Violent Trucker Action

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

More trouble flared along northeastern Ohio highways overnight as independent truckers carried their protest against high fuel costs and low freight rates into its eighth day.

At least two shooting incidents were reported. The incidents followed a day of violence Monday during which police in Pennsylvania and Ohio reported arrests, gunshots, burned rigs and truckers being beaten and threatened.

Spokesmen for the truckers who are attempting to shut down traffic denied responsibility for the violence.

In Washington, D.C., Monday night, special presidential assistant W.J. Usery Jr. promised the truckers that help from the government was on the way and called for an end to the protest.

But George Rynn, president of the Council of Independent Truckers, said in Ohio that the protest would continue until the federal government took concrete action to alleviate the truckers' problems.

And newly formed truckers groups across the nation are calling for a national shutdown Thursday.

Pennsylvania State Police said they had received fewer trouble calls today after two days of sporadic violence in the western part of the state.

They said they had reports early today of rocks or bricks being thrown through the windshields of two moving trucks but said no one was injured.

Incidents Sunday night and Monday in Ohio included the beating of two men while they were making deliveries in a bread truck. Both were hospitalized, as was an Illinois man who was shot in his right shoulder while driving on Interstate 79 near the Pennsylvania border.

Truckers in Ohio and Pennsylvania reported Monday that their rigs were hit by bullets, and the Terminal Transportation Co. in Akron said 10 of its trucks had radiators punctured.

Arrests were made in East Liverpool and Vermilion, Ohio.

The shutdown began Jan. 20 in East Liverpool, Ohio, with about 300 drivers reportedly taking part. The protest centers on demands for a guarantee of lower prices for diesel fuel and increased freight rates to make up what truckers are losing to high fuel prices and lower speed limits.

Red Cross Board Meeting Slated

The regular board of directors meeting of the Pitt County Chapter of the American Red Cross will be held Wednesday, 8 p.m. at St. Paul's Episcopal Church on Fourth Street.

Mrs. Ruth Taylor, executive secretary of the Pitt Chapter, said that reports of the various committee chairmen will be given during the session as well as other items pertaining to the work of the chapter.

Mrs. Taylor, noting that chairman O. E. Dowd Sr. will preside, said that all board members are urged to attend the meeting. She added that those attending should use the Third Street entrance of the church.

No Vacation For Kissinger

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger apparently has scrubbed hopes for a week-long vacation in the Mexican resort city of Acapulco early next month.

The secretary of state had hoped to spend a week at Acapulco after a probable trip to Panama about Feb. 7 to sign a new declaration of principles for operation of the Panama Canal.

But U.S. officials said Monday that Acapulco is out until after an international energy conference scheduled in Washington Feb. 11. And on Feb. 20 Kissinger is scheduled to attend a hemisphere meeting in Mexico City.

Officials said he might try to work in a few days at Acapulco before or after the Mexico City meeting.

Emergency Energy Measure 'In Doubt'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The fate of emergency energy legislation appears in doubt as the Senate heads toward a vote on a motion to send the bill back to conference with the House.

A final Senate vote on the bill was scheduled for this afternoon. But before that, Sen. Gaylord Nelson, D-Wis., was expected to offer the motion to recommit the measure to conference.

Senate Interior Chairman Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who last week predicted passage of the bill, said Monday he doesn't know whether the move to recommit the bill will succeed. The bill would give President Nixon the authority to order gasoline rationing.

Nelson's motion is expected to include instructions to drop a controversial provision designed to prevent the oil industry from earning windfall profits.

Jackson blamed the effort to block the bill on "intensive lobbying" by the petroleum industry and the White House against the windfall profits provision. The industry and the administration reportedly organized a filibuster in December by Republicans and oil-state senators that prevented passage of the bill then.

The bill's opponents gained new strength Monday when Nelson, a northern liberal known to favor a windfall profits tax, announced his opposition to the bill on the grounds that it is unworkable. Nelson also objects to provisions in the bill that would suspend clean air requirements in order to permit the burning of dirtier fuels.

Jackson, the chief architect of the bill, has acknowledged that the windfall profits section is not entirely satisfactory but has insisted on keeping it in as a prod to Congress to pass new tax measures later in the session.

Elsewhere on Capitol Hill, John Sawhill, deputy director of the Federal Energy Office, said the price of domestic oil should be held within the range of $6 to $8 a barrel.

Without indicating how this could be done, Sawhill said some method must be found "of capping the price."

He said that otherwise the price of domestic oil will continue to creep toward that set by the Arab oil nations.

Current domestic oil prices range from $5.25 for a barrel of oil under price controls to more than $10 under uncontrolled prices.

Federal energy chief William E. Simon, also appearing before a unit of the Senate Government Operations Committee, predicted that the country could handle a 15 per cent gasoline shortage without rationing.

China Plans Free Captive American

By EDWIN Q. WHITE
Associated Press Writer

TOKYO (AP) — China says the American captured nine days ago in the battle for the Paracel Islands is ill and will be released on Thursday at the Hong Kong border.

Hsinhua, the official Chinese news agency, said five sick or wounded South Vietnamese would also be handed over with Gerald Emil Kosh, 27, of Lafayette Hill, Pa. The report said Chinese forces captured 48 South Vietnamese in the battle Jan. 19-20 and they would be released "in batches." But it gave no timetable.

The report gave no details of Kosh's condition. The State Department said earlier that Kosh, a civilian Defense Department employee, was on a routine trip with a Vietnamese patrol boat when Chinese forces moved into the coral archipelago in the South China Sea and overran South Vietnamese units that had been put ashore on the disputed islands.

It was assumed that the United States government, acting through the U. S. Liaison Office in Peking, had asked the Chinese government for Kosh's release.

A State Department spokesman said Monday night that no formal notification of the release had been received. He added that if the Hsinhua report is correct, "we certainly are gratified by the news."

The U. S. Embassy in Saigon said Kosh, a bachelor and a captain in the Special Forces during the Vietnam war, was a regional liaison officer to the Vietnamese armed forces and was stationed in Da Nang.

The embassy said he went to the Paracel Islands before hostilities were even anticipated and was put ashore on one of the islands as a safety measure when shooting broke out between South Vietnamese and Chinese vessels.

The South Vietnamese said they had about 60 troops on three islands when the Chinese overran them and that a Vietnamese patrol boat was sunk in the battle. The command said 18 South Vietnamese were killed, 43 were wounded and 116 were missing.

The Paracels are a chain of barren coal reefs about 250 miles east of the Vietnamese coast and about 175 miles southeast of the Chinese island of Hainan. Undersea oil deposits are believed to be in the area, and the islands are claimed by both South Vietnam and China. But China's claim was recognized by the World War II peace treaty with Japan.

Exports By U.S. Created Jobs

WASHINGTON (AP) — If government estimates are correct, an increase in U.S. trade last year created 1.5 million jobs.

The Commerce Department reported Monday that the United States had a "surplus in its foreign trade in 1973 of $1.7 billion, the first trade surplus in three years.

Exports totaled $70.8 billion, a 44 per cent increase over 1972. The Commerce Department said nearly half this gain was in agricultural exports.

Imports totaled $69 billion, a 24 per cent increase over 1972, and the cost of petroleum imports were up by $3.4 billion over the previous year.

The government estimates that each $1 billion in U.S. export trade leads to 72,000 new jobs, which would mean an increase in employment last year by 1.5 million.

Sidney L. Jones, assistant secretary of Commerce for economic affairs, said the biggest factors in the improved U.S. trade position were the two devaluations of the dollar. These made U.S. goods cheaper overseas and foreign goods more expensive in this country.

Jones said the trade surplus of $1.7 billion was about double what the government had expected. The United States had deficits of $6.4 billion in 1972 and $2 billion in 1971.

But Jones said the U.S. trade surplus may be short-lived. He said the higher cost of world oil probably would offset other U.S. trade gains and lead to renewed deficits in 1974.

The previous single monthly record was $878 million in March of 1965.

Annual Message Readied

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lengthy written message on domestic policy will be sent to Congress by President Nixon Wednesday, the same day he makes his State of the Union address, spokesmen say.

The President is scheduled to make the nationally broadcast address Wednesday night before a joint session of Congress.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said Monday the written statement, reportedly nearly 100 pages long, will end on the speech.

Warren declined to discuss the contents of either the written or oral reports.

And in New York, the CBS, NBC and ABC television networks say they will provide one hour of air time Friday night for the Democratic party response to Nixon's State of the Union speech.

The networks announced Monday that during the program Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., the Senate majority leader, would read a prepared statement and then be questioned by newsmen invited by the Democratic National Committee.

Friday's program, to be broadcast live beginning at 10 p.m. EDT, will include summaries and analyses by newsmen for each network, according to network officials.

Nixon's State of the Union message is to be televised live by all three networks 9 p.m. EDT Wednesday.

Ehrlichman To Subpoena Nixon As A Witness

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Lawyers for former White House adviser John D. Ehrlichman plan to seek a subpoena today requiring President Nixon to testify at a court hearing Feb. 25, the Los Angeles Times says.

The Times quoted attorney Douglas Dalton as saying the court order would be sought from Los Angeles County Superior Judge Gordon Ringer.

Dalton told the Times a decision was made to subpoena the President after White House attorney James St. Clair rejected a request to have Nixon appear voluntarily.

Ehrlichman and codefendants G. Gordon Liddy and David R. Young Jr. are charged with conspiracy and burglary in the Labor Day 1971 break-in at the Beverly Hills offices of Dr. Lewis Fielding. Fielding is a psychiatrist whose patients included Pentagon papers figure Daniel Ellsberg.

Liddy, former counsel to the Committee for the Re-election of the President, has been convicted in the Watergate burglary. Young is a former adviser to the National Security Council.

Ehrlichman is also charged with perjury committed during questioning by a county grand jury investigating the case.

The Times said Ehrlichman, who resigned last April, hopes to use the President's testimony to reinforce the contention he and his codefendants were acting as law enforcement officers during the break-in.

Budget Pay-Boost Proposals Go Over Cost-Of-Living Guidelines

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pay raises of 7 per cent that exceed Cost of Living Council guidelines are in store for high-level public servants under President Nixon's fiscal 1975 budget proposal.

Once formally proposed, the pay raises for congressmen, Cabinet members and top-level federal administrators are likely to begin in March, with additional increments in 1975 and 1976. The only action that could stop Nixon's intent is a negative vote by Congress within 30 days after the proposal reaches Capitol Hill.

Nixon's budget proposal is scheduled to be sent to Congress Monday.

The salary increases would be the first of their kind since 1969.

Under the proposal Cabinet officers would have their pay raised about $4,000 this year, with additional raises in the next two years. They now earn $60,000.

Congressmen would receive a raise of $3,500 in early March, bringing them close to $46,000 annually. There would be additional raises in 1975 and 1976 unless Congress rejects the plan.

And similar increases would be forthcoming for high-level officials, including deputy secretaries, assistant secretaries and agency heads. Many top federal workers, whose pay has been frozen at $36,000 annually, also would receive pay boosts.

The Federal Pay Commission and the White House joined to prepare the pay-increase proposal. The commission, comprising industry officials, makes its recommendations to the White House and the President submits these to Congress.

