

Kissinger Turns To Syria-Israel Front

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Egypt and Israel signed military disengagement documents today, and Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will fly to Damascus Sunday for talks on a separation of Syrian and Israeli forces, a U.S. official said.

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat will fly to Damascus also, on Saturday, for talks with the Syrians on disengagement of the Syrian and Israeli armies in the Golan Heights, the officials said.

"We will start the talks with the Syrians with the same dedication and good will" that was shown in Egypt, Kissinger said in Aswan, Egypt.

Egypt announced that Syrian President Hafez Assad already had authorized Sadat to begin talks with Kissinger on Syria's behalf.

Egypt and Syria were the main combatants against Israel in last October's Arab-Israeli war. Syria retook and then lost part of the Syrian Golan Heights captured by Israel in the 1967 war, and in addition lost new territory to the Israeli army.

Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban told newsmen his government is ready for a disengagement agreement with Syria.

"The ball is in their court," he said.

Israel has insisted it would not negotiate with Syria until the Syrians furnished a list of the Israeli prisoners of war they are holding and allowed the International Red Cross to visit them.

Israeli Premier Golda Meir signed a copy of an Egyptian-Israeli agreement in Jerusalem, while Sadat signed another at Aswan. Egyptian and Israeli chiefs of staff signed disengagement documents at a desert tent between their forces on the west side of the Suez Canal.

Cairo agreed to cut its forces east of the Suez Canal to 7,000 troops and 30 tanks and to withdraw all anti-aircraft missiles to a point seven miles west of the waterway.

The disengagement is known to call for Israel to withdraw from the west bank of the canal and to pull its army back 18 to 30 miles from the east bank to the Gidi and Mitla passes in the Sinai peninsula captured by Israel in the 1967 war.

The Egyptian-Israeli disengagement agreement could open the way for negotiations on finding solutions to the causes of three Arab-Israeli wars over a quarter of a century. The two countries will get their chance Jan. 24 when the Mideast peace talks resume in Geneva. The talks started last December but faltered because of old territorial disputes and claims of war atrocities.

Tax Reduction Package Beaten 59-49 In N.C. House Showdown

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser has won the first round against the Democratic leadership of the North Carolina House.

The House voted 59-49 Thursday to send a bill calling for a $50.9 million reduction in state taxes back to the Finance Committee.

The vote, which ran contrary to the wishes and expectations of the Democratic leaders, came shortly after Holshouser delivered his legislative message, in which he strongly opposed the tax reduction.

After the vote, Rep. Liston

Ramsey, D-Madison, chairman of the Finance Committee, said the bill was not dead. "The Finance Committee meets Tuesday and we'll start the ball game over," Ramsey said. He said he hoped to have the bill ready for the House calendar again within a week.

The bill in question is a package that would grant manufacturers and retailers a credit on their state income taxes for the inventory taxes they pay to local governments; it would also cut individual income taxes by $20 and increase the personal exemption for senior citizens.

The bill had been approved last fall by the Finance Committee and pushed onto Thursday's calendar as a special order of business by the House leadership.

Rep. Herbert Hyde, D-Buncombe, introduced an amendment that would have changed the tax credit to a tax exemption and started a state program of grants-in-aid to local governments to replace the revenues they gain from inventory taxes.

Hyde said there was no provision in the state constitution for income tax credits.

At that point, with many legislators apparently confused by Hyde's amendment, Rep. Sneed High, D-Cumberland, moved to send the bill and the amendment back to the Finance Committee; the motion passed.

Ramsey, assessing the vote afterwards, said Holshouser's speech had apparently persuaded many Republicans who had promised to vote for the bill to send it back to committee.

"They (the Republicans) haven't broken their promise yet," Ramsey said. "I think they'll vote with us when they vote on the actual bill."

Holshouser, in his speech, had said, "It is always a political temptation to propose tax cuts in an election year. I urge you to resist that temptation. Don't weaken our state treasury at a time when the full impact of the energy crisis is yet to be felt."

Holshouser recommended at least a delay in dealing with the tax cut proposal until the revenue projections for the next fiscal year were more reliable.

And even if there were more revenue than presently anticipated, Holshouser said he thought the legislature should appropriate it for teacher pay raises rather than cut taxes.

Holshouser also reaffirmed his opposition to a medical school at East Carolina University. He based his position on the need to respect the prerogatives of the University of North Carolina Board of Governors, created by the legislature in 1971.

Holshouser said the creation of the board had been one of the legislature's "finest hours" and urged the legislators not to ruin the board by overruling it.

That position and the tax cut opposition drew the only unfavorable reactions to the speech from Democratic legislators. ECU supporters denied Holshouser's contention that their expansion proposal would ruin the authority of the board.

"I can't see how it's any different from any state agency that comes to us with a program to be funded," said Sen. Thomas Strickland, D-Wayne. "We just want to do more than the board in providing medical care," said Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt.

Other Holshouser proposals were received more warmly, including his land use program. Two bills central to that program, the coastal and mountain area management acts, were introduced by Rep. Willis Whichard, D-Durham, and Sen. William Staton, D-Lee Thursday.

The bills have been extensively revised to allow more local government participation after a summer of public hearings.

Bargaining

WASHINGTON (AP) — Special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski confirmed today that his office is plea-bargaining with several figures in the probe.

"It's fair to say it's more than one plea-bargaining negotiation going on," he said on the NBC "Today" program when asked if Watergate figures had tried to exchange information for recommendations of lenient criminal sentences.

"If you ask me if I had some discussions I would say yes — more than one. Their names are known to you and those who listen to you," he said. But he declined to elaborate or disclose names of those involved.

Jaworski said if his investigation indicated that President Nixon had knowledge "that was needed or of assistance in providing the information we need to know, I would request that he supply it. If I reach that conclusion, I would do so."

"The investigations we're conducting cover the waterfront. One of my mandates is also to investigate the President," and then turn over his findings to the appropriate Watergate grand jury, Jaworski said.

Passenger Train Bookings High

WASHINGTON (AP) — Passenger train ridership keeps increasing, with advance bookings now running about 2½ times as high as the previous record, says Amtrak.

And Amtrak officials say the pace shows no signs of slackening as long as the energy crisis remains with us.

The nation's rail passenger corporation said Thursday that it now has 205,000 advance bookings on record on any given day.

That compares to the previous record, during the peak travel period last summer, of 85,000 advance bookings on file.

INCHED UP

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Textile employment in Southeastern mills inched up in November, approaching the all-time record set in June, 1973, according to the regional office of the U.S. Department of Labor.

Rep. Jones Avers Federal Aid Open To New Medical Schools

FARMVILLE—Congressman Walter Jones said today that federal assistance is available and, in his judgment, will continue to be available to new and developing medical schools.

In a statement issued from his Farmville office, Jones said:

"My office looked into this matter by contacting the responsible agency of the U. S. Public Health Service, Division of Physicians and Health Professions Education. This division administers the several federal grant programs of the Health Manpower Training Act of 1971 which I am certain will be renewed during our upcoming Congressional session.

"A new and developing medical school is eligible to apply for federal funds to assist in its establishment, its facilities, and its operations. The new school must have reasonable assurance of accreditation which I personally view as not difficult if a state authorizes the development of a medical school and provides for adequate basic funding for facilities and for faculty and staff.

"The developing medical school then is eligible automatically for a direct capitation grant based on the number of students enrolled. I understand that the ECU school of medicine received a proportionate share last year through the UNC Chapel Hill medical school based on the 20 medical students enrolled at ECU. With the change implemented in the administration of the ECU program this year I understand that no capitation funds have been transferred to East Carolina for use during this coming year.

"The second grant program, start up assistance, provides federal funds each year for up to four years for new medical schools beginning even the year before any students are enrolled. The specific amount authorized is $10,000 per student initially, dropping to $2,500 for each student in the fourth year of the start-up granting period; the new school must plan to enroll at least 24 students in its first year of teaching.

"Another federal program, special project grants, provides funds to medical schools; for example to innovate to establish family practice programs, to increase enrollments from rural rural areas, from minority or low income groups, and to train physicians assistants. "In spite of comments I have heard or read the past two years to the contrary, there are still federal funds appropriated and available to assist in the construction of the facilities for a new medical school.

"These funds, as well as start-up and special project funds, are not automatically doled out; applications for them must be made and reviewed in competition with applications from other medical schools.

"My point is simply that a new and developing medical school is eligible to apply for federal funds to supplement the basic federal funds appropriated to it. Let me emphasize, however, that the developing medical school must reach independent status to receive the maximum funds possible. This is one more reason for action leading to an independent school of medicine at East Carolina University.

Discord Likely

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

Egypt's troop disengagement accord with Israel seems likely to churn new uneasiness in the Arab East, posing a possibility of new political turmoil and instability.

As usual, Syria is at the core of the matter. Its regimes have shown great talent for demonstrating the fragility of Arab alliances, and an old Middle East hand can detect developing new Arab rifts and even rifts within rifts.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's diplomacy has produced what the Syrian regime of President Hafez Assad warned Egypt to avoid. If there was to be disengagement, Damascus held, it should be simultaneous on both Syrian and Egyptian fronts. Was Egypt now thinking of Egypt first and foremost?

At the least, it would seem the Egyptians have trod upon sensitive Syrian corns and perhaps angered Iraq as well.

In The Budget

Planning money for the renovation and addition to the old Wahl-Coates School at East Carolina University for use as the Drama and Speech Building and funds for planning an ECU planetarium were included in the State Budget presented yesterday.

The Board of Governors' budget request called for $82,000 for the Wahl-Coates building plans and $44,000 to plan a planetarium and observatory to meet instructional needs in the sciences.

Total cost of the Wahl-Coates project is expected to be $1.6 million, and the planetarium, $565,000. East Carolina Vice Chancellor for Financial Affairs Cliff Moore said.

Nixon To Unveil Energy Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced today that he will make a live radio broadcast at noon EDT Saturday to lay out the government's energy program.

Nixon also announced that he will hold a bipartisan congressional leadership meeting Monday morning at which Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger will brief the leaders on Middle East developments. Also there will be some discussion of the administration's energy legislative proposals.

Sitting down for an Oval Office meeting with Senate Minority Leader Hugh Scott, R-Pa., the President outlined his plans when reporters and photographers came into his office for a picture-taking session.

Still Interested In Governorship

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—Dr. Leo Jenkins, chancellor of East Carolina University, has reiterated his interest in running for governor of North Carolina, but he says it is too early to make a decision.

He said in an interview Thursday, "If people of substantial substance feel I ought to be a candidate and support me, then I am going to consider running seriously."

Dean Martin's Son Is Arrested On Gun Count

WASHINGTON (AP) — Dean Martin Jr., 22-year-old son of actor-singer Dean Martin, has been arrested and charged with illegal possession of firearms, federal officials said today.

A spokesman for the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms Bureau of the Department of the Treasury said Martin was arrested Thursday at his home in Beverly Hills, Calif.

Martin was scheduled for arraignment later today in Los Angeles, the bureau spokesman said.

The spokesman said five machine guns, a 20mm cannon and a supply of ammunition were confiscated at Martin's house.

The bureau spokesman said the machine guns included an M2 carbine, a British Sten gun, a Thompson .45-caliber submachine gun and two Belgian FM machine guns.

He would not say how the agents learned of the firearms.

But the Los Angeles Times said federal agents made the arrest Thursday afternoon after an alleged sale of an AK47 semiautomatic weapon and an AR15 automatic rifle to an undercover agent for $625.

The bureau spokesman in Washington said Martin was charged with unlawful possession of a machine gun.

Bid To Change N.C. Primary Date 'Dies'

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer

RALEIGH (AP)—Any attempt to change North Carolina's primary election date apparently is dead—at least in the 1974 session of the General Assembly.

Rep. Ernest Messer, D-Haywood, chairman of the House Elections Committee, said today he has recommended that the Senate Elections Committee not approve a House-passed bill to change the date from May to September.

The Senate Democratic

caucus agreed in a closed meeting Thursday not to support the House-passed measure.

The action is a strong indication that the General Assembly will push to adjourn by April 1 in order that legislators seeking reelection can return home in time to do some campaigning before the May 7 primary.

"I think the primary date should be left alone this year," Messer told The Associated Press in an interview. "Everybody is gearing their election campaign to the May 7 date. I don't think it would be fair to change the filing date of Feb. 25 or the primary date."

During the 1973 session the House passed and sent to the Senate a measure to change the primary to the first Tuesday after the first Monday in September, which would be Sept. 3 this year.

Messer said it would be impossible to hold the primary at that time and still have a runoff primary and issue absentee ballots. He noted it would take considerable time to canvass and certify the vote from the first primary and print ballots for a second primary.

Messer said the purpose in changing the primary date was to reduce the campaign time before the November general election. Efforts to move the date to June, July or August ran into opposition because it would interfere with vacation plans of voters.

Since this is an election year, Messer said, the issue should be left alone and the 1975 General Assembly can take a close look at it and decide what action, if any, should be taken.

Messer said he had discussed the matter with Sen. Herman Moore, D-Mecklenburg, chairman of the House Elections Committee.

The veteran Haywood County lawmaker said he had not heard any clamor to change the primary date.

"In fact," he added, "the sentiment in my county has been to leave it alone—at least this year."

Sen. Mondale To Study Presidential Prospects

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Walter F. Mondale has become the second early entrant into the 1976 presidential race by authorizing formation of a committee to finance a study of his chances.

The 46-year-old Minnesota Democrat also indicated that if he decides to run he will follow the lead of George McGovern and declare formal candidacy far ahead of the traditional election-year starting time of January.

"Being relatively unknown, I'd have to get into it earlier than some other candidates," he said in an interview after his announcement Thursday.

Like Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., who formed an Exploratory Committee last year, Mondale stands well back in his party's presidential field.

But unlike Percy, Mondale may have an easier road ahead. Those leading him in the polls — Sens. Edmund S. Muskie and George McGovern, possibly Sen. Edward M. Ken-nedly and Gov. George C. Wallace — are questionable 1976 candidates.

Asked how his plans would be affected by a Kennedy candidacy, Mondale said, "If I decide to go I would do so regardless of who else got in." But he conceded a Kennedy candidacy would diminish his own chances.

Only Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., an unsuccessful 1972 aspirant, seems certain to make a 1976 bid.

