

Proposed Parking Program Studied By City Officials

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

City Council, Parking Authority and Redevelopment Commission members and city officials met Thursday night to hear a presentation on the "Recommended Parking Program" for Greenville and to discuss the overall proposal.

Don Ingold, a consultant with the firm of Wilbur Smith and Associates, told local officials that the findings of studies and analyses undertaken here indicate the need for public development of an off-street parking program in Greenville.

Ingold said that his firm, which has a North Carolina office in Winston-Salem, recommends a development program, staged for implementation over a five-year period.

The recommended program, which was developed during a nine-month study and analysis of local parking data, will provide parking for approximately 814 vehicles in nine separate facilities, the consultant reported, with a total cost of implementation estimated at $1,095,000.

Ingold said that with the absence of a public transportation system in Greenville dictating use of the private automobile for personal travel, the availability of an adequate number of parking spaces is vital to the economic well being of the central area.

The purpose of the study, authorized by the local Parking Authority, was to: identify parking characteristics in the study area; measure the magnitude and orientation of parking demands; relate the measured parking demands to the existing availability of parking spaces; quantify parking space needs; appraise the adequacy of the public parking facility phase of the central business district redevelopment plan; and formulate a physical and financial plan for implementing a public parking development plan.

The consultant explained that the studies and analyses undertaken here were related to a 17-block area bounded by Second Street on the north, Reade Street on the east, Loop Road on the south, and Greene Street on the west.

Field studies were conducted during the early summer of 1973, he noted, and a total of 1,873 parking spaces were found in the 17-block area. Of the total, 398 spaces were curb spaces and 1,475 were in off-street lots. Nine parking lots within the study area are available to the general public and contain a total of 390 spaces.

Ingold reported that future parking space demands and needs were forecast by projecting current demands and relating them to estimates of

Unemployment Rate Slipped Down In April

By ROBERT A. DOBKIN
AP Labor Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The nation's unemployment rate edged down from 5.1 per cent to 5 per cent of the work force in April, the government said today.

It was the second consecutive month that the unemployment rate had dropped.

Labor Department analysts considered the two-month decline significant but said it was too early to determine whether it was the beginning of a trend.

Unemployment jumped from a 3½-year low of 4.6 per cent in October to 5.2 per cent in January, reflecting the downturn in the economy and the spreading effects of the fuel shortage.

It remained 5.2 per cent in February before dipping to 5.1 per cent in March.

Despite the recent decline, the Nixon administration has said it expects some increases in the unemployment rate later this year, particularly during the summer as more teen-agers enter the work force.

According to the Bureau of Labor Statistics, about 4.5 million Americans were without jobs in April. That was about 200,000 fewer than in January and February but still 430,000 higher than in October at the start of the oil embargo.

Total employment stood at 85.8 million last month, about the same as in March.

After rising rapidly during the previous two years, employment has shown very little growth since October, reflecting the lack of growth of jobs in the blue collar and service occupations, the government said.

There also has been little growth in the civilian labor force, which was seasonally adjusted 90.3 million persons in April, about the same as in March. The labor force includes both employed and unemployed persons.

The government said the recall of auto workers laid off during the Arab oil embargo helped manufacturing employment to rebound in April. The transportation equipment industry added 60,000 workers to its payrolls last month following three months of heavy job losses.

But in construction, there was a drop of 70,000 jobs.

Role In Inquiry For St. Clair

By JOHN BECKLER
WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee, clearing the way for the crucial phase of its impeachment inquiry, has given President Nixon's lawyer a major role in the proceedings.

Under rules approved unanimously by the committee Thursday, White House lawyer James St. Clair will be able to question witnesses, raise objections and propose witnesses.

The rules and the Democratic majority's support of them helped restore harmony in the committee after its party-line split Wednesday when Nixon was found in noncompliance with the committee's subpoena for Watergate tapes.

Adoption of the rules marked the final step in the long preparation for receiving evidence that the committee has been engaged in since January. Starting next week it will begin examining the information on which it will base a judgment as to whether Nixon should be impeached.

The rules include a provision permitting hearings to be televised if the committee decides to open them to the public. Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., said the first week of the hearings would be closed.

Those first four or five days will be taken up by a presentation to the committee of the secret grand jury evidence relating to Nixon's role in the Watergate cover-up and other information covering a wide range of alleged presidential misconduct.

The committee's ornate hearing room will be fitted out with electronic equipment to permit the playing of tapes, so that each of the 38 members has his own headset and set of transcripts.

Although Nixon refused to give the committee the 42 tapes it subpoenaed April 11, furnishing edited transcripts instead, he previously had turned over 19 tapes that already had been given to the Watergate grand jury. These include the controversial March 21 tape of Nixon's conversation with his former counsel, John W. Dean III.

The role given to St. Clair makes it clear that he is subject to the control of the committee and has no independent right to be present.

The Constitution gives the House the sole right of impeachment, but historically counsel for the subject of the inquiry has been granted some opportunity to participate.

Rep. Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., chairman of the subcommittee which drafted the rules, said they were based on a desire to be fair to Nixon. Rep. Thomas F. Railsback, R-Ill., ranking Republican on the subcommittee, praised the Democrats for their support, saying they had "leaned over backward" to assure St. Clair's participation.

However, some Democrats said they felt the committee was being too generous. Rep. George E. Danielson, D-Calif., tried to eliminate St. Clair's right to raise objections, saying the committee was giving St. Clair the opportunity to turn what should be a fact-finding investigation into a full-scale trial.

