Adjournment Due Around April 1, Opines Jim Hunt

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt says the 1974 General Assembly is "about on target" and he expects it to adjourn around April 1.

"We may go a little beyond that, but we can be out of here April 1," Hunt told the Associated Press in an interview Thursday.

Hunt commented in the face of figures which show about 900 bills have been introduced since Jan. 16 and only 83 had been ratified into law through Wednesday.

"I would say looking across the board at all major pieces of legislation they are either ready to come out of committee or we know when they will come out," Hunt stated.

"Getting the initial determination on the East Carolina University Medical School was our biggest accomplishment and that should let us turn our attention to these other things," he added.

Hunt noted that the Senate deadline for bills dealing with state agencies was last Friday and the deadline for local bills will come today.

"After Friday, I will refer all bills to the Calendar Committee," the lieutenant governor stated. Calendar committees usually are appointed to take over the duties of other committees during the closing days of a legislative session.

Asked about how this year's experiment with annual legislative sessions has worked out, Hunt said he felt that "if annual sessions are going to continue the second session in a biennium should be limited to consideration of the budget and other certain other matters specified in resolutions by the two houses."

Hunt was asked if he felt the General Assembly would leave a host of matters unattended to if it adjourns early in April.

"I think all major matters will be dealt with and passed or defeated on their merits before we leave," he answered. "Of course there will be a lot of bills left in committee, but that will be by design."

Hunt was asked if he would favor the legislature recessing early in April and coming back later this summer to deal with unfinished matters.

"I would be strongly opposed to that," he said.

House Speaker Jim Ramsey said the joint appropriations committee is expected to complete work on the state budget about March 15. It will then take about a week to put the final appropriations bill in shape before it is sent to the floor of the House or Senate.

"As far as I know the budget work is on schedule," Ramsey told a news conference.

Legislation that is not acted on by committees or enacted at this session will automatically die since the 1975 General Assembly will start anew.

"We expect about 750 bills will not be acted upon," Ramsey said.

Grand Jury Not Dismissed Haldeman, Mitchell And Ehrlichman Are Indicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former presidential aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman were indicted today by a federal grand jury on charges they tried to block the Watergate investigation.

Also indicted were former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, former White House special counsel Charles W. Colson, former Asst. Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mardian, former presidential aide Gordon C. Strachan, and Kenneth W. Parkinson, an attorney for President Nixon's reelection finance committee.

In addition, the grand jury handed a sealed report to U.S. Dist. Judge John J. Sirica, along with two black suitcases containing evidence.

Sirica instructed the panel that it was not dismissed and might be called on to return in two weeks.

The charges were:

- Ehrlichman—one count of conspiracy to obstruct justice, one count of lying to FBI agents and two counts of lying to the grand jury or the court;
- Haldeman, one count of conspiracy to obstruct justice and three counts of perjury;
- Mitchell, one count of conspiracy to obstruct justice, two counts of lying to a grand jury or court, one count of perjury and one count of lying to FBI agents;
- Colson, Mardian and Parkinson, one count each of conspiracy to obstruct justice and one count of lying to a grand jury or court.

Each charge carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and fines ranging from $2,000 for perjury to $10,000 for lying to a grand jury or court.

Haldeman refused to go to the door of his Los Angeles home this morning to see newsmen, and his wife told them, "Mr. Haldeman is not seeing anybody today."

However, he did answer the telephone and told a newsman, "I haven't even seen the indictment. I have no comment and will have none for the time being. When the time does come that I have something, I will let you know."

Sirica scheduled arraignments for March 9, a Saturday, when Mitchell's trial in New York on separate charges stemming from a contribution to President Nixon's 1972 reelection campaign would not be in session.

The indictment charged that the seven defendants made cash payments to the original Watergate defendants "for the purpose of concealing and causing to be concealed the identities of the persons who were responsible for, participated in, and had knowledge of the activities which were the subject of the investigation and trial."

The grand jury alleged that Haldeman lied to the Senate Watergate committee on July 30, 1973, when he said that President Nixon had said it would be wrong to meet demands from the Watergate defendants for $1 million.

The indictment quoted Haldeman's testimony to the committee when he was asked about a meeting in the President's office on the morning of March 2, 1973.

The indictment quoted Haldeman as telling the committee that the President asked former White House counsel John W. Dean III how much money the defendants were demanding and that Dean replied, probably a million dollars.

Haldeman quoted Nixon as replying, "There is no problem in raising a million dollars. We can do that, but it would be wrong."

The next day Haldeman was asked again if he was positive that the President said it would be wrong to raise the money and he replied, "I am absolutely positive."

The grand jury said Haldeman's statements "were false."

The prosecutors have the White House tape of that meeting.

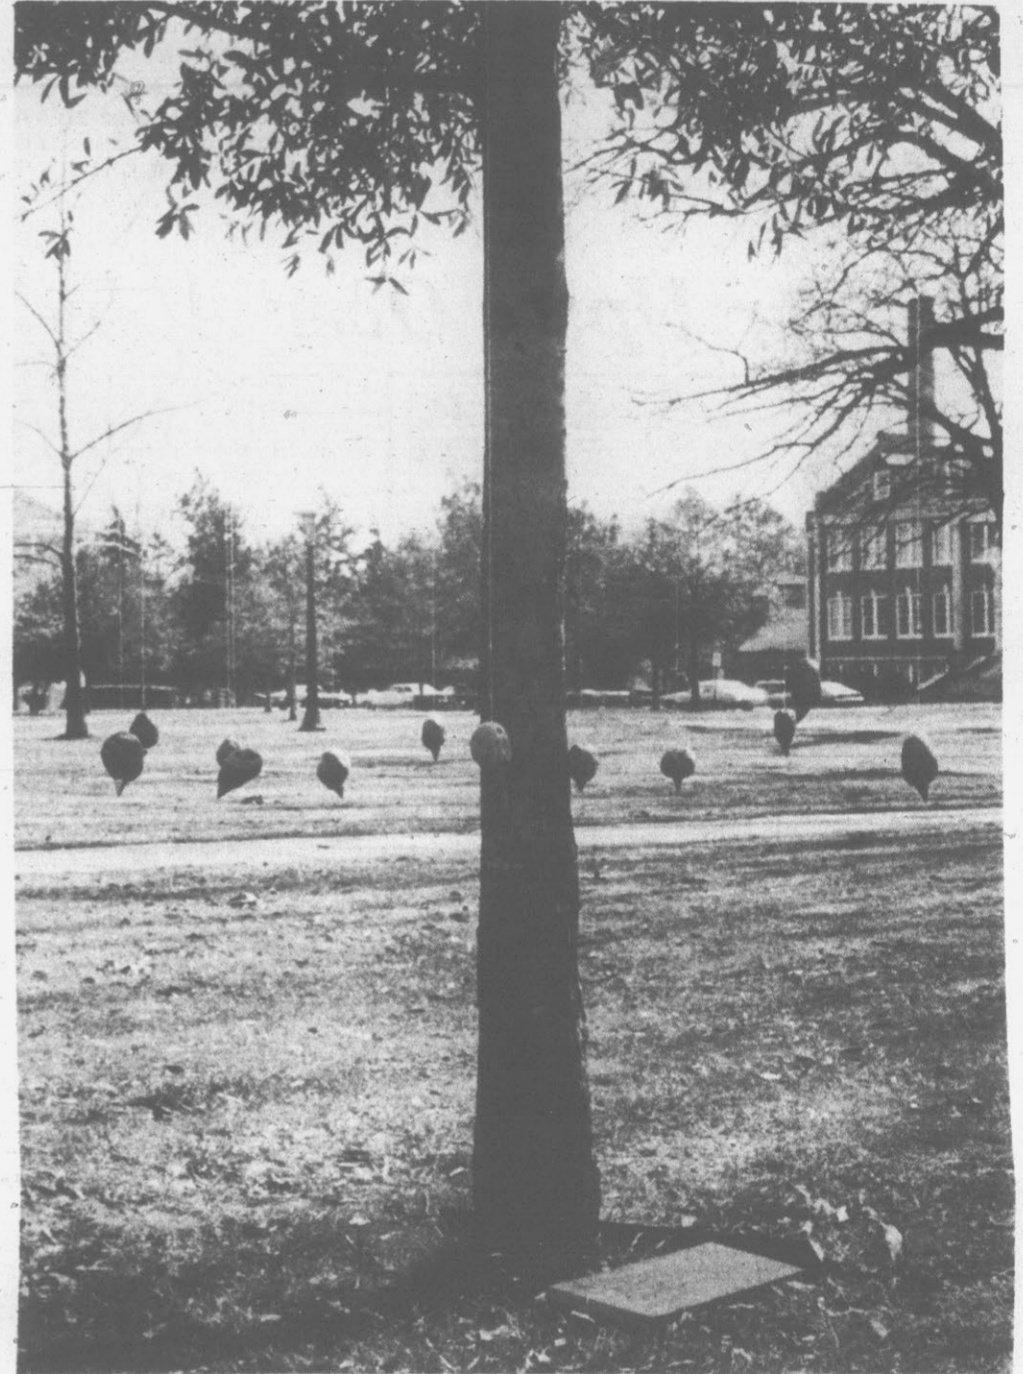

Dean had told the Senate Watergate committee that he believed that the President was aware of the cover-up before March 21, the date

Nixon said he first learned of it.

In addition, Dean testified that on March 21 he told the President everything he knew about Watergate and that after two meetings with Nixon that day he was convinced "that the cover-up as far as the White House was concerned was going to continue."

Potato-Bearing Tree

JUST HANGING AROUND?—Well, your guess is as good as anyone's. What it is, is 12 potatoes suspended by twine from a tree on the ECU campus, with one-ounce lead weights at the bottom of each potato. The plaque at the foot of the tree states that it is a "circular array". Well, it has been exam week at ECU. (Reflector Photo by Carl Tyer)

Labor Party Hangs On To Slim Lead As Vote Is Tallied In Britain

By FRED COLEMAN
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Harold Wilson's Laborites held onto the lead today as counting resumed in Britain's general election, but Prime Minister Edward Heath's Conservatives were closing the gap as results poured in from the rural areas.

Computer projections said the Laborites would fall short of a majority in the new House of Commons.

With 600 of the 635 Commons seats decided, the Labor party had 293, the Conservatives 285, the Liberals 10, and other parties 12. This represented gains of the 21 seats for the Laborites and 7 for the Liberals, and the loss of 38 for the Conservatives.

Wilson ruled out a coalition with the Liberals and it appeared he might become the nation's first minority prime minister since Ramsay MacDonald in 1929-31.

He could stay in office only as long as the Liberals and an assortment of nationalists, Ulster Protestants and independents did not unite with the Conservatives to vote him out and force a new election.

The computer projections of both the British Broadcasting Corp. and ITV, the commercial television network, predicted Labor would win a total of 307 seats, 11 short of a majority. The BBC predicted 300 seats for the Conservatives and the remaining 28 for the Liberals and others; ITV forecast 293 for the Conservatives, 22 for the Liberals and 13 for others.

A Conservative upsurge was expected today as returns came in from rural and suburban districts in which Heath's party is normally strong. But it appeared unlikely this would close the gap enough to send the Conservative leader back to No. 10 Downing St.

The prospect of a weak minority government amid Britain's worst economic crisis since World War II seemed to reflect the confusion of the nation over how best to tackle its industrial, trading, monetary and social problems.

Wilson has a wide-ranging series of commitments, but he likely can make good on only one of them without a majority. That is to settle the national coal strike which provoked Heath into calling the election three weeks ago. The Conservative government's pay board has already laid the groundwork for that by determining that the miners are entitled to more than they were asking when they struck.

Wilson is also pledged to nationalize a sizable part of British industry, renegotiate the terms of Britain's membership in the European Common Market and then to put the results to a national plebiscite, cut defense spending millions of pounds a year and negotiate the closing of the American Polaris submarine base in Scotland. He probably can do none of these without a majority.

Grand Ole Opry To Host The President

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—"The President's visit won't change our plans for opening night, not significantly. But then the Grand Ole Opry has never had a president before," Jud Collins, WSM vice president said today.

"The White House told us about 9:00 a.m. today that he was planning to come," Collins said.

The dignitaries list for the March 17th opening of the new Grand Ole Opry House will probably grow longer.

All U.S. senators have been invited, all state governors, many congressmen, the Tennessee legislators and the state cabinet.

"We don't know yet if the President will speak, but he will be asked to. He has an interest in country music; I think that's why he accepted the invitation," Collins said.

Collins said President Nixon will attend the first of the two opening night shows.

'Will Impeach' If Recommended

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (A)—The majority leader of the U.S. House, Tip O'Neill Jr. of Massachusetts, says that if the House Judiciary Committee recommends impeachment, "the President will be impeached overwhelmingly" by the House.

"I don't know if he will resign or not," O'Neill said in Fayetteville Thursday night. "But I think it will be in the best interests of the nation if he resigns. The man has lost his credibility. Vice President Ford has the ability to lead the country."

O'Neill spoke at the first of a series of congressional forum meetings set up by Congressman Charles Rose of Fayetteville.

Equal Justice Asked By Former Pitt Resident

A former Pitt County resident—returned to prison in March, 1973 after a 1963 escape—has asked North Carolina parole officials to review his case in light of action taken in a similar case recently.

J. C. Carmon of Route 1, Winterville and Route 5, Greenville, was sentenced to 12 to 18 months in prison after trial in Pitt County Superior Court October 11, 1963, on six counts of forgery and uttering forged checks. The total amount involved in the worthless checks was $210.04.

Carmon escaped from the Greene County prison unit a month later. He was engaged in farming and construction work during the 10 years before he was returned to custody, according to his attorney, John H. Harmon of New Bern.

Harmon said Carmon, when returned to custody, was tried and found guilty of escape and an additional year was added to his prison term.

"When he became eligible for parole last December," Harmon said, "when Carmon has served one-fourth of his total sentence, his parole was turned down (Continued on page 8).

Indictable Crime Said Sole Impeachment Basis

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's lawyers have issued a study saying that "impeachment of a president should be resorted to only for cases of the gravest kind — the commission of a crime named in the Constitution or a criminal offense against the laws of the United States."

crimes against the state."

Titled "An Analysis of the Constitutional Standard for Presidential Impeachment" the study was the work of James D. St. Clair, the President's chief Watergate lawyer, and his staff in consultation with Charles Alan Wright, professor of constitutional law at the University of Texas.

of power that might not be violations of law.