Small Business Eyes Natural Look

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The highest compliment you can pay Ursula Danz' work is to say you didn't notice it.

For in her trade, making artificial eyes, realism is the chief goal; losing an eye is hard enough to bear without the additional worry about appearance.

"I have people who lost their eyes 50 years ago and still tell me every detail and shed a tear or two," she said.

Nationally, it's not a big business. Mrs. Danz said there are only 13 artificial eye makers in the country, most of them related. She herself married into a family that is now in its fifth generation of making eye prostheses.

One thinks of artificial eyes as being made of glass. Since World War II, however, plastic has been the material of choice. It resists deterioration better — a plastic eye lasts about five years, a glass eye about one year — and is less likely to break.

In the early days of plastics, she recalled, "I would be cooking dinner on one burner of the stove and cooking plastic on the other."

Once the plastic has been molded to fit the patient's eye socket, Mrs. Danz uses a mixture of oil paints and plastic syrup to hand paint the eye, matching it to the good eye of the patient.

She has the patient sit before her so she can match the iris color, the shade of the white of the eye, and the amount of veining. Another oculist, as eye makers are called, in the Los Angeles area is Frederick Lewis. He has practiced in Los Angeles since 1946; before that he made eyes at Walter Reed Army Hospital.

The traditional eye removal operation, he said, is enucleation, in which the entire eye is removed. The surgeon partially fills the socket with material to form a stump, and a plastic eye like a shell is inserted over the stump.

A better result, said Lewis, is obtained by leaving the eye intact but removing the contents through an incision. A plastic globe is put into replace the contents and a plastic shell for the front of the eye is inserted.

"We get better motility — movement — with this process," said Lewis. The eye muscles are left largely intact, and can move the artificial eye better than if the entire eye had been removed.

However, no really effective way has been found to produce natural-looking movement with an artificial eye, he said.

Mrs. Danz said plastic is less vulnerable than glass to the acidity of the eye socket. A glass eye becomes roughened and discolored after only a year or so in place, she said.

The final product, the plastic eye painted and coated with a special lacquer, sells for about $200, said Mrs. Danz.

Inset, center, she paints an artificial eye to match the remaining eye of an individual who has lost one.

Mrs. Kannen Is Opt-Mrs. Club Speaker Tuesday

Mrs. Lisa Kannen was guest speaker at the meeting of the Opt-Mrs. Club of Greenville Tuesday night at the home of Mrs. Stuart Buchanan.

Speaking on West Germany, Mrs. Kannen told of the lifestyle there. She also discussed traveling and vacation time, socialized medicine, eating habits and foods, wedding ceremonies and women of the country.

During the business session conducted by President Mrs. John Trotman, reports were given by Mrs. Tracy Medlin, Mrs. Larry Good, Mrs. C. P. Shaw and Mrs. Jim O'Brien. Mrs. Charles Ross, a member of the Operation Sunshine Board, gave a brief history of Operation Sunshine and told of present needs.

It was announced that the N. C. District Optimist board meeting would be held in Charlotte Feb. 8-9. The Opt-

Mrs. Clubs throughout the state will meet Saturday morning. Mrs. Dennis Halsey was welcomed as a guest.

The next meeting will be held Tuesday, Feb. 19, at the home of Mrs. Trotman.

Stock Market Triggers Blood Pressure

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Every time the stock market goes DOWN 10 points, my husband's blood pressure goes UP 30 points. I'm afraid one of these days he's going to drop dead.

He has quite a lot invested in the market, but thank God, not everything. I never look at the stock market reports in the newspaper anymore. And when it comes on the news over the radio, I turn it off. I figure there's nothing I can do about it anyway, so why spoil my day, right?

I've been trying to get my husband to quit following the market so closely for his own good, but he won't listen to me. The minute he walks thru the door I can tell how the market was by looking at his face. He's never had a real heart attack—only a "warning." Don't you think if he got out of the market altogether he'd live longer? PEGGY

DEAR PEGGY: Not if he sold his stock at 40 and it went up to 120! If your husband follows [a] his doctor's advice, and [b] his broker's advice, he could be in good shape for a long time. Don't nag him.

DEAR ABBY: My sister fell in love with a guy who made her pregnant. When she told him about it he offered her money for an abortion but she refused because she didn't believe in abortion, so instead she went to a home for unwed mothers.

After she had her baby she was told she couldn't leave the hospital unless she signed some papers. They said the papers were nothing—just a routine matter, and she had six months to decide whether she wanted to keep her baby or give it up for adoption.

Of course she signed the papers and left. Two months later she went back to get her baby and was told that they have given her baby away! She is heartbroken now and is getting sick over it.

She went to the District Attorney and also to the lawyers at Legal Aid, and they either couldn't or wouldn't help her get her baby back. Abby, we aren't rich people but we would do anything to help her. Can you help us? HER FAMILY

DEAR FAMILY: Yes. Please send me your name and address. Also the name of the home for unwed mothers where your sister had her baby.

DEAR ABBY: I just read in the newspaper where a 238-pound woman wanted to get down to 124 pounds so she could wear a bikini like her teen-age daughters, so she had a dentist cement her teeth together to keep her from eating. She'll live on liquids until she gets down to the desired weight, then the dentist will remove the cement from her teeth.

Can you please find out who that dentist is, and how much he'd charge to do the same thing to my wife? Her problem isn't eating, it's talking. HAD IT IN NASHVILLE

DEAR HAD IT: The dentist is in England. And I doubt if he'd do it for the reason you suggest.

Initiation Held By BPW Club

An initiation ceremony was held at the meeting of the Greenville Business and Professional Woman's Club held at the Ramada Inn.

Miss Nancy Smith, president, assisted Mrs. Lucille Moore, membership chairman, in the initiation of the club's newest members, Natalie Grady and Colleen Patton. Corsages and membership certificates were given to the new members.

Guests recognized were Elizabeth Grimes and Dorothy Harmon. The club's Young Careerist, Kathy Klepinger, introduced by Mary Daugherty, gave a synopsis of her work and ambitions. She ended her talk with "Be all you can be."

The Ways and Means Committee is making plans for the club's spring card tournament to be held Thursday, April 25.

The club is in process of organizing a BPW Club in Williamston.

The February meeting will be the club's birthday banquet, which will include special entertainment.

Farmers Prepared Abide By Tobacco Quota Hike

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

Although many local farmers are not happy with the 10 percent increase in tobacco allotments for 1974, the general feeling among farm leaders is that farmers will abide by the decision made by U. S. Secretary of Agriculture, Earl L. Butz earlier this week.

The USDA had considered a suspension of flue-cured tobacco controls entirely this year, but decided only to increase the quotas. A 10 percent increase was approved for last year's crop, thus making a 20 percent increase in the quota in two years.

Stacy J. Evans, manager of the Pitt County Agricultural Stabilization and Corporation

Service, said, "Since the proposal by the USDA was to either increase or terminate the tobacco allotment quotas, I feel local farmers are accepting the increase."

Evans said the question now is whether or not the increase will affect the rental of tobacco crops. "Some farmers feel that rental will not be affected while others feel the increase will affect rental only slightly," Evans said.

Evans stated that farmers do not have to plant more than 75 percent of their allotment one year out of every three.

"Farmers have to plant as much as 75 percent one year out of every three to protect their allotment. The other two years, farmers may plant any amount of their quota they choose," Evans explained.

"A great percent of the farmers never plant all of their allotments because they can make their poundage on less acres. And, by doing this, if the farmers have good crops, they will have pounds to market in the fall without having to lease pounds at a higher price," Evans said.

Most farmers, according to Evans, intend to plant enough acres to make the allotted pounds with the increase.

The increase will increase the county's quota from 43,192,369 pounds of tobacco to 47,511,905 pounds.

Ed Yancey, chairman of the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service, said the 10 percent increase is a fact that farmers will have to deal with.

"Our recommendation is that farmers try to grow the extra tobacco on the same amount of acres they did last year," Yancey said. "They need to just do a better management job."

In essence, Yancey stated, this means they use basically the same number of trips over the field, about the same amount of labor, not much extra fertilizer, the same amount of sucker control and chemicals.

"It is more efficient for farmers to produce better tobacco on the same amount of land," Yancey noted. "This will make more money for the farmer."

David Harold Smith, president of the Pitt County Farm Bureau, said he and many of the Farm Bureau members are not happy with the increase, mainly because of the fuel and fertilizer situation.

"We will tolerate the decision made by Butz," Smith emphasized. "However, there may be a tendency on the part of some farmers not to plant the additional tobacco quota."

"I have some misgivings on what the additional crop will cost. It may cause some decrease in the economy of the farm," the Farm Bureau president stated.

Smith said he did not anticipate an increase in the price received for tobacco.

"I feel there will be an increase in the cost of producing this year's crop," Smith stated. "I hope the future won't be as dark as things look now."

W. B. Glenn, president of Carolina Leaf Tobacco Company, said he feels the USDA decision on the increase was a good one.

"It gives the grower a choice on whether or not he wants to plant extra tobacco," Glenn noted.

"The expectant disappearance of flue-cured tobacco in both domestic and abroad markets indicates that a 10 percent increase is warranted," Glenn explained.

Greenville Tobacco Company President Charles Howard stated that the export industry feels the increase in quota is justified due to the tremendous expansion of exports during the past year and also due to the fact that foreign customers are buying two years in advance.

"With the projected increase in consumption in various countries, the export industry can foresee that the use of tobacco is rising by five percent a year.

"If you look down the road two years, you can see that 10 percent more tobacco is needed," Howard explained. "Also, there is a shortage of flue-cured tobacco in the world. The United States is the logical place for them to turn for the solution. We have a stable economic situation in the U.S. in which we can grow tobacco."

"I think the Secretary's stand on the increase is fully justified and hopefully, all farmers will make every effort to plant the increase.

Farmers have begun to prepare the land for their 1974 crop and a decision on how much tobacco they will plant will have to be made in the near future. It is hoped by USDA and by the export industries that the farmers will plant the increase.

Reward Offered By Four-Year-Old For Pet Pony's Return

By CAROL B. TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

"My Granddaddy Sutton gave me a $5 bill for Christmas. I'll give it to anybody who'll bring Rosebud back to me," says four-year-old Lee Eakes of Rt. 3, Greenville.

The boy's miniature pony, Rosebud, brown with white mane and tail, apparently was stolen Friday night or early Saturday morning. The three-foot-high pet was kept in a hog parlor all his own that opens into a pasture on Lee's grandfather's farm. Lee fed her late last Friday afternoon, and Louis Sutton said he saw her when he came up from hunting just at dark the same day.

The next morning, the only trace of the tiny pony was hair from her mane and tail caught on a broken fence rail and hoofmarks that went about 200 yards to a path and stopped abruptly.

"We've looked all over the woods and the golf course (Brook Valley) and have asked all up and down all the way to Venter's Crossroads. We've got an ad in the paper, too. Lee's daddy works with the State Highway Commission, and he's got all the highway workmen in the county on the lookout. It just looks like she's disappeared, though," Sutton said.

"This is not the first time someone's bothered with Rosebud," he went on. "Last fall someone sheared her down her back and let her and another pony loose on the highway. We were lucky that the Sheriff brought both of them back safely that time."

"It's hard to explain to a four-year-old boy who loves his pony more than anything else in the world how some folks can be so mean. We really would like to hear from anyone who even thinks he knows something about the whereabouts of a pony that looks like Rosebud. I know she's missing Lee, too."

"Lee's parents phone number is 758-5477.

Druggists Help Health Research

WICHITA (AP) — Twelve national voluntary health agencies in 1974 will receive research funds made available by Associated Druggists, an organization of more than 1,200 independent retail pharmacies operating in 30 states, with its headquarters here.

Associated Druggists will donate $1,000 in research funds each month, each time to a different health organization. United Cerebral Palsy is the recipient for January.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Samille Diana Freisen, better known as actress Dyan Cannon, has petitioned Superior Court to make her stage name her legal name.

Grades For Whole Families

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP) — A Nassau Community College survey indicates that the family which studies together gets good grades together. Dr. Robert Gwydir, vice president for academic affairs, observes that "academic families usually have good academic averages."

He considers that family enrollments at the Garden City campus are "getting down to the bedrock of community service." About 1,725 students are involved in these family enrollments.

Relates Setting 3 Men On Fire

MIAMI (AP) — "You could say Al and I were the fluid boys. Cleve was the match boy," 13-year-old Greg Wilburn testified.

The boy made the comments Thursday in telling a Juvenile Court judge how he and two friends set fire to three men, killing one and injuring the others.

After hearing three separate trials, Judge William Gladstone ordered Wilburn, Allen Gerald and Cleveland Evans, all 13, committed to a state facility designed to treat disturbed children.

Police charged the three had set fire to three drifters behind an abandoned building last Oct. 20.

"Me and Gerald put the fluid on — we put the stuff on the people. We left all the matches with Cleve," Wilburn said of the attack which left Charles Scales, 38, dead, and Emmett Spratling and James Blackburn injured.

However, under further questioning Wilburn admitted that he and Gerald had kept some of their matches, but Wilburn said he did not light any of his.

"They was just pranking. They was laughing and throwing gas and striking matches," Spratling had told police.

Blackburn, 46, testified that he was talking with friends when the attack began.

"Before I knew what happened, they threw that stuff on me — they like to burn me up," he said.

Park Proposes His Own Treaty

SEOUL, South Korea (AP) — President Chung Hee Park proposed a nonaggression pact with North Korea today but again rejected the Communist regime's long-standing proposal for a peace treaty.

It was the first proposal for a nonaggression pact from either North or South Korea since the 1950-53 war.

Park said he rejects the North Korean proposal for a peace treaty because it is meant "only to disarm the South." But he said he hopes the stalemated North-South political talks resume soon.

Little Change In His Matches

CHICAGO (UPI) — A 19th century English chemist is responsible for more fires, in a manner of speaking, than any other person in history—millions of them each day.

John Walker, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, in 1827 invented the friction match containing phosphorous sulphate.

Walker's match is essentially the same as in use today throughout the world.

A Heightening Of Suspensions

Technical experts have testified that the 18.5 minute gap in tapes of presidential conversations were caused by a number of starts and stops with the record button.

This seems to dispute the testimony of presidential secretary Rose Mary Woods that she may have accidentally erased the tapes by accidentally pushing the button and then being interrupted.