But Rep. Robert F. Drinan, D-Mass., citing past impeachment proceedings in which counsel for the person under investigation was allowed to take part, said "it is better to let St. Clair become the 39th member of the committee than to deny him his procedural rights."

Nixon Is Going To Arizona

CAMP DAVID, Md. (AP) — President Nixon is embarking on a two-stop tour of public appearances as part of his campaign to overcome the Watergate scandal shadowing his administration.

The chief executive, who has been at his mountaintop retreat since Wednesday evening, is scheduled to depart at mid-afternoon today for Phoenix, Ariz.

There he is to address a rally arranged by Arizona Republicans who have handed out more than 13,000 tickets for his coliseum appearance.

On Saturday, Nixon is to fly on to Spokane, Wash., where he will inaugurate Expo '74, a world fair focusing on the environment.

The speaking appearances are part of an accelerated campaign intended to carry him to various parts of the country while the House Judiciary Committee considers resolutions to impeach him.

Saturday, May 11, Nixon plans to address commencement ceremonies at Oklahoma State University in Stillwater.

Safety Award

CHICAGO—Greenville Utilities Commission has been recognized by the National Safety Council for its exemplary performance in on-the-job safety.

In selecting Greenville Utilities for a first place award in its Public Utilities annual on-the-job safety contest, the Council honors the lowest disabling injury rates achieved by NSC member organizations during 1973.

The company qualified for its safety award with a recorded rate of 0.00 injuries per million man-hours worked. This compares with 5.06 for all competing units in the Public Utilities industry.

Accepting the award on behalf of the Greenville Utilities employees was Edward C. Askew, Personnel and Safety Director.

Public Transportation Survey Here Will Be Assisted By Institute

The East Carolina University Regional Development Institute will assist the City of Greenville in a public transportation survey designed to assess probable need by the Greenville area of a regular municipal bus system.

According to William P. Minette, development specialist with the ECU Institute, brief questionnaires will be mailed to all customers of the Greenville Utilities Commission on May 8.

About 10,500 postpaid questionnaires will be mailed, Minette said. The questionnaires are phrased in order to indicate potential usage of a public transportation system rather than the public's receptivity to the proposal.

"Obviously, a three-car household will have little or no use of available public transportation," he said.

The following questions will be asked, requiring only numbers in response:

"How many persons five-years of age or older live at your house?"

"How many automobiles are available for their use?"

"How many different work, school and/or other activity places do members of your household go each day?"

"What is the average length of trip from your house to places you go?"

"If public bus service on a reasonable schedule were available, how many of the daily trips of those living at your house could be made by bus?"

The questionnaires need not be signed for the purposes of the survey.

The ECU Institute will tabulate and evaluate the response to the survey, with the assistance of ECU political science student Ronald Dees of Fayetteville.

Persons who have difficulty in answering the questions may telephone the local VISTA headquarters (758-1528) to secure the help of one of the volunteers. VISTA is assisting the Regional Development Institute with labeling and mailing the questionnaires.

Results of the survey will be sent to Greenville City Manager William Carstarphen, who said the survey is part of an investigation now in progress to determine the feasibility of a mass transit system for Greenville.

He has been authorized by the City Council to apply for preliminary assistance from the U. S. Urban Mass Transportation Agency (UMTA) in a technical analysis of public transportation here.

If the survey indicates need of a system, Carstarphen said he will recommend that the Council authorize him to apply for actual planning assistance by a UMTA transportation consultant, who will advise the city regarding such details as size of the system, distances to be covered, frequency of stops, scheduling and cost.

Since ECU students and faculty members would probably be the chief users of a public transportation system, their response to the questionnaires is particularly needed, said Minette.

ECU Student Government President Bob Lucas urged all students receiving questionnaires to respond, as "the possibility of a mass transit system here would be of special benefit" to students.

"There are potential advantages in public transportation to all students, even those who normally drive their own cars around the town and campus," he said. "The automobile parking problem both on and off campus is such that a transportation alternative would be a great convenience," Lucas said.

Another Pitt Student Chosen

WINSTON-SALEM—Kenneth Thomas Patterson of Farmville Central High School has been added to the list of Pitt County students selected to attend this year's session of the Governor's School of North Carolina.

Patterson's area of study will be mathematics.

The session will be held June 30 through August 10. The school is conducted under the direction of the North Carolina Department of Public Instruction.

A total of 400 students have been selected to attend this year.

MASSIVE SEARCH

Thirty-Years In Highway Deaths

PLYMOUTH, N.C. (AP)—A Baltimore, Md., man was sentenced to 30 years in prison Thursday after he was convicted on manslaughter and hit-and-run charges in the deaths of three Brownie scouts near Robersonville last October.

Judge Perry Martin pronounced sentence on David Wallace Jr. after a Washington County Superior Court jury had convicted him on three counts of manslaughter and two charges of hit-and-run driving.

Amy Denise Gurganus, Pamela Lynne Manning, and Anne Roberson Wilson, all 9, were killed when struck by a car while on a bicycle outing with their Brownie Scout troop. Two other girls were injured.

During the trial, several witnesses testified that Wallace was driving the car that struck the five girls. These included the Brownie troop leaders, Mrs. Barbara Johnston and Mrs. Elizabeth Johnson.

Officers testified that Wallace tested .18 per cent on a breathalyzer test after his arrest and that .10 per cent is considered evidence of intoxication.

The defense tried to show that Wallace may have been suffering from an epileptic attack at the time of the incident. Several witnesses, including Wallace's former wife, his father, brother and a psychiatrist, testified he was subject to such seizures.

