

Gasoline Shortage Still Fact Of Life

By STAN BENJAMIN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The American motorist will continue to face a gasoline shortage and he'll pay higher prices for the fuel, despite the end of the Arab oil embargo, President Nixon and his energy chief have said.

Nixon, opening a news conference with the National Association of Broadcasters in Houston Tuesday night, said, "We still have an anticipated shortage of perhaps 5 to 8 percent in the United States."

Earlier, federal energy chief William E. Simon told newsmen here, "Gasoline is going to cost more and so is heating oil."

A shortage such as that mentioned by Nixon means Americans would have about the same gasoline supply as during the first week of March, when long lines at gasoline stations seemed to vanish suddenly. A 5 to 8 percent shortage would be a great improvement over the 14 to 20 percent shortages of February, when motorists waited in line for hours.

The return of Arab oil, Nixon said, would not close the gap completely, although he said it would rule out rationing and mean the end of the Sunday ban on gasoline sales.

"... It will be necessary to continue our voluntary program of car-pooling and also of slower driving," Nixon said of the anticipated shortage.

Simon had explained earlier in the day that as the higherpriced Arab oil returns to the U.S. market, it will raise the average U.S. cost of oil, creating increases in fuel prices to the consumer.

Neither Simon nor Nixon estimated the extent of the price impact but Simon's deputy, John C. Sawhill, has guessed the price of gasoline could hit 70 to 80 cents per gallon at the pump this summer.

Energy officials hope these high prices will at least take the sting out of the remaining shortage by causing motorists to voluntarily reduce their gasoline use.

Simon and Nixon also said that energy problems, in general, would not disappear with the shipments of Arab oil.

The mandatory federal petroleum allocation program would continue, but industry and agriculture would be able to operate "at full capacity," Nixon said.

He criticized Congress for failing to act on his legislative proposals to stimulate increased energy production from coal, oil shale, the Naval Petroleum Reserve at Elk Hills, Calif., and other sources, and to remove federal regulation from natural gas production.

"The greatest shortage of energy is the lack of energy on the part of the Congress..." he said.

Meanwhile, in the Middle East, American oilmen said Arab oil production could be restored within a few days.

DAVE PATTON

Patton New Cage Coach

By WOODY PEELE

After over a week of delays, East Carolina University finally got down to business today and named, to no one's surprise, Dave Patton as the new head basketball coach.

Patton, an assistant under Tom Quinn for the past two years, was named in a mid-morning press conference by Athletic Director Clarence Stasavich.

Unofficial reports, circulating since Quinn had been relieved from his duties as head coach a week ago Friday, said that Patton would receive the job.

Quinn, following his release, however, had to sign a legal document concerning the dismissal since he had one year remaining on a three-year contract he had received after his Pirate team in 1972 won the Southern Conference Tournament. This, reports said, have held up the naming of Patton, who was believed approved in a meeting held a week ago Monday.

The new coach is already involved in the recruiting for the coming year. George (Butch) Estes, the other assistant under Quinn, will continue as Patton's assistant. It is not believed that another assistant will be named this year.

"Coach Patton has been a very valuable member of the basketball staff for the past two years," Stasavich said in making the announcement. "In that time, he has demonstrated his leadership and coaching ability. Two years ago, he led a very well coached junior varsity team to an 11-3 record." That team lost all three games by close margins, and the wins included a 30-point one over N. C. State.

"Coach Patton is respected by his players, who over the past week have indicated their unanimous support for him as their coach," Stasavich added.

"I feel very fortunate," Patton said. "This is a great opportunity, and I hope I can make the best of it. It's a great situation and a great place to start your head coaching career," he added.

"Now I want to get busy on recruiting to insure that we have a good future at East Carolina," he said.

Patton, a native of Ashland, Ky., has spent much of his life in Georgia. The 33-year-old coach graduated from Ashland Senior High School in 1958, and completed his undergraduate work at Georgia Southern College in 1962 with a B. S. in Education.

He later earned his Master's in Education at Georgia Southern also.

While in high school, he was captain of his basketball and baseball teams, and made the all-district team in basketball, and the all-district and all-region teams in baseball.

While at Georgia Southern, which he attended on a basketball scholarship, he played varsity ball as a freshman, starting on the team that finished in eighth place in the NAIA National Tournament. He went on to play in three Districts 25 Tournament, and two NAIA nationals.

His senior year, he was named captain of his team, and was honored with "Dave Patton Night" at the final home game.

After college, he became head basketball coach at Wilkinson County High School in Irwinton, Ga., where his team went 10-12, winning the most games in the history of the school to that time.

The following year, he returned to Georgia Southern to work on his masters, serving as a graduate assistant. The GSC team that year went to the NAIA nationals after winning the District 25 title. He also helped recruit the team that went 26-2 the next year, taking second place in the national tournament.

For the next three years, he served as assistant coach at Abraham Baldwin College in Tifton, Ga., where he also coached the baseball team. The basketball team was 13-13 during his first year there, and 15-10 the second year. During his third season, the team was 13th in the nation among junior colleges with a 26-1 record.

Patton then became the assistant coach at Dekalb College in Clarkston, Ga., where the team posted a 17-8 record and was second in the Georgia Junior College Conference. He helped to recruit the team that went on to win the conference title in 1970.

Georgia Southern called him again, this time as the

President Takes Houston Stroll

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — President Nixon took an early morning stroll in downtown Houston today, stopping for coffee at a corner drugstore and talking to people on the street.

Nixon conducted a televised news conference Tuesday night before a meeting of broadcasters and vowed again that he would not resign.

Accompanied by Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler and White House photographer Oliver Atkins, Nixon walked two blocks from his hotel to the Keystone Drugstore early today.

The White House said the President's outing was spontaneous. No newsmen were on hand.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald Warren told reporters the people Nixon met on the street "offered him words of support."

Later in the morning, Nixon met privately with Texas Republicans.

During his TV-radio news conference Tuesday night, Nixon firmly rejected a call by Sen. James L. Buckley, Con.-N.Y., that he resign for the good of the presidency.

Nixon contended the whole world "needs a strong American president, not an American president who every time the polls go down says, 'Well maybe I better resign.'"

Income Jumped

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans suddenly got a lot more money in their pockets in February, following two consecutive months of decline, the government reported today.

It said personal income of Americans jumped by $6.6 billion in February compared with a decline of $2 billion in January.

Personal income measures the income received by all Americans from all sources, including wages, rent, interest and dividends.

Rises and falls in the level of income are watched by economists because they indicate changes in the purchasing power of Americans which has considerable significance for the entire economy.

The biggest factor in the February increase was a $4-billion jump in wage and salary payments compared with a decline of $800 million in January.

Amtrak Moves To Hike Fares

WASHINGTON (AP) — Amtrak says mounting fuel and labor costs as well as inflation are forcing it to raise fares nationwide by 5 per cent.

Amtrak, the National Rail Passenger Corp., announced Tuesday that the fare hike would go into effect April 16.

The rate boost is intended to produce about $12 million in additional revenue, the corporation said.

Quiz Rebozo On Hughes Campaign Contribution

WASHINGTON (AP) — C. G. "Bebe" Rebozo, President Nixon's closest friend, was interrogated under oath by the Senate Watergate committee today about a campaign contribution from Howard Hughes.

Rebozo, a banker, arrived for an executive session in response to a subpoena.

Rebozo is a leading character in a story of top-level campaign finance that began with a $100,000 payment from billionaire

Howard Hughes.

The story includes allegations that one consideration may have been the favorable resolution of federal antitrust action aimed at Hughes' Las Vegas gambling and hotel interests.

Its most recent chapter was the dumping of $100,000 in old $100 bills on a committee table by a Hughes emissary.

Sources have said the committee has learned that the idea of a Hughes contribution

Oppose Hospital Trustees Re-Elect Officers

By CAROL B. TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Attorneys for former White House staff chief H. R. Haldeman asked the U.S. Court of Appeals today to block transmission of a grand jury report on President Nixon's role in Watergate to the House impeachment inquiry.

Haldeman's attorneys asked the court to order U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica to return the sealed report to the grand jury.

Sirica ruled Monday that the sealed report and a satchel filled with evidence should be turned over to the House Judiciary Committee.

Sirica gave parties in the case until 5 p.m. today to appeal his decision.

Haldeman was one of seven former administration and Nixon campaign aides indicted by the grand jury for allegedly trying to block the investigation of the Watergate break-in. All pleaded innocent.

Haldeman's petition argued that transmission of the sealed report to the House committee "creates a risk of exposure before trial that cannot be guaranteed against."

"Public disclosure of the evidence upon which they were indicted will provoke widespread comment in the news media which will not hesitate to evaluate for public consumption the alleged facts behind the indictment..." the petition said.

"Thus, the defendants will stand convicted before their stories are told."

Haldeman's petition also noted that he does not know what is in the sealed report but has reason to believe that it contains "alleged evidence relied upon by the prosecutors to support some of the charges against all of the defendants."

In deciding to send the report to the House, Sirica had said that "the person on whom the report focuses, the President of the United States, has not objected to its release to the committee. Other persons are involved only indirectly."

Richardson said he said necessary documents and correspondence are being prepared to meet the conditions requested, and that hospital officials expect to receive notification within the next 15 to 20 days concerning the status of this new petition.

Mrs. Betty Joyner brought a letter of appreciation from hospital employees who had their 40-hour work week reinstated by the Board after appearing before the Board last month.

Richardson reported that an alternative plan for having hospital laundry done is being worked on, since College View Cleaners and Laundry has given notice it does not wish to keep its contract with the hospital, but must increase its charge 30 percent to meet its own increased cost of labor and supplies.

It was announced that a new personnel department is being formed at the hospital, but that no new salaries will be needed. The formation should be completed by June 1, Richardson said.

Hospital building consultant Ralph Hall reported that the new hospital has been under contract about 30 days now and that the site is almost prepared. The first payment of $185,000 has been made, he said, and much material is already stored in Greenville. The mounds of dirt seen on the site are barrier berms which will serve to hide parking lot from sight when one looks at the front of the hospital, once it is completed.

Dr. John Wooten, chief of the medical staff, told of a requirement by the federal government that doctors begin by January, 1975 to work on data bank on all diseases and conditions treated here, the average length of the hospital stay for each. The finished product is due in five years, he said.

A committee is also working on defining privileges of various medical staff privileges, he said.

Board member Kenneth Dews said the building committee is meeting every Wednesday now, and he invited Board members not on the committee to attend whenever they can.

Julie Bloodworth, a League of Women Voters observer, was welcomed.

Chet Huntley

Dies Of Cancer

BOZEMAN, Mont. (AP) — Former NBC-TV newscaster Chet Huntley, who retired to Montana to develop the Big Sky resort area, died today, his widow said.

Huntley, 62, had been suffering from lung cancer.

Huntley had been undergoing periodic treatment. He underwent surgery in January.

Huntley resigned from NBC in 1970 to develop Big Sky Inc. of Montana, a massive resort and ski complex in Gallatin Canyon southwest of Bozeman.

At-A-Glance

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP) — Here, in brief, are highlights of President Nixon's Tuesday night speech and question-and-answer session at the convention of the National Association of Broadcasters:

WATERGATE — The President said that "dragging out Watergate drags down America, and I want to bring it to a conclusion."

RESIGNATION — Nixon said that it might take courage to resign, "to run away from the job," but said it also takes courage to stand and fight, which he said he intends to do.

HOUSE IMPEACHMENT — Nixon said it should be noted that House impeachment investigators already have been provided with a great deal of evidence and blanket requests for more would prolong the investigation and violate presidential confidentiality.

GASOLINE — Nixon said it will not be necessary to have compulsory gasoline rationing, announced an end to Sunday service station closings and promised additional supplies of gasoline to reduce lines. He also promised more gasoline to industry and agriculture.

