

Impeachment Probe Sees New Delays Due Appeal

WASHINGTON (AP) — It could take weeks for the House Judiciary Committee to learn if it will receive the secret grand jury report on President Nixon's role in Watergate.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ruled Monday that the report should go to the committee for its impeachment inquiry, but at least one Watergate defense lawyer said he expects to appeal the ruling.

Sirica delayed implementation of his ruling for two days to permit filing of appeals.

That gives attorneys until late Wednesday to file their appeals and also to ask either Sirica or the U.S. Court of Appeals to extend the delay in transmission of the report to the Judiciary Committee.

John J. Wilson, attorney for former presidential aides H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, said Monday "it is our present intention to pursue appellate review."

William G. Hundley, attorney for former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell, said he hadn't decided yet whether to appeal the order.

"If we go up, it'll be on the very narrow ground that if there is something in the presentment that reflects on Mitchell we would want that expunged," Hundley said.

At a hearing before Sirica

March 6, Wilson had argued that the grand jury lacked the authority to issue such a report and that if it were sent to Congress its contents probably would leak out and possibly prejudice his clients' rights to a fair trial.

However, Sirica noted that "the person on whom the report focuses, the President of the United States, has not objected to its release to the committee."

And, he concluded "delivery to the committee is eminently proper, and indeed, obligatory."

Sirica said the report "draws no accusatory conclusions.... The report is a simple and straightforward compilation of information gathered by the grand jury, and no more."

Vice President Gerald R. Ford told reporters Monday night that he agreed with Sirica's decision. Ford, at a Republican fundraising dinner in College Park, Md., said "What he has done is what I personally felt should have been done."

The grand jury gave the report and a satchel filled with evidence to Sirica March 1, along with an indictment that charged seven former administration and campaign aides with conspiring to block the investigation of the Watergate break-in.

Indicted were Haldeman, Ehrlichman, Mitchell, Charles W. Colson, former White House special counsel; Gordon C.

Strachan, former aide to Haldeman; former assistant Atty. Gen. Robert C. Mardian and Kenneth W. Parkinson, a former attorney for President Nixon's re-election finance committee. All have pleaded innocent.

Arab Oil Readied For U.S. Tankers

VIENNA, Austria (AP) — Most of the Arab oil producers prepared today to load tankers for the United States following their decision to lift their five-month oil embargo.

Saudi Arabia, Algeria, Abu Dhabi, Bahrain, Egypt, Kuwait and Qatar agreed Monday to lift the ban on shipments to the United States that they imposed during the October Arab-Israeli war.

Their action was taken in recognition of Washington's efforts in getting Israel to withdraw from the Suez Canal and in hopes Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger would secure a similar Israeli withdrawal on the Syrian front.

Despite strong pressures to join in the majority decision and present a united Arab front, Libya and Syria refused to endorse resumption of exports to the U.S.

Libya shipped about 10 percent of the 1.9 million barrels of Arab crude oil the United States imported daily before the embargo, and presumably it will still not resume these shipments. Syria's only oil weapon is the pipeline from Saudi Arabia to the Mediterranean, which crosses its territory, and it was expected to continue barring U.S.-bound tankers from loading at the pipeline's Syrian terminal.

Saudi Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani said tanker shipments from the Persian Gulf should begin reaching U.S. ports in about two months. But he said Algerian oil, shipped from the Mediterranean, will arrive much sooner.

Yamani said Saudi Arabia would ship at least a million barrels a day to the United States, and Kuwait, Algeria and other countries would send additional amounts. But no total figure was available.

The end of the embargo virtually ruled out gasoline rationing in the United States this summer, but oil supplies were expected to stay tight enough to require continued conservation measures. U.S. oil companies warned customers to expect continued shortages and high prices even after Arab oil begins reaching America again.

The oil ministers said in their communique that the ban would be lifted for at least two months and they would review their action at another conference June 1 in Cairo. Yamani stressed that only an unforeseen change in Washington's Middle East policy would cause them to put the embargo back on.

While rewarding the United States, the Arab minister retained their embargo on shipments to the Netherlands and Denmark. They said the two countries remain hostile to the Arab cause.

Oil shipments to West Germany and Italy, however, were returned to full prewar volume. Exports to the two countries had been cut by 15 per cent because of their alleged pro-Israeli sympathies.

Production cuts for Japan, Britain, France and other West European countries had already been restored.

Lifting Price Controls 'One Way Only'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Shoppers can expect to find higher prices for many canned fruits and vegetables in the wake of the government's decision to free them from price controls.

But to keep prices from rising sharply all at once, the Cost of Living Council said it has commitments from 10 major canning firms not to increase prices for the time being. The 10 firms represent about 30 per cent of total production of canned fruits and vegetables.

The Cost of Living Council said it is removing controls because of a shortage in canned vegetables and the need to increase planting of crops to increase production for the 1974-75 season.

The exemption from controls applies both to prices charged and wages paid by processors of canned fruits and vegetables. Affected by the decision are 1,223 firms with 96,000 employees and 1973 sales totaling $4.4 billion.

About 4 per cent of the consumer food dollar is spent on canned fruits and vegetables, the council said.

The decision to remove controls from most canned goods was the first decontrol action by the council in the food industry, one of the largest of the industries remaining under controls.

The council has been undecided whether to lift controls from the food industry all at once, or on a piecemeal basis prior to scheduled expiration of most of the administration's wage and price control program April 30.

Council Deputy Director James W. McLane cautioned Monday in announcing the decontrol action that lifting of controls from canned goods does not mean the council has adopted the piecemeal approach.

He said a major factor was the willingness of the 10 major canning firms to keep their prices at March 1-authorized levels until the new canning crop is in, a period of several months in many cases.

'One Way Only'

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. James L. Buckley, Con.-R-N.Y., today called on President Nixon to resign because of Watergate.

"I hope and pray he will realize that the greatest and culminating action he can now take for his country is the renunciation of the world's highest office," the Conservative senator told a news conference.

Edward R. Brooke, R-Mass., is the only Republican U.S. senator previously to have called for Nixon's resignation in the aftermath of the Watergate scandals.

Buckley said Watergate has now reached such a stage that Americans must come to terms with it "if Watergate is not to end up drowning all of us."

"There is one way and one way only by which the crisis can be resolved, and the country pulled out of the Watergate slump," Buckley said.

Drivers Charged

Another 26 motorists driving Greenville streets fell victim to their own inaction in failing to display 1974 city and state vehicle registration plates on their vehicles before the midnight Friday deadline during the 24-hour period ending at 8 a.m. today.

Chief Glenn Cannon said local police charged 20 drivers with failing to display new state tags. Between midnight Friday and 8 a.m. Monday, local police charged 23 drivers with failing to display 1974 state tags and another 27 with failing to display current city license plates.

Motorists this year were given an extra 30 days beyond the usual midnight February 15 deadline, in which to purchase their vehicle licenses due to a nationwide truckers strike.

Preparation Of Overall School Policy Is Seeing First Tangible Stages

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Formulation of an overall school policy, a process long considered by the Greenville City School Board, moved into the first tangible stages at the March meeting of the board Monday night at Agnes Fullilove Kindergarten School.

Presented by Supt. Glenn Cox, the five Chapter study of policy information outlines was prepared by Jay Kirkland, Administrative assistant to the superintendent.

These draft chapters constitute fully detailed source material from which policy statements and regulations will be established to be presented for board decision at a later date.

This first comprehensive study, as Cox noted, brings to light an occasional discrepancy. Perhaps the most notable is that relative to terms of office for school board members. Under state law, maximum single terms are four years. For years, however, the practice in Greenville has been for the City Council to appoint members for five-year terms. (This is one of the matters to be discussed Thursday night in an informational meeting of the board with the City Council.)

A brief summation of the study as divided into five chapters in its preliminary form shows:

—Chapter A, "School District Organization." In information on the legal status of the school board, the school district organization plan, attendance areas, school year and school day.

—Chapter B, "School Board Operations." Internal organization, meetings, policy development, conflict of interest.

—Chapter C, "General School Administration." Functions and responsibilities of the school superintendent, Central Office administrative personnel, intern program, consultants, policy implementation.

—Chapter D, "Fiscal Management." The budgeting system, annual operating budget, state and federal aid eligibility determination, revenues, depository of funds, accounting system, expenditure of funds, student activities fund management, school properties disposal procedures.

—Chapter E, "Business Management." Buildings and grounds management, equipment and supplies management, student transportation management, food services management, insurance management.

In all the broad areas, policies do already exist and in most instances are on record in various minutes of past school board meetings.

The action now underway, however, will serve to gather together all the various policy rulings and determinations into one central publication that can be more readily referred to and updated as time and events call for changes.

Board members expressed appreciation to Cox, to Kirkland and to all who have worked on this massive (56 single space pages) preliminary document.

In other agenda items before the board prior to the evaluation period for policy manual, board members:

—Asked Cox to reply to a letter from trustees of York Memorial A.M.E. Zion Church, who have expressed an interest in purchasing a portion of the C. M. Eppes property. The board has previously scheduled a workshop to consider all unused school property holdings, and will give York Memorial trustees an answer following that meeting.

—Approved the Greenville Recreation Department's request for a tennis court at the park adjacent to Eastern Elementary to extend about 20 feet onto school property. Location in this manner will preclude the city's otherwise having to fill in an area before construction of the courts.

—Approved the school calendar for 1974-75 school year, with a pupil opening date of Tuesday, August 27 and a final pupil attendance day slated for Friday, June 6, 1975.

—Set the April meeting for Wednesday, April 17 in lieu of the regular date of Monday, April 15, as that date is Easter Monday.

City Readies Phase Two Of Street Work

Phase Two of the city's three-year major street resurfacing program is scheduled to get underway tomorrow, according to City Manager Bill Carstarphen.

He reported that the second phase will include the resurfacing of some 9.28 miles of city streets at a cost of $88,850. Contract for the work, which will continue in this phase through May, was awarded to Barris Construction Co. by the City Council.

Carstarphen said that the current work will affect approximately 40 different sections of different streets throughout the city. The first phase completed last year involved 5.05 miles of resurfacing.

The city manager said that the cooperation of residents in the areas affected is requested in terms of moving their cars and finding alternative parking sites during the upcoming project. He said that the Public Works Department will place signs on the streets to be resurfaced one day in advance of the work.

