Fear Less Gas In March

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Despite an apparent easing of the gasoline shortage in the Carolinas, the Carolina Motor Club warns that long lines will return by mid-month unless the fuel allocations are increased.

"We still consider the situation in the Carolinas very critical," said Ray Nash, director of service. "It's not going to improve in March. And April will be even worse."

Nash said a check of stations in the Carolinas indicated that by the weekend many had still not received either their March allocation or the special allotments earmarked for both states by the Federal Energy Office last month.

He said many station operators had told him that they expect to receive less gasoline in March than they did in February.

However, Gen. John Tolson III, chairman of the Governor's Energy Crisis Study Commission, said North Carolina will get about 19 per cent more gasoline this month than in February.

Nash claimed, however, that many dealers are skeptical about allocation announcements.

"They know what they're allocated," he said, "but they're not sure they'll get the gas."

Nash urged motorists to use car pools and other conservation measures in order to cut their driving by 25 per cent of last year's total.

$2 Million Received For Hospital Project

It was a bright day for Pitt County Commissioners this morning.

The sun shown warm and bright, they met in their new and spacious meeting room—the law library on the second floor of the court house—and were presented a $2 million check from the Department of Health Education and Welfare for use toward construction of the new $15.8 million hospital here.

William Stanley, an HEW accountant from Rockville, Md., presented the loan check to the county after officials had completed signing $2 million worth of bonds late this morning.

Commissioners also accepted an $82,000 state grant and approved a budget spending the money for the Pitt County Community Health Department.

Roger Barnaby, director of the health agency told commissioners the $82,000 grant is the first step toward instituting a state-sponsored model health program in Pitt. He said the present grant allows for the hiring of staff members needed to support expanded operations within the health agency when the model program is scheduled to become effective July 1. "It will get the county in shape for the model health plan...a start-up program to get the personnel on board."

Next year, according to Barnaby, Pitt should receive $237,000 in state money to carry on the model program.

Commissioners this morning also approved advertising for bids for a scraper pan for use at the county sanitary landfill. Price of the piece of equipment is estimated at $30,000 to $40,000.

Wrecked DC10's Debris Being Combed For Clues

By ELIAS ANTAR
Associate Press Writer
PARIS (AP) — Police, firemen and official investigators combed through a wide forest area today seeking bits of wreckage from a Turkish Airlines DC10 jet that crashed with a loss of 346 lives, the biggest toll in civil aviation history.

Experts estimated that a careful search of the area covering several square miles might take a week. Only part of the black box with vital recordings of the plane's functioning has been found and top priority is being given to finding other pieces.

Personal effects of the passengers were being piled together. Bits of clothing caught in tree branches waved forlornly in the light wind.

The newspaper France-Soir said it had received two anonymous telephone calls saying that "this was done voluntarily. It was definitely an attack." The two calls seemed to come from the same man who claimed he was a member of the "Liberal Front," which he said was a political movement started outside France. There was no way of confirming his statements.

The American-built airliner crashed in the Ermenonville forest, 23 miles north of Paris, five minutes after it took from Orly Airport Sunday on a flight from Istanbul to London. Turkish Airlines said the plane was loaded to capacity with 334 passengers and 12 crew members.

There was no indication when the casualty list would be made public. But the airline's European manager said the names of 200 to 250 of the passengers indicated they were British or American.

The U. S. Embassy in London announced that among the Americans killed were the embassy's cultural attache, Dr. Wayne Wilcox, 41, of North Liberty, Ind., his wife and two of their four children.

Thirty-eight of the passengers were Japanese college graduates on a tour of Europe before joining firms in Japan. The Japanese travel agency that arranged their trip said they were sending 45 relatives to Paris to identify and claim the remains.

The weather was sunny, and no hint of trouble came from the plane. But "the fact that debris and bodies were found in a village more than 10 kilometers (6 miles) from the accident tends to prove that an explosion occurred in flight," said Aymar Achille-Fould, a top official of the French Transport Ministry.

Persons in the area of the crash said they heard an explosion, but they could not agree whether it occurred before or after the plane hit the ground.

Turkey's communications minister, Ferda Guley, said "considering the world situation," he did not rule out sabotage.

Part of the plane's flight recorder was found before dark Sunday.

No Mistrial

NEW YORK (AP) — U.S. District Court Judge Lee P. Gagliardi today denied a defense motion for a mistrial in the criminal conspiracy case of Former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and ex-Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans.

The judge made his decision known after a short session in a private conference room behind the courtroom.

Gagliardi recessed the trial abruptly last Friday to consider the effect of a passage in the opening statement of the federal prosecutor. The words had triggered an immediate objection from Stans' lawyer and a motion for mistrial.

Colleagues Urge Golda Meir Not Resign Post

By DAVID LANCASHIRE
Associated Press Writer
JERUSALEM (AP) — Premier Golda Meir delayed submission of her resignation today as a stream of political colleagues called at her home to urge her to remain at the head of the Israeli government.

Mrs. Meir telephoned President Ephraim Katzir early today and told him she would call on him this morning to accept her mandate to form a new Israeli government because of criticism of the new minority cabinet she had lined up.

But a night's sleep and the pleading of her associates in the Labor Alignment apparently cooled Mrs. Meir's anger.

A spokesman said she put off the visit to Katzir until late afternoon, and other aides said she was waiting to see if her associates could swing dissident members of the party behind her cabinet list.

Mrs. Meir announced her resignation at a meeting of Labor party executives Sunday night after some of her party's members in parliament criticized the new minority government she planned to present Tuesday.

"This is my final decision," said the 75-year-old grandmother as she stalked out of the party caucus.

Party leaders flocked to Mrs. Meir's Jerusalem home and pleaded until past midnight with her to continue at the head of the government. But Deputy Premier Yigal Allon reported she was "firm in her decision."

Mrs. Meir has led the Israeli government since 1969, and her decision to bow out plunged the country deeper into the political uncertainty that has beset it since Mrs. Meir's Labor Alignment lost ground in the Dec. 31 elections.

Subsequently, Defense Minister Moshe Dayan refused to join the new cabinet, and the National Religious Party refused to join the Labor Alignment in a new coalition, making it impossible for Mrs. Meir to form a majority in the Knesset, Israel's parliament.

In the shock of Mrs. Meir's surprise announcement, the other Labor leaders concentrated on trying to get her to reconsider and did nothing about picking someone else to try to form a government. Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir, Allon and Foreign Minister Abba Eban were considered the most likely to be tapped.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Meir and the cabinet with which she fought the October war and the Dec. 31 election remain in office as a caretaker regime.

Mrs. Meir's walkout came 48 hours after crucial talks with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger on arrangements for negotiations between Syria and Israel to separate their troops on the Golan Heights.

Political analysts said Mrs. Meir's move might not hamper progress toward a disengagement agreement since most leading Israeli politicians favor one. But they said the splits in the Labor Alignment, which is still Israel's largest political party, would weaken Israel's hand in further bargaining with the Arabs.

NATO Report

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger arrived in Brussels today to tell the North Atlantic alliance about his peacemaking efforts in the Middle East.

Officials accompanying him said he would steer clear of discussions with Common Market leaders on their plans for meeting with the Arab countries.

The Market countries have agreed to press for a conference with the Arabs on European-Middle East relations and have asked for a meeting with Kissinger to discuss their initiative.

Kissinger flew from Bonn, where he held talks with Chancellor Willy Brandt. Details of their discussions were not disclosed.

Highway Closed By Brush Fire

LILESVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A brush fire forced authorities to close a section of U.S. 74 in Anson County Sunday night after smoke settled over the highway.

A spokesman for the Wadesboro Police Department said the fire burned along a five mile stretch. Units from five communities fought the fire, which began about 6 p.m.

Sirica Pondering Grand Jury Data

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge is studying a sealed grand jury report on the Watergate cover-up and preparing to decide whether to give it to the House impeachment inquiry and also to make it public.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica could decide today what action to take on the 50-paragraph report said to detail the grand jury's findings on possible presidential involvement in the cover-up.

Meanwhile, two other Watergate grand juries were moving toward completion of their investigations.

Sources said indictments in the White House plumbers case could be returned as early as midweek.

Egil Krogh Jr., former director of the special investigations unit dubbed the plumbers, already has pleaded guilty to conspiring to violate the civil rights of Dr. Lewis Fielding, the Beverly Hills psychiatrist whose office was burglarized in 1971 in an effort to obtain information about Daniel Ellsberg. Krogh is serving a six-month prison sentence and is cooperating with the prosecutors.

Former presidential aide John D. Ehrlichman, who was Krogh's boss, rejected an offer to plead guilty to the same charge and cooperate. Ehrlichman was one of seven men indicted on Friday on charges stemming from their alleged role in the cover-up.

In Los Angeles, five friends of Ehrlichman have begun soliciting funds in an effort to raise a $150,000 legal defense fund. The five sent letters three weeks ago to 50 other Ehrlichman friends, asking for contributions of $3,000 each.

In addition to the plumbers investigation, grand juries are probing the ITT antitrust settlement; campaign contributions, including the so-called milk fund; political dirty tricks and the handling of the subpoenaed White House tapes, particularly the 18.5-minute gap in one of them.

Special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski originally had hoped to see most of those investigations completed by the end of February. But the investigations fell behind, in part because the President ordered White House lawyers to halt their cooperation after Jaworski had received 17 tapes and about 700 pages of documents.

It was considered likely that the prosecutor would subpoena some of the material if the White House maintains its refusal.

Meanwhile, Sen. Robert C. Byrd, D-W. Va., commented on Friday's indictments on NBC-TV's "Meet the Press" Sunday. The Democratic whip said the indictments pose serious difficulties for Nixon because the Watergate cover-up has been brought "directly to the Oval Office" for the first time.

He said the House was moving toward an impeachment vote but "whether the votes are there I cannot say."

ECU Coed Dies In Car Collision

A 19-year-old East Carolina University sophomore coed from Rehoboth Beach, Del. died of injuries received in a two-car collision on U.S. 264 just outside the eastern city limits of Greenville Saturday night.

Investigating Officer W. E. Brinson said Rosemary Burton was dead on arrival at Pitt Memorial Hospital following the 11:45 p.m. crash. County Medical Examiner E. W. Harvey said she died of severe head injuries.

She was a passenger in a car driven by Norwood Berron Starling Jr., 20 of Raleigh. Also seriously injured was Gregory Wooley of Greenville. Starling and another passenger in his car, plus the four occupants of the other car were treated and released at Pitt Memorial.

Officer Brinson said the Starling car apparently turned in front of a vehicle operated by William Henry Roach 23, of Rt. 1, Grimesland. He was turning into River Bluff Apartments, where two of his passengers lived, Brinson quoted him as saying he did not see the Roach car headed toward Greenville. The Starling car was hit broadside on the side occupied by Miss Burton and Wooley.