Big Majority Believes Guilt

WASHINGTON (AP) — Lawyers for the seven defendants charged in the Watergate cover-up indictment say a nationwide poll shows that 75 per cent of the people who have heard of the case believe the defendants are guilty.

The poll shows that nationwide 91 per cent of all adult Americans have read or heard that a number of President Nixon's former aides have been indicted for covering up the Watergate affair.

The poll was conducted by Sindlinger & Co. April 12-21.

Reprint Ballots After Some Found 'Missing'

WHITEVILLE, N.C. (AP)— The state is delivering 176,000 especially marked ballots to the Columbus County Board of Elections today in a move to prevent possible voting irregularities in Tuesday's primary elections.

Executive Secretary Alex Brock of the state Elections Board earlier this week ordered that all Columbus County ballots be reprinted. The order came after a Tabor City businessman reported he found one of the county's official ballots in an envelope under the sun visor of his car.

County elections officials said Thursday they have no way of knowing how many of the official ballots may be missing.

Retha Stevens, chairman of the county elections board, said the new ballots will be marked with a quarter-inch black line on either side of the list of candidates to differentiate them from the original ballots.

Ernest L. Sanders appeared before the county elections board Monday in to report he had found the ballot in his car. The ballot was to be used in the Democratic primary for U.S. senator.

William Lambert, a board member, said it was decided to reprint all the county's ballots when the board realized it would be impossible to determine how many and which ballots received from the state's printing office were missing.

Mrs. Stevens said the State Bureau of Investigation and the FBI have been notified of the situation.

Escaped Lifer Is Apprehended This Morning In Woods

SCOTLAND NECK, N.C. (AP)—Escaped lifer Jimmy Lee, 27, of Fayetteville, was apprehended this morning, some 24 hours after breaking out of the office of an eye doctor whom he had held for some three hours as a hostage.

Details of his capture were not immediately available, but Carl Cannon, chief Halifax County deputy, said Lee had been taken in a wooded area near Scotland Neck, not far from where the getaway car had been abandoned Thursday.

Lee, who was serving a life term for murder, has a record of 13 convictions in the last six years.

Dr. J. J. Edwards, 41, refused to talk about his ordeal.

He was to have given Lee an eye examination, but was forced to drive the prisoner in his station wagon. The vehicle was found abandoned a few miles from town shortly after his release.

D. C. Lewis, superintendent of the Caledonia prison unit, between Scotland Neck and Halifax, said Lee flashed a small weapon to overpower his two guards in the office, handcuffed them and took their weapons.

Lee had been at Caledonia since last April 1. He was sent there from Central Prison in Raleigh, where he had been since June 28, 1969.

On June 2, 1969, he and another inmate, Ricardol Robsondez, had escaped from the Roberson County unit. One guard was fatally shot and another kidnapped in the break. The two escapees then held a Roberson County farmer and his family hostage for almost 18 hours before surrendering on June 3 when surrounded by officers.

Later that year, Lee and Robsondez both were found guilty of first-degree murder. The jury recommended mercy and each drew a life sentence. Lee was found guilty of escape, but innocent of a kidnap charge.

Corrections Commissioner Ralph Edwards said he had a folder "two inches thick" on Lee.

Asked why Lee was transferred from maximum security at Central Prison to Caledonia, Edwards said, "Obviously, there was some reason to believe he had shown improvement or he wouldn't have been shipped down."

Edwards said security at Caledonia was next to maximum, or "closed security."

To Be 'Inside' Music Is Fear For Safety Long-Held Dream Of Soap Stops Samaritan Opera Star Mary Stuart

By REBECCA MOREHOUSE
NEW YORK (WNS)—Mary Stuart is television's long-run champion: "I've been on TV longer than anybody anywhere." For 23 years she's been the star of "Search for Tomorrow," the daytime series followed with unflagging devotion by 20 million viewers.

Her own life is a mixture of soap opera and situation comedy, as she recounts it. For instance, this:

"When my husband and I divorced I was living in a Connecticut country house with two kids, my mother, and a litter of kittens. I couldn't drive because he said I was a rotten driver. After I got my driver's license I backed the car up to the house and took off the whole back porch.

"I was married 16 years to Richard Krillick, a lovely Time-Life man. I didn't go out for a year. Then I thought I'd find someone and it would be total romance. Of course that was wrong. I've outgrown it. I've found myself since I've been alone. I'm content with myself."

A warming source of contentment is her new career as a singer, composer, and lyricist. Seven songs in the new Bell Records album, "Mary Stuart," are hers. She sings with a 52-piece band, realizing a long-held dream, to be "inside" music.

"We're getting between 300 and 500 letters a week about the album," she said. "It's just beautiful. My favorite song in it is 'Don't Look Back,' which is probably about me. I'm writing lyrics for Michel Legrand now."

"I wrote a carol, 'Bells of Christmas,' for 'Search for Tomorrow.' Last year, 30,000 choirs sang that song. I play guitar by ear and Harold Wheeler writes down the music for me."

She is a good-looking, gray-eyed brunette, and slender: "I go to exercise class but it's the biggest bore." Her daughter Cynthia is at the University of Michigan. Son Jeffrey enters college next year.

She has a large Manhattan apartment, does all the cooking—"That's relaxation for me"—but has a cleaning woman.

She was born Mary Stuart Houchins in Miami.

WARMING SOURCE. . . of contentment is her new career as a singer, composer and lyricist.

"Daddy was determined to follow the Depression. We left there for Tulsa which was just as depressed, but had sweet, tender people. When I got $35 together, I bolted, came here, and got a job as a hat check girl."