One of the unfortunate aspects of the project, he explained, is the necessity of putting down a layer of tar or tack coat before the asphalt can be poured. Carstarphen said that residents should avoid driving on the streets when the tack coat is down, if possible, noting that the substance will spatter on cars. Both the tack coat layer and asphalt will be put down in one day when possible, he said.

The three-phase program of resurfacing is funded by $245,000 in shared revenue funds and some 28 miles of city streets will be improved during the three-year project. The Council approved the project in 1973.

Streets or portions of streets scheduled for work include: Summit from First northerly 850 feet; Rotary from Third to First; Harding from Johnson to First; Library from Johnson to Willow; E. Decides Against Political Entry

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — "I decided I did not want to get into the muck of politics," said 85-year-old Dorothy McCall in announcing she would not run for governor of Oregon to succeed her son.

Mrs. McCall withdrew Monday a month after she said she'd run, focusing her campaign on problems of the elderly. Her son, Gov. Tom McCall, cannot seek a third consecutive term under Oregon law.

The governor said the day after his mother announced her candidacy that there would be no stopping her. "Since girlhood, she has done her own thing," he said.

Holshouser For 7.5 Per Cent Pay Boost

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Gov. Jim Holshouser has urged the North Carolina General Assembly to give teachers and state employees a 7.5 per cent pay raise in fiscal year 1974-75.

The money would come from an additional $70 million which Holshouser said Monday will be available for the 1974-75 state budget.

Holshouser said it now appears that the state will collect $70 million more in the coming fiscal year than had been predicted in January, when he gave his budget address to the legislators.

The administration had based its earlier predictions on "conservative" revenue estimates.

It turns out now that those estimates apparently were too conservative.

Holshouser had originally recommended a 5 per cent pay raise for the teachers and state employees, but they could be given a 7.5 per cent pay hike by spending another $30 million.

The extra $30 million need for the bigger pay raise would come out of the additional $70 million, Holshouser said.

The governor, in a memo to the legislators, also recommended that another $20 million of the money be placed in a fund for use in the event of a possible deficit in highway funds.

Holshouser also proposed that $6 million be used to "counter the rising costs in general fund construction from last spring."

He said the remaining $14 million from the $70 million extra will be left to the discretion of the legislature to appropriate.

At a news conference Monday, Holshouser released a copy of the state revenue report for February which he said reflected "a very definite impact on gasoline revenues from the energy crisis."

Holshouser said indications are the highway fund estimates for next fiscal year will be down about $9 million.

General fund tax collections during February totaled $143.6 million, an increase of $8 million from February, 1973. Collections for this fiscal year so far total $893.9 million, up $103 million or 13.11 per cent.

Gasoline tax receipts last month, which reflected sales in January, amounted to $17.7 million, a decline of $2.3 million. Holshouser said the drop will be even worse in the February sales which will be reflected in the March report.

Promise To Astronaut Son Is Ruining Father

By PIET BENNETT
Associated Press Writer

WYOMING, Mich. (AP) — A promise to his son, one of three astronauts killed in a 1967 training mission, has brought Don Chaffee to the verge of financial ruin.

"Being the father of a national hero is not financially rewarding. Of course, I never thought it would be," Chaffee, 63, said. "But I've practically gone to the end of my line."

Roger Chaffee, 31; Virgil Grissom, and Edward White II were killed Jan. 27, 1967, when fire raced through their Apollo capsule during a simulated flight test on the ground. Ever since, the elder Chaffee has been on the stump promoting the nation's space program.

Chaffee says meeting the pledge to his son has placed him $75,000 in debt.

In 1966, as the Chaffees walked together along the shore at Cocoa Beach, Fla., the astronaut told his father,

"If I 'buy the farm' (die), I don't want you to be bitter. Do what you can to help the space program," Chaffee recalled in a recent interview.

"I'll promise you that," I said. But I sort of laughed it off." The former real estate agent says his son's death "was a terrible shock — but I remembered my promise."

So, Don Chaffee began appearances before school children, civic clubs — any group wanting to hear about his son and the space program. It has been a labor of love which has taken him to 11 states.

"I just let the business go to pot," he said of the real estate agency he founded some 20 years ago. The firm now functions only sporadically from a bedroom of Chaffee's small frame home in this Grand Rapids suburb.

As speaking engagements began draining his resources, Chaffee started drawing Social Security payments and tapping his wife's income as a bank employee to finance them.

Appeals for aid to every major foundations and several business firm drew letters of support but no money, he said.

Chaffee said he's considered putting a stop to his campaign but that he believes "there ought to be some way I could keep going. There's money spent on a lot of things more frivolous than this."

Cooperative In Safety Efforts

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Deputy Fire Marshall James G. Smith said today that local nightspots are cooperating with efforts to keep them safe for the numbers of townspeople and university students who crowd into them to dance, drink beer and enjoy themselves at night.

Two weeks ago, one downtown tavern was closed by Fire Department officials because of overcrowded conditions in the establishment. Since that time, the Fire Marshall's office has begun a series of weekly inspections at all places where crowds gather to have a good time.

And according to Smith, "they are pretty well straight. We haven't had anybody that has refused to cooperate. These places are trying to improve the conditions."

Three nightspots were closed about a year ago for infractions ranging from over-occupancy to illegal electrical wiring to structural defects in a building. Since that time, inspections have been made more or less on a random basis, but officials now have begun weekly inspections.

Smith explains, "We have a regular inspection program now on a weekly basis...of all places of entertainment or public assembly. We'll be checking for any condition that is either specified legally or in our judgment constitutes a hazard to public safety."

"This includes," the Deputy Fire Marshall noted, "over-occupancy, locked or otherwise secured exit and doorways, blocked passageways leading to exits, disorderly crowds, or furnishings inside that would lead to dangerous conditions during time of emergency."

The inspections, Smith explained, are being conducted in conjunction with the Fire Marshall, the City Building Inspector, ABC enforcement personnel and local police.

The inspections are "not aimed at any particular location, but toward all places frequented by large crowds. And continued violations of orders to eliminate hazards will result in an order from the Fire Department to close and possible court action," Smith explained, "as well as notification to the State ABC Board in cases where the people have beer licenses." With reference to university students, "when their parents send them to Greenville, they look to this city, the Fire Department and other public service people to protect their welfare," Smith said. "That's what we want to do..."

He emphasized, "you don't have to have a fire in one of these buildings for someone to get killed. Someone yells 'fire,' there's panic, and people get killed. We don't want it to happen in Greenville."

And Smith said that the regulations and inspections don't just apply to nightspots and beer taverns. "This also applies to public gatherings at gyms or dances...sports activities...any place where more than 100 people assemble," is covered by the law, "except churches...organized church activity is exempt."

WORK UNDER WAY—Work is progressing on the new Harris Supermarket in Ayden. Participating in the groundbreaking for the new facility recently were (L-R) Durwood Harris, owner; Durwood Harris Jr.; Jack Tyler, manager of Big Value Drugs which will occupy part of the building; and Ralph Ford, Ayden town administrator.

Jenkins Addresses Club In Charlotte

CHARLOTTE—The chancellor of East Carolina University Monday pointed to growth of the University of North Carolina at Charlotte as evidence of progress in higher education in North Carolina during the sixties.

In a speech prepared for delivery to the Central Charlotte Lions Club, Dr. Leo W. Jenkins chided a recent newspaper editorial which said events of the sixties had "disastrous results" for higher education in the state.

"My friends, look at Charlotte," Jenkins said. "You came from a struggling, local community college to a full, highly respected university in that decade." He praised the able and dedicated leadership of Bonnie Cone, then president of Charlotte College, for bringing Charlotte to the point of development as a university campus.

Charlotte College became a part of the University of North Carolina system in 1965, two years before East Carolina University was given university status by the General Assembly.

Jenkins reminded his audience that he was chairman of the subcommittee of the Carlyle Commission on Higher Education which recommended Charlotte College expansion and inclusion in the university system. And he said Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan, then a state senator and chairman of the ECU board of trustees, co-sponsored the legislation creating UNC-Charlotte.

James Earl Johnson of Farmville was charged with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety following investigation of a 10:45 a.m. collision on Evans Street 75 feet South of the Second Street intersection.

County's TB Program Expanded

By CAROL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

The incidence of tuberculosis in Pitt County is far above the national and even the state average, but it occurs much less often here than it did five years ago.

This statement was made by someone who ought to know—Mrs. Doris Justice, R. N., of the Pitt County Community Health Department. She directs a program to combat tuberculosis in the county. This program, though not new, was considerably enlarged and improved during the time Dr. Robert D. May was medical director here. Dr. Cecil Rand, a Greenville internist specializing in respiratory conditions, is its consulting physician.

Mrs. Justice has figures to back up her premise that Pitt County is on the way to winning its battle against TB. In 1969 there were 68 cases; in 1970, 48; in 1971, 53; in 1972, 32; and in 1973, 23.

In comparison with the entire country and North Carolina, the figures look not so bright. Only 19 persons out of each 100,000 Americans have TB. Some 24 out of each 100,000 North Carolinians have it, while 43 Pitt Counties do.

"The number-one priority with our tuberculosis control program is to identify persons with the disease, to treat them and their contacts, and thus to prevent the spread of the disease," Mrs. Justice said.

"The TB skin test is an essential tool in the diagnosis of TB," she said. "The mantoux method of skin testing using Purified Protein Derivative is the best screening device available, since it accurately detects the presence of TB antigens in the blood. A negative reaction indicates no direct exposure to TB germs. A positive reaction shows the presence of the disease process itself or potential disease from close contact with the infection. All positive reactors are treated."

Individuals diagnosed as actually having the disease and those closely exposed to the infected persons are placed on drug therapy. Almost every adult having the disease must be hospitalized. Usually patients from here go to the Eastern

North Carolina Sanatorium in Wilson.

"I'd say that 95 per cent of all patients who must enter the sanatorium have serious health problems other than tuberculosis," Mrs. Justice said. "The length of stay at the sanatorium usually depends on what accompanying ailments there are."

"TB differs from most infectious diseases in that it does not confer lasting immunity. Persons who have had it must be closely followed. All who have been hospitalized are required to report regularly to the Health Department for checkups."

The second Monday of each month, Dr. B. L. Sen of the Sanatorium comes from Wilson to conduct a clinic here to follow up on recent discharges.