The segment of the tapes was believed to have been a conversation with H. R. Halderman concerning the Watergate break-in.

The experts say that their investigation shows the record button was pushed at least five times and possibly as many as nine times.

Since the button was operated so many times

there has to be the strong suspicion that it was not an accidental erasure.

And since the tapes have been in the hands of only a few trusted White House people since the recordings were made, the question of who operated the button which erased the Nixon-Halderman conversations becomes most important in the Watergate investigations.

These latest revelations heighten the suspicions about what went on in the White House during the cover-up phase following Watergate. The nation should get an explanation.

Gift To Pitt Hospital Is Much Appreciated

North Carolina National Bank has presented a gift of $12,000 to Pitt County for use in the new Pitt Memorial Hospital.

Bids have been let for the multi-million dollar structure and work is soon to get under way.

The funds given by NCNB can be put to good use in providing some of the necessities of a modern hospital which were not provided for in the general contract. The gift is very much appreciated by the people of Pitt County.

John W. Dean Poses Dilemma

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—The previously undisclosed fact that John W. Dean III quietly returned to Washington last weekend and immediately entered the heavily guarded downtown offices of the special prosecutor for more questioning poses new dangers for Richard M. Nixon and a deepening dilemma for Leon Jaworski.

The interrogation of Dean picked up where it stopped several weeks ago when he left for the West Coast because of his mother-in-law's illness. It is expected to continue for some time. That would scarcely be the case if the secret White House tape recordings heard so far by the prosecutor's office flatly proved, as the White House contends, that Dean's accusations against President Nixon are lies.

But if the prosecutors think Dean is telling the truth, it would follow that they must also suspect that the President is criminally culpable—and therein lies the dilemma for special prosecutor Jaworski. He publicly committed himself last week against handing over any evidence to the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment proceedings. At the same time, many legal scholars bet he cannot and will not seek a criminal indictment against the President prior to impeachment.

In that case, his evidence against the President, but-terressed by deposed White House counsel Dean, at least temporarily would fall between the two stools of indictment and impeachment. So, unless he can work out some arrangement with the House, Jaworski will face accusations—surely unjustified—of abetting yet another White House cover-up.

At the heart of this is whether Dean, who has been the only overt accuser of Mr. Nixon, told the truth in sworn testimony before the Senate Watergate committee. For months, White House aides have been claiming that the notorious tapes would show that Dean lied under oath.

If so, Dean would be in deep trouble. When he pleaded guilty last Oct. 19 to a one-count prosecution in return for immunity, the deal with the special prosecutor made this exception: no immunity from perjury. Thus, a clear-cut contradiction of Dean by the White House tapes would give the special prosecutor an obvious perjury case against him.

Yet, though the prosecutors—including Jaworski himself in some cases—have heard the Nixon-Dean tapes (except, of course, the two missing tapes), they are resuming interrogation of Dean. The inescapable conclusion is that they do not feel that possible differences between the tapes and Dean's Senate testimony are damaging his credibility.

A credible Dean equals a vulnerable Nixon. Despite this, the President might be effectively immune for some time to come, thanks to two points made to us by Jaworski during an interview this week in his Washington office.

First, Jaworski reiterated—closing the door hard—his public declarations last week that his evidence would not be made available for the House impeachment proceedings. Evidence presented to a grand jury, he said, cannot go to the House unless the judge consents or until the trials are finished.

Second, Jaworski emphasized that his office has not reached a legal opinion about whether a sitting President can be indicted. "I haven't reached that conclusion," he said, conceding that many legal scholars believe impeachment must precede indictment.

Prof. Archibald Cox, Jaworski's predecessor, shared his doubts about the constitutionality of indicting a President. But there was no doubt either in Congress or the Justice Department that Cox would turn his evidence over to the House if and when it got around to serious impeachment proceedings. That represents the sole difference in approach between Cox and Jaworski, but it is sufficiently serious to threaten Jaworski's performance.

In many ways Jaworski has been more an aggressive prosecutor than Cox. There is no slightest sign of collusion between him and the White House. Indeed, Jaworski's position seems attributable to prosecutorial zeal—his refusal to undermine fastidiously prepared cases for forthcoming Watergate indictments by turning confidential grand jury evidence over to Congress.

Nevertheless, the White House is mightily pleased by that refusal, automatically placing the special prosecutor in an uncomfortable position. His problem is now obvious: can a

Sad Farewell To Candor

WASHINGTON—Last week the White House announced an end to President Nixon's "Operation Candor." The reason given for closing down the operation was that the President had laid to rest all the Watergate-related charges against him. With the release of the two white papers on ITT and the milk fund, the Administration felt there were no further questions to be answered about Mr. Nixon's role in all the strange political happenings of 1973.

There was a certain amount of sadness in Washington when the White House made its announcement. Those most affected by the shutting down of Operation Candor were the special staff at the White House who had worked so hard to bring the truth to the American people.

I went over there to see how they were taking it. Some secretaries were crying, several press agents were cleaning out their desks. One Madison Avenue man was passing around champagne.

Other Editors Say Oregon Leads

(Christian Science Monitor)

Oregon this past week added another episode to its record of taking positive, voluntary action to meet adversity.

The state's 1.4 million drivers this week started buying gas at service stations on alternate days—odd-numbered ending plates one day, even-numbered ending plates the next. A 10-gallon limit is another feature of the plan, devised by Gov. Tom McCall and agreed upon by Oregon's fuel distributors and gas station operators. The plan should shorten the long lines that have been building at gas stations in the state, and help stretch out the supply—which appears smaller for Oregon than for neighboring California, Idaho, and Washington. Oregon thus becomes the first state with an operating rationing system.

Of course, Oregon officials recognize that a long-term shortage for Oregon, while neighboring states have more adequate supplies, would undermine the spirit of public cooperation that has made the action possible. And it would be necessary for the oil companies as well as the federal government to ensure that distribution of fuel among the states be equitable. The New England states can make the same case for fair regional allotments.

But the fact remains that Oregonians have taken a positive initiative against the fuel challenge and have not simply waited for others to solve the problem for them.

The state has shown recently the same willingness to tackle its problems with at least three environmental issues. Oregon transformed in six years the Willamette River from a sterile waterway to a recreational asset to which the Chinook salmon have returned. It has declared a successful war on cans and nonreturnable bottles that have been littering its majestic woodlands. And it has heeded to stem the influx of visitors who have been overrunning the state's parklands.

Oregon, with its simple voluntary gas rationing plan, once again is showing how common sense, cooperation, and commitment to the general good can be summoned to meet the challenges of change. It is offering a healthy counter to any tendency to treat the energy challenge as the pitting of public, oil interests, and government against one another as adversaries.

Productivity With Economies

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—A bright pigment in the energy picture is the realization by many companies that they can cut back on fuels, and save money in the process, without reducing productivity.

Awareness of the possibilities might have been slow in developing, partly because they were submerged in the crisis atmosphere immediately following the cutback in Mideast oil shipments.

But the word is spreading now, and energy usage studies might become a big new specialty for outside management consultants and for in-house productivity specialists.

Laurens van den Muyzenberg, an industrial management consultant, maintains that the energy reduction potential for almost all plants is more than 10 per cent, and that for many companies it is far above that figure.

Management's interest is aroused by such estimates, especially when the plant manager reports, as is likely to be the case, that he has never conducted an energy usage study of his premises.

Corporate management in the past seldom considered such studies, being more concerned with labor and capital costs than with energy costs. Much waste developed, therefore, and now it can easily be eliminated.

Van den Muyzenberg, president of H.B. Maynard & Co., Pittsburgh and London, began what he calls energy value analyses a few weeks ago and has zeroed in on what he believes are among the most wasteful practices.

To spot these areas, he suggests to company management that four responsible employees be appointed to determine just where energy is being used.

One studies consumption in mobile equipment, another in heating-ventilation-air conditioning, the third in production itself, and the fourth in auxiliary equipment, such as compressors.

These four employees must survey the plant, learn where energy is used and hunt for savings. They make out an energy budget and bring it to a steering committee, where an energy spending plan is developed. Elapsed time: two weeks.

Some companies, he found, are unable immediately to determine how energy is expended because batteries of equipment are hooked up to the same meters. He recommends multiple monitors or meters.

Most likely the energy value analysis will reveal that with better scheduling some machines can be shut off part time or even permanently, or that several machines can be combined on one power source.

More coordination in scheduling overtime also is important. In too many companies, he reports, a few employees on overtime are the sole reason for the plant remaining open. Better to schedule overtime in batches, he states.

In some instances waste heat can be used. One

Boyle's Buried Desk

Editor's Note: During a recent illness of columnist Hal Boyle, a friend, who believes in keeping America beautiful, made a volunteer, one-woman crusade to clean up his desk, which has been described as "the greatest 18-square-foot mess of clutter in the Western world." Here are her conclusions.

By HELEN CAMP PALMER NEW YORK (AP)— Things you'd never know unless you offered to do the impossible—clean Hal Boyle's desk:

That a man can be so gregarious with people in person, and so ungregarious with correspondence.

That Hal Boyle, in good journalistic tradition, favors motherhood and God, but gets better reader reaction when he writes about the former.

That in November 1963 Hal wrote in a column: "There's a lot of talk about landing a man on the moon by 1970. But I'm willing to eat the helmet of any man who gets to the moon and back by 1975." His public still sends requests to attend the banquet.

That he gets as many kindly offers from kindly ladies as most movie stars and probably collects almost as many prayers as a parish priest. His best offer was from a lady who said if he was "already promised" she'd take Lady Dottie, his daughter's cat. When he wrote about the trials of widowhood, widows responded, naming particularly the chores of taking care of the family car. That lets Hal out. He never owned or drove a car.

The basketball team of the local college is shaping up well for its game with A.C.C. on Friday. Under the direction of Coach Ken Beatty, the squad has been put through long and hard scrimmages with emphasis put on passing and shooting.

Last week, E.C.T.C. and A.C.C. were both defeated by the Appalachian State Teachers by about the same margin, and though the Bulldogs played High Point to a closer score than the locals, a good close battle with expected.

If you hold gold coins or gold certificates now and want to spend them, you are just simply out of luck according to local interpretation of the recent gold order issued by Secretary of Treasury Morgenthau, calling for a turn in of all gold on or before January 17.

The order required the turn in to banks for redemption in currency all gold coins or gold certificates by that date except in cases where persons kept certain rare coins or others just to complete historical or numismatic collections.

GETTING RID OF BARNACLES

Back before the Civil War the town of Hudson, New York, located on the Hudson River about 125 miles from the Atlantic Ocean, was a famous whaling port. How could a town so far from the sea become so notable for a maritime enterprise?

The reason is barnacles—or rather, how to get rid of them. Barnacles collect on the bottoms of ships in salt water, and while they can be scraped off, the easiest and most satisfactory way to get rid of them is to take the ship into fresh water where they drop off of their own accord. Hence whaling ships, thickly encrusted with barnacles, would be taken up the Hudson River so that their barnacles would drop off in the fresh water.

It is thus with our souls. We can get many of the barnacles off by scrubbing, but the best way—the God desires—is to put our soul in the fresh water of Christ and let hate, lust, jealousy, and bitterness drop off of their own accord.

Ecumenical Movement Has Geographical Hue

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — A sort of geographical log is accumulating in the movement for Christian unity, including the "Canterbury Statement," the "Malta Report," the "Windsor
Statement" and the "Luenberg Agreement."

Each document, designated by the places where issued, constitutes a major landmark of doctrinal accord achieved between official interchurch panels, mostly joint groups of Roman Catholics and Protestants.

A growing consensus is emerging, says a recent ecumenical conference at Salamanca, Spain, assessing the progress.

That doctrinal convergence among experts seemed to be the main current development toward church reunion as Christians of many kinds began their annual observance, Jan.
18-25, of a "Week of Prayer for Christian Unity."

In some cities, it has been turned into a routine "Week of Plattitudes" by those fearing "any change in the ecclesiastical status quo," says the Rev.

Edmund Delaney, editor of the Lamp, a magazine devoted to Christian unity.

Nevertheless, he adds, the week "has been a major instrument in keeping alive the hope of Christian reunion" among ordinary church people, who gather in many communities for joint worship and prayer in the period.

While the novelty of such Protestant-Catholic affairs has worn off somewhat in recent years, the substantial efforts have shifted to the theological arenas.

"The honeymoon may be over," says the Rev. Arthur Gouther, director of the Ecumenical Institute of the Graymoor, N.Y., Franciscan Friars, who started the annual week 66 years ago among Catholics and which since has become inter-faith.

"But the ecumenical movement is by no means dead," he adds. "There are signs of health and strength everywhere."

Among the signposts are the unprecedented roster of agreements reached by officially appointed dialogue teams of Roman Catholic and Protestant scholars.

The major accords of the last three years include:

The "Canterbury Statement," issued in Canterbury, England, in late 1973, an agreement between Catholic and Anglican (Episcopalian) theologians on the essential doctrine of the ministry and ordination.

The "Windsor Statement," issued at Windsor, England, in 1971, by the Catholic-Anglican representatives, agreeing on the meaning of the Eucharist or Holy Communion.

The "Malta Report," issued at San Antonio, Malta, in 1971, by the joint, international team of Catholic and Lutheran representatives, agreeing basically on the Bible, the ordained ministry and Holy Communion.

Pitt NAACP Branch Is Sponsoring Activities

The Pitt County Branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People will sponsor a set of activities under the theme, "New Horizons for 1974," January 30 through February 3, "to help attune us as Black citizens here in Greenville to the national productive mood of Black people," chapter president D. D. Garrett said today.

"Many of us... are still rejoicing in the victories of the sixties. This is fine, but at the same time, all of the things that could be realized by us here in Greenville and Pitt County are passing us by," Garrett noted.

"The question has been asked many, many times, 'Where do we go from here?'" Specifically, according to Garrett, "where do we go politically... economically... housing..."
"The branch admits that it does not have all the answers," Garrett said, indicating that the New Horizons program is designed to help find some answers.

According to Garrett, the program will begin with a youth rally at 7 p.m. January 30 at the York Memorial AME Zion Church, followed January 31 with taping "Together with EVE" at 8 p.m. at the WNCT studio with Bishop Alfred G.

