Bill Would Submit ECU Med School To Vote By People

RALEIGH (AP) — House Speaker Jim Ramsey spoke approvingly Tuesday of a bill that would submit the stormy East Carolina University medical school expansion to a vote of the people of North Carolina.

See REACTION on Page 12

But Ramsey refrained from endorsing a bill by Rep. Larry Eagles, D-Edgecombe. He said he wants to confer with members of the Senate before taking a stand.

The Eagles' measure, put forward as a compromise on the medical school issue would let the people vote next November on a bill to issue $50 million in bonds to finance a four-year medical school at ECU.

Ramsey spoke after a lengthy conference with Chairman William A. Dees of the University of North Carolina Board of Governors which has voted against immediate expansion of ECU's one-year medical school.

When asked if he was supporting Eagles' bill, Ramsey said he wanted to confer with Senate members before announcing a stand, but, he said:

"I just can't help having a feeling that to submit this to a vote of the people would: (1) do no violence to the board of governors because it predated them; (2) I don't think anyone can argue with a mandate of the people; and (3) this bill is so tightly drawn I don't think the issue can be confused."

Eagles' bill was considered at a meeting in Ramsey's office Monday night and also discussed at a meeting of the UNC Board of Governors at Chapel Hill at about the same time.

Dees could not be reached immediately for comment on the issue, but a source close to the board of governors said he had "not seen any indication that the members of the board are ready to change their mind on their recommendations for medical education. They've put too much time and effort into them and they sincerely believe that they are what's best for the state."

The board has proposed creation of a series of nine area health education clinics across the state to provide post graduate training to medical students as a means of curing the state's shortage of doctors.

President William C. Friday of the University of North Carolina said it is possible the medical school issue will be raised at a meeting of the board at Chapel Hill Friday.

Eagles told newsmen that a move to bring his bill to a vote in the House Finance Committee has the support of the House's Democratic leadership.

RMEP. William T. Watkins, D-Granville, House majority leader, said Eagles' bill "could be a way of settling the issue."

Although Dees could not be reached for comment, Rep. J. P. Huskins, D-Iredell, said it was Dees who suggested the bill to Ramsey as a possible compromise.

Huskins has introduced a bill recommended by a study commission of which he was co-chairman to expand the ECU medical school from a one-year to a two-year program.

Asked if he was supporting the Eagles' bill, Huskins said he and his backers "agreed to do nothing until we hear from the board of governors."

"Let's see what the board of governors say about it," echoed Rep. Horton Rountree, D-Pitt, a strong supporter of ECU.

Huskins said that some of those who met in Ramsey's office Monday night "thought it was a reasonable compromise" while others thought it was a delaying tactic.

Sen. Gordon Allen, D-Person, president pro tem of the Senate, voiced opposition to the Eagles' bill because he considered it "passing the (Continued on page 16)

Agreement Finalized For Hospital's Construction

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

RALEIGH—Pitt County officials, meeting here yesterday with representatives of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare finalized an agreement for a $2 million HEW loan and signed contracts for construction of a new hospital.

Pitt Memorial Hospital administrator Jack Richardson said ground-breaking ceremonies for the new facility will be held February 14 and noted that construction is expected to begin immediately thereafter.

Bids for construction of the new hospital were opened November 8 and were well above the estimated cost of the project and above the funds then available.

After more than a month of negotiating with the low bidders, and after additional funds were obtained—a $280,100 grant from the state Medical Care Commission, $250,000 in reserve funds pledged to the project by hospital trustees and $537,645 from the Board of County Commissioners—the bids for the project were accepted and the go-ahead given.

According to the contracts signed yesterday, construction costs for the project total $15.84 million.

The major portions of the funding for the hospital come from a $9 million bond issue approved several years ago by county voters, a $2 million direct loan from HEW (finalized yesterday), $1.69 million in federal and state rehabilitation funds, a $750,000 grant from the Duke Endowment, and $685,800 in federal revenue sharing money.

The $9 million in revenue bonds were sold last week by the N. C. Local Government Commission to First Citizens Bank and Trust Co., of Smithfield with a new interest cost bid of 4.5777 per cent.

County officials will travel to New York later this month to sign the 1,800 bond certificates before delivery to the purchasers.

According to the agreement signed yesterday for the HEW loan, the $2 million in bonds purchased by HEW will carry a 6.09 interest rate.

Senators White And Allsbrook Announcing Reelection Candidacy

Vernon E. White of Winterville and Julian R. Allsbrook today announced that they will be candidates for reelection as State Senators from the Sixth Senatorial District (Edgecombe, Halifax, Martin, and Pitt Counties) in the May primary.

Both men are currently serving as senators in the North Carolina General Assembly.

White, a farmer and businessman, will seek reelection to one of the two seats allotted to the district.

In announcing his candidacy for the post, White said he was "grateful to the people of the district for allowing me to serve in the 1969, 1971 and the 1973-1974 General Assemblies.

"It has been a rare privilege to serve this district. These six years have been some of the happiest of my life, and I have genuinely enjoyed serving the people," White added.

SEN. JULIAN ALLSBROOK

White was a leader in the 1969, 1971 and the 1973 General Assembly in helping East Carolina University expand its programs and improve its financial structure. He has served as a member of the Appropriations and Higher Education Committees, and on the Medical Manpower Commission that recommended establishing a degree granting medical school at ECU.

In the 1971 and 1973-1974 sessions, White was chairman of the important Senate Agricultural Committee and Vice-Chairman of the important Appropriations Subcommittee on Education.

Other committees White has served on included: Highway Safety, Mental Health, Education, Public Health and Resources, Transportation, and Wildlife.

Regarding some of the problems and issues facing the present 1974 session of the General Assembly, he said,

"Many problems and issues will be vital to the future of Eastern North Carolina. The medical needs of this area need urgent attention." He is now working toward that end in the 1974 session of the General Assembly by pushing for expansion of the present one year medical school at East Carolina to a four year degree granting medical school.

"It is also my belief that we must continue to provide educational opportunities for our people to improve their skills or develop new ones for new jobs and job vacancies. This kind of opportunity is provided by our Technical Institutes and Community Colleges. It is my desire to support and work for continued progress in these institutions."

White sponsored legislation in the 1973 session that limited class size in public schools. This legislation did more to improve the conditions in our public schools than any other legislation in many years, the senator observed.

Intend To Lift Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration told Congress today it intends to remove all mandatory wage and price controls after April 30 — except for the health and petroleum sections of the economy.

If Congress agrees, it would mean the bulk of the U.S. economy would be functioning control free for the first time since August of 1971.

Authority for present Phase 4 controls expires April 30.

Cost of Living Council Director John T. Dunlop, who outlined the administration plans, said consumers could expect some additional increase in prices as a result of lifting of controls.

He said this would result from realignment of some prices that have been held down; the removal of built-in delays on price increases by big companies, and testing of the market by some companies to see how high they can raise prices.

Dunlop implied present controls had outlived their usefulness despite the prospect of continuing inflation.

"Under the economic conditions anticipated in the year ahead," he told the Senate Banking Committee's subcommittee on production and stabilization, "the problems created by a full program of mandatory wage and price controls outweigh the contributions such controls can make to price stability."

FORD TO SPEAK

Operation Sunshine And Boys Club Given Money

Two Greenville organizations active in working with youngsters—the Pitt County Boys Club, Inc. and Operation Sunshine, are the recipient of funds provided by Dow Chemical Corporation through a local firm, Coastal Chemical Corporation.

On Tuesday, J.C. Whitehurst, Jr. president of Coastal Chemical, presented a check totaling $3,480 to the two organizations. Of that amount, $1,270 goes to Operation Sunshine.

"This is the first year we have had an opportunity to be able to provide program money for local worthy causes," Whitehurst remarked. "We made our decisions to choose these two organizations after investigating a number of local agencies, all of which are worthwhile."

Coastal Chemical Corporation is a manufacturer of agricultural chemicals and pesticides.

Fire Hydrants Made Useless

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Vandals have stolen about 65 brass nuts off the top of fire hydrants in the last month and a half, making the hydrants useless until repaired.

The vandals try to sell the seven pounds of brass to scrap metal dealers for $3 or so. It costs the city 40 dollars apiece to replace them, $27 for the part and $13 for the labor.

Mrs. Etsil Gordon, president of the Board of Director of Boy's Club said: "Naturally I'm glad Mr. Whitehurst chose us as one of the recipients." In reply to what the money would be used for, Mrs. Gordon said "I've got two typewritten pages of needs, but I think a good portion of these funds will go for purchase of outdoor camping equipment, photo equipment for a planned photography course, craft tools and many similar items. We also have a need for athletic equipment."

"Our main need at this time," Mrs. Sherri Carter, treasurer and spokesman for Operation Sunshine, "is for a new building. We're having to relocate, to find a new place. But like the Boy's Club, we have a long list of needed equipment. As treasurer, I cannot say for sure how the money will be spent, but I think at least part of it will go for equipment."

Mrs. Carter also expressed appreciation to Whitehurst for the funds given to Operation Sunshine.

Craft said he hoped the new schedule would avoid so many last minute meetings during budget preparation time.

Board members adopted a compulsory attendance law resolution. According to the resolution, the local board recommends that if student absences occur during the school year by request of students' parents, in order that a family trip may take place, it will be deemed as unavoidable by the board and the students will be (Continued On Page 12)

A BIG HELP. . . is what Mrs. Sherri Carter (left) and Mrs. Etsil Gordon called a gift of funds presented by J. C. Whitehurst, Jr. Whitehurst, president of Coastal Chemical Corporation, presented $2,210 to Mrs. Gordon for Pitt County Boys' Club, Inc., and $1,270 to Mrs. Carter for Operation Sunshine. The contribution of $3,480 was provided by Dow Chemical Corp.

Dollar Day

The semi-annual city-wide dollar day event will be held here Thursday.

Sponsored by local merchants, the semi-annual sale gives merchants an opportunity to offer remaining winter merchandise to customers at a savings before putting out the new spring and summer items.

According to Harold Creech, manager of the Greenville Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Associations, free parking will be offered to people shopping in Greenville Thursday.

The sale usually attracts shoppers from all over Eastern North Carolina.

According to Creech, most merchants will be participating in the event.

Junk Mail Is Her Nuisance

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I once made the terrible mistake of sending away for some of those gummed back "name and address stickers," and I have been deluged ever since with catalogs and junk mail from a dozen different gift houses.

This junk mail clutters up my mailbox, and I don't want any of it. I never look at it, I just throw it out.

I wrote to one of these gift houses and asked them to please take my name off their mailing list, and after that I started getting TWO of everything!

I can't look my mailman in the face anymore. One day he had 22 pieces of junk mail for me. I apologized to him and explained that I didn't send for that stuff, but I know he didn't believe me. I even asked HIM how to get off their mailing lists, and he said he didn't know.

I have quit giving to charities that solicit by mail because for every one I give to, I get requests from 10 more.

Can't something be done about mail-order merchants who sell lists of names to other businesses?

ANTI JUNK MAIL

DEAR ANTI: Other than requesting that your name be taken off the list, there is nothing you can do. I'm sorry for your mailman, but if those mail order houses want to spend money on catalogs that are never looked at, and postage to deliver them, it's their loss.

DEAR ABBY: For 26 years I have been married to a man everybody thought was the perfect husband. No one knew the heartaches I suffered silently to keep my family together when my children were small.

Our daughter has been married for three years. She has one sweet baby and another on the way. Recently she confided that she has proof that her husband has been repeatedly unfaithful to her.

I have come very close to telling her that her father did me the same way. Would that be wrong? They say that misery loves company.

KANSAS CITY

DEAR KANSAS CITY: Yes, it would be wrong. If misery loves company, whose "misery" would you be attempting to provide with company? Your daughter's or your own?

DEAR ABBY: You said that most male doctors do not get turned on by an attractive female patient. You're all wet! My ex-wife had a thing going with her doctor for a long time before I caught on. I didn't prosecute because I figured the poor guy had enough trouble being emotionally involved with my wife.

During the last five years I paid enough doctor bills to put another Cadillac in his garage.

Sweetie, you may know a lot about teen-agers, but you had better do a little more research on doctors.

BURNED ONCE

DEAR BURNED: There are exceptions in every profession, but most doctor-patient relationships are strictly professional and there is no fooling around. Too bad yours was a bummer.

Mrs. Elks Honored On 80th Birthday Thursday

GRIMESLAND—Mrs. D. D. (Amy Ham) Elks of Grimesland celebrated her 80th birthday Thursday evening at a party given by her son, C. S. Elks and family at their home here.

Among the 46 family members attending was a special guest, Mrs. Ella Hudson, mother of the honored guest. Present were five generations, which included six great grandchildren, the youngest attending was one-month-old Cheryl Lee Toler.

The party area was decorated in white and red featuring lighted red candles and floral arrangements of red camellias. The party table was covered in red accented by a white and red birthday cake. Centering the table was a white metal candelabra with base epergne filled with red camellias. Fruit punch was poured by Mrs. Evelyn Edwards of Simpson and Mrs. Dallas Boyd of Washington served cake.

During the occasion Mrs. Elks was given a red carnation corsage and gifts from those attending.

Doing Housework Is Now A Joy

By PATRICIA MCCORMACK
UPI Family Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Doing housework is a joy these days for Mrs. Velma Powell.

For a long time Mrs. Powell, a widow from Harvey, Ill., could not get along well. She was crippled by arthritis that made her right shoulder impossible to move.

Mrs. Powell can move that part now, thanks to doctors at Michael Reese Medical Center in Chicago. Without them, the now cheerful former invalid could not be making medical history.

The "cure" is due to a total shoulder artificial bone joint that was implanted in Mrs. Powell's right shoulder by the orthopedic surgeons.

She is the first patient to receive the newly developed prosthesis—the first successful American design for a shoulder replacement.

Plastic and Steel

The artificial part is made of plastic and stainless steel. The cement that holds it together is methyl methacrylate, the stuff of which Lucite, the clear plastic, is made. It is used also as dental glue and in the hip joint replacement operations.

Mrs. Powell had her first operation last June. But when she thought she was fully recovered she became overly ambitious. She tried to move furniture—which was supposed to be a "no-no" until the doctors gave her a go ahead.

She had a setback.

A second operation was necessary. That took place in October. That time, Mrs. Powell paid strict attention to the orders from her doctors. When they gave her the green light for strenuous activity, she demonstrated how fine she was. She did some Indian wrestling with Dr. Saul Haskell, one of her surgeons.

A Waiting List

Several other patients have gone through similar surgery since. About a dozen more are on the waiting list.

The team of doctors also included Dr. Irwin Carson and Dr. Melvin Post, chairman of orthopedics at Michael Reese.

Mrs. Powell is happy that her new joint held up during the Indian wrestling, as the doctors had guaranteed her it would.

She is happiest about being able to do what an ordinary person considers simple things. Dressing herself and carrying out the activities of daily living, unassisted. She couldn't do that before the surgery.

The artificial shoulder joint is registered as experimental with the U.S. Food and Drug Administration. It was developed in conjunction with the Richards Manufacturing Company of Memphis, Tenn.

Torque Forces

The Michael Reese doctors say previous attempts to replace broken shoulder joints have failed in various ways — but essentially for the same reason. The replacement could not survive the tremendous torque forces—which are applied to shoulders. They said when the hand grasps an object and the muscles of the arm lift it, all of the weight pivots on the shoulder joint.

Gentle Care Gives Best Results

Fashion is selling blankets in many areas of the country. There's a variety of blankets in prints, patterns, two-tone solids, coordinates in a wide array of rainbow colors.

Then add to this, the selection of types available. For some, the traditional napped wool blanket is still the old standby. Nylon and wool blends, cotton, rayon or blends with rayon appear and man-made fibers such as Acrilan, Creslan, Dacron, Dynel, Fortrel, Kodol and Orlon have joined the napped blanket scene.

Thermal blankets resembling the crocheted throws of yesteryear are found in synthetics as well as cotton.

The velvet look has been achieved in still another variety—flocked blankets. To accomplish this, short nylon fibers are electrostatically adhered to a thin layer of polyurethane foam. The varieties of patterns and colors are infinite since the nylon is adhered to both sides of the foam.

A must for the outdoor type is the sportsman's blanket. Made of thin polyethylene that is metallized on one side, the blanket is waterproof, wind resistant, tear resistant, lightweight and warm.

With the exception of the sportsman's blanket, all types have a common characteristic—machine wash and dryability. Most electric blankets are also in this category, but be sure to check labels.

Wash blankets gently for the best results. Before starting, it's a good idea to review your laundry equipment books and care instructions for the particular blanket to be laundered. Here are some general guide lines.

Measure a blanket before washing. Pretreat spots and stains with either a liquid detergent or a paste made of granules and water. Abadly soiled binding can be brushed lightly with the same solution.

Fill the washer with warm water and add detergent or soap. Agitate briefly to completely dissolve the product. Stop the machine. Then add the blanket, distributing it loosely and evenly around the agitator.

Soak the blanket for 10 to 15 minutes depending on the amount of soil. Start the washer and turn the dial slowly to the end of the wash cycle when the machine stops agitating, the water drains and spins. Spin for about 11 minutes. Then set the dial for the rinse cycle. Use a cold rinse and allow the washer to complete the rest of the cycle automatically.

The use of a fabric softener, either the kind added to the deep rinse or applied in the dryer, will produce a fluffier, static-free blanket. Again, follow package directions for correct use.

Machine drying for wool blankets should be accomplished quickly. Set dryer at high setting. To remove moisture, place 3 or 4 clean, dry bath towels in the dryer and heat for a few minutes. Then add the blanket and tumble about 10 minutes. Check and remove from dryer while still damp to avoid shrinkage. Stretch blanket to original dimensions and lay flat or over two parallel lines to finish drying.

Dry man-made fiber blankets in dryer set for the permanent press cycle. These blankets may be dried completely but be sure to remove as soon as dry to avoid wrinkling. Brush blankets gently to restore nap and press binding, with a cool iron, if necessary.

To line dry, choose a breezy day and hang blanket in the shade over two parallel lines. Smooth and straighten edges. When partially dry, change the position and straighten again.

