

Ford 'Understands' Oil Embargo Lifted

Confrontation Is Oil Embargo's End Won't Headed Off Over Impeachment Data

By JOHN BECKLER Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of the House Judiciary Committee has headed off, at least for the moment, a confrontation with the White House over impeachment evidence.

Despite White House statements indicating stiffening resistance to committee requests for tapes and documents, Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., convinced members more time was needed to determine whether President Nixon will cooperate.

Rodino said Wednesday that the material the committee wants is necessary to the investigation and the Constitution gives the committee an unchallenged right to it. Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., the committee's senior Republican, agreed.

By STAN BENJAMIN Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The anticipated end of the five-month-old Arab oil embargo should relieve U.S. fuel shortages, but it probably won't bring back business-as-usual.

U.S. officials estimate it could take up to three months for oil imports to return to pre-embargo levels.

That is why energy chief William E. Simon says his toughest job will be to carry through on present policies for fuel conservation and energy development after the embargo and, with it, the immediate emergency ends.

An end to the embargo would bring no relief at all to the problem of paying for foreign oil at the new, high prices. In fact, unless the prices were reduced, the increase of imports would only make the balance of payments problem worse.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford said today he understands the Arab oil embargo against the United States has been lifted and an official announcement is expected shortly.

"It's my understanding that the oil embargo has been lifted," Ford said in a televised interview.

The Vice President said he had talked earlier today with Secretary of State Henry Kissinger who has been leading efforts to have the Arab oil embargo, invoked since the Mideast war began last October, lifted.

The State Department had no official comment but officials there said they were encouraged by the word they had received. There was no elaboration.

"The particular announcement, the official announcement, will come at a later date, a day or two from now," Ford said.

In Tripoli, Libya, a high-ranking Libyan official said earlier that the Arabs have agreed to end their oil embargo against the United States and the decision may be announced Sunday in Vienna.

Ford made his statement in an interview on the CBS Morning News program.

He did not elaborate further on the oil question.

The vice president also said he does not think the House will vote to impeach President Nixon and doesn't think Nixon will resign.

Ford said he does not anticipate any subpoena show-down between the White House and the House Judiciary Committee studying impeachment as long as the committee limits its requests for evidence to items relevant to specific charges.

Asked his assessment of the probability of impeachment, Ford said: "My judgment is ... that it's probably not going to be done by the House."

"I think political pressure is being exerted on members of the House, and when you have political pressures, sometimes the ebb and flow of hopes will depend on the pressure," he said.

Innocent Pleas By Four Men In Break-In Case

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Four men pleaded innocent today to a charge stemming from the break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

Watergate break-in trial. Henry Rothblatt, counsel for De Diego, a Miami realtor, told newsmen he intends to subpoena "every relevant witness."

Asked if that included the President, Rothblatt replied, "I think he'll be a very relevant witness."

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon accepted with "a sense of personal regret" today the resignation of Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz, effective in early May.

U.S. officials estimate it could take up to three months for oil imports to return to pre-embargo levels.

Coastal Zoning Bill May See A Vote Today

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—The North Carolina Senate, after more than a week of delays, may get around to voting on a controversial coastal zoning bill today.

The Senate debated the bill for two hours Wednesday but then decided to postpone the vote to allow time for amendments to be drawn up.

He did not elaborate further on the oil question.

The vice president also said he does not think the House will vote to impeach President Nixon and doesn't think Nixon will resign.

Ford said he does not anticipate any subpoena show-down between the White House and the House Judiciary Committee studying impeachment as long as the committee limits its requests for evidence to items relevant to specific charges.

Asked his assessment of the probability of impeachment, Ford said: "My judgment is ... that it's probably not going to be done by the House."

"I think political pressure is being exerted on members of the House, and when you have political pressures, sometimes the ebb and flow of hopes will depend on the pressure," he said.

Counsel for one of the defendants told newsmen upon entering the courthouse that he expects to call President Nixon as a defense witness.

Liddy was the last to arrive in the courtroom. In contrast to earlier appearances when he looked pale and gaunt, Liddy was tanned and fit. He was greeted enthusiastically by Barker, Martinez and De Diego.

Nixon has promised to give the committee everything on Watergate he gave to the grand jury. However, the committee is investigating many other areas besides Watergate.

Announcing the impending departure of the last member of Nixon's original cabinet to still hold federal office, Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren said the President feels Shultz "has served with great distinction," starting as secretary of labor in 1969.

But U.S. petroleum demand has been rising steadily each year; domestic production has stagnated, and officials say new demands can only be met by increased imports for the next few years, mainly from the Middle East.

The Senate debated the bill for two hours Wednesday but then decided to postpone the vote to allow time for amendments to be drawn up.

Under pressure from the coast, it was amended so that the governor appoints five and chooses the other ten from a large pool of nominees submitted by city and county governments in the 22 counties.

Asked his assessment of the probability of impeachment, Ford said: "My judgment is ... that it's probably not going to be done by the House."

"I think political pressure is being exerted on members of the House, and when you have political pressures, sometimes the ebb and flow of hopes will depend on the pressure," he said.

Entering innocent pleas were G. Gordon Liddy, Bernard L. Barker, Eugenio R. Martinez and Felipe De Diego.

All of the defense counsel indicated to U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell that they anticipated problems obtaining government records pertaining to the Ellsberg break-in. Gesell suggested they conferred with the prosecutor's office before filing any motions.

Rodino persuaded Democratic members of the committee that further talks should be held between committee and White House lawyers before any move to subpoena White House evidence.

Noting that Shultz has talked several times of a desire to return to private life, Warren said the 53-year-old economist would continue to "assume special assignments" after leaving the Treasury post he has held since June 12, 1972.

On the other hand, if the Arabs make available unlimited oil imports, U.S. officials may still press fuel conservation to keep those imports down.

The hangup is the composition of the proposed 15-member Coastal Resources Commission, which would be vested with much of the power over development contained in the bill.

Under pressure from the coast, it was amended so that the governor appoints five and chooses the other ten from a large pool of nominees submitted by city and county governments in the 22 counties.

Report Drop In Electricity Use

RALEIGH (AP)—Carolina Power and Light Co. reported today a 2.46 per cent drop in the use of electricity for the first nine weeks of 1974 compared with the same period of last year.

CP&L operations manager, C.M. Clark, pointed out that the average temperature during peak demand periods was 47 degrees for the nine weeks ending March 2, compared with 42 degrees during the same period last year.

Clark said the higher average temperature was partly responsible for the decline in the use of electricity but that conservation measures were also partly responsible.

Justice Cites Big Workload

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — U.S. Supreme Court Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. says the workload of the court "has reached the point where it's quite difficult for us to give the cases that reach us the care and attention and material reflection I myself think they need."

A California state judge had ruled that Nixon was a relevant defense witness in the trial of charges returned by a Los Angeles County grand jury in connection with the same break-in. California prosecutors agreed to drop the charges after the federal grand jury had acted.

MOSCOW (AP) — An unmanned Russian space probe has landed a scientific module on Mars, and the capsule has transmitted "new important data" about the red planet, Tass reported today.

It said the capsule also sent information on "near-planet cosmic space and properties of the interplanetary medium on the route of the flight."

At the time of the Mars 3 shot, Mars 1, launched in 1962, was lost in space and Mars 2, launched May 19, 1971, circled the planet and transmitted 590 earth.

Blaze Away

Syrian and Israeli armor and artillery blazed away at each other on the Golan Heights for the third straight day today.

Hancock noted that the ten cent limitation had originally been applicable to all campaign expenses rather than just media advertising.

Clark said the higher average temperature was partly responsible for the decline in the use of electricity but that conservation measures were also partly responsible.

Powell made the comment Wednesday to a joint meeting of the Richmond Bar Association and the University of Richmond Law School.

De Diego's attorney said the defendant believes he was carrying out government orders when he participated in the Fielding office burglary.

The official Soviet news agency said Mars 6, which was launched last Aug. 5, reached the vicinity of Mars on Tuesday and sent the module to the surface the same day.

The Soviet Union first landed a space probe on Mars on Dec. 2, 1971. This was the Mars 3 shot. Mars 1, launched in 1962, Mars 4 and 5 were launched last July, just a few weeks ahead of 6 and 7. Tass has reported that Mars 4 failed to function properly, while Mars 5 went into orbit around the planet and became a satellite.

It said the clash began "when the enemy tried to fortify and improve his positions in the northern sector" of the 40-mile cease-fire line.

And the Senate Finance Committee approved House-passed legislation raising interest rates on small loans.

New Fire Truck Soon Serving Grifton

GRIFTON—A new yellow fire truck will soon be answering calls for Grifton community citizens outside the town limits. The new truck, ordered last year by the Grifton Community Fire Association, was delivered a few weeks ago and will be ready for use soon.

The Association decided to purchase a new truck because the old rural fire truck was more than 15 years old and in need of major repairs.

Policeman Charged In Pitt Youth's Shooting

ATLANTIC BEACH—An Atlantic Beach police officer has been charged with assault with a deadly weapon in connection with the March 8 shooting of an 18-year-old Grifton youth.

The shooting, investigators said, occurred after Grainger stepped a car in which four persons were riding after it was observed being driven in an "erratic" manner, about 2 a.m.

A preliminary hearing for Grainger has been set for District Court in Beaufort March 20.

NEW FIRE TRUCK DELIVERED ... A new lime yellow fire truck has been delivered to the rural fire department in Grifton. The truck is a Howe 750 pumper and cost approximately $28,000. The new lime yellow is the first of its kind in Pitt County. According to Pitt County Fire Marshal Bobby Joyner, the new color is better seen at night. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

The town fire truck, by law, cannot respond to fires outside the town limits. The rural truck will be maintained and operated by the Grifton Fire Department.

Pit. W. D. Grainger has been charged, officials said this morning, with shooting Matthew Keys Bosley—son of Grifton Mayor David Bosley—in the lower left chest.

The officer was released under a $500 bond pending hearing of the case.

The Community Fire Association conducted an extensive membership drive last spring and now has more than 400 members. Membership is $10 which includes the first annual dues of $6. For this amount, a member receives around-the-clock fire protection and reduced homeowners insurance premiums. Non-members are billed $50 if the rural fire truck answers a fire call.

Bosley jumped from the vehicle and ran to the edge of the sound, where he was caught by Grainger and a scuffle followed.

Agenda Readied For School Bd. Meeting

The March regular meeting of the Greenville City School Board will take place at 8:00 p.m. Monday at Agnes Fullilove Kindergarten School.

Other items are the monthly budget report and financial statement, payment of legal fees, and discussion of the 1974-75 budget.

Total cost for the new vehicle was $28,000.

Bosley was wounded during the scuffle by a shot from Grainger's 3 caliber weapon.

Major emphasis on the agenda falls on a review of policy materials.

A number of miscellaneous agenda items have been listed, including the 1974-75 calendar and a meeting with City Council. School board meetings are open to the public.

Persons living within the Grifton Fire District should dial the "operator" and ask for Zenith 151 to report a fire. A call will immediately be placed to the Grifton Fire Department as well as electronically sound the alarm in Grifton.

The Carteret County Sheriff's Department and agents of the State Bureau of Investigation are heading investigation of the case at the request of Atlantic Beach Police Chief W. W. Moore.

'Copied Gucci' Business Still On The Increase

By ANN HENCKEN
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Well-heeled Gucci fans turned out for a spring-summer show of the latest horse-bit trimmed shoes, skirts, pants and dresses.

Gucci shoes and purses have long been a staple in the wardrobe of a certain kind of rich woman. She's the one with the good skin, simple hairdo, real gold pin and cable-knit sweater. She's usually one step behind the most current fashions, on purpose, and she goes for quality.

In the 1960s, particularly, the Gucci shoe became such a status symbol, it was almost a joke. People referred to the "Pucci-Gucci" crowd.

The look has been imitated, endlessly, in all price ranges, from the shoe with the gold horse-bit across the instep to the red and green striped detailing on luggage and purses. The shoes are built like bullets, and it's hard to imitate such resilience to wear and tear.

"We are the most copied people in the world," said Dr. Aldo Gucci, a senior member of the Italian-based firm, adding that his customers are not always happy to see those inexpensive imitations.

In fact, down the street from the St. Regis Hotel, where the show was held on Tuesday, Gucci-looking purses were selling for $6.99. Real Gucci purses run from $60 to $220. Women's shoes go from $39 to $59.

However, Dr. Gucci says the firm's business has increased 25 times over in the last five years. At this point, Gucci has 16 stores in various countries and 42 franchises in the United States and Europe.

Although other companies are constantly changing styles in a frenetic search for something new, Gucci has continued to carry the horse-bit shoe for the last 30 years, along with other up-dated styles.

The best looks in the show were the simplest, neat pants with knit tops and leather jackets. The worst were the ones with a few too many stripes, pockets or bits of gold.

Colors were soft salmon, lapis blue and gold.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

My husband and I liked to have died laughing the other day over an article about a couple who were getting a divorce because . . . get this . . . she didn't spread mayonnaise on his sandwich all the way to the edge of the bread.

Divorce isn't funny, but as I said to him, "Isn't it incredible how little things bug a person to the point of a legal separation?"

He wiped the tears from his eyes and said, "I just can't believe that something so little could get so big." Then he added, "I mean for years I've lived with your warm pickles and it's no big deal."

"What warm pickles, dear?" I said still smiling.

