

Support For Salary Hikes Is Swelling

RALEIGH (AP)—Sentiment is building in the North Carolina legislature to give teachers and state employees a cost-of-living salary increase of 7½ per cent.

The state Advisory Budget Commission recommended a five per cent pay boost in its budget proposal to the legislature. But that recommendation was made on the basis a conservative revenue estimate.

With that estimate now beginning to look too conservative, it appears that the legislature will have some extra funds to dole out.

And support is building for a bill sponsored by Sen. William Mills, D-Onslow and Rep. W.S. Harris, D-Alamance, that would give a big chunk of that extra revenue to the teachers and employees.

The Mills-Harris bill would give teachers and employees a 10 per cent raise rather than five per cent. Mills said Tuesday, however, that 7½ per cent appears to be a more realistic figure.

The pay boost could still die in a collision with a House-passed tax reduction package, but that became less likely Tuesday when the package was shunted off to a Senate subcommittee.

Adding to the pressure for a bigger pay raise is the knowledge that the fuel crisis's impact on general fund revenues will not be as serious as the Advisory Budget Commission had feared.

The commission, in December, estimated that general fund collections for the coming fiscal year would increase by 6.8 per cent, a figure substantially lower than in immediate past years.

The general fund is completely separate from the highway fund, which is based solely on gasoline tax collections and which is showing decreases due to the shortage.

But the overall impact of the fuel shortage on the state's economy, which would affect the general fund, has been negligible thus far.

January collections showed an increase of about 20 per cent, which the state Revenue Department said was somewhat high because of differences in collection procedures. The real increase, the department said, was about 16 per cent.

If February figures are similar, "there will be strong support" for the pay raises, Mills said.

Mills and Harris are co-chairmen of the Appropriations subcommittee on personnel. Mills said they had decided on a 7½ per cent boost because "We decided 10 per cent might be too extreme."

The pay boost should also have Republican support. Gov. Jim Holshouser has said he feels more money for teachers and employees should have the first priority if extra funds are available.

The additional 2½ per cent for the teachers and employees would cost the state $30 million. That is roughly the same as the price tag for the House-passed tax reduction package, which would give relief to manufacturers, retailers, the poor and senior citizens.

Indicted

WILLIAMSTON, N.C. (AP)—A Martin County grand jury has indicted the former supervisor of the county's Alcoholic Beverage Control Board on charges of embezzling $1,400 from the board over a six-year period.

The supervisor, Warren Nicholson, was suspended from his post effective Feb. 7 after an audit of ABC store records.

A second bill of indictment Monday charged Dillan Wynne with aiding and abetting Nicholson in the embezzlement.

The indictments were based on shortages of stock incurred at the Bypass ABC package store in Williamston.

Nicholson's bond was set at $10,000. Wynne was free under a $2,000 bond.

Dees Objects To Assembly Studying Veterinary School

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—The chairman of the board of governors of the 16-campus University of North Carolina system says legislative approval of a resolution to study construction of a veterinary medicine school would "destroy the integrity" of the UNC board.

"I regret very much that such a resolution has been introduced," William A. Dees of Goldsboro said in an interview Tuesday.

"If you have resolutions like this you would undercut the board and destroy the integrity of the system."

The resolution, introduced in the House last week with 43 cosponsors, calls for creation of a nine-member commission to study veterinary medical education and determine "whether or not additional education programs are warranted and feasible."

A report of the commission's findings would be submitted to the governor, who in turn would present it to the 1975 General Assembly.

Broad-Scale Data Access Is Resisted

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The White House has served notice it will resist any sweeping House Judiciary Committee request for broad-scale access to presidential tape recordings or documents.

Two of President Nixon's top aides stopped short Tuesday of flatly rejecting the committee's move to obtain 42 additional Watergate tape recordings.

But presidential counselor Bryce Harlow and Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler made clear Nixon's strong opposition to granting the panel virtually unlimited access to White House files.

In separate sessions with reporters, Harlow and Ziegler pictured the White House position as follows:

The President already is supplying the committee with all tapes and documents turned over earlier to special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski and, once the committee analyzes it, it should find the material sufficient to conclude its impeachment inquiry.

In addition, the two officials said the committee — before seeking any more White House tapes or documents — should define what it considers impeachable offenses and say what specific allegations it is investigating.

Ziegler declared it would be "constitutionally irresponsible" for Nixon to accede to any committee requests until such a definition is made.

Harlow agreed, adding that "there are times when the executive branch must not furnish papers" to the congressional branch of government.

However, Committee Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said the committee has no intention of preparing charges before it gathers all the evidence it thinks it needs.

And Rep. Robert McClory of Illinois, the committee's second-ranking Republican, said that, if the White House intends to withhold the additional material the committee is seeking on such grounds, "it definitely signals a serious confrontation between Congress and the executive branch."

Rodino had kept details of the additional request secret under the committee's rules of confidentiality, and the White House leak of the letter of request angered many members.

Exchange Fire For 2 Hours

TEL AVIV (AP)—Israeli and Syrian artillery exchanged fire for two hours just after dawn today, according to the Israeli command. A spokesman said there were no Israeli casualties.

The exchange followed four hours of heavy shelling Tuesday, when hundreds of shells crossed the tense cease-fire line and shock waves from Israeli 175mm cannon fire shook the ground in Damascus, 23 miles from the front.

Syria said it shot down an Israeli helicopter, but Israel denied the claim.

The Israelis made no comment on claims by Damascus that Syrian gunners made direct hits on a dozen military targets.

There were no reports of casualties.

Deputy Premier Yigal Allon warned late Tuesday that "any attempt by Syria to renew hostilities may backfire."

Bicentennial Party Up To Citizens' Poll

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

A general survey of local citizens and the business sector of the city will be conducted soon in an effort to determine if there is real interest in having a bicentennial celebration here.

The small turnout at Monday night's meeting, which had been called for the purpose of hearing final suggested plans for the event, was certainly no indication of city-wide public support.

Rather than reject the proposal offered by Robert Howett of the Rogers Co., celebration specialist of Fostoria, Ohio, the gathering voted to have the public surveyed as thoroughly as possible and to make a final decision based on the poll results.

Harold Creech, manager of the Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association, said that the Chamber would poll its membership as well as civic organizations here and a newspaper ad could be run in effort to reach local citizens. Church groups would also be surveyed in the attempt to gauge potential support.

Last night's small turnout at Third Street School was especially disappointing in view of last month's meeting at city hall that drew a much larger cross section of the population. That delegation, voted to proceed with plans for the celebration and invited Howett back for more detailed proposals.

Mayor Eugene West noted that the "City Council was willing to go along with the program, provided that the people wanted it." West added, "I'm disappointed. This doesn't seem to be any indication that the people want it."

Another meeting with Howett that will hopefully be attended by a larger group of citizens was scheduled for March 26. The site for the meeting will be named soon. A final decision on whether to proceed with bicentennial plans is expected to be made at that time.

Howett reported that the Rogers Company's proposal for the celebration called for a "total estimated celebration expense" of $50,150. The total budget allocations necessary to fund the event, as planned by the company, amounts to $25,500 while the Rogers Co. fee would total $24,650.

A discrepancy in the number of students living here in relation to the number of year-round residents was found in the information collected at the last meeting. Howett noted, and the inclusion of the correct figures will result in some changes being made in the overall figures.

Howett said that if the Rogers plan is followed, a 100 per cent achievement of money-raising proposals could result in an estimated potential revenue of some 68,310 and with the potential expense of 50,150 deducted from the returns, a profit of roughly $18,160 could be realized.

"I'm sorry if I show a pessimistic feeling," West said, "but I think the fee is too high. I think that for a week and for what you have to do, it is just too high."

The Rogers representative said that advance financing is necessary and operating capital can be secured from three sources: the sale of individual stock certificates to the general public; industry, commerce and organization; and municipal appropriations.

Howett proposed a week-long schedule of events for the celebration, beginning with a Friday and Saturday bargain day overservice of local businesses when "prices will be the craziest in years" and when "a nickel will once again buy something."

Sunday would focus on a salute to religion with emphasis on 200 hundred years (Continued on page 14)

Gradis Chairman Of Utilities Body

Utilities commissioners last night approved rate increases for interruptible customers and elected Dr. Howard Gradis as new chairman in the annual meeting.

DR. HOWARD GRADIS

Gradis succeeds Dr. Ray Minges, who remains on the commission and was elected vice chairman.

Gradis just completed a five year term on the board and was reappointed to a second term by the City Council.

The gas rate increase for interruptible customers was increased from 73 cents to $1.10 cents per million cubic feet, effective April 1, or 50 percent.

Interruptible customers are those who take natural gas as long as it is available and then switch to oil or other fuels. East Carolina University, Pitt Memorial Hospital, Fieldcrest and Carolina Leaf fall into the category. Burroughs Wellcome is an interruptible customer on a contract, which will be affected when the contract is renegotiated.

Director Charles Horne pointed out that the new rate will still be well below the comparable cost of oil. No. six fuel oil at equal heating value would be comparable to natural gas at $1.65 per mcf.

The commission also declared that interruptible rates would be re-examined for Nov. 1, 1974 through April 1, 1975 in light of fuel oil prices at that time.

The commission also adopted as policy, the tracking of natural gas increases from N.C. Natural Gas; that is as increases are made by the supplier they will be passed on to the retail customer.

Commission members suggested showing the fuel charge for electricity, which varies from month-to-month as a separate figure on utilities bills. The charge is set monthly by VEPCO based on fuel costs and is passed on to Greenville Utilities which, in turn, passes it on to its customers.

The commission accepted a proposal from Phil Carroll for accepting sewage in the city system from a proposed land development north of the Tar River.

A proposal from Olsen Associates for extension of planning for northside sewage treatment plant to qualify for federal grants was accepted.

Other items acted on:

- Approved water service for Earl's Estates south of Brook Valley.
- Approved bid of $24,774.05 for electronic accounting equipment from National Cash Register.
- Raised propane rates by 4 cents per ccf, effective April 1 to track supplier increases.

- Purchased used dump truck from Highway Commission for $2,500.
- Purchased propane bulk truck from White River Distributors, Inc. for $14,175.

Gasoline Is More Available

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American Automobile Association says arrival of new gasoline allocations for March generally is making fuel more available at service stations across the country.

The AAA reported Tuesday that in a spot check of 6,105 stations, only about 5 per cent were out of gasoline this week compared with 20 per cent the previous week.

The survey showed that 9 per cent of the stations checked were shutting down their gasoline pumps by noon on weekdays, compared with 11 per cent last week.

Stations limiting gasoline purchases decreased to 22 per cent from 25 per cent the week before, the AAA said. However, it said 7 per cent of the stations surveyed were limiting their own daily gasoline sales this week, up from 3 per cent last week.

The AAA survey found the highest average price for regular gasoline was 57 cents a gallon, in Michigan. The highest average price reported for premium gasoline was 64 cents per gallon, in Oregon.

The lowest average price for regular was 48 cents a gallon in both Rhode Island and Texas.

Fire Damages Old Building

GOLDSBORO (AP)—About 150 firemen, including some from five volunteer companies, battled a blaze about an hour and a half before bringing it under control Tuesday night at the Goldsboro Milling Co. The structure was heavily damaged.

Firemen remained at the scene Wednesday morning to make sure the smoldering ashes did not again erupt.

The three and four story building, mostly of frame construction, had stood since the late 1800's in the north end of the downtown area.

About 150 firemen, including five companies of volunteers, fought the fire Tuesday night.

Meany Urges Congress Break Oil Stranglehold

WASHINGTON (AP)—AFL-CIO President George Meany today urged tough congressional action to deal with oil companies which he said have "a stranglehold on the American economy."

The union leader called on Congress to override President Nixon's veto of emergency energy legislation that would provide special energy-crisis unemployment compensation and an oil-price rollback.

"We still believe that Congress can be persuaded to enact an energy bill that means something and overcome the pressures of the oil firms and override Mr. Nixon's veto," Meany said.

His remarks were prepared for a seminar on the energy crisis being conducted by the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers International Union.

Meany termed Nixon's veto of the energy measure "one more in a long series of vetoes of measures aimed at serving the interests of plain people, as against the interests of the corporations and money manipulators."

He said the oil companies

"have a stranglehold on the American economy and the Nixon administration has done not one thing to find out how hard they are squeezing."

Meany said that while the administration is against gasoline rationing, it has encouraged fuel price hikes and thus "rationing by the pocketbook, rationing by privilege."

The administration, Meany said, "would guarantee plentiful gasoline to those who can pay the price by making it unavailable to those who cannot. So the rich could drive to the country club while workers were unable to get to work."

Lawmen Chasing Down New-Type 'Fagin'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Fagin in "Oliver Twist" was a seedy slum fence who coached street urchins in the art of picking pockets and exploited the little "dears" by pocketing the bulk of the swag.

Now, more than a century after Charles Dickens created this literary character, law enforcement officials in a number of states say they are chasing real-life "Fagin operators" who recruit inner-city youth with false promises of scholarships and cash to sell candy door-to-door in affluent suburbs.

The operators profit by cloaking themselves in the mantle of implied charitable efforts, officials from four states told a Senate subcommittee Tuesday.

Donald G. Mulack, assistant attorney general of Illinois, said the schemes, which surfaced in his state about two years ago, involve recruiting children to peddle boxes of candy worth 30 to 50 cents a box. The candy is sold for $1.50 to $1.75. The child keeps 25 cents per sale and turns the balance over to the company or the crew manager.

"In a typical operation," Mulack said, "a crew manager recruits young people at candy stores near grammar schools through posters and flyers which advertise: 'Students wanted, earn up to $20 a week, part-time.'"

The operators play on the respectability of such campaigns as Girl Scout, church and school group cookie sales.

Officials from Pennsylvania, Florida and New Jersey told the subcommittee on children and youth about nearly identical schemes in their states.

Also testifying were officials of several of the sales organizations.

Morrie Friedman, executive director of the National Youth Clubs of America, said, "I don't feel as long as there's proper supervision it's such a detriment to the child."

He blamed greedy franchisees for failures to deliver on promises of scholarships.

Friedman estimated his organization has hired 25,000 to 30,000 children, starting them in at the age of 8 or 9. He said his organization achieved about $3.2 million in gross

Gerald Winters, a candy franchisee with Youth Incentives, Inc., said he wanted to help disadvantaged youths earn money and learn self-reliance and business sense. "I am the first one to admit now that the organization grew without proper direction," he said.

Winters said Youth Incentives was aimed at teenagers and estimated as many as 1,500 were out selling in 25 cities on a given Saturday before state officials began cracking down.

Trio Charged With Piracy Of Records

RALEIGH (AP)—Three Wilson men have been charged with pirating popular recordings from major record companies to distribute them on discount stereo tapes, U.S. Atty. Thomas P. McNamara said Tuesday.

Charges in the form of a criminal information were brought against two of them, James Clarence Crisp, 24, a former radio announcer, and George Brian Davis, 32, a life insurance salesman. They are co-owners of a company called Super Hits, Volume One, McNamara said.

Crisp and Davis are accused of copying seven recordings in violation of federal copyright laws.

Theodore Milton Hooker, 55, owner of Ted's Music & Television Center, was named in a separate charge with infringing the copyright of three songs.

They could be sentenced to a maximum of one year in jail and a fine of up to $1,000 upon conviction of each count, the U.S. attorney said.

Military Judge Weights Role

CAMP LEJEUNE, N.C. (AP) — A little over three years ago, Marine Capt. Eileen Albertson was a college student studying law. Today she is a certified military judge in the Marine Corps and may preside over special courts-martial.

Capt. Albertson is the second woman marine to receive this distinction. She may become the first to preside in a courtroom. A previous certified judge never did so.

Before becoming a judge, Capt. Albertson was prosecuting counsel. Other previous assignments included nine months in Judge Advocate General School for military lawyers at Charlottesville, Va.; 14 months on Okinawa as prosecutor and foreign claims commissioner and some months as defense counsel at Quantico, Va.

Capt. Albertson served a six-year stint in the Marine Corps Reserve before going on active duty.

"I had always wanted to be a lawyer and I've always been sort of intrigued by the military so I decided that it might be a good idea to combine the two of them," said the 28-year-old native of Bloomsburg, Pa.

Capt. Albertson does not think that she has any added burdens because of her sex.

"I think being a woman is more of an advantage than a disadvantage," she said. "The only problem that I come up against frequently is men often referring to me as 'sir' accidentally."

The judge admits that she takes a lot of kidding from her male counterparts, "but it's all in fun," she said. "I hope they don't think of me as just being a woman lawyer."

When the time comes for her to leave the corps, she would be interested in becoming a civilian judge.

"Civilian judges are different from military judges because they are either elected or appointed. But I have often given the idea some thought and I think I would like being a judge in the civilian world."

Currently, Capt. Albertson plans to stay with the Marine Corps indefinitely.

"I like what I'm doing, and will stay until I quit liking what I do," the petite captain added.

"Being a military judge will give me some needed experience and also help me decide whether I would like to sit on the bench in a civilian court or not."

DAR State Conference To Meet In Wilmington

Two delegates from the Major Benjamin May Chapter of DAR will attend the 74th state conference meeting in Wilmington this week.

Mrs. H. A. I. Sugg, chapter regent, and Mrs. Jack Riley of Raleigh will represent the chapter.

The March meeting of the chapter was held Saturday at the home of Mrs. Tilton Willcox. Mrs. Harry Pair and Mrs. Charles Woodall were assisting hostesses for the meeting.

Mrs. Woodall showed a film entitled "North Carolina—The Goodliest Land," which was photographed by Landis Bennett, a photographer with N. C. State University.

Mrs. F. M. Tripp gave the National Defense report for the month which related to reasons for the current national gasoline shortage. Miss Tabitha DeVisconti gave a progress report on the chapter's bicentennial project and also stated that a window display was used in Farmville on George Washington's birthday.

The local chapter will give a National Defense medal to the most worthy ROTC cadet this year and the award will be presented by the regent May 14.

The executive director of the New Bern-Craven County Bicentennial Commission sent an invitation to the 200th anniversary of the First Provincial Congress in New Bern to convene Aug. 16.

The N. C. Genealogical Society is now organizing in Raleigh. Any DAR member interested in joining should call Mrs. Sugg. Mrs. Milton Barnett was welcomed as a new member.

Household Hints

If you rent a house or apartment, fire, theft or a lawsuit could cause you big financial problems.

Look into renter's insurance for protection against losses.

Finance credit at the lowest cost. Look around for the lowest interest rate the same as shopping for the lowest price merchandise.

