

Rodino Staff Advises Limiting Charges

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—The staff of the House Judiciary Committee today recommended dropping a number of impeachment charges against President Nixon and said the committee should concentrate on Watergate, Nixon's taxes and contributions to his re-election campaign. The report, if accepted, would be the basis for the presentation of evidence to the committee, which is scheduled to begin May 7.

Most of the charges that would be dropped under the recommendation relate to allegations of White House use of executive agencies for political purposes.

Also to be laid aside under the staff's recommendation were charges relating to the impoundment of funds appropriated by Congress, the dismantling of the Office of Economic Opportunity, and, conditionally, the secret bombing of Cambodia.

A final decision on the bombing charges is to be made after release of a Senate Armed Services Committee hearing record on the issue.

If accepted by the committee, the recommendation would focus the impeachment inquiry on areas where the staff believes documentary evidence is available to aid its investigation.

That would include Watergate and its aftermath, the settlement of an antitrust case against ITT, political contributions by the dairy industry, Howard Hughes and Robert L. Vesco; and Nixon's income taxes.

In connection with the taxes, the staff recommended that the committee conduct its own investigation to determine whether there was criminal tax fraud in the preparation of Nixon's returns from 1969 through 1972 for which the Internal Revenue Service has assessed Nixon $432,787. Both the IRS and the staff of the congressional Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation reported after reviewing Nixon's tax returns for those years that they found no evidence of fraud on Nixon's part.

The Judiciary Committee staff suggested that to facilitate this part of the inquiry a series of questions should be submitted to Nixon for his written replies.

The staff report disclosed for the first time that it is inquiring into a $100,000 political contribution by Howard Hughes and a $200,000 contribution by Robert Vesco.

"The purpose of this inquiry is to determine the extent, if any, of presidential responsibility for unlawful campaign contributions and illegal or improper executive branch action in response to them," the committee staff said.

Action Tabled On Subdivision Plans

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
The Planning and Zoning Commission has tabled action on a preliminary plat of Kingsbrook Subdivision north of 14th Street in order to seek advisement from the City Council.

The Commission turned down a preliminary plat of the subdivision last month on the basis that provisions called for in subdivision regulations were not met by the developers.

The basic item dictating the denial last month involved the proposal of the owners not to develop a section of the property that would call for construction of a northerly extension of Brownlea Drive as outlined in the city's proposed thoroughfare plan.

City Manager Bill Carstarphen, at the March Planning and Zoning session, contended that the city can not ignore the fact that Brownlea is included in the Major Thoroughfare Plan and regulations say that the cost of the development of a planned thoroughfare that is in the vicinity of a subdivision will be shared by the developers.

The Commission, citing the Brownlea matter as the main deficiency in the plat, also pointed out last month that deficiencies in elevation, block and lot numbering, and drainage were important in the decision to deny the plat.

In presenting another preliminary plat last night, developer Dillon Watson of Carroll & Associates, asserted that since the last meeting action has been taken to correct the elevation, block and lot numbering, and drainage deficiencies but the position and contention of the owners is still that they do not wish to develop the portion of the property involving the proposed street.

Property owner Vick King told the Commission that the eastern boundary of the land "backs up to the houses" facing Ragsdale Road and there is a 150-foot strip between the proposed right-of-way of Brownlea Drive and the lots on Ragsdale. He said that over three acres of tobacco allotments are involved in the area not proposed for subdivision.

Watson reported last month that although the owners did not wish to subdivide the area involving the street, they had agreed to dedicate the right-of-way for the street if the city wished to handle the construction.

Watson told the commissioners last night that if the owners wished to develop the area involving the street now, they would expect to share in the cost of the street construction but, in addition to losing the tobacco allotment on the property if it were subdivided, the cost of building the street would be "economically unfeasible."

King reported that development of the tract, located adjacent to the east of Easthaven and known as a part of the Forbes property, would conform with Easthaven. He added that restrictive covenants would be larger than required.

Commission chairman Earl Howell noted that the plat submitted last night met all requirements except that the plan did not designate the development of Brownlea Drive as shown on the thoroughfare plan.

Watson said that he would like to have the minutes reflect that the item was considered and the owners would like to have the matter either approved or disapproved.

Mrs. Ruth Trevathan, Commission member, offered the motion that the matter be tabled in order that the Commission may seek advice from the City Council as to the direction the Council would like for the planning board to take. She said the matter should be discussed with the Council since it will come up again.

The Commission denied a preliminary plat of James L. Evans heirs property located behind Pitt Plaza and west of N. C. 43. The plat, it was explained, involved a street pattern plan for the area and had nothing to do with rezoning or land development.

The Commission denied the plat, after hearing several residents of the area voice strong objections to the development of streets in the LISBON, Portugal (AP)—Armed troops seized radio and television stations in Lisbon early today and claimed to have won power from the regime of Premier Marcello Caetano.

But an official at the Foreign Ministry said, "It is not true that the government has surrendered. There is an attempt to take over the government and the situation is confused."

A 12-minute round of machine-gun fire was heard in the neighborhood of the Plaza de Comercio, Lisbon's main square, around noon. Diplomatic dispatches reaching London said tanks of Portugal's 7th Cavalry Regiment were deployed there, and that some civilians were wounded.

The regiment was one which evidently had not joined the rebels. There was no indication available immediately as to who fired first or how an apparent confrontation began.

According to diplomatic dispatches reaching London, the rebels, styling themselves "The National Junta of Salvation," pledged to work for the restoration of civil and democratic rights in Portugal, work for peace in Portugal's African territories and run the country transitionally pending national elections for a constitution-writing assembly.

They said the junta had seven members, but did not immediately identify them.

The rebels spoke of the failure of the Portuguese system after 13 years to formulate an overseas policy that would produce peace between Portuguese "of all races and creeds."

Their proclamation also spoke of the need "to clean up" Portugal's institutions, to eliminate what it called "the illegal acts which the abuse of power has legalized."

The proclamation also was said to have declared that the movement of the armed forces would "complete a program of salvation" for Portugal and would restore to the nation the civil liberties it had lost.

The junta said it would exercise power of government

Rebel Troops Claim Power Lisbon Sees Coup Attempt

only temporarily — until there could be nationwide elections for an assembly that would be charged with writing a new constitution.

Reports reaching Madrid said the rebel movement had taken control of the government without resistance anywhere in Portugal.

The reports said rebel tanks besieged the army ministry in downtown Lisbon and that four ministers—those of the interior, army, navy and air force—who had taken refuge in the building managed to slip away through a hole they made in the wall.

The reports said government troops refused to obey their commander when he ordered them to open tank fire on rebel forces in the center of Lisbon.

Reports said the revolt had the support of 29 regiments and that most of the leaders were young majors and captains.

Moving swiftly in the pre-dawn darkness and benefiting by surprise the rebels took over the studios of Emissora Nacional, the national radio station, the studio of the Portuguese radio and television, and the studio of a private radio station, Radio Clube Portugueses in the city proper.

Others in the coup apparently seized a transmitter of Radio Clube Portugueses about 30 miles southeast of Lisbon on the other side of the Tagus River.

Shortly after the seizure the armed groups began broadcasting from Radio Clube, urging troops and national guardsmen and police to avoid bloodshed and urging the populace to remain at home.

The broadcast said that a "military movement" under the leadership of the armed forces was liberating Portugal from its present regime.

Activity throughout the city appeared generally normal. Despite the appeals to stay at home, traffic appeared as dense as ever, streetcars and buses were operating, and most of the shops were open.

However, banks were closed, and fewer people appeared on sidewalks.

Lisbon airport was closed, and no ships were permitted to leave Lisbon harbor.

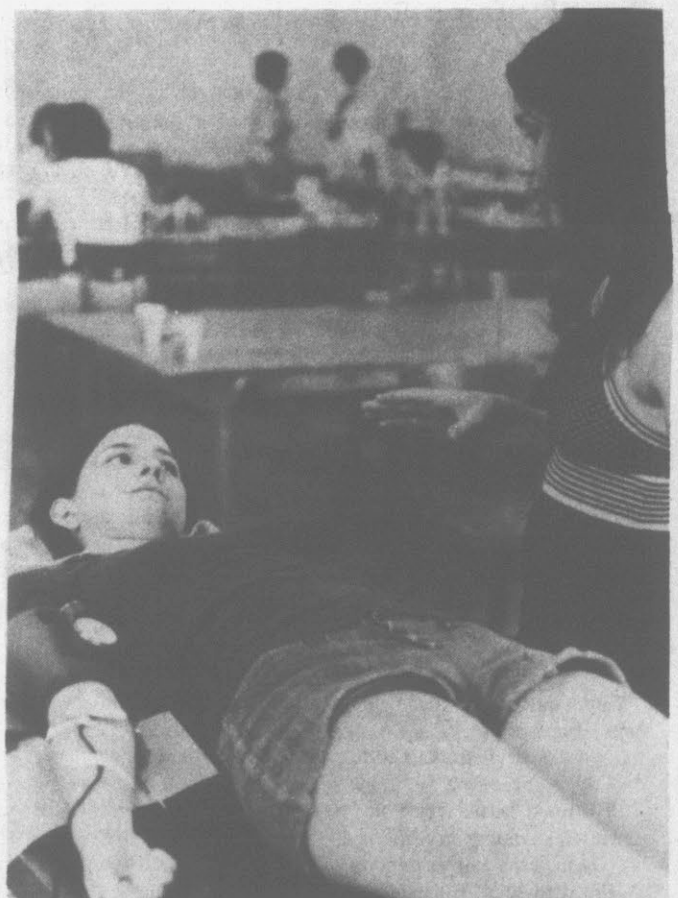

Reports reaching officials in London said the rebels called on Gen. Antonio Spínola, ousted recently from his post of deputy chief of staff, to join them.

This suggested the rebels were prepared to identify themselves with the views expressed by Spínola about need for a radical change in Portugal's African policies.

