

$304.4 Billion Budget Aimed At Detering Recession Risks

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon today laid out his record $304.4-billion budget for fiscal 1975 but promptly pledged to exceed it if the energy crisis throws too many Americans out of work.

Unlike his hard-nosed budget of a year ago in which dozens of programs were targets for extinction or cutback, Nixon fastened his attention on the danger of a recession induced by the fuel shortage.

"The President will not tolerate a recession," Deputy Budget Director Frederic Malek told reporters. "If it means busting the budget to keep people from losing their jobs."

The budget arithmetic, already disclosed last week, shows a deficit of $9.4 billion, about double the deficit for the current financial year. It shows an all-time high defense budget of $85.8 billion, and an over-all spending increase of $29.8 billion over the last budget.

For the first time in history, federal spending for income security for needy Americans — primarily Social Security, public assistance and health aid — tops $100 billion, a jump of about $15 billion over fiscal 1974.

Nixon proposed no new taxes, except for the windfall-profits levy he offered in December to keep the oil companies from profiteering on the energy crisis. It would bring in $3 billion.

As he has announced before, Nixon proposed $1.5 billion for energy research to find new sources of fuel for Americans; new funds for mass-transit systems, wrapped in a special revenue-sharing program, and a large increase in aid to college students.

Nixon said his budget, which amounts to almost $1,500 for every man, woman and child in the nation, walks a tightrope of moderate economic restraint.

"In the face of economic uncertainty, my budget recommendations provide for a fiscal policy that would support high employment while restraining inflation," he said.

His budget officials left the door open for increasing spending or cutting taxes to create jobs lost through the energy crisis.

The standby spending program could include accelerated federal construction or procurement, public-service jobs in high jobs areas, or even higher Social Security benefits, Malek said.

Just as the budget was unveiled, the Housing and Urban Development Department disclosed plans to provide subsidies for tenants in 118,000 more public housing units, thus providing some stimulus to the depressed housing market.

Although the amount of new federal spending for additional subsidies in fiscal 1975 is small, budget officials said this was the first example of the type of moves Nixon will make to stimulate the economy if needed.

As much as $5 billion more in federal funds could be infused into the economy if needed to prevent a recession, Malek said.

Nixon's new spending program is greatly affected by inflation, some of it in higher fuel costs to the government.

Wage and price increases were the principal factor in a proposed $6.3-billion boost in the defense budget; increased health costs helped push up the spending for health by $3 billion; federal tax revenues increased largely because of inflation.

Of the $29.8 billion in increased spending, 90 per cent of it is in uncontrollables, largely higher Social Security and public assistance payments.

Nixon's defense budget tops the previous all-time record of $79.9 billion in 1945, when the dollar was worth a lot more.

"These increases are required to improve the readiness of our armed forces, to build up levels of essential equipment and supplies, and to meet today's higher costs of maintaining force levels," the President said.

The budget proposes $480 million in new money for military fuel costs.

Although no new ground was broken in the defense budget proposal, the administration urged development of established weapons systems such as the Trident nuclear submarine and the Air Force B1 strategic bomber.

Nixon said extra funds also are needed to improve combat readiness, modernize forces, and build up munitions "in accordance with lessons learned in the Middle East war."

But, he said, the costs of defense manpower are higher with his all-volunteer force than with the draft. No longer does the government "tax" the young by commanding their services, Nixon said.

Nixon said his $1.5-billion spending proposal for energy research is part of a five-year, $10-billion program aimed at making the nation self-sufficient in energy. Most will go for developing a nuclear breed-research (Continued on page 6)

Oil Embargo Terms Firm

By FAROUK NASSAR
Associated Press Writer
BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Saudi Arabia and Kuwait have given President Hafez Assad of Syria "firm pledges" to continue the oil embargo against the United States, Beirut newspapers reported today.

The reports said King Faisal of Saudi Arabia and Kuwait's ruler, Sheikh Sabah al Salem al Sabah, assured Assad that the embargo will be maintained until an agreement to disengage Syrian and Israeli forces on the Golan Heights is worked out on Syrian terms.

Both the pro-Egyptian paper Al Anwar and the independent Al Bayrak carried the reports.

Assad met for five hours Saturday with Faisal, the leader of the Arab oil embargo, in Riyadh, the Saudi capital. He flew to Kuwait Sunday and was expected back in Damascus, the Syrian capital, today.

Syria's foreign minister, Abdel Halim Khaddam, laid down terms Sunday for a disengagement agreement that Israel is certain to reject.

Al Bayrak said Sheikh Sabah of Kuwait pledged to Assad that the "oil war against the United States will continue until Syrian terms for disengagement are met."

Khaddam told newsmen in Kuwait today he had "no official word" that Kissinger plans another visit to Syria soon.

The Los Angeles Times, quoting well-placed diplomatic sources in Beirut, reported today that Syria had asked Kissinger to return to help hammer out a disengagement agreement. The report said he accepted and would be in Damascus by the end of the week.

"We have no official word about such plans," Khaddam said.

Miners Approve Strike

LONDON (AP) — Britain's coal miners voted 4 to 1 in favor of a national strike that will close the mines and could bring British industry to a halt, the Electoral Reform Society announced today.

The society, which conducted the ballot last Thursday and Friday, said 80 per cent of the 279,452 members of the National Union of Mineworkers voted, and 81 per cent of those who voted favored a strike.

The vote was 188,393 for a walkout and 44,222 against, the society said.

The result was announced only a few hours before Prime Minister Edward Heath was to meet with union leaders in a new attempt to stave off the strike.

The 27-man executive of the miners' union is to meet Tuesday to decide whether to go ahead with the strike, which is tentatively scheduled to start at midnight Saturday. The decision will hinge on the outcome of Heath's meeting today with leaders of the 10 million member Trades Union Congress, the high command of organized British labor.

Will Sign Contracts For New Hospital Tomorrow

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer
Contracts for construction of a new multi-million hospital for Pitt County are scheduled to be signed in Raleigh tomorrow, Pitt County Commissioners were told this morning.

Bids for construction of the project were received in November, and low bidders were notified in December, following several weeks of negotiations, that contracts would be awarded the low bidders.

Pitt Memorial Hospital administrator Jack Richardson told commissioners this morning that work on the new facility should start about mid-February. He noted that official ground-breaking ceremonies will be held February 14 or 15.

The contract-signing is scheduled for 10:30 a.m. at the offices of the North Carolina Local Government Commission.

In other business this morning, commissioners awarded contracts for eight new cars for the Pitt County Sheriff's Department to Smith-Waldrop Motors and approved the purchase of a van-type truck for the City-County Bureau of Identification from Hastings Ford.

Smith-Waldrop Motors of Greenville was low bidder for the cars, especially equipped for police work at $29,400 while Hastings' Ford submitted the low bid of $3,191 for the truck.

Glen Cox, superintendent of schools for the City of Greenville and Pitt school superintendent Ott Alford met briefly with commissioners and reported that both the city and county boards of education have approved resolutions calling for a study of the possible unification of the two school districts.

Child Killed By Lightning Bolt

LENOIR, N.C. (AP)—A seven-year-old Hudson youth was pronounced dead on arrival at Caldwell Memorial Hospital in Lenoir after being struck by lightning Sunday.

A spokesman for the Caldwell county sheriff's department said the victim was Edward Kent, who reportedly had gone out to play after a rainstorm.

'Serpico' Given A Bad Review

NEW YORK (AP) — Police Commissioner Michael J. Codd says the popular movie "Serpico" gives policemen everywhere a bad mark.

"It tends to imply that the subject was the only honest man in the department," Codd told reporters Sunday.

The film is a fictionalized biography of policeman Frank Serpico, who gained fame exposing corruption in the city's police department.

Architects Hired For Two Additions To PTI

The Pitt Technical Institute Board of Trustees voted Friday night to employ Dudley and Shoe as architects for two additions to the present Administration Building.

The two additions, estimated to cost $381,678, will house the Nursing Education and Data Processing programs in one of the additions and the other to be used for Student Services. The action by the trustees included the approval to go ahead with the letting of bids upon completion of the architect's plans.

Board of Trustee Chairman, Senator Vernon White, announced that the County Board of Commissioners had appropriated $95,000 to Pitt Tech to match state funds available to the Institute for capital improvements. Farmers throughout the country may have to make a change in their production habits this year because of a possible shortage of fertilizer in the U. S.

Although fertilizer industry officials have indicated they feel adequate supplies of the product will be available for domestic users, a cut back in exported fertilizer is order to discuss the situation and how it relates to North Carolina farmers.

As spring nears and farmers in this area turn to preparing the soil for planting their 1974 corn and tobacco crops, fertilizer will be in great demand. Seventy per cent of the fertilizer produced is used in the March to April planting season.

Local dealers state their problem is they cannot get enough of the product; and when they can get a shipment, getting the transportation for the fertilizer often turns into a stumbling block.

Fertilizer Industry Could See Shortages Due Energy Crisis

Walter Stroud, manager of the Smith-Douglas plant in Kinston indicates his problem is in obtaining transportation for his raw materials to the plant. This, along with the lack of the proper manufacturing equipment by some fertilizer companies, has caused a shortage.

More fertilizer has been called for by farmers across the nation because of an increase in production allotments by the government.

Fertilizer has nitrogen, phosphorus and potassium as the most important ingredients.

Nitrogen is produced by the fractional distillation of liquified air, a heat process with the heat mainly coming from natural gas. Natural gas is a fuel in short supply.

Stroud indicates this is the first year he has had problems in obtaining natural gas.

A second ingredient, phosphorus, must be transported to the manufacturing companies, often by rail car and sometimes by truck.

The cars required to get the phosphorus to the plants are in short supply.

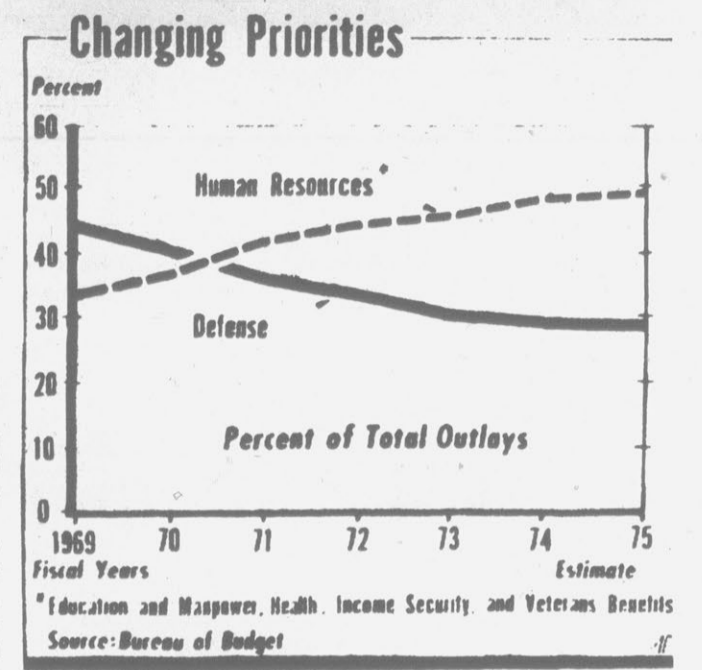

The Kinston plant manager feels the railroad companies have failed to invest in new equipment to keep up with the demand for the transportation of the raw materials and where the cars are available, they are sometimes used to transport grain.

"A year ago the supply and demand picture reversed," states Stroud. With the beginning of an increase in production last year, fertilizer was in increased demand. Some shortage was felt last year although not widely publicized.

On top of last year's 10 per cent increase in the tobacco allotment, a further 10 per cent increase has been added this year which will further increase the demand for (Continued on page 2)

Filing Fee Is Paid By Henry Hall Wilson

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Democrat Henry Hall Wilson of Monroe paid his $425 filing fee today, officially entering therace for the U.S. Senate seat being vacated by Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C.

Wilson, who announced his candidacy eight months ago, will face Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan and two other candidates in the Democratic primary on May 7.

He gave his check to Director of Elections Alex Brock in virtual privacy. A press release about the payment had been mailed, he said, but apparently too late to advise broadcasters and the press of his intentions.