A responsible consumer avoids itinerant peddlers when buying something important. He wants a telephone number, a store address, place to go to if something should go wrong with the purchase.

The value of your house may be lot higher than it was when you first took out your insurance for it. Check to see if you have adequate insurance to insure yourself against a serious loss.

Women Repeat, Men Talk On

AMSTERDAM, Netherlands (WNS)—Pieter Loning, 34, had no trouble winning the talking contest against 18 women and two men here. "Women do a lot of ah-ing and uh-ing but cannot keep up a rapid stream of direct talk," he explained. "The average man covers twice as much ground in 15 minutes of steady conversation. Women repeat and repeat and repeat."

Explanations Aren't Necessary

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are heartsick! Our son and his lovely wife have been married 10 years and have two adorable children. Together they have just informed us that they are getting a divorce. We were shocked.

We are quite well-known in our community and all of our friends and relatives thought our son had made the perfect marriage.

Our clergyman has advised us to ask them no questions, and to refrain from urging them to try to make a "go" of their marriage. He told us that they had sought counseling and they have been unable to reconcile their differences, so we should simply accept it.

Our question: What should we tell relatives and friends when they ask us: "What happened?"

HEARTSICK PARENTS

DEAR PARENTS: Tell them you don't know. [P. S. You don't owe anyone any explanations.]

DEAR ABBY: I took this beautiful young lady out on a date. For no reason at all, I beat her up, took her clothes off, and left her to sit in a cold locked car from midnight until dawn.

After I thought about what I had done, I went back and gave her her clothes and told her that I was sorry.

Abby, I have never done anything like that before. I have never in all my life even hit a woman. I still can't tell you what made me do it.

I have called her up several times to tell her I was sorry, but as soon as she recognizes my voice, she hangs up on me. I don't blame her, but I just want her to know that I am very sorry for what I did, and I need to hear her say that she will forgive me.

ASHAMED

DEAR ASHAMED: You're lucky she didn't report you to the police. Quit calling her. You may be earnestly "sorry" and at the same time seriously "sick." Tell your doctor what you've told me. If he doesn't recommend counseling, call your local mental health association. And do it now before you do something else you can't explain.

DEAR ABBY: I have been married for 17 years to a man who is good to me and the kids, but he's always been the quiet type until we have an argument, and then he explodes. For instance the other night we had an argument about the bills I ran up. [I admit, I have a tendency to overspend.]

After he yelled about that a while he said: "And another thing, why do you make FISH all the time? You know I hate fish!" I was shocked. I never knew he didn't like fish. He always ate it without saying a word.

How can a wife get her husband to say what is on his mind without waiting for it to come out in a fight?

IN THE DARK

DEAR IN: Without nagging ["Why don't you ever talk to me?"], try to involve him in conversations. The more communication you have between you, the more you will learn about his likes and dislikes. And hurry up. You're already 17 years behind!

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Color Popcorn Green For St. Patrick's Day

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

A young friend of mine, now in college, remembers with delightful sentiment that when she was in third grade the enthusiastic class mother sugared popcorn and colored it appropriately for various occasions. And each time, each child in the class was given a tiny bag of the popcorn, along with a tiny happy note, to carry home.

I was reminded of this recently when I tasted popcorn that had been baked with a syrup flavored with peppermint extract and colored green. Perfect, of course, for celebrants of St. Patrick's Day. When another taster took some of the Peppermint Popcorn home to his wife she liked it so much she said, "Get me the recipe!" Here it is.

PEPPERMINT POPCORN
3 quarts freshly prepared popcorn

½ cup butter or margarine

1 cup sugar

½ teaspoon salt

¼ cup light corn syrup

½ teaspoon peppermint extract

½ teaspoon green food coloring

Into a large shallow baking or roasting pan turn the popcorn; set aside. In a 2-quart saucepan melt the butter; stir in sugar, salt and corn syrup. Cook, stirring constantly, until sugar dissolves and mixture comes to a boil. Boil, without stirring for 5 minutes. Remove from heat. Stir in peppermint extract and green food coloring. Pour over popcorn in baking pan and stir to mix. Bake in a preheated 250-degree oven for 1 hour, stirring 3 or 4 times. Cool completely. Store in a tightly covered container. Makes about 2½ quarts.

Note: Recipe may be doubled: cook double amount of syrup mixture in a 3-quart saucepan; pop two batches of corn kernels; arrange popcorn in two large shallow baking or roasting pans; pour syrup into a quart measure and mix one-half of it with popcorn in each pan; bake as above.

To prepare the popcorn, use an electric popper following manufacturer's directions. Or prepare popcorn on top of the range: pour 3 tablespoons salad oil into a 4- or 5-quart saucepot; place over medium-high heat; add a kernel of corn; when kernel pops, remove it and add ½ cup corn kernels; stir to mix corn kernels and oil; cover pan, leaving lid slightly ajar; shake pan often until popping stops; makes about 3 quarts.

400 recipes are given in "Cecily Brownstone's Associated Press Cookbook" available by sending $4.95 (check or money order made payable to "The Associated Press") to this newspaper in care of AP COOKBOOK, Box G4, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.

The Nostalgia Bit Is In Us All

Nostalgia is the name of the game, and you run into it on every front: in pictures, articles, conversations, television, the movies and radio. Oddly enough, today's young people seem to be getting some kicks out of the 1930's, '40s and '50s. We have read that a few (presumably still a very few) have an interest in ballroom dancing. All this is heady stuff for people whose hair is tinged with gray and have told their offspring the joys of yesterday. Here and there a psychologist has been known to

Simon Appears A Replacement

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Despite the ring of critics closing in on William Simon over his performance as federal energy czar, President Nixon has tentatively decided to name him Secretary of the Treasury this spring with a good chance that wage-price administrator John Dunlop will take over the energy post.

In private conversations with trusted associates, Mr. Nixon has given the impression that the long-rumored resignation of Treasury Secretary George Shultz—looking and sounding tired after five years in the Cabinet—is now set for May 1. At the same time, the President indicates Simon remains his choice to replace Shultz. Contrary to published reports, David Rockefeller of the Chase Manhattan Bank has not been offered the post. If the President sticks to his present resolve, Bill Simon will have beaten the Nixon system which decrees decapitation for any official who dares reveal a taste for publicity or dares maintain confidential contacts with the outside world. Besides being the target of congressional criticism, Simon has been sniped at by White House aides and administration officials unhappy with his instinct for power and flamboyant style.

So far, however, Mr. Nixon himself has not joined the pack. Contrary to published reports friends of Simon believe the President was pleased, not miffed, over Simon's recent outburst against the Shah of Iran on the question of how much oil is being imported.

The selection of Dunlop, a labor mediator without knowledge of the complex world of oil, as the new energy czar is much less certain. The President does feel that Simon's deputy, John Sawhill, does not have enough experience to replace him. Dunlop has been recommended by influential congressional figures, is a personal favorite of Mr. Nixon's and will soon be virtually out of work as wage-price controls end.

Wall Streeter Simon at the Treasury would be both more innovative and flexible than academician Shultz. On the other hand, Dunlop at the Federal Energy Office would be considerably less flamboyant than Simon.

Cult of Individual
Whatever James Keogh's other accomplishments as head of the $200 million-a-year United States Information Agency (USIA), the unprecedented personal publicity being given to him in USIA's in-house monthly organ "USIA World" is raising eyebrows both inside and outside the agency.

The most recent issue of "World" features no fewer than seven separate page one pictures of the distinguished-looking former executive editor of Time magazine and chief Nixon speechwriter.

Thus, USIA's 9,516 employees have intimate glimpses of Keogh talking with Philippine President Ferdinand Marcos, admiring a watercolor with President Lon Nol of Cambodia, gazing across the demilitarized zone into North Korea with Mrs. Keogh, shaking hands with President Nguyen Van Thieu of South Vietnam, discussing high policy with President Park of South Korea, greeting USIA employees in Bangkok, boarding a small plane in Phnom Penh.

These seven pictures fill the entire surface of page one except for a small box in the center noting that Keogh "flew into Phnom Penh during the recent bombing of the capital when rockets were landing in the city." Even more dangerous, "He was in Djakarta following the visit of Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka when a curfew had been imposed because of rioting."

A footnote: Necessary foreign travel has traditionally taken the head of USIA out of the country for three months each year. But Keogh's decision to take Deputy Director Eugene Kopp with him to Vienna in mid-February, stripping the agency of both the director and his deputy at the same time, was highly unusual.

A Tax Cut?
Disregarding White House requests that it take up health care legislation first, the House Ways and Means Committee next month will begin drafting a tax reform bill that could well become the vehicle for budget-busting general tax reduction.

Rep. Al Ullman of Oregon, acting chairman of Ways and Means, believes there have been too many recent federal tax cuts already. But he might not be able to defeat sentiment for a tax cut to fight what most Congressmen (though not the President) call a recession. That's one reason the White House would rather delay tax reform to 1975.

But one of Mr. Nixon's most effective allies on Ways and Means, conservative Democratic Rep. Joe Waggoner of Louisiana, disagrees. He has told the White House both health care and tax reforms should be handled this year. The reason: Waggoner feels the next Congress will be more liberal and hence less sympathetic to the Nixon administration than this one.

opine the nostalgia bit is escapism from a world that is disappointing the youth who came on to the scene with all the high hopes and courage and optimism that is attributed them.

On that point we sharply disagree. Having a few gray hairs ourselves, today's world in our eyes holds greater promise of moral, cultural and economic advantages than were dreamed of by the older generation in its prime time.

Not one of today's parents would relinquish their golden memories, but neither would they believe their own years of effort to create a better life has been fruitless.

There lurks in memory some sage advice to the effect that he who knows not of yesterdays is forever a child. It's likewise true that he who is ignorant of today, is as short-changed as the person who knows nothing of yesterday.

We are impatient with people who find only fault with the present and take the dimmest view of the future. With all our problems, this is a better world than the most nostalgic of eras; and while there is no reason to think our tomorrows offer fewer problems, there is every reason for faith in a better world with every passing generation.

Nostalgia? Everybody in every generation shares it at one time or another. It's representative of a link in the chain of continuity that we helped forge. Small wonder we tell and re-tell the bright spots of the past, and gloss over the less-pleasant aspects. That too, is part of the game.

Act Slowly On Sediment Law

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—So far, only two counties and a handful of cities across the state have adopted a set of model ordinances for control of sediment washing into streams during construction work.

Does that mean there's foot dragging?

"No, there really isn't any foot dragging. The people out there simply don't understand the new law, and we are limited in being able to get out and talk with people," says Clarence B. (Red) Shimer, head of the sedimentation control commission.

Shimer said he is taking a cautious approach toward implementation, seeking "a set of rules we can all live with...to allow development to continue with the least possible detriment to streams.

"We've got to come up with a reasonable, measurable level of protection so that both developers and the state can determine what are violations and what are not violations."

Involved Process
Shimer's commission is supposed to come up with a set of rules by July of this year, hold public hearings, draw up a schedule for implementing the regulations, carry out an educational program, and direct local implementation and inspection procedures.

But above all, Shimer believes, a reasonable approach is critical. "This thing affects a lot of stuff on the drawing boards today for future development, and the developers need to know what to do."

A series of public hearings proved that neither state officials or developers really understand what the new law is all about, Shimer said. "It has not been clear exactly what we're driving at. As a result, we recognize the need to redefine some terms to help people understand this thing."

The object, he said, is to draw up regulations to control washing of dirt and other sediment from construction sites into nearby streams or onto nearby property.

"What has been happening is that streams were filled up with silt, and that causes ponds and reservoirs downstream to fill up and the stream to get narrower and narrower."

"That kills fish, disrupts other wildlife, and harms some vegetation."

"It also increases flooding potential and causes more frequent overflow of water onto adjacent property," Shimer said.

"Now here is the problem: how do you accomplish some control over this within a reasonable cost-benefit ratio."

"We can't say you have to have absolute control—the cost is prohibitive. So we are looking at reducing the runoff some 60 to 80 per cent."

Not Irrational
"We can't afford to get irrational about this and force measures that will stop development or cost too much. After all, it's the consumer who must pay the bill ultimately," Shimer said.

The general public, looking at a construction site, just doesn't understand all that, Shimer added.

"All that looks bad isn't necessarily bad. That bare ground may look terrible, but if control measures to catch and hold the runoff are implemented, then sedimentation is under control," he explained.

Complaints from the public are generally directed at the exposed earth, however, without understanding that surrounding the construction site may be adequate control systems to trap and hold sediment runoff, he said.

Shimer said the commission intends to have a set of definitions and rules and regulations drawn up by the middle of April so the program can be reviewed with the people affected by the new rules.

On April 25, Gov. Jim Holshouser will host a conference on sedimentation control in Raleigh with representatives from local and state government, land use planners, architects and engineers, homebuilders, contractors, developers and real estate interests present to review the proposals.

The end result, Shimer said, will be a set of rules which all parties can live with, and which effectively control the pollution and buildup of channels resulting from construction work.

Strength For Today

THE POWER OF HOPE

Chief Justice John Marshall, who knew Washington personally, said that at a critical period during the American Revolution when the cause was almost defeated, the general "constantly showed himself to his harassed and enfeebled army with a serene, unembarrassed countenance...inspiring with confidence the bosoms of others. To this unconquerable firmness, to this perfect self-possession under the most desperate circumstances, is America, in a great degree, indebted for her independence." Jeremiah declared centuries ago, "It is good that a man should both hope and wait quietly for the salvation of the Lord."

Hope somehow or other seems to create an avenue through which the grace and power of God rush into our needy lives. It was the hope of Washington which saved the day for the infant United States. It may be hope in the face of some insurmountable obstacle which may save the day for you and me.

Unveiling Of A Scandal

WASHINGTON—"Mr. President, you know those seven people who were arrested for streaking through the Watergate fountain last week?"

"I read about it in the newspaper, John."

"It turns out several of them worked for the White House."

"Why didn't I know about this sooner?"

"Well, Mr. President, we thought we could keep it from you. It is our belief that it would be unwise to have the President of the United States involved with streaking and all its implications."

"I am very disturbed that anyone on my staff would run nude through the Watergate fountain. Why did they do it, John?"

"They thought it would help you in the polls. The problem now, Mr. President, is that the people arrested say if we don't help them they're going to reveal that we've been streaking in the White House for the last six months. If that gets out, we're going to be in a lot of trouble."

"That's blackmail, John. What are our options?"

"We could pay the money to them to hush them up."

"How much would it cost, John?"

"Taking into consideration their lawyers' fees and what it would cost to care for their families, I would say $1 million."

"We could raise that easily, John. What are our other options?"

"We could say we streaked in the White House for national security reasons. We had to hire streakers because the FBI refused to streak for us, and the CIA under their mandate could streak only in a foreign country. Our streakers were hired to find out what other streakers were up to. As President it was your constitutional duty to see that the people in this country did not discard all their clothes and run around in their birthday suits."

"I see. Do we have any other options?"

"We could refuse to pay the money to the defendants and let them reveal the streaking that went on here. We could say that a few members of your staff did run nude through the halls, but no one had ever streaked through the Oval Office. As soon as you heard about it you ordered an investigation of the streaking and insisted that those who did it had to resign!"

"What if it turns out that my closest aides were involved in the streaking, John?"

"There's that possibility, Mr. President. I saw two of the men you hold in the highest esteem run naked through Rose Mary Woods' office the other night."

"Have you ever streaked, John?"

"Yessir, I have, Mr. President. One afternoon while I was working on some legislation for you, I suddenly took off all my clothes and went running on the White House lawn. The secret Service caught me just as I was going over the fence."

"You had better go to Camp David, John, and write a full report for me."

"I'll do that, Mr. President. Now to get back to the people who were caught streaking at the Watergate. We do have another option. We could offer them executive clemency."

"How could we justify that, John?"

"We could say they were nudists on their way to sunbathe on the Potomac, and they cut through the Watergate complex to save time."

"Sure we could, John. But if I start giving executive clemency for streaking I could lose my mandate."

"Then what should we do, Mr. President?"

I could try to hush the whole thing up. Or I could tough it out. But I have a third option, John. Pat and I could streak down Pennsylvania Avenue tomorrow at high noon—BUT THAT, JOHN, WOULD BE WRONG."

Wilson Dares Rivals

By FRED COLEMAN

Associated Press Writer LONDON (AP) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson appears to be daring opposition parties to topple his minority Labor government or risk seeing Britain withdraw from the European Common Market.

It is a gamble that Wilson seems likely to win, no matter what the Conservative and Liberal supporters of Britain's membership in the European Economic Community do.

Either Wilson remains in power at the head of a minority administration with only 301 seats in the House of Commons, 17 short of a majority. Or he is voted down in Parliament and goes to the country with the one issue that promises to win him a majority in an election — opposition to the Common Market.

The strategy became apparent Tuesday when Queen Elizabeth II opened Parliament by reading the policy program drafted by Wilson's Labor cabinet.

The Speech from the Throne dropped all the radical planks in Labor's campaign platform except the pledge to negotiate new terms for Britain's membership in the European Economic Community and then let the British public vote on them.

This was a direct challenge to Conservative party chief Edward Heath, whose government took Britain into the Market, and Jeremy Thorpe's Liberals, who want it to stay there. But it is the one issue that the opposition is not likely to force an election on because opinion polls have consistently shown 60 per cent of the British public opposes Common Market membership.

The polls also show that a majority of Britons believe their rising food prices are partly due to Britain's membership in the Common Market since Jan. 1, 1973. An election fought on the issue of the Common Market probably would produce another Labor government, and one with the safe majority it needs to go ahead with the radical programs it has put aside.

So far Heath's statements have indicated reluctance to try to bring the government down before it has a fair chance at (Continued on Page 5)

Relax, Take The Train In Italy

By PIERO VALSECCHI

Associated Press Writer MILAN, Italy (AP) — Stretch your feet. Relax. Take the train in Italy.

A 400-mile second class trip from Milan to Rome still costs only $8. The same trip by car costs more than $20 in gas and tolls in Italy. A comparable train trip in Britain costs $15, in Holland and West Germany, $18.

But to provide this inexpensive service, Italy's state-controlled rail company goes into debt about $3 million a day. And it probably won't be so inexpensive in the near future. To cut its deficit, the company first declared war on free riders — about 10,000 persons, many of them war veterans.

Thousands of others, mainly state employees, have discounts amounting to 80 per cent of the fare.

The company hopes that reducing the number of free riders and those with hefty discounts will bring in at least an extra million dollars a day.