On March 16 about 200 army officers tried to enter Lisbon with an armored column, but troops loyal to Caetano turned them back, and they were arrested. Those dissidents were protesting the war to preserve Portuguese rule in its African colonies.

Six Hundred Volunteers

ONE OF MANY—Pat Miller, left, of Oriental, was one of 432 blood donors to give on the campus of ECU during a drive which ended Tuesday. Susie Still, of Greenville, a member of Alpha Delta Pi sorority, gives instructions to the donor. Bill Ross, Pitt County Blood Director, stated the drive was the "best" held on the campus in many years. The drive was sponsored by the campus fraternities, sororities and the Reserve Officer Training Corps unit. Administering the drive was the Tidewater Red Cross, of which Greenville is a regional member. Six hundred donors volunteered to give, while 432 were accepted, according to Ross. ## Dr. Keene Asks Votes, Not Money In Campaign

Dr. Mildred T. Keene, the only woman candidate in the U.S. Senate race, says that the press is concentrating its coverage on the "three major candidates" and is not giving all senatorial aspirants equal exposure.

The Charlotte psychiatrist, campaigning in Greenville Wednesday, said in an interview that it is the responsibility of the "press and media" to give equal coverage to all candidates and to inform the electorate of the views of all candidates.

Dr. Keene added that the press and media should "seek out candidates and press them... for their views relative to the constituency."

The Democratic candidate said that she is particularly concerned with the need for election campaign financing reform. Citing the role of special interest groups as financiers in campaigns, Dr. Keene asserted that anyone who contributes to a campaign anticipates that "his or her views will have some influence on the views of the candidate."

She reported that she is concerned that it is impossible for the "ordinary citizen, who may be qualified, to run... and be elected" and she said the situation could result ultimately in the loss of the "people's government."

Dr. Keene said that the "sordid story of Watergate has brought home to the people the need for representative government and should bring home the need for campaign financing reform."

The candidate noted that she is calling for revision of the income tax laws "so that the tax burden will be more equally distributed." She said that the public is concerned that the average working man is paying

Two Virginians Charged With Branch Murder

Two Virginia men have been charged with murder in the death of Pitt County businessman Lynwood Noah Branch.

Arrested Wednesday and charged with murder were Howard P. Wiseman, 39, of Norfolk, Va., and Matthew Jack Whealon of Chesapeake, Va. The two, who were arrested by Pitt County, Virginia, and FBI authorities, were to have hearings in Virginia today as to whether they will be returned to Pitt County, Sheriff Ralph Tyson said.

Whealon is a salesman for a Chesapeake automobile dealer and Wiseman's occupation was not known by the Pitt County Sheriff Department.

Charged Tuesday with being an accessory before fact of murder in the Branch killing was Roy Lee Sullivan, 29, a crop duster whose address was given as Rt. 8, Kinston. He is in Pitt County Jail without privilege of bond.

A pistol, believed to be the murder weapon, has been recovered, Sheriff Tyson said. Branch was found shot through the head the night of Friday, March 29, beside his car in the driveway of his home. He died the following Sunday morning in Pitt Memorial Hospital as a result of the wound, authorities said.

Investigation of the case is continuing, Sheriff Tyson indicated.

Miss Gloria Ann Outlaw Weds

MOUNT OLIVE—The Bethel United Methodist Church provided the setting for the wedding ceremony of Miss Gloria Ann Outlaw and James Quintin Wooten Sunday at 5:00 p.m.

The double ring ceremony was performed by the Rev. Leon Hill, pastor of the bride, before a background created with candelabras holding lighted pink cathedral tapers, palms and white wicker baskets featuring pink snapdragons, gladioli, mums, daisies and carnations. An open Bible was graced with pink carnations and ribbon streamers. Wedding bells and ribbons designated pews.

A program of wedding music was presented by Mrs. Jimmy Summerville of Kenansville, organist, and Mrs. Jerry Archer of Kinston sang "Somewhere," "One Love" and the "Wedding Prayer" as the benediction.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Andrew Jackson Outlaw of Rt. 2, Mount Olive and the late Mr. Outlaw. Mr. and Mrs. Johnny J. Wooten of Rt. 2, Farmville, are parents of the bridegroom.

Given in marriage by her uncle, Willie E. Outlaw, of Mount Olive, the bride wore a formal gown of imported silk organza over peau de soie. Designed by Priscilla of Boston, the gown featured Julie Nixon sleeves. The empire bodice of re-embroidered alencon lace centered with pearls and iridescents was accented by a sheer yoke and a scooped sculptured neckline. The A-line skirt flowed into an attached wattleau chapel length train of layers of imported silk organza.

Her tiered veil of imported silk illusion fell from a Camelot of lace embellished with crystals and pearls. She carried a bridal cluster of pink and white roses with baby's breath and pink and white streamers.

Mrs. Keith Rogers of Roxboro was her sister's matron of honor. She was dressed in a formal gown of pink floral crepe over silken organza accented with a round neck, short puff sleeves and matching sash. Her headpiece was a bow of pink organza with streamers. She carried a colonial nosegay of pink roses and baby's breath with pink streamers.

Bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert Jones of Farmville, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Renee Outlaw of Mount Olive, cousin of the bride. Their gowns and headpieces were similar to that of the honor attendant and they carried colonial nosegays of pink and white roses and baby's breath with pink and white ribbon streamers. They wore a silver locket, a gift of the bride.

Miss Debbie Outlaw of Mount Olive, cousin of the bride, was flower girl. She wore a full length gown and locket identical to those of the bridesmaids. Her basket was filled with mixed spring flowers. Rufus Ward, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

The father of the bridegroom was best man. Groomsman were Keith Rogers, brother-in-law of the bride, Robert Jones of Farmville, brother-in-law of the bridegroom, Jimmy Lewis of Newport News, Va., and Harry Jones of Greenville.

The mother of the bride

selected a short formal dress of blue polyester with sheer chiffon sleeves. The mother of the bridegroom chose a street length dress of pink polyester styled with a round neckline and long sleeves. They wore matching accessories and corsages of pink roses.

Mrs. B. A. Jones of Pink Hill, grandmother of the bride, wore a street length dress of blue polyester with white accessories. She wore a corsage of white carnations.

For a wedding trip, the bride changed into a two-piece pink polka dot ensemble of polyester knit. She wore a corsage of pink roses.

The couple will reside in Warrenton.

The bride is a graduate of Mount Olive College and attended Atlantic Christian College, Wilson. The bridegroom is a graduate of Mount Olive College and N. C. State University. He was a member of Farm House fraternity and Alpha Zeta. He is a soil conservationist with the Soil Conservation Service, Warrenton.

Mrs. J. B. Jones directed the wedding.

Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

Following the rehearsal Saturday evening, a rehearsal party was held in the fellowship hall of the church.

Host and hostesses were Mr. and Mrs. Johnny J. Wooten, parents of the bridegroom, and Mrs. J. B. Jones.

Beautiful Character Can Make Up For An Ugly Face

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I wish to speak for the ugly men in this world, including myself. Ugliness is a terrible curse. It makes us ugly people feel inferior to the point where we seriously consider suicide.

Our social lives are deficient, for few people seem willing to associate with physically ugly people. Without sex appeal we miss a very important part of life that the average person takes for granted.

My ugliness is not a bodily one. I am not grossly fat or painfully thin, neither am I deformed in any way. It's facial ugliness that has caused strangers to come up to me and say: "Gee, you're ugly." That is the God's truth. Can you imagine anyone being so cruel?

Abby, you could perform a great humanitarian service if you would devote a little space to a possible solution to this problem. Or perhaps a reader who has overcome his ugliness can tell me how he did it.

DOUBLE UGLY

DEAR DOUBLE: Did it ever occur to you that "ugliness"—like beauty, could lie in the eye of the beholder? Some of the world's most attractive and appealing people do not conform to the generally accepted concept of beauty, but that doesn't make them ugly.

The qualities that make one loved and wanted have nothing to do with the way his face is formed. Honesty, kindness, generosity, patience, compassion—all the virtues—can be developed. A beautiful character counts for more with people who count than physical beauty.

DEAR ABBY: How can we thank you? Because of a message in your column telling runaways about a program called "Operation Peace of Mind," our runaway son let us know that he was alive and well. He is only 16 and had been gone for nearly a year.

Abby, please publish that toll free telephone number again so other runaways can let their parents know they are alive. It meant the world to us to hear from our son.

GRATEFUL IN SEATTLE

DEAR GRATEFUL: With pleasure: Runaways, call this toll-free number: 1-800-231-6946. An operator will telephone your parents anywhere in the United States and convey a message to them from you. There will be no lecturing or counseling. Your call will not be traced, and the only question asked of you is: "Do you need anything?" If you do, you will be told where you can obtain it free of charge. I repeat, no one will attempt to contact you or bring you home regardless of your age.

Runaways, please forget the past and send that message to your parents now. They will sleep better tonight, and so will you. God bless. [P. S. This wonderful program is staffed entirely by volunteers in Houston, and was aided by Gov. Dolph Briscoe of Texas.]

Dilettante Club Officers Named

Officers for next year were named Tuesday evening at the meeting of the Dilettante Book Club. Mrs. Harold A. Jones is the new club president. Other officers are Mrs. Wellington Gray, vice president; Mrs. Hugh Wease, secretary; Mrs. Clarence Kelsey, treasurer; Mrs. J. William Byrd, social chairman; and Mrs. William Waugh, yearbook chairman.

Dr. William E. Stephenson, English professor at ECU, presented a lecture at the piano entitled "That Magical Movie Music." He traced the ways movies have made use of music from the background music of the silent films to today's musicals.

Guests for the meeting were Mrs. Stephenson and Mrs. Wilkins Winn. The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Jack W. Thornton with Mrs. Harold Jones as co-hostess.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

I don't know how bank robbers who wear nylon stocking masks do it. But did you ever see one with a run? Never!

Yet, a woman can take a $3 pair of pantyhose out of the package, slide it on her foot, catch it in a piece of lint, and it will run for a week.