The White House position was at odds with a study compiled by the staff of the House Judiciary committee's impeachment inquiry, which contended that a president could be removed from office for non-criminal acts.

The study issued at the White House Thursday said the reference in the Constitution to "high crimes and misdemeanors" as grounds for impeachment means only "great

"A president may only be impeached for indictable crimes," the study said in rejecting the theory that the framers of the Constitution intended impeachment grounds to include abuses

It also conflicted with a Justice Department analysis that stated that debates at the constitutional convention "provide no clear answer concerning the meaning of 'high crimes and misdemeanors'."

Pension-Reform Bill Is Voted By House: 375-4

By CARL C. CRAFT
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A massive pension reform bill, changing key tax features and providing new protection for millions of Americans in private retirement savings plans, has passed the House 375 to 4.

Roughly 30 million workers are covered by these private pension programs, which have more than $150 billion in assets. The bill passed by the House Thursday would overhaul this system and reform tax treatment of pension programs.

The legislation would not force companies to provide pension plans but it would set rules for existing programs and any started from now on.

It requires that workers gain permanent rights to future pensions after a specific period of enrollment in a plan. It sets contribution standards to guard against inadequate financing, then follows up with an insurance arrangement.

Major tax features include a boost in the tax-deductible amount that self-employed people, such as lawyers and doctors, can set aside in personal pension plans, hiking it to $7,500 compared with the present limit of $2,500. The House rejected efforts to wipe out this increase or scale it down to $6,000.

Furthermore, for the first time, workers who are not covered by company plans would be allowed to set up similar personal retirement programs, although the maximum tax-deductible contributions would be $1,500 annually.

In addition, to combat the abuse of extremely large pension benefits being financed for corporate officials in part at the expense of the general taxpaying public, the bill would set a limit on the amount of tax-deductible contributions for very high pensions of company executives and others.

These would be restricted to amounts necessary to provide a pension of $75,000 a year or 100 per cent of the highest salary over three years, whichever is less.

The tax features involving retirement plans will produce an estimated annual $460 million revenue loss for the treasury.

Major tax features include a boost in the tax-deductible amount that self-employed people,

Hearst Still Awaiting Word On Daughter

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Randolph A. Hearst still is waiting for word from his daughter's kidnapers, although some 45,000 persons now have received food in meeting an initial demand of the terrorist Symbionese Liberation Army.

About 30,000 persons received bags containing frozen chickens, fresh fruit, vegetables and other items at 10 San Francisco Bay area distribution centers Thursday.

"Well, we're hoping," the anxious Hearst told newsmen through a spokesman at his residence in suburban Hillsborough. "God knows we're hoping. I hope the people who need the food are in the front of the lines."

"The food distribution approximates what the SLA wanted and we're going to do all we can to keep our part of the bargain," added Hearst. He is president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner and chairman of the Hearst Corp.

The giveaway was part of a "good faith gesture" by Hearst as a precondition for negotiating the release of 20-year-old Patricia Hearst, abducted from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4. The SLA claims it is holding her.

Another 600 bags of food were delivered to the needy who could not leave their homes, said spokesmen for People in Need, the organization set up to deliver the food.

The distribution contrasted with the group's first attempt to distribute food last Friday, when occasional violence, looting and confusion resulted. Nevertheless, 14,000 persons received food then, said A. Ludlow Kramer, who organized the giveaway.

"The system works," said Kramer after Thursday's effort. Police reported no incidents and most of the centers ran out of food after two hours. People waited patiently in line and in high spirits.

The massive food distribution effort was financed by $2 million arranged by Hearst — $500,000 from his personal assets and the remainder from the Hearst Foundation.

The last word Hearst received from the SLA was eight days ago when the group demanded an additional $4 million for food and threatened to cut off all communications unless that amount was committed within 24 hours.

Hearst said it was beyond his capability. But Charles Gould, Examiner publisher, said the $4 million would be paid if Miss Hearst is released unharmed.

Americans Wising Up To Cutting Down

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Many Americans are wising up on cutting down. They're meeting the challenge of high food prices with new attitudes and practices in food buying and preparation. This is according to a magazine study.

Nine out of 10 told the magazine they're trying to curb impulse buying. Ninety-three per cent agreed that fancy packaging substantially increases the cost of a product. These trends were reported by Better Homes and Gardens magazine in tabulating the first 1,000 responses to a questionnaire printed in a recent issue. Readers were asked to answer 42 questions about food shopping and preparation. One reader said she objects to fancy packaging not just for the initial cost but also for the extra expense involved in its disposal as garbage. She wants customers to take their own permanent carriers to market.

Sixty-seven per cent of the readers agreed there was no nutritional difference between store brands and nationally advertised ones, and 72 per cent said they had been buying more store brands because they were cheaper.

Forty-seven per cent said they spend more time planning meals. One reader said long-range planning is hard — due to shortages and the instability of prices.

The study showed recipe usage and cooking from scratch are on the increase. But one reader said she had given up making homemade bread. Her family liked it too much.

Seven out of 10 said they were planning a vegetable garden for this year. Two out of three families do some home-canning or freezing. One reader said her family does very little canning. Jars, lids and preservatives cost too much. Nearly half said they were eating more casseroles and one-dish meals than before. But 72 per cent turned thumbs down on packaged dinners to which are added meat, fish or poultry.

Skimping on Meat
Ninety per cent disagreed with the premise that frozen dinners are cheaper than meals prepared from scratch. Two qualified their answers with these comments:

"Some are, some aren't. Depends on how many are eating (at) home," wrote one. "Two TV dinners are cheaper than cooking—but not seven," wrote another.

Sixty-six per cent said they were skipping on meat at family meals. Forty-four per cent said they were serving it fewer times per week. Six out of ten said they encouraged the use of nuts, cheese, or peanut butter at both mealtime and snacks. Sixty-eight per cent cited certain vegetables as inexpensive alternates to meat as a source of protein. The only vegetable they mentioned specifically was beans.

One out of four said they had tried and liked synthetic meat products and only one out of three expressed willingness to pay more for beef than other meats.

More shoppers are looking for nutritional information on labels and packages. Sixty-eight per cent said the found advertising information helpful.

The magazine said seven out of ten of the respondents are from households whose head is between 25 and 49 years old and 43 per cent of the households have incomes of $15,000 a year or more. It added that the preliminary response is not projectable to the total U.S. population.

District Officer Visits Chapter

The President of District Five Mamie Taylor was a guest at the meeting of the Alpha Iota Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa held Tuesday night at Tom's Restaurant.

Other guests were Sarah Willis, past president of Alpha Chi, Morehead City, and Sudie Hill, state recording secretary. During the business session conducted by Vivian Mills, president, altruistic reports were compiled for the state convention which will be held in Wilmington April 26-27 at the Blockade Runner.

The president reminded members of the auction sale to be held at the March meeting to benefit the scholarship fund.

Miss Lynn Cargile, community ambassador to Germany last summer, told of her visit and stay in Hoxter, Germany. She showed slides of various sites which she visited.

Shower Given Miss Stallings

Miss Patricia Stallings, bride-elect of Maehew Haddock, was honored at a linen shower Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Kathy Hollingsworth.

Assisting hostess was Miss Denetta Denny. A yellow and white color scheme was throughout in decorations.

The honoree was remembered with a corsage of wedding bells and white carnations.

Reader Upset Over Abby's Advice

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Although you are well paid for giving advice to others, I feel many times your advice is immature and meaningless. A woman writes that she lost her cherished letters and photo albums in a flood, and she asked your advice on how to get over it.

Your reply was asinine! You compared her loss to the death of your own parents. Has it ever occurred to you that she, too, might have lost her mother and father, or others dear to her, but their memories had been kept alive by those precious photographs?

Sometimes I think you are absolutely without heart or feeling.

DISGUSTED IN ARCADIA
DEAR DISGUSTED: I know that I am not "absolutely without heart" because mine ached a little when I read your letter. But another reader expressed quite a different reaction to the same letter. Here it is:

DEAR ABBY: How wise and timely [to me] was your reply to the lady who had lost her precious collection of pictures and letters she had saved over the years.

Several years ago, in moving, I lost many irreplaceable possessions just as that lady did, and I, too, was heartsick for a long while.

In January of 1973, my beloved daughter and adored grandsons [aged 4 and 9] were murdered in a senseless tragedy of mass murders here in Santa Cruz, Cal.

Now I know what heartbreak truly is. There is not a day or night that I do not sense my gentle ones' arms around me. I know that life will never be the same for me without them, but I keep trying to have faith.

I am blessed that my little mother, tho fragile and not well, is still alive.

Please, Dear Abby, continue to remind your readers that nothing material can be compared with our loved ones. Absolutely nothing! You may sign my name if you wish.

LILA R. FERRIS [Mrs. T.H.]

DEAR ABBY: I am a 54-year-old widow. I lost my husband three years ago and live alone in a large, lovely home. My only child is married and she lives out of state.

I have been dating a widower [age 58] for about a year. He wants to marry me, but I am in no big hurry. Meanwhile, my daughter suggested that it is not "safe" for me to live alone, so I should contact the local college for a male student to share my home. He would have a bedroom to sleep and study in. No boarding or wandering around-the-home type of arrangement. No money involved. I'd give him the room in return for his giving me a feeling of security.

I told my gentleman friend about it, and he said, "No, No, No! A college student is a man . . . and I don't want another 'man' living there!" Then he suggested I run an ad for an older woman to live with me.

Abby, I don't think an older woman would offer any protection at all. Furthermore, I am insulted at the suggestion that anything could go on between me and a college youth.

If my friend doesn't have any more confidence in me than that I will never marry him. Or do you think I am wrong?

IOWA CITY READER

DEAR READER: I think your friend is very narrow-minded. You are wise not to rush into marriage with him. I agree. A college man would offer more protection than an older woman.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Natural Look For Building

CAMBRIDGE, England (WNS)—Violet Cook, chairwoman of the town council, declared that the new building of the Southern Gas Board was an eyesore. She ordered that officials plaster it with farm-fresh manure to make it look "more rural." "The dung coating will tone it down and encourage the growth of mosses and lichen," said Miss Cook. After sufficient pressure, the gas board capitulated. "We'll do anything to please, but we thought this was a joke," said a spokesman.

114 EAST FIFTH STREET DOWNTOWN GREENVILLE

That Big Step For Winterville

Winterville has taken a major step forward with the approval of $220,000 in bonds for improvements to the municipality's water system.

Citizens of the town showed their awareness of the need by approving the bond issue 122 votes to three—an almost solid vote for progress.

Funds from the bond issue will be used for construction of a 500,000 water storage tank and a 1,000 gallon per minute deep well.

Mayor Walter Dail was elated with the results. "I think it is great," he said, "the biggest victory we have ever had here."

Winterville will not have to issue all of the voted bonds because of grants which it expects to receive.

Winterville presently has only 75,000 gallons of water storage and a disastrous fire at Eastern Lumber Co. in November demonstrated the need for additional capacity. Eastern Lumber Co., and other industries which might want to locate at Winterville, would want assurance of adequate water supply before going ahead.

Winterville citizens saw their need and they clearly showed they were ready to meet it with their overwhelming vote for the water bonds last Tuesday.

Huge Price Increase For Postal Customers

We suppose postal patrons can do nothing but take another round of postage increases, but still we have to question the rapidly rising costs of mailing things.

First Class mail will go to ten cents Saturday, a 25 percent increase. Airmail goes from 11 cents to 13 and post cards from six to eight cents.

In the meantime cost of mailing books and magazines is rising rapidly and publishers expect their mailing costs to go up 220 percent in six years.

These increases are huge by any standards and the Postal Service should be looking for ways to cut costs rather than merely passing them on to postal customers.

Simon Fighting Two-Front War

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—As federal energy czar William Simon last week stretched his authority towards the limit and perhaps beyond by ordering extra gasoline for 26 states, his chief of allocations was quitting amid muffled complaints of "illegal" and "immoral" official conduct by Simon.

John Schaefer resigned as deputy assistant administrator, effective in two weeks, for "personal reasons." In truth, however, Schaefer balked at Simon's free-wheeling efforts to pump more gasoline into trouble spots while Simon was provoked by Schaefer's rigidity. Behind that personal dispute is a broader bureaucratic struggle confronting Simon as he attempts to manage the gasoline shortage.

Simon is fighting a two-front war. Front No. 1 is the acute disruption of life in metropolitan centers caused by reduced gasoline, building congressional temptations to make Simon the scapegoat. Front No. 2 is at the White House, where the Watergate crisis mentality plays down the problem and resents the frenetic mood and emergency measures pressed by Simon.

Schaefer reflects that White House mentality. Leaving the Pentagon as a Navy lieutenant-commander in 1972, he joined the White House as a deputy to presidential aide Peter Flanagan, then handling energy problems, and later was assigned to former Gov. John Love of Colorado, Simon's predecessor as energy czar. When Simon took over Dec. 4, he inherited Schaefer to run the oil allocations program.

As a young technocrat, Schaefer relied on statistical analysis. As an experienced business executive, Simon stressed personal observation. As Simon's aides noted lines of infuriated motorists at service stations in any city, they naturally concluded a problem existed there.

But Schaefer insisted that analysis canceled out eyewitness observations, making himself a major irritant in the Federal Energy Office. The worst came recently at Sarasota, Fla., in Schaefer's address to service station owners, who were near apoplexy because of gasoline shortages. When Schaefer informed them that "my data" showed plenty of gasoline in Florida, the station owners nearly turned into a lynch mob.

Behind the scenes, Schaefer opposed what Simon calls "the things I have to do" that may exceed his authority. Last week, Simon transferred more gasoline from reserves to gas-hungry states—a step opposed by Schaefer as unnecessary and, considering the continued Arab oil embargo, also dangerous.

Reports spread through the bureaucracy that Schaefer would be sacked. Instead, he quit. One reliable official privately put out word that Schaefer was quitting because Simon's allocations policy "is clearly illegal" and that Schaefer "considers it immoral" as well. (Schaefer rejected the words "illegal" and "immoral" but refused to discuss with us his disagreements with Simon.)

These accusations have been seized upon by officials high in the Nixon administration where there is resentment against Simon both for describing the energy problem in its bleak terms and fully emerging as a publicity-prone activist. In the quarrel between Simon and Budget chief Roy Ash over how serious the energy crisis is, the tone of the White House and President Nixon inclines to Ash's side (through presidential chief of staff Alexander Haig recently instructed Ash to dilute his sugary optimism).

Neither technocrats such as Schaefer nor presidential lieutenants such as Ash seem to understand the intense public indignation over the maddening difficulty of purchasing gasoline or appreciate the danger to Simon.