A sportsman's blanket needs only a wiping with a damp, sudsy cloth to keep it clean.

Members Tour Green Houses

Members of the Home Pride Garden Club toured the green houses of Sunshine Nursery and Garden Center Wednesday.

Eddie Harrington talked to members about labor-saving chemicals and conducted the tour. He demonstrated seed planting and plant propagation. He told the group that the newest trend in house plants is the use of the hanging basket.

Members were reminded that the horticulture report and the rating sheet must be prepared at the next regular meeting. Guests were Linda Ward and Judy Feimster.

Hostesses were Sally Britt and Pattie Clark. Prior to the nursery center tour, members held a luncheon at the Golden Dragon Restaurant.

When dying fabric be sure it is spotless and laundered before you start.

Continuing Deficit 'Painful'

President Nixon has made public his $304.4 billion budget for the fiscal year 1975-76.

As happens annually, it exceeds anything the nation has previously seen and it represents spending amounting to $1,500 for each man, woman and child in the nation.

As it is projected, it forsee a deficit of $9.4 billion, which means the national debt will be increased still further.

Not only is there a projected deficit, but it could be even larger—much larger. If a recession should threaten, the revenues could drop below estimates and the president has said that he will exceed the budget to forestall a recession.

"The president will not tolerate a recession,"

A Time Bomb In The Sinai

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Despite Israel's comparatively swift and conciliatory agreement with Egypt on the first step back from the Suez Canal, Nixon administration policymakers privately admit growing concern over reluctance by Israel's weakened, post-election government to seriously move toward Phase II of the Sinai pullout.

That concern could lead to a major policy switch here: enlisting active support from oil-short European countries and Japan to help nudge Israel toward a Phase II withdrawal plan.

So far, the U. S. has intentionally played a lone hand throughout post-Yom Kippur war diplomacy to separate the Israeli and Egyptian armies. Although Washington has played that lone hand primarily to keep out the Soviet Union, it has dismayed and even angered U. S. allies.

But with new signs of Israel stubbornly digging in again, the U. S. may call on those allies for help. As one key U. S. diplomat told us: "It is absolutely essential that pressure continue on all sides to make the momentum of the last few weeks seem irresistible."

Moreover, a little noticed time bomb, connected to the Security Council resolution setting up the United Nations force in the western Siani separating Egyptian and Israeli troops, could explode in late April. The time bomb, built into the resolution by the Soviet Union and France, authorizes the UN force for only six months starting Oct. 27, the day it was passed.

The resolution leaves no doubt that the veto by a single member could trigger the removal of the UN force if an extension is needed, as it surely will be, on April 27. Although State Department officials do not talk about this proviso, the Egyptians and their Arab allies most assuredly do. To them, it is insurance against semi-permanent status for the new Israeli defense line 20 miles east of the Suez Canal.

That portends a possible renewal of fighting in the spring. If the Geneva conference (which the U. S. hopes to get into action as soon as possible) fails to bring agreement on Phase II Israeli withdrawal, the UN force cannot be used by Israel as a protective buffer against a second round of the way Egypt started last Oct. 6.

Hence, the importance of keeping up the "momentum" toward agreement. As the successful architect of the new policy starting with last fall's war which has now forced the Israelis back from the canal for the first time since 1967. President Anwar Sadat of Egypt could not afford to extend the April 27 deadlines unless confident that Phase II withdrawal was immutable fixed.

Yet, some high officials here fear Israel's flexibility shown in negotiating the separation-of-forces agreement may be disappearing. These officials say privately that Defense Minister Moshe Dayan has become the conspicuous exception—the only Israeli leader who understands Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's grand strategy.

This is partly due to the decline of Prime Minister Golda Meir's Labor party and the rise of the hawkish right wing, partly to the lack of Israeli consensus on the best course to follow. Lacking strong government and national consensus, Mrs. Meir's still unformed new government may be playing for time, hoping something will upset the Kissinger-Sadat timetable.

But Sadat also nurses a dangerous problem. His 37 hours of totally private talks with Kissinger since last November have raised Arab suspicions that Sadat, pushed by Kissinger, may be moving toward a separate peace with Israel. Since even the appearance of such apostasy would be suicidal, Sadat, (perceived here as a leader of uncommon stature) dares not push too hard for a Phase II Israeli pullback until Syria and Israel agree to separate their combat forces on the Golan Heights.

That decision now hangs on whether Syria agrees to tell Israel everything it knows about Israeli POWs captured (and, Israel has charged, murdered) in the Yom Kippur war. Israel has secretly assured Damascus that once the POW issue is cleared up, it will give Syria a separation-of-forces similar to the Israeli-Egyptian agreement, including Israeli withdrawal from all Syrian territory seized last October.

Odds here are that, even though Syria is one of the most intransigent of Arab states, it will give Kissinger (and Israel) what they want and thereby permit the Geneva conference to open. The spotlight then would be back on Israeli withdrawal from the Sinai, with only a few weeks left before extension of the UN force becomes explosive. Once again, it boils down to quiet U. S. pressure against that Israeli reluctance which so worries policymakers here.

Deputy Budget Director Frederic Malek said. "If it means busting the budget, he will bust the budget to keep people from losing their jobs."

The 1975 fiscal year budget is $29.8 billion over the present fiscal year's budget and, of course, much of this is due to inflation and rapidly increasing energy costs which affects the federal budget as it does.

A bright spot in the budget is the fact that the defense spending as a percentage of the budget is in a decline, while spending for human resources is increasing. Defense spending will still set a new record, though, at $85.8 billion. Social Security, public assistance and health aid will top $100 billion in the new budget.

The continuing trend towards deficits pains us, particularly when we note that seven cents of every federal dollar goes to pay interest in the national debt. We think that more effort should be made to curb deficit spending, particularly in inflationary times such as we are going through. Governmental deficits have much to do with feeding the fires of inflation.

The 55 MPH Fad Had Short Life On Highway

Now that the 55 mile per hour speed limit has been with us for a while, the Highway Patrol reports that it is issuing as many speeding tickets as it did prior to the energy crisis. There had been a drop for a few weeks.

"It appears the dad did not last," Col. E.W. Jones commented.

It is a sure thing, though, that the 55 mile per hour speed limit is the law and the fines will be just as tough to pay as in the pre-energy crisis days.

Sees A Chance At Tax Reform

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Now is not the time to be nibbling away at some taxes, as proposed in the tax cut passed by the North Carolina House of Representatives, members of North Carolinians for Tax Reform feel.

With no major demands facing the state for increased revenue and no need for increased taxes, some members of the House view that tax cut proposal as simply a signal to the governor and a administration: hold, enough.

To State Sen. McNeill Smith of Greensboro, however, it is time to look at alternatives.

"The House tax cut bill has been sent over to the Senate side for us to consider. Now is the time to take a look at it and consider it in the light of alternatives—and perhaps send right back to the House this proposal for tax reform," Smith thinks.

Food Tax Repeal
At the heart of Smith's effort is repeal of the sales tax on food.

"The biggest break the state could give all the people would be repeal of the food tax. That would be better than giving merchants and manufacturers a state refund... on inventories."

Food has doubled since 1961. That's when the three-cent state sales tax went on food. Another penny tax is being collected for local governments as well in most counties, now.

"The food tax comes off the top... the state is making more money on groceries than farmers or merchants. The tax hurts everyone, rich and poor, black and white, and repeal would bring immediate relief to everyone," Smith argues.

The state would lose between $60 million and $65 million if the food tax were eliminated.

The loss would be made up by increasing the income tax on high income brackets, and by hiking taxes on non-essential cigarettes and whiskey.

There have been no increases in income tax rates in 40 years, and such increases were avoided by the sales tax hike, Smith said.

He considers the sales tax regressive—that is, the people with the least income pay the most in taxes. Individuals with incomes under $2,000 a year pay some 27 per cent of that income in taxes. Those earning over $25,000 pay around seven per cent—and it remains constant from there on.

Opposition Heard
Opposition to reform comes from several quarters—principally high income people who would have to pay more income tax; and those who like to see everybody pay some taxes and think a sales tax gets at least some money out of even welfare recipients.

Smith says repeal of the food tax with higher income taxes will mean a savings for lower income levels, and a break-even proposition for those in the $20,000 to $25,000 range. Above that level, it will mean an increase, but Smith thinks those people who have it should pay it, and be grateful for their rewards.

Reformists also worry that the Legislature seems to be nibbling away at the tax structure under pressure from special interest groups: that inventory tax proposal, previous cuts in car rental licenses, trucking licenses, tax reductions on pay for retired military are given as examples.

Food buyers—the average public—do not have lobbyists looking after their interests, Smith said. Major tax reform generally comes only under crisis conditions, the senator said, but that should not be. "These measures ought to be considered on their own merits... and at a time when revenues are coming in above expectations so there is enough on hand to meet basic needs."

To rally public opinion and support, Smith and the organization working for tax reform are circulating a questionnaire to gain reaction and discussion of the problem made—not patched up with wax. If sincere is derived from "wholly separate," then the word designates a person who has no ax to grind—a person who can be objective and unselfish.

Which derivation is correct is probably not as important as the fact that both have value. A sincere person is genuine, not a patched-up imitation. He is also in reality the same as he is in appearance, not a person who regards everything from the point of view of self-interest.

By Elisha Douglass

SINCERITY
If you take the trouble to look up in a dictionary the derivation of the word "sincere," you will find that there is a difference of opinion among authorities. Some hold that it comes from two Latin words meaning "without wax"; others that it comes from a Latin word meaning "wholly separate."

"Without wax" was written on signs which Roman merchants hung over their shops to indicate that their wares, particularly pottery, were bona fide and newly

Vice President's Book

WASHINGTON—"Bob, there's a guy outside who says he's a former Vice President of the United States. He has an idea for a book he wants to publish."

"I've got a lunch date." "He has two Secret Service men with him. I think you'd better see him."

"Okay, send him in." "How do you do? I'm the former Vice President of the United States and I have this idea for a fantastic novel that surely would become a 'book of the month.'"

"Could you give me some idea of what it's about?"

"Well, it takes place in 1983, and it's the story of a Vice President of the United States who is brainwashed by the Chinese when he goes to Afghanistan. He is programmed to take over our country."

"Gosh, we have three books like that right now. I don't think we'd be interested."

"Well, what about a story on a Vice President who wants to fly, and everybody says he can't fly. But he's going to prove them wrong. Every night he jumps off the roof and falls. But finally one night he starts flapping his arms and, by God, he's soaring in the air."

"It has possibilities, but I'm not certain it's our kind of book."

"All right, then I've got another idea. The devil gets into this Vice President and makes him do a say terrible things. A priest is called in by the President and asked to exorcise the devil out of the VP. The priest in a very dramatic scene forces the devil out of the Vice President and into his own body and dies."

ART BUCHWALD

"Yes, it's not a bad idea, but we stopped publishing devil books last year. I'm afraid our list for 1974 is complete."

"Listen, I have lots of ideas. There's this Vice President of the United States and he tells how to be his own best friend. It's an uplifting book which would bring joy and inspiration to millions of people."

"I'll discuss it at our next meeting, but please don't get your hopes up."

"If you don't like that, how about 'The Ex-Vice President's Diet Revolution.' It's a diet which permits people to eat all the fat they want, as long as they don't consume any carbohydrates."

"We're up to our hips in diet books."

"All right. Let me try this one out on you, 'The Vice President's Joy of Sex.' It would be a frank book about how people could get more out of their sex lives, illustrated and sold for $12.95."

"I really have a luncheon date, sir. Could you drop me a (Continued on page 5)

Public Forum

To the editor: Few people would go out of their way to refuse a raise. But I believe we should ask our Senators and Congresspeople to do so.

According to a recent Reflector story, the President has budgeted a seven percent raise for high government officials this year and the next and the next. Even if the Cost-of-Living Council raised the wage guidelines over the present 5 percent for everyone, most of us wouldn't get it. We aren't too likely to get five percent. For many of us the checks will be smaller or there won't be any at all. And we don't start from salaries of $4.87 or $6.85 an hour, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, as Senators and Cabinet members do.

A commentator recently criticized the President for taking a commercial flight to California instead of Air Force One, which was "provided for and befit(ted) the President." I think that Mr. Nixon was right. And it would befit all our government officials to live more like the people they represent instead of trying to keep up with the Onassis.

Edith Webber

These raises will automatically occur in 30 days unless Congress introduces and votes legislation to stop them. This is not likely to happen unless it hears from many constituents.

Aquaculture Has Few Limits

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — It takes 10 pounds of feed to produce one pound of cattle flesh. Hogs can be raised on a 4-1 ratio, poultry at the rate of 2.5 pounds of feed for each pound of flesh.

But fish, because of advances in the science of aquaculture, or fish farming, can now be raised on a 1.5-1 ratio, making them the most efficient converters of animal feed to human food.

Advances such as this made well for some of the world's underdeveloped, protein-poor nations, especially if they can be trained in the latest techniques. In fact, it offers hope for all people.

As food prices rise, the efficiency of fish physiology is increasingly appreciated by the world's populations. Fish consumption is rising. In the United States it jumped from 10.6 pounds in 1967 to 12.2 in 1972.

The problem, however, is that there is also a growing shortage of fish. Some species, such as haddock, are nearly fished out in some areas. More are likely to suffer the same fate.

With aquaculture, however, there appears to be no limit on supply. The environment is controlled and the fish are brought to maturity on a regular schedule. Nothing is unexpected.

Well over 60,000 acres, mainly in Mississippi, now are given over to raising catfish in ponds. Trout are farmed in Pennsylvania, Arkansas, Montana and Idaho. Salmon are raised on the Washington coast.

The yields from these artificial environments are almost beyond comprehension.

In pond culture, which has been used for 3,000 years, 2,500 pounds of catfish can be raised on an acre. The art still is rather primitive: the pond is stocked, the fish grow, the fish are netted.

Trout culture now uses water raceways instead of ponds, thus increasing the flow of oxygen to the fish and raising production to what once seemed an incredible total of about 100,000 pounds of fish per acre.

In the past few years, however, a small but innovative company, Marine Protein Corp., developed a system of growing trout in deep silos and achieved production that recalls the parable of the loaves and the fish. It claims to be able to produce more than one million pounds per surface acre.

Keen Buss, vice president, general manager and operator of the company's Millheim, Pa., research laboratory, estimates the density at about one pound of fish per gallon of water.

The fish, all descended from superior strains, live in a spring water environment through which oxygen is forced. The fish obtain nourishment by tripping a feeder.

Travel Can Be A Joy

By WILLIAM G. WILLIAMS Associated Press Writer PHILADELPHIA (AP)—

Federal energy officials say gasoline restrictions will force motorists to switch to trains, buses and car pools.

Some motorists face that future with alarm. They don't like crowds, schedules and delays.

But... sit back, relax and enjoy the ride. Mass commuting has its lighter moments too, so long as they don't happen to you.

Take the homebound workman who realized too late the train was at his stop. Running down the aisle, he got to the door in time to wave to his waiting wife as the train pulled away.

"Pick me up at the next stop," he yelled. When he got off, several miles up the track, he muttered, "Boy, is she gonna raise hell when she gets here."

Some-riders get mixed up on their mode of travel. A businessman, arising too late to catch his morning train, drove to work. At the end of the day, he routinely marched off to the train station and boarded the 4:50. In the parking lot at his suburban stop, he remembered his car was back in the city.

Two hours, two train rides and one car ride later, he arrived home for supper, told his wife he had worked late and dropped the subject.

Train commuters are a special breed. One of their great joys lies in needing conductors.

One hurried conductor, urging riders to move into a crowded car, heard someone yell: "Don't let the conductor back on unless he has a ticket."

Commuters who ride buses are quieter and more relaxed. At least they are until they get that feeling that overcame one rider recently leaving the city for suburbia.

By SUSAN PRICE February 6, 1934

Dr. H. O. Sargent, of the Federal Vocational Department in Washington, D. C., spent several hours in Greenville today after making an inspection of a vocational school in Grimesland.

Dr. Sargent said he was highly gratified with the work being accomplished by the people at the school.

Farmers who agreed to pool their cotton with the government this year were notified today that checks totaling $20,000 awaited them in the office of Pitt County Farm Department Director E. P. Arnold.

Arnold said the checks represent the loans made by the government to growers who agreed to sign the government's cotton reduction contracts this year. They carry four cents a pound on the staple.

Tenants will be required to bring their landlords to the office before they may pick up their checks.

Hopes Over Venus Data

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Scientists have more than 1,000 new close-up photos of the planet Venus in hand, and more are expected from Mariner 10 as the spacecraft speeds on toward Mercury.

Scientists at the Jet Propulsion Laboratory here plan to advance some tentative conclusions about the Venusian data for newsmen Thursday, but they say final judgments might be months away.

Mariner will continue beaming back photos of the cloud-shrouded planet through Feb. 22.

The Mariner scientists hope the approximately 5,000 photos they get of Venus, coupled with other experimental data accumulated as the spacecraft went by, will add to their knowledge of the planet and its atmosphere.

Such information may one day prove valuable in learning more about the atmosphere on earth, they say.

The Venus encounter was only a secondary mission in the $98-million Mariner 10 project. The 1,108-pound spacecraft is headed for Mercury and is scheduled to arrive there March 29.

line about your ideas?"

"Wait, I'm not finished. I've had this idea for some time. There's this Vice President who is really a godfather and he has this family and there's another family trying to move in on his territory. So he orders a contract out on the other family, and you have this big gang war in Washington, D.C."

"It's got possibilities, sir, but I doubt if it would sell."

"Well, what kind of book would you be interested in?"

"Just off the top of my head, we would be in the market for a nonfiction book about a Vice President who was a former governor of a state. During the course of an investigation of some contractors in the state, it's revealed that the Vice President took kickbacks from the contractors. Faced with the evidence, the Vice President is forced to resign the second highest office in the land. Would you be interested in writing that story?"

"I'm sorry, I couldn't write that kind of book. I wouldn't know where to begin."

ticed the bus was traveling on a strange road. "Whoa, let me off," he screamed. "I'm on the wrong bus."

"Relax," the driver assured him. "There was an accident up ahead. We're just going 'round the block."

