

Reduced Bid For Swimming Pool Is Decline In Unemployment Accepted By City

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
The City Council has voted to accept a reduced bid of $144,150 offered by Gatlinburg Construction Co. for the proposed municipal swimming pool. The negotiated bid with the Tennessee based firm included three specific reductions from the company's original low base of $165,000. That figure was discussed at the March meeting and the Council members authorized city officials to negotiate for possible reductions. City Manager Bill Carstarphen explained that the $144,150 pool figure would be possible if three items were changed in the original package. He said that in order to meet the reduced figure, the substitution of pool skimmers for a pipeless gutter system and also substitution of a high rate sand filter for a vacuum, chemical oriented filter would be necessary, as well as deleting starting platforms and racing lane float lines. The substitutions and deletions would reduce the bid figure some $20,850, he pointed out, and bring the pool cost below the $150,000 appropriated in the budget. Carstarphen pointed out that the bid of $144,150 would provide for construction of the main municipal pool, diving well, and kiddie pool as originally planned without reduction in the facility's structural strength. He discussed a second alternative with the Council that would reduce the base bid by $51,750 but would eliminate the diving well. He said deletion of the diving well from the pool complex would eliminate a major element in the project's overall recreation potential. The city manager said that the second alternative was not recommended. Councilman Percy Cox said that he would vote in favor of the $144,150 bid to move the project along but he questioned the wisdom of utilizing a sand filter. He asserted that the performance of a vacuum filter would be much better than a sand filter operation. Carstarphen and architect William Friend will continue to investigate avenues in which to reduce costs of the bathhouse and bring costs within the available budgeted funds. The bathhouse bids were rejected at the March meeting and Friend was instructed to rework plans for the structure in an effort to reduce costs. In other business, the Council approved a request by Louis Clark for rezoning some 99.82 acres, located adjacent to the new hospital site between N.C. 43 and the Stantonsburg Road, from Office and Institutional, Shopping Center, Medical Arts, and RA-20 to Office and Institutional, Shopping Center, and Medical Arts. An original tract of 78 acres was approved by the Council several months ago for rezoning from RA-20 to Medical Arts, Office and Institutional, and Shopping Center but Clark purchased an additional 19 acres west of the original tract after the first request was approved. Karl Faser, a member of the Greenville Planning and Zoning Commission, appeared before the Council last night and requested that Clark's request be denied so that the Planning and Zoning board could have "adequate time" to develop a comprehensive medical arts plan for the western section.

Faser, emphasizing that he did not speak for the Commission but was appearing as a private citizen, said that events concerning possible medical uses of the property have taken place since the Commission gave its approval to Clark's request and recommended the rezoning to the Council. He asserted that the events, specifically the appropriation of funds for the East Carolina University medical school and developments concerning a regional health center for the area, justify the need for a new better comprehensive plan to meet the area's medical needs. The Commission member said that he felt the planning board needed at least six months to develop such a plan and asked that the matter be sent back to the Commission for further review. Faser contended that one of the reasons that rezoning mistakes have been made is that "we don't have a comprehensive plan." Clark told the Council that "We've put all our cards on the table" and said that he feels the project was "well conceived" and designed to meet the needs of the people. The overall project would include the development of medical offices and complexes as well as multi-family dwellings, drug store facilities and convenience shops. The new services, he had indicated, would be needed to complement the development of the hospital. Attorney Fred Mattox told the Council that the plan encompassing the additional acres is a better proposal since it would shift the project further to the west and offer a buffer zone of some 800 feet between the hospital site and commercial zoning. Mattox said that the project has been known for some eight to nine months and exhaustive studies have been made. He said that the situation is somewhat like the ECU medical school question, "When are you going to stop studying?" Planning and zoning Commission member Pete Carraway said that he thinks the Clark proposal is a "good plan" and said that there is a place for commercial development in the area. He said that he knew of nothing that could come out of further study by the Commission that would cause him to change his vote of approval of the project. Mrs. Ruth Trevathan, also a Commission member, said that she felt further study of the uses of the area is very important. Cox said that he felt the Council had no choice but to accept the plan and noted that it was an improvement over original proposals for the project. City Engineer Charles Holliday said that the project does conform with the projected Thoroughfare Plan. Mayor Eugene West said that he would be hesitant about sending the request back to the Planning and Zoning Commission, noting that a lot of time had already been put into the plan. The request was approved unanimously. The Council approved a resolution providing for four-year terms for the Greenville City Board of Education and stipulating that any member of WASHINGTON (AP) — Unemployment dipped slightly from 5.2 per cent to 5.1 per cent of the work force in March, the government said today. It was the first decline in five months and raised hopes that the rise in joblessness that began with the Arab oil embargo may have topped out. The Labor Department considered the drop of one-tenth of one per cent statistically insignificant but government analysts said the figures did suggest stability in the job picture. The nation's unemployment rate jumped from a 3½-year low of 4.6 per cent in October to 5.2 per cent in January as the impact of the fuel shortage spread through the economy. It held steady in February at 5.2 per cent. The Nixon administration had forecast a sharp rise in unemployment in the first half of the year but with joblessness averaging about 5.5 per cent over the full year. Some private economists had predicted the rate would top six per cent.

One Of 16 Counts Killed

By JOHN MORGANTHALER
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Federal Judge Lee Gagliardi today dismissed one of the 16 counts against former Atty. Gen. John M. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans, but denied defense motions to dismiss the rest of the case. Gagliardi reserved decision on dismissing one other count. The count he dismissed was one of three charging obstruction of justice. The count on which he reserved decision was also alleged obstruction of justice. The two former Cabinet officers are charged with conspiracy and perjury as well as obstruction of justice. They are accused of impeding a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation of financier Robert L. Vesco in return for Vesco's $200,000 contribution to President Nixon's re-election campaign. Each of the three obstruction counts covers a separate time period during which the government claims the conspiracy was active. Dismissal of the one count was based on failure of the prosecution to support its claim that obstruction occurred during that particular time period. The question on the count on which Gagliardi reserved decision was whether any efforts to obstruct justice occurred in New York after Nov. 27, 1972, when an SEC civil indictment of Vesco was returned.

Tornado Losses In N.C. Guessed At $13 Million

By The Associated Press
Tornadoes and severe thunderstorms killed five persons, injured 100, and caused damage estimated at $13 million in North Carolina Wednesday night and Thursday. The damage estimate was by the Cherokee County manager, J. Thomas Gentry, who surveyed the hardest-hit areas from the air. They were Murphy in far western Cherokee County, where a woman and two children were killed and more than 100 persons were left homeless, and the Stecoah community of neighboring Graham County. A man and woman were killed in Stecoah when high winds wrecked two mobile homes in a trailer park. The estimated loss included $3 million to homes and other buildings and $10 million to timber. Churches were providing food and clothing for the homeless at Murphy, where the portions of the town were in shambles. Motels were providing free rooms. Gov. Jim Holshouser alerted the National Guard to move into the area if needed. But rescue squads, highway patrolmen and Red Cross workers and local residents apparently had the situation in hand. W.C. Stallcup of the Cherokee County Sheriff's Department said, "We've had tremendous cooperation here," in the clean-up and rescue operations in Murphy. "We have more personnel than we know what to do with." Western and Piedmont North Carolina were under tornado alert until 11 a.m. Thursday. Creeks flooded, and there were mudslides in some areas of the mountains. An emergency operations center was established at the state capital in Raleigh. "Many agencies of state government are now actively engaged in rescue and cleanup duties," the governor said. "All departments of state government that have emergency responsibilities are fully briefed and have representatives coordinating with the center."

Deficit Threat

RALEIGH (AP)—Because of dwindling gasoline tax revenue, the North Carolina Department of Transportation faces the threat of an $11.67 million budgetary deficit. Transportation Secretary Bruce Lentz outlined the projected deficit to the board Thursday. The state gas tax of nine cents per gallon provides most of the money in the highway fund. Various cost-saving measures have been put into effect, Lentz said. He indicated there was little doubt that the budget would be in balance at the end of the fiscal year June 30. He told the board that some of the cost-saving measures are freezing vacant positions and deferring equipment purchases. Lentz also said a reserve account, consisting of about 10 per cent of the maintenance fund for the primary and urban systems, would be released to help cover the deficit.

More Gasoline Allocated N.C.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Energy Office has increased gasoline supplies for 36 states and decreased them for another dozen in an effort to achieve a more equal distribution. Some 11.1 million barrels of gasoline from inventories will be tapped for the April allocations, increasing the nation's average daily supply by about 4 per cent, FEO said Thursday. The agency said the allocations are designed to ensure that every state gets at least 90 per cent as much gasoline as it got in April 1972, adjusted for growth in vehicle registrations since then. In order to achieve this distribution, the supply to 12 states plus the District of Columbia will be cut back from the March supply, FEO said. Vermont is to receive 13 per cent less gasoline per day and Texas 10 per cent less. Other states whose daily allocations were cut were: Arkansas, one per cent less, Arizona 6 per cent, District of Columbia 3 per cent, Florida 2 per cent, Georgia 4 per cent, Illinois one per cent, Kansas 4 per cent, Louisiana 5 per cent, Massachusetts 4 per cent, Oklahoma 9 per cent and Wyoming 6 per cent. The per-day allocations of Idaho and New Hampshire were virtually unchanged. Thirteen states were assigned increases ranging from 10 to 29 per cent. They were: Alaska, 29 per cent; Hawaii 16 per cent, Iowa 15 per cent, Indiana 14 per cent, Michigan 11 per cent, Missouri 14 per cent, Montana 14 per cent, North Carolina 29 per cent, Ohio 17 per cent, Oregon 10 per cent, Rhode Island 16 per cent, South Carolina 11 per cent and West Virginia 14 per cent. The other states were assigned per-day increases ranging from one to 9 per cent.

