rap.

They've long been regarded popularly as heralds of death and disaster, plagues, crop failure, earthquakes and similar unmerited.

Look to an article in Harper's Weekly magazine 116 years ago, on June 6, 1857:

There were predictions, it said, that a comet that year would hit and maybe annihilate the earth. It also took note of some salesmen promoting "comet-proof suits of clothing," and that "a cometary life insurance company—premiums payable in advance—has been created."

A comet in 1668 was blamed for a lethal epidemic among cats in Westphalia, Germany, the magazine went on, and a comet in 1665 was pegged as causing a great epidemic in London that same year but with "no one, apparently, caring to settle the question why the malign influence of the comet should fall only upon London, not extending even to the neighboring towns and villages."

And "a comet appeared in the year 590 to which was attributed a fearful epidemic which prevailed in that year, in the paroxysms of which people were seized with uncontrollable fits of sneezing, generally resulting in death. When anyone about this time sneezed, it became customary to say 'God bless you!', from which, probably, proceeded a similar custom to this day prevalent upon the continent of Europe."

"A comet which appeared in March 1402," Harper's continued, "was stated by the astrologers of that day to presage the death of John Galeas Visconti, an Italian prince. This gentleman, being a devout believer in astrologers and comets, duly died—no doubt of fright—and thus, to the great delight of the astrologers, made their predictions come true."

The defeat of the English at the Battle of Hastings in 1066 has been attributed by some to a comet harbinger of bad news. But it must have looked different to William the Conqueror out of Normandy. He won.

When the famous Halley's comet last appeared in 1910, there were widespread fears that it would destroy the earth, perhaps because the earth would soon pass through its "fiery" tail, that oceans would boil, and the whole world burn up. Seeking to allay such fears, a prominent astronomer of the day, Mary Proctor, wrote in a bylined story in the New York Times of May 8, 1910, that this was a deception, since ominous-looking comet tails are made of material so flimsy that we can see stars right through them.

And there were alarms that noxious gases in the comet's tail would choke and kill humans by the millions when the earth intercepted the cometary tail. It didn't happen. Comets perhaps gain their reputation for evil because some look like feathery stars, or funny stars with long tails, because they are strangers intruding into the orderly and familiar procession of our star constellations season by season, something out of place, something perhaps as puzzling and frightening as a total, darkening eclipse of the sun if people don't happen to know one is coming.

But comets can leave calling cards, in the form of "shooting stars" or meteorites. These are the almost infinitesimal specks of dust or dirt that a comet leaves behind when some of its substance is melted off by the sun. When the earth runs into the path of these "shooting stars," they flame in sudden death as brief streaks in the sky. The comet Encke, which visits earth every three and one-third years, has been donating shooting stars for perhaps 1,000 years.

Spectacular meteorite showers in 1789, 1933, and 1946 came from dust remnants of comet

Biela, which split in two in 1846 on a visit near the sun, says Fred Whipple, a comet expert who recently retired as director of the Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory here.

Biela came back as twins in 1852, but then the pair disappeared and neither has been detected since. "The bones of Biela's comet still float through space," Whipple observes.

Some Soviet scientists believe that a comet weighing perhaps one million tons struck Siberia in 1908, causing a blast that felled trees for 30 miles in all directions, and knocking people 100 miles away off their feet.

Others, however, think a meteorite or some other phenomenon did all the damage.

There is no danger that comet Kohoutek speeding toward us now is on collision course, says Brian Marsden of the Smithsonian Observatory.

The closest any comet has ever come to earth—aside from the possibility of the Siberian incident was 1 1/2 million miles, he says. In 1928, one comet came within four million miles, and a number have been within 10 million to 20 million. Kohoutek will stay a respectable 75 million miles from our turf.

And visible comets do not come by very often, considering that astronomers think there are 100 billion of them, or even more, roaming in a shell at the outer fringes of the solar system. Astronomers with their telescopes pick up a good number, but it is only once every few years, on the average, that one comes into good eyeball view. Orbits have been calculated for about 600 comets, and about 100 of these have come around at least twice, and some many more times, like Halley's comet and Encke, Marsden says.

Halley's comet comes around about every 76 years, is due back in 1986, and very likely the early and assiduous sky watchers in China may have observed Halley's comet in 467 B.C., or before, and certainly observed it in 239 B.C., Whipple says.

What has excited astronomers so much about our temporarily resident comet is that Lubos Kohoutek, a Czech astronomer for whom it is named, detected it last March, nine months ago when it was still nearly half a billion miles away, but big enough to show up on a powerful telescope.

No comet that big and bright, heading for close passage of the sun, had ever been spotted so early. Very importantly, this provided a fair amount of "lead" time to plan for detailed examination of the comet. Enough that NASA, the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, set up a special coordinating "Operation Kohoutek" under direction of Stephen Maran, astronomer at the Goddard Space Flight Center.