Mrs. Justice said she believes there is a close relationship between the incidence of TB and malnutrition, crowded and substandard home conditions, and underemployment in the county. "It's been proved," she said, "that there is much greater incidence of TB in slum areas. The city's housing has come a long way in the 10 years I've been here, but there's so much improvement needed yet, especially out in the country. Malnutrition, of course, makes for lowered resistance to disease germs. Underemployment causes both the forced use of poor housing and inadequate nutrition. Ignorance, of course, has to do with all three, so improved conditions and more education about health and other fields as well, is the answer."

Mrs. Justice, a Richmond native, is a proud alumna of Provident Hospital School of Nursing in Baltimore, Md. Prior to joining the Health Department as its tuberculosis public health nurse, she was a nurse with the Greenville City Schools. She and her husband, James Harold Justice Jr., have a daughter, Catherine, 10, and a son, James III, eight.

"I liked my job before," she said, "but shortly after I took it, I went for a short course at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta. Then I really got involved. I've loved it ever since."

"My only complaint," she said, "is that I can't do everything that needs to be done. Mrs. Addie Griffith makes home visits, as does Susan Keys, our communicable disease coordinator, and Mrs. Marge Pfeifer, our TV Control Secretary is a big help, but there's still more to be done than we can handle. We need more help badly if we're going to rid or nearly rid Pitt County of tuberculosis."

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

Readers are always accusing me of taking the adults' point of view and never consulting children for their opinions.

Frankly, I have always felt if God had meant for children to run the country he would have made the seats in Congress out of plastic with a hole in the middle.

However, in keeping with democracy, I asked my children the other night if they could think of any way to alleviate the energy crisis in our house. These are some of the suggestions they came up with.

1. Save water by doing away with showers. It is a waste to turn on all that water and stand under it for five minutes when everyone knows even doctors only wash up to their elbows.

2. Sacrifice chores after dark that need light... like homework and taking the garbage cans out to the curb.

3. Wear clothes longer before washing them. There is no need to change socks daily. It has been proven that rigor mortis does not set into a sweat sock until five days, or 18 hours of basketball, whichever comes first.

4. Conserve lights by playing outside in the dark. People did it in West Side Story and had a lot of fun.

5. Cut back on appliances in the home by eating out. There is no need for mother to waste energy on all those lima beans and asparagus tips. Let Colonel Sanders burn his lights.

6. According to statistics, hand tools use up a lot of energy. Be sympathetic to this problem. See your dentist only ONCE a year.

7. Cooperate with your government concerning the gasoline crisis. Buy your child the pony he always wanted.

8. Keep haircuts at a minimum. Electric clippers waste energy.

9. Be a good citizen. Knock it off with the grass cutting until this whole mess is over.

10. Don't hog the stereo to yourself. Turn the volume up so the entire block can appreciate the music.

11. Get rid of that big, gas-eating family station wagon and replace it with a smaller car... preferably bright yellow with racing stripes.

12. Don't waste hot water. Save dishes until you have a five-day supply and then argue about who does them.

13. When something comes on the TV set that you don't like... turn it off.

Someday, I am going to learn that the only question you can ask a child and get an unbiased answer is, "Do you want an allowance or do you just want me to give you the money on a regular basis?"

Darden-Moore Vows Exchanged Recently

FARMVILLE—The Friendship Free Will Baptist Church was the scene of the Saturday, March 9, wedding of Miss Teresa Gwen Moore and Robert Brooks Darden.

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moore of Rt. 2, Walstonburg, and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Darden of Ayden.

A program of wedding music was presented by Susan Beaman of Rt. 1, Farmville, pianist, and Kenneth Cobb of Rt. 1, Farmville, vocalist.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a gown of bridal satin fashioned with an empire waistline, high neckline and A-line skirt, with embroidered chiffon around the hemline and at the waistline. The skirt was adorned with daisies and the long gathered sleeves featured a four-button cuff. The mother of the bride made her gown.

Mrs. Robert Brooks Darden Her long veil was trimmed with embroidered chiffon lace and was attached to a Camelot cap.

The maid of honor was Becky Susan Brann of Rt. 1, Farmville. Bridesmaids were Claudia Moore of Rt. 2, Walstonburg and Nancy Darden of Rt. 1, Ayden, cousin of the bridegroom.

The father of the bridegroom was best man and ushers were Reed Moore of Rt. 2, Walstonburg, and Frank Braxton of Hampton, uncle of the bridegroom.

For traveling, the bride changed into a baby blue polyester dress with a coat and wore a corsage lifted from her bridal bouquet.

The bride is a junior at Greene Central High School. The bridegroom is a graduate of Greene Central High School and is employed by Dupont Co., Kinston.

Mrs. Jesse Brann of Rt. 1, Farmville, directed the wedding. The bridal couple was honored at an after-rehearsal party.

Household Hints

Resist the temptation to overbuy if you want to save money. Even canned foods lose flavor and texture in time. Fresh vegetables and fruit are perishable and spoiled food wastes money.

If leftover sliced roast turkey (from the freezer) is dry, serve it with a cheese sauce. The turkey may be heated in a double boiler or tightly wrapped in foil in the oven.

A pound of apples (three to four medium) will yield about 1½ cups of applesauce. A can of applesauce (about 16 ounces) yields two cups.

Nutrition note: The amount of calcium in the following foods is about the same: 1½ cups ice cream; 1 cup milk (whole, skim or buttermilk); 1½ ounces cheddar cheese; 1-1/3 cups cottage cheese.

When yogurt is used in a sauce, the heating time should be short and the temperature low; if these precautions aren't taken the yogurt may separate.

Evaporated milk may be used undiluted as a substitute for egg in a meatloaf mixture. The milk, like the egg, acts as a binder.

Since the Greenville Club sponsored the organization of the Williamston Club, the president of the Greenville Club, Miss Nancy Smith, presided. She introduced N. C. Green, mayor of Williamston, who welcomed the members of the club and guests and expressed his pride in the organization of the Williamston Club.

Miss Smith presented a gavel to the president of the Williamston Club, Mrs. Rita Griffin, who gave the objectives of the National Federation of Business and Professional Women's Clubs.

Evelyn Wilkinson, District IX director, introduced the state federation officials and the club presidents who were present.

Miss Helen Mahlum, state membership chairman, introduced the state president, Janet Blair of Charlotte, who presented the charter to Mrs. Griffin, and installed the following officers: Mrs. Griffin, president; Delsie Williams, vice president; Eliza Waters, second Mrs. Bert Tyson, a past state president, gave a gift to the Williamston Club from the past state presidents. The other past state president attending was Mrs. Grace Folger from Goldsboro.

Music for the evening was furnished by Michael Williams of Jamesville High School, who played several selections on the piano.

The Club Collect led by Betty Powell, first vice president of the state federation of BPW Clubs, closed the meeting.

Write Mayor Of Your Viewpoint

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: Has the whole world gone crazy or is my viewer out of focus? I just read in a Minneapolis newspaper that as a part of the Community Educational Program, the public schools are sponsoring a program on—of all things—belly dancing!

As a taxpayer, I protest this shameful waste of money. Don't you think there are better places for our tax dollars than spending it to teach school girls how to do a vulgar, disgusting dance with their midsections exposed?

MRS. J. F. O.

DEAR MRS. O.: Your viewer is out of focus, lady. Belly dancing is a respected art form in the Middle East. However, it's your right to protest. So write to the mayor and tell him you've had a bellyful.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old girl who received a beautiful stereo for Christmas. I keep it in my bedroom, which seems to create a problem.

My father says when my boyfriend comes over we should take the stereo [which has four speakers and is on a cart] from my room way out to the den and drag it back when we are through.

I can't understand why we can't listen to the stereo in my bedroom if we keep the door open and all the lights on, a parent is home, and they can wander in and out whenever they feel like it.

Also, it seems ridiculous for them to be so uptight about our being in the bedroom because if we planned on doing anything it would be just as easy in the den.

How do you feel about this? BUGGED

DEAR BUGGED: I think your parents are wrong. Furthermore, their accusatory attitude could give you ideas you never had.

DEAR ABBY: A "Concerned Parent from Augusta, Ga." recently wrote to complain about her school system's order that pupils have a tote bag of supplies before they could use the lavatories. Our elementary school felt forced to make its bathrooms vandal-proof because of the acts of a few disturbed children. Stall doors were removed because some children swung on them; all paper was removed because it was either being wasted or used to plug toilets; mirrors were taken out and hot water was shut off. Our students did not even have a tote bag of supplies; they had to make do or wait until they got home.

This action was taken at the insistence of the janitors who tired of cleaning clogged pipes and fixing hinges on stall doors. After three years, the elementary student council pressed for and won restoration of all facilities. They argued that schools are built for children, not janitors; that children are human beings and as such have the right to basic dignities.

The council won its case. Since then there has been no abuse of the facilities. "Bathroom monitors" were never even considered because experience has shown that children should not be put in a position to police other children.

STUDENT COUNCIL FROM CONN.

Always keep cottage cheese tightly covered in the refrigerator to prevent it from picking up odors and developing off flavors. Creamed cottage cheese should not be frozen because when it is thawed it tends to separate and this damages its texture and consistency.

Sad Occasion For All Of N.C.

The death of former Sen. B. Everett Jordan was a sad occasion for all North Carolina.

Jordan died at his home in Saxapahaw Friday. He had been appointed to the U. S. Senate by Gov. Luther Hodges in 1958 after the death of Sen. W. Kerr Scott.

Jordan served from the time of his appointment until the end of last term in 1973. He had sought reelection in 1972 but was defeated by Nick Galiafanakis in a campaign which centered on Jordan's age and general health.

Galiafanakis was subsequently defeated by Republican Jesse Helms and Helms succeeded the genial Sen. Jordan in 1973.

Sen. Jordan was known as a hard worker and in 1963 he presided over the Senate investigation of the Bobby Baker case.

Sen. Jordan visited Pitt County a number of times during his career in the U. S. Senate and he made many friends in this area. He will be missed.

Outraged Over CREEP Funds

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NAVAK
WASHINGTON—President Nixon's Committee to Reelect the President (CREEP) perpetrated its latest outrage, authorizing its remaining millions to pay legal costs for former CREEP officials defending criminal prosecutions, in keeping with its arrogant tradition: Republican leaders desperate for campaign funds were not consulted.

