'Oregon Allocation Plan' For Gasoline Due In Pitt Monday

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

County residents and service station operators were urged today to cooperate with a plan to help shorten waiting lines at gas stations throughout the county—a program based on the so-called Oregon plan of gas allocation and scheduled to go into effect in Pitt County on Monday.

County Fire Marshall and Civil Defense Director Bobby Joyner, Energy Coordinator for Pitt, said this morning that the 10-member Greenville Oil Distributors Association—including most of the oil jobbers in the County—agreed to support the Oregon allocation plan at a meeting earlier this week.

Under the plan, according to Joyner, persons with even-numbered license plates (based on the last digit in the license number) will be allowed to purchase gas on even-numbered days according to the calendar date. Persons with odd numbered plates will be allowed to buy gas on odd numbered days.

As an example, Joyner said Monday will be the 18th of February. He said service stations will sell gas to cars with even-numbered licenses—that is, cars with license numbers that end in 2, 4, 6, 8 or 0.

Tuesday, the 19th, Joyner said, stations will sell gas to cars with odd numbered plates—those ending in 1, 3, 5, 7, or 9.

The plan, according to Joyner, is based on stations selling gas six days each week—Monday through Saturday—with no gas being sold on Sunday.

The energy coordinator urged local drivers to cooperate with service station operators in the implementation of the allocation system and not attempt to purchase gas on days not allotted according to license numbers.

Joyner said the allocation plan is being implemented in an effort to cut down lines.

"We hope by doing this," he added, "stations will be able to lengthen their hours of operation." He emphasized, however, that the cooperation of the public is essential.

Joyner said officials are "hoping" that drivers will not purchase gas at every opportunity just to "top off their tanks." He said the situation would improve if drivers would burn more gas before stopping for additional fuel.

"Try to be sure you need at least a half a tank of gas," before stopping, Joyner suggested. "A lot of what is causing the long lines," the energy coordinator theorized, is persons "topping off their tank," at every opportunity.

Joyner cited an incident Thursday when a person driving a small foreign car stood in line at a station and filled up with 18 cents worth of regular fuel.

Joyner also urged farmers and commercial firms with bulk storage tanks to use gas from their own storage.

According to Joyner many farmers—who have been assured of all the gas they need for their operations—and commercial bulk customers have full storage tanks and are purchasing gas at service stations for their daily operations. "In effect," he explained, "they are hoarding gas...just in case," and adding to the problem.

Joyner emphasized that local service station operators are "doing the best they can under a bad situation" and urged drivers to cooperate in the allocation plan in an effort to bring some relief.

The energy coordinator said persons having questions regarding gas and other fuel allocations may contact his office using telephone number 758-2008 or 758-5907.

He said many persons have been calling his office on the Pitt County Fire Marshall's telephone, thus tying up the county fire-reporting line.

Clashes Taken To UN Wholesale Prices Continue To Spiral

By WILLIAM N. OATIS

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The United States, a heavy supplier of arms to Iran, has lost a bid to keep the United Nations Security Council from discussing recent border clashes between Iraq and Iran.

Louis de Guiringaud, the French council president for February, called the 15-nation body into session this afternoon at the request of Iraq.

Diplomats said the United States recommended leaving the dispute to private negotiation or mediation rather than having a public exchange of abuse in the council.

Talib El-Shibib, sent from the Iraqi foreign ministry for the debate, asserted that the Americans "don't want the Iranians to be exposed as aggressors" because "it might affect the morality" of Washington's recent $3 billion arms sale to Iran.

He charged that Iranian troops in an attack last Sunday seized a position three miles inside Iraq and have been holding it with about 30 tanks. He said his government wants the council to get the foreign troops out.

Iraq reported 23 Iraqis and more than 70 Iranians killed or wounded in the fighting Sunday. It also claimed that Iranian forces attacked Iraqi border positions on Jan. 24 and again on Feb. 4.

Iran disputed this version and circulated a document charging that Iraqi troops attacked across the border four times between Jan. 30 and Feb. 10. It said the bodies of 14 Iraqis were left inside Iran, and a number of Iranian frontier guards were casualties.

The Tehran government also opposed having the issue brought before the council. It claimed the incident was over and the two neighbors had never brought such disputes to the council before.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Wholesale prices boomed upward in January at the second highest monthly rate on record as the inflationary spiral stretched across the entire economy, the government said today.

Wholesale price rises mean that the higher costs will be translated into higher retail prices in the weeks ahead, as inflation shows no letup for the consumer.

Sharply higher wholesale costs for farm products, industrial commodities, consumer finished goods and fuels pushed the wholesale price index up by a seasonally adjusted 3.1 per cent, a rise exceeded only by the record 6.2 per cent of last August.

If January's rate is computed on an annual basis, it comes out to an annual rate of inflation of 37.2 per cent — 3.1 per cent a month for 12 months.

Wholesale prices, accelerating in the past few months, have risen at an annual rate of 32.3 per cent in the past three months, a record. In the past 12 months, they have gone up 20.8 per cent, the second highest rise for any 12-month period since October 1947.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics said—wholesale prices in January actually rose at a monthly rate of 3.5 per cent when usual seasonal influences are subtracted.

Prices of farm products and processed foods and feeds jumped 5.1 per cent on a seasonally adjusted basis; industrial commodities 2.3 per cent and consumer finished goods 2.8 per cent. All three figures reflected an economy caught in a tremendous inflationary grip.

A month earlier, wholesale prices went up 2.2 per cent.

The Nixon administration has offered consumers hope that the price surge will let up in the second half of this year.

The bureau said the wholesale cost of fuel accounted for almost 40 per cent of the jump in industrial commodities prices, with refined petroleum products leaping by 7.7 per cent and crude oil 22 per cent.

Of farm products, livestock prices jumped 15.4 per cent, milk 4.2 per cent, eggs 3.8 per cent, grains 8.9 per cent and fresh fruits and vegetables 7.5 per cent.

In wholesale processed foods, prices of meats, poultry and fish were up 7.8 per cent, dairy products 2 per cent and processed fruits and vegetables 1.1 per cent.

Wholesale prices of motor vehicles and equipment climbed 1.2 per cent as did prices of railroad equipment.

The only industrial commodity group showing a decline in price was lumber and wood products, reflecting drops in the prices of softwood plywood and softwood lumber.

The bureau said that the price index climbed last month to 150.4 of the 1967 average, meaning that on the whole it cost $15.04 to buy the same volume of wholesale goods that cost $10 in 1967.

New Hospital Begun

A BRIGHT DAY—Although the weather did not cooperate—as witnessed by the top coat and umbrella sported by R.L. Martin, chairman of the Board of County Commissioners as he spoke to the gathered crowd—it was a bright day for many persons in the county yesterday when ground was broken for a new $15.84 million hospital. Martin and the other five members of the Board of Commissioners, along with Ed Warren, chairman of the Board of Trustees of the hospital and County Attorney W. W. Speight teamed up to turn the first eight shovels-full of dirt for the project in an afternoon down-pour. Construction was set to get under-way today. (Reflector Photo by Stuart Savage)

County's Offer May Help Med Issue: Jenkins

East Carolina University Chancellor Leo W. Jenkins indicated this week that action by Pitt County Commissioners last week may help ECU in efforts to gain expansion of the one-year medical school at the Greenville campus.

In a letter to R.L. "Bob" Martin, chairman of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners, Dr. Jenkins said "I am extremely gratified that you and the other members of the Pitt County Board of Commissioners have offered to make the present county hospital and its surrounding county-owned land available to us in the future development of the East Carolina University School of Medicine."

According to the chancellor's letter, one of the "oft-repeated comments" on the issue of expanding the one-year medical program at ECU "has been that no adequate facilities exist for clinical teaching."

Jenkins said, "Pitt County's far-sighted and generous action should lay this spurious argument to rest."

According to the university head, "I have forwarded your letter to the Chairman of our Board of Trustees and to President Friday (William Friday, president of the University of North Carolina system) for their information. As soon as the state has reached a decision concerning the future development of the Medical School, I will contact you in order that we may begin the discussions necessary to present a definite plan and proposal to responsible authorities."

Pitt County Commissioners, in a letter to Chancellor Jenkins a week ago offered to make the present hospital available for use "to negotiate...in order for your institution to acquire this property" — if the decision is made to authorize a degree-granting medical school at the university.

"We at East Carolina University deeply appreciate the continued active and meaningful efforts that you and your fellow Commissioners exert on our behalf," Jenkins concluded.

Construction of a new hospital in Pitt was set to begin today, with completion of the facility scheduled for mid-1976.

The official ground-breaking ceremony for the new 370-bed intensive care and rehabilitation facility was held yesterday.

Morgan Repeats He Is Staying On In Office

ASHEVILLE (AP)—North Carolina Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan, campaigning for a U. S. Senate seat, has observed that "public trust" in officeholders is at its lowest ebb in history.

Morgan also said at a news conference in Asheville Thursday that he will remain in office throughout his campaign, despite criticism from those who say he should resign.

The attorney general told newsmen, "The Republicans want me to resign so they can take this office over. But it is very important that the attorney general's office remain apart and free from the govern-nor's office."

Morgan added, "The firing of Mr. Richardson by President Nixon clearly indicates this far better than anything I could say."

His reference was to Nixon's dismissal of U. S. Atty. Gen. Elliott Richardson, who left office last fall in a dispute over Watergate matters.

Morgan is one of four Democrats in the race for the U. S. Senate seat being vacated by retiring Sen. Sam Ervin, who also is a Democrat. Two Republicans also are in the race.

Other Democratic candidates are Henry Hall Wilson of Monroe, William H. Hare of High Point, and Charles B. Riddle of

Holshouser To Tell His Gas Plan On Sunday

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser says he will tell North Carolinians about his "new approach" to easing the impact of the gasoline shortage in a televised address Sunday night.

