

County 'Digs Up' Required Extra Money And Signals Go-Ahead On New Hospital

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Santa Claus came early—for Pitt Memorial Hospital trustees and others in the community interested in seeing construction of a new hospital for the county get under way, that is. Hospital trustees and County Commissioners met last night to review plans for funding the new hospital and commission chairman R. L. "Bob" Martin told the trustees "the word is 'Go'".

Bids for construction of the hospital were opened 40 days ago—on November 8—and were well above the estimated cost of the project, and above the funds available for constructing the new building.

Base bids for construction—not including several alternates deemed highly desirable if not absolutely necessary—totalled $13.25 million. Added to this the cost of land, architects fees and other costs (such as legal fees and bond costs) the $16.8 million total was somewhat more than the $14.19 million on hand at the time. With the alternates (a 14-bed psychiatric unit, pneumatic tube system, nurse call system, a hemodialysis unit, a bed status system and an engineer's panel) included, the price jumped another $1,048,800, for a total just under $17.85 million for the entire project.

Commissioners and hospital trustees began searching for additional funds after the bids were found to exceed the estimated costs and architects began negotiating with the low bidders in an effort to make adjustments and deletions to bring the costs more in line with the available money. Architects said last night that their negotiations had taken $454,000 out of the project through the cooperation of low bidders "without hurting the building." This, coupled with an additional $280,100 grant received last week from the state Medical Care Commission and $250,000 in reserve funds pledged to the project by Hospital Trustees, still left a deficit of $537,645 needed to fund the project, including alternates.

County Commissioners voted to supply "from some source or another", according to Martin, the $537,645.

County manager and auditor Reginald Gray said the money pledged by commissioners will include interest earned on the $9 million bond issue for hospital construction, more than $134,000 in unspent hospital maintenance and support funds levied by the county and federal revenue sharing funds.

Construction costs, including the alternates, less the $454,000 negotiated out, now total $15.84.

Largest changes in specifications negotiated by architects included changes in windows ($55,000), sterilizers ($51,000), kitchen equipment ($12,000) roof insulation ($83,000), ceiling material ($38,000), dry walls ($25,000), toilet area tiling ($22,000), grounds seeding ($23,700), pipe hangers, gauges and thermometers ($22,000), grounds seeding ($23,000), plumbing ($22,000), and changes in sizes of emergency power generators ($42,500).

With the $537,645 from the commissioners, the $250,000 from the trustees and $280,000 grant from the Medical Care Commission, available funds for the project now include $9 million in revenue bonds, $1.69 million in federal and state rehabilitation funds, $2 million from a federal Health, Education and Welfare loan, a $750,000 grant from the Duke Endowment, $685,800 in federal revenue sharing funds, as well as other money, including a $30,000 grant from Burroughs-Wellcome Co.

At the close of last night's sessions, architects were told to proceed with awarding of contracts to the low bidders. The architects said construction should begin on the project about the middle of February.

Kuwait Silent On Terrorists' Fate

CAPTURED WEAPONS—Guns and grenades taken from the gunmen who hijacked a Lufthansa airliner are shown in Kuwait Tuesday after the terrorists surrendered to authorities. (AP Wirephoto)

KUWAIT (AP)—Kuwait officials gave no indication today what they would do with five Palestinian terrorists who killed 32 persons in a two-day spree at airports in Rome and Athens.

The five guerrillas flashed V-for-victory signs and said they were proud of what they had done as they were taken in handcuffs Tuesday night to a military air base for questioning. They had freed 12 hostages unharmed and then surrendered after flying here in a hijacked West German jet.

Officials of Lufthansa, the West German airline, said the Kuwaitis promised the terrorists safe passage to an undisclosed destination, but Kuwait officials said the surrender was unconditional.

The German pilot of the hijacked plane went to a hotel room and told the switchboard not to put any calls through to him. Five Italian policemen who were among the hostages went to the night club at the Kuwait Hilton.

The guerrillas killed 30 persons by firebombing a Pan American jet Monday at Rome's Fiumicino airport and shot an Italian policeman to death. They killed another Italian among their hostages in Athens and threw his body out of the plane.

But reports from the plane that four other hostages had been murdered were false, concocted by the guerrillas in a futile attempt to get the Greek government to release two Black September terrorists awaiting trial for murder.

At least 14 of the victims of the Rome firebombing were Americans, and a 16-year-old American girl who survived, Robbie Haggard, was in critical condition with burns over much of her body.

The guerrillas told newsmen they considered themselves guests in Kuwait and believed they would be well treated. "We are Palestinian Arabs, proud of what we did," one said. "We are not criminals. The criminals are those who bomb Palestinian refugee camps in Lebanon."

West German Ambassador Hans-Helmut Freundt said the hostages would be flown out of Kuwait today. They included the five Italians, an Ethiopian ground employe at the Rome airport, West German, French and Austrian stewardesses, and the three crewmen of the Lufthansa Boeing 737.

The three stewardesses sat in the Hilton lobby, surrounded by roses, and told of their ordeal with tears and smiles alternating.

"We were scared to death in the beginning, but they did not mistreat us," said Claude Poinard, 22, the French girl. "They kept saying, 'We are not criminals and we don't want to kill you.' But they never spoke about Palestine." The tall, blonde Austrian, 20-year-old Helen Hanell, said the Italian killed in Athens was a journalist who "made a move which made the hijackers think he was trying to escape, and they shot him."

But Italian authorities in Rome said the man was a worker at the Rome airport named Domenico Ippoliti.

The German stewardess, who identified herself only as Miss Oddmann, was in tears as she reported:

"The tense atmosphere inside the plane changed once we were over Beirut, and their treatment to us also changed. They gave us food for the first time and told us we were going to land ... One of them said: 'We are going to surrender to Kuwaiti police.'"

Their ordeal lasted 30 hours, including 14 hours at the Athens airport Monday night while Greek officials and Arab diplomats negotiated unsuccessfully for the release of the hostages.

After the plane left Athens, Lebanese authorities refused to let it land at Beirut. It refueled at Damascus, and one of the hijackers was treated for a minor head wound.

Kuwait also closed its airport, but the plane landed, smashed through several jeeps blocking the runway and stopped in a patch of sand.

Savings Pay-Off Evident

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Energy conservation efforts by Americans are beginning to pay off in many areas of the country, although utility officials and heating oil suppliers say it's hard to measure the exact effect.

An Associated Press survey showed less electricity was used in November and the first two weeks of December this year than in a corresponding period last year.

In almost every area, however, the weather was warmer than it was last year. At the same time, there were more electricity customers, making it difficult for officials to measure the actual savings.

The Edison Electric Institute, an association of investor-owned utilities which compiles nationwide statistics, reported that for the first three weeks of November, electricity consumption was higher this year than last.

Then the picture changed. In the following three weeks, electricity consumption went down. The institute reported, for example, that 34.700 billion kilowatts of electricity were used during the week ended Dec. 8, 1973, compared to 35.692 billion kilowatts during the comparable week in 1972. That's a decline of almost 2 1/2 per cent.

Edison Electric makes no attempt to figure out why the usage is lower, but individual utilities are trying to determine the reason.

The Philadelphia Electric Co., which reported that electricity consumption in November 1973 was three per cent less than in the same month last year and which predicts a greater drop in December, said: "It's mainly due to consumer conservation and to customers making a conscientious effort to eliminate the use of electricity and better utilize their appliances."

Board OKs Hospital Contracts

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt Memorial Hospital Board of Trustees last night approved the contracts for the new hospital construction.

It was merely a formality, since the County Commissioners had met earlier with the executive committee of the hospital board and the architects and approved the project with all its alternatives.

It was voted to set up $250,000 in a reserve building fund. The Board chairman and the administrator were given the go-ahead to sign any agreements needed to carry out the project.

Approval was given to a new in-hospital training program for ambulance attendants to be taught by Pitt Technical Institute.

Trustees were issued an invitation on one of the two hospital employees' Christmas parties to be held from 2 to 4 p.m. and from 10:30 to 11:30 p.m. Thursday.

Buck Sitterson, assistant administrator in charge of finances, has been named Energy Crisis Officer for the hospital, it was reported. Sitterson said the hospital has been cut off the use of natural gas twice so far—from 8:30 a.m. Dec. 11 to 9:15 a.m. Dec. 13; and beginning this past Monday morning. The average consumption of fuel oil per day when it's needed is from 700-1,000 gallons, he said. Fifty pounds of pressure has to be maintained for supplying autoclaves and cooking equipment, though only eight pounds would be needed for heating.

The hospital ambulance has been allocated 375 gallons of gasoline a month; the hospital cars, 106 gallons a month. "We're going to stay within these bounds," Sitterson said.

Chief of staff Dr. John Wooten announced the recommendation of the medical staff that Dr. Kyoung Hi-Park Kim and Dr. D. H. Taylor be given staff privileges. Dr. Kim is practicing in Bethel with Dr. C. G. Garrenton and Dr. Taylor is a Greenville dentist. Administrator Jack Richardson announced that a meeting is planned for Jan. 8 to learn more about the possibility of an Area Health Education Center's being located here. A legislative Medical Manpower Commission report released last week called for such a center here.

Appreciation was expressed to Dr. and Mrs. Malcolm S. Trupp

Wanted Longer Term In Prison

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Dan Wilson told the judge he could study a lot better in prison than out so he wanted a five-year instead of a three-year term in order to finish his degree.

But U.S. District Court Judge D. W. Suttle gave him only three years on an illegal weapons charge.

Wilson, 27, says he's already completed 27 hours of credit from two separate prison terms.

for a $500 contribution to the new hospital gift fund.

Wishes for a Merry Christmas and a Happy Year from the hospital employees to the trustees were conveyed by Richardson.

RALEIGH (AP)—Here is the North Carolina Motor Vehicle Department's report of highway deaths and injuries for the period from midnight to 10 a.m. today:

Killed to date last year 1,906

SWEET PRODUCTION

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI)—California's honey production for 1973 is estimated at 17.5 million pounds, a 3.4 million pound drop compared to last year.

Soviet Silent On Soyuz 13

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet authorities were silent today on the progress of the Soyuz 13 space shot, which lifted two rookie cosmonauts into orbit on Tuesday.

It is the first time the United States and the Soviet Union have had men in earth orbit at the same time. Three Americans circling the globe in Skylab 3 wished the Russians "smooth sailing," but U.S. space officials in Houston, Tex., said they could not tell yet whether the two crews might come close enough to see each other.

Few details of the Russian launch were given, but the announced mission is to check out systems aboard the redesigned Soyuz spaceship, which is scheduled to link up with an American Apollo craft 18 months from now.

Happy Hannukah

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP)—William Bruant, assistant manager of an Evansville branch bank, received a "Happy Hannukah" card Tuesday from Richard Alsop, now of Marion, Ill. Alsop, 33, pleaded guilty to a $12,000 robbery at the branch in 1971. He's serving a prison term now at the federal penitentiary at Marion.

Register Of Deeds And Tax Office To Be Open On Dec. 31

Due to requests showing an urgent need to keep the offices of the Register of Deeds and Tax Collector open for one day after Christmas and before the first of January, the Pitt County Board of Commissioners have decided to keep these two offices open on December 31.

According to commission chairman R. L. Martin, the December 31 opening of the Register of Deeds and Tax Collectors office will give tax payers an opportunity to meet the deadline for payment of taxes before January 2, to avoid payment of interest on taxes due and to enable real estate conveyances to be recorded before the first of the year.

All county offices will close for the Christmas Holiday season December 21 Martin explained and will remain closed until January 2, with the exception of the December 31 opening of the Register of Deeds and Tax Collectors offices.

Martin said the long holiday closing is being made in an effort to conserve fuel in light of the energy crisis.

The commission chairman noted, too, that about 40 per cent of the lighting in the Court House has been cut off to conserve the use of energy.

Churches Reminded Must Ask Tax Exemption

Pitt County Tax Supervisor Phillip Michaels warned churches in the county that they will have to apply for exemptions under the present state law if their property is to remain tax-free.

According to Michaels "the personal and real property owned by churches has long been exempt from any local property tax, except in cases where the property was used to produce a profit such as when a store was operated on church property.

"There are certain basic changes in the exemption laws now," Michaels emphasized, adding that in most cases church property will still be exempt.

"The most important change in the law is that the only property that is automatically exempt is property owned by the Federal, State or local governments.

"In order for church property or any other type of property to be exempt from property taxation in the future, the owner must apply for the exemption annually when the property is listed in January," Michaels said.

The Tax Supervisor noted that in addition to apply for the exemption each January, there are two other basic requirements that must be met under the new law in order for church property to qualify for the exemption.

"First," Michaels explained, "the applicant must be an owner that the state recognizes as being qualified for the exemption."

He explained, "Some of the owners mentioned in the statute include a congregation, parish, mission, a conference, presbytery, diocese, synod or similar local unit of a church or religious body.

"Secondly, in addition to having a qualified owner, the property must be put to a use that is qualified for exemption," Michaels noted.

"In the case of church buildings and the land reasonably necessary for the use of those buildings in general, these must be wholly and exclusively used for religious purposes."

"Religious purposes," Michaels said are defined in the statute to be "...practicing, teaching, and setting forth a religion."

He said the definition further outlines that general headquarters and the residence of ministers (when owned by the church) are also considered a religious purpose.

"One of the areas that is most conspicuously not included in the exemption statutes is vacant lots owned by churches," Michaels said.

"Unless the lot is reasonably necessary for the use of a church building and used wholly and exclusively for a religious purpose then it will not qualify for exemption under this section of the exemption laws," he said.

Greenville And Pitt Tax Collection Records Good

Greenville and Pitt County are among cities and counties in North Carolina with the most effective tax collection records, according to Harlan E. Boyles, secretary of the Local Government Commission of the State Treasurer Department.

Boyles reported that both are in Group One which includes municipalities and counties with a percentage collection of 93 percent or above in their respective population categories.

As of June 30, the secretary said, Greenville collected $45,544 or 96.93 percent of the total levy while Pitt County collected $189,225 or 95.68 percent of the total levy.

Greenville was rated in the population category of cities with 10,000 and over while Pitt came under the 50,000 and above category.

In addition to Greenville, Farmville and Ayden ranked in the top percent among cities with populations of 2,500 to 9,999. Farmville collected $10,103 or 94.70 per cent of the total levy while Ayden collected $7,693 or 93.35 per cent.

Bethel and Grifton were in the second category (86 to 93 per cent) for municipalities with populations of 1,000 to 2,499. Boyles said that Bethel collected $6,841 or 89.57 per cent of the total levy and Grifton collected $6,639 for a percentage of 87.93.

Winterville was in Group Three (80 to 86 per cent) on collections of $5,419 or 83.75 per cent of the total levy.

In the 499 and under population category, Grimesland ranked in the second group on a collection of $429 or 89.92 per cent. Falkland, in the same population group, was under 80 per cent as collections amounted to $532 or 74.81 per cent.

Beaufort County, with collections of $63,307 or 96.86 per cent, and Martin County, with 102,991 or 95.31 per cent, were in the top group for counties with populations of from 25,000 to 50,000.

For counties with populations of 25,000 and under, Greene County was in the top group for collection effectiveness with $41,791 or 94.09 per cent.

Dreams Are Realized For Magazine Executive

By EVE SHARBUTT
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Ida Lewis says she has refused to be paralyzed by what she doesn't have.

So with no money other than her personal savings and contributions from friends, she started a magazine, the kind she had always dreamed of. Miss Lewis is editor and publisher of "Encore," which she describes as "hearing again" or "a further interpretation" of news of the world reported from a black perspective.

Her aim was to widen the horizons of inquiring adults, focusing on foreign and domestic news, the role of women, art and religion, and featuring regular columnists such as poet Nikki Giovanni.

"There was such a vacuum," Miss Lewis says, recalling those early days. "Black media had no respect. I thought we should break through with a professional effort to compare with the best that existed already. So we went for broke."

Miss Lewis added her own savings to investments by friends, manuscripts other friends contributed and a lot of ideas. She found a landlord who had faith in her ideas.

"For one year, we paid no rent. We're paying now, but they trusted us. So did suppliers and creditors. Now even advertisers are coming in to support us. We're the miracle of Madison Avenue," the publisher said in an interview.

Miss Lewis is an experienced journalist who worked for Life and the Washington Post before becoming a free lance writer.

In her bright shirt and slacks and cashmere sweater — "the one luxury I allow myself" — she is an attractive young woman who smiles often and enjoys talking about her antique collections. She says she collects everything, anything, made by blacks, considering even some early advertising placards an important part of black heritage.

A graduate of Boston University, Miss Lewis has contributed to the BBC Africa Service, L'Express and Jeune Afrique. She covered the Nigerian-Biafran war and has been a panelist on educational television.

"I fell in love with Paris when I was there on assignment, and stayed for five years, working and traveling from there," she recalls.

