

Assembly Poised To Vote Own Pay Boost

RALEIGH (AP) — The North Carolina legislature appears poised to grant itself a pay increase before adjourning.

The Senate, resisting an effort to take a roll call vote, pushed through final approval of a bill doubling legislators' pay to $4,800 per year Thursday.

If the House approves two Senate amendments, the bill could become law today. It would apply to the 1975 legislature.

In order to get the bill enacted and to avoid being held accountable for it, the Senate did two things for the first time this year.

It rejected the request of Sen. Jim Hughes, R-Avery, for a roll call vote on the bill. Normally, requests for a roll call are routinely honored upon the consent of at least 10 senators. Only a few supported Hughes.

And it prevailed upon Sen. Reid Poovey, R-Catawba, to withdraw his objection to giving the bill both tentative and final approval on the same day. Normally, a bill is carried over until the next day when a senator objects to final reading.

Poovey objected. But when it became clear that a motion to override his objection would carry with the necessary two-thirds approval, he withdrew it.

After the voice vote for final approval was taken and the bill had been overwhelmingly approved, about a dozen senators asked that they be recorded as voting "no."

Sen. McNeill Smith, D-Guilford, supported the measure, saying a higher legislative pay scale would enable many people, particularly young people, to run for the legislature. Only wealthy people can afford the financial sacrifice it now entails, he said.

But Poovey said he objected to raising pay "because you can't buy the type of representation the state needs. I would not want to see the legislature filled with people here for the money," he said.

The Senate also approved a bill giving the governor and the council of state 7½ per cent pay raises.

The bill, introduced Thursday morning by Sen. Ralph Scott, D-Alamance, would give Gov. Jim Holshouser a raise from $38,500 to $41,387. Comparable raises would go to the elected heads of state department and Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt.

The legislature had already approved 7½ per cent raises for regular state employees.

The bill could become law if the House approves it today.

Leaf Marketing Change Explained

By CARL L. TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Some 200 area tobacco farmers and warehousemen gathered at the Greenville Moose Lodge this morning to hear an explanation of the proposed designated marketing system.

William L. Lanier, director of the Tobacco and Peanut Division of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, explained the proposed tobacco marketing system.

Basically, the new system would have growers select a warehouse within an 80-mile radius of their county seat. Administration of the system on the local level would be handled by the County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

By selling their tobacco at a designated warehouse, farmers would be assured of price support.

U. S. Secretary of Agriculture Earl L. Butz will determine whether or not the proposed system will be implemented.

"If implemented, growers would obtain a designation form from their local ASCS office stating which warehouse they wish to market their tobacco," Lanier explained. "If the new system is adopted, designation would take place sometime in May."

According to First District Congressman Walter B. Jones, the U. S. Department of Agriculture has the complete right to implement the new system.

Warehousemen would be notified by a central office in Raleigh of the number of farmers selecting their warehouse for the sale of their tobacco.

"The objective of the proposed system is to promote orderly marketing," explained Lanier.

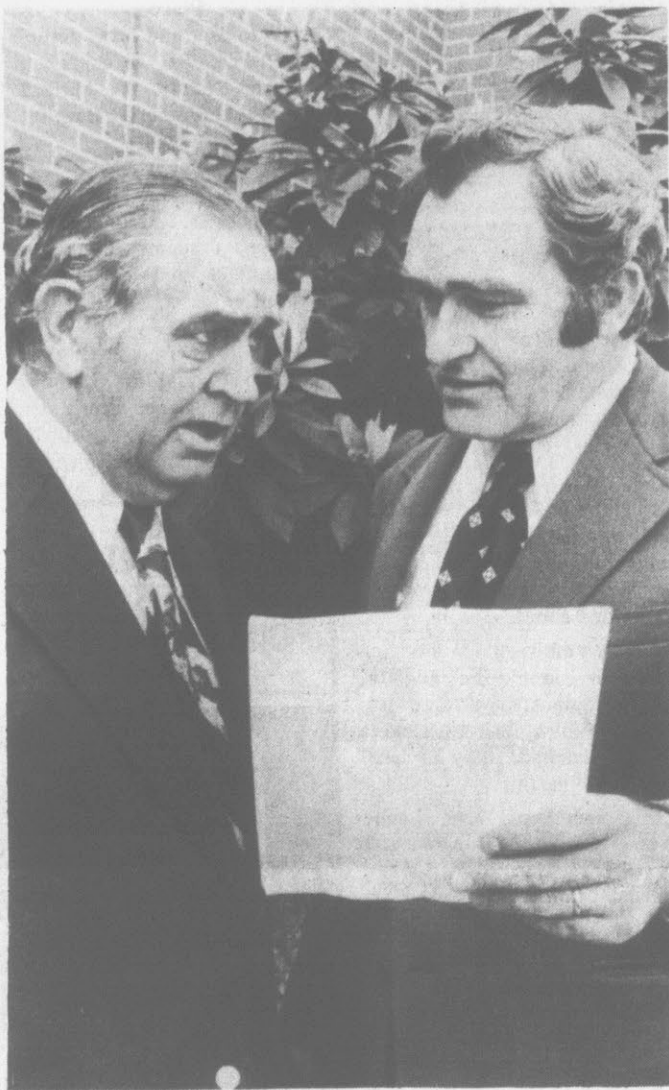

Interested persons may write to the Hearing Clerk, USDA, Room 112, Administration Building, Washington, D.C., 20250, within the next 15 days to express their opinion of the proposed system.

Secretary Butz is expected to reach decision on whether or not the proposal will be adopted shortly after the 15-day period ends.

Today's meeting was attended by Frank Brown, Chairman of the Flue-Cured Marketing Committee which represents five states.

Boyle Convicted Of Murders; Attorney Will Ask New Trial

By LEE LINDER

MEDIA, Pa. (AP) — W. A. "Tony" Boyle's attorney says he will seek a new trial for the former president of the United Mine Workers, convicted of murdering union rival Joseph "Jock" Yablonski.

The jury which returned its verdict Thursday evening also found the ailing 72-year-old Boyle, now serving a three-year federal sentence for misuse of UMW funds, guilty of killing Yablonski's wife and daughter on Dec. 31, 1969.

The convictions carry a mandatory life term. No date was set for sentencing.

Defense lawyer Charles F.

Moses, claiming the evidence was insufficient, said he would file a motion next week for a new trial.

Special Prosecutor Richard A. Sprague, who charged Boyle had ordered Yablonski killed and then authorized $20,000 in union funds to finance it, said: "This man used the blood and sweat of miners for killing."

Sprague previously had convicted or obtained guilty pleas from eight others in the Yablonski case.

"Boyle was the originator," Sprague said. "We got back to the beginning and that's where we stop."

Commitment By Ziegler Nixon Material Promised

By JOHN BECKLER

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House, facing a House Judiciary Committee subpoena for tapes and documents, says it will turn over at least some of the materials.

Presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler on Thursday said President Nixon would give the committee materials "consistent with his constitutional responsibilities."

Ziegler said the materials, to be turned over within two weeks, would bear out the President's past explanations of his Watergate role and "receive the support of the House."

However, Ziegler declined to say that the response would comply fully with the demand by the House committee.

Ziegler spoke several hours after the subpoena was hand-delivered to the White House.

The committee voted 33-3 to subpoena for its impeachment inquiry 42 presidential tapes and related documents the panel believes are tied to the Watergate cover-up.

"The playing of games is over. The committee means business," said Rep. John P. Seiberling, D-Ohio, summing up the committee's mood as it voted to demand delivery by April 25 of the evidence.

The committee has been waiting for the material since Feb. 25. Tuesday the White House said it would deliver some of it after April 22. In a vain effort to head off a subpoena, it promised just before the committee met Thursday to make a partial delivery in a few days.

But after urging support for the offer, which was made by White House lawyer James D. St. Clair in a telephone call, Republican members backed away from it when they were unable to get it in writing.

The subpoena spelled out in detail the conversations the committee wants. They involve President Nixon, his former aides H.R. Haldeman, John D. Ehrlichman and John W. Dean III; former Atty. Gen. Richard Kleindienst and Asst. Atty. Gen. Henry Petersen.

The committee staff's brief said, "Realistically, the President probably cannot be compelled to comply with a subpoena by use of the processes of either the House or the courts."

That realization prompted Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., the senior committee Republican, to cast one of the three votes against issuing a subpoena. The others voting no were Reps. Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., and Trent Lott, R-Miss.

In litigation generally, a refusal to produce evidence permits an inference that the material is unfavorable to the cause of the person holding it, the brief said.

In addition, unjustified disobedience of a subpoena can be considered an impeachable offense, it said.

Israeli Villagers Demand Revenge

By MARCUS ELIASON

Associated Press Writer
QIRYAT SHMONAH, Israel (AP) — The 18 Israeli victims of the Arab terrorist massacre at Qiryat Shmonah were buried today in an emotional and unruly funeral interrupted by angry cries for revenge against the Arabs.

Minister of Police Shlomo Hillel warned neighboring Lebanon of possible retaliation if the Arab guerrillas operating in southern Lebanon were not removed.

But the splinter Palestinian guerrilla group which claimed responsibility for Thursday's raid promised "more revolutionary suicide missions" in Israel, and insisted on the right of the guerrillas to cross the Lebanese or any Arab border to strike in Israel. At the same time, it denied the three terrorists who staged the attack infiltrated from Lebanon and said they had been in Israel for some time prior to the attack.

"Thursday's operation was just the beginning of a new campaign of revolutionary violence, revolutionary suicide attacks in Israel ... This campaign is aimed at blocking an Arab-Israeli peace settlement," a spokesman for the Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine-General Command told a news conference in Beirut.

The three Arabs slipped quietly into Qiryat Shmonah early Thursday and opened up with automatic weapons and a bazooka at Israeli civilians. Eight children, five women and five men died in the hail of gunfire. The three Arab terrorists also were killed.

An estimated throng of 10,000 mourners flocked to the town cemetery on a grassy knoll under the rim of a high mountain.

Hillel told the townspeople: "I want to address the terrorists and say that our hand will reach them wherever they are. We will not lay down our swords until everyone is brought to justice."

"And you, the government of Lebanon, your blood will be on your head if you don't clean out the nest of terrorists on your soil ... Beware, we have warned you."

