

Newtown Is Food And Fuel Costs Delayed By Recent Rain

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Unfavorable weather has caused another delay in the opening of housing units on the west side of 14th Street in Newtown for occupancy.

Joe Laney, Housing Authority executive director told commissioners Monday night that the west side units were complete with the exception of installing weather stripping and covering up underground utility lines.

Heavy rains in the last few weeks have prevented crews from putting those final touches on the units, he said.

Laney, reporting in the absence of project site inspector Ralph Hall, said that the utility lines were in place and ready to be covered when the rains came.

He asserted that a week to ten days of good weather is needed to get the lines covered and new tenants in the units.

The director pointed out that a contractors meeting was held in December and everything was reported moving along well in Newtown at that time.

Laney told commissioners that a 37-month audit has been completed by John C. Proctor & Co. and the Authority's books were found to be in order.

Commissioners commended assistant director J. C. Lamm and his accounting staff for their accurate bookkeeping work.

Lamm said that normally the books are audited every two years by federal auditors but HUD fell behind in its auditing schedule and then authorized the work to be done by an independent firm.

An appraisal on the potential site for the N. C. 22-5 project has been received from HUD, Laney reported, and negotiations with the land owner will now get underway.

All 453 housing units operated by the Authority were occupied during December, according to the tenant occupancy report submitted by Mrs. Sallye Streeter, director of tenant affairs.

December rent averaged $38.85 in N. C. 22-1 (Meadowbrook) while residents of N. C. 22-2 (Kearney Park) paid an average of $43.71 in rent. Average rent in N. C. 22-3 (Moyewood) was $43.93, according to the report, and residents of the N. C. 22-4 (Moyewood area) paid an average rent last month of $45.48.

A customer service representative from the Greenville Utilities Commission met recently with a group of housing residents and explained ways they can reduce their utilities consumption.

Commissioners voted to reimburse Lamm for his expenses in attending a meeting of the East Carolina Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials Dec. 10 in Clinton.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Surging food and fuel costs drove wholesale prices sharply upward in December, closing the year with the biggest overall yearly rise in a quarter century, the government said today.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said the December seasonally adjusted increase of 2.2 per cent pushed wholesale prices in 1973 to a level 18.2 per cent higher than a year ago, the biggest one-year increase since the 31.7 per cent in 1946.

Wholesale price increases usually are reflected quickly at the retail level, but not necessarily all of them. Consumer prices have been rising at an annual rate of more than eight per cent.

The year's overall increase meant it costs $145.30 to buy the same amount of wholesale goods that $100 purchased seven years ago, the base year for record-keeping on prices.

The 2.2 per cent seasonally adjusted increase and the 2.5 per cent rise on an unadjusted basis in December were not close to record increases recorded in August, but were still high by historical standards. A 2.2 per cent monthly rise, if continued for 12 months, is an annual rate of 26.4 per cent. Whole prices rose 6.2 per cent seasonally adjusted and 5.8 unadjusted in August.

Wholesale prices, which fell in September and October, began climbing in November as the inflationary effects of the fuel shortage and the Arab oil cut-off began to show their impact on the economy.

Prices of farm products, processed foods and feed reversed a three month decline and rose sharply in December by 1.4 per cent, the report said.

Consumer foods, those bought by suppliers ready for the supermarket, rose five-tenths of one per cent on a seasonally adjusted basis and showed a 1.3 per cent rise before seasonal pricing patterns were taken into account.

Wholesale gasoline prices jumped another 17 per cent in December, following a record 34.7 per cent increase the previous month. Crude oil prices were up 5 per cent; electric power 1.8 per cent; and coal seven tenths of one per cent.

Leading the big rise in energy prices were costs of middle distillate fuels, mostly home heating oil, up 27 per cent, and light distillate fuels, mostly kerosene, which rose 29 per cent.

Eli Bloom Is First Filer As Candidate

Chief District Attorney Eli Bloom has filed for re-election to the post, thus becoming the first local elected official to file as a candidate for May 7 primary election.

Registration deadline for persons wishing to vote in the May 7 primary is April 8.

Area offices to be filled by a vote of the people in the May 7 primary include First District Congressman, Third District Solicitor (district attorney), 4 North Carolina General Assembly seats (two seats in the state House of Representatives and two seats in the Senate), three Pitt County Commissioners seats, three seats on the Pitt Board of Education, the Pitt Clerk of Superior Court, Pitt County Coroner and Sheriff of Pitt County.

Incumbents in the Pitt County posts whose terms expire this year, include: Sheriff Ralph Tyson, Coroner E. W. Harvey Jr., Clerk of Court H. L. Lewis Jr., County Commissioners B. Alton Gardner, J. Vance Perkins and Burney L. Tucker; and Board of Education members Kenneth Dews, J. B. Congleton and Dr. J. O. Carson.

General Assembly incumbents serving the Pitt County area who face re-election this year if they wish to keep their seats include House members Horton Rountree and Sam D. Bundy and Senators Vernon White and Julian Allsbrook.

First District Congressman Walter B. Jones will also face nomination for re-election in the May 7 primary.

In addition to the local area offices up for election this year, other offices to be voted on a state-wide basis include three members of the North Carolina Supreme Court and seven members of the North Carolina Court of Appeals.

In addition, a number of Superior Court Judges will face re-election as will a number of district court judges and solicitors in a number of districts.

Bloom, who prosecuted in the Greenville Municipal Records Court from 1941 until that court was abolished in 1968 (when the new court system was established) has been chief district solicitor since 1971. Prior to that time he served as assistant solicitor in the Third Judicial District which includes Pitt, Craven, Pamlico and Carteret Counties.

Bloom is a graduate of the University of North Carolina in Chapel Hill and operated a ladies ready to wear shop in Greenville for many years until he retired about 1967.

The district attorney is a Shriner and a 32nd Degree Mason and past master of the Greenville Masonic Lodge and past ruler of the Greenville Elks Lodge.

He has served as president of the Greenville Kiwanis Club and as Kiwanis lieutenant governor, as well as president of the Pitt County Scottish Rite Club and president of the Pitt County Bar Association.

Bloom has also been a trustee

New Sheriff Radio OK'd

Pitt County Commissioners yesterday approved a resolution giving their okay to install a new radio console at the Sheriff's Department in conjunction with the regional communications system.

Funding of the new radio console includes $18,000 in federal funds and $4,500 in local matching money.

Commissioners also approved the expenditure of $5,063 for equipment and furniture for themselves.

The board has, for sometime, been studying the possibility of moving its meeting to another location due to the crowded conditions in the present meeting room.

The funds approved yesterday will provide carpeting, chairs, and a table to be installed in the county Law Library on the second floor of the court house.

When installed, commissioners will use the Law Library for their regular meetings.

The funds will also provide filing cabinets for commissioners to maintain their records.

The Board accepted the resignation of Mrs. Myree Hayes from the Mental Health Area Board and appointed Van Fleming of Greenville to replace her.

Approval was given to a $10 per diem expenditure per meeting for members of the Board of Health. In the past the Board of Health members have received no per diem expense money. Also approved was an 11-cents per mile mileage allowance for board members living outside Greenville.

Commissioners also appointed five persons to the Board of Health for three-year terms.

The new appointees included: Dr. O. R. Pierce, Dr. Sam T. White II, Dr. Ronald L. Thiele, Robert Carraway and Hattie Thompson.

Waives Hearing In Freight Theft

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Michael Nevarro Wanzler, 18, of Winston-Salem, has been released on personal recognizance bond after waiving a preliminary hearing on federal charges of theft from an interstate shipment, according to the FBI at Charlotte.

FBI agent Edward J. Krupinsky said Nevarro was arrested and charged Monday in connection with a theft from Freight Carriers, Inc., of Winston-Salem. He appeared before the U.S. Magistrate at Greensboro and was released pending trial.

The FBI gave no other details on the case.

Will Pay $40,000

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert G. "Bobby" Baker, convicted influence peddler in a major Johnson administration scandal, agreed in court today to pay the U.S. Treasury $40,000.

A federal suit originally sought to recover $108,000 of what the government called influence peddling money paid him when he was chief Senate aide to Lyndon B. Johnson.

Justice Department lawyers agreed in a consent judgment that the amount he retained was actually half that.

The department's lawyer on the civil case, Stanley Paige, said the settlement represented a substantial part of the money at stake and demonstrated that government employees who collect outside money related to their jobs cannot expect to keep it.

Baker, who appeared in court with his daughter Cissy, 20, looking on, would make no comment to newsmen and did not say a word during the proceedings. Baker's lawyer, William E. McDaniels, told the court that Baker's acceptance of the settlement "does not constitute an admission of wrongdoing on the part of Mr. Baker."

As a reason for Baker's willingness to settle, McDaniels said that a trial in the appeals of the verdict that would be made would not be in Baker's best personal or business interests.

He joined the Highway Patrol in 1962 and has been stationed in Clayton since joining the patrol. Harrison was promoted to the rank of sergeant and transferred to Greenville January 1, in conjunction with the reorganization of the patrol and creation of the new Patrol Troop—Troop H, which includes eight counties along the North Carolina - South Carolina border.

Confidence Sags

NEW YORK (AP) — A survey firm says that consumer confidence in the United States has dropped to its lowest level in 25 years.

Sindlinger & Co. said Monday a telephone poll showed that between Nov. 21 and Dec. 19 the proportion of U.S. households with consumer confidence slid from 66 per cent to 42 per cent.

The 24-point drop was the biggest slide in consumer confidence ever recorded since the firm began national indexing 25 years ago.

A Sindlinger statement said the 42 per cent reading "approaches the levels of the 1930s." It noted that "historically, whenever U.S. confidence dips below 64 per cent, a recession is under way."

The firm's consumer confidence index was based on responses from 9,500 persons to questions about current income, household income forecast, employment forecast and business forecast.

Desires 5 Tapes

MORGANTON, N.C. (AP) — Sen. Sam J. Ervin says the Senate Watergate Committee might be able to drop its pursuit of other White House documents and tapes if President Nixon would surrender five tapes of conversations with former aide John W. Dean III.

"If the White House is willing to surrender any tapes, I would suggest they surrender these five tapes," the North Carolina Democrat who heads the Watergate panel told newsmen at his home here Monday.

Ervin commented after the Western White House refused on Monday to openly embrace Vice President Gerald R. Ford's suggestion of a possible compromise in the newest Watergate subpoena deadlock.

A presidential spokesman did, however, indicate that President Nixon would consider a compromise if Ervin's committee sharply scaled down its demand for masses of White House documents.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said President Nixon's position "as it exists today is stated" in his letter last Friday rejecting the committee's subpoenas.

Chance of rain each day Thursday through Saturday. Mild temperatures with lows in the 40s and highs around 60.

Scope Narrowed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today narrowed the scope of a judicial device that allows suspects in criminal cases to suppress evidence that police have gathered illegally.

By a 6-3 vote, the court trimmed the controversial "exclusionary rule," a major source of complaints that criminals go free on technicalities.

The court held that prosecutors may summon witnesses before grand juries and demand that they answer questions based on evidence police have gathered in unlawful searches or seizures.

The decision dealt only with the grand jury question, apparently leaving intact the present effect of the rule when defendants reach trial.

The rule forbids use of evidence or fruits of evidence that have been gathered in violation of the Fourth Amendment prohibition against unreasonable searches and seizures.

Troop Cmdr. Explains Changes Affecting Pitt

SGT. C.S. HARRISON

SGT. T.M. MARTIN

SGT. WILLIE ROGERS

More changes affecting Pitt and adjoining counties—brought on by the formation of a new Highway Patrol Troop in the state effective January 1—were explained by Troop A Commander, Capt. J. T. Jenkins, today.

According to the officer, Pitt and Martin Counties have been joined to form District 5 within Troop A, while Edgecombe County, formerly part of District 5 with Pitt, has been grouped with Halifax County as District 2.

Lenoir, Greene and Jones Counties, formerly District 7, have been transferred from Troop A and are now part of Troop B, with headquarters in Fayetteville.