"Any pickles," he said. "Any home ec dropout knows that 'pickles' are supposed to be served cold, but if you insist on serving them right out of the cupboard, it isn't that important to me."

"Then why are you mentioning it?"

"Because I'm such a sport about it and I wanted you to know."

"Well, aren't you generous," I said. "As long as you forgive me for my warm pickles, I forgive you for putting your underwear into the laundry inside-out for the last 20 years."

"Is that such a big thing for you to turn them rightside out?"

"Not unless your arm is broken, it isn't."

"Speaking of broken arms, why is it you never learned how to screw in a simple fuse in the fuse box?"

"For the same reason you never learned to hang up a simple towel on a towel rack."

"You're not perfect, you know," he said breathing harder. "You leave a trail of cold coffee mugs all over this house like Hansel and Gretel leaving crumbs. It's really gross."

"And I suppose it is more gross than feeding the dog at the table?"

"You should be so lucky. THE DOG EATS OUT!"

"I don't see you starving to death. In fact, a few more pounds and you can start singing as a group."

"That's a pretty crummy thing to say for a woman who eats Danish while I jog a mile every morning."

"Running a 23-minute mile isn't going to earn you any medals."

The paper fell to the floor and we both looked at it.

"Imagine! Someone getting a divorce for not spreading the mayonnaise right."

"Yeah," said my husband wistfully. "They should have our problems."

Craft Workshop Arranged By Home Agent

Mrs. Albert Bell of Fountain concluded the second workshop on various creative needlepoint stitches, conducted for local women, Tuesday.

President of the Fountain Extension Homemakers' Club, Mrs. Bell is an excellent teacher according to Mrs. Sue B. May, Pitt County home economics agent. "She is a real craftsman when it comes to doing needlework on canvas and is so willing to share her 'know-how' with others," said Mrs. May.

Mrs. Bell's expertise in this field has brought her invitations to train other leaders at several area crafts workshops, held special interest meetings in Beaufort, Edgecombe, Nash and Pitt Counties and to teach classes through Pitt Technical Institute.

Needlework is only one of Mrs. Bell's many interests. She has served as both Pitt County president and East Central District president for the Extension Homemakers' Organization. She is a member of the North Carolina Embroiderer's Guild and is active in various roles in her church on both local and district levels.

"Mrs. Bell is only one of many leaders who is willing to help promote a quality crafts program by sharing her time and talents with others," continued Mrs. May.

The two-day workshop on creative needlepoint is one in a series of crafts workshops being arranged by the Pitt County Home Economics Extension office. The next workshop being offered will be held on Wednesday, March 20, and will feature making nuthead clothespins dolls.

The class will be limited and participants will be pre-registered on a first-come-first-serve basis. Further information may be obtained by calling Mrs. May, 758-1196.

Save Money By Eating Ethnic

By JEANNE LESEM

stirfrying the meat as a special treat.

NEW YORK (UPI) — Supermarkets on the lower East Side of Manhattan sell pigs ears, feet and tails, meatless beef marrow bones and pork skin from which the fat has been removed almost entirely.

A restaurant on the fashionable upper East Side suggests that its patrons take home ready-cooked duck and goose gizzards—for their pets.

Somewhere between 14th and 75th Streets, people have forgotten how overcrowded countries and the poor everywhere learned long ago to use even the skin, bones and innards of meat and fowl to enrich diets that are heavily dependent on vegetable protein.

With food prices as they are and still moving out of sight, we Americans may be required increasingly to remember there are other ways to cook and eat.

It's not being suggested that everyone—or anyone—start eating pig ears, although they are a common ingredient in some really delicious West Indian stews. But ethnic and national dishes in general represent an appetizing way of stretching food budgets during this period of record high prices.

Vegetable Sauces
Macaroni products are one obvious example. Americans usually prepare them with meat or seafood sauces and, occasionally, with cheese. But in Italy they're just as likely to be served with vegetable sauces instead—zucchini, cauliflower, lentils or broccoli, for instance. One Italian Lenten sauce uses two kinds of nuts (a good alternate source of protein), some raisins and grated cheese (more good protein).

Dried beans are another good example. A French cassoulet is unsweetened baked beans to which you add as much or as little meat or fowl as your budget and conscience permit. Preserved goose is a traditional ingredient, but pieces of duck, chicken, leftover smoked or fresh ham or even pork skin and/or sausages could be used instead.

Peanuts belong in the dried bean class because they're actually legumes instead of nuts. We treat them largely as snack food but African cooks use them as a protein-extender in stews and pound them into paste for rich sauces to make meat go farther.

As for gizzards, they may be pet food here, but by Chinese standards they're delicacies to be reserved for honored guests. Of course, the cook trims away gristle before slicing and

Tourist Loses Car At Garage

MARSEILLES, France (WNS)—Tourist Therese Willems, 34, dropped her car at a local garage to be oiled and greased. Then she lost the name and address of the garage. After three weeks of searching, Mrs. Willems finally located the garage and her car. The man in charge said that she need not have hurried: because of necessary added repairs, her automobile would not be ready for the road for another week.

He Should Learn Power Of Praise

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: After living with "Mr. Your Job" for 20 years, I have had it.

I used to love to cook but it's no fun anymore, because no matter how hard I try, my husband never says it was good. If I ask him if he enjoyed the meal, he says: "Yes, but why should I say anything? That's your job."

I made draperies and curtains for the whole house, and even slip-covered the furniture myself, and he never said one word. When I asked him if he thought the house looked nice, he said: "Sure, but that's your job."

Funny how if he washes the car or mows the lawn and I don't rave about what a wonderful job he's done, he pouts for a week.

Please print this, Abby. Maybe "Mr. Your Job" will see it, and take the hint.

DEAR "MRS. YOUR JOB": Too bad "Mr. Your Job" hasn't learned the power of praise. Most people need only to know they're appreciated to keep them whistling while they work.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please settle a family disagreement? We've decided to abide by your decision.

We have two children, ages 10 and 12. I require them to write thank-you notes for all the gifts they receive for Christmas, their birthdays, or for any other occasion.

My husband says they are too young to be required to write such notes. What do you think? OHIO MOM

DEAR MOM: A big fat vote for you! As soon as children can print they should be taught to write thank-you notes for gifts. The habits they form when they are very young [and this is a good one] will carry over into their adult lives. This goes for boys as well as girls. For some strange reason boys are more inclined to neglect this important courtesy. Stick to your guns, Mom.

DEAR ABBY: I like the way you tell people who have to live with something they can't change to accept it. [In my son's case, it was being the shortest one in his class, and it really helped him.]

Along that line, I am reminded of this story: A friend of mine lost a thumb and his forefinger in an accident—a very awkward handicap for a man who is in business and has to shake hands several times a day. My friend adjusted to this defect beautifully. I once asked him how he did it. He replied, "Everybody has a defect. It just happens that mine shows." BOSTON READER

DEAR READER: Beautiful!

CONFIDENTIAL TO "BROWNIE": I think you should take all those letters and file them under "Y" for "yesterday." And if you find yourself reading them [which you admit depresses you immensely], throw out the file! He is gone, and it is over.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Divorce Can Improve Life

By EVE SHARBUTT
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Even a "civilized divorce" leaves most people with a deep sense of personal failure, according to Mel Krantzler.

A marriage and family counselor in San Francisco, Krantzler began divorce adjustment seminars at several California colleges. He was here to promote a new book that expresses his philosophy: "Creative Divorce: An Opportunity for Personal Growth."

"My first seminars treated divorced persons with crisis intervention theory," Krantzler said. "Now we look at the emotional truth of divorce and some first aid measures to start a lasting cure for problems that may come to light in the crisis. Everyone has a feeling that his divorce is unique. Usually those people are surprised to learn at the first session that other people have worse problems."

"We must encourage independent, direct action so that individuals can rethink their values and priorities, learn new ways of relating to people and get professional help if they need it."

Krantzler said that some women who attend his seminars have never driven a car on a highway at night or written a check. It is a struggle for them to attend class and in that sense, he added, it is an achievement, a step toward independence.

More women than men attend the divorce adjustment seminars by four to one. They are not all divorced, the author added. Some are married persons who are contemplating divorce and others are young people living together without marriage.

"The emotional sense of loss is exactly the same for unmarried couples living together should their arrangement break up. For still-married persons, the seminars may point out differences between their expectations for divorce and its reality."

"We have half-hour lectures, then devote the remainder of the class to sharing experiences. Young persons of 20 or so have more in common with those of 60 than there are differences when it comes to the crisis of divorce. It's a comforting element," he added.

Krantzler admitted that he would never have written a book if he had not gone through divorce himself after 24 years of marriage.

"Without that, I was unaware of all the nuances of emotion that enter into divorce. I don't want anyone to get a Dale Carnegie idea of divorce therapy. We must emphasize the complexities. Each person must put a lot of work into self-improvement. Individual responsibility for moving life in a positive direction is a must."

"Many people have a vested interest in remaining the same, repeating the same self-destructive patterns," Krantzler said. "There's comfort in the familiar even if the familiar is miserable. People say they're starting from zero after divorce, living in a new world. It isn't easy, but you can come to terms with the past and learn about resources for self-renewal."

Krantzler is proud of putting a lot of complicated psychological theory about divorce into simple language.

"I sweated blood over the chapter on children," he said. "Children must also mourn the loss of a marriage."

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Thursday, March 14, 1974—3 moved to San Francisco after college, Krantzler says the future of marriage as it exists today is very shaky indeed.

The author says today's climate is right for consideration of divorce problems. Eventually, he added, a divorce will be looked at in a nonjudgmental way.

"These trends must be reinforced if we are to live lives of more than quiet desperation that Thoreau talks about," he added.

A native New Yorker who

"But in general I think marriage will continue. There's no alternative structure in the picture yet. The fact that I myself have opted for remarriage is one indication that I find marriage itself neither good nor bad; nor is divorce. It's what we make of it that is central," he added.

Downtown Project Is Moving

Things are moving on the Central Business District redevelopment plan.

As most citizens have seen, the Reade Circle Loop street is presently under construction and a considerable number of buildings and houses have been acquired and demolished.

Now we are getting down to the design and construction stage for the Evans Street mall which will be the heart of the entire project.

Joe Laney, redevelopment director, reported that plans for the mall should be ready by late this year or early in 1975.

It is expected that the mall will be constructed in two phases. The first will be an open mall, while the second will involve enclosing the area. Laney said it is important to begin the open mall concept so that the downtown development will not be slowly. The downtown project has seemed painfully slow at times, but acquisition of property and planning has been proceeding. In the next several months we can expect to see obvious improvements coming about in downtown Greenville and it can well become an Eastern North Carolina show place.

GOP-Dominated Board Is A Rarity For County

For the first time probably in this century a Republican chairman took over the Pitt County Board of Elections this week.

James C. Lanier, Jr. became chairman after fellow Republican Thomas C. Herndon joined him through appointment by the Republican governor. Former Chairman J. B. Spilman became the lone Democrat on the board.

Interestingly in this heavily Democratic county the GOP dominated board will preside over an election in which there will be no county GOP candidates for office this year, since none filed.

But that's the way the system works.

A Formula For Failing Pupils

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Modern-day school teachers are beginning to realize that there is more to it when a student is failing than just plain laziness or stupidity.

And while learning more about the wide variety of possible learning disabilities children can harbor, educators are coming more and more to the belief that most can be recognized—and corrected—in classroom settings without the need for special schools far from home.

That is the approach which is winning applause for a budding program in Shelby city schools which resulted in a recent appearance of Shelby school people before the State Board of Education to explain that local effort.

Mrs. Juanita Burns, Shelby's director of special services, outlined the host of diagnostic, evaluative, and prescriptive approaches in use.

A Little Love

Left unsaid in the official report—but obvious to those who listen to Mrs. Burns for a few minutes—are the key ingredients in the success of the Shelby program: love, teachers who relate to the kids, patience, and dedication.

Shelby now has about six years of experience in working with learning disabilities and has gained such statewide attention that members of the State Board of Education asked for an in-depth look.

Afterwards, Mrs. Burns talked informally about how the program operates, and where it appears to be going.

The key goal she preaches is for "regular classroom teachers to learn to work with these youngsters. They need to remain in a normal classroom setting," she said, but with an hour or so each day set aside for special laboratory work.

Most teachers can learn to recognize and define the problems, and learn to work with the children with just a little help from specially trained resource people like herself, Mrs. Burns said.

The mainpoint to remember, she said, is that most of those identified as having learning disabilities are of normal or above-normal intelligence.

But, they suffer a wide range of not-clearly defined problems such as hyperactivity, mirror writing, mid-vision blockages, muscular coordination difficulties, dyslexia, etc.

Because of the diversity of possible problems, there is no one treatment method—panacea—Mrs. Burns said.

Any of those problems can create a situation in which the child may know how to read—but just can't discriminate between letters. He may know his alphabet, but the brain and the eye just can't get it together.

Flunk Reading

Many such kids, when given oral tests, soar into high intelligence ranges. But in writing and reading, they flunk.

Regular teachers need to know these conditions so they don't pin a "dumb" label on such youngsters, Mrs. Burns said.

Her program takes the kids out of class and into a laboratory setting for testing, identifying strengths and building on them, and for individually tailored repetition of corrective efforts.

Is there a stigma attached to those kids by their classmates?

"Oh, no. The other kids want to come in the learning lab. We have all that jazzy equipment and we play games, and we are dedicated to the proposition that every one will have some success every day. That, we hope, will make up for all the failures they've suffered."

