

Violence Flares In Truckers' Work Halt

By NICK TATRO
Associated Press Writer

Violence punctuated by gunshots, severed air hoses and missiles hurled through windshields flared today as many of the nation's truckers began a two-day work halt.

Pennsylvania and Ohio officials reported at least 10 separate shooting incidents involving rolling trucks. There were no reports of injured drivers.

Pennsylvania police said a shot fired from a passing car ripped into a truck on U.S. 322.

A state police spokesman, Lonnie Bowers, said the driver, Ivan Z. Zimmerman, 62, of New Holland, Pa., was uninjured. His engine, however, was put out of commission.

"It's definitely connected with the truck stoppage," Bowers said. "We've had a rash of incidences all over Lancaster and Cheshire counties. There have been hoses cut on trucks. In one case, they dumped 1,000 gallons of hot tar on a truck stop parking lot. Drivers have been harassed when they stop to eat."

The Ohio Highway Patrol's post at Canfield reported seven separate shooting incidents involving truckers on Interstate 76. The patrol said shotgun pellets were found imbedded in the sides of some of the trucks.

Troopers also said they were being shot at along Interstate 75 between Cincinnati and Dayton.

Meanwhile state police, toll takers and truck stop operators reported seeing fewer trucks than normal on major highways, mostly in the East and Midwest. But the stoppages were scattered and it was too early to tell how many drivers would join in the wildcat action. The two-day shutdown was called by dissident nonunion drivers who say fuel prices and lowered speed limits are eating up their paychecks.

Union drivers did not seem to be joining in the stoppages with the independents, most of whom own the trucks they drive.

The violence today was the most serious since truckers began their protests last week.

A Pennsylvania police dispatcher said some drivers pulling into truck stops for breakfast would return to their rigs and find that devices keeping their trailer attached to the tractor had been removed or rendered inoperative.

An Ohio trucker who declined to be identified said he was going along with the stoppage out of fear. "I'm not stupid enough to try and go out and run now," he said.

Early morning truck traffic was reported light on major arteries across the nation, but some truckers staged quick highway blockades, officials said.

Med School Expansion Has Legislative Study's Okay

RALEIGH (AP)—A legislative study commission recommended Wednesday expansion of the medical school at East Carolina University. The decision of the Medical Manpower Study Commission was a big victory for East Carolina University in its drive to have a four-year medical school.

The study commission unanimously approved a report calling for expansion of the ECU school from one year to two years and said it should eventually be a four-year, degree-granting institution.

The study group hurled a challenge at the University of North Carolina Board of Governors, which the General Assembly set up two years ago to run the university system free of legislative interference.

The report told the board if it is to survive it must "recognize that the University of North Carolina consists of 16 campuses, big and little."

The board's recommendations do not call for expansion of the present one-year medical school at ECU, and would leave the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill as the only degree-granting medical school in the university system.

The report also was sharply critical of the "medical establishment" for giving biased opinions about the feasibility of expanding the ECU medical school.

"I'm sure that they're in collusion with the university at Chapel Hill right now," Rep. J.P. Huskins, D-Iredell, told the commission. Huskins is a former member of the Board of Governors and drafted the commission report. At the suggestion of two commission members who are doctors, the study group deleted a paragraph which threatened that the General Assembly would take over the task of accrediting medical schools and licensing physicians in the state.

The report gave support to Area Health Centers proposed by the UNC board, but asserted the board discriminated by not placing a center at Greenville, where ECU is located. It suggested that this be done.

The report also suggested that money for expansion of Gov. Jim Holshouser's program of community health clinics not be provided until the effectiveness of present clinics can be evaluated.

The governor has promised to support the UNC board on the medical school issue.

The report stated "the costs of starting a medical school have been grossly exaggerated" and estimated ECU would need $11.5 million next year to begin its two year program and expand from 20 to 40 students per class. The plan would make use of a $7.5 million reserve fund set aside by the 1973 General Assembly for a new medical school.

Under the recommendations, the ECU school would concentrate primarily on primary care doctors and would admit only North Carolina residents.

The report proposed that state support of three private medical schools—Duke, Bowman Gray and Meharry—be left at present levels.

The commission's recommendations were based on the conclusion that the shortage of doctors is real and spending more money on existing medical schools would result in diminishing returns.

A team of consultants retained by the UNC board said the problem was not too few doctors but a maldistribution that concentrated them in urban areas.

"Telling a sick man that he can't find a doctor because of maldistribution is like telling a hungry man that there's lots of rice in China," the report stated.

White House spokesmen would not elaborate on the reason for the first meeting between the two men in six months, but it seemed clear they would take up the problem of continued fighting in Vietnam.

Kissinger is now en route to the Middle East as he continues his efforts to resolve the crisis there. While in London Wednesday, he was presented with the Nobel Peace Prize, which he won jointly with Le Duc Tho for their Vietnam peace negotiations.

Le Duc Tho refused to accept the prize, contending that peace had not been restored in Southeast Asia.

No Exulting In The East; Just Grateful

By CAROL TYER

Gratefulness rather than exultation seemed to be the feelings of key people in East Carolina's fight to expand its School of Medicine to a four-year degree-granting program.

"This report by the Medical Manpower Commission and the Health Subcommittee in favor of expanding our program here is a significant act," Dr. Wallace Woolee, Dean of the ECU Medical School, said this morning. "We're very, very grateful."

He added, "Because this is a legislative report, it will carry more weight than an ordinary report. From what I can understand, it is quite inclusive, the result of extensive interviewing and research into the needs of North Carolinians for medical service and the possibilities of improving it."

"I hope all our citizens realize what a great service this Commission and Subcommittee have rendered us at a very nominal cost. I've always said North Carolinians get much better government than they pay for. The open-mindedness of people like Rep. Jay Huskins, who headed the Manpower Commission, has put the medical situation in this state into proper perspective for the first time."

Vice Chancellor for Health Affairs Dr. Edwin Monroe said, "The people of this state are well served by the hard work that their legislators did in developing this report. We're gratified that the people, through their legislators, see clearly the need for getting more North Carolina students into the medical schools and therefore call for the expansion of the medical education activities here toward a degree-granting school. This report is a significant step in that direction." ECU Chancellor Dr. Leo Jenkins also expressed delight that "this and all important issues in the state will be determined by the people."

"I think this report reflects that our legislators are wise enough to ascertain what the people they represent want and need," he said. "It's painfully obvious that people want sufficient modern medical care that can't be brought about without more medical doctors. They want the issue decided by the General Assembly, not an agency of the General Assembly such as the Board of Governors."

"We fell it has been borne out that we at ECU did the proper thing in responding to the needs of the people, as we have."

Rep. Horton Rountree of Pitt County, a member of the Subcommittee on Health which includes the report as part of its report to the Health Committee of the General Assembly, said, "We were so pleased that it was unanimous and so realistic in going through the history of the problem. It covers the struggle from its beginning in 1965 through the eight previous studies of the problem."

"This is a positive direct approach. It is realized that the full development of a four-year degree-granting program can't be instant, that it takes time to get an adequate building and a properly qualified staff. But there was not one member of the Medical Manpower Commission or the Subcommittee on Health that did not feel that the ultimate aim should be to make the ECU School of Medicine a full M.D. granting program."

William Dees, chairman of the Board of Governors, and UNC President William Friday could not be reached for comment.

Subdivision Plats Cleared By Commission

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Greenville Planning and Zoning Commissioners approved final plats for sections four subdivisions Wednesday night and gave the go ahead to another developer to begin subdivision work.

Final plats were approved for Section II of Club Pines, Section IV of Lynndale, and Section IV of Belvedere Subdivision.

City engineer Charles Holliday reported that checklists for the Club Pines section, located south of and directly behind Belvedere on the 264 Bypass, are in order.

He reminded commissioners that the developers of the section had agreed to establish a recreational area in the development that is zoned R-9.

Holliday reported that the preliminary plat for Section IV of Lynndale was approved before the ordinance requiring recreational provisions in subdivisions went into effect. Commission member Mrs. Ruth Trevathan said that she is aware of a great deal of concern over the lack of proposed recreational areas in the section.

Chairman Louis Clark asserted that legally, since the ordinance is not retroactive, there is no way the commission can require that developers of Lynndale Section IV set aside recreational areas.

Mrs. Trevathan urged that the commission make a "strong recommendation" that the developers include an area for recreation.

The final plat for the King Tract of Lynndale, located on Memorial Drive behind the Wachovia Computer Center, involves a division of property into a tract, Holliday explained. He noted that checklists for the final approval are in order.

The city engineer pointed out that the preliminary documents for Section IV of Belvedere Subdivision were approved eight to nine years ago and the area also lacks recreational provisions since the ordinance was not in effect.

Several changes in the street patterns for the area have been made since preliminary approval was given, it was noted. The section, located behind Nichols Discount Center, involves some 57 lots.

Commissioners tabled action on a revised final plat for Greenbriar Subdivision and asked Holliday to provide a map showing existing structures on Arlington Drive from Hooker Road to Memorial Drive and provide an overall development plan for the street.

Mrs. Trevathan said that the street should be widened to 80 feet now rather than waiting. The Highway Commission proposals for Arlington Drive indicate that widening of Arlington sections to 80 feet will be necessary within 20 years.

Earl Howell said that, "I see no reason to back down from an 80-foot width all the way (Continued on page 8)

Trucks Keep Rolling On Highways Of N.C. Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The national truck stoppage scheduled to begin Thursday did not appear to have a great effect in North Carolina during the first few hours.

Truck stops reported that trucks were rolling in the state.

Waitresses said restaurant business was slow during the night, because they believed trucks had stopped up north in other states.

Highway Patrol headquarters in Raleigh said some district patrol offices reported that truck traffic was regular and others that it was lighter than usual. The patrol said there were no road blocks.

North Carolina is one of the leading trucking states, and most of its trucks are operated by companies, not independent drivers. The independents were the spearheads of the planned national stoppage to protest lowered speed limits and the increased price of diesel fuel.

Trucking company dispatchers said their rigs were rolling in the state.

Shortly after midnight, a driver at Derrick's Truck Stop four miles south of Salisbury said 40 to 50 trucks were parked there, waiting to see what others were going to do. But at 3 a.m. Derrick's said that they had left.

Bill's truck stop four miles south of Lexington said business was slow during the night, apparently because trucks had stopped up in northern states. Don Barnhardt, the early-morning manager at Bill's, said he had been asked by Cooper Motor Lines of Greenville, S.C., to halt any of their trucks pulling in. He said he understood Cooper operated company-owned trailers and driver-owned tractors.

The Road Ranger, a truck stop just outside Lexington, said business was slow during the night, apparently because trucks had stopped up north.

Simon Says — He'll Order Reduction In Bldg. Lighting

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government's energy czar, William E. Simon, announced today he will order reduced lighting in commercial and industrial buildings as soon as Congress gives him the authority to do so.

Simon also placed petroleum exports under a licensing system and told all federal agencies to get rid of their big limousines by Jan. 1.

The new fuel conservation measures were announced just one day after Simon's new Federal Energy Office proposed regulations to reduce U. S. gasoline production 5 per cent below 1972 levels, a move that would increase the actual anticipated gasoline shortage to about 25 per cent early next year.

The energy office fumbled badly in issuing that proposal, at first reporting it as a cutback seemingly five times as big as really intended.

Simon held a White House news conference this morning to announce a whole series of additional actions and proposals to cope with expected fuel shortages.

He proposed that all commercial and industrial buildings, including stores, factories and offices, be required to reduce their lighting to specific light levels considered "minimum but effective and safe."

The proposed reductions would cut lighting to roughly one-third to one-sixth of customary levels, he said.

Simon said the action, to be made mandatory once pending emergency legislation becomes law, would save some 800,000 barrels of oil daily.

Simon also proposed that major highway and freeway lighting be turned off, except at interchanges and ramps where the lighting would be cut in half.

If imposed after public comment, this action could save the energy equivalent of 15,000 barrels of oil daily, Simon said.

Simon also asked industry to set up energy-saving committees, asked commercial building managers and owners to turn off all but essential lighting during nonworking hours, and asked citizens to cut down voluntarily on their use of electric space heaters.

Simon ordered federal agencies to reduce their driving by 20 per cent in the first quarter of next year and to get rid of limousines and heavy sedans, returning those which are leased.

Simon told agencies to use compact or subcompact cars unless a larger car was absolutely necessary.

In a move to prevent excessive petroleum exports from the United States during the fuel crisis, Simon placed exports under a licensing system effective immediately.

For the time being, he announced, the system would be used to monitor exports but not to limit them.

If the exports become too large, he said, limiting action would be imposed.

Under the gasoline allocation program announced Wednesday, the average motorist may find himself even more than 25 per cent short of his usual needs, since priority users would take their deliveries before the remaining gasoline filters down to local service stations.

But in explaining the gasoline cutbacks Wednesday, the energy office kept falling over itself.

Strike Goes On

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—The strike of some 350 Carolina Trailways bus drivers continued a fourth day today with no negotiations for a new contract scheduled.

The strike halted service in five states—North Carolina, Virginia, Maryland, Delaware and Pennsylvania.

Representatives of the Amalgamated Transit Union and the company met with a federal mediator for several hours late Sunday in a futile effort to head off the walkout.

Both sides agreed that money, including salaries and fringe benefits, was the major issue. In all, 16 issues are involved.

Drivers seek a graduated pay schedule to $19, $20 and $21 per 100 miles.

Hold Hearings Here On N.C. Personnel Changes

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

North Carolina Senate's special committee on personnel practices began what was scheduled as a two-day hearing here this morning into personnel changes within the Department of Transportation in recent weeks.