Rationing Coupons
GASOLINE COUPONS—A likeness of George Washington appears on the face of the gasoline rationing coupons that are being printed at the Bureau of Engraving and Printing in Washington. The bureau began the printing operation last Friday and will continue around the clock until 1.6 billion coupons are printed for possible use by March 1. The coupons are being printed on a standby basis in case formal gasoline rationing becomes necessary during the current energy crisis. (AP Wirephoto)

Segal Keeps In Touch With Students, Giving Six Lectures A Year

"IF I GET ONE GOOD QUESTION...the trip will be worth the effort," Erich Segal (left) said of his visit to ECU yesterday. He chatted with Amy Odom of Wilmington (center) and Denise Ward of Fayetteville (right). (Reflector Staff Photo)

Noted author and teacher Erich Segal schedules six lectures a year just to keep in touch with students around the country. East Carolina University students who heard or met "Mr. Love Story," as Segal hates to be called, came away impressed yesterday.

Interviewed in front of Wright Auditorium, Segal enthused about our spring-like weather and the beautiful way sunlight came through the clouds over Greenville. Just back from a guest professorship in Munich, Germany, he said he will spend the next year writing, before returning to teaching. He is a professor of Latin and Greek at Yale.

He had talked to the class yesterday morning and he waved in recognition to some of the students in the class once, and later strolled over to chat with some others he remembered. He was to lecture on "The Future of Literature" last night.

"Yes, I like Love Story. It was a true story, you know, about one of my students. I like other things I've done, too, though like The Yellow Submarine. It was quite different from Love Story, and I'll do even more different things yet. I'm going to be writing some more film scripts this year."

Segal said he was born in 1937 in New York City and educated in its public schools. He earned his A. B., and his M. A. and his Ph.D. at Harvard and taught at Harvard, before going to Yale.

"Why do people think I made so much money on Love Story," he countered, when asked about his use of the money. "I'm not Pres. Nixon. I'm not smart enough to get out of my citizen's dues. I paid the taxes that spruced up San Clemente and Key Biscayne."

He expressed amazement that some Americans aren't upset by all the disclosures of wrongdoing in high places. "Students rioted and marched and did all kinds of futile things about the Vietnam War, about which they could do absolutely nothing," he said. "Yet, I can't find even a little protest about this very real energy crisis now."

"I'll tell you how real it is to me. When I left New England yesterday, there were no cars on the road. The gas had run out Friday, and there won't be any more until Feb. 1. Many people won't even be going to work. And it's cold there, so the lack of fuel oil seems much more critical than here in your balmy climate."

Asked if he knows why students aren't as politically active, he said, "I don't know. (Continued On Page 10)

Claim No 'Firm Proof' Of DST Hazard

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

State and local authorities say that despite complaints about children walking to school in the dark, there is no firm proof that winter Daylight Saving Time has caused any significant increase in accident rates.

"We had several accidents right after the (time) change, but Daylight Saving Time didn't really have anything to do with most of them," said Walter J. Skower, police chief of Enfield, Conn.

Officials contacted by The Associated Press in a spot check said it was really too early to measure the impact of DST and added that it is always difficult to pinpoint the exact cause of many accidents.

Year-round Daylight Saving Time went into effect on Jan. 6 as an energy conservation measure. A recent AP survey of utility officials showed the effects of the switch so far were minor — with an electricity saving of less than one per cent.

Sen. Dick Clark, D-Iowa, backed by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana, introduced legislation on Monday urging Congress to repeal winter DST.

"It's time to recognize that we may well have made a mistake," said Clark. He said that the energy saving is not worth the risk to children.

Similar bills have been inroduced in the House and the Florida legislature is meeting in special session today to vote on a move to return the state to standard time.

Eight children have been killed in early morning accidents in Florida since DST took effect. Only two died in the same period last year. The AP spot check also showed that one youngster died in Virginia, one in Ohio and two in California. In addition, a woman pedestrian in Connecticut and an adult school crossing guard in South Carolina were killed in predawn auto accidents.

Florida Gov. Reubin Askew, urging that standard time be reimposed all parts of the state in the eastern time zone, said,

"The inescapable conclusion ... is that the darkness had a great deal to do with the predawn deaths."

Most officials elsewhere were reluctant to put all the blame for the accidents on DST. They noted that weather was a factor as was possible carelessness by some drivers.

On the plus side, authorities said the gasoline shortage has cut down on driving and thus on accidents in general and also noted that lower speed limits mean fewer and less serious accidents.

There also were signs that people were taking extra care to avoid accidents.

"Children apparently are being more cautious," said Lt.

Alton Proudfoot of the Los Angeles police department. "They seem aware of the danger of walking in the dark."

SENTENCED TO DIE—Vernon Junior Woods of Lenoir was sentenced to die after being convicted Monday of first degree murder, rape and kidnapping in the slaying of an 18-year-old woman. Massive Manhunt For Indiscriminate Killers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Police launched a manhunt today for two gunmen suspected of killing four persons and seriously wounding another in a two-hour spree of street shootings.

In each case, police said, the gunman walked up to his victim — apparently chosen at random — and fired at near point-blank range. The shootings took place Monday night in three areas of the city, but police believe they were related. They said all the victims were shot with .32-caliber automatic weapons.

Chief Inspector Charles Barca said the search would "be about the biggest manhunt in the history of San Francisco."

Authorities said they had no motive for the shootings.

"They just seem to be senseless killings on the street," said police Lt. Charles Ellis.

Police in Emeryville, in the east San Francisco Bay area, were investigating what they said could be a related, nonfatal shooting that occurred early this morning.

Ellis said the killings Monday night were similar to five shootings last month in which three persons were killed and two others wounded over a span of several days. In each case, last month and now, the victims were white, the assailants black and the weapons of .32-caliber.

Barca said there was sufficient time between the shootings for one vehicle to have gotten between all five locations.

Police gave this account of the shooting spree:

Tina Smith, 32, the first victim, was gunned down on the sidewalk in a commercial neighborhood. Ten minutes later and about four blocks away, Vincent Aollin, 69, also was shot down on the sidewalk. Both victims were killed.

At 9:15 p.m., about a mile away, bar patrons heard shots and ran outside to discover John Bambic, about 70, dead on the street.

About 35 minutes later, Jane Holly, 50, was fatally gunned down in a laundromat, about three miles from the Bambic shooting. Witnesses told police they saw a black Cadillac with two men inside speed away from the building.

The final shooting took place a mile from the laundromat. Roxanne McMillan, 23, had walked outside her home to get some clothes from her car when the gunman approached her and said, "Hi, howya doing?"

"Hi," she said, and the gunman fired two shots into her chest. Mrs. McMillan underwent surgery at San Francisco General Hospital where she was reported in serious but stable condition. Doctors said a bullet may have struck her spine.

In Emeryville, police said two black men driving a dark Cadillac pulled up alongside a white male hitchhiker at a freeway on-ramp and fired three shots from a .32-caliber weapon, hitting the man once in the stomach.

The unidentified victim was reported in stable condition at Providence Hospital in nearby Oakland.

Bankers Lured By Oil Money

By FRANK M. HAWKINS JR.
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Foreign banks are scrambling into the Beirut banking scene to get some of the new wealth flowing into Arab coffers as a result of oil price hikes.

The Arabs' take on the crude oil they sell the big Western companies has jumped more than 400 per cent in the past year, from $1.55 a barrel to $7. The Arab oil states are expected to earn about $50 billion dollars this year, and much of the money eventually will be channeled through Beirut.

At least five major foreign banks bought controlling shares in Lebanese banks in the past year, and at least seven others are shopping.

The newcomers in the past year include the Bank of America, American Fidelity and Chemical of New York. Banking sources say others lining up to get in include First National of Boston, Irving Trust, Manufacturers Hanover and Wells Fargo. Some have already opened offices.

At present, 42 of the 75 chartered banks here are controlled or owned by foreign interests. They account for 60 per cent of Lebanon's total bank deposits, which local bankers estimate at just under $2.8 billion.

But the lure for foreign banks here is not just deposits. Beirut as the Arab world's chief financial window also handles millions in investments, credits, development projects and other financial trading.

One banker pointed out that last year Saudi Arabia's sheiks had to struggle to spend and invest $2.4 billion of their $3.6 billion oil income.

"Now what are they going to do with $20 billion this year?" he asked.

Plan Time Capsule To Leave In Skylab

By HOWARD BENEDICT
AP Aerospace Writer

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — When the Skylab 3 astronauts depart their orbiting home next week, they'll leave behind a "time capsule" that may be retrieved by future spacemen.

On Monday, mission control radioed the astronauts a list of 30 items to be placed in a bag and left in a convenient spot inside the laboratory.

Gerald P. Carr, William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson today were in the 75th day of their 84-day mission, heading for a Feb. 8 return to earth. They are the third and final crew to inhabit the 85-ton space station.

There presently is no plan to revisit Skylab, but officials are discussing the possibility of having a three-man U.S. astronaut team inspect it briefly during a joint Soviet-American flight in July 1975.

Capsule communicator Richard Truly told the Skylab 3 crew Monday, "We're going to have you put together what we call a revisit bag which could be retrieved by any future crew to bring home so we could look at how the items have survived."

"It will be Skylab's own little time capsule."

Among the contents will be five food and beverage items, unused film, camera filters, clothing, electric cables, flight plan pages and small electronic devices.

Experts estimate the Skylab vehicle will stay aloft for 10 or 11 years before the tug of gravity finally pulls the 85-ton station into earth's atmosphere, where friction will burn it up.

Ski Resorts Just 'Hope'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

There hasn't been much skiing in the North Carolina mountains this season because temperatures have been too warm for natural or man-made snow. But resort operators are hopeful.

Charles Griffin, president of the Seven Devils resort, estimated "Everybody is running about 25 per cent of normal volume. But there should be some good skiing in February and March if the weather follows the pattern of previous years."

Bob Farish, president of the Southeastern Ski Area Association, said that to his knowledge no figures on the amount of money being lost in North Carolina during this warm period have been compiled.

But, speaking for the Sugar Mountain resort, Farish said, "We feel like we are going to get plenty of cold weather."

Jerry Reese of Hound Ears said the best conditions for snow-making are when the temperature is about 28 degrees and the humidity is low.

LWV To Set Future Role

At 8:00 tonight, the League of Women Voters will be meeting at the First Federal Building on the 264 By-Pass. Natalie Clark and Gloria McClanahan will lead the members in a discussion of future programs and directions of the League of Women Voters on the national level.

In May, 1974, local League delegates will vote on LWV national program at the convention in San Francisco.

Rhea Resnik, local league president, states that the LWV of the U. S. has received a grant from the Carnegie Corporation to fund the 21st Century Project. The project will involve future-oriented discussions with people from all walks of life, gathering ideas and opinions on the kind of society and government people would like to see in the year 2000 A.D.

Big Tipper Was A Bank Bandit

SEATTLE (AP) — The gray-haired man who rode in Charles Symms' cab was a big tipper. But then he had plenty to spend; he had just robbed a bank of $2,000, said the FBI.

Symms, 55, said Monday the man hailed his taxi, saying he wanted to go to a bank.

"I let him out in front of the bank and parked," Symms said. "I don't think he was in there more than two minutes when he got back in and said: 'My wife is in there and she's madder than hell.... Let's get going.'"

The cabbie said that about 10 blocks away his fare paid him $20 for a $4 fare and got out.