The new ruling was approved without even talking to Republican national chairman George Bush, who has long coveted CREEP money for depleted party war chests. Nor was any hint given to Sen. William Brock of Tennessee or Rep. Bob Michel of Illinois, chairmen of the Senate and House Republican Campaign Committees. Thus, CREEP continues its brazenly independent escapades long after Watergate.

The $3.5 million of unspent 1972 Nixon campaign money may now be used to pay huge legal costs of former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, former Secretary of Commerce Maurice Stans, and any other former CREEP official acquitted of Watergate charges or found guilty only of a misdemeanor. Indeed, Stans is one of three trustees controlling the $3.5 million who have lifted the prohibition against using the money for personal legal defense.

Brock and Michel, hard put to sell tickets to their annual fund-raising dinner for Republican congressional candidates here March 27, were furious and frustrated.

As chief fund-raiser for House Republican candidates, Michel has been trying—without success, so far—to get CREEP money into the party's campaign coffers for the fall campaign. Earmarking a substantial part of that $3.5 million for legal fees, he said, "is certain to exacerbate an already bad situation."

Brock and Michel have raised little more than $400,000 for the March 27 fund-raiser, far short of the $1 million minimum target. Big contributors are scarcely enthusiastic about buying $1,000 dinner tickets while tens or thousands of CREEP dollars are earmarked for legal costs growing out of scandals that menace Republican prospects.

Niether Bush, Brock, Michel or even some politically experienced White House aides knew that Stans and his co-trustees were considering the policy switch. CREEP's campaign practices of 1972, operating in isolation of the Republican party and under White House protection, thus continue as though there had been no Watergate, no Republican crisis and no outrage by party fatcats who saw their contributions go down the Watergate drain.

Gasoline Trouble Ahead
Working-level officials at the Federal Energy Office (FEO), do not view shortened

gasoline station lines in metropolitan areas as an unmixed blessing but as a harbinger of possible disaster late in March.

The reason: government and industry sources believe many service station owners are pumping gasoline too rapidly in confidence that federal energy czar William Simon will bail them out with an emergency allocation from inventories just as he did in February. Indeed, these intentions were voiced openly at a recent meeting in Washington of FEO's gasoline dealers advisory committee.

But, confide some FEO officials, there is not enough gasoline in inventory to meet such an emergency. Hence, they see the danger of a real gasoline shortage crippling many areas, particularly the megalopolis running from Boston to Washington.

Top FEO officials scoff at these fears, contending that heavy pumping is a result of both a larger March allocation and late arriving gasoline from the February emergency allocation. More over, they contend there is enough gasoline in inventory to cope with any emergency.

Nevertheless, some critical FEO officials believe Simon's tendency to respond quickly to demands for emergency help—whether from service station owners or truck drivers—has built unreasonably high expectations, and hence the condition for disaster.

Cappy For Reagan
Casper W. (Cappy) Weinberger, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), has been named to the top secret inner circle planning the 1976 campaign for President by Gov. Ronald Reagan of California.

A cabinet member breaking Nixon administration neutrality to support one candidate for the Republican presidential nomination is an act of dubious propriety. Nevertheless, Weinberger is expected to attend the extremely private meetings of the Reagan planning group whenever he is home in California. Weinberger, state finance director in the Reagan administration before coming to Washington, was unsuccessfully promoted by the Reagan forces for the governorship this year.

Other than Weinberger, the Reagan planning group—consisting of less than ten members—is dominated by senior Reagan staffers and longtime political intimates (such as lawyer William French Smith and auto dealer Holmes Tuttle, both of Los Angeles).

A footnote: Conservative political mastermind F. Clifton White, who managed Reagan's late-blooming presidential campaign in 1968, is no favorite of Reagan's staff and has been kept off the planning group. But White maintains contact with Reagan himself and could yet play a key role in his 1976 campaign.

Grand Ole Opry Moves Into Grander Quarters

Nashville's Grand Ole Opry ended an era last weekend when it held its last performance in Ryman Auditorium, its home since 1940.

The old home of country music was originally a church built in 1891.

But ending an era does not signal the end of Opry type music. Far from it. The Grand Ole Opry simply moved to a new $15 million modern home.

Some say country music won't be the same in the new structure, but virtually all agree that it is symbolic of the prosperous times for this field of entertainment.

Issues Remain For Legislators

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—The 1974 General Assembly, according to many observers, is not coming to grips with major issues which face it.

That, Republican leaders in the assembly say, will become a key political issue in upcoming and future elections.

"There's no question about it. If these people-oriented programs don't pass, it will become a political issue. The GOP should make it an issue," said Senator Charles Taylor, R-Transylvania, and minority leader in the Senate.

Taylor is among a large number of legislative leaders—Democrat and Republican, legislators and observers—who see the strong possibility that the assembly will adjourn in mid-April never having coped with a variety of major items on the agenda.

"The legislature is simply not coming to grips. The special interest legislation just sails through while there is great indecision on the important things which affect people. The leadership just can't seem to put it together," Taylor said.

Partisan Lines
As a Republican, he is particularly upset that major legislation proposed by Republican Gov. James E. Holshouser runs into stiff opposition in the Democratically controlled assembly, while a Democrat could have pushed some measures through.

Taylor thinks the assembly has spent too much time on "political one-upmanship—trying to strip the governor—and not enough on meaningful legislation." He ticked off 14 items aimed at depleting the governor's programs.

"These things have consumed the governor's time, and the Legislature's time—and we never got back to dealing with major legislation," Taylor charged.

The Brevard attorney, timberman and investment banker thinks the Senate has done a right good job and had rather effective leadership (Continued on Page 5)

To The Editor:

Pitt Memorial Hospital's Emergency Room is probably similar to many other emergency rooms, both in North Carolina and the United States. It is similar in its need for medically trained personnel such as doctors, nurses, aides, technicians, and ward clerks. Not only is this kind of personnel needed in the emergency room, but also all over the hospital and in hospitals and clinics throughout the state. In the Emergency Room, we see everything from the common cold to cardiac arrest. We service a number of treatments from the suturing of a laceration to the casting and splinting of a fractured limb. Sometimes we go beyond this in comforting the family and friends of a very critical patient or one that has died.

In aiding the doctors as personnel in the Emergency Room, we take the patient's vital signs, record his medical history, and complaints, and try to narrow his ailment down to that which requires the most attention. But even in assisting and aiding these doctors the best way we can and in trying to take safe shortcuts in an effort to save time, we often fall short in seeing to every patient's need.

The volume of people in Eastern North Carolina, like everywhere else, is too great and too much demand is made on too few medically trained people. The time we have to aid this volume of people is too small.

The need for a medical school at ECU for Eastern North Carolina is great. If it can even make a dent in the problem of too much demand and too little time, when I feel the school is certainly a necessity.

Any kind of school that will train medically trained personnel to assist in treatment of human needs is most certainly a necessity.

Strength For Today

OVERCOMING AFFLICTION

In the area in which I live a man several years ago lost a leg in an accident. With the help of an artificial limb he was able to resume his normal life, but only after a lengthy and sometimes painful period of adjustment.

After overcoming his handicap he asked all of the hospitals in the neighborhood to notify him whenever they had a patient who was compelled to lose a leg. On these occasions he would then visit the patient repeatedly, encouraging him and giving him the benefit of someone else's experience in affliction.

Anyone who so cares for his fellows that he keeps constantly on the alert to find those who need the assuring and cheerful word of one who has risen above an affliction, is a follower of Christ who must be pleasing to the Master. This is a fine example of love in action. "Inasmuch as ye have done it unto the least of these my brethren, ye have done it unto me."

THE SORT WHO SHOULD LIVE UNDER A ROCK!

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

A 'Gentleman Anarchist'

CLEMSON, S.C.—The thing about Karl Hess is, he looks like a prophet. He speaks like a prophet and he thinks like a prophet. Allowing for two thousand years of difference between Biblical sands and American sidewalks, he even dresses like a prophet: blue denim fatigues, worn boots, a knitted cap. You are not likely to meet a more interesting character this side of Armageddon.

I ran into my old friend here at Clemson University the other night. We were under assignment to debate a nice prophetic question, "Which Way, America? Left or Right?" He was speaking for the New Left, I for the Old Right, but before the evening was over, we were talking about fish in his basement and tomatoes on his roof.

Those who follow political affairs will remember Karl Hess from the days of the Goldwater campaign ten years ago. He was then a conventional contemporary conservative, coated, tied and clean-shaven. As a writer-researcher for the American Enterprise Institute, he had come to know and admire the Arizona senator. When the Goldwater train began its brief run from triumph to debacle, Hess came aboard as assistant conductor, speech writer, and Number One flack.

He stayed with Goldwater for a year or so after the November rout, ghost-writing the senator's syndicated column and thinking long, heretical thoughts. The more he thought about the principles of conservatism, the more he felt he was failing to live by these principles himself. He found it increasingly difficult to stomach conservatives who denounce Big Government and support Big Business.

The time came for renunciation. He grew a beard, sold his worldly goods, and left.

For more than three years, Hess lived on a houseboat anchored off Buzzard's Point in the Potomac. He learned the welder's trade, but he learned much more: He learned what was unnecessary. It is a large part of wisdom. Eventually he migrated to the Adams-Morgan section of Washington, D. C. It is an ethnic Walden Pond in the heart of the city. He lives there now, a kind of Henry Thoreau of Columbia Road, tending trout instead of beans.

The trout are in the basement. In a sense, these are sacramental trout, the outward and visible signs of an inner faith. Hess believes that communities must learn to live simply and self-sufficiently in a new kind of governmental and economic structure. Starting from the Old Right's dedication to federalism, he takes the concept of decentralized authority and treats it exponentially: federalism to the fifth power. For all practical purposes he would abolish the federal government, dismantle the great corporations, and return all political and economic management to the neighborhood level.

Hess is serenely certain that one of these days his prophecies will be fulfilled. Just as Rome fell, brought to disintegration by the excesses of greatness, so American civilization will succumb to its own complexity. Meanwhile, he and his neighbors are demonstrating that even in the heart of a great city, a community can sustain itself. Hence the trout. Hess and his ferrets are raising ten thousand rainbow trout in basement tanks. They get the eggs out of Idaho and feed the trout to 12-inch size by this summer, if all goes well, they will be producing 400 pounds a week at a net cost, dressed, of 40 cents a pound. In the teeming streets of Adams-Morgan, that is cheap nutrition. They also are raising vegetables. (Continued on page 5)

To the editor:

There are two medical matters of a preventive nature which I should like to bring to the attention of your readers.