News coverage is one thing Wilson will need if he is to defeat Morgan, he said afterward. After eight months, "name identification is my principle problem."

Wilson said his Washington, D.C. polling firm has advised him that eight months of touring the state, speaking to civic clubs and attending party gatherings has got his identification factor "coming up."

But he would not say what percentage of the voters in the state now recognize him. He did concede that he had started "pretty low."

In the months before the primary, Wilson said, he expects that the campaign will generate increased exposure for him.

He said he expects to spend "several hundred thousand dollars" before the primary, including money for radio, television and newspaper advertising.

Wilson's first campaign expense report showed he had spent more than $60,000. Most of the money came from him, his family, and old business associates.

Wilson entered the race after resigning as president of the Chicago Board of Trade, a post he held for five years.

Prior to that, he had served six years as a North Carolina legislator from Union County and six years as a White House aide under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson.

Wilson said he felt his background made him a better Senate candidate than Morgan.

An Associate Degree Nursing (RN) program for Pitt Tech has been approved by the State Board of Education, according to Dr. Ed Bright, PTI Dean of Instruction. He told the board that the Institute was now awaiting favorable action by the State Board of Nursing which meets Feb. 6. Representatives from the State Board of Nursing have completed their visits to PTI and all questions have been satisfied. Dean Bright reported that the addition of the new two year program will not do away with the present Practical Nurse program; that the Institute will have both PN and RN capabilities.

In other actions, the Trustees voted to request of the County Commissioners a five per cent increase in salaries for custodial personnel at Pitt Tech. The action was requested to keep the PTI custodial salaries in line (Continued on page 6)

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — An election-year pay raise boosting salaries of every member of Congress and top federal officials by $10,300 each over the next three years is contained in President Nixon's new budget. The increase — the first since 1969 — takes effect automatically within 30 days unless one house of Congress votes against it.

Some Republican members predict the House will bury the issue in committee, thus avoiding a floor vote in a year when all incumbents are up for re-election. The Senate last year voted on record against boosting the current salary of $42,500. The proposal would raise congressional salaries 7.5 per cent a year, or a total of 22.5 per cent in three years to $52,900 by March 1976.

Cabinet officers and associate Supreme Court justices, who now earn $60,000 a year, would receive a one-time $4,500 increase in March 1975. Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, who gets $62,500, would receive a $4,700 increase in March. Upper level officials, such as deputy secretaries and agency heads, would get 7.5 per cent increases next month and the same in 1975 and 1976.

New officers have been elected to serve the realigned Greenville Precinct Nine and newly created Precinct Ten, according to Pitt Democratic chairman Henry Oglesby.

Officers elected for Precinct Nine included: Tom Jónson, 1725 Beaumont Drive, chairman; Evelyn Boyette, 1703 Beaumont Drive, first vice chairman; Bob Ramey, 1802 Rosewood Drive, second vice chairman; Nancy Troutman, 1723 Circle Drive, third vice chairman; and Louis Singleton, 1715 Circle Drive, secretary-treasurer.

Oglesby said that members of the precinct committee include: Mrs. Arthur Andrews, 1607 S. Elm Street; Joe Boyette, 1703 Beaumont Drive; Patricia Dunn, 1123 S. Overlook Drive; Joyce Spilman, 1723 Forest Hills Drive; and Ken Hite, 1720, Circle Drive.

Serving in the new tenth precinct will be: Alvin A. Fahrner, 1905 Sheraton Drive, chairman; Lola Steelman, 1703 Knollwood Dr., first vice chairman; Robert L. Hause, 2208 Charles Street, second vice chairman; Mildred Indorf, 2111 Southview Drive, third vice chairman; and Stephanie Carstarphen, 2115 Southview Drive, secretary-treasurer.

Precinct committee members elected were: Henry C. Ferrell, 2010 Fern Drive; W. J. (Ted) Gartman Jr., 2106 Charles Street; Takeru Ito, 2008 Pinecrest Drive; John A. Lang Jr.; 114 King George Road; and Mary Alice Yarbrough, 1211 Red Banks Road.

Oglesby said that the election of new officers was necessary since Precinct Nine was recently divided to create a new tenth voting district. Several of the former officers of Precinct Nine are now living in the new precinct as a result of the realignment, he said.

Public Is Rare Budget-Reader

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — How sad that about the only people who read the Budget of the United States Government are those who ask, receive and spend the billions of dollars.

For the 210 million Americans who have never leafed through its volumes or even seen one, the budget could cure insomnia, boggle minds, excite math-and trivia-freaks and replace telephone books for raising small children to high tables.

The budget is serious business. It's the President's way of telling Congress how much money he wants spent in the next fiscal year, how much was spent in the preceding year.

It takes some explaining. There is the Budget Message, 21 pages long. Then there is the Budget itself, billed as "an overview" of the proposals. It has 346 pages, costs $2.45.

For unsated appetites, there is the Appendix. It has detailed information about the Budget and gives it in only 1,071 pages — about the size of the Sears Roebuck catalogue. The Appendix costs $15.05. The catalogue is free.

All that, of course, requires the next volume titled "Special Analyses."

At 249 pages this gives information about government finances and operations as a whole with some nice discussion of trends and developments. Only $1.85.

And for those who'd rather read book reviews than books there is a trim, 60-page volume titled "The United States Budget in Brief," which tells you what the others did. And it has nice four-color charts; 95 cents.

The set can be had from the Government Printing Office.

One of the things you learn from having bought the set before is that the $20.30 total represents a 44 per cent increase over last year's $14.10. Percentage-wise it's hard to find a bigger jump in cost in any other category.

But, aha, the reason can be found in the Government Printing Office section. It tells you the GPO is trying to break even on the books it sells.

If it interests you, hurry and order from the GPO. Only about 60,000 copies are printed each year. The biggest customer is Congress, which doesn't have to pay for it. Guess who does?

Touch Of Winter's Chill Is Returning

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A touch of winter returns to North Carolina today through Tuesday. Freezing temperatures are on tap for tonight. Temperatures were in the 60s and 70s Sunday in the southern and central counties. Cold air cooled the northern portion of the state Sunday afternoon. Sections of the northern coastal plain and northern coast reported mid and upper 40s while the northern piedmont dropped into the mid and upper 50s.

A few severe thunderstorms were activated over the sandhills and southern coastal area Sunday. A funnel cloud was sighted near the airport and in other sections of New Hanover County near Wilmington and minor damage was reported. A storm believed to be a tornado did no damage in Duplin County yesterday.

Rainfall yesterday was again fairly widespread with amounts varying under one inch. New Bern received nearly an inch in a heavy downpour. Precipitation had ended over the interior portion of the state by midnight last night, but some lingering thundershowers continued over the coastal areas for a few hours after midnight.

Partial sky clearing began early this morning from west to east. Some sunshine will filter into the state today. Brisk north to northeast winds will make it one of the coolest days in some time today. By tonight with winds diminishing, temperatures should drop mostly in the 20s.

Fertilizer . . .

fertilizer. Two dealers in Greenville contacted stated they were facing a change in supply. One dealer stated he felt he would definitely not have the supply he had last year, while another felt his sales would be equal if not more than last years.

W. G. "Bill" Moore, territory representative of the Swift Chemical Co. here in Greenville stated he was facing a supply of 90 per cent of the nitrogen he received last year. A spokesman for the Royster Co. here stated his supply of nitrogen has been cut 20 per cent.

Nitrogen is important in both the growth of tobacco and corn, although more is required in corn production. Pitt County last year produced 70,000 acres of corn and 20,114 acres of tobacco. The two crops together brought over $50 million on the market according to the N. C. Agricultural Extension Service.

Moore feels farmers here may not be able to obtain the type of fertilizer he wants, but will be able to use other mixtures in order to meet his needs. Along with the shortage in supply of some types, the price of all fertilizers has risen. Prices now are approximately 35-40 per cent above those of 1973.

Dep. Comm. Reitzel stated last week after his meeting with the fertilizer industry officials that "the industry recognizes the importance of fertilizer to the North Carolina farmer especially in tobacco. They are going to make an all-out effort to meet the demand."

Reitzel urges farmers to "get in touch with his dealer and find out how much fertilizer he is going to get" now.

Plant manager Stroud feels farmers in the past have taken advantage of the use of nitrogen and feels its use could be cut by 20-25 per cent. Reitzel feels farmers should have a soil analysis done now more than ever in order to determine their specific needs.

Swift representative Moore urges farmers to contact their dealers and find out how much fertilizer they can purchase before making planting plans. Crops requiring extensive use of nitrogen should be planned carefully Moore indicated.

In its pamphlet "Tobacco Information for 1974" the North Carolina Agricultural Extension Service is urging farmers to not over use fertilizers.

The publication indicates tobacco requires 55-75 pounds of nitrogen, 60-70 pounds of phosphorus and 100-120 pounds of potassium per acre for its growth.

"Ninety five per cent of the soils used for tobacco production in North Carolina have a medium or high phosphorus content," states the publication. It suggests using 60-70 pounds of phosphorus per acre on soils containing at least a medium level of phosphorus.

A soil analysis would benefit the farmer by pointing out the exact level of his land in phosphorus and nitrogen content.

As Dep. Comm. Reitzel indicated, farmers will have to maintain good management in order to get through the present situation.

Remember when that was the beginning of a classic math exercise? Today, in order to combat the energy crisis, 55 mph is a reality on most of our highways. # Couple Exchanges Vows Rejoice About 'Fragile' Friends On Sunday Afternoon

Parkers Chapel Free Will Baptist Church was the setting for the Sunday afternoon wedding of Miss Diane Gayle Tetterton and Donald Ray Mozingo at 3:30 p.m.

The Rev. Phillip Cooper conducted the double ring ceremony. Miss Deborah Speight, organist, and Miss Elaine Vernelson, soloist, presented a program of wedding music. Miss Vernelson sang "One Hand, One Heart," "More" and "Wedding Prayer."

The chancel of the church was centered with a fifteen branch candelabra and jade greenery. On each side, fifteen branch candelabra filled with white and pink flowers were used. The bride and groom knelt for the benediction on a white prie-dieu. Family pews were marked with white satin bows.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jarvis Carl Tetterton of Greenville, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a traditional white floor length empire gown of taffeta overlaid with silk organza. The gown featured a Victorian neckline and French sleeves. Ruffles and re-embroidered chantilly lace accented the bodice, cuffs and hemline.

She wore a lace and pearl Juliet headpiece attached to a fingertip silk illusion veil, which was designed by the bride. She carried a bridal cascade of white roses and pink baby's breath with pink and white streamers.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Fred Mozingo of Bethel.

The honor attendant was Mrs. Clifton Moss of Winterville, sister of the bride. She was attired in a floor length gown of aqua angel cloth styled with a princess line skirt which fell from a fitted bodice. The bodice featured a square neckline enhanced with re-embroidered chantilly lace. Her headpiece was a bow made of aqua velvet ribbon and she carried a nosegay of miniature white and pink carnations and baby's breath.

Bridesmaids were Miss Kathy Brinson of Greensboro, cousin of the bride, and Mrs. David Rogers of Greenville, and Miss Sally Jo Mozingo of Bethel, both sisters of the bridegroom. Their gowns and flowers were identical to that of the matron of honor.

Miss Rhonda Elizabeth Short of Greer, S.C., was flower girl. She wore a floor length dress of aqua angel cloth covered with a silk organza ruffled pinafore. Her headpiece and nosegay were identical to those of the bridesmaids.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Tetterton selected a sleeveless mint green A-line knit dress with a long-sleeved matching green knit coat accented with Venise lace. Mrs. Mozingo, mother of the bridegroom, chose a beige knit A-line dress with a matching waist length jacket and matching accessories.

Mrs. B. W. Brinson, grandmother of the bride, was honored with a pink carnation corsage. Mrs. John David Cannon of Greenville directed the wedding. Fred Mozingo Jr. of Bethel was best man and ushers were Dave Rodgers III of Greenville, Clifton Moss of Winterville and Riccy Hux of Scotland Neck.

