Swastikas On Atrocity Pictures

BERLIN (AP) — Pictures showing Nazi atrocities in wartime Poland were sprayed with red paint and smeared with Nazi swastikas at an exhibit Friday in West Berlin's city hall, officials said.

Police arrested 14 persons in connection with the incident.

Mayor Klaus Schuetz issued a statement sharply condemning the defacing of the exhibit, entitled "Thirty Years in Poland."

"We will see to it that those who did this deed will be held responsible for all consequences of their senseless and repulsive act," the mayor said.

U.S. Swedish Ambassadors

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Sweden and the United States will exchange ambassadors next month, thawing a period of frosty diplomatic relations that began when Premier Olaf Palme severely criticized the American bombing of North Vietnam.

Count Wilhelm Wachtmeister, newly appointed Swedish ambassador to the United States, will be installed May 6, a Foreign Ministry spokesman announced Friday. The position has been vacant since February 1973.

SLA "Insects," Radical Says

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — H. Bruce Franklin, a hero among young radicals, Saturday denounced members of the Symbionese Liberation Army as "insects preying on the life of the revolution."

Franklin, who was fired as a Stanford English professor because of his activities, is one of the founders of Venceremos, a now-defunct Maoist group some of whose members have been associated with the SLA.

He called the SLA a "counter-revolutionary" group harming the revolutionary cause with acts such as the shooting of innocent people. The SLA leader, Donald DeFreeze, known as Cinque, may be an agent provocateur for a police agency, Franklin said.

Asks For Hess Release

WEST BERLIN (UPI) — West German President Gustav Heinemann has appealed to the Western Allied chiefs of state for amnesty for German Nazi criminal Rudolf Hess, Western diplomatic sources said today.

The sources said Heinemann, in letters to President Nixon, Queen Elizabeth of Great Britain and acting French President Alain Poher, requested the release of the former Nazi deputy Fuehrer, who is serving a life term in the fourpower war crimes prison in West Berlin.

The West German government refused to comment.

Hess was 80 Friday. He is the last top Nazi still held by the four victorious World War II powers.

Makes Liquor, Grows Marijuana

OXFORD, N.C. (AP)—A Howard community farmer was expected to post $2,500 bond today after being charged with the illegal possession and manufacture of liquor and with growing marijuana for sale.

Granville County ABC chief Author Ray Currin said the charges were made against Roy Taylor Adcock, who was to post bond this afternoon. He said officers found a mediumsized still in a stable behind Adcock's home. The marijuana was in a 200 sq. yd. plot in a clearing across the highway, adjacent to a pasture Adcock owns.

Currin said the marijuana would have been worth about $150,000 at maturity. The plants were destroyed.

He said the bed contained the largest number of marijuana plants ever found in the county.

Over 100 Feared Dead In Air Crash

MOSCOW (UPI) — An Aeroflot Ilyushin-18 airliner crashed in flames shortly after takeoff from Leningrad airport Saturday and more than 100 persons were feared dead, Western travelers said.

An airport spokesman, reached by telephone from Moscow, confirmed that the four-engine turboprop had crashed, but refused to give any details.

Western travelers arriving in Moscow from Leningrad quoted an airport hostess as saying more than 100 persons were feared dead in the mishap, the eighth known crash of a Soviet airliner in the past 18 months.

The plane, one of the workhorses of the Soviet fleet, was on an internal flight to Krasnodar, a city near the Black Sea 750 miles south of Moscow.

The Western witnesses said the plane burned in a field about two miles from the end of the runway.

It was not immediately known if there were any foreigners aboard the plane, which can hold up to 122 passengers with a crew of five. Most Soviet domestic flights travel full.

"We saw an enormous ball of flame in a field," said one Western traveller, who declined to give his name.

"Tens of ambulances all in a line were racing toward the airport," he went on. "When we arrived at the airport, a hostess told us they believed there were more than 100 dead."

Soviet news media, which normally do not report air crashes or other domestic tragedies, made no mention of a crash.

It was the first known crash of 1974 for Aeroflot, which lost an estimated 100 persons in three crashes during the last three months of 1973.

In the past 18 months an estimated 444 persons have lost their lives in crashes of Soviet commercial aircraft.

The accidents prompted the Soviet aviation ministry last December to publish an article in its journal "Civil Aviation" stressing the need for more care by ground technicians and navigators.

Cease-Fire Line Battles Saturday

By United Press International

In the bloodiest fighting since the October Middle East War, Syrian gunners Saturday poured artillery shells onto a group of Israeli soldiers in the Golan Heights and an Israeli helicopter crashed while trying to rescue them.

Artillery and tank clashes erupted along the entire length of the volatile Golan Heights cease-fire lines on the eve of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's sixth diplomatic "shuttle" to the Middle East.

The Israeli military command said 14 soldiers were killed in all, eight in the shelling and six in the helicopter crash. Another seven were wounded in the shelling attack, it said.

The crash, the second in eight days, killed the crewmen and a medical team. The command said the crash was accidental.

Israeli television said the soldiers killed in the shelling were in armored personnel carrriers.

The Israeli command also said an Israeli unit patrolling northeast of strategic Mt. Hermon killed two Syrian soldiers in a brief firefight. It said the Israeli unit suffered no casualties.

Many Feared Dead In Peru

LIMA, Peru (UPI) — A mountainside in the central Andes collapsed and formed a natural dam across the swift-flowing Mantaro river Saturday and authorities said an undetermined number of residents were missing.

A Lima radio station said the number of dead or missing might reach into the hundreds.

The newspaper El Comercio said authorities feared for the lives of about 15 workmen who were along the river bank at the time of the landslide.

Civil defense officials, however, said no figures on the number of missing could be confirmed.

Mrs. Connie Branch Arrested As Suspect In Murder of Mate

By CARL TYER
Reflector Staff Writer

Pitt County Deputies and the State Bureau of Investigation arrested a fourth suspect Friday in the Linwood Noah Branch murder case while a second suspect will appear before a Grand Jury in Norfolk, Va., on Wednesday to fight extradition to North Carolina.

Connie Hardee Branch, 29, wife of the victim, was arrested by authorities Friday afternoon at approximately 5:20 p.m. near her home, and charged with being an accessory before the fact of murder, according to Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson.

Howard P. Wiseman, 39, of the 1200 block of Ocean View Ave., Norfolk, will appear before a Grand Jury in Norfolk on May 1, according to news sources in Virginia, seeking to fight extradition.

Wiseman appeared before a preliminary extradition hearing in Norfolk last week. Both Wiseman and a second Virginia suspect, Matthew Jack Whealton, 42, of the 2900 block of Buskey Rd., Chesapeake, Va., are fighting extradition. Wiseman and Whealton are both charged with murder. Both men are in auto sales.

A Rt. 8, Kinston man, Roy Lee Sullivan, 29, was arrested by authorities on April. 23 and charged with being an accessory before the fact of murder.

Wiseman, arrested late Wednesday morning by Pitt County, federal and Virginia authorities is being held in Norfolk, while Whealton is in custody in Virginia Beach, Va.

Tyson foresees no further arrests in the case, but states investigation is continuing.

One Dead In Auto Accident, Several Injured Later At Scene

By STUART SAVAGE
Reflector Staff Writer

Someone yelled. Turning, one rescue man saw people lying all over the roadway.

There was "a loud noise, then people were flying everywhere," another person said.

Pitt County Coroner E. W. Harvey, who was himself knocked several feet from where he had been standing, said it seemed, "the world started falling down."

That is how witnesses described the scene early Saturday morning where at least nine persons—law enforcement officers, rescue men, newsmen—were injured while working at the scene of a fatal automobile accident just outside the city limits on the Farmville Highway.

Highway Patrolman W. E. Brinson said a car driven by Charles R. Wilson, 23 of 712 Gum Rd. had struck the curbing at the edge of the roadway and went out of control. After traveling for one-tenth of a mile and rolling over several times, the car struck, and broke in half a utility pole.

Wilson and a passenger in the auto, William Jones, 21 of 705A Church St. were thrown from the car. Wilson apparently died instantly from head and chest injuries, Coroner Harvey reported.

Jones was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries he received in the 12:25 a.m. crash.

Some 35 minutes after the fatal wreck, officers, rescue men and newsmen were standing together comparing information when "the world started falling down."

As utilities crews worked to clear the accident scene Trooper Brinson said a passing tractor-trailer truck caught a low-hanging wire, pulling the broken heavy pole, transformer and wires down upon the group.

Greenville Police Lt. Clifton E. Warren, apparently struck in the head by the splintered pole, was the most seriously injured. He suffered a fractured skull.

A by-stander, Bobby Simmons of Greenville, found himself pinned to the pavement, the heavy pole and transformer lying across him. He suffered a broken ankle.

Fire Department rescue man Robert Coggins suffered a broken ankle and a shoulder injury. Although in pain, Coggins walked calmly among the other injured attempting to give aid and directing others as best he could, not complaining of his own suffering.

Policeman Eddie Wallace, pushed from the path of the injuries and released from the hospital as were Coggins and Simmons.

Roy Hardee, new director for WITN-TV suffered leg injuries. He was given treatment at the hospital and later released.

At least three more persons, including Coroner Harvey, received minor injuries that required no medical attention.

Trooper Brinson identified the driver of the truck involved in the incident as Mark Hodges Parks of Goldsboro, and said investigation is continuing.

AT WRECK SCENE. . .Officers and rescue men at scene of traffic fatality were photographed minutes before the pole and transformer at left were pulled down by a passing truck injuring more than a half-dozen persons. (Reflector Staff Photo)

Landslide In Japan

TOKYO (UPI)—Rescue teams recovered eight bodies and reported nine persons missing in northern Japan Saturday in a landslide triggered by heavy rains.

A rescue party of 600 policemen, firemen and soldiers searched through houses that were engulfed by mud when a mountain honeycombed with mineshafts collapsed on Friday.

Rescuers said the work was suspended until Sunday morning because of bad weather and the threat of another landslide.

The disaster occurred at Okura, a village in Yamagata province, 188 miles north of Tokyo.

Okura residents said the mountain, which towered 620 feet above the village, began sliding about 3 p.m.

Calls For Upgrading 2 Year Medical School

GREENVILLE, N.C. (AP)—A member of the Board of Governors of the Consolidated University of North Carolina has called for quick action to expand the East Carolina Medical School.

David Whichard, publisher of the Greenville Daily Reflector, Friday afternoon said the board should act "with all deliberate speed" to up-grade the facility to a two-year program.

Whichard's statement followed remarks made by Chairman William Dees, who said expansion of the ECU facility would not meet the state's medical needs.

In a speech Wednesday in Goldsboro, Dees said expansion of Area Health Training Centers for training interns and residents at community hospitals was a better approach to solving health needs.

Whichard said Dees has a right to his opinion, but he criticized him for continuing the medical school controversy.

"The General Assembly speaks for the people of North Carolina, and in its 1974 session, it spoke decisively, saying what should be done about medical education at ECU."

In the last session, the legislature authorized expansion of the facility despite opposition from some consolidated university officials.

"The legislature has made a sound decision in the best interest of all the people of North Carolina and based on all the facts and information available," he added.

On Tuesday At The County Courthouse

LWV Sponsors Candidate Forum

On Tuesday, April 30, at 8:00 p.m., the citizens of Greenville and Pitt County will have an opportunity to meet the candidates who are running for office in the May 7 primary. The League of Women Voters of Greenville-Pitt County is sponsoring a public forum in the District Court Room of the Pitt County Courthouse.

Eighteen candidates who face opposition in the May 7 primary have been invited to speak and to answer questions. Each candidate will have five minutes to state his views and three minutes immediately following to answer questions from the audience. The five candidates who have no opposition have been invited to attend and to be introduced. The moderator for the evening will be Mrs. Rhea Resnik; the timekeeper will be Mrs. Missie McReynolds.

The League has prepared a questionnaire for the candidates which is being distributed throughout the community. Copies of the questionnaire and the responses of the candidates will also be available at the public forum.

The offices, the candidates for each office, and the questions asked on the questionaire are listed below:

—U.S. House of Representatives; First District—Walter B. Jones, Gene Leggett, Harry McMullan; —Do you favor any of the proposed Federal systems of financing health care?

—N.C. State Senate, District 6—Julian Allsbrook, Robert M. Brown, Vernon White—Who do you think should administer and regulate land use policy?

—N.C. State House of Representatives, District 8—Sam D. Bundy, J. Horton Roundtree, Jimmie Lee Smith—Who do you think should administer and regulate land use policy?

—Pitt County Commissioners (3 seats) (Districts 1 and 5)—William B. Martin, J. Vance Perkins, Ed. N. Warren, B. Alton Gardner, Ross S. Persinger; and Burney L. Tucker from District 4—What criteria would you use in encouraging the location of an industry in Pitt County?

—Pitt County Sheriff—Thomas D. Burney, Ralph L. Tyson—What is the single most important thing you hope to accomplish in the term of the office you are seeking, and how do you propose to achieve it?

—Pitt County Board of Education—Jack O. Carson, J. B. Congleton, Kenneth K. Dews—What are the most effective ways for citizens to support education locally?

The majority of the candidates have indicated that they will be present at the forum.

The five candidates who are without opposition are Harry McMullan Republican, seeking office of U. S. House of Representatives, 1st District; Burney L. Tucker, 4th District, seeking office of Pitt County Commissioner; Eli Bloom, Solicitor, 3rd District; H. L. Lewis, Jr., Clerk of Superior Court; and E. W. Harvey, Jr., Pitt County Coroner.

The candidates will be introduced in the order in which the offices are listed above.

Members of the LWV will be present at the Courthouse to assist with directions to the District Court Room. The evening will conclude with a coffee hour in which the public is invited to meet the candidates informally.

Two Deputies Wounded In Blazing Gunbattle

ASHEBORO, N.C. (UPI) — Two deputies were wounded, one seriously, Saturday in a blazing gunbattle involving at least 100 officers that erupted when police intervened in a domestic dispute.

Police later arrested a man identified as Paul Myers of near Asheboro and charged him with assault with firearms on law enforcement officers and assault by pointing a gun.

Myers, who fled from the scene of the shooting, surrendered at a Greensboro hospital where he had checked in to get something for his "nerves."

The shootout occurred when two deputies were attempting to serve an assault warrant taken out by Myers' wife shortly before midnight Friday.

As the officers approached the front door of the house, they said Myers confronted them with a gun. They raced back to the patrol car and radioed for help as bullets from a high-powered rifle riddled the car.

Deputy Mike Hinshaw received a minor flesh wound in the head. He was treated and released from a local hospital.

Dozens of patrol cars carrying deputies and highway patrolmen converged on the scene a short while later and police said Myers, barracaded in the structure, began exchanging gunfire with them.

Deputy John Bueheller was wounded in the stomach and was reported in serious condition at High Point Memorial Hospital. He underwent emergency surgery.

Sheriff Lloyd Brown said before dawn, after some 100 officers backed off from their seige because of darkness, Myers stormed out of the house firing a gun, jumped into his blue Ford pickup truck and ran through the police roadblock.

Brown said he called for a police helicopter from Charlotte to aid in the search but Myers turned himself in before the chopper became airborne.

Sala Lek Pram Falls Saturday

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Cambodian government troops abandoned the town of Sala Lek Pram on Saturday, military sources said, giving Communist forces their second provincial capital northwest of Phnom Penh in the past month.

Sala Lek Pram, 26 miles northwest of the national capital, fell after a 48-hour Communist assault.

A spokesman for the high command said that only civilians were being evacuated. He denied reports from other sources that government soldiers also were pulling out.

Those fleeing the province capital headed for two government positions at Long Vek, 5 miles to the southeast and 21 miles northwest of Phnom Penh, the sources said.

Military observers predicted the Communists' next move would be a drive against Long Vek. If Long Vek were to fall, it would give the Communists complete control of the region northwest of Phnom Penh within nine miles of the capital.

Robbery Attempted

FARMVILLE — Farmville police are investigating an attempted bank robbery which occured Friday morning at the First Union National Bank on Main St.

According to Pitt County Sheriff Ralph Tyson, a young Negro male approached the drive-in window at the bank and indicated to the teller to give him money.

According to reports, the teller dropped to the floor clutching a telephone receiver and the suspect ran away.

Investigation into the incident is continuing.

Expect Peach Harvest To Be Poor This Year

By The Associated Press

Peach growers in North Carolina fear a thin harvest this year because of several bouts of bad weather in the past few months.

Lindsey G. DeWitt, who owns an orchard near Ellerbe in Richmond County, said, "I doubt that we'll have 35 per cent of a full crop."

The frost that dropped into the sandhills region nearly two weeks ago was one cause for worry. DeWitt said the May peach drop is another. Some fruit begins to form but becomes stunted and drops from trees before maturity.

Investigates Three Friday Accidents

Greenville Police investigated three auto accidents in the city Friday, resulting in the issuance of two citations.

Ernest Coy Avery, 205 Martinsborough Rd. was charged with failing to stop for a red light when his car was involved in an accident with an auto driven by Jimmy Trent Whitehurst of 205 Patrick St. Damage to the Whitehurst auto was set at $200 damage while the Avery vehicle received an estimated $250 damage.

Gregory W. Gravel of 239 Jones Dorm was charged with failing to reduce his speed after his auto struck a vehicle operated by Runny R. Dourlit of 159 Jones Dorm. Damage was estimated at $250 to the Gravel auto and $150 to the Dourlit vehicle.

No charges have been filed following an accident between vehicles operated by Daniel L. Whitehurst of 207 S. East St. and Richard Ernest Balak of Box 274, Longhurst, N.C. Damage was set at $250 to the Whitehurst auto and $300 to the Balak vehicle.

Humane Society To Meet

The Pitt County Humane Society will meet Wednesday for a covered dish supper at Elm Street Park, beginning at 6 p.m.

The supper will be followed by a brief business session concerning the group's plans for "Be Kind to Animals Week," set for May 5 through May 11. Tentative plans include a fund-raising drive May 4 at Pitt Plaza and May 11 at downtown Greenville.

Members and their families who wish to attend the event on Wednesday should telephone Humane Society secretary Pat Giles at 758-4842 after 5 p.m. for information on what food items are needed.

Annual Author's Luncheon Saturday

This year's contest produced the most entries every recorded by the club, with 147 pieces entered.

Fifty eight poems were entered from schools and more local schools were represented, according to Mrs. Carolyn James, of the Women's Club.

A full listing of the writing categories and the winners will be given in a later edition of The Daily Reflector.

Encouraging 'Prayer Day'

The Campus Crusade for Chirst is encouraging the passage in the House of Representatives of the designation of Apr. 30 as a National Day of Humiliation, Fasting, and Prayer.

The measure has already been approved by the Senate.

Bill Bright, president and founder of the Campus Crusade, said, "Your prayers and those of tens of thousands of other Christians can turn the tide and change our nation." He suggested that interested persons wire, write, or call The Hon. Peter W. Rodino Jr., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, Washington, D. C. 20515.

"Regardless of House action, please join in this historic effort to observe this coming Tuesday as a National Day of Prayer and pray that this day of special recognition of our dependence upon God as a nation will result in a great spiritual awakening throughout our land," Bright said.

Richmond Music Fans Clash With Police

POLICE CAR BONFIRE—Richmond police cars were set afire Saturday by rock music concert fans, angered when plainclothes police moved into the crowd of 22,000 to make drug arrests. (AP Wirephot)

RICHMOND (UPI)—Youthful rock music fans overturned and burned nine City of Richmond cars and scuffled with police Saturday as police arrested more than 100 persons for drug use and other violations at a city stadium rock concert.

The disturbances between youth and police armed with tear gas and dogs began around noon but were brought under control by the time the concert ended around 7:30 p.m., an eyewitness said.

City spokesman Brick Ryder, assistant to the city manager, said at least nine cars were overturned and burned. Youths pelted police sporadically with rocks and bottles, while those inside the stadium listened to the music against the background of police sirens.

The disturbances apparently began after police arrested about 100 persons, mostly juveniles, for drug use, public drunkness and disorderly behavior.

Some youths were apparently upset over the arrest and tried to storm an arrest processing center.

Several persons were taken to local hospitals with injuries. There were no immediate reports of injuries to police.

City officials met with Richmond a circuit court judge to ask for an injunction against tomorrow's program of the two day festival.

Nixon Studying Broadcast

CAMP DAVID, Md. (UPI) — President Nixon secluded himself Saturday to decide what materials he will surrender to the House impeachment inquiry and weigh the possibility of going on nationwide television to explain his case.

Presidential aides said an appearance on television Monday night was one of the "options" in a new public relations blitz designed to clear Nixon of all allegations of wrongdoing in the Watergate scandal.

Impeachment March Good Natured Outing

By JOHN MILNE

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Thousands of persons, accompanied by rock music, streakers and the fragrance of marijuana, marched on the Capitol Saturday seeking speedy removal of Richard Nixon as President.

The mood of the crowd, estimated at 6,500 persons by police, was spirited but good natured. For many, politics took a back seat to enjoying a pleasant outing on a warm spring day.

The impeachment march was the first major protest in Washington since Nixon's second inauguration in January 1973.

Chants of "Throw the Bum Out" and "No More Years" bounced against the walls of the Capitol. Signs read "Pick out your drapes, Mrs. Ford" and "Jail to the Chief."

A Youth International Party (Yippie) contingent started its march near the White House, and was nearly outnumbered by tourists. But its numbers swelled when it joined the National Campaign to Impeach Nixon on Pennsylvania Avenue for the march to the Capitol.

The train of people was led by an Edsel automobile, a Ford Motor Co. product, with a vice presidential seal on its side and drawing a cage with a figure representing Nixon behind the bars.

Five persons streaked through the crowd, wearing nothing but Nixon masks. Police said they were unaware of the streaking and made no arrests.

Many of the march sponsors hailed from the antiwar protest days of the 1960s. They included pacifist David Dellinger, Dr. Benjamin Spock, actress Jane Fonda and her husband, Tom Hayden, and former New York Congressman Allard Lowenstein.

The rally got underway when a rock group performed. The crowd basked in the sun and many smoked marijuana openly.

The turnout apparently fell short of the 8,000 hoped for by the march sponsors. Similar demonstrations were staged in Los Angeles and Chicago.

No Verdict Reached In Conspiracy Trial

By JOHN PRYOR

NEW YORK (UPI) — The jury in the criminal conspiracy trial of two former Nixon cabinet officers carefully reviewed conflicting testimony Saturday, then concluded a total of 23 hours of deliberations without reaching a verdict.

The jury of nine men and three women completed their second full day of deliberations at 7:15 p.m. The panel will resume at 10 a.m. today.

Most of their efforts Saturday were spent reviewing the conflicting testimony of defendant John N. Mitchell and major prosecution witness Harry L. Sears.

Sears, a prominent New Jersey Republican and one time fund raiser for Nixon, testified he conferred with Mitchell in late December, 1972, about a subpoena that was to be issued against Sear's boss, Robert L. Vesco.

The jurors requested a re-reading of Sears' testimony that he had discussed with Mitchell the issuance of a subpoena for the international financier to testify before the Securities and Exchange Commission.

Mitchell, former attorney general, and Maurice H. Stans, former commerce secretary, are accused of impeding a major SEC fraud investigation of Vesco in exchange for Vesco's secret $200,000 cash contribution to President Nixon's 972 re-election campaign.

The jury also had asked for a re-reading of Federal Judge Lee P. Gagliardi's instructions on credibilihy.

Kissinger Heads For Mid-East

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger is heading for the Middle East again today, hopeful that with Russian support he can arrange a disengagement of Syrian and Israeli military forces on the smouldering Golan front.

Kissinger leaves Andrews AFB at 8:30 a.m. EDT and flies first to Geneva, where he will meet Sunday night and Monday with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko. Kissinger will not begin his "shuttle diplomacy" between Tel Aviv and Damascus until late in the week.

The secretary has said that he is hopeful "that the Soviet Union will play a constructive role in bringing about the separation of forces which is in the interest of all the countries concerned."

In his conversations with the Soviet foreign minister, Kissinger will urge Russia, which has a major influence on the Syrian government, to persuade Damascus to accept a compromise plan for separating Israeli and Syrian forces.

N.C. Press Women Winners Announced

By The Associated Press

The North Carolina Press Women Saturday announced winners in its 1974 writing competition.

Nikki Scott of the Charlotte News won first place in the news category for daily newspapers with circulations over 35,000. Runners-up were Janice Childress of the Twin City Sentinel, Kathy Davenport McPherson of the Durham Morning Herald, and Bonnie Jordan of the Greensboro Daily News.

Other winners:

News for daily papers with circulations under 35,000—first place, Miriam Maynard, The Kinston Daily Free Press. Runners-up—Rose Post, Salisbury Post; Carolyn Satterfield, The Durham Sun; Mary Burch, The Chapel Hill Newspaper; Dolores Lavelle, The Monroe Enquirer.

Features for dailies over 35,000—first place, Lee Wilder, Durham Herald. Runners-up, Beverly Wolter, Fayetteville Observer and Times; Ellen Scarborough, The Charlotte Observer; Carole Currie, Asheville Citizen-Times.

Features for dailies under 35,000—first place, Linda Bailey, The Salisbury Post. Runners-up—Susan Harb, The Raleigh Times, second and third places and an honorable mention. Runnersup, Linda Bailey, The Salisbury Post; Nancy Brower, The Asheville Times.

Series for dailies and nondailies—first place, Lee Wilder, Durham Herald. Runners-up—Darst McNairy, The Greensboro Record; Judy C. Sarashon and Jan S. Johnson, The Raleigh Times; Pat Borden, The Charlotte Observer.

Determined To Fight Turkish Sentencing

ANKARA, Turkey (AP) — The defense team for the three Americans sentenced to life terms in Turkey on narcotics charges is determined to fight the legal battle to the end, the attorneys said today.

After the unfavorable appeals ruling of Friday, which upheld the lower court's verdict, only two slim chances are left for Katherine Zenz, 28, of Lancaster, Wis.; Joann McDaniel, 29, of Coos Bay, Ore., and Robert E. Hubbard, 23, of San Digeo, Calif.

The three have been found guilty of conspiring to smuggle drugs into Turkey.

Their attorney, Faruk Erem, a leading Turkish criminal lawyer and chairman of the bar assoaciation, said they would first attempt a "correction of judgment," a procedure unknown in Anglo-American law.

A "correction of judgment" request is delivered to the chief prosecutor of the appeals court and asks him to suggest to the higher court a review of the case.

A criminal law expert said, "This procedure works in only one case out of a thousand."

Legal sources predicted slim chances of success for these procedures. But the three Americans are bound to have their jail terms cut in a forthcoming amnesty.

A general amnesty bill now under debate in Parliament and guaranteed passage by all parties in one form or other, would reduce all life terms to 24 years imprisonment.

The three Americans were arrested Dec.10, 1972 while crossing into Turkey from Syria. Police searched the Americans' three minibuses and discovered 236 pounds of hashish hidden in the ceilings and under the seats.

Mark Meltzer Elected New Jaycee President

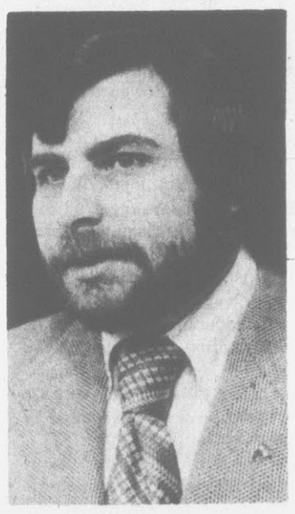
Meltzer, who will assume the duties of outgoing Jaycee president Tom Reese, was elected during the local chapter's annual elections session Thursday night.

Elected, in addition to the new president, were Hal Smith, internal vice president; Dick Kiernan, external vice president; Marty Goldfarb, ways and means vice president; Mike Peters, state director; Ross Piper, treasurer; Floyd Little, assistant treasurer; and David Womack, secretary.

Named to two-year terms on the board of directors were Charles Asbell, Jaime Lagasca, Ray Landon, Jack Myers, and Wilton Rivenbark while Allen Adams, Earnie Hargett, C. Johnson Moore and Watt Moore were elcted to one-year terms. Duanne Long has one year remaining on the board.

Meltzer, a native of New York City, is a graduate of East Carolina University with a masters degree in education. He is employed as a guidance counselor at West Carteret High School.



MARK MELTZER

A member of the Greenville Jaycees for five years, he has served on the chapter's board of directors, has held the ways and means vice president's post, and during the past year served as external vice president.

The new Jaycee officers will be installed June 1 at the annual Installation and Ladies Night Banquet at the Moose Lodge.

Ramp Festival

COSBY, Tenn. (AP)—Hundreds of persons are expected to enjoy ramps, barbecued chicken, hot dogs, cornpone and other goodies at the 21st annual Ramp Festival Sunday.

To the uninitiated, the ramp is an edible tuberous root that grows wild in the Great Smoky Mountains above 3,000 feet.

Its succulent taste is a delight to most mountain folk, but it leaves the breath with an odor that is offensive to many.

Gov. Winfield Dunn heads a list of political dignitaries scheduled to attend. Besides Dunn, several gubernatorial candidates also have said they plan to participate in the festivities.

"Take A Break" Set For Lady Reservists

Lt. Col. Howard G. Ling has announced the "take a break" option for new enlistees in the women's Army Reserve.

According to Ling, the new program allows women volunteers to take up to one year between the time they finish their basic training until they begin advanced individual training (AIT).

In the past, women reserve members went directly from basic training to AIT. However, the Army Reserve realizes that some women could not afford to spend such a long period of time away from home to complete both basic training and advanced individual training.

"So we decided to let those who rated it, take a break between the two phases of instruction," says Ling.

For more information on the "take a break" option in the women's Army Reserve, contact the local Army Reserve Center at 1301 N. Memorial Drive.

Therapy Ass'n To Meet Here

The N.C. Physical Therapy Assoc. spring chapter meeting will be held in Greenville May 3 and 4 at the Allied Health Building on the campus of East Carolina University.

Attending the meeting will be members of the association from all over the state, according to Vickie Padgett, publicity chairman.

The purpose of the meeting will be to conduct professional educational sessions and a business meeting.

The featured educational session will be conducted by Dr. Victor Wang Ta Ng, of Robersonville, on the subject of acupuncture during the morning session of May 4.

UNC Desegreation Plan Rejected

CHAPEL HILL (AP)—The University of North Carolina's plan for desegregation has been rejected again by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare which wants a revised plan submitted by June 1.

Peter Holmes, director of the Office for Civil Rights, asked for a revised plan in a letter to Gov. Jim Holshouser.

John Sanders, vice president for planning for the university, said Friday it would be impossible to meet all the demands, but "we will will send them something by June 1."

Sanders said some of the demands show "a very limited understanding of how a university operates."

One of the HEW requests is that the five predominantly black institutions be funded by 1976 in such a way to make up for deficiencies which make them unequal to the 11 predominantly white campuses.

Sanders noted that the university budget for next year is already being prepared. He said, "It is not at all likely that the study of deficiencies at the black institutions and the money necessary to remedy them can be completed in time to put it in the budget request."

The first desegregation plan was submitted last June and rejected in the fall as being too vague. At that time, Holmes asked for specific racial quotas to be achieved.

A second plan was submitted in February, with the racial quotas sent in March. There was no mention of the quotas in the latest rejection.

"So they must have found that part acceptable," Sanders said.

Holy See Was Aware Of WWII Deportations

By HILMI TOROS
Associated Press Writer

VATICAN CITY (AP) — The Vatican has released World War II documents that say the Holy See was told Jews were being sent to their death in Poland.

But the papers said the Vatican had no real evidence the deportations were part of a mass extermination policy.

The latest volume of the documents, declassified on Friday, showed that the papal envoy to Bratislava, Czechoslovakia, Msgr. Giuseppe Burzio, cabled the Vatican urgently on March 9, 1942, saying: "The deportation of 80,000 persons to Poland and to the mercy of the Germans amounts to condemning a large part of them to sure death."

The Vatican, at times accused of not doing all it could to help Jews flee Nazi Germany, maintained that it had been "energetic" in assisting all refugees.

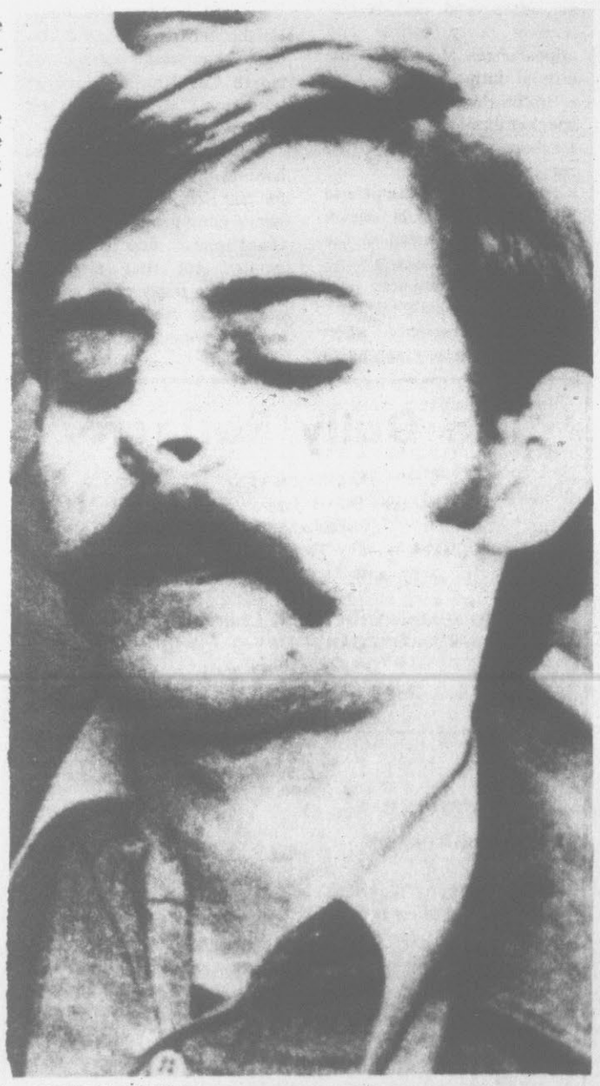
But the volume just made public also aserts that "Msgr. Burzio did not know anything about the real destination of the deportees ... like Msgr. Burzio, not even the Jewish agencies had knowledge that the deportations were part of a general operation for mass extermination."

The 600 letters and other pieces of correspondence from 1941 and 1942 contend that German bishops hindered the Vatican's humanitarian efforts during the war.

A volume of documents released last April acknowledged that among the Jewish prisoners, the Vatican's primary concern was for those who had converted to Catholicism. It reasoned that the converts were poorer and "got no help from Jewish organizations."

The newly released papers say the Vatican envoy to Berlin, Msgr. Cesare Orsenigo, tried to intervene with Third Reich officials on behalf of the converts, but was told by the Germans: "Baptismal water does not change Jewish blood."

The papers said Pope Pius XII "showed indefatigable desire not to neglect any possibility to offer his help within the limits of his power and his influence without any distinction to nationality, race or religion."



APPEAL DENIED—Robert Ernest Hubbard, 23, of San Diego, Calif., is one of three Americans whose life sentences were upheld by a criminal appeals court in Ankaro, Turkey, Friday. They had been convicted of conspiracy to smuggle drugs into Turkey. (AP Wirephoto)

19 Art Masterpieces Stolen In Robbery of Irish Mansion

By DONAL O'HIGGINS

BLESSINGTON, Ireland (UPI) — Police set up roadblocks, sealed off air, sea and road links out of the country and called in international assistance today in the search for an armed gang and the record $20 million worth of paintings they stole Friday in the biggest armed robbery on record.

A police spokesman said vehicles were being checked throughout the Irish Republic and at the border with Northern Ireland. He said special units had been dispatched to inspect air and seaports.

He said both Scotland Yard and Interpol, the international police organization, had been asked to cooperate in the recovery of the 19 Old Musters taken at gunpoint Friday night from the home of British diamond millionaire Sir Alfred Beit.

Among the stolen paintings were three by Rubens, two by Gainsborough and one each by Goya, Hals and Vermeer.

One painting, Goya's "Woman in a Mantilla," is considered priceless, and another, Vermeer's "Lady writing a letter, with her maid," is valued at $7.2 million, police said after conferring with art experts.

The Guinness Book of Records said it was the largest robbery in history, the previous high being the 1945 theft by a group of Germans and American GIs who carried away $14.5 million worth of gold from a Bavarian bank.

The victim of the Friday robbery, Sir Alfred Beit, 71, a former Conservative party member of the British Parliament, said, "It would be impossible for (the gang) to sell the paintings. It is my belief that they are being held for reward or ransom."

Police said it was possible the paintings were to be bartered for the release of persons jailed on one side or the other in the current violence in Northern Ireland.

A woman Sir Alfred said spoke with a strong French accent led the five-member gang that burst into Russborough Manor, his 100-room mansion 20 miles south of Dublin, at 10 p.m. Friday night. The men spoke with Irish accents, police said.

Sir Alfred said gang members shouted "capitalist pig" at him and accused him of "walking on the working classes."

They tied up the eight servants and hit Sir Alfred over the head with a gun when he resisted. Then the woman carefully chose the most valuable paintings from what police said was one of Europe's richest private collections—valued at more than $28 million.

"She obviously was an expert," a police spokesman said. "It was a cool, slick job."

May 7 Important Voting Day

On May 7 North Carolina voters will go to the polls to participate in party primaries.

It is an important vote because registered party members will be choosing the candidates who will appear on the general election ballot in November.

Certainly of major interest to North Carolina Democrats will be the choosing of a candidate for the U. S. Senate. North Carolina will be electing a senator to succeed Sen. Sam J. Ervin, who is retiring from the Senate with the highest esteem and popularity.

Two years ago the Democrats lost the other U. S. Senate seat to the Republicans when Jesse Helms was elected. Thus this year the Democratic Party must select the strongest possible candidate, if it is to make certain that the other Senate seat is not to be lost.

We think the strongest and most capable candidate in the field of ten Democratic hopefuls is Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan.

It is a temptation to build our case around Morgan's service to East Carolina University. He came to the local campus as a student and then went on to Wake Forest law school. He never forgot what had been the little teachers' college which gave him his start and, as he pursued his career as an attorney and public servant, he made the time to serve as chairman of the East Carolina University board of trustees for many years.

Important as Morgan's service to East Carolina University has been, however, we would recommend his nomination for the Democratic senatorial candidacy foremost on his brilliant record as North Carolina attorney general.

Morgan has been absolutely fearless in his efforts to protect the people's interest while serving in this office. Consumer protection has become more than simple words under Morgan's leadership as attorney general. More than once he has ruffled the feathers of other state agencies as he intervened in cases where he felt the interest of the public should be protected by representatives from his office.

Robert Morgan has built the North Carolina attorney general's office to the point where it plays a strong role in protecting the interests of North Carolina's citizens. We are confident he will bring the same leadership and concern for the well being of the average citizen to the United State Senate.

Jockeying For Governor Race

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—While the spotlight shines on the U. S. Senate race, local Congressional battles, and contests for seats in the North Carolina General Assembly, jockeying continues for the ripest plum next due: governorship of the state.

Both parties continue to cast about for the best man to carry the banner, and would-be contestants seek to line up support—in many cases without openly confessing intentions.

Republicans, at first glance, seem to be in the weakest position looking ahead to 1976, considering the lack of experience in fielding a strong slate. Republican Gov. James E. Holshouser, of course, cannot repeat a term.

At this early time there are four strong possibilities, according to inside sources:

David T. Flaherty, secretary of the department of human resources and former state senator;

U. S. Rep. James G. Martin of Mecklenburg County, a former Davidson College chemistry professor and freshman member of the U.S. House;

State Sen. Charles Taylor of Brevard, minority leader in the General Assembly;

For Democrats

On the Democratic side, early activity shows the three top leaders of the recently adjourned General Assembly and at least one member of the Council of State eyeing the governor's mansion.

Lt. Gov. James B. Hunt Jr., is considered a certain candidate, and is carefully tending party chores and appearances along with his official duties.

His colleague in the Senate also from Roxboro, is Gordon P. Allen who served in the past General Assembly as president pro tempore.

Allen has political ambitions and recently, when asked what he is planning to do now that his term as a senator has ended, said he plans to continue in state government down the road.

"I kind of like the looks of North Blount Street," Allen quipped. That, of course, is where the mansion is located.

Later, some of Hunt's supporters said that comment might be intended to show some interest in running for lieutenant governor on Allen's part. Not so, Allen responded, he has no interest in that direction.

But, Allen was asked, what if your hometown colleague Ramsey makes the race? Then he would probably not run in 1976, Allen answered. What about Hunt, whom Allen served as Senate leader? He wouldn't hesitate to take on a battle with Hunt, Allen confessed.

Meanwhile, Jim Graham, commissioner of agriculture, bluntly admits his interest in the governor's office, and says he is studying the situation and will make his intentions known after this year's elections are over.

Primary Fight

The Democrats can look forward to a Donnybrook of a primary in 1976 whatever else results since political observers concede the liklihood is strong that Hunt, Graham, and either Ramsey or Allen, will all enter the fray. At this point, the nod appears in the direction of Ramsey instead of Allen.

On the Republican side, it's still too early to make firm conclusions, but a primary is possible, and the leading contender at this time appears to be Tom Bennett.

Bennett currently holds the post as state chairman which Holshouser once held. Both Holshouser and Bennett have seen legislative service.

Bennett is from the east, Holshouser from Boone in the west—that would carry out North Carolina's informal tradition of alternating governors.

And while the Republicans, holding the governor's office for the first time in over 70 years, can't point to any other traditions, one insider pointed out that stepping from state party chief to the governor's mansion "could start a Republican tradition."

Reinecke Duped His Own Party

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke of California, campaigning for governor by inciting the hard-core Republican faithful against special prosecutor Leon Jaworski, in fact has carried on a calculated deception of the party faithful since mid-February.

Jaworski's prosecutors first warned Reinecke on Feb. 11 that he would be indicted in the ITT scandal. That warning came long before the March 8 filing deadline for governor. But Reinecke hid the news even from his own key supporters and entered the race for governor, thereby compounding Republican miseries in California.

The Republican hard core until now has believed Ed Reinecke just as it did Spiro T. Agnew six months ago. Although under federal indictment for perjury, he has convinced Republican true believers that Jaworski is conducting an anti-GOP "witchhunt." This week's Field poll, incredibly, still gives Reinecke a 4-percentage-point lead over his rival for the nomination, highly respected State Controller Houston Flournoy. Once again, the combination of unprincipled politicians and gullible followers with a persecution complex could prove lethal for the Republican party.

Reinecke was an obscure conservative Congressman in 1969 when Gov. Ronald Reagan selected him to be his lieutenant governor and heir apparent. Although early polls showed Reinecke leading all other Republicans for governor in 1974, his future was clouded by Watergate. Did he commit perjury in 1972 by telling a Senate committee he had not discussed with then Atty. Gen John Mitchell an International Telephone and Telegraph Corp. pledge to finance the Republican national conventional until after settlement of ITT antitrust suits? If he were indicted, advisers warned Reinecke, he should not run for governor for the party's sake.

By early 1974, Reinecke was pressing Jaworski to accelerate his case and inform him whether he would be indicted or not. On Feb. 11, the telephone call came from Jaworski's men in Washington: the prosecutors had developed a strong case against Reinecke, and he surely would be indicted.

Keeping that critical political information to himself, Reinecke went to Washington on a highly publicized mission to supposedly ask Jaworski to either clear him or indict him. Although he had been warned Feb. 11 he would be indicted, Reinecke told a reporter in Washington Feb. 13: "I feel more optimistic than ever that the decision will be speedy and that I will be cleared."

On Feb. 14 in Washington, Reinecke and his lawyers met with the prosecutors to dissuade them from seeking indictments. They failed. But Reinecke publicly gave the impression he was unable to get advance word one way or the other. Returning to California, Reinecke said he was "not concerned about my future" but was "worried about the timing"—that is, worried that Jaworski might wait too long before exonerating him.

Reinecke then sought a lie-detector test to establish his innocence before the March 8 filing deadline. Unable to get quick results, Reinecke filed for governor anyway on Feb. 16. Arrangements for a lie-detector test, finally administered by the FBI in Sacramento March 14, did delay an indictment and allow the March 8 filing deadline slip by. Yet another week was lost when Reinecke's lawyers made a final private plea to the prosecutors not to indict him.

Thus, it was scarcely the shock Reinecke pretended when the grand jury indicted him on three counts of perjury April 3. The lie-detector results remain secret. Reinecke's declaration that it was inconclusive because he is "a very reactive person" has only raised doubts.

Faced by federal indictment, Reinecke is copying Agnew by trying to amass Republican anger against insidious federal prosecutors. "I intend to fight Mr. Jaworski because this is a purge of the entire Republican party, not just one man," Reinecke told the Republican state convention last weekend. Such lines have been drawing cheers on the campaign circuit all month.

Efforts to finish Reinecke's trial before the June 4 primary may fail, particularly if Reinecke fights to switch the trial from Washington to California. With the case undetermined, it is conceivable that Reinecke could sneak through to the nomination and certain defeat in November. That is less likely with the new Field poll showing tide running against Reinecke. Still, his presence in the primary muddies Republican waters and creates unnecessary problems for Flournoy.

In a preposterously audacious attempt to become governor while facing federal criminal charges, Reinecke has joined Agnew and even

Strength For Today

A NEED GREATER THAN MINE

Sir Philip Sidney, commander of British armies in the Netherlands during the reign of Queen Elizabeth I, was mortally wounded in a skirmish with some Spanish soldiers. As he was dying he called for water, which was then very scarce. After much searching, a soldier found a little water and brought it to the commander in a helmet. Just before he raised the helmet to his lips, Sir Philip noticed a dying soldier on the ground, looking pleadingly at the water. Without a momnet's hesitation, Sir Philip gave it to the soldier. "Thy nee," he said, "is greater than mine."

Unselfishness is a virtue possessed only by those who give up gladly to others what they care most to possess themselves. He who can hand over something he prizes very highly to someone else, and do it with the declaration, "Thy need is greater than mine," has won a great moral victory.

Sunday Morning Notes

It may seem quaint now, but a big issue in Greenville way back in 1905 was additional passenger train service.

On Dec. 14 of that year The Daily Reflector editor D. J. Whichard wrote that electric lights and water works had come to Greenville.

"Recently," an editorial said, "the transportation facilities of the town were greatly helped by the Atlantic Coast Line putting on an additional passenger train. Then we have the Norfolk and Southern system reaching here with its boat lines and that company is taking interest in the advancement of the town. And the coming of the Raleigh & Pamlico Sound railroad is a matter of the near future, a site for the depot and right of way in town having already been secured. The completion of this road will make three strong transportation facilities operating here."

ALVIN TAYLOR

The Daily Reflector had been crusading for that extra passenger train and that caused the Raleigh News and Observer to write, "Hurrah for Editor Whichard. He has been demanding another train for Greenville in season and out of season for years. At last it has come and the people call it The Reflector Special. That's a good name."

Well, as we know now, the Norfolk and Southern got her; the Raleigh and Pamlico Sound apparently never made it and all passenger trains—including The Reflector Special have come and gone. With today's Transportation problems, however, they may be back.