First Dip In Five Months

According to today's report from the Bureau of Labor statistics, total employment remained essentially unchanged for the second consecutive month at 85.9 million in March while the number of people not at work edged down from 4.7 million in February to a seasonally adjusted 4.6 million. Since October about 530,000 persons had been reported thrown out of work mostly as a result of the direct or indirect effects of the energy crisis. The government said that although white-collar employment has continued to expand at a strong pace, rising by more than 800,000 over the October-March period, the gross was largely offset by a decline in blue-collar jobs, mainly due to layoffs in the auto industry.

Unemployment rates for most groupings in the labor force were mostly unchanged last month. The jobless rate for married men was 2.4 per cent; adult women 5 per cent; teenagers 15 per cent; white workers 4.6 per cent, and blacks 9.4 per cent.

General Assembly Enacts $3.1 Billion Budget Today

RALEIGH (AP)—The General Assembly enacted into law today a $3.1 billion budget for state operations next fiscal year as the Senate accepted minor House amendments to budget measures. The two measures which the House had passed earlier included one appropriating $90.2 million for capital improvements and one appropriating $2.97 billion for operations of state agencies, institutions and the public schools next fiscal year. In action Thursday, the House quickly killed another move to block expansion of the East Carolina University Medical School. Rep. Laurence Cobb, R-Mecklenburg, the House minority leader offered an amendment to delete the ECU medical school provisions from the budget. The legislation carries a $15 million appropriation for the expansion and directs the University of North Carolina Board of Governors to include in their 1975-76 budget requests comprehensive plans "to expand as soon as practicable" the medical school and to enlarge it from a one-year to a two-year curriculum. The House passed and returned to the Senate for approval of amendments one of the two measures in the big budget package. This was a $2.97 billion measure for operating state agencies next fiscal year. The House then debated at length before it tentatively approved the second bill in the budget package—one appropriating $92.2 million for capital improvements at state institutions. It held this measure for further action today.

Rep. Gus Speros, D-Robeson, moved to kill the amendment through a tabling motion which the House approved. The House passed and returned to the Senate for approval of amendments one of the two measures in the big budget package. This was a $2.97 billion measure for operating state agencies next fiscal year. The House then debated at length before it tentatively approved the second bill in the budget package—one appropriating $92.2 million for capital improvements at state institutions. It held this measure for further action today.

The House wrangled at length over a portion of the capital improvements measure appropriating $10 million for buildings at community college and technical institutes. The wrangle centered about the formula developed by the state Board of Education for dividing the funds between the various institutions. Rep. Dan Lilley, D-Lenoir, protested that some of the technical institutes in small counties would not share in the money. Rep. William T. Watkins, D-Granville, offered an amendment under which the money would have been divided on a basis of average daily enrollment. However, the amendment was defeated on motion of Rep. Robert Payne, R-Guilford.

Possibly A Trick

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Fears that Patricia Hearst is dead and that her latest communique may be a trick have been expressed by an attorney as the FBI vowed to keep pressure on its two-month hunt for the terrorists' kidnap hideout. "I do have serious concern that the girl is dead and that Wednesday's tape communication may have been a cover-up," said attorney Vincent Hallinan in an interview Thursday. Hallinan is one of three trustees of a $4 million fund set up by the William Randolph Hearst Foundation to provide more free food for poor people if Miss Hearst is released unharmed. Food worth $2 million already has been given away. The latest communique from Miss Hearst and the Symbionese Liberation Army, in which she said she has become an SLA member, did not contain any time reference to indicate when it was made, said Charles Bates, FBI agent in charge of the case. "I believe this was the first one without a date on it," he said Thursday. Hallinan voiced concern about the last message, saying, "The tape of her voice could have been made at any time." FBI Director Clarence Kelley said in a brief statement from his Washington office Thursday that the investigation of Miss Hearst's kidnaping Feb. 4 from her Berkeley apartment is continuing.

Under the conference report, death is retained for first degree murder and for first degree rape (rape is divided into two degrees for the first time). First degree rape occurs when the rapist uses a deadly weapon or inflicts serious bodily injury on his victim. It is also applicable when the victim is less than 12 years old, provided the rapist is over 16. All other rapes would be second degree, punishable by a prison sentence ranging from two years to life in the discretion of the judge. As the result of last year's U.S. Supreme Court decision, juries would not be permitted to recommend life imprisonment in capital cases. The new law would apply only to crimes committed after its ratification. It would not directly affect more than 30 persons currently awaiting execution at Central Prison, but it could lead to clemency for some of them. Sen. Eddie Knox, D-Mecklenburg, one of the conferees, said he is confident Gov. Jim Holshouser would review the death cases to determine which would not have been liable to execution under the new law. However, nearly all of the death row inmates were convicted of either murder or rape for which the death penalty is retained.

Nixon Attending Pompidou Rites

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon left for Paris today to attend the official memorial services Saturday for French President Georges Pompidou. Nixon took off in the rain on the presidential jet at 10:20 a.m. EDT from nearby Andrews Air Force Base for the seven hour flight. It was Nixon's third trip to France. He was there in 1969, shortly after his inauguration, and again in November 1970, when he attended the funeral of Charles de Gaulle.

United Airlines Is Hiring Again

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The nation's largest airline, United, has begun hiring new employees. It is the first major air carrier to do so since the fuel crisis brought some 17,000 layoffs to the industry late last year. United last month recalled all 650 flight attendants it had furloughed on Jan. 1, and announced Thursday it plans to hire another 180 attendants to handle a surge in traffic. DISMISSED CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP) — Dr. Moyer Freyman has been dismissed as director of the Carolina Population Center at Chapel Hill, effective July 1.

Leslie Is Appointed To PTI Board Of Trustees

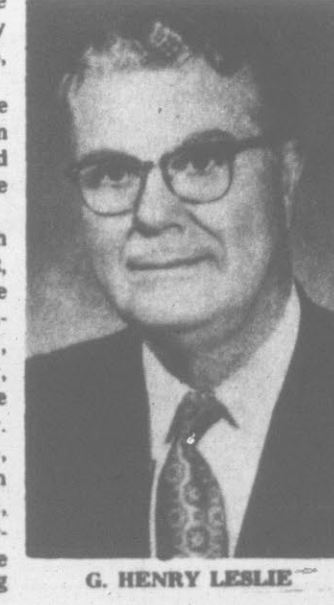

Gov. James Holshouser announced today that G. Henry Leslie, plant manager at Burroughs Wellcome Co. here, has been appointed to the Board of Trustees at Pitt Technical Institute. Leslie, who will serve a term expiring on June 30, 1981, replaces James Brewer on the board. Brewer was appointed by Gov. Dan Moore on Sept. 15, 1965. The new board member came to Greenville in 1970 when Burroughs Wellcome relocated its production operations here from Tuckahoe, N. Y. He has been associated with Burroughs Wellcome since 1952, serving as assistant to the production manager, superintendent of manufacturing, assistant production manager, production manager, and since July of 1970 as plant manager. Born in Guelph, Ontario, Canada, Leslie graduated from the University of Toronto in 1941, becoming a registered pharmacist. He immigrated to the United States in 1946, joining Parke Davis & Co. in Detroit as assistant manager. Fluid Packaging Department. He became a naturalized U. S. citizen in 1952. Leslie is currently serving as chairman of the Production and Engineering Section of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association and is a member of the Washington Yacht and Country Club, Greenville Golf and Country Club where he serves on the board of governors, and the Pirates Club. He has served as a Deacon of the Presbyterian Church and is currently active in the Sudan Temple of New Bern. Leslie is a director of Wachovia Bank & Trust Co. and of the Pitt Technical Institute Foundation Inc. He is also chairman of the Gifts Committee of Pitt County Memorial Hospital and is a member of the Kinston Power Squadron. Leslie is married to the former Myrtle Laura Hattin and they have three children, Mary Anne, David Henry, and Dale Richard. Leslie joins 11 other members of the Pitt Tech board. They include board chairman Sen. Vernon White and vice chairman C. W. Everett, Mrs. David J. Whitchard II, Joseph M. Taft, Carter G. Smith, Wiley Gaskins, Corey Stokes, A. B. Whitley Jr., Robert Lee Ramey, William F. Tyson, and R. E. Davenport Jr.

Women Are Making Steady Gains

By JOY STILLEY
AP Newsfeatures Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Though she modestly refuses to take any credit for the changes, Eilfriede Karl reports steady improvement in the status of women in Austria, where she has been Secretary of State for Family Policy and Women's Rights since 1971.

"The whole government and the Social Democratic party have worked toward this end," said Miss Karl, here from Vienna to participate in an international forum of the United Nations on "The Role of Women in Population and Development."

Thanks to recent legislation, starting Jan. 1, 1975, abortions will be permitted in Austria under regulations similar to those in the United States.

"Abortion is not desired, either from a sociological view or from the view of the woman herself," explained the slim brunette Cabinet member, "but the option must remain open. Our emphasis is on the positive — contraception."

Since Austria has no population surplus at present, she adds, family planning is looked at from the standpoint of the individual, rather than as a means of controlling population.

Women — married or single — receive free medical attention during pregnancy, get a year's sabbatical leave from their job after giving birth and there are favorable tax laws and government cash allowances for families with children.

"But we are not seeking to encourage large families," said Miss Karl. "The laws have been enacted to help people who already have children and to prevent women from having abortions for economic reasons."

In Austria, 40 per cent of all women are in the work force, she said. In principle, every type of job is open to them, but there are occupations and professional groups where women are concentrated: health services, cosmetics, tourist business, textile and garment industries, saleswomen, unskilled factory workers and "in the lower and middle level jobs in both private and government office. In theory there is equal pay but in practice women's work is undervalued."

"More and more parents are giving their daughters a better education," Miss Karl said. "But there are still fewer women in the universities than men — only about 25 per cent are women."

Having succeeded in achieving abortion reforms, Austrian women are now demanding modernization of laws pertaining to the family, such as the legal relationship between children and parents and between husband and wife. Under present laws a man can prohibit his wife from working and the husband has authority over the children.