ENERGY LEGISLATION — Nixon said, "The greatest shortage of energy is the lack of energy on the part of the Congress of the United States in getting to work and passing the legislation needed to increase the supply of energy."

EUROPEAN RELATIONS — Nixon said he expected differences to be worked out but said European nations should "consult with us and not work against us..."

MIDEAST — The President said the Mideast "is one of those flash points in the world" and U.S. policy is "not only to be a friend of Israel, but to be a friend of Israel's neighbors."

FOOD — Nixon said beef prices will remain high this fall, but food prices generally should moderate later in the year.

made in 1970.

In addition, an independent government regulatory agency is said to have evidence that a third $50,000 payment may have been made.

The timing of the payments is considered crucial by investigators because some of the dates on which the money may have been turned over to Rebozo coincide with negotiations between Danner and then-Atty. Gen. John N.

Mitchell concerning the antitrust implications of Hughes' effort to buy the Dunes Hotel in Las Vegas.

Rebozo earlier told the committee that all of the money remained in a safe untouched for three years and was not used in the 1972 campaign for fear subsequent controversy and turmoil inside the Hughes empire might embarrass the President.

The money was returned by Rebozo to a Hughes representative in the summer of 1973, allegedly after Rebozo took Danner to the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md., to talk with Nixon. The White House has said the money was not mentioned at the meeting.

Rebozo has said the only person he ever told about the $100,000 was Rose Mary Woods, the President's personal secretary.

Miss Woods is scheduled to testify under oath about the matter Friday.

It May Not Be Too Late To Pick Up Broken Pieces

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My experience may help some married man avoid a tragic mistake. This letter is true. If you find it column worthy, you may print it, but please do not use my name:

Past 70 years of age and married to a faithful wife for 35 years, I fell madly in love with a music teacher 20 years my junior. I courted her magnificently, gave her gifts of jewelry, clothing, appliances for her home, weekend trips—even a beautiful piano.

I divorced a faithful wife and gave up a highly respected position to marry this lady in Las Vegas.

Now, after a few months of marriage, a divorce is being processed, and I now find myself with a completely loused up life. My "bride" got as much as she could out of me and is seeking her freedom.

A lifetime reputation has gone down the drain. I have broken my first wife's heart, and my children have lost their respect for me. My health is failing, my heart is heavy, and I am living proof that there is no fool like an old fool.

Gentlemen, take it from one who knows: If you want to stray, keep your foot in the door of your own bedroom, and if you have more brains than I had, you will not become seriously involved with another woman. LOVED AND LOST

DEAR LOVED. Regret is the cancer of life. It may not be too late to pick up the pieces. Why not try?

DEAR ABBY: My mom counts calories, and she doesn't like to see any high-calorie food on her own plate, so she takes a little bit from me, a little bit from my sister, and a little bit from my father, and all those little bits add up.

If she gains a pound she is very unhappy and yells at us: "Why did you let me eat all those things that weren't on my diet?" (Let her? How could we have stopped her?)

Please publish your advice before we all die of malnutrition and Mom chews our heads off. HER FAMILY

DEAR FAMILY: Next time Mom reaches for something on your plate remind her that it's in her mouth for a moment—and on her hips for the rest of her life. That should help.

DEAR ABBY: This is my third letter to you, and it will be the last if you do not answer it. My problem is a lot more serious than some of the junk I read in your column, and I want to know why I have not received an answer. I asked you for a personal reply.

DEAR LAST: If your newspaper doesn't run a line indicating that for a personal reply you should write to Dear Abby, Box 69700, Los Angeles, Cal. 90069 and enclose a stamped, addressed envelope, they should. Everyone who follows the above instructions receives an answer.

CONFIDENTIAL TO VIRGO: To mispronounce a word is ignorance. To correct one in the presence of others for having mispronounced a word is cruelty. In my book cruelty is a far more serious offense than ignorance.

Woman Officer Earns Respect

By EVANS WITT
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Lt. Laura Lynn Livingston is a woman in a tough business; she is an officer in the U.S. Army's military police.

One of the first five female officers in the MP corps, she pulls patrol duty at San Francisco's Presidio and has commanded an all-male platoon.

Lt. Livingston carries a .38-caliber revolver instead of the MP standard .45-automatic and in other ways does not fit the stereotype of a burly, tough MP.

"Oh, I'm not really that mean," she says.

"She's very knowledgeable, very professional and a fine leader," said Lt. Col. Van D. Lolladay, commander of the crack 504th Military Police Battalion at the Presidio. For several months, Lt. Livingston commanded a platoon of 32 military policemen—all of them male.

"Initially, I did have problems," she admits. "But I spent two weeks on bivouac with these men as a platoon leader.

"I picked creepy crawlers out of my hair and I went without a bath for a week. After you come out of something like that, you've earned the respect of your men."

She is now battalion assistant logistics officer, a step above platoon leader in the military hierarchy.

"I've got as many brains as anyone else and, as far as having men work under me, I certainly do now," she said.

Obvious discrimination against females in civilian law enforcement is the reason she gives for joining the MPs. She says an undergraduate degree in criminology magna cum laude from Fresno State University did not lift any barriers for her in the Fresno County Sheriff's office.

For 18 months, she was a booking officer at the jail, "wrestling drunks" and searching prisoners. "It was a great start, but I wouldn't have gone anywhere," she said.

In August, 1972, she joined the Army and spent two months in military police training at Ft. Gordon, Ga., with 57 men and four other women.

As the 504th's first woman officer, she says she has found no sexist discrimination.

"I'm treated as a lieutenant," said the 504th's first woman officer. "My commander does not discriminate against me."

Lt. Livingston is an enthusiastic soldier, proclaiming the good points of the MP program.

And she has a good word for the recruitment billboards that feature the MPs—a man and a woman.

"I cheer every time I go by one," she said.

She is uncertain if she will stay in the military, but Lt. Livingston plans to stay in law enforcement and is working for a master's degree in justice administration.

"I'm a career cop—whether it's in the Army or out of it."

Dean Develops Nursing Program

By EVE SHARBUTT
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Innovation is nothing new to Dr.
Marguerite C. Holmes — she thrives on building new programs.

The dean of the Hunter College-Bellevue School of Nursing came to the City University of New York in 1964 to develop a basic nursing baccalaureate program for Hunter. Since that time, she has instituted programs to upgrade licensed practical nurses (LPNs) to registered nurses; to train fire fighters and policemen for second careers in nursing and now a continuing education program for city employees who wish to obtain a nursing degree.

"We started our first class in 1965 with 44 students in nursing. Now there are 1,500 basic day session students. We have had as many as four fathers of students in police-fire classes, and the fathers and daughters studied together," Dr. Holmes said.

The dean pushed aside her glasses, brushed back her grey-blonde hair and admitted that successful programs, though rewarding, cause problems.

"When you develop a new program and find it's successful, you're always measuring the concept as you go along, changing it to make it more inclusive and figuring out ways to get more financing for it. That's why President Jacqueline Wexler of Hunter wanted to develop a continuing program to provide city employees with upward mobility," she added.

The new program will provide an open curriculum experimental option within the baccalaureate program in nursing. It is open to adults preparing for a first or second career and has evening and summer session classes. So far, in addition to police and fire personnel, a postal clerk, a letter carrier, secretaries and an emergency medical technician are enrolled.

If it is successful, the program option will always be open to mature students," Dr.
Holmes said.

"We expect to start with 50 qualified students working toward a degree, and to add 50 more at the beginning of the next semester. We'll give nursing science and nutrition classes first — all you'd need in order to get a job. The liberal arts requirement will come toward the end of the program.
There will always be a point where a person can go to work and get credit for what he's already taken," she added.

When the program to upgrade LPNs to registered nurses was announced, the dean planned to include 25 students in each of three classes. Over a thousand applications came in.
Screening them delayed the class opening for six months.

"We have gotten any number of inquiries from all over the country and from other countries on that program and the police-fire program," she said.
"We wanted to bring into the nursing profession men students who by nature of their background would change the image of nursing as being a woman's career," the dean said. "They are men who are interested as professionals in crisis areas — emergency admissions, intensive care, cardiac units, burn areas, rehabilitation and neurology."

"I expect to see these men go into leadership positions in these areas. This is what their life has been, and they want to get right in there and do for the patient. A few of the men are very much interested in pediatrics, all the more so because most of them have families of their own," Dr. Holmes added.

Service-oriented safety personnel who are in the busy business of saving lives have been good nursing students, the dean said. Many have gone on to get a degree after passing the registered nurse exam. One student has enrolled in medical school.

"We want to do a follow-up over a five-year period. We do get letters from some graduates who have retired and are working. Within the next few years, the rest will have retired. We'll find out what they're doing, who's working part time or full time," Dr.
Holmes said.

"The men I've talked with have been very dedicated all their lives, so they're grateful for an opportunity to go into some new kind of community service or health service. Some graduates will work for the public health service. Others want to work on Indian reservations or among other people who need medical care.

They're wonderful nurses," she added.

The time may come, Dr.
Holmes said, when college credit will be given for life experiences.

"When the criteria are set up, we'll have the most fascinating results among our city employed adults," she added.

Homemaker's Haven By Addie Gore Pitt Home Agent

Home Garden Month has been officially proclaimed by Governor Jim Holshouser for March 21 to April 21. This period purposefully coincides with the first 30 days of spring which signals the beginning of the gardening period for most of the state.

- Gardening Task for March
- Lay out the garden and determine where each vegetable will be planted.
  - Treat soil for nematodes if needed.
  - It's time to set strawberries, blueberries, grapes, raspberries or black berries.
  - Start tomato, pepper and eggplant plants.
  - It's a good idea to broadcast some of your fertilizer and turn in 10-14 days before planting.
  - Get seed supply ready because April will be a big planting month.
  - Now is a good time to have pressure canners checked. If you're planning to buy a new canner this year, better not wait till June first. A check of freezer supplies would also be appropriate.

Different Breakfast
If your child refuses to eat before going to school in the mornings—try serving some nontraditional foods for a change. Bacon and eggs or a bowl of oatmeal may be the perfect breakfast for you—but it might have very little appeal for the younger set.

So, if need be, start the school day by giving your child cheese and crackers, a baked custard or his favorite soup. Or dress up a traditional food. Serve French toast with a peanut butter filling. Offer a favorite milk shake or a glass of eggnog. All of these are nutritious and will give the children a good send-off each morning.

When you plan that breakfast menu—try to include foods from at least three of the four main food groups.

For school age children, it's important to include food from the milk group at breakfast as well as at other meals. Citrus fruit or juice at breakfast provides a serving from the fruit-vegetable food group—and it can provide the vitamin C requirement for the day.

In any breakfast—be sure to include foods that will provide enough calories to get a child through the morning. It adds up to this. Children who eat breakfast—whether that breakfast features traditional or nontraditional foods—are more alert and get more done than the breakfast skippers.

Choose Cabbage
Use your head when it comes to planning family meals—and choose cabbage. For right now cabbage is in plentiful supply. And cabbage is one of those versatile vegetables that can be used in many ways.

Shredded or chopped cabbage will team up well with other vegetables to give winter meals a refreshingly crisp boost. Team cabbage with shredded carrots, grated onion, cut spinach, diced celery, chopped green pepper or sliced cucumbers.

Fruits and nuts give a happy look and flavor to raw cabbage salad. Sprinkle diced apples with citrus juice and toss with shredded cabbage. Or combine shredded cabbage with pineapple chunks, fresh grapes, nutmeats, or orange and grapefruit segments.

Dried fruits—such as raisins or dried prunes—also go well with cabbage.

Of course, a crisp wedge of raw cabbage or even a mound of shredded cabbage is superb—served with any one of the zesty bottled salad dressings available, or with your favorite homemade dressings.