There were other things to comment about in the editorial columns than passenger trains in 1905.

Other Editors Say Restraints Dropped

(Rocky Mount Telegram)

President Nixon's proposed $304 billion budget for the coming fiscal year represents an abrupt turnaround from the spending restraint theme of the administration's earlier budgets.

Signs of the turnaround: the largest increase in federal outlays since World War II days, no call for a ceiling on expenditures, reinstatement of some programs previously marked for reduction or elimination, and reversal of a downward trend in federal employment.

Analysis suggests the Nixon administration is moving away from an allout war on a debilitating inflation and establishing a second front to counterattack a rise in employment. And reading between the lines of the budget proposal suggests fiscal restraints against more inflation would be sacrificed to prevent an uanacceptable rise in unemployment.

Whether the $304 billion budget is call "flexible," "conciliatory," "unrealistic," "irrelevant" or "tentative"—and it has been called all of these since its introduction Feb. 5—both its projected outlays, and receipts of $295 billion, are quite likely to prove far wide of the mark.

The budget's anticipated deficit of $9.4 billion hinges on a $25 billion increase in revenue which could be sharply reduced by even a moderately serious downturn in the economy.

The budget claims 80 per cent of the $29.7 billion increase is unavoidable under present law, that altogether almost three-fourths of the budget—$223.6 billion—is now relatively "uncontrollable" under existing law.

The so-called "uncontrollables" in this growning proportion of the budget must be re-examined in any effort to reduce or restrain increases in federal spending.

More than half the uncontrollable spending involves direct payments to individuals. Including such payments made through state-local grant programs, the toatl is estimated at more than $134 billion for 1975.

That is more than double the payments to individuals as recently as 1970.

The significant shift in federal spending away from federal purchases of goods and services such as defense and space programs and toward direct payments to individuals and state-local governments has been gaining momentum since the 1950s.

Such outlays could account for 58 per cent of federal spending by 1979.

Reviewing The Family Budget

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — This is the time of year when corporation executives get up before the annual meetings and suggest or complain that the public doesn't understand all the problems that business has today.

It isn't only profits or the lack of them that worries them, they'll have you know, but ecology and labor and the community good and taxes and interest rates and rising costs.

But lest they feel their problems are unique they should listen in on a typical family scene:

It had come to that time when the family customarily gathered to review its accomplishments and make plans for the months ahead, much as the big corporations do at this time of the year.

The books on 1973 had been closed for several weeks, but there had been too many other things to do in the meantime: Get the Christmas bill paid and the income tax returns filed, for example.

But now each member was reporting at the family annual meeting.

Mother said her household expenses were up 15 per cent. Daughter insisted that even a 10 per cent increase in her allowance was insufficient. Son was slyer; he said that nothing less than 15 per cent more would do.

Then father reported. His income rose only 5.5 per cent in the past year, he said, but that was only part of the problem. Worse, the expenses for which he was responsible rose at least twice as fast.

For one thing, keeping the car in gasoline — and incidentally, trading in the station wagon for a new economy car that, nevertheless, caused him to put out an additional $1,500 — had become an impossible task.

Paying the monthly house note was getting to be a strain. While interest on the mortgage remained the same because he was locked in the bank to a 20-year note, the tax portion jumped. The town was pressed for cash, and so it raised his taxes.

Heating costs as well as the heat itself seemed to have gone up through the roof. The bill was up 25 per cent, despite economy measures that all patriotic families practiced, such as turning the thermostat down at night.

And there was that "extraordinary expense" for hooking up to the town sewer system since, in the name of health and ecology, septic tanks were being phased out. The bill still hadn't been paid.

Food, clothing and shelter costs were up, and there just was no way in which to cut back. No family really can conceive of lowering quality in those areas. It's almost un-American. Aren't things supposed always to get better?

Something had to give, father said, because "we're bleeding to death." As chairman of the family group he proposed cancelling the restaurant dinner each month and dispensing with the usual family vacation.

He submitted to overwhelming opposition on the matter of cutting expense accounts, which everyone else agreed already were no match for high prices.

"Then we must raise revenues," he said, remembering

Mule Ranks Shrink

By ROBERT GORDON

WASHINGTON (UPI) — If you're heading down a dusty road this spring and spot a mule pulling a plow on somebody's south forty, you might stop and kiss it goodby.

If the thought turns you off (you could pat it instead, though), then you're part of the vast majority who haven't shed a tear for the much-maligned mule, an endangered species that pulled barges on the Nile, was the goldminer's friend, and helped build much of the modern world.

The mule is fast disappearing at a time when its sport-model half brother, the horse, is staging a strong comeback in national popularity, according to Agriculture Department officials.

Things are so bad that the town of Benson, N.C., has to import the beasts from other areas for its annual Mule Day celebration.

Has His Defenders

Like other endangered species, the mule has his defenders —people such as the late novelist William Faulkner and farmers in the tobacco country of the Carolinas, about the only farm operations in which the mule hasn't been widely replaced by the tractor.

Unlike the eagle and other endangered life on our planet, there's not much the mule himself can do about his declining numbers. Because the mule is a hybrid cross between a mare and a jackass, it is unable to reproduce except in rare cases.

Faulkner, an admirer of both the horse and mule, wrote in his novel "The Reivers" that he

The closed season on fishing will begin May 1 and extend to June 10, Cecil Jone, game warden, announced today.

During that period, the boys who have been so keen on pulling fish from the various streams in the section will have to hold off until the ban is lifted.

The rule states that a closed season for fishing in inland waters exists each year. However, the rule does not apply to fishing with a hook and line or rod and reel in certain counties on Monday, Friday and Saturday and in others on Friday and Saturday only.

The Crop Porduction Seed Loan office announced today that the loan period has been extended to May 15. The time limit was scheduled to expire April 30.

Approximately 700 applications have already been received by the local office and checks for the loans have been quickly returned.

Two Committees, representing the Woman's Club and the Kiwanis Club, will go before the Board of County Commissioners to ask for a contribution to the library.

The Kiwanis Club has been actively seeking contributions from the public for increasing the number of books in the Sheppard Memorial Library.

Most Look To Teaching

By GEORGE GALLUP

PRINCETON, N. J.—Teaching is the top choice of college students today, with nearly one in four (23 per cent) currently indicating this is the field they plan to enter upon completing their education.

If those who plan to go into teaching—at the college, high school or grade school levels—carry out their intentions, there will be an even greater surplus of teachers in the immediate years ahead than at present.

In fact, there are nearly as many students in college today who intend to take up teaching as a career as the present number of teachers. The U. S. Office of Education indicated that there were approximately 2 million persons engaged in teaching in the public schools in 1972. The current percentage of college students interested in teaching projects to nearly 1.5 million.

Analysis of the findings by college class suggests that teaching is likely to continue to have great appeal for the next few years. Teaching is the top choice of college sophomores, juniors, and seniors and is tied with medical care as the top career choice of freshmen.

Teaching has particular appeal for college women, who are twice as likely as men to choose this field.

Results Represent Only Intentions

It should be borne in mind that these percentages represent intentions as of the time of interviewing and that changes in plans and job screening are likely to substantially reduce the numbers who enter the career of teaching. At this point, however, the evidence seems clearly to indicate that the teacher surplus is likely to continue into the foreseeable future.

Medical Care Next In Popularity

The career with the next greatest appeal on campus today is medical care, chosen by 14 per cent. This category includes those who wish to become doctors, nurses, dentists, and medical technicians.

Next in appeal are careers in business and in the law, named by 12 and 10 per cent respectively. Both fields have gained new popularity, as reflected in the large numbers of college students who are seeking admission to business and law schools.

Next in the choices is the broad field of research and science, named by 8 per cent, and arts-crafts, named by 7 per cent. This latter category reflects a new interest in theater, music, and painting found in other recent surveys. The field of arts-crafts is chosen by 9 per cent of college women and 5 per cent of college men.

Social work has also increased its appeal, providing further evidence of student interest in the "helping professions." Six per cent overall—9 per cent of college women and 4 per cent of men—say they plan to go into this field when they complete their education.

Analysis of current occupation choices among college students reveals that only 6 per cent of students are currently unable to give at least some indication of their general occupation plans.

Here is the question asked:

"What field or occupation do you plan to enter when you complete your education?"

The national results, by male and female students, are:

considered the mule the second most intelligent of animals, and that he placed it behind the rat "only because you can make him work for you."

"Unlike a horse,"Faulkner said, "a mule is far too intelligent to break its heart for glory running around the rim of a mile-long saucer."

Final Indignity

The mule, so much maligned in story and verse as in Johnny Burke's 1944 tune that went "if you hate to go to school, you may grow up to be a mule," suffered just about its final indignity in the early 1960s when the Agriculture Department stopped counting mules and started counting tractors.

There were about 4 million mules in the United States at the peak of their popularity in 1930, according to the Agriculture Department. Nobody knows for sure how many there are today.

However, the Commerce Department in a special study in 1969 found that there were but 66,000 mules, burros and donkeys in the nation.

A Conservative View
In Such A War, Nixon's Goal Is Just Survival

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

In the current issue of National Review, C. Dickerman Williams advances a hopeful thought. Perhaps, he suggests, Mr. Nixon could be talked into taking the Twenty-Fifth.

The venerable Mr. Williams, a distinguished New York Lawyer, advances upon this idea as cautiously as if he were raising a periscope. He is wary of the unseen hazard; he is feeling his way. His expedition into some unexplored shoals of the Constitution is part of the curious undersea warfare that absorbs us here. Other scouts, and other cruisers, are all over town.

Warfare ordinarily is waged for some definable purpose, but warfare often attracts strange allies. Their purposes, as we long ago leaned at Berlin, may be generally but not precisely identical. Here the aggressors' purpose, to put it bluntly, is to sink Mr. Nixon. And Mr. Nixon's purpose, by the same token, is not to be sunk. He proposes to tough it out. I still incline to the minority view that the President will win.

Some of the opposing forces, identified with conservative Senator James L. Buckley of New York, would like to see the war ended with Mr. Nixon's resignation. Liberal foes would prefer to see the President impeached by the House, tried by the Senate, and removed from office on conviction. It is the difference betweeen surrendering and sinking. The President has shown no disposition toward resignation, and for all the blustery talk from Capitol Hill, the votes cannot yet be counted solidly for impeachment, let alone for conviction.

What Mr. Williams is suggesting is a kind of truce. If the House should in fact vote to impeach (only a majority vote is required), he proposes that Mr. Nixon find refuge in Section 3 of the Twenty-Fifth Amendment. The section provides that a President may transmit to Congress "his written declaration that he is unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office." In such an event, until a President transmits a further declaration to the contrary, "such powers and duties shall be discharged by the Vice President as Acting President."

The idea has advantages. An impeached president would be a crippled president. His trial might take 10 to 12 months. During such an ordeal, Mr. Nixon's primary attentions understandably would be concentrated upon his own defense—upon his own survival. Domestic and foreign concerns unavoidably would take a subordinate place. By transferring his official powers and duties to Mr. Ford, so the theory goes, Mr. Nixon would benefit his country, his party and his own defense.

But the idea has drawbacks also. It is like the recipe for rabbit stew: First catch the rabbit. Mr. Nixon would have to be persuaded to buy this novel proposition, and this would take some potent persuasion. A president stripped of his powers and duties lies anesthetized upon the table. He is not operating; he is being operated upon. Never mind the duties: He should let those go. It is the power that makes the job worth having—the power to command, the power to decide, the power to veto, the power to appoint, the power to hire and fire. Would Mr. Nixon relinquish such powers?

What about Vice President Ford? In the supposed circumstances, he would be serving as a kind of trustee in bankruptcy. Such a trusteeship works well enough if the object is to save a failing business. Would it work to save a failing presidency? Mr. Ford already has told the New Republic's John Osborne, in unguarded moment, that if he ever got to be president, he would begin by firing Ron Ziegler. Some persons would see that as a happy prospect. In the thorny gardens of the Washington press corps, Ford-for-president buttons would blossom like roses. But it is not a happy prospect for Mr. Nixon.

If the President, facing Senate trial, were to take the Twenty-fifth, no conditions could be attached. He could not reserve the power, for example, to retain Mr. Ziegler and to make Supreme Court nominations. One he declares himself "unable to discharge the powers and duties of his office," that ends it. Presumably Mr. Nixon would continue to draw his $200,000 salary, and perhaps he could board and room at Blair House across the street, but his trustee in bankruptcy would have the office and the assets.

I doubt the war will go this way. Mr. Nixon has picked up five points in the polls. It is not much, but it is something. Contrary to the jubilant predictions of Wilbur Mills, chairman of House Ways and Means, recent revelations of the President's tax troubles failed to blow Mr. Nixon out of the water. The President is still afloat. He is still gamely making headway. He still has steam. Damn the torpedoes, says Mr. Nixon, half-speed ahead.

My own morose thought is that the war will not resolve itself any time soon. It will only sputter on. The House Judiciary Committee will not surface until it can count a floor majority for impeachment. Such a majority is not yet clearly in sight. It comes and goes. The time may arrive when Mr. Nixon will want to think of taking refuge in a neutral port, safe but helpless in Section 3, but that time is yet a long way off.

The Boom Side Has Run Its Course; People Are Now Settling For Less

By GEORGE BRYANT, JR.

A neighbor lady, just back from a shopping foray, lamented: "For a long time, I have been spending more and more for the same things. Now, I simply have to buy less—do without some things."

Consolidated Edison, the big New York electric utility, announced it would pay no dividend this quarter. It was the first "ass" of a stock payment by the company in 81 years. It's hard up for cash.

Some banks upped their prime rates to 10.5 per cent.

Federal Reserve Board Chairman Burns announced a policy of credit "restraint" even if it does mean another blow to the home building industry.

In the first three months of this year, consumer prices rose at an average annual rate of 14.5 per cent.

And in the same quarter, gross national product (GNP), which measures the output of all goods and services, declined at an annual rate of 5.8 per cent.

The above items have a common denominator. They tell something of the inflation-produced boom-bust cycle. Together, they indicate that the boom has come to the turning point. Whether the "bust" side will be a leveling, a period of fairly high level stagnation, or a persistent decline, with a severe wring-out, remains to be seen. As for prices, they will continue to climb, although the rate may slow.

To go back to the neighbor lady, what she said, probably without being aware of it in economic terms, is that the boom side has run its course. She is finished with forking over the number of dollars required to maintain an accustomed living standard and is settling for less.

Whether this decision on her part was forced by lack of funds, merely reflects prudence in today's inflation economy, makes no difference in terms of economic impact. The important thing is that she no longer is the customer she was—makes less of a demand.

The decline in gross national product over the first quarter indicates that millions of similar decisions are being made by consumers, individual and business. Prices are driving them out of the market. Shortages played a part in the decline, of course, and probably account for the sharpness.

Consolidated Edison's decision to skip its dividend throws interesting light on the progress of inflation. The company's operating revenues rose 30 per cent in the first quarter. But it's net profit for the period fell 21 per cent. In addition to rising costs and shrinking power use, the company's cash position is also pinched by slow payment of bills by customers who have to shoulder the higher power rates.

This shook Wall Street. Consolidated has to service tremendous debt. This is a problem which faces a great many corporations today, and not just utility companies.

Hoped-for strength in the second half of the year, when it was supposed that the economy would again be rising, is threatened by tight money and high interest. Two forces had been counted on for the general lift.

But, the expected increase in home building and the rise in capital investment in plant and equipment may not come about. The credit needed for financing may not be available at rates which can be afforded.

This is why the stand taken by Reserve Board Chairman Burns is so important. Burns fears what he calls the South American-type inflation. And with price-wage controls going this week and federal spending on the rise, credit restraint is about all that's left to combat inflation.

Congress is in no mood to do anything. It prefers inflation to a tightening of the economy. Note how such Democratic leaders as Senators Humphrey and Kennedy would solve the problem—go to still bigger deficits, the root cause of inflation, by an election-year tax cut.

that with credit cards and car payments and music lessons and orthodontist bills he couldn't continue to pay all the family's short-term debt.

That brought up the question of how. Three possibilities were discussed: Mother goes to work, the kids take part-time jobs, father asks for a raise.

Father maintained the latter was out of the question because his company was on a similar expense-cutting campaign and had frozen salaries. Mother agreed she could return to work, but in order to do so she'd have to have a woman come in to do the housework and she'd need another car for transportation.

The prospect of these added expenses, plus the fact that added income would push them into a higher tax category, discouraged further consideration of the idea. And the kids? Well, they really should be studying and playing games.

Just one alternative was left, and little of it at that: Cut some more. If production and revenues couldn't be raised, then there was only one answer to rising costs, and that was to pare expenses right to the bare bone, where it hurts.

Who said the public doesn't understand the problems and frustrations of doing business in an acquisitive, competitive society? Why, business has it easy.

fun at the mother-in-law until it is seen how it turns out with the Winston man who married his," was an observation.

And, "Buying for Christmas is easier than paying for it. Don't over do your pocket book in the effort to make an impression."

And, "A New Jersey woman dreamed that burglers were in the house and leaped out the second story window. Wonder what she would have done had the dream been about mice, instead of burglars."

And, "Charlotte is making a spread because a full grown deer was seen on a street there the other day. That's nothing. Greenville's streets are alive with dears any day, some grown, some that are not grown."

And so it was in 1905.

As the conversation often does among the breakfast crowd at local restaurants, it turned to fishing one morning recently.

One patron said some friends of his went fishing and got caught in the deluge of rain.

When they returned he told them, "I set my rabbit box in my back yard and caught two cat fish."

Beats getting wet.

Pat Taylor Is Still Interested

By JOHN KILGO

A good many people had the feeling in 1972 that Robert Morgan wanted Skipper Bowles to win the Democratic nomination for Governor, even though Morgan publicly stayed out of the campaign.

Pat Taylor, who lost to Bowles in a runoff in that gubernatorial campaign, apparently felt there was something to the reports. Taylor is backing Nick Galifianakis in the Democratic primary for the U. S. Senate.

Taylor says Galifianakis is a close personal friend. The two men served together for three terms in the North Carolina House.

"Nick supported me in certain of my campaigns," Taylor told me, "and I first felt a right close personal relationship with him. And secondly, I always found him to be a sound, solid legislator. He was a person I found who had a good grasp of legislative matters. I didn't find him of a nature that he could only see one side of a question, and I found that he represented what you might say is society as a whole. I think he's a good man and there's no problem for me to support him."

Taylor hasn't done all that much for Galifianankis yet.

"Quite frank," he says, "I haven't done anything of an overt nature yet. Nick called and asked if I would write some letters on his behalf. He's also asked me to attend a public gathering with him, but he hasn't told me yet where that's going to be."

Is Taylor still interested in a political future?

"I have continued to maintain an interest in politics," said the former lieutenant governor. "I never felt I got out of it. Whether I would be a candidate for office again would depend on a lot of factors. I wouldn't say that I would, but I wouldn't say that I wouldn't. If the occasion arose where there was an office open that interested me, and the candidates running didn't offer the people enough of a choice, then I might well run again. But I'm certainly not out here running every day, and I'm not patterning my life as if I might run again in the near future."

Smoky Mountains Nat'l Park Looks Forward To A Busy Summer

By CHRISTOPHER CABOT
Associated Press Writer

GATLINBURG, Tenn. (AP) — While state tourism officials are hoping as many people will visit Tennessee in 1974 as last year, businesses near the Great Smoky Mountains National Park are looking forward to a busy summer.

The tourist industry here and across the state had a hard winter during critical months of the gasoline shortage, and managers and owners of hotels are hoping business will be back to normal by the summer.

Gatlinburg is a ski resort and besides the gasoline shortage, here was very little snow this winter, further hurting the tourist industry.

"The cause of our drop in business this winter was as much the snow situation as the gas," said Ray Tidwell, manager of the 264-room Holiday Inn-Gatlinburg. "We did have two conventions canceled this year because of lack of gas, but overall we've had about the same convention business as last year. I'm optimistic for the summer."

As a sign of his hotel's optimism, Tidwell said the inn started construction of 144 additional rooms in January.

Manager Bond Ogle of the River Terrace Motel, a 114-room inn on the main street, said that reservation deposits were ahead of last year. Business was down slightly in January, February and March, and Ogle said one of two conventions had been canceled due to the fuel shortage.

Both Tidwell and Ogle said their hotels were not offering any special package deals, reduced rates or other inducements to build up business.

The 20-unit Terrace Motel and Cottages, however had the "worst winter ever" according to owner-manager Mrs. Earl Helms. But Mrs. Helms blamed the lack of snow as well as the fuel shortage.

"Fewer people are making reservations this year," said Mrs. Helms, "But there are more drop-ins. Easter weekend was good, but not as good as last year. But I am optimistic; those that are coming here are staying put for a longer time."

The attraction of this resort community is its location at the western entrance of the Great Smoky Mountains National Park. The only road through the park runs through Gatlinburg, over the Mountains to Cherokee, N.C.

Officials of the National Park Service say many fewer people visited the park this winter than last. Usually, officials said, the park is the most heavily visited of all the national parks.

The estimated 100,500 travelers to visit the park in January was 31 per cent fewer than last January. The figure was 24 per cent in February and 9 per cent in March.

Both park service and hotel officials said they had not been forced to lay off any employes because of a decline in business.

Park officials said Easter weekend was as crowded as in years past, although exact visitation figures were not available.

Abby Bales, an employe of the Gatlinburg Chamber of Commerce said the resort town had always had enough gasoline.

"City officials got together with the gas stations and decided to stay open Saturdays and Sundays," she said. Although many stations were closed on weekends, tourists generally could find one or two open services stations to fill up tanks before heading home, she said.

Miss Eula Adams of the Whaley Construction Co., builders of Hidden Hills Condominium Village just outside Gatlinburg, said construction of nine new units had not been affected by the gasoline shortage. She said three of the new units had already been sold.

"The biggest downturn in tourism in Tennessee has come in areas where people have stopped marketing," said Francis X. Maguire of the state department of tourism. "Those that continued marketing suffered the least this winter.

"This summer should be good. With any reasonable degree of luck, we hope to equal last year, which was a record for Tennessee."

Maguire said the state had begun a new promotional campaign to sell travelers on unique aspects of Tennessee: such sights as The Hermitage, home of President Andrew Jackson, and the Great Smoky Mountains National Park.

Earlier this year, the state reported a significant decline in tourism.

"The point is that this gasoline thing, this energy crisis, has reduced the number of people coming through Tennessee," said Pat Choate, commissioner of Economic and Community Development.

Choate said the number of travelers entering the state dropped about 20 per cent during the winter months.

Older Adults' Lunch, Multiservice Program Begun

Wednesday, for the first time, 25 older Pitt Countians enjoyed a nutritious meal at the Moyewood Center at 1710 W. Third St. here.

This began the new Older Adults' Lunch and Multi-service Program for Pitt County. Held from 12:30 to 2 p.m. each day Monday through Friday, the program is designed to provide opportunity for persons 60 years of age and over to come together for a nutritious meal, fellowship, and supportive programs. Sue Singleton, program director for the Regional Nutrition Program, said, "We see this as a way of ending the isolation in which many elderly people find themselves, and of bringing them information and recreation. The maximum number of daily participants in this first program is 47, but it is hoped that the service can be expanded in the future."

There are 7,982 persons in Pitt County 60 years or older.

"The Lunch and Multi-service Program is aimed at helping older adults in a number of ways," Mrs. Singleton said. "Too often, cost alone prevents the older person living alone from preparing nutritionally adequate meals. Also he or she may feel it's just too much effort to cook well for self alone."

Wednesday's meal consisted of baked chicken, creamed potatoes, broccoli, a hot roll, and pineapple custard.

The daily meal at the Center will give each participant at least one-third of the daily recommended daily allowances of vitamins and minerals. A person may contribute to the cost of the meal, either totally or partially, if he wishes to do so.

"The importance of the program from a health standpoint alone cannot be overemphasized," Mrs. Singleton said. "We hope that this will help the older adults continue to be active in the community by improving how he feels."

A number of agencies and individuals in the county will be providing supportive services, including programs and crafts, individual

Many of the participants will be needing transportation. It is hoped that the older adults in the county who can help provide transportation for their neighbors will do so. Also volunteer workers are needed at the Center. Anyone who would like to is invited to visit the program any weekday to observe. Those needing further information should call Mrs. Charlie Ann Whaley at 756-7710.

Hard-Nosed Executive Bailed Out Diners Club

NEW YORK (UPI) — When the president of a credit card company turns down his own son as a credit risk, he qualifies as a hard-nosed executive.

R. Newell Lusby, president, chief executive officer and board chairman of The Diners Club, Inc., did just that. When his son, James, a history instructor at a private boys' school in West Newton, Mass., applied for a card, he was told: "You don't make enough money to qualify."

That kind of toughness helped Lusby engineer what many Wall Streeters call the biggest corporate bailout and turnaround the Street ever has seen. At one time, The Continental Corporation, an insurance holding company which owns 88 per cent of Diners, was exposed to $225 million losses had Diners gone under as was freely predicted a few years ago. And little wonder. In 16 consecutive redink quarters, Diners had lost $94.2 million and its net worth was only $2.49 million.

In 1973, after three years of vigorous corporate massaging by Lusby, Diners regained its financial health by showing a net profit of $1.13 million, the first black ink since September of 1969. And Lusby says the momentum will carry Diners to better results this year.

The turnaround story goes back to late 1969 when Diners, the company that pioneered travel and entertainment (T&E) credit cards in 1950, started slipping down the financial drain because computer breakdowns made it impossible to cope with the blizzard of paperwork. That led to sloppy billing, undisciplined credit and financial controls and, finally, a breakdown in employe morale.

The company credit losses also were running at a prohibitive average.

How did Lusby turn the company around from cumulative losses of more than $94 million from 1969 through 1972 to an encouraging $1 millionplus profit in 1973?

"It wasn't a one-man job, I'll tell you that," said the Diners Club chief.

Aside from the new management disciplines imposed on Diners corporate body, specific changes, actions and programs instituted under the Lusby restructuring included:

—Addition of two new Honeywell 4200 computers at the Denver data center. (Customer complaints dropped from 4,000 per month to less than 300. Billings now go out promptly as do payments to establishments honoring the card).

—Tightning Diners' credit requirements for card applicants and renewals.

—New computer programming cut stolen card losses from $1.5 million in 1971 to $500,000 in 1973.

—Need for quick, personal service was drummed into employes through training and re-training programs. (Complaints in 1973 were down 88 per cent from the 1970 figure).

—Sell-offs of unprofitable sidelines such as Diners' travel agency business which Lusby said had been a "bleeding artery" in terms of money and executive time.

—And, finally, a frontal advertising assault on the big competitor, American Express, which raised some industry eyebrows.

Diners had stayed out of advertising for three years while it was getting its house in order. When it resumed in April, 1973, it went straight for the American Express jugular and the attack is continuing.

Asked about the future of Diners now that it is back in the black, Lusby replied: "We're moving. More important, so are people moving around the world more than ever before, and that can mean only good for us."

A Letter To The Citizens Of Pitt County:

I would like to take this opportunity to acknowledge my personal support for Ross Persinger as a candidate for Pitt County Commissioner, Fifth District in the May 7 Democratic Primary. I want to share with you the reasons why I know that he would make a good county commissioner.

I have lived in Ayden all my life and have carried on a busy medical practice there for the past eleven years. During this period of time I have gotten to know Ross Persinger very well and for the past six months I have served as a Town Commissioner during which time he has been Mayor. This has given me an opportunity to observe and work with this man and to know something of how he thinks and his approach to problems.

(Please excuse me if I use the familiar, Ross. I feel more comfortable with this name as I am sure that many of you would feel the same way after getting to know him.)

What is Ross's background, experience and qualifications? He was born in Charleston, West Virginia and moved to Ayden in 1953. He has worked 34 years with E. I DuPont, and for the past 24 years he has served in several supervisory capacities and currently holds the title of maintenance planner at the Kinston Dacron Plant. No, he has not lived in Pitt County all his life but neither have a lot of other people in this growing county. Furthermore, in the last 22 years he has become a Pitt Countian in the real sense of the word. (He has even bought a cemetery lot in the Ayden Cemetery.)

During his years of residency he had become an integral part of our community at all levels—town, county, and regionally. He is an Elder in the Ayden Christian Church and a past Master of the Ayden Masonic Lodge. He is 1st Vice-President of the Mid-East Commission, a five-county planning group and is Vice-President of the Mid-East Comprehensive Health Planning Committee. In 1964 he was elected Mayor of Ayden, a position he held for 4 terms. He decided not to seek re-election in 1972. However, for various reasons he ran again in 1973 and was again elected; this time he ran against an incumbent Mayor. He voluntarily stepped down as Mayor of Ayden because he felt he had served long enough and that some other person should have the opportunity of that office.

Why did he decide to run again for mayor after a voluntary retirement? He saw a need and felt that he was best qualified to fill that need. When he undertook that race he knew it would be hard and a very bitter race. In spite of these problems he ran a clean race and won a hard fought victory.

But why would a man so recently elected Mayor want to again engage in a larger political struggle, against a long term incumbent, to seek a seat as a County Commissioner?

Because he sees a need and feels that he can fill that need. Because he wants to be of service to his community and county. Because he cares.

For 26 years the Ayden, Grifton, Swift Creek area has been represented by the same individual. It is time for a change in leadership. Pitt County has changed in those years from a predominately rural economy to a more urban based economy. Farmers now are mechanized and are becoming even more sophisticated; many new industries have moved into the county, a great university has grown up. It is no longer business as usual, no longer can we wait for change but rather we must move with the changing pattern.

Our leaders must keep in touch with all sections of the county—agricultural, industrial, professional, and educational. Their decisions have a wider effect than previously and they must be knowledgable of those whose lives and activities they will effect. Our Commissioner needs a close working relationship with all groups both private, corporate and governmental in order to do what is right and just for all concerned. I do not believe that our present Commissioner from the fifth district has that type of relationship. And this is especially true after a quarter century of holding the same office. Some of his constituents do not even know him. This is not and will not be the case with Ross Persinger. I know that Ross Persinger can meet the responsibilities and challenges of County Commissioner in a new, aggressive and innovative way. I know that Ross will become acquainted with all his constituents.

(Let me first point out that Ross is not the only person running against an incumbent. If the other candidate who is also seeking election is successful, then the remaining three commissioners will get the message and see the need to respond to county needs. Remember the other three commissioners will come up for election in two years.)

What are some of the areas that I feel our present County Commissioner has failed to provide the necessary leadership?

Schools: Have you walked through any of our schools lately and seen the very poor physical condition into which they have been allowed to deteriorate. (This is not to include the four consolidated county high schools or other newer schools in Greenville.) The entire blame cannot be laid at the feet of the Pitt County Board of Education. True they have not been very vocal about their needs. A more watchful Pitt County Board of Commissioners would have observed the school board and demanded that the schools be improved. They would have responded to the concern of parents who are required to send their sons and daughters to unsafe and delapidated school buildings. The last General Assembly recognizes that the County Commissioners have the ultimate responsibility for the schools.

Many of the teachers feel that they have very little input into the programs and are not backed by the Board of Education. Very few people feel that the projected plans for the Pitt County Schools are realistic and meet the needs of the children of today.

It is time that someone on the County Commissioner level asked the hard questions concerning our school systems. From past performance we know that the incumbent has not asked these questions, has not prodded the school board, has not taken constructive stands.

ROSS PERSINGER WOULD ASK THESE QUESTIONS THAT REFLECT THESE CONCERNS.
DID OUR PRESENT COMMISSIONER?

Industrial Development: Recently the Pitt County Development Commissions has come under fire. The main issue has been that many people feel that the Development Commission has not served the entire county with a general equality. Even though County Commissioners levied the necessary tax support, our present County Commissioners did not question how the development commissions was doing its job? This problem had to be brought to their attention by various town governments and other interested groups. And then what did the Board of Commissions do— They allowed the Development Commission to investigate itself. The County Commissions should have taken on this responsibility or delegated it to a group that did not have so vested an interest.

ROSS PERSINGER WOULD HAVE SEEN THE FALLACY OF THIS APPROACH.
DID OUR PRESENT COMMISSIONER?

City-County Coordination and Cooperation: Today it is no longer possible to run either a county and a local government independent of one another. What one does often has a very direct effect on the other. And when the big one moves, all the little fellows had better watch out. Take for example the new county land fill. The County Commissions have bought an area near Frog Level, near Greenville, to be used as a new land fill. The Town of Ayden must budget in 1974-1975 the purchase of a new trash truck for approximately $16,000.00 and may have to reduce its weekly pick up to twice a week because of the time it takes the trucks to travel to and from the land fill. More money will be spent with less service as a result. And what are Bethel and Grimesland going to do? Could there have been a better and more financially equitable solution to this problem?

ROSS PERSINGER WOULD HAVE EXPLORED EVERY POSSIBILITY.
DID OUR PRESENT INCUMBENT?

Finding The Answer To Questions: Ross does not automatically accept the first solution that is presented. Recently the Town of Ayden was told that the School Board had to sell all school property at public auction. And mind you this came from the counties legal advisers. Did Ross stop there? No, he did not! He went to the Attorney Generals office in Raleigh and put his question to them personally. There he found that the county school property did not have to be sold at public auction; that under certain stipulations provided in the general statutes that a negotiated sale was allowed when it was in the best interest of all the various parties.

ROSS PERSINGER WENT OUT OF HIS WAY TO FIND THE CORRECT ANSWER.
WOULD OUR PRESENT INCUMBENT?

And so through question and example I have tried to give you my impressions of this man—a man whom I have come to respect the longer I have known him. He is not always right, but who is? But neither is he always wrong. (And in all fairness neither is his opponent.)

Ross has an inquiring mind, he has a strong and forceful personality, and he is aggressive in what he believes. He is willing to ask the hard questions and he is persistent.

Now is the time for a change in leadership. I feel that in Ross Persinger the citizens of Pitt County will find a person willing and able to serve them, a man with proven leadership qualities and a man of the utmost personal integrity.

And therefore, I encourage you to vote for Ross Persinger for Pitt County Commissioner in the May 7th Democratic Primary.

New Church Facility Planned

Construction is to begin immediately on a new sanctuary and additional educational facilities for Trinity Free Will Baptist Church here.

The new 1,200-seat sanctuary and educational facility, equipped with modern nurseries, offices, printing room, library, and milti-purpose rooms, will be placed on the church property at the intersection of 264 Bypass East and Golden Road, out toward the bypass from the present building, which will continue to be used. A canopy will join the two buildings, both of which will be contemporary in design. The church will feature a towering spiral 78 feet high.

The pastor of the church is the Rev. Al Davis. Evangelist Jack Paramore delivered the groundbreaking message on "I Will Build My Church."

Program Of Evacuation In Nuclear Plant Town

By M. A. BARTHOLOMEW
Associated Press Writer

WATERFORD, Conn. (AP) — Tucked away in a file in this quiet suburb is a loose-leaf folder town fathers hope they never have to open.

It's an emergency plan to evacuate 18,000 people if the nuclear power plant begins to melt.

First Selectman Herbert Davis says Waterford has become used to living with the possible danger from its plant on Long Island Sound. Apparently so, because a spot check of 25 townspeople found none who knew of the emergency plan or what to do if the plant failed.

Restaurant owner Gilbert Padua said simply he would "run like a chicken."

Northeast Utilities is building a second nuclear reactor at Millstone Point and plans a third. The company supplies 70 per cent of Connecticut's electricity and 30 per cent of New England's.

In its first study of nuclear disasters, the Atomic Energy Commission said the odds of a major catastrophe at a nuclear plant are "once in 1 billion to 10 billion years" for each reactor.

A power plant would not blow up like an atomic bomb. Rather, it would melt into the earth in a process called "going critical," allowing radioactive gases to seep into the soil and the air.

The melting would begin when cooling systems failed, first the main water circulator, then an emergency system.

Under the town's emergency plan, Davis would receive a hotline call from the plant. He in turn would warn state police, civil preparedness officials and firemen.

Northeast estimates Davis would have two to three hours to evacuate the town.

Davis would assume authority to confiscate all cars and buses. Some 1,200 volunteers would drive them. Sirens would blow, mobile loudspeakers would blare instructions and bulletins would be broadcast on the radio. If immediate shelter were needed five fallout shelters would open.

John Sheehan, local civil preparedness director, claims Waterford is the only community in the country with detailed emergency plans. Supplements on radiation fallout and evacuation have been printed in local newspapers and are found in public places, he said.

Scientists disagree on the odds for the disaster. But they all concede that nuclear safety systems have never been put to a real test.

Victorian Inventions Imaginative

By GREGORY JENSEN

LONDON (UPI) — Not all Victorian-era inventions transformed the world like the automobile, electric light or the movies. Others never got off the drawing board, which may be just as well.

Like a ship to roll across the seas on giant wheels. Or a bustle with a built-in chair. Or an airplane powered by eagles, or M. Carron's idiotic project to drop 15 people off the top of Paris' Eiffel Tower within a 10-ton bomb.

Queen Victoria's age never snickered at such ideas. That was the day of the lone inventor whose backroom tinkering produced radio, the telephone, the phonograph, the typewriter. In view of such miracles, everything seemed possible.

Three years ago Leonard de Vries, a Dutchman, had the happy idea of tracking down both serious and dotty inventions in the scientific literature of Victoria's time.

His compilation, "Victorian Inventions," now has been translated into English and published as a king-sized paperback. Some of its inventions have to be seen to be disbelieved.

Talking Watches

Talking pocket watches which would shout "Get up!" or "It's a quarter to twelve" at appropriate times. Californian S. R. Mathewson's steam tram car, shaped like a horse "so as not to frighten the horses in the streets." Or Daniel Ruggles' idea of making rain by attacking clouds with dynamite-filled balloons.

De Vries is full of admiration "for the ingenuity of our Victorian ancestors who ventured to create pneumatic railways ... who managed to have advertisements printed on the roadway by cycle tires or have them projected onto clouds...who described television but never saw it; who yearned to be carried aloft but never flew."

He cites a staggering list of inventions between 1865 and 1900 showing that "nearly all the inventions we use in our everyday life date from that period," from X-rays to the electric vacuum cleaner.

But the bulk of his book inevitably concerns such disasters as airships that never flew and submarines that would certainly go down but less certainly come up.

De Vries also raided scientific journals—Scientific American, the French Le Natur and the Dutch De Natuur

Four Presidents In Single Year

Gen. Alejandro Lanusse, head of a military government, was succeeded on May 25 by elected President Hector J. Campora.

Campora resigned July 13, and the office went to Raul A. Lastiri, president of the Chamber of Deputies.

On Oct. 12, Lastiri was succeeded by Juan D. Peron, winner of the special election held the previous month.

Astronauts Are In School To Learn Russian

By BRUCE E. HICKS

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI) — American astronauts are going to school to learn the Russian language — and "graduation day" will come in July, 1975. That's when an American spacecraft is scheduled to link up with a Soviet vehicle in space.

Pilot ability, engineering know-how and scientific accomplishments have carried U.S. astronauts repeatedly to the moon and back and seen them safely through hundreds of hours of orbit. But knowing how to speak Russian was not a requirement—as it is now to become.

The astronauts' fluency in the Russian language could be a vital factor in helping the Apollo-Soyuz Test Project flight run smoothly, as well as an important safety factor in case of trouble while the two spaceships are joined in flight for two days.

To Anatole Forostenko, the crewmen's chief language instructor, that flight will be particularly rewarding.

Becoming Proficient

"In a classroom, the minute the bell rings you know the students are going out the door and start speaking English again and not think about Russian until the next day when class begins," said Forostenko, a University of California, Riverside, professor on loan to the space agency.

"But with these guys, the language is not dead, it's very real and alive. You can see the immediate application during their training and during the mission, and it will prove to be the most rewarding thing I have done."

Eight astronauts are averaging more than 30 hours each a week in formal classroom instruction in Russian and most of them are spending evenings and weekends becoming more proficiency.

"Their motivation is a language teacher's dream come true," Forostenko said. "They have a complete dedication to doing the job. The goal is total learning's sake, but because they have to and are determined to do it right."

English Easier

Forostenko said the Soviet cosmonauts who are learning English in preparation for the project have a much easier time, because the Russian language is the most difficult of the major languages, much tougher for a foreigner to learn than English is. For each Russian word there are twelve possible endings, and slightly different stress when speaking can make a lot of difference in meaning.

Forostenko shares the teaching duties with Nina Horner and James Flannery of the University of Wisconsin and Basil Kostun of the University of Illinois.

The prime crewmembers—Brig. Gen. Thomas P. Stafford, Donald K. "Deke" Slayton and Vance D. Brand—and Robert Overmeyer, an astronaut who will work in Russia during the mission, spend four hours a day, at least five days a week, in the classroom. They have all had some exposure to the language.

Backup crewmen Alan L. Bean, Ronald Evans and Jack Lousma and support astronaut Karol Bobko spend six hours daily in classes because they have had little or no exposure to Russian.

Their classroom time will become more limited as the mission draws near and Forostenko hopes to teach them more than just technical language.

"They couldn't hold their own in a philosophical discussion, but we hope to teach them more of the everyday language," he said.

Cubs Earn Awards At Pack Program

The Natsihi Chapter Order of the Arrow Dance Team of the Croatan Lodge performed for Cub Pack 385 at St. James Methodist Church Tuesday night. Slides of the recent Pinewood Derby competition were also shown.

Retiring Den Leaders Becky Balentine, Patty Hodges, Ann Sneed, Martha Coffman, Charles Hollingsworth, Martha Garrett, and Peggy Smith received certificates of appreciation for their contribution to Pack activities.

Twenty-five Cubs received achievement awards. Warren Balentine, Sammy Hodges, Eric Sawyer, Greg Claud, Troy Fleming, Chris Collier, Michael Davis, Jim Swinson, Stephen West, Larry Hawkins, and Jerry Butts received Gold Arrow points.

Receiving Silver Arrow points were Michael Davis, Michael Maloney, Doug Smith, Larry Hawkins, Troy Fleming, Chris Collier, Sammy Hodges, and Greg Claud.

Sam Ward and Troy Fleming completed requirements for the Wolf badge; while Warren Balentine, Sammy Hodges, Shawn Wallace, Jerry Butts, and Larry Hawkins earned Bear awards. Webeloes Bill Hollingsworth, Chuck Coggins, Chris Smith, Billy Dough, Tony Allen, and Michael Lemmond received Scholar badges.

Jim Swinson, Stephen West, John Pringle, Doug Smith, Trey Shelton, Sam Ward, Troy Fleming, and Greg Claud received one-year service stars.

Two-year service stars were presented to Johnathan Haus, Greg Davis, John Davis, Bill Hollingsworth, Larry Hawkins, Jerry Butts, Eric Sawyer, Sammy Hodges, Warren Balentine, and Michael Lemmond.

Straight Talk About The High Cost Of Electric Energy

Questions Most Frequently Asked

Q... Why is the cost of electric energy so high?

A. Because the cost of coal and oil used to produce electricity has gone up 200 to 300 percent in the past several months. The increase in the cost of these fuels, above normal levels, is added to electric bills as a "Fossil Fuel Adjustment Charge." It is shown on your utility bill as Fuel.

Q... If coal and oil are so high, why can't we get electricity from Nuclear Power plants?

A. Greenville Utilities supplier of electricity is Virginia Electric Power Company. They generate about 23 percent of their power from nuclear plants and have more under construction. But today most of their generation is from coal and oil.

Q... Why doesn't Greenville Utilities generate its own electric power?

A. No city our size could possibly generate electricity at a cost less than we can purchase it. When we are permitted to join other cities in North Carolina and build large generation and transmission systems we will be able to produce electricity less expensively than we can buy it (EPIC Plan).

Q... Just what is a fossil fuel charge and why is it added to our regular bill?

A. Power companies across the nation are adding fossil fuel charges to their regular rates to offset the increased cost of fossil fuels, oil and coal, that are above the costs included in their regular rate schedules. These extra fuel cost charges are being passed to wholesale and retail customers. Greenville Utilities charges to its customers the same rate it must pay VEPCO. All of the fossil fuel adjustment charge (Fuel) paid to Greenville Utilities goes straight to VEPCO. Power companies say they cannot absorb this increased cost and still attract capital money needed to expand plant facilities necessary to accommodate customer load growth.

Q... Who can do something about this fossil fuel charge?

A. The Federal Power Commission, Washington, D.C., approves the rates which Greenville Utilities must pay for electric power, including the fossil fuel charge.

Q... What is Greenville Utilities doing to fight the high cost of electricity?

A. We have joined 73 other consumer owned "electric cities" in North Carolina to employ qualified attorneys, engineers, rate experts, and economists to appear before the Federal Power Commission and fight every rate increase that is unfair to us and to our customers.

Q... Isn't Greenville Utilities making excessive profits from these high electric bills?

A. No. The fossil fuel charged to our customers is paid directly to VEPCO, in the same amount we receive it. Higher bills come from higher cost, and do not generate higher profits. In fact, the fuel adjustment charge, when applied to normal distribution system losses, will increase Greenville Utilities operating expenses more than $150,000 per year.

A. CP&L's retail rates are being increased, and they also include a fuel adjustment charge. Their current retail rates are about equal to VEPCO's. CP&L's wholesale rate during 1974 will be less than VEPCO's.

Q... If Greenville can buy power cheaper from CP&L than VEPCO, why not?

A. It is easier said than done. There are laws concerning assignment of service areas. Greenville Utilities is making every reasonable effort to secure alternate sources of electric power.

Q... Are Greenville rates higher than VEPCO's retail rates?

A. No. They are the same.

Q... Will the cost of electricity this summer be even higher than present costs?

A. Yes. The summer rate scedule will go into effect July 1st. The cost this summer will probably be about 25 percent higher than last summer, depending on VEPCO's Fossil Fuel Adjustment Charge.

Q... Why are summer rates higher than winter rates?

A. First, because Greenville Utilities must pay more for electricity in the summer than winter. Second, because of the cost of extra large electric facilities needed to provide the high summer demand for electricity. Customers creating the high summer demand, and the need for greater facilities, pay accordingly.

Q... Why can't summer rates be set so the small consumer, who conserves on the use of electricity, pays less than the large user?

A. The rate for the first 600 kilowatthours (small user) are the same winter and summer. Over 600 KWH the summer rates are higher.

Q... If we are planning to add air conditioning to our home this summer, what should we do?

A. First, check with your air conditioning contractor or appliance dealer and find out how much it will cost to cool your home. They can estimate usage based on average summer temperatures and costs based on our summer rates. Second, buy the most efficient unit. Third, call our Electric Department and let them know the size unit you plan to install, and when. Fourth, pick up our booklet on "ways to save" on electric energy, which contains many practical hints on operating an air conditioning unit efficiently.

Q... How can a family afford air conditioning with costs so high?

A. Many will not be able to. With complete insulation, and setting thermostats high, some can get by. Others will have to use window fans. It will be very costly for all users.

Q... If the use of electricity is cut back sharply, will rates go up?

A. Rate increases because of limited use is not anticipated by Greenville Utilities.

Q... Why can't we have flat rates so everyone pays the same cost per kilowatthour?

A. Electric rates are designed to produce revenues in accordance with the cost to serve particular classes of users. Flat rates would not fairly distribute the actual cost of providing electric power to all consumers.