"Some of the laws date back to 1811 and do not correspond to the structure of today's society," Miss Karl noted. "The laws are in the process of being changed to catch up with what's really happening."

The Secretary, one of three women in the Austrian Cabinet, says the status of women in her country is about equal to that of women in Germany and the United Kingdom. "But we are behind Sweden a little and far ahead of Italy and France."

From what she has learned from this first trip to the United States, she believes the position of women in the family is stronger here than in Austria.

Separate women's groups in Austrian political parties and trade unions exert strong influence, but outside of these, women's organizations play no significant role in the country's politics, said Miss Karl, who

Artist Advised 'To Brush' Friends

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am not well-known, but I am a professional artist. Abby, you would not believe how many friends and relatives expect me to GIVE them a painting! They don't consider the hours I invest, not to mention the costs, such as canvases, paints, brushes, frames, etc.

This is how I make my living, but in spite of all the requests I've had, none of these people have ever bought me as much as a meal.

People obviously have the mistaken idea that an artist is supposed to be rewarded just knowing that someone wants to hang his painting. Many other artists have this problem. Help us all and print this letter, please. Also some advice, if you have any.

TEXAN
DEAR TEXAN: Consider it done. Now, if your friends and relatives get angry with you for refusing to give them a painting—give 'em the brush.

DEAR ABBY: Your outdated advice to the woman whose husband wanted her to have sex with other men really irked me. I'd have advised her to ask her husband why he wanted to share her. If it was because he didn't love her and wanted to get rid of her, then I fully agree, she shouldn't put up with it. But, did you ever stop to think that maybe the husband enjoyed her so much in bed that he wanted to show others what a great wife he has? Or it's possible that his sexual enjoyment may really be heightened if she has sex with other men?

Please don't call this perverted, or say that this man needs a psychiatrist. He doesn't need one. Read the sex manuals. This is an accepted sex practice and is widely accepted nowadays.

DEAR SEE: I'm sorry I cannot agree with you. No man in our culture who truly loves his wife wants her to have sex with other men. If his own sexual enjoyment is heightened by such a need, it suggests either that he may have unconscious homosexual feelings or that he consciously or unconsciously has a need to degrade his wife.

DEAR ABBY: What happens to a man when he becomes 59 years of age and wants to be young again? My husband dislikes being addressed as "Grandpa," is now sporting sideburns and a mustache [which he dyes], asked for a bicycle for Christmas, and is shamelessly carrying on a flirtation with a 38-year-old woman.

Our 24-year-old daughter, who is a nurse, refers to his behavior as "the male menopause syndrome," and I call it "the fountain of youth disease."

DEAR CONFUSED: I call it "geriatriphobia"—fear of growing old. [Don't try to find it in the dictionary—I just made it up.] It's harmless, unless the flirtation has gone beyond the conversation stage.

DEAR ABBY: After working only two weeks at a secretarial job that paid very well, I quit because my boss made a pass at me.

The second day on that job, my boss cornered me, but I tried to laugh it off and told him in a nice way that I wasn't interested.

I am a 29-year-old divorcee with two children to support. I'm a competent secretary who's not afraid of work, but I just couldn't take all that dodging and ducking required to keep this man away from me.

What do I tell prospective employers when I am asked about my last job? I don't want to lie, but in the last two job interviews when I said I quit "for personal reasons," they looked at me like I was a mental case. Please advise me.

Motivation For Skydiving Was Partly Curiosity

By KAREN PENNINGTON
NEWARK, Del. (AP) — The paper said "I fully realize that the activity of flying and skydiving involves intrinsic dangers that cannot be foreseen and that bodily injury or death could result from participating in said activity. I hereby fully assume all risks...is done of my own free volition and will."

I signed it.

They told me what to do if I landed in power lines or trees or deep water. They told me what to do if my parachute didn't open. They told me it only takes 23 seconds to hit ground if both canopies fail.

Then I climbed into the plane. I was as agile as a pregnant rhinoceros with the 50 pounds of equipment strapped to me.

The plane took off. I looked down. Three thousand feet is a long way to fall. I relaxed to a dead calm. My mind blanked.

The first man went. "Do it or die," I told myself. I edged over to the open door. Air gushed by. My calm vanished.

"Feet out," commanded the jumpmaster. I didn't hear anything else. Blood throbbled through my head. Every limb of my body shook. I grabbed the bar outside the plane. The force of the wind ripped me apart. The plane's engine roared. No turning back now. Scared? No. I was petrified.

I felt the slap on my leg that meant "go." I pushed off.

And then there was silence. A beautiful nothingness. The plane disappeared. I stopped shaking. I saw the sun setting. I watched the earth far below me. Time suspended itself. I floated. My mind drifted. My body was there but I wasn't part of it.

The three seconds elapsed. The canopy opened and I sailed. I tried to remember how to steer but I just wanted to look, so I did. Objects started to come into perspective — that meant I was only 20 feet up. They'd said prepare to land but I just wanted to watch.

Then I landed easily and softly. Nothing broke. Two and a half minutes climaxed and concluded but my mind raced through every detail of the jump again. I'd done it. My mom could throw out the will I'd given her. I could call the undertaker and cancel the reservation.

The day started when I, along with the University of Delaware Skydiving Club, arrived at Pelicanland near Ridgely, Md.

Our reassuring instructor, who we simply called "Mac," has made 1,580 jumps. His greeting began seven hours of outdoor instruction.

"Keep in mind that this is your life and your limbs. If there are any questions, ask," he remarked.

He crammed instructions into our heads. We discussed malfunctions, velocity vectors, emergency procedures and landings, via an aerial photograph and a makeshift blackboard. We practiced falling, jumping and falling, pushing off from the aircraft and arching after leaving the plane. He hooked us to a harness and under simulated conditions we experienced the shift from falling to chute opening.

Five o'clock came. The winds started to die. Some of the pros went up. Some students followed. Then my turn came...

DEAR ALL: Be honest. It's no reflection on you, and it will discourage other bosses who want to mix pleasure with business.

DEAR ABBY: Lisa [21] and I [23] fell in love and decided to live together. We agreed there would be no mention of marriage. After a year she got pregnant. Then she broke her promise and started to hassle me about marriage.

I told her I loved her [I did, and still do] but marriage was out. She seemed to accept it, and promised not to bring it up again. After the baby came she seemed happy and we were more in love than ever.

Last Monday, I came home after work and discovered that Lisa had packed her things, taken the baby and left. She didn't even leave a note. I have searched everywhere for her and haven't a clue as to where she could be.

I would marry her tomorrow if she would come back, but I don't know where to look for her. Her family and friends insist they don't know where she is. Can you help me?

DEAR M.: Since Lisa didn't leave a note to let you know where she could be contacted, it's obvious she doesn't want to see you. All you can do is wait. She knows where you are if she changes her mind. If she does, then it's up to you to convince her that you want her back—on her terms.

Good Leadership Is Necessary

French President Georges Pompidou died Tuesday night and his passing leaves a vacuum among the world's great powers.

Pompidou succeeded the revered Charles DeGaulle and was considered a Gaullist candidate for office. Pompidou was never held in the same high esteem as his predecessor but he went into office as heir to DeGaulle's power.

In recent months Pompidou had been in ill health and his popularity has decreased as France's economic problems have worsened.

Now there seems to be no clear successor to Pompidou for the presidential election which must be held in 20 to 35 days.

There is never a good time for a sudden change of leadership by a world power and certainly this is not a good time for France to suddenly be without a president. The skyrocketing price of oil is changing the world's economy and it is something that will have to be dealt with carefully.

In addition, Watergate is now causing great leadership problems in the United States, which further clouds the world situation.

Hopefully France can soon choose a new leader. That country, as all major nations, will need good leadership in the months ahead if the community of nations is to deal with its common problems.

Congratulations Due Two For Unique Honors

The State Young Democratic Club has honored two Greenville young men.

Tom Eamon, an assistant professor of political science at ECU, was installed last week as president of the state YDC and Carl Darden, real estate agent, received the organization's J. Albert House Award as Outstanding Young Democratic Club member in the state.

We congratulate these two local men for excelling on the state level in their party organization.

Capitol Visits Hurt By Crunch

By BILL NOBLITT
RALEIGH—What do visitors to the State Legislative Building find most impressive?

It depends on age. The youngest are awe-stricken by the size of the red carpet running up the two-story stairway at the entrance.

The older ones ponder mostly how construction workers hoisted the 750 pound chandeliers and 1,500 pound doors into place.

Spring is the traditional touring time for school groups, as the weather turns nice and school days in the classroom get stiffer and stuffer.

The peak for visitors was 1971 when 98,000 people toured the State House. Business is off this year, due apparently to the fuel shortage. But still brisk.

In the fall, tour groups are made up largely of older people from across the nation on bus tours, as contrasted to the spring boom of young people on school visits.

Students Different Changing attitudes of youngsters is affecting the tour business as well.

Fran Cleveland, a Roxboro lass recently graduated from N. C. State University with a major in English, is one of the receptionists at the State House.

She recalls her own school days when teacher was boss, and you walked quietly and single-file when you went somewhere.

"But nowadays, the older the students are, the less impressed they are with the building.

"The smaller kids are awed by the size of the building and the hustle and bustle—and are genuinely impressed at meeting a member of the General Assembly or the lieutenant governor.

"But those in junior high. They're trouble. They just come swarming in in their hippy clothes and noisy shoes and stomp about in unison to make noise. They won't pay the teacher or the tour guide any attention.

"I don't know what's happening to the students, and the poor teachers keep trying to get them to behave using outdated methods."

But in all, Miss Cleveland finds her work interesting, and occasionally offbeat.

Hunting Helms Like trying to explain to an occasional drunk that U. S. Sen. Jesse Helms doesn't have an office in the State House.

There is also some occasional excitement, as when a tourist recently strolled off the pavement right into a pool of water; and the visits from a particular senator's grandson who makes a beeline for the pool outside his granddad's office. He has been pulled out twice.

