Pat Dye Officially Named New ECU Football Coach

By WODDY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
Patrick Fain (Pat) Dye was officially announced this morning as the new Head Football Coach at East Carolina University.

Dye, a 34 year old native of Blythe, Georgia, was introduced at a mid-morning press conference by Chancellor Leo Jenkins.

Dye, who attended the University of Georgia where he was an All-American Lineman, comes to East Carolina following eight years as an Assistant Coach under Paul "Bear" Bryant at Alabama.

"It almost goes without saying that I am thrilled with this opportunity," Dye said. "East Carolina has already shown that it can win. What has already been established will serve as a building block."

A three year letterman under Georgia Coach Wally

Butts, Dye was twice selected to the All Southeastern Conference and All-American teams. In his senior year he served as co-captain with now NFL quarterback Fran Tarkenton.

Following his graduation he spent two seasons with the Edmonton Eskimos of the Canadian Football League and after a two and one-half year Army stint he joined the Alabama staff.

He is married to the former

Sue Ward and they have two sons and two daughters.

"We are extremely happy to have found a man as capable and as talented as Pat Dye," Dr. Jenkins said.

"He has a solid football background and will without a doubt be a tremendous credit to our football program which is growing and improving everyday."

Jenkins added that Dye had been the unanimous choice of the seven-man selection committee appointed to find the replacement for Sonny Randle who resigned last week to become Head Coach at the University of Virginia.

Dye, who coaches the linebackers at Alabama, will remain with the Crimson Tide through the December 31 Sugar Bowl Game with Notre Dame in New Orleans.

"Before I came here to interview," Dye said, "I told Coach Bryant that I would stay with Alabama through the Sugar Bowl because so many of the players I recruited and respect have dedicated themselves to winning the national championship. I hope the players here and the prospects everywhere who are interested in East Carolina will understand. I feel a deep obligation."

Dye asked all those considering the school to please wait until he and his staff, yet to be named, have a chance to evaluate their ability and to talk with them.

"I don't think that this is asking too much because players know whether they have the ability to play and win for us."

Dye said his recruiting area would seek traditionally to find players from North Carolina but that he would not be limited to any specific area.

Dye met with the football squad prior to the news conference to discuss his approach to the game and told them they would be a definite asset to the recruiting job that lies ahead.

Dye was awarded a five year contract with the Pirates the terms of which were not disclosed.

Dye said that his offensive philosophy would follow that of Alabama this year in using the wishbone formation. That offensive pattern helped propel Alabama to an 11-0 season and first place in the national polls going into the New Year's round of bowl games.

Dye's now former boss Bear Bryant said, "I am very happy for Pat because it is a fine opportunity for him and I want to congratulate East Carolina because they have gotten themselves one heck of a fine man and coach. I hate to see him leave us. He is an excellent teacher on the field, is close to the players off the field, is a tremendous recruiter and is respected by everyone that comes in contact with him. We wish him the very best."

DST Bill Passes House

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House passed and sent to the Senate today legislation that could put the nation on year-round Daylight Saving Time by the second week in January.

The bill would require clocks be set ahead one hour on the fourth Sunday after it is signed into law.

Year-round DST is one of the measures requested by President Nixon to help save fuel during the energy crisis.

The nation would remain on advanced time through October 1975 under the bill. The President would have the authority to exempt any state if the governor could show that it would work undue hardship or that remaining on standard time during the winter months would save more fuel.

States split by two time zones would be allowed to exempt one zone so that the entire state could remain on the same time.

The bill contains provisions automatically exempting Indiana and Hawaii.

The White House has said that shifting an hour of daylight from the morning to the evening hours could cut back electricity and heating demands by as much as three per cent, particularly in the northern regions of the country.

But many supporters of the bill acknowledged they were unsure what effect, if any, the measure would have on the energy crisis.

The nation has not been on year-round DST since World War II.

$300,000 Grant For Mental Health Ctr.

A $300,000 N.C. Mental Health Services Construction Grant application was approved Thursday in Greenville to aid in the construction of a new Pitt County Mental Health Center.

Dr. N. P. Zarzar, Director, N.C. Division of Mental Health Services, informed County officials and the Pitt County Area Mental Health Board at a luncheon at Parker's Barbecue that the construction grant proposal had been approved.

In commenting on the need for a new Pitt County Mental Health Center, Dr. Zarzar said, "You have pulled together a good proposal as to where you are today and complete programs and services to the people in the Pitt County."

Dr. James W. Osberg, Deputy Director for Programs, N.C. Division of Mental Health Services be provided through the local Mental Health Center including services for children and youth, the elderly, mentally retarded, alcoholic people, drug abusers, people needing emergency mental health attention, and adults in need of psychiatric help."

"Getting the total community together on providing complete services," Dr. Osberg said, "is what we want. What direction you want to go, where you are going and how you hope to reach the goal you set is important to the people you are serving through the Pitt County Mental Health Center."

The new Mental Health Center is to be constructed on a 6.13 acre site on the grounds, and adjacent to, the new County hospital.

In commenting on the grant being received, Mrs. Myree Hayes, Chairman of the Pitt County Area Board, said,

"We are very excited about our construction grant proposal being approved. We will now be able to develop a truly comprehensive mental health program and deliver all of the services to our people through the Mental Health Center that we feel are essential."

Dr. Clinton R. Prewett, of Greenville, who prepared the proposal, said, "We hope we can now restore the confidence in ourselves and really develop a good mental health program here in Pitt County."

North Vietnam Seen Armed, Geared Up To Stage Major Attacks

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence officers estimate the North Vietnamese have sent enough arms, ammunition and supplies into South Vietnam since the formal ceasefire to support 200,000 soldiers for a year.

And, says Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedheim, the North Vietnamese and their

Viet Cong allies are "at a higher level of strength and equipment than they have been for a long time, maybe ever."

In armor alone, intelligence officers report, the North Vietnamese may have doubled their strength in the South, with as many as 700 tanks now deployed there.

It is intelligence like this that causes concern among U.S. officials that the North Vietnamese may be preparing for a series of major attacks after the first of the year.

This U.S. concern apparently had much to do with bringing about next week's meeting in Paris between Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and North Vietnamese diplomat Le Duc Tho.

Kissinger and Tho negotiated the Vietnam peace agreement signed nearly 11 months ago. That agreement failed to end the fighting in Vietnam, and critics contend that about all it accomplished was the final withdrawal of foreign troops and the return of war prisoners.

While voicing doubt that the Communists will attempt a country-wide offensive on the scale of the 1972 invasion, Friedheim says "They certainly have the capability to cause a considerable fight in South Vietnam if they choose to do so."

Should this happen, Friedheim says, "it is our view that the South Vietnamese can probably handle anything that comes up."

If this optimism is not borne out, the Nixon administration would have to get permission from Congress before it could move to the aid of the South Vietnamese with renewed bombing. It seems highly unlikely Congress would unleash American bombers over Indochina again.

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — Police racing to the scene of a bank robbery in Morganton passed a car fitting the description of the getaway car Thursday. They turned around, and arrested a man.

They identified him as 41-year-old Paul Everett Shaver of Rt. 2, Waxhaw. They said they charged him with robbing the Jamestown Road or West Branch of the Wachovia Bank, and with auto larceny.

Legislative Pay Boost Proposed

RALEIGH (AP)—A $2,000 boost in salaries of North Carolina legislators has tentatively been recommended by a citizens committee.

The committee, however, said the raise should be paid in such a way as to discourage the legislature from meeting more than one four month biennial session.

The committee also voted tentatively to recommend scrapping of the legislative pension system established by the 1969 General Assembly.

The committee, established by the General Assembly to study the pay question, plans to meet next month to formally approve a draft of its recommendation which were tentatively approved Wednesday.

Legislators now receive $200 per month for each month of their two year term. They also receive a $50 per month expense allowance plus travel and $25 per day for expenses when they are in session or attend committee sessions.

Under the committee's proposal, the lawmakers would get $1,500 per month for the first four months of odd-numbered years. Those months are the ones in which the legislature traditionally met when it was on a biennial calendar.

After that, the legislators could still meet. But pay would be cut to $100 per month, in addition to their $25 per day expense allowance.

Called Premature

Contacted this morning UNC Board of Governor Chairman William Dees called the Legislative Medical Manpower Committee's recommendation for the expansion of the East Carolina University School of Medicine "premature."

He said, "There is a lot of work and planning that must be done before the ECU one-year program can be expanded. The Board of Governors has requested a $50,000 appropriation in order to be able to do this planning and evaluation."

"I'm glad that the Commission approved the Board's Area Health Education Program and favored continuing the subsidies to Duke, Bowman Gray, and Meharry Medical Schools."

Dees is a Goldsboro attorney. "I've been in Atlanta for two days and haven't had time to read this document," UNC President William Friday said, when asked for a comment on the Medical Manpower report. He promised to comment Monday morning.

Writing Gas-Use Guides

RALEIGH (AP)—Supplemental regulations are being drafted by the staff of the North Carolina Utilities Commission to clarify the commission's Dec. 5 order for a cut-back in natural gas consumption.

According to commission attorney Edward Hipp, the guidelines should be ready early next week.

Hipp said he is hopeful they will answer many of the questions which have been raised since Dec. 5. The order said all customers would have to cut natural gas use by 15 per cent this winter or pay stiff penalties on the excess.

The penalties provide for double payments for the gas used between 85 and 90 per cent of last year's consumption and quintuple rates for the amount used over 90 per cent.

Hipp said the commission has not decided what to do about gas customers who have moved into new homes or larger homes since last winter.

The Special Senate Committee on Personnel Practices heard testimony here yesterday from a half-dozen Department of Transportation personnel officers and two former employees of the department as they continued their investigation of the Holshouser Administration's personnel practices.

Yesterday's hearing was the fourth held by the Senate committee—the second held outside of Raleigh. The committee was formed and began hearings after wholesale firings, retirements and transfers within the Department of Transportation a number of weeks ago.

The hearings are designed to aid legislators in drafting new laws to protect career employees and at the same time to allow the state to rid itself of employees whose work is unsatisfactory.

Former District 4 engineer R. W. Dawson of Wilson told the Senate panel he was told to resign or be fired. An employee of the state for more than 41 years, Dawson said he had no idea why he was forced to retire.

"It was either retire or be fired," he said.

Neglected Wife Wants Him To Face The Music

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I guess you could call me a "neglected wife." For eight years my husband has played weekends in a country western band, here in town or towns nearby. We used to have fights because I wanted to go with him, but he'd never let me.

I got tired of fighting with him and just gave up. I knew he couldn't be playing all night, but he'd never get home until 7 or 8 the next morning.

He never talks about his music jobs, and he has friends I don't even know.

He has another job during the week, but his country music weekend jobs are what bothers me. He just lives from weekend to weekend. Also, he leaves me without any transportation, so I can't check up on him.

We never do anything as a family. We have two sons, who are getting to be mama's boys because their father has so little time for them. I feel so all alone. I have no one I can tell my troubles to. Can you help me?

NEGLECTED

DEAR NEGLECTED: You need more help than I can give you in a letter. If you can't get your husband to agree to get counseling with you, go without him and get some pointers on how to handle an immature husband, because that's what you have.

DEAR ABBY: About a year and a half ago my sisters gave me a beautiful baby shower. I never did send thank-you notes for all the lovely gifts I received. I really meant to, but I never got around to it because so many things happened all at once. [For one thing, I got pregnant again.]

Anyway, I still want to send thank-you notes for the gifts I got at the shower for my first baby, but I don't want anyone to think I am sending them now to get a gift for my second baby.

I could say something like: "I'm able to use the first gift you gave me for my second baby, so I am sending you a double 'thank you.' Because of all the wonderful gifts I received at the shower I haven't had to buy a thing." [This is true.]

What do you think?

A LITTLE LATE

DEAR LATE: Since you put it that way, I doubt if anyone will think you are hinting for a second gift.

DEAR ABBY: Tonight was my wife's 30th birthday. I am 34. We've been married 10 years. I bought her a corsage and took her out for dinner. When we got home she kissed me and said she wanted another present which wouldn't cost any money, but would take about two minutes of my time. Then she led me to the bedroom and on my pillow she had the following clipping from your column. She said she had been "saving it" until she had the nerve to show it to me. And here it is:

"Dear Abby:

Once again, a letter in your column from a man complaining because his wife doesn't give him enough 'affection.' [I just can't get her into the bedroom.]

When a man says 'affection' he means sex. Sex is great, but what most women really want is affection. The reassuring words, the warm embraces, the loving looks.

In my case, I can't show my husband the least bit of 'affection' without his wanting to head for the bedroom.

He isn't the 'affectionate' type. And he doesn't want to waste time with preliminaries.

Women are advised to fake orgasms in order to please their husbands. Will you please advise men to fake a little affection in order to please their wives? It could save their marriage.

Jinny"

My wife's name is not "Jinny," but I know what she meant. Thanks for printing that letter. Sign me . . .

"WISED "JP"

DEAR WISED: Maybe this will "wise up" others.

Coming To The Hard Decisions

Those who have to decide how we are going to allocate our dwindling energy supplies are now coming down to hard decisions.

And the administration has decided that gasoline production must give way to essential needs.

The Administration energy chief William E.

Common Cause Is Taking Aim

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH — Common Cause, a national lobbying organization founded by former HEW Secretary John Gardner, is spreading its grassroots citizen involvement methods to the state level.

North Carolina is joining California and Alabama as the first of the states to set up units zeroing in on state issues and state legislatures.

Tagging itself nationally "the movement that has proved that citizens can fight and win," Common Cause operates on the basic theory that tried and true lobbying methods which have worked so well for vested interest corporations and associations can work equally well for just plain folks.

That approach will be the keystone of Common Cause North Carolina launched this week. Basically, the group is organized at the U.S. Congressional District level across the state, with membership currently estimated at between 3,500 and 3,800 in the state. This organization will provide some Common Cause member in virtually every county, able to make direct contact with members of the N.C. General Assembly.

No Labels

Cart Carmichael, Charlotte lawyer and native of Greenville, is chairman of the state program. He rejects political or philosophical labels for the movement, saying that "ideally both Democratic and Republican party chiefs in every county would be members."

But Carmichael concedes that most of the membership consists of professional people, lawyers, college professors, and a lot of women active in leagues of women voters or similar action groups.

"There are not, as you might perceive, a lot of the so-called blue collar or hard-hat working group in the membership. I suppose you could generally categorize the movement as somewhat liberal," Carmichael said, "although ideally we will take varying positions depending on the issues at hand."

By its rules, Common Cause will not endorse candidates or help fund campaigns. Anybody who wants to run for office who is a member of the state program committee must drop off that list.

"We're not a threat to any candidate or person or group or organization or representative. Some perceive of Common Cause as constituting a threat... but in reality we are a champion of the system, but intent on making it work for the people," Carmichael said.

No Sifting Rules

The officers or steering committee will not take action on which directions for the group to follow or issues to be taken up. The entire membership is polled, even occasionally using public meeting methods reminiscent of the New England town meeting system, on what issues are most important and what should be done. The system works superbly, Carmichael said, "because we are not locked in by a lot of suffocating rules such as Roberts' Rules of Order. Things are done by open debate and arguing and reaching consensus. We have yet to restrict things by having a motion and a second before something can be done."