First Sergeant Titus M. Martin, stationed in Greenville as a corporal from July 1968 to April 1969 before being promoted to sergeant and moving to Kinston, will be First Sergeant of the Pitt-Martin district. Line sergents for the district, Capt. Jenkins said, will be Sgt. Willie Rogers of Williamston and Sgt. C. S. Harrison, who was promoted effective January 1 and transferred to Greenville.

Sgt. Martin joined the Highway Patrol in 1942 and was stationed in Jacksonville for two years before moving to Washington where he served for 7½ years before being promoted to corporal and moving to Tarboro in 1951. Sgt. Martin then was assigned to Dunn for a short time before moving to Greenville in 1958.

A Jamesville native, Sgt. Martin is married to the former Rachael Carson of Martin County and the couple has three children and one grandson. The sergeant is a Mason and attends the Methodist Church.

Sgt. Rogers, a Lumberton native, joined the patrol in 1966 and was stationed in Keananville for two years, then in Goldsboro for 10 years before being promoted to sergeant and transferred to Williamston, December 1, 1967.

Sgt. Rogers is married to the former Fay Revelle of Warsaw and the couple has two children.

He is a Mason and a member of the First Christian Church in Williamston.

Sgt. Harrison is a native of Burlington. He is married to the former Loretta Wagoner of Alamance County and the couple has two children.

$39 Million For N.C. Share

WASHINGTON (AP)—North Carolina will receive $39,332,698 in federal revenue sharing funds, according to Rep. Wilmer D. Mizell, R-N.C.

Mizell said Monday the state government would receive $13,104,275, with local governments dividing $26,228,423.

Progress Report On Med School Said Forwarded

A progress report on medical education at East Carolina University has been forwarded to the National Liaison Committee on Medical Education by UNC President William Friday.

ECU Dean of Health Affairs Dr. Edwin Monroe said the report emphasizes the total authority and control that the Chapel Hill School of Medicine has implemented over the one-year program at ECU.

All curriculum changes on both campuses will be made by the same committee from now on, Dr. Cromartie said.

No comment has yet been received from the Liaison Committee, which last spring said "ECU weaknesses might endanger the whole university's medical education accreditation."

Dr. Cromartie said students in ECU's first medical school class are doing "perfectly satisfactory" work at UNC this year. He added that "The 20 students now studying at Greenville are having a sound experience. The program is going along very well, as far as I'm concerned."

There has been some modification in ECU's science courses, although the content already was similar to those taught at Chapel Hill, he said.

Some 40 Chapel Hill faculty members now teach part-time at ECU. Additional funds requested by the General Assembly will be used partly to recruit new faculty for ECU.

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP)—A man and a woman were rescued by a Coast Guard helicopter Monday after their plane ditched in the Atlantic while they were flying from Myrtle Beach, S.C., to Baltimore.

They were Lois Cash of the Bahamas and Perry Fuller of Baltimore.

The plane sank 23 miles off Virginia Beach after running out of fuel.

Robt. Wynne To Run In Fourth

ASHEBORO, N. C. (AP)—State Rep. Robert W. Wynne of Raleigh announced today as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Congress from North Carolina's 4th District.

He will seek the seat now held by Rep. Ike Andrews, also a Democrat, of Siler City.

Wynne, president of a Raleigh funeral home company, is in his second term as a state legislator. He announced his candidacy in Asheboro, on the first stop of a swing through the district today.

Young Designer Creates Magic Carpet Auto-Train

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP News Features Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Some people call it a magic carpet on wheels; others refer to it as a land showboat.

The colorful, comfortable, two-year-old auto-train which carries cars as well as their passengers from this city to Florida some 900 miles away is so enjoyable many people hate to disembark.

Designed by youthful Carolyn Settles, 29, the train interior fulfills what she says was her intention: to find something in the color palette with punch that "would make them say, 'Wow!'"

Although demand for passage has accelerated during the gas shortage, the train has been a sell-out since it appeared two years ago in railroad yards 15 miles out of the nation's capital. An expansion program is under way but Mrs. Settles points out, "It isn't easy to find old cars, and new ones are very expensive."

One train is likely to consist of a dozen coaches in addition to all the auto carriers.

Many veteran designers would have been stymied by the time element — dirty old cars had to be rejuvenated in six months — and by decisions the petite designer felt she had to make — painting the under-structure purple, the train white and red and purple stripes. Interiors come in an assortment of bright colors. The buffet is yellow; coaches, red and purple; nightclub, mid-night blue and men's lavatories, red.

Although she always thought transportation should be more "exciting," she was occasionally tormented, wondering "if it needs to be more soothing," Mrs. Settles said.

But, she says, when you have confidence in your own judgment you can make such decisions.

"People keep asking me how I could do it alone, and in six months. But if you are creative and well organized, why not? I feel I can do whatever a large firm can, because most designers use associates to compare notes. But when you believe in yourself, you don't need to. I was determined to approach it like any other designing job."

Mrs. Settles was 26 when she got the original assignment. She had been decorating the offices of the railroad company's president, Eugene Garfield, when he asked whether she thought she could decorate a train.

"Sure," she said, and started the chain reaction. She changed the corporate logo, choosing two-stripe red and purple on white, from something she says resembled two elbow macaroni.

"In most corporate work, the image has already been established when you take on a job, but this was different. We had to start from scratch with graphics, color schemes and so on. The president wanted something that was like a cruise ship on wheels, so that people could feel they were starting their vacations the moment they came on board.

"We felt, too, that people would go to their seats only when they wanted to sleep," she said.

The reclining seats in coaches have leg, foot and headrests of a handsome red fabric with a purple and yellow stripe down the center. Floor carpet is red. Mrs. Settles says she was lucky to get the colors she wanted. Boris Kroll designed the fabric and Gulistan custom-dyed some of the carpets.

"Old railroad cars have countless metal molding strips which we ripped off. After spackling bulkheads (walls) we carpeted them in an eye-resting gray-brown and the carpet also provided soundproofing and a luxurious look.

In the yellow buffet car converted from a diner, passengers are served by hostesses wearing yellow tunic suits trimmed with the train company stripes. In the evening the car becomes a movie theater.

The all-blue nightclub in the dome car accommodates 75 people, a piano and entertainers in its starlight lounge.

Getting the piano on the train was a major coup, "the kind of thing that could send you bananas," Mrs. Settles recalls.

"I just kept calling piano people in Chicago where the train was being refurbished until I got one who would deliver it to the yard," she said. "We had to remove the roof and the windows of the train to hoist it in by crane."

Although the second train was a lot easier, including locating the piano, she had a bigger budget and had been through it all before. But she was pregnant with her first child, now almost four months old.

Mrs. Settles went to work for a design firm after graduation from the University of North Carolina. She went into business for herself, and now works from her home in Arlington, Va., where she lives with her husband, Durwood, an accountant.

She enjoys doing offices. For Ringling Brothers, she designed an outer office with three circus-like rings as seating units, and red corridors with old posters outlined in lights.

"I like to design in a contemporary vein, which is one reason I enjoy doing offices where everything should be functional. In my opinion, it is really absurd to have an office in traditional design," she said.

A Two-Way Street For Doctor, Patient

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: When I was in Northern Ireland I had occasion to visit a gynecologist for a pelvic examination. I observed that the doctor did not have a nurse at his elbow as American doctors do.

I asked the foreign doctor if that was not required by law, and he said, "No, what would be the purpose of such a law?"

I explained that some American women are fearful that a male doctor will take advantage of them, so the law requires that a nurse be present during the examinations.

The foreign doctor replied: "There must be a lot of very conceited women in that country!" C. H.

DEAR C. H.: The law requiring the presence of a nurse during such examinations is for the protection of the doctors as well as the patients. Some patients make passes at their doctors, or claim that their doctors have made passes at them.

DEAR ABBY: I don't agree with that man who wrote in to say that having a snake for a pet wasn't all that easy. I have a pet snake named Oscar. He is a common king snake and is hardly any trouble at all.

He eats one mouse a week which costs only 81 cents, and we never have to walk him. He doesn't keep anybody awake with his barking all night, and if we have unwelcome visitors we just let Oscar out, and they don't stay long.

Oscar is very loving. He wraps himself around my mom's ankle while she's cooking. Besides, all my friends envy me having Oscar for a pet. MARK GIRARDI, LARGO, FLA.

DEAR MARK: Hooray for you! Give my regards to Oscar.

DEAR ABBY: You recently printed a letter from a wife whose husband was a "cold fish." He'd touch her only when they were making love—and at no other time.

Well, Abby, her husband may be a cold fish, but my man is a polar bear! With him, it's always: "Not in front of the kids." "Not in front of the neighbors." "Not in front of the mirror."

The other wife said she thinks her husband doesn't like to be touched because he was never handled with affection when he was a child. I told my polar bear that theory and he agreed. He said that in New England, where he was raised, people were a little more "reserved." And he added that if I wanted someone to hold my hand all day I should have married a glove!

Please print this letter as a warning to all those reserved mothers who have a hands-off policy toward their children. Pick them up, for heaven's sake, and cuddle them, or they'll wind up like my polar bear!

POLAR BEAR'S WIFE

DEAR WIFE: Good advice. In order to know how to give affection, one must receive it.

DEAR ABBY: Please tell your readers that any Family Planning or Planned Parenthood Clinic will provide, completely confidential, birth control services to any woman of any age for nothing or only a small fee.

Cooking With Seasonal Foods

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

One afternoon recently Perla Meyers who runs a cooking school in New York City and whom I had never met, came to visit me. When I suggested a drink, she chose grapefruit juice. The juice I had at hand was the frozen kind — albeit unsweetened — and because she drank only half her glass I wondered whether she eschewed the frozen variety.

You see, Perla Meyers has a message. She is eager to persuade Americans to return to using fresh foods in season, as they once did, and she's written the recently published "The Seasonal Cookbook" (Holt, Rinehart and Winston) to encourage them to do so. She believes that "freshness is essential to good cooking." Many dishes in her book are based on the delicious regional cooking of Spain, Italy and France where, she says, "the native cuisines have been shaped by nature's calendar."

Mrs. Meyers writes from a wide background. Born in Vienna of an Austrian mother and a French father, her growing-up years were spent first in Switzerland, then in Spain where her parents still live. When it was time to go to college, she went back to Switzerland to the University of Geneva; after graduation she stayed in Geneva and became a simultaneous interpreter in French and Spanish for the UN.

"But I really wanted to be a chef!" Mrs. Meyers told me. So during her Geneva UN stint, she took cooking classes at Ecole Hoteliere, the professional school of the Swiss Hotelkeepers Association in Lausanne.

From Geneva Mrs. Meyers went to Vienna as an interpreter at the Atomic Energy Commission. In Vienna chef at Hotel Sacher, famous for its pastries, gave her lessons (twice a week for a year) in pastry-making. This luck came about because years before the chef had given her mother lessons and the freudlichkeit continued.

Eight years ago on a trip to New York, Perla met Robert Meyers, vice-president in charge of home furnishings for Bloomingdale's New York City store, who is as interested in good food, food shopping and cooking utensils as she is. Three months after their introduction the Meyers married. Nowadays their five-year-old son Claude loves to help his mother peel carrots and asparagus. Weekends and vacations the Meyers often spend on their 35-acre Connecticut place where Perla grows the fresh vegetables and herbs she writes of in "The Seasonal Cookbook."

Each year the Meyers visit Europe: Robert to transact business, Claude to stay with his grandparents and Perla to work in the kitchens of both haute cuisine and simple regional restaurants. And she really works, usually from early in the morning until late at night. But to energetic and ambitious Perla Meyers, in her mid-thirties, the work is exciting and worthwhile.

The menus in "The Seasonal Kitchen" (for spring, summer, fall, winter and an all-season division) are simple but elegant. The recipes are marked according to whether they are easy, intermediate or hard to prepare; inexpensive, moderate or expensive. They are, of course, from scratch; a final chapter, "Basics and Sauces," includes directions for making nine different kinds of stock.

Here is an adaptation of a dessert from the winter section of "The Seasonal Cookbook."