During the televising of Watergate hearings by the U. S. Senate business was brisk at the Raleigh state legislative headquarters with phone calls, visitors and mail for Sen. Sam Ervin, who was of course in Washington.

"That's sad," Miss Cleveland said, "that people don't even know the difference between Raleigh and Washington."

The most often asked question, whether from school groups or adults visiting, is now much did the building cost.

The top question from kids who always ask is: how did the workmen get those heavy chandeliers and doors into place.

The most responsive visiting school groups are those who are just finishing up a course on North Carolina history, and can see some of the places they have been studying about, the guides agree.

To the editor:

I would like to say how advantageous it is for Greenville residents to be able to partake in the 'doings' of East Carolina University.

I consider myself fortunate indeed in having had the opportunity to attend a performance of Leonard Bernstein's 'Mass'. It was a privilege to see such a masterful performance presented by the East Carolina University Playhouse and School of Music. For me, it was an electrifying and moving experience—the artistry of the performers superb! The audience appeared to be almost spellbound. I am certain it is a performance that will be long remembered by many.

As a resident of Greenville I say 'thank you' to East Carolina University.

White House CREEP Ties

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON—Vice President Gerald R. Ford's thunderously applauded Chicago speech denouncing the moribund Committee to Reelect the President (CREEP) may have sounded new, but it merely repeated a favorite Republican ploy to cloud over true responsibility for Watergate.

Ford not only absolved the Republican party of complicity in Watergate but, by implication, also immunized the White House and President Nixon. Moreover, Ford's reasoning was fuzzy enough to bear a delphic quality. Republicans were divided over whether he did or did not intend to criticize the President who elevated him to national office. Thus, Ford at least temporarily solved the problem of separating himself from the President without alienating him.

But to do that Ford had to misrepresent the vital role of the White House in the 1972 campaign and buttress the President's absurd claim on noninvolvement in his reelection.

Ford's speech to last weekend's Midwestern Republican conference was the outgrowth of his political dilemma, a subject of endless private conversation between him and his political advisers. As he has traveled the country defending the President, his soaring popularity of last November has dropped (a net loss of 8 percentage points in a trial heat against Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, according to the Harris poll). How to halt that decline without alienating the Nixon hard core?

The answer, arrived at by Ford himself several days before the Chicago meeting, was scarcely in innovation: blame it on CREEP. That's precisely what Republicans of all stripes, enthusiastically led by national chairman George Bush, have been doing for months without causing any great stir.

Ford's reiteration of that theme had this predictable result: a roaring response from a thousand Midwestern Republicans (partly, no doubt, because of its Agnewesque rhetoric attacking "an arrogant, elite guard of political adolescents like CREEP"). This heaps the blame for Watergate on a defunct organization supposedly manned by youthful nonpoliticians, some of whom may be headed for federal prison.

Thus, Ford joined the horde of Republican politicians who choose to ignore the fact that CREEP was no distant relative but an offspring of the White House itself.

Anybody close to the 1972 reelection campaign knows that it was totally and tightly controlled by the White House with Charles Colson, one of several senior Nixon aides indicted in the Watergate conspiracy, emerging as the dominant figure.

At 9:15 each morning, Colson presided over the daily meeting of the "attack group"—a campaign strategy board consisting of both White House and CREEP officials—held in Colson's office next door to the President's own retreat. The only challenge to Colson's authority came not from the figureheads across Pennsylvania Avenue at CREEP but from White House chief of staff H. R. Haldeman.

Ford's attack also implicitly buttresses Mr. Nixon's repeated claim, most recently stated in his March 18 Houston appearance, of having had no true part in running his 1972 campaign.

In fact, on Jan. 4, 1971, Mr. Nixon disclaimed responsibility for poor White House staff decisions in the blighted 1970 congressional campaign and, by contrast, bragged things would be different in 1972: "When I am the candidate, I run the campaign."

To the Editor:

As a resident of Pitt County, I am concerned about the rumor that a pulp mill or some other type of highly polluting industry is coming to the Grimesland area. I have called various agencies, in vain, trying to find out if this were true. The land involved is presently owned by our own Senator Vernon White.

Since any new industry in our community affects all of the constituents, I am appalled that as a citizen I cannot obtain a satisfactory answer to such a simple question, that is, What kind of industry, if any, is soon to be located on the aforementioned property? I hope your paper will be willing to furnish me and other interested persons with this information. Thank you.

Mrs. B. Reid

Editor's note: The Daily Reflector has made inquiries. Sen. White said he has no comment at the present time. The Pitt County Register of Deeds office shows no recent transactions between Sen. White and any other party in the Grimesland township.

Strength For Today

STANDARDS OF JUDGMENT

One of the easiest ways to excuse one's self for failure of any kind is by falling into the habit of measuring one's self by others. To have done as well as so-and-so is considered well enough. To be no worse than most of the neighbors is a sufficient certification of good behavior. Some people watch the changing standards as closely as speculators watch stock quotations in the customers' rooms of brokerage offices. Keeping just within the line of prevailing achievement, or carefully checking one's way of life all there is in it.

But high above the little calculations of men are certain eternal standards by which we are all eventually measured. Regardless of how we have measured ourselves through the years, the time comes, both in this word and the next, when we will be measured by standards vastly higher than prevailing custom.

The Kissinger Wedding

WASHINGTON—Last Saturday's marriage of Secretary of State Henry Kissinger to the former Nancy Maginnes came as a surprise to everyone. Not even the Pentagon was let in on the secret, and members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee are still mumbling that it was typical of Kissinger to do something like that on Saturday, when most congressmen were out of town.

Although the State Department has remained mum on what led up to the marriage, I have been able to put pieces of the story together.

Kissinger came back from the Soviet Union on Thursday and immediately plunged into talks with Moshe Dayan in Washington. These talks were continued until lunch on Saturday.

At about noon Kissinger finished his conversation with Dayan, bade goodbye to him and then turned to his aide and asked: "What do I have on my schedule now?"

The aide said, "I don't see anything on your schedule, Mr. Secretary. You're free the entire afternoon."

Mr. Kissinger was incredulous. "What do you mean, I have nothing on my schedule? I always have something on my schedule. I think I'll go see the President."

"He's in Key Biscayne meeting with his lawyers," the aide said. "He can't see you until Sunday."

"All right then," Kissinger said. "I'll take a trip somewhere. I think I'll go to India. I haven't been there in some time."

The aide replied nervously. "If you go to India this afternoon, you'll have to go to Pakistan as well, and you won't be able to get back in time for a reception at the Iranian Embassy on Monday."

Well, is there any head of state visiting this country whom I can see?"

"King Hussein is in Palm Beach, but if you see him right after you saw Moshe Dayan, Sadat of Egypt might get angry."

Kissinger started pacing up and down the office.

"What about Africa? Couldn't I go to Africa this afternoon?"

"North or South Africa?"

"What difference does it make?" Kissinger asked. "Maybe I could work out a detente between the two of them."

"I wouldn't advise it, sir. If you go to Africa now, it will just stir up the Soviets and the Chinese."

"Chinese? There's an idea. Why don't I go see Chou En-lai? Get me Peking on the phone. Hello, Chou. This is Henry. I thought I'd come over for the afternoon, and we could have a bowl of rice

Nixon's Private Notes

By DICK BARNES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — If your door squeaks, you oil it. Unless you're the President, in which case your lawyer gets written reports.

This and another insights to the private side of presidential life are contained in a 994-page congressional staff report on President Nixon's income taxes.

The saga of the squeak and the accompanying problem of the pantry were discussed in a letter to Nixon's personal lawyer, Herbert W. Kalmbach, from a contracting firm that did a lot of work at the President's San Clemente, Calif., estate.

The letter, reproduced in the congressional document, said in part:

"During the dinner party for the Hopes, Fords and Arnold Palmer, the swinging door squeaked between the dining room and the pantry. Also, the light in the pantry was so bright it destroyed the candle-light atmosphere. The door was oiled and doesn't squeak anymore but the light is still a problem. It could be fixed by putting it on a separate switch."

The contracting firm was paid $1,706 during 1971 for a variety of items, but the report doesn't say whether a separate switch for the pantry light was among them.

"At about the same time, the firm, The Sturtevant Corp., also was involved in the installation of an exhaust fan in the chimney of a fireplace at San Clemente.

That episode began with a note from Kalmbach observing: "Mr. Rebozo says the President feels the fireplace in the library doesn't draw too well — there is smoke in the room."

April 5, 1934

The directors of the Greenville Baseball Club met last night and the following officers were elected for the 1934 season: Guy V. Smith, president; John Ivey Smith, vice president; R. L. Powell, secretary; and John W. Overton, treasurer.

The directors will begin fund drives immediately to raise money by April 11 for the Greenville league franchise.

T. O. Edens, manager of the federal seed loan office here announced today that the loans to growers have been liberalized. A report from Washington announced that the limit to individual farmers has been raised from $500 to $750.

The manager said that checks have been received for 75 or more applications mailed from his office last week.

Former coroner S. G. Wilkerson announced today that he will seek election to that post again subject to the June 2 Democratic Primary.

Wilkerson was coroner from 1916 to 1927. He established the S. G. Wilkerson and Sons Funeral home here two years ago.

Fear Signals Of Money Crunch

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Those rising interest rates are scaring the daylight out of many corporate treasurers and securities officials, some of whom fear the approach of another money crunch within the next two months.

Capital is to the corporate body as air is to the human body. Without it a company cannot meet its bills and, over the longer term, cannot expand or modernize to remain competitive.

Speaking of the longer term, James Needham, chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, told a meeting of financial executives this week that corporations face a "staggering economic challenge" to raise capital.

Needham cited a figure of $3.3 trillion as the sum needed by 1985, and said large amounts of this must come from equity or stock market financing because of the already heavy level of corporate debt.

Disturbing to exchange officials and corporate financiers alike is the possibility that the stock markets might be unable to raise their share. One reason for fear, of course, is that high interest rates draw money from equities.

