NEWS IN BRIEF

Army Contracts Voided For 60

FT. CARSON, Colo. (AP) — Sixty members of the American Infantry Platoon have been honorably discharged after several soldiers complained they had been enlisted under false pretenses, Army officials say. The platoon's members were recruited from nearly every state, Puerto Rico and Guam. The enlistees were told at the time they would be an elite group traveling throughout the country as good-will ambassadors for the Army. But that was not the case, the soldiers said in a statement.

Journalists Believed Captives

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Committee to Free Journalists Held in Southeast Asia says it has new evidence that as many as 10 of the missing newsmen are being held in eastern Cambodia. CBS anchorman Walter Cronkite said the report of the captive journalists, some of them Americans, came from "highly reliable sources." Cronkite declined to elaborate, saying to do so might endanger these sources "and our use of them to obtain the release of the men would be considerably jeopardized."

Files $44 Million Libel Suit

NEW YORK (AP) — Lt. Col. Anthony Herbert has filed a $44 million libel suit charging that the Columbia Broadcasting System, two CBS employees and the Atlantic Monthly portrayed him as a liar. The libel suit stemmed from a Feb. 4, 1973, telecast, "The Selling of Anthony Herbert." It was narrated by CBS Correspondent Mike Wallace and produced by Barry Lando, both defendants. Lando also wrote an article, "The Herbert Affair," in the May 1973 issue of the Atlantic Monthly magazine. A CBS spokesman said the network would not immediately comment on the case.

Bank Robbery Hostage Slain

JACKSONVILLE, N.C. (AP) — A young woman hostage who was held at gunpoint during a bank robbery Friday was found dead Saturday afternoon less than a mile from the bank. Police said Virginia Rader was found by officers in a ditch behind some buildings in a new housing development about three miles outside the Jacksonville city limits. A police spokesman said she had been shot in the head. At least one armed man was involved in the robbery of a branch of the Bank of North Carolina Friday afternoon. Police said the robber arrived at the bank in the woman's car and took her into the bank with him. They said he held a gun on her and demanded money. An officer in the detective division said the robber picked the woman up in downtown Jacksonville. He said she was doing some shopping during her lunch hour and was abducted not far from her office. The spokesman said the robber forced the woman to drive him to the bank in her car. The car was found abandoned Friday afternoon in the downtown area. Police said they had several leads in the case, but no arrests had been made. An undisclosed amount of money was taken in the robbery.

Morgan Fears More Crime

RALEIGH (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan said Saturday he fears the state is "faced with more professional crimes and more ruthlessness among criminals." Morgan pointed out in a statement that a growing number of storekeepers were slain during robberies last year and said "many of these innocent people were slain for no apparent reason. The attorney general based his comments on the annual report of the State Bureau of Investigation which has just been released. "Agents spent more and more time on such cases and the trend, unfortunately, is expected to continue during the current year," he stated. "New approaches are needed in such investigations and the bureau is developing a 'murder squad' concept to concentrate on unsolved cases," he said.

Machine Warns of Quakes

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — A Peruvian engineering student says he has invented a machine that gives 22 seconds advance warning for earthquakes. Libio Pareja said 22 seconds is enough for a grown man to run 100 yards or get down six flights of stairs. Pareja offers his invention for sale for $82. Pareja said the machine, which runs on batteries and is small enough to be carried by hand, works by picking up seismic waves from under the crust of the earth always felt before major earthquakes. Peru is located along one of the world's major geological faults.

Booze And Beer By Appointment

DOUGLAS, Ariz. (AP) — Al Romero, operator of a Mexican food cafe here, believes turn-about is fair play. In Arizona some gasoline dealers require customers to make appointments to get fuel. In a newspaper advertisement Friday, Romero had this advice for gasoline dealers: "Booze and beer filled only by appointment to all service station operators. For appointment, call between 1 a.m. and 6 a.m." Romero's cafe is closed during those hours.

For Men Too, Paying Is Illegal

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Harl Hass says a prostitution charge against a 78-year-old man will be dropped after he completes 40 hours of community service work, assisting people with reading problems. Haas said Friday that Murray V. Griffith was the first man charged in Portland under a new state law making it illegal for a man to accept money for sexual activity. Griffith was cited in October after a female police officer said he accepted $50 from her to engage in sexual activity. Ms. Bird told the caucus that "hopefully men can be encouraged to enter the job ghetto and maybe pay scales will rise for everyone."

Sixty Two Dead In Turkish Jet Crash

IZMIR, Turkey (UPI) — A Turkish jetliner crashed and burned on takeoff Saturday, killing 62 of the 73 persons aboard. Most of the 11 survivors were in critical condition. Turkish police said all aboard were of Turkish nationality but a spokesman for the U.S. Embassy in the Turkish capital of Ankara said in a telephone interview with United Press International in New York that two Americans were among the victims. The embassy spokesman identified the Americans as Dr. and Mrs. Horace Gerarde and said their passports gave their hometown as Tenafly, N. J. The plane, a twin-jet Fokker F28, was leaving the Cumaovasi military airport on a 50-minute flight to Istanbul, 200 miles to the northeast. Airport officials called it the worst air disaster in Turkey's history. "As soon as the plane took off it veered to the left and I felt a great wave of heat," said Hamid Tig, a passenger who survived with minor scratches. "Then the plane struck the ground. I managed to throw myself out and succeeded in dragging a few burning passengers with me." Police said the plane carried 68 passengers and five crew members. Many of the passengers were Turkish workers who recently returned from West Germany, airport officials said. Airport officials and technicians said the cause of the accident remained unknown.

Attacks On Leftists In Argentine Cities

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — A series of bomb blasts and machine gun attacks early Saturday damaged political party offices and homes of leftist leaders in three Argentine cities, police said. At least 19 separate incidents were reported. The attacks occurred about 24 hours after the approval by Congress of severe measures against terrorism and "subversive" actions. A spokesman for the left-oriented Peronist youth blamed "Fascist bands" for the "abominable and useless aggression". The homes of some leftist leaders were hit by bombs in the outskirts of Buenos Aires and in the provincial capital of Rosario, some 187 miles northeast of Buenos Aires. Six bombs in the capital were thrown against neighborhood offices of the Peronist party. A seventh blew up in a washroom in a cafe frequented by young leftists. A 32-year-old woman was seriously injured in the blast. Blasts in the port city of Bahia Blanca, 410 miles south of Buenos Aires, damaged the offices of the Communist party, the young socialist movement, and a local credit union. The left-right struggle claimed 11 lives during a two month period after Peron was re-elected president last September.

First Peace Anniversary As Fighting Continues

SAIGON (UPI) — South Vietnam ended a year of "peace" Sunday with another step-up in fighting, deadlock in the conference room and uncertainty over the future. One year after the signing of the Paris cease-fire agreement, Saigon called for a non-aggression pact with North Vietnam. But there was no indication the Communists were listening. "The South Vietnamese people are not able to live in peace," said an official statement from North Vietnam. The Viet Cong charged "The United States and the Saigon administration have systematically violated and undermined" the cease-fire agreement. The most conciliatory statement of the day Saturday was from South Vietnamese Foreign Minister Vuong Van Bac, who proposed high-level meetings with Hanoi officials and said he was ready to sign a non-aggression treaty with North Vietnam. But even he was unable to resist an attack on the other side. "The negative attitude of the Communist side... leaves very little hope of achieving the purpose of the Paris agreement," he told a news conference. There was no direct response from Hanoi by Saturday evening.

29 Arrested In Tarboro

TARBORO, N. C. (AP) — Twenty-nine persons were arrested on charges of violating a parade permit in Tarboro Saturday, according to Police Chief Harry Alderman, who said the marchers refused to use the route they had been given to follow. Alderman said some 225 marchers, most of them from the Princeville community across the Tar River from Tarboro, crossed the bridge into the Edgecombe county seat, and confronted police on hand for traffic control. Alderman said he was approached by Othar Woodard Jr., chairman of the Committee of Concerned Citizens, and Golden Frinks, a representative of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference. Both, said the police chief, declined to use the parade route one block removed from Main Street, which he said had been approved in a parade permit issued Thursday. Frinks was among those arrested and charged with violation of the parade route, Alderman said. The police chief said all were given a magistrate's hearing and released under $200 bond each. The police chief said those arrested brushed past barricades set up to divert the march to the agreed route, ignoring a repeated warning that arrests would be made among those insisting on marching along Main Street. Alderman said the parade was heralded as a demonstration for the abolishment of capital punishment. "I gave them the alternate route only one block from Main Street because of the congestion of Saturday afternoon shoppers in the business section," Alderman said. He said the march was to have gone to Tarboro's town common and would have been reached as well by the alternate route running parallel with Main Street. Alderman said the committee had been given four marching permits since December and in every case had abided by the approved route. The previous marches, he said, were staged on days other than Saturday — one on a Friday and three on Sunday. Saturday's march, like the earlier marches, was peaceful, the police chief said.

Women Are Advised To Avoid "Female Ghetto"

CHARLOTTE (UPI) — Caroline Bird, the Author of "Born Female," Saturday encouraged women to stay out of the "female job ghetto" and seek jobs where men dominate. Ms. Bird keynoted the annual convention of the North Carolina Women's Political Caucus. The convention focused attention on the financial status of women and political campaign strategy. "Women are encouraged to go into jobs that make up what I call the female job ghetto — domestics, secretaries, teachers, waitresses, bookkeepers and other clerical workers make up this dead end for workers," Ms. Bird said. "Instead, women should look for jobs where men already predominate and thus the pay is better."

Pro-Board Governors, Not Anti-Med School Holshouser Comments

By SUSAN PRICE Reflector Staff Writer Governor James Holshouser said Saturday night here that regardless of proposals in the legislature concerning the East Carolina University medical school, he feels that the Board of Governors of the university system deserves support. Holshouser was in Greenville to crown ECU's White Ball Queen during halftime ceremonies at the ECU-VMI basketball game. The governor noted that his position in regard to the medical school situation is not an anti-med school position, but rather a pro Board of Governors stand. "Regardless of proposals, I feel the board deserves support, particularly during its early years of operation," the governor noted. Holshouser cited the effects of the energy crisis as his major opposition to proposals facing the legislature for tax cuts. "Over and above the merits of the specific proposals in the legislation, there is an overriding concern that the energy crisis may cause a downturn in the economy, causing a drop, rather than the increases the economy has been facing in recent years." The governor said he is encouraging legislators to wait as long as possible to consider proposals in order to gauge the impact of the energy crisis in the state. Holshouser also mentioned a lawsuit before the Energy Commission which, if lost, could mean the unemployment of 75,000 to 80,000 North Carolina workers. Such unemployment, the governor noted, would have a "considerable impact" on the state's economy. "I feel that it is good, responsible government to gauge the effects on the state's income in the coming year," Holshouser commented. Many bills in the legislature are already out of committee and onto the floor of the legislature, Holshouser noted. He mentioned that the Coastal Area Management bill has already come up for consideration on the legislature's floor. "This is already a fast legislature since members are returning from last year. With the primaries coming up in May, the legislature should be home by the first of April," the governor noted.

Clock Slows Wm. Martin Files For Commission

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The clock in the Commerce Department lobby clicked once every 18.5 seconds in 1973. By the start of 1974, its ticks had registered the 210,740,000th person in the United States. But according to a Census Bureau demographer, the people clock will slow to tick once every 21 seconds in 1974 reflecting the declining birth rate which hit an all-time low of 15 for every 1,000 persons last year. The native of Pennsylvania is a graduate of Clarion State College in Pennsylvania, received his M.A. at Arizona State University in Tempe, and the Ed.D at George Peabody College in Nashville, Tenn. He has been a professor of education at East Carolina University for the past 12 years. Member of several professional education organizations, Martin is a past state president of the North Carolina Association for Retarded Children, a member of the Greenville Civitan Club and the Greenville Moose Lodge. Martin served in the U.S. Navy and as a Quartermaster during World War II. He is a member of the board of directors of the Travellers Protective Association for Pitt County and has served on the board of directors for the East Carolina Sheltered Workshop and Pitt County Mental Health Association. Formerly a special education teacher for emotionally disturbed children at West Hartford, Conn., Martin also taught at junior high schools in Arizona, Tennessee and Connecticut. He is chairman of Aid to Handicapped for North Carolina Civitan District East. A member of the First Presbyterian Church in Greenville, Martin is married to Charlotte Martin, an associate professor of Nursing at the East Carolina University School of Nursing.

Precinct Elections

Henry Oglesby of Grifton, chairman of the Pitt Democratic executive committee, announced that a meeting will be held Tuesday night at Gardner Fire Station here for the election of new officers for Precinct Nine and the newly created Precinct Ten. Oglesby explained that with the recent division of Precinct Nine and creation of the tenth voting precinct in Greenville, it is necessary to elect new slates of officers since some officials were transferred from one precinct to another. The chairman noted that the meeting is open to all registered Democrats but he urged those in the Ninth and Tenth Precincts to attend so that a full explanation of the voting boundaries and precinct lines can be given. The session, scheduled for 7 p.m., will be at the fire station located on Brownlea Drive. As a candidate for District I, Martin will be opposing incumbent J. Vance Perkins, who has filed earlier. A second District I incumbent, Charles Gaskins, is not up for re-election this year as commissioners are elected on a staggered basis. Martin said in an interview Saturday, "I hope I can represent Greenville and the role it plays in county government."

Two Local Women Are VISTA Volunteers

Two new locally recruited volunteers for the Greenville VISTA program are now in training and will become a part of VISTA staff about mid-February.

Mrs. Virginia Newton Vines of the Moyewood area and Mrs. Ida Smith of Kearney Park are the two who have volunteered their services to the local VISTA effort.

The two will be working with Miss Chris Power, a VISTA member specializing in Education Projects.

"In Moyewood," Mrs. Vines said, "one of the things we're doing is working with senior citizens. These older people are making things, hopefully with the idea of selling them."

Formerly a clerical aid at Bethel Middle School, Mrs. Vines, a housewife, was also a student at Mitchell Hair Styling Academy. She is the mother of seven children ranging in age from 4 to 16.

Mrs. Smith, also a housewife and mother, has seven children between the ages of 9 and 18. She is the chairman of the community organization at Kearney Park.

"We're trying to create a community recreation program," Mrs. Smith said, "one that would involve a day care facility for people in the area."

The local VISTA program is still interested in getting additional volunteers from the local area to assist in projects in Greenville and the county.

"Eventually VISTA will have to be staffed entirely by local people," Miss Power said. VISTA workers now comprising the staff, with the exception of three local volunteers, are all out of area people who will leave here at the end of one or two years service in the program.

Thousands of Catholics In Irish Demonstrations

By FRANK JOHNSTON
BELFAST (UPI)—A policeman was killed by sniper fire Saturday night as sporadic shootings broke out at the start of demonstrations by thousands of Roman Catholics to mark the anniversary of Londonderry's "Bloody Sunday."

A police spokesman said the officer was patrolling the village of Glenmorley just outside Belfast when he was shot in the chest. He was not identified, but authorities said he was the father of four.

It brought to 943 the death toll in four years of violence among the majority Protestants, minority Roman Catholics and the security forces in Northern Ireland.

A few hours earlier, soldiers shot a man carrying a rifle on the outskirts of Belfast, but

Leaders of the weekend demonstrations unveiled a 12-foot-high stone monument to the 13 shot during a demonstration in protest against internment without trial of suspected terrorists.

The demonstration Saturday was organized by the Northern Ireland Civil Rights Association and Sinn Fein, the political division of the Irish Republican Army (IRA).

friends put the wounded man into a car and drove off.

As the demonstrations began, two youths suffered leg wounds when gunmen sprayed a street in North Belfast with machine-gun fire.

Police said the youths were walking in a predominantly Roman Catholic area of the city when the attack came. There was no apparent motive, a police spokesman said.

The Montana senator made the comment when asked during an interview if he thought Nixon would be in a tough spot coming to Capitol Hill for the speech at the same time the House Judiciary Committee was preparing hearings on his possible impeachment.

Funeral Services Held For 23 Belgian Boys

By STEPHAN KETELE
HEUSDEN, Belgium (UPI)—As hundreds of mourners stood outside, grieving parents jammed a small Belgian church Saturday to attend funeral services for their 23 young sons who died in a raging boarding school fire.

Those who could not get into the tiny church in the mining community of Heusden listened to the service broadcast by loudspeakers in the marketplace.

The boys, aged 12 to 15, died Wednesday in a fire that roared through the third story dormitory of Sacred Heart College. Forty boys managed to escape. Police said boys smoking in bed may have caused the fire. An official inquiry was underway.

The 23 white-painted coffins stood in three rows between the mourners attending the service in the blue-walled St. Willibrordus church.

A wreath of carnations, tulips and roses sent by King Baudouin and Queen Fabiola leaned against the oak altar.

At the start of the service, parents, many mothers hiding their tears behind black veils, walked up to the coffins. Some gripped them tightly and had to be gently pulled away and led to seats in the church by Belgian Red Cross workers.

Firemen acted as pallbearers at the end of the 90-minute service, taking the coffins outside to vans of the Civil Defense Corps waiting with blue lights flashing to take the boys to their hometowns for burial.

A Heusden police officer read out the name of each boy as the pallbearers lifted the coffins one by one.

The tragedy has sparked widespread demands for better safety conditions in private schools, with parent associations and newspapers demanding tighter fire safety legislation.

Four Arrested In County

BETHEL—Cooperating in an investigation, Pitt County sheriff deputies and Bethel Police early Saturday arrested four persons in connection with the larceny and forgery of checks earlier this month.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said Ellen Joyce Ebron, 22, Michael Earl Ebron, 18 and Delton Howard, 17, all of Rt. 6 Greenville, were arrested about 12:10 a.m. Saturday on charges of breaking and entering, larceny and forgery.

Another Rt. 6, Greenville man, Earl Harp, 20, was taken into custody on charges of aiding and abetting.

According to Tyson the two Ebrons and Howard allegedly stole a quantity of checks from a truck owned by George C. Jackson of Rt. 6, Greenville about one month ago. A forged check for $150 was cashed at a Bethel foodstore on Jan. 3. Subsequent investigation of the case by the two law enforcement agencies led to Saturday's arrest, according to Tyson.

Clashes; Withdrawals In Mid East

By United Press International
Israel and Syria engaged in artillery duels Saturday on the Golan Heights cease-fire lines while Israeli troop withdrawals continued on the Suez front, their pace temporarily slackened by the Jewish Sabbath.

Syria reported an initial clash in which it fired artillery shells at Israeli units engaged in construction work, destroying several items of equipment and inflicting "a number of casualties on the enemy." It said two Israeli artillery batteries were put out of action in a later 40-minute duel in which Israel opened fire first.

The Israeli military command reported three hours of intermittent Syrian artillery barrages in which three Israeli soldiers were wounded. Israel said it returned the fire.

An Israeli field reporter in the Sinai said that Israeli troops and equipment pulling out of the Suez Canal's west bank were being redeployed along a new line ranging from Balouza on the Mediterranean to Ras Masala on the Gulf of Suez. Some withdrawals, he said, were carried out by naval vessels headed out of the gulf in the direction of Sharm el Shaikh on the peninsula's southern tip.

Orders have been given to leave some captured Egyptian missile bases and their subterranean bunkers untouched, the reporter said, in accordance with an agreement reached Thursday by Israeli and Egyptian generals.

The artillery clashes were the first of any consequence on the northern cease-fire lines since Egypt and Israel signed their troop disengagement pact on Jan. 18.

Israel has received a Syrian proposal for troop disengagement brought back from Damascus by U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who engineered the Egyptian-Israeli troop separation plan.

The semi-official Egyptian newspaper Al Ahran, quoting informed sources in Washington, said Saturday that President Nixon is considering a trip to the Middle East, possibly in April.

However, in Washington, White House deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren said, "The President has no such plans."

Under the pact with Egypt, Israel is scheduled to complete the first phase of troop withdrawals from the Suez Canal's west bank on Monday, freeing encircled Suez City, where U.N. peacekeeping troops began setting up headquarters Saturday.

An Israeli military command spokesman said truckloads of troops and supplies continued to stream out of Egypt Saturday into the Sinai, although the pace was somewhat slackened "to show the religious people that we are observing the Sabbath."

With the end of the Sabbath at nightfall, "the pace of the traffic across the canal has returned to what it was," a spokesman said.

Cambodian Troops Meet Resistance

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian government forces met heavy resistance Saturday in three-column drive aimed at pushing back rebels along a front five miles south of Phnom Penh, field reports said.

The insurgents have used at least two positions in the area to fire 105mm artillery into the southern fringes of Phnom Penh, killing 49 persons and wounding 117 Thursday and Friday.

The government push is designed to clear out rebel positions at Anlong Krong, where field reports said the rebels have at least one 105mm howitzer installed. Cambodian Air Force F28s bombed rebel positions in support of the government troops in 45 sorties throughout the day.

UPI reporter Tea Kim Heang reported that "the government troops just couldn't move ahead because of the heavy enemy fire."

$2,100 Given By Fraternity

BOSTON (UPI) — It might have been a little late, but the Clover Club of Boston, a group of area civic and political leaders, presented its "Richard Nixon Christmas Song Book," Saturday night.

The song book, prepared for the club's mid-winter dinner, was among a series of parodies that included songs, advertising slogans and jingles and skits.

Among the tunes presented:

Secret Exemptions

By KIM WILLENSON
WASHINGTON (UPI) — The administration secretly gave the oil industry broad antitrust exemptions beginning in 1970 so it could form a solid front against Arab threats to nationalize the companies, according to Senate testimony made public Saturday.

James Akins, former head of the State Department office of fuels and energy, told a Senate subcommittee last October the exemptions were made on grounds of "national interest" based on fears the Arabs would take over American-owned firms.

The testimony was made public by Sen. Frank Church, D-Idaho, chairman of the subcommittee on multi-national corporations. Church opens hearings Wednesday on the international dealings of oil companies dating prior to World War II.

Akins testified that the government extracted no concessions from the oil industry in return for the antitrust protection, and was shut out of the industry-Arab negotiations intended to avoid nationalization.

Bulgarian Ship Seized

NEW YORK (UPI) — Armed Coast Guardsmen pursued and seized the Bulgarian trawler "Limoza" Saturday, then hauled the ship to New York harbor where the captain was charged with fishing inside American territorial waters.

The ship's captain, Peter Todorov Donchev, was arrested, escorted off his ship and arraigned. Donchev denied being inside the 12-mile limit. The 269-foot "Limoza," its holds loaded with mackerel, was boarded about 3:30 a.m. by armed crewmen from the cutter "Unimak" after the Bulgarian ship refused warnings to "heave to" and instead pulled in its nets and headed out to sea. The Coast guard chased the ship for three miles. Coast Guard officials said that Donchev could be fined $100,000, imprisoned for one year, and his ship and cargo impounded.

"I protest," Donchev told a reporter in broken English. "They (U.S. government officials) took my (log) books, but I was 13½ miles out. I am sorry, I am first time here and I hear and read about Americans very nice, but why are they doing this?"

Watergate Hearings Postponed

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Watergate committee Saturday abruptly postponed public hearings scheduled for the next two weeks to avoid prejudicing the upcoming New York trial of former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans.

Committee chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., issued a 41-word statement saying the committee was putting off the scheduled three days of hearings next week and the week following. No new starting date was announced.

President Nixon's millionaire friend Charles G. "Bebe" Rebozo and a Howard Hughes aide were scheduled to testify during the hearings about a $100,000 contribution from Hughes to President Nixon's campaign fund. Mitchell dropped a threatened antitrust action against Hughes in 1970 after part of the money was contributed.

Brezhnev To Visit Cuba

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet Communist party leader Leonid I. Brezhnev makes his first visit to Cuba Monday, underlining the continuing closeness between Russia and Cuban Premier Fidel Castro.

Diplomats said Brezhnev's visit may be the occasion for a gathering of Latin American Communist leaders to discuss strategy on the continent and the Soviet proposal for world Communist conference.

The Soviet press has given a heavy buildup to the visit, the first to Cuba by a Soviet leader since Premier Alexei N. Kosygin went to Havana in October, 1971, and plans have been made for televised coverage of it in Russia.

When the Soviet Union came under criticism at the non-aligned conference in Algiers last October, no one was more staunch in defense of Moscow than Castro.

Mizell "Interested" In Senate Seat

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
U.S. Congressman Wilmer Mizell said here Friday that he is "definitely interested in the possibility of becoming a candidate" for the U.S. Senate seat that will be vacated with the retirement of Sen. Sam Ervin.

The Fifth District Representative from Winston-Salem told newsmen that he has been considering running for the Senate for "several months" and he noted that he hopes to "reach a decision within a couple of weeks."

Mizell, in Greenville for a reception prior to speaking at a First District Republican gathering in Washington, said that he has traveled over North Carolina in recent weeks trying to see how much real interest there is in his becoming a candidate.

The Republican, who is completing his sixth year in Congress, said that he has given a great deal of thought to the fact that if he decides to run and is successful, he will no longer be a senior member of Congress but a freshman member of the Senate. He contended, however, that seniority in the House would be a big help to someone going on to the Senate.

Mizell said that traditionally in North Carolina there has been a senator identified with the East and one with the West and "I don't know that the folks might feel more comfortable if this was still the case but, at the same time, a United States Senator represents the whole state."

He added that he did not know if the fact that Sen. Jesse Helms is identified with the East and he (Mizell) would be from the western part of the state would be an issue but he said that the people would probably be "more comfortable if they did have someone who would identify with the western sector of North Carolina, since Helms already has eastern identification.

As ranking Republican member of the subcommittee on tobacco, the congressman said that "we have just come through some real tough hearings in the last couple of days because of what I really feel like has been the mishandling of our tobacco allotment program."

Mizell said that commitments have been received from the Department of Agriculture that "hopefully will be as meaningful as I think they are in helping alleviate some of the real fears that were aroused by the decision of the Department, first of all, to even mention the elimination of allotments for tobacco and secondly, to increase the quotas at this time."

"My own personal view was that we should have tried to eliminate some of our marketing problems before we tried to move ahead with more increases," he continued.

Speaking in Washington Friday night, Mizell said that America is "too important to the world in too many ways to withdraw in isolation, but at the same time, America need not stand for the kind of treatment we have been getting from the rest of the world in the last few years."

"We've spent almost $136 billion over the last 20 years in foreign aid to help with the economic development and military defense of other nations of the world," Mizell told the gathering, "and we've contributed almost $8 billion more to the World Bank."

New Manager District Office

Cyrus (Cy) S. Adcock, native of Henderson, Kentucky, has been named the new Manager of the Social Security Administration District Office in Greenville.

Adcock succeeds George G. Bailey who has transferred to Rocky Mount as the manager of the office there.

Formerly a member of the Marine Corps, Adcock resigned after more than eight years duty. He was a first lieutenant at the time of his resignation and had served in both the European and Asian theaters.

Before coming to Greenville, Adcock was Assistant District Manager of the Social Security Administration in Tuscaloosa, Ala. He attended the University of Tennessee and has been with Social Security for several years.

He is married to the former Carolyn Partin, also a native of Kentucky. They now live in Greenville with their two young children, Alison, 7 and Matthew, 5.

Dear Greenville City Schools Supporter:

The operation of any school system requires a combination of talents and efforts from many individuals and groups. The Greenville City Board of Education recognizes that during 1973 the people of Greenville and Pitt County provided the Greenville City School District with the financial and human resources with which to operate an effective and varied educational program.

For the youth served, this support has meant that the board has been able to offer another year of opportunity for continued intellectual, emotional and physical growth under the leadership of nearly five hundred professional and non-professional staff members.

Recognizing the impossibility of expressing a personal "Thank You" to all who have made contributions to the local school system during the past year, the members of the Greenville City Board of Education would like to use this means to express their appreciation for the support received. It is our hope that each of you will accept this letter as a personal acknowledgement of your individual contribution to the school system.

This letter also serves to provide a vehicle by which the Greenville City Board of Education expresses its hopes that the action of the board during 1974 will be such that your continued support might be readily and enthusiastically received.

Speaking in behalf of the board, I again offer my thanks for every individual effort made by the supporters of public education in Pitt County and the City of Greenville and repeat our pledge of continued interest and action in order to provide quality educational experiences for the students enrolled in the schools of Greenville City School District.

Sincerely,

Fonda Fails In Awarding Kissinger

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Actress Jane Fonda and some 250 rain-soaked demonstrators marked the first anniversary of the Paris Vietnam Peace accords Saturday by trying to present Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger with the 1973 "Ignoble Peace Prize."

But no one at the State Department wanted to accept it "for the good doctor."

The demonstrators had walked more than two miles in a cold drizzly rain to protest continued U.S. support of the South Vietnamese government and to award the "war prize" to Kissinger, who received the Nobel Peace prize for his role in arranging the Vietnam peace agreement.

Ms. Fonda read an open letter to Kissinger charging the Nixon administration with supporting South Vietnam's military.

The demonstrators stood in a close semi-circle as she tried to present to anyone the award—a large wooden plaque with a 20 millimeter machine gun bullet above typed citation. But she was stopped by a guard.

Ms. Fonda asked if anyone would accept the award and the guard replied: "No one's here to present it to the good doctor." Kissinger was on his way to New York at the time where he was scheduled to confer with U. N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim. Slightly miffed, Ms. Fonda told the crowd, "No one will accept it...then we will take it to his desk tomorrow."

"Move Our Tails For You" Idea Not Liked By Women

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Some Continental Airlines stewardesses say the firm's new advertising slogan, "We really move our tails for you," is degrading to them.

"When I first heard the slogan, I was just mortified," Claudia Lampe, stewardess representative for the 17,000-member Air Line Pilots Association, said Friday. "It's degrading to us."

She said married stewardesses have gotten complaints from their husbands, and "we even have a few fathers who are unhappy about this."

Polly Musch, a married 10-year veteran of Continental, said: "I think it represents a lack of respect for hostesses. We have always projected pride, a class kind of image, and this slogan is barroom talk."

But Continental executives insist the slogan refers only to the tail of the plane, an extension of the firm's "proud bird with the golden tail" theme, not to part of a stewardess' anatomy.

The ad has been defended as "not a putdown" by actress Audrey Meadows, who is married to Continental's president, Robert Six.

And Miss Pond said: "I really dig this job and this company. Mr. Six signs my paychecks, and if that's the way he wants to do it, that's fine."

Miss Lampe said that, although some stewardesses have spoken of charging sex discrimination through federal agencies, they would rather seek an amicable settlement with Continental.

"We have always had a good rapport with Continental, and we think they will listen to us on this," she said.

A More Palatable Tax Measure

The latest tax cut proposal in the State House of Representatives would be easier on the treasury than the original proposals.

The bill, which was approved last week on a "third reading" in the House, would drop the revenue loss from $50.9 million to $31.6 million the first year. It now goes to the Senate. The belief is that it will face rougher going there.

The original bill provided for a $20 per person tax cut. The new bill, however, provides for an additional $2,000 income tax exemption for wage earners with "adjusted gross incomes" of $4,000 or less.

In its new form the tax bill provides tax relief for 504,000 persons in the low income bracket. Also included is an income tax credit to manufacturers, retailers and wholesalers for the inventory taxes which they pay to local governments, and elderly people with incomes of $7,000 or less annual income would be given an income tax exemption of $3,000.

The bill is somewhat more palatable in its new form in that it cuts into state income less than the original bill. It also provides tax relief to those in low income brackets who need it most.

Still, we would advise the legislators to go slow in cutting the state's revenue. It is not yet clear how much the energy crunch will affect the national and the state economy and thus, we could be right back looking for additional revenue next year.

Dangers Built By Kissinger

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON—Although basking in the richly deserved glow of Middle East peacemaker, Henry A. Kissinger may now find himself boxed in by his highly individualistic style of shuttle diplomacy which could turn his brilliant beginnings as Secretary of State into ashes.

Never before has an American foreign policy chief been found so close to such extraordinarily difficult shuttle negotiations as Kissinger since the peak of the Yom Kippur war. One incident during his first full-fledged mediation tour in early November dramatizes the problem.

In that November tour, he delegated his Mideast political expert, then Assistant Secretary of State Joseph J. Sisco, to fly to Kuwait for highly personalized talks on the oil embargo with Sheikh Al Sabah, the ruling Emir. But the Emir of Kuwait refused to see Sisco.