ORANGES SEVILLANE
½ cup golden raisins
¼ cup orange-flavor liqueur
4 medium navel oranges
½ cup sugar

Soak the raisins in the liqueur for 1 hour. With a swivel-blade vegetable peeler remove only the orange part of the rind from 2 of the oranges; cut this rind into long very thin strips, discarding the leftover scraps of rind; cover strips with boiling water and boil for 10 minutes; drain and rinse in cold water; drain and dry on paper toweling; add to the raisins. Pare all 4 oranges so no white membrane remains and slice crosswise; place in a glass serving bowl; spoon the undrained raisins and orange strips over the orange slices. In a small saucepan bring the sugar and ½ cup water to a boil, stirring constantly until the sugar melts; boil, stirring occasionally, until the syrup turns a light brown color; remove from heat; add ¼ cup hot water; cool and pour mixture over the oranges and raisins. Sprinkle with extra orange-flavor liqueur if you wish and refrigerate. Garnish, if desired, with ½ cup sliced pitted dates. Makes 4 servings.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

You don't have to be a sensitive person to sit in the tourist section of an airplane and wonder what goes on in first class. There's a mystique about it that titillates the fancy of the most indifferent traveler.

Maybe if they didn't draw the curtain that divides the two sections, no one would think about it. But from the moment they obliterate your view of first class, your tourist imagination starts to work.

I visualize first class as a Roman orgy where hostesses serve champagne from their slippers and Dean Martin comes out of the cockpit, pulls an oxygen mask out of the luggage rack and croons into it. "Everybody loves somebody sometime..."

In my heart I know every seat contains a biggie celebrity who is trying to escape from the autograph-seeking little people. Recently, I had occasion to visit with a serviceman who was on standby and was placed in first class at the last minute. Later when he got bumped to tourist, I asked, "What was it like up there? What did you have to eat?"

"No big deal," he said. "We had shrimp cocktail and filet mignon. What did you have?"

"Veal look-alike and plastic green noodles. Level with me. Could you stand up in the restroom?"

"Sure. And we had earphones for music. You had earphones, didn't you?"

"Actually, no. We had a steward who went up and down the aisle humming the theme music from Grapes of Wrath." He shrugged, "I don't think first class is any different from tourist class."

My eyes narrowed. "Don't you believe it. The people in first class get to where they are going first. Their magazines are always current. Their cabins are always pressurized. Their windows don't open. There are no children with chocolate dried around their mouths. Their fasten-seat-belt lights never burn out. Good heavens, man. You saw 'Airport.' You know where the nut with the homemade bomb was sitting...in tourist class!" I looked around me to make sure no one was listening. "Let me lay it on you. See that cushion that says, 'Flotation cushion!'"

He nodded.

"I've been flying for fifteen years and not once has that cushion floated."

"What does flotation mean?" he asked.

"Who knows? I've never been in first class to find out!"

Nothing To Hide, Had Rather Shiver

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (WNS) — Vilma Stuy, 47, is leading a ladies' group of Calvinists to force Minister of Economy Rudd (cq) Lubbers to countermand his order to Dutchmen to "draw your window curtains" in order to save fuel. Mrs. Stuy points out that John Calvin, the Protestant reformer, said, "Anyone who keeps his curtains closed might be committing some very secret sin. I'd rather shiver without fuel than change our open way of life."

Household Hints

Insulation, storm windows and weather stripping help save fuel and money.

Weather stripping around loose-fitting windows and doors and caulking window and door frames can cut heating costs.

Keep heating equipment in top condition.

Turn lights off when the last person leaves a room.

Draw shades and blinds in unoccupied rooms to conserve energy.

Never use artificial light strictly for its decorative effect. That wastes energy.

Ask your town officials to provide bicycle paths so you can help conserve energy by biking around town. The paths will add safety to your biking.

Save fuel. Make sure the attic of your house has at least six inches of insulation.

When possible perform house-cleaning chores with cold water instead of hot. Will save the energy that would be used to heat water.

Substitute light bulbs of current use in the house with bulbs of lower wattage. It will save energy.

When caught in a traffic jam, turn off the car's engine. That will save gasoline.

To keep heat from escaping at the front and back of your house, in winter make it a rule that only one door be used. Either the front or the back.

When natural lighting is adequate don't switch on electric ones. That will save energy.

Annual Card Party Set For Late February

The St. Peter's Woman's Club annual card party will be held Friday, Feb. 22. Special committees were formed to make arrangements for the events at the Wednesday night meeting of the group.

Father Spillane opened the meeting and Mrs. Yvonne Kiernan conducted the meeting. Special thanks were given to Mrs. Arie O'Bonnell and Mrs. Gert Cunningham.

Miss Ada Jones received special recognition on being elected to the Church Council.

Miss motif for the evening was for the New Year. A green table cloth was decorated with noisemakers and streamers along with a cut balas bowl containing a cherry ice mold floating in red punch.

Co-hostesses for the evening were Mrs. Grace Shea, Miss May Franklin and Mrs. Catherine Tronto.

PARIS, France (WNS) — The Brasserie Lipp, the most famous restaurant in the chic St. Germain-des-Pres district of Paris's Left Bank, now has a lady chef, a lady assistant chef and 16 lady cooks. The only men in the kitchen are dishwashers.

"Women prepare the best family cooking on which our celebrity customers thrive," explained Monsieur Cazes, the owner. "There are also fewer jealousies, disagreements and problems in the kitchen when women rule the stoves."

Dr. Jenkins Calls For Partnership Of Effort

WILMINGTON—The chancellor of East Carolina University today proposed a partnership of effort between higher education and the communities of North Carolina to create the image of a great state.

The ECU chancellor, Dr. Leo W. Jenkins, called for a "two-way street program" between ECU and the region of Eastern North Carolina. "We feel that our university can reach out and serve others," he said. "We are on the brink of true greatness but we must have that extra boost from you, the friends of ECU."

Speaking to a Wilmington Rotary Club audience, Jenkins cited his personal overriding concern about the breadth and adequacy of ECU programs "designed to respond not only to the traditional needs of the university's constituency, but also to contemporary demands of the region and the state."

"We can help our neighbors analyze and solve their problems whether they be economic, educational, social, environmental or whatever."

"In like manner, we do urge communities, organizations and citizens to come to us at ECU and solicit our expertise," he said.

He said ECU presently is cooperating in planning upper management level seminars for the nuclear energy division of General Electric Co. in Wilmington to assist in its greater growth and expansion.

"You have here in the Wilmington area tremendous potential for industrial and economic growth. You are located truly in a crossroad of land, sea and air transportation.

"You certainly should have more four-lane highways connecting Wilmington with the heartland of North Carolina as well as with your coastal neighbors along U.S. 17."

"The time has come for Eastern North Carolina to do a few things to excite the nations; that will solicit the admiration of others. Let us exert ourselves for those things we should rightfully have. Let us pioneer on our own. Let us lead the way."

Contract For Right Of Way Is Approved

WILLIAMSTON—A contract for right of way for water and sewer lines from the town of Robersonville to the site of the new high school outside Robersonville was approved Monday at a meeting of the Martin County Board of Education. The lines will be paid for by the town of Robersonville.

Architects of Skinner, Lamb and Associates met with the school board to present a plan for an auditorium under consideration as part of the new Williamston High School now under construction.

Not originally included in the plans, the passage of the $300 million State Bond issue last November has made it possible to consider this addition. If later approved, the auditorium would be built adjacent to the gymnasium and would serve as a community hall as well as school facility.

Also approved by the board was a recommendation to enlarge local advisory committees at Robersonville, Bear Grass and Jamesville from five to seven members. The board will soon name the new members.

The civilian work force in the Greenville area in November was estimated at 33,690—a decrease of 350 workers from the September period.

Total employment decreased by 770 workers to a total of 32,570.

"The decrease was affected by all sectors with the largest number being in the manufacturing and agricultural sectors," stated James Hannan, manager of the local Employment Security Commission. "The unemployment rate increased by 1.2 percentage points from the September figure to 3.3 percent of the civilian work force in November."

Total unemployment increased by 420 workers since September.

Total employment decreased by a net of 770 from September. Durable goods industries in the manufacturing sector showed a slight increase. However, the nondurable manufacturing areas with the exception of apparel and chemicals, showed a decrease.

"This decrease can be attributed to the slow-down and near closing of the tobacco factories. Nearly all segments of the non-manufacturing area showed an increase in workers," Hannan explained. "The largest increase was in the trade sector which is normal for this time of the year. Agriculture showed the biggest decrease with a figure of 640."

A comparison of November, 1973, with November, 1972, reveals an increase of 1,270, in the civilian work force. Only the agriculture segment showed a decrease. Total employment increased by 1,590 over this same period last year.

New and expanding industry in the Greenville area is responsible for the growth. Many small shops and stores have opened in the past year, which has added to Greenville's growth.

"Total unemployment in November was estimated at 1,120 or 3.3 percent of the total civilian work force. This is an increase of 420 since September, 1973, but a decrease of 320 since November, 1972," Hannan explained.

Unemployment insurance claims increased by 204 placing the current figure at 265 or 1.3 percent of the insured work force.

"Total employment in Pitt County will probably drop below 30,660 by mid-February," Hannan said. "However, this figure could be high depending on the energy crisis."

According to Hannan, the greatest change will be in the manufacturing sector, followed closely by agriculture.

Winterville's Chief Cautions Residents

WINTERVILLE—Police Chief W. E. "Bill" Whitehurst today cautioned local residents about several things that might cause them to run afoul of the law and offered the department's cooperation in helping prevent thefts of such property as televisions and stereos.

Chief Whitehurst reminded Winterville residents of a city ordinance that requires pets to be confined to the owners yards and the animals are on a restraint. He noted that dogs found at large are in violation of the ordinance and said their owners are subject to court action in such cases.

Whitehurst, too, noted that drivers should observe speed limit signs within the town. He said the police department is operating a radar unit to control speeding vehicles.

Chief Whitehurst also suggested that local car owners purchase their city license tags early and avoid the last minute rush.

The police official said new 1974 town tags must be displayed on vehicles garaged within the town before midnight February 15.

According to Chief Whitehurst, the police department will issue identification numbers for citizens to place on property such as televisions, stereos and the like on Wednesdays between 4 p.m. and 6 o'clock.

Whitehurst said the numbers will be on file at the Police Department and will help officers identify stolen items recovered.

He suggested that by citizens marking their property, thieves might find it less inviting to steal. He said too, that stolen property might be more readily identified if it is marked, thus enabling law enforcement officers to bring charges against thieves more easily.

The students are: Louise Ange Black of Winterville, B.S. in home economics; and Robert Carlton Teel Jr. of Farmville, B.B.A. degree.

Dr. Carl Bates of Charlotte was the keynote speaker. He spoke on "People Who Make Things Happen."

Individuals interested in taking the course should plan to attend the first class meeting Monday.

Under Bond For Larceny

Pitt County deputies arrested a Rt. 1, Greenville man and charged him in connection with the Dec. 19 break-in and larceny at a home on N. C. 43 west of the city.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that deputies D. C. Martin and J. D. Gurganus arrested James Junior Leavy, 16, of Rt. 1, Box 53, and charged him with breaking into the home of Mrs. Vinie Simmons of Rt. 1, Box 26, Greenville.

The sheriff said that some $80 in cash was reported stolen from the home. The owner told deputies that she returned home on the afternoon of Dec. 19 and found a door unlocked and money missing from a pocketbook. She also reported a billfold missing.

Leavy was placed under $500 bond and a hearing scheduled for District Court here on Jan. 15.

Martin County Board Submits Road Priorities

WILLIAMSTON—In a short first meeting for 1974, Martin County Commissioners Monday met with members of the State Highway Department to submit priority road systems for the county. Declaring themselves dissatisfied with the results of the meeting, commissioners will soon hold another meeting to give further attention to the matter.

The tri-county District Board of Health composed of Martin, Washington and Tyrell Counties asked for and received county commissioners approval to increase membership from seven to eight members. Martin County's additional member will be selected at a later meeting.

In a final agenda item, Chariman John L. House was requested by the board to continue investigation and to recommend possible solutions to the problem of a number of county highway and railroad crossings needing repairs.