The first two items on the Common Cause North Carolina agenda are campaign finances and legislative ethics. Carmichael said Common Cause sees a move to make corporate contributions legal in North Carolina "contrary to the public interest and a clear and present danger."

The group sees some form of limited public financing accompanied by individual donations and strict spending limits as the right direction.

On ethics, Common Cause seeks rules governing any public official "who has any discretionary power in our lives," Carmichael said.

He said those two led the list because they are the hottest issues in the state right now. Additional goals will be set through the state meetings compiling a list, members will rate to assign priorities and the program action committee will form a position and strategy for follow through.

This elaborate system is essential, Carmichael said, "to guard against any one or two people using Common Cause for their own ends."

A full-time paid lobbyist will be working in the 1974 General Assembly, providing liaison with other lobbying groups which will be used whenever aims coincide, reporting on pending legislation, relaying Common Cause positions to legislators, and staking out lawmakers on positions in controversial issues.

Stake Them Out

"On our issues, we will definitely try to get the legislators staked out in advance, let the public know where each stands, and when the vote comes, remind him of his position," Carmichael said.

That accountability of public officials as responsible to the public in both procedural matters and in substance of his action "is the real guts of Common Cause," the chairman said. "Our purpose is to see that public officials are responsive to the needs of the people and are accountable to the people."

Carmichael said he doesn't expect any overnight miracles in working at the state level. "Common Cause will be crawling for awhile... before we can walk."

Simon, proposed that gasoline production be reduced leaving a 25 percent shortage. From the 75 percent that is left priority would go to emergency services, fuel production, public transportation and agriculture.

It is expected that the drastic reduction in gasoline production will cause an increase in production of other fuels for industrial and heating uses.

Controls on the distribution of heating oil, diesel and jet fuels were also proposed, however, with vital services and manufacturers getting priority. Residual oil would be allocated with fuel production, food production, essential services, marine shipping and heating for health services getting priority.

The reduction in gasoline will of course, mean that pleasure cars will be getting far less fuel in a short time. The allocation of fuel oil will mean that households will be required to cut their heat back by six degrees and other buildings by ten degrees to make the supplies last through the winter.

The cut backs, which are proposed to take effect Dec. 27, are not going to be to everyone's liking. The gas cutbacks are going to mean all us do considerably less driving. However, we agree with the philosophy of taking care of essential needs of our nation first.

Next Time We'll Hear From Precinct No. 10

Voters in Greenville will find a new precinct when they go to the polls next year.

Greenville 9 is being split and a new Greenville 10 will be established. It will be south of Greenville Boulevard and east of Highway 43 and will vote at the E. B. Aycock School.

The change should make voting easier for citizens living in these two precincts.

Greet Idea Of Wallace Visit

By JOHN KILGO

RALEIGH—Jim Sugg, chairman of the North Carolina Democratic Party, says his office has received nothing but favorable response since it was announced that Alabama Gov. George Wallace would speak to Tar Heel Democrats on Feb. 16.

"We've had comments from all sections of the state concerning Gov. Wallace's visit," Sugg told me, "and it's all been favorable. I'm sure there are some Democrats who are less than enthusiastic about Gov. Wallace's visit, but I think even they know the man can help us get together."

Sugg says Wallace still has a tremendous following in North Carolina, as his victory in the presidential primary showed.

"A great many voters identify with Gov. Wallace," Sugg said. "Our invitation to him in no way is an effort to turn back the clock. But some Democrats who felt estranged last time will know that their point of view will be recognized, with other points of view, in the North Carolina Democratic Party."

No one is talking about it publicly, but one reason for Wallace's visit is to bring back some of those Democrats who felt jilted when Democrats approved the so-called "quota" system for committees and convention delegates. It brought in more blacks, women and young people—but it kicked out some old-line Democrats who had worked for the Party for years.

"We're looking for a big crowd," Sugg says.

Mail has poured into Sugg's office since the Wallace visit was announced.

One Goldsboro man thanked Sugg and Skipper Bowles for arranging the Wallace visit, saying: "Finally a shining light comes through murky skies. Wallace never left the Democratic Party. The Democratic Party left him."

A Henderson man wrote Sugg: "My parents and grandparents were Democrats, but when Gov. Wallace ran for President, I actively supported him. Bringing him to North Carolina is a step in the right direction."

Sugg says he feels North Carolina Democrats are much more united than they were a year ago when they lost a seat in the U. S. Senate and dropped the Governor's Mansion to the Republicans.

"Everything isn't peaches and cream with us," Sugg says, "but we're unquestionably more united than we were 18 months ago. I think we've learned that primaries must be run in a way that winners and losers can grasp hands and work together for the Democratic Party in the general election. We learned the lesson the hard way, but sometimes that's the only way to learn."

What would happen to the Democrats if they have a heated battle for the U. S. Senate, between Sam Ervin and Robert Morgan?

"Knowing both of those men," Sugg said, "I'm certain they would run a primary in a way that they could get back together after it was over and support the winner in the general election. I don't think either man would get so out of joint that he wouldn't work for the other in the general election. The same can be said for Henry Hall Wilson. I hope all of our primaries will be loyal to the Democratic Party."

Sugg says it's hard to tell what effect Watergate has had on North Carolina politics.

"But if we rely on Watergate to win for us," Sugg said, "we'd be sorely disappointed. We must get out there and work hard for the next election. Anything less than a total effort could be disastrous."

Strength For Today

POISONED CHALICES

A story is told of an ancient King who one day when being handed a cup filled with poisoned wine, made over it the sign of the cross and uttered the name of Christ. The cup immediately fell from his hands and was dashed to pieces at his feet.

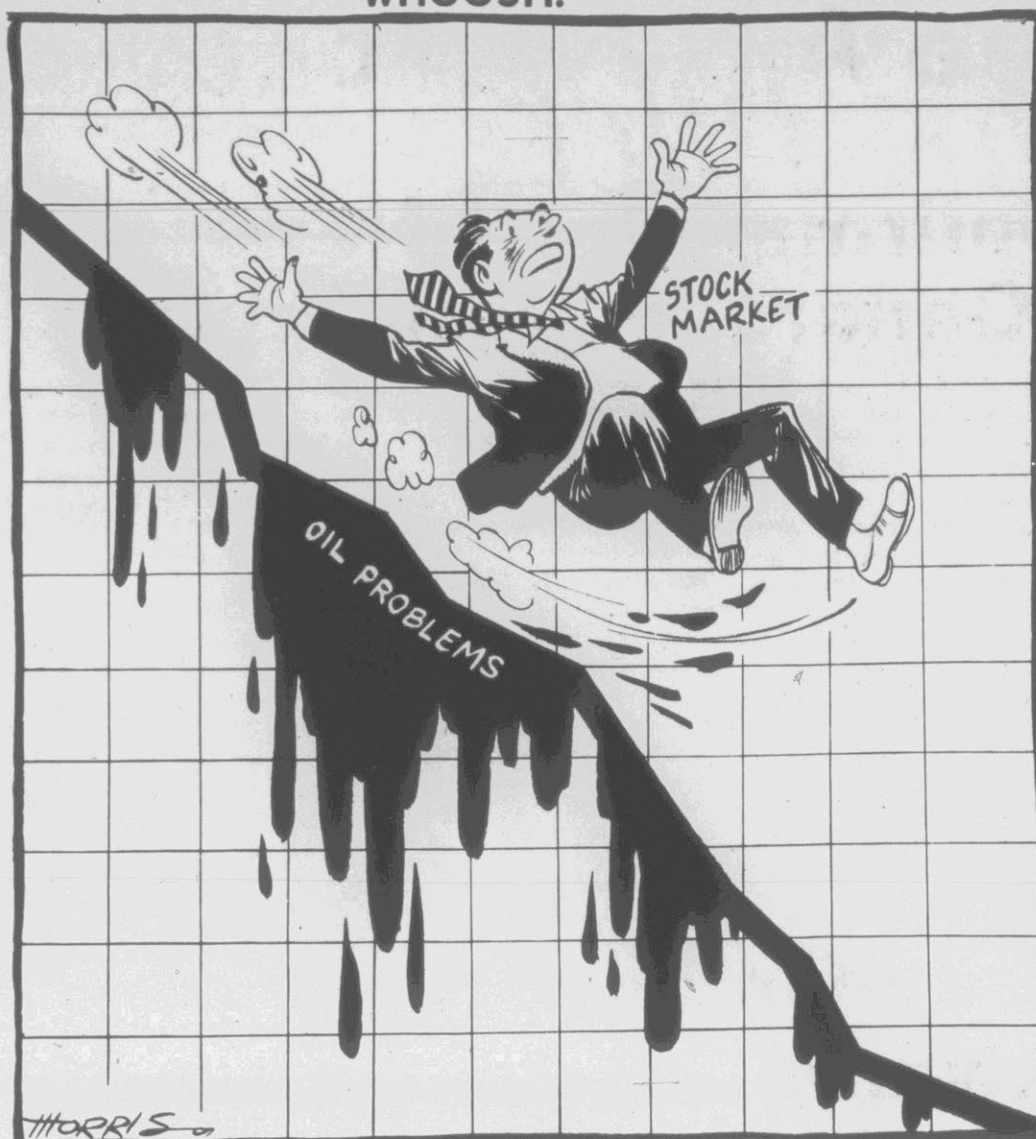

Actually there is some truth in what we might regard as an absurd story. If we bring Christ into the dangerous and threatening situations of life which confront us, we may avoid the poison they have in store for us. If we bring to Him the best we know every day and ask Him to put it aside if it does not match the best He has in store for us—then the world's poisoned chalices of temptation will not harm us.

The way to separate the false from the true, the evil from the good, is to bring all things before the Lord of life for his judgment. What is evil will disappear; what is good will become our strength and inspiration.

They All Feel Better

WASHINGTON—Vice President Gerald Ford said last weekend on Meet the Press that he expected Americans to "feel much better" after Mr. Nixon released his financial records to the press.

He did add that some people might continue to wonder if the President paid enough income tax.

Monday I decided to make an informal survey among my acquaintances to find out if indeed they did feel better now that Mr. Nixon's finances are a matter of public record.

ART BUCHWALD

The first one I asked was a taxi driver. He confirmed Vice President Ford's statement.

"I feel great," he said as we were stuck in traffic on K St. "I just discovered that I paid the same amount of taxes as the President of the United States."

"But he made a lot more money than you did," I said.

"That shows you," the cabdriver said, "that Nixon is a man of the people. Despite his friends, his position and his wealth, he still insists on paying the same taxes as a little guy like me. It proves he hasn't lost the common touch."

When I got to my office I ran into a tax lawyer on my floor who also said he felt much better since Nixon released his financial statement. "Four new clients have called me this morning wanting to know why they had to pay capital gains on their property, and the President of the United States didn't."

"What did you tell them?" I asked him.

New Data In Housing-Deprived

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — A new statistic has been added to the numerical portrait of the United States: some 13.1 million of the nation's 63.4 million households are what is termed "housing-deprived."

This figure is a brand-new one, simply because nobody had defined the category until the Joint Center for Urban Studies took on the task. But while the terminology might be questioned, the figure cannot be.

The center, a cooperative venture of Massachusetts Institute of Technology and Harvard, studied the situation because of the obvious defects in analyses that had been the basis for government action.

The most important of these earlier studies was that made in 1968 by the President's Committee on Urban Housing, from which emerged the popular forecast of a need for 26 million new housing units in 10 years.

That assumption was made up of an expected need for 18 million to 20 million units to satisfy growing needs and the replacement of 6 million to 8 million units deemed physically inadequate.

The MIT-Harvard study questions the significance of that figure. Housing deprivation, it maintains, results not just from physically inadequate facilities but for other reasons too, such as high rents.

And the solution, it adds, is not to be found in merely building new units. In fact, it states, many of the people classified as being housing-deprived are living in physically sound buildings.

This is what the center's director, Bernard Frieden, and principal investigator, David Birch, included in their definition of housing-deprived:

1. Physically unsound units.
2. Physically sound but overcrowded.
3. Physically sound, not overcrowded, but too expensive.
4. Physically sound, not overcrowded, and reasonably priced, but inadequate neighborhood.

Their figure of 13.1 million households is conservative, they maintain, because no households with income of more than $10,000 was considered deprived and because they were unable to obtain data on the fourth category.

In summary, they concluded that a "decent" home should be not only in physically sound condition and in suitable environment but should contain sufficient space and should not place an undue burden on budgets.

The fact is, say the authors, that housing deprivation has actually declined in the past decade or so by more than two million units. In 1960, based on their definition, 15.3 million households were deprived.

More important, however, is that the composition of deprivation has changed greatly. In 1960 about 71 per cent of the problem was physical inadequacy. In 1970 that had dropped to 53 per cent and was still falling.

The growing problem now, they say, is the burden of high rents. In 1960, this complaint was only 24 per cent of the problem, but 10 years later it

Senate Confirmation Of New Attorney General Is Assured

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Prompt and overwhelming Senate confirmation of Sen. William B. Saxbe's nomination as attorney general now seems assured.

The way was cleared for Senate action, set for Monday, by a 15 to 1 vote of the Senate Judiciary Committee.

The only no vote was by Sen. Sam Ervin Jr., D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee.

The committee vote was taken Thursday at a 2½-hour closed meeting. Some senators at the meeting urged efforts to obtain presidential assurances of the independence of special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Saxbe, an Ohio Republican who had pledged in earlier testimony to uphold Jaworski's independence, was called into the meeting for about 40 minutes.

Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and Philip A. Hart, D-

Mich., said before the meeting that the committee should obtain written assurances from President Nixon before acting on Saxbe's nomination.

But they did not press this to a vote, and afterwards it was announced that Republican Leader Hugh Scott would seek clarification of Jaworski's authority.

Scott called it "a tempest in a teapot," but said he would undertake to get assurances from the White House or Jaworski that there are "no limitations" on the special prosecutor's powers.

"I am sure we can clarify it to the satisfaction of most senators," he said.

Kennedy and Hart said they wanted further assurances because of the Oct. 20 firing of Archibald Cox, the first special prosecutor.

Saxbe was nominated by Nixon to succeed Elliot L. Richardson, who resigned as attorney general rather than carry out the presidential directive to dismiss Cox.

Ervin said he considers Saxbe constitutionally disqualified for the appointment because the salary of the attorney general was raised during Saxbe's Senate term from $35,000 a year to $60,000.

Congress passed legislation earlier this month rolling the attorney general's pay back to $35,000, but Ervin said this did not overcome a constitutional ban on appointing a member of Congress to an office for which the salary was increased during his term.

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — Some South Vietnamese officials believe Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger got Hanoi's Le Duc Tho to agree to another meeting by promising American aid dollars or a political settlement in the South.

These officials realize that Washington controls the Saigon government's purse strings and therefore is in a position to bend its proteges to its will.

With the January cease-fire a farce and the political talks in Paris between the Saigon government and the Viet Cong nothing more than a forum for rhetoric, the White House announced Thursday that Kissinger and Tho would meet in Paris Dec. 20. It will be their second conference in six months.