Trooper Brinson said charges are pending, but that a manslaughter charge is not being considered.

Damage to the vehicles is estimated at $700 each.

Carolina College Campuses See Streaking Wave

By The Associated Press

Carolina colleges over the weekend, with naked coeds eager and active participants in what appeared to be a vigorous rivalry over which college could outdo the other.

About 80 coeds were among the 258 streakers who performed in the buff Sunday night before an estimated 1,000 onlookers at the University of North Carolina at Greensboro, N.C.

Cliff Mitchell, who described himself as a "streaker coach," said the bare-skinned show featured a male and female riding naked on a motorcycle, and five nude coeds cruising the campus in a sports car chauffeured by a nude male.

The baring of several coeds at the University of South Carolina in Columbia, S.C., triggered more shedding of clothes

Sunday night among not-to-be-outdone males.

Male and female nudes walked, trotted, ran, rode bicycles and even a horse around the student center and several women's dormitories.

Campus authorities at NC made no attempt to stop the frolic, witnesses said. Campus police at SC cleared away several hundred spectators at one point to open the street, but the surging crowd blocked it again and police gave up. No arrests were reported.

Most of the streakers were out on the streets, but a few of them walked or trotted through the lobby of the student center. Earlier Sunday, two men wearing only backpacks walked through the lobby.

To add to the festive spirit, several residents of men's dorms aimed speakers out the windows and played "Barefootin'" and other appropriate music. Some directed small spotlights at the streakers.

At The College of Charleston, S.C., a lone streaker known as "Zorro" ran through a women's dorm wearing only a black hat.

Streaking struck two church-affiliated schools in North Carolina.

About 25 naked students at St. Andrews University, a Presbyterian institution in Laurinburg, toured the campus Saturday night on motorcycles, bikes, roller skates and wheelchairs.

About 100 naked students, mostly men, sprinted through a women's dormitory at Baptist-affiliated Wake Forest in Winston-Salem Saturday night. A crowd of supporters cheered them on.

And at St. Michael's College in Winoski, Vt., 25 male streakers did their thing in the snow. Their naked romp across the center of the campus took place early Saturday morning in a two-to-three inch snow-fall during a weekend that saw a series of all-night parties.

ROCKY MOUNT—Miss Ruth Bennett Howell and Carlton Wayne Vandiford were united in the Sacrament of Holy Matrimony at a Nuptial Mass in Our Lady of Perpetual Help Catholic Church here Sunday at 4:00 p.m. with the Rev. Robert Bond and Rev. John A. Weidinger concelebrating and the Rev. Leo McIlrath serving as lector.

Miss Dorothy Alice Bennett, aunt of the bride, directed and Mrs. Andrew H. Janelle, organist, presented a program of nuptial music.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lonnie Henry Howell Jr. of Rocky Mount and is a graduate of Rocky Mount Senior High School. She attended Lees-McRae College, Banner Elk, and is in her senior year at East Carolina University, Greenville, where she is majoring in social work.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. William Raymond Vandiford of Greenville, and the late Mr. Vandiford. He is a graduate of J. H. Rose High School and East Carolina University, Greenville, with a BSBA degree. He is assistant cashier and manager of the Consumer Credit Department of Planters National Bank and Trust Co. in Manteo.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of candlelight satin styled with a sheer front bodice appliqued with alencon lace that formed a high neckline. The empire waist was belted with velvet ribbon trimmed in scalloped lace and the long fitted sleeves were cuffed with matching velvet ribbon.

Her heirloom chapel length mantilla of candlelight silk illusion was appliqued and bordered in handrun alencon lace. She carried a bouquet of candlelight sweetheart roses and baby's breath.

The bridesmaids wore crystal mint formal gowns of imported matte jersey designed with a gathered u-neck and cap sleeves, fashioned at the waist with a wrap sash, tied in a flowing bow at the back. Their bouquets were of baby's breath centered with a single long-stemmed yellow rose. Their headpieces were a cluster of baby's breath.

Gregory Stephen Hathaway and maid of honor was Miss Anna Marie Howell, both sisters of the bride. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Elizabeth Chipley Todd and Miss Margaret Clare Yenny.

Daniel Sawyer Mayo of Greenville, was best man and ushers were Lawrence Henry Howell III, brother of the bride, Richard D. Harris and James Richard Jones, both of Greenville.

Following a wedding trip, the couple will make their home in Manteo.

Reception

A reception was held immediately following the ceremony at the home of the bride.

Mrs. Edward Coleman and Mrs. Flake Chipley invited the guests to sign the register and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Emmett Gladstone introduced guests to the receiving line.

Upon arriving, the guests were served champagne to toast the bridal couple. Serving were Kevin Easley, James A. Borum III, John Alden Borum, and Michael F. Easley, cousins of the bride, and Michael Penick.

Mrs. John Joseph Farris invited the guests to the dining room. Pouring fruit punch were Mrs. Fred Angier Turlington and Mrs. Richard Carney, aunts of the bride, and Mrs. William L. Jones.

Following the traditional cake cutting, Mrs. James A. Borum Jr., and Mrs. Henry Alexander Easley Jr., aunts of the bride served. They were assisted by Mrs. Daniel Sawyer Mayo and Miss Carol Elizabeth Atwell.

Dr. and Mrs. Robert John Sheridan said the goodbyes. On Saturday at 1 p.m. a bridesmaids luncheon was given by Mrs. Edward Coleman at her home.

The bride was wearing a dress of turquoise knit crepe and was presented a corsage of spring flowers.

Her gifts to her bridesmaids were silver dinner bells engraved with the wedding date.

On Saturday evening the bridal couple and wedding party were entertained at a cake cutting at "Oaksides" home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Alexander Easley Jr.

Hosts and hostesses were Mrs. Norman Smith Bennett Sr., grandmother of the bride, Mr. and Mrs. James A. Borum Jr. and Miss Dorothy Alice Bennett, aunts and uncles of the bride

DEAR ABBY: You stated that you were "delighted" when, in lieu of a Christmas gift, a fan in Tulsa sent you a signed check, inviting you to make it payable to a charity of your choice.

When my husband was sick in the hospital, we were advised that in lieu of flowers, friends had made contributions to THEIR favorite charities. This was a thoughtful gesture, but what if WE disapprove of the charity or cause which benefited in our name? Perhaps it is a political group or cause with which we do not want to be identified, and on whose mailing list we do not want to be.

Answer that one, please!

DISAPPROVING CONTRIBUTORS

DEAR DISAPPROVING: You make a good point. You can't prevent people from making contributions to THEIR favorite charities or causes in your name. But you can refrain from sending signed checks to those who could conceivably put you in that uncomfortable position.

For yet another reaction to that suggestion, read on:

DEAR ABBY: Sending a check for charity puts the burden on the receiver. He has to mail the check on, decide which favorite charity to choose, and then remember to say, "thank you." The sender admits that he is too lazy to find a charity or make the gift, yet he wants credit for sending a gift.

The whole concept of starting out to buy a gift already price-tagged is wrong. I'd rather receive a 39-cent cookie cutter from someone who knows I love to bake than a $50 check just because I happen to be on someone's Christmas list.

MRS. T. L. K.: DOVER, OHIO

DEAR ABBY: Some time within the last five years I read an article in a newspaper which stated that a man had figured out how to square a circle!

I remember that this man's son was studying math, and that's how he became interested in the project. The man worked on the problem for months before he came up with the solution which led to the discovery of a new kind of curve. The article said that a university math professor confirmed the solution as correct.

When I mention that a man actually squared a circle I am told that it cannot be done, and that I am either out of my mind or I must have been dreaming.

Abby, I can't be the only person in America who read that article, but I am unable to come up with the proof. Please, please help me. I am beginning to doubt my own sanity. Isn't there some math genius in your vast reading audience who can come to my rescue?

BARBARA G. IN WILKES-BARRE, PA.

DEAR BARBARA: We'll soon find out. Geniuses?

DEAR ABBY: This is my second marriage. His, also. Three years ago Carl won me over by pretending to love my two children. He took them on picnics, to the beach, etc. As soon as the honeymoon was over, he ignored them completely! He finally admitted he actually hates children! The boy, now 10, is under a doctor's care because of the tension at home. The girl, 15, ran away twice because she couldn't stand this "institution."

When Carl comes home from work he goes right to his bedroom and nobody sees him until dinnertime. At dinner, the extent of his conversation is: "Sit up straight, both you kids, and keep your elbows off the table!"

After dinner he retires to his bedroom to watch TV. We can be watching the same channel in another room, but Carl prefers to watch it alone.

We never visit anybody, and no one visits us.

He hasn't kissed me hello or goodby in two years. There is no sex, either. I am clean and neat and pleasant. I am 33. He's 42. He's a good provider, but what good is that when everything else is lacking?

Don't suggest counseling. My son's doctor suggested that, and Carl said: "No one has to tell me how to live my life."

Please help me.

DESPONDENT

DEAR DESPONDENT: Ask your husband what he is getting out of your marriage. [He can hire a cook and housekeeper.] Unless he agrees to counseling, talk to a lawyer about a separation or divorce. And I hope you're qualified to work outside your home, because you may have to.

CONFIDENTIAL TO PUSSYCAT IN HOLMBY HILLS: Get to know him better first. And don't try to bring out the "beast" in a man until you're sure the "beast" in him isn't a skunk.

Slogan Adopted At Division Meeting

"Use it up, wear it out, make it do, or do without!" was the slogan adopted by the Coastal Plain Development Association (CPDA) Home Economics Division in Washington Thursday. About 50 leaders from the 10-county area attended the program planning meeting.

Mrs. Carolyn Alligood, Beaufort County home economics extension agent, showed some clothing for the mildly and severely handicapped. She explained how purchased or old clothing might be adapted to suit individual needs. Regular patterns can also be adjusted for the handicapped person. Printed suggestions are available at county extension offices.

Recycling of clothes was demonstrated by Mrs. R. D. Richards of Wilson County, chairman of the Home Economics Division. "Fabric is going to be scarce and prices are going to soar," said Mrs. Richards. "We're going to have to remodel some of our older clothes and make use of scraps."

In keeping with its objective of defining the needs of contemporary living with emphasis on consumer education, management and family economics, "Resourceful Living" is the theme chosen by the division for its 1974-75 period.

The foods committee voted to endorse and promote the Agricultural Extension Service's Gardening Is For Everyone (GIFE) program. The committee will sponsor canning and freezing workshops. It also plans to develop a cookbook for wild game as well as to sponsor a demonstration on preparing and cooking wild game.