In addition, the government is considering an undisclosed boost in prices for passengers and cargo. Over the same distance, trains are 50 per cent cheaper in Italy than in any other European nation.

Plans also call for replacing compartmentalized passenger cars with less expensive motor coaches which can carry more people.

A rail official in Milan notes that while passenger service requires a lot of personnel, passenger trains themselves have a limited life span.

"Freight cars, on the other hand, have a longer life span and require less maintenance and cargo by train can be a real business for the railway company if present lines could be doubled," he says.

At present, the Italian freight service is slow, however, since passenger service has priority on the already overcrowded tracks. A box car can take more than a month to travel from Paris to Milan, and this discourages business.

It is considered unlikely the railway company will cut the number of passenger trains, since rising motoring costs brought on by oil supply problems are expected to boost passenger volume on trains.

In 1973, passengers averaged 975,000 daily and the figure is expected to rise 3 per cent by 1976.

House Votes Relax Mortgage Interest Ceiling

RALEIGH (AP)—The North Carolina House has passed a one-year moratorium on the state's mortgage interest rate ceiling and killed a landlord-tenant bill.

The interest ceiling, now at eight per cent, would be abolished if the bill passes in the Senate. Savings and loan institutions have asked the legislature to lift the ceiling. They say they cannot loan money to home buyers at eight per cent when they must pay around seven per cent for their funds in the national money market.

Most of the House controversy on the issue centered on efforts to raise the ceiling to nine per cent rather than abolishing it for a year.

Rep. Homer Wright, D-Rockingham, sponsored a nine per cent amendment, but it was defeated by a 66-43 vote.

Then the House went on to kill the landlord-tenant measure on a voice vote.

The bill, however, had already been amended severely.

Rep. Horton Rountree, D-Pitt, offered an amendment to exempt 17 counties in his area from its provisions.

"This might be a good bill for metropolitan areas, but it will not fit into our area," Rountree said. Legislators from other rural areas hopped on Rountree's bandwagon until 53 counties were on the exemption amendment. The amendment passed by a 59-42 vote.

That made the bill unconstitutional since it applied to special counties, said Rep. Herbert Hyde, D-Buncombe, and the bill was killed.

The bill, according to its supporters, would have afforded protection to tenants against landlords who failed to maintain minimum health and safety standards in their buildings.

It would also have codified relationships between landlords and tenants, spelling out what had been a matter of common law.

In the Senate, a fish-fry for Democratic legislators caused postponement of action on bills involving coastal zoning and auto insurance rates.

After debating a campaign finance bill for two hours and passing it, the senators found themselves with only 30 minutes left before buses were due to arrive to take many of them to the fish-fry in Alamance County.

Sen. William Staton, D-Lee, said he did not want a vote on the coastal bill if potential supporters were going to be away. He had it postponed until today. The Senate then briefly debated a bill by Sen. John Henry, D-Cumberland, to abolish age discrimination in auto insurance rates. But when it appeared that a long debate was likely, it voted to send the bill back to the Insurance Committee.

In committee action earlier Tuesday, testimony was heard on a measure to prohibit newspapers and broadcast stations from publicizing the names of women who claim they have been raped.

One woman, Mrs. Pat Sawyer of Raleigh, appeared before the committee and identified herself as a rape victim. She said more women would report rapes if they were not fearful of publicity.

Also supporting the bill were its sponsor, Sen. William Mills, D-Onslow, and Mrs. Shirley Hanks, head of the Durham Rape Crisis Center.

Appearing against the bill were representatives of newspaper and broadcast associations.

William Lassiter, counsel for the North Carolina Press Association, said it would be unwise to pass the bill until the U.S. Supreme Court has ruled on the constitutionality of a similar Georgia statute. The bill, which has already won Senate approval, is still before the House Judiciary I Committee.

In the Senate Finance Committee, a House-passed tax reduction package was shunted off to a subcommittee amid cries that it was being killed.

The chairman of the subcommittee, Sen. J.J. Harrington, D-

Bertie, said he would recommend some changes in the bill, which would give $31.6 million in tax reductions to manufacturers, retailers, senior citizens and the very poor.

"We don't feel there's much hope," said Rep. Art Thomas, D-Cabarrus, who sponsored the package in the House with the support of the House Democratic leadership.

Ready To Repeat Story Of Deal On Milk Suit

By BROOKS JACKSON Associated Press Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Former dairy official Dwight L. Morris says he'll repeat under oath his contested second-hand story that Herbert W. Kalmbach agreed to kill a government antitrust suit for a $300,000 donation to President Nixon's 1972 campaign.

Morris, former secretary of the Texas-based Associated Milk Producers, Inc., has told Watergate investigators that the giant cooperative's president, John Butterbrodt, told him about the abortive deal in April 1972, after it had fallen through.

Morris quoted Butterbrodt as saying that Kalmbach, who was a top Nixon fund raiser, called the deal off because of unfavorable publicity surrounding the administration's handling of another antitrust case, against the International Telephone & Telegraph Co.

Morris is scheduled to take the stand today in an open-court proceeding in the antitrust case which he says the co-op's top leadership tried to kill.

Interviewed by telephone at his 89-acre cattle farm near Siloam Springs, Ark., Morris said he would stick to his story even though the co-op's lawyers have branded it as false and untrue and even though Butterbrodt denies it.

But federal investigators say they have evidence to support Morris' hearsay testimony, evidence that includes $150,000 in checks, apparently intended for political donations, which were signed by co-op officials but voided without explanation.

Kalmbach couldn't be reached for comment Tuesday. An associate, who asked not to be named, said Kalmbach hadn't been aware of Morris' allegation. Kalmbach recently pleaded guilty to a two-count Watergate indictment charging him with running an illegal fund-raising effort in 1970 and of selling an ambassador's appointment for political donations.

Smith Seeking Seat In House

Jimmie Lee Smith is a candidate for the N. C. House of Representatives, opposing incumbents Sam D. Bundy of Farmville and Horton Rountree of Greenville.

JIMMIE LEE SMITH

The race to represent Pitt and Greene Counties in the lower house of the state legislature is for two seats at large, so the two having the largest number of votes are the winners.

Smith, Bundy, and Rountree all are Farmville natives.

Smith ran unsuccessfully against Mayor Will Joyner in the last Farmville Municipal election. A 1961 graduate of H. B. Sugg High School, he attended Fayetteville State University and graduated from Fordham University with a degree in government administration.

A bachelor, the son of Mrs. Agnes Smith of Farmville, he is a consultant to New York State Senator Samuel D. Wright and to New York 12th district Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm.

Sign Built By Students

An attractive new lawn sign has been erected for the Walter B. Jones Alcoholic Rehabilitation Center by masonry students of Rose High School.

The brick structure which holds a green and white plaque and has a planter in front replaces a wooden sign which "disappeared" one night about a year ago.

The Rose High students worked under the guidance of their instructor, Jesse Dawkins.

"This opportunity to do the brick work for the ARC not only provided the students with practical brick-laying experience, but let them be personally involved in community service," Dawkins said.

ARC Director Donald Hayes praised the fine workmanship done by the students who included Ricky Council, Glenn Chase, Cliff Allen, Charles Octigan, Albert Jones, and Arthur Williams.

YDC To Install Eamon March 30

A Greenville man will be installed Saturday, March 30 as president of the Young Democratic Club of North Carolina.

Installed along with Thomas Eamon, who is an East Carolina University professor, will be Aubrey Keen of Charlotte, national committeeman; Barbara Wall of Morganton, vice president; and Sid Little of Burlington, treasurer.

The installation will be part of a meeting at the National Guard Armory in Durham. The featured speaker will be U. S. Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, said to be a probable Democratic Presidential candidate in 1976. A member of two Senate standing committees, finance and public works and of the Joint Committee on Economics, Sen. Bentsen will be making his first major appearance in North Carolina.

The banquet is being held as a tribute to N. C. State Treasurer Edwin P. Gill, who founded the N. C. Young Democratic Club. It was the nation's first.

Eamon calls this banquet meeting "the biggest event of the year for North Carolina Young Democrats. He said the 1974 platform workshop and a publicity workshop will be held the afternoon before the banquet.

YDC's of Pitt, Durham, and Wake Counties are sponsoring the event, along with the College Federation of Young Democrats.

Two Escapees Are Captured

RALEIGH (AP) — Two prisoners who escaped earlier this week were recaptured in a wooded area here without incident Tuesday, prison officials said.

The inmates, who escaped from the North Central Correctional Center in Raleigh on Monday, were identified as Cody Neal Cook, 20, of Durham, and David Lee Bittle, 19, of Independence, Mo.

The two escaped by climbing out a dormitory window and over a fence at the prison facility.

Cook was serving a 16-year sentence for breaking and entering and felonious larceny, and Bittle was serving 2½ years for unauthorized use of a car and escape, officials said.

Westmoreland Candidate For S.C. Governor

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — William C. Westmoreland, former Army chief of staff and once commander of American forces in Vietnam, has become a Republican candidate for governor of South Carolina.

Westmoreland, who for years has refused to register to vote, told a news conference Tuesday he was stepping into politics "because I can best serve our state in this capacity as governor during a critical period, and I believe South Carolina needs a viable two-party system, and the sooner the better."

He said he would welcome primary opposition. But it is doubtful if he will be opposed for the GOP nomination.

Still ramrod straight with his graying hair combed back and military-short, the 59-year-old Westmoreland said he doubted if the Watergate scandal or his role in the Vietnam war would have much influence on the voters of South Carolina.

Morgan Assails Farm Policies

LAURINBURG, N.C. (AP) — U.S. Senate candidate Robert Morgan has charged that the agricultural policies of the Republican administration in Washington are threatening a "death blow" to North Carolina's small farmers.

Morgan, the incumbent state attorney general, is seeking the Democratic nomination to the Senate. He told a Laurinburg civic club Tuesday that increased tobacco allotments and the petroleum shortage are real threats to the state's small farmers.

He said he would urge Congress to repeal laws granting the secretary of agriculture the power "to act against the wishes of farmers."

Died During Revival Service

ALBEMARLE, N.C. (AP) — When a young man slumped down after praying, shouting and singing at revival services, the preachers and the congregation thought the power of God had come upon him.

Leaders of the service prayed over his inert body. Then someone sensed something was wrong, and felt his pulse.

An ambulance was called to the Church of God in south Albemarle shortly after midnight last Thursday.

The young man, Adolph Lewis Hunter, 18, of Enfield, a student at Livingstone College, was pronounced dead shortly afterward at a hospital.

Dr. Paige Hudson of Chapel Hill, the state's chief medical examiner, said Tuesday that an autopsy and tests showed Hunter died of some form of heart disease.

Warmly Praise A 'Nice Boss'

By JACK SCHREIBMAN
Associated Press Writer
OAKLAND, Calif. (AP) — Disbelief and warm praise have flooded into Arthur Friedman's appliance store since word got out that his employees set their own pay and other working conditions.

as our gain would be small compared to your loss," Says Arthur, "Sometimes they pay us, sometimes they don't. That's the way it goes." How's business? "No worse than usual," he said.

"We've had calls from all over the country from people who wanted to know if it was really true," Friedman said Tuesday. "It's true."

Friedman, 51, who sports mutton-chop whiskers, added: "Television people have been here, and I've been interviewed on the radio. I didn't think we were so special."

A woman who mailed a clipping of Friedman's story had written above the headline, "May you prosper beyond your imagination."

About five years ago, Friedman, with the assent of his brother and partner, Morris, turned the traditional boss-employee set-up topsy turvy and let the workers do what they pleased.

Friedman said he decided to put his philosophy — "Find out what people want, and give it to them" — on the line. So he let his 12 employees at Friedman's Appliances set their own pay and raises, days off, holidays, vacations and most other conditions.

"What the employees wanted turned out to be what we wanted anyway," he said.

Morris Friedman says, "If we give fellowship, love and understanding, that's what we get back. And we get back exactly what we give out. People respond in kind. Nobody rips us off."

Friedman's sends customers thousands of cards offering to service appliances free. And if installment customers "forget" payments or quit paying altogether, Arthur Friedman sends them a form letter any credit manager would consider incredible. It says:

"For some reason, which we don't really understand, you have decided not to pay the bill which you owe to us. This letter officially cancels that bill, and you no longer are under any obligation to pay us."

"We have decided not to give this bill to a collection agency."

$5,000 Will Be Returned

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — The North Carolina Republican Party will return $5,000 collected through the sales of raffle tickets, state chairman Thomas S. Bennett said Tuesday.

U.S. Atty. Thomas P. McNamara said on Monday that a Justice Department ruling found the ticket sales to be in violation of federal laws prohibiting the use of the mails for lotteries.

The tickets cost $5 each and the winner of a drawing was to receive two tickets to the NCAA basketball finals at Greensboro. Bennett said the project had been designed to attract small contributors to the party.

McNamara said the sales were "a technical violation" of federal law and were not for the enrichment of any individuals. Therefore, he said, the party would be allowed to refund the ticket prices, rather than face criminal indictment.

No Charges In Auto Accident

No charges were made following investigation of a 5:17 p.m. collision here yesterday on Brownlea Drive 224 feet South of the 14th Street intersection, Greenville police reported.

Investigators said a car driven by Charles Jeffery Carawan of 1402 East Tenth St. skidded into a utility pole causing an estimated $350 damage to the car and injuring Carawan.

No damage resulted to the pole, officers noted.

'Streaking' Goes International

By The Associated Press
Police thought they were streakers, but the 22 naked people who stepped off a city bus in front of the precinct house had been struck — by holdup men.
It happened in Rio de Janeiro, Brazil. The bus had been stopped by the robbers, who stripped the passengers of their belongings, including clothes.
That wasn't a case of streaking, the current fad of dashing about in the nude, but there were plenty of legitimate "streaks." In fact, what apparently started as an American campus fad has gone international.
Streaking came to Uruguay when two young men dashed nude through a plush Montevideo residential area. The two were nabbed by police and held for questioning.

The newest sport also arrived in West Germany, when three girls and a young man blitized across Munich's busy Leopoldstrasse near the university. Munich campus dean Dr. Joseph Shields commented, "My God, it is happening all over the world. We are not going to send anybody to jail or throw them out of school for something like this."
Streaking in Germany, incidentally, is known as "blitzen."
A Japanese streaker made his debut in Hiroshima.
Amid screams from women shoppers, a 24-year-old, longshoreman dashed 300 yards down a street in the A-bomb city in yellow helmet, socks and sneakers with the words "direct appeal" painted on his chest and back.
Streaking also spread to South Korea despite freezing weather. A nude man ran 300 yards down a Seoul street during the morning rush hour, then disappeared into an alley. Two men ran behind him, one with his clothes and one with a camera.

In Kelowna, British Columbia, three unidentified young men contacted a local radio station and told them they were planning to streak outside the building.
At 1:30 a.m. Tuesday, three men parked in front of the station, disrobed and stepped outside — where they were arrested by waiting police.
The police, it seems, also had been listening to the radio station.

In Honolulu a streaker dashed into the lower chamber of the Hawaii state legislature while it was in session.
The streaker, identified as Gary Rogers, a hair stylist from San Francisco, was arrested and charged with open lewdness.
He told newsmen as he was led away, "I am the streaker of the house."
And in Moscow — that's Idaho, not Russia — a male streaker at the University of Idaho chose an appropriate class to invade Tuesday — a lecture course on human sexuality.
The unidentified streaker dashed through the lecture hall while the psychology instructor muttered, "Incredible, incredible."

And the mayor of Largo, Fla., has proclaimed "National Streak Week" — for the sixth week of March.

Outdoor Burning Ban Is Lifted

RALEIGH (AP) — A ban on outdoor burning in North Carolina has been lifted by the state Forestry Department.
State Forester Ralph Winkworth called off the ban at noon Tuesday because of a favorable weather forecast and the small amount of rain the state had received in the previous 24 hours.
The southeastern part of the state had received the least amount of rain and Winkworth said the danger of forest fires in that area remained high.
The ban was imposed on Sunday.

Mormon Leader Sees No Change

SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — President Spencer W. Kimball, leader of the world's Mormons, says he doesn't foresee a change in his church's ban on black participation in its priesthood.
President Kimball, in an interview Tuesday on the NBC "Today" show, said a change could come only through a revelation from God.
President Kimball became head of the 3.3-million member Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints last Dec. 31.

Ford To Speak To Graduates

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford will speak at the University of Michigan's commencement exercises May 4 and will receive an honorary doctor of law degree from his alma mater.
Ford is a 1935 graduate of the UM College of Literature, Science and the Arts.
While at UM, Ford was a center on the freshman football team, played on the varsity squad for three years and was named the Wolverines' most valuable player in 1934.

Road Service To Ports Backed

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — Democratic U.S. Senate candidate Henry Hall Wilson said today "the need for better road service to North Carolina's two port cities has been a political football for too long."
"Political candidates have promised these roads to the people of North Carolina over and over again," he told a Wilmington news conference. "Well the road to hell may be paved with good intentions, but modern highways to the ports haven't been paved at all."
Wilson said if he is elected to the Senate, "I intend to use the experience I acquired over six years in the White House to secure sharply increased appropriations for North Carolina highways."

Controls Lifted, Price Of Newsprint Going Up

NEW YORK (AP) — A Cost of Living Council decision to exempt paper from price controls has touched off a round of price hikes by several domestic newsprint manufacturers.
International Paper Co., U.S. arm of the Canadian International Paper Co., led the way with the announcement that their higher Canadian prices would be extended to newsprint made at mills in Mobile, Ala., and Pine Bluffs, Ark. The price for middle-weight newsprint was raised to $213.30 per ton from $188 a ton at those two mills.
Others posting higher prices include Great Northern Paper Co. and Garden State Paper Co. in the East and Publishers' Paper Co. in the Northwest.
Northwestern producer Crown Zellerbach Corp. and southern producer Kimberly Clark Corp. say they are studying the decontrol decision and might have an announcement on prices within a few days.
The Cost of Living Council last month authorized Crown Zellerbach Corp. to raise its prices of middle-weight newsprint to $198.02 a ton from $183.68 a ton.

