Med School Bill

RALEIGH (AP)—A bill to expand the East Carolina University medical school has been drafted in a secret committee session in the North Carolina legislature.

The bill, to be introduced when the legislature convenes next week, would expand the ECU curriculum from one year to two and double the size of each class from 20 students to 40.

It was prepared Thursday in a closed session by a joint legislative committee chaired by Rep. J.P. Huskins, D-Iredell and Sen. Billy Mills, D-Onslow.

Huskins said the committee members decided to close the meeting because they desired to discuss freely the bill's potential impact on various factions in the medical school controversy and come up with a measure that was not "abrasive."

He said the bill would follow the recommendations of a joint legislative study commission on medical manpower, also chaired by Huskins and Mills.

Huskins estimated that the ECU expansion plan outlined in the bill would cost the state $15 million in the first year.

Criticism Of 5 Consultants Irritates Dees

CHAPEL HILL (AP)—The chairman of the state Board of Governors expressed irritation today over criticism of a panel of consultants that studied North Carolina's medical care needs last year.

Chairman William Dees of Goldsboro spoke up after several members of the board called for him to defend publicly the governors' position in recommending restraints on the growth of the medical school at East Carolina University.

The governors rejected expansion of the ECU med school after the panel of consultants recommended last fall that area health centers should be developed in the state to solve medical care needs.

The board's action has been followed by frequent criticism from East Carolina supporters and some legislators who questioned the validity of the consultants' report.

"The thing that has irritated me most is the implication that the panel of consultants was not selected on a fair basis, that the panel was stacked against East Carolina University," Dees said.

Dees said that three of the five consultants who completed the study had been recommended originally by ECU supporters.

Earlier board member William Johnson of Lillington had called for Dees to make more public statements explaining the board's position. Johnson said the board's action had been "misconstrued, misinterpreted, and in some cases misunderstood, and in some cases misrepresented." Johnson said such a situation "imperils the integrity of this board; and jeopardizes the likelihood of developing the kind of medical education program and health care program that is needed."

Meanwhile, a joint legislative committee met in secrecy Thursday to draft a bill to expand the ECU medical school from a one-year to a two-year program and double the size of each class from 30 to 40 students. Plans call for the bill to be introduced when the General Assembly convenes next week.

Meet In Greenville

EMERGENCY SERVICE COUNCIL MEETS—The North Carolina Emergency Medical Service Council met yesterday on the campus of East Carolina University to discuss training qualifications for rescue squad workers and ambulance attendants, as well as a state-wide emergency radio network linking rescue squad vehicles and ambulances to hospital emergency rooms. Looking over proposals here yesterday are council member Jim Finison of Greensboro, director of Emergency Transportation Services for Guilford County and president of the International Rescue and First Aid Association, and James O. Page, director of the state EMS program. Page, a former battalion chief with the Los Angeles County Fire Department, and former operations chief of the Los Angeles County paramedic program, has been a script writer and technical advisor for the Jack Webb television series "Emergency." "We are only interested in one thing," Page said, "quality care and transportation for the sick and injured." (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Newly Born Sextuplets Given 'A Good Chance' To Survive By Doctors

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP)—A 25-year-old woman gave birth to sextuplets today after a full nine months of pregnancy, and doctors gave the three boys and three girls a good chance of survival.

The weight of the babies born to Susan Rosenkowitz at Mowbray Maternity Hospital ranged from 2½ pounds to 4½ pounds. They were delivered by caesarian section.

Mrs. Rosenkowitz's husband, Colin, is a local businessman, and they have two other children, a 6-year-old daughter and a 2-year-old son.

The woman had taken one of the hormone fertility drugs which have made births of four or more babies a frequent occurrence in recent years.

Mrs. Rosenkowitz had been confined to bed most of the time for the past two months and had been under the close observation and care of a team of specialists.

X rays indicated several weeks ago that she could expect six babies, and a muscle-relaxing drug called oriprinaline, developed in South Africa, was given her to stave off premature delivery so that the babies could continue to develop normally.

The X rays showed six well-formed babies, lying "like sardines," one source said, with 12 perfectly formed arms and legs clearly visible.

The first baby, a boy, was born at 8:02 a.m., followed half a minute later by a girl. The other four were delivered at half-minute intervals—a boy, a girl, a boy and finally a girl.

The hospital introduced tight security measures to protect Mrs. Rosenkowitz from intruders. For the past few weeks she has been on the top floor of the building in a room with one-way windows.

Mrs. Rosenkowitz regained consciousness soon after the operation and was reported in satisfactory condition.

Hospital authorities said her husband Colin waited outside the operating room while the babies were delivered. Afterwards he was said to be "relieved."

Doctors said all the babies were well formed though one was considerably smaller than the others.

Oil Problem Seen Global

By STAN BENJAMIN Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Nixon administration has proposed unprecedented diplomatic cooperation to solve an unprecedented global energy problem and says the world's prosperity and stability is at stake.

President Nixon in a letter to oil-producing nations, released Thursday, said the world stands at a crossroads between cooperation and "increasing political and economic conflict."

In another letter, inviting the industrial, oil-consuming nations to a meeting Feb. 11 in Washington, Nixon said this would be "a first and essential step toward the establishment of a new arrangement for international energy and related economic matters."

Nixon said a further meeting between both consumer and producer nations would be held within 90 days after the Feb. 11 meeting.

Elaborating on the plans in a news conference, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said still another meeting would be planned in between, bringing together both the industrialized and the developing oil-consuming nations.

The planned series of international conferences, Kissinger said, is unprecedented in diplomacy—but so is the worldwide energy problem.

Kissinger said the Arab oil nations' cutoff of oil shipments to the United States and the Netherlands, to bring indirect pressure on Israel, was "becoming increasingly inappropriate," but was not the basic cause of the world's energy problem.

That was caused, he said, by two factors—excessive energy demand and drastically increased oil prices recently imposed by a number of foreign producers.

The price increases, he said, would hit especially hard at underdeveloped nations using oil as they try to build up their economies.

All of the foreign aid given to those countries, Kissinger said, was cancelled "in one afternoon's decision by the price increase that has been imposed on these countries."

He said the new oil bill could reach $30 billion and the developing nations could not pay it.

Kissinger said the United States could go it alone, developing its own energy resources and making separate deals with oil-producing nations. But competition for oil through such bilateral agreements would damage the economies of other countries and, eventually, the entire world economy, he said.

He said the United States rejected that approach and urged international cooperation.

'Go' For Skylab 3

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP)—Skylab 3's astronauts today began their ninth week in orbit, approaching a space endurance record.

They got a green light to become history's longest space travelers when officials on Thursday said they were "go" for at least seven more days.

At 9:10 p.m. EDT Monday, Gerald P. Carr, William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson will pass the mark of 59 days, 11 hours and 9 minutes, set last September by the Skylab 2 crew.

The officials see no reason why the astronauts can't complete the full 84-day mission, but for the last four weeks they want to make go-ahead decisions a week at a time.

Jobless Count Rising

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Labor Department today blamed the energy crisis for the loss of about 100,000 jobs last month. Some employers laid off workers in anticipation of fuel shortages.

In a supplement to its monthly employment report, the department said "employment reduction occurred in several specific industries which appear to be due to actual or anticipated shortages of gasoline."

Jobs in retail trade rose less than expected in December, the government said, with the seasonally adjusted decline of a 80,000 concentrated among automotive dealerships and service stations.

A strike by 30,000 grocery workers in California also accounted for the decline.

Employment in the service industry which usually rises in December also failed to materialize, primarily due to job layoffs in hotels, motels and entertainment—all hard-hit by the fuel shortage which has curtailed travel.

The department reported last week that unemployment in December rose from 4.7 to 4.9 per cent of the work force, but because of problems in gathering complete statistics said it was unable to give a complete report or pinpoint specific reasons for the increase.

Today's report included a year-end review of the nation's employment situation, which showed a number of persons holding jobs increased by 2.7 million over the year while the overall jobless rate dropped steadily from a first quarter 1972 high of 5.8 per cent to 4.7 per cent in the fourth quarter of 1973 before starting its upward climb in November.

AFTER FEB. 1 BURLINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Rep. Wilmer Mizell, R-N.C., says he will decide after Feb. 1 whether he will run for the Senate seat of retiring Democrat Sam Ervin Jr.

Steve Koch Recipient Of JC Teacher Award

Steve Koch, chorus director for J. H. Rose High School, was honored Thursday night as the recipient of the Jaycees' annual Outstanding Young Educator Award.

Presenting the award was James McBrayer of Williamson, Albemarle District director for Virginia Electric Power Co. The OYE Award, presented to a young educator each year in recognition of outstanding accomplishments in the field of education, is co-sponsored by Vepco, Carolina Power & Light Co., and Duke Power Co. in conjunction with the Jaycees.

As recipient of the 1973-74 Jaycee award, the young educator received the attractive OYE plaque and also qualified to compete in state, and possibly national, OYE competition. Koch is eligible to attend the state OYE banquet Feb. 9 in Raleigh.

In nominating Koch for the award, Rose principal Robert Allgood pointed out that, "Steve was the overwhelming choice of the Rose High faculty. He is enthusiastic about teaching, music and living and he is able to spark this enthusiasm in young people and also in his co-workers. Allgood noted that last spring, Koch coordinated and directed the successful production of "Oklahoma" which played for three nights to a full house in the Rose gymnasium. In December, he was also in charge of the music for the popular Christmas Fantasy at Rose High.

"He is constantly searching for new ways to bring out the best in all with whom he comes in contact. He is an inspired and inspiring outstanding young educator," Allgood noted.

Koch, 30, graduated from Manchester High School in Richmond in 1962 and earned his B. A. degree in Voice from the University of Richmond in 1967. He received his Master's degree in Voice from East Carolina University in 1972.

From 1967 until 1970, the educator served as choral director at Henrico High School in Richmond and was a Teaching Fellow at ECU from 1970-1972. He joined the Rose faculty in 1972.

While completing undergraduate requirements in college, Koch made the Dean's List at Indiana University and at the University of Richmond. He was a member of Pi Kappa Lambda, an honorary music fraternity at ECU.

Koch worked as a regular cast member with the ECU Summer Theatre during two recent summers. In 1968 and 1969, he attended the Virginia State Music Camp and a two-week Junior-High Workshop at ECU in 1972. The educator also attended a Choral Associates Workshop here in 1972.

At Rose High School, in addition to his chorus duties with students in grades ten through 12, he has established a Madrigal Group composed of outstanding music students who seek extra work and music involvement. Koch plans a musical production each spring to allow students exposure to the world of the theatre arts.

Serving as Jaycee OYE chairman for this year's award was Watt Moore. Koch was selected by a panel of local judges that included Dr. Thomas Haigwood, Dean of the School of Technology at ECU; Dr. Frank Saunders, Professor of Mathematics at ECU; and Dr. James Smith, Professor of Philosophy at the university.

Nominees for the award were required to be a member of the Greenville schools system and be between the ages of 21 and 35.

Jones Will Seek A Sixth Term

FARMVILLE—Congressman Walter Jones said here Thursday afternoon that he plans to be a candidate for a sixth term as First District Representative.

The congressman, who was first elected to the 89th Congress in a special election in 1966, said that he has not paid his filing fee but plans to do so prior to the Feb. 25 deadline for the Democratic primary.

Jones is a member of the House Agriculture Committee and the Merchant Marines and Fisheries Committee. He is chairman of the Committee on Oilseeds and Rice.

Mass Transit Study Is Raised By Lentz

HIGH POINT, N. C. (AP)—Transportation Secretary Bruce Lentz says he is ready to appoint someone to study mass transit for North Carolina.

He also said that he has appointed a fulltime person to investigate the possibility of building bicycle trails, hopefully with federal funding.

And Lentz told the High

Point Chamber of Commerce and a civic club in speeches Thursday that the state's seven-year highway construction program may be delayed because of the energy crisis.

Revenue from gasoline taxes, the chief source of highway construction funds, declined $270,000 in November, he said.

The secretary was in High Point for a meeting of the Transportation Board, one of several outside Raleigh each year.

Lentz said there would be no way to determine what would happen to highway construction plans until spring or early summer. But "certainly it is going to have a marked, if not drastic, effect on the highway program," he said of declining taxes. Lentz said conservation measures within the Transportation Department had resulted in a saving of 13 per cent in gasoline and 7 per cent in diesel fuel.

At the Transportation Board meeting, High Point officials requested an additional $3.2 million for projects in the seven-year construction program. The city is now allocated $14 million in state funds for road construction.

The board referred the request to its planning committee.

The board also authorized the purchase of a right of way for a proposed relocation of Interstate 85 between U.S. 311 and Groomtown Road near Greensboro. The board expects to pay $250,000 for the land.

Propane Tank Explosion Rips 2 Apartments

By JAMES WILSON Associated Press Writer

WEST ST. PAUL, Minn. (AP)

A propane storage tank exploded in the middle of a large apartment complex early today, heavily damaging two apartment buildings. Authorities said at least four persons were killed and nine injured.

Officials said the explosion occurred as firemen arrived on the scene to fight a fire which had broken out on a tanker truck loading the storage tank.

Most apartment residents had been evacuated before the explosion but authorities expressed concern that some may have been trapped in the building by the explosion.

The known dead included three firemen and a woman resident of one of the buildings.

Of the injured, four were admitted to hospitals, at least one of them in critical condition. Five others were treated and released.

The explosion, which occurred about 12:30 a.m., sent a huge fireball into the air that could be seen in downtown St. Paul, some four miles away.

The storage tank held 10,000 gallons and the tanker truck had a capacity of 16,000 gallons, said Russell Scheibel, director of public safety.

