Judiciary Committee Angry, Resentful

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Members of the House Judiciary Committee met in a mood of anger and resentment today to consider a White House proposal to wait two more weeks before replying to the committee's request for tapes of presidential conversations.

At separate party caucuses, both Republicans and Democrats called the White House letter postponing any response until April 22 unsatisfactory. Individual members talked of issuing a subpoena for the material.

Chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J., scheduled a full committee meeting Thursday for whatever action the committee wants to take. "It is obviously unsatisfactory to a majority of the committee," said Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill.

Rep. Calder Butler, R-Va., commenting Tuesday night, said, "It seems a mistake not to produce the material. It certainly creates a presumption that the President is withholding damaging evidence."

Rep. Lawrence J. Hogan, R-Md., issued a statement before the caucuses saying he was "sorely disappointed with the President's decision not to honor the Judiciary Committee's request to release material needed for the impeachment probe."

Utilities To Seek Alternate Sources For Its Electricity

Greenville Utilities Tuesday night voted to seek "alternate sources" of wholesale electricity to serve its customers.

The resolution adopted by the commission said, that the city "long has had, and still has, available one source and supplier only of wholesale electric power, namely, Virginia Electric and Power Co."

The total rates and charges the city must pay for such power from such sources have become, more than before, significantly higher than comparable rates and charges in this region. . . . The "city's citizens and customers . . . are consequently, having to suffer significant expenses beyond those experienced by citizens and customers served with electricity elsewhere in the region."

The commission found that, "It would be in the best and public interest of commission, city and the citizens and other electric customers of such that alternate source(s) of wholesale electric power be found and used."

The Greenville Utilities has been purchasing power from VEPCO since 1954 when a tie in was made to supplement the power generated by Greenville Utilities plant. Later operation of the plant was suspended and all power has since been purchased from VEPCO.

The resolution didn't say so, but the local utilities would probably look to Carolina Power and Light as a power source if any change were made. CP&L reportedly has a lower wholesale rate than VEPCO. CP&L is the only other private power company in this area. It presently sells power to the Farmville municipal system and sells on a retail basis in the Grimesland and Grifton areas of Pitt County.

If Greenville Utilities could achieve a lower rate, it would also affect Winterville and Ayden systems which buy from Greenville. Any change in suppliers for Greenville Utilities, however, would have to be approved by the regulatory agencies. Greenville is at the end of the VEPCO system, which serves large areas of Virginia and northeastern North Carolina.

Director Charles Horne reported that VEPCO anticipates a reasonable electric reserve for this summer of about 15 percent. Barring break-down of generating plants this should provide adequate power for the peak summer months.

The Commission authorized return of around $3,000 in subdivision water and sewer refunds to developers who had met commission policy of an adequate number of tap ons within ten years.

Included were Westwood Subdivision, Section I; Eastwood Subdivision,

Section I and Lyndale Subdivision, Section I. Purchase of a car from Phelps Chevrolet for $2,411.34, based on low bids, was approved.

A committee was appointed to study Utilities depreciation rates. The committee is made up of Gene Prescott, Charles Horne and Curtis Howell.

A resolution was approved authorizing signing of checks by Dr. Howard, Gradis, chairman; Curtis Howell, or Donald Hudson.

Horne reported that a check for $127,700 had been received from the Environmental Protection Agency as a supplemental grant on the completed sewerage treatment plant and outfall line.

Commissioners took no action on an adjustment to out-of-town tapping fees for water and sewer as recommended by Director Horne.

per gallon. The AAA's weekly spot check of some 6,000 service stations across the nation found that since the week before, the average price of regular gasoline has climbed a penny to 54 cents a gallon. Premium average 57 cents per gallon, the survey reported.

Highest average prices for regular gas were 56 cents in Hawaii, Illinois, New York and South Carolina while peak prices for premium reached 60 cents a gallon in Illinois, New York and Hawaii, according to the AAA.

In other energy-related developments: —Federal energy chief William E. Simon said the Environmental Protection Agency is too restrictive in its standards for utilities which convert to coal for generating electricity. He said EPA policy will not encourage increased use and production of coal.

—Deputy energy chief John C. Sawhill said more federal funds may be required to offset the impact of rising fuel costs on the aged.

WASHINGTON (AP) — A big tanker-load of Arab oil has reached the United States in the first major shipment received since the lifting last month of the Arab oil embargo. The Federal Energy Office announced Tuesday that the Italian tanker Elba Lolligeti has arrived at Norfolk, Va., carrying 344,000 barrels of crude oil from Algeria.

Exxon Corp. said its own initial shipment of Mideast oil since resumption of Arab supplies — 50,000 barrels of crude aboard the Esso Barcelona — was due to arrive today in New York Harbor.

Anticipating the renewed availability of Arab oil, the FEO has told U.S. petroleum companies to draw upon current inventories to boost gasoline allocations for the month of April.

Meanwhile, the American Automobile Association said its latest survey shows that motorists will find it easier to obtain gasoline this week, but they will probably be paying more

Border Battle Again

By The Associated Press
Syria said tank duels and artillery exchanges flared again today along its 40-mile front with Israel in the Golan Heights.

The latest outbreak in the month-long series of border skirmishes was reported as a five-man Syrian delegation led by Maj. Gen. Hikmat Chehabi, the army intelligence chief, headed for talks in Washington with United States Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

A government spokesman in Damascus said the mission would only present Syria's ideas on a Syrian-Israeli military disengagement and report back any Israeli proposals Kissinger might have.

In Jerusalem, Israeli Foreign Minister Abba Eban said the issue of Jews in Syria wanting to emigrate to Israel would be brought up at the Washington talks.

Both the Syrians and the Israelis expect that Kissinger may make another trip to the Middle East to continue his shuttle diplomacy between the two countries, perhaps at the end of April.

Syrian President Hafez Assad was expected to fly to Moscow on Thursday for five days of talks with Soviet leaders, the Cairo newspaper Al Akhbar reported.

The paper's Moscow correspondent, quoting Arab diplomatic sources, said Assad would be at the head of a large Syrian delegation. But he did not say what the talks would be about.

The committee had demanded a response to its request for the tapes by Tuesday.

The White House said Tuesday that "additional materials" would be given to the committee sometime after Congress returns from its Easter recess April 22, but it didn't say what the material would be.

James D. St. Clair, who is in charge of President Nixon's defense against impeachment, sent a letter to the committee. St. Clair said the White House still is reviewing the request for the taped talks between Nixon and his chief aides about the time the Watergate cover-up was becoming known last year.

"We expect that the review can be completed by the end of the Easter recess and that the additional materials furnished at that time will permit the committee to complete its inquiry promptly," he said.

Rodino said last week he thought the committee had waited long enough and that he would consider asking it to issue a subpoena for the tapes if there was not a satisfactory answer by Tuesday.

He is expected to convene the committee Thursday to consider St. Clair's letter. The promise that appears implicit in it to deliver some material after April 22 may be enough to head off demands for a subpoena at this time.

"We'll probably acquiesce," said Rep. Robert McClory, R-Ill., a senior committee Republican, who expressed disappointment at the White House response. "I don't think we're very anxious to face the alternatives."

Another member, Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., said the panel has three options: "One is to go whole hog for a subpoena now, two is to give Rodino and (senior committee Republican Edward) Hutchinson standby power to subpoena, or three to cancel the recess for the committee and meet next Tuesday."

"I'm in favor of canceling the recess, favoring the issue," Drinan said.

Although the request remains unanswered, committee counsel John Doar told Democratic committee members Tuesday he is prepared to start presenting evidence gathered by the staff to the committee May 7.

The committee has received 19 tapes and over 700 documents from the White House and also has been given secret grand jury evidence relating to Nixon's role in the Watergate cover-up.

Within such an area, the commission would have to grant a permit for any development. The bill provides that the commission can delegate authority over "minor developments" to qualified local governments.

One major House amendment added early to the bill would exempt utilities from control by the commission.

The Holshouser administration, which has backed the bill, has said that its planning provisions, rather than the regulatory authority, are the most important.

"For the first time, we'll have an inventory of the land and resources in the coastal area," said Secretary of Natural and Economic Resources James Harrington.

Harrington said the land use plans would help the government and potential developers determine where the land can best support industrial and residential development and where it should be left alone.

Originally it would have been composed of 12 members appointed by the governor.

After a year of study, debate and amendments, the proposed commission would have 15 members, most of them representing a specific interest group on the coast.

The governor will have the right to freely appoint three of them. The rest he will select from a list of 118 nominees submitted by local governments on the coast.

"It all depends on what type of people come out of the selection process," Stator said. Local input into selection of the commissioners was the price Stator had to pay to get the bill through the Senate.

Once appointed, the commission will have the power to designate "areas of environmental concern" in the coastal region, such as beaches, marshes, sites with unique flora and fauna, etc.

Within such an area, the commission would have to grant a permit for any development. The bill provides that the commission can delegate authority over "minor developments" to qualified local governments.

Starting Time

A public hearing concerning a proposed new tobacco marketing system, announced in yesterday's Daily Reflector will be held at 10 a.m. at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

The meeting was previously reported as being held at 1 p.m. According to First District Congressman Walter B. Jones, the meeting will be held at 10 a.m., with William L. Lanier, director of the Tobacco and Peanut Division of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service, as guest speaker.

Rec Bd. To Meet

Bike trails in detail will be one of the agenda items to be considered by the members of the Greenville Recreation Commission in its April meeting tonight. The meeting takes place at 8:00 p.m. in the office of Recreation Department director Boyd Lee at Elm Street Center.

John Scofield, Greenville City Planner, will make the presentation on bike trails.

Other agenda items include a request by a group of hospital nurses to do away with fee charges for use of the ball fields when games are held for benefit purposes; and a request from an individual to use the gym at Elm Street on a trial basis for a teenage dance.

A status report on the swimming pool progress will be made by Lee to the commissioners.

Friday Noon

RALEIGH (AP) — The House passed a resolution today setting adjournment of the North Carolina General Assembly at noon Friday. It was offered by Rep. James Green, D-Bladen, who is opposed for House speaker in the 1975 session.

The major obstacle to adjournment was removed Tuesday when the Senate Finance Committee killed a tax reform package.

Offer Program For Viet Vets

By JERRY T. BAULCH
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The American Legion proposed today that Congress pay up to $1,000 a year in tuition and fees for Vietnam-era veterans so they will have a wider choice of schools they can afford to attend.

Its views were presented by E. H. Golembriesski, director of national veterans affairs and rehabilitation commission of the legion, in testimony prepared for the Senate Veterans Committee.

The committee has before it a bill to increase monthly payments to the veterans by 25 percent and to set up a loan program as a supplement.

The House has passed a 13 per cent increase, higher than the 8 per cent President Nixon proposed. The administration opposes any form of tuition-fee grant.

The legion's proposal is one of the most generous offered so far to provide a tuition payment system as well as a monthly stipend similar to that of post-World War II days.

Golembriesski said Vietnam-era veterans, unlike World War II veterans, are being denied a wide degree of choice as to which institution of higher education they wish to attend.

The charges would have to be the same as those charged non-veterans enrolled in the same courses.

No 'Politics As Usual' Seen In May 7 Primary

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
Charles B. Riddle, a Goldsboro businessman who is a candidate for the U. S. Senate, believes the May 7 primary "is not going to be politics as usual" affairs for Tar Heel voters.

For one thing, as he points out, voters will have a big field of candidates to choose from. "There's ten Democrats and three Republicans seeking Senator Ervin's seat," Riddle said.

In a Wednesday interview following his appearance on WNCN-TV's "Carolina Today," Riddle said "for the next two to two and a half weeks I'll be traveling, seeing as many people as possible to sound them out on needs and suggestions."

"I'm asking people, city leaders, individuals, educators, everybody I talk to about their ideas, what programs are needed. I'm interested in getting the opinion of many people." Initially, when Riddle announced his candidacy, he emphasized his personal frustration over the gas and food situation, touching on the difficulties in getting information a business needs to operate. Wednesday he expanded on that thought. "It's really a political round-robin," Riddle said, "one that extends into all levels of elected and bureaucratic officials. Just try contacting an elected official to get information. He'll refer you to a bureaucrat, who in turn will refer you to a different bureaucrat, who refers you back to another elected official."

"However," Riddle noted, "any of them can quickly tell you who's the next star witness on any of the Watergate related hearings. This type of thing bothers me. The entire Watergate situation has resulted in our politicians becoming like Nero, fiddling away, their attention on one thing, while everything else comes to a

Tax Reform Dead Issue In Legislature; Hunt's Tax Package Postponed

RALEIGH (AP)—Tax reform is a dead issue in the North Carolina legislature.

The Senate Finance Committee held a funeral for Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt's tax package Tuesday afternoon, voting to postpone the measure indefinitely.

Hunt's proposal would have repealed the state's 3 per cent sales tax on food, raised income taxes in brackets above $14,000 and given a partial credit to businessmen for the inventory taxes they pay to local governments.

Sen. Phil Godwin, D-Gates, made the motion to kill the tax reform package, and its sponsors agreed that it had no chance to pass. The vote to kill it was unanimous. Hunt had announced the package last week, but opposition from Republicans and some factions within the Democrats proved too great to overcome.

Instead of reforming the tax structure this year, the legislature appears set to appoint a commission to study the tax question and report back to the 1975 General Assembly.

Godwin told the Finance Committee it was too late in the session to consider a tax measure as sweeping as Hunt had proposed.

Sen. J.J. Harrington, D-Bertie, agreed with Godwin, although it was his subcommittee that originally approved the Hunt package.

"I'm sold on the bill, but it's too big a change to undertake this late in the session," Harrington said.

The decision of the Finance Committee means that no tax proposals will be passed in the current session.

The House had already approved an inventory tax reduction measure and its Finance Committee had approved the food and income tax proposal.

But the committee chairman, Rep. Liston Ramsey, D-Madison, said no floor vote would be taken on the food and income tax measure in view of the Senate action.

Ramsey promised, however, that he would introduce the bill again in 1975 if no one else did.

Varied Easter Holiday Closings Are Announced

The Easter holiday schedule for city, state, county and federal offices as well as for local schools and downtown merchants has been announced.

The Pitt County Schools will begin the Easter observance at the close of school today. Teachers will observe Thursday as a vacation day and Friday and Monday have been set aside as holidays.

The administrative offices in the county schools and the central office will be closed Friday and Monday.

The normal county schools schedule will be resumed Tuesday.

The Greenville City Schools will close at the end of school today and reopen on Thursday, April 18. The central office will be closed Friday and Monday in observance of the holiday.

County, city, state (except for the N.C. Department of Revenue) and federal offices will observe Easter Monday as a holiday.

Most of the Greenville merchants have announced they will remain open Monday. A few stores, however, have said they would be closed Easter Monday so that employees can have a holiday.

The Greenville Chamber of Commerce and Merchants Association will remain open during the Easter holiday.

Local banks will also be closed Easter Monday.

Couple Exchanges Vows On Saturday Afternoon

BURLINGTON—Miss Mary Louise Gilliam became the bride of Dr. Marvin Earl Duncan Saturday at 4:00 p.m. in a ceremony in the First Baptist Church here.

The Rev. Richard W. Styles performed the double ring ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Connie Banks, organist, and Mrs. Pearl C. Lee, vocalist. Parents of the couple are Mrs. George Gilliam Sr. of Burlington, and the late Mr. Gilliam, and Mrs. Mary Duncan of Greenville.

The bride, given in marriage by her brother, Scemonia Gilliam, wore a white gown of imported organza in an empire A-line silhouette. The bodice was styled with a scalloped portrait neckline of Venise lace. The sheer shepherdess sleeves were cuffed with lace and her chapel length mantilla of silk illusion was edged with matching Venise lace. She carried a nosegay of roses, baby's breath, daisies and English ivy.

The honor attendant was Kathleen Bradshaw of Greensboro. She wore a mint green gown of dotted swiss organza. The scoop neckline, cuffs of the bishop sleeves and empire waistline were accented with Venise lace. She wore a matching headpiece of flowers and carried a bouquet of spring flowers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Barbara Moses and Mrs. Shirley Blackwell of Burlington, sisters of the bride, Geraldine Duncan of Washington, D. C., sister of the bridegroom, Mrs. Gloria Richmond of Charlotte, Mrs. Margaret Lawrence of Washington, D. C., Mrs. Clara Lawson of Durham, and Barbara Perry of Pittsboro. The bridesmaids were dressed in pink gowns styled like that of the honor attendant.

Miss Heather Malone Gilliam of Burlington, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a long pink gown fashioned after that of the honor attendant and carried a white basket of flower petals.

Keith Seamon Bullock of Charlotte was ring bearer.