A chief spokesman for the South Vietnamese Foreign Ministry said the government was informed in advance of the meeting and has no objection.

"The purpose is to review the present situation in Vietnam. That's all I am authorized to say," he added.

Another official who refused to be identified by name said Kissinger and Tho, cowinners of the Nobel Peace Prize, would make another effort to put into effect the major provisions of the peace agreement signed in Paris last January.

Their June meeting failed to do that, and the situation has deteriorated since then.

"I think North Vietnam has been promised something," said another South Vietnamese official. "If not, Le Duc Tho would never come to Paris again. He would stubbornly insist that the Communist side is strictly implementing the agreement and say there was no reason to meet again."

"I'm sure it means some kind of concession, maybe U.S. aid or some kind of a political settlement. North Vietnam needs economic aid badly."

Could the United States put pressure on President Nguyen Van Thieu for a political settlement?

"If the oil pipeline is shut off, if the ammunition is not delivered, what can we do?" asked one official.

Officials say there are also some problems between the United States and North Vietnam to be worked out. Hanoi wants the United States to stop its high-altitude reconnaissance flights over the North — a violation of the peace agreement that U.S. sources admit is taking place — and the United States wants help from the Communists in accounting for 1,300 missing American servicemen.

Radio Hanoi said Kissinger asked for the meeting with Tho. Nhan Dan, the official North Vietnamese government newspaper, indicated Tho wanted to talk about aid to North Vietnam, the American reconnaissance flights and a reduction in U.S. military aid to South Vietnam.

Corn-Growing Awards For 3

Three area corn growers have been named to receive special awards for their outstanding corn yields in Funk's-G

Project:200 high yield corn growing program. The announcement was made by The Producers of Funks G-Hybrids.

Award-winning corn growers, their yields and hybrids are: Steve Abbott, Grifton, 148.6 Bu-Acre with G-1757; Leslie Johnson, Ayden, 111.0 Bu-Acre with G-5757; and David Grant, Ayden, 115.3 Bu-Acre with G-5757.

Project:200 is America's largest high yield corn growing contest. It challenges growers to increase corn yields on their land for greater productivity and profit. In 1971 and 1972, more than 10,000 U.S. and Canadian growers submitted Project:200 entries.

Project:200 participants agree to harvest as shelled corn a minimum of two acres from not less than four adjacent rows running the full length of the field. The information on area harvested, grain weight, and moisture content is verified by a disinterested witness. Final yields are reported on the basis of No. 2 corn.

Information regarding Project:200 entries is computerized by Funk Seeds International, Inc. It is then summarized and made available to corn growers everywhere so producers can compare their corn growing methods to those of other top corn growers.

"I told them I didn't know, but if they wanted to pay me a $1,000 retainer I could find out for them. Nixon's tax returns could be a boon for tax lawyers and accountants all over the country. He's shown us loopholes we never knew existed. I think he's a beautiful person."

I called Herringbone, a stockbroker, and asked him how he felt since the release of the Nixon tax papers.

"It's the best thing that's happened to me in the last two months," he replied.

"How's that?"

"Well, if you read his charitable deductions for 1972, Mr. Nixon, on an income of $200,000 a year plus a $50,000 expense account, donated only $295 to charity."

"Why would that make you feel good?"

"I don't like to give to charity either, but I never had a good reason to refuse before. From now on, when someone hits me for a donation, I'll just say I'm budgeted for charity at $295 the same as the President of the United States. That should get people off my back."

Plato, my waiter, said he didn't feel as good as Gerry Ford thought he might. He has been having a running battle with the IRS over a $150 deduction he took on his uniforms. When Plato read that the President was going to let a joint congressional committee on taxation decide if he had paid enough taxes, the waiter called IRS and suggested his problem also be turned over to Congress.

Plato's IRS agent said it could not be done. He told Plato "Only a President of the United States can take his tax matters to the Congress."

"It gets me mad," said Plato, "because I have a better case than Nixon."

But Plato was the only one I talked to who didn't feel better since President Nixon has turned over his income tax returns.

Everyone else felt good.

As Doc Dalinsky, my druggist, said to me with pride, "Where else but in America could a man making $250,000 annually have to pay only an average of $5,969 a year in income taxes."

Finding No Reluctance

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A White House assistant says that despite troubles of the Nixon administration he has found it no tougher to recruit people for government jobs although it might mean a cut in their salary.

David Smith, 31, a staff assistant to the President, added in an interview Thursday that, if anything, Watergate, the oil crisis and other difficulties have "made people realize now is the time to come to the aid of the country. I think there's a tremendous patriotism in the country. I think people want to serve."

However, Smith acknowledged in his hometown of Charlotte that he looks for people in general agreement with what the administration is trying to do.

The presidential appointee jobs for which he recruits range from deputy assistant secretaries to cabinet aides. They pay up to $38,000 a year.

Overseas Scholarship Awarded ECU Alumnus

The East Carolina University Scholarship Committee has received word that Claude L. Hughes, Jr., has been awarded a Rotary International Fellowship for one year's study at the University of Glasgow Medical School in Glasgow, Scotland.

The purpose of these scholarships is to improve understanding between countries by personal interactions and to grant outstanding scholars a broad intellectual experience. Rotary International Fellows are chosen on the basis of outstanding scholarship, proven qualities of leadership, and the necessary qualification to be an ambassador for the Rotary Club.

Hughes, an honor graduate of New Bern High School, was nominated by the New Bern Rotary Club. (The Fellowship includes transportation, education costs, living expenses and other related expenses for one year's study.)

As a National Verit Semifinalist, Hughes attended the 1969 East Carolina University Scholarship Weekend. He was interviewed by the ECU Academic Scholarship Committee and awarded a $4,000 ECU Academic Scholarship. At East Carolina University, he received the Mary Caughey Helms Award for outstanding work in Biology and was selected for "Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities." He was active in scientific research, and presented and published several scientific papers. In 1973, he graduated Magna Cum Laude from ECU and is now attending Duke Medical School.

Hughes is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude L. Hughes, Sr., of New Bern. His wife, the former Susan Patricia Fiery is also a 1973 ECU graduate with a BS in Biology.

Hughes plans to take a leave of absence from Duke Medical School and study immunology or immunochemistry in Glasgow. After his year in Scotland, he intends to obtain his MD from Duke University and do further medical research.

GRIFTON—A report on the Christmas Promotion, a discussion on holiday closing of stores, and presentation of a slate of officers for 1974 were the main items on the agenda of the Grifton Chamber of Commerce December meeting Monday.

The Chamber recommended that local stores close December 25 and 26 for Christmas holidays unless the nature of the business requires otherwise.

ROME (AP) — Italy, a land of numerous government-run lotteries and soccer pools, has a special New Year's gamble on a contest called "canzonissima" — the very best song.

Singers, mostly professionals, present their own songs on a series of nationally televised shows, and by a complicated process the contest winner determines who wins the lottery prizes. First prize is usually about a quarter of a million dollars — untaxed.

New Children's Museum

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — The new Children's Museum of Indianapolis, when finished in 1976, is expected to be the largest such museum in the world. The $5.5 million facility will contain 190,000 square feet. A 70-foot-high ramp which exits every 11 feet to the five staggered levels will form the core of the new museum.

Sunday Carol Program Set

A program entitled "Feast of Carols" will be presented at Memorial Baptist Church Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

The program includes music, staging, lighting, scenery, and costumes. The cast of the nativity tableau and the choir includes all age groups of the church.

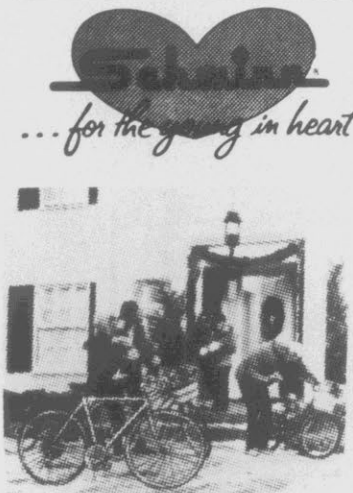

The service will enable parents and children to share together the understanding and joy of the first Christmas.

During the service, a time will be set aside for members to bring White Christmas offerings (food of any kind, such as canned goods, wrapped in white paper) to the seat of the Christ child. The food will be distributed among the needy.

The program will be presented under the direction of Danny H. Tindall, director of music. The Rev. Norman Bennett is pastor.

The church is located at 1510 Greenville Blvd.

Farmers Said Disillusioned

CHICAGO (AP) — Wallace Farmer, a leading rural magazine, says that farm disillusionment with the Nixon administration is at an all-time high.

In an editorial by F. R. Jimson, the magazine says polls show that less than one farmer in five thinks President Nixon is doing a good job handling agricultural affairs. The confidence of eastern Corn Belt farmers in the President's handling of the general economy is even lower at 15 per cent.

"Supply shortages and the fear of government interference have added to the frustration and uncertainty," says Jimson.

Demos Warned Win In '76 Not Assured

By DAVID HIMMELSTEIN
Associated Press Writer
CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—The chairman of the Democratic Charter Commission says "a Democrat won't automatically win the Presidency in 1976" because of President Nixon's Watergate troubles.

Former North Carolina Gov. Terry Sanford came to Concord Thursday as part of a nationwide series of public hearings on the writing of a new Democratic national charter.
Sanford covered a broad gamut of party and national issues during a press conference held before the afternoon hearing at the State House.
He expressed confidence that Democrats would pick up additional congressional seats and governorships in next year's election, but repeatedly cautioned against complacency.
"We're not going to get anywhere if Democrats don't conduct positive campaigns, with the candidates offering constructive proposals."

Speaking about President Nixon, Sanford said, "There has never been an administration quite as lacking in openness and candor, let alone having the people participate in the governmental process. I think there has been a misleading of the people."
Sanford emphasized a major concern of the charter commission would be to devise an equitable formula for selecting 1976 convention delegates without repeating past mistakes including a quota system.
"In 1968, women and minorities felt excluded from the convention and therefore didn't participate in the general election and we lost. In 1972, we excluded the party regulars. In attempting to correct one deficiency we created another."

"We're looking for an open party that allows participation from people who had been left out. But we don't want to do it through quotas. Quotas are artificial equality."
A study group headed by Sen. Hubert Humphrey, Sanford said, is also working on a different method for choosing a vice president.
Plans call for the Democrats to hold a national charter convention in Kansas City in December 1974. The charter commission anticipates 2,000 delegates to attend—200 Democratic office-holders and 1,800 grass-roots delegates elected in party caucuses or primary elections.

Maria Carrier, New Hampshire member of the charter commission, said she will file legislation to allow names of delegate candidates to be placed on the state's 1974 primary ballot.
Besides producing a delegate-selection formula and insuring a "winning party," Sanford said the charter convention would also issue general policy statements on national issues.

The policy statements, according to Sanford, wouldn't be dogmatic, and would recognize the diversity of viewpoint in the party. He said there should be no need to assert policy positions "that would divide George Wallace from the Black Caucus."
Approximately 20 New Hampshire Democrats testified at the hearings and offered proposals for consideration in the writing of the charter. The participants included Manchester Mayor Sylvio Dupuis, assistant House Minority Leader Chris Spirou and state Democratic chairman David LaRoche.

Provides Aid To Fuel-less

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — Gasoline samaritans will be patrolling area roads on Sundays to find open gas stations and to flash the word to motorists stranded without fuel.
The project is run by REACT — Radio Emergency Associated Citizens Team. Coordinator Wayne Coombs says the team, which passes along its information by telephone and two-way radio, was swamped with 200 desperate calls from motorists who were out of gas last Sunday.
President Nixon has urged a voluntary shutdown of service stations on Sundays to conserve fuel, and pending legislation would make the closures mandatory.

"Last Sunday, while manning the REACT office, I called various service stations, more or less on a lark, and asked them if they would be opened Sunday," Coombs said.
"Then, I compiled a list of stations and notified the state patrol and one radio station that it was available to callers."

Almost all gas stations in the area were closed, and more than 200 persons called for information, he said.

Coombs said three volunteers will answer the telephones this weekend between noon and 10 p.m. And, to augment the program this week, five others will patrol the area with two-way radios, reporting the location and hours of open service stations.

REACT is coordinating its efforts with local and state police and the California State Automobile Association. The team has spent the week calling local gas stations to draw up a master list of those which will be open Sunday.

Senior Choir Offers Special Sunday Music

Mrs. Carlene Ragan, director of the Senior Choir of the Holy Trinity United Methodist Church, will lead the group in the presentation of the "Music of Christmas" to be given Sunday at 11 a.m. services.

The numbers will include, in addition to the full choir renditions, three solos beginning with "O Come, O Come, Emmanuel" by Daniel Jones, trumpeter, a tenor solo by James McQuisten "I Sing of a Maiden," and a soprano solo by Mrs. Jackie Heath, "A Christmas Night Cradle Song" with women voice accompanying will conclude the program.

The musical service will be held in the new sanctuary of the church located on Red Banks Road, across from the Aycock Junior High School.

The public is invited.

Ransom Is Paid By Getty Family

ROME (AP) — J. Paul Getty III, missing grandson of the United States oil billionaire, will be returning home now that a $3 million ransom has been paid for his release, the newspaper Il Tempo says.

But the boy's mother, former actress Gail Harris, denied the ransom had been paid and said no one should believe Il Tempo's Thursday report.

The 17-year-old high school dropout vanished July 10 and police at first believed his disappearance a hoax. But those who claim to have kidnaped him reportedly sent a severed ear to another Rome paper and a third daily received color snapshots purporting to show the young Getty without his right ear.

Police said the photos looked authentic and that they now believe the boy's return is imminent.

constructed at a preliminary estimated cost of $405,000. The State construction grant is for $300,000 and the Pitt County Board of Commissioners are providing the remaining $105,000 which has already been set aside.

Bob Martin, Chairman of the Pitt County Board of County Commissioners, said "Construction on the new mental health center will begin as soon as possible. We will be getting our architect on this immediately to get the final plans in hand."

In response to a question by Commissioners Chairman Martin, Dr. Zarzar informed that the possibility of securing staffing grants and monies for special programs is looking better now than it has in the immediate past. Funds for staffing through Federal Grants, State Government grants, securing monies through Medicare for services rendered and others is "a real possibility now." Dr. Zarzar pointed out that "there are some funds which might could be developed on the local area by working with Social Services." He added, "For example, it is estimated that 30 percent of Social Services clients need, to some degree, mental health services. Too, we can provide better services in some instances for the aged and mentally retarded by Social Services and Mental Health Services working together."

Dr. Zarzar also pointed out that ABC Board money from the five cents on the bottle of liquor old being placed with the Mental Health Center will provide funds for use in developing programs and services for alcoholic people.

He also said various programs and services which are available and are being developed to help people with alcohol problems and the need for early identification.

Dr. Leo Jankins, Chancellor of East Carolina University, pointed out to the Mental Health Services officials making the on-site visit for the construction grant, that ECU welcomes the development of a comprehensive mental health center facility, programs and services in Pitt County. He said that this will be an asset to Eastern N.C. and will add to the educational program at ECU in that it will provide a more appropriate source for internship of psychology majors at ECU.