Sherwood

Two spacious bedrooms which share a complete bath are designed in the second story of the "Sherwood," perfect for creating that special privacy teenagers love. Each of the rooms, more than 20 feet long, is amply provided with huge closets and unique dormer windows to provide grace and comfort.

The charming spaciousness of this home is not confined to its second story. In addition, the "Sherwood" features two large bedrooms on the first floor. The master bedroom has two closets and shares a compartmented bath with a room designed for use as fourth bedroom or den. A linen closet opens to the hall next to the bath.

Entry is into the living room, with coat closet and wood-burning fireplace. From this pleasant room the staircase rises to the second story. Traffic flows graciously into the dining area, adjacent to a kitchen large enough to contain its own eating space. This breakfast nook overlooks the terrace, which is reached through sliding glass doors from the dining room. The basement staircase also exists from the dining room.

The delightful "Sherwood" is completed by a double garage and full basement, adding to the room of the already spacious home. Vertical siding and shingles combine with divided windows and garage door detail to create the outside warmth that is fulfilled by the unique interior plan.

Privacy and space are the keys to comfort in the charming "Sherwood," with convenience a well-attended to design element.

Attic Ventilating Fan Cuts The Energy Load

By DOROTHEA BROOKS

NEW YORK (UPI) — When outdoor temperatures soar to 90-plus, as they will be doing in most parts of the country before long, the attic space of your home may reach 130 to 150 degrees.

Whether or not you have air conditioning, it's a wise idea to do something about that heat, and one of the best things you can do is install an attic ventilating fan.

Efficient cooling, with or without air conditioning, calls for forcing the mass of superheated air out of the attic. Drawing outdoor air and "flushing" it through the attic space can reduce the downward heat flow through ceilings by more than half, according to the U.S. National Bureau of Standards.

For homes with air conditioning systems, this will reduce the energy drain since the attic ventilation cuts the load on conditioners so they no longer have to run constantly.

Simple Formula

Lowering of attic temperatures by 30 to 50 degrees will contribute greatly to the comfort of homes with no cooling system. Used properly, and in conjunction with other ventilating units, an attic fan can help keep air circulating throughout the house and bring in cool air at night.

The Home Ventilating Institute (HVI), to provide guidelines for proper attic ventilation, has established standards for certified ratings of "powered attic space ventilators" and for their selection and installation. To qualify for HVI certification a fan must be tested independently at Texas A & M University under a uniform laboratory procedure.

The standard, which applies to self-contained fan units mounted on roof or wall to ventilate attic space only, calls for ten air changes an hour or a minimum of 0.7 cubic feet per minute per square foot of attic floor area, plus 15 per cent more capacity for dark roofs.

HVI says the simple formula based on attic floor area has proved practical for houses of various sizes and shapes in various climates and there seldom is need to calculate air changes and do the often complex mathematics of figuring attic volume. Air intake vents of one square foot of free opening per 300 cfm of fan capacity are specified, so as to assure suitable movement of air.

Easily Installed

Powered attic space ventilators are equipped with thermostats, set according to manufacturer's instructions within a reasonable proximity to outside air temperatures, and control buildup and retention of heat in the structure of the house.

Although the main job of attic ventilators is to control summer heat, HVI says, they also can be used to remove water vapor which escapes from living space to the attic in winter and can cause structural damage if not controlled.

He Translates Love Letters

By STEVE WILSON

TOKYO (AP) — When it comes to international romance, Tokuji Sugaya considers himself an expert, and these days he is declaring that "the American myth is over."

He says Japan's rising wealth means that "Japanese girls no longer are anxious to marry Americans" just because the foreigners have plenty of money.

Sugaya runs a small bar in western Tokyo, where he spends much of his time counseling women about their romantic affairs and translating their love letters into English or French. The job gives him an inside look at the romantic life of many Japanese women.

He says that many of the Japanese girls, while not wanting to marry a foreigner, want to keep in touch romantically with men living overseas. The girls mostly are out to have a good time as they become increasingly liberated from traditional standards, he adds.

"One of the reasons Japanese girls chase Americans is foreign travel," he says.

"Japanese girls have enough money now to pay for (overseas) trips." And when they arrive in some foreign city they like to have a man there to show them around, Sugaya says.

Incomes in Japan have been going up by more than 10 per cent annually in the last decade, and Japan's per capita gross national product equals about $3,000.

Many young office workers or sales clerks in department stores make the equivalent of $50-75 a week. Often these comparatively unskilled workers have a surprising amount of money for traveling and the like since they frequently live in low-cost company dormitories or at home with their parents.

Sugaya is a small, solid-appearing man of 65 who began his love letter translation service after World War II in the Shibuya area of Tokyo.

Real Estate

REALTOR

A BETTER BUY

Sure-mortgage interest rates are higher than they were, but so are the market values of homes and land. Please believe me when I say that even at today's inflated prices and interest rates, real estate is a better buy than anything else you can go after with borrowed dollars.

Financing for other purchases often costs twice as much - and these things depeciate while a house usually grows in value. Check the trade-in value of your car when you turn it in for a new one. Also for the past ten years, real estate values have doubled the increase in the Dow Jones average.

In this sense, real estate is the most worth while investment you can make, and your best protection against inflation. And don't forget the priceless dividends your family will enjoy as you live in your growing investment.

Big Stake In French Vote

By GEORGE SIBERA

PARIS (UPI) — The mark cast across France by the Cross of Lorraine is growing fainter by the day.

The presidential election next Sunday, May 5, will decide whether Gaullism will survive as a political philosophy, or finally will die out.

If the successor to President Georges Pompidou is leading Gaullist candidate Jacques Chaban-Delmas, 59, then the basic tenets of Gaullist policies will continue.

If the next president is the current finance minister, Valery Giscard d'Estaing, 48, then the Gaullist star which shone over France for 16 years will dim.

If the ballot sweeps Communist-backed Socialist Francois Mitterand, 57, to power his promised political and economic changes will be so great that the Fifth Republic could give way to France's sixth republic since the fall of monarchy in 1792.

Problem Nation

In any case, France could now become a problem nation.

Gen. Charles DeGaulle, whose symbol was the double-barred Cross of Lorraine, liked to tell visitors "De Gaulle will have no successor."

But Pompidou, whose death April 2 brought on this election, took up the torch of Gaullism when the old master was eased out of power after a constitutional referendum defeat in 1969.

Pompidou soon won acclaim from the orphaned Gaullists.

Twenty-three years of work in DeGaulle's shadow taught him that in addition to the immutable law that France was first and France was best, Gaullist tactics were a mix of opportunism and day-to-day adjustment to circumstances.

Pompidou's Skill

Pompidou showed as much skill as his mentor in ruling France from June, 1969, when he replaced DeGaulle, until his death from bone cancer with two years to go to end his term.

"We must double France's economic potential in 10 years," Pompidou told his first cabinet meeting. "From an agricultural nation until recently, we must become a ranking industrial exporting power," he told Chaban-Delmas, his Premier.

"In foreign policies we will try again to keep the keel even between the two superpowerss," was his first instruction to his then foreign minister, Maurice Schumann.

Pompidou's first major decision was unpopular—he devalued the franc 11.1 per cent on Aug. 8, 1969, to boost lagging exports and give a shot to an economy still feeling the impact of the riots of 1968.

In the five years of his rule, Pompidou kept his pledge, and more—France consistently outpaced its European partners in economic growth and in 1972 became the world's third exporting nation after the United States and West Germany, getting ahead of Britain.

Reserved Domain

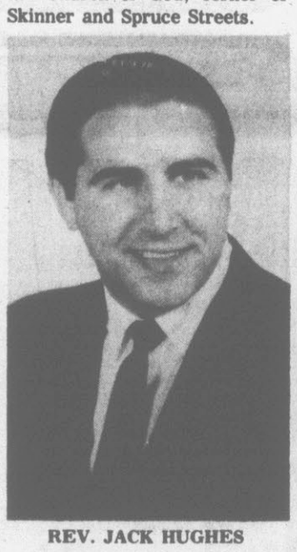
Pompidou soon was immersed in the preferred game of his predecessor—the "reserved domain" of French presidents: foreign and defense policy.

He went abroad to wave the tricolor flag. He visited the United States, Soviet Russia, various European nations and Africa. He met President Nixon and Soviet leaders twice in little summits to try to keep France's position as a junior equal of the two superpowers.

"We must turn Europe into a great power," Pompidou said in 1969 after dropping France's veto against Britain's move into Europe. He organized three European community summits but the refusal of Britain, West Germany and The Netherlands to back France's acerbic criticism of Washington, plus discord arising from the fuel crisis, had left the community's common policies in shambles at Pompidou's death. What the new president will do about this is one of the big questions to be answered in the months ahead.

Will Speak For Revival

The Rev. Jack Hughes, formerly of South Carolina, will begin a revival tonight at 7:30 at the Church of God, corner of Skinner and Spruce Streets.



REV. JACK HUGHES

According to the pastor, the Rev. R. W. Tedder, a closing date for the revival has not been set.

Hughes is now serving as state evangelist of the Churches of God for the state of North Carolina

Buckley Still Believes In Resignation

By DONALD J. LAMBRO

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. James L. Buckley says his call for President Nixon to resign because of Watergate has hurt him badly among the conservative constituency from which he draws his strongest support.

But despite an avalanche of mail that ran 3 to 1 against his March 19 statement, Buckley insists his decision was right and that his judgment will be vindicated in the end.

The Conservative-Republican, in an interview with UPI, said he knew in advance that many New York voters would oppose his action, "but I wasn't prepared for the intensity of the responses—the expletives."

"There was the feeling that I had sold out to the enemy," Buckley said, "that I wouldn't even give Nixon due process of law. What hurts is that the antis come from my basic constituency. If I were facing re-election today, it would have a very bad effect."

The freshman senator—who said Nixon's resignation would pull the country "out of the Watergate swamp"—said his morale sank "very low" as more than 18,000 cards and letters poured into his office in the days after his statement.

Unhappy Honor

Fellow GOP lawmakers dropped notes on his Senate desk saying in effect, "I fundamentally disagree with your statement." One House Republican sent him a terse note: "I may vomit."

Most state GOP party leaders also opposed his action. Wrote one county leader, "Dumb, dumb, dumb."

"But somebody had to say something first and I had the unhappy honor," Buckley said. "I've brooded about this since January."

In his statement, Buckley said Nixon's resignation was the "one way and one way only by which the crisis can be resolved" because the President had been "stripped of his credibility. I don't think he is capable of carrying forward the mandate given him by his re-election."

Buckley also said an impeachment proceeding would tear the country apart:

Prisoner In The Dock

"The ruler of the mightiest nation on earth would be starred as the prisoner in the dock. The (Senate) chamber would become a 20th Century Roman Coliseum as the performers are thrown to the electronic lions. The most sordid dregs dug up by the Watergate miners would inflame the passions of the domestic audieneum as the performers are thrown to the electronic lions. The most sordid dregs dug up by in the calm of his office, Buckley thinks the thrust of his statement "didn't get across"—that Nixon "has lost his full capacity to be chief executive."

"The overriding national interest of having a fully effective President is far more important to me than is the question of his guilt or innocence," he said.

Did he win any converts in the Senate?

"I know that there are certain people in the Senate who have not spoken out who are sympathetic with my position," he said. "I have caused people to think of the President's Watergate problems in a narrower perspective—and that is whether or not he is capable of acting effectively.

Right Decision

Buckley stressed that resignation would not prevent a determination of Nixon's guilt or innocence because if he steps down, "he becomes immediately subject to the judicial process. All the facts will come out."

Looking ahead, the 51-year-old brother of conservative writer William F. Buckley Jr. believes that, when he faces re-election in 1976, "everything will be in perspective. I think my decision was the right one."

Buckley is the second GOP senator to call for Nixon's resignation. Sen. Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., urged Nixon to step down last Nov. 4. But Buckley is a member of the Senate's conservative bloc, the very rock of Nixon's support in the chamber.

"This could be the first of many cracks in the dike," one conservative GOP senator remarked privately at the time of Buckley's announcement. So far, however, no one else has followed his example.

Advice to Nixon

Buckley said his advice to Nixon would be "to make every bit of information available that is relevant, unless national security is involved, and to waive executive privilege."

Nixon's Chief of Staff, Alexander Haig, tried to reach Buckley by phone just minutes before the Senator issued his call for the President to step down. Buckley returned the call after the news conference but Haig said only that "I'm sorry I couldn't reach you before your news conference."

A week later, Buckley received a letter from Nixon on an unrelated subject he had raised with the President prior to the March 19 statement.

It was signed, "Best regards, Richard Nixon."

Lunchroom menu for the coming week at Greenville elementary schools has been announced as follows:

Tuesday—meat loaf, whipped potatoes, green beans, biscuit, gelatin, milk;

Wednesday—fried chicken, rice and gravy, peas, carrot sticks, rolls, cranberry crunch, milk;

Thursday—pizza, tossed salad, fruit crisp, milk;

Plan Bilingual Classes In Fall

AUSTIN, Tex. (UPI) — Texas' public schools will offer bilingual classes this fall to 40,000 first graders with little or no knowledge of English.

The state legislature last year passed a new law requiring every school district in the state with an enrollment of 20 or more non-English speaking children in any grade level to offer bilingual instruction.

A shortage of Spanish-speaking and other dual-language certified teachers is expected to be a major problem the first year, according to officials of the Texas Education Agency.

Pirates Sweep VMI; Claim Championship

LEXINGTON, Va.—Remember back a few years when the East Carolina Baseball team won a string of championships on a series of even numbered years? Well it's 1974, an even numbered year and the Pirates have another Southern Conference Championship.

The Pirates won the league crown yesterday when they beat Virginia Military Institute, 7-1, in the first game of a twin-bill. All the Bucs needed was one of the pair to clinch it and they took both.

In their total 61 times at bat, Saturday, the Pirate slammed 27 hits, four of them doubles, a triple and a home run. That gave the Pirates a .443 batting average for the day.

Dave (Doc) LaRussa won the first game for the Pirates as he pitched his fifth win of the year. He struck out five, walked two and gave up six hits. Wayne Bland won the nightcap going five and two-thirds innings without giving up a hit. The Keydets finally got to him for three but it did little good as the Bucs won it, 8-2. Bland fanned four and walked two.

ECU spotted the Keydets a run in the first frame of the opening contest. Bobby McQueen singled but was forced at second by Donny Ross. An error on the play moved Ross to second and after Lou Dowdy walked, Scott Woods singled to load the bases. The ball got away from the Pirate center-fielder after the hit letting Ross score the only VMI run of the game.

The Pirates finally broke through in the third as they ripped VMI's Pate for five runs. Ronnie Leggett, Rich McMahon, Jeff Beaston, Russ Smith, and Ron Staggs led off the inning with singles to bring in the first four Pirate runs. Mike Hogan singled but Staggs was forced at third. Hogan stole second and scored on as single by John Narron.

ECU came back with another run in the fourth, as Leggett singled, stole second and scored on a hit by McMahon.

East Carolina finished off the game with another run in the seventh. Staggs walked but was forced at second by Carl Summerell. Narron got an infield hit moving Summerell to second and a single by Bobby Harrison brought in Summerell.

Hogan, Staggs, Narron and McMahon each had two hits. Leggett led the team in the first game with three.

The Pirates pushed over a run in the first of the afterpiece. Smith singled and took second on a wild pitch. Staggs grounded out moving Smith to third and after Hogan walked, Summerell doubled to score Smith.

The Pirates came up with four more in the fourth. Hogan led off with a single and Summerell drove him in with his third double of the day. Narron walked and Leggett singled in both Summerell and Narron. Two outs later, Beaston tripled to score Leggett.

VMI got a run off Bland in the bottom of the fourth without a hit. McQueen walked and stole second. Dowdy laid down a sacrifice bunt on which McQueen scored.

East Carolina got it back in the fifth. Summerell walked and Narron got a hit. An outfield error on the single let Summerell score.

In the sixth, Beaston slammed a home run following a single by McMahon. Smith singled and Staggs doubled but a strike out ended the inning.

VMI got its last run in the seventh. McQueen scored on a passed ball.

Smith had three hits in the second game while Beaston and Summerell had two apiece. The Pirates return home to close out their season with a four-game series. Monday they host The Citadel, Friday Campbell, Sunday UNC-Wilmington and Tuesday, May 7, Pembroke.

East Carolina Gridders Look Forward To Purple-Gold Game

East Carolina University's Pirates went through a brief and light workout Saturday afternoon and began looking forward to next Saturday's Purple-Gold game which would close out the spring drills.

The Bucs have two more days of work left prior to the game. Wednesday, Coach Pat Dye will pick two offensive people and two defensive ones, and allow them to choose up sides among the rest of the available players. The coaching staff will then be divided also for the coaching duties.

The game will be held Saturday night at 7:30 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium.

"We've had a heck of a spring practice," Dye said Saturday, "and this is going to bear fruit in the fall. We've done a lot of contact work, and I don't believe the players have done this much before. We've also spent a lot of time on the field—timewise.

"But there is no way to polish the offense in practice without a lot of hitting. We had to do a lot of scrimmaging to give our quarterbacks game type work."

Dye noted that the team is awfully tired and quite beat up. But at the same time, he said that he expects this in the spring. "We're going to have tough springs that will make us winners in the fall. You have to find out who the winners are, and for the most part we have."

Some of those Dye calls winners won't be playing Saturday night because of injuries. These include Kenny Strayhorn, Mike Weaver, Gary Niklason, Danny Kepley, Nelson Strother and Mike Shea. "They proved themselves before they got hurt. And I'm not worried about their missing the game.

"I am anxious to see what some of the others can do," he added.

Dye praised both his staff and the players for the job they've done this spring. "The coaches have done a heck of a job teaching the offense and defense. And you realize that we've made a complete change in both. They did an excellent job of handling it.

"And the players have done an outstanding job of learning what to do as well as executing."

Looking past the spring game toward next fall, Dye noted that the offensive line is very young, over half freshmen, and that they must mature and come back as grown men in the fall. "They haven't worked against proven competition, and this has handicapped us to some extent," Dye said. "Getting them set and finding overall depth will be our number one objectives in the fall. We have some good freshmen coming in, but I don't know how much help they'll be right away."

"We also need a quarterback to step up and take command in that position," the coach added.

But he is encouraged by the spring and listed those he feels have proven themselves as the type who can win.

"If we had to start tomorrow and everyone was healthy, we'd probably have Vic Wilfore and Theodore Ashford at split end, with Mike Shea and Benny Gibson at tight end.

The tackle would come from Rick Bennett, Jake Dove and Larry Lundy. The guards would be Jimbo Walker, Greg Harbough and Randy Parrish. Tim Hightower and Ted O'Neal would handle the center.

The quarterback position saw Mike Weaver have the best spring with Tom Chipok and Bob Bailey behind him "in that order," Dye said. Stuart Haithcock also did well, but was handicapped by injuries.

"Don Schink was the best back of the spring," Dye said, then added that Tom Daub had also looked good at the fullback spot. Halfbacks who were singled out included Bobby Myrick ("excellent work didn't miss a day") Jesse Ingram ("most consistant"), Jimmy Howe, Raymond Jones and Al Boudreau before he was hurt all looked good and Dye feels he has the backs to run the option.

On defense, Dye has liked the looks of Butch Strawderman, Kepley, Niklason, Strother and Billy Hibbs. "Steve Mulder can be a winner and has done real well the last two weeks. He could be a starter." Dye said. Also a walkon, Bob Gutowski, has stood out at linebacker.

In the line, Dye feels he had three outstanding players in Kenny Moore, Cary Godette and Buddy Lowry. Behind them are two who have done well, Bob Brandon and Nick Bullock.

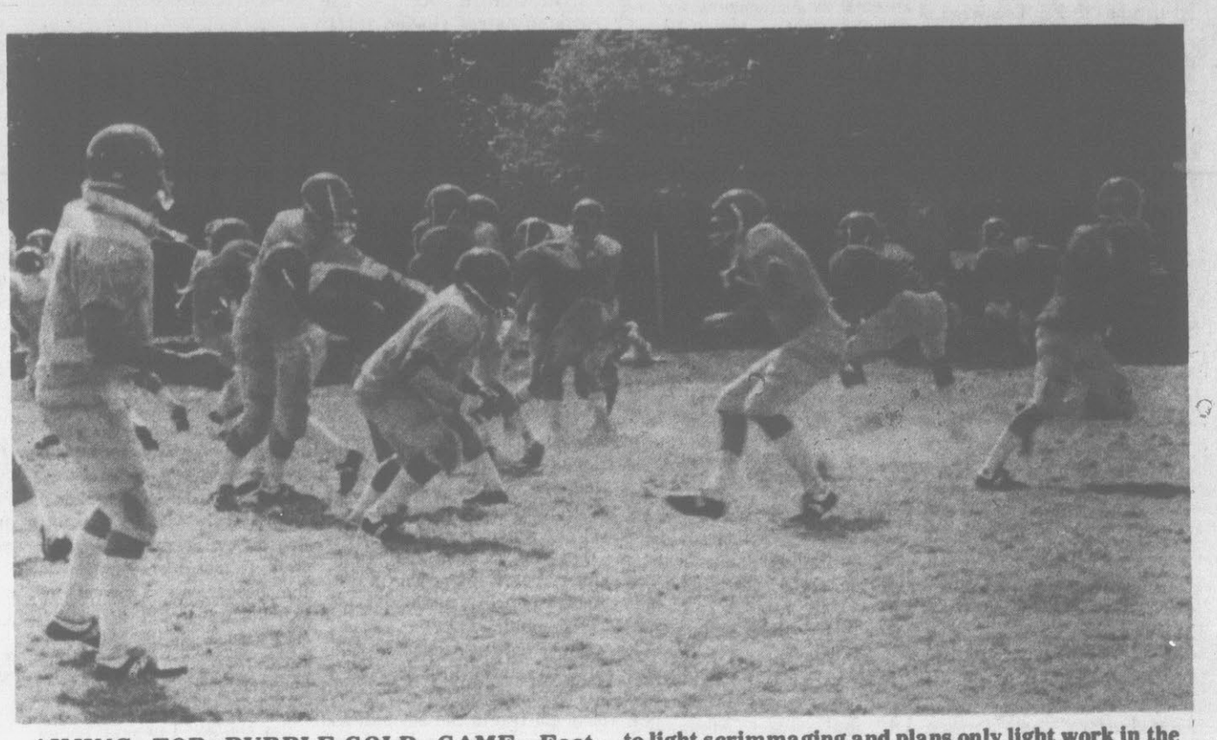
"Willie Bryant and Eric Miller are a couple of others who could do a fine job in the line, and we could move Bryant to offense," the coach said.

Reggie Pinkney and Ernest Madison have handled the corners in the secondary, with Jim Bolding and Greg Pingston at the safeties.

Kicking didn't get as much attention as Dye would have liked, but he feels good about the punting of Gil Job and Jonathan Deming. Jim Woody is handling kickoffs and extra points.

"It's been a good spring," Dye said. "We'll probably start earlier next year. But it'll be a hard spring then. I don't believe that spring practice should be fun."

The fun, Dye obviously believes, comes in the fall when the hard work pays off in victories.



AIMING FOR PURPLE-GOLD GAME—East Carolina's Pirates went through their final drills Saturday as they prepared for next Saturday's Purple-Gold game. Coach Pat Dye limited the drills to light scrimmaging and plans only light work in the two drills prior to the spring drill ending contest. That game will be played Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium. (Reflector Photo)

Svare Takes Blame After NFL Fines Chargers For Drug Use

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Coach Harland Svare of the San Diego Chargers takes the blame for violations of the National Football League's drug policy which resulted in $40,000 in fines for apparent marijuana use.

"I was responsible for everything that went on with the San Diego Charger football team," said Svare, contacted in Minnesota. "I was not aware of the severity of the problem. I really didn't believe it, but I was responsible. I accept the discipline."

"Everybody knows we're talking about marijuana," Svare said. NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle, who announced the fines Friday, declined to state what kind of drugs were involved.

Rozelle said the personnel named for violating the league's newly-strengthened drug policy were placed on probation.

Charger owner Eugene Klein, who was fined $20,000, said, "I hope this is an example to everyone in football. A strong stand was necessary."

The disciplining of the Chargers was the first action taken since the league announced its new drug policy last June. Svare, who coached the Chargers for half of last season before becoming general manager, was fined $5,000.

Defensive end Deacon Jones and linebacker Tim Rossovich were fined $3,000 each; wide receiver Jerry Levias and defensive linemen Coy Bacon and Dave Costa, $2,000 each; and linebacker-coach Rick Redman, running back Bob Thomas and guard Walt Sweeney, $1,000 each.

Sweeney, the only player who commented on the fines, was traded to the Washington Redskins after last season. "I'm appalled," he said. "I haven't done anything illegal. Happily, I'm no longer connected with them (the Chargers)."

It has, however, been reported that the players, their attorneys, and the NFL Players Association were notified before Rozelle made the announcement, and there was no talk of opposing the punishments.

In imposing the fines, Rozelle said Svare was fined "for failure to exercise proper supervisory controls" and Klein "for supervisory omissions by the Chargers' administrative staff."

The 1973 season was a bad year for the Chargers on the gridiron as they compiled their worst-ever record of 2-11-1.

The Chargers' new coach, Tommy Prothro, said the team will tighten its policy on drugs.

"Not all of these players are with us now, and others will be gone before we start the season," he said. "Those who we feel are rehabilitated and still with us this summer will be replaced if they show signs of continuing their past habits."

Martin Gets Old Heave-Ho

NEW YORK (AP) — Manager Billy Martin and infielder Leo Cardenas of the Texas Rangers were ejected by umpire Joe Brinkman just before the start of Saturday's game with the New York Yankees.

Cardenas, who was in the Rangers' third-base dugout, was thrown out by third base umpire Joe Brinkman for heckling from the bench. Martin then came out and, after a brief talk, Brinkman threw Martin out, too. Martin then kicked dirt over the umpire's shoes and trousers before leaving.

Martin said later that Brinkman turned to the Rangers' dugout and said, "Tovar, you're out of the game," mistaking Cardenas for outfielder Cesar Tovar. Martin said Brinkman kept referring to Cardenas as Tovar.

Martin had words with Brinkman throughout Friday night's 4-3 loss which Brinkman umpired at home plate.

State Lone Undefeated Team In ACC Field; Meets Clemson

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) Tim Stoddard tossed a five-hitter Saturday as North Carolina State beat Virginia, 3-1, to remain undefeated in the double elimination Atlantic Coast Conference baseball tournament.

Smiley Sanders hit three home runs as once-beaten Clemson, the regular season ACC champ, eliminated North Carolina, 6-4, and then Virginia, 9-6, in the day's two other games.

The two victories earned Clemson the right to meet N.C. State for the championship. The Tigers, however, will have to beat State twice Sunday to win the title in the double elimination.

Stoddard, a starting foward on the national champion Wolfpack basketball team, outdueled Virginia's Scott Gardner in a tight pitching battle. Gardner is the Cavaliers' quarterback in football season.

State got its runs in the 3rd, 4th and 7th innings. The first came after Monte Towe, another basketball star, singled. Centerfielder Rick Riester slugged a triple to drive Towe home.

State first baseman Dan Zagorski homered over the centerfield fence with no one on for the eventual winning run in the fourth. And, the Wolfpack added its final run after three seventh-inning singles.

Virginia got its only run after three singles in the ninth. The loss sent the Cavaliers into the losers bracket.

Clemson, meanwhile, exploded for four runs in the second inning to eliminate North Carolina, which lost Friday to N.C. State.

The North Carolina lead was short-lived, however, as Mike Pulaski slammed John Danneman's first pitch for a homer to tie the score. In the second, Clemson went ahead to stay on five singles, one error and a sacrifice fly by Pulaski. Sanders hit a solo home run in the fifth after North Carolina narrowed the lead to 5-3.

In the day's last game, Sanders pounded two more homers as Clemson eliminated Virginia, 9-6, in a battle of once-beatens. The Tigers had lost Friday to the Cavaliers.

Clemson jumped on Virginia pitchers Dave LaCross and and Bob Ellis for eight runs in the first four innings. Terry Armstrong's long single with the bases loaded in the first drove of three of them and Sanders' first homer of the game added another.

Charles Sweeps Into Champs Tourney Lead

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

CARLSBAD, Calif. (AP) — Bob Charles, a thin left-hander from New Zealand, came from seven strokes off the pace with a 67, swept past faltering Buddy Allin, and assumed the lead Saturday after the third round of golf's $200,000 Tournament of Champions.

Charles, a dark, dour man who became eligible for this elite event with his recent victory in the Greensboro Open, put together a 54-hole total of 209, seven under par, on the warm and sunny La Costa Country Club course.

Allin, the skinny, little redhead who had led the first two rounds, blew a four-stroke advantage and drifted back to second. He bogeyed three holes in a row beginning on the 15th and took a disappointing 75.

He was one behind at 210 going into the last round of this tournament that brings together only the winners of pro golf tour events for the last 12 months.

Johnny Miller, the U.S. Open champion and winner of four titles already this season, was tied with Hubert Green and John Mahaffey at 211, just two shots back. Miller had a 67, Green a six-under-par 66, and Mahaffey 71.

Defending champion Jack Nicklaus got into the scramble with a 69 and a 212 total, only three strokes back.

"A couple of strokes better today," Nicklaus mused. "Now, maybe a couple or three strokes better tomorrow and maybe we can make it a little interesting."

He was tied with Billy Casper and Australian Bruce Crampton. Casper had a 68 and Crampton a 69.

Lee Trevino, who has had three second-place finishes in this tournament that he ranks among the world's most important, fell still further back.

Trevino, who predicted as late as last Wednesday that he'd win by six shots, had a 75 and was last—by six shots—in the field of 25 players with a 228 total.

For the first time in two decades, Arnold Palmer failed to qualify for this tournament, Masters champion Gary Player had a previous commitment in Japan and was unable to compete.

Charles, generally acknowledged as one of the world's finest putters, used his deft-and-delicate touch on the greens to forge into the lead. He needed only 28 strokes on the crusty, bumpy putting surfaces and said:

"My score certainly was built around my putting. It was a very good putting round. I didn't miss anything that I felt I should have made."

He one-putted six times on the front nine alone, twice dropping 15-footers for birdies and holing another of some 25 feet. His other bird on that nine—which he played in four under par 32—came after a little wedge shot left him a six-footer.

He birdied the 13th after hitting a nine iron about a yard from the cup, bogeyed the 16th from a bunker and holed another 15 footer putt for a birdie on the 17th.

Allin reeled off a string of 14 consecutive pars before running into trouble. He three-putted both the 15th and 16th for bogeys, hit his second shot in the water and bogeyed the 17th and—after the national television cameras had cut away— had to sink a five-foot putt for par on the 18th.

Appalachian State Takes S.C. Tennis

BOONE, N.C. (AP) — Regular season titlist Applachian State ended a nine-year Davidson-Furman domination of the Southern Conference tennis tournament Saturday by taking the top three singles and two doubles titles for the 1974 championship.

ASU scored 22 points to 17 for second place Furman. William and Mary finished third 11 points followed by defending champion Davidson with 6. The Citadel was fifth with 4, Richmond sixth with 3, and VMI and East Carolina were scoreless.

Davidion had taken seven titles and Furman 2 in the past nine years.

The Mountaineers clinched the crown by capturing the no. 1 and no. 2 doubles finals following three singles titles Saturday morning.

ASU's top team of Keith Richardson and John Geraghty took their 23rd straight win of the season in beating William and Mary's Ford Robinette and Chip King, 6-2 6-1.

In the no. 2 doubles, ASU's Rich Keller and Roger Neely defeated The Citadel's Mike Martin and Bob Kerbo, 6-2, 6-4.

Earlier, Appalachian's Richardson got revenge for his only loss of the year by beating Furman's Dave Holly 6-4, 6-4 to claim the singles title.

Richardson became the first player in 10 years and the fourth ever to win back-to-back singles titles in the league.

His victory was the only one for Appalachian in its four singles duels with Furman in the finals. The Paladins captured the nos. 4, 5 and 6 titles.

Jim Hall took ASU's Roger Neely at No. 4, 7-5, 7-6; Jeff Maddox beat ASU's David Rouse for No. 5, 6-2, 7-6; and Mark Stone topped ASU's Don Eason for No. 6, 7-5, 6-3.

Appalachian maintained a two-point advantage over Furman at 18-16 by taking nos. 2 and 3 in the singles championships.

Freshman John Geraghty brought his season record to 25-0 in downing Richmsond's Dave Snidow 6-2, 6-3 for the No. 2 spot. Rich Keller defeated William and Mary's Charlie Blumberg for the No. 3 crown 6-3 and 6-4.

Doubles finals were played Saturday afternoon.

Miller Jump Into Tallahassee Lead

By JOHN SKINNER

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — Allen Miller birdied the final three holes Saturday for a five-under-par 67 to retain a two-stoke lead after three rounds of the $90,000 Tallahassee Open Golf Tournament.

Veteran Dan Sikes matched Miller's round to take sole possession of second place with a 54-hole total of 203 on the par 72, 7,124-yard Killearn Golf and Country Club course.

Two young pros made hard charges to go 12-under par at 204. Joe Inman, seven strokes off the pace beginning the day, broke the course record with a scorching nine-under 63 and Mark Hayes had a six-under 66.

At 205 were Jim Simons, Jim Dent and Bruce Devlin. In at 206 were Gil Morgan, Tom Watson and Eddie Pearce.

"I couldn't get any putts to the hole when I was starting out," said Miller, who had fallen out of the lead until his late charge. He had made his first bogey of the event two holes before starting his move.

The 25-year-old Pensacola, Fla., pro's round included two birdie putts of 40 feet and one of 30 feet.

"My game is where it should have been four years ago," he said.

Inman and Hayes shared golf-pro duties while stationed in the Army at Ft. Jackson, S.C.

Hayes, 24, a rookie on the Professional Golfers Association tour from Lutz, Fla., finished fourth in the Bob Hope Desert Classic this year while Inman, 26, of Greensboro, N.C., has never finished higher than 13th.

Inman credited his success to talking Friday night with his wife Nancy, who had been away from him for two weeks because of open-heart surgery on her father.

"It's hard to play without her," he said, adding that he had missed the cut last week at the Pensacola Open for the first time this year.

"I've been kind of disorganized without her," Inman said. "You just can't play good every week because the game is too mental. If something's bothering you, it's hard to play."

Sikes, 44, of Jacksonville, Fla., hasn't had a bogey in the tournament.

"It might be the most days I've every played without a bogey," he said.

He said he found himself "overcharging" on putts during the early holes but settled down after telling himself, "You can't win on Saturday."

The tournament, worth $18,000 to the winner, is scheduled to end Sunday.

Saturday Baseball Roundup

Indians, 6-0

CLEVELAND (AP) — Charlie Spikes, hitting safely in his 16th consecutive game, doubled and homered, driving in two runs in support of Jim Perry's four-hit pitching as the Cleveland Indians beat the California Angels 6-0 Saturday.

Oscar Gamble cracked a two-run homer as the Indians wrapped it up with four runs in the eighth.

Spikes clubbed his fourth homer of the baseball season, a solo shot in the seventh inning off loser Bill Stoneman, for Cleveland's second run. His double following Gamble's single gave the Indians a 1-0 lead in the second.

The Indians picked up their other runs off Skip Lockwood in the eighth. Jack Brohamer singled with two out, pinch runner Angel Hermoso stole second and Buddy Bell walked.

John Ellis singled for one run and another scored on left fielder Joe Lahoud's throwing error before Gamble socked his second home run of the year.

Rangers, 6-1

NEW YORK (AP) — Consecutive run-scoring hits by Alex Johnson, Jeff Burroughs, Jim Spencer and Mike Hargrove in the third inning sparked the Texas Rangers to a 6-1 triumph over the New York Yankees Saturday.

Nineteen-year-old David Clyde pitched a seven-hitter for his first victory of the baseball season.

The Rangers led 1-0 when Dave Nelson opened the third with a single off loser Pat Dobson, stole second and moved to third on an infield out.

Johnson then smashed a single off Dobson's glove, Burroughs doubled Johnson home, Spencer followed with a bloop hit to right which skidded past Lou Piniella for a triple and Hargrove singled for the final run.

The Rangers got their first run in the second on singles by Spencer and Hargrove and Joe Lovitto's fielder's choice grounder. They added an unearned run in the fifth against newly-acquired Dick Tidrow on Spencer's pop fly double, an infield out and a throwing error by catcher Thurman Munson.

Clyde surrendered New York's run in the fourth on singles by Graig Nettles and Chris Chambliss, another new acquisition, and Bill Sudakis' sacrifice fly, on which center fielder Lovitto made a great diving catch.

Brewers, 9-0

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — Jim Slaton had a no-hitter going for five innings and finished with a four-hitter, leading the Milwaukee Brewers to an 9-0 victory over the Minnesota Twins Saturday.

Slaton had allowed only two walks before Eric Soderholm opened the sixth inning with an infield single. Jerry Terrell grounded a single to left later in the inning, but Slaton, 2-2, pitched out of trouble.

The Brewers, held hitless by Joe Decker the first two innings, ripped him for five hits in the third frame. Pedro Garcia, Robin Yount and Don Money singled with none out for one run. John Briggs' double, George Scott's single and Dave May's fielder's choice bouncer scored three more runs.

Scott slugged a two-run homer, his first of the baseball season, in the fifth to finish Decker, 2-1.

Royals, 5-2

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Fran Healy capped a four-run outburst in the first inning with a two-run homer and the Kansas City Royals went on to a 10-3 victory over the Boston Red Sox Saturday.

With the Royals trailing 2-0, Fred Patek opened the Kansas City first with a single and went to second on Juan Marichal's balk. Cookie Rojas singled, and Patek scored when shortstop Mario Guerrero threw wild to third.

The Red Sox reached Al Fitzmorris, 2-0, for two runs in the first. Doug Griffin extended his hitting streak to 14 games with a one-out single, went to second on a grounder and to third on a wild pitch. After Carl Yastrzemski walked, Danny Cater doubled just inside the third base line, scoring Griffin and Yastrzemski.

Dwight Evans doubled for Boston with nobody out in the seventh and scored when Patek made a bad throw to first for an error on pinch-hitter Rico Petrocelli's ground ball.

Healy contributed a run-scoring double as the Royals came up with five more runs in the eighth.

Astro, 10-7

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Houston Astros chased Pittsburgh's Bob Moose with five runs in the first inning and went on to defeat the Pirates 10-7 Saturday in a nationally televised baseball game.

Moose got just one batter out before leaving after being racked for four hits and a walk.

Greg Gross and Roger Metzger led off with singles and Cesar Cedeno doubled home the first run. Bob Watson was intentionally walked, Lee May drove in a run with a forceout and Milt May's infield single made it 3-0 and kayoed Moose.

John Morlan relieved and walked Doug Rader. Tommy Helms singled for the fourth run and winning pitcher Tom Griffin drove in the fifth run with an infield out.

The Astros cushioned their victory with two runs in the third, two in the sixth and one in the eighth.

The Pirates reached Griffin for a run in the first on a run-scoring single by Dave Parker. They got two in the seventh on a two-run homer by Al Oliver, one in the eighth and three in the ninth.

The Pirates finally chased Griffin in the eighth after the first three batters reached base. Richie Zisk was safe on an error by third baseman Rader and went to second on a wild pitch. Manny Sanguillen and Frank Taveras then singled for a run that made the score 10-4.

In the ninth, the Pirates reached Johnson for three runs before he was bailed out by Ken Forsch.

Giants, 11-3

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Giants scored four runs in the third inning, two on a four-base error by New York center fielder Dave Schneck, and went on to beat the Mets 11-3 Saturday.

Ken Rudolph started the Giants' third-inning uprising with a leadoff single, the first hit off loser Craig Swan, who was making his first start of the season.

With two out, Schneck started in for Bruce Miller's long drive and then fell down as he tried to backtrack, the ball going for a run-scoring triple. Miller scored on Garry Maddox' single and Bobby Bonds then hit a towering fly to right-center. Schneck and Rusty Staub brushed against each other and the ball glanced off Schneck's glove as both runners circled the bases.

The Mets got a run off John D'Acquisto in the fourth on John Milner's homer and chased the rookie right-hander in favor of Elias Sosa with a run in the fifth on a walk, sacrifice and Cleon Jones' single.

Dodgers, 5-2

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ron Cey and Bill Russell slugged home runs and Al Downing and Mike Marshall combined on a four-hitter, leading the Los Angeles Dodgers to a 5-2 victory over the Montreal Expos Saturday.

Downing, 1-2, who hurled the first seven innings, nearly failed to survive the first when the Expos loaded the bases with none out. He got out of it by striking out Hal Breeden and getting Ken Singleton to ground into a double play.

Los Angeles was held scoreless on two hits by Steve Rogers until the fifth when a single by Willie Crawford, double by Steve Garvey and walk to Joe Ferguson loaded the bases with no one out. Crawford scored the Dodgers' first run when third baseman Ron Hunt booted Russell's bouncer and Downing's sacrifice fly made it 2-0.

Cey slugged a two-run homer, his first of the baseball season, in the sixth with Bill Buckner aboard.

Braves, 5-2

ATLANTA (AP) — Darrell Evans, pitcher Roric Harrison and Dusty Baker belted home runs Saturday, powering the Atlanta Braves to a 5-2 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Evans, breaking out of an 0-for-11 slump, smacked his third homer of the year over the right field fence in the first inning and rapped a run-scoring single to right in the fifth after Ralph Garr had tripled.

Harrison, 2-3, hit his first homer of the baseball season and the fourth of his career in the third, a 390-foot blast over the left field fence.

Harrison pitched out of trouble in each of the first four innings when the Cubs stranded two runners each time.

Eight Teams Advance In Softball Tournament In Saturday's Action

Eight teams advanced to the quarterfinals of the Greenville Recreation Department's Pre-Season Softball Tournament yesterday.

The eight winners, Talbott, Pier 5, Oakmont, Kentucky Fried Chicken, Shirley's, the Jaycees, Trinity and the Little Sluggers played this afternoon in the quarter-, semi-, and finals of the tournament.

Trinity advanced with a 15-11 victory over St. James. Trinity pushed over six runs in the first inning to take the lead and added four in the second, one in the third, three in the fourth and one in the sixth. St. James got one in the first, three in the second, five in the sixth and two in the seventh.

The Jaycees moved up with a 30-7 romp over Arlington St. The Jaycees spotted Arlington St. a run in the top of the first, but came back for five in the bottom of the first. They added four in the second, five in the third and five more in the fourth, then got nine in the fifth. They closed with two in the sixth. Arlington added two in the third, one in the fourth and three in the fifth.

Shirley's nipped Carolina Dairy, 12-10, in its game. Carolina Dairy got one in the top of the first, but Shirley's came back with five in the bottom of the frame for the lead for good. They added four in the second, one in the fifth and two more in the sixth. The Dairy got three more in the second, in the fourth and two in the seventh.

Oakmont gained a 13-4 win over the Daily Reflector. The Reflector scored in the second, but Oakmont came up with six in the third for the lead. They got one in the fourth, two in the fifth and four in the sixth to wrap it up. The Reflector added two in the sixth and one in the seventh.

Talbott beat Grace in a 21-10 game. Talbott pushed over four in the second, but Grace came back with eight in the bottom of the frame. They added two more in the fifth, but by then Talbott had scored one in the third, five in the fourth and four in the fifth for the lead. They picked up three more in the sixth and four in the seventh.

Kentucky Fried Chicken took a 10-4 win over Parker's. Parker's got a run in the first, but KFC took the lead with two in the second. Parker's tied it up with one in the third, but KFC went ahead for good with three in the third. They added one in the fourth and four in the fifth, while Parker's got one more in the fifth.

In the final game, Pier 5 downed Morgan Printers, 9-3. Pier 5 got the lead with three in the first, then got one in the third. They scored two in the fourth and three in the sixth, leading all the way. Morgan Printers picked up two in the fourth and one in the fifth.

Little Sluggers gained a bye to the semi-finals.

Jaguars Get Win

WHEAT SWAMP—Farmville Central solidified its hold on first place in the Eastern Carolina Conference with a 7-3 romp over North Lenoir Saturday.

The Jaguars pushed over three runs in the top of the first. Jeff Cobb and Ed Wells both walked, scoring when Tommy Cobb doubled. Cobb, however, was thrown out stealing. Bobby Wooten then singled and came in when Tony Oakley got a double.

North Lenoir came up with two in the bottom of the frame, both coming in on a single by Freddie Jones.

Farmville pushed over three more in the third inning. Wells singled and Tommy Cobb walked. Barry Johnson got a double, driving in Wells. Oakley then singled in both Cobb and Johnson.

North Lenoir picked up its third run in the fourth. Mike Brown got the hit that brought the runner across.

The final Farmville run came in the seventh. Cobb doubled and scored on Johnson's single.

The win boosted the Farmville Central record to 9-2, while North Lenoir is now 4-6.

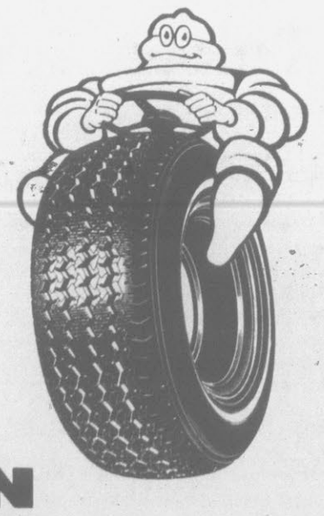
In tires, it's not the price you pay. It's how often you pay it.



This steel-belted Radial Tire carries the Michelin Warranty* for 40,000 miles on the original tread. (Many owners get much more.) Puncture resistant Michelins give precise steering, and smooth driving comfort. So stop in and start saving today.

40,000 MILE WARRANTY
"Michelin's Warranty for X Radial Highway Passenger Tire shown here covers tread life, normal road hazards (excluding repairable punctures) and defects in workmanship and materials for 40,000 miles, when tire is used on passenger vehicles in normal service in continental United States, except Alaska. Credit or refund (at Michelin's option) is equal to current actual selling price multiplied by percentage of warranted mileage not run on tire."

Think Radial... and Look to the Leader
MICHELIN

The Gas Savers
Because of the lower rolling resistance of Michelin "X" radials over conventional bias ply tires, you might get as much as 10% savings over your present gas consumption. This means more miles per gallon of gas. It means extra dollars in your pocket.

Farmville Nips Rose In Pitt Track

Ronnie Wilkes, winning three events, led Farmville Central to victory in the Pitt County Track Meet held Friday at East Carolina University's track.

The victory marked the first time that any of the four county schools had taken the championship away from Rose High School. Farmville Central finished the meet with 98½ points, while Rose was just three points back with 95½.

Conley finished in third place with 24 points, while Ayden-Grifton collected 21 and North Pitt had 11. Some of the teams, however, were not at their full strength for the meet.

The Rampants, for instance, were hurt by the loss of Doug Paschal, their shot and discus man, who injured his leg Thursday, and was unable to compete. "I think that would have made a difference in the outcome," Rose Coach Bud Phillips said afterwards.

Five meet records were broken, and one other was tied during the afternoon.