George Whitted of Durham was best man. Ushers were Billy Gilliam of Burlington, brother of the bride, William Evans, Hayes Brown, Alexander Gerald, Oliver Brown and Clifford Ebron, all of Durham, and Travis Duncan of Greenville, brother of the bridegroom.

The wedding was directed by Miss Spencer Thomas of Burlington. The couple will reside in Durham.

The bride is a graduate of North Carolina Central University and received her Master's at A & T University. She is supervisor of health education for Alamance County Schools, Graham.

The bridegroom is a graduate of North Carolina Central, where he also received his Master's. He received his Ph.D. from Michigan State University. He is director of the Learning Resource Center and associate professor of education at North Carolina Central University.

Immediately following the wedding, a reception was held at the Ramada Inn of Burlington. Assisting at the reception were Mrs. Mary Murray, Mrs. Clara Brown, Mrs. Evelyn Fowler, Mrs. Janelle McGroom, Mrs. Juanita Gilliam, Mrs. Mary Graves, Mrs. Johnny Wooten, Mrs. Jean Paul, Mrs. Ruthie Woods and Miss Mary Bradshaw.

The dining room was transformed into a spring garden highlighted by potted plants.

Mrs. Patsy Harris was narrator for the show and models included: Mrs. Jeanette Clapp; Mrs. Anne Murdock; Mrs. Odell Evans; Mrs. Gwen Wilson; Mrs. Sue Turcotte; Mrs. Evelyn Heidenreich; Miss Vickie Little; Mrs. Florence Holt; Mrs. Loretta Vick; Mrs. Karen Collier; Mrs. Sue Vincent; Mrs. Leslie Pressel; Mrs. Rita Womble; Mrs. Marlene Slate; Lisa Whitlow; Jay Carawan; Kim Baker; Kim Vick; Traye Fuqua; and Kim Harris.

Mrs. Patsy Jo White sang several selections accompanied by her mother, Mrs. Isobelle Gurganus, pianist.

Background music during the show was presented by Mrs. Diann Gardner.

By SANDRA GITTENS
NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. Irene Kassorla claims her professional life essentially started when she was 42.

That's after she developed new techniques which enabled her to generate speech from mute, autistic children, thereby markedly altering childhood schizophrenia.

While attending the University of California at Los Angeles she was assigned hospital observation duties and says it was there she realized doctors were reinforcing psychosis.

"I went back to my school and wrote a paper saying doctors are reinforcing psychosis at such and such hospital," she said in an interview here.

After the papers were graded and handed back she recalls that her professor asked, "Who is Irene Kassorla? May I speak with you for a moment?"

"I thought he was going to do something drastic; instead he said, 'Look, what do you want?' I told him I wanted a patient and I wanted to try out my own ideas, which of course was absurd because you don't get a patient for another 10 years — when you're close to your doctorate," she explained.

She got a patient, nevertheless, and within a week, she says, she was able to get remarkable results from a sick little girl.

By simply reversing what was done at the hospital, Dr. Kassorla said she reinforced healthy responses, ignored the bizarre, and the child got better.

"Before," she said, "doctors would see a psychotic doing something crazy and say, 'Oh, that's all right! I wouldn't say, 'Oh, that's all right! I'd say, 'Hey, that's crazy, what the heck are you doing? Stop it!' 'I'm never dishonest with such a person. I give him reality, and this is what is important about my techniques — treat the psychotic normally and you know what, he acts normal!'"

For the next three years she continued work with autistic children. Then in 1965 she was invited to further her studies in London by Hans Eysenck, professor of the Institute of Psychiatry at the University of London.

In London she claims "again very marvelous things happened." She worked with a 52-year-old patient who hadn't spoken in over 30 years. She recalled he was like a rock but says she was able to get him talking after 31 days.

"The papers got hold of it and started calling me 'miracle worker.' Then the BBC (British Broadcasting Corporation) came to me and made a couple of documentaries on my work with this man."

Completing her degree in London, Dr. Kassorla returned to the United States and internship. While in Los Angeles she was asked to do therapy sessions at a television station. She says she thought it was an excellent idea because most people undergo the same kind of difficulties as the psychotic.

"The psychotic," she explained, "will act crazy, using it as a language, and very often we respond to it. But, with normal people, psychotic behavior is not as easy to see because it is not as magnified. The psychotic is different only in frequency, intensity, and volume — a magnification of normalcy. 'With normal people,' she continued, "there's the same tendency to bury feelings of inadequacy and insecurity, and that's when one begins to feel different from others and starts to distort reality."

"Everyone fails," she added. "Everybody feels inadequate at times, and everybody feels afraid. But the difference between a successful person and a mediocre person is that the first one goes right on trying after a failure."

Skit Given At Woman's Club Meet Friday

A skit entitled "Gardening Is For Everyone" was presented by several members of the Greenville Woman's Club at the Friday meeting of the club.

It was announced that the club had received an award for its "City Improvement Program" given annually by Sears Roebuck Co.

Mrs. Clara Moyer Shackell announced plans for the snack bar to be held in conjunction with the Sidewalk Art Show May 4. Mrs. William Shires, International Affairs chairman, reported on the study group of "The Great Decisions."

The Home Life Department will meet at the Greenville Nursing Home April 16. Mrs. George Clapp, Arts Department chairman, gave a report on the State Arts Festival held in Winston-Salem March 30. She also announced the next meeting date.

Mrs. Dink James, chairman of the Author's Luncheon, stated that the luncheon will be held at the Woman's Club at 1 p.m. Saturday, April 27. Douglas McReynolds will be the guest speaker. Tickets may be purchased from Mrs. James.

Four delegates from the club will attend the NCFW Convention in Charlotte April 30 through May 3.

Four new members were named: Mrs. Norman Pendered; Mrs. Susan Haines; Mrs. W. N. Jackson; and Mrs. Inez Schultz.

Mrs. Ernest Holt conducted the meeting and Mrs. Sylvester Green gave the devotional.

Hostesses for the meeting were Mrs. Gilbert Peel, chairman, Mrs. J. A. Watson, Mrs. A. C. Howard, Mrs. Myrtle Croom, Mrs. T. I. Moore, Mrs. C. A. Roberson and Miss Elsie Seago.

Convention reports will be given at the meeting on May 10.

Engagement Announced

Mr. and Mrs. Richard R. Forrest of Greenville announce the engagement of their daughter, Jean Randolph, to Lawrence Andrew Tinker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry K. Tinker of Macon, Ga. The wedding will take place June 8.

Buying Pizza
Pizza has rapidly become an American favorite of the younger generation and the over-30 crowd.

So it's good news that frozen pizza—with pepperoni, sausage or other meat products added—gets a full inspection treatment from government, consumer and marketing agencies.

And, this inspection includes everything from the conveyor line, scoops and table top—to the hands and uniforms of personnel.

The meat, cheese and sauce are checked for wholesomeness. And even crusts must come from approved bakeries to make sure they were baked under sanitary conditions.

In addition to being inspected for wholesomeness at the plant where they are made, frozen pizzas must maintain their wholesomeness. For instance, they must be kept at a certain temperature from the time they are made until they reach your market—so that spoilage does not occur.

In addition, pizzas must be properly labeled. The label must show an accurate name and description of the product; a list of ingredients—beginning with the item weighing the most in the recipe down to the items weighing the least—net weight of the pizza; the packer's or distributor's name and address and mark of inspection—and, if needed, storage or cooking instructions.

Salad Greens
The tossed green salad that's used along with a dinner—or the chef's salad that is a meal in itself—are great warm weather favorites.

Fortunately, salad greens are available all year round—but they are less expensive when they are in season.

When shopping for salad greens, you should go to a market where the vegetable area is cooled or refrigerated and delicate greens get the care they deserve. If the greens are not cared for properly—you will run the risk of getting "bruised" or "rusted" greens that will not be entirely usable.

A variety of greens will add interest, appearance and flavor to your salads. For example, iceberg—a heavy, compact head of lettuce, is familiar to most of us. Other greens include romaine—a tall head with stiff coarse leaves; escarole—with broad spiny leaves growing from a center stalk; and endive—with narrow, thin, twisted leaves shading from dark green at the edges to a pale yellow heart. All these are excellent salad combinations.

Spinach, watercress and Chinese cabbage—which is somewhat milder than regular cabbage—also can add flavor, color and variety to tossed salads.

Special Summer Workshop To Be Held At ECU

A summer workshop on early childhood stimulation for children with physical or mental handicaps will be hosted by East Carolina University July 13-26.

The workshop derives from the ECU "Pockets of Excellence" project and will focus on the adaptation of the Lekotek program, a Swedish development, to eastern North Carolina.

Workshop director Ruth Lambie studied the program at work during a tour of Sweden last summer. The program involves medical, psychological and educational approaches to early home training for infants and preschool children with physical or mental handicaps. It includes an early evaluation of the infant and a continuing planning program for parents for daily guided activity and training.

The ECU workshop on the Lekotek program is available to parents, teachers, social workers and allied health personnel on a credit or non-credit basis.

Further information about the workshop is available from Miss Lambie at the Department of Child Development and Family Relations, ECU School of Home Economics, Greenville.

Fashion Show Held Saturday

Variety was the keynote of the Junior Woman's Club fashion show-luncheon held Saturday at Aycock Junior High School for the benefit of the club's charities.

Approximately 250 women attend the event. Among the 58 fashions shown from 12 Greenville area stores were formal gowns, children's wear, swim suits, pants suits and dress ensembles.

The dining room was transformed into a spring garden highlighted by potted plants.

Take A Second Look At That 'Loving Friend'

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: As my husband and I were preparing to make a trip to Europe by air, one of my so-called dearest friends came to me and asked me if I would please get a $50,000 airplane insurance policy naming her as the beneficiary. She said she would gladly pay for the insurance! I was shocked to say the least.

What do you think of such a suggestion from a supposed-loving friend? I'd really like your opinion. PEACHES

DEAR PEACHES: Let me put it this way: If this "loving friend" invited me to her home for dinner, I'd wonder who she was loving, and I'd also take a food-taster along.

DEAR ABBY: It's a cinch you've never been to Alaska, otherwise you never would have told that 45-year-old woman who was husband hunting to go there.

There are no extra marriageable men here, plus jobs are scarce and prices are double. You should have told her not to go to Alaska unless she had a round-trip ticket and plenty of money. She's too old to be a go-go dancer. ERMA IN ANCHORAGE

DEAR ABBY: A few months ago I was hospitalized for a heart condition, and upon release, my doctor told me I had to take it easy.

My son, his wife and their three very active young children are neighbors to us, and the children are here more than they are at home. They wear me out, but I can't bring myself to send them home.

My husband hired a housekeeper to help me the last few weeks, but my daughter-in-law has begun to "borrow" her, so once again I am alone with those undisciplined children.

My daughter-in-law is a good girl, and I'm sure she doesn't realize the toll the children take on me. She's also very sensitive. My son tried talking to her about letting the children spend so much time at my house unsupervised, but she ended up in tears, all upset, and the next day they were back.

How can I handle this without hurting anyone? I love them all very much. NAMELESS, OF COURSE

DEAR NAMELESS: First, tell your housekeeper that she is not to be "borrowed" by your daughter-in-law. Then tell your daughter-in-law to please quit commandeering your help—that you love her and the kiddies, but you aren't up to having them over unless she is there to discipline them. Don't worry about her ending up in tears. Better that than you ending up in a box—before your time.

CONFIDENTIAL TO WORRIED AND WAITING IN N.J.: The answer is YES! See a physician at once. And if you can't get an appointment immediately or can't afford one, contact your public health department and tell them what you have told me. And do not wait another day!

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

President Remembers Mrs. Page

By CAROL B. TYER
Reflector Staff Writer
STOKES—Stokes' oldest citizen, Mrs. Cora Roberson Page, last week received greetings from Pres. and Mrs. Richard Nixon on her 93rd birthday.

"I know the White House has cards like this in readiness for whenever they're requested," she said. "I think my daughter, Margaret, who lives in Charlotte, sent in my name. It was a nice gesture though, and I've enjoyed it."

Last month Mrs. Page cut the ribbon for the opening of the new branch of Southern National Bank in Stokes. "I'd never been to a ribbon cutting before, much less cut the ribbon myself. I really enjoyed that, too. I love getting out and seeing everyone."

Mrs. Page is interested in all her family and friends in the community, and her health is so remarkably good that she can continue to be active. A member of Stokes Christian Church, she attends Sunday School and the worship service nearly every Sunday. She lives alone, but has someone in the house with her because she had had her house arranged as a duplex and rents out the other side to a friend. Her daughter, Mrs. Elizabeth James, lives next door and visits her often.

"Her doctor told us a long time ago," Mrs. James said, "that Mother was in excellent health and that if we wanted her to stay that way, we'd let her keep doing things for herself as she so obviously wanted to."

Mrs. Page does her own housework and some of her cooking, though her daughter often brings in meals. She freezes vegetables and makes fruit preserves during the summers and has continued to sew her own clothes and do her own mending and laundry.

"Yes, I was born here," she said. "This was just a crossroads when I was a child. It was named for a Mr. William G. Stokes who ran a store here. I think the name was needed when the railroad was run through here in 1892."

"I walked to the Briar Swamp School about a mile from here every day and later attended the Mason's School three or four miles from here toward Grindle Creek. Later on, I went to the Kinsey Seminary (now Atlantic Christian College) in Wilson. Then I took a job as a teacher in the same Briar Creek School I'd gone to."

"I was about 21 then and several of my pupils were older and bigger than I was. All of us were in one room and there was no graded structure. I taught reading and writing and arithmetic and whatever else came up to all of them."

Jan. 9, 1907 she was married to Simeon C. Page, who was a farmer. She has been a widow for 44 years.

Her children are Mrs. James of Stokes, Stuart Page of Greenville, Margaret Woolard of Charlotte, and Mrs. Frances Murphy of St. Simon's Island, Ga. A son, Carey, died less than a year ago. There are nine grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

MRS. PAGE... shows her birthday card from Pres. and Mrs. Nixon.

N.C. Budget Met Many Needs

The General Assembly has approved a $3.1 billion budget for the fiscal year 1974-75 and in many ways the legislators have spent the funds well. The largest part of the budget is locked in on maintaining existing programs, but the new budget uses the additional money available for expenditure to benefit the state employees and the people in general.

The budget, for instance, includes $105 million to provide salary increases of 7½ percent for teachers and state employees. In the original estimates this had been set at five percent. There is also an additional five percent increase for state highway patrolmen to bring their salaries more in line.

The budget includes $15 million for construction of two new multi-story prisons, something that should improve the state's prison and rehabilitation program.

There is $12.7 million in the budget to double the state kindergarten program, $8.1 million for expansions of the exceptional children program, $5.7 million for school psychologists and guidance counselors, $5 million for occupational education $3.4 million for extra teachers, $4 million for principals' secretaries and $2 million for physical education. Certainly with these appropriations the state should make major strides in specialized areas of education.

The legislators responded to public demand for improvement in the area of health care by authorizing $15 million for construction of a medical sciences building at East Carolina University and instructed the board of governors to bring back a plan for expansion of the school next year.

They also approved the board's request for $28.5 million for Area Health Education Centers throughout the state. There is $18.4 million for community mental health centers and $5.7 million for improved staffing at mental institutions.

The budget falls short in providing funds for state parks, but all-in-all we view it as a budget which is responsive to public need. The approved budget should do much to off set criticism of this Legislature as being too willing to listen to special interests.

VA Is Paying Political Price

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—The horrors now afflicting the nation's veterans programs can be traced to the radical plan of the old Haldeman-Ehrlichman White House, officially repudiated but surviving nevertheless, to centralize all power in the Oval Office during President Nixon's second term.

Although H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman are long gone, their grand design endures—administered by spiritual heirs and generally ignored by Watergate-precipitated Washington. The disruptive results are now surfacing in one agency after another. In the Veterans Administration (VA), the political explosion has just begun.

A central feature of the Haldeman-Ehrlichman plan was to place trusted Nixon aides, from the White House and the widely defamed Committee for the Re-election of the President (CREEP), in key positions of executive departments. Running the government then would be Haldeman and his staff, backed by the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) headed by Roy Ash and his deputy, Fred Malek, who had been second-in-command at CREEP.

Named by Malek to be White House agent for VA's multi-billion-dollar operations was Frank Naylor, fresh from a stint at CREEP rounding up veterans organizations' support for the Nixon-Agnew ticket. Naylor moved in to VA's plush 10th floor executive offices as a supergrade 18 paying $43,926. Other CREEP alumni from the Malek stable moved to lesser VA jobs. Among the many: Michael Bronson, a CREEP field representative as assistant administrator for planning and evaluation; Andrew Adams, a Kansas coordinator for CREEP as deputy director in VA's now-embattled education division.