With temperatures at 6 degrees below zero, flames swept the 66-unit Bellows Court apartment building and spread to the 33-unit Charlton Arms building, both three-story structures. Only a shell of the Bellows

Court building was left intact, witnesses said.

An estimated 750 families were evacuated from 15 apartment buildings in a four-block area as a precautionary measure.

Fire Chief Don Hove reported about 6 a.m. that the fire had been brought under control and the danger of another explosion had apparently passed.

Jerry Bertsch, who lived in an apartment near the explosion scene, said, "The firemen were just about to spray the fire when the tank blew up. A fireball went at least 150 feet into the air."

Charles Deutsch said he and his wife, Evelyn, were awakened by the Bellows Court building manager and his wife running up and down the hallways to sound the alarm.

The Reflector's Price Increasing

A price increase for The Daily Reflector will take effect Feb. 1.

The monthly subscription price will go from $2.25 to $2.50.

A portion of the increases will be allocated to the newspaper carriers.

The increase has become necessary due to the rapidly rising cost of newsprint. In the case of rural motor route carriers, the rising cost of gasoline was also a factor.

Will Women Lose Gains If Unemployment Soars?

By BETTY YARMON
NEW YORK (WNS)—If unemployment increases as a result of the energy shortage and the economic downturn that may be coming in its wake, will some of the gains that women have made be lost?

Specifically, if companies are forced to cut staff, will they be more inclined to let women go than men—given the fact that in the particular cases under consideration, the men and women are performing equally?

These are questions that are being talked about for the first time—perhaps not in print yet, but over dinner tables and in the offices and factories.

While it's too soon to predict any definitive answers, particularly since firings of any kind up to now have been restricted to a very few industries such as airlines and autos and plastics, it's none too soon for America to start thinking what its answers will be should a job crunch come.

First Casualties
In times gone by, women workers often were the first casualties of economic turn-down when it hit the job market. In part that was because we operated under the mythology that men needed jobs and women didn't. When employment was high, fine, women could enter the job market, for it was assumed that they were not taking jobs from men who needed them.

That was changed when unemployment came, as it did during the Depression of the 1930s. But World War II brought women by the thousands into the offices and factories.

Today, 33,000,000 women are at work, and many millions of them need their jobs every bit as much as the men. These are working women who are their own sole support, either single women, or widows and divorcees, often with children. Many others are married to working men, but there is no more logical reason to expect them to stop work and be satisfied with less money than it would be to try to convince their husbands to stop work.

Some indication as to what might be expected can be found in the new book, "Everything A Woman Needs to Know to Get Paid What She's Worth," by Caroline Bird. This book presents, in simple question-and-answer form, not only the tactics and approaches that hundreds of women have used to deal with specific job situations where they were given runarounds or putdowns that threatened to thwart their progress or keep their salaries down.

It also tells how to find employers who believe in promoting women, how to find a field open to women, when to quit, whether you can avoid discrimination by going into business for yourself, whether you should sue or form a caucus or join a union.

Who's Worse Off?
Miss Bird addresses herself to this question: "Do women suffer more than men in a recession, when jobs are tight?"

Not any more than they always do," is her initial response, citing experience from the recession of 1971-72, when she maintains that policies for upgrading women seemed to have slowed down because of budget cuts and freezes on hiring. She adds that unemployment rates have traditionally been high for women because they have in part been restricted to jobs without tenure and because their jobs have been concentrated at the bottom of the ladder, where turnover is high.

But she raises some unexpected complications—for example, that in past recessions, women often would work for less money, and therefore some employers would tend to choose them over men. In hard times, she continues, women who are overqualified become an irresistible employment bargain. In rejuggling work assignments, budget cutters often that a woman with a lower title, such as assistant or clerk, can do work that in flush times would go to a promotable junior executive when the company contemplated expansion.

Piggy Bank Idea Didn't Work For Swearing Husband

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: "Piggy Bank Peggy" wrote to you saying she cured her husband of using objectionable language by getting a piggy bank and making him put a quarter in it every time he used a swear word, and a dollar every time he used a really dirty word.

Seeing as how I had the same problem with my husband, I tried it. It didn't work. He got mad, used a swear word, and asked me for 75 cents change, saying he had a "dollar" word in mind but used a 25-cent word instead.

LITTLE OLD CHANGE-MAKER

DEAR ABBY: I am a 26-year-old single black man. I played pro football for a few years, have a degree in business management and a good job.

I am 6 foot 5 inches, weigh 240 pounds, and have been told I'm handsome. I neither smoke nor drink, am in excellent health, and work out in the gym three times a week. I'm a good dancer, own a late model car, and have no skeletons in my closet. I know many young ladies, but some of the married ones are too friendly, and a relationship with a married lady is not my thing, so that's out. All the single chicks I know have boy friends, and I am not the one to break up a romance, so that's out.

I'm clean, well-dressed, polite, and use the mouthwash people hate, but I can't seem to get a girl. Why?

WANTS COMPANIONSHIP

DEAR WANTS: You must be kidding! Pass the word to your friends, [married or single] that you are interested in meeting a nice chick—object companionship, and you'll need the Pittsburgh Steelers to run interference for you.

DEAR ABBY: Is it possible for a man to love two women at the same time?

NETTIE

DEAR NETTIE: Yes, but it would be very tiring.

CONFIDENTIAL TO ANYONE FOR WHOM IT IS NOT YET TOO LATE: Don't make the mistake so many parents [who can afford it] make—giving their children expensive gifts instead of time and thoughtful guidance. The only real security children will ever have in this life will come from whatever ability they develop to get along with each other and to make their own way, not from material things.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Where Four Out Of Ten Babies Never Reach The Age Of One

By WILLIAM STEIF
SAN'A, YEMEN ARAB
REPUBLIC (WNS)—Forty per cent of the babies born in this impoverished country along the Red Sea die before their first birthday.

That's the conservative estimate of Dr. Mumtaz Hussain, a Pakistani doctor the World Health Organization sent here three years ago to set up the only school for medical aides in this country of six million population.

"There are 105 doctors in this country," he said, "and 80 per cent are foreign." He said the "four big killers" here are malnutrition, stomach and intestinal disease, tuberculosis and internal parasites. Sometimes they go together.

"We've also had cholera with unpleasant regularity in September of the last three years," he said, "right after the rainy season when flies are abundant." Malaria is prevalent along the low-lying coast.

Recruiting girls to train as nurses in a problem, he said, because fully trained nurses are paid only $13 to $16 a month by the government. A secretary is paid three to four times that. Another problem is low educational levels. Nurse trainees are 12 to 14 years old and have finished only the fifth or sixth grade.

Bribes
Health inspectors to enforce sanitation laws are paid about $25 a month and take bribes to make enough to live on. That's why many of the five- and six-story houses in the capital here still have open sewers running down the outside despite a government order two years ago that sewage must be piped down from upper floors.

The government says the country has 33 hospitals. The best probably is the American hospital in the town of Jibla. A few private, government and international troops are trying to help the Yemenis. The Swedes, for example, have set up a clinic at Taiz. There's a Chinese hospital at IBB and an English "Save the Children" clinic at Raudah near here.

Rich Arab countries have contributed, too, but they don't really know what to do. This is one of Dr. Hussain's pet peeves.

"Kuwait built a 250-bed hospital here," he said. "It has been vacant since 1969. It even has equipment in it. Two years ago the Swedish government wanted to staff it. The Kuwaitis said no; they were afraid the Kuwaiti hospital would become known as the Swedish hospital."

Decaying
"There are plenty of buildings lying idle and decaying, but what the country needs is money for training people."

The reality of the problem hits home on a visit to the Raudah Clinic, a string of small, stark rooms in a mud building with whitewashed walls. Veiled mothers patiently squat with their young, waiting to be called.

Dr. Salaam Shemmakh, 29, Cairo-trained, is seeing patients. Gently he removes a bandage from a small boy. The mother, swathed in veils, sits next to the child and grasps his hand as Dr. Shemmakh inspects a large burned area from thighs to navel. The boy was burned months ago. The healing goes poorly.

"We get 60 to 70 children a day," he said. "We don't have as many still-born babies as those who die from incorrect labor. Mothers who treat themselves or abort themselves because of hard work."

The year-old clinic has a class for pregnant women, another to teach mothers how to prepare food. The clinic sends teams into the countryside. It runs a vaccination program which this year reached 36,000 children. It treats three settlements of beggars in the capital where begging is a recognized business.

At one time the clinic had as many as 20 children hospitalized for rehydration because their diarrhea was so bad they have to have sterile water injected into their veins to keep them alive.

Ford Says White House Is Willing To Compromise

TIGHT SECURITY—A West German policeman mans a heavy machinegun aboard an armored personnel carrier at Zuerich-Kloten airfield, West Germany, like other European nations, has beefed up security at most airports in the wake of terrorist attacks. (AP Wirephoto)

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford says the White House may be willing to release some of the 500 tapes and documents demanded by the Senate Watergate Committee.

In an interview, he said he received support for his proposal for compromise efforts in a telephone conversation with White House Chief of Staff Alexander M. Haig Jr.

"They're willing to sit down and negotiate, as I understand it," Ford said. He said the White House has given its support to the compromise proposal he made last weekend.

Committee Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., has said he is willing to compromise on the subpoenaed tapes and documents.

Ford said he thinks the White House is willing to "release tapes and other material on a selected basis where the information falls within the jurisdiction of that committee."

On other subjects in the 40-minute interview, Ford said:

—He called for early action on measures to curb windfall profits by energy-related industries, set up an energy research program and establish a permanent energy agency.

—He believes "there are some pluses that the President will achieve, including a Middle East breakthrough, that will make him by September a very helpful campaigner" for Republican.

publicans. —He has made no change in his announced intention not to be a 1976 presidential candidate but, when asked about the impact of continued high ratings in polls, said "We'll analyze the situation as we go along."

—He plans to follow President Nixon's example and take a commercial flight on a speaking trip to Columbus, Ohio, and Florida later this month.

—His role in supervising Nixon administration domestic activities may be defined more clearly after a meeting next week with outgoing White House aide Melvin R. Laird and top officials on the President's Domestic Council.

Ford's statement of White House willingness to negotiate with the Senate Watergate Committee on release of some of the tapes and documents it subpoenaed last month went beyond statements from presidential aides with Nixon in California.

After Ford suggested Sunday that a compromise was possible if there was "some refinement" of the committee's demand, White House aides first indicated the vice president was speaking for himself.

Later, however, deputy press Secretary Gerald L. Warren indicated that compromise was possible if the committee scaled down its demands, though some presidential aides have continued to take a hard line against any possibility of compromise. Thursday night Warren was questioned about Ford's statement in the interview. He said, "We're in a position where we're not going to discuss hypothetical situations."

Warren explained that all the White House has before it now is the committee's subpoena.

In discussing the energy situation, Ford said he thinks it may be better for Congress to start over rather than try to rescue the energy bill that was stalemated when Congress adjourned last month.

He said he thinks "the availability of supply (of gasoline) is the only thing that's going to satisfy people" and expressed the hope an end to the Middle East oil embargo will result in a cutback of some of the recent price increases.

Ford said he doesn't think there is any single 1976 Republican frontrunner. He said that, as of now, former Govs.

Nelson A. Rockefeller and John Connally, and Gov. Ronald Reagan, are the frontrunners.

In repeating his earlier statements that he doesn't intend to run in 1976, Ford said "I think I can do a better job as vice president if I'm not a candidate. I'm not suspect. My views and efforts aren't aimed at getting delegates."

Though he said he would analyze the situation as time passes, he noted that "there's been no change in almost three months now. I still have no intention of being a candidate."

He conceded, however, that polls showing him a presidential frontrunner are "very nice to read."

Middleman Cost Said Basis For Price Hikes

By DON KENDALL
AP Farm Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The government says rising middleman costs, not record farm prices for wheat, have accounted for most bread price increases since huge grain sales were made to the Soviet Union 18 months ago.

An analysis of bread costs, compiled by Agriculture Department economists, shows that a one-pound loaf sold in supermarkets in July 1972 for an average of 24.5 cents. Last November, the same size loaf cost 31.5 cents, the department said. The increase of seven cents included a boost of 2.7 cents in the cost of all farm ingredients used. Of that, wheat flour, the main item, accounted for 2.2 cents.

But other markups, including margins for flour millers and bakers, added about 4.3 cents per loaf to the retail cost during the 18-month span, according to a study by the department's Economic Research Service.

The figures, however, did not indicate what may happen to bread prices in the next few months. Neither do they reflect sharp increases in wheat prices since last November.

Bakers say huge wheat exports are siphoning off reserves to such an extent that bread prices may soar, perhaps to $1 per 24-ounce loaf if shipments are not curbed until the new harvest is ready.

At that rate a 16-ounce loaf, used by the economists as the basic indicator, would cost about 65 cents in retail stores. That would be more than double the price of bread reported for last November.

Department officials, who are opposed to mandatory export control in any form, say there is enough wheat for flour through next June. They say there is no chance of bread prices going up as much as bakers say is possible.

The figures by the department, as yet unpublished, show the farm value of wheat in a one-pound loaf of bread actually declined from 5.6 cents last September, when wheat prices were at a near record, to 4.8 cents in November.

Meantime, according to the statistics, the retail price rose two cents per loaf. Other farm ingredients, such as shortening and milk products, added slightly to the rise but middle-

'Junior' Is Acquitted

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Junior Samples, star of the TV's "Hee Haw" show, has been acquitted of battery charges brought by a woman who claimed she was hit while trying to introduce a friend to Samples.