Wilkes, who won three events, set two marks. He won the triple jump with a new record of 42 feet, 11 inches. The odd mark of 40-feet, five inches, was set last year by Jesse Brown of Ayden-Grifton, who finished second this year. His other record came in the long jump, which he won in 22 feet, 10 inches, breaking the mark he set last year of 21 feet, 6½ inches. His other victory came in the low hurdles.

Ray Hardy of Farmville Central was a double winner for the Jaguars, as was David Smith. Hardy won the 440-yard dash and the discus. His time in the 440 broke the record he set last year of 51.7 second. This year's time was 51.2 seconds.

Smith, in winning the mile and 880-yard runs, also set one new bark. His time of 4:41.9 in the mile snapped the mark of last year by Dallas Little of North Pitt, 4:45.5.

The other record came in the two-mile run, won by Rose High's A. J. Tyson in a time of 10:49.4. That broke the mark of Scott Wolcott of Rose last year, 11:07.1.

And Farmville Central's Mark Little tied the pole vault record of 11-6 set by Rose's Rusty Purser last year.

Overall, Farmville Central won nine events, while Rose took three and tied for another. Conley won two, Ayden-Grifton, one, and North Pitt shared first in another.

Next year, it is hoped that a girls' meet will also be held, although the two would not be held together.

Robersonville Rolls To 12-5 Victory Over West Edgecombe

ROCKY MOUNT—Robersonville's Golden Eagles rolled along Friday, gaining a 12-3 victory over West Edgecombe.

The victory was the eighth in nine starts in the Eastern Plains Conference and kept the Golden Eagles atop the Northern Division standings.

But the Eagles did have some moments, when they committed four errors in the first inning to allow West Edgecombe to score three runs gaining a 3-1 lead.

Robersonville scored first, getting a run in the first. Mike Matthews doubled and advanced to third on an out. Jeff Warren scored him with a sacrifice fly.

But in the bottom of the frame, West Edgecombe came up with three to take the lead. Bruce Turner reached on an error and Keith Walker singled. Both were sacrificed up, and Kay Bullock reached on a fielder's choice that scored Turner. An error on the play let Walker score also. A pickoff attempt on Bullock resulted in an error that let him take third, and he scored on a wild pitch.

In the third, Robersonville scored twice, tieing it up. Doyle Farmer walked and Mark Vaughn ran for him. Warren was hit by a pitch and both scored when Matt Wilson tripled, making it 3-3.

In the fifth, the Eagles pushed over four for a 7-3 lead. Matthews singled and Victor Hardison reached on a fielder's choice. Warren reached on a bunt single and Matthews raced all the way in from second. Doug Warren reached on an error, scoring Hardison. He then stole second, with Jeff Warren scoring on Kim Knox's ground out. Jimmy Stalls reached on an error, scoring Doug Warren.

Five more crossed in the sixth. Matthews singled and Hardison doubled. Jeff Warren reached on a fielder's choice, plating Matthews. Three straight doubles, by Wilson, Knox and Stalls resulted in the remaining runs. Wilson drove in Hardison, while Knox scored Warren and Wilson. Stalls' two-bagger brought in Knox.

Conley Rally Nips N. Lenoir

WHEAT SWAMP—D.H. Conley High School rallied for two runs in the seventh inning on homers to take 6-4 victory over North Lenoir Friday.

North Lenoir grabbed the lead in the first inning, scoring a run. Lewis Wood was hit by a pitch, then came around on Cliff Sullivan's double.

In the second the Hawks came up with three more runs for a 4-0 lead. Mike Brown and Herman Spence both walked and Wood reached on an error, scoring Brown. Sullivan then singled, driving in both Spence and Wood.

Conley came back to score three runs in the fourth inning, cutting the lead to 4-3. Donnie Cox singled and moved up on a passed ball. Jack Jones was safe on an error, scoring Cox. Eugene Forrest reached on an error, as did Keith Gould, loading the bases. Joey Baggett then doubled, driving in both Jones and Forrest.

In the sixth, Conley managed another run, tieing it up. Jones doubled and moved to third on a wild pitch. He scored when Forrest singled.

The final two came in the seventh. Clennel Streeter opened the frame with a home run, giving the Vikings a 5-4 lead. With two away, Bobby Bryan followed suit, hitting another homer for insurance.

Greene Central Downs Warriors

SNOWHILL—Greene Central High School gained a 9-5 victory over Eastern Wayne Friday.

Greene Central pushed over one run in the bottom of the first and gained the lead for good. Donnie Blizzard reached on an infield hit and was sacrificed to second. Tim Butts walked and both advanced on an out. A passed ball then let Blizzard score.

In the third, three more Rams crossed the plate. Bobby Supel was safe on an error and scored when Jerry Carraway doubled. William Brown walked and Joe Heath singled to score Carraway. Shorty Radford then singled in Brown to make it 4-0.

Eastern Wayne came up with its first run in the fourth. Rhodes reached on a fielder's choice and Grady singled. Farmer's hit brought him around.

Greene Central countered that one with another in the fifth. Brown singled and scored when Radford doubled.

The Rams added the final touches with four in the sixth. Supel reached on an error and Carraway singled him in. Butts walked and Brown's hit scored Carraway. Heath singled in Butts and Radford reached on a fielder's choice, letting Brown score.

Eastern Wayne came up with two in the sixth and two more in the seventh, but it wasn't enough.

The Rams are slated to play host to Lee Woodard in a non-conference game on Monday, returning to Eastern Carolina Conference play on Tuuesday at North Pitt.

E. B. Aycock Captures Win

E. B. Aycock Junior High School evened its record at 2-2 Friday afternoon with a 7-6 ten inning victory over Southern Nash.

The game had been tied at the end of regulation play at 6-6, but the Phantoms finally pushed over the winning run in the 10th.

Aycock scored twice in the first. Greg Lassiter reached on an error and was sacrificed up. With two away, William Brewington tripled him in. Wright Hooks followed with a single, scoring Brewington.

Southern Nash rallied in the top of the second to tie it up, 2-2. Richard Matthews wingled and stole second. Scott Fassnachts reached on an error, and Phillips Strickland was safe on a fielder's choice, scoring Matthews. Tony Joyner also reached on a fielder's choice and Jay Brantley walked, loading the bases. Andy Delbridge reached on another fielder's choice, scoring Fassnachts.

Aycock regained the lead with one in the second. Freager Sanders doubled and moved up on an out. He scored when Henry Baker grounded out.

In the third, the Cobras came up with four runs to take the lead, 6-3. Willie Grady led off with a home run. Matthews tripled and Fassnachts reached on a fielder's choice, scoring him. Strickland reached on another fielder's choice, and an error on the play let Fassnachts score. Brantley reached on another fielder's choice, scoring Strickland.

Aycock scored once in the third and once again in the fourth. They got the tieing run in the sixth. Mel Boyd singled and Sid Ashby reached on an error. Lassiter reached on a fielder's choice, scoring Boyd to tie it at 6-6.

Then, in the 10th, Aycock broke the deadlock. Ross Hawkins reached on a two-base error. He scored when Brewington also reached on an error.

RATED TOPS IN SOUTHEAST—Ronnie Rowell, left, a member of the East Carolina Karate Team, looks on as Bill McDonald, instructor of the team, reads of Rowell's ranking as the number one competitor in the Southeast for the first quarter of 1974. The ECU team has won the Southeast championship for the past three years and is aiming for a fourth straight this year.

Aaron Again Sets Record As He Slaps Grand Slam--No. 15

By BRUCE LOWITT
AP Sports Writer

No. 719 was also No. 15, which makes Hank Aaron No. 1 ... again.

But to the Atlanta superstar, the numbers game is getting out of hand.

"Please don't mention any records to me," Aaron said Friday night after smashing the 15th grand-slam home run of his career, setting a National League record and helping the Braves to a 9-3 thumping of the Chicago Cubs.

In Friday's other National League games, Pittsburgh downed Houston 4-3, Cincinnati beat St. Louis 4-3, San Diego defeated philadelphia 6-2, Los Angeles shelled Montreal 7-1 and the New York Mets silenced San Francisco 6-0.

Aaron's homer, the 719th of his phenomenal career and sixth of this season, highlighted an eight-run uprising in the seventh inning and moved Bad Henry one grand slam ahead of Willie McCovey and the late Gil Hodges.

Pirates 4, Astros 3

Reds 4, Cards 3

Padres 6, Phillies 2

Dave Winfield hit a tie-breaking home run in the sixth inning for the Padres to help Dave Freisleben win his major league pitching debut. Freisleben hurled a four-hitter but lost a shutout in the sixth inning when Dave Del Unser hit a two-run homer for the Phils.

Dodgers 7, Expos 1

Andy Messersmith hurled a three-hitter and Steve Yeager drove in three runs in the Dodgers' rout of Montreal for their fourth straight victory.

Mets 6, Giants 0

Tom Seaver tossed a four-hitter, struck out seven San Francisco batters and belted a pair of run-scoring singles, pacing the Mets past the Giants.

Sports Medicine Clinic Is Set

A sports medicine conference for Athletic trainers and coaches will be held May 10-11 at East Carolina University. The program is designed to provide the participants with necessary skills and techniques for developing a systematic and successful program of treatment and reahbilitation of athletic injuries. Persons affiliated with schools that do not have an athletic trainer are also invited to attend.

The two-day affair is sponsored by the Sports Medicine Division and the Division of Continuing Education School of Allied Health Professions of East Carolina University. The conference has been approved by the State Department of Public Instruction and is expected to receive endorsement again this year by the National Athletic Trainers Association.

On-campus tuition, which includes registration, all meals beginning with May 10 lunch, lodging, linen and conference materials, is $28. The fee for commuters, which covers registration and conference materials, is $17. Registration is set for 8:45 a.m., May 10, with the close of the conference coming at 4:30 p.m., May 11.

Lolich Hasn't Got The Luck

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer

"My trouble? I couldn't get anybody out," the Detroit Tigers' ace left-hander said after absorbing an 8-2 pounding at the hands and bats of the Chicago White Sox.

Elsewhere in the American League, the Baltimore Orioles edged the Oakland A's 6-5 in 15 innings, the New York Yankees nipped the Texas Rangers 4-3, the Cleveland Indians beat the California Angels 4-3, the Kansas City Royals downed the Boston Red Sox 4-2 and the Milwaukee Brewers shaded the Minnesota Twins 4-3.

Designated hitter Brian Downing's three-run homer in the fifth inning lowered the boom on Lolich. Dick Allen opened the fifth with a double and scored on Ron Santo's second double of the game. Ken Henderson was given an intentional walk before Downing smacked his homer to give Chicago a 7-1 cushion.

Orioles 6, A's 5

Don Baylor reached on a three-base error by Oakland center fielder Bill North in the 15th inning and scored on Andy Etchebarren's sacrifice fly. Reggie Jackson hit his second home run of the game in the 12th to give the A's a 5-4 lead but the Orioles, who wiped out a 4-1 deficit with three runs in the eighth, tied it on Elrod Hendricks' single, a walk and Boog Powell's single.

Yankees 4, Rangers 3

Thurman Munson reached on an error by third baseman Lenny Randle to open the seventh inning and eventually scored the winning run on Bobby Murcer's grounder, beating shortstop Toby Harrah's throw to the plate.

Indians 4, Angels 3

Chris Chambliss' three-run double capped a four-run seventh-inning Cleveland uprising against Nolan Ryan. Chambliss' hit kayoed Ryan, who had taken a two-hit, 3-0 lead into the seventh.

Royals 4, Red Sox 2

Cookie Rojas knocked in one run with a single and another scored on his double play grounder while Steve Busby went the route for Kansas City, scattering six hits.

Brewers 4, Twins 3

Darrell Porter's two-run triple in the eighth gave the Brewers a 4-0 lead, just enough to withstand a three-run rally by the Twins in their half of the inning.

Cale Gets 1st Of Three Goals

MARTINSVILLE, Va. (AP)—Veteran Cale Yarborough of Timmonsville, S. C., says "I've won the first of three legs for this race and now I'll be shooting for the other two."

Yarborough, the leading money winner this season in the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing, was referring to his capturing the pole position Friday for Sunday's Virginia 500 Grand National.

That earned Yarborough $1,000, giving him $74,310 this year, and he could win another $17,000 Sunday—$12,000 for winning the race and a $5,000 bonus to the driver leading the most laps.

Yarborough qualified his Chevrolet at a speed of 84.263 miles per hour Friday as the first 20 spots for the $64,825 race—richest of its distance in NASCAR history—were filled.

Another 10 spots in the limited 30-car field were up for grabs today with a 150-lap NASCAR National Championship Modified race also on the schedule.

Donnie Allison of Hueytown, Ala., qualified his Chevrolet third at 83.598 m.p.h., and home town Ford driver Jimmy Hensley—better known for his activities in the Late Model Sportsman division—was fourth with a speed of 83.447 m.p.h.

SHORT TERM LOAN—LONG TERM INTEREST

Right now there are opportunities for you in the Army Reserve. It's kind of a swap: You lend us YOU for a short term of active duty, and we teach you one of several available skills that'll pay dividends for years to come.

HOW IT WORKS—After you join a local Army Reserve Unit and complete your basic training, you'll get specialty training in the skill that you specialty from those available. Here are some:

ADMINISTRATION
DRIVING
AUTO MECHANICS
TYPING
HEAVY EQUIPMENT MECHANIC

After you serve a minimum of 4 months of active duty for training, you return home and you can apply for further specialty training depending upon the specific skill requirements of your local unit.

HOW IT PAYS—There are lots of ways. While on active duty training, you get about $356.00 a month. Plus room, board, medical care, PX and commissary use. When you come back home, you get about $48.44 per month. There is one week-end meeting per month (16 hours) and one 15-day summer camp per year. Raises: Periodic pay raises, early ones, are based on your efforts to earn them. Still, most important, don't forget that specialty training—it'll be valuable the rest of your life.

HOW IT HELPS—You can help build a better society. First, you get to work with the Army Reserve on projects that improve the community environment and contribute to the welfare of all citizens. Second, in becoming a skilled citizen, you automatically make a contribution to that better society. And while you're doing it you help your country.

FOR MORE INFORMATION ABOUT THE ARMY RESERVE, CONTACT ANY ONE OF THE EMPLOYEES AT THE US ARMY RESERVE CENTER AT 1301 N. Memorial Dr., Greenville, N.C., ACROSS FROM THE PITT COUNTY FAIR GROUNDS OR CALL 752-2482.

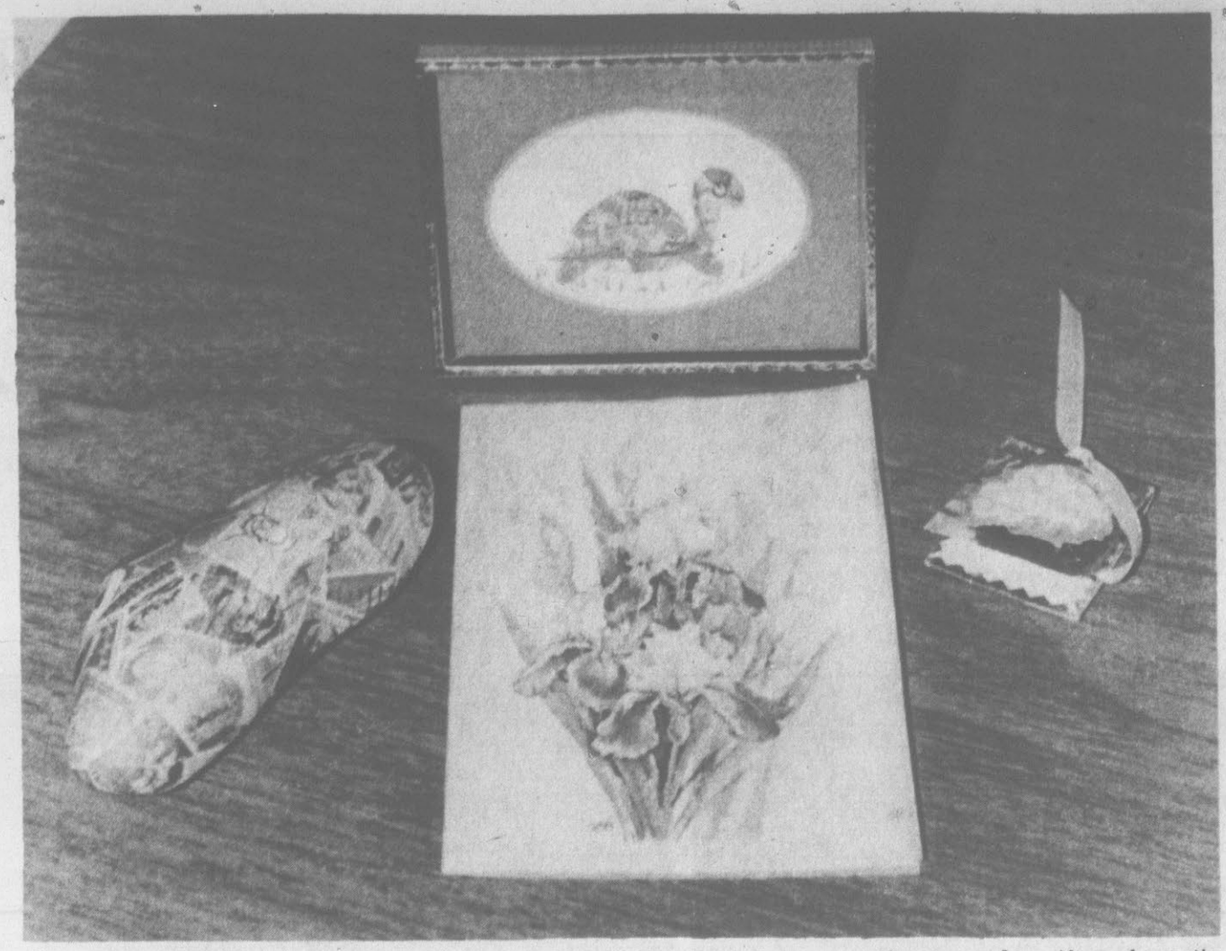
FROM COLOR NEWSPAPER. . .ads Mrs. Marshall Tredway tears free hand flower petals, leaves and stems and decorates note paper.



COLORFUL TURTLE PICTURE. . .was designed by the local artist using red and green postage stamps, which are also featured on the rock paperweight. Parchment paper stationery and a gift package tie are other examples of Mrs. Tredway's talents.

Throwaway Rocks, Tin Cans And Newspapers Recycled Into Beauty

USED POSTAGE STAMPS. . .are used by Mrs. Tredway in creating original pictures and personal note paper. The lamp base was covered with strips of torn newspaper and then decoupaged.

Throwaway rocks, tin cans, newspapers, used postage stamps and glass bottles can be recycled into items of interest, beauty and usefulness.

'So many of the things that I use, you would throw away. I also use things which have been used for another purpose," said Mrs. Marshall Tredway of Fountain, who recently conducted a special interest meeting for the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service.

"Everything that I know has come from somewhere or from somebody. I am so delighted to share it with anyone else.

"I feel that as we were created in God's image, that a part of this is the creative urge that he gives us. I think that I have an added spark in being creative. There is not a craft that I would not like to try, using my hands, if I had time," she continued.

Collecting stamps since a child, Mrs. Tredway has used the stamps in so many artistic ways.

"This particular craft helps to develop an appreciation for the beauty of stamps," states Mrs. Tredway. An old Chinese work of art, designed from postage stamps, helped to further her interest in the endeavor.

After soaking the stamps in lukewarm water she lets them dry upside down on newspaper and, then files them according to colors. When creating a special design, she starts with the frame and then decides on the design. By using stamps cut into many shapes she has made pictures of grape clusters, strawberries, fish, boats, turtles, flowers and others.

She also makes decorated personal note paper, decorative bottles, paper weights, book marks and rockacoupage.

Color advertisements in newspapers and pressed dried flowers are used by Mrs. Tredway to also decorate note paper. Using newspaper torn in strips, she has covered the base of a lamp and covered the outsides of throwaway metal cans and then decoupaged them. Mrs. Tredway has also covered small Bandaid cans for a cigarette case and a cocoa box was transformed into a pencil box for a desk accessory.

She uses tricks of the trade to aid her in her work—hole punch, glue, felt pens, tweezers and toothpicks.

Mrs. Tredway gave hints on making parchment paper from facial tissue and wax paper.

The local artist is a native of Sparta, attended Manchester College, North Manchester, Ind. She is a member of the Planters Craftsman's Guild, is president of the Farmville Art Society and is involved in church activities.

She is married to the Rev. Tredway, who is serving as pastor of the Fountain and Falkland Presbyterian Churches. They have a teen-age son, Buck.

By DOROTHY MARKS

WASHINGTON (WNS)—In this year of inflation and energy shortages, why not consider a vacation on a college campus near a resort area?

You won't be able to do it for $5 a day per person, but you certainly can swing it for well under $10, including three on-campus meals. And there will probably be some free sports and cultural activities available, too.

For up-to-date information on this vacation bonanza for everyone from swinging singles to families with babes in arms, there is a first-time-ever directory giving the names of 145 college and university campuses from Maine to California that have dormitory or motel facilities open to the general public during at least a part of the summer. If exploring Canada appeals to you, there are 12 colleges offereing such services in five Canadian provinces.

The directory, "Mort's Guide to Bow-Cost Vacations and Lodgings on College Campuses" (160 pages, 41 illustrations and index) is available only from the publisher, CMG Publications, Inc., Box 630, Princeton, N.J., 08540. Price, plus postage and handling, totals $4.50.

Mort, an advertising and public relations man, became aware of these vacation lodgings when he was hired to market student-oriented products and toured campuses around the country.

Generally speaking, you won't find accommodations available at colleges and universities which run summer schools. Most of the 145 listings are smaller schools, many in cities. There's a sizeable cluster in Ohio and Pennsylvania, Massachusetts and southern California.

Each listing includes information on local attractions, type of accommodations, typical meal prices, campus and nearby activities, dates available for booking and who to contact at each campus.

For example the information on California State University at Long Beach, Calif. lists among its attractions an eight-mile-long beach and proximity to Los Angeles, Mexico, the San Bernardino Hill, mountains and the Mojave Desert.

The cost for double accommodations at Long Beach is $3.50 per person a day. You must share a bath.

The no-nos are pets, children under age 6 and alcoholic beverages in the rooms. Advance reservations are required and rooms are available only from June 15 through August 25.

On the other coast, there is Unity College at Unity, Maine, 40 miles from the picturesque coastal town of Camden and an Hour's drive from Acadia National Park and Bar Harbor.

From June 1 to August 20 you can stay at Unity in a single room for $17.50 a week. Doubles are $12.00 per person weekly. Babies are welcome. Baths are shared and linens, if you decide not to bring your own, will cost an additional $1.50 a week.

Also in Maine, is Bowdoin College, situated at historic Brunswick, a village with towering pines and houses dating back to colonial days, which has some summer facilities for nonstudents.

In another resort area is the New Mexico Institute of Technology at Socorro, a town on the Rio Grande River. During the height of the silver mining boom of the early 1900s Socorro had 44 saloons on its main street. You can vacation there between May 15 and June 15 and between December 15 and January 15, too. Bathrooms are shared and alcoholic beverages forbidden in the rooms.

If Vermont appeals to you, St. Joseph College at Bennington, Trinity College at Burlington and the Experiment in International Living headquarters at Brattleboro, are open to the public on selected dates.

At the prices listed, many of the meals are cafeteria or coffee shop style and are uniformly reasonable.

At St. Mary's College in Winona, Minn., breakfast and luncheon cost $1.25 each, full dinner, $2.75. Stonehill College at Easton, Mass., offers a double room in a small townhouse on campus for $5 a day. The living room facilities below are shared.

Usually, there are nearby museums, libraries and arts and theater festivals. Most campuses list some recreational facilities like tennis courts or swimming pools.

If you are willing to travel to Davis & Elkins College at Elkins, W. Va., there is an added attraction. You can stay in a single room on campus for $39.00 a week and enroll in a week-long arts and crafts course nearby.

In some cases it may already be too late to make reservations, particularly if you insist on a private bath, special mattresses no maid service. Your room will be clean but not necessarily freshly painted. You may have to provide your own linens. But then, where could you do as well for so little?

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

It was one of those days when your youngest falls around the house and says, "There's nothing to do."

And while you're going through the sewing machine drawer looking for a meat thermometer you bought three years ago, a package of cucumber seeds fallout. And you say what any mother who has watched 12 years of Captain Kangaroo would say. "Why don't you go out and plant cucumber seeds?"

It happened to me last spring and I offer it up to other unstable mothers who might be tempted to believe that a kid digging in the dirt is worth two hanging around your ankle.

The "go check your cucmbers" trick kept the child busy for the better part of two months. For every "There's nothing to do," I had an answer: "Go water your cucumbers. Go look for worms on your cucumbers. Go dig around your cucumbers, or go measure your cucumbers."

Then one day he said, "There's nothing to do," and I said, "Why don't you go pick your cucumbers?" Minutes later little Luther Burbank dragged into the kitchen a huge wastebasket of cucumbers. and Another. And another. And another.

For the next week and a half I gave up a successful career as a writer to become a pickle canner who was busier than a mosquito at a streaker's festival. I bought glass jars with the right lids but the wrong rubbers. Back to the store for the right rubbers, but the wrong salt. Back for the right salt and the wrong vinegar. Back for the right vinegar and the wrong size pot.

Within a day or so I had it all together and we set about canning pickles.

I used to like pickles. As a kid my mother didn't dare set them on the table until we were ready to sit down. When I was expecting a baby I used to eat them until my teeth puckered. But all that changes. I washed, peeled, sliced, diced, boiled, stirred, stuffed and scalded those lousy cucumbers until I thought I'd faint.

Finally, they were finished. We had yielded 12 quarts of old-fashioned bread and butter pickles. I got out a scratch pad and began to figure time and materials and they averaged out at $3.57 a quart. (Not counting the vet's bill when the dog ate the rinds, and the night we ate out when my husband was overdosed by vinegar.)

As we surveyed our efforts, my youngest said, "There's nothing to do now."

I turned to him. "Good. Why don't you whine and fall around the house like other kids?"

Charter, Installation Ceremony Held

The charter presentation and installation ceremony of the new ETA Tau Zeta Graduate Chapter was held Tuesday afternoon at the home of Soror Esther M. Porteur.

Soror Millie D. Veasy, Eastern Regional director, and Soror Mary B. Saddler, state director, were present for the ceremony. Delta Rho Zeta Graduate Chapter of Kinston was also represented.

Officers installed were: Soror Esther M. Porteur, Basileus; Soror Evelyn P. Norris, First Anti-Basileus; Soror Willa Monroe, Grammateus; Soror Ann Lawler, Tamias; Soror Louise McIntyre, Phylacter; Soror Carolyn J. Ferebee, Antapokritis.

The dining room table was covered with a frost French linen white knotched cloth and centered with an arrangement of white roses and baby's breath.

Lung cancer, the leading killer of all cancers, has increased by about 100 per cent for both men and women. Deaths are expected to rise to 75,000 in 1974 from 72,000 in 1973.

A trip to Liberty Hall at Kenansville highlighted the April meeting of the North Carolina Chapter of Embroiderers Guild of America.

Following the tour, the group had a luncheon at the Country Squire followed by a business meeting held in the outdoor sunken garden.

President Jane Worsley conducted the meeting and Francis Burns of Greenville was named new secretary. Plans for workshops on hand-tied placemats and tatting to be sponsored by the guild during the summer were discussed.

Persons interested in joining the organization should contact Mrs. Charles Carr of Farmville.

Hester Baptist Church, Oxford, will be the scene of the July 7 wedding of Sylia Currin to William Allan Jackson.

The bride-to-be will graduate in May with an A.B. degree in elementary education from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill. She is now completing her student teaching at North Ridge Elementary School, Raleigh.

While a student at Peace College, she was initiated into Phi Theta Kappa National Honor Fraternity.

A native of Greenville, Bill is now a pharmacist with Revco Durg Stores, Lexington. He attended ECU and the UNC-CH School of Pharmacy and graduated last year.

The 14th annual North Carolina Symphony Ball was held last night at the Country Club of North Carolina, Pinehurst.

Dr. and Mrs. R. L. West and Dr. and Mrs. S. L. Crisp of Greenville were among North Carolinians on the guest list released this week by host and hostess, Governor and Mrs. James E. Holshouser Jr.

Tennis and golf tournaments at the resort in Pinehurst preceded the ball. During the evening, a reception was given by the ball co-chairmen followed by dinner and dancing to the Dick Gable Big Band.

The Symphony Ball has been a popular spring social occasion for 14 years and was established by Governor and Mrs. Terry Sanford.

On The Young Side

By MARY CHARLES STEVENS

Rose students are looking forward to the Junior-Senior Prom which is scheduled for next Friday night at nine o'clock.

Seniors, juniors and their guests will dance to the sound of The Messengers. Junior class officers, John Miller, Sylvia Payne, and Renee Ivey are in charge of plans along with faculty advisors, J. T. Perry and Mrs. Jean Darden.

Petitions for class and SGA officers were handed in Friday and campaigning will begin tomorrow. Each candidate must have a faculty sponsor. Voting will take place May 9 and 10. Members of the SGA elections committee are Richard Gray, Billy Pritchard, Greg Alexander, Peggy Wilkerson, Peggy Watson, Vel Dawkins, and Colette Clemmons.

Annis Paschal, Lynn Cargile, Lynn Laughinghouse and Catherine Joyner traveled to Daytona Beach over the Easter holidays. They drove to Savannah, Ga., Thursday spent the night, and drove the rest of the say Friday morning. There they stayed at the Plaza Hotel, which was filled with young people. Swimming, parties, and open concerts at night on the beach were a few of the action-filled events they enjoyed. Lynn Laughinghouse and Annis spent a day at Disney World.

National Exam

Results of the students taking the National Math Exam in March came in this week. High schools in North Carolina were compared by adding the top three scores in each school. Rose ranked 14 in the state. Jon Caspar was top scorer in Rose and will receive the Rose High math award. Billy Billica and Phillip Jackson tied for second.

Greg Alexander was top scorer at Rose in the North Carolina Physics Exam sponsored by UNC. He was also a finalist in the state and was invited to Chapel Hill to participate in the final round of selection. The state winner will receive tuition at Carolina.

Greg also was top scorer at Rose for the second year in the chemistry exam also sponsored by UNC. Charles Barlow ranked second.

Cindy Allen was chosen as a finalist in the National Merit Scholarship competition. This announcement was late as her name was chosen after the Feb. 8 letter was prepared.

FAMILY SUPPER
All-in-One Chicken Stew
Fruit Salad Beverage

ALL-IN-ONE CHICKEN STEW

Modern recipe for an old-time favorite.

2½ to 3-pound broiler-fryer, cut up
Salt
1 teaspoon paprika
¼ cup butter or margarine
1½ cups water
1 tablespoon instant minced onion
1 teaspoon dried thyme
Two 10-ounce packages frozen mixed vegetables
8-ounce package refrigerated buttermilk biscuits

Sprinkle chicken with 1 teaspoon salt and the paprika. In a large skillet in the hot butter, brown chicken. Add water, onion and thyme; simmer, covered, until almost tender — 20 to 30 minutes. Add vegetables and ½ teaspoon salt; bring to a boil. Top with biscuits and simmer, uncovered, for 10 minutes. Cover and simmer until chicken is tender and biscuit-dumplings cooked — 10 minutes longer. Remove chicken and dumplings to serving dish and keep warm. Make gravy using liquid in skillet; pour over chicken and dumplings. Makes 5 to 6 servings.

How To Explain Why Religion Isn't Free

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: As a newly ordained minister I frequently find myself in the uncomfortable position of having to explain why the church is always asking for money.

One of my parishioners told me that some years back you had a letter in your column which posed that very question, and your answer was the best.

Can you please try to locate that letter, and print it again? Gratefully, A PREACHER

DEAR PREACHER: I've found it. And here it is:

"DEAR ABBY: We are not overly religious people, but we do like to go to church once in a while. It seems to me that every time we turn around in church, we are getting hit for money. I thought religion was free. I realize that churches have to have some money but I think it is getting to be a racket. Just what do churches do with all their money? CURIOUS

DEAR CURIOUS: Even priests, ministers, and rabbis must eat. And since they work full time at their tasks, the churches must support them. Staff, professional choir members, and musicians also must be paid. Buildings must be maintained, heated, lighted and beautified. [And, of course, first they must be built!] Custodial staff must eat and feed their families. Most churches engage in philanthropic work [aid to needy, missions, and education]; hence, they have their financial obligations. Even orchids, contrary to folklore, do not live on air. Churches can't live on air, either. Religion, like water, may be free, but when they pipe it to you, you've got to help pay for the piping. And the piper!"

DEAR ABBY: Before a trip last year I bought my husband a bikini swim suit. He wore it to the beach and you should have seen the heads turn. He has a great physique and looked gorgeous.

My problem is, he won't wear it again. He says men shouldn't wear anything so revealing in public. When I remind him that he wore it on our vacation and attracted a lot of attention, he says: "They were laughing at me. That's why I'm not wearing it again."

Abby, we've finally liberated women so they can wear next to nothing and get away with it. Why not men?

Maybe if you gave your approval he'd wear that sexy-looking bikini again. BETTY

DEAR BETTY: Get off his gorgeous back. Women who reveal too much lose much of their appeal. And that goes double for men.

DEAR ABBY: My grandson, a high school senior, and I have been going round and round on this one:

I sent his sister, a college student, a birthday card by mail. He said he intended to give her her card when we met to take her out to dinner on her day.

My opinion was that he was skirting the outer edges of propriety in handing his sister a birthday card. He said it didn't make any difference and suggested I write to Dear Abby for her opinion. GRAMP

DEAR GRAMP: I'm with your grandson. It doesn't matter if a congratulatory message is delivered by mail, the king's messenger or in person. It's being remembered that counts.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L. A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Academy Session Discussed By WOTM

Plans for the Academy of Friendship session were discussed at the business meeting of the Women of the Moose held Thursday night.

Senior Regent Dorothy Anderson announced that the meeting will be held in Burlington May 5 beginning at 1:30 p.m. A luncheon will be served from 11:30 a.m. until 1 p.m. and the cost will be $2.50 per person. Only members of the academy and co-workers, who have received their call letters are eligible to attend the meeting.

Members were reminded of the pancake supper, to be sponsored by the Membership Committee, on May 1 beginning at 6 p.m. at the Moose Lodge.

Tickets are available from several co-workers or by calling the Moose Lodge office between 9:30 a.m. through 5:30 p.m., Monday-Friday.

Several recommendations, made by the executive committee, were voted on and accepted by the chapter.

The next meeting will be held May 9.

Civilized Outlets For Angry Feelings Are Learned

By DR. ALICE GINOTT

CHILDREN NEED TO BE TAUGHT civilized outlets for angry feelings. For example:

When Amy, 5, climbed on Nicole's side of the seesaw, Nicole promptly hit her. Mother removed a furious Nicole and left the park. While the youngster pleaded to return, Mother clamly pointed out how she might have handled the situation.

"When you're upset with Amy," said Mother, "tell her how angry you are with words not fists." Nicole was baffled: "But then she won't know I'm angry, Mother."

"Then," said Mother, "Tell her loudly, 'I am angry.' "

Nicole had an answer for this suggestion: "But what if I get more angry?"

"Then," said Mother, "tell her how furious you are."

"And if I get angrier?"

Mother suggested spelling it out: "Tell her, 'I am not just angry, I am enraged. I am like a volcano about to erupt.' "

"If this doesn't help?" asked Nicole. "Then," suggested Mother, "you'll have to tell me about it."

This coversation brought results. Nicole has begun to learn how to verbalize her anger, how to put it into words instead of fists.

WHEN CONNIE, 5, wants to express her feelings, she often asks her parents to write letters for her. One day when everyone was too busy to help her, she handed Mother an envelope with a blank page in it. Mother got the message: "I see a letter for me," she said.

"Yes. Read it," suggested Connie. "What does it say?" asked Mother.

"It says" announced Connie angrily, "I'm mad that no one would help me with my project."

"You needed help," observed Mother, "and no one was available."

"That's right. No one was nice to me and it made me mad." Mother's response was instantaneous: "Thank you for calling it to my attention," she said. "Now I know what to do." "What?" asked Connie. "Why, help you," replied Mother.

With a smile, Connie dictated her letter.

Steven was in a rage as he rushed into the house: "I'm going to beat up Jimmy," he shourted. "I'm going to kill him." Mother responded, "You must be furious with him."

"I am so angry I can't control myself," Steven answered. "He called me dirty names in front of my friends. I'm gonna kill him."

Mother mustered up her sternest voice and said, "There will be no bloodshed. But, this problem needs a solution."

"Maybe you can call Jimmy's mother and talk to her," Steven ventured.

"I'll go along with half your suggestion," said Mother. "I'll call her, but you tell her your story."

Steven accepted the compromise. He talked to his "friend's" mother and his rage subsided.

By suggesting a civilized outlet for anger, Mother helped dissipate the boy's fighting-mad mood.

WHEN A YOUNGSTER feels a teacher is treating him unfairly, show him how to handle the situation in a constructive way.

Cal, 10, came home from school in tears. "My teacher says I can't eat in the cafeteria," he reported, "and it's not fair."

"You sound very angry at your teacher," said Mother.

"Yes, I am. He punished me unfairly. He said I was kidding around too much, and I really wasn't."

"Perhaps," said Mother, "you could write him a letter telling him how you feel."

"Yeah," growled Cal. "I'll tell him he can't eat in the cafeteria because he kids around more than anybody else."

"Would such a letter stop his unfair treatment of you?" asked Mother. Cal had to admit she had a point: "No," he said, "it would make things worse."

Mother said nothing more, but Cal thought about it and wrote this letter to his teacher:

"You banned me from the cafeteria for two weeks. I don't think that was fair. I do not go beyond the stated limits, but no limit has been set. I follow rules when I know what they are. I think I should not be punished."

Mother read the letter and offered reassurance: "Cal, that is a responsible way to deal with the situation," she said. "But I'm scared to give him the letter," Cal admitted. "Standing up for your values can be difficult," Mother commented.

Cal decided to give the letter to his teacher.

By helping her son clarify his thoughts, and by maintaining a sympathetic attitude, this mother helped him to express his anger in an acceptable manner.

Found Few Could Sing

NEW YORK (AP) — When it comes to performing musically, most Americans can't do it.

Based on a random sampling of the U.S. population at ages 9, 13, 17 and 26 to 35, regardless of musical background, the National Assessment of Educational Progress found:

Fewer than 15 per cent of any group could read music — even the simplest line of music.

Only one in 10 could repeat a simple melodic phrase.

The central part of the United States produced slightly higher percentages than the rest of the country. Individuals in rural communities showed only a slight disadvantage when compared with the nation.

The NAEP is funded by the U.S. Office of Education. It provides information on how successfully young Americans have mastered subjects taught in school and what approaches in curriculum reform are likely to provide the public with the best value for its education tax dollar.

Kept Guessing By Frozen Pump

GREENTOWN, Ind. (AP) — Town fathers are all helping in the fuel conservation drive, but have found they cannot always tell how well the city's two police cars are doing.

During extreme winter cold, the gauge on the police gas pump froze up. It would still deliver gas, but wouldn't tell how much.

Show Aims At Black Women

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A TV variety-talk show starring Lena Horne, titled "Lena Horne's Grapevine," has been announced. The first hour-long show in the 13-week schedule will be taped here in late April.

The show is being designed to appeal primarily to black, female adults but its creators expect it to win much of the general audience as well.

Miss Horne will sing, interview guests and be hostess and commentator. Programs will be taped in the studio and on location. Cameo appearances of celebrities from the entertainment world will highlight the first show.

TV Writing Is Family Trade

NEW YORK (AP) — Tom Whedon, the head writer for "The Electric Company" who recently accepted an Emmy for his staff of the children's educational TV series, thinks he might be "the first second-generation" TV writer. His father, John Whedon, is a successful script writer who began in radio and whose television credits include "The Great Guildersleeve," "Duffy's Tavern" and "The Dick Van Dyke Show."

Tom broke into writing on "Captain Kangaroo" and was head writer for the "Dick Cavett Show" before joining "The Electric Company," which is the first TV show designed for classroom use to win an Emmy.

WARNS MOTORISTS

CHARLESTON (AP)—The president of the South Carolina Service Station Dealers Association says the state's motorists are going to be "in deep trouble again for gasoline supplies if they don't slow down".

FORECAST FOR SUNDAY, APRIL 28, 1974

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: You want to show off your best points to those you would like to impress this Sunday, but it is not the right time to do so. Get ahead by consistent application to the tasks at hand that bring you greater overall security.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You can now come to a far better understanding with kin than has been possible for a very long time. Listen to what they have to say.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Don't start any arguments at home or you get in big trouble right now, when others are in a belligerent mood.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You have a fine opportunity to talk over big plans for the future with key persons. Then start making arrangements to put them in operation.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan in a practical way how to add to your present income instead of just talking to almost everyone and getting nowhere.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Show pals how much you appreciate the goodwill they have shown you in the past, and they give you further assistance. Postpone entertaining. Meditate tonight.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Analyze where you are headed and how to get there faster. Then get into your regular work. Help one in need in p.m.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Keep quiet about aims until you are absolutely sure of them. Get advice from an expert. Stop working in p.m. and enjoy recreation.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Enjoy recreation with good pals, following their suggestions. Discuss with a bigwig what your aims are and gain the support you want.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Taking time to get into important accounts and keeping promises you have made is wise today, though it is a Sunday. Not a good day for sociability.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Cooperate with associates and you make the future more pleasant with them. One who opposes you wants to criticize, so steer clear of this person.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Get much done at home for which you seldom have time during the busy work week. Get new gadgets in order. Invite friends in during the p.m.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Try a different routine where Sunday pursuits are concerned and make this a more interesting, happy day, p.m. Buy present for loved one. Avoid one with wrong ideas.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will want to show the outstanding ability he or she possesses, which is fine, so be sure to give the best education that will place your youngster at the top of profession that is chosen, which could be one helpful to the public in general, particularly in the field of government. Make sure you encourage your son or daughter with praise when some work is done well.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

FORECAST FOR MONDAY, APRIL 29, 1974

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: A fine day and evening to concentrate on ways you can show yourself off to best advantage by taking health treatments. You can now easily put in effect a new plan that will gain wide acceptance. Attend a social gathering.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) A good time to improve your appearance so that you can charm others more. Attend a fine social event tonight. Don't talk too much.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Make sure you do those things at home that bring greater happiness. If there has been an estrangement, it's wise to reconcile now.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Good day for consulting with business experts and making new contacts. Go over routines with associates and increase harmony.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Take time to plan how to have greater abundance in the near future. An adviser can give you invaluable suggestions.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Ideal day to study personal aims and to do something constructive about them. A little frivolity with friends can relieve tension.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Contact one who can be of assistance in gaining your personal goals, especially where social advancement is concerned. Be wise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Look to a good friend for the answers to a situation that has been annoying you for some time. Be cordial in your manner.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Doing whatever will stamp you as a good citizen is wise at this time. Avoid the expenditure of too much money in the evening.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) You can now engage in new avenues of expression that can assist you to become a more important person. Obtain data you need.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Now you understand how to operate better and the importance of keeping promises you've made. Show more devotion to mate.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Fine results can come from discussing mutual problems with associate. Get out of that convenient rut you find yourself in.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Make conditions brighter around you and gain the respect of others. Plan time for buying new clothing that will improve your appearance.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those delightful youngsters who can wheedle out of almost anything just by smiling, so be sure to teach to work for what is desired and not to rely entirely on charm. Almost any field your progeny gets into can prove successful because of the brilliance of mind. Teach to keep appointments.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Tickets for this lecture are now on sale April 25. Public tickets are $2.00.

Package Tours For The Outer Banks

OUTER BANKS OF N.C.—"It's closer than you think" will shortly become more than just a promotional slogan for the historic northern Atlantic coast of North Carolina.

With energy supply scares and recent fears of the tourism industry suffering from lack of fuel for travel, tourist attraction leaders and tourism enthusiasts on the Outer Banks have put their heads together to provide an inexpensive, feasible solution to the popular "family drive vacation."

Their answer? The package tour.

Scheduled to begin this summer, Outer Banks Tours, Inc., has put together an almost irresistable schedule for a tour which can originate from any part of the United States or Canada and which provides two jam-packed days of entertainment, sightseeing and vacation on North Carolina's most unspoiled vacationland.

The formation of Outer Banks Tours, Inc., is a result of a cooperative effort of several local business leaders with the assistance of Natalie Paxton and John Blizzard acting as facilitators in the organization of the group.

With encouragement form the state's Division of Travel and Promotion, Paxton, editor of the Outer Banks' Beachcomber publication, and Blizzard, public relations director for "The Lost Colony" outdoor drama, sought interested tourist attraction heads in Dare County and came up with a proposal for a package tour of the historic Outer Banks which will utilize bus travel to bring groups to the area this summer.

Although the primary purpose of the non-profit incorporated organization is to encourage off-season tourism on the Outer Banks, the first scheduled tour package will begin this June.

Beginning with a visit to the Wright Brothers Memorial and Visitors Center, the tour will include shopping at the Christmas Shop and Island Art Gallery, the Colony House, and the Galleon Esplanade.

"The Lost Colony" and the Elizabethan Garden will be part of the scheduled events in conjunction with a tour of the Fort Raleigh National Historic Site on Roanoke Island.

A picnic on Coquina Beach and a visit to the Bodie Island Lighthouse and Museum will preceed an afternoon at Oregon Inlet as the fishing party boats bring in their day's catch.

A most important part of the tour will be time to enjoy the beauty of the beaches and sightseeing along the scenic Outer Banks, including viewing the phenomenal sand dunes surrounding Jockey Ridge.

Accommodations will be provided through hotels on the beach.

Other tours proposed for the future will include a day of vacation down Hatteras Island to Ocracoke.

A unique additional member of Outer Banks Tours is the Ramada Camp Inn at Duck. The camping facility has already arranged its own bus tour to the Outer Banks and plans are that an off-season camping tour will be developed for the area in the future by Outer Banks Tours.

Travel agents and bus lines will be the primary selling locations for the package tour and cooperative commitments from both sources already have been acquired for marketing the tour.

For more information concerning Outer Banks Tours, Inc.'s package vacation write P.O. Box 337, Nags Head, N.C. 27959, or phone (919) 441-6627.

Music On Campus

In addition to today's Wind Emsemble concert and the Phi Mu Alpha recital on Wednesday, six student musicians are slated to appear in recital during the coming week at the A. J. Fletcher Recital Hall.

All the listed events are free and the public is invited to attend. The Thursday and Friday recitals are joint ones by the two students listed in each instance. The calendar shows:

Today: 3:15 p.m. Wright Auditorium. ECU Symphonic Wind Ensemble Concert (see separate story this page and also full details on entertainment page of Sunday, April 21)

—8:15 p.m., Recital Hall—Kathleen Hope Rountree, piano recital. Ms. Rountree, a native of Suffolk, is a student of Dr. Charles Bath. She has listed four compositions—Beethoven's Sonata in F minor, Opus 57, the "Appassionata;" Schumann's Variations on the Name Abegg; La Legierezza from Trois Etudes de Concert, Listz; and Villa-Lobos' Ciclo Brasileiro.