Dunston, presiding bishop of the fourth district of the AME Zion Church from Philadelphia, Pa.
Group "rap" sessions will be held at 7 p.m. at 8 o'clock, and at 9 p.m. February 1 at St. Gabriels
Catholic Church, with Bishop
Dunston, state NAACP director Charles McLean, state NAACP president Kelly Alexander and others acting as resource persons for the sessions.

A semi-formal fellowship banquet will be held February 2 at the Holiday Inn, with Bishop Dunston as speaker, Garrett explained, while the closing session of the series will be held February 3.

The February 3 schedule includes an 11 a.m. sermon by Bishop Dunston at the Cornerstone Baptist Church and a 2 p.m. dinner, sponsored by Rev.
Luther Brown and members of the York Memorial AME Zion Church along with presiding
elder E. V. O'Bryant.

According to Garrett, the New Horizons program is being financed through contributions.
He asked that each member of the NAACP executive committee be responsible for securing $25 in donations and urged each friend of the NAACP to give at least $1 toward the cost of the project. Garrett also urged local churches, social, civic and fraternal organizations and businesses to contribute toward helping defray the expenses of the program.

Arrest Trio For Larceny

Greenville police yesterday arrested three other men in connection with break-ins Tuesday at Ken's Furniture Co. on Dickinson Ave. and Sears Roebuck Co. at West End Circle.
Chief Glenn Cannon said
Lonnie Ossie Barnhill, 18 of 307
Cadillac St., Michael Tyronn
Suggs, 17 of 904 Bancroft Ave.
and Roland Smith, 16 of 1493 Fleming St., were arrested yesterday on charges of breaking, entering and larceny in connection with the two Tuesday break-ins.

Bond for the three was set at $1,000 in each of the two cases against each man, according to Cannon.
Five other men were arrested earlier in connection with the cases.

More than $1,600 worth of television sets from the Sears company building and more than $900 worth of televisions and stereo equipment removed from Ken's Furniture have been recovered.

MOTHER'S MARCH... gets underway in Greenville today as housewives call in residential areas to solicit funds in a three-day drive to be used in the fight against birth defects. In this photograph, Mrs. Harriet James calls on Mrs. Betty Fuqua for a contribution.

Mothers Marching

Today's the day that a sizeable number of housewives, possibly up to about 300, begin a concentrated three day march on the residential areas of Greenville.

Today, and again on Saturday and Sunday, women who have volunteered to take part in the second annual Mother's March on Birth Defects will be ringing doorbells and knocking on doors in an effort to raise $3,000 by Sunday night. Incidentally, there may also be a few men and some teen-agers joining in. In any case, each participant will be identified by a badge and contributors will receive a receipt and be given educational information.

Money raised during the Mother's March on Birth Defects will be used in the continuing fight, through research and treatment, of diseases that result in children being born crippled.

Offer Crochet Class Series

The Greenville Recreation Department announces classes two days weekly in the art of crochet.

To be held at the Elm Street Recreation Center, the classes will be held on Tuesday in two hour sessions beginning at 9:30 a.m., 1:30 p.m., and 3:30 p.m.
and for a two and one half hour session from 7:30 to 10:00 p.m.
On Wednesdays lessons will be given from 2:00 to 3:30 p.m.

There is no instruction cost involved. Participants, however, are required to pay for cost of material used.

Mrs. Barbara Brock, one of the publicity aide's for the march, points out that of the 50 states, North Carolina ranks third highest in the number of children born with birth defects.

"And Eastern North Carolina has an even higher incidence of birth defects than other parts of North Carolina," Mrs. Brock added.

Of the money collected during the week-end, Mrs. Brock noted that "25 per cent automatically goes for the support of continuing research. Of the remaining 75 per cent, half of that will go for work here in Pitt County, and the other half will be used by the National Foundation."

On Dean's List At UNC-CH

Bill Lee of Greenville has been named to the Dean's List at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

A sophomore majoring in chemistry, he is a graduate of Rose High School and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Curtis Lee of Greenville.

is afraid people will write him them solve.

That almost everyone writes:
"Dear Hal, I call you Hal because I feel I know you so well

That a cult of Pennsylvania women threaten never to write him again if he doesn't answer the letters they've been writing for five years.

That when you get down to the green top of the desk, you find a philosophical memo from Hal Boyle to Hal Boyle that of a frightened mind."

That among the readers who write to him are a great many very nice people, a few nasty of lonely ones.

That he truly means to read all the letters, books and press releases he gets. That's why when office windowsills have to died by conflicting evidence, and we proved he was not a

"How did you do it?"
"By being completely frank with the American people. The President decided that certain questions of impropriety had to be answered. At Disney World he said he had never taken advantage of any of the usual tax gimmicks that most Americans use, such as cattle, real estate and interested. He told the governors there would be no more bombshells over Watergate and, except for the 18-minute hum on one tape, there were none. He said he would explain his dealings with ITT and the milk fund to everyone's satisfaction—and he did. Thanks to Operation Candor, the Roper Poll revealed last week, a whopping 21 per cent of the American people do not believe that the President is guilty of any of the serious charges made against him."

"And you did all of that right here in this office?" I asked in amazement.
"I guess you could say that," Diogenes admitted.
"But we couldn't have done it without the President. When you've got an impeccable product to sell, it's a lot easier. If you want the truth, we were victims of our own success. When I recruited this staff for Operation Candor, I thought it would take three years to refute all the terrible things that were being said about the President. You can imagine my surprise when it took only three months to lay every charge to rest."

"What do you plan to do now that Operation Candor is over?" I asked Diogenes.
"I think I'll go back to my old job."

"What's that?"
"Selling used cars."

Awards For Corn Yields

Two area corn growers have been named to receive special awards for their corn yields in Funk's G-Project: 200 high yield corn growing program.

Manning Supply Co. of Bethel, representing the producers of Funk's G-Hybrids, announced that the award-winning corn growers, their hybrids and yields are: X. E. Manning, Bethel, 130.4 bushels per acre made with G-5757; and W. T.
Whitehurst of Bethel, 112.8
bushels per acre made with G-5757.

Project: 200 participants agree to harvest as shelled corn a minimum of two acres from not less than four adjacent rows running the full length of the field.

In 1971 and 1972, it was noted, more than 10,000 U. S. and Canadian growers submitted
Project: 200 entries.

LITTLE BOY

Somehow men never quite seem able to get over being little boys. They can handle responsibility, but sometimes their spirits sink.
Cares can overtake a man. That's when he reverts into an unhappy, discouraged little boy. At times like these, his wife must strive to help, to understand.
A wise wife knows that the Church offers an answer to their problems. At church hope and faith are common, and friends abound.
There is something in regularly going to church that gives a person perspective, strength and faith.

Majority Are Pessimistic Over 1974 Prospects

By GEORGE GALLUP

(Copyright 1974, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Republication in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.)

PRINCETON, N.J.—The gloomy economic outlook of Americans is matched by their pessimism regarding the prospects for peace in the world during 1974. A solid majority of U. S. citizens (65 per cent) in a recent Gallup International survey predict a "troubled year with much international discord," compared to only 24 per cent who think 1974 will be a "peaceful year, more or less free from international disputes."

A majority in all major population groups predict trouble ahead on the international front with this view most pronounced among women, younger adults, persons with a college background, and Democrats.

These findings were recorded in a Gallup International survey conducted last November and December in six selected nations of the world. The survey shows the Norwegians to be the most pessimistic, followed by the Americans, British, Uruguayans, French, and Brazilians.

See U. S. Power on Decline, But Russian Power Growing

The same survey shows Americans holding the opinion, by a 5-to-3 ratio, that American power in the world will decline during the current year. At the same time, they believe, by a 4-to-1 ratio, that Russian power will increase.

Among the publics of the other five nations in the survey there is general agreement that American power will decline in 1974 while Russian power will increase.

In a special year-end poll in the United States and in five other nations of the world, Gallup-affiliated organizations posed this question:

"Which of these do you think is likely to be true of 1974—a peaceful year, more or less free of international disputes, or a troubled year with much international discord?"

Following are the findings for the six nations that participated in the survey:

Peaceful Year—Or Troubled Year?

	Troubled	Peaceful	No Opinion
Norway	72	14	14
UNITED STATES	65	24	11
Great Britain	61	20	19
Uruguay	34	34	32
France	34	38	28
Brazil	30	58	12

This question was asked next: "Which of these do you think is likely to be true of 1974—a year when American will increase her power in the world, or a year when American power will decline?"

Here are the findings:

American Power Increase Or Decline In 1974?

	Increase	Decline	No Opinion
Brazil	42%	31%	27%
UNITED STATES	29	50	21
Norway	28	37	35
France	27	28	45
Great Britain	24	34	42
Uruguay	22	26	52

This was the final question asked: "Which of these do you think is likely to be true of 1974—a year when Russia will increase her power in the world, or a year when Russian power will decline?"

Here are the findings:

Russian Power Increase Or Decline In 1974?

	Increase	Decline	No Opinion
UNITED STATES	55%	14%	31%
Norway	44	15	41

Brazil	41	25	34	Great Britain	35	13	52
France	37	13	50	Uruguay	24	18	58

NEARS COMPLETION—The new Mendenhall Student Center at East Carolina University is in the final stages of construction. American Woman Driver Kills Viet Man With Her Car

By TAD BARTIMUS

Associated Press Writer SAIGON (AP) — The American wife of a United States government official drove her car through a crowd of angry demonstrators outside the U.S. commissary today, killing a Vietnamese man and injuring a Vietnamese woman, U.S. Embassy officials said.

Eyewitnesses said the woman tried to drive through a picket line out of the commissary compound in suburban Newport. She apparently panicked, when the demonstrators stoned her car and jumped on it, they said.

American officials said the woman was Billie A. Stewart of Takoma Park, Md., wife of William Stewart, an accountant with the U.S. Agency for International Development.

South Vietnamese police took Mrs. Stewart into custody, and an Embassy official accompanied her as counsel. U.S. authorities said she would probably be granted diplomatic immunity.

Sources said the Vietnamese were demonstrating against a cut in their pay. They said the demonstrators massed before the main gate of the Newport commissary shortly before noon and blocked traffic. About 150 customers were inside.

The sources said the American woman first tried to inch her car through the crowd.

"The crowd became angered and started beating on her car," one source said. "She panicked and ran over a couple of them."

The sources said the South Vietnamese police fired into the air during the disturbance.

The demonstrators kept the shoppers penned up in the commissary compound for three hours while South Vietnamese police and troops and officials of the U.S. Embassy talked to them.

The crowd dispersed peacefully late in the afternoon, and the Americans drove out while the armed police and troops stood guard on each side of the road.

One of the demonstrators, 29-year-old Frenchman Albert Rene Blasius, said the woman driver and a companion had tried earlier to drive out of the commissary compound but found their way blocked.

"After a while, she came out again and got in her car and the gate was opened for her by a Korean and then these two American females tried to go over us," Blasius said. "We didn't want them to get out, but they just kept going and ran over the two Vietnamese workers."

"A number of people jumped on the car as she went through the gate," said an American commissary employee. "She hit the gas and apparently panicked, tried to get out and that's when it happened."

They said the Vietnamese police then began firing into the air and the woman drove off.

Other Americans said they had walked through the gate without any trouble, but they said the demonstrators were apparently angered by the car.

Drew Prison For Fraud

CHARLOTTE (AP) — Four men have been sent to prison after being found guilty of setting up dummy companies and billing the Ervin construction company for nearly $500,000 for supplies that were never delivered.

They received prison terms Thursday ranging from 18 months to four years after being convicted in an alleged mail fraud.

U.S. District Court Judge Woodrow W. Jones sentenced David Scarboro, 31, of Albermarle to 18 months, Sherrill D. Lowder, 32, of Albermarle to three years, and Jerry W. Brown, 43, and Howell Ray Hope, 38, both of Mount Holly, to four years.

Scarboro and Lowder had pleaded guilty and testified against the others, who were formerly Ervin employees.

The fraud scheme allegedly took place from Oct. 1970 to May 1973.

The four were also given suspended sentences of five years to follow their active terms. During that time each must pay a $1,000 fine and pay back some of the embezzled funds, the judge said.

Dylan Draws SRO Crowd

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — A standing-room-only crowd of more than 13,000 in the Charlotte Coliseum roared its approval Thursday night of folk-singing idol Bob Dylan on the eighth stop of his 21-city concert tour.

He was given a two-minute standing ovation when he appeared onstage.

Two and one half hours later the audience surged from their seats to the stage when in conclusion he gave them a song they'd been waiting for, "Like a Rolling Stone."

Dylan wore a black suit and white shirt instead of the jeans of some of his previous appearances on this, his first tour in eight years.

He sang his old standards and several of his about-to-be released compositions, simple songs with simple wishes. "May you stay forever young," he sang to his audience, some in their mid-30s and older, but mostly in their 20s and teens.

IRS Office Is Expanding

The Greenville office of the U.S. Internal Revenue Service will be expanded over the next several months to include an additional 1,450 square feet of space according to Hilton E. Boyd, group supervisor with the IRS here.

Boyd said the IRS's taxpayer service assistance program will be expanded into an 800 square feet addition to the present IRS quarters on the ground floor of the 209 Evans Street building they now occupy. He explained that the expansion is being made into offices formerly occupied by the Pitt County Development Commission which recently moved into new county offices at the intersection of Second and Cotanche Streets.

The IRS's audit program will expand into a 650 square feet area now occupied by the Southern Life Insurance Co. which plans to move into new offices on Reide Street.

Work is presently under way on renovating the new downstairs offices, Boyd said, and the IRS is expected to occupy the area about February 1. The upstairs expansion is expected about March 1, according to the IRS official.

Boyd noted that future plans by the owner of the building call for up-dating and improving the outside appearance of the offices.

New Scents But No Bittersweet

NEW YORK (AP) — The ardent Noel Coward fan has a new way to commemorate Sir Noel — wear a perfume named in his honor. Stanley Hall, who is known in theatrical circles, has announced the introduction of three new fragrances, each named after a Noel Coward play, "Blithe Spirit," "Easy Virtue" and "Conversation Piece." The perfumes were created by PPL, a British fragrance supplier, and are available from Hall's shop.

They are worn by both sexes.

Measure Quakes In Nebraska

LINCOLN, Neb. (AP) — Far from the regions most frequently jolted by earthquakes, the University of Nebraska is setting up a seismograph. The University expects to become a part of a worldwide network of seismograph stations that locates and measures the intensity of earthquakes around the globe. Nebraska has actually had several slight earthquakes in this century, triggered largely by a Nebraska County fault.