What was happening at the VA reflected a radical effort to give the White House total control of all major bureaus and departments. Now, 15 months later, the outcome at the VA is clear: utter disaster.

Naylor, who came to VA without experience in the agency's highly specialized work, has now been quietly shunted to the Farmers Home Administration. Bronson is on his way out. Adams, a polio victim confined to a wheelchair, is slated to run the new rehabilitation office in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare (but powerful Congressmen may block that appointment).

This accelerating collapse of the Haldeman-Ehrlichman centralization of power barely begins the story of the BA's crisis.

The American Legion cheered when then Republican Sen. Jack Miller of Iowa (defeated for reelection in 1972) persuaded Mr. Nixon in 1969 to name Don Johnson, a fringe Iowa Republican politician and former national commander of the Legion, to head the VA. Today, however, even the Legion has soured on Johnson's performance running the VA's 171 hospitals, 59 regional offices and tens of thousands of employees.

"Don," said one congressional critic, "is a political primitive who plays everything by the Malek rulebook." Malek's first rule is saving money. Thus, Johnson's critics complain he automatically overrides his own experts, plus the organized veterans' lobbies, to accept OMB's budget proposals even at the expense of essential veterans' services.

The most dramatic case was the Johnson-contrived ouster last week of Dr. Marc J. Musser, VA's highly regarded chief medical officer. In a private letter April 3 to Rep. Olin Teague, chairman of the House Veterans Committee, and Sen. Alan Cranston, chairman of the Senate subcommittee on veterans health and hospitals, Musser said that "an antagonistic and uncooperative administrator (Johnson)" made his job impossible and that "the infiltration of the department by personnel selected and appointed by... the administrator has virtually eliminated any possibility of functional integrity" in the medical branch.

When Musser came under attack by Johnson's office last year, then presidential counselor Melvin Laird interceded. Laird wrung from Johnson a firm agreement to stop interfering with Musser's operation. More significant, Mr. Nixon himself strongly indicated to Teague last December that Musser would stay. Now, with the President preoccupied with fighting impeachment and with Laird gone, Musser has been hounded out of office.

Musser's top deputy, Dr. Benjamin F. Wells, was also forced out. Wells told us Johnson "just could not stand" Wells' connections with powerful congressional Democrats.

By throwing its full weight behind Johnson, OMB retains draconian control over VA's budget. The cost is high: loss of support from the powerful veterans' lobby, from tens of thousands of Vietnam veterans, and administrative chaos in the VA. Such is one bitter after-taste of the Haldeman-Ehrlichman blue-print for power.

Sights Set By Church League

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—A set of six areas of concern have been defined by the North Carolina Christian Action League as the group of church leaders move more strongly into the arena of political action.

The Rev. Coy Privette, president of the league for his fifth term, said the political action will be directed at non-partisan issues affecting people, and will concentrate on the General Assembly.

"That is where the action is. Decisions are made every day in the General Assembly that really affect people. The action, for church leaders, is not what we say at 11 o'clock on Sunday inside the four walls of a church... the action is in the General Assembly."

Privette, pastor of the North Kannapolis Baptist Church, said the Christian Action League is "stronger than it has been in its history," and now has 150 trustees representing 12 different denominations with a membership of more than 1.7 million people.

Speaks For Church The league does not speak for all of those church members. Privette is quick to add, but does have an obligation to "speak for the church... to let members of the General Assembly and the public know where we stand on the many items of legislative concern with moral and ethical principals involved—in short, with all facets of life facing our people."

The new involvement by the Christian Action League has created more interest among member churches than any previous activity, and the response has been demanded for more involvement, Privette said.

But involvement must be issue-oriented, shying away from partisan political matters. "We could care less whether it's a Democratic bill or Republican bill... if it's a good bill for the people.

"People have very little representation. Special consideration invariably goes to special interests: bankers, soft drink people, the inventory tax for manufacturers and retailers, the utilities—on down the line. The middle class has nobody," Privette said. Six task forces are being set up by the league, with members of the board of trustees—ministers and laymen—choosing which area they want to be involved in.

Funds are being set up for the task forces to make visits, studies and prepare recommendations for the 1975 General Assembly.

New Concerns These are the new areas of concern:

Penal Reform—what should the role of the prison system be: punishment or rehabilitation, and what can the church do in helping rehabilitate?

Tax Reform—study of the entire tax structure with an eye to making taxes more equitable for the poor and elderly; to pinpoint areas of favoritism to vested interests.

Highway Safety—Broad study of all aspects, with special emphasis on drinking and driving.

Pornography and Obscenity—Will the Christian Action League have to take direct action against theaters and bookstores to halt the spread. The subject of television and movie violence will also be included.

Advertising—A look at the prospects of banning locally originated advertising of alcoholic beverages in newspapers and on television or radio.

Capital Punishment—The league considers this a key issue and will seek to arrive at a position.

In all, the Christian Action League is now spelling it out clearly: the concern of the leadership is no longer limited to liquor-by-the-drink questions. "We are here to influence legislation," Privette said bluntly.

And with the two-to-one vote against mixed drinks in North Carolina last year, he is certain the league has the strength to influence some issues.

Strength For Today

KINGDOM OF GOD It has always been rather surprising to those who have pondered the Gospel that Jesus should have spoken so much about the Kingdom of God, and his followers in succeeding generations so little about it.

The creeds contain very little mention of the Kingdom. The Apostles' Creed, for example, does not mention it at all. This is no doubt due to the fact that the creeds arose in times of controversy, and the particular doctrines at issue were emphasized to the exclusion of the doctrine of the Kingdom.

But for Jesus the conception of the Kingdom was primary. He said, "The Kingdom of heaven is within you", and while a new social order might come as a result of the Kingdom of God, the Kingdom was then and is now that inner spiritual state of tranquility and power which comes when finite man surrenders his will to the will of the infinite God.

That Joint Tax Return

WASHINGTON—"Hello, Dick. Why the long face?" "I just got the word we owe $467,000 in back taxes, Pat." "What do you mean 'we' owe $467,000?" "Your and I. You see, we filed a joint return because we're man and wife. So actually you only owe half—which comes to $233,500." "Where am I going to get $233,500?" "Look, Pat, I have my own problems. I can't worry about where you're going to find your half."

"I don't see why I have to pay half of your back taxes. You're the one who hired those stupid accountants that apparently didn't know what they were doing."

"Now, Pat, you're being unnecessarily harsh. They were only trying to save us taxes. Unfortunately they got caught in a technicality, and it cost us a half-million dollars. After all, nobody's perfect."

"Dick, I don't like to say I told you so, but remember when you told me that we only had to pay $792 in 1970 and I said there was something cockeyed with those figures? You told me that all you were doing was what any American citizen is expected to do which was to take full advantage of the tax laws."

"I might have said that." "Remember what I said to you?"

"No, I don't." "I said 'Dick, we could raise $792, but it would be wrong.' It's on your tapes."

"Let's not bring up the tapes, Pat. I still feel that legally I did the right thing, but apparently the joint congressional committee, and I'm not saying they don't have a right to, disagrees with us."

"I still think the President of the United States deserves better tax advice than you got."

"Listen, it wasn't my tax lawyers who screwed me up; it was Lyndon Baines Johnson. He was the one who told me I should give my vice-presidential papers to the National Archives for a whopping write-off. At the time I thought he was just being a friend, but now I see it was his way of sabotaging me. He never did like me, Pat."

"What about all those other deductions on our apartment in New York City and San Clemente? Was that Johnson's fault, too?"

"That's just politics, Pat. They couldn't beat me at the polls so they're getting back at me through capital gains. Every nickel we deducted was a legitimate item, and if it hadn't been for Watergate we'd be getting a refund now."

"All right, Dick. Even if everything you say is true, where are we going to get $467,000?"

"I was thinking of opening up San Clemente to the public. We could charge $3 a

Other Editors Say Highway Fixation

(Greensboro Daily News)

One thing the enrage crisis did was scare the pants off the guardians of the state's sacred highway trust fund and the interests that are its chief beneficiaries. Governor James Holshouser himself is worried about it. He recently recommended that the General Assembly set aside $20 million from the general tax fund as a contingency reserve for use if state gasoline tax collections (which are marked for the sole use of the highway fund) fall short of the amounts appropriated for roads.

Rep. Lane Brown, D-Stanly, thinks that would be unconstitutional. In a letter to the chairmen of the House and Senate appropriations committees, he cited a provision of the state's Revenue Act which says that "each tax levy is known as general fund levy or highway fund levy and the use of the proceeds is restricted to the purposes of the respective funds."

Mr. Brown also pointed out that the 1965 Road Bond Act prohibits the transfer of gasoline tax revenues from the highway fund to the general fund. That was intended to "provide more adequate security" for the road bonds. Mr. Brown's position is that the same line of reasoning should be applied to transfers from the general fund to the highway fund. He contends such transfers could impair the credit of such general fund obligations as school bonds and clean water bonds.

There is no doubt that the highway lobby would scream bloody murder if the proposal was to transfer gasoline tax money to the general fund. That has been proposed in the past and the lobby hit the ceiling. It has successfully fought off all attempts to divert extremely modest sums from the highway fund to urban mass transit.

It was only about a year ago that a number of legislators, some of whom no doubt look with favor on the new "contingency reserve" plan, got up and denounced as sacrilegious the attempt to divert highway trust funds to mass transit. They said it would be breaking a sacred covenant with the people who paid the gasoline tax. Apparently their principles are more flexible when it is a question of raiding the general fund for the benefit of the highway fund.

Roads are important to North Carolina and it is well supplied with them. In fact, it is blessed with roads in some sections to the point almost of strangulation. The state's highway system is in better shape than its schools, its courts, its health care systems, its streams, or its prison system. We are unqualified to judge the constitutionality of the proposed transfer of funds, but logic and common sense are on Mr. Brown's side.

Business Techniques Borrowed

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst NEW YORK (AP) — Caught in a financial crush, universities today are being forced to borrow budget and administrative processes from corporate management, a procedure often thought to be fraught with danger.

The fear, actively expressed by deans and students alike, is that the use of business techniques eventually if not immediately means the ascendancy of money over education.

Inefficiency, it is said, must be tolerated for the sake of truth. Academic standards, the argument continues, must not be infringed upon by financial standards.

But when financial inefficiency constitutes the threat rather than the alleged safeguard, as is the case with scores of universities today, administrations are forced to act. And so, business techniques come to campus.

At the University of Pennsylvania, which handles more than $200 million in funds a year, Martin Meyerson, president, has borrowed a technique from the world of conglomerates and instituted what he calls responsibility centers.

In a business conglomerate these units would be called profit centers, but profit isn't the goal of a university. Neither is loss, however, so the 22 centers are assigned the main responsibility for supporting themselves.

Each school within the university must make its own decisions on how its earned income, mainly tuition, is to be used. Instead of simply applying to the university for financing, it must learn to live within its income.

Decision making is thus diversified in each school. If a school wants to increase the ratio of faculty to students it must justify the move financially. If it wants to offer more student aid it must check its bank account first.

Each center is also assessed for costs of the university as a central enterprise, depending upon the use it makes of libraries and other common facilities. And each school shares in the university's general income.

If a responsibility center wants to embark on a new project that might result in sharp startup costs it can borrow from what is called the intercenter bank at the prime rate. It can save there too.

Prof. John Hobstetter, a

Again Warn World

By STAN BENJAMIN

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — Widespread, persistent starvation may hit South Asia and Africa within 10 years unless those areas cut their population growth and get massive aid, say the authors of a new computer study.

The grim warning came from Mihal Mesarovic, director of the Systems Research Center of Case Western Reserve University, and Eduard Pestel, professor of engineering at the Technical University of Hannover, Germany.

Their findings parallel a report by the Overseas Development Council, which warned that Asia could face famine next year. But the new report goes far beyond the council study, which recommended foreign aid in the form of food, fertilizer and agricultural help.

In an interview Tuesday, Mesarovic and Pestel said food shipments and agricultural aid alone cannot stave off starvation in South Asia and Africa.

Pestel estimated the industrialized nations would have to provide some $700 billion of investment aid over the next 50 years to prevent starvation, plus perhaps an equal amount to prevent massive unemployment in the underdeveloped world.

Mesarovic and Pestel conducted their computerized studies, comparing the worldwide effects of various economic and population policies, for the Club of Rome, a private international study group.

Some of Mesarovic and Pestel's preliminary findings:

—In South Asia even moderately successful population control would not keep population from outracing food supply. Without help, starvation levels would be reached by around 1985 with no end in sight.

—Africa would face a similar fate, but South America could,

The government today called on local banks to help reach holders of bonds of the Fourth Liberty Loan series so that the securities may be redeemed or exchanged by midnight Thursday. The bonds are being called in by the government and stop bearing interest on April 15.

Henry Morgenthau, secretary of the Treasury, today wired State Bank and Trust Company and Greenville Banking and Trust Company, asking that they assist in notifying holders of bonds of the fourth series so they may be redeemed by April 12.

Work on CWA projects suspended in this county about two weeks ago will probably be resumed within the next two weeks, according to K. T. Futrell, who had been directing the activities.

The work will be completed under rural rehabilitation and urban work programs which will supplant the CWA. Futrell said people in communities where uncompleted projects exist should not worry about the temporary suspension of work.

Anderson Says Conally Is Under Investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Columnist Jack Anderson said today that former Treasury Secretary John B. Conally is under investigation by Watergate prosecutors for alleged bribery.

Conally, who in recent months has addressed Republican groups and met with party leaders in more than 30 states in what may be an effort to line up support for a 1976 GOP presidential bid, denied the allegation.

In his column, Anderson said FBI investigators assigned to the special prosecutor's office have evidence that Conally pocketed $10,000 from Associated Milk Producers Inc., the nation's largest dairy cooperative.

Anderson indicated the money changed hands in 1972, while Conally was still treasury secretary, but did not cite a specific date for the alleged transaction.

Anderson quoted FBI sources as saying the $10,000 was passed by a Milk Producers official to lobbyist Jake Jacobsen, who delivered it to Conally.

Jacobsen is under indictment for perjury after testifying that he stashed the $10,000 in a safe deposit box and never removed it until the FBI opened the box last November.

The indictment by a Watergate grand jury said Jacobsen claimed the money "was to be paid to a public official for his assistance" in getting President Nixon to raise federal milk

"But that means we'd have to be there all the time, signing autographs. Don't you have any other ideas?"

"We could sell ambassadorships. I'm sure I could get $100,000 for the Court of St. James."

"You know they've been sold already Dick. You can't sell them twice."

"Well, there is one other way of raising the money but I hesitate to suggest it."

"What is it?"

"The Alka Seltzer people have contacted me about you doing a TV commercial. All you would have to do is drink a glass of Fizzy water, look into the camera and say 'I can't believe we owed the whole thing.'"

SUE POWER CO.
CHARLOTTE (AP)—The Senior Citizens Clubs of Winston-Salem has filed a class action suit against Duke Power Co. to block a rate increase scheduled to go into effect April 15.

price supports in March, 1971. The official was left unnamed in the indictment.

Anderson said the FBI sources told him that Conally returned the $10,000 when he learned the milk co-op was being investigated in connection with contributions to Nixon's re-election campaign.

According to Anderson, a Conally associate has said that Jacobsen offered the $10,000 as a campaign contribution for distribution to GOP candidates but that Conally turned down the offer.

Anderson said the FBI investigators have evidence that after Conally allegedly pocketed the $10,000 from the milk producers, he met March 16, 1972, at the Treasury with co-op officials George Mehren and Harold Nelson.

According to Anderson, Mehren and Nelson were present when Conally telephoned Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and said: "John, get off your — and find out what is going on in the Midwest. There is discontent among the dairy farmers, and I have a group of them here."

Anderson quoted Conally as commenting on the alleged money deal: "I have told the Watergate prosecutors the truth about it, and I am going to continue to tell them the truth."

On March 12, 1971, then-Secretary of Agriculture Clifford Hardin decided to hold milk support prices at $4.66 per hundredweight, or about 80 per cent of parity.

The decision brought protests from dairymen who said the level was not high enough.

Following a meeting involving Conally, Nixon, Hardin and dairy industry representatives, price supports were raised on March 25, 1971, to $4.93 per hundredweight.

(Continued from page 4) system already is producing results, although it is always being re-evaluated. "Deans are concerned about a number of things they never paid attention to. Deans and faculty are asking more about the general problems of the university."

Still, he agrees, "a good deal of resistance" exists. "The deans by and large recognize the importance of it but feel many corrections are needed. To most of the faculty it is puzzling, but budgets always have been."

Hobstetter, a quiet scholar, refers to the "happy old days" when he could spend more time teaching, but he finds his role "fascinating." He finds it "a whole new dimension; it's fun, although there are days I wouldn't admit it."