She calls herself "a positivist with a distaste for conflict," and says that even in New York she is not a joiner.

"I was born into a respectable middle class family," Miss Lewis says. "We lived in a Philadelphia suburb and had I been white, I would have had the option of working or not. My background impelled me to work. I think historically, the black woman is a feminist who sees herself as a worker, helper and provider."

Miss Lewis says she is not against women's liberation, despite her feeling that the movement has no soul.

Black women, she adds, have their own feminist movement. Other black publications don't worry, Miss Lewis. She says there is room for everyone in the field, as long as they do good work.

"What we want," she adds, "is a magazine for fat people, skinny people, black people, white people, Indian people and Jewish people — not a patronizing thing. We feel we're a humanist magazine."

The magazine, she adds, takes black people seriously, paying attention to a "third world" point of view. She says that is really what counts.

"When we started, nobody got paid the first year, except one secretary. Everybody else just survived, somehow. They need no boss. We all work together and the atmosphere is terrific. There is no kind of racism in our office, and the staff is about equally divided between men and women."

"And once people realized we weren't using blackness as a tool, we've had no problems with support. Our story is fantastic, because people believed in us," Miss Lewis says.

"Over the years, I've always dreamed about this. I've advised a lot of other people how to run their publications, and now my own dream is realized. We have a lot of faith in things that will follow."

Chocolate-Cherry Dessert From Italy Can Be Prepared Ahead

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor
Here's an incredibly good dessert adapted from one served at the Tre Scalini restaurant in Rome, Italy. It's a frozen chocolate and maraschino cherry confection that can be made well ahead. Definitely party fare, your guests are bound to think it's great.

ITALIAN CHOCOLATE CHERRY DESSERT

- 1 jar (8 ounces) red maraschino cherries, drained
- 1/2 cup rum
- 3 ounces unsweetened chocolate
- 3 egg yolks
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 cups milk
- 2 ounces semi-sweet chocolate, finely grated (use a hand-operated rotary grater)
- 1/2 cup heavy cream, whipped
- 12 red maraschino cherries with stems

Soak the drained cherries (from the 8-ounce jar) in the rum for 1 hour; drain.

ITALIAN SWEET—A frozen chocolate confection holds a surprise: maraschino cherries that have been soaked in rum.

In a 1 1/2-quart saucepan over very low heat melt the unsweetened chocolate. Meanwhile in a small mixing bowl beat egg yolks until thickened and lemon color; gradually beat in sugar; add 1/2 cup of the milk and beat well. Add the melted chocolate, all at one time, and beat until smooth.

Return chocolate mixture to saucepan; add remaining 1/2 cups milk. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture is thickened — about 15 minutes; do not boil. Remove from heat and cool slightly.

Line 12 muffin-pan cups with paper cupcake liners and place 2 or 3 rum-soaked cherries in the bottom of each cup. Pour chocolate mixture over top, about 1-3rd cup per liner. Freeze. Just before serving, 400 recipes are given in "Cecily Brownstone's Associated Press Cookbook" available by sending $4.95 (check or money order made payable to "The Associated Press") to this newspaper in care of AP COOKBOOK, Box G4, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.

Conserve Energy!

Utilize your home freezer in combination with the oven to distribute the work load by preparing holiday dishes now and baking them later. For maximum efficiency, you might make two batches of certain dishes: one for eating immediately and one for the freezer. If you prepare dishes with spices, certain adjustments will need to be made. For example, remember that cloves, garlic, black pepper, green peppers, pimento and celery increase their flavors in the freezer. On the other hand, keep in mind the fact that onion, sage and chili powder decrease in strength with freezer storage.

Plan shopping trips with neighbors, thus cutting down on fuel use.

Safety First!

- In Serving Food
  - Keep hot foods hot, 140 degrees F. or above. Keep cold foods cold, 40 degrees F. or lower.
  - Defrost turkey and other fowl in the refrigerator.
  - Remove stuffing from leftover birds before storing.
  - Place all leftovers in the refrigerator immediately.

- Around the House
  - Inspect and maintain home heating, electrical systems and electrical appliances to avoid fire and shock hazards.
  - Keep stairs and trafficways clear. Use sturdy stepladders.
  - Take it slow when carrying heavy or bulky packages.
  - Don't wear slippery footwear or garments that could trip you.

- Make special efforts to protect senior citizens and small children from home hazards during the holidays.
- On The Streets
  - Avoid jaywalking.
  - Wear bright colored clothing at night.
  - Avoid narrow walkways between buildings.
  - Carry purse close to body with clasp next to you.
  - Remember that planned shopping lists will get you off the streets earlier and home.

Worn-out nylons have the following uses:

- To dry walnuts, flower bulbs, fill stockings and hang in a dry place.
- Wrap metal hangers with them. Makes excellent hangers for drip-dry items. Hangers don't rust.
- Fill them with camphor. Then loop them around the hanging bars in a closet.
- Use them to make the bodies of dried apple dolls.

Right Not To Write Up To GI Husband

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1973 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: The advice you gave "Letterless," that poor wife whose husband is away in the service and hardly ever writes to her, was nothing less than cruel. I am old enough to be her mother, and I would have told her to get rid of the bum!

When she begs him to write because she's worried, his response is: "If I die, the service will inform you." Abby, his cruelty is surpassed only by yours. He's not her teen-aged son, he's her husband, and the father of her children. She has every right to worry about him, and demand that he write. And you tell her to write him "cheerful, newsy, entertaining letters." Why should she? She's at home being both mother and father to their children, and has far less time to write than he has. Abby, I do believe your compassion and brains are in your rear end!

DISAPPOINTED IN BUFFALO

DEAR DISAPPOINTED: Sorry, but I still think I'm right. Your "fight-fire-with-fire" philosophy would be a sure way to consign marriage to a heap of ashes.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for about six months and we live a long way from his parents and mine.

We have a new two-bedroom home, but only one of the bedrooms is furnished. [Ours.] My parents want to come to visit us and see our new home. We don't know whether we should give them our bed and rent something for us to sleep on, or keep our own bed and rent something for them to sleep on while they are here.

What do the etiquette books say about this?

NEEDS ADVICE

DEAR NEEDS: Who cares what the etiquette books say? Plain, old-fashioned consideration and respect for one's parents can tell you to give them the more comfortable sleeping accommodations.

DEAR ABBY: My ears have been ringing almost continuously for a year. I went to a physician. He looked in my ears, said he couldn't see anything wrong, but maybe I should consult an ear doctor.

Well, I went to an ear specialist. He looked in my ears, and even took X-rays, but he couldn't see anything either.

Abby, I know my ears can't be ringing for nothing. Something must be causing it. I worry all the time over it.

I am tired of having people tell me to forget it, it's only my imagination. Any suggestions?

WORRIED

DEAR WORRIED: See another doctor. This time, an ear, nose and throat specialist. Worrying about what it COULD BE is sometimes more serious than what it IS.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "LOVING WIFE IN HARTFORD": Sorry, but I can't help you get a Vietnamese orphan to be "used" as a Christmas present to surprise your husband. A child is not a toy, neither is it a pet.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

UPI Food Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — The Dutch and the Belgians get a head start on most of us in baking and eating holiday cookies.

Molded spice cookies called speculaas are traditional in both countries for the Feast of St. Nicholas, celebrated Dec. 5 in The Netherlands and Dec. 6 in Belgium. In one form or another, similar spice cookies also are traditional for Christmas in many nations that celebrate the holiday. The Dutch, Belgians and Germans—who call their version spekulatius—form the cookies with special wooden molds depicting everything from St. Nicholas himself to animals, windmills, Christmas trees, stars, wreaths and men and women in elaborate old-fashioned costumes.

The St. Nicholas figure is that of a 3rd Century bishop who became the patron saint of marriageable young men and women. In Holland, bachelors often are given special large, doll-shaped speculaas called vrijers, or sweethearts.

The animal-shaped speculaas of Germany are thought to date from pagan times. Poor families, who couldn't afford to kill any of their few animals as sacrifices, used animal cookies instead as token offerings to their gods.

Christmas Dance Held Saturday

A gala formal Christmas dance was held Saturday night at the Greenville Woman's Club for members of Girl Scout Troop 22 and their fathers.

Mrs. Ernest Holt, Woman's Club president, Mrs. George Clapp, Mrs. R. P. Rogers, and Mrs. W. E. Rosevear greeted each couple.

The dance was begun with a full-circle Christmas polka, with all couples participating.

In addition to a huge Christmas tree, the room was decorated with a red, white, and green cutwork linen covered table and other Christmas motifs. Mrs. Thelma Perkins poured punch.

Roy Hooker and Raymond Williams of Aycock Junior High School were among the guests.

Sentencing Light For Gourmet

PARIS, France (WNS)—Noel Carriou, 54, has always been an ideal employee at business and a hardworking man around the house. His only trouble: he is a gourmet who expects too much from his wife as a cook. In 1956 he got so angry at the first Mrs. Carriou for serving roast beef too rare that he killed her in the ensuing fight. The court sentenced him to 12 years in prison, and he was released seven years later for good conduct. He married Clemence Leygonie and had a happy marriage until she served the roast beef too well done. In a frenzy, he grabbed the carving knife and stabbed the second Mrs. Carriou. "I didn't mean to kill her," he told the jury, "but I'm a French gourmet." The court understood and has sentenced him to only eight years in prison.

Safety Tree Sponsored By Pilot Club

The Pilot Club of Greenville, Inc. Safety Committee is sponsoring the Holiday Safety Tree, located on the courthouse lawn.

Used for the fifth consecutive year, the tree is a reminder to drive and walk safely throughout Pitt County.

"In the past, we have had all green bulbs and in the event of a fatality, a red bulb would replace a green one. For the past two years, our tree has remained completely green. However, this year, to conserve energy, the tree will not be lighted unless there is a fatality and then only one red bulb will be lighted, one for each fatality," Miss Nancy W. Warren, chairman of the Pilot Safety Committee.

The period counted will be from Dec. 18 through Jan. 1.

Wedding Invitation

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Lee Smith request the honor of your presence at the marriage of their daughter, Edith, to Donny Haddock, on Saturday, Dec. 22, at 3:00 p.m. at the Sheldermine Pentecostal Holiness Church.

today, old, hand-carved speculaas molds are treasured antiques. But machine-made ones of wood or metal are available in housewares shops in Europe and the United States.

Speculaas cookie dough contains very little leavening and liquid. Too much of either would make the dough rise and distort the designs. It's also hard to handle, because it must be stiff enough to release easily from the molds, yet thin enough to bake quickly. If you have no molds, you can roll the dough directly on a flat cookie sheet and cut designs with cookie cutters or trace cardboard patterns, then remove the excess dough to roll and use again. Or easier still, chill long, thin rolls of dough and slice it as you would icebox cookies.

This recipe is for the national spice cookie of Flanders, Belgium. It is given to children on St. Nicholas Day and Christmas, molded into the shape of families' initials:

Recipe

The day before baking, make the dough. In a small bowl, stir three tablespoons of milk into one cup, packed, dark brown sugar. Add one and one-half teaspoons each of powdered cloves and powdered cinnamon, three-fourths teaspoons each of powdered ginger and powdered nutmeg and one-eighth teaspoon each of double acting baking powder and salt to three cups of sifted all-purpose flour. Sift dry ingredients into a large bowl. Use a pastry blender or two knives to cut two and one-half sticks (one and one-fourth cups) of sweet, unsalted butter into the dry ingredients until they are fully moistened and start to clean the bowl. Add sugar mixture and one-fourth cup slivered blanched almonds and work dough thoroughly with a wooden spoon until it cleans the bowl.

To make rolled cookies, form dough into several small balls; for sliced cookies, several rolls; for molded cookies, work in additional flour until dough is no longer sticky—a half cup or more may be needed. Wrap each ball or roll of dough individually in plastic or foil and refrigerate overnight. The next day, roll or slice one-eighth inch thick, place on unoled cookie sheets and bake 10 to 15 minutes in preheated 350-degree oven, until set. Remove them while hot to racks to cool. For molded cookies, cut slices one-eighth to one-fourth inch thick and, working quickly, press them into a mold that has been floured. Place greased cookie sheet on top, reverse the mold and sheet and tap the mold to release the dough. You may have to work the edges loose first with a small, sharp-pointed knife. Trim edges and bake as you would sliced cookies, increasing baking time slightly for thicker cookies.

Holiday Program Held By Club

The Greenville Business and Professional Women's Club held its Christmas program Thursday evening at the South Dining Hall of East Carolina University.

Miss Nancy Smith, president, introduced Miss Mary Daugherty, who presented the program which consisted of the reading of favorite Christmas selections and poems interspersed with group singing and two solos by Mrs. Doris Marlowe.

Others appearing on the program were Colleen Patton, who did the devotional reading, Jessie Little, Annie Turner, Mary Daugherty, and Ruth White.

At close of the program a collection was taken and the money was presented to a representative of the Salvation Army.

The members had also brought gifts for Operations Sunshine and for the Eastern Lung Association.

The Citizen As A Participant

Erwin D. Canham, editor-in-chief of the Christian Science Monitor, sees the energy crisis as giving the American people a chance to participate in the destiny of their nation.

"For a long time the American people have been frustrated," he wrote. Events were in the saddle. There seemed to be nothing the individual could do about it: Vietnam, Watergate, all the other causes of malaise were bafflingly beyond reach.

"Now with the energy crisis, all that has changed. Now the individual is in the saddle. And he is responding. He is driving more slowly, pushing down the thermostat, seeking a less voracious car, and pondering his many energy-extravagant fashions. Indeed he is wondering whether his whose way of life might be desirably improved."

Canham said the national morale "is responding enthusiastically to the zest of participating in the solution of a great national and world problem."

Somehow, he says, "the zest of participating, of feeling that the precise, concrete action one takes can have a direct influence on a massive problem, is a wonderful feeling. We should not readily let it slip away."

Editor Canham seems to be hitting the nail on the head. It has been a long time since the individual American has been able to feel he was actually doing something to help his country. Not since World War II, when something called patriotism was sweeping the nation has almost everyone enthusiastically pitched in to face a common enemy. Then the enemy was the Axis powers and hardly anyone doubted that the resolve of the Allies, including the United States, would be enough to overcome the enemy.

In most national crises since then most of us have either been lookers on or unable to do anything to help. Now we come to a crisis that depends on the efforts of everyone of us if it is to be solved. The alternative will be cold homes, autos parked and industries shutting down.

There is evidence that the public is responding to the need to save energy and we may be a stronger people because of it.

Tax Threat To Nixon Looming

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—The fact that White House lobbyists, led by Bryce Harlow, swarmed all over the House Ways and Means Committee on July 25, 1969, begging the committee to delay closing a key tax loophole, is now becoming a vital—and dangerous—part of the congressional probe of President Nixon's income tax returns.

The joint congressional Internal Revenue Committee, headed by Rep. Wilbur Mills of Arkansas, was asked by Mr. Nixon Dec. 8 to inspect his tax returns for the years 1969 through 1972. One key issue is whether he properly took a $576,000 deduction in those years for donating his vice presidential papers to the government.

Reconstructing events that surround the decision by the Ways and Means Committee (also headed by Mills) on July 25, 1969, committee sources say it "has never been under such a siege" as it was from the White House. It was on that day the committee decided to end the private-papers loophole. The White House, desperate to extend the time period for reasons never fully explained to the committee, pleaded to put the deadline ahead to November.

But the Ways and Means Committee, backed by the House, refused. The White House lobbying campaign then shifted to the Senate Finance Committee, which, under the righteous indignation of its senior Republican, former Sen. John Williams of Delaware, set a Jan. 1, 1969, deadline. In conference, however, the House version held and the July 25 deadline was enacted into law.

The sequence of events is now being researched by the joint committee, with strong indications the President in the end will be informed by the committee that the delivery of his papers to the National Archives was not legal and that he owes the tax.

The four Republican members of the 10-man joint committee have agreed that an extension probe of Mr. Nixon's controversial income tax problems is needed. That will include the tax returns of daughter Tricia, beneficiary of a $25,000 trust fund set up by pharmaceutical millionaire Elmer Bobst in 1957.

A footnote: Hard-line Republicans, some inside the White House, are pressing for a Nixon counterattack. They want him to demand that Mills and Senate Watergate inquisitors Sam Ervin of North Carolina and Lowell Weicker of Connecticut also expose their tax returns to public scrutiny.

Wallace Recruitment
The seriousness of Gov. George C. Wallace's advance planning for the 1976 presidential campaign is shown in attempts of his agency to recruit a top White House aide of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger for full-time duty with Wallace.

In contrast, to 1972, when Wallace drifted into the presidential contest with neither planning nor organization, his lieutenants are trying to build up a national staff even before his 1974 campaign for another term as governor of Alabama. What's more, he is not merely seeking political operatives by experts in foreign and military policy, such as the Kissinger aide (who must remain nameless.)