Holshouser emerged from a three-hour meeting with representatives of the state's service station owners Thursday and said a tentative agreement had been reached on a plan to pare the long lines around the state's gas stations.

But no one who participated in the meeting was willing to say anything about what had been decided.

Holshouser said the details of the plan still needed work and anything he could say Thursday might only confuse people.

He did indicate that there will be no coupon-style rationing in the plan. "I still think of that as a last resort," he said.

Holshouser said that although his approach would be "new" he would not rule out some modification of the Oregon-style voluntary plan in which motorists are allowed to buy gas every other day, depending on whether their license plate number is odd or even.

One of the participants in the meeting, Avery Upchurch of the North Carolina Service Stations Association, had come with a proposal for a plan that did not include Oregon-style purchasing limitations.

Upchurch's plan would urge drivers to voluntarily cut their mileage by 25 per cent. It would also urge them not to try to buy gas until their tanks were less than half full.

Service station owners would be asked to figure out how much gas they could sell each day and still remain open six days per week and to limit their hours and daily sales accordingly.

Upchurch said after the meeting that there had been little dissension among the participants.

Two others at the meeting were legislative lobbyists for North Carolina's local governments, John Morrissey of the Association of County Commissioners and Leigh Wilson of the League of Municipalities.

But Morrissey would not comment afterwards on what role local governments will play, if any, in the plan.

Earthquake In Three States

WASHINGTON (AP) — An earthquake today shook parts of the Texas Panhandle and adjoining Oklahoma and Kansas areas, the U.S. Geological Service reported.

The quake, recorded at 8:33 a.m. Texas time, registered an estimated magnitude of between 4 and 4.5 on the Richter scale.

Dylan Tour A 'Phenomenon'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Bob Dylan, whose lyrics became both the backdrop and an impetus to the 1960s protest movement, has ended his first concert tour in eight years.

During Thursday night's concert, the son of a Hibbing, Minn., hardware dealer, remained as much an enigma as ever, relying on his sometimes cryptic lyrics — and not the spoken word — to communicate to the audience of 19,500.

The tour has been a phenomenon in recent rock history. From Jan. 3 to Thursday night, Dylan played 40 concerts in 21 cities before 668,000 people. The gross receipts were $5¼ million.

Goldsboro. Republican hopefuls are D. E. Sweat of Boone and W. E. Young of the Avery County community of Minneapolis.

Morgan estimated that his campaign would cost from $350,000 to $400,000 and he said the integrity of government would be one of the major issues of the race because of Watergate and related matters.

He said inflation and other economic concerns would be campaign issues.

Morgan also announced the appointment of Asheville insurance man Wallace N. Hyde as his western North Carolina campaign manager.

Julie Undergoes An Operation

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (AP) — Julie Nixon Eisenhower was in satisfactory condition today after undergoing surgery Thursday for removal of a benign ovarian cyst, her White House doctor said.

Dr. William Lukash gave the report after an early morning visit with the President's 25-year-old daughter at Indiana University Medical Center here. He came here with First Lady Pat Nixon from Key Biscayne.

FEO Teams To Verify Gasoline Supply Data

By JEFFREY MILLS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — In a move to alleviate gasoline inequalities from state to state, the Federal Energy Office is sending teams into many of the states to verify gasoline supply data.

After making sure it has the right figures, the agency will decide how to shift supplies around to eliminate inequalities, FEO Deputy Administrator John C. Sawhill said Thursday.

A number of states and local governments, faced with long waiting lines at service stations, have imposed forms of gasoline rationing. Other areas report few supply problems.

The FEO, which has given its blessing to the controls imposed by states and localities, on Thursday suggested affected areas enact minimum-purchase requirements and staggered hours of service to make sure gasoline is available throughout the day.

Sawhill said the question of federal gasoline rationing remains under study.

The verification teams will be sent to 20 states and the District of Columbia, Sawhill said.

The FEO is conflicting data on gasoline supplies and wants to be sure it has the right figures before it decides how to move gasoline from state to state, he said.

The FEO also announced moves to direct more fuel immediately to the trucking industry and to crack down on propane price-gouging.

And the agency said petroleum imports averaged some 4.9 million barrels a day last week, just about the level expected under the Arab oil embargo.

Policeman Slain Responding To Call

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) — One policeman was shot to death and two were wounded Thursday night as they answered a call that a man with a gun had been seen behind some homes, authorities reported.

A man was wounded during the shootings and was hospitalized but was not charged immediately, Police Lt. Col. Arthur Burch said.

Burch gave this account: Policeman A. Glenn Craft, 25, who had been on the force five years, died of shotgun wounds at close range in the face and chest.

Reserve policeman J.M. Causey, 32, who was riding with Craft, was hit above the left eye. Policeman Joe Cline, 25, who arrived later in another car, was hit in the left arm and both legs.

Causey and Cline were released from a hospital after treatment.

The wounded civilian was identified as Henry McQueen.

The police had received a telephone call that a man with a gun had been observed in a wooded area behind houses in a residential and industrial area in the northeastern section of the city.

Brewer-Allred Vows Said In Sunday Ceremony

Mrs. Linda Koger Allred became the bride of Frank Lewis Brewer Sunday at 3:00 p.m. in a ceremony at the Grace Free Will Baptist Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Koger of Rogersville, Tenn. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Linwood E. Brewer of Greenville.

Mrs. J. C. Weeks presided at the registry in the vestibule of the sanctuary.

The Rev. William C. Mobley of Washington, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, officiated at the double ring ceremony. A program of nuptial music was presented by Mrs. Becky Overton, organist. Mrs. Jane Randlett sang, "The Song of Ruth," and "The Lord's Prayer."

The church was arranged with two baskets of white gladioli, daisies, and greenery and two four branch white candelabra flanking the pulpit.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a formal length Victorian gown of light blue voile, styled with an inset white lace yoke, white lace trimming the waist, and long sleeves ending in lace cuffs.

She wore a clustered lace headpiece with a wide white satin ribbon flowing down to her shoulders. She carried a nosegay of violets encased in lace and tied with narrow satin lavender ribbon.

Mrs. Linda Kostin of Jacksonville, was matron of honor. She wore a formal length two-piece dress of blue, green, and orchid paisley design voile with long sleeves. She carried a nosegay of white daisies.

Linwood E. Brewer served as his son's best man. Ushers were Jimmie W. Brewer, brother of the bridegroom, and Bill Blizard, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

The mother of the bride chose for her daughter's wedding a blue knit dress with a white flower design inset and full length vest of the same material with matching accessories. The mother of the bridegroom selected a dress of mint green crepe, princess-lined, with lace collar and cuffs of the same color and long chiffon sleeves and matching accessories. Both mothers wore corsages of white carnations.

Immediately following the wedding, the guests were entertained at a reception in honor of the bridal couple in the fellowship hall of the church.

Punch was poured by Mrs. Jimmie W. Brewer, and cake was served by Mrs. Ralph Harris, sister of the bridegroom. The refreshment table was covered with a white cloth and centered by an arrangement of yellow daisy pom poms with candelabra on each side.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Bill Blizard, sister of the bridegroom. Goodbyes were said and decorative bridal tokens were given to the guests by Mrs. William C. Mobley, sister of the bridegroom.

For a wedding trip to unannounced parts, the bride changed into a dress ensemble of red and white jersey with matching red accessories.

The bride is a graduate of Rogersville High School and attended the University of Tennessee. The bridegroom graduated from East Carolina University. He is a captain in the U. S. Marine Corps and is presently stationed in Quantico, Va., where the couple will make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie W. Brewer, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Brewer, and Mr. and Mrs. William R. Brewer entertained the Brewer-Allred wedding party Saturday night at a dinner served at Parker's Restaurant.

Miss Louise Williams Gives Chapter Program

Miss Louise Williams, professor emerita of mathematics at East Carolina University, was speaker at the meeting of Delta Chapter of Delta Kappa Gamma Tuesday night.

In keeping with the 1974 program focus, Education for Changing Times, Prof. Williams reviewed the changes which have taken place in the life of the average American during the past 50 years. She reminded her listeners that they would need to undergo continual economic, intellectual and psychological reorganization to keep pace with the rapid changes now affecting their lives.

She spoke of the difficulty of communicating adequately with people of other cultures and recounted some experiences she had had when traveling in Greece a few months ago. She pointed out that "education of the spirit" could help one develop a sensitivity to the needs of all human beings. Professor Williams retired from the mathematics department of ECU in 1970 after teaching there for 40 years. She is one of the few women who has attained the rank of full professor. Since her retirement, she has traveled extensively and continues to be active in community affairs. She is listed in "Who's Who in American Education" and several other similar publications.

During the business session the chapter voted on new members and elected the following slate of officers: Edna Earle Baker, president; Thadys J. Dewar, first vice president; Betty Levey, second vice president; Rosalind Britt, recording secretary; Elizabeth Edwards, corresponding secretary; and Ruth Bell Jones, treasurer.

Mrs. Evelyn B. Moye, president of the Delta chapter, presided during the evening, and Mrs. Mildren H. Derrick, chairperson of the committee on Professional affairs, introduced the speaker.

Friend's Patience Is Running Out

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: For years I have cherished the friendship of a very fine woman. She's a lady of character, intelligence and charm. She is very devout in her religion, as I am in mine, tho our religions differ vastly.

Lately whenever we are together she tries to convert me to her religion. I have told her emphatically and repeatedly that her efforts to convert me are futile, but she is persistent.

How can I convince her that she is wasting her time and trying my patience? I don't want to end our otherwise pleasant friendship of many years.