The reason had nothing whatever to do with Sisco himself. Now elevated to Under Secretary of State for political affairs, Sisco had long since purged himself of earlier Arab fears that he had a pro-Israel bias. No, the Emir refused to see Sisco solely for reasons of personal reputation and face: the Emir would do business not with an underling but only with the grand minister himself, Henry Kissinger.

"Henry has made a bed of shuttle diplomacy," a high-ranking U.S. diplomat told us, "and now he has to lie in it."

Kissinger fully understands what that may require: his availability in such distant climes as Damascus and other Arab capitals to button down vital agreements Arab Sheikhs and Presidents will not entrust to lesser State Department officials. In short, with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat establishing the tone and flavor for Kissinger-style personal diplomacy, no other Arab leader will accept less.

The settlement stakes in the Middle East have the highest price tag of any diplomatic undertaking in the world. Nevertheless, the risks of Kissinger being worn down in the process and robbed of time for Europe, arms control and other issues threaten grave results.

For example, both European and U.S. diplomats here are appalled at the continuing deterioration of the so-called Western "alliance." Yet, without Kissinger's personal attention—one of the few stamps of legitimacy left in the Nixon administration—disorders in the alliance can only worsen.

Kissinger's clear perception of this was one reason for the sudden change in President Nixon's strong personal desire to bring Under Secretary of State Kenneth Rush into the White House as senior presidential counselor and legal adviser on Watergate. As we have reported, Rush's long absence from the practice of law was one reason that plan was aborted. The more important reason, however, was Kissinger's very private warning to Mr. Nixon: if you take Rush from State now you take my right arm. Kissinger won; Rush stayed.

That was just before Christmas, when Kissinger was winding up a two-week tour of the Mideast. Now he has just returned from his third long tour, this one lasting another ten days. Yet, the diplomacy that lies just ahead—to duplicate in Damascus the success Kissinger has had in Tel Aviv and Cairo—may be far more demanding. Then comes Jordan, East Jerusalem and the Palestine nationalists.

In short, Kissinger's average of spending one day in every three abroad since he took office on Sept. 22 may be exceeded in the next four months. For American diplomacy elsewhere, that could be disastrous.

Nor can Kissinger risk a Mideastern duplication of the aftermath of his secret negotiations bringing an end to U.S. participation in the Vietnam war. Although vital clauses in the Vietnam agreements have been torn to shreds, the political result back here has been: so what! But if the Mideast states pushed into Kissinger-style agreements—as Egypt and Israel were in last week's brilliant breakthrough—should do what the Vietnam parties have done, serious political repercussions are certain.

Kissinger himself is now held responsible for the agreements and understandings—those not spelled out in the signed documents—that underpin the Tel Aviv-Cairo separation of forces. They were made with him alone.

This is why some of Kissinger's strongest admirers in the State Department look on the future with apprehensive eye. They feel that although last week's dramatic success could not have happened without Kissinger himself dominating every play, he has now considered himself to a unique shuttle diplomacy that may gravely undermine his other work as Secretary of State.

Despite Its Trouble, Skylab Is A Success

The skylab space mission started out trouble-plagued and it looks as if it will end up trouble-plagued as a faltering gyroscope causes the space scientists concern.

The space mission though have proved that man can work for long periods in space and also that he can overcome unforeseen problems.

Despite the troubles, it looks as if the astronauts may be able to stay with skylab until the mission's scheduled end on Feb. 8. That will be a measure of success in itself.

How Fate Can Switch Sides

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—Marse Grant, editor of the Biblical Recorder and a Baptist leader in the Christian Action League fight against mixed drinks, was invited to pray over a session of the State Senate the other day.

He did, and honoring tradition took his place on the rostrum platform afterward.

Sen. Eddie Knox of Mecklenburg, who worked hard for mixed drinks, was prompted to quip: "There's another result of that mixed drink vote. I'm on my way out, and Marse Grant's sitting at the head table."

Senate Battle Developing With Attorney General Robert Morgan and Monroe businessman Henry Hall Wilson carrying the battle flags for the Democratic Party nomination to the U. S. Senate seat being vacated by Sam Ervin, some party faithfuls are wondering if a dark horse will pick up the chips.

Morgan is considered an easterner, living only 30 miles from the home of Republican Senator Jesse Helms. That, some say, is a drawback and will give Morgan trouble in Piedmont and Western sections.

It's possible a newcomer could step in and profit from the situation, and one name being prominently mentioned is that of Charlotte Mayor John M. Belk, chief of the sprawling Belk department store chain.

Belk says he has no plans for entering the race—but will not rule out the possibility of making such plans a little further down the road.

Speed Limit Legal? Sen. I. C. Crawford of Asheville thinks North Carolina is illegally placed under a statewide 55 mile-per-hour speed limit.

He won't challenge the situation, he said, because the result is desirable. But it ought to be done legally, Crawford says.

His hangup is that law gives the Board of Transportation authority to establish a "safe and reasonable speed" up to 70 on interstate highways.

"It doesn't give anybody authority to change those speeds, except the board, and I don't see how they could come back and say that what they considered safe and reasonable last month is not safe and reasonable this month," Crawford contends.

He plans to draw a bill giving the governor authority to do what he has already done—reduce speed limits by executive order under certain conditions.

Leadership Emerging It's interesting to watch leadership in the General Assembly taking hold as this rump session of the 1973 Legislature progresses.

Historically, the Democratic assembly has leaned heavily on a Democratic governor to provide impetus. Last year for the first time lawmakers found themselves with a Republican governor—the first elected in this century.

Leadership floundered and the question often was 'who's in charge?'

Right off the bat, the continuation session found House Speaker Jim Ramsey, a Democrat, moving out front as spokesman, and Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt taking an early lead in setting directions.

Hunt, however, has a strong handicap. He's widely regarded as present front-runner for the party nomination in the governor's race in 1976 and is being swiped at by the opposition party as well as by fellow Democrats who oppose his campaign.

Ramsey also has interests in the governor's office, and will probably find himself in a similar situation before the session ends.

Partisan Session? Will the General Assembly divide itself along party lines during this session? That is a key question, and should be answered soon.

"The honeymoon is over," one member of the House insists, "and we Democrats had better push back."

Some in the Senate side, a body which prides itself on being more deliberative and cautious, believe there will be "some posturing" in early days, yielding to an attitude of harmony later on.

"Puff a little more 'Energy Crisis' at her, fellas... she's still breathing!"

Sunday Morning Notes

By ALVIN TAYLOR

Signs of the gas shortage continued: A pretty coed was pouring two big cans of gasoline in her car as the weekend began.

And a bicyclist pedaled down First Street with a familiar back pack strapped on. Across the back of the pack was lettered, "Save Gas."

The waitress spoke sharply to the short order cook. Then she looked at a customer and laughed. "I'm not always this grouchy," she said, "just on my bad days."

Another waitress asked a customer she knew, "Do you want water?" "No," the customer replied. "Well you're going to get it," the waitress answered.

A customer asked a waitress for jelly. She brought back a bowlful of the pre-packaged jelly containers. "We've got apple, cherry and grape," she suggested.

40 Years Ago Today

By SUSAN PRICE
January 27, 1934
J. H. Waldrop, cashier at Greenville Banking and Trust Co. today announced that he has received a letter from Secretary Morgenthau of the U.S. Treasury Department, authorizing the acceptance at dollar face value all gold certificates and gold coins. Worn coins of light weight will have to be sent to the Treasury and weighed.

The ball to be given here next Tuesday evening in honor of the birthday of President Roosevelt will be informal and both dancers and spectators may attend without wearing the conventional "full dress".

The dance committee decided to make the affair informal here yesterday after numerous complaints reached them that several people wouldn't be able to attend because they didn't have dress suits and no money to buy them.

Ticket sales for the ball, which will be held from 9:30 until 2 a.m. at the Campus building at East Carolina Teacher's college, are expected to show a rapid surge at this news.

Other Editors Say It's Our Sacrifice

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

If the American people continue to cooperate, President Nixon said last Saturday in a nationwide radio broadcast, "We can avoid hardships this winter and we can avoid gas rationing this spring. It is your sacrifice that is making the difference."

He may very well have a point: it must be our sacrifice that is making the difference, for according to news reports it includes no sacrifice on the part of presidential staff members.

It seems that William E. Simon must feel like the man who had the limb sawed out from under him. Simon, the energy administrator, had requested that presidential staff members give up their chauffeur-driven limousines as an example to the rest of the nation to conserve fuel.

He asked that the White House officials stop using their uneconomical gas-gulping vehicle last month as part of the federal energy conservation drive.

But government sources said Simon's request touched off a scramble among White House staffers to hang onto their big telephone-equipped cars, considered one of Washington's ultimate prestige symbols.

So the White House forced Simon to back down on his request. While most senior governmental officials, including cabinet members, have given up limousine commuting and use smaller cars, car pools or even buses to get to work, the White House maintains that its staffers put in such long hours that they deserve "portal-to-portal" service.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren said last Friday, 18 days after the deadline on Simon's request, that "senior White House staff members" were still using their chauffeured sedans.

Yes sir, Mr. President, it's our sacrifice that counts, isn't it?

Quotes NAM Chairman An 'Optimist'

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Donald Gaudion, the new chairman of the National Association of Manufacturers — NAM — describes himself as a professional optimist with an inclination to view the worst of times as the prelude to the best of times.

The present "down-at-the-mouth attitude" of Americans, he maintains, is probably the gestation in disguise of brighter times, a period in which the nation's energies and resources are being gathered for another push forward.

"Democracy has moods and cycles," he said. "We seem to be either at the top of the world and to have all the answers or we fall to a point where everyone's confidence is shattered."

Gaudion's main job remains as chairman and chief executive of the Sybron Corp., a Rochester-based multinational heavily involved in the health care field, a rapidly growing company whose sales last year reached about $400 million. He will have the NAM spot for one year.

Two years ago, approaching 60, he relinquished some of Sybron's day-to-day activities to his president, William von Berg, and now can devote more time not only to NAM but to 15 other groups, three bank directorships and four industrial directorships.

Gaudion's interests are broader than one might attribute to the stereotype of an NAM man. He belongs to a small group called the Philosophers' Club, for example, and is chairman of the University of Rochester. He believes that "the basic changes of society begin in academia."

"I can't be accused of being a Babbitt type — of only seeking profits," he said. "I believe business people must get a broader understanding and approach to social problems."

"In fact," he continued, "the reason I joined the NAM is that it had an image of super-Babbitts," an image he believes has changed and will continue to change. "We're not quite as narrow as generally portrayed."

He foresees "two or three years of high level economic chaos" — productive, but afflicted by inflation and shortages. But he is convinced that good will come of it.

The people are fed up with most existing leadership, he says, but believes this can lead to stronger individuals and a more fit country.

"Leadership hasn't come up with the easy answers," he said. "It doesn't have any bumper sticker answers."

Disenchantment with leadership, he believes, now will force people back to solving problems themselves. "You cannot expect a messiah to do it for you. You have to solve problems yourself."

And so, after nearly four decades he believes we are coming to the end of a cycle in which Americans turned to Washington for solutions.

In his view, all segments of Americans have learned that Washington, try as it may, doesn't have all the answers. Gaudion believes the biggest challenge to business is gauging public demand. "I think the public still makes the decisions," he said, explaining that you cannot force unwanted products on people but you cannot fail to recognize their needs and demands either.

Strength For Today

USE WHAT YOU HAVE
To rely upon religious faith does not mean that we have to abandon, or should abandon, the dictates of prudence. God never helps us until we have done everything possible to help ourselves. We ask Him, if we are wise, to do two things—first, to help us use to the utmost the powers we have, and then after that, to do for us certain things we could not possibly do for ourselves.

The story is told that two followers of the prophet Mohammed were once discussing religious faith in the prophet's presence. One declared, "My faith is so great that I would loose my camel in the middle of the desert and commit him to God." The prophet, overhearing this remark, said, "Friend, in this situation stay mounted on your camel and commit him to God."

We are all endowed with certain capacities, and it is an affront to the Creator if we do not use them. We cannot expect that He will give more until we use what we already have.

Observations From Editorial Columns

Cooking With Garbage

The energy crisis is "the most phony crisis ever inflicted upon a modern society," claims Ralph Nader. Society, says the consumer advocate, wastes 40 per cent of its energy. So how can there be a crisis?

Nader is a man who never minces a word or pares an exaggeration. Yet a recent item in the news makes one wonder. The city of El Cajon, Calif., is going to build a Solid Waste Resources Recovery Demonstration Center to convert garbage and trash into fuel. The center, to be completed by 1975, will cost $3.2 million, which is peanuts compared to what it will do.

Initially, it will convert 200 tons of trash daily into burnable fuel, including low-sulphur oil. Eventually, it will process 1,000 tons of trash a day into enough fuel to meet the needs of 30,000 people.

If $3.2 million can do this for 30,000 people by 1975, what could a few billion do for 200 million people even sooner? Or would we suddenly hear certain segments of the economy howling: "Hold on now. Let's not rush into anything. The energy crisis is not as bad as all that."—Shreveport (La.) Journal

Golf Crisis?

The energy crisis has the United States Golf Association up in arms, concerned that those charged with allocating energy supplies will cut off the juice for recreational endeavors. One of the victims, if such a drastic action occurs, would be the golf cart.

There are an estimated 295,000 golf carts carrying some of the 10.4 million golfers along the nation's golf courses. We're not sure how many homes could be heated by a can of golf carts, but we're virtually certain that the lack of motorized golf would demonstrate how serious America's energy crisis really is.

Come to think of it, the motorized golf cart was designed as an energy-saver in the first place, or at least an energy-diverter. Things, and emphases, do change as time goes on.—Nashville (Tenn.) Banner

Dashed Expectations

The comet Kohoutek is fading away into the vastness of space. It was supposed to be the comet of the century, but somehow most of us missed it entirely.

The ancients used to believe in omens from the sky, and astrology has enjoyed a boomlet amid the general confusion of modern times. Maybe there's something to it, or at least, Kohoutek is an eerie symbol of the last decade. The celestial forces managed to give us just the comet for an age of overpromise and underperformance.—all Street Journal

Round And Round

Just to show you how these things grow, there's a shortage of wood. Wood for what? Well, wood to make handles. And why are handles so necessary? For hammers and axes.

And who needs hammers and axes? Well, people who bought pot-belly stoves and cleaned out the fireplaces for winter are now discovering that they can't buy wood for fires. They're roaming the forests for fuel, but they can't cut down the trees without axes, and axes won't work without handles and there's no wood for handles so we're back where we started—with a cold stove and a dark fireplace and a sense of frustration.—Memphis (Tenn.) Commercial Appeal

Those Calendars

If you are genuinely thrifty, you will not have thrown away your old 1973 calendars. After all, the same calendar will be used again in 1979, 1990, 2001, 1007, 2018, 2029, 2035, 2046, 2057, 2063, 2074 and so on.

Oddly enough, even though there are only 14 basic calendars, people throw them away each year as though they will never be used again. For instance, if you had saved your 1963 calendar, you could use it again this year instead of having to buy a new one. The calendar printing business has been in the recycling business for a long time.—Birmingham (Ala.) News

A Conservative View Those Abortion Decisions: Still A Poor Law

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

WASHINGTON—This past week marked the first anniversary of Mr. Justice Blackmun's opinions for the Supreme Court in Roe v. Wade and Doe v. Bolton, the abortion cases from Texas and Georgia. The lapse of time has not improved these unhappy pronouncements. In retrospect, the two opinions remain just as Mr. Justice White, in dissent, described them: an improvident and extravagant exercise of raw judicial power.

The anniversary occasion saw renewed discussion of abortion on its merits. These close and difficult questions, involving moral and theological convictions that are deeply held, are off my beat. Let me leave the merits for another day.

The cases of "Jane Roe" and "Mary Doe" presented substantially the same questions of law. The Texas statute dated from 1857; the Georgia law was of more recent vintage; but both served, in effect, to prohibit abortions except upon medical advice. The high court struck down both statutes as vague, overbroad, and unconstitutional. By identical 7-2 votes. (White and Rehnquist dissenting), the Court attempted to draw a line between a woman's rights of privacy and liberty on the one hand, and the compelling interests of the state on the other.

The two decisions, with deference to the Court, were monstrous examples of plain bad law. Under our federal system, as the Tenth Amendment makes clear, the states have all legislative powers not delegated to the United States nor prohibited to them by the Constitution. In order to nullify the Texas and Georgia statutes, it was necessary for the Court to find something in the Fourteenth Amendment that prohibits the two states from enforcing the laws in question.

But in any fair reading, the Fourteenth contains no such prohibition. In 1868, when the Fourteenth was more or less ratified, 37 states were more or less in the Union. Thirty-six of the 37 had laws limiting or prohibiting abortion. It is nonsense to suppose that the framers and ratifiers of that amendment intended the Fourteenth to nullify these state enactments.

Put aside the matter of intention. In its decisions of a year ago, the Court went far beyond its judicial duty to decide the cases of Jane Roe and Mary Doe. Contrary to sound custom, the majority made no effort to salvage any part of the Texas and Georgia laws. Soaring into the wild blue yonder, the Court drafted its own model legislation—and this the Court has no authority to do.

Thus the Court held that during the first three months of pregnancy, a woman's rights to liberty and privacy give her an absolute right to obtain an abortion. During the second trimester, said the majority, the state has a compelling interest in the health of the mother, and this permits some regulation. During the final three months, the state's interest in the potentiality of human life permits the state to regulate "and even proscribe" abortion. As Rehnquist wryly observed, in its pronouncements on "compelling state interest," the Court accomplished "the seemingly impossible feat of leaving this area of the law more confused than it found it." In his separate dissent, White denounced the majority for usurping the power of the states to fix an order of priority between "the convenience of the pregnant mother" and "the continued existence and development of the life or potential life which she carries." Such legislative and social judgments are quite simply none of the Court's business.

Given a 7-2 vote, it is unlikely that the Court will reverse or modify its shockingly bad decisions of a year ago. Neither is it likely that Congress will submit a remedial constitutional amendment to the states. The decisions will have to be lived with, or in the case of the aborted fetuses, died with. We are left with a judicial landmark, but it is not a landmark to steer by. It is a landmark to view with abiding dismay.

More Than Discomfort Or Inconveniences Are Involved In Oil Cutoff

By GEORGE BRYANT, JR.

As a people, we are inclined to measure the energy crisis in terms of the crimp it puts in the use of the car, the chill in the back hall and the dollar bite out of the budget when the bills come in.

We find it hard to tune in on foreign trade matters. We know they are, somehow, important. But such things as imports, exports, and trade balances seem remote from the way we work and live. Seldom do we associate them with economic growth and the availability of jobs for an expanding labor force.

But it may well be in this area that Arab oil policies will create the greatest problems for the U. S. economy. An end to the embargo could ease the supply problem quickly. But it would leave unchanged the danger to the economy which grows out of the tremendous price increase in world oil.

The strengthening of the dollar, while generally cheered, actually is a sign of trouble ahead. Japan and the industrial nations of Europe have got to export more and import less in order to pay for the oil they need. They are looking to the U.S. for a hefty part of the extra change they will need to pay the Arabs.

This doesn't necessarily mean a trade war between the U. S. and its allies and trading partners. But the results will be closely akin to it. As the dollar gains against other currencies, imports by the U. S. will rise, but exports will shrink.

In terms of gross national product (GNP), the total of goods and services produced, U. S. exports account for about 4 percent. This seems small and of little significance. Actually, though, when related to the growth rate, so necessary to provide jobs, they are highly important.

Paul W. McCracken, a former Chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers under President Nixon came up with some figures on this in a recent article in The Wall Street Journal. They are well worth noting in trying to anticipate the impact of the world oil price rise on the economy.

McCracken wrote that while exports "have traditionally been 4 percent of our GNP (in 1972 4.2 percent), the rise in our merchandise exports from the third quarter of 1972 to the third quarter of 1973 was equal to 17 percent of the rise in GNP."

This no doubt was an important factor in cutting employment below 5 percent last year. And, as McCracken points out, the 17 percent figure understates the importance of exports.

He went on to explain that "when we eliminate services from our GNP figures we find that during the year ending with the third quarter of 1973, the rise in our merchandise exports was equal to 31 percent of the rise in our production of goods."

It was in 1973 that U. S. exports showed a strong gain, following formal dollar devaluation, and produced the most significant trade balances in years. The Arab oil price rises can turn this picture around.

Japan is extremely hard hit by the higher oil prices. She produces only 11 percent of the energy she uses and is dependent on petroleum imports for the rest. Of her exports, about 31.5 percent flow to the U. S. And she buys 24.9 percent of her imports from the U. S.

To pay for her oil now,

Japan has got to boost her exports, relative to imports. Her currency, as well as most other currencies, has already dropped in relation to the dollar. In time, this will mean that goods from Japan will be cheaper in the U.S. But U. S. goods will cost more in Japan.

It's the same story with the European countries. France set her franc free to float. It has lost value against the dollar. France has been one of the leaders in insisting on fixed relationships between currencies. But this didn't keep her from quick action aimed at helping her own exchange position.

President Nixon has invited the major oil importing nations to a Washington conference next month. The conference was called about oil. But there isn't much that can be done in the way of pressuring the Arabs.

What is needed is discussion on how the importing countries can manage their domestic economies to avoid recession, with wild inflation. The conference will afford this.

One of the specialties in Mrs. Leite's store is a versatile stock of powders, in commercially printed boxes, for casting spells of love, jealousy, peace or disunity. On other shelves are paperback prayer books and ritual manuals that cost around $3 each.

Mass-produced "miraculous holy medals" come in slickly printed four-color covers that say the patent is pending. The recommended retail price is $2.50.

More old-fashioned items in the store include pottery contraptions for burning rosemary, rue and other herbs.

Shelves of Umbanda saints — painted plaster figurines — include St. George on a white horse, Indians White Feather and Seven Arrows, Buddha, and Jesus. Prices are $1, $3 and $4, depending mainly on the size.

Hanging over the saints and herb burners are traditional voodoo necklaces of shells, tusks and carved wood. Beside them are more modern necklaces of bright red, yellow and blue plastic beads.

SOMEDAY WE MAY THANK HIM!

John Belk Admits He's Pondering Senate Race

By JOHN KILGO

Charlotte mayor John M. Belk is absolutely taking a long, hard look at becoming a Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate.

Most people, including this reporter, thought it was ridiculous when Bob Scott mentioned Belk's name as a possible Senate candidate. But after talking with Belk this week, I'm convinced he's going to examine his chances very seriously.

"People have been calling for two or three months indicating that I should run," Belk said. "I did nothing to get the talk started. Bob Scott wrote me two months ago and said my name was being mentioned in Burlington as a possible candidate. It's open to what I'll do."

Belk says a lot of people believe the next U.S. Senator should come from the West or the Piedmont, since Sen. Jesse Helms is from the East. Democratic candidate Robert Morgan is also from the East.

"I'd say a lot of people want the next Senator to come from another section of the state," Belk said. "North Carolina has operated like that for 75 years."

Why would people be talking about Belk as a candidate for the Senate?

"I guess," he said, "because I'm mayor of the state's largest city and I'm a businessman. With inflation and all the shortages, it looks like we need some good businessmen up there."

Belk has lived in Charlotte all of his life. He is president of Belk stores and has a mint of money. His campaigns for mayor of Charlotte have found him to be a good candidate when he speaks to small groups, but he has trouble with public speaking. That would be a king-size problem in a state-wide race.

"I think Bob Morgan and Henry Hall Wilson are both fine gentlemen," Belk said. "You have to admire them for being willing to run. Most people just want to gripe but aren't willing to serve."

When will Belk make his decision about the Senate? "Soon as I find out exactly what kind of support I have," he said. "My wife and daughter are for me, but I need plenty of support."

Does Belk feel President Nixon should be impeached? "I don't know anything to impeach him on at this point," he replied.

You can look for a couple of things to happen in the Senate race. First, Robert Morgan's campaign will be centered around the theme that he's a Democrat who could beat the Republicans in the fall. Morgan's campaign manager, Charles Winberry, has already started hitting on that.

Andy you can look for Henry Hall Wilson to go on the offensive real soon. He'll try to picture Morgan as a sectional candidate, and will recall Morgan's leadership in the Speaker Ban controversy at UNC-CH.

A good many political insiders also feel former Congressman Nick Galifianakis will get into the Senate race. Some of Galifianakis' friends are telling the Durham attorney that he could win.

Auto Fatality Investigators Assemble 'Blueprint For Death'

By REX THOMAS

Associated Press Writer MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Blueprints for death...

—A faulty exhaust system sucking deadly carbon monoxide gas into their car as a man and wife and their 14-year-old son head for Florida on vacation...

—A woman driver chatting with friends and swerving suddenly to make a turn on a rain-slick highway...

—A 54-year-old mother still trying to learn to drive on a busy highway in Sunday traffic even though she had failed three times to pass a driving test...

—And a teen-age driver arrested for speeding 90 miles an hour who ignores a slow-down warning and crashes into an oncoming car after traveling another 77 miles in 55 minutes...

Blueprints for death... mechanical failure, inattention behind the wheel, poor judgement and panic, indifference... hidden contributory causes of highway accidents often undetected by overworked wreck investigators.

A family argument... problems at the office... financial worries that claw at the nerves and sometimes transform a normally careful driver into a terrifying highway killer. Excessive speed and liquor are unquestionably the most frequent direct causes of accidents, safety authorities have found, but there may be contributing factors. And state troopers more and more are making in-depth investigations to find out what they are.

In some states, teams of medical examiners, psychologists and civil engineers work with wreck investigators to look for patterns of conduct, dangerous road conditions, highway death traps.

Alabama's Public Safety Director E. C. Dothard says his department has neither the funds for fullscale background investigation nor the manpower.

"But we will benefit from the findings in the other states," he says, "and maybe we can contribute something in another field."

For the moment, Gov. George C. Wallace has ordered highway authorities to concentrate on death trap elimination, using federal revenue sharing money to pay the costs.

Computerized statistics pinpoint the danger zones... the deadly highway intersections, narrow bridges, sharp curves... where fatal accidents occur most frequently.

Alabama undertook a pilot program of in-depth wreck investigation several years ago, probing into the background of every fatal highway accident.

It was abandoned because it was too time-consuming and the officers were needed for more urgent duties. No funds were available to hire extra investigators.

But the results were revealing. This is what four background investigations brought out:

—Sunday afternoon, the sun shining brightly. But corn growing tall in a field obscured the visibility where a county road cut across a heavily traveled major highway. The driver of a small car ignored or failed to see three warning markers and a stop sign and went through the intersection and into the path of another car, killing himself, his wife and son. A blood test showed the wife suffering from a 50 per cent carbon monoxide saturation, and an investigator said the driver also could have been groggy from the poisonous fumes, clouding his judgment and causing him to overlook the danger signs.

—Three women returning home from an out-of-town shopping trip, chatting as their car slogged through a heavy rain, buffeted by gusty winds. Almost missing the turnoff, the driver swerved, sending the car spinning into the path of a huge tractor-trailer truck. A passenger in the back seat was crushed to death in the twisted metal of the car.

—Another Sunday on a highway jammed with weekend travelers. After flunking her driver's test three times, a middle-aged woman was still trying to learn, her son as her instructor. Trying to adjust the rear-view mirror, she let the car run off the road. Then when her son tried to bring it under control, she panicked, jerked the steering wheel out of his hand, sent the car into a skid, colliding with another automobile. A teen-age girl in the other car was killed. An investigator wondered why the woman was still able to get a learner's permit after failing three times to pass the driver's test.

—A state trooper arrested an 18-year-old youth for speeding 90 miles an hour, gave him a ticket, warned him to slow down. It was getting dark and starting to rain. The youth ignored the warning. Fifty-five minutes later, after traveling another 77 miles, he swerved sharply to miss a car ahead and crashed head on into another automobile, killing two occupants of that car. The young driver said he had not been arrested for any traffic violation "in about a year." The background investigation turned up the speeding ticket he had been given earlier that day.

N.C. D.A.'s Oppose Pretrial Criminal Procedure Bill

Chief District Attorney Eli Bloom said Friday that the North Carolina District Attorneys Association has urged state legislators to oppose the Pretrial Criminal Procedure Bill now before the General Assembly.

According to Bloom, prosecutors in the state recognize that the efforts of the Criminal Code Commission, which drafted the bill "were directed in good faith towards attempting to arrive at a fair balance between protecting the individual rights of criminal defendants and protecting the rights of the public to safety, security and proper efficient enforcement" of the criminal laws.

"Perhaps more than any other group in this state," he continued, "we are aware of the need for a modernized criminal justice system, but we ask at what cost shall we have new procedures which are not constitutionally required:

Bloom said after reviewing the proposed legislation, "and more significantly the proposed amendments to it," prosecutors "do not believe that the bill in its total effect will improve our criminal procedures.

"In fact," he emphasized, "we believe quite the contrary, that the total effect of the bill will be to expand the rights of criminal defendants far beyond the requirements of both the constitutions of the United States and North Carolina, and "undermine decisions" of higher courts "which have defined the limitations upon the criminal defendant's rights."

The proposed bill, the prosecutor explained "unreasonably expands" the rights of the criminal defendant "at the expense of the public's rights." He noted too, that "this bill will greatly increase the personnel and costs necessary to administer our criminal justice system."

Bloom added, "we feel this bill will . . . protect criminal defendants in ways not contemplated by the Commission and far exceeding what true justice demands. . . that this bill is too much too soon, and we hope that we, and ultimately the public, will not be underrepresented in the General Assembly.

The district attorney noted, "no district attorney in this state suggests that North Carolina should do less than the law of the land requires in protecting the rights of criminal defendants, but we sincerely urge the General Assembly not to sacrifice the rights of the public to safety and security upon the altar in the name of reforms which . . . can benefit only the criminal defendant by insulating him further from even-handed justice than any existing constitution requires or any case decision yet uttered demands."

Pointing to several features of the proposed legislation, Bloom said the bill severely limits law enforcement officers in their ability to stop persons for investigation, "among other things by providing for a 20 minute limitation in the stop and frisk situation by expressly permitting a suspect to refuse to identify himself. . . and in cases of search and seizure by consent."

Bloom said the proposed bill "imposes stricter standards for questioning suspects than those imposed by the United States Supreme court" in the famous Miranda case, and noted that "while there is no constitutional right to bail after conviction" the new bill "requires judges to grant bail to all convicted defendants. . . except those defendants sentenced to life imprisonment or death.

"Remarkably, as to this last group," Bloom emphasized, "a judge may in his discretion grant bail," under the proposed legislation, the prosecutor said.

Bloom, who said because there are a number of other sections of the bill which the prosecutors feel would aid criminal defendants at the expense of the public, "the total impact of this bill is not in the public interest. "We urge its defeat."

Good Voting-Attendance Marks

By STEPHEN THOMAS
WASHINGTON—North Carolina's eleven House members all achieved better than 90 percent voting-attendance marks in the 1973 session of Congress. Leading the list was Rep. Earl

Ruth (R-8). In a survey compiled by Roll Call Report for They Daily Reflector, Ruth was shown as present and voting on 99 percent of the 541 record votes held in the House in 1973. In the Senate, Sen. Jesse Helms (R) had a 95 percent voting-attendance record. Sen. Sam Ervin (D) voted "yea" or "nay" on 84 percent of the upper chamber's 594 roll call votes in 1973. Here is the listing for the entire North Carolina House delegation: Reps. Ruth, 99 per cent; Roy Taylor (D-11), 98 per cent; James Martin (R-9) and David Henderson (D-3), 97 per cent; James Broyhill (R-10) and Richardson Preyer (D-6), 96 per cent; L. H. Fountain (D-2) and Charles Rose (D-7), 95 per cent; Wilmer Mizell (R-5), 93 per cent and Ike Andrews (D-4) and Walter Jones (D-1), 92 per cent. The survey did not cover quorum calls, and counted a member as present and voting only if he or she cast a positive or negative vote on the call of the roll. Virtually all absences were the result of a member not being on the floor of the House or Senate.

According to the office of the Clerk of the House, the 541 record votes were the most the House has conducted in a single year. In 1972 the House had 329 recorded votes, and in 1971 there were 321.

The Senate also had a substantially higher number of record votes last year. Its total of 594 was the highest one-year volume of the Twentieth Century. In 1972 the Senate had 532 recorded votes, and in 1971 there were 423.