A principal recruiter for Wallace is William France, owner of the Daytona Beach (Fla.) motor speedway. Since managing Wallace's victory in the 1972 Florida presidential primary, France has entered Wallace's inner circle.

Clawson for Ziegler?
The polished performance of Kenneth Clawson, deputy director of communications for the Nixon administration, in briefing the turbulent White House press corps last Tuesday has led some middle-level presidential aides to urge his replacement of Ron Ziegler as President Nixon's press secretary.

The daily press briefings, conducted either by Ziegler or deputy secretary Gerald Warren, have become ritualistic disasters: Furthermore, there is widespread sentiment inside the White House that the press operation under Ziegler is a shambles. Consequently, when Mr. Nixon unexpectedly summoned Clawson to the west wing last Tuesday morning to brief reports for the first time, some White House aides began pressing for a permanent change.

When the Watergate scandal broke open last spring, Mr. Nixon rebuffed widespread advice (including recommendations from John B. Connally and Melvin R. Laird) that he sack Ziegler. Instead, Ziegler has grown ever closer to the President. But he could still stay in close contact with Mr. Nixon, keeping his post as "assistant to the President," while Clawson takes over the press office.

Clawson is a hard-liner and a devout advocate of the counterattack theory. But many reporters feel that Clawson, a former Washington Post reporter, would respond to their needs better than Ziegler or Warren.

Came Close To Tackling AMA

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—A thinly veiled back of the hand to the American Medical Association and the American Association of Medical Colleges almost, but not quite, made its way into a report unanimously adopted last week by the Medical Manpower Study Commission of the General Assembly.

Only the vigorous objections of two commission members who are medical men kept the commission from warning those prestigious groups that the state is sovereign and can if it wants to accredit its own medical colleges and license its own physicians.

The heated exchange came on the point of expanding the medical training program at East Carolina University in Greenville, at first under the administrative umbrella of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, but with the aim of having the school eventually being independently accredited.

Can Be Accredited
The difficulty of attaining accreditation has been over-emphasized, the report of the commission stated, and said, "It is our conclusion... that any adequately financed properly equipped and ably staffed medical school can win accreditation."

Rep. J. P. Huskins of Statesville, author of the report, expanded on that: "I don't see a thing in the world to keep them (ECU) from calling up the AMA and saying we are ready for accreditation... come on down."

The written report pointed to some fear on the part of UNC officials about accreditation at Greenville, and Huskins commented, "I think they (AMA) are in collusion with Chapel Hill at this moment."

The report put it this way: "Even though both the AMA and the AAMC may have a vested interest in the status quo, North Carolina is willing to meet their standards so long as accreditation is used as a tool to guarantee quality and not a device to delay progress and inhibit change." That paragraph remains in the unanimously adopted report.

But the following paragraph was deleted:

"But the state is sovereign in such matters. The AMA and the AAMC are aware, more than anyone else, that should they attempt to misuse the authority vested in them, the state can always accredit its own institutions and license its own MDs."

Also deleted was the next sentence: "No such drastic step will be necessary, however."

Two Doctors
Rep. Jack Hunt of Shelby, a licensed dentist, although no longer practicing regularly, raised the objection to that text and was joined by Rep. John Gamble of Lincolnton, a surgeon.

"Those two paragraphs are intimidating," Dr. Hunt said. Dr. Gamble worried that the legislative commission "might be used as a whipping boy... if we put that in print." He felt the attack was an "implied threat," and would provide "a certain amount of ammunition to attack the validity of thinking in this report."

Public Forum

To the editor:

Something needs to be done about the indiscriminate shooting of dogs in Winterville by Police.

There is no N. C. law that permits such acts. A dog may be legally shot if it is attacking or in the act of committing irreparable damage but there is no excuse for the trigger-happy cops or permissive city councilmen to condone inhumane acts to animals. Changes, however, are up to the concerned people of Winterville. The elective officials must answer to the voting public consequently it is up to the public, the voters, to get the rascals out of office and put decent-minded people where they are needed.

At the request of many concerned people of Winterville we have already written to Mayor Dail about the poor conditions of the Winterville dog pound, or open pen that is used. We will do what we can about the complaints we receive but the citizens of Winterville can do the most good by their phone calls, voices and votes for the right officials. Take action now!

NOW IS THE TIME
A rabbi was once asked the question, "When should a man repent?" His answer was, "Repent on the last day of your life." "But," replied the questioner, "no one knows when that day will be," and the wise old rabbi replied, "Then repent right now."

Some people go through life aware that they are repeatedly doing things which are—to say the least—normally questionable. But they always expect to atone later—when they have the money, or the security, or the leisure. But very often it is later than they think, and they never get a chance to undo the evil things they have perpetrated. Moreover, as time goes on, rationalization for evil becomes easier, and in long retrospect it doesn't look so bad after all. At certain times, they know, stock prices are moved just as much by what people think are the facts, or even what they want to believe are the facts, as they are by the facts themselves. But when the market becomes more of a challenge, as when prices stop rising, an investor's access to hard information, to the facts, may become the difference between profit and loss. Unfortunately, that's when many investors find out they can't find the facts, or that when they find them they

Who's The Oil Villain?

WASHINGTON—Who is responsible for the energy crisis? Many people blame the oil companies. Others blame the government. The automobile companies blame the environmentalists and the Democrats blame Watergate. But Prof. Heinrich Applebaum of the Yale Divinity School told me who the real villain of the fuel crisis is. It's the Harvard Business School. The professor said, "Almost every sheik now in charge of oil policy for his country was trained at Harvard. Everything they learned there they have put into practice to the detriment of the Free World. The Harvard Business School taught the sons of Arab potentates how to sell oil, raise prices and demand outrageous profits for the black gold they have in the ground. Had these same sons been sent to the University of Alabama, Oklahoma or Texas, they would now be involved in developing football teams instead of putting the screws to everyone." "Then you think it was a mistake to accept Arab princes at Harvard?"

Other Editors Say Generous Sums

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

Just when one would hope that Congress would be fighting inflation as hard as it could, what happens? Well, in the House the members have just permitted themselves a $1,000 raise in their stationery allowance effective next month.

That's on top of a $750 increase they got last January, and is not to be confused with the $910 postage allowance they have in addition to their franking privilege.

So now, just for stationery, each congressman will get $5,250 a year, for a grand total of $2.3 million.

And they didn't even vote on it. They didn't even discuss it. They arranged a couple of years ago that they wouldn't have to consider potentially embarrassing matters—or such "small housekeeping chores," as one member expressed it.

They simply gave the Committee on House Administration complete authority to establish or change (meaning raise) the allowance for furniture, equipment, telegrams, phone calls, postage, stationery, district offices and employees, and decide the number of round trips home they could make at taxpayers' expense.

The committee doesn't have to hold hearings or anything. It just makes its decisions, announces it and the congressmen quietly accept the bonus.

Or, in some cases, pocket it. For the stationery allowance they simply be given the $5,250. Any of it they don't use is theirs to keep—the same as they can collect $2,250 in case instead of taking 38 free round trips home.

It may be that the congressmen need all these allowances and all that money and other special privileges on top of their $42,500 salary.

But the taxpayers who have to provide these rather generous sums are hard hit by inflation, wage controls and the energy crisis.

Congress should take the lead in setting an example of thrift. And it may be that some taxpayers would like to write and ask their congressmen about this.

Investors Often In The Dark

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — There are times, such as in the early 1960s, when thousands of stock market speculators don't bother much with obtaining factual information, as opposed to opinion, rumor, advice and the like.

At certain times, they know, stock prices are moved just as much by what people think are the facts, or even what they want to believe are the facts, as they are by the facts themselves.

One recommendation is that companies experiment by publishing market information, such as stock trading range, price-earnings ratio, dividends and book value, in their annual reports.

If you have ever worked your way painfully through an annual report, you know you are likely to obtain fragments on any activity but stock market performance. For that information you see your broker.

Why this should be is anyone's guess because few things are of greater interest to either party. Call it human nature. Sort of like the doctor declining to talk price because his secretary takes care of such matters.

Sometime in the late spring of 1974 the exchange directors will attempt to summarize the reaction to their suggestion—which is only that and not a requirement for exchange membership.

It was one of several suggestions, among them: —Each corporation should have at least three public directors on its board to obtain the perspective of outsiders.

—Listed companies should mail quarterly reports to all stockholders. Many companies do not now follow this practice.

—Companies should be careful to disclose reasons for material changes in year-to-year operations, and discuss items such as new contracts, products, volume statistics and other data.

—Corporate audit committees made up of the public directors should independently review financial and accounting standards and practices.

This latter suggestion is aimed at resolving some of the differences in accounting methods that, in effect, permit companies to look a lot better than they really are and that, moreover, make it difficult to compare the performance of one company with another.

All suggestions are likely to be considered constructive in that they are aimed at correcting serious deficiencies. But aiming at the target requires only good intention; hitting it requires skill.

Quick Sanity Quiz

NEW YORK (AP) — Is your head on straight?

Well, if you're not sure, give a thought to it, man.

This is no world to walk around in with loose screws in your noggin. There are too many things that already. The quota is filled, and we can ill afford the luxury of many more.

HAL BOYLE

If your head isn't screwed on straight, you are in danger of wobbling off in the wrong direction. That isn't what civilization needs right now. It needs more straight arrows—who fly true to the main mark.

How can you be sure your head is on straight or turning around like a weathervane, prisoner of every wind that blows? Well, a simple home test will probably suffice.

Simply ask yourself the following questions, and answer them honestly:

Do you count your change more carefully now, because you have the feeling that everybody today is out to cheat everybody else?

If a stranger on the street offered to give you two $10 bills for $5, would you turn him down because you'd be afraid at least one of the $10 bills would be counterfeit?

Christmas shopping hit its stride today with indications that merchants would enjoy the best business in recent years.

Shopping has been continuing at a lively clip for the last two or three weeks, but it was not expected to reach its highest point until this week when thousands of people begin their annual rush to get Christmas gifts.

Merchants have put in the most extensive stock in years and shoppers have found many things to choose from.

The business district has been appropriately decorated for the holidays. Hundreds of colored lights blink gladly from shop windows and along principal business streets and do their bit toward instilling enthusiasm into the annual business of providing things for the visit of Santa Claus.

A White Christmas Manger service was held at St. Paul's Episcopal Church Sunday. The services opened with a procession of the entire Sunday school, led by the processional cross of the church.

The children were led to the manger to leave Christmas gifts for less fortunate children in the name of the Christ Child.

After the procession, the rector was assisted in conducting a brief service by Sam Dees and J. J. Summerell, Jr.

 But that's about as far as the thought gets, isn't it?
 If you are over 40, do you dream more often about problems dealing with your work than you do about dallying with lovely damsels on the beaches of Bali and Tahiti?
 Do the oddball blondes you meet at cocktail parties now turn you off more than on?
 If the situation were just right, you can still imagine yourself cheating on your wife, can't you?
 But it would be a big blow to your own self-confidence if your wife indulged even in a flirtation with another man, wouldn't it?

Don't you think the recent life and troubles of Richard M. Nixon are harder to follow than the plot of a B-grade daytime television soap opera?
 If you were a government official on the take, don't you think you'd hold out for bigger bribes than the ones who get caught seem to have done?
 Doesn't it make you secretly angry that a wife of yours handles money so sloppily that people can take it from her without her even noticing it?
 Those are the questions. Now to your box score:
 "Yes" was the right answer to every question. Figure you have a screw loose for every one you answered with a "no." If there were four or more, better buy a screwdriver. Your head needs tightening.

 Huskins defended the words, saying the national groups embraced the status quo and appear to be "a threat to inhibit change... and we are saying if you persist, we are gonna tell you to go jump... it's time some state said this to those people."
 Rep. Gerald Arnold of Fuquay-Varina joined the debate on Huskins' side: "Leave it in there. How many people realize the state is indeed sovereign—I see no threat implied or otherwise... If we don't say it, who will ever say it—it needs to be said."
 Huskins said his feeling toward the subject was that whatever the commission decided should be based on strengthening the report.
 After more degate, members of the commission decided that both Dr. Gamble and Dr. Hunt had valid points and there was really no need to antagonize the national organizations—and besides the point had been publicly made with reporters present. The commission voted to delete the objectionable comments.

A Word On Schools
 The commission report also called for keeping administration of the health care system with appropriate state officials rather than putting it under control of the university. "The training... should be left to the medical schools; administration... should be left to the appropriate state department or agency." Professionals are notoriously poor administrators," the commission felt.
 As to the Board of Governors, the commission report expresses the hope that they "will, in time, come to regard the university as being the sum of its parts, rather than a part of its sum... the University of North Carolina consists of 16 campuses... progress on one... should bring as much rejoicing as progress on another."

 "We should have sent them to the University of California at Santa Barbara, and they all would have become surfers."
 "I guess it's too late to do anything about it," I said.
 "Perhaps. But I think we should put an embargo on all sons of Arab sheiks, Iranian shahs and Venezuelan presidents. When they apply to the Harvard Business School, we can turn them down by saying the class is filled, but there are openings at the University of Kentucky where they can major in basketball. Let's not make it any tougher on ourselves in the future than we have to."
 "Would the Harvard Business School go along with it?"
 If they don't we will shut off their oil. We should shut it off anyway. Their professors got us into this mess. Let them freeze for a while and make them realize what their damn lectures did to the rest of the world."

Former UMW Boss Set To Begin Prison Term

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — His legal appeals exhausted, former United Mine Workers President W.A. "Tony" Boyle faces the start of a five-year prison term for misusing union funds.

Boyle was to leave his hospital bed today to appear before U.S. District Judge Charles Richey, in whose court the deposed union chief was convicted, sentenced and fined $130,000 for making illegal political donations.

Unless the judge grants a delay in the start of the sentence until after the holidays, Boyle will begin serving the term today.

The Supreme Court upheld the conviction Dec. 3.

In a separate case, Boyle is under indictment as the accused mastermind in the 1969 slayings of UMW insurgent leader Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski, his wife and daughter.

A grand jury in Washington County, Pa., returned three murder indictments against Boyle Monday. He was indicted earlier in Pittsburgh on federal charges of conspiring to violate Yablonski's civil rights, and is scheduled to stand trial there in February.

Boyle has been a patient at George Washington University Medical Center under the protective custody of U.S. marshals since attempting suicide Sept. 24 on the eve of a removal hearing to Pennsylvania. He marked his 72nd birthday at the hospital earlier this month.

A district court jury convicted Boyle in June 1972 of illegally contributing $49,000 in union money to political candidates, including $30,000 to the unsuccessful 1968 presidential campaign of Democratic nominee Hubert H. Humphrey.

Boyle, the hand-picked successor of the late Mine Workers leader John L. Lewis, took over the union in 1963.

The Yablonskis were shot to death by three hired gunmen Dec. 31, 1969, three weeks after Boyle defeated Yablonski for the UMW presidency.

Seven persons have either been convicted or pleaded guilty in the slayings. An eighth person is awaiting a court appearance on murder and conspiracy charges in connection with the deaths.

The government maintains that the assassination plot against Yablonski was hatched by Boyle at the UMW's headquarters here in 1969.

Warn Britons Of Terror Bombs

PTI Informed Accreditation Is Reaffirmed

Pitt Tech received word this week that its accreditation by the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools had been reaffirmed.

Dr. William E. Fulford, Jr., president of Pitt Tech stated that he was informed by the SACS that Pitt Tech had satisfactorily completed the Institutional Self-Study Program. SACS reaffirmed PTI's accreditation at its annual meeting this month.

"This favorable action on our request for reaffirmation of accreditation marks the culmination of over two year's work by the entire Pitt Tech faculty, staff, students and Board of Trustees," Fulford remarked.

"The indepth self-study enabled us to take a conscientious look at our total educational program, policies, procedures and personnel. Concerns, deficiencies or potential problems were brought to the attention of those involved and affected, and every possible effort was made to correct them."

"Both our curriculum and non-curriculum programs, as well as supportive programs, have been strengthened. We are a better institution by having been included in this self-study."

Even though Pitt Tech's accreditation will last for ten years, President Fulford stated that the Institute will continue to be involved in self-study exercises in order that its programs will continue to be attuned to the overall educational and cultural needs, desires and interests of Pitt County citizens.

Announce Town Office Schedule

GRIFTON—The Grifton Town Office will be closed Monday and Tuesday for the Christmas holidays while the Ayden Town Office will be open Monday and closed on Tuesday and Wednesday.

The Grifton office will reopen on Wednesday at its regular time and will be closed Wednesday afternoon as usual.

TORNADO DAMAGE

NEWBERRY, S.C. (AP)—An official estimate of damages from Thursday's tornadoes that killed one person in Newberry County has reached nearly $8 million.

LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard warned London today to expect more pre-Christmas bombings in a terror campaign blamed on the Irish Republican Army.

