

Galifianakis, Stevens In Senate Race; Horton Out

RALEIGH (AP)—State Senator Hamilton Horton of Winston-Salem withdrew today as a candidate for the Republican nomination for the U.S. Senate just before State Rep. William Stevens of Lenoir announced his candidacy.

Horton made his dramatic withdrawal announcement at a news conference called by Stevens to announce his candidacy.

Horton said that although it was "a bitter pill for me to swallow" he was withdrawing for the sake of party unity. He said he felt only a united party could win the U.S. Senate seat now held by Democrat Sam Ervin.

About an hour after the Stevens and Horton announcements, former Congressman Nick Galifianakis announced his candidacy for the Democratic Senatorial nomination.

Galifianakis, who lost a Senate race in 1972 to Sen. Jesse Helms, told newsmen at a news conference he wanted to "give my views on the critical issues of the day: The high cost of living, the long lines at the service stations, adequate health care for our people, agriculture policies, international relations, and the security, safety and privacy of our citizens."

Stevens told his news conference that he would resign immediately from his seat in the state House of Representatives. However, he said he would retain his position as an executive of Broyhill Industries, a furniture manufacturer at Lenoir.

Stevens told newsmen "Today America is beset with some of the most perplexing problems this country has ever faced in peacetime. In my opinion some of the most serious ills besetting America today are primarily economic ills. They are problems that require level-headed, businesslike solutions."

Shortly after his announcement, Stevens appeared at the State Board of Elections and formally filed as a candidate, beating a noon deadline.

A political unknown, Mildred T. Keene of Charlotte, filed as a Democrat candidate for the Senate seat.

State Sen. Jack L. Rhyne of Belmont filed as a Democratic candidate for Congress in the 10th District as did Billy E. Pope of Conover.

Chief District Court Judge Elreta Milton Alexander of Greensboro filed as a Republican candidate for chief justice of the State Supreme Court and James A. Webster of Winston-Salem, a professor of law at Wake Forest University, filed as a candidate for associate justice of the court.

"I almost forgot," said Galifianakis as he arrived at the Board of Elections about an hour later to file.

Others who beat the deadline included Harry McMullan III of Washington, N.C., and grandson of a former Democratic state attorney general, who filed as a Republican candidate for Congress in the First District.

Expect 'Very Close Vote' On Med School Expansion

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

The question of an expanded East Carolina University medical school will come before the joint House-Senate Appropriations Committee in Raleigh tomorrow. And which ever way the committee votes—either in favor of a bill to expand the present one-year medical school, or against such expansion—the vote is expected to be close.

Rep. Carl Stewart of Gastonia, who said "I'll be chairing the meeting," indicated this morning, "I think the vote will be quite close in the committee."

According to the House member "the feeling is that ECU partisans tend to predominate in the Senate Appropriations Committee... the House Committee is fairly equally divided."

"It will depend on which bill is finally selected and what amendments, if any, are offered..." Stewart explained.

He said the joint committee will meet at 9 a.m. "We'll have to take action prior..." to 10:30 a.m. "or have to meet at some later time," Stewart explained, saying there is only a 1½ hour meeting of the committee scheduled.

He theorized, however, that the vote should come within that time period. "I would assume most of the committee members have made their minds up..." Stewart said.

House Speaker James Ramsey of Roxboro said the "vote is supposed to come up tomorrow, and I think it will," but he said it would probably be late this afternoon, before we know what the strategy will be..." Ramsey noted. "I think it will pass...at the present time"

Sen. Gordon Allen, also of Roxboro, said in his opinion the committee vote will be "very close."

He continued, "I think that the ECU position will prevail in the Senate but will be close in the House..."

The Joint Appropriations Committee will be considering three bills at tomorrow's meeting.

The three measures include one sponsored by Rep. J. P. Huskins, D-Iredell which calls for expanding the current one year program to a two year school and expanding the size of the entering classes by specific dates.

The second bill is one introduced by Stewart and Sen. Ralph Scott, D-Alamance, as an attempted compromise which would expand the ECU program but allow the University of North Carolina Board of Governors to decide when the expansion should take place.

The third bill, sponsored by Rep. Herbert L. Hyde, D-Buncombe, would require the UNC board to present a medical education plan to the General Assembly by 1975 and to draft that plan according to 32 criteria, many of which are points made by East Carolina supporters.

Former Nixon Lawyer Enters Guilty Plea In Role As A Fund-Raiser

WASHINGTON (AP) — Herbert W. Kalmbach, a former personal attorney to President Nixon, pleaded guilty today to charges stemming from his activities as a Republican political fund raiser.

Kalmbach pleaded to a technical charge stemming from the distribution through a dummy political committee in the District of Columbia of $3.9 million to Republican congressional candidates in the 1970 elections.

The felony charge of soliciting political contributions and making expenditures through a committee for which neither a chairman nor treasurer had been named carries a maximum penalty of two years in prison and a $10,000 fine.

Kalmbach also pleaded guilty to a misdemeanor charge stemming from his promise of an ambassadorship to a political contributor.

That charge carries a maximum penalty of one year in jail and a $1,000 fine.

The charge filed by the special Watergate prosecutor's office alleged that on Sept. 16, 1970, Kalmbach met with J. Fife Symington of Lutherville, Md., then U.S. ambassador to Trinidad and Tobago, and that Symington promised to contribute $100,000 if assured he would be appointed ambassador to a European country.

The prosecutors said that Kalmbach called the White House and got the assurances and that Symington contributed $50,000 to Republican candidates in 1970 and $50,000 to President Nixon's 1972 campaign.

Symington never got the job he sought and Kalmbach later offered to return his money, the court papers said. Symington refused to take it back.

Kalmbach appeared in court at the start of a week during which, special prosecutor Leon Jaworski has said, grand juries will be ready to return indictments in a number of Watergate cases.

In a letter to Kalmbach's attorney dated Feb. 13, 1974, Jaworski said that the charges to which the 52-year-old Newport

Beach, Calif., attorney pleaded "will dispose of pending or potential charges based on matters presently known to this office."

The letter also disclosed that Kalmbach has promised to cooperate with the prosecutors, that he may testify at future Watergate trials and that he may be named later as an unindicted co-conspirator.

The morning service will be conducted by Dr. Andrew Best, a local family physician, at the First Presbyterian Church at 10:30, and the evening services at Cornerstone Baptist Church at 8 o'clock by Father Hugh Mulholland, pastor of St. Gabriel's Catholic Church.

Kissinger Leaves For Middle East

By BARRY SCHWEID
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger left for the Middle East today with high hopes that he can bring a list of war prisoners to Israel from Syria in mid-week, clearing the way for disengagement talks between the two October war foes.

His plane left nearby Andrews Air Force Base about 9:30 a.m. EDT.

Even the "incredible Israeli cabinet situation" does not detract from Kissinger's optimism, said a senior U.S. official.

The secretary has the enthusiastic backing of Egyptian President Anwar Sadat for today's fourth mission to the Middle East. He would not be going if he did not expect some success, this official said.

But Syrian President Hafez Assad, attending the Islamic summit in Lahore, Pakistan, was quoted as saying "Syria will never make any concessions" in its demand for a full Israeli withdrawal from Golan Heights territory lost in the war. "We will continue our struggle," said Assad, according to a Kuwaiti newspaper.

On the other hand, Sadat predicted a Kissinger success. "As happened in the disengagement on the Egyptian front, I think can be done on the Syrian front," he said at the same conference.

If Kissinger obtains the prisoners' list, as expected, it would meet the principal Israeli prerequisite for negotiations with Syria. He will reach Damascus on Tuesday after an overnight stop in London for talks with Sir Alec Douglas-Home, the British foreign secretary.

Kissinger's main task is to bring Syria and Israel together to negotiate a disengagement of their armies similar to the agreement he worked out between Egypt and Israel last month. But the U. S. official, who declined to be identified, said the secretary did not intend to repeat — at least on this trip — the sort of shuttle diplomacy that carried him back and forth between Sadat and the Israeli cabinet.

Along the way, he intends to confer with Sadat in Cairo about extending the life of the United Nations peace-keeping force in the Sinai peninsula.

The U. N. force, which serves as a buffer between the Egyptian and Israeli armies, will be removed April 27 unless it is voted a new lease by the security council.

Undersecretary of State Joseph Sisco, who is accompanying Kissinger to the Middle East, said the trip also would include a stop in Saudi Arabia. He indicated the Arab oil embargo would be discussed.

"I think we have an unparalleled opportunity to make progress," Sisco remarked on the CBS-TV "Morning News" program about upcoming Middle East negotiations.

There is considerable concern here that unless Israel comes to terms quickly with Syria and then follows with a second-phase withdrawal in Sinai, Sadat will be so isolated diplomatically in the Arab world that he may feel impelled to move against the Jewish state again.

Ayden Mayor Files For County Commissioner

Ayden Mayor Ross S. Persinger filed this morning as a candidate for the Ayden-Grifton-Swift Creek District seat on the Swift County Board of Commissioners.

Persinger, a Democrat, will oppose incumbent Fifth District Commissioner B. Alton Gardner in the May 7 primary.

In filing prior to today's noon deadline, Persinger commented, "After being mayor of Ayden for eight years, I feel our area has been slighted and a change would give our area of Pitt County new opportunities."

The mayor who is serving his fifth term, pointed out, "Pitt County is growing economically, industrially and educationally and we need long range plans for this growth." He said that his experience as mayor "has given me an insight of the needs of our town and citizens in Pitt County. I have also lived in an agricultural community for the past 22 years and I am well aware of our farmers needs and desires."

Persinger, a native of Charleston, W. Va., has been employed by E.I. DuPont for 33 years, beginning his career with the company at the Belle, W.Va. plant, moving to Seaford, Del. in 1950, and then to the Kinston plant in 1953.