The FBI said that while Symms' taxi meter was running the man was inside the bank demanding all the $10 and $20 bills.

Schlesinger Is For Impeaching

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Watergate "has given us the opportunity to get back to the presidency of the Constitution," says Arthur Schlesinger Jr.

The historian and former special assistant to President John F. Kennedy said in a speech at the University of Missouri Monday night that President Nixon's impeachment is necessary to make the presidency constitutionally accountable again. He charged the President has attempted to "break the presidency out of the system of constitutional accountability."

Reporters Cut Off From Nixon

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Nixon's desire for privacy has made it impossible for reporters to confirm that he really is at his mountaintop retreat.

In addition, a press communications trailer, installed inside Camp David gates for use of the news media, has been removed. Also gone is a duck blind with two telephones from which news representatives have watched presidential helicopter takeoffs and landings.

Thus, the White House has removed from within the closely guarded gates of Camp David all press communications that had been installed by the Nixon administration in earlier days when press spokesmen promised "an open administration."

These facilities have served a four-member wire service pool of photographers and reporters and have been used for special events, including the visit of Soviet Premier Leonid I. Brezhnev last June.

Asked about the trailer, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said it was only being relocated. "We're thinking about relocating it. We're looking for a better place to serve everybody."

He said the 10-by-50-foot office-style trailer, installed in November 1972, was still on the grounds of Camp David.

According to White House spokesmen, Nixon is working at Camp David on his State of the Union speech. But no members of the press have seen the President since he left the White House Thursday night.

Nothing is known of the President's activities here, except what White House press spokesmen wish to tell.

No injuries were reported.

Bank President Is A Woman

EDITOR'S NOTE — D. M. Tarrant had been saving money in a bank since childhood, a nickel here, a quarter there. Later came jobs of increasing responsibility and a desire to be president of a bank some day. That day finally came, and now your friendly president down at the bank is a woman because D. is for Doris.

By LEW HEAD
Associated Press Writer
RIDGWOOD, N.J. (AP) — "My hobby is sewing. I use it as therapy," the bank president said.

The needle and thread relaxer is Doris M. Tarrant of Fort Lee, the only woman commercial bank president in New Jersey, and a chic, slim, green-eyed blonde who looks as if she can "cut a rug" as well as stitch a seam.

She's become something of a heroine of women's lib since she became president of the all-purpose Peoples Bank of Ridgewood late last year.

"I've received a lot of women's lib letters. The writers will say, 'It must be great to work for a company that recognizes women.'"

Miss Tarrant said her fans don't know she labored 10 to 12 hours a day to get where she is, and her working day is still a good 10 hours.

"At the end of the first week on this job, I had mountains of work. I said I'd never get accustomed to it. The paper work has been prodigious. I'm now figuring to farm it out."

On a recent Sunday, she was invited to a cocktail party. "Instead, I sewed all day. I do well at it. I made two dresses to give away as gifts. I've made all the drapes and curtains for my apartment. I think because I have to concentrate on it, it relaxes me."

She began life "over 40 years ago" in Ridgely Park, the only child of her father, who had a trucking business and dabbled in real estate, and mother who never sought a career other than housewife.

"I always wanted to make money, though the need didn't rise out of family destitution. I had a good head for figures and was good at mathematics in high school."

She graduated from Katharine Gibbs secretarial school and became a top-flight secretary, working 11 years for the late Benjamin Fairless while he was treasurer of U.S. Steel, and after his retirement as head of the company when he was president of the American Iron and Steel Institute.

"I was the first woman to work for him. He didn't quite know what to make of me. He was a very polite man. He was always reaching for a chair for me. It was then I got the idea I could be something more than a secretary."

She broadened her education with extension courses at Columbia University, quit secretarial chores in 1963 and was hired by a data processing bureau that sold its services to banks. Then, in 1967, attracted by the prospect of "bankers' hours," she joined Peoples Trust of Hackensack which, like the Peoples Bank here, is a member of the United Jersey Banks holding company.

She was wrong about the hours. They didn't lessen, as she became a crack saleswoman, driving about New Jersey and selling the bank's services to smaller banks, to bring in millions of dollars.

Before long, she said, the bank's executives were saying, "Doris, is there some other job you want at the bank?"

"Yes, I'd reply. 'I'd really like to be president.' I never really meant it. But I think they took me seriously."

In November, 1971, she was named vice president of Peoples Bank of Ridgewood, and when its president quit two years later to pursue other business interests, she replaced him.

"I don't think I'm just a token woman president. Peoples has been pushing women, but the climate is right for women now."

A woman, she agrees with libbers and others, should be paid the same as a man when she holds a comparable job. "We, in fact, have to work harder than a man to get ahead."

Should women have the same credit prerogative as men? "A woman who has equivalent income should have equivalent credit."

As a single person, does she think the federal income tax is discriminatory against single persons? "Yes, I think we should have a head of a household deduction."

It costs me as much to run my house as anyone else." How does she handle her own money and what advice does she have for others? "I think you should save your money and spend it after you save it. I'm not inclined to today's economy: borrow and pay later, though as a banker I probably shouldn't be saying that. People, of course, should have a mortgage on their home; that's only like paying rent."

"I get distressed when these young people come in and say, 'can you consolidate our debts?'"

"I save methodically. The first thing I do is put aside what should be saved, and always have."

As a school girl, Miss Tarrant recalled, she worked in department stores and as a babysitter to get spending money.

Her optimism skidded into the red at one prospect: that of a woman combining marriage and a career.

"Who'd marry a woman bank president?" she wondered.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

As a member of the committee to get a speaker for our sorority spring brunch, let me say that I would rather lure Howard Hughes to a garage sale or talk the IRS into giving green stamps.

Our first draft choice was Steve McQueen, to whom we extended the following invitation: "Dear Mr. McQueen: 'You are invited to address the Rho Rho Nu Kappa Phi's the eve of Saturday, May 11 at the home of Kathy Krick. You will be preceded by a short business meeting and followed by a buffet furnished by the hospitality committee of Rho Rho Nu Kappa Phi."

"In keeping with this year's convention theme, 'Will Tomorrow Survive Today?' we would request that you address your remarks toward economics, ecology, energy and sex."

"As we are a philanthropic group, we can provide no honorarium: just good fellowship. We await your reply."

Our second draft choice was Henry Kissinger who said he knew nothing about economics, ecology and energy, (one out of four isn't bad).

Our third choice was Walter Cronkite who said his appearance would necessitate doing his news show from Kathy Krick's living room. (Kathy did not feel she wanted all those black heel marks on her kitchen floor and her foyer.)

During the next few weeks I was to extend invitations to speak to Masters and Johnson, Julia Child, Loretta Young, Ann-Margaret, Bobby Riggs, Gale Storm, Joe Garragiola, Buffalo Bob, Arthur Fiedler, Dinah Shore and Arthur Godfrey's horse, Goldie.

I read aloud their regrets to the group at the January meeting. Finally, Maxine suggested one last hope... Leroy Octane, a gas station owner who lived two doors down from her. I tiredly sat down and wrote the invitation:

"Dear Mr. Octane: 'You are invited to show up at Rho Rho Nu Kappa Phi's meeting at Kathy Krick's house anytime between the months of March, April, May or June. Pick your time. 'You can talk about gas if you want (although it comes with the buffet) or you can just sit there and drink. Normally, there is no honorarium, but agree to come and we'll make you an offer you can't refuse.'"

I was ready to seal it when I decided to add, "P.S. Your presence is optional."

This Criminal Needs To Forgive Himself

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Although I am in prison, I am a loyal reader of your column. Mostly because I miss sharing life with people.

At times you have expressed faith in God. Deep in the night I am restless and unable to sleep because the memory of my crime [murder] haunts me. I have sought God's forgiveness and believe that Jesus died for our sins, but I am unable to find relief from my troubled conscience.

Abby, is murder a forgivable sin? I find no reference to it in the Bible, but there is reference to an eye for an eye. If you can give me the answer, you will do much for my peace of mind. Thank you.

A FRIEND IN RALEIGH, N. C.

DEAR FRIEND: All religions endorse the concept of forgiveness to one who is sincere in contrition and repentance. It was expressed in the Old Testament in Isaiah 55:7: "Let the sinner abandon his way and his thoughts and let him return unto the Lord for He will have mercy upon him and fully forgive." In fact, so strong is this feeling in the Bible it is repeated seven times in the Old Testament.

If a misdeed was committed, it can be fully atoned by paying one's debt to society and also by examining one's conscience and thru self-understanding changing one's ways and returning to the path of goodness. A beautiful expression of Divine forgiveness and mercy was given by Nahman of Bratslav, an 18th-Century sage: "There is no sin that will not be forgiven by sincere repentance."

To this may I add that the hardest person to forgive is oneself. God Bless.

DEAR ABBY: My problem is my mother. She shoplifts. I know this for a fact because I have seen her in action. She takes only small things that will fit into her purse. I'm the only one in the family who knows about it. I really can't understand why Mom would steal. She can afford to buy anything she wants. Besides she picks up things she has no use for, like cheap sunglasses, and orange lipstick! She stole a can of cat food, and we don't even have a cat!

My mother and I aren't very close, so I can't talk to her about it. She'd probably deny it anyway.

It would kill my father if he knew. He is a highly respected elected government official. I am 15. Please don't use my name or town, but tell me what to do.

WORRIED FOR MOM

DEAR WORRIED: This type of shoplifting sounds like kleptomania. It's an illness and can be cured with treatment. First tell your mother what you have told me. And if she denies it, tell your father. It won't "kill" him. He'd appreciate learning it from you.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "HURTING DOWN DEEP IN PHILLY": Don't be ashamed of an honest emotion. There are no good losers. Only good actors.

For Abby's booklet, "How to Have a Lovely Wedding," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212.

Just when she's won the freedom to wear pants in almost every kind of office, guess what? America's working gals are starting to show renewed interest in dresses and skirts.

Adjusting To The New Times

Another in a series of auto production cutbacks has been announced by General Motors because of the slow down in large car production.

Last week GM announced that 75,000 assemblers in 14 plants will be idled between now and April 1. Still more workers will be affected in assembly plants. Previously GM had laid off 86,000 workers, 38,000 of them indefinitely.

Other auto producers have previously announced layoffs of workers in the large car fields.

Paradoxically production of small cars is booming with overtime scheduled at General Motors small car plants. American Motors, which specialized in the small car, has been producing to capacity.

It is not difficult to see how the present energy crisis is going to have almost immediate effect on our economy and our lives. With auto workers being laid off in such numbers the economic effect is bound to be felt. At the same time the production figures tell us that car buyers are turning to smaller cars as a way to beat the shortage and rising cost of fuel.

Still the situation is not all bad. If the demand is for small cars we can be sure that Detroit will retool as rapidly as possible to turn out more of the smaller models. It is certain that many of these workers will return to their jobs to work on the smaller models.

The country is undergoing a readjustment in what the consumer will purchase in the way of transportation. We can expect that the auto design emphasis will be on economy for some time. Still we will probably purchase just as many cars as in the past.

Solve A Shortage By Cleaning Out Closets

Next America faces the great coathanger shortage.

The Neighborhood Cleaners Association reports that its members are experiencing a severe shortage of the wire hangers.

This is one shortage that can be easily solved. All we have to do is clean out the nation's closets. Not only will hanging things be easier but the cleaners will have an adequate supply of reusable hangers.