"We want them to succeed so badly, we will cheat on grading a test."

In fact, there is even some jealousy from the so-called normal kids who can't get in the program.

Usually, a two-year period in special training is enough to boost reading to acceptable levels. Outstanding successes have gained as much as three grade levels in reading.

"But, I think this should be said. It can be a marvelous program and the child can work terribly hard, but he still might never be a really great reader."

"But, most importantly, the child can learn to circumvent the problem and build success on other strengths," Mrs. Burns said.

The future looks bright as more teachers learn about such successes as the one in Shelby, Mrs. Burns said. The direction is toward early detection—the earlier the better since correction is easier, then—and more cooperation between teachers who care and are equipped to help and the parents who can help work with the problems at home.

Need A Handle On Watergate

By JOHN KILGO

RALEIGH—Politicians in both major parties are trying to get some kind of a handle on how Watergate and the remnants of the scandal will affect North Carolina elections in November.

Republicans have on their "game" face and are trying to minimize Watergate as a factor. GOP Congressman Jim Martin of the 9th District told a group of young Republicans last weekend that Watergate wouldn't defeat Republicans in North Carolina. But Martin warned the group that the GOP must be united and the candidates must work hard.

"We're still the minority party in North Carolina," Martin said, "and we must stand united."

Of course, the Republicans aren't united in North Carolina. As they've gained strength here, they've increased the number and intensity of the party's infighting.

Former Republican Party Chairman Frank Rouse and many of his loyal supporters are still bitter about Rouse's defeat at the hands of Tom Bennett.

"Frank Rouse hasn't been asked to do a thing since last November," one Republican told me, "and they're crazy as hell if they think he's going to volunteer with (Gov. Jim) Holshouser's group in power."

The GOP has its own split, between those who support the moderate stance of Gov. Holshouser, and those who like the conservative position of Sen. Jesse Helms.

Even if Tar Heel

Republicans miraculously heal their wounds between now and the fall elections, they still face stiff problems.

Watergate is definitely one of them. Poll after poll indicates that President Nixon's popularity is dragging. Such studies also show that the public has little faith in politicians. This will have to be a factor in the fall campaigns.

There are other hurdles the GOP must clear in order to beat the Democrats in this state. The long gas lines aren't likely to help. Whether the Republican administration deserves the blame or not, it's going to get it. The energy crisis has caused Americans to change their style of living. Somebody is going to pay for this at the polling place.

Inflation and the high cost of food might also make it tough on North Carolina Republicans. This is only March, and goodness knows all of this could change for the better by November.

The Democrats certainly don't want to get cocky about the situation. Henry Hall Wilson, a candidate for the U.S. Senate, says Democrats are mistaken if they think they can win easily because of Watergate.

"We had better make certain that we are offering the voters positive ideas," Wilson said.

Wilson says the energy crisis and the cost of living are issues more important to the country's future than Watergate.

"Of course we'll end our boycott... we love your country... in fact we plan to buy it soon!"

Shop Talk About Libel

This is shop talk, but it is shop talk of concern beyond the editorial offices of a newspaper. I mean to voice an apprehension that freedom of the press is in considerable danger these days, and to suggest that those of us who live by the printed word had better try harder to explain our position to the people.

This is not a novel theme. When the startling case of Tornillo v. the Miami Herald began working its way through the Florida courts a couple of years ago, the signs of an approaching storm were as visible as Elijah's cloud in the distant sky. Recent events indicate that the cloud grows larger, and the storm gets nearer.

In January, Arkansas's respected Senator John McClellan directed national attention to the Florida case, which had just been accepted for Supreme Court review. He recommended that the Senate give "careful study and consideration to the possibility of enacting a national law similar to the Florida statute." That is to say, McClellan recommended a national "right to reply" law, which would compel publications to print replies from persons who felt aggrieved by published criticism of them.

On March 7, President Nixon sent a message to Congress that appeared to echo some of McClellan's thinking. The President hoisted a trial balloon on the matter of a federal libel law. Washington reporters began to speculate that Nixon also is toying with the notion of a congressional act requiring newspapers to extend a "right to reply" in the case of federal officeholders or candidates for federal office.

Some notice ought also to be directed to the Supreme Court's holding in the famous Pentagon Papers case of 1971, in which six of the justices indicated that under certain circumstances a newspaper could be prevented from publishing certain material. This ominous attitude was confirmed by implication a few months ago, when the court refused to review a Louisiana case in which two reporters were fined for publishing an account of a court proceeding in violation of a judge's decree.

What the President is urging is a reversal, or at least a major modification, of the doctrines laid down by the Supreme Court 10 years ago this month in the case of Times v. Sullivan. That was the case in which Justice Brennan, speaking for a unanimous court, defined a "national commitment to the principal that debate on public issues should be uninhibited, robust, and wide open, and that it may include vehement, caustic and sometimes unpleasantly sharp attacks on government and public officials."

The court held that a public official could not recover damages for defamatory falsehood relating to his official conduct "unless he proves that the statement (Continued On Page 5)

Public Forum

To the editor:

I would like to take this opportunity to inform the astronomy enthusiasts in the Greenville area that another comet will soon be in the Eastern North Carolina skies. According to a recent Smithsonian Astrophysical Observatory Circular, Comet Bradfield was recently discovered. As this was the second comet discovered this year, it has been given the designation 1974b.

Comet Bradfield is expected to reach a maximum brightness of +3.0 magnitude or just barely visible to the naked eye for a nebulous object. Although its perihelion date is March 19, it should be an easy object to locate shortly after sunset on that date just south of West. For the month of March it will be moving north through the constellations Cetus and Pisces and through Aries by the end of the month. The comet is currently at about +7th magnitude. Thus it will brighten rapidly to March 19, then fade quite rapidly. The orbit of the comet is a parabola so this particular comet will never again return to the sun.

After the extreme disappointment of Comet Kohoutek which was predicted to reach a -4th magnitude but was only visible to binoculars, it is hoped that some fluke will cause Comet Bradfield to brighten beyond predictions. At any rate, it should be visible through binoculars.

KEEPING TO THE RIGHT One of the most necessary things to impress upon the minds of young people learning to drive cars is to keep to the right in going up a hill, for one never knows what is just over the crest.

We never know what is over the crest in any walk of life. Thousands of people pay vast sums of charlatans every year to get just a small peep into the future, but God in his mercy hides the future from us. He warns us, however, to watch and be ready; to live every hour prepared for whatever will happen to us; to approach the crest of circumstance prepared for any emergency. We are to keep well to the right so as not to trespass on the paths of others. We are to have ourselves in control so that we may be able to pass the crest safely.

This is good advice for those who would drive their cars without accidents, and even better advice for those who would drive their lives with purpose.

Business Slowdown Is A Fact

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — Here is a concise summary of the United States economy that is being distributed this week by the Chase Manhattan Bank to its corporate customers and correspondent banks:

THE GENERAL BUSINESS SLOWDOWN IS NOW AN ESTABLISHED FACT. The odds currently favor a moderate decline in output rather than a severe drop.

Activity has tumbled in the two areas where extreme weakness was expected—autos and housing—and there are signs of hesitation in consumer spending for some other products.

But the outlook for capital spending is still good. Inventories are not yet out of hand, and monetary and fiscal policy are geared toward promoting expansion. THE SLIDE SHOULD BE LIMITED. Expansionary public policies and strong capital spending by private business should limit the current slide to 1 per cent or 2 per cent, in real terms, from the late-1973 peak.

That decline likely will be spread over a period of two or three quarters of the year. By early 1975, business would begin to recover—slowly at first, but more rapidly by the second quarter of 1975.

THE ECONOMY IS VULNERABLE. "Unquestionably, the economy is in a highly vulnerable condition. In addition to energy problems and associated uncertainties about foreign trade, certain setbacks could develop."

The Chase economists listed these possible setbacks: —Policy mistakes in Washington. If the federal Reserve's monetary policy became "dangerously restrictive," the recovery would be delayed. Such a policy is unlikely.

"Based on past performance, public policy will more likely err on the side of overstimulation rather than restraint. Under current circumstances, that would serve to perpetuate inflation and economic distortions."

—A severe letdown in consumer spending. This possibility could occur because of unemployment and inflation fears. So far, however, the public has continued to spend relatively freely for most goods and services.

But, "if consumers balk, as they did in 1969, the consequence would be a more severe recession, probably extending into 1975." By past standards, in-

Draft Costs Go On

By WALTER R. MEARS

Associated Press Writer. WASHINGTON (AP) — Selective service costs the government money even when nobody is being selected to serve. And the new, $47 million budget for the standby draft system is under attack in the Senate.

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, R-Ore., calls the draft agency "this bureaucratic dinosaur," and wants it shut down. That would cost money, too; an estimated $41.5 million in severance pay and other expenses.

In the age of the volunteer armed forces, no men have been drafted into military service in more than 14 months. None can be unless Congress changes the law, because induction authority expired last June 30.

While the draft is dormant, the agency is not. The law requires that Selective Service to continue to register young men. The law also forbids the agency from spending any of its funds to induct anybody.

In other words, the money can be used to pay the staff, register young men and keep records — as long as none of that leads to military induction.

"This is strictly money for standby," an agency spokesman said. He said the agency would need more funds if it had to go back into the business of drafting men.

In the new budget year, about 1.9 million names are expected to be added to the list of potential draftees.

The agency is scaling down its operation, consolidating some local draft board locations and trimming its payroll by more than 1,200 jobs. Its staff is expected to average 2,869 over the next year.

Selective Service has spent or requested $53.7 million in appropriations for the year that ends June 30.

Director Byron V. Pepitone says the Selective Service pool is "a vital factor in assuring a strong America and the continuation of peace."

Meanwhile, Selective Service holds its major public event of the year Wednesday: the lottery to set draft priorities. It is based on the birth dates of men born in 1955.

Four area high school students are to select capsules of dates and numbers that will set the standby draft list.

New Officers In Police Dept.

Two new officers have been added to the Uniformed Division of the Greenville Police Department according to Chief Glenn Cannon.

TED POLLARD,

Cannon said Ted Pollard, a Greenville native, and James Earl Linvill, a native of Darby, Penn. have joined the department within the past week.

Pollard, who lived in Washington, N. C. for 12 years, is a graduate of the Washington High School, served with the Washington Fire Department for one year and was a civilian radio dispatcher for the Greenville Police Department for two months prior to entering the U. S. Marine Corps.

After his discharge from the Marine Corps in November 1973 following an injury received while on duty, Pollard served as a sergeant with the Pinkerton Security Service at the Proctor-Gamble plant site here.

Pollard is married to the former Janet Boyd of Chocowinity. They are members of the Methodist Church in Washington and Pollard is a member of the North Carolina State Firemen's Association.

Linvill is a graduate of high school in Darby and is a veteran of six years with the U. S. Naval Reserve, including two years active duty at Norfolk, Va.

JAMES E. LINVILL

Linvill moved to North Carolina in 1968 and was a dental technician in Kinston for four years before moving to Greenville where he was a technician at the Greenville Dental Lab for two years before joining the Police Department.

Kilpatrick . . .

(Continued from page 4) was made with actual malice, that is, with knowledge that it was false or with reckless disregard of whether it was false or not.

The "Times Rule," as it became known, subsequently was broadened in a series of related decisions extending the rule to public figures generally. This is the rule that Nixon pronounced last week as "virtually a license to lie where a political candidate, a member of his family, or one of his supporters or friends is involved."

I have myself expressed the view that the court has overextended the Times Rule. The doctrine gives the press rather more freedom than we truly ought to have. But the thought of a "federal libel law" or a "federal right to reply law" raises towering questions of First Amendment freedoms. It is inconceivable that such enactments could survive constitutional challenge.

But is it inconceivable? We of the press are not widely loved. Politicians would like nothing better than to see public criticism suppressed. If a free press is to survive as a Jeffersonian "bulwark of liberty" strenuous efforts will have to be made to explain the enduring value of our First Amendment freedoms. What began two years ago as a cloud no larger than a man's hand is turning into a thunderhead of sudden, perilous concern.

Kilgo Col. . . .

(Continued from page 4) the Democrats must no fall into the trap of thinking they have it made because of Watergate.

"Watergate ought to help Democratic candidates," Sugg says, "but we must not think that's all we need. We must stand united as a party, and our candidates must work hard to get elected. And after the primaries, we must all work together to elect Democrats."

Ehrlichman All Alone In Calif. Case

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John D. Ehrlichman is left as the lone defendant in the California portion of the Ellsberg break-in case.

He is scheduled to stand trial next month on a charge of lying to a county grand jury.

Superior Court Judge Gordon Ringer dismissed burglary and conspiracy charges against Ehrlichman and two others Wednesday in favor of federal prosecution but granted a prosecution request to pursue the Ehrlichman perjury charge.

The charges involved a break-in at the Beverly Hills office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis Fielding. Ellsberg, a former government researcher, leaked the secret Pentagon papers study of the Vietnam war to the news media.

Ringer's ruling came after prosecutor Stephen Trott said the perjury charge "involves a separate and independent assault upon the integrity of the Los Angeles County Grand Jury..."

Little Chance Seen Of Amnesty For Deserters

By JIM ADAMS
 Associated Press Writer
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The chairman of Congress' first inquiry on the subject says he doubts amnesty for Vietnam war deserters and draft evaders will be enacted this year.

"These three days of hearings have shown grave differences over the issue," Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., said in an interview. "I just don't think we're close to resolving it, that's all."