The ring bearer was Lee Rogers of Greenville. For a wedding trip to unannounced points, the bride changed into a black knit ensemble and matching accessories. She wore her mother's orchid corsage. The couple will reside in Greenville.

The bride is a graduate of Rose High School and is attending Pitt Technical Institute. The bridegroom is a graduate of North Pitt High School and is employed at Carraway Typewriter Co.

Immediately following the ceremony, the parents of the bride entertained at a reception at their home. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Cleveland Gilbert of Cary, aunt and uncle of the bride. The reception table was covered with a white linen cloth edged with embroidered lace and centered with an arrangement of pink and white carnations and baby's breath.

After the bridal couple cut the three tiered wedding cake, guests were served by Mrs. Janice Short of Greer, S.C., aunt of the bride. Mrs. Evelyn Davenport of Stokes poured punch.

Miss Janet Jones presided at the register. Mrs. Fred Mozingo, Mrs. E. Powell Satterthwaite, Mrs. J. C. Carlisle, Mrs. William H. Grey and Mrs. R. C. Hux entertained the wedding party at an after-rehearsal party in the fellowship hall of the church Saturday night.

The bride's table was covered with an embossed white linen cloth and centered with a candelabra entwined with pink and white flowers and greenery.

DEAR ABBY: I took your advice, and it backfired. I asked you what to do about a couple my husband and I liked very much, but who always brought their kids over. [Their kids are very wild and don't listen to a thing their parents say, so consequently when they're here with their kids we never enjoy their company.]

You told me the next time we invited them over to say, "We'd like to see you, but please leave the children home this time."

Well, I did, and now we are minus two friends. The wife got highly insulted and told me not to call her again, and it also ruined the friendship between our husbands.

Now what should we do? N. J. COUPLE

DEAR COUPLE: Rejoice! If your friendship was that fragile, it wasn't much of a friendship to begin with.

DEAR ABBY: I have been reading a lot lately about women who have had silicone implants to enlarge the size of their breasts, and I want to know more about it.

Is this something only tramps have done? Because if it is, I want no part of it. I just want to look nice in swimsuits and lowcut dresses.

I have been married for 11 years and have two children and my husband says I can do as I please. Also, is this type of surgery covered by insurance? CONSIDERING IT

DEAR CONSIDERING: Implants are for any woman who wants them—the colonel's lady and Molly O'Grady alike. And unless you can convince the insurance people that silicone implants are essential for your mental or physical health, the only thing that will cover it is a brassiere!

DEAR ABBY: Please! You've got to help me. I am desperate and don't know where else to turn.

I am a 22-year-old school teacher, unmarried and pregnant. The father is a married man I've known for some time. It was no big love affair. We were both at a local night spot one night and I had too much to drink, and the pregnancy is the result. I haven't seen a doctor but I know I'm pregnant. I hope and pray I'm not too far gone for an abortion. I just can't pay for this one mistake the rest of my life.

This is a small town and I would lose my job, and I really do need to work. It would also wreck my marriage.

I feel so guilty and ashamed. I want an abortion, but don't even know if it's legal in this state. How do I find out? If it's not legal here, where can I get one legally? I'll go anywhere. I could never go thru with this pregnancy. I'll take my life first.

Don't tell me to talk to my minister. I couldn't. I can't go to my family either. They'd disown me, and I wouldn't blame them. Rush your answer to me. I'll be eternally grateful. DESPERATE

DEAR DESPERATE: The Planned Parenthood chapter nearest you is in St. Paul, Minn. CALL THEM! They will help you. If you are too far along for an abortion, get in touch with Birthright. They do excellent counseling, and also arrange for adoptions.

Small Society Is Learning Aid

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Children, like adults, should be paid for their labor, believes George Richmond, an educator who motivated an uncooperative, bored fifth grade class to learn by doing just that.

"Grades, praise and status are currencies of the present school system, and I'm not suggesting that we do away with these intangible payoffs," says Richmond, originator of the Society School program, which he hopes will gain widespread popularity.

Payoff for the kids in his Brooklyn classroom came in micro-money or "soul" dollars bearing pictures of John F. Kennedy, Abraham Lincoln, Martin Luther King Jr., Robert F. Kennedy and Malcolm X. Though not real money, it provided an incentive since it bought real goods at periodic class auctions.

Originally Richmond mimographed the currency and his wife backed it by baking brownies and cakes to be auctioned to the highest bidder. But later, grants from foundations enabled him to add records, clothing, recreational equipment, games and books to the auctioneer's stock.

The children earned their pay, in denominations from $1 to $500, by doing classwork and assignments, improving test scores, dealing in property and holding jobs in the Micro-Economy game the teacher invented to interest the reluctant and hostile 10- and 11-year-olds.

"It was my first teaching job and I had more than 30 children, all of them reading below grade level, a good number with serious emotional problems," recalls Richmond, at 29 now principal of the Cohasset, Mass., Junior High School. "I found myself locked in a battle with them. When I tried to teach them they struggled against the imposition of learning."

"There was no way out of this game except to change the rules and make a new game. It was my job to demonstrate that there was a connection between school and the outside world so they could see that learning was necessary for their survival."

The real estate game he devised has an underlying similarity to Monopoly but is designed to be played by 20 to 40 children one day a week for a school year, explains Richmond, who has just written a book about it, "The Micro-Society School: A Real World in Miniature."

His experimental project has evolved into a whole simulated society, with a government, court system, banks, post office, newspapers, real estate holdings and businesses. Dealing with checking accounts, credit cards and other business matters provides painless practice in adding and subtracting.

"It worked," Richmond says of his original project. "We got away from fighting among ourselves; the kids became involved in activities the game generated and there was less need for discipline and more need for discipline and more."

After using the plan in other schools Richmond, who grew up on New York's Lower East Side, supervised a "micro-society" program at an elementary school in that area, with 14 teachers participating. He commuted to New York twice a week while completing his doctorate at the Harvard Graduate School of Education.

"I think this is sound education, because children are learning to think, which is the real business of education," he says. "The 3 Rs are important, but it is equally important that the children learn to think about the world they are in and the world they will enter. If a child has a chance to create a society he'll understand his capacity to contribute to it, understand what he has to contribute and be able to contribute to a larger society."

Richmond, who believes that city teachers are more open to change than suburban teachers because "they're desperate," insists that a program where children have an opportunity to earn "income" in school is especially important in the ghettos.

"If you have a population drawn from the welfare class, kids have a legacy not only of poverty, but of being dependent on the state," he points out. "If you create income sources as a result of labor you are giving them a chance to create an identity separate from their parents. It's tied to their achievement rather than an inherited status, and I think that will have an effect in the long run."

"Traditional schooling doesn't give great proof that it's working and the present system is obsolete for modern economy," adds Richmond, father of a 2-year-old daughter. "I'd like to see children receive the greatest payoff of understanding the pleasure meaningful work gives, but presently we're teaching children a good deal about drudgery."

Every Citizen Can Contribute

Charles Dunn, director of the State Bureau of Investigation, has made it plain that the average citizen can do something about crime.

In a talk to the Men of the Church at First Presbyterian Church Dunn, said, "If you are really concerned about crime and its prevention, then you need to be concerned with the young people before and after they get into trouble. The best way to fight crime is to prevent it. And the best way to prevent it is to provide meaningful opportunities for youth involvement within the home, the church, the school and the community."

"If you don't get involved," he said, "you will have no one but yourself to blame for the crime in our society."

Dunn cited advancements in police work, including the Police Information Network and minimum training and minimum salary for law enforcement officers, but, he said we are only catching up. The director's statements should make us all pause to think. Most of us don't consider ourselves responsible for the many crimes which occur every day, and as individuals we are not. On the other hand most of us can do something to forestall the development of a future criminal by lending our support to youth organizations which provide wholesome activities for our young peoples. Parents can be certain they know where their under-aged children are at all times and what they are up to.

We can be certain that every young person has the opportunity to obtain training for an occupation, so that each will have somewhere to look for gainful employment following completion of schooling.

If we steer our young people in the right directions, we will be insuring a drop in the crime rates of the future and we will be making life much easier for all concerned.

Land Use Plan Hit Obstacles

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH — Last-minute opposition to coastal land use proposals has forced supporters into another public hearing.

Originally scheduled for floor debate and a vote in the House of Representatives last Thursday, the measure was withdrawn from the calendar after pressure mounted from two sources: banks and utilities companies.

Under that pressure, support began to waver in both the Senate and the House. The new public hearing will be held Thursday in Raleigh.

Sen. Hamilton C. Horton Jr., R-Forsyth, an active supporter of the land management package, put it this way: "The conservationists don't realize what is going on. People thought they had a bill... they may not."

"The tactic now being put forth by the opposition is delay, delay, delay—and possibly kill the bill."

Rebuild Urgency
"Time is short in this session, and delay is critical. We've got to rebuild a sense of urgency," Horton said.

At stake is the entire package of land use legislation. The coastal bill was sent forth first as a trial run, and its passage would have paved the way for smooth adoption of the companion mountain land use bill, and the broader statewide land management proposal which meshes with those two.

A series of public hearings were held during the summer—five in coastal areas and four in the mountains. Early opposition from landowners and local governmental officials mollified as they began to understand that some measures to protect and preserve the land is essential to the state's future.

Changes were also made in the bills to provide more involvement by local governments in determining areas of environmental concern in which development would be controlled, drawing the local land use plans, issuing permits, and supervising the regulatory parts of the proposed new law.

Those very changes are now being cited by some who want to delay the measures as one of the reasons for delay: that the bills have been changes so much they are not what they originally were.

The real reason for the public hearings and the pressure which produced them are concerns by major banks who put the financing behind developmental projects that the bills will either halt or slow down the booming growth—hurting business.

A major sponsor of the legislation put it this way: "The snipers have now taken aim. Behind the scenes, efforts are underway to either emasculate or kill the bills. The banks and utilities have turned up the heat. They fear something in the bill will be detrimental to their operations."

Lobbies Pressure
Lobbyists for both the banks and utilities were scurrying about the State House last week trying to swing support their way. Apparently, some supporters of the legislation worried, they were succeeding.

The basic purpose of the legislation is to control the kind of location of development to protect and preserve beach, dune, marshland and other so-called areas of environmental concern.

Bank lobbyists first put out the word among legislators that their concern has to do with absence of a time element in which a permit must be issued so they could commit funds, sources said.

When shown that such a time limit does appear in the bill, one legislator explained, the bankers switched to a pitch that a Republican governor would be naming members of local boards with permit granting authority, putting developmental proposals into a political arena.

Sen. William W. Staton, D-Lee, chairman of the Senate Natural and Economic Resources Committee, said public pressure prompted the call for another public hearing. He said he received a batch of telegrams calling for the hearing, but a spot check of several names among the 25 on the telegrams turned up two who said they did not send the wires, but had mentioned publicly their opposition to the coastal bill.

With the heat turned up by opponents, supporters yielded at the last minute and decided that delay to allow both support and opposition to slug it out at another public hearing would at least clear the air and get the argument out into the open, instead of having it behind the scenes in the State House.

Nixon, Laird Incompatible

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — The astonishing disagreement between Richard M. Nixon and Melvin R. Laird over amnesty for Vietnam draft dodgers underscores as nothing else the President's dangerous isolation from the shrewd politician who has just ended eight frustrating months as domestic counselor.

Not only disagreement on an issue but antithetical political philosophies and noncommunication between two old allies are glaringly revealed by their conflicting response to a Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) protest over Laird's avowed interest in "conditional amnesty."

Without consulting or informing Laird, President Nixon told the VFW his opposition to amnesty remains totally inflexible. Without consulting or informing the President, Laird told the VFW that changing conditions have modified his own earlier opposition to amnesty.

Nothing could better demonstrate the basic incompatibility of the two men. In telling the VFW that "throughout my career of public service, I have learned to avoid absolute, dogmatic positions," Laird was implicitly contrasting Mr. Nixon's rigidity. But beyond the contrast, the VFW correspondence revealed the degree to which the President has simply stopped talking to his domestic counselor.