Keep in mind that cabbage gives you a lot for a little. It's a good source of Vitamin C, and some of the other essential vitamins and minerals. But it's low in calories.

So while cabbage is in good supply—like right now—serve it often.

The Lesson: Develop Our Own

The lifting of the Arab Oil embargo Tuesday can be helpful to the United States in meeting its shortages of oil products.

We should not forget, though, that the embargo was not lifted without some dissension among Middle Eastern Nations. Nor should we forget that the oil ministers announced their intention to review the decision on June 1. This means that there is still dissatisfaction among the Arab nations concerning the United States' stance on the Arab-Israeli conflict. And as long as that is true there is always the danger that the Middle East oil supplies could be cut off again.

Perhaps the most hopeful thing about the lifting of the oil embargo is the fact that it indicates an improvement in relations between the Arab nations and the United States. There is also a note of approval of the United States' role in negotiating between the Arabs and Israel. Where friendlier relations exist, the likelihood of negotiating a permanent peace settlement in the Middle East increases.

However, lifting of the embargo should not signal an end to our energy conservation programs and our efforts to find new energy sources. It is likely that energy shortages will be with us from now on, and if we become increasingly dependent on Arab oil, only to have it cut off again at some future date, we could be in real trouble.

Middle East oil will soon be coming our way again, but it is well to remember that it is coming at a much higher price than was charged before the embargo was imposed.

The United States should have learned from the embargo that it must develop programs for conservation of energy and it must develop new sources of energy for industry and individuals.

Thirty-Day Extension Not Enough For Some

A number of motorists have been hauled in by police for failing to display 1974 auto license plates.

This was true despite the fact that there was a 30 day extension this year, to March 15, because of the gas shortage.

That should serve as a reminder to those who still don't have their auto tags that they must be displayed to avoid a fine.

Tax Revisions Under Scrutiny

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—Local property taxes are a complex and totally unglamorous area of interest for most members of the General Assembly.

But those taxes are a mess of complex and contradictory laws and procedures, varying from county to county and town to town.

And despite their unpopularity and their complexities, local property taxes make up 70 per cent of the revenue available to local governments across the state, producing upwards of $500 million statewide each year.

Anything that big and that vital ought to make some sense and have some uniformity, Rep. James E. Long, D-Alamance, believes, and he is one of the leaders in a handful of lawmakers who are out to revamp the local property tax system across the state.

Bits And Pieces
The thing started last year when Rep. Robert A. Jones, D-Rutherford, put forth the idea that a lot of people were cheating in not listing their cars for property taxes—some $9 million or more was being lost to local governments. Why couldn't some checkoff system be set up, he wondered.

A House finance body dug into the question. And the more the members dug, the deeper they got into the muck.

Local governments didn't know how to treat mobile homes—as vehicles, real estate or what. People are cheating like mad on listing personal property (junk tax, it's called, and includes things like shotguns and diamond rings); some areas collect dog taxes, some don't; taxes are based on real property valuations which vary widely.

Several bills attacking pieces of the problem were drawn up—and promptly died in committees.

"We finally realized we were nibbling at the bits and pieces and we needed to back off and look at the whole situation of how local governments are financed and how the system should work," Long said.

"So, we are now proposing that a special study group be set up to look at the whole broad area of property taxes. What started as a simple idea has grown into a complex thing which we think can revolutionize the property tax field," Long said.

Thorough Review

The 15-member commission would make a comprehensive study, Long explained, with an eye to seeing that local taxes are in harmony with state policies; designed to provide a sound revenue base for the future; and are being fairly, efficiently and effectively administered.

The commission is expected to outline recommendations on how to handle local taxes on cars, mobile homes, inventories, property tax relief for the poor, disabled and elderly, and a real property revaluation program.

"One thing we want to take a strong look at is some way to computerize revaluation so this can be done every year. That way, the suspense would be taken out of it, and the property owner would not face a major hike every eight years," Long said.

Another area of concern, he said, is the present system which discourages improvement and development, especially in downtown areas. "The owner is penalized if he improves his property—his taxes go up," Long said. Some areas are experimenting with a reverse penalty situation to encourage development and improvements.

Elimination of the junk taxes is a strong likelihood. Long notes that local tax officials "waste a great deal of effort and time on these. They ask you what you have and take your word for it. People are known to fudge, to wear their faded dungarees and muddy brogans down to list taxes—driving a Cadillac."

Several city governments are pushing for authority to levy local income taxes, collecting from people working in the city who commute from other areas.

Long said he doesn't see a move away from property taxes as the foundation for local revenues, despite the fact that this form of taxation was born when property was the only wealth available.

Today, however, there are other forms of wealth, and some major revision is necessary, he believes.

Kremlin May Turn Tougher

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — High-level officials here are beginning to fear that the political convulsion growing out of impeachment proceedings against President Nixon may soon switch Moscow out of its uncharacteristic soft-line policy of detente into a tougher, more aggressive foreign policy.

The single major factor behind this ominous switch away from detente—a policy considered the personal preserve of Communist party chief Leonid Brezhnev—is the decline and possible fall of Richard Nixon.

"Will they go on making agreements with a President who may not be around next year, who has lost his clout with Congress?" a top U. S. official dealing with Soviet affairs asks rhetorically.

A negative answer to that question could destroy Mr. Nixon's plans for large-scale diplomatic accomplishment in the coming months to overshadow and perhaps suffocate impeachment proceedings in Congress. A byproduct of detente's decline could be the cancellation of the President's Western European trip—a strong possibility today. Even the proposed Moscow summit meeting with Brezhnev might be postponed.

Evidence that a major reappraisal of Soviet policy toward the U. S. is now going on behind Kremlin walls is far from positive, but U. S. policymakers see plenty of ominous signs. One is the five-week absence from Washington of the Kremlin's longtime American expert, Ambassador Anatoliy Dobrynin, who is not expected back in the capital at least until after Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's trip to Moscow in late March.

The ambassador ostensibly left here for a vacation, and vacation was the official explanation given to the State Department. But his extended absence persuades many U. S. diplomats that in fact he is reporting something new to the Kremlin: for the first time he is convinced the impeachment of Mr. Nixon is a live possibility, not just exaggerated American political rhetoric.

The Soviet urge to reappraise detente stems primarily from President Nixon's inability to deliver on promises he made in Moscow almost two years ago: trade equality for the Russians and ample financial credits. At the height of power two years ago, Mr. Nixon could assure the Kremlin that he could persuade or compel Congress to deliver on those two pledges. His influence today while fighting impeachment has disappeared.

In addition, the Russians are showing understandable fascination with the American-European break, a new factor not foreseeable when they began drawing the original blueprint for detente. The fact that many European diplomats are totally convinced that a Nixon European trip any time in the near future would be an unmitigated disaster is just one more shocking indication of the low estate of the American Presidency.

The first visible casualty in a post-detente era would probably be the next installment of the strategic arms limitation talks, called SALT II. With Mr. Nixon under attack for detente even from the once soft-line Democratic liberals, soviet military leaders are understood to be warning the Kremlin that any hard agreement on SALT II reached with Mr. Nixon in Moscow this spring might not last six months; a new President might take a far harder line.

Hence, some pessimists in official circles here now raise the question of whether a deadlock on SALT II, plus continued Nixon failure with Congress on the trade-and-credits question, might actually postpone the Moscow summit.

The worst immediate prospect if Moscow decided to mute its five-year detente would be in the Middle East, where Kissinger's spectacular success in negotiating political settlement is boxing in the Soviet Union. A decision to switch out of detente would vastly increase present Soviet pressure on Syria to play much tougher on separation of its forces from Israeli troops on the Golan Heights.

That would be followed by a demand to reconvene the Geneva Middle East conference, now in recess, where Moscow would dramatically underwrite the most extreme Arab demands and insist on immediate Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab lands.

Strength For Today

BEARING BURDENS
Charles and Mary Lamb, brother and sister, were an outstanding literary pair in nineteenth-century England. But a terrible shadow hung over them—the shadow of insanity. Mary often became violent, and when this happened Charles cared for her with the tenderness of a parent toward a child. Actually, in one of these fits of insanity Mary killed her own mother.

After this terrible occurrence, when they went walking in the country Charles always carried a strait-jacket with him. Little did people suspect, as this brother and sister walked along the country lanes carrying on their very intellectual discussions, that the terrible fear of something over which they had no control was ever with them.

Yet Charles and Mary Lamb were different from the other people only in degree. How can we even guess the weight of the burdens carried by people we pass in the street every day? Such awareness ought at least to make it easier for us to carry our own burdens.

Public Forum

To the Editor:

I'm sending the following letter to 78 newspapers in North Carolina. Combined, these papers have a circulation of 922,250 copies. The purpose is to give one of North Carolina's finest leaders credit for his efforts.

Few people have done more for all the citizens of North Carolina than Dr. Leo Jenkins. It can honestly be said, also that few state leaders take the time to see what the real needs of the people are and try to do something about them.

Although the larger newspapers criticize him, the people who know Dr. Jenkins best know him to be a big, friendly man with brilliant ideas on how to improve the quality of life for all of North Carolina.

Bill Friday and William Dees of the Board of Governors at Chapel Hill want to muzzle Dr. Jenkins and destroy his ideas. Funny, though, that they can't even muzzle the naked runners on our college campuses.

They are jealous. For at least 10 times since 1960, Dr. Jenkins has met his opponents of Chapel Hill in Raleigh when the legislature was in session, and he has defeated them every single time. He has turned seemingly sure defeats into victories and, in turn, has changed victories into routs. This was accomplished always because his purpose was right and his course set by unwavering determination.

Time and time again, he has faced the "guns" of Chapel Hill and the larger papers, each and every time he has survived to plant the flag of victory over his political opponents graves.

Dr. Jenkins has a vision for all of North Carolina. He wants better medical care for our citizens. He wants our college students to be exposed to the best possible education. Dr. Jenkins also realizes that we must do more for our average students and must make plans to better their lot.

Yes, there are those who are afraid of new ideas, but Dr. Jenkins, as a brilliant leader and a man of great compassion for his fellow man, will not be halted in his struggle to improve the quality of life for all of North Carolina.

Projections On U.S. Economy

By JOHN CUNNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Prosperity and problems, a questioning of basic economic assumptions and less involvement by the federal government are among the projections being used by a major bank in planning for the year 1985.

Bankers have a tendency to count years before they occur, but usually their most serious projections are confined to the very immediate future. But for its own internal use, the Continental Illinois National Bank went further.

It foresees the Gross National Product, or the total of all goods and produced and services provided, as rising from about $1.3 trillion in 1973 to nearly $2 trillion in 1985 — and that's after discounting for inflation.

Yes, they expect inflation to continue, at a rate averaging close to 3 per cent between now and 1985. Otherwise that GNP figure would come out to something like $2.85 trillion.

Measured in constant dollars, nearly 60 per cent of all families are expected to be earning $10,000 or more in 1985 — the percentage was about that in 1970 — and the median income is foreseen rising to $12,000 from $8,600.

But just as inflation and higher than usual interest rates are likely to persist, the bank's forecasters told its staff, so will it be more difficult in the future to achieve a jobless rate near or below 4 per cent.

The savings rate, which during the past three years topped 8 per cent briefly, is foreseen as averaging around 6 per cent, or only slightly lower than average of the decades of the 1950s and 1960s.

The cult of youth is expected to fade as the birth rate declines to two children per woman, but the percentage in the 25-44 age bracket is projected to rise significantly. And that means more housing — nearly double the 1960s rate.

Women will be in the ascendancy in job markets, income, influence, power. Over the past 20 years female employment grew by about 70 per cent, while male employment rose 20 per cent. That trend is expected to continue.

Continuing another trend, the economy is expected to become even more service- than product-oriented, meaning the majority of jobs will be in trade, transportation, finance, the professions and the like rather than in manufacturing.