He past master of the Ayden Masonic Lodge No. 498, a member of the Scottish Rite, a Shriner, and an Elder in the Ayden Christian Church. Persinger also serves as secretary of the Mid-East Commission that represents Pitt, Bertie, Beaufort, Hertford and Martin Counties and is vice president of the Mid-East Comprehensive Health Planning Committee.

The candidate is married to the former Happy Hutton of Charleston, W. Va. and they have two sons.

A spokesman said the damage estimate did not include the personal belongings of the 135 men who lived in the barracks. The cause of the fire was being investigated.

Military Police discovered the fire about 3:30 a.m. and evacuated the occupants. Firemen from the base and from surrounding civilian communities brought the fire under control. No injuries were reported.

No Republicans Among 18 Candidates Filing For Area Offices

BULLETIN

Robert M. Brown of Rt. 1, Grimesland filed late this morning as a Democratic candidate for one of the two State Senate seats representing Pitt, Martin, Halifax and Edgecombe Counties.

Brown will oppose incumbent Senators Vernon White of Winterville and Julian Aillsbrook of Roanoke Rapids as an at-large candidate in the May 7 primary election.

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

Some 18 area Democratic candidates have filed for various offices in the May 7 primary and five incumbents face opposition in their bids for reelection.

First District Congressman Walter Jones filed with the State Board of Elections as a candidate for his sixth term in the U. S. House of Representatives. As of 10 a.m. today, according to the state elections office, no one had filed to oppose Jones.

Incumbent State Senators Vernon White of Winterville and Julian R. Aillsbrook of Roanoke Rapids filed for reelection as candidates from the Sixth Senatorial District representing Pitt, Martin, Halifax, and Edgecombe Counties. White, who will seek reelection to one of the two seats allotted to the district, has served six years in the North Carolina General Assembly and Aillsbrook is a veteran of nine terms in the Senate and one term in the House of Representatives.

Jimmie Lee Smith of Farmville filed at 11 a.m. today as a candidate for one of the two District Eight (Pitt and Greene) seats in the North Carolina House of Representatives and will oppose incumbents Sam D. Bundy of Farmville and H. Horton Rountree of Greenville. Bundy is seeking his third term in the House while Rountree is a candidate for the seat he has held for four terms.

Pitt County Commissioner B. Alton Gardner is opposed by Ayden Mayor Ross Persinger in the battle for the District Five seat on the board representing Ayden, Grifton and Swift Creek. Veteran incumbent Commissioner J. Vance Perkins has opposition from Ed N. Warren and William B. Martin in his bid to retain the Greenville District One seat on the board. A third commissioner, Burney L. Tucker is opposed as a candidate for the District Four seat representing Winterville, Chicod and Grimesland.

Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson, who is seeking his third full term in the May primary, is opposed by Ayden Chief of Police Thomas D. Burney. Burney is seeking his first elective office.

Three incumbent members of the Pitt County Board of Education are unopposed in their reelection bids. Kenneth Dews (Winterville District), J. B. Congleton (Stokes-Pactolus), and Jack O. Carson (Ayden) all filed with the county Elections Board.

Pitt County Superior Court Clerk H. H. Lewis Jr. is also seeking reelection in May and is unopposed in his bid to retain the seat he has held since April, 1968.

E. Withers Harvey, who has served as Pitt County Coroner since 1959, has filed for reelection and is unopposed.

Miss Margaret Register executive secretary of the Pitt Elections Board, noted that all but Jones were required to file with the local board. She said that, as of 11 a.m. today, no Republicans had filed for any of the area offices.

She noted that although the candidate filing deadline passed at 12 noon today, the voter registration deadline for the May primary is April 8 at 5 p.m.

Marine Captain Believes In Doing Her Best

WASHINGTON (AP) — Instead of sleeping late, U.S. Marine Capt. Gloria Smith is up early so she can perform judo workouts before going to work.

The Marine Corps' senior black woman officer was a high school teacher before she joined the service. Now she answers Congressional letters received by the Equal Opportunities branch of her headquarters unit.

"I wanted to experience more of a feeling of satisfaction, something I could set my sights on and gear my energies and efforts toward," she said.

In addition to regular duties, Capt. Smith often travels as a corps representative to attend conventions, conferences and seminars.

Her weekends, however, are spent traveling to participate in judo tournaments. The captain holds a brown belt in judo and is working to earn her black belt.

"I wanted a hobby for my spare time that would keep me fit. I didn't want the usual things, so I tried judo. Recently, after reading the motto of Keiko Fufuda, one of the highest ranking women in the sport, I have come to realize that studying judo also helps me in being a woman marine. The philosophy is 'Be gentle, kind and beautiful, yet firm and strong both mentally and physically,'" Capt. Smith recalled.

Starting in 1965, Capt. Smith has won awards in invitational tournaments in Delaware, North Carolina and Maryland.

"I'm never satisfied with my performance," the attractive young woman added. "I know that I can always do better. I strive to become more competent and successful as an officer as well as a judo player."

"I don't believe that I should have to settle for being second

Reader Finds Solution For Junk Mail

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I can't believe I am actually writing Dear Abby, but I have a solution for people who want to know how to get off those junk-mailing lists.

Write to: Direct Mail Advertising Association Inc., 230 Park Ave, New York, N. Y. 10017. Request an application form, and it will be sent to you free of charge. Fill it out and return it. I did, and some days, I don't get any mail at all!

ANTI-JUNK MAIL

DEAR ANTI: Writing this column has been an endless education. And I'm still learning. Thanks, friend.

DEAR ABBY: Our son, Peter, who is 21 and a senior at college, came home for the Christmas vacation. He invited six couples to the house for a New Year's Eve party. My husband and I planned on staying home, altho all the kids were 21 and didn't need a chaperone.

Peter's invitation read as follows: "If you plan to drink, please plan to stay all night. Sleeping bags will be provided."

I didn't like the idea of a coed slumber party, and said that no daughter of mine would be allowed to accept such an invitation—even at 21!

My husband sided with Peter. He had the party, and everybody stayed all night. How would you have voted, Abby?

MOM

DEAR MOM: Not with you, Mom. Sorry. All the kids were 21, and I think your son used excellent judgment.

DEAR ABBY: A writer recently inquired about providing a simple funeral for himself even tho his wife insisted that should she survive him, he would be given an elaborate funeral with all the trimmings. You advised him to seek legal counsel.

Abby, the California Laws Regulating Licensed Funeral Directors and Embalmers [Sec. 7100] states that "prior to one's death one may direct by written instruction the type of burial he desires, and those otherwise entitled to control the disposition of his remains shall faithfully carry out his instructions."

I think it would probably be safe to assume that most other states have similar provisions.

A. S. H.: LONG BEACH, CAL.

DEAR Mr. H.: Thank you for the information regarding California law. But I have learned [the hard way] that when it comes to state laws, one may not safely assume anything.

DEAR ABBY: Cheers to you, Abby, for telling that bride that merely saying, "Thank you for the lovely wedding gift," when she accidentally bumped into the giver in a restaurant one evening is not sufficient. All wedding gifts should be acknowledged with a written note.

Or to borrow a phrase from Sam Goldwyn: "A verbal thank you isn't worth the paper it's written on."

J. B. S.: CHAMPAIGN, ILL.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-Agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Cal. 90212.

Program On Drugs Given

David Garrison, a drug enforcement officer, presented the program at the Tuesday night meeting of the Tea and Topics Book Club held at the home of Mrs. Tom Broadrick.

The speaker displayed harmful drugs and told how they were taken and how they harmed the body both mentally and physically. He explained that Pitt County had the third largest drug problem east of Fayetteville and of the need to help erase drugs.

During a question and answer period, Garrison told of the reaction of each drug, how it harms and penalties.

Mrs. Jerry Creech, president, presented the club's flower, a yellow rose, to a new member, Mrs. Eugene Smith. A business meeting was held and members decided to contribute to Operation Sunshine.

Guests for the meeting were Mrs. Bobby Gaylor and Mrs. George Manning.

Department Meeting Held

The February meeting of the Home Life Department of the Greenville Woman's Club was held last week at the home of Mrs. Lindsay Savage.

Miss Alya Ray Taylor, program chairman, introduced the speakers, Miss Durene Short of Siler City and Miss Cathy Whitehurst of Bethel, seniors in the School of Home Economics at ECU.

Their program topic was "Tips On How To Save Energy."

Mrs. Kelly Wallace, chairman, conducted the meeting and read a poem "Take Time." New members were welcomed and reports were given by the various committee chairwomen.

'Kick-Off' Dinner Held

The Candlewick Swim and Tennis Club held a season "kick-off" dinner at the Phil Clark residence in Lakewood Pines Friday.

Club President, George Hamilton, led a short discussion on "At Home Recreational Resources in Response to The Energy Crisis." The dinner was promoted and organized by Mrs. Dot Ellen, Mrs. Lou Hamilton and Mrs. Nicky Clark.

The group held a do-it-yourself musical session with members participating on the trombone, bongos, guitar and karatchi.

Now, After Ten Years' Debate

This will very likely be a major week for medical education in North Carolina. The Legislative Joint Appropriations Committee is scheduled to take a vote tomorrow on the East Carolina University medical school expansion. It is being billed as a "showdown" vote and certainly we view it as one of the most important votes ever taken in the legislature.

The committee will be recommending one of several bills which allow for expansion of the ECU medical school. Or it could follow the University Board of Governor's recommendation that nothing be done to expand the school.

We have, of course, heard all of the arguments for and against until they have become repetitious, but one thing is certain: after ten years of debate over the ECU school there has been little improvement in the physician situation in North Carolina. That, to us, is reason enough why North Carolina should proceed as rapidly as possible to expand the present one year ECU medical program to a full four years.

The argument that legislative action will undermine the board of governors has been refuted by former Governor Bob Scott, Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt and others who are experts on North Carolina government.