Samples told Criminal Court Judge Woodrow Tucker that he did not slap or hit Joyce Flanagan Almond in the incident at an American Legion Club last Feb. 25.

"I'm a lover, not a fighter," the 285-pound Samples told the judge.

Samples testified Mrs. Almond had been trying to get him to dance with her and had been interrupting him to introduce friends.

He said she followed him outside.

"She came up behind me and pulled my necktie," Samples said. "I told her, 'Quit,' but I'm not saying I didn't touch her."

Mrs. Almond testified that Samples struck her with his fist.

"My ear was risen up, and I had a real severe bruise on my jaw," Mrs. Almond said. "I couldn't eat or even open my mouth."

In ruling in Samples' favor, Judge Tucker told Mrs. Almond she should not have followed Samples out of the dance.

Push Investigation Of Two Gun Deaths

GASTON, N. C. (AP)—Investigation continued today in an exchange of gunfire that left a Gaston grocer and an intruder in his home dead and a second accused intruder in jail on a murder charge.

Northampton County Sheriff Frank Outland said the shooting occurred late Wednesday night as the grocer, Wilbur Garner, 54, and his wife returned to their rural home near the Virginia line.

Outland said Garner died of a .410 gauge shotgun wound, while Dempsey Weaver Jr., 22, of Gaston, was killed by bullets from Garner's .38 caliber special pistol.

The sheriff said Weaver and a companion had waited in the house for the couple to return after the night's work. Outland said the companion, Milton High, 27, also of Gaston, fired a .22 bullet that grazed Mrs. Garner's head, then he fled from the house with an undetermined amount of money from the grocer's store in Gaston.

The sheriff said High was arrested Thursday morning in Gaston. He was jailed at Jackson, the county seat, under charges of murder, armed robbery and breaking and entering.

Outland said when the Garners returned home between 11 and 11:30 p.m. Wednesday, they were warned that something was amiss by the excitement of their several cats.

Morgan Is 'The Man To Beat'

All eyes are now on Atty. Gen Robert Morgan as the prime candidate for the U.S. Senate seat now held by Sen. Ervin.

Sen. Ervin recently announced that he would not be a candidate for re-election because of his age. Henry Hall Wilson who recently returned to the state from Chicago has been a candidate and campaigning for some time. There are also others among the Democrats who are considered possible candidates.

The most talked about man among the Democrats, however, is Atty. Gen. Morgan—and his announcement is expected until Jan. 21.

In a talk at Roanoke Rapids this week Morgan said that money is a prime consideration in making a decision on the race.

He said he knew that the race would be expensive. "I don't have that kind of money," he told a reporter.

The thinking among political observers all over the state is that Morgan would be the man to beat for the Democratic nomination and that he will be in the race. It should be remembered, though, that he was considered a prime prospect for the gubernatorial race in 1972. In a surprise announcement he told a press conference that he would not seek the office of governor.

Atty. Gen Morgan enjoys tremendous prestige for his work in the Legislature, and then in the consumer's interests as attorney general. His decision will have to come soon on the Senate race since the campaigning won't be long in getting underway in earnest. It is obvious though, that financing is going to play a large part in the decision.

Hopefully, Committee Can Resolve Confusion

Rep. Gerald Arnold says some form of no-fault insurance is likely to pass in the 1974 General Assembly.

Rep. Arnold made the prediction in a talk to the Pitt County Bar Association. But, he said he was not sure the state is ready for no-fault. "Few people understand it and there have been so many misrepresentations."

Hopefully Rep. Arnold's committee can come up with a bill for Legislative consideration that will clear up some of the confusion surrounding no fault and one which will be acceptable to the Legislature and the public.

Another Dirty Trick Emerges

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON—Employing shade tactics reminiscent of Watergate dirty tricks, sponsors of a forthcoming national newspaper advertisement on behalf of beleaguered President Nixon are erroneously telling prestigious Democrats that Dean Rusk and Lady Bird Johnson have agreed to sign the ad.

The ad itself is the brain child of the White House and has been entrusted to longtime Nixon intimate Donald M. Kendall, Pepsi-Cola chief executive and beneficiary of multiple Nixon administration blessings the past five years. Kendall's role: to make the strongest possible defense of Mr. Nixon without scaring off high-level Democratic signers.

Thus, the first version of the ad appeals in fulsome terms to the patriotic necessity of "preserving this nation" as distinct from preserving President Nixon. That is the obvious come-on for Democrats who would never sign an outright appeal to support a man most of them loathe.

One former Johnson cabinet member was specifically told on behalf of Kendall that President Johnson's widow and former Secretary of State Rusk both had agreed to sign. That claim had the desired result of putting the former Cabinet member under intense pressure to sign himself, but he nevertheless refused.

When we called Prof. Dean Rusk at the University of Georgia law school, he told us he had no intention of signing the ad. His version of the advertisement, he said, had arrived under conditions of extreme secrecy several weeks ago and not from Kendall himself.

Those words expose the ad's underlying theme: convert Mr. Nixon's pervasive and personal crisis into a carbon copy of Mr. Johnson's narrow-based

Beneath It All, Kids' Troubles

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—A lot of governmental reports, of late, have pointed a finger of guilt at North Carolina's juvenile training schools.

Couched in bureaucratic jargon, for the most part, the reports have stirred little public reaction.

What is beneath all those sterile words? Trouble, for any kid who finds himself locked away in one of those schools. And best estimates are that about half of the more than 1,000 juveniles in institutions are there for truancy, or behavioral problems at home—not because they're criminals.

Bear that in mind as we translate some of that legal language into human terms. The reports on actual conditions come from a handful of experts on the system—some of them no longer employed, some still working at training schools. The kids themselves can tell a more graphic story, but there are many who won't take a kid's word for things. But the employees themselves provided this information. None will be identified.

A New Tone
To set the tone, first, these words from Dr. John R. Larkins, commissioner of youth development, who is leading what he terms an all-out effort to check delinquency, help children in trouble and set totally new views of both the problems and their solutions.

"This system is a tragic failure that severely hurts...children each year, wastes millions of tax dollars, and taxes the energies of many concerned, dedicated professionals and other," Dr. Larkins said.

Here, then, a summary of official statements, followed by voluntary comments from the inside:

"The use of segregated cells for purposes of punishment should be minimized," reported the study of the N. C. Bar Association titled As The Twig Is Bent.

In response, on Dec. 9, 1972, a report submitted to the governor stated: segregation cells are used "only when a youngster is completely out of control."

"I don't remember what the temperature was but it was cold, very cold. And I went up there and (name withheld) was in the end cell. I never will forget that, and we had another little boy named (name withheld). He didn't have on any top at all. They had taken away all of his clothing...and he was just shivering and the other boys called me to the cell and asked me if I would do a favor and get him something to cover up with."

"No cover, nothing. I saw that with my own eyes. Sleeping on the bare, cold floor," a female employee said.

What were the kids in segregation for? Anything the director decided to put them there for, often for no good reason at all, several employees said.

How about exercise, and how long did the kids stay in there?

Long Lockup
"There were many who stayed up to 2½ months in solitary confinement. They were taken out every seven days, but put right back. Policy says the boy has to come out every seven days. They would take them out...let them walk around in the hall between the two cells, and then they would put them back," an employee said.

A former employee, a man, who was in charge of solitary confinement at one school: "Kids were complaining it was cold and the kids were sleeping on a bare floor."

"I never seen them taken outside for any exercise at all," another staffer said.

Back to the Bar Association report: "The Committee recommends that a program be instituted to provide adequate medical care and clinical treatment for juveniles in training schools."

Here is a staff member description of the infirmary at one school: "I have gone down there and found no one there...it was completely open. Some of the boys...have been going around with some syringes and some pills...they got the pills out of the nurse's room."

Where was the medical staff while the infirmary was standing untended? Playing cards in a daily card game with other staff members, employees report.

Here is a report to a legislative study committee from the General Assembly fiscal research division: "We have serious questions about whether a significant number of students in...institutions really should be there."

What About Yours?
How would you feel if your child had been in this system? That was the question.

"I will just have to face facts. I would have done everything within my power to have gotten them out," one man said.

"If we can't clean this place up, let's close it," a woman answered.

"I do have two boys and I'd feel real bad for at least two reasons or more...what he might be subjected to in terms of homosexual type activities," another answered.

"I would take all measures possible to prevent it," a man said.

In sum, these people feel there has been a lot going on that shouldn't have; and that the bureaucracy had developed a system of protecting itself at the expense of the kids. They hope a season of change is at hand.

New Image For Ripoff

WASHINGTON — The Ripoff Oil Co. was worried. A meeting of the executive committee was called at a Duck Shoot Club in South Carolina to discuss ways and means of combating the bad publicity petroleum companies were getting over the energy crisis.

Harlan Mudbank, president of Ripoff, presented the problem.

"Gentlemen, I am sorry to say that the oil companies have a very bad image because of the fuel shortage that unfortunately has gripped the country in the last six months. The purpose of this meeting is to find a way to tell our story to the American people. Are there any suggestions?"

Wilton Willbank, the advertising vice president, said,

"Why don't we launch a national advertising campaign to show that in spite of the crisis, Ripoff is keeping its prices down?"

"Excellent," said Mudbank, "but where do we get the money to pay for the campaign?"

Willbank replied, "By raising the price of our gasoline a penny a gallon."

Mudbank smiled. "Good thinking. If there are no objections the proposal is accepted. Are there any other ideas?"

Marvin Snowbank, vice president in charge of public affairs, said, "It seems to me the key to a good image is Congress. We must persuade our lawmakers that we are doing the best we can to provide the necessary fuel at reasonable cost to the consumer."

"How do we do this?" Snowbank opened his folder. "By contributing to the political campaigns of everyone running for office in 1974."

"But," said Mudbank, "that would cost us a fortune."

Snowbank read from a paper. "Our Washington lobbyists believe we can do it by adding only two cents to what we are now charging for a gallon of gas."

"It doesn't seem to be out of line," the comptroller said. "It cost us a cent a gallon just to elect Nixon. For two cents a gallon we're getting an

40 Years Ago Today

By SUSAN PRICE
January 11, 1934

A robbery was frustrated in Aiden early today by the sounding of a fire alarm. When two policemen saw several of the would-be robbers enter the Home District Company this morning, they sounded a fire alarm since they were outnumbered.

The robbers, hearing the alarm, fled, returning the fire of the police as they sped out of town in a large automobile. A check of the building showed that the door of a safe had been blown open but a compartment containing about $20 had not been reached.

A community building for Aiden is one of the latest projects approved by the Civil Works Administration, it was announced today by K. T. Futrell, County Administrator.

The building will cost $8,000 and construction will begin as soon as supplies are ready. Futrell also announced two other projects, one calling for mosquito control on Conetoe Creek at a cost of $4,000 and the painting of the schools in Greenville, involving an expenditure of about $5,600.

A committee has been sent to Raleigh to ask the Civil Works Administration for three dredges to be used in mosquito control in Swift and Crindle Creeks. The dredging of the streams is expected to take a year for completion.

Other Editors Say A Tide Of Times

(Winston-Salem Journal)

The holiday greenery is all gone now, and once again the house seems bleak, empty, cold and strange. There is, to put it simply, a feeling that something has gone wrong somehow. Like the ancients we feel a sudden overpowering need for a ritual lighting of fires—fires to banish witches, rejuvenate the sun and drive out the alien and implacable spirit of winter rain.

The novelist William Sansom has described this feeling as basic to the human experience, "a wholly practical reason for Christmas and for all the festivals of light which preceded Christianity. A lighting of fires, a prayer and a feast have throughout man's existence relieved the tedium of the long dark months."

Perhaps if our society had not suddenly been threatened with a loss of oil, natural gas and the other concomitants of the good life we would have been less alert to this buried yet not-quite-forgotten need, this impulse which the psychologist Jung would have described as an "archetype" of our racial memory.

Yet the shortage is there and the need is real. And seldom has it seemed more real than during these first weeks of January. The rain and mist and drizzle have crept into everything. On basement walls the fungus sprouts like old men's beards. Even the mornings have an unshaven look. The impenetrable fog glowers in at us like an uneasy beast, transforming every gentle garden spot into a ghoulish Transylvanian waste. This, in short, is a time for the things that are wholly tangible and reassuring, no time to dwell overlong on life's alien philosophies and inexplicable mysteries.

And indeed there are times even in January when we can find such reassurance. Already the sun is racing toward the northern latitudes, and we are past the darkest days if not the coldest. There are occasions even now when nature again shows her sunshine disposition, banishing these vampire mists, banishing all gloom and foreboding, brightening the path back into spring and casting a dim though inextinguishable light through all the deepest recesses of the human spirit.

Higher Education Feels Crunch

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The impact of the financial crisis in higher education will hit the public hardest, said Martin Meyerson, when a sizable university goes bankrupt.

Meyerson, president of the University of Pennsylvania, believes it will have the same shock effect as the failure of the Penn Central, which was not just the nation's biggest railroad but one of its largest corporations.

Many small colleges already have closed and some of the nation's larger institutions aren't very far from the same unfortunate fate. And the reasons are the same as those in business: income doesn't match outgo.

The Carnegie Commission on Higher Education predicted last year that by 1980 colleges and universities will face a $51 billion gap between income and expenditures, and the prospects for raising the money aren't good.

Americans, while they have some of the most prestigious universities, contribute a lower percentage of Gross National Product to support higher education than in many other developed nations.

If some universities go under, Meyerson believes, it could foretell problems for other voluntary institutions, including churches and church-related social programs, health care, museums, orchestras and other arts.