As we reported earlier, the honeymoon has ended for Simon in Congress. A freshman Republican Congressman from New Jersey named Joseph J. Maraziti recently demanded that Mr. Nixon fire Simon. Maraziti, facing a challenge from basketball star Bill Bradley running as a Democrat, cannot politically endure the current gasoline panic. Other Republican Congressmen privately echo Maraziti. By often making unfulfilled promises, Simon has made himself a potential scapegoat for embattled Republicans on Capitol Hill.

To avoid that fate, Simon sometimes ignores statutory limitations. For example, the mandatory crude oil allocation program forced on him by Congress is widely regarded as a cause of substantially reduced imports. Unable to get Congress to change the program, Simon is ready to start acting on his own.

With coupon rationing still ruled out, even exceeding his authority may not lick the gasoline shortage. But Simon is determined to try despite sniping from colleagues and subordinates in an administration notorious for devouring its most valuable men.

FORGIVENESS THAT COUNTS

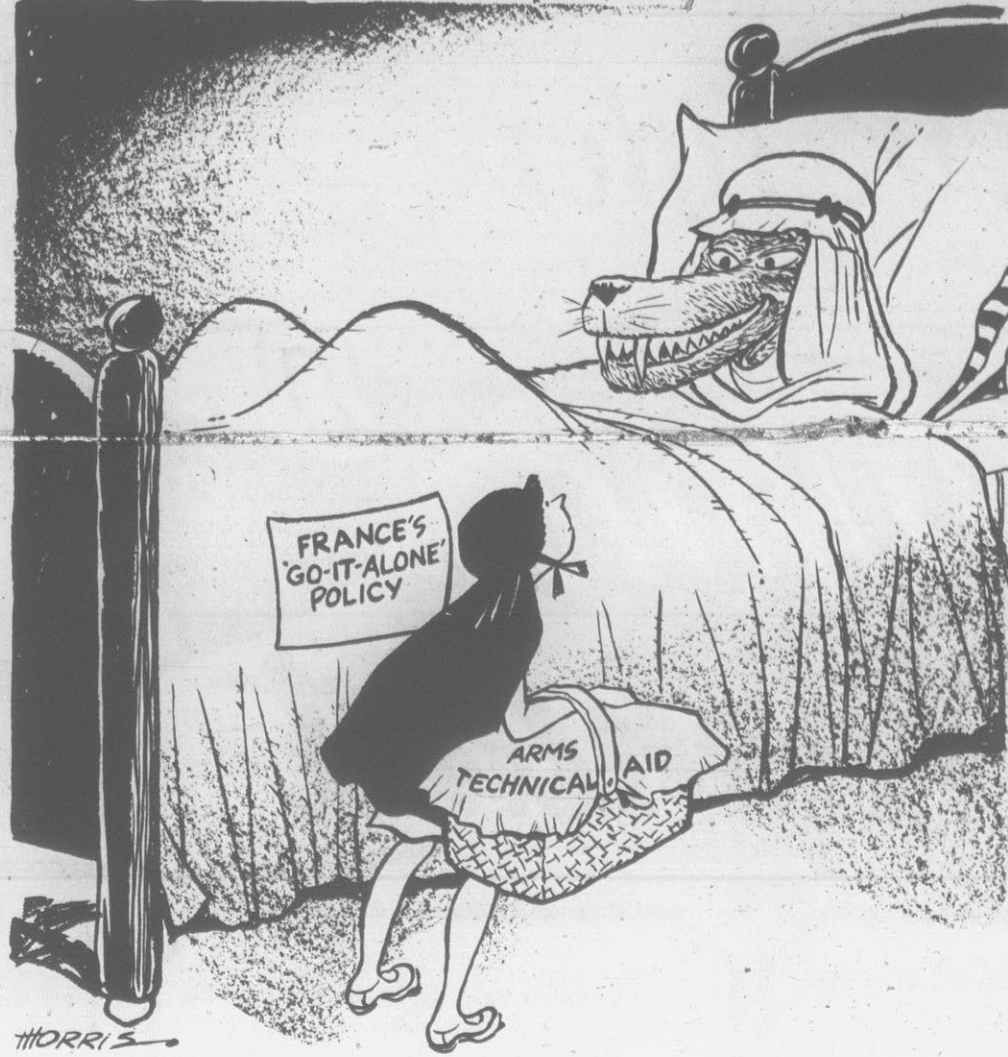

An old Scotsman on his deathbed was persuaded by his minister to forgive a man he had long hated. Fixing his eyes on his erstwhile enemy who had been sent for, the dying man said, "Sandy, I forgave you. But mind, if I get well, it will na' count."

Many people forgive in this tentative fashion. To keep peace in the family, or make things easier with a business associate, or to be nominated to an office, or get an order, they will agree to forget the past. But this forgiveness is only from the lips; the heart remains the same. About all these people have done is admit that they ought to forgive.

True forgiveness means not only saying something but being something. It means that we definitely assume a new attitude toward a person, hard as this might be to do. When the attitude is changed, it will not be long before emotion is changed also; and when attitude and emotion have both changed, then, and only then, have we forgiven. —by Elisha Douglass

MUST NOT HAVE READ THE STORY!

Fletch Never Gives Up

WASHINGTON—Fletch Knebel never gives up. Last week he was back in Hollywood trying to sell Magna Cum Laude Productions another movie idea. "All right, Fletch, what is it this time?" "I've got a crazy idea. It's a spy story." "We can always use a spy story. What's it about, the Russians or the Chinese?" "It's more complicated than that. It's about the Pentagon spying on the White House." "Good grief, Fletch. . . . "Hear me out. There's this head of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, an admiral, and he's worried that the White House might do something without him knowing about it." "Like what?" "Make a deal with Ghana or Panama, or something. I haven't worked that out yet. So, anyway, he expresses his nervousness to two admirals who set up their own spy ring right in the White House." "Is this a remake of 'Seven Days in May'?"

"No, this is all new stuff. The spy turns out to be a yeoman first class who has access to all the papers in the White House. Every night before he goes home he steals documents from the office of Henry Kay, the President's adviser on foreign affairs. The material is delivered to the Joint Chiefs of Staff in the morning and they know exactly what the White House is up to."

"Where's the love story?" "Henry Kay is a secret swinger, and on one of his dates in Egypt while he's sitting in front of the Pyramids with a Wave lieutenant who works for the admiral, she reveals that she knows what Henry said to Mao Tse-tung on his recent trip to Peking."

"Henry is aware that the only people who know what he said to Mao Tse-tung were Mrs. Mao Tse-tung, President Nixon and Jack Anderson. In a fury he flies back to Washington after stopping off in Israel, Jordan, Liberia, Moscow, New Delhi and South Korea. He reports to the President that the Pentagon has planted a spy in the White House."

"The President orders the Secret Service to tap the telephone of his brother, Donald. When this does not produce any information, the President orders the Plumbers to follow his son-in-law, David Eisenhower, for a month."

"When this doesn't produce any results, Henry orders a bug on the telephone of Zsa Zsa Gabor. But despite all these precautions Henry's memos keep showing up on the Joint Chiefs' desks."

Indian Ocean Control

By WILLIAM L. RYAN AP Special Correspondent

A propaganda war is heating up over a tiny speck in the Indian Ocean and it could be serious enough to throw a substantial block on the road to So-

This tropical fly threatening the smooth ointment of detente is in the form of a little coral atoll called Diego Garcia, unknown to almost all but geographers and military planners.

Its location makes it important far out of proportion to its size. The atoll lies almost dead center in the Indian Ocean, 1,000 miles southwest of the southern tip of India and 2,000 miles southeast of the Arabian Peninsula.

It is part of Britain's uninhabited Chagos archipelago, five coral atolls known once as the Oil Islands.

The location means that as a base it can command the Arabian Sea and thus approaches to the Red Sea and Persian Gulf, whose lands are repositories of enormous stores of precious oil.

Diego Garcia, a British naval station in World War II, was destined to attract global notice because of modern developments in world power politics.

Russia under the czars always had a hungry interest in Asia, held off by the then-nightmare British Empire. Under the Communists the interest was reasserted as early as 1919, when Foreign Commissar Georgi Chicherin announced that the future of revolution lay in Asia.

In 1967, the United States Defense Department probably took notice of what the top So-

Representatives from ten counties met in Greenville yesterday at the Eastern Carolina Chamber of Commerce to study the matter of securing an appropriation for several subsistence homestead projects for Eastern Carolina. This was the second of such meetings held for the investigation.

President Guy Elliott of Kinston presided and opened the meeting with a statement about the plans already in the making for carrying forth the project.

Committee members outlined plans at the meeting and announced that land owners having tracts of land should list them with county members. J. B. Aycock is the Pitt County member.

A Scotland Neck man said today he is willing to kill the 23 men on Death Row at State's Prison for "fifteen dollars a head and expenses," he wrote Sheriff N. F. Turner of Wake County, and he wants the sheriff to help him get the job.

"I am writing you to see if I can get the job to pull the switch," the man said, "I will do it for $15 a head and expenses from here there and back. I have a large family and a small salary. Sure hope you will consider this and give me a job."

Public Forum

To the Editor:

The Eastern Carolina Sheltered Workshop is now recycling paper waste—newspaper, cardboard, magazines or any paper product which is dry and free from extreme contamination. Mr. Howard Dawkins at the Workshop is currently seeking funds for the construction of attractive collection boxes to be placed around town for citizens to deposit paper in an economical way. Under his direction this project provides jobs for people at the Workshop as it helps us to conserve and preserve our natural resources.

We spend approximately $4.5 billion a year in this country to collect, dump, burn or bury waste products, and paper materials constitutes some 50 per cent of that waste. Nearly 70 per cent of that output is reclaimable for recycling. One ton of recycled paper saves about 17 full grown trees. The Greenville Jaycees, along with other concerned civic groups, is interested in the establishment of a total recycling center in Greenville, but the work must go slowly in order to determine the feasibility from the economic and the ecological points of view. Mr. Dawkins hopes to expand the operations at the Workshop as time goes by. Several businesses and industries are already contributing paper and cardboard waste. In order for this project to succeed, the citizens must support it.

Please consider:

(1) Saving all clean paper waste at home and at work. A small collection container near the normal waste container will serve well.

(2) Sending a check to the Workshop for the construction of these containers. One dollar will aid greatly in the construction of seven of the large collection containers to be located throughout the city. (Cost: $150 each)

(3) Making the effort to save gasoline and paper by depositing the waste paper materials when on regular trips around town once the containers are placed.

Saving paper for other groups (such as the Boy Scouts) can be part of an overall conservation effort. The point here is to establish good conservation habits in every home. Please consider it!

Sincerely, James LeRoy Smith Greenville Jaycees

Investment Clubs Can Prosper

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — "I think the recent stock market situation can be likened to the one in the 1940s," said Tom O'Hara. "Our problems seem to be so great that few people are willing to buy stock."

That's what a lot of people thought in 1941, when O'Hara and other investors founded their Mutual Club of Detroit, which now has assets of close to $400,000, making it one of the larger members of the National Association of Investment Clubs.

During those years the members have prospered. More than $50,000 was used for education of children. Three small businesses were founded. All told, about $139,500 was withdrawn. Still, the club is worth nearly four times the $103,024 investment by its members over a 34-year period, despite the depressed market, by adhering to a simple, basic philosophy that is the bedrock of the movement:

1. Invest every month, regardless of what the stock market outlook may be or what is doing at the time. 2. Reinvest all dividends. 3. Buy companies that are growing faster than the economy.

O'Hara, who heads the national association at Royal Oak, Mich., and who is now a governor of the New York Stock Exchange, concedes that investor interest in stocks and clubs has deteriorated badly, but adds:

"It seems to me that the worst thing an investment club can do is bypass a bear market such as we have now with an abundance of underpriced stocks and leap into a bull market when investor activity has driven prices up."

But some clubs, particularly younger ones, have been doing just that. Membership in the national association has declined 4,700 in just three years.

O'Hara believes the explanation lies in time. That is, the principles underlying club activity often fail to show results for years, and many younger clubs therefore lose their enthusiasm.

During the past year the average club of 16 members showed a negative rate of return of 19.3 per cent, O'Hara reports. It is a rate that few young clubs are willing to tolerate for long.

Older clubs are in a much better position to stand such setbacks, sitting as they are on an inflated cushion of gains made during the rising market of the 1960s.

The association found in its most recent survey that clubs 10 years or older had compound annual earnings of 8.87 per cent over their lifetimes. And the average for clubs 15 years and older was 13.37 per cent.

O'Hara admits that longevity doesn't of necessity equal success, and he realizes older clubs fail also, but in almost every instance he claims the reason is found in an abandonment of principles.

"The experienced investment clubber is still in there investing his or her $20 or $25 a month," he says. "And they know they're now getting a lot more for their money."

Breaking Ground For New Church

PHILIPPI CHURCH OF CHRIST...This is a rendering of the new church building to be begun soon.

Philippi Church of Christ of Greenville will have a groundbreaking service for its new church building Sunday at 5 p.m. on its chosen site.

The site is located on Farmville Boulevard, just behind B & B Food Lanes. The 4,200 square-foot building will cost approximately $200,000 and will be built by J. H. Hudson, Inc. of Greenville. Participating in the groundbreaking ceremony will be the pastor, the Rev. Elbert B.

Williams; Greenville Mayor S. Eugene West; L. B. Blount, chairman of deacons; and Raymond Grady, chairman of trustees of the church.

The public is invited, the pastor said.

Police State Role Cited

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — South America's daring church battler for human rights, Roman Catholic Archbishop Helder Camera of Brazil, spoke recently of police-state suppressions in his homeland and added:

"If the religions of the world do not bring moral pressure to bear upon those responsible for such crimes, humanity will no longer trust them to speak in the name of God."

The archbishop, presented in Norway with a "People's Peace Prize" of $264,000 for his struggles in behalf of justice and nonviolence, used to be virtually alone among church leaders in his outspoken clash with military regimes.

But that is no longer the case. Mounting opposition of Catholics and Protestants to oppressive government tactics in South America, particularly in Brazil and Chile, is showing up both there and in the United States.

In the first action of its kind, the administrative board of U.S. Catholic bishops has charged repression of human rights in Chile and Brazil and urged the U.S. government to condition its economic aid on changes in those policies.

The U.S. bishops said they acted "in solidarity" with churches both in Chile and Bra-

Graham Raps Waste Guideline

RALEIGH—State Agriculture Commissioner Jim Graham voiced opposition to efforts by the National Resources Defense Council to force the Environmental Protection Agency to impose its animal waste guidelines governing feed lots on small operators.