First, the Department of Health and Physical Education of East Carolina University will again be offering a continuing physical education program for men. Executives and members of the various professions will find this program of great value in keeping themselves in shape. That this type of program can be a healthy step forward for the sedentary professionals and executives there can be no doubt. Those of us who have participated in previous programs are in a position to attest to its superior quality.

Secondly, your readers should know that the legislature has already created the North Carolina Alcohol Research Authority without a single dissenting vote. There are two bills pending to provide the Authority with funds with which to conduct research into the underlying causes of alcoholism.

Why is this research program so important? Ours was a leading state in developing alcoholism rehabilitation programs 25 years ago and we especially here in Pitt County have excellent treatment facilities for alcoholics. On the other hand, this is not enough. If we don't get at the causes of alcoholism—what makes the one drinker in 12 have difficulties—we will spend as much as $500 million between now and the end of the century on rehabilitation and still be no further ahead. We must work not only to treat alcoholics but, perhaps just as important, we must study the causes of alcoholism so that we may markedly reduce it as we have other public health problems such as tuberculosis. Those who agree with this philosophy might find it well worthwhile to contact their legislators about these bills.

Visionary Plans Change World

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—There is a visionary glint in John McConnell's eyes as he describes his mission. He hopes for nothing less than to change the world. Inside his studio he has a reminder: "Expect a miracle."

Many people won't agree with McConnell on the nature of the change needed. What is good to him might be unpalatable to others, including many businessmen.

Son of an evangelist, former seaman, businessman and publisher, McConnell at age 59 is president of the Earth Society and founder of Earth Day, to be celebrated on the first days of spring, March 20 and 21.

He explains that Earth Day "is set aside to remind each person of his right, and the equal right of every other person, to the use of this global home, and at the same time the equal responsibility of each person to preserve it."

In just a few years the idea has spread to include observances by the United Nations, governmental agencies, states, cities, villages.

"On our crowded planet, oil, minerals and land are not only property, but limited natural resources," McConnell said. "It is imperative that their use conform to environmental standards, and distributed equitably."

With this in mind, McConnell wrote to Saudi

Arabia's petroleum minister, suggesting that 50 per cent of oil royalties be given to help the earth and its "disinherited people."

Ten per cent of this, he suggested, should go to organizations feeding and housing the hungry and homeless. Another 10 per cent would be for specific environmental programs to enrich the earth's natural resources.

The larger portion, 30 per cent, would be distributed equally and directly to all adults in any poor area of any community of the world that would provide appreciate distribution of funds.

A wild radical? Not in the perspective of one billion years of life evolution, says McConnell. He has yet to hear

Soviet Appeal Ignored

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Special Correspondent

The story just unfolded on Arab oil and the Middle East must create frustration and even humiliation in Moscow.

The United States has gained, not lost, influence among the Arabs even though it armed Israel before and during the October war and stood behind her even in the face of the oil difficulties.

Moscow broadcasts long have been telling the Arabs the only way they could get what they wanted was to punish the United States as the protector of their enemy.

"Premature lifting of the oil embargo will enable the United States to undermine efforts to settle the Middle East crisis at some stage," said a typical broadcast.

Now, despite Arab anger over U.S. positions on Israel and the Soviet encouragement in recent months to them to keep the lid on oil supplies for the United States, the producer nations have voted to lift that embargo.

The men in the Kremlin must be asking why the Arabs didn't heed them. After all, didn't the Soviet Union arm Egypt and Syria? Didn't the Soviet Union build the Aswan High Dam for Egypt after the Americans refused to? Didn't the Soviet Union back the Arabs in all they ask? Didn't the Soviet Union along espouse Arab aspirations?

Moscow indeed did all those things, and that is precisely why the Arabs are suspicious The Arabs are nationalistic and devoutly Islamic. They are fearful of what they have seen of Soviet sentiments in those spheres.

If there is to be peace, the Arabs know the United States still holds the key. If there is to be economic development in the Arab world, the keys are in the West, not the East.

The Russians sound a lot less like a regime bent on detente than one hoping to keep the waters rolled in the most sensitive strategic area of the world. Yet people who should know credit Moscow with wanting to avoid a major explosion, even while trying for all it can get short of that.

Moscow seems to have some political problems in this respect. Leonid I. Brezhnev, the Communist chief, wants detente and all it promises. But that costs a lot in terms of surrendering opportunities to be more disruptive in the Middle East.

There have been signs lately that Soviet hawks question the long-range prospective benefits of detente. This seems to be echoed in recent Soviet press articles that for the first time in a long time are sharply critical of the Nixon Administrator and Secretary of State Henry Kissinger.

The reason: The Russian don't want a settlement to take place that has the look of being all the result of U.S. diplomacy.

Hess speaks proudly of Adams-Morgan and its 31,000 blacks, browns, and whites as "our country." At 50, he is "completely happy, and completely free." He is also, to be sure, completely broke. It is a condition that frustrates the taxman more than it troubles Hess. He earns enough by welding, and by an occasional lecture engagement, to feed himself and the fish.

To most of us clean-shaven types, Hess is an impractical dreamer, a gentleman anarchist, a prophet suffering from economic hallucinations. It is impossible, we would say for a highly industrialized world ever to get back to the village smithy and the chestnut tree. People do not want to be poor, free, and independent; they prefer the kind of life they are living now. But, ah, says Hess, that way of life is doomed. And if one thinks millennially, my friend the prophet is probably right.

But on the House side, he sees a lack of leadership which is hampering the assembly's total performance.

Coming into this rump session of the 1973 General Assembly, interim study groups and committees were set up and work moved forward through summer and fall on a variety of fronts—revamping mental health programs, land use planning and management, prison reform, criminal code revision, special services for children, revamp of local property tax procedures, no-fault insurance, consumer protections, etc.

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Trans World Airlines has recalled 600 cabin attendants it furloughed in the last six months—about two-thirds the number laid off in that period.

So far, the only items handled have been largely minor ones, plus a host of local bills. Legislation in other areas has been largely either shelved, watered down or killed, the record shows. A number of legislators are outspoken in their dismay over the record of this assembly.

Everybody's Worried

One put it this way: "We just won't come to grips with the complexities. Everybody's worried about what the people are thinking about them."

Another said, "What we do on statewide issues don't matter anyhow. Nobody gives a damn. We can get re-elected just handling those local bills for the folks at home."

The leadership in the House of Representatives is now suggesting that the assembly get on with the budget and money appropriations for the $2.9 billion budget and get home, leaving undone most of the major items still hanging fire.

That philosophy, one legislator explained, embraces the idea that passing legislation is not the only measure of accomplishment—killing legislation is also an accomplishment.

In a fever of political activity, the House passed a tax cut package including a removal of inventory taxes.

The Senate is sitting on that one.

In mid-February, a major legislation for handling the energy shortage was introduced. It has been back and forth to committee and a host of other proposals introduced. No forward action is visible.

Statewide Land Use Policy was watered down until the bill passed by the Senate and awaiting attention in the House only calls for another study and some recommendations for action by 1979—provided the General Assembly comes up with a plan.

Need Leadership

A veteran legislative staff member put it this way: "These people just aren't used to coming in and getting right down to work. They need mixing time—till mid-April, traditionally. And, they need the governor's leadership."

The assembly is now seriously eyeing an April 12 adjournment. That leaves little time for legislation—aside from the budget.

And they will probably meet that deadline, since those facing primary opposition back home need to campaign before the May 7 elections. That raises another problem. Many are now blaming the leadership for not changing the primary date. If a number of legislators get beaten, they will blame the time shortage—and the handful of leaders who made that decision.

ONE OF AMERICA'S NATURAL RESOURCES... MILK.

AND YOU CAN STILL SERVE IT AT HOME FOR ABOUT 10-12¢ A GLASS.

Yes, milk's a natural resource. Because it's a natural food that has high-quality protein.

Protein is a basic building block for your body.

And milk is one of the lowest-priced sources of high-quality protein you can find.

Three glasses a day give you half the protein you should have, at about 10-12¢ a glass.

When every shopping trip these days tells you lots of sources for high-quality protein are pretty expensive, that makes milk quite a bargain.

And besides protein, milk has calcium, vitamins, minerals—so much of what's good for you, in fact, that nutritionists have called milk "Nature's Most Nearly Perfect Food."

More than enough reasons why it's nearly perfect for your pocketbook, too.

Today, every little bit of information helps. So here's more about milk.

Vitamin D fortified milk (three 8-ounce glasses) supplies the following percent of U.S. Recommended Daily Allowances (U.S. RDA)

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — North Carolina eggs markets were steady Monday. Supplies adequate, demand fairly good. Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 67.38, medium whites 63.76, small whites 47.84.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — Corn and soybeans were stronger on the state's leading markets Monday. No. 1 yellow soybeans were mostly 6.26-6.35 per bushel. No. 2 yellow shelled corn was mostly 2.90-3.00 per bushel.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — North Carolina hogs were 50 cents to $1.00 lower today. Tops of 33.25-34.25 at Kinston, Benson and Lumberton; 32.50-33.00 Rocky Mount; 31.00-33.00 Wilson and High Falls; 31.50-32.00 Tarboro and Bethel; 34.00 Clinton, Fayetteville, Dunn, Elizabethtown, Pink Hill, Pine Level, Chadbourn, Ayden and Laurinburg; 33.00 Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA) — North Carolina hens: Market generally steady with an unsettled undertone noted. Supplies of heavy hens increasing. Demand remains fairly good. Heavies, at farm, 17 cents per pound, few lower; f.o.b. plants 19-21 cents.

North Carolina f.o.b. dock broilers: Market steady at 36.50 cents per pound for this week. Supplies adequate, demand fairly good and weights trending lighter. Estimate slaughter today 1,132,000. Average live weight for Mar. 15 3.86 pounds.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market's case of post-embargo depression continued unabated today.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 6.42 at 867.80, and declining since swapped gainers by close to 3-to-1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said it appeared investors were continuing to take profits chalked up during the month-long rally that carried through last week.