There was not enough time to fit out a special space probe that could intercept the head or tail of the comet, and make close-up studies, or even seize some comet material, an idea that Whipple had proposed more than a decade ago.

But just such a plan to go to a comet is being considered by NASA now, perhaps in a few years. It could resolve many of the mysteries about comets.

Around the world, telescopes on the ground will peek at comet Kohoutek for the next few months. Out in space, three astronauts aboard Skylab likely will have the most spectacular view, high above the earth's interfering blanket of air. They will use an array of instruments, including a special ultraviolet camera to see the hydrogen cloud around the comet. They can, also, witness sudden changes in the shape of the comet or its tail and make special observations then.

Mariner 10, now en route to Venus and later to Mercury, will be able to take pictures from a different angle than from earth. Stereoscopic comparison of the two views would give, for the first time, a three-dimensional picture of the shape of the comet.

Other findings are expected from the Pioneer spacecraft that just went beyond Jupiter; from the satellites Copernicus and Orbiting Solar Observatory 7; from a small barrage of sounding rockets rising from White Sands, N.M.; from C141 Airborne Infrared Observatory; and from balloons measuring far-infrared heat waves. A special observatory has been set up on South Baldy Mountain near Socorro, N.M.

Comet Kohoutek is tugging the interest of ordinary citizens as well as astronomers, professional or amateur. Sales of telescopes are reported increased.

If you are interested, look now or plan to live another 75,000 years. Comet Kohoutek likely won't be back before then.

PUBLIC NOTICES

REALEIGH, North Carolina, at which time and place such bids will be opened for $1,000,000 County Hospital Bond Anticipation Notes of the County of Pitt, North Carolina, dated December 31, 1973 and maturing February 27, 1974, without option of prior payment, interest payable at maturity. # Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets steady Monday. Supplies adequate, demand good.

Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 76.73, medium whites 75.66, small whites 65.43.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hogs were steady to 50 cents higher today. Tops of 41.25-42.25 at Kinston, Benson and Lumberton; 40.50-41.00 Rocky Mount; 39.50-40.50 Siler City and Denton; 38.25-40.25 Wilson and High Falls; 39.00-36.50 Tarboro and Bethel; 40.00 Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina f.o.b. dock brokers: Market steady. Supplies adequate, demand good and weights heavy.

North Carolina hens: Market tone weak. Offering prices on current negotiations trending lower than current delivery values. Supplies fully adequate to ample for unsettled buying interest. Few sales of heavy types reported on day of delivery basis at 19 cents at farm.

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock prices were strongly higher again today in what most analysts said was a continuation of a technical recovery after recent heavy declines generated by oil-crisis fears.

At 11:30 a.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 3.56 at 854.70. It had been up more than 5 points earlier. The Dow blue-chip indicator has recovered about 1-3 of its recent 200 points loss.

Advancing New York Stock Exchange issues held a 2 to 1 lead over decliners in moderate trading.

General Motors, up 1 1/2 at 51 1/2, was the Big Board volume leader today followed by Gulf Oil, down 1/4 at 21 1/4; Allied Chemical, up 1/4 at 46 3/4; Chrysler, up 1 at 17 3/4; and American Motors up 1/4 at 9 1/4.

Ford was up 7/8 at 43 3/4.

On the American Stock Exchange, Cutter Labs A was among the volume leaders, unchanged at 18 1/2.

Obituaries

Arthur
Mr. J. Ficklen Arthur, 79, died at Pitt Memorial Hospital Monday morning. He resided at 404 E. 14th St.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock Wednesday morning at the Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church by his pastor, the Rev. Troy Barrett, and the Rev. Adrian E. Brown. Burial will be in Cherry Hill Cemetery. The body will remain at the Wilkerson Funeral Home until the funeral hour.

Mr. Arthur, a native of Bedford, (Va.), came to Greenville with his parents in 1897 and received his education in the Greenville City Schools and Virginia Polytechnic Institute in Blacksburg, Va. He was employed by Imperial Tobacco Company for a few years and had been a buyer and storage manager for E. B. Ficklen Tobacco Company for 45 years prior to his retirement in 1963. He was also engaged in farming.

A veteran of World War One, he served in the United States Navy and was in Navy Intelligence. He was a member of the Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church, was serving on the Board of Stewards and was an usher. He was also a member of the Pitt County Post No. 39 of the American Legion and the Jamestown Society of Virginia.