Kastenmeier said he does not think it is likely that his House Judiciary subcommittee will put out a bill this year and said there has been no movement in the Senate on the issue.

He denied public speculation that the politically volatile issue of amnesty will be put off because of November's congressional elections, saying amnesty can win a congressman votes as well as lose them for him.

Proposals were varied during the Kastenmeier subcommittee's three days of hearings.

The sharpest contrast came at Wednesday's final hearing with Reps. Bella S. Abzug, D-N.Y., and Ronald V. Dellums, D-Calif., proposing near total amnesty and the Pentagon urging none.

Identical bills by Abzug and Dellums would grant automatic unconditional blanket amnesty to deserters, draft resisters and nonviolent war protesters and set up an amnesty board to determine other war-related violations to get amnesty.

"These young men have already paid a huge price for this exercise of conscience," Ms. Abzug said, contending they suffered exile, underground existence and in some cases jail.

"They should not be penalized further for their refusal or inability to support an illegal and unconstitutional war and what many now view as the most immoral war in our history."

But Lt. Gen. Leo E. Benade, a deputy assistant secretary of defense, said the Pentagon opposes any form of amnesty as unfair to the men who served and as a dangerous precedent.

Hearings Held By Ayden Board

AYDEN—The Ayden Board of Commissioners Monday night held two public hearings to discuss the rezoning of two portions of property.

The first public hearing held was for the amendment of the zoning ordinance to allow mobile homes by special use permit in the extra-territorial area of Ayden. The board agreed that such permits should be issued under hardship cases only.

Board members set April 9 as the date for a public hearing to hear a request from Mr. and Mrs. James Staton for the placement of a mobile home on their property.

The board heard a request from Frank Kilpatrick that a portion of property on East Avenue between Hart and Peachtree Streets be rezoned from RA-8 residential to I-2 industrial.

It was stated the property will be used for the location of a grain buying industry.

The board agreed to rezone the property so the industry could be built.

The board denied a request that property north of Power Street, along the railroad, be rezoned from RA-8 residential to I-2 industrial so that corn storage bins could be placed on the property. The board felt the property would not be adequate for the proposed business.

Mrs. Winnie Nelson, a town employee for eight years, was presented a resolution for her years of service to the town. The former town clerk and tax collector resigned in February.

The board approved additional funds to have a survey made to determine the town matching contributions in a retirement program. They also approved a maximum of $50 to be used to study the town's electrical system.

The replacement of sidewalks along the east and west sides of South Lee Street from the City Seafood Market, south to H & H Super Market, was approved.

A public hearing will be held April 9 to discuss improvements on Thrower and Fifth Streets. The cost of the project on Thrower Street will be approximately $2,917.62, while the cost of the Fifth Street project has been set at $3,427.71.

The board discussed having Harvey Bowen remove the junk vehicles he has stored on the Hettie Stokes property because that particular business does not comply with the zoning laws.

Charge Failure To File Taxes

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian-actor Richard Pryor has been indicted on charges of failing to file income tax returns for the years 1967 through 1970, the U.S. attorney's office says.

Pryor, who costarred with Diana Ross in "Lady Sings the Blues," made gross income of $250,000 during the four years, assistant U.S. Atty. Stephen V. Wilson said Wednesday.

An attorney for Pryor, 34, had no immediate comment on the action by a federal grand jury, saying he had just received word of the indictment, which was filed Friday.

No immediate date was set for arraignment.

If convicted on all counts, Pryor could receive a maximum sentence of four years in prison and a fine of $40,000.

Pryor, who also played the lead role in the movie "Hit," has performed on several television shows

PROTECTING THE YOUNG—Yards and yards of plastic protect thousands of tobacco plants growing in this tobacco plant bed on a Pitt County farm. The recent cold spell may be helping the tobacco farmer by slowing the growth of the young tobacco plants. Plant growth got off to a quick start this month with a week of warm weather, which could have put tobacco production ahead of schedule. No damage is expected from the cold spell now over the state.

according to Pitt Agricultural Extension Agent Ed Yancey. Damage could occur to uncovered plants if an extended frost condition occurred, states Yancey. However, most farmers leave the protective plastic covering, such as the one above, over their plants until all danger of frost passes. Tobacco sales grossed $40 million plus in Pitt County last year. (Reflector photo by Carl Tyer)

Legislature Advised To Amend N.C. Porno Laws

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina Supreme Court has called upon the General Assembly to amend state pornography laws to bring them in line with recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions.

The court, in an opinion written by Chief Justice William H. Bobbitt, said the state laws need to be amended to make easier the task of district attorneys in prosecuting pornography peddlers.

Bobbitt's remarks came

Wednesday in a decision upholding the convictions of two Charlotte men and one Wilmington man accused of dealing in pornography.

The court upheld convictions at Charlotte of Joe Bryant and Raymond Mitchell Floyd and at Wilmington of Jake Horn. Bryant was sentenced to 6 to 12 months and Floyd to 12 to 20 months in Mecklenburg Superior Court. Horn was given a six-month suspended sentence in New Hanover Superior Court.

Bryant and Floyd were accused of renting and selling from the Adult Book Center at Charlotte 8mm film that "did show actual acts of sexual intercourse performed by and between human males and human females."

Horn was accused of selling obscene literature at Glenn's Book Store at Wilmington.

The Mecklenburg case had been appealed once to the U.S. Supreme Court and was sent back to the state Court of Appeals for further consideration. The court of appeals upheld the constitutionality of North Carolina's antipornography statute.

However, Bobbitt said the U.S. Supreme Court had determined that many state statutes "do not define what sexual conduct may be deemed obscene and patently offensive with sufficient specificity to comply with the guidelines set forth" by the court.

For that reason, Bobbitt said the only matter prohibited as obscene under present North Carolina law "consists of the following:

—Patently offensive representations or descriptions of ultimate sexual acts, normal or perverted, actual or simulated.

—Patently offensive representations or descriptions of masturbation, excretory functions, and lewd exhibition of the genitals."

Bobbitt said the prosecution in the Charlotte case had met a more difficult test than would be required if North Carolina's law was amended to bring it in line with the latest Supreme Court decision.

ers, has handled Russian gold sales in the West for many years.

Montagu estimates that Moscow provided some 20 per cent of the supply to Western gold markets in 1973, second only to the 852 tons South Africa sold during the year.

Soviet gold sales, due to their size, played a rôle in the speculative movements in gold and currency markets, including those that preceded the devaluation of the dollar in February 1973.

Russians Sold Gold And U.S. Got Cash

By FRED COLEMAN
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — The Russians earned more than $800 million selling gold abroad in 1973 and most of the money wound up in the United States, says a leading London gold dealer.

Samuel Montagu and Co. said in their annual bullion review today that the Soviet government sold about 280 tons of gold last year, the highest volume they have marketed since 1965.

A spokesman at Montagu said most of this gold was sold during the first nine months of the year to help pay for American wheat.

He added that the Russians got an average price of $90 an ounce, making their sale of 280 tons worth $824 million.

Montagu said Moscow actually sold more gold abroad in 1965, a total of 311 tons. But then the price was only $35 an ounce, and the Russians realized $348 million for the year, less than half of what they got in last year's record take.

The figures are estimates, but Montagu is believed to know as much about Soviet gold dealings as anyone outside the Kremlin. The firm, one of London's biggest bullion deal-

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets were steady Wednesday. Supplies adequate, demand fair. Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 67.88, medium whites 64.81, small whites 49.79.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — Soybean prices were stronger and corn generally steady at leading grain markets in the state Wednesday. No. 2 yellow shelled corn brought 2.90-3.00, mostly 2.90-2.95 per bushel in the east and 3.05-3.25 in the Piedmont. No. 4 yellow soybeans were mostly 6.30-6.36 per bushel.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — North Carolina hogs were irregular today. Tops of 34.75-35.75 at Kinston, Benson and Lumberton; 34.00-34.50 Rocky Mount; 32.00-34.00 Wilson and High Falls; 32.50-33.00 Tarboro and Bethel;

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — North Carolina f.o.b. dock broilers: Market weaker, supplies fully adequate, demand fair and weights desirable. N.C. f.o.b. dock weighted average price for less than truck lot loads of sized plant grade broilers to be picked at dock next week is 36.50 cents per pound. Estimated slaughter today totaled 1,160,000 head.

North Carolina hens: Market unchanged today. Offerings of heavy types about adequate and demand good. Heavies, at farm, 17 cents per pound; f.o.b. plants 21 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market managed only a lukewarm response today to the news that the Arab oil embargo apparently would be lifted.

Advancing issues held a wide lead over declines on the New York Stock Exchange, but the Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 1.17 at 890.49 an hour and a half after the opening.

The Dow rose more than 8 points in early trading but quickly fell back.

Brokers said the news had been largely "discounted"—anticipated in previous rallies—on Wall Street. They said many traders were taking profits today after the market's sharp runup in recent weeks amid hopes for an end to the embargo.

Travel and other gasoline-related stocks remained active. Howard Johnson, the Big Board volume leader, was up 1/2 at 12 but had slipped after trading as high as 13 1/2 earlier.

Walt Disney Productions was down 1/4 at 53 1/2, and Winnebago was unchanged at 7 1/2.

Host International, however, was up 3/4 at 9 3/4, Beech Aircraft rose 1/2 to 9 1/2, and Denny's, Inc., was up 1/4 at 11 1/2.

Marley Co., a maker of water-cooling towers for utilities, rose 2 1/2 to 41 1/2 on top of a 3-point rise Wednesday. The Environmental Protection Agency proposed rules that evidently would require large spending by power companies on the towers and other environmental measures.

UV Industries, which declared a 3-for-2 stock split and raised its dividend, gained 7/8 to 41 1/4.

At the American Stock Exchange, Champion Home Builders was the volume leader, unchanged at 5 1/2. The Amex's 11 a.m. market value index was up 1.04 at 102.02.

The NYSE's index of all its listed common stocks moved up .22 to 53.59.

Cold Air To Linger On

By The Associated Press
A strong ridge of high pressure jutting southward from eastern Canada is the culprit for the frigid air now over North Carolina. The mound of cold air will slowly slip eastward over the next few days. This will bring a warming trend as winds become more southeast and southerly by Saturday.

Highs today will be from the upper 40s to the upper 50s. Care should be taken to protect tender vegetation again tonight.

The extended outlook indicates some rain over the weekend, with mild temperatures. The weather for recreational purposes looks good for the next few days. But, unfortunately, the weekend does not look too promising.

The dry air now over North Carolina should make for mostly sunny skies today and partly cloudy skies Friday.

A small-craft advisory remains in effect for the coastal waters, but has been discontinued on the sounds.

Obituaries

Dixon

Funeral services for the Rev. Hubert Dixon will be conducted Saturday at 4:30 p.m. at St. Paul's Free Will Baptist Church by Bishop W. L. Phillips. Burial will be in the Church Cemetery.

The Greenville Singles Club will hold a St. Patrick's Day dance at the Cherry Court Apartments Party Room Saturday at 8 p.m.

There will be no charge for members and $1.50 charge for others attending. Anyone who is single and over 21 is welcome, according to President Ed Sturgeon.

Tape Record Asheville Meeting Of His Death Honored York Rite Greenville Bodies

SEATTLE (AP) — The jury in a first-degree murder trial has heard what the prosecution says was the victim's own tape recording of his death.

"God, Dave Smith, don't. No, no, don't. Please don't," said the voice identified by the prosecution on Wednesday as that of Nicholas Kyreacos.

Two sounds similar to gunshots followed immediately and then the tape became muffled. Dave Smith is charged with the Nov. 20 slaying of Kyreacos, a waiter, in a downtown alley. Smith was fired from his police detective job following the incident.

The tape was found in a tape recorder concealed in Kyreacos' clothes.

Defense lawyers for Smith had asked that the jury not be allowed to hear the recording because it was made without the knowledge of both parties, contrary to state law.

Saying that it was probably the first time a victim has tape recorded his own death, King County Superior Court Judge David Hunter ruled the legislature did not intend the tape law "to cover a situation such as we have here."

The York Rite Bodies of Greenville were honored during a recent meeting of the Grand York Rite in Asheville.

The York Rite Bodies of Greenville are composed of Greenville Chapter No. 50 R. A. M.; Hiram Council No. 18 R & S. M. and Bethlehem Commandery No. 29 K. T., Lyman E. Owens, High Priest; Donald C. McLane, King; and E. Bruce Sloop Sr., Scribe of Greenville Chapter 50; Linda F. Stokes is Ill. Master; Lyman E. Owens, Deputy Master of Hiram Council No. 18; Amos C. Leggett is Em. Commander; Lyman Owens, Generalissimo and Donald McLane, Capt. General of Bethlehem Commandery No.

29; Lyman Owens, Master of William Pitt Lodge No. 734 A.F. and A.M.

At the election of the Grand Lodge Officers, Amos Leggett was elected Grand Warden of the Grand Commandery; Lyman Owens, District Master of the First Cryptic District; Amos Leggett, District Capitular lecturer for the first capitular district; Edward D. Austin, reappointed District Cryptic lecturer for the first district; W. Hoke Smith, reappointed chairman of the Capitular Board of Lectureship.

Rampants Capture Win Over Pack Regional Battles Begin Tonight

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
The heavyweights come out fighting tonight in Round Two of the NCAA basketball playoffs.

Sixteen of the nation's best college teams, including that old smoothie UCLA, will battle toe-to-toe in arenas across the country.