SPIRITUALLY SATISFIED

DEAR SATISFIED: Send her this quote:

"I never told my own religion, nor scrutinized that of another. I never attempted to make a convert, nor wished to change another's creed. I have ever judged of the religion of others, and by this test, my dear Madame, I have been satisfied yours must be an excellent one to have produced a life of such exemplary virtue and correctness. For it is in our lives and not from our words that our religion must be read."

The above is a portion of a letter written by Thomas Jefferson to Mrs. H. Harrison Smith on Aug. 6, 1816.

If your cherished friend is as intelligent and virtuous as you say she is, she will get the message and act accordingly.

DEAR ABBY: Three years ago, when my husband was 58, he had an affair with his secretary. It was no secret, and all the tongues in this little town were wagging a mile a minute.

Once I found a motel key in his coat pocket, and he had the gall to tell me that he got tired driving so he checked into this motel to take a nap. [Three miles from home!]

Last year he had an operation which left him practically impotent, and since then I couldn't ask for a more devoted husband. He phones me if he knows he's going to be half an hour late. He buys me presents, sends me flowers, and even takes me on business trips, which he never did before.

Of course I'm enjoying all this, but why in your opinion has my husband suddenly turned over a new leaf?

WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: Probably because there's not much left under the old one.

DEAR ABBY: My friend's mother died, and all the funeral arrangements were left to my friend, so she asked me to go with her for moral support.

Her mother had requested cremation. We went to the mortuary and a man took us to a room where my friend picked out a casket. They were exquisitely finished, and expensive, so I asked the [dumb?] question, "What happens to that beautiful expensive casket after the body is cremated?"

The man gestured as tho he was putting a loaf of bread in an oven, and said: "The whole thing goes in. It's against the law to reuse the casket."

My husband works for a utility company, and one of his coworkers was called in for a repair job where cremations take place, and he told my husband that the casket was NOT burned. It was returned, and rented out.

What can be done to protect grieving survivors from being swindled out of thousands of dollars? In their sorrow and befuddled state they never ask questions.

D. E. P. IN MILL VALLEY

DEAR D. E. P.: Your husband's coworker is mistaken. A casket is never "re-used" or rented out. It's against the law.

The lingerie look, with its embroidered lace is making fashion news in camisole tops that peek out from under blouses and dresses for spring.

A Good Neighbor Is A Victim

We think it is time someone said a word for that building block of the free enterprise system—the neighborhood service station.

For years, its owner-operator has built his business by giving service to customers who live in his area. These are the people who visited his station, not only for gasoline but for all the other services which are needed to operate an automobile.

Many of these services were free—cleaning the windshield and putting air in the tires, for instance. Simple mechanical work he did for as little as he could charge and still make a profit. Generally he was not located on the throughways and super highways where big stations catered to the traveler. Nor did he go in for the cut rate gas era when virtually no other services were offered.

This neighborhood service station operator was the one we pointed to when we wanted to show how well the free enterprise system worked for the little guy who wanted a piece of the action. A hard working man and his family could make a decent living by giving good service to regular customers and still be his own boss.

But now comes the gas shortage and Federal Energy Chief Simon suddenly tells this so-called independent businessman that he can't do the things that built his business in the first place. He must now sell to the motorists who drove right by his full service station only a couple of months back.

While big oil's profits shoot skyward, the neighborhood operator is being told he can't continue to cater to his regular customers, as he has done for years to build his business. And, of course, if he can't the whole concept of a neighborhood station which looks after your car is doomed.

Like so many things which Washington does, we have come up with one simplistic answer which does not fit a complex situation. What applies to a station located on an interstate interchange or a self service facility that offers no other services, doesn't necessarily fit the neighborhood station operator who has worked long and hard to build a regular trade.

The New Breed In Legislature

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—There's a new breed of lawmaker striding the halls of the State House these days: people to whom party labels, special interest groups, or tradition mean little.

They come to Raleigh, they admit, "without hooks" in them, without big contributors behind them, and they gain a sense of independence which makes it often hard to judge which way they will go.

Their numbers are not legion—perhaps only a handful can qualify. But there are signs of an increase.

Some are not at all well known around the Legislature, and one recently recalled that she felt like she had finally arrived after the lengthy 1973 session, and into the current one, when a member of the Sergeant at Arms' staff called her by her first name.

Not A Leader
Mrs. Frances F. (Fran) Tomlin is a good example of the trend. She is not, she would be hasty to correct, a leader of any trend.

But she does epitomize to other legislators and to General Assembly staff the kind of person who gets that "new breed" label.

A mother of four—in fact, the youngest grandmother in the General Assembly—the Concord resident is in the General Assembly "because I love it; I couldn't leave it alone."

The wife of a successful physician (urologist) who is himself active in a number of areas, including chairmanship of the North Carolina Mental Health Commission, Fran Tomlin kicked the so-called good life for the daily grind in Raleigh.

Why throw over the country club, bridge party, suburban success image for such hard work?

"My husband made me do it," Mrs. Tomlin laughed. Then hastily said, "No...but he did tell me I had something better to do...that the country club, bridge club thing is not for me."

Three kids were grown and gone. The fourth, an 11-year-old son, stays home with dad while mom works in Raleigh. The result, she says, is a closeness and adult relationship between father and son that would never have been possible.

A Republican, Mrs. Tomlin

sounds—if labels must be attached—more like a "little-bit liberal" Democrat. She laughs at the idea, but confesses that until 1960 she was a Democrat, switched over simply because she figured competition was a good idea and that a two-party system makes for better politics.

"I'm sure I sound like a liberal Democrat in a way. But I take a stand on what I really think—not on what party lines say I ought."

Favors ECU

Examples of her free-thinking: she is for a med school at East Carolina University while most Republicans follow the governor's lead. Living with a physician has taught her, she says, that most graduates of medical school at Chapel Hill think that is Mecca, but she thinks the University needs to look at the entire state-to-need for a veterinary school at State, forestry in the west, marine activities on the coast; building a state system, not just Chapel Hill.

She is for children, and was active on the committee trying to create a state department for kids with special needs, then scuttling that idea in favor of putting special programs under the school system, a move some have said would result in moving programs from a Republican department (Human Resources) to a Democrat one (Public Education).

Mrs. Tomlin is for annual sessions in the face of many legislators who are disenchanted with that idea, but she sees problems with legislators needing to get back home to run in spring primaries.

How goes it for a woman in the General Assembly? Very good, now, she says, but recalls that early in her term as women became more numerous in the State House, there was a tendency to say to the women "how about writing this down" anytime something needed to be written down during a committee meeting.

Chappaquiddick Still Obstacle

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON—When Sen. Edward M. Kennedy was asked over CBS's "Face the Nation" last Sunday about his conduct just after the 1969 Chappaquiddick tragedy, his careful response precisely followed a long-devised strategy which deeply alarms many Democratic politicians, including some longtime Kennedy partisans.

Though it scarcely seems conceivable, the program produced the first substantive Chappaquiddick question ever asked Kennedy on national television during the nearly five years since the accident. Kennedy responded, as he and his aides decided long ago, by referring the questioner, Martin F. Nolan of the Boston Globe, to the Senator's 1969 explanations of Chappaquiddick and the now public transcript of the coroner's inquest. What's more, Kennedy intends to answer all future questions the same way.

To many Democrats (pro-Kennedy and anti-Kennedy alike) outside the Senator's inner circle, this smacks of President Nixon's handling of Watergate despite the vast dissimilarities and risks similar consequences. Kennedy must, they say, explain Chappaquiddick and again apologize for it. At stake is a deeper issue: deep-seated unease by many Democrats about the increasingly probable Kennedy candidacy for President in 1976.

At the heart of both the dispute over Kennedy's political tactics and this unease is the fact that Kennedy never has been subjected to probing cross-examination about what happened at and after Chappaquiddick. The issue was not raised by Republicans during Kennedy's 1970 Senate reelection campaign. Interviewers of Kennedy during his rare television appearances have dodged the uncomfortable subject.

Hence, Kennedy and his closest advisers have concluded that Chappaquiddick is a burning issue only with Kennedy-haters who would oppose him anyway. They believe it has become a dead issue that can safely be handled by referring questioners to the written record.

One savvy Democratic operative, an important adviser to both JFK and RFK, has disagreed, strenuously. He recently urged Kennedy to respond to any questions about the accident with a detailed and precise explanation, thereby drawing a vivid contrast with Mr. Nixon's self-destructive obfuscation on Watergate. Kennedy listened to the advice, nodded, but expressed neither agreement nor disagreement.

In fact, his disagreement seemed clear on Sunday after Nolan asked why he took seven days "spent with political advisers and lawyers and speechwriters" to make a televised response to the tragedy. Kennedy simply chose not to answer the question by saying, less than accurately: "I've responded on the questions of Chappaquiddick." He added that "there's a full response" plus the transcript of the inquest; that "I've accepted the responsibility;" that it's up to the people to judge him.

Kennedy received no more substantive questions Sunday on Chappaquiddick. His lieutenants concede that as a full-fledged presidential candidate, he might well be barraged by 15 minutes or more of tough questions over television. Such an examination could for the first time probe apparent contradictions in Kennedy's own versions of the accident and seek his own interpretations of his conduct.

But there is no inclination now for Kennedy to respond any differently in the future than he did Sunday. A published report that Kennedy will commission a new book to reveal untold facts about Chappaquiddick is wholly inaccurate. He plans to say nothing more.

What makes this so questionable is widespread feeling among Democratic politicians that, contrary to the feeling of Kennedy's inner circle, voters who normally would be Kennedy Democrats are leaning against him on ethical grounds. In particular, big city party organizations who were the backbone of past Kennedy national campaigns now fear Catholic middle-class voters might defect from the third Kennedy. It is no secret that Mayor Richard J. Daley of Chicago and Philadelphia county leader Peter Camiel clearly prefer Sen. Henry M. Jackson.