Headed by Sen. Bob L. Barker, D-Wake County, the committee was scheduled to question six department of transportation personnel officers today.

Friday's session is expected to be devoted to hearing testimony from former employees.

The hearings are being held in the auditorium of East Carolina University's new Allied Health Building.

Today's hearing was the fourth one held by the Senate committee. Two hearings have been held in Raleigh. The hearing today in Greenville is the second held outside the capital city.

Walter W. Bridges of Kinston, the eastern regional personnel director, was the first person to testify today. He said since joining the department of transportation in July, there have been two transfers, nine retirements, 11 promotions within the five divisions within the region. He told the committee he had no part in recommending those persons who were dismissed or retired. He knew nothing of the action until it was taken by Department of Transportation offices in Raleigh.

Bridges said he was a Republican and that "on my own time" participated in the county and district convention and as a

Responsibility Shared By Oil Policy Officials

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Fear of political damage to the Nixon administration in an election year was one of several factors which may have contributed to the fuel shortage, Senate investigators have been told.

In a series of interviews conducted under oath, some of the government's most senior oil policy planners acknowledged that mistakes and miscalculations made over the last three years were partially responsible for the energy crisis.

The officials said warnings that American oil production was peaking and would soon start tapering off were not heeded. They said timely steps were not taken to increase imports of foreign crude oil to take up the slack.

"They gambled that there would be no shortages and that the most severe thing that would happen would be the development of a tight supply-demand situation," said LaVern F. Duffy who headed the oil shortage probe for the Senate permanent subcommittee on investigations.

Duffy's testimony was prepared for delivery to the subcommittee headed by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash.

Duffy entered into the record sections of the transcripts of several of the interviews.

In one of the interviews, William C. Truppner, director for resource analysis of OEP, acknowledged that the upcoming 1972 presidential election could have been a factor behind the agency's reluctance to change oil policy.

The interviews also indicated that only a few oil policy officials had any expertise in that field. Some officials said that as the oil situation was worsening, they were required to spend most of their time in administering the wage-price freeze program and paid little attention to oil policy.

Women Battle For Jobs In Man's World

By LORAL GRAHAM and ELAINE HANDLER
RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil (AP)—More women in Brazil are beating the "machismo" system and getting good jobs that once were considered for men only — despite the fact that this South American nation remains a strong-hold of male dominance.

It's a tough battle. Recent laws have given Brazilian women equal rights — on paper — with men. But most Brazilian men still think a woman's job is to stay home and have babies. The census shows that while women make up nearly 51 per cent of Brazil's population of 100 million, they constitute just 17 per cent of the work force.

There are no militant U.S.-style women's rights groups in Brazil. Yet it is possible now for a determined Brazilian woman to compete on an equal basis with men and succeed in a career.

Here are three examples:

In Fortaleza, capital of the northeastern Brazilian state of Ceara, you might expect to encounter a collection of tough, typically hot-blooded "macho" Latins in the police force. And you do, except at the eighth precinct. There the chief is a demure, 28-year-old blonde named Margarida Maria Borges de Carvalho. The first woman precinct chief in Ceara's history, Miss Carvalho is the boss of 31 policemen and detectives — all males.

"I believe that women will make their mark in the world in a gradual manner, without the need for organized movements," she said. "I competed for this job against 53 men. I found no discrimination based on sex. I would like to point out that when I qualified and my name came before the governor for approval, he made no special reference to the fact that I was a woman."

"It's difficult to be the first anything. But government officials, the press and the people here in general have been behind me all the way," she said.

Miss Carvalho graduated from Ceara Federal University's Law School and then enrolled in the state Police School. She was a top student and wound up as state pistol shooting champion.

"I think I have the same chance for advancement on the police force as a man," she said. "And in this department there is no salary discrimination between men and women."

Jenny SauerDias, 55, is market research and industrial relations director of Sauer S.A., one of South America's largest gear factories. It wasn't until four years ago, when her father who founded the company died, that she had the nerve to defy the traditional view that a Brazilian woman's place is in the home.

"I was determined to take an active role," Mrs. Dias said. "I told myself I wasn't going to be relegated to the back seat because I was a woman."

She took an intensive university-level course in marketing and then strode boldly into the gear factory to take up her position.

"The idea of a woman taking charge offended my brothers' male vanity," she said. "When I started work, none of them would teach me the ropes. So I learned the hard way — by myself."

Determined to be taken seriously as a full-time executive, Mrs. Dias won the respect and authority that go with her present position inch by inch. Her husband, a physician, and six children, realize she needs a lot of freedom, she said.

Maria Stella Lopes Rodrigues, 41, is one of 175 judges in the Brazilian state of Guanabara, which encompasses the city of Rio. Only four of her colleagues on the bench are women.

"Many well meaning people tried to discourage me from this career," she said. "They said I would never be able to gain respect or authority. But I've been a judge since 1960, and there haven't been any problems so far due to the fact that I'm a woman."

Mrs. Rodrigues, a law school graduate and author of a standard two-volume legal textbook used at universities throughout Brazil, was the first woman ever to serve on the Guanabara Juvenile Court—a position she held for eight years before moving to the state Civil Court.

As a juvenile court officer, she once broke up a rebellion at a tough Rio reform school to the amazement of male wardens and guards who thought the situation was out of control.

"I went in alone and quietly talked to the boys about their complaints," she said. "I was just doing my job."

When she finished high school, Mrs. Rodrigues said her father gave her a ring to symbolize the end of her education. There was a family battle when she decided to go on to college and graduate school. She met her husband when he was a juvenile court commissioner, one of her subordinates.

Mrs. Rodrigues added that when she got married she warned her husband she was not going to give up her career and turn into a housewife. "I'm useless in the kitchen," she grinned. "The only things I can make are salads and gelatine."

"Now my husband, he loves to cook."

DEAR ABBY: Last year my husband and I had seven carefully selected Christmas gifts beautifully and individually wrapped, placed in one large box, and shipped to our daughter's home [out of state] to be placed under their tree. They were for our daughter, her husband, their four children, and my son in law's mother who lives with them. We received one thank you note from our daughter saying: "We ALL thank you for the lovely gifts."

Abby, all her children can write, and so can her husband and his mother. Just one short line scribbled at the bottom of her letter ["Thanks for the camera," or "The perfume was nice."] would have sufficed.

We have had it with ingrates who don't even bother to say thank you. This Christmas we shall place ONE long distance phone call to their home and wish them all a merry Christmas. Then my husband and I shall drive downtown and drop $100 in the Salvation Army pot for people who need and appreciate a little remembrance at Christmastime.

TIRED OF INGRATES

DEAR TIRED: Too bad you had to have a bad experience with the greedy to motivate your giving to the needy.

DEAR ABBY: Is there any rule about how long a person is supposed to keep his wedding picture out on display?

My husband and I have been married for two years, and I have a picture of us cutting our wedding cake sitting on the mantle. It's a beautiful colored photograph in a lovely frame, and I enjoy looking at it.

A guest in our home noticed it the other day, and said in a rather ridiculing tone: "Don't tell me you still have your wedding picture out!"

I felt a little hurt and somewhat embarrassed. Please tell me honestly if you think it's in bad taste.

STILL A BRIDE IN NASHVILLE

DEAR STILL: The only "bad taste" I see in this situation is on the part of your guest who made the comment. Keep the picture out as long as you enjoy looking at it. And may it sit there for another 50 years.

States Should Share In Revenue

We don't favor that super tax on gasoline as a way of controlling the amount of gas used in this nation.

If it comes, however, we should make certain that a portion of the tax allotted to the states to make up for the decrease in consumption that is expected to follow.

It was reported recently that any method of decreasing gas usage would decrease states' revenues, since the gas tax is a major source of revenue for every state.

That could mean that if there is rationing and no federal tax increase, the states might on their own have to raise their taxes on gas just to make up for the lost revenue.

If it is decided that a high tax is to be placed on gas to discourage usage, revenues could also drop for the states and additional state taxes would be needed on top of the federal tax. While we take a dim view of the extra tax approach to controlling gas usage, we would certainly think that the states should share in revenues raised in this manner, if this is the approach that is used.

The announcement almost certainly means there will be a "Rocky for President" campaign in 1976. It is likely that the 65-year-old Republican leader will make a strong try for the party presidential nomination.

Annual Session Showdown Seen

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—There is growing sentiment in the General Assembly for a short session in 1974, and action to make sure the body returns to meeting every two years.

The 1974 session beginning January 16 is a continuation of the 1973 session, since the state Constitution calls for biennial sessions but allows each assembly to hold a continuation session if it desires.

The coming session will be the first such annual meeting, but many legislators fear the trend is toward this becoming a regular thing.

"But one of the principal things I'm coming back to Raleigh to do in 1974 is put a stop to annual meetings," Sen. H. Edward Knox of Charlotte said.

"There is a growing sentiment against annual meetings, and I think there is plenty of support in the Senate to kill this thing. I feel that the General Assembly and the public of North Carolina are opposed to annual meetings. The only ones apparently fighting for it are newspaper editorial writers," Knox said.

Senators Opposed

He ticked off what he calls a growing list of names of state senators who join him in opposing annual sessions and ready to vote.

There is apparently widespread public sentiment as well. In recent meetings of a citizens committee studying the question of legislative pay, representatives of a number of professional associations reported surveys of members which showed overwhelming lack of enthusiasm for annual meetings.

Knox said there were a "limited few legislators" in the 1973 session who felt like the move to annual meetings ought to be resisted. But without some experience in annual meetings, there was no real ammunition to fight the idea with, he said.

One of Knox's concerns is the amount of money he says it is costing him personally to serve in the General Assembly. Most legislators are assigned to several interim committees which have been holding meetings or public hearings during the summer. Additional time will be required for the full session opening in January.

Knox concedes that he is losing money as an attorney, and that many other legislators say they are, too. Some have already said they will be forced out of the legislature if annual sessions continue.

But above that personal concern, Knox said, is his concern for good government in North Carolina. His philosophy is that the less government required and the more people can govern themselves, the better it is.

"But with these fulltime sessions underway, we are perpetuating the General Assembly of North Carolina into a fulltime government—a little Washington. And I don't think anybody wants that," Knox said.

Higher Pay
"And of course a legislator required to spend that much time at his duties will have to be paid commensurate with his work—and that will mean hefty pay increases."

That direction, Knox fears, will provide a possible monetary motivation to run for the General Assembly for some people.

Knox admits that the present citizens assembly concept "does tend to put people into office who are largely in the higher income brackets, but on balance we have an array of talent and interests which are representative of North Carolina," he said.

Knox feels service in the legislature is akin to jury duty or to serving on the variety of local state boards and commissions whose members receive little more than expenses. "They serve for the good that can come from that, not for the money," he said.

The requirements of annual meetings go beyond the legislator's time. Annual budgets are a part of the problem, and Knox said a number of state administrators are spending a lot of time preparing annual budgets rather than running the various programs or planning ahead.

Also, the bureaucratic tendency is to try to spend up all the money on hand before a new budget time rolls around, and the annual sessions, makes that rush twice as burdensome.

Simple politics make up another area of concern in Knox's mind.

The 1974 session will begin in mid-January and run on into April or possibly May. But legislative leaders are determined to have the session finished before the statewide primary tentatively set for May 7.

Run For Election

Those legislators running for re-election will begin politicking and using the session as a forum, many legislators say.

"As you get closer to May, there'll be more speeches from the floor and press conferences than you've ever seen before," Knox said.

Meanwhile, the citizens' committee chaired by former Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor is preparing a report which will add ammunition in the fight against annual sessions.

Consensus of that group has (Continued on page 5)

SOMETHING HE SHOULD PONDER IN HIS TENT!

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

The Disenchanted People

WASHINGTON—Several months ago, the Senate subcommittee retained the Louis Harris Associates to make a massive study addressed to this question: How do the American people perceive their government. Last week the answers were in: The people perceive their government poorly.

Their disenchantment extends not only to government, but to other institutions also. By a substantial margin, the people believe the whole "quality of life" in America has decreased in the past 10 years. Their sense of alienation gets worse, not better.

For any person interested in public affairs, this Harris survey has to rank as most reading. It is not pleasant reading. Those who have responsibilities in government, in education, and in the media will read this report in dismay. At the White House they will read it in shock.

The study provides a crushing verdict on the damage done by Watergate. Asked to express an opinion on 22 American institutions, the people ranked the White House dead last: Only 18 percent of the respondents voiced a "great deal of confidence" in the President. Their disenchantment reached to the federal government generally: More than half the people—57 percent—said they have less confidence in federal agencies today than they had five years ago.

The Harris pollsters have been measuring these attitudes for some years. Their findings must be accepted as reasonably accurate reflections of opinions that are widely held. Seven years ago, only 26 percent of the respondents agreed with the test statement that "people running the country don't really care what happens to you." Today that figure has soared to 55 percent. Seven years ago fewer than half the people (45 percent) accepted the cynical observation that "The rich get richer and the poor get poorer." Now that belief is voiced by 76 percent.

Compared to 1966, three times as many Americans now feel "left out of things going on around you." Among the most distressing aspects of the survey is the disclosure that millions of adult Americans know little about the people and the institutions that make up our government. While nine out of 10 respondents could name their state governor, only 59 percent could name one of their U. S. senators and only 39 percent could name both. Astonishingly, only 62 percent knew that Congress is composed of (Continued on page 5)

Other Editors Say 'Deeply Wrong'

(Christian Science Monitor)

If the charges of corruption in President Nixon's Washington did not command the spotlight, charges of corruption in Mayor Daley's Chicago would be attracting more attention.

In Democratically controlled Chicago, a federal investigation is proceeding under a Republican, United States attorney James R. Thompson. And another Republican, state's attorney Bernard Carey, has been trying but failing to get a special grand jury empaneled in the face of judicial opposition.