Smaller producers, like Abitibi Southern Corp., a U.S. branch of another Canadian company, which produces only 150,000 tons of newsprint annually at its Augusta, Ga., mill, says it is not big enough to be among the first to raise prices. But a spokesman says if the larger companies all raise their prices, Abitibi Southern will follow.
Although prices will vary somewhat, companies say they will set prices about equal to those established by Canadian producers last fall. The Canadian mills, which produce about 70 per cent of the newsprint used in the United States, have traditionally been the industry price leaders.
Those prices, which domestic producers are now matching, look like this: $200 per ton for heavy-weight newsprint, $213 per ton for middle weight paper, and $225 per ton for the highest grade. Prices will vary about $5 a ton depending on the agreements that a company has with its customers, domestic manufacturers say.
The average price for newsprint delivered in New York City in 1972 was $164.58 a ton and rose to $200 last year, industry figures show.
Under price controls, newsprint prices were frozen at very uneven levels and publishers were paying anywhere from $170 a ton to $200 per ton, the companies say.
But the paper industry had made it clear by its comments and petitions to the Cost of Living Council for price relief that most companies intended to match or come close to the Canadian prices once domestic prices were decontrolled.
Canadian prices which start at $200 per ton were initiated by Canadian International last Nov. 1, and quickly spread throughout Canada. There are no indications that Canadian producers intend to raise prices again soon, according to the Newsprint Information Committee, which represents the largest Canadian producers.

Shopping 'Pool' Is Neighborly

NEW YORK (AP) — Going to a shopping center in carpools is becoming the neighborly thing to do.
The idea is being encouraged by the International Council of Shopping Centers through its 5,000 members from coast-to-coast. Its "Take a Neighbor with You to a Shopping Center" program aims at saving 20 billion gallons of gasoline a year by doubling the 1.2 average number of passengers per auto.
The program includes the organization of one-stop shopping energy committees to create interest in car pools, mall displays, public service broadcasts and literature distributed to shoppers.

Pastors Avoid Inner Cities

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — How you gonna keep 'em down in the city?
That's the question being asked by leaders of the Lutheran Church in America in the wake of a report showing a sharp decline in the number of young pastors seeking appointments to inner city ministries.

Campaign Finance Reform Passes In N.C. Senate

RALEIGH (AP)—A bill to reform North Carolina's campaign finance laws has been passed by the Senate without one of its two penalty provisions.

The bill won final approval in the Senate Tuesday after adoption of an amendment deleting the state Board of Elections' right to refuse to certify a winning candidate who had not complied with the financial disclosure provisions of the bill.

The adoption of the amendment, by a 34-11 vote, was the second major change made in the bill since a subcommittee finished working on it early this month.

The first major change, made last week, restricts candidates for state offices to spending 10 cents per voter on media advertising during the two primary and general election campaigns.

That restriction comes to about $350,000 per campaign for each of the two primaries and for the fall campaign.

The House Election Laws Committee will consider the Senate amendments before the bill goes to the floor of the House, Rep. Ernest Messer, D-Haywood, said after the Senate action Tuesday.

As it now stands, the bill would require candidates for all state offices to report all contributions of $50 or more with the name and address of the contributor.

The bill, which would replace the ineffective Corrupt Practices Act of 1931, also requires reports from any campaign committees backing a candidate.

It bans cash contributions of more than $100 and direct contributions from corporations, labor unions, and professional associations.

The bill does allow unions, corporations and professional groups to establish separate funds and solicit the members of the union, group, etc. for voluntary donations.

An amendment to force such "political action committees" to tell prospective donors who will get the money in advance was defeated in the Senate Tuesday.

The Board of Elections would be responsible for investigating violations and complaints and the Wake County district attorney would be the prosecutor.

The only penalty left in the bill, however, is a misdemeanor jail sentence and fine.

Until Tuesday, the bill would have allowed the board to refuse to certify candidates who had not filed the required reports.

Sen. Lamar Gudger, D-Buncombe, amended the bill to delete that power, saying it would create too many legal clouds over the bill.

Sen. Julian Allsbrook, D-Halifax, said the bill would be unconstitutional without Gudger's amendment, since the state constitution reserves the right to judge the qualifications of its members.

The bill passed by the Senate still contains several potential loopholes which were pointed out during committee hearings.

Occupations of contributors would not be listed as they are under federal law. Nor is there any obligation to list the cumulative total of an individual's contributions.

Thus, someone could contribute $50 or less on numerous occasions and never be listed as a donor.

The bill's last required reporting date before a general election is September 1. Critics complained that this would keep people from knowing about large donors to the final push of a campaign until after the bill also does not apply to this year's primary elections.

Pupils Support Accused Rapist

CLAYTON, N.C. (AP) — Black students walked out of Clayton High School on Tuesday morning in what they said was a gesture of support for a 14-year-old Clayton black who is charged with rape.

The pupils also said they were protesting the death penalty in North Carolina.

Clayton is located in Johnston County, southeast of Raleigh.

The black youths, led by civil rights activist Ben Chavis, marched two and three abreast through Clayton's business district, then tramped into Mount Vernon Christian Church.

The demonstration Tuesday came as Zachery Saunders, charged with raping a 7-year-old white girl on Feb. 17, was given a hearing in Smithfield.

Police reported no incidents or arrests during the demonstration.

At the church, the youths heard speeches by Chavis and the Rev. Leon White, both officials of the United Church of Christ's North Carolina Virginia Commission for Racial Justice.

White and Chavis said the Clayton protest was tied to a planned demonstration against the death penalty today at Raleigh's Memorial Auditorium.

The Raleigh demonstrators were to hear a speech by Dr. Charles Cobb, executive director of the Commission for Racial Justice, and then march to the Legislative Building.

White said the demonstrators would be carrying 362 crosses to Raleigh because "since 1910, the state has murdered 362 poor and black people" by execution.

Thirty-one persons currently are on North Carolina's death row at the Central Prison in Raleigh.

Freeze Said Due Tonight

By The Associated Press

A freeze warning has been posted for tonight for all of North Carolina but the coast. There's even the possibility of frost along the coast. Care should be taken to protect tender plants and vegetation, and exposed water pipes.

There is still some fight left in Old Man Winter, after teasing with above-seasonal temperatures, and a taste of spring. Overnight lows should range in the 20s inland, and the low 30s along the coast. Highs today will reach into the 40s, with some low 50s for the southeast portion. This will be the first cold night statewide since the latter part of February.

A massive area of cold air from central and eastern Canada is easing southward.

Rainfall over the past 24 hours has been heaviest over the coastal area. Between one-half and three-quarter inches fell over sections having forest fires, alleviating the fire danger.

Two Charged With Murder

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga. (AP)—Two men from Wadesboro, N.C., were indicted Tuesday on charges of armed robbery and murder in the shotgun slaying of the assistant principal of East Atlanta High School.

The two, Ted Anthony Prevatte, 24, and William Jordan, 32, are in jail in Wadesboro awaiting extradition proceedings.

Authorities said they were in the station wagon of the assistant principal, James A. Rouse Jr., 49, when they were captured Monday near Wadesboro after a high-speed chase in which several shots were fired.

Rouse's body was discovered Saturday in a wooded area near Lawrenceville.

School Cook To Provide Meals

SANDHURST, England (AP) — Newlywed Princess Anne warned her husband-to-be in advance that she could cook little more than sausages.

But Army Capt. Mark Phillips won't have to worry much about the food.

Mrs. Flora Davies, the new chef hired by the couple, has ample cooking experience from her previous job of preparing 400 meals a day at a secondary school.

POWER CRISIS HELPS 5-FINGER DISCOUNTS

LONDON (AP) — Thousands of shoplifters are enjoying a bonanza during the British power crisis, with lighting in all stores dimmed. Police chiefs estimate most store owners suffered record losses from shoplifting over the Christmas period.

How Senators And Representatives Of N.C. Voted

By ROLL CALL REPORT
WASHINGTON—Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes Feb. 28 through March 6.

HOUSE
PENSION REFORM Rejected, 183 for and 206 against, an amendment to increase the tax deduction that self-employed persons claim for payments into retirement funds. The proposal was offered to the pension reform bill (HR 2) that eventually passed the House by a wide margin and went to conference with the Senate.

As the House bill now reads, up to $7500 of a self-employed person's annual retirement set-aside can be deducted from adjusted gross income for tax purposes. Corporate employees can deduct up to $25,000 for contributions to company pension plans.

The rejected proposal would have added a cost-of-living escalator clause to the $7500 limit, thus permitting larger deductions during inflationary times.

Supporters argued that the cost-of-living escalator would bring the provisions for self-employed persons in line with other sections of the pension bill which contain such escalator clauses.

Opponents argued that the escalator would only help the persons who earn more than $50,000 a year and, therefore, would amount to a tax windfall for wealthy persons.

Reps. David Henderson (D-3), Wilmer Mizell (R-5), Earl Ruth (R-8) and James Martin (R-9) voted "yea."

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L. H. Fountain (D-2), Richardson Preyer (D-6) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "nay."

Reps. Ike Andrews (D-4), Charles Rose (D-7) and James Broyhill (R-10) did not vote.

OIL PRICE ROLLBACK Passed, 218 for and 175 against, an amendment setting a maximum of $7.09 per barrel that most producers can charge for new domestic crude oil.

The amendment was attached to a bill (HR 11793) to create a Federal Energy Office that will permanently replace the existing patchwork of federal energy offices.

A similar ceiling was contained in the energy emergency bill vetoed by President Nixon largely because of the rollback provisions.

The new rollback language, however, exempts producers of less than 30,000 barrels a day. These "independents" produced one-third of the nation's oil and drilled 89 per cent of the new wells in 1971. The vetoed energy bill contained no such exemption.

Supporters argued that consumers need oil price relief. Some supporters argued that the best way to cut prices is to increase supplies and that exempting independents would encourage them to search for new oil.

Opponents argued that, notwithstanding the exempting of independents, the President is likely to veto any bill that contains rollback language.

Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Preyer, Rose, Broyhill and Taylor voted "yea."

Mizell, Ruth and Martin voted "nay."

GAS RATIONING Rejected, 160 for and 241 against, a Federal Energy Office bill amendment to require congressional approval of any gasoline rationing plans.

Supporters argued that Congress should retain control of executive branch decisions that affect the public. Rep. Philip Crane (R-11) argued against letting "some unknown energy czar" force a rationing plan on the nation.

Opponents argued against a reorganization bill.

Opponents argued against burdening a reorganization bill with an anti-rationing amendment. Rep. Bob Eckhardt (D-Tex.) argued that the amendment had "no logical meaning" because it barred the energy office from doing something it has not been given the power to do.

Mizell and Ruth voted "yea." Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Preyer, Rose, Martin, Broyhill and Taylor voted "nay."

SENATE
PAY RAISE Passed, 71 for and 26 against, a measure (S. Res. 293) to disapprove of the President's pay raise recommendation for Members of Congress, federal judges and certain high Administration officials.

Present law states that a President's pay raise recommendation automatically becomes law unless either House of Congress disapproves. The effect of the Senate vote is to kill the raises.

The President recommended boosting congressional pay from $42,500 per year to $52,800 by January, 1976. Judges and top civil servants and cabinet officials also were slated for a 24 per cent jump.

Supporters of killing the hike said that Congress must set an example and refuse salary increases during times of national belt-tightening.

Opponents argued that a 24 per cent hike does not even make up for 30 per cent inflation occurring since the last congressional pay hike took effect in 1969. They said that a vast majority of members want the money but fear the voters' wrath.

Sens. Sam Ervin (D) and Jesse Helms (R) voted "yea." CLOTURE MOTION Passed, 67 for and 31 against, a motion to close debate on the motion to kill the pay hikes (above).

The effect of cutting off debate was to force the Senate to vote on the pay motion. If debate had not been cut off, filibustering senators could have delayed a vote past March 9, when the hikes automatically would have taken effect.

Ervin and Helms voted "yea." VETO SUSTAINED Sustained, 58 for and 40 against, the President's veto of the proposed Energy Emergency Act (S. 2589). The vote fell eight "yeas" short of the two-thirds majority needed to override and thus killed the legislation.

President Nixon's veto message criticized the following sections:

—The crude oil price rollback, because it would discourage the discovery of new sources of domestic oil.

—The unemployment relief provisions, because they call for relief of energy-related unemployment. Mr. Nixon said such unemployment is difficult to identify and that he favors a non-categorical increase in unemployment funds.

—Low-interest loans for insulating and weather-proofing homes. He said the potential cost of such a program is "enormous."

Those voting for overriding argued that oil prices have reached an artificially-high level. Sen. Henry Jackson (D-Wash.) said that "the President's veto is a flagrant show of contempt" for the impact of high prices on the American people.

Those voting against generally agreed with the President's criticism.

Ervin voted "yea" and Helms voted "nay."

MINIMUM WAGE Rejected, 30 for and 65 against, an amendment to strike provisions of the minimum wage bill (S. 2747) that extend first-time coverage to seven million workers.

Among the workers affected would have been 5.1 million federal, state and local government employees, one million domestics and more than 500,000 retail store employees.

The overall bill proposes boosting the minimum wage to $2.20 per hour from the $1.60 level that was voted in 1966. Workers presently covered would get $2.20 one year after enactment, most of the new workers would qualify after two years and certain agricultural workers would not qualify for three years.

The rejected amendment, besides proposing to limit the minimum wage to workers presently covered, also would have raised the wage to $2.30 per hour one year after enactment. Those voting for argued that the federal government should not set wages for state and local workers, that smaller retail stores will cut back on staff sizes and that many families will fire domestics if the bill becomes law.

Opponents argued that the workers receiving first-time coverage are at the bottom of the economic ladder and deserve the same treatment under the law that other workers get.

Ervin voted "yea" and Helms voted "nay."

Do Something, Almost Anything, Says Gov. McCall

By ROBERT SHEPARD
SALEM, Ore. (UPI) — When faced with a problem, Oregon's Gov. Tom McCall says the best policy "is to do something, almost anything."

In the process of doing things, McCall has attracted a degree of national attention unusual for the governor of a small state tucked away in the shadow of California.

Republican McCall, 60, has even managed to turn his lame duck administration into slightly serious campaign for the U. S. presidency as the candidate of a "third force."

Most recently, McCall's doings have put Oregon on a voluntary but fairly effective gas purchase plan that has been adopted by several other states and which is seen by federal energy officials as a means of averting coupon-type national gas rationing.

McCall put Oregon in the forefront of the energy conservation effort last fall by first asking, then ordering, businesses to turn off their advertising lights. He was on shaky legal ground but reasoned he could not "stand around waiting for all the answers" while Oregon's industry closed down for lack of power.

The advertising lights used only a small amount of electricity, but McCall's ban gave a psychological boost to the average citizen who was asked to turn off lights in his home, turn down the thermostat and drive at 55 miles per hour. Oregonians saw that McCall was doing something and they responded with an impressive conservation effort.

In 1970, violence threatened as antiwar factions planned demonstrations during the national American Legion convention in Portland. Rather than risk street confrontations, McCall gambled his re-election chances and opened a nearby state park for the young demonstrators. The Woodstock-style gathering released much of the pressure and the antiwar demonstrations were reduced to tolerable dimensions.

In recent years Oregon has come up with several major innovations. Not all the ideas came from McCall, but they were clearly helped along by him and the "Oregon attitude" he so diligently cultivates.

In this category are laws banning nonreturnable beverage containers, setting aside highway funds for bicycle trials, minimizing the penalty for marijuana possession, opening state and local government meetings to the public protecting reporters from being forced to reveal confidential sources of information.

The dominant theme of McCall's two-term administration has been environmental protection. His recurring nightmare has been that Oregon would suffer the scourge of uncontrolled development that struck California.

That fear led McCall to issue an out-of-state residents.

At first he said it would be tolerable for people to visit Oregon if they just would not stay. Later he said even tourism, a major Oregon industry, was threatening the state's well being.

McCall has not fared well in his efforts to revise the state's tax system. In 1969 he proposed a sales tax. "The voters buried me in a thundering avalanche," he recalls.

In 1973 McCall offered a plan for school financing at the state level but the voters rejected that, too. McCall was deeply disappointed and says he "was ready to quit."

Still Popular

But Oregonians held no grudge against their still popular governor. Many took time to write him and say they were sorry they had to vote against the complex plan.

A minor misfire occurred last month when the governor, again trying to lead the charge on the energy front, ordered a German-built Audi to replace his gas-guzzling American limousine.

It was difficult enough for McCall to fold his six-foot-five-inch frame into the small import, but the howl from domestic auto dealers did not help. McCall decided the Audi, even with its good gas mileage, would not be an adequate traveling office and it has not been seen since.

McCall began his career as a newspaper reporter. He later switched to radio news and then became a television commentator. He still regards the job of the news reporter "as one of the most delicate tasks in the civilized world."

"Reporters deal not with things, but with human feelings, so they can hardly rejoice in a discovery that a man is corrupt," McCall said recently. "They should rejoice only in knowing that, by their efforts, they are insuring—or at least trying to insure—the right of the public to know what is going on."

Wide Open Administration

That attitude has resulted in a wide-open administration in which even the governor's daily staff meetings are open to reporters.

A "no comment" response to reporters' questions is a rarity for McCall. Even before Wtergate, he endangered his relations with the White House by openly criticizing the tactics of Vice President Spiro Agnew and the domestic policies of President Nixon.

For all his devotion to Oregon, McCall was born in Massachusetts. "Being an Oregonian is a state of mind, not an accident of birth," he says.

McCall was raised on an eastern Oregon ranch, but his speech is that of a Bay Stater.

His maternal grandfather, Thomas Lawson, was New England financier who amassed and lost a fortune and who wrote a history of the Republican party.

Labels Unimportant

His other grandfather, Samuel McCall, was a three-term Massachusetts governor who later served as a representative in Congress for 20 years.

McCall has had a desperate wish to go to Congress also, but as a senator. He was strongly tempted in 1972 and again this year to challenge fellow Republicans Mark Hatfield or Bob Packwood in contests he probably would have won. But McCall reluctantly abandoned each race to finish his job as governor.

To the despair of Republicans, McCall has little regard for party labels. While considering the Senate races McCall thought about switching to the Democratic party or running as an independent.

His appointments have also cut across party lines and some of his key staff members are Democrats.

thing favorable coming out of the conference," said Eldon A. Grimm at Birr, Wilson & Co. Avis, Inc., jumped 5 1/4 to 21 1/4. American Express Co. agreed to acquire Avis, now 52 per cent owned by International Telephone & Telegraph, with Avis holders receiving $25 a share.

Study Possible Coal Allocation Need

By BILL NEIKIRK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has launched a high-level study to determine if coal should be allocated this year because of possible shortages.

Worked Hard To Find Nixon Tax Deductions

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House worked hard and early to line up tax deductions for President Nixon, White House and Internal Revenue Service memoranda indicate. The memoranda from mid-1969, the year of Nixon's first inauguration, show inquiries about charging off for tax purposes part of the operating cost of Nixon's California and Florida houses, gifts and entertainment and the possibility of paying the President's daughter, Julie Nixon Eisenhower, for White House guide services and charging off those payments.