McNamara And Greek Regime

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—The Greek military dictatorship has again broken the World Bank's ground rules by propagandizing about loans, but World Bank president Robert S. McNamara is responding with a private rebuke rather than a public reprisal.

That's bad news for anti-junta Greeks. They had hoped he would punish the Athens regime's violation by cancelling their loans. That action might well have triggered a chain of loan cancellations by private foreign investors, threatening Greece's shaky economy and the military regime itself.

The Nixon administration fears such an upheaval in Athens could bring to power an anti-American nationalist along the lines of Libya's Qaddafi. While doubting the stability of the present crop of colonels (and, therefore, delaying the basing of a U. S. Navy carrier task force in Greece), U. S. policymakers still favor propping up the regime economically. The views of the World Bank's most important member, the United States, naturally weigh heavily with McNamara.

The latest dispute between Athens and the bank was set off last Dec. 19. Assistant Secretary of the Treasury John M. Hennessy, answering a letter from Rep. Henry Reuss of Wisconsin, reaffirmed support for a year-old $24.5 million World Bank educational loan even though the dictatorship had padlocked college doors in Athens. We interpreted the Hennessy letter in a Dec. 24 column as keeping U. S. policy on Greece in a straightjacket.

Noting this in the Washington Post, the Athens regime's propaganda machine promptly turned our highly critical column on its head. This frontpage story appeared Christmas Day in the pro-government newspaper, Acropolis: "In yesterday's article of the American newspaper Washington Post... the following was reported: 'The Nixon government has approved a loan of $24.5 million from the World Bank for educational reform in Greece.'"

Nearly identical dispatches, falsely implying that a new loan had been approved, appeared in Athens opposition newspapers, Vima and the English-language Athens News. Obviously the misleading report had been distributed as a "must" item by the dictatorship.

This clearly violated McNamara's informal warning to Athens that recurrences of crude attempts in 1970 to propagandize World Bank loans could lead to their cancellation. Consequently, Elias Demetracopoulos, Greek exile leader in Washington, sent McNamara a Jan. 2 letter denouncing "this latest example of the Athens junta's duplicity" and urging "a basic review, leading to a suspension" of loans to Greece.

McNamara was anything but pleased. He dictated one smoking letter to Demetracopoulos, tore it up, then sent a milder version on Jan. 9 which was snappy enough.

"With regard to the alleged political exploitation by Greek newspapers of the Bank's lending to Greece, if it has occurred, we strongly disapprove it," McNamara wrote. But any such exploitation, he went on, "has happened precisely because these newspapers have been given a gratuitous opportunity to refer more than a year after the announcement of the loan, to the article of Dec. 24 in the Washington Post."

In truth, McNamara knows the Greek newspapers are mere instruments of the regime. Moreover, according to high sources at the World Bank, he was outraged by the propagandizing and plans a new stiff—but highly secret—warning to Athens.

Demetracopoulos and the anti-junta Greeks wanted much more: overt cancellation of loans, accelerating Wall Street worries about instability in Athens and jeopardizing some $1.5 billion in foreign loans to Greece.

But whereas the anti-junta Greeks seek economic disaster in Athens, McNamara certainly does not. Nor does he seek a confrontation with the Nixon administration on such a peripheral issue as Greece. Therefore, if the economic props are pulled from under the colonels, it will not—perhaps cannot—be done by the World Bank but by the U. S. government, and for now the U. S. government remains committed to the (Continued on page 5)

ONCE YOU UNLEASH SOMETHING LIKE THAT---

Afraid Of New Power

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Special Correspondent Arab oil rulers act like they're torn between an almost irresistible temptation to jolt the global economic system and fear of what the consequences might be should they go too far.

Sheikh Ahmed Zaki Yamani, the astute Saudi Arabian oil minister, has been brandishing a fearsome bludgeon: if the industrialized nations think they've got trouble now, suppose the other Third World countries gang up with their raw materials the way the oil producers did?

On the other hand, Yamani noted that the advanced nations have only to fall in line with Arab goals to lessen their troubles.

"What is at stake today is the revision of an entire economic system which developed at a time when we did not exist on the stage, and by 'we' I mean the developing countries, most of which were colonies," he said.

"Above all, one should consider a better payment for raw materials flowing incessantly into industrialized countries which are purchased at very low prices, at prices which sometimes do not even make possible payment of proper wages."

Given peace — meaning given acceptance of Arab demands against Israel — the Arabs and the advanced countries should get along fine because "you have what we need and we have what you need," he argued.

The Arab oil rulers depend heavily on the West not only for technology and agricultural goods, but for protection. King Faisal would see little future in being isolated and thrown upon the tender mercies of Arab radicals abetted by the Soviet bloc. It could be tantamount to royal suicide to contribute to economic chaos in the advanced countries.

What the Saudis seem to want is double insurance. By wielding the oil weapon they can gain enough concessions to nullify the radical threat to dynastic Arab regimes. But they would stop short of depriving themselves of the implicit protection of the advanced world.

Credibility Shop Talk

For the past couple of years, the watchword around town has been "credibility." Sometimes it applied to federal agencies, sometimes to candidates for president; mostly it applied to the credibility of Mr. Nixon. But within the media, we very seldom have applied the watchword to us.

Credibility to the press is not exactly like chastity to a woman, for credibility, once lost, may perhaps be regained. But the analogy is not far wrong. When we lose credibility, we lose virtue. It is an old-fashioned word. And when the Harris Survery tells us that only 30 percent of the people have "a great deal of confidence" in the press, it may be time for journalists, once they have put their papers to bed, to do some sober thinking about credibility and virtue.

Toward that end, let us consider the village that wasn't, and the goodies that never got buried. There are morals here.

On July 10, 1973, the Times of London carried a long article by a Catholic priest, Father Adrian Hastings, describing a massacre by Portuguese troops at the village of Wiriyamu, in Northern Mozambique. The piece ran to some 40 column inches. In grisly detail, the story chronicled the slaying of 400 natives on Dec. 16, 1972. It named names of victims. It fairly vibrated with vivid writing:

"One woman called Vaina was invited to stand up. She had her child in her arms, a boy of nine months. The woman fell dead with a bullet shot. The child fell with his mother and sat by her. He cried desperately, and a soldier advanced to stop him crying. He kicked the boy violently, destroying his head. 'Shut up, dog,' the soldier said."

State and federal legislation is in the works to set up more stringent regulation of private pension plans—that is, plans developed by individual companies designed to reduce employee turnover and to reward those who stay with one employer for most of their careers. Various sponsors of this legislation, to sell their proposals, have given the impression that almost all private pension plans are frauds, poorly administered and will not provide expected benefits to those covered.

In the light of this situation, it is instructive to review some statistics as revealed by the U.S. Department of Labor. Approximately $10 billion a year is being contributed to private pension plans. An estimated $150 billion in assets are held in trust in private pension plans for retirees—present and future. Labor department records show that over 30 million workers are now covered by private pension plans. More than five million are receiving pensions amounting to more than $8 billion annually. Approximately 50 per cent of all employees are covered by private pension plans.

If part-time workers are deducted, this coverage figure goes up to 70 per cent, and self-employed and government workers make up a substantial number of those not now included under private retirement plans. The Internal Revenue Service has approved more than 237,000 pension, annuity and profit-sharing plans which are operational at the end of 1972.

The soundness of all pension plans today—including federal social security hinges upon whether those in Congress continue to permit government deficits and inflation to eat away at the value of the dollar.

Legislators, instead of talking of private fraud, which is infinitesimal compared to the fraud of inflation, have a lot to account for. By their actions in promoting virtually unlimited spending, regardless of taxpayers' inability to bear the load, they are undermining the savings, the earnings and the pension payments of all citizens. Somehow it seems the ultimate of ironies for lawmakers, at this time, to pose as regulatory guardians of private pension plans.

Savings & Loan Outlook 'Good'

By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — If you're one of the many potential homebuyers who is waiting for interest rates to come down you'll be concerned with what the Federal Home Loan Bank Board has to say. It says you'll have a very long wait.

That forecast was contained in an overview of the industry in 1980, published in this month's board Journal. The board is the regulatory agency for the nation's savings and loan associations, which write most home mortgages.

Offering his view of conditions in 1980, Harris Friedman, chief of economic research, wrote:

"... Interest rates will continue to reflect an inflation premium and the chances for the level of long-term interest rates to come down significantly are remote."

Aside from that gloomy prediction, the outlook for users of S&Ls looks pretty good, even exciting, and by all means reassuring. The unbalanced checkbook, for example, might finally be resolved.

Looking into "A day in the life of an S&L customer — 1980," another board official lists some of the services being offered.

The day begins with John Doe preparing to pay his bills. He reviews the monthly statement he has received from the 10th Federal S&L Association. As he had instructed his employer to do, his paychecks had been deposited in his account.

On the 10th of the month the association automatically withdrew his mortgage payment from his account, and had transferred some other funds to higher yielding savings accounts.

One of these, a long-term account paying 8 per cent will be used for retirements or college tuition. Another account, yielding only 6 per cent, will be used for the family's annual vacation.

He notes that the S&L received and paid his electric and gas bills during the month, an arrangement he accepted when the companies established a preplanned budget, enabling him to know in advance what each bill would be.

As he reviewed his statement, he noted that his wife had taken $250 for food purchases and other items during the month. She had accomplished this merely by offering a plastic card to the foodstore clerk, who then inserted it in a gadget hooked up with the S&L.

Make what you will of this additional service: "The clerk also could charge an extra amount so that his wife could receive some change for other shopping."

Reviewing his other regular expenses for the month, Doe simply totalled the bills, named the creditors in a standard form and mailed it to 10th Federal in a postage-paid envelope. Tenth Federal paid the bills.

The curtain will be rung down on the tobacco season here tomorrow when the Greenville tobacco market closes following completion of sales.

Only small amounts of the bright leaf were being offered today and sales were expected to be light the final day. But this will be sufficient to enable the market to eclipse the old record of nearly 72,000,000 pounds established some years ago.

At the conclusion of work last Saturday, sales were standing on the threshold of the 72,000,000 pound mark and offerings today and tomorrow are expected to take it well above that figure.

Tobacco Battle Lines Shape Up

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Tobacco companies are rolling out the big guns in the tobacco battle of 1974.

The object: to convince tobacco growers they should go along with increased 1974 quotas, raise more tobacco, and quit listening to the doomsayers.

At stake, industry spokesmen insist, is the future of flue-cured tobacco in the Southeast.

The gloves come off at a recent gathering in Raleigh of representatives of two powerful industry groups: The Leaf Tobacco Exporters Association, and the Tobacco Association of United States.

The object, to take to tobacco road with the message which growers have not been hearing: No tobacco anywhere else in the world has the quality, taste, and aroma of that grown here, and the companies need more and more of it. They asked for the increased quotas, support U.S. Sec. of Agriculture Earl Butz, and want the farmers to produce more tobacco or face losing business to overseas producers.

Want To Steal?

The biggest problem, industry representatives say, is to put down what they call propoganda—that the buyers want the farmers to over-produce so prices will drop and they can "steal the tobacco from the growers."