As the reasons for a special grand jury investigation, Mr. Carey offers a range of possible culpability involving city insurance contracts state campaign contributions, county leases, police corruption, election fraud.

More than 30 Chicago policemen have already been convicted on bribery and extortion charges. Three have been indicted for brutality. Witnesses have described a police shakedown operation going back at least five years. The chief of traffic was convicted of extortion. The police superintendent recently resigned as the scandals escalated.

Despite the magnetic pull of the Watergate spectacle, attention should be paid to those uncovering wrongdoing in Chicago and elsewhere. America's institutions must be seen to have integrity at all levels if the American public's confidence in them is to be restored.

This confidence, according to a Harris survey conducted for a Senate subcommittee, has seriously declined. A majority of Americans, 53 percent, agreed that "there is something deeply wrong in America." Of the major institutions surveyed, only television news and press were given increased votes of confidence since 1966. But all institutions, with the exception of the executive branch of federal government, showed at least a slight regaining of confidence since 1972.

Even this small move upward provides something to build on. With a spread of the nation's new reforming impulse to all institutions, a feeling of "something deeply wrong" in America can fade to disclose what is still deeply right.

A Paper Shortage Is For Real

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—If you are a businessman with a room full of files or a homemaker with a house to keep in order you might find it hard to believe but, yes, there is a paper shortage.

This one isn't so much the result of inadequate production—although there is that aspect to the shortage—but of the seemingly insatiable appetite of the economic system for newsprint and printing paper and paperboard and paperbags and tissue.

Last year that hunger resulted in between 63 million and 64 million tons being consumed. This year's consumption has been at the rate of between 67 million and 68 million tons, or about 640 pounds per person.

Looking into the immediate future, analysts foresee little or no letup in demand. In fact, some industry officials believe that by 1975 the country will need eight million tons of paper but that capacity will grow by only half that.

One of the ironies of the problems is that this demand grows in spite of dedicated efforts to reduce man's reliance on paper. In some industries the battle may be considered critical.

The banking system, for example, feels as if it sits beneath a constant shower of confetti in the form of 23 billion checks a year that descend upon its clearing facilities. Bankers everywhere agree that it can't keep up.

Now being developed are systems to record transactions through the use of electronic system that add to or deduct from your account without the medium of the check.

In the securities industry, to cite another example, the inadequacies of paper stock certificates, beautiful as they are, was made obvious by the big increase in transactions during the 1960s.

Unable to transfer certificates quickly, some brokers merely let them pile up in back offices, almost bringing down the entire industry. The confusion hardly can be exaggerated.

But try as he does, man has been unable to dig out from under the pile.

The electronic computer was supposed to help, but few businessmen or academicians or customers are willing to take the computer's word that it has all the information tucked away in its memory. No, they want a printout.

Technology, rather than easing the situation, seems in fact to be creating more problems, as can be attested to by anyone who has ever watched a highspeed electronic copier at work.

Every now and then Uncle Sam makes an effort to reduce paper demands such as by attempting to simplify the income tax form. But then there develops this business of wage and price controls—and consumption rises.

Unforeseen developments, such as Watergate, add to the appetite for news, and that

Giving Nixon Power

By WALTER R. MEARS

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—While Congress seeks to prune White House powers born of past crises, it is voting President Nixon new emergency authority to deal with the energy shortage.

The dilemma is familiar: on one hand, the need for quick action to deal with an urgent national problem, and on the other, the desire of some legislators to guard what they consider congressional prerogatives.

When the pressure mounts, the tendency has been to delegate authority and look to the White House for action. Energy is no exception, although there is provision for congressional control over some aspects of emergency action.

Final terms of emergency energy legislation remain to be settled between House and Senate. The bill will include authority for full-scale gasoline rationing and fuel conservation measures. The House version would require congressional approval of specific administration proposals for restrictions on fuel consumption.

The Senate already has passed its bill; the House continues action on its version today.

There have been complaints in both Senate and House that emergency legislation would delegate extraordinary, unprecedented, dangerous, even (Continued on page 5)

Citizens are urged to buy their automobile license plates now to help the city meet its obligations, according to Mayor R. C. Flanagan.

Tags went on sale the first of the month and all car owners must buy before January 1 if they hope to drive their cars without trouble from the police.

Licenses are being sold at the City Hall this year instead of through the N. C. Automobile Association as was the case last year. Numbers of the new tags have already appeared on cars, but the sales are not going quickly.

Sales were comparatively light on the local tobacco market today, although heavier offerings were expected Thursday and Friday in view of the fact that the market closes for the Christmas holidays when sales end Friday.

The sales for the market yesterday were 1,016,000 pounds of leaf for $166,249.93 at an average of $16.36 per hundred pounds.

Postmaster H. R. Munford urges early mailing of Christmas cards and packages this year. He said the rush has already begun on mailings and should reach a peak close to Christmas.

Authority Over Spending Dims

By R. GREGORY NOKES

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The Nixon administration's losing courtroom battle on the impoundment issue could cost the President much of the authority he claims over federal spending, one key source says.

No case has reached the Supreme Court for a final determination of the legality of impoundment, but virtually all of about 65 lower court decisions have been against the administration.

In the latest decision, a U.S. district judge in Washington ordered the administration to turn over $15 million in impounded funds earmarked for the improvement of state departments of education.

The people are unaware of the real issues behind impoundment, in part because the press incorrectly portrays the issue as a political controversy between the President and Congress, the source said.

"Because we can't get our message across, we have come to the belief that the administration view is not going to prevail and the power over spending is going to Congress," said the highly placed source at the Office of Management and Budget (OMB), who did not want to be quoted by name.

He said some funds impounded by the President from past congressional appropriations may be included in the new budget for the 1975 fiscal year. However, he cautioned that final decisions have not been made.

Estimates of the amount of money impounded by the administration for fiscal 1973 ranged from $7.4 billion to $14.5 billion, depending on the definition of impoundment that is used.

The OMB's own definition is that impoundment "really means the executive is holding back some money that it was the intention of Congress not to hold back on," a source said.

The issue that the American people do not understand, he added, is whether the administration should spend all the money Congress says it should spend, no matter how poorly conceived the project is and regardless of whether sufficient funds are on hand.

President Nixon has impounded funds on grounds there isn't sufficient money to pay for all the projects Congress has voted. For authority, he has cited his responsibility under the Constitution to faithfully execute the laws.

But the source acknowledged that, since members of Congress are the elected representatives of the people, there is a question whether the President should refuse to spend what they want spent.

Public Forum

To the editor:

I, a 20-year-old citizen concerned about the political future of our country, believe that the time has come that we the People should instrument a new light in politics.

This new light should darken the light now shining which radiates the value that money buys passage in the political system. This new light can be brought about if we the People demand that a certain limit be put to campaign spending. If the government can limit our energy consumption then I believe that system will allow the people of that government to limit the amount spent by candidates for representation of them. Unless action is taken, not apathy, we are destined for political destruction by the element of money.

Strength For Today

THE NEW EDITION

After the death of Benjamin Franklin there was found among his papers an epitaph which unhappily was never placed on his tomb: "The Body of B. Franklin, Printer, Like the Cover of an Old Book, Its Contents Torn Out, and Stript of its Lettering and Gilding, Lies Here, Food for Worms. But the Work Shall Not Be Lost; for It Will, as He Believed, Appear in a New and More Elegant Edition, Revised and Corrected, by the Author."

That "New and Elegant Edition" lies at the center of the Christian's hope. And we have this hope not just because every man wants it, but because all revealed religion encourages us to believe in life after death. We may look forward to such a consummation of our lives.

Faith leads to commitment and commitment to trust and trust to good living, and all these to eternal life—to that "New and More Elegant Edition" about which Benjamin Franklin wrote.

By Elisha Douglass

Kilpatrick . . .

(Continued from page 4) the Senate and the House. One fifth of them—one fifth!—had the foggy notion that Congress includes the U. S. Supreme Court as well.

What emerges from this disturbing survey, among other things, is the urgent need for better communications between government agencies and the people they serve. Only 40 percent of the people feel reasonably up to date on what is going on in federal and local government. Perhaps as a consequence, they regard government at every level with increasing mistrust.

Public officials themselves, who also were sampled by the Harris survey in a companion study, are convinced that they are doing a steadily better job. They know, as best they can know these things, that the quality of public servant in state and local government is better than it was some years ago. They are mystified that the people do not perceive the improvements around them.

How can confidence be restored? Some entirely new forms of education, communication, and public relations may have to be developed. Public officials tend to communicate through the media, by mail, by individual conversations, by giving speeches, even by going to funerals. Plainly this isn't enough. If three quarters of the people feel they don't know what's going on in state government, someone in state government—and some of us in the media—are doing an inadequate job.

I offer no easy answers. The loss of confidence is so deep and so pervasive, that only a sustained and dedicated effort will reverse the trend. Such an effort will have to be made across the board—in business and industry, in the media, in the churches, in our institutions of higher learning, in organized labor, in every significant part of society.

Such an effort, properly mounted, would not fail. As the Harris survey makes clear, the people still have hope; overwhelmingly they believe that government "can" solve the problems that afflict us. The disenchantment is not irreversible. But hope is a tender flower, needing constant care, and this hope has gone untended far too long.

Fuel Allocation

(Continued from Page 1) But in explaining the latest government move to counter the nation's energy crisis, the agency charged with overseeing energy matters kept falling over itself.

At first the new office gave the public the right impression of the shortage by issuing the wrong figures; 10 hours later it revealed the right figures, but created the wrong impression.

Finally, more than 12 hours later, energy officials managed to make both the production cutback and the extent of the expected shortage clear.

The gasoline cutback was only one major aspect of a wide-ranging proposal to control petroleum distribution from refineries down to gasoline service stations and, for fuel oils, all the way down to final consumers in a form of rationing without coupons.

Only gasoline would remain without a consumer rationing system, pending a final decision by the end of this month. But even gasoline would be allocated on a priority basis to important users who purchase readily-controlled bulk orders.

Although the allocation regulations are to take effect Dec. 27, following review of public comment, it appeared likely some changes would be made before they become final.

The energy office, rushing to issue its proposal on Wednesday, its legal deadline, threw the whole question of gasoline supplies into utter confusion by handing out a badly mixed-up version of its 134-page regulation.

At three separate points in the text issued to newsmen Wednesday morning, the regulation proposed that gasoline production be limited to 75 per cent of the 1972 levels, apparently imposing a far greater cutback than previously anticipated.

At about the same time, energy office staff members discovered the 75 per cent figure was wrong. It should have been 95 per cent.

Staff members later explained to a newsmen that they caught the error in time to keep it from official publication in the Federal Register.

But then everybody involved dropped the whole matter, leaving other agency staffers, the agency's official spokesmen, Washington newsmen, and millions of Americans believing a 25 per cent cut of gasoline production was on the way.

In the long run, that was the effect the action would have. But for the wrong reasons.

Here's how the situation came to public attention: Late in the day Wednesday, New York Times reporter Ed Cowan, interviewing an energy office official about the regulations, was casually informed that the 75 per cent figure was wrong and that 95 per cent was right.

Cowan's story on the Times' News Service eventually led to an Associated Press inquiry to the energy office's surprised press spokesmen, who checked and confirmed the corrected version.

Energy chief William E. Simon said it was "a silly error." The new story put out by the agency was that gasoline production would be cut only five per cent below 1972 levels. But anybody who breathed a sigh of relief at a gasoline shortage that appeared to have shrunk was in for still another surprise.

Near midnight, John Sawhill, deputy director of the energy office, explained in answer to questions from The AP that the five per cent production cut would really mean a 25 per cent gasoline shortage.

How so? The cut in U.S. gasoline production, designed to increase production of other petroleum products, would take about 700,000 barrels of gasoline per day out of the market.

But another 700,000 barrels of gasoline daily already was missing because the Arab nations had cut petroleum deliveries to countries friendly to Israel, indirectly shutting off imports of finished gasoline to the United States as well.

The result, Sawhill said, was that the nation would end with a daily shortage in early 1974 of about 1.4 million barrels of gasoline. Combined with increased demand, that would amount to production some 25 per cent short of anticipated needs.

As they now stand, the proposed regulations would require homes and schools which heat with fuel oil to reduce their heating six degrees below last winter's levels; offices and other buildings would have to cut heating 10 degrees.

Airlines would take a 15 per cent fuel cut in January, forcing them to drop more flights from their schedules. Electrical power plants would have lowest priority on the heavy fuel oils known as "residual oils," believed in critically short supply, and any substantial shortage could bring on brownouts or blackouts.

In most petroleum fuels, certain categories of users would be given priority to get all the fuel they need or at least a large portion of it before others are served.

The details vary from fuel to fuel, but in general the approach involves assigning top priority to such essential activities as agricultural production, public transportation, medical and nursing services, emergency services, and fuel production itself.

High priority would also be assigned to industrial and business activities, to protect jobs and the economy. In gasoline allocation, retail service stations would rank at the bottom of the priority heap, entitled only to whatever is available after priority users have been served.

Meanwhile President Nixon is seeking to speed up the timetable for research to make the country self-sufficient in energy, according to Republican congressional leaders.

House GOP Leader John J. Rhodes and Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott said the President agreed that accelerated spending on research is necessary even if it means budget deficits.

Rhodes said one possibility is spending the planned $10 billion in research funds within three years, rather than between now and 1980.

And Scott said it is possible even more money will be sought. The President has set 1980 as a goal for making the country self-sufficient in meeting its energy needs.

On the economic front, economist Walter W. Heller has forecast a cutback of $25 billion to $30 billion in the U.S. gross national product next year because of the energy shortage.