If all the pantyhose with runs in the crotch were laid end to end, I daresay they would span the earth with enough left over to braid a seat belt for Cannon.

I was moaning the premature death of my pantyhose at a gathering of women the other day when one said, "Old pantyhose never die at my house. I just rearrange them."

You could have heard a pin drop. "Suppose you spring a run in your left knee," she said. "You wear them under slacks until the run picks up speed. They you cut off the left leg."

"And wear a cast on your leg and limp a little. . . terrific," I shouted, clapping my hands.

"No, I find a pair of pantyhose in the drawer with a run in the RIGHT leg and the left leg still intact, and I chop off the right leg giving me two perfect legs."

"And two perfect stomachs," said a listener dryly.

"Don't you walk a little strange?" asked one lady suspiciously.

"Only once. That's when I sprung a run in the tummy and I needed the support so I turned the pantyhose around and wore them backwards for a day."

"What happened?"

"The waistband slid down in the back and showed under my skirt when I walked."

"That's not so bad," someone mused.

"Of course, it took the swelling in my tongue three days to go down."

We nodded sympathetically. "There really should be something worthwhile you could do with pantyhose, when you can no longer wear them that would serve mankind," said one woman.

"Maybe we could substitute them for capital punishment. A sentence to spend the rest of your life in a one-size-fits-all should satisfy both sides."

"They could be a weapon held by all nations to insure peace," suggested another. "Can you imagine a stockpile of 500 pairs of petties aimed right at Russia?"

"Maybe," said another woman. "We could all throw in our pantyhose, recycle them, and make the earth a better place to breathe."

I snapped my elastic waistband absentmindedly. "Imagine! Being able to breathe again."

Key Role In Pitt Celebration

Mrs. Janice Buck, a successful Greenville businesswoman, has been selected as chairman of the city's Bicentennial Celebration.

Mrs. Buck was chosen to head up the activities for observing Greenville's 200th anniversary by the bicentennial board of trustees.

She will be planning a celebration whose theme will be: "1774-1974-2174 Greenville: At Peace With The Past—With Hope For The Future."

In accepting the chairmanship Mrs. Buck commented, "I look forward to working with the people of the community in making this an event that we, our children and our grandchildren will long remember."

"We have a heritage of which to be proud and each of us has something to contribute to make this a grand and glorious celebration."

Thus planning is moving along for the bicentennial celebration which is to be held next fall. It was decided at the outset that Greenville people could plan and carry out the celebration without employing outside assistance.

Talented people are already volunteering to assume roles in the celebration. The chairmanship will be a key role and Mrs. Buck, an outstanding local business leader, should fill this position very well.

Desperate Situation For Rabin And Israel

Yitzhak Rabin is premier-designate for Israel, and if support can be mustered, he will replace the resigned Golda Meir.

Rabin may face the same problems as Mrs. Meir in organizing a government, namely finding enough support among various political factions to form a government.

Israel's situation is more desperate now than it has been for many years, and there are many opinions as to how the country can best survive. That makes choosing a new leader most difficult.

One Number To Call Emergency

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Communities across North Carolina need to get moving on installing a single emergency telephone number to cover any call for help. F. O'Neill Jones, chairman of the state's legislative research commission on emergency medical services, believes.

Jones, a former state senator is pushing for changes in the state's emergency response system, and thinks one immediate and easily accomplished step would be the universal 911 telephone number.

"That way, you can have one person on duty in any community who knows how to coordinate the response, and is trained to do that—instead of people having to try to find numbers off the rescue squad or police or fire department."

Get Response

"The first, critical problem in getting emergency help is how to get the system to know there is a problem—and to get the system to respond," Jones said.

If as many Tar Heel communities as possible would use the 911 system, he said, "even a kid could make a call—for anything. Whether momma gets hurt at home or daddy has a heart attack or whatever."

As it now stands, getting a quick response from people trained to act is a hit-or-miss proposition for most North Carolinians.

"I'd venture to say that not half the people across the state know how to get help. They need to know how to call their rescue squad or ambulance or firemen."

"But one of the biggest problems is people who just go to pieces in an emergency and sit there thumbing through the yellow pages trying to figure out what to do," Jones argues.

Jones was a participant in a recent symposium on emergency response to heart attacks sponsored by the Advanced Coronary Treatment (ACT) Foundation of Somerville, New Jersey. That foundation is funded by major drug firms across the nation to promote the cause of early response and treatment units for heart cases.

In an interview during the session, Jones said he thinks North Carolina's budding emergency medical service system is on its way to becoming one of the best in the nation.

Money Available

The General Assembly appropriated $1.7 million for the program, and the service is working to implement training and licensing procedures for all ambulance attendants, whether volunteers, funeral home people, or private ambulance firm employees.

"If we continue in this direction, I believe that in five years we can have one of the best rural medical care systems in the nation," Jones said, adding that North Carolina has a largely rural population.

In the meantime, he said, citizens have got to keep the heat on members of the General Assembly to continue to appropriate funds and require testing, licensing and compliance provisions for emergency medical personnel.

"The problem in North Carolina is there's no coordination. Every group trains and equips itself in its own way, and that applies to volunteers, funeral homes, or private services."

"The public must insist on a high level of care—and if the existing emergency care facility can provide that level, then well and good."

"But if they can't or won't do that, then the public must say to the politicians that the service must be provided," Jones said.

He said the argument that some ambulance services are privately owned and profit-making "businesses not subject to state supervision doesn't hold water with him."

"I say if they can do the right kind of job and continue to make a profit—okay. But if they can't then they have no right to stay in business," Jones said.

Stevens Hopes To Unite Party

By JOHN KILGO

Republican William E. Stevens Jr., running with Gov. Jim Holshouser's blessing as his party's candidate for the U. S. Senate, says he firmly believes he'll be able to unite the splintered Tar Heel GOP for the November election.

It's no secret that Gov. Holshouser and Sen. Jesse Helms have different ideas about what the Republican Party should represent. Helms carries the banner for the very conservative element of the GOP, while Holshouser's views can be termed more moderate.

"I have sat in the same room with Gov. Holshouser and Sen. Helms and talked to them about my candidacy," Stevens told me in an interview. "Both are enthusiastic about my candidacy and are urging me on. I'm hopeful I can help unite our party. I think that I can and believe that I will."

Sen. Helms and friends wanted to sponsor State Sen. Hamilton Horton in the U. S. Senate campaign. But after Stevens got in, Horton got out.

President Nixon hasn't been much help to Republicans running in special elections in recent months—and Stevens is a little evasive about whether he would ask Nixon to North Carolina to campaign for him in the fall. When I asked him that question, he responded:

"If President Nixon should come to North Carolina to discuss any of the issues confronting America today, I feel sure he would be received courteously and respectfully by the people of North Carolina. If in the course of such a visit he should say something favorable about my candidacy, I'd be very pleased for him to do so."

Stevens handles the impeachment question much as Democrat Robert Morgan does. He says it wouldn't be proper to "prejudge" himself when he might have to sit in the U. S. Senate to hear evidence in an impeachment proceeding against the President.

"I wish the House Judiciary Committee would go ahead and set the ground rules under which a President can be impeached," Stevens says, "and if they find the President can and should be impeached on the basis of those rules, I wish they'd go ahead and do that. I say they should get on with it or get off his back."

Stevens says he has no idea how much money he'll spend in the campaign against the Democrat nominee, if he's successful in the GOP primary against Wood Hall Young and B. E. Sweatt. He says he doubts he would spend as much as the Democrats, "because of the traditional difficulty of Republicans raising large sums of money in North Carolina."

Stevens also says the fallout of Watergate and new laws on campaign spending, which he says he supports, have made it harder to raise campaign funds.

Stevens says he doesn't support public funding of political campaigns. He contends "any splinter party could qualify through petition or a small number of votes to share in that amount of money. Instead of two major parties we would have two dozen. The two-party system as we know it would be crushed."

Stevens says the Republican Party, even with its national troubles, is closer attuned to the thinking of North Carolinians than is the national Democratic Party.

"I believe this state will send two Republicans to Washington to serve in the Senate," he says. "The Democratic philosophy is moving away from the basically conservative attitude of North Carolina's citizens."

40 Years Ago Today

April 25, 1934

Dr. Robert H. Wright, president of East Carolina Teachers College, died this morning after a brief illness.

Wright, president of the college since its beginning 25 years ago, has been one of the state's foremost educators.

Attorney General Dennis G. Brummitt will address the people of Pitt County at the court house here Saturday at 2 p.m. when he will discuss North Carolina's constitution and the proposed new constitution.

In the coming November election, the voters of the state will have the opportunity to vote for or against the new constitution and will be expected to be well informed before casting their ballots.

John Dillinger has still not been apprehended in a probable hideout somewhere near Mercer, Wis.

Strength For Today

A LITTLE EVIL

In 1868 a Harvard professor experimenting with the cross-breeding of silk worms brought the gypsy moth to a little town in Massachusetts. The insect had been known for generations in Europe, but it had never become dangerous because local parasites prevented it from multiplying to any great extent. These parasites did not exist in Massachusetts, however. For thirty years the gypsy moth gradually adjusted to its new environment, then in 1898 it suddenly stripped the village into which it had been brought of all foliage.

At first the state took vigorous and effective countermeasures, but when these were prematurely abandoned the moth became a terrible plague again.

No one knows what the potentialities of a little evil are when introduced into society. A little exploitation, a little cruelty, a little coverup can balloon into terrifying proportions if firm and effective countermeasures are not taken against it.

On The Right To Reply

Back in 1913 the Florida state legislature adopted a statute that became known, in time, as the Right To Reply Law. It is a fair assumption that the act was adopted during a fit of temper at the newspapers, a condition endemic among politicians since at least the time of Thomas Jefferson.

The act says that if a newspaper "assails the personal character" of any candidate for public office, or "attacks his official record," such newspaper, on request, "shall immediately publish free of cost any reply he may make thereto, in as conspicuous a place and in the same kind of type as the matter that calls for such reply, provided such reply does not take up more space than the matter replied to."