Monday: 9:00 p.m., Recital Hall. Elizabeth Shannon Stoney, cello, senior recital. Miss Stoney, of Hampton, Va., is a student of Dr. Joan Mack. She will be accompanied by Anne Manning and will be assisted by Steve Natrella, violin; Dee Ann Braxton, violin; and Lori Morgan, viola. The major work on her program is Mozart's Quartet K575. Other compositions to be performed are: Couperin's Pieces en Concert; Fantasy Pieces, Schuman; Kubic's Serenade; and Three Pieces, Halsey Stevens.

Thursday: 9:00 p.m., Recital Hall. Thomas A. Reed, violoncello, senior recital. Reed, whose hometown is Montoursville, Pa., is a student of Dr. Joan Mack. He will be accompanied by Carlene Ragan, piano. Hageman, and Mendelssohn's If With All Your Hearts.

A Story of "Jesus Christ and Other Salesmen"

The Ohio Review, Vol. XV, No 1, Fall 1973. Athens, Ohio, Ohio University Press, 110 pps. paperback, $2.00. (Subscription rate $5.00 annually, three issues).

The Ohio Review is a collection of critical essays, interviews, book reviews, short stories, and poetry published by Ohio University. The strongest point of the Fall 1973 issue is its excellent critical essay, "After Imagism," by James Guimond; the weakest part of the Review is its poetry and a horrendous short story, "Prose Poem," by Dennis Trudell. Two of the most interesting creative works are Gordon Weaver's "Moving Back Into a House Again" and Ruth Moose's "Jesus Christ and Other Salesmen."

In "Moving Back Into a House Again" fifty year old Buck Hansen drives to Minneapolis to help his sons and ex-wife move into a new house. Buck is a "successful" engineer, married to the woman who broke up his first marriage, and he is hoping to be reconciled to his family. However, he finds that his attempts to buy their love and respect fail now as they did in the past.

Buck's most conspicuous character trait is his lack of self-knowledge. He judges himself on the amount of money he makes and evaluates everyone else on the basis of externals—race, religion, and bank account. He blames his daughter for the failure of his marriage because she refused to overlook his affair. He blames his wife's coldness for his need for an affair. He wishes he had made his money when the boys were young so that they would appreciate him more now.

Buck's visit culminates with his threat to commit suicide. Paradoxically, this suicide would be the redeeming factor in his life because Buck would concede that his values and the way he has lived are meaningless. However, the import of his youngest son's laughter at this proposal is too horrifying for Buck—he cannot admit his son does not care, that Buck means nothing to him. So Buck recoils from this knowledge, soothing himself with a vain, unexpressed hope that he has plenty of time to insure an absence of laughs when he finally does die.

"Jesus Christ and Other Salesmen" is an attack on the commercialism and dehumanization of Christianity. A series of episodes illustrates with heavy irony the difference between Christian ideal and Christian action. Ms. Moose, a North Carolina native, condemns door-to-door Jesus salesmen, bumper-sticker fanatics, and other holier-than-thou breeds. The rather suspect missionary zeal of a portion of the Christian faith is summed up in the final words of the story: "On the way home a billboard proclaims in sparkle letters the Second Coming of Christ. Everyone is invited, but only ticketholders will be admitted. Underneath is a picture of Billy Graham, the dates May 20-25."

Whether or not one agrees with Ms. Moose, the story is worth reading. It and Mr. Weaver's story manage to provoke thought with a subtlety which few of the other creative works in The Ohio Review manage to achieve.

Graduate Art Show Offers Divergent Art Forms

SECTION OF WEAVING I. . .by Elda Abramson, displays a great variety of weaving techniques. The rich fiber textures are contrasted by ceramic beads.

FROM LOCAL CLAYS. . .A collection of pots, vases and bowls by R. Lynn Studham have added interest in that they are made from local clays, glazed with earth colors and other non-commercial glazes.

A PHOTOGRAPH. . .by Leonard Veillette. Veillette's photographs, developed by infrared or high contrast techniques, have an air of mystery.

This spring, four young artists, three men and one woman, comprise the East Carolina University School of Art graduate students exhibiting in the Annual Graduate Show at the Greenville Art Center that opened last Sunday.

Two of the graduates are natives of England, and two are North Carolina natives.

Elda Abramson of Manchester, England, has three large weavings on walls of the South Gallery, titled aptly, Weaving I, Weaving II and Weaving III.

Commissioned works on loan for this show, the varied material used in the weavings—sisal, hemp, fleece, yarn—are all hand dyed by the artist.

Weaving I, the least formal of the three, is a virtual showpiece of weaving techniques. This weaving incorporates open spaces, loops, fringes and scattered clusters of ceramic beads. There's a fine flow of colors, graduating from chocolates to nut and cinnamon browns on to rusts and wheat with highlight touches of lemon and lemon-greens.

The more formal Weaving II and Weaving III are contrasts in basic designs. Weaving II, in grays, greens and browns combines both horizontal and vertical elements and in this weaving the artist uses bits of clipped leather. Weaving III features three central circles surrounded by areas of clipped, shaggy fibers to give the feel of hard and soft surface textures. There's considerable visual excitement in the warm maroons, lavenders and lilacs of this weaving.

Mrs. Abramson refers to these weavings as "architectural." An appropriate description to which can be added these weavings also relate to music in the flow of texture and colors.

Cliff Norris, native of Mt. Olive and a Vietnam veteran, is exhibiting eight sculptures in the Annual Graduate Show. In these recent works, Norris uses brilliant, reflective, highly polished metal—aluminum and stainless steel. With the exception of two smaller pieces, "Toast-Her" and "Tank," he tempers the nearly overpowering brilliance of metal with the use of walnut and mahogany wood.

These are sculptures pared down to essential sky-reaching minimal forms, meticulously executed, a superb display of craftsmanship. Peripherally, Norris uses decorative details, especially in "Toast Her" with finely wrought curves and an inset of orange glass.

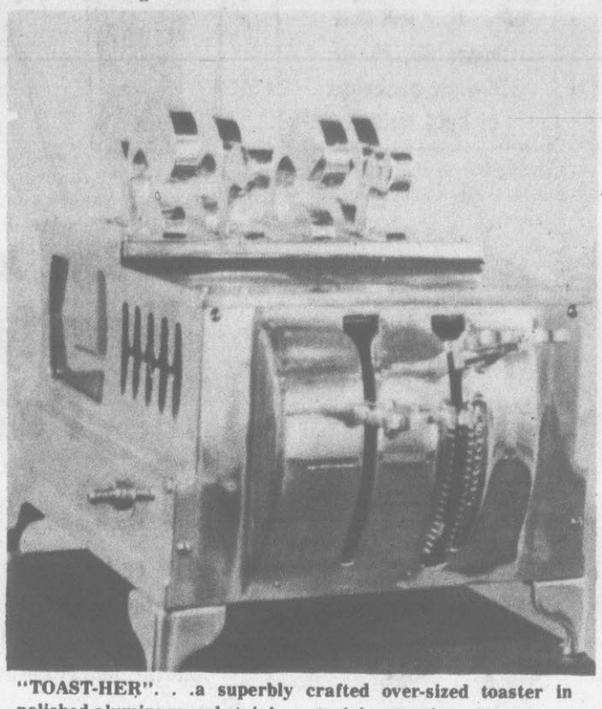
It might be interesting to see what Norris could achieve if, working with these same materials, he freed himself from the restrictions of his current style to experiment in a burst of richly, even elaborately detailed pieces of sculpture.

The third graduate, R. Lynn Studham, is a native of Durham, England who has studied previously at the Sunderland College of Art in Durham and at the Royal Academy of Fine Arts in Copenhagen, Denmark. Before coming to ECU for graduate studies, Studham also taught at McGill University in Quebec, Canada.

A candidate for the MA degree in ceramics, Studham's 20 some small pots, bowls and vases have a particular local interest.

Studham has proved with this collection that local materials and simplified techniques of firing can produce ceramics of outstanding beauty and value. Using locally dug clays, Studham fired the pieces in an open pit and in a primitive brick kiln that is wood fired.

Colorant earths, kaolin and borax comprise the basic source of glazes, which he noted are simple, direct brushed applied. The result is a bouquet of lovely, subtle surfaces reminiscent of clusters of mildew, weathered wood surfaces and other nature-created designs.



"TOAST-HER". . .a superbly crafted over-sized toaster in polished aluminum and stainless steel, has touches of brass and small windows of orange glass.

In some pieces, chemicals in the glazes add touches of coppery glitter like spun sugar.

J. Leonard Veillette, a native of Rocky Mount, is currently an instructor in Commercial Art at Halifax County Technical Institute.

For his MA thesis work, Veillette has on exhibit eight photographs and two paintings which have as their theme persons appearing in a couple of the photographs.

Veillett's photgraphic technique for the eight black and white photographs are infrared or high contrast. Infrared gives a sense of mystery to common subjects, like sugared frost on a moonlight night. The photographs are more successful than are the somewhat posterish paintings based on photographs.

As a quartet or artists, the four in the current show could hardly be more divergent.

Rocky Mt. Sidewalk Show Set

Nine first-place cash prize awards totaling $500 will be awarded winners in the Rocky Mount Arts & Crafts Center's 17th annual Outdoor Art Show set for Sunday, May 12, from 1 to 5 p.m.

In addition to the first-place awards, gallery purchase awards totaling $200 will also be chosen. "Our cash prize awards have more than doubled this year," commented Center Director Julia Jordan, "in an effort to keep the Rocky Mount show competitive with the other area shows."

The show is open to both professional and amateur artists and craftsmen from all over Eastern North Carolina. An entry fee of $3.00 will entitle each artist to enter a maximum of five pieces of work. Work in all media will be accepted for judging and exhibition. Prizes to be awarded are: Best in show, $100; and first place prize of $50 each for painting, watercolor, drawing, print, sculpture, ceramics, crafts and best Rocky Mount artist.

Entry rules governing the show require that all work must be original and not previously exhibited in a Rocky Mount Outdoor Art Show. Work which is for sale must be clearly priced and marked. The Arts Center will retain a 20 percent commission on all sales. Arts Center labels must be firmly attached to front and back of each entry. The Arts Center is not responsible for loss of or damage to work entered.

Entries will be accepted on the following schedule only: Monday, May 6, through Friday, May 10, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. No entries will be accepted for judging or exhibition after 5 p.m. on Friday, May 10. All owrk, excepting winners, must be checked out immediately after the show on Sunday, May 12, between 5 and 6 p.m. The award-winning works will be exhibited in The Arts Center's Hines Gallery for one week following the show.

Entry Rules, Prizes For Sidewalk Show

Artists and craftsmen planning to enter works in the Greenville Sidewalk Art Show on Saturday, May 4 will be able to enter a maximum of four works in each category. For example, a printmaker-photographer can enter four prints in the prints-drawings category, and also enter four photographs in the photo category, etc.

This year, a total of $880 in prize money is to be given to the work adjudged to be the "best in show" and to first place winners in each division and category. Ribbons will be awarded to second and third place winners. None of the prizes are purchase awards, so that winners, including "best in show," will get to keep their work or be able to sell it.

Prize money has been allocated with $200 going to best in show and $680 for first place per category and division as shown below. In each category, figures given are for: professional, amateur, college student and high school student, respectively.

—Sculpture—$75, $45, $25 and $15.
—Prints and drawings—$50, $30, $20 and $10.
—Crafts—$40, $30, $20 and $10.
—Photographs—$30, $20, $15 and $10.
—Mixed media—$30, $20, $15 and $10.

Entrants are reminded they can take work to the Art Center beginning Wednesday and that final time for submission is 10:00 a.m. Saturday. Labels to be attached to each entry are available at the Art Center.

Student Show Next

Art students at East Carolina University will have representative works done in various media on display at the annual students exhibition throughout May.

The exhibition will be in the Kate Lewis Gallery in Whichard Building and will include work from students in all departments of the ECU School of Art.

The gallery is open to the public each weekday from 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

Gordley Work In Exhibit

A pen and ink drawing by Tran Gordley, associate dean of the East Carolina University School of Art, is among works by artists throughout the U. S. to be displayed May 5-June 30 at Ball State University, Muncie, Indiana.

Gordley's drawing, "Six Pea Bands," will be considered for awards in connection with Ball State's 20th Annual Drawing and Small Sculpture Show.

Book News

From Sheppard Memorial Library

By LINDA STANCILL

The do-it-yourselfer will welcome a series of Easi-Bild home improvement books by Donald R. Brann. Easi-Bilt Simplified Directions guarantee savings in time, labor, and materials. They offer patterns and illustrated directions for hundreds of build-it-yourself projects.

In HOW TO BUILD A VACATION OR RETIREMENT HOUSE, Brann assumes you have never built a house and explains How in non-technical language everyone can follow. Building a house may seem like a frightening voyage into the unknown, but every year almost 10 per cent of all houses constructed are built by people in their spare time for their own occupancy.

Smaller less frightening projects can add more living space to an existing house. HOW TO BUILD AN ADDITION takes the mystery out of building, adds value to your home, and helps you do it easily and economically. HOW TO BUILD A DOMER shows you how to add more living space by raising the roof. HOW TO TRANSFORM A GARAGE INTO LIVING SPACE can provide the economical and safe solution to the welfare of an aged parent. HOW TO ADD AN EXTRA BATHROOM helps with planning the room and is a complete guide to home plumbing. HOW TO BUILD OR ENCLOSE A PORCH AND HOW TO BUILD PATIOS AND SUNDECKS will help you add convenient and relaxing living space. FORMS, FOOTINGS, FOUNDATIONS, FRAMING tells every reader how to get in the art and will help in all your building projects.

Existing rooms can be modernized with substantial savings. HOW TO MODERNIZE A BASEMENT and HOW TO MODERNIZE AN ATTIC help with everything you need to know to transform these areas into prime living space. HOW TO MODERNIZE A KITCHEN can help you transform your kitchen into a labor-saving machine that's fun to use and a delight to live in without too much difficulty or expense. HOW TO BUILD KITCHEN CABINETS, ROOM DIVIDERS AND CABINET FURNITURE will also aid you in modernizing your kitchen. HOW TO APPLY PANELING explains how to apply panels over plaster, plasterboard, studs in new construction, against masonry walls, around arches, doors, windows, under stairs, etc. and will add beauty to any room.

Building convenient storage space is easy and convenient when you know How. HOW TO BUILD STORAGE UNITS; HOW TO BUILD WALL TO WALL CABINETS FLOOR TO CEILING; STEREO INSTALLATION SIMPLIFIED; HOW TO CONSTRUCT BUILT-IN AND SECTIONAL BOOKCASES; HOW TO BUILD GUN CABINETS AND RACKS; and HOW TO BUILD BARS all offer step-by-step directions and easy to follow instructions for utilizing wasted space.

Brick and concrete are needed in numerous projects. BRICKLAYING SIMPLIFIED and CONCRETE WORK SIMPLIFIED tell you everything you need to know from laying a foundation wall to building a patio.

Improving your floors with substantial savings can be accomplished with CARPETING SIMPLIFIED and HOW TO LAY CERAMIC TILE.

Although the Stars and Stripes originated in 1777, it was not until 146 years later that there was a serious attempt to establish a uniform code of etiquette for the U.S. flag.

African Exhibit To Open

A lesser known aspect of African art will be presented at the North Carolina Museum of Art when it opens the "African Textiles and Jewelry" Exhibition at 2 p.m. Sunday, May 5.

Two events are planned for the opening: A lecture by Warren M. Robbins, founder and director of the Museum of African Art, Washington, D. C., at 3 p.m.; and a reception by the North Carolina Art Society from 4 to 5 p.m. Both are open to the public.

While the power and beauty of African sculpture has been recognized in recent years, textiles, ornaments and useful objects—particularly jewelry—have remained largely unknown to all but museum curators and collectors.

In this show, circulated by the International Exhibitions Foundation, more than 70 pieces selected by James M. Silberman are being displayed, some of them for the first time to museum audiences. Silberman chose the items from 13 private and public collections.

The classic styles of the Dogon, Peul, Tuareg, Bambara, Senufu, and Mossi tribes and the peoples of the Liberian, Ivory Coast and other regions are represented.

The textiles include ceremonial costumes, wearing apparel, blankets and wall-hangings made of wool, cotton and some synthetic fibers and decorated with woven, embroidered, tie-dye and printed designs.

CHIEFTAN'S RING. . .from the Dogon tribe in Africa is one o. the more than 70 pieces of African items to go on view at the North Carolina Museum of Art in Raleigh on Sunday, May 2.

IDEAS FOR BETTER LIVING

It's time to make those home improvements you've been wanting. For ideas check the Pages of this Home Improvement Edition. Find practical suggestions to help you modernize and improve home comfort. Advertisers, too, present their products and services for your selection.

Home Improvement importance pushed by 'energy crisis'

Conserving fuel and electricity has become a major factor in the home improvement scene since the much-publicized "energy crisis" and its possible consequences were unleashed on the public.

Despite any past, present or future energy shortages, the concern and awareness generated by the energy squeeze will have a lasting effect on homeowners who wish to upgrade their property.

Notwithstanding aesthetic and economic considerations, home improvement projects in 1974 will be boosted even more by the trend toward saving money by saving energy.

Having been bombarded by suggestions and recommendations for conserving energy, modern homeowners will attempt to economically guard their homes against an age-old antagonist — the weather — without sacrificing modern convenience, comfort and beauty.

Home improvement remains a top priority spurred not only by the energy situation, but by economic factors, housing needs, and pride in the home.

Rising construction costs and interest rates prevent building and ownership of new homes while making existing housing more valuable.

Cognizant of the fact that homes are worth more today, many homeowners are now considering remodeling and fixing their present homes in an effort to ensure that the dwellings retain a high value.

Other factors

In recent times, security has become another important consideration. High crime rates and home burglaries have contributed to the demand for security systems, alarms, burglar-resistant windows, doors and locks, and devices for marking ownership on possessions.

Above all, however, is the traditional pride and pleasure of owning a home. The time and money put into home improvements reflect attitudes and beliefs toward private property and the family dwelling, also applying to apartments, whether they be co-operatives, condominiums or rentals.

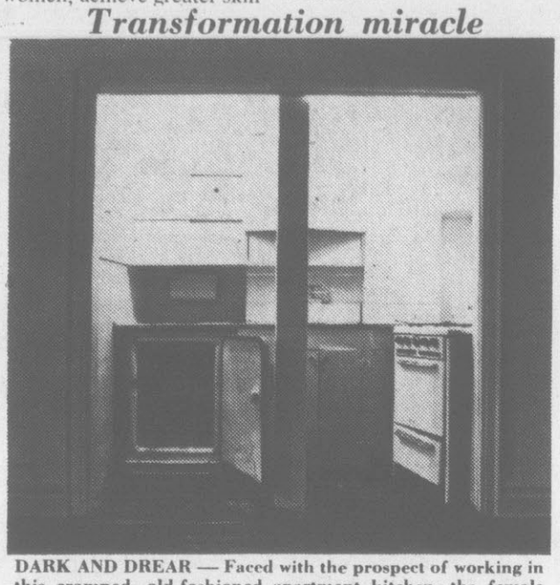
Do-it-yourself trend

Enhancing private property, particularly where the family resides, touches other aspects of human interests. Do-it-yourself trends point to pride in achievement and the pleasure of building things with one's own hands.

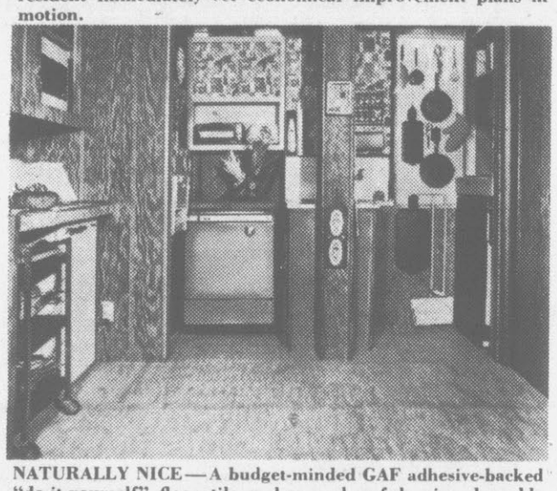
With each subsequent home improvement project, homeowners, both men and women, achieve greater skill and ability, improving their living conditions while at the same time offsetting high labor and construction costs.

Combined, these factors explain why it is estimated that nearly $19 billion a year is being spent on home improvements by today's homeowners.

Transformation miracle

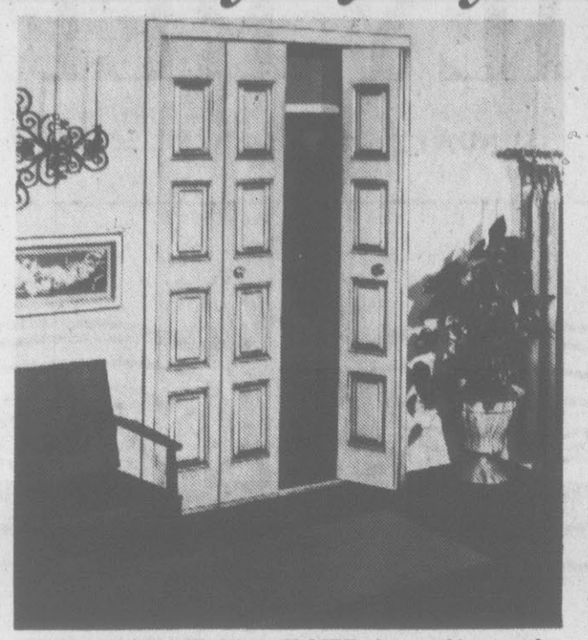


DARK AND DREAR — Faced with the prospect of working in this cramped, old-fashioned apartment kitchen, the female resident immediately set economical improvement plans in motion.



NATURALLY NICE — A budget-minded GAF adhesive-backed "do-it-yourself" floor tile makes a cheerful, wipe-cleanable kitchen floor. The creamy, wood grained floor pattern adds durable beauty to complement country fresh yellow and green appliances, wood paneling and gingham wood wallpaper.

Family lifestyle guides decorating ideas



HERE'S ELEGANCE IN A CLOSET that could never be achieved with conventional doors. This is Heritage by Leigh Products, a pre-finished steel bi-fold with deep embossed panels, installed by an average handyman-homeowner for under $50.

Modern bi-fold doors boost available space

Doors which must open full width into a room, and sliding doors which restrict access to half the area at a time are two of homeowners' most familiar complaints about closets.

With modern bi-folds, these and many other annoyances common to conventional doors are eliminated. And when the bi-folds are of steel, such as the Full-Vu styles made by Leigh Products, their benefits become even more impressive.

Bi-folds actually add to a room's usable living area because they decrease by half the floor space needed when fully open, a feature which also allows for practically unrestricted placement of furniture.

When made of steel, they won't warp or stick, frequent problems with wood construction, nor will they produce the vibration and rattle which usually accompanies the opening and closing of bi-folds made of light synthetic materials.

While bi-fold steel doors are becoming almost standard closet equipment in new houses, don't overlook their opportunities for improvement of your present home, either in adding new storage spaces or remodeling existing ones.

Leigh bi-folds come completely pre-finished and offer significant cost savings without sacrifice of quality or design. They are easily installed with a patented balanced suspension system, and quickly adjusted for continual smooth operation. Their Williamsburg white enamel finish is fine for use "as is," or to serve as a base for your own color.

A wide choice of types and designs permits you to readily meet your own particular decorating needs. Leigh bi-folds are available at from about $20 to $50 through building supply dealers and home improvement centers in nine distinctive models.

Included are three embossed panel styles, flush doors, full-louvered, panel-louvered, colonial, provincial and mirrored. Six of these models may be had in a new textured leather-like graining that is permanent — a part of the metal itself.

Ready-to-assemble furniture solves storage shortage woe

Why are there more etageres sold today than ever before? And what's an etagere anyway?

It's merely a fancy way of saying free-standing shelves and that makes its popularity obvious: so few new homes and apartments have anything built-in these days.

Shelves that are useful and decorative at the same time are a natural, either for newlyweds starting furnishing from scratch or for long-marrieds with more possessions than storage space.

But when priorities of the budget put a squeeze on all but basic necessities for seating, eating and sleeping, it is a shame to relegate the favorite books brought from the family home, the displayable wedding gifts or cherished collections to dusty cartons in the closet.

Especially when a really handsome piece of furniture can be had the brand new way — ready-to-assemble — and therefore at a remarkably low cost. Besides, it is something that will add a couple's own personality to their new home.

The furniture comes in a neat package that you can take right out of the store — no wait for deliveries — and put together yourself. Because you supply the hidden ingredient—labor—you save substantial amounts of money.

For people who enjoy doing it themselves, it's a cinch. But even the all-thumbs type shouldn't be turned off by the do-it-yourself aspects.

The leading manufacturer in this field, JS/Permaneer, has made it so easy to put together their furniture that even kids do it. All that's required is a screwdriver.

Moreover, the furniture has many assets. Not least among these is that it has fashion appeal. There is a wide range of handsome styles from sleek modern in the firm's acclaimed "chrome and pecan" collection to transitional and traditional themes.

Function is as important and as carefully considered as the facades which are elegant and substantial enough for the most fastidious home.

Of particular interest is the "mix — match — interchange" aspect of the units in each design group. The components can be combined in many ways to fill your individual needs, whether you want only open shelves or a combination with closed cabinets and a drop-lid desk/bar section.

The furniture is virtually carefree. Made of particleboard laminated with vinyl veneer, it's moisture and scratch resistant and can be wiped clean with a damp cloth.

All in all, it has much to recommend it.

DRAMATIC CHROME AND PECAN 72" high bookcase from JS/Permaneer can stand alone or be attached with its pecan vinyl veneer connector strip to one or more identical units for a sturdy furniture look rarely found in ready-to-assemble pieces. Each 29" wide unit features three sliding bottom doors for hidden storage and decorator inspired chrome strips running down the entire front face of the panels. Units retail for approximately $49.95 each.

Country style furniture popular

Beds with decorated head and foot-board, old-fashioned mirrors, unique wardrobe-dressers, and other pieces contribute to the country look in a bedroom.

Such furniture is offered in plinth or sculptured bases and with brass pulls accenting the antique finishes.

The way to be comfortable with a home is to be comfortable with the loan that goes with it. That's why we've shown borrowers by the thousands the way to pay less for their loan in order to get more for their money. (Ever since we began to give more for their money home loans for building, buying or improving.) See us for a home loan and you can relax and enjoy it, too. Carpet in game room strategy

GAME PLAN: Practical, printed, foam backed carpet is a good starting point for decorating a game room, particularly in basement or below grade areas where cold, damp floors are often a problem. In this case, the carpet is Ozite's "Holiday" pattern in Allied Chemical's new Anso®-X anti-stat nylon. Engineered to withstand heavy traffic, the carpet features permanent static protection and rugged wearability that is guaranteed by the fiber producer. The soil-hiding Anso-X fiber and the lively carpet motif literally defy dirt to spoil the fun. Floor-to-ceiling cabinets provide a built-in niche for the Cosco card table plus storage. Setting by Ed Rager.

Money basic 'building material' for improved home

Money is the one building material that must be "bought" by just about everyone who buys a house or makes a major improvement on his property. Because the cost of borrowing money is constantly subject to change, says one of the country's leading mortgage banking executives, families should exercise the same care in seeking financing for buying or improving an existing home as they do in purchasing any other product or service for their homes.

Such care becomes especially important, as he points out, when prospective borrowers must arrange their financing in a tight money market, like the major "credit crunch" in home mortgage money that developed with brush-fire rapidity during the summer months of 1973.

Emanuel M. Brotman, chairman of the board of J. I. Kislak Mortgage Corporation, emphasized, however, that even when there is a critical nation-wide scarcity of money for home financing, many qualified families can still obtain the loans they need.

"The same basic principle that is useful for finding home mortgage loans even in an extremely tight mortgage money market," Brotman said, "can—and should — be applied to home improvement loans. And that principle is: Know and make full use of the available financing options."

As a case in point, the mortgage banking executive noted that many qualified families were able to obtain mortgage loans, even when the recent nation-wide mortgage money crisis was at its worst, by making use of FHA and VA home financing programs.

"These Government-backed mortgages are always a good bet for prospective homeowners," Brotman said. "They stimulate home buying by providing families with a flexibility of financing arrangements to fit their individual needs and resources."

FHA-insured home mortgage loans are available up to $33,000 for single family houses and up to $45,600 for two-to-four family houses. "For more expensive homes," he said, "VA-guaranteed financing is a good possibility. We at Kislak, for example, are prepared to arrange home financing with no down payment on houses up to $50,000 for qualified veterans.

"In addition, FHA-insured and VA-guaranteed home loans require thorough appraisals that help make sure the buyer is getting a good house for his money," he said.

"Moreover, both the FHA and VA administrations have done an outstanding job in expediting the processing time for these loans.

"On the same basis," he continued, "would-be borrowers should bear in mind that there are a variety of financing plans.

Kitchen reflects woman's world

The kitchen is undisputedly the most lived-in room of the home. Today, more than ever, homemakers expect kitchens to match beauty with convenience . . . regardless of size.

So, when a busy woman executive moved to a compact city studio apartment with a pocket-sized kitchen, she quickly set in motion drastic improvement plans. Concentrating on eliminating old-fashioned utilities, appliances and unfunctional accessories, she made economy a top improvement priority.

One enormous facelift came from her selection of GAF Sure-Stik adhesive-backed tiles. Installing them herself in the 8' x 10' room cost less than $25.

The Colonial Wood vinyl floor tile pattern she selected in a cream-colored wood grain texture opened up the claustrophobic work area and created an illusion of spaciousness. Small, easily mobile appliances placed on casters for greater mobility and in bright yellow and green colors picked up the breezy decorating scheme.

And today's bonus: all surfaces are wipe-cleanable, right down to the floor. Occasional waxing or periodic buffing to develop a lustrous patina assure minimum upkeep in her busy and hectic lifestyle.

For entertaining, a plywood platform covered in the same Sure-Stik tile was added to extend the kitchen floor, while providing a hideaway counter.

Every detail, from the floor up, considers the fast-paced workaday schedule of its occupant without sacrificing gaiety and femininity of style.

Home's safety, security linked to improvements

The National Home Improvement Council maintains that some home improvements can result in a safer home.

Outdoor lighting, for example, discourages crime at the same time that it can beautify. A number of attractive and efficient outdoor lighting systems are available, ranging from softly glowing gas lights for poolside and driveway, to the high-watt crime deterrent systems for illumination that deters prowlers.

In addition to improving security, floodlighting gardens and walkways will provide 'other rooms' for outside entertainment of family and friends. Thermostats automatically turn the lights on and off at designated hours, relieving worries about wasted electricity or gas, most important these days.

Some homeowners invest in security systems. Generally smaller than the average stereo component, these units include provision for both fire and burglar alarms tied in with a local central station. When the system detects an intrusion or the beginnings of a fire, it immediately relays a signal to the station from which security personnel notify police or fire departments.

The system is prevented from disrupting normal family activity by a personal code tapped out on a series of keys. Another more elaborate system actually senses the presence of intruders by means of ultrasonic waves.

U.S. Government booklet reports:

High annual 'dividend' for homeowner from replacement window investment

"An investment in storm windows (or insulating glass) will pay for itself in a decade, including interest costs at 6%, and thereafter will return an annual dividend on the order of 13%" in many areas of the nation.

This statement is quoted from a U.S. Government booklet prepared by the nation's Office for Consumer Affairs, the Department of Commerce and other agencies with the cooperation of the Ad Hoc Committee on Fuel Conservation.

The booklet cites "Seven Ways to Reduce Fuel Consumption in Household Heating through Energy Conservation." It's available at 35¢ from Superintendent of Documents, U.S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D.C. 20402.

But it can be had free of charge by any homeowner who writes for one to Season-all Industries, Inc., Indiana, Pa. 15701, it is announced by Fred M. Schmidt, Manager of Corporate Communications.

Dealers who represent Season-all's line of NuPrime and Thermal-Gard insulating glass replacement windows also are in a position to obtain the booklet free for those who ask for a copy.

Season-all replacement windows are designed of framed insulating glass mounted in a carefree aluminum or vinyl-clad frame aluminum and are made for easy, immediate installation regardless of weather conditions, from inside the home, not from the outside, without disturbing routine family life.

No ladders needed

The need for ladders or scaffolds normally required for installation of replacement windows is eliminated.

The replacement windows, custom-made to exactly fit each individual window opening, are quickly fastened into position with four screws without disturbing the plaster or outside trim.

Benefits accruing from the installation of replacement windows go considerably beyond paying for themselves in fuel savings, say Season-all engineers.

Among other benefits they cite are: elimination of drafts which cause colds requiring costly medical attention, reduction of dust and dirt (pollution) and protection against invasion by bugs.

A clear view

Clear, unobstructed views outside are a bonus, especially during winter when conventional windows are subject to steaming up and to frost accumulation.

Uniquely, though seldom thought of when replacement windows are under consideration, the design of the modern replacement windows functions to conserve energy the year 'round. This arises from their capacity for protection of the inside of the house from summer time heat and a resultant saving in consumption of electrical energy required to operate air conditioners.

BUTCHER BLOCK LOOK

The butcher block look, a fashion favorite in the home since moving from the kitchen to the living room and den, can also serve as a theme for the bedroom.

Furnishings such as desks, chests, hutches, bookcases, bunk and chest beds, are available finished in the butcher block pattern.

CORRECT HAMMER

Most people will use a hammer for home improvement projects. Since there are different hammers for different jobs, make sure the proper hammer is used.

Home remodeling . . . results exciting as face lift

If one wanted to give their face a lift, it calls for either a visit to the local department store cosmetic counter or a plastic surgeon.

However, improving the house is neither as easy as picking out a new lipstick color, nor is it as monumental as a face lift — but the results can be just as exciting.

The first and easiest step to take is a good, long, look at your house. Though you live in it every day, you hardly see it the way a stranger may.

Sometimes it's just a question of rearranging a few choice pieces, and that's as simple as a new lipstick color. The formula's the same. Try it — maybe, you'll like it.

But, if your house requires a real face lift, it's time to consult with experts. Either a house call at the local decorator or decorating department of your home furnishing or paint store, or — and here a house is lucky — some well-spent time researching the decorating books and home furnishing magazines for some sound and easy-to-do decorating ideas.

Ideas like changing a basement into a boy's room and using Schoolfield's Uni-Bed idea, a remarkable new 9-piece "one-world" concept, compact and useful to provide for all the requirements of a young cub-scout.

THIS SOFT, ROMANTIC SETTING proclaims the fact that sitting pretty is as fashionable as ever. Jalousie-covered windows give a feeling of privacy, yet the sunshine streams through to capture the delicate pastel hues of a pair of prettily curved KayLyn loveseats in pale spring green and yellow with chalky white accents. The coffee table's chrome and glass adds a contemporary touch while echoing the sparkle of the antique crystal chandelier placed above a Hickory bombe chest centered in the bay window, framed in sheer white draperies. KayLyn, is a subsidiary of Hickory Furniture Company.

A few rearranging tricks will spruce up the living room. Try placing sofas or loveseats facing each other in front of a window.

This arrangement of seating pieces adds romance, and at the same time, provides a sound premise for a good conversation area. This, plus paint, can work wonders. And today's latex variety goes on easy, dries fast and you can SOPHISTICATED AND MOST CONTEMPORARY, this recreation and game room makes the most of crisp whiteness and low-key earthy tones. Fabric background in a geometric design was chosen in grays, browns, ochres and black on white. Syroco's party table and chairs of gleaming ABS plastic are light and airy, a smart set-up for games or snacks. The Syroco sectional loveseat and sofa, also in ABS plastic, with their plump, loose seat and back cushions are arranged for conversation. Syroco is a division of Dart Industries, Inc.

A PERFECT SET-UP for Cub Scouts and Little Leaguers, the boy's bedroom was designed around a Uni-Bed from Schoolfield Furniture Industries' Swingers' collection. It's comprised of a bed, a chest-wardrobe, a desk, a bookcase hutch, a ladder, a mirror, a bulletin board, and a guard rail — a really all-together design for the spirited young. The hardware is as sharp as the over-all concept of the Uni-Bed which Schoolfield has engineered to establish one totally functional compact unit that is a veritable "treasure island" for any child.

Easy-care furnishings and carpeting keep baby's nursery cheerful, clean

Today's baby is being born into the Space Age — and finding the space to put him in will probably be the first indication of it!

Many young parents in their tiny apartments must look back in nostalgia to the days when all the room you needed for a new baby was a big laundry basket.

Here's a practical solution for a cheerful nursery in a small area which, with the aid of a double-function cabinet storing a fold-down bed, can serve as overnight lodging for visiting grandmother or babysitter and, in time, accommodate the growing child himself.

The top of the cabinet provides a work table for changing the baby and folding linens, etc.

The essentials in a many-purpose room are easy-care furnishings — and this is especially true in a nursery, where housekeeping must be kept at its most meticulous.

A short shag of "Dacron" polyester like this one from World Carpets, is easy to spot clean, and shampoos very efficiently when necessary.

The happy, young decorating scheme revolves around a colorful wall covering designed to delight this V.I.P.

A SHORT SHAG CARPET of "Dacron" polyester, like this one from World Carpets, contributes pleasant softness underfoot, sound absorption and warm color to a cheerful nursery.

Designer Marcus Tuttle did a beautiful room arrangement using two Kay-Lyn loveseats on each side of a Hickory commode. Simple tie-back draperies were placed at the window for a perfect frame and background.

If you're going to start over and decorate from scratch, don't forget about the special convenience of a game table in the den. It doubles for family dining — particularly if the family TV is in view — and that extra table is always there for anything.

You can even keep a jigsaw puzzle set up for friends and visitors to add-a-piece-at-a-time. A few extra lounge chairs and side tables and you're in business.

Doing a room over from scratch these days can be almost painless, too. For, the age of plastic is truly here. Sofas, tables, chairs, are all available in that miracle ABS plastic — Syroco does a whole collection.

A beautiful and exciting newly furnished room can be done in all plastic, so modestly priced, that that, too, is a miracle!

PATRIOTIC DECOR

The approaching American Revolution Bicentennial celebration in 1976 has apparently inspired many furniture manufacturers to begin offering furniture in Early American styling and colonial designs.

Suggestions for selecting contractor emphasize workmanship, reliability

The National Home Improvement Council has some suggestions for selecting a contractor when the homeowner decides to have remodeling work done. These are:

—Employ a contractor with an established place of business, preferably in or near the homeowner's hometown;

—Be sure the contractor has adequate financial references (check past customers, Better Business Bureau and local Chamber of Commerce);

—Discuss the proposed project with the contractor, note his suggestions and his method of evaluating the project;

—Do not be rushed when making a decision;

—Get a written agreement on plans and specifications;

—Understand the quality of materials and workmanship required;

—Do not "shop" with the contractor on prices of materials and labor costs.

In addition, there are tips for homeowners on working with contractors, such as studying and approving plans before work begins and getting specifications on brand name and quantity of materials.

Homeowners would be wise to make certain the contractor provides certification of insurance covering workmen's compensation, property damage and personal liability.

Also, the homeowner might find out if the contractor guarantees to clean up debris after the job is finished. Most contractors offer this, but it is an additional labor cost and will raise the price of the job.

Using attractive wallcoverings revitalizes rooms

Walls can get dowdy just like people. They, too, may need a whole new outfit.

One of the easiest ways to revitalize wall areas is the use of attractive wallcoverings. A coat of paint helps, too, but for true embellishment and lasting treatment, today's new wallcoverings offer a more realistic solution.

Today's wallcoverings are strippable which means they can easily be removed when you're tired of them, or have to move.

Strip off wall

Just strip them off the wall, whole sections at a time. There's no residue to be removed or scraping required, so your walls may be returned quickly to their original state, if need be.

The fashion possibilities are limitless and available for most budgets. For an extra added touch, United-DeSoto, leading wallcovering manufacturer, suggests you splurge with flocked foil wallcoverings.

For special effects there are double flocked patterns such as orange and red flocking on a magenta foil background. This double effect comes in striped and floral designs for companion accents.

Poetic pattern

Lee Po is an oriental design in the collection which relates an ancient poem in black flocked Chinese characters against a vibrant red and gold foil background. The pattern is named after Li Po, famed 8th century classical writer.

Wallcovering subjects

Other design subjects include Peoples Park, an arboreal adventure; Secretarial Pool, a daring array of scantily clad ladies and a variety of argyle plaids and florals.

AFTER flocked wallcovering application and the addition of attractive shelving for handsome books and other treasures, this wall becomes a focal point for the household. Striped flocked wallcovering by United-DeSoto brings cheerful note. Shelving embellishes the area and serves practical function for display of collectibles. Flocked wallcovering shown is Antigua, from the Flocks Unlimited Collection. Walnut finished shelving by Dorfile.

Tips on how to shop for central air conditioning

THERE'S NO NEED FOR the family to gather in the only air conditioned room in the house on those hot summer days. The whole house can be made comfortable by installing GE's Deluxe split-system electric central air conditioning. Deluxe systems can be used individually or in tandem to cool houses of any size, quietly and efficiently.

Scan your daily newspaper and it becomes apparent from the many cooling ads that it's time to consider central air conditioning for your home.

Like many homeowners, you're probably dreading these hot, unpleasant muggy days, wondering if whole-house cooling isn't really a good investment, and trying to decide what's best from the many manufacturers' product advertisements.

You don't have to be a home cooling expert to solve your home comfort dilemma. Simply follow these few common-sense suggestions offered by the General Electric Company.

One: Consider the advantages of central air conditioning first, as it will not only provide more uniform comfort control than several large room units but also could increase the value and saleability of your home.

Installing whole-house central cooling can often cost much less than you realize, particularly if you have a forced-air furnace with adequate existing ductwork to circulate the cool air. This is a so-called "split-cooling system" and is the most common and, frequently, the least expensive home central air conditioning system.

Two: Compare GE's various systems and the many cooling capacities available. GE's three model lines provide a wide variety of different central air conditioning systems to fit most homes or pocketbooks. GE, for example, provides "one-stop shopping" with the three distinct lines.

GE offers: the top-of-the-line Executive available in 37,000-, 49,000- and 60,000-BTUH capacities, the quietest outside and most economical operating central air conditioner in these sizes according to the Air Conditioning and Refrigeration Institute Directory; the 6-model Deluxe series rated 24,000- to 60,000-BTUH with automatic two-speed fan for quiet operation; and the 7-model Standard series in 12,500- to 47,000-BTUH capacities, offering high reliability, good performance and relatively low cost.

Three: Study GE's warranty and National Service Contract protection plan. Most manufacturers provide in-warranty services, but is out-of-warranty service conveniently available? And even more important, is an extended service contract offered that will protect you against major breakdowns?

With every central air conditioner, GE provides a one year, parts only warranty. Then, for the second through fifth year, you can buy (directly from General Electric) the National Service Contract for an attractive low current price of $169.00 (plus local or state taxes) on a 36,000-BTUH gas or electric furnace with air conditioning system. It covers service, both parts and labor, required as a result of normal usage from the second through fifth year from the date the equipment is installed.

Service is performed by an authorized GE Central Air Conditioning servicer of your choice. (Be sure to read the contract for details of coverage and exceptions, such as normal maintenance, and filter replacement).

Other useful hints on whole-house air conditioning are covered in "The Cool, Clean Inside Story on Central Air Conditioning," which is available from General Electric, Building 4-206A, Appliance Park, Louisville, Ky. 40225.

Bright hues for interior '74 forecast

Color this year is more important than ever. The forecast is clear and bright for 1974.

Green mint, brick red, canary yellow, sky blue, tangerine, and terra cotta are the NOW colors. Each one is taken from nature, and can add real excitement to any interior.

The Florida look, painting a room yellow or lime in combination with lots of white, brings on a certain freshness, and creates a cheerful interior. It makes people think of good times, and gives a summer look all year round, even to the dreariest room.

Decorating with red tones or tangerine for smashing accents is fantastically effective when used in moderation and mixed with white furnishings. The whole scheme gives a soaring uplift to the spirits.

Even though the bright colors are the hottest news right now, the earth tones — in step with the ecology movement and nature — are still very popular.

Install Yourself Pow-R-Lift Garage Door Operators

You can enjoy the convenience and security that comes with a garage door operator, and pocket the savings involved by installing it yourself in just a matter of hours. Pow-R-Lift garage door operators by Celotex do more than end the strain of lifting heavy garage doors. On command from a pocket-sized transmitter, your garage becomes fully lighted — automatically — for two full minutes.

A 1/3 H.P. motor with instant reverse or safety stop gives you smooth, safe operation in the event your garage door meets with any obstruction during downward or upward travel. This same overload-protected power package raises sectional garage doors at the rate of one foot per second.

You'll get security plus from the Pow-R-Lift operator's standard built-in automatic door locking system — a system which activates immediately once the door closes. And, since this Celotex operator features full chain drive, the loss of drive power and deterioration of parts common to worm-screw devices is significantly reduced.

Proper foundation underfoot important as the carpet itself

What are your concerns when you buy carpeting? Pattern? Price? Color? Fiber? How it feels underfoot?

Of course you consider all of these elements, whether you're buying printed carpet or tufted; expensive or inexpensive; carpeting for a "show" room like the living room or for a child's room where it will take a lot of tough treatment.

One thing we wonder if you ever consider: what to install underneath.

Once there wasn't much choice. You bought a hair cushion. A jute cushion. A hair and jute combination. Or an underlay of sponge or waffle rubber. And you didn't think much about it. You just took what came with the carpet, and figured it would wear as long as the carpet itself.

That's not necessarily true. Some cushions crumble or "bottom out" or deteriorate with age. But not Omalon.

Omalon is something new. A carpet foundation rather than an ordinary underlay, it's made of polymeric foam that won't crush or crumble. Or shrink, stretch or shred. Or mildew. Or produce an odor if it gets wet.

Because there is a difference, you owe it to yourself — and your new carpet — to check into the various possibilities.

You may find that the price of the carpet you're considering includes the underlay. You may also find that by trading up a dollar a yard, you can have a product that offers superior performance. One that will make your carpet wear longer by giving it better support. One that will feel more comfortable underfoot, and will prevent traffic patterns from developing because its unique resiliency makes it bounce back.

Think of the subject this way: when you purchase a car, you know that what's under the hood is vital to that car's performance. Just so with a carpet: what you don't see, the underlay, is as important as what you do see — the carpet itself.

Like a car, a carpet is a sizeable investment. One that it pays to protect!

GRAND ENTRANCE is created by wall-to-wall carpet in a brilliant stained glass print, its key color repeated in the solid that goes up the stairs. To retain its grand look and keep traffic from developing a pattern, the Congoleum level-loop carpet of 100% Allied Chemical nylon fiber has an Omalon underlay. The polymeric foam foundation goes up the stairs, too, unseen but with superior ability to make any carpet feel better underfoot and wear longer even where it's subjected to the toughest of treatment.