A memorandum by then-pressidential aide John D. Ehrlichman says Nixon "suggests that we might review the returns of one or more previous presidents for guidance."

However, White House Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler Tuesday quoted Nixon as saying he had never seen any returns of previous presidents and has no recollection of asking anyone to obtain such information.

Meanwhile, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., vice chairman of the Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation, which is investigating Nixon's returns, repeated his prediction that the tax issue will give Nixon more of a push toward resignation than Watergate.

The White House has accused Mills of taking cheap shots by forecasting results of a report still to be written from the committee's secret investigation.

Mills said, however, he made his prediction "that the tax issue could hurt the President more than Watergate — simply because people understand taxes."

"If the figures that have been talked about — $250,000 or $300,000 owed — are correct, people certainly will be asking questions," he said.

He said he was not accusing the President of fraud and that so far as he was concerned the committee report expected in 30 to 40 days will draw no conclusions.

"We will simply lay out the facts and let people draw their own conclusions," he said.

Roger V. Barth, then assistant IRS commissioner, replied to questions raised in the 1969 memoranda. He said some deduction should be permitted for use of the San Clemente, Calif., house for official visits and its den for an office and that if one of the two Key Biscayne, Fla., houses was used exclusively for meetings and business deductions could be claimed there also.

Tax information later made public by Nixon indicated he deducted on his 1969 return $4,699.62 for the San Clemente house and $6,586.05 for the Florida house.

North Pitt School News

By JACQUINELSON
Jeffery Brent Price, a senior at North Pitt High School, was chosen a Morehead Scholar.

He is the son of Malotia B. Price of Rt. 2, Robersonville. He is third in his class of 242 students.

Morehead Awards provide expense paid undergraduate education at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. Price is the second Morehead winner from North Pitt High School. James Nelson was the winner for 1972-73.

Joy Denise James, a senior at North Pitt, has been named an Angler B. Duke Scholarship finalist. She will compete in the finals at Duke University March 21-29. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. B. W. James of Bethel.

Bicycling has affected many students at North Pitt. The students, interested in saving gas and at the same time getting exercise, ride their bicycles to school from as far as six or seven miles away.

Coach Roger Ingalls started the new trend when he started riding his bicycle to school to save gas and to exercise his legs. Fifteen to 20 students now ride their bicycles to school.

Report cards were issued on Tuesday. Students had a holiday Friday so that teachers could get the reports ready for students to take home.

The junior class sponsored a dance last week to make money for the Junior-Senior Prom. North Pitt's Student Government Association sponsored a beautification project of trees, bushes, and flowers for the inner courtyard of the school.

The union said it would not comply with the demand, but the negotiating session went on anyway.

Refusal of sewage plant personnel who are not on strike to cross union picket lines had resulted in a daily flow of 100 million gallons of raw sewage into San Francisco Bay and the Pacific Ocean. The state ordered a quarantine of beaches in the area "to prevent a disease outbreak of epidemic proportions."

Three of the four sewage plants were operating Tuesday night with supervisory personnel, Alioto said. He added that chances appeared good to get the fourth functioning today.

Restoration of service on transit lines that carry 320,000 riders daily also hinged on the decision of another nonstriking union, the Transit Workers. Their refusal to cross Service Employees picket lines has shut down bus, streetcar and cable car service.

The union is seeking $16 million a year in pay raises and a dental health plan. The city offered $8.5 million.

Bicentennial.

(Cont'd from Page 1) of religious endeavor in Greenville. Other events that day could include lunch on the church grounds and an old fashioned hymn-sing and interdenominational program at the spectacle site.

Monday through Saturday activities would involve a variety of celebration events with the historical spectacular highlighting each evening. He proposed a salute to brotherhood on Monday, old-timers day on Tuesday, a salute to the bicentennial belles on Wednesday, young Americans day on Thursday, a salute to agriculture and industry on Friday, and homecoming day on Saturday.

All events would revolve around the participation of the general public, including the historical pageant, and the growing of beards and wearing of the old fashioned apparel of yesteryear would be encouraged.

Howett said that the Rogers Co. has handled North Carolina celebrations in Burlington, Mt. Olive, Rocky Mount, Apex, Farmville, Robersonville, and Cary. Events are also being planned in Kings Mountain and Maxton under the direction of the company.

He said that his company "thrives on success" and if the people of Greenville are not totally interested in the proposals, the Rogers Co. would rather not take part.

Concern regarding the proposed celebration date of September was also raised and the possibility of moving the date back into October was discussed. A decision on that date could be made at the March 26 meeting.

Dick Kiernan, who is serving as temporary chairman, appointed a ten-member steering committee to help coordinate the survey and direct activities until the event is incorporated and officers elected. Members named to the committee include Tom Reese, Harold Creech, Mrs. John McCarthy, Peter Greenspan, Don Lennon, Ed Carter, D. D. Garrett, Joe Godette and Mrs. Lindsay Savage. Kiernan will also serve on the committee.

MIAMI (AP) — Tips and sharp-eyed agents led to the arrest of three more persons in connection with the kidnaping of an 8-year-old New York boy, the FBI said. The $50,000 ransom still is missing.

The three, arrested Tuesday night as they walked along a downtown street, brought to eight the number of persons arrested in the case.

"It was smart work by our men who happened to be driving in the area that led to the arrests," said Kenneth W. Whitaker, special agent in charge of the Miami office.

Whitaker said no more arrests were expected but the ransom money had not yet been recovered. Two of the three arrested were identified as former brothers-in-law of the kidnaped boy's father.

The three were identified as Roberto Emilio Martinez, 37, his brother Jorge Martinez, 28, and Jose Antonio Hernandez, 17, all Cuban-born residents of New Jersey. They were being held without bond pending arraignment today before a U.S. magistrate.

"We hope this brings to an end the number of subjects involved in this kidnaping," Whitaker said.

Four men and a teen-aged girl, all also Cuban-Americans, already were in custody in New Jersey.

Sec. Kissinger Puts Off Trip

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is putting off his trip to the Soviet Union for a week, apparently to concentrate on laying the groundwork for negotiations on a Golan Heights disengagement in the Middle East.

The secretary had planned to go to Moscow next weekend on a four- or five-day trip devoted primarily to finding ways to accelerate the Geneva talks on a new U.S.-Soviet agreement limiting nuclear weapons.

But it was learned he now has decided to reschedule the visit for March 24. On the way home at the end of the month, he will stop in Europe to try to smooth over differences in the Atlantic relationship.

In a speech to congressional wives Monday, Kissinger said the United States has had fewer headaches dealing with its traditional foes than with its friends and allies.

The remarks prompted a report Tuesday from Jean Rey, former president of the Common Market commission, who said on Belgian radio: "Mr. Kissinger does not like Europe."

In trying to work out an agreement between Israel and Syria, the first step will be Kissinger's meeting Thursday with Abba Eban, the Israeli foreign minister.

An Israeli delegation is expected within two weeks, to be followed separately later by a Syrian mission.

Meanwhile, Vice President Gerald R. Ford said Tuesday night at a dinner for King Hussein of Jordan that "for the first time in a generation, we are able to look with optimism toward a just and lasting peace" in the Middle East.

Hussein is in Washington primarily to plead for new weapons, particularly Hawk surface-to-air missiles. He saw President Nixon and Kissinger on Tuesday and has a date at the Pentagon Thursday with Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger.

Arrest Three More In Boy's Kidnaping

Jersey. All eight were charged with conspiracy to violate the federal kidnaping statutes in the abduction of John Calzadilla of Dix Hills, N.Y., last Wednesday.

The youngster was freed unharmed in New Jersey 31 hours later, after his parents paid the ransom. The boy's father is a tire company executive in Dix Hills.

Miss Allen Is Invited Join In Competition

RALEIGH—Miss Cindy Carole Allen of Greenville has been invited to participate in the March 16 competition for the Julia Hamlet Harris Scholarships offered by Meredith College. She is the daughter of Mrs. Coleen W. Allen and Jenness Allen, both of Greenville.

Selected for scholastic achievement, intellectual promise, and leadership ability, Miss Allen, a senior at Rose High School, will be having interviews with a faculty-selection committee at the college. From the 34 applicants chosen for the interviews, 12 will be named Harris Scholars.

A Harris Scholarship at Meredith ranges from $100 to $1,200 per year, depending on the financial need of the recipient. Winners will be notified of their selection by April 1.

Report Firm Plans Plant

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A West German firm that manufactures polyester fiber is considering locating a $235 million plant near Wade, N.C. according to the Fayetteville Observer.

In its Wednesday editions, the newspaper quotes sources as saying Hoechst Fibers Inc. of Frankfurt, Germany has taken an option on 950 acres of land on the Cape Fear River owned by W.C. Gardner of Wade.

Gardner confirmed that the option had been taken but declined to give further comment.

The Observer said executive director John Swope of the Fayetteville Area Industrial Development Corp. would confirm only that "a large industry is looking at a Cumberland County site."

The newspaper said the plant would be developed in stages and would employ between 100 and 200 persons in the initial phases. The source is quoted as saying by 1980, about 1,000 persons would be employed and the company would have invested $235 million.

The report says the North Carolina Department of Transportation has agreed to provide extensive highway improvements.

Hoechst was one of the firms approached by Gov. Jim Holshouser on his industry-hunt last fall. It is the largest petrochemical company in West Germany.

Consider Regulating Reconstituted Milk

RALEIGH (AP) — The state dairy sales. The sale of reconstituted milk by a dairy is permitted in the state if the dairy has a shortage of whole milk.

The proposal was prepared by the Milk Commission staff at the request of several milk processor-distributors in the western part of the state. They contend that the sale of the reconstituted milk is disrupting "orderly marketing" in the Asheville area.

The request for the proposal was initiated by one of the Asheville distributors but, if adopted, would affect all distributors in the state.

Supporters of the proposal say Arcadia Dairy is destroying the retail milk market in western North Carolina by selling low-cost, low fat reconstituted milk.

The Arcadia product is a mixture of powdered milk, whole fresh milk and water, the

Pirates Lead Race For Cup

ARLINGTON, VA.—The Pirates of East Carolina lead in the race for the Southern Conference Commissioner's Cup. At the close of the fall and winter sports the Greenville, NC school holds a four and a half point lead over the defending Cup holder, William & Mary.

The Indians have won the cup out right for the past three years and tied with East Carolina the 1st year the Cup was up for grabs.

The Cup is awarded annually to the Southern Conference school with the best over-all intercollegiate athletic record.

East Carolina has finished second the last three since sharing the trophy in 1970.

The race, being as close as it is, will be determined by the success of the schools in the spring competition in the sports of rifle, baseball, golf, tennis and outdoor track.

In accumulating 47 points East Carolina has three championships, winning football, swimming and wrestling. They finished second in soccer and third in indoor track. Other points were gained with fourth finishes in cross country and basketball.

William & Mary in 2nd place with 424 points were first in cross country and indoor track. Third place Appalachian State has 313 points and won the soccer crown. In order are fourth place a tie between Furman and Richmond with 33 points each, followed by VMI, Davidson and The Citadel.

Some Fans Still Don't Appreciate Terp Gains

By GORDON BEARD
AP Sports Editor

The Tom McMillen-Len Elmore era has ended at the University of Maryland with some area basketball fans still unappreciative of what the Terps accomplished during the past three years.

No, make that basketball spectators, not fans. The true fan realizes the great strides made by the Terps since Lefty Driesell took over as coach five years ago.

So the Terps haven't won the national championship. They haven't won the NCAA Eastern Regionals. They haven't even won the Atlantic Coast Conference title. So what?

The quality of basketball exhibited at Maryland's Cole Field House—and presented on 20 television broadcasts this season—was outstanding.

The Terps lost to UCLA, the perennial national champion, in the season opener by one point. They dropped another decision to North Carolina by nine points, and the three losses to N.C. State were by six, six and three points.

The latest national rankings list State as the No. 1 team, UCLA second and North Carolina eighth. So, despite five losses, Maryland is still ranked No. 4 in the nation.

That doesn't satisfy the knockers. Not by a long shot.

"I want to see some good quotes from Lefty this week," a judge friend needed early Monday morning.

"I thought it was a good game," I said, referring to the 103-100 overtime loss to State in the ACC finals on Saturday.

"But they lost—that's the only thing that counts," said the jurist, who certainly must have more shades of distinction in rendering courtroom decisions.

Less than a block further along, a mailman approached with a derisive: "Stick with Maryland."

Such comments can only come from persons who have short memories or just don't know what constitutes good basketball.

While disagreeing with the National Football League's system of rewarding second-place finishers with a shot at the Super Bowl, I can't for the life of me see what's wrong with being ranked No. 4 among hundreds of colleges.

Sure, winning is rated next to cleanliness and Godliness in the United States. But on that basis, only UCLA can be considered successful during the past 10 years. Somehow, the quality of competition ought to be recognized, and appreciated.

After watching Maryland struggle to a 98-126 record in the nine years preceding the arrival of Driesell, how can anyone object to what's happened recently?

Maryland has posted a 100-42 record during the past five seasons, and for the last three it was 73-17. The Terps won the National Invitation Tournament two years ago, and last season they reached the finals of the Eastern Regionals.

They have won six ACC tournament games in the last three seasons, one less than they recorded in 18 previous years, and reached the finals each time.

But every since Lefty arrived, it's been fashionable to criticize his every move.

A Sports Medicine Conference for athletic trainers and coaches will be offered by East Carolina University May 10-11.

The conference is sponsored by the Sports Medicine Division of the ECU Athletic Department, the ECU School of Allied Health and Social Professions and the ECU Division of Continuing Education.

The program is designed to provide coaches and student trainers with necessary skills and techniques for developing a systematic and successful program of treatment and rehabilitation of athletic injuries.

Conference leaders include Drs. William Bost, James Bowman, Emmett Walsh and Richard Evans; Janet Schweisthal of the ECU anatomy faculty; and Rod Compton and the ECU Sports Medicine staff.

Last year about 50 coaches and student trainers from North Carolina and Virginia high schools attended the ECU conference.

The conference has been approved by the state Department of Public Instruction, the National Athletic Trainers Association and Oto Davis, head trainer of the Philadelphia Eagles.

Further information, and registration materials are available from the ECU Division of Continuing Education, Box 2727, Greenville, or telephone 758-6148.

Cleveland Gets Third Victory In Four Games

By HOWARD SMITH
AP Sports Writer

The Cleveland Indians continue to have an offensive spring.

The Indians pounded out 11 base hits and outscored California 9-6 Tuesday for their third exhibition baseball victory in four outings. Cleveland has collected 41 runs in its four games.

George Hendrick cracked his second homer of the spring and also had a single for Cleveland. The Indians broke it open when they batted around and scored five runs in the sixth inning off Angels left-hander Rudy May.

Milt Wilcox was the winner and May the loser. Leroy Stanton homered for California.

In other exhibition games, Oakland topped San Francisco 8-5, San Diego routed the Chicago Cubs 11-6, the Chicago White Sox split their squad and lost twice, bowing to Pittsburgh 9-5 and St. Louis 2-1, Cincinnati defeated Los Angeles 6-4, Houston shaded Minnesota 4-3, Philadelphia buried Detroit 10-2, the New York Yankees blanked Kansas City 9-0, Boston beat the New York Mets 3-1, Texas downed Atlanta 7-3, and Milwaukee dumped Arizona State 5-2.

Deron Johnson slammed a three-run homer and a double, helping the Oakland A's beat San Francisco. Chris Speier contributed a two-run single for San Francisco.

Bobby Tolan's three-run homer led San Diego to its first victory of the preseason. Dave Roberts and Ivan Murrell also homered for the Padres.

Willie Stargell and Dave Augustine walloped two-run homers and Richie Zisk added a solo shot for Pittsburgh. Bill Melton and Luis Alvarado each had a two-run double for the White Sox.

Junior Kennedy's run-scoring triple keyed a four-run Cincinnati uprising in the eighth inning that carried the Reds past Los Angeles. Ken McMullen and Andy Messersmith doubled home a run apiece for the Dodgers.

Cesar Cedeno and Milt May had two hits each in Houston's victory. Larry Milbourne scored the winning run on a delayed steal in the fourth inning. Mike Schmidt drove in three runs with a single and triple and Del Unser added a two-run homer for Philadelphia, which blasted Detroit pitching for 10 runs and 14 hits over the first five innings.

Ron Blomberg had two hits and three RBI in the Yankees' triumph. Blomberg has driven in 10 runs in 15 at-bats this spring.

Rookie outfielder Dick Rice had three hits and Mario Guerrero and Dick McAuliffe each drove in a run with hits in Boston's victory.

Roy Howell's run-scoring double keyed a four-run Texas outburst that carried the Rangers past Atlanta.

Milwaukee beat Arizona State with four unearned runs in the third inning on four walks, an error and a single by Charley Moore.

Detroit Needs Two For Goals

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

Two is the magic number for Coach Ray Scott and the Detroit Pistons.

If they can win two of their six remaining National Basketball Association games, the Pistons will accomplish both of the goals Scott set before the season started.

"One was to win 50 games and the other was to make the playoffs," Scott said.

And since Tuesday night's 113-108 triumph over the Golden State Warriors was Detroit's 48th victory of the season, their arrival at the 50-win plateau will put them in the playoffs for the first time since 1968.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Los Angeles Lakers defeated the New York Knicks 109-102; the Buffalo Braves crushed the Phoenix Suns 124-94; the Capital Bullets tripped the Philadelphia 76ers 112-101; the Cleveland Cavaliers downed the Atlanta Hawks 95-84; the Kansas City-Omaha Kings edged the Chicago Bulls 93-91, and the Boston Celtics dropped the Portland Trail Blazers 110-93.

In the American Basketball Association, the Kentucky Colonels nipped the Memphis Tams 82-87.

Dave Bing scored a game-high 28 points to lead the Pistons, while Bob Lanier added 25 points and 19 rebounds. Rick Barry, with 23 points, and Jeff Mullins, with 22, paced Golden State.

Lakers 109, Knicks 102

Los Angeles, meanwhile, took advantage of Golden State's loss by defeating the Knicks. Gail Goodrich scored 34 points for the Lakers, making 14 of his 15 free throw attempts.

Braves 124, Suns 94

Buffalo played without the NBA's leading scorer, the ailing Bob McAdoo, but the Braves got 30 points and 15 rebounds from Jim MacMillian and 25 points, 25 rebounds from Garfield Heard to crush Phoenix.