Five bombs Tuesday wounded at least 65 people in the city, and in Dublin the IRA's Provisional wing warned: "Pressure on the enemy will be maintained on a number of fronts over the Christmas period."

This confirmed earlier reports that the IRA would not observe its usual Christmas cease-fire in its guerrilla war to break Northern Ireland's links with Britain. Local newspapers said IRA sources told them the London campaign was decided two weeks ago at a meeting of top IRA commanders in Belfast, the capital of Northern Ireland.

Three of Tuesday's bombs were car bombs, one was a letter bomb, and late Tuesday night a shopping bag exploded in a suburban shopping arcade where a girl planted a similar bomb six months ago. Two other letter bombs were found Monday; one exploded and injured a brigadier on the staff of Queen Elizabeth II.

The new bombing campaign appeared to have two immediate goals: to sabotage plans for the installation Jan. 1 of a coalition government of moderate Protestants and Roman Catholics in Northern Ireland, and to focus attention on eight IRA members sentenced to life imprisonment a month ago for car bombings in London last March. Four of them are now on a hunger strike.

Meanwhile, political commentators predicted that Prime Minister Edward Heath would call a general election in early February in an attempt to capitalize on public resentment against the miners and railway engineers whose slowdowns have resulted in the nation's current power and transport crises.

The commentators based their prediction on the relative mildness of the austerity package the Conservative government announced Monday to meet the combination of fuel shortage, trade deficit and industrial unrest that is promising Britain its bleakest Christmas since World War II.

Heath's announcement Tuesday that he had postponed a visit to China scheduled for Jan. 4-12 added to the election speculation.

Some Conservative politicians argued that if Heath didn't get the voters to the polls soon and the labor troubles continued, the public might turn on the government and blame it for failing to reach a settlement.

An election at the start of the year also would be conducted on the basis of an old voter registration list that excludes younger persons and is considered more favorable to the Conservatives. A new list takes effect Feb. 15.

The government's term in office runs until June 1975, but the prime minister can call a new election at any time.

Housewives In Britain Seeing Glum Yuletide

By JULIE FLINT
Associated Press Writer

LONDON (AP) — Britain's housewives are having a rough ride to Christmas, faced with trains that don't run, shops that don't open and, sometimes, husbands who don't come home.

With train schedules thrown into chaos by a locomotive engineers' slowdown, British rail officials report jammed switchboards as worried housewives check up on tardy spouses.

"Fed-up wives are asking, 'What time did the 6:25 really leave Waterloo last night?'" one railroad official said.

London hotels report heavy bookings of businessmen unable to return to their suburban homes in the evenings because of train troubles.

"They seem to be having a fair enough time," said a porter at the Leicester Hotel. "They get together for dinner and then pop out to the pub for a drink or two."

In the suburbs, life is grimmer as gasoline shortages and the delays hamper the delivery of mail and the distribution of food and other household necessities.

Dorothy Piper, who lives in the Kent village of Leigh, found her only local general store out of toilet paper. She drove seven miles to the nearest town and had to search 30 minutes for a gasoline station able and willing to refuel her for the return trip.

"It wasn't my local filling station and they said at first they couldn't serve me," she explained. "But I said I wouldn't budge until they did. That shook them."

Mrs. Piper blamed empty shelves in the shops on slow distribution and hoarding housewives. "It wouldn't be funny to run out of toilet paper at Christmas, when many stores are shut for days on end. So people are bulk buying now," she said.

Turkey, traditional for Christmas, is also reported in short supply because the suppliers can't deliver them.

Many housewives worry whether they will have enough electricity to finish cooking the evening meal.

"We don't mind the dark," said Sheelagh Mead, whose lights went out during a recent dinner party. "We always eat by candlelight, but the file of beef had to be turned into steak tartare — and we like our beef well done."

Londoners scrambling to complete Christmas shopping find their favorite shops closed in compliance with a government order limiting the use of electricity to a total of five days until Jan. 1. Some shops work on gaslight or candlelight.

Joseph, a trendy Chelsea salon, is keeping his hairdressing salon open for a sixth day but is sending his stylists home.

"You wouldn't be able to see the different colors," said Joseph, "and that could be disastrous."

'Worst Year' In Scott's Opinion

WASHINGTON (AP) — "This is the worst year I've ever lived, in a political sense," said Senate Republican leader Hugh Scott. "I hope next year will not be as bad."

Scott, reviewing the impact of Watergate, told reporters Tuesday he expects details of several controversial matters such as alleged favors received by milk producers and the anti-trust case against the International Telephone and Telegraph Co. to be issued soon by the White House.

"I do not believe that the President is guilty of any impeachable offense," said the Pennsylvania senator. But he added that the House Judiciary Committee should speed its study of the question.

Hometown Burial For Tar Heel GI Killed In WWII

HERTFORD, N. C. (AP) — Pfc. Simon Francis "Hobie" Stallings was killed in Germany during World War II. He will be buried today with full military rites at his hometown of Hertford, N. C., a small community in the eastern part of the state.

The 25-year-old Stallings was killed Sept. 17, 1944, as his company battled to break through the German Siegfried Line. His body was not recovered and in 1952 the Army notified his relatives that they had given up hope of finding it. On Sept. 26 a German construction crew uncovered a gravesite in the village of Wettlingen, Nochtburg, a Pentagon spokesman reported. The skeletal remains in the grave were identified as those of Stallings, and his wife and daughter were notified last week.

His wife, now Mrs. D. T. Hurdle, said Tuesday she still has a vivid recollection of the day she got the first news of her husband's death.

"We got a telegram by taxicab driver. It was on a Sunday morning. I was 21 years old. It was just terrifying, really."

Stallings' wife and 3-year-old daughter had only a Purple Heart medal to remember him by, as all of his personal effects were lost.

His daughter, Mrs. Brenda Munden, said she cannot remember her father, that she only recalls stories her mother told her about him. But she said she has not forgotten the day they were told he was dead.

The Army had no information on where Stallings' body could be found, but Mrs. Hurdle said, "I believed that the Army was sure that he was dead." "I thought he was buried where he was killed and then they couldn't find the body." The search for the body continued for eight years, until the Army finally said the body was considered unrecoverable. A Pentagon spokesman said that Company B of the 112th Infantry Regiment, 28th Infantry Division, Stallings' company, was fighting in the area where the grave was discovered. The spokesman said the military had no idea who had buried the young soldier.

Mrs. Munden said she was stunned when she learned last week that her father's body had been recovered after more than 29 years.

The body was returned to Hertford Monday.

"I'm so glad to have his body back," Mrs. Hurdle said. But she added, "This is a sad thing for me. It's difficult too. I have been remarried for 21 years."

Lice Infestation Idles Indiana Town's Schools

By STEVE HERMAN Associated Press Writer ANDERSON, Ind. (AP) — A state health official has advised Anderson youngsters to go soak their heads.

The prescription is intended to fight a lice infestation that has closed public schools.

"Heat will kill lice. Put your head in water at 128 to 130 degrees Fahrenheit. It will kill both nits (eggs) and lice in three minutes," said Dr. Raymond Vanderhook, director of the Indiana Board of Health's division of communicable disease control.

"Or use an ordinary hair dryer, so the heat is strong enough to cause a tingling of the scalp, for five minutes," he said.

Because of the lice, the city's 27 elementary, five junior high and three high schools were ordered closed Tuesday night by the city and county health boards.

That meant 19,000 pupils started their Christmas holiday 2½ days early. Their schools are to reopen Jan. 7.

School Supt. G. E. Ebbert said the boards of health were told of the lice problem last week and, since then, "we're not gaining ground. We're losing ground."

He said he did not know how many pupils had lice but "it seems to be very rampant and we can't catch up with it." And the lice have spread to "several faculty members," he said.

Dr. Vanderhook said lice

"must be spread by head to head contact, exchanging hats, leaning back on chairs ... These are all possibilities."

Ebbert said all school buses and buildings would be sprayed.

One problem is that nits stick to hair, Vanderhook said. "It takes a fine comb and medication to get the nits out ... There are a number of trade medicines on the market. The main thing is close examination of all the pupils and treatment of the ones with lice."

He discounted earlier speculation by school officials that the lice were imported on hats brought into the country.

"They're local," Vanderhook said. "We've had 'em for years."

Agnew Pleads His Case In Disbarment Hearing

By TOM STUCKEY Associated Press Writer ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew has asked three judges to only suspend him from practicing law.

Agnew, who faces possible disbarment by the State of Maryland, appealed to the panel of circuit court judges Tuesday to reject the request for his disbarment from the Maryland Bar Association. He asked for "some suitable suspension" for his no-contest plea in federal court in October to one charge of income tax evasion.

"That's a reasonable solution to the problem. It's a reasonable protection for the courts and the bar," Agnew said.

Agnew told the judges that their job was to consider how he had practiced law in the past and how he would practice law in the future, not further punishment on the tax evasion charge.

"Should I be permitted to resume my practice, I would conduct myself in a way that would not bring discredit on the bar, the legal profession or the courts," he said.

Alfred L. Scanlan, a lawyer for the Maryland Bar Association, asked during the 2½-hour hearing Tuesday that Agnew be disbarred.

He said both the grievance committee and the board of governors of the state bar association had recommended disbarment and he said that penalty was justified by Agnew's plea.

Judge Shirley B. Jones of Baltimore, head of the three-judge panel, said a recommendation would be made as quickly as possible to the Maryland Court of Appeals, which will de-

Expect Rise In 'Piggybacking'

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Two railroads, Seaboard Coast Line and the Louisville & Nashville, say they expect more customers to ship by piggyback rail service because of the energy crisis and have ordered 3,500 trailers.

Delivery of the trailers, which constitute the largest single order for trailers ever made by the two railroads, is scheduled to begin next month. A railroad official said the additional trailers will bring the firms' total to 11,000.

Piggyback service involves loading trailers onto flatcars.

decide what disciplinary action to take against Agnew.

There was agreement among the lawyers and Agnew that the no-contest plea amounted to conviction of a crime of moral turpitude, which is a cause for disciplinary action against lawyers.

But in a 12-minute appeal, Agnew said:

"I had very good reasons for pleading the way I did. Some reasons must remain, for the foreseeable future, locked within me."

Scanlan said Maryland has taken a very severe view, especially in recent years, of income tax evasion by lawyers. He acknowledged that suspension, and not disbarment, has been levied in some such cases, but he said there were no extenuating circumstances in Agnew's case.

"This is not a lawyer who worked hard, got some fees and didn't report it," Scanlan said.

School Dentist Considers Job As Two-Fold

Pitt County dentist Dr. Joseph W. Donahoe considers his job in the Pitt County Schools to be as much dental health education as treatment of dental disease.

His job is to go into as many schools as possible to teach all the children about how to care for their teeth. In addition, he is to treat those whose families are considered unable to afford dental care, but who are not Medicaid recipients.

"Instead of spreading my services too thin, I am going to serve each school in which I work as completely as possible before I go on to the next one," Dr. Donahoe said. Obviously, he will not be able to get to all or even most of the schools in the county this year. At present he is working at Sam D. Bundy Elementary School.

At Bundy, he is visiting each of the 23 classes to teach about how to prevent dental illness. "These primary-aged children are ideal students," he said. "There is still time for most of them to have healthy permanent teeth for their lifetimes if they put to use what I teach them."

He tells the students that there are two approaches to dental care, both of which can be nearly effective alone, but together are sure-fire winners—good nutrition with no sweets between meals and thorough daily removal of plaque from the surfaces in the mouth.

He explains that sugar breaks down very quickly in the mouth into an acid on which plaque-building bacteria feed. This plaque causes tooth decay and gum irritation.

He teaches the children how to floss and brush their teeth correctly. However, he admits that many younger children do not have the manual dexterity needed to do the job completely, so parents should learn how to assist them in doing a thorough job. Many Pitt County dentists now teach the flossing and crevice-brushing technique to their patients. While he treats patients, he talks to them about the plaque he finds and how they can prevent it, sometimes quizzing them on what he has told them in the classroom.

"Knowledge doesn't necessarily modify behavior, though," he says, "If it did, we'd have most of our dental problems licked. As it is, all the dentists there are working constantly couldn't catch up with the dental disease there is already, much less what is always developing."

Donahoe works through the Pitt County Health Department in conjunction with the school nurse program, but he paid entirely by the N. C. State Board of Health Dental Division. This is the first year the county has not participated in the dentist's salary.

Pitt is fortunate to have a school dentist. There are only 25 dentists and 14 hygienists working in the state at present.

Dr. Donahoe comes to North Carolina after serving in the Army for the past two years. His undergraduate degree was earned at Clemson University, his D.D.S. at Georgetown University in Washington, D.C. He and his wife, the former Lisbeth Lugo of Huntsville, Ala., live in Greenville.

Postal Schedule For Holidays Is Announced

The holiday schedule for the Greenville Post Office and the East Carolina University Station has been announced by Postmaster Lloyd Mills.

Window service will be provided until 12 noon on Dec. 24 at both the main post office and the ECU station.

Complete deliveries will be made on all city routes and rural routes on Dec. 24 and deliveries will be made to all post office boxes.

All outgoing mail will be dispatched as usual. No services will be provided on Dec. 25.

During the holiday season, the self-service postal center located in the lobby of the main post office will supply postal supplies to satisfy needs of most customers.

Christmas Play Set For Sunday

The Meadowbrook Pentecostal Holiness Church will have its Christmas play Sunday at 7 p.m.

The play is entitled "I Have Seen the Baby Again." The public is invited to attend.

East Digging Out Of Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
An estimated 250,000 people huddled in temporary shelters in Connecticut early today after being driven from frigid homes in the aftermath of a severe winter storm, officials said.

And more snow was on its way to the beleaguered East Coast area tonight or early Thursday, forecasters said.

"I'd say over a quarter of a million people are in hotels, schools, fire houses, or family or friends' houses," said Alan Hekking, chief of operations for the Connecticut Office of Civil Preparedness. "I'm trying to get an emergency generator for a hospital and a guy's asking me for a generator to keep his cows alive."

Despite repair efforts, Connecticut power companies estimated that 84,400 customers were still without electricity today where temperatures plunged to just above zero overnight.

At least three storm-related deaths were reported today on Long Island, N.Y., where an estimated 45,000 persons were still without electricity because of Monday's storm. And new deaths also were reported in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and Colorado.

In the Midwest, snow continued to fall. Officials said up to seven inches of new snow fell in some areas of Minnesota by midmorning.

Traffic on major Eastern roads approached normal after being crippled because of the storm, but driving was still hazardous in some areas because of icy roads. The Long Island Rail Road, which had either canceled trains Tuesday or reported delays ranging up to three hours, said operations were near normal this morning.

In Rhode Island, where more than 100,000 residents were without power for some period during the storm, officials said only 400 homes still were still lacking electricity.

In Detroit, a private jet skidded off a snow-covered runway and smashed through a fence, striking a tree. The two persons aboard were not injured, officials said. Snow continued falling in Michigan and accumulations of up to three inches were predicted.

Power company crews working 24 hours in New Jersey still had not restored electricity to about 4,000 customers in separate sections of the state.

Record low temperatures were reported in some New York State towns. The lowest reading, although not a record, was 31 below zero at Saranac Lake.

The midcontinent storm dropped six to eight inches of snow across Nebraska and South Dakota.

At Silver Bay, Minn., where 60 inches of snow has fallen in five days, 600 snowmobiles took to the roads to battle a new storm.

Four inches of snow blanketed Denver and more was falling. The Office of Emergency Preparedness urged employers to release workers early Tuesday evening, and traffic moved slowly out of the city.

Traffic in and out of Denver's Stapleton International Airport was halted for a time and some flights were canceled.

More than a foot of snow piled up in the Colorado mountains through Tuesday. Nine inches covered Lincoln, Neb., before midnight.

Heavy-snow warnings were posted from eastern Kansas and northern Missouri through northern Illinois. Near-blizzard conditions were expected over much of Kansas, eastern Colorado and northeastern New Mexico with winds up to 45 miles per hour.

Freezing rain mixed with snow made highway travel treacherous from central Missouri across the southern half of Illinois. And Chicago drivers were hampered as a heavy snow fell and froze to the streets.

A cold-wave warning was out for north-central Texas as arctic cold surged southward into the midcontinent behind the storm.

The East Coast storm that started during the weekend and stretched from Georgia to Maine, left at least 20 dead.

The ice knocked down trees and power lines, causing scattered blackouts in Massachusetts, New York and New Jersey as well as Connecticut.

The Connecticut National Guard was on duty for a second day to help utility crews working around the clock to restore electricity to the blacked out areas.

Office Will Close 2 Days

Bankers Among Flim-Flammed

By CHRISTOPHER CABOT
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—If you're a banker and the state treasurer calls, you might ask for identification. Otherwise, you could join the growing list of embarrassed bankers who have been flim-flammed.

It started last month in Nashville, when a caller impersonated state treasurer Tom Wiseman and fast-talked the Commerce Union Bank out of $15,520.