With the issue of the embargo out of the way, brokers said, the market appeared to be turning its attention to such unresolved concerns as inflation and high interest rates.

On Monday the bond market took a sharp drop as investors in fixed-income securities demanded higher yields.

Rising interest rates often weigh on the stock market because they draw money away from stocks and into such fixed-income investments as bonds.

General Electric, down 5/8 at 51 1/2, was the Big Board's most active issue. A 207,300-share block changed hands at 51, the lowest price for the stock in some three years.

GE spokesmen said late last week they knew of no reason for the recent drop in the price of the stock. Some analysts said it was being hit by institutional selling, partly because of some portfolio managers' worries about GE's profit prospects for the current quarter.

Precious metals issues were one of the few pockets of strength in the market. Among golds, Homestake was up 1 1/4 at 88 3/4, and Giant Yellowknife climbed 1/2 to 22 on the American Stock Exchange.

Silver stocks showing gains included Rosario Resources, up 2 1/4 to 53 1/4; Hecla Mining, ahead 1 1/4 to 31; and Callahan Mining, up 3/4 to 17 1/4.

The Amex volume leader was Fox-Stanley Photo Products, down 1 1/4 at 9 3/4 after a 19,900-share trade at 9 1/2.

The Amex's 11 a.m. market-value index was down .65 at 100.30. The NYSE composite dropped .38 to 52.12.

These fees are in connection with the court case over the acquisition of land off Hooker Road for location of the proposed new middle-junior high school. —Expressed appreciation to board member Mrs. Barry Shank for work done in beautification at Rose High. Mrs. Shank, in coordination with an ECU fraternity, is working on a project of trimming shrubs there.

—Approved a schedule of budget recommendations for the 1974-75 budget as recommended by Cox; and —Approved a request by Cox to include in the school curriculum a program of bicycle safety for school children.

Cox informed members that in the matter of pending legislation, one of the most significant bills for educators is House Bill 1833, introduced on February 21 by Rep. Lane Brown of Stanly County.

The general effect of this bill, if it becomes law, Cox noted, is that individual school boards would have control over "line items" in the budget. This action now rests with members of county commissioners.

"It is my understanding generally," Cox reported, "that most county commissioners are basically against the provisions of this bill and that action is now being taken to work out some sort of compromise."

Bandits' Car Rammed By Enraged Witness

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — A news cameraman says he acted out of "sheer anger" when he rammed his car into another car carrying three bank robbers and two hostages.

His action halted a chase which ended in death for one of the three gunmen Monday. Two policemen were injured in the incident.

Bill Anderson, 27, of WHBQ-TV, who was filming the pursuit of the robbers, said he was enraged when he saw the getaway vehicle run down a policeman dashing across a department store parking lot.

"I saw him hit that police officer and knock him 15 feet and I just lost control," said Anderson. "I ducked down and floored it and rammed their car...and I stayed ducked down while the shooting was going on."

Police said one of the gunmen, Clyde M. Hyde Jr., 43, Shreveport, La., killed himself with a shot in the chest when officers encircled the getaway car. The other robbers released two women hostages and surrendered. A third hostage had been released earlier to tell police to stop the chase, authorities said.

The officer hit by the getaway car, Benjamin Payne, 28, suffered a broken back and was hospitalized in satisfactory condition.

Police earlier had trapped the robbers inside a suburban branch of Union Planters National Bank after the holdup men scooped up $49,778. But police kept their distance with the hostages, all bank employes, and drove off in a car commandeered from another bank employe.

Jim Tait Named New Richmond Football Coach; AD Job Next

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—The University of Richmond has moved to fill one of its two athletic vacancies by promoting Jim Tait, an assistant the last eight years with no previous college head coaching experience, to the post of head football coach.

In making the announcement Monday of Tait's appointment, Richmond President E. Bruce Heilman said the university now would proceed with "all deliberate speed" to fill the post of athletic director. He indicated that might be within the next few weeks.

Both jobs opened up in the last three weeks when the university stripped Frank Jones of his job as athletic director and Jones in turn refused to accept a lucrative, long-term contract under which he would have served only as football coach.

Tait said Monday he did not feel he would be affected by the alleged strain in relations between the alumni and administration over the departure of Jones, who came here in 1966 when Richmond was in the midst of a 19-game losing streak and turned the Spiders into winners.

"I have found that the University of Richmond is unique," said Tait. "The people are always loyal, good years and bad. They always support their school."

"I know a lot are unhappy, but most have given me every indication that they will support me. When I do something wrong, they're going to cuss me. But that's part of the job."

Heilman served as chairman of a committee that deemed it unnecessary to go outside the Richmond athletic family to find a successor to Jones. After extensive interviewing of Tait and another assistant, Marvin Bass, the committee recommended Tait.

"The recommendation of the committee and of the athletic council is my decision," said Heilman, who also announced that Bass would remain as defensive coordinator and Jerry Foshee, a Richmond aide since 1968, would stay as offensive line coach.

He did not disclose either the length of Tait's contract nor its salary terms.

Tait, 38, a native of New Rochelle, N. Y., played under Darrell Royal, Murray Warmath and Wade Walker at Mississippi State from 1954-57. He came to Richmond in 1966 with Jones, who had been an assistant at Mississippi State.

The eight years from his graduation there until he came to Richmond were spent either at Meridian, Miss., High School—where he was head coach two years—or as a Mississippi State aide.

Tait held the position of offensive coordinator in charge of the offensive backfield. Some of his star performers included Walker Gillette and Barty Smith, both first-round National Football League draft choices; Mike Bragg, Buster O'Brien and Charlie Richards.

The Spiders ranked 17th in passing nationally in 1968 and eighth in 1969 under his guidance. He also helped Jones coach in the North-South All Star game in Miami, Fla., in 1970.

In the eight years he was head coach of the Spiders, Jones had a 44-38 overall record, won two Southern Conference championships, shared another and was runner-up on two other occasions.

His teams twice played in the Tangerine Bowl in Orlando, Fla., beating previously undefeated Ohio University 49-42 in 1968 and losing to unbeaten Toledo 28-3 in 1971.

Jones had been athletic director the last six years, but the school announced three weeks ago it was splitting the two jobs. It said Jones had been offered a new contract, described as one of the best in the Southern or Atlantic Coast Conferences, as football coach.

An obviously angry Jones said March 1 he planned to quit, deferred any announcement for a week, then made it official March 8 that he would leave the school when his contract expires June 30.

His announcement triggered the resignations last week of two of his assistants, Ray Tate and Dick Lage, who like Jones said they were getting out of football at least temporarily.

After talking with Tait, Heilman said he was "convinced that had we looked the world over, we could not have found a finer coach for the university at this point in our history.

"He has been successful prior to coming to the university and he has been a strong force in the successful tenure of Coach Frank Jones during the past eight years."

Bill Godwin tossed a fine five-hit shutout yesterday as East Carolina University's baseballers took a 3-0 victory over the University of Virginia.

Godwin, dealing mostly in curve balls and off-speed pitches, kept the Cavaliers in knots at the plate, allowing them only three threats in the entire game. Two men reached third base, and just one other got as far as second.

The hefty hurler struck out five batters and didn't issue a single walk during his nine innings of work.

East Carolina banged out eight hits on the way to the victory, all of them singles. Virginia hurler Dave LaCross went the distance, walking three and striking out four.

Virginia had a chance to get a threat going in the second inning when Peter Anderson led off with a single to deep short. But Godwin picked him off first before Cliff Smith got a single later in the inning.

In the third, the Cavaliers got their first threat on the boards. Tim Hall reached on a fielder's choice and then stole second. But two infield popups ended that threat.

The side went down in order until Hall led off the sixth with a cheap double. His fly to left fell just in front of the diving Russ Smith, and the ball bounced away from him and covering centerfielder Mike Hogan. By the time they got the ball back and fired to second, Hall had slipped in under the tag.

Godwin came back, however, striking out the next man. The second sacrificed Hall to third; but a final strikeout ended the frame. In the eighth, Virginia had one last chance. Duvall White led off with a single to right and was sacrificed to second. He took third on a wild pitch, but died there.

East Carolina's first true threat paid off, in the third inning, when they scored their first run. Ron Leggett led off with a slash into center field. He moved up on Rick McMahon's ground out, and took third when Geoff Beaton reached on an infield hit. A wild pitch then allowed him to come in with the winning run for the Pirates.

They missed out on a chance in the fourth. Carl Summerell reached on an infield hit that bounced high over the pitcher's mound. Bob Harrison followed with a two-out single, but a popup ended the threat.

In the sixth, the Bucs missed out again. Hogan walked and Summerell singled to left moving Hogan to third. But a popup and a ground out got Virginia out of the inning without damage.

Finally, in the eighth, the Bucs struck for two more runs as insurance. Ron Staggs led off with a walk and Hogan beat out a bunt down the third base line. Summerell sacrificed both runners up, and with two down, Harrison lined a hit into left, scoring both Staggs and Hogan to make it 3-0, the final score.

Summerell and Harrison each had two hits to lead the Pirate effort at the plate.

East Carolina, now 4-4 overall, will play host to the University of North Carolina in their next game, set Thursday at Harrington Field starting at 3 p.m.

Red Sox, With Good Pitching, Hope To Challenge Baltimore

By DAVE O'HARA
AP Sports Writer
WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP)
The Boston Red Sox, loaded with proven starting pitchers, figure to be in the American League East race all the way this year, but it's still too early to say whether they'll be able to beat out the Baltimore Orioles.

The Red Sox have looked exceptionally good under new manager Darrell Johnson in exhibition games so far, but there still remains much to be determined to realistically rate them.

Everyone agrees the Red Sox have the pitching, after their activity in the off-season deal market. The big question is whether the pitchers will get enough runs to work with, particularly in Boston's Fenway Park with its famed chummy left field wall.

"I think we'll score enough runs, and I'm very satisfied with the personnel I have to work with," says Johnson, a former journeyman catcher and pitching coach groomed for the Boston job in three years as a manager in the International League.

After finishing second in the division race two years in a row, the Red Sox decided action had to be taken. General Manager Dick O'Connell began a series of moves by firing Eddie Kasko and promoting Johnson, whose Pawtucket team won the Little World Series last fall.