Nixon Denies Access

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's words were different, but his message to the House Judiciary Committee was the same: no more White House files until the panel defines an impeachable offense.

During a televised question-and-answer session Tuesday night before the National Association of Broadcasters convention in Houston, the President said:

"It is the Constitution that defines what the House should have access to and the limits of its investigation. Now, I'm suggesting that the House follow the Constitution. If they do, I will."

What prompted that statement was a question in which the President was asked if he weren't seeking to define the limits of the impeachment inquiry by saying what he would and would not give the House committee.

Nixon replied that the Constitution defines grounds for impeachment as "treason, bribery and other high crimes and misdemeanors."

He then seemed to suggest that the House committee should limit its requests to material that would bear on what are found to be "high crimes and misdemeanors."

But a problem is that the House committee and the President disagree on the definition of impeachable offenses.

At a news conference on Feb. 25, the President said, "The Constitution is very precise in defining what is an impeachable offense. . . . A criminal offense on the part of the president is the requirement for impeachment."

The House Judiciary Committee hasn't made any final determination of what it will regard as an impeachable offense.

But a staff memorandum given members of the committee just four days before President Nixon gave his definition said that, "in drawing articles of impeachment, the House has placed little emphasis on criminal conduct. . . ."

"Much more common are allegations that the officer has violated his duties or his oath or seriously undermined public confidence in his ability to perform his official functions."

Members of the House panel didn't necessarily agree with the staff study.

Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., the ranking Republican, said the study "speaks to the committee, it does not speak for the committee."

The President has portrayed the House committee as making broad requests for material in an attempt to find something that would fit an unspecified definition of an impeachable offense.

For example, last Friday before a group of business executives in Chicago, Nixon said some people would have him give the committee "a fishing license" to go through presidential files "in order to find out whether or not there is a possibility that some action had been taken which might be and might result in an impeachable offense."

His message then, repeated Tuesday night, was that to permit such a broad search would irreparably weaken the presidency.

House OKs Govm't Reorganization In Party Vote

By NOEL YANCEY
—Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — The Democratic majority of the House overrode Republican objections Tuesday on legislation to reorganize state government.

With the vote following strict party lines, the House voted 71-34 to amend a reorganization measure to give the state Personnel Board greater authority over state workers and reducing the power of the governor and state department heads. The amendment by Rep. Howard Twigg, D-Wake would authorize the personnel board to "issue binding orders reinstating an employee or employees who have been discharged for discriminatory reasons or without just cause."

A similar provision was contained in a bill passed by the House last year and pigeonholed by a Senate Committee.

The Twigg's amendment also would give the Personnel Board authority to adopt without the governor's approval "policies and rules" on the classification, hiring, firing, or demotion of state workers.

Under present law, state department heads can ignore recommendations of the personnel board for reinstatement of workers it says were fired unjustly.

The Twigg's amendment came as the House passed three state government reorganization measures — and sent them to the Senate.

The other two bills would (1) reorganize the Department of Administration, the Department of Natural and Economic Resources and the Department of Social Rehabilitation and Control and (2) abolish the Department of Commerce.

In other action during a busy legislative day Tuesday, the House Election Laws Committee approved a Senate-passed bill to tighten North Carolina law regulating campaign finances.

The committee action set the stage for a lengthy House debate on the bill. This was indicated as Rep. Ernest Messer, D-Haywood, told the committee he knew of several amendments that would be offered by House members who are not on the committee. He asked the committee members to save their amendments for consideration on the House floor.

The bill abolishing the Department of Commerce would leave the state Utilities Commission, Industrial Commission, Employment Security Commission, Banking Commission, State Alcoholic Beverage Control Board and several others to operate as independent state agencies.

Under an amendment approved last week, the state ABC Board would be expanded from three to six members, with the governor naming three, including the chairman, one by the House speaker and two by the lieutenant governor.

The House killed by tabling on motion of Rep. David Bumgardner, D-Gaston, an amendment by Rep. David Jordan, R-Mecklenburg, to eliminate the provision abolishing the Department of Commerce.

"The Department of Commerce never should have been created, said Rep. Sneed High, D-Cumberland, as he spoke against the Jordan amendment.

Rep. William Hiatt, R-Surry, said the change increasing the membership of the ABC Board had made the measure "a partisan bill" which would give the Democrats "control of the ABC Board."

The Senate Judiciary 2 Committee, meanwhile, approved a House-passed bill which would add the crime of extortion to North Carolina law.

The action came after Rep. H. M. Michaux, D-Durham, sponsor of the measure, told the committee there had been cases in Durham and other cities involving threats to extort money. The offense would be a felony punishable by up to 10 years in prison, a $1,000 fine, or both, in the discretion of the court.

A bill by Sen. Charles B. Deane Jr., D-Richmond, to spell out which state officials could be impeached also won the committee's approval.

The Deane bill would make impeachment proceedings applicable to the governor, members of the council of state, justices of the state Supreme Court and to judges. They would be liable to impeachment for commission of any felony, any misdemeanor involving moral turpitude, malfeasance in office or for willful neglect of duty.

Coastal Zoning Bill Staggered

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Environmentalists in the North Carolina Senate fear that the momentum may have turned against the proposed coastal zoning bill.

The beleaguered land use proposal suffered another setback in the state Senate Tuesday.

Final consideration of the bill was postponed for a week, ostensibly so that copies of the latest amendments could be circulated among local government officials in the coastal area.

But sponsors of the bill made no secret of their disappointment at the overwhelming voice vote by which the bill was postponed.

"People are obviously getting tired of it," said Sen. Hamilton Horton, R-Forsyth. "There are a number of senators who voted for it last week but who really aren't committed to it, and they may be amenable to postponing it to death."

Other senators were more optimistic. Sen. Gordon Allen, D-Person, said he saw no reason why the 37-10 vote for tentative approval last week should not be repeated when final action is taken.

Its postponement probably means that no action will be taken on a companion bill to regulate land use in the mountain region this year.

The mountain bill is being held back until the coastal bill is disposed of. With the week's postponement on the coastal bill, and House action still to come, there will probably not be enough time to act on the mountain bill before the legislature's scheduled mid-April adjournment.

Disappointed 2 Accused Killers Barred From TV

By WILLIAM HELTON
Associated Press Writer
MARTINEZ, Calif. (AP) — Randolph A. Hearst says he's disappointed that two accused murderers have been denied permission to read for television a statement they claim could help free his kidnaped daughter.

Contra Costa County Superior Court Judge Sam Hall ruled Tuesday that a television appearance by alleged Symbionese Liberation Army "soldiers" Joseph Remiro and Russell Little could hurt their chances for a fair trial.

After learning of the ruling, Hearst said, "I don't see how any statement that might possibly bring about the release of our daughter could keep the defendants from getting a fair trial."

The SLA, which claims it kidnaped 20-year-old Patricia Hearst Feb. 4, has threatened to break off all communication with her family unless Little, 24, and Remiro, 27, appear on national television.

Hearst, president and editor of the San Francisco Examiner, promised further comment today on Judge Hall's ruling.

In turning down the request, Hall said, "If I agreed to this motion I would create an atmosphere that would result in the possibility of these men not receiving a fair trial in any part of this state and possibly the nation."

In nearby Oakland, where Little and Remiro are charged with the Nov. 6 cyanide-bullet assassination of Oakland Schools Supt. Marcus Foster, Municipal Court Judge Stafford Buckley is scheduled to rule today on the television proposal.

It was unclear what the effect of a positive ruling by Buckley would be since the consent of both judges is required because Little and Remiro face charges in both Contra Costa and Alameda counties.

Defense attorneys had said either Little or Remiro wanted to make a 5-to-10-minute statement before a lone cameraman and reporter in a courtroom with no questions permitted.

Meanwhile, organizers of Hearst's $2 million People In Need food giveaway promised a new progress report on efforts to revamp the program to meet SLA demands that high quality food be given to California's needy as a prerequisite to negotiations for Miss Hearst's release.

Sales-Use Tax Revenues Rose

Net sales and use tax collections in Pitt County during 1973 totaled $5,188,146, according to J. Howard Coble, secretary of the State Department of Revenue.

Coble reported that the February of 1973 through January of 1974 figure represented an increase of $684,453 from the $503,693 recorded for the same period during 1972. He said that the increase amounted to 15.20 per cent.

Net collections in Martin County for the recent February through January period were $1,547,445 or 18.15 per cent above the $1,309,696 reported in the February, 1972 through January of 1973 period. A 16.41 per cent increase was recorded in Greene County last year as collections totaled $304,321, compared with $261,428 for the year earlier period.

Beaufort County had an increase of 21.19 per cent on recent collections of $2,628,414, compared with $2,168,813 in 1972.

State Offering $3,000 Reward

RALEIGH (AP) — The state has offered a $3,000 reward for information leading to conviction in the slaying of a Roxboro convenience store operator.

The operator, Aubrey Long Rudder, was found in the store with four bullet wounds last Dec. 29.

The office of Gov. Jim Holshouser announced the reward Tuesday. It said sources of information furnished to Pearson County Sheriff W. L. Graves or to the State Bureau of Investigation would be kept confidential.

Bungled His Kidnap Plot

DECATUR, Ill. (AP) — A gunman forced himself into a Decatur residence in an apparent kidnap attempt, only to find out he had the wrong victim, police have disclosed.

Police and FBI agents said Tuesday they were looking for a man who appeared Monday at the home of John H. Burns, a Decatur businessman. They said the man, who identified himself as a pottery salesman, produced a gun when Mrs. Burns appeared at the door and forced his way into the home. Burns was at work at the time.

The man thought he was in the home of Charles Huthmacher, an attorney and trust officer at Citizens National Bank of Decatur, police said.

The Burnses recently moved into a home formerly occupied by the Huthmachers.

The intruder phoned Huthmacher at the bank and told him he was holding Huthmacher's wife and would kill her unless Huthmacher paid him $35,000, police said.

Huthmacher contacted police and together they went to the Huthmacher home, where they found that everything was all right.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Burns convinced the gunman that she was the wrong woman.

The man tried to tie up Mrs. Burns, but could not find enough rope, police said. He forced her into a closet, but it would not lock. He propped a chair against the door and fled after taking $22 from Mrs. Burns.

Mrs. Burns phoned her husband, who called police. The FBI joined the investigation because the demand for ransom involved an officer of a bank.

Scramble For New Oil Lands

By ROD DAVIS
Associated Press Writer

DALLAS (AP)—Booming oil demands and profits and Arab-induced urgency have triggered a scramble to lead land that might yield new oil and gas supplies.

Land brokers for several major oil firms say they are working overtime trying to lease federal and private land with possibilities for oil and gas. Prices of leases have doubled in some areas and competition for prime spots is fierce.

The land rush is greater now than in several years, says Bill Albright, president of the American Association of Petroleum Landmen.

Causes for the scramble have many roots but higher prices for oil and refined products are the biggest reason, industry spokesmen say.

Oil from wells producing in 1972 brings $5.25 a barrel under federal controls. Newly found oil sells for $10 or more a barrel. The price a year ago was about $3.50 for any oil, "old" or "new."

"It's hope for the future, Albright said. "Without the leases, you don't have a whole lot of hope. What you have now is gradually being depleted."

He said leases are to the oilman what "beans on the shelf" are to the grocer.

Total domestic crude oil production is currently running at about 9.2 million barrels a day, down by about 200,000 barrels from the same time last year, industry figures show. The United States needs about 19 million barrels a day to meet its needs, federal energy officials estimate. The gap is filled with imported oil, now in short supply.

The scramble for new sources of domestic oil has so far not produced enough oil to boost domestic production figures. Meanwhile, the old wells, many of them 30 or 40 years old, aren't producing as much as they once did, industry spokesman say.

Bus Disabled By Rock Slide

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—The North Carolina Highway Patrol reported that a rain-caused rock slide disabled a Trailways bus on Interstate 40 just over the state line near Waterville, Tenn., early today.