Hillel was repeatedly drowned out by catcalls from the mourners angry over what they charged was the lack of security and hospital facilities. "Where were the police yesterday?" Many cried. "We want security."

The chief military chaplain, Maj. Gen. Mordechai Piron, was forced to speed up his prayer for the dead as he stood beside the coffins draped in the national colors of blue and white.

"Revenge," chanted the crowd. "We want the death penalty."

Several hundred mourners broke through a security cordon when a policeman guarding the area was overcome by emotion and stood by helplessly, tears streaming down his face.

Kissinger Says 1974 Won't See SALT Treaty

By KENNETH J. FREED

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today there "would not be a permanent agreement this year" on nuclear strategic arms limitations with the Soviet Union.

In a brief session with reporters, the secretary said it was uncertain whether the United States and the Soviet Union could achieve a partial agreement in strategic arms limitation talks.

This was the strongest public statement by any administration figure casting doubt on the likelihood of a SALT treaty limiting offensive nuclear weapons systems by the end of 1974.

President Nixon last month said he expected to reach a SALT II agreement with Moscow this year.

Kissinger made his statement following a two-hour breakfast at the State Department with Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy. According to the Egyptian leader, their discussion centered on the Middle East, particularly the efforts to reach a military disengagement between Syrian and Israeli troops in the Golan Heights area.

The question of SALT is a central issue in later meetings today between Kissinger, President Nixon and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

The secretary said prior to the first White House session with Gromyko that they were likely to discuss all the issues to come up during President Nixon's expected June visit to Moscow. He indicated SALT and the Middle East would be included.

The Kissinger statement on the lack of prospects for a permanent SALT treaty this year follows the trend set by statements from very high State Department officials during and immediately following the secretary's trip to the Soviet Union late last month.

ARVN Ranger Base Is Overrun

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese troops and tanks today overrun a ranger base 50 miles north of Saigon that had been under siege for almost 14 months, the Saigon command said.

Government military sources said waves of South Vietnamese bombers retaliated within hours by leveling the base and attacking the Viet Cong headquarters at Loc Ninh, 25 miles farther north.

Container-Makers Are Said To Be Interested In Building Pitt Plant

By STUART SAVAGE

Reflector Staff Writer
Three firms are thought to be interested in building plants in the Pitt County area to produce composite cans for use by the Procter and Gamble Co. to package their special brand of potato chips to be manufactured in Greenville, but Pitt Sen. Vernon White said this morning that none of the three has an option on 500 acres of land owned by him near Grimesland.

White, responding to rumors that have persisted over the past several weeks, said this morning that Boise Cascade Industries does not have an option on any of the Grimes Farm land near Grimesland that is owned by the senator. "I've had no dealings with Boise Cascade directly or indirectly and they have not optioned any land from me and will not be on the Grimes Farm," White emphasized.

He did acknowledge, however, that 500 acres of the 1,100 acre farm has been optioned by another industry, but would not identify the firm.

Boise Cascade is thought to be looking at a site near the Procter and Gamble plant site North of Greenville on which to locate a plant to produce composite cans—cylinder-shaped paper product cans with metal caps on both ends—for Procter and Gamble.

Boise Cascade, along with Sunoco Products Co. and the Container Corporation of America maintain plants in Jackson, Tenn. where they supply Procter and Gamble's potato chip plant there with packaging material.

Boise Cascade spokesmen acknowledging their interest in the Pitt County area, said details for a plant near Greenville have not been completed and a site has not been purchased.

It is believed that both the other Procter and Gamble packaging suppliers are also interested in setting up plants in the Pitt County area.

Unofficial sources indicated today that the Container Corporation of America is considering locating a plant in the general area of the Procter and Gamble site, while Sunoco Products Co. is believed interested in a site in the Winterville-Ayden area of the county.

The containers that would be produced by the three firms would be made of already processed paper. The industries would be non-polluting.

Campus Desegregation Plan Changes Expected

RALEIGH (AP)—The vice president for planning of the state-supported universities in North Carolina says the federal government probably will want to make changes in the plan to desegregate the 16 campuses.

The planning official, John Sanders, said rejection of the plan would jeopardize $60 million in federal funds to the University of North Carolina System.

Leaders of the system and officials of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare will meet in Washington Monday to discuss the plan. It has been submitted by the system under a federal court order.

Sanders said Thursday that no major changes will be made in it without approval from the board of governors of the system.

HEW is expected to rule by early summer on the plan it has demanded from North Carolina and nine other states.

HEW has said the UNC System, composed of 11 predominantly white and five predominantly black schools, may be violating civil rights laws.

The plan by the board of governors includes a scholarship plan to encourage desegregation.

The board has predicted its plan will increase the number of black students at predominantly white campuses from the present 3.7 per cent to 5.1 per cent by 1977.

It also expects white students in predominantly black schools to increase from the present 5.9 per cent to 11.1 per cent in the next four years.

It also was announced Thursday that first 17 recipients have been chosen for the medical scholarships designed to increase the number of doctors in the state. They include eight students at Bowman Gray, seven at the University of North Carolina Medical School and two Duke medical students. Two are Indians, 11 are black and four are white.

Leased News Wire Rates To Be Boosted

By W. DALE NELSON

Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Many customers who lease telephone lines for private use, including news services and the federal government, apparently are in for big increases in their telephone bills starting Sunday.

"As far as I know it's going in," a spokesman for American Telephone and Telegraph Co. said Thursday night of a proposed change in its leased-line rate structure.

Officials of the Federal Communications Commission, which in January granted a 90-day suspension of the proposed new rates, expiring Sunday, could not be reached.

But with only one business day remaining before the deadline, the commission is down to four members because of three vacancies. This would require a unanimous vote for any action.

The AT&T spokesman said he had heard of no action being proposed. The company could suspend the rates itself until protests against them have been settled, but the spokesman said this was not contemplated as far as he knew.

The AT&T's Bell System plans to drop its current uniform nationwide mileage charge on private lines reserved by businesses and government agencies for their exclusive use.

It would be replaced by a system permitting a lower rate for routes between 370 major cities and a higher rate between smaller cities and towns.

AT&T contends the change is needed to relate charges more closely to its costs.

The Associated Press, United Press International, Reuters Limited, Dow Jones, Commodity News Services Inc. and the American Newspaper Publishers Association filed petitions April 3 contending the new rates would be too costly for many small-city newspapers and radio stations.

AT&T has estimated the news services would pay 15 to 50 per cent more than now, depending how much they can restructure their use of the lines.

The federal government, in a petition filed in January by the Defense Department on behalf of all federal agencies, told the FCC the proposal would increase its telephone bills by $600,000 a year "without any additional benefits whatsoever."

Sociologist Specializes In Women's Problems

By ALISON LERRICK
 PARIS (AP) — "After 25 years, I'm on my second honeymoon. At last I have something to tell my husband at night," one woman said.

She hasn't remarried. She simply decided to go back to work.

How do you find a job after 10, 15 or 20 years of being a wife and mother? By applying for one. What is the fastest way to lose a job? By getting the wrong one, says Evelyn Sullerot, a sociologist who specializes in the problems of women.

L'Institut National pour la Promotion Feminine, a brand new "school" under the auspices of the Ministry of Education, is dedicated to helping women get out of the rut where marriage put them.

"After years in the home, women don't want to do the same work as before their marriage. They've changed. Meanwhile, business methods have progressed. It's impossible for the older generation of women that stopped working to compete with young college graduates," said Mrs. Sullerot, director of the institute.

The frail-looking blonde herself took time off from work between 1949 and 1957 to raise her four children. She emerged from her pots and pans to found the French Family Planning organization.

"During those years I didn't work 'outside,' but I never worked harder in my life," Mrs. Sullerot says wryly.

Today she supervises women going through an aptitude reactivation and vocational guidance course in the institute's classrooms. Four hours a day, for a four-week period, four groups of 20 women go through the course.

What they learn is not to type or keep books, but simply to diagnose their aptitudes, dust out the corners of their minds and to discover new fields of endeavor.

"Many businesses seek mature women who are more stable than the young. France historically has always had more women working than the United States. But after World War II the bourgeois mentality took over. Women who stayed at home were highly respected," Mrs. Sullerot explained.

Today the opposite is true. "A woman who stays at home is less than nothing. She feels a loss of prestige and self respect. Her friends work and so do her daughters," she added.

Students at the institute fall into two groups: those who need to work for financial reasons and those who have a psychological need.

"Many women are divorced, widowed or brutally abandoned. These are our SOS cases. Others have grown-up children and think that they don't exist any more," Mrs. Sullerot said.

Students learn through audio-visual and spatial exercises to reawaken aptitudes of memory and attention. They review logic for solving problems. They renew communications methods. They also learn vocabulary lists relating to economy and technology.

In short, the course is a giant step toward what Mrs. Sullerot calls "precision."

"Women must learn objectivity and mental rapidity. This is the direct opposite of Gallic charm and American liberal arts education," she added.

Students not only grade themselves on their results but learn to accept the harsher grades of other students, a useful training for business. They also play roles of boss and employee or secretary, which teaches them how to take orders.

"In the business world, women must learn to leave their personal problems at home. How many women cry when their boss yells at them. They feel, 'He doesn't like me,'" Mrs. Sullerot said.

During the month of intensive training, students also receive lectures from businessmen in various fields and make field trips to several companies. At the end, they are advised individually on which areas suit them best, and vice versa.

They are ready to go into business.

"At 20 years old, you can afford to make a mistake. At 40, no," Mrs. Sullerot added cheerfully.

Mother Should Have Kept Her Word

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My mother and I stopped at a gasoline station. She told the attendant she wanted $2 worth of gas and she held up two fingers.

The attendant left, and for some reason another man came out and put the gas in my mother's tank. He said, "That will be $3."

My mother said she asked for only $2 worth so the second man said, "Look, lady, what's another dollar? Besides with this gas shortage, you're lucky."

My mother said all she had was $2, but she lived only a few blocks away [which was true] so she would go home and get another dollar.

My mother didn't have any more money at home so she never went back because what could she have given him?

What should she have done? WONDERING

DEAR WONDERING: She should have told the man she would bring him the dollar as soon as she had it. And then she should have kept her word.

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I are both dieting. We were invited to spend the weekend with some close relatives of mine. When I accepted, I expressly asked my aunt to please keep the food simple, and not to bake because we were dieting. She agreed.