Graham said that animal agriculture in North Carolina is made up principally of small operations and the swine and dairy industries would be hardest hit by such action.

The commissioner said that the guidelines apply to any confined feedlot where feed is brought in and vegetation cannot grow. Exempted presently are producers who raise less than 1,000 head of slaughter steers, 700 dairy cattle or 2,500 swine per year.

Graham asserted that it is the intention of NRDC to force EPA, through a suit, to impose these rules on farmers raising any number of animals from one up. Sheep, turkeys, chickens and horses are also involved but to a lesser degree, he said.

By 1977, he continued, the only permissible animal waste runoff would be that which occurs following what is described by EPA as a ten-year rain or a rain of six inches within a 24 hour period.

Graham said that Economic Analysis referred to in the Federal Register in September of 1973 indicated that 50 per cent of all hogs in the state are concentrated on farms with less than 50 head.

"If EPA forces North Carolina's small operators... to abide by these guidelines," he said, "many hundreds of producers could be driven out of business with meat prices going to unbelievable heights. Obviously the economy would be severely damaged, and I will do all in my power to prevent this."

REP GERALD ARNOLD of Lillington will be the guest speaker at Pactolus Baptist Church Sunday at 11:00 a.m. Arnold, an active churchman, will speak on a "Christian's Involvement In This Society."

Church Offers Special Music

There will be a special music program Sunday at 5 p.m. at Oak Grove Holiness Church on Bonner's Lane, and revival will be held there Monday through Saturday.

Featured in the musical program will be the Melody Sounds of Washington, N.C.

The revival services at 7 o'clock each evening will be led by the Rev. Jessie Keyes of Greenville. Various choirs will participate.

The public is invited to all the services, according to the pastor, Bishop Lucille Chance.

(Continued from page 4) viet naval commander had to say only a month after the six-day Arab-Israeli war ended.

"Today, the naval flags of the Soviet Union are flying over the seven seas of the world. The U.S.A. will sooner or later wake up to the fact that the United States is not the only master of the seas," Adm. Sergei G. Gorshkov said then.

Six months later Gorshkov was in India. Shortly thereafter the Russians acquired access to base facilities there. A superpower contest in the Indian Ocean clearly was in prospect.

Last October's Middle East war, the resultant oil crisis and a certainty that a settlement meant reopening the Suez Canal, all quickened American interest in Diego Garcia. The canal would shorten Soviet communications between the Black Sea and Indian Ocean fleets, making them far more potent in the supersensitive area of the Arabian Sea.

The Americans already had been on Diego Garcia under 1966 and 1972 agreements with Britain, operating a small communications station as part of a global communications net. Manned by 200 naval personnel, the station began operating early in 1973.

Last January the Pentagon disclosed discussions with Britain to expand the station so it could support naval operations.

Soviet propaganda has been growing steadily about the proposition, calling the area a focal point for military confrontation and threat to Asian peace. On the other hand, the United States evinces acute awareness of possible Soviet influence on Persian Gulf oil, and the Indian Ocean plans would represent a counterweight.

"The admiral is shocked. 'I'll have him court-martialed right away.'

Prayer is a party line
The man who prays can hear the prayers of others . . . especially when he prays for those human needs which are common to all men.
But even when he prays for needs that are solely his own, he knows that those who care for him are joining their prayers with his.
And God's answers come back along the party line.
You're never quite sure the message was meant for you. You are tempted sometimes to think it was intended for someone else . . . until you realize that this answer which God has inspired in your heart does fit your prayer.
There are times when it's good for everybody on the party line to pick up the phone at once . . . and speak what they all feel . . . and listen to what they all need to hear.
That happens regularly on Sunday morning.

A Request To Rezone This Property From

Has Been Made.
For More Information Call The Planning And Engineering Department At 752-1731

REZONING REQUESTS... that are scheduled for consideration by the Planning and Zoning Commission will be indicated in the future by the above sign, which will be placed on property where rezoning action has been initiated. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Early Alert On Zoning Actions

The City of Greenville is planning to try something new in the way of informing the public of pending rezoning action scheduled for consideration by the Planning and Zoning Commission.

City Planner John Schofield explained that, beginning March 14, signs will be placed on property that has been requested for rezoning two weeks prior to the date of the Planning and Zoning Commission meeting.

Schofield said that the deadline for items to be placed on the agenda is 15 days prior to the meeting date and by putting the signs up, citizens in the areas affected by the proposed rezoning will have two weeks to see the notices prior to the Planning and Zoning session.

The March meeting date falls on the 27th, he said, noting that March 14 provides for two weeks notification. Schofield urged persons who desire further information concerning a zoning change to call the Planning and Engineering Department at 752-1731.

Schofield pointed out that a number of citizens have requested that some form of public notification as to pending zoning action be adopted and he added that the signs will let them know that a rezoning request has been initiated.

The city planner added that, in a further effort to better inform the public, the regular Planning and Zoning meeting agenda will be furnished to The Daily Reflector each month prior to the meeting date so that the business agenda may be published the day before the session.

Chorus To Sing Part II Of Handel Oratorio

Part II of Handel's oratorio "Messiah" will be performed by the Greenville Community Chorus Sunday at 4 p.m. at Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church.

The performance, the second in a series of three presentations of the oratorio by the Greenville Community Chorus, is free and open to the public.

Soloists include Patricia Hiss, soprano; Jacqueline Rausch, mezzo soprano; Stuart Aronson, tenor; and Charles Smith, baritone. Conductor of the group is Robert Rausch.

The chorus will present Part III of the oratorio Sunday, April 7.

Pupil Census

The Greenville City Schools is now making a survey to determine the number of children who will be enrolling in kindergarten and first grade for the coming year.

Pre-school census sheets are being sent home by children who are now enrolled in school.

Parents who have children who will be eligible to attend the next school year should contact the elementary school nearest their home if they have not received a pre-school census form.

'Streaked' At Charlotte, Too

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Barely a dozen nude young men scammed across the campus of the University of North Carolina at Charlotte Thursday night as part of the newest college fad—streaking.

Plans for the run had been announced several days earlier, but leaders blamed the raw cold for the skinny turnout.

"It's against my morals to go out naked when it's this cold," said Sherry Deal of Denver, N.C.

"UNCC shall see better days," promised one streaker.

N.C. Gasoline Tax Revenues Plunge

By VAN VANUCH
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — North Carolina's gasoline tax revenues plunged sharply in January, because of the gasoline shortage, and Highway officials say further reductions could delay the state's road construction programs.

January collections, based on December sales, were down by 4.85 per cent compared to January of 1973, $21.6 million against $22.7 million.

Although February figures are not in, the picture is not expected to be any brighter.

The plunge, brought on by a gasoline shortage reaching crisis proportions over much of the state, is causing uncertainty about whether Gov. Jim Hol-shouser's seven-year schedule of modernizing highways can be realized.

"Right now we are still keeping body and soul together," said Ted Harrison, director of the transportation department's information services division.

"We are still able to function with some belt tightening." Road maintenance has not been curtailed and new construction is "still going at about the same rate," Harrison said, but the situation "is about as cloudy as anything can be."

He said department officials will examine the revenue trends, if there are any, over the next couple of months before making any decision on cutbacks in road building.

"We've got sort of a cushion, but we're figuring at this point that we've got to be very careful about being too pessimistic or optimistic," Harrison said.

Fred London, head of the department's gasoline tax division, said revenues for the current fiscal year are up by $5.4 million over fiscal 1972-73.

But most of that was amassed in the early months of fiscal 1973-74, before the gas shortage became severe.

One of the governor's announced goals when he took office was a seven-year highway construction program to link the state's major population centers.

Harrison said the plan won't be abandoned, but it may be delayed.

"We figured that program based on the best estimates we had at the time, recognizing it could be an eight-year program or six," he said.

"It will not be abandoned, and neither the concept nor individual projects would be affected any way except perhaps time."

Harrison noted that North Carolina was allotted 13.7 million extra gallons of gas in February, and said if such allotments are made in the coming months the threat to highway building could be eased a bit.

Press Reply Bill Is Introduced

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—More than half the membership of the North Carolina Senate has joined in sponsoring legislation which would require newspapers to print replies from people they have "attacked."

The bill, introduced Friday by Sen. Phil Godwin, D-Gates, was immediately called unconstitutional by a spokesman for the North Carolina Press Association.

Modeled after a Florida statute, it would require newspapers to immediately and at no cost give equal space and display to rebuttals from anyone who feels his character has been maligned.

It would also give politicians the right to reply to attacks on their "official record" or to charges of malfeasance or misfeasance in office.

Thirty of the Senate's 50 members signed the bill.

Godwin said he had no grudge against the press and was interested in enforcing the principle of fair play such as broadcasters must submit to through federal regulations.

"I have always been treated fairly by the press. At least until today," he said.

The bill would apply to news stories and editorials. "If a story said a legislator's voting record was liberal and he thought it was conservative, he would have a right to reply."

Godwin said newspapers which print accurate stories would have little to fear from the bill. "If the article was the truth, I don't think there would be many replies."

He said he was confident the courts could adequately define the word "attack" as it is used in the bill.

William C. Lassiter of Raleigh, attorney for the North Carolina Press Association, said the bill was unconstitutional because it violated the First Amendment right to freedom of the press. "The legislature cannot tell newspapers what to print."

He noted that litigation over the constitutionality of the Florida statute is currently before the U.S. Supreme Court. "It would be inappropriate for the General Assembly to enact a bill while there are doubts as to its constitutionality," Lassiter said.

The bill would make failure

Accused Slayer Dies In A Milwaukee Shoot-Out

By JOHN HARTZELL
Associated Press Writer
MILWAUKEE, Wis. (AP) —

"He came out with a gun to the boy's head," an FBI agent said after a man wanted in the deaths of two Chicago policemen was killed here in a volley of gunfire.

The 14-year-old hostage managed to break free and dive for cover Thursday as Jacob P. Cohen, 30, was cut down by 16 bullets.

The boy, Daniel Brady, was injured when the car he was hiding under for protection apparently lunged forward. He was reported in satisfactory condition.

Three of the 150 federal and city officers who took part in the two stages of the dramatic showdown were wounded, one seriously.

Herbert Hoxie, special agent in charge of the Milwaukee FBI office, said agents went to a North Stowell Avenue address after receiving a tip from Chicago police that Cohen was there.

Authorities said Cohen exchanged gunfire with the agents, seriously wounding FBI agent Richard Carr. Cohen was chased between homes and over fences for three blocks to the Bradford Street home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Brady.

The authorities said that Cohen grabbed his young hostage as the youth was shoveling snow in front of the home, dragged him inside and held him hostage, along with two other Brady children and a neighbor youngster.

The children said Cohen, bleeding from a hand wound apparently suffered in the gunfight, demanded a getaway car when someone telephoned the home. The house was surrounded by officers, some of them stationed on the roofs of nearby homes.

Hoxie said he drove a car to the rear of the Brady home and Cohen emerged with Daniel.

Milwaukee police and FBI agents said they opened fire when the boy was free and Cohen retired the fire.

Police said Cohen's body was riddled with 16 bullet wounds. The nearby car was punctured by 15 bullet holes.

Hoxie was hospitalized in good condition. Police Detective William Beasley, who was shot in the leg during the shootout, was listed in excellent condition.

A warrant had been issued for Cohen in Chicago in connection with the shooting deaths of officers William Marsek and Bruce Garrison on Wednesday night. Authorities said the shooting took place after the two uniformed officers followed into a tavern a man who was acting suspiciously.

Chicago police said Cohen was also wanted for robbery and aggravated battery in a Chicago suburb.

Cher Sues Over Contract Terms

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP) — Singer Cher Bono has sued her husband, Sonny, and his attorney, alleging they took advantage of her lack of business knowledge and tricked her into signing a contract damaging to her career.

Cher, 27, recently separated from Bono, 39. She contended in a Superior Court suit that Bono had gradually given increased control in the couple's management company, Cher Enterprises Inc., to attorney Irwin O. Spiegel.

She contended the contract bound her to perform exclusively for the company and provided no payment if she were unable to perform.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets Thursday were weaker on large and smalls and stronger on mediums. Supplies adequate, demand fair. Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 74.09, medium whites 64.39, small whites 51.59.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — Corn and soybeans continued to decline on the state's leading grain markets Thursday. No. 2 yellow shelled corn was mostly 3.00-3.04 per bushel. No. 1 yellow soybeans brought 5.85 6.09, mostly 6.00-6.09 per bushel.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — North Carolina hog markets today are steady to .75 higher with tops of 39.50-40.50 at Kingston, Benson and Lumberton; 38.75-39.25 at Rocky Mount; 36.50-38.50 Wilson and High Falls; 37.50-38.00 Tarboro and Bethel; 40.00 Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Elizabethtown, Pink Hill, Pine Level, Chadbourne, Ayden and Laurinburg; 39.00 Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — North Carolina FOB dock broilers: Market steady for next week at 39.29 cents per pound, supplies barely adequate for a good demand, weights desirable to light. Estimated slaughter 1,054,000.

Hens: Market conditions irregular, supplies barely adequate, demand fair to good. Too few sales reported to release market quotations.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market retreated again today, with brokers blaming concern over the outlook for interest rates and the Labor party's strong showing in the British election.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 5.87 at 854.66 at 11:30 a.m., and losers led gainers by close to 3-to-2 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said investors were worried that recent sharp growth in the nation's money supply might prompt the Federal Reserve Board to return to a restrictive monetary policy, thus pushing interest rates back up toward record levels.

They said concern over the Laborites' gains in the British election focused particularly on stocks of companies with energy holdings and activities in the North Sea. During the campaign the Labor party spoke of nationalizing North Sea oil.

Phillips Petroleum was down 3/4 at 54, and British Petrochem slipped 3/4 to 12 1/4, both in active trading. Ranger Oil of Canada traded at 44, off 3 after a delayed opening.

Among oil service issues, Schlumberger sold at 111 1/2, down 1, and Halliburton at 164, off 5 1/2. Both stocks opened late.

Twentieth Century-Fox, up 1 3/4 at 8 1/2, was the Big Board's most-active stock. Late Thursday the company announced a tender offer for 2 million of its shares at $8.50 each.

Bethlehem Steel climbed 3/4 to 34 3/4, and U.S. Steel was up 1/4 at 44. The Cost of Living Council said it would let steel-makers adjust their prices monthly to reflect costs of iron and scrap steel.