It is our view that we have a situation here where the Legislature has a strong duty to act. The board of governors as originally set up, drew 16 of its 32 members from the old Greater University board where opposition to the ECU medical school had been strong. The board promptly hired the old Greater University president and retained the old Greater University headquarters in Chapel Hill. To us, then it is not surprising that the board has recommended nothing for expansion of the ECU medical school.

Now the Legislature, which created the board of governors, has to consider if a state administration unit is at war with one of its component parts. That is certainly a situation in which the Legislature must act, if orderly government is to be maintained.

The North Carolina Legislature, far from undermining the board of governors, may be saving it by taking strong and forceful action on this matter and declaring once and for all that the ECU School of Medicine will be developed. If this is not done we expect to see public confidence in the board continue to deteriorate until finally it will not be effective at all.

GOP Shock Is Nearing Panic

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—The shock of Democratic victory in Vice President Ford's old Michigan district could be magnified into total alienation between Richard M. Nixon and his party by the next congressional special election: March 5 in Ohio's 1st Congressional district, another longtime Republican stronghold.

"If we lose that one," a top Republican told us, "real panic will set in." Such panic could radicalize congressional Republicans on resignation or impeachment.

But even before the crucial Ohio election, Republicans who had muted their deep unease over the impact of Watergate are now preparing harsh new demands on the White House for complete disclosure of all documents demaded by the House Judiciary Committee.

Thus, at the very least, the shocking results of the Michigan election have stiffened and offended the Republican party at the moment Mr. Nixon and his battery of anti-impeachment lawyers are plotting new ways to withhold material from the House committee's impeachment proceedings. There are strong indications that the runaway Michigan upset by Democrat Richard VanderVeen was the result of thousands of outright Republican switches, not merely angry and disillusioned Republican voters staying at home.

For example, nearly 30,000 get-out-the-vote calls from Republican telephone banks went to identified Republican voters the day before the election. "We got those voters out," a high-level Michigan Republican told us, "but they doublecrossed us and voted Democratic."

In the Republican hard-core countries of Ford's safely Republican district, precinct captains and county chairmen sent this message to state Republican headquarters within hours after the vote: "Nixon has to go."

"These people would have crawled over hot coals for Nixon until Watergate," a political lieutenant of Republican Gov. William G. Milliken told us. "Now they've had it."

The message of Michigan was only dimly visible here at a mid-January session of the House Congressional Campaign Committee, headed by Rep. Bob Michel of Illinois. Moving from region to region, Michel received heartening reports from regional chairmen that Watergate, after all, was not going to turn into the Republican-eating monster that some Republicans feared.

The only discordant voice raised that day came from Rep. William J. Scherle, a no-nonsense conservative from Iowa. On hearing that Ford's seat was "safe," Scherle vehemently protested. In Iowa, he recounted, a fundraiser planned for the 2nd Congressional District last November had to be called off for a fairly decisive reason: Republican leaders simply could not sell near enough tickets to make it worthwhile.

Scherle's warning: anti-Nixon sentiment welling up from the Watergate issue was still quiescent, just under the surface, but would surely burst sooner or later in a torrent of protest votes. Scherle's grim forecast was fulfilled by the Michigan election, in which VanderVeen ignored inflation, energy and unemployment to concentrate on Watergate and the President.

In Ohio's 1st District, Democratic prospects are far better on paper than they ever were in Michigan, despite a 70 per cent win there in 1972 by William Keating, the resigned Republican Congressman. Operatives of both parties believe Democrat Thomas Luken was running slightly ahead of Republican Willis Gradison, Jr., just before the Michigan shocker.

Thus, Luken must be the odds-on choice to capture the seat for the Democrats for the first time in 10 years. But more important, a powerful pro-Luken labor campaign has been quietly transported from Grand Rapids to Cincinnati in the past few days with a most sophisticated AFL-CIO political operation.

It was this operation, under the overall command of top AFL-CIO political operative Al Barkan, that turned out a maximum Democratic vote in Michigan. Some 35,000 telephone calls got voters to the polls, backed by unprecedented batteries of doorbell ringers and plenty of money.

To save the Ohio district—and stem what is surely potentially fateful political blood-letting for President Nixon—the Republican high command is prepared to put every resource available at Gradison's command.

But moving Republicans to the polls March 5 may well mean more votes for the Democrat, as in Michigan. If so, even a last-ditch, maximum Republican campaign with help direct from the White House may only be self-defeating in Cincinnati. Having experienced shock in Michigan, party leaders are now half-expecting panic from Ohio.

A New Look At Public Schools

By BILL NOBLITT DURHAM—How does love change to hate?

The experts don't know what's happening in the public schools to turn youngsters into school haters, but it is happening—and they're worried.

"For the first few years, especially in grades three to six, they love school. "And two years later they're hating it and have to be drug off to class by their parents. I don't know what is happening, but we've got to find a way to offset that," Dr. Jerome H. Melton believes.

Melton, assistant superintendent in charge of program services in the State Department of Public Instruction, is on the firing line of problems and change in the school system.

He suspects the big change in student attitudes comes from meeting failure day after day during the critical junior high school years. "Students face failure until finally they reject it, and just turn it off. A kid that age needs a positive success image," he says.

Custodial Role
School officials also believe the fact that schools spend an awful lot of time just keeping the students—running them up and down halls, meeting schedules, keeping quiet, obeying rules—figures into the change of attitude.

Sweeping changes in schools are at hand, Dr. Melton told a seminar on education meeting at Duke University.

"The mere size of the school system and the slowness of government and bureaucracy make it frustrating to ever get anything changed," he said.

But with slow change in some quarters, spectacular shifts in others, Dr. Melton sees this emerging as the North Carolina school system over the coming 10 to 20 years.

Elementary school will be replaced by Early Childhood Education covering kindergarten through about the third grade. Emphasis will be on language development, learning to communicate through listening, reading, writing. Heavy emphasis, Melton said, will be on defining and meeting special needs for any medical, physical, mental, or emotional handicap.

Get Along
Another major area in Early Childhood will be social adjustment. The integration of schools, he said, has had the greatest impact on classrooms of anything in our lifetimes. Simply learning to get along together will become a prime objective.

Intermediate School will follow for about three years, from grade four or five until six or seven.

The foundation of reading, writing, communicating must be built in those years to permit a student to handle later subjects.

Middle School will cover junior high years, ages 11, 12, and 13. It will have a "people-oriented" curriculum with people from the "real world" coming in to work with the youngsters, people who can serve as models for building images.

"These are not necessarily teachers, but real, warm, personable human beings," Melton said.

Intensive attention must come in those grades, also, to catching up on any remedial work needed in reading and in overcoming handicaps.

Dr. Melton sees the need in Middle School to "jazz up the technologies and learning theories," giving students a shot at many learning opportunities in the world of work, government, civic affairs, church, etc. and help in overcoming that basic struggle involved in being a child one day, an adult the next.

Walls Come Down
Finally will come the Senior High School where the "School walls will soon be over" in favor of individualized programs "tailor made, based on what the school has learned about the student—based on his own interests and directions."

School will take place in the community with short courses, work experiences, field trips; not on rows of seats and lecturing teachers.

Strength For Today

NO TIME TO SPARE
There is a prominent minister in one of our larger cities who never hesitates to speak to any man about his spiritual life, no matter how high his station may be. One day this man went to one of the prominent bankers of his city and pressed upon him earnestly the claims of the Christian life. As he finished, the banker said, "Doctor, you're the only man who ever had nerve enough to come to me and tell me straight out what I ought to do; and you're right. I know I don't live the right kind of life. I'm old enough to know right from wrong. For many years I have thought about just these things you have spoken to me about; and I know that you are absolutely right." Then he dropped his head, and in a rather wistful tone said, "But unfortunately, Doctor, I just don't want to change." Three weeks later he was dead. All of his life he had never known that he had no time to spare.

We Needed Watergate

WASHINGTON—Everyone from Joseph Alsop to Vice President Gerald Ford is pleading that the country should forget about Watergate so the President can devote his time and efforts to such important matters as the energy crisis.

Dr. Siegfried Siegfried, a psychiatrist who is writing a book, "How Much Can Americans Take?," supports the opposite view. "I think it would be more advantageous if the country could forget about the energy crisis so the President could devote his full time to Watergate."

"Why do you say that, Doctor?"

"The truth is that practically everyone in the country gets a fiendish delight in reading about Watergate, while very few people get any fun reading about the energy crisis. My studies show that if you offer readers the choice of a Watergate article or one on the oil shortage, they will take the Watergate story 5 to 1. I'm afraid that if Watergate hadn't happened we would have had to invent it."

"But why?" I asked Dr. Siegfried.

"Watergate is pure entertainment. It has comedy, mystery and melodrama. I would prefer that it have a little sex as well but we can't have everything. People identify with the Watergate characters. They are all clean-cut, short-haired Americans caught up in a soap opera which each insists was not of his making. It also involves a new element which

Other Editors Say Man With Purpose

(Rocky Mount Telegram)
The decision of Dr. Leo W. Jenkins to put aside two of his favorite topics, the East Carolina Medical School and politics, in his appearance here last Thursday places the ECU chancellor on a higher plane as far as a lot of local citizens are concerned.

Instead of his favorite subjects, the ECU chancellor chose to discuss Americanism, with such declarations as "the United States offers the best society man has ever been able to invent," and "Watergate will not stop America; our historic mission is not yet complete."

In so doing, however, Dr. Jenkins, addressing a Kiwanis-sponsored gathering to honor our Boy Scouts in their advancement program, made a wise decision.

The Kiwanians went right along with the Scout-oriented audience in providing an enthusiastic response to the chancellor's message.