Hendricks L. Shelton, president of Export Leaf Tobacco Co. of Richmond, Va., a subsidiary of British-American Tobacco Co., and producers of Brown and Williamson labels such as Kools, Viceroy, Raleigh, and Bel-Air, put it this way:

"Certain people in positions of high responsibility are putting out false rumors—and some farm organizations are going along—that if growers increase production, the price will fall.

"We would be foolish to cut the growers' throats. We depend on them for our supplies. And they depend on us to buy from them."

Others at the gathering of industry people were not quite so diplomatic.

"Jim Graham (N.C. Commissioner of Agriculture) and other politicians are using this situation for political gain. They're courting votes," was the theme.

In a nutshell industry representatives believe that sufficient fuel to run equipment and drying processes will be made available; fertilizer may be somewhat short, but still adequate, and production costs will probably be higher—but the farmers had better produce the leaf which they need or the companies will end up not only losing their export markets, but face prospects of importing leaf for home consumption.

Not A Threat "We don't want to scare the farmer—that is not a threat—but we want them to realize what the problem is," said Stuart G. Christian Jr., an official with Universal Leaf in Richmond and chairman of the executive committee of the exporters association.

Last year, growers were allotted 1.179 billion pounds, and fell short of that mark by some 50 million pounds of leaf. This year, sales are predicted at 1.229 billion under the hiked quotas.

Shelton describes the conflict between buyers and growers this way:

More tobacco is being grown overseas—South America, South Africa, especially—but it lacks the flavor and aroma of Southern leaf. Nonetheless, Manufacturers may be forced to use it; and once they make buying commitments and adjust their products for the competition leaf, it will be difficult to return to American tobacco.

"All we ask the grower is that he produce the quantity and quality of tobacco sufficient to take care of the demand. They are producing more overseas; and as time goes by the quantity and quality will increase.

"If the American grower fails to meet the shortage, there'll be more and more imported here, and less exported.

"Any farmer who rebels is taking an extremely short range viewpoint that is detrimental to his future," Shelton argues.

Can the industry offer any guarantees to the growers?

No, is the spontaneous response. It's still a free market situation. "The only guarantee we can give," says Christian, "is that we want to guarantee our customers a good supply of tobacco. We will buy it. We are committed—the demand is here."

As planting time draws nigh, the volleys from each side are likely to intensify.

Strength For Today

CLOSER TO THE THRONE

John Wesley and George Whitefield, outstanding religious leaders of the early eighteenth century who worked closely together, finally separated over differences in doctrine. Many years later a friend asked Whitefield if he expected to see Wesley in heaven.

"No," replied Whitefield, "neither you or I will see Wesley in heaven. But the reason, my friend, will be that Wesley will be so close to the throne of God and you and I will be so far away that we will not be able to recognize him."

Whitefield had watched the life of this man whom many people thought was his enemy, and, laying aside all personal resentment, spoke of him as one whose spiritual life transcended that of all his generation.

To value and admire those we disagree with is a fine quality, particularly because it requires that we put aside the differences and recognize the whole man for what he is.

THIRD-WORLD LOANS Rejected, 155 for and 248 against, a bill authorizing a $1.5 billion U.S. contribution to the World Bank's International Development Association.

Unless the Administration-backed bill is revived, the U.S. will withdraw its traditional support of the I.D.A. Most of the loans are used for improving agricultural and transportation systems.

The money was earmarked for easy-term loans to nations with per capita incomes of less than $375. The borrowing nations pay no interest and have 40-year terms. India, Pakistan and Bangladesh receive a majority of the I.D.A. loans.

Supporters argued that the U.S. needs to continue its leadership role in helping third-world nations develop their economies.

Opponents said the price tag is too high. Some opponents argued against no-interest loans for foreign nations while U.S.

Times and the Washington Post gave it substantial play. The article provided a fine mouth-watering tidbit for political parsons prepared to believe anything bad about the Portuguese. And there was but one trouble with the piece: There was scarcely a word of truth in it.

Within a month after the Times story appeared, the London Economists exposed the tale as so much Communist propaganda contrived by Czechoslovakian agents who had fed it to a pair of gullible Spanish priests. The priests fed it in turn to Father Hastings. He fed it to the Times. There was no such village as Wiriyamu, and no massacre. A Washington-based organization, Accuracy in Media, confirms the fabrication. So much for this one.

On Aug. 15, 1973, the Washington Post carried a long story by reporter William Claiborne, having to do with the literal burial of valuable military goods at the Air Force base in Charleston, S.C. The article began on page one and jumped for more than a column inside. The substance of the piece was that in an effort to deceive Air Force inspectors, certain officers at Charleston had ordered great quantities of electrical equipment, steel cable, even desks and chairs, buried in a pond and a dump.

The article added its bit to the collected horror stories of Pentagon waste. The Los Angeles Times, swallowing the story whole, asserted editorially that "punishment is in order." But, again, there was but one trouble: The reports were untrue. Air Force inspectors drained the pond and dug up the dump. They found nothing to support the Post's account. Robert Heintz of the Detroit News, one of Washington's finest reporters, has exposed the whole business.

In both cases, unless I am badly mistaken, the stories were published because writers and editors were subconsciously ready to believe rumors about unpopular institutions — the Portuguese in one instance, the military establishment in the other. Facts weren't sufficiently checked; and the stories appeared. The moral for my brothers of the press who worry about Mr. Nixon's credibility is found in Matthew 7. We truly ought to read the first five verses more often.

Rep. Richardson Preyer (D-6) voted "yea."

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L. H. Fountain (D-2), David Henderson (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Wilmer Mizell (R-5), Charles Rose (D-7), Earl Ruth (R-8), James Martin (R-9), James Broyhill (R-10) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "nay."

SENATE

SEATING SEN. METZENBAUM Tabled, 53 for and 22 against, in the Senate's first roll call vote of the new year, a motion to delay the final seating of Ohio Democrat Howard Metzenbaum to the Senate post vacated by now-Attorney General William Saxbe, a Republican.

The tabled motion would have temporarily seated Metzenbaum while the Rules Committee investigated his dispute with the Internal Revenue Service over a $118,000 tax-deduction he claimed in 1967 and 1968. The matter is pending in U.S. Tax Court.

In tabling the proposal the Senate in effect killed it and cleared the way for Metzenbaum to take his seat.

Supporters of the tabling motion—mostly Democrats pointed out that Metzenbaum has a private citizen's right to argue with the IRS. Sen. Sam Ervin (D-N.C.) said that Metzenbaum met the Constitutional requirements of age, citizenship and residency.

Opponents—all Republicans—argued that fair play dictated an investigation of Metzenbaum such as was given Vice President Gerald Ford. Sen. Carl Curtis (R-Neb.) argued that the Constitution gives the Senate the right to pass judgement on its members.

Sen. Sam Ervin (D) voted "yea." Sen. Jesse Helms (R) did not vote.

DEPLETION ALLOWANCES

Passed, 50 for and 38 against, an amendment that gives a $2 million tax break per year to a handful of companies that mine trona ore and process it into soda ash. Soda ash is used to make soap, glass and cement.

The measure was attached to a tax relief bill for POWs and MIAs.

If the amendment becomes law, it will reverse a 1971 ruling by the Treasury Department. The ruling stopped soda ash producers from treating, for tax purposes, their profit from processing trona as income from mining the ore. Profits made on mineral extraction get preferential tax treatment under the mineral and oil depletion allowances.

The rationale behind depletion allowances is that extracting minerals from land decreases the land's value, thus qualifying its owner for a tax write-off.

Supporters argued that without a tax break for the refiners, it is cheaper to buy soda ash overseas, thus damaging America's balance-of-payments position and eliminating jobs in a domestic industry.

Opponents argued that the mineral depletion allowance is designed to promote mining, not processing. Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.) called the loophole an "abuse" of the tax laws.

Ervin voted "yea" and Helms did not vote.

UNEMPLOYMENT FOR STUDENTS

Rejected, 35 for and 45 against, an amendment to exempt students who have on-campus jobs from paying unemployment insurance taxes.

The amendment was one of many non-germane amendments offered to the POW and MIA Tax Relief bill.

In rejecting the amendment, the Senate affirmed the existing law requiring certain students to pay into the federal unemployment insurance fund. These are students who work on-campus in establishments not directly administered by the institution.

For example, a student working in a university-run book store does not pay for unemployment insurance. But if the university forms a non-profit corporation to run the book store, or if the book store is run privately for profit, all of the book store's employees pay unemployment taxes.

Supporters argued that working students need the extra cash that now goes to pay for unemployment taxes.

Opponents argued that non-student employees would lose their jobs to students if students were exempted, because the employers would not have to pay matching unemployment taxes.

Ervin voted "yea" and Helms did not vote.

Penalty For Late Listing

Pitt County property owners who fail to list their property—including both real and personal—for tax purposes before the January 31 deadline will face a 10 per cent penalty for late listing, according to Pitt County Tax Supervisor Phillip Michaels.

Michaels said many people still have not listed their property for taxes so far and January 31 is Thursday, he emphasized.

He said persons listing property for tax purposes must bring their social security number and motor vehicle registration cards with them in order to be able to complete their tax listing.

He noted too, that all property—including church property—formerly exempt from taxes in the past must now be listed and applications filed for exemption from taxes.

The January 31 deadline applies to the filing for exemption, too, Michaels noted.

Jamaican Flag Tells A Story

KINGSTON, Jamaica (UPI)—Jamaica's national flag has a diagonal gold cross separating black sections on the sides and green sections on the top and bottom.

The black stands for hardships the nation has overcome or faces, the gold represents natural wealth and the sunshine, and the green stands for hope and agricultural resources.

The flag's official symbolism is: "Hardships there are but the land is green and the sun shineth."

For example, in his letter to Rep. Reuss, the Treasury's Hennessy talked of World Bank loans helping Greece "take advantage of its association agreement with the EEC (European Common Market)." In fact, when the colonels seized power in April 1967, the Common Market froze its agreement with Athens, pledging no reinstatement until Greek democratic institutions are revived—a bit of wisdom which has not yet permeated the United States Treasury.

Low Bidder On Road Work

RALEIGH—Barrus Construction Co. of Kinston was the apparent low bidder for a road construction project including Beaufort, Craven, Lenoir and Pitt Counties.

The project included 13.46 miles of surfacing five sections and resurfacing two sections of secondary roads.

The bid totaled $174,339.50 for the project and final completion date had been set as Aug. 1.

C&D Picks N.C. Slogan

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—"The best of the South is North-Carolina."

This is the new North Carolina slogan adopted Monday by the state Board of Conservation and Development.

Beverly Bizzell of Durham suggested the slogan and will receive a free vacation in North Carolina. Her entry was selected from some 4,000 entered in a contest sponsored by the Travel and Promotion Division of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources.

The slogan will be used in the state's regional and national advertising program and promotional material.

In other action, the board recommended that the first priority for more than $9 million in federal economic assistance funds should be given to the state's 74 "Governor's Award" communities.

The award goes to communities of less than 15,000 population which have met state requirements designed to make themselves more attractive to industry.

The federal funds would be provided through the Rural Development Act administered by the Farmers Home Administration.

Mayes Leads Furman Past East Carolina

Ayden-Grifton Downs Saints

DUDLEY—Ayden-Grifton's Chargers kept hot on the heels of Eastern Carolina Conference leader D. H. Conley with a 59-44 victory over Southern Wayne High School last night.