Kitchen ceiling with acoustical tile 'good enough to eat under'

One of these days you're going to do something about that cracked plaster ceiling in the kitchen. Just get some metal lath, mix a little plaster, and patch it up. Nothing to it, right?

Wrong! If you've never tackled this job, check with someone who has. You'll find out it takes a great deal of time, skill and patience to repair a plaster ceiling and have it come out looking good. Add the mess of wet plaster to the clouds of talcum-like dust when it's dried and sanded for painting (another mess) and you've quite a job on your hands.

Inconvenient clutter

You'll also have to cope with the inconvenience of having your kitchen cluttered up with tarpaulins, buckets, and ladders for several days.

What's the alternative?

If you're reasonably handy, you can install new acoustical tile right over the damaged ceiling surface. The cost can be less than half that of a complete replastering job . . . and there's far less mess and bother.

Styled for kitchen

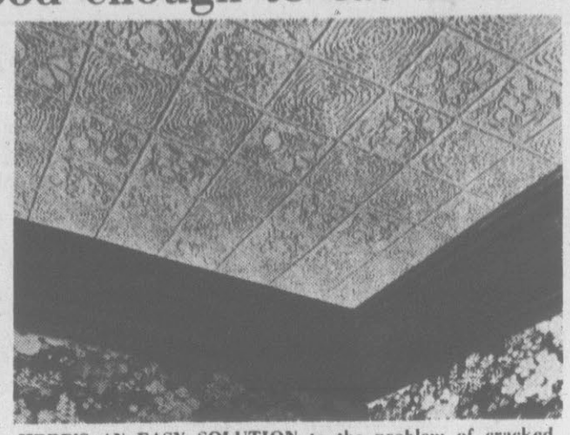
Armstrong offers an acoustical ceiling that's styled especially for kitchens. Called "Gourmet," it has an embossed design of fruit figures and abstract cubes that flows smoothly from wall to wall. What's more, the tile is coated with a tough vinyl surface so it can be scrubbed clean.

Installing one of these acoustical ceilings is easier than you might think. The tiles can be attached to furring strips or suspended at any desired height with Armstrong's new Integrid Suspension System.

With this system, the supporting metal gridwork is hidden behind the tile itself. The result is a finished ceiling that looks like it was installed in one continuous piece.

Illustrated booklet

Chances are the kitchen isn't the only room in your house with a ceiling problem to help you select the right material and installation method for your needs, Armstrong has prepared a new illustrated booklet entitled "A Beautiful Way to Quiet Your Home." For a free copy, write Armstrong Cork Company, Department P. I., Lancaster, Pa. 17604.



HERE'S AN EASY SOLUTION to the problem of cracked plaster ceilings. It's Armstrong's new Gourmet Chandelier acoustical tile, styled especially for kitchens. The material combines an attractive sculptured design with a tough vinyl wear surface for easy cleaning. It can be attached to furring strips or suspended at any desired height.

Fully insulated home will yield savings in heating and cooling

Much has been written about the present energy crisis. Shortages of gas, oil and electricity in various parts of the country have affected our ability to heat and cool our homes. Indeed, in some areas schools have been forced to close down several days a week in the cold winter months. The problem will continue for some time.

Cut utility costs

While the individual homeowner obviously has no control over the fuel supply, he can insulate his home so as to get more out of his heating and cooling units whatever the fuel they use.

He will be helping out in a time of need and he also will be cutting down on his own utility costs.

Owners of older homes can have insulation blown into the walls from the outside. This is done by a local insulation applicator. Johns-Manville points out that another particularly important thing to consider is the proper insulation of attics, crawl spaces and new additions.

Applicators can do the job but where the walls have not been finished off inside — where the interior sides of the outer walls or roof decks are exposed—the homeowner can install fiber glass insulation himself.

There are various types to choose from. Foil-faced insulation is particularly effective. The flanges of the insulation are stapled to the studs to form a snug vapor barrier.

PrePanel is another form of economical fiber glass insulation that the home craftsman can easily install wherever furring strips will be used to carry interior paneling.

Conforming fit

This fire-resistant insulation fits between furring strips (16 inches on center) behind paneling, gypsum board or pegboard. It conforms to irregular spaces without need for edge cutting and it can be tacked, stapled or glued to masonry or other walls.

Another feature of fiber glass insulation, apart from its thermal qualities, is that it cuts down on noise. Drumming, the hollow thumping sound caused by the common cavity between paneling and existing walls, is reduced. Insulation wrapped around pipes not only helps protect from freezing in certain specialized situations but also reduces the sound of running water.

Yearly savings

This all adds up to the fact that fiber glass insulation does a lot for a little. According to Johns-Manville, the fully-insulated home can save the homeowner as much as 40 per cent in heating costs and 30 percent in cooling expense in the course of a year.

IT'S EASY FOR THE HOME CRAFTSMAN to install fiber glass PrePanel Insulation behind paneling, gypsum board or pegboard. Fire-resistant fiber glass reduces heat transmission to make the home cooler in summer, warmer in winter.

Flower center practical room for person with a green thumb

Tired of gravel in your lettuce? Or how about fern clippings in the vegetables? Perhaps you need a center in your home exclusively for potting plants and arranging flowers.

Where can this center be built? Perhaps an extra closet can be remodeled into a flower center by your building contractor. If you are not one of those people who have an extra closet, plan a flower arrangement area in your laundry room.

Efficient laundry

Fresh colors, the latest in laundry equipment and proper arrangement of cabinets and counter space add up to an efficient laundry area that is a joy to work in. A flower center in the same room makes it twice as efficient.

To one side of the laundry area, add on extra cabinets and a counter space and perhaps a shelf or two to store containers for flowers and plants. The counter is a much more workable area if you have a stainless steel sink installed.

You might like to have a single bowl sink with a tall gooseneck faucet that swings away when not in use, or a double bowl sink. The double bowl sink has an advantage in this area because you can soak out a stain in one bowl while you're using the other bowl for arranging flowers.

Some of the sinks featured by Elkay Manufacturing Company, world's largest manufacturer of stainless steel sinks, will fit into any plan. They all provide a stain-proof area in which to put your green thumb to work.

Place near window

This flower center is also quite attractive when placed in front of a window. You need not obstruct light or view, if glass shelves are used in front of the area for displaying plants.

An attractive cabinet to match the furnishings in the room would serve well as the base of the unit. And of course a stainless steel sink can be easily dropped in the top of your cabinet by your building contractor.

Steel bi-fold doors modern way to closet beauty and efficiency

Steel bi-fold doors for closets are fast becoming standard equipment in new homes because of their many advantages over conventional wide-swing doors made of wood. So, if you are thinking about home storage improvement, either by adding new closets to provide needed space, or to modernize existing ones, steel bi-folds deserve a place high in your plans.

Here are some reasons why:

1. Open bi-folds occupy only a fraction of the space required by the wide swing of conventional doors.

2. They allow full access to the closet, as contrasted to sliding doors where one side must always be closed unless initial construction provided for recesses.

3. Steel bi-folds will never warp, stick, swell or sag, a frequent problem with wood or composite doors under changing temperature and humidity conditions, nor will they flex, vibrate or rattle like the doors which are made of light synthetic materials.

Those are the basic advantages of steel bi-folds — there are others. A door recently introduced has a rich leather-like graining that is more than skin deep — it is part of the metal itself. Called TexTured, it's made by Leigh Products, and comes in three distinctive styles with embossed panels. There are also full- and half-louvered models for use where ventilation is needed, such as in pantry or utility spaces and bathroom closets, as well as flush, mirrored, colonial and provincial designs. Prices are as low as $24 a set for a 36-inch closet.

Easy to install

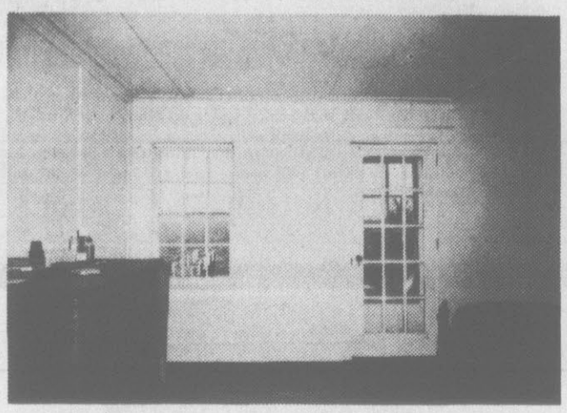
Leigh bi-folds are particularly easy to install due to a patented suspension system, with adjustable pivots that make door alignment simple to compensate for minor out-of-square openings. Side trim is available for use with oversize openings if the wide variety of sizes does not exactly meet your existing closet dimensions, or to give a framed-in look.

Once these bi-folds are in place, and that's only a 30-minute job, the improvement is completed. They're pre-finished in a soft Williamsburg white baked-on enamel, but ready, too, for your own painting if you want harmony with the room color.

"Last word"

Steel bi-folds are "the last word" for today's efficient, easy-care living, and you can find them at your building supply and home improvement centers.

View is hidden



BEFORE: There's a view outside this room, but you'd hardly know it. Unsuitable window and door severely hamper visibility. See photo below for . . .

A visible change

AFTER: The visual horizons of this room have been extended to include a refreshing seascape. A view-restricting wall was replaced with a wide-visibility, low-maintenance Andersen Perma-Shield gliding door. The door's vinyl-clad sash and frame don't need painting and won't pit or corrode in abrasive salt air. Double-pane insulating glass, tempered for safety, reduces heat loss and assures year-round comfort.

Gliding glass doors give room 'see wall'

Homeowners who never hid a light under a bushel may be doing something equally defeatist — hiding a view behind a wall.

Homes that are fortunate enough to have a view shouldn't require a trip outdoors to see it. Where possible, the home should be opened up to surrounding scenery even if that means "removing" a wall.

What may sound drastic is actually a simple and practical solution.

In one seaside home, the transformation from closed wall to open view was accomplished by installing a three-panel glass patio door. There, a second-floor back bedroom faced a beach and private dock and overlooked a magnificent bay.

But the room's single window and a narrow, glass-pane door leading to a deck severely limited the view of this visual extravaganza. The original window and door also gave short shrift to other seaside benefits: sunlight, fresh air and cool breezes.

The whole scene brightened with installation of the gliding door, a low-maintenance Andersen Perma-Shield unit which answered the home's specific needs.

The gliding door has vinyl-clad sash and frames that don't need painting and will not pit, rust or corrode even when exposed to abrasive salt air. Double-pane insulating glass, tempered for safety, cuts heat loss through the large glass areas and assures year-round comfort.

The wide patio door gives the room a "see wall" with sparkling bayside views that light up the interior decor. The door also provides easy access outdoors to a comfortable awning-shaded "poop deck" overlooking the waves.

Surveys reveal women want better homes

Three recent surveys have reportedly indicated that American women almost unanimously would like their homes to be more attractive, more functional and more up-to-date.

This apparent dissatisfaction stems from the extreme idealization of the American home and not because of any lack of decorating ability, according to one of the surveys.

Because the home is held in such high esteem "as a place which is to be warmly loved and intensively enjoyed" — in actuality it seldom meets the homemaker's expectations, one survey said.

One oven with three cooking systems reduces lengthy meal-preparation time

Looking for something extra special in cooking equipment for your kitchen modernization that will reduce lengthy meal-preparation time?

Hotpoint has the answer with its new "Triple-Oven" Microwave Cooking Center Range — the RE747 — offering the advantages of three cooking systems in one oven.

This free-standing Cooking Center features the Versatronic® oven system — the only system you can buy today that lets you cook three different ways: with microwave energy for jet-fast cooking, with conventional electric heat for traditional oven uses, or with both ways at the same time for speed and browning.

The RE747 is a space-saving solution for the family that wants to upgrade its basic cooking equipment, and at the same time enjoy the benefits of microwave cooking, since both conventional cooking and microwave cooking are possible separately or simultaneously in a single 30-inch range.

THIS MICROWAVE Cooking Center Range lets you cook with microwave energy, electricity, or both ways at the same time for speed and browning. Hotpoint makes it.

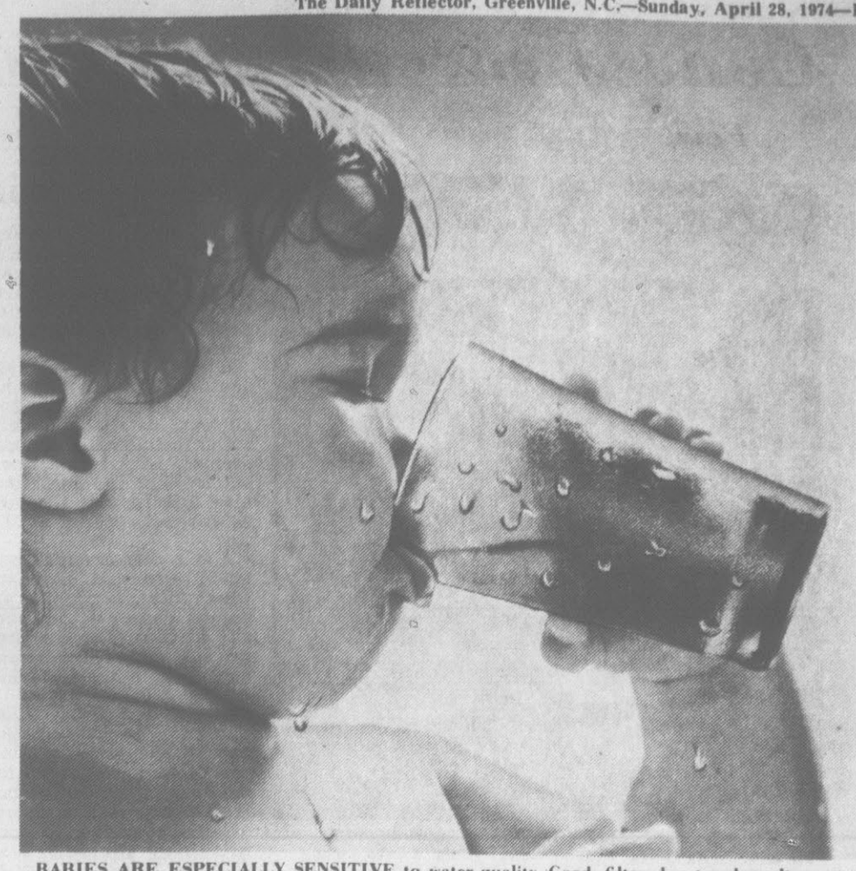
This new Microwave Cooking Center Range is countertop height, and the 23-inch-wide oven has almost 2½ cubic feet of useable capacity.

The microwave oven system utilized can cook small, thin items such as bacon, as well as large, thick entrees such as turkeys or hams, and solves the microwave browning problem.

The Self-Cleaning feature in this range means the oven can clean itself automatically — while you sleep, if you like.

The small amount of electricity used for cleaning costs only about ten cents in most parts of the country. Furthermore, the extra insulation also saves you money during normal baking and roasting.

Surface-cooking features of this new range include infinite controls which enable the homemaker to adjust heat from a slow simmer to a brisk boil, a recessed cooktop to catch spillovers, plug-in surface units that simplify cleaning and replacement, and a fluorescent-lighted control panel raised above the level of most pots and pans for easy access.



BABIES ARE ESPECIALLY SENSITIVE to water quality. Good, filtered water doesn't upset their delicate digestive systems. It should be used in the preparation of formulas — and served straight. Cool, clear, good-tasting water makes baby happy.

Good water turns everyone on

Many people blame pollution for the fact that "water doesn't taste as good as it used to." Others think we've become more critical of the water we drink, and expect more.

Whatever the reason, all of them share the same deep longing for the unmatched refreshment of a drink of cool, clear, good-tasting water.

This secret yearning for water that's better than what flows from the tap was revealed in recent test-marketing of an unusual home water conditioner.

Better water

It's unusual because in addition to producing water that's better for laundering, dishwashing, and personal grooming, it also produces water that's markedly superior for drinking.

The test was in the taste. Wherever the new unit, called Filter-Soft, was introduced, sales jumped. Designed by Culligan engineers, it incorporates an unique carbon filtration system which eliminates sediment, bad tastes and odors. It makes people happy to drink water again.

Convenience, style flavor cook's domain

Food storage needs met

IMPROVED STORAGE FACILITIES are a prime purpose of kitchen remodelings, and no wonder, since developments in foods and appliances, prompting changed cooking habits, have revised storage needs drastically. Here's an example of a super-storage facility available in Rutt custom cabinets — a food file. Today's version of the old-fashioned pantry, it provides three times as much easy-access storage as the width of the 18-inch cabinet it's built into, thanks to swing-out and in-a-door racks for canned goods. Level of roll-out drawers underneath is adjustable. Refrigerator/freezer at right is camouflaged by Rutt "Georgetown" panels.

Beat summertime heat, cool off kitchen by putting in permanent air conditioner

When summer heat and humidity settle in, a cool kitchen during the day can be as desirable and necessary a feature to most homemakers as is a cool bedroom at night.

A through-the-wall air conditioner is often the most logical choice for kitchen installation, since a unit installed in a window over the sink would block out daylight and would also blow directly into the face of anyone working at the sink.

And a permanent installation also can eliminate what otherwise might be an annual chore — installing the unit in the Spring, weather stripping it, removing it in the Fall, and storing it.

Installation through-the-wall in a convenient, but out-of-the-way location can be easily arranged for most air conditioners other than compacts and portables, report the air conditioning specialists at Hotpoint. And a built-in installation is a project well within the capabilities of many handymen.

Built-in air conditioners are available in a wide variety of styles and cooling capacities. Hotpoint, for example, offers 14 models which can be built-in, including 10 in its furniture-styled Heritage series which blend with most kitchen, or other room, decors.

Large-capacity Heritage models provide cooling capacities from 12,000-BTUH up to 23,000-BTUH. These ratings will typically cool during daytime hours an average area of from 640-square-feet up to approximately 1,500-square feet.

For the economy-minded, three of Hotpoint's Heritage series are designated "X-L Power Saver" models.

These models have a higher initial cost than standard Hotpoint models of comparable capacity, but because they require less electrical energy than the standard models they cost less to operate year after year.

That makes them a good choice in many areas of the country where the cooling season starts early in the year and continues into autumn.

PLANNING SUMMER MENUS can be more fun if you don't have to look forward to cooking in an already over-heated kitchen. A built-in air conditioner from Hotpoint can help you keep your cool.

Make way for extra dressing area by moving bed into middle of room

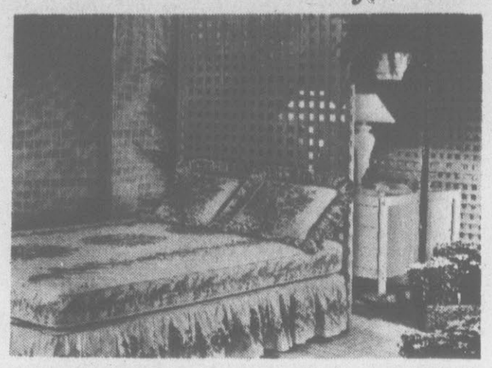
With space and money at a premium, everyone wants to do the most with the least, especially in the bedroom.

Is there anyone who wouldn't like a special dressing area or a really pretty room.

Douglas Sackfield, Head of Simmons Interior Design Department, suggests moving the bed out into the middle of the room rather than hugging a wall. This way the space immediately behind the bed can be used for a dressing area.

Make a headboard-divider easily with lattice strips and paint them spring green to set off "Fantasia," the pretty floral print covering Simmons bedding.

The same fabric, available by the yard from Simmons dealers, is used for dust ruffle and pillow shams.



MOVING THE BED into the middle of the room rather than letting it hug the wall will make space available behind the headboard for use as a dressing area. In the bedroom pictured above, fabric which is identical to the "Fantasia" floral print on the Simmons bedding has been used for dust ruffle and pillow shams.

Dryer close at hand saves work and worry

Keeping household washables "company clean" is easy when you have a large-capacity washer and dryer near the kitchen where you spend so many working hours.

That way you need fewer loads to launder rugs, slipcovers, bedspreads and curtains, and you avoid running up and down stairs every time you wash.

To keep maintenance of these articles to a minimum and to eliminate much of the ironing, Sears laundry experts recommend that you avoid overdrying. Knits, corduroys, quilted fabrics and those with no-iron finishes should be removed from the dryer when just barely dry to the touch.

To test for dryness, remove one item from the warm, moist air of the dryer and hold it against your cheek. The fabric should feel just dry, with heavier seams and trims slightly damp. These items will retain their shape better this way and they can be smoothed and folded, put on a hanger or laid flat to finish drying. Slipcovers can be put back on the furniture at this time.

But busy homemakers have better things to do than stand around waiting to test a load for dryness. To simplify this task, Sears has introduced a new large-capacity Lady Kenmore dryer with an exclusive integrated circuit that automatically stops the tumbling when the load reaches the dryness you select. During the final cool-down portion of the cycle, a finishing light glows to let you know the load is dry. An adjustable end-of-cycle signal buzzes when the dryer stops.

If you will be away from the dryer when it stops, a Wrinkle Guard control can be set to tumble the load for 10 seconds every five minutes until you return. This will help avoid having wrinkles set in.

The perfect laundry-mate for this fabric-protecting dryer is a large capacity Lady Kenmore washer. It has 10 cycles, including settings for permanent press, knits, delicates and washable woolens, as well as for regular fabrics.

With these new large-size Lady Kenmores close at hand, you can forget about laundry "problems" — the machines do the work just the way you want it done.

Roof vent rids attic of hot air, cuts down air conditioner use

You can support the nation's "save a watt" campaign this summer and still keep your home comfortably cool by ridding the attic of trapped hot air.

Stagnant air heats

Air control engineers at Leigh Products, a major maker of ventilating equipment, indicate that the sun's hot summer rays can easily raise the temperature of moist stagnant attic air as much as 100-degrees above the outside air, even with proper insulation!

This super-heated mass acts as a blanket over the entire house, combatting the efforts of even the most efficient home or room air conditioner.

The result is a heavy load on the cooling equipment, with increased maintenance costs, high operating expenses and serious waste of short-supply electric energy.

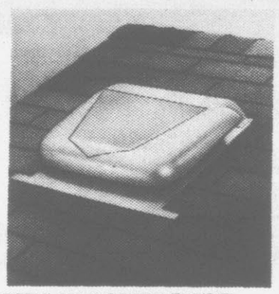
The solution is to prevent the heat build-up with an efficient power ventilating system which will replace the trapped attic air with fresh, cooler air from the outside. No stationary attic vents can possibly do this.

Building supply and home improvement centers have a power roof ventilator made by Leigh to sell for about $50, with a thermostat that can be set to meet the attic temperature control requirements for any part of the country.

Thermostat control

With a range of 70 to 160-degrees, the thermostat starts the power unit at the pre-set temperature and shuts it off when a 15-degree drop has been achieved.

The power unit draws little amperage, and saves appreciably on air conditioner operating costs. In homes without air conditioning, the system is an inexpensive answer to new summer comfort.



THIS 409 POWER ROOF vent by Leigh Products is fully weather protected and constructed to meet FHA and UL specifications. It can easily be installed by the handy homeowner.

'Rustic' panels end barn siding search for interior decor

Down-home nostalgia, love of rustic textures or antique buff — whatever the reason, old weather-aged barn siding has zoomed to popularity, treasured for its Currier & Ives appearance as interior paneling.

For the ambitious, it has meant scouring local countrysides for deserted barns and then, if lucky enough to make a discovery, laboriously treating the acceptable planks with insecticides and disinfectants before installing them inside the house.

Now, however, one has only to visit the nearby paneling dealer who stocks a new hardboard paneling introduced by the Abitibi Corporation. It's appropriately titled New England Barnbord, and looks enough like the real thing to pass close inspection; complete with all the distressed beauty marks, raised knots and deep, aged graining.

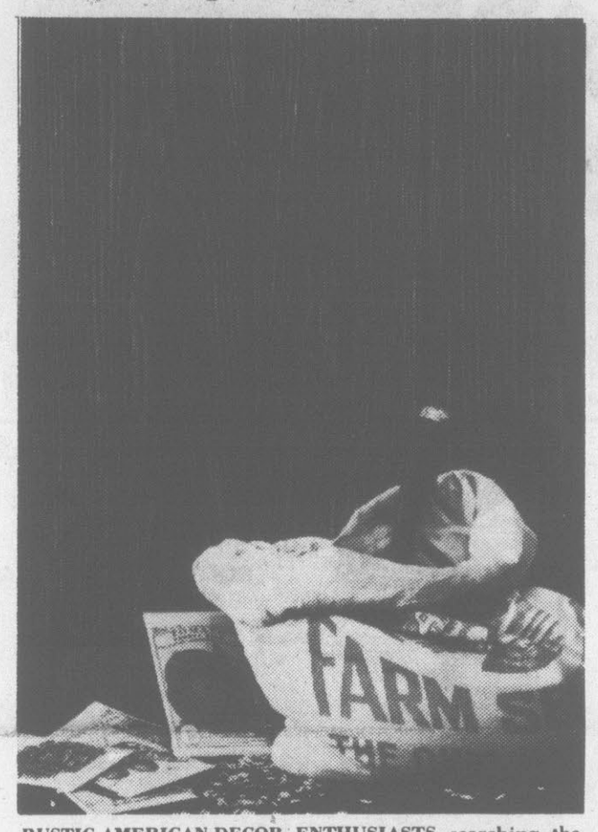
The total effect is further enhanced with subtle hues — as many as five — to achieve just the right note of realism, color-wise. Suitable for a variety of interior decorating schemes, New England Barnbord Panels are available in three different color shades: gray, brown and white. The hardboard panels are easy for a handy homeowner to install with either nails or adhesive direct to studs or any smooth, firm surface. Furring strips are necessary when application is over masonry walls.

Once up, the pre-finished panels require little, if any, maintenance; waxing is never needed. The surface merely wipes clean with a damp cloth, thanks to a tough, baked-on finish that also protects the surface from damage. Acceptable for new construction or remodeling, with application direct to studs, the panels meet FHA requirements and also supply excellent reduction of sound transmission.

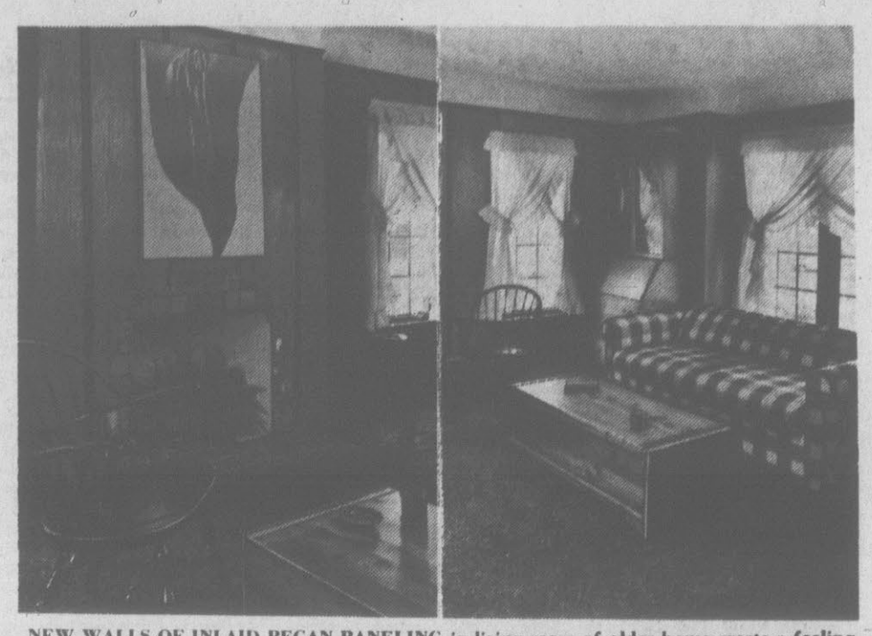
In essence, these hardboard panels provide the best of two worlds — the beauty and charm of an enduring past and the convenience and advantages of a modern wall material.

But for most, the appeal of a rustic paneled room has to be measured, at least in part, by the memory of pleasant experiences. The cozy country inn; the hunting lodge warmed by a large fireplace and filled with the aroma of good cooking; or in our early years, the festive holidays at a grandparents' farm packed with all the wonder the countryside had to offer.

Weather-aged barnboard look



RUSTIC-AMERICAN-DECOR ENTHUSIASTS searching the countryside for weather-aged barn siding with which to panel their rooms are discovering it exists in the form of hardboard paneling made by the Abitibi Corporation. Called New England Barnbord, the new, deeply-embossed panels have an authentic look and feel of real weather worn wood, lending historic charm to a family room or den.



NEW WALLS OF INLAID PECAN PANELING in living room of older home create a feeling of airy spaciousness entirely lacking with old, darker walls. Walnut inlay matched almost perfectly old molding of Honduras mahogany, which was retained. Even the old coved ceiling was enhanced by new inlaid pecan paneling from Georgia-Pacific.

Living room sparked with life by new plywood wall paneling

A small, dark living room was changed into a lighter, airy space by one couple with judicious use of do-it-yourself wood paneling combined with utilization of existing molding. Friends now call to see and admire their living room which invites family use.

The living room of the older home had a plaster-coved ceiling with picture molding of Honduras mahogany at the base of the cove. Walls were plain plaster, and an earlier owner had attempted to dress up the room by installing paneling on one wall, around the fireplace. Unfortunately, his choice was a dark cherry, which served to darken the somber area rather than help lighten it.

Final decision was to panel the entire room, removing the old, dark wood and using a light, factory finished plywood with a dark decorator stripe.

Final choice was Georgia-Pacific's "inlaid" in a pecan with a walnut strip separating wide planks as part of the factory finishing of 4 x 8-foot panels.

The pecan face provided a much lighter wall surface, and the walnut inlay proved to be almost a perfect match for the existing molding. As a result, the molding was retained, and the new paneling cut to fit.

Removal of the old quarter-inch decorative paneling proved surprisingly easy. It had been nailed onto the wall and the homeowners were able to remove it panel by panel.

This also provided a plus in installation of the new paneling. The fireplace had no mantel, but did have a patterned inlay of stone in the surrounding wall.

Careful removal of the old plywood enabled it to be used as a template to insure that the new inlaid paneling made a perfect fit when placed around the fireplace.

The plaster wall was in good condition, straight with no checking or flaking, so it was decided to use adhesive to fasten the new hardwood directly to the plaster without using furring strips. This also enabled the G-P paneling to fit the existing molding and windows without the need to build out window frames.

The new paneling has an eased V-joint edge so joints between 4 x 8-foot panels disappear.

Final result was a light, airy room which gave the appearance of greater spaciousness than the old. Along with the lightness, the use of natural wood gave a warmth that was previously lacking. This do-it-yourself couple in Portland, Ore., are now telling all their friends — some of whom were shocked initially at the idea of replacing old wood wall paneling with new.

The initial shock has changed to a new consensus, "beautiful!"

Suspended ceilings solve problems

The suspended ceiling system is not only a lifesaver when it comes to modernizing older homes but also it hides faults and muffles sound.

Fiber glass has really come into play with the modern grid systems. The lay-in panels are virtually feather-light. They can be lifted in and out with ease, and their vinyl "skin" is wiped clean with ordinary household cleaners.

Johns-Manville makes a point of the fact that the grid system can be installed by any reasonably adept do-it-yourselfer. Such a system can lower ceilings that are too high, hide pipes and ducts, and also cover older ceilings that are in bad repair. They are particularly effective in finishing off family rooms and other large areas, but they can be utilized in many other parts of the house.

For a free "how-to" booklet write to Johns-Manville, Box 5705, Greenwood Plaza, Denver, Colorado 80217. Specify booklet IB-167A.

Smooth cooktop unit cleans fast and easy

BENTON HARBOR, MICH. — If your kitchen remodeling plans call for both attractive appearance and practical use, one of the new smoothtop ranges should fill each requirement. The clean, all-in-one unit look of a smoothtop is designed for the homemaker who doesn't want to clean burners, heating elements or drip pans.

Hidden heating

Heating elements are hidden beneath a smooth ceramic glass cooking surface, eliminating ridges or crevices where dirt or food spills might collect. Spills and spatters stay on top where they can be cleaned off as easily as cleaning a counter-top . . . with a damp cloth or towel and some recommended cleaning compound.

Whirlpool Corporation offers both a built-in surface unit and a set-in range. The set-in model features the smoothtop surface unit with a continuous cleaning automatic oven.

Flat bottom cookware

No special cooking utensils are required. Your present pots and pans may be used if they have flat bottoms that stay flat when heated.

Surface heating units have been computer designed to provide infinite, uniform heat transfer to your foods. Individual signal lights for each surface unit tell at a glance which unit is "on" and its location on the cooktop.

Bathtub change for the better brought about by 'acrylic age'

The age of acrylics has changed the bathtub more in the last five years than anything in the nearly 30 centuries since its first recorded use, according to a major manufacturer.

"Fiberglas-bonded acrylic construction makes possible safety, convenience and esthetic features never before possible," said P. J. Dowett, director of research and development for Borg-Warner Plumbing Products. "Conventional cast-iron bathtubs simply don't offer the design flexibility that the new acrylic units do."

A case in point, he continued, is Borg-Warner's new Comfortub bathing unit. Incorporated are such safety and convenience features as an integral seat, a safety grab bar, a contoured back rest and an inherently slip-resistant surface.

"Acrylic tubs offer several distinct advantages to home renovators," Dowett said. "The Comfortub, for example, weighs only 70 pounds and thus can be easily installed by the do-it-yourselfer. In addition, a unique tiling flange allows grout-free installation using either ceramic tile or hardboard paneling."

PRACTICAL LUXURY — A molded seat — sloped back for safety but self-draining — makes Borg-Warner Plumbing Products' new Comfortub bathing unit ideal for such feminine grooming rituals as leg shaving. The seat is also a practical spot from which to supervise child bathing or simply to soak tired feet. The unit also features a contoured back rest, a safety grab bar and an inherently slip-resistant fiberglass-bonded acrylic finish. Weighing only 70 pounds, the unit handles easily, says the manufacturer, and incorporates a unique tiling flange for watertight installation.

The seat — sloped gently back for safety but self-draining — provides a safe place from which to supervise child bathing; it also is comfortable and convenient for performing feminine grooming chores, and handy for packing bath toys and cosmetics, he said.

How to enhance home without tax hike among inquiries to municipal officials

Since building codes and assessment procedures differ among municipalities, homeowners should contact their local tax assessor for exact information concerning home improvements and tax assessments, and possible improvements which do not raise taxes.

Most municipalities, no matter what the size, encourage such inquiries.

Buffalo, N.Y., for example, has published a booklet entitled, "Improvements You Can Make Without A Tax Increase."

According to the National Home Improvement Council, it is in the best interest of city government that property owners are encouraged to preserve the value of their property by improving their homes.

Homeowners also ought to be informed about the functions of the quasi-judicial bodies, such as boards of adjustment and planning boards, which often regulate and oversee property improvement.

A building inspector is usually contacted first.

Installing built-in appliances simplified for homeowners

Replacing built-in appliances no longer need be an involved, complicated and expensive project.

Many manufacturers, realizing homeowners want to replace out-of-date built-ins, but often can't afford the cost of the appliance plus installation charges, have simplified the installation job to the point where the average handyman can tackle it with reasonable anticipation of doing it right the first time.

And in a reasonable amount of time, too. Hotpoint, for example, was the first manufacturer in the 1950's to offer a full-line of built-in kitchen appliances, and now 20 years later is a leader in replacement built-ins designed for ease of installation.

The appliance maker also recently introduced a special Dishwasher Replacement Installation Kit (Model HDX74) for do-it-yourselfers. This $14.95 (suggested retail price, optional with dealer) kit makes possible replacing almost any brand of built-in dishwasher with a modern, sound-insulated Hotpoint "Whisper-Clean" model.

The instructions include step-by-step procedures for removing the old dishwasher and show how parts included in the kit can be used to adapt most existing drain lines, water supplies and electrical connections to accommodate the newly-purchased machine.

SPECIAL KITS and step-by-step instructions have greatly simplified kitchen modernization projects, such as installation of this Hotpoint food waste disposer.

Instructions for installing your own food waste disposer also are packed in the carton of Hotpoint's popular "Barracuda" replacement model, which features not only a simplified three-bolt easy-mount system but a life-time parts-only warranty against corrosion failure of specified water-bearing components.

BATHROOM DECOR

Bathrooms are particularly hard to redecorate. Young couples might consider creating a "his and hers" setting in the bathroom, divided with masculine and feminine colors.

LADDER SAFETY

Many homeowners are injured, often seriously, when they do work around a house using a ladder. Make sure your ladder is on solid footing, and positioned so that it will not slip when you climb on it.

Rely on expert advice when doing over kitchen

Remodeling a kitchen as a do-it-yourself project can be enjoyable as well as rewarding if you're equipped to cope with the numerous steps it involves — from planning to shopping for cabinets and appliances to installing a bevy of built-ins.

Lots of people, by admission, simply are not equipped, either by nature or through lack of knowledge, to plumb, construct, wire, install cabinets, lay carpet or tile and paint or hang vinyl on walls. Others haven't the time. Or they lack the urge.

See professional

It's for the don't-do-it-yourselfer that professional kitchen designers exist — specialists whose business it is to guide you in making decisions on the basis of your wants, needs and budget; who ask questions about your life-style and custom-design your kitchen to suit it.

To find such an individual, you ask friends and neighbors. Read newspaper ads. Look in the Yellow Pages under Kitchen Cabinets & Equipment. Result: you may have a half-dozen names.

To eliminate them, one by one, until you've decided whom to employ, check your bank or savings and loan company. Your Better Business Bureau. Visit the showrooms of the various firms listed. This is a good guide, the showroom. If a planner doesn't have one, beware, He may be a fly-by-night operator.

The reputable and dependable kitchen specialist is likely to be a member of the American Institute of Kitchen Dealers. This means he has a showroom with at least two complete kitchens, has been head of his retail kitchen business for a minimum of two years, and is financially stable — otherwise his membership would be cancelled.

If the AIKD member firm is headed by a Certified Kitchen Designer, or has a CKD on its staff, so much the better.

The initials CKD after a name indicate that individual has passed a strict examination for ability, and that affidavits of competence and integrity from client and professional sources have been judged satisfactory by the Council of Certified Kitchen Designers, the industry's accrediting body.

Helping you choose from the multiple options of kitchen design—style, color, materials, products and price — is only one of the valuable services a planner performs.

Equally important is that he becomes the single source of responsibility for your remodeling from beginning to end. Essentially, he provides one-stop shopping.

This starts with planning the layout of the kitchen, subject to your approval. Figuring out what should go where to provide the greatest convenience for the way you like to work. Calculating how much storage space you need and how it should be organized.

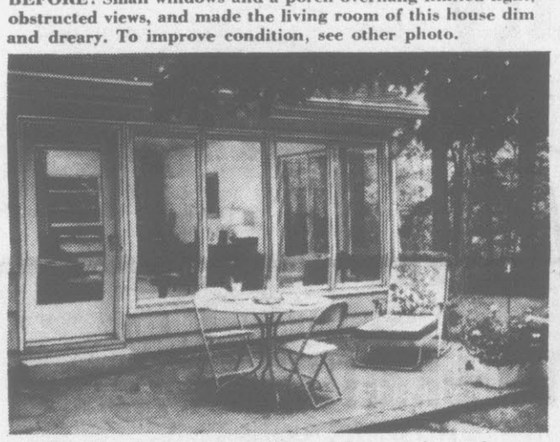
Plans specified

He specifies the location of plumbing, gas and electricity inlets; plans the lighting; helps you select the colors, fabrics and other decorative elements; orders all materials, including countertops, flooring and wallcovering; orders the appliances and cabinets; supervises construction and installation; sees that all equipment performs as it should.

Does it cost more to work with a professional than to remodel a kitchen yourself? Maybe, if you're an expert do-it-yourselfer. But it could cost far less because knowledge eliminates the error of the trial-and-error technique. And turning the job over to a specialist can also eliminate a lot of along-the-way arguments among amateurs!

TELL A KITCHEN SPECIALIST YOUR WANTS and he'll fulfill them, even to installing the ultra in modern conveniences within the homey atmosphere of a Swiss chalet. Pitched, beamed ceiling and brick walls contribute an old, country look to this kitchen, while the microwave oven in the far corner is strictly America today. Wood-Mode cabinets provide a multitude of built-in storage aids; also camouflage dishwasher and refrigerator/freezer that are two prime reasons for remodeling.

BEFORE: Small windows and a porch overhang limited light, obstructed views, and made the living room of this house dim and dreary. To improve condition, see other photo.



AFTER: Handsome, wide-visibility sliding windows of ponderosa pine opened the living room to sunlight, air and the scenic outdoors. Insulating glass in the wood sash windows and door cut heat loss, conserving fuel and keeping the room comfortable year-round, also enhancing property value.

New windows make 'magic' difference

Home improvement projects aren't miracles. But sometimes the changes that are wrought make them seem that way.

Witness this example: a dreary living room had minimal sunshine and air. It was too narrow for good furniture placement or effective decoration. The windows were small. Light was cut off by the roof of an adjacent porch. A beautiful surrounding garden couldn't be seen from inside the house.

After remodeling, the room was large, well-lit and sunny. Garden views were expansive. No magic was at work; just imagination, good planning and use of wide-visibility stock wood windows. Here's how it happened:

The porch was eliminated, and the living room extended nine feet to the end of the former porch. Floor-to-ceiling wood windows and a wood door with one large pane of glass were added. By using insulating glass in the windows and door, and extending the existing heating system with baseboard units, heating costs were kept to a minimum.

Extension of the room gave it good, workable proportions and space for storage cabinets and a built-in stereo. Since the house already had a spacious patio, the porch was not missed. But, it was the choice of windows that made the biggest change.

Sliding ponderosa pine units, available in stock sizes at local lumber dealers, were selected. They operate easily, offer maximum ventilation, and have large, uninterrupted glass areas that open up the living room to lovely outdoor views.

Use of insulating glass, plus the natural insulation of wood sash, and tight, factory-applied weatherstripping keep the room comfortable in all seasons. Effective window insulation also helps to conserve fuel and fuel costs.

QB VII, A TV First

Anthony Hopkins wandered around Jerusalem on the day before he was scheduled to begin playing Dr. Adam Kelno on location in Israel for the ABC Movie Special, "QB VII," which airs in two parts on Monday, April 29 (9-12 p.m.) and Tuesday, April 30 (8:30-11:45 p.m.) on channel 3W-5-12.

He went to Yad Vashem, where his friend—enemy in the film—and co-star Ben Gazzara, in the role of Abe Cady, was moving through this real-life monument to the six million Jews murdered in World War II.

Anthony Hopkins—Welsh-born and too young to remember much of the war — escaped tears by voicing his anger after walking through the museum that offers graphic and unforgettable proof of the cruelty of man to man.

"This is unbelievable," he said. "It's unbelievable. It's unbearable! How could this insanity have happened?"

The experience of Yad Vashem (literally translated from the Hebrew: "Monument and Memorial" a phrase from the Book of Isaiah) was an emotional shock to Anthony Hopkins, but it was far from his first awareness of the grotesque crimes of the concentration camps. When he was first offered the role of the doctor accused of performing experimental operations on his fellow prisoners in those camps, he said "No!" automatically. The idea of playing such a character was revolting to him, but after friends urged him to read the script before making a final decision, he studied the subject and the period more closely and made some painful personal discoveries.

"I realized finally that Dr. Kelno — performing the operations that people later call atrocities — was as frightened and confused, as any of us would be — and probably temporarily insane as well. After reading books by people who survived the death camps I realized that it's not just the tragedy of the six million but the tragedy of Man. Everyone was guilty because everyone allowed Hitler to have that power."

Anthony Hopkins — like Richard Burton and Dylan Thomas and the other Welshmen we know in this country — is a vibrant, laughing man, but when he discusses this subject there is no laughter.

"What was it all about, really?" he asked a visitor. "Nothing is as simple as I thought it was. I looked at films of the Nazi camps to get an idea of what I was playing and I was brutalized by those films — I thought 'Those pigs! I hope some of them are still alive so they can be hanged publicly!' And that reaction is awful . . . I was behaving like them."

Anthony Hopkins — a gentle man, a friendly man — shuddered, and turned to his wife, who had accompanied him to Israel.

"Shall we go, then, love?" he said. "I don't think I can take too much more of this."

And he walked away. But a part of himself — as with everyone involved in the production stayed in the ruins of human history, just as novelist Leon Uris invested a part of his own soul in the bloody nightmares of the 20th century by writing "Exodus" and "QB VII."

The unprecedented six-hour film also stars Leslie Caron, Lee Remick, Juliet Mills, Jack Hawkins, Dame Edith Evans, Judy Carne, Robert Stephens, Anthony Quayle, Dan O'Herlihy, Joseph Wiseman, Kris Tabori, Milo O' Shea, Lana Wood, Sam Jaffe, Signe Hasso and Michael - James Wixted. The movie was filmed on three continents and will be the first American movie to bring a complete major novel to television, telling the full story from beginning to end, covering a period of some 25 years, with scenes filmed in Israel, Belgium, London and Hollywood.

The Uris novel, based on an international lawsuit in his own life, concerns an American writer (Gazzara) determined to record the whole grotesque history of the Nazi concentration camps, and a Polish doctor (Hopkins) he accuses of war crimes. The film tells each man's individual story, culminating in a libel trial in London — in Queen's Bench VII — where one or the other will be discredited and destroyed.

Liza Minelli And French Star In Tuesday Special

Liza Minnelli thinks it's appropriate that she is co-starring with Charles Aznavour in his first headliner special for American TV, "Timex Presents Love From A to Z," to be colorcast on Tuesday, April 30 (10-11 p.m.), on channel 6-7.

LIZA MINNELLI

Liza remembers a very special occasion for her in France when she was 18. "That's when I made my first appearance in France," Liza recalled, "and Charles introduced me to French audiences from the stage of the Olympia in Paris. I will never forget how marvelous he was, how helpful. He is one of my favorite people in this world.

That's why I always include his songs in my nightclub and concert performances."

The Academy Award-winning (for "Cabaret") singer-actress sings six Aznavour songs during the special, either as solos or in duet with him. They include "And I In My Chair," "There is a Time" ("Le Temps") and "You've Let Yourself Go."

Said Liza: "I can't possibly list all of my favorite Aznavour songs but of the melodies I do in the special, I guess 'And I In My Chair' and 'Le Temps' are the most touching."

Aznavour also is associated with another song Liza sings on the program — one which has become a Minnelli trademark—"Liza With a Z."

"QB VII," the two-part special presentation of the Leon Uris best-seller, airing Monday, April 29 (9 p.m. - 12 Mid.), and Tuesday, April 30 (8-11:15 p.m.), Channel 3-5-12, involves the lives of many people in the intense courtroom confrontation in Queen's Bench VII when two proud men meet in a legal battle that will allow only one of them to leave with honor. The two men (c) are Ben Gazzara (1) as writer Abe Cady and Anthony Hopkins as Dr. Adam Kelno. Others (clockwise from the top) are Juliet Mills, tending the wounded Abe Cady before she becomes his wife; Anthony Quayle, defending Cady from a charge of libel as Lee Remick looks on; Leslie Caron as the loyal wife of Dr. Kelno, who was accused of concentration camp war crimes in Cady's book; and Dan O'Herlihy, the publisher of the book.