This mood is typified by the fact that both Jackson and Sen. Walter Mondale campaigned in the recent special

Strength For Today

SANCTIFIED IN SPOTS
A bishop was asked on occasion whether he considered himself to be sanctified. He replied with a twinkle in his eye, "Yes, in spots."

Most of us are like this bishop. We give divine grace an opportunity to operate only in certain restricted areas of our lives. The rest we hold as our own private property. We are willing to submit to the Lord within reason, we tell ourselves, but there is a limit to this sort of thing. As a man said recently, "If I began to worry about whether my business practices were consistent with my religion, I'd be crazy in a way."

But a religion which does not work in business will never work anywhere. Religion which has no effect on us six days of the week will not change our hearts much as we kneel in the sanctuary. There is little place in the economy of God for half a man; but God has glorious projects to engage the energies of those who give their whole hearts to Him, holding nothing back.

The Cherry Tree Caper

WASHINGTON—In a few days we will once again honor the birthday of George Washington, the first President of the United States who could not tell a lie.

Because of recent events, I got to wondering what would have happened had the young Washington cherry tree incident taken place in a Watergate-type atmosphere.

This is how the story might have gone:

When George Washington

was 6 years old, he was given a beautiful hatchet by his father. A few days later, George's father was walking through the garden and, much to his dismay, discovered someone had cut down his favorite English cherry tree. George's father went into a rage and sought out the guilty culprit.

He shouted for his son, but George was nowhere to be found. Then he ran into George's best friend, Ron Ziegler. "Ron," the father said, "do you know who chopped down my tree?"

Ron blushed. "I refuse to comment on a third-rate ax job of a cherry tree."

Squire Washington said, "I will get to the bottom of this if it's the last thing I do."

Squire Washington confronted his son. "George, do you know who chopped down my cherry tree?"

At first George pretended he didn't know what his father was talking about. But when Squire Washington took George by his collar and showed him the tree lying pitifully on the ground, George said, "It appears to me that some overzealous playmates of mine were involved in this shocking incident."

ART BUCHWALD

"Well," said Squire Washington, "I want to know who did it so he can be punished."

"Father," said George, "while I do not condone the cutting down of this cherry tree, or any other cherry tree for that matter, I would remind you that people have been chopping down cherry trees since long before I was born."

"George, I refuse to accept the excuse that just because other people have cut down cherry trees it is all right for someone to cut down mine. Now I'm going to ask you a question point-blank and I want an honest answer. Did you chop down this cherry tree?"

George licked his upper lip. "Father, as you know, someday I'm going to be the first President of the United States. I think it would be a serious mistake in principle for me to admit whether I did or did not cut down your tree."

Other Editors Say Just Ridiculous

(Richmond Times-Dispatch)
Question: How can you get a pay increase larger than that permitted by federal guidelines?

Answer: Be a member of Congress.

Under the budget President Nixon sent to Congress, the lawmakers' salaries would go from the present $42,500 to $45,700 next month, to $49,100 in 1975 and to $52,800 in 1976.

This very beneficial budget proposal would hike the senators' and representatives' pay seven per cent a year, a fact which should be of interest to rank-and-file workers of the country who, under Cost of Living Council guidelines, are limited to 5.5 per cent pay increases.

Mr. Nixon proposes substantial pay boosts for other federal officials, beyond the 5.5 per cent guideline in some instances.

But the public's ire is most likely to be aroused by the proposed big salary hikes for members of Congress, whose last pay increase was a meager $12,500, or 42 per cent, in 1969.

In 1967 Congress assigned to a presidentially-appointed commission the somewhat embarrassing (to Congress) chore of fixing congressional salaries.

The commission makes a recommendation to the President who can revise the proposed figures upward or downward when he drafts his budget.

The President's figures become law within 30 days of submission, unless Congress takes affirmative action to change them.

Rep. H.R. Gross, Republican of Iowa, has introduced a resolution to block the proposed increases, which he terms "ridiculous."

A good many other members of Congress have indicated concern over the size of the salary hikes.

It may be that fear of anger of voters over excessive increases for the national lawmakers may lead the latter to reject or more likely to reduce, the President's figures.

In addition to their stated salaries, members of Congress draw sizable amounts for expenses, much of which does not have to be accounted for.

In light of these side financial benefits and all other factors involved in the picture, we believe most Americans will fail to see any justification for congressional pay boosts of the size proposed by the President.

Especially since the proposal is in direct conflict with pay guidelines which all of us ordinary mortals are supposed to abide by.

NEW YORK (AP) — Take note of the word "petrodollar." You'll be hearing a lot more about this specie and its power for good or evil.

"There is almost as much concern with where the petrodollars will flow as with where the petroleum will flow," said an executive vice president of Morgan Guaranty Trust at a recent investment forum in London.

The petrodollar, as you may have surmised, is a product of the vastly increased oil revenues of the oil exporting countries. Where it goes and what it does is now of extreme importance to all the world's industrial nations.

Money experts surmise that much of these revenues will be converted to dollars and gold and redirected to a wide range of capital needs in both the industrial and less developed nations.

But they can be used also in a speculative way that could disrupt world monetary harmony. There are likely to be so many petrodollars that investment opportunities might be insufficient to quickly absorb them.

The fact is that the nations of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries — OPEC — will soon be the recipients of such an enormous transfer of wealth that they won't be able to accommodate it.

The total of OPEC revenues from oil is expected to reach somewhere between $80 billion and $105 billion this year. But, comments the Chase Manhattan Bank's economic group:

"The capacity of these oil producers to absorb goods and services is thought unlikely to exceed $30 billion to $35 billion, leaving a whopping unspent surplus of $50 billion to $70 billion."

It is this unspent surplus that worries world monetary authorities, who for years have had to deal with the disruptive effects of currency speculations, mainly because of a currency called Eurodollars.

Eurodollars are U.S. dollars circulating abroad, stranded there after the United States ended convertibility. Time after time they became the medium of currency speculation that brought chaos to monetary agreements.

There are now about $110 billion of Eurodollars circulating, a sizable sum by any measure. But in just two years this figure could be exceeded by petrodollars.

'Pet 4' Awaits Drills

By BERT TARRANT

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — For 50 years, Naval Petroleum Reserve No. 4, on Alaska's north shore, has been left much to the lemmings and caribou.

But the energy crisis may change that.

The reserve covers about 23 million acres, making it about the size of Indiana. Estimates of its recoverable oil range from 33 billion to 100 billion barrels. By comparison, Alaska's much publicized North Slope contains just under 10 billion barrels of recoverable oil. Current proven world oil reserves are estimated at 600 billion barrels, enough to last 30 years at present world consumption rates.

The reserve is bounded on the east by the Colville River and south by the river to near the 156 longitude where it drops south to be bounded by the Naotak River. The north boundary is the Arctic Ocean. The west is around the 162 longitude mark.

Known as "Pet Four," it got its latest batch of publicity when Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, D-Ill., charged that it and Naval Reserve No. 1 at Elk Hills, Calif., had the makings of another Teapot Dome scandal. Teapot Dome was the name attached to major scandals in the Harding administration in the 1920s. Naval reserves were first transferred to the Interior Department and then leased to private oil companies without competitive bidding.

A Stevenson aide, Les Goldman, says the senator is convinced federal officials are fudging on Pet Four boundaries to allow oil companies to drill in the reserve's two-mile buffer zone and thus tap the oil pool.

Specifically, Stevenson charged that original offshore boundary descriptions that included all bays have been changed to the shoreline. This Approximately $4,000 has been paid out in the county wide sanitation program which has been underway here the last several weeks. E. B. Roach, district State supervisor of sanitation said today.

Roach has been in Greenville the last few days inspecting the work program.

The total appropriation for the program is $38,000 and the entire sum will be paid out before the campaign is complete. Sixty-six men are employed now and the number is to be increased to 271 as soon as laborers become available.

President Walter D. Agnew of the Woman's College of Montgomery, Alabama, has notified Mrs. J. H. Rose, a graduate of the school and a resident of Greenville, that she has been appointed official representative of the college at the inauguration of President Randolph at Hollins College in Hollins, Va., next Wednesday. Mrs. Rose is a former member of the faculty at the Alabama College.

and gold and redirected to a wide range of capital needs in both the industrial and less developed nations.

But they can be used also in a speculative way that could disrupt world monetary harmony. There are likely to be so many petrodollars that investment opportunities might be insufficient to quickly absorb them.

The fact is that the nations of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries — OPEC — will soon be the recipients of such an enormous transfer of wealth that they won't be able to accommodate it.

There are now about $110 billion of Eurodollars circulating, a sizable sum by any measure. But in just two years this figure could be exceeded by petrodollars.

One solution to the problem would be for the oil producing nations to cut back on production, and thus earn smaller revenues. But the consequences to the world would be even more disruptive if this were done.

Another is to help the OPEC nations find an outlet for their newly acquired wealth.

It seems likely therefore that Arab nations will have their eye on U.S. investments, partly because of the relative stability of the dollar, partly because of the huge American market, partly because of political stability.

Can the United States absorb such investments? In all probability yes. Foreign investment in the United States, despite changes in the past few years, is still relatively small.

ECU To Dedicate New Speight Bldg. Sunday

SPEIGHT BUILDING—The Education-Psychology Building at East Carolina University will be dedicated Sunday in honor of the late J. Brantley and Carrie G. Speight of Winterville. (ECU News Bureau Photo)

The Education-Psychology Building at East Carolina University will be dedicated to the late J. Brantley and Carrie Gardner Speight, prominent ECU supporters, in a campus ceremony Sunday.

ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins will preside at the 4 p.m. ceremony, at which Dr. Kenneth R. Keller, tobacco specialist from NCSU-Raleigh, will be featured speaker.

Portraits of the Speights will be unveiled during the ceremony and accepted by the ECU Trustees Chairman Robert L. Jones. Music will be provided by the ECU School of Music Woodwind Quartet.

Rachel Speight Snyder of Winterville, daughter of J. Brantley and Carrie Speight, will be present for the dedication.

The building, completed in 1965 at a cost of approximately $789,000, was designed by architect A. J. Maxwell Jr. and constructed under the general contractorship of R. N. Rouse Construction Co. of Goldsboro.

The 53,400 square-foot structure houses the ECU School of Education and the Department of Psychology, including classrooms, offices, laboratories, observation and testing rooms and an auditorium.

The ECU Board of Trustees voted unanimously in 1973 to name the building for the Speights, who for many years before their deaths in 1971 made large annual contributions to East Carolina University.

The Speights founded the Speight Seed Farms, Inc. in Pitt County during the late thirties, a firm which later became known as one of the first producers of hybrid seed corn in North Carolina.

J. Brantley Speight established commercial outlets for the Speight products. Carrie Speight initiated and developed the tobacco seed division of the company.

The Speights received numerous citations for outstanding service to the seed industry, North Carolina education and civic affairs.

Speight was first president of the N. C. Foundation Seed Producers and held several offices in the N. C. Seedsmen's Association. In 1964 he was appointed by the U. S. Secretary of Agriculture to the National Tobacco Advisory Committee.

He was also a member of the UNC Board of Trustees, the North Carolina National Bank's Board of Directors, the N. C. State Alumni Association board and other advisory bodies.

Mrs. Speight was an active member of the Pitt County Historical Society and the Daughters of the American Revolution. An East Carolina graduate, she taught in public schools before the founding of the Speight Seed Firm, and was elected to state office in the N. C. Extension Homemakers.

The Speights were residents of Winterville.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russia's development of advanced nuclear power plants to serve Soviet industry is reported to have suffered delays, partly because of a serious mishap.

U.S. intelligence sources said a recent explosion caused Soviet engineers to shut down the nuclear reactor at a key Russian project at Shevchenko on the Caspian Sea.

The reactor, rated by U.S. experts as capable of generating about 150,000 kilowatts of electric power, was built to run a giant plant that removes salt from sea water.

The nuclear power plant, which went into operation late last year, is said to be still idle.

At the same time, U.S. sources said another major nuclear plant in Central Russia also is delayed and may not be ready for some years. There were no indications of what caused this.

Over-all, American sources said, the Russians appeared to be progressing slower than expected in civilian nuclear energy, despite a large investment in resources and technical talent.

The two Russian nuclear power plants reported in trouble are of a type called "liquid metal fast breeders," that are the focus of U.S. research, made urgent by the oil shortage.

Shrine Potentate Robert L. Pugh has announced that members of the New Bern Sudan Temple will hold their annual convention in Greenville this year the weekend of May 31-1.

Some 5,000 Shriners and their wives from a line from Roxboro to Lumberton to the coast will attend the spring ceremonial here," said Pitt County Shrine Club Master Roland H. Stocks. "The spring ceremonial has been held in larger cities for many number of years now. But between our motels and dormitories at East Carolina University, we know we can handle the event and we're happy our invitation has been accepted."

Hosting the event, along with the Shrine Club is the Sudan Temple Provost Guard of which Charles H. Gaskins of Black Jack is captain.

The Shriners will share their merrymaking with the public with a pageant presented by an Atlanta Shrine group which is a preview of the 200th anniversary of our nation's founding. It is entitled "Sudan's Salute to America" and will be given at Minges Coliseum Friday, May 31.

After the pageant, there will be a dance for Shriners and Masons and their wives at Wright Auditorium.

Saturday morning, a parade downtown for the general public will be given with Shrine units from many North Carolina cities participating.

A dance Saturday night at Minges will be for Shriners and their wives only.

More details of each event will be announced as the weekend draws nearer, Potentate Pugh said.

myself but of future Presidents who may someday be asked by their fathers if they cut down a cherry tree. It would be setting a terrible precedent if I agreed to be questioned under oath about what happened to the tree."

George's father was livid. "Where is the hatchet I gave you? I want to match it with the marks on the trunk."

"I've been advised not to let you see it," George replied.

"I'll give you the licking of your life if you don't produce that hatchet!"

George went into a bush and reluctantly produced the hatchet. The father inspected it carefully. "What is this? Eighteen and one-half inches of this hatchet are missing. Where is the rest of it?"

"I think Squire Woods' little girl, Rose Mary, stepped on it."

"George, for the last time, did you chop down the cherry tree?"

"Father, I cannot tell a lie. I think we've devoted entirely too much time to the subject of your cherry tree. I've given you all the information you've asked for. I've cooperated to the fullest extent, producing everything including my hatchet. It's time that we put this cherry tree incident behind us and got on with the business of running this plantation."

congressional election in Pennsylvania while Kennedy did not. Kennedy was not pressed to come into the district, and his eleventh-hour offer of a taped endorsement for television was politely declined.

Adding to the internal tension inside the party is widespread agreement with Jackson's politically inept admission that the 1976 nomination is Kennedy's for the asking. The Daleys and Camiels may harbor some misgivings but are not about to openly oppose Kennedy. Thus, at this early stage, they wonder whether he can be elected.

Overall, Kennedy's first major nationally televised performance since 1970 received high praise from Democratic politicians: his physical appearance excellent, his answers crisp and understated. But Nolan's question almost surely is the forerunner of continued probing if he runs for President. In that case, Democrats believe Kennedy must come up with something better than his non-response of Sunday.

would allow state ownership of major bays and, therefore, part of the reserve.

Stevenson claims major oil companies are getting ready to drill in the area.

The director of the State Division of Oil and Gas, Homer Burrell, says the offshore boundary question appears headed for litigation.

He says Alaska has issued leases right up to the Colville River but that no commercial oil has been found in several years of drilling.

"No oil has been found and no oil is being, or has been planned to be produced," he says. "Any allegations that oil companies are draining oil from Pet Four are patently false."

The tract was set aside in 1923 as a Naval Petroleum Reserve for national defense purposes, after oil seeps on the land were found.

The Navy carried out a $60-million, nine-year program that ended more than 20 years ago and confirmed existence of at least 100 million barrels of oil.

Current development on Pet Four has been held to six producing natural gas wells used to supply Navy operations and the needs of native villages and Point Barrow, at the northern tip of the state. Permission has recently been granted for two additional gas wells.

Old-timers used to rely on this mill. This mill used to depend on the right wind.

Despite man's most valiant efforts the wheel was frequently at a standstill. What then? Waiting, waiting, waiting! What patience they must have learned—only faith sustained them. The wind would blow again.

The patient life also requires a foundation of faith. It can come early or late, slowly or fast.

If you lack the necessary faith to fulfill your life's needs, turn to the Church. The wind will blow again.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market, sticking to its pattern of the past three sessions, climbed slowly today in subdued trading. The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 4.30 at 814.22. Gainers moved out to about a 3-to-2 lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said some of the upward drift appeared to stem from the hope that a meeting scheduled over the weekend between Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and two Arab foreign ministers might provide some clues to the energy and economic outlooks.

"Even some bad news on the oil situation might be helpful now," said William Nelson at Moody's Investors Service. "At least it would give everybody something to work with in trying to figure out where things are headed."

Branch was the Big Board's most-active stock, up 1/4 at 10 1/2, adding to a fractional gain Thursday. Brokers said some airline stocks were attracting buying because of moves by the Federal Energy Office to increase jet-fuel supplies.

Several recently depressed glamour issues also gained. Walt Disney Productions was up 3/4 to 40 1/2, and Avon Products rose 1/2 to 45 1/4. Both stocks are down about 65 to 70 per cent from their 1973-74 highs.

Hilton Hotels was up 3/4 at 16 1/4. The company's board authorized Hilton Thursday to purchase up to 400,000 of its own shares from time to time, either in the open market or through private transactions, for general corporate use.

At the American Stock Exchange, Giant Yellowknife, down 7/8 at 23 1/2, led the active list.

The Amex's 11 a.m. market value index was up .27 at 93.35.

The Big Board's composite index of all its listed common stocks rose .13 to 48.80.

BAILEY, N.C. (AP) — Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt said Thursday North Carolina should go to court if necessary to return five to six per cent of last year's gasoline supplies lost with the departure of two major oil companies.

"BP (British Petroleum) and Arco who were supplying five to six per cent have left the state," Hunt said, "and we lost two to three per cent from independent terminals no longer in operation."

He said that seven to eight per cent of North Carolina's rightful share of fuel is going to other states. He said the Federal Energy Office should order the two companies to return fuel to the state.

"The recent allocation ordered by (federal energy chief William E.) Simon provided only an additional two per cent," he said, "leaving North Carolina five to six per cent short of what we by law ought to be getting."

EACH DOT A TUBERCULOSIS CASE—diagnosed in 1973. A total of 128 cases of tuberculosis were diagnosed during 1973 in the 22 county area making up the Eastern Lung Association. The map also shows figures of cases in six counties adjoining the western boundary of the Eastern division.

Tuberculosis Still Big Eastern N.C. Problem

Tuberculosis is still a problem in eastern North Carolina, although the number of known cases diagnosed in 1973 dropped from the previous year. According to Lorey White, Jr., Executive Director of Eastern Lung Association, there were 128 cases diagnosed during 1973, a drop from the 153 newly diagnosed cases reported during 1972.

The rate of incidence is heaviest along the western portion of the area comprising the 22 county eastern North Carolina area of the state lung association. Pitt County has the largest number of cases—22, although it must be taken into account that Pitt also has the largest population of any of the 22 counties.