"I was working at the Roosevelt Grill when Joe Pasternak saw me and said, 'You ought to be in the movies.' It really happened. I made a screen test, falling about in high-heel ankle-strap shoes, and I was signed two days later. Pasternak said, 'You can't sing, you can't dance, but you've got something.'"

She went to the coast with her first husband, a painter. The two of them built a house. "All by ourselves." In three years she made 10 or 15 movies "that you can find me in." One was "The Adventures of Don Juan," with Errol Flynn.

"I came back here because I had a free ticket. I didn't plan to stay. But the marriage was over and I didn't see that house again for 18 years. I went with 'Search for Tomorrow' at the beginning, playing Joanne Tate. I'm on the show four times a week. CBS-TV, 12:30 p.m., EDT.

"At first Joanne was a housewife, then a librarian, and now she's head of personnel at a hospital. She was blind for a year and a half from an automobile accident. When I make personal appearances people still talk to me about that. I spend six hours a day on the show, learning the script is no problem. I memorize at sight. . . Thank God for work!"

DEAR ABBY: Can you or anyone in your vast reading audience provide a solution to a problem which saddens me? Because of the frightening increase of crime, in order to protect myself, must I now refuse to lend a helping hand to a brother or sister in apparent need of help? If I am driving along the road and see a car stalled by the roadside, and a woman tries to flag me down, must I ignore her plight and keep going because I fear it might be a trap to rob me? Or if a stranger, apparently hysterical, rings my doorbell and asks to use my phone to call the police and ambulance to report an accident, must I say: "Sorry, no," because he might be trying to set me up for a holdup or kidnapping?

I have always felt that I was my brother's keeper. Not anymore. I and millions of others await your reply.

TAKING NO CHANCES

DEAR TAKING: If someone tries to flag you down on the road, keep going. But stop at the first telephone and report it to the police or highway patrol. Under no circumstances should you open your door to a strange man, woman or child. Don't ignore them. Offer to make a call and summon help.

DEAR ABBY: My father wants to get a motorcycle. My mother and I [his only daughter] think he wants the fun of being a teen-ager again, but he claims a motorcycle is the answer to the gas shortage. I am more afraid of his getting hurt than anything else. He's 47 and has to drive 40 miles on the freeway every day to get to work and back. My brothers are on his side, and my mom and I are against it. This is causing a lot of arguments in our house. How do you feel about a man Dad's age buying a motorcycle when he's never ridden one before in his life?

CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: Same as you, but your father is an adult and must be aware of the dangers as well as the advantages. You've spoken your mind, now be quiet. And for heaven's sake, if he should get into an accident, resist the urge to say: "I told you so."

DEAR ABBY: How can I open up my son's eyes to something before it's too late?

Sonny is 28, and he's marrying Sally, a 26-year-old widow with a child. Sally was married at 20, and had a baby at 21, and her husband was killed in an accident when she was 22.

Because Sally was orphaned young, she never knew her mother, so she became very close to her mother-in-law. After Sally's husband was killed, she and the baby moved in with the in-laws and they've lived there ever since.

I have told my son that since it isn't proper for a widow to have a gala wedding, he should insist on a small quiet ceremony with none of Sally's in-laws present, but he said whatever Sally wanted was all right with him. Well, Sally is having all her first husband's family, and I'm afraid with all the memories of their dead son they will turn the wedding into a funeral.

I don't want to be a meddling mother-in-law, but I want my son to realize that unless Sally breaks those strong ties with her past, their marriage doesn't stand a chance. So how should I do it?

TOUCHY SUBJECT

DEAR TOUCHY: If you don't want to be a meddling mother-in-law, the advice from here is—don't meddle.

Limited Budget Can Make Grocery Shopping Bad Dream

By JEANNE LESEM
UPI Food Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Newlyweds showered with rice might find the grain more welcome as a gift.

Rice is among many staple foods whose prices have increased enormously in the past year. Current costs can make a new family's grocery shopping trips a nightmare, especially if the budget is small and the wife has a fulltime job.

It's axiomatic that small packages (or cans or jars) of food cost more than large ones. The price of packaging varies so little. It's also axiomatic that convenience foods cost more than the same ones made from scratch.

But for busy cooks, the added cost sometimes may be offset by greater convenience, says Ruth Hodgson Klein, a Cornell University cooperative extension specialist.

Costs Compared

It's just a matter of choosing the least expensive of two or more prepared products, she said in an interview.

Mrs. Klein, a working wife, bases her theory on information she and Jean I. Hahn gathered for a slide presentation prepared for Cornell's consumer education program.

They compared the cost per serving of a five-ounce can of ready-to-eat pudding with a five and one-half ounce serving made from an instant mix. The ready-to-eat kind sold for about 17 cents, or nearly three times as much as the instant variety made with added nonfat dry milk.

If time is going to be important, hear this: rag rice is the cheapest form of the grain, instant rice is next cheapest, followed by rice mixes and frozen, prepared rice in a pouch.

Savings on Cereals

Mrs. Klein also said pouch-packed vegetables, in general, are double the price of their frozen, uncooked counterparts.

Big savings are possible on breakfast cereal, provided you buy large packages of unsweetened ones. Individually packaged dry cereals can be as much as twice the price of a large package, and sugar-coated cornflakes are far costlier than the plain kind.

But some cake mixes may be no more expensive than making your own from scratch. Many mixes sell in such volume that their prices are relatively low.

Bake-and-serve refrigerated biscuits are only slightly more expensive than biscuits made from a mix, and the mix costs about as much as the ingredients for scratch ones.