Heller said the energy problems could lead to a no growth situation next year, and he said he expected a material worsening of unemployment and the rate of inflation.

A former chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers under Presidents John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson, Heller spoke to a House-Senate Economic Committee.

Subdivision . . .

through." The revised final plat for Greenbriar called for dedication of a 60-foot street section rather than a 50-foot wide section as it now stands.

A preliminary plat for River Hills Subdivision, to be developed by Larry Whitlow, was discussed and approved subject to recreational footage provided by the developer meeting ordinance requirements.

The preliminary plat includes only the area approved for residential zoning since the City Council is studying a request by Whitlow that highway frontage for the subdivision be rezoned Highway Commercial. The proposed subdivision is located on the Washington Highway.

Last night's plat approval allows Whitlow to begin development work in the area, including installation of curbs and gutters.

A request by Bruce Hudson of 201 Adams Drive for rezoning of Lot No. 2 in the Adams Subdivision, located south of Greenville Boulevard, from R-9 to Highway Commercial was denied. Hudson said that he would construct a television shop on the tract.

Al Wyatt, a property owner in the area, said that he thinks rezoning the property is "the wrong thing to do." He contended that the area is "strictly residential" and the proposed area is surrounded by residential usage.

Another property owner in the subdivision said that he was opposed to the rezoning of the lot for commercial use because it would hurt the value of homes in the area.

Roy Beck of the Pitt office of the U. S. Soil Conservation Service was on hand for the meeting and offered the assistance of the office in preparing soil maps for the city and outlying areas. Beck said that federal money has been granted for use in assisting city and county planning boards in the preparation of land use documents, soil surveys, map overlays and other materials.

He pointed out that use of the materials will help the boards pinpoint problem areas when considering new streets, light industry, and housing and recreational areas.

In most cases, Beck explained, cities have been asked to participate in the funding of such projects but the Pitt office has received a grant that requires no matching assistance. Commissioners agreed that the potential services should be fully utilized.

Torture Slaying Goes To Jurors

DELAND, Fla. (AP)—The first-degree murder case of Kenneth Francis, charged in the torture slaying of a California teen-ager, was expected to go to a Volusia County jury today.

Circuit Judge Uriel Blount said he expected the trial to be completed today following testimony from final defense witnesses.

Francis, 17, testified in his own behalf Wednesday and denied police claims that he struck the final blow in the April 27 clubbing death of Cochran, 17, of Fresno. Police said

Cochran was bludgeoned with a pine log.

Francis admitted he tried to stab Cochran with a broken bottle as other youths beat and kicked Cochran in a Daytona Beach rooming house during what police called a Satanic ceremony. Francis denied charges that he burned Cochran with cigarettes and stuck needles under his fingernails during the alleged ceremony.

"No, no. I'd never do a thing like that or let anyone else do it," said Francis.

He admitted that he had sworn to "get rid of him (Cochran) as soon as possible" when he and Cochran were at the former Green Valley school for disturbed children. But Francis said he did not mean by the comment that Cochran should be killed.

Will Return Rupees

NEW DELHI (AP)—The United States agreed today to give India back $2.2 billion worth of Indian currency that has marred relations between the two and threatened to disrupt the Indian economy.

About $3.2 billion in rupees has gathered in the Reserve Bank of India as the government repaid U.S. aid loans faster than it and the United States could agree on local development projects on which to spend the money.

Under the settlement reached after six months of negotiations, the United States will keep about $1 billion worth of rupees and will give the Indian government $2.2 billion for use in its new five-year economic development plan.

U.S. Ambassador Daniel P. Moynihan, who negotiated the solution, said certain provisions of the loan agreements required the United States to retain the billion. Most of this money will be used to run the U.S. diplomatic missions in India. At the current spending rate, it will last until about 1990.

More Poisoning From Gasoline

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP)—Cleveland's Poison Information Center has reported another side effect of the fuel shortage.

More people are reporting gasoline poisonings from siphoning fuel, the center said Wednesday.

It said most gasoline poisoning reports usually come in the summer months, when people are trying to keep power mower fuel tanks full.

But the center said it got 11 gasoline poisoning reports last month, compared with two for November 1972, and has nine already this month, all nonfatal. The high so far this year was 23 in June.

Francis' father, M. Sgt. Paul D. Francis of Pope Air Force Base in North Carolina, testified his son had had mental problems since the first grade, and was unable to adapt to public school classes.

Francis is the second person to be tried in Cochran's death. David Hester, 17, of Greenville, S.C., was convicted in October and given a life sentence.

Hester, described by police as the cult's leader, denied killing Cochran during his trial and blamed it on Francis. Police said Cochran was killed because he boasted he was a police informer.

Hearings . . .

(Continued From Page 1) delegate to the state GOP convention. Bridges said he had met those who had been retired and he assumed the action taken by the Raleigh office was because they were unqualified or inefficient.

Elston H. Stevens of Fayetteville, division six personnel officer, said there had been one dismissal and two retirements in his division. He told the Senate investigators "I concurred . . . very definitely" with the one dismissal. He said he did not know if the individual dismissed was told why he was fired, but said the personnel file indicated it was "in the best interest of the state highway department."

Sen. Barker told Stevens that a Clyde R. Williams had testified in Raleigh that he had been dismissed from the Department of Transportation as a result of a run-in with a Mr. Stevens in some years past. However, Stevens denied ever having any problem with Williams.

In fact, Stevens said his relationship with Williams had been "cordial."

Ayden Mayor And Board Sworn

AYDEN—The newly-elected Ayden mayor and town board of commissioners were sworn in Monday night prior to the monthly board meeting.

Mayor Ross Persinger and Commissioners Carl Speight, Robert Harris, J. Elliott Dixon, J. J. Brown and Harry Mumford were sworn in by Chief Judge J. W. H. Roberts of the Third Judicial District.

Following the swearing-in ceremonies, the board elected J. J. Brown to serve as mayor pro-tem. Brown, the first black to serve in this capacity, has been a member of the Ayden board of commissioners since 1968.

Brown retired in 1972 after 35 years in the teaching profession. He is married to the former Roberta Lassiter of Selma and they have three children.

In other action, the board set Jan 14 as the date for a public hearing to discuss amending Section 10 of the Zoning Ordinance by adding special uses. The action came after the Planning Board requested that the ordinance be amended to allow self-service stations to be unattended in the B-1 and B-2 zones by special use permits.

R. E. Roberson was appointed to the Planning Board to fill the expired term of Les Short, who resigned from the board recently.

Robert Harris agreed to serve on the Sanitation Committee.

Roberson reported on the beautification project planned for Lee Street from the Seafood

Market to H & H Super Market. Recommendations include that power lines not be placed underground; new street lighting with aluminum poles; Japanese cherry trees to be planted along the street; and $300 be appropriated for the purchasing of additional nursery stock to be planted on town property for beautification projects. The recommendations were approved by the board. Board members agreed to pay Christmas bonuses to town employees. Board members set Jan. 14 as the date for a public hearing to discuss rezoning of property located on West Third Street so that a super market could be built on the property.

Town Manager Don Russell explained that only one bid had been received for the project to replace the sidewalk on Lee Street.

Firemen Unable Get Gasoline

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP)—The chief of a volunteer fire department has complained to the Governor's Energy Panel that his department was unable to get gasoline for weekend emergency calls recently.

Chief James Norris of the Half Moon Volunteer Fire Department, told the state agency that two trucks ran out of fuel and a third had only half a tank after answering several calls Sunday. Norris said requests to the state Highway Patrol for help were futile, but that gasoline was obtained eventually from a private dealer.

A member of the Energy Panel staff, Eugene H. Curtis Jr. said the allocation problem apparently resulted from a misunderstanding of directives.

Attends Durham Conference

Ann Harrison, chairman of exceptional children with the Greenville City Schools, is attending a conference at Quail Roost Conference Center, Durham, today through Saturday.

She is one of 20 educators and laymen meeting to examine barriers to educational planning for culturally different-disadvantaged gifted students.

Sponsored by the Division for Exceptional Children, State Department of Public Instruction, the meeting will focus on identification, issues and needs, personnel, and staff development in educating these gifted children.

New Bus Schedule By Seashore Line

Bus travelers, especially home-bound college students, will be able to make connections for northern points as a result of a new schedule being implemented by Seashore Transportation Co.

According to R. W. Minton, manager of the local bus terminal, Seashore currently runs a bus from Morehead City to Rocky Mount with a 6:35 p.m. stop in Greenville. Beginning Friday, Seashore will continue the trip to Norlina in Warren County where travelers may make connections for cities up north via Greyhound buses.

Minton said that the service will allow prospective travelers, including students who will leave tomorrow for Christmas vacations, to make connections in spite of the Carolina Trailways strike. He added that persons can also make connections for other cities in the state at Norlina if they choose.

The manager noted that Seashore will continue the schedule on through the strike period and possibly add other buses to the schedule according to demand. The 6:35 p.m. bus will come back through Greenville at 1:30 a.m. the following morning, he explained, as well as a regularly scheduled 3:15 a.m. bus from Rocky Mount that continues to New Bern and Morehead City.

Minton said that the planned to be at the local terminal from 3 p.m. until 6:35 p.m. today to handle calls and he will arrange an operating schedule for the terminal according to traveler demand.

No Charges In Early Accident

No charges were made following investigation of a 4:52 a.m. collision here today.

Police reported a car driven by Johnny Ray Moore of Grimesland collided with a utility pole at the intersection of Fifth and Tyson Streets.

Others, who reported Moore was injured in the crash, estimated damage to the car at $1,100. No damage resulted to the pole.

Tax Board Rules Against Raising Nixon Appraisal

SANTA ANA, Calif. (AP)—The Orange County Tax Assessment Appeals Board has ruled against raising the assessment of President Nixon's San Clemente estate.

The board voted 2-1 Wednesday to uphold the current assessment of $1.37 million. But County Supervisor Robert Batin says he'll appeal the decision.

Howard Childs, a consultant who appraised the estate for the state Board of Equalization, had testified the property was worth $1.5 million, the same amount Nixon paid for the property.

Mad Bomber Of N.Y. City Is Being Released

By JOHN MULLIGAN
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — After nearly 17 years in mental institutions, the Mad Bomber of a generation ago stands on the threshold of freedom.

The last criminal charges remaining against George Metesky for the planting of homemade bombs in such public places as the Radio City Music Hall were dismissed Wednesday in a Manhattan court.

Full freedom will be his upon his formal discharge from a state hospital in Queens, expected in a matter of days. He already has been certified as having regained his sanity.

When Metesky, now 70, was sent to a state hospital on April 19, 1957, it was ostensibly to die. Doctors said his days were numbered by an advanced case of tuberculosis. Now he says he is cured and his health is "better than it's been in nearly 40 years."

"Mr. Metesky, 16 years ago you caused a great deal of turmoil in this city," Judge Joseph Martinis said Wednesday as he dismissed all remaining charges. "I remember distinctly a lot of sleepless nights because of these incidents. I expect there will be no repetition."

The grandfatherly-looking man who terrorized the nation's largest city over a 17-year period nodded assent. Metesky said he plans to return to the Waterbury, Conn., home of an elder sister where he was living when he was arrested Jan. 21, 1957.

Metesky became eligible for freedom with the completion of 16 years and eight months in custody, or two-thirds of the maximum sentence he could have received for attempted murder. The first step to freedom was a hearing in which he was adjudged to have regained his sanity. Then all pending charges against him were dropped.

In 1935, when he was 32, Metesky's lungs were seared when a boiler backfired in a Queens power plant where he worked. He contracted tuberculosis, and said it made him unfit to hold another job. He claimed he eventually was denied compensation, despite years of efforts to obtain it.

Metesky eventually turned to planting homemade bombs, 32 in all. The first was discovered Nov. 18, 1940. No one ever was killed by the explosives although 22 were injured over the next 17 years.

Besides the Music Hall, Metesky's targets included the utility where he had worked, the old Paramount and Capitol theaters in Times Square, the New York Public Library, Grand Central terminal and the Port Authority bus terminal.

Eventually, Metesky was traced to and captured at the Waterbury home of his sister. Adjudged insane, he was committed to a state hospital without ever standing trial.

After he was sent away, Metesky's claim for state workmen's compensation was reopened. It eventually was turned down.

Finally Gets A Big Rock

CLOVER, S.C. (AP)—Mrs. Lena Stewart got as a Christmas present from her daughter Wednesday something she had always wanted, a big rock for her front yard—30 tons, 6 feet high, 10 feet wide and 17 feet long.

It dwarfed a delighted Mrs. Stewart as she stood beside it after a lowboy truck had brought it from a field 10 miles away and a bulldozer had shoved it into place.

The daughter, Mrs. Josephine Mills, said she got the rock for nothing, but would not say how much it cost her to move it.

She said a "pebble," another rock about one-third the size, had rested beside it back in the field. And she will have it also moved to her mother's front yard because "I want the rock to be natural."

"Mama's always wanted a big rock. She'd be riding along, see one out the window, and say how she wished she had it out front."

Gasoline Seeing 'Old Squeeze Play'

By JIM BRIGANCE
Associated Press Writer
LONGVIEW, Tex. (AP)—
Bill Shore's wholesale gasoline company supplies gas to 30 service stations around Kilgore, Tex. Two of those stations are closed now because Shore Oil Products Co. did not have gas to sell them.

About 50 farmers around Big Sandy, Tex., run their machinery on gasoline purchased from another independent wholesaler, U. E. Davis. But Davis is running out of gas now. "You tell me what those farmers are going to do?" he asks.