Gold stocks generally rebounded from their recent declines. Homestake added 1 to 85 1/2, and Giant Yellowknife rose 1/2 to 21 1/4 on the American Stock Exchange.

The Amex volume leader was Syntex, down 1/4 at 56 1/2, the ASE's 11 a.m. market-value index was off .13 at 97.22.

The Big Board's composite index of all its listed common stocks fell .25 to 51.31.

Seized Streaker Given Release

GREENSBORO (AP) — A naked girl and a naked young man struggled with campus police as streaking came to the University of North Carolina at Greensboro Thursday night.

Four girls and about 20 men ran naked along a campus street in the new college fad. An estimated 1,500 to 2,000 of the enrollment of 7,5000 watched.

When a campus policeman seized a girl streaker and put her in his car, students surrounded the car and let the air out of its tires. Vice Chancellor James Allen arrived and ordered the girl released. He said the administration would decide if disciplinary action was necessary.

Another campus policeman caught and struggled with a man streaker. A student onlooker came to the streaker's aid, and both got away from the policeman.

Bethlehem Steel climbed 3/4 to 34 3/4, and U.S. Steel was up 1/4 at 44. The Cost of Living Council said it would let steel-makers adjust their prices monthly to reflect costs of iron and scrap steel.

Gold stocks generally rebounded from their recent declines. Homestake added 1 to 85 1/2, and Giant Yellowknife rose 1/2 to 21 1/4 on the American Stock Exchange.

The Amex volume leader was Syntex, down 1/4 at 56 1/2, the ASE's 11 a.m. market-value index was off .13 at 97.22.

The Big Board's composite index of all its listed common stocks fell .25 to 51.31.

Carmon, with affidavits from two counties—Pitt and Greene—saying he has committed no crimes during the 10 years of freedom, is currently serving his term in the Pender County prison unit at Burgaw and is an honor-grade prisoner.

Harmon said the "criminal justice system of this state has chosen to treat J. C. Carmon's case differently from that of John F. Dorman." Florida "Dorman," Harmon noted, "escaped from Central Prison in 1964 and fled to Florida where he led an exemplary life until returned to North Carolina in January after a routine check by officers in his Florida hometown revealed that he was an escapee.

"After his return to North Carolina," Harmon said, "an escape charge against Dorman was dropped and he received parole for the remainder of his six to 10-year sentence for breaking and entering.

"The only apparent reason for the difference in the cases," Harmon commented, "is that Dorman is white and Carmon is black."

Paroles official P. H. Cheatham said "the board does not parole unless the person has a suitable plan of residence and employment. All factors were considered, but the fact remains he (Carmon) didn't have a job."

Cheatham noted, however, that Carmon's case had not been forgotten.

"We are in the process of investigating his case now for possible parole," Cheatham said.

Mekong Offense

SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — Hundreds of South Vietnamese troops have launched another counter-offensive in the central Mekong Delta and have recaptured two of four outposts lost to North Vietnamese and Viet Cong forces last Sunday, a report said today.

The reports said two infantry battalions from the 9th Division, numbering up to 1,000 troops, poured into the area south of Can Tho, the delta capital 85 miles below Saigon.

Fighting for the other two posts was reported continuing, and government forces also were reported trying to reopen a six-mile section of highway leading to Can Tho.

Reports of casualties were not immediately available. Meanwhile, the Saigon command charged that the Viet Cong fired 30 mortar shells into a refugee camp 95 miles north-east of Saigon before dawn today, killing one civilian and wounding 27 others.

In Cambodia, the government said its troops in Takeo, a provincial capital 39 miles south of Phnom Penh, have secured enough land around the town's airfield to let planes land for the first time in a year.

Takeo has been under siege since early last year and has had to be supplied by helicopter.

Receives Six Death Sentences

LUMBERTON, N.C. (AP)—A man convicted of setting fire to a house in which five young children died received six death sentences Thursday.

One of the sentences was for arson and the others for first-degree murder.

The defendant, Alexander McLaughlin of Laurinburg, was sentenced to die May 10, but his electrocution was stayed by notice of appeal.

Mrs. Lewbertha Jones of Maxton, mother of three of the children, testified that she and McLaughlin had an argument in a night club the night of the fire Dec. 16.

Price Hike For Steel Industry

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council has given the nation's steel industry permission to immediately increase prices by perhaps as much as $750 million.

The council announced Thursday it was allowing steel producers to raise prices to cover their cost increases through Jan. 31 and to boost prices once a month to reflect the higher costs of scrap iron and steel.

It also directed the major steel firms to submit estimates of their anticipated cost increases for the Feb. 1-July 31 period this year.

Prices of scrap products have risen 37 per cent in seven weeks since price controls were lifted from them, Council Director John T. Dunlop noted.

Dunlop said that had the council not permitted the price relief, the steel industry would have to absorb some $750 million in cost increases over the past year.

To Discourage Tank-Topping

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Gasoline dealers in Charlotte have decided on a $3 minimum and a half-tank plan, to discourage tank-topping and shorten lines.

Drivers of standard-sized cars will be charged at least $3 whether they need that much gas or not. And drivers of small cars will have to show they need at least half a tank before the attendant will turn the pump on.

The steps are effective Monday.

Hint Nixon Visit Set To Israel And Egypt

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — President Nixon will probably visit Egypt and Israel in the second half of this year, authoritative sources said today as Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger returned to the Jewish state to continue his Middle East peace mission.

Kissinger went to Cairo Thursday for restoration of full diplomatic relations between the United States and Egypt, and today he presided with Egyptian Foreign Secretary Ismail Fahmy as the American flag was raised over the U.S. Embassy in Cairo for the first time since relations were broken in 1967.

Sources in the secretary's party said that during the overnight stay in Cairo, tentative plans were made for Nixon to visit the Middle East and for President Anwar Sadat of Egypt to pay a return visit to the United States.

If Nixon went to Egypt he would be "virtually bound" to visit Israel on the same trip, the officials said.

"I want our Egyptian friends to know that the United States is committed to peace, progress and stability in the Middle East," Kissinger told Fahmy at the flag-raising in Cairo.

He thanked Spanish Ambassador Manuel Alabart for representing the United States in Egypt during the nearly seven years after President Gamal Abdel Nasser broke relations during the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

Kissinger predicted that "such a period will never happen again."

"The restoration of relations was not merely a move on a diplomatic checkerboard," he said. "It has begun a lasting friendship."

Kissinger was flying back to Jerusalem today to pick up Israel's proposals for the disengagement of Israeli and Syrian troops on the Golan Heights. He was to take these to the Syrians in Damascus tonight, and he hoped the two governments would start direct negotiations, perhaps in Geneva, to hammer out a troop separation agreement.

Forced Way In Hospital

BAT CAVE, N.C. (AP)—Two masked men believed looking for narcotics forced their way into a hospital in isolated Bat Cave early today, and shot and wounded a nurse, authorities report.

They also twisted the arm of another nurse so hard in a scuffle that they broke it, the Henderson County sheriff's office said.

It was not learned immediately whether the men got narcotics from the Valley Clinic and Hospital.

Deputies gave this account: They forced their way through the front door at 3:30 a.m., when the hospital is usually locked. After the break-in, they fled in a car, traveling north on U.S. 74 toward Buncombe County.

A man reportedly was picked up for questioning in Buncombe County.

The nurse who was shot in the arm and chest was identified as Mrs. Price. She was reported in fair condition.

The nurse whose arm was broken is a Mrs. Dana.

Redd Foxx Out Of TV Series

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ailing Redd Foxx, the star of NBC's "Sanford and Son," is not expected back for the remainder of the season.

That was the word Thursday from Aaron Ruben, the show's producer.

Foxx, 51, is still in the hospital after undergoing tests for a nervous condition that has kept him out for three weeks.

Ruben said he was revising three scripts written for Foxx, who plays the role of Fred Sanford.

Students Keep Ethiopia Tense

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (AP) — Thousands of anti-government demonstrators paraded through Addis Ababa today, but Ethiopia's new prime minister declared that he had the support of everyone but "some radical elements."

Prime Minister Endalkachew Makonnen, named by Emperor Haile Selassie Thursday to replace Akilu Haptewold, told newsmen he was sure he could end the four-day military mutiny and that the army would give him a chance to govern.

Hundreds of helmeted troops and police patrolled the capital but allowed the marchers down Churchill Road, the main street.

Pirates Upended By Indians In Extra Periods

By WOODY PEELE
Reflector Sports Editor

Satterthwaite hit two driving layups at the start of the second overtime to enable the William & Mary Indians to vault to a 75-67 upset victory in the Southern Conference tournament last night.

In the other quarterfinal game, Davidson outlasted The Citadel, 82-69, in a contest much closer than the score would show.

The usual surmise is that the game between the fourth and fifth place teams is supposed to be the tightest of a tournament, and when the Indians and Pirates met, it proved to be no exception.

William & Mary led much of the way, but the Pirates gained late in the contest, only to lose it to a 57-57 tie.

Each team scored two points in the first overtime, but Satterthwaite put the Indians ahead to stay seconds into the second overtime, and the Bucs never got going again.

Despite a 52.6 percentage from the floor in the second half and overtime, the Bucs couldn't pull it out. The Indians, badly out-rebounded several weeks ago by the Bucs, were able to stick with the Pirates on the boards, and their sticky man-to-man defense kept the Pirates at bay.

Another thing that helped to kill the Bucs was the loss of four players on fouls, Donnie Owens, Reggie Lee, Roger Atkinson and Greg Adams.

The results pairs Davidson against Richmond and Furman against William & Mary in tonight's semifinals. The championship will be held Saturday night.

For much of the first half, The Citadel outplayed Davidson, leading until just 3:39 was left in the period, moving out by as much as eight points. Chuck Cordell, who had 16 of The Citadel's 34 in the half, sparked the way. He hit two around one by Greg Weber for a 6-0 lead before Davidson finally hit on a baseline jumper by Larry

Horowitz with 17:19 left. Behind Horowitz and Greg

it at 12-12, but Richard Johnson scored on a turnaround jumper with 10:00 left to start another

Bulldog string of three baskets for another six point lead. They stretched it as much as eight when Johnson hit a jumper with 8:42 for a 24-15 lead.

But Davidson crept back and with 4:15 left, Jay Powell hit a jumper and was fouled after the shot. He hit both ends of a one-and-one, knotting it at 30-30. With 3:39 left, Horowitz hit a pair of free throws for a 32-30 lead, but two jumpers by Cordell put the 'Dogs back out, 34-32. Dunn hit a free throw, and John Malconi added two more for a 35-34 lead, and that held for the rest of the half.

Davidson inched ahead in the opening minutes of the second half, going out by six after three minutes on a three-point play by Dunn, making it 42-36. But The Citadel, despite missing on a number of chances, stuck close, cutting it back to one at 50-49, as Rick Barger hit with 11:47 left.

Davidson crept away again, however, moving out by seven on a drive by T. Jay Pecorak at 64-57. From there, they slowly pulled out, as The Citadel began to hurry to catch up, and missed shot after shot. In the final three minutes, Davidson outthit the 'Dogs, 10-4 to push out to their final 13-point margin.

Davidson, which shot only 38.7 per cent in the first half, rolled to a 64.7 percentage in the second, and that made the big difference for the Wildcats.

Dunn led their scoring with 26 points, while Horowitz had 20 and Powell hit 14. Cordell starred for The Citadel with 22, while Arthur McGriff had 12, Rick Day had 10.

East Carolina, which had beaten William & Mary by 30 in their last meeting, found a different Indian team on the Floor as the second game began. They worked well in their man-to-man defense and hustled after the somewhat tight Pirates.

Gary Byrd put them up into a 2-0 lead, and although the Bucs twice tied it, it was not until Reggie Lee hit with 14:44 left that the Pirates first led, 7-6.

Satterthwaite and Mike Arizin each hit to put the Indians out by three, 10-7, but East Carolina caught up and took the lead on Nicky White's baseline jumper 11-10. The lead swapped back and forth until Buzzy Braman scored on a fast break to make it 15-14. Tom Marsh added two free throws and Larry Hunt made a hook for a five-point lead with 8:05 left, 19-17.

Mark Ritter hit once and Ron Musselman made two quick baskets to put the Indians back up, 20-19, and they proceeded to build a five-point edge. That came on Ritter's free throws with 3:03 left at 26-21. East Carolina cut it back to three at the half, however, 28-25.

Neither team shot well in the half, 42.3 per cent for W&M, and 40.0 for the Bucs. The Indians out-rebounded the Bucs, 18-15, and had two less turnovers.

In the early minutes of the second half, the fortunes of the Pirates got no better. The Indians upped their lead to eight on a three-point play by Satterthwaite and a shot by Arizin, 39-31. But after it reached 45-39 for a 23-69 lead. The Bucs turned it over just inside three minutes, and the Indians stalled again until Marsh fouled Arizin with 1:57 left. He hit both, putting the game on ice, 65-61. Six more free throws went through before ECU finally scored, but the 10-point lead W&M had built before the shot, 69-59, was too much to overcome.

Arizin led the Indian effort with 27 points, while Satterthwaite had 17 and Ritter had 14.

Lee led the Bucs with 16, while Hunt had 11 and White had 10.

The loss dropped the Pirates to 13-12 for the year.

Swimmers Splash To Big Lead Early In Tourney

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer

Behind the record setting swim by Larry Green and first places by Greg Hinchman, Jim Hadley and Jack Morrow, East Carolina's swimming Pirates zoomed out to a commanding lead in the Southern Conference Swimming and Diving championships which began last night.

The Pirates did just about what was expected of them. They won all five events that were run off last night including the 500 free style, 200 individual medley, 50 yard free style, 400 medley relay and one meter diving.

The Pirates set two new varsity and conference records. The first fall was in the 500 free, and the first event of the night. In a close race, Green bettered the old mark by almost five full seconds in winning the event in 4:53.53. The Bucs also took third, fifth and sixth in the final of the 500.

East Carolina had six men swimming in the consolation and finals of the 500 and walked away with 57 points in that one event.

Paul Schiffl turned in the best qualifying time in the 200 IM in the preliminaries, 2:04.97, but was beaten in the finals as ECU took a second first place by Hinchman. Hinchman went the distance, which involves 50 yards each of the butterfly, backstroke, breast stroke and one other usually the crawl, in 2:03.19. The battle was between Hinchman and Schiffl all the way. ECU also grabbed third in the event as Charles Kemp came in right on the heels of his teammates.