Form Letter Was Incriminating

LONDON, England (WNS)—Frank Haslam, who runs a pub in Reading, complained to the management of the Carlton Tower Hotel after receiving its form letter that began, "It's been a long time since we've welcomed you to our Chelsea Room for breakfast, lunch, tea or dinner." According to Haslam, his wife read the letter, knew that she had never visited the hotel and wondered if her husband was entertaining other ladies there. "The line about welcoming me to breakfast was especially bad," said Haslam. After receiving many other similar complaints, the hotel management mailed letters of apologies and explanations to the entire mailing list.

Hearst Family Pleads For Break In Their Daughter's Long Silence

By STEPHEN FOX
Associated Press Writer
HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (AP) — "I know that pretty soon God will touch their hearts and they'll send you home again," Mrs. Randolph A. Hearst said in a quavering voice.

She addressed her comment to her kidnaped daughter Sunday during a plea to the girl's abductors to break their 11-day silence.

Mr. and Mrs. Hearst, appearing haggard from their month-long vigil, asked the kidnapers of their 20-year-old daughter Patricia to allow her to communicate with them.

Mrs. Hearst, her voice breaking and on the verge of tears, addressed her daughter through news reporters:

"Patty, honey, your father is doing everything in his power, and I want you to know that millions of people all over the world are praying for you.

"I know it's a long time, sweetheart, and you keep up your courage. We'll keep praying," said the black-clad mother.

Hearst, editor and president of the San Francisco Examiner, said: "We might add to the people who are holding you that you could be allowed to send us a letter or get in touch with us by tape."

The mysterious Symbionese Liberation Army has claimed responsibility for dragging the college student out of her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4. The SLA has said she is being held as a prisoner of war under the international rules of the Geneva Convention.

The SLA has sent four communications to Hearst in the past month, three of them on tape. The last communique was Feb. 22.

"I'm sure she is all right," Hearst said during his brief appearance Sunday. "I believe she is being held under the Geneva Convention. We just would like to say hello to her.

Hearst said he knew the abductors wouldn't allow him to see her.

FBI assistant special agent John Kelly, asked Sunday if he thought Hearst's plea would trigger a response, replied, "Your guess is as good as mine." He said there were no developments in the case.

The kidnapers had demanded as a good faith gesture on Hearst's part a massive food giveaway to California's poor, making the program a pre-condition to negotiations for his daughter's release.

A $2 million program financed by Hearst and the Hearst Foundation began last week. The food giveaway is scheduled to resume Tuesday.

In their last message, the kidnapers demanded an additional $4 million for the program or else they would break off communications.

The Hearst Corp. promised the $4 million, but only if Miss Hearst was released unharmed.

Pitt Is Among Counties That Hire Handicapped

Forty-five of North Carolina's 100 counties employ a total of 182 handicapped persons, according to a survey of county governments recently conducted by the Governor's Council on Employment of the Handicapped, Secretary of Human Resources David Flaherty announced today.

Pitt County reported seven—one deaf, one with communication disorders, one with an orthopedic handicap, and four with "other" handicaps.

The 1970 census revealed that the number of handicapped persons in North Carolina between the ages of 16 and 74 totaled 337,648. Of this number, 153,889 were in the labor force of self-sustaining. The status of the remaining 183,759 was "unemployed."

Two Men Face Charge Of Soya Bean Theft

Two Route 5, Greenville men were arrested by Pitt County Sheriff's Deputies Saturday on larceny charges in connection with the theft of 100 bushels of soya beans from a storage shed near Bethel earlier in the day.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson identified the two as David Donald Moore Jr., 24, and Howard Franklin Speight Jr., 18.

According to Tyson, 100 bushels of beans owned by L. N. James of Bethel were taken from a packhouse a mile West of Bethel on U. S. 64 early Saturday.

The beans, valued at $100, were recovered by officers in Greenville about noon as an attempt was being made to sell them.

Both Moore and Speight were released under $700 bond each pending hearing of the case in court.

Youths Charged With Larceny

FARMVILLE—Two Farmville youths have stolen goods in connection with the removal of a tape player from a car parked downtown here.

Scheduled for trial in Farmville District Court March 31 are Jessie Earl Jones and King Perry, both of Farmville and both charged with larceny. Richard Artis, to be tried the same day, is charged with receiving stolen goods. The tape player, said received by Artis, was taken from a car parked behind Belk-Tyler's Department Store here. Police Chief Carl Tanner credited Sgt. Wilbur Barber for work done on the case.

Charge Driver In Auto Wreck

Helen Brady Johnson of 106D Lakeview Trailer Ct. was charged with failing to keep a proper lookout while backing following investigation of an 8:54 collision here Sunday.

Police said the Johnson car collided with a vehicle driven by David Scott of 1206B Vandyke St., resulting in an estimated $500 damage to the Scott car and about $600 damage to the Johnson auto.

Scott and a passenger in the Johnson car were reported injured.

Three Youths To Face Trial

FARMVILLE—Possession of marijuana charges have been made against three Farmville youths.

Arrested by Ptl. Bryan Pippin of the Farmville Police Department at a local drive-in restaurant were William Earl Sermons, 21, Michael Allen Wrought, 17, and Selma Sue Price, 19. All three of the Farmville residents are scheduled for trial in Farmville District Court March 7, Chief Carl Tanner said.

"The purpose of the survey," Secretary Flaherty said, "is to generate interest in hiring the handicapped. Asking county government officials how many handicapped persons they employ will perhaps cause them to think of hiring a handicapped person when a vacancy arises. State, county, and municipal governments have a responsibility to offer handicapped persons an equal opportunity when a job opening arises. The record of handicapped persons in state government and in industry speaks for itself."

A similar survey of handicapped persons in North Carolina's municipal governments is currently underway, and the results will be announced, Flaherty said.

A Paradise For The Politician

The latest bit of press harassment comes from the State Legislature where 30 senators have signed a bill requiring newspapers to print replies from any person or candidate whose character is "assailed" in news articles or editorials.

William C. Lassiter, general counsel for the N. C. Press Association was prompt to point out that the bill "violates the First Amendment freedom of the press because it tells a newspaper what it must print."

That must be obvious to the 30 senators, including the two who represent our district, Sen.

Julian Allsbrook and Sen. Vernon White.

On a more practical level it must be obvious to the senators any politician could interpret almost anything that is printed in the newspaper as an assault on his character and everyone running for any office who wanted generous amounts of free space could make a demand on the newspaper.

This would be a paradise for the politician, of course, but it would be a great bore to the reader of the newspaper, who after all, pays for the publication's presentation of the news free of the politician's clutches.

It would make better sense to us if the senators, including our own Sen. Allsbrook and Sen. White, were to sponsor a bill requiring all registered voters to gather in the state's largest stadiums and hear each of the senators present a glorious recitation about himself. The law would do well to specify no snoozing and no sneaking out. We feel sure that after one campaign, we would see a lot of new faces in Raleigh and the law would be off the books in short order.

Gathering and printing the news is far from perfect, but the framers of the Constitution were wise enough to recognize that a free press was essential to a democracy. Evidently some North Carolina senators feel they can improve on the U. S. Constitution with a few embellishments.

We don't think this bill does a thing for our precious freedoms and it should see an early death.

Watergate Is Hurting GOP

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
CINCINNATI—The burden of Watergate on Republican candidates is starkly apparent in one out of every five Republican voters we interviewed here who openly admitted they would be "more inclined" to vote Republican in tomorrow's special congressional election if Richard M. Nixon had been replaced as President by Vice President Gerald Ford.

matter how he plays it, Gradison is going to alienate Republican voters on one side or the other. In solidly Republican precincts of Norwood (urban middle income) and Madeira (suburban upper income) where we interviewed, the just retired Republican Congressman, William Keating, won over 80 per cent in 1972. Our interviews favored Gradison over Luken by only a 3 to 2 margin, suggesting a possible Democratic upset.

It was precisely this weight of Nixon-Watergate that defeated the Republican nominee in the Michigan election to fill Ford's old seat. Here in Ohio's 1st Congressional District, the Republican antecedents are also strong. Yet, the horrors of Watergate have reduced the 70 per cent Republican victory in November 1972 to an even race that may well send Democrat Thomas A. Luken to Washington. If so, that second upset is certain to spread panic among Republicans running for office this year.

"Watergate means that anyone identified with the GOP has his head in a noose," the cheerful, buxom wife of a physician told us. A widow said she would always vote Republican, "but people don't trust the Republicans anymore. Even my daughter and I have trouble on this."

A 41-year-old salesman who voted three times for Mr. Nixon (1960, 1968, 1972) gave only one reason for favoring Luken: "Because Gradison is for Nixon."

Actually, Gradison has struggled to bridge the gap between fanatic Nixonites and anti-Nixon Republican voters. He has criticized the President for being "too legalistic" and "too secretive" in dealing both with Watergate and impeachment investigators.

But the Nixon drag may be too strong. The famed Quayle trust scale, for example, shows that 18 of our voters scored him at the very bottom of the trust scale ("don't trust him at all"). Only door-to-door salesmen, with 27 "don't trust at all" scores, did worse. In contrast, Sen. Robert Taft, Jr., had only one "don't trust."

Armed with a questionnaire drafted by national pollster Oliver Quayle, we interviewed 63 voters in their homes in overwhelmingly Republican precincts with the help of three Quayle interviewers: Peggy Weiss, Kathleen Wagner and Bonnie Fumarola. We found heavy support for the Republican candidate Willis D. Gradison, Jr., against Luken but not nearly so heavy as usual. Thus, based on our interviews, the congressional race looks nip and tuck—thanks to the Nixon drag.

As for resignation and impeachment, our interviews in Ohio's 1st Congressional District ran true to form: 2 to 1 against both impeachment and resignation. Mr. Nixon's "positive" rating as President was 27 per cent, just as it was in our last scouting expedition in Newark, Ohio, a month ago.

Mr. Nixon does enjoy certain support here nonetheless. The pro-Nixon argument, that much of his fall from grace is a result of anti-Nixon press and politicians trying to "get" him, found slightly more than half agreeing. There was 4 to 1 agreement that impeachment would "seriously weaken" the country.

The President's deeper strength is foreign policy, an asset surviving all the deprecations and degradations of Watergate. On that one issue, Mr. Nixon remains impressively strong. But for a local election, it provides precious little aid and comfort for Gradison or any other Republican.

As for resignation and impeachment, our interviews in Ohio's 1st Congressional District ran true to form: 2 to 1 against both impeachment and resignation. Mr. Nixon's "positive" rating as President was 27 per cent, just as it was in our last scouting expedition in Newark, Ohio, a month ago.