Shore and Davis are middlemen in the oil business: independent wholesalers who buy from refineries and sell to large users. Like thousands of independent wholesalers around the country, they are in a bind these days and farms, gas stations, industrial plants and school districts are in trouble because of it.

The wholesalers are getting less gas from refineries and paying more for it. They say the situation was contrived to drive them out of business and generate windfall profits for refinery operators selling to new customers with big money to spend for dwindling gasoline supplies.

Refinery operators deny it. They say the cutbacks and higher prices are the result of crude oil shortages.

Whatever the cause, the situation facing independent gasoline wholesalers and their customers is well illustrated by the recent experiences of Shore, Davis and other customers of the Longview Refining Co. The refinery sits in the heart of what people here call the Cradle of Oil. It produces 2.25 million gallons of gasoline a month. That's relatively a drop in the bucket for a country that consumes about 714 million gallons of oil products a day, but it's a precious drop to the farmers in Smith County and the fellow who had to close his gas station in Kilgore.

The refinery was purchased Nov. 1 by Crystal Oil Co. of Shreveport, La. Since then, say independent wholesalers, prices have shot up and shipments to small distributors have been cut drastically.

Davis received at least 12,000 gallons of gasoline a month from Longview Refining through October. His December allocation was reduced to 3,769 gallons.

Shore received his regular monthly shipment of 524,696 gallons in October. On Nov. 28, the refinery sent him a terse note saying his December allocation would be 125,696 gallons.

There is nothing illegal about the cuts, but the wholesalers argued that the refinery has a moral obligation to continue supplying its regular customers.

"This may put me out of business," said Shore, who contended the refinery is selling to new customers, people with the money to pay almost any price for gasoline.

"That is a misstatement," said L.D. Morgan, vice president of Crystal Oil Co. "We are not taking on any new customers of any kind. I've had offers from all over the country to buy gasoline at any price. We won't sell to them."

But an executive of Kirby Oil Co. in Tyler, Tex., said his company made its first purchases from Longview Refining in November, paying a premium price for more than 50,000 gallons of gasoline.

Far more important is the refinery's new arrangement with the Atlantic Richfield Co., a major national oil company whose ARCO service stations span the country.

Between 20 and 25 per cent of Longview Refining's output now goes to Atlantic Richfield, said Morgan. The refinery is not manufacturing or selling gasoline to Atlantic Richfield, he added, it's merely exchanging it.

Exchanging raw crude and finished oil products is a common practice in the petroleum industry. When two companies find they have supplies far from their own plants, but near the facilities of competitors, they trade those supplies to save shipping costs.

However, the oil Longview Refining says it receives in exchange from Atlantic Richfield apparently is not being channeled to the company's small, independent wholesalers.

"It's going into our system," said Morgan.

Morgan said cutbacks in deliveries to independent wholesalers were necessitated by crude oil shortages. But Shore, whose father and brother own oil wells, said he tried selling crude oil to the refinery and was rebuffed. "They said they had enough," he said.

The other thing is price. The Longview refinery was charging wholesale distributors 14.75 cents per gallon for premium grade gasoline last January. It had jumped to 22.1 cents per gallon by November. On Dec. 4, Shore was told by Longview Refining that its price was 26.46 cents per gallon, retroactive to Dec. 1.

The retroactive increase was necessary because crude oil suppliers had raised their prices, said Morgan. But Bill Shore was already committed to sales based on the earlier price. He said he will have to eat the loss ... "nearly five cents a gallon."

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

THE FEATURE of this waterfront home is the third bedroom—suitable for renting or for housing winter guests. There is a complete bathroom facility, two closets and the access is unrelated to the access to the main bedrooms. Another feature of this retirement house is the living-dining area visually separate from the kitchen. The kitchen does share the general air space of the living-dining room. The kitchen also has a round skydome. This is an all-masonry house reasonably safe against hurricanes; the wide eaves of the shed roof protect the windows from excessive summer sun. Plan HA799R has 1,080 square feet and was designed by Jan Reiner, 1000 52nd Street North, St. Petersburg, Fla. 33710. Anyone interested in learning the cost of the blueprint can write to the architect, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Passenger Train Sees Comeback

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The energy crisis apparently is helping the once-forgotten passenger train stage a comeback among Christmas travelers this season.

Amtrak, the quasi-government agency which operates almost all of the country's passenger trains, says demand is so high that it will add hundreds of borrowed cars to its passenger trains during peak Christmas travel days.

"We're not going to run very many extra trains, per se, but we will run extra cars," said an Amtrak spokesman.

Amtrak said almost all of its trains are booked heavily around Christmas, with demand especially strong on Dec. 21 and Dec. 22.

However, it adds that there are some days in the holiday period when people will have no trouble getting seats. And it says travelers who despair of getting train reservations should remember that "as in all methods of transportation, we are experiencing cancellations and we are adding equipment. It is not unusual for reservations to open up."

Rail passenger demand started increasing sharply during the Thanksgiving holidays, when airline flight cutbacks, the still-continuing strike against Trans World Airlines and the scarcity of automobile gas combined to shift demand to the trains.

Before the energy crisis started hitting home, Amtrak estimated its annual growth rate was about 11 per cent. It now says its growth rate is over 25 per cent.

Amtrak says it has not yet decided which trains will get extra passenger cars but a spokesman said "I know we are adding cars on virtually all long-haul trains."

Arrest Two In Break-In

Two men were arrested here early this morning on charges of breaking, entering and larceny in connection with an incident at Viola's Shoppe In, a grocery store at 1117 West Third St.

According to Capt. W. M. Carr, Donnie Lee Gilbert 21, of 1106B Fairfax Ave. was taken into custody by officers outside the building, while Robert Joseph Cherry, also 21, of 935 North Clark St. was arrested inside the store.

Capt. Carr said officers were called to the store at 2:13 a.m. when a burglar alarm was sounded. He said first units to arrive at the scene took Gilbert into custody outside the front of the store.

A search of the store then uncovered Cherry hiding on top of a freezer inside the building. Entrance to the grocery was gained by prying open a door, the captain explained.

He noted that an estimated $40 in merchandise, including bologna, souse loaf, cheese, wieners, pork sausage, bread, smoked ham, cigarettes and tapes for cartridge players which had been taken from the store were recovered from a hiding place across the street from the store.

He became commander of Marine Air Forces on the West Coast before retiring in 1946.

Mulcahy died in a hospital Tuesday and is survived by his widow and two children. After a funeral Thursday he will be buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

One Of 'Jackson 5' Will Marry

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Jermaine Jackson, 19-year-old member of the Jackson 5 singing group, plans to marry the daughter of Motown Records chief Berry Gordy.

Superior Court officials said Jackson, of suburban Encino, has taken out a license to marry Hazel Joy Gordy, also 19, of Bel Air.

Friends said the two plan a wedding Dec. 15 at Miss Gordy's home.

Saxbe Stands Behind Jaworski

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen.-designate William B. Saxbe says he would fight for the right of special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski to conduct an independent investigation.

He pledged to the Senate Judiciary Committee on Wednesday that he would do everything in his power "to see the investigation is not impaired."

SEEKING TAX
SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California is trying to collect $64,054 in state income taxes from the estate of Marilyn Monroe for film profits realized since her death in 1962.

"I only reserve the right to complain if I don't think that it is moving fast enough, which I don't anticipate," he said.

The Republican senator from Ohio, nominated by President Nixon to succeed Elliot L. Richardson as attorney general, is assured of committee approval. But a vote was delayed at least until this afternoon when a closed session was scheduled.

The committee agreed before voting to take testimony from Acting Atty. Gen. Robert H. Bork about his amendment last month of the special prosecutor's charter.

The amendment provided that the prosecutor's investigative jurisdiction could not be limited without the concurrence of a consensus of eight congressional leaders.

members expressed concern the effect could be just the opposite.

Saxbe excused as a witness late Wednesday, testified that he would not hesitate to say no to any White House effort to limit the Watergate investigation.

Saxbe also testified that, if confirmed by the Senate, he would not carry out a presidential order to fire Jaworski for taking court action to obtain evidence under White House control.

But he said that in these circumstances he would not resign either, as Richardson did when ordered by Nixon to fire Archibald Cox as the special prosecutor.

Most of the hearing was devoted to obtaining assurances from Saxbe that he would not interfere with or try to limit Jaworski's investigation.

Jaworski, who was called to sit by Saxbe and participate in the hearing, said he was satisfied with Saxbe's assurances. He called them a reaffirmation of what Saxbe had told him previously. While both Saxbe and Jaworski subscribed paragraph by paragraph to the charter for the special prosecutor, Sen. Philip A. Hart, D-Mich., asked that the committee seek the same assurances in writing from President Nixon. There was no immediate response to Hart's proposal from Chairman James O. Eastland, D-Miss.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stocks staged a small technical rally today after heavy losses Wednesday, but some analysts remained pessimistic amid energy crisis uncertainties.

At 11:30 a.m. the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 4.31 at 815.04. It had been up over 5 points a short time earlier.

Advancing Big Board issues held a 599-to-524 lead over decliners in a moderate trading volume.

"We're having a small technical rally here, and that's all," said Lucien Hooper of E.F. Hutton & Co. "Any rallies you get in here will be technical, concerned with supply and demand of shares, and having nothing to do with the news."

Cooper Laboratories, down 1/2 at 5 1/2, was the Big Board volume leader, followed by First National City Corp., down 1/4 at 42, and Kaufman & Broad, down 1/2 at 11 1/2; and Avon Products, up 1 1/2 to 62 after recent heavy losses.

On the American Stock Exchange, Husky Oil down 1 1/4 to 18 1/2 was the volume leader.

Knights Bring Tough Defense To ECU

Al LoBalbo's basketball teams never have finished lower than fourth in the country's team defensive standings since he became the head coach of Fairleigh Dickinson University in 1969. But sometimes, as

LoBalbo has found out, even high national rankings can create problems. "Because we always rank high defensively," said LoBalbo, whose team faces East Carolina for the first time Thursday night, "people think all we do is hold the ball and never take any shots. That's not our style at all. "In the four other years I have been at FDU," he continued, "I never had people who could play the running game. This year I do. Like any coach I have to style my philosophy after the personnel we have." This season, FDU, which is 4-0, is averaging 75.7 points a game, which is 18 points higher than its 1972-73 rate of 57.7 a contest. But the Knights still haven't forgotten about defense as they are only permitting their opponents 57.0 points each outing. "If you ask me what has been the key to our success this year I would have to say team depth," said LoBalbo. "Last year I only used about six or seven people a game. But this season we play about 10 men each game. Last Saturday three of our starters fouled out against Northeastern, but we still had enough manpower left to win the game."

FDU has defeated Stony Brook (N.Y.) University, 77-44; the University of Buffalo, 85-67; American International College, 73-55, and Northeastern University, 68-62. "The game against East Carolina will be The Test for our kids," LoBalbo continued. "We scouted them in their win over the University of North Carolina at Wilmington and my assistant, Mike Wren, came back with glowing reports. Then we read in the papers back home how much of a game East Carolina gave N.C. State. We know we will be up against a fine team."

The Knights have four men scoring in double figures: Glenn Bolduc, a 6'6" senior-center, has a 14.7 average, while forward John Machiaverna, a 6'4" junior has a 14.6 mark. Guards Rich Conrad, a 6'2" junior and Rich Scialabba, a 6'3" senior, have 13.2 and 12.5 averages. Bolduc, who is the co-captain of the team along with Scialabba, leads FDU in rebounding with a 9.0 per game mark.

Cincinnati and Florida State later in the season. "We feel we are building a fine basketball program at FDU and we would like nothing better than to strike up new relationships with universities from the state." The varsity game will get underway at 8 p.m. East Carolina's junior varsity will play a scrimmage game at 5:45 p.m. with members of the ECU football team as a preliminary.

Rampant Wrestlers Set Aims Toward Conference Tournament

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
Rose High School's wrestling team, despite having only one victory going into last night's match with Goldsboro, has quite a bit of optimism for the year. They have a team that is sprinkled both with youth and experience, and they have a new assistant coach who brings wrestling experience to the program.

"We should be quite strong by the sectionals," Coach Jim Brewington said. "There have been a few surprises so far, and I think having Ron Williams to help us as an assistant is really going to make a lot of difference. He's a great asset to the program."

Williams, a former Rose High wrestler, was one of the star matmen at East Carolina prior to graduating from there.

"We still have some people coming out, and this will help too. We've set our eyes on the conference championship, and I think we have a chance at it," Brewington said.

There are only four seniors on the team, so Brewington is expecting a year with a lot of veterans next season. "We're starting four sophomores right now, so really, in a way, we are pretty young." The Rampants got off to a late start, too, because of the length of football season. "We should have plenty of experience by January," the coach said. "We have a lot of people who are battling some of the first stringers now for starting berths."

There are several Rampants that Brewington feels have a chance to place in the finals of the sectionals this year and earn a trip to the state tournament. Last year, only one from Rose got that far, Harold Randolph. This year, he feels that as many as six others could join Randolph in contention.

At the 98-pound level, David Lazzo is working. "He's just a sophomore, and it's early to tell about how he'll do. He had a good match against Farmville Central, but he needs experience," Brewington said.

Tommy Manning, a senior, is the 105-pound man. "He definitely has a chance to be one of our top people and win a berth in the state meet," the coach said.

At 112 is another senior, Alton Hansley. "He could be one of the best in his class in this area. He should be vying for a state berth, too."

Bill Barrett, a sophomore, is at 119. "He's got a lot of potential. We are hoping that he'll shape up to state caliber by sectional time," Brewington said.

Butch Foust, another senior, is at 126. "He's one of our hardest workers, but is finding it tough to win so far."

At 132 is a junior, Danny Bowman. "He lacks experience, and he needs to correct little mistakes that are costing him now."