Another bus and a wrecker were dispatched from Knoxville, Tenn.

The original bus left Asheville at 3:50 a.m. en route to Knoxville. The patrol said the rocks damaged the steering mechanism and the gasoline tank.

Florida has 40 wildlife management areas with five million acres of public hunting land.

UPI Strike Goes Into Its Third Day

NEW YORK (AP) — A nationwide strike against United Press International by about two-thirds of its editorial employees entered its third day today.

Negotiations under the auspices of a federal mediator were held Tuesday and a third session was scheduled for this afternoon.

A news embargo on the substance of the negotiations was agreed upon by both sides, according to a spokesman for the Wire Service Guild, which represents the striking newsmen and photographers.

The guild was demanding a 10 per cent across the board wage increase each year of a two year contract when negotiations broke off early Monday morning. Management's last offer was $317 a week for the first year and $335 weekly the second year for experienced employees.

Top minimum pay under the old contract for experienced newsmen and photographers was $300 a week.

Other union demands include a 37½ hour work week for all employees, minimum weekly and daily car allowances, an agency shop that would require nonunion members to pay union dues, and increased company contributions to pension and medical insurance.

Union spokesmen reported the strike was "95 per cent effective" and reported that teletype operators, members of a separate union, had honored picket lines at some of the news service's 110 bureaus.

But management has stated that there are enough supervisory and other nonunion employees, in addition to nonstriking guild members, to keep news, photo and broadcast operations going indefinitely.

Motel Industry Nervous Over Vacation Prospects

By BILLIE BROWN
Associated Press Writer

The motel: Its squat silhouette against the level super-highway skyline, promising clean sheets, color television and room service within, has become an American institution.

And a $61-billion-a-year industry.

But that could change this year as middle-income Americans who once packed the kids into the stationwagon and took off for two carefree weeks at the seashore or the mountains ponder:

"Will we be able to get enough gasoline to get there and back?"

Business already is off 10 to 15 per cent or more, motel owners estimate, and they await the vacation season with fear and trembling.

"We're praying," says Al Rose, manager of the Tremont Inn, Columbia, S.C., and president of the South Carolina Innkeepers Association.

Rose believes middle-income families in the Northeast, where fuel shortages are most critical and where Florida vacations are traditional, will be hardest hit.

"Those who are affluent enough can fly or take the train, or can wait until Monday when the gas stations open," he says. "The working family from the Northeast can't. "And there's not much you can do to entice travelers. They've got to get gas to get in and out, and where are they going to get it?"

Nevertheless, most chains are trying enticement to perk up business.

Holiday Inn and Howard Johnson's have announced special rate reductions for families on weekends.

Holiday Inns has also launched a computerized service to advise travelers about the availability of gasoline and an advertising campaign that pushes the close-to-home vacation.

Days Inns of America has its own service station at every motel.

"We went out and bought foreign crude," says Days Inn president Dave Kenney. "It's expensive, but there's plenty of it if you can afford to buy it."

He said a recently instituted service allowing clients calling to reserve a room to reserve gasoline at the same time has been discontinued, however.

"We were getting 24,000 more calls a day than the system could handle," Kenney said. "But we found that people really just wanted assurance that the gas was there. So now we just tell them there's plenty to go around."

"We tell them, 'If you can get it cheaper across the street. But we've got it if you need it.' We're not in business to make money on the gasoline, we're in business to rent rooms."

Gasoline shortages have been most critical for the inns located off an expressway in the middle of nowhere, motelmen say. City inns have suffered less.

And Stuckey's, a highway chain that sells gas, candy and gifts, says it's getting more business from residents of nearby towns who drive out on the expressway in the hope of finding fuel.

Airline travel hasn't slowed down much, but it's a negligible percentage of the motel trade except in resort cities like Miami and Orlando, where business is reported about as good as ever.

Lifting of the Arab oil embargo is expected to ease things somewhat, but innkeepers aren't sure there will be enough.

"We feel there's a very definite pent-up urge to travel," says James W. Spradley, president of Stuckey's. "But right now, we're taking a wait-and-see attitude about the embargo."

"We hope it will encourage people to get on the road again," says Kenney of Days Inn.

But he adds, "All the chains are tightening up. We're not building nearly as many inns as we did last year—or as many as we would have this year if it hadn't been for the energy crisis."

Name Source Of Mixups

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — George and Jan Jarvie are your typical couple. He's husky, 6-foot-4, 230, a professional boat builder. She's slim, a housewife, working girl.

She's George. He's Jan.

In the five years they have been married, the confusion has been endless. Jan Jarvie still refuses to call his wife by her given name, which actually is spelled Jorj.

"He'll call me frog, hey you, bear, anything but George," she says.

A native of San Diego, Jarvie was named for Finnish ancestors. His wife was born in Phoenix, Ariz., and believes jokingly that her name was "made up by a very odd mother, who couldn't think of anything."

School was a nightmare of mixups. Everytime Jorj was asked her name, it was written down as George...and boys' gym was one of her required courses.

San Marcos, Calif., authorities insisted she take that course, and Jorj recalls:

"I kept telling them, 'but wait, wait.' Actually, I thought it was okay but the freshmen boys were terrified."

"To this day, we fight to get Jan listed as the husband on applications and me as the wife. The nieces and nephews have a terrible time with Uncle Jan and Aunt George, but they're finally getting it."

If they have children, the Jarvies see no problem with names — "just something simple, like Bill for a boy or Mary for a girl."

Baha'is To Celebrate

The Baha'is of Greenville will join members of the Baha'i community throughout the world in celebrating Naw-Ruz, the Baha'i New Year.

A potluck dinner will be held at the recreation center of Oakmont Square Apartments, Redbanks Road, at 7 p.m. Thursday. Following the dinner, a film will be shown at 9 p.m. entitled "And His Name Shall Be One," which explains the history and teachings of the Baha'i faith.

Prior to Naw-Ruz, Baha'is the world over observe a 19-day period of fasting from sunrise to sunset to refresh their spiritual lives. They celebrate the new year the advent of spring.

According to Ms. Kim Kerby, correspondent of the Greenville Baha'i, the faith originated in Iran in 1844. The Baha'i calendar is based on the solar year and consists of 19 months, each with 19 days.

Greenville Bus Station Services Still Curtailed

QUIET SCENE. . . Roy Minton, assistant manager of the Greenville bus station, surveys the almost empty lobby of the station on a Friday afternoon. Normally crowded with students going home for the weekend, on Fridays the local bus station has felt the grip of the drivers strike now in its fourth month at Carolina Trailways. (Reflector Photo by Carl Tyer)

By CARL L. TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Roy Minton has been working at the same job for the past six years, at least eight hours daily. For the past three months, he has only worked four hours a day at that job, but it's not because he doesn't want to work.

Roy deals in transportation; he along with his father, runs the Carolina Trailways Bus Station in Greenville.

His problem is he doesn't have very many buses arriving at his terminal to put people on.

Carolina Trailways has been under the grip of a drivers strike since December 9, and the strike is taking a toll on Roy Minton and his dad's business.

"Business is off 80 per cent," Roy states.

The Mintons have four buses arriving daily, those coming from New Bern and Norlina, operated by the Seashore Transportation Co. of New Bern.

Passengers wishing to travel north or south can make connections from New Bern or Norlina rather easily, but those going west face different circumstances.

It is possible to go west, but it will take awhile to get there.

If the phone rings once it must ring a hundred times a day at the bus station, and for the hundredth time that day Roy Minton tells the caller that he has four buses arriving daily and no more.

"The next bus to Charlotte leaves at 7 p.m.," he says, "but you'll have to wait in Raleigh until 8 tomorrow morning to catch a bus to Charlotte. If you leave in the morning at 8 you can get to Charlotte around 7:20 tomorrow night," he continues.

That is an 11½ hour trip that normally takes five hours by car.

The problem is westward travelers must make connections with Greyhound in Norlina and Raleigh and other points along the way in order to travel west now that the major westward carrier, Carolina Trailways, is on strike.

The striking drivers are asking for more money. Drivers are paid a salary plus so much per mile they drive.

This disputed amount, along with the company policy toward chartered service drivers has been the cause of the now 90-plus day-old-strike. No end is seen in sight.

While the drivers sit idle, the lack of bus service is taking its toll on Roy Minton and his father's income.

"We're not shutting down," Roy states, "we can't afford to now."

The Mintons have made arrangements with the people they deal with in order to keep the bus station open while the strike continues.

They pay the rent on the building along with utility bills, while Carolina Trailways takes care of building maintenance.

The Minton's income comes from commissions from ticket sales.

While normally they have 60 passengers leaving their station daily, now their traffic has been reduced to an average of 25 daily.

"On a normal Friday we may have 50 to 100 students going home on the weekend to Raleigh, Greensboro and Charlotte," Roy states. Last Friday afternoon at 3:30, two passengers waited.

At first, service to Raleigh wasn't available, when the students wanted it, but Seashore extended their service to allow students to catch a Greyhound to Raleigh from Norlina in the afternoons, putting them in Raleigh around 11:30 at night.

"A lot of students don't know this," Roy says, "they call and ask if the bus strike is still on and hang up before I can say, 'yes, but.'"

Getting to local points isn't possible. Passengers that use to take the bus to work have had to find other means of travel.

Traveling to larger surrounding towns requires unusual lengths of time. Three hours to Wilson, Two to Kinston and one hour to Rocky Mount.

Freight service has slowed down also. Most businesses rely heavily on the normal fast bus freight service. Now these concerns have had to switch to United Parcel Service, which requires usually one extra day to receive a package.

A spokesman for the E. F. Craven Co. states, "It was rough the first couple of weeks, but we've adapted to it by using UPS and parcel post."

An employee of Auto

Speciality, an auto parts house, stated they had increased their use of UPS to 80 per cent since the bus strike, but would return their normal business to the bus lines when service resumes.

The biggest problem caused by the strike has been levied on people relying on public transportation, says Roy Minton.

Meanwhile Roy Minton works four hours a day and answers the phone for the one hundred and first time.

Most Of Kronholm Ransom Recovered

WASHINGTON (AP) — An estimated $190,000 of the $200,000 ransom a Minnesota bank president paid for his kidnaped wife has been recovered, FBI Director Clarence M. Kelley announced today.

Kelley said the ransom money was recovered in a garage of a vacant house in Burnsville, Minn. where Eunice Kronholm allegedly had been held by her abductors.

"FBI agents are currently processing and conducting a detailed accounting of the ransom money and the exact amount recovered will not be known for some time," Kelley said.

Gunnar Kronholm paid the ransom Monday for the release of his 46-year-old wife, who apparently was kidnaped near her Lino Lakes home early last Friday. The FBI said she "got away" from her captors several hours after the ransom was paid.

The FBI arrested James Wayne Johnson, 35, a housing contractor from Lakeville, Minn., Monday afternoon in connection with the kidnaping.

How N.C. Senators And Congressmen Cast Votes

By ROLL CALL REPORT

WASHINGTON—Here's how area Members of Congress were recorded on major roll call votes March 7 through March 13.

SCHOOL AID Passed, 234 for and 163 against, a rule for considering the Fiscal 1975 school aid bill (H. R. 69).

Under House procedures most contested bills must receive rules before being considered by the full membership. Rules can stipulate the length of debate, the types of amendments to be offered and other restrictions. The rule adopted for the school bill forbade any floor amendments to Title I of the bill which were not published three legislative days in advance of floor debate.

Title I proposes a formula for disbursing FY 1975 money to schools that have large populations of poor students. The federal aid is tied to the amount of state support for poverty schools.

The formulas sets minimum and maximum levels of federal aid, so that no state would receive less than 80 per cent or more than 120 per cent of the national average of aid disbursements in FY 1974.