As with the energy and environmental problems, he said, the nation is falling to heed some of the overt signals emanating from the campuses, among them:

—Competition from state universities, especially in the Northeast, where some of the largest independent institutions find themselves competing with suddenly enlarged state universities.

—While voluntary giving looks pretty good, in Meyerson's view, many of the gifts today came with restrictions or limitations on their use.

—The middle-income family has been caught in a terrible crush. It costs about $5,000 a year to send a student to a school of Penn's stature, and many middle-income families have two youngsters in college simultaneously.

—Operating expenditures are rising. Payrolls are the big expenditure for universities and it is difficult to cut them. Automation might aid a corporation, but it is less likely to be of great value to a university.

—The college population has ceased growing, studies show. That means the growth of tuition income will slow. And for colleges geared for big enrollments that can mean serious troubles.

Since the bulk of university income is from tuitions, Meyerson believes that a substantial loan program for students, perhaps government insured in the manner of some home mortgage loans, would help immediately.

"If it was national policy that any able student could borrow for tuition, room and board you'd have a different situation," he said, in regard to the crush on parental and university budgets.

Strength For Today

CARDBOARD PASTEBOARD ARMOR

How much real security is there in this life? Precious little, if we stop to think of it. Security in human affairs has been likened to armor made of cardboard and painted to look like steel. This is the only protection some people have when they confront crises in their lives. Some people think that they are safe if they have a lot of money, others if they occupy a position which enables them to wield a good deal of power. But all this is cardboard armor, painted to look like steel.

In the sixth chapter of Ephesians, St. Paul talks about a variety of armor which really protects one from evil—the breast plate of salvation, the sword of the Spirit. Even these things will not ensure us against suffering, but they will prevent suffering from driving us to despair. The only effective armor is inside our natures; not on the outside of our bodies. Character is a good word for it.

Work Progressing On Bicycle Route Studies

City Planner John Schofield reported that work is progressing on a study to determine the location of possible bicycle routes in the Greenville area. Schofield explained that in April of 1973, the City Council was presented with a petition signed by 500 bicycle enthusiasts asking that bike paths or routes be provided for the safety of the cyclists.

The Council, it was noted, asked the City Manager to study the request and report back to them. Schofield said that the study has progressed to the point that local information about the number of bicycle riders in Greenville and their needs is being collected and will be analyzed to determine potential routes.

"With spring and summer approaching and the number of bicycle riders increasing," he noted, "it is hoped that a route system can be developed that would be used both for commuting and small shopping trips as well as for pleasure rides."

At one point last year, the study indicated, there were an estimated 6,000 bicycles in Greenville. Schofield said that with good bicycle sales during the Christmas season and more emphasis being in the city may have increased significantly.

He continued, "With so many bicycles expected for the warm months, it is inevitable that there will be accidents between bicycles and automobiles. One purpose of bikeways is to reduce the amount of conflict between the two and increase the safety and enjoyment of the bicycle riders."

The planner noted that bike routes range from the ideal of a separate roadway for bikes to simple marking of existing streets as bike routes.

The study is being conducted by Schofield and an Urban Planning Class at East Carolina University. Schofield said that they will be talking to local bicycle riders, dealers, and other interested people as well as examining possible route locations and bicycle registration figures.

The final plan may be composed of a route system that could be completed in a short time and a longer range plan that would serve larger areas, it was explained.

Schofield said that if anyone would like to provide information, they should contact him at 752-1731.

Big Dealer In Pet Mice

CHARLOTTE (AP)—John Harris is only 8 years old, but he is president of the Charlotte Mouse Club, and deals in mice.

To buy equipment and food for his 40 mice, he sells mice at about 50 cents apiece to pet shops in Charlotte and as far as Chapel Hill, 130 miles away. Creighton Humphreys, owner of the Chapel Hill Aquarium Shop, says he buys John's mice because they are prettier and sell better than other mice.

John, a third grader, has a red and yellow plastic maze of equipment in which he breeds his rodents.

He started his hobby four years ago with a black and white mouse, later to be named Doodles, that he rescued from a neighborhood pal who was feeding it to a snake. Doodles unnamed mate, which was a class pet at school, was given to John by his teacher.

Killings Said By Heroin Dealer

By KRISTIN GOFF Associated Press Writer DOVER, Del. (AP) — A shooting spree that left five persons dead and three wounded was triggered by an accused heroin dealer who was trying to systematically kill witnesses who could have testified against him in a drug case, a Delaware state official said today.

Authorities said the gunman killed two possible witnesses and a woman Thursday, then killed his girl friend. Three persons were wounded before the gunman apparently shot himself in the head, police said. The head wound was fatal.

The shooting spree and a high speed chase ranged across the state. Police identified the dead suspect as Ronald W. Hofferker, 30, Dover.

Deputy Delaware Atty. Gen. Joseph A. Hurley called the murder spree a "systematic killing of witnesses." Hofferker was arrested Dec. 19 on charges of selling heroin. He was to appear in court today for a probation violation hearing which could have ended in his being sent to prison for revocation of his probation for a 1971 drug conviction.

Hurley said two of the dead had been scheduled to be witnesses against Hofferker in an upcoming drug case, and that only hours before the killings Hofferker had purchased a box of handgun ammunition.

"He knew everybody he shot," said state police spokesman Angelo T. Citro.

The shootings began when Hofferker went to the Dover home of Glen Chemielewski. Police said Hofferker opened fire, injuring Chemielewski and Reep was shot in the shoulder during the chase and was wounded slightly.

Police said Mrs. Katcher told them Hofferker had shot her and Barbara Johnson, 19. The Johnson woman, found in the car used by Hofferker, was identified by police as Hofferker's girl friend. But they said they did not know when she joined Hofferker in the incident. Mrs. Katcher was listed in fair condition.

Police said he drove to another Dover home where he took Mrs. Richard Katcher, 25, as a hostage, and then drove south to Camden, Del., where he killed Mark Lovelace, 21. Lovelace and Pappas had been scheduled to appear as witnesses against Hofferker, Hurley said.

Hofferker's car was spotted by state police near Middletown, and he was pursued by police until his car skidded out of control and into a field. Delaware state trooper Billy

N.C. Prepared For Impounding

RALEIGH (AP)—President Nixon has impounded $53 million in waste water treatment funds earmarked for North Carolina, but a House administration official says it could have been worse.

Nixon announced Thursday that he was releasing only $4 billion of the $7 billion appropriated by Congress for the federal aid program in fiscal 1975, which begins next July.

But Secretary of Natural and Economic Resources James E. Harrington said North Carolina had been planning its program with the expectation that Nixon would impound even more of the money.

"On a practical basis, we were pleasantly surprised," averred Harrington. Like Nixon, he is a Republican. The state will receive $70.4 million to aid in construction of waste water treatment projects in fiscal 1975, compared to $123 million it would have gotten under the full Congressional appropriation.

Harrington noted that even with the cut it was a big increase over the $27.6 million in fiscal 1974 and $18.4 million in fiscal 1973.

He said the reason for the increase was a change in federal allocation formulas under which the state now qualifies for a 1.8 per cent share of the funds from the program rather than .9 per cent as in the past two years.

Harrington said the credit for the increase belonged to his department and to the state's Congressional delegation, particularly Rep. Wilmer Mizell, R-N.C.

Store Robbed In Early Hours A tape player, 105 tapes and 35 cartons of cigarettes were reported taken from the Happy Store at 514 Watauga Ave. during an early morning break-in today, according to Police Chief Glenn Cannon.

According to the officer, entrance to the building was gained by throwing a cinder block through a glass front door. Value of the tape player was listed at $39.95 while the 105 tapes taken were valued at $2.99 each, Cannon said. The 35 cartons of cigarettes were valued at $3.50 per carton.

Investigation of the theft is continuing.

Grifton C-of-C Dinner Jan. 22 GRIFTON — Grifton's outstanding citizen for 1973 will be named Tuesday, Jan. 22, at the Grifton Chamber of Commerce annual dinner and installation of officers.

Those who wish to attend the dinner may contact chamber secretary Jimmy Rose, at Grifton Plumbing, Heating and Gas Co. or chamber treasurer, Mrs. Catherine Condon, at the Grifton Library.

The meal will be served at 7 p.m. at St. Mark's Episcopal Church. Tickets at $2 each.

Reveals Crosby Has Pneumonia BURLINGAME, Calif. (AP) — Singer Bing Crosby, in satisfactory condition at a hospital here, is suffering from pneumonia, that has caused an abscess in his left lung, his doctor says.

Dr. Stanley M. Hanfling, Crosby's family physician, said doctors are trying to determine the exact nature of the organism that has caused the lesion, which he called a common result of pneumonia. The 69-year-old entertainer was cheerful despite a fever of about 100 degrees and moderate chest pains.

Two Missionaries In Greenville Area

WILLIAM MALONE

Two full time missionaries are presently serving The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in the Greenville area.

They are Elder William Malone of Provo, Utah, and Elder Don Reeve of Sandy, Utah.

Every year thousands of young men and women voluntarily accept calls to become missionaries for a two-year period. They serve at their own expense or are paid financially by friends and relatives.

In addition to the full time missionaries, the church also has a local or part time missionary program wherein members of the church are called to spend a given number of hours a week in proselyting, friendship and fellowshiping in their own neighborhoods.

Elder Malone and Elder Reeve may be contacted at 758-3666.

Sanford Will Most Outspoken Be Speaking Among Churches

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C.

(AP)—North Carolina's former Gov. Terry Sanford will be the principal speaker at a Democratic party event in Fayetteville tonight, amidst growing speculation that he might again seek his party's presidential nomination.

Sanford, now president of Duke University, will speak at a rally for "golden age Democrats," in the city where he began his political career as a state senator.

Others expected for the rally include party hopefuls Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan, who is expected to seek the U. S. Senate seat being vacated by retiring Sen. Sam Ervin, and Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, a prospective 1976 candidate for governor.

Sanford made a try for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972 and close associates say he is laying groundwork for another try in 1976.

He currently is chairman of a national party commission dealing with party reform.

By GEORGE W. CORNELL

AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — In the light of their particular religious links to President Richard Nixon, Quakers have been among the most outspoken of church groups in urging impeachment proceedings on his conduct, or his resignation.

Other religious bodies generally have avoided this sort of specific demand. But a growing number of Quaker meetings have issued such calls to him as a brother sharing their tradition.

"They feel a special responsibility in the matter because of his background as a Quaker," says Walter Ludwig, of Yonkers, N.Y., legislative committee chairman of the New York Yearly Meeting of the Religious Society of Friends.

Among the latest of the Quaker groups taking such a stand was the Stanford-Greenwich, Conn., meeting, which late last month appealed to the President as a fellow Quaker to resign from office.

Citing his Quaker background, the meeting said there appeared to be "serious discrepancies" between traditions he would be expected to respect and actions for which he was responsible, citing a list of them, and urging him to resign.

"We feel tender toward you in the moral dilemma in which you have placed yourself, and sympathize with you in your pain," the meeting added.

"However difficult your resignation may be to you personally, it would aid in dispelling the atmosphere of corruption in our national government. We pray that the power of light will give you courage and consolation."

Several other Quaker meetings, including those in Baltimore, Columbia and Adelphi, Md., have backed impeachment proceedings against the President.

Although many other church bodies have debated the issue, they mostly have refrained from demanding impeachment steps. Only sub-units of the United Methodist Church have done so among major denominations.

Most of them have stressed the need for national repentance and moral renewal. Some Quaker meetings also similarly have shunned advocating impeachment procedures.

Warns Potential Environmental Harm

WASHINGTON (AP)—A plan to discharge millions of gallons of heated water into the Atlantic from a nuclear plant being built at Southport, N.C., "has the potential for serious damage to the environment," the Atomic Energy Commission says.

The plant is being built by the Carolina Power & Light Co., which had no immediate comment. However, the AEC regulatory staff, which prepared the report, recommended that the commission give CP&L a license to operate the plant, which is scheduled to open in December.

The report said the discharge of water used to cool the nuclear reactors could result in the loss of hundreds of thousands of dollars a year in commercial and sport fishery."

It recommended that the AEC require CP&L to change its methods of cooling the reactors within three years after the plant goes into operation, so that little or no water will be discharged.

The report said, "It is unlikely that irreversible damage will occur during the first three years of operation," although long-range effects of the discharge on marine life could be serious.

The report recommended that in the meantime CP&L be required to monitor the effects of the discharge, and take steps to correct any environmental damage.

Evangelist For Revival

Miss Linda Lou Warren of Farmville has been named to the Dean's List for the fall semester at Virginia State College, Petersburg, Va.

Election to the Dean's List requires that a student maintain an average of 3.0 or better.

Miss Warren, a graduate of Farmville Central High School, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Lee Warren of Farmville.

Gives Insights On Pope Paul

VATICAN CITY (AP) — A leading Vatican official says "if there was a person intimately cordial and also rich in humor, then it is Pope Paul VI."

The Most Rev. Giacomo Martin, prefect of the pontifical house, gave some revealing insights into the Pope's audiences in an interview with the Holy See's weekly magazine.

"He always tries to find some point in common with the groups attending the general audience," said Bishop Martin. "Once he received a group of janitors — also meaning gatekeepers."

"I am a janitor; St. Peter is a gatekeeper — we are colleagues," Bishop Martin quoted the Pope as saying.

Recognition By Farmville Coed

The members of Mt. Calvary F.W.B. Church will pay special recognition to Al Hunter during the 11 a.m. worship service Sunday.

This event will culminate a week-long tribute to the Notre Dame football player who starred in the Sugar Bowl on Dec. 31.

Hunter has been an active member of Mt. Calvary for several years.