Freddie Baker, a junior, is at 138. "He's the fastest man we have. He's short, however, and this has hurt him some. We look for a lot of improvement from him."

At 145 is Tyrone Perkins, another sophomore. "He's strong and gutsy. He just needs experience."

Mike Allen, a junior, was working at 155, but has been injured. Jay Chenier, who has just come out, is moving into this

New York Continues Thorn To Carolina

UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) — There's nothing wrong with the Carolina Cougars that a taste of someone other than the New York Nets wouldn't cure.

The Cougars lost for the second time in their last seven games Wednesday night and they still lead the American Basketball Association's East Division by 2½ games over the Kentucky Colonels and New York Nets. Kentucky leads New York by 17 percentage points.

But the Nets were the perpetrators of Wednesday night's 107-97 loss and Carolina's other recent defeat also was at New York's hands.

"We didn't look like a team that's in first place," said Carolina Coach Larry Brown. "We weren't ready to play, especially against a team that's supposed to be our top contender. Maybe they did it to us, but I've seen us play better in the last month.

"It was a carbon copy of our last game against them. We did the same things wrong—cheap baskets and turnovers."

The Cougars' scoring was balanced, but all that meant was that no one had a really hot hand. Tom Owens and Joe Caldwell had 18 points apiece while Billy Cunningham and Mack Calvin had 16.

"Billy's had problems with his kidneys, Ed Manning's had a bad hand and Ted McClain's been hurt," Brown said, "but we've overcome these things before. If you're not mentally ready, there's no way you can play basketball."

The Nets were ready, as they have been for the last nine games, all victories and the longest winning streak in the ABA this season. Brian Taylor pumped in 25 points, Billy Paultz had 22 and John Roche had 19 plus 12 assists.

Julius Erving, the ABA's leading scorer, was held to 19 but contributed 13 rebounds, seven blocked shots and five assists.

"The Nets are playing with confidence," Brown said. "Everybody's aware what their contribution is. Their bench doesn't hurt them, while we're not getting any help off ours."

The two teams meet again Saturday in Charlotte, N.C., but Brown isn't looking that far ahead.

"We've got a game with Utah on Friday night," he said, "and if we don't improve we're not going to beat anybody."

Report Says Dye Offered Job

There is an unconfirmed report that Pat Dye, an assistant coach at the University of Alabama, will be named as the new head football coach at East Carolina University by tomorrow.

A report reached the Daily Reflector yesterday that Dye had contacted one of the former Southern Conference coaches now in the Atlantic Coast Conference, asking about the job. Dye reportedly said that he had until today to "make a decision."

East Carolina Athletic Director, questioned Tuesday afternoon about why the committee chosen to select a new coach, had no planned action on that day, said that "we are waiting for something to happen."

That led to speculation that an offer had been made to one of the applicants, but was being done so with utmost secrecy should that person decide not to take the job.

Then, the report of Dye's questioning of the ACC coach and his statement seemed to make that speculation seem closer to the truth.

Stasavich and ECU Faculty Athletic Chairman Cliff Moore, both members of the selection committee, are now in Greenville, S. C., for the Southern Conference's semi-annual meeting, so should the reports prove untrue, it would be Saturday before the committee could do further work.

Dr. Leo Jenkins, chancellor of the university, was asked by The Daily Reflector if there was a possibility that a new coach could be named by tomorrow, right away, but might know later and he said he could not say in the day.

Goldsboro Nips Rampant Matmen

GOLDSBORO—Goldsboro High School won eight of the 13 matches and gained a 36-26 victory over the Rose High School wrestlers last night.

The match was quite close, however. Rose lost one match by one point, and another by two, then had one draw. If each of these had been turned into Rampant victories, Rose would have won, 34-28.

Of the four Rose wins, all came by pins. Only three of the Goldsboro wins were pins.

The Rampants, now 1-3-1, will travel to Rocky Mount on Monday for their next outing.

Running Promised

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Bill Walton and his UCLA teammates have been warned to put on their running shoes when they meet eager North Carolina State Saturday in a clash of the nation's two top-ranked college basketball teams.

Norm Sloan, coach of the Atlantic Coast Conference challengers, says his team will be moving "as fast as we can" in the collision of the super-powers.

A sellout Arena crowd of 19,000 and a national television audience will watch the crucial matchup.

Sloan promised Wednesday that his Wolfpack would do its utmost to sever UCLA's colossal winning string at 78 games.

While Sloan exuded optimism, UCLA Coach John Wooden voiced his usual reserve.

"I think it's a game that's very, very good for basketball because of the interest each team has generated," Wooden said.

UCLA, headed by the nearly incomparable Walton, opened its season by crushing Arkansas 101-79, then squeezed past Maryland 65-64 and beat Southern Methodist 77-60.

North Carolina State, in extending its victory string to 29 games, overwhelmed East Carolina 79-47 and Vermont 97-42 behind 6-foot-4 All-American David Thompson.

Conley In Win

HOLLYWOOD—The D. H. Conley wrestling team continued to roll along last night, crushing Havelock, 65-3. It was the 32nd straight victory for the Viking team.

Conley won 12 of the 13 matches, losing only once, and that was by one point in a decision. Of the Viking wins, nine came by pins.

The Vikings, now 4-0 on the season, will play host to Ashokie on Monday.

FARMVILLE—Farmville Central High School won the final match of the evening and slipped past the North Pitt wrestlers, 29-28, last night.

The victory kept Farmville Central unbeaten this year, although they have had one tie in four matches. For the Panthers, it was their second loss in four starts.

North Pitt won six of the matches, taking two by falls and one by a forfeit. One of their decisions was a four-point major victory. Farmville Central took the other seven matches, winning two by falls, and two by major decisions, enabling them to gain the one point win.

Farmville Central will play host to Plymouth on Monday, while North Pitt entertains Wilson.

class, and when he's ready, he also could vie for a state position.

Randolph, a senior, returns at 167 pounds. "He could be our best wrestler. We look for him to return to the state this year, but he does need to work a little harder."

Ron Goodall, a sophomore, is at 185. "He has the desire, but needs the experience."

Ron Hunt, a junior, is at 195. "He gives 100 per cent every time he gets on the mat," Brewington said. "He's hard to pin and works hard."

At heavyweight is Jeff Hagan, a junior. "He just needs a little more work to be of state caliber, too," the coach said.

When the weight changes come in after the Christmas holidays, there will be a little shifting of the positions, Brewington expects, but most of the first stringers will remain.

In the conference, he looks to Rocky Mount and Wilson to set the pace. "But we're setting our eyes on the conference tournament and the sectionals. We want to be ready by the tournament, and we want to win it."

Basketball Makes Difference In ACC

By KEN ALYTA
Associated Press Sports Writer

All during the painful football season supporters of Atlantic Coast Conference school had to grin and bear it while ACC teams were pounded 23-12 in games with outside teams. It was the poorest conference record in four years.

About all they could do, after pointing to North Carolina State and Maryland, headed for post season bowls, was wait for the basketball season.

Now they can pop their buttons as they survey the first two weeks of basketball action. The ACC has won 21 and lost only three games against non-conference foes.

And one of the losses, Maryland's one-point defeat by national champion UCLA, was a source of considerable pride to the ACC family.

The latest Associated Press poll shows N. C. State No. 2 nationally, Maryland No. 4 and North Carolina No. 5.

But take a look at what is going on elsewhere in the conference.

Carl Tacy's Wake Forest Deacons, assigned to the lower regions of the league in pre-season estimates, are 4-0.

The Deacons followed victories at Rice and West Virginia with home triumphs over William and Mary and Penn, the latter unbeaten and ranked No. 11 before running into Wake Forest Tuesday night and losing 69-61.

Wake Forest lost an early 16-point lead as Penn twice came back for ties in the last half, but the Deacons didn't fold. Instead, they regained the lead, went into a spread offense to kill the clock and wound up very much in control.

Meanwhile, another erstwhile patsy, Clemson, has been showing signs of living up to its Tigers nickname. Coach Tates Locke's team has a 4-1 record, including victories over St. John's of New York, Auburn, Purdue and Duquesne.

The Duquesne game demonstrated the team's thirst for victory. It came after a 65-58 loss to Florida State in the Steel Bowl Tournament first round at Pittsburgh. The consolation game, which often provides small consolation, gave Clemson a chance to bounce back and the Tigers clawed Duquesne 71-66.

All of which should warn the nationally ranked trio that they had better bear down when playing conference foes.

There were no ACC teams active Wednesday night and all will be idle until Saturday. N. C. State meets UCLA that afternoon at St. Louis in a tionally televised game. At night, North Carolina is host to East Tennessee State and Georgia Tech is at Clemson.

San Diego Files Suit

SAN DIEGO (AP) - Major league baseball faces a $72 million antitrust suit by the city of San Diego, which contends the two leagues have conspired with a half dozen congressmen since early 1971 to move the Padres' franchise to Washington, D.C.

Listed as alleged conspirators but not defendants in the suit are Vice President Gerald Ford and House Speaker Carl Albert. City Atty. John Witt filed the suit Wednesday before U.S. District Court Judge Howard B. Turrentine, who said he expected to hold a hearing Dec. 18.

Defendants are the National League and all its teams and owners, Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn, Rep. Bernie F. Sisk, D-Calif., and Joseph Danzansky, a Washington market chain owner who heads the group that is buying the Padres.

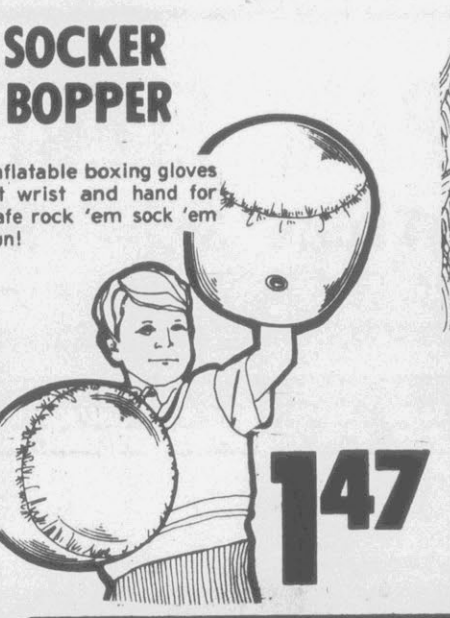

The suit, like others filed during baseball's many franchise shifts of the past two decades, said the defendants have used a monopoly position to restrain the city "from entering into and participating in its lawful business of operating its stadium."

The words referred to the 15 years remaining on the Padres' lease of city-owned San Diego Stadium. National League owners voted last week to approve C. Arnholt Smith's sale of the team to Danzansky's group, spurning an offer by another group to keep the Padres here.

The city said the defendants have artificially limited the distribution and price of baseball franchises in restraint of interstate commerce.

The suit also accused the defendants, particularly Sisk, of conspiring to "delay, postpone and in fact prevent any legislation from being passed which would adversely affect baseball's antitrust exemption."

The alleged co-conspirators are Ford, former House minority leader; Albert, the House's top Democrat; former Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., and Rep. Peter A. Rodino, D-N.J., past and present chairmen of the House Judiciary Committee, and Sen. Thomas Eagleton, D-Mo.

49ers Holding Trump Card In NFL

SAAD'S SHOE SHOP
Work Guaranteed
Located College View
Cleaners Main Plant,
Grande Avenue

By BEN THOMAS
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The San Francisco 49ers are holding the biggest trump card in the National Football League this weekend.

The 49ers, out of the playoffs for the first time in four years, can take out their frustration on the Pittsburgh Steelers Saturday. A San Francisco victory would bring loud cheers from such diverse places as Cleveland and Buffalo, not to mention Cincinnati.

Then the torch would pass to the lowly Houston Oilers for their Sunday game with Cincinnati.

Until the results of the Pittsburgh-San Francisco game are in, there are enough "ifs" in the American Football Conference playoff picture — along with several in the National Conference — to cause a king-sized migraine.

You know, IF somebody wins and IF somebody loses, then ... but IF ... and IF, then ... Phooey!

Why don't they try drawing straws next year?

Pittsburgh (9-4) at San Francisco (5-8) — The Steelers can solve a lot of problems for the league by winning this one. A triumph will assure the Steelers of either the AFC wild card spot or the Central Division title, depending on what Cincinnati does Sunday. With Terry Bradshaw back in harness, Pittsburgh's offense, and the defense led by Mean Joe Greene, should be just what the doctor ordered to unscramble a portion of the playoff picture. So ... STEELERS 31, 49ERS

24. Detroit (6-6-1) at Miami (11-2) — The second game of the Saturday menu. The Dolphins may have helped save Howard Schnellenberger's job in Baltimore last week. So how about Don McCafferty's job in Detroit? The Dolphins may just take life easy this week, so let's call this one the upset special and say ... LIONS 31, DOLPHINS 24.

Denver (7-4-2) at Oakland (8-4-1) — Shoot-out in the AFC East Corral, without Kansas City, for a change. Denver's desire has carried the Broncos a long way, including a tie with Oakland earlier this year. But the Raiders can tie again and win the title. RAIDERS 28, BRONCOS 20.

Cincinnati (9-4) at Houston (1-12) and Essex Johnson, with 965 yards, and Boobie Clark, with 931, are aiming to be the second pair of teammates to rush for 1,000 yards in a season. They should easily do it against the Oilers and help the Bengals win the AFC Central Crown. BENGALS 34, OILERS 10.

Dallas (9-4) at St. Louis (4-8-1) — The Cowboys beat St. Louis by 35 points early in the season, but the Dallas players know the Cardinals virtually snuffed out Atlanta's playoff hopes last week. A victory would assure Dallas its seventh division title in eight years. A tie would give the Cowboys at least the wild-card berth. COWBOYS 31, CARDINALS 18.