Meyerson, who must satisfy a disparate constituency that includes the trustees, faculty, city, state and federal governments, as well as students "who are both customers and products," is optimistic. He feels university budgeting too often has been haphazard, failing to identify the academically desirable with the financially possible. His budget, he claims, is meant to implement planning, not to set priorities.

Year-Round Drive For Eye Bank

The Lions Club of Greenville is continuing to support the efforts of the North Carolina Eye and Human Tissue Bank Inc. in helping to meet the need for corneal transplant operations and scientific research and study.

Easter Sunrise Service Slated

The Black Pastor's Conference of Greenville will sponsor its annual Easter Sunrise Service Sunday at 6 a.m. at Phillippi Christian Church.

The Rev. W. B. Moore, pastor of Cornerstone Baptist Church, will deliver the message.

A fellowship breakfast will be served at 7:30 a.m. Churches participating include: Sycamore Hill Baptist Church; Cornerstone Baptist Church; Mt. Calvary F.W.B. Church; Phillippi Christian Church; Selvia Chapel Church; and York Memorial A.M.E. Zion Church.

The public is invited to attend.

—To prevent widespread starvation, developed nations must give financial aid to both agriculture and industrialization in the underdeveloped countries and accept their industrial entry into world markets. The underdeveloped nations themselves must apply effective controls on population growth.

In a summary of their study, Mesarovic and Pestel call for rapid establishment of a "global alert system" and a framework to develop solutions in advance of developing problems.

Boyd said that the organization acts as a depository for the forms for those who wish to go beyond the gift of the eyes to include the body or any of its parts.

It was pointed out that, in the fiscal year ending May 15, 1973, a record of 257 eyes were received by the Bank and brought the total to 2,947 eyes received since the organization began operations in 1951.

Lions sent in 6,732 eye pledges during the period, it was noted, making a total of 99,318 pledges on file at the end of the fiscal year.

Explaining that persons who have reached their 18th birthday may sign a North Carolina eye donation form, Boyd said that it is estimated that one out of every 25 blind cases could be helped by a corneal transplant. He contended that the need for human tissue for transplantation and human bodies for medical education is urgent. Boyd said that as science perfects methods of tissue preservation and transplantation, the need will become unlimited.

According to a bulletin published by the Eye-Bank, located in Winston-Salem, advances in medical science now make it possible to replace a variety of malfunctioning human organs. Techniques for transplanting corneas and kidneys are currently the most advanced, but progress is being made in overcoming transplantation problems connected with the liver, pancreas, heart, bone and other tissue.

Boyd said that persons wishing to know more about the Eye-Bank program or desiring donation forms should call him at 752-4416 or local committee member George A. Brown at 752-2819. Interested persons can also call Lions Club president C. W. Snell Jr. at 756-4918 or contact any member of the Greenville club for information.

He added that the Lions Club of Greenville will gladly assist anyone interested in making a pledge.

Riddle feels there's a need to take more action in North Carolina on the scope of public education. "There must be less emphasis on creature comforts in our schools and more stress placed on preparing children not going to college for a working life. We certainly have an urgent need to expand vocational education in public schools and to expand technical-vocational training."

"Another thing that bothers me is the dilemma of the established private higher education institutions. They're in trouble, and are folding. Maybe the idea of making state and federal grants to the individual student might be a practical step. This way a grant would follow the student, whether he attended a private or state supported institution," Riddle said.

In choosing to run for the Senate seat, despite the large number of candidates already announced, Riddle explained: "This is still a land of opportunity where anybody eligible can seek, and if elected, hold office. Why must a man have to have half a million dollars before he can run for public office? I don't see it that way."

The 42 year old Sanford native, who spent six years in the Army, then switched to the Air Force for another six years of service, says his family "seems to be very pleased with my decision. They're all working hard to help me by keeping the business running while I'm out campaigning."

Riddle admits it's going to be a tough fight with a large field contending for the voter's approval. "In my campaign, I'm trying to make it clear, that I need support, but whatever support I get must be with no strings attached."

Judge Declares Movie Obscene

CHARLOTTE (AP)—A federal judge has declared the movie "Meatball" obscene.

U.S. District Court Judge Woodrow W. Jones fined the producer, Meatball Products, and the shipper, Marvin Film Corp., $5,000 each Tuesday. The film was shown in two Charlotte-area theaters a year ago.

Senate-Seeker Says 2 Goals Are Related

By BETTY ANNE WILLIAMS
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP) — A 37-year-old Democrat who is running for the U. S. Senate says he intends to use his campaign to help change some of the practices employed by political office seekers.

Fred Dennis Chandley said if he wins the Democratic nomination and the general election to fill the seat now held by Sen. Sam Ervin Jr., D-N.C., he will work for "a change in our elective system so we could establish a maximum dollar amount, say $5,000, that a candidate is allowed to spend."

During the campaign, he said, "I'd like to state my views and get some of the candidates talking about them."

In an interview Chandley suggested "that we have a public forum in newspapers and on television at which all candidates could participate, state their views and be viewed by the public. By doing this, I feel we would elect people based on the merits of what we could see and hear from them."

Chandley, who works for IBM in Raleigh, said another reason he is running was the conflict over separation of powers in the executive and legislative branches of the federal government.

"I'm concerned about Congress not exercising its full constitutional rights. Our elective system has reached the point that in order for a candidate to be elected, it is necessary that he raise a tremendous amount of money. Even before we elect a person, he is tied in with financial groups and special interest groups," Chandley said.

"This establishes a mode of operations that follows through even after they are elected into the House or Senate. I believe the basic loyalties of many of our congressmen and senators are to the people who put up the money."

Chandley said his goals are related.

"By accomplishing that change in the elective system, I think we would be able to have the people in Washington that would restore the powers of the Congress so that they could start to have their own initiative in passing laws and performing the constitutional functions they are authorized to perform," he explained.

Chandley studied law for two years at the University of Tennessee after earning a bachelor of science degree there.

He has served as a town commissioner in Wake Forest where he lives with his wife, the former Kathaleen Shelton, and their three children. Chandley, a native of Marshall, is also chairman of the local school advisory board and president of Wake Forest's Lions Club.

In line with his assertion that campaigns should be run by creating as little obligation as possible, Chandley said he intends to keep his campaign costs to about $5,000. He said he has no knowledge of a contribution to his campaign exceeding $100.

Chandley's conception of a senator is clear-cut.

"What I would expect from a U. S. senator is a person who is willing to do the job, very loyal to his country and Constitution and an individual who would never sacrifice his principles and convictions. I would want his first loyalty not to be to interest groups, but to the people."

Local Student Is Prize Winner

MURRAY, Ky.—Two speech-broadcasting students from Murray State University have been declared winners in the annual nationwide contest conducted by National Public Radio to write promotional spot announcements for that network.

Carolyn Johnson, a sophomore from Greenville, N.C., had two winning entries and Diane Kepley, a senior from Newport News, Va., had one among the 13 chosen as the best in the country.

They are the first Murray State students to be among the prize winners in the competition. The school has been eligible to submit entries since the fall of 1970.

Egg Hunt Will Be Thursday, In 3 Locations

The annual Easter egg hunt sponsored by the Greenville Recreation Department is to be held in three locations this year—Guy Smith Stadium, West Greenville Recreation Center and South Greenville Recreation Center.

Scheduled for Thursday, the hunt will begin at 9:30 a.m. at each designated site. (In case of rain, the hunt will be held on Friday).

Special prizes will be given to children finding special hidden eggs. There's two each special eggs for three different age groups—two through five; six through nine; and ten through 12. Each age group will hunt for eggs in different areas of the three locations.

Children between the ages of two and 12 are invited to attend.

Six Speeches By Rep. Bundy

State Rep. Sam D. Bundy has scheduled six speaking engagements in April.

Saturday, Apr. 13 he will address the D.A.R. Chapter in Farmville in the afternoon and will speak to the reunion of the Farmville High School Class of 1954 in the evening. Thursday, Apr. 18, he will be in Winston Salem speaking to the Central Piedmont Safety Council. Sunday, Apr. 21, he will be at Wrightsville Beach to make the featured address to the Comptroller Division of the N. C. Savings and Loan League.

Friday, Apr. 20, he will speak at the annual banquet of the Pitt County Unit of the N. C. Association of Educators at Farmville Central High School. He will complete his April engagements with an address to the First Presbyterian Church Men of Greenville.

Grandpa Jones
 Has Eye On A
 Young Audience

GRANDPA—One of the most authentic entertainers in Nashville, Grandpa Jones is turning to a younger audience. (AP Wirephoto)

By SYLVIA RECTOR
 Associated Press Writer
 NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — A flurry of old songs reborn and a sudden resurgence of youthful respect for the old timers have so far missed one of country music's most authentic performers.

But at least Grandpa Jones believes there's now a market for his brand of music.

"If you want to hear real country music these days, you've got to go to a college or to one of these clubs the kids go to. They want the real old stuff, especially in the colleges. They're tired of this modern country," he declared.

Now 60, he's still doing the same kind of music and telling the same kinds of jokes he started with in 1935. Of course, as he says, "there aren't any new jokes, just variations on old ones."

Well known as a humorist from his weekly appearances on television's syndicated "Hee Haw," Grandpa still loves his music best.

"I'm not doing what's popular—or at least, what has been popular. You know, that modern country and the bluegrass. I don't pick like Earl Scruggs does. That's bluegrass."

His picking style is often called "claw-hammer" or "frailing."

"And I don't do any of this modern country ... about men running around on their wives and all. I like songs about the country or mother or train wrecks or something. Us old timers call that other stuff 'skin songs!'"

He records but, evidently, has had less success than he would have hoped.

"Oh, I do lots of records, but you'd never know it. The disc jockeys know I don't do modern country or bluegrass so they just pitch it out."

"That's why I want to do some of these college shows. I believe there's a lot of young people who would like what I do," he declared.

He's starting the college circuit soon, with a first appearance scheduled at Western Kentucky University.

The problem, Grandpa feels, is that too many writers are turning out "skin songs" and not the gentle, down-to-earth music he thinks is beginning to see a revival.

"One of the prettiest songs to come out in a long, long time is 'The Green, Green Grass of Home,'" he said. "And that's about home and just plain people. I'd like to see a lot more songs like that."

Grandpa has another album coming out in the near future, "Heading South with Nashville on my Mind."

Then, he's going to another record label.

"They're already looking for some material. Maybe it'll turn out and maybe it won't. We'll just have to see," he mused.

Grandpa isn't discouraged because his music isn't in vogue now—after all, he had just started a grand new show in Washington, D.C. when rock 'n roll hit town in the '50s.

"It came in and I went out," he laughed.

"All of it kind of runs in circles and I think it's probably going to go back to the old timey stuff for awhile. Anyhow, that's what I've been doing and it's the kind of music I like."

New Hampshire was part of the Massachusetts Bay Colony from 1641 to 1679.

Would Speed-Up Pace Of Trial Warehouse Plan Saw Opposition

By JOHN MORGANTHALER
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Federal Judge Lee P. Gagliardi is seeking to step up the pace at the criminal conspiracy trial of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and ex-Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans.

With Good Friday an off-day for the trial, Gagliardi said Tuesday he is "giving" some thought to a Saturday session.

But he appeared willing to go along with a defense suggestion that to compensate for the long weekend, court sessions be extended daily by an hour or so.

The government objected to this. It said it needs all the time it can get to prepare for each day of defense testimony.

Mitchell and Stans are accused of obstructing a Securities and Exchange Commission investigation into the operations of financier Robert L. Vesco in return for his secret $200,000 contribution to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

The Vesco donation was the largest cash contribution received by the Committee to Re-elect the President, which Mitchell and Stans took over after leaving the cabinet.

The defense presentation was enlivened Tuesday by the appearance as a witness of an ebullient multimillionaire insurance tycoon from Winnetka, Ill. — W. Clement Stone. His more-than-$2-million, non-cash donation was the largest single contribution of the 1972 campaign.

Gagliardi refused to let Stone say how much he gave Nixon and why, and the judge said he would not permit the defense to call as witnesses other large Nixon contributors.

The defense wanted to call other heavy contributors in an effort to show that many of them had insisted on anonymity and were seeking no favors.

But Gagliardi said, "What went through their minds is not relevant as to what went through Mr. Stans' mind as to criminal intent."

Stone testified he hosted a table of 10 at a $1,000-a-plate fund-raising dinner for Senate and House candidates in the Washington Hilton Hotel March 8, 1972. Among his guests were Mr. and Mrs. Mitchell.

A government witness, Daniel Hofgren, a volunteer GOP campaigned aide, had testified that he talked to Mitchell at a reception preceding the dinner and was warned by Mitchell to "stay away" from Vesco, and the subject of his planned $200,000 contribution.

One count in the indictment charges Mitchell with perjury, because of his testimony that he never talked with Hofgren about Vesco at the party, or told him to "stay away" from the financier.

Stone testified that Mitchell never made it to the reception, and arrived late for the dinner itself.

In another ruling Tuesday, Gagliardi refused to let the defense call as witness Berl Bernhardt, Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's campaign manager during the Maine senator's attempt to win the Democratic presidential nomination in 1972.

Stans' attorneys had said that Bernhardt's testimony would show that it was the "custom and practice" of all candidates to take anonymous contributions.

FLORENCE, S.C. (AP)—Efforts to explain a new system, under which tobacco growers will designate the warehouses to which they will take their leaf for sale, drew opposition at a Florence hearing.

Some 300 Pee Dee area growers and warehousemen seemed of little mind Tuesday to listen to explanations of intricate details of the proposal.

"It's all wet," shouted Leo Hanna, a Florence county grower.

A warehouseman, declining to identify himself, said the plan was concocted to aid the North Carolina flue cured tobacco industry at the expense of those in South Carolina.

The plan requires growers to specify to what warehouses, within an 80 mile radius of the farm, growers will take their leaf for sale, or face loss of federal price supports.

Explanations of the plan were attempted by a four-man panel of three U. S. Department of Agriculture men and a member of the industry-wide Flue-Cured Tobacco Marketing Committee. Ten other such meetings are scheduled throughout the southern tobacco belt.

William Lanier of the department told the group that the tobacco auction system itself is on trial.

Rail Strike Hits Japan

TOKYO (AP) — Workers on the Japan National Railway began a four-day strike today, forcing 8 million commuters to find other transport or stay home.

Another 5 million commuters were delayed by a slowdown of transport workers who had not yet struck.

Some 6½ million government and private employees were scheduled to strike Thursday for 24 to 72 hours, stopping almost all rail, bus and taxi services.

Japan's 260,000 telephone and telegraph workers and 200,000 postal employees struck Tuesday. The dock workers were holding meetings to decide whether to join the walkout Thursday.

The government lined up convoys of trucks to haul foodstuffs to major population centers, and the National Police Agency said it mobilized 340,000 men to maintain order and direct the increased automobile traffic expected.

The strikes are part of Japanese labor's annual spring offensive for higher pay. With the cost of living up 24 per cent in the past year, the unions are demanding wage boosts ranging from 20 to 30 per cent, inflation allowances, increased welfare payments for the poor and the right to strike for government employees, who can now be fired if they strike.

Management contends that it cannot meet the demands because of the uncertain economic outlook due to greatly increased oil prices.

State Given Dare Land

RALEIGH (AP) — The Dare County commissioners have decided to the state 17 acres of land that will form the nucleus for a $14 million project planned for Manteo Bay-Wanchese Harbor.

The federally financed project will include stabilization of Oregon Inlet, deepening channels from the inlet to Wanchese and Albemarle Sound, and substantial enlargement of the fishing boat harbor at Wanchese.

James E. Harrington, state secretary of natural and economic resources, said few other things would have more long-range economic benefit for northeastern North Carolina.

Harrington, in accepting the deed Tuesday, predicted a minimum of $30 million of capital investment in the area within five years after completion of the project.

First Glimpse Of Hess Given British Viewers

LONDON (AP) — British TV viewers got their first glimpse Tuesday night of the prison life of Rudolf Hess, Hitler's former deputy and the only inmate of West Berlin's Spandau Prison.

A film of Hess made by former U.S. Army Col. Eugene Bird, American commandant at Spandau until two years ago, was aired on the Independent Television Network.

The film was the first of Hess since he was imprisoned in Spandau 28 years ago. It showed him walking in the prison garden and in his cell, pointing out features of moon maps and charts which cover the walls. Hess will be 80 on April 26.

Bird said he shot the black and white film with his own 8mm camera in violation of Four Power prison regulations banning any filming inside Spandau.

Color TV Sets May Pose Fire Hazard

J. F. Baumann, manager of the Penney store at Pitt Plaza, said that his store may have sold a limited number of "Penncrest" 18-inch portable color televisions which may present a possible fire safety problem due to a defective focus resistor.