With U. S. forces no longer fighting in Vietnam, Laird has long felt something must be done about 30,000 to 40,000 young men who fled this country to escape the draft. He said nothing to the President, but in a Jan. 5, interview with a Scripps-Howard reporter suggested amnesty for the exiles in return for "some sort of service" to their country.

Reading that interview, the VFW hierarchy was outraged. On Jan. 7, national commander Ray R. Soden sent Mr. Nixon a smoldering letter which reiterated the VFW's "total and unremitting opposition to any form of amnesty." He expressed "shock and a deep sense of betrayal" by Laird's new position, adding that he considers Laird's "actions and apparent sentiments" about amnesty "to be unconscionable" and "a break of faith both with you and with the strong men and women who served, suffered, and in 57,000 cases, died." Soden's request: "a personal reaffirmation from you on this matter."

Rapid correspondence not being a strong suit of the Nixon White House, no reply was sent the VFW until Jan. 23. During those 16 days, Mr. Nixon did not seek out Laird, target of VFW rage. Nor did he consult counselor Bryce Harlow or the Domestic Council's staff.

Instead, staffers who routinely handle correspondence checked the President to make certain he still opposed amnesty in any form.

He did. His Jan. 23 letter to Soden, not released to the press, reaffirmed his stand. "The few who refused to serve or deserted their country," he wrote, "must pay a penalty for their choice... we cannot provide forgiveness for them... the price is a criminal penalty." That, the President added, "still reflects my view." He shrugged off "recent reports in the press which have been attributed to others," without a gesture at defending Laird.

Laird did a quiet burn after receiving a carbon copy of the VFW's letter to Mr. Nixon. An old Navy man who wore a Purple Heart and rose from the ranks to become an officer during World War II, VFW member Laird used Navy language to grumble that the VFW had "put a comrade on report."

On Monday, Jan. 28, beginning his last week at the White House, Laird sent his own letter to Soden. "Neither the political system nor the judicial system of the United States works on 'blanket' and arbitrary approaches," he wrote. "... We pride ourselves on administering justice with mercy and understanding." While opposing general amnesty, he proposed a case-by-case approach.

During Laird's White House tenure, he never discussed this with the President. Neither has anybody else, high White House officials told us. Mr. Nixon is not only isolated from the outer world but sealed off from his own staff's (Continued on page 5)

Strength For Today

SALT OF THE EARTH
"Ye are the salt of the earth," Jesus said to his disciples.

Salt has two major functions. It was—and is—used as a preservative to keep things from spoiling. That, Jesus said in effect, is one of the functions of the Christian believer—to keep life wholesome. When Christians act as they should, they preserve and maintain the best values of the communities in which they live. Somebody or some group always sets moral and ethical standards. This should be the task of Christians if they are really salt of the earth.

The other service salt performs is to bring out latent flavors. This, Jesus was also saying, is another gift that Christians bring to the people around them. Christians can really make life taste different for others. They have a peace and happiness about them which takes the flatness out of life and makes it luscious to the taste.

The Car Pooling Risks

WASHINGTON — The problem with car pooling is when you have four people sharing a vehicle tensions arise that can cause great emotional damage to all those concerned. To deal with the situation, many cities are setting up car-pool clinics where car poolers can get counseling and help. I attended one in Fairfax, Va., the other evening. The car-pool counselor, a Mr. Sims, was seated in a comfortable chair smoking a pipe. Four men in business suits sat nervously in a semicircle around him. They refused to look at each other. Mr. Sims said, "The important thing in this session, gentlemen, is to let it all hang out. What seems to be the problem?"

One of the men spoke up. "Arthur's the problem." "Could you be more specific?" Sims asked. "As soon as he gets in the car he starts singing 'Oh, What a Beautiful Morning.' Even when it's raining, I can't stand a cheerful person at that hour."

Other Editors Say Slower Spending

(Rocky Mount Telegram)
Dr. Paul W. McCracken, former chairman of the Council of Economic Advisers, offers some interesting observations on the health of the United States economy.

"What the tax system and the nation both need most now," he said recently, "is a slower rise in public spending."

And McCracken offered "some not-so-obvious causes" for his "self-evident conclusion."

For example, he said that on the surface, government spending has remained just under a third of the Gross National Product during the 70s.

But the ratio has remained stable only because defense spending has been claiming about a percentage point more of the GNP annually for nearly a decade. Dr. McCracken pointed out that public spending programs tend to be legislated with large and automatic spending increases for the future.

He cited a recent study showing budget claims already in place will lead to outlays in the fiscal year of 1975 in excess of revenues the tax system would produce even with full employment.

Obviously, that means that more taxes will be necessary at that time in order to meet spending requirements.

"If defense spending now begins to rise, and events in the Middle East point in that direction, we may begin to see the proportion of the rise in national income channeled through the public sector approaching 50 percent," he predicted.

This diversion of national income may go "somewhat beyond what people would prefer. If so, the public preference is 'no match in the political arena for the focused, often militantly focused, pressure of interest groups.'"

According to McCracken, these "imbalances of pressures" have become more troublesome with the release of budgets from the "crude but reasonably effective cost-benefit calculus of having to levy taxes adequate to cover outlays."

He traced the decline of fiscal discipline to 1865 when Congress began having separate committees to consider revenues and expenditures.

So we can see that the problem of free spenders in government is not really a new one; it has only grown more acute in recent decades with the philosophy of social spending.

The most important fiscal improvement needed now is reform of congressional budgetary procedures to restore overall fiscal discipline and responsibility.

Once Is Bad Enough

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — When it comes to an afterlife, people fall into three classes: those who are sure they're going to have one, those who hope they will — and those who don't particularly want one.

Put me in the third group. I am not angry with life. I love and admire it, because I have enjoyed my own greatly, while taking the scars as they come. But the idea of going through life again appalls rather than appeals to me.

HAL BOYLE

Living a life is kind of like fighting a grizzly bear. Having gone the route once, more or less successfully, why would a guy want to do it again? What could he possibly prove?

It might be different if a second life came with a written guarantee that it would be mystically grander and magically better than your first life — and any workable parts that wore out in the first 100 years would be replaced free. But heaven has not been known to hand out such bargains.

There are many specific reasons why a second life is hardly worth sighing for. First of all one would be bored with deja vu — the I've-been-through-all-this-before feeling. Its newness and surprises are what give a first life most of its flavor. A second life would be too much like licking the glue off the back of a handful of envelopes for Christmas cards. The taste is predictable.

Another argument against a second life is that it would force a man to go through certain patterns of occurrence he hardly survived the first time and might not be able or willing to weather again.

Who, for example, would wish to go again through the physical pangs or mental torment of:

Wearing dental braces. The lonely agony of puppy love — at 6 or 60.

The brooding horrors of adolescence plus acne.

Paying off a home mortgage. Trying to win the respect of teen-agers.

The nuisance of growing old. Filling out government tax and Social Security forms.

As a child, I can remember my father giving me an absent-minded whack on the bottom now and then and saying, "Son, I wouldn't take a million dollars for you — and I wouldn't give a nickel for another just like you."

That's the way I feel about life. You can put up with one good one, bad as it is. But who really needs two?

OK In Global Economy Terms

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — There are few aspects of the domestic economic pattern that can be described as very pleasing to any American, even when placed in the heroic perspective envisioned by President Nixon.

"The United States enters 1974 in a position of leadership in the world economy," the President said in his economic message. "We must take the responsibilities and the opportunities this position of leadership gives us."

But the average American, varied as he is by geography, society and economies, will likely read that phrase in terms of his own economic condition — and wonder.

Unemployment rising. Inflation worsening. Shortages becoming common. Does it add up to leadership?

Perhaps it doesn't, but these domestic problems are not what the President had in mind. Instead, he was speaking of the improvement in the dollar, the stronger U.S. trade position, and "constructive" economic relations around the world." In these respects the President may be justified in claiming leadership. Foreigners once again seek U.S. dollars and they are investing in the United States. Trade relations are developing with the Soviets and to a lesser degree with China.

Even with the price of oil rising, and thus endangering the economies of our trading partners, there is still a chance that the world's nations will be able to construct their ideal of widespread, mutually beneficial trade.

It is in the domestic area that the leadership claim is likely to be challenged. A blue-collar worker in Detroit or a food shopper in Hartford is likely to feel victimized rather than led.

Some Americans, in fact, feel that their food budget was deliberately sacrificed to the Soviets in the big grain deal. And if they ever have to pay $1 for a loaf of bread their suspicions will tend to become certainty.

The ordinary American isn't likely either to accept the President's contention that lessons have been learned from past experience in combating inflation, especially when the first of these lessons is "the importance of patience."

"To correct a powerful trend of the economy which has been going on for some time requires time," the President said, leaving it for the listener or reader to fill in the obvious:

Yes, it has been going on for some time, for the entire span of the Nixon administration, and yes, five years is a long time to be fighting inflation with such futile results.

"Sharply squeezing down the economy in an effort to halt inflation would produce a severe drop in employment and economic activity and create demand for a major reversal of policy," the President explained.

But as his words were being digested there came the news that unemployment in January jumped to 5.2 percent from 4.8 per cent of the civilian labor force. And this while prices were rising fast as in 1973.

The next lesson about inflation may be better understood. This one the President called "The importance of the rest of the world." He explained:

"The events of 1973 brought our external economic relations sharply to our attention. Most simply put: It will be exceedingly hard for us to have a stable economy in an unstable world."

This is a way of saying that nations which trade with each other often become dependent upon each other. Trade might provide nations a vested interest in preserving the peace, but it has its consequences.

What are they? For one, a loss of control over the domestic economy.

Foreign events can impact domestic economic goals. Inflation can be imported, as in the case of oil. And it can be "exported" into the domestic economy, as happened when bread prices rose after the Soviet grain deal.

Some critics might, therefore, challenge the President's claim of leadership in international economics also.

Truckers Strike Is Beginning To Show Its Impact

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
The strike by independent truckers idled an estimated 20,000 workers in affected industries today as it began crippling deliveries of meat and produce in some areas.

New violence was reported. Officials in 15 states reported shootings, rock throwing or tire and hose slashings over the weekend. Two drivers suffered shoulder wounds from bullets which struck their trucks near New Buffalo, Mich., and Louisville, Ky., Sunday night. A Pennsylvania official said there had been 14 shootings at trucks and up to 100 other violent incidents since last Wednesday. One trucker died in violence related to the shutdown last Thursday.

About 3,400 National Guardsmen stood watch today on Ohio and Pennsylvania highways. Federal and state officials recessed a Washington meeting early today without settling the growing shutdown that has touched at least 30 states. Thousands of trucks are not operating, hundreds of truck stop stations-cafes have closed since Thursday.

Federal energy chief William E. Simon, Gov. Milton J. Shapp of Pennsylvania, representatives of five other states and spokesmen for some independent drivers participated in the Washington meetings that were to resume today after two unsuccessful sessions Sunday. Simon said that he opposed, but did not rule out, a rollback in diesel fuel prices. A rollback is a key demand by the strikers. They say diesel fuel has gone from 33 cents to 47 cents a gallon in eight months. Shapp proposed a 45-day moratorium on the truckers' shutdown to avert "pending economic disaster." But spokesmen for the striking independents, and drivers interviewed in several states, said they weren't rolling again until diesel fuel prices are cut back, freight rates are raised and until they are allowed to pass along higher fuel costs. By Sunday night, the shutdown was having some effect in 30 states from Connecticut to Florida, across the South and Midwest and along the southwest border of the country from Texas to California. Governors officially deplored the continuing violence. Atty. Gen. William B. Saxbe said in Mechanicsburg, Ohio, that "this handful of truckers is not going to bring this country to its knees." Pennsylvania activated 2,500 National Guardsmen to relieve 1,400 others who had been watching highways since Friday. Ohio Gov. John J. Gilligan ordered 900 Guardsmen into similar duty.