Instant Coffee Cheaper

Frozen concentrate is the cheapest form of orange juice, Mrs. Klein said. It's followed closely by the chilled, dairy case type. Freshly squeezed juice is by far the most expensive.

Canned fruit cocktail often is cheaper than fresh, because it takes a pound of either fresh peaches or pears to make enough to fill a can. These two varieties are the main fruits in the canned product.

Instant coffee is cheaper per serving than ground roast coffee. The smaller the jar, the more you pay per serving.

When the price per pound of a bony meat cut like spareribs is as high as ground chuck, or higher, chuck is the better buy. You'd need one and a half pounds of the ribs to make two servings, but only half a pound of ground meat.

P.S.—Mrs. Klein said careful shopping may save only pennies on individual food items, but in a year they can add up to 10, 50 or even 300 per cent.

Dinner Honors Members On Wednesday

GRIFTON—New members and advisory members of the Grifton Service League were honored at the annual dinner Wednesday at the Episcopal Parish House.

New members are Ann Ricks, Kay Walston, Barbara Salensky, Miriam Bass, Gin Pace, Rosa Pearl Rose, Helen Broadus, Sadie Potter and Dixie Lister. Mrs. Robert Mewborn and Mrs. Cecil Cobb were the advisory members present.

Mrs. Phyllis Davenport gave the welcome, the league history was read by Gin Ricciarelli and the poem by Dean Carraway.

Special reports included: spring dinner, Gladys Thomas; thrift shop, Julia Denson; emergency charity, Dean Carraway, clothes closet, Gin Ricciarelli; eye clinic, Judy Christopher; little league, Nancy Allen; and scholarship, Gladys Thomas.

Each year, the league honors a member for her outstanding work. Catherine Whaley was presented a silver bowl by Gladys Thomas.

The dinner table was decorated with arrangements of spring flowers.

$4 Million Hearst Offer Scheduled Expire Tonight

Hideout Of SLA Found

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — FBI agents searched a recent hideout used by the Symbionese Liberation Army in San Francisco's Western Addition Thursday night and obtained some evidence left there by the group, television station KGO reported.

Dick Leonard, a newsman for the station, said that acting on a tip telephoned to the station by a resident, he arrived at the building while the FBI agents were there.

Leonard said an FBI spokesman told him evidence was found in a third-floor apartment which indicated it had been occupied recently by some of the SLA members sought.

The FBI is seeking members of the terrorist group in the kidnaping of Patricia Hearst Feb. 4 and a holdup of the Hibernia Bank April 15 in which Miss Hearst, three white women and a black man took part.

Leonard said the FBI spokesman did not say how recently the apartment was used by the SLA, and the FBI office in San Francisco declined to give any information about the apartment search.

Leonard said printed materials and other items were removed from the apartment and the FBI spokesman told him all of the material would be sent to a laboratory in Washington.

Sectional Income Up

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Per capita income rose 8.4 per cent in the Southeast in 1973, but was 1.1 per cent below the nationwide increase, the U.S. Department of Commerce reports.

Of the 12 Southeastern states, Kentucky and Mississippi had the greatest percentage gains, each 9.9, and Florida had the lowest, 6.1.

However, Mississippi remained last nationwide in per capita income at $3,448, compared to $3,137 in 1972.

North Carolina slipped from 34th to 38th at $4,120 last year and $3,799 the year before.

Per capita income in other Southeastern states in 1973 and 1972:

South Carolina $3,817 and $3,477.
Virginia $4,715 and $4,298.
Florida $4,647 and $4,298.
Georgia $4,243 and $3,909.
Kentucky $3,967 and $3,609.
Tennessee $3,946 and $3,671.
West Virginia $3,828 and $3,594.
Louisiana $3,825 and $3,543.
Alabama $3,724 and $3,420.
Arkansas $3,680 and $3,365.

Henry Fonda Has Pacemaker

NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Henry Fonda, 68, now has a pacemaker in his chest "as a safety precaution against a heart rhythm disorder," medical authorities say.

Fonda collapsed in his dressing room last week after a performance of his one-man show, "Clarence Darrow," on Broadway.

A spokesman at Lenox Hill Hospital here said Fonda will remain in the hospital over the weekend, but can open his show May 15 in Detroit as scheduled.

Fonda's appearance in Boston this week had been canceled because of his illness. After his collapse, a hospital spokesman said Fonda suffered from total exhaustion.

HILLSBOROUGH, Calif. (AP) — A $4 million offer for the return of kidnaped newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst, ignored for a month by her terrorist kidnapers, expires tonight.

The money is in an escrow fund in a San Francisco bank, deposited a month ago by the Hearst Corp. It will be available for use in resuming a massive food distribution program for the poor if the 20-year-old University of California coed is returned unharmed to her newspaper executive father, Randolph A. Hearst, by midnight.

More than $2 million in free food was handed out in February and March and Miss Hearst's kidnapers had demanded an additional $4 million.

Miss Hearst has said in taped messages that she does not want to return home and has elected to stay and "fight" as "Comrade Tania" in the ranks of the Symbionese liberation Army, which claims it kidnaped her Feb. 4.

Authorities say the SLA is a heavily armed, multiracial group of about 25 young men and women.

Hearst, chairman of the Hearst Corp. and editor of the San Francisco Examiner, has expressed a belief she was brainwashed by her kidnapers and had "mind control" used on her when she made statements reviling her family and fiancé and when she participated in a $10,690 robbery of a San Francisco bank April 15.