Efficiency in layout and traffic pattern result in airy rooms and desirable extras in this mid-size design. Within its 1480 square feet of living area, the "Stonegate" outlines three bedrooms, two baths, firelit living room, formal dining room and family room.

Entry is directly into the 20-foot living room, where a wood-burning fireplace issues the initial welcome. Raised hearth and built-in shelves accent one entire wall of the living room, which adjoins the formal dining room. For enjoyable meals, the dining room opens to a roofed terrace via sliding glass doors. Bordering kitchen and family room comprise a work and play center, with laundry center housed within the compact kitchen. The family room is well-placed to draw family activity and is convenient to outside and basement entrances. Bedrooms are placed to the right of the "Stonegate," and stairways and hallways help buffer noises and preserve privacy. Each of the three bedrooms is substantial and replete with closet space, and the master bedroom enjoys a full bath with shower, also open to the family room for convenience. Another full bath and linen closet complete the sleeping area. Storage problems will be handled with ease by the large full basement, and the double garage merits an entrance to the terrace.

APPRECIABLE LIVING SPACE IS DUE TO CAREFUL PLANNING IN THIS MODERATE THREE BEDROOM DESIGN.

Metals which contain iron are subject to rust. Commercially made metal products sold to the general public are coated with some kind of rust-inhibiting material, but when even a tiny portion of this coating wears off or is knocked off, rust takes over.

It is because rust spreads that it is necessary to take immediate action to remove or control it. A piece of outdoor metal furniture, for instance, may have developed a bare spot no larger than a dime. Ignore it and it will become rusty. Continue to ignore it and it will spread even if the remainder of the object is completely painted. That's because rust moves underneath the paint until it gets such a secure hold that it dislodges the outer coating.

To prevent rust, therefore, it is essential that metal be covered with some substance that prevents air and moisture from attacking it. These coatings can be paint, oils, primers, waxes, silicones, greases, varnishes, lacquers and at least a dozen other products. Once any part of that coating is no longer there, it should be replaced at once. And that doesn't mean the next day, since even a few hours can permit rust to take hold, especially outdoors in damp weather.

Once rust has made an appearance, it should be removed quickly. This can be done with steel wool, emery cloth or any abrasive, used alone or in conjunction with one of the many rust-removing liquids and jellies on the market. Since these latter products are chemicals, it is important that they be used exactly according to instructions on the containers.

Where possible, it is best to get down to the bare metal before repainting or recoating. Sometimes this is not practical, in which case all loose rust particles should be removed, preferably with a wire brush. After that, use one of the rust-inhibiting primers and then a rust-inhibiting paint made by the same manufacturer. These paints now come in various colors.

Applying powdered graphite or a similar product to the inner workings of an outdoor lock will prevent rust as well as keeping the mechanism in good shape. This can be done by blowing graphite into the lock from a squeeze container. Oiling the lock is not generally recommended because of the possibility that it may become gummy and sticky when it dries.

Q — I have never painted a room in my life, but expect to take the plunge soon. I have read that brushes used with oil paint can be suspended in turpentine if they are to be used again within a few hours or the next day. How can this be done without the bristles touching the bottom of the container and getting bent?

A — There are several ways. One of the most popular is to drill a hole through the wooden handle and run a wire through the hole so that it can be placed on two sides of the can or pail or jar. Put only enough turpentine or mineral spirits in the container for most of the bristles to be covered. Another good method is to use one of the small metal clips sold in most hardware and paint stores. It fits on the edge of the can and holds the brush in place so that the bristles do not reach the bottom.

Q — I bought some wood stain the other day after selecting the right color from a wood sample the dealer had on hand. When I applied it to the object I was staining, it came out a lot darker. Why don't the dealers use a sample that shows the true color?

A — The samples used by the dealer show the true colors of the stain on the particular pieces of wood being used. But stains take differently on different kinds of wood, although the general color is similar. What the user must do is to test the stain on a scrap piece of the same wood he is using in the project. If it is too dark, he knows that he must wipe it immediately after applying it to bring it to a lighter shade. If it is too light, he must leave it on somewhat longer. In other words, the intensity of the stain can be regulated by the amount of time it is left on the wood before being wiped.

Another method of regulation that is used with an oil stain is to add a little turpentine to make it lighter.

Q — Some months ago we had two of the rooms in our house painted. I kibitzed a bit and noticed that the painter mixed vinegar with the water he used in making plaster for a wall patch. I didn't think about it at the time, but now that I have to do some plaster patching I wonder why he used vinegar in the mixture.

A — The vinegar was used to prevent the patching plaster from hardening too quickly. With most types of spackling compound, however, the drying time need not be retarded. Read the directions on the package of the product you use.

Be Prepared For An Emergency

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

How good is your Emergency I.Q.?

A lot of families were put to that test recently when they were deprived of heat, light and water, many for as many as five or more days during an east coast ice storm.

They didn't exactly fail the test. They found coping with an emergency can be an exercise in frustration. You can know what to do about almost everything that has happened, but you may be stymied by conditions beyond your control.

You may also know that your fireplace going, but you may not trust it, if it has not been serviced recently. Lots of people had to get their fireplaces started after long disuse, and they were skeptical all the time. Many were afraid to leave the fireplace for a minute. Others left them and had fires. In one community at least one unoccupied house burned.

Everyone knows he should keep his firewood (like his powder) dry. But many people were caught with woodpiles hundreds of yards from their houses (at points where they had sawed down trees). Some had to use crowbars and axes to dislodge ice-laden logs, laboriously lug the logs over the icy ground to their house, and then try to dry them at the hearth before using them.

There were people who were fond of talking about the ice storm they had experienced 20 years before and how when they saw the storm approaching they had filled many jars with drinking water, and bathrooms with water for washing dishes, cooking and flushing, and how they had made enormous stews so food could be reheated at the fireplace, if necessary.

After all the talk, two decades later, even as they watched ice build up heavily on the trees and the lights flicker, they never thought about making such preparations this time. Many didn't run to stores either for the candles, kerosene, flashlights, they knew might be needed. And when they did, the stocks were depleted.

Some lucky types latched on to generators and these provided power and comfort, but in at least one instance, the family suffered more when the power actually returned — the generator was still on, the power rushed to it and all the electric wiring in the house burned out.

People slept at their fireplaces and kept candles burning under sink pipes. Others complained that the cold eventually went right to their bones no matter how many knitted caps, scarves, sweaters, pants and stockings were worn with boots, so husbands bustled children and wives to motels. Men stuck by chimneys, alternately dozing and putting wood on the fire. But soon they discovered a fireplace is really an illusion — most of the heat stays inside the hearth.

When the thaw came, frozen food that had been taken to local store freezers was still safe, but much food was stored outdoors and it thawed.

One woman returned from work to see all the windows and doors open in her house.

"Come in out of the warm," her husband said. Indoors it was 20 degrees cooler. When the power returned, the good efforts of many people had been in vain. Well-insulated houses stood the test best. But for many people the return of heat meant bursting pipes, cracked bathroom fixtures, falling ceilings, broken plaster walls, water-damaged furnishings. Even pipes that had been drained had water trapped in some areas.

Plumbers reported as many as 400 people waiting for service. In one town, church parishioners banded to help repair pipes. At least one family had a ceiling fall on their dinner after they thought they had solved everything.

Looking around their rooms to assess the damage, a lot of do-it-yourselfers are rolling up their sleeves. It'll be a big season for plastering, painting, wallpapering in some homes.

But with an optimism typical of old pioneers, in one town the going remark for some is, "Next time we are going to be organized." Others are looking at Florida house advertisements.

The Garden Clinic

N.C. State University Answers Timely Gardening Questions

Q. I've heard there are white cucumbers. Is this true? (G.M., Shelby)

A. Yes. The most prominent variety is called "white wonder" and is available from many local garden seed dealers. (George Hughes, extension horticulturist)

Q. What is the best variety of strawberries to plant in this area? (L. L., Fuquay-Varina)

A. Apollo, a new variety has been excellent in this area of the state. Atlas, Albritton, Earlibelle and Sunrise are also very good. In one sense of the word there is no "best" variety. In certain years one variety may be exceptional while in other years another variety may be best depending upon the season, rainfall, temperature, etc. (Joe Brooks, extension horticulturist)

mealy-bug attack. During the summer, sink the pot outside in light shade, and syringe and water regularly. As the plant grows and matures, lower branches will droop. If the entire plant wilts, you have either overwatered or given too much fertilizer—with perhaps not enough light and too much heat. Stimulants are not called for when plants droop. Grow in a humus-rich mix of soil. Water enough to keep damp but not waterlogged. Fertilize every four months with a balanced house plant fertilizer. Grow in a relatively small pot, shifting to a larger size only when roots begin to crowd the pot. (Henry J. Smith, extension landscape horticulturist)

Charles Bent, the first American governor of the territory of New Mexico, was assassinated in Taos, Jan. 19, 1847.

Q. Please tell me how to care for a Norfolk Island pine. (Mrs. F. J., High Point)

A. Norfolk Island Pine (Aracaria excelsa) has a misleading name for it is not winter-hardy outdoors, as are true pines. The Norfolk Island Pine makes an excellent house plant, although it is a bit slow-growing. During the winter, keep the plant at 55 to 60 degrees in a room of even light. Spray regularly to prevent spider and

KNOW YOUR ZONING

In a nutshell, zoning laws lay out restrictions as to what kind of buildings may be constructed and how they can be used within certain geographic limits. A good community has zoning laws that protect its homeowners. However, they may also put a crimp into future remodeling plans you have in mind.

For example, if the area is zoned for one-family homes, you may not be able to use a part of the house for some special use, such as converting an area for an apartment for a family member or rental or using a part of the house for an office or partly for business. There may be height restrictions or lot-size limitations.

Before buying, you should know what the zoning is, and the geographic limits of residential and business-zoned areas in your locality. It may affect the future value of your property and save you from an unexpected disappointment.

WASTE NOT

... and save money this winter on your utility bills

If you use this checklist, you will probably find a way to eliminate waste and save money on your utility bills:

- Turn off heat in unused rooms.
- Insulate exterior walls, ceilings and floors
- Insulate heating ducts when exposed to unheated spaces. Insulate hot water pipes that pass through cold spaces.
- Wear sweaters and warm clothing while indoors.
- Turn off unused lights, particularly in unheated rooms.
- Have heating equipment checked annually to make sure it is operating efficiently.
- Change heating filters as soon as they get dirty.
- Install storm windows and doors.
- Seal all cracks by weather stripping and caulking.
- Let the sunshine in. Keeping shades up and draperies open during the day helps heat your home. At night, close them for added insulation.
- Keep chimney dampers closed or block off fireplaces when not in use.
- Turn the thermostat down. Please do it now.
- Turn the heating thermostat down an extra 5 degrees at night.
- When away from home for 24 hours or more, turn your thermostat down to its lowest setting, ideally 52 degrees.

Debby Chose Sailing For Her Career

By ARTHUR FREDERICK CASTINE, Maine (UPI) — Debby Doan finished four years at the University of Vermont with a degree in chemistry. Then she began work delivering sailboats from Lake Champlain to customers in Florida.

The job lasted two years. Now Debby is at the Maine Maritime Academy—the only female among 500 male midshipmen at the school.

"I wanted to work professionally on the sea," Debby said. "There's no money in those private deals; it's much better with the shipping companies."

Applying to Maine Maritime wasn't meant as any kind of statement on women's rights, Debby said. She simply wanted to go to sea.

Lifelong Sailor

"The school was worried that I was doing it strictly as a women's lib thing," she said. "But I definitely wasn't."

Maine Maritime gave Debby credit for 53 hours of work at the University of Vermont, and she entered in early January as a second-semester sophomore. "I'm just taking the professional courses," she said.

Debby comes from Essex, Conn., at the mouth of the Connecticut River. "I've been sailing all my life. My whole family sails. But I've never been on a big ship."

The school had never had a woman apply before Debby. They were willing to admit women, but had never had to consider it before.

Future Third Mate

"They've given me a separate apartment, and there are dorms for the 500 boys," she said. "The commandant told me he'd have thrown me in with the boys if he could have."

At first there was some worry that jobs might not be available to a woman, but that difficulty seems to have solved itself.

"The school was afraid that no company would be ready for a woman," she said. "But they've already heard from one company who's interested in me, so it may not be as much trouble as they thought."

Debby will be a third mate when she graduates, and she can expect a starting salary of $15,000 to $16,000 per year.

Seniors Are Sour

Some of the male students seem unsure whether they want a woman student on campus. Debby said she heard some comments from seniors last fall when she visited the school.

"I got some comments, stuff like, 'Don't tell me you're coming here next year, I'm glad I'm graduating'. Nothing serious," she said.

"But they didn't know I was coming in January," Debby said. "Now I'll have a chance to get back."

Noise Level Is Doubling

NEW YORK (UPI) — Noise levels in the United States have doubled in some cities during the last 10 years and reached a disturbing peak area 64 times higher than 15 years ago, according to a survey report.

Family Health noted that in addition to causing hearing loss, high noise levels have been connected with home accidents and emotional disorders.

The magazine said a recent study made in Knoxville, Tenn. showed 32.9 per cent of persons between the ages of 16 and 21 showed hearing loss caused by excessive noise. Another study made by UCLA reported "a high rate of emotional disturbance and hearing loss, and numerous fights" among students in schools near the Los Angeles International Airport.

Family Health gave these tips on reducing home noise levels:

"Cover floors with noise-absorbing materials.

"Hang heavy drapes over windows that are closest to outside noise sources.

"Put rubber or plastic treads on all uncarpeted stairs to absorb footsteps.

"Place window air conditioners where their hum will mask other objectionable noises."

Miss Hardison, an assistant professor of English at East Carolina University, is the author of "Language Arts and the Elementary School Teacher," to be published by Kyndall-Hunt in the spring. This is her second term as membership chairman for Pitt County.

JANICE HARDISON

Miss Hardison represents Pitt County on the State Democratic Executive Committee and serves on the Guided Studies Advisory Board at Beaufort County Technical Institute.

The 1974 season for "The Lost Colony" opens June 21 and runs through August 31. This will be the 34th production season for Pulitzer Prize-winner Paul Green's symphonic drama which has been acclaimed as "the first and still the best of the outdoor dramas."

WINNIPEG BALLET TOURS 'NUTCRACKER'

WINNIPEG (AP)—The National Touring Office of the Canada Council has told the Royal Winnipeg Ballet that the company will receive $50,000 to present "The Nutcracker" in five cities in late January and during February.

The cities are Vancouver, Calgary, Edmonton, Regina and Saskatoon. Two tractor trailers will transport the scenery, which was designed and built in Germany, supervised by Jurgen Rose. Choreography is by John Neumeier.

CELEBRATES DEAD ARTISTS

VIENNA (AP)—The 1974 Vienna Festival, May 25 to June 23, will celebrate eight artists.

Among events to be honored are the 150th birthday of Anton Bruckner, the 100th birthdays of Arnold Schoenberg and Franz Schmidt and the 25th anniversary of the death of Hans Pfitzner.

Other milestones to be commemorated with exhibitions will be the 250th birthday of Franz Anton Maulpertsch, baroque painter, and, in the literary field, the 100th birthday of Karl Kraus and the 50th anniversaries of the deaths of Franz Werfel and Franz Kafka.

The North Carolina Dance Theatre announces that Duncan Noble, choreographer and associate director of the Dance Theatre has received a grant from the National Endowment for the Arts in Washington, D. C. for the production of his new ballet based on Shakespeare's The Tempest.

The North Carolina Arts Council has also approved a grant to assist in the production of the ballet which will have its premiere Tuesday, January 29 at 7:30 p.m. at the Roanoke Civic Center, Roanoke, Virginia.

The Tempest, approximately fifty minutes in length, is choreographed to the tone poem of the same name by Tchaikovsky, and supplemented by other Tchaikovsky music.

Costumes and sets are designed by William Ivey Long, a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill, and a master's degree candidate at Yale University's graduate theatre department.

Lighting for the production is designed by Nananne Porcher, a member of Jean Rosenthal Associates, and lighting designer for American Ballet Theatre.

With its feeling of magic and theatrical effects, The Tempest was created for young people, but like traditional story ballets, it appeals to all ages.

A Photographic Survey Across North Carolina

The Goodliest Land North Carolina. Text by Nancy Roberts, photographs by Bruce Roberts. 1973 New York, Doubleday and Co., Inc., 176 pps, $9.95.

Pictures of outstanding quality which show places and people throughout the Tar Heel State are an integral part of The Goodliest Land North Carolina.

With photographs by Bruce Roberts and text by his wife, Nancy, the book covers North Carolina from its sandy beaches to its lofty mountains.

The chapter entitled North Carolina's Woman Country Doctor, tells of Josephine Newell of Bailey, provides interesting readability, as does the chapters, "Passing of the General Store" and "The Dreaming Miller."

Chapters devoted to the eastern area of the state tell of its heritage and changes in the towns and cities. Descriptions of the Outer Banks and their wild beauty, the state's living Williamsburg (Edenton) and early life in Raleigh are also very noteworthy.

Of special interest was the molasses making in the southern highlands, by Eckard Murray. Again, apt description. And by adding a little imagination, one could easily become a part of the happy events of the day of the cane cutting and cooking, perhaps even to the point of slipping a taste of the cooking syrup.

The book is interspersed with legends abounding on the Outer Banks concerning the five-master "Carroll A" to the fascinating magic lake, Ataga'hi, in the Great Smoky Mountains.

Tribute is paid to poet-writer Sam Ragan, Appalachian novelist and poet John Foster West, and Dr. Cratis Williams, an expert on the folklore of the mountains.

North Carolina is a diverse land, one of sharp contrast, and surprises, of regions that have little in common—the qualities of its people are often as unexpected as the contours of the state.

The conclusion of the book is dedicated to a thought-provoking chapter—"Can We Keep The Goodliest Land?"

Weasels, Otters, Skunks and Their Family. By Dorothy Hinshaw Patent. Illustrated by Matthew Kalmenoff. New York, Holiday House, 1973. 94 pps, $4.95

All too often, books on animals for young people tend to be cast in a sentimental viewpoint. This approach has been avoided by Dorothy Patent in straightforward, naturalistic writing that is as taut and lean as the Mustelid family she writes about. By concentrating on one specific family—the Mustelid family comprises badgers, otters, weasels, skunks, and the mink, marten, sable, fisher, polecat and wolverine—Dr. Patent has been able to enrich her observations on these animals with comparisons of basic characteristics and variations of these characteristics.

In saying this is a book on animals for young people, the statement needs to be qualified. Actually, Weasels, Otters, Skunks and Their Family is written with intelligent simplicity that makes the book equally enjoyable for a perceptive ten year old or the adult who enjoys reading about the life habits of animals.

Woven into the author's descriptive narrative of the animals life cycle are low keyed warnings that man still continues to endanger the chances of survival of some of the animals. Mercifully, the author is not a writer to be counted among over zealous crusaders. She presents both sides of the coin, showing that in some instances the influence of man has resulted in the proliferation of certain animals, in itself not always a desirable result.

The author's story telling thrust is directed where it belongs—in revealing to the reader the mating, hunting, eating, playing, and roaming habits of the Mustelid family. With the exception of the slow Striped Skunk, who cannot climb trees, and the lumbering badgers, the Mustelids are characterized by their lean muscled grace, constant alertness and boundless energy. These appealing attributes, plus the commercial value of many of the family for their desirable furs, has long drawn man's attention to these animals.

The range in physical sizes of animals in the Mustelid family is a clue to the intriguing differences that have evolved in one family over the ages. The smallest member, the least weasel, normally measures about six inches, including its tail and weighs in at two ounces. At the other end of the scale, the wolverine male tips the scale at 60 pounds, and a healthy male sea otter will weigh as much as 80 pounds.

This range in size is parallel to an astonishing spectrum of variations in adaptability, reproductive processes and defensive mechanisms in which family similarities can still be detected.

It is this fascinating story that Dr. Patent keeps vividly alive for the reader. The animals she writes about are real creatures, inhabiting our earth, living, loving, and fighting for survival.

Matthew Kalmenoff's pencil drawings illustrating the book are splendid portraits, capturing the light and shadow of fur and muscles and the structural beauty of these animals more tellingly than any photograph could ever hope to do.

Dr. Patent, her husband, Dr. Gregory Patent of the ECU Biology Department and their two sons, David and Jason, formerly lived in Greenville before moving to Missoula, Montana. While living here, Dr. Patent was active in the Greenville Writers Club. A zoologist-writer who has had several papers published in scientific journals, Weasels, Otters, Skunks and Their Family is her first book.

Muskrats that have been forced into a solitary life are the ones most likely to be victims of hungry minks.

By KAY TAYLOR

Most children at some time during their early life dream of being or at least meeting movie and television stars. Some never give up their dream. One of these, Shirley Eder, made her dream come true by becoming a journalist. Today she is one of Hollywood and Broadway's hottest columnists. Although living in Detroit, she manages to keep abreast of all the latest happenings in the theater and movies. In her new book, Not This Time Cary Grant, she relates dozens of stories about her connections with famous personalities. Among her acquaintances are Liz Taylor, Richard Burton, Genger Rogers, Dustin Hoffman, Cary Grant, Tricia Nixon Cox, Barbra Streisand, and dozens of others. Her stories include humorous moments, embarrassing moments, sad times and happy times as she gives the reader glimpses into the personalities of these famous people.

The search for self, for meaning and fulfillment in life is a search every individual must make. For some the search ends in a rewarding, satisfying life. For others the search is futile, their lives remain meaningless and they simply exist year after year. Still others end their search abruptly by taking their lives. Such was the case of Janis Joplin, dead at twenty-seven from a overdose of heroin. Janis Joplin, a lonely woman living a suicidal life, gathering for herself fame and fortune as one of the most famous rock singers of the sixties, never found the fulfillment she was seeking. Occasional happiness was hers but never deep contentment. Myra Friedman tells the story in Buried Alive, a biography of Janis Hoplin.

Can you imagine washing your hair in the sink at a dentist's office? Betty Leslie-Melville can, because that is exactly what she did once when her lecture schedule was so filled that there was simply no other time for her to get the task done. She and her husband Jock spend three months a year touring the United States giving lectures and interviews. The rest of the year they live in Nairobi, Kenya where they operate photographic safaris. Occasionally they retreat to their house on the Indian Ocean to write books about their experiences both at home and on tour. Their new book, There's A Rhino In The Rose Bed, Mother, has many humorous pages, but is not entirely lighthearted.

Limited Collector's Edition of "Silversmiths of North Carolina"

A Silver Classic In An Expanded Revision

Silversmiths of North Carolina 1696-1850. By George Barton Cutten, revised by Mary Reynolds Peacock. Raleigh. Dept. of Cultural Resources, Div. of Archives and History. 1973. xxvi plus 142 pps, illustrated, $15.00

Collectors of antique silver or persons who simply enjoy the pursuit of regional historical subjects will be pleased to know that the 1948 book by the late Dr. George Barton Cutten has been updated and expanded by Mary Reynolds Peacock.

Following the general format of the original paperback publication, the revised 1973 edition is considerably expanded. Particularly noteworthy is the inclusion of 87 illustrations as compared to 29 in the original. As would be expected, photographs in the new edition are larger and clearer. There is also added a three page listing of apprentice silversmiths.

Dr. Cutten's pioneer work of a quarter century ago remains the basic framework of Mrs. Peacock's extensively researched revision (in which she received assistance from a number of interested and informed persons).

In any highly specialized work, such as this book, its chief value admittedly depends on practical and accurate information provided for scholar, researcher or collector.

There's a secondary yet important criteria, however, that can be applied in evaluating a specialized publication. That is, its appeal to the non-specialist as a source of interesting and informative sidelights on people and events.

Silversmiths of North Carolina admirably meets both criteria. As a reference book, it is comprehensive and compact. The abundant illustrations provide visual details needed by a reader concerned with identifying or comparing pieces of silver. Of authenticated pieces of silver extant from the some 150 year period covered in this volume, spoons are the most plentiful. But there are other items—a cape clasp, silver services, snuff boxes, a gorget, a magnificent silver cup, and even a woman's silver tobacco pipe.

In respect to the secondary criteria of evaluation mentioned, Silversmiths of North Carolina contains a treasure of provocative—though all too brief—glimpses into the lives and times of Tar Heels of an earlier day.

There's mention in the introduction, for example, of trade between the Carolinas and the West Indies, resulting in Spanish and Mexican silver coin being plentiful—in contrast to the preponderance of superior English silver coin coming into northern states.

We learn too something of the system of apprenticeship for young boys and girls who were unfortunate enough to be orphans or deserted children; and realize that the nomadic instinct of Americans has deep roots.

Citing one of the some 40 biographical sketches, we find that Edenton's silversmith John Cleland (also known under the names of Clealand, Claland and Clayland) was undoubtedly something of a rogue despite being a prominent Albemarle area citizen. In 1753, he was taken to court for recovery of blacksmith tools. In 1757, William Luten "complained that John Cleland shot a Negro slave of Luten's named Caesar, wounding him so that he was useless for seven months and was handicapped thereafter..." Then in 1770 a notation informs that Cleland was "taken and put in Jale."

His roughshod character was, happily, not typical of 18th and 19th century Tar Heel silversmiths. Many were bankers in days when banks did not exist, in "a time of frequent robberies and inadequate police protection." Quite often silversmiths used their skills to meet the dental needs of their local clients.

None of these fascinating items are dealt with at length. Rather, they are random nuggets of information to challenge the reader's imagination. The revised edition of Silversmiths of North Carolina 1696-1850 is beautifully produced. In silver cloth with silver lettering and rice paper wrappers, it is limited to 1,000 numbered copies. Like the original 1948 version, (which is a plain gray cover booklet), the revised edition is very likely to become a collector's item. In view of the high price of this edition, it is hoped the Division of Archives and History will take action to reprint this excellent book in a less expensive edition.

Because of new discoveries being made each year in antique North Carolina silver, this edition will eventually need another updating.

Mrs. Reynolds is to be commended for her excellent achievement in this revision. It is obvious the task was for her a labor of love.

Jerry Raynor

Children Need Protection From Teacher Attitudes

By DR. HAIM GINOTT

Note to readers: The encounters depicted in this column are designed to serve as a practical guide to improved communication. They are not to be taken literally. They should be adapted to individual situations and individual ways of speaking.

CHILDREN NEED PROTECTION from the teasing of thoughtless teachers. Like a parent, a teacher must be aware of the impact of his attitudes and words on the lives of children.

For instance: June, 13, came home from school distraught.

Mother: Something upset you? June: Yes. It's my teacher Mr. S. I wish he'd start acting his age. At the beginning of the year I was so surprised to hear him use expressions like "groovy," "cool it," "dig it," "slap me five." I guess he felt insecure and wanted us to like him. But now we're way into the school year and he's still talking like a kid!

Mother: So that's what's bothering you.

June: There's more. He likes me—but he makes me feel uncomfortable. In class, he calls me "June, baby" and "June, love." He could be reading poetry and he'll slip my name in on every line. He once saw me talking to a boy, and said, "June, are you dropping me to go steady with him?" I thought I'd die of embarrassment and I wished that he'd croak!

Mother: I understand. You find your teacher's manner embarrassing. You wish he'd change his attitude. I wonder how this situation can be handled best?

June: I know how to handle it! She went to her room and proceeded to write her teacher the following letter.

"Very often, I leave your class annoyed because I have been teased and made a spectacle of by you. Please respect my feelings and consider my position in this matter. Thank you, June."

The next day, June handed the note to her teacher. He glanced at it and pretended to read it. "Here's a love letter from June," he said. "Dear Mr. S. You are the greatest. You're the best teacher I ever had. I love you, June."

June's face reddened. She protested but the bell rang and the class was dismissed. The teacher left for his next class. "That afternoon, June received a phone call from her teacher. "First, I wish to commend you on the style and content of your letter," he said. "Secondly, I wish to apologize. The only reason I tease you is that I like you. I didn't realize that it bothered you."

This teacher would be more helpful to his students if he "liked" them less and respected them more.

PARENTS NEED TO SUPPORT their children against cynical adults. Sometimes they must take action to counteract a teacher's distrustful approach, as in this instance:

David, 12, was talking during math class. The teacher told him to stay after school. "I have a piano lesson today," answered David, "but I could stay after school tomorrow." The next day

David served his sentence but his teacher said, "You'll have to stay after school an extra day unless you bring a note from home verifying that you had your piano lesson."

"I think he doesn't believe me," complained David to his mother. Mother wrote the following note, "Dear Teacher: This is to certify that David attended his music lesson on Wednesday. I should also like to mention that David's word can be taken at face value."

When David saw the note, his face beamed. "That's good, Mom," he said. "That's really telling him like it is." "It reflects my true feelings about you," Mother replied.

Amish Auctions Held On Monday

By JAMES STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer

MIDDLEFIELD, Ohio (AP) — Mondays are auction days here — quiet community holidays for the rugged Amish farmers who surround this tiny village in Ohio's Geauga County hill country.

Even before the sales get under way, the horse-drawn buggies and wagons dot the narrow roads around Middlefield, slowing the motorized bustle of the 20th century to the bucolic, plodding gait of the Amish.

Auction days are as old as farmers, but when Martha Givan and her husband, Tom, bought the Geauga Livestock Commission in Middlefield 13 years ago, they figured it wouldn't be long until sprawling Cleveland and its suburbs put the weekly sales barn out of business.

"We thought that 10 more years and we'd have no more farms," Mrs. Givan said. "We figured we'd have to convert the building to something else."

They hadn't counted on the tenacity of the Amish. Thirteen years later, the sales are still going strong.

There have been some changes. The flea market outside the sales barn has doubled and redoubled in size, and pale-skinned tourists poke through the merchandise alongside tawny Amish.

Antiques — "junk" to the locals — are the major attractions, although there's an odd assortment of trinket stands, and — on the right Monday — a bookseller sets up his pornographic books and magazine booth.

The auction handles up to 300 head of livestock on an average Monday, although the total rises and falls according to its own market rules.

"Sometimes a farmer will break a leg, and he won't be able to take care of his animals, and he'll bring in his whole farm," Mrs. Givan said. "Sometimes we've peddled an entire dairy herd."

The interest around the auction ring perks visibly in the late afternoon, when the day's quota of horses is led in, sometimes in teams. But lines are already forming at the business office, and trucks as well as horse-drawn wagons are backing up to the rear of the barn to load newly-purchased stock.

The coffee and hamburger crowd in the cafeteria — which often brings in more revenue than the livestock commissions — begins to dwindle, and the flea market outside is gradually dismantled.

"A lot of these farmers are just looking for a place to go," Mrs. Givan says, sipping tea at a cafeteria table. "I guess it's like church or something."

Problems of Overweight

VIENNA (AP) — Some 70 per cent of Austrian women and 40 per cent of Austrian men are overweight.

The Austrian minister of health, Dr. Ingrid Leodolter, who revealed this, said something that most Austrians knew anyway by just watching their waists.

But the minister, a medical doctor, told a recent news conference that being overweight was not only a problem of appearances but a medical problem as well.

She said overweight leads to diabetes, circulatory ailments and eventually to heart attacks. The number of heart attacks has increased as waistlines have expanded.

She said that in 1960 about 8,000 Austrians — of a population of over seven million — suffered heart attacks. The figure had increased to 17,000 by 1971. Diabetes cases increased from 7,500 in 1955 to 16,000 in 1971.

The health minister disclosed these figures while presenting a booklet which gives advice on healthy, nonfattening foods.

Owens' Free Throws Lift Bucs By VMI

REGGIE ON A DRIVE — East Carolina University's Reggie Lee drives in for a basket during the early minutes of the game with Virginia Military Institute last night. Guarding him are John Krovic (22) and Charlie Tyler (33) of VMI. The Pirates nipped the Keydets, 57-55, in the final seconds of play. (Reflector Photo)

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor
Governor James Holshouser visited the East Carolina University Pirates last night, and after seeing them play, he might be a little more inclined to favor a medical school for the university.

In fact, he might see to it that a cardiac specialist sits on the bench, and that an intensive care unit be strategically located in one corner of Minges Coliseum.

For the Pirates pulled out another one, keyed the surprisingly tough Keydets of Virginia Military Institute, 57-55. Neither team played outstanding basketball, but for a while, it certainly looked like the Pirates might not be playing for first place Monday night when they meet Furman University.