One immediate concern was food. An estimated 20 meat-packing plants in Iowa, Michigan, Oklahoma, Texas and Pennsylvania were closed or cutting back operations, idling at least 8,000 workers. The head of a grocers' association in Massachusetts said the flow of meat, citrus and produce into his area had slowed to virtually nothing, and he predicted an impact on consumers in a few days. "The truckers' strike will shut down our industry by the middle of this week," said Tom Osburne, president of a trade association for Florida's $2 billion a year citrus industry. Checks Sunday at major truck stops along key north-south and east-west routes showed traffic extremely light. Police in heavily affected areas estimated truck traffic down by some 90 per cent. The number of involved drivers could not be determined. One truckers' spokesman said 90,000 of the country's estimated 100,000 independents were staying off the roads. Some union drivers also, were not moving, mostly because they feared violence. Truckers in New Jersey, Oklahoma and Connecticut said Sunday night they would begin Monday to try either by request, picketing or truck blockade to stop the movement of diesel fuel from refineries to truck stops. Truckers in other states were busy talking to union drivers, asking them to observe the shutdown. Both actions are designed at cutting off all truck traffic. They already are having an impact. Five major truck stops which closed their diesel fuel lanes reported laying off an average of 80 workers apiece, including those who work in their large restaurants.

While the layoffs at the countless truck stops could not be calculated, reports from truck-dependent industries in a number of states showed at least 20,000 persons laid off. Of the total, 6,000 are in Ohio, 5,000 in Pennsylvania and 4,000 at Iowa meat plants. Large General Motors, Westinghouse, and General Electric plants and steel mill operations in Ohio and Pennsylvania reported that if trucks did not roll soon, they would be ordering layoffs. Large Appalachian coal mines were reported in the same condition. Gasoline supplies in Florida and some Northeast states were reported very short because delivery trucks carrying February allotments have been parked. That was expected to ease in Florida today as drivers ended an unrelated strike. In West Virginia, police cruisers escorted three gasoline tankers to dry service stations. In Pennsylvania and Florida, state officials worked on contingency plans to deliver critical supplies to areas running short. What truck traffic there was in many areas was traveling in convoys of eight and 10. But in some areas strikers were also reported traveling in "wolf packs" of three and four, harassing moving truckers and asking, open truck stops to shut down fuel pumps.

N.C. Traffic Toll Below Last Year

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
North Carolina's traffic fatality count for the year stands at 120 compared to 157 for the comparable period last year including the deaths of seven persons last weekend.

Fifty-year-old Helen Story Lang of Cramerton was the victim of a one-car accident on U.S. 321 south of Gastonia when she was thrown from a car which left the highway and struck a utility pole.

A 55-year-old Dunn pedestrian, Thomas Blue, was killed while walking on U.S. 301.

Another single-vehicle accident on U.S. 301 south of Rocky Mount caused the fatal injury of Henry Joyner of Rocky Mount, 23. The car overturned on him.

The Associated Press count of weekend traffic deaths begins at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight Sunday.

A one-car accident on U.S. 1, one mile north of Youngsville in which a car ran off the road and struck a tree, was responuncongenial advice. Knowing his revulsion for advice contradicting his own axioms, his aides protect themselves by holding their tongues.

Thus, President Nixon is probably wholly unaware of bipartisan feeling in Congress that something eventually must be done about amnesty, a feeling fully perceived not only by Laird, but, more importantly, also by Vice President Gerald R. Ford. As representative of Michigan's 5th Congressional District, Ford answered mail by suggesting conditional amnesty—that is, for violators who put in substitute service for their country.

Laird, leaving the White House with his store of political wisdom sadly untapped by the President, has said Ford will now assume many of his duties. Ford is also sensitive to political trends and the need for flexibility. But whether he will prove to be one small whit more successful than the unusually articulate Laird in getting through to the President is extremely doubtful.

fourth man who hadn't said anything. "Alistair, you're very quiet. Is there anything you'd like to get off your chest?"

"Yes, there is," Alistair said. "Everyone in the car pool forgot my birthday."

Arthur moaned, "Oh, for God's sake."

"Well, it may not be important to you, but my birthday means a lot to me. I didn't expect a cake or anything like that. But what would it have cost you all to say, 'Happy Birthday, Alistair'?"

"It slipped our minds," Harold replied. "If it will do anything for you, Happy Birthday."

"It's too late," Alistair sulked. "I remembered your birthday, Harold."

"So we forgot," Sidney said. "We had other things to think about."

Alistair wouldn't budge. "Car poolers are supposed to remember each other's birthdays."

Mr. Sims said, "I perceive tremendous tension in this pool. Now the question is what to do about it?"

"I want out," Arthur said. "If I can't sing 'Oh, What a Beautiful Morning' I would just as soon take the bus."

"I'm for going our separate ways," Harold said.

"Now, wait a minute," Mr. Sims said. "Car pooling is a very serious institution. When you take a vow to share an automobile with another person you promise to love, honor and cherish him in sickness and in health. All of you have to make more of an effort to understand each other and live with each other two hours a day."

"Car pooling isn't like marriage, something that you can treat lightly. Remember, what the energy crisis has joined together let no man cast asunder. And keep this in mind: If you break up your car pool and join another one, you'll probably wind up with the same kind of people you left behind."

Program To Aid Inmates

RALEIGH (AP)—North Carolina prison officials today announced a new program aimed at easing prisoners' transition back into society.

The program will include pre-release counselling aimed at finding jobs for the inmates when they leave the prison system and checks on the ex-inmate's progress when he is back in society.

Secretary of Social Rehabilitation and Control David L. Jones and Paroles Board chairman J. Mac Boxley said the program would initially cost $1 million per year.

The program combined four previously established department efforts.

It is supposed to help the inmate at the end of his sentence to find a job and a place to live, to readjust to family life, and to know where to find help from community agencies, Jones and Boxley said.

Claims Family Threatened

MOSCOW (AP)—Soviet author Alexander Solzhenitsyn says that the official campaign against him includes "threats to kill" directed at his wife and family by Soviet security police.

But he said Sunday that support is flowing to him from "known and unknown persons." "Maybe they will crush both them and me, but they will not crush the truth," he said.

Solzhenitsyn issued the statement in answer to the latest attacks on him. He has been denounced as a traitor in the controlled mass media for his exposure of the Stalinist labor camp system.

Stock And Market Reports

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market plunged today as fears over the state of the economy and the energy situation triggered a sharp selling wave.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials at 11:30 a.m. was down 21.27 at 822.67, while declines swamped advances on the New York Stock Exchange by more than 5 to 2.

"The market has been shaken out of its lethargy which had focused on Mideast negotiations," said Monte Gordon, analyst with Dreyfus Corp. "Now attention has been moved to the potential for a recession and continuing inflationary pressures."

The adamant attitude on the part of the Arabs regarding oil shipments has also caused some investor worry, brokers said.

On the NYSE, autos were off, with American Motors down 3/4 to 11 3/4; GM, off 3/4 to 50 1/4; and Chrysler, down 5/8 to 15 1/2.

Glamours were also down, with Xerox off 3 to 112 3/4; Fairchild Camera, down 3 1/2 to 54 1/4; and Bausch & Lomb, off 2 1/2 to 38 1/4.

Other losers included American Telephone, down 1/2 to 50 1/4; Standard Oil of Indiana, off 1 to 90; and Kennecott, off 1 1/4 to 39.

Farm Scene

By LEROY JAMES

How many tobacco seed are enough and how many are too much?

If too few are used the stand will be thin, the plants will be stocky or bunched with short stems. This type of plant is difficult to handle in a mechanical transplanter and is more likely to bloom prematurely. On the other hand, if too many seeds are used the stand will be thick and the plants will be spindly or leggy and will not live well when transplanted in the field. The stand of plants in the bed can greatly influence the quality of the transplant.

Experiences have shown that about 40 plants per square foot if a good stand that results in good quality plants.

If it were possible to get perfect distribution of plants, 40

Speed Limit Now Ignored

RALEIGH (AP)—After an initial period of acceptance, North Carolina motorists have begun to ignore the new 55 miles per hour speed limit, according to the Highway Patrol.

Col. E.W. Jones said today the Patrol issued about as many speeding citations for the week of January 21 as it did for a comparable week before the energy crisis.

The Patrol had reported a sharp decline in speeding tickets during the first few weeks of lower speed limits, imposed in an effort to curb fuel use.

"It appears the fad did not last," Jones said, while expressing hope that motorists will revert to their original co-operative attitude.

The Patrol issued nearly 3,000 tickets during the week of January 21, compared to about 2,000 in the week of December 10, the first for the new limits.

plants per square foot would give a spacing of about 2.75 inches between plants. To many growers this appears to be side spacing and at first thought it would seem as though it would not provide enough plants.

However, closer calculations show 100 square yards of bed at this spacing would give 36,000 plants. If all plants were transplanted this would be enough to set six acres at 6,000 plants per acre.

It's somewhat more difficult to specify an exact seeding rate to obtain this desired stand. The stand from a given seeding rate is dependent upon the potential germination of the seed used, the weather prior to and during germination, and general management including soil preparation, fertilizer rate, and irrigation.

But again, experience has shown that with average management one sixth ounce of seed on 100 square yards of bed will give a good stand. Those growers who do a good job of managing their beds get good stands with 1/2 ounce of seed or even less on 100 square yards of bed.

An ounce of tobacco seed will contain from 300,000 to 350,000 seed. Most commercial seedmen guarantee at least 80 per cent germination of their tobacco seed even though the germination is often considerably higher with as few as 300,000 seed per ounce and 80 percent germination. When used at the rate of one-sixth ounce on 100 square yards of bed, you are still using 10 percent more seed than you need for a good stand.

Most growers like to plant their entire crop during a period of 10 to 14 days and to get this many plants they need about 100 square yards of bed for each acre.

The National Weather Service said Sunday a tornado was reported near the New Hanover County Airport. The funnel picked up a tractor trailer and turned it over on a storage shed 40 feet away.

Albuquerque, the largest city in New Mexico, is named for Juan Fernandez de la Cueva y Enriquez, Duke of Albuquerque and 34th viceroy of New Spain.

Budget Has Elected To Office Probe Funds In Women's Caucus

WASHINGTON (AP) — A first-time item in President Nixon's proposed budget asks $2.8 million "for investigating and prosecuting all offenses arising out of the 1972 presidential election."

The funds are for the team of lawyers and other employees working under special Water-gate prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

The budget, sent to Congress by the President today, notes that Jaworski's force also "is responsible for investigating and prosecuting offenses against the United States arising from the unauthorized entry into the Democratic National Committee headquarters at the Watergate complex."

Congress passed special legislation last year to pay the force's expenses. The amount sought for the fiscal year beginning next July 1 is about the same as for the first year's operation.

To date, 26 individuals have been charged by federal prosecutors with offenses ranging from the Watergate burglary to lying under oath and making illegal campaign contributions. Five have pleaded innocent and await trial. The others have either been convicted or have pleaded guilty.

Additionally, eight corporations have pleaded guilty to making illegal campaign contributions and have paid fines. One corporation has pleaded innocent to the charge.

TORNADO REPORT

WILMINGTON (AP) — The National Weather Service said Sunday a tornado was reported near the New Hanover County Airport. The funnel picked up a tractor trailer and turned it over on a storage shed 40 feet away.

Nelson B. Crisp, local attorney, was elected first vice-chairperson of the N. C. Women's Political Caucus at the State Convention held in Charlotte last weekend.

Ruth Easterling of Charlotte was elected chairperson. The non-partisan caucus is led by members of the two leading political parties, as Easterling is a Democrat and Crisp is Republican.

The Caucus, marking its third anniversary at this convention, has outlined five goals for 1974. They will be lobbying for public kindergartens and day care centers; working to eliminate job and pay discrimination against women; encouraging women to run for public office; putting more women in important appointive positions; and continuing to press for ratification of the Equal Rights Amendment. Past efforts on these projects are beginning to yield results, especially on state appointments, Crisp said. The NCWPC is joining forces with the National Organization for Women and the League of Women Voters to form a coalition for the passage of the Equal Rights Amendment, she said.

Rescue Squad Searches River

Attempts were continuing today to locate a 22-year-old woman who may have jumped into the Tar River here last night.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the police department received a report about 7:35 p.m. yesterday saying a woman had jumped into the river from the Memorial Drive bridge.