There had been some concern in the probable outcome of the 50 free. With only one swimmer in the finals, ECU had a tough job. But Jim Hadley swam a great race missing the record by 62 hundredths of a second, :21.95, winning it for the Pirates.

The battle in the one meter diving was between ECU's Morrow and Ken Morin. Morin was third going into the finals and moved into second with a strong showing in his last three dives. Morrow took first with 420.33 points while Morin was second with 400.89, Keith Kopecky of Richmond was third.

In the last event, the 400 medley relay, East Carolina had no competition. The Pirates took the lead on the breast stroke leg and beat second place William & Mary by just under three seconds, 3:42.96-3:45.89.

That set a new record breaking the old one of 3:44.9 set by East Carolina.

Today's events will be the 400 IM, 200 free, 100 back, 100 butterfly, 100 breast, 800 free relay and the preliminaries of the three meter diving.

East Carolina racked up 173 points. The Richmond Spiders are far back with 92, W&M third at 70, VMI 58, ASU 21, Furman 17, Davidson 12. The Citadel does not have a team.

The summary:

Rumors Begin To Fly About Quinn's Status

RICHMOND, Va.—Is Tom Quinn on the hot seat at East Carolina? If he is, he isn't saying so.

There have been rumors that the ECU cage boss might not be back next year, despite the fact that he has another year to run on his contract. When asked by the Daily Reflector last night, however, he said he hadn't heard, and that rumors should only be treated as such.

Quinn, obviously disappointed in the loss by his Pirates to William & Mary in a double overtime, felt that the Bucs waited too long to get started. "We worked around and finally found a lineup that could get some offense for us," he said. East Carolina, down by as much as eight, had come back to lead by three near the end of regulation time before a fateful miss at the free throw line gave the Indians a chance to tie, which they did.

"I think that the 30 point win we had a few weeks ago played a part in this game," he said. "I don't think it was so much that our guys were overconfident, but that it helped William & Mary get ready."

William & Mary did an outstanding job in stopping the Pirates in several phases of their game, the coach added. "This was true in our fast break, and they denied us many second efforts under the basket. They won the game in the areas I respect, on the boards, on defense and in second effort."

George Balanis, just named intern coach at William & Mary a couple of weeks ago following the resignation of Ed Ashnault, was ecstatic. "I'm really proud of these guys," he said. "People have been calling them losers, but they aren't losers."

"We made mistakes tonight, but we came back, dug in and fought back," the aspiring coach said. (He's hoping to be officially named coach, and this victory didn't hurt his chances.) "I thought we were dead late in the game and in the first overtime, but we just kept scrambling back. And East Carolina is a tough team to beat—really tough."

Terry Holland of Davidson gave a lot of credit to The Citadel for their fine game in the quarterfinals against the Wildcats. "They played hard and well. We did a good job defensively, but we didn't do the job on the boards that we'll have to do to win this tournament."

Holland felt that the Citadel zone made the 'Cats stand

Take Wins In Industrial

Pitt Memorial Hospital and Empire Brush moved a step closer to the finals of the Industrial League's division II tournament with wins last night.

In the opener, Hospital beat Wachovia in overtime, 47-43. Hospital built up a six-point lead in the first half, 25-19, but Wachovia cut it down and at the end of regulation time, the teams were tied 41-41. Danny Edwards got to buckets for Hospital in the overtime to win it.

Edwards led the winners with 19 and Cecil Edwards had 12. Randy Brooks led Wachovia with 14, Bill Baggett had 11 and Jeff Daniel had 10.

Empire Brush did not have it as hard as Hospital did, winning easily, 54-47, over Post Office. Empire Brush moved out by 23-20 in the opening half and out-scored Post Office to take the win.

Ed Coburn led Empire Brush with 22 and Bobby Parker had 19. Thomas Perkins had 20 for Post Office and Doug Teel added 12.

Jones May Not Be Back At Spider Helm

By MARSHALL JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Unless he changes his mind, Frank Jones will give up the head football coaching job at the University of Richmond, which he built from a dorm to a perennial Southern Conference power in the last eight years.

he planned to do about a new contract offered him by the university administration which forces him out of the position of athletic director, Jones said flatly:
"I'm gonna quit."
As to when either the university or he might make an official announcement, an obvious-ly asked Thursday night what now."

A Wednesday statement—released over the names of the school's rector, chairman of the executive committee of the board of trustees and president—said, "The positions of athletic director and head football coach . . . would have to be separated into two positions."

Jones has served as both athletic director and football coach the last six years but was told he could remain only in the football coaching job. He is known to have been reluctant to have the two posts separated.

But the Wednesday announcement said after several conferences among the executive committee, President E. Bruce Heilman, Jones, and the faculty committee on athletics, it was determined that Jones "should continue to serve" only as football coach.

The statement said Jones "has been offered a new contract effective March 1, 1974 . . . at one of the highest salaries of any coach in either the Atlantic Coast Conference or the Southern Conference."

The statement added, "Coach Jones has not yet informed the university whether he desires to enter into a new contract as head football coach."

Jones left little doubt Thursday night what his answer would be—when he was ready to give it.

"I've got a number of offers. I might even get out of football," said Jones, who has compiled a 44-38 over-all record since coming to Richmond. His teams have won two conference championships, shared another and finished second two other seasons.

When he came to Richmond in 1966 from an assistant's job at Mississippi State, the Spiders at the time had lost 14 straight games—the longest losing streak any major college in the nation. It reached 19 before Richmond beat Davidson 23-17.

After that first year, Jones had two losing seasons over-all but was 36-13 in conference competition. He was named conference coach of the year three times and broke even in two Tangerine Bowl appearances, beating Ohio U. 49-42 and losing to Toledo 28-3.

Jones obviously was as angered by the handling of the announcement as by its contents.

He said he had been "double-crossed" and added he thought the statement had been withdrawn so changes could be made in the wording, only to find it had been released the next day without his knowledge.

Palmer Among Citrus Leaders

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Arnold Palmer had to reach back 18 years in his memory to find the spur that kept him going after a triple bogey eight on the first hole of the first round of the $150,000 Citrus Open Golf Tournament.

"I decided I was either gonna play like hell or get up and get out," said Palmer, who quickly put eight "3's" on his card, fashioned a four-under-par 68 and pulled to within one shot of the lead Thursday.

The lead was shared by Jack Ewing, who had one of the three holes-in-one recorded on the mild, cloudy day, Jerry Heard and Richard Crawford. They matched 67s, five under par on the 6,292-yard Rio Pinar Country Club course.

Palmer, a 44-year-old great who is seeking his first victory in more than a year, once was tied for the top spot before settling back into a tie with Jim Colbert, Andy North and Leonard Thompson, winner of the Jackie Gleason tournament last Sunday.

Australian Bruce Crampton had a 69 while Lee Trevino and defending champion Buddy Alin matched 71s.

Jack Nicklaus, Tom Weiskopf and Johnny Miller are not competing.

"I was upset—very much—to say the least," Palmer said when he went to the second tee three over par for the tournament.

"I had to think of something just to keep going."
"I remembered the Eastern Open in Baltimore some years ago (1956). I hit the first ball off the first tee out of bounds and I was ready to quit."

"I was playing with Doug Ford. He said, 'Don't pick it up. You can spot 'em two strokes.'"

"At one point in the fourth round I led by 12 strokes. I won the tournament."

With that in mind, he made a scrambling par on the second hole, played the next 13 holes eight under par and took a share of the lead, then bogeyed the 16th when he missed the green.

He needed only 26 putts and dropped two from about 25 feet. "It's easily the best putting round I've had in a long time," he said.

Heard missed only one green and didn't have a bogey in his solid effort, while Crawford relied on some spectacular putting—he holed two from 30 feet, two more from 20 and another from 15—in taking his share of the lead.

Saturday Is End, Start Of New Era

By GORDON BEARD
AP Sports Writer
COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Tom McMillen-Elmore's tenure as coach of Maryland basketball ends Saturday, but Coach Lefty Driesell views it as merely the end of the beginning for Maryland basketball.

"They helped us recruit other players we have here, and hopefully have gotten a winning tradition started at Maryland," Driesell said of Tom McMillen and Len Elmore.

The two seniors, plus Rich Porac and Jap Trimble, take the court against Virginia Saturday for their final home game, with McMillen as Maryland's all-time scoring leader and Elmore as the Terps' best rebounder ever.

Maryland achieved national ranking during the past three seasons, winning 20 or more games each year, and are currently No. 5 in the nation prior to next week's Atlantic Coast Conference which determines the league's NCAA playoff representative.

"These players could have gone to UCLA, North Carolina, Marquette, or other schools with winning traditions," Driesell said, "and it would have been easier for them physically and mentally."

"I'm not saying we're the best," said Elmore, a 6-foot-9 center from Springfield Gardens, N.Y. "But we at least started something, and I'll always get satisfaction out of being a sort of pioneer."

"I don't know if I go along with Lennie's 'Daniel Boone' idea," McMillen cracked, "but I wouldn't go to any other school, or I wouldn't have gone to any other school."

The reference by McMillen, a 6-11 forward from Mansfield, Pa., was to the controversy which followed his change of mind after originally announcing his intention to attend North Carolina.

Elmore said recruiters from other schools, trying to steer him away from Maryland, warned that he couldn't be a star on the same team with McMillen.

"But I think we've complemented each other very well," Elmore said. "We each had a job to do, and we went at it."

McMillen, who has been accepted as a Rhodes Scholar, tops Maryland's scoring list with 1,723 points and is third in rebounding with 820. Elmore ranks No. 1 with 999 rebounds and is 11th in scoring with 954 points.

"The real secret," McMillen said, "is that Lennie convinced me at a Christmas tournament to come to Maryland, and Porac was my roommate at a postseason game during my high school year. I think that was conveniently arranged."

Driesell said Maryland is recruiting heavily for big men to replace McMillen and Elmore, and claimed: "We're right in there for some of the best in the country."

"We think four or five we have in mind could step right in and make us a contender, and if we don't get at least one we ought to kick ourselves in the rear end because we have a super selling point in that we have the openings."

At a farewell news conference for the seniors Thursday, Athletic Director Jim Kehoe praised the seniors for "virtually revolutionizing basketball in this area."

"I'm proud of everything you've done," Driesell said. "Now, just get that national championship."

Rozelle Will Not Miss Some Power

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer
MIAMI BEACH (AP)—Pete Rozelle says he won't be overly concerned if he loses a bit of his absolute authority as Commissioner of the National Football League in the upcoming players' contract talks.

Rozelle's old 10-year contract, running through 1978, was torn up by the league's 26 club owners and a new 10-year pact, good through 1982, was substituted with a salary which reportedly rose from $150,000 to $200,000 a year.

The implication was clear: the owners are very happy with their powerful commissioner and won't mind if the NFL Players Association makes note of that fact when negotiations begin March 16 in Washington.

But on Thursday, as the owners' four-day meetings ground to a halt, Rozelle was asked if the owners, after giving him the new contract and additional money, might be willing, if necessary, to deal away a bit of his power instead of their own money to the players to avoid a strike.

The players will reportedly lean heavily on the so-called freedom issues. One is what has become known as the "Rozelle Rule," whereby a team which signs a player who has played out his option must adequately compensate the man's former team.

The players say the rule inhibits their movement. It's expected the players, many of whom feel Rozelle is too much of an "owners' man," will demand that he be replaced by an outside arbiter in non-injury grievances.

Rozelle wouldn't say whether he believed the owners would permit the players to chip away at his power, but he insisted: "I don't have an ego thing about authority or power. I don't like the word authority. I prefer to call it responsibility. If changes are made . . . I'll work within the framework. I'm only concerned about what might hurt the sport."

And a strike, he said, would definitely hurt it. Four years ago, during the last contract talks, there was a brief strike—the players called it a lock-out by the owners—which wiped out the first few weeks of training camp, although the exhibition and regular-season games weren't affected.

The major results of the meetings here were to assure New Orleans that it still has next January's Super Bowl IX, whether it's played in the hopefully-completed Louisiana Superdome or in Tulane Stadium, and to tell Honolulu, Memphis, Seattle, Phoenix and Tampa, Fla., that they're the only remaining candidates for expansion franchises and that two or perhaps four of them might be invited into the league for the 1975 season by the end of April.

Semi-Finals Are Tonight

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—Johnson C. Smith goes against Virginia State in tonight's first semifinals game of the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Conference basketball tournament and the nightcap sends Norfolk State against Virginia Union.

J. C. Smith, top seeded in the league's South division, slipped past Hampton Institute, 91-90, and Virginia Union survived in overtime to beat Winston-Salem State, 85-81, in first round games Thursday.

In other first round action, Norfolk State defeated Shaw, 86-61, while Virginia State, getting a 32-point effort by Linwood Johnson, beat Fayetteville State, 91-77.

Corvan Lewis scored 26 points, six in the overtime, as he led Virginia Union to its victory. The regulation game ended with a 71-tie. Winston-Salem State was led by Harold Kitt with 24 points.

Robert Lewis led J. C. Smith with 20 points, while Gerald Britt had 24 in Hampton Institute's losing effort.

Melvin Burns was high for Norfolk State with 19 points and Shaw got 22 points from Andrew Richardson.

Fayetteville State, the defending champion, was led by Robert Wilson with 18 points.

State In Lead

DURHAM, N. C. (AP)—Two records were set in opening events of the Atlantic Coast Conference swimming meet as North Carolina State, seeking its fourth straight title, opened a wide lead.

Bob Hassett of Maryland set a new mark in the 200-yard individual medley and Mike deGruy, N. C. State diver, broke his own mark set earlier in the year in the one-meter event.

Cards On Top In Mo. Valley

By KEN RAPPOPORT

After running over the St. Louis Billikens, the Louisville Cardinals are sitting in the driver's seat in the Missouri Valley Conference basketball race.

"I'm glad I'm in our shoes instead of theirs," says Louisville Coach Denny Crum, talking about Saturday's meeting with Bradley for the MVC title.

The Cardinals took a one-game lead over Bradley after beating St. Louis 95-85 Thursday night behind a powerhouse performance by Wesley Cox.

That set up a dramatic meeting between the front-runners at Peoria, Ill.

St. Louis Coach Bob Polk is picking Louisville.

"I think the Cardinals will win on Saturday and they will be a fine representative of the MVC in the NCAA playoffs," he said.

Polk is especially impressed with Cox, the Louisville freshman who killed his team with 25 points and 11 rebounds.