Bullets 112, 76ers 101

Phil Chenier scored 22 of his 28 points in the second half and faced Bullets Coach K. C. Jones by carrying Capital past Philadelphia.

Cavaliers 95, Hawks 84

Cleveland outscored Atlanta 22-2 in a seven-minute span at the end of the first period and the start of the second. The Cavaliers coasted in from there.

Kings 93, Bulls 91

It was a tough loss for the Bulls, whose margin over the Pistons is now just 1½ games. Jimmy Walker scored 24 points for the Kings in the second half after being held to four in the first half.

Celtics 110, Trail Blazers 93

John Havlicek scored 27 points, Don Chaney 23 and Paul Westphal 21 for Boston, sparking their 11th straight victory over Portland in the last three years.

Colonels 88, Tams 87

Dan Issel's layup with seven seconds remaining gave the Colonels their triumph over Memphis.

Move Into Loop Finals

Presbyterian vaulted into the finals of the Church Basketball League with a 60-45 victory over Black Jack.

Presbyterian will meet Immanuel Baptist, the regular season champion, in the finals of the tournament Thursday night at 7:30. Immanuel holds the edge on Presbyterian in the double elimination tournament, having not lost a game. They beat Presbyterian earlier and have to win only one game with two chances to do it.

Both games, if needed, will be played Thursday night, winding up the league's season.

In the first half of the game last night, Presbyterian established the lead, moving out to a 26-20 lead by the end of the half. They continued to pull away from Black Jack in the second half, outscoring them, 34-25.

Paul Andrews led Presbyterian with 15 points, while Larry Graham had 14, Lawton Nisbet had 12 and Richard Holloman had 10. For Black Jack Danny Edwards had 12 and Tal Adams had 11.

Sloan Says Home Court No Factor

By REESE HART
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH, N. C. (AP) — North Carolina State coach Norm Sloan doesn't believe the home court will be much of a factor when his top-ranked team battles Providence Thursday night in the NCAA Eastern Regional tourney.

"It'll be a kind of neutral crowd," said Sloan.

N. C. State students turn out en masse for Atlantic Coast Conference games, but the number will be considerably reduced for the NCAA regionals. Ticket allotments are made to the four teams and to the general public.

Reynolds Coliseum seats 12,400.

Southern Conference champion Furman (22-7) plays 13th-ranked Pittsburgh (24-3) in the opener Thursday night at 7:05. Then State (26-1) takes on fifth-ranked Providence (27-3) at 9:10.

"We are at our greatest peak," Sloan said. "Our goal right now is to beat Providence and win the Eastern Regional."

It'll be like a reunion for Providence's Marvin Barnes and Kevin Stacom and State's great David Thompson and Tommy Burleson. The four played on the United States team in the World University Games last summer. Sloan was assistant coach.

Barnes, who leads his team in scoring with an average of 22.5 points, regards Thompson and UCLA's Bill Walton "The best I've ever been up against. They are both really super."

"Providence has a great basketball team," said Sloan. "They have a fast break and a pressure defense."

"We'll have to play near-perfect basketball to beat State," said Providence coach Dave Gavitt. He termed the Wolfpack "by far and away the best team" Providence has faced.

Providence defeated Penn 84-69 Saturday night to move into the regional tournament in Raleigh.

Unranked Furman gained its berth by upsetting South Carolina 75-67 at Philadelphia. Pittsburgh won over St. Joseph's 54-42.

McMillen Asks Terps To Quit

COLLEGE PARK, Md. (AP)—Tom McMillen, Maryland basketball star, has suggested that the Terps quit the Atlantic Coast Conference because, "There are just too many odds against a non-North Carolina team in this league."

"We're just the outcasts. Just for once I'd like to see the roles reversed."

McMillen finished his varsity career when top-ranked North Carolina State beat Maryland 103-100 last Saturday night in the Greensboro, N.C., Coliseum for the ACC championship. N.C. State earned the right to try for the national title.

"For three years," McMillen said in a published interview, "I've seen what it is to go down there and have the whole world against you. It's not basketball anymore. The mental strain is tremendous. You can't relax."

McMillen conceded that his remarks might be interpreted as sour grapes. But he asked, "Isn't it time we got realistic about the whole situation?"

The tournament has always been played in North Carolina.

It will be played in Greensboro again next year. But bids for subsequent tournaments will be considered from arenas in Charlotte, Richmond, Landover, Md., as well as Greensboro.

In 21 years, only Maryland in 1958 and South Carolina, in 1971, when it was in the conference, have broken the stranglehold of teams from North Carolina on ACC basketball championships.

Jim Kehoe, Maryland athletic director, agreed that the tournament setup is unfair, but said he is not ready to pull the Terps out of the conference.

"It's a fallacy to think Greensboro is a neutral site," Kehoe said. "I don't condemn it as such. But I've got to look at things from the Maryland viewpoint, and there's nothing objective about it."

"Tom is a young man with considerable intelligence, and he makes some excellent points. But immediately after losing a game like this is not the best time to put things in their proper perspective."

Indiana Will Join CCA Field

By PAUL LeBAR
AP Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — Reluctant Bobby Knight has relented and directors of the first Collegiate Commissioners Association basketball tournament are breathing easier.

The fiery Knight, coach of Indiana's 10th-rated Hoosiers, threw a scare into the tournament Tuesday by first saying his team would vote in Bloomington, Ind., on whether to appear.

But hours later, apparently after a squad meeting, an Indiana official announced simply the school was "in" as representative of the Big Ten Conference.

No outcome of a vote was announced for the Hoosiers, who missed a National Collegiate Athletic Association tourney berth by falling 75-67 to champion Michigan Monday night.

"We're pleased to have Indiana," a CCA selection committee member, Mid-American Conference Commissioner Fred Jacoby, said.

The 34-year-old Knight's displeasure with the CCA was aimed at the eight-team meet's makeup for the most part of major college conference runners-up.

"I went to the NIT (National Invitation Tournament) when I was coach at Army," the third-year Hoosiers coach said, "and I have always liked the NIT."

"If the CCA in any way was started to try and hurt the NIT, then it's wrong and I am opposed to it," Knight added.

"Sure the teams were runners-up in their conferences," CCA Director Larry Albus said in St. Louis, "but it should be noted they hold 20 victories over those which qualified for the NCAA and NIT."

Knight's defensively tough Hoosiers bring a 20-5 record into the CCA and are seeded in the lower bracket for play beginning Thursday night.

They'll meet Tennessee, 17-8, Friday night after 15th-ranked Southern Cal, 22-4, the upper bracket's top team, takes on Southern Methodist, 15-11, in an opener.

Other first-round games are Arizona State, 18-8, vs. Toledo, 18-8, Thursday night and Kansas State, 19-7, vs. Bradley, 197, Friday night.

Do Philadelphia Ring A 'Bell?'

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Owners of the World Football League's new Philadelphia franchise, named "The Bell," hope to know by April 1 if they can play home games at the University of Pennsylvania's Franklin Field.

"I've talked to (Penn athletic director) Fred Shabel three or four times and I think our chances are 75-90 per cent sure," former Amateur Athletic Union president Jack Kelly said Tuesday in announcing that he will serve as the franchise president.

Noting he will be one of 11 equal owners, Kelly added: "It's just a matter of working out a few details, like guarantee, deposits and a few other things."

Asked of Kelly's appraisal of the April 1 deadline, Shabel replied, "I wouldn't want to speculate" on when a decision can be made.

Kelly, a city councilman, former Olympic oarsman and brother of Princess Grace of Monaco, explained if negotiations with Penn fail on the 60,000-seat stadium, the franchise would be transferred to another city.

Ron Waller, interim coach of the NFL's San Diego Chargers last year, will serve as head coach-general manager of The Bell.

Waller said he is trying to sign All-American running back John Cappelletti of Penn State, a first-round draft by Philadelphia's NFL entry, as well as the Los Angeles Rams of the NFL.

"I made Cappelletti a substantial offer that I didn't think the Rams could better," Waller noted. "If the Rams offered Cappelletti any more they would probably have a team strike on their hands."

Waller did not disclose how large it was, but indicated it was below the $500,000 figure quoted in various news accounts.

"We have approximately 30 ballplayers signed and under contract," said Waller, who declined to reveal their names. That information will be released later, he said.

CAIRO (AP) — Zaire and Zambia tied 2-2 Tuesday after 30 minutes of an overtime period in the final of the African nations' ninth Soccer Cup championship. The match will be replayed Thursday.

STANFORD, Calif. (AP) — Ray Handley, assistant football coach at Stanford University for three years, is leaving to become head coach at a high school in Reno, Nev., it was announced today.

The former Stanford running back, who gained a school record 1,768 yards, will be starting a new football program at Reed High School.

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Myron Finkbeiner has resigned after five years as basketball coach at Point Loma College, the school says.

A spokesman said Tuesday the 41-year-old coach would remain here as a physical education teacher and tennis coach. No successor has been named.

Finkbeiner, former coach at Big Bend Community College in Moses Lake, Wash., had a 72-85 record in five seasons at Point Loma, formerly Pasadena College. His Crusaders were 16-10 this year.

Two Upsets Mark First Round Play In NAIA Cage Tournament

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Indiana, Pa., and Washburn, Kan., two unseeded teams, had the opportunity to turn giant killers again today in the second round of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics basketball tournament.

Indiana and Washburn already have eliminated two seeded clubs in this 37th annual tourney. They battled two more seeded entries in morning games.

The Pennsylvanians, who brushed aside No. 11 Azusa Pacific, Calif., 79-74, Tuesday, collided with sixth-seeded Grand Canyon, Ariz., and Washburn, a surprising 67-50 victor Monday over No. 9 Wisconsin Eau Claire, ran up against No. 8 Augustana, Ill.

Other daytime clashes sent No. 4 Alcorn A&M against No. 13 Missouri Western, and No. 5

Hanover, Ind., against No. 12 Northwestern Louisiana.

Kentucky State, seeded second, had a dinner-time date with No. 15 Hastings, Neb.

The second round comes to an end tonight with No. 1 Fairmont, W. Va., State meeting No. 16 St. Mary's, Tex.; No. 3 Gardner-Webb, N.C., facing No. 14 West Georgia and No. 7 Midwestern, Tex., battling No. 10 St. Thomas, Minn.

Aside from Indiana's upset of Azusa Pacific, there was nothing startling about Tuesday's eight first round games except that Fairmont, after leading by 19 points, got a scare before finally subduing Cameron, Okla., State 92-88.

Gardner-Webb battered Oregon Tech 91-56, Augustana routed Wartburg, Iowa, 85-64, Northwestern Louisiana smashed Millersville, Pa., State

95-76, Missouri Western whipped Monmouth, N.J., 96-84, Hastings was too much for Roger Williams, R.I., 96-61, and Midwestern trampled Defiance of Ohio 77-63.

Fairmont's lead over Cameron was sliced to two points at 86-84 with one minute, 39 seconds left but a free throw by Daryl Gainey and two by Lermen Battle iced the triumph. Battle made 25 points, grabbed 11 rebounds and blocked four shots, Rafael Palomar hit 24 points for Cameron.

Hastings got a 24-point performance from Mike Trader. The Broncos streaked ahead 8-0 and were never headed after holding a 50-30 halftime lead.

Gardner-Webb's easy decision over Oregon Tech featured a barrage of deadly jumpers by John Drew and Jim Blanks. Drew canned 25 points and Blanks 23.

Midwestern toyed with Defiance much of the game, freezing the ball often in the second half after going ahead by 20 points soon after the intermission. LeRoy Shaw made 20 Midwestern Points.

Gardner-Webb Wins Opener

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Third-seeded Gardner-Webb won its 22nd straight basketball game Tuesday night, 91-56 over Oregon Tech in the first round of the NAIA tournament.

The Bulldogs, whose record now is 25-2, were led by John Drew and Jim Blanks, who only the day before received honorable mention in the Little All-America selections.

Drew scored 25 points and had 14 rebounds. Blanks had 23 points and 8 rebounds. Also contributing for the Bulldogs were Alvin Jones, 15 points and 9 rebounds; Henry Searight, 10 points, and backup point guard Steve Fischer, five assists.

Gardner-Webb, now in the round of 16, plays 14th-seeded

West Georgia tonight.

The Bulldogs had a 40-29 lead at halftime over Oregon Tech, which lost only its fifth game against 21 victories. The advantage quickly expanded to 60-37 in the second period when the G-W defense pried most of the game's 27 turnovers from Tech patterns.

The defense also harassed Oregon Tech into a miserable 36 per cent accuracy from the floor, 24 of 67. Gardner-Webb, from Boiling Springs near Shelby, N.C., sank 48.8 per cent, 41 of 84.

Gardner-Webb led 49-33 in rebounding.

The Bulldogs won District 26 playoff games last week from Lenoir Rhyne and Johnson C. Smith.

Little League Seeking Stay

JERSEY CITY, N.J. (AP) — Little League baseball administrators plan to field a team at the state capital soon to urge the New Jersey Legislature to stay a ruling requiring the league to let girls play.

This past January the State Division on Civil Rights formalized a ruling that made New Jersey the first state in the nation to require Little League baseball teams to permit girls to play. Civil Rights Hearing Examiner Sylvia Pressler issued the ruling last November.

At a meeting in Hazlet last Saturday, Little League officials incensed at the ruling voted unanimously to suspend all play in the state.

Carmine Conti, administrator for the league's District 7 in Hudson County, said Tuesday that administrators and league presidents intend to hold another meeting this weekend at which they plan to organize a "buscade" to Trenton. Members about the state would bus to the capital, probably early next week, he said, to see the governor and legislators and to demonstrate peacefully.

"We'll lobby for a stay of the Civil Rights ruling until Jan. 1, 1975," Conti said. "By then we hope we'll be able to work something out."

Humbert Named Interim Chief

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Dr. Richard E. Humbert has been named interim coordinator of athletics at the University of Richmond.

President E. Bruce Heilman said Tuesday Humbert, a Spider three-sport star and allstate end in 1940, will act as his representative responsible for athletic matters until the employment of a new athletic director and a football coach. Both jobs had been held since June, 1967, by Frank Jones, who had succeeded retiring athletic director Mac Pitt.

Two weeks ago it was announced that Jones would no longer hold both jobs, because, the school said, it had become "obvious to the university administration and the board of trustees that it is impossible for any one person, however skillful and talented he may be, to serve as the athletic director if he has any other duties in connection with the university's athletic program."

Last week Jones, who had coached the Spider football team since February, 1966, said he would not accept a lucrative, long-term contract offered him to remain as the Richmond football coach.

The Richmond Times-Dispatch, in today's editions, said it had learned that Heilman probably will select the new football coach from within the present football coaching staff. Heilman, at a faculty meeting Wednesday, did not indicate which present Spider assistant would be named to succeed Jones.

However, most UR sources feel the new coach will be Jim Tait, Jones' chief offensive aide since joining the staff in March, 1966.

The newspaper also said Heilman today was to announce appointment of a committee to seek a new football coach and athletic director. The committee, the report said, would be comprised of two faculty members; two trustees, one an

U.S. Team Picking Up 11 More Dead POWs

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer
SAIGON, South Vietnam (AP) — A United States military team flew to Hanoi today to pick up the remains of 11 more American prisoners of war who died in captivity.

The remains were to be flown to U Tapao Air Base in Thailand for identification and return to the United States.

Remains of 12 other American POWs were flown to Thailand from the North Vietnamese capital last week, and Hanoi said it also had the body of a B52 crewman who was killed when his plane was shot down. There has been no indication when the last body would be released.

North Vietnam says that it has all the remains of American servicemen it had. The United States claims that 350 more Americans are missing in action in North Vietnam, 710 elsewhere in Indochina and 50 at sea off the Vietnamese coasts.

The Defense Department said it would not release the names of those whose remains were recovered until positive identification was made and the families were notified. But Hanoi last week gave the names, ranks and military serial numbers of the first 12.

In Saigon, meanwhile, a militant Buddhist leader charged that military police arrested 142 monks at a prayer service in his pagoda Tuesday. Thich (Venerable) Thien An of the An Quang faction said the roundup may have been due to an anti-government demonstration he and 20 other Buddhists held Monday.

A senior official of the four-nation International Commission of Control and Supervision reported that once again the commission that is supposed to supervise the Vietnam cease-fire is near bankruptcy, with $1.7 million in debts.

"Within two more weeks, if we don't get any money, we will be completely in the red," said Assad K. Sadry of Iran.

The Vietnam peace agreement specifies that the commission will be financed by the United States, South Vietnam, North Vietnam and the Viet Cong. The commission's financial state is due to the Communists' refusal to approve the $28.5 million budget submitted by the peacekeeping group; the Communists demanded that it be cut to $18 million.

In Phnom Penh, the Cambodian command said a task force of 1,500 soldiers forced Khmer Rouge insurgents from a five-mile stretch of Highway 4 about 19 miles west of Phnom Penh. The rebels still control a stretch of the highway to the sea 42 miles from the capital.

Arrested In Drug Raid

One man was arrested on drug law violation charges and a warrant was issued for a second person following a raid on a Chestnut Street dwelling yesterday afternoon.

According to Chief Glenn Cannon, David LaFone, 25, was charged with felony possession of marijuana by Greenville officers after a search of the dwelling revealed five ounces of marijuana, valued at about $100.

LaFone was jailed under a $2,500 bond pending hearing of the case in District Court April 1.

Cannon said members of the Pitt County Sheriff's Department assisted in the raid.

The chief noted that a warrant was issued for a second man in connection with the case, but it had not been served by late this morning.

Library Book Club Forming

A library book club for primary and junior high school children is being set up at the Carver Branch Library.

Children interested in participating are asked to meet at Carver Library on Thursday, beginning at 4:00 p.m.

Sponsored by the Iota Kappa Omega Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, Inc., the primary objectives of the club are to motivate greater interest among young people in books, to guide them in selection of books, to teach basic library skills, and to increase circulation of books at Carver Library.

Pat Nixon Is Warmly Received

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — First Lady Pat Nixon saluted Venezuela's new president, Carlos Andres Perez, as "a very strong, impressive man" at an inauguration-night party given by the American Embassy.

"I'm sure that he has the interests of his country at heart, and we're all going to cooperate on hemisphere as well as global matters," she told reporters during the reception Tuesday night for 200 Venezuelans and Americans at Ambassador Robert McClintock's hilltop home.

Mrs. Nixon, who headed the United States delegation to Perez's inauguration earlier Tuesday, declined to comment on his inaugural address in which he pledged to speed up nationalization of the huge American and other foreign oil interests in Venezuela. She said she hadn't read the text in English and didn't want to rely on her "high-school Spanish."

