Kissinger Gives Briefing To Congressional Leaders

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry Kissinger, fresh from a 15,600-mile trip to negotiate a troop disengagement in the Middle East, today briefed congressional leaders at the White House.

"You're our hero," Rep. George H. Mahon, D-Tex., greeted Kissinger as they shook hands. Mahon was among 16 congressional leaders of both parties assembled by President Nixon to hear a report on the Israeli-Arab agreement.

Kissinger returned before dawn from his 11-day journey that produced a disengagement agreement between Israel and Egypt and what Kissinger said was "real progress" toward a similar pact between Israel and Syria.

Those attending the briefing included members of the Senate Foreign Relations and House Foreign Affairs Committees.

Before heading for home via London Kissinger brought to Israel what he termed "a number of very constructive suggestions" from President Hafez Assad of Syria that could lead to negotiations between the two October War foes.

Kissinger also told Israeli leaders that Syria may be willing to turn over a list of war prisoners and to permit visits by the International Red Cross if the talks make substantial progress.

Privately, U.S. officials believe that a relaxation on the Syrian front is vital for further accords between Egypt and Israel since Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, for political reasons within the Arab world, cannot afford to move too far ahead of the other Arab states in dealing with Israel.

The Israeli government is to study Assad's ideas and then give its response to Kissinger. Developments are not expected for two weeks.

Battle Casualty

LIMPING IN—A South Vietnamese navy cutter listing to port limps into Da Nang harbor in South Vietnam Sunday after being damaged Saturday in a fight with Chinese ships in disputed Parcel Islands. A South Vietnamese government spokesman said defense of its claims to the islands had been ended. He said 100 sailors and 150 soldiers were missing in fighting Saturday and Sunday. (AP Wirephoto)

Saigon Asked U.S. Fleet Intervene In Fighting Chinese

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON (AP) — The South Vietnamese twice asked the United States 7th Fleet to intervene in the battle with the Chinese for the Parcel Islands but were turned down, official South Vietnamese sources said today.

But the informants said that U.S. planes flew reconnaissance missions over the islands today at the request of the South Vietnamese government.

The sources said an American civilian was missing on one of the islands, which were overrun by Chinese forces Sunday. He was not immediately identified, but the informants said he was a former U.S. Marine officer.

The South Vietnamese government has conceded military victory to China in their dispute over the Parcel Islands, and called for an emergency meeting of the United Nations Security Council to plead its case.

Foreign Minister Vuong Van Bao sent Secretary-General Kurt Waldheim a note asking that the matter be put before the council. Nguyen Huu Chi, South Vietnam's observer at U.N. headquarters in New York, arranged a meeting with Gonzalo Facio of Costa Rica, the council president for January.

The Chinese Foreign Ministry in a statement said, "due punishment" had been meted out to Vietnamese forces sent to "invade" the Parcel Islands, which the statement said "have always been China's territory."

"The personnel of the other side whom we have captured in the fight for self-defense will be repatriated at an appropriate time," the statement said. It did not say how many were captured.

The Saigon military command said a Chinese amphibious force of about 500 men seized the last of the disputed coral islands in the South China Sea on Sunday, overrunning 150 South Vietnamese troops after a two-day air, sea and ground battle.

"It seems the battle is finished. For the time being, we are no longer taking any action to defend the islands," Saigon's chief military spokesman, Lt. Col. Le Trung Hien, said. Hien claimed that eight Chinese and South Vietnamese navy ships were sunk or damaged in the battle and more than 225 South Vietnamese soldiers and sailors are missing.

He said one Vietnamese patrol craft was sunk by radar-guided missiles and the fate of the 82 crewmen was not known. One destroyer, one cutter and another patrol craft suffered light to moderate damage and returned to Da Nang on Sunday, he reported.

Charges Public Cheated

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oil company executives today were accused of "cheating the American public" as they appeared before a Senate panel probing the severity of the energy crisis.

The charges were made in an opening statement by Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., of the Senate permanent investigations subcommittee.

A statement submitted under oath by Roy A. Baze, senior vice president for Exxon, the country's largest oil firm, flatly rejected the charges.

Exxon "has not fabricated or contrived to bring about the current tight energy supply situation," Baze said. "The petroleum companies have made major efforts to prevent the shortage from occurring," he said.

Ribicoff had accused the companies of using the "fright and panic" triggered by reports of severe fuel shortages "to squeeze out the small independent dealers," and of using the sharp increases in the price of foreign oil to push up the price of domestic oil.

Ribicoff called for a price freeze on petroleum products until the severity of the shortage can be determined. Ribicoff also said it was time to cut off tax breaks which he said the oil companies were using to "deprive the American treasury of approximately $3 billion a year."

He said the oil firms had misled federal energy chief William E. Simon as to the severity of the shortages.

Subcommittee Chairman Henry M. Jackson, D-Mich., said that some of the information the companies had submitted to his staff was evasive.

Teacher Pregnancy Rule Struck Down By Court

By VERNON A. GUIDRY Jr.
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court today struck down regulations that force school teachers off the job in the early months of pregnancy regardless of individual ability to continue work.

The 7 to 2 decision represented a victory for women's equal rights advocates. But the high court majority pointedly left open the possibility that similar rules taking effect during the last few weeks of pregnancy might be upheld.

The pregnancy case involved rules from school systems in Ohio and Virginia which forced pregnant school teachers to leave the classroom at the fourth and fifth months of their pregnancy, respectively.

The majority concluded "that neither the necessity for continuity of instruction nor the state interest in keeping physically unfit teachers out of the classroom can justify the sweeping mandatory leave regulations that the Cleveland and Chesterfield County (Va.) school boards have adopted."

Writing for the majority, Justice Potter Stewart said that while the regulations "no doubt represent a good-faith attempt to achieve a laudable goal, they cannot pass muster under the due process clause of the 14th Amendment because they employ irrebuttable presumptions that unduly penalize a female teacher for deciding to bear a child."

One question in the case was whether the rule on pregnancy constituted an impermissible classification on the basis of sex.

The majority did not place its reasoning under the equal protection clause of the 14th Amendment which could condemn such discrimination. Rather, the majority said that arbitrary cutoffs of employment for pregnant teachers denies them due process of law.

Pre-Dawn Sunday Fire Injured Four Persons

Four persons were reported injured in a pre-dawn fire here Sunday that caused heavy damage to the Junior Hotel — a rooming house at 1012 Fleming St.

Edward Earl Moore, 47, Andrew White, 30 and Barbara Jean Miller, 27, were taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital by the Fire Department's rescue unit for treatment of injuries they received, fire officials reported. Moore who listed his address at 1012 Fleming St., suffered first and second degree burns to his face, back, chest and feet as he fled the early morning fire, while White, who said his address was 606 Tyson St. and Miss Miller, who listed her residence at 1106 Jones St., suffered minor injuries when they jumped from the burning second floor of the building to escape the flames.

Police investigators reported Joe F. Hyman, 46 of 1012 Fleming St., suffered minor injuries when he fell down stairs as he left the burning building.

Fire units were called to the blaze at 4:20 a.m. When they arrived, they found the rear portion of the second floor of the wood-frame building burning.

Officers, who said investigation of the cause and origin of the fire is continuing, reported the blaze may have started in the area of a bathroom on the second floor of the structure.

Morgan Bids For Senate Seat; He Isn't Resigning

RALEIGH (AP)—Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan announced today as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the U. S. Senate, saying he would not resign and thereby throw his office open to a Republican appointment by Gov. Jim Houshouser.

Morgan said he felt a sense of responsibility "to protect those employees who are with me" in the Justice Department.

Morgan told newsmen and several hundred persons gathered to hear his announcement that he would give notice of "my intention to resign" if he is nominated, but did not say when he would make the resignation effective.

The state constitution provides that a Council of State of office vacant for at least 30 days prior to a general election will be filled by popular election, not by gubernatorial appointment. Any interim appointee would serve in an acting capacity.

Nominees for the vacant position would be named by executive committees of each major political party.

By announcing his intention to resign in this manner, Morgan said he would be "turning the office back over to the people, the same way they entrusted me."

Morgan will seek the Senate seat to be vacated by Sen. Sam J. Ervin.

Ervin, chairman of the Senate Watergate Committee, announced last month that he will not seek reelection.

Morgan told a news conference he is prepared "to wage a vigorous campaign to win this election." He said he will soon "make a complete disclosure of my personal finances. In my opinion, the public is entitled to know this information."

Morgan also announced that he has named Charles B. Winberry Jr. of Rocky Mount as his state campaign manager. Winberry, 32, was president of the Young Democratic Clubs in North Carolina in 1971.

Henry Hall Wilson of Monroe entered the Democratic race for the Senate seat several months ago.

Morgan said in a prepared speech that when he first ran for attorney general in 1968, "I promised that if elected, I would be the 'People's Attorney.' I believe I have kept that promise."

Many Morgan supporters were on hand as he made his announcement. He said that in November, 1971, when he announced his decision not to seek the Democratic nomination for governor in 1972 he felt deeply that he had unfinished business in the attorney general's office.

"In spite of the excellent prospects for victory, I felt sincerely that duty called elsewhere. Many of you left Raleigh that day disappointed," Morgan said.

"But I promise you," he added, "that you will not go home disappointed today. We have kept our promise. We have put our house in order."

Morgan cited his accomplishments since becoming attorney general, saying: "We have developed strong and vital programs which are now firmly rooted and growing."

Student Recruitment Is Pushed As ECU Sees A Shifting Of Fields

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
East Carolina University is "busily enrolling students...and would like for more to apply..."

so the school will not face the loss of a number of faculty positions for the coming fall term, ECU Provost John M. Howell said this morning.

According to Howell, who heads the academic division of the university, "we were budgeted for 9,498 full time equivalent students for 1973-1974 (618 faculty members based on the projected enrollment)... what we got was 9,031 full time equivalent students..." which would qualify for 30 less faculty members.

Howell noted that the staff allocations are also affected by a "shift within the university itself." For example, he cited the Health Affairs Division where enrollment in allied health programs is "going up." "This means that enrollment in the academic division I'm in charge of is going down really faster than the university's enrollment."

Health affairs, he said, had a projected enrollment for the Fall of 1973 of 783 students... "They had 992 actually, while in academic affairs the projection was for 8,715 while we actually had 8,039. Art and music are also increasing in enrollment," Howell explained.

For the coming fall, the Provost explained, the projected enrollment for the academic division would "result in the loss of 48 faculty members" based on an estimated total enrollment of 9,048 for the entire university. Howell emphasized, that the projected loss is still a matter now of speculation. "We are taking steps to get the enrollment increased."

He explained that "on January 17, we had admitted 1,944 students through our regular admission procedure, and for 1974 on the same date, we had admitted 2,005...freshmen. In addition to that, we are admitting some students who do not meet our admission requirements... in an experimental program... giving them the background material that will get them ready to swim with the other students..."

Howell said there currently are "62 of these enrolled," with plans to enroll 200 to 300 in the special program.