But Donnie Owens, who snatched the Keydets just a little over a week ago, did it again last night, hitting four key baskets in the second half, and two clutch free throws with five seconds left to play. Those two shots boosted the Pirates into the two-point edge that won it for them when VMI missed its final shot.

East Carolina shot only 46.9 per cent in the game, including a poor 40.7 per cent in the first half. VMI shot 46-2, but had a fine 57.1 per cent that kept them in the running and in charge most of the second frame.

And although the Bucs were miserable at the free throw line in the first half, they came back with six of seven when they needed them, and that helped them to the win. VMI, meanwhile, after a fine first half, got only two of eight at the stripe, killing them.

The Bucs also dominated the backboards, pulling down 36 individual rebounds. Nicky White led with nine, while Robert Geter picked off eight. VMI got only 19 individual rebounds.

The game was tight all the way. VMI led by as much as six several times in the game, but never by more than four in the late stages. East Carolina was up only by four points once, but they were ahead when it counted, with the clock showing 0:00.

East Carolina jumped into the opening lead and moved out to a four point edge, 6-2. VMI came back with baskets by Will Bynum and John Krovic to tie it up after just under five minutes. A Tom Marsh free throw moved the Bucs back into the lead, but they never led again in the first half.

VMI took the lead as Krovic hit with 14:49 left for an 8-7 edge. David Lester hit two straight to run the VMI lead out to 12, but the Pirates fought back. Nicky White hit from underneath with 9:47 left for a 14-14 tie, but George Borojevich's tap-in put VMI back on top, 16-14. Bynum hit again to extend it to four, and then held that lead until Krovic hit with 5:11 left to make it 24-18, the biggest VMI edge of the half.

East Carolina fought back, pulling to within one at 25-24 on Reggie Lee's jumper, but they couldn't catch up, and trailed, 29-27 at intermission.

VMI shot away again early in the second half, as Krovic hit three straight baskets for the Keydets, running them out to a six-point lead twice, the last time at 35-29 with 16:09 left in the game.

East Carolina fought back, getting a three-point play from Marsh to trim it to 37-36. Owens then hit his first points of the night with 13:34 to go, putting the Pirates ahead.

But VMI fought back into the lead again, as Krovic hit, and Bynum added another for a 41-28 edge.

East Carolina struggled back and White hit on a hook to put the Bucs up, 44-43 with 10:05 showing. Owens hit another jumper for a three-point lead, but again, the Keydets fought back.

Curt Reppart cut it to one, then Borojevich put them back into a 47-46 lead with 8:45 to go. East Carolina tied it on a free throw by Roger Atkinson, but VMI got baskets from Steve Wolf and Reppart to go out by 51-47 with 6:40 to play.

East Carolina got two more free throws from Marsh, cutting the lead to two, and Owens hit from the lane to tie it at 51-51.

The Bucs stole the ball on the inbound, and Owens hit again with 4:34 to go, giving the Pirates a 43-41 lead.

Still, VMI refused to die, as Borojevich hit again to tie it. East Carolina went back ahead on Atkinson's shot from underneath, but again VMI tied it, this time with only 59 seconds to play. Krovic hit the only two free throws of the period for the Keydets to gain the tie.

East Carolina then went to a control offense, waiting for either a perfect shot, or a final one. Owens finally went up for a shot in the lane with five seconds left, but was fouled.

With the pressure on, he sank both, making it 57-55. VMI got one chance for the basket, as Tyler missed a long shot, and the Bucs got the rebound just as the horn sounded.

White led the Pirate scoring with 12 points, while Owens finished with 10, all in the second half.

Krovic led VMI, hitting 20 points to be the game's high scorer.

East Carolina, now 8-6 on the season, and 5-2 in the league, will play host to Furman University on Monday at 8 p.m. in Minges Coliseum with first place riding on the outcome.

The Pirate junior varsity will play an exhibition game with the Football All-Stars at a 5:45 p.m. Preliminary.

Furman Suspends Leonard

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)—Coach Joe Williams of Furman University's Southern Conference basketball team announced Saturday that Fessor Leonard and Michael Hall are under temporary suspension from the squad.

Leonard, 7-1 junior pivotman from Columbus, Ga., is a starter. Hall, a 6-4 junior from Atlanta, is a top substitute. Both were left at Furman's campus in Greenville, S.C., when the squad left there for Saturday night's game at William and Mary.

The team will travel to Greenville, N.C., for a game with East Carolina Monday.

Williams would say only that the suspensions were for "disciplinary reasons."

He said he hopes both men will rejoin the squad for the Feb. 2 home game, which will be against East Carolina.

Leonard is the team's leading scorer with a 16.9 average, and is second in rebounding at an average of 9.1.

Yarborough In Winston Victory

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
RIVERSIDE, Calif. (AP)—Cale Yarborough held off a charging Richard Petty in a final stretch battle Saturday and won the hotly-contested, rain-delayed Winston Western 500-mile stock car race.

Petty, down by as much as 20 seconds with only 15 circuits of the 2.62-mile Riverside Raceway road course left, cut the margin to less than five seconds at the finish. He drove a Dodge.

It was the first major stock car race of the season, and the victory gave the Chevrolet-driving Yarborough an early lead in a drive he will make to win the Grand National Championship of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing.

David Pearson, who will retire his Mercury to a museum in two weeks, finished a distant third after having been in a close battle for the lead much of the way.

Fourth place went to Benny Parsons, the 1973 Grand National titleholder, and fifth to Bobby Allison, both in Chevrolets.

The first 164 miles of the $103,000 event were run last Sunday before being halted by rain. After 3½ half laps under a yellow light slowdown, Saturday's final 335 miles got underway under bleak, overcast conditions.

But the second phase of the race drew a hardy crowd of 32,500—down about 11,000 from a week ago.

Yarborough completed the 500 miles in an elapsed time of 4 hours 58 minutes 20.05 seconds. His average speed was 100.643 miles an hour and his share of the purse was about $15,000.

Yarborough, Petty and Pearson were the only drivers in the same lap at the finish. Allison, who had started the day in front of the 26 survivors from last Sunday, was in contention until his gear box went sour in the final 100 miles. He and Parsons were a full circuit back at the end.

Donnie Allison finished sixth in a Chevrolet, trailed by Garry Bettenhausen in a Matador, Richie Panch in a Chevrolet, Cecil Gordon in a Chevrolet, and Herschel McGriff in a Dodge.

"I played a 'Cool Luke' hand there at the finish," the short, stocky Yarborough said. "I knew Petty was gaining a little bit on me every lap, but my crew people told me on the radio not to lose my cool."

"It's sort of like having an ace in the hole and one up, and letting the other plays out-draw you," added Yarborough, who is a Republican county supervisor in Florence County, S.C.

The NASCAR entourage now heads for Daytona Beach, Fla., to begin preparations for the circuit's richest event, the $200,000 Daytona 500 Feb. 17.

Carolina Stops Maryland Again

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Darrrel Elston, ball-hogging and sharp long range shooting, keyed a second half North Carolina burst that carried the Tar Heels to an 82-73 win over Maryland Saturday in a regionally televised Atlantic Coast Conference basketball game.

Elston, a senior guard, scored 20 points in leading the fourth-ranked Tar Heels to their 13th win of the season against two losses. Maryland, ranked fifth, dropped to 12-3.

The Tar Heels did not shake the Terrapins until midway through the second half. With the score 58-54, Ray Harrison and Walter Davis hit jump shots to give the Tar Heels an eight point lead.

Then Elston stole the ball from Maurice Howard, canned a jump shot, and the Tar Heels were in control.

Elston and Bobby Jones continued to force the Terrapins into turnovers and only cold UNC shooting kept the lead down to 10 points.

With six minutes left, the Tar Heels went into their four-corners stall and their superior depth began to tell.

With the tired Terps, three of whom played the entire game, chasing futilely after them, the rested Tar Heels ran out the clock with their controlled offense.

Elston hit nine of his 11 shots and both of his free throws to lead the Tar Heel scoring, which was shared by nine players. John Lucas also hit for nine goals and 20 points but he took 25 shots to do it.

Rocky Mount Nips Rampants By 54-50

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer
ROCKY MOUNT—A missed personal foul on Rocky Mount All-American Phil Ford with six seconds to go may have caused the Rose High Rampants an upset win over the Gryphons last night.

Rocky Mount just did manage to slip past the Rampants 54-50. The Rampants were more effective from the floor hitting 40 per cent of their shots to 37 per cent for the Gryphons.

Rose also pulled down more rebounds than did Rocky Mount, 32-26. Herb Bynum yanked down 15 for Rose while Ford, playing a lack-luster ballgame led his team with 12.

The game was tied six times and the lead changed hands an even 10. Rose had a chance to go ahead in the last ten seconds of the game as they had the ball in their territory.

Tyrone Taft shot with six seconds to go in the game and drew an obvious foul from Ford. The foul was not called, the shot was missed and Rocky Mount went on to add a free throw and a bucket after the horn by Ford to win it, much to the dismay of all the Rampants.

Rocky Mount surprised Rose by jumping out to a 4-0 lead before a minute had gone by. Baskets by Thomas Lancaster and Jeff Collins set the margin but Bynum hit from outside pulling the Rampants within two after 1:53 had gone by.

Exactly one minute later Bynum sank a jumper from the corner to tie it 4-4. Ford canned a shot to boost the Gryphons back on top 6-4 but Bynum scored twice for Rose giving them their first lead of the night 8-6.

After swapping baskets Collins added a free throw and Doug Henly a field goal giving Rocky Mount the lead again.

With 41 seconds left in the period Taft scored from 20 feet giving the Rampants a 12-11 lead as the quarter ended.

Collins hit for Rocky Mount but Macon Moye matched the bucket for Rose as the lead went back to the Rampants 14-13.

Jarvis Moore and Collins sank jumpers as Rocky Mount got the lead back and they held onto it for the remainder of the half.

Joe Wright scored for the Rampants pulling them within one, 17-16. After swapping points Rocky Mount dumped in seven quick ones to get their biggest lead so far 26-18 with 1:54 left in the half.

Wright and Lynwood Brown scored around a free throw by Ford cutting the gap to five as the half ended, 27-22.

The Rampants still had a lot to say. They came out in the third quarter and on baskets by Ronnie Barrett, Moye, and Taft passed the Gryphons 28-27 with 6:05 remaining on the clock.

Collins got the lead back for Rocky Mount on a pair of free throws and the Gryphons added another field goal.

Rose fought back as Bynum and Moye scored getting the lead back for Rose. Again the lead changed hands as Ford scored from the base line, 33-32 with 2:47 left in the quarter.

Ford hit three more baskets in the quarter and his team-mates added four more points to take a 43-38 advantage into the last frame.

Randy VanSerdan dropped in a layup to close to three but Rocky Mount countered and managed to stay ahead until, with 2:49 left, buckets by Moye and Taft tied it 48-48.

Joe Jones sank a pair of free throws to get a two point advantage for the Gryphons but Taft's bucket with 2:08 left reknotted the score at 50-50.

Lancaster put Rocky Mount back on top by one with a free throw 51-50. Rose got the ball and ran off over a minute of time and then after a time out the Rampants funneled the ball to Taft who shot and drew the uncalled foul.

The Rampants played their hearts out but one missed call broke them. Bynum led the Rampants scoring with 14 and Moye had 10. For Rocky Mount, Ford had 15; only warming up in the third quarter. Jones added 13.

The Rampants did not hit a single free throw during the game.

The Rocky Mount JV's also won the preliminary, 64-51. Rocky Mount edged out a 17-10 lead in the opening period but the baby Rampants cut it by one to trail at half time, 33-27.

In the third quarter a basket by Ronnie Shields gave Rose a momentary lead but Rocky Mount got it back and after adding 11 straight points all but finished off the Rampants.

Holloway led Rose with 19 and Curtis Keys added 12. Bullock dumped in 29 for Rocky Mount and Lucas scored 11.

North Carolina State's 7-4 Tom Burleson, meanwhile, blocked a pair of Purdue shots.

Purdue led 51-46 with 17:39 left, as the Wolfpack struggled back against a tough Boilermaker defense.

John Garrett, who had 18 points in the first half, and Frank Kendrick led Purdue with 22 and 19 points, respectively.

Wolfpack Rally Edges Purdue

LAFAYETTE, Ind. (AP)—North Carolina State's David Thompson ignited a second-half rally Saturday and led the No. 3-ranked Wolfpack to an 86-81 intersectional college basketball victory over Purdue.

Thompson had the go-ahead basket in the second half as the Wolfpack overcame Purdue leads of up to 15 points.

The 6-foot-4 junior scored only six points in the first half, getting his first basket with only 3:51 before the intermission.

The triumph raised North Carolina State's season record to 13-1 and left Purdue at 12-5.

Purdue led 51-46 with 17:39 left, as the Wolfpack struggled back against a tough Boilermaker defense.

John Garrett, who had 18 points in the first half, and Frank Kendrick led Purdue with 22 and 19 points, respectively.

Rampants Bow In Overtime To Wilson

Mayes Guides Furman To Win

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (AP)—Clyde Mayes, taking up the slack left by the suspension of 7-foot-1 Fessor Leonard, led Furman to a 97-80 victory Saturday night over William and Mary that kept the Paladins atop the Southern Conference basketball standings.

Mayes hit nine of 15 floor shots and finished with 22 points and Craig Lynch added 16 points with both grabbing 12 rebounds as Furman held a 4031 edge off the boards.

The Paladins broke the game open late in the first half, opening up a six-point lead, and gradually pulled away with the aid of 14 William and Mary turnovers after intermission.

Baron Hill added 17 points for Furman, which built its over-all record to 11-5 and its conference log to 5-1.

The Indians, who dropped to 4-9 over-all and 3-4 in the league, were led by Mike Arizin with 22 points. Arizin hit eight of 15 shots from the floor.

Wilson's Fike High School shot an amazing 75 per cent in the final period of play, and that, coupled with good foul shooting, enabled them to gain their third straight overtime. But unlike the previous two, this one turned into a victory for them as their uncanny shooting continued and they pulled out an 80-74 win over the Rose High School Rampants.

Wilson found itself down by as much as nine points in the early seconds of the final period of play, but they hit on their first eight shots from the floor in the frame and pulled back within one. They missed three of their next four, but got the important one, making Rose scramble to pull out a tie at 68-68.

In the overtime, Wilson made two of three field goal attempts, but again it was their foul shooting that really made the difference.

Overall, Wilson hit on 28 of 58 in the game for 48.3 per cent. Rose made good on three more shots, 31, but took a total of 80, hitting only 38.8 per cent.

The difference, thus, was in the accuracy and at the foul line. Wilson made 24 of 35 free throw attempts, as Rose was called with 24 fouls, most of them two shot ones. Wilson fouled only 18 times, and Rose made 12 of 22.

Both teams had the chance to blow it open, but both failed to do it. Wilson's best change came early in the game, when they rolled up an eight point lead, only to lose it in four minutes of the second period.

Wilson got the first basket, a jumper by Michael Parks, but Rose ripped off eight straight points for an 8-2 lead. The Rampants had missed their first five shots before Linwood Brown hit on a drive. Herb Bynum hit a jumper, and Tyrone Taft added another bucket. Ronnie Barrett finished up the spree with 4:16 left for the 8-2 lead.

Wilson came right back, however, tying it up on baskets by Parks, William Plyer and Gee Sauls. Rose regained the lead as Bynum hit but baskets by Thomas Blue and Plyer put Wilson into a 12-10 lead at the end of the frame.

Rose tied it up in the first four seconds of the second quarter, but Wilson went back ahead, this time by four. After another swap of baskets, Wilson hit two more, by Blue and James Peppers, then got a couple of free throws by Blue to up it to 24-16 with 4:03 to go.

Rose came back, as Macon Moyer and Taft hit. Then, after another basket by Blue, Barrett and Bynum both struck. Moyer drive for another bucket, tying it at 26-26 with 1:23 left. Sauls put Wilson back up, but Barrett's jumper with 33 seconds left made it 28-28 and that held for the half.

Rose grabbed the second half's opening lead, but Wilson tied it with two free throws. Rose went back out on Robert Brinkley's shot and Barrett upped it to two. Wilson tied it again at 34-34, but Jackie Savage hit a free throw to put Rose back out. Bynum hit two free throws to run it to 39-35 before Wilson hit again.

Wilson struggled back and finally tied it up at 41-41 on a follow-up shot by Blue. Then Sauls hit on the fast break to give the Titans a 43-41 edge with 1:55 left in the period. Rose came back with a free throw and a jumper by Taft to regain the lead, 44-43, and added four more points, all by Moyer to take a 48-43 lead into the final period.

Rose got the first two baskets of the period, one each by Barrett and Moyer to up the lead to nine, 52-43 by 7:31 to play, but they couldn't break it open.

Wilson slowly cut away as the lead, trimming it to three, 62-59 before Rose pulled back to a six-point edge, 65-59.

Plyer then made a free throw and Blue followed with two baskets then hit with 1:18 left after picking off a rebound when Wilson finally missed a basket, putting them ahead, 66-65. Rose tied it on a free throw by Taft, but Plyer hit two more from the line to give Wilson a two-point edge. Savage connected with 18 seconds left, however, and Wilson missed on the final shot for a 68-68 deadlock.

Wilson, which was playing its third straight overtime, however, knew the momentum was in its favor, and quickly proved it. Sauls made two free throws after only six seconds to give Wilson the lead. Peppers stole the ball for two more and Plyer added two more at the line. Blue picked up two more, for a 76-68 lead with 1:49 left before Rose finally got two free throws from Brinkley. The two teams swapped points the rest of the way as Wilson gained the win.

The loss dropped the Rampants to 1-4 in the league. They were scheduled to play at Rocky Mount Saturday night, and travel to meet Northeastern on Tuesday.

Blue led the scoring for Wilson, hitting 22 points, while Plyer added 22. Bynum and Barrett both had 16, while Taft had 13 and Moyer had 12 for Rose.

Wilson's junior varsity raced to a 78-47 win in their preliminary game. The Baby Titans held a 17-8 lead in the first period and built that to a 38-16 halftime lead.

They outthit the Rampant Cubs, 23-13, in the third frame to up the lead to 61-29. Rose outshot then, 18-17, in the final frame, but to no avail.

Craig Parks and Leslie Sellers each had 15, while Jimmy Banks had 14 and James Ward had 11 for Wilson. Rose was led by Dennis Walston with 10.

Davidson In Win Over Wake

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C. (AP)—Larry Horowitz led all scoring with 22 points as Davidson gained a 78-76 basketball victory over Wake Forest Saturday night.

Reserve Tom Verlin's three-point play with 16 seconds left put Southern Conference Davidson ahead 76-72 and it was enough to carry the Wildcats to victory, their 12th against five losses.

Skip Brown had 20 points and Jerry Schellenberg had 16 to lead scoring for the Atlantic Coast Conference Deacons, who now are 9-6.

There was never more than a six-point margin and this came when Wake Forest went scoreless for five and a half minutes while Davidson was scoring eight points.

The stretch gave Davidson a 72-66 edge.

Mike Sorrentino, who finished with 12 points, hit a field goal and two free throws to turn a Davidson deficit, 66-64, into a lead the Wildcats did not relinquish.

Fleisher Leads Duke In Win

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—Led by the 23 points and 16 rebounds of junior center Bob Fleisher, Duke rallied for a 73-65 basketball victory over Princeton Saturday night.

With the score tied at 55 all at 12:27 in the second half, Fleisher sank a jump shot to begin an eight-point Duke rally that put the Blue Devils up front 62 to 55, an advantage they kept.

Before that the lead switched several times after Princeton exploded from a 39-36 halftime deficit to tie the score on two straight buckets by Tiger center Barns Hauptfuhrer.

Hauptfuhrer led Princeton scoring with 16. He played most of the game at center in place of Tiger starter Andy Rimol, who has sat out most of the last four games with an injured knee.

Duke connected on 25 of 49 shots from the floor for a 49 per cent effort compared to Princeton's 40 per cent.

Each team now has a 7-8 won-lost record.

Virginia Tech Nips Richmond

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP)—Charlie Thomas stole an inbounds pass that led to three points in the last 13 seconds Saturday night that preserved a 72-68 basketball victory for Virginia Tech over Richmond.

The Gobblers, who twice in the second half had led by nine points, saw Richmond cut the margin to 68-68 before Thomas made his steal. Bobby Stevens was fouled after the steal and hit a free throw. Craig Lieder rebounded the missed second shot for the final margin.

Aron Stewart kept Richmond in the game in the first half, scoring all the Spiders' 15 points during one 5½-minute span. He hit 10 of 20 shots from the floor and finished with a game-high 34 points.

Tech, now 8-7 for the season, was led by Lieder with 17 points and Thomas and Calvin Wade, just coming back from an injury with 12 each. Lieder also grabbed 13 rebounds.

South Carolina Edges Seton Hall

NEW YORK (UPI)—South Carolina's Mike Dunleavy hit on a pair of free throws with seven seconds left to play as the 14th-ranked Gamecocks edged a surprising tough Seton Hall club, 75-74, in the opening game of a Madison Square Garden doubleheader Saturday night.

In the second game, Southern California met Fordham.

The Pirates, now 8-7, had taken a 74-73 lead with 36 seconds left on Chris Rzonca's short hook shot.

The Pirates had a chance to lock up the game when South Carolina's Alex English missed the front end of a one and one foul opportunity and Seton Hall gained possession with 24 seconds remaining. The Pirates then lost the ball on a discontinued dribble with 14 seconds left and Dunleavy's free throws in a one-and-one

Nichols, Curl Tied For Williams Golf

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Bobby Nichols birdied the last hole—moments after national television cameras cut away—and tied Rod Curl, the little Wintu warrior, for the third-round lead Saturday in the $170,000 Andy Williams-San Diego Open Golf Tournament.

Bobby Mitchell and Miller Barber were at 209, Barber after a 69 and Mitchell with a 70.

Kite, a 24-year-old tour sophomore who led by two strokes when the day's play started, sliced his second shot into a canyon on the right side of the seventh hole, took a triple-bogey seven and finished with a 75. He was four strokes back at 210.

Johnny Miller, who won the first three tournaments of the year, and Jack Nicklaus are not competing in this chase for a $34,000 first prize.

Curl, who has yet to win in six years on the pro tour, said his play on the 18th hole "ruined what could have been a great round. I should have made birdie there and I had to work hard for par."

He bunkered his second shot, just got it out of the sand, chipped to about a foot and made that putt.

He holed three birdie putts in the 12-15 foot range, chipped up to about a foot on two others—both par fives—and twice saved par with four-footers.

"It was a good putting round," he said.

Nichols, who took his 10th tour title last year in the rich Westchester Classic, made a rush to get his share of the lead. His second shot on the 17th went over the green, but hit a spectator and caromed back to the putting surface. He made a 15-footer for birdie, then birdied the final hole from 2½ feet.

He'd also made a pair of duces with putts of six and 15 feet, chipped to two feet and on a par five and had a lone bogey, when he was bunkered on the 15th.

SAN DIEGO (AP)—Third round scores Saturday in the $170,000 Andy Williams San Diego Open Golf Tournament on the 7,047-yard, par-72 south course at the Torrey Pines Golf Club (a denotes amateur).

Ayden-Grifton Blasts Greene Central

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer
LITTLEFIELD — Ayden-Grifton's Chargers rolled up a 33-16 halftime lead over Greene Central and coasted through the second half to shear the Rams, 66-52, Friday night.

The A-G girls won their game by the lopsided score of 58-17 but the Baby Chargers lost their JV game, 45-32.

The girls game settled into a methodical run-away in the last half of the opening period as the A-G girls moved out by 12-4. They added 13 in the second and never had a threat from the Ewes. Greene Central, however, put up the first basket as Judith Tripp hit from her baseline. Debra Barfield quickly tied it up for A-G, 2-2, from underneath and Kelly Reeves scored from outside to put the Lady Chargers ahead for good, 4-2.

Audrey McCarter added a bucket for the Lady Chargers, 6-2 but it was matched by another score by Tripp to cut the lead to 6-4. That was the last basket the Ewes got in the period as McCarter scored twice and Barfield once to lift A-G out to 12-4.

Connie Carter opened the second quarter with five straight points running the A-G lead out to 17-4. The Lady Chargers limited the Ewes to just seven points in the frame as they added eight more before half-time.

McCarter did most of the work in the third quarter as she dumped in ten points. Her teammates added three more buckets to increase the margin to 43-13.

The largest lead so far came when Janet Loftin canned a jumper from the lane, 49-13. Later, Toni Smith scored to make the lead an even 40, 57-17.

McCarter led the Lady Chargers with 22 and Carter had 11. Tripp had eight for the Ewes.

The Chargers hit 60 percent of their shots in the first half zooming out to a 35-16 advantage. Greene Central failed to find the range sinking only 25 percent. The Rams warmed up some in the second half to finish with 43 percent but the Chargers scored on half their shots in the second half ending up with 56 percent for the game.

On the boards, the Chargers were amazing. They yanked down 28 rebounds all together with Travis Woods grabbing 16 of them himself. Danny Garris had five. Greene Central was led in the department by Tim Butts who had five of the Rams' 15.

Only in the first few minutes of the game was it at all close. Greene Central got the opening points on a lay-up by Jerry Jones but Woods tied it tapping in a rebound. Moses Barron put the Rams back on top for the last time, 4-2 with a lay-up. Milton Brown scored twice, however, to send the Chargers ahead permanently, 6-4.

Jerome Sheppard cut it to a point, 6-5, and after swapping baskets, Woods and Garris canned shots and with 3:24 left in the frame, A-G led, 12-7.

Barron sank two free shots but Woods and Melvin Stewart each scored twice to give the Chargers a 20-9 lead with :27 left in the frame.

A four-basket spurt in the second period from 4:59 to 3:03 gave the Chargers an even bigger lead, 30-12. Willie William's basket with a second left made it 35-16.

Greene Central outscored A-G in the third period, 22-14, to cut the gap down to 11. Barron and Jones led the rally for the Rams with nine and eight respectively. At one point, the Rams ran in three straight field goals forcing an A-G time-out. The teams traded points after that and the margin stood at 49-38 at the end of the period.

Barron slashed in a field goal to open the last quarter cutting the lead inside ten, 49-40 but that was as close as the Rams got. Jessie Brown hit from underneath, Woods sank two free shots and Garris a lay-up to give the Chargers back a 15-points lead, 55-40. Barron scored twice and Jones dropped in a 25-foot jumper to narrow the gap to 55-45 but baskets by Garris and Woods tapping in the rebound off his own shot sent it back to 14, 59-45, with 2:59 remaining.

Sheppard drove in for a score and Jones blew in another outside shot with 1:59 left to close to 59-49. A-G again stoked the fire and Woods' field goal and free throws by Stewart and Milton Brown set it at 63-49.

All the points scored for the next 39 seconds were from the charity line. Then with just a second left, Garris layed up a desperation, over-the-head shot as his back was to the A-G net and surprisingly the ball went in for the final 66-52 tally.

Woods hit on seven of 15 attempts from the floor and added four charity shots to lead the Charger scoring with 18. Stewart had 13. Milton Brown 11, Jessie Brown 12, and Garris ten. Barron paced Greene Central with 22 and Jones scored 19.

Jamesville Nips Aurora By 72-69

JAMESVILLE—Horace Hall scored four points in the final minute of play to enable Jamesville's Bullets to pull out a 72-69 victory over Aurora Friday night.

The Jamesville junior varsity also won, 61-57 while the Aurora girls took their game, 44-25.

In the boys' contest, Aurora had inched out into a 23-20 lead after a frantic first period. The action slowed in the second frame, and Aurora took advantage of it to pull their lead out to 37-28.

Jamesville put on a rally in the third period to cut into the lead. The Bullets outhit Aurora, 21-12, and tied it at 49-49 as the last period opened. The game continued tight the rest of the way, and with 48 seconds left, Aurora took a 69-68 lead. Hall came back to score with 35 seconds left, giving Jamesville a 70-69 lead, and he added two free throws with three seconds left to knot it for the Bullets.

The game was given added confusion when the automatic score clock broke right after the game got underway, and official time had to be kept on a stop watch at the scorer's table.

Hall led the Jamesville scoring with 27 points, while Steve James added 17, Gurkin Martin had 15 and Alvin Grimes had 10. Aurora was led by Alton Guion with 20, while Lonnie Moore had 12, Eli Tatum had 11 and Cary Keys finished with 10.

In the girls' game, Aurora went into an 8-2 lead after the first period of play. Jamesville came back with a 13-10 advantage in the second frame, cutting the lead to 18-15 at the half.

But a 22-4 Aurora spurt in the third frame put the game away for them, running the lead out to 40-19. Jamesville enjoyed a 6-4 advantage in the final period, but for naught.

Johnnie Smith led Aurora with 12 points, while Edith Moore had 10. Kitty Tetterson and Charlotte Hardison each had six to lead Jamesville, which was playing without top scorer Donna Williams, out with an injury. Jamesville travels to Bath on Tuesday.

Conley Vikings Take Win Over Firebirds

HOLLYWOOD — D.H. Conley's Vikings continued to roll along in the Eastern Carolina Conference Friday night, gaining an 85-52 romp over Southern Nash.

Southern's girls, however, routed the Conley girls, 85-18, in their half of the doubleheader.

The win boosted the Viking record to 13-1 on the year in the league, and cut their magic number to four over the Ayden-Grifton Chargers, only Greene Central and North Lenoir, along with the Chargers still have a shot at the Vikings. Southern Nash's boys are 6-8 in the loop.

The Southern Nash girls kept their fading hopes alive. They are now 11-3, while Conley's Valkyries are 0-14 within the loop.

In the girls' contest, Southern Nash made hash of the Conley defenses from the word "go" as they worked up a 15-3 lead in the first period and extended that to 42-5 by halftime.

They outhit the Valkyries, 32-2 in the third quarter to run it out to 74-7, then coasted home as both teams hit 11 points in the final frame.

Gloria Pope doubled the Conley total, hitting 36 herself. Juanita Hall had 22, while H. Hall had 13.

In the boys' contest, the Conley boys enjoyed their revenge for the licking the girls had gotten. They eased ahead, 12-9, in the first period, then outhit the Firebirds, 16-10, in the second frame. That gave the Vikes a 28-19 halftime lead.

Conley came back to rush in 27 points in the third period, while Southern hit 14, running the lead to 55-33. They finished Southern off with a 30-19 roasting in the final period.

Larry Daniels led Conley with 28 points, while Clennell Streeter had 12 and Willie Hawkins had 11. Southern was led by Melvin Crawley with 11 points.

Conley will be out to erase North Lenoir's hopes for the title on Tuesday when they visit the Hawks.

Robersonville Nipped, 61-60

ELM CITY — Elm City High School held off a Robersonville rally in the final seconds of the game to record a 61-60 victory over the Eagles Friday night.

Elm City swept the night, winning the junior varsity game, 65-57, and the girls, 44-38.

The loss could have eliminated the Eagles from title contention, depending on how Eastern Plains leader South Edgecombe came out. Robersonville is now 8-6 in the league, while Elm City goes to 12-2, either tied for first, or in second, depending again on South Edgecombe's outcome.

Robersonville's girls are still in the running with a 10-4 record. Elm City is also 10-4.

In the girls' game, Robersonville inched into a 10-8 lead in the first period, then came back with a 16-12 advantage in the second quarter. That gave the Eagles a 26-20 halftime lead.

But Elm City came back in the third period, outscoring the Eagles, 10-4, to trim the lead away, tying it at 30-30. They outhit Robersonville in the final period, 14-8 to take the win.

Ludia Roundtree and Minnie Atkinson led Elm City with 12 points each. Beatrice Forrest paced Robersonville with 16.

The boys' game was tight too. Robersonville held a 19-18 lead after the first eight minutes, and added that by one at the half, as they outhit Elm City, 18-17, in the second frame. That gave the Eagles a 37-35 lead.

Elm City came back with an 18-13 advantage in the third

Race Is Warmup For The Big One

By JACK WOLISTON
NEW YORK (UPI) — From the ditty bag:

—This year's Congressional Cup, to be sailed off Long Beach, Calif., March 14-16, will feature two skippers who will be participating in America's Cup competition later in the year. They are Ted Turner of Atlanta, who will command the new 12-meter Mariner in its bid to become the defender in the 1974 America's Cup races, and Alan Bond, scheduled to skipper an Australian entry in the contest for the challenger's role. The 10 competitors in the invitational Congressional event will sail Cal 40 sloops.