Of course, there were those in the audience who do not go along with the proposal for a four-year medical school at ECU and there doubtless were those who would not be on his side if Dr. Jenkins chose to run for Governor.

Still one cannot escape the fact that here is a man to be admired for his courage and his convictions.

Dr. Jenkins believes in East Carolina University and never ceases to battle for that great institution's rightful place under Eastern Carolina skies.

Those who have attempted to stack the deck against him and East Carolina University in their bid for the four-year medical program have come to know that Dr. Jenkins regards a "no" more as a challenge than a denial.

And whether you're a friend or a foe you still have to admire his dogged determination to increase the prestige, the influence and the effectiveness of East Carolina University as a great North Carolina educational institution.

Regardless of whether Dr. Jenkins, as some charge, seems to be battling windmills they must admit that he still gets a lot of mileage through the effort and he at least deserves a rousing vote of confidence.

At a time when so many leaders on various fronts go on record for one thing even while looking the other way, in Dr. Leo Jenkins we find a man who refuses to alter his course, regardless of the obstacles.

Good Intentions Didn't Work

By JOHN CUNNIFF AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — At least one American was "encouraged" by the performance of prices in January, a month in which the inflation rate took its second-largest jump since the 1940s.

It was a month also in which the buying power of the typical factory worker declined for the fourth straight month, despite whatever raises he may have obtained. He now pays $1.40 for goods priced at $1.00 in 1967.

But Herbert Stein, chairman of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, resumed his cheerful predictions which, after monthly repetition for two years, he had appeared to abandon. Stein noted that prices would not have risen nearly as much as they did, which is 1 per cent for the month or at an annual rate of 12 per cent, if food and energy increases hadn't distorted the statistics.

If these increases were eliminated, he said without advising how this might be done, the consumer price index would have shown a jump of four-tenths of 1 per cent, or roughly 5 per cent on an annual basis.

Thus, he concluded, the prospects were encouraging for a "better general price performance when the current surge in the food and energy categories has passed."

Neither, of course, can be eliminated from either the statistics or the lives that the statistics measure, and so one wonders why Washington should continue the speculation.

The essentials of life have risen 9.4 per cent in the 12 months from January 1973 to January 1974.

While Stein might find encouraging signs in the January report, few others do. They observe instead that a tremendous surge in wholesale prices will be pulsing toward the consumer at least until well into summer.

And, in an economy that is perhaps now permanently afflicted by shortages, there is hardly the old assurance that price stability can be regained by the fiscal and monetary policies. Those policies have been used to keep supply and demand in something near equilibrium — that, at least, was the goal. But if the supplies of raw materials aren't available, these techniques can hardly be effective.

After many months of playing an activist role in the marketplace, fixing prices and allocating supplies and dictating some retail practices, the nation's planners, it seems, have learned that their best intentions cannot keep prices in check.

Whatever the answer is and wherever it lies, it hardly could be seen in the latest consumer price report.

Now In South America

By FRED S. HOFFMAN AP Military Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence sources say Russian military advisers have moved into the South American continent for the first time.

They report that Russian technicians have arrived in Peru to train Peruvian soldiers in the use of T55 medium tanks bought from Russia last year.

Russian military advisers have been present in Cuba for about a dozen years, but never have been accepted by a South American nation.

Peru's purchase of Russian tanks and other military hardware has alarmed Chile and some other neighboring countries. The appearance of Russian military advisers is certain to deepen that concern, U.S. military officials said.

American intelligence is uncertain how many Russian tanks and advisers have reached Peru. There have been reports that the Peruvian government has bought as many as 200 medium tanks, heavy artillery and other arms, and may be planning to order some small SA7 anti-aircraft missiles, from the Soviet Union.

Russia has been trying for some years to gain an arms sales foothold in South America.

Moscow concentrated on Chile until the overthrow of the leftist Allende government by a rightist military junta last fall. Despite offers of low price, low interest, long term arms deals, Russia was not able to open up a market there.

Then the Soviet Union switched its focus to Peru, and Peruvian President Juan Velasco acknowledged two months ago that his government had bought tanks and other weapons from Russia.

This was followed by reports that Chile's new military rulers were negotiating with the French for the possible purchase of arms.

Public Forum

To the Editor:
In the past year or so the Middle East, Watergate, and various international conflicts have absorbed most of the national spotlight. The news media and our law making bodies have concentrated their active efforts into these public interest domains. We believe that while this is necessary, it has tended to overshadow some basic controversies that have been batted about for some time. One that we are personally concerned with is the constant and increasing efforts by some to severely cut expenditures to, or do away with altogether the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA).

In essence this is the whole space program; over a decade of advancement never before equaled by man in all of his history. Thanks to Skylab man has become the onlooker, able to, for the first time, study his earthly vessel from outside its own environment. It is now possible for large scale earth resources observation and evaluation with tangible results already seen in the areas of pollution control and agricultural improvement. Perhaps though, medicine has been space travel's greatest beneficiary thus far. Walking wheelchairs for crippled children, orally operated arms and legs for paraplegics, advanced breathing aids, and even revolutionary comfort for bed ridden patients were all parented by space technocracy. Fantastic is only a modest way to describe the accomplishments thus far. However their possible applications are phenomenal to say the least and beyond the imagination of most.

Those who know of the billions spent and can see only a few moon rocks or consider the expenditures money robbed from hungry children are, to say the least, terribly uninformed. A slight bit of research or a short letter to a NASA center will produce indisputable evidence of the value of space research. Furthermore, investigation into economical and technical history will prove that the "space race" was and is necessary. Neil Armstrong's "small step" truly embodied a "giant leap for mankind".

Hobby Seeking A House Seat

DURHAM (AP) — State AFL-CIO President Wilbur Hobby announced late Sunday that he will file today for the North Carolina House of Representatives from Durham County.

"The average person in this state needs and deserves more spokesmen in the General Assembly," Hobby said.

"When elected, I intend to be the voice of the consumer, the worker, the poor and the average man on the street who pays the taxes but has very little voice in his state government."

Buchwald . . .

(Continued from page 4) is the question of a presidential impeachment. The number two man has been booted out of office and the number one man's job is on the line.

"What more escape can you offer people who are beset with inflation, unemployment and transportation problems beyond their wildest dreams?"

"Without Watergate you would have a mass mental depression in this country. I maintain that Watergate is the glue that keeps the nation from falling apart."

"Take the controversy over the tapes. What a pleasure it is to see the battle being waged between the White House and the special prosecutor. What fiction writer would have had the nerve to have written the Rose Mary Woods role in the erasure of the key tape? Americans may not want to admit it, but they love every minute of Watergate. The worst mistake would be to deprive them of this marvelous farce provided them free through the courtesy of their friendly government."

"When you put it that way Watergate does have its role in American life," I admitted.

"Show me anyone who enjoys reading about the energy crisis. Produce one soul who gets pleasure out of seeing photographs of long lines of cars at gas stations. Find me a person who gets any pleasure out of watching Administration officials give daily conflicting stories on the oil situation in the country."

"I don't know of anybody," I admitted.

"When John Chancellor leads his program with a story that the cost of living went up another 5 per cent, the country goes into the dumps. But when he starts the show by revealing the President has refused to turn over tapes and papers to special prosecutor Jaworski, everybody cheers up and relaxes."

"I wonder why Alsop and Ford don't appreciate the psychological value of Watergate," I said.

"I can't analyze people I haven't examined personally," Dr. Siegfried replied. "But I do know that the biggest mistake this country could make would be to put Watergate behind them. As long as we can produce new evidence concerning the coverup and high Administration involvement, Americans will survive secure in the knowledge that the news can't be all bad."

Chou To Stress His 'Open Door'

By JOHN RODERICK Associated Press Writer TOKYO (AP) — Premier Chou En-lai has made clear that though China's anti-Confucius, anti-Lin Piao campaign will be pushed "to the end," it will not be allowed to interfere with his open-door foreign policy.

In his first public comment on the new nationwide purge, the Chinese premier criticized Chiang Kai-shek's Nationalists, the Soviet Union and "foreign diehards" for opposing the movement.

But he made two references to China's international role which served notice that, far from curtailing its new internationalism, Peking will expand that policy.

"China is a developing country, and our contribution to the people of the world has so far been rather modest," he said. And later he added that under Mao Tse-tung's leadership, China will "strive to make a greater contribution to the people of the world."

Chou's brief reference to the "surging" campaign against Lin, the late defense minister accused of plotting against Mao, and Confucius apparently was to rebut persistent reports that Chou himself was the target of the movement.

His name has not been specifically mentioned, but some students of Chinese affairs have interpreted the attacks on the Confucian virtues of moderation as attacks on the 75-year-old premier. Leftists reportedly last summer began a major offensive against the premier and his moderate course in foreign policy.

But Chinese and other informed sources last week said Chou had turned the tables on his critics.

The purge has not yet emerged from the stage of generalities. Amid a wordy screen of denunciations of Lin and Confucius, those who oppose the reforms in education, politics, literature, art and medicine produced by the 1966-69 Cultural Revolution are being attacked as a class.

Four years ago Leslie Troutman was a candidate for the man least likely to become a farmer. Today he's growing soybeans, corn and tobacco and wouldn't trade places with any city dweller in the country, according to Woody Upchurch, N. C. State University agricultural information specialist.

"To me, this is heaven," the 50-year-old former Newark, N. J., and Los Angeles, California resident declared. "I'm happy to be farming."

He added, "Sometimes I come outside early in the morning and just ramble. There's not another soul in sight." Troutman, who admits he has a lot to learn about farming, grew up in Newark and later moved to Los Angeles with his North Carolina born wife Rosa.

He had never done anything closer to farming than repairing industrial machinery and driving a long distance truck before coming to the Bladen County farm of Mrs. Troutman's mother, Mrs. Estella Barnhill.

He started out small, first working for another farmer in the area for a year and then growing an acre and a half of his own tobacco.