When we got there she had pumpkin bread, fudge brownies, cheesecake and all the things we love and couldn't resist.

Because we are good friends, I spoke up and said I wished she hadn't done all that, especially since I had asked her not to. It caused hurt feelings.

Now the family says that it's up to the dieters to resist temptation because others should not have to go without. We say when houseguests ask the hostess not to serve high calorie foods she should comply. What do you think?

CALORIE COUNTER

DEAR COUNTER: Your aunt agreed to comply with your wishes, and she broke her promise. Shame on auntie. If she felt you were being unfair to the other guests by requesting she limit her menu to low-calorie food, she should have said so.

Receptions Honor Guests

Dr. and Mrs. Leo Jenkins were hosts to about 500 guests this week, at evening receptions in their home on Fifth St.

On Monday, they entertained about 75 ECU students from New York, and on Tuesday, about 150 students, who are residents of New Jersey.

Faculty and student members of Phi Kappa Phi honor society, as well as parents of many of the students, were honored by the Jenkinss Wednesday evening. Guests included several parents from Virginia, Maryland and other states.

The reception followed the annual Phi Kappa Phi induction ceremony.

Arrangements of spring flowers decorated the reception rooms. Assisting in serving refreshments were Patty Jenkins, Dr. and Mrs. Jenkins' daughter, Frances Davenport, Lynn Masten, Gladys Howell and Faye Leggett.

Make Home Entertaining Easy

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
 Associated Press Food Editor

The custom of inviting friends to come early in the evening "for dessert and coffee" instead of for dinner started, as far as we can tell, about 40 years ago in the wake of the depression. Now because of the high cost of food and our increasingly busy lives, "Come for dessert and coffee at 8:30" is blossoming again. And nowadays — depending on budgets and serving habits — brandy or liqueur is sometimes offered after the dessert.

If you plan such a dessert party you may want to consider serving Lemon Meringue. It is moderate in cost and makes eight servings. It relieves the hostess of last-minute pressure because it calls for chilling from several hours to overnight. This stay in the refrigerator not only sets the filling but mellows the meringue.

If you're already acquainted with Lemon Angel Pie, don't expect Lemon Meringue to be the same although both desserts have a meringue shell and a lemon filling. The Lemon Meringue filling is thickened with both egg yolks and cornstarch and has a firm texture; the Lemon Angel Pie filling is thickened entirely with egg yolks and has a much softer texture.

LEMON MERINGUE
 3 eggs whites
 1/4 teaspoon cream of tartar
 2-3rds cup sugar
 Lemon Filling, see below
 Beat egg whites with cream of tartar until soft peaks that tilt over slightly when beater is slowly withdrawn form. Gradually beat in sugar, 1 tablespoon at a time; continue beating, if necessary, until mixture is thick and glossy and stiff straight peaks form when beater is slowly withdrawn. Spread in a buttered 9-inch pie plate making a slight depression in the center. Bake in a preheated 275-degree oven for 1 hour; turn off oven and let meringue cool in closed oven for 1 additional hour. Remove to wire rack and let cool completely. Make Lemon Filling; turn into meringue shell. Chill several hours or overnight before serving. Makes 8 servings.

Next Time, A Better Chance

The tax reforms proposals which had gained steam late in this session of the legislature died a sudden death this week.

The Senate Finance Committee postponed indefinitely any action on the bill which was supported by Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt. That means it is dead for this session.

Hunt, considered a sure candidate for governor, had proposed a repeal of the three percent sales tax on food. He proposed raising income taxes for incomes over $14,000 and a partial credit to businessmen for inventory taxes paid to local governments.

A committee motion was made by Sen. Phil

Godwin to kill the tax bill and the vote was unanimous.

The bills had considerable appeal in the Legislature and the House had approved an inventory tax reduction measure. The House Finance Committee had approved food and income tax proposals.

Many of the law makers liked some of the features of the tax reforms and there were promises that similar legislation will be introduced in 1975.

We, too, see appeal in tax reform and certainly the food tax has never been very popular. The problem, as always, is that money lost through a tax reduction has to be replaced from other sources, or else spending has to be reduced.

With the cloudy economic picture, we suspect it would have been a mistake to take hasty action at the end of a Legislative session. There should be careful study of tax reform made between now and 1975, however, and we hope that at that time new legislation can be introduced which will give tax relief to low and medium income taxpayers. It may be that elimination of the food tax would be the best way, but a Legislative study commission should consider all phases of the state tax program before recommendations are made.

Hard Look At Unused Schools

By BILL NOBLITT
 RALEIGH — North Carolina needs to take a hard look at some way to use school facilities the year around, and that theme is high on the list of concerns for the man who next year will head up the state's 55,000-member Association of Educators.

teachers are also concerned over a growing tendency to increase education funds at the "hierarchy" level, increasing the bureaucracy of specialists, and feeling that "unless the money can be translated into classrooms and children, then it's wasted. That needs to be looked into."

"Any action on this will require a lot of study, but it is a disgrace, and I hate to see those million-dollar buildings setting around vacant for so long.

"If school were a business operation, it would go bankrupt," says Dean B. Westmoreland, a Kings Mountain High School social studies teacher who will take over presidency of the association at the annual convention next April.

A veteran of 14 years in the classroom, Westmoreland believes that the time is nigh for "somebody to take a serious approach to year-round school, with the idea in mind that a four-quarter year could be set up, with people choosing their own sequence.

"Now, this means the student will still attend only three quarters each year—making the 180 days required by law.

"Vacation Choices
 "But there's no reason some couldn't take off for a vacation in the spring or the fall or the winter. Many people would choose such an option."

Westmoreland said the benefits of optional scheduling for both teachers and students would be tremendous, and that students could take elective material and attend the year around if they wished.

Looking ahead to his term as president following the present year in which he is serving as vice president, Westmoreland is seeking to formalize some priorities and sound out teacher sentiment on issue of concern.

High on his list of priorities is teacher accountability, a growing area of interest in which those concerned with education are seeking some way to measure success—or lack of it—in the classroom.

"But the key question is this," Westmoreland said, "Who is going to be held accountable?"

"Is it going to be the teacher only? Well, that's not fair. Education is not just the teacher. It's a team approach. If we're going to check accountability, then we've got to gauge administrators, boards of education, county commissioners who put up the money, and the general public which pays the bill; especially the parents."

Westmoreland said

Area of Concern
 Here are some other areas in which educators are expected to express their concerns in the coming year or two, Westmoreland said:
 A large number of teachers are concerned that discipline has become too lax in the schools, and feel the classroom teachers need more backing in this area.

Continued pressure for legislation requiring local boards of education and school administrations to meet and talk with teachers.

"All too often they won't even talk to us. They tell us to keep our mouths shut and teach... but where you have communication and cooperation, you have very little strife."

He said unionization is not a strong likelihood in North Carolina.

Teacher pay will continue to be an issue, with the theme being if you can attract and keep better teachers, children will benefit educationally.

New trends in education, prompt to be embraced by some and rejected by others, need more study, Westmoreland believes.

"Most teachers are favorable to change if they can that it's for the better. But just knocking down the walls doesn't make a school and open classroom school. It's a matter of techniques and attitudes with child-centered programs and interest centers.

"But that doesn't mean giving children complete freedom to select their own programs and decide for themselves what—or whether—they will do. If a child in the elementary school is ready for that kind of decision-making without guidance, he doesn't need to be in school," Westmoreland argued.

A lower teacher-pupil ratio will also continue on the list of priorities.

And throughout his year, Westmoreland said, he will be putting forth one central message to teachers and to parents: "Things are not as bad in the schools as some people seem to believe. There is a lot of pessimism about education today.

"But I'm an optimist on public education. There's no better investment to be made by the public than building a good school system."

Arab Oil No Signal For Lowered Prices

The first Arab oil is arriving in the United States following lifting of the embargo and American motorists are finding gas easier to locate but at much higher prices.

Most stations are selling regular gas at around 54 cents per gallon or above, compared with the 37 cents or so before the price rise started.

Even with Arab oil coming no one expects much of a drop in gas prices. The outlook, in fact, is for still higher prices in the future.

Hanoi Planning More Attacks

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—A communist document captured by government forces in Binh Thuan province on South Vietnam's central coast six weeks ago points to tragedy growing out of the Nixon administration's bungled campaign in Congress for continued aid to Saigon.

The document spells out unequivocally what the Communist high command in Hanoi wants: "The revolution in South Vietnam can only be won by means of armed violence in close coordination with the political violence of the masses."

This is not local bombast. Rather, the directive is based on a secret resolution setting out a muscular strategy for the entire south.

That sharply contradicts propaganda spread in Congress by radical "peace" groups that continued bloodshed in South Vietnam is caused by Saigon. Beyond that, the Communist strategy reveals the danger facing South Vietnam if, as now seems increasingly possible, it is threatened by drastically reduced U. S. aid.

Thanks to failing resolve and uncertain leadership, the root of the new Vietnam crisis is in Washington.

Early last autumn, U.S. intelligence experts still expected a massive Communist offensive this year from 210,000 North Vietnamese regulars in northern and western parts of South Vietnam. But the 21st Communist party conference in Hanoi decided Saigon's army was too strong.

What resulted was a new strategy outlined in COSVN Resolution 13, secretly issued in December. In turn, COSVN 13 was incorporated in provincial directives, such as the guidelines sent out in Binh Thuan province.

The directive, dated Feb. 5, is remarkable, omitting the usual propaganda about general elections and a coalition government (required by the Paris peace treaty). Instead it bluntly admits that Hanoi's political progress in South Vietnam since U. S. forces pulled out has been disappointing.

"The enemy temporarily has the upper hand," says the directive. "... Puppet soldiers are still plentiful" and are "still able to control populated areas."

In contrast, Communist forces "are still weak and undermanned; the guerrilla warfare movement has not yet become strong."

The answer: "Push our attacks strongly in all areas."

As viewed here, such directives and other intelligence data mean the Communists will continue sharp military attacks locally this year while preparing for a possible general offensive in the future.

In sum, Hanoi is not abandoning force as the means to unite Indochina; the strength of the Saigon regime has simply delayed the showdown.

The one factor that could advance the showdown is an economic breakdown to which Communist headquarters have been alerting their cadre. A drastic, sudden reduction of U. S. aid would surely trigger such a breakdown.

Thus, defecting Communists report that Hanoi's strategy is designed to undermine U. S. confidence in President Nguyen Van Thieu's government.