—In a recent survey of 1,500 of its subscribers who own boats, Sail magazine determined that the readers (1) have an average annual household income of $28,945, (2) rank swimming, fishing and tennis as their principal sports activities after sailing, (3) average two cars per household, and (4) prefer to serve, in the following order, Scotch whisky, gin, vodka, bourbon and rum.

—The fate of powerboat racing is still up in the air because of the fuel shortage, but if the 1974 Hennessy Grand Prix is held this year the site will be shifted from Mt. Pleasant, N.J., to Atlantic City, N.J. Sponsors said a good portion of the more than 200-mile race, scheduled for July 17, would be run in view of the famed Atlantic City boardwalk.

—Exhibition space for the 1974 Miami International Boat Show, scheduled for Feb. 21-27 at the Miami Beach Convention Hall complex, is now "completely sold out," according to manager John Rogers. Rogers said total exhibitors at the 33rd edition of the nautical event would number 535, an increase of 10 over 1973's show.

—The U.S. Coast Guard is experimenting with solar power cells to recharge batteries which run untended buoys and off-shore navigation aids, according to Electronics magazine. Tests are being run with several units in Long Island Sound, in the Gulf of Mexico and at factories in Los Angeles of Centralab and Heliotek, manufacturers of solar cells. The magazine says the Coast Guard is also toying with an alternate idea—generating power for buoy lights from the motion of waves.

—The third annual St. Petersburg Olympic Regatta Training series, sponsored by the St. Petersburg Yacht Club and limited to sailing classes designated for the 1976 Olympic Sailing Games, will be held at St. Petersburg, Fla., March 16-22. Members of the U.S. Olympic Yachting Committee will observe the competition.

—New at this year's boat show: A Narragansett Bay design from famed designer Halsey W. Herreshoff and built by Nowak & Williams. She is sort of a contradiction in terms—a sloop-rigged catboat. But aside from the jib, hardly ever carried by catboats, whose masts are stepped way forward, the boat is a classic catboat design.

Wildlife Afield: Night Deer Hunters Run Risk

By JIM DEAN

The dirty business of shooting deer at night with the aid of a spotlight has been on the increase in North Carolina. The illegal practice is called firelighting, and it usually happens like this.

Sometime during the night, a car will move slowly down a road while somebody shines a strong light into the bare fields. When the beam of light hits the deer's eyes, the deer is momentarily blinded.

Quickly somebody levels a shotgun or rifle on the shining eyes and shoots. A deer is dead. It might be a buck or a doe. It might be a fawn. It could even be—and often is—a mule or a cow. Once in awhile it's a human being.

This fall and winter, there have been more of the firelighting jerks around than in previous years.

"We figure that illegal firelighting has increased by about 50 percent this year," says Don Curtis, Chief of the Division of Protection for the N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission. "We attribute it to several factors, one being the sharp rise in meat prices. Also, in many parts of the state—particularly in the east Piedmont—the deer population has increased sharply and is spreading. Also, we had a dry fall and farmers were able to clear their fields earlier than usual. This made it easier to spotlight deer because they can be more easily seen."

Curtis also points out that many firelighters are paying a heavy price for their illegal activities.

"We've caught a lot of them," says Curtis, "our arrests are up at least 50 percent. We knew that this was going to be a problem this year, and we have concentrated on it. Our nearly 200 protectors have spent the majority of their time on this problem this year. We've changed our tactics and we're catching people who have eluded us for years."

The Wildlife Commission has four airplanes that are in the air almost every night, and when used in conjunction with ground level crews, it is possible to cover a large area.

"We can virtually blanket the state, particularly areas where firelighting is a problem," says Don. "We've also had a lot of experience, and we know all the tricks used by firelighters. Not many firelighters who work regularly will get through a winter without getting caught."

Quite frankly, Don's men are pretty sneaky. Don told me some of the special tactics used to catch firelighters. "I'd rather you didn't print them though," said Don, because we don't want to tip anybody off."

Catching firelighters can be dangerous business. Twice already this year, Wildlife Protectors who were chasing suspects have had their cars shot up—once with buckshot and another time with a rifle. Fortunately, nobody was hurt, and in both cases, the principal suspects were apprehended.

The price of illegal deer meat comes high—far higher than prime beef. Those who were caught and convicted not only face a rather stiff fine, they can also lose their guns and automobile.

"They're taking a big risk," says Don. "Not only is it possible for them to shoot livestock and people, they have an excellent chance of getting caught. Beef may be expensive but it hasn't reached the point that it costs as much as illegal deer."

North Pitt Takes Two From Eastern Wayne

NEW HOPE — North Pitt's basketball teams rolled to a three-game sweep of Eastern Wayne Friday night. Only the boys' game was a run-away.

In the first two games, the North Pitt JV's struggled to a 56-55 win and the Pant-HERS had to hold off a late Squaw rally to preserve a 43-40 decision. In the last game the Panthers took the Warriors, 71-60.

North Pitt's girls recorded a 10-2 lead in the first quarter of their game but the Squaws cut it by two to trail at halftime, 18-12. The Pant-HERS got the two points back in the third period, 14-12, but Eastern Wayne rallied for 16 in the last frame to the Big Orange's 11 closing to within three but time ran out on them.

Wanda Whichard led the Pant-HERS with 13. Betty Thompson led the Squaws with 12 and Pat Smith had 10.

The Panthers rolled up a 20-point spread in the first period of the boys' game, 26-6, but the Warriors knocked off ten getting 23 in the second and were down by 39-29 at intermission.

The margin stayed the same as both teams added 12 points to their totals in the third frame. North Pitt took the last period, 20-19 winning easily.

Donnie Perkins led the Panthers with 14, Carlie Lewis had 11 and Vincent Barnhill had 10. Keith Naylor led the Warriors with 17, Charles McAdoo had 15 and Sandy

Warlick Gets Wildlife Post

RALEIGH—Larry E. Warlick, 34, has been named an Environmental Coordinator for the N. C. Wildlife Resources Commission. The former district game biologist will assist Dr. Frederic F. Fish in handling environmental evaluations made by the Commission, particularly those which involve Environmental Impact Statements.

Dr. Fish of Raleigh, who recently retired, plans to continue to help the Commission with environmental work.

"Dr. Fish has done a superb job the 13 years he has been with us, both as fish management coordinator in the Division of Inland Fisheries, and more recently as Environmental Coordinator where we needed his vast experience and expertise to evaluate impact statements," said Robert Hazel, Assistant Executive Director of the Wildlife Commission. "The evaluation of environmental impact statements has become a major task requiring the efforts of two men."

Warlick will move to Raleigh from Burlington where for the past four years he has been the game biologist for District Five.

"Warlick has done an excellent job as game biologist," said Sid Baynes, assistant chief of the Division of Game, "particularly in areas involving public relations and small game planting materials. He has also headed up our part of the southeastern dove banding study, and the Wildlife Commission is fortunate to have a man of his caliber of work in the environmental field."

Several generations of Farmville children have known the high ideals and gentle, yet firm, guidance of Professor H. B. Sugg.

The beloved gentleman is, without question,

Farmville's leading Black citizen.

He Loved Learning And He Shared It

FARMVILLE—The thousands of students who have gone to school under "Fess" Sugg can't dream of the sacrifices and tenacity required for the former Farmville public schools principal to become the man he is.

"I've always loved learning," H. B. Sugg, veteran of 40 years of educating Farmville area children said. "I chose to go to school when my brothers and sisters stayed home and I spent every 10 or 15 cents I could get on books."

Now in his late 80's, Sugg lives on South Main Street here. His housekeeper, Mrs. Daisy Armfield, drives him downtown to check his mail each day and stops every so often for him to chat with someone, usually a former student. Mostly, though, he reads and otherwise occupies himself around the house. He retired in 1959.

He told of his early years: "There were a yard full of us children—seven boys and six girls. Now there are only two of us left, a sister, Mrs. Corinna Taylor, and I.

"My parents, Bryant and Penny Briggs Sugg, both were born slaves. My father said he ran away from a plantation in Greene County and went to Gen. Sherman's camp during the Yankee march through here. His master hadn't beaten him, Papa said, but he just didn't treat him as if he were human. He'd been bought away from his parents and never was given even a bed to sleep in. He either had to sleep in the barn or under the house with his master's dogs.

"My mother fared better. Her master's wife kept her in the house and taught her to cook and wash and iron. She even slept in the house, she said, and was taught to read a little. After the Emancipation Proclamation, she was allowed to go back to her mother. She and my father were married a few years later and they became tenants on a farm near Snow Hill.

Work Before School
"Life was hard back then. People couldn't help but have large families, and they had to work hard just to feed them. The children were expected to work and earn their keep.

"The schools weren't much then, because people weren't especially interested in education. Only a little reading and writing and arithmetic were taught. Meager as it was, though, I loved it. Most of the other children stayed out to work more than they went, but I was there nearly every day of the session. My parents always allowed me to go, provided I'd do my share of the work. I'd get up early and feed the stock or do whatever else I was told. After school and on Saturdays I'd have to do big jobs like hauling wagonloads of firewood for the coming week. I've picked cotton many a time by moonlight so I'd be free to go to school the next day.

"Of course, we didn't get paid for the work we did at home. But every so often, I'd get a little money from an odd job for someone else. I'd spend it on books. The school superintendent, Sheriff B. W. Edwards, kept a few in his office in Snow Hill for sale. This was about the only way to get a book. The schools didn't have any, other than their primers and there weren't any libraries.

"By the time I got grown I was considered "educated" enough to be a teacher. I taught first at Patrick's Chapel, a one-room school at a church by the same name just inside Greene County not far from Farmville. I knew I needed more education to be qualified, but the county didn't seem to care and neither did the children I tried to teach.

"I kept up this teaching, all the while living at home and continuing to do my part of the farm work. It was expected then that a child stay at home and help his parents till he was 21. Just before I came of age, my father and mother talked it over and told me I could take a job at Mr. C. D. Sauls' Store in Snow Hill. I clerked and cleaned up and carried out bundles, and when business was slack, I went out to Mr. Sauls' farm and weighed cotton and did other chores.

Prep Student in His 20's
"I must have been in my mid-20's by the time I'd saved enough to get more schooling. I spent four years at Mary Potter School in Oxford. I lived in a dormitory at the preparatory school and did odd jobs on campus and around town to keep myself. In the summers I worked in the tobacco factory in Durham and also did some gardening there.

"After graduation, I went to Lincoln University in Pennsylvania, where I stayed four years to get my B. S. in teaching degree. I milked cows, fed stock, and cut wood to pay my way there. I also worked summers as a waiter on a passenger steamship which ran from New York to New Bedford, Mass. That was good money. The passengers were wealthy and I often made $8 or $10 a week in tips.

"Once my education was finished, I got a teaching job in Lillington, where I stayed for six years. After that, I was offered a better job—to return to Farmville as principal and teacher."

Sugg came back here in 1919. He said Pitt County was considered somewhat forward in education. His first school here was a house still standing in Farmville known as "the Harper Hotel." Later the "white school" was replaced by the present Junior High School building, and the structure was moved to the site of H. B. Sugg School for use as "the colored school."

Sugg married a pretty young teacher who came to Farmville to work under him—Miss Aurelia Jones of Roper. "Rillie and I were married the second year she was here," he said. "I asked her and she didn't say no."

The Suggs had two daughters—Vera, now Mrs. Robert Moseley, a teacher in Compton, California, and Eulala, who died when she was two years old. Mrs. Sugg died in 1956.

Pride crept into Sugg's voice as he spoke of Vera. "Vera came and stayed with me for a long while last year when I was sick. She did some substitute teaching here and they surely did want to keep her. She's always been called a mighty good teacher. But the Compton system didn't want to give her up either, and since she was so near retirement, she went on back."

Back to the past, he said his wife taught third grade "almost all her life," and also directed the school's music program. "She was a good teacher, too," he said.

"Mr. Sugg thought we were all good teachers unless we proved him wrong," Mrs. Mattie Dupree remembered. "He always trusted his teachers completely and we worked hard for him because of his faith in us."

"I think I knew pretty well how to handle children," he said. "I learned all those psychological terms, but they don't help much with a bunch of bad children. Most children aren't bad, though. All but a few respond to you if you let them know you're concerned about them as individuals. They'll do what's best for them, if you let them know you sincerely want them to for their own good."

Asked if there were ever times he had to help children financially to keep them in school, he answered. "There weren't many times I had to dig in my own pockets. But there were occasions when I had to ask for help on behalf of a child. All during my career, though, people were becoming more and more aware of the needs for and the benefits of education, so it got easier all the time. The first few years I taught, I'd have to do odd jobs at night and go to Durham to work in the tobacco factory in the summertimes just to support my family. About all they paid back then was a pat on the back, and that wouldn't feed the babies."

"At first we had only students who could walk to school. Some walked a mighty long way, but there were many 'way out in the country that just couldn't possibly get here at all. Several of us decided we needed to buy a bus—so we did. That bus went all out to Belvoir and Falkland and around by Fountain and Toddy. A lot of children started to high school here that couldn't possibly have left their little communities to go past the elementary grades before. At one time Farmville had the only colored high school in the county. It wasn't so long till we added another bus, and before too much longer the county took over providing buses."

Asked his opinion of physical punishment in the schools, he said, "If children know you can punish them without a big hurrah, they're apt to do a lot better. I never was much for spanking, but I did it when I thought it was necessary."

IMPROVEMENTS IN THE LIBRARY...are pointed out to Mr. Sugg by Frederick Graham, principal of the school in Farmville named for H.B. Sugg.

HIS FIRST SCHOOL IN FARMVILLE...was housed in this home on South George Street known as the Harper Hotel.

Skeptical Over Nixon Import Wheat Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon's order to suspend import quotas on wheat and flour until U.S. farmers begin gathering an expected record 1974 crop is producing a rash of speculation, including rumors bakers may buy some Soviet flour to help make bread for Americans.

The rumors, which surfaced following Nixon's order Friday, were viewed skeptically by Agriculture Department officials and wheat representatives.

Nixon, as had been expected, suspended annual import quotas of 800,000 bushels of milling wheat and 4 million pounds of flour. That means that until June 30, millers and bakers can import all they choose. Canada is the traditional source for most.

A milling representative said, however, that substantial quantities of European flour may be poised to move into the U.S. market as a result of the Nixon order.

To Study Feasibility Of Deep Water Ports

WASHINGTON (AP)—Seven oil companies have signed an agreement with the Coastal Plains Regional Commission for a study of the feasibility of building a deep water port and refineries in Georgia and the Carolinas.

The commission said Friday the agreement is with Ashland Oil, Chevron, Cities Service, Exxon Pipeline Co., Mobil Oil, Shell and Tenneco.

It provides for joint funding to determine the need for crude oil and refined petroleum products in the region. The port, expected to cost about $300,000, is to be ready in about six months.

John J. Schafer, the study team director, said the deep water port would be a massive offshore facility able to handle

East Coast, West Coast Pictures On Gasoline

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—M. Jerry VeHaun, Buncombe County energy coordinator, said today that at least 73 of the some 170 stations in the Asheville area are closed or out of gasoline.

VeHaun, who predicted last Tuesday that half the county's stations would be out of gasoline by this weekend, said many of the 73 had run out by Thursday.

VANTAGE, Wash. (AP)—Service stations in this tourist stop on the Columbia River have a problem: too much gasoline and not enough customers. The hand-lettered sign on the window of the Vantage Texaco station proclaims, "Open on Sunday." But the four lanes of Interstate 90 are empty much of the time.

"I've got plenty of gas," said station operator Harry Parsel. "I had just about 17,000 gallons of the stuff left over in December."

Charlotte Gains 44,000

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The annexation of 32 square miles with population of 44,000 has moved Charlotte up 10 notches to the 50th most populous city in the United States.

The city leaps over Wichita, Akron, Tucson, Jersey City, Sacramento, Austin, Richmond, Albuquerque, and Dayton.

The increased population of at least 285,000—it had been 241,178 in the 1970 census—means the city will get a bigger share of property taxes, revenue-sharing money, and Powell Bill funds. The Powell Bill money, from the state gasoline tax, is for street maintenance.

The population may now be approaching 300,000. The Chamber of Commerce estimated it in 1973 at 253,300, which, with the addition of the annexed 44,000 residents, would make it 297,300.

If an annexed resident already gets water and sewer service from the consolidated Charlotte and Mecklenburg County Utilities Department, he can expect his average monthly bill of $15.78 to be cut in half.

War Relics Are Wanted By Museum

PORTSMOUTH, England (AP) — Got any used tanks, artillery, assault craft or, above all, a World War II assault glider?

If you have, Ken Barton will probably be glad to hear from you. For this ancient British seaport city is planning a massive memorial museum to the men who died on both sides as General Dwight D. Eisenhower's invasion fleet set out for France on D-Day — June 6, 1944.

Says Barton, who is Portsmouth's director of museums: "This is the ideal place. We're trying to get all manner of military relics of those days and not just from the Allied side, either."

The museum is being fitted up in old Fort Widley, originally built to protect this naval stronghold from possible French invasion. It has miles of underground tunnels and galleries cut into the hillside, as well as a huge arena once used for exercising horses, but now being tidied up for the display of larger exhibits. It is hoped to open the museum as a major tourist attraction in time for the 30th anniversary of D-Day next June.

Hundreds of the assault gliders were towed over the English Channel by Allied aircraft in the invasion of Nazi-held France. The gliders were not built to last. "But there must be one still in existence somewhere," says Barton. "It would make a splendid centerpiece."

The organizing committee is also trying to trace survivors of the German prisoners-of-war who stayed on after the war's end to do reparation work, using the old fort as a barracks.

"We'd like to hear what life was like there in those days," said Barton. "There must be some of them still about. And the little human stories and souvenirs might be just as interesting as some of the bigger pieces of hardware."

Keep Camera Warm, Too

DENVER, Colo. (AP) — Skiers planning to take camera equipment to the slopes should load film while in the lodge and, once on the slopes, wear the camera inside a parka next to the body to keep it warm.

These practices are a must because "low temperatures can make camera shutters sluggish, slowing down shutter speeds," said Robert Spangler, consumer affairs director for Honeywell Photographic Products.

Spangler said spare rolls of film should also be carried inside the skier's parka because film tends to dry out in cold weather and may break when the camera's shutter is advanced.

"Start out with a fully charged fresh battery, since camera batteries also lose efficiency in low temperatures," Spangler added. "Be sure to clean off battery contacts with a pencil eraser as a precautionary measure, just in case there is any corrosion."

When taking a series of photographs that require fast and slow shutter speeds, Spangler recommends shooting the shorter exposures first, before the shutter speeds slow down as the camera becomes colder.

Snow reflects quite a bit of ultraviolet light, he said, causing a great deal of lens flare. It is impossible to cut out all of it, but Spangler recommends a lens hood to cut flare and minimize condensation on the lens.

Be careful to advance and rewind the film slowly to avoid static markings, he added. Don't be concerned when moisture condenses on the camera's cold lens when returning to the lodge. Just be certain to wait until that moisture evaporates before taking more pictures, Spangler added.

Australia Lures Fed-Up Britons

LONDON (UPI) — Crisis conditions in the British economy have led to a boom in emigration to Australia.

Visiting Australian Immigration Minister Albert Grassby said requests for information on emigration jumped 50 per cent since November. A local travel agency said its sales of one-way tickets to Australia and New Zealand soared 300 per cent.

THE TAYLOR BULK CURER

The Taylor Bulk Curer has been designed as the one complete mobile unit - a curer, a dryer and a storage wagon - all in one. After eight years of selling individual drying, curing and storage units, we at Taylor Tractor feel that we can now offer the most versatile unit ever.

The labor saving ability of this unit is easily demonstrated with a typical crop of tobacco. The barn is filled at the field, with the driver and croppers doing the complete job - eliminating 65 per cent of the labor cost.

Bladen County farmers who have used this unit for the past two years all say, "We saved time, money and a lot of labor problems with this new method."

Each dryer feeds four bulk curers and each cures out approximately 1,000 pounds of tobacco. After the curing process the curing barn may be moved to any location for unloading.

As the tobacco comes from the field, a winch system allows the operator to easily slide the racks onto tiers inside the bulk barn. When the barn is filled, it is towed to the curing unit.

In addition to mobility and reduced labor cost, the bulk barn has further advantages in that it can be used in the fall to dry peanuts, corn and grain. It can also be used for storing grain.

This unit can be seen on the T. J. Paramore Farm, Grimesland Manufactured by Taylor Tobacco Enterprises, Inc.

Hudson-Lawson Vows Said In Ceremony

Miss Debra Elizabeth Lawson became the bride of Thomas Gregory Hudson in a double ring ceremony Saturday night at eight o'clock.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry F. Lawson of Greenville. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Horace G. Hudson of Plymouth.

The wedding took place at the Evangelistic Tabernacle. Officiating at the candlelight ceremony was the Rev. T. L. Byrd. Miss Debra Speight, organist, presented a program of wedding music. "One Hand, One Heart," "More," and the "Wedding Prayer" were sung by Miss Donna Manning.

A three branch candelabra was used with the bride and bridegroom lighting the two outside candles. After the bridal couple had spoken their vows, they snuffed out the two outside candles after lighting the center one together.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a satin gown styled with Venise lace round yoke, a high neckline and leg-of-mutton lace sleeves. The skirt was highlighted with lace scissor pleat front and the back enhanced with a detachable train edged with Venise lace, flowing chapel length.

She wore a Camelot headpiece with three-quarter length veil edged with matching lace. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of roses, white miniature carnations and was centered with a white hybrid orchid. Baby's breath was interspersed throughout the bouquet.

Miss Kathy Loretta Manning of Greenville was maid of Honor. She wore a formal length gown of turquoise chiffon designed with a low round lacy neckline and an empire waist accented with a tie ribbon in back with lace white cuffs. Her headpiece was a white ruffled bow with streamers. She carried a single long-stemmed turquoise mum with matching streamers attached.

Miss Deborah Meeks of Greenville wore hot pink chiffon, identical to the style of gown as the maid of honor. She carried a single long-stemmed pink mum with matching streamers attached.

Miss Charlene Dickerson, cousin of the bride, of Greenville wore wine chiffon, identical in style of the honor attendant. She carried a single long-stemmed wine mum with matching streamers attached.

Miss Nancy Buck of Winterville wore emerald green chiffon, identical to that of the honor attendant. She carried a single long-stemmed emerald green mum with matching streamers attached.

Their headpieces were identical to the honor attendant.

Miss Kem Davenport, cousin of the bridegroom, was flower girl. She wore a white satin gown identical to the bridesmaids' with a high neckline. Her headpiece was a ruffled bow with streamers to the floor, in colors of the bridesmaids' dresses. She carried a white colonial basket with rose petals.

Horace G. Hudson of Plymouth served his son as best man. Ushers were Jewel Tetterton, Larry Spear, both of Plymouth, and Jimmy Brabble, cousin of the bridegroom, of Creswell.

Allen Junion Lawson, nephew of the bride, served as ring bearer. He carried a heart shaped pillow covered with white chintilly lace and satin streamers.

The mother of the bride chose a turquoise formal with matching accessories and a white carnation corsage.

Proof That Only Man Is Capable Of Blushing

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: You said that "Man is the only animal that blushes. Or needs to."

Your observation caused me to recall what David Elton Fineblood wrote in his "Philosophy of Religion."

"It has been said that man is the only animal who laughs, the only one who weeps, the only one who prays, the only one who walks fully erect, the only one who makes fires, the only one who can invent, the only one with a written language, the only one who is proud, the only one who can make progress, the only one who guides his own destiny, the only one who is penitent, and the only one who needs to be."

ARTHUR H. PRINCE

DEAR MR. P.: Thank you for giving me the opportunity to say that I'm not the only one who made that observation about man and his need to blush. Mark Twain also said it. First.

DEAR ABBY: I am a secretary and I love my job. My boss is the original "Mr. Wonderful"—considerate, generous and easy-going. My hours are ideal, and the pay is excellent. Of course there is one problem, or I wouldn't be writing to Dear Abby.

I am asked to pick up the cleaning woman and/or the baby sitter; I frequently am asked to drop my work and go to school to pick up the children. I also have been asked to do "a little marketing," or to return the boss' wife's giraffe which she purchased on a sale several months ago. Well, I think you get the picture.

I hate to complain to my boss because I really love this job, but I was hired to do secretarial work, not the above mentioned errands. So, Dear Abby, how would you handle this problem?

JILL OF ALL TRADES

DEAR JILL: Candidly, openly and with no pussyfooting. Tell "Mr. Wonderful" exactly what you have told me. How else can he know what's on your mind?

DEAR ABBY: This is my third marriage and I want to make it work. I MUST! But my husband has a failing that has me at the end of my rope.

He says he will be home for supper at 6 p. m., and doesn't come home until 8 p. m. or even 9 p. m. most of the time. Of course the roast is ruined, and I am not in the mood to even speak to him by then.

I have tried to be a good sport about it, but my patience is exhausted. Please tell me how to handle it.

THREE TIME LOSER

DEAR LOSER: If he is late getting home, expect it. Don't nag him. Serve him the overcooked roast for supper, and make a stew out of it the next day.

DEAR ABBY: I take public transportation to and from work every day, and many times I have sat with people who must be very tired and sleepy, because they bob and nod until they are half on my shoulder or in my lap.

Yesterday a woman fell fast asleep on my shoulder and awakened her because she was quite a load, but somehow I didn't have the courage. Have you any suggestions?

DEARBORN HEIGHTS, MICH.

DEAR DEARBORN: The moment you notice your seat partner nodding and bobbing, smile and say: "I hope you aren't going to fall asleep on me. That happened to me once, and it was very embarrassing." [And if it happens anyway, screw up the courage to administer an effective poke.]

DEAR ABBY: My husband, who is 63, has expressed the desire to move to either Arizona, California, or Florida when he retires. He says he is tired of battling the Nebraska winters and wants to take it easy in a milder climate.

Abby, we've spent all our lives here, and all our family and friends are here, and I can't see us picking up and leaving all this behind to start all over again.

I'm not crazy about the winters here, either, but climate isn't everything. Don't lifelong friends, and family mean anything?

Please help me convince my husband that this is no time to pull up stakes and settle in a strange place with a bunch of strangers.

Or do you think maybe I'm the one who's wrong? He's even talking about a mobile home, or a senior citizens community.

IN A DAZE

DEAR IN: Don't make any decisions until you get a preview of the place your husband has in mind. You may be pleasantly surprised.

Economy Is Big Factor In Present Home Baking Boom

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — If the aroma of baking bread could be bottled, it would probably outsell anything perfume makers can produce.

But flavor, texture, good nutrition and economy are more tangible benefits of homebaked loaves.

Economy is a big factor in the present boom in home baking, says Virginia Schroeder, director of consumer services for Standard Brands, Inc. Its Fleischmann's division sells about 75 per cent of the baking yeast used in the United States.

"If the economy goes down, yeast sales go up," she said in an interview.

"People put everything known to man in bread. Wheat germ, raisins, nuts. Sometimes they write in to say the yeast doesn't work."

"They don't seem to realize that bread baking is based on something besides yeast."

Miss Schroeder said people who try to make bread without white flour don't realize it's needed for its gluten content—a protein substance that helps dough rise.

"There's no gluten in rice or corn or potato flour and the proportion of gluten is low in whole wheat flour," she said.

"Soy flour is popular, but it inhibits the yeast if it's used in too great quantity. A little soy in a flour increases nutrition (by increasing protein content)."

Miss Schroeder had a reminder for people who've been baking for years:

Don't worry if the addition of water doesn't make yeast foam up. A new process used in making active dry yeast permits foaming only when sugar and flour are mixed with yeast and liquid.

She said most bread failures occur because the water used is either too hot or too cool, or because dough is left in a draft or in too warm a spot for raising. It's also important to have all ingredients at room temperature or slightly higher.

The energy crisis should pose no problems for bakers, she said. Either make several loaves at a time, and freeze the extras, or bake bread with other foods that require the same temperature—usually 375 to 400-degrees for white bread.

And don't worry about steam from the other foods—it's steam, in fact, that gives French bread its crisp, delicious crust.

"The Complete Book of Breads" by Bernard Clayton, Jr. (Simon and Schuster) is the most recent in a rapidly growing list of cookbooks on the subject. Minutely detailed directions make it especially good for beginners. Clayton's cheese casserole bread is also easy, because it needs no kneading.

In a large bowl, combine 2 cups of bread or all-purpose flour, 3 tablespoons of sugar, 1 tablespoon of salt and 2 packages of dry yeast. In a saucepan, combine 2 cups of hot tap water—120-130 degrees, 1-3 cup non-fat dry milk and 2 tablespoons of shortening at room temperature. Gradually add liquids to dry ingredients and beat 150 strokes with a wooden spoon or 2 minutes at medium speed with electric mixer. Scrape bowl occasionally. Add 1½ cups grated cheddar cheese, and 1 beaten egg, both at room temperature and about ½ cup of flour to make a thick batter but not so thick it stops the mixer. Beat at high speed 2 minutes or 150 strokes with the spoon.

With a spoon, stir in about 2 more cups of flour, or enough to make a stiff but manageable batter. Cover bowl with plastic wrap and put in a warm place (80-85 degrees) until batter has doubled in volume—about 40 minutes. Stir down, beat vigorously about 30 seconds, and turn into greased casseroles of 1 quart or less capacity, filling them half full. Bake 45 minutes, or until a toothpick inserted in the center emerges clean, in a preheated 375-degree oven for metal pans or 350-degrees for glass or ceramic. Turn onto racks and cool. Makes enough batter for two (1-pound) pans or casseroles.

'Bellehop' Cracks The Barrier In Male Domain

By LEW HEAD
Associated Press Writer
SADDLE BROOK, N.J. (AP) — The 14 bellhops at a hotel here all wear the same uniform: orange jacket, brown pants and brown shirt. Thirteen wear floral ties, but one bedazzles with an orange and brown scarf.

If you're a lucky, male, arriving guest capable of beating odds of 13 to 1, you'll get the bellhop with the scarf to trundle your luggage and show you to your room. That's 21-year-old Diana Martin, a "bellehop" with long raven hair, green eyes, and a curvy 5-7 figure on a trim 125-pound frame.

The hotel's publicity man calls her a "statuesque beauty from Glen Rock who has cracked the barrier which has made the bellhop brigade a strictly male domain."

"I'm a liberated woman," said Diana (the bellhops carry their first name on a card over their lapel buttonhole), "but I don't consider myself a liberator. I don't go around burning bras. I'm for equal pay for women, for things that make sense; I'm not an extremist."

She joined the hotel staff in August 1972 after studying psychology at Findly College in Ohio and Monmouth College in New Jersey. She was a waitress in the hotel dining room until this past September when, according to Diana, the hotel's personnel manager decided she should have bellhop experience. "Working as a waitress had aroused my interest in hotel management," said Diana, who plans to return to college, this time Ramapo College, for more psychology study.

She's the oldest of five children of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Martin and comes from a home that resounds with music. Her father works in television but was a professional singer and now teaches it. Her mother, the former Helen Moore, sang in opera.

According to Diana's immediate boss, Tom Sokol, 23, of Hawthorne, the bell captain and a four-year veteran at the hotel, "Bellhopping is the stepping stone to management."

Diana has found her duties, aside from a stepping stone, a veritable course in psychology, particularly male.

"Men have very sensitive egos. They're always trying to prove they're a man. They can't relax and feel good about themselves."

Although she has a hand cart on which to put luggage, some men won't let her lift a bag, she said, after their initial astonishment at being served by a woman bellhop.

But most men let her lift and carry, she said, although, "I make them feel ill at ease. They're very nervous. I joke with them. I usually tell them I've lifted something 10 times heavier earlier and this is easier than housework."

She was amused by one male guest who said he'd carry his own bags and offered to tote her too.

Women are "pretty indifferent" to her role, she said. She's come to a generalization about women in her study of hotel guests. "I think women want respect most of all."

When the bell rings, Diana said, she doesn't hop, skip or jump. "I saunter."

"The type of people I see every day, I don't think they are too happy in life. They are too caught up in their work. They never have time to sit down and relax. They're all up tight."

She gets along with her fellow bellhops.

"She's a terrific person," said bellhop John Patire, 23, of Clifton. "She carries her load evenly."

"I would say all the guys are falling in love with her," said Sokol.

They're "brotherly," according to Diana. "If I'm in a room too long they come running."