Justice Sharp Earned Respect

Supreme Court Justice Susie Sharp made it official last week when she filed as a candidate for chief justice of the North Carolina Supreme Court. If she is elected, she will be the first woman state chief justice to be elected in the nation.

As Miss Sharp pointed out when she announced, it is traditional for the senior justice to become chief justice. In the past this has come about through appointment by the governor. Justice Sharp will attract national attention if she is elected because she is female.

But she commented, "I would like to emphasize the fact that I am not running as a woman judge, I have faith nobody will vote against me on that score."

We can't imagine anyone voting against Justice Sharp because she is a woman, but we can envision thousands of Tar Heels voting for her because of the tremendous respect they have for her.

Miss Sharp became an attorney in 1928 when it was largely a man's world. Long before the women's libbers came on the scene, she was city attorney in Reidsville. Then she served for 13 years as a Superior Court Judge and she will soon have 12 years in as a Supreme Court Justice.

During all that time she has steadily gained the respect for the legal fraternity and the public for her knowledge of the law.

At present Justice Sharp has no opposition and it remains to be seen if there is anyone cocky enough to oppose her in the election. But we think that if she is elected chief justice it will be because of the tremendous respect she has earned among the people of North Carolina, with the fact that she is a woman having little to do with it one way or the other.

Listing Likes And Dislikes

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — For the first time, a scientific study has been done statewide on just what North Carolinians expect out of life, and what guarantees they would like more of.

Not surprisingly the results of a statewide survey show Tar Heels as people concerned about providing a good place to raise their kids, finding adequate medical care, giving their kids a good education, and increasing job opportunities.

And all of that, North Carolinians are saying, they would like to find in a small town—but within a 15-minute drive of a city where they can take advantage of the opportunities a city can give. But by city, they mean a place of about 50,000 or less.

Painted with a large brush, the portrait of Tar Heel likes and dislikes was prepared by a recent arrival in this state from the West Coast.

Sociologist Surveys

Dr. James A. Christenson, a sociologist in the Agricultural Extension Service at North Carolina State University, undertook the survey as a means of giving state and local agencies—especially planners—and politicians some insight into what people want and feel they need. He came here from Washington State University.

He got a healthy response to the mail survey, with 3,115 citizens from all walks of life participating. Telephone books were used to provide the names and addresses, admittedly not a scientific process for sampling, but nonetheless one which gives a good crossview.

The results will not be all that surprising to natives or long-time residents—especially newspapermen and politicians. But for the first time, the desires are spelled out, ranked and listed in the order in which the people responded to them.

Bear in mind in looking at the results, however, that the questions were spelled out and not left open-ended for voluntary information from participants, and that the survey was made in the late spring of 1973. People change their minds and conditions change.

As most public officials know, the number one item on what a citizen wants done right away is something which might be immediate, such as a road paved or trash picked up.

Here, for example, is the way Tar Heel residents rank the things which they think most important to a quality of life—as judged by willingness to spend more governmental dollars to provide them:

Rank of Interest
1. Law and Order, including crime prevention and control, control of illegal drugs and control of organized crime;

2. Health and Welfare, including more retirement benefits, better health and medical care and assistance to the old and poor;

3. Pollution of air, water and the problem of solid waste disposal;

4. Education, including kindergarten, public schools, colleges and universities and the highest ranking item under education—special education for retarded and handicapped;

5. Job Opportunities;

6. Land Use provisions such as controlled urban growth, restricted zoning and planning for wildlife preservation;

7. Economic Growth;

8. Transportation, including highways, airports and mass transit;

9. Recreation;

10. Culture, including libraries, fine arts, historic sites.

The survey created some conflicts of its own, including the fact that people ranked recreation low in such areas as new land for public parks, development of forest and park lands, and programs. But in another section, the need for entertainment and recreational activities ranked high among things people wanted.

Another shift would probably have been seen in the low ranking of mass transit if the survey were made while the current fuel crunch is being felt.

Participants were asked to rank the seriousness of problems in their local communities, coming up with this partial list of items in the order of importance:

Cost of living; use of illegal drugs; recreation and entertainment for the elderly; medical care; recreation for middle-aged; assistance to the elderly; recreation for young people; special education for retarded or handicapped; condition of streets and roads; youth counseling services; transportation, mental health services; aid to the poor; water pollution; community planning; child care centers; citizen role in decision-making; jobs; housing; community involvement; and public schools.

Low Concern
Ranking low as concerns were availability of youth or civic organizations; protection of freedom and privacy; availability of churches; industrial development, indicating satisfaction with those areas.

An overwhelming majority said they like the communities in which they live and wouldn't wish to leave.

As to where they want to live, almost 20 per cent pick the country; 31 per cent pick a small town; and 25 per cent pick a town under 50,000. Only three per cent said they would like to live in a town of 200,000 or more people.

Bitter Rivalry On Capitol Hill

By ROWLANE EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—When the House Judiciary subcommittee on impeachment meets, Republican Rep. Thomas Railsback of Illinois will move to issue this warning to the Senate Watergate investigating committee: Keep your hands off our constitutional prerogatives.

Railsback probably will have solid Republican support and might pick up some Democratic votes as well. Judiciary Committee members were outraged by the recent shotgun subpoena issued by Sen. Sam Ervin's Watergate committee demanding hundreds of White House tapes and documents. Since much of the material will also be sought by the House committee in its impeachment investigation, the Congressmen view Ervin's move as interference with the constitutional prerogatives of the House.

Rep. John Conyers of Michigan is one highly partisan Democrat on the Judiciary Committee who agrees with the Republicans. He recently urged the committee chairman, Rep. Peter Rodino of New Jersey, to confer with the Democratic leadership of both houses to prevent a proliferation of investigations into Mr. Nixon's conduct in office. Otherwise, Conyers says, the impeachment process "will be spread all over God's half-acre."

Ervin is not the only interloper worrying Conyers and other Judiciary Committee members. They believe that Rep. Wilbur D. Mills of Arkansas should have turned Mr. Nixon's tax problems over to the Judiciary Committee. Private remarks by Mills that his Joint Internal Revenue Taxation Committee's audit of Mr. Nixon's taxes is the real impeachment investigation have drifted into the ears of unhappy Judiciary Committee members.

Hard-Line Backlash
The prospect that President Nixon may soon revert to an all-out hard line against his multiplying political enemies threatens a backlash at high levels of the Republican party, including the new party leader in the House, Rep. John Rhodes of Arizona.

Rhodes, a trusted and highly respected party man, believes that no Nixon counterattack today could possibly work but, indeed, could have tragic results for the President, his party and the country.

"No counterattack is feasible," Rhodes told us, "until after the House has disposed of the impeachment matter. Let's face it, the White House crossed the Rubicon months ago when they decided to tell all the facts. They have to go on down that road until the House has had its say on impeachment."

In stressing that any White House offensive would have to wait until after a House vote on impeachment (possibly late in the spring), Rhodes was carefully leaving the door open to a major shift in the President's strategy if the House should vote against impeachment.

IRS SELF-PROTECTION
The new Internal Revenue Service (IRS) audit of President Nixon's tax returns, an investigation intended to protect itself from congressional second-guessing, reflects how little control the President has over decisions of his own administration.

The IRS decision to examine Mr. Nixon's returns again after having declared them correct last June is based primarily on fear that the joint congressional committee study may pick up discrepancies missed by federal tax agents and therefore embarrass the IRS. Consequently, ever since the congressional study was requested by Mr. Nixon last Dec. 8, high IRS officials have been on pins and needles.

The wonder is that their demand for a new self-protecting audit slipped by without being stymied by either the Treasury or the White House. In any event, last Wednesday's announcement of a new audit was most unwelcome news to the presidential cadre at San Clemente, yet has no desire to confront yet another investigation.

Canadian Arabs
Top-level U. S. officials, outraged at Canada's raising the price of its oil to Arab levels, privately and caustically refer to Canada as "the northern member of OPEC" (the Arab nations' Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries).

After President Nixon in his Disney World press conference Nov. 17 indicated he did not blame the Canadians for driving "hard bargains" on oil, Canada matched Arab $9-a-barrel (Continued on page 5)

TRADITION AND PROGRESS

We read recently about an automobile accident which occurred because the driver of the car involved had piled cartons in the back seat which cut off his vision through the rear view mirror. Symbolically he may be likened to a nation, or a group of people, who make all of their decisions regarding the future with no attention to what has happened in the past—or in other words, with no attention to their traditions. All they see is the road ahead; in swinging from lane to lane they pay no attention to things happening behind them, and so court disaster.

But correspondingly, those people who make their decisions entirely upon the dictates of tradition are in an equally dangerous position. They are like a driver who attempts to drive down the highway with his eyes fixed only on the rear view mirror. They never can adequately appreciate and plan for what lies ahead.

Decision-making at the national or group level has to look two ways at once—behind and ahead.

The Awful Fascination

The Consumer Product Safety Commission is like a row of one-armed bandits in a Reno casino. I cannot leave it alone. There is some awful, obscene fascination in watching the little wheels go around: so much time, money, and energy expended in such idiot pursuits!

A press release is at hand: "CPSC Issues Safety Tips on Winter Sports." You will think I am making this up. I swear I am not. This is what the Consumer Product Safety Commission has to say about Skiing:

"Skiing. Investigations of skiing accidents show that injuries occurred when bindings did not release and when the skier was going too fast, lost control, or hit a mogul. A number of accidents happened when the skier was tired. "Commission recommendations to skiers include: (1) Take lessons from an expert. Studies show that beginners are hurt more frequently, so advancement is desirable. . . ."

One reads on and on, as in a dream. Skiers should "use good quality equipment that fits well." Skaters should "never skate close to open bodies of water." Sledgers should be careful: "Numerous accidents occur when sledgers hit bumps." There are six pages of this. Time rolls backward. One sees the United States Congress, in all its majesty, passing an act to create the CPSC. One sees the President, exercising his awesome powers, signing the bill into law. One envisions the commission gathering in conference: note pads, agendas, file folders, lights softly gleaming on a polished table, a silver pitcher. Studies show that beginning skiers are hurt more frequently than experienced skiers. The chair will entertain a motion that the commission recommend that beginners "take lessons from an expert." Is there any discussion?

Another press release is at hand. This one has to do with cribs. The commission has launched a nationwide crib safety campaign to inform consumers about what they can do to make old cribs safer: "As the child grows taller, lower the level of the mattress."

Still another release drifts across the desk. This is a thick catalogue of toys. These are banned toys. There are more than 1,300 of them. The list begins with Classification 0513, Art Supplies and Equipment, and runs through Classification 1515, Pacifiers and Teething Rings.

Classification 1350 deals with "Squeeze-Squeezer Toys." Is there orthographic authority for "squeezer"? (Continued On Page 5)

There's much more: Booster clubs to cheer on the brainy; proposed competition between rival schools in spelling and grammar; local sponsors to give cash awards and trophies— "And then display these trophies of victory won by the students prominently in the school."

But maybe the reformer from the NCAE has overlooked something. What, after all, would the parents and boosters do with the coach of the Silas Marner squad who never brought home a winning team? Maybe he would get a distinctive red water bucket that could be carried with pride?

But maybe the reformer from the NCAE has overlooked something. What, after all, would the parents and boosters do with the coach of the Silas Marner squad who never brought home a winning team? Maybe he would get a distinctive red water bucket that could be carried with pride?

How Will The Consumer React?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The extent and impact of Arab oil diplomacy has received top billing as the major economic imponderable of 1974, but in the minds of some economists another factor is even more of a puzzle.

The factor is human psychology. How will consumers react to all the bad news that seems to be stored up for 1974?

Many believe the Mideast oil outbacks will end by spring. This proposition underlies a great many forecasts that call for a mild recession to be followed by expansion.

But how do you figure the human mind?

Consumers have given some indications through surveys that their spending plans will be lower. Those plans, however, are based on conditions as seen now rather than on conditions that might develop.

Many forecast an unemployment rate of 5.9 per cent or five million jobless. Will high heating oil prices frighten homeowners into cutting back in other areas of their budget?

How will Americans interpret complaints from the biggest industries that they face serious financial difficulties without substantial price increases?