This dovetails with the campaign laid out last October when veteran radical Tom Hayden invited 200 antiwar activists to Germantown, Ohio, for a strategy session. The propaganda lines set forth then have been vigorously relayed in Capitol Hill: the Thieu government, not Hanoi, is the aggressor and would collapse without provocation should the U. S. withdraw aid.

Even though such propaganda is contradicted by the Communists' own documents, it has found fertile soil in a Congress sick and tired of the Indochina burden. Hawkish leaders of a

HALF-WAY OUT

There is an old cunumdrum which goes like this: Question: "How far can a dog go into the woods?" Answer: "He can go only half-way into the woods; after that he is on the way out."

This is not only wisdom for those people who like to wander through woods, but for those who would go confidently through life. How far can a man go into trouble? He can go only half-way; after that he is on his way out. We can go just so far in sorrow; after that we begin

The Changing Lifestyle

WASHINGTON—A White House spokesman said last week that President Nixon's decision to pay almost a half-million dollars in back taxes has "almost totally wiped out" Mr. Nixon financially.

If this is true, the President may have to make some dramatic changes in his lifestyle. These are the kind of stories we may be reading about Mr. Nixon in the next three years.

WASHINGTON—President Nixon gave a state dinner last night for Queen Elizabeth II at a McDonald's hamburger stand in Chevy Chase, Md. The President explained to the queen and Prince Philip that the White House was being redecorated and McDonald's was the only place he could rent on such short notice.

Entertainment for the evening was provided by Henry Mancini, Burt Bacharach, Peggy Lee, Glen Campbell and Johnny Cash records on a jukebox which was loaned to the President for the evening.

Each guest was served one Big Mac and a bag of French Fried potatoes. After dinner the President toasted the queen in Welch's grape juice and presented her with a yo-yo which was given to him by the Grand Ole Opry in Nashville, Tenn.

Mrs. Nixon said she was looking forward to the dinner the British ambassador was giving the royal family on the following evening at the British Embassy, as she was still hungry.

Public Forum

To the editor:

I just want to thank publicly all those that fought so hard for the Coastal Management Bill, the bill that was watered down partially by Mr. Lewis (Snow) Holding, president of the fourth-largest bank in North Carolina, in coalition with groups from coastal areas of realtors, motel owners, land developers.

By the way, Mr. Holding owns considerable personal properties on the coast as well as First Citizens Bank's having millions in financing of resort businesses.

I don't guess this would have anything to do with Holding's wanting less than a strict land plan for our future.

I also want to state I think there is enough conscience in every one of our elected officials' hearts (God put that in all of us), to make them do the right things, put the right men on our boards, the boards that will decide when and if a permit should or should not be issued to build anything on our coast if it will be detrimental.

The outstanding work done by Sen. William Staton, Sen. Hamilton Horton, Rep. Willis Whitchard, and all representatives who stood for this fine bill, plus all the tremendous work done by Mr. James E. Harrington, Secretary of Natural and Economic Resources, we should thank God for.

Without them, with just the opponents of this fine bill, what would North Carolina, or in fact our country, come to in just a few years of such representation? Our children's and grand-children's future looks brighter when such men as mentioned as proponents to the bill fight as hard as they have for so long.

Things can be helped or worked out by just a few people if they really try. As in the case of saving Jockey's Ridge for our future generations. Mr. and Mrs. Walter Baum, whom I had the pleasure to help in the preservation of the Ridge, are proof what a few can do with God's help.

Anyone interested in obtaining information on progress made in the Jockey's Ridge preservation write: People to Preserve Jockey's Ridge, 515 Rosemary St., Chapel Hill, N.C. 27514, or to me.

By the way, our motto is S. O. S., Save Our Sand Dunes. Hugh McGowan Jr., 1407 E. Fourth St., Greenville, N.C. 27834

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif.—President Nixon arrived here today on a Greyhound bus from Washington for the weekend. The trip took five days, and the President looked a little tired as he got off at the bus station in Laguna Beach. A press spokesman angrily denied that Mr. Nixon tried to get his daughters, Tricia and Julie, on the bus for half-fare.

The spokesman said: "The President had been advised by his lawyers that if he traveled by bus he was entitled to a family plan discount. When he was informed that this did not apply on weekends, he asked a joint congressional committee on bus travel to look into the matter. Mr. Nixon said if he was wrong he would pay Tricia and Julie's full fare."

WASHINGTON—The White House announced today that President Nixon would be going to Moscow next month for a summit meeting with Leonid Brezhnev. The President will be traveling on a charter flight with 175 barbers and their wives from Miami, Fla. The trip will cost $325, which includes hotel ac-

Israel Less Stable

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
 AP Special Correspondent

In the Middle East, if it's not one thing, it's another. This time it's not Arab but Israeli instability that endangers the delicate framework of peace negotiations Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger has constructed since October.

After the Arab-Israeli wars of 1948, 1956 and 1967, Arab political instability and divisions presented formidable obstacles to settlement efforts. This time, the resignation of Golda Meir and her cabinet seems to turn the picture upside down, and the Arabs seem more stable than they have been in 30 years.

Egypt's President Anwar Sadat exudes confidence in the wake of Israel's withdrawal from the Suez Canal.

Jordan, Israel's neighbor to the east, seems to have been having some respite from constant turmoil.

The Arab oil nations, raking in more riches than they know what to do with, are displaying a tendency toward the sort of effort that might lead to stability, even if that should require modifying florid vows against Israel.

And Syria, its politics always among the most volatile in the area, also seems more stable. Although the Israelis captured still more Syrian territory in the October war, the Syrians seem to feel they fought well and proved their potential. If Israel gives up at least a little of the territory it took from Syria in 1967, that can be represented as a Syrian achievement.

All this makes Kissinger's efforts for a Syrian-Israeli disengagement agreement an enormously important phase of the search for a final settlement.

But Israeli uncertainty is a rather long-term prospect that might last through the summer, or until elections straighten things out if, in fact, that can be achieved at all.

That's a lot of time in terms of the hair-trigger situation. No Syrian government is ever without a generous share of internal enemies. The current one is no exception, even though it has lasted longer than any of its predecessors. Lacking military disengagement and at least an appearance of Israeli concession on the Golan

 Reports that John Dillinger, the desperado from Indiana, was headed toward Louisiana with a machine gun today caused wild excitement.

On advice from Department of Justice agents from Dallas and New Orleans, which were telegraphed here, sheriff's officers from Shreveport and Marshall blocked the Dixie Overland highway and took a desperate stand to overhaul the desperado for whom the whole nation is searching.

He was said to be driving a car bearing a Tennessee license plate.

GOP Campus Strength Is Low

By GEORGE GALLUP

(Copyright 1974, Field Enterprises, Inc. All rights reserved. Republication in whole or part strictly prohibited, except with the written consent of the copyright holders.)

PRINCETON, N.J. — Republican party allegiance among the nation's college students is currently at the lowest point since these measurements were initiated almost a decade ago. Only about one student in seven (14 per cent) today described himself as a Republican.

This low point in GOP party affiliation on college campuses coincides with the low point among the nation's voters as a whole. The most recent Gallup report on the subject showed that the percentage of adults identifying themselves as Republicans to be at an all-time low of 24 per cent.

While Republican party allegiance has declined among the college population to a low point, nearly half (49 per cent) in the current survey say they are independents, outnumbering the proportion who call themselves Democrats (37 per cent).

While college students were only moderately active in the national elections of 1970 and 1972, they nevertheless represent an important political base for both parties.

To obtain the results reported today a total of 1,089 fulltime students, representing 60 campuses, were interviewed in person in a survey conducted in January. Here is the question asked: "In politics as of today do you consider yourself a Republican, Democrat or independent?"

The following table shows the trend in party affiliation among college students:

	(College Student)
	Republicans	Democrats	Independents
1966	26%	35%	39%
1967	22	30	48
1970	18	30	52
1972	21	38	41
1974	14	37	49

The following table compares the present party affiliation of college students with that of the general public (adults 18 and older):

	General Students	Public
Republicans	14	24
Democrats	37	42
Independents	49	34

Differences emerge on the basis of the student's year in school, with GOP party affiliation declining steadily as a student becomes older. Correspondingly, the percentage of those classifying themselves as Democrats increases among seniors and graduate students. However, approximately half of students in each class describe themselves as independents. The following table shows the results by class in college:

	Party Affiliation (By Class in College)
	Republicans	Democrats	Independents
Freshmen	16%	36%	48%
Sophomores	16	35	49
Juniors	14	35	51
Seniors	11	39	50
Graduate students	9	43	48

Filipino Nailed To Cross A Sixth Time

By ARNOLD ZEITLIN
Associated Press Writer

SAN FERNANDO, Philippines (AP) — For the sixth year, Juanito Piring, a laborer who earns about $7.50 a week when he works, was nailed to a cross today as a Good Friday act of sacrifice.

Piring, 33-year-old father of six, did not utter a sound as Medina Pamposa drove a silver painted, three-inch spike into the palm of each outstretched hand with two quick blows of his hammer.

Medina was dressed as Marco, the Roman soldier who drove the nails into the body of Jesus Christ. Piring, in a white loin cloth, a curly wig and a crown of thorns, represented Christ.

Piring moved his lips silently as the 16-foot wooden cross was raised in the middle of a rice field. A crowd of at least 4,000 milled around it in a carnival atmosphere of bobbing, gaily colored balloons and ice cream vendors ringing bells.

At the foot of the cross dozens of flagellants, their naked backs scarlet with their own blood, lashed themselves with bamboo scourges, splattering members of the crowd closest to the cross.

After less than 10 seconds on the cross, Piring was brought down and carried to the roadside. His pierced hands were bathed in alcohol and wrapped in white bandages.

"I feel good," said Piring. "It hurts. Of course it hurts. But when I am on the cross, it is as if I am another person. It is as if Jesus is helping me."

"This is a sacrifice for the extension of life of my mother and my sick child."

The flagellants had paraded through the town since early morning. They lashed themselves numb while helpers raked their backs with paddles embedded with broken glass.

Criticized For 'Camouflaging'

RALEIGH (AP)—Sen. Michael Mullins, R-Mecklenburg, has come in for criticism from his colleagues for almost engineering a camouflaged liquor-by-the-drink bill through the General Assembly.