With the current registration of freshmen "120 or so ahead, and if we enroll 300 more, we won't have to suffer any decline (in teaching positions) at all."

According to Howell, 18 positions are already cleared. Those teachers have not been hired. This, he said, leaves 30 positions to be cleared if the projected low enrollment becomes a reality.

He explained that normal retirements and resignations would clear some of the posts. And if others have to be cleared, contracts would not be renewed for teachers hired over the past year or two, or "graduate fellowships carried in teaching positions," would not be awarded.

"But," the university official said, "we are busily enrolling students... and would like for more to apply," so the school will not have to face the possibility of having to clear teaching positions.

"I emphasize," Howell said, "I don't expect enrollment to remain down. We have not received any official notice of any cut, but I know if the final enrollment estimate is down, we won't get the allotment of teachers."

"So we are recruiting more vigorously."

Dies Of Wounds

James Redmon, 54, of 1115 Clark St. died in Pitt Memorial Hospital about 1:20 a.m. today of injuries he received in a shooting incident at the intersection of 12th and Pitt Streets Sunday night, according to Chief of Police Glenn Cannon.

According to Cannon, Redmon suffered two bullet wounds to his head and abdomen and one wound to his right leg as a result of the 10:15 p.m. shooting.

William Joseph Powell, 37, of Route 9, Greenville, jailed about 11:30 p.m. Sunday on charges of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to kill, has been charged with murder since Redmon's death, Cannon explained.

According to the chief, the shooting followed an argument at a club at the intersection.

Denies Pitt Hospital Has Rebuffed UNC

Greenville family physician Dr. Jack Wilkerson has asked UNC Board of Governors Chairman William Dees to correct a statement reported Friday before last that Pitt Memorial Hospital and its medical staff have "consistently rebuffed attempts by the University of North Carolina Medical School to establish training programs for its medical students since 1966."

Dr. Wilkerson said no official discussions of this possibility occurred until 1971, and that necessary funds could not be identified at that time.

He added that news accounts quoting Glenn Wilson, director of the AHEC program, as stating that Pitt Hospital and its medical staff rejected an AHEC proposal in 1972 also are not true. "The facts are that we were given eight days to respond to a proposal that we were told would require at least $75,000 annually from our hospital to finance. We voted to continue planning and to investigate means of funding a program other than adding this cost to the hospital patients or to the taxpayers of Pitt County."

"We heard nothing more from Mr. Wilson or Dean (Christopher C.) Fordham until mid-October, 1973, when again we were asked to join in the planned expansion of the AHEC program, with the message that we had two weeks to plan the program in Greenville and at least five surrounding counties, including possible new facilities. We were told that we could receive up to $5 million for new facilities if we would agree to join in immediately."

He went on to explain that Pitt Memorial has been committed to clinical education for students in the health professions, and has significant training programs in nursing, medical technology, occupational therapy, and several other disciplines in affiliation with East Carolina University. "Last year we entered into an affiliation with the ECU Medical School. This agreement commits the hospital to a major role in the clinical education of ECU medical students when that School is expanded beyond its present one-year program.

"We have been functioning for some time as an AHEC for East Carolina University, except that we have no advanced medical student, residents, or full-time clinical faculty as yet."

He explained that the new hospital building program here should be completed in late 1976 or early 1977.

"We, as responsible professionals and citizens, refuse to be pressured and rushed into an agreement with the UNC Medical School simply because $5 million was waved in front of our noses like a carrot. We insist upon mutual planning to arrive at a responsible decision in matters such as what facilities are needed and where they should be located. We must have the time to consult with surrounding counties to plan their role in the AHEC program. Finally, we insist that East Carolina University must play an integral part in any AHEC developed here, not only because of our established relationships with ECU in nursing and Allied Health, but also, because this AHEC should be closely tied to the developing School of Medicine at ECU."

Dr. Wilkerson is chairman of the Medical Education Liaison Committee of Pitt County Memorial Hospital.

Lawmakers Bring Back Reactions Of Constituents

By MIKE WATERS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The energy crisis and Watergate are the foremost concerns of congressional constituents, a sampling of congressmen returning to Washington shows.

The lawmakers also say that while many people are losing confidence in the President, they are concerned about the possible ill-effects of impeachment.

The congressmen say the major concern of their constituents is the energy crisis, but there is a growing belief that it is a sham foisted on the public by the oil industry and permitted by the White House.

Also, many Republican congressmen gearing up for reelection say they will not ask President Nixon to campaign for them.

One of the early returning congressmen for today's opening of the second session of the 93rd Congress was Rep. Bob Bergland, D-Minn. He said energy was the chief concern of his constituents.

"The price and supply of fuels are very uncertain, the people are more concerned about the pricing of fuels than Watergate, but the two are connected."

"The commonly held theory is these oil companies gave the President $5 million and they're getting it back in spades," he said.

Bergland also said Nixon's credibility "is unbelievably low. The concern is the same between the conservative businessmen and the more liberal."

"There's darn little confidence in his ability to govern," he said.

Echoing Bergland's comments about energy was Rep.

Edward J. Derwinski, R-Ill.

"People are concerned that they won't get their energy needs, (it's) a personal thing ... will I be able to get enough gas to drive to work and to go see granny in Southern Illinois, that sort of thing."

"About impeachment, I think it's far better not to impeach ... (and) resignation is not on the public's mind."

"About the prospects of his campaigning for me — I don't suppose I will invite him to please come to my district. But I won't say no if he volunteers," Derwinski said.

Another Republican, James G. Martin of North Carolina, also said energy is his constituents' chief concern.

"On energy, people are quite confused as to what the real picture is, so much conflicting claims and accusations. Most of the people have deduced it's a hoax, it's a conspiracy."

"But I have judged from their response that they are voluntarily responding to conservation programs."

Martin said he was not afraid of any Watergate taint by having Nixon campaign for him but he sees the Republican party as being hurt by the scandal.

However, he said "If the (House) Judiciary Committee reports evidence of his involvement in any criminal act, I certainly won't welcome his coming in."

Claim Secret Messages Got In Military Hands

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — A former document coordinator says top-secret messages intended for high United States civilian officials in Saigon were retransmitted to military officials.

"These messages were coming from the secretary of state; they were coming from the White House; they were coming from the CIA," Steven M. Davis said in an interview Sunday.

"A lot of them specifically had to do with (Ambassador Ellsworth) Bunker. None of this information was supposed to go anywhere else. It was supposed to be kept in these types of channels," he added.

"But later, they were being retransmitted by military personnel. How they got them, I don't know. They'd come in and retransmit them back to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, or to the Navy commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet in Hawaii, or to Thailand where the Army set up its new headquarters."

Davis, 23, said he was a civilian top-secret document coordinator at the ITT communications center in Saigon from January to June 1973. He said he worked for Federal Electronic Corp., an ITT subsidiary.

He said the messages passed to the Joint Chiefs of Staff ranged from top secret to unclassified and included information on the Strategic Arms Limitation Talks (SALT), Vietnam negotiations, State Department business and CIA investigations.

Adm. Thomas Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs, has acknowledged that top-secret information was passed to him from Henry A. Kissinger's office before Kissinger became secretary of state.

A Pentagon spokesman in Washington, D.C., said officials had no immediate comment on Davis' allegations.

The Joint Chiefs are top officers from the various branches of the armed services who supervise operations and provide contingency planning for military operations.

In Paramus, N.J., Frank Rauzi, security manager for Federal Electronic, confirmed that Davis had worked as a control clerk in Saigon and would have had access to dispatches.

Rauzi said Davis' "allegations are not entirely wrong, but they were investigated fully by ITT and the military. I wouldn't say it didn't happen."

It could be. Possibly, yes."

Davis, now living in suburban Carmichael, said he complained to his superiors and "they told me I was creating too many waves."

Davis said he told the CIA and was fired when his superiors found out. Rauzi said Davis was let go as part of a general cutback.

A 1970 graduate of the Army Intelligence School at Fort Holabird, Md., Davis said he spent a year in Vietnam as an Army intelligence coordinator before taking the civilian job.

Banquet Launches Clean-Up, Fix-Up

FARMVILLE—The Farmville Economic Council sponsored a kick-off banquet last Monday to formally announce the start of the Cleanup-Fixup Campaign.

Those present included Cleanup Campaign co-chairmen Jack Lewis and Durwood Little and district chairmen James Taylor, Rudy Cobb, Charles Joyner and Dr. Dan Heizer. H. P. Norman, town building inspector, gave a brief address and Jack Farrow, representing the Boy Scout troops, also spoke.

Economic Council Executive Director Tom Thompson thanked those present for their interest and explained that the Cleanup Campaign has not only the objective of beautifying the town, but the additional benefit of satisfying the last remaining requirement for the Governor's Award.

The Governor's Award brings increased attention to the recipient towns from industrial prospects looking at the state for potential industrial sites. Hopefully, the increased attention generates increased industrial placements and hence more jobs to the respective communities, he said.

Feb. 11-16 has been designated as Cleanup Week. Anyone wishing to participate may contact the Farmville Economic Council, phone 753-4670, for additional details.

The annual Girl Scout cookie sale will be held Jan. 21-31.

Local scouts will be taking orders for mint, butter, peanut butter, chocolate chip and assorted cookies. The cost of the cookies is $1 per box.

Mrs. Susan Pittman is this year's cookie chairman. She may be reached for orders by calling 756-5288.

The cookie project is the Girl Scout's largest moneymaking project conducted annually.

See Increase In Smoking

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Ten years after the government report linking smoking to cancer, cigarette consumption has increased around the world, tobacco officials report.

Figures provided by the Tobacco Institute show that in 1973, smokers around the world puffed away on 4.6 trillion cigarettes, compared with 2.4 trillion in 1963.

Of that figure Americans accounted for 583 billion cigarettes. In 1963 the institute says Americans smoked 524 billion.

In 1964 the U.S. Surgeon General issued a report linking smoking with cancer. The report led to the banning of cigarette commercials on radio and television and to the health warnings on cigarette packs.

Institute spokesmen say they do not view the anti-smoking campaigns as a threat to their livelihood.

"It is of course disturbing in the degree to which science has been propagandized," said William J. Kloepfer, senior vice president of the institute.

Dr. Grace To Speak At Meet

Dr. Eugene V. Grace, former Senatorial candidate from Durham, will speak at an organizational meeting of the Foundation for Autistic Children Tuesday at 7 p.m. at the Three Steers Restaurant here.

WITN-TV personality Kay Currie will be mistress of ceremonies for the program. Mike Karachun is president of the local Society for Autistic Children hosting the meeting.

Red China Believed To Be Pressing Oil Claim

LONDON (AP) — Senior diplomats believe that China's expulsion of South Vietnamese forces from the disputed Paracel Islands demonstrates Peking's resolve to press its claims to about 150 islands along the Asian continental shelf.

The goal is the oil that is believed beneath the floor of the South and East China seas.

Besides South Vietnam, Japan, the Philippines and Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalist Chinese regime on Taiwan could challenge Peking's claims to one or another of the various island groups in the region.