"We keep an eye on her," said Sokol. "You never know."

But Diana said not one male guest has been fresh so far. "They've all acted very fatherly to me."

How would she handle a fresh, unfatherly type, making a pass?

"I'd try to push him. Then I guess I'd use the old knee."

MUSTARD CHICKEN
An excellent version of a recipe that's going the rounds.

Broiler-fryer chicken (about 3 pounds), quartered
1/4 cup prepared yellow mustard

1/4 teaspoon salt
1/4 cup finely grated Parmesan or Fontina Cheese

Place chicken, skin side down, in shallow foil-lined pan. Spread exposed surfaces with half the mustard; sprinkle with half the salt and half the cheese. Bake in a preheated 375-degree oven 30 minutes.

Turn chicken skin side up. Spread with remaining mustard and sprinkle with remaining salt and cheese. Continue baking 30 minutes longer or until as tender as you like. If not brown enough to suit you, broil for a minute or two, watching constantly to prevent scorching. Makes 4 servings.

Pewter Called Today's Metal

By PATRICIA COFFEY

Bridgeport Post Writer
RIDGEFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Pewter, a metal that conjures up images of tarnished ale cups and heavy plates in dark English pubs, is "today's metal," according to the author of a new book.

Shirley Charron, whose pewter works include optical reflectors as well as more traditional, practical pieces, says pewter does not have to be old and dark.

According to her book, "Modern Pewter," today's pewter is made of tin, antimony and copper and is bright, shiny and nontarnishing.

Pewter could replace gold and silver in jewelry and art, she says.

"Gold is absolutely priced right out of the market. All the jewelers I know have stopped working with gold completely unless they're commissioned to do a specific piece," she said in an interview.

"And silver is at the point now where it's so expensive that they won't be able to use it in the schools for very long."

Pewter costs from $2.50 to $3 per pound. Silver sold recently at $33 per pound, and gold sold for $1,185.60 per pound.

Miss Charron teaches art at Norwalk High School.

She owes her knowledge of pewter to Frances Felton of Winsted, one of the few artists who earns her living from pewter.

"I wrote the book using Frances' background and experience. She taught me everything I know about pewter."

Among her own nontraditional works of pewter are "book-worms," worm-shaped book-marks. She has also created four sculptures with pewter and stained glass. And a new piece will be hung when complete.

"When you look into it you get a visual collection of colors with a beautiful reflective quality," she says.

"You can't just make a vase any longer, or a bowl, or a tankard. Once in a while you have to go further and do something more creative. You've got to make a statement."

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. James Thomas Brumeloe of Farmville announce the engagement of their daughter, Rebecca Anne, to Roy Lee Allen Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Lee Allen Sr. of Farmville. The wedding will take place in early March.

A woman cannot watch 95 game shows a week, let alone participate in them, without showing some signs of deterioration.

By the time I've climbed a pyramid, matched a hamster square with a forfeit, bid too high on a snowmobile, picked the wrong curtain on Let's Make A Deal and come up with the president who invented the folding chair on Jeopardy... who is Thomas Jefferson, I'm a basket case.

Every week the games seem to get more involved... the prizes more fabulous and the contestants more frenzied. I have seen these poor housewife-competants run the emotional yo-yo from hysterical to rabid. Frankly, I don't know how much longer they can continue under the strain.

It came as little shock the other afternoon when I tuned into a new game show called, "CORONARY!" The game was relatively simple to follow. A contestant was asked to select a number which corresponded to a ballon. When she broke it, a little card fell out telling her what she had won. It went something like this.

"Hang on, Bernice," said the moderator. "Do you know what you have won?" Bernice shakes her head numbly. "You have won $125,000!"

As the band plays "Happy Days Are Here Again," Bernice jumps 15 feet off the floor and throws her arms around the moderator's neck and begins to weep uncontrollably.

He holds up his hand for silence. "In Italian lira, Bernice. Do you know how much that is in American money? About $48.12.

Too bad, Bernice, but wait. You are going to pick up the lira in an Italian bank. You have won a three week trip to Rome!"

Bernice clutches her chest and sways dizzily as the band starts up again. She grabs the moderator's sleeve. "That's Rome, New York," he grins.

Bernice slumps again, emotionally drained. "But wait! Look what you'll be wear to New York." The curtain opens to reveal a $4,000 mink coat. The moderator helps her put it on. Bernice manages a

Couple Weds In Double Ring Ceremony Saturday

Miss Frances Louisa Gaston and William Frazelle Harrell were united in marriage Saturday at 4:00 p.m. in Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church. The Rev. Charles M. Smith officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Parke Gaston of Greenville. Mr. Harrell is the son of Mrs. Walter Dare Harrell of Carrboro, and the late Mr. Harrell.

Mrs. Paul A. Toll, organist, and Mrs. Julian White Jr. presented the wedding music. Mrs. White sang "The Lord's Prayer" as the benediction.

In the center background of the church on the altar was a brass cross flanked by two single candleholders. The altar vases were filled with white gladioli, chrysanthemums, snapdragons, and daisy pompons. Spiral candelabra were used on each side of the altar, banked with emerald plams.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a long sleeve princess line gown of white delustered satin that flowed into a chapel train. The mandarin collared yoke of sheer organza was beaded with seed pearls in a floral motif and was bordered in Venise lace. Matching lace and seed pearls edged the cuffs of the buttoned sleeves.

The full length veil of French illusion was edged in Venise lace matching that on the dress and cascaded from a satin Camelot headpiece, embroidered in seed pearls. The bride carried a cascade bouquet of phalaenopsis orchids.

Miss Jane Terrell Flanagan of Alexandria, Va., was the maid of honor. She wore a formal length gown of turquoise jersey with a scooped neckline and gathered skirt. The empire bodice and waistline were accentuated with bows of self fabric.

Bridesmaids were Miss Nancy Katrina Haithcote and Mrs.

William Nelson Gravatt of Greenville, and Miss Myra Dwight Garrett and Miss Mary Wesley Harvey of Raleigh. They wore gowns identical to that of the honor attendant. The attendants carried nosegays of white pixie carnations and baby's breath.

The mother of the bride selected a street length ensemble featuring a beige and blue brocade coat and a coordinated beige dress. Her corsage was pink roses.

The mother of the bridegroom was attired in an aqua knit street length dress and coat ensemble. Her corsage was yellow roses.

Walter Blackmore Harrell, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Groomsman were Coleman Newton Sullivan Jr. of Raleigh, Allan Delwin Rutledge of Atlanta, Ga., Bruce Clark of Chapel Hill, Robert Lawrence Gaston II, brother of the bride, of Winston-Salem and William Woolard Gaston, brother of the bride, of Greenville.

Mrs. Troy Barrett directed the wedding.

The bride attended Peace College and East Carolina University, where she was a member of Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority. The bridegroom attended East Carolina University, where he was a member of Theta Chi fraternity. He is presently employed with The Galaxy, Las Vegas, Nev. After a wedding trip the couple will make their home in Las Vegas.

Immediately following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained at a reception in the church parlor.

Pre-nuptial events honoring the Harrell-Gaston wedding party and out-of-town guests included an after-rehearsal dinner Friday night at the Ramada Inn.

Following the rehearsal dinner, a party was held at Tar River Estates. Hosting the party were Miss Katrina Haithcote, Miss Myra Garrett, Miss Mary Wesley Harvey, and Miss Terry Flanagan.

A luncheon for the bride and her attendants was given by Mrs. William C. Shreve of Falls Church, Va., and Mrs. William C. Windley of Williamston at the Ramada Inn.

"Unfortunately, it's not your size. Too bad, Bernice, had it fit you would have walked out of here in a $4,000 mink coat with a Swiss bank account for $100,000 in the pocket."

Bernice faints dead away on the floor. The moderator bends over her. "You didn't stay conscious, Bernice. Those are the rules, but since you've been such a sport, no one goes away empty-handed. For your consolation prize, we have a personalized pacemaker... let's hear it for Bernice..."

Dan Gregory Speaks To CWI Members

"Attitude and Mortgage Profession" was the program topic for the Tuesday night meeting of the Greenville CWI held at the Three Steers Restaurant.

Dan Gregory was the speaker for the meeting. Gregory is a sponsor of the club and is with NCBN Mortgage Co.

He stated that the attitude that exists today among most of working girls is an attitude of indifference and confusion. "This confusion is based on the fact that you have internal drives which exist within all working girls and you have the women's lib movement which is extremely confusing."

He stated that you also have the psychological idea which has existed in the south for years, that it's a man's world. He further said that women were becoming more involved and that it was not unusual in the profession to see women out making inspection on houses under construction.

The speaker added that it is an attitude that he though wholesome, meaningful and rewarding both to the employer and to you personally. The mortgage profession offers women a great challenge and a tremendous opportunity. The girl behind the desk was the back-up in any profession.

Gregory described three types of mortgages in the single family category; FHA; VA; and Conventional loans.

President Angeline Venters announced that the February meeting would be a joint

Lobstering Called Good Life

SOUTH THOMASTON, Maine (AP) — Elsie Ilvonen, a grandmother nine times over, is one of Maine's few fulltime lobsterwomen. And, she says she believes in "Sisu."

The Finnish word for intestinal fortitude, "Sisu" is the name of the lobster boat Elsie works with her husband, Carl, 10 to 12 hours each day during lobstering season.

Elsie, around 50, has been Carl's "sternman" for the last nine years.

"Some days it's like a vacation with pay because it's so beautiful," she said. "Other times, when it's horrible, it's hard work all day."

"I don't know what I'd rather do than lobster. It's a good life and I'm glad I can share it with my husband."

But the 5-foot-4 seafarer says Carl, a Finn, has plenty of "sisu," and that means busy days on board. She works the rear deck, tending the main, and baiting and cleaning traps.

"We don't sit down all day...but time goes by fast because we are so busy all the time," she said.

The traps are set two on a line. Carl picks up the buoy and runs the line through the hauling gear, then slides the main trap down a washboard to Elsie.

Each measures their own catch, baits up, cleans the trap and plugs the powerful "crusher" claw on the lobsters.

Elsie said she started stalking the tasty crustacean about nine years ago in a 16-foot outboard boat. One of her daughters uses the same boat now when she goes lobstering after school and during summers.

The fisherman said she finds it hard to talk about the natural beauties surrounding her livelihood.

"I think poetic thoughts, but I don't have the words for them," she said. "You can't say them anyway or it sounds maudlin."

But she does cite some practical reasons for continuing her physically demanding occupation.

"It's one of the few businesses where you can still be your own master; the harder you work, the more you can make and the more satisfaction you get."

When will she quit? "I keep retiring every night...but I'll keep going on," she said.

It comes down to "sisu" for Elsie.

Homemaker's Haven By Miss Addie Gore Pitt Home Agent

Non-dairy imitation milk is being sold again in North Carolina.

According to Dr. Leonard F. Blanton, Director of Dairy Services, North Carolina Dept. of Agriculture, it contains a vegetable oil mixture derived from soybean oil, corn oil and cotton-seed oil. The primary source of protein is from soybean isolate, and a secondary protein source is sodium caseinate. The carbohydrate is furnished by corn syrup solids.

Preliminary analysis of the product has shown a protein content about two-thirds that of normal cow's milk. Therefore, N. C. Dept. of Agriculture objected to the use of the term "high protein" or to claims that the Non-Dairy Imitation Milk is nutritionally equal to milk.

Ripe Green Oranges

If you've hesitated to believe your produce man when he assures you those green oranges are ripe—listen again. He's telling you the truth.

Chances are you've always associated green with un-ripe. But here are the facts. Government regulations require that before harvesting, all oranges must be fully ripe—which means they must have at least an 8 to 1 sugar:acid ratio.

Valencia oranges—in season from February to November—are unique in that they undergo a phenomenon known as "regreening."

As the fruit ripens on the tree, it turns orange, and looks ripe long before it really is.

As the temperature goes up in the spring, the warmer ground temperatures cause chlorophyll—the greening substance—to return to the skins of the oranges.

As a result—the longer the fruit remains on the tree—the sweeter it becomes and the greener the skin becomes.

So instead of being unripe—the valencia orange with its greenish skin is sweet, juicy and fully ripe.

Snack Crackers

Boxes and boxes of snack crackers add up to a lot of money—but very little to eat.

So you might want to make your own snack crackers. Here's how.

Take a box of ordinary soda crackers and separate into squares on a cookie sheet. Brush either with melted margarine, melted butter or slightly diluted egg white.

Top with seasoned salt, potty seeds, sesame seeds, parmesan cheese or any other flavoring you especially like. Toast until slightly brown in a 400-degree oven.

You can make other shapes by using refrigerator biscuits that come in a tube—the kind that costs about 10 cents a tube. Cut each biscuit into four pieces, roll into a ball or into a bread stick and tie in a knot. Then coat with either margarine or egg white, and top with seeds or seasonings. Sesame or poppy seeds, garlic salt or vegetable flakes are some toppings to try.

Another easy bread stick is made by cutting strips of bread, then dipping in melted margarine or butter. Put on any desired topping; and toast in the oven, turning once to brown both sides.

Not only are these snack crackers great for guests—but they make inexpensive treats for your family all year long.

Expert Says 'Polluted' Skin Needs Extra Care

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Although there have been recent scientific breakthroughs "that can stop the aging process of the skin," a far bigger problem is polluted skin caused by the times in which we live.

That is the opinion of long-time skin specialist Georgette Klinger, who feels that the problem could be solved by proper skin cleansing. In her more than thirty years in business she has never seen skins as bad as they are today.

"Long hair, hair sprays, sun-tan, and airplane travel may make the skin look old long before we have a chance to enjoy its youthful appearance," she said.

FIGHTING POLLUTION—Georgette Klinger examines the skin of a young patient. She says skin suffers today as never before from problems of air pollution, airplane travel and lack of adequate care.

"Many men and women take better care of their automobiles than their skins, which also need to be clean and to have changes in seasonal lubrication," she observed. "For example, summer and winter have different effects on the skin."

Plenty of money is spent on faces and hair, she added, but many preparations are bought to be slathered on the skin or scalp, compounding the problem. What is cleaned out of the skin and scalp is much more important to its appearance, she points out.

Daily cleanliness of the skin is a necessity for everyone, especially these days — boys with long hair bring grease and dirt to their foreheads and faces, men using hair sprays clog the pores of their skin, also setting the stage for blackheads and pimples. Women, too, are using medications which cause skin allergies that they may attribute to cosmetics. Airplane travelers dehydrate their skins, which get taut — another aging factor.

In fact, air travel has created so many skin problems she has designed a special skin program for pilots and stewardesses.

And, of course, the sun, summer or winter, can be aging. "Oily-skinned people are usually more aware that their skins need attention — in summer their oil glands are more stimulated. But dry skin, which ages more quickly, looks so pretty in the mirror it is often taken for granted until exposure to winter winds and the like sends one to a skin specialist."

Until recently, she had been called old-fashioned, she says, because she had stuck with the hand method of skin treatment — easing blackheads and eruptions with finger manipulation — rather than using the machines which have become the vogue. But after trying them she decided they were mainly good for show "very little (eruptions) comes out," she said.

Her salons in Los Angeles and London also do their skin treatments by hand. In New York and Los Angeles she has separate salons for men, although she says "many men still feel like sissies consulting anyone about their skin."

The teen-age and men's skin salons were opened in response to requests from women clients who wanted to send their children and husbands. Actors had been coming from the West coast to the New York salon until she opened a branch in Los Angeles.

"Everyone said it was too far out of the city to attract men. But I don't want men who could come merely to kill an hour. I want only those men who need to come and they will find me," Miss Klinger insists.

Her business has always been mainly word-of-mouth. At any hour of the day her Madison Avenue salon is crowded. For some the conditioning may be a long process. But the treatment is individualized and a skin care program for home is part of it.

"It takes time for permanent results. I really do not believe in the pills young people are taking for instant skin care because they must continue to take them or the eruptions will return. Any long time use of antibiotics would seem to be unwise..."

Many dermatologists send clients to her to effect the lasting program which begins with individual analysis and deep pore cleansing. She does not use soap and water. The cleansers — there are more than 22 — and lubricants are selected to suit particular needs. There is even an "anti-freeze" lubricant for winter.

Although a lot of money is invested in the skin "very little is known about it," she observed. Each year she visits professors at European universities where she says "work continues on new products even though they are not interested in the commercial aspects of them."

"They have made major skin breakthroughs lately using collagens to thwart aging skin, but there are many things that contribute to wrinkling as we grow older — the ups and downs of weight loss, the failure to replace missing teeth, and general poor cleansing of the skin until we notice it aging."

Most of the aging factors of the skin could be eased by early care rather than depending on some magic formula to provide us with a new skin when we suddenly feel the need, she added.

Coffee Honors Provisionals Tuesday Morning

Sustaining members of the Greenville Service League honored the new provisional members at a coffee at the home of Mrs. E. C. Harris Tuesday. Greeting members were Mrs. W. S. Bost, sustaining chairman, Mrs. George Coffman and Mrs. C. C. Abernathy pinned corsages on the new members as they arrived.

A Valentine motif was used throughout the house. On the serving table was a centerpiece of red and pink camellias with red velvet streamers and lace Valentines.

Mrs. David Evans and Mrs. J. T. Little poured coffee. Other sustaining members assisted throughout the coffee hour.

Home Needed For Husbands

WALTHAM FOREST, England (WNS) — British husbands who have been thrown out of their own homes by their wives are now calling for government aid. Town councillor Charles Paley-Phillips of Waltham Forest has called upon his community to set up a hostel for "husbands who have no homes when marriage breaks up or who cannot afford them after the divorce costs and alimony payments." The council agreed to consider the situation when Paley-Phillips amended his project to include a hostel for discarded wives, too.

Use Psychology And Common Sense In Budgeting

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Grocery shopping with a friend can be expensive, says an annual guide to eating better for less money.

"It's too easy to be tempted into purchases you might otherwise ignore, if your friend buys the items first," writes JoAnne Alter in the January issue of Family Circle magazine.

And we all know how children nag for candy and cereals boxed with toys.

Psychology and common sense are behind many of Ms. Alter's suggestions for food budgeting. For instance:

—Follow a hands-off policy for anything you don't plan to buy. She quotes Nancy Weaver, a New Mexico home economist, as saying the odds are 19 out of 20 you'll buy whatever you pick up to examine.

—Pay cash. You're less likely to buy unneeded items than you would if paying by check.

—Non-food items such as cleaning and paper products can eat up 20 to 25 per cent of your supermarket dollar. Before you buy them, compare prices for similar items at drug and discount stores, whose products may be cheaper.

—Buy plain cereals and mix them at home with any sweetening you like, plus dried fruits and nuts. When you buy in large quantities transfer contents of open boxes or bags to airtight containers to keep them fresh to the last spoonful.

—Remember that quick-cooking cereals are about 50 cents cheaper per pound than the instant varieties. And they take only about five minutes more preparation time.

—Packaged produce usually is cheaper than loose even if you occasionally find one bad piece in a lot.

—Medium-sized fruits and vegetables usually are cheaper than large ones.

—Pre-mixed fruits generally cost more than combinations you can make at home, especially if you take advantage of seasonal fresh products to mix with canned, dried and frozen ones.

—Large bags of frozen vegetables can save as much as 40 per cent over nine and 10-ounce packages.

—Home-baked cakes are about 75 per cent cheaper than ready-to-eat or ready-mix varieties. Homemade pancakes are one-twentieth the price of pour and bake ones, and less than one-quarter the price of dry mixes.

—Buy spices in the least expensive packaging — cardboard or metal. Transfer the contents to reusable bottles for long-term storage.

—Buy bullion cubes instead of canned beef or chicken broth for cooking stews and braising meats. A 22-cent package of cubes will make 120 ounces of broth, but a 22-cent can of bullion provides only 10 ounces.

—Instead of paying a premium for whipped butter, make your own. Beat softened butter with an electric mixer at medium speed until it's fluffy.

—Sometimes it pays to shop late. Many stores reduce prices on perishables such as meat, ripe fruit and baked goods just before closing time at the end of the week, rather than hold over food that may spoil and be unsaleable. You can sometimes save as much as 50 per cent on melons, bananas, bread, and cakes, while meat may be reduced 10 to 20 per cent.

—Read labels for net weight. One well-known cereal manufacturer packs four different flavors of oatmeal in four identical boxes that usually are sold at the same prices, Ms. Alter wrote, but their contents vary from nine ounces in one box, to 10, 12 and 13 in others.

—You can save 10 to 20 cents on every chicken you buy if you choose whole ones and cut them up yourself.

—Canned, condensed soups generally are a better buy than heat-and-serve ones, because the extra ingredient in the latter is water.

—Lunch meats are not really protein bargains, even though they're boneless. The government permits processors of bologna, salami, hot dogs and similar items to add 30 per cent fat and 10 per cent water to the meats they contain.

—Ms. Alter said liverwurst is the least expensive in terms of protein content, followed by frankfurters, salami, bologna and pork sausage. She added that you can save about 40 per cent of their cost by buying in bulk and slicing the meats at home.

Smile Replaces Fears Via Kentucky Hospital Program

NEW YORK (UPI) — A recovery room can be a terrifying place.

You've been in a deep artificial sleep when suddenly someone begins shaking your shoulder. A strange voice says: "Say your name."

Until you pass that test or some similarly simple one that shows your senses have returned to normal, you stay.

You open your eyes to the questions. You see bright lights, an unfamiliar face peering at you. The operation is over.

"Are you awake now," the voice says.

"Cough for me," the voice continues.

That face, the questions, the commanding voice remain in your mind a long, long time afterward. Like a weird and frightening dream.

Smiles Replace Fears

It doesn't need to be like that. The terrors of the recovery room can be dispelled—and they are via a pre-operative program at Extencare's new Suburban Hospital in Louisville, Ky.

In this recovery room, fear is out; smiling faces are in. Candance Fenimore is seeing it personally.

Ms. Fenimore, 26, has been nurse in charge of the recovery room since the hospital opened in August, 1972. She decided at the outset that she and the seven nurses under her supervision "had to do something to combat the fears and sense of isolation most patients feel as they begin to regain consciousness."

Her solution: each patient is visited the night before surgery by the recovery room nurse who will attend him. She is wearing her green uniform, just as she will be next morning in the recovery room. Nurse and patient get acquainted, chat informally. "Nobody wants to be known as just 'the gallbladder in 203,'" she said.

Special Requests Made

The nurse tells how the recovery room will look and what will happen there, including the coughing routine. She also outlines the various pre-op procedures and explains the reasons for them.

"Women sometimes ask why their nail polish must be removed before surgery," she said. "We explain that the color of the nailbeds is one way of telling how a patient is tolerating an operation."

Often there are special requests. In some cases a woman doesn't want anyone, even her husband, to see her without her dentures. These must be removed before an operation.

"So we arrange to take the dentures out after she leaves her room and is on the way to surgery," Ms. Fenimore said.

"Then we put them back in again before she returns to her room."

Every patient at Suburban now receives one of these pre-op visits from the recovery room nurse as a matter of course. Especially for persons who have never had an operation and for children, they are proving enormously helpful.

Girl Brightens Day

"It's a lot of extra work for us," Ms. Fenimore says, "but it is worth it? Of course, it certainly is. Not long ago, for example, there was a little girl here for an eye operation.

"During my visit she was distracted, nervous, didn't seem to be paying a bit of attention to me. But the next morning in recovery while I was standing beside her she opened her good eye, looked at me and whispered, 'Hello, Candy.' And she smiled.

"It wasn't much of a smile, just a tiny one. But it gave me a glow that lasted the whole day."

Women Battle Women For Jobs

PARIS, France (WNS) — Denise Lapioux, an expert in placing women in executive and secretarial jobs, has reported that "women's worst enemies in the battle for job equality are women."

Her records show that 80 per cent of stenographers who have worked for lady bosses prefer not to work for women again. "There is an element of dislike and suspicion between women workers," declared Mme. Lapioux. "The lady boss is afraid that her feminine underling will try to get her job. As a result, there is misunderstanding and cruelty on both sides."

To freshen stale crusty rolls, sprinkle them generously with water and heat in the oven.

Once Before, U.S. Had Attention On Oil Shale

NEW YORK (UPI) — This isn't the first time the American motorist and his vehicle have been threatened by an energy crisis.

Nor is it the first time the United States has turned to shale to help the motorist through an oil shortage.

"Is the United States facing a gasoline famine?" asked Guy Elliott Mitchell of the Geological Survey in the February, 1918, issue of National Geographic.

"Shall we be required to forego automobiling except to meet the stern necessities of war and utilitarian traffic?"

Soaring demand for oil in World War I led the United States Geological Survey to erect an "oil still" in Colorado to extract oil from shale rock.

Armistice Ends Crisis
The 1918 National Geographic article was accompanied by a photograph of the still with the caption:

"The horseless vehicle's threatened dethronement has been definitely averted and the uninviting prospect of a motorless age has ceased to be a ghost stalking in the vists of the future."

World War I ended before shale oil production really began and the plan was dropped. It was simpler and cheaper to pump oil from the ground.

Now, however, the government is again looking at this method of obtaining oil.

Idea Not New
The Department of the Interior is opening six tracts of public land in Colorado, Utah, and Wyoming to petroleum companies for experimental work in crushing shale rock to extract oil.

The idea was not new, even in 1918. Oil had been produced from shale in Scotland for 70 years. Tons of rock were crushed and heated. The rock gave off petroleum vapors which were condensed into crude oil and ammonia.

A generation earlier, Mormons used the same process in Utah to obtain oil for lamps. Even the earliest settlers of the American West had learned that when they built their campfires against certain rocks, the docks themselves would burn.

Before the Civil War, some 50 firms were extracting oil from shale. However, once the first oil well was drilled in 1859 at Titusville, Pa., the shale process was too costly to compete.

A Costly Process
Even with modern equipment, shale oil will be costly. It takes more than a ton of the richest shale to extract one barrel of oil. Petroleum companies will be required to minimize environmental damage by landscaping and reseeded when they are through mining, adding to the cost of the final product.

The experimental program now in progress will "allow us to learn whether our 600-billion-barrel shale oil reserves can be developed at acceptable economie and environmental costs," according to Secretary of the Interior Rogers C. B. Morton.

Given the extent of today's energy crisis, Morton noted the new program "is in the national interest."

Texan Will Hit Political Trail
AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, D-Tex., says he is not well enough known nationally to consider running for the presidency in 1976, but this might change by the end of the year.

Bentsen has said he plans to spend most of 1974 campaigning for Democratic senators and helping them raise money.

"Then, at the end of the year we'll see how we've done, and then decide whether it is a realistic thing or not to do. I know the place where a man can do the most for his country is right down at the White House...so we'll look at it then and decide what should be done."

A Link To Space Visitors?

SPACE FIGURE? — This carving of a god, featuring a helmet-like cap and a strange device attached to the chest, is duplicated in many forms throughout Central and South America. It is one of the artifacts cited in the NBC special "Timex Presents: In Search of Ancient Mysteries", which explores the possibility that visitors from outer space may have colonized Earth, to be colorcast Thursday, January 31 (8-9 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

Some of the questions that have defied answers sometimes need to be seen from a different perspective to be unraveled.

Take the matter of the Bermuda Triangle, for instance.

This is a region in the Caribbean where ships and planes have vanished under circumstances that have defied all logical explanation.

"Just after the close of World War II in December, 1945, five Navy fighter planes vanished without a trace, leaving a mystery that remains unanswered today," says narrator Rod Serling when "Timex Presents: In Search of Ancient Mysteries," to be colorcast on Thursday, Jan. 31 (8-9 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

Their disappearance has been the subject of a 25-year investigation by magazine reporter Art Force.

According to the special more than 100 ships and planes have been lost in the Bermuda Triangle, along with 1,000 lives.

"There is no explanation for the disappearances that have taken place in clear weather and calm seas," Serling states.

The special then advances its intriguing theme and theory:

"Is this the corridor to outer space? Did the first colonists (astronauts from outer space) plant a homing device, a navigational aid under these waters — a beacon for spacecraft to home in on that somehow interferes with our own navigational devices?"

The Bermuda Triangle is but one of several mysteries cited in support of the program's intriguing thesis. Other places to be shown and discussed include Lake Titicaca in the Peruvian Andes; the ruins of Tiahuanaco and The Gate of the Sun with its mysterious sun god; the Great Stone of Sayhuite, Sacsayhuaman, the underwater wall off the island of Bimini in the Caribbean; the Bermuda Triangle; English hillside carvings; and the primitive drawings in the rocks of Indio County, Calif.

There also are interviews with authorities including Dr. Sidney Fox of the Institute of Molecular Evolution at the University of Miami; Dr. Padmasri Sivaramamurti, director of the National Museum of India; and Joseph Blumrich, aerospace engineer at Marshall's Space Flight Center, NASA.

FROM 19 to 110 — Cicely Tyson, who stars as a fictional former slave, goes from age 19 to 110, above, in the title role of "The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman", a two-hour drama special to be presented Thursday, January 31 (9-11 p.m.) on CBS Channel 3N-9-11.

To See Story Filmed Is Writer's Reward

When I first came to my boyhood home of Baton Rouge, La., to watch filming of "The Autobiography of Miss Jane Pittman," I was as scared as any actor going on the stage for the first time. My first visit to a location site was a plantation house where Tomorrow Entertainment, Inc., producers Bob Christiansen and Rick Rosenberg met me and asked if I wanted to meet the film's director, John Korty.

John and I had many friends in common, but had never met. John was filming a scene of homeless children in temporary housing after the Civil War. A room full of children lay on pallets on the floor, and John was directing two of the boys how to fight realistically over two small rocks one of them carried.

"How's it going?" I asked him as we shook hands. "All right," he smiled. I would be around him daily for three weeks, and he always had the same answer. Besides being a great director, John must be one of the most patient and gentle people to work with I have ever known. Nothing broke that patience — uncooperative nature, animals, children or inexperienced actors who had trouble remembering lines.

When I had written the chapter from which scriptwriter Tracy Keenan Wynn had taken this scene, I had not seen the room, the children or the pallets so vividly, but they were real true.

Examine Role Of The Cantor

The ABC News religious-cultural series, "Directions," examines the training of a cantor in the United States, and details the background tradition for the clerical profession in the Jewish community, on "The Words Are the Music," airing SUNDAY, JAN. 27 (1-1:30 PM).

For the program, the "Directions" series concentrates on one young man, Harold Rifkin, who is in his fourth and last year of study at the Cantors Institute of the Jewish Theological Seminary of America in New York City.

In Judaism, the cantor is not considered a mediator between God and man. He is a "messenger of the congregation," leading in worship with a voice that inspires. He must understand both the words and the music of the sacred traditional texts, for in Judaism they have become inseparable. Born in the many cultures where Jews have lived, these holy songs grow out of each other and reinforce each other, and are changing still.

For centuries, any member of a congregation who knew the texts and had a good voice could serve as the cantor, and new cantors were trained simply by apprenticing themselves to older men.

Today, the profession demands much more. In the United States, a cantor assists the rabbi in making decisions affecting the congregation.

Panel Reviews Peace Chances

NBC News, in association with the Division for Film and Broadcasting of the United States Catholic Conference, will present "Justice and Reconciliation," a special one-hour colorcast Sunday, Jan. 27 (5-6 PM).

The program, a panel discussion by representatives of both the clergy and the laity, will explore the question: is the cessation of active war to be taken as the realization of peace?—for the prophets of the Old Testament spoke of peace as "the peace of justice." A distinguished panel will examine the conditions and chances for a genuine peace in the United States and the world today.

Some Changes In Years Of Song

The Deep River Boys sing the same kinds of songs as the members of the original group did 37 years ago when they received their first break on CBS Radio. But the pressure of the times has wrought radical changes in the texts of some spirituals.

On "The Song Has Soul," to be broadcast on "Lamp Unto My Feet" Sunday, Jan. 27 (10-10:30 a.m.), Harry Douglass, the group's leader, who was a member of the original Deep River Boys, explains some of the changes lyrics have undergone over the past 40 years.

In the song "Why Adam Sinned," the lyrics read that Eve's mate disregarded the divine laws because "he didn't have a mammy to teach him right from wrong. 'I guess I really should say 'mommy' because that's what gets the laughs," says

Douglass. "I've been using mommy for 20 years now, instead of mammy."