Lenoir with 18 cases, Craven with 14, Hertford and Martin (each with 11 cases, Greene nine and Beaufort and Northampton each with seven cases, are all counties with fairly large numbers of people suffering from tuberculosis.

At that, the counties in the Eastern Lung Association are comparably better off than other counties in North Carolina. The six counties bordering the western boundary of the Eastern Lung Association, for example, show the following figures—Halifax, 31; Edgecombe 25; Wilson, 32; Wayne, 30; Duplin, 19; and Onslow, 23.

White said that despite progress being made to eradicate tuberculosis, "much work is still needed so that in the future we will have controlled TB just as polio was controlled in the 1950s."

He urges people who need assistance to get in touch with the Greenville office. "And it's still not too late for those who want to help to contribute through purchase of Christmas seals," he added.

Nixon plans to enter college this fall and wants to become a social worker. He is employed by the Kaiser Steel Corp., where his father also works. His mother is a teacher.

Mrs. Nixon likes to tease her son about his name. "She wanted to name me Liberaace," Nixon said, laughing. "Can you imagine anyone going through life with a name like that?"

There are incidents, however, that can't be easily laughed off. "I was working the swing shift at TOP Manufacturers in Riverside at the time," he recalled in a recent interview. "One night, as I was leaving the parking lot about 1 or 2 a.m. this cop pulled me over. There had been some robberies at TOP and the police were patrolling the area."

"So he asked me what I was doing there at that time of night and I told him I was on my way home. Then he asked for my driver's license. When I told him I'd lost my license and registration card, he asked me to get out of the car. After I got out, he asked me my name and when I told him — man, it was all over! He said, 'Okay, you smart punk, put your hands on the car and don't move.'"

Nixon said, "After frisking me, he ran a check on my license plate. When he found out I was telling the truth, he started laughing like crazy and then he became real nice about the whole thing."

Bucs, 'Cats Play Key Game

East Carolina goes on the road Saturday night for their final regular season game away from home, and it shapes up as a key one in determining the final standings in the Southern Conference.

The Pirates will be visiting Davidson College for both a junior-varsity and varsity game, with the big attraction starting at 8 p.m. in small Johnston Gym. That gymnasium has been a poor spot to visit for Southern Conference schools over the past few years, with the Wildcats losing there only twice. One of those losses came earlier this year, when they bowed to Furman's Paladins. They avenged that, however, by downing the Paladins later in the season at Greenville, X.C.

East Carolina defeated the Wildcats in their first Southern Conference game of the year, and Coach Tom Quinn is certain that the Cats will be chomping at the bit to avenge that loss.

Davidson is currently 5-3 in Southern play with only one other game, against mired-in-last Appalachian State, following that with the Bucs.

That would seem to assure them of no worse than a 6-4 mark should the Pirates pull off a win. And that record would probably doom the Wildcats to fourth place in the conference's tournament, in the same bracket with regular season champ Furman.

East Carolina and Richmond would then fight it out next week for second and third seeding.

But a Davidson victory would likely send the 'Cats into a 7-3 record, and just about insure them of second place in the standings, but no worse than third.

So much rides on the outcome.

The Pirates go into the game after three successive wins, including two in the Southern Conference. They bowled over Buffalo State to start the sweep, then romped by 30 points over William & Mary. Monday they beat Appalachian State on the road in a game that was not nearly as close as the eight-point final score indicated.

"I thought we played well," Quinn said after that game. "We had some moments when they changed the tempo on us and we didn't immediately respond, but for the type of game it was, I think we did an excellent job"

Quinn felt that the continued success against Appalachian was an extension of the fine play in the William & Mary game, when the Bucs completely dominated the game. "We also played well against Furman and Old Dominion in lowing. In fact, I'd say that we are getting to the point where we play as well on the road as we do at home," Quinn added.

"The coach noted that playing in Davidson's small gym is a 'unique situation.'"

"Davidson has improved a lot since we last played them, but then so have we. We had an outstanding night against them—the best game of our first dozen or so. But our freshmen and newcomers have 21 games behind them now, so they must be veterans."

John Falconi, who missed a number of games with an injury, is back now, adding to the Davidson punch. "They were without T. Jay Pecorak when they played here, too," Quinn said, "so they'll be stronger for sure."

Quinn said that East Carolina, despite never winning in Davidson, had played some good games there. "But this should only be an added challenge to our players. Of course, most of them have never been there before, too."

Greg Dunn, who killed the Pirates a year ago with his scoring, leads the Wildcat scoring with a 15.1 average, prior to last night's game.

Falconi is second with a 14.8 mark, followed by Larry Horowitz with a 13.2 mark and Mike Sorrentino at 10.9. Pecorak is the fifth man at 7.7.

East Carolina, which bases its success mainly on its tough defense, is led by Nicky White with a 14.1 average. He's also the leading rebounder at 9.7 per game.

Reggie Lee is the only other Buc in double figures at 11.1, while Roger Atkinson is 9.4, Robert Geter is 8.6, and Donnie Owens is 7.9. However, in recent games, the Bucs have been placing four or five scorers in double figures each time.

Following Saturday night's game, the Pirates return home on Wednesday to face Richmond, then host The Citadel on Saturday in the season finale.

Pirates Stomp Pembroke State

East Carolina University's Pirates completed their regular season dual meets last night with a 42-3 romp over Pembroke State University.

The Pirates won nine of the ten weight divisions, taking five of them by pins. The lone match won by Pembroke came on a three-point decision.

The victory raised the Pirate record to 5-0 in dual meets, while Pembroke was losing its fifth match in 15 starts.

East Carolina will now defend its Southern Conference title, seeking its third in a row as it travels to Boone on Friday and Saturday of next week for the Southern tournament.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Add "reformed drop-outs" Cale Yarborough and Bobby Isaac to million-dollar winners David Pearson and Richard Petty and you have the favorites for Sunday's richest stock car race of all time, the Daytona 500.

Yarborough and Isaac won a pair of 112½-mile qualifying races Thursday and will start the $275,000 main event at Daytona International Speedway in the second row.

Pearson won the pole with a 185.017 miles an hour speed in one-lap runs last Sunday and Petty was second best with 183.176. This earned them the front row in the Daytona, shortened to 450 miles this year. It didn't matter that each had trouble and dropped out of Thursday races which determined the rest of the 40 starting positions.

They will have to install new engines for Sunday's feature, shortened by 10 per cent as a bow to the energy crisis. But Yarborough and Isaac will do that too, as a matter of course. While the late model stockers are being groomed, the race crowds are being entertained today and Saturday by an International Race of Champions and events for souped-up modified sportsman class stock cars.

On today's program was the $74,000 IROC windup featuring six driving stars in identical Porsche Carreras. Mark Donohue qualified fastest Thursday at 113.519 m.p.h. on a 3.81-mile course combining the outer high banked oval with a winding infield road. Peter Revson, David Pearson, George Follmer, Bobby Unser and A. J. Foyt will start in that order behind Donohue.

A companion feature was the 180-mile event for modified stock cars. Saturday's event at 270 miles is the Permatex 300, shortened like the other events to save fuel.

Thursday's winners both dropped out of competition on the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing circuit but are back as strong contenders.

Yarborough, who spent two seasons in U.S. Auto Club championship cars with mediocre success, said "I have a year of stock car racing under my belt again and I feel as good as I ever have about the Daytona 500."

He won it in 1968. Recalling this, Yarborough said "they've moved Victory Lane since then and I had trouble finding it, but I know where it is now."

He figures at least a dozen drivers have a good chance to win Sunday, including Jim Vandiver, who finished a close second behind Yarborough.

Isaac is making his first superspeedway appearance since suddenly quitting in the middle of a race at Talladega, Ala., last August because "a voice told me to." He called his victory Thursday "very nice for the first time out."

George Follmer, road racing veteran who is a rookie in the stock car set, finished three car lengths behind Isaac and is a strong contender for Sunday.

The six heading the starting lineup in the Daytona 500 are all in the 39-40 age bracket. Pearson and Petty are the only drivers ever to win $1 million in stock car racing alone. The biggest all-time winner in racing, A. J. Foyt, will start back in 35th place after blowing an engine in the qualifying.

Finishing close on the bumper of Isaac and Follmer in one qualifier were the Allison brothers, Donnie and Bobby, with Darrell Waltrip fifth. In the other race, Hershell McGriff was third back of Yarborough and Vandiver. Benny Parsons was fourth and Ramo Stott fifth.

Each winner collected $1,700, a mere taste of the $33,100 to Sunday's victor. The winning speeds of 129.724 m.p.h. for Yarborough and 123.212 for Isaac were comparatively slow because of a series of caution flags for blown engines.

Two Sign Pro Pacts

Two more members of the East Carolina University football team have signed contracts to play professional football.

Tom Frazier and Rusty Markland, members of the Southern Conference championship team, signed free agent contracts with teams earlier this week.

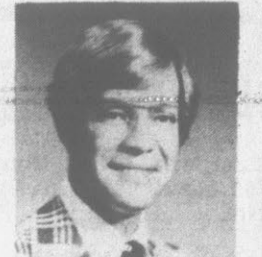

Frazier, a 6-3, 232-pound offensive tackle from Maple Hill, signed with the San Francisco 49ers of the National Football League.

Markland, a 6-0, 200-pound defensive back from Greenville, inked a pact with the Detroit Wheels of the newly formed World Football League.

The signings bring to three the number of Pirates who have signed with the pros this year. Earlier, Carlester Crumpler, drafted by the NFL, WFT and the Canadian League, opted to sign with the NFL's Buffalo Bills for a multi-year contract. He was the Bills' fourth round draft choice.