Church Dedicates New Facilities On Sunday

TO BE DEDICATED SUNDAY...This is the new First Pentecostal Holiness Church building, located on Plaza Drive in Greenville.

The First Pentecostal Holiness Church of Greenville, located on Brinkley Road at Plaza Drive will celebrate the dedication of its newly constructed church and education facilities. Special dedicatory services and activities are planned for Sunday.

During the 11 a.m. worship hour Bishop J. Floyd Williams, General Superintendent, will deliver the dedicatory sermon. The service will be followed by dinner in the fellowship hall. The Woman's Auxiliary invites all members and friends of the church to join them for this meal.

The Vows of Dedication will be led by the Rev. J. Doner Lee, Conference Superintendent, during the 2:30 o'clock service. The Rev. W. Harvey Morris, pastor of the Pentecostal Holiness church in Lumberton, will assist Rev. Lee in the afternoon service. Former pastors, state and national church officials will be present for the dedication.

The congregation moved to this new church sanctuary on Sunday, December 9, 1973, after a brief farewell ceremony at the old church on Cotanche and Thirteenth Streets. This move occurred exactly 50 years after the construction of the old facilities.

Charles Woodall, architect with Smart, Woodall, Isley and Herring, pointed out that many of the details in the building are influenced by the Architecture of Colonial Williamsburg. The tuscan order of column and entablature on the front Por-tico; the triangular pediment above the entrance door; the masonry quoins at the corners; and the cornice detail are designs used in the early American Colonies. Both the Roman and jack arches are used in the masonry work. Wood paneled doors are used throughout. Seedy marine glass, with its many bubbles and variations, was selected to simulate the glass made in the early colonies. The cross on the copper colored steeple spire rises 70 feet above the first floor level. The material colors have

Real Estate Course Offered

Pitt Technical Institute will offer, beginning Monday at 7:00 p.m. in Room 103 of the Humber Building, a 42-hour course in Real Estate Appraisal.

This is a beginning course which will allow the student to become familiar with the basic economic principles involved in the appraising of residential properties.

Claude Moore Jr. of Greenville is the instructor. The cost for this course, including the $2.00 registration fee and textbooks, is approximately $12.00-$15.00.

Interested persons are urged to attend the first class meeting. For further information, one may call or visit the Extension Division, 756-3130 at Ext. 38.

Club Lists Activities

Operation Sunshine, the girls club for ages 8 through sixth grade, has announced several activities and trips the club has participated in during the past year.

Activities included parties for the girls' teachers, parties given by various clubs, arts and crafts projects, dancing and singing, learning to cook, presenting a Christmas play, making

Education Board To Stay Aloof

RALEIGH (AP)—The state Board of Education declined to get involved Thursday in a campaign for legislation permitting shortened school days this winter.

The board doesn't have the power to allow shortened school days. But the Charlotte-Mecklenburg Board of Education had asked it to put its prestige behind a legislative proposal.

State law requires the schools to operate six hours a day, five days a week. The Charlotte-Mecklenburg board wants the legislature to give school systems authority to shorten hours if decreased supplies of gasoline and haring fuel make that necessary.

Christmas gifts and decorations, and playing games organized by volunteers.

Trips were made to a farm to visit Gov. Holshouser during People's Day, to hear Art Linkletter at East Carolina University, a downtown treasure hunt, to the Pitt County fair and to the Elm St. park.

Operation Sunshine operates from community donations. Anyone wishing to learn more about the center can visit from 3 to 5 p.m. each day at the corner of Pitt and Third Streets or call the director, Mrs. Barbara Whitehead, at 758-5838.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)— Prices on North Carolina egg markets were unchanged Thursday. Supplies were adequate and demand was good.

Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs delivered in cartons to nearby outlets: grade A large whites 79.73; medium whites 77.72; small whites 71.43.

RALEIGH (NCDA) (AP)— The market is mostly steady, instance of .50 higher. $40.25-42.25 Wilson and High Falls; $41.50-42.00 Rocky Mount; $39.50-40.00 Tarboro and Bethel; $40.00 Salisbury. ers

RALEIGH (NCDA) (AP)— f.o.b. dock broilers: Market steady, supplies fully adequate, demand, fairly good, weights heavy. Estimated slaughter today, 1,344,000.

RALEIGH (NCDA) (AP)— Hens: market weak on heavy type. Supplies ample and demand slow. Too few sources reporting to release prices.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices climbed upward today, after a steep drop earlier in the week. Brokers pinned the rally to technical factors and not to news developments.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which slumped more than 57 points since Monday, was ahead 8.84 to 831.95 at 11:30 a.m.

Advances outnumbered declines by more than 2-to-1 in active trading on the New York Stock Exchange. The Big Board's broad-based composite index was up .43 to 49.93 at 11 a.m., while the market-value index on the American Stock Exchange was up .20 to 93.35.

Lucien Hooper of W.E. Hutton & Co. predicted the market would temporarily rebound from its four-day string of losses "for purely technical reasons" and said "news has no impact in a market like this."

Hooper and other brokers noted that the stocks showing the biggest gains were glammers and multinationals, which had been under heavy selling pressure.

Among the glammers posting gains were Walt Disney Productions, up 1/4 to 36 1/2; McDonald's, up 1 1/2 to 50 1/2; DuPont, up 1 1/2 to 158 1/2; Eastman Kodak, up 1 1/2 to 104 1/2; and International Business Machines, up 5 to 234.

U.S. Industries, the Big Board volume leader, bucked the uptrend and slid 7/8 to 7 1/2.

Winterville Board Sets Bond Referendum Date

WINTERVILLE—The Winterville Board of Aldermen this week authorized the issuance of $220,000 in bonds and set Feb. 26 as the date for a referendum on the bond issue.

The election will be held in the Winterville Municipal Building and voters will be able to cast their ballots from 6:30 a.m. until 7:30 p.m. The election will be conducted by the Pitt County Board of Elections. Mrs. Dallas Blount, representing the North Winterville Community Club, presented a list of grievances to the board. A special meeting was set for Jan. 11 at 7:30 p.m. so that the board could study the grievances and see what course can be taken in the matter.

Candidacy Said Still Undecided

NEW ORLEANS, La.—East Carolina University chancellor Dr. Leo W. Jenkins said here today that he is eyeing the possibilities of becoming a gubernatorial candidate in 1976, but emphasized "it's a little early now to make any decision on this."

University's Student Government Association Legislature in Greenville, Monday.

Dr. Jenkins said today he told that student legislature that he may well be a candidate, but indicated he made no announcement that he will be a candidate.

Dr. Jenkins' comments came in response to questions concerning a statement carried in the ECU newspaper "Fountainhead", published yesterday, which quoted the university official as saying, "as of now, I am going to take a chance at being a N.C. gubernatorial candidate in 1976."

"If conditions permit," Dr. Jenkins said, "I may well look into it, but it could change tomorrow. I'm just looking at it now and we'll see what things look like in '76."

The "Fountainhead" article attributed that comment to Jenkins as he spoke to the transfer of $5,021 from the federal revenue sharing account to the street construction account. The money will be used for street work that has been done in the town limits.

An application for a communications system for the police department was filed with the Division of Law and Order, N.C. Department of Natural and Economic Resources. The town's share for the system will be $1,106 while the state's allotment will be $4,425.

Mayor Walter Dail was authorized to appoint a Human Relations Council for the town. Board members also authorized the county tax supervisor to accept certifications for non-profit organizations' tax exemptions on behalf of the town of Winterville.

Paul Hunsucker announced he will resign as chief of the Winterville Fire Department, effective in April. Cecil Corbett, a new policeman with the Winterville Police Department, was introduced to the town board. Corbett began working with the department Jan. 1.

Policemen Kill Escaped Bull

They said it was a lot of bull. For roughly two and a half hours Thursday evening, a steer owned by Greenville Packing Co. had his freedom and although he was in constant pursuit, he managed to delay his trip to the slaughter's table.

After an escape that took him from the packing firm on Smith Street along the heavily traveled 264 Bypass and finally to the Brook Valley area, his trip ended.

Greenville Police Chief Glenn Cannon said the local officers, acting on the authority of the packing company, shot the bull on Oxford Road in Brook Valley after attempts to rope the animal were unsuccessful.

Chief Cannon noted that a wrecker was used to transport the carcass back to the packing plant. The chief added that no traffic accidents were reported as a result of the bull's escape trip as motorists apparently pulled over to give the animal full use of the highway.

A spokesman at Greenville Packing Co. said that the steer, which weighed approximately 900 pounds, broke out around 5 p.m. yesterday evening and was shot at 7:30 p.m.

Arrest Man In Shooting

Arrest Man In Shooting

Pitt deputies arrested 20-year-old Lester Earl Harp on a charge of shooting into an occupied dwelling in an incident Thursday night on the Old Creek Road. Sheriff Ralph Tyson reported that Harp, of 204 Greenfield Blvd., was charged with firing a shotgun into the mobile home of William Stencil of Rt. 5, Box 338, Greenville.

The sheriff noted that the blast went through an end window of the home, occupied by Stencil and his wife and children, and buckshot pellets landed on Stencil's bed. No one was injured, he added.

The blast caused an estimated $50 in damages to the mobile home, Sheriff Tyson said. The incident was reported at 9:52 p.m.

Harp was jailed under $5,000 bond and a hearing was scheduled in District Court here.

Road Trip Ends As Bucs Visit Keydets

Pirate Matmen Bop W. Chester

East Carolina University's wrestlers had, in the opinion of Coach John Welborn, already established themselves as the top wrestling power in the South prior to their head-on collision with West Chester (Pa.) State University here Thursday night.

But the Bucs appear to be striving for bigger things, however, running past the much-heralded Rams, 28-10, before a howling crowd of 2,000 in Minges Coliseum. The Pirates swept victories in seven of the 10 weight classes.

It was a bitter homecoming for West Chester Coach Milt Collier, an East Carolina alumnus, who was banished to the locker room midway through the match after several outbursts from the bench.

As things turned out, the ejection may have been a blessing in disguise for the fiery Collier. His exit came early enough for him to be spared the agony of watching a pair of East Carolina's North Carolina Collegiate champions, 177-pounder Bill Hill, and heavyweight Willard Bryant, manhandle their opponents to record both of the Pirates' pins for the night.

The match was East Carolina's first dual meet competition for the seasons, and could boost the Pirates into consideration for national ranking.

"I feel we have one of the top

15 wrestling teams in the nation," insisted Welborn. "It's just a matter of getting recognized for our performance."

The victory came on the heels of a highly successful tour of the Eastern Seaboard tournament circuit where the Pirates captured team titles in five of the seven tournaments they entered.

Five more dual matches are slated for the Pirates before they try to defend their Southern Conference championship in the league's tournament, to be held this year at Appalachian State. Their next home meet is February 8, against William & Mary, while their next road outing will be January 26 at Appalachian State.

- Summary:
- 118: Jim Blair (EC) defeated Alan Gordon, 14-3.
  - 126: Bill Racich (WC) defeated Glenn Baker, 9-2.
  - 134: Milt Sherman (EC) defeated Steve Powell, 11-6.
  - 142: Tom Marriott (EC) defeated John Gallagher, 6-1.
  - 150: Ralph Reish (WC) defeated Tim McAteer, 12-1.
  - 158: Paul Gillespie (WC) defeated Bruck Hall, 11-7.
  - 167: Ron Whitcomb (EC) defeated Steve Maxwell, 5-4.
  - 177: Bill Hill (EC) pinned Ken Korbely, 5:34.
  - 190: Mike Radford (EC) defeated Andy Aronstam, 6-2.
  - Heavyweight: Willard Bryant (EC) pinned Robert Eshelman, 3:48.

AL HUNTER HONORED—Notre Dame halfback Al Hunter, a graduate of Rose High School, was honored by his home town yesterday on "Al Hunter Day" in Greenville. The event was concluded with a dinner at which

Tribute Paid Hunter As City Celebrates

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer

Greenville's day of celebration and recognition for Al Hunter ended last night with a banquet held in his honor where he was awarded a plaque expressing the gratitude of the citizens of Greenville.

The inscription on the plaque read, "To Alfonso Hunter in recognition of his outstanding achievement as a freshman at the University of Notre Dame, by shattering a standing record of 38 years in returning a kickoff 93 yards for a touchdown against the University of Alabama on December 31, 1973 while playing in the 40th edition of the Sugar Bowl Classic. Presented on January 10, 1974 by the proud citizens of Greenville, N. C."

The dinner climaxed "Al Hunter Day" which was proclaimed by the city council in honor of Hunter. The day included an assembly at Rose High along with other festivities.

Master of ceremonies, W. B. Moore opened the dinner welcoming the gathering of approximately 50 people saying, "I would like to take this opportunity to welcome each of you here to help celebrate one of the great feats of a fine citizen of Greenville who has distinguished himself on the football fields of one of the fine institutions of our country. Someone has said 'Go seeker, as you will throughout the land and you will find in the night, to every man his chance. . . his golden opportunity.' This young man has found his golden opportunity."

He then recognized the parents of Hunter, Mrs. and Mrs. John Hunter, and his grandmother, Mrs. Claudia Austin. The invocation was given by Mr. Dan Ernhard, president of the Greenville Ministerial Association.

After the meal of barbecue and fried chicken and music Johnny Wooten on the organ, City Manager Bill Carstarphen began the series of remarks addressed to Hunter. Carstarphen said, "It is a privilege to stand in for Mayor Gene West.

to extend a warm welcome to our honored guest, Al Hunter and sincere congratulations and thank you to Mr. and Mrs. Hunter and Mrs. Austin, without whom, this day would not have been possible.