Shas or "southern sands." They are a cluster of shoals and islets about 300 miles west of the Philippines and nearly 1,000 miles from the Chinese mainland. The group is about 300 miles east of Vietnam. Saigon and Manila both dispute Peking's insistence that the group for centuries has been used, and occasionally occupied, by China. Peking has cited old maps and British Admiralty surveys, among other documents, in support of its claim.

The South Vietnamese recall the French building lighthouses in the Spratlys more than 40 years ago when France was running Indochina. The Philippine claim dates back to at least 1955. And the Nationalist Chinese for some time kept a naval garrison on one island as a demonstration of Chinese sovereignty.

The Senkaku islands, or Huaniaoshan, are a group of eight barren rocks and peaks about 150 miles northeast of Taiwan and 100 miles north of Ishigaki, in Japan's Ryukyu chain. They are situated in less than 600 feet of water and are within the area of mainland China's continental shelf, separated from the Ryukyus by the Okinawa Deep.

Contentions for ownership are China, Taiwan and Japan. The dispute flared most recently in 1970 after the Nationalist Chinese granted oil exploration rights to Pacific Gulf, the Japanese subsidiary of the American Gulf Oil Co. Japan challenged the award, Taiwan protested, and Peking entered the controversy with a declaration that the "resources of the seabed and subsoil of the seas around these islands, and of the shallow seas adjacent to other parts of China, all belong to China their owner."

Student Works In Hunt's Office

SWEET BRIAR, Va.—Miss Kathy Whichard, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. David Whichard II of Greenville, N.C., is working in Raleigh, N.C., as a government service intern in the office of Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt as part of the Sweet Briar College Winter Term.

Under the program, students spend four weeks on a special course or project which tempers their theoretical learning with practical experience in a field of particular interest to the student.

Miss Whichard, a sophomore at Sweet Briar, is one of 28 members of the Department of Government who are participating in some form of governmental activity or research during January.

Recover Stolen Purse From Boy

A 14-year-old boy was taken into custody by Greenville Police about 3:45 p.m. Saturday after allegedly taking a pocket book containing $80 in cash and some jewelry from Mrs. Charles Forbes of 805 Greenville Blvd. at C. Herber Forbes store on Evans Street.

According to Chief Glenn Cannon, officers saw the youth running down Cotanche Street near the rear of the store with a purse in his possession and gave chase.

The juvenile was found about a block away hiding under an oil tank beside another store.

The $80 in cash and jewelry were recovered.

Children By Choice Is Decision Elaborate Doll House Created By Hand

(Editor's note:—Following is the second of six articles on having children in the era of Zero Population Growth.)

By Larry Kleinman
With Lindsay Van Gelder
NEW YORK (WNS)—“The decision to have a child means making a stronger commitment, which sometimes frightens people. I don't know why people react that way to commitments. — Nicole Tweety, pregnant with her first child.

“The choice to have a child is such a huge one. It means that you will always have an association with that woman and with that child, even if you split. It's like getting married for real.” — Ronald Tweety, Nicole's husband.

“When we decided to have a baby,” said Bobbi Kaplan, a 28-year-old advertising copywriter, her hands resting comfortably on top of the bulge of eight months of pregnancy, “it was very much a conscious choice.

“My whole training, my whole early existence had been geared to becoming a mother. Like most little girls, I grew up just assuming that I'd become a mother.

“Well, I got married right out of college and, training or no, I realized I wasn't ready to have children and I began questioning whether I wanted to at all. To myself, at times, I might even have thought I didn't want to become a mother.”

Mrs. Kaplan and her husband, Peter, a 30-year-old executive with the Wildcat Service Corp., which employs ex-addicts who do service work for the city, are very much in the mainstream of couples having babies today and the concept of choice is the heart of that mainstream.

Interviews with scores of expectant and recent parents, as well as statistical data, make it quite plain that virtually foolproof birth control, backed up by more social acceptance of couples who choose not to have children, has made the decision to have a child just that — a decision, a choice, more than has ever before been true.

Not New

Contraception, of course, is nothing new, having been practiced in one form or another for ages. But the evidence indicates that what is new is that today's advanced methods of contraception are being practiced by increasing numbers of people.

A detailed analysis by the National Fertility Study of the Federal Institute of Child Health and Human Development shows that the three most effective forms of contraception are sterilization, the pill, and the intrauterine device, and that 60 per cent of all married couples practicing birth control were relying on one of these methods by the end of 1970. Only five years earlier the figure had been 40 per cent.

All told 65 per cent of the 5,884 couples interviewed by the study were practicing some form of contraception. Of the remaining 35 per cent, 14.5 per cent were either pregnant, had recently given birth, or were trying to conceive; 13 per cent were physically unable to have children; 7.5 per cent were not using birth control for a variety of other reasons.

Dr. Charles Westoff of Princeton, a director of the study, said: “We're coming closer to the ‘perfect contraceptive’ society, where the overwhelming majority of births will occur only if and when people want them to.”

Should contraception fail, or should a pregnant woman change her mind, there is always abortion. In New York City last year abortions, including those of out-of-state women, exceeded births by nearly 2 to 1, and after the U. S. Supreme Court liberalized the nation's laws the medical community anticipated 1.6 million abortions across the country annually.

Middle-class couples are responding to these choices by having children later — the Kaplans, for instance, have been married more than seven years — with the impetus to end the postponement usually coming from the woman.

When Ready

“The question for us was not will we or won't we, but when will we be ready,” said Ann Head, 29, married four years and mother of a year-old son.

“Larry (her husband, a computer programmer) was more willing to wait than I was. But I had biological pressure. I want more than one and I didn't want to wait until after I was 30 to start.”

Social forces, particularly the women's movement, often are cited as a factor in having and raising children. Sue Harman, for example, is a 32-year-old teacher raising her two-month-old son by herself. The child's father left early in the pregnancy and Miss Harman, “after thinking about abortion, but never very seriously,” decided to have the child.

“Asking me to focus on the ways the women's movement has influenced me is like asking me to focus on breathing,” she said. “Perhaps the most it's done for me has to do with attitude. I don't feel like only half of a couple. I feel like a whole person who has a baby and my friends accept me that way.”

For Harriet Greenfield, a 29-year-old actress and singer, and her husband Jeff, a 30-year-old freelance writer who has worked for John Lindsay and Robert Kennedy, the women's movement played a role both in the decision to have a child after five years of marriage and in how they are going about raising their five-month-old daughter Casey.

“I simply wasn't willing to have a child unless I felt guaranteed of having a participatory father,” Mrs. Greenfield said. “The women's movement played a role in that it made me feel that my demands were not unreasonable at all, and that was very, very relaxing.”

Man's Liberation

“I just wish,” her husband added, “that more of the women's movement's arguments stressed the liberation for a man, too. It would be a horrible thing to deny yourself the whole range of emotion that comes from participating in the care of your child.”

Fathers taking part in the care of babies did not, of course, begin with the middle-class in 1970. What does seem to distinguish today's diaper-changing daddies from those of earlier generations is a heightened sense of the social obligation to pitch in and help.

Similarly, while the Greenfields and other middle-class college-educated couples find it perfectly natural to intellectualize about whether to have children, there are hundreds of thousands of other New Yorkers to whom a debate on the matter would be incomprehensible.

Al De G. is a Queens' truckdriver's helper. His wife Fay used to work as a teller in the neighborhood bank. Both were surprised that anyone should ever wonder if they ever discussed whether to have children.

“But that's what marriage is all about,” said Fay. “Our parents had children and our grandparents had children, didn't they?”

“All we ever did,” said her husband, “is that we agreed Fay would work a while after we got married — to help ut for the hospital. It brought $450 in that auction, but Mrs. Keener's father, George Leonard, did the high bidding and gave the house back to his daughter. Mrs. Keener followed no plans but drew freely from homes she loves. The stairway with its curved railing is a copy of one in her own house, for instance.

She built in a closet beneath the staircase because, she said, “I remember how much fun it was to hide in those little closets when I was a child.”

When she discovered that crystal chandeliers for doll houses could cost $150, she used crystal beads from jewelry counters and made her own chandeliers. For candles, she rolled tiny paper scrolls, coated them with wax and added fake wicks.

Reproductions of oil paintings from museum catalogs adorn the doll house walls, in gold leaf frames she carved and finished herself.

“I cut up a petit point purse to make the rugs,” says Mrs. Keener, “and took a locket-sized picture of my great-grandfather to put in its easel frame on a table in the library.”

The house's own frame came from France, from a crate in which a painting was shipped from Paris. Its Colonial-styled windows are of Plexiglas.

“I made little hangers for the closets in the bedrooms and put a tiny doll house in the nursery,” Mrs. Keener says. “There is even a tinier doll house in the nursery doll house.”

She carved all of the planking in the house, finishing the floors in mahogany. She paneled the library, using pre-carved lumber yard supplies for the wainscoting. The house is 40 inches high, 36 inches wide and 12 inches deep.

She made all the books for the library, though only one — “the hardest to do” — has pages.

Did her husband, Bob help? “No,” Mrs. Keener said, “he is working on his own doll house,” a Tudor cottage with a thatched roof, though not of straw. Real straw is too thick, Mrs. Keener said, “so we bought eight dozen paint brushes, much to the amazement of the salesman.” Even that wasn't enough; the roof must await a new supply of matching brushes for its completion.

And the Kenners' only child is a boy.

Reproductions of oil paintings from museum catalogs adorn the doll house walls, in gold leaf frames she carved and finished herself.

Recording Solves Their Dog Problem

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: The barking dog problem can be solved, and very easily. Our neighbors simply would not believe that their dog, which they kept outside on a chain day and night, barked and howled constantly when they were not home. Our patience grew thin, especially on Sundays when they drove off somewhere for the entire day.

One Sunday we put our tape recorder out under our bedroom window, and made a two-hour recording of the canine concert. When they returned after their Sunday sojourn we hid the recorder in our bushes, locked our patio gates, turned up the volume, and went to the movies.

In two days the dog had disappeared.

TRANQUIL IN TUCSON

DEAR TRANQUIL: This may not have helped your friendship with those neighbors, but it certainly did improve the neighborhood.

DEAR ABBY: The other night, after a fairly calm evening with friends, my husband offered me to one of his friends. You can't imagine how much this hurt me.

I did the only thing I could think of doing. I refused in no uncertain terms, even though he tried his best to talk me into it.

My husband and I finally went to bed, and made love before going to sleep. I love my husband, but I doubt that he really loves me. He has tried to get me to go to bed with his friends before, and every time I've told him no, and not to ask me again, but he keeps on trying.

I have told my husband that if I want sex outside of my marriage, I will do the choosing, but so far I am satisfied with him alone.

I get depressed every time I think about my husband's wanting to pass me around to his friends, and lately I've been taking it out on our 2-year-old son. I am open for suggestions.