Florida's Right To Reply

Law languished almost forgotten on the books until September of 1972, when the Miami Herald ran a couple of editorials criticizing Pat Tornillo, a candidate in the Democratic primary for the state legislature. The Herald referred to Tornillo as the "czar" of the Classroom Teachers Association, accused him of "shakedown statesmanship," and said it would be "inexcusable" for the voters to send him to Tallahassee.

Tornillo dusted off the 1913 law, prepared written replies to the two editorials, and demanded they be published. Under these circumstances, with the law invoked, the Herald understandably refused. Tornillo then brought a civil action asking money damages and seeking a court order to compel publication. The trial court found the act unconstitutional—the state attorney general would not even defend it—but the Florida Supreme Court reversed and upheld the law. The Herald appealed and the U.S. Supreme Court on April 17 heard arguments in the case.

Two or three points: Though the Herald did not run the two letters Tornillo submitted, the Herald regularly had published Tornillo's letters in the past. Tornillo made no complaint of unfairness in the news columns. The Herald's sister paper, the evening News, endorsed Tornillo's candidacy.

So far as I know, virtually every professional association of newsmen and editors is praying that the Supreme Court will reverse and thus restore the trial court's original ruling. If the high court should affirm, we can foresee a rash of Right To Reply Laws to chill editorial criticism of candidates and incumbents. A law that compels a newspaper to publish "any reply" strikes us as a flagrant abridgment of freedom of the press.

There is, of course, an opposing point of view. Among those urging affirmation is Nicholas Johnson, formerly a member of the Federal Communication Commission, now chairman of the National Citizens Committee for Broadcasting. In a brief filed with the court, the committee argues that the public's "First Amendment interest in an informed electorate" justifies such laws. The people "must be armed with sufficient information about the candidates and the issues to make intelligent, informed choices."

Johnson's group argues that the FCC's "right to reply" regulation has not chilled radio give-and-take. Over the last three years the FCC has imposed only six fines (known as forfeitures) on radio stations for failure to accord air time promptly for replies to personal attacks.

Inquiry Results Unsure

By WALTER R. MEARS

AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Impeachment is a political puzzle for politicians of both parties, raising questions no one can answer now. They can only guess who would benefit, who would lose, what it would mean at the polls next fall if President Nixon were to leave office.

For Vice President Gerald R. Ford, there is one answer, the obvious one: if Nixon goes, he succeeds to the White House. The vice president does not believe that will happen, and maintains that the President is innocent of impeachable offenses.

But the impeachment inquiry, and the resignation demands the President has rebuffed, make Ford's position both delicate and difficult.

Increasingly, Ford is cast as the spokesman for Republicans in a congressional election year. He says Nixon will be doing some campaigning on a selective basis — but Ford will be doing a lot more.

He is out front at the GOP fund-raising dinners, a Republican much in demand.

And everything he says is studied for any hint of a break with the President who chose him for the vice presidency five months ago.

Vice president watchers always have been alert to any sign that the No. 2 man differs with the boss. They seldom have found anything of substance, simply because vice presidents have had only as much power as the president granted them.

In the current situation, Ford is regarded by some Nixon critics as a sort of president-in-waiting. That view of him bestows a measure of power that does not, in normal times, go with the office.

All of this puts Ford, the first appointed vice president, in a unique position. He is at once a defender and a potential successor to the President, and what he says or does in one role could affect the other.

Usually, but not always, his reaction to this situation has been one of caution.

Thus, Ford says he does not want access to tape recordings or other Watergate evidence, lest that knowledge appear to place him in a position in which some could contend he was enhancing his own chances of succeeding to the presidency.

Ford said he is satisfied to base his defense of the President on the accounts of colleagues who have had access to the original evidence.

The vice president told the annual luncheon of The Associated Press this week that in accounts of his speeches, there is "a tendency to read between the lines of my more or less routine utterances to make me say something by not saying it."

It is not always necessary to read between the lines.

For example, Ford said that as president, he would have nudged his employees as hard as possible to find out what really happened in Watergate. That was not done in the Nixon White House.

Symbol Of Embattled Industry

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The suspension of its quarterly dividend payment by Consolidated Edison is more than just another demoralizing blow to the stock market. The big utility is also a symbol of an embattled industry.

Environmentalists have forced delays in plant construction. The increase in energy prices caused operating costs to skyrocket. The depressed condition of financial markets prevented it from raising cash.

Moreover, its customers, who are equally pressed, have tended to become slow payers, a problem that many businessmen around the country will recognize. Payment delinquencies are on the rise generally.

And what is Consolidated Edison's solution? Well, there is no over-all solution, of course, but one that has become rather common among giant companies is to lean on government for assistance, in the name of the public good, of course.

Unlike the Penn Central and Lockheed and some airlines, which sought aid from the federal government, Consolidated Edison seeks to resolve some of its problems by transferring ownership of one or more plants to the state power authority.

All these facets of the utility's problems also can be found in other areas of American enterprise — the environmental haggling, inflated costs, inability to raise money, slow-pay customers, the high cost of borrowing.

They are the business challenges of the day, and while businessmen are always facing and attempting to overcome challenges, many of them would agree that the set they now face makes them wonder if their abilities are sufficient.

Con Ed, as it is familiarly but not warmly called by customers, had been paying dividends every quarter since 1885. Of late that dividend, of $1.80 a share, represented more than a 9 per cent return.

Dividend consistency of that kind is what attracts investors, as opposed to speculators. Con Ed might have been an unexciting stock but it was safe and you could depend on it for steady income — until 1974.

In breaking that 89-year-old record, Con Ed probably has destroyed that feeling of investor security for years to come, not only for itself but for a lot of other utilities to which it might be compared.

Con Ed always could count on raising money too, it seemed, because it was the only electric utility in the big city of America, assured of income and growth and therefore of the ability to earn money, pay back loans.

But with the prime rate over 10 per cent even Con Ed balked. It could, as an alternative, go into the equity market by selling stock, but even at a relatively low price of $18, now around $12, there was a question of attracting buyers. Stock markets aren't what they used to be; there are fewer buyers.

Wilson Borrowed Big Sum For His Campaign

RALEIGH (AP) — Henry Hall Wilson reports he has borrowed $225,000 so far to keep his campaign moving for the Democratic nomination to the U.S. Senate.

Wilson, who filed his campaign contribution and expense report Wednesday, two days late, reported he had spent more than $322,000 through April 15.

The report showed he had raised a total of $326,932 through April 15, including the $225,000 in loans.

The report, filed with the secretary of the U.S. Senate and with the North Carolina secretary of state, showed Wilson is running a close second in spending to Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan and far ahead of Nick Galifianakis.

Morgan, considered by many observers to be the front runner in the may 7 primary, reported Monday he had spent $348,000 on his campaign through April 15. Nick Galifianakis, the other major contender for the Democratic nomination, had spent $55,000 through April 15.

The report covers the period between March 1 and April 15 and also includes cumulative totals for the campaign through April 15.

Of $210,000 raised between March 1 and April 15, only $10,000 came in individual contributions. The rest was from loans.

The report said the loans were used "to pay off previous loans and to finance campaign expenses." It said the four people who cosigned the $200,000 in loans did so only as guarantors and did not directly loan money to the Wilson campaign. Wilson reported he spent $176,240 between March 1 and April 15. Of that amount, $42,627 went for media-communications expenses; $17,997 for salaries, services and reimbursement for travel; and $39,504 for non-media expenses, such as polling and consulting work. Wilson reported $75,870 in unitemized expenses.

Helms Warns Of 'Promises'

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Sen. Jesse Helms says he is careful of politicians "who are promising everything under the sun—things they know they can't deliver."

The North Carolina Republican spoke Wednesday night at a $25-a-plate dinner of the North Carolina Congressional Club. The club was organized in 1972 by his campaign manager to help Helms pay off a campaign debt of more than $100,000.

Planning . . .

vicinity due to drainage hazards, on the basis that drainage or runoff provisions would not be adequate to handle the water in the proposed development area.

The street plan called for the construction of an extension of Arlington Drive to intersect with the proposed Red Banks Road extended.

Some questions arose among the members as to why the street plans were being submitted separately from the development plan. (The development matter was tabled earlier and could not be presented again before the May meeting.)

City Planner John Schofield explained that the preliminary plat in question did not involve any type of rezoning. He said that the question involved only the matter of whether the installation of the streets as shown in the plat met the requirements and specifications. Schofield added that the property is already legally zoned for development.

Watson, again representing the property owners, said that the inference was made that the plat represented "some kind of device to influence zoning. I submit that this has nothing to do with zoning."

Commissioner Karl Faser said that his concern involved the drainage question and the matter of controlling runoff if the street were developed.

Mary Alice Yarbrough contended that the city's thoroughfare plan has not been adopted and unless it is approved, there actually is no plan. She said that the streets proposed in the preliminary plat should not be developed until the thoroughfare plan is accepted.

City Engineer Charles Holliday said that he had made no "elaborate computations" as to how much water runoff the proposed drainage system could handle but it "looks like it would contain it to me." Commissioner Pete Caraway voted against denial of the plat.

In new business last night, commissioners approved a final plat of Lake Ellsworth Subdivision, Section II, located west of the existing Section I of Lake Ellsworth.

Holliday reported that the development checklist, submitted by Phil Dickerson as engineer on the project, met all subdivision requirements. Adequate recreational area was provided in the initial section to handle Section II, it was noted.

Approval was also given to the final plat of North River Estates Subdivision, Section I, located west of Greenfield Terrace and east of State Road 1419. City water and sewer service is available to the development area, it was noted, and the checklist for the 25-lot tract met all regulations.

The Commission recommended that the First Free Will Baptist Church property, consisting of seven acres and located west of N. C. 43, be annexed. A letter, signed by three members of the church board of trustees, was read requesting annexation and Schofield said that all requirements for such action had been met. He added that the trustees had been under the impression that the property was already in the city limits.