The pro-Nixon argument, that much of his fall from grace is a result of anti-Nixon press and politicians trying to "get" him, found slightly more than half agreeing. There was 4 to 1 agreement that impeachment would "seriously weaken" the country.

But a second question dramatized even more the dilemma of Republican candidates damned by the President's hard-core backers if they don't desert him. Of our voters, 19 agreed they think more of Republican Gradison "because he would support Richard Nixon" as a Republican in Congress; but a whopping 33 voters said they would think less of him.

Hence the sharp decline in Republican fortunes. No

Records Set
This General Assembly is setting new records in numbers of bills introduced. But thus far, with the exception of land use legislation, tax reform, and medical school measures, they have been minor ones.

As of late February, on the 28th legislative day, 830 new bills had been introduced in either Senate or House of Representatives.

By that time in 1973, the total was 725; compared to 447 in 1971, 334 in 1969, 402 in 1967, and 331 in 1965.

The general mood of assemblymen is grim and worried. Perhaps, some say, that is not so much a reflection of their attitudes toward this session as it is a consensus of the prevailing mood of the citizens across the state.

People at home, lawmakers say, are worried about gasoline shortages, high prices, low supplies, distrust of government, and so on.

Missing from both chambers at the State House is the mood of optimism and progress which has marked some previous sessions.

With so many minor measures clogging calendars and so many important issues hanging fire, lawmakers are obviously touchy.

There are heard daily mumblings, half in jest, that a major portion of this year's legislative program will be left to die in committee when adjournment day draws nigh.

Why that record number of introductions despite the lack of progress?

Views vary, but probably a combination of three situations explain this: many bills are being put in simultaneously in the house and senate to speed up consideration; lawmakers now have more sophisticated help from attorney general staff and computers in writing bills; this is an election year, and some measures are apparently being introduced to satisfy political considerations back home.

Still More
Despite that record number of new bills, a large number of proposals promised by interim committee or study commission work have not been forthcoming.

Still other measures are in the legislative process, but chief sponsors candidly admit they expect no action during this session. They simply wanted to get them on the table for study and talk, hoping for attention in 1975.

Falling in this category of either non-action or holding action are a host of measures involving so-called "people" legislation.

Around the State House, now, there is talk that 1975 will be a great year for people legislation, that this year will not see a great deal accomplished—but the foundation is being built for consideration next year.

Prime examples include revision of mental health operations to provide more community programs; attention to needs of school children with mental, physical or emotional problems; revision of pre-trial and courtroom procedures to provide more protection of citizens' rights; mass transit recommendations; and crime reduction measures.

Strange First Half Behind Us

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—Staring a May 7 primary date in the face with members itchy to be home campaigning at least a month before that, the 1974 General Assembly has passed the halfway mark.

It has, by all accounts, been a strange—even strained—first half. The second promises little better.

The first experiment at annual sessions was much heralded as an opportunity to spend a summer on committee work and study on important measures, readying them for early introduction and passage.

So far, those summertime public hearings and committee sessions have yielded no major steps forward. Those measures which have been introduced quickly became bogged down despite the investment of previous study. Many more are yet to be introduced, and most veteran lawmakers are now saying it is too close to the end to start a new measure out.

Nuclear Worry Is Told

By MIKE SHANAHAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — "A truly massive effort" in Soviet missile development will soon pose a direct threat to the U.S. land-based missile force, says Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger.

Before the end of the decade, Schlesinger said, the 1,000 Minuteman missiles ready for launch in underground silos will be threatened by an increasingly accurate and growing force of Russian missiles.

The defense secretary set out his fears in a 237-page annual statement, detailing U.S. military goals over the next few years. The statement is sure to intensify the public and congressional debate over the direction of U.S. nuclear arms policies.

The stated key to Schlesinger's worries is four new Russian missiles designed to carry between four and six highly accurate warheads, each capable of being aimed at separate targets.

While an advantage in missile payload or destructive throw-weight has been conceded to the Soviets, relative equality has been achieved because the United States has had separately targetable missiles (MIRVs) for more than five years.

Last summer, the Soviets began testing MIRVs and last week completed a series of the first full range test of the intercontinental missiles.

Though not yet deployed in the Soviet ballistic missile force, the new MIRVs are larger, and thus more destructive than U.S. warheads, in addition to being separately targetable.

"This throw-weight, combined with increased accuracy and MIRVs could give the Soviets on the order of 7,000 one-to-two megaton warheads in their ICBM force alone," the defense secretary said.

Pentagon officials say the Russians are expected to begin placing MIRV missiles in their arsenal sometime during 1975, with most of the older missile force replaced by about 1980.

Rebellion Among Wives

By ART BUCHWALD
WASHINGTON—As if politicians didn't have enough to contend with in 1974, they are now faced with a revolt by their wives. Mrs. Joseph Slioto dramatized that wives of husbands running for office were no longer willing to play the docile roles assigned to them in political life.

Campaign managers are going to have to deal with the problem, and it won't be easy.

"Sen. Wimbledon, here's your schedule for the day: breakfast with the fat cats, a speech at the university, lunch with the party hacks, a parade down Main Street, a visit to the VA hospital, a fund-raiser cocktail party, dinner with the Elks and a handshaking trip to say hello to the people waiting in line to see 'The Exorcist.'"

"Okay, where's Mrs. Wimbledon?"

"I haven't seen her for three days. I thought she was with you."

"I haven't seen her since last Friday. I think we had breakfast together—or was it tea?"

"Didn't she say anything about where she was going?"

"Let me think. She said she was getting in her car and driving just as far as it would take her."

"Didn't you try to stop her, Senator?"

"I thought about it, but then this local TV station asked me to do an interview and it slipped my mind."

"I think we ought to try and find her. We need her for the women's rally in Seaport tomorrow morning."

"I forgot about that. I wonder where she could have gone. It's unlike Angel to just disappear for three days without saying something."

"I don't want to pry into your private life, Senator, but did you two have a quarrel?"

"Let's see. I think she did make some complaint or other that I was ignoring her. We were at this town hall debate, and when I introduced her I got her name wrong. I called her Eunice which happens to be the name of my secretary. She seemed to be in a huff, but I explained to her I can't remember everybody's first name."

"What did she say?"

"She said she was a woman with feelings and she was tired of not having any identity of her own. She said she had raised five children for me, and she wanted some appreciation and approval. It came as quite a shock to me because I thought we had only four children."

"She was right, Senator, you do have five."

"I told her that I couldn't have been in public life if it hadn't been for her, and I did appreciate everything she had done for me. But at the same time if I had to con-

(Christian Science Monitor)
What does it take for America to do right by its Vietnam veterans?

Apparently it was not enough for the President himself to order action against last year's delays of veterans' education checks. Some payments were expedited on the West Coast. But now there are new reports of delays lasting months, forcing additional hardship on veterans whose stipends are insufficient even when delivered on time.

Once again the President, spurred by the question at this week's press conference, called for improvement as he proclaimed the forthcoming Vietnam Veterans' Day. Certainly the situation should not be allowed to continue.

Computers and staff shortages have been blamed. But is there any doubt that a matter like the delivery of checks could be solved by a government that managed to conduct a war with half a million men on the other side of the world? It can be solved if the government develops a proper concern for the men it asked to fight that war.

The bungled delivery of checks, of course, is just a superficial, though urgent, symptom of how America is failing this latest wave of veterans. To deplore the inadequacies is not to deny that the Veterans Administration includes many people sincerely committed to trying to help the veterans within legislative limits.

"All we want is the chance that the guys got who didn't have to go," says a veteran quoted by Hawaii's Senator Inouye, himself a veteran of World War II and a supporter of legislation to bring Vietnam veteran benefits into line with those after World War II. Mr. Inouye recognizes the difference between American attitudes then and after Vietnam—"the war nobody liked, and everybody now wants to forget." But let America prove him right when he adds: "Although we disagreed over the motives, methods and purpose of American involvement in that tragic war, I believe the great majority of Americans agree that the Vietnam veterans deserve something better than what they are getting."

A BIT OVERDONE
Several years ago a lady invited her sister to spend a week or so at the lady's summer home in the Blue Ridge Mountains of Virginia in order to enjoy the gorgeous fall coloring of trees. The house overlooked a beautiful valley stretching as far as the eye could see.

When the newcomer arrived, she cast an appraising glance over the marvelously colored fall trees and said in a tone of dissatisfaction, "Cornelia, don't you think it's a bit overdone?"

Some people are never satisfied. They as readily include the Lord in their criticism as they do their best friends. We can imagine that if the pearly gates ever open to such, they will march through with a scowl on their faces and immediately register a complaint with Saint Peter.

People who behave in this fashion lose a great deal of happiness. Unlike forest coloring in Autumn, criticism can very easily be overdone.

Taxpayers Become Cynical?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — An indicator of the nation's mood that will be watched closely over the next few months is the amount of deductions taxpayers claim on their federal income tax returns.

The belief is widely held that taxpayers might have turned a bit cynical because of rising prices and the realization that the President of the United States, no less, paid smaller taxes than some working people.

One former Internal Revenue Service commissioner, Johnnie M. Walter, has been quoted as saying that disgruntled taxpayers may deprive the government of as much as $1 billion in revenue by adding to their deductions.

While government officials have named no such precise figure, they are prepared for a situation in which more returns will be weighted in the taxpayer's favor.

So far, however, the nation's biggest tax preparer, H & R Block, maintains that the temper of taxpayers is being kept within bounds.

Said Henry Block, president: "In spite of everything we've heard and read that says this year's taxpayer is out to fleece Uncle Sam, we see no such movement and don't expect to."

In his opinion, fear and publicity about such an eventually is snowballing, but not the event itself. However, he says it's taking longer to make out taxpayers' returns than it did a year ago.

And, he concedes, the reason is that there is "a heightened interest by millions of individuals to get what is legally theirs."

Block said he disagreed that taxpayers were seeking questionable deductions. "People are telling us 'I want to take as much as I can, but legitimately,' and they're pressing for every proper item, but our interviews confirm the honesty of the American public."

While it is too early to determine with finality what the impact on revenues will be, if any mass disillusionment does reflect itself in federal tax returns it could produce a very nasty situation.

It could, in fact, lead to further disillusionment if a taxpayer attempts to obtain what he feels is a legitimate deduction and is overruled by the auditors.

In some instances the question of whether or not a person is entitled to a deduction is almost a matter of opinion. Rules are written to be hard and fast, but not even the IRS regulations can cover each situation.

Deductions, therefore, is probably the one area of the income tax return in which the taxpayer can freely use his own judgment. He's in serious trouble if he fails to report income, because that's not a matter of opinion. But deductions often are.