NOT FOR LENDING

DEAR NOT: My suggestion would be leave him, and look for a man who would respect his marriage vows as you respect yours. But first I would give him an opportunity to get his head together. If he refuses counseling, then leave him—unless you want to continue to live with a man who regards his wife as his personal property—and a sex object to pass around to his friends.

DEAR ABBY: I am one woman who is against women's lib because it advocates free love for women as well as for men.

Maybe I'm peculiar, but I don't want any free love before marriage. What I do want is a man whose moral standards are just as high as mine.

Why should a girl remain pure for a husband who has slept with so many girls he has lost count?

“20 AND STILL PURE”

DEAR “20”: If you've reached 20, and are still holding, hooray for you! Women's libbers are pushing for the same privileges for women as men. That doesn't necessarily mean they advocate promiscuity for everybody, they simply want one standard for both sexes, which is what you want, no?

Much To Applaud In Proposals

Gov. Holshouser has presented his budget message to the General Assembly and there is much which the governor and the Advisory Budget Commission proposed which should be applauded. The budget of nearly $3 billion calls for spending $1,029,804,959 for public schools and community education, $400,426,876 for higher education, $602,431,931 for human resources, $496,489,698 for transportation and $314,495,042 for other purposes. The budget includes a five percent pay raise for teachers and other state employees costing $68.9 million. There is $20 million in the budget for higher education and other capital improvements and expanded teaching programs and $30.4 million for new state office buildings.

It is particularly encouraging that the budget includes $7.6 million for parkland purchases and development. The state can do no better than to invest funds in parks for recreation, particularly if traveling is to become more limited in the future.

There is $14.4 million in the recommendations for mental health, certainly another worthwhile cause, and $21 million for badly needed prison capital improvements. Some $12.7 million is included to expand the state kindergarten program.

The governor endorsed the Board of Governors program for increased funding of the Area Health Education Centers. It is regrettable, however, that he could not resist seeking the approval of North Carolina's Old Guard. He indirectly urged the Legislature to support the Board in its failures to deal with the question of the ECU medical school.

Fortunately for the people of our state the 1973 General Assembly created a commission which carefully studied the medical education needs of North Carolina. It is anticipated that a bill will come from this to expand the ECU school to a second year and double its number of students.

The Advisory Budget Commission also included an additional $7.5 million in reserve funds in this year's budget for medical education and it is widely anticipated that these funds will be allocated to the ECU medical school.

The governor could have provided the leadership on this important issue—but he didn't. It is our firm belief that the leadership will come from this year's Legislature and all North Carolinians can be thankful for that.

Consumer Bills Moving Again

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—A package of five proposals dealing with protection of consumers promises to kick up no little debate in the General Assembly.

Introduced in the closing days of the 1973 session, the measures drew little attention—either from consumers or from business.

But renewed interest is certain as the five begin to move once more through the legislative maze.

Here, in a nutshell, are the five proposals:

—Requirement that banks and department stores charge interest on revolving accounts only against the remaining balance, instead of against the previous monthly total as is now done.

—Requirement that mortgage bankers pay interest on money held in escrow accounts for the purpose of paying real estate taxes and insurance for depositors.

—Repeal of the state's fair trade laws which require stores to charge established prices for merchandise.

—Restriction on use of such terms as "Mill Outlet" or "Factory Store" unless the sales place is actually associated with the manufacturer named.

—Requirement that apartment owner pay interest on security deposits put up by tenants and held as long as the renter remains.

Surprise Response
One of those proposals—that dealing with the interest on charge accounts—produced a surprise response from bankers.

They proposed a plan to make it legal for bank credit cards to be used for a "full line of credit," rather than being restricted as to total amounts which could be charged.

As outlined by John Jordan, attorney for the North Carolina Bankers' Association, the proposal would allow up to $6,000—or an unlimited—line of credit for a bank charge card holder.

As the bankers see it, this would permit a buyer to charge a new car or boat or other major purchase on the revolving charge plan without any red tape.

The bankers presented the proposal as a "committee substitute" bill for action in the General Assembly, but Rep. George W. Miller Jr. of Durham, chairman of a Judiciary subcommittee handling the legislation pointed out that simply presenting such a proposal did not constitute introduction of legislation.

Members of the committee expressed amazement at the proposal, and worried that financing such large amounts on a revolving credit plan would generally mean that clear title to the property bought would be difficult to come by under normal operating rules for revolving credit.

Generally speaking, the holder of a bank credit card many uses of that credit card are made, finds that the account continues to run rather than being paid up.

Chilly Welcome
Some members of the committee and representatives of the N. C. Consumers Council who were present indicated the "unlimited credit card" idea would receive a chilly welcome in the General Assembly.

The Consumers Council, headed by Mrs. Lillian Woo of Raleigh, was instrumental in getting the consumer bills before the General Assembly, with Miller and Rep. Jim Long of Alamance County introducing the various bills. Mrs. Woo pointed out that there is an estimated $31 million held in mortgage escrow accounts in North Carolina, and that conservatively invested at four per cent, this would yield over $1.2 million in interest to the savings and loan or bank operations holding those funds for homeowners. She insisted that it is "only fair that they either eliminate the requirement for escrow deposits, or pay interest."

Mortgage bankers, led by Claude Pope of Raleigh, president of Cameron Brown and immediate past president of the state's Mortgage Bankers' Association, said the interest collected from investing money in escrow accounts simply pays back the cost of handling those funds for the homeowners, that loans assured under some federal programs require escrow deposits, and that local property taxes represent a lien against the property if unpaid and the escrow requirement only protects the title for the mortgage firm and the homeowner.

The Scorecard
The scorecard for the five proposals at this point indicates that the proposal for interest payment on escrow funds will not get far in the General Assembly, that the bankers' proposal for unlimited use of credit cards will not either; but there is considerable interest in the possibility of interest on rental security deposits, on repeal of fair trade laws, and on bans against use of such terms as mill outlet.

North Carolina is one of 14 states which still sets "fair prices," and Mrs. Woo estimates that this can add as much as 19 to 27 per cent to the price of items affected.

Nixon's Rating Declines Again

By GEORGE GALLUP
(Copyright 1974, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Republication in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.)

PRINCETON, N.J.—President Nixon's job rating has slipped back to its low point of 27 per cent approval after a brief 4-point gain during "Operation Candor."

Nixon's job rating declined from 32 per cent in late September to 27 per cent in late October, largely as a result of the firing of special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox. "Operation Candor," launched in November, succeeded in halting the trend, but subsequent surveys show that the effects of Nixon's "going public" have been short-lived.

Following is the question asked about each incumbent President since FDR's administration:
"Do you approve or disapprove of the way Nixon is handling his job as President?"

Here are the national findings and trend since September:

Date	Trend in Nixon's Job Rating Since September
	Approve	Disapprove	No Opin.
Jan. 4-7	27%	63%	10%
Dec. 7-10	29	60	11
Nov. 30-Dec. 3	31	59	10
Start of Operation Candor
Nov. 2-5	27	63	10
Oct. 19-22	27	60	13
Oct. 6-8	30	57	13
Sept. 21-24	32	59	9

Analysis of the latest survey findings by population groups reveals that disapproval outweighs approval in every group except among Republicans. Among GOP voters, a slight majority, 53 per cent, approve while 35 per cent disapprove and 12 per cent have no opinion. In comparison, only 11 per cent of Democrats and 26 per cent of independents approve of the way Nixon is handling his job.

The South continues to be Nixon's strongest region, but by a decreasing margin. Among Southerners, 33 per cent express approval, compared to 41 per cent who did so in the first survey following the start of "Operation Candor." Nixon conducted a brief speaking tour in that region as part of "Operation Candor."

Nixon's Low Point Is 8 Points Lower Than LBJ'S
Nixon's current job rating—which equals his low point to date—is 8 points lower than President Lyndon Johnson's low point of 35 per cent approval, recorded during a period of growing pessimism over the Vietnam war. The table below shows the highs and lows in approval for Nixon and his predecessors:

President	Job Ratings For Last 5 Presidents (Per Cent Approving)
Nixon	68% 27%
Johnson	80 35
Kennedy	83 57
Eisenhower	79 49
Truman	87 23

The findings reported today are based on a national survey of 1,504 adults, 18 and older, interviewed in person in more than 300 scientifically selected localities during the period Jan. 4-7.

Strength For Today

FAITH IN PRAYER
A missionary recently returned from India tells a story about a congregation of farmers who had assembled to implore the Almighty for rain. The missionary himself was delayed in getting to the service and entered the church after the worshippers had assembled. To his amazement he found the vestibule filled with umbrellas. These devout people had come to pray for rain, and they were so confident their prayers would be answered that they had brought umbrellas to keep them dry on their way back home.

Some people pray as if they felt that the chances against them were about fifty to one. Others, who know the triumph of petition, pray with the faith that moves mountains. We can never, of course, be sure that God will give us the very specific thing we ask for. He may have other plans for us. And what we pray for may not come at the time we ask for it. But prayer made in faith will somehow, someday, be answered. Of this we can be sure.

A Duty To The Dead

By FRANK CREPEAU
Associated Press Writer
MOSCOW (AP) — Alexander Solzhenitsyn, denounced as a traitor by Soviet authorities for his book "Gulag Archipelago," said today the book has fulfilled his duty to the dead.

He said he and his family are "ready for anything."

In written answers to questions submitted to him by Western newsmen, the Nobel prize-winning author refused to speculate on what the Kremlin might do to him for smuggling his history of Soviet labor camps out of Russia for publication abroad.

"I am not going to make predictions," he said. "I and my family are ready for anything. I have fulfilled my duty to the dead. It gives me relief and tranquility."

"This truth was doomed to die. It was being downtrodden, was being drowned, burned, ground to ashes. But look, it has survived, it lives, it has been printed — and nobody ever will be able to wipe it out."

Solzhenitsyn disputed charges that the book has harmed détente between the Soviet Union and the West. It is "not he who tells about committed crimes who brings harm to peace and to good relations among people and peoples, but he who committed or is committing them," he said.

He also replied to historian Roy A. Medvedev, another member of the dissident movement, who wrote that reform could come only from inside the Soviet Union. He has criticized Solzhenitsyn and physicist Andrei Sakharov for their appeals to foreign opinion.

Solzhenitsyn agreed that those dissatisfied with aspects of Soviet life should not seek help from other governments. But "we addressed the world public and figures of culture," he said. "Their support is priceless, always effective, always helps. We both now are unharmed and alive only because of that."

He said the proposal of Roy Medvedev and his brother Zhores to seek help from Western Communist circles would not work.

The only direct way to change things, he said, is to "address our readers, our compatriots and especially our youth."

Asked how these could render support, he replied:

"Not by physical actions, only by rejection of lies, with personal nonparticipation in lies. Each person should decisively stop cooperating with lies everywhere he sees them himself."

Is There A Fuel Crisis?

By ART BUCHWALD
WASHINGTON — The country becomes more and more divided every day on whether there is an energy crisis or not. Those who can't get gas say there is one—but those who can get gas say there isn't. Whom are we to believe? The following questions and answers may shed some light on the problem.