Carl Summerell, the other Pirate drafted by the New York Giants of the NFL and the Washington-Baltimore WFL franchise, has yet to sign, although he is believed to be in New York now talking with the Giants along with Former ECU Coach Sonny Randle, who is serving as his agent.

WILSON—Memories of last Tuesday night's game with the Rampants added a little extra incentive to the Wilson Titans and they made sure the Rampants of Rose could not rally as the Titans roared to an easy 99-82 win.

The win eliminated Rose from further play. The game was the first round of the Division I playoffs.

Last Tuesday, Rose came stomping back after being behind by as much as 22 points to trail by 2 but last night Wilson rolled up a big lead early and never let the Rampants get any thing going.

The Rampants lead only once, on the opening basket. After that Wilson was unstoppable as they ran out to a 24-11 first quarter score. Joe Wright had given the Rampants that lead as he hit from the Rampant baseline after both teams had scoring opportunities. Vincent McCoy missed the second of a one-and-one.

The Rampants put five players in double figures. Herb Bynum paced the team with 23, Moye and Wright each had 14, Ronnie Barrett scored 11 and Savage added 10. Sauls led Wilson with 23, Parks and Blue each dumped in 20 and Plyer had 12.

After the first quarter, the Rampants stayed right with the Titans. Rose bettered the Wilson output by a point, 26-25, in the second period with Jackie Savage running around, under and through the Titans for eight points.

Rose cut the gap to ten, again, 36-26, on a baseline jumper by Moye but three field goals and a pair of free throws sent Wilson back out by 18, 44-26. The Rampants pulled back within 12 at the half, 49-37.

Wilson outshot Rose in the third period, 21-18. Blue carried Wilson through the quarter with nine points. Both teams scored 27 in the last period. Wilson missed a chance to hit the century mark when Cliff Moore

Robersonville Teams Ousted

WILSON—Robersonville High School's boys and girls teams were eliminated from the Eastern Plains Conference tournament last night.

The Golden Eagles bowed to regular season champ Elm City, 67-60, while the girls fell to West Edgcombe, also the regular season champ, 42-41.

The boys, however, will continue to play in the District 2-A Tournament at West Craven next week, meeting Pamlico County Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. For the girls, it was the close of the season.

In the girls' game, Robersonville inched out into a 10-9 lead in the first period of play. They continued to hold on during the second frame, outshooting the champs, 11-10, for a 21-19 half-time lead.

But West Edgcombe came back with a 12-9 advantage in the third period that meant the difference, as the champs inched into a 31-30 lead. Both teams tossed in 11 points in the final period as West held its lead to win it.

Gloria Hines led West Edgcombe with 19 points, while Elaine Forrest hit 20 for Robersonville.

Dantley Makes Irish A Winner

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Fordham got an "E" for effort but couldn't make the grade against Notre Dame.

For high scores, you can't beat "A" — and that's what Notre Dame had in Adrian Dantley Thursday night.

"He's been the big difference in our team," said Notre Dame Coach "Digger" Phelps after Dantley scored 27 points to lead a 79-69 victory over the Rams. "He gives us balance. We can strike from any side of the court."

The final score wasn't indicative of the Fighting Irish power and poise. Actually, the nation's third-ranked basketball team put the game away in the first half, running to an 18-point lead shortly before intermission.

In the only two other games involving Top Twenty teams, No. 7 Pitt beat Cleveland State 106-55 and 10th-rated Long Beach State overhauled Fresno State 62-45.

Dantley scored 14 of his points in the first half, when Notre Dame carved out a 46-31 lead while a Fordham-oriented crowd of 14,683 sat subdued. The Rams tried to make a game of it in the second half but fell short. The closest they came was eight points with less than a minute to play.

Technical Foul Brings Victory

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

The battle for first place in the National Basketball Association's Midwest Division is a neck-and-neck affair, but Bob Lanier shouldn't take it literally.

Lanier ended a scuffle between the Bucks' Bobby Dandridge and the Pistons' John Mengelt by placing a clamp on the Milwaukee player's neck. Lanier's peace-making effort, coming with one minute left in the game, was worth a technical foul in referee Len Wirtz' eyes and the Bucks' Oscar Robertson sank the free throw to turn a two-point Milwaukee lead into a 99-96 advantage.

"I guess it's a technical for trying to break up a fight," said Detroit Coach Ray Scott after the Bucks had ended the Pistons' seven-game winning streak Thursday night with a 102-99 victory. "It was a crucial call because instead of a jump ball and our being down by two points, it gave them one more point and breathing room."

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Golden State Warriors downed the Atlanta Hawks 121-15 and the Phoenix Suns beat the Houston Rockets 107-99.

It wasn't a complicated wrestling hold. Just a simple choke, a hold that would go practically unnoticed in the violent world of professional wrestling.

But in the supposedly non-violent world of professional basketball, Wirtz noticed it.

Only Scott and Mengelt didn't think Wirtz noticed the provocation.

"The ref told me Lanier should have grabbed Mengelt," Scott said. "But it looked to me like Dandridge was trying to choke Mengelt."

Mengelt was asked if Dandridge had swung at him.

"You think Bobby would have grabbed him if he didn't?" Mengelt asked.

Milwaukee Coach Larry Costello agreed that the technical call was pivotal.

"The technical was a big foul. No question about it," said Costello, whose club now holds a three-game lead over the Chicago Bulls and a 4½ game edge over third-place Detroit. "We got an extra point that was a big point. It changes their strategy."

Suns 107, Rockets 99
Dick Van Arsdale's fourth-quarter spurt carried Phoenix past Houston. Van Arsdale finished with a game-high 24 points.

Rudy Tomjanovich had 20 for Houston.

The Worry Clinic Blame It All On Aristotle

Eileen's queries should interest everybody! So heed the reasons why Cupid shoots his darts at the human heart, instead of the brain or liver or lungs! Aristotle's mistaken diagnosis may also have killed George Washington! It explains why a barber's pole is red and white.

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

CASE Z-552: Eileen F., aged 20, is a college senior.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "why is Cupid always depicted as shooting his darts into the hearts of his victims?"

"And why is red the prevailing color for Valentines?"

"Is it because love is regarded as merely an emotion and the ancients thought the heart was the center of our romantic feelings?"

Cupid's Target

Aristotle was regarded as the greatest scientist of antiquity. It is reported that some 2,000 of the world's leading researchers sent their data to him for analysis.

And Aristotle firmly proclaimed that the heart was the center of our personality, mind and soul.

Moreover, the blood was the life of the body.

So Cupid's darts are pictured as heading toward the heart, not the brain or lungs or liver or stomach.

Indeed, the liver was regarded more as the center of emotions.

And the brain was considered chiefly a cooling chamber for the blood, much like the modern auto radiator.

Since the heart was thus thought to be the seat of our soul, (which does the thinking and acting) then Cupid shot his arrows accordingly.

And the red color of Valentines merely symbolizes the life fluid of everybody, namely the human blood.

Even up to the time of George Washington's death in 1799, our foremost physicians in America also believed, like Aristotle, that the fire of the body was the blood.

For when Washington took down with pneumonia, they bled him 3 times, to cool him off! Actually, he needed blood transfusions instead of being drained of 1½ pints during lobar pneumonia.

Shortly thereafter, the Barbers' Guild of London also sued the local surgeons. Why?

Because the barbers argued it was their time honored prerogative to bleed patients by nicking their wrists with their sharp razors.

Our modern barber poles are still striped red on a white background to indicate the trickle of blood around a feverish person's wrist!

Valentines are also shaped like hearts, as are many candy boxes so popular on February 14th.

But if Aristotle had not mistaken the role of the human heart, Valentines would probably be shaped like the brain! Ugh!

Sending Valentines is a desirable custom, not only for romantic teen-agers but also for married couples.

It should also be extended to oldsters in Nursing Homes, for they relish mail and are as eagerly excited as they open Valentines, as are kindergarteners.

Be sure, therefore, to send greetings to your parents, grandparents, as well as hospitalized relatives and friends! And also remember them on other holidays, such as Easter, Christmas and birthdays.

For a fractured ego is more dangerous to oldsters than a fractured hip!

Lack of evidences of love and affection thus reduced their will to live.

And fractures their ego, for love is the best medicine for psychological fractures!

Your affectionate greetings help heal heartache and repair those fractured egos.

Send for the "Compliment Club" booklet, enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents, and join the "League of the Golden Pen."

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Wallace Mends His Demo Ties

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN, AP Labor Writer

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Alabama Gov. George C. Wallace and AFL-CIO President George Meany met secretly in a beachfront hotel this week, apparently as part of Wallace's continuing effort to mend fences with the Democratic party.

It was Wallace's first meeting with Meany who, as head of the nation's largest labor organization, bitterly opposed the governor's two previous presidential campaigns.

The meeting took place Wednesday in Wallace's room at the Americana Hotel and lasted about one hour.

Aides to Meany refused to discuss the substance of the talk, or disclose any other details except to say that the meeting was arranged at the governor's request.

"I think Wallace is out playing Democratic politics," speculated one source close to Meany in offering an explanation for the meeting. "The governor obviously decided he's going to remain in the Democratic party, and you can't ignore a guy who's going to stay in the party and be a factor."

The meeting was one more indication of Wallace's new political stature and followed meetings last year with one-unnlikely visitors such as Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass. and Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

And on Monday, Wallace will share the platform with President Nixon at an "Honor America Day" rally in Huntsville, Ala.

A few years ago a Wallace-Meany meeting would have been out of the question. The AFL-CIO flexed its political muscle and successfully battled Wallace's presidential bid in 1968, citing the governor's advocacy of racial segregation and opposition to pro-labor legislation in Alabama.