Car pool riders are the coolest. One group of four men, all employed by the same firm, were going home on payday. They had crossed a bridge and were approaching a toll gate when the driver realized he didn't have enough for the 60-cent toll.

"Hey, can you guys help me out? It's kinda embarrassing but I only got a dime."

His passengers had, among them, 19 credit cards, a good luck penny embedded in a metal plate, their uncashed paychecks and 27 cents. The toll taker took the driver's name, address and license number, told him to pay the next morning, shook his head and waved them through.

Ah, the joys of a traveling man!

With the Red Cross bloodmobile coming to Greenville on February 12, the Greenville Moose are again cranking up their machinery to help fill a recurring deficit in the county's blood bank account.

"We're 266 pints behind Pitt County's quota as of this date," says Bloodmobile chairman J. D. Parker, "and we are to give 116 pints each day's visit, just to keep even. That means we have a long, long way to go next week if we're going to put a dent in the accumulated deficit."

Parker was designated by Moose lodge Governor Garland Beddard to direct the lodge's campaign to solicit donors for the forthcoming bloodmobile visit. He is being assisted by Francis Tyson and O. J. Smith, both experienced in civic projects undertaken by the fraternity.

The Feb. 12 bloodmobile visit is being sponsored by the Moose.

"We're in the process of contacting all the organizations and individuals we can reach," says Parker, "urging them to send donors and come themselves. This particular visit poses some unique problems in that we have to round up so many donors to be processed in the one six-hour day.

Parker added that telephone teams will resort to the blood donor index to supplement the ranks of the unlisted who will be contributing blood Tuesday.

"It seems like only yesterday," he said, "that we were on the top of the blood bank program. It took just a few poor donor days to throw us behind. We're fortunate there has been a good interval since the last Greenville visit, so that regular donors are in a position to come out again."

One recent change in Red Cross regulations governing the giving of blood may have a significant effect. In the past, no one who had had malaria or had stayed in a malarial zone could be accepted. Now, individuals who have had malaria can give blood if they have had no relapse in the past three years; and persons who had been in a malarial zone and have not had malaria in the past three years are now accepted.

Beddard reminded his bloodmobile committeemen that "the need for blood and plasma is just as pressing at Pitt Memorial Hospital as it has ever been. Fulfilling the 116-pint quota and putting a meaningful dent in the county's blood bank deficit is one of the good things our community can do for itself."

No Word On Hearst Girl Abduction

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Police report some progress in the nationwide search for kidnaped newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst. Her father pleaded for word from her abductors.

"We want our daughter back unharmed," Randolph A. Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner, said Tuesday.

"If she is released, we will not seek to imprison her abductors. We plead with them to communicate with us direct or through the press."

Miss Hearst, 19-year-old granddaughter of the late William Randolph Hearst, founder of the Hearst newspaper and magazine publishing empire, was kidnaped from her Berkeley apartment Monday night amid a barrage of gunfire.

Her fiance, Steven A. Weed, was beaten brutally. The young couple were engaged in December and planned to wed in early summer.

Police said there has been no word on Miss Hearst's whereabouts and no ransom note.

"Some progress is being made, but nothing to lead us to believe it will lead us to an early conclusion," Berkeley Police Lt. Henry C. Sanders said.

John Kelly, assistant special FBI agent in San Francisco, said, "No ransom has been requested as far as we know. The presumption is that they have gone over state lines."

Kelly refused to elaborate.

Authorities scoured the tree-lined neighborhood where Miss Hearst lived about one-quarter mile south of the University of California campus. The wall beside her apartment was marked by bullet holes, and the sliding glass front door was shattered.

Police said a young white woman knocked at the apartment Monday night and Weed, 26, opened the door. The young visitor said she had been in an auto accident and asked to use the telephone. Weed said he refused.

Police said two black men then rushed through the door and beat Weed, mauled a neighbor who ran to help and dragged a screaming Miss Hearst to a nearby stolen car. She was thrown into the trunk of the vehicle.

Alioto's Wife Says Her Absence A 'Punishment'

By EDITH M. LEDERER
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Angelina Alioto says she felt neglected by her candidate-husband, Mayor Joseph L. Alioto, so she took off alone on an 18-day religious pilgrimage to punish him.
"I think my family needed a little punishment," the petite 58-year-old grandmother told newsmen at her Presidio Heights home Tuesday after being reunited with the mayor.

Mrs. Alioto, her blonde hair piled high, said she became jealous of the mayor's lack of attention during an Italian-American golf tournament dinner honoring Alioto in Palm Springs Jan. 18. She attended the dinner with her son, Lawrence, and his wife, Ann.

"We felt we were stepchildren that night. We were completely ignored. I thought we were an asset. He was trying to hide us," she said.
"Then he left that evening and came back to San Francisco and left me with my son and daughter-in-law, who were supposed to be on their second honeymoon.

"He should have made me come back with him or stayed with me. So it was pure jealousy. It left me with anguish and in my anguish I decided to take off.

She said she left La Siesta
Villas, an exclusive $100-a-day hotel, and spent the next 18 days visiting 14 California missions from San Diego to Santa Cruz. After she heard a radio report Monday that she had disappeared, she phoned Alioto.
In a question-and-answer session, Mrs. Alioto described the problems of a political marriage: being at home alone, never being asked about major decisions in your husband's career and not being told the whole truth.

"I love my husband very much and it's a very happy and successful marriage personally

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Wednesday, February 6, 1974—7
— most gratifying," she said.
"As far as the political angle, I don't know."
Had Mrs. Alioto, the mother of six children and grandmother of 11, ever thought about leaving Alioto?
"Oh, hasn't every woman at one time or other?" she replied with a little laugh. "Why, that's a great pastime."
Had she asked Alioto to drop out of the race for the Democratic nomination for governor?
"Absolutely not — that's not my prerogative. That's his," she replied. "He didn't ask me when he ran for mayor, and he didn't ask me if he should run for governor. I mean, it would be nice to be asked."
Alioto, sitting at her side, said he was in the race to stay.
Argentina is almost as long as the United States is wide.

Study Groups In Antarctic

By ROBERT C. MILLER
 McMURDO STATION, Antarctica (UPI) — With drill bits and helicopters, microscopes and swim fins, man is probing the Antarctic, slowly turning the key to the ice-locked secrets, of the world's coldest continent.

More than a thousand scientists, technicians, specialists and servicemen work under the never-setting sun of the Antarctic summer in temperatures that often rise to sun-bathing warmth. But only a few dozen continue the "wintering over" work when temperatures drop to nearly 100 degrees below zero and hurricane winds tear across the always-dark continent.

During the 1973-74 season some 65 research projects have been started by the Americans, in cooperation with New Zealand, Japan, the USSR, Australia, Norway and the Argentine. The National Science Foundation (NSF) projects range from studies of the ionosphere to core drillings through the 1200-foot thick Ross Ice Shelf. In addition to the nearly $24 million being spent by the NSF, other nations, principally the USSR, New Zealand and Australia, are carrying out independent programs of their own.

This year's studies include everything from the love life of seals to the propagation of very low frequency signals hundreds of miles aloft into the magnetosphere (a region of the upper atmosphere).

Leon Oliver and his crew of nine New Zealand drillers live in tents and work behind the protection of a plywood barricade as they core drill the mysterious "dry valleys" of the Transantarctic Range. The drilling goes on continuously in the wind-swept valleys which are miraculously free of snow the year round. The frozen drill cores are the first ever taken from hundreds of feet below the continent. They are shipped to scientists at Florida State and Northern Illinois Universities, and are giving geologists their first glimpse of the glacial and pre-glacial structures of this section of the Antarctic.

Fish with Antifreeze
 Simultaneously subsurface temperatures are being taken from the bores along with the detection and measurement of any radioactivity in the penetrated structures.

While Oliver probes the dry valleys, marine biologist Arthur DeVries and his Taiwan-born wife, Yuan, are probing the 1,600-foot deep Ross Sea where 100 pound Dissostichus mawsoni, a cod-like fish that carries its own antifreeze compound, are being caught and studied. The huge fish have become the gourmet's delight at McMurdo, and its trout-like flavor is delicious.

Dr. DeVries and his Scripps Institute of Oceanography team have found that fish living in Antarctic waters have evolved an antifreeze compound similar to ethylene glycol used in car radiators. They also are working with scuba teams to scour the shallow areas of the Ross Sea for the marine biological specimens that make the Antarctic seas the world's richest.

For the first time drilling teams are attempting to bore through the 1200 foot Ross Ice Shelf, then penetrate the sea floor into the fossil sediments below. The project under way at latitude 82.5 south and 166 west longitude is being carried out by scientists from the University of Nebraska who say virtually nothing is known of the geology beneath the ice shelf.

Offshore drilling by the deep sea drilling vessel Glomar Challenger is expected to retrieve geological samples from the Ross Sea and adjoining areas which have never been explored previously.

Women Scientists
 For the first time in Antarctic history two American women will winter over at the McMurdo station. Dr. Mary A. McWhinnie of Oak Park, Ill., and Sister Mary Odile Cahoon of Duluth, Minn., will spend the winter studying the krill, a shrimp-like animal endemic to Antarctic waters which serves as the main food supply for penguins, seals and large fish. Both are biologists from DePaul University at Chicago.

"Geologists are now convinced that the continent was once tied in with Australia, New Zealand and South America and probably South Africa. There are coal deposits and other examples of a mild, temperate climate. So far however, there has been no evidence of mineral wealth in the Antarctic.

Geologists are certain that many of the minerals found in the Andes exist in some of the Antarctic ranges, but little or no commercial research has been undertaken as yet. NSF scientists point out that even if found in commercially-exploitable quantities, the cost of extracting copper or iron ores from the region would probably be too expensive to develop.

At the American South Pole station the National Weather Service is conducting surface and high altitude tests of the polar atmosphere for clues to how Antarctic weather affects meteorological conditions in the Southern hemisphere and the rest of the world.

A NASA scientific satellite will be launched into polar orbit in May and will be monitored by a U.S. Geological Survey crew at the pole.

Wide Variety In Italian Pasta

ROME (UPI) — Italian pasta comes in more than 120 shapes and sizes, each with its own name, and Italians want things to stay that way.

A pasta maker's spokesman said a market survey a few years ago showed housewives were overwhelmingly against a suggestion to reduce the variety of pasta to six or eight types.

"Everyone chooses sizes as if it were a vital matter," he said.

Driving Habits Said Unchanged

DALLAS (UPI) — A few people in Dallas may be driving on freeways at 50 miles an hour but police have been hard put to find them.

City Councilwoman Adlene Harrison says the fuel crisis hasn't changed the driving habits of Dallas residents at all. The council says it may consider making 50 miles an hour the top legal speed on freeways.

No Radiation At A-Bomb Site

SANTA FE, N.M. (UPI) — There apparently is no radiation hazard for persons visiting "Trinity Site" in southern New Mexico, according to the New Mexico Environmental Improvement Agency.

Trinity Site is the location, about 30 miles west of Carrizozo, where the United States detonated the first atomic bomb July 16, 1945.

Reading Given Priority In VISTA Work

By JERRY RAYNOR
 Exposure to more books and the ability to read is at the heart of a Pitt County VISTA project headed by VISTA volunteer Christine Power.

"Our major concern," Miss Power said, "is the truant school child. We want to get children, educators, parents interested in the kind of material that will hold the interest of these children. Many of them drop out by the fourth grade."

As a starter in what is hoped to become a city and county wide continuing "Reading Is Fundamental" project, Miss Power in a recent letter to some 200 national book publishers asked for contributions of books. "I'm encouraged by the early response I've had," she said. "Already some 350 books have been received, fiction and non-fiction, books at both the elementary and high school reading level." And she pointed out it has been only four weeks since she first sent letters to the publishers.

"The most encouraging thing of all, however," Miss Power said, "is the tremendous response shown by the children. Right now we're meeting twice weekly, on Monday and Wednesday. Eventually we hope to have the project available several hours every day."

The pilot attempt is being held at Moyewood with Mrs. Virginia Vines taking care of much of the work there.

In effect, Miss Power explained, the "Reading Is Fundamental" project is more than simply providing books alone for young readers who may not have access to books in their home or may not be able to use the library services in the city or county as extensively as they need to.

"The main idea is for this beginning to work into a study center with mini-libraries available in several low income areas. Anything we can do to reach the young drop out is what we're seeking."

She finds it hopeful that the youngsters in need of this service are showing eagerness to be active in helping get the program underway. "It's not just a matter of their being willing to sit back and wait for hand-outs of books. A number of them have offered to help with practical things like building shelves and going out to seek donations of paint. Things like that will make the project much more meaningful to them because they will be doing things to help themselves."

Miss Power feels that the combined initiative of children, educators and parents will make the difference in whether the program will grow and be meaningful. "Input stimulates development," she said.

Once the program is fairly well established at Moyewood, tentative plans are to get a similar program started in the Kearney Park area as a second study-reading center.

"We can always use extra help," Miss Power added. "Skills or special training are not necessary. We do plan to hold weekly workshops for those interested in attending them."

Interested persons are asked to contact Miss Power at 758-5703 during the day or at 756-4724 during the evening.

Music Festival Auditions Ready

Auditions dates and sites of the 1974 Eastern Music Festival for music students between the ages of 12 and 20 have been announced by Joseph Thayer, Director of Admissions for the festival. These are:

Wed. and Thurs., Feb. 6 and 7: Greensboro, 712 Summit Ave., United Arts Council Building. By appointment only, call (area code 919) 274-3444.

Mon. Feb. 11: Raleigh, at Raleigh Youth Orchestra rehearsal.

Thurs. Feb. 14: Winston-Salem, North Carolina School of the Arts, Waughtown Road, between 1:00 and 6:00 p.m.

Sat. Mar. 2: Greensboro, Greensboro Youth Orchestra rehearsal, UNC-G Music Bldg., bandroom, beginning 10:00 a.m.

Mon. Mar. 4: Charlotte, Charlotte Youth Orchestra rehearsal.

Students interested in audition are asked to be ready to perform a short prepared piece and to do scales and sight-reading as part of the audition.

In addition to the announced audition dates and time, students may set up an appointment with Thayer by calling him at the Eastern Music Festival office (919-274-3444) or by writing to the festival office at 712 Summit Avenue, Greensboro, 27405.

About 200 young musicians from all over the U. S. will be selected to attend the 1974 festival and will perform in one of the two youth orchestras as well as participate in ensemble playing and master classes.

Among artists-in-residence slated for the 1974 season are pianist Leon Fleisher; cellist Leonard Rose; and Elliot Chappo, former festival student now Concertmaster of the New York Philharmonic.

Army Promoted Ballpoint Pens

CHICAGO (UPI) — Ballpoint pens got a push into popularity from the U.S. Army.

The first commercial model, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica, appeared in 1895. But it wasn't until about 1944 that the ballpoint pen gained world-wide acceptance.

The impetus for the pen's acceptance among Americans was supplied by the Army quartermaster general who requested a writing instrument that contained a large supply of quick-drying ink and would not leak in high altitudes.

Health Insurance Plan Ready To Be Sent Congress

By JOHN STOWELL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is ready to send Congress his new $37.5-billion national health insurance plan that guarantees the same basic medical benefits for rich and poor alike.

The President planned to include specific legislation with today's health message to speed action in this session of Congress, after years of discussion and debate.
"Let us act sensibly and let us act now in 1974," Nixon said in an address Tuesday to the American Hospital Association convention.
A dozen major health insurance bills already have been introduced in Congress by organizations representing big labor, doctors, hospitals, private insurance companies and the majority of the Senate Finance Committee.

Many other bills reflect variations of the major proposals or tackle smaller parts of the problem of spiraling health-care costs, which topped $94 billion in fiscal year 1973. Without mentioning it by name, Nixon singled out for attack in his AHA speech the cradle-to-grave insurance bill sponsored by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., and supported by organized labor.

The President argued against what he called "an extreme program that would require $80 billion to $100 billion in federal funds and would place the entire health care system under the dominion of social planners in Washington."

He said the administration's plan would "preserve and strengthen our present health care system, not destroy it," by relying upon private insurance companies and having doctors "work for their patients, not for the federal government."

He said his new plan, generally considered broader than the administration's proposal three years ago, would cover hospitalization, doctors' services, prescription drugs, laboratory tests, X rays, medical devices, ambulance service and limited skilled nursing home care and treatment for mental illness, alcoholism and drug abuse.

The plan has three parts: mandatory insurance coverage for workers with employers paying two-thirds of the premiums; government-subsidized coverage, on a sliding scale based on ability to pay for the poor, working poor and high-risk cases; and continuation of federal Medicare for the aged and disabled.
Employees would have to pay one-third of their premiums and 25 per cent of medical bills up to a maximum of $1,500 a year, beyond which insurance would pay all expenses.

Narrow Win By Demo In Pa. Election

By WILLIAM DI MASCIO
Associated Press Writer
JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (AP) — Democrat John P. Murtha, Jr. has won a narrow victory in a special congressional election in which the Watergate scandal played a shadowy role.

Murtha's unofficial, 220-vote winning margin over Republican Harry M. Fox on Tuesday snapped a 25-year Republican hold on the state's 12th Congressional District.

Murtha, a 41-year-old Vietnam veteran and state legislator, will finish out the unexpired term of the late Republican Rep. John P. Saylor. Saylor, who served 12½ terms, died of a heart attack last October. Fox, 49, was Saylor's administrative assistant.

Complete unofficial returns gave Murtha 60,530 votes and Fox 60,310. Constitutional party candidate Duane H. McCormick, a 70-year-old retired businessman, trailed with less than 1,000.

The ballots were put under guard until the official count Friday.

The race, the first federal election this year, drew national attention as a possible indicator of Watergate's impact on off-year congressional elections this November.

The close balloting made it virtually impossible to tell whether there was a voter reaction against the Nixon administration.

Murtha, who operates a car wash, said the economic issues facing this Appalachian region of soft-coal mines, truck farms and steel mills were the overriding concerns of the voters.

But he also acknowledged Watergate.

"I know the people were very disgruntled with what was going on in Washington, and I'm sure it helped me some," Murtha said.