Since then banks in three state capitals have been bilked out of a total of $58,560 by callers using the same modus operandi. Within three weeks the confidence trick worked successfully in Springfield, Ill., Topeka, Kan., and St. Paul, Minn. "I believe this is a confidence master-mind who has extensive underworld connections," said James Seigenthaler, a Commerce Union security official. "He comes into a city, makes his contacts, cases the situation and then gets on the phone. He has a business voice." Officials of the Tennessee Bureau of Criminal Identification (TBI) say they have cooperated with state officials in Topeka and Atlanta, Ga., where an unsuccessful flim-flam attempt was made two weeks ago.

"The week after it happened in Nashville, there was an identical try in Atlanta," said TBI agent Bob Fortner. "This apparently failed because the con-man had one wrong digit in the state's account number. But it was practically the same technique."

The most recent flim-flam occurred Friday in St. Paul. A man claiming to represent the state treasurer's office called a bank cashier and asked for the money which he said would be picked up by a state trooper. He called the state highway patrol, arranged for a trooper to pick up the money and take it to an office at the capitol.

The trooper did so, and after a few other fast moves, the flim-flam man was $14,320 richer.

With minor differences, this technique was used in Nashville, Springfield, Topeka and tried in Atlanta.

TBI officials, as well as Seigenthaler, indicated that there might be one or several traveling con-men who use local contacts to fill out the cast.

"The locals are coached, take their cut, and the con-man takes off," said Seigenthaler. "It's not a new technique, but it seems to go in a cyclical pattern. A person can get away with it for a month or six weeks and then the banks start gives the United States a surplus for the first nine months of 1973 of about $1 billion. The country has not before had a yearly surplus in its balance of payments as measured by the basic balance.

The deficit for 1972 in the payments balance was $9.8 billion.

The turnaround in the flow of money into the United States after years of substantial payments deficits is directly attributable to the two devaluations of the dollar, which have made U.S. goods and services cheap overseas and foreign goods costlier in this country.

wising up," he said. FBI agents in Nashville said information about several men known to use this confidence technique had been furnished the TBI and Nashville police. However, the FBI said they are not actively investigating the case.

In St. Paul, police Sgt. Donald Wondra said, "It sounds like the same operation. All were perpetrated about the same way and the funds withdrawn were almost the same amount in every instance. We've had a lot of people who saw him, but no one who can really describe him."

U.S. Reports A Record In Balance Of Payments

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The government reported today that the United States had a record $2.5 billion surplus in its balance of payments with other countries in the third quarter of 1973.

The surplus reported by the government today was in the government's Balance on Current Accounts and Long Term Capital, also known as the basic balance.

It measures net exports of goods and services, plus the net flows of private long term capital and capital flows between governments.

Other measurements of the balance of payments, including the net liquidity balance and the official reserve transactions balance, also have revealed a substantial payments surplus in the third quarter.

The third quarter surplus gives the United States a surplus for the first nine months of 1973 of about $1 billion. The country has not before had a yearly surplus in its balance of payments as measured by the basic balance.

The deficit for 1972 in the payments balance was $9.8 billion.

State's Traffic Toll Is Smaller

RALEIGH (AP)—Although motor vehicle registration is at an all-time high, North Carolina's traffic death toll for this year is expected to show the biggest percentage decline in two decades.

Joe Register, director of the traffic records division of the Motor Vehicles Department, said Tuesday he anticipates the state "will wind up the year with a net of about 100 less fatalities than in 1972. This would be a drop of about 5 per cent."

North Carolina lowered its fatality rate by 15 per cent in 1954 in comparison with 1953.

Register said the gasoline shortage had played a role in reducing the fatalities.

He noted the gasoline shortage was felt throughout the state in November and "we had 20 fewer traffic deaths than in November last year. We anticipated about 40 fewer traffic deaths during December mainly because of lower speed limits, less driving and the gas shortage."

Up to Tuesday, North Carolina had counted 1,799 traffic deaths compared to 1,902 for the same period last year, a drop of 103.

Register said motor vehicle registration has reached a record high of 3.4 million, up 5 per cent over last year.

"I'm happy about what has been accomplished this year," said Highway Patrol Cmdr. E. W. Jones. "We're shooting for an even better record next year."

Register said he anticipates "a substantial drop in serious injuries" from traffic accidents this year.

He noted that new and used car registrations were up about 9 per cent in November in comparison with November a year ago despite the gas shortage.

City Counts 2 Accidents

Two collisions investigated here yesterday resulted in an estimated $1,375 property damage, according to Greenville Police.

Officers said heaviest damage in the two mishaps resulted from a 6:15 p.m. collision on Elm Street 200 feet North of the South Overlook Drive intersection.

Police reported a car driven by John Robert Dildy of 2402 East Third St. collided with front of 1413 South Elm St., forcing that vehicle into another parked car owned by Dallas Gilbert Whitford Sr. of 1413 Elm.

Damage was estimated at $400 each to the Dildy and state-owned car and $50 to the Whitford vehicle.

Dildy was charged with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident.

Roland Clifton Creech of Route 1, Selma was reported injured when the truck he was driving was involved in a collision with a car driven by Walter Jasper Gatlin of 705 McDowell St. about 6:36 a.m. on Memorial Drive 2000 feet North of the Chestnut Street intersection.

Police, who estimated damage at $75 to the truck and $450 to the Gatlin car, charged Gatlin with failing to see his intended movement could be made in

Voted 21-7 Not To Join Union

Employees of Greenville Packing Company voted 21-7 Friday morning not to join Amalgamated Meatcutters and Butcher Workmen of North America.

The AFL-CIO-affiliated union had won a petition in federal court for permission to hold an election in the local meat-packing concern, according to Bill D. Jones, sales and credit manager of the firm.

New Bern Gains Victory Over Rampants

Conley Rallies To Nip Panthers

BETHEL—Conley High School remained unbeaten in cage play with a 57-51 victory over the stubborn North Pitt Panthers last night. And the Big Orange Machine that is North Pitt girls rolled to another win, 45-14, also staying unbeaten.

In the junior varsity contest, Conley took a 48-44 overtime win.

The North Pitt Pant-HERS rushed away to a 16-3 lead in the first period and could almost have watched the rest of the game from the stands after that. They followed that with a 16-2 second period scoring advantage, running their lead to 32-5 at halftime.

Conley came back with an 8-2 advantage in the third period against the reserves, but still trailed, 34-13. The Pant-HERS came back with an 11-1 final period to polish off another victim.

Joy James led North Pitt with 13, while Wanda Whichard had 12. Connie Barrett and Daphne Simpson each had five for Conley.

In the boys' game, North Pitt proved to be a tough nut for the unbeaten Vikings to crack. The Panthers pushed into a slim, 15-14 lead in the first period, then streaked away to a 16-8 advantage in the second frame. That left North Pitt with a 31-22 lead at halftime.

Conley came rushing back in the third period, however, outthumping North Pitt, 16-10. That closed the gap to 41-38. Then, in the final frame, Conley pushed ahead, outshooting the Panthers, 19-10, to take the hard-fought victory.

Larry Daniels led Conley with 14 points, while Mike Sutton had 11 and Clennel Streeter had 10. For the Panthers, Vincent Barnhill had 13, Charlie Lewis had 12, and Donnie Perkins and Jesse Harris each had 10.

Williamston Boys Out To Make Improvements

WILLIAMSTON—If anybody is having problems, it's the Williamston High School basketball team.

They have been really in the Christmas spirit for most of the short season. They have been giving a lot. Giving up, that is, according to head coach Otis Alston.

"We have been giving up too much," he said. We have people out of position, we are not picking up the press and we are overshifting."

The Tigers are "basically a defensive team" but so far they have been out-rebounded and out-scored. "We are poor inside. There are people out of position.

We play a 1-3-1 and a 2-1-2 along with a man-to-man. On the man-to-man, we can run with anybody. But we are leaving ourselves open underneath (the basket) and on the baseline," Alston said.

"I have been changing players in and out and we have no stable starting five. Once we get behind, we start to fall apart." It is not that the Tigers don't have the potential, they just have too much of the old sandlot type of basketball still in them. The most consistent offensive player to date has been Joseph Purvis.

Keith Biggs has been an off-and-on player. When he is "on" he has a good game working underneath. He is the tallest on team at 6-3.

Dwyane Bell is one of the few tall boys on the team. He is 6-2 as is Tyrone Spruill. Spruill is awkward and sitting on the bench but shows promise. Other than that, the Tigers are a relatively short team. They are composed mainly of guards, "Bell has been good on the boards and can get the good inside shot," said Alston. "He is a good intimidator."

The scoring has been divided up evenly between the players with no one really ahead of the others. And no one has been outstanding on defense.

At the guards, Joseph Wynn and George Brown have been seeing the most duty. Earnest Everette is a returnee from last year and is one of the co-captains but he has not been giving the coach the kind of game Alston expected from him. "I should have better performance from him. He has not shot well all year. He hasn't found the range yet."

The Tigers like to run with the ball but when they get the chance at the fast break, "They go berserk and throw the ball away. Against Robersonville they did real well," Alston said. Against the press, the Tigers have a similar reaction. They don't function well under pressure. "We practice running against the press in practice and they do well but not in the game," he said.

The Tigers lost a close game to Robersonville Tuesday night, 62-61. "We should have called a time-out when we got the ball," (with :10 to go) Alston said, "But we took a shot and missed and that was the turning point in the game."

The biggest job Alston has is getting the sandlot out of the ball players "I have three who played organized ball. I have a lot who played sandlot ball and I can not get team ball into them. If I can get them to settle down...., but we are wild.

"I have one of the quickest teams around. But if we don't improve I do not think we will have a good season."

The Tigers have good depth. "I have people who can do as good a job as the ones on the floor but I don't have the big men." Barry Wallace may be able to help out here. He does a good job on the boards but needs a lot of work.

Free throw shooting has not been a problem for the Tigers. They have been averaging around 70 percent in most of their games.

Right now, however, the future does not look too bright. "We haven't played in the conference. Just 2-A teams. 3-A has better teams and if we don't settle down it won't be very good.

"I have not set my hopes on next year yet, but we have only one senior and this may be a trial-and-error season. I'm a little pessimistic." The coach is not looking for a .500 season yet and does not think the Tigers will rank high in the standings. But the Tigers will win a few games and if the players start thinking more about organization than individual play the Tigers may come around and have a winning season.

NEW BERN—New Bern High School's Bears prepared for a Christmas vacation hibernation with an 89-74 romp over the Rose High Rampants, last night.

The Rampants did not give the Bears much, however. They were in the game all of the first half but in the second act, the officials got into the way.

It seemed that the Bears could not do a thing wrong. The same action that would draw a foul on the Rampants apparently would not be seen by the two officials. The Rampants had just one more foul called on them than did the Bears, 25-24, but the fouls called on Rose came at times when, had they not been called, the Rampants may have been able to stay in the ball game.

New Bern hit a shade better from the floor than did the Rampants making exactly 50 per cent of their attempts. Rose hit on 46 per cent. The Bears had the edge from the free throw line also making 21 of 27 shots for 77 per cent while the Rampants sank 65 per cent.

Rose battled into the lead in the first period but fell behind by five at halftime. The Bears scored two quick buckets at the start of the third quarter and they were on the way to the rout.

Robert Brinkley put the Rampants on the board first as he made a fine move in the lane on a drive. Rob McClellan tied it up on a tap-in for the Bears and he made a base line jumper to put New Bern in front for the first time, 4-2.

Gary Mattocks gave the Bears a four-point lead, 6-2 hitting from the corner with 5:00 to go in the frame but Randy Van Surdam popped in two quick buckets for Rose to tie the score at 6-6.

The lead went to New Bern on a shot by Ronald Wallace, 8-6, only to be tied up again on an outside bomb by Ronnie Barrett.

McClellan got the lead back for the Bears before Herb Bynum canned his first jumper of the night from the corner to make it 10-10.

With 1:06 left, Bynum scored again to give the Rampants a bucket advantage, 12-10 and Barrett layed one in from underneath as the quarter ended.

Jeff Jones scored for New Bern as the second quarter opened cutting the lead to 14-12 but Barrett hit from the lane to push the Rampant lead back to four.

Jones scored again sandwiched around two points of free shots by Bynum with 1:10 to go in the half the lead was cut from six to four, 20-16 on free throws by Jones. Ronald Scott blasted two swishes in from 20 feet to tie the score at 20-all, with 5:41 to play in the frame.

Two more baskets by Scott gave the Bears a 24-20 spread and after Brinkley scored from the Rampant corner, New Bern added three free throws to make it 27-22.

Tyrone Taft hit a jumper from the circle but it was matched by one by Jones. Van Surdam scored and after Jones made two free shots the Rampants rallied to take the lead.

Taft sank four straight free throws and Barrett scored on a feed from Taft to slip Rose in front, 32-31. It did not last long as the Bears got a bucket and the lead from Rob Shields at 1:13 and Scott sank a basket from the free throw stripe. Shields added a follow-up tap to put the lead at five as the two teams went into the dressing room.

The second half was a completely different ball game. Shields and Scott scored for New Bern to run the gap out to 41-32 before Van Surdam hit for the Rampants. Jones and Mattocks gave the Bears their biggest lead so far, 45-34. After that, the Rampants could never catch up.

Once the one-and-one went into effect, the Rampants could not turn around without a foul being called. It was the offensive fouling that hurt the Rampants most, cooling their shooting and keeping them off the free throw line.

The biggest New Bern lead of the period came at 1:19, 56-44. The fourth quarter saw a 26-point spread, 75-50, as the Bears continued to roll. Rose rallied in the last three minutes of the period getting 11 points to close the gap from 85-61 to 85-72 but when Taft drew his fourth foul the Rampants ran out of steam and time.

For the Bears Scott had 18, McClellan had 14 and Jones 15. Bynum led the game's scoring with 21. Taft scored 13 and Barrett and Van Surdam each scored 12.

The Rampant J.V.'s were also beaten, 76-57. Rose could not hit a thing in the first period as New Bern rolled up a 23-9 lead. The gap remained the same as both teams added 12 points in the second period.

Rose cut it to 46-38 in the third quarter but the Bear Cubs poured in 30 points in the fourth period to 19 for the Rampants to get the win.

Carl Mobley and William Boone each scored 17 for New Bern. Mike Brewington, Curtis Keyes and Trenton Blount each had 10 for Rose.

PIKEVILLE—Charles B. Aycock High School swept a trio of games from Farmville Central's Jaguars yesterday. They won the junior varsity contest, 49-46, came back with a 57-40 win in the girls' game, then finished it off by downing the Jaguar varsity, 72-48.

In the girls' game, Aycock doubled the score on Farmville Central in the first period, outscoring them, 16-8. The Lady Jaguars put up the same score, eight, in the second quarter, and managed to hold Aycock to just 10. But they still trailed, 26-16 at halftime.

advantage in the second period, but still were behind the Falcons, 32-25 at intermission.

Aycock pulled away again in the third quarter, dumping in 17 points to just eight for Farmville. That ran the margin out to 49-33, as the last period began. Aycock outthit Farmville, 23-15, in that to wind it up.