In the broadcast, Douglass recalls the harsh protests from both black and white G.I.'s during the Forties when he sang the classic "Ol' Man River." When I first started in singing, I would say 'darkies all work on the Mississippi. . . . But my first month in the Army — I'll never forget it — I was in this show, and I started singing 'Ol' Man River.' When I sang the part that goes 'darkies all work on the Mississippi,' blacks and whites started booing me.

"So I said, 'O.K., you don't want that.' And I changed the text from 'darkies all work' to 'here we all work,' and I've done it that way ever since."

Stars In Miller Drama

Three internationally acclaimed performers — Faye Dunaway, Christopher Plummer and Bibi Andersson — will star in the new, two-hour production of Arthur Miller's powerful play, "After the Fall."

The drama, adapted for television by Miller, is to be taped in New York City for presentation on the NBC network early in the 1974-75 season. Gilbert Cates will be producer-director.

As announced, "After the Fall" will launch a long-term NBC cooperative venture with the British Broadcasting Corporation providing for the exchange of major drama specials.

Miss Dunaway is to appear as the mercurial Maggie, who finds success as a singer and brief happiness with Quentin, a lawyer she meets, before fear and insecurity lead her to tragedy.

Mr. Plummer will portray Quentin, who searches for self-knowledge as he reviews his past and apprehensively ponders the future.

Miss Andersson will appear as Holga, the German girl whose love for Quentin offers him hope in a life stalked by the shadow of death.

Miss Dunaway has been acclaimed for her performances in films and on the stage. Movie stardom was hers following her portrayal of the gun moll in "Bonnie and Clyde," which earned her an Oscar nomination.

Sophia In A Special

Academy Award-winning actress Sophia Loren, one of the entertainment industry's top international artists, will star in a new production of the late Noel Coward's "Brief Encounter," to be presented as a "Hallmark Hall of Fame" special.

This will mark Miss Loren's first appearance in a drama on television.

The film "Brief Encounter," one of the most popular love stories of all time, was released in 1946. The "Hallmark" special, to be produced in England, will be a Sir Lew Grade-Carlo Ponti Production, by arrangement with the Rank Organization, in association with NBC and FCB Productions.

The story is set in World War II London, and involves a doctor and a young woman who meet at railway station and fall in love. Miss Loren's co-star will be announced at a later date.

Sophia Loren's road to stardom began in 1952 in the film "Africa Beneath the Sea." This was followed by her appearance in the title role in the film, "Aida." A native of Naples, Italy, Miss Loren has since starred in such motion pictures as "The Pride and the Passion," "The Countess From Hong Kong," "Boy on a Dolphin," "The Luck of Being a Woman," "Two Women" (for which she won the 1961 Academy Award as Best Actress).

A GREAT PRETENDER

Reflection gives a sense of depth; depth implies distance; distance implies space. A mirrored area seems to be spacious to the eye and psychologically suggests greater elbow room than actually exists. They are not just at home in the living room, but prove very useful in the entry, dining room or other area of your home. Don't overlook their broadening effect. Where space is small, a mirror can be a great pretender.

Your home is actually a reflection of your own good taste. Select your wall-to-wall carpeting here for a vast selection and expert installation. Eastern Carpet Inc., 602 West Greenville Blvd., Greenville. 756-1944. "Where There's Always A Sale."

Abrasive, But It's All In Fun

WNBC (New York) radio personality Don Imus will break into acting the hard way — with a broken leg.

The controversial Imus, playing himself, will make his acting debut on the afternoon series "The Doctors" as a ski accident victim, hospitalized and in traction. At last, that's what the script calls for.

According to Imus, his appearances as a patient in Hope Memorial Hospital on the colorcasts of Jan. 30 and 31 and Feb. 1 (2:30-3 p.m.) "will be the result of my falling off a bar stool."

On a recent morning at the NBC Studios in New York, the irreverent disk jockey — dressed in blue jeans, Western style boots and hat, rugged suede jacket, neckerchief and turquoise and silver arm bracelets — vowed that he would write his own lines.

"Nobody can write comedy for me the way I can," he said. "I'm going to portray myself and say exactly what I want to say."

A skilled comedian and writer, Imus, who prefers to be called Imus in the Morning, has created a host of characters for his early morning radio show including the Rev. Billy Sol Hargis, Crazy Bob and Hy from Hollywood. He has written material for his two record albums and a successful nightclub act, and is the author of a forthcoming book, "Say

ON THE MEND — WNBC (New York) radio personality Don Imus appears as himself on the daytime drama series "The Doctors", January 30 and 31 and February 1 (2:30-3 p.m.) on Channel 6-7. Imus, as a ski accident victim with a broken leg, tries to convince nurse and ex-singer Lauri James (Marie Thomas) to resume her show business career.

Hallelujah," based on the life of Billy Sol Hargis.

Targets of Imus's barbed wit include fellow disk jockeys, politicians, various ethnic groups, his bosses, his show's sponsors and the listening public. How does he get away with it?

"Yes, I'm abrasive at times," he concedes, "but it's all in fun and everybody likes to have fun. Most people take it for what it is — just something a little bit crazy. Everybody would like to tell the boss where to go, but I just do it."

On "The Doctors," Imus will meet an old friend, nurse and ex-singer Lauri James (Marie Thomas), whom he tries to convince to resume her show business career. He will also have the attention of several pretty nurses and will broadcast from his hospital bed.

"After this, I'll explore more acting possibilities," Imus added. "After all, I'm the greatest. I can make them laugh and I can make them cry."

Enthusiasm Is The Key

When the audience jumps up and down, it sounds something like an earthquake in NBC-TV's Burbank (Calif.) Studio 2.

Actually, it's a taping of another edition of the "Wizard of Odds," hosted by Alex Trebek.

Members of the audience are jumping up and down in the hope that Alex will select them to beat the odds and averages by answering questions. If they're selected and if they answer the questions correctly, they win prizes and become eligible for the grand prize of the day.

What does Alex look for when his eyes scan the audience for a contestant?

"Enthusiasm, mostly," he explains. "I have a few seconds each time to look up and down the rows, and usually one person will stand out because he or she is jumping up and down wildly, just a bit more wildly than anyone else. That person is going to make a good contestant."

With over 100 shows taped, Alex now is quite experienced. "I remember who has made a good contestant in the past, and if I see someone similar in the audience, I may choose that person."

Who make better contestants, men or women? "There is no chauvinism here," Alex replies. "Both men and women make good contestants, it just depends on the individual."

Once in awhile, of course, Alex picks someone who turns out to be not quite the ideal contestant.

Ethel, Julius On Trial

They were charged with "conspiracy to commit espionage" and their trial and post-trial struggles to escape their dark fate because a cause celebre throughout the world. "Judgment: The Trial of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg" details the courtroom drama of one of the most significant legal battles in the history of American jurisprudence. The program, to be produced, directed and narrated by Stanley Kramer and starring Herschel Bernardi and Brenda Vaccaro, will be presented on the "ABC Theatre" series of specials on Monday, Jan. 28 (9-10:30 p.m.) on Channel 3W-5-12.

The public's first knowledge of what was to become one of the most gripping spy dramas of modern times began on July 18, 1950, with a front-page story in the New York Times: "The Federal Bureau of Investigation today arrested Julius Rosenberg, 32, a New Yorker, on charges of spying for Russia..."

To Morton Sobell, who was later charged as a confederate of Julius Rosenberg, and who read the story while hiding out with his family in Mexico City, it struck a note of chill foreboding.

Just six days before, David Greenglass — brother of Ethel Rosenberg — had been indicted for espionage by a Grand Jury in Santa Fe, New Mexico. Greenglass, who became the prosecution's chief witness against the Rosenbergs during their trial, was charged with stealing secrets about the Atomic Bomb while working as a machinist in Los Alamos.

Reporter for the television special report will be ABC News' London Bureau Chief George Watson.

Most Americans have already seen and felt the impact of shortages in critical fuels. Most Britons have known more severe effects for several months.

In that nation, cutbacks in fuel oil supplies have been compounded by a strike among coal miners, who have refused to work overtime, reducing coal supplies by nearly 40 per cent.

Some 70 per cent of Great Britain's electricity depends on coal, and the government has had to institute a three-day work week, which Prime Minister Heath has declared he is prepared to continue until spring rather than yield to the miners' wage demands.

True Story Of Boston Strangler

"The Boston Strangler," the movie which details the cold chill of terror that stalked the streets of Boston for almost two years in the true story of a man who strangled 13 women, comes to television for the first time on "ABC Sunday Night Movie," Jan. 27 (8:30-10:30 p.m.) on Channel 3-5-12.

Based on the best-selling book of the same title, the movie also stars Henry Fonda as John S. Bottomly, former Massachusetts Assistant Attorney General who headed the "Strangler Bureau," and George Kennedy as Detective Phil DiNatale, whose determined police work led to the arrest of Albert DeSalvo, the self-confessed killer.

It is June, 1962, and the brutal strangling and sexual assault of a middle-aged woman in the Back Bay area of Boston soon proves to be only the first of a series of similar murders that bring panic to the city. As the count grows, Massachusetts Attorney General Edward W. Brooke, Jr. (now Senator Brooke), played by William Marshall, persuades Assistant Attorney General Bottomly (Fonda) to head a special agency, to coordinate all information pertaining to the stranglings.

The three detectives originally assigned to the case (played by George Kennedy, Mike Kellin and Murray Hamilton) continue to investigate suspect after suspect with no tangible results until a man named Albert DeSalvo (Curtis) is arrested as a burglar.

Diane Cluny (Sally Kellerman), an intended victim who managed to save herself, tells police that she bit her assailant on the hand - a bit identical to a wound suffered by DeSalvo.

Filmed primarily on location in Boston, "The Boston Strangler" had the services of both Bottomly and DiNatale, the two men most responsible for the discovery of DeSalvo and his eventual confession, as technical advisers. The 20th Century-Fox film is suggested for mature audiences.

Suspense Film Friday Night

Academy Award winner George Kennedy stars as a man who fakes his involvement in a kidnap-and-murder crime and finds he's caught in his own trap, in the suspense-drama "ZagZag," also starring Anne Jackson and Eli Wallach, to be presented on "The CBS Friday Night Movies" Friday, Feb. 1 (9-11 PM) in color on Channel 3N-9-11.

Theatre Offers 'Wedding Band'

"Wedding Band" will be the first of two productions by Joseph Papp, to be presented on the "ABC Theatre" series of specials. The two-hour dramatic play will star Ruby Dee and will air in April.

Set in the summer of 1918 in a small South Carolina town, "Wedding Band" is a sympathetic story of love and hate. Ruby Dee stars as a woman in love with a white man, a poor baker who was raised by conventions which often ignore love.

Ex-Cop Has Killer Role

His face is his fortune, and tall, dark and evil-looking Robert Phillips says he wouldn't at all want to change it, for villainous roles are his speciality.

A onetime undercover cop who was the model for the "Tightrope" television series in the 1960s, Phillips got into acting while serving as that show's technical adviser. Since then, he's appeared in more than 150 television programs and 27 feature films, all as a heavy.

He does it again, portraying a professional killer, in "The Capricorn Murders" on "Shaft" Tuesday, Jan. 29 (9:30-11 p.m.) on Channel 3N-9-11. And he wouldn't have it any other way, saying: "I have no desire to do comedy, to be a leading man or to play good-guy roles. I tried to once — as a good cop in a documentary. It was boring."

Insects To Conquer All?

"The Hellstrom Chronicle," the dramatic Academy Award and Grand Prix-winning "science-fact" movie which suggests a future in which insects may inherit the Earth, has its television premiere as a Special Motion Picture Presentation, Wednesday, Jan. 30 (8:30-10 p.m.) on Channel 3W-5-12. Lawrence Pressman stars as Dr. Nils Hellstrom in the film which Los Angeles Times critic

Charles Champlin called, "one of the freshest and most unusual movie experiences in some time," characterized by "a wild and exotic beauty, almost psychedelic in its frenzy of color and its extravagance of form." Critic Judith Crist found the film to be an "engrossing blend of science and science fiction. . . we go from the lyricism of living to the monstrosities of survival . . . simply - and literally - a stunner." Time magazine called the movie "a trip much worth taking."

In the film, Dr. Hellstrom is an entomologist (a Zoologist studying insects), whose radical theories have alienated all of his colleagues. His theory: not only will the struggle for survival ultimately boil down to a war between mankind and the insect world, but evidence indicates that the insect may well be the victor.

Dramatizing this theory, "The Hellstrom Chronicle" uses actual film of insects in microscopic close-ups, projected to human size on the screen.

IN THE TIDY 10
 Doc Severinsen, music director of "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson" has been selected by Professional Hair Stylist Magazine as one of the Ten Best Groomed Men of the Year.

Long Wait For Success

When Helen Reddy is asked if she minds working so hard, she replies: "No, I waited too long to be asked. I began singing in 1946 and I didn't have a hit until 1971." The talented singer will host "The Midnight Special" (1-2:30 a.m.) following the Friday, Feb. 1 presentation of "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson." This 90-minute show marks the series' first anniversary. Helen hosted the show when it premiered last February. Her now-gold record of "I Am Woman" hit the top spot in the music charts in December of 1972, and last year Helen won a Grammy Award as Best Female Pop Vocal Performance. She works at a hectic pace. In addition to concerts and personal appearances, she appeared in Las Vegas last year for the first time, and last summer she was Flip Wilson's summer replacement with her own NBC-TV variety show.

Scenic Wonder Adds To Show

What is the shortest route between Leo Carrillo Beach in California and Staten Island in New York? Advocates of the straight line theory may be surprised to discover that producer Greg Garrison makes the trip in 60 minutes and tosses in stops at plantations in Savannah, Lookout Mountain in Chattanooga, Stone Mountain National Park near Atlanta, and Andalusian horse ranch in Southern California, scenic Lake Tahoe in Nevada, the banks of the Cumberland River plus two of Tennessee's top breeding farms for steeplechase champions near Nashville, a railway station hotel in Chattanooga, the Capitol Building in Washington, D.C., the Governor's mansion in Atlanta...and even a visit to Wall Street in New York City.

This impressive list of actual settings provides a panoramic outdoor stage upon which Garrison will showcase no less than twenty individual musical numbers spotlighting the nations' top country western stars on what is appropriately called "Music Country, USA."

NOTEWORTHY

Gordon Lightfoot, who hosts "The Midnight Special" following the Feb. 22 presentation of "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson," has written songs for several entertainers including Johnny Cash, Harry Belafonte, Marty Robbins, Judy Collins and George Hamilton IV.

San Diego Open Set Saturday

ABC Sports will present exclusive live color coverage of the Andy Williams-San Diego Open, the second of 13 special golf telecasts on Saturday, Jan. 26 (6-7 p.m.), and Sunday, Jan. 27 (5-7 p.m.).

The ABC golf broadcasting team of Chris Schenkel, Frank Gifford and Bill Flemming will describe the action, and tournament host Andy Williams will join Schenkel on the 18th hole. All-time golf great Byron Nelson and golf pro Dave Marr will provide the expert commentary and analysis.

The Andy Williams Open from the Torrey Pines Country Club in San Diego, Calif., is one of the richest and most highly rated stops on the PGA tour, with a purse of $170,000. The San Diego Open has been on the PGA tour for 23 years, but the 1974 tournament is only the seventh sponsored by Andy Williams. Andy Williams' sponsorship plus the great number of celebrities who participate in the two-day Pro-Am lead to the tremendous popularity of the tournament.

The first place prize money, $34,000, is expected to lure virtually all of the PGA's top golfers. Among those expected to participate are defending champion Bob Dickson, Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino, Lanny Wadkins, Jerry Heard, Bruce Crampton, Tom Weiskopf, John Schlee, Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper, J. C. Snead, Davie Stockton, and Gene Littler.

Among the celebrities participating in this year's tournament will be: Andy Williams, Bob Hope, Jack Lemmon, Willie Mays, Robert Stack, Pahcho Gonzalez, Ray Bolger, Doug McClure, Tug McGraw, Claude Akins, Fred MacMurray, Ray Coniff, Foster Brooks and Tom Harmon.

The tournament record of the 7,047 yards, par 72 course was set by George Archer in 1971 with a 272.

'Go' Renewed For 2nd Season

"GO," the innovative Saturday program for children which premiered in September to widespread critical acclaim, has been renewed for a second season of colorcasts beginning this fall on NBC.

Currently broadcast from 12:30-1 p.m., "GO" utilizes the PCP-90 mobile videotape camera to bring to youngsters a variety of "first person" experiences, produced on location and narrated by a different well-known individual each week.

Among the experiences shared by viewers in the series' current season were: a look at police work as conducted by real police officers in New York City's 20th Precinct; attendance at the National Scout Jamboree-East in Pennsylvania's Moraine State Park, along with 40,000 scouts and 20,000 guests; the making of a recording, featuring the popular group, the Raspberries; and a visit to the Grand Nationals Drag Race in Sanair, Quebec, Canada.

The PCP-90 camera has demonstrated its portability and flexibility in actual production situations aboard a 38-foot speedboat, inside a police car, on a horse, in a helicopter and in an open-cockpit airplane.

The "GO" series will continue to be a "go anywhere, do anything" presentation.

SOUL VICE MAJORS

High Court Story For Children

If someone says, "I'll take my case to the United States Supreme Court," more than likely it won't happen.

A special CBS News broadcast for school children, "What the Supreme Court All About?" with Correspondent Fred Graham, highlights one case that made it — Brown versus the Topeka, Kansas, Board of Education (1954). The broadcast, which includes rare pictures of the Supreme Court courtroom and the Justices' conference room, will be presented Saturday, Feb. 2 (12-12:30 p.m.) on Channel 9-11.

The famous 1954 school desegregation decision concerning the civil rights of an eight-year-old black girl is one of the most significant cases in the history of judicial review.

In a suit against the Topeka school board, Oliver Brown claimed his daughter Linda was being deprived of rights guaranteed by the 14th amendment to the Constitution, which says everyone should be treated equal.

The Warren Court had to face a precedent set in 1986—Plessy v. Ferguson — when the Court ruled that separation of blacks and whites in public facilities was constitutional as long as the facilities were "equal."

Cartoon Teaches Hockey

"The concept of Peter Puck, our animated hockey puck," says Scotty Connal, Executive Producer, NBC Sports, "could be a major breakthrough in explaining the rules of all sports." NBC-TV is using the new cartoon character during its National Hockey League colorcasts to acquaint viewers with the rules and basics of the fastest game on ice.

According to Connal, who considers hockey to be "a game which may look difficult but is really very simple," NBC decided during its 1972-73 season of NHL coverage that "a cartoon approach is a most effective means of educating the average fan, while at the same time appealing to the sophisticated hockey follower."

Art Scott, an associate producer for Hann-Barbera Productions, creators of Peter Puck who have also given life to such well-known cartoon characters as the Flintstones, Huckleberry Hound and Yogi Bear, said this new creation "is our know-it-all guy, our spokesman for the game. He presents hockey in a more interesting fashion, he brings the sport to life."

Connal noted that Peter Puck has, in fact, been conceived as a means of making the explanation of hockey much more interesting. "The sophisticated hockey viewer," he said, "wouldn't sit still for many more blackboard-type presentations."

"An almost instant invention of Joe Barbera," according to Scott, Peter Puck will appear in four different segments, each three-and-a-half to four minutes long, throughout the season. He explains the rules not only between periods of the Game-of-the-Week hockey telecasts, but also on the "Today" program.

A Super Sports Concept

A super concept in sports competition which gave birth to "The Superstars," telecast in February, 1973, has been expanded into a new series of five special telecasts during the first quarter of 1974.

"The Superstars," which will feature 48 of the world's greatest athletes competing in various athletic events - other than those in which they compete professionally - will make its season's premiere on ABC, Sunday, Jan. 27 (2-3:15 p.m.).

Bob Seagren, holder of the world pole vault record, is the reigning Superstars Champion. Segren's entry into the 1973 Superstars came about when he replaced ailing golfer Gary Player as a competitor.

Competing for nearly $300,000 in prize money, 12 Superstars will participate in each of four preliminary rounds with the three highest scoring entrants advancing to the two-hour Superstars Final.

In each of the four preliminary rounds there will be a $42,000 purse to be divided among the participants: $100 for each point scored - the athletes earn ten, seven, four, two and one points for first through fifth place, respectively - plus $10,000 for the first place finisher, $5,000 for the second place finisher and $2,500 for the third place finisher.

When the 12 top finishers advance to the Superstars Final,

Another Sports Show Bows In

"CBS Eye on Sports," a 30-minute, comprehensive weekly sports news program covering the whole spectrum of the sports world, premieres on Sunday, Jan. 27 (5-5:30 p.m.).

Jack Whitaker, veteran sports-caster, will host the live broadcasts from New York City. The program will contain in-depth features, action sequences, editorial comments, live interviews, and reports from sporting events taking place that weekend.

Whitaker brings to this concept in sports programming his vast experience as a play-by-play commentator on all sports, and as a new commentator and writer.

MARK DONAHUE'S WHEEL lifts off the track as he leads the pack out of the hairpin Turn Six at Riverside International Raceway, during one heat of the International Race of Champions, seen on Wide World of Sports, Sunday, January 27 at 3:30 p.m. on ABC Channels 3W-5-12.

They will be competing for a total purse of $122,000 with $300 being awarded for each point scored. The first, second and third place prize purses will be $25,000, $15,000 and $10,000 respectively.

Mary Tyler Moore And Mable Normand Similar

On the wall of Stage 2 at CBS Studio Center in Hollywood, where "The Mary Tyler Moore Show," seen Saturdays (9-9:30 p.m.) on Channel 9-11, is filmed, a few steps away from the spot where Mary Tyler Moore parks her car five days a week, is a bronze plaque dedicating the stage to a beautiful lady who made millions laugh long before Miss Moore was born.

The plaque reads: "We dedicate this stage to the memory of a lovable artist, Mabel Normand. May we never forget her — a great soul who pioneered and gave purpose to the early motion picture. Through this new art she brought laughter and beauty otherwise denied millions burdened with despair and drabness."

Although Mabel Normand died in 1930, there are some rather startling similarities between her and Miss Moore.

Miss Normand was a dark-haired beauty, famous for her big brown eyes and beautiful teeth. So is Mary Tyler Moore.

Miss Normand was born in New York City. So was Miss Moore.

Mabel Normand got into show business at age 17. So did Mary Tyler Moore.

Further similarities include the fact that Miss Normand chose comedy over glamour roles, and proved that a woman can be funny without losing her femininity. Miss Moore made the same decision for herself, nearly half a century later.

And Mabel Normand, unlike many of her contemporaries in the Mack Sennett comedy era of silent films, was recognized for her shrewdness in judging other performers' talent. She was one of the first people in Hollywood to recognize the great comedy potential of Charles Chaplin, and because she was an undisputed star of comedy at the time, she had a great influence on Chaplin's career. She urged Mack Sennett to sign Chaplin to a contract, and she starred in many of Chaplin's first successes, even directing some of them herself.

Anyone familiar with "The Mary Tyler Moore Show" is aware that Miss Moore is also a shrewd judge of talent. Her cast has been called one of the finest ever assembled for a comedy series.

Happiness Has Link To No. 23

Some of Tom Bosley's happy days are linked with the number 23. Bosley stars as the father of a high school youth growing up in the 1950s in the nostalgic new series, "Happy Days," on Tuesdays (8-8:30 p.m.)

"I received the good news that the series had been sold on November 23," Bosley confided. "By coincidence, it was the anniversary of 'Fiorello,' which opened on Broadway on November 23, 1959 - for a run of 23 months."

While starring in the title role of the hit musical, Bosley became the first actor to sweep the Tony, Drama Critics, ANTA and Newspaper Guild Awards in one season.

Asked if playing the famed New York City mayor (Fiorello LaGuardia) for so long has brought typecasting problems, he replied: "Fortunately, the commercial people in the business knew I was not a one-shot. But it was hard to convince audiences, so there was a problem of being considered too soft, too nice to play villains."

Reminiscing, Bosley commented, "There is an illusion that occurs in the theatre. Mrs. LaGuardia had a romantic concept of her husband. She thought of him as a giant. So she wanted a Sinatra, not me, to portray him. Then, when she came into the theatre, and I was on stage in a black hat and black suit, she cried. And you should have seen the ones who did not get the part, but looked more like him than I. From about the tenth row back in the theatre, members of the audience have to create their own illusions. We can create stronger illusions on film," added Bosley, who later played Teddy in the Hallmark production of "Arsenic and Old Lace," and Senator George Norris in "Profiles in Courage."

For his new series role as the father of three youngsters during the 1950s, the actor turned to a real source for authenticity.

"In this series," Bosley notes, "The emphasis is on the middle child, 17-year-old Richie. My brother, an accountant in Skokie, Ill., has three children and I consider him a typical parent, so I am drawing from him. He has sent his older two to college and the third is following."

Of the series setting in the 50s, Bosley said: "In comparison to what we have had in this century, I'm not sure it would not be the 50s I would pick as the happiest period. We made tremendous progress socially and economically, then and the (Korean) war was over by the time this series takes place."

Giant Step Forward

'Reward' . . .

concrete and just as I would have had them. I would have this eerie feeling many times over the next weeks.

My greatest reward was in the thanks I received from local people while I was in Baton Rouge. Many believed that the character, Jane Pittman had really lived. Many thanked me for writing my book, and thanked me for making the film possible. I told them that Tomorrow Entertainment and CBS deserved the thanks, but I appreciated their comments that my book had made it possible.

Elderly black Southern women like patting you on the shoulder, the arm or the back as they talk, if they're proud of you. I was pleased to receive many such pats, and one or two mentioned that they had nice daughters—which is when I edged away.

My last day on location, I spoke with an elderly white man during lunch, as he looked around him thoughtfully at the group assembled at tables under the trees. This man knew my part of the country; he had hunted the swamps and fished the rivers. He was proud of what was happening here, and he introduced me to his son, who had a small job with the production company, he was obviously proud, too, that his son was involved in the project.

"This is going to be a great picture," he told me. "I know it. Just look what's happening here. Look at the people sitting and eating together, working together, talking. You think this could have happened when you left here 25 years ago? No, things changed."

As we shook hands good-bye, his young son, who had been standing there quietly during the exchange, looked proudly at his papa.

FOR PAUL BROWN, coach of the Cincinnati Bengals
How do you compare O. J. Simpson of the Buffalo Bills and Jimmy Brown, your ex-star with the Cleveland Browns? — David Strong, Austin, Texas

● Jim Brown was a bigger man, a more power-style of runner. O. J. has tremendous speed like Brown, but he's more comparable to ex-Cleveland halfback Bobby Mitchell. The unusual thing about O. J. is his durability. He can run so many times without getting tired. His moves are the thing. Jim Brown had moves, too, but he also had tremendous power. A much faster Franco Harris—that's what Brown used to be.

FOR SEN. HENRY M. JACKSON (D-Wash.)

What about the Navy's petroleum reserves we keep hearing about. Shouldn't we start using them? — K. Esterbrooke, Skokie, Ill.

● I agree, we should use them. The naval petroleum reserves could, within three months, add 160,000 barrels a day to domestic crude-oil production. They have very real potential for lessening U.S. dependence on imported oil.

FOR SALLY STRUTHERS of "All in the Family"

Are you an only child? — J. Pearsonal, Washington, D.C.

● No, I have one sister. I always wanted a brother. There was a foster child named Ernie in school and my sister and I just loved him. We kept asking Mom, "Can we own Ernie?" She thought about it, but we couldn't afford Ernie because my mother was really raising us by herself. (My parents separated when I was seven.)

FOR JOHN WAYNE

You were quoted as saying you would not remove your POW bracelet "until the s.o.b. is sitting at my dinner table." Have you had the pleasure of his company yet? — S. Welch, Decatur, Ill.

● I don't remember this quotation, but those words are in my active vocabulary so I may have said it. I'm sorry to say we haven't been able to get one shred of information concerning him.

FOR JOAN BLONDELL

You've starred with some of Hollywood's greatest leading men. Who was your favorite, and did anyone give you trouble? — Grace Johnson, Akron, Ohio

● George Brent was a wonderful comedian! And I think Pat O'Brien, James Cagney, Clark Gable, Errol Flynn and Spencer Tracy were all marvelous. I got along with everyone. If I fight, I'll use my fists on the street. No reason to let anger enter into my work.

FOR JON VOIGHT, actor

You campaigned on behalf of Senator McGovern in 1972. Did you run into the so-called "Dirty Tricks" brigade of the Republican party? — John Morrison, Pittsburgh, Pa.

● On two occasions I know of, people who said they represented McGovern phoned local organizations to say I would speak at high schools in their areas. In both cases, a crowd showed up and I didn't because I wasn't scheduled to do so. Of course, I can't prove that these calls came from the Republicans. They could have come from practical jokers.

FOR LEON JAWORSKI, Watergate special prosecutor

Why should President Nixon turn over all of his tape recordings to the court for safekeeping? I understand there are hundreds of them. — M. K. R., Van Nuys, Calif.

● I think that if I were the White House, I would like to see them placed in custody so that there couldn't be anything happening to them. That would be my desire.

FOR CARROLL O'CONNOR

Do you smoke a lot of cigars? — S. J., Fort Smith, Ark.

● Not many—only one or two a day.

FOR KENT McCORD, Officer Jim Reed in "Adam-12"

You and Marty Milner are now in your sixth year as policemen on "Adam-12." How have you managed to get along for so long? — B. Z., Elmira, N.Y.

● We decided during the first year that if either of us did something that annoyed the other, the annoyed person would come right out and talk about it. It's like a marriage: Let an argument grow and eventually it will break up a couple. I've practiced this in my own marriage—and maybe that's why I still have a happy one after 11 years.

FOR ANN LANDERS, newspaper columnist

What is the leading problem that your readers write you about? And what advice do you give them? — Robert Barney, San Antonio, Texas

● The problem I hear about most often—and it's the one that has led all others for the 18 years that I've been writing the column—is the man-and-wife problem. Usually the woman writes. It's alcoholism, cheating, gambling, brutality or "his mother." I tell her to ask herself this question: "Would your life be better or worse without him?" Make your decision on this basis. Often the woman writes back and says, "Thanks, Ann. I decided to keep the bum."

Can't Diet or Exercise— Or Break Habits? “Behaviorism” Offers This Key to a New You

By Earl Ubell

Especially for FAMILY WEEKLY

“Then a strange thing happened. I was overweight. I thought of dying. I thought of my father on his deathbed—overweight. Every time I went for the high-calorie food, I saw the picture of my dad.”

You want to lose weight and you eat. You want to exercise and you sit. You want to write that report for your boss and you watch television. You want to keep your house neat and you can't get started cleaning. You want to sleep and you lie awake all night.

You want and you can't. You're not alone—millions of men and women are trapped by their killing habits. Take eating. Americans are 15 percent overweight and it is killing us with heart attacks. Yet eating too much is a habit. If you want to live longer you have to change the habit.

Today, psychologists have discovered ways to help you become a master of rather than a slave to your habits. They've taken the ancient Biblical idea of reward and punishment and brought it up to date, made it humane and useful. They use it to change behavior of people suffering from bad habits: nail-biting, bed-wetting, stuttering, fears of flying, elevators or animals, problems of sex and sleep. They call it behavior modification.

The mind scientists have uncovered the laws of reward and punishment, and essentially they are these:

● If you reward a behavior soon after it happens, then the chances are that that particular behavior will happen again. The rewards can be food, praise, money, or even a gold star like the ones we used to get in school.

● If you punish a behavior just before it happens, then the chances are that that behavior will not be repeated. The punishments can be withholding of food, money fines, loss of privilege, or a black X on a chart. Psychologists don't like to use punishment, because although it works to break habits, it makes people angry. The psychologists prefer reward, although they do use punishment sometimes.

Here's how the psychologist stops bed-wetting in a child. First he places a wire-mesh screen under the child before bedtime. If the child wets, the liquid touches the wire and a buzzer goes off, waking the child to remind him to go to the bathroom. The buzzer is enough to stop the bed-wetting after the first few drops of liquid.

In the morning, the mother or father praises the child for going to the bathroom. If the parents are consistent in their praise (ignoring the “accidents”), the habit will be broken. The reward after success is the parents' praise. The buzzer is a mild punishment.

Almost 40 years ago, Dr. B. F. Skinner, a psychologist at Harvard, gave the behavior modification idea a great push forward with his experiments with pigeons. By rewarding them with food, Dr. Skinner got the birds to do marvelous things. During World War II, there was a serious plan to use Skinner-trained pigeons as bombardiers. But electronics proved to be a little more efficient.