The Ayden-Grifton junior varsity and girls made a sweep of it. The Baby Chargers won, 47-46, while the girls took a 45-42 win.

In the girls' game, both teams hit 10 points in the first period of play as they fought it out on even terms. Southern Wayne got the better of things in the second period, however, outshooting the Chargerettes, 17-14. That left the host team in a 27-24 lead at the half.

Ayden-Grifton outthit the Saintes in the third period, 12-10, but still was down, 37-36, as the last period opened. Ayden-Grifton pushed ahead, however, with a 9-5 advantage, capturing the win.

Decia Little led Ayden-Grifton with 16 points, while Kelly Reeves had 10. Hollowell led Southern with 24 points, while Armwood had 13.

In the boys' contest, Southern Wayne slipped out into an 18-16 lead after one period of play. The Chargers edged ahead, however, 25-25, after outshooting Southern, 10-7, in the second frame.

The Chargers outscored Southern Wayne, 14-6, in the third period, building their lead to 40-31. They then held off the Saints, 19-13, in the final period to take the victory.

Travis Woods led the Chargers to the win with 20 points, while Milton Brown had 13 and Danny Garris had 10. Ken Mack led Southern's effort with 12 points.

The Chargers travel to Farmville Central tonight.

TO SHOOT OR NOT TO SHOOT?—Donnie Owens (12) of East Carolina ponders his decision of what to do with the ball during the action between the Bucs and Furman University last night. Teammate Nicky White (30) is

A questionable three-point play with just over 10 minutes left took the winds out of the sails of the East Carolina University Pirates last night and let the Furman Paladins pull away, gaining an eventual 89-80 victory in a key Southern Conference contest.

Furman's Craig Lynch was driving toward the basket with Furman in a 58-57 lead when he was fouled. He continued on, sinking the shot, and the officials ruled it good, and he was awarded a free throw, which he made.

East Carolina came back down the floor and scored, but Furman came back with three straight baskets and two free throws to run their lead out to 10, and the Pirates never recovered from that.

That one burst, plus an injury to ECU's leading scorer, Nicky White, played the deciding role in the game. White's injury came at the same time as Lynch's basket, and he had to leave the game. The injury, to his knee, has not been fully diagnosed this morning, and it was feared that he might not be available to play in Wednesday's game with Old Dominion, nor in the return match with Furman on Saturday.

White is leading the Buc scoring with a 14.5 average, and is one of the Southern's leading rebounders at 9.7.

Furman had a red-hot hand from the floor last night, with 6-9 Dlyde Mayes, one of the best, if not the best, player in the conference leading the way. The Paladins shot 54.9 per cent for the game, while the Bucs got only 48.1 per cent. Only four points separated the two teams from the floor, and that margin came on the Lynch call and another key call in the first half. In that, White was called for offensive goaltending, another call that brought the ECU coaching staff to its feet in protest.

The real difference came at the foul line where Furman hit 11 of 15 and East Carolina made only six of 12.

The Bucs outrebounded the taller Paladins, however, 45-27, in individual rebounds.

But stopping Mayes proved the difference. He canned 30 points in the game, proving his great worth to the Paladins, playing without one of their regular starters. Fessor Leonard, their 7-1 center, was left behind in Greenville, S. C., because of disciplinary problems.

The win boosted Furman's league leading record to 6-1, while the Pirates fell off to 5-3.

Furman got the initial lead on a basket by Mayes, but Reggie Lee tied it up for the Bucs, and a free throw by Donnie Owens gave the Bucs a 3-2 lead. They extended that to 5-2 before Furman came back behind the scoring of Bruce Grimm, their freshman standout, and took an 8-5 edge.

But the Pirates came back again, with White putting them into an 11-10 lead. Owens and Lee both hit on fast breaks after that to run the Bucs out to a 15-10 lead.

Furman again came back, taking a 16-15 lead in a shot by Mayes, and after that, Furman began to pull away. They built the lead to five, 22-17, then after the Bucs had cut it to one, they pulled slowly away again, this time going out to a 36-26 lead with 4:55 left in the half, their biggest margin of the first half.

The Bucs, however, fought back, tying it up on a shot by White, then taking the lead as he hit again. But Furman came up with two shots in the last 30 seconds for a 42-40 halftime lead.

East Carolina got baskets from Tom Marsh and Lee at the start of the second half to resume the lead, but Furman tied it up and moved back out. The Bucs pushed back up, 48-46, but again Furman took the lead. East Carolina regained the lead one last time, 55-54 with 12:22 to go with a basket by White.

Furman regained the lead on a shot by Baron Hill at 55-55, and sent up by three when Mayes hit a jumper. Owens hit on a drive to cut it back to one.

Then, it happened, Lynch drove in, drew the foul, and got the controversial basket. His free throw made it 61-57, and after a Pirate bucket, the wind went out of the Buc sails.

Mayes hit for another four-point edge, and Bud Bierly stole the ball for two more. Grimm scored after another steal, and Bierly made good on two free throws for a 69-59 lead with 7:54 to go.

Furman got another pair of baskets after East Carolina scored once more, running the lead to 73-61 with 6:50 to play.

East Carolina tried to cut it down, but just couldn't get the ball often enough as Furman continued to go for the baskets, but with a little more deliberation. Two quick steals right at the end gave Furman two more cheap baskets to set the final margin.

Besides Mayes' 30 points, Grimm finished with 18, while Bierly had 14 and Lynch had 13. East Carolina was led by Lee with 15, while White had 14, Owens had 12 and Roger Atkinson and Marsh each had 10.

The Pirates play one more home game this week, hosting third-ranked small college power Old Dominion at 8 p.m. Wednesday. Saturday at 12 p.m., they will be in a regionally televised game at Furman. That game may be seen locally over WNCN-TV.

Women Cagers Top High Point

The East Carolina women's basketball team evened its record at 2-2 last night with a 65-44 victory over High Point College.

The Lady Pirates put it all together in the game, getting little trouble from the Pantherettes. East Carolina rushed out to a 19-5 lead in the first period of play and was never in trouble again. They outthit High Point, 18-10, in the second quarter, gaining a 38-15 halftime lead.

High Point tried to put on a rally in the second half, but had little success as East Carolina coasted along. High Point outthit them in the third period, 16-15, but still was down, 52-31. Both teams hit 13 points in the final period of play.

LuAnn Swain led East Carolina with 11 points, while Sheilah Cotten and Frances Sweeney each had 10. Debbie Leonard led High Point with 11, while Debbie Madden had 10.

East Carolina travels to Elon College for its next game, on Thursday.

Lenoir Rolls By Pitt Tech

WINTERVILLE—Powerful Lenoir Community College rolled to a 96-53 victory over Pitt Technical Institute last night.

Led by the scoring of Thomas Dawson, who poured in 32 points, the Lancers had little trouble in their second romp over the Paladins.

Pitt Tech came out trying to control the ball to keep the strong Lenoir team from making another runaway of it, but their plan just didn't work. Lenoir moved out into a 10-4 lead in the early minutes of the game, and shot out to a 16-8 lead after about seven minutes of play.

They continued to hawk the ball from the Paladins, hitting 10 straight points from a 28-8 lead. After that, they slowly built the margin out to 28 at halftime, 50-22.

In the second half, the Lancers continued their man-to-man pressing defense, continuing to pull away from the Paladins.

Ali Avenges Earlier Loss In Decision Win

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP)—"Ali! Ali! Ali!"

The yells of the crowd rolled around the rafters of Madison Square Garden and played a song for the ears of proud Muhammad Ali.

Dancing, jabbing, playing a deadly tune on the profile of Joe Frazier like a ring Paderewski, the quick-fisted descendant of a Kentucky slave avenged an earlier defeat at the hands of the one-time world champion and fought his way back near the pinnacle of the sport.

Unanimous winner in a 12-round slugfest that brought a crowd of 20,748 to its feet and thrilled the millions of Ali supporters throughout the world, Muhammad stood out today as the No. 1 threat to the heavyweight crown held by big George Foreman.

"George Foreman is a sissy fighter," Ali said, tauntingly. "He fights like a girl. Joe Frazier is a good fighter. This was a great event."

"I think we should fight again." This is a matter that is to be decided by the men in the back room—the lawyers, the managers, the auditors. But one thing is certain. Heavyweight boxing is alive again, because Ali is back in full cry.

Foreman, who slugged Frazier to the canvas six times and won the heavyweight crown in a second-round knockout a year ago in Jamaica, will meet Ken Norton, who broke Ali's jaw and split two decisions with Muhammad, in a title defense at Caracas, Venezuela, March 26.

Bob Arum, who is Ali's lawyer and head of the agency that handled the world-wide television rights to Monday night's fight, would like to match Ali and the Foreman-Norton winner in the spring.

Normally, Ali, because of the heavy income tax bite, would be better off to postpone such a fight until next year. But Ali will be 33 then, going on 34, older, slower and less sharp.

A "rubber meeting" between the plodding, aggressive Frazier and the nimble-footed, sniping Ali conceivably could be an alternative.

"I want him again—you better believe it," Frazier, a gracious loser said after the fight. "One more time."

"I think I won, but it could have gone either way. I hurt him more than he hurt me. He was wrestling and holding on."

Ali, a bombastic, bragging challenger, was a chastened winner. "I'm not gonna duck Joe," he said. "I'm not gonna be like Foreman. I thought Joe was finished. He surprised me. He was much better than in the first fight."

"I think he deserves another chance. This fight can't be topped by any other fight."

No one in the packed arena and perhaps no one in the vast unseen audience around the world appeared disinclined to dispute it.

It was another great fight between two different types of fighter—the slugger against the master craftsman—but it had a different ending. In the first fight, March 8, 1971, when the two were unbeaten champions, Frazier was the unanimous 15-round winner.

In Monday night's 12-rounder, the two judges gave Ali a wide edge; Tony Castellano 74-1 and Jack Gordon 8-4, while Tony Perez scored it 65-1, all for Ali.

A random poll of writers at ringside had it 18-4 for Ali, with one even.

Ali, 32, came out dancing and flicking that long left of his like a serpent's tongue. Frazier, 30, bearded, grunting and snorting like an angry bear, came out flailing away, disdaining any punches thrown his way.

Ali, 212, took the first two rounds handily, beating a tattoo on Frazier's angry face.

"I'm gonna get you," snarled Frazier in the third. It was a round he won, twice jarring Ali's head back with vicious left hooks and pounding telling blows into Muhammad's mid-section.

Ali continued weaving, darting, poking. They seemed to be harmless shots but they landed flush on Frazier's glowering face and they began to take effect.

Ali appeared to win the fourth, fifth and sixth rounds. He was an evasive target. Frazier, 209, swung wildly, connected occasionally, missed often.

In the sixth round, a lip reader could see Frazier snort, "I'm gonna get you." Before he would get the words out, Ali shot a blood red glove flush to his snarling mouth.

Frazier, obviously irked at his failure to drive home a telling or a knockout blow in the early rounds, picked up momentum in the seventh. He danced and taunted Ali, nailed Muhammad with thunderous left hooks.

Frazier fought well in the seventh and eighth, maybe winning both, as Ali showed signs of tiring. Ali became flat-footed. He moved with less agility. He took more punishment and administered less.

In the ninth round, Frazier grinned at Ali and motioned to him, "Come on, let's fight." Swinging wildly, never giving ground, he brought blood to Ali's nose. He spit some blood from his mouth himself. But Ali hung on, tying him up and pecking away at his foe like a gifted swordsman.