If inflation accelerates during the first half of 1974 will it produce a consumer response that might undermine the economic resurgence forecast by many for the latter part of the year?

Will housing come out of its own private depression?

These are some of the factors that puzzle economists, and which they tend to dismiss as beyond the perimeter of their discipline. But they aren't.

The consumer today is the catalyst of the economy—not the government, and not business. The consumer, not Uncle Sam or the biggest banks, is the big spender —

A Rare Female Deckie

By MAUREEN CONNOLLY

Associated Press Writer

CASTINE, Maine (AP) — When the midshipmen of the Maine Maritime Academy pick up their mops to swab the decks, a woman will be pushing one of the swabs.

Twenty-four-year-old Deborah Doane of Essex, Conn., Monday became the first female student in the 30-year history of the academy.

The University of Vermont graduate doesn't see her enrollment as the end of a tradition, but as the first step toward fulfillment of a lifelong plan to go to sea.

A second semester sophomore, Miss Doane is one of only a handful of women in maritime academies across the country. Last fall, Maine Maritime dropped its male-only requirement in accordance with a change in U.S. Maritime Administration regulations.

For the next two and a half years she'll train in all aspects of marine technology. Then, like all maritime graduates she'll be obligated to accept a military service commission. She's selected inactive Navy status.

Although her official rank is midshipwoman third class, Miss Doane, a nautical science major, will be known as a "deckie."

She may not be one of the academy's 470 men, but she'll be expected to perform like one. She'll be a crew member on the annual cruise of the academy's training vessel and she'll drill and stand guard duty.

"Actually, I'm looking forward to it. I need the discipline," she said. "I expect to definitely keep up with the men."

An avid sailor since childhood, Miss Doane said she was determined to make the sea her career. After graduating from college in 1971, she skipped pleasure sailboats along the East Coast and in the Caribbean.

She said she considers her enrollment a step in her career, rather than a mark for women's liberation — "I'm not a demonstrator. I am all for women going and doing what they want to do, but not just to demonstrate for the cause."

A number of unemployed teachers entered East Carolina Teacher's College this morning to take the courses for the two weeks of intensive training for teachers of nursery schools and adult education groups under the Federal Relief program.

Sixty-five teachers had registered by noon today and others were on campus arranging to take the course.

Some counties were delayed in making up their lists of qualified teachers who were eligible for this work, so some groups will arrive later. Regular class work will begin tomorrow.

Rising N.C. Sentiment For Pres. Nixon To Resign

RALEIGH (AP)—Sentiment among Tar Heel voters for the resignation of President Nixon is increasing, say North Carolina congressmen after meeting with their constituents over the Christmas recess.

Some of the lawmakers contend that a sizeable number of North Carolinians still back the President, others say anti-Nixon feeling has increased sharply following recent disclosures about the President's small income tax payments.

These congressmen say many voters are reluctant to support impeachment proceedings and hope the President will resign.

Most of the Tar Heel House members were contacted by the Raleigh News Observer in a survey.

"I've seen a decided change in opinion during the holiday season," said 1st District Rep.

Walter B. Jones, a Democrat. Jones said previously "sentiment seemed to be very much in favor of President Nixon. But in the last three weeks, I've found more and more people demanding he be impeached or resign."

Jones said the switch resulted from disclosure of Nixon's income taxes and said "that's affected more people than Watergate or anything else."

He referred to criticism of the President's tax deductions for donating his vice presidential papers to the government and reports the Internal Revenue Service is reauditing his income tax returns.

Democratic Rep. L.H. Fountain in the 2nd District noted that while pro-Nixon sentiment remains strong, "a lot of people who once opposed impeachment now favor it."

"The revelations about the President's taxes changed them," Fountain said. "It's the sort of thing they can understand and they're upset."

"A large number prefer resignation to impeachment. They feel this would spare the country a great deal," Fountain added.

"There's a strong feeling here that we need to resolve this question one way or another," said 6th District Rep. Richardson Preyer, a Democrat, said people were reluctant to even consider impeachment at first, "but people are becoming more used to the idea and are talking about it more."

Republican 10th District Rep. James T. Broyhill said he has "a definite feeling people are frustrated."

"They see and hear the bickering and feel that no one is minding the store," he said. "They feel government is reacting to events rather than taking the initiative to plan ahead."

Broyhill said he agrees with Vice President Gerald Ford "that if impeachment proceedings aren't started by April, let's drop it and get on with dealing with the nation's problems."

Republican Rep. Wilmer Mizell said flatly people in his district "have always held the view that until the President is shown to have committed an impeachable offense, he should neither be impeached nor compelled to resign."

Republican Rep. James Martin of the 9th District said he feels anti Nixon feelings have reached their peak and are subsiding. He said his district is "about evenly divided" on feelings toward the President.

Democratic Rep. Charles Rose of the 7th District said his constituents generally are opposed to impeachment "they said he should give serious con-

Sees Disruption If Leaf Controls End

RALEIGH (AP)—A North Carolina State University economist said Monday termination of crop controls on flue-cured tobacco, which is being considered by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, would disrupt the incomes of many thousands of farm families across the Southeast.

would "send shock waves throughout" North Carolina's economy.

He said such an action "could place agricultural credit in jeopardy and erode by one federal administrative decision—the net worth position of thousands of farmers."

gram would operate without quotas were not included in the announcement.

The proposal has held up plans of farmers for leasing allotments and quotas for the coming year, Pugh stated.

He said, "The proposal contradicts the spirit of the mandate of growers who last July cast a 98.5 per cent favorable vote for continuation of quotas in 1974, 1975 and 1976."

now grow the crop would begin producing it, especially if they thought there was a chance that quotas would be suspended permanently. He said the result would be that tobacco would tend to move into areas where it could be produced most efficiently.

Communities and areas that lost substantial amounts of production would find their economies seriously disrupted, he said.

million pounds of unused 1973 quota will be brought forward and added to the 1974 base of about 1,229 million pounds? Additionally, growers could over-market this amount by 10 per cent without penalty.

"In other words," Pugh said, "even with no adjustment in the base quota, growers could produce and market penalty-free a substantially larger crop of flue-cured tobacco in 1974 than the 1,155 million pounds they sold during the past season."

out seeing Nixon.

One official said there was no significance in the fact that Ash and the President did not meet. He added that, from a public relations standpoint, it probably would have been better had Nixon taken the time to see the budget chief.

Another source said Kenneth W. Clawson, deputy director of communications for the executive branch, joined the presidential party here last week to discuss reorganization of the administration's public relations staff.

There have been recurrent rumors that Ronald L. Ziegler might relinquish his title as press secretary and concentrate on other responsibilities.

Ziegler, Haig and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger are acknowledged to have the readiest access to the President. In fact, Nixon has spent little time with any other aides or officials since flying here Dec. 26.

Nixon's only announced conversations Monday were with Haig and Ziegler.

Arriving here for staff meetings related to reorganization were Cole and presidential counselor Bryce N. Harlow.

consideration to resigning." Rose stated that many of his people "say they can no longer trust anything the President says and that this has made him ineffective as a leader of the executive branch."

Rep. David Henderson of the 3rd District, a Democrat, said voters in his area "are greatly disturbed because the President paid so little in taxes," they are even more concerned "about the inability of the President to resolve our domestic problems—things like the energy shortage."

Fourth District Rep. Ike Andrews, a Democrat, said his mail is running about 50-50 on the question of impeachment "with more people saying they prefer resignation."

To Organize PTI Class

Pitt Technical Institute will hold an organizational meeting Wednesday at 7 p.m. in room 10 of the administration building for individuals interested in Insurance 23: Principles of Casualty Insurance and Surety Bonding.

Insurance 23 is part of a series of personal development courses in the insurance field for individuals desiring to enhance their professional preparation within the field of insurance. The course stresses the "how" to contract analysis and goes into major liability contracts to include automobile policies, employer's liability, workmen's compensation, and several other types of liability contracts.

—Would price support be offered if quotas were terminated, and if so, to whom? Would non-quota growers receive support?

—Would a one-year suspension lead to permanent abolition of the quota program?

—Would the lifting of quotas result in a buildup of surplus stocks held by the Flue-Cured Tobacco Cooperative Stabilization Corp. under the price support program?

—Since domestic usage of flue-cured leaf has been rising slowly and trade restrictions may reduce exports into the expanded European communities, is there even a justification for any significant increase in quotas?

Ford Condemns Rigid Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford today described as misguided suggestions that the United States respond to the fuel shortage by rigidly controlling the economy.

"The counsel of desperation doesn't impress me," Ford said. "Back in Michigan we don't pay much attention to those who advocate pulling down the rafters to get wood for the fireplace."

In a speech prepared for a luncheon meeting of the Manufacturing Chemists Association, Ford said:

"Instead of rigid controls that would only add to the shortages, we need a minimum of interference with the free-enterprise system's ability to produce," he said.

"Instead of artificially low fuel prices, we need realistic prices that encourage energy conservation and foster increased exploration and development of domestic energy resources.

"Instead of nationalization, we should reaffirm our support for the system of competitive enterprise that has provided us with the world's highest standard of living," Ford said.

Pirates Travel To Face Big Spiders

Ben Grieb

Lanny Norris

Frank Orgel

East Carolina's Pirates, after playing three games in the past five weeks, finally turn their minds again to the Southern Conference Wednesday night, when they invade Robbins Center to meet the University of Richmond.

The Bucs, with a victory in their last game, snapped a three-game loss string, and won their first game of the season on the road. That was a 60-47 victory over Lehigh in the consolation finals of the Presidential Classic. In the first round of that tournament, the Bucs had dropped an 82-75 overtime decision to American University, the eventual winner of the Tourney.

That loss came after the Bucs held a six-point lead with 40 seconds to go, and had two one-and-one opportunities at the line which they failed to cash in on. "I was disappointed in the way the game turned out," Coach Tom Quinn said. "I had told the team that the winner of our game would win the tournament. I was pleased with the way we came back on them after getting down, and I was extremely pleased with the way we handled their zone press."

Quinn had praise for the play of Larry Hunt and Gregg Ashorn in the game. He also noted that Nicky White was "ganged up starting to hit in games." Quinn also questioned whether the two late fouls shouldn't have been two-shot fouls instead of one-and-ones. "I thought they should have been intentional fouls—then we probably would have made a point or two."

In the second game, Quinn noted that both teams were trying hard to win—perhaps too hard. "It was important for Lehigh, in that they were trying to win their first game, and it was important to us in that we were trying to win our first on the road."

Quinn had praise for the play of Larry Hunt and Gregg Ashorn in the game. He also noted that Nicky White was "ganged up on" inside, and that perhaps some of the others were trying too hard.

Another factor in the tournament was that the two games were only the second and third the Bucs had played since mid-December, while the other three teams were playing in their second straight tourney in as many weeks. "It was also the home court of both American and George Washington," Quinn added.

This week, the Bucs kick off the first of two road games against the University of Richmond's Spiders. "They are a much quicker team than last year, and are no longer a one-man show," the coach said, referring to Richmond's ace, Aron Stewart.

"They are not as tall as last year, but they do have some leapers. They have an outstanding front line, all scoring well. They still go to Stewart a certain percentage of the time, but the other two (Bob McCurdy and Eric Gray) get the ball more often too."

Stewart, who sat out the first three games under a suspension is averaging 19.3 points a game, but scored 48 in his last two outings. He's not scoring at the same pace he did last year, making only 36.8 per cent of his shots as compared to 50 per cent last year. He's also the leading rebounder with a 9.7 average.

"We have to treat them more as a team this year," Quinn said. "We can't just stop one man." McCurdy is averaging 17.1 points a game, while Gray has a 15.8 mark. They are the only three in double figures. Carlton Mack and Steve Catlette round out the starting five.

Richmond is 2-2 in the Southern Conference, while the Bucs are 1-1. The Spiders are 3-6 overall, but lost only to Furman in Robbins Center.

In addition, throughout its history, the Spiders have won 599 basketball games, so will be seeking their 600th victory against the Pirates, adding more incentive for the Spiders to come away with a victory. They have lost 591 during the 61-plus seasons basketball has been played at the University.