Elon Finishes Tenth In Poll

Tennessee State had to show its credentials during the 1973 regular season, then sit on the sidelines during post-season competition hoping that no one else would look too convincing. No one did — and Tennessee State, which went 10-0 during the regular season, emerged today as the top team in The Associated Press' final small college football poll of the 1973 campaign. The Tigers received 17 first-place votes and 708 points from a national panel of sports writers and broadcasters. They edged Louisiana Tech, 12-1, by two points. Louisiana Tech collected more first-place votes, 21, but had a total of only 706 points. This was the first time the small college poll had been conducted after the playoffs. Tennessee State was unable to compete in the playoffs because several Tiger players had used up their post-season eligibility. Louisiana Tech wound up winning the NCAA college division playoffs with a 34-0 victory over Western Kentucky in the Camellia Bowl. Western Kentucky, which lost the NCAA Division II championship, finished third in the balloting with 459 votes, while

Wittenberg finished fourth after beating Juniata in the Stagg Bowl for the NCAA's Division III championship. Abilene Christian tied for fifth place with Boise State. Abilene Christian defeated previously unbeaten Elon in the NAIA championship game at Shreveport, La. Grambling, 10-3, was seventh, while Cal Poly-San Luis Obispo was eighth, Hawaii, ninth and Elon, 10th. # Cronin Juggles Hot Baseball

By DAVE O'HARA
Associated Press Sports Writer
BOSTON (AP) — Retiring American League President Joe Cronin juggled a hot baseball situation today in a hearing over Oakland Athletics owner Charlie Finley, a long-time maverick who has gone to court. Finley filed a suit in U.S. District Court in San Francisco Tuesday, seeking to prevent Manager Dick Williams from working for any other pro baseball club for the next two years. Williams was named the only defendant. The action came shortly after Cronin deferred a decision in Detroit's hiring of Manager Ralph Houk by the Tigers. Cronin met for four hours behind closed doors with the Tigers and the New York Yankees. The Yanks were left without a manager by Houk's resignation on the last day of the 1973 season. In his court suit, Finley asked that Williams, who signed as manager of the Yankees last week, be prevented from joining any other club until fulfilling his Oakland contract through the 1975 season. Later, contacted in Chicago, Finley said he would come out fighting in his hearing with Cronin. "As I've always said, if they (the Yankees) want Williams, they can have him with my blessings, as long as they are willing to compensate me." Finley reportedly has refused a New York offer of veteran second baseman Horace Clarke and, later, a $150,000 cash deal along with some minor league players. Asked what compensation he would want, Finley said: "Well, mostly players who are good prospects. From our law suit filed today, at least they know we mean business." Cronin, who will turn over the league presidency to Yankees General Manager Lee MacPhail Jan. 1, was faced with one of his toughest decisions since accepting the job in 1959. He met with General Manager Jim Campbell of the Tigers, Houk and Yankees President Gabe Paul for four hours Tuesday. McPhail and attorneys for all, with a stenographer taking the minutes, were on hand. Houk had two years left on his contract when he resigned as New York manager on Sept. 30. He later signed with the Tigers, with apparent blessings from the Yankees. Williams quit with two years left on his Oakland contract immediately after his A's won the World Series. He thought he had Finley's okay, but found out within a few days he didn't. Finley demanded player compensation, which the Yankees, in turn, wanted from Detroit. Cronin, calling the hearings as an absolute judge under what he called rules of the baseball constitution, deferred a ruling on the Houk case after the long meeting with Campbell, Paul, McPhail, Houk and the others. "I have to weigh all the evidence," Cronin said, referring to a meeting with Finley and the Yankees.

Atlanta Snaps Losing String

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Atlanta Hawks snapped a five-game National Basketball Association losing streak Tuesday night by defeating the Capital Bullets 98-91. Walt Bellamy held the Bullets' Elvin Hayes to 12 points, nine below his average, and Pete Maravich scored 34 points as the Hawks climbed to within two games of the first-place Bullets in the NBA's Central Division. Elsewhere, the Los Angeles Lakers edged the Milwaukee Bucks 109-107, the Boston Celtics trimmed the Golden State Warriors 125-106, the Seattle SuperSonics nipped the Chicago Bulls 93-92, the Portland Trail

Blazers trounced the Phoenix Suns 133-117 and the Buffalo Braves downed the Cleveland Cavaliers 100-93. No games were scheduled in the American Basketball Association. The Bullets, playing their second game in the new $16 million Capital Center in Largo, Md., made a spirited rally. They trailed 84-68 after three quarters but trimmed the deficit to 90-89 with three minutes left. But Hayes fouled out at that point and the Bullets' defense collapsed. Kevin Porter came off the bench to lead Capital with 23 points. Lou Hudson helped Maravich with 28 for the Hawks.

Carl Tosses TD, But Grays Lose, 20-14

Three members of the East Carolina University football team played key roles for the Gray team last night. Quarterback Carl Summerell went the entire distance for the Grays at the helm. He hit on 15 of 27 passes for 146 yards and one touchdown. He had two passes picked off. On the ground, Summerell rushed five times for 11 yards. Carlster Crumpler, who alternated at one of the running back spots, carried the ball 11 times for 32 yards, including on 19-yard romp. Greg Troupe went all the way at the starting left guard position. All-star contest. Christiansen had to leave Cramton Bowl shortly after his team failed on a fourth-down play at the Gray two. But, as he said as he left the stadium with less than three minutes to go in the game, "we had them backed up."

It was really a hard hitting game. The leading rusher for the Rebels was Smith, who picked up 43 yards in 12 carries. The Blue's leading ground-gainer was Isaac Jackson of Kansas State, who scampered for 55 yards in 11 hauls. Freitas had back-up help at quarterback from Joe Pisarcik of New Mexico State, who completed six of 14 for 55 yards.

Hadl, Gabriel Share Honors

NEW YORK (AP) — John Hadl, whose restrained passing brought Los Angeles into the playoffs, and Roman Gabriel, whose aerial bombardments made Philadelphia one of the National Football League's most explosive teams, have been voted to quarterback the National Conference in the annual Pro Bowl Game. Philadelphia, tackle George Kunz and defensive end John Zook of Atlanta, guard Gale Gillingham and cornerback Ken Ellis of Green Bay, center Ed Flanagan of Detroit, defensive end Carl Eller and linebacker Jeff Siemon of Minnesota, linebackers Isaiah Robertson of Los Angeles and Lee Roy Jordan of Dallas and strong safety Ken Houston and kick-return specialist Herb Mul-Key of Washington. All three of the NFC's 1,000-yard gainers — Green Bay's John Brockington (1,144), Dallas' Calvin Hill (1,142) and McCutcheon (1,097) — were selected. Among the repeaters on the NFC All-Star team are defensive tackle Merlin Olsen of the Rams, who has made it in all of his 12 seasons, and Cowboys' cornerback Mel Renfro, a nine-time choice in nine years.

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — What does a head coach do when his team falls short on a fourth-down play? If he's Coach Jack Christiansen, head mentor of the North in Tuesday night's Blue-Gray football game, he leaves the stadium and goes home. But not because he's worried. Christiansen had to catch an early flight back to Stanford and, besides, his team was doing pretty well — it was six points ahead on the strength of two field goals by a fellow who had never kicked one in a game in his life. And Christiansen had a pleasant flight home. The six point lead held up over the last few minutes to preserve the Blue's 20-14 victory over the Grays in the 38th renewal of the college

ROBERSONVILLE—Robersonville swept three games from Lee Woodard last night as they rolled to big wins in each one. The Robersonville J.V.'s won their contest, 63-33. In the girls game, the Lady Eagles outclassed Lee Woodard, 41-27 and the varsity boys blasted their opponents, 69-49. # Jamesville In Loss To Aurora

AURORA—Aurora High School swept a pair of games from the Jamesville Bullets last night in the Beaufort-Hyde-Martin Conference. The boys took their game, 87-57, while the girls rolled to a 52-20 win. In the opener, Aurora ran out to a 13-4 lead in the first period of play. Jamesville managed to stay almost even in scoring in the second frame, 12-10, but was behind by 25-14 at halftime. Aurora slammed the door in the third period with a 16-2 margin, running their lead out to 41-16. They outthrew Jamesville once more, 11-4, to wind up the game. Johnnie Smith and Edith Moore each had 14 points to pace Aurora, while Debbie Leggett had 10 for Jamesville. In the boys' game, it wasn't much different. Aurora inched out into an 18-14 lead in the first period and was never headed. They outshot the Bullets, 21-15, in the second frame, and upped their lead to 39-29 by the end of the first half. They continued to pull away in the third period, outshooting Jamesville, 22-14, and that left the lead at 61-43 going into the final frame. Aurora once more Georgia caught North Carolina State on the rebound ... and it was too bad for the Bulldogs. Still feeling pain from an 18-point loss to top-ranked UCLA, North Carolina State made Georgia suffer for it with a 94-60 beating Tuesday night. "I was very disappointed after the UCLA game," said North Carolina State Coach Norm Sloan, talking about Saturday's 84-66 loss in the battle of college basketball giants. But he evidently felt a little better after marching through Georgia. "We showed alertness, quickness and played better defense," said Sloan. One of the reasons for those qualities was forward Phil Spence, who played 29 minutes and finished with 15 rebounds and 11 points. In other games Tuesday night, sixth-ranked Marquette turned back Northwestern 77-63; No. 8 Louisville stopped Clemson 74-70 and Florida State upset No. 12 Memphis State 88-80. David Thompson, held to 17 points by UCLA, exploded for 28 against Georgia. The Wolfpack ran off a quick early lead and kept hounding the Bulldogs with a full-court press that forced 32 turnovers.

Washington's Notables Move To Conserve Energy

By ANN BLACKMAN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Ethel Kennedy turned off the heat in five of the 18 rooms in her home. Sen. Lowell Weicker Jr. turned in the family station wagon for a compact car.

That's how some of Washington's notable folk are weathering the energy crisis.

From Capitol Hill to the White House, most departments, agencies and individuals are making an effort to save fuel.

President Nixon may forsake Air Force One for a commercial train to get to Florida this Christmas. The Treasury Department held one of its annual Christmas parties by candle light.

Richard O. Simpson, chairman of the Consumer Product

BIG BIRTHDAY
ROAD TOWN, Tortola, British Virgin Islands (UPI)—This tiny British crown colony in the Caribbean will celebrate the 200th anniversary of the first sitting of its legislative assembly.

Safety Commission, has started commuting from his suburban Maryland home to his downtown office by bus instead of automobile.

A White House press office ban on women wearing pant suits to work has been declared, in administration lingo, "inoperative."

The government's house-keeping agency, the General Services Administration, removed light bulbs from every other fixture in the hallways of the White House Executive Office Building and switched the remaining bulbs from 150 to 75 watts.

Mrs. Kennedy, who lives in suburban McLean, Va., said her decision to cut off the heat in five rooms is creating a problem. "It doesn't do much good because the dogs and the children keep running through the rooms," she said. "Now the whole house is freezing."

TALLEST PEAKS
ANCHORAGE, Alaska (UPI) — The two highest peaks in North America are the Churchill Peaks in 1965 for the late Sir Winston Churchill of Great Britain. Prior to that they were known as the North and South Peaks of Mt. McKinley in Alaska.

Frank Ikard, president of the American Petroleum Institute, walks two miles from his Northwest Washington home to his office almost every day to save fuel, according to his wife, Jayne. And he's trying to sell his Cadillac but can't find a buyer.

William E. Simon, the new energy czar at the Federal Energy Office, gets to work by chauffeur-driven Chevrolet, a result of his own edict last week that all federal agencies get rid of their limousines by Jan. 1.

Caspar W. Weinberger, former budget director and now head of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, has replaced his dark blue Cadillac limousine with a black Mercury Marquis. The cost saving is questionable, according to his chauffeur, who said both cars get nine miles to the gallon.

Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., has traded in his Mercedes Benz for a smaller car, a Ford Mustang. Weicker, a Connecticut Republican, now drives a Ford Pinto.

Mother And 5 Children Die In Blaze

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — A mother and her five children died early today when a blaze destroyed the second floor of a wooden two-family dwelling, fire officials said.

Authorities identified the victims as Elizabeth Forest, 23, and her children — Issac, 8; Cathy, 7; Lillie Mae, 6; Lorine, 4; and Michael, 3.

"The bodies of the six were found piled under a bed" on the second floor of the two-story building, said Richard King, spokesman for the Orange County Sheriff's office.

Officials originally reported that five children and one teenager were killed in the blaze and that the mother was identifying the bodies.

"There was a lot of confusion as to who was and who wasn't killed," King said. "At first, we thought the mother was a 16-year-old sister of the dead children."

Investigators said the fire apparently was started by a candle.

"They were using candles because the electricity was shut off Tuesday," King said. "A neighbor told us one candle was sitting on a plastic cover on the dresser."

Authorities said 14 persons were in the building when the blaze broke out but the family of Clarence Williams, living on the first floor, was able to escape without injury, authorities said.

Williams said after the fire broke out he tried to awaken the Forest family by yelling and pounding on the building but they did not respond.

"The upstairs was a ball of fire," Williams said.

Authorities said they were attempting to notify the unidentified father who lived at a different address.

'Authentic' Santa Goal

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Dowie's Santa Claus School concentrates on turning out believable, authentic-looking, jolly old St. Nicks without that "Ho, Ho, Ho" jive.

"We never tell our Santas to say 'Ho, Ho, Ho,'" said Fran Dowie. "No one really goes around saying 'Ho, Ho, Ho.' You just have to keep your personality bubbling. It's not what you say. It's what you feel."

Dowie's school, part of the British Columbia School of Performing Arts and Crafts, offers a 10-week course — four hours of instruction a day — for $50 per student. However, Dowie admits a person with an outgoing personality can learn the role in about six hours.

But $50 really is a bargain, he says. Graduates from his school can get $25 an hour from Santa-users who want a top-of-the-line product.

Forty students graduated from this year's course, Dowie said. About 120 people applied, but most were turned down as unqualified.

Qualifications include a lot of years. Dowie says older persons with white eyebrows and mature face and tone of voice make the best Santas.

"It really drives me up a wall when I see 18-year-olds taking a Santa job when there are senior citizens who could do it," Dowie said.

"It's not hard work. You sit down and do the thing old folks like doing most of all: talking to children."

Night School Is For Drop-Outs

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The Charlotte and Mecklenburg County Board of Education voted Tuesday to start a voluntary night school, aimed at teen-aged dropouts.

It will offer academic and vocational courses to about 200 youngsters aged 16 through 18 who have left the daytime school program for personal, family or financial reasons.

The school will be financed for the next six months by $95,600 in state and local funds.

Feb. 4 is the target date for the start of the school.

Auditors Say Nixon Should Have Paid Personally

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon should have paid personally for some of the $1.4 million in work done at federal expense at his homes, government auditors have concluded.

In a 99-page report to Congress issued late Tuesday, the General Accounting Office stopped short of recommending that Nixon repay the federal funds spent on the projects it cited.

But the watchdog agency said Congress should tighten controls over such federal spending and consider limiting the number of private residences at which presidents can receive permanent security facilities.

The report was sharply critical of the "casual attitude" it said was displayed by federal officials and agencies in authorizing work at Nixon's San Clemente, Calif., and Key Biscayne, Fla., homes.

According to the auditors, Nixon himself was at times personally involved in approving some of the projects. They said others were ordered or approved by White House aides, his personal lawyer or architect, or his close friend C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo.

The White House did not make an immediate, detailed response to the GAO report, referring instead to previous assertions that the work on Nixon's property was required for security or administrative reasons.

Nixon himself referred on Dec. 8 to the federal spending in an extensive report on his personal finances. He described as "grossly inaccurate" what he termed the widespread belief "that the government improvements (at the homes) have vastly enriched me personally."

He contended that only $68,000 was spent on his San Clemente home itself and $635,000 on the surrounding grounds.

The GAO report, while not breaking down figures in that fashion, did come up with a spending total closely coinciding with that reported several months ago by the General Services Administration.

The comprehensive audit reported that $886,900 spent for such major security projects as walls and fences, lighting and alarm systems, command posts and bullet-proof glass at the two residences "do not provide significant benefits to the President apart from protection."

But it ticked off other, smaller projects and suggested Nixon should have paid for them personally because they offered "nonprotective benefits" to him.

For example, the report said, "it appears that the government did some landscape maintenance at both residences which should have been done at the President's expense."

It said he now pays for the bulk of the grounds maintenance, but that at one time the government was paying for five fulltime landscape maintenance men at San Clemente and one fulltime worker at Key Biscayne.

According to the report, the Secret Service proclaimed the San Clemente home's heating system "a major fire hazard" even before Nixon bought the property.

But it also said that Nixon's architect wanted to replace the system anyway as part of a general reconditioning of the Spanish-style villa, adding that it questioned "whether the government should pay the entire ($13,500) cost of the new system when the President intended to install one anyway."

Nixon's personal attorney, Herbert Kalmbach, ordered boundary and structural surveys on the San Clemente property and submitted the $5,500 bill to the GSA which paid it, the report said. "We think it was inappropriate for the government to assume the cost," the auditor said, because the surveys were made in connection with Nixon's acquisition of the property.

The auditors also questioned federal payment of $3,800 of the $9,800 cost of installing new sewer lines at San Clemente, contending the work was done "to replace the septic tank system and to drain the (swimming) pool...."

Other items questioned by the report ranged from a $400 exhaust fan to correct a defective fireplace to a beach cabana.

The report disclosed Nixon's personal involvement in some of the work as it recited the steps leading to construction of a Secret Service command post near his Key Biscayne home.

The auditors said one Secret Service official reported Nixon rejected the initial plans for the structure, quoting the President as saying "he would not have such a building on his property and that he wanted the command post to be in the shape of a lighthouse."

The government then asked an architect to come up with a new design and the command post subsequently was built in what the report said "could be considered reasonably similar to a lighthouse."

According to the auditors, next-door neighbor Rebozo acted as Nixon's personal representative in some negotiations with the government on Key Biscayne projects. And it cited numerous cases where memos about the work were routed to former White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman by Nixon's lawyer or architect.

New Governor No 'Caretaker'

ALBANY, New York (AP) — Insisting that his would not be a caretaker administration, Malcolm Wilson has taken over as the 50th governor of New York after 15 years in the shadow of Nelson A. Rockefeller.

"This is going to be a time of vigorous action in serving the people," said the former lieutenant governor who is the first Catholic to occupy the office since Al Smith died in the 1920s.

Rockefeller, 65, announced his resignation last week to head two national commissions and, possibly, to make a fourth try for the Republican presidential nomination.