Efforts to locate the woman last night and early this morning proved unsuccessful.

Spokesmen for the Greenville Rescue Squad said no trace of a body had been found in the river by late this morning.

Squad members began a search of the river earlier this morning in an effort to locate the women.

The first meeting Friday, called to discuss the recent termination of reporting on patients' conditions and accompanying decreasing of working hours and pay, was continued until today. About 150 hospital employees, most of them minimum wage earners, are involved.

Election Bd. Is Moving

The Pitt County Board of Elections is in the process of moving from its offices in the courthouse to new facilities at 201 E. Second Street.

The board's new offices are located in the recently completed addition to the building currently occupied by County ABC Store No. 1.

The Board of Elections, as well as the Pitt County Development Commission, are utilizing the new entrance on Second Street while the Pitt Fire Marshal and Electrical Inspector have a Cotanche Street entrance to their new offices.

Miss Margaret Register, executive secretary of the Board of Elections, said that the move should be complete by Wednesday with all Elections functions transferred to the new office. She noted that the board phone number will remain the same, 758-4683.

Gifts from Mrs. David Whichard II, and Empire Brush Company to the Institute were accepted and acknowledged by the trustees.

A resolution of appreciation to Elizabeth M. Dudley was unanimously adopted by the Board of Trustees. Citing her 11 years of service as secretary to the President and seven years as secretary to the Board of Trustees, the adopted resolution stated that the "caliber of her work was surpassed only by her unflinching dedication and loyalty to her superior, this Board, and the entire Institution."

President Fulford told the trustees that the Southern Association of Schools and Colleges had reaffirmed Pitt Tech's accreditation in the Association.

He announced that the Institute was now publishing a weekly publication, "Tech Talk," to promote better internal communications among the staff and faculty.

Difficult Week Faces Duke-State, Maryland And Irish

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Tonight marks the beginning of another difficult week for the Duke Blue Devils.

Nothing Big Confronts ACC Meet

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Atlantic Coast Conference Commissioner Bob James said "no real major issues" face member school representatives as they open the league's annual winter meeting in Greensboro today.

The three-day meeting will be devoted largely to updating conference bylaws to bring them in line with changes in national rules voted during the NCAA convention at San Francisco last month.

Athletic directors from the seven member schools meet this afternoon in closed sessions to discuss scheduling and traveling problems brought on by the energy crisis. Bill McLellan of Clemson is chairman of the group.

The ACC Medical Advisory Committee, composed of team physicians and head trainers, is also scheduled to meet today for discussion of injury treatment and prevention.

The athletic directors will come together two times Tuesday — as the conference basketball committee and as the television committee.

The executive and booking office committees will meet Tuesday night. Faculty chairmen will meet Wednesday morning. The final full business session opens at 1:30 p.m. and will be followed by a news media briefing. Conference President Dr. D. Alan Williams of Virginia will preside at the session.

Announces 9 Golf Events

CLEMMONS, N.C. (AP)—Executive Secretary Hale B. Van Hoy has announced a schedule of nine major amateur championships for the Carolinas Golf Association.

Highlighting the schedule is the 60th annual CGA championship July 23-28 at the Country Club of Orangeburg, S.C.

In addition to the nine championships, the Virginias-Carolinas men's team matches are scheduled Oct. 11-13 at the Princess Anne Country Club, Virginia Beach, Va.

Other championships include: Four-Ball, March 21-24, Camden, S.C., Country Club; Senior, April 27-28, Greenville, S.C., Country Club; Junior, June 11-15, Duke Golf Club, Durham; South Carolina Match Play, June 18-23, Country Club of South Carolina, Florence; North Carolina Amateur, June 27-30, Country Club of North Carolina and Pinehurst Country Club; Father-Son, Aug. 2, Whispering Pines Country Club; North Carolina Junior, Aug. 13-16, Forsyth Country Club; Senior Four-Ball, Oct. 5-6, Sea Gull Golf Club, Pawley's Island, S.C.

Wills, currently an announcer and Dodger base running coach, was reported on his way back to Los Angeles from Hermosillo, Mexico, and could not be reached for comment.

Catcher Ted Simmons of the St. Louis Cardinals had a 19-game hitting streak last season.

But it's only the beginning. Coach Neill McGeachy takes his club to Wake Forest on Wednesday and follows that up with a Saturday encounter at third-ranked Notre Dame.

Wake Forest has a respectable 10-7 mark thus far, and two of the Deacons' victories have been over Duke.

The rest of this week's Atlantic Coast Conference basketball schedule has Maryland at Virginia and East Tennessee at Clemson on Wednesday; North Carolina goes against Furman and N.C. State takes on Georgia Tech at Charlotte on Friday. UNC and State swap opponents Saturday. Other Saturday games are Virginia at Wake Forest, and Maryland against George Washington at Largo, Md.

In games this past Saturday, Wake Forest beat Virginia Tech 62-58, North Carolina edged Clemson 61-60, Maryland rolled over Duke 104-83, and N.C. State trounced Virginia 105-83.

Virginia dropped its 11th game of a disappointing season, against only five victories, but Wolfpack Coach Norm Sloan and Cavalier Coach Bill Gibson both had kind words for the losers.

"I thought Virginia came out playing the best they have all year," said Sloan. "I have not seen them play every game, but of the ones that I've seen this was by far the best."

Commenting on his own squad, Sloan said, "We weren't sharp mentally and there was nothing we could do about it. Coming off the big win at Maryland had a lot to do with it. I was pleased when we finally went to work and played very well beginning just before the half."

Gibson said, "If you remove the last four minutes of the first half and the first six minutes of the second half, we played a hell of a game," he said. "During that 10-minute period we played a little faster than we are accustomed to and lost our poise. You just can't run with them. During that time, David Thompson did his thing."

It was the 13th straight win for the Wolfpack, 6-0 in the conference and 15-1 overall.

Thompson scored 23 points and Tommy Burleson followed with 22. Gus Gerard led Virginia with 20. The Cavaliers are 2-4 in the conference and are in a fourth-place tie with Wake Forest.

North Carolina is in second, 7-1 and 15-2 overall, while Maryland is in third, 3-3 and 13-4 overall. Duke is in fifth, 1-4 and 8-8, while Clemson is in sixth, 1-6 and 10-8.

North Carolina barely managed to squeak by Clemson and Tar Heel Coach Dean Smith praised the Tigers' showing. "We feel very fortunate to win over a Clemson team that I felt did a marvelous job."

Clemson Coach Tates Locke was clearly unhappy with the results of a contest that was not decided until the closing seconds.

"I felt like this was our game to win," Locke said.

Still, he was pleased with the way his Tigers performed.

"Our guards have made a lot of progress at handling the ball, and Wayne Croft looked like a player tonight," he said after the game Saturday. "That was our best defensive game of the year."

The Wake Forest-Virginia Tech contest was less in doubt. Jerry Schellenbug and Tony Byers helped the Deacons run up a 17 point lead in the first half for 32-15 at intermission.

Although the Gobblers came to within two points with 1:08 remaining, the Deacons remained in front for a 62-58 finish.

Maryland wiped out Duke at 104-83 behind the 31-point scoring of John Lucas and Len Elmore's 20-rebound contribution.

The Terps made a strong comeback from their earlier consecutive losses to North Carolina and N.C. State. Bob Fleischer tipped in 23 points for the Blue Devils.

Chosen Coach At Indiana U.

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. (AP) — Al Bogan, head coach at Youngstown, Ohio, South High School for the past three years, has been named offensive backfield coach at Indiana State University.

ISU Coach Tom Harp made the announcement, saying the 28-year-old Youngstown native will replace Verbie Walder, who left recently to become head coach at Fort Wayne, Ind., North High School.

Bogan graduated from Ohio University in 1967 and played one year for the Akron Vulcans of the Continental Football League.

Gilmore King Of ABA Rebounders

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer
UNIONDALE, N.Y. (AP) —

Artis Gilmore, Kentucky's king-sized center, now is the King of the Hill in the American Basketball Association in rebounding, but Colonels' Coach Babe McCarthy thinks he's still three years away from reaching his peak.

"Most players keep improving until they're 27," explained McCarthy after the 24-year-old Gilmore shattered the ABA rebounding record with 40 during the Colonels' 123-91 rout of the New York Nets Sunday before a season-high crowd of 14,516 at the Nassau Coliseum.

In Sunday's other ABA action, San Antonio beat Carolina 108-95, Indiana defeated Denver 111-102, and San Diego edged Virginia 107-104.

"Artis still has a lot of things to learn," said McCarthy. "Defensively, he has to learn to pick up his man more and not let him slip behind him. Offensively, he needs to practice his shooting and improve his moves."

"He is certainly not yet comparable offensively to Jabbar," added the Colonels' coach in a reference to Milwaukee's Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, considered the premiere center in the National Basketball Association — and in all of basketball. "But Artis has that opportunity if he can drive himself more."

For one game, however, Gilmore put on a brilliant effort. In addition to his 40 rebounds he scored 21 points, blocked seven shots and had nine assists.

It was his fourth straight strong game in the past week, beginning with last Wednesday's ABA All-Star contest in Norfolk, Va., where the Colonels' 7-foot-2 center was named the outstanding player.

Spurs 108, Cougars 95

The Spurs, using balanced scoring, had their best first quarter of the season while racing to a 37-24 lead. James Silas scored 27 points for the night, Bird Averitt added 26, while Rich Jones had 20 and Swen Nater had 19 for San Antonio.

Pacers 111, Rockets 102

George McGinnis scored 39 points, including 13 in the last period, when he scored four straight points to give Indiana a 12-point lead.

Q's 107, Squires 104

Rookie guard Bo Lamar scored on a three-point play to put the Conquistadors ahead to stay in a see-saw fourth period.

ABA scores Saturday: Carolina 125, New York 117; Denver 138, Virginia 120; Utah 118, Indiana 113, overtime; San Antonio 110, Kentucky 107.

National Basketball Association scores Sunday: Capital 112, Boston 99; Chicago 108, Cleveland 94; Buffalo 112, Philadelphia 98; Houston 123, Atlanta 112; Los Angeles 91; Detroit 114, Seattle 100.

NBA results Saturday: New York 103, Cleveland 87; Chicago 105, Philadelphia 89; Atlanta 117, Houston 107; Phoenix 119, Los Angeles 112; Portland 102, Seattle 97; Golden State 120, Milwaukee 91.

Looks Ahead To Power At Plate

SAN DIEGO (AP) — John McNamara, the San Diego Padres new manager, is convinced that his team will have a lot of hitters, but he fears that other teams will have more.

"I think our offense will score enough runs," McNamara said after he was named to the job Saturday. "But the thing is whether we will have enough pitching."

The Padres traded several pitchers to acquire stars like Willie McCovey, Bobby Tolan, Matty Alou and Glenn Beckert to go with holdovers Nate Colbert, John Grubb and Dave Roberts.

But now that hamburger baron Ray Kroc, the new owner, is bankrolling the team, acquisition of an established pitcher isn't out of the question. Kroc bought the team last week from C. Arnhold Smith for a reported $12 million.

The selection of McNamara, 41, a San Francisco Giants' third base coach for the last three years, ended the possibility, at least temporarily, that baseball would name its first black manager.

The Padres revealed that ex-Los Angeles Dodger base stealing star Maury Wills and McNamara were the final contenders for the job.

"We finally narrowed it down to two, McNamara and Wills," Padre President E. J. "Buzzie" Bavasi said. "Both had qualifications we were looking for. We talked to Maury, and we thought he would be an excellent manager."

"But the only experience he has ever had was in winter ball. With the club we have this year, we felt we needed someone with McNamara's background."

Wills, currently an announcer and Dodger base running coach, was reported on his way back to Los Angeles from Hermosillo, Mexico, and could not be reached for comment.

Pros Groan When Nicklaus Is On Hand..As In Hawaiian Open

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
HONOLULU (AP) — Hale Irwin voiced the sentiments of most of golf's touring pros. "Why," inquired Irwin, "doesn't he stay home? Or if he has to come, why doesn't he bring the kids?"