Guests at the reception included Venezuelan officials and congressmen, former ambassadors, lawyers, industrialists and oil company officials.

Mrs. Nixon paused during the receiving line to give reporters comments on a wide variety of subjects, including Max, the ambassador's Doberman pinscher, whose barking "keeps me awake all night," she said.

The dog strolled through the party and had his own snack plate under a table during the buffet for the guests. Mrs. Nixon said Max "guards the stairway and he really lets them have it."

She said the inauguration at the 19th century legislative palace was "impressive" and the Venezuelans have "something we could take a little note of."

She said she approved of the practice of the outgoing president's leaving the senate chamber when the new president was sworn in and about to deliver his inaugural address. She said it was the new president's day, and "you don't share a day like that."

Mrs. Nixon said she was surprised when the crowd outside the palace applauded her loudly after the inauguration. "I thought the president must be coming out," she said, but she found out the applause was for her.

Conversation among some Americans at the party got around to the 1958 vice presidential visit to Venezuela during which the Nixons were exposed to violent street demonstrations.

McClintock asked Mrs. Nixon to autograph his copy of her husband's book "Six Crises" which discussed the demonstrations. The ambassador said he had his staff read the book before Mrs. Nixon's arrival, but

Caveman Won't Give Up 'Fort'

LEASBURG, Mo. (AP) — There are new signs in front of Onondaga Cave here, which was discovered by Daniel Boone in 1798. They read, "Water Stay Away From My Cave," "The Federal Project Be Damned" and "Don't Upstage Mother Nature."

The federal government is planning to condemn the cave for a proposed dam project and Lester B. Dill, cave owner, is doing everything he legally can to thwart the action.

Dill is not interested in any money which the government might offer, he says. "It is impossible to replace the cave for any sum," says Dill, "and I'm in love with the cave, not money."

Great Promise In New Cements

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Southwest Research Institute says two cements it has developed show great promise for use in the oil and road-building industries.

A cured hydrothermal cement achieves adhesive strength of more than 1,000 pounds per square inch when bonded to steel, and can resist exposure to temperatures up to 1,000 degrees Fahrenheit, the institute said.

The second cement is a fast-setting, non-shrinking mixture which allows traffic to be restored within one hour after it is used to fill a pot hole.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A committee passed and sent to the Senate floor Tuesday a bill to designate a portion of the Chattooga River in the Carolinas and Georgia as part of the National Wild and Scenic Rivers System.

Arrest Man On 2 Drug Counts

The Pitt County Sheriff's Department arrested a 21-year-old Rt. 4, Greenville man early this morning and charged him on two drug counts.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that deputies arrested William Adrian Jefferson around 1 a.m. and charged him with possession of a controlled substance and manufacture of marijuana.

Sheriff Tyson said that a small quantity of marijuana was confiscated at the time of the arrest.

Jefferson was jailed under $3,000 bond and a hearing was scheduled for March 18 in District Court here.

One of the easiest ways to make sure you really do it, of course, is to take your refund check and turn it into a Series E Savings Bond. (Or maybe several Savings Bonds!) Now E Bonds earn 6% interest, compounded semiannually, when held to maturity of only 5 years (4½% the first year). Your money is guaranteed safe—Bonds are replaced free if lost, destroyed or stolen. And, speaking of income tax, you may defer the payment of Federal tax on your E Bond interest until you cash your Bonds or they finally mature. (And the interest is exempt from state and local income taxes!)

So don't miss such an ideal opportunity to add to your savings. Turn your tax refund check into growing Savings Bonds dollars today. You'll be doing something nice for your future.

Civic Pride In Brooklyn Is Finding More Outlets

By THOMAS HILLSTROM
BROOKLYN, N.Y. (UPI) —
"I'm from Brooklyn—ya' know, Brooklyn, New York."
In Hollywood, they call it a pat line. A slight twist in inflection and up pop images of Canarsie and Flatbush, ill-tempered cabdrivers and a funny dialect that gave the nation its "dese" and "dem."
"Heah ya, heah ya, heah ya!" recited the court clerk recently at the opening of the Mitchell-Stans trial. "All poysons having business with the United States District Court for the Southern District of New York, draw near, give your attention, and ye shall be hoid."
No doubt where that clerk came from.
Brooklyn—perennial patsy on the stand-up comic circuit, always good for a laugh, a hometown as belittling as Peoria or Hoboken. One just doesn't acknowledge his birthplace as Brooklyn.

Unabashed Boosterism
Yet strange things are happening in New York City's most populous borough. In a time of rising sexual, ethnic and racial consciousness, Brooklyn's civic pride is growing. Unabashed boosterism, if you will.
"Welcome to Brooklyn—the fourth largest city in the nation," reads a sign on one of the borough's approachways. Brooklyn's 2.6 million population falls only behind that of the rest of New York, Chicago and Los Angeles.
It was in 1898 that the then city of Brooklyn was dissolved and attached to Manhattan to form with the other boroughs an entity known as "Greater New York." The consolidation was approved, after failing several times, in a referendum which many contend resulted from conniving by the foes of Manhattan's Tammany Hall.

Some Brooklynites continue to demand a recount.
One of them is Louis Singer, operator of a newspaper distributorship who is long-time Brooklyn resident and a history buff. Singer began conducting tours of "The Land of Brooks" some four years ago as a hobby. Today, the demand is such he averages nearly six tours a week and has bookings well into the fall.
Singer also conducts a newly created adult education course entitled "Brooklyn—Past and Present" at Brooklyn College.
Chauvinistic Michelin Guide
"More and more Brooklynites are becoming interested in just what makes up this borough," he said. "They're learning that if you walk the streets with what I call a 'seeing eye,' you find a fantastic amount of beauty."
Singer's tour brochure reads like a slightly chauvinistic Michelin's guide:

—Lafayette Avenue Presbyterian Church "with its immense chapel, aglow with 18 glorious Louis Tiffany windows."
—Park Slope "with its wealth of 19th Century townhouses and, of course, the Montauk Club, still looking as though Lillian Russell and Diamond Jim were about to walk in."
—Cobble Hill "where George Washington stood and watched as his brave Marylanders were killed as they held off General Cornwallis' troops."
—Church Tours
—Crown Heights "where Norman farmhouses nestle next to Viennese palaces and Parisian chateaux."
—And Prospect Park South, "once a private enclave, still an unbelievable vision, with its Japanese house and antebellum Southern mansions."
"I don't see why so many people have to go off running to Europe," Singer said. "Say it's church tours you want, we have enough cathedral-like churches and synagogues here in Brooklyn to easily fill a tour day."

Singer, who believes he has accumulated as many "miscellaneous tidbits" about Brooklyn as anyone, maintains a continuing commentary as his tour buses make their way through what was once known as "the city of churches and homes."
Included are such assertions as that Brooklyn was the site of the first regular use of the steamboat (the Fulton Ferry), the nation's first formal birth control clinic (on Amboy Street), the first New World village founded by a woman (Lady Moody's Gravesend chartered in 1645) and the world's longest suspension bridge (the Verrazano).
But closest to Singer's heart (the living room of his cooperative apartment overlooks it) is Fort Greene Park and its Prison Ship Martyrs' Monument.
Heroes' Shrine
In the park, white marble steps climb a steep hill to the top and what is described as "the tallest Doric column in the world." Atop the column burns an eternal flame.

Within the hill, accessible by a doorway cut into the stairs, is a large crypt divided into 13 parts, one for each colony. It contains the remains of some 12,000 Americans who perished on prison boats maintained by the British in a Brooklyn bay during the Revolutionary War.
"There are 12,000 heroic Americans buried there," Singer said. "It should be a national shrine."
With a past so deeply rooted in the development of this nation, how is it that Brooklyn acquired an image that invariably produces smile?
Singer blames, in part, Manhattan-based sportswriters and sportscasters, during the old Brooklyn Dodgers days when the inhabitants of the no longer existing Ebbets Field were known as Dem Bums.
Comedians' Contribution
Not helping much, he believe-ves, were the dozens of Brooklyn-born comedians who worked their hometown into their routines, albeit intending to evoke laughter based on love.

James Hurley, director of the Long Island Historical Society (Brooklyn is on Long Island) agreed, adding that the foxhole humor of World War I as depicted in newspaper cartoons and, later, radio situation comedies, also contributed. In both, the so-called Brooklyn accent played a sometimes prominent role in the quest for laughter.
According to both men the Brooklyn accent, such as it was, is largely disappearing these days. In fact, Hurley said, the historical society is concerned about the disappearance of Brooklynese and hopes to begin a project soon to record the voices of those who still speak it, so the dialect will be preserved for posterity.

THE VERRAZANO BRIDGE spans the Narrows between Brooklyn and Staten Island, and an Old Civil War cannon completes the peaceful scene. (UPI Telephoto)

Amnesty Step Called Unfair

By JIM ADAMS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon today opposed amnesty for Vietnam war deserters and draft resisters, saying it would be unfair now and set a dangerous precedent.
"The alternatives were clear at the time a choice was made and an individual should be required to face the consequences of the choice he made," Lt. Gen. Leo E. Banade said in prepared testimony.
Banade, deputy assistant secretary of defense for personnel policy, was among witnesses scheduled for a House Judiciary subcommittee's third day of hearings on legislating amnesty.
He said men had to take the place of draft evaders and said some of them undoubtedly "were just as reluctant to participate in a war."
"But they served their country," he said. "Some suffered temporarily. Some suffered permanently. Some died."

Banade also said amnesty for deserters and draft evaders would "dangerously impair any future draft, undermine military justice and hurt military morale and discipline."
Banade said the Pentagon opposed even the most modest amnesty proposal before the subcommittee, case-by-case granting of amnesty to men willing to serve two years in the military or in civilian service.
But the author of that proposal, Rep. Howard W. Robison, R-N.Y., said in a prepared statement that Congress must legislate some form of amnesty to help replenish the national spirit by "putting away at least some part of the recent legacy of dogmatic confrontation."

Two Are Ruled Picasso Heirs

GRASSE, France (AP) — Claude and Paloma Picasso have been declared legitimate heirs of Pablo Picasso, despite their father's successful fight against their efforts to be declared legitimate while he was alive.
A French court Tuesday ruled that the famous artist had confirmed his paternity of Claude, 26, and Paloma, 25, by dedicating paintings to them as his children.
The two were the offspring of Francoise Gilot, who bore the two while Picasso was married to his first wife, Olga Koklova. A son by that marriage, Paul, and Picasso's widow have been trying to establish themselves as the sole heirs and are expected to contest the court ruling.

Charged In Kidnap Case

RALEIGH (AP) — A 25-year-old Raleigh man has been charged with kidnapping a teenage girl and her 2-year-old sister at gunpoint from their grandmother's home in Wake County.
Wake County authorities said the two girls were rescued unharmed Tuesday evening after officers stopped Herbert Bowie Jr. at a roadblock in the city.
A Wake County Sheriff's Department spokesman said Bowie was charged with kidnapping Donna Evans Eatmon, 18, of Rt. 2, Raleigh, and her sister Wanda Ann Eatmon, 2, from their grandmother's home also at Rt. 2, Raleigh.
Officers said Bowie also was charged with daylight burglary at the grandmother's home by forcing his way in the front door, and with larceny of the grandmother's automobile.
Witnesses said they saw a man enter the grandmother's home Tuesday afternoon with a gun. They said he came out a short time later carrying the 2-year-old in his arms and holding a pistol to the head of the older girl. The three then got into the grandmother's car and drove off, the witnesses said.

High Altitude Of La Paz Is Breathtaking

By WILLIAM F. NICHOLSON
Associated Press Writer
LA PAZ, Bolivia (AP) — A visit to La Paz, one of the highest cities in the world, can be a breathtaking experience.

This city of 600,000 sits in a deep bowl 12,000 feet high and the airport is 2,000 feet higher.

For visitors from sea-level, La Paz means an excruciating headache and stomach troubles because their systems cannot get enough oxygen.

Oxygen bottles are standard equipment in hotels for gasping guests who suffer from "soroche," as altitude sickness is called here.

"I'd say that about 70 percent of our guests ask for oxygen when they first arrive," said one local hotel employee. "Most of them are older people."

But doctors at the Bolivian Institute of Altitude Biology, a research organization supported by Bolivian and French funds, say most visitors have no problems after 15 days in La Paz.

The doctors at the institute, founded in 1964 after the late Charles DeGaulle visited Latin America, are studying the effects of altitude on humans, animals and plants to see how the results can help in other lower-level regions.

For example, notes Dr. Jean Coudert, codirector of the institute, Bolivians living at high altitudes for generations have few symptoms of heart ailments.

The heart attacks and hardening of the arteries that are common causes of death in the rest of the civilized world are almost unknown here, he said.

"There are many things that we do not understand about the effects of altitude on humans at this level," he said in an interview.

"After an altitude of around 10,000 feet one begins to experience physiological problems. But we do know that the people who have lived here all their lives are perfectly conditioned to cope with the altitude."

A visitor notes an immediate difference between the foreign tourists and native Bolivians, the majority of whom are either Aymara or Quechua Indians, walking on the streets.

The tourists normally have a pained expression on their faces as they plod up the steep city streets, short of breath.

The Indians, on the other hand, can trot for long periods with heavy loads on their backs without breathing hard.

Dr. Coudert said that there is just as much oxygen in the air here as at sea-level. But because of the lower pressure, visitors' lungs must work harder to get it.

The institute, one of the few of its kind in the world, has determined through examination of Bolivians living here that their lungs are much larger than those who live at sea level.

And yet their hearts somehow work less but pump a more adequate amount of oxygen-rich blood.

"It is like an automobile motor which has a special carburetor that allows it to work as hard with less fuel," said Willy S. Haftel, the institute's medical engineer.

While the natives have no problem with the altitude, foreign residents here sometimes find it difficult.

Alcohol goes a long way here and Dr. Coudert suggests visitors take it easy for the first week, dispensing altogether with drinking.

Picasso's Work In Big Demand

BREMEN, Germany (UPI) — In the year since Pablo Picasso's death, the Spanish painter's works have experienced a "spectacular increase in value," according to Michael Hertz, West Germany's best-known Picasso dealer.

Even Picasso's prints are rising in price, with the best of the work of his last years costing as much as $19,400 each, Hertz reported.

"Picasso has become too expensive for many museums and private collectors," Hertz said. "And I can see no slackening of the price in sight."

Hertz said he is convinced Picasso left more finished works than are generally believed, but added he has no idea when these will be placed on the market.

Medical Exam For The Cabbie

BELGRADE (AP) — Ljubomir Lazarevic, councilman of this capital of Yugoslavia, recently proposed that each taxi driver of the capital should, before obtaining a license, undergo psychiatric observation.

He argued that taxi drivers perform a public service and that only those mentally stable can perform it. He added that if his proposal is adopted complaints of the public against erratic taxi drivers would be eliminated.

His proposal was not accepted.

Malta 'Loan' Is A Toehold

By FRED BARRY
VALETTA, Malta (UPI) — One day soon, 300 Chinese engineers and technicians will arrive in Valletta to help put $42 million loaned to Malta by Peking to good use.

Malta, once the problem child of the British and a strategic link in North Atlantic Treaty Organization defense, may become China's first foothold in the Mediterranean.

The engineers will arrive to supervise construction of a drydock for 300,000-ton tankers and three new factories to help boost the island's sagging economy and create jobs for many of its 7,000 unemployed workers.

The financing of the works also comes from China in the form of a 17 million Maltese pound (42 million) loan granted two years ago under liberal pay-back terms.

After years of strained relations with Britain and repeated notice that it wants to free itself from financial dependency on the West, Malta's socialist government is actively wooing the Chinese. Political observers, newspapers and a number of diplomats say it could signal the day when Chinese will outnumber the British Royal Air Force pilots and Marines on the island.

Friends with Everyone Officially, Malta's foreign policy under Prime Minister Dom Mintoff has been one of neutrality and "friendship with everyone." But among the big powers, China has emerged as Malta's best friend.

Less than a week after he signed a new lease extending Britain's naval presence on the island until 1979, Mintoff was in Peking's Great Hall putting his signature to the China loan. In addition to the 17 million pound loan to be paid back both in cash and goods, China threw in an extra 1 million pounds ($2.5 million) "in appreciation of the friendship binding our two countries."

Shortly afterwards, China opened an embassy in Valletta although Mintoff still refuses to let the Russians do the same. NATO closed its 300-man Mediterranean headquarters here in 1971 at Mintoff's request and both the U.S. Sixth Fleet and Soviet warships are barred from Maltese ports.

Malta has also served notice that the $35 million base agreement with Britain will likely not be up for renewal again after 1979, thus severing NATO's last link with the strategically-placed island.

Development Program Last year Mintoff announced a long-range development program aimed at eliminating the "hard economic necessity of tolerating a foreign military presence on our soil after 1979." In the meantime, he has demanded more money from the British and stepped up a fiery rhetorical campaign against them for refusing to give it.

If Malta does kick the British out, it will have been made possible largely through the economic aid of China which has also offered to invest capital in the island to put a string of bankrupt Maltese companies back in business.

Diplomats and other foreign observers here see all this as the beginning of a Chinese economic foothold on the island.

Vandals Ruin Stone Carvings

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ike Eastvold, who has a contract with the Bureau of Land Management to inventory stone carvings made by ancient men in the California desert, thinks that most of the petroglyphs will have been destroyed within 15 years by vandals unless drastic protective measures are taken.

There has been a surge in destruction as the result of the use of off-track vehicles in recent years. Not only do people shoot at the rock drawings and hack them up carelessly, but they rip them out to decorate their homes or back yards. If preserved, Eastvold thinks, they would have great value as tourist attractions as well as scientific exhibits.

Postal Blarney Exists Despite

Automation KANSAS CITY (AP) — Despite automation in the postal service, St. Patrick's Day cards can still be sent to aptly named places like St. Patrick, Mo., or Emerald, Wis., for postmarking and forwarding. It's true in many parts of the U.S. today that mail from small towns goes to central sorting offices to be imprinted with only a ZIP-numbered postmark. But postmasters in Erin, Ala., Green City, Mo., and others will honor requests for hand-stamping and remailing, according to Hallmark's George Parker.

He suggests sending mail before the March 17 deadline to such communities as Patrick, S.C.; Greentown, Ohio; Killarney, W. Va., or one of the 14 Dublins in the U.S. They're located in Arkansas, California, Georgia, Indiana, Kentucky, Maryland, Michigan, Mississippi, New Hampshire, North Carolina, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Texas and Virginia.