A good measure of the American mood will be available this year when the deductions are compiled and analyzed. It will be better than a survey, because the opinions will be backed by hard cash.

Hanoi To Return 12 Bodies Of Prisoners

By TAD BARTIMUS
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — North Vietnam announced today that it will hand over the remains of 12 American prisoners of war who died in captivity.

The U.S. Embassy in Saigon said two U. S. Air Force C130 transports will fly to Hanoi Wednesday to get the remains and take them to U Taphao Air Base in Thailand for identification.

An embassy spokesman said the Defense Department would make the names public in Washington after the remains are positively identified and next of kin are notified.

North Vietnam last year gave the United States the names of 23 Americans who died in captivity and a B52 crewman whose body was recovered after his plane was shot down. But today's North Vietnamese statement did not say when the remains of the other 12 would be returned.

Meanwhile, the South Vietnamese military command reported 25 government troops were killed and 67 were wounded Sunday in two battles 35 miles northwest of Saigon and 70 miles southwest of the capital. A spokesman said only 11 North Vietnamese and Viet Cong were killed.

Government forces have been waging offensive operations in both regions, but the spokesman claimed the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong initiated both attacks Sunday.

The battle southwest of Saigon marked the 17th consecutive day of fighting for the rice harvest along the southern edge of the Plain of Reeds.

Field reports said that South

Vietnamese forces have been raiding zones controlled by the Viet Cong and seizing tons of rice. The Viet Cong charge that the government forces are looting the rice from the peasants to meet quotas set by the Saigon government.

Extra Touch For 'Simple Wedding'

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—It was to have been a simple wedding—two country music fans from Texas repeating their vows on the stage of the Grand Ole Opryhouse.

Neither Fort Worth truckdriver Max Sargent, nor his bride, Pat Turpin, expected a couple of dozen music fans of a different type or the entire Nashville Symphony Orchestra to join in the ceremony.

Sargent, 46, and Miss Turpin, came to Nashville Friday to attend a Saturday night performance of the famous Grand Ole Opry and to be married on the Opryhouse stage Sunday afternoon.

Country music star Billy Walker, a friend of Sargent since 1958, arranged for the couple to be married at the Opryhouse which is to be abandoned March 16 when the long-running show moves to a new auditorium at Opryland USA.

Sargent and his fiancée didn't bargain for the orchestra which just happened to be rehearsing Sunday afternoon when the wedding party showed up. Also on hand were a scattering of orchestra fans who were listening to the rehearsal.

When the musicians found out about the impending wedding, they volunteered to provide the music for what had been intended as a simple wedding.

"Then when the musicians in the orchestra said they would stop practicing and would be glad to play the wedding march, it was really perfect," said the new Mrs. Sargent.

"I guess I've been a country music fan since I was old enough to listen," said the groom. "This is the most wonderful thing that could happen to anybody."

BELFAST (AP) — Bernadette Devlin McAliskey says she will stay in politics and "fight on for a socialist Ireland" despite her defeat in Thursday's general election.

Mrs. McAliskey, 26, lost by 10,000 votes to John Dunlop, a Protestant representing the official Unionist party.

When she won in 1969, she was the youngest woman ever to be elected to the British parliament.

stantly thank everyone who got me elected, I wouldn't have time to do my job."

"What did she say to that?"

"She asked me if I really needed her. Well, I looked at my schedule and as far as I could see I didn't need her until the big rally in Hartstown."

"I think what she meant, Senator, was did you really need her as a wife?"

"You really think that's what she meant?"

"She must have or she wouldn't have driven off by herself."

"She's a funny woman. We've been married for 28 years, and she's still unable to say what's on her mind."

"Well, I think we've got to get her back, Senator. We don't want any scandal that your wife has walked out on you in the middle of an election."

"I suppose you're right. I'll try to locate her tomorrow morning. I don't have anything scheduled from ten to eleven."

"Perhaps you ought to put out a statement saying you love her and want her and couldn't live without her, just in case she holds a press conference and tells the world what an S.O.B. you are."

"Good idea, I'll work on it now. What did you say her first name was?"

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hogs were steady to $1.00 lower today. Tops of 39.00-40.00 at Kinston, Benson and Lumberton; 38.75-39.25 Rocky Mount; 36.00-38.00 Wilson and High Falls; 37.50-38.00 Tarboro and Bethel; 39.00 Salisbury, Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Pine Level, Elizabethtown, Pink Hill, Chadbourne, Ayden, Laurinburg and Mount Olive.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—North Carolina hen market was unsettled today with supplies short of a fair to good demand. Heavies, at farm, 16 cents; f.o.b. plants too few to report prices.

North Carolina f.o.b. dock broilers: Market steady for this week at 9.29 cents per pound. Supplies barely adequate, demand good and weights desirable. Estimated slaughter today 1,157,000.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market continued its recent slide today.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 6.64 at 845.28 and declining issues outnumbered those advancing by close to 2-to-1 in relatively light trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Stocks of companies with interests in North Sea oil continued to lose ground after some sharp losses Friday. Standard Oil of Indiana was down 5/8 at 92 3/4, and Ranger Oil of Canada fell 3 to 39 1/2 on top of a 4 1/2-point drop Friday on the American Stock Exchange.

Several glamour stocks also ran into selling. IBM was down 4 at 232, Polaroid slipped 1 1/2 to 75 3/4, Ponderosa System fell 1 3/4 to 27 3/4, and Xerox was off 2 at 111.

Virginia Electric & Power was the Big Board's most-active stock, off 1/4 at 15. A 231,800-share block of the issue changed hands at that price.

Dial Financial soared 3 3/8 to 18 3/8 after a delay in opening. Chase Manhattan Corp. said it would make a second effort to win government approval for its plan to acquire Dial.

Aircraft stocks were broadly lower. General Dynamics was down 1 1/4 at 24, Boeing was off 5/8 at 14 1/4, and United Aircraft slipped 1/4 to 25 1/4.

At the Amex, Syntex was down 1/8 at 59 at the top of the active list. The Amex's 11 a.m. market-value index was .16 lower at 96.99.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was off .42 at 50.81.

GOP Majority On The Board

Pitt County's Board of Elections now has two Republican members with the appointment of Thomas C. Herndon to the board replacing Democrat Burney W. Baker.

The switch to a Republican majority board has been made in all of North Carolina's 100 counties. Appointment letters were mailed from Raleigh last Friday, and received by the Greenville members today, according to J. B. Spilman, present chairman of the County Board of Elections.

Spilman, a Democrat, and James C. Lanier Jr., a Republican, were both re-appointed to the board.

Members will be sworn in on Mar. 11, at which time an organizational meeting will be held and a chairman elected.

Driver Charged In Accident

Elbert Wilson Jr. of 409 Deck St. was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of an 8:45 p.m. Saturday collision at the intersection of 14th and Evans Streets.

Officers identified the drivers of the other two cars involved in the collision as Phyllis Marie West of 413 Able St. and Edward Lee Walston of Pinetops.

Damage was estimated at $500 to the West car, $300 to the Wilson auto and $100 to the Walston vehicle.

Miss West and two passengers in her car were reported injured in the collision.

Arrested In Robbery Case

A 17-year-old Ayden youth has been arrested on armed robbery charges by the Pitt County Sheriff's Department in connection with a February 21 incident near the Ayden-Grifton High School.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said Stanley D. Sutton of 119 Barwick St., Ayden was taken into custody by deputies Friday.

He said Thomas Evans Jr. of Ayden and Ernest Lee Roberson, 39 of Grifton reported they had been beaten with broom handles, robbed of $128 and their truck stolen February 22.

One 18-year-old Ayden youth was arrested in connection with the case several days later.

The Sheriff said $50 in cash was recovered Friday. Tyson noted, too, that the truck had been recovered in a field West of Winterville.

Sutton was placed in the Pitt County jail under a $5,000 bond.

A NEW VOLKSWAGEN TO ALWAYS SEEMS TO COME ALONG WHEN YOU NEED IT.

Volkswagen has thrown away the book again. The result is Dasher, an amazing new car that's going to take them years to imitate. Dasher is both economical (about 25 miles per gallon) and powerful (0-50 in 8.5 seconds). It holds five comfortably. It has front-wheel drive that gives you more control and traction than any conventional car you've ever driven. It's equipped with Skidbreaker, which prevents most skidding under adverse conditions. It's designed for low maintenance and easy repair. And it's covered by the VW Owner's Security Blanket.

The new Volkswagen Dasher. Throw away your old ideas about what to expect from a car.

Richard Petty Easily Chalked Up Second Win At Rockingham

By DICK WATERS
Associated Press Writer
ROCKINGHAM, N.C. (AP)—Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C. easily chalked up his second victory of the young season Sunday, winning the $98,075 Carolina 500 in record time.

The Dodge pilot finished a comfortable lap plus 5.7 seconds ahead of Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S.C. and eclipsed the old North Carolina Motor Speedway record by nearly three miles per hour. Petty's average speed was 121.622 m.p.h., compared to the old mark of 118.649 set in last year's race.

Petty, winner of the recent Daytona 500, led the gasoline-shortened 450-mile race four times for 278 laps. Yarborough, driving a Chevrolet, led 5 times for 164 laps. Bobby Allison, who finished third a distant six laps back, led one lap in his Chevrolet.

Charlie Glotzbach came in fourth, another three laps behind in a Chevrolet, while track rookie George Follmer finished fifth in a Ford.

The rest of the top ten was made up of Walter Ballard (Chevrolet) Bill Dennis (Ford), Dave Marcis (Dodge), Lennie Pond (Chevrolet) and James Hylton (Chevrolet).

Defending champion David Pearson, who was seeking his third straight North Carolina Motor Speedway victory, appeared to pose the only threat to either Petty or Yarborough, but the veteran Mercury driver went out of the race after 131 laps with ignition problems.

Petty led the last 178 laps of the lopsided race while Yarborough was in front for the first 162 circuits. The turning point came when Yarborough pitted to change four tires. Petty meanwhile strengthened his lead under the first caution flag, which came out following a blown engine and a minor collision, involving Cecil Gordon and Donnie Allison.

Petty attributes the triumph, his sixth at the Rockingham speedway, to the combination of tires on the slick speedway and his car's ability to run well "high in the groove."

"It was the first time I have ever run this high on a race track," Petty said "but today, for some reason, we just couldn't get the car working good enough to handle low so we just went high in the groove." "As the track changed, I changed, but Cale never found the groove that he began with."

Petty pocketed $15,525 for his first place finish, boosting his winnings to $63,005 for the first four Grand National races of the season. Yarborough collected $8,400 and Allison $5,600.

The National Association for Stock Car Racing (NASCAR) declared the order of finish official following a post-race inspection.