Fox, on the other hand, said the national news media had distorted the election.

"They came in here and brought Watergate into this campaign," Fox said. "This election clearly showed that Watergate was not involved at all."

Vice President Gerald R. Ford had cautioned during a campaign visit for Fox against reading a Watergate reaction into a Murtha triumph because Republicans were outnumbered by almost 8,000 voters in the district 70 miles east of Pittsburgh.

Dog's Friend: A Seeing-Eye Man

PORT WASHINGTON, N.Y. (AP) — Jamie the dog has a seeing-eye man.

The man, Ed Bostick, leads his blind terrier around the block twice a day. Jamie gets along quite well by himself indoors and in spite of his affliction seems happy. Now 10 years old and looking something like a small, closely-sheared sheep, he went blind two years ago with cataracts.

Bostick once considered having the cataracts removed. A veterinarian decided, however, that spectacles which must be worn after such an operation would not be practical in Jamie's case.

Jamie's predecessor, Randy, wore a hearing aid. But that's another story.

Another Meeting On Med School Said Scheduled

RALEIGH—Pitt Rep. Horton Rountree said Wednesday that signers of a bill introduced two weeks ago in the General Assembly, calling for the expansion of the East Carolina University medical school, plan to meet this week "to see where we are."

for expansion of the medical school said, "We're going to try to get together this week... prior to the board meeting Friday (a meeting of the University of North Carolina Board of Governors)... to see where we are."

well as get the legislature off the hook."

He said the referendum "is really not endorsed by the backers of the Huskinsbill (Rep. Jay Huskins, D-Iredell introduced the ECU expansion bill in the House two weeks ago)."

He explained that the Eagles bill calls for referendum that if approved would result in $60 million "for a free-standing (separate school from the University of North Carolina medical school) four year ECU medical school."

"It sounds great on the face of it, but when you start submitting the issue to the people, it gets all involved in local politics and other bond issues...and the $60 million is more than requested by ECU," according to Rountree.

He noted, "If there were complete support for it from the Board of Governors it might be acceptable, But if they lobby and politic and fight against it, I don't see any reason for having it. I think the Legislature ought to take the bull by the horns and go on with it."

Rountree noted that the Scott-Stewart proposal basically would appropriate the money to build a building (a basic medical science building at ECU) and direct the board of governors to upgrade the first year and proceed to a second year (medical program at ECU) without putting a time-table on it."

The legislator noted that there is "possibly another bill coming through... an omnibus health education bill...for medical education and Area Health Education Centers...probably coming from the West."

He noted that talk of such a bill has been heard, but so far no bill circulated.

Rountree noted "it looks like Republicans might hold the balance" in any legislative battle to expand the medical program at East Carolina. "There are several uncommitted," he noted.

The law-maker added that polls conducted in several counties indicate that the general public is favorable to expansion at ECU.

School Bd. . . .

excused. Therefore, any request of absence granted by the principal in honor of parental request should be granted as an excuse absence.

It was stated further that if the teacher or principal believes that certain trips may be correlated with subject matter, oral reports may be made for grade points.

The board said that under no circumstances would there be deduction of grade points for an excused absence. All unexcused absences will be handled by the principal at his discretion.

A student who is tardy for as many as three times for a class during a six-week marking period will be considered as an excused tardy. Four or more tardies will be considered unexcused and shall be left to the principal to handle.

Permission was granted for Mrs. Beverly Wilson, French teacher at D. H. Conley High School, and six of her students to make a trip to France during the Easter holidays. The group will be gone on three school days. The board agreed to pay the cost of the substitute for Mrs. Wilson for the three days.

Board members approved the principal workday to run from 7:45 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. The principals had been ending their workdays at 5 p.m. However, the board emphasized the new schedule would not remove the necessity for each administrator to spend as many hours beyond the official workday as needed in bringing about a totally effective program of education in his school.

Board members renewed the insurance program coverage with the Division of Insurance, State Board of Education, with a total insured value of $15,905,700, which includes $1,881,700 for contents. The county school buildings are insured for 80 percent of their total value.

All nonprofessional workers, except lunchroom and transportation workers, were granted a five percent cost-of-living increase by the Pitt County Commissioners, retroactive Jan. 1.

Lunchroom workers were excluded from the salary increase because commissioners felt the lunchroom program is a local program and should be handled as such. Transportation workers are primarily paid by the State and their salary schedule is set up by the State.

Board members reviewed Chapter J of the policy manual yesterday. The chapter, involving students, includes such subjects as attendance, entrance age, enrollment, assignments and registration, explanation of high school levels, transfers, absences, early dismissals, code of conduct, dress code, smoking, student disruption, discipline and student morale, insurance, student activities, field trips, awards, married and pregnant students.

Rationing Is Left States

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal energy chief William E. Simon "today urged states beset by gasoline shortages to implement rationing on their own."

"This is a problem that remains of a spotty nature around the country. It's six or seven states that are presently experiencing problems," Simon said on the NBC-TV "Today" program.

Conservation measures appear to be keeping ahead of the present shortages, Simon said, but he suggested rationing to the governors of states affected by the shortages because "we cannot implement gas rationing from Washington on a regional basis."

The gasoline allocation program is attempting to create new centers for distribution of the fuel, but "no allocation program is going to cure any shortage," said Simon.

Referring to the strike of independent truckers, Simon said, "We are attempting to create our own distribution systems to pump in the gasoline as rapidly as possible and the trucker problem is hurting us here."

Simon has told congressional conferees that their rollback in oil prices would make continued production unprofitable for many oil companies.

Couple Fined For Assault

GREENSBORO (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service says a man and wife have been fined and put on probation for two years for threatening and assaulting an IRS agent during an investigation of their tax records.

It identifies them as Mr. and Mrs. Thos E. Taylor of Fayetteville and says he operated a home improvement business.

Two Leases Signed For Parking Areas In Farmville

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
FARMVILLE—Two leases of the five needed have been drawn for the two parking areas to be developed by the Town downtown here, Town Attorney Jack Lewis reported.

He said the others are "only an hour away."

The two areas will provide 102 extra parking spaces for customers of downtown businesses.

A note from Rep. Sam Bundy said Farmville's bill for city limit extension has passed the House 117 to 0, and should take about two weeks in the Senate.

The building inspector was given the go-ahead to obtain court orders to force the occupants of five condemned houses to vacate them. The owners are in agreement, he said, but the tenants won't leave. He said all the structures are health hazards, most having no toilet facilities or even running water. The addresses are 528 S. George St., 709 S. George St., 213 W. Perry St., 702 S. George St., and 706 S. Walnut St.

The resolution pertaining to the sale of water bonds was certified. A sanitary sewer bond election, set for Feb. 16, is being publicized locally, Commissioner Irving Morgan reported.

Upon the recommendation of the Town Engineer, an estimated payment of $2,628 to Hendrix-Barnhill was approved. The company has been laying water lines for the Town.

New recreation director, Mike Waters, was introduced. He expressed his pleasure at working with the Town, and excused himself to attend to a men's basketball league game.

The Town agreed to be the purchaser and the licensee of the new truck the Farmville Rural Firemen's Association plans to buy soon. The Association has raised approximately $22,000 for the purchase.

Mrs. Nina King appeared and asked what has happened to a petition circulated by her mother, Mrs. Florence Rickard for the paving of Cotton Street from George to Fields Streets. She was told that the matter would be checked on today.

Dean Fighting Disbarment

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — John W. Dean III, President Nixon's official lawyer for nearly three years and then his chief accuser, is going before a three-judge panel to fight against disbarment.

The Virginia State Bar, charging Dean with violating a lawyer's ethics, asked the panel to take appropriate disciplinary action. That could include a reprimand, suspension or losing the right to practice law.

Dean, 35, pleaded guilty last October to conspiring to obstruct justice and defraud the United States by participating in the cover-up of the Watergate scandal. Thus he stands convicted of a felony.

The bar association charged that Dean "while serving as counsel to the President of the United States from July 1970 through mid-April 1973 violated the canons of ethics by engaging in conduct that was prejudicial to and in obstruction of the administration of justice."

Commonwealth attorney William Conhig, representing the bar association in the action, said the association's case is based mainly on Dean's guilty plea to a felony. He said he would ask for no specific action by the court.

The federal conspiracy charges against Dean, wrapped into one count in return for his testimony against others, included paying hush money to the original Watergate defendants, offering leniency and clemency and interfering with investigations.

He could be sentenced to a maximum five years in prison and fined $10,000.

Scout Earns Eagle Badge

During a special God and Country Service at Trinity Free Will Baptist Church Sunday, Murray D. Adams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Heber R. Adams, received the Eagle Scout Award.

Presiding over the Court of Honor was East Carolina Council Field Director Robert Mosley. Garland Buck, Pitt District Commissioner, assisted him in the ceremony.

Adams has been active in scouting for eight years, three as a Cub Scout and five as a Boy Scout. He has served as a Patrol Leader of the Buffalo Patrol for three years.

His other activities include participation in Junior Leader Training and membership in the Order of the Arrow.

Mrs. Adams presented the award to her son, who remembered her with a miniature replica of the badge. Mrs. Adams was also presented a long-stemmed red rose.

Ordinance Asks Cats Be Belled

DEERFIELD BEACH, Fla. (AP) - The city commission has passed an ordinance requiring cats to wear bells.

Commissioners adopted the motion in a 3-2 vote after a local Audubon Society member protested that silent cats were decimating the bird population of the Florida Gold Coast city. Pet owners who fail to tie a bell to their cats can be fined $25.

But Police Chief William Neal has his doubts about enforcing the ordinance. He said cats that ring their bells after 10 p.m. could be violating the city's antinoise ordinance.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets were unchanged and steady Tuesday. Supplies fully adequate, demand fairly good. Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 79.73, medium whites 77.72, small whites 72.82.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — Corn and soybeans were slightly weaker on the state's leading grain markets Tuesday. No. 2 yellow shelled corn was quoted at 2.85-2.96, mostly 2.90-2.92 per bushel. No. 1 yellow soybeans were mostly 6.15-6.24 per bushel.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hogs were steady to 50 cents lower today, with instances of 75 cents lower. Tops of 41.75-42.75 at Kingston, Benson and Lumberton; 41.00-41.50 Rocky Mount; 39.00-41.00 Wilson and High Falls; 39.25-39.75 Tarboro and Bethel; 42.00 Clinton and Dunn; 40.00 Salisbury. Closed until further notice due to truck strike: Elizabethton, Pink Hill, Pine Level, Chadbourne, Ayden and Laurinburg.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina f.o.b. dock broilers: Market unsettled today with live supplies ample as inability of trucks to move freely has caused some cutbacks in slaughter schedules and in some cases temporary closing of plants. Estimated slaughter today 768,000 head. Average live weight for Feb. 4 4.08 pounds.

North Carolina hens: Market condition unsettled due to trucking situation. In most cases previous commitments are moving at unchanged price levels. New negotiations on a wait-and-see basis. Heavies, at farm, 14-15 cents per pound, mostly 14.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market pulled back from some of its earlier gains but remained modestly higher.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrial at 11:30 a.m. was up 2.03 at 822.6. Earlier it had been ahead nearly 6 points.

Advances led declines on the New York Stock Exchange by about 2 to 1.

"While a technical rebound is possible at this point," said Ted Bukowski, an analyst with E. F. Hutton & Co., "we'll need some news on the oil embargo before any sustainable rebound can develop."

Weighing on investors, brokers said, was the continuing truckers' strike, inflation, unemployment and the slowing economy.

The market's initial rise, they said, was spurred by Chemical Bank's announcement of a 1/4 percentage point cut in its prime rate. But this, they added, was not sufficient to outweigh the market's negatives.

NYSE prices included U.S. Steel, up 3/8 to 39; FMC, up 3/8 to 19 1/2; General Electric, off 3/8 to 56 1/2; Tropicana, off 1/8 to 15 1/2; and Chrysler, off 3/8 to 15 1/2.

Seeks To Avoid Gas Rationing

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — A top federal energy official says the nation must find an answer to the energy problem without rationing fuel, which he termed "very inequitable and totally unworkable."

Deputy Administrator John C. Sawhill of the Federal Energy Office said Tuesday the agency was pressing "Project Independence" aimed at eliminating dependence on foreign oil, keeping American workers on the job and developing more gas and oil reserves in the United States.

Senators . . .

Sen. White is known as a leader in agricultural, civic, educational, and religious affairs.

He graduated from Wake Forest University and was a principal and teacher from 1925 to 1940, and county supervisor for the Farmers' Home Administration from 1941 to 1943.

In addition to serving as Chairman of the Board of Trustees of Pitt Technical Institute, White also is a member of the Chowan College Board of Trustees.

The World War II veteran has been former chairman of both the Pitt County Board of Commissioners and Pitt County Planning Board. He is a former member and treasurer of the Pitt County Development Commission.

He is married to the former Louise Ange of Winterville and they have one son.

Allsbrook is a veteran of nine terms in the State Senate and one term in the State House of Representatives.

"I am running in the Democratic Primary again this year because of my long experience and my record as a concerned legislator," Allsbrook said in his announcement.

"I have served the people of this area for more than a third of a century in the General Assembly. The people know me.

Med School . . .

Sen. Ralph Scott, D-Alamance, also opposed it, saying he thought "the issue should be decided right here."

Sen. Thomas Strickland, D-Wayne, said he liked the Eagles measure while Sen. Phil Godwin, D-Camden said he might favor it "as a last resort."

The chairmen of the House and Senate Appropriations Committees, meanwhile, said they had their own compromise idea which they expect to circulate among the legislators to see if it can gain support.

Sen. Ralph Scott, D-Alamance, and Rep. Carl Stewart, D-Gaston, said their bill would appropriate $15 million for the ECU school, which would be expanded along the lines of the Huskins measure.

But it would leave it up to the Board of Governors to decide when it was practical to expand at ECU.

The Huskins bill contains a specific timetable for the board to follow in implementing the ECU expansion plan.

"They know my record," he said.

"I have worked hard for East Carolina University, including the achievement of university status and the establishment of a medical school there. Friends of East Carolina know my record in behalf of this fine school," Allsbrook said.

Currently Allsbrook says he is interested in legislation that will help establish a strong system of better physical education in all the schools of the State.

"I am interested," he said, "in the development and improvement of a strong physical educational program that will build the bodies of young people at a rate comparable to the mental growth taking place. I believe such a program will help alleviate drug and other harmful abuses among our students. A sound mind in a sound body can contribute greatly to future generations in North Carolina."

Senator Allsbrook attended the University of North Carolina where he served as President of the Student Body. He is permanent Vice President of his class.

He has served as a city commissioner in Roanoke Rapids and on the City School Board for ten years.

In 1965, the Distinguished Service Citation for that year was conferred upon him by the North Carolina Public Health Association for the greatest contribution to public health by a North Carolina citizen outside the public health field.

In the past five sessions of the General Assembly, he served as chairman of Senate Judiciary I committee. He has served one or more times on the Appropriations and practically every other major committee of the State Senate.

Wreck Kills 2 In Truck

VANCEBORO—Two men from near Chocowinity were killed yesterday morning when their pickup truck struck a stopped dump truck from the rear.

Killed instantly at 7:30 a.m. on Highway 17 five miles north of here were Francis Gerald Wiggins, 20, of Rt. 1, Chocowinity and Michael Russell Galloway, 18, of Rt. 2, Chocowinity. Wiggins was the driver of a pickup truck owned by P&E Construction Company, and Galloway was his passenger.

The investigating officer, Trooper L. P. Johnson, said the truck ran up under the rear of a dump truck operated by Daniel Lee Green, of Rt. 1, Trenton.

Green, who received minor injuries, had his truck stopped behind a line of vehicles waiting behind a loading school bus. Trooper Johnson said the weather was clear.

Obituaries

Wiggins
 F. Gerald Wiggins, 20, was killed instantly in a truck accident on Highway 17 near Chocowinity early Tuesday morning.

Funeral services will be conducted Thursday at 2:30 p.m. at the Union Chapel Free Will Baptist Church by the Rev. Roger Tripp, the pastor, and the Rev. Charlie Dixon, pastor of the Free Will Baptist Church of Grimesland. Burial will be in Pinewood Memorial Park. The body will be taken to the Church from the Wilkerson Funeral Home one hour prior to the time of service. Members of the 167th M P Battalion Unit of the National Guard in Washington will have charge of the services at the grave.

Mr. Wiggins was born in Beaufort County and attended the Chocowinity Schools. He was a member of the Union Chapel Free Will Baptist Church and the North Carolina National Guard in Washington. He had been employed by the P & E Construction Company of Chocowinity as a cable foreman for the past seven months.

Surviving are his wife, Mrs. June Chandler Wiggins; a son, Dennis Gerald Wiggins; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Linwood Wiggins; three brothers, Ronald G., Donald Ray, and George Franklin Wiggins, all of the home; a sister, Mrs. Richard Buck of near Chocowinity; and his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Rufus F. Dail of Erul and Mrs. Mary Lewis Wiggins of the home.

Taylor
FARMVILLE—Mrs. Mary Monk Taylor of 201 Cameron Street, died early this morning in Pitt Memorial Hospital. She was the widow of Robert Taylor Sr. Funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Cite Evidence ZIP Code Works

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Postal Service says it has evidence that the ZIP Code works.

Mrs. Weetsie Guillory of Eunice, La., received a letter with this address on the envelope: "Weetsie, 70635."

It was sent as a joke by her son, Lawrence, a law student at Louisiana State University in Baton Rouge, 70 miles west of Eunice, a community of 13,000.

"I received the letter the next day," Mrs. Guillory said. "I thought it a very good example of how good ZIP Code is."

The delivery may have been helped by the fact that her husband, Murray, is foreman of mails at the Eunice post office.

Bertie Rolls Past Rampants

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Bertie Senior High School held onto at least a share of first place in the Division I standings last night at the expense of the Rose High School Rampants. Bertie rolled from the opening tap, easily beating the Rampants, 82-62.

It was one of the worst defeats of the year for the Rampants, who despite their record, are usually in the thick of the game most of the way. But against the Falcons, there was just nothing the Rampants could do right.