Three New Assistants Set At East Carolina

East Carolina head football coach Pat Dye Tuesday announced the appointment of three assistant coaches: Frank Orgel, Ben Grieb, and Lanny Norris.

In making the announcement, Coach Dye said, "The key to any winning football situation is discipline, enthusiasm, and an excellent staff of assistants to cover all facets of the game. I am building an excellent staff and these three coaches are important parts of a winner I want to build here."

Orgel, a former high school coach in Warner Robbins, Ga., is the oldest of the three at 34. He comes to East Carolina from Florence State University of Alabama, where he served as a graduate assistant in charge of the linebackers.

His Warren Robbins High School teams posted a 28-4-2 record in three years and Orgel was twice named area coach of the year. Two of the three seasons, Orgel headed up the Warren Robbins football squad, it won regional championships.

Coach Orgel has been a long time friend of Dye. They played college football together at Georgia, and played against each other in the service.

"Pat helped me go to Florence State. We have always said we wanted to coach together, and when he called I couldn't believe it was happening. I made up my mind very quickly. Normally you take your time and think about it but I knew Pat would not leave Alabama unless he was coming to a good place," Orgel said.

Grieb, a former East Carolina player and team captain in 1968, is the second appointee. He was one of the few graduate assistants at Louisiana State who did not come up through the playing ranks there. He trained under Craig Randall, a noted defensive strategist and defensive coordinator for the LSU Tigers.

"I came here because my close friends at LSU said Coach Dye was Number One all the way. Also, I know this school. It is a good one with a sound football program and a winning tradition. This area has a great football flavor with good people backing it. Most of all, this area has some very solid and talented players. What's more, I think we can recruit and build a team here."

The third new coach is Norris, one-time terror of Southeastern am building an excellent staff and these three coaches are important parts of a winner I want to build here."

Norris comes to East Carolina from Arkansas where he served as graduate assistant.

"This job means more to me than many people know. When Coach Dye called, I was flattered to think he considered me material for a position at a major university. I will be able to see if I really want to coach. That is not a negative statement. I simply have not been in coaching that long. Everything I do here at East Carolina will be part of a learning process for me. I wish I could tell everyone how eager I am."

Norris started for three years at Alabama, playing strong safety for two years and corner back his senior year. During that time, the Crimson Tide visited three post-season bowls: the Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl, the Orange Bowl, and the Cotton Bowl. As a high school player in Russellville, Ala., Norris quarterbacked Russellville High School to state championship.

Coaching duties have not been broken down specifically for any of the three appointees. That will come next week after the staff has been completed.

Dye's staff will number eight for the 1974 season, an increase of two full-time coaches. Graduate assistants are also expected to fit into the plans later in the year. More announcements are expected later this week and early next week.

Dye Says Community Affected His Choice

Pat Dye, new East Carolina University football coach, made his first public appearance in Greenville yesterday, speaking to the Noon Kiwanis Club.

"I don't think I would have accepted this job except for the fact that the people I met, the community I saw, have been impressive. I wouldn't want to move my family into an environment that was not good for my family," Dye told the Kiwanians.

"I would like to think that a winning tradition has been established at East Carolina. I know they are trying to grow, and I hope to grow along with it."

Dye introduced some of his new assistant coaches, and noted that he would have additional ones to name in the very near future. "When I left, Bear (Bryant, Alabama coach) told me two things. Don't go where it's impossible to win, and surround yourself with winners. I think I'm doing that with my staff."

Dye noted that the things he had learned in his early life from his parents had carried over into his adult life. "I realize that these things mean a lot now," he said. "It's such things as being high class, having managers. Coach Bryant also taught these things to his players at Alabama, and I hope to teach these to our players here. We want our players to have high goals and think big—then try to reach these goals."

Dye added that he believed that an education comes first. "What you learn in football can give you a lifetime of worth that you can't get in the classroom," he said, "but this is only part of life. That degree means a lot and we want everyone of our players to receive one."

The coach said that he has high goals on the football field too. "We don't just want to win the Southern Conference title, we want to go undefeated. This is the ultimate."

Dye also added that football needs a playoff system, and stood up for his former team by noting that one PAT missed cannot tell the true worth of a team.

"I believe in discipline both on and off the field," he said. "I don't believe in standing right over our players, but they need guidelines to go with the freedom they are granted." Dye added that several years ago drugs crept onto the Alabama campus, but that this problem had been solved. "We don't intend to have anything like that happen here," he said.

Dye told the group, in answer to questions, that all of the Alabama scholarships come from their support groups, such as East Carolina has in the Pirate Club. "All of the gate receipts go for equipment, lodging, minor sports, and the like," he said. "And I think it speaks well of this type of program in that swimming finished third in the SECT last year, and this was the lowest any Alabama team finished."

Fayetteville Tops Paladins

FAYETTEVILLE—Fayetteville Tech gained its second straight victory over the Pitt Tech Paladins last night, rolling to an 86-59 win.

The two teams opened play on an even basis, swapping baskets through most of the first half. Fayetteville opened up as much as a four point lead several times during the half, but each time Pitt came back to tie them up. They never could grab the lead however.

With two and a half minutes left, Pitt tied it up at 30-30, but went cold there, and Fayetteville ripped off 12 straight points to break the game open and take a 42-30 lead into intermission.

In the second half, Pitt was able to cut it back to as little as eight, but could never get an effective rally going, as Fayetteville began steadily to pull away for the final 27 point victory.

Woody Monroe led the Fayetteville scoring with 24 points, while Lynn Covington had 20 and John Cooper had 14. For Pitt Tech, Clarence Wilson has 22 and Bobby Wilkins had 10.

Pitt, now 1-5 overall, returns to conference action on Thursday, traveling to Martin Tech. The Paladins are 1-1 within their league.

Conley Takes Win Over Rams

SNOW HILL—D. H. Conley's Vikings remained unbeaten in the Eastern Carolina Conference last night, finally gaining a 53-46 win over Greene Central.

The game had twice been postponed, once because of a power failure, then once again due to snow.

In the girls' game, Greene Central gained a 31-15 victory. Conley ran out to a 6-1 lead in the first period of the game, but wasn't able to sustain it. Greene Central came back with a 7-3 advantage in the second frame, cutting the Conley lead to 9-8 at the half.

In the third period, Greene Central took full command. They allowed only a free throw by the Valkyries, while they dumped in 15 points to rush out to a 23-10 lead. They outscored Conley, 8-5, in the final period to win easily.

Judith Tripp led the Ewe scoring with 17 points.

In the boys' game, Conley eased out into a 14-10 lead over the Rams in the first quarter of play. Greene Central came back to outpace Conley, 9-6, in the second frame, but still trailed, 20-19, at the half.

The Vikings made little headway in the third period, outscoring the Rams only 14-13, for a 34-32 lead as the final frame got underway. Conley managed a 19-14 edge in that period to gain the win.

Melvin Tucker led Conley with 13 points, while Clennel Streeter had 12, and Larry Daniels and Buddy Phillips each had 11. For the Rams, Moses Barron had 14 and Jerry Jones had 10.

The Rams outshot the Vikings, 37 per cent to 36 per cent, and outrebounced them, 43-29, but turnovers made the difference, as Greene Central had three more than did Conley.

Stewart Leads Southern Scorers

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Despite starting at a much slower pace than when he first burst onto the Southern Conference basketball scene last year, Aron Stewart of Richmond's Spiders is out front again in his bid to repeat as league scoring champion.

Stewart, conference player of the year last season when he also was the league's rebound leader, sat out the Spiders' first three games as punishment for taking part in a postseason tournament last spring without conference permission.

Since he got into action, the 6-foot-5 senior has scored 116 points in six games for a 19.3-point average, a far cry from the 30.3-point mark with which he was one of the nation's leaders a year ago.

It's still good enough, however, to give him better than a one-point bulge over runner-up John Falconi of Davidson. Falconi, a senior who finished sixth in last year's scoring race, has 182 points in 10 games for an 18.2 average.

Sophomore Mike Arizin of William and Mary, who was fifth last year, is third with 159 points in nine starts for a 17.7 average, while junior Clyde Mayes of Furman is fourth with 155 points in nine games for a 17.2 mark. Mayes tied for seventh last season.

The No. 5 scorer this year is a newcomer, junior Bob McCurdy of Richmond, a transfer from the University of Virginia. McCurdy has 154 points in nine games for a 17.1 average.

Davidson junior Greg Dunn is sixth with 169 points in 10 starts for a 16.9 mark, and junior Fessor Leonard of Furman has a 16.7 average on 150 points in nine games. The 7-foot-1 Leonard was third in last year's scoring race.

The league's No. 2 scorer of the 1972-73 season, senior Stan Davis of Appalachian State, is eighth at the moment with 83 points in five games for a 16.6 mark. Junior college transfer Eric Gray of Richmond is ninth with 142 points in nine games for a 15.8 average.

Only nine players in the conference are averaging 15 points a game or better.

The victory raised the Rampant overall mark to 2-4-1 for the season. They are now 1-0 in league play, and will travel to Wilson for their next match Wednesday.

Bud Grant Hits At His Team's Drill Facilities

By PAT THOMPSON
Associated Press Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — Bud Grant caustically let the National Football League know what it could do to improve the environment of Super Bowl week ... if not for the Minnesota Vikings, then for future championship teams.

The NFL for the facilities which his players are using this week to practice for Sunday's game against the Miami Dolphins at Rice Stadium.

"This is shabby treatment," Grant said flatly upon inspecting the locker-room at Delmar Public School. "This is not a pickup game a bunch of kids will be playing. This is the Super Bowl."

No clothes hooks, no locker cubicles, inadequate space, no tackling dummies and no blocking sleds were Grant's biggest gripes. Then he noted the Dolphins were working out across town at the headquarters of the Houston Oilers — where they enjoy the use of a full complement of pro football paraphernalia.

"At times the league is too busy patting itself on the back for its public relations and forgets about the teams," said Grant. "We're not going to throw a fit about it. It's not our responsibility. I only get angry on situations I can control, and I have no control over this."

"The league has had a whole year to get ready. I'm not putting the blame on any one person. But it certainly is a big advantage for Miami. They can walk to practice, have a team meeting and go directly to the field."

"We have to hold our meetings at the motel and then take a 20-minute bus ride. It's distracting."

Grant noted that when the Vikings played in the 1970 Super Bowl against Kansas City in New Orleans, his team used facilities of the New Orleans Saints. Kansas City, the 23-7 victor, trained at Tulane University.

Grant was puzzled the Vikings were not assigned to work at a university in the Houston area.

The Vikings said they would remain at Delmar, at least on a day-to-day basis.

Jim Kensil, aide to NFL Commissioner Pete Rose, indicated the use of Rice Stadium and Houston University was impractical because of security reasons.

Crews would be working at Rice, getting the stadium ready for Sunday's game, and school is in session at Houston. The Vikings, therefore, would not have been practicing in a secluded area, Kensil said.

No mention was made of Texas Southern University.

Vanderbilt Jumps In Weekly AP Cage Poll

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Vanderbilt, off to its best start since the 1963-64 season, has jumped from No. 10 to No. 6 in this week's Associated Press college basketball poll.

The Commodores, with nine wins in as many outings, collected 489 total points from a nationwide panel of sportswriters and broadcasters. Vandy only played once last week but made it worthwhile with a 73-72 decision over highly-regarded Alabama.

UCLA retained its customary spot at the top of the poll, collecting all 48 first-place votes and 960 total points. The Bruins thumped Washington 100-48 to run their season's mark to 9-0 and their record winning streak to 84 games.

Notre Dame, which has two games with UCLA later this month, barely held onto the No. 2 spot over Maryland, 798 points to 789. The Irish, 7-0, took the week off while Maryland, 7-1, beat Richmond and Clemson handily. North Carolina State and North Carolina changed places. State, 7-1, took over the No. 4 spot, mostly on the strength of a 78-77 triumph over the Tarheels, also 7-1. The Wolfpack picked up 686 points to 554 for North Carolina.