Baumann said that the models and serial numbers involved were Penncrest lot number 2855 with serial numbers that begin with CA042, CA043, CA066, CA112, CA113, CA122, and CA123.

The manager said that employees are searching records to report known customers. He reported that the Consumer Product Safety Commission has been notified.

Opines Detente Still 'Shallow'

NEW YORK (AP) — Exiled Soviet dissident Pavel M. Litvinov says detente between Russia and the United States can't be real if only the top leaders "meet and smile and talk to each other."

PTI To Launch Printing Course

The class will meet each Wednesday from 7 p.m. to 10 p.m. for ten sessions. Registration fee will be $2 per student.

Pitt Technical Institute will begin a 30-hour course in commercial printing Wednesday at 7 p.m. in room 28.

Course content will deal with the operations and technique of offset printing. Darkroom processes consisting of half tones, line work and camera operations, layout and design, stripping and masking negatives.

Litvinov, the 34-year-old grandson of Stalin's late foreign minister, arrived here with his family earlier this week. The chemical engineer says he hopes to stay and teach college physics in the United States.

"I can't consider detente real if only at the very top the leaders meet and smile and talk to each other, but the Soviet working man is told to look on every foreigner as a spy," he said in an interview Tuesday.

He said there "can't be such a thing as a cold peace. Real peace must be warm and friendly."

Will Celebrate 'Last Supper'

On Thursday, beginning at 7:30 p.m., the celebration of the Last Supper will be held at St. Paul's Episcopal Church.

The Celebrant will be the rector, The Rev. Lawrence P. Houston Jr., who will be assisted by the curate of St. Paul's, the Rev. Joseph Arps Jr. The rector will deliver the sermon.

The Lord's meal will be concluded with the Stripping of the altar in preparation for the observance of Good Friday. This ancient practice of removing every article of worship and symbolism from the altar and from the sanctuary except for the cross draped in black is observed in complete silence.

Will Celebrate 'Last Supper'

The sets made by Matsushita Electric of Japan, were imported from 1971 through 1973, it was pointed out.

The manager urged owners to check the lot number on the rear center of the cabinet and serial number located in the upper right corner on the rear of the cabinet. If the serial number prefix is one of those listed, owners should unplug the set and contact Penney's for free modification, he added.

Japan's Tanaka Is Under Fire

By ROBERT CRABBE
TOKYO (UPI) — He is chief executive of a great industrial country—yet polls say only 22 per cent on the people support him.

His political party is criticized for the way it raises campaign money.

He faces a crucial election for control of one house of his country's legislature later this year.

The opposition—and some members of his own party—are demanding that he quit.

The troubles of Japanese Prime Minister Kakuei Tanaka sound a lot like those of President Nixon. Just as Nixon fights for the White House, Tanaka battles daily to keep his place in the "Shusho Kantei," the squat, brown home of Japanese premiers across the street from the Parliament building.

The big difference is that Tanaka's ethics are not an issue. His critics simply accuse him of making a mess of the job. Kakuei Tanaka, 55, heads Japan's ruling Liberal-Democratic Party (LDP), which favors business oriented policies at home and cooperation with the United States in foreign affairs.

Unusual Premier
Stocky, wide-shouldered and gravel-voiced, Tanaka is Japan's most unusual prime minister in modern history. He had a threadbare childhood in a poor farm family in a rural province. Without finishing junior high school, he went to Tokyo in his teens to get a job as a construction laborer.

He started his own construction business, and rose to become a self-made millionaire. Tanaka rode into office on a high wave of popularity in July, 1972. His policy of recognizing China was welcomed by most Japanese, who felt double-crossed by Nixon's secret approach to Peking.

People called Tanaka "the computerized bulldozer," because of his brisk, get-on-with-the-job style.

An Asahi newspaper poll one month after he took office said 62 percent of the public backed his policies. Last December the same poll said Tanaka's support had dropped to 22 per cent. Sixty per cent said they were opposed, and 18 per cent undecided.

Inflation Has Hurt
Though LDP's fund raising is a controversial topic, the issue that really has hurt Tanaka and his party is inflation. The cost of living in Japan at the end of February was up 24 per cent in a single year. It was the worst inflation for any advanced country in the world.

Recently, presidents of some of Japan's most famous companies have been herded before the Diet (parliament) to admit their firms made the situation worse during the oil crisis by price manipulation and cornering of scarce goods.

These revelations have compromised LDP, because of its role as the political partner of the Japanese business community.

The test of how much damage Tanaka and LDP have suffered comes this summer. Half of the 260 members of the upper house of the two-house parliament come up for reelection. LDP holds a thin majority of only eight seats in the upper house, known formally as the House of Councillors.

If LDP loses it, Tanaka's rivals in the party will be in a good position to force his resignation. Date for the election has not yet been set.

Despite its problems, the LDP seems to have at least a 50-50 chance of winning the election.

Opposition Fragmented
Opposition is fragmented among four parties—Socialist, Communist, Komei, and Democratic Socialist. If the four cooperated and united on opposition candidates, LDP would almost certainly lose. In practice, the chances of such teamwork are poor.

Where Richard Nixon tends to defend himself with legalistic strategy, Tanaka is a head-on fighter, who wades in swinging. As with Nixon, neither criticism nor the polls have taken the edge off his determination.

LDP will not lack money to fight the election campaign. Its funds are raised by a foundation called Kokumin Kyokai (People's Society), organized by leading businessmen.

A Tokyo newspaper secretly obtained, and later published, the Society's schedule of assessments from big companies for 1974. They totaled $11 million. Private contributions are expected to multiply that figure several times.

No Shortage Of Alibis For Driving Violations

By KENNETH L. WHITING
JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Excuses. Excuses. Excuses. Almost every motorist has a "valid" one when nabbed for exceeding stricter speed limits imposed because of the energy crisis.

Newspaper reports indicate that magistrates across South Africa listen more or less patiently these days to alibi after alibi: "My accelerator jammed;" "My children were sick at home;" "I didn't know I was in a built-up area;" "I wasn't used to using an automatic car."

"I felt a little too jubilant," a Pretoria student explained after being caught speeding on the way home after his last day of school. He was fined $105 after Magistrate H.W.J. Brendkamp rejected the excuse as too weak. Although this country depends mostly on imports for its gasoline there has so far been no severe shortage of fuel here. Ration coupons have been prepared, however, and motorists face other restrictions.

Filling stations are closed from dusk to dawn and all day Saturday and Sunday. Motor racing, power boating and private flying have been curtailed. Spot fines and automatic "admission of guilt" fines for speeding infractions have been discontinued in favor of mandatory court appearances in all but exceptional cases.

This has led to several cases of motorists caught speeding far from home having to burn lots of gas making a court appearance some days later back in the community where the speed limits of 50 m.p.h. in the country and on freeways and 31 m.p.h. in urban areas were imposed last November. The city speed restriction was later upped to 37 m.p.h.

Prime Minister John Vorster called for strict observance of these top speeds as a matter of national urgency when, after several weeks, it seemed that an increasing number of drivers were applying unlawful pressure on their accelerators.

His plea was made before Michel C. Botha, a senior member of Vorster's cabinet, was allowed to pay a $75 admission of guilt fine in the small community of Grabouw without making a court appearance for driving 12 m.p.h. faster than the limit in his private car.

"It seemed pointless to require a busy man like a cabinet minister to waste a day traveling to attend a court case," said one official after Botha's case became public. "I want to emphasize, though, that Mr. Botha was not given any special treatment..."

Court records indicate most speed demons in the Johannesburg area have been fined about $52 in routine cases.

Magistrate T.B. Maxted dealt with 131 cases one day. All pleaded guilty and their fines totaled $5,818. Sometimes the excuses are accepted, other times not.

A magistrate in Roodepoort decreased the fine on one woman driver and congratulated her on her "remarkably fresh" statement. She told the court: "I have no stories, your honor..."

brainwashed myself. I couldn't go anywhere, do anything."

Walks Children
Now Mrs. Cosatino takes both children out for walks or while she shops. David, the baby is strapped into a carrier she pulls over her shoulders and Michelle, although not yet 3, has learned to stick close by.

"The child has had to learn very young, especially at a store, to come when called. It's just a matter of training. Kids aren't stupid. "I think it's OK to let my children know I need them. Most parents would never admit they need their children."

But first and foremost, Mrs. Cosatino emphasized, she is a parent. She picks up after her children, not the other way around. She's the one they look to for their needs.

"A mother is a mother," she said.

Blind Mother Says 'Like Any Other'

CHICAGO (UPI) — Maryann Cosatino isn't famous but she can be spotted easily on a crowded Chicago street.

She is the slender young woman with a baby wrapped on her chest, another child clutching her left hand, and carrying in her right hand a white cane to tap her on her way. The cane is the only indication Mrs. Cosatino is blind.

Maryann Cosatino, who is 25, doesn't fit the image of a sightless person, and she spurns praise. She says things like her "cane is a bummer" and "the blind consumer is shortchanged."

"I obviously have limitations," Mrs. Cosatino said in an interview, but "my limitations aren't disastrous. You can find a way."

Her husband, Frank, who works at an insurance firm, has partial vision and is considered legally blind. Their two exuberant youngsters, David, 1, and Michaelle, 2 1/2, can see perfectly, especially when up to mischief.

"I'm a mother to them like any other mother," Mrs. Cosatino said. "They're (her children) not judging us by the eyes of society. I'm their mother. I give them food and clean pants. And love. You don't need eyes for that."

Improvises At Home
If the lack of sight complicates a task, she improvises. And if she bumps into one of her children or stumbles over a toy on the floor, no one thinks much about it—if they even notice. She cooks, sews, changes diapers and the rest.

Armed with a college degree, Mrs. Cosatino is considering free lance writing during spare moments.

The outspoken young woman is candid about the fears and problems facing her. They are not insurmountable, she says, and neither the blind nor the sighted should view them so.

"It was a scary thing thinking Michelle could run away. I wouldn't even know what color clothes she had. I

NSF Institute Here Planned

A summer institute to help teachers of high school biology and physical science upgrade their skills related to teaching science to the unmotivated student will be held at East Carolina University July 1-Aug. 9.

The institute is sponsored by the National Science Foundation and will involve about 45 teachers from the southeastern U. S.

The instructional staff will include Dr. Charles Coble; Dr. Floyd E. Mattheis, chairman of science education at ECU; and IIS Instructor Lucille H. Daniel of Northwest Cabarrus High School in Concord.

Further information and application forms are available from Dr. Coble (IIS) at the ECU Dept. of Science Education, Box 2792, Greenville, 27834.

Transplanted Lawman To Be Subject Of Book

By MORT ROSENBLUM
EL BOLSON, Argentina (AP)—Martin Sheffield, Texas sheriff, slayer of dinosaurs, pursuer of Butch Cassidy, gold panner, crackshot, crackpot and general legend about town, may soon pass into immortality.

The Argentine journalist who found his body and cornered his rifle is writing a biography of the transplanted yanqui who, as the story goes, mistook kerosene for whisky at age 72 and passed on.

By what few converging accounts remain, the story goes like this:

Sheffield came to Argentina with six other lawmen, apparently hired by Pinkerton, after Butch Cassidy, the Sundance Kid and their lady knocked off the bank of London and South America in Rio Gallegos.

The movie put the Cassidy gang in Bolivia but, in fact, they came to the southern Argentine region of Patagonia after the famous Turkey Creek, New Mexico, shootout at the turn of the century.

Argentine army men captured the Cassidy trio and shipped them to Buenos Aires, according to memories, and Sheffield got a reward for finding and fingering them. He, like some of his fellow riders, stayed.

"He was a great man, known and respected everywhere he went," says 68-year-old Dodo Sheffield, one of the 12 children Martin had with his Araucanian Indian wife.

"He was not exactly the wonderful person that his son describes," recalled an old-timer in this Andean valley town around which Sheffield spent some three decades until his death in the early 1930s.

But all agree he was hard to believe.

Sheriff Sheffield, a huge tin star on his chest, went to dances and shot the heels off ladies' shoes. He could dewing a fly with a bullwhip and part a man's hair with a Bowie knife from 50 paces.

He settled barroom fights by shooting home-rolled cigarettes out of his opponent's mouth. He was an Indian scout with chiefs for friends.

The Argentine journalist, Francisco Juarez of Siete Dias magazine, says that he has 10,000 Sheffield stories which he is saving for his book. He has been collecting material for 11 years.

But Sheffield's prize feat was discovering a dinosaur in the Epuyen lagoon near the creek he named "Klondike," where he panned for gold. In 1922 he sent a telegram to Buenos Aires, 1,100 miles away by horse and railroad, saying something like: "Dinosaur. Send commission."

A group soon showed up, headed by the famed surveyor Emilio Frey and the Buenos Aires zoo director Clemente Onelli. They spent a month searching for the beast, at night with lights and in the day with sticks.

Sheffield helped things along from time to time by making dinosaur footprints with a barrel. Finally, when things got sticky he disappeared into Chile just in case someone thought of jailing him for fraud.

When the situation cooled, Sheffield admitted it was a hoax, and he said he did it to publicize the neglected south of Argentina. That ended that for everyone but his son, Dodo, who runs a small restaurant here and still believes in the dinosaur.

Sheffield did a little of everything here. He raised cattle, rode in the private army of a rich rancher, washed up a few nuggets of gold and did some farming.

Juarez said he was from a wealthy Texas family and once a brother came down to try — unsuccessfully — to get him to come home.

His taste for booze and women was widely known and he never slowed down. Dodo said he was still partying all night and breaking horses the next morning while in his 70s.

Sheffield was found dead by his gold lode, and those steeped in his lore say he grabbed a bottle of kerosene and drank it in a seizure of delirium tremens. No one can really say for sure.

Juarez discovered Sheffield's body buried near his gold-panning camp, and he had it transferred to the El Bolson cemetery under a respectful headstone.

Revival Series Begin Tonight

Revival services will begin Wednesday night at the Evangelistic Tabernacle, located three miles west of Pitt Plaza on 264 By-pass.

David and Karen Brickley will be the featured speakers for the services, which will continue through Sunday night.

Services will begin nightly at 7:30 and at 11 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Sunday. Special singing will be held at each service.

The Brickleys have been on television throughout the east coast on Christian Television and are also recording artists.

At Institute On Administration

BOONE—J. Craig Quick, personnel officer of Pitt Memorial Hospital, attended the Institute for Small Hospital Administration here last week.

The two-day meeting, co-sponsored by the N. C. Hospital Administration, was the first for the new Institute, which is part of the Office of Health Care Management at Appalachian. It is designed for the 75 per cent of the hospitals in the United States which have 125 beds or fewer.

Car And Army Tank Collided

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—Spec. 4 William Watkins Jr. recently was driving his car on a road at Ft. Bliss. Ahead of him a vehicle was moving ever so slowly.

Watkins started to pass the vehicle when it began a left turn. A collision occurred between Watkins' car and a U.S. Army tank.

The official flower of the State of Washington is the rhododendron.

HOMES FOR AMERICANS

HOUSE PLAN HA821C is a daring A-frame home. A prow-shaped front features extensive use of glass to flood the house with light and the view. A sun deck in front that extends along the side of the house allows for outdoor living. Two bedrooms and two baths are located on the first floor with the living room, dining room, and kitchen. The master bedroom suite on the second floor offers privacy and a view of the first floor living area as well as the outdoors. The first floor covers 910 square feet—the second floor, 390 square feet. The plan was designed by Lester Cohen. The cost of the blueprint can be obtained by writing to him at Room 505, 48 West 48th St., New York, New York 10036. Enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

East Carolina Turned Out To Be Just What The 'Doctor' Ordered

By WILLIE PATRICK
Special to the Reflector

Dave "Doc" LaRussa (as in Doc Ellis, the Pittsburgh Pirate pitcher who LaRussa patterned a now-defunct hair style after) is really bashful when you bring up the subject, but the fact stands that a "loss" by the University of Massachusetts and Florida State University has turned out to be a gain for East Carolina University's Pirates.

LaRussa, a native of Enfield, Conn., had narrowed his choice of schools to the three listed. But after hearing a recommendation from his high school baseball coach, who played against the Pirates on a spring trip, LaRussa just "applied for school and tried out for the team" when he got here. And "Doc" doesn't regret his decision one bit.

"I wouldn't change my decision, if I had it to do all over again, for anything in the world," said LaRussa. "I had never been south of D. C. in my life prior to freshman orientation, and since then my stay at East Carolina has been great."

The 6-1, 190-pound senior, sight unseen, reported to baseball practice, and as he said, "just made the team." To other Pirate baseball hopefuls, "Doc" said he would employ a Three-pronged recruiting attack:

"First, I would emphasize the education here, if given the chance," said LaRussa. "Next, I would stress the part the coaches play. They both are fairly young and know how to treat the players...they know what's going on."