Members of the on-site Mental Health Services team, in addition to Dr. Zarzar and Dr. Osberg, were: Julian Hanlon, nationally renowned Mental Health Consultant; Mrs. Sally Cameron, Mental Health Grants Coordinator; Richard "Dick" Bickel, Chief of Business Services; and George Adams, Assistant Eastern Regional Director.

Cites Flaws In Controls

"Inflationary controls do not necessarily curb inflation," Dr. Louis Zincone, ECU professor of economics, told the Eastern Carolina Chapter of the National Association of Accountants Wednesday night.

He said unnecessary shortages in goods and services are created by current controls and the cost of complying with current federal regulations is excessive and a waste of valuable resources. Furthermore, he said, the available expertise in the private sector of our economy is not being effectively used by the federal government to reduce costs and improve efficiency.

He proposed that current controls on the economy to be removed and that prices and wages and available resources be permitted to balance within a free economy framework. He said the type and degree of fiscal and economic controls exercised by the federal government should be revised to minimize direct regulations and encourage individuals and businesses to help themselves and thereby help the economy as a whole to properly utilize resources, promote efficiency, and minimize related costs, including those of pollution control.

The former engineer said however, that his relationship with Division 4 personnel officer George R. Thomas soured following a dispute over the filling of a maintenance supervisor's job.

Another former employee, J. G. Brown, maintenance supervisor for Edgecombe County, said he was fired "for political reasons."

A veteran of 37 years service with the state, Brown told the senators his political activity included selling a ticket to a Democratic rally to another employee at the other's request "before work one day" and allowing incumbent Rep. Larry Eagles to speak to employees early one morning before time to start work.

Thomas, who also testified yesterday, said only four employees in Division 4 were retired or dismissed—one of them Dawson, another Brown.

Thomas said he did not know why Dawson retired, but gave reasons for two other firings. He said one involved the sale of tickets to a fund raising rally to an employee on state property and allowing candidates to speak on state property, and one involved using state employees to harvest tobacco.

Thomas, who said he was employed in the Division 4 post in July said an earlier effort to gain state employment several years ago failed. He said at that time, during the Scott administration, he had been told "your politics is wrong." Thomas said one of the references on his application at that time was Sen. W. J. Blanchard of Salemburg—a member of the committee hearing testimony yesterday and a Republican.

Another of the personnel officers testifying yesterday said he too, had attempted to gain state employment in the past, unsuccessfully.

J. L. "Jim" Bishop Jr. of Greenville, currently personnel officer with Division 2 here, theorized that one of the references on his first application may have prevented his employment under a past administration. He said that reference was Dr. John East of Greenville, an active Republican.

Bishop testified that no one in Division 2 was fired or forced to retire. He did note, however that three or four employees had been counseled by either the President Anwar Sadat said today Egypt will not negotiate directly with Israel at the Middle East peace conference. He told newsmen in Cairo that Egypt was willing to be in the same room with Israeli representatives, "but if you are talking about direct negotiations, the answer is no."

He also said he hoped the two sides would be able to bargain seriously about disengagement of Egyptian and Israeli forces before Christmas.

Sadat spoke after meeting with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger for the second time in two days.

Kissinger later left for Saudi Arabia, where in talks with King Faisal he hopes to ease the Arab oil embargo, Cairo's official Middle East News Agency said.

Kissinger's second session with Sadat followed a nighttime communication between the secretary and President Nixon in Washington and talks in Cairo with the Soviet, British and French ambassadors.

It was learned that the head of the U.S. delegation to the Geneva peace talks will be Ambassador Ellsworth Bunker, 79, the ambassador at large who has been a top trouble shooter for several presidents.

U.S. officials indicated Kissinger will attend the ceremonial start of the talks Tuesday but will leave Geneva for Paris on the second day. Bunker and a team of officials will then represent the United States at the parley.

Today's session between Sadat and Kissinger, in the president's country villa 17 miles north of Cairo, was marked by cordial handshakes and smiles, similar to the start of the first meeting Thursday night.

Before newsmen were ushered out of the presidential salon today they heard Kissinger say to Sadat:

"I appreciated your hospitality last night very much. I think it was very useful. Our President sends his warm regards. I communicated with him during the night."

No details were available of the specific matters discussed by Kissinger and Sadat or what the contact with Nixon was about.

Before the midmorning private session with Sadat the secretary squeezed in a breakfast with the British and French ambassadors to Cairo, a short visit to the Egyptian museum and a 20-minute talk with Soviet envoy Vladimir Vinogradov.

U.S. officials said the talks with Vinogradov—the second since Kissinger arrived Thursday night—dealt with procedures leading toward the peace conference and also with "substantive issues." There was no elaboration.

The peace conference is sponsored by Washington and Moscow but Kissinger and the Egyptians have yet to work out the procedures involved in convening the parley, sources said.

Earlier, U.S. officials reported that Kissinger and Sadat agreed that the first thing the peace conference should do is work out a separation of forces along the Suez front.

James Jones—'Guardian Of Traditional Novel'

By LUCINDA L. FRANKS
NEW YORK (UPI) — James Jones sharpens pencils with a pocket knife, thinks Americans are self-punishing Puritans, and sees himself as the guardian of traditional values in the American novel.

He is small, slow-talking and quick to smile. One might think he stepped out of a western saloon town during the gold rush. Like a young Gabby Hayes, he could be freshly shaved and somehow look like he was growing a new beard.

It's been a long time since "From Here to Eternity" made him one of America's best-known novelists. For Jones, it has been an eternity. He hardly remembers who he was back then.

"I've been 10, 12, 15 different people since then. It was a quick success and for that, I'm grateful," he said with a squint and a stroke of his chin. "It gave me the royalties to be a writer." Jones writes furiously and prolifically. Lately, he has discovered methods of conserving energy and recharging himself so he can write more in one day. When he tries, he lies down for awhile until he feels his mind moving toward "the tensile movement" whereupon he scrambles up and unlooses another few hundred words on the typewriter.

His latest book "Touch of Danger," recently published by Doubleday, was written quickly and experiments with the genre of mystery thriller, new for the veteran novelist. It is a rattling suspense tale which contains a smattering of observations on expatriate hippies, decaying European aristocrats, and rich Americans.

As Jones looks back on the novel, which focused at enlisted men in the Army during the period leading up to Pearl Harbor, he finds it a bit simplistic. Although the four novels which followed never achieved the success of the first, Jones feels he came closer in them to fulfilling his literary objectives.

"I've sort of fallen out of love with 'Eternity'. Since then I've tried to capture more of the complexities of relationships between four or five people," he said.

"People criticize me for not developing more of a style but to me, content is the important thing," he said. "Style for its own sake—which is what many of today's writers are indulging in—leaves the story far behind."

"I like to tell a tale, show how people react to different situations. I'm old-fashioned that way. I like to think of myself as the guardian of the traditional novel."

Jones doesn't play literary politics. He has lived abroad, in Paris and Greece, with his wife and two children for the past ten years.

He won't live in New York and plug into the literary cocktail circuit for he thinks New York is in the throes of an intellectual malaise. He regards Tom Wolfe and "the novel is dead" proponents as foolish.

"The nonfiction book can never be an explorer of the soul the way the novel can," he said. "Only the novel can give one enough freedom to delicately shape the nuances of a relationship."

"I'm not worried. I'm sure the novel will last out my lifetime."

Jones may dislike New York, but as far as he is concerned, the rest of America is doing just fine. It would be better, he thinks, if its citizens did not tend to be so self-punishing.

"Americans must always find the absolute evil, the absolute good, and with Watergate they have found the absolute scandal," he said. "It's a ridiculous quality but it's also a rather lovable one."

"Perhaps it is the Puritan in us that makes a whole nation rise up in arms because an administration took away a few civil rights."

Jones, who recently returned from a trip to South Vietnam, thinks that the tragic effect of the war on American society has been exaggerated.

"America has tremendous recuperative powers and we will forget this like we've forgotten so many other things," he said.

Chinese Lib Has A Voice

TOKYO (AP) — Men and women should share household chores, Hsinhua news agency quotes a leading Chinese journal as saying today.

The theoretical journal Red Flag said that for centuries the "guiding ideology ... was to treat women as slaves and appendages, confining them to the kitchen, binding them to back-breaking household chores and depriving them of the right to take part in social production and political life."

Red Flag said that has all been changed but more needs to be done.

"It is necessary to advocate that men and women should share household chores. At the same time, late marriage and family planning should be encouraged..."

Red Flag said that never before have such large numbers of competent and outstanding women come to the fore, but the number of women cadres is not commensurate with the needs of China's socialist revolution and construction.

Mrs. Condon Town Police Commissioner

GRIFTON—Mrs. Catherine Condon was appointed police commissioner for the town of Grifton at the town board meeting Tuesday night.

Mrs. Condon, Grifton's first woman town commissioner, was appointed by Mayor Dave Bosley.

In other business, the new commissioners and mayor were sworn in for their new terms of office.

Mrs. Condon plans to hold regular monthly meetings with the police department prior to the town board meetings.

In addition to serving as town commissioner, Mrs. Condon is the town librarian, and treasurer of the Grifton Chamber of Commerce, Grifton Shad Festival, Grifton Resources Improvement Program, and St. Jude's Catholic Church.

She is vice president of the Pitt County Extension Homemakers Council, a member of the Grifton Extension Homemakers, a member of the Pitt County Mental Health Association and was named Grifton's outstanding citizen last year.

Mrs. Condon, a Grifton native, is married to John Condon and they have one son.

Her Water Bill Was Ocean-Size

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Esther Robinson was understandably upset when she received a water bill for $1,313.

Mrs. Robinson lives alone with two dogs in a mobile home, has no lawn to care for and does not own a washer or any other appliance which uses large amounts of water.

Just the month before, she had received a bill for $167. It had seemed exorbitant, but not quite so much as the latest bill, which contained a notice that her faucets would be turned off if she didn't pay up.

The city water department checked into the matter and it didn't take long to find the answer. A meter installed on the lot Mrs. Robinson bought had been running in reverse, Mrs. Robinson, said water officials, actually owed only $8.70 for two months' service.

Rafts Floating On Farmlands

By ROBERT E. SULLIVAN
BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Timothy Mulcahy watched his ranch foreman float by on a sail-equipped raft over what used to be his pastureland and reminisced about last winter's flood that looks like it will never go away.

"We lost 50 per cent of our crop," said the 31-year-old rancher, "and it cost four times as much as normal to harvest what was left."

Buenos Aires Province, which by itself is larger than Italy, was hit during the southern hemisphere winter with more than 60 inches of rainfall, most of it in two months. The average annual rainfall is 30 inches. The land is flat and the water has nowhere to go. Six months later it is still there.

Increasing Mulcahy's harvesting expense was the need to buy a huge four-wheel drive tractor that could maneuver on the muddy ground that was not fully flooded.

He also bought 1,100 pigs to eat the corn that the tractors couldn't get and that would have gone to waste.

"We couldn't sell it as grain," said Mulcahy's wife Marianne, a native of Cornwall, England, "so we sold it in the stomachs of pigs."

Had To Sell

Mulcahy, his father, and his two brothers who run the farm that has been in the family since 1865, were forced to sell more than 10 per cent of the 5,600 acre spread.

But they could not offer for sale the acreage remaining under water.

"It may take as much as four or five years for the water to drain," Mulcahy said, "since it is already at the water table (or level of the underground water)."

A British economic writer said "it is as if there were a long constant rainfall in Holland. Holland would disappear."

At its height in May the flood covered somewhere between 2.4 million and 5 million acres, or an area that would cover much of Holland.

It is perhaps a measure of the size of Argentina's fertile farmland that despite the floods there were no wheat or corn shortages. But some govern-

Flag-Flying Is Council Gesture

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — City councilmen here have proposed a patriotic answer to the nation's energy shortage: the American Flag.

"Be it resolved by the Council of the City of New Orleans that the Council does hereby request that in lieu of energy-consuming lighting, the citizens of New Orleans express their feeling for God and country, particularly at Christmas time, by flying the American Flag during the week of Dec. 23 through Dec. 31 in a gesture of good will and peace to all mankind," read the council's resolution.

It passed unanimously.

Fuel-Sharing Plan Offered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. James Martin, R-N.C., has a plan he says would result in more equitable sharing in the fuel shortage.

He introduced Thursday an amendment proposing that if the President rationed fuel, each consumer would get a basic share or ration, and would have an option to purchase extra fuel at a premium through a user charge or fee. Police, fire and medical needs would get special consideration in the rationing.

The Martin proposal is an amendment to the emergency energy bill, which would authorize rationing.

workers to the nation's unemployment rolls, rolls which are growing as a result of the energy crunch.

Eastern Airlines and Pan American Airways announced Thursday they were making further cutbacks in employment. Allegheny Airlines said it would cut back flight schedules by 30 per cent, an indicator that pink slips may be in the offing.

New cutbacks in employment were announced this week in the auto industry, where about 6,000 of the more than 750,000 workers have been laid off indefinitely. In all, 177,000 workers have been affected — most by temporary layoffs.

In both cases the main problem is fuel, or the lack of it. The airlines are faced with mandatory fuel cutbacks; the auto industry is being forced to make cutbacks and changes because consumers are losing their appetite for the larger automobiles.

Herbert Stein, head of President Nixon's Council of Economics Advisers, predicted last week the jobless rate will reach 6 per cent in 1974. Some economists forecast 8 per cent unemployment. It is now less than 5 per cent.

Eastern Airlines said Thursday it would lay off 440 more pilots and 2,460 other employees, bringing to 3,760 the number it plans to cut from its 35,000-worker payroll by early next year.

Pan Am said Thursday it will furlough 1,000 of its 5,000 cabin attendants on Jan. 10 in addition to the 160 pilots laid off earlier.

United Airlines and Frontier Airlines have also announced layoffs.

In Washington, the Air Transport Association predicted 25,000 of the industry's 300,000 employees will be out of work in January. All that adds up to pink slips for mechanics, stewards, pilots, ticket agents and even airline executives.

The reason is airlines will be required as of Jan. 7 to use 15 per cent less jet fuel than they did in 1972, or 25 per cent below planned requirements.

In the auto industry, Ford has laid off 2,810 workers at seven plants in six states; GM has laid off 922 at four Michigan plants and Chrysler will let go 2,100 hourly workers at two assembly plants Jan. 2.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the number of jobless in November increased by 200,000, bringing total unemployment to 4.3 million.

The number could exceed 5.3 million when the energy crisis hits hard in early 1974, government officials say. Total employment in November was 85.7 million.

In addition to unemployment in the auto and airline industries, layoffs have hit government and businesses, large and small.

Study Work For GRIP

GRIFTON—New officers were installed at the November-December meeting of the Grifton Resources Improvement Program Thursday.

New GRIP officers include: Rev. W. S. Brown, president; R. T. Griffin, vice president; Ann Bosley, secretary; Catherine Condon, treasurer; Janet Haseley, reporter-photographer.

The members discussed numbering houses and purchasing new street signs, expenses of the State Fair Booth and the annual community carol sing.