Philadelphia (5-7-1) at Washington (9-4) — The Redskins need only a tie to gain the playoffs. Whether it's the wild card spot or as the NFC East champion depends on what Dallas does. Washington should do its part by winning. REDSKINS 24, EAGLES 21.

New Orleans (5-8) at Atlanta (8-5) — The Falcons must win and pray for Dallas and Washington losses to keep their playoff hopes flickering, and Atlanta Coach Norm Van Brocklin could be in trouble again if his team loses for the third straight time. Will he have trouble getting the Falcons up to play a team they beat 62-7 on opening day? New Orleans pulls off upsets only on its own turf, so ... FALCONS 24, SAINTS 21.

Cleveland (7-4-2) at Los Angeles (11-2) — The Rams are seeking a club victory record, and before the game is over, they'll know whether they go to Dallas or Washington for their opening playoff game. The Browns must win to retain any chance of getting the AFC wild card. RAMS 30, BROWNS 21.

Buffalo (8-5) at New York Jets (4-9) — The Bills must win to retain their slim chance for a playoff spot. The chances that O.J. Simpson will break Jim Brown's rushing record are much better, even though it's Weeb Ewbank's farewell coaching performance for New York. BILLS 28, JETS 17.

San Diego (2-10-1) at Kansas City (6-5-2) — The Chiefs' season ended last week. The Chargers' never really got started, but they could this week. So let's call another upset ... CHARGERS 21, CHIEFS 20.

Minnesota (11-2) at New York Giants (2-10-1) — The Vikings should easily match their club victory record in this tuneup for the playoffs which will be the swan song for New York other victory. COLTS 21, PATRIOTS 20.

Gamecocks Peck Way Past DePauw, 104-55

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Alexander English did most of the damage, but Nate Davis did more than expected.

As a result, South Carolina overkilled DePauw 104-55 in college basketball Wednesday night.

"We got a chance to look at a lot of our players tonight," said Frank McGuire, coach of the 18th-ranked Gamecocks.

He liked what he saw — English scoring 28 points in his starting role before giving way to a rambunctious Davis. The 6-foot-4 freshman blocked three shots, scored four points and picked up three rebounds in his walk-on role.

"We need more than just five or six players against some of the teams we're going to meet and we've got to play them to find them."

In other games, 18th-ranked

Syracuse whipped LaSalle 75-68; Army topped Rochester 58-56; St. Bonaventure turned back St. Francis (N.Y.) 95-84; Seton Hall tripped California Poly 69-62; American University smashed Delaware 75-45; Rice topped Tarleton State 72-71; Mississippi spilled Southern Mississippi 79-75; Niagara trimmed St. Peter's (N.J.) 85-78; Arizona State ripped Idaho 104-71; Brown bounced Yale 63-56; Georgia defeated Athletes In Action 87-83 and Cincinnati cut down Wright State 78-42.

Syracuse dominated the offensive boards and got clutch shooting and rebounding from Rudy Hackett to beat LaSalle. The Orangemen gained the lead for good on Chris Seace's layup with less than eight minutes to go. That made the score 59-58 and was the eighth time that the lead had changed hands.

Pete Jackson's desperation,

25-foot shot with two seconds left gave Army a tight victory over Rochester. Army tied the game at 56 on a Dave Thomas field goal with 2:09 remaining. The Cadets later froze the ball for the last shot — and almost didn't get it off because of Rochester's tough defense.

Glenn Price scored 24 points and grabbed 18 rebounds to lead St. Bonaventure over St. Francis. Bob Trapp scored 20 of his 24 points for the losers in the second half to make things interesting.

Paul Lape rallied his team in the closing minutes to help Seton Hall beat California Poly. Losing 55-52 with less than seven minutes left, the Pirates scored five straight points with Lape controlling the flow of the game. He made a steal and a layup and then assisted on a three-point play as the Pirates took a 57-55 lead.

Wilbur Thomas scored 18 points as American U. walloped Delaware; Howard Laidlow and Charles Daniel each hit two field goals in the final minutes to lead Rice's victory; Dave Shepard's 23 points led Mississippi; Niagara toppled St. Peter's as Andy Walker fired in 26 points; Arizona State jumped to a 24-4 lead and rolled over Idaho; Eddie Morris scored 15 points in Brown's victory over Yale; Ed Peterson collected 21 points to pace Georgia past Athletes-In-Action and Cincinnati topped Wright State behind Mike Franklin's 13 points and 14 rebounds.

West Carolina At S.C. Meet

GREENVILLE, S. C. (AP) — The Southern Conference began its winter meeting today with representatives of independent Western Carolina University attending as invited guests.

The matter of new members is not on the agenda for the two-day session but the Cullowhee, N. C., school, an independent since leaving the Carolinas Conference in 1969, will be making contacts.

Bob Waters, athletic director, heads the delegation which will be probing the possibility of future membership in the Southern Conference.

Trustees of Western Carolina recently voted in favor of Southern Conference membership and school officials hope representation at the current session will be a step in that direction.

The conference meeting today and Friday will be the last session for Lloyd P. Jordan, who has served as conference commissioner since 1960.

He will be succeeded by Ken Germann, Columbia University athletic director, who takes over Jan. 1.

Officers for the coming year will be chosen. Dr. Francis W. bonner, Furman University faculty chairman, is the current president of the eight-school conference.

Lanier Leads Hurt Pistons

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
You'd think the loss of injured starters Stu Lantz and John Mengelt would hurt the Detroit Pistons. Not so, they still had Bob Lanier.

Lanier scored 33 points and helped the Pistons register their seventh consecutive National Basketball Association victory with a 114-96 romp over the Los Angeles Lakers Wednesday night.

The Pistons raced to an 18-2 lead, fought off a Los Angeles surge that narrowed the gap to only two points in the third period and then broke the game open behind a charge led by George Trapp and Chris Ford in the final quarter.

In other NBA contests, Boston defeated Buffalo 126-119 and Seattle downed Philadelphia 100-93.

The defeat was the fifth in a row for the injury-riddled Lakers, who played without Jerry West and Bill Bridges, and marked the longest losing streak for the Lakers since Bill Sharman became head coach three seasons ago.

Lanier also collected 20 rebounds, five steals and three blocked shots as Detroit placed seven men in double figures. Gail Goodrich led Los Angeles with 31 points.

Celtics 126, Braves 119
Don Nelson and Steve Kuberski sparked a fourth-quarter surge that carried Boston to its 20th straight victory over Buffalo since the Braves joined the league four years ago.

SuperSonics 100, 76ers 93
Dick Snyder hit a three-point play with 49 seconds left, igniting a seven-point outburst that lifted the Sonics to victory. The Sonics held a 93-91 edge when Snyder, who had a game-high 24 points, boosted Seattle's lead to five points with a field goal and foul shot. Don Watts then contributed a fieldgoal and two foul shots to put the game out of reach.

American Basketball Association results: Virginia 88, Memphis 87; Kentucky 96, San Antonio 84; San Diego 119, Indiana 113; New York 107, Carolina 97 and Utah 123, Denver 112.

Experts Preparing Report On Tape Examination

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Technical experts are ready to tell U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica what they learned about the 18-minute gap in one of the subpoenaed Watergate tapes.

Members of the panel of experts who examined the tape during the past two weeks were scheduled to meet today with the judge in his chambers to deliver a preliminary report of their findings.

Lawyers from the White House and the special Watergate prosecutor's office also planned to be there to receive the report.

Meanwhile, Sirica signed an order Wednesday authorizing the empaneling of a third grand jury to receive evidence from the special prosecutor's staff.

The new 23-member grand jury would begin work Jan. 7, and take some of the load from the panel created last Aug. 13, to hear evidence in all Watergate cases except the June 17, 1972, break-in and subsequent cover-up attempt.

Shortly after special prosecutor Leon Jaworski asked Sirica for the new grand jury, he told newsmen his office now has received 13 White House tapes and has requests pending for six more.

Nine of those tapes were turned over voluntarily last Saturday by the White House. Jaworski declined to say which conversations or subjects they covered.

The other four tapes were among the subpoenaed recordings in Sirica's possession. They covered conversations between the President and aides on March 13, two on March 21, and another the next day, all in 1973.

The special prosecutor also said that members of his staff had been at the White House examining documents to determine if they were needed for any of the investigations being conducted by Jaworski's office.

At the White House Wednesday, deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said discussions are underway with congressional leaders about how to make public Watergate-related information on the tapes.

Arrangements were made for Charles Breyer, assistant prosecutor, to work Thursday with White House lawyer J. Fred Buzhardt in examining a wide range of documents requested by the prosecutor's office.

Technical experts spent nearly two weeks examining the tape of a June 20, 1972, conversation between the President and H.R. Haldeman, in which an 18-minute segment is obliterated by a hum.

Sirica heard testimony in court the past two weeks from a number of witnesses including Buzhardt, Rose Mary Woods, the President's personal secretary, and Alexander M. Haig Jr., Haldeman's successor as White House staff chief, in an effort to determine what might have caused the gap.

CHARLOTTE—The Mecklenburg County Medical Society has voted unanimously to "support the recommendation of the UNC Board of Governors that the Eastern (sic) Carolina University medical program not be expanded and that indeed the program be phased out and the expenditure of funds better used in expanding the existing four year programs."

The resolution noted that "the N. C. Joint Conference Committee on Medical Care has investigated the advisability of expanding the Eastern (sic) Carolina University medical school and has not only advised against expansion but has recommended that the program be phased out."

The same committee "strongly recommended increasing the enrollment in the present four-year programs with 140 to 150 additional entering students by 1976, which goal is being met," it noted.

It called for state schools of high education to be "under the supervision and the full authority of said Board of RALEIGH—Approval for secondary road construction in a number of counties was given here Wednesday by the Secondary Roads Council as that body met in a regular monthly session.

Council members said that the projects had been discussed previously with Boards of Commissioners in the counties affected, and that the work will be done with allocations made for the fiscal year 1973-74.

Work approved for Greene County included:

SR 1315—Grade, drain and pave 0.70 miles from NC-91 to SR 1314, $31,200.

Ramada Inn Is Formally Open

Greenville's new Ramada Inn on the Highway 264 By-Pass officially opened yesterday with a ribbon-cutting to really "kick off" the festivities.

Jim Woody of the ECU Pirates did the honors of breaking the opening ribbon by booting a football attached to it over the Ramada goal post.

Also attending the opening were ECU Homecoming Queen Nancy Morgan and Miss Black ECU, Harriet Canady, along with other representatives of the Pirates Team and coaching staff.

"This ribbon-cutting makes it official," said Innkeeper Gary Richardson. "Now we're formally open and ready to serve the people of Greenville and visitors to this area."

The new Ramada features 120 guest rooms and fully equipped banquet and meeting facilities, along with the Gypsy Tent Restaurant and Fortune Teller

Tavern. In keeping with the lounge and restaurant theme, gypsy musicians and dancers entertained at the opening.

The inn is operated by Colony Inns Incorporated of Atlanta, a professional hotel and motor inn management firm.

'Operation Candor' Seems To Be Helping President

By GEORGE GALLUP
(Copyright 1973, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Republication in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.)
PRINCETON, N. J.—President Nixon's "Operation Candor" has boosted his popularity across the nation and especially in the South.

In the latest nationwide survey, 31 per cent approve of his handling of the presidency. In the previous survey, conducted in early November, the comparable percentage was only 27. In both surveys, substantial majorities expressed disapproval.

In the South alone, the approval figure has increased 7 points between surveys—from 34 per cent in November to 41 per cent today.

The current findings reflect the President's decision to "go public" on the Watergate issue, highlighted by his speeches and appearances in the South where he consistently met enthusiastic audiences.

Trend in Nixon's Popularity
Nixon's popularity rating declined steadily between January, when 68 per cent approved of his performance in office, and October, when it reached a low point of 27 per cent. His rating remained at this level in a subsequent survey in November before increasing to its current level.

Although the President's popularity decline of recent months appears to have "bottomed out," new revelations regarding the Watergate tapes or the President's financial dealings could, of course, cause his rating to dip.

Comments Reveal Public's Views on Noxon Performance
The following verbatim comments reveal the nature of the debate among the public regarding Nixon's performance in office:

"The US. is not involved in any wars, there's no draft, no race riots, no beef shortage, no threat being exchanged between us and Russia. We can't let Watergate drown out the good he's done." (Male, age 24, architect.)

"I dislike his lack of candor. He seems to do the right thing only after circumstances force him to do so. The American image overseas has been sorely damaged." (Male, age 55, executive management—federal government.)

"He is doing a good job considering the overwhelming lack of support from the House and Senate. I admire his ability to continue to function in all aspects of office, and his ability to hold his composure, despite the constant tearing down process by the media and Democrats." (Male, age 26, banker.)

"It seems he is involved in crisis after crisis, and his excuses and explanations are very seldom, if ever, verified. I was a staunch supporter of our President but now feel that I have joined the ranks of the 'unbelievers.'" (Male, age 59, appliance salesman.)

Following is the question asked to determine the popularity of the President: "Do you approve or disapprove of the way Nixon is handling his job as President?"

Nixon's Rating Up 3 Points Outside South

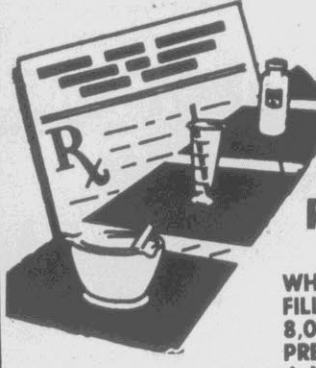

While Nixon's rating has increased 7 points in the South between the two latest surveys, outside the South the change has been only marginal—from 24 per cent to 27 per cent approval.