"I had a strong and definite feeling that I was meeting a gentleman, a man of firm substance and a young man who has a lot to give. We find greatness in many ways; tonight we are honoring an outstanding young man in the field of college athletics."

Wilson McDowell, head basketball coach at Rose and football coach at E. B. Aycock said, "It gives me great pleasure to be able to say thank you for giving me the opportunity to be the first person to start you on your way to the success that you are having now. I feel I speak for all the coaches in Greenville when I say that the next time you come back we will be saying congratulations to our very own All-American."

Jessie Harris, of the Human Relations Committee thanked those people involved in putting "Al Hunter Day" together. He noted that yesterday was not only Al's day, it was a day that could inspire every youth of our community to make themselves a day "It is a time I feel that community relations has worked in Greenville," he said.

Dr. Andrew Best was next to voice his remarks and noted that he had "Something to do in Al's getting into the world.

"Let not this day be the final day of career but the launching of a new career for new heights and new horizons. Let it be a beginning instead of an end."

Rev. Clarence Gray, a city councilman, expressed the gratefulness for being able to share the day on behalf of the faculty and students of Rose High. Gray initiated the proclamation of the day honoring Hunter. Mrs. Ella Harris also spoke along the same lines expressing the sentiment of Hunter's former teachers in junior and senior high.

Melvin McLawhorn brightened the remarks for a few minutes when he admonished Hunter to "Keep on Truckin'."

The pastor of Mt. Calvary Free Will Baptist Church, W. L. Jones, turned thoughts away from Al and Mrs. Hunter, to whom reference had been made earlier, to Al's father, saying, "We doff our hats to mother Hunter for the support she has given to her boys. But without the guiding hand of Brother Hunter who labored so hard so that she might give them the support it would have probably been impossible.

"You may not be able to see us in the grandstand or hear us with your natural ears," he said to Al, "but we will be back here in Greenville hollering, yelling 'Go ahead, Al, go ahead.'"

Moore concluded the speaking saying, "We are honoring you tonight because of the fine parents you have to stand behind you and they believe as most of us do, in a God. We extend to you our personal congratulations and wish for you the best as you go back to Notre Dame."

Saturday night, East Carolina University's Pirates will wind up a long road trip that has lasted for a month when they invade Lexington, Va., to meet Virginia Military Institute's Keydets.

The Bucs go into the game following a heart-breaking loss to the University of Richmond on Wednesday night. The Bucs had led throughout the second half of the contest, by as much as eight points, but Richmond rallied in the final three minutes to tie it up and then score a three-point play with four seconds left to take a 79-78 victory.

"We played very well, and deserved to win," Coach Tom Quinn said afterwards. "I think it was a combination of close calls (by the officials), the inexperience of our team in protecting a lead, and the super play of Aron Stewart that cost us the victory."

Quinn added that he didn't think Stewart could have played much better than he did against the Bucs. "We did a very good job of defending Richmond. We shot well and we rebounded them. But we had more turnovers and that might have hurt." Quinn noted that this was caused by the fact that Richmond used a man-to-man defense against the Bucs, while they used a zone against the Spiders. "Richmond has one of the finest front lines in the conference, yet we should have beaten them. Our day will come, however."

The coach said that the team has learned quite a bit in its recent games. "We are able to go back and work on some things that have happened now, rather than things we could only talk about happening before. We have a good idea who can perform in critical situations."

Quinn had nothing but praise for the way Nicky White played in the game. He scored 29 points, hitting on 14 or 22 shots from the floor, and pulled down 15 rebounds. "He showed that he is really arriving. He practically carried us on offense, his board play was excellent, his defense was good, and his leadership outstanding. He is also blocking shots now, something he hasn't too much before." This, Quinn said, is going to cause some defenses to collapse on him, and the Pirates must have someone ready to take up the slack when this happens, with the open men scoring.

Quinn also felt that Tom Marsh, who scored 11 points in the game, had his best night of the year. "He was looking for the basket, which he hadn't done in previous games. Donnie Owens, too, has made tremendous strides. He has turnovers, of course, but then, he handles that ball more than anyone else, and he's going at full speed most of the time, so you expect him to have more."

"We now know who's who and who can do what. In a way, it's fortunate that we have played a lot of good clubs and done as well as we have. We've had to get used to playing on the road, playing against zones and presses. Now we have to mature to the final point, being able slow down the ball and protect the lead. We're good enough to be in a close situation, and the next level is to hold onto the lead when we have it, make the crucial free throw, get the important rebound, run off time, and keep the offense loose. Of course, we can't expect to get the favorable call on the road, but we have to protect against it."

The VMI Keydets present somewhat of a different picture than did the Spiders. Instead of roomy Robbins Center, the Bucs will be playing amid the cadet corps, a noisy group on their home court.

"They have been playing quite well," Quinn said. "I'm surprised that they are only 4-6. They are experienced club, and they play 1-3-1 matchup defense. They're not extremely big, but except for Nicky, we're about the same height. They like to play control, but they will run when they can."

Going into last night's 85-82 victory over Salem College, VMI had only two players in double figures, John Krovic, 12.2, and Curt Reppart, 10.2. Charlie Tyler was next at 8.9, followed by Steve Chapin, 8.7, and Will Bynum at 8.6.

The Pirates, at the same time, also had only two in double figures, with White at 14.5, and Reggie Lee at 11.9. Roger Atkinson is averaging 9.9, while Robert Geter is hitting 8.9 per game. The fifth starter, Donnie Owens, is averaging 5.6 per contest.

Tyler is VMI's leading rebounder at 8.3, while White leads the Bucs with a 9.7 average.

Following the Saturday night game, the Bucs will return home on Monday to face Appalachian State University in Minges Coliseum, with tipoff at 8 p.m.

Two Left Unbeaten

The unbeaten list in the Church Basketball League fell to two last night as Immanuel and Presbyterian recorded their third wins. Black Jack fell victim for the first time, while Oakmont won its first game.

In the opening contest, Black Jack fell, 53-48, to one of the new co-leaders, Immanuel. Black Jack inched out to a 27-25 lead at halftime, but couldn't hold on. Immanuel came back to outthrust them, 28-21, and pushed ahead to win.

C. McNeil and G. Catlett each had 13 points, while D. Evans had 10 to lead Immanuel. Tal Adams had 20 to pace Black Jack.

In the second game, Presbyterian rolled to a 74-36 win over Trinity. By halftime, Presbyterian held a 35-20 advantage, and they rolled up a 39-16 last half advantage to win going away.

Larry Graham and Paul Andrews led Presbyterian with 15 each, while Richard Holloman had 13 and Mike Gwynn had 12. For Trinity, D. R. Daniels had 16.

In the final game, Oakmont took a 49-43 win over St. James. St. James PUSHED OUT.

In the final game, Oakmont took a 49-43 win over St. James. St. James pushed out into a 30-20 lead in the first half, and appeared heading for its first victory. But Oakmont rallied in the second half, outscoring them, 29-13, to take the victory.

Don Parrott led Oakmont with 15 points, while Bobby Hall had 13. Mike Board had 14 for St. James.

Pitt Tech Gets Second Victory

WILLIAMSTON—Pitt Technical Institute snapped its losing streak and gained a 51-48 victory over Martin Tech last night.

The victory was the second for the Paladins for the year and raised their overall mark to 2-5. They are 2-1 in the conference competition.

Pitt Tech worked up a four-point lead in the early minutes of the first half, and held onto that most of the way. With four minutes left in the period, however, Martin came back to tie it at 16-16. But for the rest of the way, Pitt Tech outthrust them, 13-3, and ran out to a 29-19 halftime lead.

In the second half, Martin Tech began to chip away at the margin, and finally tied it at 38-

38 with eight minutes to go in the game. They slipped into a one-point lead shortly after that, but Pitt quickly recaptured the lead and with good foul shooting down to the wire, held off Martin from there on in.

Danny Thomas led Pitt Tech with 14 points, while Charles Jordan had 12 and Clarence Wilson had 10. For the hosting Martin team, A. Brown and D. Moore each had 14 points.

Pitt Tech will travel to James Sprunt on Monday for its next game.

Swimmers Host North Carolina

East Carolina swimming coach Ray Scharf has a quick fact he would like to mention before talking about the Pirates' Saturday clash with North Carolina in Minges Natatorium. "We swam 76,000 yards last week!! That's right 76,000 yards, all in one week. We needed to get ready and get back into top shape and I think last week we took a long stride towards that goal."

Another one of the Pirates' long-time goals is beating North Carolina in swimming, something as East Carolina team has never done despite winning eight straight Southern Conference championships.

"We have the best all around swimming team we've ever had here this year. But North Carolina is tougher, of course. They have a great deal of depth and now probably have the best North Carolina team we have ever faced.

"I think you would have to say very flatly that North Carolina, event by event, is probably stronger than we are simply because of times already posted this year. We could possibly be stronger in the diving because we have a veteran in Jack Morrow and a freshman with a great deal of promise in Ken Morin.

"Our guys worked extremely hard," Scharf continued. "That shows we know what we want and that we know we have to work for it. All I hope my guys will do is their very best. I hope we can beat them with that, our best."

Jaycees Honor Rose Grid Team

The Greenville Jaycees last night paid honor to the Rose High School Football team with a dinner in their honor.

The dinner honored the 1973 team which went into the State Playoffs, advancing to the second round before finally bowing.

"This group of young men have competed on the field and have defeated a number of foes," Dr. Badger Clark, a former Jaycee president, and chairman of the Board of Education, said. "They have been lost, but they have been gentlemen. This city is proud of them. We are proud of the athletic program at Rose High School, and of what the coaches have done for these students."

Dr. Clark pointed out that the players were "ambassadors for this community." He added that at the next meeting of the school board that a report on the long range athletic plans of the schools is to be given, and that an athletic facility of its own for the high school might be a part of that package.

"If we decide that this is what we need, we may be calling on the Jaycees to help us along the way," Dr. Clark said.

Certificates of merit were presented to each member of the team by the Jaycees, with Dr. Clark and Jaycee president Tom Reese making the presentations.

Coach Dave Bumgarner thanked the Jaycees for their hospitality, and noted that Rose is the only high school in Greenville. "We realize that East Carolina University makes a lot of demands on the community for support, and we accept this. But these young men (the football players at Rose) are the men who are going to grow up and become the Jaycees of the future. So we urge you to support them as much as you possibly can."

Dampier Leads Kentucky Win

The problem is old hat for Chicago but if there's a vacancy in the leadership of the National Basketball Association's Midwest Division, the Bulls are ready to toss their hats into the ring.

"If Milwaukee stumbles and drops their hat, we'll be there to pick it up," said Chicago Coach Dick Motta, whose Bulls manhandled the Atlanta Hawks 116-104 Thursday night, but still trail the Bucks in the Midwest Division by three games.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Golden State Warriors pounded the Seattle SuperSonics 125-89.

In the American Basketball Association, the New York Nets bounced the San Antonio Spurs 105-93; the Kentucky Colonels trimmed the Carolina Cougars 101-98; and the San Diego Conquistadors edged the Indiana Pacers 109-107.

Motta was happy with the way the Bulls played, especially center Cliff Ray, but the fiery coach would be happier if the city of Chicago was located somewhere else on the map.

The Bulls have some pretty nice numbers next to their name in the NBA standings. In fact, the Bulls' 31-15 record is third best in the NBA, next to Boston and their Midwest Division neighbors from Wisconsin.

"It's unfortunate we're playing in the wrong division," said Motta. "But this is the fourth year it's been this way and we don't feel sorry for ourselves."

Warriors 125, SuperSonics 89
Rick Barry fired in 21 points and Cazzie Russell added 20, leading a hot-shooting Golden State over Seattle.

Nets 105, Spurs 93
Billy Paultz' 19 points led a balanced attack which helped New York dispose of San Antonio.

Julius Irving, Larry Kenon and John Roche all chipped in with 18 points. San Antonio's James Silas led all scorers with 22.

Colonels 101, Cougars 98
With the score tied 96-96, Louie Dampier scored five straight points to give Kentucky the victory over Carolina.

Dampier and Dan Issel split 52 points while Jim Chones had a game-high 27.

Q's 109, Pacers 107
Eight San Diego players scored in double figures, paced by Caldwell Jones' 17 points.

North Favored In Senior Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — A trio of All-American backs, David Jaynes of Kansas, Heisman Trophy winner John Cappelletti of Penn State and fleet flanker Lynn Swann of Southern California, give the North All-Stars a slight edge over the South in Saturday's 25th Senior Bowl football game.

The nationally televised (NBC) professional debut for some of the nation's most promising collegiate seniors is set for a 1 p.m., EDT, kickoff in Ladd Stadium. A sellout crowd of 40,646 is expected.

Television viewers will see a few new wrinkles in this allstar clash since the kickoff will be made from the 35, rather than the 40-yard line. All kickoffs must be returned except those going out of the end zone.

"This brings back the most exciting play in football — the kickoff return," said Rea Schuessler, general manager of the game.

College rules, in general, will prevail, although fumbles may be advanced and a runner falling may return to his feet and continue to advance the ball.

The two-point conversion will not be used and a team behind by nine or more points will have an option to receive a kickoff.

Jaynes, holder of six league records in the rugged Big Eight Conference, passed for 2,131 yards and 13 touchdowns in his senior season at Kansas. He edged out Mike Boryla of Stanford for the quarterback spot on the team coached by Mike McCormack of the Philadelphia Eagles.

Cappelletti rushed for more than 1500 yards in his senior season but was held to only 50 yards in Penn State's Orange Bowl victory over Louisiana State. Swann pulled in 37 passes for 667 yards and six touchdowns for USC.