Q—If there is an energy crisis, why can we still get gasoline?

ART BUCHWALD

A—Because people believe there is a crisis, which there is not, at the moment. If people didn't believe there was a crisis there would be one, because then they would avoid conserving fuel.

Q—You mean in order not to have an energy crisis you have to believe there is one?

A—Exactly. The people who are angry about the energy crisis are those who can get all the fuel they want. They believe if they can get oil that means the crisis is a fraud. It's hard to make a man feel humble when he has a full tank of gas.

Q—Why was William Simon picked as Energy Czar?

A—Because of his name. All of us played Simon Says as children, and the President felt Americans instinctively would obey Simon or be eliminated from the game. Mr. Nixon realized very early in the crisis that no one would obey an energy czar if his name were Love.

Q—Why are the oil companies the only ones who know how much fuel there is available in the country?

A—Because they are the only ones who have nothing to gain by an oil shortage. If you can't trust an oil company (Continued on page 5)

Other Editors Say The Public Trough

(The Cartaret News-Times)
It is easy to understand why those making Watergate investigations don't want to give them up, when you consider the amount of tax dollars going into them.

By October of last year, the investigation had already cost more than $1 million.

The Senate Watergate Committee, established by Senate resolution, will be in operation a year come February. Chief Counsel Samuel Dash, highest paid member of that committee, makes $35,904 a year. Mr. Dash recently sought 500 tapes and papers from the White House, which even his supporters agreed was somewhat monumental. But with that material, he could probably spin the investigation out for at least another three years. Salaries of 20 or more lawyers and investigators for the committee range from $11,000 to $34,000.

Those are just the "professional" people. The cost of staff workers, numbering about 90, had reached $383,000 by last fall. All that does not include the cost of the Watergate special prosecution group headed by Leon Jaworski, formerly headed by Archibald Cox. That office, when in operation only three months, had cost $138,000 for a staff which at that time was still expanding. Salaries of more than 30 lawyers on the staff range from $14,000 to the high of $38,000 paid the special prosecutor himself.

Even those figures do not include several prosecutors' offices and grand juries plus congressional committees that have sought publicity by going into aspects of the Watergate affair.

Only the most rabid Democrat or most naive citizen would believe, at this point, that the investigations are impartial, or are seeking only a way to finance future political campaigns so that candidates would not have to sublimate themselves to special interests.

The investigations are partisan, a windfall to all those against the present administration. They have found that they can finance with BOTH Republican and Democrat tax dollars a "political campaign" that they hope will assure them victory at the polls for a long time to come.

The taxpayer is already saddled with a sufficient amount to operate the federal court system. That's where the investigation should continue.

Demand Outstrips Production

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Underlying a good many of the business and economic news developments today, and bound also to influence the future of industrial society, are these factors:

—Shortages of commodities. The energy shortage is only the nucleus of the comet; it has a long, long tail. Rising demand throughout the world inevitably will place strains on the supplies of commodities.

—Accelerating living standards throughout the world, including the less developed nations, is steadily adding pressures on supply. So is population growth and mix.

—Communist nations of Europe and elsewhere are now emphasizing consumption, after years of building their productive capacity. China, the most populous nation of all, is about to add enormously to the strain on supplies.

—And throughout much of the world the population mix is, changing, with the biggest growth occurring in the 25-to-39 age group, which is where consumption is heaviest. In the United States that group grew by only 500,000 during the 1950s. In the 1970s it may grow by 15 million.

—The problem of raising productivity without making work meaningless. The way the world knows best to raise output per man-hour is to mechanize and mass produce. But in so doing it forces millions into dull, unrewarding jobs.

Consequences of this show up in complaints about quality, in absenteeism and in poor worker attitudes, all of which reduce productivity and eventually or immediately lower the competitiveness of products.

—With big government monitoring big business more closely than has been the tradition in the United States, who monitors big government?

A good example was provided recently by a U.S. Chamber of Commerce publication, "Washington Report." Last September it commented:

"With little fanfare, the federal government has completely ignored its own 5.5 per cent average wage increase guidelines while the rest of us have been forced to live under the rules imposed by the federal establishment."

"... last year average pay for all federal military and civilian employees increased by 12.8 per cent, which is more than twice the 5.5 per cent guidelines that the federal wage administrators have called for. Included in this is an average increase of 10.7 per cent for employees of government enterprises."

Morgan Sets $350,000 Senate Campaign Budget

By JOHN KILGO

RALEIGH—Robert Morgan, a 48-year-old Lillington attorney and the attorney general of North Carolina, made it official today by declaring his candidacy for the U. S. Senate subject to the Democratic primary.

After making the announcement in a Raleigh news conference, Morgan told this reporter in a private interview: "The legislative end of government is the part I love best. I realized I had to run this time or forget it. If you wait until people become disgruntled with you, it's too late. You either move up or move out in politics."

Morgan will remain as attorney general until after the Democratic primary. If he is nominated by his party, he'll resign his justice department post, which he has held since 1969.

Some politicians, former Lt. Gov. Pat Taylor being one, contend North Carolina shouldn't elect two U. S. Senators from the Eastern part of the state. Senator Jesse Helms comes from Raleigh. I asked Morgan about that criticism.

"I don't think it's at all valid in this era of mass communications and modern travel," Morgan said. "Today we're trying to get away from sectionalism. No Senator should even give a moment's thought to representing just one section of his state. And don't forget, we have no Democratic Senators from the East. None at all."

Morgan and his staff have drawn up a budget for the campaign. It totals in the neighborhood of $350,000—flexible enough to be scaled up or down, depending on campaign trends.

Morgan hopes to get 300 North Carolinians to go out and raise $1,000 for his campaign. He says receipts will be given recognizing every dime of money donated to his campaign efforts.

"We're going to be very business-like in raising the money," Morgan said. "We're determined to raise it from the rank-and-file. We're not seeking the giant donation that could influence some politicians. I'm confident we can raise the money by doing it the right way."

Morgan says some of the issues of the Senate campaign will be the following: Economy: "Unemployment is up, inflation is rampant, and people are rightly concerned. I think the economy is a number one issue," Morgan said.

Crime: "Everywhere you go you learn that crime is still a major issue. People feel the fight against crime to be of paramount importance. It will be a leading issue."

Integrity in government: "People are sick of politicians violating their trust. The voters, I think, will demand integrity on the part of all their elected officials." Morgan says Watergate will not be a major issue in a Senate campaign.

"A House committee should either impeach the President or get off his back," Morgan said. "If they do impeach him, I would as a Senator have to consider the evidence. I think it would be improper for Senatorial candidates to delve into the facts of Watergate when they might have to sit and judge the case at a later date."

Morgan says his campaign will be "as active as possible. I will visit many places and see as many people as I can. But I am still the attorney general of North Carolina, and I will make sure the duties of the office are carried out."

Most people felt Morgan would have run for the Senate this year, no matter what Sen. Sam Ervin decided to do. Morgan says he doesn't know what he would have done had Ervin sought re-election.

"I certainly didn't relish the thought of running against Sen. Ervin," Morgan said. "I'm glad he decided not to run. He's retiring at a time when he is prominently recognized by people all over the United States. He's definitely at the top of career, and I think every elected official likes to go out while on top."

Buchwald Col.

Q—You hear a lot of talk about leakage in the oil industry. What is it?

A—Every pump in an Arab country leaks a certain amount of oil. This oil is soaked up with a sponge, wrung out in buckets and sold to countries that the Arabs are mad at because of Israel.

Q—Then the Arab embargo on oil is not working?

A—You can't say that. If you did, the Arabs would have to make it work, and they are reluctant to do so. We know that they know that we know where the oil is coming from. But if we admit it, then they know that we know that they would have to do something about it. So everyone says the embargo is working to make certain that it doesn't work.

Q—What are the bright spots to come out of the energy crisis?

A—There are many more things than one can list. Airlines have been able to cut out unprofitable flights to towns they were supposed to service; companies can raise prices and put it all on the fuel shortage; landlords can cut heat and raise the rent, and all the polluters in the country can blame the energy crisis on the ecologists.

Q—Will there be gasoline rationing?

A—It depends on which night of the week you watch the news on television. On odd days government officials announce there will be no gas rationing. On even days they say there is a good chance there will be. Sundays they can go either way.

Q—How much fuel did Mr. Nixon save by flying United Airlines to California?

A—Almost enough to gas up a private Air Force plane to fly back to Washington.

Q—How much will the oil-producing countries charge for their oil if there is a Middle East settlement of the war?

A—Fourteen dollars a barrel.

Q—How much will they charge if there is no settlement?

A—Fourteen dollars a barrel.

Q—What can I, Mr. Average Citizen, do to avert a gas shortage this summer?

A—Take a sheik to lunch.

Six Die On N.C. Roads

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

At least six persons were killed in North Carolina traffic accidents over the weekend, including a 62-year-old woman who was struck and killed by her own car.

Officers said Fannie McLaurin Hughes of Fayetteville had stopped her car to check her mail box and the vehicle rolled back over her.

The six fatalities brought the 1974 toll to 70, compared with 87 during the corresponding period a year ago, the highway patrol said.

A 31-year-old Atlanta man died in a two-car wreck on U.S. 401 near Fayetteville. He was identified as Richard Morris Mallory.

Alfred Williams of Salemburg died when struck by a car while lying on a road near his hometown.

Michael Lee Crawford, 6, of Rutherfordton, died when a car struck his bike near his hometown.

Clyde Manuel Wilkins, 57, of Lenoir, was killed when his car ran off a road and struck a tree 14 miles east of Lenoir.

Peggy Wheeler Porterfield, 24, of Burlington, was killed when the car in which she was riding struck a bridge abutment near Burlington.

Defends Board ECU Position

RALEIGH (AP)—The University of North Carolina Board of Governors has handled the state's medical education controversy in a "balanced and objective" fashion, its chairman says.

Board chairman William A. Dees Jr. of Goldsboro also contends those who would expand the East Carolina University medical school are guilty of "partisan institutional bias."

Dees made the contentions in a letter written to members of the North Carolina legislature.

He released a copy of the letter to the news media during the weekend.

He noted that whenever the question was studied, the committees and panels were appointed with the advice and consent of ECU representatives.

"Not until the panel had reported was any question raised as to its competence," he said.

An ECU supporter, Sen. Thomas Strickland, D-Wayne, took umbrage at Dees' remarks when asked for comment.

"I think it was a mistake for Mr. Dees to write that letter. I don't know how ECU could be more guilty of partisanship than any other school," Strickland said.

"I can't see why the Board of Governors is so concerned. We (ECU supporters) are offering them everything they asked for. We just want to give them more."

"They say we can't do anything other than exactly what they suggest. I don't think they're any more off-limits to the legislature than any other state agency."

Answer Alarm But No Fire

Greenville firemen, called to the social science building just off Tenth Street on the East Carolina University campus about 10:15 p.m. Saturday, reported no fire.

Officers said a steam pressure-release valve had opened, causing steam to escape, sending clouds of vapor—resembling smoke—into the air.