UCLA, nine-time winner of the national championship, is favored to score a knockout over Dayton's muscled independents in one of the Far West regional games.

In the other one at Tucson, Ariz., it's Western Athletic Conference winner New Mexico State vs. San Francisco, king of the West Coast Athletic Conference.

Kansas, the Big Eight champion, meets independent toughie Creighton, while Missouri Valley Conference champ Louisville takes on Oral Roberts, another nonleague team with punch, in the Midwest in Tulsa, Okla.

In the Midwest at Tuscaloosa, Ala., independent Notre Dame faces Michigan, the Big Ten winner, and independent Marquette challenges Vanderbilt, winner of the Southeastern Conference.

The East regionals at Raleigh, N. C., matches independent Pitt against Southern Conference champion Furman and independent Providence with North Carolina State, the Atlantic Coast Conference champion.

While many of the other teams played first-round games last Saturday, UCLA and North Carolina State were busy settling their own conference races. The Pac-8 and ACC traditionally draw first-round byes in the playoffs.

Michigan and Indiana tied for the Big Ten title at the end of the regular season Saturday and the Wolverines won an NCAA berth by beating the Hoosiers in a playoff game Monday night.

Dayton will be an interesting test for UCLA, a team that obviously is not the superteam of past years. The third-ranked Bruins have been beaten three times this season, the first time that's happened in eight years.

The Flyers beat second-ranked Notre Dame by 15 points earlier this season. The Fighting Irish stopped UCLA's fabulous 88-game winning streak last January.

"We will have the same respect for Dayton that we had for Southern Cal," said UCLA Coach John Wooden, referring to the Bruins' 82-52 conference-clincher over the Trojans. Dayton Coach Don Donoher goes into this sudden-death game with plans for the powerful Bruins.

"We'd like to have a say in the tempo of the game," said Donoher. "We don't want to go in with one extreme, like to hold the ball, but by the same token, we don't want to go like it's the 100 meters in the Olympics, either."

The second game of the Far West regional features a battle of teams with muscle and inside power.

"We hope we don't have to stand toe-to-toe with them," said New Mexico Coach Norm Ellenberger. "If it turns into a boxing match, we'll have to do some work on the weights right away."

San Francisco's Bob Gailard: "We feel we play aggressive defense. But we're not as aggressive as New Mexico."

Kansas, whose Big Eight Conference also drew a first-round bye, takes on a tough Creighton bunch that beat highly-regarded Marquette, among others, during the regular season. Oral Roberts, a high-powered scoring machine, will be playing on its home court against Louisville. Notre Dame is favored against Michigan, but Fighting Irish Coach Dick Phelps isn't impressed by the favorite's role.

"Just forget rankings and records," said Phelps. "Any of the 16 teams in the regionals can win it all. They all belong there."

Vanderbilt's Roy Skinner fears Marquette's killer instinct. "They are very smart, patient and disciplined," he says. "If they get you down, they'll run you into the ground."

Goodrich Stars In Laker Win

By FRED ROTHENBERG
AP Sports Writer

Little Gail Goodrich sat slumped in the Los Angeles locker room after carrying the weight of the Laker offense for the second night in a row.

At 6-foot-1 and 175 pounds, Goodrich has not only been the highest scoring Laker, he's also the most durable.

"Gail Goodrich is just a great offensive player," said Los Angeles Coach Bill Sharman after the Lakers beat the Philadelphia 76ers 121-100 in the National Basketball Association Wednesday night. "And he's the only starter who has been in every game this year."

Goodrich scored 34 points Tuesday night to rally the Lakers to a victory over the Knicks, then popped in 38 points 24 hours later to guide Los Angeles to its 11th victory in its last 13 games.

Elsewhere in the NBA, the Boston Celtics downed the Phoenix Suns 104-97 and the Houston Rockets dumped the Capital Bullets 117-93.

The way things are going the Lakers may be forced to go with a one-guard offense and Goodrich's the one.

All-Pro guard Jerry West, out with an abdominal injury, has missed 44 games this season and won't be ready until the playoffs. Tuesday night in New York, substitute guard Pat Riley bruised his right sacroiliac and didn't play against the 76ers. And Wednesday night, West's replacement in the starting lineup, Jim Price, left the game in the third period with a sprained ankle.

That left only Goodrich and rookie guard Nathaniel Hawthorne to fill Sharman's backcourt.

Goodrich wasn't hitting his shot in the first half, but Price was, tossing in 18 of his 20 points in the first two quarters.

But the lithe lefty from UCLA was tough in the third quarter when he scored 18 points.

The victory, the Lakers' 13th straight over Philadelphia, nosed Los Angeles one-half game ahead of Golden State in their Pacific Division battle for what appears to be the one available playoff spot. The two California teams meet in a home-and-home series Friday and Saturday.

Celtics 104, Suns 97
Boston pulled away in the third quarter behind John Havlicek's shooting as the Celtic sharpshooter hit for 10 of his game-high 22 points.

Rockets 117, Bullets 93
Dave Wohl, who finished with 18 points, paced a third-quarter rally and helped hold Phil Chenier to two points in the second half, enabling Houston to beat Capital.

ABA scores: Indiana 100, Kentucky 96; San Antonio 111, Denver 108, overtime; New York 97, Utah 76, San Diego 119, Virginia 103.

WASHINGTON—Rose High School rallied from behind then held off a Washington rally to take a 7-4 victory over the Pam Pack yesterday.

It was the second straight win over the Pam Pack for the Rampants, who were boosting their season record to 2-0. Washington has yet to win in three starts.

The Rampants banged out eight hits, including two for extra bases against the Pack. Al Heath and Gil Whitford each picked up a couple of hits for the Rampants. Whitford had one of the extra base hits, a double, while Heath had the other, a triple.

Wesley Deal, making his first start of the year, went six innings, scattering four hits to the Washington team, while allowing two runs. He walked four and struck out five. Kelly Heath, working in relief in the seventh, got into a little trouble, allowing two runs that sparked the Washington rally, but he fanned the last man with the bases loaded.

Washington jumped into the lead in the first inning, pushing over a run with two extra base hits.

Yogi Berra went hitless in his first seven at bats in his first two World Series games in 1947. Then in game three he hit a home run as a pinch hitter.

Stan Lilley greeted Deal with a double off the left field fence, but the next two men went down in order. Sammy Bullock, however, rapped the ball into right, getting another double, and easily scoring Lilley with the first run.

Rose got a threat going in the second, but couldn't score. Jerry Griffin walked with one away, and Dickie Johnson came on as a courtesy runner, stealing both second and third. Gil Whitford walked with two down but a strikeout ended the threat.

In the third, however, the Rampants came up with four runs to take the lead for good. With one away, Al Heath ripped a triple off the fence in left, making the extra base when the left fielder was slow chasing down the ball. Griff Garner walked, but was cut down at second on a freak fielder's choice. Kelly Heath lined to the shortstop, but he dropped the ball. That got Garner easily caught off second as he had rightly anticipated the catch.

Heath reached, however, preventing the double play. Robert Brinkley followed with a single through the middle, scoring both of the Heaths for a 2-1 Rose lead. Griffin again walked, with Johnson running for him John Causey was hit by a pitch, loading them up, and Whitford singled to left, scoring both Brinkley and Johnson.

Washington got off a minor threat in the third as Lilley walked and moved up on an out, only to die at second. In the fourth, Washington got its second run. Robin Woolard led off with a walk and moved up on an out. Steve Benton singled to center, scoring the run.

Rose threatened in the fifth as Garner walked and Kelly Heath singled to open the inning, but the next three went down in order without damage.

Washington also got off a threat as Ricky Payne reached on a fielder's choice, then stole second, but waited out the frame there.

In the sixth, Rose struck for what proved to be the winning runs. Whitford opened with a double down the left field line. Mike Wallace walked and Deal reached on a bunt single, loading the bases. Johnson came on to run for him. Al Heath singled to deep short, scoring Whitford. Then, with one down, Kelly Heath's grounder got through at third on an error, letting Rasberry score. Johnson, moving into third, was interfered with, and awarded home on the play, giving Rose its seventh run.

Washington got a rally going in the seventh, but it fell short. Chick Gurganus led off with a walk and with one down, Lilley also drew one. Tommy Drake was hit by a pitch, and Payne's single brought in both Gurganus and Lilley. Heath struck out the next two however, to end the game.

Rose will return home for their next game, set for 4 p.m. in Guy Smith Stadium on Friday. The Rampants will be entertaining Kingston's Vikings.

Commissioners Tourney Gets Underway Tonight

By PAUL LEBAR
AP Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Both cheered and chastised, the first Collegiate Commissioners Association basketball tourney gets under way tonight at the cavernous, 19,000-seat Arena with two games.

Whereas the coach of 10th-ranked Indiana called the post-season test "a waste of time," the director of Southern Cal's 15th-ranked forces is an unabashed fan.

"The tournament is for runners-up," Indiana's 34-year-old Bobby Knight said after his Hoosiers fell to 12th-ranked Michigan in the Big Ten conference playoffs this week.

"We're not runners-up," the fiery Knight insisted. "We're co-champions of the Big Ten and deserving of something better."

Knight's tirade against his squad's appearance in the eight-team CCA could generate interest, however, within a field liberally sprinkled with strong quintets.

USC's Bob Boyd, whose Trojans were crushed last week by UCLA, labels the test "the start of a new season."

"We look forward to the tournament," says Boyd, whose team, 22-4, will take on Southern Methodist, 15-11, a title darkhorse, in the second game of tonight's first round.

In the opening contest, fast-moving Arizona State, 18-8, is rated "as good as we have been all year" by Coach Ned Wulk ahead of its game with underdog Toledo, 18-8.

"The difference in playing in the NCAA and playing in St. Louis is just a bounce of the ball," maintains Coach Joe Stowell, whose Bradley Braves, 19-7, will face Kansas State, 19-7, Friday night.

And the other Friday night game, of course, pits Indiana, 20-5, against Tennessee, which feels superior to its 17-8 record in the Southeast Conference.

Kenon Leads Nets To Win

By The Associated Press

Larry Kenon, blue-chip rookie forward of the New York Nets, is a rebounding freak.

"I really enjoy rebounding, man. I dig it," smiled Kenon shortly after the Nets blew the Utah Stars off the court 97-76 Wednesday night in the American Basketball Association.

Kenon came from all over against the Stars, especially during the second quarter when he collected most of his game-high 15 rebounds and scored eight points. New York, trailing by two after the first period, outpointed Utah 29-15 in the second quarter and coasted home.

The victory, coupled with the Kentucky's 100-96 loss to the Indiana Pacers, put the Nets one game in front of the second place Colonels in the ABA East.

Elsewhere in the ABA, the San Antonio Spurs nipped the Denver Rockets 111-108 in overtime and the San Diego Conquistadors beat the Virginia Squires 119-103.

Asgrow RX Hybrid Corn Lines Give You A Healthy Advantage

It's only logical. The more a hybrid can resist stress and disease, the more you can count on it to give you a healthy advantage—in the field and over the scale. And you can count on single cross RX60, RX115, and special RX99A to do just that.

Here's why: It is prescription-bred to resist rust, lodging, Fusarium ear rots, stalk rots, root worms, and corn borer infestation. . . to resist Northern, Yellow, and Race "T" Southern leaf blights. And you can be sure that these lines have the genetic vigor to withstand these stress conditions and still yield with the best. They quickly develop into extremely uniform plants—healthy plants with massive root systems and sturdy stalks that insure excellent standability. What's more, large, girthy ears are placed at the ideal height for combining or picking.

They look great and yield even better. And this has been proved, on hundreds of farms right in this area. Talk with the farmers who grow these hybrids. Ask them about the ability of the RX Line to give you a healthy advantage. Then—talk with your Asgrow dealer. Ask him to reserve you a supply of Asgrow corn.

Farmville Central Rolls By Saratoga

By CHIP LAMBETH
Reflector Sports Writer

Saratoga Central. Ed Wells went all the way for FC to win his first start. He struck out nine batters, walked three and gave up nine hits. Monte DeRatt got the loss giving up eight hits, walking eight and striking out only four Farmville Central batters.

Despite the cold, there was a lot of scoring by both teams. Saratoga Central went on the boards first with a run in the opening inning but FC came back in their half for the first to move ahead by 4-1.

The Cougars tied it in the second but that was as close as they got. Farmville regained the lead in the third with a score and scored three times in the fourth to get the decisive runs.

With one out in the first, Tod Rogers reached on an error for the Cougars. Phil Carter singled him to second and a second error filled the bases putting the Jags in trouble early. De Ratt grounded out but a run scored as Rogers came in.

Farmville Central did not stay down long. After a strike out, Wells walked as did Tommy Cobb. Wells stole third and Cobb went to second on the play. Barry Johnson slapped an opposite field single to score both runners and the spree was kept going on Bobby Wooten's walk.

Johnson and Wooten stole up and scored on a double by Tony Oakley.

Wells cooled off during the inning and Saratoga Central got to him for three hits and a pair of walks in the second to tie it, 4-4.

Mike Batts walked but was caught at second when Johnny Streeter hit into a fielder's choice. Jeff Bryant singled to move Streeter to third and Bryant moved to third on the throw in. Both scored on a hit by Rodgers. Carter walked and a single by John McKeel drive in Rogers to tie it.

The only other SC run came in the sixth when McKeel doubled and scored on a hit by Mike Batts.