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina FOB dock broilers: Market sharply stronger, supplies barely adequate to short, demand excellent, weights heavy. FOB dock weighted average price for less than truck lot loads of sized plant grade broilers to be picked up at docks next week is 38.46 per pound. Estimated slaughter today 1,360,000.

Hens: Market steady, supplies of heavy type fully adequate, demand improved. Heavies at farm 13 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market turned lower today as a wave of profit taking hit blue chips, which had gained sharply in Thursday's trading.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 10.84 to 861.32 at 11:30 a.m. Declines outnumbered advances 683 to 471 on the New York Stock Exchange, where trading was moderate.

"There is bound to be a little profit taking today," said Alan C. Poole, analyst with Laidlaw-Coggeshall Inc.

Another reason for the weakness today, which came after the sharp rise of the Dow Thursday, was the economic news from Washington, brokers said. The government reported that inflation had accelerated and economic growth slowed in the last quarter of 1973.

On the Big Board, where the broad-based index was off .44 at 51.59 at 11 a.m., the most-active issue was International Nickel, up 1/4 at 37 1/2, followed by Kennecott, off 1/4 at 40; American Motors, down 1/4 at 99 1/4; and RCA, off 1/4 at 18 1/4. Phillips Petroleum dropped 2 1/2 to 55 1/2.

Among the blue chips, Du Pont dropped 2 to 166 1/4, while Eastman Kodak lost 1 1/2 to 107 1/4, and Standard Oil of Indiana fell 2 1/2 to 96.

On the Amex, the volume leader was Giant Yellowknife, up 1 1/2 to 20 1/4. The market-value index fell .04 to 96.18.

Verdict Of Not Guilty In Slot Machine Arrest

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

District Judge Festress Horner of Elizabeth City, Friday approved a defense motion for a directed verdict of not guilty in the case of Dale Russell Gidley, manager of the Greenville Elks Lodge, charged with keeping gambling devices, including slot machines, at the club December 5.

The directed verdict of not guilty came after Judge Horner ruled the search for the slot machines—found concealed in a secret panel in a wall in the clubroom of the building—was based on an invalid search warrant.

The District Judge ordered the five slot machines—four in operating condition and one inoperable unit—confiscated and destroyed. He also ordered money in the machines to be turned over to the Elks National Foundation—a charitable organization.

One of the defense attorneys, M. E. Cavendish, told the court after the not guilty verdict was ordered, "no one desires the possession of the machines. . . we do not want the machines back."

State ABC officer A. L. Felton, who secured the search warrant, told the court that he was admitted to the Elks Lodge by Gidley, the manager, about 6 p.m. December 4. He said the two exchanged greetings then started walking down a hall toward the clubroom when Gidley told him "wait a minute, I've got something to do."

Felton said he continued walking and twice more Gidley

Find Profit In Brine Shrimp

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer

NEWARK, Calif. (AP)—The bright red waters of shallow pools along the San Francisco Bay yield a profitable harvest of brine shrimp, tiny sea creatures that rarely exceed 3-8ths of an inch in length.

Millions of the shrimp—prized as fish food—are scooped up daily by boat crews of the San Francisco Bay Brand Co., which claims to be the world's largest producer of brine shrimp, and one of five or six such businesses in existence.

Shipped live to fish fanciers and hatcheries, the shrimp cost up to $8 a quart, while the eggs, scooped up along with them, also fetch a good price.

"We ship a lot of eggs to England, including the Royal Hatcheries, where they hatch," said Tom Ford, plant manager. "For baby fish, the live food has the nutrients that are required for growth."

The firm, which harvests about 1 1/4 million pounds of shrimp annually, also processes them by cooking and then flaking, freeze-drying or pressing them into cubes for less perishable delicacies for fish.

The six fishermen ply 2,000 acres of Leslie Salt Co. brine pools on motorized rafts. A spotter in a plane directs the harvest by sending them to the telltale red waters that indicate a high concentration of brine shrimp on the surface, where they are easily scooped up.

It is not easy work for the men who may harvest 25,000 pounds of shrimp a day in the peak months of August and September.

"During the peak season, a guy may have to fill up 300 to 400 buckets of shrimp, weighing 40 to 50 pounds each," Ford said, adding that the hours are also rough.

"During the nice weather in the summertime, guys go to work early—about 4 a.m.—and work until noon," he said.

In winter, the fishermen, who are only a portion of the company's 55-man work force, fish less frequently and repair rafts and other equipment.

The operation began in the 1950s to supply San Francisco's Steinhart Aquarium with fish food from the pools maintained by Leslie for their salt. Leslie took over the business about 10 years ago, Ford said, but lost money. In 1967, Bay Brand took over the operation and turned it into an "extremely profitable operation," he said.

Denounced As Traitor

MOSCOW (AP) — Four members of the Soviet Union's artistic establishment denounced Alexander Solzhenitsyn today as a traitor to his country.

Using such epithets as "renegade," "internal emigrant" and "scribbler," the four attacked the 1970 Nobel Literature Prize winner in letters to Sovetskaya Kultura, a newspaper of the Communist party's Central Committee.

The letters, apparently written at official behest, were the latest attacks on Solzhenitsyn in a media smear campaign launched after publication of his new book, "Gulag Archipelago."

The work, published Dec. 28 in Paris, is a documentary history of Soviet labor camps from 1918 to 1956, and a bitter indictment of Stalin's apparatus of terror, which Solzhenitsyn maintains still exists.

The letters were from Lev Kerbel, a well known sculptor who has won a Lenin Prize for his work, Boris Zakhava, an actor and producer at Moscow's prestigious Vakhtangov Theater, V. Sizko, secretary of the composers union of Byelorussia, and P. Lebedenko, a writer from Rostov-on-Don.

Convict 3rd In Slayings

DONALSONVILLE, Ga. (AP) — A 12-member jury has convicted Wayne Carl Coleman in the slayings of six members of a Georgia farm family. He is the third man to be found guilty in the killings.

The Superior Court jury of four women and eight men deliberates Coleman's sentence today.

Special prosecutor Peter Zack Geer said he will seek the death penalty as he did in the trials of two other Maryland men — Coleman's half brother Carl J. Isaacs and George L. Dungee. Both were sentenced to die.

The three were escapees from a minimum security prison in Maryland.

All were convicted on six counts of murder for the slayings of Ned Alday, 62; his three sons, Jerry, 35, Chester, 32, and Jimmy, 25; his brother, Aubrey, 57, and Jerry's wife, Mary, 26.

Hardee's Makes Ordered Refund

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — Hardee's Restaurants, Inc., of Rocky Mount, N.C., has refunded $82,034 in overcharges to its customers in North Carolina, the Internal Revenue Service says.

The firm operates 250 hamburger-style restaurants across North Carolina.

The refunds were made by absorbing cost increases that otherwise would have been passed on to the consumer, The IRS said.

An investigation by the IRS determined that a price increase put into effect last August by Hardee's was not in compliance with federal price guidelines.

Map Studies Of Noise Pollution

STANFORD, Calif. (UPI) — Fundamental research into the causes of noise pollution, plus training of acoustical scientists and engineers, are the main objectives of the new joint NASA-Stanford University institute for aerocoustics.

Acoustic studies, especially those related to environmental noise problems, are growing steadily more important, according to the formal agreement setting up the institute.

"At present there exists serious lack of scientists and engineers with the education and research experience in acoustics to carry out the studies required to meet the national needs in this area," the agreement states.

State Tree Was Chosen In 1937

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — The California redwood was selected as the official state tree of California by the 1937 legislature.

Plentiful in the geologic past through most of North America, it now is found only on the Pacific Coast. The trees reach heights of 360 feet.

The rose-colored chair used by Jefferson Davis to wait for his inauguration as president of the Confederacy on Feb. 18, 1861, has a prominent place in the archives and history building in Montgomery, Ala.

NCAA Actions Please Moore

Clifton Moore, newly elected chairman of East Carolina University's Faculty Athletic Committee and Athletic Council, is satisfied with most of the actions taken by the delegates of the National Collegiate Athletic Association at its recent San Francisco convention.

Moore, who represented East Carolina at the gathering along with ECU Athletic Director Clarence Stasavich, said he was "personally pleased" with the convention's vote to relax the NCAA's stance on amateurism. The delegates voted by more than a two-thirds majority to permit athletes with professional status in one sport to compete on the college level in other sports.

"It only makes sense to me," said Moore, who is East Carolina's vice-chancellor of business affairs. "Why should an athlete lose his amateur status in all sports simply by competing professionally in only one sport?"

"A good example of the effects of the old rule might have occurred if Carl Summerell (ECU quarterback in 1973) had elected to sign a professional baseball contract upon graduating from high school. He would have lost his college football eligibility automatically.

"As the rule now stands, since it goes into effect immediately, Carl can sign a professional football contract and still maintain his eligibility to play baseball for East Carolina next spring."

Passage of a proposal to determine the number of initial football and basketball grants-in-aid issued by each school on a head count basis also met Moore's approval.

"This will prevent schools who have partial grants from cheating on the number of full scholarships they give," said Moore.

Under existing regulations, the N.C.A.A. permits member schools to give up to 30 football grants and six basketball grants per year with a four-year maximum of 105 football and 18 in basketball.

Moore, whose committees act in advisory capacities to East Carolina Chancellor Leo Jenkins and Athletic Director Stasavich, voiced displeasure with the convention's failure to pass a proposal which would have prohibited recruiting of high school athletes until after their senior year had begun.

"That's what the N.C.A.A. is all about, the protection of the student athlete," said Moore. "Why shouldn't the N.C.A.A. extend the same courtesy to high school coaches that it expects from the professional football and basketball people?"

REBOUND—North Carolina State's Phil Spence (30) and University of Virginia's Walley Walker find action under the basket hot and heavy during last night's Atlantic Coast Conference game. State won the contest, 90-70. (AP Wirephoto)

Back last December 22, William & Mary played Fairfield University. Since then, however, the Indians had fought off the flu, been through exams and the holiday breaks, and haven't played a single basketball game.

One game, against Davidson, was postponed in the early days of the month when seven members of the team came down with the flu. So it's been a full 28 days since they've played, and they resume action Saturday night at 8 p.m. when they play host to East Carolina University in a Southern Conference game.

"If time helps, they should be ready," Coach Tom Quinn of East Carolina said. "We know they have scouted us twice and probably several more times. They have the advantage of having time to get ready, but it may be too much time."

Quinn said he felt three days was ideal for preparing for a game. "One day to go over the mistakes you make in your last game, another day of hard work on their offense and defense, and what you plan to run against them, and one day of review." But with the Indians going so long without a game, a lot can change. "They can be bored by going so long. They could have put in a new offense and defense, so we really don't know what to expect from them. We've tried to prepare by getting ready for their personnel. And we're ready for anything."

There will be one difference in this game that the Pirates couldn't find out about through earlier scouting. Tom Pflugst, one of their guards, scoring over

10 points a game, has quit the team and left school. This will mean a new member to the starting lineup. "I don't know how long they really knew about this," Quinn said. "They may have had plenty of time to work someone else into the starting lineup."

The Indians are led by Mike Arizin, the Southern Conference's number two scorer with a 19.8 average. He's also third in free throw percentage, and is the Indians' leading rebounder. The other starters include 6-10 Matt Courage and Mark Ritter in the forecourt, with Ron Satterthwaite and Rod Musselman in the backcourt. Musselman is the replacement for Pflugst.

Satterthwaite, according to Quinn, is an outstanding "two" guard, especially on defense. "He has been their number two scorer, and is another of that fine crop of freshmen guards in the league," Quinn said.

The Indians, like the Pirates, are a young club, with three sophomores, a freshman, and a senior starting. "But they have a lot more experience than we do, since those sophomores have played together for a full year in starting roles," Quinn noted.

The Pirates come into the game following their fourth heartstopper in the last five games. The series started when the Bucs lost in overtime, 82-75 to American University, skipped over their 60-47 romp over Lehigh, then returned in a 79-78 loss to Richmond in the last four seconds. They won over VMI, 59-58, on a shot by Donnie Owens with two seconds left, then beat Appalachian Saturday, 53-52, on two free throws by Reggie Lee with 26 seconds to go.

"This just further proves what I said about this club earlier. They are tough to beat. They are confident, and they feel that they can win. They hustle right down to the wire, and they have the ability to come back with their fast break and pressing defense. And they are patient on offense doing it."

Quinn feels that the experience of these games is of great value to the team. "We know what we can go to when we need to, and we know the team can come back against the odds."

Nicky White continues to lead the Pirate scoring with a 14.3 average, while Reggie Lee is hitting at an 11.2 clip. Roger Atkinson is averaging 9.7, while Robert Geter is hitting at 8.1. The fifth starter, Owens, has a 5.8 average.

White is the leading rebounder with a 9.7 average, third best in the Southern.

The Pirates, by winning, could up their Southern record to 4-2, and take over second place in the standings. An upset by The Citadel over Furman could push the Bucs into the league lead. William & Mary, 2-1 right now, could remain in second by winning, or move ahead with a Citadel victory.

ECU Announces Revised Slate

East Carolina University's Pirates will play five home football games this fall, Athletic Director Clarence Stasavich announced today.

The slate involves one change from the earlier schedule announced which had only four home games among the 11 being played.

"We have reached agreement with the University of Dayton to switch their game from Dayton to Greenville," Stasavich said. "This will give us five attractive home games for this fall, giving our fans a much better season ticket package."

The Dayton game will be played in Ficklen Stadium on Saturday, Oct. 26, at 7:30 p.m.

All of the home games will be played at 7:30 with the exception of the November 2 game with The Citadel, set for a 1:30 p.m. kickoff.

The year will open with three home games, starting on September 14 against Bowling Green State University, one of the top teams this past year in the Mid-American Conference. They will be followed by East Tennessee State University on September 21, and Southern Illinois on September 28. The two remaining home games are with Dayton and The Citadel.

Road games include an October 5 date with N. C. State, Furman on October 12, Appalachian State University on October 19, Richmond on November 9, William & Mary on November 16 and Virginia Military Institute on November 23.

East Carolina thus meets six of the other seven Southern Conference members. Only Davidson, which has announced that it will not schedule the "more ambitious" members of the conference, is missing.