O'Connell then traded Ben Oglivie, a young outfielder with a good hit, no field tag, to Detroit for veteran second baseman Dick McAuliffe.

But the main goal was pitching.

The Red Sox wound up with right-handers Rick Wise, Reggie Cleveland and Diego Segui from the St. Louis Cardinals, right-hander Dick Drago from Kansas City and veteran Juan Marichal from San Francisco.

Gone are slugger Reggie Smith and pitchers Marty Pat-tin, John Curtis, Lynn McGlothen and Mike Garman, plus a bundle of cash for Marichal, with 238 victories the biggest winner among active major league pitchers.

With 20-game winner Luis Tiant and 17-game winner Bill Lee, the Red Sox will have Wise, Cleveland and Marichal as starters. Drago will be used at the start in relief, along with holdover Rogelio Moret, 13-2 last year.

The Red Sox are set behind the plate with Carlton Fisk and backup man Bob Montgomery. Johnson wants three catchers and the emergency man may be veteran Danny Cater, who is learning the trade after playing first, third and left field.

With Smith gone, Carl Yastrzemski is going to have to carry the attack, but Johnson is hoping to find some help for the 34-year-old veteran.

Cecil Cooper, whose options are up, played for Johnson at Pawtucket and is being given a long, hard look. If he can make it at first, Yaz will return to left. If not, Yaz is the first baseman.

Doug Griffin, a good fielder but injury prone, has the edge at second, but could be pressured by McAuliffe. Rico Petrocelli is trying to come back from elbow surgery and his third base spot could pose a problem.

At shortstop, 40-year-old Luis Aparicio is trying to ward off the challenge of second-year teammate Mario Guerrero and rookie Rick Burleson, another Johnson protege who could win the starting job.

Veteran Tommy Harper, who stole 54 bases and drove in 71 runs while batting .281 as the regular left-fielder in 1973, doesn't know where he stands.

Marquette Moves Up To Third; State Holds To Top Position

By The Associated Press
Marquette's Warriors, ranked eighth last week, moved up to third with a 72-70 victory over Michigan in the NCAA Midwest Regionals while North Carolina State and UCLA continued to hold the top two spots in The Associated Press' weekly college basketball poll released today.

The victory helped bring the Warriors 439 points in voting by a national panel of sports writers and broadcasters while lifting Marquette's record to 25-4.

The Wolfpack, 28-1, received 20 first-place votes and 616 points to maintain a 16-point lead over the Bruins, who raised their record to 25-3 by stopping Dayton's Flyers in triple overtime, then crushing San Francisco.

The Bruins — aiming at an unprecedented eighth consecutive NCAA title — crept closer to the top-ranked Wolfpack by gaining 12 first-place votes and 600 points in the voting.

Maryland, its season ended at 23-5, held fourth place with 412 points, while Notre Dame slipped from third to fifth place with a 26-3 record.

The Kansas Jayhawks, 23-5, who join the top two teams and Marquette in the NCAA semifinals Saturday, jumped from 14th place to sixth with triumphs over Creighton and Oral Roberts. Michigan, which beat Indiana and Notre Dame, rose from 12th to seventh behind a 22-5 record.

Providence, 28-4, victims of the Wolfpack in the Eastern Regional semifinal, slumped from No. 5 to No. 8; Long Beach State held ninth with 232, and North Carolina, 22-6 — seventh last week, dropped to 10th after a first-round loss to Purdue in the National Invitation Tournament.

Indiana, 21-5, and Vanderbilt, 23-5, are tied for 11th, followed by Alabama, Southern Cal, Pittsburgh, Dayton and South Carolina. Oral Roberts and Purdue share No. 18, while New Mexico rounds out The Top Twenty.

In other college basketball developments, two basketball coaches had their contracts extended while two others didn't.

Veteran Maryland Coach Lefty Driesell will be with the Terps next year, Athletic Director Jim Kehoe said Monday. Ray Mears — whose record at Tennessee is 217-92 in 12 years — had his contract extended through the 1978-79 season.

Coach Jack McKinney was fired from his position at St. Joseph's, Pa., and Lute Olson, after "the worst season of my life," quit as coach of Long Beach State to take a four-year contract with Iowa.

In St. Louis, Indiana Coach Bobby Knight was ejected from the game on three technical fouls early in the first half, but the Hoosiers came from behind on Steve Green's 24 points to crush Southern California 85-60 in the championship game of the first annual Collegiate Commissioners Association tournament.

At Madison Square Garden in New York, the NIT moves into quarter-final play tonight with Hawaii meeting No. 18 Purdue and Maryland-Eastern Shore facing Jacksonville.

The Top Twenty, with first-place votes in parentheses, season records through games of Saturday and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

Don't Tell Him It's Non-Contact

By KEN ALYTA
AP Sports Writer
GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP) —

Someone, an old philosopher who doubtless knew very little of the subject, once said basketball was not a contact sport.

Don't try telling that to Norman Sloan, coach of the top-ranked North Carolina State basketball team that meets defending national champion UCLA Saturday afternoon in the NCAA semifinals.

The frightening crash to the floor of leaping All-American David Thompson early in last Saturday's Eastern Regional championship game against Pitt was the latest in a series of scary experiences Sloan and his charges have endured.

The once-beaten Wolfpack began its quest of the Atlantic Coast Conference title in the ACC tournament at Greensboro earlier this month against Virginia.

In the first minute of the game, 7-foot-4, 235-pound center Tommy Burleson became entangled with Eanny Stahurski, 6-foot-9 and 245 pounds.

Burleson crashed to the floor like a tall pine from his Newland, N.C., mountain home area, rolled over several times and lay motionless for several seconds.

Sloan's heart and those of his players skipped a beat before it was determined that Burleson was able to continue.

He recovered to the extent of 15 points and 11 rebounds.

The next night State became embroiled in one of the classic games in the 21-year history of the ACC, beating Maryland 102-100 in overtime.

Late in the game, guard Mo Rivers came out of a bruising encounter with a cracked nose. Still later, 5-foot-8 Monte Towe had to be removed during the critical dying stages to rest a muscle cramp in his leg. He came back six seconds before the finish to score two key free throws.

In the second half of Saturday's Pitt game, Rivers, 6-foot-1 and 165, was virtually hurled to the floor from a group of scrambling players and for several seconds it appeared his nose was reinjured. But he hung on to complete a brilliant 15-point second half.

Burleson, who seemed to catch fire after Thompson left the game, played the last half with a slightly sprained left ankle. But apparently he will be all right for Bill Walton and friends Saturday.

Camp Lejeune Swimmers Defeat Greenville Team In Competition

Tigers Nip Eagles, 3-2

ROBERSONVILLE—Williamston High School scored two runs in the top of the eighth inning then held off a Robersonville rally to take a 3-2 victory yesterday.

The loss was the second in a row to a 3-A school by the Golden Eagles. Williamston was making its first start of the year in pitching the win.

The contest was largely a pitching duel between Danny Todd of Williamston and Jimmy Stalls of Robersonville. Todd, who went the distance, allowed only four hits, struck out six and walked three, all three in the final inning.

Stalls, who went into the final inning before giving way to reliever Matt Wilson, scattered five hits, but walked seven and struck out only two.

Robersonville struck first, breaking the scoreless tie in the third. Kim Knox reached on an error and moved on to second when a pick off attempt was booted. He took third on an infield out and scored when Jeff Warren slammed a triple. Warren, however, died at third.

In the fifth, Williamston came up with two in the eighth to take the lead for good. Keith Brown doubled and Berwyn Barnhill walked. Todd doubled in Brown, and Danny Whitehurst walked with one down to load the bases. Wilson came on, got one out, but then walked George Brown, forcing in Barnhill for a 3-1 Williamston lead.

Robersonville tried to rally, but got only one run. Knox reached on an error and Mike Matthews walked. Warren walked to load them up, and a walk to Doug Warren scored Knox. But the rally ended there, and Williamston hung on for the victory.

The Tigers travel to Roanoke Rapids on Friday, while Robersonville will visit South Edgemore.

Asgrow RX Hybrid Corn Lines Give You A Healthy Advantage

It's only logical. The more a hybrid can resist stress and disease, the more you can count on it to give you a healthy advantage—in the field and over the scale. And you can count on single cross RX60, RX115, and special RX99A to do just that.

Here's why: It is prescription-bred to resist rust, lodging, Fusarium ear rots, stalk rots, root worms, and corn borer infestation. . .to resist Northern, Yellow, and Race "T" Southern leaf blights. And you can be sure that these lines have the genetic vigor to withstand these stress conditions and still yield with the best. They quickly develop into extremely-uniform plants—healthy plants with massive root systems and sturdy stalks that insure excellent standability. What's more, large, gritty ears are placed at the ideal height for combining or picking. They look great and yield even better. And this has been proved, on hundreds of farms right in this area. Talk with the farmers who grow these hybrids. Ask them about the ability of the RX Line to give you a healthy advantage. Then—talk with your Asgrow dealer. Ask him to reserve you a supply of Asgrow corn.

The Worry Clinic Millions Feel After-40 Panic

Tad was secretly grateful for his heart attack! It serves as a convenient "red herring" to divert his wife's attention from his growing sex panic! Millions of men after the age of 40 seek to hide their waning libido. Wives, stop such panic!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE Z-579: Tad W., aged 41, had a coronary attack.

"Dr. Crane," his wife began, "Tad seems to have fully recovered and the doctor says he is now sound as a dollar."

"But Tad shuns any affection in the bedroom!"

"He keeps telling me it might precipitate another heart attack."

"Dr. Crane, since you are both a psychologist and also a physician, can you tell me if Tad is correct?"

Red Herring
Tad is using his recent heart attack as a convenient red herring, to protect his scared male ego.

Many months before he had any worry about his heart, he was secretly terrified about his waning libido.

For the most frightening medical bugaboo of men is not cancer or heart attacks.

But impotence!
For when they pass the age of 40, they start indulging in too much introspection.

"Why," they think to themselves, "when I was first married, I was very erotic."

"Yet now I am not only placid but even find it difficult to become aroused in the sexual realm."

"So could I be slipping into premature impotence!"

And that very thought usually produces the dreaded effect they have feared.

For whenever a man worries over his ability to perform in the bedroom, his brain (cerebrum) is working.

Alas, you can't celebrate (think, talk, worry) and also emotate at your maximum capacity.