Griffin reported that a survey had been made so that the new street signs can be ordered. He agreed to serve as chairman of the project, which will include surveying the town for needed house numbers.

Mayor Dave Bosley reported that four benches have been purchased and will be placed on the sidewalk in the business district. The cost of the benches will be shared by the town and GRIP.

Mrs. Condon reported that $70 had been contributed toward the cost of the state fair booth. Total cost of materials for the booth was $285. The organization would like as many donations as possible toward payment on the booth so that the $500 prize money can be used toward the bench and street sign project.

Study Genetic Defects Dec. 17 selling at the UNC School of Medicine. The film will begin at 8 p.m., and at 9:30, Dr. Kirkman will summarize and close the program. It will focus on the health, ethical, and moral questions involved with genetic defects, and with the role the individual and the community can play in regulating and improving methods of screening and treatment, he said.

NEW YORK (AP)—Stock prices opened moderately higher today in a technical rebound but by noon were up only slightly and retreating. The energy crisis again overcame attempts at a sustained rally, analysts said.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 2.61 to 803.04. It had been up more than 8 points earlier after having closed Thursday down 10.30 to 800.43. The Dow had lost more than 50 points in the three previous sessions.

Advancing Big Board issues today had a 659-to-436 lead over declines in moderate trading volume.

Central Soya, down 1 1/4 to 33, was the Big Board volume leader followed by IBM down 3 3/4 to 248 1/4. Other volume leaders included Goodyear, unchanged at 12 1/2, and American Home Products unchanged at 37.

Oils generally were higher. Analysts said the major factor was reports of a favorable meeting between Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Egyptian Premier Anwar Sadat.

Exxon was up 5/8 to 89 1/2, Standard Oil of California up 3/8 to 28 1/2, and Texaco up 7/8 to 27 3/4.

On the American Stock Exchange, Texas, International, up 3/4 to 9 1/2, was the volume leader.

Return Secret Indictments In De Salvo Death

DEDHAM, Mass. (AP) — A grand jury has returned three secret indictments charging conspiracy to murder in the stabbing death of Albert De Salvo, the self-proclaimed Boston Strangler.

DeSalvo was stabbed to death in his cell at Walpole State Prison on Nov. 25.

Dist. Atty. George G. Burke said the indictments returned Thursday, which name three Walpole inmates, will remain secret until they are served by Correction Department officials.

DeSalvo claimed at one time he was responsible for the slayings of 13 women in the Boston area in the early 1960s. He later retracted that claim.

He was serving a life sentence for armed robbery in connection with assaults on four other women.

Suspends S.C. Speed Limits

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Gov. John West has suspended indefinitely the 50 mile per hour speed limit he had imposed on passenger cars and the 55 m.p.h. limit ordered for trucks.

The governor said he was acting because of what he called "indecision and confusion" in Washington.

West said he expects Congress to approve soon uniform speed limits for all states, and he said South Carolina will comply with them.

United Funds Refuse To Pay

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — United Fund organizations in Charlotte, Durham and Wilmington have refused to pay to the state organization the total of $5,000 in administrative costs which they were assessed.

They claimed they have done their own work on charity projects and there is no need for duplication.

The board of directors of Carolinas United heard their claims Thursday.

Santa Claus Is 'Cut Off'

PONTIAC, Mich. (AP) — Michigan Bell Telephone Co. has cut off one of its newest and most popular customers, Santa Claus.

The line was cut off after being in service only a day and a half.

Telephone company spokesmen said the service on the line arranged for by a senior citizens' group was lopped off Tuesday "because the equipment cannot handle the calling volume."

Bell estimated that Santa's line received 5,473 attempted calls in one-half hour alone on Monday night, the first day of operation.

"The number of calls was so astronomical that it completely disrupted area phone service," said Jerry Boner, Bell operations assistant. "We have investigated all other avenues and can find no other way to continue this service."

Tanker Truck And Fuel 'Gone'

ROCK HILL, S.C. (AP)—David Wylie discovered when he opened his service station Thursday that his tanker truck which contained 900 gallons of fuel-oil and kerosene had been stolen.

He says he is resigned to the loss of the oil. But he would like the truck back.

Office Choice?

It appears likely that the State Department of Human Resources regional office here will be housed in the Wilcar Building on Tenth Street, Human Resources spokesman Ben Aiken said.

Aiken, the assistant to Secretary David Flaherty, in charge of the project, emphasized that the final approval will have to be made by the Council of State. "This building is our choice," he said. "We've sent material on it to the Real Estate Division of the Department of Administration, and they in turn will take it to the Council of State. This appeared to be our best bet in terms of quality, price, and location, however."

The Wilcar Building on East Tenth Street is an office complex renovated from the Person-Garrett Tobacco Factory by Greenville developer Philip Carroll. Human Resources would use approximately 12,000 square feet of space in the building.

Convinced Recluse Will Be Attending

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — An Aviation Hall of Fame official insists billionaire recluse Howard Hughes will personally attend ceremonies here tonight inducting him into the hall.

James W. Jacobs, chairman of the board of nominations and an executive with General Motors' Frigidaire Division, said Hughes "told me if he's enshrined, he'll be here."

Jacobs conceded that was about a year ago but said his office has been in contact with Hughes' office in Los Angeles and had been told that Hughes "has taken a personal interest in this thing all along."

However, another official, retired Col. John Condon, acting executive director of the hall, said he had received no confirmation of a visit by Hughes and seriously doubted he would attend.

Hughes, who learned to fly at age 14 and owned his own airplane at 19, is credited with furthering commercial aviation and contributing to aviation and medical research.

He made a record-setting flight around the world in 1939. During World War II, his Hughes Aircraft Co. built a prototype of a revolutionary fighter-interceptor airplane and the famous wooden flying boat "Hercules." Hughes also took part in the development of the Lockheed "Constellation" aircraft.

If Hughes does not attend the induction ceremony, he won't be the first inductee to pass up the honor.

Pirates Hold Off Knights For 77-73 Win

GEE WHIZ GETER—East Carolina's Robert Geter does the stretch to come up with a rebound under the Pirate basket last night. He came down with the ball, put it back up and came away with a three-point play when he was fouled. Others in the picture include John Machiaverna (45), Scott Edmonds (hidden behind Geter) and Glenn Bolduc (33) of Fairleigh Dickinson University last night, 77-73.

East Carolina University rallied from as much as 13 points down in the first period and outdefended defensive-minded Fairleigh Dickinson University last night, 77-73.

The Knights, known for their defense, ranked second in the nation over the past five years. But they found themselves with their hands full last night as the Bucs, once they got going, really got going.

East Carolina's Bucs popped in a fine 54 per cent of their shots, and made each of their nine chances at the free throw line on the way to the victory. Fairleigh Dickinson, in its first loss this year, was also hot, making 50 per cent of their shots. They also made nine free throws, but had 11 chances.

The Bucs won the battle of the boards, 32-20, with Robert Geter leading the way, pulling down 10 to lead both teams. Nicky White and Roger Atkinson each contributed eight.

The Knights seemed to have the Pirates in the palm of their hand throughout the early part of the game as the Bucs appeared to be standing around on defense. But when they looked up and found themselves 13 points down with nine minutes left, they seemed to come to life, and in the remaining minutes of the half, they outlit FD, 23-11, taking the lead three times before finally trailing by one at intermission.

After the Bucs had led by six, the Knights came back to take a four-point lead, but again the Bucs broke their defense and pushed ahead, this time for good.

Both teams started cold, with Glenn Bolduc hitting the first basket for the Knights after over two minutes. East Carolina went three minutes before Reggie Lee finally hit from underneath, tying it at 2-2.

John Machiaverna and Rick Scialabba each hit for the Knights, giving them a 6-2 lead. After a Buc score, Machiaverna hit a three-point play to up it to five. It stayed at that level until Machiaverna scored with 11:05 for a 17-10 lead. Rich Conrad popped in two from the floor and Scialabba followed with a baseline jumper to run the Knights out to a 23-10 lead with 8:55 showing.

East Carolina then decided to paly ball and came roaring back. After a swap of baskets, Lee stole the ball for one, then hit from underneath for another. Roger Atkinson followed and cut it to seven, 25-18 before Scialabba hit a free throw to break the string.

Lee, Geter and Atkinson each followed with baskets, cutting it to two, then Geter tossed in a missed shot and was fouled with 2:03 left. He finished off the three pointer to put the Bucs ahead for the first time, 29-28. From there to the end of the period, the two teams swapped points, with Paul Bechtelheimer hitting with just four seconds left for a 34-33 halftime lead.

The two continued their swapping in the early minutes of the second half, before Nicky White hit on a rebound for a 41-40 ECU lead with 17:53 left.

He followed with two jumpers, while FD got a free throw from Bechtelheimer, making it 45-41. The two teams each hit, then Buzzy Braman hit to make it 49-43 with 14:10 left.

Fairleigh Dickinson fought back, however, and finally tied it up on a jumper by Bolduc, 51-51. ECU went back out, but the Knights tied it once more then took the lead as Steve Solop hit on a fast break with 10:32 left. They managed to up that to four at 61-57 as Scialabba hit three straight baskets, but the Bucs rallied one last time and it carried them to victory.

Gregg Ashorn tied it up with a pair of free throws at 63-63 with 5:43 showing, and Donnie Owens hit two quick baskets to give the Bucs a four-point lead. Atkinson tossed in a couple of free throws with 3:31 left to make it 69-63 before FD scored again. Geter then hit two free throws to up the lead to 73-65 with 1:24 to go, giving the Bucs their biggest spread of the night. Two charity shots by Owens with 45 seconds left, however, were the key, giving the Bucs a 75-67 margin, more than the Knights could overcome with two late steals and a basket at the horn after Lee got one more basket.

Bolduc led the Knights with 18 points while Scialabba had 17 and Conrad pitched in 14.

Lee finished with 18 points, while Atkinson had 16, Geter had 13 and Owens had 12.

The win gave the Bucs a two-game winning streak, upped their record to 3-2, and gave them a springboard onto a long road trip that will not end until mid-January.

But they return to action Saturday night in Charleston, S. C., visiting The Citadel, seeking to snap a three-game loss streak on the Bulldog court.

Cappalletti Presents Trophy To Brother

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Joseph Cappalletti won the Heisman Trophy Thursday night.

Joseph is John Cappalletti's 11-year-old brother and he's suffering from incurable leukemia. Thursday night, big brother John, Penn State's All-American running back, formally received the 39th annual Heisman Trophy as the outstanding college football player in the country and tearfully dedicated it to Joey.

The 215-pound tailback's voice quivered with emotion as he told the $50-a-plate Heisman awards dinner, including young Joey, that "if I can dedicate this trophy to him tonight and give him a couple of days of happiness, it would mean everything."

Six years ago, Joey and 46 other youngsters afflicted with leukemia entered Philadelphia Children's Hospital for treatment. The other 46 are dead.

The doctors say they can only prolong Joey's life; they can't save it. It would take a miracle — or a miracle drug — to do that and real-life miracles are in short supply these days.

Joey has his ups and downs. Thursday night he was up ... up like big brother John before a key game ... up like any other frisky 11-year-old boy. And he is like any other 11-year-old ... except for a slight limp and the killing disease buried inside his body.

"I'd like to reflect on the things in my life that put me up here," he told the crowd, which included more than a dozen former Heisman winners. "My family, my brothers and sister, my mother and father ... there's not a greater couple around. My mother always cries at these affairs, so I'll try not to."

For once in a record-breaking career, Cappalletti came up short. His voice shook and he had to wipe his eyes with a napkin as he told of the battle Joey was going through, much tougher than merely carrying a football 30-40 times every week-end.

"A lot of people think I go through a lot on Saturdays getting bumps and bruises," he said. "But for me it's only on Saturdays and only in the fall. For Joey it's all year round and it's a never-ending battle what he puts up with. The Heisman Trophy is more to me than mine because he's been a great inspiration to me."

Over the last six years, Joey has put up with numerous shots — he has to be back in Philadelphia today for another one, a new drug which hopefully will let him live a little longer — and painful bone marrow tests. Once he was in a coma for a week.

Chicago Nips Bucks, 97-94

By FRED ROTHENBERG
Associated Press Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — Chicago likes a big challenge and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, the awesome Milwaukee Buck center, poses the biggest one of all.

"You don't get to play against the best in the world every day," said Chicago Coach Dick Motta, after the Bulls edged the Bucks 97-94 Thursday night in the National Basketball Association. "So you'd better bust your tail against him when you're in there and make sure you work harder than he does."

Elsewhere in the NBA, Portland downed Phoenix 119-108. In the American Basketball Association, San Diego edged Memphis 107-104 and San Antonio nipped Virginia 96-94.

Not only did the Bulls save their best for the best, but they also saved some of their best for last, erasing a nine-point deficit early in the fourth quarter.

"That's all right — that's right on schedule," said Motta, whose club pulled to within 1½ games of the first-place Bucks in the Midwest Division. "We're better coming from behind. If you watch us play very often in tough games, it's usually like that."

After Lucius Allen's jumper brought the Bucks to within one at 95-94, Norm Van Lier sank two foul shots and the Bucks at the same time.

Chicago's Chet Walker scored a game-high 26 points while Jabbar topped Milwaukee with 23.

The victory was Chicago's sixth in a row and broke Milwaukee's 10-game winning streak.

Trailblazers 119, Suns 108
Geoff Petrie scored 25 points and Sidney Wicks added 24 to lead Portland over Phoenix and snap the Trailblazers' five-game losing streak.

Conquistadors 107, Tams 104
San Diego's Dwight Lamar stole a key pass and scored with 1:28 remaining and the Conquistadors held on for their victory over Memphis.

The score was tied six times in the final seven minutes before Lamar broke through with the steal and a layup that gave the Q's a 102-98 advantage.

Memphis' George Thompson led all scorers with 36 points while Lamar had 23 for San Diego.

Spurs 96, Squires 94
Former Squire Swen Nater scored 24 points and grabbed 18 rebounds to spark the San Antonio Spurs to their victory over Virginia.

Oak City Girls Out To Improve Record

Bucs At Ga. Tech

Coach John Welborn's East Carolina wrestlers lost two matches last week as they represented the state of North Carolina in a pair of exhibitions against olympic-talent-laden Athletes In Action, but it still turned out to be a moral victory of sorts for the Pirates.

After being soundly thrashed by the powerful Chargers in the first match the Pirates came back to extend the nationally renowned touring champions to the limit before succumbing, 20-17, in a hard-fought match which is to be televised on WRAL-TV in Raleigh, December 22.

The Pirates had earned the right to represent the North Carolina All Stars as a team by virtue of sweeping all ten weight classes in the N. C. Collegiate Championships.

Welborn and his charges travel to Atlanta, Ga., Friday, for the two-day Georgia Tech Intercollegiate Tournament and are expected to pose a serious challenge to some of the South's other major wrestling powers for the tourney championship.

The Pirates rest their hopes with such performers as 134-pound Milt Sherman, an All America candidate who has yet to be defeated this season, and 177-pounder Bill Hill, selected the best wrestler in North Carolina by virtue of his feats in the N. C. Collegiate Championships.