Empire Brush Takes 5th Win

Empire Brush remained atop Division II of the Industrial League with a 5-0 record following its latest win last night, while Grady-White won to pull into a three-way tie for first in Division I of the league.

In the opening game, North Carolina National Bank gained a 74-71 overtime victory over the Post Office. NCNB had held a 39-33 lead at the end of the first half, but the Post Office rallied to outpace them, 31-25, and tie it at 64-64 at the end of regulation play. But Leon Johnson led NCNB through the overtime hitting six of 10 points, as the Bankers gained the win.

Randy Martin led NCNB with 23 points, while Johnson had 20, Kenny Wood had 13 and Roy Carawan had 10. For the Post Office, Curtis Sutton had 20, and Frank Ligon and Thomas Perkins each had 19.

Empire Brush remained unbeaten with a 63-49 win over Wachovia in the second game. Wachovia held a 27-26 lead at the end of the first half, but the Brushmen came back with a 37-22 advantage in the second period to win it.

Bobby Parker led the Brushmen with 20 points, while James Parker had 19 and Ed Coburn had 12. For Wachovia, Jerry Smith had 14, Jeff Daniels had 10 and Bill Baggett had 11.

In the final game of the night, Grady-White took a 41-36 decision over Vermont-American. The Boatmen edged out into a 19-16 lead at the end of the half, then outthrew V-A 22-20, in the last half to win it.

Frank Brown led Grady-White with 17, while Marvis Hardy added 13. Eddie Chance led Vermont-American with 16 points.

Hall, Julia Moye In Area Scoring Leads

Jamesville's high scoring Horace Hall is a big leader in the Pitt-Martin-Greene scoring derby for this year, beating out his closest competition by over eight points.

And women's scoring is on the increase, with 10 girls having hit double figures through Wednesday's games. Farmville Central's Julia Moye holds a two-point margin over her top competition.

Hall tops all scorers with a 25.7 average so far this year. JoJo Purvis of Williamston is second with a 17.3 mark, followed by Ernest Crandall of Robertsonville at 16.8. Billy Ross of Oak City, 16.5, and Larry Daniels of Conley, 15.1, round out the top five scorers.

Conley's Vikings and Oak City's Trojans are tied for the lead in team offense among the boys with a 67.5 average per game. Jamesville is next at 58.5.

In defense, Greene Central is the top team with a 44.1 average allowed per game. Ayden-Grifton is next at 49.5, followed by Conley at 51.3.

Conley tops the winning margin, beating its opponents by 16.2 a game, while Greene Central is next at 11.9.

Conley has the best record to date, an 11-1 mark, while Greene Central is next at 10-2. Ayden-Grifton, Oak City and Robertsonville are tied for third with 8-4 marks.

Miss Sissy Taylor of Farmville Central to better things this year, and has a 17.7 average so far. Sissy Taylor of Williamston is second at 15.3, while Diane Duggins of Oak City is third at 15.2.

This year, for the first time, there are 10 girls in double figures.

Williamston leads the offense with a 56.0 average, while North Pitt is next at 52.2. Williamston and North Pitt also head up the defense and margin. Williamston has a 34.7 mark on defense while North Pitt is 34.2. Williamston is winning by 21.3, while North Pitt has a 17.0 edge.

The trend is reversed in win-loss records, however, with North Pitt sailing along still without ever losing a regular season game. They are 13-0 so far this year. Williamston is next at 12-2, with the two losses coming to North Pitt, one by two points in an overtime, and the other by a point.

Second baseman Bobby Grich of the Baltimore Orioles accepted 945 chances last season and made only five errors. He led the American League with 130 double plays.

Baseball Clinic To Be Held Here

East Carolina University will play host to a baseball clinic to be held at the university on January 26.

A number of college coaches, professional scouts and others will take part in the clinic, being sponsored by the Professional Baseball Representatives Association and College Coaches.

The clinic will get underway by 10 a.m., following registration in the lobby of Minges Coliseum.

From 10 to 10:45 a.m., a general session will be held on the purpose of the clinic, what college coaches look for and what pro scouts look for. Speakers will be Russ Frazier of Louisville, George Williams of East Carolina and Doc Mathis of the Chicago Cubs.

From 11 to 11:45 a.m., sessions will be held on pitching. Speakers will include Clyde King of the Atlanta Braves, Bill Lovingood of the University of North Carolina; Ray Scarborough of the California Angels, Williams, and Cal Koucek of Campbell.

The next session, from 11:55 to 12:30 p.m., will be on catching. Speakers will be Red Hayworth of the New York Yankees, George Pratt of the Pittsburgh Pirates, Buck Hardee of New Hanover High School, Barry Foote of the Montreal Expos and Chuck Boone of the University of Richmond.

From 12:30 until 1:30 p.m. a barbecue luncheon will be held. At 1:35 p.m., a session will be held on infield play. Ed Lyons of the St. Louis Cardinals, Monte Little of East Carolina, and Walter Rabb of the University of North Carolina will be the speakers.

The 2:20 p.m. session will be on hitting and bunting, with Jim Gruzdis of the Cleveland Indians, Jim Mallory of East Carolina, and Billy Smith of the Houston-Astros speaking. At 3:20 p.m., Les Stewart of the Pittsburgh Pirates and Chuck Hartman of High Point College will speak on base running.

At 4:05 p.m., a session on outfield play will get underway. Rip Tutor of the Baltimore Orioles and Bill Brook of UNC-Wilmington will be the speakers. A final general session will be held at 4:30 p.m.

Further information can be obtained by contacting George Williams or Monte Little at the East Carolina University baseball office.

Bill Marek of Wisconsin and Bruce Elia of Ohio State paced the Big Ten in points last season, each scoring 11 touchdowns for 66 points.

West Cartaret Down Panthers

BETHEL—West Cararet High School remained unbeaten in wrestling last night, taking a 42-21 victory over North Pitt.

The victory was the 50th in the past 51 matches for the Patriots, who have only a tie to mar their record over the past several years.

West Cartaret won eight matches while North Pitt took five. Four of the Patriots wins were by pins, while two more came on forfeits. North Pitt won one by a pin and another on a forfeit.

North Pitt, now 6-4 overall, will travel to Ayden-Grifton next Wednesday.

Nine Signees Are Announced

East Carolina University's football office today released a list of ten incoming players who have signed grants-in-aid with the university.

Details on the players were not available this morning, but are expected to be made available later this weekend.

The list includes six from North Carolina and four from the state of Georgia.

Heading the list of Tar Heel players is 6-1, 192-pound running back Thomas Eley of Northern Nash, a much sought-after player. He was signed this morning by coach Pat Dye.

Others from North Carolina include: Drew Fish, a running back from Fuquay-Varina; Terry Brayboy, a running back from Vaiden-Whitley; Marty Vaner, a 6-2, 220-pound linebacker and tight end from Wilmington who played at Pender Academy in Lexington; Newton Simmons, a middle guard from Raleigh Broughton; and Ronnie Byrd, a 6-3, 235-pound lineman from North Duplin.

The Georgia signees include, Gary Dale, a linebacker; Alexander French, a 5-10, 170-pound running back; Richard Reaves, a 5-10, 217-pound linebacker, and Steve Hale.

Additional recruits are expected in this weekend to visit the ECU campus.

Miller Invades Another Course

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — "Ridiculous."

Johnny Miller had a big, broad smile stretched across his usually-expressionless face as he shook his head and repeated:

"Ridiculous. I'm playing so good it's ridiculous.

"I know it won't keep up. No one can keep on going like this — but right now the game seems awfully easy."

Miller, the current U.S. open title-holder and the only champion the pro golf tour has had this season, made it look easy Thursday as he casually ambled home with an eye-popping, 10-under-par 62 in the first round of the $150,000 Dean Martin Tucson Open.

Miller, who swept the first two titles on the pro tour this season, established a whopping, four-stroke lead in his bid to become the first man since Arnold Palmer in 1962 to win three consecutive American tournaments.

"I don't mean to sound cocky or anything like that," Miller said, "but if I use my head, don't start making mental mistakes, I don't think anybody can beat me this week.

"I'm 10 under par now. I don't see any reason I can't finish 15 under. And I think 15 under will win it."

Jerry Heard, a close friend of Johnny's, and Allen Miller, no relation, had 66s on the 7,305 yard Tucson National golf club course, six-under-par but a distant four strokes back in the chase for a $30,000 first prize.

Gary Sanders followed at 67 while the group at 68 included Orville Moody, Gibby Gilbert, Kermit Zarley, George Johnson and Roy Pace.

Rookie Ben Crenshaw had a 70 while defending champion Bruce Crampton of Australia and Lee Trevino were 11 strokes back with 73s. Palmer, Jack Nicklaus and Tom Weiskopf are not playing.

Miller needed only 25 putts, missed only two greens and was within 20 feet of the flag on 14 holes. He had 11 birdies, missed an eagle when a chip shot stopped two inches short of the cup and took a single bogey.

It set a course record, kept alive his record of going under par in every competitive round this year, was the best score on the tour this year and matched the best shot all last season.

Tigers In Girls Win

WINDSOR—Williamston High School's girls gained a 66-31 victory over Bertie Senior High School Wednesday night.

Fran Hardison led the Williamston scoring with 17 points, while Sissy Taylor and Bet Brandon each had 16. Bertie was paced by Valerie Capehart with 14.

Williamston's boys and girls travel to Robersonville on Monday for their next game.

School Ball

The Greenville Recreation Department's Elementary School Basketball League opened play yesterday.

At South Greenville gym, the South Greenville varsity took a 32-20 win over Eastern School. In the junior varsity game, South Greenville also won, 42-8.

Elmhurst took a 25-20 victory over Wahl-Coates School in the varsity game held at Elm Street gym, while the Elmhurst junior varsity also won over Wahl-Coates, 43-2.

Providence Rally Overcomes Late 10-Point Deficit, 77-76

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
"It was unbelievable," said Providence basketball Coach Dave Gavitt.

But seeing is believing — and Gavitt had just seen his seventh-ranked Friars come back from a 10-point deficit in the last 2½ minutes to beat Massachusetts 77-76 Thursday night.

"They didn't win it," snapped Massachusetts Coach Jack Lehman. "We lost it."

Even after the Redmen blew their big lead, they had a chance to win it, but didn't. They moved ahead 76-73, but missed the front end of a 1-and-1 foul situation.

And foul-plagued Providence was playing with a freshman and two sophomores at the end.

"To come back the way we did, with the kids we had playing, was just fantastic," said Gavitt, overflowing with superlatives.

Kevin Stacom's 18-foot jump shot with six seconds remaining gave the Friars their winning points, capping the drama-packed rally.

Elsewhere, No. 1 UCLA beat

Iowa 68-44; No. 3 North Carolina State ripped Virginia 90-70 and fourth-ranked Maryland crushed Fordham 112-73.

Winning 71-61, Massachusetts buckled under a full-court press by Providence. The Friars went ahead 72-71 and then 73-72. But the Redmen, who had won their first nine games, scored four straight points and regained the lead at 76-73.

Freshman Bob Cooper then scored off a rebound for Providence and Stacom, who had been shooting poorly all night, made up for it with his game-winning.

UCLA's Bruins overcame a sluggish first half and beat Iowa for their 88th straight victory. The Bruins played without star Bill Walton. The UCLA center is recuperating from a back injury and the Bruins apparently wanted to save him for Saturday's big game with second-ranked Notre Dame.

Although they were never able to take the lead, the Hawkeyes gave UCLA some trouble, climbing to within four points shortly before the half. The Bruins took an eight-point lead at the half and never really pulled away until the last five minutes, when they had a 58-38 lead.

The contest was the second game of a doubleheader at Chicago Stadium. Oral Roberts hammered Chicago Loyola 105-90 in the first game.

North Carolina State dazzled Virginia, accelerating to a 28-4 lead behind Monte Towe's seven straight field goals. At one point, the outgunned Cavaliers hit only two of 16 attempts from the floor.

John Lucas and Tom McMillen scored 23 points apiece, leading Maryland over outmanned Fordham. The Terps rolled up a 57-25 halftime advantage and coasted.

Elsewhere in college basketball, Tulsa beat Oklahoma City 91-83; Indiana State downed the University of Pacific 75-74; Creighton trimmed Wichita State 65-63; Utah State stopped Utah 84-79; Hawaii held off Portland 57-52 and Duquesne bounced Steubenville 70-60.

Rocky Mount Defeats Rose

ROCKY MOUNT—Rocky Mount High School gained a 27-16 victory over Rose High School's wrestlers here last night.

Rocky Mount won eight of the 13 matches during the evening, taking only one by a pin however. Rose took the remaining five wins, but did not get a pin.

The loss dropped the Rampant record to 3-6-1 overall, while they are 2-2 within Division I.

Rose plays host to New Bern on Monday.

Summary:

100: Dale Eatmon (RM) decided David Lazo, 4-0

107: Cecil Dumbard (RM) decided Tommy Manning, 7-3.

114: Bill Barrett (R) decided Vincent Chavis, 15-0.

121: Butch Foust (R) decided Mike Avery, 5-2.

128: Donald Farmer (RM) decided Danny Bowman, 6-1.

134: Dwight Jordan (RM) pinned Freddie Baker, 3:31.

140: Greg Dawes (RM) decided Tyrone Perkins, 10-2.

147: McCarse Clark (RM) decided Mike Murad, 4-0.

157: Ronald Randolph (R) decided Donald Harper, 6-2.

169: Harold Randolph (R) decided Gary Karkman, 6-0.

187: Bill Wilson (RM) decided Ron Goodall, 2-0.

197: Ron Hunt (R) decided Mack Wiggins, 3-2.

Heavyweight: Mike Harris (RM) decided Jeff Hagans, 4-2.

State Defeats Virginia, 90-70

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
N.C. State now is tied with North Carolina at 3-0 in the Atlantic Coast Conference race. Virginia is 5-6 in all games and 2-2 in the conference.

John Lucas and Tom McMillen scored 23 points apiece to lead Maryland to its 10th victory against 2 defeats. Len Elmore scored 13 points and had 19 rebounds for the Terps, who were playing at home.

Fordham, now 5-7, was led by Darryl Brown, who scored 16 points.

The two games were the only ones involving ACC teams. The league is idle tonight, but all seven teams will play Saturday.