But in the 1972 Democratic primaries, despite the AFL-CIO's opposition, Wallace showed strong blue collar support. It came particularly in a number of industrial states, including Michigan, which he won with a surprising 50 per cent of the vote.

Regardless of whether Wallace decides to again make a run for the White House in 1976, political professionals expect him to play a leading role in the selection of a Democratic candidate. A recent Harris poll of Democrats and independents showed Wallace leading all potential Democratic candidates with the exception of Kennedy.

Gunmen Rob A Cardinal

CHICAGO (AP) — John Cardinal Cody of Chicago and another man believed to be his chauffeur have been robbed of $233 at gunpoint on a Near North Side street, police report.

The crime took place Thursday night as the two men were walking from Holy Name Cathedral to an auto, officials said.

Neither man was hurt.

Police said Cardinal Cody, 66, had asked that no information be released about the crime, but when pressed by reporters officers provided some details of the incident.

The robbers reportedly took $200 from the cardinal and $33 from the other man, but did not take the cardinal's ring or pectoral cross, both symbols of his position.

Two persons reportedly picked up by police were released after the cardinal failed to identify them as the robbers, officers said.

The cardinal, who became archbishop of Chicago in 1965 and was named cardinal by Pope Paul VI in 1967, was not taken to a police station following the robbery.

Unlike at tournament bridge, overtricks are of relatively little importance at rubber bridge. Making or breaking the contract is the paramount concern. On today's hand from a rubber bridge game in Philadelphia, West was aware of this fact and declarer was not. The result was a huge gain for the defenders.

When South rebid his hearts at the three-level, North decided that his doubleton ten was adequate support. Since he had every side suit controlled, North felt that his side had good play for six hearts, and got there by the shortest route.

Sitting West was "Skippy" Becker, brother of B. Jay Becker who is one of the game's all-time great players. He led the queen of diamonds, taken by dummy's ace. The ten of hearts was run, and Becker decided that the time had come for drastic action. He followed smoothly with the four of hearts! Impressed with his success, declarer repeated the heart finesse. Becker won the queen of hearts and shifted to a low spade.

Declarer saw no need to risk the contract with a spade finesse—after all, his losing spade could be discarded on dummy's fourth club. Therefore, he rose with the ace of spades and tried to get back to his hand to draw the outstanding trump by leading a club to the ace.

West ruffed and cashed the king of spades for down two.

Had the queen of hearts been in the East hand, declarer's line of play would have brought in all 13 tricks. However, once both the defenders followed to the ten of hearts, declarer had a sure-fire play for 12 tricks. Only three trumps were still outstanding, and declarer could afford to lose one trump trick and still make his contract, for he had no other losers. The winning play was to ignore the second finesse in trumps in favor of laying down the ace and king. If the queen does not drop, declarer concedes a trick to the lady, and claims the balance and his slam.

As the cards lie, declarer would then have made all the tricks. But that does not detract from a fine defensive maneuver—Becker gave declarer the chance to go wrong, and that worthy seized it with both hands!

Liberace Victim In Hotel Robbery

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Thieves raided the hotel room of pianist Liberace during the night and made off with valuables and jewelry with an estimated value of $75,000, his manager said today.

Police acknowledged they were investigating a burglary at the Statler-Hilton Hotel, where the musician has a 20th floor room, and that it involved "a very large loss."

Liberace's manager, Seymour Heller, described the missing items as primarily gifts from admirers. He said they were stolen from a locked case between 7 p.m. and 12:30 a.m.

Leap Year Poses Voting Question

LONDON (AP) — Can leap year babies born 18 years ago on Feb. 29, 1956, cast their first vote in the general election Prime Minister Edward Heath has scheduled Feb. 28?

Labor party candidate John Gilbert says at least six people in his electoral district are in that fix. The voting age in Britain is 18, and Gilbert thinks they ought to be able to vote this year.

He put the question to the Home Office four days ago. Its officials are still searching the fine print of law books for an answer.

More Energy Bills On Way

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — More energy crisis legislation is on its way through the North Carolina General Assembly.

Rep. Bob Wynne, D-Wake, introduced a resolution today in the House "urging prompt remedial attention to inequities in the federal energy allocation program" as it affects gasoline availability in North Carolina.

Wynne said North Carolina is not getting fair treatment under the gasoline allocation plan. And, he said, "An unresponsive government has seen our people facing longer and longer lines at gas pumps."

The Senate passed a bill Thursday establishing a new Energy Division within the department of Military and Veterans' Affairs. The department already has an energy office, but the legislation would make it permanent and build its employment to about 31 workers.

The measure was sent to the House for further consideration.

Meanwhile, Sen. Robert J. Barker, R-Wake, put in a bill to establish a North Carolina Energy Council. Another bill would appropriate $200,000 to run the council.

The 23-member council, which would include private citizens as well as government officials, would be the successor to the Energy Crisis Study Commission created by the 1973 General Assembly.

Barker said the council would work "to develop state policy with respect to energy management."

Meanwhile, the legislature enacted into law a bill eliminating the party loyalty oath for candidates to elective office, and a bill dealing with presidential primaries. The Senate gave the House passed measures final approval Thursday afternoon.

The party loyalty oath had required candidates to promise to support all their party's candidates and not to attempt a write-in campaign if they were defeated in the party primary.

The bill dealing with presidential primaries will allow a candidate to win delegates to the national convention if he receives 5 per cent of the popular vote in the state's primary. The old law had required a candidate to receive at least 15 per cent of the vote to receive any delegates.

The Senate also passed and sent to the House a bill to establish a Commission of Human Skills and Resource Development.

The 20-member commission would seek to train and utilize individuals at the local level who would be qualified to provide counseling and referral services in such areas as drug abuse and alcoholism.

Legislation was introduced in the House by Rep. Foyle Hightower, D-Anson, to abolish the state Hearing Aid Dealers and Fitters Board.

Hightower said a special House Finance subcommittee which he headed had come to the conclusion that the board which licenses hearing aid dealers and fitters "is not needed."

Rep. Lane Brown, D-Stanley, put in a bill that would increase the punishment for prison inmates convicted of assaulting guards. Brown said the bill would increase the maximum punishment from 30 days to two years.

Brown also introduced a bill to appropriate $600,000 to strengthen and expand the testing and report practices in the state's primary and elementary schools.

Fertilizer Cost Expected Rise

COLLEGE STATION, Tex. (UPI) — Fertilizer costs may be up as much as 25 per cent over 1973, but it still will be profitable for farmers to fertilize, according to agronomist John Box.

"It boils down to this — producers cannot afford to risk anything that might reduce their 1974 yields below their long-term average," Box said.

My advice to Ford is, "Just go after them—but I doubt if you'll get them," Fortson said in an interview Thursday.

"You've got a different situation in Kentucky," he added. "They're feeding there, not just roosting, and it's harder to get rid of feeding starlings."

No Coping With Starling Plague

By BILLIE BROWN
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — A Georgia official who fought starlings for seven years with everything from firearms to featherdusters has advice for Kentucky Gov. Wendell Ford.

But "even the good Lord can't do much about starlings," says Georgia Secretary of State Ben Fortson, who in 1966 won his battle with the birds roosting at the state Capitol by firing Roman candles at them.

Ford has asked federal help in ridding his state of starlings, which are causing crop and livestock losses estimated at $2.6 million a year in Christian County.

"My advice to Ford is, 'Just go after them—but I doubt if you'll get them,'" Fortson said in an interview Thursday.

"You've got a different situation in Kentucky," he added. "They're feeding there, not just roosting, and it's harder to get rid of feeding starlings."

Reaction To Movie 'Odd'

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The Rev. William O'Malley, S.J., who appeared in and acted as an adviser to the film "The Exorcist," says he finds public reaction to the movie "very odd."

"I don't understand and don't know what the answer is, but the film seems to be fulfilling some kind of need," he said in an interview.

The controversial movie deals with the demonic possession of a young girl and opened to turn-away crowds in Buffalo this week, as it has in cities around the country.

"People are reportedly passing out or becoming ill and yet no one became ill or fainted when the media gave reports on the war in Vietnam, where thousands of men were killed, or Biafra, Bangladesh, or mass killings on our streets like what recently happened on the West Coast," Father O'Malley added.

"I think we have developed a tolerance for evil."

Many people who have seen the film and even some who haven't, feel they are possessed by the devil and are coming to priests for help, he said. "That is hard to understand."

"The film makes it amply clear that you have to visit psychiatrists, psychologists and medical doctors before the church would even remotely consider touching the thing with an exorcism."

Father O'Malley said he doesn't think everyone should see the film.

Protection Is Defended

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Treasury Department has refused to lift its Secret Service protection of former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, calling such protection "neither unprecedented nor unreasonable."

The department made its position clear in a letter to Rep. John E. Moss, D-Calif., who had asked that the protection be terminated.

However, top Treasury lawyers pointed out that Secret Service protection was previously given to public officials outside the executive branch.

The letter said such protection had been given Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., during the 1972 presidential campaign even though he was not a candidate, and that Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., had an escort for six months following expiration of his term as vice president.

Moss had demanded an end to the protection, citing an opinion from the General Accounting Office that "the presidential directive to the Secret Service request on such protection does not constitute legal authority to provide it."

However, the Treasury said, "the statutes are silent on affording Secret Service protection for former vice presidents of the United States."

No Injuries As Cars Collided

An estimated $400 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in a 10 a.m. collision on Greene Street 1,200 feet North of the Tar River here yesterday.

Police identified the drivers involved as Keith Zebulon Vance of Jamestown and Peter Edward Lavin Jr. of Fayetteville.

Vance was charged by officers with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of the collision.

No injuries were reported.

Alcohol-related traffic deaths in the United States during 1971 totaled about 27,000 according to the National Automobile Club.