OAK CITY—Oak City's girls' basketball team is playing as an independent but that does not offer any consolation to the fact that they have only won one game so far.

Last year, the Trojanettes got a lot of points from Sylvia Jones. She has now graduated and the hole she has left has been the source of many of the problems.

This poor start is mainly from jitters, says coach Frank Mobley. "They are playing well but we just can't hit from the floor. We have no natural shooters; you can't train them." Oak City has fair height for a girls team with three young ladies at 5-8. "They are not tall but they can move the ball pretty well. They aren't aggressive even though they jump well," the coach said.

The Trojanettes have been shooting very much but have only hit around 12 percent. "We had a girl that averaged around 30 points a game (Jones) but now no one can shoot. We missed 12 lay-ups in one quarter of one game."

The Trojanettes are weak on offense, also. "We spend a lot of time shooting, in practice," he said. "They throw it in and don't shoot."

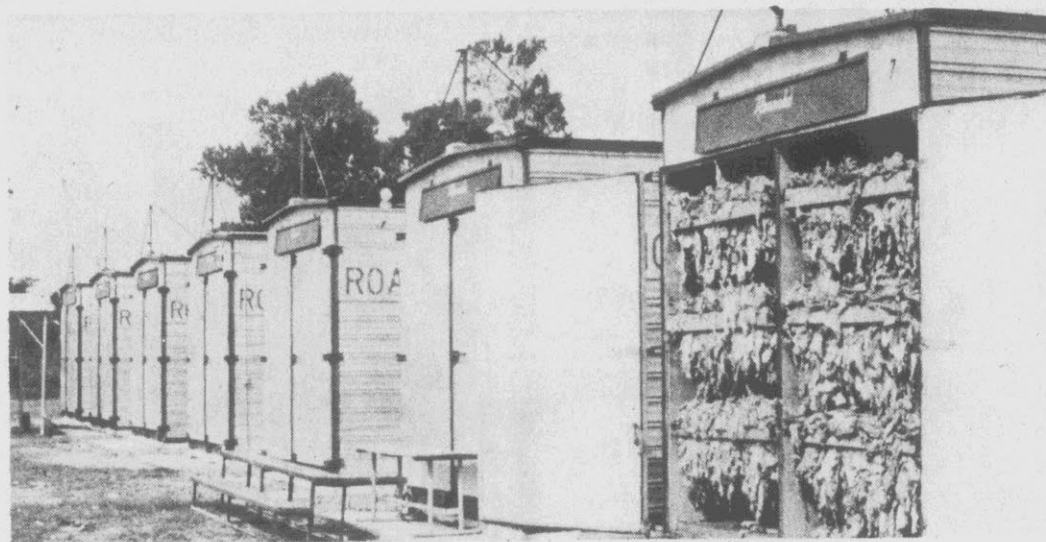

Against Belhaven and Bath the girls hustled well but did not get their share of points. "What we got we got from the floor," Mobley said. "We are winning in all things but points. We rebounded well with Williamston and Bath and shot 10 or 15 more times than they did. We out-hustled but could not make a shot."

In practice, the girls are made to shoot 25 free shots and for each shot they miss they have to make it up by running laps around the gym. "I'm doing that to get them to concentrate. They are hitting 100 percent in practice but not in the game," Mobley said.

"The girls are working the ball around well. We got several steal and fast breaks against Bath. We get some points and then they give up and go cold. They have been 28, 13 and 14 minutes at a time without a basket when the Trojanettes were in the lead," Mobley said.

Kansas Coach Praises State

ROBERT SHAW
Associated Press Writer
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The North Carolina State offensive team is no Oklahoma, but it's the next best, says Kansas Coach Don Fambrough.

"North Carolina State has a fine quarterback, four fine running backs — they have depth at the position — who are quick and have good speed," Fambrough said. "Their offensive line really fires off the ball."

The object of Fambrough's praise is Kansas' opponent in Monday night's Liberty Bowl game.

North Carolina State will go into the game with an 8-3 record. Kansas is 7-3-1.

Outside of Oklahoma, which beat Kansas 48-20, the Wolfpack is "the finest offensive team we'll see this year," Fambrough said.

It's predicted that the combination of the North Carolina State attack and the Kansas offense, led by All-American quarterback Dave Jaynes, will provoke a high-scoring attraction for the 50,000 in Memphis Memorial Stadium and a national television audience.

Fambrough, who brought his team to Memphis Thursday, a day ahead of the arrival of the Wolfpack, said that "could be."

Defensive end Dean Zook, a key man for the Jayhawks, offers a soft dissent.

"We're pretty well prepared for them," he said. "We've got a pretty good defense ourselves. We can give their offense a good battle."

The Wolfpack runs the veer option offense and "this is what we've kind of defended best, because we have so much pursuit by the three middle men," Zook said.

Willie Burden, with 1,014 yards on 150 carries, leads the Wolfpack rushers, but Zook said "They have three or four good ones and you can't key on just one."

Jaynes, a senior whose name now fills the Jayhawks' record book, figures: "We can beat them if we don't make mistakes. I know we can if we don't make them. But you never go into a game saying that, even if you play perfectly, you'll win."

"It's ridiculous to think that way. North Carolina State has a good team. We do, too. It's going to be interesting."

Jaynes hit 172 of 330 passes for 2,131 yards this season, including 35 of 58 for 394 yards in a 28-27 loss to Tennessee in the same stadium where the Liberty Bowl will be played.

Could he repeat that performance?

"It's possible, but I just want to win the game," Jaynes said.

Walton, Towe In Key Roles

By PAUL LeBAR
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Towering Bill Walton of UCLA and diminutive Monte Towe of North Carolina State are expected to play key roles Saturday in college basketball's battle for national supremacy.

While the 6-foot-11 Walton may dominate the middle of the heralded clash, Bruins' Coach John Wooden feels that North Carolina State's 5-7 Towe could control the rest of the court.

Meanwhile, another interesting pairing for the sellout Arena crowd of 19,000 and a national television audience will be the matchup of UCLA's 6-foot-7 Keith Wilkes and North Carolina State All-American David Thompson.

Wooden, who has led UCLA to 78 consecutive victories, had indicated earlier this season that his team's pressing defense has been largely responsible for the streak. But he is not pleased with it now.

"As far as Monte Towe's concerned," he conceded, "he wouldn't have to be a good ball handler to handle our press."

"I've been disappointed with our press this year," Wooden said, perhaps in a play aimed at the Wolfpack. "I doubt we'll use it much in conference action if it doesn't improve."

Although Wooden could change tactics, his nomination of Greg Lee to start at guard signals an offensive emphasis.

The 6-3½ Lee, a senior, contributed 14 assists on passes to Walton, who scored a record 44 points in UCLA's 87-66 victory over Memphis State in the NCAA title game last March.

Tentatively scheduled to join Walton, Wilkes and Lee in the lineup are guard Pete Trgovich and forward Dave Meyers.

"We will be pressing full court," promises North Carolina State Coach Norm Sloan, whose Wolfpack have won 29 games in a row.

Bolstered by the flashy Thompson's 28-point scoring, the Wolfpack's biggest problem looms as containing the deadly Walton.

Seven-foot-four Tommy Burleson will draw the assignment, and Wooden has challenged that the Wolfpack senior, "will look awkward" in his attempt.

North Carolina State was 27-0 last season, but was ineligible for the NCAA tourney because it was on probation.

The Wolfpack then, as now, ranked second only to the Bruins, who have a string of seven NCAA titles.

"If you have two teams that can go for some freak reason through a season undefeated they should get together and play," Sloan said.

They will do exactly that Saturday.

Oak City . . .

Until the girls get cold, they stay away from the fouls. But when they hit a dry spell, the fouls begin to crop up. Mobley also complained about the officials. "We haven't been getting the best referees either. Sometimes, the girls don't know what a foul is from the way it is being called."

All the points Oak City has been getting, have been mostly from the floor. "We are hitting less than 12 percent. They are not bad shots." They just hesitate and it throws them off. They weren't used to shooting so much last year with Jones.

Mobley thinks that if he can get his girls to make at least 20 percent of their shots at the basket, they can win some games. The defense also needs to improve. But right now, things are not looking too bright for Oak City.

Virginia Sitting On ACC Basketball Lead

Associated Press Sports
The Atlantic Coast Conference has three basketball teams listed in the national top five this week. North Carolina State is second, Maryland is fourth and North Carolina fifth. But look who's leading the conference race. Bill Gibson's Virginia Cavaliers, that's who!

And they are a cinch to hold that lead into January.

Only one conference game has been played, Virginia routing Duke 104-82 last Saturday. With all teams busy in December holiday tournaments, there will be no conference game until Jan. 5 when Clemson plays at Maryland in a televised afternoon game. The winner will tie Virginia for the ACC lead.

Virginia can't be knocked out of the lead before Jan. 8 when it plays host to Wake Forest.

North Carolina's Big Four tournament is scheduled Jan. 4-5 at Greensboro, a shift from traditional December dates. But these games are added extras and do not count in conference standings because the teams play regular home and home series with each other.

Extra or not, the Jan. 4 tournament opener matching N. C. State and North Carolina will be awaited around the nation as an indication of what may be expected when the two national powers meet later in conference games.

Last season the State Wolfpack defeated the Tar Heels in the tournament 68-61, then added three and four-point conference victories when the two met later.

Tonight is the third straight night of inactivity for conference teams, but the long-awaited North Carolina State-UCLA meeting heads a three-game Saturday card.

It is scheduled for 5 p.m. at

Southern Meeting

GREENVILLE, S. C. (AP)—A full business session was on this morning's agenda as the Southern Conference winter meeting went into its second day. Election of officers also was scheduled.

Faculty chairmen and athletic directors held separate and joint meetings Thursday, with discussion covering a proposed revision of the constitution and bylaws of the 53-year-old eight-member conference.

Bob Waters, athletic director and head football coach at Western Carolina University, headed an invited delegation from the Cullowhee, N. C., school which hopes to join the league.

Also on hand was Ken Germann, Columbia University athletic director who takes over Jan. 1 as conference commissioner. He will succeed Lloyd P. Jordan, who is retiring after serving as commissioner since 1960.

Friars Find Selves; Dons Have Lost It

By KEN RAPPOPORT
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Providence Friars are finding themselves and the San Francisco Dons would like to get lost.

Those college basketball teams were going in opposite directions Thursday night after the eighth-ranked Friars posted a 76-57 victory over the 17th-rated Dons.

"We're still learning about ourselves," said Providence Coach Dave Gavitt. "We have Marvin Barnes and Kevin Stacom, but we're finding out about a lot of our kids."

The Friars found out about Rick Santos, for one. He scored 23 points and led a second-half comeback.

San Francisco, on the other hand, is moving backwards instead of ahead. Picked among the country's top teams, the Dons have lost three of their first four games this year.

"Providence didn't beat a very good team tonight," said San Francisco Coach Bob Gailard. "I just can't believe we only scored 23 points in the second half."

Phil Smith led San Francisco with 18 points, but only scored four of them in the second half when Santos was assigned to cover him.

Barnes wound up with 20 points for the winners while Stacom contributed 16.

In other games involving the nation's Top Twenty, No. 10 Memphis State stopped Texas 90-82; No. 12 Long Beach State hammered Canisius 94-82 and 14th-ranked Arizona crushed Idaho 101-80.

Billy Buford and Dexter Reed led a late comeback, pulling Memphis State past winless Texas. The Tigers, trailing much of the second half, snapped a 78-78 tie with 10 straight points in the last three minutes.

Buford and Reed each scored 23 points for the winners. Larry Robinson, who had 19 points and 22 rebounds, helped Texas forge a 39-39 tie at the half and pull into a 58-51 lead with 13 minutes left before the Tigers made their charge.

Roscoe Pondexter scored 20 points and Leonard Gray had 18 to lead Long Beach past Canisius. All five 49er starters got into double figures.

Larry Fogle, Canisius' star forward, led all scorers with 34 points.

Coniel Norman fired in 30 points to lead Arizona over Idaho. The Arizona star connected on 10 of 18 field goal attempts, helping the Wildcats win their fifth game in six starts.

In other games, Minnesota whipped Loyola of Chicago 58-54 in overtime as Pete Gilcud sank the tie-breaking free throws; New Mexico smashed

Houston Baptist 115-72 as Rich Pokorski scored 23 points; Brigham Young trimmed Denver 97-87 as Mark Handy and Greg Snow combined for 29 rebounds and 31 points; Ray Boweman and Kent Allison each scored 23 points to lead Western Kentucky's 104-96 success over Butler; Al Skinner had 18 points and 16 rebounds, leading Massachusetts to a 75-70 decision over Holy Cross and Auburn edged Georgia Tech 88-86 as Bob Osberry had 22 points and 15 rebounds.

In a doubleheader at Madison Square Garden in New York, Fordham beat Columbia 75-51 and Manhattan pounded Rhode Island 81-60.

Oil Shortage Problems Taken Up At Common Market Parley

By CARL HARTMAN
Associated Press Writer
COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Leaders of the Common Market assembled today to adopt a declaration of European unity and discuss plans for combating the oil shortage which threatens their economies.

Foreign ministers from six Arab countries were also visiting Copenhagen at the same time to argue their case in meetings with the Europeans outside the Common Market summit sessions. The Arab oil shortage threatens the Common Market countries with mass unemployment and economic depression.

The Arabs are threatening more cuts in their supply of oil to Western Europe unless the Europeans give them more vigorous support against Israel.

The French government would also like an exclusive, long-term arrangement under which Western Europe would help the Arabs industrialize in return for guaranteed fuel supplies.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger presented an American alternative in a speech Wednesday in London. He called for Western Europe and Japan to join the United States and Canada in an Energy Action Group to conserve the fuel they have, launch a crash program to develop new sources of energy and encourage the present producers of fuel — including the Arabs — to increase supplies.

The energy crisis is expected to increase unemployment from 2 million to 4 million people by next year in the nine Common Market countries. The new unemployed will include many skilled workers accustomed to a high living standard.

The Common Market countries — Britain, France, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands, Luxembourg, Denmark and Ireland — have already shown some unity over the oil issue, calling in a joint statement Nov. 6 for Israel to withdraw from occupied Arab lands.

But they have shown no evidence of cooperating to ease the oil squeeze the Arabs are putting on the Netherlands because of Dutch support of Israel. And now the Dutch are threatening to cut off their natural gas, which supplies much of northwestern Europe, and use it at home instead of oil.

The declaration of "European identity" that the summit meeting is to adopt says "the changes that have taken place in the world and the growing accumulation of power and responsibility in the hands of a very few powers require that Europe draw together and speak more and more with a single voice if it wants to be heard and to play an appropriate part in world politics."

However, it concedes that there is no alternative at present to the "security furnished by the nuclear weapons of the United States and the presence of American forces in Europe."

It says: "The close ties existing between the United States of America and the Europe of the Nine (Common Market countries) ... are useful to both sides and must be maintained."

By COLIN FROST
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Millions of British workers are threatened with slashed paychecks or unemployment as the result of a government austerity program to conserve fuel and electric power.

And the hard-hit country braced for more tough news.