The criticism came at a meeting Thursday of the Senate Rules Committee. Sen. J. J. Harrington, D-Bertie, said the Senate does not condone such action and does not want to have any more instances of this nature.

Mullins attempted to initiate mixed drink sales in Mecklenburg and Guilford counties by tacking an amendment authorizing such sales to a local bill. The content of the amendment was never explained and the bill passed both houses before dry forces learned of the amendment and successfully engineered its repeal.

Mullins said, "I felt justified in using these machinelike tactics because Mecklenburg had twice voted for liquor by the drink. I was just trying to do something for the folks back home. I did it because with the election coming up, people here are afraid to vote on liquor bills."

He said, "This would have gotten liquor through and would have gotten a lot of guys off the hook. They wouldn't have had to apologize to the folks back home."

Drama Will Be Staged Sunday

A drama entitled "The Challenge of the Cross" will be presented at Faith Pentecostal Holiness Church Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

Beginning at 7:30 p.m., the drama will be directed by Lynn Cherry.

Revival services will begin Monday at 7:30 p.m. and continue through Sunday, April 21. The Rev. Ralph Lambert will be the guest evangelist.

R.N. Hood, pastor of the Faith Church located on 14th Street Extension, invites the public to attend the services.

Choir Will Sing Easter Cantata Libraries Will Close Monday

WINTERVILLE—On Sunday at 7:30 p.m., the choir of the Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church will present an Easter cantata entitled "King of Glory" by Jan LaRoe.

Blanie Moye, principal of W. H. Robinson School, will serve as director. Tommy Manning, editor of the Free Will Baptist Paper will be organist and Lou Nanne will be pianist.

The cantata will include several solos, duets, trios and choral selections and narration will be used to explain the story presented.

Miss Elizabeth Copeland, Greenville City librarian, has announced that the city's libraries will be closed on Easter Monday, April 15.

The library will be open on regular hours, Saturday, April 13 and will re-open for the regular schedule on Tuesday, April 16.

Joining this widening congressional fatigue is a combination of ineptitude and lassitude by the Watergate-obsessed Nixon administration. No effective lobbying effort has been launched. Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's letter to Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, justifying the aid on the basis of private and verbal Paris peace agreements, did not help. Far worse was disclosure of an outrageous and self-defeating cablegram by the usually astute Graham Martin, U.S. ambassador to Saigon, urging that Kennedy not be given an "honest and detailed answer" about Vietnam aid.

Church Choir To Offer Program

The musical "Jesus Is Coming," by John W. Peterson, will be presented on Easter Sunday night at 7:30 by the Adult Choir of the Black Jack Pentecostal Free Will Baptist Church, Rt. 3, Greenville.

This will be the fifth annual Easter cantata given by the choir. The theme of the cantata is the return of the Lord Jesus Christ and the words are taken from the Scriptures.

Soloists include Mrs. John L. Bailey, Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Guy, Connie B. Dixon, Mack Dixon Jr., and Carlton Elks. The director-accompanist is Mrs. R.M. Stewart.

The nursery will be provided for the convenience of those with small children. A time of fellowship will follow the musical program. Pastor R.M. Stewart and the church extend an invitation to the public.

WASHINGTON—Ronald Ziegler, the President's press secretary, announced the Nixons would hold a garage sale at the White House next Sunday. Besides presidential papers and old tapes, the Nixons are offering other items of interest, including a cloth coat, a 16-millimeter print of "Patton," an autographed football of the Miami Dolphins, three copies of "Six Crises" and several costumes left over from Tricia's masked ball.

The press secretary said that all items would be sold for cash, and all sales were final. Mr. Ziegler urged every American to attend this unique event which he said may never be held by an American President again. There will be a $1 parking charge on the Mall.

Mini-Revival To Begin Sunday

The University Church of Christ, 264 By-Pass will conduct a mini-revival Sunday through Tuesday featuring the church Timothies, Phil Laughlin, Eugene Andrews, Ted Walton and Jimmy Bright, all students at Roanoke Bible College, Elizabeth City.

On Easter Sunday, special music will be presented by the Happiness Unlimited Quartet of Roanoke Bible College. Phil Laughlin will bring the message at the morning service at 11 a.m. Eugene Andrews will speak at the evening service at 7:30 p.m.

On Monday, Ted Walton will speak and on Tuesday, Jimmy Bright will bring the message. The services on Monday and Tuesday will be at 7:30 p.m.

Church Timothies are those who were members of the Sunday School or church at the University Church and are now studying to become ministers.

Planning Sunrise Service Sunday

An Easter sunrise service is planned for 6:30 a.m. Sunday in the outdoor chapel of St. James United Methodist Church.

The outdoor chapel is in the back of the sanctuary and faces E. Eighth Street.

The service will include special music and the public is invited to attend.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets were steady Thursday. Supplies adequate, demand fairly good. Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 65.73, medium whites 55.71, small whites 39.84.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—Corn and soybean prices were weaker at North Carolina grain markets Thursday. No. 2 yellow shelled corn was 2.48-2.70 per bushel, mostly 2.52-2.60 in the east and 2.75-2.80 in the Piedmont. No. 1 yellow soybeans were mostly 5.27-5.34 per bushel.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina hogs are mostly steady, with instances of 50 cents higher today. Tops of $1.50-32.50 at Kinston and Lumberton;

30.50-31.00 Rocky Mount; 28.75-30.75 Wilson and High Falls; 32.00 Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina hens: Market steady with a firm undertone on heavy hens. Supplies barely adequate to short. Demand fairly good. Too few sales to release prices.

North Carolina f.o.b. dock broilers: Market stonger, supplies adequate and demand fairly good. F.O.B. dock weighted average price for less than tucklot sales of sized plant grade broilers to be picked up at dock next week is 37.43 cents per pound. Estimated slaughter 897,000 head. Average weight for April 10 was 4.12 pounds.

Safety Upheld

CHARLOTTE (AP)—The Atomic Safety and Licensing Board has struck down objections to a proposed Duke Power Co. nuclear plant which environmentalists made at the first phase of hearings.

The Carolina Environmental Study Group said it plans to appeal.

One of its objections was that dangers of potential release of radiation by the proposed Catawba plant on Lake Wylie between Charlotte and Rock Hill, S.C., had not been adequately considered.

It also contended dangers of accidents in the populated area were not considered thoroughly, and that power to be generated would not be needed in the future.

The first phase of the hearings were held in Charlotte and Rock Hill last January and February.

Hearings before the three-member safety board is one step in the process of getting a construction permit from the Atomic Energy Commission.

A prehearing conference is scheduled in Charlotte Tuesday to set the stage for a second round of hearings.

Kidnaped

CORDOBA, Argentina (AP)—Police said the chief of the United States Information Service in Cordoba was kidnaped today in a violent incident. They identified him as Alfred Laun. There was no immediate confirmation from the U.S. Embassy.

A spokesman for the police precinct in suburban Unquillo, about five miles from here, said about nine unidentified persons, including a woman, kidnaped Laun from his home.

The State Department's Biographic Register lists an Alfred Laun III as 36, and says he is from Wisconsin.

American oilman Victor Samuelson is still held by Argentine guerrillas despite the payment of a record $14.2 million for his release. Samuelson, 36, of Cleveland, Ohio, manager of an Esso refinery north of Buenos Aires, was kidnaped four months ago.

Bank Robbed

By Armed Men

STOKESDALE, N.C. (AP)—Three armed men wearing ski masks robbed the Central Carolina bank at Stokesdale this morning, according to the highway patrol in Greensboro.

Witnesses said the men were armed with a submachine gun, a pistol and a sawed off shotgun.

They fled east on N.C. 158 in a car. The amount of money taken was not disclosed. It was North Carolina's 14th bank robbery of the year.

Grand Champion Award For Pitt County Entry

David Whitley of Farmville had the grand champion steer in the 34th annual Coastal Plain Livestock Show and Sale held Tuesday and Wednesday at the Lenoir County Livestock Arena.

Participating in the event were 4-H livestock boys and girls from Lenoir, Greene, Duplin, Jones and Pitt Counties.

The grand champion was a Hereford weighing 972 pounds.

The calf was purchased by the Kinston Tobacco Board of Trade at $1 per pound.

The reserve champion was shown by Paul Grady of Duplin County. His steer, an Angus-

Hereford cross, was bought by the Kinston Stockyards.

A total of 36 steers sold for $19,897, for an average of 59 cents a pound.

Seven 4-H steers from Pitt County were entered in the event. These calves were owned by David Whitley, Scott Flanagan, Amelia Ross, Gayle Flanagan, Mike Braswell, Ken Ross and Jerry Flanagan.

Meet Wednesday

Because of the Easter holiday, the April meeting of the Greenville City School Board will not be held on the third Monday, but will instead take place on Wednesday, April 17, at 8:00 p.m. in the boardroom of the central office.

Items on the agenda include a review of Chapters F, K and L of the policy manual, alternatives for E. B. Aycock school in long range plans, request for Title I funds, the City Council resolution on terms of present school board members, and the 1974-75 budget.

Also on the agenda are personnel matters, presentation of the Student Advisory Board, and a number of miscellaneous items.

Annual Service At St. Jude's

GRIFTON—The annual community Easter Sunrise Service will be held at St. Jude's Catholic Church.

The service will begin at 6:30 a.m. and is being sponsored by the Grifton Ministers Fellowship and the Grifton Ministers Alliance.

In the event of rain, the service will be held at the First Christian Church here.

EASTER PROGRAM

The youth department of York Memorial AME Zion Church will have its Easter program Sunday at 3 p.m. at the church.

No Jokes When They're In Game

By WILLIE PATRICK
Special to the Reflector

At first glance, Wayne Bland and Bill Godwin look like a remake of the old Laurel & Hardy comedy team. But when it comes down to throwing baseballs, an afternoon pursuit in which they engage for the East Carolina University Pirates, all comedy goes out the window.

Bland, at 6-1, 175 has hurled 27 and one-third innings for the Pirates through their first 17 games of the 1974 season. For his efforts, he has emerged with a 4-1 record and 0.65 ERA. Godwin, meanwhile, at 6-1, 220 has pitched 41 innings, coming through with a 4-1 record and a 0.65 ERA. Therefore, the prospect of hitting off either of these two pitchers hasn't exactly been a barrel of laughs for opponents.