Fifth-ranked Carolina, 11-1, will be at Duke, 6-5, in a 3 p.m. game which will be televised regionally. At night, North Carolina-Charlotte, 11-2, will be at N.C. State; Clemson, 7-6, will be at Wake Forest, 7-5; Virginia at George Washington, and Maryland will play Navy at Baltimore.

Third-ranked North Carolina State beat Virginia by 20 points and fourth-ranked Maryland beat Fordham by 39 Thursday night.

N.C. State controlled the game from the outset and won 90-70. Virginia could get no closer than 15 points in the second half.

Maryland also was in control all the way to win 112-73.

David Thompson scored 30 points and Tommy Burleson 22 for the State Wolfpack, which won its 10th game against one defeat.

Monty Towe, 5-foot-7 guard, led the initial State attack. He hit seven straight field goals to account for 14 of his team's first 22 points. He finished with 20 points.

Bob McKeag hit five of six attempts, but that only helped Virginia, the home team, close the gap to 40-21 at halftime. McKeag finished with 20 points, and so did Gus Gerard of Virginia.

Costello New Dolphins Aide

By JOHN R. SKINNER
AP Sports Writer
MIAMI (AP) — Don Shula's hiring of Vince Costello as a defensive aide for the Miami Dolphins once again underlines the importance Shula places on his own football training under Paul Brown.

Costello, a player for six years under Brown at Cleveland and a linebacker coach for Brown's Cincinnati Bengals the past five years, became the fourth member of the seven-man Miami staff with Paul Brown ties when he was hired Thursday.

The others are Shula, offensive line coach Monte Clark, defensive line coach Mike Scarry and offensive backfield coach Carl Taseff.

"My background all stems from Paul Brown people," explained Shula. "I lean that way ... I know the things Paul taught me as a player."

Shula calls Brown's teaching ability his "greatest contribution to football."

Costello, 41, replaces Bill Arnsparger, who was named head coach of the New York Giants on Wednesday.

Costello and Shula both said they got permission from Brown before discussing the job, which will find Costello not only handling linebackers but also coordinating the defense with Scarry and defensive backfield coach Tom Keane.

"He wished me well," said Costello, himself a linebacker while he played at Ohio University. "I'm leaving on the best of terms. There's nobody that has more respect for Paul than I do — he gave me my start in football."

Brown, who picked up Costello as a free agent in 1956 after Costello had toiled three years in baseball's minor leagues, said in Cincinnati that he wished both Costello and Costello's new boss well.

"I felt he should take it to further his career," Brown said. "Don Shula and I talked at some length and Vince leaves with everyone's good wishes. 'I don't like to lose him, but like the rest of our guys, they've got to go on and up.'"

Brown said he hasn't yet decided who'll replace Costello in Cincinnati.

Arrested For Cosell Threat

BUFFALO (AP) — An unemployed steelworker from nearby Lackawanna has been arrested on federal extortion charges and accused of threatening to blow up sportscaster Howard Cosell.

Marian G. Batko, 27, also known as Michael Batko, was arraigned Thursday before U.S. Magistrate Edmund F. Maxwell, who released him on $500 bond pending a preliminary hearing Feb. 5.

FBI agents said in an affidavit filed in U.S. District Court here that Batko mailed a postcard to Cosell with the threat written on it.

The postcard message read, "Howard Cosell — The Mouth. Why don't you drop dead ...

I'll help you. There's a bomb in the Rich Stadium. It will blow you up at 10 Monday, Oct. 29 at Rich Stadium, Buffalo, N.Y."

The postcard was intercepted by the Lackawanna Post Office just before Cosell's arrival in Buffalo to broadcast the Buffalo Bills-Kansas City Chiefs Monday night football game Oct. 29.

The unsigned postcard was turned over to FBI agents, who traced it to Batko through handwriting analysis, the affidavit said.

The FBI affidavit said agents matched the handwriting on the card to Batko's signature on a job application filed with Republic Steel Corp. in 1971.

Atlanta Halts Losing Streak

By JOHN NELSON
AP Sports Writer
Atlanta Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons figures beating the Portland Trail Blazers was like stepping "over a little bit of a hill," and with composure, the mountain will be scaled, too.

Pete Maravich scored the first bucket of the game, and the Hawks never trailed in a 126-99 drubbing of the Blazers in a National Basketball Association game Thursday night. The victory snapped a five-game Atlanta losing streak.

"We'll try to climb a mountain tomorrow when we play Boston," Fitzsimmons said after the victory. "If we repeat tonight's performance, don't panic and are able to control the tempo of the game, we should be able to beat the Celtics."

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Capital Bullets breezed by the Cleveland Cavaliers 101-86, and the Golden State Warriors beat the Phoenix Suns 127-120.

In the American Basketball Association, the Memphis Tams defeated the Indiana Pacers 101-96, and the San Antonio Spurs beat the San Diego Conquistadors 101-97.

Maravich scored 34 points in the game. Portland played the game without starting center Rick Roberson who has bronchitis. In the second half, the Blazers also were without the services of Geoff Petrie who sprained an ankle.

Bullets 101, Cavs 86

Wes Unseld returned to the Capital lineup Thursday after being sidelined by arthritic knees to score 13 points and grab 17 rebounds on the way to the victory over Cleveland.

Warriors 127, Suns 120

Rick Barry scored 44 points — 22 in each half — to pace Golden State.

Tams 101, Pacers 96

Two centers, Randy Denton and Lee Davis, combined for 39 points for Memphis and the Tams escaped a 73-73 tie to take a 97-86 lead with two minutes remaining. Denton scored 21 points and Davis came off the bench to add 18.

Spurs 101, Q's 97

William "Bird" Averitt scored 35 points and guard James Silas added 30 to lead the Spurs. San Antonio led most of the game and never trailed in the second half. Dwight Lamar, who had 14 of his 21 points in the fourth quarter, tied the game for San Diego at 91-91 with 2:57 to play.

Immanuel Alone In Church Lead

Immanuel Baptist moved into first place all alone in the Church Basketball League last night with a 56-35 victory over Presbyterian. It was the first loss of the year for Presbyterian, and Immanuel is the lone unbeaten in the loop.

In the opening game of the night, Black Jack slipped past winless St. James, 59-53. St. James inched into a 27-25 lead in the first half of play, but Black Jack came back with a 34-26 advantage in the second half, enough to take the victory.

Tal Adams led Black Jack with 20 points, while E. Smith had 11 and Phil Page had 10. For St. James, Guy Howell had 14 and Si Seymour had 12.

The second contest saw Oakmont take a 48-37 win over Trinity. Trinity also pushed out into the first half lead, 22-17, but Oakmont overcame them, 31-15, in the second half.

Bobby Tungstall led Oakmont with 13 points, while Bob Lamb had 10. D. R. Daniels had 12 to pace Trinity.

The final game saw Immanuel gain its victory. They rushed away to a 23-9 lead in the first half of play, then coasted to the win. Presbyterian came back with a 26-23 advantage in the second half, but they had lost too much ground to effectively rally.

David Hahn led Immanuel with 18 points, while Dick Evans had 12 and Lindsay Hardee and L. G. Catlett had 10 each. Larry Graham had 14 to lead Presbyterian.

New Winter Storm Menacing Flooded Northwest

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Weather forecasters say a new winter storm moving in from the Pacific Ocean holds the threat of more flooding for coastal areas of the water-logged Pacific Northwest.

"It's a bad one," California weather forecaster W.E. Benman said of the new storm expected to move onshore today in an area already reeling from drenching rains which sent rivers raging over their banks.

Another National Weather Service forecaster in Seattle said the new storm is packing gale-force winds and the potential for more heavy rain.

There have been 15 known or presumed deaths in Oregon and Northern California since a winter storm struck early this week. Authorities in a vast area which also embraces western Montana, Idaho, Washington, Oregon and Northern California have estimated damage at more than $35 million.

In southwestern Oregon, rescuers found the bodies of three of nine men who were trapped when a giant mudslide collapsed a Pacific Northwest Bell Co. relay station near Canyonville Wednesday night.

Douglas County Sheriff John T. Truett said he flew over the area late Thursday and found it "much, much worse than I imagined."

"... The whole damn mountain fell on them," Truett said. The massive slide pushed the 10-by-10 foot concrete building into Canyon Creek and then buried it.

Searchers recovered the bodies of Pacific Northwest Bell employees Robert Keller of Portland and Roy James of Roseburg and Mark Garoutte, a Sage Pipeline Employee from Roseburg.

Still missing were Bell employees Bill Combs, Bob Miller and Gilbert Maret of Roseburg and Bill Centers and Ed Walden of Medford and Sage employee Ray Bell of the Tri City area of Douglas County.

Also in Oregon, 14-year-old Kenneth Allan Thomas of Medford drowned when his rowboat capsized on Griffin Creek, south of Medford, and authorities were searching for an unidentified motorist whose mud-filled car was found in the Rogue River.

Rivers throughout Western Oregon, hit by the worst floods in 10 years, were slipping back into their banks late Thursday even as weather forecasters warned of the new storm on the way.

In Oregon's Washington County, the largest business and residential area hit, the Emergency Planning Center estimated damage at $10 million. Washington County lies just west of Portland. Damage in Marion and Tillamook counties was estimated at $2.4 million.

Four Northern California counties were declared a disaster area by Gov. Ronald Reagan on Thursday after flooding brought on by heavy rains and warm weather which melted mountain snows.

In Humboldt County, Larry Jentosi, a 20-year-old Humboldt State University student, has not been seen since he left on a hunting trip Tuesday. Two children — 14-year-old Jimmy Moore and his 12-year-old sister, Kathy — were reported missing and believed drowned after they were swept away by a flooding branch of the Eel River at Myers Flat.

In Mendocino County, an unidentified man drowned when he slipped and tumbled into a swollen stream near Ukiah.

In Northern Idaho, Shoshone County Commissioner Verno Landon said flood damage would cost $5 million to $10 million to repair. He said the high water was the worst natural disaster in the history of the county.

A spokesman in Bonner County, to the north, estimated 80

Benewah County Assessor Gordon Leuty, who was coordinating sandbagging and rescue operations in the county, said, "We made a rough guess of $5 million in damages and the river's still rising."

In the Pinehurst area west of Kellogg, 700 persons fled their homes because of high water.

Flooding in western Montana caused millions of dollars of damage, most of it in and around the small northwest community of Libby, where hundreds of persons were evacuated. Gov. Thomas L. Judge declared Libby and Lincoln County a disaster area.

RIVER MOVES HOUSE—Don Wezdenko points to the spot where his house used to be before the worst Sacramento River flood in 50 years swept through the hamlet of Castella, Calif. House came to rest 30 feet away from its original location, lodged in a cluster of trees that kept it from being swept down the river. (AP Wirephoto)

Five Traffic Accidents, Heavy Damage Reported For Thursday

DRIVERS ESCAPE INJURY—Drivers of two large trucks escaped serious injury, both walking away from an accident with only bruised legs, after they were involved in an accident north of Haddock's Crossroads on the old County Home Road last night. According to Ptl. G. L. Swanson, a tractor-trailer truck driven by James Everette Stubbs, of Rt. 1, Gibson pulled from a drive-way into the path of a feed truck being operated by James David Hines, of West End Trailer Court of Greenville. Ptl. Swanson said that there was $10,000 damage to the tractor-trailer, $28,000 to the feed truck and $2,000 to the load of feed. Investigation into the accident is continuing. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

More than $5,900 property damage resulted from a series of five collisions here yesterday that injured three persons, Greenville Police reported.

Heaviest damage resulted from a three-vehicle collision at the intersection of Second and Cotanche Streets about 12:50 p.m., officers said.

Drivers involved in the collision were identified as Cheryl Jones Adams of 1311 Willow St., Carol Mae Guenther of Pomona, N.J. and Gail McWalters of Havelock.

Officers, who said Miss Guenther and Mrs. Adams were injured, estimated damage at $800 to the Adams car, $2,500 to the Guenther vehicle and $700 to the McWalters vehicle.

Miss Guenther was charged by police with failing to stop for a stop sign.

Man Suffered Severe Burns

A Bonner Lane's resident was seriously burned this morning when he apparently fell over a hot plate which ignited his clothes.

According to fire department officials, James Reid, suffered second and third degree burns over the upper portion of his body.

A neighbor, officials said, spotted smoke coming from under the door of the residence and knocked down the door.

Reid was transported to Pitt Memorial Hospital by the Greenville Rescue squad.

Jeffrey Vann Brown of Kingston was charged with failing to yield the right of way following investigation of a 12:01 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Fifth Street and Rotary Avenue.

Police said the Brown car collided with a car driven by Alvin Joyner of 1302 West Sixth St. causing an estimated $600 damage to the Brown car and about $700 damage to the Joyner vehicle.

Cars driven by Loretta Mae Anderson of 1213 Evans St. and Dalton Wayne Bailey Jr. of Route 2, Greenville were involved in a 6:45 p.m. crash on Greenville Boulevard near the Plaza Drive intersection.

Investigators, who charged

Bailey with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety estimated damage at $250 to the Anderson car and $125 to the Bailey auto.

Marie Gurganus Singleton of 210 South Sylvan Dr. was charged with following too close following investigation of a 5:25 p.m. mishap on Dickinson Avenue 50 feet West of the Columbia Avenue intersection.

Officers said the Singleton car suffered an estimated $150 damage when the vehicle collided with a car operated by Elizabeth Whichard Bullock of 2202 South Village Dr.

Damage to the Bullock car was placed at $125.

David Carroll Rood, 13 of 108 Ash St. was reported injured when the bicycle he was riding and a car driven by Louise Clark Brewer of 614 Maple St. collided about 5:02 p.m. on Jarvis Street just South of the Third Street intersection.

Police, who made no charges, said no damage resulted to the car or bicycle.

U.S. Navy Ships Under Satellite Surveillance

By FRED HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A new Russian ocean surveillance satellite is keeping watch from space on U.S. Navy ship movements in the Indian Ocean and the Arabian Sea.

Pentagon sources say the new satellite was sent up just before the end of 1973, which was the biggest year yet in Soviet space operations.

The heavy satellite, which can be maneuvered by radio command, searches the surface of the sea with radar and other sensors and sends back information to ground stations in the Soviet Union.

In addition to monitoring a U.S. carrier force cruising waters that have become increasingly important since the Arab oil embargo was imposed, the Soviet satellite has been checking on other elements of the U.S. Seventh Fleet in the South China Sea and the western Pacific.