The Federal Reserve policy of restricting the money supply in an effort to combat inflation is coming in for mounting criticism. Some critics in fact maintain that the Fed is making matters worse.

Representative of this viewpoint is John Wright, who heads a large money management and investment advisory service. Unless an easier money policy is adopted, Wright states, a devastating money crunch will occur by June.

If it occurs, he wrote to Arthur Burns, Fed chairman, it will "kill business, the securities markets, federal tax revenues, and any chance of avoiding a new round of deficit financing and uncontrollable inflation."

Wright and others maintain that the Fed is working under a delusion in stating that the money supply is expanding. "If the money supply rises 5 per cent and inflation is greater than that then the money supply shrinks," Wright states.

The Fed, along with many supporters of its policies, maintains that a sharp increase in the money supply would only fuel inflation. Wright disagrees.

"Today's domestic inflation isn't caused by too many dollars and it isn't going to be cured by restricting the money supply," he said in an interview. "Isn't it obvious that worldwide inflation of energy, food and commodity prices can't be controlled by starving the U.S. domestic money supply," he told Burns.

In Wright's view, the causes of inflation lie not in the domestic economy but in a worldwide demand for insufficient resources, especially for energy and food. To thwart business expansion, he argues, only worsens the impact of inflation.

In order to make more capital available, Wright would lower the 30 per cent withholding tax on income earned by foreigners if they agreed to reinvest the difference in the United States.

He also suggests that a tax be placed on capital sent abroad by Americans, including multinational companies that earn money domestically but tend to invest more heavily in their foreign facilities.

logs for the period immediately following the Watergate burglary, late June and all of July in 1972, suggests that Mr. Nixon was true to that 1971 promise. Although the President now claims he was preoccupied with foreign affairs, the logs show him in frequent and protracted conferences with Colson that summer, compared with infrequent, brief meetings with Dr. Henry Kissinger.

What the logs suggest if fully backed up by veterans of the 1972 campaign. In handing down campaign marching orders, Colson and Haldeman habitually represented themselves as under the direction of the President himself. Nor was there the slightest doubt among either White House or CREEP underlings that Mr. Nixon was paying close attention to campaign tactics and strategy. Furthermore, by declaring that all future Republican presidential campaigns must be run by the regular party organization, Ford is ignoring the political facts of life. An incumbent President always runs his reelection campaign, with or without the party's national committee.

To assert that some exotic disembodied committee of "arrogant elite" amateurs perpetrated all those evils is an ongoing Republican campaign to separate the party from Watergate without overtly condemning the President and his aides. In publicly joining this effort, the Vice President has further enhanced his stature in the party at least temporarily at the price of endorsing political fantasy.

Services Will Begin Tonight

GRIFTON—The Youth Department of the New Covenant Holy Church will sponsor special services beginning tonight.

The Rev. Denise Garrett of Greenville will speak tonight and the Rev. Willa Mina Redman of New Haven, Conn., will speak. She will be accompanied by the Sisters of Faith Gospel Singers of New Haven, Conn.

The public is invited to attend the services.

Youth Dept. To Hold Service

WINTERVILLE—The Youth Department of St. Rest Holy Church will have a special youth service Sunday at 3 p.m.

The Rev. Sheila Wilson of Greenville will be the speaker and the youth of the church will render music. The public is invited to attend.

Congregation Is Honoring Pastor

The Rev. Ralph W. Tedder, pastor of the Greenville Church of God, will be honored by his congregation Sunday. The day has been designated Pastor Recognition Sunday.

The special event is to give recognition to the Rev. Tedder for his outstanding contribution to the church and community as a pastor and leader. He has pastored the Greenville church for 10 years.

Following the Sunday morning service, lunch will be served in the fellowship hall.

Junior Choir Union Set For Sunday Evening

SIMPSON—The Junior Choir Union will be held at the Simpson Chapel Free Will Baptist Church beginning at 7:30 p.m. Sunday.

The Junior Choir Union consists of a group of four junior choirs in the "B" Division of the United American Free Will Baptist Churches of the Northeast Conference.

The purpose of the organization is to raise money through free participation of junior choirs and other church groups and to provide financial help to those churches in need of better buildings and other

The Sturtevant firm diagnosed the trouble as coming when wind conditions caused a downdraft. The fan was installed, but the General Services Administration wouldn't pay the bill until the Secret Service was prevailed upon to insist on the fan for security reasons.

Although he gets a lot of logistical help, the President also pays bills for some of the same things more ordinary Americans pay for, too — albeit sometimes on a far grander scale. Take these examples:

—Christmas cards: $3,500 in 1972, up $250 from the year previous.

—A daughter's party: For food, beverages, decorations and rentals at Tricia Nixon's masqué ball May 10, 1969, the tab came to $5,391.

—Swimming pool maintenance: $40 a month at San Clemente.

—Rugs: $22.50 to a rug and upholstery firm for cleaning Mrs. Nixon's bathroom rug at San Clemente.

The President's problem was that he tried to take all or part of each of these expenses as a business deduction on his income tax.

The tax men now say no.

ONE FRIDAY
When we become mired in the routine of life, one day is like any other. This was just another working-day for most of the people in Jerusalem. Three men died on Calvary Hill. One of them was the Galilean! Business as usual in Jerusalem. Unless we understand the whole significance of what is happening we pay little attention . . . Do you understand what happened that Friday? Do you realize WHO hung on that central Cross? Do you know WHY He died? And FOR WHOM? There is nothing more necessary in our lives than the deep, personal knowledge of what happened that Friday . . . and the Sunday following. Come to Church!

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Corn and soybean prices were sharply weaker on North Carolina's leading grain markets Thursday. No. 2 yellow shelled corn was quoted at 2.53-2.65, mostly 2.53-2.58 per bushel. No. 1 yellow soybeans were mostly 5.43-5.61½ per bushel.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets generally steady Thursday. Supplies ample, demand fair. Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 65.73, medium whites 55.71, small whites 39.84.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—The market is steady to $1.00 lower. $32.00-$33.00 Kinston, Lumberton; $31.00-$31.50 Rocky Mount; $32.00 Salisbury; $29.50-$31.50 Wilson, High Falls; $29.50-$30.00 Tarboro, Bethel; $32.50 Clinton, Fayetteville, Durham, Elizabeth Town, Pink Hill, Pipe Level, Chadbourn, Aden, Laurinburg, Benson, Hens.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina f.o.b. dock broilers: Market steady at 34.99 cents per pound. Supplies are adequate and demand fair. Weights irregular, but mostly desirable. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers today totaled 831,000.

N.C. hens: Market steady on heavy type, supplies are ample and demand is fairly good. Heavy hens at farm 13 cents.

NEW YORK (AP)—The continued rise of banks' prime lending rates dealt the stock market a sharp setback today. The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 9.86 at 849.03, and losers outnumbered gainers by better than 2-to-1 in thin trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Ralph Acampora at Harris, Upham & Co. said other depressants included inflation and worries about apparent rising tension in the Middle East.

United Gas Pipeline was the Big Board's most-active stock, down ½ at 6½. The shares, which represent a recent Pennzoil Co. spinoff, are trading on a when-issued basis.

Pennzoil was down ¾ at 26¼, also in active trading.

Pittston Co., which said it anticipated "significantly higher" second and third-quarter earnings, ings, rose ¼ to 3¼. Berkey Photo dipped ½ to 8½. The company said its first-quarter profits were down.

Some silver issues were among the losers. Hecla Mining slid 1½ to 27¼, and Callahan Mining was down ¼ at 15½. At the American Stock Exchange, Syntex was the volume leader, off ¾ at 47¼. The company blamed recent selling of its stock on "unfounded" reports about two of its new drugs.

The Amex's market-value index was off .08 at 96.45 after the first hour. The NYSE composite, meanwhile, fell .39 to 49.86.

Sentence Doctor In Drugs Case

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Dr. Edwin S. Mize Jr. of Charlotte has been given a suspended sentence of three years on conviction of helping an Elon College student obtain drugs fraudulently.

Testimony in U.S. District Court was that John Davis, a former football player at Myers Park High School in Charlotte, asked the doctor in October of 1972 for 300 amphetamines. Mize gave Davis only 100, but telephoned a drug store and ordered the other 200 in the names of Davis' two roommates, it was testified.

Davis cooperated with the prosecution and was not charged.

Judge Woodrow Jones also fined Mize $2,000 and put him on probation for five years. His license to prescribe narcotics was revoked for the probationary period.

his five-year term. Future appointments and reappointments will be made for four-year terms.

A request by the North Carolina Department of Transportation for installation of no-parking zones on West Third Street 180 feet east and 150 west of the Memorial Drive intersection was approved. The no-parking zones were requested in order that the state can provide for turning movements in connection with the installation of traffic signals at the intersection.

Gene T. Skinner was reappointed to a new five-year term on the Greenville Parking Authority and Ed Hooks, a member of the Athletic Department at ECU, was appointed to fill the unexpired term of James O'Brien on the Recreation Commission. O'Brien has moved from Greenville.

The Council authorized expenditures from the Recreation Department Contingency Account of funds not to exceed $3,800 for the purchase of a shelter for Green Springs Park. Recreation director Boyd Lee reported that the Kiwanis Club of Greenville has agreed to donate from $1,000 to $2,000 toward the shelter if the department will pay the balance of the cost. The total cost of the shelter is some $4,800, he added.

Pirates Blast William & Mary By 8-2

Hogan Keeps Bucs Laughing

Remember the days when rookies had to fight to make a place for themselves on a baseball team? And if and when they did succeed, they were given the silent treatment by the regulars?

It seems as if those days are in the past. At any rate, it seems that way if you listen to Mike Hogan, starting centerfielder for the East Carolina Pirates.

Hogan, a senior physical education-traffic safety education major from Newport News, Va., is the leader of a band of Pirates that call themselves the "G.I.s." And the group has absolutely nothing to do with the military name once given to soldiers, either.