Frazier remained the aggressor. He kept coming forward like an angry bull. He snorted.

He puffed. He swung. Ali jabbed, poked, stung his man.

"Float like a butterfly, sting like a bee."

The old Ali adage of strategy was never practiced more skillfully.

Then it was over—Ali by a unanimous decision.

It was a long road back for Ali, who had his crown snatched from him and who was widely abused for his failure to accept the draft and go into the Vietnamese war.

Later, when the war became unpopular, Ali's own popularity soared. Many have acclaimed him the world's outstanding sports personality.

Fieldcrest In Industrial Win

Fieldcrest handed Union Carbide its second loss of the year last night in the Industrial Basketball League. The loss threatened Union Carbide's hold on the Division II lead, cutting it to a half-game over idle Empire Brush.

HUMOR IS TOUCHING

EAST LANSING, Mich. (AP)—Michigan State football coach Denny Stolz appears to have picked up some of the sense of humor for which his predecessor, Duffy Daugherty, was noted. After his Spartans bowed 35 to 0 to Ohio State, Stolz was asked if the Buckeyes had any weakness.

"Possibly in parking the team bus," replied Stolz.

UCLA, 15-1, picked up 51 of 52 first-place votes from a nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters, and piled up 1,038 total points.

The Irish, who snapped the Bruins' record 88-game win streak Jan. 19th with a 71-70 victory and took over the No. 1 position in the poll last week, fell to third this time around. One voter, unconvinced by UCLA's latest victory, gave Notre Dame the remaining first-place ballot.

North Carolina State, 13-1 after beating North Carolina and Purdue, moved up one spot to second. The Wolfpack collected 894 points, as compared to 864 points for the third-place Irish.

North Carolina remained fourth with 668 points. The Tar Heels, 13-2, followed up their loss to North Carolina State with a win over Maryland. Marquette, 16-1 after topping Long Beach State and Chicago-Loyola, was up one place to No. 5 with 565 points.

Homer Smith Is Army Coach

WEST POINT, N.Y. (AP)—Homer Smith, former head coach at Davidson and the University of the Pacific, is Army's new football coach. The Associated Press learned today. The official announcement will be made Wednesday.

Smith, 42, a former star full-back at Princeton, spent the last two seasons as assistant head coach at UCLA under Pepper Rodgers and moved to Georgia Tech when Rodgers accepted the head job there last month.

Smith succeeds Tom Cahill, who was fired last month after a 0-10 season, worst in Army history, capped by a 51-0 loss to arch-rival Navy.

Smith was responsible for installing the Wishbone formation at UCLA but it was not known whether he would use the same offense at Army.

Smith was head coach at Pacific in 1970 and 1971 after serving in the same capacity the previous five years at Davidson.

Battered Frazier Wants Another Crack At Beating Muhammed Ali

By EARL GERHEIM
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)— Joe Frazier, his bruised and lumpy face attesting to the ferocity of Muhammad Ali's rapid punches, dispelled any suggestions of retirement by announcing, "I want him again."

"I don't see any reason why I should stop," Frazier said after Ali recorded a unanimous 12-round decision over him Monday.

"I want him again, you'd better believe it," said Frazier, who outpointed Ali the first time they met in March, 1971, and lost the heavyweight championship to George Foreman on a two-round knockout in Jamaica, Jan. 22, 1973.

Frazier, wrapped in a white, paisley brocade robe, sat on a platform in an interview area adjacent to Madison Square Garden's main arena and fielded question from reporters.

"I thought it could go either way," Frazier replied when asked his opinion of the decision. "I got hit a couple of good shots but then, I hit him pretty good, too."

Ali, floating around the ring on nimble feet, peppered Frazier with combinations of punches and stung him with a right to the face in the second round that drove Frazier into a corner. Ali moved in after him but referee Tony Perez, thinking he heard the bell ring, separated the two gladiators and ordered them to their corners. Then, realizing his error, Perez motioned for the round to continue the remaining 15 seconds.

"The referee did his best," Frazier said. "But somebody ought to teach him the sound of the bell."

Ali strode into the interview area, mounted the platform and grasped Frazier's hand. He lost little time grabbing a microphone and lavishing praise on Frazier.

"Joe was much better than I thought. You can't take nothing from him. I'd love to give Joe another chance."

"If he fights Foreman like he fought me, he'll have no trouble beating the champion."

Frazier then excused himself and left the area.

Ali, in between bites of an ice cream bar, concluded his praise of Frazier and unloaded his usual tirade of superlatives to describe his own talent.

"What do you think now?" he asked. "Look at me. Do you see a scar on my face? Not a mark. You have to admit it. I am better than you think I am."

Ali said he felt he performed much better than in the first bout against Frazier.

"This was a much better fight than the first fight," Ali said. "There was more moving, it was better to watch and I didn't do any laying on the ropes and clowning."

Ali credited preparations at his Deer Lake, Pa., training camp for instilling the stamina he demonstrated against Frazier.

Ali said Frazier hurt him twice during the bout, but, playing the role of a verbal artful dodger, refused to tell newsmen exactly when Frazier had him in trouble.

"He had me out on my feet twice," Ali said.

Someone asked when.

"Now I'm not going to say or you guys will roast me about it. Now I'll roast you."

Michigan Wins Another Game

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
WELL, said Michigan basketball Coach Johnny Orr with more than a bit of tongue in cheek, "we were predicted to finish eighth in the conference and maybe we still will."

Not the way they're going.

The Wolverines, ranked 20th nationally, pulled away from No. 16 Wisconsin in the second half Monday night for an 83-75 triumph. The win boosted Michigan to a 5-1 Big Ten record and 13-3 overall.

The Badgers, 3-2 in the league and 11-3 over-all, led by 51-49 five minutes into the second half, but Michigan went on top for good by outscoring Wisconsin 18-6 over the next five minutes.

"We were too sluggish and inactive," complained Badger Coach John Powless. "They covered more territory than we did and that's why they won."

There were three other ranked teams in action and all won. No. 7 Vanderbilt breezed by Kentucky 82-65, No. 8 Alabama whipped Florida 98-79 and No. 15 Louisville shaded Drake 75-73.

Campy Russell, the leading scorer in the conference, pumped in 14 of the Wolverines' 18 points during their critical surge, hitting 10 of them in a row. He wound up with 25 for the night and Wayman Britt added 16. Marcus McCoy and Gary Anderson scored 17 points apiece for Wisconsin.

The Badgers' starting lineup averages 6-10 while Michigan fields a team averaging 6-3½, but the Wolverines out-rebounded the opposition 45-32.

Jan van Breda Kolff and Terry Compton scored 22 points apiece as Vanderbilt picked up its 15th victory in 16 outings.

The Commodores remain tied with Alabama at 6-1 in the Southeastern Conference. The Crimson Tide, 14-2 overall, led all the way against Florida. Leon Douglas paced the winners with 22 points and T.R. Dunn added 16.

Louisville rolled up a 15-point halftime lead and held on against Drake. Bill Butler and Wesley Cox led the balanced Cardinals' attack with 16 points each.

In other top action, Purdue kept its Big Ten record intact by beating Ohio State 67-65 on the strength of two free throws by Frank Kendrick with one second left. And James "Fly" Williams watched from the stands in the second half as Austin Peay squeezed by Western Kentucky 98-97. Williams, the nation's second leading scorer, managed just one point in 11 minutes of first-half action, then appeared in his street clothes to observe the second half. Coach Lake Kelly declined comment on the matter.

Rollins also contributed 21 points in the two victories and has a 10.5 scoring average for the season.

Earlier, N.C. State's Monte Towe was picked as the ACC player of the week.

ACC teams were idle Monday night and none play tonight. But all seven are scheduled to play Wednesday, headed by North Carolina State at Maryland, to be regionally televised beginning at 7:05 p.m. North Carolina will be at Wake Forest, Davidson at Duke, The Citadel at Clemson, and Virginia at West Virginia.

Crowd Pleased With Decision

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP)— Muhammad Ali has always maintained he's "the people's champion," and he reinforced that claim in scoring a unanimous decision over Joe Frazier Monday night.

When ring announcer Joe Bostic told the throng of 20,748 assembled at Madison Square Garden that the winner of "the rematch of the century" was Ali, the news drew a thunderous ovation from those who came to watch — and by very much a part of — the spectacle.

"Ali, Ali, Ali," the cheers wafted from the pastel-colored seats, floating to ringside in waves that drowned out everything else.

George Foreman may be the heavyweight champion of the world, but no boxer is more popular than the 32-year-old Ali.

"We drew more people than any other event in history," Ali said afterwards. "We were just two fighters — not champions — who punched each other to death."

Bob Arum, Ali's attorney and the man who set up the vast closed circuit television package, said that by the time all theaters are heard from, over one billion people will have watched Monday night's fight, easily a record.

"He's the greatest ticket-seller in the world," said veteran fight announcer Don Dunphy. "Beautiful, just beautiful," said one Ali fan, who watched the closed-circuit telecast in Atlanta. "Now it's on to George Foreman."

At the Statler Hilton Hotel across the street from the Garden, which was the site of Ali's victory party, nearly a thousand fans gathered for a glimpse of their king.

Among the 20,748 at the Garden, who contributed to a live gross of $1,063,688, were many of those for whom being seen means as much as seeing.

Actress Barbra Streisand was there. So were actors George C. Scott, George Jessel and Jean-Paul Belmondo. New York's new mayor, Abe Beame, was there, as were author Norman Mailer, artist Leroy Nieman, TV personality Dick Cavett and New York Knicks basketball stars Willis Reed and Walt "Clyde" Frazier.

Then there were the not-so-famous, those for whom an Ali-Frazier fight is a big social event, and for whom it is a status thing to be seen there.

And they came to watch Ali.

In the first round, Ali went to his famed shuffle, and the crowd roared. But that was the only showboating he did — the rest was jabbing and dancing, floating and stinging. The crowd loved it.

Ali hurt Frazier with a hard right in the second round, and the crowd was in a frenzy. In between the second and the third rounds, the chant of "Ali, Ali, Ali," reverberated throughout the Garden.

Then came the wait for the decision; but there was little doubt among the fans who swarmed down to ringside. When the announcement finally came, the crowd let loose one last time.

"This is the happiest day in the world," one fan said.

Not very many were about to disagree.

Rollins Gets Rookie Honor

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Clemson freshman Wayne "Tree" Rollins, who is holding his own among the rebounding leaders in the Atlantic Coast Conference, has been picked as the league's rookie of the week for the third time this season.

A committee of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association selected the 7-foot-1 Cordele, Ga., native for the award on the basis of his play in Clemson's victories over Furman and Virginia last week.

Rollins, who is tied with N. C. State senior Tommy Burleson for second place in the rebounding race, hauled down 15 rebounds in the Tigers' 58-54 win over Furman. He got 18 in the 61-51 decision over Virginia.

He and Burleson have 11.6 averages, and trail Len Elmore of Maryland, who is the ACC's top rebounder with a 14.3 average.

Rollins also contributed 21 points in the two victories and has a 10.5 scoring average for the season.

Earlier, N.C. State's Monte Towe was picked as the ACC player of the week.