"I tried to learn as fast as I could," Troutman said. "But that first crop was too light in weight. I didn't know how to fertilize it, how to space the rows and so forth."

This year he planted 23 acres of tobacco, in addition to 24 acres of corn and 47 acres of soybeans. Troubles began to pile up, and many of them were rooted in inexperience.

"That's when I called on help from the county extension agent's office," Troutman said. "I had one 2-acre field of tobacco that I never saw after I set it out," he exaggerated. "We had a lot of rain and the weeds just took over."

He has continued to receive assistance from extension through The Farmer Opportunities Program—a special effort to give individual attention to limited resource families through non-professional technicians.

Jimmy Hill is one of two technicians working with the Bladen County extension staff and the Troutmans are one of the 50 Bladen families being assisted.

"Mr. Troutman is the kind of farmer you like to work with," Hill said. "He is anxious to learn and will do anything you tell him to improve his crop."

Troutman has not become discouraged through weedy corn, grassy tobacco and the universal problem of trying to find tobacco harvest labor. "I'm learning, and you have to pay for education. I've paid," he said.

Asked if he had any regrets about coming to the farm, he responded by asking, "Have you ever lived in Newark or Los Angeles?"

Criticize 'Playing God' With A Baby

By JEAN BRAUCHER Associated Press Writer PORTLAND, Maine (AP) — The parents of a deformed baby whose 15 days of life sparked a legal and moral controversy have criticized the court for playing God.

David Patrick Houle, the infant son of Air Force Sgt. and Mrs. Robert B.T. Houle of Westbrook, died Sunday in the Maine Medical Center here after being in poor condition since the previous Tuesday.

The baby had undergone court-ordered surgery after the hospital sued the parents when they reportedly refused permission for an operation.

The Houles said in a statement released by their lawyer, Navy Lt. James Freyer, that they were "most disturbed by the actions of the court in divesting them of the right to make an intimate parental decision that they believe was rightfully theirs."

The statement added, "Since nature determined that this infant was not a viable life, it was the court and not the parents that played God in deciding that the infant should be kept alive contrary to the laws of nature. Mercifully, as between nature and the Superior Court, nature was the court of last resort."

Arrest Man On Break-In Count

Charlie Staton, 38, of 108A Tyson St. was taken into custody by police here about 12:30 a.m. Sunday on charges of breaking, entering and larceny after officers found him inside Viola's Shop In at the intersection of Third and Tyson Streets.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Staton allegedly gained entrance to the store by breaking the glass from the front door.

An estimated $18.82 worth of merchandise, including cheese, sausage, ham, franks, eggs and other food had been gathered together inside the store, apparently for removal, before police discovered the break-in and found Staton hiding behind the meat counter in the building. Bond for Staton was set at $2,000.

Kennedy Youth Undergoes Tests

BOSTON (AP)—Edward M. Kennedy Jr., who had his right leg amputated above the knee last year, spent the weekend at the Children's Hospital Medical Center here undergoing tests and treatment to prevent recurrence of bone cancer.

A hospital spokesman said after the 12-year-old son of Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., was released Sunday that "no evidence exists at the present time for persistence of a tumor."

The youngster was hospitalized Friday, the same day his grandmother, Rose Kennedy, 83, was released from a West Palm Beach, Fla., hospital after treatment for a slight stroke. Young Kennedy is to return periodically to continue the tests and treatment.

Guard Receives Awards, Few Offers Of Job

NEW YORK (AP)—The security guard who discovered the Watergate break-in says he has received more awards than job offers.

Frank Wills, who was an $80-a-week guard at the Watergate complex in Washington, was presented with a plaque "for keen concern in government" from the Key Women of America, Inc., last weekend. It's one of a dozen awards he's won since discovering the burglary in 1972.

Wills was unemployed for six months between the time he quit his Watergate job and when he finally landed another security post in the Washington area. "The feeling was, to hire Frank Wills is to say, 'Nixon, you're a dirty dog,'" his attorney, Evans Dorsey, said. "You don't have to go underground to find hell, it's right here on earth and I was there," Wills said.

Super Bowl Before NFL

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

MIAMI (AP) — Phoenix, Seattle, Memphis and Florida may have to wait at least another year. It appears the National Football League, opening its annual winter meetings today, will postpone expansion.

The big matter being taken up today is whether New Orleans will get to keep Super Bowl IX. The speculation is that, because of the delays in completing the Louisiana Superdome, the NFL is going to take away the 1975 championship game and give it to Los Angeles.

Should the league do so, Miami still will be the site of the 1976 title game, and New Orleans almost surely would be awarded Super Bowl XI in January 1977.

Only a few months ago, expansion appeared a likely proposition. The big question, it seemed, was not which two cities would join the league soonest, but which one would get a franchise along with Seattle.

The city which, for one less than successful year, had a major league baseball team, appeared to have the inside track on expansion, probably as a National Conference entry.

As to which city would become the 28th in the NFL, behind No. 27 Seattle, the opinion was divided almost evenly between Phoenix and Memphis.

A Florida entry — an Orlando-based group currently plastering the NFL facilities here with "Rise With The Suns" stickers — figured to be the outside candidate this time around.

But since the expansion talk got serious, just before the 1973 season, the nation has been hit by an energy crisis and the league has been hit by enforced television and a challenge from a new league.

These three factors, it appears, will put the damper on expansion for several months at least.

The length and seriousness of the fuel shortage still are not known. The effect of the lifting of the home TV blackout on ticket sales won't really be known until the end of the 1974 season.

And the challenge of the World Football League looms as a threat nearly as serious as the American Football League's of 1960.

Another note is the fact that the 1974 draft already has been held — so if there is expansion, the new teams would not get their crack at collegiate talent for another year anyway.

Teenager Is Top Bowler

WINSTON-SALEM, N.C. (AP) — Teenager Ed Ressler of Allentown, Pa., was the talk of the Professional Bowlers Association tour today after his victory in the $100,000 Winston-Salem Classic Saturday.

Ressler, 19, who had won less than $2,000 in seven previous events this year, pocketed $14,000 after rolling 235 in his final match against 204 for veteran Jim Stefanich of Joliet, Ill.

Stefanich, a tour winner earlier this year, went into the final match with more than $36,000 in winnings this year. He won $7,500 second money.

Ressler, who had finished second to Stefanich after the first 42 games of play that ended Friday night, rolled 217 for a four-pin semifinal victory in the nationally televised tourney over Les Schisser of Denver. Schisser won $5,500.

Tye Critchlow of Los Angeles won fourth money of $4,500 and fifth, worth $3,500 went to Tommy Hudson of Akron, Ohio.

Inverrary Finale Almost Overshadowed By 'Fuss'

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Lee Trevino's bubbling little fuss with a national television network almost overshadowed Leonard Thompson's victory — and subsequent $10,000 charitable contribution — in the Jackie Gleason Inverrary Golf Classic.

Trevino, tied for the lead until he three-putted for bogeys on the last two holes Sunday, angrily charged television commentator Ray Scott with asking him to hold up a putt so the cameras could show it live on TV.

Scott and Frank Chirkinian, producer-director for the CBSTV crew that provided national coverage of the rich event, said it was all a misunderstanding joke.

While Trevino and the television people were involved in their contretemps, Thompson was rejoicing in his first professional victory, following a final round 68 and a 278 total, 10-under-par.

He donated $10,000 of his total purse of $52,000 to the Boys Club of America — "Winning means a lot more than $10,000 to me," he said — after beating Hale Irwin by one stroke. Irwin also had a closing 68, four-under-par, and a 279 total.

"This is something I dreamed about as a kid," said the slow-talking native of Lumberton, N.C., a former assistant pro at the Possum Trot Golf Club in Myrtle Beach, S.C.

A half-dozen players either led or shared the lead in the last round — and Jack Nicklaus made a comeback bid that once got within two strokes of the top spot — before Thompson clinched it with long, crucial lag putts for pars on the last two holes.

Julius Boros, 53, who made a bid to become the tour's oldest winner in history, finished third with a final 67 and 280 total.

Lanny Wadkins, Trevino, Nicklaus and Andy North were grouped at 281. Wadkins and Nicklaus each had seven-under-par 65s in the last round, North shot a 68 and Trevino, the defending champion, took a 69.

Johnny Miller, winner of three titles and more than $100,000 this season, managed a 68 but was well back at 288. He said he was taking three weeks away from the tour to seek relief from a respiratory problem that has bothered him since last fall.

Bob Pettit Is Voted 'Greatest'

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Bob Pettit, an All-American at Louisiana State in the early 1950s, has been voted the greatest basketball player in the 41-year history of the Southeastern Conference by a panel of veteran conference observers.

The panel chose the all-time All-SEC basketball team in a poll conducted by the Orlando Sentinel Star.

Named to the first unit with Pettit was college basketball's all-time scoring king, Pete Maravich, who also played at LSU and was the only member of the first team to play following the 1950s.

SC Tourney Seen Wide-Open Fight

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Furman's Paladins open defense of their Southern Conference basketball championship Wednesday night in the league's 54th annual tournament, rated one of the most wide open in years.

"There's just not anyone you can go in against and say, 'Well, this is going to be easy,' " said one tournament observer of many years. "The balance in the league is made for a good tournament."

But the same observer cautions that "if Furman really wants to play, there's no one who can stay with them. They have so much physical strength."

Appalachian State's Mountaineers, who finished eighth at 1-11 in the league and 5-19 overall, get the first crack at the Paladins, seeded first with an 11-1 league mark and 18-7 overall, in the 7 p. m. game Wednesday.

Two hours later, Richmond's second-ranked Spiders, 10-4 and 14-11, take on Virginia Military's Keydets, who finished seventh at 3-9 and 6-17.