"I guess it got started, officially, on our first road trip," Hogan explained, musing over the short history of the group. "There was only one car left when it came time to load up, so we just took command right then and there."

In essence, the initials stand for "Golden Idiots," and the members consist of Hogan, pitcher Wayne Bland, and a varied cast of second-stringers. Hogan gave credit to Bland for coining the nickname of the group, and said that such an irregularly put together association is beneficial.

"Something like this keeps interest and morale up for the second-stringers," said Hogan. "And if you keep your interest up and know what's going on when you are on the bench, you have a better chance of coming through when you get in the game."

Hogan, a 6-2, 610-pounder, by virtue of his starting position for the Pirates, is also a "P2." Not wishing to drive dictionary editors to distraction, Hogan explained that "P2" stands for Purple Phantom.

"I know it sounds strange," laughed Hogan. "But a Purple Phantom is actually director of the Golden Idiots. Don't ask me to get too technical, please; we're just doing this to keep some fun in the game."

However, the only fun thing about having Mike Hogan in the game, most opposing pitchers would agree, is not having him in the lineup. But that situation is a rare one. Hogan was an All-Conference performer at first base and the outfield his freshman and sophomore years at College of Albemarle, a junior college located in Elizabeth City. Continuing his career with the Pirates in 1973, Hogan belted the ball at a .337 clip to capture team batting honors and a spot on the All-Southern Conference team.

Walking off with a batting title wasn't a new trick for Hogan. As a high-schooler, Hogan captured the state batting title his senior year. Also, Hogan competed in basketball and was a football co-captain.

While he's not busy pounding baseballs for the Pirates (.243, including two triples and a home run after 10 games), Hogan enjoys pounding a few beats of his own on a set of drums. Hogan is quick to add, however, that while he himself has musical inclinations, other "G.I.s" can play as well.

"I like to work out on the drums, especially," explained Hogan. "But a little bit can be said for the guitar, piano and harmonica work. You should hear Heavner (Buc righthander Joe) on the guitar, too."

After college, Hogan insists that he wants to coach, and the driver's education field is wide open as well. In retracing some steps as a player, Hogan said his biggest thrill to date was a game he won in the Shenandoah Valley League, a National Collegiate Athletic Association venture that operates in the mountains of Virginia. During the contest, Hogan blasted a home run to tie the score in the seventh, than as an encore won the game in the ninth with another scoring blast.

Where does the Pirate senior get his energy to play baseball, dabble in music, and participate in the physical education-traffic safety education program? Hogan said his once-favorite food, steak and potatoes, had taken a back seat to an even more delicious concoction: "It must be the banana sand-wiches and cold Pepsi's," laughed Hogan.

And after all, who can argue with the "DI-GI-P2?"

Bucs Still Work Hard

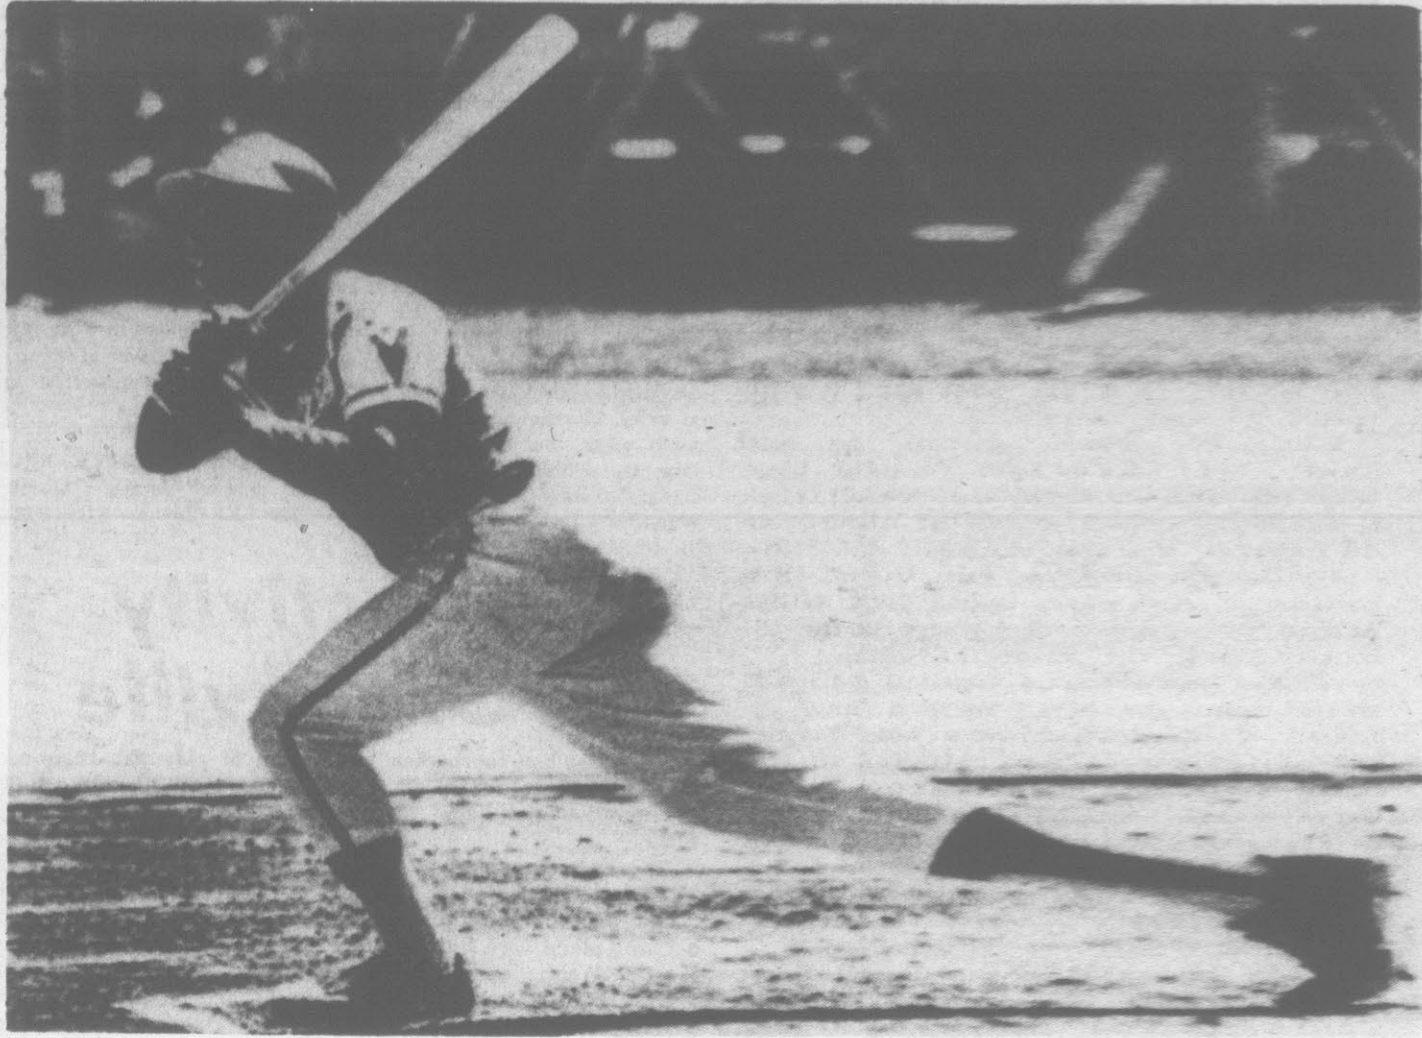

Pat Dye sent his East Carolina University Pirates back onto the practice field yesterday after a day off, and turned a lot of his attention toward the learning processes.

"Thursday and the rest of this week was, and will be a learning session," Dye said. The Pirates worked on putting in new parts of the offense and on the passing game, which Dye pronounced "looking better."

But he had some other thoughts too. "It's kind of scary now realizing that we have only 14 practice sessions left and we still have so much to do," the coach said. "And those 14 include the spring game, so you could say we really have only 12 practices left, since you can't do much the day before the game, either."

The Bucs were slated to work again this afternoon, then hold a game-type scrimmage in Ficklen Stadium at 2 p.m. Saturday afternoon.

The Yonkers, N.Y., harness racing spring meet which began March 4 will run through May 18.

THE SWING OF THE HAMMER—Henry Aaron follows through as he hits and watches his 714th career home run Thursday in Cincinnati go out of the park. The blast tied Aaron with the late

Babe Ruth for the all-time record. Aaron's homer came in his first at-bat of the season, with two runners on. Cincinnati won the game, however, 7-6, in 11 innings. (AP Wirephoto)

Aaron Says He'll Be On Field Saturday

By ED SHEARER
AP Sports Writer
CINCINNATI (AP) — "I've always thought that time was on my side," Hank Aaron said Thursday after the 40-year-old slugger unleashed a dramatic home run to tie Babe Ruth's all-time record of 714.

The Atlanta superstar's timeless chase of the legendary Ruth ended abruptly — on his first swing of the 1974 season when Aaron drilled a Jack Billingham fast ball over the left field fence in Riverfront Stadium.

"I still feel like I do owe fans in Atlanta a shot at 715," Aaron said, "but, yes, I am going to play Saturday. "I'm certainly going to play the game the way it's supposed to be played and if I get a pitch to hit, I'll try to dispose of it." The Braves had wanted to withhold Aaron from the three-game opening series in Cincinnati that continues Saturday and Sunday following an open date today. The club announced its intention, triggering controversy. Bowie Kuhn, commissioner of baseball, said he expected the Braves to use Aaron as they had a year ago, playing roughly two of every three games.

The soft-spoken superstar wasn't placed in the line-up for certain until shortly before gametime and he responded with what the standing room only crowd of 52,154 had come to see.

The homer, a three-run blast, sailed over the 375-foot mark and came on a 3-1 count from the Cincinnati right-hander. Aaron had taken the only other strike, a letter-high fast ball.