"If you drove at 55 mph, and..."

Remember when that was the beginning of a classic math exercise? Today, in order to combat the energy crisis, 55 mph is a reality on most of our highways. Traveling at that speed, a trip of 200 miles would take about four hours. Piedmont flights can cover the same distance in 60 minutes or less, even though we've reduced our speed, too.

Piedmont is geared for short distance travel and now, more than ever before, Piedmont's schedules can fit your business or vacation travel plans.

Since last July when Piedmont was among the first airlines to reduce speeds, we've saved over one million gallons of fuel.

To save even more, we've rescheduled some flights but we're still serving every city along our system.

And because we can comfortably carry many people at the same time, you might think of us as mass transit between cities. Or a great car pool in the sky.

We've got a place for you, with seats available on most flights. See your travel agent or call us any time of day or night, any day of the year.

Take us up.

A Study Of Men And Prison Life

By JAY SHARBUTT

AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Wonder of wonders, someone's finally come up with an intelligent, non-sensational TV study of men behind bars. It's called "Parole," is on public TV tonight and you ought to see it.

Granted, these things usually are a drag. They either treat the inmate as some sort of weird bug, or blabber endlessly to the effect that most cons are the victims of society.

"Aint so with "Parole," produced by the National Public Affairs Center for Television and filmed at the Washington State Penitentiary near Walla Walla. Its approach is far more precise and revealing.

It zeroes in on parole board hearings for two convicts, one a 24-year-old logger in for burglary and two parole violations, the other a 42-year-old carpenter doing life for helping kidnap the young son of a wealthy businessman and asking $45,000 ransom.

The show poses three basic questions: When is a convict ready for parole? What happens to him if it's denied and he stays in prison? What factors weigh in the calculated gamble of parole?

The makers of "Parole" draw no conclusions. We let viewers make up their own minds. Necessary background is included in a minimum of narration by E.G. Marshall.

But reporter-producer William H. Willson has the wisdom to let his subjects speak for themselves—the convicts, those in the parole process, a guard or two, a sheriff and, very importantly, the father of the youth who was kidnaped and released unharmed.

Neither prisoner in "Parole" is what I'd call a hard-core criminal, herewith defined as a guy who for various reasons tries to make a living at crime between stays in the slammer.

But would the prisoners on this show commit another crime if set free? Would you parole either man after hearing him out, reviewing his case and weighing the effects of more jail time?

Watch the program. You'll be glad you don't have to decide.

LAST ATTRACTION

TORONTO (AP)—While the Yonge Street Mall has been dismantled after the summer, one attraction remains. On one corner sits Joe Smolij, a speed chess expert. He'll play anyone in two, three or four minutes and probably win. During the games he recites tales of his wide travels throughout the world.

Girl Injured In Riding Mishap Allegedly Fired Into A Dwelling

GRIMESLAND—Michelle Gentile, 14, was reported injured yesterday when the horse she was riding fell on her near the intersection of Chicod Street and U.S. 264 here.

The girl was taken to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment by the Greenville Rescue Squad following the 11:15 a.m. mishap.

Charles Dunn To Speak At Church

Charles Dunn, director of the State Bureau of Investigation, will be the guest speaker for the January 31 meeting of the First Presbyterian Church's Men of the Church meeting.

Reservations for the $1.75 per plate dinner meeting may be made by calling the church office by January 25.

The SBI director will speak on "Principal Problems in Law Enforcement in North Carolina."

The meeting in the fellowship hall of the church will be limited to 75 to 80 persons.

Kelly Barnhill, 61, of 1216 Battle St. was charged by Greenville police early this morning with discharging firearms into an occupied dwelling.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Barnhill allegedly fired shots through the front door of 300A East Dudley St. about 12:03 a.m. following an argument with a resident of the house. No one was injured.

Bond for Barnhill's appearance in District Court on the charge was set at $1,000 Cannon said.

Yepremian's Foot Did It Again Sunday

By ROBERT MOORE
AP Sports Writer
KANSAS CITY (AP) — Garo Yepremian ... the little guy goes on and on.

Garo, a native of Cyprus who didn't go to college, may have the most educated foot in the National Football League. For four years now, Yepremian has helped the world champion Miami Dolphins to victory after victory. Yepremian's foot did it again Sunday except this time it was for the American Conference. Yepremian's five field goals, the winning one a 42-yarder with 21 seconds remaining, set a Pro Bowl record and gave the AFC a 15-13 triumph over the National Conference in a game that started with 14 first-half turnovers and ended as a cliffhanger.

Prior to his game-decider, Yepremian booted field goals of 16, 37, 27 and 41 yards. He broke the record of four kicked in 1972 by Kansas City's Jan Stenerud.

With his left foot plunged into ice, the bald Yepremian said afterward, "I had to come through for the rest of the guys. The money did not mean anything. Most of the extra $500 the winners get goes for taxes anyway."

"When I went out for that last one, I said a little prayer and asked God to help me once more. He kept me in there again."

Yepremian, helped from the field after a nullified 22-yard field goal in the third quarter when he was hit by Mel Renfro of Dallas, was voted the game's most valuable player. After an offside penalty erased that kick, Yepremian returned and made good on the 27-yarder.

"There was pain after each of the kicks after I got hurt," said Yepremian, "but I'm an athlete, and I can stand pain as much as any athlete."

Nick Mike-Mayer, the Atlanta placekicker, had given the NFC, loser of three consecutive Pro Bowl games, a 13-12 advantage with 1:41 to go with a 21-yard field goal, set up by a recovery of O. J. Simpson's fumble by Jack Youngblood of Los Angeles at the AFC 37.

Mike-Mayer, after Yepremian staked the AFC to a 3-0 first quarter lead, deadlocked the game in the second period with a 27-yarder.

The NFC added the contest's lone touchdown before the half ended, Roman Gabriel of Philadelphia throwing a 14-yard strike to Larry McCutcheon of Los Angeles. The NFC led at the half 10-6.

Oakland's Ken Stabler, who quarterbacked the AFC the entire first half, had a miserable afternoon. He threw four interceptions, completed only two of 15 passes for 19 yards. The NFC's four thefts broke the old mark of three set by the AFC in 1972.

Bob Griese, the Miami quarterback who guided the Dolphins to their smashing 24-7 Super Bowl victory over Minnesota a week earlier, received a wild ovation from the crowd of 51,484 when he took over at the start of the second half.

Griese's passes, two for 17 yards each to Haven Moses of Denver, put the AFC in position for Yepremian's 41-yarder that gave the AFC a 12-10 lead.

Southern Conf. Teams Moving Into New Jam-Up On Standings

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The jockeying for position behind Furman's defending champion Paladins resumes tonight in the Southern Conference basketball race with a pair of games that will jam up the middle of the standings.

The Citadel's Bulldogs, 2-3 in league play and 7-5 over-all, will try to snap a four-game losing streak at home against Appalachian State's last-place Mountaineers, 1-5 and 2-9.

Davidson's Wildcats, 2-3 and 9-5, will entertain William and Mary's Indians, 2-2 and 3-7, in the other encounter. The Wildcats, who just about ruined their chances of finishing No. 1 by losing their first three league games, have won their last two conference starts.

A pair of league scraps Saturday night saw Furman up its league record to 4-1 and its over-all mark to 10-4 with a 50-42 triumph at The Citadel. East Carolina's Pirates took over second at 4-2 with a 70-67 victory at William and Mary. The Pirates are 7-6 over-all.

Only Davidson came out a winner in four games against outside opposition, the Wildcats edging West Virginia 77-74.

Richmond's Spiders, 5-7 over-all, were beaten 84-74 by Jacksonville; Virginia Military's Keydets, 5-8, were nipped by Baltimore Loyola 71-69; and Appalachian lost to Georgia Southern 83-71.

Craig Lynch's jumper in the second minute of the second half put Furman ahead of The Citadel to stay after the Bulldogs had stalled the Paladins to a 16-16 tie at intermission with a spread offense. Two more Lynch baskets gave Furman a 40-31 lead after 13 minutes.

The Paladins finished with 61 per cent shooting accuracy as Fessor Leonard scored 16 points and Lynch 14. The Citadel shot only 34 per cent, Richard Johnson leading the Bulldogs with 12 points, and was beaten 31-19 off the boards.

East Carolina rallied from a 57-56 deficit with five minutes left on five straight points, four by Nicky White, and had only one more scare—when the Indians ran off six points in 22 seconds after the Pirates had built a 66-59 lead with 46 seconds remaining.

"We just didn't put the ball in the basket," lamented William and Mary Coach Ed Ashnault, whose team shot only 32.5 per cent. "We didn't take bad shots, I thought. We took mostly good ones. They just didn't fall."

White finished with 16 points, Roger Atkinson with 14 and Robert Geter with 12 for the Pirates, who shot 45.9 per cent. Rod Musselman had 16 points and Mike Arizin 15 for the Indians.

Greg Dunn scored 17 of his game-high 25 points in the second half as Davidson overcame a 41-38 intermission lead by West Virginia. The Wildcats went ahead for good with 11:14 left on Sheldon Parker's 15-foot basket.

After West Virginia closed to within a point with 10 seconds left, Mike Sorrentino iced it for Davidson with a basket. Sorrentino had 13 points for the Wildcats, who shot 52.5 per cent. Dunn hit 10 of 20 from the floor and had eight rebounds and six assists.

Coach Bill Blair probably is wondering if VMI can get any more bad breaks after the Keydets were beaten on a 27-foot jumper by Loyola's Gene Gwiazdowski with four seconds left. Gwiazdowski, who had 18 points, got his chance after VMI missed two shots with a 69-68 lead.

Rain Stops 500-Miler

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP) — Foul weather that had gripped Southern California for a week finally caught up with the Winston Western 500 mile stock car race Sunday.

Rain began falling a third of the way into the $106,000 event at Riverside International Raceway and brought the season's first major outing to a halt after 156 miles.

The race, first of 29 grand nationals scheduled this year by the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing, will be restarted at noon next Saturday.

The 29 drivers who were still in action at the shutdown will get going from their same positions with the restart. Only minor mechanical work will be allowed on the cars in the interim.

A brief practice session for the drivers will be allowed Friday.

Bobby Allison, a $300,000 winner in 1972 when he was the national driver of the year, was leading second placer Richard Petty by about 5.5 seconds when the race was red-flagged because of the rain. Allison drives a Chevrolet; Petty a Dodge.

David Pearson, making the final start in a 1972 Mercury that will be retired to a museum after this race, was in third position. Herschel McGriff, a 46-year-old campaigner for Bridal Veil, Ore., was running fourth in a Dodge, followed by another West Coaster, Jim Insolo of Missions Hills, Calif., in a Chevrolet.

Billie Jean Hoping For 'Best' Year

MISSION VIEJO, Calif. (AP) — Billie Jean King returned today to her home territory, Southern California, with a $11,600 start toward what she feels could be her greatest year in tennis.