Farmville Central slipped back into the lead in the fourth as Cobb walked and scored on Johnson's double.

Eddie Horn and Marty Hobgood drew walks in the fourth for the Jags and Jeff Cobb doubled to drive in Horne. Wells reached on an error scoring Hobgood.

That was all the Jaguars needed but they added three more to make sure. Johnson was hit by a pitch opening the fifth and moved to third on Wooten's hit. Johnson scored on the double steal. Oakley walked and both runners stole up. Gary Cowans got a bunt single and Wooten scored when the Cougar catcher missed DeRatt's throw to the plate.

In the sixth, Jeff Cobb singled moved to third on a passed ball and scored the final FC run on a wild pitch.

Bryant led Saratoga Central with three hits, McKeel had two, Cobb, and Johnson had two each for the Jaguars. The Jags also stole eight bases.

Walton, Thompson Pace 1974 AP All-American Basketball Team

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Bill Walton and David Thompson, the premier players on two of America's premier teams, were named today to the Associated Press All-America basketball team for 1974.

Walton, UCLA's golden center, and the graceful Thompson from North Carolina State scored big in the voting by sports writers and broadcasters from around the country.

Joining Walton and Thompson on the AP's glamour team are UCLA's Keith Wilkes, John Shumate of Notre Dame and Providence's Marvin Barnes.

Walton, the most publicized collegian since the days of Lew Alcindor, made the star-studded team for the third straight year. Thompson, often termed the best forward in the country and a sure-fire professional star, was voted on the first team for the second straight season, his junior year.

Wilkes, one of the smartest and smoothest forwards in the country, was on the AP's Second Team last season. Barnes, the nation's leading rebounder with almost 19 a game this year, was an Honorable Mention last year. This is a first time for Shumate, the big wheel in Notre Dame's high-powered offense.

Walton and Thompson, darlings of the professional scouts, were also darlings of the voters. With Walton polling the most votes, the two front-court players scored by a wide margin over Shumate, the third best vote-getter. Wilkes out-scored Barnes by an eyelash.

Walton, sometimes as mystifying as he is celebrated, was a tower of strength for the powerful Bruins this year. Despite a gimpy knee, UCLA's most famous cripple helped the Bruins run their spectacular winning streak to 88 games halfway through the season. Even when losing to Notre Dame in the streakbreaker, he played with injury — and played well.

Thompson, the only non-senior on the first team, was played to a standstill by Wilkes earlier in the season when UCLA beat North Carolina State in their "game of the year." But the flashy forward came back from that performance with All-America class.

The high-leaping Thompson, easily the best player in the Atlantic Coast Conference, brought the Pack back from that disastrous showing against UCLA to the top of the college basketball world.

Wilkes, termed "Silk" for his poetic grace, breathed fresh life into UCLA after the Bruins' inexplicable, two-game losing streak at Oregon and Oregon State. Shumate, a muscular center with a great outside shot, led Notre Dame's resurgence this season. And Barnes, a workhorse under the basket, was the primary reason for Providence's berth in the NCAA playoffs.

The AP's Second Team consists of Maryland's John Lucas; Larry Fogle of Canisius; North Carolina's Bobby Jones; Len Elmore of Maryland, and Billy Knight of Pitt.

The third team: Dennis DuVal of Syracuse; Tom McMillen of Maryland; Hawaii's Tom Henderson; North Carolina State's Tom Burleson and Campy Russell of Michigan.

NEW YORK (AP) — The 1974 major college All-America team as selected by The Associated Press on the basis of sports writers and broadcasters throughout the country:

First Team
Bill Walton, senior, UCLA; Keith Wilkes, senior, UCLA; David Thompson, junior, North Carolina State; John Shumate, senior, Notre Dame; Marvin Barnes, senior, Providence.

West Georgia Upsets Gardner-Webb Cagers

By ROBERT MOORE
AP Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The St. Mary's Rattlers of Texas and the West Georgia Braves are the mighty mites of the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics basketball tournament.

The Rattlers, seeded No. 16, rose up Wednesday night and bombed No. 1 Fairmont, W. Va., State 71-55, and No. 14 West Georgia gave No. 3 Gardner-Webb of North Carolina a 116-101 spanking in second-round upsets.

These developments established No. 2 Kentucky State, a 75-57 victor over Hastings of Nebraska, the odds-on favorite to win this 37th annual tourney as it moves into quarter-finals tonight.

If Kentucky State falters, No. 4 Alcorn A&M is waiting in the wings after its 80-72 conquest of Missouri Western. So is No. 5 Hanover of Pennsylvania, an 85-76 winner over Northwestern Louisiana.

St. Mary's and West Georgia weren't the only eyebrow lifters. Unseeded Indiana of Pennsylvania sneaked into the quarter-finals by edging No. 6 Grand Canyon of Arizona 66-65.

No. 7 Midwestern of Texas advanced by clipping St. Thomas of Minnesota 92-78, and No. 8

Augustana of Illinois shaded Washburn of Kansas 57-55.

Alcorn and Hanover get tonight's play under way. St. Mary's runs into Augustana in the second contest followed by West Georgia's scrap with Indiana. Kentucky State plays the late, late game against Midwestern.

Coach Joe Retton of Fairmont watched his team fall behind by 42-32 at the half but pull to within six points with 13 minutes, 44 seconds left and then fade away.

"That was the turning point," Retton sighed. "When we were behind only six points, we took the ball down the court twice and didn't get a shot."

Gary Tomaszewski, with 18 points, and Dave Bulik, with 16, did most to damage Fairmont.

Tom Turner's crack shooting, good for 36 points, played a major role in Gardner-Webb's downfall. John Drew connected for 39 and Jim Blanks for 28 for the losing Bulldogs.

Kentucky State's Gerald Cunningham and Harvey Carmichael were too much for out-classed Hastings. Cunningham, hitting shots of all sorts, dumped in seven straight Thorobred points to run up a 50-39 lead and finished with 25. It was the Thorobreds' 23rd consecutive victory.

After St. Thomas closed to within four points of Midwestern at 68-62 with 9:09 to go, John Atchan hit on a threepoint play, Robert Burg followed with a field goal and Isaac Devore added two more, all in succession, for the Indians. Devore collected 36 points.

Morgan State Captures Win

EVANSVILLE, Ind. (AP) — Morgan State, second-ranked in the small college poll, plays No. 15 New Orleans and No. 14 Southwest Missouri battles unranked Assumption tonight in the semifinals of the NCAA College Division basketball tournament.

Morgan topped Bloomsburg State 71-57 Wednesday while New Orleans defeated California-Riverside 83-78. Southwest shaded St. Joseph's of Indiana 80-78 and Assumption beat Norfolk State 89-79. The quarter-final losers were eliminated.

Leading scorer of the day was Wilbur Holland of New Orleans with 38 points. Sub Warren Booker, a freshman, contributed 12 crucial points, four of them in the final two minutes.

New Orleans, 21-7, hit 50 per cent of its floor shots to 47 per cent for Riverside, 21-8.

Guard Randy Magers connected with three free throws in the last 26 seconds to provide the victory for Southwest Missouri. He finished with 26 points, while St. Joseph's Jim Thordsen scored 28.

The Bears, 20-8, trailed the first 16 minutes of the game but went ahead just before the half, 35-33. The Pumas finish the season with a 20-10 record.

The tourney's tallest player, 7-foot Marvin Webster of Morgan State, pumped in 18 points.

Conventional Armed Forces See Importance Grow

By FRED S. HOFFMAN
AP Military Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has about four million men under arms, twice as many as the United States. The Pentagon seeks to offset those numbers with technical superiority.

Russian armed manpower and weapons have been increasing steadily, while U.S. conventional military strength now has leveled off after five years of severe cutbacks.

With each nation capable of inflicting colossal nuclear damage on the other, U.S. planners believe conventional forces are even more important to deter lesser war and to repel limited threats.

Strategic arms limitation talks are aimed at restricting nuclear offensive weapons, but there are no moves to put a lid on conventional ground, sea and air forces of the world's two biggest military powers—although NATO and Warsaw Pact diplomats are trying to negotiate a mutual thinning-out in Central Europe.

On the ground, the Soviets hold a huge edge in armor and gunpower, with four times as many tanks and three times as many artillery pieces.

At sea, the Russian navy outnumbered the U.S. Navy in malor warships and submarines. But the U.S. Navy will start recovering from a steep decline later this year when its modernization program begins paying off in new destroyers and other surface vessels.

In the air, there is a virtual standoff in numbers between the Soviet air force and the combined fighter and bomber fleets of the U.S. Air Force, Navy and Marines. Each side has about 4,800 planes in these categories.

The Pentagon's approach is to try to offset or overcome Soviet superiority in quantity by exploiting U.S. technology in weapons, aircraft and other equipment.

But the Russians have been driving to overcome U.S. leads in technology. In some cases, Soviet hardware surpasses its American counterparts.

The quality score is far from clear-cut.

For example, the United States is still rated well ahead of the Soviet Union in anti-submarine warfare and superiority in tactical air support of ground troops. On the other hand, the Russian navy has formidable ship-to-ship missiles, while the U.S. Navy is straining to catch up. Soviet artillery outranges U.S. field guns.

The Mideast war last October pointed up the excellence of Soviet-made antitank and newer antiaircraft missiles such as the SA6—and, conversely, the effectiveness of advanced U.S.-made weapons like the TV-guided Maverick tank-killing missile.

The Russians apparently give their ground, sea and air forces at least as high a priority as do their Pentagon opposites. By all available intelligence indicators, the Soviets have been lavishing resources on their conventional forces.

"We have seen a growth in real sophistication in Soviet weaponry and equipment in recent years," said Gen. Creighton Abrams, Army chief of staff. "...They spend very heavily to gain even a small advantage, to incorporate nice-to-have features which we forego because of cost."

Despite Abrams' complaints about cost constraints, the Army is pushing dozens of development projects, including a new main battle tank, two new howitzers, four new helicopters and improved antiaircraft missiles.

The Army's research chief, Lt. Gen. John R. Deane Jr., said: "Our answer to their use of quantity must be quality."

But the Soviets are sustaining both quantity and quality, especially in Eastern Europe.

Even while tying down half a million troops in the Far East opposite China, Russia has kept some 450,000 men and more than 8,000 tanks in East Germany, Poland and Czechoslovakia.

These Soviet forces are the backbone of the 925,000 men and 15,500 tanks deployed by Warsaw Pact nations in position to strike into NATO's central region.

In the past few years, U.S. intelligence has reported that the Russians have been putting more of these troops on wheels, with some 4,000 additional armored personnel carriers sent to the Warsaw Pact area.

The Russians are also stressing self-propelled field artillery to keep pace with faster moving ground troops. A new Soviet armed assault helicopter appeared in East Germany last fall.

Holding the pivotal position on NATO's central front are 190,000 U.S. ground troops and about 2,000 tanks in West Germany. Counting the Americans, NATO countries and France have some 890,000 troops and 6,000 tanks available to defend their region.

Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger, while acknowledging Warsaw Pact numerical superiority in tanks, claims that NATO has important advantages in tank destroyers, antitank weapons and logistics support.

However, geography is on the side of Russia when it comes to the all-important ability to reinforce battlefields in Eastern Europe quickly.

Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, says the Soviet Union "appears to be making a determined effort to erase the long-held advantage in the ground attack role held by U.S. tactical air forces."

The Russians are producing a series of new-generation fighters and fighter bombers, which are expected to replace at least half of today's models over the coming five years.

Moorer said Soviet tactical air forces "hold major quantitative and some qualitative advantages in the air superiority role."

However, he predicted that U.S. tactical air will emerge ahead during the 1980s. Moorer pinned his prediction chiefly on continued acquisition of the Air Force's F15 fighter, due to become operational in 1976, and the Navy's F14 fighter, which is already entering the force.

The Mideast war provided a test for both U.S. and Soviet airlifts. Both did well, according to American experts. But the American task was tougher because it covered over 6,000 miles, while the Russian flights were much shorter.

The experience, particularly the denial of base stopover privileges by some U.S. allies, has convinced Schlesinger that U.S. long-range airlift capacity must be expanded. He has proposed stretching C141 transport planes and modifying commercial jumbo jets to carry military cargo in emergencies.

Apart from Russia's surge in nuclear striking power, the growth of the Soviet navy within the past decade has evoked the deepest concern at the Pentagon.

Some Western naval authorities have declared the U.S. Navy already is in second place. Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr. told Congress that "the balance has shifted during the past five years, and right now we are at a very critical point."

Others, however, are less gloomy.

While indicating concern, Adm. Moorer said in early March that "the U.S. still has the edge in the global reach of our fleets, through our carrier and amphibious task forces."

But Moorer cautioned that the Soviet Union is building "a modern and increasingly powerful naval force ..."

Schlesinger said: "I do not subscribe to the alarmist statements alleging the current superiority of the Soviet fleet."

The U.S. Navy is bottoming out after five years of retiring older ships in large numbers. This year the Navy will have only 174 major combatant surface ships, compared to the Soviet Union's 221.

For the next several years, new U.S. ships will be coming out of the yards faster than old ships are retired. The surface combat fleet should climb back to about 230 ships.

The Navy is embarking on production of entirely new classes of austere patrol frigates, minicarriers, hydrofoils and other craft, hopefully at lower prices.

In submarines, the Russians outnumber the United States by about 315 to 115. But many of the Soviet undersea craft are older diesel-powered models.