A preliminary plat of Sandy Acres, located on the west side of State Road 1704 and south of the entrance into Brook Valley, was approved, subject to notification of adjacent land owners in the development area and compliance with standards and policies set by the Environmental Health Division.

A preliminary sketch of the R. M. Garrett property, located at the northwest intersection of Country Club Drive and Memorial Drive was approved.

The owners, according to their attorney M. E. Cavendish, plan to develop the property with small neighborhood businesses. The 2.25 acre tract is already zoned for neighborhood commercial usage.

Some objection was voiced concerning the commercial development but Holliday pointed out that the area was rezoned in 1966 for neighborhood commercial development. He added, however, that uses under that zoning designation are very limited.

Cavendish noted that the owners would provide a buffer area between the businesses and residential property in the area as stipulated in the regulations. Drainage pipe will also be installed in lieu of having an open well to handle the water in the area.

Country Club Drive would also be widened on the north side with curb and gutter, it was pointed out.

more income taxes than the president.

Impeachment of the president, the Florida native pointed out, depends on the charges drawn by the U.S. House and she said President Nixon "should be awarded every courtesy and every step in judicial procedures."

Dr. Keene emphasized that she "certainly advocates the election of a Democratic president in 1976."

She said that other issues she supports are more responsible national fiscal policies; reassertion of the Congress as an equal branch of government; and adoption of the Equal Rights Amendment.

The candidate noted she had indicated that she would accept campaign donations only from individuals in an amount not to exceed one dollar but she plans to return those contributions now and finance the campaign on her own resources.

Dr. Keene, whose campaign financing report listed expenses of less than $1,000, said that she is asking citizens for their vote, not their money.

Dr. Keene received her medical degree from the University of Tennessee and completed her graduate and residency training at Hall Psychiatric Institute-Columbia, Emory University. She served for three years as director of Mental Health for Atlanta and Fullerton County, Ga. and currently is engaged in the private practice of psychiatry in Charlotte.

Considering the number of complaints, the numbers of fines is small.

The Tornillo case is the most important of a dozen cases before the Supreme Court having to do with freedom of speech and of the press. If the Florida act is upheld, incumbent officeholders will rejoice. Newspapers eventually may hesitate to attack their "official records" because no editor wants to be compelled to print "any reply" a politician may provide. Rather than be harassed by civil and criminal litigation, busy editors may choose to kill a critical piece before it gets in print.

Will the electorate be better informed? I doubt it. Would nationwide Right to Reply Laws make newspapers fairer? It is conceivable; but it is at least equally possible that such laws might make newspapers less robust instead.

Talk Expanding Of Newcomer Program

GRIFTON—Plans for an expanded newcomer welcoming program was the major item of discussion at the meeting of the Grifton Chamber of Commerce Tuesday.

Recommendations for the new program included giving gift certificates to newcomers so that they may become acquainted with local merchants, to call on the newcomers within a week or two after their arrival in Grifton in order to answer questions concerning the community, and give printed telephone indexes to newcomers.

In other business, the chamber voted to discontinue its dinner meetings each month. The meetings will now begin at 8 p.m. and last for approximately one hour in an attempt to improve attendance.

Mrs. Catherine Condon was appointed to serve on the financial committee. She replaces Dick Moore.

Recommendations for selecting the outstanding citizen were tabled until a later meeting.

Mrs. Janet Haseley asked that an evaluation of the recent Shad Festival publicity be made to determine how out-of-towners learned of the event.

Russell Houston, an attorney, was welcomed as a new chamber member.

Kennedy Supporters For '76 Are Fading

BOSTON (AP) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy has suffered a dramatic dip in support for the 1976 presidential nomination among Democratic party leaders, according to a survey by the Christian Science Monitor.

The survey published today shows that only 38 per cent of the 103 state party chairmen and national committeemen who responded see the Massachusetts Democrat as a front-runner for 1976, compared with 77 per cent who considered Kennedy the front runner in a similar survey which drew 98 respondents last November.

The Monitor said Watergate was the biggest factor in Kennedy's slipping popularity.

Democratic leaders who have changed their minds seem convinced the party needs a "Mr. Clean" as a candidate and that Chappaquiddick will rule out Kennedy as a contender, the Monitor said.

Chappaquiddick refers to an accident in 1969 in which a car driven by Kennedy plunged into a tidal pond on Chappaquiddick Island, Mass., killing a passenger with the senator, Mary Jo Kopechne.

"Kennedy's blemishes now stand out because of Watergate," the newspaper quoted one Midwestern Democrat as saying. "If he is nominated, he will be haunted by Chappaquiddick. He's the wrong man for the times."

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., emerged as a strong runner-up for the nomination in the new survey as the first choice among 25 per cent of the Democratic leaders, followed by Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., with 17 per cent, the Monitor said.

Hint Veto Of Oil Price Rollback

By The Associated Press
With oil profits continuing to soar, President Nixon reportedly has pledged to veto emergency energy legislation if it contains an oil price rollback.

Rep. James F. Hastings, R-N.Y., said Wednesday he had been told by "people at the White House" that the President would not accept an amendment approved by the House Commerce Committee.

That amendment would roll back domestic crude oil to the prices that existed in November 1973, at the beginning of the Arab oil embargo. This would lower the cost of most oil from the current $5.25 a barrel to $4.25, and would lower the retail cost of gasoline and other petroleum products.

Nixon vetoed previous emergency energy legislation because of a similar price rollback provision.

Profits of major oil companies, meanwhile, continue to show sharp increases for the first three months of 1974. Continental Oil (Conoco) reported Wednesday that net income after taxes for the first quarter rose 130 per cent to $109.2 million, or $2.16 a share, compared to $47.5 million in the same period of 1973.

Getty Oil reported a 122 per cent increase in its first quarter profits, with after-tax earnings reaching $73.6 million. They were $33.1 million a year ago. And Murphy Oil Corp. of El Dorado, Ark., a smaller firm, disclosed quarterly profits of $27.37 million, up 257 per cent from the year-earlier level of $7.67 million.

Earlier this week, Exxon, Texaco, Gulf, Standard of Indiana (Amoco) and Occidental reported first quarter profits up from 75 per cent to 718 per cent over 1973 levels.

"The exceptionally favorable results in the first quarter of this year are not indicative of the earnings gains anticipated for the full year of 1974," said Conoco chairman John McClean.

S. B. Pinyan, Atlanta representative of the Phillips Petroleum Co., said Wednesday it is a "phony charge" to say oil companies are making windfall profits. Large oil companies are reporting dramatic profit increases because current earnings when being compared to 1973 when, he said, industry profits were the lowest in a decade.

There were these other developments:

—A nationwide Associated Press survey shows that Americans are abandoning the conservation habits they voluntarily adopted during last winter's energy crisis. The survey showed automobile traffic approaching pre-embargo levels. And it showed that mass transit use is up, toll road receipts are climbing and electricity conservation rates are declining.

—A check of data from the American Petroleum Institute and several major oil companies showed that a Mobil Oil Corp.'s advertisement claiming that only one in 60 wells drilled pays off is less than fully accurate. API figures show that of all new wells drilled worldwide last year, 61.2 per cent struck oil or natural gas, 36 times better than the Mobil ad says. A Mobil spokesman said the one-in-60 figure applies "only for wildcat drilling in the United States in brand new fields where there are no proven oil or gas reserves."

Volunteers Cost $300 Million

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department estimates the extra cost of the all-volunteer armed force at $300 million a year or less.

The additional cost of $734 million in the first full year since elimination of the draft, defense officials figure, may be partially offset by savings resulting from longer periods of service per man.

Comedian Bud Abbott Is Dead Of Cancer At 78

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bud Abbott wept when Lou Costello died and said, "I'll never have another partner as long as I live." Now Abbott is dead of cancer at 78, the promise kept.

"Bud couldn't take working with anybody else," said the comedy team's longtime manager, Eddie Sherman. "He said nobody could ever live up to Abbott, the skinny straight man to the chubby Costello, died Wednesday at his suburban Woodland Hills home. He had suffered a series of strokes and had done little performing since Costello's death in March 1959, two years after they split up. Abbott and Costello, best remembered for their zany "Who's On First?" routine, were partners for 32 years, starring in vaudeville, radio, movies and television. They became the slapstick comedy sensation of the 1940s, hitting it big in 1941 with the movie "Buck Privates."

For a decade they remained among the top 10 money-making film stars, at one point earning a million dollars a year. But the two comedians spent and gambled heavily. "They were making big money, and they thought it would never stop," recalled Sherman. "They spent it all each year, forgetting that they had a partner —

Uncle Sam."

Huge tax bills hit the team when their careers were in decline. Abbott was forced to sell his $250,000 home and the rest of his property. In 1960, he said, "I don't owe nothing to nobody, and that's the way it's going to stay."

The slender, acid-humored comic was born William Abbott on Oct. 2, 1895, in Atlantic City, N.J., to a circus family. His father was an advance man, his mother a bareback rider.

Abbott leaves his widow, Betty; a son; a daughter; and four grandchildren.

Hold Man In 2 Robberies

Gloyd Lee Daniels, 19, of 112 Greenfield Terr. has been arrested by Greenville Police on robbery and breaking and entering charges following investigation of two incidents reported here April 9.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Floyd was taken into custody in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla. on Monday and held for local officers who returned him to Greenville yesterday.

cident at a River Road apartment about 4 a.m. April 9. He was also charged with robbery in connection with an incident at 501A Church St. about 4:40 a.m. the same morning.

According to Cannon, Floyd allegedly broke into the River Road dwelling and took $10 in cash from Charlie Allen Jr. and $75 in cash and a watch from Norman Stokes Jr., as well as a turntable and amplifier owned by Mickey Simonowich.

Floyd then allegedly entered the Church Street dwelling and took $20 from Darwin Keith Powell at gunpoint.

Total bond for Floyd was set at $2,000.