"It was a good pitch," Aaron said. "I was guessing fast ball. He got it up a little." Billingham said the pitch sailed on him, that it was a mistake and "he hits mistakes."

"He deserves it," Billingham said. "He's the greatest I've ever seen. It's unfortunate he hit it against me." Billingham and Aaron met in the small room beneath the stadium where both faced interviews from a battery of newsmen. As the two passed each other, Billingham patted Aaron on the back and said softly, "Congratulations, but why did you have to do it on me."

The game was interrupted for six minutes as Vice President Gerald R. Ford, in town to toss out the first ball of the season, and Kuhn strolled onto the field to congratulate Aaron.

"This is a great day for you and a great day for baseball," Ford told Aaron. "Good luck for 715 and a good many more."

Kuhn praised Aaron as "not only one of the greatest professionals to play the game, but a great gentleman as well."

Aaron broke away from the swarm of teammates that greeted him at home plate and jogged to a box adjacent to the team's dugout where he kissed his wife, Billye, who had tears streaming down her cheeks. It was his 96th home run against Cincinnati, including 54 in this city where professional baseball began in 1869.

Aaron said his initial excitement was dulled when the Braves blew a lead and lost 7-6 in 11 innings.

Chicod In Opening Win

CHICOD—Chicod Junior High School rolled to a 23-4 victory over Bethel Junior High School yesterday.

It was the opening game of the year for the Hornets, while Bethel was losing its second game in as many starts.

Mike Phillips got the victory, while Wilson was tagged with the loss. Waverly Thomas and Randy Edens each had a trio of hits for Chicod while Dale Briley had a pair.

J. Hines had two hits to lead the Bethel attack.

WILLIAMSBURG, Va.—East Carolina University, after being set down in order their first time around, got angry and pounded out an 8-2 victory over William & Mary yesterday in a Southern Conference baseball game.

The win boosted the Pirates into a 5-1 league record and set up a key meeting with Appalachian State University in Greenville Saturday at 1:30 p.m. for a doubleheader. Appalachian currently is leading the conference with a 2-0 record, and is the defending champion.

The Bucs currently reside in second place in the league.

For the Indians, it was their second loss in five starts within the conference. They are 3-7 overall, while the Bucs are now 10-5.

Wayne Bland hurled the victory for the Bucs. He had some shaky moments, getting in trouble in the first three innings and watching the Indians take a 1-0 lead temporarily.

But after that, he set them down in order for 10 straight batters before they finally got something going again. By then, however, it was too late. Bland did allow nine hits, while walking two and striking out four. He and his teammates left 10 Indians standing on the warpaths.

The losing hurler, Chris Davis, got off to a flying start, setting the Bucs down in order in the first three innings, getting five strikeouts along the way. But for the next six innings, he suffered for it as the Pirates cracked out 10 hits and only fanned four more times.

The Indians struck first, however, grabbing a 1-0 lead in the bottom of the third inning. Rick Schwartzman singled and Corky Bishop singled. The ball was booted on the attempt to scoop it up in the outfield, and that allowed both runners to move up a base, putting men on second and third. Phil Schofield then hit a fly ball to the outfield, scoring Schwartzman after the catch for the 1-0 lead.

The Pirates, angered by their treatment by David, came up swinging in the top of the fourth, and promptly tied it up. Geoff Beaton led off with a single and Russ Smith followed with another hit. Ron Staggs hit into a fielder's choice that got Smith at second, but moved Beaton to third. Mike Hogan's sacrifice fly then brought Beaton over to tie it up.

It stayed that way until the seventh inning when the Bucs got going again—this time for four big runs.

Hogan led off, being hit by one of Davis' pitches. Carl Summerell followed with a ringing line drive that hit atop the outfield fence then bounced back into play. Hogan scored on the play, but Summerell had to hold up at second. John Narron lashed a ball into deep right on the next play, scoring Summerell and ending up himself on third base with a triple. Bobby Harrison walked and Ronnie Leggett reached on an error when his fly into short right was dropped, letting Narron score.

Harrison moved to third on the play and scored when Rick McMahon grounded to the infield.

All that boosted the Pirates into a 5-1 lead. In the bottom of the frame, the Indians came up with their only other run. Roger Keener singled and Alan Mitzdoffer came on to run for him, stealing second and taking third on a passed ball with one away. Schwartzman walked and Bishop hit a sacrifice fly to right, scoring Mitzdoffer.

East Carolina got two more runs in the eighth. Hogan was hit by Summerell singled him in and moved to second on the relay to home. The shortstop then stole third and scored when the attempt to get him was thrown away, making it 7-2. The final run came over in the ninth. With one down, McMahon singled and Jack Elkins ran for him. Beaton got a hit and Smith picked up his third hit, scoring Elkins with the eighth Buc run. Beaton and Smith led the Pirate hitting with three, while Summerell added two. For the Indians, Becker had three hits and Schwartzman had a pair.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

A look into the future.
This year's track season is still very young and already East Carolina-bound Carter Sugg of Tarboro has tied his national record of 9.3 seconds in the 100-yard dash.
Sugg did the feat this week in a high school meet.
Unfortunately, people in Greenville won't get a chance to see him during the month of April, but they should get two fine opportunities in early May.
The first time will come on May 10 when the ECU track is the site for the Eastern Sectionals. Then, one week later, the Regionals will be held at East Carolina, and Sugg should be in that one too.
It was on the ECU track last year that he ran his first 9.3 in a race with Al Hunter. Hunter is gone, but hopefully, Sugg will get the competition he needs to push for a new national high school record in these two meets—if he hasn't already broken it by then.
And you can believe that East Carolina Coach Bill Carson is the happiest guy in town thinking about the future of his program with Sugg in the dashes and relays.

We missed this yesterday in reporting the Rose-North Pitt girls' track meet.
Kathy Taylor of North Pitt, one of this country's finest runners, tied the state record in the 880-yard dash with a time of 2:32.8.
As far as we have been able to tell, only two other girls in this area have even broken three minutes in this distance and both did it in the same race with Miss Taylor, who is one of the ranked runners in the mile and half-mile in the country.

As Henry Aaron said yesterday, "I'm glad it's almost over." The pressure on that man has been great—especially having to wait from late September until early April for the tying homer.
The shot he hit yesterday in the first inning will certainly be one to remember, although the next one he hits is perhaps the most important one of his life. Fittingly enough, it came in the town where Aaron played his first major league baseball game, back when the Braves were in Milwaukee.

It appears doubtful that Aaron will play in the next two games in Cincinnati, Saturday and Sunday. However, he is sure to be in the lineup Monday night when the Braves open at home against Los Angeles—on nationwide television. It would be a fitting time for him to connect with the record-breaker.

We salute him for his home run production—and the manner in which he has gone about it.

If you want to see some good college baseball—Harrington Field Saturday afternoon would be a good place to be.

The Pirates of East Carolina will be playing host to defending champion Appalachian State University in a doubleheader, starting at 1:30 p.m. If one team can pull off a sweep, they will be in excellent position to win the title, although there is still a lot of ball to be played. The Bucs are not 5-1 in the league, while ASU comes in with a 2-0 mark.

Opening Of 1974 Is Like Opening Of '73

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Thus far, after just one day in the spotlight, the 1974 baseball season bears a striking resemblance to 1973.

Hank Aaron hit a home run — No. 714, tying Babe Ruth's career record — the Atlanta Braves' bullpen failed miserably. Pete Rose won a game for the Cincinnati Reds with some sharp hitting and baserunning. Reggie Jackson did some strong hitting for the Oakland A's and the Texas Rangers, despite Manager Billy Martin's pennant talk, lost.

Despite the slim opening day schedule — one game in each league — there was quite a bit of action as the Reds rallied to edge the Braves 7-6 in 11 innings in the National League while the two-time world champion A's trounced the Rangers 7-2 in the American.

Fourteen more teams are scheduled to get going today. In the AL, it's Detroit at Baltimore, California at the Chicago White Sox and Boston at Milwaukee in the afternoon and Minnesota at Kansas City under the lights.

The lone NL daylight game finds Houston at San Francisco. At night, Pittsburgh visits St. Louis and San Diego plays at Los Angeles.

The rest of the clubs swing into action Saturday.

The big news Thursday was Aaron. The 40-year-old slugger equaled Ruth's mark, which was once thought unreachable. He smashed a three-run homer off Cincinnati's Jack Billingham in the very first inning of the season on his very first trip to the plate.

"It was," said teammate Norm Miller, "the most appropriate thing to do at the time. It was like building Disneyland and opening the gate. The production had been made and the stage was set."

Like the super star he is, Aaron stole the show. He lined a 3-1 pitch over the left field fence at the 375-foot mark. Among the cheers and accolades for Aaron were a resolution of congratulations in the U.S. Senate and a standing ovation in the House of Representatives when No. 714 was announced.

The Atlanta-Cincinnati game was interrupted for six minutes while Aaron was congratulated by Vice President Gerald R. Ford, Baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and Bill Bartholomay, board chairman of the Braves.

"Thank you very much," Aaron said. "I'm just glad it's almost over with."

Before the game, he had said: "I always thought time was on my side and I still think it is. I feel I can hit maybe 35-40 home runs again."

By scoring a run in the fifth inning, Aaron also tied Willie Mays for third place on the all-time list in that category.

After Atlanta built a 6-1 lead, the Reds pulled within range on Dave Concepcion's solo homer off starter Carl Morton in the fifth inning and Tony Perez' three-run shot off Phil Niekro in the eighth. With two out in the ninth, George Foster delivered a pinch single and Rose doubled him home to tie the score.

Rose doubled again off Buzz Capra with two out in the 11th. Capra then uncorked a wild pitch, which got away from catcher Johnny Oates and rolled to the corner of the dug-out behind third base and the hustling Rose raced home.

Jackson slashed a single, two doubles and a towering home run and stole a base in Oakland's rout of Texas. The A's jumped on Jim Bibby, who no-hit them last July, for four runs in the second inning and chased him with two more in the fifth.