Marquette, 10-1, dropped from sixth to seventh after a two-point loss to South Carolina. New Mexico, 12-0 after victories over Utah and Brigham Young, vaulted from No. 12 to No. 8.

Long Beach State, which earlier this week was placed on probation for three years by the NCAA for recruiting violations, raised its record to 10-1 with a triumph over Los Angeles State and held the No. 9 position.

Providence, 9-2, was up four places to 10th after a lopsided victory over Catholic University.

Louisville moved up two places to No. 11. Alabama fell from No. 7 to No. 12, and Indiana, down from eighth, and Wisconsin, up from 17th, tied for the No. 13 spot. South Carolina, among the also-rans last week, moved up to No. 15.

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — "It's unfortunate," Johnny Miller mused, then flashed that half-shy, half-pleased little smile.

"But I'll take a win any way I can get it."

In this case, he got a 54-hole victory in the rain-shortened, weather-plagued, on-again, off-again Bing Crosby National Pro-Am Golf tournament.

The tournament was called off late Monday after five days of an unsuccessful battle with the elements. Only 54 holes of the scheduled 72 had been completed. Under rules of the Tournament Players Division of the PGA, players were paid off on the basis of 75 per cent of the announced total purse of $215,000.

Miller, who finished the third round Sunday with an eight-under-par total of 208, thus pulled down $27,750 instead of the announced $37,000. The event goes in the books as an unofficial triumph since it wasn't completed.

"I think I would have won anyway," Miller said, "since I had a four-stroke lead. But we'll never know. It's a shame it had to happen this way. "I guess it couldn't have been helped. I didn't get out of my room Monday but I could see parts of the course out of the window. I couldn't have gotten to the first tee in a rowboat."

A night-long rain that lasted into the morning forced officials to postpone Monday's play. They originally scheduled a tris at completing the final round Tuesday. But when the weather refused to break, TPD Commissioner Joe Dey called the event off.

Grier Jones finished second in the abbreviated event with a 212 total, four back of Miller. The group tied for third at 214 included Rod Funseth, Tom Kite, John Jacobs and Bruce Summerhays.

Jack Nicklaus withdrew early Monday, but since the fourth round was never played he was paid off just like the rest of the field. Nicklaus, who had won the two previous Crosby events, finished in a tie for 24th.

Tom Weiskopf's string also came to an end. The British Open champion hadn't finished lower than sixth since last May but tied for 32nd here.

Vandy Lucky To Win Tenth Game

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

It's tough to play winning basketball when you're looking backwards but Vanderbilt turned the trick Monday night.

The Commodores, ranked sixth nationally, held off stubborn Mississippi State 75-69 for their 10th victory in as many outings. But their hearts weren't in it.

"We were fortunate to win," admitted Coach Roy Skinner. "We shot poorly and were out-rebounded too. I don't think we were tired. It was just a matter of being so high last week and we had a great win against Alabama Saturday in the last second. It's hard to concentrate on someone else so quickly."

Vandy, off to its best start since the 1963-64 season, beat Alabama in a 73-72 thriller. The game took its toll on the Commodores.

"It's tough to get up emotionally for two games like that in a row," said sophomore guard Butch Feher. Feher pulled the fat out of the fire against Mississippi State by sinking six straight free throws with less than three minutes to play.

In other games involving the top twenty teams, No. 1 UCLA rolled to its 85th straight triumph, a 55-45 decision over Washington State; No. 10 Providence dumped Villanova 87-77; No. 12 Alabama held off Tennessee 79-73; and No. 17 Southern California defeated Washington 90-76.

Simpson Is Top Choice All-Pro

By HAL BOCK
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Record-shattering O.J. Simpson was a unanimous choice and Miami's dazzling twin safeties, Dick Anderson and Jake Scott, headed six Dolphins named to the National Football League All-Pro team by The Associated Press today.

Wide receiver Paul Warfield, running back Larry Csonka, guard Larry Little and place-kicker Garo Yepremian were the other Miami players selected to the 23-man squad by a panel of sports writers and broadcasters covering the 26 NFL teams.

Buffalo's Simpson, the NFL's Offensive Player of the Year, who set a rushing record with 2,003 yards for the season, was named on every ballot cast in the poll. And the Bills' offensive line, a key part of Simpson's success, was represented by O.J.'s roommate, guard Reggie McKenzie.

Joining McKenzie on the offensive line were Little, San Francisco center Forest Blue and tackles Ron Yary of Minnesota and Rayfield Wright of Dallas, all repeaters from last year's All-Pro team.

Warfield caught 11 touchdown passes during the season and Csonka churned out 1,003 yards rushing. Yepremian produced 113 points for the Dolphins including 25 of 37 attempted field goals.

The only rookie selected to the squad was tight end Charles Young of Philadelphia, who finished with 55 catches in his first pro season. John Hadl, who led Los Angeles to a 12-2 record, best in the club's history and threw 22 touchdown passes, was named the quarterback.

Minnesota, which will oppose Miami in Sunday's Super Bowl, had two players besides Yary named to the squad, both on the defensive line. They were tackle Alan Page and defensive end Carl Eller.

The other side of the defensive line was manned by Atlanta end Claude Humphrey and tackle Mean Joe Greene of the Pittsburgh Steelers.

Isiah Robertson of Los Angeles and Washington's Chris Hanburger were selected as the team's outside linebackers with Willie Linder of Kansas City manning the middle.

Completing the team in the defensive secondary with safeties Anderson, who led the league with eight interceptions, and Scott, were cornerbacks Robert James of Buffalo and Willie Brown of Oakland.

On defense, Humphrey, Greene, Hanburger and Anderson, the NFL's Defensive Player of the Year, were repeaters from last year's team.

The NFL's two conferences were just about evenly represented on the All-Pro squad with 12 players coming from AFC teams and 11 from the NFC. That was a change from last year when 15 of the 23 players chosen came from the AFC.

The voters also selected conference teams. In the AFC, Dallas and Minnesota placed four players each, while in the AFC, eight Miami players were chosen.

Diego Segui set a St. Louis Cardinal pitching record last season by saving 17 games. He tied the record for most appearances for a right-handed pitcher by getting in 65 games.

Two Unbeatens In Industrial

Vermont American and State Highway won their second straight victories in the Industrial Basketball League last night, while Fieldcrest won its first of the year.

In the opening game, Vermont American rolled to a 74-38 win over Greenville Utilities. Vermont American worked up a 40-20 lead at the half, then outscored GUCo, 34-18, in the second half.

Charlie Jenkins led Vermont American with 32 points, while Moses Joyner had 28. For GUCo, no one hit double figures.

Fieldcrest took an 83-49 victory over Prepsmith in the second game. Fieldcrest built up a 44-23 lead in the first half. They outscored Prepsmith, 39-26, in the second half for the win.

Louis Williams had 27, Billy Stokes had 22 and Charles Harrington had 17 to pace Fieldcrest. For Prepsmith, Zeno Smith had 18.

The final game saw State Highway nip previously unbeaten Grady White, 51-50. State Highway had built up a 30-19 lead in the first half, but they had to hold off a Grady White rally to win it. Grady White outthrew them, 31-21, but it wasn't quite enough.

Fred Mills and Bobby Edwards each had 15 and Leon Jenkins had 13 for the Highwaymen. Frank Brown had 19 and Larry Dixon had 12 for Grady White.

Travel Talks At NCAA Meet

By HERSCHEL NISSENON
AP Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — College football teams are looking into the possibility of joint travel to games in the same general area as a means of conserving energy, according to a spokesman for the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

Ross H. Smith, Director of Athletics at Massachusetts Institute of Technology and chairman of the NCAA's newly created Special Energy Committee, said Monday he wouldn't even rule out the possibility of teams trading inter-sectional games so they wouldn't have to travel far from their own area.

He pointed out the NCAA is compiling a master 1974 football schedule which will be made available so teams can consider trading inter-sectional contests.

Wake Forest University of Winston-Salem, N.C., already has asked out of a game with Oregon State at Corvallis, Ore., next fall because it doesn't want to travel to the West Coast.

Smith also said there has been talk about cutting back NCAA championships or possibly combining more than one championship at a single site.

It was noted the Atlantic Coast Conference, of which Wake Forest is a member, is thinking about abandoning air travel and playing only opponents within reach by bus.

"We're trying to prepare ways and means to react to the energy crisis," Smith said, "but the committee was appointed less than a month ago and we lack adequate information from the Federal Energy Commission."

The NCAA's three-day convention officially opened Monday but most of the day was spent discussing the more than 100 pieces of legislation to be voted on Tuesday and Wednesday. The voting begins Tuesday afternoon.

The Worry Clinic Handicapped By 'Quota' System

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

Jeff gripes about the injustice done to good students by the "quota system." As a top scholar of a minority race, he is hampered by the reduced admission test and "political" awarding of good grades to his lazy minority classmates.

CASE Z-520: Jeff D., aged 19, belongs to a minority group. "Dr. Crane," he began, "many of us good students who belong to minority races, are handicapped by the 'quota idea.' "For it hurts the upper 25 percent of us who really study hard and make good grades on the basis of merit.

"Yet many colleges and a lot of professors are admitting minority students who aren't up to the standards previously maintained by colleges. "Many profs nowadays also hand out 'B' grades and even occasional 'A' marks to 'quota' students, even though they don't deserve a 'C.' "So that hampers us deserving scholars of the same minority races!

"For prospective employers now disbelieve our college grades since it is fairly widespread knowledge that inferior students, if of a minority or quota group, are handed out good grades just for political purposes.

"So is it worth while for me to try to finish college?"

QUOTA FALLACY

America has been created, not by the "quota system," but by merit.

And all the smart members of minority races realize that it is a fallacy to admit inferior students just because of political considerations.

For merit is what has made America great and will maintain our Republic, if it is to survive.

If an American can high jump 8 feet, he deserves to be on our Olympic team, regardless of whether he is Jew of Gentile, black, white, red or yellow.

Anybody who could break Ryun's world record in the mile run, also merits the accolades for a world champion, regardless of his ethnic background.

Those facts are fairly well admitted.

Alas, many crass politicians are really handicapping good students like Jeff, by using the Communist idea of treating all quota applicants alike and thus admitting the inferior matriculates to college when they don't deserve it nor merit the grades later awarded them.

Somebody must begin to defend the members of ethnic minorities who work hard, study diligently and merit their "A," "B" or "C" grades.

Politicians at Washington and in our State Legislatures, however, are now so obsessed with winning re-election, that they are willing to make any kind of concession, just to corral more votes.

This is unAmerican, vicious and dishonest.

The good students of all races are thus mistreated.

Meanwhile, respect for college sheepskins is degenerating, as is also true of high school diplomas.

It is thus time that sanity and "horse sense" remedied this tragedy.

"An investment in knowledge," said Benjamin Franklin, "always pays the best dividends."

In time of political upheaval or nationalization of private property, or confiscation by future invaders, your financial wealth may suddenly disappear.

But a trained mind is always at a premium in any society, especially if it is coupled with "horse sense."

Besides, the pendulum of public opinion is swinging back to sanity!

So I urged Jeff to finish college, for employers now administer their own battery of employment tests, so top students are then easily spotted.

Send for my "Vocational Guidance" booklet, enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents and win good jobs! (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

More than 20 million people in this country have high blood pressure and it is called a silent disease because, like a dog's tick, it will creep up on you, strike, and you seldom know it's there. But it's lethal. The disease can drain away your energy, your organs, and your life.

That is why it is important to get an early diagnosis of high blood pressure says Dr. Alfred Lea Ferguson, assistant clinical professor at the East Carolina University School of Medicine and director of the Greenville Hemodialysis Center.

Dr. Ferguson will discuss

Public Lecture On High Blood Pressure Planned

"The Silent Disease-High Blood Pressure" when he lectures to the public Thursday, Jan. 10, at 7:30 p.m. in the ECU Allied Health Auditorium on the corner of Charles Street and 264 by-pass in Greenville.

Ferguson is the fourth in a series of public lectures sponsored by the East Carolina University School of Medicine and the Department of Pathology in an effort to give the public a better understanding of medicine.

Dr. Abdullah Fatteh, chairman of the Department of Pathology at ECU said that Dr.