The South, coached by Don McCafferty of the Detroit Lions, counters with a pair of Arizona State aces and an Alabama star in its backfield.

The quarterback is Danny White, a second unit All-American who led ASU to 29 victories in 32 games during his career. He passed for 2,609 yards and 23 touchdowns last season and accounted for 73 scores in three seasons.

Woody Green, another Arizona State star, rushed for more than 1,000 yards in each of his three varsity seasons while Alabama's Wilbur Jackson had a healthy 7.9-yard per carry average.

Defensive standouts in the game include four with All-American credentials for the North, although one, middle guard Lucious Selmon of Oklahoma, is a doubtful performer because of a pulled hamstring.

The others are down linemen John Dutton of Nebraska and Bill Kollar of Montana State, a Little All-American.

Strength Vs. Agility In Super Bowl

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
HOUSTON (AP) — It all seems to come down to Larry Csonka vs Fran Tarkenton — brutal, relentless strength vs. deadly, explosive agility.

Csonka typifies the Miami Dolphins, the one-touchdown favorites in Sunday's Super Bowl VIII against Tarkenton's Minnesota Vikings.

The Dolphins are a business-like team, methodically wearing down the opposition, finding a play and sticking with it until somebody comes up with a way to stop it.

Nobody found a way to really stop Csonka in 1973. Bulling straight into the line or slanting off the tackles, he punched out 1,003 yards on 219 carries.

When the enemy decided to concentrate on Csonka, Mercury Morris went to work. With his waterbug speed and moves, he weaved his way for 954 yards on 149 runs. He most likely would have reached 1,000 yards, except for an injury that kept him out of the final regular-season game.

And to add to the running strength, the Dolphins again had Jim Kiick. He used to be known as half of the "Butch Cassidy and the Sundance Kid" team with Csonka before Morris "arrived." He's been fading into the background since then — but he can't be overlooked.

In 1971, when Csonka gained 1,051 yards, Kiick had 738 and Morris only 315. In 1972 Csonka had 1,117 yards, Morris flashed on the scene with exactly 1,000 and Kiick, shunted aside a bit, had 521.

This season, though, Kiick became more of a specialist — coming in when the Dolphins faced a third-down and long situation or when they were within a few yards of a touchdown. Kiick was used not only as a runner — he finished with 257 yards — but also as a fine blocker and a dangerous short-yardage receiver. As the team's No. 3 receiver behind Marlin Briscoe and Paul Warfield, Kiick caught 27 passes for 208 yards.

"Those three backs," said Minnesota linebacker Jeff Siemon, "give the Dolphins everything they need — everything anybody could need — in an offensive backfield attack."

It's not that the Dolphins can't pass. It's that they don't have to — but they can put the ball in the air with the best of teams. Bob Griese, a cool, precise, almost mechanical quarterback, threw the ball 218 times this season, completing 116 of the passes for 1,422 yards and 17 touchdowns while having only eight passes intercepted.

When Griese goes to the bomb, his usual target is Warfield, the 10-year veteran from Ohio State.

Whether Warfield will be gliding around Rice Stadium Sunday, though, is uncertain, because of a pulled hamstring tendon in his right leg. He suffered the injury during a workout and spent Thursday strolling around the practice field sidelines in a sweatshirt.

Coach Don Shula was concerned. "We can't afford to lose a player of that magnitude," he said. And Warfield was a bit down, too. "It certainly dampens a guy's spirits before the big game."

If Warfield is unable to play, Howard Twilley, who usually plays behind Briscoe, would start. Twilley caught only two passes all season.

Coincidentally, Griese was rated the No. 2 passer in the American Conference behind Ken Stabler of the Oakland Raiders, whom the Dolphins beat for the AFC title — while Tarkenton, No. 2 in the National Conference behind Roger Staubach of the Dallas Cowboys, whom the Vikings beat for the NFC title.

Tarkenton was more of a thrower than Griese, connecting on 169 of 274 passes — 61.7 per cent — for 2,113 yards and 15 touchdowns with seven interceptions.

But it's his nickname that makes him so dangerous. He's the scrambler, throwing opposition pass-rushers and defensive secondaries into a panic by darting around behind the line of scrimmage, then either unloading a timely pass at the last instant or breaking loose for a big gain and leaving a trail of weary would-be tacklers in his wake.

While Griese ran for only 20 yards all season — he had seven more than that in just one scramble against Oakland — Tarkenton ran for 202 yards.

Running is not his forte, though. He leaves that to the experts. In Minnesota's case, it's a rookie, Chuck Foreman from the University of Miami. He gained 801 yards despite missing a lot of action in mid-season with an injury.

While the Dolphins concentrated their running in the Csonka-Morris tandem that accounted for 1,957 of the team's 2,521 yards, the Vikings spread their yardage around. Behind Foreman came Oscar Reed with 401 yards, followed by Ed Marinaro with 302, Dave Osborn with 216, Bill Brown with 206 and Tarkenton with 202.

"They're just a fine, solid football team in all departments," Shula said of the Vikings. And, turning to Tarkenton, he added: "He can kill you. He can break a game wide open. He can turn a busted play into a big gainer."

With Morris' darting runs and Fran's scrambling, this could be one of the most wide-open championships in the past few years.

"The last few Super Bowl games have been conservative, close-to-the-vest affairs," says Bud Grant, the Vikings' coach. What he means, as far as most football fans are concerned, is that this contest of titans has become boring, a grind-it-out, take-no-chances meeting.

"I think both teams will take a different approach this time," Grant adds. "I know we will, and I expect Miami to come out zinging."

If both teams do, indeed, come out of their shells, their defenses are going to spend the day trying to shove the offenses back.

Csonka, will spend much of the day running into the wide-open and crunching arms of the likes of Carl Eller, Gary Larsen, Jim Marshall and Alan Page — the foremost members of the "Purple Gang."

Similarly, the Dolphins have a brutal up-front defense — they still like the nickname of "NoNames" — with Manny Fernandez and Bob Henz at the tackles and Bill Stanfill and Vern Den Herder at the ends.

If these two quartets of bodystuffers do their job on the runners, this could become an aerial war as Grant has suggested.

Maryland Out To Snap Jinx

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The Maryland basketball team, which didn't win a regular season game in North Carolina last season, is favored to do so tonight at Wake Forest.

It may not be easy for the Terps, who are No. 3 nationally and whose only loss in nine games has been by one point to top-ranked UCLA.

Wake Forest, 7-3, is one of the most improved teams in the Atlantic Coast Conference. And it will be playing on its home court.

Last year, also in Winston-Salem, the undermanned Wake Forest Deacons used a deliberate, spread out offense to score a 62-60 victory over Maryland.

Wake Forest Coach Carl Tacy hasn't used the slowdown this season, and had to counter it once, against Duke.

Wake Forest has strengthened its front line with the addition of Carl Stamp and the added experience of Lee Foye and Mike Parrish. But the Deacons are short of matching up to Maryland's Len Elmore and Tom Roy, each 6-9, and Tim McMillen, 6-11. Tony Byers leads Wake Forest in scoring, 20.4 average, and shooting percentage, 51.

A major problem for the Deacons could be getting a good shot. Opponents are shooting only 33 per cent against Maryland. UCLA managed only 33.8, and the best performance, by Georgetown, was a meager 36.6. Wake Forest is shooting 44.2 as a team to Maryland's 48.9.

John Lucas, who could be guarding Byers, leads Maryland in scoring with an average of 19.8.

The game, the only one tonight for ACC teams, will kick off a hectic weekend.

The schedule Saturday is Clemson, 7-4, at fifth-ranked North Carolina State, 7-1, at noon; fourth-ranked North Carolina, 9-1, at Virginia, 5-4, in a 3 p.m. regionally televised game, and Duke at Pitt at night.

On Sunday, Maryland will be at North Carolina State in a game which will be televised nationally beginning at noon. It will be seen before the Super Bowl game between Miami and Minnesota for the pro football championship.

ACC teams were idle Thursday night.

Unbeatens Win In Industrial

The two unbeaten teams in the Industrial Basketball League's Division II both came through with victories last night as Union Carbide and Empire Brush won their third in a row.

In the opener, Pitt Memorial Hospital won its second in three starts with a 68-53 win over the Post Office. Pitt Memorial inched out into a 28-25 lead in the first half of play, then outshot the Post Office, 40-28 in the second period.

Dan Edwards led Pitt Memorial with 22 points, while Clarence Taft had 19. For the Post Office, Thomas Perkins had 15 and Doug Teal had 13.

Union Carbide took a 62-51 win over Wacovia in the second game. The Batterymen worked up a 32-27 lead by halftime, then outthit the Bankers, 30-24, down the stretch.

F. Mayo led Union Carbide with 23 points, while Garland Warren had 19 and Tommy Roach had 18. For Wacovia, Bill

Baggett had 16, Randy Brooks had 15 and Don Hardison had 10.

Empire Brush used the second half to take a 65-59 win over North Carolina National Bank. Both teams finished the first half with 30 points. But in the second, Empire Brush dumped 35 points, while holding DUNCB to just 29, enough for the victory.

Bobby Parker led Empire Brush with 18, while Edward Coburn had 16 and James Parker had 12. For NCNB, Kenny Wood had 18, Randy Martin had 14 and Leon Johnson had 12.

Tribute . . .

Relations Committee, presented the plaque to Hunter and then Hunter thanked the people who put the proceedings together saying, "All the 85,000 people in the stands and 50 million watching on TV did not realize the true value of that touchdown run. All they saw was my ten teammates on the field blocking beautifully so that I could run the 93-yard touchdown untouched. All they saw was number 25 struggling, trying to get to the end zone."

"But they did not see the city of Greenville right there running stride for stride along side him; pushing him forward and after he crossed the goal line they could not see them there. I knew they were there; I could feel them. I could hear them there."

"After I got home, the warmth that I felt was unbelievable and this is a day that I and my family will never forget. This has been something very beautiful. I would like just to thank each and everyone in Greenville for a very lovely day. Thank you very much."

Later, after all the handshaking and personal greetings had been said and the group in attendance was leaving, Al was asked if he felt that all the celebration of the past several days would cause some added pressure on him next spring and fall in that he might feel he would have an image to live up to.

"No, I don't think there is any pressure on me to live up to an image so to speak but it's the thing now that the people of Greenville are behind me and I feel that I can't let them down; I'll have to do my best in school and on the football field, also. I feel that, say, if I should drop out of school, I would be letting a lot of people down."

Did you think Greenville would be this grateful for the TD you scored?" I did not think about all this and I knew people wished me well but I did not expect anything like this."

Neither did the people of Greenville expect a native son to, for a few brief minutes shift the spotlight to Greenville on that chilly New Year's eve night of a month ago as he streaked to proverbial daylight and a touchdown and send himself on his way to who knows what greater things.

Little Known Mercer Shining

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
Manhattan's shooting stars were blocked out by streaking southern comets Thursday night.

And Mercer College doesn't expect to come down to earth after an upset, 81-71 basketball victory.

"The word is getting around that we have a pretty good ball club," said Mercer Coach Joe Dan Gold after beating Manhattan's skyscrapers. "We don't worry about lack of recognition."

The unheralded team from Macon, Ga., outshone an Eastern power that has admirable credentials this year — including the championship of the Holiday Festival Tournament at Madison Square Garden.

"It has to be my biggest victory at Mercer," said Gold, whose little-known squad has won 10 of 12 games this season. "Manhattan obviously is a fine team, winning the Holiday Festival and beating Temple recently."

Memphis State, the nation's No. 19 team, and No. 20 Hawaii were also upset Thursday night. Drake ripped Memphis State 91-80 and Missouri turned back previously unbeaten Hawaii 86-74.

Long Beach State, No. 9, played more to form by beating the University of Pacific 72-53.

Mercer's dramatic victory was fashioned behind Leonard Hardin and Billy Smith. Hardin scored 25 points and combined with Smith for 27 of Mercer's 50 rebounds.

The winners held every Jasper in check except Bill Campion, a 6-foot-10 brute who went wild with 28 points and 15 rebounds. But even Campion was nullified in the late going, when Mercer moved away from a 42-42 tie.

The Jaspers, described by some basketball "experts" as the kings of New York City, lost their third game in 10 starts this season.

Larry Haralson scored 30 points in Drake's stunner over Memphis State. The Bulldogs used 17 of Haralson's points to build a 21-point lead in the first half and the Tigers never got closer than six thereafter.

Dexter Reed scored 22 points for the Tigers, who lost their fourth game in 15.

Gary Link connected for 24 points and Al Eberhard added 18 in Missouri's success. The game spoiled Hawaii's perfect 11-0 record.

Leonard Gray hit on 13 of 14 field goal attempts, scoring 27 points, to lead Long Beach over Pacific. The 49ers romped despite the absence of starters Glen McDonald and Roscoe Pondexter, who had earlier been declared ineligible because of poor grades. The 49ers shot a sizzling 65 per cent from the floor.

Elsewhere in college basketball, Florida State trimmed Virginia Tech 85-80; Connecticut downed Syracuse 61-60; Houston tripped Baylor 74-70; Boston College nudged Villanova 81-79; Idaho State took a 71-67 overtime decision over Weber State; Denver defeated Wyoming 76-70; Boise State topped Northern Arizona 73-65; Bradley turned back St. Louis 78-72 and Wichita State nipped Tulsa 81-79.

Cox Gets Boys' Win

BETHEL—A. G. Cox Junior High School won its fifth straight basketball game of the season last night, taking a 47-40 victory over Bethel Junior High.

The Bethel girls slipped to an 18-17 victory in their game. Roberson led Bethel with eight points, while Juanita Cash has eight for Cox.