They were outlited from the floor, outrebounded, and outplayed all the way.

In victory, Bertie raised its Division I record to 7-1 on the season, assuring the Falcons of no worse than a continued share of first place with Rocky Mount, tied with them going into their game tonight.

The Rampants meanwhile, fell off to 1-7, and will be trying to avoid the cellar in the league on Friday when they travel to Northern Nash to meet the winless Knights.

Rose had trouble moving the ball a number of times against the tough man-to-man pressing defense of the Falcons, and this caused them to have a number of turnovers. The Falcons also used their better height to control the backboards, forcing the Rampants to hit the first time or not at all.

Bertie ran off seven points before the Rampants finally found the bottom of the hoop. Alphoso Ruffin started it off with a jumper after 30 seconds, and Ricky Miller added a foul shot a little more than a minute into the game. Ken Williford hit from the circle, and Ruffin hit from the baseline to run it out to a 7-0 lead with 5:45 to go.

Rose finally found the range at that point as Bobby Dough hit on the fast break with 5:31 left to let the Rampants on the scoreboard.

For the next few minutes the two teams swapped points, until Herb Bynum's shot from the corner cut the lead to 11-8. John Heckstall and Williford ran it back out to seven, and after Macon Moye hit a jumper, Ben Pillman was awarded a basket on goal-tending and Heckstall hit two free throws to make it 19-10 with 58 seconds left. Each team hit in the final minute to make it 21-12 at the end of the frame.

Rose got a free throw in the first minute of play, but baskets by Miller and Ruffin upped the lead to 12, 25-13.

The Rampants got two baskets from Ronnie Barrett and one from Moye to trim it back to six, 25-19, but could come no closer. The two exchanged baskets down to the final 15 seconds, when the Falcons got two free throws from Heckstall and one from Pillman for a 38-29 half-time lead.

Rose still trailed by nine two minutes into the second half, but baskets by Heckstall and Ruffin ran it out to 46-33 with 5:18 to go. Again, the two went through a period of exchanging scores, until the final minute when again Bertie hit a hot streak.

Leading 54-41 with a minute to play, Miller hit from under. Then, in the final 30 seconds, Bertie got baskets from Miller and Williford to run it out to 60-41 as the quarter finally ended.

Billy Davis hit from the corner to open the fourth period, giving Bertie a 21-point edge, 62-41. It stayed that way until Miller and Ruffin connected halfway through to make it 72-47, a 25-point spread.

The Falcons began to clear their bench after that, and Rose managed to cut it down to the final 20-point margin.

Heckstall and Ruffin each hit 20 points for the Falcons, while Miller had 17 and Williford had 12.

For the Rampants, Bynum hit 21 to lead all scorers and Moye added 10.

The Rampant Cubs suffered through a cold first period, and that eventually cost them a 51-45 loss in the preliminary.

Bertie ran out to a 13-4 lead in that period, but after that, Rose outlited Bertie the rest of the way. They held an 8-7 margin in the third period, but were still down by 20-12.

In the third frame, Rose again cut another point off the lead, 17-16, and did the same in the last, 16-15, but couldn't ever put enough together to pull into a tie with the Baby Falcons.

Alton Wiggins led Bertie with 18 points, while Johnny White had 11. Trenton Blount had 14 and Donnie Shields had 10 for the Rampant Cubs.

The contest was the final home game of the year for the Rampants. They travel to Northern Nash on Friday, then visit Wilson on Tuesday for the final regular season game. Playoffs get underway the following Thursday.

Buc Wrestlers Defeat State

RALEIGH—East Carolina University's wrestling team once again proved its mastery over North Carolina teams last night, rolling to a 31-3 victory over previously unbeaten North Carolina State University.

The Pirates had little trouble in beating the Wolfpack as they took nine of the ten individual matches, losing only one decision.

One of the Buc wins came on a pin, while another came by a major decision (10 points or more). Several of the other wins were by decidedly lopsided decisions.

The victory raised the Pirate dual meet record to 3-0 for the year.

They will return home on Friday at 8 p.m. to host their top Southern Conference rival, William & Mary, in Minges Coliseum.

Summary:

118: Jimmy Blair (EC) decisioned Williams, 17-3.

126: Paul Ketcham (EC) decisioned Ferguson, 11-6.

Ayden-Grifton Downs Saints

LITTLEFIELD—Ayden-Grifton High School clung to its final hopes of an Eastern Carolina Conference title last night with a 70-49 romp over Southern Wayne. But their chances looked slim indeed as the best they could hope for is a tie, and even then, their victim of the evening would have to upset D. H. Conley on Friday.

The junior varsity also won, 64-52, in the preliminary, while the Southern Wayne girls pulled off a 47-36 upset of the Chargerettes.

In the girls' game, Ayden-Grifton was able to inch into an 8-6 lead after one period of play. But Southern came back to push ahead with a 15-10 margin, and gain a 21-18 halftime edge.

Southern continued to roll along in the third period, dumping in 16 more points, while the Chargerettes hit eight. That made it 37-26 as the last period opened. Both teams hit 10 points in the last frame.

Charlotte Armwood led Southern Wayne with 27 points, while Audrey McCarter and Decia Little each had 10 for Ayden-Grifton.

In the boys' game, the Chargers got going early, zooming out to a 16-point lead after eight minutes of play, 23-7. They slowed the action in the second frame, but still outlited the Saints, 14-11, running the score to 37-18 at the half.

The Chargers were hot again in the third period, hitting 23 to 15 for the Saints, and that made it 60-39 as the last period began. Southern came back with a 16-10 advantage in that period, but it made no difference.

Milton Brown led Ayden-Grifton with 23 points, while Melvin Stewart and Travis Woods each had 12. For Southern Wayne, Bobby Lawson was high with 14.

The Chargers are now 15-2 for the year in the league, while Southern is 5-12. The A-G girls are 10-7, while Southern is 7-10. The Chargers play host to C.B. Aycock on Friday.

Hawkins Signs Pirate Grant

East Carolina University football coach Pat Dye announced the signing of two more prep standouts to grants-in-aid with the Pirates for next fall.

Willie Hawkins, a Grimesland native, who attended D. H. Conley High School, is one of the signees. Hawkins, a 5-11, 185-pound back, was selected to the All-Conference, All-Area, and All-East teams at the completion of the fall season. During the year, he scored 17 touchdowns for the Vikings, rushing 217 times for 1,655 yards. Hawkins is also a track star for the school, having been named his team's Most Valuable, Best All Around and Best Sprinter last spring.

The other signee is Ronnie Ragland, a 6-1, 235-pounder from Gladston, Virginia. Ragland played defensive lineman and fullback for his high school team.

The signing of these two brings the Pirate total to 20 for the season. A total of 30 are allowed by the NCAA.

Jamesville In 67-59 Victory

CHOCOWINITY—Jamesville High School gained a 67-59 victory over Chocowinity High School last night. The Chocowinity girls won their game, 53-35, and the Chocowinity junior varsity slipped to a 24-23 win.

In the girls' game, Chocowinity jumped off to a 16-6 lead in the first period of play. They came back with a 10-8 advantage in the second, building a 26-14 halftime margin.

Both teams tossed in 12 points in the third period as the score climbed to 38-26. Chocowinity again outthit the Lady Bullets, 15-9, in the last period, wrapping it up.

Rosalie Thompson led Chocowinity with 26 points, while Donna Williams had 12 for Jamesville.

In the varsity game, Chocowinity inched ahead, 14-12, after the first eight minutes. But Jamesville came back with a 19-15 advantage in the second period, for a 31-29 halftime edge.

The Bullets outthit

Chocowinity, 15-12, in the third and upped their lead to 46-41. They held off Chocowinity in the final period, 21-18, to gain the win.

Horace Hall led the Bullets with 27 points, while Steven James had 16 and Gurkin Martin had 13. For Chocowinity, Willie McCullen and Horace Windley each had 20.

Pantego will visit Jamesville on Friday in their final game of the regular season.

Tarboro Drops Williamston

TARBORO—Williamston's hapless Tigers bowed to Tarboro last night, 81-60, in a Northeastern Conference game.

The Williamston junior varsity came away with a victory, however, 44-33.

In the varsity contest, Tarboro shot away to gain a 22-13 lead after the first eight minutes of the game. Williamston got with the Viking beat in the second period, dumping 23, while Tarboro hit 22. That ran the score out to 44-36, with Tarboro still in the lead.

The action slowed a little in the third period, with Tarboro again outthitting the Tigers, 16-14. That ran it to 60-50. The Vikings then finished off Williamston, 21-10 in the final period. Wilbur Draught led Tarboro with 18 points, while William Glass had 14, Kenny Joyner had 12, Al Forrest had 11 and Morris Vines had 10. JoJo Purvis led the Tigers with 21, while Keith Biggs had 11.

Williamston will play host to Edenton on Friday night.

Greene Central Nips Jaguars

FARMVILLE—Green Central's Rams, upset in their last outing, came within a hair of having it happen to them again last night, as they just brushed past Farmville Central, 37-36.

The Farmville Central girls won their seventh league game of the year with a 41-37 win, while the Jaguar jvs also claimed a win, 50-47.

In the boys' game, Greene Central eased into an 8-6 lead in the first period, but Farmville Central came back to outscore them, 8-5, in the second quarter of the slowly played game to take a 14-13 halftime lead.

Greene Central came back and pushed back ahead with a 7-5 margin, 20-19, as the last quarter opened. The Rams then moved out by as much as 10 points in the period, but the Jaguars cut it back, finally tying it at 34-34.

Moses Baron scored late in the game, however, and was fouled on the shot. He converted to give the Rams a 37-34 lead. A last second shot by James Cobb hit by the Jaguars, but they had no time to do any more.

Baron led the Ram scoring with 17 points, while Tim Butts had 11. For the Jaguars, Lee Johnson had 13.

In the girls' game, Farmville Central ran out to a 12-6 lead in the first period, then outthit the Ewes, 10-9, in the second. That made it 22-15 at halftime.

The Ewes started a comeback in the third period, outthitting the Lady Jags, 11-8, to trim the lead to 30-26. But Farmville held them off, matching their total of 11 in the final period to win it.

Julia Moye led Farmville with 15 points, while Judith Tripp had 12 for the Ewes.

Robersonville Upsets South Edgecombe, 71-69

ROBERSONVILLE—The Robersonville Golden Eagles pulled off a 71-69 overtime upset victory over Eastern Plains Conference leader South Edgecombe last night.

The South Edgecombe girls, however, held onto at least a share of first place downing Robersonville, 48-36. The Robersonville JV's won, 53-49.

South Edgecombe came into the game with a one-game edge over Elm City, the only team in the league with a chance to catch them. An Elm City win last night would deadlock the two with only one game left to play. South Edgecombe is now 15-2, while Robersonville is 11-6.

South Edgecombe eased out into an 18-15 lead in the first period of the game, then outthit the Eagles, 18-13, in the second frame. That left them in the lead, 36-28.

Neither team could make any headway in the third period, however, as both threw in 18 points. That raised the score to 54-46. Robersonville put together a rally in the final period however, with Ernest Crandall finally tying it at 65-65. Percy Morning missed a show with five seconds left that would have ended it there.

But in the overtime, the Eagle hit three straight baskets to run out to a 71-65 lead. They held off South Edgecombe the rest of the way to hold on and win.

Crandall finished the game with 30 points, while Morning had 19 and Jimmy Stalls had 10. For Edgecombe, Wayne Farmer had 26 and Amos Johnson had 16.

In the girls' game, South Edgecombe moved into a 17-12 lead in the first period and was never caught again. They outthit the Eaglettes, 10-5, in the third frame for a 27-17 lead at the half.

Robersonville managed to chop two points off the lead in the third period, 13-11, but still trailed 38-30. South Edgecombe outthit them, 10-6 in the final period to wrap it up.

Bynum led South Edgecombe with 22 points, while Whitlock had 11. No one hit double figures for the Robersonville girls.

South Edgecombe's girls are now 15-2 in the league, while Robersonville is 12-5.

Summerell Is Drafted Again

East Carolina University's Carl Summerell became the second Pirate to be drafted by the new World Football League yesterday when he was picked in the eighth round by the Washington-Baltimore franchise.

"The draft hasn't changed my plans," Summerell said, "but it's given me more to think about. I definitely plan to talk to both clubs."

The Buc quarterback, who was the Southern Conference's Player of the Year this fall, said that he was a little surprised that the Baltimore-Washington franchise had drafted him. "I had been contacted by Florida earlier in the week and they said that they were going to draft me," he said.

Summerell, who was drafted by the New York Giants in the fourth round of the National Football League's draft still hasn't talked with them as yet, and said that he still plans to play baseball with the Pirates this spring.

The other Pirate drafted is Carlester Crumpler, picked up by the Buffalo Bills of the NFL and the New York franchise of the WFL. Crumpler visited with the Bills over the past weekend.

National League batting champion Pete Rose hit .511 against the Philadelphia Phillies last season.

Hialeah's two major stakes during the Florida racing season will be the Widener Handicap on March 23 and the Flamingo on March 30.

Conley Ices At Least Share Of Crown

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer
HOLLYWOOD—D. H.

Conley's Vikings moved one game closer to the regular season Eastern Carolina Conference Championship last night as they fought past a stubborn North Pitt Panther team to record their 19th win of the year, 56-42. They are assured of at least a tie.

North Pitt had come to the Viking home court with the full intention of walking away with an upset. They surprised the Vikings by taking the lead in the first quarter as the Panthers came out hot but Conley struggled back to gain control. The outcome hung in the balance for the majority of the remainder of the contest with the Vikings taking charge only in the final quarter.

In preliminary action, the Conley JV's won easily, 70-46, but the Valkyries were throttled, 48-17.

The varsity, in winning, is assured of at least a tie with the Ayden-Grifton Chargers should Conley lose Friday and A-G win. The Vikings play Southern Wayne while A-G is almost a certain winner over Aycock, Friday. If Conley wins, they will get the crown outright.

The Conley girls did a complete turnaround from their season style—for the first three minutes of their game. They surprised the Big Orange, who have already claimed their third championship, matching the Panth-HERS point for point. The cat tired of teasing the mouse, however, and a six bucket, Panth-HER rally in the second period broke it open.

North Pitt had the chance to score first but missed and Conley broke the ice on Pat Buck's drive through the lane. Mary Brown tied it at 2-2 from outside. Conley came right back to take the lead again on Kathy Allen's bucket. Wanda Whichard hit from the NP corner but again Conley slipped in front as Rosa Adams canned an outside jumper, 6-4.

But it was the last time they had the advantage as Joy James scored from the lane, 6-6, and Whichard's free shot put the Panth-HERS in front to stay, 7-6.

Kathi Manning dropped in two lay-ups, 11-6, and James added a three-point play to make it 14-6.

James sank two shots and after Whichard ran the lead to 12, 20-8, Manning scored on three straight steals making it 26-8.

North Pitt added eight to Conley's four in the third and 14 to 4 in the fourth.

Manning and Whichard each scored ten for the Big Orange while Adams led the Valkyries with the same amount.

Both the Panthers and the Vikings hit 41 per cent of their shots from the floor. The Panthers did not sink a single free shot all night. Both teams pulled down 24 rebounds each. David Brown grabbed seven and Donnie Perkins six for North Pitt while Larry Daniels and Buddy Phillips both had nine for the Vikings.

The Panthers, after warming up zoomed out to a nine-point lead that threw a scare into the Vikings. Conley fought back but had to keep the pressure on to stay on top.

Clennel Streeter took the opening tap and laced it in to give Conley a 2-0 lead. Brown and Donald Johnson countered with buckets for North Pitt to slip them into the lead, 4-2, before a minute had gone by. Daniels cut it to one with a free throw and Willie Hawkins added a lay-up to put Conley back in front, 5-4.

Johnny Harris blew in a shot from outside and Brown canned two from the Panther corner to give NP a 10-5 lead. Johnson scored again and Craig McLawhorn's basket made it 14-5 as the Vikings had gone cold.

Daniels narrowed it to seven 14-7 and Hawkins scored but the basket did not count as Daniels was too eager to get the ball in and was charged with offensive goaltending. The quarter ended with the Panthers up, 18-9.

But where the Panthers ruled the first period, the Vikes ruled the second. After exchanging baskets Conley got two buckets from Mike Sutton, playing with a bruised foot, and a lay-up by Hawkins as they pulled within three, 20-17. Daniels' free shot made it 20-18.

Perkins lifted the margin back to four but the Panthers did not score again for the rest of the half as Conley tied the game on Milton Tucker's lay-up and went ahead on free shots by Tucker, 24-22, with :43 to go. A basket by Rick Moberly ended the half, 26-22.

The teams traded baskets for the first two minutes of the third period but with 5:06 to go, Brown hit the second of his two jumpers from his corner to tie the game once again, 30-30.

The advantage swapped hands and with 4:09 left Hawkins dropped in two from outside to give the Vikes a four-point lead, 36-32. Brown and Charlie Lewis hit for NP reknitting the score, 36-36.

Daniels scored from underneath and Phillips added a hook shot getting the four-point spread back and after Harris' field goal, Sutton and Phillips tallied as Conley went out by six, 44-38, as the quarter ended.

The Panthers could only score twice in the last frame. Daniels dumped in a shot on an "Alley Op" opening the fourth and seconds later scored on the same type of play to run it up to 50-40. Moberly laced through a lay-up at the horn for the final points.

Brown led the Panthers with 16 points. Harris had 12. Hawkins and Daniels each scored 14 for Conley.

Aurora Cagers Sweep Pair From Bear Grass

AURORA—Aurora High School swept a three-game set from Bear Grass last night in the Beaufort-Hyde-Martin Conference.

Aurora's boys romped to an 81-40 victory, while the girls inched to a 34-30 win. The junior varsity capped it with a 71-32 decision.

In the girls' game, both Bear Grass and Aurora pushed in eight points in the first period. But Aurora inched ahead in the second stanza, outthrusting the Lady Bears, 6-4. That made it 14-12 at the half.