The following tables show the comparison for the South and outside the South:

SOUTH
Dec.	Nov.
Approve	41 34
Disapprove	47 55
No Opinion	12 11
OUTSIDE SOUTH
Dec.	Nov.
Approve	27 24

Disapprove 63 66
No Opinion 10 10
The findings reported today are based on a national survey of 1,550 adults, 18 and older, interviewed in person in more than 300 scientifically selected localities during the period Nov. 30-Dec. 3.

Farm Bureau Took Stand

The North Carolina Farm Bureau in convention this week in Durham, has adopted a resolution favoring the expansion of the East Carolina University School of Medicine.

John Sledge, assistant to President B. C. Mangum, said the measure was adopted without opposition. He said wording submitted by the Pitt County Farm Bureau was used, although similar resolutions were offered by several county bureaus.

The resolution reads: "The State of North Carolina should provide the necessary authorizations and funds to East Carolina University, in order to insure the orderly expansion of its present medical education program to a complete degree-granting school of medicine. Said school of medicine should be planned and developed with a firm direction and orientation toward meeting the shortages of practicing physicians across the state and should include the establishment of intern and residency programs in community setting to further enhance the school's capacity to serve the medical needs of North Carolina."

Looking Toward Better Times

BONN (UPI) — The average income for West German citizens should average 22,400 marks ($9,030) by 1985, according to a financial survey conducted by the Swiss firm, A.G. Prognos.

The annual average income for West Germany's 58 million citizens in 1970 totaled only 7,400 marks ($3,080), but A.G. Prognos predicted an annual increase in the general national product (GNP) of 5 to 8.5 per cent.

The Worry Clinic 'Gumption' Is Seldom Taught

Note my brother John's comment about the value of "Horse Sense" in our defeat of the British Redcoats in the Revolutionary War. Alas, gumption and resourcefulness seldom are taught to the "drawing board dreamers" in colleges even today!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE Y-594: My brother, Dr. John B. Crane, had dinner with us recently.

He formerly taught economics and history at Northwestern, Harvard, Earlham College and Iowa Wesleyan.

"Apropos of your constant stress on 'Horse Sense' in practical psychology," he volunteered, "that was also a main reason why we defeated the British in the Revolutionary War.

"For the Redcoats marched shoulder to shoulder into battle. 'Which made them easier targets for our pioneer riflemen.

"Better yet, those stubborn British Generals refused to O.K. the use of rifles so their first Rifle Corps wasn't created till the year 1800.

"So in 1776, the Redcoats still employed antiquated muskets. 'But the lethal range of such guns was only about one-third the distance of our American long rifles.

"Consequently, our soldiers could keep 50 yards out of range of the British muskets, yet still shoot back and decimate their ranks!

"As the British kept advancing, our men would then retreat till they could reload their long rifles, then stand pat for a few moments and fire back at the Redcoats.

"This strategy helped us offset the far greater numbers of British soldiers.

"George Washington and other American Generals also used additional resourcefulness (as when crossing the ice floes of the Delaware) so their greater 'Horse Sense' really gave us our American Republic.

Horse Sense
In all trades and professions, you will notice that some men are chiefly "book doctors" or "book engineers" whereas others are resourceful.

Which means the latter have "Horse Sense."
For education can be of the braintruster sort unless modified by practical experience (gumption).

You housewives thus remember the adage that states: "You must cut the cloth to fit the figure; not the pattern!" And that's what we mean by wisdom vs. braintruster education.

Many "drawing board dreamers" thus concoct beautiful designs for new automobiles and other merchandise.

But it is the buyers thereof who soon find the "bugs" in those supposedly perfect products.

For example, the usual propaganda of "dreamers in Congress" also caused us an unnecessary fuel crisis earlier this year by scaring people with a horrendous picture of the hazards of auto exhaust fumes.

So an expensive addition was forced on cars, thus making them consume 15 gallons of gasoline to travel as far as 10 gallons formerly permitted. This meant a 50 percent increase in gasoline consumption, which produced a threatened rationing of gasoline.

Farmers were thus hampered, which always adds to increased food prices at the food markets. Yet there has been no serious medical ill effect from auto exhaust pipes despite 2 generations of heavy use of ethyl gasoline!

A little "Horse Sense" would have prevented this "crisis" propaganda of braintruster ecological "dreamers."

So we laymen better demand more gumption from our state and national legislatures before they stampede into passing such needless bills!

Competition in the auction is a two-edged weapon. At times, it can drive the opponents too high, or permit you to find a cheap sacrifice against an opposing game. On other occasions, it may give away key information, thereby permitting declarer to make a contract by means of an unusual play.

East-West were employing the Unusual Two No Trump Convention. Instead of its natural meaning, an overall of two no trump was a form of takeout double showing length in the minor suits. North doubled to show a good hand, and when three clubs was passed round to him he leaped to four spades on the strength of his excellent trump support.

West led the king of clubs, won by dummy's ace, and two rounds of trumps were drawn. Had there been no opposition bidding, South might have tried the heart finesse. That would have resulted in his defeat, for after winning the queen of hearts, East could shift to the ten of diamonds, permitting the defenders to collect three tricks in that suit.

However, declarer had heard the auction. West promised length in the minor suits, so he had to be short in hearts. Therefore, the finesse rated to lose, and South wanted to keep East off play to prevent a lead thru his king of diamonds.

After a moment's thought, declarer found an elegant loser-on-loser play to insure his contract. He cashed the king and ace of hearts and then led the ten of clubs from dummy, discarding a heart from his hand.

West won the queen of clubs but was caught in an endplay. He either had to lead a diamond up to declarer's king, or give South a ruff-and-stuff which would allow declarer to discard a diamond from the hand while ruffing in dummy. Either way, declarer would lose only two diamonds and a club.

Note that declarer's line would have succeeded even if West held a third heart. West could exit with that card, but then declarer would ruff East's queen, setting up dummy's jack for a diamond discard. Declarer could reach dummy with a trump.

Many Service Stations Plan Three-Day Holiday Closings

By DAVID BURKE
AP Business Writer

Thousands of gasoline service stations in many parts of the country are planning to close for three-day periods at Christmas and New Year's, a spot survey indicated today.

Spokesmen for associations of service station operators in Michigan, Illinois, Louisiana, Florida, Washington D.C., Indiana and Wisconsin said many of their members would close from the Saturday night preceding each holiday until the following Wednesday. Christmas and New Year's fall on Tuesdays.

"We estimate that 50 per cent of the nation's service stations will be closed for the three-day periods," says John Huemmerich, executive director of the National Congress of Petroleum Retailers.

More than 80 per cent of the country's 220,000 service stations have been closing this month from 9 p.m. Saturday to midnight Sunday. They are doing so at the request of President Nixon, who is seeking authority to make such shutdowns mandatory.

The American Automobile Association said it is still compiling figures on service stations closing for three days at Christmas and New Year's. But the number will be substantial, a spokesman said.

Independent service stations are especially hard hit by the oil shortage and are particularly likely to close, said Dick Reynolds of the Society of Independent Gasoline Marketers of America.

"Virtually 100 per cent of our members will be shut," he said. The group's 214 member companies represent 20,000 service stations.

"A lot of these guys will find their supplies running pretty low near the end of the month as their allocations begin to run out," said Vic Rasheed, executive director of the Greater Washington-Maryland Service Station Association. "They will welcome an opportunity to close."

Announcements that the government plans to cut gasoline production will encourage extended holiday shutdowns, spokesmen said.

"You keep threatening a man with execution, and he's liable to take steps right now to try to preserve some of his supplies," said Charles Shipley of the Michigan Service Station Dealers Association.

He said stations along interstate highways and main arteries which are normally dependent on travelers' business are more likely to be open than urban service stations with neighborhood trades.

He said a three-day closing "would benefit many of the people the neighborhood service station normally serves, since most of your available product is usually sold to strangers on holidays."

THEIR OWN "TEA PARTY"—Members of the Peoples Bicentennial Commission, shown in a recent protest rally, say they will demonstrate Sunday for the purpose of "protesting the collusion of the major oil companies with the oppressive government in Washington". The rally will coincide with re-enactment of the Boston Tea Party off the brig Beaver II in Boston Bicentennial Commission. (AP Wirephoto)

Wanted Life Term, May Get Prison Job

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Gov. Robert Ray has suggested prison employment for a 39-year-old convict who asked for a life term because he regards Iowa's penitentiary as home.

Bobby Ferguson appealed for the life term last week, saying he's spent all but 16 months of his life in state institutions.

Now serving a 10-year term for robbery at the Iowa State Penitentiary, Ferguson said, "I tried to make it on the outside, but I didn't know how to live in society."

He said his home "is inside and I want to stay here for the rest of my life ..."

His record since teen-age days shows 18 convictions on charges ranging from robbery to jailbreak to vagrancy.

He says he never knew his mother, who was an inmate at the Iowa women's reformatory at Rockwell City when he was born. His early life was spent in state institutions.

Ray's initial reply was that he had the power to commute a sentence or to pardon a prisoner but no authority to extend a sentence.

You Not Only Buy New Furniture In Poland, You Must Capture It

By HOWARD A. TYNER
WARSAW (UPI) — When a Warsaw woman recently decided to buy a new couch for their apartment, she did what anyone would do—she lives in Poland.

She arose at 5 a.m., lined up in the frosty morning air with other hopeful customers at Warsaw's main furniture store and waited until the 9 o'clock opening time to see if she could get one of the dozen or so couches delivered there each day.

Five mornings she went, five mornings she was too far down the line to make her purchase. Finally she hired the son of a neighbor to stand in her place and he got the couch—but not before queuing up every morning for another week.

That sort of experience can be the rule rather than the exception in Poland, where home furnishings are almost as hard to buy today as meat was 10 years ago.

As the newspaper Zycie Warszawy said, "You don't buy furniture, you capture it."

Three Months' Wait
Tables, chairs and sofas sometimes take three months or longer to obtain. Lamps are all but impossible to find.

Groene Book Is Published

Dr. Bertram H. Groene, formerly an instructor in history at East Carolina University, is the author of a new Civil War book, "Tracing Your Civil War Ancestor," just published by John F. Blair, Publisher, Winston-Salem.

Now teaching at Southeastern Louisiana University in Hammond, Louisiana, where he is associate professor of history, Dr. Groene is a native of Ohio. Laymen, according to Dr. Groene, have a personal interest in the Civil War, and "people were always asking me how to trace a soldier."

His response is this step-by-step guide for amateurs through the masses of available Civil War data. Following his instructions, a neophyte can usually trace the military career of one soldier, follow his battle experiences and study the history of his military unit. Blair published the book on December 8. Copies will soon be available on bookstands in hard back at $5.95, and has a number of charts, illustrations, addresses, and photographs.

Talk Revising Constitution

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — The Texas constitution, adopted in 1876, has been amended 212 times by the state's voters. The Texas legislature will meet as a constitutional convention in 1975 to consider a complete revision of the document.

Dawn-to-dusk queues are frequent outside furniture stores and quarrels among those waiting are not uncommon.

Ironically, the shortage is largely a product of Poland's new-found prosperity. It's a perfect example of the growing pains that are hobbling this country's two-year-old economic boom.

"The explanation (for the lack of furniture) is really very simple. It stems from growth of the population's incomes, a faster tempo of housing construction and the desire to have more comfortable and modern furnishings at home."

Take wages, for instance. They've gone up 20 percent in three years as part of the government's drive to raise living standards. Yet many prices have remained frozen and day-to-day expenses have risen no more than 10 or 15 percent.

Therefore millions of Poles have extra income. What do they do with it? Buy furniture, among other things. Shops here sell out as fast as new supplies arrive.

Housing Boom
Then there's housing. Previous governments neglected the national building program, which even today remains vitally important considering three-fourths of Poland's urban dwellings were destroyed during World War II.

Anxious not to repeat mistakes of the past, present leaders stepped up construction to the point that 250,000 apartments now are being built every year.

But new homes need new furniture—lots of it. And that puts even more pressure on the home furnishing market.

"We could sell 50 of these every day," a willowy blonde salesgirl at Warsaw's cavernous Dom Meblowy ("House of Furniture") told UPI. She gestured towards a neat row of green folding daybeds—each tagged "sold"—lined up in front of her.

The girl said when she came to work that morning 37 people were waiting outside the store in hopes of buying one of the 16 daybeds delivered during the night.

"These are the lucky ones," she said, holding out a sheet of paper with 16 signatures scrawled across it.

Neglected Industry
No short-term solution to the problem presents itself, although the demand for furniture is expected to double in

Safety Belt Not Very Popular

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — A survey returned by nearly 2,500 drivers recently indicated 63 per cent of them opposed legislation that would require them to wear both lap and shoulder belts.

The survey by the California Automobile Association also showed 45 per cent favoring a bill that would require drivers to use lap belts only. Thirty-nine per cent were opposed.

the next five years. According to journalist Jozef Kusmirek of Zycie Warszawy:

"Nobody likes (to work for) the furniture industry and, what's worse, no one takes it seriously. Too many people think of it as some kind of handicraft."

What most experts recommend is a thorough reorganization of the industry; introduction of production incentives; improved training of skilled personnel and better coordination with related industries.

One big step, they say, would be to remove responsibility for furniture production away from the Ministry of Forestry which, as one official said, "seems more interested in trees than tables and chairs."

Yet journalist Kusmirek remains doubtful. "From a social, cultural and economic point of view, there are few phenomena as useful as having people interested in their apartments," he wrote. "The fact this phenomenon exists in Poland should please us. But it doesn't and no wonder."