In the boys' game, Gary Congleton led Cox with 17 points, with Broderick Best adding 14. Bethel was led by Jenkins with nine, while Moore had eight.

Cox's boys are now 5-0, while the girls are 3-2.

Backgammon: Can 3 Million Americans Be Wrong?

By FREDERICK M. WINSHIP
UPI Senior Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Of all the games people play in 1974, backgammon has the brightest future.

Some 3 million Americans already spend some of their leisure hours moving little round counters from triangle to triangle on divided playing board, and converts to the world's oldest dice game are being made every day. Only 200,000 were playing the fast-moving game of luck and skill five years ago, according to experts.

International backgammon champion Tim Holland, just back from a promotional swing around the nation for his book "Beginning Backgammon," said stores that were selling one board a week a few months ago now are selling 10 or 15. Good portable sets sell for $15 to $20. Holland has a tooled leather set that cost $600.

"Americans spent $5 million on backgammon equipment in 1973," the lean, handsome gamesman said. "People have discovered that the game requires little experience to learn to play proficiently, the games are short and can be played anywhere, there's no chance of cheating, the outcome of the game can be reversed by one throw of the dice, and it's a great gambling game. Also, women love it."

Backgammon was devised by the Chaldeans 5,000 years ago and still is the national pastime of Turkey and Greece. It flourished in France as tricarac in the 18th Century and always has been favored by members of elite clubs in Britain and the United States. But it was the introduction of a doubling cube in 1925 that pointed the game toward wider popularity.

All Over the Map
"Once a player doubles, his opponent can decline the double and end the game, thus losing his original stake," Holland explained in an interview in his trophy-filled Manhattan apartment. "But he can redouble and a $1 stake can quickly go up to $2, $4, $8, $16, $32, or even $64. This is the fascination of the game for many players, but of course you don't have to gamble at all."

Holland, 42, has earned as much as $60,000 a year at the game and has had to incorporate himself to ease his income tax position. He now is a professional teacher, organizes clinics, has brought out a learning aid called Autobackgammon, and is promoting tournaments, which are like catnip to backgammon buffs. Alexis Obolensky, a former Russian prince, is responsible for organizing a majority of tournaments.

"There are 15 tournaments in the United States now and you can find them all over the map—Monte Carlo, the Virgin Islands, Saudi Arabia," said Holland, who has won the international tournament in London three times and the world tournament in Las Vegas three times. He got a $10,000 winner's cut of the entry fees at the recent London play.

Tournaments lure both players and big bettors, who sometimes form syndicates called "calcuttas." Some tournaments have commercial sponsors such as Joseph E. Seagram & Sons, in others would-be backers bid for players. These gatherings are extremely sociable and kibitzing is encouraged.

"The caliber of playing has improved so much that the good players of yesteryear can't rank with the best of today," said Holland, who considers Barclay Cook, Gino Scalamandre and Ted Basset among the best U.S. players. "I can take credit for many of the tactics used today. My chief innovation was to incorporate the rules of possibility into a game that had been played the same way for 50 years."

Slave to Game
Holland was a leading amateur golf champion with a law degree when he chanced on some elderly men playing backgammon in a Miami, Fla., club 16 years ago. Although they told him it would take him 40 years to master the game, he insisted on joining the play and won $100.

"Backgammon simply took over," he recalled. "I became a slave. I'd play with anyone I could find at any hour. One time I played 68 hours straight. One can become a proficient player rather quickly but it could take a lifetime to master all the subtleties of the game. When you realize how little you know, then you're probably getting good."

The champion said he wouldn't predict that backgammon will outstrip bridge as America's favorite game. However, Obolensky formed a Backgammon Association of America in 1972 to regularize the rules, organize tournament playoffs and award championship points. The same thing was done for bridge in 1931 when the American Contract Bridge League was formed.

Holland, whose wife, Lona, is an enthusiastic player, does predict that women never will make the top rank of players. "Women are best at the game of being a female," he said. "She can't devote full attention to a competitive game. I think this is a compliment to women."

TIM HOLLAND, international backgammon champion, says now some 3 million Americans devote hours to the fast-moving game of luck and skill. (UPI Telephoto)

Actor Edward G. Robinson Really A Retiring Man

By VERNON SCOTT
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Edward G. Robinson was a quiet, retiring man, the absolute opposite of the tough guys he portrayed on the screen, yet difficult to characterize in the written word.

Now he has sprung to life in a new biography, "All My Yesterdays," written by his friend of 40 years, Leonard Spigelgass.

Playwright, screen-writer Spigelgass, distinguished in his own right, knew the complexities of Robinson better than anyone else. Perhaps more objectively than Robinson himself.

It was only after Robinson, who died in January, 1973, discovered he had cancer and was taking cobalt treatments that he agreed to work on the story of his life with Spigelgass.

"I brought up the subject earlier," said Spigelgass, a spare man with piercing eyes and a disconcerting Robinson sound-like voice. "Eddie's first question was, 'do you think there's a book in me?'"

"Of course there was. His terrible times with the House Un-American Activities Committee is an unbelievable story in itself."

"Eddie was one of the most intelligent men I ever knew. Certainly he was an intellectual giant among actors."

"But he was never very egotistical about his acting genius. He would rather have been Sir Laurence Olivier than Edward G. Robinson. He wasn't impressed with his performances, but he loved the applause."

"Eddie was a great perfectionist. He even rehearsed his curtain calls."

Spigelgass has walked a careful line in his book. He portrays Robinson as a man of great style and taste, but he also reveals some of the warts. Spigelgass had the use of dozens of scrapbooks of letters, playbills, newspaper accounts and other memorabilia going back to 1911 which Robinson had saved and preserved over the course of his 70 years.

Midway through the book Robinson died. Spigelgass had spent every day for 28 days at his side in the hospital before the end. For almost a year they had worked side by side on the manuscript.

"I didn't want to finish the book," Spigelgass said. "My life seemed empty. He had filled my life just as he filled any room he walked into."

"But I only quit writing for 24 hours. We had 150 pages written, with his notations in the margins. I couldn't read them. What gave me courage to continue writing was sitting down and listing all the things he wanted me to omit from the manuscript."

"In the beginning he had wanted me to write, 'my dad owned an antique shop.' I told him we had to write the book accurately. We had to say, 'Papa owned a junk store.'"

"Eddie agreed to that. He played a large part in the composition of the book. He was a better grammarian than I and would frequently lecture me on the constructions of sentences."

"He refused to say much about his own painting. But his great love was his art collection. He knew great art, literature and music. I'm still at a loss to discover where some of his paintings are today."

Most of all, Spigelgass regrets Robinson did not live to see the book.

"But then who knows," he concluded. "If Eddie were still live we would probably be working on it right now, fighting over every other word."

Uses Bubbles For Building Sculpture

By SHEILA MELTZER
EILAT, Israel (AP) — An Israeli artist who experiments with echoes and researches rainbows is prowling around the bottom of the Red Sea to build a sculpture garden — with bubbles.

"My idea is to erect an underwater garden of sculptures whose forms are bubbles produced by pumping compressed air through pipes," says Matty Grunberg, a red-bearded 34-year-old who has switched his painter's palette for an aqua-lung.

Grunberg says the air sculptures make a spectacular sight and particularly at night, "the crystal clear bubbles reflect facets of color that make it an unbelievable trip."

"It's like a glorious illusion while you are completely conscious...LSD without pills." The Yugoslav-born artist, who has held exhibitions in Paris and New York, says scuba diving in the coral-filled Red Sea off Eilat impressed him so much that "I couldn't get it out of my mind," so he put it to work.

The underwater idea is an extension of conceptual art, "working with the elements in nature...air is the purest and most natural element."

Grunberg is also working on "a project near Haifa where there is an echo, which I am harnessing to rebound as an art form."

"Or at the Dead Sea, where everything living is consumed by the constant burning sun, I am researching the possibility of a rainbow."

"It would reach from our side of the Dead Sea to the Jordan side, with colored rays bringing them a message of peace."

Grunberg plans a color television film of the undersea bubbles, pouring out of holes in pipes set at different angles near the shore of Eilat.

A vacation resort, Eilat also plans an underwater observation tower whose lights could illuminate Grunberg's garden.

Photographic exhibitions of the bubble show have already been arranged by the Tel Aviv Museum and the Lusiana Museum in Copenhagen, the artist said.

School Board Advisory Body Meets Monday

The Citizens Advisory Committee to the City School Board will meet Monday, 8 p.m. at Rose High School.

The CAC, it was announced, has been asked by the school board to make a check of school bus driving in the city in regard to safety practices and to help the board gather information pertaining to driving safety.

Cato Devone of Williamston, who licenses drivers for the city schools, will be on hand at the meeting and will speak to the committee members.

The CAC noted that infractions of school bus driving rules should be reported to David Barnhill at Rose High School.

In Sharjah, back-slung rifle is carried to market...

...silver-sheathed knife is worn at belt in bazaar...

...dhows now carry dates and fish, pirate days are past.

Since December, 1971, the small Persian Gulf states of what used to be called the Pirate Coast have been united as the Union of Arab Emirates. Some are rich with oil, others have few natural resources. In all of them the old days of piracy and slave trading are gone forever and change is quickening. But history can't be wiped out overnight, and there's still visible evidence of the past—crumbling medieval castles and silent cannon on craggy ramparts, and customs and traditions that will take generations finally to fade away.

Marriage Isn't All 50-50 Deal

Corinne wonders why we stress marriage problems so often in this daily column. Happy homes are the basic unit guaranteeing the future of this Republic, as well as law and order, morality and proper tutelage of children. Beware of that 50-50 idea!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE Z-523: Corinne K., aged 24, is a young bride. "Dr. Crane," she protested, "why do you stress the wife's role in marriage so often? 'Isn't marriage supposed to be a 50-50 affair?" With a divorce rate now hovering near 30 percent nationwide, and almost 50 percent in New York as well as California, newspapers run this column to help reduce this tragic evidence of marital bankruptcy! For children of broken homes are also far less happy than when they have a daddy and mother together, under the same roof!

Besides, youngsters from divorced homes have a much higher rate of drug addiction, school dropouts and juvenile delinquency.

Not marriages but HAPPY HOMES are the best insurance for this Republic and our entire social fabric. The over-all mathematics may list 50-50 as true of happy marriage.

But that 50-50 doesn't hold of every item or situation involved. For example, you brides know that a woman may demand only 2,000 calories daily at the dinner table, yet a man may require 3,500.

So husband and wife are NOT on a 50-50 basis in the gastric realm! An even greater difference holds true of their boudoir appetites.

The typical bride is about 25 percent erotic and 75 percent maternal. For God Almighty apparently created females of most species, including dogs, cats, cows, sheep, hogs and birds, as well as women, to be "nest builders" and custodians of babies.

Men, however, reverse that ratio for they are at least 75 percent erotic and but 25 percent paternal.

So their erotic hungers are not on a 50-50 basis.

Men also are far more warlike and competitive than women, despite the mythical tales of the female Amazons.

Women, however, are far more patient and understanding of kiddies.

They are also more nimble fingered, so they like to knit, sew, crochet.

Even the specific gravity of men and women differ, for women have relatively more fatty tissue, which is why they can float on water more easily than men.

They aren't even 50-50 in weight or height.

And the average woman is only about 65 percent as strong as the male of equal poundage.

Thus, this glorified 50-50 ideal refers to the final sum total of their varying characteristics, attitudes, appetites and inborn traits. As a rule, the man is the bread winner, but often disease or war injuries or other factors make it impossible for the husband to finance his family.

In such cases, many dutiful wives may shoulder 75 percent or more of the financial upkeep of the home.

And intelligent husbands should realize the long hours, plus the many irritations resulting from several kiddies in the home.

So such men should give their wife assistance, plus an evening date, away from the domestic scene, at least once per week! But even intelligent, moral husbands become snarlish when their wives fail to satisfy the innate male hunger for erotic calories, even though the same wives are superb culinary artists and gastric chefs.

So send for my 200-page "Tests for Husbands and Wives," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

If you can rate "Superior" or "Very Superior" thereon, you will not be likely to enter a divorce court!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

One Divorce For Two Marriages

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Montgomery County's Family Court Judge William Thetford said because Alabama has such lax divorce laws there is a divorce for every two marriages performed in the county. Thetford granted 1,165 divorces in 1972 and had approved 959 through August, 1973.

The judge said that is far above the national average.

Do the cards dictate the fate of a particular hand, or is the player master of his own fate? Sometimes an unfortunate lie of the cards will wreck a perfectly sound contract. Most times, however, man can dictate the final outcome.

Consider today's hand. A normal auction resulted in a good four heart contract. The South was considerably better than minimum, he took the conservative course in merely raising to four hearts because of his five losers in spades and diamonds—it was too much to ask of partner to cover most of them.

West led the queen of spades, covered by the king and won by the ace. A low spade was returned to West's ten, and a diamond was led thru dummy's suit. Declarer finessed the queen and East completed the defensive book by winning the king. He exited with a club to South's queen. Declarer drew trumps and led a diamond to dummy's ten. Unfortunately, East produced the jack for down one. "What terrible luck," complained South, "three cards had to be wrong for me to go down!" It was indeed hard luck, yet declarer could have done better. See what happens if declarer does not play dummy's king of spades at the first trick. If West continues the suit, East must win the second trick and dummy's diamonds are safe from attack. Since another round of spades will give declarer a ruff-and-slush, East must shift. Declarer wins any return, draws trump and cashes his three clubs. Now he leads a diamond to the ten, and it is immaterial whether it wins or loses. If it loses to the jack, East must either give declarer a ruff-and-slush, or lead a diamond into dummy's ace-queen.