The big move by Aurora came in the third period, when they held the Bears to just four points and pushed through 10 more than that at their end of the court. That ran Aurora out to a 28-16 lead. The Bears rallied, 14-6, in the final period, but it wasn't enough.

Janet Holliday led Bear Grass with 14 points, and was the only girl in double figures.

In the boys game, Aurora jumped off early, moving to a 13-8 lead after a period. They got hotter in the second frame, hitting 22 while the Bears got eight more. That put Aurora into the dressing room with a comfortable 35-18 lead.

Aurora continued to power away in the third period, hitting 20 more points, while Bear Grass got 12. That made it 55-28. Aurora outthit the Bears once more, 28-12, in the final period.

Steve Moore led Aurora with 15 points, while Randy Moore had 12 and Curfew Speights had 10. For the Bears, Hilton Armstrong had 12 and Alan Crawford had 10.

The Bears, 0-13 (boys) and 1-12 (girls) will play at Bath Friday in the final regular season game.

Columbia Nips Oak City, 62-60

COLUMBIA—Columbia High School nipped Oak City's Trojans with one second left on the clock, 62-60, last night. The Columbia junior varsity won, 64-57, while the girls finished the sweep with a 36-18 win.

In the varsity contest, Oak City pushed into the lead in the first period, 14-6, but couldn't hold it. Columbia came back with a 19-9 advantage in the second frame, gaining a 25-23 lead at the half.

Oak City stayed with them in the third period, outshooting their hosts, 14-13, and trailed only 38-37 as the last period began. It continued close through the period, with Oak City finally tying it up with four seconds to go. Columbia got the ball and called time out, and with one second left, Spencer was fouled, and made both shots to give Columbia the victory.

Gibbs led the Columbia scoring with 16 points, while Spencer had 13 and Spruill had 12. For Oak City, Billy Ross had 20, Ronald Duggins had 15 and Donnie Carr had 12. In the girls' game, Columbia inched out into a 11-8 lead in the first period of play, then outthit Oak City, 7-2, in the second. Columbia took an 18-10 lead into halftime.

Columbia again outthit Oak City, 7-2, in the third period, upping the lead to 25-12. They finished it off with an 11-6 advantage in the final period.

Diane Duggins led Oak City with 10 points and was the game's only double figure scorer.

Fieldcrest Holds Lead

Fieldcrest Mills held onto first place in Division I of the Industrial Basketball League with a victory last night. Second place State Highway also claimed a win.

In the opening game, Wachovia rolled to a 64-46 win over winless Prepshirt. Wachovia built up a 31-23 lead in the first half, and outshot Prepshirt, 33-23, in the second. B. Baggett led Wachovia with 24 points, while R. Brooks had 19. Zeno Smith had 15, William Johnson had 14 and Clifton Gray had 10 for Prepshirt.

In the second game, Fieldcrest took a 76-54 win over North Carolina National Bank. Fieldcrest pushed to a 39-24 lead in the first period of the game, then outthit NCNB, 37-30 in the final half.

Charles Harrington led Fieldcrest with 35 points, while Billy Stokes had 18 and Louis Williams had 16. For NCNB, Leon Johnson had 12 and Kenny Wood had 10.

In the final game, State Highway kept pace with a 61-45 win over Pitt Memorial Hospital. The Highwaymen gained a 32-20 lead after the first half of the game. They came back and outthit Pitt Memorial, 29-25, to get the win.

Fred Mills led the Highwaymen with 19 points, while Leon Jenkins had 13 and Hoyt Haddock had 12. For Pitt, Danny Edwards had 25 and Johnny May had 10.

Presbyterian In Upset Win

Presbyterian upset Immanuel Baptist last night in the Church Basketball League and pulled into a tie with them for first place.

In the opening game, Black Jack took a 43-33 victory over St. James. St. James inched out into a 16-15 lead at the end of the first half, but couldn't hold Black Jack. The Baptists came back with a 28-17 advantage in the final period to take the game.

Danny Edwards led Black Jack with 12 points, while Mike Board had 16 for St. James.

The second game saw Immanuel lose its first game of the year, after nine wins. Presbyterian took a 50-44 victory, and equalled the Immanuel record. At the end of the first half, Immanuel had inched into a 19-16 lead, but Presbyterian came back and outthit them, 34-25, in the final frame.

Larry Graham led Presbyterian with 19 points, while Doug Owens had 17 and Drew Rumbley had 13 for Immanuel.

In the final game, Oakmont downed Trinity, 44-28. By halftime, Trinity had slipped ahead, 16-14, but like the other two games, saw their lead slip away in the second half. Oakmont came through with a 30-12 advantage in the final half to win it.

TOP TWO-YEAR-OLDS COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) —

Two harness horses bought for a total of $27,000 were voted the best 2-year-olds among 1973 standardbreds. Starlark Hanover, bought for $7,000 at Harrisburg, Pa., in the 1972 yearling sale, was voted the best 2-year-old trotter by the U.S. Harness Writers' Assn. She is owned by Courtney and Constance Foes Jr. of Malvern, Pa.

Boyden Hanover, purchased for $20,000 in 1972, was voted the top 2-year-old pacer. He is owned by Catherine Picciano, Frank Allecia and trainer-driver George Sholly, all of Westbury, N.Y.

James Sprunt Rips Paladins

KENANSVILLE—James Sprunt Technical Institute rolled to a 103-67 victory over Pitt Technical Institute last night.

It was the final conference game for the Paladins and left them with a 4-4 record for the year. They are 4-10 overall. James Sprunt, with one game left with Martin Tech, has clinched the conference title with a 7-0 record. They are 10-1 overall.

The two teams stayed close for the first five and a half minutes swapping baskets back and fourth. Pitt Tech inched out into a 14-12 lead with 14:30 left, but during the next 10 minutes, James Sprunt outthit them, 25-2, running away to a 37-16 lead. Sprunt continued to pull away, building up a 48-23 lead at the half.

The second half of the game was tightly contested, with neither team able to make much headway on the other. James

Gelbhaar led Sprunt with 32 points, while Newkirk had 27. Sutton had 15 and Robinson had 14. For Pitt Tech, Charles Jordan had 20, Fred Watson had 13 and Danny Thomas had 12.

The Paladins will play host to Coastal Carolina Community College on Thursday at A. G. Cox gym in Winterville.

Energy Crisis Can Create Boom For Rail Freight

By LEE LINDER
Associated Press Writer
The energy crisis could make 1974 the best year for freight in railroad history.

Barring a serious business slump, railroads are expected to be among the chief beneficiaries in the current energy crisis. As yet, however, there has been no outpouring of new business.

The Association of American Railroads, which is the voice for the 64 major roads and 448 smaller lines, is optimistic that 1974 will top last year's record $14.7 billion in operating revenues — maybe by 15 per cent or more.

Although some see greater potential, railroad men generally agree that a 15 per cent increase in freight traffic can be handled with cars now in service. Increases above that could cause problems, especially in hauling coal and piggyback trailers.

"If there is a substantial shift of traffic from trucks to rails we will need more equipment," says John P. Fishwick, president of the Norfolk and Western, the nation's second largest coal hauler. "If we can't handle it, they will stick to trucks."

Roy L. Hayes, head of Penn Central's trailers and containers department, says "we can increase 15 to 20 per cent in volume with the present trains without materially adding to fuel costs." Then he adds:

"Many people feel that with the energy crisis everybody is clamoring to get on the railroads, and that's not happening yet. Shippers are taking a wait-and-see attitude. They are checking to see if railroads can do the job."

A survey of major shippers bears him out.

The ability of railroads to meet the challenge hinges on whether freight rate increases will be granted swiftly to offset sharply rising expenses, particularly for diesel fuel; whether delivery of new freight cars — 61,571 were on order Jan. 1 — can be speeded up; and whether government will provide additional fuel to haul additional freight.

Any traffic increase will require more fuel than the railroads consumed last year, which represented 1.7 per cent of all petroleum used in the United States. The federal government already has assured passenger trains 100 per cent of their fuel needs. Freighters are appealing for the same treatment.

"The railroads can effect some fuel economies through conservation practices, and they are," says AAR President Stephen Ailes. "But, unlike the airlines, for example, they cannot substantially reduce schedules and still carry the same amount of business because most rail cars are loaded to capacity in the first place."

It's in coal, long the backbone of the freight business east of the Mississippi and now growing in the West, where railroads hope to make major hauling gains.

Not much, maybe, this year — possibly 25 million tons or 7 per cent more than 1973 — but in greater and greater quantities as new mines are opened in the next few years and science speeds research on more practical ways to burn coal cleaner.

Loss of coal traffic in the 1960s was one of the contributing factors in the bankruptcy of the Penn Central, as well as the Reading, Erie-Lackawanna, Lehigh Valley and Central of New Jersey.

Even so, the railroads handled 70 per cent of the 590 million tons of coal mined in 1973 — a fourth of their record national freight tonnage.

Sufficient coal hauling equipment is available for 1974 needs, since hoppers were in surplus last year with 10,000 diverted to grain shipping.

But more will be needed in the last half of this decade, especially if Congress amends the Clean Air Act to permit increased use of dirty, high-sulfur coal, and orders are now being placed.

"Given a go-ahead, a lot of people will be surprised how fast this coal business can be revived," says Walter L. Lloyd, assistant director of Penn Central's coal and ore services.

Chessie, the largest coal hauler, has started construction of 2,000 new coal hoppers at a cost of over $33 million and is recalling several thousand of its fleet of 70,000 which had been laid up for lack of loadings — all this because the Federal Energy Administration has urged 25 utilities Chessie serves to switch from oil to coal.

Piggyback is another area where freight traffic expects to quickly expand, maybe as much as 20 per cent this year, equipment permitting.

"Large volumes of traffic would be diverted from highways, and we could handle it overnight, if truck firms get the necessary okay from Teamsters labor," Penn Central's Hayes says. "And if the fuel crisis gets more difficult they will have to shift."

So far, though, shippers have just made inquiries about the possibility of switching from trucks to rail, and they appear to be waiting to see if the railroads can handle increased volume.

Cruse Lewis, vice president-transportation of Burlington Industries, the huge North Carolina textile manufacturer, said, "Our experience with railroad shipments in the past has not been very good for us, and we are not going to shift any significant amounts of freight unless we really have to."

And other firms that now are heavy in trucks — like Pratt & Whitney Aircraft of East Hartford, Conn., Philip Morris Co. of Richmond, Russell Stover Candies of Kansas City, Dayton Tire and Rubber Co., and nearly all New York City garment makers — say they are going to stay on the highway as long as fuel is available.

Advises Return To Just Seeking

LUBBOCK, Tex. (UPI) — A land studies educator believes national alarm over a total depletion of domestic natural gas reserves may be premature by as much as a generation, and can best be overcome by a return to simple philosophy.

Dr. Frank B. Conselman, president of the American Institute of Professional Geoscience, suggests a return by the industry to the philosophy of "seek and ye shall find."

"If we do not drill exploratory wells, we get no more discoveries," he said. "Or, as has happened, if we decrease our drilling, we decrease our discoveries and our reserves must inevitably decline as withdrawals continue."

Synthetic Dyes Can Kill Flies

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (UPI) — A post-doctoral fellowship researcher working in West Virginia University's Agriculture Experiment Station has found that some synthetic dye compounds kill flies and other insects.

Dr. Timothy P. Yoho discovered that flies which eat dyes mixed in milk-sugar bait die within two to three hours after they are exposed to daylight.

"The key to fatality lies in the photodynamic action of some of the dyes tested thus far," West Virginia Agriculture and Forestry magazine reported.

Ski Marathon Set In Canada

OTTAWA (UPI) — The world's longest cross-country ski tour will be held Feb. 23-24 from Lachute, 40 miles west of Montreal, to Cantley, 10 miles north of Ottawa.

The 100-mile-long trail is divided into 10-mile sections. Each tourer in the eighth annual Canadian Ski Marathon can complete as many 10-mile sections as he pleases.

Mt. Rushmore Lures Throngs

KEYSTONE, S. D. (UPI) — Mt. Rushmore National Memorial once again is attracting visitors in droves.

Attendance fell off in 1972 following the disastrous flood in the Black Hills. Park officials reported recording a total of 1,933,493 visits to the memorial during 1973 compared to 1,911,604 in 1972.

STILL THE BEST CONCORD, Mass. (UPI) — Trapping is still the best way to eliminate mice and rats as they move into houses during the cold, winter months, according to the Middlesex County Extension Service.

Truckers Turn Down Nixon's Effort To End Strike

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Negotiators for independent truckers have told their members to keep their rigs off the road after turning down President Nixon's efforts to end their strike.

In rejecting the President's plan to freeze diesel fuel prices and allow a future jump in freight rates the negotiators for the loosely organized trucker said nevertheless they were willing to continue bargaining with the government. However, no new talks were scheduled.

The truckers said Nixon's measures were inadequate because they did not guarantee them sufficient income to meet higher operating costs. "We recommend the drivers continue to stand down and not return to work," said truckers' spokesman Leonard Fleet in announcing their decision Tuesday night.

W. J. Usery Jr., a special presidential assistant, expressed disappointment but said he would continue efforts to settle the dispute, which is slowly choking-off the nation's supply of food and goods.

Fleet said the truckers had "made crystal clear precisely what problems need solution" during the three days of negotiations that began here Sunday with Usery and Pennsylvania Gov. Milton J. Shapp. But, he said, the administration's response Tuesday "deviated markedly" from what the truckers proposed.

The administration has ordered an immediate freeze on diesel fuel prices while the Interstate Commerce Commission acts on new regulations that will enable the independent owner-operators to pass on to shippers the increase in fuel costs since last May. In the meantime, an administration-proposed resolution now before Congress would allow the higher fees to take effect Feb. 15 without the 30-day delay under normal ICC regulations. Federal energy chief William E. Simon also said he had directed that the trucking industry be supplied, to the maximum extent possible, with all the fuel it needs.

But Fleet, a Hollywood, Fla., attorney representing the Council of Independent Truckers, said that before the truckers go back to work they want further assurances that the price freeze will remain in effect until the higher fees take effect, plus an additional five per cent surcharge on all truck freight.

Find Fewer Parents Recover Child Missing For One Year

GREENSBORO (AP) — An Internal Revenue Service spokesman says the number of service stations in North Carolina overcharging for gasoline has dropped sharply since last month.

"As a rule, most of the stations know what they can and cannot do," said Karl Kristofferson. "I think you could definitely say there has been a decrease."

Last month Kristofferson estimated that nearly a third of the stations in the state were in violation of IRS regulations concerning gasoline sales. Of that figure, 20-25 per cent were overcharging, he said.

"A lot of that might have been by one cent," he said, rather than "price-gouging." Kristofferson said most of the overcharges were due to confusion over government price regulations.

"Our agents have been checking nearly every station in the state at least once," he said. "They tend to know where the problem areas lie. I think there have been one or two cases in the state that are currently under investigation."

Stations found in violation of price regulations must refund overcharges, he said, by lowering prices to offset the unauthorized increase.

With another price increase recently authorized, IRS agents are checking stations again to make sure ceiling prices are not being violated, Kristofferson said.

"There will probably be more rollbacks, more refunds," he said. "But it's beginning to settle down."

MODESTO, Calif. (AP) — "I saw a lot of grown men cry," Chief Sheriff's Deputy Lynn Wood said of a Modesto couple's emotional reunion with their little boy. The boy was discovered safe a year after he was kidnaped.

A tip from a woman who read a newspaper story on the first anniversary of the kidnaping led sheriff's deputies Tuesday to the house five miles from his own home where Tommy Lauver had been kept since his abduction Jan. 20, 1973.

After footprint checks established the boy's identity, he was reunited at the sheriff's office with his parents, Thomas and Frances Lauver.

"Oh honey, don't cry," said Mrs. Lauver, 23, as she cuddled her son, and both broke into tears. "It's the same cry!" she

Mother-in-Law Makes 'Appeal'

MOSCOW (AP) — Ballet dancer Valery Panov's mother-in-law has issued an appeal to Soviet authorities to prevent her daughter from emigrating to Israel, according to the Soviet publicity agency Novosti.

The plea from Larissa Ragoza was made available to Western newsmen Tuesday by the agency, which often assists Soviet authorities in advancing their propaganda line.

Panov is Jewish and for two years has been trying to emigrate with his 25-year-old non-Jewish wife to Israel. The applications have been denied; the Panovs were fired from the famous Kirov ballet company in Leningrad; and the case has aroused a storm of protest in Western artistic circles.

Panov said last week that Soviet authorities told him his wife would never be allowed to leave and his visa would be revoked unless he left without her.

exclaimed to misty-eyed deputies. Tommy, who will be 2 years old Feb. 20, at first wouldn't go to his father. But he then repeatedly kissed both parents. "It's one of the happiest days I've had in this business," said

Lottery Winner Thinks Of Taxes

SAGINAW, Mich. (AP) — "We've got to worry about income tax now," said Ruth E. Cutter after she was named Michigan's ninth millionaire lottery winner.

The 54-year-old cosmetic saleswoman and school bus driver from West Unity, Ohio, was selected from among 120 finalists Tuesday night. She will receive checks of $50,000 a year for 20 years.

"It's the first thing I've ever won," Mrs. Cutter said. "We've made no plans, no plans at all," she said. "We just don't know what to do."

Wood, who had coordinated an investigation that was fruitless until now. "It's kind of nice to report good news once in a while."

A Modesto Bee article on the Lauvers' fear of never again seeing their son sparked the break in the case. A woman who read the article told deputies Monday night that her neighbors, Robert William and Marjorie Coffey, had a toddler who was almost never seen outside.

Officers took custody of the boy, who had been renamed Shawn Keith Coffey, after an investigation showed his footprints bore 26 similarities to those of Tommy Lauver. Coffey, 30, and his wife, 31, were booked on kidnaping charges.

The boy, his dark brown hair dyed blond, appeared well except for swollen big toes and bruises around his ankles where they may have been bound, Wood said.

save 15¢ on Egg Beaters—the first fresh-frozen, cholesterol-free egg substitute.

Now you can give up the cholesterol, without giving up the honest-to-goodness taste of eggs. With new Egg Beaters™ from Fleischmann's. The world's first fresh frozen, cholesterol-free egg substitute. (And not just a powdered dehydrated excuse for eggs.)