The Russians launched a record 88 space vehicles in 1973, with about 75 of them believed by U.S. officials to have had some military mission.

Included in the total were communications, navigation and geophysical satellites, space exploration probes and a variety of scientific devices.

But perhaps the most important were 34 photo reconnaissance satellites and a smaller number equipped to eavesdrop on communications, sources said.

During the Arab-Israeli war and its aftermath last October, the Russians sent up seven photo spy satellites that passed over the Suez front and Israel daily.

Each satellite's mission was cut to six days from the normal 13-day flights of Soviet photo reconnaissance vehicles. The missions overlapped in time, so that the Russians had continuous coverage of the critical region.

The United States also brought spy satellites into play during the crises, but details of such operations are kept secret.

For 1973 as a whole, the United States lofted 26 satellites of all kinds, or fewer than one-third of Russia's total.

U.S. space experts say the Russians appear to be trying to achieve total photo reconnaissance coverage by satellite over the year. They said there were only a few days in 1973 when Russian spy satellites were not looking and listening over the United States and other areas of strategic interest to them.

The Worry Clinic If You Should Wear Dentures

Prof. Jay needed some detective sleuthing! For he was a popular, articulate speaker until two years ago. Then students began complaining that they couldn't understand him as well. Can you diagnose his problem? Ten million readers have it, too!
By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

I say, "Yet I am not indulging excessively in polysyllabic terms. And though my lecture sections may contain 250 students, I still have a microphone at the lectern to amplify the volume."
"So what do you suppose is the difficulty?"
"Are more young people growing deaf nowadays?"
"For my voice is still as strong as ever."
Ventriloquy Gutters
Since I happened to be visiting on the campus for a special lecture that night, I joined one of Prof. Jay's classes.
And it didn't take 5 minutes to determine his major problem. After the lecture, which was very informative and interesting, I asked:
"Do you wear false teeth?"
"Yes," he admitted, "for I got full dentures a couple of years ago."
And that was when his students began to have difficulty understanding him.
After people obtain false teeth they often fail to use their upper lip as freely in forming the consonants of speech.

Thus, they keep an immobile upper lip and develop guttural speech.
Their words thus remain in the throat, like the conversation of Orientals.
Indeed, they subconsciously slip into the ventriloquist's habit of keeping their lips as quiet as possible while talking.
The main difference between Prof. Jay and a talented ventriloquist is the fact that the ventriloquist consciously keeps his lips immovable.
Prof. Jay unwittingly does much the same thing.
And that should be a warning to all of you folks who wear dentures.
Too often this tendency to use guttural speech, practice before your bathroom mirror every day as you brush your teeth.
Recite poetry or improvise little speeches so you can watch your image and then make sure that upper lip moves freely in forming the many consonants.

Deaf lipreaders often complain that people wearing false teeth are difficult for them to follow.
A good ventriloquist learns to avoid certain words, such as those including the consonants "m," "b," "p," "f," "v," etc.
"I had a sandwich at dinner" can thus be uttered with very little lip action.
"I ate a banana before supper," is a sentence the ventriloquist will avoid. Why?
Because of those lip consonants "b," "f" and "p."
Vowels are formed largely in the throat or behind the lips.
So practice before your mirror and you will soon be able to concoct the type of conversation to hold with your ventriloquist "dummy."
However, the very letters the ventriloquist avoids, you denture wearers should deliberately cultivate to train that upper lip into more active use in conversation!
Professional speakers should also try to project their voice against the back wall, instead of holding it in their throat!
So send for my booklet "Public Platform Strategy," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.
(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

unwilling chickens a day for the processing plants of Bayshore Foods Inc.
Work begins around midnight because chickens are more tractable at night. A crew pulls up to a chicken house containing up to 100,000 eight-to-nine-week-old residents. Lights are extinguished, the flock herded together and the work begins.
Paid at the rate of 1 1/4 cents per coop of 14 chickens, each member of a catching crew can make $150 a week.
Work is steady — there are 300 million chickens on the Delmarva Peninsula — and if a crew works quickly, a night's labor takes six to eight hours. But there are drawbacks to laboring in a house of raucous birds. Summertime temperatures may soar past 100 degrees and the dust may be formidable. The turnover, not sur-

A Chicken-Catcher Remains Necessary

EASTON, Md. (AP) — Between the poultry industry's climate-controlled chicken houses and their computer-controlled feed-mixers and its highly-automated processing plants, there's still one sweat-stained step, a steadfast holdout where human toil counts more than mechanization.
The job is simple enough. Catch, and hold on to seven squawking chickens in each hand, and pass them on to another pair of hands which will deposit them into a truck.
The job is done "pretty much the same way they did it 20 years ago," says John Webb, a compact, wiry man of 38 who heads a ten-man team of chicken catchers based here.
Webb's men and five other crews — they are known as "procurement teams" in the industry — catch and pass 200,000 prisingly, is high.

Robert F. Baker, 49, one Bayshore crew leader, says he has been thinking about ways to automate the job for the last 30 years, "ever since I got into it."
Baker is not alone in the desire to automate chicken catching. Poultry companies from Maine to Arkansas have tried nets, conveyor belts and even vacuum cleaner arrangements to hasten the process, but, so far, poultrymen have not come up with a system that beats bending over and grabbing the fowl.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Reach a better understanding with debtors and creditors and get all affairs on a more even keel. Improve personal relationships. Have fun tonight.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Contact allies and state your ideas for greater success in the future. Find new outlets in outside world that add to income.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Get what you have to do out of the way instead of wasting time. Put plan in action to become more dynamic.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Be charming with others for more acclaim and happiness now. Dress well and see everyone you can. Be sensible with diet.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make your home more charming and functional for greater enjoyment. Get out of that rut you have been in for a long while.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) More directness and generosity with allies is what is needed now for greater progress. Correspond and get cooperation for your finest aims.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Contact experts in finance and business who can aid you now, and get good ideas on how to build up your present assets.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Be positive in going after what you most want to get done for fast results. Get together with true friends you enjoy. Avoid one who rubs you the wrong way.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 2 to Jan. 20) This is a fine day to express your talents at whatever has to do with advertisements, even if only to sell yourself to the one you love.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Communicating properly with others is the best way to accomplish your aims now, so discuss your ideas with others. Avoid one who blocks progress.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Ideal day to meet interesting and affluent people you don't yet know who can help you in the future. Don't permit anyone to downgrade you.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have much talent and the good fortune to make big success of it; others will quickly extend the favors needed at the right time. Teach early the importance of being tactful, otherwise the real bluntness in this nature could easily detract from the big fortune possible here, most of which will likely be made in foreign countries or working in connection with them. Give proper education.

British Coal Miners Are Keeping A United Front

EDITOR'S NOTE — Britain's miners are refusing to work overtime in an effort to get more money from the government. This has cut down on the supply of coal, on which Britain primarily depends for its energy supply. Result: a government order cutting electricity use and imposing a three-day work week. Following is a report from a mining town on how the workers there feel.

By HUGH MULLIGAN
AP Special Correspondent
PONTEFRAC, England (AP) — Before boarding the cage for his half-mile descent into the pits, coal miner Bernie Edwards had a word for Prime Minister Edward Heath concerning the overtime ban that has put Britain on a three-day work week.

"What Ted 'Eath wants ter do," he said in his almost incomprehensible Yorkshire accent, "is ter go down 'ere and take yer coal out. Then e'd know why we should be treated different in 'is Phase 3."

"Aye," nodded Josh Holland, his sidekick in that scorching, deafening world of endless night. "Like all yer politicians, you'd have ter put rubber nappies on 'im first. The go-overmint didn't blink at paying yer Arabs doo-ble for yer oil, but they won't give us a sausage."

Like most of their mates at Prince of Wales colliery, one of Yorkshire's hottest and deepest, Edwards and Holland are themselves feeling the pinch of a reduced pay packet and the nation's energy crisis.

"For most blokes, not working the extra hour each shift and weekends means you can't run a car or buy a 'ouse or pay for yer 'olidays," said Bernie.

Pontefract, a mining community with five licorice factories — "where yer wives work" — never did get to light the Christmas decorations arching over its gray, begrimed main street.

Miners get a free ton of coal every six weeks, but some homes are without heat because delivery trucks have been hit by the gasoline shortage and the short work week.

The National Union of Mineworkers is asking an increase of from the pound sterling equivalent of $81 — to $101.25 a week. Under Phase 3 of the government's anti-inflationary controls, the National Coal Board is offering an across the board increase of $5.17 a week.

In Pontefract, Wakefield, Castleford and the other mining towns nestling against the black slag heaps that rise out of the rolling Yorkshire countryside, it was difficult to find a miner who did not support his union's ban against working more than a five-day week.

The overtime and weekend ban has reduced the supply of coal on which highly industrialized Britain primarily depends for its energy supply.

This situation has been compounded by the Arab oil squeeze and a railway dispute which has slowed down delivery of coal.

As a result the Conservative government has ordered the nation on a three-day work week in order to conserve energy.

"They're making it appear if we don't work Saturday or Sunday the whole country will collapse," said Harry Nash, who has been going down the Prince of Wales pit 36 years, since he was 14 years old. "If we're that important, they should pay us twice as much."

The miners regard theirs as a dangerous, dying occupation that attracts no new men to the pits and in recent years has fallen from the top of the pay ladder among manual laborers in Britain to 11th place.

"There's only three men under 30 working the face of our pit," said Deon Austin, who walks 2½ miles in a semi-crouch every working day carrying his lamp, his survival kit and five pounds of explosives into the bowels of the Newmarket pit. "The men leave to go to work in the plastics and textile places where the beginning wage is 34 quid — $76.50 — a week and goes up to 42 — $94.50."

Most miners regard safety precautions as better since the mines were nationalized, but they charge that automation is taking more lives in the long run through lung diseases.

"Yer big disasters don't happen all that often," agreed miner Arthur Withington, union president at the Prince of Wales colliery. "We have 50 to 60 compensation cases now, burst fingers and broken feet, but nothing really serious. But in the last 10 years there's been a big increase in diseases and eye ailments. Last year we had 30 new cases of pneumoconiosis — which used to be called the black lung — because of the dust raised by the shearing machines."

Housing and schools are better, too. Most of the back-to-back red brick houses that climbed the murky streets of the mining towns in dreary rows have given way to pleasant semidetached houses with little gardens where many of the men raise chrysanthemums or breed racing pigeons. With the overtime coming in and a wife working, many families go to Spain for a vacation or take a trailer trip around Britain. Still, the pits cry for men.

"They're leaving our pit at the rate of five or six a week," said Dick Cunningham, union secretary at the Prince of Wales, which produces a million tons of coal a year, mostly for the nation's power plants. "They don't want to work six days a week. They want to make enough in five to keep going."

Industry Fined For Inaction In Oil Spill

RALEIGH (AP) — A Burke County industry has been fined $500 by the state Board of Water and Air Resources for failing to report and contain an oil spill into the Catawba River late last year.

The civil action Thursday against Highlander Ltd. marked the first time the state has levied a penalty under its Oil Pollution Control Act of 1973.

The spill occurred last Nov. 21 at Highlander Ltd., near Morganton, during a transfer of fuel oil from one tank to another. State investigators said about 300 gallons of oil spilled into a storm drain and made its way into the Catawba River.

The spill report reached the Office of Water and Air Resources through a complaint on its Pollution Help Line about an oil sheen on the river.

At its meeting in Raleigh on Thursday, the board also approved $740,421 in state assistance to local governments for construction of sewer lines. The funds will come from county allocations provided by the Clean Water Bonds Act.

The largest of the grants, which are for 25 per cent of project costs, will go to the Fayetteville Public Works Commission for $498,447.

Other grants: Troutman, two projects, $35,532; LaGrange $25,000; Granville County, $12,250; Creedmoor, $12,500; Cleveland County $39,867; Robeson County, four projects, $58,943; and Buncombe County, $48,175.

The board also named a special committee to develop regulations and policies concerning state financial participation in beach protection and inlet improvement projects.

Using Money Is Expensive, Too

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's tab for processing checks and using money runs about $10 billion a year.

Since the mid-1960s, the number of checks processed has jumped from 16 to 23 billion and the amount of currency in the economy has grown nearly $20 billion, the American Bankers Assn. says.

It takes 10 "hands on" steps to process the average check and the processing costs about 16 cents a check. By 1980, total check volume is expected to top 40 billion.

More than 72 per cent of all checks handled are written for less than $100 and represent 2 per cent of total dollar volume. Five per cent of all checks handled are written for more than $1,000 and account for 92 per cent of all dollar volume.

Pulp and paper mills in the South have a capacity to produce more than 89,000 tons of paper each day.

Opening lead: Three of ♠
On many hands, declarer can assure the success of his contract by adopting a specific method of play. Sometimes, however, there is no sure-fire line available. All declarer can do is take the best percentage play, and hope that the cards are favorably placed. Consider today's hand.
North's hand is minimum for a jump raise, but the bid is clear-cut. With a known fit, North must revalue his trump support, and the king promotes to 4 points. Thus, his hand becomes worth 13 points in support of spades.
The defenders won the ace and king of clubs and continued with a third round of the suit, which declarer ruffed. It seemed certain that declarer had to lose a diamond trick, so the outcome of the hand apparently depended on the trump suit. If spades divided 2-2, declarer would not have to lose a trump trick and would thus make his contract.

Since there was no point in delaying the moment of truth, declarer cashed the king and ace of spades. East's discard of a club on the second trump was a grievous, but not necessarily mortal, blow. Declarer had spotted that he could still make the contract provided that the defender with the high trump—West—had been dealt no more than two diamonds, in which case a partial strip could be executed.

To set the scene, declarer cashed his high hearts, discarding a diamond from dummy on the third round. Next came the ace of diamonds, followed by a diamond to the king.

Now, West was put on lead with his high trump, and the result was most gratifying. He had been stripped of spades and diamonds, and was therefore forced to give declarer a ruff-and-discard. Declarer thus managed to avoid losing a diamond trick.

Note that declarer could not be sure that his method of play would land the contract—West might have started with a third diamond, in which case the defenders would still have been able to set the contract by cashing a diamond. Nevertheless, his line of play cost nothing and gave him a tangible extra chance of success that was realized because of a fortunate lie of the cards.