"And third, but still important, East Carolina has been a great social school. Like I said before, the people here are great."

As a high school athlete, LaRussa participated in basketball and briefly in football as well as baseball. He walked off with his high school's "Outstanding Athlete" award as a senior, due to basketball and baseball exploits. Doc also made an interesting comparison of high school baseball, matching his area and his newly-found home.

"I really don't think a high school player reaches his potential as early in the north," LaRussa explained. "Because up there the weather is so bad that you can only play about a month or so per year. I on' played 16 games total in high school."

While he isn't busy menacing Pirate opponents with his various lefthanded deliveries, LaRussa engages in an activity quite uncommon to most baseball players: cooking.

"Yes, I cook all my meals," LaRussa confessed. "I never eat out, which saves a lot of money." LaRussa's specialties include, for the most part, spaghetti and lasagna. He credited his "Aunt Fran" as being "just about the best cook around."

"When I go home, she cooks spaghetti, lasagna, homemade soup; just about anything you want to name, she can cook it," smiled LaRussa. "She really knows how to take care of me."

Another person LaRussa credited with taking care of him while he is in Connecticut is his father, Phillip LaRussa. "Doc" spoke of the high esteem in which he holds his father in tones usually reserved for discussing The Trinity, and for good reason.

"Whenever I wanted to play, he let me," LaRussa recalled. "He never in one day told me I had to do anything; he put two of my sisters through college in front of me, too, while I enjoyed the high school life."

"You just really learn to love and respect a man like that."

Respect is something LaRussa has earned from Pirate opponents this season, too. Through the first 17 games, "Doc" had pitched 41 and one-third consecutive innings without allowing an earned run. However, a bit of what outsiders might term "hard luck" has held his record to 3-1.

"I don't care if I go 0-0 all season, as long as the team wins," LaRussa concluded. "Because it's the team that matters, win or lose."

With a teammate like LaRussa, the Bucs have an added gain, whether he is on the mound or off. The Bucs have gained or chalked up a win, eight of the ten times "Doc" has been involved in a decision in his college career. And to think those two other colleges will probably never know exactly what they lost when LaRussa came to East Carolina University.

Dave (Doc) LaRussa

VMI Upsets Indians, 5-4

By The Associated Press

While East Carolina's Pirates and Richmond's Spiders appear to have turned the Southern Conference baseball race into a two-team affair, the weather and the tail-enders may yet play a part in the determination of a winner.

The weather this week has been particularly on the side of defending champion Appalachian State, which dropped at least temporarily out of contention last Saturday in a double defeat at East Carolina. With three starters on the injured list, the Mountaineers the past two days have been weathered out of a home meeting with Furman's Paladins, themselves still not completely out of the picture.

Enter the tail-enders in the form of Davidson's Wildcats and Virginia Military's Keydets.

VMI hung a 5-4 defeat Tuesday on William and Mary that dropped the Indians to 3-3 in league play. The victory boosted VMI into a tie for seventh at 2-6 with Davidson, and the Wildcats get their chance to play a part at home today against Appalachian, weather permitting.

Both East Carolina, 7-1, and Richmond, 4-1, have tough opposition on the road, so the hopes of The Citadel's Bulldogs at 4-3, William and Mary, Appalachian at 2-2 and Furman at 1-3 can't be ignored.

The Citadel ran its over-all record to 12-4 with a 7-3 victory Tuesday night over Old Dominion, usually a Virginia small college power that now has lost six in a row and dropped to 6-13.

Appalachian was 9-9 over-all going into today's scheduled game at Davidson, which has won only three of 12 starts against all opposition. A non-league game listed today had Furman, 10-5, at home against South Carolina.

Harry Barksdale drove in three runs and relief pitcher John Pate cut off a William and Mary rally in the ninth inning as VMI surprised the Indians, boosting its over-all record to 2-9 and dropping the losers to 3-9.

Workouts Half Over

Pat Dye sent his East Carolina University football Pirates through another full-scale scrimmage last night as the Bucs marked the half-way point in the spring drills.

This time, the results were a little more pleasing.

"I think we had a pretty good scrimmage, team-wise," he said afterwards. "I saw a lot of effort on the part of both sides—offense and defense. We still need to eliminate the problems which have been plaguing us," he added, referring to the large number of fumbles the Bucs have had in trying to put together the new wishbone offense.

"After half of spring practice, I think we are progressing about as expected. I guess you could say that the cream is working itself to the top," Dye said.

"But with only 10 days of work remaining, we still have a lot of teaching, learning, and polishing to do. The best way to accomplish that is through repetition and making sure that the players understand and execute what we are trying to do."

The Bucs will now take a week off for Easter holidays, returning to work on Tuesday.

Pirate Netters Down Pembroke

East Carolina University snapped its losing string in tennis yesterday, taking a 5-4 victory over Pembroke State University.

The Bucs dropped the first two singles events, but came back to win the next four to hold the lead after the completion of that round. They again dropped the first two doubles, tying the match, but came back to win the final one and gain the victory.

The win boosted the Pirate record to 3-7 for the year. They will play host to Old Dominion on Friday.

Summary:

Doug Eller (PSU) defeated

Chris Davis, 6-3, 6-2.

Mark Boyles (PSU) defeated Howard Rambeau, 6-3, 6-4.

Williamston Tops Ahoskie

WILLIAMSTON—Williamston High School gained a 3-2 victory over Ahoskie's Indians in a Northeastern Conference baseball game yesterday.

The victory raised the Tiger record to 5-1 overall and 4-1 within the conference.

Williamston pushed over two runs in the bottom of the first to take the lead. Hubert Smith reached on an error and moved up when Phil Selby walked. Both runners stole up a base and Joe Roberson singled to drive in Smith. Selby then stole home for a 2-0 lead.

Ahoskie came back with a run in the second inning. Brinkley reached on an error and Renner singled. Lancaster came up with another hit, to drive in Brinkley. In the third, another Ahoskie run tied the game at 2-2. Wynne singled and was sacrificed up. He stole third and an error on the play let him score.

Williamston came right back with a run in the bottom of the frame to take the lead again, this time holding onto it. Smith reached on an error and was sacrificed to second and then to third. Keith Brown followed with a single, driving in Smith with the winning run.

Williamston is slated to travel to Plymouth today.

Wilson's Titans, who had been the hitless wonders prior to yesterday, came to Guy Smith Stadium and found their bats as they pounded out a 7-1 victory over the Rampants.

The loss was the second Division II defeat for the Rampants, against two victories.

Wilson, which had been held in check, despite a winning record, seemed able to come up with hits few and far between in their previous games. But against the Rampants yesterday, they swung tough bats, banging out 10 hits to score six earned runs and two unearned ones.

Rose, at the same time, couldn't find the ball with the bat to get it to the right place. Several times, Wilson came up with outstanding catches to rob Rose of key hits, preventing any rally from getting under way.

Stan Hicks hurled the victory for the Titans, scattering four hits, and the lone run against him was unearned. He walked just one, hit one and struck out five.

Chris Manning took the loss, going five innings before Kelly Heath came on in relief. Manning allowed eight hits and was responsible for six of the eight runs. He walked one and also struck out five. Heath, in two innings, allowed two hits, one run, hit one, walked three and struck out two.

About the only bright spot for Rose was the fact that Griff Garner kept his hitting streak intact. After getting three in three trips against Rocky Mount, and going four-for-four against Bertie, Garner led off with his eighth straight hit against the Titans. His next two trips saw him hit by a pitch and walked, making 10 straight trips to the plate and 10 arrivals at first. His hitting streak is now eight-for-eight.

Wilson's first two runs, in the top of the first, produced almost a comedy of errors. Charlie Bedgood led off with a ground ball back to third that was bobbled, then thrown too late.

Bedgood stole second, and the throw to get him bounced off the ground in front of the base, striking Gill Whitford on the bridge of the nose, stunning him. The ball rolled away, and while it was being chased up, Bedgood moved on to third.

Sandy Lamm hit a grounder down the third base line, and Macon Moye got tangled up with Bedgood, trying to get back to third, and by the time he got the ball, Lamm had arrived safely.

Then, Manning tried the pickoff play at third, but the ball was errored, and Bedgood raced on home, while Lamm pulled into second. A passed ball let him go on to third. He was unable to score on an infield out or a short bashed to left, but did come in on Edward Eatman's fielder's choice, making it 2-0.

Rose got off a threat in the bottom of the first. Garner got a one-out single and Robert Brinkley followed with another hit, but a popup and a strikeout ended the inning.

In the second, the Rampants got their only run of the day. With one down, Mike Wallace singled to left. He moved on to third when Kelly Heath singled to right. Manning then tried to lay down a suicide squeeze bunt, but missed the ball. The Wilson catcher, Stan Johnson, however, was a little hurried in his attempt to make the tag and missed the ball, letting Wallace cross untouched with the one run.

Games Are Rained Out

Rain and cold weather knocked out much of the area baseball activity yesterday.

Among the games postponed were North Lenoir at North Pitt, Farmville Central at Southern Wayne, Kinston at E. B. Aycock, Mattamuskeet at Jamesville, Ayden-Grifton on Conley and Greene Central at Southern Nash.

Wilson came back with three runs in the fourth inning. Eatman led off with a double to right center. Tim Hinnant followed with a hit to center and Hicks batted out another hit, scoring Eatman. Alan Daniels sacrificed runners up, and Mitch Barnes followed with a single to left, bringing in both Hinnant and Hicks to run the score to 5-1.

In the fifth, the Titans got another run. With one down, Clay Johnson slashed a triple into deep right field, then scored when Eatman singled.

Another Wilson threat was snuffed out in the sixth. Hicks was hit by a pitch and Barnes walked, but it died there.

But in the seventh, one more run crossed for Wilson. Stan Johnson led off with a single and Clay Johnson doubled to left center. A wild pitch scored Stan, and two walked, to Eatman and Hinnant loaded the bases. A line drive double play however, got the Rampants out of further trouble.

Rose, after scoring in the second, failed to get another man past first base, and got only two that far.

The Rampants will now play in the Ayden-Grifton Tournament, Friday and Saturday at Ayden-Grifton High School.

Chips and putts from area golf courses:

Ayden
The Ayden Golf and Country Club will play host to its annual Ayden Invitational Four-Ball Tournament on Saturday and Sunday, April 27-28.

This is an open tournament, and anyone wishing to play may get details and register by contacting pro Clarence Alexander at the club.

Brooks Barwick recently fired a 64 to tie the course record at the club. The record was set by Alexander. Turning in rounds of 32-32 for the fete, Barwick had eight birdies and 10 pars for the day.

Two holes-in-one have been scored recently at Ayden. Pete Beamon and Dickie Godwin got the shots. Beamon's came on the 175-yard ninth hole, where he hit a four-iron in. Godwin's was on the 144-yard fourth hole, and he used an eight-iron.

The Ladies Bright Belt League will visit Ayden on Thursday, April 18, and the course will be closed until about 2 p.m. for this.

Greenville
A Ladies Day Individual Tournament, both net and gross, will be held Friday at the Greenville Golf and Country Club.

The deadline for signups for the Greenville Ladies Invitational Tournament is Tuesday. The tournament will be played on Tuesday, April 23, with a rain date as the 30th. All entries must be sent to Mrs. J. R. Hooper, 1708 Knollwood Dr., Greenville, by Tuesday. The field is limited to the first 80 to sign up.

A $10 entry fee for the tournament includes prizes, a luncheon and golf carts.

The team of Paul Evans, Ed Rawl, Celeste Wilkerson and Chris Simpson won the Captains' Choice Tournament Sunday. They had a team score of 67. Second place went to the team of Mac Simpson, Dean Painter, Harriette White, and Myrtle Clark, with a 68. Third was Howard Waldrop, Walter Williams and Betty Akin with a 69, while Reg Akin, Curtis Martin, Mary Dale White and Lil Bost were fourth with 70.

Alex White won the closest to the pin contest at the 15th hole with a shot eight feet away.

Grifton
The Grifton Golf and Country Club played host to the weekly Eastern Pro-Am Tournament Monday. Larry Gregory of Kinston was the low pro with a 74, while host Joe Bullins was second with a 75.

In the team event, the team of Martin Beck of Kinston paired with amateurs Bob Cox and Don Lee had the low score of 66. Gregory's team of Jay Zolkowshi and Ken Byrd tied with Jerry Jarrett of Star Hill, with Pete Winsil and Les Albertson, both with 68's.

Grifton also held its usual Shad Festival Tournament, a two-man, best ball affair. Bob Cato and Bill Dawson took first place, but had to go to a sudden death to do it. Cecil Lilley and Tom Reilly took the first flight, while Ken Barnes and Wes Barwick took the second flight.

Robersonville
The Robersonville Golf and Country Club's team lost a Roanoke League Match with Windsor on Sunday. Windsor finished with 88½ points, while Robersonville had 55½.

The next match is Sunday, April 21, at Plymouth, and signups for play begin Saturday.

Hamburger King Has Bunch Of Hot Dogs

By HERSHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

The San Diego Padres are leaving a sour taste in the mouth of their new owner that even some of his own garnished hamburgers can't erase.

Ray Kroc, the McDonald's burger tycoon, is finding out that he may be the king of baseball's hamburgers rather than the hamburger king and he sounded off publicly while his Padres were being chewed up by the Houston Astros in their home opener Tuesday night.

Kroc grabbed the public address system with the Padres trailing 9-2 in the eighth inning. "Ladies and gentlemen, I suffer with you," he told a crowd of 39,083, second largest in San Diego's history. "I've never seen such stupid baseball playing in my life."

He was interrupted when a naked man jumped out of the stands and dashed across the field.

The winless Padres woke up long enough to score three runs in the eighth, but lost 9-5, their fourth straight defeat.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Atlanta Braves, minus Hank Aaron, were shelled by the Los Angeles Dodgers 9-2; the Cincinnati Reds defeated the previously unbeaten San Francisco Giants 6-3 and the Chicago Cubs finally opened their season by blanking the Philadelphia Phillies 2-0.

Bad weather postponed the Montreal-Pittsburgh and St. Louis-New York games.

Cesar Cedeño drove in four runs and Larry Dierker, battling back from arm and shoulder problems, held San Diego to six hits and two runs in seven innings.

Dodgers 9, Braves 2
Aaron didn't play any baseball Tuesday night...and his 13 Atlanta teammates who got in the line-up didn't play much, either. With the game's all-time home run king and his record-breaking bat sitting it out following Monday night's historic 715th home run, the Braves were no match for Los Angeles.

VMI Star Suspended
LEXINGTON, Va. (AP)—Coach Bob Thalman's hopes of revitalizing Virginia Military Institute's football program have been dealt a severe blow with the loss of Tom Schultze, the Keydets' starting quarterback the past two seasons.

Schultze, a 6-foot-2, 195-pounder from Frederick, Md., who in his two varsity campaigns already had broken eight school passing and total offense records, was suspended from school Tuesday.

A spokesman for the military school said Schultze had been suspended for the accumulation of excessive demerits during the current semester.

Schultze, who had been expected to wipe out just about every school mark for passing and total offense this fall, may apply for readmission for the winter—or second—semester of the 1974-75 school year, the spokesman said.

That will not be in time for him to play football this fall. Schultze left school shortly after noon Tuesday without giving any indication whether he would be back.

"It was most regrettable," said Thalman. "I know the administration had no other choice. I just hope Tom will grow from this experience."

With Schultze having done virtually all the quarterbacking for VMI in the past two years, Thalman—who has improved the Keydets' record by a victory a year in each of his three seasons—will be hard put to find a replacement.

The Keydets won three of 11 games last fall after going 2-9 in 1972 and 1-10 in 1971 under Thalman.

Schultze in his two varsity seasons completed 236 passes for 3,128 yards and was considered a pro prospect because of his throwing.

Due mainly to the lack of an adequate ground attack for part of last season, Schultze completed 116 passes for 1,400 yards after having hit on 120 aerials for 1,728 yards his sophomore year.

Braves to seven hits, including Dave Johnson's first home run of the season.

Reds 6, Giants 3
Joe Morgan's tie-breaking, run-scoring single with two out in the sixth inning helped Cincinnati beat San Francisco.

Cesar Geronimo opened the decisive inning with a triple off Tom Bradley but Cincinnati pitcher Jack Billingham and Pete Rose struck out before Morgan came through with his single.

Geronimo drove in one of two insurance runs in the ninth with a sacrifice fly and a bunt single by relief pitcher Pedro Borbon brought home the other one. Tony Perez hit a two-run homer in the first inning, his third of the young season.

Cubs 2, Phillies 0
After having their first two scheduled games postponed in Montreal, the Cubs came home and defeated the Phillies behind Bill Bonham's four-hit, nine-strikeout pitching, his first major league shutout.