Godwin hails from Wilmington, while Bland lists his hometown as Wrightsville Beach, which is nearby. Prior to coming to East Carolina University, where he has founded the "Golden Idiot" platoon among the Buc second-stringers, Bland was a starter for College of Albemarle, in Elizabeth City. There, in 1972, he was a North Carolina Junior College All-Conference selection, and in 1973, picked up the circuit's low ERA award with a 0.91 mark. Bland says he decided to further his education at East Carolina University because of the location and "the school itself."

"I was recruited from Louisburg College, where I played summer ball last year," said Bland. "They have good facilities down there, and Russ Frazier, the coach, will look after you after you leave school. That's why I came here."

Godwin has spent his career, college-wise, as a full-fledged Pirate, coming to East Carolina straight from a glory-studded high school career, plus participation on the Wilmington

American Legion Post No 10 team that finished fifth in the nation in 1970. While a Buc, Godwin has compiled a record of 14-6 to date, this being his senior year. He sports what looks like a baffling array of "junk" pitches, but says he likes to refer to his style as "being one of a control artist, not a junkballer." Godwin also had trouble pinning down a person he considered the "toughest out" he had ever faced.

"Seven of the players on the West Covina, Calif., team that beat us in Legion ball were drafted by the pros," said Godwin. "So it really is hard to pick."

"But in college, I guess I would have to go with Howie Edgerton, a friend of mine from Wilmington."

Bland said that he usually had trouble with Wayne Pyrtle of Pembroke, a team the Pirates were to play in opening their spring road trip. The Pirate game with Pembroke in Greenville was cancelled due to a conference commitment, thus saving Bland the choice of pitching to or around Tyrtle. But Bland doesn't relish the thought of pitching around anybody—with his credentials, he doesn't need to.

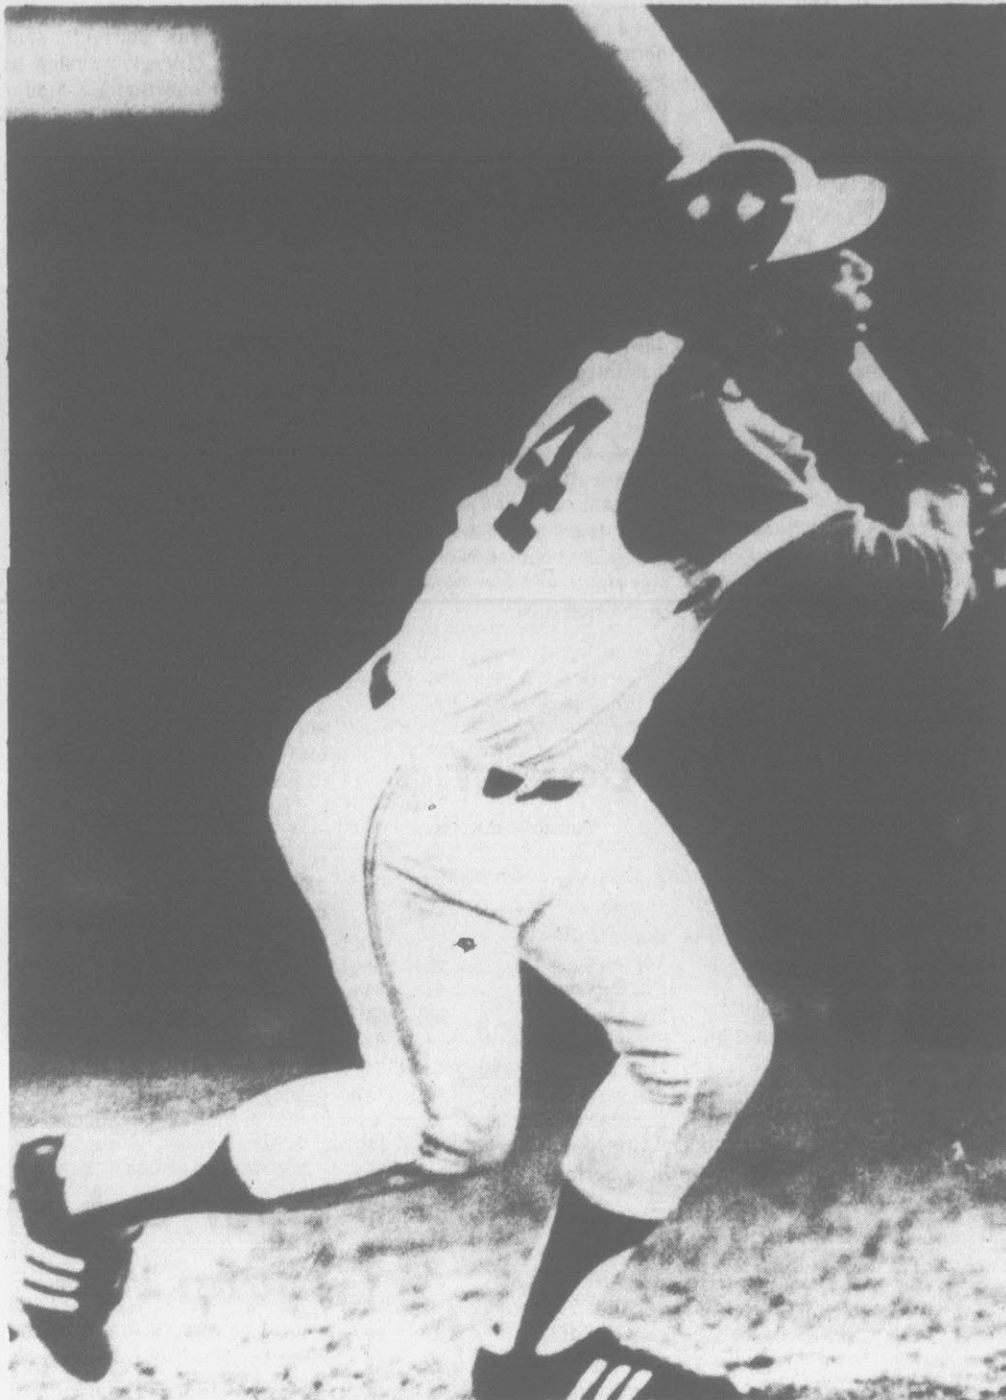

"I love the pressure," said Bland. "And when you're a G.I., you can do your best."

Bland picked up one early-season win in relief, helping another Pirate hurler in a "tight" situation. Bland has always been a starter, compiling an 8-0 record in 1972 while at COA, and admits he "would rather start than relieve."

As the slender member of the team, Bland is not exposed to the heckling that finds Godwin on most mound appearances. The man who opponents refer to as a "walking Michelob commercial" says he tries not to hear the hecklers, but sometimes it can't be helped.

"I try not to listen while pitching," Godwin explained. "Because if that stuff makes you mad, then you usually forget about what you are out to do: pitch. And to be a good pitcher, you have to have good control. And you'll lose control all the way if you listen to the hecklers."

For one of the same reasons comedians, such as the old Laurel & Hardy team, work the long grinding hours is that they enjoy what they are doing. With this due it's the same way. Like Bland says, "Baseball is a game you play to have fun." And hitters they have faced couldn't disagree a single bit more.

THIS COULD GET TO BE A HABIT—Altainta Braves Henry Aaron studies the flight to left field of career homer run 716 in the seventh inning at Atlanta Stadium last night. The home run came with no one on base as the Braves beat the Dodgers, 6-4. Dodger pitcher Charlie Hough was on the mound at the time. (AP Wirephoto)

Seaver, Gibson Find Rough Going In Duel

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

Tom Seaver and Bob Gibson, used to mowing down opposing batters with relative ease, are learning how the other half lives. As far as Steve Rogers is concerned, though, there isn't any other half.

Seaver and Gibson hooked up in the opener of a doubleheader Thursday and neither was around at the finish. The St. Louis Cardinals rocked Seaver for six runs on 10 hits in five innings, including three homers, while Gibson, unable to hold a 6-0 lead, was chased in the seventh by the New York Mets.

However, the Cardinals rallied for two runs in the eighth and an 8-7 victory. They completed a sweep by taking the nightcap 4-3 with a pair of runs in the ninth.

Meanwhile, Rogers, baseball's latest pitching prodigy, made his 1974 debut and hurled the Montreal Expos past the winless Pittsburgh Pirates 5-1, allowing six hits and an unearned run. Rogers made 17 starts after coming up from the minors last August and pitched well in all of them—a 10-5 record and 1.54 earned run average.

Elsewhere in the National League, the Houston Astros walloped the hapless San Diego Padres 9-1, Hank Aaron hit home run No. 716 in the Atlanta Braves' 6-4 triumph over the Los Angeles Dodgers and the Philadelphia Phillies edged the Chicago Cubs 4-3 on Tommy Hutton's two-run pinch homer in the ninth. San Francisco and Cincinnati had the day off.

The Cardinals began their assault on Seaver, the NL's 1973 Cy Young Award winner, in the second inning on Ken Reitz' solo homer. Joe Torre connected in the third with one man aboard and Lou Brock socked a three-run shot in the third.

Braves 6, Dodgers 4

Aaron drilled his 716th career home run in the seventh inning, snapping a tie. Mike Lum had homered to tie the score earlier in the inning. Aaron has three home runs for the year—his only hits. He is batting only .187.

"Three hits, three home runs," he mused. "That's better than no hits. You can't knock it. It felt good. It means something because we beat the heck out of these guys who have been doing it to us for so long. I've forgotten about 714 and 715 already. You can't rest on that."

Rose Track Team Has Best Times This Year

Rose High School's Rampants dominate the track scene so far this year, posting the best times and distances, as reported to the Daily Reflector.

Were the top five times and distances among the six area teams with track teams compiled in track meet style, the Rampants would easily outdistance the rest, rolling up 99 5-6 points, as compared with 49 1/2 for runner-up Farmville Central.

Greene Central would follow with 40 1-3, while Ayden-Grifton would have 27, Conley, 20 1-3, and Williamston, 16.

Among the girls' teams Rose would also finish atop the heap, but not quite by as much. The Rampant lassies would finish with 77 points, just three ahead of D.H. Conley with 74. North Pitt would be far back in third with 37, while Ayden-Grifton would claim 33.

Jesse Brown of Ayden-Grifton leads in two categories at this stage of the competition. He heads the high jump with a leap of 6 feet, 6 inches, and the triple jump, going 41 feet, 8 inches.