Surviving are his wife, the former Miss Rachel Scarborough, of Lenoir County, to whom he was married in 1932; two sons, Maj. James Ficklen Arthur Jr. of the U.S. Army, now stationed in Australia, and Louis Arthur III of Wake Forest; three sisters; Mrs. W. W. # Heating Oil Prices Soar

By DANIEL Q. HANEY
Associated Press Writer
BOSTON (AP)—Home heating oil prices have risen 44 per cent since last winter in the Boston area, and a consumer organization says they will go up nearly that much again before this winter ends.

The average price of a gallon of home heating oil last week was 30.26 cents, compared with a winter average of 21.07 cents a year ago, according to the Boston Consumers' Council.

For the average homeowner, who burned 1,600 gallons last winter, the heating bill will jump from $337 last winter to $484 this year. That's assuming he doesn't comply with President Nixon's request to turn down his heat, and that the cost of oil doesn't go up again.

But the cost of oil has increased every week for the past month, and the consumer council expects it to level off around 37.5 cents a gallon. Oil dealers haven't challenged this prediction. At that price, it will cost an average Boston area homeowner $600 to keep his house as warm as he had it last year. Persons who live in northern New England might spend even more.

The figures did not reflect the full effect of a two cents a gallon increase granted by the Cost of Living Council last week.

Monthly increases in heating oil have been reported throughout the country, but few other areas have experienced the 44 per cent rise recorded here. Twenty-four per cent of the nation's homes are heated with oil. In New England, 76 per cent of all homes have oil heat.

Oil dealers say they're as unhappy as consumers about the prices.

Robert A. Flynn, director of the Maine Oil Dealers Association, said the Cost of Living Council has frozen dealers' profits at the same level they were May 15.

"That means they can only pass on product cost," Flynn said. "This is very disturbing to the dealer. He's not making any more money with this situation. Actually he's making less, because his cost of doing business has gone up."

ESTIMATE LOWERED
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Agriculture Department's latest estimate of this year's national cotton crop is less than 13.1 million bales. This is down 1 per cent from last month's forecast and 5 per cent below last year's production.

D.H. Conley HIGHLIGHTS

By DONNA SAYCE
D. H. Conley's wrestling team took its second win Wednesday at Plymouth.

O. R. MacLawhorn, social studies department chairman, has a winter quarter student teacher, Stanley Hall. Mr. Hall is from East Carolina University and will be teaching until the end of February.

The Science Club, sponsored by Ron Braxton, has elected officers. The president is David Hines; vice-president is Randy Britt; secretary and treasurer is Jenny Buck. Sergeant-at-arms is Skipper Eure and member at large is Bryan Mills.

A local science fair will be held and the winners there will be sent to the district science fair. Braxton's level one physical science class is planning to give Christmas gifts to the children at Pitt Memorial Hospital. Student of the week is David Hines and most improved student is Samuel Pierce.

Tom Watt products have arrived for the FBLA. Members are trying to get their orders together and get the products delivered before the Christmas holidays begin. This is their money-making project for the year. Pam MacLawhorn and Bertha Credle are in charge of this project.

The FHA put on their annual Mother-Daughter-Son Banquet recently at the Moose Lodge in Greenville. Debbie Manning, president, presided. Others involved with the banquet were Jackie Costin, Daphne Simpson, Henry Smith, Alvania Bryant, Linda Mills, Kay Autrey, Edith Smith and Terry Porter. Guest speaker was Miss Addie Gore, a home economics agent. A toast to the mothers was made by Lynelle Little. A response came from Lynelle's mother, Mrs. James Little.

Basketball Starts
D. H. Conley's basketball team has started off the season right. We have played four games and we've won all four. Coach Marsh is the boys basketball coach. Milton Tucker is the captain of the team.

James Dean from Pitt Tech will work with the counselors on the Basic Education Opportunity Grant forms for the seniors planning for further education. Sandra Holloman, from Pitt Memorial Hospital, spoke on radiology as a career to one of Helen McClanahan's English classes recently.

The counselors are also working and planning toward spring registration and they have also begun work toward state accreditation.

The Betty Crocker Search for Leadership in Family Living test was given to approximately 50 12th grade girls on Tuesday. The winner in the state will receive a scholarship.

Home economics classes will visit Valor Manufacturing Company Tuesday.

On Wednesday Bill Batchelor from the Employment Security Commission will speak with some senior English classes. Also, Judith Kuykendall, Director of Nursing at Pitt Tech Institute, will speak with a senior English class about nursing as an occupation on Thursday.

of annual General Assembly sessions will be a matter for the 1975 session to decide, but he said, "I think it has been worthwhile," but suggested the pay scale for legislators should be expanded if annual sessions are to continue. He said the added time law makers have put in, coupled with the salary range "has caused the idea to lose its vigor."

He noted, however, that annual sessions would result in more knowledgeable lawmakers and more in-depth studies on complex issues, but would be costlier.