Ferguson is an outstanding speaker and a notable expert on high blood pressure and the diseases of the kidney.

"He will outline the complications of this disease and render advice on the treatment of the condition," Dr. Fatteh said.

"He will also discuss the facts about artificial kidneys," he said.

A graduate of the University of Tennessee Medical School, Dr. Ferguson has practiced medicine in Greenville since 1969. Aside from his duties with the staff at ECU and the Greenville Hemodialysis Center, Dr. Ferguson is also in the private practice of Internal Medicine and Nephrology and is director of the Brooks Memorial Dialysis Unit at the Pitt County Memorial Hospital in Greenville.

Prior to Greenville, he was associated with the Duke University Medical Center in Durham.

South had a difficult rebid problem. He did not want to merely rebid three clubs, lest North place him with a weaker hand than he actually held. So, he elected to misrepresent his diamond holding somewhat by rebidding two no trump, which North raised to game. Fortunately, North had his partner well covered in the diamond department, and the final contract was sound enough.

West led the five of diamonds, and declarer saw a chance to win three tricks in the suit. He played low from dummy. Unfortunately, East produced the king and shifted to a heart. Declarer ducked, West won the queen and returned the suit, forcing out the ace.

Meanwhile, gold stocks were sharply higher as gold bullion prices climbed on foreign markets.

Dollar Gaining
LONDON (AP) — The dollar rose again today in European money markets, and gold hit a record price of $130.50 an ounce amid monetary uncertainties stemming from the oil crisis.

The gold price was the highest reached in trading since the record $130 last July 6. But despite active trading, the price fell back to $127 at the morning price "fixing" by five leading London bankers. This fixing price was also a record.

The commercial dollar opened in Paris at 5.03 francs, up from 4.97 Monday. It was the first time since devaluation last February that the dollar has hit the 5 franc mark, but it eased slightly in later trading.

The financial dollar rate was 5.18 francs, up from 5.16.

The dollar also reached new post-February highs in Frankfurt, Brussels and Milan.

Foreign exchange dealers attribute the recent upsurge in the dollar's strength to predictions that the United States will weather the energy crisis better than other nations because it is less dependent on Arab oil.

Sgt. F. M. Lemmond (promoted to First Sergeant and transferred to Rocky Mount) in Greenville, is a certified lecturer in the Masons and attends the Methodist Church.

Sgt. A. F. Fields, who served as First Sergeant of District 5 since April 1972, has been transferred to Manteo, according to Capt. Jenkins.

The Troop A commander said Sgt. Fields, who joined the Patrol in 1943, was transferred to the coastal post because of the need to have a non-commissioned officer in the outer banks region due to the "heavy influx of traffic" during the eight-months tourist season, and due to the threat storms pose to the beach and low-lying coastal area. Capt. Jenkins noted that Sgt. Fields requested the coastal assignment.

With the transfer of Greene, Lenoir and Jones Counties, Troop A is left with 21 North-eastern Counties. It's districts since the realignment, in addition to Districts 2 and 5 include: District 1; Hertford, Bertie and Northampton Counties; District 3, Gates, Gates, Chowan, Perquimans, Pasquotank, Camden and Currituck Counties; District 4, Beaufort, Washington, Terrell, Dare and Hyde Counties; and District 6, Craven, Carteret and Pamlico Counties.

Council Votes Purchase City Vehicles

By CARL L. TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
Greenville's City Council reconvened its adjourned monthly meeting last night to act on the final item of the agenda, the purchasing of new vehicles for the city. The Council commenced its regular meeting on Jan. 3.

The Council agreed on the purchase of 11 new automobiles, including two station wagons, and four new trucks.

Low-bidder for the automobiles was Bill Haddock's Chrysler-Plymouth-Dodge and for the trucks, Hasting's Ford.

The Council voted to retain old automobiles being replaced by 1974 models for the purpose of sale at public auction of some and the possible establishment of a motor pool at City Hall with others.

Each vehicle purchase was taken up individually and considerable discussion taken on the necessity of new vehicles.

Nine of the new automobiles to be purchased will replace older vehicles, while two will be additional equipment for the police department to be used in the juvenile service and detective divisions.

Two of the new trucks to be purchased are additional vehicles. One will be used by the animal control officer and another will provide for an additional street crew to work on curb and gutters.

Prices of the new automobiles were given with trade-in allowances included, but price adjustments will have to be made as none of the new autos will be purchased with trade-ins.

The bid price for the three additional police cars, of which only two were purchased was $8,774.89.

For the four marked replacement police cars, $12,760.

The full-size six passenger stationwagon was bid at $3,735.49 with trade-in.

The intermediate stationwagon will be purchased at $3,568.58. No trade-in was included in this purchase.

Also, three four door sedans will be purchased at $9,772.43 with no trade-ins included in the bid price.

Included in the new truck purchases will be a 1974 dump with a nine foot bed purchased at a cost of $5,162.45, which includes the trade-in of a 1959 one-and-one-half ton truck.

Also, a 1974 two-ton crew-cab replacement for the sanitation department at a price of $6,598.90. The purchase will include the trade-in of a 1964 two-ton truck with cab and chassis.

The body of the old truck will be transferred to the new vehicle, a practice started last year according to City Manager Bill Carstarphen, that has proved successful.

The new truck will have automatic transmission, an additional cost which has proved to be economical in the long run with reduces costs in gears and differentials for trucks used primarily in city traffic.

Two additional trucks will be purchased as non-replacements, one 1974 two-ton flat bed at a purchase price of $5,992.77 for an additional curb and gutter street crew, and a 1974 one-half ton pick-up with a long wheel base for the animal control officer at a price of $3,112.73.

All of the trucks will be purchased from Hasting's Ford and the autos from Bill Haddock's Chrysler-Plymouth Dodge.

The meeting was adjourned with no further business discussed.

Seeks Grass Roots Support For Policy

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Brian Faulkner, the Protestant chief of Northern Ireland's new provincial government, says he will campaign for grass-roots Protestant support of his policy of sharing power with the Roman Catholic minority.

Faulkner resigned Monday as head of the Unionist party, for 50 years Northern Ireland's ruling Protestant party, because the party council repudiated his policy last week by a vote of 457 to 374. But he continued at the head of the new Protestant-Catholic coalition government and said the vote against him did not reflect the true feeling in the province.

"During the next few weeks we will be rallying support," he said. "We will get new machinery to run our party."

"I believe my policies are the correct ones for Northern Ireland, and regardless of what has happened I will not change them."

Faulkner insisted he was not breaking away from the Unionist party. But some supporters were already talking about a "New Unionist party" or "Progressive Unionist party" of moderates that would break away from the hard-liners that now apparently have a majority on the party's ruling council.

The party vote last week specifically rejected Faulkner's agreement at a conference in London last month to join Northern Ireland and the Irish Republic in a Council of Ireland. The council will have almost no power, but to the hard-liners it represented the first step toward union with the South and Catholic domination.

Faulkner's leadership of the coalition government is dependent on his keeping the support of 18 other Unionists in the executive, and he met with them Monday before announcing his plans to fight on.

$62,611 Tax Bill Is Paid

Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company recently paid its 1973 municipal and valorem taxes here in the amount of $62,611.

This represents an increase over last year and one of the largest assessments in the city, and covers taxes on the company's property here, according to District Commercial Manager D. A. Collier.

A check of city and county records indicates that Carolina Telephone ranks among the top taxpayers in the 38-county area it serves.

County and municipal 1973 taxes paid by the company in its area totaled $3.9 million. Carolina Telephone's entire operating tax bill for 1973, including all state and federal taxes, is expected to come to more than $26.5 million.

Collier pointed out that this did not include an estimated $8 million in nine percent federal excise taxes which were billed to telephone users by the company. These taxes are remitted to the federal government upon collection.

Man Killed By Buffalo

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — A 2,000 pound water buffalo gored and trampled a game warden to death at Lion Country Safari as tourists watched in horror.

Malcolm A. Gallop, 60, was attacked Monday while taking tickets at the entrance to the enclosure in which the animals roam free, a spokesman for the tourist attraction said.

"He (the animal) just came after him and threw him down on the pavement and just kept picking him up and throwing him down again and over," said Mrs. Robert Morton of Phenix, Va., who was visiting the attraction with her family.

She said that all of Gallop's clothes were torn off.

Park employees had nicknamed the normally friendly beast Ralph. But a spokesman said the buffalo had been acting overly protective since a calf he had sired was born a week ago.

The spokesman said Gallop was an experienced worker with the park's large hoofed animals.

Park officials said Gallop had worked there for five years. They said it was the first fatality at the park since it opened six years ago.

No Move On ABC Hours

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina Alcoholic Beverage Control Board decided Monday it has no authority to regulate the hours of local ABC stores.

So, it took no action on a resolution from the Hertford County ABC Board urging that ABC stores throughout North Carolina be required to close at 7 p.m. as an energy conservation measure.

This came after ABC Administrator Wiley Ruth pointed to the state law which says local boards can regulate ABC store hours except that they cannot be open between 9 p.m. and 9 a.m.

Ruth also told the board that several local ABC boards had objected to the proposal, saying "it would work a hardship on their employees and would promote bootlegging."

Dr. L.C. Holshouser, ABC board chairman, suggested that the local ABC boards' state association consider the matter at their hearing in Pinehurst next month.

Arabs Claim Threat Hint

CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — The Cairo newspaper Al Akhbar accused Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger today of an indirect threat to use force to end the Arab oil squeeze.

The newspaper said such action would result in a complete halt in oil production.

Schlesinger said in a televised interview Monday night that the Arab nations risk increasing demand from the American public for the use of force against them if they carry their oil embargo too far. He added, however, that he doubted force would be used.

Al Akhbar said if Schlesinger was trying to terrorize the Arabs, he was sure to fail. It said military action against the oil fields would mean a catastrophe for the industrialized countries because the Arabs can stop all oil shipments to any country.

The balance of power between the superpowers and the increasing power of small countries will not allow a resort to the "diplomacy of the gun" that prevailed in the 19th century, the paper said.

Physical Exam Rule Is Lifted

RALEIGH (AP)—Insurance companies no longer can require elderly persons to take physical exams before selling their auto liability, uninsured motorist and medical payment insurance coverage, State Insurance Commissioner John Ingram said Monday.

"Some companies were discriminating against our elderly citizens by requiring them to take physical examinations at their own expense before they could buy auto insurance coverage," Ingram said.

The reinsurance plan which replaced the assigned risk last October eliminated the need for physical exams, Ingram said, because now a company can simply reinsure a policy it doesn't want.

Winston-Salem Bank Held Up

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—A branch of the Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. was robbed late this morning by a man who sped away in an automobile.

Details were not available immediately. No injuries were reported.

Boat Works Idle For 3 Weeks

NEWTON, N.C. (AP)—The Dixie Boat Works has laid off its employees for three weeks due to a shortage of polyester resin, a petroleum-based material used in boat hulls.

A spokesman for the company, which manufactures about 1,000 boats a year, said the material situation is expected to improve, but will probably be on a hand-to-mouth basis this spring.

Heavy London Airport Security Is Maintained

By JEFF BRADLEY
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Troops and police maintained a heavy special guard for the fourth day today along the airlines in and out of London's Heathrow Airport, on the lookout for Arab terrorists with stolen anti-aircraft mini-rockets.

Special precautions were taken for the arrival today of Gi-deon Rafael, Israel's new ambassador to Britain.

More than 400 heavily armed troops, armored vehicles and police continued to ring the airport.

Home Secretary Robert Carr in an interview confirmed that the unprecedented precautions were taken because of reports that Arab terrorists are believed planning to use stolen

SAM7 rockets against an airliner taking off or landing at London's big international airport.

The Soviet rocket is small enough to fit inside a suitcase when dismantled, is fired from a shoulder launcher and homes on the heat of a plane's jet exhaust.

But the chairman of the 4,500 British airline pilots said the show of force would not deter terrorist attacks. "If there is one more outrage there will be an instant 24-hour strike by every British pilot, and we hope other countries will follow suit."

Neither Carr nor other government officials would comment on a boast by the Provisional wing