Meet A Balloonist On 'Make A Wish'

A baloon trip over Michigan and a visit to Manhattan museum involve children in the explanation of the words "Cloud" and "Arrow," on "Make a Wish," Sunday, April 28.

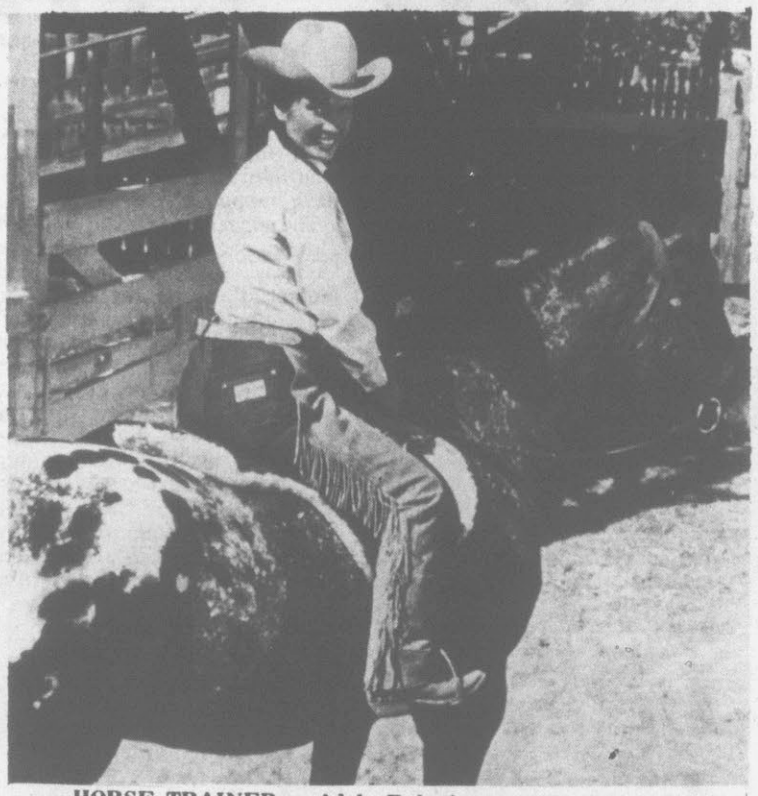
The purpose of the Peabody Award-winning program is to search out the many meanings and associations of two key words each week. "Cloud" and "arrow" are explored with the aid of a seven-story-high balloon and an examination of arrowheads at the museum of the American Indian.

Host Tom Chapin strums the guitar and sings original songs created about the key words by his brother, Harry Chapin, a recording star as well as composer. "Make a Wish" is written by Lester Cooper, the executive producer. Tom Bywaters is the producer.

In the program segment on the word, "cloud," the audience learns that some kinds of clouds become fog and others create rain. This leads to an introduction to a man who travels above the clouds, Dennis Floden of Flint, Mich., world champion hot air balloonist. Nicknamed Captain Phogg, he makes an ascent in "Phogg's Pholly," his seven-story-high balloon, for the benefit of "Make a Wish" viewers.

Passengers on the first hot air balloon flight made in Paris in 1783 were a duck, a rooster and a sheep. Today, in the United States there are about 140 balloonists certified by the Federal Aviation Administration.

The next segment moves on to the many meanings and functions of "arrow" from the fire arrows used by King Xerxes of Persia during his invasion of Greece to the arrows commonly used today to denote directions. The arows written about by James Fenimore Cooper in "The Last of the Monicans" in 1826, serve to introduce the topic of arrowheads.



HORSE TRAINER — Adele Palacios portrays Mary Blackfeather, an American Indian who aids her tribe's economy by training and raising horses, in "Run, Appaloosa, Run" on "The Wonderful World of Disney" Sunday, April 28 (7:30-8:30 p.m.) on Channel 6-7.

Glen Campbell To Be Narrator

Award-winning singer and guitarist Glen Campbell is balladeer-narrator for "The Incredible Flight of the Snow Geese," a documentary chronicling the remarkable 2,500 mile migratory habits of the snow goose, Monday, May 6 (8-9 p.m.) on CBS-TV.

YOUR LIVING ROOM

There's no question about it, your living room is you. That is to say that it tells a great deal about you and your individual tastes. It's bubbling with your very own personality. How do you feel about it? Proud and happy! Let's hope so. Since individual tastes are to be satisfied, there must be a wide variety of upholstered pieces for the living room. Furniture today comes in many shapes and designs but it always has the homemaker in mind for comfort and easy care.
Your living room deserves the best. Therefore we suggest that you stop in soon and select new carpeting to suit your own taste and decor. Eastern Carpet Inc., 602 West Greenville Blvd., Greenville. 756-1944. "Where There's Always A Sale." "Carpet is our Business, Not a Hobby."

What They're Saying

Some quotes from current and upcoming editions of "The Mike Douglas Show" seen weekdays.

"The press keeps asking, but no one believes that my streak at the Oscars wasn't set up." — Robert Opel.

"The ultimate would be to streak the President's news conference while he is saying he has nothing to hide." — Robert Opel.

After being asked by Mike Douglas what he does as Republican National Chairman: "Well, I cry a lot lately," — George Bush.

"I think the American people are fundamentally fair and they know that what's needed is not just a correction of Watergate but a correction of all kinds of Watergates that have happened in the past and regrettably might happen in the future." — George Bush.

"A very lovely lady and a very talented lady," — Dick Haymes speaking of his former wife, Rita Hayworth.

"My wife and I are very friendly with Joanne," — Dick Haymes speaking of his former wife, Joanne Dru.

"He makes the best spaghetti sauce in the world." — Beatrice Arthur of "Maude" talking about Jack Klugman of "The Odd Couple."

"They say a man is judged by the company he keeps. My closest companion for the past 40 years has been a dummy." — Edgar Bergen.

"I had all the breaks when I went to Hollywood." — Gene Tierney.

Explaining the extent of his fear of snakes: "I wouldn't even touch Alice Cooper." — David Steinberg.

"Braces are a nuisance. It's like having a girdle on your teeth." — seven-year-old Mason Reese.

"He's the most tenacious, hardest-working star I've ever worked with." — Ben Gazzara discussing his friend Peter Falk whom he directed in a May episode of "Columbo."

Responding to Mike Douglas' question about whether the 20's were really roaring: "Not particularly." — Rudy Vallee.

"It becomes difficult to be so nice all the time. It's fun to play heavies." — Richard Thomas, John-Boy of "The Waltons"

"My father wanted me to be a doctor and I wanted to be an actor. With my role in 'M-A-S-H,' we both got our wish." Alan Alda.

"It was, I think, the hardest decision I've ever had to make and one that was not made lightly." — Sen James Buckley on his urging President Nixon to resign.

Lee Meriwether Is Prepared For A Cowgirl Role

Lee Meriwether is a make-up man's dream, with the kind of flawless bone structure that allows her to grow more beautiful each year. She can also throw a right cross as well as any male actor in the movies.

Ever since she saw Don "Red" Barry clean up the Old West in a series of Westerns made in the Forties, she's dreamed of playing just that kind of role. However, the comely co-star of "Barnaby Jones," seen Sundays (9:30-10:30 p.m.,) on channel 9-11 is usually cast as either the femme fatale or the romantic interest.

Deciding to take the saddle by the horn, Miss Meriwether enrolled in a course of gun-fighting, roping and trick-riding taught by Stevie Meyers, one of Hollywood's leading stuntwomen.

"The first time I tried to make a running jump into the saddle," Miss Meriwether says proudly, "I made it with no problem. The second time, however, I missed, and then kicked the poor horse in the leg."

After mastering the running jump from the side, Miss Meriwether next attempted a "grouper mount," jumping on a horse from behind.

"Stunt men usually do this trick by using a take-off board covered with dirt," she points out. "But not me. I tried it flat out — and threw my back out."

After that, it was on to running dismounts, rope twirling and handling six shooters.

"I spent about six weekends at Stevie's ranch getting bruises in places I wouldn't even want to talk about," Miss Meriwether recalls.

However, she says she is now ready, if she can only find a producer who is looking for an actress with perfect features who can hit the saddle in a leap over a horse's rump.

In the meantime, Miss Meriwether keeps both feet on the ground, portraying the assistant to private eye Barnaby Jones.

ANNIVERSARY PROGRAM — The troubled romance of Steve and Alice (George Reinholt and Jacqueline Courtney) culminates in their second marriage to each other in the special one-hour 10th anniversary colorcast of "Another World" on Channel 6-7, Friday, May 3 (3-4 p.m.). Miss Courtney has been in the show since its first telecast.

New Actors For 'Somerset' Cast

Three performers have joined the cast of "Somerset," the NBC daytime drama series: Gary Swanson and Eleanor Phelps in the new roles of Greg Mercer and Hilda Benson; and Barry Jenner as Tony Cooper, replacing Ernest Thompson.

Gary Swanson appeared in the films "Night Walker" and "A Claim to Flame." He has been seen in a number of TV shows and numerous commercials, and in a wide variety of roles in college productions. The young actor spent a summer as a high diver at the Atlantic City (N.J.) Steel Pier. He spent last summer modeling and diving for lobsters off Long Island.

Eleanor Phelps has made Broadway credits. Most recently, she was a Lady in Waiting to Queen Mary in "Crown Matrimonial." Her debut was as Jessica in "The Merchant of Venice," starring George Arliss. She has since appeared in numerous productions: four plays by Elmer Rice; with Maurice Evans in "Richard II"; with Jason Robards in "The Disenchanted"; in Tennessee Williams's "The Garden District"; and in "Forty Carats."

'Another World' Sweeps Ratings

"Another World," NBC Television Network's daytime drama series, has again swept all categories in the latest monthly poll of Daytime TV magazine. The program, which will celebrate its 10th anniversary Friday, May 3, with a special one-hour colorcast (3-4 p.m.), was selected by the viewing voters as Best Program, with another NBC-TV serial, "Days of Our Lives," as the runner-up. (In 42 of the 47 times the poll has been conducted, either "Another World" or "Days of Our lives" has placed first as Best Program.)

Jacqueline Courtney and George Reinholt, who play Alice and Steve on "Another World," won the Best Actress and Best Actor in the latest poll. (Miss Courtney has placed in the top 10 Favorite Actress category 45 times.

Awkward In Love Scenes

"I think it was one of the most awkward scenes I've ever done," said actress Brenda Benet after doing a romantic scene with her husband, Bill Bixby, in his series "The Magician."

"It was even hard to kiss him," she continued. "It's the same old mouth, but it was terrible. I was so abnormally shy; I guess because I don't think it's anybody's business. The scene would have been easier had I done it with a total stranger because that would be real acting. With Bill, it was like being on exhibition."

Brenda plays one of Anthony Blake's (Bixby) love interests in the segment, "Illusion in Terror," to be colorcast Monday, April 29.

Another problem for Brenda in working with her husband was the brief rehearsals before filming each scene. Bill, a perfectionist, would turn to her after she had done her lines and say, "Is that the way you're going to do it?" Said Brenda, "I was crushed." Said Bill, "I was probably more difficult with her than anybody, because I know what an excellent actress she is and I know working with me wasn't easy for her."

There was one big thrill for Brenda in doing the show. She got to do some magic. "Bill has sworn to the magicians of the world not to reveal how any tricks are done and he keeps his promise, even from me,' said Brenda. "But in one scene I had to disappear and I know where I went, so now I feel good knowing that I know at least one magic trick."

HITCHCOCK PRESENTS— SUSPENSE spurs the plots of two spine-tingling spy thrillers directed by Alfred hitchchock "The 39 Steps," starring Robert Donat (l) and Madeleine Carroll (r), and "The Lady Vanishes," starring Margaret Lockwood and Michael Redgrave. "The 39 Steps" will be rebroadcast on "The CBS Late Movie" Monday, April 29 (starting at 11:30 p.m.), and "The Lady Vanishes" will be presented on the series on Tuesday, April 30 (starting at 11:30 p.m.) on Channel 9-11.

Diversified Love Stories

Bill Bixby and Julie Sommars, Leonard Nimoy and Juliet Mills, and Lorne Greene and Agnes Moorehead are stars of three diversified love stories — "Epicac," "Kiss Me Again, Stranger," and "The Fortunate Painter" — that constitute "Rex Harrison Presents Short Stories of Love," to be colorcast on "NBC Wednesday Night at the Movies" May 1 (9-11 p.m.) on channels 6 and 7.

Soldiers' Wives In A Limbo

Kate Jackson, Katharine Justice and Kathleen Nolan star in "Limbo," a film dramatizing the plight of three wives left at home while their husbands fight in Vietnam, to be colorcast on "NBC Monday Night at the Movies" April 29 (9-11 p.m.) on channel 6-7

Mary Kaye Buell (Miss Nolan), 35 and with four children, waits for a husband who has been a POW for seven years.

Sandy Lawton (Miss Jackson), 20, married for only two weeks when her husband was shipped to combat duty, passes the time taking college courses and eventually becomes involved with a fellow student.

Sharon Dornbeck (Miss Justice), a former beauty queen in college, prefers to retreat into a fantasy world to wait for her missing-in-action husband whom she has been warned may be dead.

The film details their plight and traces their traumatic journey to Paris to speak with the North Vietnamese delegation about their husbands.

"MURPHY'S WAR" — Peter O'Toole stars as a determined Irishman waging a one-man war against a German submarine in W.W. II in "Murphy's War," a television premiere on "ABC Sunday Night Movie" April 28 (8:30-10:30 p.m.) on Channel 3-5-12.

'Private' War Told

Peter O'Toole stars in the television premiere of "Murphy's War," an action spectacular that critic Judith Crist called "a sort of latter-day 'African Queen'. . . . lets the tension build with electric timing" on the "ABC Sunday Night Movie," April 28 (8:30-10:30 p.m.) on channels 3-5-12.

Variety, the show business weekly, said "O'Toole, playing an Irishman for the first time, does so with a gleaming zest that brings nerve and style to this wartime anecdote. . . . the kind of good, solid entertainment needed these days."

"Murphy's War" is a private vendetta declared by Murphy (O'Toole), an Irish aviation mechanic who is the sole survivor of a British merchant ship that is sunk by a German U-Boat near the end of World War II. All the other members of the crew are mercilessly machine-gunned by the submarine crew.

Murphy is rescued by Louis Brezan (Philippe Noiret), a French oil engineer, and placed in a Quaker mission under the care of a woman physician, Dr. Hayden (Sian Phillips, O'Toole's wife in real life.)

When the U-boat commander (Horst Janson) intercepts a radio message saying that a survivor knows where the submarine is hidden, he raids the mission, but kills the wrong man.

Driven into a rage by this additional murder, Murphy patches up a seaplane and bombards the U-boat with giant Molotov cocktails, but he only succeeds in damaging the submarine, which then destroys both the mission and the plane.

Murphy again escapes and, even after the war is officially over, carries out a bizarre plan to blast his tormentors.

Animals Take To Carson

Johnny Carson has met more than 50 different animals, reptiles or birds — many of them on the endangered species list — during the 12 visits made to "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson" by Joan Embery of the San Diego Zoo.

Said Miss Embery: "I think the way Johnny reacts to whatever creature I bring to the show is fantastic. Of all the people I've worked with in the business, he is the best. He is not afraid. Animals know when someone who is handling them is nervous and they instinctively try to protect themselves. Each will have a different defense. Some claw, others bite and some will try to run away. When a person is nervous, it makes it almost impossible to work with the animals. Like all of us, animals like to feel secure."

Miss Embery says Carson is always willing to do anything she suggests with the animals. She said: "Most people I know wouldn't hold some of our animals or reptiles but John does and I can see how the creatures react. The results always have been great."

Some of the wildlife which Miss Embery has taken to the show include a baby yak, a emu, a baby white rhino, a baby gorilla from the Belgian Congo, an aardvark, a two-headed Caifornia King snake, a 14-foot python, a wombat, a kola bear, Siberian tigers, a timber wolf, and African bullfrog, a pigmy chimp, a wallaby and a red kangaroo.

Miss Embery has been working at the San Diego Zoo and its affiliated San Diego Wild Animal Park, for six years. The latter serves as an animal preserve for the breeding of endangered species.

Said Miss Embery: The destruction of natural habitats—the results of so-called progress—is leading to the extinction of certain animals, reptiles and birds. Animals in such places as Africa, the Indian sub-continent and even our country are losing their natural dwelling places and face death."

The vivacious Miss Embery serves as a good will ambassador and even works as a handler for the San Diego Zoo, which houses 1,500 different species. "By appearing on Johnny's show," she said, "we hope to enlighten people about what we are trying to do and to show them just how many different species really are endangered. We follow government regulations in the care of our pets. Strangely, I have yet to receive any letters from hunters protesting our program."

Tank Pursues Plane, Pilots

Two American pilots in a damaged plane that cannot fly but can taxi along the ground are pursued by a German tank and its crew across desert wastes in North Africa in "Death Race," the Wednesday night movie, May 1 (8:30-10 p.m.). The action in the film takes place after the World War II battle of El Alamein with German Field Marshal Rommel's troops in retreat.

Lloyd Bridges stars as a German General commanding the tank, with Doug McClure and Roy Thinnes starring as the two Americans who become his prey. Also starring is Eric Braeden as the tank sergeant.

Fighter pilots Del Culpepper (McClure) and Arnold McMillan (Thinnes) are on a mission to destroy a German mine field during the British 8th Army's victorious advance after the battle of El Alamein. McMillan is shot down, and in a rescue attempt, Culpepper's P-40 aircraft is damaged by a lurking German tank, the lone survivor of a shattered Panzer brigade.

The plane cannot take off, but it is able to taxi along the ground. Hopes of rescue become nil when McMillan and Culpepper find themselves relentlessly stalked by the tank. The tank commander is the fanatical Gen. Beimler.

Offer 2 Hours Of 'Ironside'

In a rare two-hour episode of "Ironside," guest starring David Wayne and Kim Darby, Chief Ironside (Raymond Burr) turns in his badge and poses as an unshaven skid row wino to catch a killer. The drama, "Downhill All the Way," will be colorcast Thursday, May 2 (8-10 p.m.). The first half of the program preempts "The Flip Wilson Show."

The reason for Ironside's unusual move is the junkyard murder of a politician's campaign manager. The eyewitness to the killing is 10-year-old Jerry (Lee H. Montgomery), a disturbed slum child who won't talk. Ironside takes the boy to a clinic run by Dr. Iran Rice (Wayne). To win the boy over, Ironside follows the doctor's advice and takes the lad fishing in a skiff. A zooming speedboat plows through their small craft.

'Magazine' Is For Women

How many of the three-quarters-of-a-million hysterectomies to be performed this year are truly necessary? How can you get a better buy for your supermarket buck? What happens behind the scenes of the soap operas?

These and related questions are explored on "MAGAZINE," the first of a series of occasional CBS News Daytime Specials of particular interest to women. With Correspondents Charles Kuralt and Sylvia Chase as hosts, the broadcast will be presented Thursday, May 2 (2-3 p.m.,) on Channel 3N-9-11.

Holbrook To Play Lincoln

Emmy and Tony Awards winner Hal Holbrook will star as Abraham Lincoln in "Sandburg's Lincoln," six one-hour drama specials based on Carl Sandburg's Pulitzer Prize-winning six-volume biography of Lincoln. The specials will be colorcast on the NBC-TV as part of its participation in America's bicentennial celebration.

Three of the specials will be presented during the 1974-75 season and three during the 1975-76 season. Filming will begin in 60 days in Hollywood, Calif., and at various locales, including Springfield, Ill., where the Great Emancipator is buried.

Holbrook won an Emmy Award in 1971 for his starring role in The Senators segments of "The Bold Ones," and received Broadway's Tony Award in 1966 for his acclaimed impersonation of Mark Twain in "Mark Twain Tonight." He continues to tour annually with his Mark Twain stage presentation.

Holbrook's many television credits include the starring role in "Pueblo". He received Emmy Award nominations for his work in "The Whole World I Watching" and "That Certain Summer."

More Bowling In Store For 1975

"Professional Bowlers Tour," ABC Sports' exclusive, live television coverage of the Professional Bowlers Association tour, will be expanded from the 14 tournaments televised during 1974 to 16 telecasts during 1975, it was announced this week by Roone Arledge, President of ABC Sports.

The expanded schedule of televised tournaments for 1975 is a part of a three year agreement reached between ABC Sports and the PBA. "Professional Bowlers Tour" will begin its 14th consecutive year on ABC on January 4, 1975.

In announcing the three-year contract, Mr. Arledge said, "ABC Sports is delighted to be able to bring viewers the premier events on the PBA winter tour through 1977.

"Bowling is not only one of America's most popular participant sports, it has become one of the most popular television sports as well. The touring pros have followings as enthusiastic and knowledgeable as any sports fans, and during the 1974 series of telecasts, an average of more than 16 million people each week watched some or all of the finals competitions.

"Based on the outstanding record of our 'Professional Bowlers Tour,' over the past 13 years, and the fine cooperation we have received from the PBA, the pros themselves, and the many people who work to make these televised tournaments successes, we felt the time had come to increase the number of telecasts to 16 for 1975.

Relate Story Of A Circus Bear

The story of a circus bear, pampered all his life as a star performer, who accidentally becomes lost in the woods and must learn to survive in a hostile environment, is told in "Gosha, the Circus Bear," a film from Russia which will be rebroadcast on "The CBS Children's Film Festival" Saturday, May 4 (1-2 p.m.) in color on channels 9-11.

When Gosha's circus train, en route to Leningrad, stops to take on water, the venturesome bear leaves his cage, becomes frightened by the townspeople and runs into the forest for sanctuary.

Cutback In Cartoons Indicated

The animation industry may be facing one of its worst crises yet-television's swing away from animation. Only half of what was ordered last year has been ordered for next season - with cartoonists living in fear of the tagline, "That's all, folks."

Forte of network tv animation is, of course, Saturday morning - and while some 16 new shows are being ordered by the three webs, at least half will be live action.

This trend is attributed by some, to pressure on networks to eliminate violence from cartooning: lace of cartooning quality and network claims that live action is cheaper.

The networks (ABC, CBS and NBC) are highly concerned about and sensitive to actions of the pressure groups who loudly decry excessive violence in cartoon programming for children. Because of this, plans are to switch to certain live action series that are thought to be educational, instructive and entirely berefit of any suggestion of mayhem.

Roving Fairway Camera

For the first time in an American golf tournament, ABC Sports will employ a roving fairway camera during its exclusive, live coverage of the 1974 Tournament of Champions, at La Costa Country Club, Rancho La Costa, California, according to Chuck Howard, ABC Sports' Vice President for Program Planning.

Mr. Howard said that this innovation has the complete approval of the Professional Golfers Association, and that the roving fairway camera will be attended by members of the PGA field staff at the tournament.

The final rounds of the Tournament of Champions will be telecast Sunday, April 28 (4:30-6:30 p.m.) on channel 3W-5-12.

According to Chuck Howard, the PGA agreed to sanction the use of a mobile camera on the fairways, "because they, too, hope that this roving camera will be an effective television tool in reporting tournament action and heightening viewer interest in the golfing competition."

Mr. Howard said the technique will involve a camera and cameraman on a golf cart accompanied by expert commentator Byron Nelson, who will provide commentary on the important fairway shots.

"In the past," he said, "the persective that the viewer at home had on shots such as these was 180 degrees different from the way the golfer views his approach and lines up his shot. It is our belief that the fairway camera will add a new dimension to television golf coverage."

According to Mr. Howard, the camera crew will follow the last group of golfers teeing off in the third and fourth final rounds of the tournament.

"Because of the manner in which these final rounds are seeded," he said, "the last two-some off each day will be composed of the number one and number three scorers, who are virtually certain to be outstanding professionals in contention for the first prize."

Derby Day Is May 4

Celebrating its centennial, the famed Kentucky Derby, from Churchill Downs in Louisville, Ky., will be presented Saturday, May 4 (5-6 p.m.) on channels 9-11.

There's more than just diet to the attainment of that slim look universally sought by today's women for chic and health, and, under their ladies' sharp needling, by men with oversized haunch, paunch, and jowl.

There's also the psychological factor. And how much sleep you get; vitamins; how you use the 'hot box,' dry heat or steam; and how you chew your food.

Naming those added starters, out of experience — come of it bitter — are two heroes of the weight wars, jockeys Larry Adams and Eric Guerin.

When jockeys talk about weight and diets and related matters, you have to listen, because they're living examples of the use, and abuse, of reducing.

With jockeys, it's not a question of taking off 10 pounds of fat for reasons of vanity — and if the pounds come back, so what? Their livelihood depends on being able to ride at the skimpy weights assigned to their mounts, while keeping up their strength. A 110-pound jockey weak from hunger risks his life on a thoroughbred weighing 1,100 pounds.

Adams, who was born in 1936, says serenely that he has formulated in recent years, he has no trouble staying light — and strong. It wasn't always that way with him, however.

"When I started to ride," Adams recently recalled at Belmont Park, "I had a big weight problem, and I fought it like the older riders then did. There was a cathartic every night. Breakfast was orange juice and gelatin. I spent two hours a day in the steam room, drank 12 cups of coffee, and wolfed one big meal at night. I was sick, couldn't breathe right. I had bad headaches and would black out.

Fiesta Bowl Is Added By CBS

CBS has announced that it has added Arizona's Fiesta Bowl to its post-season college football programming, combining with the Sun Bowl to form a doubleheader. This back-to-back college football presentation will be seen next winter on Saturday December 28.

JOHN HAVLICEK, an NBA All League selection eight consecutive times and team captain of the Boston Celtics, will lead his teammates in their efforts to capture their twelfth World Championship in the last eighteen seasons.

Hepburn, Olivier In TV Movie

Katharine Hepburn and Laurence Olivier, two of the greatest stars in film history, will be starred together for the first time in "Love Among the Ruins," a special two-hour motion picture under the direction of George Cukor.

The movie, based on a best-selling novel by Angela Thirkell, concerns an actress (Miss Hepburn) who turns to a former love (Lord Olivier) for legal help when she is sued for breach of promise by a young man she has decided not to marry.

Produced by Alan Davis, "Love Among the Ruins" will go before the cameras in June, for broadcast during the 1974-75 season.

Separately, both Miss Hepburn and Lord Olivier have scored personal triumphs on television during the past year; she for her critically hailed performance in "The Glass Menagerie" and he for his Emmy-winning role in "Long Day's Journey Into Night." "The Glass Menagerie" is Miss Hepburn's only previous dramatic appearance on television, and "Love Among the Ruins" will mark Hollywood great George Cukor's first directorial role for television.

Miss Hepburn holds three Academy Awards. Lord Olivier has received Oscars twice and Cukor, after many nominations, was awarded the Best Director accolade for his guidance of "My Fair Lady."

For Miss Hepburn and Cukor, "Love Among the Ruins" marks a reunion. They have made eight pictures together, including "Bill of Divorcement" (her first movie) and "The Phiadelphia Story."

While Lord Olivier and Miss Hepburn have never appeared together, their careers have had one interesting parallel - she received her ninth Academy Award nomination for the movie version of "Long Day's Journey Into Night," the classic play for which Lord Olivier received his Emmy in 1973.

Further casting on "Love Among the Ruins" will be announced shortly.

Patty Duke In Saturday Movie

Academy Award winner Patty Duke and Rosemary Murphy star in "You'll Like My Mother," a suspense thriller on "NBC Saturday Night at the Movies" May 4 (9-11 p.m. in color) on channels 6-7.

(Miss Duke was named Best Supporting Actress of 1962 for her role in "The Miracle Worker.")

Following the death of her husband in a military air crash, Francesca Kinsolving (Miss Duke), nine months pregnant, arrives on the outskirts of Duluth, Minn., to visit her mother-in-law, whom she has never met. She is received cooly by Mrs. Kinsolving (Miss Murphy) and her retarded teen-age daughter (Sian Barbara Allen).

Mrs. Kinsolving denies ever having received a telegram announcing her son's marriage to Francesca and then claims that her car won't start, thus delaying Francesca's return to town.

Though a heavy snow storm is a factor hampering Francesca's departure, she soon realizes that she is being kept a prisoner in the eerie house.

Junior Miss Pageant May 6

The 17th annual "America's Junior Miss Pageant," with 50 highschool seniors from every state vying for the title, will be broadcast live from Mobile, Ala., with Michael Landon as host, Monday, May 6 (9-10 p.m.) on CBS-TV.

During three nights of preliminary events, five judges will rate the state winners in scholastic achievement, poise and appearance, youth fitness, and creative and performing arts.

The seven semi-finalists selected will be judged during the broadcast, with the winner receiving a $10,000 scholarship award. Other scholarship awards include $6,000 to the first runner-up, $4,000 to the second, and $2,500 each to the third and fourth runners-up.

SWING TIME, a 1936 movie that takes place in the world of night-time frolics, starring Fred Astaire and Ginger Rogers, will be shown on "Hooray for Hollywood", Friday, May 3 at 9 PM on UNC-TV Channel 25.

An Ex-Teen Idol Tells Why He's Glad The Screaming's Over

Bobby Sherman and His Family

Ask Them Yourself

Want to ask a famous person a question? Send the question on a postcard, to "Ask," Family Weekly, 641 Lexington Ave., New York, N. Y. 10022. We'll pay $5 for published questions. Sorry, we can't answer others.

FOR CHUCK CONNORS

I read in* FAMILY WEEKLY *that you know a lot about guns. Have you ever had occasion to use one in everyday life?—M. Peters, Ft. Lauderdale, Fla.

● I once caught a fellow stealing a television set from a neighbor's house. I put my shotgun up against his head and told him to come with me. Then I put the gun down and dared him to take it—which he didn't. I had a long talk with him and found out he was a dental student who, with his accomplices, stole things to furnish his apartment. I made him clean up my driveway before I sent him back with a warning that I'd be less lenient the next time.

FOR MASON REESE, child television actor

For a child of your age, what is the hardest thing in making a commercial?—K. D., Bradenton, Fla.

● I'm lucky because I can memorize a script easily, but I think that would be one of the hardest things for most kids my age to do. Also, knowing that so many people will be watching when the commercial is finished makes me a little nervous, but I'm not nervous during the filming.

FOR ANN SOTHERN

Is Tisha Sterling your daughter?—F. Marriweather, Cleveland, Ohio

● Yes, she is, and I am very proud of her! She's always wanted to make it on her own, and I think she has. At first she was interested in acting only for the money, but now she's really into it, and dedicated. She grew up hearing people say to me, "My, you have a beautiful daughter." She was not a person in her own right. Now she is.

FOR BEATRICE ARTHUR, star of "Maude"

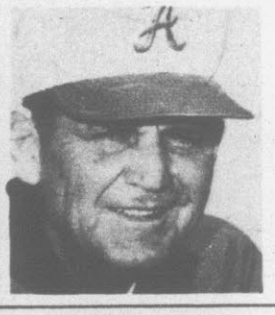
What do you think about Women's Liberation?—Jill Gentes, Sibley, Ill.

● I don't really understand all of it. But maybe I've been lucky. I never lost a job to a man, and I've always felt liberated.



FOR BEAR BRYANT,
football coach, University of Alabama

Of all the football players you have coached, who do you feel is your best all-around athlete?—Nancy Bowen, San Rafael, Calif.

● I've been fortunate to have had a number of great athletes, but Joe Namath may be the finest all-around athlete we ever had the pleasure of coaching. Joe could have been a great star in virtually any sport.

FOR BOB HOPE

You always seem to be such a happy man. What do you think is the "secret of happiness"?—Lee S. Ward, Bradley Beach, N.J.

● Don't forget the past, but don't live in it. Always have something to look forward to—a project, an event, a plan to help someone, a hobby. But keep on moving. Be temperate in your habits—don't overeat or overdrink—and get some brisk exercise every day. (I take a walk every night before I go to bed.) But most of all, don't dwell on negative things; such thoughts just drag you down.

FOR SEN. HIRAM FONG (R-Hawaii)

I'm over 65 and I'm paying more taxes than the President. Why?—Lester Crost, Louisville, Ky.

● Our Special Committee on Aging has found that as many as half of the over-65 taxpayers are overpaying their federal income taxes. If you're like others, you may be leaning over backward to be sure you meet your tax obligations. Obviously we should do more to inform older Americans regarding tax-relief provisions available to them under the law.

I've heard that you're going to have your own TV show. Is this true?—Jane Scarchilli, Poughkeepsie, N.Y.

● If everything goes as planned, I'll have my own series ready for this year's fall season. It will be filmed by Mary Tyler Moore's production company.

FOR SUSAN DEY, Laurie on "The Partridge Family"

What was the hardest part of switching from being a top New York fashion model to being an actress?—S. Porter, Webster Groves, Mo.

● Learning to ignore the camera! It was always there, staring at me. It was hard to keep my eyes from turning to look at it. But then a strange thing happened. Without being conscious of it, I forgot about the camera. I can't remember when it happened, but one day I was into a scene, listening, being really interested—and there was no longer any camera!

FOR THE ASK THEM YOURSELF EDITOR

As the British royal family—especially Princess Margaret—are so show-business conscious, how do they treat their show-biz friends?—Amy Lynne, Stockton, Calif.

● According to a British actor now appearing on Broadway (who insists on remaining nameless), the first time he and a group of other stars were invited to Kensington Palace by Princess Margaret and Lord Snowdon he was rather startled because he expected to be waited on—or at least to be offered drinks or refreshments. After 30 minutes of "waiting," the actor took matters into his own hands, got up, went to the bar and asked: "Who wants a drink?" In his new role of bartender, he served everyone—including the Princess and her husband.

Meet the Greatest Ticket Moochers on Earth!

(Our Moochers, Says the Kentucky Derby)

By Raymond Johnson
Kentucky Derby Press Chief

"Let's go to the Kentucky Derby! Who says you can't get tickets? I have a friend who sees that I get press tickets anytime I want to go. Since this is the 100th Derby coming up the first Saturday in May, I plan to go."

Many of my troubles start with a declaration that goes something like that—countless people who don't qualify for press tickets try to put one over on me and my Churchill Downs press staff every year.

Some of the requests are so ridiculous they're downright funny. Even "One-Eyed" Connolly, the greatest gate-crasher of all time, never thought of some of the modern-day ploys.

For example, there was the Arizona man who wrote us last March, using International News Service stationery, requesting credentials for a reporter and a photographer. He also requested rooms for each during Derby week. As an old newspaperman, I knew very well that the International News Service had gone out of business in 1958. But, just to see what this man really did for a living, I dialed the phone number on his stationery. A secretary answered. "Does Mr. ___ work there?" I asked. "I should say so!" she replied. "He's our company's most prominent attorney!"

The list of phonies, moochers and would-be con men is endless: the European reporters who want to see the Derby as "observers" – and never so much as tell their papers that a Derby was run; the "television executives" asking us to leave credentials at the gate to be picked up by various anonymous people; requests for passes from obscure and nonexistent periodicals, including one that called itself "Indiana's Most Original Magazine." (It turned out to be so original that even the local post office didn't know where it was!) I see them all—and they remind me of what Sen. Howard Baker said about the Watergate witnesses. They represent, he said, a strange "submergence of conscience."

This year, the world's fastest horses will be at the gate for our 100th Kentucky Derby. And so will the world's nerviest con men!

And the gall of some of these people! In 1971, a photographer wrote that he and his family had been designated (he didn't say by whom) to shoot movies of the nation's top sports events that year. The Kentucky Derby was one of them. He requested full credentials for himself, his wife, his 12-year-old daughter, his ten-year-old son and his seven-year-old daughter. He claimed that all of them – including the seven-year-old – were manning cameras. On top of that, he wanted to know if he could park his trailer on Churchill Downs parking lot for Derby Week. It would be so much more convenient than staying in a hotel!

Since the track receives several hundred TV and radio requests annually, we run a check on most of them. In 1972 we asked radio stations to send us tapes of Derby reports they carried. About 50 percent replied. The others were crossed off our freebie list. But not all the tapes were legitimate, either.

The most amusing tape came from a Michigan man who claimed he had been in radio for 25 years and said his station was a member of a national network. Since he was nearing retirement age, he and his wife were extremely anxious to see the Kentucky Derby before calling it quits, he said. He was given press-box credentials and his wife got a seat in the stands with the other writers' wives.

Churchill Downs officials were aghast as they listened to his recording of the Derby. He said it was being run at Lexington, Ky. (which did not make the folks in Louisville very happy), and he talked about his wife getting sunburned watching the Derby from her seat. For the sun to hit those shaded stands, it would have had to shine up from the ground!

But we get so many requests that Churchill Downs has been forced to set a cutoff date. Also, we furnish credentials only when the request is on official stationery. Then these are checked out thoroughly. This year, no credentials will be mailed to applicants. They must follow up their requests in person, bringing along their Churchill Downs letter of approval. This is a system used by the U.S. Olympic Committee to weed out as many unworthy applicants as possible.

Shortly after the 1973 Derby, we received a request from a Florida woman who wanted credentials for her husband in 1974. Was he a member of the press? Well, no, she said, she just wanted to give them as a Father's Day present. We complimented her on her thoughtfulness—and told her where she could call to get legitimate Derby tickets. Alas, we don't furnish Father's Day gifts, either.

The Experts Recall: "My Most Memorable Gate-Crasher"

"Three years in a row we had a guy getting on the field for the Super Bowl game wearing a Santa Claus uniform. The guards all thought he was part of the half-time or pregame entertainment. Which is exactly what 'Santa' wanted them to think!"

Bob Casey, public relations director of the National Hockey League:

"My favorite story concerns the guy who turned up at our hospitality lounge during the Stanley Cup finals in Boston four years ago. We always maintain a room where members of the press can have meals and a few drinks. This particular guy sat quietly by himself all day in the hospitality room. I had no idea who he was, but it struck me funny that the guy would show up for the buffet lunch each day, disappear for a few hours in the afternoon, then return for dinner and drinks at night. I also thought it was odd that he never spoke to anyone. Finally, on the fourth day, I asked him who he was and who he was representing. 'Oh, I'm not with any paper,' he said. 'I'm just a guest at this hotel. You guys seemed to be having the best party in the place, so I decided to join you!' "

Nick Curran, public relations director, National Basketball Association:

"The most unusual press request I've seen came before the final round of the 1970 play-offs between the New York Knicks and Los Angeles Lakers. 'Pravda,' the Russian newspaper, had its New York correspondent apply for press credentials. The paper wanted to cover the games because the New York coach was a 'Red'—Red Holzman."

Bobby Sherman:

An Ex-Teen Idol Tells Why He's Glad the Screaming's Over

I hadn't seen him since he'd faded from the teenyboppers' screaming list, gotten married, become a father and starred in a dropout television show. Now, with eight gold singles and four gold albums under his belt, Bobby Sherman is a happy millionaire, acting when he wants and turning out records in his homemade studio when he feels like it. We talked as he escorted me around his fascinating one-story California home.

FAMILY WEEKLY: How did you find such a charming house?

BOBBY: It was the first place I looked at when I decided I wanted my own. There's an acre of ground with it. But I've made a lot of changes. Want to see my Fun Room?

FW: Fun Room?

BOBBY: It's where I show movies. I can show any kind. Last night we had Cinemascope. I covered the walls with oversized movie-star posters. That's a French antique admission booth in the corner, and over there is an old penny flip-card machine I repaired. I also made the candy counter.

FW: You must be pretty handy.

BOBBY: I've really enjoyed fixing up the place. When the baby was born I took off about eight months to help Patty, and while the two of them napped every day, I worked around the house.

FW: Where's your home studio?

BOBBY: On the other side of the solarium, beyond the sauna room. Don't trip on my tools.

FW [Inside the studio, eyeing a labyrinth of wires, machines, lights and buttons]: It looks like a recording studio at NBC! Did you do all this yourself?

BOBBY: It was easy. I took a couple of electronic courses and worked in computer radar while I was in college. I have 16-track recording equipment here. I did the majority of last year's work out of here. I just finished a tape that had 38 pieces on it. A lot of people don't understand that I play every single instrument on it.

FW: How many instruments do you actually play?

BOBBY: Eleven. Drums, trumpet, guitar, bass, French horn, trombone, baritone sax, piano, organ, sitar and harmonica. When I get an idea for a song I come in here, play it on the guitar and beef it up with other instruments by Ping-Ponging them back and forth, until I get the sounds I want. That's why I built the studio.

Bobby Sherman and his wife Patty. Sherman says of his son: "I'm already giving him some freedom—but he can't borrow the car!"

"They'd sit in the front row and turn into uninhibited screamers! Sometimes I even felt like screaming! I was tone deaf for a long time afterward."

FW: Do you write your own songs?

BOBBY: Sometimes, but not that often. Oddly enough I'm more creative when the material is from someone else. When I write a song I prefer to have Ward produce it. [Ward Sylvester, his manager and partner.]

FW: I see an editing machine. Isn't that for film?

BOBBY: Yes. I'm getting into that, too. I built the cinemobile parked outside. It's a miniature movie studio on wheels. I even have a crane on top for special camera work. I do my own editing, but not the optics. So far it's mainly for commercials.

FW: Do you think people would take you more seriously if you called yourself Bob instead of Bobby?

BOBBY: I see no reason to change my name. Bobby Darin didn't. That doesn't mean I'm still Bobby Bubblegum. I'm the same person—but different.

FW: Somehow you managed to survive the tide of screaming fans. Would you like to go back to that time?

BOBBY: I don't think so. My fans have grown up and I've tried to grow with them.

FW: How do you account for those teenagers' hysterics?

BOBBY: It was a phenomenon. Ten contest winners would come backstage and be so shy and nervous they couldn't open their mouths. Then they'd sit in the front row and turn into uninhibited screamers! Sometimes I even felt like screaming! I was tone deaf for a long time afterward. The strange thing was, the mob couldn't even hear me! If they'd wanted to hear me, they would have stayed home and played my records. They came to scream and jump and find release in mass hysteria.

FW: There was a long time during which you kept your marriage to Patty a secret. How do you feel about that now?

BOBBY: It wasn't a question of keeping it a secret; it was a matter of timing. Some magazines had been very good to me and I didn't want anyone "scooped," so I wanted a press conference to announce it to everyone at the same time. But I was working every day and there wasn't time. Then, shortly after we were married, Patty got pregnant; and then she had a miscarriage. That was the wrong time for a press conference. Then she got pregnant again and the doctor said he wasn't sure how it would go. Patty spent almost eight months on her back. When the baby was born and we knew he was all right, we held the press conference and could only hope everyone would accept the reason for the delay. I think they did. Besides, I never kept it hush-hush. If anyone asked me, I always told them.

FW: You were married in a Catholic service. Are you both Catholic?

BOBBY: Patty's Catholic, I'm Protestant. But we're both very liberal. We want our son to grow up with a belief in God, but we want him to feel his way and make his own decisions. I'm already giving him some freedom—but he can't borrow the car! Speaking of cars, I have a golf cart that I use to drive around the yard. Do you want to see the place? I call it my "E" ticket ride, a la Disneyland. Every corner is different and I've got over a hundred lights to dramatize it at night. The squirrels made a nest in the seat of the surrey. I've got a rain forest, complete with sounds of thunder and birds. The sounds are activated when you pass an electronic eye. I just finished building the little "dwarf's house" by the waterwheel. Got the idea after going to Disneyland. All our friends' kids love to come over and take a tour around the yard. I don't know, maybe I'm just using the kids as an excuse to have fun. Come over here—I want to show you how the fish come to me. I worked a month and a half to get them to do that so I could hand-feed them.

FW: Maybe time has passed for Bobby Sherman, but, like Peter Pan, there's still a lot of the boy left in him. Somehow, I'm glad.

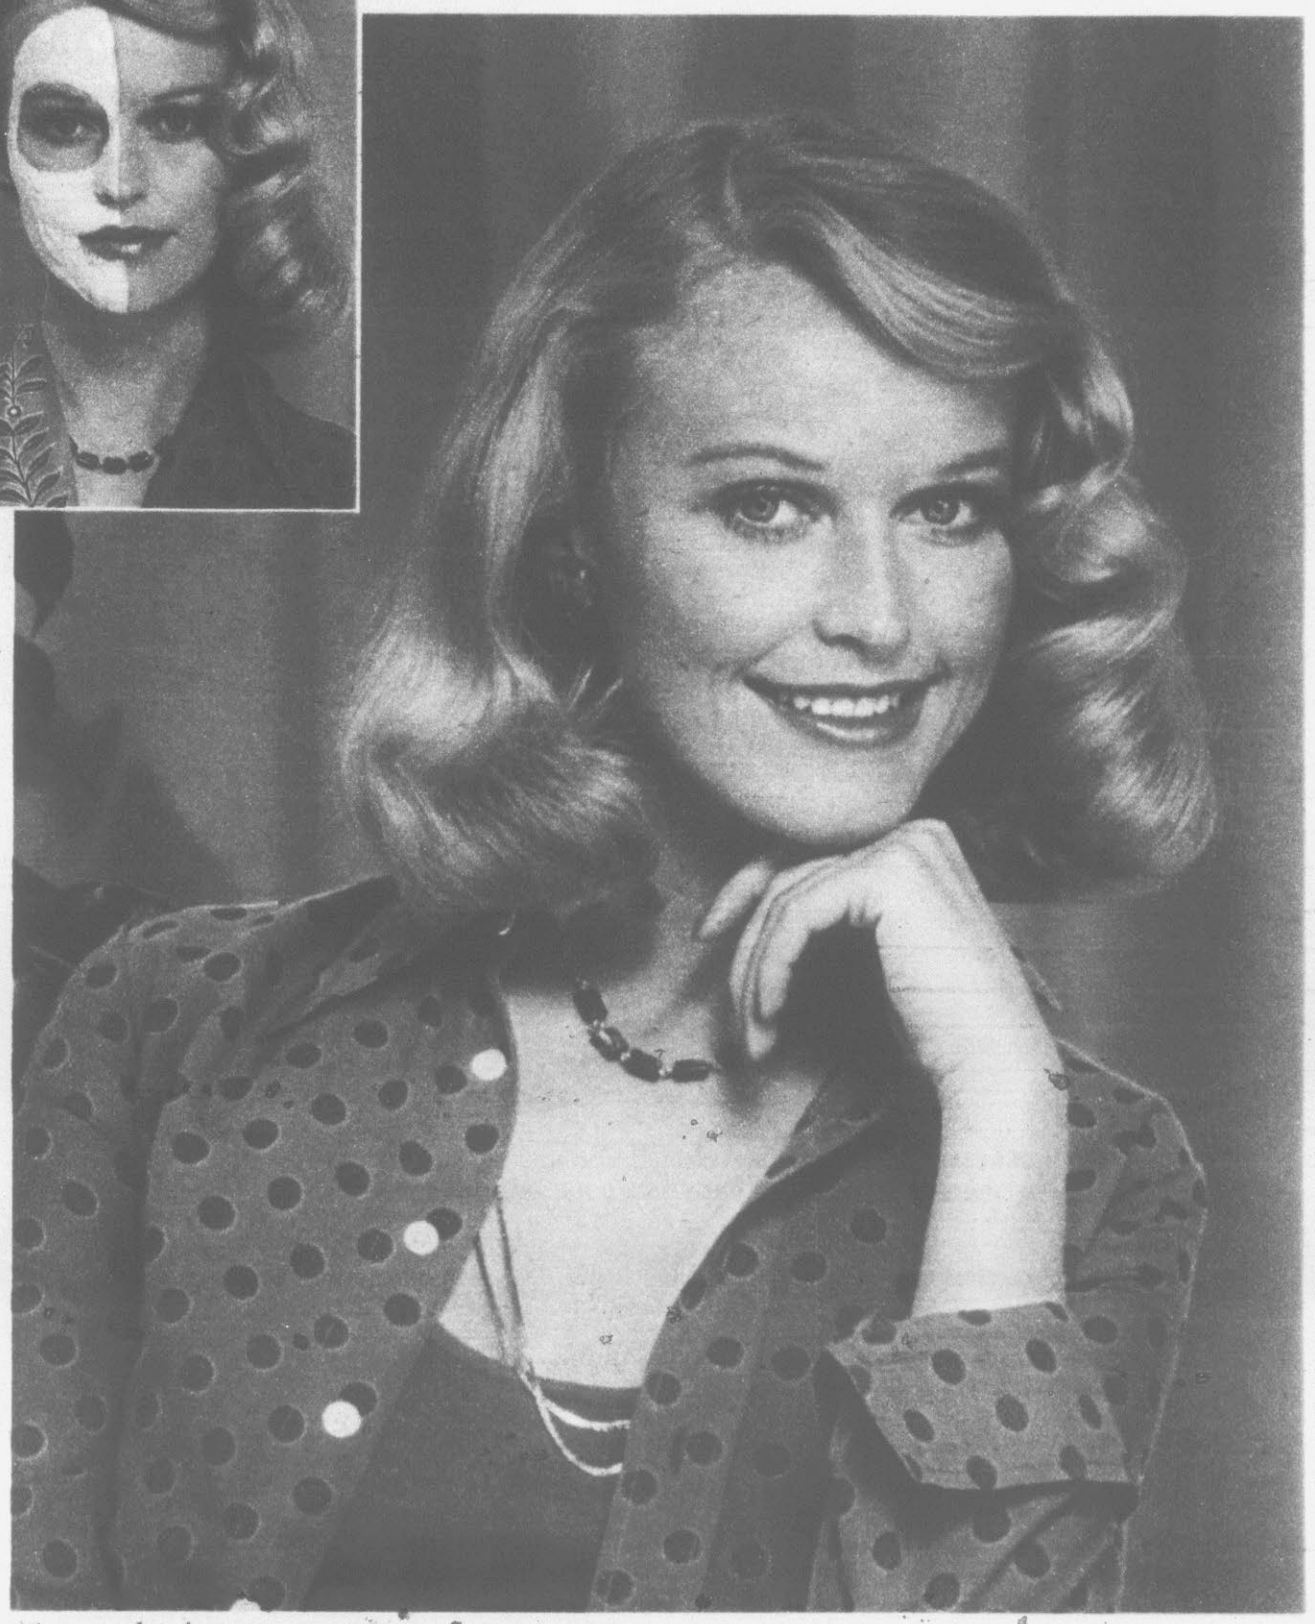
Beauty Discovery Program: How Well Do You Really Know Your Skin?