You can apply the pigeon principles to your own habits. I did. I lost nearly 25 pounds some years ago by changing my eating habits. I discovered how to do it by accident, as many have, but science today shows how to use behavior modification on purpose.

In 1948, my father died of a heart attack at the age of 44. Like so many Americans, he was 40 pounds overweight and he ate rich, fatty foods that sent his cholesterol skyrocketing. He died in the epidemic that is killing almost a million men and women years before their time. At the hospital, the attendant, thinking he was doing me a favor, asked me if I wanted to look at my father on his deathbed. I did. I'll never forget that poor, shriveled face, still gaunt with the last pain.

About seven years later, I went on a diet to lose weight. On my forbidden list: corned beef, hamburger, hot dogs, ice cream, pie, cake. But I couldn't stop eating them. I was addicted. Then a strange thing happened. I was overweight. I thought of dying. I thought of my father on his deathbed—overweight. Every time I went for the high-calorie food, I saw the picture of my dad. I turned away from the hamburger. I switched to a salad. Triumphant, I thought of a pleasant scene: walking hand in hand with my wife. It happened day after day; and week after week I lost weight.

Today I know I used my father's death scene to punish myself before I could eat the forbidden food. And the pleasant scene of my wife and me after taking the salad encouraged the repetition of a good habit.

Here's what you do to diet. First make a list of foods you want to avoid and of the eating behavior you want to change: taking second portions, eating between meals, eating while watching television, etc. Next, prepare some ugly scene: your own death, for example, or being so fat you can't go through a doorway—whatever scene is strong enough to stop the eating behavior. My wife has an image of a very fat woman in a shiny green dress.

Then you need a pleasant thought for a reward.

From then on, when you are confronted with that second portion, or eating at night, or ice cream or some forbidden food, you turn on the ugly

"When we found out what AARP does for people over 55, my wife didn't mind telling her age."

"After a friend of ours told us about the American Association of Retired Persons, I said to my wife, 'Irma, Everybody's having fun but us. Lots of people out there are having a marvelous time and we're sitting home counting the years.' So I picked myself right up and filled out an AARP coupon just like the one on this page. I want to tell you it was the best thing we ever did."

WHAT'S AARP?

AARP is the American Association of Retired Persons or as we like to think of ourselves — The new social security. A non-profit association of almost 6 million people. Anybody who's over 55 can belong. And all it costs to be a member is $2 a year. Which is almost like buying a whole new life for a few cents a week. You can stay home and enjoy it. You can be rich. Poor. Healthy. Not so healthy. It's one of the few organizations in the world that offers you the opportunity to give so much of yourself, and at the same time provides so many benefits and services. Simply because its one purpose is to help you continue to feel vital, important and involved in every part of life.

WHAT YOU GET

To begin with, you can continue your education. You can fill your leisure time with hundreds of new meaningful activities. At home. Or outside. You can get help in finding part-time work. Be assured of reasonable prices on medicines, travel, on many of the necessities of life including health insurance. You can meet new people. Make your voice heard in government. You'll receive two fine publications written just for you. In other words, you're going to have fun again and find that life is more than just a way to pass time.

DON'T STOP LEARNING

AARP's Institute of Lifetime Learning offers a full program of education courses in music appreciation, psychology, creative writing, literature, government, and a variety of other subjects. There are home study courses or you can attend lectures at regional centers around the country.

BE REPRESENTED IN GOVERNMENT

AARP's legislative program represents you in your state legislature and Congress. Its 33-point program is a Bill of Rights to all older persons retired or not. We let you know what's happening. So that you can know about all of the legislation put through on your behalf.

FEEL BETTER WITH HEALTH INSURANCE

Medicare doesn't cover everything. So one of AARP's most important services is eligibility for special supplementary Group Health Insurance Plans. They help you to pay for the best medical and surgical treatment, and include a unique Nursing Home and Home-Nursing Care Plan. You'll feel better just having this kind of protection.

PHARMACY SERVICE

Because of the buying power represented by almost 6 million AARP members, AARP makes it possible for you to get over-the-counter and prescription medicine and supplies at realistic prices and have them delivered to your home, postage paid.

GO PLACES

Where would you like to travel? Around the world? Across the country? AARP's travel service can help you do it. You can choose from a wide variety of quality tours and cruises, ranging from luxury to economy, most of them escorted by experienced tour directors. The world is there. All you have to do is go into it.

FEEL LIKE WORKING?

Just because you're retired doesn't mean you can't work. Mature Temps, an AARP recommended service, may be able to help you supplement your retirement income with part-time or temporary employment. There are offices in a number of major metropolitan areas across the country. Just call. Their service is free.

PARTICIPATE IN CHAPTER ACTIVITIES

Chances are there's an AARP Chapter near you. (There are 1500 of them around the United States). If you'd like to go to a meeting and find out about the inside workings of AARP, just come on over. It's a great way to make our association grow stronger and a fine opportunity for you to meet dozens of vital people your own age.

WANT TO GET INVOLVED?

At Local Chapters you'll have the opportunity to find out about community services in which you can lend a helping hand. You can learn more about the Defensive Driving Courses, the Consumer Information Desk or participate in the Tax Aide Program. Or just meet new friends.

NEED ADVICE?

AARP provides its members with a series of booklets that guide retired people through areas of particular concern. They cover everything from how to get personal help, to health advice, moving, diet, and all the little problems that trouble you from time to time.

WORRIED ABOUT AUTO INSURANCE*?

If you're an AARP member, you will receive information about how you may be able to actually save money on your auto insurance with a policy that has guaranteed renewable and limited-cancellation features.

LIKE TO READ?

When you join AARP you automatically receive subscriptions to AARP's official publications, Modern Maturity and the AARP News Bulletin, two publications filled with news and features of special interest to you.

Earl Ubell: A New You

thought. The behavior stops before it starts. You switch to something low calorie: a glass of water is fine. You think the pleasant thought. Fairly soon you will find your addiction to sweet, fatty foods going down, and you will be losing weight.

You can also apply behavior modification to getting started on an exercise program. It's a fact that every time people enroll in a voluntary exercise program, 50 percent or more drop out within a few weeks. Only a fraction continue for life. Behavior modification tells why they drop out. Most exercise programs are painful, especially at the start. Pain is punishment. You cannot make a habit out of a behavior if you are punished for doing it.

If you want to make a habit out of exercise, you have to do it so that it doesn't hurt, at least at first. Suppose you want to start a jogging program (or it could be walking, cycling, rowing, swimming—anything that will give your heart and lungs a workout). Set aside the same time every day, and follow the rules:

First day: Jog easily until you are uncomfortable. If anything hurts, STOP. Walk back home. Suppose you jogged only 50 yards. Fine. Mark your calendar for the day: 50 yards.

Second day: Jog easily 53 yards. You can estimate that by counting the number of times your left foot hits the ground. If you begin hurting before 53 yards, STOP.

And so you go, day by day, never going past pain or discomfort, adding just a few yards each day and marking your calendar. If you increase the distance only three yards a day, at the end of a year you'll be jogging half a mile. Actually, you'll discover that things will speed up and you'll be going a couple of miles in a few months. But don't press it. Make it a habit and it will last your lifetime.

There is no end to the usefulness of making and breaking habits. Suppose you want to learn to clean up a messy room. First write down the steps: 1) Pick up papers. 2) Pick up clothing. 3) Put clothing away. 4) Make the bed. 5) Sweep the floor. 6) Empty wastebaskets. 7) Wash windows, etc.

Next, figure out a reward. It could be a cup of hot coffee or a cold drink (watch out for calories!). Immediately after completing a job on your list, take a sip of the drink; not a gulp, just a sip. You'll find the job fly by—and you'll have a habit of cleaning if you do it a few times.

Even reading can be helped. Use the Thermos trick. Every time you finish a page, take a sip. Soon reading itself will be rewarding. If you want to speed up, use a stopwatch and reward yourself each time you read one page faster than the preceding one. You'll find yourself reading faster.

Behavior modification can be used to give you a good and long life. It's not easy. It does take a long time, longer than most of the fad tricks that offer to make you slimmer, stronger and sexier. But science has shown that it does work best of any method for changing habits. If you use it you can save your life for creative and pleasurable days ahead.

Can You Make Money Collecting Rare Plates?

Will this plate multiply in value to 10, 15 or even 20 times its original price as other fine art plates have done?

A successful art dealer in a Chicago suburb has announced a new, easy way to start collecting rare porcelain plates with the potential to become heirlooms of the future with exceptionally high resale value.

According to Thomas Gilmore II, president of this dealership, one decorative "annual" plate priced at $25 in 1965 now brings $1,050, and one china plate selling at $10 in 1969 now sells for $245. In the past only a few fortunate people could afford to collect works of art, but now literally thousands of collectors with only average incomes enjoy this fascinating hobby for pleasure and profit.

Mr. Gilmore says, "Since many plates do not increase in value, amateurs often make serious mistakes. It's critical to know what to look for, what to pay, when to sell, and much more." Even if you have never collected plates before, there are little-known guidelines that tell you how to own plates of the finest porcelain designed by a distinguished artist for a modest outlay of money.

To help you get started in the rewarding hobby of plate collecting, the dealer now offers a new free report just off the press. It tells you how to look for good design, rarity, historic importance, and other important clues to selecting beautiful art plates that could grow in value in the years ahead.

This free report is available to Family Weekly readers who wish to own beautiful hand-crafted plates produced in America and abroad. It tells how you can be one of the first to own a stunning porcelain made in France for a surprisingly low price and lists other selections that could become tomorrow's treasured heirlooms.

If you seek a new hobby that could lead to extra spare-time income, here's your opportunity to find out about the wonderful world of collecting objects d'art. The dealer invites individuals (not dealers) to send for a free copy of this valuable and interesting report.

To get yours, just send your name, address, and zip code to Thomas Gilmore, Bradford Galleries, 1004 Sunset Ridge, Northbrook, Illinois 60062. A postcard will do. There is no obligation for this service. Because of limited quantities, please mail your request by March 1, 1974, to receive your free copy.

These Budget-Stretchers Are Delicious

TIPS FOR BUDGET SHOPPERS

Prices on even the so-called "lower" priced foods vary from time to time and from store to store. Some practical suggestions:

- Buy foods at special or sale price, freezing where suitable and storing for later use.

- Take advantage of coupons; note individual store manager's specials on meat, poultry and seafood.

- Near closing time, especially over a weekend, many supermarkets sell bakery goods and seafood at half price.

- Keep a file, scrapbook or bulletin board of low-cost recipes that your own family likes or you think they'd like to try.

A FAVORITE BEAN SOUP OF U.S. SENATORS

FAMILY WEEKLY phoned Chef Antonio Cola of the U.S. Senate Restaurant for this recipe, scaled down for home use.

1 lb. navy or Great Northern beans, rinsed
Water
1 (1 lb.) smoked ham hock
1 cup finely chopped onion
1 cup finely chopped celery
Salt
Pepper

1. Soak beans overnight in refrigerator in 2 qts. water. For quick soak, bring beans and water to boil and boil about 2 minutes. Cover and let stand 1 hour.

2. Drain beans and measure liquid. Add enough hot water to make 3 qts. Place soaked beans, water and ham hock in kettle. Bring to boiling. Reduce heat; cover; simmer 2 hours.
3. Add onion and celery and simmer 1 hour. Remove ham hock and cut up meat, discard bone. Return meat to soup.

4. Using potato masher, lightly mash soup, leaving some beans whole. If too thick, add 1 cup water. (If too thin, simmer uncovered ½ hour, stirring occasionally.) Heat. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

some of the tomato-onion liquid over each layer. Pour 1 cup of reserved bean liquid over casserole.

7. Bake covered for 1 hour, until bubbly, adding a little bean liquid if casserole becomes dry. Sprinkle with chopped parsley just before serving.

Makes 6-8 servings

Make-ahead note: You may make ahead, bake as above, refrigerate. Reheat covered in preheated 350° F. oven for 2 hours. Cassoulet may also be assembled, baked and frozen. When ready to cook, thaw completely in refrigerator and reheat.

*Cassoulet—In the strict French definition of the word: a stew made of goose, mutton, pork and beans. Our version, using chicken, sausage and bacon, is an adaptation.

A half pound of sausage goes a long way in this tasty recipe for Sausage-Bean Polenta.

SAUSAGE-BEAN POLENTA

½ teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon garlic salt
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper

Polenta:

1 cup enriched cornmeal
1 teaspoon salt
1 cup cold water
3 cups boiling water

2. Add beans, tomatoes, tomato sauce, oregano, salt, garlic salt and pepper; stir to combine the ingredients. Heat sauce to boiling. Reduce heat; simmer uncovered about 20 minutes, stirring occasionally.

3. For polenta: Combine cornmeal, salt and cold water. Slowly add to boiling water, stirring constantly. Cook until thickened. Cover; reduce heat and continue cooking 10 minutes. Stir in grated cheese.

4. To serve: Spoon polenta onto large platter, making a ring. Fill center of ring with ½ of sauce. Serve rest of sauce separately. Makes 6 servings

A Celebrity Cooks

By Ed McMahon

In conversation with Helen Dorsey

"I've Come a Long Way Since

"I flew in on a plane and had the turkey and ham strapped in like passengers behind me. I also brought along several bottles of 1949 Lafitte Rothschild.... It was a little slippery, so when I got off the plane I told my friends, 'Listen, don't worry about me or the ham or the turkey. But save the wine!'"

I've always had a tendency to overeat. I grew up in the tradition of an old Irish family, where they had potatoes at every meal, and pork chops and gravy for breakfast! My grandmother never heard of cereals. She was a great cook! I still remember her house. Every morning I'd wake up around 5:30 or 6:00 and hear the sound of her old-fashioned washing machine as it churned and shook the whole house. And then I'd smell her bread baking in the oven. I tell you, I was shot down before I even got out of bed!

Many people question me about the source of my great energy. I really don't know what it is. I've always had a drive, even when I was a kid. I was the first kid in my neighborhood to sell the "Saturday Evening Post" and win a bike. Later I had a paper route and sold lemonade on the street corner. I was always doing some darn thing. Even when I was in the service as a fighter pilot, I ran the bingo games on Wednesday nights and was the announcer for every sporting event.

I like relaxed living. I love to get my friends together and socialize. Usually it's an evening of dinner with just the right people around, no more than four or six. We never sit formally at the table.

I think the secret of cooking is constant attention. Even if I'm only making scrambled eggs and cheese, I never leave the pan. I time it so everything is done at the same time. The bacon is cooked and kept warm and dry, and the toast is all ready.

Last New Year's I was invited to visit some friends in Aspen, Colo. I arrived with a turkey and a ham already cooked. I flew in on a plane and had the turkey and ham strapped in like passengers behind me. I also brought along several bottles of 1949 Lafitte Rothschild, strapped in beside me. It was a little slippery, so when I got off the plane I told my friends, "Listen, don't worry about me or the ham or the turkey. But save the wine!"

IS THERE A SOYBEAN IN YOUR FUTURE?

Soybeans are a great source of protein—almost as good as meat, eggs, milk and cheese. Soybeans have been eaten in China for at least 4,000 years, but several new soybean-based food products are now making an appearance in the U.S.

In some supermarkets—Red Owl (Minneapolis), Kroger, I.G.A., Super Value and Publix Markets, to name a few—ground meat is sold with a textured soy product already added. It sells at 16 to 20 cents a pound less than regular ground meat. Soy products that can be added to ground meat are also available.

Another way soybeans are used today is in "analogs," which are made to look and taste like meat, fish and poultry. Science has also come up with soy sausages, ham and meatballs that contain no meat, no cholesterol, no animal fat and have good flavor and fair-to-good texture or "mouth feel."

HOW TO COOK SOYBEANS

2 cups soybeans, rinsed
¼ cup vegetable oil
1 tablespoon salt
Water

½ cup chopped onion
½ cup chopped celery

1. Combine soybeans with oil, salt and enough water to cover. Soak overnight in refrigerator.
2. Next day, drain and discard liquid. Cook in either of following ways.
3. Regular Method: Turn soybeans into large 3-4-qt. saucepan. Add 2 qts. water, onion and celery. Bring to boiling. Cover; reduce heat and simmer for 2½-2¾ hours, until soybeans are tender.
4. Drain. Use soybeans as is or in recipes; use liquid in soups.
5. Pressure Cooker: Turn soybeans into pressure cooker; add water to cover beans well. Allow 1 qt. water in 4-qt. pressure cooker. Do not fill cooker over half full.
6. Close cover, heat pressure cooker. When regulator rocks steadily and air vent is up, start timing. Cook 30 minutes. Remove from heat, let pressure drop of its own accord.

Soybeans are a good source of protein.

SOY PLUS BURGERS

1 envelope (1.65 ozs.) textured soy protein
1 egg
2 tablespoons Worcestershire sauce
¼ teaspoon ground black pepper
1½ teaspoons salt
1 lb. ground beef

1. Pour textured soy protein granules and water into medium bowl, mix. Let soak for 5 minutes, stir.
2. Add remaining ingredients; mix well.
3. Shape into 5-6 burgers. Fry or broil as you would any burger; medium-rare produces the juiciest burger.

PRESSURE-COOKER SOYBEAN CHILI CON CARNE

2 tablespoons vegetable oil
1 lb. ground beef
½ cup water
4 cups cooked soybeans
2 cans (1-lb. size) stewed tomatoes
1½ cups chopped onion
1 tablespoon chopped garlic
4 teaspoons chili powder
1½ teaspoons salt
¼ teaspoon paprika
1 teaspoon cumin seed, optional
2 cans (1-lb. size) kidney beans, undrained

1. Heat pressure cooker. Add oil; brown beef. Stir in remaining ingredients, except kidney beans. Close cover securely.
2. Heat pressure cooker. When pressure regulator begins to rock gently and plunger in automatic air vent is up, pressure is correct. Reduce heat to maintain a slow, steady motion of pressure regulator. Start timing at this point. Cook 10 minutes.
3. When time is up, let pressure drop of its own accord. Stir in kidney beans. Correct seasoning.
4. Serve in deep soup bowls, or serve over hot cooked rice. Makes 2½ qts.

If you don't smoke, show this ad to someone who does.

There are a lot of people in the world who don't smoke.

But since a lot of people who don't smoke know a lot of people who do, you might tell some of them about Vantage.

You could tell them that if they really enjoy the taste of their present cigarette but are concerned about the 'tar' and nicotine, they should understand that where there is taste there is smoke and where there is smoke there has to be some 'tar' and some nicotine.

You could also tell them that the thing that makes Vantage so special is that its filter is based on an innovative design concept that gives smokers flavor like a full-flavor cigarette without anywhere near the 'tar' or the nicotine.

Then you could let them know that while Vantage isn't the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette they can buy, it is the lowest one they'll really enjoy.

Because when people have to work so hard sucking smoke through a cigarette, they probably won't like it, and won't smoke it.

You could tell them that Vantage draws easy and tastes just fine.

You could tell them all this.

Or you could just show them this ad.

Thanks.

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

The Age-Old Question... Which Sex Is Superior?

True or False: Differences in men and women—in the way they think, feel and react—are principally due to environment and upbringing. (See number 5)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Women are biologically superior to men.
2. Women cry for different reasons than men do.
3. Men are rated higher than women for given levels of accomplishment.
4. Women are more willing than men to admit unacceptable impulses.
5. Differences in men and women—in the way they think, feel and react—are principally due to environment and upbringing.

ANSWERS

1. True—according to a study conducted by Dr. William F. Frye, Jr., of Stanford University Medical School, which evaluates the findings of leading researchers thusly: "Men are biologically inferior to women in several rather crucial areas." First, of course, is the fact that man doesn't live as long as woman. But there's also the fact that girls mature earlier than boys, mentally as well as physically; that more boys than girls fail to survive the first three years of life; that men are more subject than women to a long list of ailments and afflictions. It's further observed that the off-color jokes men tell about sex often reveal "anxiety about the general presence of these biological disadvantages or frailties."
2. True. In a psychological study of equal numbers of men and women of various ages, in which each person was given a confidential questionnaire interview, the way people cry was broken down into four classifications in order of increasing intensity: "Lump in the throat, watery eyes (without flow of tears), flowing tears, and sobbing." No appreciable difference was found between the sexes in the lump-in-the-throat category, but men experienced watery eyes to a significantly greater extent than women. The women, however, were more than twice as subject to flowing tears and sobbing. Furthermore, investigation shows that men are far more likely to weep when overjoyed by a circumstance involving strong emotional feelings than women are. But far more women than men wept "when the prevailing state was anguish."

3. True—with certain qualifications—as evidenced by a Purdue University study of the ratings given men's and women's accomplishments in terms of competence and intelligence. Results: "Highly competent males were rated more positively than highly competent females." However, women got a break in the opposite direction, with males of low competence being rated lower than similar females.

4. False. Psychological studies have shown that women tend to deny unacceptable impulses, while men are more inclined to admit desires and inclinations that are generally looked at askance by society. Women, it would seem, feel a greater necessity to avoid admissions that might be frowned upon by others.

5. False—according to University of California studies of developmental differences between men and women. It's concluded that hormones instill different characteristics into male and female brains; thus certain behavioral differences between the sexes have a genetic rather than an environmental origin. And findings cited in a National Institute of Mental Health study bear out the fact that men's and women's brains very definitely differ. It's further pointed out that from birth, females are more sensitive to stimulation, and are more sensitively attuned to influences of body states upon existence.

To order your 13 records or tapes just mail the application provided, together with your check or money order for $1.97 as payment. That is all you pay for your first 13 selections—there are no additional membership dues or fees for joining. (Be sure to indicate whether you want cartridges, cassettes, reel tapes or records.) In exchange...

You agree to buy just nine more selections (at regular Club prices) in the coming two years. And you may cancel your membership at any time after you've purchased your nine selections.

Your own charge account will be opened upon enrollment... and the selections you order as a member will be mailed and billed at the regular Club prices: cartridges and cassettes, $6.98; reel tapes, $7.98; records, $4.98 or $5.98... plus processing and postage. (Occasional special selections may be somewhat higher.)

You may accept or reject selections as follows: every four weeks (13 times a year) you will receive a new copy of the Club's music magazine, which describes the Selection of the Month for each musical interest... plus hundreds of alternate selections from every field of music. In addition, about six times a year we will offer some special selections (usually at a discount off regular Club prices). A response card will be enclosed with each magazine.

...if you do not want any selection offered mail the response card by the date specified

...if you want only the Selection of the Month for your musical interest, you need do nothing—it will be shipped to you automatically

...if you want any of the other selections offered just order them on the response card and mail it by the date specified.

You will always have at least 10 days in which to make a decision. If for any reason you do not have 10 days in which to decide, you may return the regular selection at our expense and you will receive full credit for it.

You'll be eligible for the Club's bonus plan upon completing your enrollment agreement—a plan which enables you to save at least 33% on all your future purchases. Act now!

How to keep your money from being MURDERED!

by Gary Halbert

© 1974 Good News Publishing Co.

If you are lucky enough to have any money set aside for a rainy day and you're keeping it in a savings account, you are really loosing money hand over fist.

Your money is probably earning about 5¼ per cent interest. Since inflation is averaging 8 per cent to 10 per cent a year, you are not even breaking even. And the way things are going this year it can only get worse.

Do you realize that you have to spend $1.49 to buy as much steak as you could buy for a dollar only a few months ago?

If you have any money invested in the stock market, you are really asking for it. Eighteen months ago Winnebago was considered one of the safest of the blue chip stocks on the New York Stock Exchange. A thousand dollars invested in this "safe" stock only a year and a half ago, as of this writing, would have shrunk to $145.00. And hundreds of stocks have done even worse.

What about U.S. Savings Bonds? As an investment they are really a joke. Ten years ago if you had invested $1,000.00 of your hard earned money in series "E" government bonds you would have by now earned only $7.44 a year in purchasing power.

Well, how about keeping your money hidden in an old sock under the mattress? Had you tucked away a thousand dollars in this manner in 1957, by now your purchasing power would have dropped a full 40 per cent. Are things about to get better?

No way.

The year 1974 promises to produce the highest inflation rate in the last 22 years. Prices, as you may have noticed, are going no where but up. Some, like meat and gasoline are going right out of sight. The plain fact is that your money is in more danger right now than at anytime since 1929.

Is there a way out? Is there any place at all to put your money where it is safe? Where will it earn enough interest to keep ahead of inflation? Where you can get at it instantly in case of an emergency? Is there?

You bet there is!

The answer is going to surprise you. The best place to keep your money is probably the same place you are keeping it now. In your bank in a savings account. You've got to start doing things a little differently, however.

Here is just one of the things you can do if you know how. You can go to your bank, take out your savings, fill out a new deposit ticket, put the money right back into another savings account and increase the interest on your savings from 6 to 15 per cent. All in one day! Hard to believe isn't it? But this is just the beginning.

Listen to all of this!

- When you open a new account you can get ten bank gifts instead of one.
- You can withdraw your money and still earn interest on it.
- You can have two savings accounts paying you interest at the same time on the same money.
- You can earn interest on money you have spent months ago.
- You can earn more money on your checking account than most people earn on their savings accounts.
- You can earn interest on the money other people have on deposit.

All of this is perfectly legal. Everything you will be doing is not only permitted but actually encouraged by banks and other financial institutions because the more money you make the more money they make. In fact, they use these techniques themselves. And during all this, your money will be insured 100 per cent by the U.S. Government. All of this is carefully explained in a new book titled, "How to Rob a Bank Without a Gun."

The book was written by an Ohio school teacher named George Jenney as part of a research project for a publishing company. The book is easy-to-read, easy-to-understand, and can lead you step-by-step to a new financial independence. The book is not now available at book stores or newsstands.

You can get a copy if you hurry by sending your name and address and $6.95 in cash, check, or money order payable to The Good News Publishing Co., Dept. No. 1017, 7576 Freedom Ave., N.W., North Canton, Ohio 44720.

The book will be sent to you promptly by return mail. The publisher guarantees that this book will show you how to at least double the earning power of your money.

If not, or for any reason you are dissatisfied, you can return the book for a full and immediate refund of your entire purchase price. You can't lose.

Send for the book today. Remember, now more than ever you have a real money fight on your hands and it is only going to get worse.

Here is a chance to put the odds on your side.

PRACTICAL PRINCESS
A nursing career

Fairy tales can come true: While Princess Anne is taking high hurdles in horse shows all around the world, Princess Marie Astrid of Luxembourg is attending nursing school at the Clinique de Sacre Coeur. Does this mean princesses are becoming more liberated? Perhaps—but if not, they are certainly becoming less sheltered. Princess Marie Astrid, 19, the eldest of five children of Grand Duke Jean and his wife Princess Josephine-Charlotte of Belgium, will graduate from her three-year nursing course this year.

Ever heard of a "grass roots" hospital? The concept, a relatively new one, brings medical care to suburbanites or small-town dwellers through investor-owned hospitals that don't require public funds. Humana Inc., one of the major companies in this field, currently operates 49 hospitals around the country. Because they're businesses rather than nonprofit organizations, they have to try harder. At least, that's the hope. Their equipment is reportedly more up to date, their facilities are more modern and they don't cost the taxpayers anything. Essentially what this means is that you will no longer have to travel long distances or undergo lengthy bureaucratic briefings in large, urban hospitals before getting treatment.

"ODD JOB" SPEAKS
Evil is only skin deep

Remember this distinguished face? It's "Odd Job," lethal henchman in the James Bond thriller, "Goldfinger"; it's also the home-wrecking cougher in the celebrated cough-syrup commercials. Owner of this face is Harold Sakata, part-time actor/wrestler/real estate developer, and a former weight-lifting silver medalist in the 1948 Olympics. "Ahhh!" says Sakata in his soft, accented voice, "the people see me and say, 'Odd Job. How cruel and evil he looks.' That is because they don't know the real me. The real me is a quiet, somewhat shy guy. A humble guy. This is a throwback to my boyhood, when I was small and puny and unsure of myself." Harold smiles self-effacingly. "It is hard for a man to turn away from a fight. That is why you go to the mountaintop, to meditate and discipline yourself. With this kind of philosophy you will not do things you are sorry for." So speaks the gentle Sakata. Anybody want to argue?

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY

By Richard Armour

GOLDEN TRASHERY

"He who steals my purse steals trash. . . ."

I'd call that statement rather rash,
At least applied to purse or wallet,
Whatever you prefer to call it,
Containing driver's license, which
When lost makes moods as black as pitch,

And credit cards affording surety,
And memberships, Social Security,
As well as snapshots irreplaceable
Of child or grandchild, hardly faceable.

Who steals my purse affects my life.
I'd just as soon they'd steal my wife.
(Assuming, once I felt the lack, They'd very kindly bring her back.)

It's getting harder and harder to support the Government in the style to which it has become accustomed.

—Henry E. Leabo

A Golden Anniversary is when you wonder who those two people are in your wedding picture. —Robert Orben

It wasn't too long ago that the highway people of a certain state found that all the lights on a stretch of interstate were too low, so the state let a million-dollar contract to raise them. When a taxpayer complained, he got this answer: "You better be glad they're just raising the lights. If the Federal Government had its way, they'd lower the highway."

—Dan Bennett

NICE DEAL

With grandchildren
There is no quandary—
You get all the pleasure
And none of the laundry.

—Georgie Starbuck Galbraith

Single men run around and keep getting into trouble. Then they get married, and don't have to run around.

—Lane Olinghouse

THROUGH A CHILD'S EYES

Kids see life differently. Send original contributions to "Child," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., N.Y., N.Y. 10022. $10 if used—none returned.

My wife and I had been expecting our fifth child and were treating her pregnancy pretty casually. That is until our oldest daughter asked, "Mom, won't the baby get a headache?" "Why?" we asked, and she answered, "Cause when you eat, the food hits him on the head."

—Patrick J. Dorgan
Green Bay, Wis.

BARNEY GOOGLE & SNUFFY SMITH by FRED LASSWELL

Our Story: THORVOLD SAILS AWAY ON A TWO-YEAR VOYAGE TO TRADE OR RAID, AND ON HIS BROAD CHEST RESTS LYDIA'S JEWELLED SCARAB. A CONSTANT REMINDER THAT HE IS TO SEARCH FOR PRINCE ARN.

IN FAIR WEATHER AND FOUL HE DRIVES HIS SHIP EVER SOUTHWARD WHERE THE PLUNDER IS RICHER. AND ALONG THE WAY OTHER VIKING SHIPS JOIN HIM, GLAD TO BE UNDER THE LEADERSHIP OF SUCH A RENOWNED NAVIGATOR AND DARING RAIDER.

MANY TOWNS ALONG THE NORTH COAST OF AFRICA FEEL THE FEROCITY OF THE NORTHMEN. SOME SHIPS ARE LOST AND MANY MEN KILLED, BUT THE VESSELS ARE NOW LOADED DOWN WITH TREASURE.

THORVOLD CALLS A COUNCIL. "OUR SHIPS ARE TOO HEAVILY LADEN TO BE MANEUVERABLE IN BATTLE OR TO STAY AFOAT IN A STORM. WE WILL SAIL FOR MARSEILLES AND SELL OUR CARGO." EACH SHIP IS REPRESENTED BY ITS CAPTAIN, SAVE ONE, AND FROM THAT ONE COMES THE ENTIRE CREW.

"WHY DID NOT YOUR CAPTAIN COME?" DEMANDS THORVOLD. "WE HAVE NO REAL CAPTAIN. EACH OF US TAKES HIS TURN. FOR WE ALL HAVE EQUAL SHARES IN THE SHIP WE BOUGHT FROM PRINCE ARN." HE HAD PROMISED LYDIA TO SEARCH FOR HER SWEETHEART, AND THIS IS THE FIRST NEWS HE HAS HAD OF ARN.

"WE SAILED WITH PRINCE ARN ON A TRADING VENTURE AND WHEN THE GOODS WERE SOLD THERE WAS NOTHING TO DO BUT GO A-RAIDING. THIS HE REFUSED TO DO, SO WE BOUGHT HIS SHIP WITH OUR SHARE OF THE VENTURE."

"WE PARTED ON THE QUAY AT PARIS, AND THE LAST WE SAW OF HIM, HE WAS RIDING SOUTH AS A KNIGHT-ERRANT IN SEARCH OF ADVENTURE."