Hunt Man For Shop's Holdup

Greenville police are pressing their hunt for a man who robbed the Plaza Camera Shop at Pitt Plaza of $81 in an afternoon incident yesterday.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Mrs. Linda Justice, who was working in the store at the time of the 4:15 p.m. incident, told officers the lone man walked into the shop, told her "this is a holdup" and asked her for the money in the cash register.

After she took the money from the cash drawer, the intruder took the money from her and walked from the store.

Chief Cannon reported Mrs. Justice said the man told her he had a gun but noted she did not see a weapon.

Russian Spring Planting Late

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviet press today charged that bad weather and inefficiency on the farms were causing widespread delays in sowing vital spring crops.

Pravda, the leading Communist party daily, acknowledged that "the cold and rainy spring has introduced problems" but went on to castigate many farmers for mismanagement of their mechanical teams and "permitting delays" in the sowing.

Named Manager Of Eaton Plant

Richard J. Licko has been appointed plant manager for Eaton Corporation's new Industrial Truck Division facility here, it was announced by Robert Dahl, general manager-operations.

RICHARD J. LICKO

Licko, who was promoted from Eaton's Industrial Truck Division, Philadelphia manufacturing operation, will be responsible for all manufacturing operations at the Greenville facility and will report directly to Dahl.

The new plant manager began his career with Eaton in 1950 in the Controls Division. After various production and management assignments within the division, culminating with his promotion to plant manager, Licko transferred to the Industrial Truck Division as warehouse manager for that operation's parts distribution center in Flemington, N.J.

Licko's most recent assignment was as a unit manager for Eaton's Philadelphia plant, where he directed the efforts of 1,000 employees in machining, most fabrication and electric assembly.

Licko, his wife Barbara, and their two children will reside in the Greenville area.

The new 310,000 square foot Eaton facility, slated for completion this year, will be a major center for the fabrication and assembly operations in the manufacture of Yale fork-lift trucks. Construction of the building located on a 70-acre tract of land, began in October of 1972.

The new plant will employ 200 people initially with employment projected to reach 350 by the end of 1975. Hiring will include fabricators, welders and assemblers now being recruited at a temporary office located at Grande Avenue and Chestnut Street here.

Dahl said that the decision to develop a new facility for the manufacture of fork-lift trucks "resulted from Eaton's commitment to better serve the expanding market for powered equipment."

The new facility is the sixth Eaton plant in North Carolina. Eaton Corporation's Industrial Truck Division is the largest manufacturer of electric fork-lift trucks in the world. The division also produces Yale trucks powered by gas, LP gas and diesel in lift capacities ranging from 2,000 pounds to 15,000 pounds.

Eaton is a worldwide manufacturer of automotive, truck, materials handling, industrial and consumer products. The company's sales for the year 1973 were $1,550,147,000 and net earnings were $85,601,000 or $4.84 per share.

Sonny Bono To Do A Solo Act

NEW YORK (AP) — Singer-comedian Sonny Bono will be doing a solo act for ABC-TV next fall, while the network's durable "The FBI" series, now in its ninth season, won't return, ABC spokesmen say.

The network announced Wednesday 12 new shows for next fall and the cancellation of 10 current ones. It said Bono will star in an hour-long comedy-music show Sunday nights when the new TV season begins.

Bono and his wife, Cher, starred in the top-rated "Sonny and Cher Comedy Hour" on CBS for three seasons. When their marriage fell apart early this year, CBS reluctantly canceled their show.

In addition to "The FBI," the other programs canceled by ABC were five first-season series — "Chopper One," "Firehouse," "Toma," "Doc Elliott" and "The Cowboys" — and the veteran "Partridge Family," "Brady Bunch" and "Owen Marshall" series.

It also canceled "ABC Suspense Movie," a first-season assortment of made-for-TV movies that had no continuing characters or story lines.

The 12 new shows range from the new "Sonny Bono Comedy Revue" to "Kodiak," a 30-minute action-adventure series starring Clint Walker of the old "Cheyenne" series as an Alaskan state patrol officer.

Five of the programs in ABC's new lineup are half-hour comedies. The remaining five are hour-long series, of which three are about police or detectives, one about a newspaperman and the last about a Scandinavian family living in Minnesota in the late 1850s.

One of the police shows, "Get Christie Love," is television's first series about a black policewoman.

ABC's cancellations raised to 25 the number of current series the networks say won't be back next fall.

ing issues outnumbered gainers by more than 4 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

The Fed announced after the market's close Wednesday it was approving an increase in the discount rate from 7½ to 8 per cent at 7 of its 12 district banks.

Member commercial banks borrow from the Fed at the discount rate when their supply of funds from other sources dips temporarily. An increase in the discount rate thus raises the cost of one substantial source of money for the economy.

The Fed's chairman, Arthur F. Burns, served notice Monday he planned to stay with a relatively restrictive credit policy, even as banks' prime lending rate was moving to a record 10½ per cent.

Among major issues touching new 1974 lows today in the continuing broad market declines were IBM, down 3¼ at 220¼; Federal National Mortgage, down ¾ at 16½; and American Telephone, down ¾ at 46½.

AT&T warrants, the most-active issue on the Big Board, dropped ¼ to 2½, also a low for the year.

Golds, usually strong when the rest of the market is weak, shared in today's drop, ASA, Ltd., was down 4½ at 83; Homestake dropped 4 to 77½; and Campbell Red Lake fell 3½ to 74½.

On the American Stock Exchange, the volume leader was Syntex Corp., down ¼ at 45½. The Amex' 11 a.m. market-value index was down 1.06 at 89.45.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was off .47 at 47.49.

Reflector Sports Editor
RICHMOND—Va.—East Carolina University's Pirates moved within one game of clinching the Southern Conference baseball championship for 1974 with an 8-3 victory over the University of Richmond yesterday.

The Bucs broke open a 2-2 deadlock in the eighth inning, coming up with six big runs to drown the final hopes of the Spiders, who had been one of two teams still with a chance to overhaul the Bucs prior to the game.

The loss, however, eliminated them, and insured no worse than a tie for the Pirates for the title. Only Appalachian State, already a double victim of the Pirates can still catch them. And the Bucs need to win only one of their three remaining games to wrap up the title.

Then, they'll represent the Southern Conference in the District III baseball playoffs, to be held May 23-27 at Starkville, Miss.

The Bucs still have three league games left, including a double header at VMI on Saturday, and a home game with The Citadel on Monday. A win in any one of those games will end the slim hopes of Appalachian.

Bill Godwin tossed the victory for the Bucs, scattering nine hits. Twice in the game, he found himself behind, but each time, the Bucs struggled back to tie it up before finally putting it out of reach in the eighth.

The Bucs pounded out 10 hits off four Spider pitchers, but a couple of errors in the big eighth inning were keys to their victory, as all six runs were unearned.

Richmond, struggling to remain alive, struck first, getting a run in the bottom of the first. Don Trevillian led off with a single and moved up on an infield out. Bill Daly singled him to third, and he scored from there on Charlie Talley's grounder that was errored.

It remained that way until the fourth inning, when the Bucs finally broke the ice. Ron Staggs did the damage, catching a 3-1 pitch and lashing it far into right field of the fenceless park. By the time it was chased down, he had trotted around the bases for a home run.

Mike Hogan followed with a double and Carl Summerell walked, then both were sacrificed up, but the rally died there.

In the fifth, the Bucs threatened again. With one down, Rick McMahon singled and Geoff Beaton got a hit. Both moved up on a wild pitch, and Staggs was walked, loading the bases, but again the Spiders got out without being hurt.

In the sixth, the Bucs again put men into scoring position. Summerell walked and John Naron beat out a bunt. Jack Elkins reached on a fielder's choice that got Summerell at third. Ron Leggett singled to load them up, but a double play again saved the Spiders.

Richmond finally scored again in the bottom of the sixth. That came on another home run, this one by Bill Daly into deep right field. Richmond then led, 2-1.

But in the seventh, the Bucs got it back, tying it up. With two down, Staggs walked, as did Hogan. Summerell then singled through the hole at short, scoring Staggs for a 2-2 tie.

Then came the fateful eighth. With one down, Leggett popped up to the pitcher, who dropped the ball, letting Leggett live. He stole second and McMahon singled with Charlie Wall coming on to run for him.

Beaton's grounder was played to second, but errored, letting Leggett score. Bobby Harrison then walked, loading the bases.

After a pitching change produced a strikeout, Hogan walked, forcing in Wall. Another pitcher then walked Summerell, scoring Beaton.

And Naron finished it off, bouncing a triple into right field, scoring Harrison, Hogan and Summerell for the 8-2 lead.

Richmond came back with one in the bottom of the inning. Bob Mitchell doubled and moved up on an out. Talley walked and Marshall Owen hit a sacrifice fly, scoring Mitchell. Talley later stole second and Steve Gordon walked, but the Bucs ended it there.

Tickets For Game On Sale

Eastern North Carolina's first official look at East Carolina football Pat Dye style on Saturday, May 4 when the Pirates will entertain area spectators with a Purple-Gold game at 7:30 p.m. It will be the first Purple-Gold contest in two years for the Pirates.

Tickets to the "coming out" for Coach Dye, his staff and new system are available at the Minges Coliseum ticket office through Pirate Club members throughout the area. Tickets are reasonably priced at $1 for adults and $.50 for area students. East Carolina students will be admitted free with an ID.

The Pirates have been working for four weeks (20 practice days) in preparation for the game. It will be the first official look at the new Wishbone offense installed by Coach Dye. It will also serve as a pressure test for several promising young athletes who are being called on to fill the void left by graduation of quarterback Carl Summerell and running back Carlester Crumpler.

"My staff and players hope the Purple-Gold game is well received," Dye says. "We're working long and hard to get ready for the game. Our players have had to learn new systems and new techniques and at the same time condition and try to escape the injury bug."

"I hope everyone will realize how much the Purple-Gold game means to the players and coaches. The game is an excellent opportunity for the fans to see our football and meet our players and coaches."