Why is this important to you? Because the Inter-Society Commission for Heart Disease Resources recommends limiting dietary cholesterol to less than 300 mg. a day. The average large egg contains 275 mg. of cholesterol.

It's the single highest source of cholesterol in man's diet. Like eggs, Egg Beaters give you important vitamins, minerals, and protein. You can scramble them, make delicious omelets, French toast, pancakes, even "egg" salad. And they look, cook and taste like farm-fresh whole eggs.

Only no cholesterol. Just defrost Egg Beaters, and use them like fresh eggs. Egg Beaters from Fleischmann's. Another way Fleischmann's makes sensible eating delicious. Take advantage of our 15¢-off coupon, and start enjoying the world's first fresh-frozen, cholesterol-free egg substitute.

Script Fails In 'The Cowboys'

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Howdy, buckaroos. Well, it's time again to see what's new on the television range. Over in the ABC corral, they got this new series on tonight called "The Cowboys."

It comes by way of a pretty good movie, also called "The Cowboys," wherein John Wayne played a trail boss who had to hire a bunch of kids when he couldn't find grownups for the big drive to Dodge City.

In due course, he and the young 'uns were set upon by outlaws. There was a lot of smoke and shootin', and the Duke got himself shot plumb dead, along with some outlaws.

The TV series picks up with the kids, seven of them, returning to the Longhorn Ranch whence the drive began. They're led by Mr. Nightlinger, the well-educated cook who also took part in the drive.

They turn over $25,000 from the sale of the cattle to the trail boss' widow, Mrs. Andersen. She currently is in some fix. All her wranglers have left to work in some nearby silver mines.

Mr. Nightlinger proposes that the kids work for her. After some jawing, she hires the youngsters on a three-day trial basis. She hires Mr. Nightlinger, too. His first act is to take away the boys' rifles and pistols.

"A man needs a gun," protests one lad. Mr. Nightlinger lays it on him straight: "That's a fairy tale... A gun draws trouble like a hog draws flies." Soon there is a nighttime robbery attempt by two gun-toting wranglers who want the money from the cattle sale. Mr. Nightlinger tries to stop them but is shot in the leg and falls unconscious.

However, the money is recovered after one of the unarmed boys recalls the Biblical tale of how David smote Goliath with a stone from a slingshot and persuades his pals to try that on the outlaws from ambush.

All this takes half an hour, and it's half an hour too long.

The actors — Moses Gunn and Diana Douglas play the adult leads — all do their best, but they've got a little doggie of a script that doesn't get along at all.

It should have been cut from the herd when the drive began. If this show is typical, the youngsters in it should be given their artillery back and pointed in the direction of the producer.

Tips On Coping With Left Turn

MICHIGAN CITY, Ind. (AP) — Professional truck drivers suggest the following to ease the frustration and danger of left turns in heavy traffic, according to Clark Equipment Trailer Division.

At heavy left-turn intersections, get into the right turn lane well before traffic prevents you from changing lanes. If you're planning a left turn yourself, it may be faster to make a series of right turns around the block instead.

When waiting to turn left, keep your wheels pointed straight ahead to avoid a shove into the path of opposing traffic if you're hit from behind.

Bar Vehicles In French Quarter

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — Vehicles now are barred entirely from historic Jackson Square and Bourbon Street in the French Quarter is open to pedestrians only between 7 p.m. and 3 a.m.

Battery-powered carts decorated like Mardi Gras floats, taxis, horse-drawn carriages and buses help tourists move around in the Quarter before the 7 p.m. curfew.

Free Concert To Feature Bob Hacker At The Lowrey Organ.

Admission is free to hear "The Fascinating Sounds of Bob Hacker," when the talented musician appears in an organ concert sponsored by Music Arts, the Lowrey organ dealer in Greenville, N.C. The concert is scheduled to take place in Music Arts at 12:00 on Thurs., Feb. 7. Bob's performance at the Lowrey promises to provide an exciting evening for both organ enthusiasts and music lovers alike. Bob's unique ability, which includes the "Nashville Sound" and some good old "down home" humor, promises to be an experience you will not want to miss. He will demonstrate why the electronic organ is a favorite among amateurs and is gaining popularity with the professionals.

Listening to Bob play is like hearing an entire orchestra, especially when he's performing on the Lowrey organs that feature most everything from a complete rhythm section to the brass, strings and woodwinds. During his performance, Bob will demonstrate the various special effects which can be achieved with just one solo instrument. He'll duplicate instrumental sounds with amazing authenticity. During the program Bob will explain what sounds he is using and how he achieves all the special effects. He will show that playing the organ is an easier and more enjoyable pastime today than ever before for all age groups. After the concert, the artist will be on hand to answer individual questions on the full line of Lowrey organs available at Music Arts.

Bob, a native and resident of Chattanooga, Tennessee, has a background in piano, accordion, vibes, clarinet and sax. He majored in music composition at the University of Chattanooga and Cadek's Conservatory of Music, was a member of the 129th Army Band for six years, and for four years toured the U.S. and Canada delighting audiences with his "antics at the organ."

A 'Lifeline' To Children On Welfare

CHICAGO (UPI) — The American Medical Association (AMA) is helping to extend a lifeline to welfare children.

The AMA's Committee on Health Care of the Poor has endorsed six recommendations designed to bring better health care services to more than 10 million welfare children.

The recommendations were developed by representatives of 28 national provider organizations during a two-day conference on programs of Early and Periodic Screening, Diagnosis, and Treatment (EPSDT) of children under Medicaid.

The MA has received a $25,000 contract from the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare for the development of a comprehensive report on professional health provider participation in the EPSDT program.

Currently the AMA committee is sponsoring a series of conferences to discuss problems of implementation of the EPSDT program and to recommend solutions.

The six recommendations developed by conference participants include:

1. All state and local EPSDT administrators should seek the full cooperation and participation of health care providers through their appropriate professional societies and specialty organizations in the planning, implementation, operation and evaluation of this program.

2. State and local Medical Societies and specialty organizations should actively seek involvement with EPSDT agencies in their locals in an effort to provide their expertise and services as needed. These professional organizations should inform and encourage their membership to participate in this program.

3. Provider and consumer involvement must be recognized as essential to maximum success of the EPSDT program.

4. Active and aggressive health education and outreach programs for both providers and consumers should be incorporated as vital components of the EPSDT program.

5. To the extent that fiscal and other constraints at the state level limit the establishment of this comprehensive health care program for children, provider organizations and consumer groups should seek the involvement and understanding of state legislators in order that they can become sufficiently responsive to the EPSDT program.

6. That every effort be made to encourage the federal government to provide funds for new and innovative approaches for screening, diagnosis and treatment.

The Girls Need Lab Partners

GARDEN CITY, N.Y. (AP) — Whether men think they know it all, are not interested, or are just bashful, there's a paucity of male students in a Nassau County Community College course on Family Life and Human Sexuality.

The girls, who outnumber them three to one, say that as a result class discussions are one-sided. There's talk that girls who want to take the course next year may be required to bring men with them.

Official Airline For Expo '74

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Hughes Airwest has been designated official airline for Expo '74.

More than 500,000 visitors are expected to use the airline during the six-month run of the World's Fair which begins in May.

The airline will offer special travel packages and tours to Spokane. Special tours also are being arranged with major foreign carriers and foreign travel agencies.

REALLY SAVES GAS
DALLAS (UPI) — Nine professional drivers traveling from San Diego, Calif., to Washington, D. C. to determine how much gasoline driving at a top speed of 50 miles an hour really does save, report the saving is about 26 per cent.

Dolly Parton Is Going Her Own Way These Days

By SYLVIA RECTOR
Associated Press Writer
NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Dolly Parton is going more her own way these days at the urging of partner Porter Wagoner, hoping to see some results on two fronts.

"Porter thinks if we work alone more, we'll both shine more as individuals," she explained. "Then, too, lots of people used to wait and buy a duo album we would do after we'd each do a single." That, she admits, cuts into record sales.

DOLLY

Fame and fortune is something Dolly Parton dreamed of even while growing up in rural East Tennessee's brand of Appalachian poverty.

Hers is a rags-to-riches fairy tale which began, not through her singing, but through her writing. And if she had to give up her voice or her pencil, she would prefer to keep on penning the kind of lyrics she calls "a personal, private expression."

"People are not aware of my writing. . . of the variety and kind of songs I do," she said, raising her voice slightly for emphasis. "Jolene," which hit the top of the country charts in mid-January, was one of her products. Dolly just finished writing an inspirational song called "I Am a Seeker," soon to be released.

"I didn't mean to write it," she said, still seeming to be a little amazed at this latest venture. "I get a strange feeling in me when I sing it; it's unusual, it's like a spell almost."

For all her albums and singles, both alone and with Porter Wagoner, Dolly has never matched some of the other "old guard" female country singers like Loretta Lynn and Lynn Anderson when it comes to winning awards.

Does working in a team have anything to do with that?

"It might," she finally said. "But I've won my share and besides, there are other kinds of awards I enjoy just as much. . . seeing an audience really like what they're hearing and having people ask for my autograph."

She is a performer who is still excited about recording and public appearances. "My writing is so personal to me, it just makes me real happy if I think it touches someone else," she said.

That kiss of a Tennessee hill-country accent is one of the few immediately obvious clues to Dolly's background.

Her classic figure and elaborately curled hair don't make anyone think of an under-fed, poverty-stricken childhood. Neither do flawlessly-applied makeup and an abundance of diamond rings.

But get her started talking about how she used to make hominy in a big pot outdoors, or make dolls from "nubbins," or roll her hair on "little medicine jars," and you'll know another side of Dolly Parton.

"There were six boys and six girls in my family, all growing up in the country on a farm. We were just dirt poor, but we were all real close."

It was in those growing-up days that Dolly started writing songs. At the age of six she wrote a song about her favorite toy: a doll made from a short corn cob called a nubbin. The song, "Little Tiny Tassle-Top," was later recorded in one of her albums.

"Watching the Porter Wagoner show used to be a big thing in my house. I'd sent him some of my songs and then one day he called me and said he wanted to talk over some business." Porter's partner at the time, Norma Jean, was getting married and it was Dolly who replaced her.

While Dolly and Porter aren't recording as much together lately, they're still working closely. It was he who produced her latest album, "Jolene," which is due for release this month.

"I like to think my singing and writing are more developed now," she said. "But we're still not aiming our songs at the pop charts. If they get pop play, we think that's great."

She says her audience is expanding to include some younger people. The industry has some new faces, too, and she sees that as good. It means more people have a chance for the kind of success she enjoys.

But she got a far-away look in her eyes when she leaned back and said "It's sort of sad in a way—like a family that was once real close that marries off and they all move away."

China Is Using Japan's Trucks

By ROBERT CRABBE TOKYO (UPI) — More Chinese rice and pigs roll to market in trucks these days, and more Chinese money is rolling into the bank accounts of Japanese truck makers.

Four Japanese automobile companies expect to ship a record 15,600 trucks to China during the Japanese fiscal year ending March 31, 1974 with an estimated gross revenue of $100 million.

The truck manufacturers hope to step up deliveries to 20,000 units in fiscal 1974. With an expanding highway network and a growing oil industry, the Chinese have turned increasingly to truck transport in recent years.

China's official Hsinhua news agency said recently that the road network had reached 419,000 miles, compared to 46,600 miles at the time of the 1949 revolution.

Truck firms who have profited by China's expansion of highway transport are Mitsubishi motors, Isuzu motors, Nissan Diesel Co., and Hino Motors. In a small way, American firms should also share. Chrysler owns a 15 per cent interest in Mitsubishi, and 33 per cent of Isuzu's stock is held by General Motors.

The industrial newspaper "Nikkan Kogyo" reported the four companies picked up orders for 9,910 new trucks at two trade fairs in Canton this year. Combined with previous orders, a total of 15,600 units are expected to be shipped prior to March 31.

Shoei Jidosha Kogyo, a used car firm, also is delivering 3,000 used trucks to China for a reported $6 million under a deal concluded in April.

The Japanese truck people are happy for the Chinese business because their market probably will slump in 1974 thanks to the recession in Japan spurred by the Arab oil embargo.

Japanese oil industry sources estimate that China's crude oil production has reached about 305 million barrels a year, compared to virtually nothing in the early years after the revolution.

But Japanese trucks are a long way from taking over China's roads. China's own motor vehicle production figures never have been announced. Economists in Japan have come with estimates for Chinese truck and bus output ranging from 130,000 to 160,000 vehicles a year.

Some Live For Magical World

NEW YORK (AP) — Study witchcraft on staid, tidy Staten Island?

No better place, says Dr. Carlyle Haaland, an assistant professor of religious studies, who taught a course this year on the occult at the island's Wagner College.

"In reality, it is well-educated, middle-class people who have nice homes and doctorates — people you wouldn't classify as cultural dropouts — who are very much active in such areas," Haaland said.

Haaland explained that in America there is flourishing a counter-culture that provides people with a second, mystical lifestyle.

"They live schizophrenic lives," he said. "They work their 9-to-5 jobs but come home to a magical world, the one they live for."

Owns 'Pocket Parks', Gardens

NEW YORK (AP) — Jack Gasnick, who has a plumbing supply and hardware store in Manhattan, also owns 28 odd bits of land around town that cost him $800 a year in taxes and yield not a cent. He bought his land scraps at tax sales as a hobby. They're all, or almost all, too small to build on, and anyway that's not the idea. He makes his acquisitions as a hobby.

"All I'm looking for is land with grass or trees or shrubs or enough room to plant a garden," he explains.

Heavy Cargo Runs To Miami

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — The Miami International Airport handled 12,776,011 passengers, 69,979,088 pounds of mail and 709,766,035 pounds of cargo during the fiscal year ending September, 1973.

Cargo increased by 14.7 per cent but mail fell off 2.8 per cent from 1972's totals.

Diana Rigg Not Too Sorry Her TV Series Flopped

By ROBERT MUSEL
LONDON (UPI) — Any sensible artist seeking the undivided attention of viewers at his first London exhibition would hardly invite Diana Rigg. Especially if she wore a dress that flung affectionately to every angle and curve of her long, lithe body.

That sort of distraction would be tough competition even for a roomful of Rembrandts. But Menachem Gueffen had little choice. Miss Rigg is his wife and this is still the first year of a marriage that surprised both of them, happy as it has turned out to be.

Gueffen is an Israeli talented enough (and handsome enough, as it happens) not to worry about transient rivalries. A couple of days after his one-man show opened he was able to report with satisfaction that sales of his paintings were going well to that point.

This, he said, vindicated his personal theory that in the long run a beautiful wife who is also a stage and television star has to be an asset to her husband. Gueffen was a late developer

An Artificial Mouth Studied

MANCHESTER, England (AP) — An artificial "mouth" containing one extracted tooth is being used by a research team at Manchester Dental Hospital to provide new information on the bacteria which cause tooth decay.

Under laboratory conditions simulating those in the human mouth, the scientists are studying the growth of up to 20 organisms which colonize the teeth and gums.

In time, they hope to be able to specify a range of antiseptic chemicals which would destroy only those bacteria which cause tooth decay.

as a professional artist. Seriously wounded in the Arab-Israeli war of 1948, he was given a priority chance to train as a taxi driver in Tel Aviv. But he flunked his driving test. Later he found that his spare time doodling held enough promise to warrant serious art studies.

"We Shout a Bit" Since then he has had exhibitions in several countries, including the United States. On a visit here in 1972 to scout the possibility of a show he was introduced to Miss Rigg, who had just laid a wreath on a long romance that was all downhill its last two or three years.

Menachem took over the empty place. But since he is no fan of permanent engagements there came a morning when he issued this ultimatum: "Marry me or get out." So one of the most celebrated bachelor girls of show business succumbed at 34.

And very pleased both of them looked about it over lunch the other day. "We shout a bit," said Miss Rigg, who has recovered from the quick demise of her U.S. television series "Diana". "We get it out of our systems," said her husband. "We don't believe in repression."

Sharp Rebound In College Gifts

NEW YORK (UPI) — Corporate gifts to colleges and universities, hit by the 1970 slump, have rebounded sharply in the last few years, the Council for Financial Aid to Education, Inc. reports.

Such gifts totaled $340 million in 1970 and rose to $365 million in 1972, the second largest amount on record. Figures for 1973 were not available.

Complains of Complacency "Yes," nodded his wife. "Get the arguments over quickly." Miss Rigg is terse about what happened in Hollywood when her much-publicized series did not get the ratings.

"I spent six months out there," she said. "When I arrived the scripts weren't ready. They were rewriting up to the last minute. Halfway through NBC tried to pull the show together but it was too late. It's a pity. It was anticipated by a lot of people."

"But there was an awful lot of complacency about the place which is the death of any show."

Mixed Disaster This she said, was a mixed disaster because disappointed as she is that the series did not match her famous "Avengers," she now has time to return to the stage where she made her reputation with the Royal Shakespeare Company. "I'm going to play Eliza

Doolittle in 'Pygmalion' in London for six months with Alec McCowen as Prof. Higgins," she said. "Pygmalion" hasn't been done here in 21 years. The success of "My Fair Lady" disguised that. In reality it's a very sexy play."

Then she is in negotiation to tour the United States with a revival of Moliere's "The Misanthrope." "It could be a great success without Broadway," she said. "There are no false values on tour. You get real and natural criticism. It will survive much longer on the road."

She Fidgets She has had many film and TV offers.

"The Hollywood experience almost destroyed my relish for work," she said. "There are parts which under other circumstances I might have accepted. I said in California when all this is over I'm going to take six months off. So all I am doing right now is poetry readings. It doesn't pay much, but it's very enjoyable."

She stood up, all 5 feet 11 of her, and strode out of the restaurant with every eye in the place on her. Gueffen, who is best known for what one critic called "his sensuous and evocative paintings of beautiful women," was asked whether

Diana filled that description. "What a model she would be," he said. "But it doesn't work. She can't sit still. She fidgets."

Mow 'Em Down

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Astrologers say there's one day in the year when you can kill wild onions that mar your lawn just by mowing them down—and today is the day.