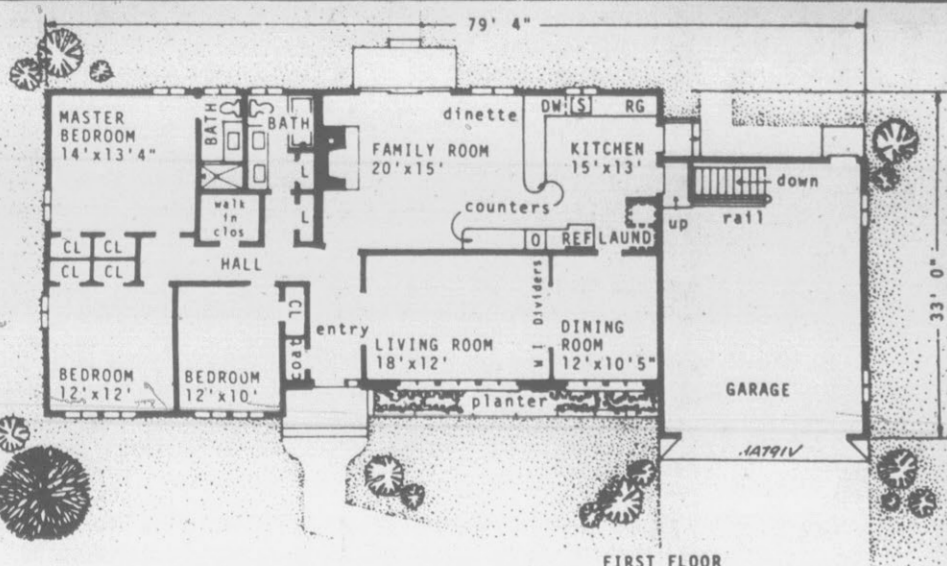

TIME FLIES PETROVARAEIN, Yugoslavia (AP) — The 270-year-old clock on the ancient castle overlooking the Danube River here keeps the right time although it has been repaired only four times so far — in 1790, 1837, 1941 and 1952. The clock has a curiosity: the big hand points at hours and the small one at minutes.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

THE COMBINED SWEEP of kitchen-family room is even greater than the terrific living-dining expanse at the front, which means that formal and informal living are at the peak here. Super closets are shown for the three bedroom wing. Plan HA791V has 1,645 square feet and is designed by architect Fenick Vogel, Room 704, 48 W. 48th St., New York, N.Y. 10036. Anyone interested in knowing the price of the blueprint may write to him. Enclose stamped envelope for reply.

U.S. Geologists Watch For Volcano Warnings

By DIANE CURTIS
MENLO PARK, Calif. (UPI) — Scientists at the U.S. Geological Survey are monitoring 16 volcanoes in four states and four foreign countries for quick warning if there should be any sign of activity.

The Earth Resources Technology Satellite (ERTS) Data Collection System, as the monitoring project is called, uses seismic counters and tiltmeters to transmit information to a satellite which in turn relays the information to ground tracking stations at Goldstone, Calif., and the Goddard Spaceflight Center in Maryland.

This data is processed at Goddard and then relayed within 90 minutes by teletype to the National Center for Earthquake Research at the U.S. Geological Survey at Menlo Park.

"The number of earthquakes and ground tilts typically increase before ground eruption—somewhat like a blister before it bursts," said Peter L. Ward, one of five scientists working on the program. "But there is no way to predict an eruption no matter how many instruments you have."

Ward said ultimate prediction of eruptions is one of the goals of the program, but he emphasized that at present it is not possible to forecast them.

Quake Increases
Scientists have observed a sharp increase in the number of earthquakes round a volcano and a change in ground tilt before an eruption, but there have been occasions when increasing tremors didn't result in an eruption.

"If we continue to collect the data we've been getting, we'll be able to double the amount we know about volcanoes," Ward said.

"The unique feature of the system is that we're able to do something that wasn't feasible before—to collect data from all over the world."

"What we're doing is finding an inexpensive way of monitoring activity at many volcanoes and giving an early warning of activity."

Before, routine observations had been feasible at only a few volcanoes. Besides the prohibitive cost of constructing and maintaining an observatory—often at remote and inaccessible areas—Ward said that interest in an observatory was often spurred after there has been an eruption. By the time an observatory was built, the volcano might be inactive.

Battery Operated
Ward and his colleagues are monitoring volcanoes St. Augustine and Iliamna in Alaska; Kilauea in Hawaii; Baker, Rainier and St. Helens in Washington, and Lassen in California.

In cooperation with local scientists, the system was completed at volcanoes Santiago, Fuego, Agua and Pacaya in Guatemala, Izalco in El Salvador and San Cristobal, Telica and Cerro Negro in Nicaragua in April, 1973.

And they are also monitoring a volcano in Iceland.

The seismic counters and tiltmeters run on batteries that need to be changed only about once a year. Ward said the compactness, portability and low power consumption of the instruments makes them practical for operation in remote locations during all types of environmental extremes.

Long-Term Changes
The scientific team hasn't yet had a chance to test the early warning capabilities of the system. Volcano Fuego in Guatemala erupted nine days after the equipment was installed there in February, 1973. But teletypes to the survey were not set up and by the time the scientists received data of high seismic activity prior to the eruption, the eruption was over.

An eruption at Kilauea in Hawaii occurred just about the time the team had started receiving data and Pacaya in Guatemala has been very active for about two years.

"What we're looking for are long-term changes," Ward said.

Patrolmen Will Study Branding

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — Nevada highway patrolmen will attend classes on brand inspection in an effort to catch cattle rustlers.

Patrol Chief James Lambert said his men will study administration of brand laws and will learn about techniques modern rustlers use. Ranchers say thieves commonly shoot a cow, drag it into a van and butcher it while the van travels to the nearest possible market. Patrolmen routinely will record pertinent information on vehicles and drivers involved in livestock shipments.

Locomotive Is Tourist Attraction

By ALFRED ARAUJO
 NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — If railway enthusiasts had their way, old locomotives would never die — they would merely steam away — forever.

But in many parts of the world steam locomotives have given way to diesel engines. In East Africa — a comparative paradise for the steam enthusiast — progress is pushing these engines out of business.

East African Railways, which has about 300 of its 450 locomotives still powered by steam, will have replaced them all with diesel-powered units by 1976.

But at least one recently retired steam engine has an interesting future. Instead of ending up as scrap this old model — which served the Railways faithfully for 45 years — has been set up on its own little track for the tourists to admire.

Its new home is on the forecourt of the Maneaters Motel at Tsavo River, 200 miles south of here, where the 40-ton wood-burning locomotive of the Uganda Railway is proving a major attraction to travelers on the road from the capital to the Indian Ocean Kenyan seaport, Mombasa.

The locomotive, one of the E.A.R. "11" class shunting engines, was shipped to Kenya from Lancashire, England, in 1926 for the Uganda Railway. It remained in service, after being converted to burn oil instead of timber, with East African Railways right up to early last year when it was replaced by a diesel shunter.

This particular engine, No. 320, was restored to its original graphite-black color during a facelift operation carried out in the Railway workshops.

Now it forms part of the authentic atmosphere created for the quaint, but modern, Maneaters Motel, situated on the Mombasa highway just a stone's throw from the place where the infamous Maneaters of Tsavo held up construction of the Uganda Railway seven decades ago.

Lions still pay regular visits to the motel site, but happily have not displayed the maneating tendencies of their ancestors. Elephants, found in the hundreds in the Tsavo area, are also frequent callers at the motel.

Braz Menezes, who designed the 56-bed Maneaters Motel, converted 21 covered railway wagons of the same vintage into bedrooms.

They are heat-proofed and each has its own private viewing balcony commanding an excellent view of the surrounding plains. The motel cost $300,000 — considered inexpensive in comparison with the multimillion-dollar tourist hotels being built all over Kenya at present.

Transportation of the locomotive and wagons from the nearby Tsavo River station, a quarter mile across the Mombasa highway, was a mammoth exercise involving massive cranes and low loaders.

There is a total of 27 old steam shunting engines still in service, but their days are numbered. While most of them are on a one-way ticket to the scrapyard, another of these vintage models will be kept for posterity.

Plans are being made to include one of the shunters in the Railway Museum to open here soon.

Atlas Attains A Golden Year

NEW YORK (AP) — The first annual road atlas of the United States was published by Rand McNally 50 years ago, in 1924. To celebrate this half-century milestone, the veteran road map publisher is issuing a golden anniversary edition of the road atlas for 1974, back-to-back with a facsimile of its 1926 road atlas — the earliest of Rand McNally's road atlases known still to exist.

No copies of the original 1924 atlas could be found, even after an extensive search of the country.

Has Doubts On Shampoo Ads

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Lt. Gov. Jere Beasley has confessed to using a shampoo that television commercials said was the best on the market. Beasley has his doubts. He says his hair was so soft after the shampoo that it stood directly on end and he had a hard time controlling it. So much for the shampoo, Beasley says.

CASE Z-573: Natty Bo, aged 2½, is one of my grandsons.

"Are you a little girl or a little boy?" a visitor teasingly asked. But psychologists have found that you should bury the correct reply in the middle of your question. Why?

Because we find that kiddies tend to parrot back to the examiner the last word or even the final syllable that was contained in the question.

Ask the toddler to say "Banana" and he will either reply with "Nana" or maybe just "Na."

Natty Bo resisted use of spoken language for many months and used his own language.

In fact, he was so expressive at making signs that he'd have been a delight to the American Indians at the time of Columbus!

Finally, however, he began to compromise with spoken words. Since he and I are boon buddies, he calls for me as soon as his parents bring him into the house.

But instead of asking where Grandpa is, he will peremptorily demand "Pa?"

That means he has employed the last syllable in "Grandpa."

On our Intelligence Testing, therefore, we ask toddlers that standard query "Are you a little boy or a little girl?"

But we bury the correct reply in the middle of the question.

For youngsters who don't understand, will still be likely to parrot the last word you uttered. If we are thus testing a little girl, we inquire:

"Are you a little girl or a little boy?"

And we reverse the form of that query when interviewing a boy by saying:

"Are you a little boy or a little girl?"

Some children seem to be naturally more visual minded whereas others respond early to spoken language.

Albert Einstein was a visual minded child to such a degree that his worried parents thought he was mentally retarded.

Often, too, this visual minded toddler is more likely to be the oldest youngster of else an "only" child.

As such, he isn't surrounded by as much spoken language as is the later children who arrive in the family where several older brothers and sisters are constantly arguing and talking.

You can appreciate this result by imagining what would happen if a baby were marooned on an uninhabited island in the tropics.

Assuming it had access to fruit and other edibles, as it grew up, it would react by eye to its surroundings but would not be exposed to spoken words.

In order to help children cultivate oral vocabulary, let them observe their own lips in a mirror as they try to speak.

Then they will become interested in the many lip movements that are involved in consonants.

"Mamma" thus brings the lips together to clip off the vowel sounds.

A little lipreading drill is thus very helpful in showing every toddler how to speak more distinctly.

People with bushy mustaches, thick lips, or the Oriental's tendency to keep the lips immobile as they vocalize in the throat (like a ventriloquist), then are not only difficult for lipreaders but also for people with normal hearing.

For the lips help human beings far surpass animals and birds in communication!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Little Strokes

Can Incapacitate

NEW YORK (UPI) — An often unsuspected cause of mental and physical incapacity is a series of "little strokes."

A stroke occurs when the blood supply to a part of the brain is reduced or cut off. This can be caused by a blood clot or by hemorrhage—bleeding from a brain artery that has a blowout. When the nerve cells of part of the brain don't get blood, the part of the body controlled by these nerve cells cannot function properly.

The American Medical Association says little strokes may start when a person is in the 30s or 40s, striking silently at night or passing almost unnoticed as a sudden dizzy spell, momentary blackout or just a few moments of confusion.

The city of Dallas, founded in 1841, was named for George Mifflin Dallas, then vice president of the United States.

Old Atlas Included Share-The-Gas Plea

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Share your gas with the man who is stranded far from a filling station."

This advice is being given to motorists today as an untold number of car owners find themselves out of gas on a busy street or highway, unable to make it to a service station.

And it also was given to motorists almost half a century ago when gasoline was plentiful but fuel gauges on the autos of those days were not always accurate.

The share-the-gas appeal appeared in the "Courtesy of the Road" section of the 1926 edition of Rand McNally's Auto Road Atlas of the United States.

Rand McNally has reprinted a facsimile edition of the 1926 edition in observance of its 50th anniversary in road map making. The company was unable to find the first edition, which appeared in 1924, and settled for the earliest obtainable in a nation-wide search.

In 1926, Rand McNally mapped 184,000 miles of national highways. The 1974 edition shows about four million miles of U.S. and Interstate routes.

The facsimile 1926 atlas, which can be purchased wherever road maps are sold, shows that some states, especially in the south and west, had few paved roads—even between such large cities as Birmingham and Atlanta, indicating more than a day of travel would be needed to complete such a journey.

In the "Things Worth Knowing Section," the atlas suggests:

"Women drivers of motor vehicles should be given special consideration—and watching"; "Always stop for streetcars loading or taking on passengers. In most cities this is required by ordinance rigidly enforced".

Fat Baby May Not Be Healthy

LINCOLN, Neb. (UPI) — Fat, pudgy babies are considered cute but they may not be healthy. Babies who get fat during the first year of life may grow to be fat children and fat adults.

So says Harriet Kohn, Extension Food and Nutrition Specialist at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln. The fat baby and fat child build extra fat cells which can make losing weight later in life difficult.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Plan now for future recreation and contact congenials. Show how much you appreciate your mate and good relatives to be happier.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept. 22) Add the cultural things and art pieces to your abode that make it more charming and comfortable. Get into basic matters for fine benefits.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Quietly seek out the information you need, which is the best way. If you follow through with what mate desires, happiness ensues.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb 19) Being your own sociable self is the best way to proceed. Get into that group meeting that appeals to you so much.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) You can add considerably to your success and the respect others have for you. Show your finest abilities. Impress others.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will act on the spur of the moment and it is well to teach early to keep silent rather than get into trouble by loose talk. Teach to have all facts and figures straight first. An ideal chart for professions that require much travel, whether in business, art, or cultural fields. Give as good a spiritual training as you can. Don't neglect sports for health.

Zoo Animals' Diet Has Beef Shortage

By WILLIAM R. LONG
SAO PAULO, Brazil, (AP) — Brazil's beef shortage is inflicting hardships on the animal kingdom in Sao Paulo State Park, hitting at the highest and lowest levels.

The king of beasts in the lion habitat has been forced to accept a diet of liver and tongue in place of his customary lean, red beef.

In the neighboring zoo, lowly rabbits and ducks are losing their lives in the effort to provide the tigers and hyenas with beef substitutes.

Outside the park, housewives line up early in supermarkets to buy scarce steaks and roasts, while other shoppers settle for hot dogs and chicken.

The beef shortage is blamed largely on a disagreement between the government and meat suppliers over pricing. The government set a price that the suppliers considered too low, so much Brazilian beef has been kept in storage awaiting better prices.

As a result, the 30 lions in the "Simba Safari" at the state park get front-quarter beef only once a week. The other six days the lions eat beef liver, heart, tongue and other parts for which they show little enthusiasm.

"A hungry lion becomes very dangerous and aggressive," said Francisco Galvao, owner of Simba Safari. "That's why we go to the trouble of obtaining the innards through the packing house of a friend."

Friday is the day when the lions are served beef flesh, which used to be their daily fare. Tourists who drive through the natural setting to see the lions can watch them disputing over the once-a-week treat.

Each lion eats about 10 pounds a day.

In the nearby state-run zoo, the meat-eating animals consume about 400 pounds of flesh a day. Dr. Mario Autuori, director of the zoo, told a local newspaper that his organization is facing "serious problems with the shortage of meat."

"The Sao Paulo zoo is increasing the raising of rats, chickens, ducks and rabbits, which also serve as food for the carnivores," Autuori said.

He said fish from the zoo's ponds are also being used to feed the tigers, lions, hyenas and other meat-eaters.

Horse meat is not used as a beef substitute, he said, because horse suppliers prefer to export the meat to Japan and the United States, where they get a better price.

Petition Return Of Cyclamate

NEW YORK (UPI) — Cyclamate—once considered the scourge of soft drinks—may be on the way back.

The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) recently was petitioned to have cyclamate reinstated as a food additive.

Cyclamate is an artificial sweetener that was used in various foods before being banned in 1969. The ban stemmed from a two-year rat study. Rats in the study ate cyclamates in various doses and later developed bladder tumors.

Subsequent studies in Germany, England, the Netherlands and Japan have failed to duplicate the results of the rat study. That's one reason for the petition by Abbott Laboratories of Chicago asking the FDA to okay cyclamates. Rats in the study who got bladder tumors were fed cyclamates over 240 times the level a human might consume.

"Women drivers of motor vehicles should be given special consideration—and watching"; "Always stop for streetcars loading or taking on passengers. In most cities this is required by ordinance rigidly enforced".

Gasoline Protest Among Coal Miners Spreading

By BOB ROBINSON
Associated Press Writer
CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — The gasoline protest in southern West Virginia's coal fields has spread northward, with 1,600 more miners on the job. A total of 27,600 miners are now idle.

A federal judge in Virginia ordered an end to the work stoppage in one part of the strike area, but United Mine Workers officials were unavailable for comment on whether the men would return to work.

The protest spread into Nicholas County on Tuesday as pickets appeared at various coal mines, a spokesman for the West Virginia Coal Association said. It marked the first time that the strike has involved mines in UMW districts other than District 17 in the southwestern part of the state and District 29 in the extreme southern portion.

Judge Emory Widener of the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals issued the temporary restraining order at the request of mine operators against 27 UMW locals in District 17.

But the heart of the protest movement is in District 29, apparently unaffected by Widener's ruling. Last week, U.S. District Court Judge Dennis R. Knapp refused to issue a restraining order sought by 20 coal companies against the union locals. He did order an end to picketing.

The strike, now in its third week, began to have telling effects on other industries.

U.S. Steel said 30,000 employees would be laid off by the end of the week if the walkout continues. The Norfolk & Western Railway said 83 mines along its lines were closed.

Meanwhile, UMW President Arnold Miller urged Gov. Arch A. Moore Jr. to sign an Emergency Fuel Power Act and use its provisions to get the miners back to work.

The strike began when miners claimed they could not obtain enough gasoline to get to work. They were particularly critical of a rule under which a motorist could buy gasoline only if his tank were less than a quarter full.