Under a new rule used for the first time Sunday, the cars of the winner and two of the top ten qualifiers selected by drawing were to be torn down and inspected. The names of Bobby and Donnie Allison were drawn from a hat prior to the race, but Donnie escaped the inspection when he withdrew from the race after 254 laps because of differential trouble.

Petty also increased his lead in the Winston Cup point race, picking up nearly 69 points for a total of 159.120. Yarborough boosted his total for the season to 106.820.

The next Grand National Race, the Southeastern 500, will be held Sunday in Bristol, Tenn.

FLAMINGO DATE SET
HIALEAH, Fla. (AP)—Feature of the racing season at Hialeah Park will be the $100,000 Flamingo for 3-year-olds on Saturday, March 30. The meeting opens March 5 and ends April 30. Gulfstream Park in Hallandale, Fla., has the choice winter racing dates.

TORRE AT EVEN .300
PLANDOME, N.Y. (AP)—After 13 years in the National League, veteran first baseman Joe Torre of the St. Louis Cardinals has a career batting average of exactly .300. He needs 10 hits to crash the 2,000-hit circle.

"I hope to play three more years or so," says the Long Island resident who in the off-season sells municipal bonds.

Lenoir Rhyne has captured the Carolinas Conference basketball championship, with a 65-53 victory Saturday night over Mars Hill.

The Bears had been seeded fourth in the playoffs. They were never seriously challenged after grabbing an early lead.

Cleveland Said 'Not For Sale', But Talks Planned

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Alva T. Bonda, executive vice president of the Cleveland Indians, says the team is "not for sale" but admits he plans to meet with a racetrack owner to discuss the possible sale of the American League baseball club.

Richmond Star Is Chosen MVP

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Aron Stewart of Richmond, named the most valuable player even though his team lost in the championship game, heads the All-Southern Conference basketball tournament team selected by sports writers covering the affair.

Stewart, a 6-foot-5 senior who was the tournament's top scorer and rebounder with 81 points and 39 retrieves in three games, was the only unanimous choice of the 56 sports writers and sportscasters.

Clyde Mayes of Furman, who defeated Richmond 62-60 for the title Saturday night, received 55 votes. The 6-foot-9 junior had been the most valuable player a year ago.

Sophomore Mike Arizin of William and Mary, who scored 60 points in the Indians' two tourney games, got 54 votes.

Rounding out the first team were senior Greg Dunn of Davidson with 45 votes and junior Bob McCurdy of Richmond with 36. Davidson was eliminated by Richmond in the semifinals, while William and Mary was a round-of-four loser to Furman.

Three Furman performers headed the second team—senior Ed Kelley with 32 votes, freshman Bruce Grimm with 28 and junior Fessor Leonard with 27. Rounding out the second unit were Larry Horowitz of Davidson with 19 and Chuck Cordell of The Citadel with 18.

Richmond's Ed Kelley was named MVP of the tournament. Kelley, a senior, averaged 28.5 points and 11.5 rebounds per game. He was named MVP of the tournament.

Things get a little confusing, you see, when you're a last-place team.

However, all's well at the club's Tucson, Ariz., training camp where Manager Ken Aspromonte continued to sound like a broken record Sunday.

"I hate to keep telling you guys the same thing," he said, "but I'm very pleased with the way things are going."

So is Bonda, to tell the truth, but he says that ownership by Edward J. DeBartolo, who owns shopping centers and motels as well as the racetrack, would be advantageous to the team and the city.

"If someone like DeBartolo came along and wanted to buy the team now, and since he'd also be dedicated to keeping it in Cleveland, I would recommend a sale like that be made," Bonda told The Cleveland Plain Dealer.

And he noted that the Indians are financially sound after receiving a new bank loan.

"As far as I'm concerned right now, the Indians are not for sale," he said. "I can't make it more clear than that. We have plans for this season, we have the money for the season."

Aspromonte also has plans ... for vacating the American League East cellar.

"I'm especially happy with the pitchers," he said. "They're all well ahead of schedule. Elsewhere, Hank Aaron participated in an hour-long workout with the Atlanta Braves but failed to hit a ball out of the park. The Braves' slugger is one shy of Babe Ruth's all-time record of 714 home runs. "The pitchers are going to be careful pitching to Henry, no doubt," said Manager Eddie Mathews. "Nobody wants to give up the home run that sets the record. But it'll come. Somebody will get a little careless and make a pitch too good."

The Los Angeles Dodgers signed their last recalcitrant, catcher Joe Ferguson. He agreed to an estimated $42,500 after hitting 25 homers and driving in 88 runs last season.

Willie Crawford hit a 400-foot homer in a Dodger intrasquad game.

Other intrasquad homers were hit by Pittsburgh's Richie Zisk and Dave Parker, Philadelphia's Billy Grabarkewitz and Tommy Hutton and Billy Williams and Pete LaCock of the Chicago Cubs.

On the Latin American front, the Minnesota Twins reported no developments in the absence of unsigned Tony Oliva and veteran shortstop Luis Aparicio was in uniform for the first time at the Boston Red Sox' camp.

Players Set Ground For NFL Strike
By JOE MOOSHIL
AP Sports Writer
CHICAGO (AP)—Riding the theme of preparing for a strike to avoid one, the National Football League Players Association opened its convention with Sen. John Tunney pledging to do all he can for a "Bill of Rights for Athletes."

The California Democrat, cosponsor of a bill which would eliminate the controversial reserve clause which binds an athlete to a single team, said Sunday: "What we hope to accomplish is to give athletes an opportunity to negotiate with any team wanting to buy their services."

"Why should we have special rules for athletes not to enjoy the freedom we all have? There is no reason why an athlete should be treated like a child and not sell his services for what they are worth like everyone else."

Tunney said Congress "must recognize athletes have dignity. I pledge I will do all I can to get this legislation through as a Bill of Rights for Athletes."

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFLPA, said, "You get ready for a strike to avoid one. In 1970 we weren't ready. Now we are."

Garvey was critical of the owners' decision to end group insurance payments March 31. The basic agreement between the players and owners expired Jan. 31.

Negotiations on a new contract between the league and the players association begin March 16 in Washington.

More than 200 players and many wives attended Sunday's session. The convention will continue through Tuesday, with the players holding workshops on collective bargaining.

Dave Thompson Player Of Year

RALEIGH (AP)—Fabulous David Thompson of N.C. State is the basketball player of the year in the Atlantic Coast Conference for the second straight season.

The 6-4 junior from Shelby has led the top-ranked Wolfpack to a 51-1 record the past two seasons. Some observers regard him as the greatest basketball player in the history of the conference.

Thompson was named on ballots of all but three of the 142 members of the Atlantic Coast Sports Writers Association.

He was also a unanimous choice for the all-ACC. Next in the voting was his 5-7 teammate, Monte Towe, who is the smallest player ever to win all-conference honors.

Maryland also placed two players on the all-star team, rugged 6-9 Len Elmore and sophomore John Lucas, a 6-4 backcourt ace. Rounding out the starting five is North Carolina's Bobby Jones, a 6-9 senior.

The voters left off the first team 7-4 Tom Burlinson of State and 6-11 Tom McMillen of Maryland. Both had won all-ACC honors for two straight years and both were members of the U.S. Olympic team along with Jones.

But the voters had to choose three front line players and two backcourt men from a great array of talent. No team had every placed three men on the first five, so Burlinson and McMillen lost out.

Joining Burlinson and McMillen on the second team were Gus Gerard, Virginia's standout forward, and guards Darrell Elston of North Carolina and Tony Byers of Wake Forest.

The Worry Clinic Small Flaw Is A Big Spoiler

Lem shows why little flaws may offset large sums spent for advertising! Goodwill developed from superb newspaper publicity can thus be neutralized at the point of sale by "sloppy," tactless or sourpuss cashiers, clerks and waitresses!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE Z-567: Lem K., ages 38, is a school principal.

But Dr. Crane," he began, "my problem has nothing to do with our school.

"Instead, it is a common gripe that I have with reference to restaurants!

"As a devotee of coffee, I like it served to me hot instead of lukewarm.

"In fact, my wife even refrains from letting the waitress serve her coffee before our main meal arrives, for then it is cold by the time she wants it with her dessert.

"As for me, I enjoy 2 cups, so I relish one of them as soon as I am seated at the table.

"But even though I drink it immediately, only once in over a year has it been hot.

"And I have had to omit sugar, as well as cream, both of which I want in my coffee, for they cool it down from the original lukewarm state to a mere tepid temperature.

"Why don't restaurants turn up the heat a little more under their coffee urns?"

Restaurant
Psychology

My father would also grumble, like Lem today, concerning church suppers.

"For the coffee is NEVER hot," he'd state, irritably.

"Maybe it was warm when they poured it out, but in winter their cups are so cold, it isn't lukewarm by the time it gets to the table."

Indeed, I think I can personally say "Amen" to Lem's complaint, too.

For I prefer my coffee or tea so hot at the start that I can't drink it.

Then I keep sipping a little in my spoon till it reaches the exact temperature I like, after which I gulp it down.

As I look back, I must have eaten at a restaurant at least 100 times the past year.

But I can remember only ONCE when I got hot coffee!

Yet it is these supposedly minor factors that can make or break a business firm.

All it takes would be an extra 5 or 10 degrees heat under the coffee urn to send men out from a restaurant as rooters for its coffee.

Yet restaurants will spend a goodly amount of money on advertising their food; then ruin some of its food effect via minor flaws at the point of sale.

Other common complaints of diners consist of the following:

- (1) Failure of waitresses to smile and greet patrons.
- (2) Lack of napkins, salt and pepper shakers, and adequate silverware on the table when the food is served.
- (3) Table tops that haven't been properly cleaned after the former diners ate there.
- (4) Waitresses that handle silverware by the ends that go into your mouth, as by picking up spoons with their thumbs in the bowls or on the prongs of the forks.
- (5) Carrying 3 clean water glasses with a thumb and 2 fingers deep inside.
- (6) Delay in placing the check at the diner's place where he is in a hurry to eat and get away.
- (7) Errors in simple arithmetic when adding the tab.

Good waitresses must be smart, swift, smiling and able to add!

Send for my "tests for Employers and Employees," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Traffic Claims 10 N.C. Lives

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traffic accidents claimed at least 10 lives in North Carolina last weekend, the state Highway Patrol said. That brought the state's highway death toll for the year to 218.

Last year at this time, 256 persons had been killed in traffic accidents in the state.

The weekend victims included two persons killed in a four-car pileup Saturday in Robeson County. Killed were Cecil Parker, 37, of Lumberton and Norma Ruth Atkinson, 39, of Bladenboro. Officers said five other persons were injured.

The accident occurred on N.C. 211 near Lumberton.