The first round will be completed Thursday with Davidson's third-seeded Wildcats, 7-3 and 17-8, meeting No. 6 The Citadel, 4-9 and 10-12, at 7 p. m. and East Carolina's fourth-ranked Pirates, 8-6 and 13-11, tackling William and Mary's No. 5 Indians, 5-6 and 8-17.

Semifinal games Friday at 7 and 9 p. m. will match the Furman-Appalachian winner against the East Carolina-William and Mary victor and the Richmond-VMI winner against the Davidson-Citadel victor, but the order of the games has not been determined.

The two survivors meet for the championship at 8 p. m. Saturday.

Just one regular season game remains on the schedule with The Citadel's Bulldogs at home tonight against Madison's Dukes, 19-4, a Virginia College Division team that's won eight straight.

Richmond took second place away from Davidson with an 88-81 victory Saturday over William and Mary in a regionally televised game, and East Carolina whipped The Citadel 78-66 Saturday night.

In nonleague season-enders, Furman knocked over Jacksonville 71-61, Davidson whipped Cincinnati 67-62 and Appalachian took a 106-60 drubbing from Wake Forest of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

While it was "Aron Stewart Day" at Richmond with the Spider ace receiving a trophy and having his jersey No. 30 retired permanently, it was Bob McCurdy and Eric Gray who came through with the points needed to hold off a William and Mary comeback.

Stewart, the 1972-73 conference player of the year, had 28 points and 15 rebounds, but 20 points and 10 retrieves came in the first 20 minutes as the Spiders ran up a 47-38 lead.

The Indians, behind the outside shooting of Mark Ritter and Rod Musselman, twice tied the score after intermission before McCurdy put the Spiders ahead for good at 64-62 with 7:34 left. Then Gray scored 12 of his 24 points down the stretch to keep Richmond in front.

McCurdy finished with 25 points, while freshman Ron Satterthwaite scored 27, Ritter 18 and Musselman and freshman Dennis Vail 12 each for the Indians.

Clutch foul shooting down the stretch by sophomore Tom Marsh helped East Carolina hold off The Citadel after the Bulldogs cut an 18-point deficit to six in the closing minutes.

Marsh led the Pirates with 19 points, hitting 11 of 15 from the foul line, and was the only East Carolina player in double figures. Freshman Rodney McKeever led the Bulldogs with 18.

Furman broke to a 9-2 lead over Jacksonville, where Paladins Coach Joe Williams first earned national recognition, and never let up as Clyde Mayes scored 20 points and Ed Kelley 15. Mayes also grabbed 11 rebounds, as did Bud Bierly. The defeat dropped Jackson-

HOOSIERS WON 10TH STRAIGHT—Sophomore Fred Tyler, shown here in practice, led Indiana to its 10th straight dual swimming meet victory Saturday as the Hoosiers trounced Cincinnati 102-11. Tyler set a pool record of 1:53.09 in winning the 200

Bobby Allison Scrapes Through

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Bobby Allison has ended four long years of frustration at the Fairgrounds Raceway with a five-second victory in the sixth annual National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing's Richmond 500 Grand National.

"It's awful hard to win here, and I'm mighty glad I've finally made it back to victory circle," the Hueytown, Ala., Chevrolet driver said Sunday. "It's been an awful long time."

Although he had started from the pole position in the last five races at the .542-mile track, Allison hadn't won. Neither had anybody else—for the last seven races there—except Dodge driver Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C.

It was Petty who finished second Sunday, but he chased Allison in vain for the last 91 laps of the 450-lapper after finally yielding the lead to the Alabama driver.

"We had the stronger car, and the race went flawlessly," Allison said of his victory, worth $6,330. "I was real confident we could do it this time, and everything went great."

Allison said "I think everything went even better than in 1969," his only previous victory here when he was driving a Dodge. "That was a good one, too, but that time Petty went out and I didn't have to worry about him at all."

He added that "this time, everything went about as smooth as possible." There were only four caution flags for 23 laps, and just two of those were for spins—one for Walter Ballard and another for Cecil Gordon. Neither even dented sheet metal.

Another came, however, some 200 laps after Ballard's spin, when the 41-year-old Charlotte, N. C., driver had to be rushed to a hospital for what was believed to be a heart attack.

A Medical College of Virginia attendant said later there was some doubt whether or not it was a heart attack. He said Ballard was in satisfactory condition and it was not expected he would be admitted.

After the early pace had been set by Chevrolet driver Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S. C., who started on the outside pole, the race became a two-man scrap between Allison and Petty.

Petty gained his final lead with 104 laps remaining after trailing Allison for 100 laps. But Allison, after a pit stop, caught and passed Petty 12 laps later and remained in front.

The only other leader was 1973 Grand National point champion Benny Parsons of Elberle, N. C., and he was in front just two laps. There were 10 lead exchanges with Allison in front for 181 laps, Petty for 163 and Yarborough for 104.

Allison averaged 180.391 miles per hour. Yarborough was third, six laps behind; Lennie Pond of Ettrick, Va., fourth, eight laps behind in a Chevrolet; and Dave Marcis of Skyland, N. C., fifth, 14 laps back in a Ford.

Clinches First In Tasman Cup

ADELAIDE, Australia (AP)—British driver Peter Gethin clinched first place in the eight-race Tasman Cup motor racing series Sunday when he finished second to Warwick Brown of Australia in the final race at Virginia near Adelaide.

Max Stewart of Australia, the only driver with a chance of beating Gethin for the title before Sunday's race, was forced out with mechanical trouble while leading. Gethin finished with 41 points and Stewart was runner-up with 26.

A Veteran 'Rookie' Is Ready To Prove Himself To Yankees

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Yankees have a new "rookie" in camp — Fritz Peterson. "I'm anxious to get going," said the veteran Yankee left-hander, who has to prove himself again this season.

After suffering through a sub-par year in 1973, a trim, apparently, well-conditioned Peterson took a cut in salary Sunday with little resistance.

"I got a little bigger cut than I expected," said Peterson, whose salary was shaved from $72,000 to about $63,000. "But they convinced me that I can get it back next year."

More than anxious to show he still can pitch after an 8-15 season, the one-time 20-game winner checked into camp in good physical shape — 199 pounds.

"Nobody talks about your weight until you have a bad year," said Peterson, who finished 1973 at 214 pounds. "I think my problem last year was inconsistency. I didn't feel like I had trouble concentrating, but maybe I did."

Also, Peterson's poor year may have been due in part to that headline-making, wife-swapping incident with Mike Kekich, his former pitching teammate on the Yankees.

Peterson wants to forget the nightmarish year.

"I'm looking forward to working with Whitey Ford," he said, talking about the Yankees' new pitching coach. "He was a thinking pitcher and he pitched a lot like I try to, although he had better stuff."

Another pitcher of note also came to spring training camp Sunday — Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals. The two-time, 38-year-old Cy Young Award winner announced that he has no intention of retiring, by the way.

"It's a year-to-year thing for me now," said Gibson, who missed six weeks of the 1973 season because of knee surgery. "But I'd like to pitch five more years if I'm physically able."

Meanwhile, second baseman Doug Griffin signed his 1974 contract with the Boston Red Sox and immediately got into uniform to work out. He was the last member of the 40-player roster to sign.

First baseman Tommy Hutton arrived in the Philadelphia Phillies' camp, leaving three players still unsigned — first baseman Willie Montanez and rookie outfielders Nellie Garcia and Jerry Martin.

Bill Stoneman of the Montreal Expos, battling back from an off-season, started his spring training with a sharp performance. "He threw nine minutes of strikes — it was thrilling to see," said Montreal Manager Gene Mauch.

And the San Francisco Giants' pitchers began their conditioning with an intrasquad game. A team captained by Jim Barr posted an 11-8 victory over a team led by Ron Bryant.

ACC Is Moving Into Final Week

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Atlantic Coast Conference basketball teams head down the home stretch this week, finishing out the regular season and gearing up for the conference tournament beginning March 7 at Greensboro, N.C.

Highlighting this week's action is Tuesday's regionally televised 9 p.m. clash between nationally top-ranked N.C. State and No. 6 North Carolina on the Wolfpack's home court in Raleigh.

North Carolina Coach Dean Smith says of the contest, "It will be extremely tough to beat the number one team on its home court. I really think we have everything to gain and nothing to lose, although it's a game we don't want to lose."

The Wolfpack, led by David Thompson and 7-4 Tommy Burleson, has won 20 straight since an early loss to UCLA and is 22-1 on the season. The Tar Heels have lost three times while winning 20, with two of the defeats coming at the hands of State. One defeat was by a single point, the other by three.

The Wolfpack tied a record Saturday against Clemson with its 28th straight conference win, 80-75, and will be trying to break the mark held jointly with Duke.

North Carolina had an easy win Saturday over Virginia, 94-61; Maryland, ranked No. 5, nudged Duke 64-61; and Wake Forest trounced Appalachian

State of the Southern Conference 106-90.

After Tuesday's matchup between the two state rivals, the action shapes up like this:

Wednesday—Wake Forest at Maryland, Duke at Clemson, Virginia Tech at Virginia.

Saturday—Duke at North Carolina, 1 p.m. TV; Virginia at Maryland, 3 p.m., TV; N.C. State at Wake Forest; Clemson at Georgia Tech.

N.C. State is atop the conference standings with a 10-0 mark. North Carolina is second, 8-2, and Maryland third, 7-3. They are followed by Virginia, 4-7, Wake Forest, 3-7, Duke, 2-8, and Clemson, 2-9.

And that includes fall panicum. A growing grass problem that straight atrazine users haven't been controlling.

Fact is, Lasso plus atrazine is an excellent all-round herbicide treatment for corn growers in the North Carolina and Virginia area. Why? Because Lasso plus atrazine goes to work on grasses as well as broadleaf weeds. Not just fall panicum, but other tough customers like smooth crabgrass, foxtails, pigweed, and smartweed.