Greene Central's Laton Forbes tops both the shot (52-10) and the discus (137-5). Ray Hardy of Farmville Central has the best times in the 220 and 440-yard dashes, 21.0 seconds and 52.5 seconds, respectively.

Nat Perkins of Rose leads the high hurdles in :15.0, but has to settle for only a share of the low hurdles at :20.9.

Among the girls, Vickie Hawkins of Conley has the best distances in the shot, 33-9 and the discus, 88-1. Kathy Taylor of North Pitt has the best times in the 880 and 440. She has a 1:09.9 in the latter, while in the 880, her time of 2:32.8 ties the state record.

Teresa Baker, leading in the 220 at :27.9, has only a share of first in the high jump, clearing 4-6.

Depth makes the difference for the Rampants. They have the best times in the relays for the boys, but are tops in only three other events, plus one they share with Williamston.

Farmville Central leads five individual events, while Ayden-Grifton and Greene Central head two and Conley, one.

Among the girls, Conley has four individual winners, plus heads two of the three relays. They also share first place in two other events, one with Rose and one with Ayden-Grifton. North Pitt tops three events, while Rose heads two, plus one relay.

Again, thus, depth gives the Rampants their advantage. A summary of the best times in each event, as reported to date, follows.

Boys' events:
High jump: J. Brown (AG) 6-6; Pair (R) 6-1; Harper (C) 6-0; Sheppard (GC) 5-10; McMillan

(GC) and Randolph (R) and C. Hawkins (C), tie for fifth, 5-8.

Long jump: R. Wilkes (FC) 21-8 1/2; J. Brown (AG) 20-8; Allen (R) 20-7 1/2; Perkins (R) 20-3; Morris (R) 20-1 1/2.

Pole vault: Little (FC) 11-0; Bennett (AG) 9-6; Gay (W) 9-1; Daniels (R) and Buck (C), tie for fourth, 9-0.

Triple jump: J. Brown (AG) 41-8; Morris (R) 40-10; Randolph (R) 40-3; Allen (R) 39-4; R. Wilkes (FC) 39-1 1/2.

Shot put: Forbes (GC) 52-10; Paschal (R) 47-2; Carmon (GC) 46-3 1/2; Rouse (GC) 46-0; Satterwaite (FC) 44-10 1/2.

Discus: Forbes (GC) 137-5; Hardy (FC) 128-1 1/2; J. Wilkes (FC) 126-0; Paschal (R) 124-11; Goodall (R) 118-6 1/2.

High hurdles: Perkins (R) :15.0; Sheppard (GC) :15.5; Roberts (W) :16.8; J. Wilkes (FC) :16.9; R. Wilkes (FC) and Sutton (GC), tie for fifth, :17.1.

Farmville Nips Greene By 2-0

SNOW HILL—Barry Johnson threw a one-hitter last night to pitch Farmville Central past the Rams of Greene Central to a 2-0 shutout.

Johnson struck out 15 Rams while walking three. Dale Pridgen was the loser fanning nine, giving up six hits and walking two.

Neither team was able to get much going. It took the Jaguars six innings to finally get a run in. Farmville Central had threatened in the second when they loaded the bases. Tony Oakley singled and stole second. Eddie Horne walked and Gary Cowan got a hit. Mike Jenkins, running for Oakley, was picked off third to make the second out and a ground out ended the rally.

Then in the sixth, the Jags broke the ice with both their runs. Ed Wells singled to right and stole second. Tommy Cobb singled to drive in Wells and Cobb stole second. Johnson singled to score Cobb.

Greene Central had put men in scoring position in the seventh but failed to score. Whitley walked and moved around on a pair of wild pitches. Shorty Radford reached on an error as Whitley held at third. Johnson struck out the last two batters to end the game.

Cobb had three hits for Farmville Central.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY PEELE

The odds-makers would have to admit that East Carolina University's baseball Pirates are a better-than-even threat to win the Southern Conference championship this year and get a trip to the Regionals at Mississippi State University.

George Williams, the Buc coach, isn't counting his chickens yet. "I don't even know when the regional tournament is slated for," he said the other day. "I don't even want to know until this is over."

A look at the schedule, however, would seem to make it clear that unless something completely unforeseen happens, the Pirates are almost certain to win. They would have to completely fall apart—or suffer some bad injuries not to win it.

East Carolina has six games in the conference remaining to be played. One of them is tomorrow afternoon in Charleston, S.C., against The Citadel. It could prove to be a tough game, but the Bucs should win it.

Next Saturday, they start the final grind. They face William & Mary in another that would be an upset were they to lose. Then, the following Wednesday, they are at Richmond, and that could prove to be the clincher. They may, by then, be in a position of wrapping it up with a win.

Saturday, two games with VMI will be played on the road, and again, the Bucs should be favored. They return home the next Monday, April 29, to finish up.

Of those six games, four would seem to find the Bucs favored, while the other two—the road games against The Citadel and Richmond—might be tossups.

But Richmond, the team closest to them, still must play Appalachian State and Furman, the next two toughest teams in the league, and it would seem doubtful that they could go through both without a loss.

Come the end of May, the Bucs should be Mississippi-bound.

And speaking of going places, wonder where the Carolina Cougars are going to be next season.

All this year, the Cougars talked about the poor attendance in this basketball-crazy state. They threatened to move out, mentioning Cincinnati, if things didn't improve. And they said flatly they would abandon the regional concept, playing in just one city next year, even if they stayed in North Carolina.

The Cougars, this year, were up against some powerful opposition. The play of N.C. State University certainly hurt the Courgar gate. The gas crisis probably didn't help matters much either. Those who were picking their games probably picked the top college games, those involving State with the other Big Four teams.

Another blow was not having Billy Cunningham. That kept Carolina from being a team that could be a championship contender—if not the champion.

So they have threatened a move. But where can they go? Seems to us that professional basketball isn't that great a draw most anywhere. Few of the franchises in either league play to really big crowds. There really doesn't seem to be a true market for this sport.

Good Luck Following Jim Kaat This Season

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

For a fellow who's allowed seven runs and 14 hits in 91-3 innings pitched this season, Jim Kaat hasn't lost his sense of humor.

The reason? Friendly skies which exploded at just the right moment to turn potential losses into rainouts.

Kaat pitched 62-3 innings Sunday against the California Angels, permitting nine hits and three runs before he departed. The White Sox managed to tie the game 4-4 before play was halted and the game postponed—thanks to a snow storm over White Sox Park.

Thursday's game was no different. In just 22-3 innings, the Minnesota Twins struck for five hits and four runs before the skies opened upon Metropolitan Stadium.

In other American League action Thursday, the Detroit Tigers topped the New York Yankees 4-1, the Baltimore Orioles edged the Boston Red Sox 7-6 in 11 innings, the Milwaukee Brewers nipped the Cleveland Indians 7-5, and the California Angels defeated the Texas Rangers 11-8.

"I'm specializing in throw-away games this season," said Kaat, tongue very much in cheek. But another pitcher, Minnesota's Joe Decker, knew exactly how Kaat felt.

Decker had given up four runs and five hits in six innings to the White Sox Thursday and was trailing 6-1 Sunday when the Twins' game with the Kansas City Royals was rained out.

"Normally," added Decker in an apparent understatement, "I'm a slow starter."

The game will be replayed in its entirety at a later date, but all the hitting and pitching records will go into the final statistics.

Tigers 4, Yankees 1
Joe Coleman fared considerably better in his outing for Detroit, holding New York hitless for 7-1-3 innings on the way to a two-hitter.

Mickey Stanley hit a two-run homer in the seventh, while Aurelio Rodriguez and Ed Brinkman drove in the other Tiger runs with singles.

Gene Michael ruined the no-hitter with a ground single up the middle in the eighth inning and Roy White kayoed the shut-out with a leadoff home run in the ninth.

Orioles 7, Red Sox 6
Baltimore's Elrod Hendricks scored from second base in the 11th inning when an attempted double play throw by Doug Griffin went wild.

The Orioles had scored a run in the 10th, but Juan Beniquez tied it again with a home run for Boston.

The Red Sox had taken a 3-0 lead, but the Orioles knotted the score and moved ahead 4-3 in the seventh inning.

Brewers 7, Indians 6
Milwaukee spotted Cleveland five runs in the first inning but eventually won the game.

"Some guys give up, but we have a scrappy team," said John Briggs, whose fifth-inning home run put the Brewers in front 6-5.

Bob Coluccio's single in the seventh inning drove in the game-winner.

John Ellis had a two-run homer for Cleveland, while Pedro Garcia had a solo shot for Milwaukee.

Angels 11, Rangers 8
Lee Stanton, Frank Robinson and Mike Epstein cracked home runs for the Angels, who overcame a four-run first inning by Texas.

California had 15 hits in scoring their fourth triumph in five games.

Stanton's homer, his third of the season, accounted for three runs, while Robinson's—the 533rd of his career—accounted for two more.

Epstein had had only one hit in 15 trips to the plate before the game, but added a double and single and four runs scored to his home run.

Colbert: Old Lady Was Asleep Thursday

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — "The Old Lady was asleep," said stubby Jim Colbert, refusing to gloat over his 67 that led a sub-par charge into today's second round of the Masters Golf Tournament, "but you better not get cocky and over confident. She'll wake up and snap back at you."

The Old Lady is the Augusta National course, spoken of in personal terms since the day the broad and demanding layout came out of the head of the late Bob Jones.

It was Jones who labelled his green-garlanded brainchild "a fickle lady."

"She has to be petted and cajoled," said the immortal Grand Slam king. "If you try to attack her, if you treat her rough, she will devour you."

She merely purred in the opening round Thursday when a crazy quilt collection of favorites turned Augusta's par 72 into a sham. Twenty-one broke it, six others tied it.

"The golf course was not its most difficult," said the 3-1 favorite and four-time winner, Jack Nicklaus, registering a 69 despite a bogey on the final hole.

Young Johnny Miller, the 4-1 second choice as the result of his three tournament winning streak early in the year, had an erratic round that left him at par 72.

Augusta's 7,020 yards wore a lush green carpet. The massive, undulating greens were relatively slow, permitting bold shots at the pin. Until the arrival of tricky gusts late in the afternoon, the wind was little more than a gentle whisper.

"They say rain is coming," said Nicklaus. "That could change things. If, on the other hand, the greens get fast, it will help the better players and more sharply divide the field."