The first of a group of advanced U.S. nuclear attack subs soon will become operational. Navy experts claim they are superior to the best Soviet sub because of better quietness and sonar.

The Soviets also are modernizing their underwater force and will maintain a 2 to 1 edge in numbers by the early 1980s, according to U.S. calculations.

Will Rule On TV Request

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (AP) — A judge says he will rule Monday on a request to let two prisoners charged with murder go on national television with suggestions they claim could help free kidnaped Patricia Hearst.

Contra Costa County Superior Court Judge Sam Hall took under submission Wednesday a request by attorneys for Russell Little, 24, and Joseph Remiro, 27, for a televised statement of five to 10 minutes.

Little and Remiro are purported members of the Symbionese Liberation Army, which claims responsibility for the Feb. 4 kidnaping of the 20-year-old coed. They are charged with the cyanide-bullet assassination last year of Oakland Schools Supt. Marcus Foster and the attempted murder of a policeman.

The SLA has continually linked Miss Hearst's fate to that of Little and Remiro. In its latest communique last Saturday, the SLA threatened to break off all communications unless the two men appeared on television.

William Gagen, an attorney for Remiro, said the statement, if permitted by Judge Hall, would be made before a single cameraman and one reporter in an Oakland courtroom.

Hall indicated his reluctance to act on the unprecedented request and emphasized that his duty was to handle the attempted murder case involving a Concord policeman "and nothing else."

"But I do see television and I do read the papers, and I realize that outside pressures do exist," he said. "I can't allow these outside pressures to get into this case and affect my decision."

Outside court, the attorneys said if Hall approves the request they will have to get a court order from Oakland Municipal Judge Stafford Buckley who has jurisdiction in the Foster slaying case. They previously indicated Buckley was sympathetic to their request.

Even if the judges were to grant the request, spokesmen in New York for the major networks would not guarantee that they would provide live coverage.

Newspaper magnate Randolph A. Hearst, the girl's father, says he will have no further statement until the news conference question is resolved.

Leftover Funds To Go For Legal Fees, Costs

By H.L. SCHWARTZ III
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Trustees of President Nixon's leftover campaign funds have decided to pay legal fees and expenses for former officials acquitted of criminal charges and possibly for those found guilty of misdemeanors.

One of the largest beneficiaries of the decision could be one of the trustees — former Secretary of Commerce Maurice H. Stans, who is on trial in New York on federal charges of criminal conspiracy, perjury and obstruction of justice.

Stans, who reportedly has spent more than $100,000 out of his own pocket for legal fees, participated in the trustees' decision, according to one of the other trustees.

Although the decision expands a previous policy of the Nixon campaign organization, both of Stans' co-trustees said in interviews they were unaware it was a change.

Stans was finance director of the Nixon campaign. He is on trial along with former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell in a case arising from a secret $200,000 campaign contribution.

Mitchell, political chief of the Nixon campaign for several months in 1972, also could be a major beneficiary of the trustees' decision if he is acquitted in the New York trial and of criminal charges filed in the Watergate cover-up two weeks ago in Washington.

Stans is one of three trustees of $3.57 million in funds left over from the $60-million Nixon campaign.

The others are Nashville insurance executive Guilford Dudley Jr. and Washington businessman Charles Potter.

Dudley and Potter, both prominent long-time Republicans, had no official connection with the Nixon campaign. Both indicated that they signed on as trustees reluctantly.

In a telephone interview Wednesday night, Dudley said Stans was present at a meeting in Potter's office in Washington last month when the trustees went over the trust agreement and signed it.

Exxon Pays Ransom Of $14 Million In Kidnap

By JOSEPHINE DE LORENZO
Associated Press Writer
BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Exxon's Argentine subsidiary says it expects Marxist guerrillas to release American refinery manager Victor Samuelson today following payment of a world record ransom of $14.2 million.

Esso Argentina announced Wednesday that the money had been delivered to the People's Revolutionary Army, the ERP. It said the final ransom demand would be fulfilled today with publication in Argentine newspapers of an advertisement stating that the ransom was "part of the super-earnings obtained in Argentina through exploitation of its workers."

Samuelson, 36, of Cleveland, Ohio, was kidnaped on Dec. 6. It was expected that he would be flown north soon after his release to join his wife and three children in the United States.

One other foreigner — the French manager of the Peugeot automobile company's subsidiary — is still in the hands of Argentine kidnapers. In mid-January, the McKee-Tecsa firm of Independence, Ohio, paid $1.5 million ransom for American construction engineer Charles Robert Hayes.

An ERP commando squad seized Samuelson as he was lurching in the company restaurant at the refinery he managed in Campana, 60 miles north of Buenos Aires.

Esso said the guerrillas originally demanded $10 million in cash and $4.2 million to be spent on food, clothing and health centers for Argentine flood victims. The company said it could not arrange for

Senate Bolsters Death Penalty

By JOHN CHADWICK
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed a bill designed to overcome the 1972 Supreme Court decision against the death penalty.

The bill, passed Wednesday by a 54-33 vote, would restore under certain circumstances the death penalty for treason, espionage or murder. No early action on the bill is expected in the House, partly because its Judiciary Committee is occupied with an inquiry into the possible impeachment of President Nixon. The vote, after two days of Senate debate, revealed sharply conflicting views over the value of the death penalty as a deterrent to crime. Some opponents also questioned the constitutionality of the bill and others denounced it as morally repugnant. Among those who voted against it were Sens. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., and Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., both of whom have had immediate members of their family murdered. Submitted to Congress by Nixon a year ago, the bill is designed to overcome the Supreme Court ruling that the death penalty, as applied under existing laws, was unconstitutional. A score of states have since passed measures to restore the death penalty, many of them similar to the bill approved by the Senate. Shortly before passage, the Senate tabled by a 68-21 vote an amendment by Kennedy to require the registration of all handguns and the licensing of their owners. Also tabled 58 to 31, was another Kennedy amendment to ban the production and sale of "Saturday Night Specials" and other snub-nosed handguns. Sen. John L. McClellan, D-Ark., floor manager of the bill, said the injection of controversial gun-control measures was a tactic aimed at killing the legislation. The bill would restore the death penalty for espionage, treason and certain other federal crimes, like kidnaping and airplane hijacking, resulting in death. A death sentence would be mandatory if a jury or a judge, in a separate proceeding after a trial, found one or more aggravating factors and no mitigating factors. But if any of the mitigating factors listed in the bill, like being under 18 years of age, were found, a death sentence would be barred. Other mitigating factors include a defendant's having significantly impaired mental capacity, acting under unusual or substantial duress, being a relatively minor participant in the crime and not having been reasonably able to foresee that his conduct would cause a risk of death to another.

Demonstrators Demand No Capital Punishment

RALEIGH (AP)—Protesting the "barbarity" of legal execution, about 400 demonstrators have marched on the North Carolina legislature to demand abolition of capital punishment. The protesters, mostly youthful blacks, presented their demands to legislative leaders in the plaza in front of the legislative building after a march through downtown Raleigh Wednesday.

N.C. Peach Crop 'Safe'

CANDOR, N.C. (AP)—The North Carolina peach crop most likely came through the overnight -30-degree weather without appreciable damage, experts said today.

It got down to 30 degrees in the Sandhills growing area for about two hours. But at this stage of bloom the peaches can take between three and five hours of that temperature without damage, the experts said. The assessment came from Clarence Black, director of the Sandhills Experiment Station at Candor, and Watts Auman, of the Clyde Auman farm at West End.

A total of 31 people have been condemned in the state in the past year, about half the national total. All are currently appealing their sentences. House Speaker James E. Ramsey, D-Person, greeted the demonstrators coolly. "I accept your petition. It will be filed in the House Journal for posterity. Thank you," was all he said. Jeers and catcalls marked the end of his remarks.

They said that a definitive assessment of damage would be available this afternoon, after the sun has been up for a while and the buds can be opened to see whether the freezing and thawing has damaged the little peach inside. But on the basis of early assessment, damage was minimal, if any, they said. Chesley Greene, a grower at Lillesville, was in general agreement, although he said there might be some damage in low places.

ment for several months. The House has voted to restrict it to first degree murder, and the Senate wants to apply it to first degree murder and first degree rape. No compromise has been reached. Under current state law and court rulings, a person convicted of first degree murder, first degree burglary, first degree arson, or rape must be executed.

Chanting and clapping, they came in single file up Halifax Street. Many carried grey wooden crosses or placards. One there, they heard Dr. Charles Cobb, executive director of the United Church of Christ's Commission for Racial Justice, say that North Carolina was a microcosm of national oppression.

Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt was not on hand to accept the petitions to the Senate and sent Sen. Kenneth Royall, D-Durham, in his place. The legislature has been deadlocked on capital punishment for several months.

Court Upheld 3 Death Sentences

RALEIGH (AP) — The death sentences of three more North Carolina convicts have been upheld by the state Supreme Court. The court Wednesday affirmed the convictions and death sentences of Albert (Bo) Crowder of Wake County for murder, David Earl Dillard of Robeson County for murder, and Alton James Henderson of Alamance County for rape and burglary. Henderson is the first of 10 whites on Death Row to have his sentence upheld. Thirty-one persons currently are on North Carolina's Death Row, more than in any other state. Last month, the court upheld the death sentences of Henry Jarrette and Tommy Noell. The decision to uphold the death sentence was 4-3 in each of the five cases, with Chief Justice William H. Bobbitt and Associate Justices Susie Sharp and Carlisle W. Higgins voting against capital punishment. Under current state law, and last year's U.S. Supreme Court decision, juries no longer have the power to recommend mercy in capital cases. As a result, the death penalty is now mandatory in the state for first degree murder, first degree burglary, first degree arson and rape.

Attorneys for all 31 convicts on death row have said they would appeal their cases to the U.S. Supreme Court if necessary.

Identify Body In Wooded Area

SHELBY, N. C. (AP)—The body of a man found in a wooded area near Shelby has been identified as that of Rudolph Lemmons, 25, according to the Cleveland County Sheriff's Department.

A spokesman said the body was found in a patch of woods off Highway 150 between Shelby and Boiling Springs. The Shelby man's body was taken to Cleveland Memorial Hospital.

The sheriff's office said an investigation is continuing to determine the cause of death.

The Worry Clinic Ego-Inflating Is The Secret

A plain Jane can win a man away from even a Beauty Queen if she focusses on HIS chest and thus needs his tattoo that says: "I WANT TO FEEL IMPORTANT." Fatten his ego but slenderize your own waistline!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph. D., M.D.

CASE Z-575: Zelda K., aged 18, is a disconsolate coed. "Dr. Crane," she said. "I am very unhappy, even to the point that I have debated dropping out of the university."

"For I feel that I shall never be able to win a boy's love and get married."

"And it is all because my breasts are so flat!"

"Why, I have no more of a bust line than a 12-year-old girl!"

"So how can I hope to be popular with boys and win a husband?"

"For don't men focus on a girl's 'measurements' when they seek a wife?"

Man's Real Focus
Actually, the usual male's main focus is his own chest, whereon at birth is tattooed this invisible but vital slogan:

"I WANT TO FEEL IM-PORTANT."

If he sees a girl with the much publicized popular "measurements," he may ask her for a date, to inspire envy of his own male comrades and thus make him feel important.

But Zelda and other coeds who don't have 100 per cent perfect "measurements" can still win a boy friend, even away from Beauty Queens.

How?
By feeding his ego honest verbal compliments that make him feel more important than does the coed with the classy chassis and slick paint job.

Girls, a man starts out in life in a perpetual quest for ego inflation.

The main focus of his attention is himself!

And smart girls, even though they are fat, or with small busts, hairy legs, freckles or other supposed handicaps, still can win devoted husbands and have very happy marriages.

Meanwhile, many Beauty Queens get divorced repeatedly and can't hold their men.

So take advantage of whatever natural physical charms you possess, but then place the major emphasis on psychology! Join the "Compliment Club" and thus learn to be liberal users of the "5 Laws for Complimenting."

Also streamline your figure, if you now bulge around the equator with too much ugly blubber.

Meanwhile, memorize the "Formula for Interesting Conversation."

And avoid the hazards of "B. O.," halitosis, dandruff and decayed teeth.

Don't spend so much time on fancy shampoos and hand lotions, for it isn't your skin or hair that ultimately wins a husband but the skillful way your tongue can keep his ego inflated with honest compliments!

Smile, too, for a gay grin is a very potent non-verbal compliment, or it intimates this inflating thought:

"Your presence is very pleasing to me, so I hope we can become closer friends!"

Cosmetics and clothes (or even lack thereof) are not what win husbands!

Men are obviously attracted by such eye-catchers. But eye-catchers aren't necessarily man-catchers!

Visit the Marriage License window at your county courthouse and you will soon realize that most of the girls who are there with their admiring prospective husbands, aren't beauty queens at all!

A lot of them hardly rate average!

Yet their fiances think they are wonderful. Why?

Send for my "Compliment Club" booklet, enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

REVEREND TURNS
MARTYR FOR MONEY
CLAPHAM, England (AP) — Rev. Peter Winstone has made a fakir-style bed of six-inch nails which he plans to lie on for six hours. He's going to charge his visitors watching the "lie-in" and said it would spare his parishioners the tedious events normally held to raise church funds.

FCC Acting On Ownership Rules

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — According to a study cited by the American Newspaper Publishers Association, 476 broadcast stations—97 of them TV—are in common ownership with newspapers in whose markets they operate.