But Jack Nicklaus didn't stay home. He made a sudden decision to come to these tropic islands to play in the $220,000 Hawaiian Open. And he didn't bring the kids. "When I bring the kids, I'm on vacation," he said. "I'm not on vacation. I came to play golf."

And, to the surprise of practically no one, the game's Golden Bear played it well enough to win the $44,000 first prize, playing just as well as he had to stand off a couple of mild challenges down the stretch Sunday. He had a two-under-par 70 in the final round on the sun-splashed, 7,154 yard Waialae Country Club course and won by a comfortable three strokes at 271, 17 under par.

Rookie Eddie Pearce, 21, the youngest man on the pro tour, once got to within two strokes of the front-running Nicklaus in the stretch. But Jack responded with a couple of quick birdies that ruined Pearce's dream of an upset. He settled back into second with a 66—274 total.

J.C. Snead was next with 68—275, while Irwin and Dwight Neill tied at 276. Irwin had a final round 66 in the near perfect playing conditions, bright sunshine, 80-degree temperatures and just the hint of a breeze. Neill had a four-under-par 68.

Nicklaus matched the course record set in 1966 by Hawaiian Ted Makalena, who won this event in 1966 and died two years later in a surfing accident. While Nicklaus was scoring the 52nd victory of his career, it was a dismal start of the season for 44-year-old Arnold Palmer. Palmer, who hadn't played previously this season, beat only one man in the field with a 292 total and failed to make a check. Nicklaus won $44,000. Pearce $25,000.

Bruce Crampton had a final 69 for 284, Billy Casper 70—285 and Lee Trevino 72—286. British Open Champion Tom Weiskopf did not compete. Johnny Miller, the young man who had scored a record sweep of the first three titles of the year, was beaten for the first time in 1974. He tied for 11th with a 281 total, but kept intact his unbroken string of subpar rounds. Miller's final 70 marked the 15th consecutive round in which he has broken par this year.

Marti Liquori Became A Loser In Cleveland

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Miler Marty Liquori has confirmed his suspicions about the track in Cleveland and sprinter

Herb Washington did the same about the starter. Both Liquori and Washington turned up losers in a track weekend hogged by the shotput accomplishments of George Woods and Marin Sidler and some record shattering running by Francie Larrieu and the four-girl Atoms Track Club of Brooklyn, N.Y.

Liquori and Washington both lost their events in the Knights of Columbus meet in Cleveland. Liquori finished third in the 1,000 meters — won by Olympian Byron Dye in 2:09.7. Liquori was more than four seconds behind, timed in 2:13.8. "I just couldn't run these turns," he said. "It's an impossible track to run on."

Vanderbilt, Alabama In Tonight's Top Match

By ANDY LIPPMAN
AP Sports Writer

Things are heating up in Dixie, where tonight Vanderbilt and Alabama, ranked seventh and eighth nationally in college basketball, square off at Tuscaloosa, Ala.

And after the Commodores and the Crimson Tide picked up victories Saturday, the vanquished coaches awaited the matchup between the two Southeastern Conference rivals. "I wish I could be there, it'll be a tremendous game," said Florida Coach John Lotz, whose team lost to No. 7 Vanderbilt 58-52. "This is a very good Vanderbilt team — one of the finest offensive teams in the country. I think Vandy has a little edge offensively, and Alabama is rebounding."

Auburn Coach Bob Davis, whose team lost to Alabama 73-64, picked the Crimson Tide. "Alabama is by far the most powerful team we have played," said Davis, who earlier lost 96-51 to Vanderbilt, now 16-1 over-all. "Alabama will beat Vandy easily, by 10-12 points."

In other Saturday action involving Top Ten teams, No. 1 UCLA beat 12th-ranked Southern California 65-54; No. 2 North Carolina State trounced Virginia 105-93; No. 3 Notre Dame defeated Davidson 95-84; No. 4 North Carolina trimmed Clemson 61-60; No. 5 Marquette beat DePaul 70-57; No. 6 Maryland downed Duke 104-83; and No. 10 Long Beach whipped No. 19 Oral Roberts 98-89.

Keith Wilkes threw in 12 of his 20 points during a 16-4 flurry that brought UCLA from behind early in the second half.

North Carolina State also had a scare from a Virginia team which shot at 56 per cent before David Thompson brought the Wolfpack back for their 13th straight victory. Thompson finished with 23 points, one more than Virginia's Tommy Burleson.

Even with Adrian Dantley still out, Notre Dame had little trouble with Davidson, as John Shumate scored 26 points and Gary Brokaw added 24.

"We still have a tough schedule ahead," said Irish Coach Digger Phelps, "but the team is tough and we are not tired."

Darrel Elston hit a field goal and two free throws in the last 1:13 of play to pull North Carolina out of danger.

Five players scored in double figures and Maurice Ellis grabbed 14 rebounds, but Marquette Coach Al McGuire was still not happy. "This was not one of our best performances because all we did was stand around."

Maryland's Lefty Driesell was another unhappy coach. "I think we found out something I've been pondering for a long while," Driesell said. "I'm convinced our players aren't in condition."

Driesell ordered a Sunday practice to improve the situation. John Lucas did not look in too bad shape, scoring 31 points, 25 in the first half, while Len Elmore grabbed 20 rebounds.

Freshman center Clifton Pondexter scored 23 points and grabbed 10 rebounds as Long Beach State played what Coach Lute Olson called "the best basketball that Long Beach has played all year" in the first 35 minutes. Long Beach also got 18 points from Roscoe Pondexter and 20 from senior guard Glenn McDonald.

Among the second 10, No. 12 Indiana scored 28 straight points in a 10-minute stretch to bomb Iowa 85-50; and Kirk Bruce hit eight free throws as No. 13 Pittsburgh scored the first 10 points in an overtime period for a 68-62 victory over William & Mary. Mike Arizin of William & Mary had sent the game into overtime with a field goal with 59 seconds left.

Louisville, rated No. 15, led nearly all the way, defeating West Texas 99-73, as Allen Murphy scored 18 points for the winners.

No. 16 Wisconsin was upset by Minnesota in overtime 64-63

when Pete Gilcut tossed in two free throws with one second remaining in overtime. The Badgers had to come from three points back to tie the game 52-52 at the end of regulation.

New Mexico, No. 17, continued its slide, with a 67-65 loss to Stetson. It was the Lobos' fifth loss in seven games.

Campy Russell scored 22 points to help No. 20 Michigan climb into a first-place tie with Purdue in the Big Ten with a 101-77 victory over Illinois. The Wolverines outscored the Illini 14-4 to take a 28-14 lead with seven minutes to play in the first half.

Elsewhere, Bob Elliott scored 38 points and grabbed 25 rebounds as Arizona toppled defending Western Athletic Champion Arizona State 98-90; Rick Williams tallied 30 points and pulled down 11 rebounds to spark Indiana State past Centenary 87-78; while junior forward Haviland Harper scored 30 to lead George Washington to a 77-69 triumph over Jacksonville, and Canisius lost to Manhattan 80-79 — despite 34 points from Larry Fogle, the nation's leading scorer.

No Medals In Ski Race

By ERIC WAHA
ST. MORITZ, Switzerland (AP) — The American women won no medals in the opening race of the 1974 World Alpine Skiing Championships, but they showed impressive team strength.

The American men will have a much harder time in the next race, the men's giant slalom on Tuesday, except for veteran Bob Cochran, 21, of Richmond, Vt., who might grab a good headstart towards becoming world champion in the combined event.

Another American, Bill Kidd, won that title in the last world championships, at Val Gardena, Italy, in 1970. Kidd retired from amateur racing after the title win.

The title goes to the best skier in all three world championship events — the giant slalom, downhill and slalom.

The women placed three among the top 15 in their giant slalom race on Sunday, with only the Austrians doing better with all four of their entries among the same group.

But world championships are not a team event. The attention is on the three top places for which medals are awarded. France's Fabienne Serrat, 17, was first, West Germany's Traudi Treichl was second and another French girl, Jacqueline Rouvier, was third.

The best American showing was that of the 1974 Olympic slalom champion — Barbara Cochran, Bob's sister, who was sixth.

Her sister, Marilyn, 23, was eighth. Sandra Poulsen, 21, of Olympic Valley, Calif., said, "I didn't do too badly considering that I was supposed to have a broken back."

She suffered a back injury in downhill training in Grindelwald, Switzerland three weeks ago. The first verdict here was that she broke a vertebra, but later this diagnosis became less certain, especially as to whether it was a new injury, or an old one which was reactivated by the fall.

The fourth American, Cindy Nelson, 18, of Lutsen, Minn., missed a gate and was out. She was the only one to beat Austrian star Annemarie Proell after 11 consecutive downhill victories.

Argetsinger, 52, a lawyer and long-time racing enthusiast who has served as the SCCA's director of professional racing for two years, succeeds A. Tracy Bird, who resigned recently.

Argetsinger, a graduate of Youngstown University and the Cornell Law School, helped found the U.S. Grand Prix at Watkins Glen, N.Y., in 1948 and was executive director of the international classic until 1970. He has held posts with the SCCA since 1947.

The 1974 USGA Women's Open golf championship will be played at LaGrange, Ill.

The Worry Clinic No Escape In That Bottle

Maureen is in the same boat with thousands of other wives! Her alcoholism is merely a psychological "fire escape" to flee from the internal "burning" that torments her. Can you guess her problem? Consult my textbook at your library!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D. M.D.
CASE Z-541: Maureen W., aged 26, is the pregnant wife who is an alcoholic.

"Dr. Crane," she later confessed to me, "I never touched liquor before our marriage."

"But something happened to make me seek alcohol so I couldn't think about my inner torment."

She paused and began to wipe tears from her eyes.

"Who was he?" I abruptly probed for the usual case.

Then she began to cry copiously.

"He was a former boy friend whom I had dated in college," she admitted.

"We had been married about a year and I was very happy."

"But this former suitor happened to be in town while my husband was away for a week on a business trip."

"My ex-boy friend telephoned and wanted to take me to dinner, just to talk about old times."

"Well, I was lonely and also flattered, so I finally accepted."

"After the dinner, he suggested we go to a drive-in movie."

"It was a very romantic play involving free love."

"When we got back to the house, I invited him in for a cup of coffee."

"The radio was playing some good dance music, so he invited me to dance.

"And while dancing, he kissed me, not once but repeatedly."

"He spent the night in bed with me!"

"After he had left, I came back to my senses."

"And when I found next month that I was pregnant, I became almost a nervous wreck."

"For I really love my husband and he adores me."

"He thinks I am perfect and would be crushed if he were to suspect that this baby is not his."

"So I finally started drinking wine; then whisky, just to get away from my inner conflict."

"And the nearer I get to the day my baby is to be born, the more tormented I become, so I am now a complete alcoholic."

"Dr. Crane, it scares me to think what my drinking may do to my unborn baby, but what can I do?"

Erotic Conflicts
Readers, how would you advise Maureen in her present dilemma?

Go to your local library and read Chapter I in my college textbook, "Psychology Applied."

For therein I have charted the various motivational influences in a similar case, drawn from the superb story by Wilbur Daniel Steele, and titled "The Haunted Lady."

My primary purpose in giving you Maureen's case is to show the usual cause of chronic alcoholism.

Liquor is usually sought by men and women who have indulged in illicit sexual affairs or who are scared of impotence and a platonic marriage. Sometimes other incidents that produce humiliation and shame, will prod the victim into seeking alcoholic forgetfulness.

But if there were no sex dilemmas, we'd have few alcoholics and little need for psychiatrists!

So send for my booklet "How to Stop the Liquor and Tobacco Habits," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets).

Too Psychedelic Can Cause Fits

LONDON (AP) — Youth leaders in the south London borough of Merton have been told to dim the psychedelic lights and blaring pop music for fear it will harm teenyboppers in local clubs.

Medical evidence shows that the music and lights together can cause fits and deafness among young music fans.

Tony Gibbs, Merton's youth officer, warned, "There is medical evidence that when epileptics — and some people not known to be epileptic — are exposed to flashing lights they are likely to have seizures."