She won the singles championship in the 1974 pro tennis circuit opener by beating 19-year-old Chris Evert of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 7-6, 6-2 Saturday night in San Francisco. Then she teamed with Miss Evert for a victory over Betty Stove and Francoise Durr in the doubles title match.

"We're staying together," Ms. King said about herself and Miss Evert before the women tennis stars opened the second stop of the tour here with first round matches today.

Ms. King, who grew up in nearby Long Beach, earned $10,000 for the San Francisco singles title and added $1,600 as her share of the doubles money.

Her strong serve, well-aimed baseline shots and scrambling save shots were impressive in the singles match, but she said later, "I was lucky in that first set."

However, Miss Evert said, "I don't think it was as close as the score made it look."

Ms. King, who was behind 0-2 in points in the tie-breaker 13th game, gasped at that statement from her opponent.

"Thank God that God gave me a good pair of wheels," she said, referring to the dash she made to return an Evert lob, helping her win the third point in the crucial game and go on to take five straight points.

The final two nights of the event produced sellout crowds of 6,500 at the San Francisco Civic Auditorium. Several thousand people were turned away Saturday night after the tickets were gone.

"Thank God that God gave me a good pair of wheels," she said, referring to the dash she made to return an Evert lob, helping her win the third point in the crucial game and go on to take five straight points.

Manhattan Set Relay Mark

HANOVER, N.H. (AP) — Manhattan College still owns the mile relay record for the Dartmouth Fieldhouse, but a new mark is going into the record book.

Manhattan's Errol Thurton, Bobby Jones, Jimmy Carter and Jim Nathaniel posted a time of 3:13.8 in the Dartmouth Relays Saturday night. That broke the old fieldhouse record of 3:18.2 set by Manhattan in 1964.

Shared Top Honors In Bowling Tourney

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—Dan Lucci of New Bern, and Cindy Collins of Fayetteville have won the 1974 North Carolina Bowling Proprietors Association U.S. Open tournament, which ended here Sunday.

Lucci scored 3,176 points to capture the men's division ahead of two-time winner Larry Everhart of Lexington, who led going into the final round.

Mrs. Collins won the women's title with a score of 2,303 points for 10 games. Her 195-point average set a new women's record for the tournament.

Lucci and Everhart advance to the National U.S. Open Feb. 10 in New York City.

Everhart finished with a 2,796 point total.

Mrs. Collins advances to the National Open for Women scheduled for next month in Texas.

Fran Williams of Jacksonville, who rolled up a total of 2,163 points, finished second among the women.

In the men's competition, Joe Mills of Jacksonville was third with 2,761; defending champion Jim Pennington of Albemarle was fourth with 2,704; and Bill Reynolds of Jacksonville was fifth with 2,702.

Chris Phillips of Fayetteville was third with 2,082 points; Sharon Ellis of Fayetteville was fourth with 2,061; and Varnell McMahon was fifth at 2,058.

Lucci won $450 in prize money and Mrs. Collins $225.

Banquet Honors Driving Champ

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Roger McCluskey of Tucson, Ariz., U.S. Auto Club national champion driver for 1973, was honored at the annual USAC awards banquet Saturday night.

McCluskey, winning his first Indianapolis-type driving championship, also has won the USAC stock car and sprint car championships in the past.

USAC directors also announced that rear-engine cars will be barred in sprint races. They also voted to require all drivers to carry information on their blood types and allergies.

"We did everything we possibly could to get back within five," said Richmond Coach Lewis Mills. "It was just an extremely good effort that enabled our boys to come back so well."

The Worry Clinic Close 'A Sale' In 50 Words

Rev. John can deliver a stimulating sermon but he is guilty of a common fault of clergymen. He doesn't know the precise 50-word method to "close the sale." For he drags out his "altar call" and repeats himself several times till his peroration is dissipated fruitlessly!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
CASE Z-530: Rev. John, aged about 35, is a Baptist clergyman. "Dr. Crane," he began, "I understand that you will fill the pulpit for any clergyman within a 2-hour drive of your summer home. "Well, I qualify, for my church isn't 60 miles away. "So could you deliver your address on 'Jesus—the World's Greatest Psychologist' in our pulpit any time next month that suits your schedule?"

1,000 Pulpits
Over the years I have delivered over 1,000 addresses for most of the denominations, including Jewish, Catholic and Protestant.

And for 35 years I taught the famous Dixon Adult Bible Class in the world's tallest church, the Chicago Temple.

But my Bible Class consisted of about 150 oldsters, so Mrs. Crane suggested I start accepting pulpit invitations within a 2-hour drive of our summer farm home.

"For I'll be glad to drive you," she volunteered, "and then you will be able to influence teenagers and college youth, as well as younger married couples.

"Besides, you will thus get home by the middle of the afternoon, instead of 9 p.m., as was true when you'd take the bus or train to Chicago on Sunday and then wait till almost 7 p.m. to make the return trip."

Mrs. Crane's plan has proved very enjoyable and apparently quite inspirational to younger congregations.

But when I concluded my 35-minute address for Rev. John, he made an altar call, urging people to join his church.

That was in order and quite proper, but he made a serious mistake that is typical of many clergymen, as well as novice salesmen.

He muffed what we call the "dotted line stage." How?

By talking too long and passing the most auspicious "psychological moment."

Inexperienced salesmen often do the same thing. For they will make a very effective sales presentation.

But they haven't memorized a neat, brief and persuasive "closing" for the sale.

So they wander around, obviously "fishing" for a tactful way to ask the prospect to sign their order blank.

Many times they may squander an extra 10 minutes, vainly repeating part of their previous sound sales talk, as they stall around, uncertain of how to enter that "dotted line" stage.

Rev. John did this very same thing. He improvised for at least 15 minutes, till the congregation was mildly embarrassed by his failure to reach a propitious stopping point.

It would thus be wise if all clergymen were to attend a local Monday morning life insurance salesmen's conference.

Therein they'd learn the specific technique for closing the sale.

And making an "altar call" is precisely the same type of thing as the insurance salesman's attempt to get the prospect's signature on the dotted line.

Indeed, tyro salesmen often get a prospect already to sign but the salesman keeps on talking until he actually talks himself out of the sale.

Same is true of stellar clergymen and even TV evangelists, who likewise muffed that golden moment when their listeners are ready to make a commitment.

Holshouser Will Crown ECU White Ball Queen

Gov. Jim Holshouser will help East Carolina University honor its 1974 White Ball Queen in a ceremony Saturday night at Minges Coliseum.

The Governor will crown the new queen during halftime of the ECU-Virginia Military Institute basketball game, climaxing a week of voting by ECU students.

The White Ball Queen competition is an annual event at ECU sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, National Service Fraternity, to raise funds for the Pitt County Crippled Children's Association.

All campus organizations are invited to submit candidates for White Ball Queen. Tomorrow the names of all nominees go up on a board at the ECU Student Union.

From 9 a.m. until 5 p.m. through Thursday, students will vote for their favorite candidate by dropping pennies in containers, one penny equaling one vote. At the end of Thursday, the top five penny-getters will be announced as the White Ball Court, and voting will continue Friday to determine the White Ball Queen from the Court.

Saturday night, the announcement will be made as to which of the five receive the most "votes" and will be crowned White Ball Queen of 1974.

That lucky girl will be on the Governor's arm Saturday night, Alpha Phi Omega president, Jim Godfrey said.

Heavy Losses To Gypsy Moth

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Gypsy moth caterpillars strip about 400,000 acres of eastern state hardwood forests yearly, according to the Missouri Conservation Commission. "So far, the central United States has been spared the ravages of the insect which was introduced accidentally to the wilds in 1869 in Massachusetts.

FORECAST FOR TUESDAY, JANUARY 22, 1974

CARROLL RICHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Richter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A day when some associates are in an argumentative frame of mind and difficult conditions could occur. Make a point to keep cool, calm and collected. Don't lose your temper or make unpleasant remarks. Keep smiling.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Safeguard your reputation or you lose out where it counts the most. Engage in fundamental activities that bring you security.

TAURUS (Apr. to May 20) You want to start a new plan immediately, but it requires further study for best results. Make sure you operate on a safe foundation.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Neglecting your responsibilities could lead to arguments that are best avoided at this time. Keep it cool and all is fine.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't think that your associates are working against you. Show that your word is your bond and all works out fine.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You have many duties to handle now so don't be tempted to go off on a tangent. Find a new gimmick that improves your personality.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you show more appreciation for others, you find you can make much headway with them. Express those creative ideas you have.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Try to please kin today instead of criticizing them. Strive for more harmony. Run your business affairs more intelligently.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Much care is necessary to avoid possible mishap today and tonight. Show more willingness to cooperate with associates. Be wise.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Monetary situation could have you stumped today if you don't study it objectively. Forget notion to be extravagant.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Don't start any arguments with others now and you find life gets better. Become more efficient in your work and get ahead.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You have worries which others have made for you. But now is the time to show true Aquarian intellect and overcome handicaps.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Forget attending the social that has been a detriment to you in the past. Clear the cobwebs out of your head. Be loyal to kin.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will need to be taught early in life to think first before acting for there is the tendency to do just the opposite here. The diet must be right, and much rest is necessary during childhood so that this delicate person can blossom into sturdy adulthood. Don't neglect ethical training.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

GOREN ON BRIDGE

BY CHARLES H. GOREN
© 1974, The Chicago Tribune
BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1 — East-West vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AJ4 ♥75 ♠KQ982

The bidding has proceeded:
East South West North
1 ♠ 2 ♣ Pass 3 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Three spades. The temptation is great to bid three no trump, but you should resist it since you are wide open in both red suits. By showing your spade control, you might put partner in position to bid the no trump game if he has red suit stoppers.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K6 ♥AJ73 ♦KQ65 ♠AJ8

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 NT Pass 2 NT 3 ♣ ?

What do you bid now?
A.—While you can probably make three no trump, there is some chance that you can be defeated. However, a double of three spades should net you at least 200 points, and perhaps more if East has been at all indiscreet.

Q. 3—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠AQ76 ♥AKQ3 ♦85 ♠763

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass 2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Even though partner has given a mere preference, and probably has only three-card support, you should bid again. Partner has shown a better than average hand and yours is worth 16 points. The only sensible action is to bid three spades.

Q. 4—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠84 ♥AQJ76 ♦K82 ♠K65

The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♥ Pass 1 ♠ Pass ?

What is your rebid?
A.—One no trump. This is preferable to a rebid of two hearts, for it gives a more accurate picture of your hand (a balanced hand of minimum high-card strength).

Q. 5—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KQ10972 ♥7 ♦K65 ♠J107

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West

Q. 6 — Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠AQ9 ♥A9865 ♦Q7 ♠A72

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass 2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Five spades. Everything seems under control, but you should allow for the remote possibility that you have two quick diamond losers. Four no trump should not be bid with a weak doubler, for you might be able to make slam even if partner is aceless but has second-round diamond control, and that information cannot be derived via Blackwood.