Jackson doubled to ignite a four-run second inning. Gene Tenace walked, Joe Rudi doubled Jackson across, Tenace scored on Ray Fosse's single and Dick Green's two-run single accounted for the third and fourth runs. Meanwhile, Catfish Hunter, a 21-game winner in 1973, held the Rangers to three singles through seven innings.

The game marked the start of Alvin Dark's second term as manager of the A's. He succeeded Dick Williams, who managed the team to three straight division titles and world championships the last two years but resigned following the 1973 World Series in a dispute with owner Charles O. Finley.

Rose Captures Another Victory On The Track

Rose High School's Ramparts added another victim to their growing list of track victories yesterday as they rolled past Northern Nash.

The Ramparts finished the meet with 93 points, while the Knights were a distant second with 43 points.

The Ramparts won 10 of the individual events, and swept the two relays. Northern Nash took first place in four events.

Rose had one double winner in the event as Nat Perkins won both of the hurdles. Ron Eley of Northern Nash was the only other double winner of the day, taking the 100-yard dash and the long jump.

Rose, after taking part in the Mid-South Relays in Pinehurst this weekend, will be at home on Monday to Ayden-Grifton and Bertie.

Bullets In 2-0 Victory

BATH—Jamesville High School gained a 2-0 victory over Bath High School yesterday in a Beaufort-Hyde-Martin Conference baseball game.

Billy Brown was the winning hurler, allowing only one hit for the Bath team. He struck out four and walked four in winning his second game with no losses.

Pete Tate, the opposing pitcher, gave up only two hits, oddly enough, to Brown, while he got the lone Bath single.

Jamesville pushed over the initial run in the first inning. Jerry Ange walked and Billy Brown singled. Gurkin Martin grounded out, scoring Ange.

It stayed that way until the fifth frame, when the Bullets got their second run. Bucky Dickerson walked and moved up on an out. Brown again got the key hit, scoring Dickerson.

Jamesville is now 3-1 in the league and 6-2 overall.

Golf Activity At Greenville

A hidden hole tournament was held at the last Ladies Day at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

Tying for first place were Kay Whitchard and Nancy Monroe. They each had a score of 16. In second place were Julia Painter, Louise Webb, Celeste Wilkerson with 17 each, while Harriette White had 18. Tied for fourth with 19 each were Mable Blount, Eleanor Ruffin, Pia Leahy and Bernie Rawl.

A captain's choice tournament will be held Sunday starting at 3 p.m. with a shotgun start. All ladies and men interested in playing are asked to sign up in the pro shop.

Because of the tournament, the course will be closed for play at 2:30 p.m. No tee offs will be allowed for 18-hole play after 10:15 a.m., and after noon for nine-hole play. Golfers are asked to contact the pro shop for tee times starting at 8 a.m.

The Ladies Handicap Match Play Tournament is now underway at the club. In the championship flight, the first round of play has been completed, with Eleanor Ruffin, Mable Blount, Julia Painter, Betty Kittrell, Bernie Rawl, Dot Aldridge, Gay Waldrop, Ann Whitehurst, Ann Edwards, Dardie Longino, Nancy Monroe, Mary Dale White and Betty Lou Howard advancing. Eleanor Ruffin and Julia Painter have already claimed second round wins.

The first flight, made up of first round losers, is just getting underway. In the second flight, first round winners include Pia Leahy, Peggy Hallow, Bedie Mumford and Kay Whitchard. Third round flight has not begun play.

Tuesday, April 16, the club will be closed for play until 2:30 p.m. because of the Greenville Ladies Invitational Golf Tournament.

A Mother-Daughter Captain's Choice Tournament will be held on Tuesday with a 4 p.m. start, although it is not necessary that team members be a mother-daughter combination. They may be sisters, cousins, or any other relation.

Ayden-Grifton Blasts Panthers

LITTLEFIELD—Ayden-Grifton High School boosted its Eastern Carolina Conference record to 5-2 yesterday with a 10-3 romp over wireless North Pitt.

The Chargers wasted little time in hopping on the Panther pitching, scoring four runs in the first inning.

Tony Koonce led off the first with a single, then stole second. He took third on a balk and scored on Ned Craft's double. Tom Craft singled and took second on a passed ball. Don Phillips reached on an error, and that allowed both of the Crafts to score. Phillips stole second, and Greg Nelson drew a walk. Steve Tripp reached on another North Pitt error, scoring Phillips for the 4-0 lead.

The Chargers came up with four more in the second to up their lead to 8-0. Koonce again led off with a hit and stole both second and third. Ronnie Salmon walked and Ned Craft singled in Koonce. Tom Craft reached on an error, with Salmon scoring on the play and Nelson singled to score both of the Crafts again.

The third saw another Charger run across the plate. Eddie McCullen singled and Jed Hardee came on to run for him. Salmon was hit by a pitch and Ned Craft reached on a fielder's choice. Tom Craft then walked, forcing in Hardee as the score climbed to 9-0.

The final Ayden-Grifton run came over in the sixth. Hardee singled and Randy Nelson reached on a hit. An error on the play let Hardee come around with the 10th run.

All three North Pitt runs came in the seventh frame. Hemingway walked and moved to third on two errors. Nicky Nichols walked and Noel Whitley singled home Hemingway.

Aubrey Wynne reached on an error, as did Steve Fuchs, scoring both Nichols and Whitley.

Koonce led the A-G hitting with three, while Ned Craft had two.

Ayden-Grifton travels to Southern Nash, and North Pitt plays host to Southern Wayne in Saturday afternoon games.

The Worry Clinic Sound-Effects Spoil Message

Do you agree with Mildred's remarks about TV and radio commercials? If you were the sponsor, would you want your brief but costly 100 words of sales copy drowned out by loud sound effects in the background? By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D. M.D.

CASE Z-595: Mildred P., aged 56, is the older of my 2 sisters. While she was down at our summer farm home, we happened to be viewing TV. "If I ran a TV station," she irritably exclaimed, "I'd make sure the sound effects and music didn't drown out the spoken words!" For example, I was watching

Hawaii Five-O the other night. "And I didn't object to the sound effects men giving us the noise of the ocean surf, at least for a few seconds, to set the stage." "But they continued to mask the dialogue of the actors by that loud booming of the ocean waves." "We viewers, too, don't even like the sudden surge of excessive sound that signals the onset of the commercials." "The same has long been true of radio, for during its brief commercials, the power is routinely too strong, thus hampering the sponsor's words." "Yet it is his money that is paying for the entire radio or TV program." "So why don't the sponsors get smart and make sure the viewers or listeners can hear the vital words of the movie stars and especially the sponsor's commercials?" Amen And Amen To which I uttered a vociferous "Amen!" For several years I conducted a 15-minute daily radio program on 129 of America's leading stations, including KYW, WGN, WOR, etc. And it always irritated me to have the sound effects or music blare out during the commercials. And I agree with my sister Mildred re the TV noise that often continues as a blaring backdrop for the more interesting dialogue. "Dr. Crane, you may protest, 'maybe the sound effects men try to wake up the viewers, especially when the commercials occur!'" But a momentary blaring can set the stage for steamship whistles, ocean surf or other background effects, without having such noise continue throughout the commercials. "Mood music," too, has its value but only if it is soft enough to avoid competing with the spoken dialogue. Here in Chicago we had a famous restaurant that for 50 years advertised with this slogan: "No orchestral din." Many other restaurants could profitably adopt that same motto, for most people enjoy conversation with their meals, instead of blaring trumpets, clashing cymbals and other

Zonal Winners In Oratorical Contest

ROCKY MOUNT—A Rocky Mount girl and a Tarboro boy were named top winners in the Optimist Clubs Zone Oratorical Contest held here Tuesday night. Winners were Mary Sue Cummings and Tony Moss. The top winners will now represent this zone in the regional contest scheduled to be held here later this month. Participating in the contest from Greenville were Janet Crockett and Mike Jeffreys, sponsored by the Evening Optimist Club of Greenville. The judges in the event were E. N. Warren of Greenville, Blair Harrell of Rocky Mount and Jay Rose of Tarboro, while Gus Gee of Nashville was the timekeeper. Robert Atkinson of Rocky

Oil Money For Vast Armaments

WASHINGTON (AP)—Former Defense Secretary Melvin R. Laird says Persian Gulf nations are using their oil money to build up an "awesome arsenal of armaments." Laird made his comment in a foreword to a private study on arms in the gulf. He said, "The major gulf powers, with their immense oil revenues, have been able to procure large amounts of weapons and are being instructed in their use."

West led the ten of diamonds, covered by dummy's jack and won by East's queen. The ace of diamonds was cashed, and East continued with the eight of diamonds. West ruffed South's nine with the seven of trumps, and instead of overruffing with dummy's ace, declarer made the thoughtful play of discarding a club from dummy. By doing so, he gave himself the best chance of picking up the missing queen of trumps, while at the same time making a later finesse in either clubs or hearts unnecessary, for dummy could now ruff the third club.

Just Do Not Know Beans

WASHINGTON (AP)— Sometimes it seems the Agriculture Department doesn't know beans about beans. Take its latest announcement that it will support beans this year at $6.40 per 100-lb. bag.

That might be fine for bean farmers if prices suddenly drop. But for more than a year the cash market has been bringing them far more. As of March 15, prices of beans averaged $47.30 per bag.

That's right you receive the beautiful Panasonic Microwave Oven with the installation of a Heil Heritage II Central Air Conditioning System between now and May 15th. If you've ever considered adding central air conditioning, now's the time to do it. All you need for the Panasonic Microwave Oven is a $30.00 shipping and handling charge. The best part is the Heil Heritage II air conditioning system. This new Heil-developed system provides up to 15% more efficiency than many brands. That saves you money on your electric bill and helps conserve energy. And the Heil Heritage II system is quiet thanks to Heil's exclusive solid state variable speed fan control which adjusts the fan speed to the temperature load. It's good looking too and because it's a top discharge system, you can plant shrubs close to it. Call today for a free estimate.