Supporters argued that the formula assures a reasonably equitable distribution of funds. Rep. Richard Bolling (D-Mo.) said that warning on floor amendments would "prevent Members from being blindsided" by complicated substitute formulas.

Some of those voting against were opposed to the bill's categorical grant approach. Rep. Earl Landgrebe (R-Ind.) wanted "a completely open rule" to permit full consideration of "the serious business of children and their education." Some members opposed the disbursement formula because it portends aid cutbacks for certain states.

Reps. Walter Jones (D-1), L. H. Fountain (D-2), David Henderson (D-3), Ike Andrews (D-4), Richardson Preyer (D-6), Charles Rose (D-7), James Brodyhill (R-10) and Roy Taylor (D-11) voted "yea."

Reps. Earl Ruth (R-8) and James Martin (R-9) voted "nay."

Rep. Wilmer Mizell (R-5) did not vote.

DEATH FOR HIJACKERS Rejected, 121 for and 286 against, an amendment to eliminate the death penalty provisions of the anti-hijacking bill (HR 3856). The amendment called for a minimum of 20 years and a maximum of life in prison for hijackers.

In rejecting the amendment, the House voted to mandate execution of hijackers only if a death occurs as a result of the hijack.

The overall bill was later passed and sent to conference. It also authorizes the President to negotiate international anti-hijacking pacts.

Those voting for argued that the death penalty is inhumane and does not deter criminals. Rep. David Dennis (R-Ind.) argued that it "debases society" and most often affects the poor because they can not afford "good enough lawyers to beat the death penalty."

Those voting against argued that the death penalty is worth having if it deters one hijacking and saves one life. Some members pointed out that the bill permits authorities to bargain with hijackers for release of hostages in exchange for immunity from the death penalty.

Preyer voted "yea." Jones, Fountain, Henderson, Andrews, Mizell, Rose, Ruth, Martin, Boyhill and Taylor voted "nay."

OIL PRICES Rejected, 163 for and 216 against, a federal energy administration bill (HR 11793) amendment to roll back the price of crude oil from producers of more than 30,000 barrels of oil a day.

The rejected amendment was identical to one approved earlier by the House and similar to a proposed rollback in the price of all crude oil which was attached to the vetoed energy emergency bill.

In rejecting the amendment, the House voted to kill the rollback.

The House later passed the overall bill and sent it to conference.

Supporters argued that the amendment represented a compromise in the battle over rollbacks. Some members argued that the Congress should stand up to the President and force a rollback of oil prices.

Most opponents argued that rolling back prices will shrink the supply of oil products. Other members opposed the rollback because, according to Rep. Tim Lee Carter (R-Ky.), exempting producers of less than 30,000 barrels a day opens a loophole "big enough to throw the entire Capitol" through.

Jones voted "yea." Fountain, Andrews, Mizell, Preyer, Rose, Ruth, Martin, Boyhill, and Taylor voted "nay."

Henderson did not vote.

SENATE DEATH PENALTY Passed, 54 for and 33 against, a bill to restore capital punishment for certain federal crimes (S. 1401). The bill now goes to the House.

The Senate voted to make two general categories of crime punishable by death: (1) second-time commission of treason and espionage, and (2) murder committed in the course of a long list of other crimes, such as skyjacking, kidnapping, political terrorism or assassination.

The penalty would be mandatory in the absence of certain "mitigating circumstances" such as a defendant being under 18 years.

The bill is an attempt to satisfy a Supreme Court decision that declared in part, that the death penalty was unconstitutional because it had been unevenly applied.

In supporting the bill, Sen. John McClellan (D-Ark.) argued that persons who commit "atrocious crimes... should forfeit their right to live."

In opposing the bill, Sen. Harold Hughes (D-Iowa) said that executing a person "is the most repulsive thing I can think of" and that "a vote for this bill will be a vote for death."

Sens. Sam Ervin (D) and Jesse Helms (R) voted "yea." DEATH PENALTY Passed, 49 for and 43 against, an amendment to tighten the rules governing the imposition of a death sentence. The effect of the amendment was to give persons a better chance of escaping the death penalty.

The amendment loosened the interpretation of a "mitigating circumstance," such as a defendant's mental incompetency, and tighten the rules of evidence that determine if the death sentence can be imposed.

Supporters argued that because a person once executed can not be reborn, any bill to restore the death penalty should contain as many safeguards as possible against killing the wrong person.

Opponents argued that the amendment would overturn the accepted rules of evidence that apply in sentencing hearings, thus undermining the overall bill. They said that sufficient safeguards—such as appeals—exist to prevent executing an innocent defendant.

Ervin and Helms voted "nay." GUN CONTROL Tabled, 68 for and 21 against, an amendment to control the sale and ownership of handguns, particularly the cheap handguns known as "Saturday night specials."

The amendment was offered to the capital punishment bill (above). In voting to table the amendment, the Senate in effect killed it.

The amendment would have banned the sale of cheap handguns, and required the licensing of all owners of other handguns and the registering of all legal handguns.

Supporters of the move to table argued against attaching such a non-germane amendment to the capital punishment bill. Some senators said that restrictions on the right to bear arms are unconstitutional. Other senators said that handgun registration has not deterred violent crimes in New York City, and that such laws are unenforceable.

Opponents argued that if the senators who favored the death penalty were serious about ending violent crimes they would buck the gun lobby and vote to control handguns.

Ervin and Helms voted "yea." DAYLIGHT SAVINGS TIME Tabled, 48 for and 43 against, an amendment to repeal the Daylight Savings Time Act as of Oct. 1. The amendment was offered to the minimum wage bill (S. 2747).

The vote in effect killed a move to prevent daylight savings time next winter.

Supporters of the motion to table argued that the amendment was non-germane and would not survive conference with the House, which has rules against non-germane amendments. Most senators voting to table did not want to jeopardize the passage of the minimum wage bill.

Opponents argued that winter daylight savings time has not saved any energy, as was promised when it was passed last December, and therefore should be repealed.

Ervin and Helms voted "nay."

A KISS FOR MOMMY—Fred Linke IV celebrated his fourth birthday this week with a kiss for his mother, Mrs. Fred Linke III. The little boy has won a battle for life against a disease doctors said is almost unheard of in children, Grillian-Barre Syndrome, known as French polio. Still in a Jacksonville, Fla. hospital, Fred has some paralysis but doctors expect it to disappear. (AP Wirephoto)

Symposium On History Of Tobacco March 27

A unique symposium on the history of tobacco and its impact upon North Carolina towns and town life will bring academicians and tobaccoists together on the East Carolina University campus March 27. Students of the history of tobacco and a cross-section of Carolina and Virginia growers, warehousemen, processors, manufacturers company personnel, buyers, and other interested persons will pool their knowledge of tobacco in an effort to determine the many aspects of its impact upon towns and the lives of urban residents in North Carolina.

Dr. John Ellen, director of ECU's Institute for Historical Research in Tobacco, said the conference is "A memorable moment in the effort to tell the story of this great crop and of the people who have made it a factor in North Carolina's history through the growth of marketing towns and the development of tobacco manufacturing centers."

The program, he pointed out, would range over the story of tobacco from the colonial period to the most recent times and would embrace accounts of great captains of the tobacco industry as well as many average North Carolinians.

Speakers will describe the part tobacco has played in the history of such North Carolina towns and cities as Milton, Winston-Salem, and Durham as well as other tobacco centers based upon marketing and or manufacturing or both.

Visiting authorities in the field of tobacco history slated to appear on the program include: Dr. Nannie May Tilley, East Texas State University; Dr. G. Melvin Herndon, University of Georgia; Dr. Robert F. Durden, Duke University;

Dr. Durward T. Stokes, Elon College; and Prof. William S. Humphries, N. C. State University.

Prof. Humphries, a former farm editor of the Raleigh News and Observer, will be the luncheon speaker.

The symposium is presented by the ECU Institute for Historical Research in Tobacco and the ECU Division of Continuing Education.

Morgan State Leads AP Poll

By GORDON BEARD
AP Sports Writer

BALTIMORE (AP) — Coach Nat Frazier of Morgan State will beat the bushes a little later this year in search of basketball talent, but he figures the delay will prove profitable.

Now when he goes recruiting, Frazier has a couple of new selling points to offer prospects.

The Bears last week won the National Collegiate Athletic Association's College Division tournament, and Tuesday they were voted the nation's No. 1 small college team in the final Associated Press poll.

Frazier was told of the balloting in New York, where he went to watch intrastate rival Maryland-Eastern Shore play Jacksonville in the quarter-finals of the National Invitation Tournament Tuesday night.

"Now if they can win the NIT, it would really be something," Frazier said in a telephone interview from the hotel room of John Bates, coach of Maryland-Eastern Shore. "It's too bad that Lefty lost."

He referred to Lefty Driesell, coach of the University of Maryland's fourth-ranked major college team, which dropped a 103-100 overtime decision to No. 1 North Carolina State in the Atlantic Coast Conference title game and failed to reach the NCAA playoffs.

Maryland-Eastern Shore, a predominantly black branch of the university, finished first in the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics poll, and lost only to Morgan State prior to being invited to the NIT.

Morgan State, led by 7-foot Marvin "The Human Eraser" Webster, posted a 28-5 record this season. The Bears dropped two 15-point decisions to UMES, one in the Mid-Eastern Athletic Conference championship game.

In the final AP poll, Morgan received 23 first-place votes and finished with 636 points to easily outdistance runnerup West Georgia, the NAIA champion with a 29-4 record, which had eight first-place votes and 496 points.

Kentucky State, 28-5, won four of its five games last week and retained third place while Alcorn State — formerly Alcorn A&M — with a 29-6 log, jumped to fourth.

Fairmont State, 28-3 and last week's leader, slipped to fifth after splitting two games. Fairmont State and sixth-ranked Tennessee-Chattanooga, 21-5, were the only other schools to receive first-place votes.

Gardner-Webb, 25-3, slipped three notches to seventh after losing to West Georgia. South-west Missouri, 21-9, Tennessee State, 22-6, and St. Mary's, Tex., 24-9, rounded out the Top Ten.

Assumption, 22-7, held No. 11, followed by Augustana, Kentucky Wesleyan, Old Dominion and New Orleans.

The Top Fifteen, with first-place votes in parentheses, final season records and total points. Points tabulated on basis of 20-18-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1:

Independents Name All-Stars

ATLANTA (AP) — The Southern Independent Collegiate Sports Information Association has named its first annual All-South Independent Basketball Team.

South Carolina placed Brian Winters and Alex English while Jacksonville placed Leon Benbow and Butch Taylor on the 10-man first team selected by newsmen.

Nineteen independent teams in Division I of the National Collegiate Athletic Association nominated players to be picked in balloting conducted by the SIOSIA.

Voters were told to choose the top 10 players without regard to position, but a balanced team was selected consisting of four guards, three forwards and three centers.

Also selected were Robert Earl Blue of the University of North Carolina at Charlotte, Jesse Dark of Virginia Commonwealth, Phil Hicks of Tulane, Eugene Oliver of South Alabama, Robert Parish of Centenary, and Dexter Reed of Memphis State.

At 6-foot-3, Reed was the shortest player chosen and also the only freshman.

The tallest was Centenary's Parish, who stands 7-foot-1 and averaged 21.5 points per game. The Shreveport, La., native was also one of three sophomores selected.

Benbow, a 6-foot-4 guard from Columbia, S.C., led his team in scoring with an average of more than 20 points per game. He was also praised for defensive play at Jacksonville.

The 6-foot-7 Blue, of Concord, N.C., led UNCC in scoring for three years and was the top rebounder for two seasons.

Dark averaged 23.1 points for Virginia Commonwealth, hitting more than half his shots from the floor. He is a 6-foot-4 guard from Richmond, Va.

English also hit more than 50 per cent while starting every game his freshman and sophomore years for South Carolina. He is a 6-foot-8 forward from Columbia, S.C.