ACC teams were idle Monday night and none play tonight. But all seven are scheduled to play Wednesday, headed by North Carolina State at Maryland, to be regionally televised beginning at 7:05 p.m. North Carolina will be at Wake Forest, Davidson at Duke, The Citadel at Clemson, and Virginia at West Virginia.

Alabama Aide To VPI Post

BLACKSBURG, Va. (AP)—Alabama assistant Jimmy Sharpe was expected to be named today as the new head football coach at Virginia Tech. Sharpe met with top Virginia Tech officials, including president T. Marshall Hahn, here Monday, but a Tech spokesman said no contract was signed then.

Gobbler Coach Charlie Coffey resigned earlier this month after three years during which his teams won only 10 of 31 games and enjoyed only one winning season. The Gobblers were 2-9 last fall.

The coaching job at Tech isn't an easy one. Not only will the new coach get off to a woefully late start in recruiting, but his team faces a tough intersectional schedule this fall.

Sharpe, 34, has been on the staff of head Coach Paul "Bear" Bryant at Alabama for 11 years and has been coordinator of the Crimson Tide's wish-bone offense for the past four years.

He played offensive and defensive guard for Alabama, winning three varsity letters before becoming an assistant to Bryant after graduation.

Sharpe, a native of Montgomery, Ala., cocaptained along with Lee Roy Jordan the 1962 Alabama team.

The Worry Clinic No Guarantees With Wealth

Lucy is a sexual casualty! Her mother was partly to blame for stressing the wrong goals in Lucy's love affairs. So beware of playboys! They may have plenty of $$$$ but often lack common "sense." So study this case with care!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.
CASE -537: Lucy R., aged 24, is a disillusioned divorcee. "Dr. Crane," she began, "I've already made a sorry mess of my life!"
"But it is partly Mother's fault, for she was always obsessed with my marrying a rich man."
"So she contrived to have me introduced to wealthy playboys in our city."
"However, in college I really fell in love with a poor boy who was working his way through school."
"He waited tables at our girls' dormitory and was such a being hounded for unpaid bills. "His father felt I could straighten him out if I got pregnant."

"Teddy was opposed to our having a baby, so I felt there was really nothing left to hold me."
"And when another girl in town filed a paternity suit against him, that was the last straw!"
"So I got a divorce."
"Dr. Crane, please warn your millions of readers that wealth is no guarantee of a happy marriage!"
"Now I regret ever having broken my engagement to my college classmate, even though Mother prodded me into doing it!"

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 30, 1974

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A big conflict rages now between idealistic and practical concepts, so you would be wise not to get involved in these. Decide on your own standards of conduct.
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Separate financial from the purely friendly interests today, or you may get into big trouble. Morning favors monetary affairs, and p.m. the social.
TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Your interests are not apt to jive with those of kin today, so absent yourself and get health and charm improved. Forget social activities; plan financially.
GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan your hours wisely so you can handle pesky problems as well as interests that bring in the proverbial bacon. Don't fret over anything.
MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Don't try to listen to advice of both good pals and practical business experts, or you get confused. Decide who is more valuable to you now.
LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Your mate and a bigwig do not agree and you will have to decide intelligently what is best to do. Situations arise to clear the picture.
VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get routine work out of the way, then carry through with inspirational ideas. Get into the study that is related to them.
LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get away from pressure and enjoy activities that get you back on an even keel, make you happy. Follow hunches to reach better understanding with loved one.
SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Let argument between a close tie and a stranger blow over without entering into it to avoid sad results. Don't bring kin and outside associate together.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Schedule time and activities to handle both outside and inside work without indecision. Plan time for recreation and do something kind for loved one.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Take care of pressing monetary matter, then you can enjoy recreation later. Concentrate on happiness and get out of the doldrums.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Do not argue with kin who do not agree with your views now, but express them to those who do understand them in the business world.
PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Don't worry about what you can't help, but get right into those things you can do something about for a productive day.
IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she can get much done, but is torn between the idealistic and the practical, and should have the religious training early that will bring the two into fine balance for a successful, happy life. Any profession requiring friendliness is favored, as there is a natural love of mankind. Fine musical talent.
"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

In the decade preceding the Second World War, Vienna, Austria was one of the great centers of contract bridge. Some of the world's greatest players practised the art of the pastboards there. Today's play originated in that city, and has become known as the Vienna Coup.
South's hand is suitable for play in spades only, and he indicated this by leaping to four spades over his partner's two no trump rebid. North showed his wealth of controls with a cue-bid of five hearts, which at the same time implied a spade fit—the bid could not be natural, for North could have shown his hearts at his second turn. The hands appeared to fit well, and South

Had A Horse, Got A Buggy

GLASTONBURY, Conn. (AP) — The gasoline shortage has pushed 70-year-old Fred Addington back to the slower pace of an earlier day. He drives a horse-drawn sulky on daily errands through this suburb of Hartford.

He decided in September to get a buggy to go with his two horses. An Ohio firm delivered it.
On a recent round trip to the bank, motor traffic backed up behind Addington. The trip took him about an hour and 15 minutes.
For colder winter weather, Addington says he has a sleigh and a coonskin coat.

NEW YORK (AP) — Stock market prices continued drifting today, showing minor declines.

involved as they were a few years ago, he said, "I think it's because of the economic situation. Students are concerned as never since the Depression about getting a job. They know if they don't work just as hard as they can, there won't be a way for them to earn the money to pay for their overpriced gas and their overpriced bread when they get out of school."

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11:30 a.m. was down 1.61 at 851.40.

He told of being an "eyewitness" to the murders at the Olympics last year. He was an ABC commentator. He said that there were 14 students shot before the Olympics in Mexico in 1968, and that it "seems inevitable" that a gathering of world athletes will from now on bring on political violence.

Advances and declines were running even on the New York Stock Exchange.

"Everything is waiting for Mr. Nixon," said Lucien Hooper, analyst with W. E. Hutton & Co. "But I don't think he's going to do much except stay in office."

"The January market hasn't done much more than tell us it doesn't want to go down," he added. "It hasn't told us it wants to go up."

A native of Pitt County, he had spent most of his life in the Hookerton Community of Greene County. He was a member of Arthur Chapel F.W.B. Church and manager of the Mighty All Stars of Snow Hill.

NYSE prices included Sony, up 3/4 to 26 3/4; Benguet, up 3/4 to 4 1/2; Dow Chemical, up 1 to 54; Colonial Penn Group, off 2 1/2 to 41; and Exxon, up 1/4 to 85 1/4.

Surviving him are his wife, Mrs. Emma Barrett Blow of the home; three sons, Richard Blow of Hookerton, Johnny Blow of Grifton and James Adams of Bell Forks; six daughters, Annie L. Blow and Mable Gray Blow, both of the home, Mrs. Mary B. Jones of Hookerton, Miss Mary Francis Blow and Mrs. Evelyn B. Hood, both of Elizabeth, N.J., and Mrs. Delois B. May of Farmville.

On Monday, the Dow fell more than 6 points in dull and uninspired trading.

He urged students to get involved, not by rioting, but by letting their Congressmen know they're upset about the "rape of the citizen" being carried out in Washington. Congressmen faced with an issue as big as the energy crisis and whether to impeach the President need to hear from their constituents, he said. "I've written many, many letters to my own Congressman and to many others. Every American should spend the eight cents for a letter it takes to be heard," he said.

Brokers said investors were sitting on the sidelines, awaiting signs of an easing of the Arab oil embargo.

They are also feeling concern, analysts pointed out, over inflation and the slowing economy.

Jonas Roots For Mizell

RALEIGH (AP) — Republican Charles R. Jonas Jr., who had been considering running for the U.S. Senate, wants Rep. Wilmer Mizell, R-N.C., to be a candidate for the post.

Copies of a letter from Jonas to Mizell, urging him to run were distributed Monday to newsmen in Raleigh by a member of Gov. Jim Holshouser's staff.

Jonas' action leaves Mizell as virtually the only Republican of statewide renown who is a likely candidate for the GOP nomination to the Senate seat being vacated by Sen. Sam Ervin Jr., D-N.C.

Jonas, a Charlotte stockbroker, is the son of a former Republican Congressman, Charles R. Jonas Sr. He was chairman of President Nixon's reelection committee in North Carolina in 1972.

Mizell, who represents the Fifth District, said last week he would announce within two weeks whether he would run.

Holshouser was not immediately available for comment on whether his staff's distribution of the letter amounted to an endorsement of Mizell's candidacy.

Investigate 2 Break-Ins

Greenville police are continuing their investigation into two break-ins reported yesterday.

Chief Glenn Cannon said an estimated $115 in cash and a small quantity of drugs were taken from the offices of Dr. James Smith at 202 West Third St. in a break-in reported about 9:30 a.m. yesterday.

According to the chief, the thieves gained entrance to the building through an unlocked window and forced open a door to the room where the drugs were kept.

A break-in was reported at the R. R. Forrest Roofing Co. on 14th Street at 11:30 p.m. yesterday, Chief Cannon said.

Thieves gained entrance to the building by breaking out a side window.

A television set was carried from the building through a rear door, but left on the ground near the rear of the building and was recovered by police. Nothing else was reported taken in that break-in, Chief Cannon explained.

James Earl Ray Wins Review Of His Guilty Plea

CINCINNATI, Ohio (AP) — James Earl Ray, 41, confessed slayer of civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., won a review of his guilty plea from the 6th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals today.

The appellate court, in a 2-1 decision, remanded Ray's petition for a review to the U.S. District Court in Nashville, Tenn.

The appeals court accepted Ray's contention that he was given improper legal advice in his 1969 guilty plea. It cited two letters written to Ray by Percy Foreman, then his attorney.

The letters revealed arrangements for Foreman to receive $165,000 from royalties on publications and movies based on Ray's case. Also, the letters indicated that Ray's share of the money would be delivered only on his plea of guilty with "no embarrassing circumstances to take place in the courtroom."

Ray is serving a 99-year sentence in the Tennessee state penitentiary for the April 4, 1968, slaying of King in Memphis, Tenn.

The civil rights leader, in Memphis to support a strike by garbage collectors who belonged to the Teamsters Union, was shot to death as he stood on a motel balcony.

Ray later was extradited from London where he was arrested.

The majority opinion was written by Judge William E. Miller, with Judge Harry Phillips concurring.

Judge Anthony J. Celebrezze wrote to dissent that Ray had a duty to answer the trial judge truthfully when questioned about his guilty plea.

"The record discloses," Celebrezze said, "that the trial judge, in questioning Ray, very thoroughly inquired into the voluntariness of Ray's guilty plea and the consequences which would result therefrom."

Ten Per Cent

RALEIGH (AP)—State employees called today for a 10 per cent pay raise for state personnel, twice the amount recommended by the Advisory Budget Commission for 1974-75.

"While this request only amounts to 'catch up' economics, we would ask that this be an across-the-board increase," said Emmett W. Burden, executive director of the North Carolina State Employees Association.

Burden was joined in the call by Floyd J. Bass, executive director of the North Carolina State Government Employees Association. The two groups claim a membership of about 65,000 persons.

Burden made his request to the legislature's Joint Committee on Appropriations. He said it would "barely cover one-half the rise in the cost of living experienced during the past 12 months."

The association also called for an increase from 11 cents to 15 cents per mile the allowance paid by the state for use of privately owned vehicles on state business.