British Dahlias 'Going Metric'

LONDON (AP) — Britain's slow progress toward conversion to the metric system took one more step with the announcement that dahlias are "going metric."

Following the decision of the National Dahlia Society that flowers exhibited at its shows must now conform to metric measurements, special sizing rings are being issued for use by judges.

New limits for blooms are: large 260 millimeters, medium 220 mm, small 170 mm.

European Airports Intensifying Security Efforts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Many European airports said they are boosting vigilance against terrorists after the massacre and hijacking Monday in Rome.

But there was no indication of drastic new measures at either Rome, which has one of the worst records of any airport in the world for terrorist activity, or Madrid, from which two of the Arab terrorists Monday were reported to have come with submachine guns, hand grenades and fire bombs in their luggage.

Sources at the Rome airport said in addition to the precautions that proved ineffective Monday—a police watch, electronic metal detection checks and personal searches of passengers, handbags and luggage—there will be closer checking of transit passengers.

Since 1968, Palestinians embarking at Rome have hijacked three other airliners. The three Japanese who killed 27 persons and injured 77 in the Tel Aviv airport massacre in 1972 also boarded their plane in Rome with luggage they obtained there. Three months later a tape recorder in the baggage compartment of an El Al plane exploded after it took off from Rome; two Arabs had given it to two British girls in the Italian capital and they said they didn't know it was booby-trapped.

Officials at Madrid airport denied Italian police reports that two of the terrorists Monday came to Rome by a Spanish airliner from Madrid. But a Madrid newspaper said there were several Arab names on the passenger list, and normally only about 20 per cent of the flights leaving the Spanish capital undergo security checks. Travelers said flights of Iberia, the Spanish airline, are never checked, and there was no evidence today of any stricter measures.

Winston Churchill, Sir Win-

ston's grandson and a member of the British Parliament, urged the British government to store nausea gas at London's Heathrow airport and use it to break up any attacks.

"This would guard passengers and airport employes from the barbaric attacks to which they were subjected Monday in Rome," he said. The gas is used to break up rioters in northern Ireland.

Heathrow officials said security had never been relaxed. "We cannot, of course, say what measures we adopt," a spokesman said. "If we did tell you, there would be no security."

The Monday attack in Rome by Arab terrorists eventually resulted in 32 deaths.

At Belgium's main airport in Zaventem, rigorous measures by police, gendarmes and army units have been supplemented by horseback patrols in fields surrounding the runways. Crack army commando forces stand by heavily armed in jeeps.

Flights by El Al, the Israeli Airline, have an armed military escort when they taxi along the runways.

The airports at Geneva and Zurich were reported in a state of "top alert." Senior Geneva police officer Andre Gagnebin announced "draconian controls" at Geneva airport for the arrival of key delegations to the Middle East peace talks set to begin Friday.

Gagnebin did not elaborate, but asked for the "understanding of the press" on the matter.

Passengers at West German airports this week said they noticed more police guards than usual. Their arms included submachine guns. West Germany formed a special crisis unit of sharpshooters after Arab terrorists shot dead 11 members of the Israeli team at the Olympic Games in Munich in September 1972.

The Bavarian police said the Munich and Nuernberg airports are being very carefully guarded with bigger police reinforcements and tighter baggage checks.

In Holland, security precautions at Schiphol airport in Amsterdam have been intensified in recent months. Officials said security personnel had been increased and the airport now has four armored cars to help in anti-terrorist operations.

In Austria, the Rome and Athens killings spurred security forces to open a new police station at the airport in Vienna.

In Denmark, Copenhagen's Kasttrup airport police staff was boosted by 36 men, including sharpshooters, bringing the force to 106. Police trucks escort all Israeli and Arab airliners off and on the runway.

In Italy, the Rome massacre has led to tougher security measures at other major airports such as Milan. Passengers will be liable to search without warning as they wait for their flights to depart.

State and county fairs in California employ 100,000 workers, 20 per cent of them full time, with an annual payroll of $95 million.

Flatus Problem In Skylab 3

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — The only redeeming feature is that everyone around you is doing it just as much as you are, said Skylab 3 astronaut William R. Pogue.

Mission control asked the crew what they considered their most disconcerting personal hygiene problem and learned that it was gastric — Pogue estimated he passes gas 500 times a day.

"We have to pass so much gas. I don't want to pass over the flatus problem lightly because I think passing gas about 500 times a day is not a good way to go. It's just not a nice thing," he said.

Space agency doctors say the problem is caused by a combination of weightlessness, diet and bubbles that form in the drinking water.

Unruly On The London Buses

LONDON (AP) — There's a staff problem on London's big red buses.

Crews are quitting because they cannot face threats and abuse thrown at them by unruly teen-agers — discotheque "ravers" — on late-night buses.

"In the past it was the heavy drinkers who caused the trouble," said a London Transport official. "Now it is youths who refuse to pay correct fares and make a lot of noise and abuse."

Immigration Is Finding Plateau

CANBERRA (UPI) — Australia's immigration intake for 1973-74 is 110,000, the same as that set for the current year.

Immigration Minister Al Grassby said the program would include provision for 60,000 assisted migrants.

Shaky Bridge Of Generations

TUCSON (AP) — University of Arizona President John P. Schaefer's attempt to bridge the generation gap among his students, by growing a beard, has backfired.

Schaefer said he was walking across campus, when he passed a bearded student, who remarked:

"It's guys like you who give beards a bad name."

By DOUGLAS STANGLIN
FORT WORTH, Tex. (UPI) — Danny McCoy says being ugly is no joke and he wants it known that his newly-formed "Uglies Unlimited" is no joke either.

"The blacks, the Chicanos and the American Indians have all had their day in the sun," he said. "Now it's time for ugly people."

McCoy, 29, is 5-foot-7, wears glasses and has a receding hairline. He said ugly people are finally coming out of the closet.

"If they can say, 'I am what I am,' they are on the right road."

"I am compiling a list of newspapers and employers who continue to use such things in their advertisements as 'are you pretty, if so we can use a hostess, or 'attractive secretary—also needs to know shorthand,'" he said.

Pickets Airline Uglies Unlimited, a 200-member organization — and growing — has picketed American Airlines in Fort Worth, for alleged discrimination against ugly people in their ads and application forms.

McCoy said the American Airlines application called for persons with a "well proportioned figure-physique," "hair well groomed and smartly styled," "hands that are smooth and perfectly manicured," and "a clear, well cared for complexion. (distracting scars, moles, large pores, noticeable blemishes and excessive facile hair are not acceptable.)"

"When I got an American Airlines blank, I said I couldn't stand it any longer, it was really flagrant discrimination almost to the point of being obnoxious."

He said the organization then decided to picket the airlines — although he said he is afraid the public might not take the action seriously.

"Some are going to think we're on a lark, no matter what we do. I want to make sure we keep our credibility, and consistency, and do not become militant," he said.

More Than Dating
McCoy said the problem faced by ugly people is much deeper than male-female dating relationships.

"One man's face had been disfigured in an accident, and he has been unable to find a nice job. He has had to work beneath his competence, and had to accept a lower position just to get food on the table. He needs help."

McCoy said the organization, which has a branch in Beaumont, Tex., and plans to expand to Washington, D.C., and St. Louis, has been flooded with calls since it began the American Airlines picketing.

"I didn't realize there were this many ugly people," he said. "I am getting calls from people who have had psychological hangups because of a facial feature or malfunction of their hormones."

"These people develop shyness, and start drawing into themselves, and don't become outgoing. They lose confidence in themselves, their self image is just down, and it takes awhile to build it back up."

Still Self-Conscious
McCoy said even members of Uglies Unlimited are still self-conscious about their appearance.

"I had some of them who didn't want to picket because they didn't want to be on TV," he said.

He said discrimination is evident in virtually every human endeavor.

"If you have two waitresses, one of them plain, and one who is pretty flashy, and they both give the same amount of service, the one who is more attractive is the one who gets the most tips."

"It works in department stores where the handsome young man will get waited on more quickly than the bald headed man."

"We understand that there are certain positions such as models, or in the movies, that require some degree of pleasant looking features. We're willing to give them that, we understand we're never going to be able to wipe it out completely."

McCoy said Uglies Unlimited is mainly concerned with putting an end to discriminatory ads.

"If enough pressure is applied to some of the firms who are flagrantly discriminating, I believe all we would hope for is to stop the newspaper ads, and that their application blanks would become less discriminatory."

May Ask DDT-Use To Eradicate Moth

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—North Carolina pest control experts say they may seek permission to use the banned chemical DDT in Winston-Salem in their attempts to eradicate the gypsy moth.

Department of Agriculture entomologist Al Elder Tuesday told the state Pesticides Board that DDT would probably be the most effective chemical to use against the moths.

Gypsy moths, he said, defoliated 1.5 million acres of northern forests last year by eating the leaves off trees. They have been spreading southward in recent years.

A nest of gypsy moth eggs was recently discovered at the North Carolina School of the Arts in Winston-Salem. It was the first indication that the moths were breeding in the state.

Elder said special permission to use DDT must be granted by the Federal Environmental Protection Agency. The state may ask for such permission next month.

If it were granted, he said, planes would fly over 2,000 acres of residential and business land in the city and drop

"a fairly small amount" of DDT on the area. He noted that other chemicals are under consideration for the eradication attempt, which would probably take place in April.

Elder said it would be worth using the chemical if it succeeded in preventing the gypsy moth from getting a foothold in the South.

Bread Price Not Wheat's Fault

DES MOINES (AP) — The editor of one of the nation's leading farm publications says that wheat prices shouldn't be blamed for the rising price of bread.

Al Bull, writing in Wallace's Farmer, says, "Wheat in a loaf of bread usually is less than one pound. So even $5 wheat, which no miller has had to pay yet, amounts to only eight cents per loaf."

"That's still a small part of the total price, so don't buy wheat price as the real reason for increases in price of bread," he says.

Holidays At PTI Begin

Christmas holidays began at the close of classes Tuesday for students attending Pitt Technical Institute. Both day and night classes will be discontinued until Jan. 2.

The last work day for non-instructional personnel is Thursday.

All classes, both day and night, will be resumed on Jan. 2 and all personnel will return to work on that day.

The same holiday schedule has been set for the Farmville Adult Education Center.

The holiday schedule for students attending Pitt Tech classes away from the local campus has been worked out between individual instructors, appropriate Pitt Tech personnel, and the people in charge of the local off campus facilities.

Individual class instructors will notify the students of the holiday schedule.

The Worry Clinic Wake Them Up By 'Piecework'

Mark's analysis of his new preacher might well be discussed in adult Sunday School classes. Why does the new pastor belittle the modern 3-bedroom parsonage, though he has no children to need extra room? What about Mark's "commission" idea? By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.
CASE Y-584: Mark D., aged 34, is an insurance executive. "Dr. Crane," he began, "our Bishop has moved our pastor to a church in a neighboring city. "For he had been with us 8 years and doubled our membership. "We all liked him and his wife, for they were a livewire couple, interested in young people. "And he was a dandy pulpit orator. Nobody went to sleep during his sermons, for he used our 'Narrative Formula' for speaking. "Our new clergyman is an older preacher who just finished his 6-year term as District Superintendent in our denomination. "On his first visit here, he grumbled about the parsonage, saying it wasn't big enough. "Yet it has 3 bedrooms, a paneled recreation room and fireplace in the basement, plus all modern conveniences. "He also has openly criticized his study, saying he doesn't have room for his books. "Dr. Crane, why would a newcomer be so undiplomatic as to start out by criticizing his new church and parsonage? "Maybe it would be wise to pay our preachers on a piecework plan, instead of giving them guaranteed salaries, plus parsonages. "By that, I mean, suppose they worked like insurance salesmen and thus were paid on the commission plan. "Our former livewire pastor received a salary that was about 15 percent of our annual church budget. "This new preacher is likely to reduce our church income by his negative attitude, so why not spur pastors to greater efforts by omitting a guaranteed salary and paying them on commission? "Wouldn't that produce better oratory and a greater appreciation of the problems of other business men, who are now so oppressed by excessive taxes?"

paid on this commission basis? In the realm of insurance, 25 percent of the top salesmen produce about 75 percent of all the sales. The lower 75 percent of such salesmen account for the other 25 percent. Same is true in selling automobiles, as well as stocks and bonds. For about three-fourths of people prefer to lazily coast along with guaranteed salaries or teachers' "tenure," instead of being paid by piecework or commission. This older pastor probably feels a bit reduced in status to leave the District Superintendent's position and go back to a local pulpit. Furthermore, an older man subconsciously resents taking the place of a younger man, whether in the pulpit or an office or factory. Which explains why he now complains about the parsonage and pastor's study, for by such criticisms, he thinks he is indicating his superior status to that of a younger pastor whom he is replacing. Ideally, Mark's suggestion about paying on piecework would wake up a lot of slothful employees. Dental surgeons and physicians out in private practice work on this piecework plan, but salaried doctors don't and the latter are much less tactful and attentive to the needs of patients. Merchants and farmers, plus those who own their factories, also are paid only on piecework. So it might zoom the churches (and schools) to return to our American piecework plan, instead of the Russian uniform wage scale. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Caracas Subway To Be 'Highway Of The Poor'

By JOYCE KELLY
CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — They call it the "highway of the poor" (autopista de los pobres) and although still in the planning and argument stage, it is seen as a solution to urgent public transit needs in this traffic-choked Venezuelan capital. The highway — so dubbed by President Rafael Caldera — is a proposed subway system which would link the ends of the long and narrow city, providing fast and cheap transportation for its two million inhabitants. It would ease the plight of those who now must spend hours daily traveling to and from work aboard buses and taxis which compete with an estimated 300,000 private automobiles on the city's jammed streets and modern but overtaxed freeway system. Largely to blame for the city's traffic and transit problems are its topography and a growth rate which has doubled the population in little more than a decade. Set in a narrow valley hemmed in by mountains on the north and south, Caracas is only two to three miles wide in places, but stretches more than 17 miles from end to end. Luxury homes, apartment buildings and shanty towns climb the hillsides. The bulk of traffic moves along a skyscraper and freeway-lined central corridor which contains 44 per cent of the city's employment and 31 per cent of its inhabitants. Caracas already contains 20 per cent of Venezuela's total population of 10 million and provides 22 per cent of the country's employment. The subway project, long under study, currently rests in Congress, which must approve financing. Project backers, including Caldera's Social Christian government, express hope that funds will be approved next year despite politically-inspired opposition at the arguments of those lawmakers who feel that priority should be given to construction of low-cost housing. Planners say the principal line would cost the equivalent of $293 million while the entire five-line system would run a staggering $698 million. They point out that costs rise by nearly $12 million for each year that construction is delayed. The Venezuelan government began studying a mass transit system in 1947 and a Ministerial Transportation Office (OMT) was created in 1963 to make a more thorough investigation and select the best system. A monorail was studied and rejected as impractical for a city developing as rapidly as Caracas. Obtaining rights of way would have been costly and complicated in the space-short city, planners say. OMT experts finally agreed that the best solution would be an air-conditioned subway capable of carrying 40,000 passengers an hour along the central corridor.

Shipped Tea In 'Terrariums'

POPKA, Fla. (UPI) — Terrariums, which are popular Christmas gift items, originated as containers for shipping thousands of tea plants from China to India during the Victorian era. Their development is credited to Nathaniel Ward, who invented them after he set out to study a sphinx moth cradling in a covered jar. Ward's discovery launched the tea industry, says John's Nurseries, a leading foliage plant grower here. The nurseries have introduced a 6-inch diameter terrarium set that includes specially grown plants matched in size and colors with scientifically blended soil.

The Civil War warship Merrimack was deliberately scuttled to block Chesapeake Bay harbor. From this desperate act was derived the term "Merrimack Coup," a play where a defender deliberately sacrifices a high honor for the purpose of knocking out an entry, generally to the dummy.
Though North had only 8 points, he had a good six-card minor suit. With only a modicum of help from the opener, he rated to contribute five or six tricks to a no-trump contract, so North raised South's opening bid to game.

West led the four of spades, and East went up with the ace. Since the three of spades was in dummy, it was obvious that West had started with at best a five-card suit. Also, it was obvious that he was nearly broke, for East could ac-

Pet Cemetery Favor Turned Into Business

By JAMES STEGENSON
Associated Press Writer
HUDSON, Ohio (AP) — When Old Dog Tray ends his days, he's likely to find a final resting spot in a placid pet cemetery like the Boston Hills Pet Memorial Park.

More than 1,300 pets — ranging from parakeets to a kinkajou — already are buried here. Most graves are decorated only with flowers, but a growing number of the graves, now feature headstones that have their occupants' photographs engraved upon the stone.

For a few additional dollars the resting spot will be lit by candlelight thrice a year. And the owner can visit the grave whenever he chooses, knowing his pet lies in a $300 waterproof coffin.