An Edenton farm worker was killed Saturday when his tractor overturned on a rural road in Chowan County, pinning him underneath. The victim was identified as Charlie Edward Biggs, 19.

Henry Thomas McDonald, 71, of Rockingham was killed Saturday in a one-car crash in Richmond County.

Catherine Lawrence, 71, of Scotland Neck died in a two-car collision Saturday in Halifax County.

Lawrence Cecil Gentry, 53, was killed when his car overturned on a rural road.

Benjamin W. Carde, 70, of Clayton died in a two-car crash in Wake County.

Jasper Smith, 37, of Spring Hope was struck and killed by a car while he was lying on a road near his home.

Jackie Lee Pearce, 42, of Zebulon died when he was struck by a car in Franklin County.

Charlene H. Spurrier, 25, of Lake Hickory, was killed in a two-car collision in Burke County.

The Associated Press weekend traffic death count begins at 6 p.m. Friday and ends at midnight Sunday.

Opening lead: Six of ♣ Games and slams are the blood and thunder of contract bridge. However, even quiet part score contracts often provide the opportunity for declarer or a defender to exhibit his skill.

In the pass-out seat, North's balancing bid of one no trump is not like a no trump overall in the direct seat—it shows 11-15 points. East's heart rebid showed a better than minimum hand with probably a six-card suit, and South felt he had the values to compete. His bid of two spades ended the auction, and as the cards lay this was the only contract that could be made without help from the defenders.

The fact that West's heart lead was a singleton was soon revealed when East won the king and continued with the ace, West discarding a club. It seemed automatic to give West his ruff, but East paused to review the situation. West was unlikely to hold anything in the way of high cards, so two heart tricks and a ruff and East's two black aces were not going to be enough to set the contract. The only place to hope for another trick seemed to be via a club ruff, which was a distinct possibility, since East controlled the trump suit.

Accordingly, East shifted to ace and another club, won in dummy. Had declarer routinely led a trump, East would have hopped up with the ace and the defenders would have scored their ruffs for a one-trick set. But declarer was aware of East's designs, and found an elegant way to foil the defenders.

Before touching trumps, he cashed the king and ace of diamonds, and then led the jack of diamonds. East covered with the queen, and declarer discarded his jack of hearts!

This loser-on-loser play cut the enemy communications. East had no way to reach West to obtain a club ruff, and the defenders had to be satisfied with two heart tricks, a diamond and the two black aces.

Henderson-Vance County fire chief Ranger Wilkerson estimated damage to the Save Way store was $500,000 or more. He said the blaze started in the stock room at the back of the store but the cause had not been determined.

Early reports indicated the blaze might have been electrical in origin.

Employees discovered the fire at about 7:15 p.m. When firemen arrived at the scene employees were rushing from the smoke filled store carrying the cash registers to safety.

By late evening the roof and walls of the building had collapsed and the fire was declared a total loss. The fire was under control, but firemen were stationed at the smoldering ruins overnight.

Henderson and Vance County fire departments rushed four trucks to the blaze. They were aided by volunteer firemen from several surrounding communities.

It was the second fire of the day Henderson. Earlier Sunday a drive-in restaurant received $25,000 to $35,000 in damage.

Bomber Given Life Sentence

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP)—An all-white jury has sentenced a militant segregationist to life imprisonment for bombing the office of a black newspaper here last May.

Lawrence R. Little, 19, propaganda minister for the Rights of White People, was sentenced in a special session Saturday. His attorney served notice of appeal.

The jury took only 25 minutes to arrive at its decision. Little, who offered no evidence in his own defense, showed no emotion.

He was acquitted last month of bombing a local synagogue.

Two witnesses testified that Little had bragged to them about bombing the office of the Wilmington Journal, a newspaper with primarily black readers.

Another witness, David H. Smith, told the court he had delivered dynamite and blasting caps to Little shortly before the explosion.

Energy Crisis Works For Senator Jackson In '76

By ELIZABETH WHARTON WASHINGTON (UPI) — The energy shortage is no crisis for Sen. Henry Jackson. It's an opportunity that could make the Washington Democrat a real contender for the presidency in 1976.

If he misses, it probably will end his White House hopes forever.

Jackson tried for his party's nomination in 1972 and stayed in the race long after he had any real expectation of winning. But the issues at the top of most voters' lists right now are almost all Jackson's issues: —Three years ago he sponsored a Senate Committee study of U. S. fuels and energy policy, and later wrote President Nixon to warn that the United States was growing dangerously dependent on Arab oil—a supply that could be interrupted by war in the Middle East or by a Soviet alignment with the Arab nations.

—Two years ago he repeatedly warned against placing too much reliance on a policy of detente with the Soviet Union at the expense of American military strength.

Solid Position

—Last year he blocked Nixon's efforts to win approval for full-scale trade with the Soviet Union without a quid pro quo on relaxing emigration requirements for Russian Jews desiring to move to Israel.

So the oil crisis, the Russian military development and belligerence in the Middle East, and the Russian reversion to form in the Solzhenitsyn incident all put Jackson in a solid position to say, "I told you so."

Also working for Jackson are his roles as Chairman of the Permanent Investigating Committee, Chairman of the Interior Committee and second ranking Democrat on Senate Armed Services. They put him in a position to investigate and legislate in areas close to the heart—and pocketbook—of the voter.

Equally important, these issues are squarely in the eye of the television cameras and on the front pages of the nation's newspapers. This could help solve one of Jackson's most persistent problems—the fact that his name was not exactly a household word in 1972.

The Senator's own staff estimates that Jackson is not known to more than 50 per cent of the American people—and that could be optimistic. Although he has powerful friends among Democratic leaders, a recent Louis Harris opinion poll indicated that Jackson was the Presidential choice of only 8 per cent of party rank and file.

Jackson's Problems

Even if his name becomes widely known, however, Jackson has his problems, among them:

—Not all of his stands are as popular as oil and anticommunism. He proclaims himself a liberal, but he has not endeared himself to liberals in the Democratic party by his unrelenting support for the Vietnam war, his fight against the Strategic Arms Limitation agreements, his advocacy of an anti-busing amendment, his dedication to the supersonic airplane and the space shuttle, and his refusal even to discuss amnesty for the Vietnam war resisters and deserters.

—Edward M. Kennedy may or may not step out of his path. Few politicians doubt that Kennedy can have the Democratic nomination simply by deciding to seek it.

—Finally, Jackson's 1972 campaign left a sizeable residue of bitterness among supporters of Sen. George McGovern which will not be easily dispelled. Jackson not only remained in the race long after Hubert Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie had realized there was no chance of stopping McGovern, but he even declined to take the traditional step of moving to make the nomination unanimous once McGovern actually had won a majority of the convention votes.

No Unity Candidate

Jackson was quoted later as saying he thought it "would have been a disservice to the country to represent McGovern as the unanimous choice of the Democratic party." The words make it unlikely that he will be able to picture himself as any kind of unity candidate.

The Senator believes that time and changing issues will heal those wounds. He said a number of McGovern people already have offered to help his campaign.

Jackson needs to believe it, because he knows that 1976 is almost certainly his last chance. By the time the Democratic Convention meets two summers from now, he will be 64.

Not even his worst enemies think he looks it. Physically, he is Mr. Average. He's of medium height, stocky without being overweight, and has a friendly, open face with a wide, contagious smile. His thinning hair is clipped short and his sideburns are virtually nonexistent.

Pluses and Minuses

He has been in Congress since 1941 and in the Senate since 1952, when he defeated a conservative Republican incumbent who fought him as being soft on communism.

For years, "Scoop" Jackson (he acquired the nickname because of his resemblance to a cartoon character in the papers he delivered in his childhood) was near the top of every Washington woman's list of eligible bachelors. He did not marry until 1961 when he was 49. He and the former Helena Hardin have a daughter and a son.

Jackson's political pluses and minuses can be recited almost endlessly. A plus: he won his most recent re-election in 1970 with more than 88 per cent of the vote in Washington state. A minus (in many eyes): he was Nixon's first choice to be Secretary of Defense in 1969. A plus: a recent poll of Senate administrative assistants showed him far out in front as the Senate's most effective member. A minus: he is sometimes called "the Senator from Boeing" because of his close ties to the big aerospace and defense contractor in his home state.

(In Wisconsin in 1972, there was a flap over the fact that a Boeing official worked and used Boeing finances in Jackson's primary campaign. The official, Rodney W. Scheyer, later repaid the company from his private funds and explained that he had been working on his own time and had used company travelers' checks only as a convenience.)

underprivileged. Jackson thinks so too. He knows that recently the issues have been coming up roses for him—and he knows that a little luck is involved. Recently he did not start working on issues that would be timed to coincide with a presidential campaign. It didn't happen that way. I'm just not that smart."

Let's talk about how to plan for better weed control in soybeans. The good soybean price in 1973 has made many growers decide to take a new look at production practices in order to increase net profit.

One practice which merits much attention is weed control. Over 75 percent of soybean fields in the Southeast have some loss attributed to weeds.

The average cost per acre due to weeds is around $20 and that is $20 of pure profit.

If soybean growers are going to overcome the great loss caused by weeds, they have to accept the challenge and fight weeds with the entire arsenal of control tools available to them.

Such tools as good crop rotation, crop competition, cultivation, and herbicides all must be used to ensure a successful program.

Good crop rotation alone is not enough for weed control, but used in combination with proper weed control practices, it can help a great deal.

Certain broadleaf weeds such as cocklebur and morningglory are much easier to control in crops such as corn than in soybeans. In a situation such as this a corn-soybean rotation would help the population of broadleaf weeds could be decreased while growing corn, making it easier on the following soybean crop.

Continuing a good crop rotation can be a major factor in preventing a build-up of these hard to control weeds.

Crop competition may be one of the controls. In most cases, growers can depend on chemicals to control weeds early in the season. However, soybean herbicides break down by mid-season and shade from the soybean plant must be utilized to keep weed growth down.

Cultivation, of course, is the time tested old reliable for weed control. Although modern methods of weed control have decreased the number of cultivations, we certainly are not ready to throw out this valuable tool.

One or possibly two well-timed cultivations can be a very useful and economical addition to a weed control program.

Herbicides are the newest, most popular, and most efficient tool for controlling weeds in soybeans. However, herbicides are not magic; and such being the case, an intelligent decision must be made regarding their use. This decision, of course, is "Which one should I use?"

Before choosing a particular herbicide for soybeans, the grower must be fully aware of at least three things: (1) The weed species present, (2) The soil type and organic matter, and (3) The herbicide capabilities.

Herbicides vary widely in ability to control certain weeds.

Farm Tips

By Dr. J. W. Pou
Agricultural Specialist
Wachovia Bank & Trust Co., N.A.