She is sought on a federal warrant as a material witness in the holdup. Three other white women and a black man in the gang, all identified by the FBI as SLA members, are charged with bank robbery.

A federal grand jury investigating the robbery called three witnesses Thursday—all admitted acquaintances of one or more alleged SLA members. All three made statements denying any connection with the SLA or information about its operations and refused to answer questions, despite a promise of immunity.

The three were instructed to be back in court in San Francisco for the next session of the grand jury Thursday.

Showing What Could Be Done

Gov. Holshouser presented the Governor's Award to the Town of Farmville for its efforts aimed at attracting industry.

"Farmville has been added to a select list—that of towns in North Carolina who have won the Governor's Award," Holshouser told citizens and guests at a meeting in Farmville.

He said several desirable industries had shown an interest in Farmville in recent weeks.

The Governor's Award program is sponsored by the Commerce and Industry Division of the N. C. Department of Natural and Economic Resources. Participating communities must achieve goals which place them in a strong competitive position for attracting industry.

Farmville has a program aimed at economic development which began in 1956 when the Farmville Economic Commission was established and it has shown progress in attracting and developing industry since that time.

Farmville has shown what a small municipality can do in improving life for its citizens through economic development. Now these efforts have been recognized with the presentation of the Governor's Award and we expect still greater things from this thriving Pitt community in the years ahead.

Good Benefit From The Days Of Gas Shortage

Lower speed limits seem to be bringing down the death rate on the highways.

The National Safety Council reported that traffic deaths dropped 25 per cent in March following drops in January and February. Highway speed limits were lowered to 55 miles per hour to save gas but the improved safety record is a result.

The reduced highway death rate is a pretty good benefit from the fuel shortage.

Land-Use And Smaller Cities

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—How can the hundreds of small cities in North Carolina begin to make critical decisions affecting the future quality of life of millions of Tar Heels without yielding always to real estate and local business establishment pressures?

That is the basic purpose of a four-day experiment in Wilson this weekend as a team of architectural, planning, governmental and legal experts descend for an intensified fact-finding survey and plan-writing session.

Wilson is one of five cities across the state picked by the community development section of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources as pilot cities in efforts to "raise the level of local decision-making in matters of land use and the quality of life in those cities," says Robert A. Cox, chief of the community development office.

The question, Cox said, is how future land uses should be shaped. Not just in terms of buildings, but in total land use planning—housing, health care, recreation, location of shopping, commercial and industrial complexes, etc.

Practical Politics

The Wilson experiment is in reality a study of how modern land use and urban planning ideas fit together with the political pressures in small cities, Cox explained.

The four other cities picked in the pilot project for future planning sessions are Lumberton, the original Washington, Statesville, and Hendersonville.

Together, the five give a representative cross-section of North Carolina geographical, social, and political life. All are relatively small cities—Wilson, with 30,000 population is the largest—and all have demonstrated a capacity to develop and implement quality planning for their residents, state officials said.

Making the survey are top planners and architects from communities such as Atlanta, Detroit, Baton Rouge, Philadelphia, Denver, and Rochester. The team assistance program is sponsored by the American Institute of Architects, and Wilson is the 17th city to undergo the intensive scrutiny. This is the first North Carolina project. Others have included Phoenix, Honolulu, Columbus, Ga., and Gainesville, Fla. A movie, slide pictures and other demonstration materials will be gathered during the Wilson visit for later use in the pilot cities—and some 25 others which are slated for action further down the road.

Busy Weekend

A glance at the weekend's schedule show the visit is not a cocktail and social event. The workday's will start at 8 o'clock and run until midnight or later. The team will actually produce a detailed plan on what directions Wilson should look for future development, and present it on the spot Monday afternoon and evening.

The survey will literally be a flying one, with both on-ground and in the air inspections scheduled, interspersed with work sessions for writing and drawing sketches to go into the report.

"What we hope to get from this experiment," Cox said, "is useable information on how technical assistance and architectural values can be made available to other cities across the state—to raise the level of decision-making abilities on the part of local government officials."

Cox said the program now is being done with a view ahead to the time when federal revenue sharing dollars flow into local communities with few, if any, strings attached.

"The decisions on how the money is to be spent to improve the quality of life will be largely local ones—and our local officials and state officials need some idea of how these planning and development ideas fit together with the political realities in a small city," Cox explained.

"There are numerous small communities that never had thought about water, housing, sewage, and unemployment problems because they did not have them. Now, through a combination of circumstances they have the problems, and in many cases, they don't have the mechanisms set up to handle the problems."

Ronald A. Straka, team chief, is an architect and city planner from Boulder, Colo. He labeled the end result of the effort a "plan for planning." He said a team can't provide solutions to complex problems in just four days, but can show how state and local officials coupled with community leadership can begin pointing in the direction of solutions.

John Dean Still A Major Factor

By ROWLAND EVANS

and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—The stunning acquittal by the Mitchell-Stans jury, while lifting flagging spirits at the embattled White House, falls far short of what the Nixon camp hopes it will accomplish: the destruction of John W. Dean III as star prosecution witness.

In both congressional impeachment proceedings and the Watergate cover-up trials, Dean has assets he lacked in the New York trial of ex-cabinet members John Mitchell and Maurice Stans. Whereas Dean's association with the Vesco case was tangential and his testimony uncorroborated, his involvement in the Watergate conspiracy is intimate and his accusations at least partially supported by tape recordings and other witnesses. What's more, the message from the Manhattan trail to special prosecutor Leon Jaworski is clear: Dean must be presented to future juries with far more care.