When veterinarian Laddie Rasi established the Boston Hill cemetery across from his office 28 years ago, he did it as a favor to one of his customers. And he didn't expect it to turn into a business.

That was in 1945, before the three monkeys, two rabbits, the lamb, the parakeets, the myna bird, the three horses, the kinkajou and untold hundreds of dogs and cats.

Thirty-one-year-old Al Rasi, Laddie's son, quit his job as a commercial artist in nearby Akron several years ago and moved out to the house beside the cemetery, which had turned into a fulltime business.

Burials average two or three a week, and the starting price is $55. That pays for a plywood coffin a plot of ground big enough for a cat or a small dog, and a concrete plug marking the gravesite.

Popular recently is a headstone engraved with a picture of the pet, and a growing number of owners have chosen cremation for their animals.

The gravestones carry such inscriptions as "Tootsie, Our Precious Baby. She Gave Us The True Meaning of Love," or "Candy, Our Pets Only Die When We Whom They Love

Have Forgotten Them." But across the cemetery lies Jet, a blind Akron woman's seeing eye dog. "Jet, My Most Faithful Leader Dog" is the inscription beside a lithograph of the dog and mistress. Below, a second inscription is added in Braille.

One corner of the pet funeral home features a "viewing room," a last chance for a glimpse of the pet snuggled between white satin cushions.

At the owner's request, Rasi will say a few parting words at burial: "Connie was not a famous dog. She lived a simple life. All she wanted was to please her master, to love openly and have her love returned in good faith."

Doesn't all of that strike Rasi as being a little silly? "Sometimes," he admitted. But the Rasis have buried five of their own dogs in the cemetery, and he remembered crying at one of the burials.

"Most of our customers are older people," he said. "They've been home alone, lived 10 or 15 years with the animal and it's become part of the family. They've gotten friendship, companionship and loyalty from the animal."

Up to 50 visitors drop by the cemetery on Sundays, the official visiting day when no burials are performed. And a heavy sprinkling of flowers keeps the cemetery in perpetual color.

Moose Plan For Holidays

Greenville Moose Lodge members, with the holidays looming large in their plans, voted Monday night to contribute $200 to the Salvation Army's Christmas Cheer Fund; approved distribution of fruit baskets to patients at the Nursing Home and to widows of members who had died in 1973.

Civic Affairs chairman Bill Shaw called for volunteer help in preparing for the Christmas party for Moose children Sunday evening.

Entertainment committee chairman Roy Thompson reminded a dance would be held for the teen-age children of the Moose and their guests on Friday, Dec. 28, with music by the Band of Oz.

Governor Garland Beppard noted the Women of the Moose will be holding their Christmas dinner-dance this coming Saturday; and attention was called to the New Year's Eve Dance.

It was announced no meeting of the lodge would be held December 24 or on December 31.

How N.C. Congressmen, Senators Voted Last Week

By ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON—Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Dec. 6 through Dec. 12.

HOUSE
ANTITRUST EXEMPTIONS Passed, 286 for and 112 against, an emergency energy bill amendment that permits oil companies to work together in solving the energy shortage as long as they first demonstrate to the Justice Department that the cooperation will not violate antitrust laws.

The effect of the amendment is to tighten the bill's antitrust exemption language, which originally allowed intra-industry cooperation without prior approval from the Justice Department.

Supporters argued that the original language did not sufficiently protect the public interest against antitrust violations.

Opponents argued that the oil industry must be given greater flexibility if the oil shortage is to be solved.

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L. H. Fountain (D-2), David Henderson (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Richardson Preyer (D-6), Charles Rose (D-7), and Roy Taylor voted "yea."

The House then sent the bill to the Senate.

Supporters argued that foreign aid helps prevent international conflicts. They said the categorical grant approach will help insure that foreign aid goes where it's needed—such as food, drought relief and population control programs.

Opponents, largely a com-
Reps. Wilmer Mizell (R-5), Earl Ruth (R-8), James Martin (R-9) and James Broyhill (R-10) voted "nay."

Find A Demand For Ephemera

By GREGORY JENSEN
LONDON (UPI)—Next time you're in London how about picking up a 1926 Ohio license plate as a souvenir?

Or maybe Ethyl Maude Porter's 1920s American passport? How about a ticket to the Democratic National Convention in Chicago in 1968, or an empty Half and Half tobacco can?

Mike Ross and John Morris are a pair of young American expatriates who are gambling that there's a market here for this kind of American ephemera. Surprisingly enough, there is.

"We don't get many American tourists, true," Morris said at the opening of the Bear

FOREIGN AID Passed, 219 for and 180 against, a $5.8 billion foreign aid bill. The bill appropriates $2.3 billion for categorical economic and military assistance programs, $2.2 billion for military aid to Israel and $1.3 billion for international development banks and other organizations such as the Peace Corps.

AID FOR ISRAEL Prior to passing the foreign aid appropriations bill (above), the House authorized, 364 for and 52 against, $2.2 billion in emergency military aid to Israel.

The bill calls for $1 billion to pay for military hardware that already has been shipped to Israel and $1.2 billion for future needs. The U. S. share of the U.N. Middle East peace-keeping force is part of the package.

Supporters argued that Israel needs to rebuild its military forces to balance recent Soviet arms shipments to Arab countries.

Opponents argued that either the bill is too costly or that the way to peace does not include more arms shipments. Some opponents argued for paying more attention to the demands of oil-rich Arab countries.

Jones Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Mizell, Preyer, Rose, Ruth, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "yea."

SOVIET EMIGRATION Rejected, 106 for and 298 against, a move to kill language that denies most-favored-nation trade status to communist countries with restrictive emigration laws. The House already had attached—to the trade reform bill—a ban on extending trade credits to the Russians as long as they restrict the emigration of Jews and other Russian citizens.

The rejected amendment in effect would have killed the ban. After the vote, the House passed the overall bill and sent it to the Senate. The White House has threatened to veto because of the trade ban.

Supporters of the rejected move argued that denying credit to Russia could end detente. They said that trading with Russia eventually will open up Soviet society.

Opponents argued that America must place human rights above economics. Some opponents argued that detente has been too much "give" and not enough "take," and that the time has come for Russia to make some concessions.

Ruth voted "yea."
Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Mizell, Preyer, Rose, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "nay."

SENATE
ENERGY CONSERVATION Passed, 48 for and 42 against, an energy conservation bill amendment that would guarantee due process to persons and corporations regulated by the bill.

The overall bill is aimed at slowing down America's increasing consumption of energy, and would create an Office of Energy Conservation in the executive branch. The amendment will require public hearings and permit the right of cross-examination by interested parties before the office can implement certain policies.

Supporters argued that due process will prevent the agency from becoming authoritarian. Opponents argued that the office must be free to quickly deal with a problem. They said damaged parties could then sue in court, a procedure that exists with regulatory commissions such as the Federal Trade Commission.

Sen. Jesse Helms (R) voted "yea." Sen. Sam Ervin (D) did not vote.

BANKRUPT RAILROADS Passed, 69 for and 22 against, a bill calling for federal takeover of six bankrupt railroads which operate east of the Mississippi and north of the Ohio and Potomac rivers.

Major provisions of the Northeast Railways bill are:

—A federal, for-profit rail corporation to manage the lines.
—Guaranteed annual salaries, until age 65, for rail workers left unemployed by the federal takeover.

—Nationwide federal subsidies for unprofitable branch lines essential to local economies.

—$2 billion in U. S. loans, available to all U. S. railroads, for purchasing new rolling stock.

Supporters of the bill argued that survival of the northeast lines is essential to the nation's economy, particularly during the energy crisis. Opponents argued against public ownership of a traditionally private enterprise, and objected to bailing out bankrupt corporations and guaranteeing salaries to furloughed workers.

Ervin and Helms voted "yea."

RAILWAY EMPLOYEE COMPENSATION Rejected, 40 for and 56 against, a railway bill amendment that would have softened the bill's protection for railway workers who lose their jobs after the federal takeover.

The bill guarantees "monthly displacement allowances," until age 65, to all displaced workers with at least five years experience. An estimated 10,000 to 30,000 workers are expected to be laid off, at an estimated cost of $250 million in displacement allowances.

The rejected amendment would have put a six-year limit on the severance payments, except for workers over 50 years old, who would have been covered to age 65.

Supporters of the amendment argued that the cost to taxpayers of subsidizing the workers is too high and the severance benefits are too generous.

Opponents noted that union and management support the severance provisions, and argued that any tampering by Congress might torpedo the federal take over legislation.

Ervin and Helms voted "yea."

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The early part of the day is excellent for Christmas shopping. Hunches are good. You can devise a better plan under which to operate in the future.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Know what mate is thinking about and cement far better relations now. Keep any promises you have made. Be sensible.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Coordinate your efforts with a partner who has the know-how. Show how much you want to get ahead in your career. Avoid one who is a consummate actor.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Keep promises you have made. Search for the clothing and other items you want and need, but stay within your budget.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get into the artistic or amusements outlets that can enrich your life. Show devotion to loved one.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Entertain your friends at home instead of going out so much. Don't be ashamed of those you should be proud of. Improve harmony and comfort in home.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Find the right items that will make you more proficient. Visit with good pals and relatives. Avoid a hypocrite.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get into those practical affairs now that will increase your income. Devise the right system for yourself. Dine out tonight.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Follow your hunches as well as your good judgment since you are feeling dynamic and can get much done effectively now. Entertain.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) With experts, devise a better plan for more success in the future. Don't confide in others, though, or your ideas will be stolen. Keep alert.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Enjoy hobbies with good friends during your spare time. Make new acquaintances of value also. Put over business deal which was difficult before.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Work at career matters that will bring in added benefits. Gain the favor of an influential person who appreciates a job well done.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Get the information you need to delve right into the new projects that can put you in the higher brackets very quickly. Contact right people.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have a fine mind and the willingness to work hard to reach goals, along with an uncanny way of getting right at the core of problems, projects. Winning the confidence of others comes easily. Teach early to let go of persons and situations once their purpose has been served. Spiritual training early.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Woodstock Producer

Morris, originally a New Yorker, was one of the producers of the Woodstock pop festival. He and Ross met "by accident" in London and got to chatting about the collection of American Indian art and artifacts Morris had been amassing for 15 years.

The conversation turned to "do you remember?" nostalgia about the look of American country stores, and in an instant the idea of an old-fashioned American general store in London took root.

Morris' collecting expertise is turned loose on the store's main feature, a wide stock of suddenly fashionable Navajo, Hopi and Zuni jewelry, plus Hopi and Zuni katchina dolls, the beadwork and Navajo blankets and the occasional tomahawk.

Ross is the ephemera man. "Look at this!" he exclaims, hoisting a kitsch Coca-Cola tin tray, vintage 1930. "Isn't it marvelous? And how about this bottle? Pepto-Bismol. Must be one of a kind."

Ross swept a glance over his shop's clapboard walls, almost concealed by antique patchwork quilts, a score of old license plates, an enormous and incongruous stuffed sailfish, a genuine Horatio Alger book perched on a shelf. There came a deep, contented sigh.

"I just love this stuff," Ross said. "I hope we never sell it. If we could get by on just the jewelry I'd be perfectly happy to look at this stuff forever."

LEASING LANDS

OLYMPIA, Wash. (UPI)—More than 475 farmers in eastern Washington lease 130,000 acres of state-owned land for grain production.

After you use your turkey, use your noodle.

When you come to think about it, one of the most inventive ways to use your turkey the day after your holiday meal is to use Mueller's Egg Noodles.

And one of the most delicious tasting dishes you can make is called, appropriately enough, Turkey Noodle Tempter. Here's how to make it:

- 1/2 cup sliced celery
- 1/4 cup chopped onion
- 2 tablespoons butter or margarine
- 1 can (10 3/4 oz.) condensed cream of chicken or mushroom soup
- 1 soup can milk
- 1 to 2 cups diced cooked turkey
- 2 tablespoons diced pimiento
- 8 ounces (6 cups) Mueller's medium or wide egg noodles
- 1/4 cup buttered bread crumbs

Cook celery and onion in butter until crisp-tender, but not brown. Blend in soup and milk; add turkey and pimiento. Meanwhile, cook noodles as directed on package. In 2-quart casserole, combine noodles and turkey mixture; top with crumbs. Bake at 350°F. for 25 to 30 minutes, or until lightly browned. Makes 6 servings.

You can whip up loads of other dishes with Mueller's Egg Noodles, too. Because nothing goes with everything like Mueller's.

A lot of people must feel the same way. Because it just so happens of all the egg noodles sold in this country, more people buy Mueller's than any other kind.

After you use your noodle, chances are you'll use ours.

Nothing goes with everything like Mueller's.

Flatt And Scruggs Continue To Shape Music Trend

By ALAN WILSON
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)— Nearly five years ago on an early spring night backstage at the Grand Ole Opry, Lester

Flatt and Earl Scruggs changed the course of contemporary music, though it was unapparent at the time.
What happened on that momentous occasion shocked the world of bluegrass and country music. In between the Opry's regular Saturday night shows, Flatt decided the time had come to go his own way, and let Scruggs do the same.

Flatt walked out, dissolving a wealthy partnership that had last nearly a quarter century.
He had been reluctant to change the patented style of the famous pair, whereas Scruggs yearned to do so.

To this day, each has gone on to do exactly what he wanted—
Scruggs with his banjo and Flatt with guitar. Flatt, 59, has remained in the traditional country-bluegrass mold.
Scruggs, joined by his sons, has transformed his style into a contemporary pop-folk sound, complete with electric guitars and rock overtones.

But it's only been in the last year or two that the full impact of their split has surfaced.
Each man—through his own admirable self-determination—has altered the thinking of millions of young people.

No longer does the younger generation believe rock music is solely where it's at. They crave the acoustical hardcore sound of Flatt's "Nashville Grass" as well as the amplified sound of the "Earl Scruggs Revue."

"It's kinda hard to understand, but if you see our shows you can see from the kids' reaction—they just tear the place apart. I think they're fed up with some of the music they've been getting," said Flatt.

"They call it a new sound—and it just gets to 'em. But actually we've been playing it for 20 years."

The crazed reaction to Flatt's music is evidenced especially outside the South, "because they're used to it down here," he says.

Despite his success, Flatt has been criticized for a reluctance to break loose from his style, which "you can recognize after I've played about eight notes."
"I don't think you should change. Why chance it if it's good to you," said Flatt, relaxing in his sprawling lakefront home in nearby Hendersonville.

"If somethings comes up that's big overnight then that's great for other people. But I don't think you can go along with everything that comes along. You have to be yourself.
If you play something 20 years and it was good to you in the beginning and is still good to you right now, you don't want to leave it."

The outspoken but easy-voiced performer never has called his music strictly bluegrass, despite its reputation as such.

"It's bluegrass," he says,
"because that's how its branded now. But there's no getting away from the fact that it's the forerunner of country music."

"The young kids tell me that this kind of music gets to 'em and the other stuff makes them go to sleep."

Flatt said his group's appeal
"hasn't peaked yet" and that he's looking forward to a better year in 1974. Already, the "Nashville Grass" has 85 dates lined up next year, 50 of them at colleges.

Whatever the makeup of his audiences, Flatt has been performing successfully since 1939 when he appeared on a radio show in Covington, Va. At the time he was a textile mill worker and "we just played for a hobby."

His hobby later turned into a profession when, in 1944, bluegrass kind Bill Monroe asked Flatt to be his singer-guitarist.

Later came the "Foggy Mountain Boys"—the Scruggs-Flatt combination which produced millions of record sales.

When the fabled pair called it quits, Flatt said, "It hurt. I didn't want to work any dates for six months because I wanted people to get used to Lester
Flatt without Earl Scruggs."

Flatt can consider his mission accomplished.

Panama Builds New Highways

PANAMA CITY (UPI) — Panama has taken an ambitious highway building program called "The Conquest of the Atlantic" on its north coast.

Included in this program are the first coastal road between the provinces of Colon and Bocas del Toro and four new trans-Isthmian highways that will open up the mostly unpopulated north to the motorists from the populous south.

A Lot Of Miles To The Gallon

HOUSTON (UPI) — Maybe it's because astronauts don't have to stop and start at red lights or worry about city traffic.

But Skylab 2, when it splashed down Sept. 25, traveled 24,423,122 miles using 192,344 gallons of propellant.
That's 128.9 miles to the gallon.

Accidental deaths in the United States from poisoning by solids and liquids doubled in 10 years to 3,700 in 1972.

Purdue Boasts Astronaut Ties

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind.
(UPI) — Purdue University claims the unofficial title of "Mother of Astronauts".

The 36,000-student university has Neil A. Armstrong, first man to step on the moon, and Eugene A. Cernan, last man off the moon in the Apollo series, among its alumni. Two other alumni astronauts, Virgil
"Gus" Grissom and Roger B.
Chafee, died in the fire of their space capsule at Cape Kenedy.