One more back-breaking farm crop is yielding to the machine age.

Several machines that automatically pick pickling cucumbers were used for the first time this year by tar heel farmers.

Each machine, which requires two people to operate it, will do the work of fifteen to twenty laborers.

Principles for the mechanical cucumber harvester have been developed over the past seven years by engineers with the agricultural experiment station of North Carolina State University.

"Our goal has been to make cucumber production less expensive and a little easier," commented Dr. Ervin Humphries, who has headed the research project.

Dr. Humphries explained that North Carolina has the nation's largest pickling cucumber acreage—about 30,000 acres annually. Each acre will produce from 75,000 to 100,000 of the tiny cukes. Picking these cukes by hand requires a tremendous amount of stoop labor, which usually accounts for about 60 percent of the farmer's total production cost.

The machine, now being manufactured commercially, is a multi-pick tractor-drawn harvester. It has fingers which run under the vines and snap off the cucumbers. They are then conveyed to containers on the back of the machine.

Humphries emphasized that growers must follow certain cultural practices in order for the harvesters to work successfully. For example, the cucumbers must be planted on a wide, flat bed.

The machines will get about 75 percent of the cucumbers that are ready. The most difficult cucumbers to pick are those that grow down the center of the row and those first cucumbers that grow near the center of the plants. Most of these must be picked by hand by one of the operators of the machine.

Humphries commented that owners of the harvesters will probably want to consider staggered plantings, so that they might use the machine over as long a period each summer as possible.

To avoid shrinkage, shriveling, and rapid developing rots, cucumbers should be marketed the same day they are picked. They need to be removed from the field to a grading shed, or some other shady area, as soon as possible to avoid sunburn.

Most of the pickling cucumbers are grown under contract and sold on the basis of three grades—no. 1, no. 2 and no. 3. Purchasers pay a premium for the no. 1 or small cucumbers. This has a tendency to encourage growers to pick more often.

The Picking cucumbers are usually hauled by the grower to a nearby receiving station operated by the contractor, where they are graded and weighed.

Slicer cucumbers should be field graded by the grower. The best results are obtained where the final grading is done in an assembly point pack shed using waxing machines and belt grader crews. Bushel tub baskets, and twenty-pound paperboard cartons are the most standard shipping packages.

Father Divine Will Walk Again In Planned Movie

FATHER DIVINE, whose followers used the phrase "Peace, It's Wonderful", is shown here with his bride, Edna Rugh Ritchings, in Philadelphia. UPI Telephoto)

By ROBERT MUSEL
UPI Senior Editor

LONDON (UPI) — Someone said "Peace! It's wonderful!" and suddenly it all came back to George Greiff as it had been on that long-ago day in Harlem when a small, black man walked up Lenox Avenue on his way to legend.

That was a phrase the little man's followers used, and to Greiff it was not only an echo of one of the most colorful figures of the pre-World War II era but the cue to take an affectionate look at a genuine American phenomenon.

So Greiff, hitherto one of the leading pop music managers, is making his debut as a movie producer with a film about George Taker, the son of a slave, who became "Father Divine" and died in Philadelphia in 1965 at the age of about 100 with 18 secretaries ready to record his last words.

"For a generation that may not know him you have to start at the beginning," said Greiff, who has been associated with the New Christy Minstrels, Jose Feliciano and other top stars.

"A good many of the biographical details often given out about him have vague origins or are invented."

Lived Regally

Greiff, who is in Europe completing production details, said he believes Divine came up from the American south, where he may have been a preacher. But the film will probably pick him up on his arrival in New York amid all the racial and class hostility of the time.

"They think I'm illiterate and look down on 'em," Father Divine used to say of the white establishment, more in amusement than anger.

"And why should he be angry?" Greiff asked. "He had a Duesenberg car, the ultimate status symbol of the time, a private plane. He lived in regal style with an army of secretaries always in attendance to record every word for his own newspaper. (The secretaries wore sweaters with a "V" for virgin).

"His Worldwide Kingdom of Peace was functioning with armies of disciples—he estimated them at 20 million. There were many whites among them and one white person left him an estate worth $10 million. His motto was 'Father Will Provide,' and he did. You could go to a Father Divine restaurant and eat for very little all the chicken you wanted.

"He went into the streets and talked with people. He told them 'Peace is wonderful' and life is wonderful and they must be virtuous, honest, reliable and clean. And they were. Anyone who hired a Divine follower or who bought at one of their shops or pushcarts knew he would get a fair deal.

Brilliant Organizer

"He helped Fiorello La Guardia get elected mayor (of New York City) and Franklin D. Roosevelt get elected governor (of New York State). He was a brilliant organizer and businessman. The income tax people investigated him many times and he was always clean. He claimed he never owned anything personally. One woman investigator even joined the movement and is still in it.

"We see him as an American folk hero. Some of our information has come from his white Canadian wife (Edna Rose Ritchings) who was 22 when they married. He was about 70, but Father Divine always said it was a spiritual union. She took the name Sweet Angel and after his death became known as Mother Divine."

When reporters and others would demand "Are you God?" Divine invariably replied: "People say I am God."

"I Hated To Do It"

In 1931 he was fined and sentenced in Sayville, N.Y., on the grounds he had committed a public nuisance—because so many Harlem poor had arrived to share in the open hospitality of his dinner table.

Four days later the sentencing judge died suddenly.

When they brought the news his head sadly: to his cell Father Divine shook "I hated to do it," he said.

Learning To Drive Said Highlight To Handicapped

By ERLINDA VILAMOOR
WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (UPI) — Take it from Sgt. Dick McCall of the Connecticut Motor Vehicle Department: one of the most important things in the lives of the handicapped is learning to drive.

The tall, easy-going McCall who has been training the handicapped for the past seven years says they make better than average drivers because of their positive attitude.

"And they don't take chances," says McCall, 35, who runs the program by himself, using a specially-equipped car which looks like a Rube Goldberg contraption with its levers and cranks.

For the handicapped, it's a magic carpet.

War Vets First

The training program was started in 1945 and the first students were disabled veterans of World War II. The department became the first licensing agency in the nation to offer free driving instructions for the physically handicapped.

"War veterans still get first priority, but state residents for whom a car is important to get to work are also given top consideration," McCall says.

So far the department has trained and licensed over 4,000 handicapped persons, the majority of whom have unblemished driving records.

Not one of the drivers has been guilty of serious or dangerous violations. None has been involved in a fatal accident and none has had any traffic troubles due to their handicaps, he says.

Grateful Driver

One grateful paraplegic sends McCall a card each 50 miles she logs.

Once a handicapped person is medically certified to handle a car, McCall schedules lessons using the department's vehicle whose controls are on the brakes and steering column.

He picks up students at their homes and returns them. The learning period can run from three to 30 hours, depending on previous driving experience.

Once a student passes his driver's test, McCall helps getting his car equipped with the necessary devices which are manufactured by several companies.

Cities Gas Shortage

The equipment could cost from $200 for a paraplegic to $1,200 for a person with artificial arms, says McCall who is concerned these days with the gasoline shortage.

The lack of gasoline in Connecticut has hampered his routine of picking up and returning his students from the lessons.

Now he meets them at designated centers and he says the handicapped should be given priority at service stations.

"They won't demand. They are a patient lot. They wait in line at service stations, just like other drivers — but, they're more grateful at being able to get around," he says.

Photography In The Classroom

NEW YORK (UPI) — Growing numbers of students will add an extra dimension to their studies this year by using photography in classwork.

Through photography a student can demonstrate initiative and creativity that earn higher grades. Photography can help in courses such as government, English and Art or be an aid on class trips.

SEED CORN

Plant more than one variety. Here's why

You increase overall crop resistance to disease and decrease risk of serious loss in the event of disease outbreak.

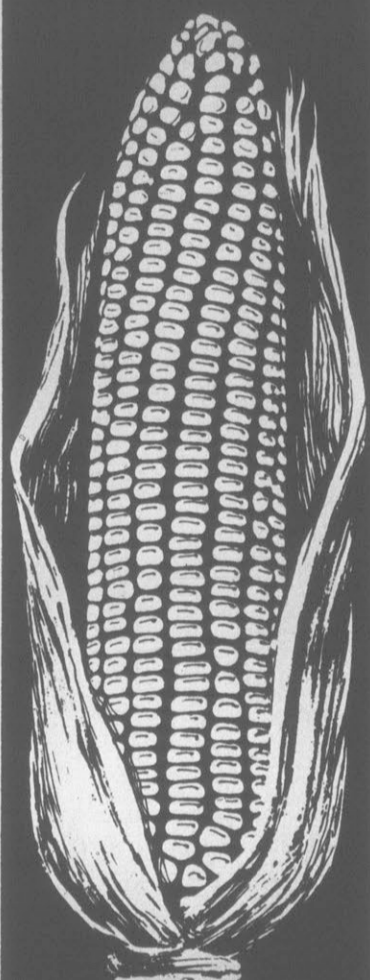

Select from these outstanding early maturing hybrids with proven adaptability anywhere in the Carolinas.

NEW FFR 808C — modified single cross: a get-up-and go newcomer that sets large ears on a sturdy stock that keeps lodging to a minimum. Field test results support high yield expectations in all areas.

FCX 801 — modified single cross: a better than average grain quality variety that will produce two good ears per stalk at lower plant population. Real good for high-grain-ratio silage.

FCX 45 — single cross: an excellent yielding medium height corn with a good reputation for early harvest throughout the entire FCX trading area.

FCX 32 — single cross: especially recommended for heavier soils. Normally produces a 100% set of large, uniform ears on medium height stalks.

Start this year confident that you've planted the best by ordering seed corn outstanding enough to warrant the FCX brand of approval.

And that includes fall panicum. A growing grass problem that straight atrazine users haven't been controlling.

Fact is, Lasso plus atrazine is an excellent all-round herbicide treatment for corn growers in the North Carolina and Virginia area.

Why? Because Lasso plus atrazine goes to work on grasses as well as broadleaf weeds. Not just fall panicum, but other tough customers like smooth crabgrass, foxtails, pigweed, and smartweed.

Why, it even reduces competition from toughies like cocklebur and annual morningglory.

And except for sweet corn, you can save yourself a trip over the field by adding liquid fertilizer to your Lasso plus atrazine tank-mix.

Another thing that makes Lasso plus atrazine fit in with your growing operation is the way it minimizes the risk of carryover. You see, Lasso has no carryover. And since you use less atrazine in the tank mix, there's less chance of having carryover problems.

This year, put Lasso plus atrazine to work in your corn. You'll control fall panicum, crabgrass and other annual grasses missed by atrazine. As well as most annual broadleaf weeds.