Bonham held the Phils hitless until pitcher Ron Schueler's one-out scratch single in the sixth.

Wilson In Net Victory

Wilson High School rolled to a 9-0 victory over the Rose High School tennis team yesterday. Rose failed to win a set as the Titans set them down to another Division I defeat. The Rampants have yet to win a conference match.

The Rampants are scheduled to travel to Northeastern this afternoon.

McAdoo Admits Nerves As Celtics Take Win

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

Would you believe Bob McAdoo, the National Basketball Association scoring champion, a scared player?

It happened Tuesday night—and because of it, his Buffalo Braves were beaten by the Boston Celtics.

"I was as nervous as I've ever been," McAdoo admitted unabashedly after scoring a mere 16 points on a woeful five-for-20 shooting performance from the floor and six of nine from the free throw line during the Braves' 100-97 loss that gave the Celtics a 3-2 lead in the best-of-seven Eastern Conference semifinal series.

"I guess it's what you'd call pressure," said the 6-foot-10 McAdoo, who had averaged 30.6 points per game during the regular season and 33 points in the first four games against the Celtics. "I tried to concentrate on my defense and not worry about offense."

In the only other pro basketball playoff game Tuesday night, the Chicago Bulls built a 25-point second-quarter lead, then withstood a late Detroit rally and beat the Pistons 98-94 for a 3-2 lead in their best-of-seven NBA Western Conference semifinal series.

Two playoff games are scheduled tonight. The New York Knicks, with a 3-2 lead over Capital in their NBA East semifinal, face the Bullets at Landover, Md.; and the Indiana Pacers, leading San Antonio 3-2 in their American Basketball Association West Division semifinal, meet the Spurs in Texas.

The Utah Stars, in the West, and the New York Nets and Kentucky Colonels, in the East, already have advanced to the divisional finals in the ABA.

The Milwaukee Bucks are the only NBA team to have reached the conference finals so far, eliminating the Los Angeles Lakers in the West.

McAdoo, also the NBA's third leading rebounder during the season with a 15.1 average, managed only 10 rebounds in his sub-par effort against the Celtics.

Nevertheless, the upstart Braves led 89-85 with five minutes remaining before Boston's sunk 13 points, boosting the Celtics to the critical victory.

John Havlicek and Buffalo's Randy Smith shared scoring honors with 25 points apiece.

Bulls 98, Pistons 94
Chicago broke away from Detroit in the first period, reeling off 16 consecutive points for a 28-10 lead, then streaked to a 45-20 advantage in the second quarter before the Pistons began battling back.

Detroit finally closed the gap to 96-94 with 51 seconds left, but Norm Van Lier's basket with 30 seconds to go clinched the victory for the Bulls.

Jerry Sloan added 20 points for the Bulls. Chet Walker 16 and Van Lier 14. Bob Lanier topped Detroit with 23 points, one more than Dave Bing.

Conley In Track Meet

NEW BERN—New Bern High School took first place in a girl's track meet held Monday afternoon.

The Lady Bears finished the meet with 93 points, while D. H. Conley was a distant second with 38. Ayden-Grifton finished third with 13 points.

Nicklaus Looms Above The Field

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP)—There's Johnny Miller and the youth threat.

There's Gary Player and the foreigners.

There's Tom Weiskopf and defending champion Tommy Aaron.

There's Arnold Palmer and Sam Snead.

But over and above them all looms the awesome figure of Jack Nicklaus, the domineering character in the international cast assembled for the 38th Masters Golf Tournament.

The 72-hole tee, generally acknowledged as one of the world's premier sports events, gets underway Thursday on flower-bedecked Augusta National Golf Course.

An elite field of 79 of the world's best shotmakers—including 13 foreign players, 11 American amateurs and 55 U.S. professionals—are primed to test the 7,020-yard par-72 layout.

The powerful Nicklaus, considered by many to be the finest player the game has ever seen, has won this tournament four times, a record he shares with Arnold Palmer. And in his last three starts here he's been second, first and third, in that order.

"My goals are always the same," said the Golden Bear, who had collected a record 14 major championship titles. "They're the big four tournaments (the Masters, U.S. and British Opens and the PGA.)"

Miller, 26, who won the U.S. Open last year, has dominated the regular tour this year. He scored a record sweep of the first three titles of the year and is the year's leading money winner with almost $150,000—a record for this stage of the season.

Among the other young stars are:

—Jerry Heard, golf's whistling man, who won the Citrus Open, then finished second and third in his next two starts;

—Hubert Green, a two-time winner this year;

—John Mahaffey, who hasn't won this season but has finished second twice, third and fourth once;

—Lanny Wadkins, who set money-winning records in each of his first two seasons on the tour and is one of the game's most fiercely competitive players, and

—Ben Crenshaw, the young Texan who has finished second twice this year and hit the tour with more impact than any rookie since Nicklaus.

Player of South African is one of only four men to win all the world's major titles. He heads a strong foreign field including Australian Bruce Crampton, Tony Jacklin and Peter Oosterhuis of England and Bob Charles of New Zealand.

Tommy Aaron has been bothered by an ailing back most of the time since his surprise victory here a year ago.

And Tom Weiskopf, the British Open champion, is still troubled by a mysterious and painful thumb ailment.

New football coach at Army, Homer Smith served five years as head coach at Davidson and two years at Pacific. The past two seasons he coached UCLA offensive backs.

VMI Star Suspended

LEXINGTON, Va. (AP)—Coach Bob Thalman's hopes of revitalizing Virginia Military Institute's football program have been dealt a severe blow with the loss of Tom Schultze, the Keydets' starting quarterback the past two seasons.

Schultze, a 6-foot-2, 195-pounder from Frederick, Md., who in his two varsity campaigns already had broken eight school passing and total offense records, was suspended from school Tuesday.

A spokesman for the military school said Schultze had been suspended for the accumulation of excessive demerits during the current semester.

Schultze, who had been expected to wipe out just about every school mark for passing and total offense this fall, may apply for readmission for the winter—or second—semester of the 1974-75 school year, the spokesman said.

That will not be in time for him to play football this fall. Schultze left school shortly after noon Tuesday without giving any indication whether he would be back.

"It was most regrettable," said Thalman. "I know the administration had no other choice. I just hope Tom will grow from this experience."

With Schultze having done virtually all the quarterbacking for VMI in the past two years, Thalman—who has improved the Keydets' record by a victory a year in each of his three seasons—will be hard put to find a replacement.

The Keydets won three of 11 games last fall after going 2-9 in 1972 and 1-10 in 1971 under Thalman.

Schultze in his two varsity seasons completed 236 passes for 3,128 yards and was considered a pro prospect because of his throwing.

Due mainly to the lack of an adequate ground attack for part of last season, Schultze completed 116 passes for 1,400 yards after having hit on 120 aerials for 1,728 yards his sophomore year.

Yanks Doing 'Streak' Of Their Own, Taking 3rd Straight Win

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer
The people in Tiger Stadium seem to have the impression that streaking is something you do with your clothes off. The New York Yankees have a different idea.

in center field and another scampered across the outfield without his pants, the Yankees were extending a streak of their own with a 3-0 victory over the Tigers Tuesday afternoon.

The victory was the fourth in as many contests for New York, marking the first time since 1945 the team has gone unbeaten in the baseball season's opening four games.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Minnesota Twins tripped the Chicago White Sox 3-1, the Oakland A's clipped the Kansas City Royals 6-4, and the Texas Rangers bombed the California Angels 10-2.

The Milwaukee-Cleveland and Baltimore-Boston games were postponed by bad weather.

Yankee pitchers Steve Kline, Fred Beene and Sparky Lyle held the Tigers to eight hits, handed pitching ace Mickey Lolich his second loss in two starts this season, and ruined the home opener in chilly Detroit before a crowd of 44,047.

Lou Piniella's first-inning single drove in two runs, and New York added a run in the seventh on Roy White's double and Elliott Maddox' single.

Twins 3, White Sox 1
Rod Carew backed a strong pitching performance by Bert Blyleven with two singles, two stolen bases and two runs scored in Minnesota's victory over Chicago.

In eight innings, Blyleven scattered seven hits and struck out 10, but tired in the ninth and gave way to reliever Bill Campbell.

Carew built Twins runs in the first and second innings by singling and stealing second. He scored first on a sacrifice fly by Harmon Killebrew and later on a double by Bobby Darwin.

National League scores Tuesday: Chicago Cubs 2, Philadelphia Phillies 0; Los Angeles Dodgers 9, Atlanta Braves 2; Houston Astros 9, San Diego Padres 5, and Cincinnati Reds 6, San Francisco Giants 3. The Montreal-Pittsburgh and St. Louis-New York games were postponed by rain.

Lee Stanton homered for the Angels.

Joe Rudi's third double of the game came with two outs in the ninth inning, driving in two runs and giving Oakland its triumph over Kansas City.

With the bases loaded, Rudi hit the first pitch from reliever Lindy McDaniel to right field. Sal Bando's first home run of the season had given the A's a 4-3 lead in the top of the sixth, but Kansas City came back to tie in its half of the inning.

Rangers 10, Angels 2
California's Nolan Ryan, who issued 10 walks over eight innings in his first start, continued to have control trouble and ended up on the short end of a 10-2 score Tuesday.

Ryan walked the first three batters in the second inning. Then Joe Lovitto scored two with a double and Rich Billings walked before Dave Nelson and Toby Harrah delivered runcoring singles to knock out Ryan.

Reliever Skip Lockwood managed to strike out Alex Johnson, but Jeff Burroughs powered a grand slam home over the fence in left-center field to highlight the nine-run Texas outburst.

Although it can in no way be termed a general condition—or even one affecting the majority—few deny that the bloated salaries and overnight success of our inflated big time professional sports have spoiled some of the most prominent personalities.

Suddenly affluent and important, they adopt an exaggerated estimate of themselves. They surround themselves with men carrying black satchels who shield them from the public. They no longer have time to give an autograph or submit to an interview.

The modern picture of the sports superstar is one of a swinging, woman-chasing free spirit always surrounded by a coterie of friends—also always wearing an invisible sign: "Fragile—Do Not Touch."

On Monday, Aaron spent the hours preceding the game in which he hit his record-smashing home run watching soap operas on television in his living room.

"Looking at them made me realize what few problems I have," Aaron said. "Man, those people on television always have problems."

After he had hit the historic No. 715, Aaron didn't throw a wild champagne party attended by guests in satin and minks. He, his wife and family—father, mother, brothers and sisters—sat around in the parlor and quietly savored the dramatic occasion.

Through it all—the campaign that came so close last year, the controversy over where and when he should play, the mounting tension as his bid to a climax approached—the 40-year-old outfielder maintained a tremendous calm. He never got edgy. He never fretted. Although at times he was justified in doing so, he never complained.

"Henry's like me—he don't make much fuss," said Papa Aaron, a wiry little man in his black go-to-meetin' serge suit. "That's why he's lasted so long."

Henry Aaron Is Atypical Of The Modern Sports Star: A Square

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
ATLANTA (AP) — If it's true that impressionable youngsters try to mold their image after their favorite sports hero, we may be headed toward a new, fresh breed of athletes.

Hank Aaron offers up a rare prototype for the superstar.

By some modern standards, he may be branded a square. More militant members of his own race may snidely refer to him as an Uncle Tom. Others may consider him so wed to old-fashioned ethics that he is not for real.

Quiet, soft-spoken, uncontroversial, Aaron has refused to let his newly gained fame and fortune alter his natural warmth and understanding. He insists on being the same unaffected ball player he was before he hit home run No. 715 and replaced Babe Ruth as the greatest of them all.

"I think Henry will be like he's always been," said Hank's proud father, Herbert Aaron, retired shipyard worker of Mobile, Ala., "always nice."

If Aaron becomes the model superstar, the big time American sports scene is in for some radical changes. Gentlemanly grace may replace arrogance. Patience may succeed pomposity. Class may prevail over crassness, and courtesy over cuteness.

Service Honors 10 Who Contributed To Science

By CAROL B. TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

"These people started a quiet but important chain of events in my life that will make me a better physician. For that I'm grateful," said ECU medical student Pam Shirley yesterday as she spoke during a memorial service for the 10 persons whose bodies have been used in gross anatomy courses here for the past few months.

The memorial service, held in the conference room of the ECU School of Medicine, was attended by medical, physical therapy, and occupational therapy students who have worked with the cadavers for the past several months.

Miss Shirley talked of the "really special people who went the extra step to give their bodies so that even after death they could provide for the betterment of future generations."

"I have marveled and puzzled

so much at the human body since I began this course—with a lot of the latter," she said. "Persons in medical fields are perhaps the privileged few who can fully appreciate its intricacies. The beauty of all human bodies need to be appreciated fully—and not just those of athletes or pretty girls. Perhaps we can pass on to other people this wonder and appreciation.

Sally Shu also expressed appreciation for the 10 persons whose bodies were left as contributions to science.

Dr. M. R. Schweisthal reminded that the bodies are used not only for study by the students. "A local surgeon came by last night to pick up specimens to use for trying out a complicated operation he has never before attempted," he said. "Within a few weeks, he will be using the procedure to return someone to health," he said.

The Rev. Charles M. Smith, Associate pastor of Jarvis Memorial United Methodist Church here, said, "It is hard to top this kind of stewardship of God's gift of life—giving one's body for others after one's death. Perhaps it's a way of making sense of 'the absurdity of death.' The practice fits very well into the Judeo-Christian idea of salvation—wholeness of the person, body and soul."

East Carolina University is not the only school which holds a memorial service for those whose bodies are used for science each year, but it is one of fewer than a dozen in the country, according to Dr. Schweisthal, the professor of anatomy, who started the practice here last year. He said he got the idea at the University of Kentucky. "I believe ours is the only school which has students participating in the service, though," he said. "This was done at the request of the students last year. Miss Shirley and Mrs. Shu volunteered to take part this year."

Persons interested in willing their bodies to the ECU Medical School should contact Dr. M. R. Schweisthal at the School. He will send them information about the simple procedure.

Both Senators Were Opposed

WASHINGTON (AP)—Both senators from North Carolina, Democrat Sam Ervin Jr. and Republican Jesse Helms, voted Tuesday against shutting off debate on the campaign financing bill.

However, the vote was 64-30 for cloture, the necessary two-thirds majority.

Ervin and Helms sided with the majority as the Senate adopted 46-43 an amendment cutting proposed spending limits in the bill by 20 per cent.

Annexation Voted By Winterville Aldermen

WINTERVILLE—The Winterville Board of Aldermen, in a special session, last week, approved the annexation of Shamrock Terrace No. 2 into the town limits.

The property is located on the north side of Cooper Street to secondary road 1700 (Old Tar Road) and on the west side of SR 1700.

The board accepted the Winterville Fire Department's recommendation that Seth Cayton be named chief to replace Paul Hunsucker who is retiring April 30. Cayton will assume his new responsibilities on May 1.

The board presented a certificate to Hunsucker for services rendered to the fire department during his 30 years as a member of that unit.

Francis Tyson, Wayne Avery and Ernest Lee Cox were named to the Winterville Recreation Commission to replace Jean Ann Keeter, Calvin Henderson and Mac McKenzie.

Board members agreed to pass on to their utilities customers the exact amount that Winterville must pay to Greenville Utilities Commission. The charge will vary each month, depending on what the cost is to the town of Winterville.

It was also announced that an increase in the water rate will be effective this month. The new increase shows that the flat rate will be $3 as compared with $2 in the past, for 2,000 gallons of water.

SINGSPIRATION
BELL ARTHUR—A singspiration will be held Saturday night at 7:30 at the Arthur Christian Church. The program will feature the Travelers and Connie of Ahsokie.

The next 18,000 gallons will cost 60 cents per thousand as compared to the old price of 50 cents per thousand.

The new prices were approved to take care of the bond issue which was approved Feb. 26 to expand the town's water services.

Town Clerk Elwood Nobles reported that bids on the water project will be let soon. The board voted to charge 75 cents per gallon for farm water used for tobacco and $2 per gallon for any other use.

The money for the water must be paid in advance at the Winterville Town Hall.

The town has one pump that is used only by farmers during the planting season.

A public hearing was set for April 29 at 7 p.m. to consider annexation of property located on the south side of E. Cooper Street, including Lora Lane Drive.

Board members approved the transfer of $4,608.82 from the federal revenue sharing account to the general fund to make final payment to Barrus Construction Company for street improvements.

City Policeman Is Suspended

Police Chief Glenn Cannon said today that a local police officer has been suspended for one week, without pay, for infractions of departmental policy.

Cannon said Ptl. Ronald M. Darden was suspended for seven days, beginning April 5, for failing to report an occurrence to his squad supervisor, for failing to make a necessary arrest and for conduct unbecoming an officer.