In another game involving basketball royalty, 12th-ranked Providence whipped Canisius 97-69. In the first round of the Southern Conference playoffs, Davidson beat The Citadel 82-69 and William & Mary tripped East Carolina 75-67 in double overtime.

Marvin Barnes, the nation's leading rebounder, hauled down 21 rebounds and scored 26 points to pace Providence over Canisius. Larry Fogle, the nation's leading scorer, couldn't start for Canisius because of an ankle injury.

Led by Greg Dunn and Larry Horowitz, Davidson broke away from The Citadel in the last seven minutes. Ron Satterthwaite and Mike Arizin combined for 14 points in the second overtime to help William & Mary knock East Carolina out of the Southern Conference playoffs.

Immanuel Almost Suffers Upset

Immanuel and Presbyterian remained alive in the Church league tournament with wins last night but near upset almost cost Immanuel a win.

St. James playing an eager ball game, inched out to a 28-26 halftime lead over Immanuel but Immanuel rallied its forces in the second half to make up the difference and squeek past, 53-52.

Cliff McNeil led Immanuel with 19, L. G. Catlett had 15 and Dick Evans had 10. Mike Board had 16 for St. James while Si Seymore added 15.

Presbyterian bombed Black Jack, 56-45. The first half was close as Presbyterian managed to take a slim 28-26 lead. Presbyterian added some room in the second half to get the win. The winners were led by Larry Graham with 25 and Jack Wall with 13. Tal Adams had 15 for Black Jack while Phil Page had 12.

The tournament continues next Tuesday.

Senate Puts Off Vote On Pay Hike To Monday

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate, torn by jitters over raising the pay of congressmen and other high government officials, has put off any votes until Monday.

And, under a complex agreement reached Thursday night, it may take most of next week before the Senate decides whether to kill the salary budgeted by President Nixon or to accept a compromise.

The agreement sets no time for a final vote and, because of a threatened filibuster by Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, to prevent action blocking the pay boosts, a vote was scheduled for Wednesday on cutting off debate.

The first compromise to be approved would reduce the pay of Sen. Ram Fong, R-Hawaii, would defer the start of the increases until Jan. 1, 1975, but would not reduce the over-all amount.

Next in line for a vote is a proposal of Sen. Gale McGee, D-Wyo., for a 5.5 per cent increase this year.

Both of those votes are set for Monday, after which the Senate is to take up a resolution to kill the pay increases.

This proposal is sponsored by Sens. Frank Church, D-Idaho, and Peter Dominick, R-Colo., but the agreement sets no time for voting on it.

Under a 1967 law, the raises Nixon budgeted will go into effect automatically unless disapproved or modified by either the Senate or the House.

March 6 has been regarded as the deadline for action by Congress, but McGee, chairman of the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee, said further study of the law has now led to a presumption that the deadline is March 9.

The President scaled down slightly and spread over three years an immediate 25 per cent increase recommended by a special salary commission he was required by the 1967 law to appoint.

The raises, at the rate of 7.5 per cent a year for three years, would be the first since 1969 for congressmen, federal judges and top executive officials.

If allowed to take effect, the $42,500 salaries of senators and House members would go up to $45,700 this year, $49,200 next year, and $52,800 in 1976.

Earlier this week the Senate Post Office and Civil Service Committee voted to permit all the increases except those for congressmen.

The corresponding Thursday in the House reacted Thursday by approving a resolution to kill all the pay raises if the Senate should vote just to block an increase in congressional salaries.

By RICK SCOTT
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — There is some encouraging energy news for North Carolina motorists and farmers today.

A state energy official says there will be more gasoline this month for North Carolina. And, an official of the U.S. Department of Agriculture predicts that tobacco farmers will make it through the fuel crunch this year.

On this first day of March, new monthly gasoline allocations began arriving at service stations throughout the state. And there was at least some carryover from February's 13.78 million gallon emergency allocation which was late in reaching retailers.

Gen. John Tolson III, chairman of the Governor's Energy Crisis Study Commission, said North Carolina's gasoline allocation for March is expected to be about 19 per cent above February's.

Smith made the prediction Thursday at a Raleigh news conference for news media farm directors.

"Farmers probably will face some tight situations," he said. "However, tobacco and other agricultural commodities have been assured priority fuel allocations for their needs."

Smith said the priority comes from the highest levels of the federal government.

Smith was scheduled to speak today in Pinehurst at the mid-winter meeting of the Tobacco Association of the United States Board of Governors.

North Carolina's gasoline allocation for March represents approximately 82 or 83 per cent of the state's supply of gasoline in March, 1972, Tolson said.

"We have put on a big case that our allocation was too short in February," he said. "But I don't know if the big machine can act that quickly" to relieve long lines at gasoline pumps.

Tolson said he also expects North Carolina's gasoline supply to increase in April.

In gasoline shortage developments around the state Thursday:

—In Raleigh, Gov. Jim Holshouser said the state's Energy Office will begin free distribution to service stations next of green flags, which the stations hopefully will fly when they are pumping gasoline.

A state Senate subcommittee reported without prejudice legislation that would give Govern-nor Holshouser emergency powers for one year to deal with the energy crisis. The full Senate State Government Committee accepted the report but took no action on it.

—In Asheville, Buncombe County service station dealers met and formed a committee to take action to relieve long lines at the gasoline pumps. About half of the county's 160 service stations were represented.

The dealers decided to ask county residents not to stop for gasoline unless they need a minimum of $3 worth. They threatened a shutdown if they do not get cooperation from customers and extra allocations from federal energy officials.

—In Kings Mountain, residents say there was enough gasoline until words of the supply spread to nearby towns. Then, out-of-towners swarmed over local service stations "like a board of locusts when they heard there was a crop here to devour."

"It was really pathetic," said John Cheshire, a fuel distributor. Gasoline supplies were "naturally depleted," he added, "and right now I'm very irritated."

—In Lexington, Harold E. Beaver found that waiting in a gasoline line can be a nauseating experience. The self-employed woodcutter said he was sitting in a service station when he was overcome by exhaust fumes from a nearby car.

White Collar Layoffs, Too

DETROIT (AP) — The massive layoffs in the auto industry, which have left 85,000 hourly workers jobless, also have claimed the jobs of 2,050 white collar employees.

The white collar layoffs account for less than one per cent of the industry's salaried work force. But the casualty rate could go up much higher if the present auto sales slump doesn't improve soon.

Spokesmen for the Big Three auto makers aren't saying how many more salaried employees may be let go. They concede, however, more layoffs are in the offing before spring.

GM presently has 60,000 hourly workers on indefinite layoff, Chrysler has about 12,000 out and Ford 13,000.

The white collar layoffs — which affect primarily plant foremen, clerical workers and administrative assistants, but not company executives — represent only one aspect of the auto makers' efforts to trim their salaried work force.

Another 1,800 employees at GM, most of them plant foremen, have been transferred back to hourly-wage jobs. All three auto makers say they are cutting back on jobs through attrition — by not replacing employees who voluntarily leave the firms.

Peter J. Sherry, Ford's vice president for personnel, said the company has laid off 600 nonexecutive salaried employees since Jan. 1, and he said more layoffs could be expected. The company has 65,000 salaried employees.

He said the layoffs are part of a program, including attrition and cutbacks in overtime, to reduce salaried personnel costs.

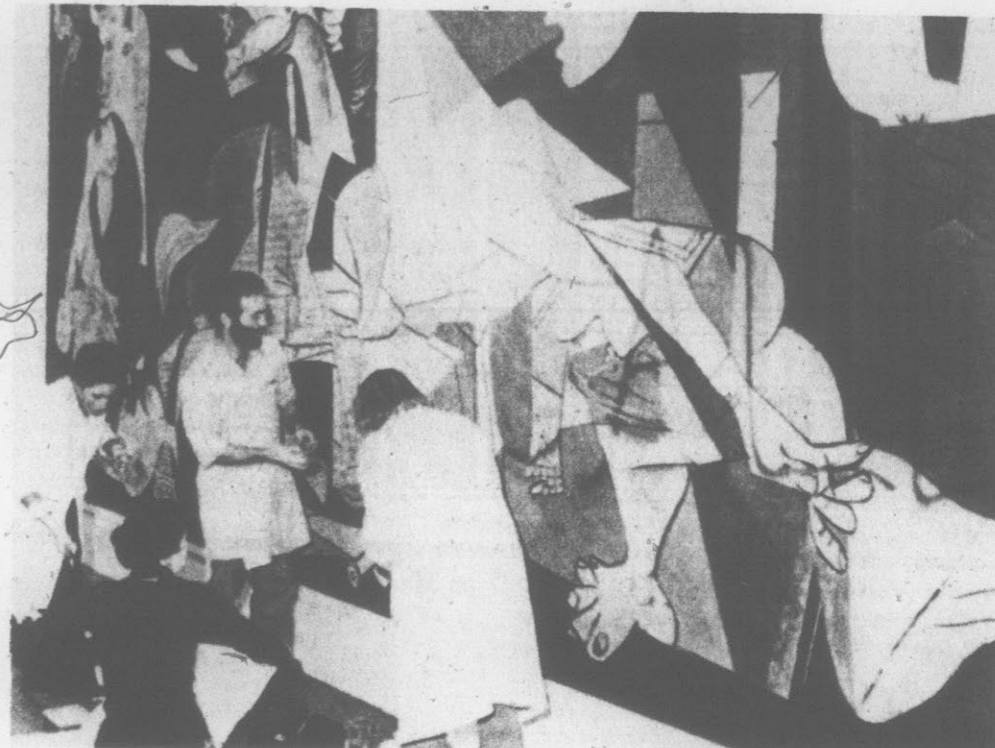

At Chrysler, where 650 of 41,000 white collar workers have been let go since Dec. 1, most efforts to reduce white collar jobs have been based on attrition, according to Board Chairman Lynn A. Townsend.

Freely Talk Drug Abuse

Several members of the Student-to-Student Drug Abuse Project from the School of Pharmacy at the University of North Carolina held conferences with students of Rose High School last week.

This was a "straight from the shoulder" presentation giving the high school students an opportunity to freely discuss the drug abuse situation.

More than 100 pharmacy students will take part in the group discussions this year. These students are all volunteers and receive only minimal travel expenses for their participation in the program.

The program is supported by a grant from the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and the Z. Smith Reynolds Foundation. The program is available at no cost to North Carolina Schools.

For additional information, interested persons may contact Steve Moore at the School of Pharmacy in Chapel Hill.

New higher interest rate on U.S. Savings Bonds.

Now U.S. Savings Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity.

Here's how it works: The higher interest rate applies to all new Bonds purchased since December 1, 1973, raising their rate from 5½% to 6% when held to maturity. And the maturity period on Series E Bonds is shorter, too. Now E Bonds mature in 5 years, with a first-year rate of 4½%.

Series H Bonds, with a 10-year maturity, will earn 5% the first year; 5.8% for the next four years; and 6½% for the last five years. This gives you an average 6% yield over the 10-year period.

It works for Bonds you now hold, too. There's no reason to redeem your older Bonds to buy new ones.

Their yield has improved, too.

All outstanding E Bonds will receive a ½% increase in yield for each semiannual interest period beginning on or after December 1, 1973, payable upon redemption. This also applies to any Freedom Shares you may still hold.

All outstanding H Bonds will receive a ½% yield increase for each semiannual interest period beginning on or after December 1, 1973. This is payable in the form of increased semiannual interest payments.

It all works to your advantage. Now, more than ever, it makes sense to buy higher-paying U.S. Savings Bonds and hold them to maturity or beyond.

FOOD PRICES CONTINUE CLIMB— on March 1 of 1973 with prices on Feb. 1, 1974. (AP Wirephoto Chart)
Chart compares prices of eggs, butter and sugar in supermarkets of 13 cities

By LOUISE COOK
Associated Press Writer

Shoppers with a sweet tooth were out of luck during February as spiraling sugar prices helped push the family grocery bill to a level 16 per cent higher than a year earlier, an Associated Press marketbasket survey shows.

Sugar went up in every one of the 13 cities checked in the survey, rising an average of 14 per cent. Eggs went down in every city, but the decreases were more than offset by the boost in sugar prices.

The Associated Press checked the price of 15 food and non-food items in 13 cities on March 1, 1973 and has rechecked at the beginning of each succeeding month.

The latest survey showed the total marketbasket up in every city checked over the 12-month period, with increases ranging from 8 per cent in Los Angeles to 22 per cent in Philadelphia.

Rising wholesale costs were blamed for the increases in sugar prices. The boosts also were expected to push up the price of everything that contains sugar — and that includes everything from bread to soft drinks to processed meats.

An Albuquerque, N.M., food broker said one reason for the higher prices was that beet sugar farmers cut back production in recent years because other crops were more profitable.

able. Now prices are going up again to encourage farmers to grow sugar beets as a cash crop, he said.

Bill Hunter of the Sugar Cane League in Florida — which produces 7 per cent of the nation's raw sugar — said there's a growing demand for sugar. He said that in 1970-71, U.S. sugar consumption was about 100 pounds per person. Now, he said, it's 120 pounds.

The retail sugar price increases during February ranged from 2 per cent in Detroit where a five-pound bag of granulated sugar went from 87 to 89 cents during February to 33 per cent in Salt Lake City, Utah, where the price went from 83 cents to $1.10. Over the entire year, sugar prices rose an average of 36 per cent. The same sugar that cost about 70 cents in most cities on March 1, 1973, was selling for $1 or more on March 1, 1974.

The AP marketbasket rose in nine cities during February, increasing an average of 3 per cent. The total bill was down in four cities — Los Angeles, Miami, Albuquerque and Detroit — decreasing an average of just under 2 per cent.

A look at the total number of items rising and falling in price is equally depressing.

From February to March, 33.8 per cent of the total number of items checked went up in price, 19 per cent went down and 39.5 per cent were unchanged. The remaining 7.7 per cent were unavailable on one of the check dates.

Over the entire year, a whopping 76 per cent of the items checked went up in price; 8 per cent went down; 8 per cent were unchanged; and 8 per cent were in the not available category.

Most of the increases came in the food items. Meat prices wound up way above last year's already high levels. Chopped chuck was higher this March 1 than last March 1 in 11 cities; pork chops were more expensive in all 13; all-beef frankfurters cost more in 10 cities.

Meat industry spokesmen say prices will remain high — and supplies tight — during the first half of the year. They say ranchers won't produce more until they're assured of higher profits.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has predicted that food prices over-all may rise as much as 16 per cent this year. Last year, the government said, food prices generally rose about 20 per cent.

The cities in the AP survey are: Albuquerque, Atlanta, Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, Providence, R.I., Salt Lake City and Seattle.