The study was made three years ago and hasn't been updated, according to an ANPA spokeswoman.
But the Federal Communications Commission, which five years ago first proposed rules on how many stations any firm can own in a single market, will take another whack at it in mid-June. And what they do could markedly affect newspaper-broadcast combinations.

The FCC's June hearings on broadcast ownership were scheduled after the Justice Department's antitrust division petitioned the agency in a case involving newspaper-broadcast ties for the fourth time this year.

The four petitions all ask that license renewals be denied in St. Louis, Des Moines and Minneapolis for radio-TV stations in which four newspaper publishing firms have a financial interest.

Justice officials say the petitions aim at preventing excessive economic concentration in local advertising revenues and at promoting greater diversity of local news outlets in individual markets.

The actions sent shock waves through the broadcast industry, but did they prompt the FCC's new round of ownership hearings?

"I don't know that you could say it's like night follows day," said the FCC's general counsel, John W. Pettit, in an interview before he left the FCC this week to go into private practice.

"I think it certainly causes us to focus on the problem again," he said. "Frankly, there's sort of a feeling around here...that we ought to fish or cut bait on this."

Justice officials emphatically deny suggestions the sudden burst of petitions-to-deney—three in January, one this month—were politically motivated.

A spokesman said the department simply grew impatient waiting for the FCC to act on proposed local broadcast ownership rules and "we finally felt impelled to go ahead and challenge the licenses on a case-by-case basis."

He didn't rule out the possibility more petitions would be filed in coming weeks and months.

FORECAST FOR FRIDAY, MARCH 15, 1974

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Don't take chances with your reputation, or seek favors, or make credit expansion in a.m. By afternoon, you can get much of value done and can extend activities in new, more interesting directions.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) If you compliment those whose experience is quite different from yours, you learn much. Use intuition more.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Handle important matters with wisdom, particularly governmental ones. Be tactful handling a personal friend. Show others how much you like them.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Reach better understanding with associates for greater mutual profits. Handle that civic matter quickly and well, or you get into trouble.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Carry through with promises made. Buy the new garments that will suit you admirably. Stay within budget, though.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Try to please romantic tie more, and add to personal happiness. Take no chances with one who is a hypocrite.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Make home more charming, restful. Avoid clutter. Be sure your choice of colors is right. Don't be garrulous tonight.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Be direct in stating your true position to regular contacts for right results now. Reach better understanding. Find more modern methods.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Being most direct after lunch with connections who have anything to do with your property and possessions gets you fine results now.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Morning is best time to analyze what is going on and then to take the right steps toward gaining goals. Plan pleasures.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Tap your subconscious and find the ideal answers to personal problems. Come to a better understanding with romantic tie.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't waste any time improving relations with others and get better results in the future. Repay social debts; show appreciation of past favors.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Plan early how to handle that career matter and a most unusual solution is reached. Make your life more interesting with mate.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she can easily handle emergencies from earliest days, and this is fine since the whole life can be made safe and secure. Teach early to have more patience since your child could miss out on the big success possible by being too impulsive. Do nothing that could make your youngster feel inadequate. Give the encouragement needed here. Religious training early, also.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

P. Hal Sims, a bridge immortal, claimed that he never misguessed the location of a queen. As a joke, some friends once stacked a deck against him which contained two queens of spades, and the fate of the hand depended on successfully finessing for the lady. After playing a few tricks, Sims glared suspiciously at his opponents and barked: "I think both of you guys have the queen!"

No competent player should misguess the queen of clubs on today's hand. South became declarer at a contract of seven no trump by a simple process of arithmetic—North added his 22 points to South's announced 16 minimum and leaped all the way to the grand slam. A grand slam that depends on a finesse is hardly ideal, but no bidding system could determine that the jacks of hearts and diamonds were

Wall St. 'Leans' To The Big Investors

CLASSIFIED

EDITOR'S NOTE — The small investor is disappearing from Wall Street, driven off by falling prices and a feeling he's not wanted. Does Wall Street really care? The brokers say they do. But the rules they work by seem to favor the big institutional investors now dominating the stock market.

largest brokerage house, specialized in these little investors. Its closing late last month, after a loss of $10 million in six months, "is going to cast a pall over public confidence," says Stan West, director of research for the New York Stock Exchange.

The question is: Does Wall Street really care whether the small investor stays or goes? The big institutional investors are replacing him. These are the banks, the pension funds, the insurance companies and the mutual funds. They trade in blocks of 10,000 to 100,000 shares, owning $250 billion of the Big Board's stocks. That's roughly one-third of the NYSE's total issues.

The institutional investors account for 70 per cent of the Big Board's trading volume; small investors, only 30 per cent. A decade ago, the percentages were reversed. It was the little investor who did 70 per cent of the trading.

Even on the American Stock Exchange, his traditional stronghold, the little investor has been losing ground. He traded 85.3 per cent of all stocks in 1966, but this dropped to 70 per cent last year. The institutions doubled their volume, going from 14.7 to 30 per cent in those years.

The brokerage fee system, modified in 1972, has helped drive off little investors. The percentage the small trader pays in broker fees can be twice that of the investor who buys or sells in blocks of 5,000 shares or more. For trades above $300,000, the fee is negotiated for the portion over $300,000.

A change is due in 18 months under Securities and Exchange Commission regulations. At that time, brokers must begin to negotiate commissions on all stock transactions. The ruling is designed to help the little man.

Neither the institutions nor the small investors seem to have won on Wall Street in 1973. The value of stocks on the Big Board fell by $150 billion to $721 billion at year's end. The average price of a share was $29.10 on Dec. 31, down from $36.30 a year earlier.

By DEBORAH M. RANKIN
AP Business Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The small investor, already a shadow of his former self, may become an even fainter presence on Wall Street with the closing of one of the huge brokerage firms that served him.

Gone is the bull market of the 1960s, which convinced so many families to invest their savings in stocks. DuPont Wallston, Inc., the nation's second largest brokerage house, specialized in these little investors. Its closing late last month, after a loss of $10 million in six months, "is going to cast a pall over public confidence," says Stan West, director of research for the New York Stock Exchange.

The question is: Does Wall Street really care whether the small investor stays or goes? The big institutional investors are replacing him. These are the banks, the pension funds, the insurance companies and the mutual funds. They trade in blocks of 10,000 to 100,000 shares, owning $250 billion of the Big Board's stocks. For trades above $300,000, the fee is negotiated for the portion over $300,000.

A recent NYSE survey concluded that the small investor — the man who owns under $5,000 in stocks and trades what the market calls odd-lots of less than 100 shares — feels like "the forgotten man" on Wall Street.

That and the drop in stock prices are pushing many small investors off the stock market. During a one-year period, the number of Big Board shareholders declined 800,000 to 31.7 million, according to the latest NYSE statistics, issued in October.

Half-Acre Garden's Produce Could Help

In a year, North Carolinians eat about $100 worth of fruits and vegetables per person or $400 a year for a family of four. According to Henry Riddick, associate agricultural extension agent, some or all of this can be produced at home. A half-acre garden, properly managed, could supply these needs.

"The out-of-pocket cost for such a garden, including seed and fertilizer, would not exceed $50. Thus, the value of such a garden would be about $350 or about $1 per day," Riddick stated.

"Many of us don't have the land or the desire to produce a half-acre garden. So the opportunity to save money would be reduced as the size of the garden is reduced," Riddick explained.

Riddick explained that even a small garden can result in savings. For example, one good tomato plant can produce $4 to $5 worth of tomatoes. Eight to ten tomato plants can provide an adequate supply for a family of four and the result in a $40 to $50 savings in the food budget.

Riddick stated that information about gardening may be obtained from the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service. The "Gardening Manual," a guide for the gardener is available at the extension office at 203 W. Third St.

Hold Annual Cub Banquet

Cub Scouts, parents and guests of Pack 24 held its first annual Blue and Gold Banquet recently in the Mount Pleasant Community Building.

Leading the Pack was Cubmaster Roy Moore, along with den mothers Mrs. Faye Stocks and Mrs. Teresa Simpkins.

The theme for the banquet was "America."

The welcome was given by Wade McKeel and the invocation by David Wayne Coburn.

Following the dinner, the presentation of the flag colors was given by Mrs. Simpkins, Wade McKeel, Keith Stocks, Maurice Harrell and David Coburn, bear award; Keith Stocks, Wade McKeel, Steve Scott, Ken Little and Maurice Harrell, gold arrow points; Keith Stocks, Wade McKeel, Steve Scott, Ken Little and Maurice Harrell, silver arrow points.

The Pinewood Derby competition will be held March 30th in the community building.

For Warts, You 'Hex Them Off'

NEW YORK (UPI) — A dermatologist says in removing warts affecting children, "the remarkable thing is... you can actually hex them off."

Dr. Walter B. Shelley, chairman of dermatology at the University of Pennsylvania Medical School, reported in "Family Health," a magazine, that he has "a dermatologist friend whose biggest therapeutic aid in the case of warts is a very ordinary shiny bracelet. She tells a youngster to wear it until the wart is gone. Believe it or not, it works. The wart disappears in a few weeks."

Weekly Food Cost For Average Family High

By GEORGE GALLUP

(Copyright 1974, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Republication in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.)

PRINCETON, N. J.—The typical American family spends $42 per week for food, including milk. This is a record high, up $5 from last year's figure and nearly four times the sum recorded in the first survey on food costs in 1942. The amount specified in that survey was only $11.

The median amount being spent for food is highest ($49) in the East. The figure recorded for each of the other three major regions is $40.

The amount spent differs sharply by income groups. Among those whose yearly household income is $15,000 and over, the figure is $52—$10 higher than the national finding. The amount declines by income level down to $29, the amount spent by families whose annual household income is under $5,000 per year.

This question was asked: "On the average, about how much does your family spend on food, including milk, each week?"

Following are the medians for the national non-farm population by region, showing the change since 1971, the last time results by region were reported:

	Amount Spent On Food Per Week (Non-farm families)
	1971	1974
NATIONAL	$34	$42
East	$39	$49
Midwest	$31	$40
South	$33	$40
West	$34	$40

Following are the latest results by income groups:

Annual Family Income	Median
$15,000 and over	$52
$10,000-$14,999	$46
$5,000-$9,999	$34
Under $5,000	$29

Gallup surveys during a quarter century show that food costs have increased in the U. S. to a lesser extent than have non-food costs.

In 1947, food costs represented about one-half of the total minimum amount that the public said was needed to make ends meet. More recent surveys have shown that food costs represent a smaller proportion—between one-third and one-fourth in the latest survey on the subject.

As reported Sunday, the public's current estimate of the minimum amount a family of four needs per week to make ends meet is $152. This is five times the figure recorded in 1937, which was $30 per week.

As the survey data for food and for all family expenditures indicate, inflation is a built-in phenomenon of the American economy and has been little affected by the events of the last few decades.

Although replaced by the energy crisis in the latest Gallup audit of the public's top concerns, inflation was the top problem named in virtually every measurement in 1973.

The survey results reported today are based on interviews with a total of 1,444 non-farm respondents interviewed in person in more than 300 localities across the nation during the periods Feb. 8-11 and Feb. 15-18. Farm families were excluded from the survey since many farmers raise their own food.

Two Injured In Accidents Here

Two persons were reported injured in collisions here yesterday that resulted in an estimated $1,150 property damage.

Police said 10-year-old Larry Warren Smith of 407A Eastbrook Apts. was hurt when he darted into the path of oncoming traffic on U. S. 264 about 500 feet West of the Granville Drive intersection about 5:05 p.m. and was struck by a car.

Driver of the vehicle involved in the mishap was listed as Carrie Ann Huskey, 21 of Chapel Hill.

No damage resulted to the Huskey car and no charges were made.

Doris Wilkinson Briley of Farmville was charged with failing to yield the right of way at a stop sign following investigation of a 2:45 p.m. mishap at the intersection of Third and Reade Streets.

Officers reported the Briley car collided with a car driven by George Alan Brooks of 229 Churchill Dr., causing an estimated $600 damage to the Brooks car and about $200 damage to the Briley auto.

One passenger in the Brooks car was reported injured.

The drivers of both cars involved in a 10:10 p.m. collision on Eastern Street 200 feet South of the Second Street intersection were charged with law violations, officers reported.

Police said a car driven by Myrtle Ashley Overton of 200 North Eastern St. collided with a parked car owned by Charles Edward Williams of 3123 Bismark St. causing an estimated $50 damage to the Williams car and $300 damage to the Overton car.

Williams was charged with improper parking while Mrs. Overton was charged with failing to reduce her speed enough to avoid accident.

Join Forces To Promote Class In Gardening

The Greenville Recreation Department and the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service are joining forces to promote GIFE (Gardening if For Everyone). Gardening classes are scheduled for Thursday, March 21 and 28, at the Elm Street Park. Each class will begin at 7 p.m. and should end by 8:30.

Agricultural Extension agents will discuss garden soils, seed selection, varieties, fertilizer, and insect and disease control. How to have a garden without much space will be featured. Each session will allow plenty of time for questions and answers. Any person in Pitt County is eligible to attend.

Registration will be open through Wednesday, March 20. Interested persons may call the Greenville Recreation Department, 752-2355, or the Agricultural Extension Service, 758-1196.

Nab Juveniles For Auto Theft

Three 14-year-old juveniles were arrested by Greenville police yesterday on auto larceny charges.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the three were taken into custody about 8 p.m. in the parking lot at Pitt Memorial Hospital.