That's why there was logic in the old maxim:
"Count to 10 before you explode in anger!"

For the mere act of counting thus forces your brain to work. Worry likewise is a brain function and thus immediately reduces a man's libido.

Husbands are terrified lest their wife realize that their lack of that former honeymoon ardor is due to their inability to function.

Indeed, this is the Achilles tendon of their male morale!
So such panicky husbands develop all sorts of ruses or camouflage to divert their wife's attention from the real problem.

Thus, some men start drinking, figuring that if they then stumble home half drunk, their wife will think it is their inebriated condition that anesthetizes their desire for kisses and boudoir cheesecake.

Others suddenly become fanatics of poker or golf or even run into excessive participation in Boy Scouting or other good works.

After a 10 mile hike with their Scouts, they figure their wife will regard their lack of eroticism as due to that long trek homeward.

A group of London medics recently surveyed the family life of 65 male victims of coronary attacks and found the wives usually quite distressed.

But by the end of the year only 3 of the 65 couples were totally platonic!

Actually marital relations are not a severe strain on the heart and certainly less damaging than cigarettes!

But you wives must anticipate the usual husband's fear of impotence!

So send for my medical booklet "How to Prevent Platonic Marriage," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Petitioners Move For Code Changes In TV Advertising

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Like those who beef about the weather, many gripe about TV commercials interrupting their shows without trying to do something about it. Not so in the case of John Banzhaf's law class.

Three of his students, all enrolled in his course on legal activism, are petitioning the Federal Communications Commission to limit TV commercial time to eight minutes per hour.

That's 10 minutes fewer than the FCC — which says it has no firm time restrictions for TV commercials — generally allows before it starts giving station licensees the regulatory evil eye.

Banzhaf, 33, a professor at George Washington University, is a man to be reckoned with, as any network official can tell you.

He's the man who, in 1967, filed an FCC petition about TV cigarette ads. It eventually led to a 1970 congressional ban on such ads.

Banzhaf, acting only as an advisor on the latest petition, says it's one of several "final exam" projects.

His students' FCC petition would limit commercial breaks, except in certain cases, to the half-hour and hour, to let viewers enjoy their shows without an advertising blast every 1 or 15 minutes.

It also asks that all advertising be banned from children's weekend program time — 7 a.m. to 2 p.m. Saturdays and Sundays.

The National Association of Broadcasters' TV code currently limits to 12 minutes the advertising and other "non-program" material aired during each hour of weekend children's program time.

It also restricts "non-program material," save for public service spots and promotions for the show being viewed, to 9½ minutes per hour in prime evening time for network-affiliated stations.

There also can't be — in the main body of most programs — any more than two "program interruptions" per half-hour program or four per 60-minute show. Five interruptions are allowed in the case of hour-long variety shows.

Although the NAB claims 531 TV stations as members, only the TV networks and 407 stations subscribe to its TV code, leaving the nation's 300 other commercial TV stations free to do their own advertising thing.

Banzhaf said the petition cites the NAB code's limits on program interruptions and non-program material as the "recognition of a major goal that this is a reasonable goal and it should be regulated."

The professor was asked if he thought his students had much of a chance to win their case.

"Quite frankly," he said, "I think it depends in large part on the amount of public support it gets and the amount of public concern that's aroused out of it."

"If this bill becomes law," the candidate asserted, "the politicians in power would be even less responsive to the people. It would make editors liable for a prison term of up to two years."

He said, "Imagine this on the federal level. The indictments now being handed down would be against editors instead of politicians."

Candidate Opposes Gag

Robert M. Brown, State Senate candidate from the Sixth District, has opposed the senate bill that he said would "gag" the press.

Brown said that, "The incumbents from the district who sponsored the bill would feel more comfortable if they could manage the news."

He added, "The right of the citizens to be informed is one of the key planks of my platform. The press is especially important in these times of loss of confidence in government. It is not only the right of the press, but its duty to report on those who occupy positions of public trust."

"If this bill becomes law," the candidate asserted, "the politicians in power would be even less responsive to the people. It would make editors liable for a prison term of up to two years."

He said, "Imagine this on the federal level. The indictments now being handed down would be against editors instead of politicians."

TO FORM KIBBUTZ
JERUSALEM (AP)—American Reform rabbis announced plans today to strengthen their ties with Israel by establishing their first kibbutz in the Jewish state.

The production will be a substitute for a new work, "The American Clock," which Miller has been writing in residence at the university. Officials said the new play will be produced at the school later.

I am constantly asked why it is that the Italians keep beating our best teams in world championship play. Basically, it seems to be that they play better than we do, or perhaps that we play worse than they do. A study of the "1973 World Bridge Championship," published by the A. C. B. L., 2200 Democrat Rd., Memphis, Tenn. 38131, $3 postpaid, suggests that the Italians showed better judgment in key situations, with the result that the final against the Aces that rated to be a close exciting match became a runaway victory for the Europeans.

Today's hand is from the qualifying rounds. The same hand was played simultaneously in two matches, and the bidding shown is from Italy's match against Indonesia. Sitting South, Giorgio Belladonna opened with a preemptive bid of three spades. Benito Garozzo, North, cue-bid four clubs and South cue-bid diamonds. When West could not resist showing his diamond strength, North made a forcing pass to allow South to clarify his holding. Belladonna's redouble announced that he held first-round control of diamonds. Five no trump was the Grand Slam Force, and South confirmed possession of two of the top three spade honors with his jump to seven spades.

There was nothing to the play. The jack of spades dropped and declarer romped home with an easy 13 tricks.

At the other three tables South also opened the bidding with three spades, yet no other pair got beyond game! In the match between the Aces and the North American team, both Norths simply raised to four spades.

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MARCH 20, 1974

Carroll Righter's Horoscope

GENERAL TENDENCIES: As spring arrives interesting planetary positions are in effect which can enable you to go after your most ambitious goals without delay. Be alert to modern trends and study whatever of such you do not fully understand.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) Work on your most cherished aims and gain the right results with them. Accept any invitations of a social nature at this time.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Go after your career aims with enthusiasm and get the right results now. Talk with those who can be of great help to you now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Entering a new activity now can bring you greater benefits in the future. Confer with business experts for the data you need.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Make sure you keep the promises you have made to others and gain their goodwill. Handle official matters intelligently.

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) Talk over your ideas with associates and make the future much brighter. Improve your image with the public. Relax at home tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Talk with co-workers about ways to increase production and have more profits. Improve your appearance. Do nothing irrational.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct. 22) Think of ways to enjoy yourself more in the future. Try to be a leader instead of a follower. Be sure to pay your bills on time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Elevate your consciousness and then see how to please family more. Find the right appliances to make your home more comfortable.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) You have definite ideas concerning how you want to organize the future, so talk them over with associates. Be logical.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan. 20) Making sure to decide how to change and handle financial matters for the future is wise. Use good common sense in all activities.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) Plan how to make the future brighter for yourself. Contact persons you like the most. Evening is fine for attending the social.

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar. 20) You have fine ambitious plans and must follow through with them, so start action early on such. Avoid one who annoys you.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have a vision that enlarges as the years advance, plus an awareness and understanding of new trends in the world. Give as fine an education as you possibly can so that your progeny will take a rightful place in the world. Teach to be more independent early in life. Sports are a natural here.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Gas Prices To Stay High; Supplies Below Wants

By CRAIG AMMERMAN
Associated Press Writer

High prices at the gasoline pump and on the utility bill are not likely to come down, and there won't be much more gasoline at the neighborhood service station for about two months.

That is what the nation's major oil companies said about Monday's announcement that the Arab oil embargo against the United States had been lifted. The companies said they were afraid consumers might expect quick results from the embargo's end.

Oil companies and industry leaders welcomed the news, and said it will have a positive impact on areas short of energy.

But they also said some shortages and high prices will remain even after oil from the Middle East begins flowing to U.S. consumers for the first time since last fall's Arab-Israeli war, they said it would take two to three months for that to happen.

The oil companies said there would be increased gasoline supplies for the summer months and predicted that long gasoline lines should continue to subside both as a result of increased supplies and a hoped-for return of consumer confidence.

embargo does not mean a return to business as usual. And even if production levels were restored, the U.S. would still be in short supply."

The statements by the oil companies emphasized these points:

—Oil affected by the embargo accounted for between 10 and 14 per cent of U.S. use. It was considered unlikely that the Arab producers would exceed previous supply levels to this country, which was running short of oil even before the embargo.

—The current high prices of gasoline and other petroleum products are the result of a quadrupling in prices charged by other foreign producers, and an increase in domestic oil prices. Since the Arabs charge basically the same price as other foreign producers, there is little evidence that prices will fall. In fact, prices may go up.

—It will take between 60 and 90 days for Arab crude oil to be loaded on tankers, shipped to refineries for production into gasoline and other products and then moved to U.S. consumers.

"You're still going to have high prices and stations running out at the end of the month," said a spokesman for a group of oil importing companies.

Stanley Modic, editor of Industry Week magazine, said the Arabs' action should have a good psychological effect on industry and consumers. But he said consumers may expect "improvements too soon and if they don't come when expected there may be a backlash."

The auto industry said it was hopeful that with the end of the embargo consumers would begin buying new cars in higher numbers. Drops in new car sales have been reported as much as 40 per cent off last year's pace, most of it attributed to the energy crisis.

"Coupled with the normal spring upturn in sales, this could lead to a return to more normal sales volumes in all segments of the market," said Lynn Townsend, head of Chrysler Corp.

Two major airlines — United and American — said it was too early for them to tell whether they would get increased fuel supplies and thus be able to resume some cancelled flights and rehire some personnel they have laid off.

The stock market reacted to the news by falling 13.61 points on the Dow Jones average, the sharpest drop in five weeks. Analysts said the reaction was normal. They said buyers had pushed the market up in anticipation of the news, and had caused it to fall on Monday by selling those recent purchases to capitalize on profits.

Spokesmen for two oil companies said persons worried that there might not be enough gasoline for a vacation this summer could generally go ahead and plan on one. But they warned that conservation measures must continue in the use of energy.

"The lifting of the embargo is good news," said the Shell Oil Co. "But it is no sign the nation can revert to historical energy consumption patterns and uses."

"One point should be made very clear to the American public," said Standard Oil of California. "The lifting of the