According to the chief, the violations of departmental policy occurred March 27.

Darden has been a member of the police department since February, 1972.

Local ESC Office Wins Award Grifton Girl Is Winner Of County Spelling Bee

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer
Greenville's Employment Security Commission has been awarded second place in the statewide IAPES Veteran Award competition held recently in Banner Elk.

"We never could have achieved this honor except for the fine cooperation industries, businesses and individuals in Greenville and Pitt County have given us," Jim Hannan, manager of the local office said. "It's most encouraging the way firms and people here are concerned about giving employment to people searching for work, veterans and non-veterans."

The award is given annually to employment offices making the most outstanding contribution to programs designed to provide employment opportunities to veterans returning to civilian life. IAPES is short for the International Association of Personnel in Employment Security, an organization with chapters all over the U. S. and in foreign countries as well.

Kinston's employment office won the first place award in this year's competition. R. E. Cheek is manager there.

"There's a total of 62 employment offices in North Carolina," Hannan said, "so naturally we take pride in the fact Greenville came in second for this recognition."

Hannan praised Kendrick (Ken) Taylor, the local Veteran Employment Representative for his work with veterans. "I'd like to mention," Taylor said, "that I've had lots of help from everybody in the office. They've pitched in to help in many ways."

Figures show that 1973 was indeed an active year for the Greenville Employment Security Commission office in the field of working with veterans seeking employment.

Plan Community Sunrise Service

GRIFTON—A community-wide Easter sunrise service is scheduled for 6:30 a.m. Sunday here.

The service will be an interracial one and will be held on the front lawn of St. Jude Catholic Church. In event of rain, the service will be held at the First Christian Church.

The service is being sponsored by the Grifton Ministerial Alliance and the Grifton Minister's Fellowship.

"A big majority of the veterans are Vietnam veterans," Taylor said, "however, we also get some applicants who are World War II and Korean veterans."

During 1973, 794 veterans applied through the local commission for employment. Total applications from all age groups and both sexes came to 4,689 for 1973.

Of 690 individuals receiving counseling in employment placement, 226 of these were veterans. In 1973 the commission placed 1,376 applicants in various fields of employment. Of this number, 827 were males and of this number, veterans comprised 426, or slightly more than 50 percent of males placed in jobs for the calendar year period.

"All of us feel good about the award," Hannan said, "but we're more pleased even in feeling we've been of assistance to local veterans seeking to find worthwhile employment."

Pope Cuts Back His Activities

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Paul VI, who is recovering from two bouts of flu within a month, will cut back on his Holy Week activities on his doctors' advice, the Vatican has announced.

A Friday afternoon Mass and an Easter vigil Saturday in St. Peter's Basilica have been cut from his schedule, a spokesman said Tuesday.

WAGE INCERASE
GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Guilford Mills has announced an 8 per cent wage increase, the second raise within seven months.

Cathy Padgett, a seventh grade student from Grifton Elementary School, was named the countywide champion in the sixth annual Pitt County Schools Spelling Bee held Tuesday at the Ayden Grammar School. Cindy Mills, the eighth grade champion, won second place countywide.

Fifteen schools vied for honors in the two-part contest.

In Part I, grade level champions and runners-up were chosen from grades four through eight. Winners were:

Grade four—Kim Hill, Belvoir Primary, first; Karen Liverman, H. B. Sugg, runner up; Grade five—Mike McDermott, Ayden Grammar, first, and Monica Fornes, Chicod, runner up;

Grade six—Angela Jones, Bethel Middle, first, Cynthia Short, Belvoir Grammar, runner up; Grade seven—Cathy Padgett, Grifton, first; Chris Holder, Belvoir Grammar, runner up; Grade eight—Cindy Mills, Chicod, first; and David Rhodes, Bethel Middle, runner up.

The schools participating in the contest were Ayden Primary, Ayden Grammar, Belvoir Primary, Belvoir Grammar, Bethel Primary, Bethel Middle, Chicod, A. G. Cox, Falkland Grammar, Farmville Junior, Grifton Elementary, G. R. Whitfield, H. B. Sugg, Pactolus and Stokes-Pactolus.

W. J. Edwards Jr., assistant superintendent, awarded trophies to the winners.

Callers for the event were Mrs. Kathryn Lewis, director of Pupil Personnel and Mrs. Ruth Williams, speech therapist for county schools.

Johnnie Simmons, a speech therapist, served as judge.

assisted by co-chairmen of the contest, Mrs. Lillian D. Bradley and Mrs. Patsy S. James, elementary supervisors.

First place winners will appear on "Carolina Today" on April 17 at 7:15 a.m.

Named Head Of State Office

RALEIGH (AP)—Herbert O. Carter has been appointed to head the state purchase and contract office.

Carter, a veteran employe of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, has served since last July as one of four regional directors in the nation of the Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

The Worry Clinic Some Turn To An Older Mate

Marsha wonders if the typical June-December romance is based on true love. Or other selfish motives. And she asks why some girls seem turned off by young suitors of their own age but are attracted to men much older.

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE A-603: Marsha D., aged 18, wonders why some girls prefer to marry much older men.

"Dr. Crane," she said, "didn't Bing Crosby thus pick as his second wife a woman young enough to be his daughter?"

"And I have seen several cases where the college girls married men who were 45 to 50. "Is it must because they crave the money or fame of such older men?"

"Or do some young women have an instinctive craving for a much older mate?"

June-December
The marriage of a coed to a man old enough to be her father is often described as a June-December romance.

Bing Crosby was 53 when he married young Kathryn Lang, and as far as I have heard, they are very happy.

But Bing was youthful in his outlook and activities, while Kathryn was more mature than many girls of her age.

And Bing is a smart psychologist who "leans" upon his wife for help, advice and cooperation, thus making her feel important.

Many a young couple break up because the husband doesn't lean upon his wife enough and make her feel a vital partner in his business or professional success.

Some girls, too, have an ingrained fondness for older men. Why?

Well, most girls have their first romance with a man 25 to 30 years their senior—their daddy!

So if such a little girl is the apple of her father's eye, and receives his love and affection all during childhood, she may subconsciously be "conditioned" to love an older man when she becomes a high school or college coed.

Such girls often find their male classmates unduly juvenile and immature.

The same "conditioning" often occurs when a girl like Marsha becomes a secretary, nurse or dental assistant to an older man.

His more mature judgments and executive power resurrect some of her earlier devotion to her daddy.

Moreover, the older employer relies on his assistant and this makes her feel important.

If he happens to invite her to dinner or to the theater, his more diplomatic ardor may contrast vividly with the impetuous love of a boy on a motorcycle, who may be her own age.

Older men, too, have usually acquired more understanding of female psychology.

So they can employ the erotic philosophy of Roman Seneca, whose advice to a young fellow on how to win a girl was:

"Go to the archer. See how he handles the bow.

"With one hand he pushes it away but with the other he pulls it back to him."

In modern parlance, that means "Keep 'em guessing!" Older men thus are likely to be more adroit in their love making.

"A young man," said a recent divorcee, "stresses quantity, so he will kiss me many times.

"An older and experienced man kisses fewer times but prolongs the kiss and embrace till a girl begins to respond to his physical magnetism."

In this age of inflation, many girls also realize that if they wish to marry and have children, they'll need a man with a good income if they are to stay at home with their kiddies.

And this often requires that a man have a 10-year head start in the business or professional world.

So send for my "Tests for Husbands and Wives," enclosing a long, stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Claims Of Gas-Saving Gadgetry Are Doubtful

By BOB MONROE
Associated Press Writer
"Save up to 2 gallons of gas every hour you're on the highway!"

"Burn water in your car...up to 5 more miles per gallon."

"Amazing new ignition activator...multiplies spark to give... better gas mileage."

Those claims for three devices advertised in an automotive parts catalog are typical of the benefits promised motorists by companies that sell so-called gas savers.

In a time of shortages and higher gasoline prices, promoters of such devices appear to have increased their sales efforts in some states. But do the gadgets really deliver?

"I don't know of anything that motorists can attach that will improve their mileage a significant amount," says automotive engineer Bob Knoll, head of Consumers Union's auto test division.

Consumer Protection has issued a general warning to motorists to be wary of claims that various gadgets will improve gas mileage.

And state attorneys general in California, Arkansas, Kansas and Minnesota have looked into the advertising of various manufacturers. In some cases they have taken or threatened legal action over the claims.

Particularly popular among manufacturers this year are devices that mix water with the gasoline.

A shop near Albany, N.Y., reported installing about 300 such devices which it guarantees will increase a car's mileage from 1.4 to 5 miles per gallon. It costs $49.50 plus $20 installation.

"They're going like gangbusters," said a spokesman for the shop.

A spokesman for General Motors, however, said its engineers "know of no fuel economy benefits from water injection."

Water injection was used in some World War II fighter planes, but the purpose was to prevent preignition under heavy loads and not to obtain economy, the GM spokesman said.

FORECAST FOR THURSDAY, APRIL 11, 1974

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE
from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You are overeager to make changes. Cool it to keep the goodwill of present allies and to make new contacts who are attracted because you are so poised on a day others are upset.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Think before you come out with some critical comments, or you will later regret it. Make no moves in the wrong directions.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Get life on an even keel with creditors and debtors. Show more affection to mate. Avoid a troublemaker.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Find out what associates expect of you and cooperate for better future results. An annoying situation arises that requires you to control your temper.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take care of all those duties and don't waste time. Try to be more cooperative with co-workers. Evening is ideal with loved one.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Get together with congenials at recreations you like since you need rest from worry. Use some particular skill to good advantage. Keep busy.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Be more helpful to kin so real harmony reigns at home. Once you have harmony there, things go better for you outside.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Get work done and cooperate with others more. Contact experts early who can give you the advice you want. Shop.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have to spend more intelligently to save for advancement. Some expert in business will give you the advice you need if you contact this person early.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Find a better way to gain goals more easily. Listen to good friends. More interest in a new venture makes it successful now.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You have many decisions to make so take the time to be alone where you can think them out carefully. Don't tell a secret.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Gad about, but don't do all the talking. Charm others with your smile, good manners. Avoid some situation not to your liking.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Buy the mechanicals that make your regular labors more productive. Support some bigwig now. Take any sudden emergency in your stride without excitement.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will want the center of the stage but should be taught early to make sure his facts and figures are right before spouting off with others. Then this becomes a successful life and many friends will be made instead of turned off. A good performer here, especially where civic life is concerned, as well as in the field of lecturing. A good sportsperson, too.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

"Nothing we could do about it, partner. We are out-gunned," remarked East as he entered 130 below the line and 500 above the line for the opponents.

South felt that his hand was too good for a direct one no trump overall, since the ace-jack of spades behind the opening bidder and the two tens made his hand worth more than 19 points. He showed his extra values by first doubling and then bidding no trump at his next opportunity. With 6 points and a five-card suit, North's raise to game was fully warranted.

14-POINT ANTLERS
WIN HUNTING AWARD
BUCHARST, Romania (AP) — Simion Darie, hunter from the village of Magura in northern Romania, won an award at an international hunting exhibition in Hungary for his trophy, the head of a buck with 14-point antlers.

'Energetic' Motor City

DETROIT (AP) — Experts from 55 nations will meet here this fall to see what can be done to help solve the world's future energy problems.

The Ninth World Energy Conference (Sept. 22-27) will draw some 4,500 persons, including influential government ministers, economists, scientists, engineers, educators and executives in the energy industry. Specialists from some 45 member nations will prepare some 250 technical papers for advance placement with the registrants. More than 3,000 delegates will come from foreign countries, 20 per cent from various government agencies. The balance will come from utilities and industries involved in the production and transmission of energy.

The world group headquartered in London was founded in 1924 and is composed of national chapters in 69 countries. Its only other conference held in the U.S. was convened in Washington D.C. in 1936. It will cost about $2 million to stage the latest meeting, most of which will come from registration fees and contributions from companies and industries.

While North-South did have the values to contract for game, the contract should have been defeated. East shattered the defensive prospects when he allowed declarer to hold off winning the first spade. Consider the difference had East played the nine of spades at trick one!

Now declarer cannot afford to hold up, for that would cost him his second spade stopper. He must win the jack, and when he now plays a diamond, West grabs the king and still has a spade to return. The defenders can drive out South's second spade stopper before the diamond suit is established and while East still has the ace of diamonds as an entry. Even if declarer uses dummy's two heart entries to finesse clubs twice, he can come to no more than eight tricks.

'Press Reply' Measure Killed By NC. Senate

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—The North Carolina Senate has killed legislation requiring newspapers to print replies from people attacked in their articles or editorials.

The "right to reply" bill died on a 24-19 vote Tuesday.

It would have forced newspapers to print letters to the editor from people who felt their character or political record had been "assailed or attacked" in print.

Sen. Phil Godwin, D-Gates, blamed political pressure from North Carolina's newspapers for the demise of his bill.

Godwin, who is not running for re-election, said the state's press "put the heat on" legislators who were seeking re-election, threatening them with editorial opposition to their campaigns.

Godwin's bill had been signed by 30 of the Senate's 50 members when it was introduced.

"Let your conscience be your guide. Don't be afraid of what they'll say in that corner of the room," said Godwin, gesturing toward the press table in the back of the Senate chamber.

The Senate did not take a roll call vote on the bill. The members stood and were counted by Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt.

Godwin's arguments in favor of his bill were countered by Sen. Cy N. Bahakel, D-Mecklenburg, who owns a Charlotte television station.

Bahakel said Godwin's measure was comparable to the fairness doctrine imposed by the federal government on broadcast licenses.

He said the fairness doctrine "makes television somewhat bland. It makes it less effective in the arena of ideas."

Bahakel said the bill would restrict the press from doing the type of reporting that resulted in the Watergate disclosures, "which will stand in eternity as a monument to the free press."

Godwin's argument was predicated on the thesis that "If you believe in fairness, you believe in this bill."

He said it would not be an unconstitutional violation of the First Amendment because it would not prevent the press from printing anything.

"The credibility of the press is at an all-time low. If freedom of the press suffers a fatal injury in the future, it will be from wounds that were largely self-inflicted," he said.

"But will your son really like 312 recordings by Sammy Kaye?"

Orders Prompt Tornado Relief

By GAYLORD SHAW

Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP)—Federal disaster officials have been ordered by President Nixon to "cut red tape to the bare bone" in aiding victims of last week's tornadoes in the South and Midwest.

The President made a whirlwind tour of the Xenia, Ohio, area Tuesday and found the aftermath of what he called "the most devastating disaster I have ever seen."

In talking with officials and residents of the town where 32 persons were killed and 1,000 left homeless last Wednesday by a tornado, he pledged prompt and full federal assistance for housing, schools and jobs.

Aboard his plane returning to Washington, Nixon told Housing Secretary James T. Lynn and federal disaster administrator Thomas Dunne that his pledges of aid applied to other communities from Georgia to the Canadian border hit by the series of tornadoes last week.

"Get on with it," Lynn said. Nixon told the disaster aid coordinators, "Expedite it. Cut red tape to the bare bone. Be as flexible as the law allows in helping these people."

Lynn said Nixon wanted top priority to finding temporary housing so all storm victims could leave evacuation centers by Sunday.

He reported the President also ordered a push for congressional passage of disaster law amendments so private, non-profit schools could receive federal aid in rebuilding.

As for total federal funds involved, Lynn said the President declared "whatever money it takes we will spend."

UPI Strike Is Resolved

NEW YORK (AP)—A 22-day strike by 950 newsmen against United Press International has ended and employees began returning to work today.

Members of the Wire Service Guild, representing the striking employees, approved a new contract Tuesday. It raised a new person's top minimum wage from $300 to $335 a week over two years.

The same contract offer had been rejected 24 hours earlier by a slim majority of the strikers. Guild negotiators deemed further negotiations useless and recommended acceptance of the UPI offer in a second vote.

The reporters, editors and photographers voted 323 to 245 to accept the UPI offer.

The final money offer was basically the same as UPI's final pre-strike offer. The new contract provides a $17 weekly increase now and $18 more in the second year of the contract. The second year raise will go into effect Jan. 1, 1975, 10 weeks before it had been promised in the pre-strike offer.

The new agreement includes increased pension benefits and a cost-of-living adjustment next Jan. 1.

'Mulligan Stew' Day For Class

Mrs. Floretta Smith's class at South Greenville School recently had "Mulligan Stew Day."

"Mulligan Stew" is a 4-H nutrition education television series that more than 12,000 Pitt County students have participated in.

The poster contest winner at South Greenville was Linda Taft.

A band composed of Danny Roeser, Curtis Battle, Barbara Logsdon, Debbie Suggs and David Spain performed "Mulligan Stew" songs.

Other class members received ribbons for their posters.