Q. 7—Both vulnerable, as South, with 60 on score, you hold:
♠QJ954 ♥87 ♦A83 ♠762

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ 2 ♣ Dble. Pass 2 ♠ Pass ?

What action do you take?
A.—Three spades. The partner has announced that his hand is not suited for defense against clubs, he may have excellent offensive potential. Announcement of your spade fit may be all he needs to go on to game.

Q. 8—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:
♠K109 ♥83 ♦A982 ♠Q1073

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ 2 ♣ Dble. Pass 2 ♠ Pass ?

Q. 9—As South, vulnerable, you hold:
♠KQ10972 ♥7 ♦K65 ♠J107

The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West

Farmers Wonder If Supplies Of Fertilizer Are Sufficient

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Farmers throughout the Southeast are wondering if they'll have enough fertilizer for the spring planting. They're also wondering how a nation that has a fertilizer shortage now could have been selling it overseas a few months ago.

Like most shortages that have affected the nation in the past few months, the fertilizer shortage is a result of the energy crisis.

In some cases, companies that make fertilizer couldn't get raw materials because the shippers couldn't get fuel for their trucks.

In the case of nitrogen fertilizers, natural gas is one of the raw materials used to make them, and there is a shortage of natural gas.

Many farmers say the worst part of the problem is the uncertainty about what next spring will bring. They needn't feel alone, because officials at the U.S. Department of Agriculture in Washington say they're just as mystified.

Robert Lee Scarborough, who runs a large farm in Richland County, S.C., says he has been warned to expect a fertilizer shortage, "but I haven't faced it yet. I do have a large order in for fertilizer, and it hasn't got here yet."

"You never know what the situation might be by spring planting. I hope it doesn't get worse. Fertilizer already is costing about 50 per cent more than it did a short while ago and this will increase the cost of growing, and I figure the cost of food at the grocery store's," Scarborough said.

His last statement helps explain why agriculture got top priority on the federal government's new fuel allocation list and why agriculture officials are scrambling to reduce fertilizer shortages.

A reduced supply of food means increased costs at the supermarket — increases glaringly evident to shoppers who can compare the price of a cartful of groceries this week with the week before.

Tom Warren, assistant to the president of the South Carolina Farm Bureau, says, "The farmers of our state are expecting a fertilizer shortage, and already we have had reports that nitrogen fertilizer isn't available. We are concerned and we are worried about our spring planting."

Alabama's commissioner of agriculture and industries, M.D. "Pete" Gilmer, said recently that "if present reports are to be accepted, shortages of fuel and fertilizer seem inevitable in Alabama. If our farmers receive less fertilizer in 1974, production of food and fibers seem certain to be curtailed. Prices will then almost automatically go up."

This week's fuel allocation announcement should take care of part of the problem, but Gilmer's warning about fertilizers still holds true, USDA officials say.

Glen Landreanu, commodity director for the Louisiana Farm Bureau, says fertilizer supplies increased after the price freeze ended.

While the freeze was on, a lot of American fertilizer was sold in foreign markets for higher prices. Landreanu says fertilizer supplies now seem to be climbing, but so are prices.

"For example, and these prices are as of Jan. 1, ammonium nitrate is up 29 per cent, anhydrous ammonia is up 40 per cent, urea is up 32 per cent and nitrogen solution is up 34 per cent," he says.

A USDA spokesman in Washington said present estimates show that the demand for fertilizer will exceed supply by at least 10 per cent.

He admitted that one reason is "a lot was sold overseas during the price freeze. It is similar to the wheat deal — there was no government control over individuals selling to foreign markets."

Nixon administration officials said last week they might reimpose controls on the fertilizer industry if prices continued to climb.

USDA officials add that while consumers may complain about rising food prices, reducing exports is a ticklish situation.

"Agricultural exports are our largest earner in foreign trade," says the USDA spokesman. "This country produces about 25 per cent more food than it can use. In theory, I guess, we can reduce our food exports to insure a plentiful domestic supply. But what will that do to our balance-of-trade payments? And how about nations that have come to depend on us for certain food products?"

One Florida legislator says he's more interested in the morality of a system that allows shortages and foreign sales to boost fertilizer prices by as much as 100 per cent — an ironic situation for a state that mines most of the phosphate used to produce fertilizers.

Rep. Eugene Tubbs, a Republican, asked state agriculture officials to investigate the fertilizer price increases. "If these price increases are justified," he said, "then I would like your thoughts on what steps we can take to protect the farm and cattle industry from economic extinction."

D.H. Conley HIGHLIGHTS

By DONNA SAYCE

D. H. Conley seems to be striking a lead not only in basketball, but in wrestling as well. The wrestling team, under Coach Steve Morgan, is still undefeated and is in first place in the conference. This week we will be wrestling Plymouth at home and on Wednesday the team goes to Southern Wayne. The Viking basketball team is also in first place in the conference. The team coach is Shelly Marsh and the captain of the team is Milton Tucker.

Track practice will be starting this week. Jerome Patterson will be the track coach.

The annual staff is working hard trying to get the book finished and sent in. Co-editors are Beth Hunsucker and Milton Tucker. Business manager is Donna Sayce.

The gym floor was refinished over the holidays. The basketball team put in many hard hours making D. H. Conley's gym the nicest in the conference.

The most improved student this week in Ron Braxton's IPS class is Wayne Worthington. The Student of the Week is Robin Little. The IPS class is raising money so that they can make a trip to the NASA Space Center in Hampton, Va. The Science Club is sponsoring a Science fair which is to be held in mid-February.

The SAT will also be given in February for those seniors who still feel a need to take it. Seniors are also making plans to attend college. Many have already been accepted at ECU and other various colleges across the state.

Capture Suspect In Charlotte Shootout

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—The FBI captured a Tennessee man here Sunday following a gun battle in which the suspect was wounded. Tennessee authorities said he is wanted in a triple slaying.

An FBI spokesman said Alvin Seagraves, 27, of Chattanooga was apprehended in a Charlotte neighborhood about an hour after the shooting. Residents had reported seeing a man bleeding in the street.

According to the FBI, Seagraves drove into a truck stop on Interstate 85 about 10:45 a.m. accompanied by a Tennessee woman and her two-year-old son. Two carloads of agents followed him, officers said, and one of them approached the car.

Seagraves pulled a pistol, officers said, and shots were exchanged.

"The first few shots shook the building," said witness Ron Fadel of Charlotte. "I thought at first somebody was shooting at the building."

Fadel said about 10 persons were eating breakfast in the truck stop restaurant when the shooting began. He said the agents started shooting first with shotguns and pistols and that Seagraves returned fire.

Despite a shotgun wound in the arm, Seagraves sped away from the truck stop, officers said, brushing past an agent, who was not injured.

The woman, Mrs. Connie Meeks Nunnally, 35, and her son were not injured, officers said. Her hometown was not released.

Seagraves was arrested several miles away. He was taken to Charlotte Memorial Hospital where his condition was listed as satisfactory late Sunday.

An FBI agent said he would be charged with assaulting a federal officer today.

Tennessee authorities said Seagraves is wanted in the slaying of his ex-wife's husband, sister and brother-in-law Aug. 4 in a Tracy City, Tenn., parking lot. The shootings took place four days after Seagraves' release on parole from the Tennessee State Prison, where he was serving a term for receiving and concealing a stolen car, they said.

His former wife was wounded in the incident, authorities said.

Stock And Market Reports

Hogs
RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hog prices were irregular today. Tops of 42.00-43.00 at Kinston, Benson and Lumberton; 41.00-41.50 Rocky Mount; 39.50-41.50 Wilson and High Falls; 39.00-39.50 Tarboro and Bethel; 42.75 Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Elizabethton, Pink Hill, Pine Level, Chadbourn, Adyen and Laurinburg; 40.00 Salisbury.

Poultry
RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina f.o.b. dock broilers: Market steady with supplies barely adequate and demand good. Weights heavy. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers 1,173,000.
 North Carolina hens: Market steady supplies of heavy types fully adequate and demand fair to good. Heavies, at farm, 13 cents.

NEW YORK (AP)—Heavy selling among oil stocks helped push the stock market sharply lower today.
 Gold stocks, however, were up as the price of gold climbed in foreign dealings today after France's decision to float the French franc.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11:30 a.m. was down 13.91 at 841.56, while declines led advances on the New York Stock Exchange by about 4 to 1.

On the NYSE, losers among the oils included Phillips Petroleum, down 2 1/2 to 52 1/2; Mesa Petroleum, off 2 to 31 1/4; Gulf, off 1/2 to 22 1/2; Exxon, off 2 1/2 to 84 1/2; and Tesoro Petroleum, off 4 to 40.

On the American Stock Exchange, Wright-Hargreaves rose 7-16 to 3 1/4; Day Mines, rose 1 1/2 to 15 1/4; Giant Yellowknife, rose 1 1/2 to 21 1/2; and Patco Gold rose 1 1/2 to 15 1/4. All these issues are involved in gold.

New Charges Against Two

Greenville Police Friday lodged additional charges of breaking, entering and larceny against two persons already facing similar charges for a series of other alleged offenses.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Warren Spell, 19 of 600 Clark St.—already charged in connection with a series of four other cases—was charged Friday with breaking, entering and larceny in connection with a September 26, 1973 break-in at E. F. Craven Co. and an October 21, 1973 incident at S and M Equipment Co.

Eddie Dean Stancil, 17 of 507 McKinley Ave., according to the police official, was charged in connection with three additional cases, including break-ins at the S and M Equipment Co. on October 21, the Coca Cola Bottling Co. on November 6, 1973, and North Carolina Equipment Co. on December 25, 1973.

Chosen For Math Club

Ten Rose High School students have been selected for membership to Mu Alpha Theta, an international high school and junior college mathematics club.

The honorary mathematics club was founded in 1957 at the University of Oklahoma and includes more than 1,000 clubs in and outside of the United States.

Rose High students selected for membership were Gail Shaw, Laura Clark, Joey Howell, Myrla Cox, Wayne Smith, Lynn Gantt, David Pendered, Jenny Dempsey, and Sturgis Payne.

To be eligible for membership in the club a student must have completed with distinction at least four semesters of college preparatory mathematics and be enrolled in the fifth semester. He also must have an overall grade average of at least a "B" in all his high school work.

Second Person Arrested Here In Fla. Slaying

The Pitt County Sheriff's Department and law enforcement officers from Marion County, Fla., have arrested a second person in connection with a Jan. 2 shooting in Ocala, Fla.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that James Edward McKeel, 23, of 404 Aztec Lane, Greenville, was arrested here and charged with the murder of Edward Randolph Cannon, 60, of Rt. 11, Ocala. McKeel was also charged on a fugitive from justice warrant from the State of Florida.

Sheriff Tyson said that McKeel was jailed without privilege of bond and is awaiting the outcome of an extradition hearing.

McKeel was arrested by the sheriff, Deputy Ivan Harris, and deputies from Marion County. Officers recently arrested Evans Curtis Martin, 24, of Winterville and charged him with murder in the Cannon shooting.