Entering today's second 18, with a 30 per cent chance of afternoon thundershowers forecast, Colbert had a one stroke lead over a trio of 20-1 or higher longshots, Don Iverson, Hale Irwin and Hubert Green.

Arnold Palmer, like Nicklaus shooting for his fifth Masters title, was uncomfortably placed at 76, in danger of missing the 36-hole cut.

"I am sick," the 44-year-old Arnie, unable to recapture his old putting magic, said of his opening round score.

Colbert is a 33-year-old former Kansas State Freshman football player who is entering his ninth year as a touring pro. He putted sensationally, thanks to an impromptu putting lesson from Australian Bruce Crampton, and rang in six birdies.

"I had a tendency of nursing everything to the right," Colbert said. "Bruce helped adjust my right hand."

Talking Picture, 2-year-old filly champion of last year, made a winning debut recently as a 3-year-old by taking the second division of the Promise Stakes at Gulfstream Park in Hallandale, Fla.

Beneath this soft and warm exterior, there lies a heart of plastic.

So far, it's only a valve. Eight-year-old Janet Hernandez has one.

It may not be long before a whole working heart will be made out of plastic.

Men in plastics research at Union Carbide are working on the almost impossible job of designing plastics compatible with the body.

Their most crucial job is making an ultra-thin polypropylene fabric for lining the inside of the heart. A fabric coated with parylene that will allow human tissue to grow into and around it to keep blood from clotting.

A plastic heart isn't the only part of the body we're working on. Maybe someday there will be a little plastic in all of us. Right now, we've got you surrounded by our plastics. We were in plastics before most people knew the word. We make more plastics than anyone else. We haven't scratched the surface yet.

Why is a great big company like Union Carbide so concerned about a little bit of plastic for the body?

Because. Beneath our corporate exterior, there beats a heart.

The Worry Clinic Ego-Inflating Turned Tables

Zoe said she had a hateful, egotistical boss. Yet she felt attracted to him. So she challenged me to show her how she could have him eating out of her hand. Note the magic of mutual "horn tooting duets." Men think girls who praise them are far more beautiful!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.
CASE A-605: Zoe B., aged 27, is attracted to her school principal, where she teaches chemistry.

"Dr. Crane," she began, "I've heard you say that any two people of reasonable charm can be caused to fall in love."

"Well, how do you do it?"
"For I would like to marry my school principal, but he seems to find fault with me and criticize my reports."

"I challenge you to prove your theory and thus make him fall in love with me!"

Love Strategy
Zoe was pretty and vivacious, so my task was simple.
"Zoe," I said, "the fact that he goes out of his way to criticize you, is in your favor."
"That means he is basically attracted to you."
She shook her head dubiously.

"Then why does he pick on me?" she demanded.
"Oh, that's to try to show off his superiority," I replied.
"All men wish to appear important, especially in the eyes of the woman they want for a wife."
"But he merely fails to realize that in trying to intimidate his superiority, he is deflating your pride."

"So start by paying him honest compliments instead of feeling resentful at his faultfinding."

"Instead, smile sweetly and tell him you appreciate working with a man who can teach you how to improve."

"Zoe seemed doubtful of my advice, but promised faithfully that she would pay him at least one sincere compliment every day."

"Praise his tie or new suit," I urged, "or his auto or his military posture and erect shoulders."

"Or even personalize your compliments by mentioning his even, white teeth."

Zoe wondered how that would wake him up to her own charms.
"Zoe," I added, "when a man meets a woman who keeps making him feel prouder of himself, he soon begins to think she is intelligent, and even more beautiful."

"For it is a truism of psychology that whenever we feel more delighted with ourselves, some of that self-adulation then spills over upon the other person who inflated our ego, making her seem actually beautiful."

The Daily Reflector, Greenville, N.C.—Friday, April 12, 1974—9

"That's why thousands of men marry girls who may not be even average in good looks."

"But their husbands, they are beautiful!"

Zoe gleefully telephoned the next week that the principal had begun to return her compliments!

And he even invited her to attend a school principals' dinner party with him in the next county.

A mutual admiration society of two then developed, which is the precursor of romance.

For by her deft compliments, she merely reached over and tooted his horn until finally maybe awkwardly, he also tooted her horn.

For a marriage is merely a duet of horn tooters, each of whom toots the other's horn.

So send for my "Compliment Club" booklet, enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

These mutual "Horn tooting duets" should be stressed far more in high school and college for they produce far more happiness than marching bands!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

had something to spare when he led to game.
West led the queen of spades, and declarer had seven tricks. There was an eighth to be had in clubs, for the defenders would be forced to hold up the ace of clubs for one round. It seemed that the only chance for nine tricks was to hope that the defenders would err and hold up the ace of clubs twice, for the spade lead made it unlikely that an extra trick would be developed in that suit.
Rather than rely on a defensive error, declarer came up with a line of play that offered several chances of success. He won the king of spades at trick one and led the ten of clubs, and quite naturally he was allowed to win the trick. Now, he shifted to a low diamond.
West won the eight of diamonds and continued with the jack of spades, forcing declarer's ace. The three high hearts and the ace-king of diamonds were cashed, stripping West of his cards in the red suits, and a club was led. West took his ace and his two spade tricks, but his last card was a low club and he was forced to concede the game-going trick to dummy.

Whitley To Head Pitt County Campaign For Robert Morgan

Greenville businessman A. B. Whitley has been selected to head the Pitt County campaign of Robert Morgan for the U. S. Senate.

Whitley's selection as Pitt chairman took place Wednesday during an organizational meeting of Morgan supporters. The meeting of the Morgan committee, which includes representatives from all areas of the county, was attended by some 26 members.

Whitley, president of A. B. Whitley Inc., a local painting firm, will coordinate campaign activities in the county for the U. S. Senate candidate and direct the area team of Morgan workers.

The Pitt chairman is expected to name several area supporters to key campaign posts in the county soon. Commenting on Morgan's candidacy, Whitley said that, "I think he is a winner. . . and a totally honest man." He asserted, "I certainly think North Carolina would be fortunate in having a man in Washington as active and aggressive as he is." Noting that he hopes to conduct an active Pitt campaign for Morgan, the chairman said that he realizes that the average man's vote "counts just as heavily as the wealthy man's vote. I'm very conscious of this."

U.S. Mint Abandoning Aluminum Penny Plans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Americans won't have aluminum pennies in their pockets in the near future after all, and they soon may not have enough copper pennies, either, the U.S. Mint says.

The vending machine industry has killed the aluminum penny idea, and hoarders apparently are buying up the copper coins faster than they can be produced.

The country is seeing the beginning of a shortage of pennies that has already forced some banks in California, particularly in Los Angeles, to begin rationing them to their customers.

The big problem is that the price of copper is approaching the point where the penny will not be worth as much as its copper content. The price of copper increased to $1.20 per pound this week, the price at which it costs the government more to make a penny than the penny is worth.

Mint spokesman Roy C. Cahoon said the Mint now is producing 35 million pennies every day, but there is demand for 40 million a day. The Mint plans to produce between 8 billion and 8.5 billion pennies this year, compared with 7 billion last year.

The Mint had hoped to switch from copper to the much less expensive aluminum, if Congress approved. Production was to start this year, and sample aluminum sets were stamped.

But the vending machine industry lobbied hard against the proposal, asserting that pennies would not reject properly from some machines and would cause the industry — and machine users — major problems.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, APRIL 13, 1974

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Unusually good for behind-the-scenes work and conferences to improve relationships. Then you can bring this plan into the open and make it operate successfully.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Good day to get the support of some bigwig for the success of some fond dream. You can accomplish much by accurate.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) A good friend's suggestions help gain your fondest wishes. An expert can be very helpful also where the financial is concerned.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Be more alert to what is going on and you know how to please one who expects action. You can clear up situation with mate.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan new arrangements with a partner, then carry through with them constructively. Avoid some situation that could get you in trouble.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Although you have much work to do, you can easily expand activities so they are more profitable and interesting. Fellow workers can be helpful.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Mend friendships and make worthwhile new friends. Have a fine time getting into some new outlet. If an emergency arises, keep calm.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Improve conditions at home, add more harmony. Find the right outlets through which to expand in the future. Avoid the tendency to boast.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Make appointments with those who can assist you in the future and be sure to keep them. Handle correspondence wisely; keep letters short, precise.

Expanding Of Service

ROCKY MOUNT — Long distance service for telephone users in Rocky Mount and surrounding area is being vastly enlarged during 1974, according to a Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company spokesman.

The additional and improved service will result in part from a vast, computerized $15,000,000 long distance switching center to be placed in service at Rocky Mount on April 20.

The new equipment at Rocky Mount, together with increased circuits in this area, will provide added efficiency and increased service capacity for long distance users in this vicinity.

By the end of the year, it is anticipated that the switching center will have available a total of 2,565 long distance circuits to the world — 1,600 more than at the beginning of the year.

$25,000 Extra

Sen. Jesse Helms announced Thursday that the Farmers Home Administration has approved an additional loan of $25,000 to the Eastern Pines Water Corporation of Pitt County for expansion of its rural area water system.

The system has been developed and expanded with $440,000 of previous financing through the FHA. Loans for water systems projects supportive of rural community development are made under the Rural Development Act of 1972 by the FHA, a Department of Agriculture Rural Credit Service. Loans are repayable in 40 years at an interest rate of five percent.

Two Injured In Accidents

Two persons were reported injured and an estimated $2,050 property damage caused in two collisions investigated here early yesterday afternoon.

Police said Randall Jordan Butler of Route 1, Vanceboro and Kaye Howard Anderson of 1306 Forbes St., were injured when the cars they were driving collided about 12:30 p.m. at the intersection of Eighth and Cotanche Streets.

Damage was set at $600 to the Butler car and $750 to the Anderson auto by officers who charged Butler with failing to see his intended movement could be made in safety and Mrs. Anderson with a violation of the inspection law.

An estimated $350 damage resulted to each of two cars involved in a 1:45 p.m. mishap on Greenville Boulevard just West of the Charles Street intersection.

Officers identified the drivers of the vehicles involved as Robert Carroll Barnhart of Tarboro and Hal Coburn Kendrick of 2004 Pinecrest Dr. Kendrick was charged by police with failing to reduce his speed enough to avoid an accident.