The Worry Clinic Protein Needed During A Diet

Lola was losing her husband's affection! For her "waddling walrus" figure made her look like a good old motherly soul and not a siren. By using cottage cheese in the dining room, she soon served him more enticing cheesecake in the boudoir!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE Z-561: Lola G., aged 33, is in the same boat with 10,000,000 other housewives.

"Dr. Crane," she moaned, "I want to buy some new clothes but I now look like that 'waddling walrus' you often mention in your column."

"Certainly before Easter arrives, I simply MUST STRENGTHEN MY FIGURE!"

For my husband keeps making uncomplimentary remarks about me, saying I look like a balloon.

"And his romantic interest is waning, too."

"So how can I take off 25 pounds of my ugly fat without using drugs?"

Diet Medically

Last summer our daughter coaxed Mrs. Crane into going on a fruit juice and fruit diet.

But that is dangerous, for your muscles (including especially your heart) need fresh protein every day!

Remember, every time your heart beats, muscle cells wear out and require replacement via fresh protein!

Otherwise, your heart grows smaller, weaker and less able to maintain normal circulation.

Then you may have trouble breathing as well as suffer pains over the heart region, and ultimately develop swollen ankles.

So be sure you include about 400 calories worth of high protein foods daily, regardless of whose diet you follow.

Besides, protein loses 15 per cent of its calories in the process of being digested. No other food does that!

Moreover, your body can transform protein into sugar and fat but it can't make protein out of sugars and fats!

Protein is thus the universal food!

So select such menu items as lean meat, cottage cheese, the white of an egg, bread, beans, peas, etc.

And don't make a major stage production out of your dieting nor concoct intricate dieting menus.

Instead, pick food items that are rather filling, such as a boiled egg (75 calories), a small hot dog (100), banana (100), cup of cottage cheese (200).

And don't think you must avoid sugar entirely, for a very effective lunch can consist of a cup of cottage cheese with a teaspoon of jam, jelly or honey thereon, making a total of about 225 calories.

Reduce your liquids, too, as per my dehydration diet, for that shrinks your stomach and shifts your attention from food to a desire for icewater.

Head lettuce, cabbage green beans, celery and similar salad items add bulk at very little cost in calories.

Remember, too, that whenever you lose one pound of fat, your body manufactures 2 glasses of water internally!

For body fat is broken down during dieting into water and carbon dioxide. The latter we exhale via the lungs.

Ladle your food quota on your plate in the kitchen (or carry your lunch) and then eat without any other menu items on the table to tempt you.

Limit yourself to one full glass (8 ounces) of total fluids the first day; then 2 glasses the 2nd and 3 from the 3rd through the 10th.

Women should stick to 800 calories and men to 1,200 per day, which will let you lose at least 10 pounds the first 10 days.

After the 3rd day on this dieting plan, you feel fairly content.

So send for the booklet "How to Lose 10 Pounds in 10 Days," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Rosenberg Case Again Explored

By DONALD SANDERS
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Questions which still nag many persons nearly 21 years after the execution of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg are probed in a 90-minute television program about the atomic spies being aired Monday night.

The Rosenbergs, the first and only Americans to be put to death under civil law for espionage, died in the electric chair at New York's Sing Sing Prison on June 19, 1953, in what one prosecutor calls a terrible U.S. propaganda bath at home and abroad.

There were mass demonstrations protesting their innocence and seeking clemency, which President Dwight D. Eisenhower twice refused. The Supreme Court, called back from its summer recess, overturned a stay granted by Justice William O. Douglas.

The producers of "The Unquiet Death of Julius and Ethel Rosenberg," for broadcast over public television, say it was not their intent to examine questions of guilt or innocence. They wanted primarily to explore the political and social climate in which the couple was tried and executed. It was the period of the cold war and of Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., and his pursuit of Communists.

Research for the program uncovered one bit of news — the death in Philadelphia on Aug. 28, 1972, of Harry Gold, a principal accuser of the Rosenbergs who served 15 years in prison after pleading guilty to atomic espionage.

Gold, who was 60, died during heart surgery, and his brother Joseph preferred to keep the death a private matter since, as he said, he was sick of the publicity.

The television program mentions this only incidentally. "As for Harry Gold," it says, "we found him in a Philadelphia cemetery, seven years after he was released from prison. He left behind... a characterization by his last employer. Harry Gold was a gentle man who had difficulty separating fantasy from reality."

Making their first public appearance on the program are the Rosenbergs' sons, who have gone under the name of their adoptive parents, Meeropol. Michael was 10 and Robert 6 when their parents were executed.

Morton Sobell, who served 18½ years of a 30-year sentence as a co-conspirator, tells his story for the first time; he did not testify at the trial.

Alvin H. Goldstein, producer

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Monday, February 25, 1974—9 matter." In 1950 Fuchs gave British authorities a written confession which remains secret.

David and Ruth Greenglass, named as co-conspirators but not indicted, have taken new names. "We found them living in this house... They chose not to talk with us about their role," the program says.

It says FBI files on the Greenglasses might settle some doubts about the case, and adds: "We sought to have those files made public. We were told they would be made available. That was three months ago. Now we are told to protect the Greenglasses, the files are to remain closed."

Cohn says: "The evidence has stood the test of time so tremendously that it ends up now, 20 some years later, as just as strong a case as it was at that time... I don't think any of us felt one second's hesitation about what the facts required the results should be..."

Besides the Rosenbergs and Sobell, there were three major figures named in the conspiracy: Klaus Fuchs, a British scientist who served a prison term there for passing U.S. secrets; Harry Gold and David Greenglass, both of whom pleaded guilty and testified as witnesses for the prosecution. Greenglass was Ethel Rosenberg's brother.

Questions have been raised as to whether Fuchs ever properly identified Gold as his American contact. The show's producers found him in Dresden, East Germany, but said "he chose not to discuss the

BRIDGE QUIZ ANSWERS

Q. 1—Neither vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AK982 ♦872 ♣AJ3

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 2 ♥ Pass

3 ♣ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—You should be alive to the possibilities of slam. Partner has shown better than a minimum opening bid by raising your suit to the three-level, and the hands appear to fit well. The fate of the hand probably hinges on partner's diamond holding. To check on controls, you should start a cue-bidding sequence with a bid of four clubs.

Q. 2—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠AJ654 ♥J6 ♦AQ7 ♣105

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♠ Pass 1 ♠ Pass

2 ♥ Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—Pass. Since partner is a passed hand, game is highly unlikely. Partner must have at least five hearts, so your jack and one is fair support. Partner's spade holding is unknown, so a rebid of two spades by you could land your side in an inferior contract.

Q. 3—Both vulnerable, as South you hold:

♠KJ1063 ♥A5 ♦952 ♠872

The bidding has proceeded:

North East South West

1 ♥ 2 ♣ ?

What do you bid?

A.—Pass. You dare not bid two spades, for that would be forcing and get your side into a three-level when you might not have the values. Be very careful with a free bid in suits higher ranking than partner's. You might still get a chance to show your spade suit, for partner will reopen the bidding with a good hand.

Q. 4—As South, vulnerable, you hold:

♠AK872 ♥AKQJ3 ♦7 ♣65

The bidding has proceeded:

South West North East

1 ♠ 2 ♣ Dble. Pass ?

What do you bid now?

A.—The partner's double was for penalties and you can certainly defeat the contract, your recompense might be inadequate. You surely have a game, and perhaps even slam, so you should remove the double. We recommend a jump to three hearts,

Their Cookie Jar Robbed

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Sidney and Bonnie Murray have been burglarized seven times since they moved into their rented home in southwest Charlotte in late January.

Each time, the burglars have cleaned out the cookie jar.

"They really like my wife's cookies," says Murray, a 22-year-old maintenance man at a shopping center. "Every time they break in they get all the cookies she's baked."

He says he's tried various ways to keep the burglars out, including shoving the washing machine up against the side door. But "They always figure a way to get in."

In addition to the cookies, the thieves have also stolen a pistol Murray bought in hopes of warding them off, a pair of television sets, two tape players, a typewriter, about $150 in cash, Mrs. Murray's engagement ring, a watch, clothing, beer and other food.

He's asked police to patrol his block more often, and he's installed new door locks, but Murray isn't counting on his luck to get any better.

He lives in an isolated area at the end of a dead-end street and knows he's an easy mark for burglars.

He says it takes police 30 minutes to get to his house and, "By that time, anyone could be long gone."

Space Program Down To Earth

By COL. WILLIAM C. Moore
Written for UPI
WASHINGTON (UPI) — While recognizing the scientific value of the U.S. space program, and taking pride in its accomplishments, many Americans have been critical of the billions in expense and the lack of what they deem practical dividends.

Lately, as a result of Skylab experiments and remote sensing and electronic mapping of the Earth by the Earth Resources Technology Satellite (ERTS), the "news vistas" long promised by space scientists are beginning to come into view.

The Skylab astronauts found that while a spider quickly learns to spin a web in weightless environment, other commonplace Earth activities take dramatically different form when performed in space.

Chemical elements — liquids, metals and gases — have different densities and therefore have different weights when subject to Earth's gravity. In space they are neither light nor heavy and consequently behave differently. Light elements, for example, do not always float to the top.

New Discoveries

For scientists, these differences portend exciting new discoveries promising dramatic benefits for man. For example: —Liquids, including molten metal, assume the shape of a perfect sphere in a weightless environment. The eventual practical application of this phenomenon to industrial processes is described as far reaching.

—Chemicals when mixed free of the pull of gravity combine differently than they do on Earth. Analysts predict this will lead to exotic new products of great commercial and human value, such as ultra-pure vaccines.

—Fermentation in space produces products quite different from those produced on Earth. The effect on enzymes, complex organic substances produced by living cells, could lead to critical discoveries in this important field on study.