"Even normal people exposed to this type of lighting may suffer in certain circumstances, particularly after fasting or taking alcohol."

Pop Music For Class Breaks

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — Solon High School has switched from bells to the Beatles, ballads and blues to mark breaks in classes.

E. James Kotora, assistant principal, said the bell system the suburban community's school had used "sounded too institutional and sometimes it wouldn't work."

Now the school uses four-minute, tape-recorded musical selections, including rock, country-Western and seasonal songs.

Q. 1—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KQ10 654 ♥Q107 083 ♠32
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♥ Pass 1 ♠ Pass
1 NT Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Two spades. This hand is not the no trump type, and preference should be given to rebidding a good six-card suit over supporting partner's suit. Don't make the error of jumping the bidding. Your hand isn't strong enough and further action is up to partner.

Q. 2.—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠Q109743 ♥KJ82 062 ♠7
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Dble. 4 ♠ 5 ♥
5 ♠ 5 NT Pass 6 ♠
Pass Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Six spades. Your spade-length strongly suggests that no tricks can be taken in that suit against the opponents' slam. Your partner's failure to double indicates that he has few defensive values on the side. The save should not be expensive.

Q. 3.—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AQJ106 ♥954 0KQ7 ♠AQ
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
3 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
4 ♠ Pass 4 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Five spades. Since partner was strong enough first to bid his own suit at the two-level and then raise yours, you should not give up hope of slam. Your main concern is the heart suit, and by bidding over the game level after the other suits have been mentioned, you ask partner to bid on if he has no more than one heart loser.

Q. 4.—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♥J9654 0AQ72 ♠J1093
The bidding has proceeded:
West North East South
Pass 1 ♠ Pass ?

What do you respond?
A.—One no trump. This hand is not strong enough to respond at the two-level, for you should not count your void in partner's suit as worth three distributional points. Yet some action must be taken, and the suggested bid shows a range of 6-10 points. As a response, one no trump does not necessarily describe a balanced hand.

Q. 5.—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠Q65 0103 0AJ7 ♠KJ1092
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass
2 ♥ Pass 2 NT Pass
3 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Three spades. We do not recommend proceeding to three no trump. You have already announced your diamond guard, and it might be critical to inform partner of your moderate spade support.

Q. 6.—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AK10932 ♥7 0J6 ♠KJ72
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
1 ♠ Dble. Rdbl. Pass
Pass 2 ♥ 2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Four spades. On the surface, this hand is worth only 15 points, but once spades have been supported its value increases by 3 points—1 for the fifth spade and 2 for the sixth. Partner's redouble followed by a raise shows at least 10 points and a fit.

Q. 7.—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AQ82 ♥A54 0A543 ♠93
The bidding has proceeded:
North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 3 ♠ Pass
4 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Nothing. Your jump raise promised 13-15 points, and that's exactly what you have. If partner had additional values and was interested in a slam, he would have made some move other than simply continuing on to game.

Q. 8.—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KJ7 ♥AKQ9 0AKQJ10 ♠3
The bidding has proceeded:
South West North East
2 ♠ Pass 2 ♠ Pass ?

What do you bid now?
A.—Three hearts. It is tempting to check on ace via the Blackwood convention, but if partner has a secondary heart suit the hand should play better there. It does no harm to check, for if partner doesn't raise hearts you can then check on ace and commit the hand to a spade contract.

Rate Hike For Energy-Savers

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Duke Power Co. customers who have been practicing energy conservation measures may find later this year that their efforts have backfired and prompted a company plea for still another rate increase.

The utility company, which has already requested a 17 per cent rate hike, is considering asking for another rate increase because conservation steps and inflation are causing Duke to lose business.

The company's associate counsel Steve Griffith said a decision on such a rate request will be made later this year. Any such request would be "based on budget figures for 1974 and any changes that may occur in these figures as a result of increased costs... or as a result of a decline in sales," he said.

Griffith said when demand drops, fixed costs do not change, increasing the cost of producing each kilowatt of power.

Assistant Atty. Gen. I. Beverly Lake Jr. of North Carolina, who sometimes advises consumers in rate cases, said he would oppose a rate increase based in part on a consumption decline because of customer conservation.

"Duke's got to conserve too," he said. "They just can't say their rate-payers are conserving and it's hurting us."

Lake suggested that utility companies take the decrease in demand brought about by consumer conservation measures into account and adjust their long-range construction goals because of them.

"Certainly you want to reward people for conserving," he said. However he added, "We've got to balance the reward of saving them money today and making sure we have plenty of electricity in the future."

Duke Power Co. customers used 5 1/2 per cent less energy last month than in January, 1973 because of their conservation efforts and unusually warm weather.

Opportunity In A Special Field

NEW YORK (UPI) — Teaching of the gifted and handicapped offers strong job opportunities, according to the Education Yearbook (Macmillan).

Despite the generally tight employment situation in education—surpluses in many teaching categories—there is an inadequate supply of properly trained tutors to staff programs for exceptional children. Individual state programs for such children range from modest expansion of existing programs to development and implementation of ambitious master plans. During the past two years a number of states have established target dates of five years or less for providing full service programs for all eligible children and young adults in the exceptional grouping.

Griffith said when demand drops, fixed costs do not change, increasing the cost of producing each kilowatt of power.

Paddles All Year Round

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Doug Bushnell, a truck mechanic, has a unique way of getting to and from work. He paddles a kayak.

Bushnell is a kayak competitor and tries to stay in tip-top shape all year for the kayak season, which runs from March to October.

Each morning, when the weather makes it possible, Bushnell slips his kayak into the Black Rock Canal near his home on Buffalo's west side.

He paddles down the canal, into Buffalo Harbor, up the Buffalo River to the Michigan Avenue Bridge, a total distance of 3½ miles. There, he pulls the 22-pound kayak out of the river and carries it a few blocks to work.

After he's finished work, he paddles the kayak home by a longer route that takes him out into Lake Erie, and down the Niagara River into the canal, a seven-mile journey.

In the dead of winter, when the lake and harbor are frozen over, Bushnell gets in his kayak practice on an open stretch of the Buffalo River.

On days when the weather prevents him from using his kayak to get to work, Bushnell has to use other means.

"I run to work when I don't paddle in," he said. "It's about three miles each way."

Running Out Of Second Chances Says Futurist

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The people of the United States will have to change their life drastically in the next few years, according to futurist Victor Ferkias of Georgetown University.

"We simply cannot continue to increase consumption and use of resources at an exponential rate," says the professor of government.

He feels changes coming gradually will include less dependence on the auto, protein substitute in a diet, more modest homes and a revised system of mass transit.

"This won't come about automatically," says Ferkias. "We'll need a system of incentives, sanctions and controls which will allocate resources and make our consumption habits more intelligent."

The futurist says Americans are running out of second chances.

Famous Cabin Is Preserved

DAWSON CITY, Yukon Territory (UPI) — The two-room cabin in Dawson City where Robert W. Service wrote many of the poems that captured the color of the Klondike during the Gold Rush days has been preserved as a national historical site.

Service worked for the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce in Dawson City from 1906 to 1909 before resigning to devote full time to writing. He occupied the cabin from 1905 to 1912.

Fuel Cutbacks May Help Eyes

NEW YORK (UPI) — The current energy crisis is not entirely bad, the Society for Visual Care says. Cutbacks in fuel may have beneficial effects on the eyes.

Dr. Spencer Sherman, a New York City ophthalmologist and consultant to the society, said the resultant decrease in room temperature will make the eyes feel better. Cooler temperatures make the eyes retain more moisture. This leads to a lessening of smarting, burning, itching.

Land Use Planning Runs Into Determined Lobbyist

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—When Lewis R. "Snow" Holding talks, North Carolina legislators listen.

Holding is president of First-Citizens Bank and Trust Co., the fourth largest bank in the state.

He is also a key figure in an informal coalition of realtors, land developers, motel owners and local officials who last week put the brakes on the proposed Coastal Area Management Act of 1974.

The bill would, if enacted, be perhaps the most far-reaching piece of environmental legislation ever passed into North Carolina law.

It would give a state Coastal Resources Commission the authority to force local governments to adopt comprehensive land use plans.

The commission would also have the right to approve or disapprove any major development projects in designated "areas of environmental concern" such as sand dunes, marshes, and inlets—all prime resort property on the coast.

That is what concerned Snow Holding. He has substantial personal real estate holdings on the Outer Banks at Emerald Isle. His bank, he told the Associated Press in a telephone interview, is heavily involved in financing development along the coast.

"This bill needs to be modified," Holding said. "I talked to several legislators. I told them it could very well cause a reduction in property values."

Several First-Citizens officers from Wilmington contributed to the effort, sending telegrams to Sen. William Staton, D-Lee, and other legislators.

Real estate developers like Bart Streb of Wilmington also sent wires. And they achieved their initial objective.

Suddenly, legislators who had appeared ready to vote for the bill were telling Staton and its other chief sponsor, Rep. Willis Whichard, D-Durham, that they were reconsidering.

Whichard and Staton decided to postpone a scheduled House vote on the bill last Thursday. A public hearing, the seventh in the past year, will be held on Thursday of this week, as requested by Streb and the others.

After the hearing, it appears likely that several amendments will be offered by legislative supporters of the financiers, developers and local officials on the coast.

Rep. Chris Barker, D-Craven, says he will introduce an amendment to give county governments the right to nominate the members of the Coastal Resources Commission.

Barker stated his position earlier in the week when he said, "We don't want a bunch of do-gooders from Durham County telling us how to manage our property."

Barker's position was supported by another of last week's lobbyists, Bill Dillon of Buxton, an Outer Banks resort. Dillon, a motel owner, is a member of the Board of Commissioners of Dare County, a rapidly growing area which contains about one-third of the state's shoreline.

Like nearly all the bill's opponents, Dillon says he is in favor of regulating development on the coast. Their arguments are couched in terms of who will do the controlling. They do not want it to be "Piedmont politicians."

"Control should be exercised by the people affected. We're afraid that state management would reflect the wishes of the ecologists and not the local economic needs," said Dillon during a pause in his lobbying rounds.

Secretary of Natural and Economic Resources James Harrington, whose department strongly backs the bill, disagrees.

"We've already agreed that more than half of the commissioners must come from the coastal area. They have to include representatives of the local governments and the financial interests."

"There are only one or two counties on the coast which have shown any willingness or capability to regulate development on their own," Harrington said.

The position was stated more colorfully by one legislator, who did not want to be quoted by name. "Asking those people to protect the environment is like asking Willie Sutton to guard your bank," he said.

There will also be legislative support for an amendment which would force the state to pay for any property which it says cannot be developed.

Legislators like Rep. Ed Davenport, D-Nash, believe that certain property rights are sacrosanct unless the state is willing to purchase the land.

They want an amendment that would clearly say that if the state refused to allow a landowner to build on his property, the state would have to pay a fair market price for it.

The bill now says that if state action to prohibit development is found by the courts to amount to a "taking," the state would have to buy the land.

It is not clear, however, whether the courts would see a prohibition of development under the bill as a "taking" in the legal sense.

Harrington, who speaks for the administration of Gov. Jim Holshouser about the bill, says he would not be willing to see the bill changed as Davenport and others would like to spell out what types of regulation would amount to a "taking." He says the courts should decide that and he predicts that state regulation as envisioned in the bill would not be held a "taking."

Harrington said the amendments proposed so far would make the bill "worthless."

The club he will hold over the bill's opponents is the threat that if the state doesn't control development on the coast, the federal government will.

'Bombarded' By Wads Of Paper

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
DAR ES SALAAM, Tanzania (AP)—British Foreign Secretary Alec Douglas-Home was bombarded with wads of paper hurled by student demonstrators when he arrived here.

As the door of Douglas-Home's Royal Air Force plane swung open Sunday, the demonstrators broke through police lines and swarmed around the bottom of the stairway. When Sir Alec emerged the barrage began.

About 600 student demonstrators from Dar es Salaam University had been chanting "go home, go home" as a protest against British policy toward white-ruled Rhodesia.