Do you know your skin type? How do you handle "combination" skin? Are you really what you eat? Can the art of makeup diminish an aging look? Learn the up-to-the-minute answers starting on this page.



Makeup by Stan Plack for Revlon. Photographs by Normand Menard

An attractive complexion gets that way with a little help from heredity and a thoughtful skin-care regimen. One way to help keep skin lively-looking is with a good facial masque (see inset). For how to apply, turn to next page.

Women's Feature Editor

Because spring is a season of hope and expectancy, of programs and promises for self-improvement, it also seems to be the time when a great many women are dissatisfied with their skin. Perhaps it is more out in the open in the spring, more subject to close scrutiny. But doing something positive about your complexion can lead to a sense of accomplishment, to feeling good about yourself. Here's a guide through the maze of today's skin-care facts aimed at renewing, refreshing and reviving your skin.

Before you can do any beautifying, you should know your skin type. Not every woman does. Here are some quick descriptions to help you analyze and define your skin's "personality":

Do you have normal skin? You do if, basically, you don't have much trouble with it – because normal skin has an ideal balance of oils and moisture. It can sometimes become slightly oily around your nose and chin in the summertime or show some signs of dryness in the winter. But extremes are rare in either direction. Watch out, however, for increasing dryness. As normal skin grows older, its inner balance begins to change. Natural oil production slows down. Overheated rooms, exposure to wind and sun and cold, im-

Do you have oily skin? A little shine at the center of your forehead or around your nose doesn't automatically put you in the oily-skin category. What does is an excess of oil over most of your face most of the time, together with an uneven skin texture and a tendency toward clogged or enlarged pores. If you're young, you're likely to outgrow this problem, because the skin's natural oil production begins to slow down in one's early twenties. Count yourself lucky if you're this skin type, because skin that starts out oily is apt to stay young looking longer!

Do you have dry skin? Age has nothing to do with it. Even your coloring isn't necessarily a factor. You may think fair hair goes with dry skin, but many brunettes have thin, fine complexions, prone to an early loss of moisture. If your skin feels taut; if it overreacts, reddens or becomes irritated by heat, cold, sun, wind; if it flakes; if you're conscious of tiny lines—you have dry skin.

Do you have combination skin? It's not at all uncommon. It can be diagnosed by oiliness around the "T-zone"—forehead, nose, chin—with dryness in your cheek area, tautness, flakiness, and the beginnings of fine lines around the eyes and mouth, despite excess oiliness in the middle of your forehead or around your nose. For combination skin, use the preparations for oily and dry on the appropriate areas of your face.

According to dermatologist Dr. Irwin I. Lubowe, even when you're watching your weight you should pamper your skin and eat a selective amount of protein: lean meat, milk, poultry, fish (shellfish, such as lobster, shrimp and clams, not more than once every two weeks because of the high iodine and cholesterol content), non-spicy cheese such as cottage, cream, pot, American and Gruyère.

Fats are important for supple skin, too, particularly the unsaturated kind contained in corn oil, peanut oil, sesame oil and olive oil. Your diet should also include helpings of fruit, yellow and green vegetables, and salads.

Experts agree that the same foods that keep you trim can keep your complexion clear. Remember, too, that the original "low calorie" beverage, water, can do wonderful things for you. Eight to ten glasses a day are still recommended (as an aid to digestion and elimination), to put a glow in your complexion.

Whatever your skin type, this chart should tell you at a glance what you need to correct and care for your complexion:

Normal Skin

1. A cream or lotion cleanser to lift off day's deposits of grime, makeup, pollution.
2. A freshener to remove residue of makeup that the eye can't see.
3. Daytime moisturizer, cream or lotion type, for under makeup.
4. A masque, perhaps once a week, to stimulate facial circulation.

Dry Skin

1. A gentle cream cleanser.
2. A light freshener, without much alcohol.
3. A moisturizer under makeup by day, to serve as a protective shield.
4. A rich night cream to help your skin retain moisture while you sleep.
5. A masque, once every two weeks.
6. Eye cream for delicate area under the eyes. (Actually, all types need it since there are no oil glands in this area.)

Oily Skin

1. Non-greasy cleanser to deep-clean without adding oil.
2. An astringent or freshener formulated specifically for oily skin.
3. A masque, two or three times a week, to shed dead skin.
4. Cleansing grains, whose mild abrasive action clears pores, removes surface skin cells.

"The Tissue Test": How to Gauge Your Skin Type

2. Mark three pieces of tissue paper A, B, C.
3. Wipe A over forehead; B over nose and chin; C over each cheek.
4. If tissue is unstained, skin is dry in that area; some dampness means skin has normal moisture; traces of oil mean those glands are overactive.

Face-Care Tips For People Over 30

The American zeal for bathing in too hot, too soapy water, and for soaking for too long, may speed up the skin's drying process. When a woman is in her thirties, her body produces less sebum (the skin's natural oil), so her skin needs special handling. Pulling, pressing and stretching facial skin is out. And from Pond's Beauty Institute comes the advice that only gentle upward and outward motions should be used. The only exception to this rule is in the under-eye area, where oil should be gently dotted on

Mature, drying skin can also benefit from some makeup tricks. Uneven, blotchy color can be counteracted with a sheer foundation base that is close to your skin tone, to even out the texture of the face. To help highlight a dull complexion, shy away from powder blushers; choose a cream-type rouge instead, and ask for a fine, translucent face powder rather than one that results in a heavy, masklike covering. As your skin matures, typical non-translucent powder makeups sink into lines, so avoid them and fend off that aged look.

If your skin seems "puffy" at times, master the art of contouring (remember, dark subdues; light brings forward), and use a darker foundation to minimize the problem, particularly along the jaw or under the chin, blending it well at the edges. Highlight cheekbones with a lightly pearlized glosser. Switch to a creamier lipstick, and use a lip pencil or brush if small lines begin to appear around your mouth. If you've never tried one before, buy a lip gloss. It'll help shine up your smile!

The 30-plus skin needs to guard against natural moisture loss.

How to Look Five Pounds Thinner—Fast

• Keep skirt lengths to the knee, not higher. One of the easiest ways to detect a "chubby" understructure is to look at a person's leg just above the knee.

• Forget about midriff-hugging tops. Looser, blousy styles are more becoming.

• Wear "leaner looking" clothes. For example, a two-piece dress in contrasting patterns or colors will never be as thinning as a one-color shirtdress. Anything that divides you in two will make you look heavier because it cuts your height.

• Opt for higher heels—an extra inch or two will allow you to "carry" extra weight.

• Work hard to improve your posture. An unlikely, but marvelous, aid to remind you to stand up straight: control-top pantyhose. Model Maude Adams (above) is wearing a trimming Lycra-fiber style.

• Choose a soft, short, fluffy hairstyle that minimizes the width of your face. Avoid pull-back styles that make a double chin stand out all the more.

• Avoid shoes with any kind of strap. They make your feet look squat. A neutral-colored pump—such as taupe, which blends in with leg tones – gives a more slender look.

• Stick to a dark-tan shade of hose for spring. Medium-to-dark shades (but not extreme "black") tend to slim your legs.

One Perfect Exercise

Since many of us admit to being lazy, while others refuse to do any exercise routine for long—but should—we turned for help to grand exercise master Nicholas Kounovsky. The request: a daily exercise, pleasant to do, preferably uncomplicated, one that would tone up almost every muscle in the body. Nicholas recommended the following*:

1. Raise your arms sideways until they meet above your head. Inhale through your nose as you slowly rise on toes, stretching high, to the count of six.

2. Slowly drop your arms down sideways, bending your knees and back. Exhale through your nose as you go down to the count of six.

3. Curl your body into a crouch, hugging knees and contracting all muscles, including abdominal. Repeat the entire sequence from two to six times.

*From the book, "The Joy of Feeling Fit," by Nicholas Kounovsky.

We guarantee you'll say Fantastik® is the only way to spray. Or we'll buy you any spray cleaner you say is better.

(That's how great our new "Easy Sprayer"™ is!)

The new Fantastik Easy Sprayer ends awkward, tiresome pumping. Adjusts from pinpoint to wide spray for total convenience. And no other spray cleaner has anything like it. It makes Fantastik the easiest, quickest way to spray things clean. It makes Fantastik the only way to spray. Put it to the test against any spray cleaner. We guarantee you'll agree.

Adjust a pinpoint spray for tight places.

Adjust a wide-angle spray for large areas.

Here's 10¢ to try it. If you don't say Fantastik is the only way to spray, soak off the "Easy Sprayer" label plus the label and price of the spray cleaner you say is better, and mail with your name and address to Texize, Box 1035, Clinton, Iowa 52732. Medicine Chest: At-a-Glance Bulletins From the Changing World of Medical Science...

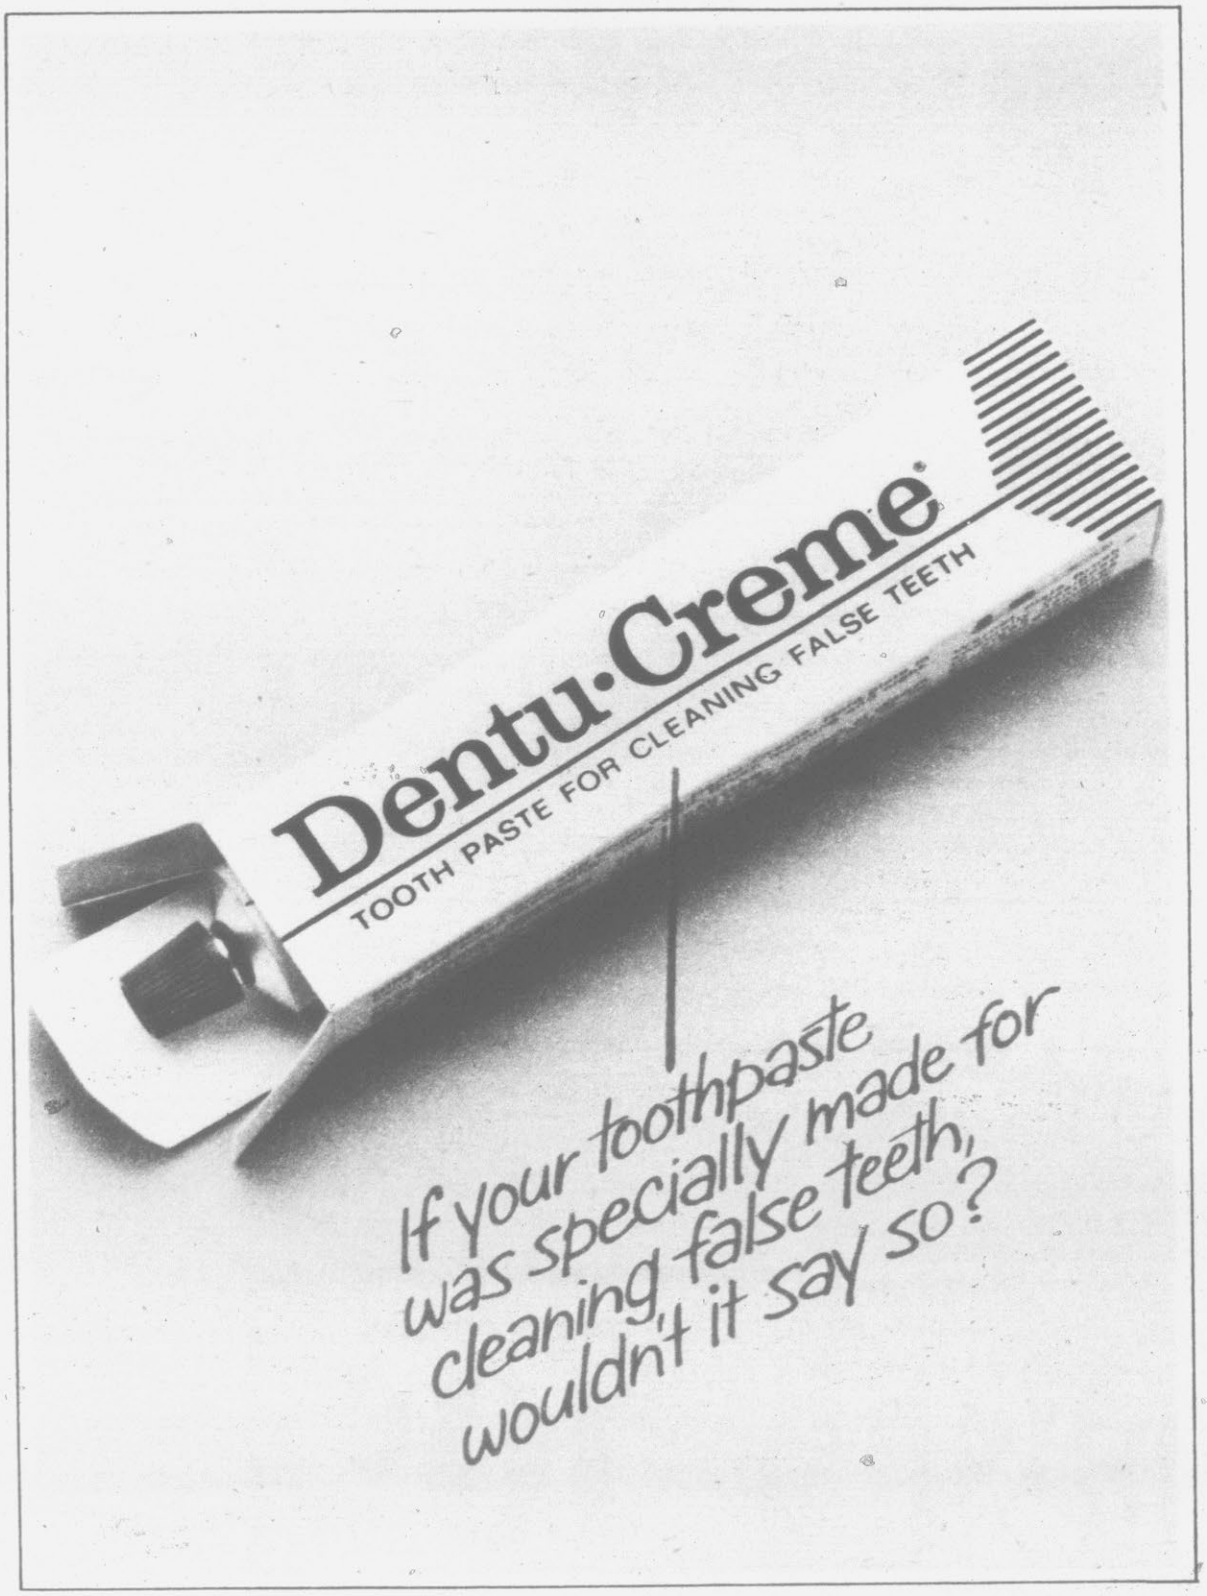
By Erwin Di Cyan, Ph.D.

HEART ATTACKS AND BENT EARS. Do you have a certain diagonal crease or fold in your earlobe? If so, you may be a candidate for heart attack. This astute observation was made by cardiologist Dr. Edgar Lichstein and his associates at Mt. Sinai School of Medicine in New York City. Observing 531 heart-attack patients in a coronary-care unit, he found diagonal creases on the earlobes of 47 percent of them. In a group of patients with no history of heart disease, only 30 percent had the same sign. It is not known if these patients had the ear crease at birth (i.e., is it a genetic trait and is heart attack genetically determined?). But since the ear crease is associated with patients with coronary disease, it is an extra help in identifying those with a greater risk of heart disease.

PHYSICIAN, HEAL THYSELF. Doctors have three times as high a suicide rate as the public at large—and psychiatrists commit suicide most often of all. Why? Many reasons. One: Doctors hesitate to seek help, probably because they feel it will lower the pedestal on which the public puts them. Two: The grueling obstacle course of medical school, where usually only the most compulsive succeed. This type of person may not be the one best able to cope with emotional stresses. Three: Doctors, in dealing with drugs and needles, have easy access to relatively painless death. It is also found that doctors may not make the best husbands or fathers. The family situation in a physician's household often deteriorates because the wife receives minimal attention from her husband, who is married to his medical career.



FEEL JUST LIKE NEW? One of the dire accompaniments of age is depression. Depression is more than sadness. It also makes itself felt as sleeplessness and various other discomforts, and it takes the joy out of life. The world-famous Dr. Ann Aslam, director of the Bucharest Institute of Geriatrics, developed Gerovital H3, a special combination of procaine and other ingredients. It is used throughout the world for rejuvenation, but has been banned in the U.S. Yet people have flocked to Europe for the treatment and returned with glowing reports of its effectiveness. And you can see the difference—the subjects do look (and apparently feel) indefinably younger. Dr. Nathan Kline, world-renowned psychiatrist and research director of Rockland State Hospital, started to use the Aslam formula in depression cases, with encouraging results. More recently, two California doctors found Gerovital H3 effective in fighting depression, increasing people's general sense of well-being, and in easing the discomforts of the degenerative diseases that accompany aging. What does it all mean? It means that finally, after blind rejection, Gerovital H3 is being tried in the U.S.—with positive results.

PHENOBARB WARNING. Dr. Sidney S. Gellis of Tufts University warns women that phenobarbital, a common sedative or sleep inducer, has been found to disrupt ovulation time. When you delay ovulation in animals, there is a striking increase in genetic abnormalities in the litters. Dr. Gellis warns pregnant woman, or those in the reproductive years, against the use of many drugs that can possibly affect offspring. Phenobarb, he says, is at the top of the list.

MALE BIRTH CONTROL. Why can't anything be done to control births on the male level? It can. Vasectomy (tying off ducts that transport sperm) does it. But the big drawback is that vasectomy is hard to undo if a couple change their minds and decide to have children. How about a valve to shut off the sperm duct and reopen it if the couple change their minds? It's on the way. Successful in animal experiments, Dr. Joseph E. Davis, professor of urology at New York Medical College, is now doing research on the valve in human volunteers. It looks encouraging, but the real test, says Dr. Davis, will be if pregnancy occurs when the valve is reversed to let the sperm come through the duct. That's what we're waiting to see.

WAS DON JUAN A TEETOTALER? Even Shakespeare knew that sexual performance is difficult for a man while drunk. Now, Dr. Jack Mendelson of Harvard Medical School, a psychiatrist who is doing research in alcoholism, finds that the level of testosterone, the male sex hormone, falls considerably during the intake of alcohol. Though not absolutely

How many times have you decided to give up smoking?

Nobody these days is telling you not to give up smoking.

But if you've given it up more times than you'd like to remember, the chances are you enjoy it too much to want to give it up at all.

If you're like a lot of smokers these days, it probably isn't smoking that you want to give up. It's some of that 'tar' and nicotine you've been hearing about.

So you tried cigarettes which were low in 'tar' and you found yourself checking every once in a while to see if they were still lit. Which drove you right back to your regular brand.

Now, there is Vantage.

Vantage cigarettes, either filter or menthol, deliver considerably less 'tar' and less nicotine than most cigarettes.

But what really makes Vantage special is our special filter which allows the tobacco flavor to come through.

Vantage isn't the lowest 'tar' and nicotine cigarette, but it sure is the lowest one you'll enjoy smoking.

And that's what makes all the difference.

Warning: The Surgeon General Has Determined That Cigarette Smoking Is Dangerous to Your Health.

Filter: 10 mg. "tar," 0.8 mg. nicotine, Menthol: 11 mg. "tar," 0.9 mg. nicotine—av. per cigarette, FTC Report Sept. '73.

ROUGHING IT. Bran has been a favorite remedy of food zealots for decades. Now it seems they may have been right – but for the wrong reasons. Doctors have found that a high residue diet–i.e., one in which bulk or roughage is high – is strongly desirable for the prevention of diverticulosis of the colon. Diverticulosis is a condition in which hernias, or little sacks, form in the intestine. According to Dr. Steven Bernstein of Ft. Myers, Fla., bran, and other roughage-producing foods, hastens evacuation of stool. This lessens the chances of pressure building up in the intestine or colon, which is one reason for the formation of diverticula.

HELP FOR TATTOOED MEN. Many a man has had himself tattooed with a girl's name – only to regret it when he married somebody else! How to remove a tattoo? Until now, the process has been hard, painful and scar-producing. Now, salt may be coming to the rescue! Dr. Gary H. Manchester, a plastic surgeon from San Diego, Calif., recently reported successful removal of 200 tattoos within the last two years. He rubs the tattood skin with salt on an electrically driven, felt-padded disk. Effective? Yes – at least in most cases.

MIND OVER MATTER. Not long ago the expression transcendental meditation (TM) was associated with a man in a turban who told your fortune. We have come a long way since. Respectable researchers – among them Dr. Neal Miller of Rockefeller University and Dr. Herbert Benson of Harvard Medical School – report that it can be effective. TM is mental concentration that is directed toward producing physical and mental changes. Physiological changes can be willed to happen according to certain rituals prescribed by TM. Through TM, for example, blood pressure can be reduced, migraine and other pains stopped, breathing slowed down, sleep induced. TM, say the doctors, deals not only with how it feels to be healthy (as with a reduction of blood pressure) but can also result in well-being–can actually reduce blood pressure.

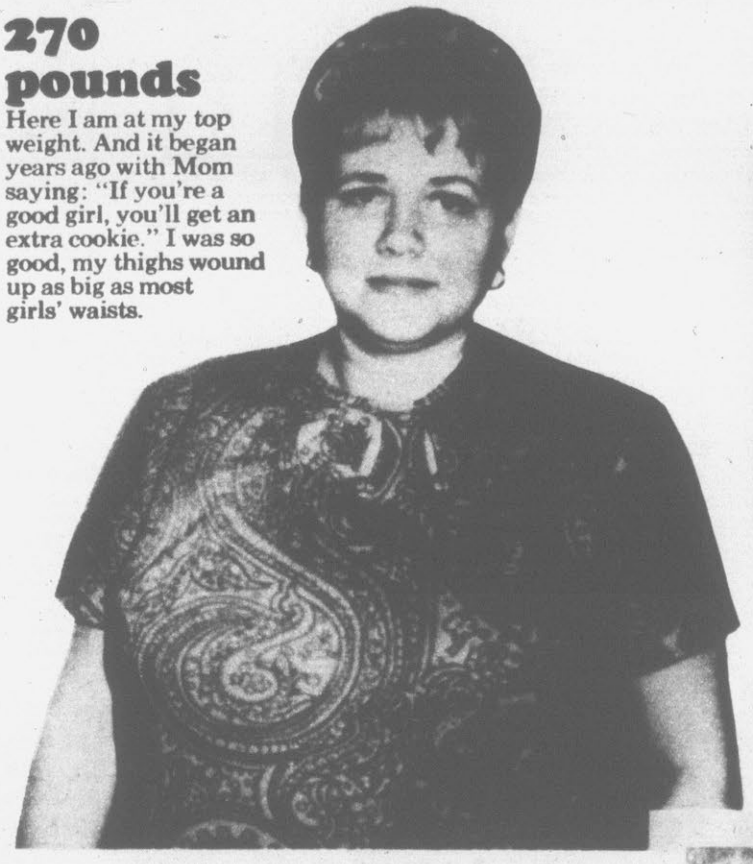
By Betty O'Neal—as told to Ruth L. McCarthy



270 pounds
Here I am at my top weight. And it began years ago with Mom saying: "If you're a good girl, you'll get an extra cookie." I was so good, my thighs wound up as big as most girls' waists.

255 pounds
Even though I'd lost 15 pounds here, I still preferred sofas to chairs. You see, I once sat in an arm chair and when I stood up, it wouldn't let go. But what really got me losing was those ads about a reducing plan candy that helps curb your appetite.

232 pounds Down 38 pounds! Quite a record for someone who loved to eat. But I'd never have done it on willpower alone. I needed help and those Ayds® candies gave it to me. I'd take a couple with a hot drink before a meal and I'd actually eat less.

215 pounds
No question the Ayds plan was really working for me now. Why, when I saw those scales down 55 pounds, I knew nothing could stop me until I got to my goal—below 150. Another thing. I found I could pass up pies, donuts and cakes more easily because those Ayds also satisfied my sweet tooth.

195 pounds A big turning point! I'd broken the 200-pound barrier! To reward myself I decided to have a huge meal and gooey dessert once a week. And it worked. I still lost.

145 pounds Success! I was down to my goal. And just look at that beautiful waist! I don't know who is more proud—my husband or I. But we're both very happy, thanks to the Ayds plan.

You're Never Too Old To Hear Better

Chicago, Ill.—A free offer of special interest to those who hear but do not understand words has been announced by Beltone. A non-operating model of the smallest Beltone aid ever made will be given absolutely free to anyone requesting it.

Send for this non-operating model now. Wear it in the privacy of your own home to see how tiny hearing help can be. It's yours to keep, free. The actual aid weighs less than a third of an ounce, and it's all at ear level, in one unit. No wires lead from body to head.

These models are free, so we suggest you write for yours now. Again, we repeat, there is no cost, and certainly no obligation. Thousands have already been mailed, so write today to Dept. 4370, Beltone Electronics, 4201 W. Victoria Street, Chicago, Ill. 60646.

People Quiz

By John E. Gibson

The Funny Ways We Respond To Music

True or False: If your child plays in the school band, the odds are that he has an optimistic outlook on life. (See number 4)

TRUE OR FALSE?

1. Music can change your mood in seconds, causing your emotions to run the gamut from boredom to excitement in almost nothing flat.

2. When it comes to getting a message across to a woman, music is far more effective than words.

3. The reason rock-and-roll music is so popular with young people is because the subtle psychology embodied in the lyrics is calculated to "hit them where they live."

4. If your child plays in the school band, the odds are that he has an optimistic outlook on life.

5. Folk music is fine entertainment—but aside from that it serves little purpose.

ANSWERS

1. True. Psychologists have found that music does things to you—whether you like it or not. In one study of its mood-altering power, subjects were exposed to "a series of brief classical-music excerpts that covered specific mood dimensions: depressed-to-happy, agitated-to-serene, bored-to-active, and active-to-majestic." In every case, the emotions of the subjects paralleled the mood of the music.

2. True. While studies show that music has a definite effect on the emotions of all listeners, research at Texas Tech University, which compared the responses of men and women, demonstrated that women react more positively to music than men do. Apparently the swains of yesteryear knew what they were doing when they courted a lady with the music-under-her-balcony-window routine.

3. False—according to the findings of a team of University of Michigan researchers, which showed that the young people studied were "much more interested in sound than in meaning. Most of the teenagers either did not understand the lyrics or were indifferent."

4. True—according to a psychological study that compared boys who played instruments in the school band with other boys the same age. Those who played in the band scored significantly higher on the intelligence, idealism and optimism scales of standard personality tests. They were, however, more subject to quick mood changes and emotional ups and downs. It was also found that "boys playing brass and percussion instruments were significantly lower in assertiveness and significantly higher in control (self-discipline) than boys who played woodwind instruments."

5. False—according to a study of the psychological aspects of folk music which found that: "The current interest in folk music has not been just historical curiosity or plain entertainment, but has reflected the continued struggle of man to find himself, to penetrate and transcend the reality of the world." Folk music, it is pointed out, reflects the emotions and native wisdom of a people and their quest for values, and it can extend our comprehension of man and enlarge our knowledge of life.

320 almost secret ways to get something back for your tax dollars right away!

by Gary Halbert

Dear Taxpayer:

What do you get?

The "poor" get federal housing, food stamps, and other welfare benefits. The rich get oil depletion allowances, lower interest rate loans, and expense accounts.

What do you get?

The answer to that one is easy. YOU GET TO PAY TAXES! Isn't that nice? It is a bit depressing, isn't it? To work so hard for your money and then each year give Uncle Sam a bigger and bigger share of it.

What can you do about it?

Well, you could always cheat. Or move to another country.

But seriously, if you are already claiming all of the legitimate deductions you are entitled to, there is still something you should do. And that is...MAKE SURE THAT YOU ARE GETTING EVERY PENNY'S WORTH OF GOVERNMENT BENEFITS THAT YOUR HARD-EARNED DOLLARS ARE PAYING FOR!

Millions of Americans just like you are already collecting on them. For example, RIGHT NOW, you and your family may well qualify for one, several or all of these government benefits:

- $5,000 in government loans at below market interest rates—if you know how to apply for the loans!
- Full scholarships and other financial assistance for education. Uncle Sam is paying good money just to locate deserving students!
- Low cost insurance. You can save hundreds of dollars with special government policies!
- A 5-acre vacation hideaway for you and your family. Prices begin as low as $25 an acre!
- Social Security benefits before you reach your sixties. One and a half million children receive social security checks each month!
- Free employment assistance if you are having trouble finding a job because you're not a youngster anymore!
- Free help from the U.S. Secret Service to protect you against counterfeit money and forged checks!
- Free plans and architectural designs for 12 different structures—from a 3-bedroom house to a boat landing!
- A $25,000 start-your-own-business loan, with 15 years to pay it back!
- Free aptitude tests (that would cost you up to $25) to find the job you are best suited for!
- 25% to 75% of your rent paid by Uncle Sam—if you qualify and know how to apply!
- Free government land to stake your claim when prospecting for gold, silver or other valuable minerals!
- Free government service to help you locate lost marriage or divorce records!
- Free protection for your children against hazardous toys provided by the government Office of Consumer Affairs!
- The right to enter a fabulous government sweepstakes—a public drawing to claim oil and gas rights to public lands. Profit potential ranges from $5,000 to $75,000!

You know, a person could fill an entire report just listing little-known government benefits that are available to every U.S. citizen. I know, because with the help of a friend, I did. It's titled "HOW TO GET WHAT THE U.S. GOVERNMENT OWES YOU". It has 320 government benefits that most people have never heard of. But it doesn't just list them, mind you, it tells you how to get them! It tells you how to qualify, who to contact (including all necessary addresses) and what to say.

I am thinking about publishing the report in a hard cover edition selling for around $8.95. Perhaps I will. But this has been a labor of love for me. And right now I'd like the satisfaction of immediately getting the information into the hands of as many short-changed taxpayers as possible. So I've had a local printer reproduce the manuscript in report form and bind it with a soft cover. And I am offering it, personally, direct, by mail, for only $3.00.

If you are interested, please let me know right away as I have only ordered a small press run.

P.S. If you don't take advantage of these benefits, you are only cheating yourself. After all, you've already paid for them. So, order today and see for yourself the hundreds of FREE and inexpensive things the government has for YOU and your family!

P.P.S. The government comes out with new benefits nearly every day. To keep you up to date, I will send you information on them every other month for the next 12 months. This information comes in a small special publication called The Good News Hot Line. There is no extra charge for this.

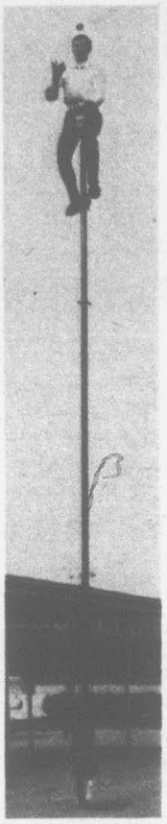
What in the World!



If you heard that this was Steve McPeak of Las Vegas, Nev., riding the world's tallest unicycle, you'd probably believe it. But it's not. It's Steve McPeak riding the world's second tallest unicycle. This unicycle is a mere 20 feet high. If he falls from it, it probably won't even be fatal. The world's very tallest unicycle is 30 feet high — and McPeak's ridden that one, too. McPeak riding the 30-foot unicycle looks very much like McPeak riding the 20-foot unicycle — only he's ten feet higher and not juggling.

QUOTE: Hall Bartlett, director of "Jonathan Livingston Seagull," talks about Bob Hope. "The thing that amazes me about Bob Hope is not his comic ability but his business ability. He loves each day to be a myriad of business problems. Hope had nine writers that he had to put on salary for 'A Global Affair.' Every morning he had each of those nine writers call him up and provide him with jokes. He shifted their salaries to whatever project he was working on. About $150,000 of the budget for 'A Global Affair' went to those nine guys. And Hope handled it all." UNQUOTE.

The fact that girls play with dolls and boys play with trucks—is that, as some feminists would have it, merely "male-chauvinist brainwashing"? Maybe not. Dr. Willard Hartup, director of the University of Minnesota's Institute of Child Development, conducted a "dual study of three-year-olds to find out which toys children preferred and which they avoided. Feminine toys were largely avoided by the boys, even when very dull neutral toys were the only alternative offered. Girls picked up feminine toys, dolls, mirrors, jewelry. Dr. Hartup . . . adds that nursery schools, where there is no pressure to prevent girls from playing with construction toys or boys from playing with dolls, still notice that girls play mostly with 'girls' ' toys and boys with 'boys' ' toys." From "Growing Up With Toys," by Irene Clepper, Augsburg Publishing House, Minneapolis, Minn.

BARBARA BEVAN
Another Goolagong . . .

Who said the Everts were the only tennis-playing sisters? Now we discover that Evonne Goolagong's eldest sister is almost as competent on the courts as Evonne. The difference is that Barbara gave up the game six years ago, married and became a nurse in Australia. In recent years, however, she has renewed her game and several weeks ago she captured the hearts of Goolagong fans when she competed in the Country Week Teams' championship at White City in Sydney. Her looks and tennis style closely resemble those of her famous sister. Who knows? Maybe we can look forward to a team of Goolagong sisters at Wimbledon this year.

ARMOUR'S ARMOURY
By Richard Armour

BRIDGE WIDOWER

I know a woman, know her well
(She is my wife, if I must tell),
Who is a fiend for bridge. She'll play,
Or so it seems, both night and day.
She has "Her Club" that meets each week,
And ill of it I dare not speak,
Besides, the call for help is heeded
Each time a substitute is needed.
Because of bridge, my wife, my dear,
I'm seeing less and less, it's clear.
Someday I'll spot her at a party
Where everyone is bright and hearty
And nodding toward her, as I chat,
Inquire of someone, "Who is that?"

STEVE CANYON

by MILTON CANIFF

WHEN POTEET CANYON LEARNS THAT STEVE AND SUMMER HAVE SEPARATED—SHE HAS BITSY FLY HER TO THE SCENE OF THE ACTION

BITSY, I GUESS I EXPECTED STEVE TO BE WAITING HERE!

SO YOU COULD THROW YOURSELF AT HIM WITH FULL MEDIA COVERAGE!

BUT HE'LL HAVE TO RETURN FROM HIS MISSION—THEN I'LL MOVE IN!

NOW I MUST SEE WHERE SUMMER IS LIVING ON HER NEW LOOT!

WHAT'S THAT?

SO SHE WON'T KNOW ME WHEN WE GO TO CASE THE APARTMENT SHE MOVED THEM INTO!

WE?

SURE! YOU'RE MY COVER! WE CAN ACT AS IF YOU'RE CONDUCTING A TOUR!

MOTE

I'D REFUSE TO DO THIS—IF I WEREN'T SO NOSY!

THIS IS IT? —WHAT A PAD!

WOW! ARE MY FEET KILLIN' ME!

WE'VE BEEN WALKIN' A WEEK, AND WE'VE SURE COVERED A LONG STRETCH O' ROAD— BUT NO MATTER HOW FAST WE WALK, IT'S HARD TO SEE THAT WE'RE GETTIN' ANYWHERE-

HEY- THIS IS A BREAK- AN OLD ROAD MAP- AND SEE HERE- IT'S FOR THIS ROAD- LEAPIN' LIZARDS- FIFTY, A HUNDRED- IT'S MOST THREE HUNDRED MILES TO TH' NEXT GOOD TOWN-

© 1974 New York News Inc World Rights Reserved

LOOK OUT, SANDY! HERE COMES A CAR- AND IS HE WHEELIN'! WOW! GET BACK- GIVE THAT GUY ROOM---- WHAT TH---? HE'S SLOWIN' DOWN---

HEY, KID- WANT A RIDE? HOP IN- TH' DOG, TOO- LOTS O' ROOM-

ER--- NO THANKS, MISTER- WE'RE JUST TAKIN' A LITTLE WALK- WE'RE NOT HITCH HIKERS-

YOU'RE GOIN' MY WAY- I CAN SEE THAT- AND HOW FAR? WHAT DIFFERENCE DOES THAT MAKE? I'M GOING ALL THE WAY- SO GET IN!

Y-YES SIR! C'MON, SANDY!

WHEW- 80- 85- 90- 95... A HUNDRED MILES AN HOUR! SUFFERIN' SUNFISH! THINK O' THAT, SANDY- FARTHER IN AN HOUR THAN WE COULD WALK IN A WEEK--- OH--- ER----

OH, TH' GUNS, EH? HA! HA! THAT'S O.K., KID- YOU SEE, I'VE BEEN, ER.. HUNTING- HA! HA! YEP, I'M A HUNTER-

GEE- TH' WAY YOU TRAVEL, YOU SURE OUGHTA BE ABLE TO CATCH 'MOST ANYTHING-

Uncle Walt, did you ever find out who broke into your cabin?

Not yet, Skeezix.

Strange!

I guess when the sheriff found no window broken or door jimmied, he lost interest, Mr. Chubb.

Oh, no, Walt.

Fortunately he hadn't stolen anything yet.

The sheriff thinks he didn't intend to. He was there for another purpose.

Like what?

Give him a little more time to check, Walt, and he'll have the answer.

In the meantime, get the locks changed, and stop leaving a key under your doormat.

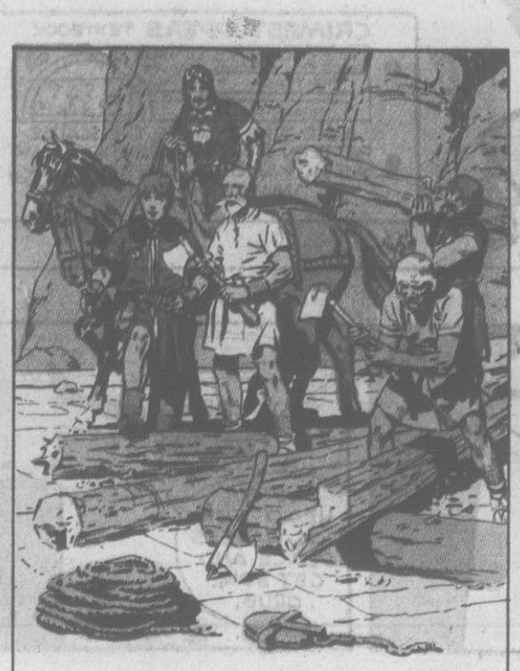
Prince Valiant®

IN THE DAYS OF KING ARTHUR

BY HAL FOSTER

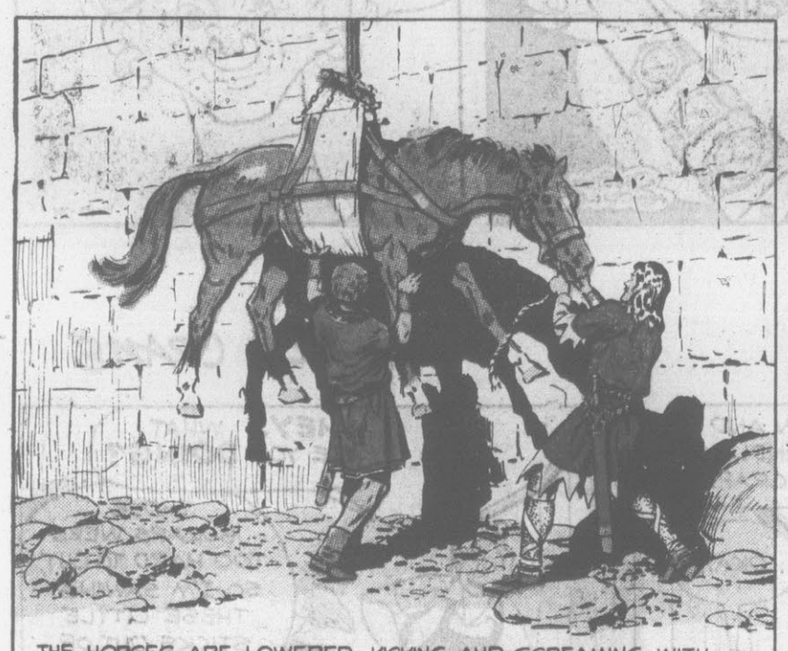
Our Story: TO ALRICK THE CALL OF ADVENTURE AND FREEDOM IS IRRESISTIBLE AND HE TAKES THE PATH OF NO RETURN, LEAVING THE VALLEY OF CONTENT AND KARINENA, HIS PROMISED BRIDE.

"THAT PATH IS NOT FOR ME," SAYS SIR GAWAIN, "I WOULD RATHER DESCEND THE WALL AND FACE THE MAD DUKE."

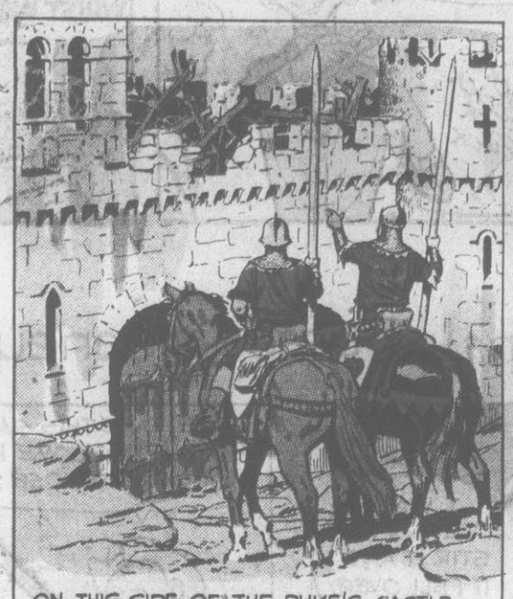


THE KING SUPPLIES CRAFTSMEN AND MATERIALS TO BUILD A HOIST.

IT IS SET UP ON THE GREAT WALL WHICH, SINCE OLDEN TIMES, HAS PROTECTED THE VALLEY OF CONTENT FROM THE MENACE OF THE MAD DUKE'S RUFFIANS.



THE HORSES ARE LOWERED, KICKING AND SCREAMING WITH FRIGHT, AND HAVE TO BE WALKED BACK AND FORTH UNTIL THEY CALM DOWN. THEN ARN AND GAWAIN ARM THEMSELVES AND DESCEND THE RAVINE.



ON THIS SIDE OF THE DUKE'S CASTLE THERE ARE NO GUARDS, NO SENTRIES, FOR WHY GUARD A ROAD DISUSED FOR NEARLY A CENTURY? WITH A FEW BLOWS OF HIS MACE GAWAIN DEMOLISHES WHAT THE TERMITES HAVE LEFT OF THE GATE.

DUKE CYRIL IS THE TENTH IN LINE OF SUCCESSION OF THE FIRST DUKE AND EVERY BIT AS MAD. WHEN HE LEARNS THAT TWO ARMED AND MOUNTED KNIGHTS HAVE APPEARED IN THE COURTYARD HE CRIES: "WITCHCRAFT!"

ONLY AFTER HE IS SURROUNDED BY HIS ARMED MEN DOES HE RECEIVE HIS GUESTS. "BE YOU WIZARDS?" HE ASKS. ARN LAUGHS: "HOW ELSE COULD WE GET HERE?"

HOCUS-FOCUS

CAN YOU TRUST YOUR EYES? There are at least six differences in drawing details between top and bottom panels. How quickly can you find them? Check answers with those below.

Difference: 1. Bow is smaller. 2. Equation is missing. 3. Sweater is different. 4. Skirt is shorter. 5. Chimney is repositioned. 6. Sheet of paper is missing.

BULLETIN BOARD

● WELL STATED? 1. Which state has the highest male voice? 2. Which state contains a sturdy tree? 3. Which states suggest soft drinks?

1. Tenor-see. 2. Oak-lahoma. 3. Cola-rado, Minne-soda.

● Let's say SA is a short form of the word essay. What words then do these letters suggest: 1. NME. 2. XLNC. 3. FMNAC?

1. Enemy. 2. Excellency. 3. Effeminacy.

● Asked to write the chemical formula for water, Dora Dimwit wrote: HIJKLMNO. Why was that?

She thought it stood for H_2O (H to O).