"The sun is in the full moon, which is the barren sign," says astrologer Mrs. Alice Stadman of Charlotte. "There won't be better conditions for mowing wild onions in all of 1974. Set the mower blades low and cut the grass close."

The signs will be favorable from sunrise to sunset. The theory is that during particular signs the noxious growth "bleeds" and dies when it is cut.

Visitor Sees U.S. Move To Managed Capitalism

By CHARLES E. FLINNER WASHINGTON (UPI) — After the administration announced each new phase of its anti-inflation program, a Yugoslav newsman shrugged his shoulders and said, "You get more like the Russians and they are becoming more market oriented."

The view of Branco Bogovic, a correspondent for the Yugoslav news agency Tanjug in Peking, Moscow and now Washington, is becoming more and more widely held, even by administration leaders who have wielded enormous economic power.

C. Jackson Grayson Jr., observed in his prize-winning essay in the Harvard Business Review that his experience as head of the price commission convinced him that "our economic system is steadily shifting from a private enterprise, free-market economy to one that is centrally directed and under public control." he added: "Call it what you will—managed capitalism, socialism, a planned economy, post-industrial state—the end result will be the virtual elimination of the free market system as we now know it."

Grayson's article included some critical examples of business use of government to avoid risk taking, a widely advertised feature of a "free enterprise" system.

"They Is Us"

Another view is that business simply is not making its case. Frederick V. Malek, deputy director of the Office of Management and Budget, recently told a public relations group that "business can no longer treat the consumer movement as a bunch of crazies."

"It is no longer the lunatic fringe that would like to ban advertising, limit choices in the market place, choke off incentives for business expansion,"

Malek said. "It's your next door neighbor. The opposition to free enterprise is well organized, effective and articulate."

The administration's foremost economic planner, Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, advances a viewpoint, somewhat in line with a popular comic strip character who is fond of saying, "We have met the enemy and they is us." Shultz says that what is happening to free enterprise is not an accident.

Schultz, who succeeded John Conally at Treasury, also has served as Labor Secretary and director of the Office of Management and Budget. In a Christmas week speech in New York City, Shultz laid out what he had learned in five years near or at the top.

Profit Via Government

"It has long been apparent to many companies, unions, professional bodies, associations and the like that they can achieve profits or other advantages as easily by government actions as by their own efforts in the market place," he said.

"Sometimes they seek subsidies, sometimes tax relief, sometimes protection from competition. If they can succeed, should we economists be surprised that they seek the gold at the end of the government rainbow?"

"The second interest group is the executive branch department or bureau that represents the first interest group."

The secretary conceded that the Agriculture Department is expected to represent farmers, the Labor Department, labor and so on down the line.

"A cabinet secretary would find it difficult to avoid representing his clients at the White House court," he said.

"Many quickly become captured by the permanent bureaucracy that does not doubt the desirability of client representation."

Legislative Committees

Shultz continued: "To understand fully the role of the departments, it is important to grasp the nature of the third interest group—the legislative committees in the Congress.

"Congress and the executive branch are joined in a bureaucratic wedlock by the fact that for nearly every congressional committee, there exists an executive department or bureau in the same substantive area.

"If the committee's jurisdiction is, let us say, health, then it can be predicted with high probability that the members, and particularly the chairman, will favor expanded government health programs. The same goes for national defense, agriculture, and so on down the line of government programs."

According to Shultz, use of the budget process as "a great check on private ambitions over public funds" has been eroded by "the growth of backdoor spending techniques in the Congress which exclude the Appropriations Committees ... and thereby assure that Congress never looks at the budget as a whole."

Social Workers

Shultz said the system can be manipulated by social workers as well as "the behemoths of industry operating the military-industrial complex."

"It is mildly instructive, for example, to observe the opposition of the social workers to the family assistance plan under which federal dollars would have been channeled directly to the poor," he said.

"We should not be surprised that many social workers supported the retention of the existing system under which a large portion of those dollars go to social workers, a middle income group, in return for supervising the allocation of in-kind benefits and the expenditure of funds by the poor."

Shultz concluded: "The system creates almost irresistible incentives for the expansion of government without careful attention to the costs or implications of such a process."

"My conviction that we must do our best to hold the line against encroachment of government on private institutions has been greatly strengthened by my experience over the last five years."

Energy Saved By Plastic Balls

FREEPORT, Tex. (AP) — Hollow plastic balls, not much bigger than ping pong balls, are used at a chemical complex of the Dow Chemical Co. here to reduce heat loss and save energy. Hundreds of the plastic balls are allowed to float on the surface of previously uncovered collection tanks where they insulate heated liquids from the cold outside air.

Loss of liquids by evaporation is reduced by 89 per cent. The system can save as much as 1.4 million BTUs of energy per hour.

Advices Against Toys That Make 'Spectators'

LOGAN, Utah (UPI) — The average American parents spend between $10 and $50 a year on toys for each of their children, according to family life specialist Glen Jensen of Utah State University. "And if we as parents are spending that much, we should make sure we are getting toys that are best for our children," Jensen says.

He cautions against mechanical toys, which make the child a spectator and break down easily, and suggests those which help a child learn, can be manipulated without frustration, are fun and can stand lots of use.

Among the best are blocks, farm animals, dolls, playhouses, even pots and pans or cardboard boxes, which invite the child to be creative because they can be used as many different make-believe objects.

The Worry Clinic Take Care; A Child Parrots

Sammy's mother, like Abraham Lincoln's stepmother, may be responsible for his reaching the top in education, culture and social acceptance. So follow the method Mrs. Crane and I used with our 5 children. Start early!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE Z-544: Sammy D., aged 9, is an alert youngster.

"But, Dr. Crane," his mother protested, "our family on both his daddy's and my side, had very little schooling."

"So his daddy makes many mistakes in grammar."

"And often uses slang as well as profanity."

"Sammy idolizes his daddy and tries to imitate him in every respect, including his speech."

"So how can I get Daddy to use better language?"

Child Parrots

Children try to imitate adults and especially their parents.

They originally learn to talk, much as a parrot does, by repeating what their parents say.

So Sammy's mother is wise in wanting to help launch him into the use of correct English.

And probably thus motivate him into going onward to college.

All ambitious parents, even if you never obtained a high school diploma, can still steer your youngsters into college if you will start them with good English and a delight in reading.

Our 5 Crane children were reared on this booklet, too.

which is why they knew correct grammar even though they hadn't yet reached the point in school where they were taught the difference between an adjective vs. an adverb, or a preposition vs. a conjunction.

"Dad," they often told us at dinner, "we can tell the teacher which sentence is correct, but we don't know why!"

Here are some of the typical examples in that booklet:

(17) They invited her and me.

(18) They invited she and I.

(23) Who did you say was going?

(24) Whom did you say was going?

(31) She was dark complexioned.

(32) She was dark complexioned.

(49) I'll wait on you at the station.

(50) I'll wait for you at the station.

(59) There is rivalry among the two.

(60) There is rivalry between the two.

Make a game out of spotting slang, profanity or incorrect English.

At our house, we'd pay the children a penny if they ever caught Mrs. Crane or me making such an error.

Even though they played with youngsters who were guilty of flagrant mistakes in English, our children resisted the usual tendency to drop down to the level of the majority.

They used to vince even at Billy Graham's attempt to join the rank and file by his fadeout:

"May the Lord bless you real good."

Remember, it is just as easy to learn good habits (that work in your behalf all your life) as to acquire bad habits that often cost you a chance at a good job, admittance to elite clubs, etc.

So send for my booklet "How to Raise Your Child's School Marks," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

That non-profit booklet may tip the scales in favor of his college graduation!

Once upon a time, if you doubled an opponent's bid the meaning was clear: You expected to defeat him several tricks and the double was to up the ante sufficiently to make sure he would think twice before trifling with you again. However, times have changed, and we now have takeout doubles, penalty doubles, negative doubles, responsive doubles, and a variety of doubles that have never quite taken the public's fancy. To help you find your way thru the forest of gadgets that are available, try Bob Ewen's new book, "Doubles for Takeout, Penalties and Profit in Contract Bridge" (Prentice-Hall, $8.95; paperback $4.95). In discussing this subject, the book goes quite deeply into the question of overcalls. As with previous Prentice-Hall efforts, sloppy proofreading detracts from the overall excellence of the book.

East's double on today's hand, while safe enough, actually cost his side a bundle of points. By announcing that he had a good hand with both minors, East allowed South to upgrade the value of the queen of clubs, for the ace-queen tenace became worth two full tricks. Since East held the minors and it was unlikely that his side could make game in the face of the opposition bidding, he might have been wiser to simply overcall, or even to pass altogether.

East's entry into the auction also had repercussions in the play. The defenders started with three rounds of diamonds. East came up with the best defense when he led a fourth round of diamonds. Under different circumstances, declarer might have been tempted to discard the queen of clubs and bank everything on the heart finesse. In view of the auction, however, he ruffed in his hand. Subsequently, declarer took an immediate finesse thru West for the queen of hearts and then, after drawing trumps, finessed East for the king of clubs, thus making a contract that would have gone down had declarer relied solely on the trump finesse.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute
GENERAL TENDENCIES: Your ideas are excellent now and you should make rapid headway towards gaining the plan of action that can bring you success over a long period of time. You can use up-to-date methods for accomplishing your goals.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Talk over with an associate how present routines and problems can be handled with more efficiency. Show that you are very dependable.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Improve on your regular routines and increase your income. Don't be so stubborn that you lose out on fine opportunities in your grasp.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan how to get relief from a tiresome situation that has you bogged down and worried. Obtain information you need from an expert.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Engage in routines that are important and be successful with them by not confiding in others. Kin can be of great help now.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Allies and friends understand your needs better now and will give you the support you need at this time. Attend the social tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) If you make the right contacts, you can get much accomplished today. Improve your health and become a more dynamic person.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) You have some excellent ideas and should put them in operation quickly or you lose out. Engage in group activities you enjoy.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make sure you take care of your obligations before you make improvements at home. Find the information you need to make progress.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Listen to what a clever associate has to say today and benefit by the advice. Handle correspondence and make out vital reports.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You need to make more money and you find that a bigwig can be very helpful in showing you how this can be done. Show appreciation.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) You are inspired to gain your cherished aims at this time. Use the social avenue to achieve greater success and happiness.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You have to use your finest judgment to gain the data you need. Some of your desires should be eliminated. Show that you have wisdom.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have excellent ideas of an inventive nature and should be accorded a fine college education to bring out the practicality that is needed to make them workable. Your youngster will be bored with whatever is old-fashioned, but will appreciate the never-changing ancient basics. Religion a must here.

Exorcism 'Frightening' To Man Priest

By MICHAEL R. FRANCO ROCHESTER (UPI) — "The thought of exorcism terrifies me. If I were ever asked to perform one, I'd take the first train out of town..."

Strange words perhaps from a man who's recently been involved up to his Roman collar in the mind-boggling subject.

As a Jesuit priest, the Rev. William O'Malley is quite familiar with the ancient Roman Catholic rite. As the glib Father Dyer in the controversial new movie "The Exorcist" he has helped to introduce the frightening ritual to thousands of moviegoers.

The film, based on William Peter Blatty's best-selling novel of the same name, deals with a Jesuit priest's terrifying struggles to drive an evil spirit from a "possessed" little girl. Both the novel and movie are based on a real-life 1949 report that a Jesuit priest expelled a demon from a 14-year-old boy in the suburbs of Washington, D.C.

The film is powerful and ugly. Certain outraged critics have complained that it sensationalizes evil.

Not so, says Father O'Malley, a handsome 42-year-old dynamo of perpetual motion. He insists the movie is a parable which "rips away all the masks we put over evil."

"The movie is about evil, and evil shouldn't look pretty," he says, "but no one should ever say that (Director William) Friedkin made the evil pretty or attractive."

He feels the movie isn't for everyone "because of its tremendous assault on your emotions. It terrified me the first time I saw it, and I knew how they made those things happen."

A teacher of English and theology at Mc Quaid Jesuit High School in suburban Brighton, the veteran local actor got his first call to Hollywood after he sent Blatty a review he had written of the printed version "The Exorcist."

The review led to luncheon dates with Blatty and later Friedkin, who eventually offered him the role.

The Rev. Karl Patzelt, a San Francisco priest, recently claimed he drove the devil from the home of a couple in Daly City, Calif., last August. He also says many persons confined to mental asylums may be "possessed," and should instead be placed in the hands of exorcists.

Father O'Malley strongly disagrees. "I have no doubt that 99.999 per cent of those in institutions are mentally disturbed," he says.

What about the other .001 per cent? Father O'Malley leans back in his chair and slowly looks toward the ceiling, obviously reluctant to continue.

"Well, I suppose they could be possessed. Who can prove they aren't?" he asks. "Actually, I guess I'm an agnostic when it comes to the devil, because I haven't really decided on the concept yet."

Father O'Malley says he has no regrets about accepting the part, but admits he worries about the film's potential impact on certain viewers.

"It can be absolutely terrifying for many people, but viewers should remember that it's only a movie, a collection of different lights flashing on the screen," he says.

The Buffalo native hopes the film will cause viewers "to think about the transcendent" and feels "those with faith in the transcendent" will be more likely to enjoy the movie.

"I fear that those without faith in the transcendent may see it as a mere horror story or come to believe in an evil force without accepting a counteracting positive force, or God."

Father O'Malley realizes the film may spawn a rash of persons claiming to be "possessed." He bluntly tells them to go elsewhere for help.

"Please, please, don't come looking for me," he stresses. "Go see a psychiatrist or even Father Patzelt, but don't look to me for help. Exorcism isn't my bag."

A Section In Rome Has Strong American Aura

By HILMI TOROS Associated Press Writer

ROME (AP) — As Italian immigrants once converged in a section of Lower Manhattan and turned it into "Little Italy," American expatriates have made a quaint section of Rome their own "Little America."

Between hippies and retirees, embassy workers and painters, over 1,000 Americans call the Trastevere — across the Tiber — sector of Rome their home away from home. There is the oldest part of the Eternal City and often likened to Greenwich Village, Chelsea in London and the Left Bank in Paris.

On Vicolo del Cinque, a narrow meandering lane with a row of coppersmith townhouses, are the Peppers — Bill, the author, and Beverly, one of Rome's better known sculptors. They are the veterans. The Trasteverini know them as they know their kind.

A block or two away is Sally Cox Marucci, an acclaimed painter and the stepdaughter of U.S. publisher James Cox. Through a relative newcomer, she, too, is accepted. Her car is no longer burglarized.

Then there is jazz pianist Lois Cantor. Or Gwenn O'Sullivan, formerly of Philadelphia, who teaches English 50 miles away but still lives in "my village."

"I absolutely love it here," says Mary Ann Haas, wife of the headmaster of the English-language Overseas School. "It's like living in a little village."

As their neighborhood, the Peppers, the Maruccis, the O'Sullivans and other expatriates couldn't have chosen a better district in Rome. Trastevere, on the Vatican side of the Tiber, is the old Rome itself, the quarter where Trasteverini consider other parts of Rome "Italian," not necessarily Roman.

"Noi Antri" (We Others), Trastevere residents call themselves in a conscious effort to divorce themselves from the rest of "Italian" Rome. Some Trasteverini still see no reason to cross the Tiber to an alien Rome.

There is always pizza, as in America, and always a debate whether it was better back in the States.

There is also Mario's Trattoria, where pasta is 50 cents a plate and where the gourmet but broke expatriates rub shoulders with the Trasteverini. A bottle of wine is also about 50 cents.

The Trasteverini — described in the Blue Guide as "inhabitants most nearly preserving the characteristics of the original Roman people" — both embrace and reject the Americans.

"They pay the rent on time," says one. The poor of the area, on the other hand, accuse the Americans, or other, better-off foreigners, of being willing to pay any rent and thus driving them out of their proud neighborhood.

Unlike the Italian immigrants in New York, the Americans are not the disadvantaged and they don't cling together to the degree the immigrants did in Lower Manhattan.

There are camaraderie and common bonds, however. ("No kiddin', you went to Yale, too?")

Trastevere is where the old blends — or conflicts — with the new, as Americans, and to a lesser degree Europeans, do with the Romans.

Next to humid and rotting watch repair shops are modern clothing boutiques. Porsches are parked in some garages, horse carriages in the others.

The church in the main piazza, Santa Maria in Trastevere, is the oldest recognized Christian building in Rome, from the third century. On its steps are rock guitarists.

For the expatriates, the melting point is the Pasquino, a 300-seat English-language movie house, a long corridor only 40-feet wide with a door and a roof. But it's where, for a dollar, U.S. rejects play to full houses.

No popcorn during and no hamburgers after the flick, but

Red China's ICBM Goal Is Lagging

By FRED S. HOFFMAN AP Military Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Communist Chinese development of an intercontinental ballistic missile capable of hitting the United States is moving at a slower pace than U.S. officials had estimated.

These officials now forecast that a big Chinese ICBM that could hurl a three-megaton warhead 6,000 miles may be combat-ready in 1976 or 1977. A megaton is the equivalent of a million tons of TNT.

Over the years, defense officials have repeatedly revised their predictions, and their most recent estimate had centered on next year as the time when Communist China would achieve its first operational ICBM.

After the first ICBM is operational, it will take about three additional years of testing and launch base construction before China could deploy between 10 and 25 nuclear armed missiles that could strike anywhere in the continental United States.

There is no indication that the slower-than-expected rate of development stems from any serious technological problems.

Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, told the Senate Armed Services Committee Tuesday that what he called "the deliberate, unhurried pace" of Communist China's missile programs reflects a comparatively small number of technically qualified specialists working on that effort, along with relatively limited resources.

However, Moorer indicated that other phases of China's missile development have reached the point where Russia may soon come under the threat of Chinese nuclear missiles.

The JCS chairman said a limited range ICBM could be deployed later this year. Experts said this missile has a range of about 3,000 miles.

"Although capable of reaching deep into the Soviet Union," Moorer said, "this missile will not be able to reach the continental United States, except for the western part of Alaska."

Two other shorter-range missiles already have been deployed by the Chinese, Moorer confirmed.