—Metal processing that is difficult if not impossible on Earth is relatively easy in space, opening the door to new knowledge about material properties and processes. This ultimately may lead to valuable new commercial products.

—Space permits the production of crystals that are relatively free of distortion. By comparing them with theoretically ideal crystals, scientists should be able to come up with vastly improved types for communications.

Scientists Optimistic

Most of these projects still are in the category of scientific curiosity, experimentation or even sheer speculation. Nevertheless, scientists are optimistic that such phenomena encountered in space can be exploited and applied to medicine, manufacturing, processing and communications.

The real practical developments will begin to emerge, they believe, as soon as the space shuttle now under development permits routine access to space.

Meantime, man already is relying on the Earth Resources Satellite to help manage Earth's natural resources. Far from being part of the "new vistas," ERTS is providing practical information 24 hours a day that is important to farmers, economists, conservationists and government leaders.

ERTS is on fire alert in California, monitoring conditions that heretofore have caused disastrous brush fires nearly every year in the hills surrounding Los Angeles and other West Coast Cities. It also has discovered a new strain of vegetation in that state.

It is pin-pointing sea ice to help shipping, defining water circulation patterns and identifying ocean areas where fish abound.

Aid to Farmers

ERTS has identified new areas susceptible to earthquakes, detected damage to vegetation by insects, insecticide and plant disease and assisted in discovering new ore deposits. It is helping ease the energy shortage by locating new sources of geothermal power, oil deposits and potential dam sites for hydroelectric power.

The system is aiding farmers by providing information on water resources and water tables.

For the first time, data is becoming available to estimate crop yields on a worldwide basis, thereby permitting coordinated planning against shortages. ERTS is monitoring growth, determining what makes them flourish or fail and where and why they fall victim to disease.

John Robert Porter, Jr., former chief of the Earth Resources project, is a firm believer in its commercial promise. When the space program began to wind down, he left the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) to form his own company, Earth Satellite Corp. (EARTHST).

Porter believes that remote sensing and the collection from space of information about Earth's resources and environment will have a profound effect on the quality of life as well as commercial activities.

Among other things, he hopes the data will help reconcile the growing demand for food and energy with the problem of maintaining ecological relationships fundamental to life itself.

World Inventory

For the first time, Porter said, the world can find out how much land is under cultivation and how much could be, what minerals exist and where, potential sources of further energy, how much timberland really exists and where urban sprawl is destroying agriculture and the environment.

"Now we can find out what's in the inventory," he said.

Porter predicted that key monitoring points will be set up eventually to canvass natural and man-made conditions every 18 days—the time it takes for ERTS to photograph and electronically sense the entire world.

He likened such a system to political polling whereby experts are able to forecast political trends and even specific winners long before the votes have been counted by sampling key precincts or population cross sections.

If the water table should drop drastically in certain key areas, for example, it might be a warning to other areas to prepare for drought.

Porter said the location of such "precincts" should be determined on the basis of the information now being obtained by ERTS and ground based sensors.

Fewer Die In Traffic

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
At least ten persons died in North Carolina traffic accidents during the weekend, bringing the total for 1974 to 193, compared with 243 killed during the corresponding period last year.

The highway patrol said three persons were killed Saturday in a train-car wreck at a rural crossing in Rowan County.

The victims, all passengers in the car, were identified as Thomas C. Stoner, 61, of Salisbury; Erica Holt, 2, and Major Mobley Jr., 45, both of Kannapolis.

Other weekend victims were: —Glenn David White, 29, of Leland, John Henry Godbold, 52, and E.J. Godbold, 50, both of Wilmington, killed in a two-car headon collision in Brunswick County.

—Johnny Melvin, 62, of Raeford, struck by a car near his home.

—Roy Lee Hughes, 27, of Oxford, killed in a one-car wreck in Granville County.

—Larry McDonald, 21, of Elerbe, killed in a one-car accident in Montgomery county.

—Ralph Howard Gray, 21, of Charlotte, killed in a two-car headon collision on I-40 near Raleigh.

Snow In The Mountains

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
A travelers advisory is in effect in the North Carolina mountains today, as occasional snow flurries are expected to make roads slick in some areas.

The National Weather Service says accumulations of between one and three inches is expected. Highs in the mountains will be in the upper 20s and low 30s, ranging to the upper 40s to mid 50s in the southeast portions of the state.

Partly cloudy skies are also forecast to go with the colder temperatures throughout North Carolina, a situation brought on by a cold front that moved into the state late Sunday.

A small craft advisory is in effect along the sounds and coastal waters, resulting from brisk winds that will reach 25 miles per hour in some locations.

Clearing skies and diminishing winds will allow temperatures to drop to bone chilling levels tonight, with Tuesday morning readings expected to be in the teens across the mountains and Piedmont, and in the 20s along the coast.

Sunny skies but cold temperatures will persist across the state Tuesday, with afternoon highs in the mid to upper 30s in most sections, except for low to mid 40s in the southeast portions.

Watergate Grand Juries' Findings Due This Week

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Three federal grand juries are on the verge this week of returning long-awaited indictments in the Watergate cases, meeting a timetable mentioned previously by special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski.

Already identified as targets of the grand jury investigations are several former high ranking Nixon administration officials.

Jaworski had said in December indictments should be returned by the end of February. He has several times since repeated that deadline.

Former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, already on trial in New York on charges stemming from a secret $200,000 contribution to the President's re-election campaign, is believed to be a central figure in the Watergate cover-up investigation.

Mitchell told the Senate Watergate committee last July that he was aware that a Nixon campaign official planned to lie to a grand jury.

John J. Wilson, attorney for former White House aides H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, said he would not be surprised if his clients were indicted.

Another possible target was Charles W. Colson, former White House special counsel and political troubleshooter, who was excused from testifying before the Watergate committee last fall on the grounds he believed he would be indicted.

In another Watergate-related development, Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., ranking Republican on the House Judiciary Committee, said he believed the White House would cooperate with the committee's impeachment inquiry.

Also, John K. Andrews Jr., a former White House speechwriter who resigned in December after four years as a Nixon aide, said he had reluctantly come to the conclusion that Nixon should be impeached for abuse of power and failure to have the Watergate scandal fully aired.

Jaworski has predicted that the three grand juries receiving evidence from his office should be ready to vote on indictments in most Watergate matters by the end of February.

Regarded as virtually certain to come this week were the findings of the panel investigating the Watergate break-in and cover-up.

Other investigations nearing completion include campaign contribution cases, the ITT antitrust settlement, campaign dirty tricks, the White House plumbers and the probe of the unrecorded and obliterated subpoenaed tapes.

Jaworski's timetable may be thrown off by renewed problems in gaining access to White House files and by a request to delay any matters that might involve Mitchell until the jury has been chosen and sequestered for his New York trial.

In that trial, which opened Feb. 19, Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice Stans are charged with obstruction of justice, conspiracy and perjury in connection with a $200,000 cash contribution to President Nixon's re-election campaign.

Jury selection should be completed this week.

So far, 29 individuals and 9 corporations have been charged in state and federal Watergate cases; 18 individuals, including five defendants in the original Watergate break-in trial pleaded guilty.

Hutchinson made his comments on the CBS program "Face the Nation" Sunday. But he also said the president had a right to protect himself "in his official capacity ... from improper demands on the part of the other two branches of government."

Andrews was interviewed on tape for the television program "Washington Straight Talk," to be televised tonight on Public Broadcasting Service stations.

that the laws are faithfully executed.

In New York Sunday, Time magazine said a White House document allegedly altered before it reached Jaworski, had been studied in its entirety by the Senate Watergate committee. Time said the memorandum was to Ehrlichman from Krogh and David Young of the plumbers unit.

Chimney-Sweep Business Up

NEW HAVEN (AP) — Business is booming for chimney sweeps.

One Connecticut company said it has cleared flues that may not have been touched since the Civil War.

Business is up, cleaning companies said, because more people are counting on fireplaces to help them through the cold winter months when supplies of home-heating oil are cut back.

They also said that a soot-choked furnace and flue are less efficient and burn more oil to produce the same amount of heat than does a clean system.

He said he doesn't think Nixon is a criminal, but is chargeable for "offenses of the abuse of power or permitting power to be delegated to be abused; offenses of ... negligence or dereliction in seeing

Treasured Art Work Is Stolen

By PETER MUCCINI
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Scotland Yard is expecting a demand for ransom for one of the most valuable paintings in the world, Jan Vermeer's "Guitar Player," which was stolen from a London museum during the weekend.

"We are looking for either a master thief or a madman," said a spokesman for the Yard. "It could be the work of some one who does not know what he has done or has no idea of the value of what he has got. But so far we think it is a master thief who has planned the operation over a number of years."

Police officials said they expected a ransom demand. One leading London art dealer, Hugh Leggatt, said the picture by the 17th century Dutch master is "so famous that it could not possibly be sold."

Estimates of the painting's value ran as high as $4.5 million, but Leggatt commented that it "is really priceless ... of immense international artistic importance." Vermeer is considered one of the greatest of the Dutch masters, less than 30 of his works are left and none has come on the market in years.

"The Guitar Player" was taken just before midnight Saturday in a 60-second raid on Kenwood House, an 18th century mansion in suburban Hampstead that is owned by the Greater London Council and contains a valuable collection of paintings. The house and the collection were given to the nation in 1929 by the family of Lord Iveagh, the Guinness brewery magnate.

The police said the thief or thieves smashed through a window and a shutter with a sledgehammer, seized the 18-by-20-inch painting from its frame and escaped as the alarm system went into operation. A night watchman heard the crash of the window, but by the time he reached the scene, the thieves had gone, a spokesman said.

The Greater London Council, the city's municipal government, said the museum was equipped "with the most sophisticated burglar alarm system." A spokesman said officials would have to "re-examine" the security setup.