The items covered in the survey are: chopped chuck, center cut pork chops, frozen orange juice, coffee, paper towels, eggs, butter, detergent, fabric softener, peanut butter, tomato sauce, chocolate chip cookies, milk, all-beef franks and granulated sugar.

New Crafts Course Set

Paper pottery, a craft that is new and exciting art form for creating pottery-like objects, will be offered at the Elm Street Recreation Center beginning Tuesday.

Classes will begin Tuesday at 9:30 a.m. The schedule is as follows: Tuesday, 9:30 a.m.-11:30 a.m.; 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m.; and 7:30 p.m. to 10 p.m.; Classes will be held Wednesday from 2 p.m. to 5 p.m.

Materials will be furnished by the Recreation Center but participants will pay for the supplies they use.

The class is open to interested persons of all ages.

Lucille Surrrell is the instructor.

Participants may work on such objects as treasure chests, oriental bases, canisters, candleholders, picture frames, piggy banks, lamps, mushrooms, cookie jars, ice buckets, ash trays, flower containers, trivets and bowls.

1974 Crop Signups Permitted By Mail

Farmers who want to sign up for the 1974 wheat, feed grain or cotton programs will be able to do it by mail this year, according to Stacy J. Evans, Pitt County executive director for the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

"In the past, farmers had to go to the county ASCS office to sign up in person, sometimes facing long lines. Bad weather often prevented farmers from getting to the county office and consequently, signup sometimes had to be extended," Evans said.

"Another new feature this year is that signup will be combined with certification. The procedure is very simple. Farmers wishing to participate in a program should call, write, or visit the county office as soon as possible after planting, for signup and certification. After filling out and signing the forms, the farmer leaves them at the county office or mails them in as he prefers," Evans explained.

Participation in the three commodity programs has been simplified too. There are no set-aside requirements, no restrictions on planting for the 1974 crop, and no conserving base requirements through the next four crop years, the duration of the Agriculture and Consumer Protection Act of 1973.

This means that under the 1974 program, farmers will be able to plant as many acres as they want of any crop except tobacco, peanuts and extra long staple (ELS) cotton, which are still under marketing quotas.

Farmers who sign up will be eligible for program payments should payments be required. Under the 1973 Act farmers are guaranteed a "target price."

For corn it is $1.38 a bushel, for wheat, $2.05 a bushel, and .38 cents a pound for cotton. If the average price for these commodities falls below the target price, the producer receives the difference between the target price and the five-month average price received by all farmers for wheat and feed grains and 12-month average price for cotton.

Bicycle-Owners Urged To Register Vehicles

Police Chief Glenn Cannon today urged bicycle owners to have their vehicles licensed in accordance with the Greenville City Code.

According to the police official, the city code requires all bicycles owned and operated within the city to have a current registration sticker—just as cars are required to have current vehicle registration plates.

He said violation of the ordinance constitutes a misdemeanor and can result in court action.

According to Cannon, 2,217 bicycles were licensed last year by the Police Department.

So far this year, he said, only

1,818 bicycles have been registered.

Cannon emphasized that the bicycle registration program is not a money-making program, but instead a program designed to reduce the number of thefts of the two-wheeled vehicles and make it possible for lost and stolen bicycles to be returned to their rightful owners.

Last year, according to the chief, 235 bicycles were reported stolen. Of the 135 bicycles recovered by officers (including stolen bicycles recovered and lost bicycles found) 75 were returned to their rightful owners. The other 60 were sold at auction because their owners could not be identified, he said.

Cannon said that by registering bicycles with the Police Department, owners increase their chances of having bicycles stolen or lost returned to them because they can be properly identified.

Bicycle licenses may be secured from the Police Department's Records and Identification Division for 50 cents—to help defray the cost of the licensing program.

The owner's name, address, age, name of bicycle, the serial number, size and color are needed to license the bicycle.

Also requested for registration is the brand name of the seat, brakes and a description of other equipment on the bicycle.

Soil Management Said A Key To Pest Control

Nematodes and other soil-borne pests can be controlled to a great extent by proper soil management, according to Dr. Henry E. Duncan, extension plant pathologist.

Proper soil management will also enhance the effectiveness of a nematicide treatment. Duncan made the following suggestions:

- rotate the garden site with small grains and grasses;
- in the fall of the year or earlier, remove the crop along with the roots, and plow;
- seed the site with small grain;
- in the early spring plow it several times; and,
- apply the nematicide after the soil temperature at a depth of four inches is over 55 degrees and the soil moisture is adequate for seed germination.

Nemagon or Fumazone (DBCP) can be used for beans (snap), broccoli, Brussel sprouts, cabbage, cantaloupe, carrots, cauliflower, celery, cucumbers, egg plant, endive, lettuce, muskmelons, okra, peppers (not bell pepper), radishes, summer squash, tomatoes, turnips, and watermelons.

This product is available as a granular material and liquid concentrate and is packaged in small quantities suitable for homeowners.

No waiting period is required after treating the soil before planting see. Use the amount of material specified on the label.

"DD" or Vidden-D is more difficult to use but is extremely effective," explained Edwin Yancey, Pitt County extension chairman. "Two to three weeks waiting period is needed after application before planting. Make furrows 12 inches apart and six to eight inches deep. Dribble the fumigant in the bottom of the furrow at the rate of one pint per 150 to 175 linear feet. A jar with a tight lid with two ten-penny nail holes punched in opposite sides of the cap make a suitable applicator. The furrows should be covered with soil and packed."

For sweetpotatoes only, the soil can be treated with Mocap 10C, a product of the Mobil Chemical Company. It is sprinkled on the soil at the rate of 2.5-3.3 pounds per 1,000 feet of row, and tilled in the soil four to eight inches deep.

Gardeners are cautioned to follow all directions on the label and to discard used containers in a safe manner, and store all pesticides out of reach of children.

For a copy of the "Garden Manual" interested persons may write to the local extension office, P.O. Box 1427, Greenville, N.C., or call 758-1196.

'Streak' At Chapel Hill

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — About 200 male students at the University of North Carolina here ran naked across campus early Thursday as a bugle sounded "Charge."

The exhibition was the latest instance of a national collegiate fad called "streaking."

Streakers run nude in public places, presumably for the same reasons earlier college generations swallowed live goldfish and crowded into telephone booths.

The youths dashed from a dormitory about 12:45 a.m. and ran through the campus library and through a social science hall where campus election ballots were being counted, witnesses said.

The event, seen by more than 1,000 men and women students, was proclaimed a national record for the number of streakers in a single group, surpassing the 138 students who dashed across the campus of Western Carolina University at Cullowee last Feb. 21.

Most of the streakers wore gym shoes, witnesses said, and some also wore ties and headgear. The temperatures was in the low 40s at the time.

Charge Driver In Collision

Marcia Ann Hodge of 237 Churchill Dr. was charged yesterday with failing to reduce her speed enough to avoid an accident following investigation of a 7:40 p.m. collision on Charles Street 150 feet South of the Berkshire Road intersection.

Officers said the Hodge car collided with a vehicle driven by Dorothy Tripp Nichols of Route 1, Greenville, causing an estimated $300 damage to the Nichols vehicle and about $700 damage to the Hodge car.

No injuries were reported.

REFUNDS GREENSBORO (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service says North Carolina firms have refunded $1.2 million in excess charges since Phase IV economic controls went into effect last August. The refunds followed investigation by IRS agents.

The Worry Clinic Easter Sunday 'Diet Deadline'

Lola would have rated a blue ribbon on her culinary art. But she failed in "boudoir cheesecake!" So her husband's affection was waning fast. Then she recruited 13 other plump wives, and set a "Dieting Deadline" for Easter Sunday. Notice what happened!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE Z-565: Lola G., aged 33, is the plump wife whose husband was losing his ardor for her. "Dr. Crane," she exulted, "you can see I am regaining my slender bridal figure!"

"And my husband's affection for me has been restored, thus serving as a tonic to my ego, too." "Since a number of other wives at our church were also worried about their increasing poundage and reduced attention from their husbands, we organized a 'Dieting Deadline.' There were 14 of us "Waddling Walrus" wives.

"In that first 10 days on your dehydration diet, we shed a total of 144 pounds. Then we shifted to the less drastic plan where we were entitled to 1,200 calories per day, with no fluid restrictions.

"On that schedule, we averaged about 1 1/2 pounds weight loss per week, so the next 8 weeks we had slimmed down about 12 pounds apiece.

"By Easter Sunday, we 14 women had actually lost a total of 312 pounds. Wasn't that marvelous?"

"Our pastor's wife had been one of the 14 and we agreed to donate $2.50 per pound to the church on Easter for each pound we had lost. "It was a happy surprise to our clergyman when he saw his sylphlike wife in her new Easter finery.

"And also realized that the church budget had gained an additional $780. "And that $780 didn't make us pinch our household budgets a penny, for we save more than that amount on our grocery bills by dieting."

Serve Cheesecake
These 14 church women not only saved more than $780 on dining room viands. But they may have preserved their marriages, too, for Cupid usually shuns fat women.

By regaining more nearly their bridal weight, these wives thus fitted more excitingly into their husbands' wish for boudoir cheesecake!

Wives, it isn't your dining room roast beef and other savory victuals that prevent divorce!

No; it's your boudoir cheesecake!

For such cheesecake is what designing sirens offer your husbands to wean them away from you kitchen slaves.

Why, the paramours may not even be able to perk coffee or fry eggs!

Yet you grieving wives, whose husbands are straying, may rate the blue ribbons at County Fairs for your culinary art.

Wake up, therefore, and learn why your marriages go sour! Divorce starts in the bedroom; not the dining room!

And your mates have much more hunger for erotic calories than you do.

Just because you are content with a mild indulgence in eroticism, doesn't mean that your mate is equally satisfied.

For your feminine hunger for dining room calories is also much less than is your husband's.

You wives universally realize that fact, so you urge him to take second helpings of your culinary art.

But boudoir cheesecake is what sirens employ to break up your happy homes.

Get wise, therefore, and insure your marriage by sending for my booklet "How to Lose 10 Pounds in 10 Days," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents. It will show you one of the main ingredients in recipe for boudoir cheesecake!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

ACUPUNCTURE NEEDED
TORONTO (AP) — Acupuncture should be a priority item in Canadian medical research, Dr. Gustave Gingras, president of the Canadian Medical Association, said today. The Montreal physician said major research and controlled clinical trials should be conducted with this Chinese method of anesthetizing patients by manipulating needles in various nerves.

Birth Rate Sees Decline

NEW YORK (UPI) — Two years experience with New York state's liberalized abortion law indicates legalized abortion has contributed to a decline in the birth rate in the United States, according to the Planned Parenthood Federation of America, Inc.

Citing figures for New York City, the Federation notes that, taking into account changes in the age distribution of the population, births in New York City declined between 1970 and 1972 by 25 per cent, or 37,800. "Of these," according to the Federation, "about one-half (between 17,000 and 21,000 avoided births) were directly attributable to impact of the state's liberalization of the abortion law in 1970."

For the United States as a whole, 6 per cent decline in the birth rate was reported for 1970-71 against an 11.7 per cent decline in California and 12 per cent in New York state. "While a number of forces determine fertility," the Federation noted, "the far steeper drops in New York and California after reform of state abortion laws compared with over-all U.S. decline suggest that legal abortion was a factor."

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MARCH 2, 1974

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The unique and progressive are excellent today. In p.m., avoid whatever has to do with the past, or you might feel depressed or limited.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) An associate has fine ideas that may appear peculiar to you, but they actually help you to greater success. An interesting day for you.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make your surroundings more attractive and suitable to your own personality. Take up some new hobby. Build health with proper treatments.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Some modernization is necessary in your present operations now. Steer clear of a friend who is depressing. Forget talking about past errors.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Improve home conditions and stop feeling sorry for yourself. Buy whatever makes the home more comfortable, charming.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Make appointments to meet with those who can help you advance. Forget talking about past errors, or you come out the loser.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Monetary affairs can be handled with dispatch now. Forget a group that has been disappointing before. Seize an opportunity to make more money in future.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Do those things that you really enjoy and be with congenials for a good time. Forget temporarily the projects you don't understand.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You can get into some new plan that really interests you now. Run away from any chores that depress you today. Avoid trouble.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Get into the social group activity that really pleases you. If help is needed, seek out a friend who has right information.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Find out just what co-workers want from you and do it. A higher-up understands your finest talents and helps you commercialize on them.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Enjoy yourself with persons who mean a great deal to you. You have new plans, but they would not work out to your satisfaction. Forget them.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Handle duties cleverly. Kin are in a bad mood so don't make matters worse by criticizing. Avoid quarrels and be of help instead.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will do things as the spirit moves him or her, and this seems to work out much better than careful planning which is quite apt to mean more changes later. Cooperating with unusual personalities will bring greater success than would otherwise be the case. There is a fine ability to find the right solution to difficult problems that vex others.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Carroll Righter's Individual Forecast for your sign for March is now ready. For your copy send your birthdate and $1 to Carroll Righter Forecast (name of newspaper), Box 629, Hollywood, Calif. 90028.

The holdup play is part of the arsenal of every declarer. Today's hand is an example of when that weapon should not be employed!

The auction was simple but effective. With an opening bid facing an opening bid, and no particular distributional assets, a contract of three no trump was reached after South selected the descriptive rebid of one no trump.

West led the five of hearts, and let us see what would happen if declarer decides to hold up. East would win the jack with the king and return a heart, knocking out the ace. When West gets in with the queen of diamonds, he can cash three more heart tricks for down one. Unfortunately for the defense, declarer went up with the dummy's ace of hearts, and the game was assured. If East unlocked the king, South's nine of hearts would become a stopper. Therefore, East played low. But now when declarer lost the diamond finesse to West, the heart return was won by East and there was no quick way to get back to West to cash the hearts. Declarer won the club return and took his nine tricks in the form of four diamonds, three spades and the ace of hearts and clubs.

How did declarer know to take dummy's ace of hearts at trick one? If the diamond queen were with East, declarer would always come to nine tricks, so he presumed that West held that card. His efforts were bent on preventing the defenders from defeating him with heart tricks.

If the hearts were 4-3, the defenders could never get more than three heart tricks and the queen of diamonds. What if the hearts were 5-2? The only dangerous holding would be if West started with five hearts headed by K-Q-10. But in that case, he would probably have led the king. All signs pointed to East holding one of those three cards, and whichever it was, the defenders would be unable to run the suit if declarer wins the first trick with the ace.