Hicks, a 6-foot-9 native of Chicago, scored 20 points per game in leading Tulane in every major statistical category.

Oliver scored 46 points in one game for South Alabama and set a record for assists during one season. He is a 6-foot-4 forward from Washington, D.C.

Taylor dominated the backboards for Jacksonville, pulling down 27 in one game. He is 6-foot-10 and from Greenville, S.C.

Winters, a 6-foot-5 guard from Rockaway Park, N.Y., was held under double figures only twice all season. He is the only senior on the South Carolina squad.

Receiving honorable mention in the balloting were Walter At- rice and Jackie Poag of Georgia State, Leon Johnson of Centenary, Larry Warren of Florida State, Jim Wood of Georgia Tech, Bill Cook of Memphis State, Leonard Hardin and Billy Smith of Mercer, Mike Rose of Northeast Louisiana, Randy Morgan and Al Walter of Samford, Mike Dunleavy of South Carolina.

Also, Jack James and Arthur Jones of South Florida, Ronnie Malone of Southern Mississippi, John Haslem and Fred Ross of Stenton, Bernard Harris of Virginia Commonwealth, Jon Heath and George Jackson of UNCC, and Craig Lieder and Charlie Thomas of Virginia Tech.

Mayes Named As Top Player

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP)— Clyde Mayes, Furman University's husky basketball ace, has been voted South Carolina Player of the Year by the South Carolina Sportswriters and Broadcasters Association.

A close second was Brian Winters, star guard for nationally-ranked South Carolina.

Mayes, 6-9, 225-pounder who played his high school basketball at Greenville's Wade Hampton High, led Furman to a 22-9 record, the Southern Conference regular season and tournament crowns, and into the Eastern regional of the National Collegiate Athletic Association.

One of Mayes' best games was in Furman's 75-67 upset of South Carolina in the regionals. He had 21 points, 16 rebounds, five blocked shots, and three steals.

For the season, the junior averaged 17.3 points and 13 rebounds a game. He shot from the field at a 54.7 per cent clip.

"Clyde certainly deserves any honor which comes his way," Coach Joe Williams of Furman said. "His team attitude should serve as an example to every young player. We would never have enjoyed the success we did without him this year."

TRADED—The Detroit Tigers sent pitcher Jim Perry, third from left, to the Cleveland Indians Tuesday in a trade also involving the New York Yankees. # Gaylord Perry Extends Welcome To Brother As He Joins Tribe

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Gaylord Perry is happy to have brother Jim Perry aboard as a fellow member of the Cleveland pitching staff, but he has no intention of relinquishing his status as the Indians' top gun.

"Brother or no brother, Jim will have to fight me for No. 1," Gaylord said after the Indians acquired Jim from the Detroit Tigers Tuesday in a three-way deal that also involved the New York Yankees. The Tigers sent Jim Perry to Cleveland and pitcher Ed Farmer to New York. The Indians shipped outfielder Walt Williams and rookie pitcher Rich Sawyer to New York while the Yankees dealt catcher Jerry Moses to Detroit.

In other spring training swaps, the Chicago Cubs traded catcher Ken Rudolph to the San Francisco Giants for rookie pitcher Willie Prall and the Cincinnati Reds purchased first baseman-outfielder Terry Crowley from the Texas Rangers.

The three-way trade put the Perry brothers — both former Cy Young Award winners — on the same team for the first time since Jim, 37, was a junior and Gaylord, 35, was a freshman in high school at Williamston, N.C.

Meanwhile, Dave Duncan, who will be catching the Perry boys, celebrated by driving in four runs with a homer and double in the Indians' 8-6 exhibition victory over the Oakland A's. Cleveland pounded Rollie Fingers for six runs in the sixth inning and two in the seventh, offsetting Oakland homers by Vic Davallo, Pat Bourque and Bert Campaneris.

Elsewhere on the exhibition trail, two-run homers by Richie Zisk and Willie Stargell powered the Pittsburgh Pirates past the Montreal Expos 4-1. In a rematch of last fall's National League playoff rivals, the New York Mets trounced the Cincinnati Reds 7-1 as rookie Bennie Ayala drove in three runs and Ted Martinez hit a two-run homer.

The New York Yankees pounded Luke Walker for three runs in the sixth inning and two in the ninth and beat their former manager Ralph Houk and his Detroit Tigers 6-2. The Minnesota Twins lost for the 12th time in 13 spring games, bow-

Thompson Feels Okay In Drills

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — "I felt okay. It was just like any other day."

That's how 6-foot-4 David Thompson, North Carolina State's All American, summed up his first basketball practice since taking a nasty fall during last Saturday's NCAA Eastern Regional championship game here.

Thompson suffered a mild concussion and a head laceration which required 15 stitches after falling early in the game against Pittsburg. He was knocked unconscious by the fall and hospitalized for a short time. However, he returned to the N.C. State bench in time to see his teammates win the game.

About 800 fans of the No. 1-ranked Wolfpack team turned out for Tuesday's 30-minute practice session, the first in preparation for Saturday's championship semifinal game at Greensboro, N.C., against UCLA.

The crowd applauded lightly as other players came out onto the floor, but cheered loudly when Thompson emerged. He wore a small white bandage on his head to cover the cut.

Thompson began the practice slowly, shooting in push shots without leaving the floor. The crowd murmured. And the crowd murmured again when Thompson banked in his first shots during a drill in which the Wolfpack players dunk the ball through the hoop.

On his third try, however, the sensational junior forward did his thing — moving in quickly, leaping high and ramming the basketball into the net. A huge cheer erupted from the spectators, and that was followed by sustained applause.

Physicians pronounced Thompson ready to play after he spent last Saturday night under observation in a hospital. N.C. State Coach Norman Sloan said Tuesday's practice session was just about what he had expected.

"In case anybody is wondering, though, the way a player practices is not necessarily the way he'll play in a game," Sloan said. "But knowing David Thompson, I doubt seriously his play will be affected by the accident."

Rose In Net Win

Rose High School's tennis team captured their first victory of the year yesterday, downing Goldsboro, 5-4.

Rose took the opening two singles matches, but Goldsboro rebounded to take the final four. The Rampanets then swept the three doubles matches to give them the victory.

Rose is now 1-2 for the year, while Goldsboro fell off to 0-3. The Rampanets travel to Kinston on Friday.

Summary: David Walton (R) defeated Greg Surratt, 6-3, 6-4. Joe Thurber (R) defeated Will Winslow, 6-4, 6-3.

Greg Johnson (G) defeated Tim Toates, 7-6, 6-4.

Walton-Thurber (R) defeated Surratt-Winslow, 8-6.

Toates-Vainright (R) defeated Johnson-Thompson, 9-7.

Jags Take S. Wayne

DUDLEY—Farmville Central High School won its third tennis match of the year yesterday, taking an 8-1 victory over Southern Wayne.

The Jaguars lost the first match, then proceeded to win the remaining five singles and all three of the doubles.

The victory raised their record to 3-2 for the year. They travel to meet Charles B. Aycock on Thursday.

Immanuel Is Champ

Immanuel Baptist rolled to a 73-49 victory over First Presbyterian in the finals of the Church Basketball League's postseason tournament.

Immanuel had earlier won the regular season title, and with the tournament, made a clean sweep.

In the first half, Immanuel built up a 40-32 lead by the end of the first half. In the second, they blasted Presbyterian, 33-17, to win easily.

Clifton McNeil and Doug Owens led Immanuel to the crown with 16 points each. Lindsey Hardee added 13 points, while L. G. Catlett picked up 11 more.

Presbyterian was paced by Paul Andrews with 22 points, while Jack Wall hit 10.

West Is Top Ump

Joe West, former Rose High School and Elon College quarterback, has just completed five weeks of training in a Florida umpires school and finished at the top of his class.

He is now in Lakeland, Fla., to join with the Detroit Tigers for the remainder of spring training. He expects to be assigned to the Western Carolina League when the season opens.

West correctly answered 293 of 300 written questions on the test, and did well in the field situations to earn his top ranking and a trophy goes along with it.

The two previous trophy winners moved into the big league four years after finishing at the school, and that is reportedly about the best one can expect. West's goal, of course, is to break into the majors.

Annexation Hearing Is Set By Winterville Bd.

WINTERVILLE—The Winterville Board of Aldermen, in a special session last week, set April 1 as the date for a public hearing to discuss the annexation of Shamrock Terrace Section Two into the town limits. The request came from Reynolds May, owner of the subdivision.

Section I of the property has already been annexed into the town limits. The property is located on the north side of Cooper Street and the west side of Secondary Road 1700.

The hearing will begin at 7 p.m. in the town office. Board members also discussed another increase from Greenville Utilities.

According to Town Clerk Elwood Nobles, it cost the town $1.93 per 1000 kilowatts purchased from Greenville Utilities in February for fuel charge. In March, the fuel charge for 1000 kilowatts without the fuel charge is $21.90.

Nobles reported a 15 percent increase in the cost of utilities in the past three months. A five percent increase was shown on the bills last month and an additional 10 percent increase will be charged on the next billing. Customers will pay $3.28 per 1000 kilowatts, according to Nobles, and the town will absorb the loss of 25 cents per 1000 kilowatts.

"The way things are now," Nobles said, "the price will probably be different every month. As Greenville Utilities increases the cost the town has to pay for utilities, the additional cost will have to be passed on to our consumers."

U.S. Senate Candidate In Pitt County

U. S. Senate candidate Nick Galifianakis will visit Pitt County on Thursday as part of a campaign swing through parts of Eastern North Carolina.

The Durham attorney, who is seeking the Democratic nomination for the seat now held by Sen. Sam Ervin in the May primary, is scheduled to arrive in Greenville for an 8:30 press conference at the Holiday Inn. Galifianakis will also make stops at the Courthouse, Pitt Plaza and at East Carolina University to meet with local friends and supporters.

Thursday's campaign agenda also includes visits to Ayden, Farmville and Bethel, as well as stops at several other eastern cities.

Galifianakis ran unsuccessfully in 1972 for the U. S. Senate, losing in the general election to Republican Jesse Helms. A member of the U. S. House of Representatives at the time of his 1972 campaign, Galifianakis defeated incumbent Sen. B. Everett Jordan in the Democratic primary before losing to Helms.

Prices Hiked By Chrysler

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. has announced a retail price increase averaging $28 on its 1974 model cars.

The increase, effective Monday, is the first since price controls were lifted last December. It is the second increase by Chrysler since it introduced its 1974 cars last fall.

The increase averages seven-tenths of a per cent per unit and ranges from $15 for the Dodge Dart and Plymouth Valiant to $67 for the Plymouth Fury, Dodge Monaco, Chrysler and Imperial, Chrysler said.

In the announcement Tuesday, Chrysler said the price increase is necessary to offset "rapidly increasing costs of both labor and materials." General Motors and American Motors would not comment Tuesday on Chrysler's latest increases. Both Ford and GM have hinted they may raise their prices before the 1975 model year.

Circus Day

Tomorrow is the big day of excitement for children in Greenville (and for many adults too). It is on Thursday that the circus, in this case, the Hanneford Circus, comes to town for two performances in Minges Coliseum on campus at East Carolina University.

The afternoon performance is at 4:30, with an evening performance at 8:00 p.m. Tickets for the matinee are $1.50 and for the evening, $2.00. Children 12 years old or under will be admitted without charge when accompanied by a ticket holder. Group rates are available and will be quoted by calling 758-6278.

Engineer's Car Can Run On Charcoal

By SANTOSH BASAK
CALCUTTA, India (AP) — A self-taught Indian automotive engineer is counting on a charcoal pit attached to the rear of his 1954 Studebaker to help him beat the energy crisis.

He hopes the gadget — made out of metal pipes and three sheet-metal tanks — will make him a rich man.