In short, White House reports of Dean's death as a reliable witness are greatly exaggerated. Indeed, the fact that John Dean lives promises intensified assaults on him based on the Mitchell-Stans acquittal. Vice President Ford's immediate assertion that the verdict "severely eroded" Dean's credibility sets the tone for the rising assault.

The Mitchell-Stans case was never viewed in legal circles here as a conclusive test of Dean's credibility. The U. S. Attorney's office in New York brought the Mitchell-Stans indictment a year ago despite pleas for caution from Washington counterparts, then conducting the Watergate investigation. Elliot Richardson as Attorney General was always leery about the case.

Lacking documentary evidence, the prosecution relied on witnesses—Bradford Cook, ousted chairman of the Securities and Exchange Commission, and discredited New Jersey politician Harry Sears—who proved to be disasters on the stand. Dean, playing only a minor role in the Vesco affair, could not compensate for inadequate key government witnesses.

Nevertheless, the Mitchell-Stans defense lawyers did undercut Dean's credibility with the jury. By describing him as a confessed felon who was now talking solely to buy a lighter sentence, the Mitchell-Stans lawyers established the model defense for accused Watergate conspirators.

Dean's friends believe the New York prosecution inadequately prepared the jury for his testimony and hope Jaworski will take note. Such preparation would present Dean as a man who could have weathered the storm had he denied everything and joined fellow Nixon lieutenants in non-cooperation but instead invited a prison term to break the conspiracy. Dean's decision to go secretly to the U. S. prosecutor came two weeks before he first feared the White House had marked him as the Watergate scapegoat.

But such a gilding of Dean must be restricted to the courtroom, thanks to gag rules imposed by federal Judges John Sirica and Gerhard Gesell. On Feb. 15, Gesell tongue-lashed Jaworski for his televised defense of Dean's credibility and ordered him off TV talk shows. Thus, while government officials from the President and Vice President on down can assault Dean, the prosecutors cannot defend him.

Jaworski and his men accordingly have no comment whatever—even off-the-record—on the Mitchell-Stans verdict. But there is no doubt here that Jaworski remains confident of Dean's veracity and will build his cases around him.

While not diminishing reliance on Dean as star witness, the New York acquittals will surely urge greater caution on Jaworski's team—realistic indictments and meticulously prepared cases. Jaworski's commendable caution in toning down some overblown charges originally contemplated by his hot-blooded young lawyers has now been vindicated.

Long before juries are empaneled in Watergate cover-up cases, however, Dean's credibility will be tested in the House impeachment proceedings. Consequently, the attack by the White House propaganda machine on Dean's credibility will intensify, based on the Mitchell-Stans verdict.

A rare public defense, not only of Dean's credibility but his role in history, was made last week in the University of Oklahoma Law Day lecture by Robert C. McCandless, formerly Dean's co-counsel. "Had he not come forward, leaving aside motives, America's democratic processes and our precious civil liberties would today be in grave peril without his decision to testify, and without the prosecutors' being able to use that testimony as a grappling hook to break the wall of the cover-up and conspiracy," said McCandless.

Strength For Today

A SHORT CREED

Someone has said that Ralph Waldo Emerson had a short creed, but he took it with him.

The same thing was said of a certain business man. His creed might have been summed up in the word "honesty." It was short, but from the time he awoke in the morning until he went to bed at night he carried it with him; and everyone recognized this.

The value of any creed lies in its use, not in its possession. What we believe is important, but the diligence with which we give ourselves to the keeping of any creed we may have is vastly more important. The world is interested not so much in the creed we profess as in the creed we live by. The creed we leave at the church door or at home will not do us nor the world much good. The question is not only, Do you have a creed? but, Do you have it with you?

DOUBLING THE TRAGEDY!

MORRIS

By ART BUCHWALD

The Bugged Showroom

WASHINGTON—It was reported in the press that certain car dealers have been bugging their automobile showrooms so that they can hear what people are saying when they're out of earshot of the salesman. This, of course, makes it easier for the salesman to know what the prospective buyers are thinking, and therefore he can make a better pitch to sell a car.

Let's go into one of these showrooms. The couple has been looking at the cars on the floor alone for about 20 minutes. The salesman comes out of the back office and says:

"Well, Fanny, how do you like our new Mark II Panda?"

The woman looks startled. "How did you know my name was Fanny?"

The salesman gulps. "Your husband McKinley told me."

The husband says, "I never told you her name was Fanny. And how did you know my first name was McKinley?"

The salesman says, "Well, honestly, I don't know, but I took a wild guess. You look like a Fanny and a McKinley. Now let's talk about the car. You're in the market for a hardtop in maroon with brown leather seats."

Fanny and McKinley look at each other in astonishment.

"We are looking for that color," Fanny says. "You must be a mind reader."

"After you've been in this business as long as I have, you get to know that certain people like certain colors. Now we do have a four-door Panda in maroon with bucket seats. I'm sorry it doesn't come with a stick shift, McKinley, but you know Fanny doesn't like a stick shift, and I think you should bow to her wishes."

"I know Fanny doesn't like a stick shift and she knows she doesn't like a stick shift, but how the hell do you know she doesn't like a stick shift?"

The salesman laughs nervously. "By the way she's carrying her handbag."

"Let's get out of here,"

Fanny says to McKinley.

"Wait," the salesman says.

"I want to be very honest with you. You two don't think you can afford a Panda, what with the orthodontist's bill for Nicky's teeth, and your daughter Frieda going off to Oberlin next fall, and Fanny's mother having to have that operation. Well, let me tell you. With a trade-in on your 1969 Ford Mustang, the Panda will still cost you less than $5,000."