On Monday, Chancellor of the Exchequer Anthony Barber announced the rest of Britain's energy-tightening program. It is expected to include stiff new taxes, import controls and perhaps even food rationing.

"We shall have a harder Christmas than we have known since the war," Prime Minister Edward Heath told the House of Commons Thursday.

Workers face a 2½-day work week beginning Monday and a three-day week beginning Jan. 1 — if they keep their jobs. The Times of London predicted 10 million unemployed eventually, or more than 40 per cent of the total work force of 24 million.

Starting in the New Year, factories will work either Monday through Wednesday or Thursday through Saturday to spread the load on the electric power system.

Shops and offices may stay open five days a week but on two "nonpower" days must use no electricity for lighting or heating.

Television programs will stop at 10.30 p.m. Food stores and such essential public services as water and sewage disposal are exempt from the cuts. So are newspapers. Restaurants, theaters and sports centers may stay open as long as they use no electrical heating on nonpower days.

Cuts in household heating were left to the consciences of users. The government asked householders with electric heating to heat only one room and to use that for sleeping if invalids or young children needed extra warmth at night.

The crisis is caused by a three-way squeeze — labor slowdowns in the coal, rail and electric power industries, the nation's failure to sell enough abroad to pay for its imports, and the Arab oil squeeze.

The oil shortage has been the least of these problems, because most British electricity is generated with coal. Gasoline remains unrationed, the government has not banned Sunday driving, and motorists feel the pinch only when filling stations run out of gas. But most of them do that periodically.

The immediate crisis has resulted from disruption in the coal and rail industries. Miners and locomotive engineers are demanding pay hikes far higher than the seven per cent limit set by Heath's anti-inflation program. The government has agreed to lift the limit, but not high enough for the workers.

These disruptions have come on top of dismal British performance in international trade.

Arrest Five In Slaying

WILKESBORO, N.C. (AP)—Five young men have been arrested and charged with murder and armed robbery in the slaying of a storekeeper. Sheriff Hoke Wiles of Wilkes County reported today.

He said they were arrested in their hometowns Thursday night and early today, and brought to the county jail in Wilkesboro.

They were identified as 25-year-old Jimmy Ray Hamm of Lenoir; James Richard Moore, 21, of Valdese; Zeb Vance Keller, 18, of Ferguson; Douglas Glenn Hodges, 22, of Lenoir, and 18-year-old Burl Len Thilly of Hudson.

The sheriff said they are accused of slaying 44-year-old Maurice Wheeling, who was found shot in the head at his store in Ferguson 19 miles southwest of Wilkesboro Thursday morning. Authorities said the cash register was open and empty.

The State Bureau of Investigation and other city police departments assisted in the investigation.

Airlines Want To Cut Service

By JAY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Seven of the nation's airlines have asked the Civil Aeronautics Board to let them drop all of their air service to 25 cities because of the fuel shortage, CAB records show.

Four other carriers have asked for permission to discontinue some of their routes to certain cities, although they say they wish to continue other routes into the affected communities.

The applications come at a time of increasing layoffs of airline personnel because of the fuel shortage. The Air Transport Association, a trade organization, estimates about 25,000 airline employees, including pilots, will lose jobs.

Thursday, two more airlines announced staff reductions. Eastern, which already has said 360 pilots will be furloughed at the end of January, says another 440 will be laid off, most in the first quarter. The airline also said another 2,460 employees in other classifications would be let go.

Pan Am said 1,000 of its 5,000 cabin attendants would be furloughed as of Jan. 10. Pan Am already has dropped 160 pilots and says further employee cuts will be announced shortly.

There also has been a call by some pilots angry over the fuel cutbacks for a shutdown of air transport during the Christmas rush. But no cohesive action by pilots has materialized and the Air Line Pilots Association says it is too early to tell what may happen.

The route reductions — if approved by the CAB — could mean the end of regularly scheduled air service to some of the communities, although most of the cities on the list are served by more than one airline.

Warren Blames High Secrecy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Retired Supreme Court Chief Justice Earl Warren decried the Watergate scandal as "conduct debasing our institutions" and said too much secrecy was the cause.

"It must be obvious to all by this time that secrecy in high places spawned this great tragedy of our time, and that continued secrecy has prolonged the judicial inquiry into admittedly illegal conduct to a point which erodes the rule of law," he said.

Warren spoke at a National Press Club luncheon Thursday.

Reagan Insists No Plans Made

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California Gov. Ronald Reagan, considered a potential presidential candidate, says "I don't even let myself think about anything of that kind until this job is over."

In an interview Thursday, Reagan insisted: "I've made no plans. I've made no decision."

Reagan, 62, will wind up his two-term eight year career as governor in 1974. He is not barred from a third term, but he has said he will not run again.

General Motors To Add $133 To Prices

DETROIT (AP) — General Motors Corp. says it has boosted retail price tags on its passenger cars by an average of $133 following the end of government price controls on the industry.

GM said Thursday that the increase amounts to 2.8 per cent, substantially less than the 6.3 per cent hike in the company's truck prices, which were hiked an average of $321.

For the entire vehicle lineup, including cars as well as trucks, GM said it was raising retail prices an average of $188.

Officials said the $188 figure was in line with the Cost of Living Council's ruling requiring the Big Three automakers to hold their increases to a 150 wholesale average. The difference comes from the normal dealer markup and destination charges, the company said.

The company announcement said the new prices don't apply to customers ordering cars through Saturday, nor will they affect vehicles already in dealer showrooms.

Chrysler, Ford and American Motors Corp. also have announced they will increase prices.

Ford, however, is the only other manufacturer to post its second round of 1974 model year prices, boosting average retail stickers on its lines by an average of $192 retail.

The price hikes come against a background of record earnings at GM. In its latest earnings statement, GM reported nine-month earnings of $1.88 billion, up from $1.5 billion at the same time last year.

Lee Resigns FTC Post

WASHINGTON (AP) — H. Rex Lee has resigned from the Federal Communications Commission effective Dec. 31, his office said today.

Lee, a Democrat, was named to the commission in 1968 by President Lyndon B. Johnson. His term was due to expire in June 1975.

A spokesman in Lee's office quoted the commissioner as saying he "has things he wants to do" but said he did not know what Lee's plans are.

Lee, 63, is the second Democrat to step down from the seven-member commission in 10 days.

Nicholas Johnson resigned Dec. 5, reportedly to run for Congress in Iowa.

Johnson's term actually expired last June 30 but he served beyond that date because President Nixon did not name a successor immediately.

Nixon nominated Detroit broadcasting executive James H. Quello for the job this fall, but the nomination has been stalled in Senate committee.

Quello's nomination has been criticized by some because of his ties with the broadcasting industry. Many of the critics say Johnson's successor should have been more consumer oriented.

Their Forecast

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—Two out of every three economists at Duke University say the United States may be headed for a recession and more inflation in 1974 as a result of the energy shortage.

Thirteen of the university's 21 teachers of economics said in response to a questionnaire last week that they believed a "significant" possibility exists for a serious economic downturn next year.

Only two said they see no unsurmountable problems ahead in 1974.

Most of them said unemployment would be 6 to 8 per cent, compared to the current 4.7 per cent.

Many said a business downturn would hit particularly hard at textile, plastics, transportation, recreation and the aircraft industries, which need a constant supply of oil and other refinery products. Some included agriculture in their list.

Arizona Export

Total Is High

PHOENIX, Ariz. (UPI) — Arizona exported $112.9 million worth of agricultural products to foreign countries in fiscal 1972-73, representing 15.5 per cent of the state's total agricultural income.

Cotton represented nearly a third of the record total, followed by citrus and wheat and flour.

Series Of Six Collisions Here

More than 4,200 property damage resulted from a series of six traffic collisions investigated here yesterday, according to Greenville Police officials.

Heaviest damage resulted from a 1:15 p.m. collision at the intersection of Line Avenue and Farmville Boulevard involving cars driven by Judy Lynne Miles of 1202 East 14th St. and Isaac Anderson of 605D Hudson St.

Police, who estimated damage at $600 to the Miles car and $500 to the Anderson vehicle, charged Miss Miles with failing to stop for a stop sign.

Both drivers involved in a 9:30 a.m. mishap at the intersection of First and Greene Streets were charged with failing to stop for a red light.

Drivers involved were identified as Ruth Corbett Coleman of 921 Howell St. and Ronald Wayne Harrison of 109 Cherry Court Dr.

Damage was set at $190 to the Coleman car and $600 to the Harrison vehicle.

No charges were reported in a 9:50 a.m. collision at the intersection of First Street and Woodlawn Avenue involving cars driven by Carol Denise Carpenter of 103 North Woodlawn and Callie Roberson James of Stokes.

Damage was estimated at $450 to the Carpenter car and $500 to the James car.

Janice Hardy Bundy of Ayden was charged with failing to stop for a stop light following investigation of a 3:53 p.m. collision at the intersection of Tenth and Washington Streets.

Police identified the driver of the second car involved as Alice Barnhill Clemons of 138 West 18th St. and estimated damage at $275 to the clemons car and $250 to the Bundy auto.

Drivers involved in an 11:35 a.m. mishap at the intersection of Memorial Drive and Chestnut Street were listed by police as Kenneth Ray Smith of 102 Nichols Dr. and Esta Chaplin Buck of Route 3, Greenville.

Mrs. Buck was charged with failing to see her intended movement could be made in safety by officers, who placed damage at $250 to the Smith car and $50 to the Buck car.

Leander Lee Sneed of 412 Latham St. was charged with operating without headlights following investigation of a 5 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Fifth and Hudson Streets.

Police said the Sneed vehicle collided with a car driven by Jimmy Lee Bullock of Farmville causing an estimated $250 damage to the Sneed vehicle and $300 damage to the bullock car.

No injuries were reported by officers in the series of collisions.

17-Year-Old Convicted Of Killing Another Boy

DELAND, Fla. (AP)—Kenneth Francis, 17, has been convicted of clubbing to death another youth in what defense lawyers said was a Satanic killing in which Francis played but a small part.

A Volusia County Circuit Court jury deliberated for about three hours Thursday before finding Francis, of Daytona Beach, guilty of first-degree murder in the death of Michael Cochran, also 17, of Fresno, Calif.

Francis also was convicted on four lesser charges. The defendant's mother wept softly, burying her face in her hands, as the verdict was read.

His father, Air Force M. Sgt. Paul D. Francis, tried to comfort his wife by embracing her.

The father is stationed at Pope Air Force Base near Fayetteville, N.C.

Judge Uriel Blount told the jury to come back at 10 a.m. today to consider a recommendation for a sentence, which, under Florida's new death penalty law, could be electrocution. Under the same law, Blount doesn't have to abide by the recommendation.

Francis is the second person convicted in the April 27 death of Cochran. David Hester, 17, of Greenville, S.C., was sentenced to life in prison in October.

Police say Cochran was killed anyone, only of trying to go along with others.

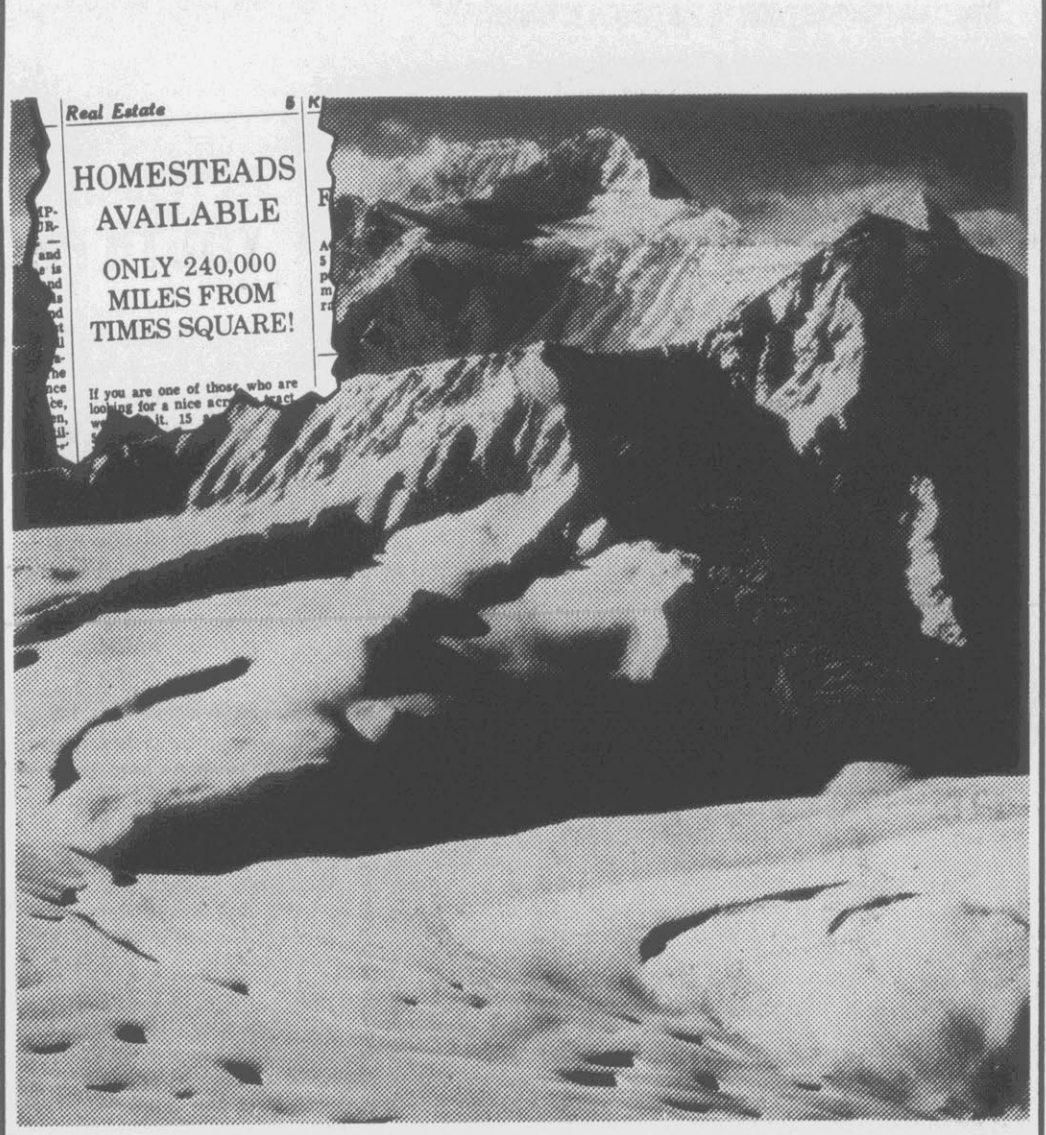

"Don't let Kenneth Francis be another sacrifice," Krause asked.

Prosecutor Horace Smith Jr. said the state didn't believe Cochran's death to be the result of a Satanic cult, but rather the action of individuals angry because of Cochran's claim of being a police drug informant.

"We aren't on a witch hunt," Smith told the jury. "I heard no evidence come from that witness stand that witchcraft or a cult had anything to do with this affair."

rettes and stuck needles under his fingernails. He also denied striking the death blow, which prosecutors said was struck with a pine log.