"No problem whatsoever," said Abanindra Nath Ghosh of the charcoal-burning sedan. "Once you start the car in the morning, it will give you the same performance you get from gasoline."

The device's central tank, larger than the other two, is the heart of the system, and the one Ghosh fires off each morning with a burning newspaper.

The other two tanks are filters to eliminate impurities in the carbon monoxide gas given off by the burning charcoal. The gas is again filtered in the engine before reaching a special carburetor Ghosh has invented to burn carbon monoxide.

A water compartment in the central tank protects the car's finish from the simmering heat of the tank's 44 pounds of wood charcoal. One tankful, which costs about one dollar in India, lasts in the 25-horsepower engine for 60 miles, Ghosh said.

Ghosh said he perfected the idea from charcoal burning systems used extensively in India during World War II, when the country and the world faced oil shortages similar to the current scarcity.

"The units used in those days had some drawbacks — and to start the vehicle you needed some petrol," Ghosh said. "My unit does not need petrol at all. It is wholly powered by charcoal gas, even when starting in the morning."

Ghosh grew up in his father's automobile repair shop after the elder Ghosh returned from the United States, where he worked in 1926-27 at a Studebaker plant in South Bend, Ind. The inventor has a secondary school education.

With Ghosh behind the wheel outside his family's thatched house in suburban Calcutta, his son rolled up a page from a newspaper and lighted it. He rammed the burning paper into a pipe beneath the central tank, and within seconds smoke began wafting from the top of the tank.

A detachable bellows was put to work, and about one minute later thick black smoke billowed out. Ghosh's son closed the tank's lid, and the inventor started the engine with a special starter, embedded in the dashboard beside the regular starter.

"From now on the charcoal inside the tank will keep burning during the whole day, and the torch or the blowing will no longer be necessary," Ghosh said. "You can stop the car anywhere and pull the starter to start it again."

Ghosh said a tank and pipe set for a car costs about $225 — and for a truck about $600, plus labor.

Clubs 'Adopt' 18 Patients

FARMVILLE—Eighteen patients without families at Cherry Hospital have been "adopted" by clubs at Farmville Central High School.

Participating in the Adopt-A-Patient Program sponsored by the Pitt County Mental Health Association, the Farmville Central Task Force coordinated and directed a campaign that prompted 18 clubs and individuals in the high school to provide $12 a year for 18 patients. The $1 a month is given to the patient once a month for nonessential and personal items, and the club or individual receives a particular patient's name and mailing address so he can be remembered on special occasions.

Store Is Closed After 91 Years

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Argentina's Gath and Chaves department store, located on the pedestrian shopping street of Florida, went out of business after 91 years.

The only downtown department store to resist the trend to boutiques and suburban shopping centers is Harrods, also on Florida street.

Scout District Has Camporee

The Sunrise District of the Boy Scouts of America held its spring camporee this past weekend in Bethel.

Each year the spring camporee is held as a prelude to the council camporee. This Year's is scheduled for Apr. 19-21 in Washington, N. C.

The events at the spring camporee were the same as those included in the Council one, including knot-tying rescue relay, water-boiling, and use of the compass. Much of Saturday's activity was hampered by rain, but, through the cooperation of the Pitt County School Board, several events were held inside a school building.

Cub Scouts were invited to attend so they could see what is in store for them as Scouts. A rocket derby was held for them. Pack 191 took first honors.

Represented were Greenville Pack and Troop 191, Smith's Trailer Park Den 2, Pack 699; Bethel Pack and Troop 393; Fountain Pack and Troop 282; and Farmville Troop 421. Ray Wilkins, newly recruited Scoutmaster for Troop 393 of Bethel, and his Scouts were the hosts.

Junior High Group Completed Series

Twenty-two foreign language students at Greenville's Aycock Junior High School have completed a series of demonstration lessons taught by students in East Carolina University foreign language methods classes.

The teaching demonstration lessons were recorded on videotape for viewing and discussion by the ECU language teaching methods students. Using the Aycock students as pupils, each ECU student planned and presented a portion of a selected lesson.

Manolita Fernandez Buck of the ECU Department of Foreign Languages and Literatures supervised the demonstration lesson series.

Participating Aycock French students, from the classes of Carolyn Howard, were:

Randy Allen, Pamela Bath, Jerry Bellis, Jonie Buck, Jane Farley, Janet Gantt, Ann Grossnickle, Janice Johnson, Bobby Kim, Monica Lee, Tim McMillan and Freoger Sanders.

Aycock Spanish students, from the classes of Mirta Magri, were:

Sid Ashby, Cristina Baro, Jann Calhoun, Timothy Caspar, Vickie Clemons, Vicki Howard, Keila McGlohon, Brian Pecheles, Mary Sigda, and Robert Vick.

Names 4 To Committee

Gov. James E. Holshouser Jr. Tuesday named four new members to the five-member North Carolina Awards Committee.

The new members are: Mrs. Oliver Rowe, Charlotte, chairman; Dr. George W. Pearsall, Durham; Dr. J. Archie Hargraves, Raleigh; and Richard Maxwell, Greensboro.

The fifth member, Dr. Wellington B. Gray, Greenville, was appointed last year following the death of Henry Belk, Goldsboro, one of the original committee members.

The General Assembly of 1961 established the committee to "make annual awards for notable accomplishments by North Carolina citizens in the fields of scholarship, research, the fine arts and public leadership." The first awards were made in 1964.

During the years the committee has functioned, 47 North Carolinians—actors, writers, scientists, musicians, politicians, philanthropists and public servants—have been honored and presented a special gold medal, known as the North Carolina Award, at an annual dinner.

The Worry Clinic Effort Makes Top Salesman

Bill's unique success depended on his "driving" mother, plus memorizing a good sales talk, and then diligently meeting prospects. For you can bring forth harmony from people (as well as a piano) if you just strike the proper keys!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE Z-580: Bill D., aged 18, was a cousin of mine who was almost as silent as the Sphinx. If he uttered an "un-huh," that was a day's conversation for him.

By contrast, taciturn Calvin Coolidge would have been deemed loquacious!

But Bill had a bossy type of mother who believed everybody should be working, even though the Great Depression of 1938 was then in full swing.

So she prodded Bill into joining the J. R. Watkins firm that sold kitchen supplies via door-to-door salesmen.

For an extreme introvert like Bill, the usual Vocational Counselor would certainly NOT have recommended such rigorous sales work!

But Bill survived the initial sales instruction period and then began calling on housewives here in Chicago.

Within a month, he was top producer of his southside sales crew.

In about 60 days, he was top salesman of all the 60 men in Chicago.

About this time, our daughter was born, so Bill dropped by to see us.

Mrs. Crane almost fainted with shock.

For this former "Sphinx" sat and glibly carried on spritely conversation for two hours, without a break!

Later, Bill shifted to other sales fields and set records wherever he went.

But I cite his case to show you that there are glaring exceptions to the rule that extroverts should be steered into the sales field, while introverts are usually urged to become chemists, accountants or other introverted specialists.

Though Bill was the strong silent type, as soon as he had memorized his standard sales talk, plus the usual answers to all conceivable objections the customers might raise, he was a changed man.

And now, at the age of 62, he has recently retired to Florida.

But his former customers kept demanding that he handle their business so a rival corporation has signed him up for a 3-year contract, asking him merely to fly to Chicago a few days each month, to advise it and claim commissions for orders flowing in from his former clients.

To become a star salesman is usually very difficult for a confirmed introvert.

For such a person usually shuns meeting people and is awkward at starting conversations.

He also suffers more anger and seethes with greater indignation if a door is shut in his face.

The extrovert, however, shrugs off such affronts and thus doesn't feel so exhausted at the end of the day.

Rhythm And Blues, And Soul Singers Back Elvis

By MARIAN FOX
Associated Press Writer
MEMPHIS (AP) — When The Sweet Inspirations got an offer five years ago to tour with Elvis Presley, they were astonished.

"I said, 'Elvis Presley! What does he want us for?" said Myrna Smith, one of the three slender, pretty black women in the group.

The trio was worried that their singing style — rhythm and blues and soul — wouldn't fit into a show starring the Mississippi-born entertainer, who appeals to a predominantly white audience more accustomed to country and rock than to soul.

"We needn't have worried," said Estelle Brown. "The first minute we met him, we liked him and he liked us."

"We've never had another doubt," echoed Sylvia Shallowell. "He's a wonderful person and he doesn't care what color you are."

Presley wanted The Sweet Inspirations because they are an asset. They are lively, attractive and, above all, talented. The only thing wrong with their part of the show is that they sing just four songs.

"We've never had a problem being accepted by a white audience," said Myrna. "And Elvis won't tolerate any type of discrimination. To him and to us and to most entertainers, people are people. Not blacks and whites."

The group did, however, adjust their material for the Presley show.

"We did heavy soul and rhythm and blues numbers that black audiences wanted to hear," said Estelle. "Not many people recognized or identified with the songs. We had to add more rock and pop songs."

On the current Presley tour, The Sweet Inspirations sing "Life is a Song," "Can, Can," "Dirty Tricks" and "The Last Time I Saw Him."

"Dirty Tricks," a forthcoming single, was written by Myrna.

"I got the idea from the Watergate scandal," she said. "It may be the best thing to come out of that mess."

The group got together seven years ago through singing in the choir at the New Hope Baptist Church in Newark, N.J.

"We met and got to be friends by singing," said Sylvia.

They sang as the Gospel Airs with Dionne and Dede Warwick, Sylvia, Myrna and Myrna's brother. After winning a talent contest at the Apollo Club in New York, the group began doing background work for artists like Aretha Franklin, Solomon Burke, Wilson Pickett and Presley.

By 1967 Estelle had joined the group, the Warwick sisters and Myrna's brother had left and The Sweet Inspirations had their name.

"People would tell us that we inspired them to sing better," said Sylvia.

In 1968, the group recorded their namesake song and life has been good to them since.

"We have our fights," said Sylvia, "but really we're like sisters. When we get on each other's nerves, we shout and holler. Then we're friends again. It's worked that way for us seven years now."

After the Presley tour closes in Memphis tonight, The Sweet Inspirations will take a two-week break before opening in Las Vegas.

North	East	South	West
1 ♣	Pass	1 ♦	Pass
3 ♣	Pass	3 ♦	Pass
4 ♦	Pass	5 ♦	Pass
Pass	Pass

Opening lead: Two of ♣.

Just as bidding is the language of bridge, so does the play of the cards provide a means for the defenders to communicate with each other. But it is very difficult to receive information from partner if you gag him!

South's one diamond response improved North's holding, for his partial diamond fit solidified his hand. North described his strength with a jump rebid of his own suit, and when South could rebid diamonds, North made a move toward game that his partner was happy to accept.

West led the two of clubs, East following with the three, and it was obvious to everyone that West's lead was a singleton. Since there was no way for South to get rid of his second club (even a winning heart finesse would not help, for there was no quick entry to dummy's king of hearts), he elected to draw trumps. The queen of diamonds was led and West grabbed the ace. It was vital that he reach East quickly to secure a club ruff, but he had no idea which suit to return. After considerable thought he elected to lead a heart, and that ended the story. Declarer won, drew trumps and was able to discard all three of his spades on dummy's clubs, thus making an overtrick.

West could have avoided his dilemma with a simple maneuver. Since he had three trumps to the ace, there was no need for him to win the first trump trick. He should have held up one round.

Notice what effect this would have had on the result. Declarer must persevere with trumps, and on the second round of trumps East can signal with the eight of spades. Now that East has been given the opportunity to tell his story, it's a simple matter for West to shift to a spade after taking the ace of diamonds. East wins the ace and his club return allows West to ruff for a one-trick set.

East might have helped his partner at trick one. Had he played his ten of clubs, West might have read it as a suit-preference signal, showing an entry in the higher ranking suit—spades.