By WOODY PEELE

Another former East Carolina football coach has joined an Atlantic Coast Conference coaching staff, it has been announced.

John Matlock, who was a coach under Sonny Randle at East Carolina, left here for Louisville two years ago.

When Randle left East Carolina, Matlock was one of the top applicants for the job, which eventually went to Pat Dye.

Now Matlock has joined the staff of Bill Dooley of the University of North Carolina. Vito Ragazzo, another former Buc assistant, is also a member of the Tar Heel Staff.

As he did at East Carolina when the "Wild Dogs" were formed, Matlock will be coaching the defensive line.

A number of Southern Conference championships will be resolved during the coming weekend.

East Carolina's Pirates are hopeful of wrapping up the baseball title by beating the Keydets of VMI during a doubleheader on Saturday.

The tennis championships are getting underway Friday at Appalachian State, with the Mountaineers somewhat of a favorite in that department. East Carolina, which hasn't won a conference match, seems destined for a low finish in the tournament.

Then, Monday, the golf championship will get underway in Florence, South Carolina. East Carolina will be among the favorites in that tournament.

The track championship will be at Richmond next Friday and Saturday, with William & Mary again favored.

All of this adds up to a tight race between the Pirates and Indians for the Commissioner's Cup. The two schools shared the cup its first year, but the Indians have won it for the past two years.

They went into the spring sports with a 1½ point lead over the Bucs, and these next few days will decide the overall winner.

Coach Bill Carson's track team isn't expected to make too much of a splash in this year's title race. In fact, Carson feels that the Bucs might have to battle to finish in the middle of the pack.

William & Mary is still the strongman of the league, but the others are starting to catch up. Furman and Richmond will field strong teams and may surpass the Pirates this year.

But Carson feels that the reign of the Indians is nearly over. Next year, he has a bumper crop of recruits coming in, led by National Junior spring champ Carter Suggs of Tarboro. He's also picked up the number two sprinter in the state and the number one sprinter from Virginia.

Joining them are a large number of other top recruits, which could make the Pirates the top team in the Southern next season.

And that would be something to see.

LITTLEFIELD—Strategy backfired on the Rose High School Rampants last night after they had rallied in the top of the seventh to tie Goldsboro High School. The Cougars came back on a bases-loaded walk to win the game, 4-3, and claim the Ayden-Grifton Baseball Tournament championship.

The finale of the tournament had been postponed a week and a half after being rained out. In the consolation game, Ayden-Grifton defeated Kinston, 14-12.

Rose outthrew Goldsboro in the game, 6-3, but couldn't get the breaks. Goldsboro also took advantage of 12 walks by Rampant pitching, and got only six in return.

Still, the Rampants had several opportunities, leaving the bases loaded twice.

Goldsboro came up with a run in the bottom of the first to take the lead. With two down, Jerry Narron, who had homered twice in the Cougars' first tourney win over Ayden-Grifton (he was later named the tourney's Most Valuable Player), drew a walk and Jim Farmer came on to run for him. Burkie Perkins also walked and Jake Jacobs was hit by a pitch. Dwight Franks got a bases-loaded walk, forcing in Farmer for a 1-0 lead.

Rose came back to tie it up in its half of the second. Macon Moe led off with a single into left. Al Heath, attempting to sacrifice, reached when the ball was muffed on the pickup. Ronnie Raspberry then singled through the middle, scoring Moe for a 1-1 tie.

Goldsboro came right back, scoring twice in the bottom of the second to regain the lead. Stewart Bray singled to center and was bunted up. Tony Hamlett and Stewart Stout both walked, and that spelled the end for starter Mike Belton, making his first start in several weeks, and coming off a week-long illness.

Narron, with no place to go, slapped a double into right center, scoring both Bray and Hamlett for a 3-1 lead.

In the fourth, the Rampants pulled back to within one. Robert Brinkley reached on a bad-hop single to short and was sacrificed up. Heath was hit by a pitch and Raspberry walked. With two down, Wesley Deal drew another walk, forcing in Brinkley.

Goldsboro threatened on a fielder's choice and a stolen base in the bottom of the fourth, but Rose, got out of that.

In the sixth, the Rampants got off another good threat that failed. Heath singled and stole second. He moved to third on an out, and Keith Jones walked. But an attempted suicide squeeze bunt was missed and Heath was cut down in a rundown.

In the seventh, however, Rose did score, tying it again. Kelly Heath opened with a walk, and with one down, Griff Garner broke a hitless streak with a single to left. Brinkley followed with another base hit, driving in Heath with the tying run. Rose got a walk to Al Heath to load them up, but couldn't take the lead as a bounce back to the mound ended it.

Goldsboro came right back to get the winning run in the bottom of the frame. Narron opened with a walk and Mike Sherman came on to run for him. Perkins singled to right, and both runners gained a base when the ball was mishandled. Jacobs was then intentionally walked to set up the force, and that strategy paid off. Franks hit back to the mound, and the Rampants got a home to first double play. That left first open with two down, and Rose decided to go with the odds, giving a free pass to Paul Baddour, again loading the bases. But Bray, in a crouch, got the walk, forcing in Perkins with the game-ending run.

In the consolation game, Ayden-Grifton took the lead with three runs in the first inning. Ronnie Salmon walked and Tom Craft doubled him home. Stevie Tripp walked and Ricky Thorne's single scored both Craft and Tripp.

Kinston got one in the second, but the Chargers came up with two more, Salmon walked and Don Phillips singled. An error on the play let Salmon score. Craft then singled to score Phillips.

Kinston again came up with three in the third, making it 5-4, but Ayden-Grifton broke it up again, scoring six in the bottom of the frame.

Thorne walked and Chris Parrisher singled. Paul Ricciardi doubled in both runners, and Salmon walked as did Phillips. An error then let Ricciardi score. Ned Craft reached on a fielder's choice that got Salmon, and Tom Craft walked to load them again. Tripp walked to score Phillips and Greg Nelson singled in both of the Crafts, making it 11-4.

Kinston then came up with eight runs in the fourth to take a 12-11 lead.

But Ayden-Grifton came back with two in the fifth to regain the lead, 13-12. Jeff Hardy walked and Ricciardi did too. Salmon walked to load them up, and a walk to Ned Craft forced in Hardy, tying it again. Tom Craft then hit a sacrifice fly to score Ricciardi.

One more Charger run scored in the sixth.

Pirates Finally Get Two In Row

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

It's not exactly what you'd call a winning streak ... but then, two in a row is better than nothing at all.

The Pittsburgh Pirates, pre-season picks to win the National League's East Division flag, have looked like anything but winners thus far this season. In fact, it took them 14 games before they could put victories back to back.

They finally did it Wednesday night, using an old, reliable method ... Pirate Power!

Richie Hebner, Willie Stargell and Manny Sanguillen slugged the home runs that boosted the Bucs to a 5-3 victory over the Atlanta Braves ... and out of the basement for the first time this year.

In Wednesday's other National League games, Cincinnati edged the Chicago Cubs 1-0, Houston swamped St. Louis 9-4, Los Angeles defeated Philadelphia 6-1 and San Diego beat the New York Mets 4-3. Montreal's game at San Francisco was rained out.

"Two in a row! Wow! That's really a streak, isn't it?" Hebner said sarcastically after the victory. Hebner hit a first-inning solo shot, Stargell made it 3-0 in the fifth, the Braves got two runs in the sixth, one of them on Dusty Baker's homer, but Sanguillen wrapped it up in the eighth with a two-run clout.

Reds 1, Cubs 0

George Foster drew a bases-loaded, two-out walk from Bill Bonham in the bottom of the ninth inning to force home the only Cincinnati run — the one that beat Chicago.

Washington . . . er, Texas, Is In First

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer

The old gag used to go something like this: Washington ... first in war, first in peace and last in the American League. Would you believe first in the American League?

Oh, it's not really the Washington Senators; it's the Texas Rangers. And it's not really the entire American League, just the AL West. And the lead is only a tiny one-half game over the world champion Oakland A's.

But there is the transplanted franchise in first place today, podnub, thanks to Wednesday night's 3-1 triumph over the Boston Red Sox ... the first time the club has been in undisputed possession of first place in either Washington or Texas uniforms since 1948, according to publicist Burt Hawkins.

Elsewhere, New York's Graig Nettles tied the AL record for most April homers by swatting his 10th in the Yankees' 4-3 victory over the Kansas City Royals, the Chicago White Sox whipped the Milwaukee Brewers 7-2, the Baltimore Orioles edged the California Angels 4-3, the Detroit Tigers downed the Minnesota Twins 8-4 and Oakland land trounced the Cleveland Indians 9-2.

The Rangers used a little luck to win Wednesday night's contest. Lenny Randle's catchable pop fly in the seventh inning became a tie-breaking two-run double when Boston left fielder Carl "Alphonse" Yastrzemski and center fielder Juan "Gaston" Beniquez couldn't decide who should catch it.

Yankees 4, Royals 3

Nettles' 10th home run in 17 games was the talk of New York but it was Roy White's double following a walk to Jim Mason in the seventh inning that produced the winning run. Thurman Munson hit a two-run homer for the winners.

White Sox 7, Brewers 2

Eddie Leon, hitless in 12 previous at-bats, singled in what turned out to be the winning run with his first hit of the season.

Orioles 4, Angels 3

Don Baylor doubled home the eventual winning run in the eighth inning and reliever Bob Reynolds choked off a California uprising in the ninth to save the triumph for Dave McNally.

Tigers 8, Twins 4

Jerry Moses and Aurelio rodriguez delivered two-run triples for Detroit. Doubles by Gary Sutherland and Jim Northrup produced the first run in the opening inning and Willie Horton singled in another. Horton and Rodriguez singled in the sixth before Moses tripled and Rodriguez slammed his triple with a double, a sacrifice fly and his third homer, helping Ken Holtzman gain his first victory.