Court-appointed defense lawyer Richard Krause centered his closing argument Thursday on the sacrificial rite theory. He told the jury Francis had so drugged himself on April 27 that he was incapable of killing

Not interested! That's just as well—we're talking about the moon.

Far more, we need earnest men and women eager to explore the earth's spiritual frontiers . . . people who will seek courageously for Christian answers to the complicated problems progress has created . . . families trying to enrich their homes and their world with faith and love.

The Church is the homestead of such pioneers. Its grasp encompasses heaven and earth . . . from the throne of God to the depths of a little child's soul.

Tornadoes Lash Three Southern States; Three Die

TWO KILLED—Workmen search the rubble of a building of the Ninety Six Manufacturing Company in which two women were killed when a tornado swept through the town of Ninety Six, S. C., Thursday afternoon. (AP Wirephoto)

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Tornadoes ignited by a cold front lashed at three Southern states Thursday, killing three persons in South Carolina and injuring at least 43 in that state, Georgia and Tennessee.

The estimated damage was in the millions of dollars.

A estimated damage was in the millions of dollars.

A twister destroyed part of a textile mill in Ninety Six, S. C., and killed two women, Charity Griffin and Ozala Thompson, both in their 60s. A 2-year-old boy, identified as Brandon J. Farr, died when a tornado overturned his family's mobile home in Prosperity, S. C.

At least 19 persons were injured by the tornadoes that hit Ninety Six, Prosperity and Coronaca, S. C.

Twenty-one persons were treated for injuries at Gainesville, Ga. after two tornadoes struck without warning at lunchtime, smashing homes and businesses on wooded hilltops. Witnesses said the twisters seemed to skip from hilltop to hilltop.

In Benton, Tenn., a tornado ripped off the roof of an elementary school and three pupils were slightly hurt.

"...Suddenly without warning, the roof was lifted from the building and chairs, books and other objects started flying around the rooms," principal Pat Neeley said. "The school is a total loss."

Connie Mansfield, a 19-year-old college coed, described the Gainesville tornado.

"It was just like clouds passing so fast in front of me," she said. "I couldn't figure it out. I was coming home for lunch and I was only about 100 feet from our driveway. Then this huge tree fell in front of me."

Bubba Summers, fire chief of Ninety Six, S. C., said the tornado cut a swath nearly a mile long and more than 100 feet wide through a residential section. Most of the South Carolina injuries were at Ninety Six, a town of 5,000 persons.

Summers estimated damage at millions of dollars but gave no firmer figure. He said about 100 homes were damaged or destroyed.

The fire chief said finding shelter for the homeless would be no immediate problem. "Ninety Six is one big family," he said. "Everybody knows everybody else. I guess they are staying with neighbors."

Cannot Support A White House Explanation For Erased Tape

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Technical experts say they cannot support a White House explanation for how 18 minutes of conversation may have been erased from a Watergate tape.

After 150 man-days of study, the experts reported Thursday that a high-intensity lamp and electric typewriter on the desk of President Nixon's secretary is not a likely cause. The White House had advanced that theory.

The experts are now turning their search for the cause of the 18-minute gap to the Uher-brand recorder used by secretary Rose Mary Woods in transcribing the tape.

If the recorder caused the gap, then the missing conversation probably cannot be recovered, U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica said in announcing the preliminary findings of the experts.

Miss Woods has testified she may have erased four or five minutes of the tape by pushing the wrong button on the recorder.

An official White House analysis said, "It is believed it was caused by the depression of a record button during the process of reviewing the tape, possibly while the recorder was in the proximity of an electric typewriter and a high intensity lamp."

White House lawyer J. Fred Buzhardt testified that he nearly duplicated the buzz by recording a tape at the secretary's desk with the typewriter and lamp on, but that his own experts were not able to do so.

However, the experts approved by both the White House and the Watergate prosecution said tests "made with sophisticated instruments" had failed to confirm that theory.

After Thursday's report, Buz-hardt said, "We accept the results. We accept whatever they find."

The 18-minute gap is in a tape of a June 20, 1972 conversation between Nixon and H.R. Haldeman, then White House chief of staff.

The White House analysis said the conversation related primarily to scheduling and travel. However, Haldeman's notes of the meeting indicate the Watergate break-in of three days earlier was discussed.

The portion Watergate prosecutors believe may contain the Watergate discussion is not on the parts of the tape that can be made out.

All Voted For Busing Economy

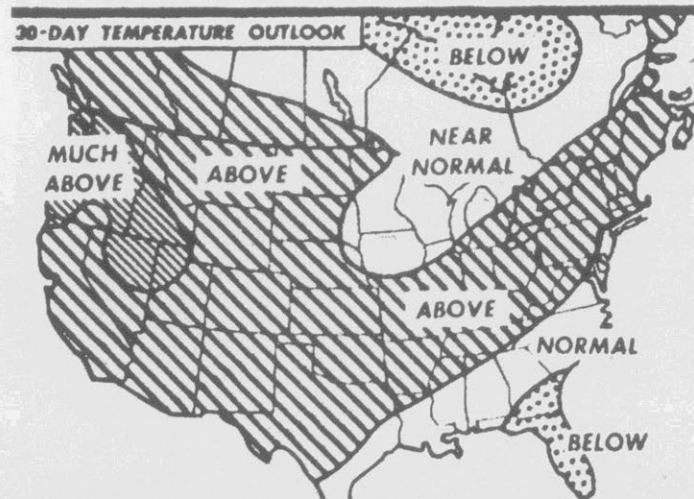

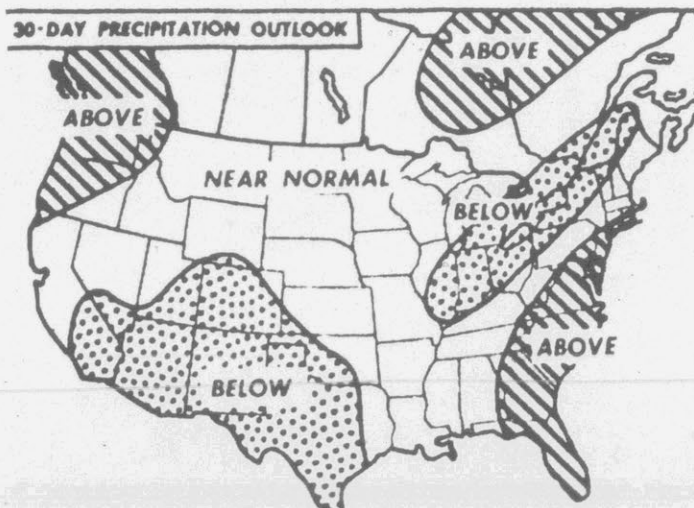

WASHINGTON (AP) — All representatives from North Carolina voted Thursday in favor of denying gasoline for busing pupils to other than neighborhood schools. The amendment by Rep. John D. Dingell, D-Mich., passed 221-192.

The Senate recently rejected a similar amendment to limit busing by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C.

Streetwalkers Are Re-Located

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — Immigration director Temistocles Arjona says authorities this year have "relocated" nearly 7,000 foreign prostitutes who roamed the city streets with tourist cards.

He estimated the number of foreign prostitutes still active in the city at about 1,000. The rest have been deported.

The Trained Police Dog Will Only Fight On Signal

By EUGENIA WOODY
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Charles Mellor and family, posing for pictures, look like any other such grouping: smiling wife, Jacqueline, young son, Christopher, and the family dog, Dolch.

But Dolch is really not your everyday family pooch. He's a snapping German shepherd, and a trained member, along with officer Mellor, of the Philadelphia Police Department's Canine Corps.

"He's not a gentle dog," Mellor said of the husky animal who's been his patrol partner in West Philadelphia for six months.

Dolch takes any amount of fondling from 2-year-old Christopher Mellor, but once he bares his teeth — beware.

The Philadelphia police added dogs to their arsenal 11 years ago, and now claim the animals are a major deterrent to crime.

There are some 130 dogs on active duty, according to the canine training supervisor, Richard Bridgeford, and about 25 of them staff the city's subways and elevated trains. The rest patrol the streets of North and West Philadelphia, high crime areas, and Bridgeford says, they could eventually be all over the city.

But head trainer Jack Appolonia claims the dogs aren't vicious, even after they've completed the 14-week training.

"A dog is like a prizefighter," Appolonia said. "He only fights on signal. We build confidence in the animal, and then taper it off. You'd have a nervous breakdown walking around center city for eight hours with a vicious dog."

Appolonia said dogs will obey commands from only one person: the officer who is trained along with the dog, and who eventually will be teamed with the animal. This bond is fostered by the department, which once housed the dogs in Police Academy kennels, but now encourages the men to take their dogs home. And most do.

But it's a long tough road before the dogs end up in a cop's home. To qualify, the dog must be judged physically suited by the academy's veterinarian, and temperamentally suited by the trainers. Bridgeford said two out of every three dogs donated are rejected.

Then there are tests to be passed. The grounds are laid out like a mini-Olympics field, with a 14-foot barrier for the dogs to jump, a nine-foot wall to be scaled, and a six-foot ladder to climb.

With all the concentration on that agility, sharp teeth are what the public usually thinks about and perhaps with good reason.

A few years ago a dog named Captain III helped catch four men robbing a soda plant. He bit three of the thieves, all of whom had to be treated at a local hospital for wounds.

However, it doesn't look as if the program will be hurt. The department maintains four kennels throughout the city, and has built so solid a reputation that dog teams from suburban Philadelphia and New Jersey departments now are trained in Philadelphia.

"We're turning out a good product," said a smiling Bridgeford.

Organizing Scout Troop

GRIFTON—An organizational meeting for Grifton's new Boy Scout troop was held Monday at 7:30 in the basement of the Grifton Christian Church. Twenty-one boys and 16 adults attended.

The troop will hold its first meeting on Monday at 7:30, also at the Christian Church. Scoutmaster will be David Logrando, assisted by Frank Stallings and Bill Bollinger. All boys aged 11 or older who are interested in Scouting are invited to attend.

Because of Christmas and New Year's Eves, no meetings will be held for the following two weeks, but regular weekly meetings will resume in January and be carried out on a regular basis.

Institutional representative Max Scheetz of the sponsoring Lions Club sketched the background of the Boy Scout reorganization efforts of the Lions and other community leaders. Troop Committee Chairman Jack Hodge introduced the other Committeemen: Merle Latham, Ray Denson, Joe Herbert, Paul Smith, and the guest speaker, Scout Executive Ken Davis. A question and answer period followed.

CASE Y-595: Lou Kepler is the Women's Editor of the JOURNAL at Lorain, Ohio.

"Dr. Crane," she said, "maybe you can make the Lorain women happy by telling the men what their wives would like."

"For I devoted a recent Sunday column to their protests. 'And here are some of their 'beefs about husbands:'"

Husbands, Beware!
(1) "Dr. Crane says I'm to get myself all dolled up in a see-through nightie. For what?"

"To go to bed with a hairy ape and have my cheeks rubbed raw by a face with a 2-day old stubble!"

(2) "Tell husbands to use breath mints!"
"It's bad enough to inhale a secondhand hangover, without having it mixed up with bad teeth and stale cigar smoke!"

(3) "Why don't husbands get the hint about their B.O., for I counted during a recent TV

Alas, the very women who gripe the most about lazy, thoughtless husbands are often guilty of rearing sons in the very same manner.

So they are subjecting the young brides of the next generation to the same uncooperative mates!

Why don't you wives tutor your children via my "Compliment Club" and also use by "Behavior Tests for Teenagers" so they learn to clean up their rooms, brush their teeth, use breath mints, deodorants, etc?

And if you think I don't pick on men, send for my 200-point "Tests for Husbands and Wives," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

For men are sluggish writers so they also rely on you wives for such secretarial duties! (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Opening lead: Ace of ♣

There is seldom such a thing as a "blind" opening lead in bridge. The auction tells a story, and if the correct deductions are drawn it is often like playing the hand with all the cards exposed.

South's raise to three clubs showed a hand that was better than minimum—with a bare opening bid, South should simply rebid his hearts if he has five, or bid a secondary diamond suit if he has one. When North supported hearts, South opted for the 10-trick contract at four hearts rather than try for 11 tricks at five clubs.

With the spade suit unbid, it was tempting for West to lead the ace of spades in the hope that partner's values included the king of spades. However, a mental review of the auction pointed out a far better lead.

North had bid clubs at the two-level and South had raised the suit. Therefore, West could place his opponents with at least eight cards in the suit. Since he held four clubs, West worked out that his partner held at most one club.

It was now a simple matter to lead the ace of clubs, and West knew he had struck gold when East discarded. At trick two, West continued with the ten of clubs. This was a suit preference signal, showing that his entry was in the higher ranking of the two plain suits. East ruffed and dutifully returned a spade. Declarer made a good play by going up with the king, but West produced the ace and gave his partner another ruff. He got in again with the queen of spades and East scored a third club ruff for down three.

As the cards lie, five clubs could have been made if declarer guesses the location of the queen of hearts. But with more normal distribution, such as a 2-2 club split or the ace of spades in the East hand, four hearts is the preferred contract.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Think out how to improve your relationship with a demanding associate and derive greater benefits. Avoid one who opposes you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will like fine living and should be taught to work for the education received so that it can be appreciated more and the work habit learned early. Give good spiritual training and encourage a penchant for neatness and order that is so much a part of this nature. Some musical talent here, also.

An Independent Branch Sought

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Sam J. Ervin Jr. has introduced a bill to make the Justice Department an independent branch of government.

The North Carolina Democrat said Wednesday that the Judiciary subcommittee on separation of powers, which he heads, would hold hearings on the legislation next year.

Ervin, who also is chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee, said in a statement:

"Watergate and other events over the past months have called into question of the function of the Department of Justice, and have brought forth allegations that the Department of Justice has been used for political purposes by the White House."

Hepburn Brings Rare Experience

By WILLIAM GLOVER
AP Drama Critic
NEW YORK (AP) — The most casual television watcher knows by now that Katharine Hepburn is doing her thing on the tube this Sunday in "The Glass Menagerie." So read here instead about Joanna Miles.

Her portrayal of fragile innocence gives an enchanting glow to the somewhat truncated version of the noted Tennessee Williams memory play that monopolizes the ABC television network from 8:30 to 10:30 p.m. EST.

Miss Hepburn centers the piece with predictable authority as a termagant Southern matriarch who hopes to win back lost gentility by manipulating the lives of her grown children.

It is not slighting her superb artistry, however, to suggest that Miss Miles exquisitely provides most of the dramatic balance that might otherwise be lacking.

The most autobiographically intimate of all Williams' works, "The Glass Menagerie" involves just four people, a natural for television's facility for reflective intimacy.

In this David Susskind production, screened in advance for critics, the original text has been kept, although time limitations have required cuts.

Sam Waterston, who keeps growing in emotional range, enacts — as far as he is permitted — young manhood's rebellion against the rat-trap of life in a shoe warehouse.

And as a gentleman caller bringing brief ecstasy to the fawn-shy Miss Miles, Michael Moriarty provides welcome counterpoint to frustrating family trauma.

Director Anthony Harvey preserves excellently the play's essential introspection.