A's 9, Indians 2

Sal Bando drove in five runs

National League scores: Los Angeles 6, Philadelphia 1; San Diego 4, New York Mets 3; Houston 9, St. Louis 4; Pittsburgh 5, Atlanta 3; Cincinnati 1, Chicago Cubs 0. Montreal and San Francisco were rained out.

Jamesville Is Still In Lead

JAMESVILLE—Jamesville High School remained atop the Beaufort-Hyde-Martin Conference with a 10-0 romp over Pantego High School yesterday.

Jamesville grabbed the lead in the second inning, pushing over two runs. Kevin Holliday walked and Bucky Dickerson reached on a fielder's choice. Both stole up, and Steve James scored Holliday with a single. Curtis Ange was hit by a pitch and Jerry Ange walked to score Dickerson.

In the second, six more runs crossed the plate for the Bullets. Gurkin Martin walked and moved up on an out. Holliday singled, scoring Martin.

Dickerson singled and James was hit by a pitch. Curtis Ange walked to force in Holliday, and series of wild pitches brought in three more runs. Steve McCombs singled in the sixth run, making it 8-0.

Holliday provided the punch in the fourth inning, hitting a solo home run.

The final run came in the sixth as Gurkin Martin walked and scored when Eric Martin's single was errored.

Jamesville is now 9-3 overall and 6-1 in league play. They host Bear Grass on Friday.

Bear Grass In Loss To Bath

BATH—Bath High School came up with three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning to take a 6-5 victory over Bear Grass yesterday.

Bath scored first, getting a pair of runs in the first inning. O'Neal led off with a bunt single and stole second. Pate singled, and Paul reached on an error, scoring O'Neal. Davis walked, and a steal brought Pate home.

In the second, the Bears came up with their first run. Danny Peaks did it all with a home run, cutting the lead to 2-1.

In the fifth, Bath extended its lead with another run. O'Neal singled and stole second. Paul singled him to third, and a hit by Miller brought him home.

Bear Grass rallied in the sixth, coming up with three runs to take a 4-3 lead. Richardson Harrison walked and Jerry Wynne singled. Dickie Williams got a hit loading the bases. Danny Rogerson walked to force in Harrison. Wynne scored on Alan Crawford's out, and Richard Knox singled in Williams.

But Bath came right back with three more in the bottom of the sixth to take the lead again, this time for good. Smith walked and Cutler reached on a fielder's choice. Woolard walked and O'Neal did too, forcing in Smith. Pate reached on an error, scoring Cutler, and Paul reached on another miscue, driving in Woolard.

The Bears added one more in the seventh, but couldn't tie it again.

This From Patty: My Parents Are Pigs

By MIKE SILVERMAN
Associated Press Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —

And now this from Patricia Hearst: my parents are "pigs," my fiancé a "clown." And "I am a soldier of the people's army" who voluntarily robbed a bank.

Speaking in a calm, subdued voice in a taped message received Wednesday, Miss Hearst said "Greetings ... This is Tania." She then proceeded to heap scorn and ridicule on her family, said she never cared if she saw her "sexist pig" fiancé again, and added:

"To those people who still believe that I'm brainwashed or dead, I see no reason to further defend my position. I am a soldier of the people's army."

"The only way we can free ourselves of this fascist dictatorship is by fighting — not with words but with guns."

In the tape, the 20-year-old college coed called her parents "the pig Hearsts," and at one point addressed her father as "Adolf," an apparent reference to Nazi leader Adolf Hitler. She termed Steven Weed, to whom she became engaged last December and planned to marry in June, "my ex-fiance."

Her father, San Francisco Examiner editor and president Randolph A. Hearst, confirmed the voice was his daughter's, and added:

"The only good thing is that she is alive. Regarding her personal attacks on me, if she has been brainwashed, and I firmly believe she has, then it's not surprising she would say something like this."

"No matter what she says, we still love her. The girl we've known all her life would not say something like that of her own free will."

Miss Hearst, whom the Symbionese Liberation Army claims to have kidnaped on Feb. 4, said in the tape she was a voluntary participant in an April 15 bank robbery in which four alleged members of the SLA have been named in warrants. She is wanted as a material witness. Of that robbery, which she called "a revolutionary act," she said:

"I was positioned so that I could hold customers and bank personnel who were on the floor. My gun was loaded and at no time did any of my comrades intentionally point their guns at me."

Pictures taken of the $10,600 robbery at the Hibernia Bank in San Francisco showed two of the armed participants with guns pointed in the direction of Miss Hearst, who was standing in the middle of the bank, a rifle around her shoulder, her hand in her pocket.

In the tape, Miss Hearst dismissed suggestions that she come forward for a personal interview as proof she is not being coerced.

"To the clowns who want a personal interview with me — Vincent Hallinan (an attorney), Steven Weed and the pig Hearsts," she said, "It's absurd to think that I could surface to say what I'm saying now and be allowed to freely return to my comrades. The enemy still wants me dead."

The tape, which also included the voices of two men, was Miss Hearst's first communication since she renounced her family on April 3 and said she was joining the SLA as an armed comrade. She also said she had taken the name "Tania," in memory of a slain girl friend of Latin American guerrilla Che Guevara.

The Worry Clinic Punished Tot Needs Love

Natty Bo illustrates a vital point in child rearing. Judicious corporal punishment is a quick and more efficient strategy than that of the Dionne quint's nurse. But make sure the child realizes your punishment is for the naughty deed and not because you no longer love him!

By GEORGE W. CRANE,
Ph.D., M.D.

CASE A-615: Natty Bo, aged 2½, illustrates a vital rule in child psychology.

He is normally a very good boy; not destructive of toys or cruel to animals.

But occasionally he grows stubborn and violates rules.

Recently he ignored his daddy's command until Dr. Dan finally inflicted a little pain, flicking him with a snap of his finger.

Natty Bo began to cry as if his heart were broken, for he and his daddy are normally close buddies.

But even as the tears rolled down his cheeks, he ran toward his daddy with arms upstretched.

"Dr. Crane," you might logically inquire, "why would a youngster who had just been punished by his parent, then rush toward that parent with upraised arms?"

Though his daddy had inflicted corporal pain, Natty Bo wanted to be reassured that his daddy still loved him! For children don't want to feel ostracized from love!

Corporal punishment is still an efficient and very valid aid in child rearing, if used judiciously!

But when you punish a youngster, by all means verbally inform him that your spanking is merely disapproval of his naughty act, but that you still love him!

Sometimes doting mamas hesitate to punish a child at all, thus permitting the youngster to be a family tyrant.

"Dr. Crane," they will protest, "I just can't bear to see the big tears roll down his cheeks."

Well, you better see them roll down while he is of highchair age than later see them as he walks to the electric chair!

For there is a straight road between highchair and the electric chair!

Spoiled brats in their own homes try to take advantage of social codes and laws, until they finally end in prison.

"But Dr. Crane," many Pollyanna parents will exclaim, "why do you approve of any corporal punishment at all?"

Because it is the most efficient and quickest form of training! Mother cats and dogs, lions and other creatures occasionally inflict pain on their offspring, for God planned more pain cells in our skin than touch, hot or cold receptors.

That was to be sure we quickly learned to obey the standard rules of proper behavior.

For a child seldom needs to touch a hot iron more than once!

One of the special nurses for the famous Dionne quint wrote an article to decry corporal punishment.

She said she tucked her charge into bed but by the time the nurse reached the living room, there was Emily.

Smiling pleasantly, the nurse took her back and tucked her in a second time.

But again Emily beat her to the living room.

It took 57 tuckings before Emily stayed put on that first night.

Next night she quit after about 45 tuckings and in 10 days one tucking was enough.

"See?" exulted the nurse, but most mothers haven't time to play tag endlessly, for they are cook, housekeeper and guardian of several other children.

So use Christ's 2-check formula and after that, inflict a little pain on their rear piazza, for judicious corporal punishment is quicker and more efficient.

Send for my booklet "Tests for Parents," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

SOLUTION OF YESTERDAY'S PUZZLE

Survey Attitudes And Goals For City

A pilot survey of Greenville citizens to determine attitudes on community problems, opportunities, leadership, and future goals is now underway.

The survey is being conducted by Thomas E. Kelly, a political science major at East Carolina University, with the cooperation of the city.

City Manager Bill Carstarphen described the survey as "a cooperative project that will give Tom Kelly a practical opportunity to study local community politics and may provide the City of Greenville with helpful information on citizen attitudes toward community problems and goals."

Carstarphen encouraged residents contacted by Kelly to participate in the survey.

A total of 60 residences will be asked to answer three questions: What do you think are the most important problems affecting the quality of life in Greenville?

The bidding:

Opening lead: King of ♠ Alchemists strove for centuries to find a way of changing metal into gold, without success. South, declarer at four spades on this hand, found a way to convert his partner's dross into the game-going trick.

South's hand counted up to only 21 points, but with a seven-card suit and merely four losers, it was just worth a demand bid of two spades. When North responded negatively, South felt that his chances of making game were too good to risk having the hand passed out at three spades, so he jumped to game at his next turn.

West's lead of the king of hearts seemed normal enough—there was no way he could know that he had found the one attack to give declarer his contract. At first sight it seemed that declarer would have to end up with the nine tricks with which he had started out, for dummy did not seem to offer any hope of a trick. A careful survey of dummy's major suit holdings, however, revealed a surefire method of establishing a trick.

Declarer carefully ruffed the opening lead with a high trump and entered dummy with a low trump to the seven. The jack of hearts was led, and declarer discarded a diamond from his hand, allowing North to win the trick with the queen of hearts. West shifted to a diamond, but declarer was ahead of the game. He won the ace of diamonds, re-entered dummy with a trump and led the ten of hearts, discarding his remaining diamond as West won the ace. Dummy's nine of hearts was now established and declarer still had a trump in dummy as an entry. West shifted the attack to clubs, but it was futile. Declarer took his ace, crossed to the ten of trumps and discarded a club loser on the nine of hearts. The defenders had to get a club trick, but their only other tricks were two hearts.