McKinley asks the salesman, "Has someone told you about us?"

"Of course not. You're perfect strangers. This is the first time I've seen you. Show me a Fanny and a McKinley who don't have a son named Nicky and a daughter named Frieda going to Oberlin in the fall!"

McKinley asks, "Can I talk to my wife alone?"

"Of course," the salesman replies and retires to the back office.

"This is a real weird place, Fanny. He knows more about us than our next-door neighbors do."

"I know," Fanny whispers. "Let's tell him we'll think it over and be back next Tuesday."

The salesman rushes out of the back office and yells, "Could you make it Wednesday? I don't work on Tuesday, and I'd hate to lose the sale."

Other Editors Say A Ferry For Hyde

(Washington Daily News)

In an area in which our people have had to fight every step of the way over a period of many years for progress, improvements, and new facilities, it is not surprising to know that a ferry from Ocracoke to the Hyde mainland has been in the "talking" stage for a decade.

Now there are two million dollars earmarked for such a ferry and that amount is being held in the N. C. Department of Transportation. According to Representative Bill Roberson, it will take, by state estimates, around $1,500,000 to build the ferry and around $500,000 to build pier and docking facilities.

While the money is there and earmarked, getting it spent for the purpose intended might offer us another hurdle to jump. After all no one can say now just how the attitude of the Department of administration and the Holshouser administration might be toward such a ferry. We would hope very sincerely that both groups will join immediately into the spirit of the effort and that we can have such a ferry in operation in due time.

The effort now seems very important to us. We cannot take it for granted, nor can we accept it as fact that the ferry is coming. We cannot sit by idly and feel that it is ours.

There must be a cooperative effort put forth. This effort should be led by the people of Hyde county. And let us say that while Republicans in our area surely will carry more weight now in the effort, the realization of this ferry knows no political bounds.

The people of Beaufort county are as interested in getting this ferry as are the people of Hyde county. But since it is a Hyde county facility, the people there must lead with the people of Beaufort and surrounding counties giving full support. And we are positive at this time that the people of Beaufort county will do everything possible.

We would hope that Hyde county will ask the professional engineers of the state to make the study as to mainland location of the dock, and that we will all stand behind the recommendation that the professional engineers make.

But again the first and most important factor involved is that of getting the state to move as rapidly and as practically as possible. Having the money earmarked and realizing the ferry could run different courses.

This is a project we all can stand behind and work together as a people. And that is exactly what we should do.

Food Marketing Costs Climb

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Accustomed to bad news, food shoppers are likely to be elated over the news that farm prices continued to fall during the month ended April 15.

But now the bad news: More of your food dollar in recent weeks is going to pay the cost of bringing that food from farm to market. The Food Institute, which represents all segments of the industry, reports:

"Out of each dollar consumers have been spending for food in recent months, more and more is going for the cost of assembling, processing, transporting and distributing food produced on farms."

The increase in marketing costs became noticeable last October and has continued since then. Agriculture Department figures show the spread between farm value and retail cost rose 5.2 per cent from February to March.

In January, the Food Institute notes, consumers paid $1.43 a pound for certain choice beef, of which 96.9 cents went to the farmer, leaving 46.1 cents for marketing costs.

In March, when similar beef was priced at $1.42 a pound, only 86 cents went to the farmer and 56.2 cents was absorbed by marketing costs.

In this same period wide spreads also were noted for oilseeds, bakery and cereal products and fresh vegetables, but spreads for poultry and eggs decreased.

If the trend continues there is some question of whether the latest 6 per cent decrease in farm prices will arrive in consumer outlets — or, so far as the good buyer is concerned, disappear into middleman bookkeeping.

Only three major industrialized nations can boast that food costs their citizens less than 20 per cent of after-tax income. The United States, Australia and Denmark all report percentages

Radical Theft Alert

By ED BLANCHE

Associated Press Writer LONDON (AP) — What do you do with 19 masterpieces worth about $20.4 million, that you stole in the world's greatest art robbery?

One thing's for sure — you can't sell them for anything like their market value. At least not openly.

Right now, those 19 paintings are possibly the hottest chunk of stolen property in the world. Art dealers and police around the globe have been alerted to watch out for them.

It poses a problem for police in Ireland investigating the raid last weekend by an armed gang on the collection of gold and diamond millionaire Sir Alfred Beit.

So far, the gang that pillaged Beit's mansion near Dublin April 26 has made no ransom demands of any kind.

But some art experts and some police officers believe the robbery was politically motivated. Beit himself thinks the gang was out to make a killing by ransoming off the paintings for hard cash. And he's also said firmly he won't pay a cent if that is correct.

Stealing art treasures has been a lucrative business for centuries. But in these days of terrorism and revolutionary politics it has assumed a more sinister aspect.

Hugh Leggatt, a respected London art dealer and international art historian, said: "There are new motives behind these art thefts. In the old days, thefts were often insurance frauds. Now there are sociopolitical reasons and some form of blackmail is likely."

There has been speculation the gang that raided Beit's County Wicklow mansion at Blessington, near Dublin, may be linked with the Irish Republican Army, an underground guerrilla movement fighting to unite the British-ruled province of Northern Ireland with the Irish republic to the south.

The gang of five, led by a French-speaking brunette, screamed revolutionary slogans, such as "capitalist

The government's ace man hunters and police marksmen massed in the Chicago area today in a new attempt to get John Dillinger, "dead or alive."

The discovery of a blood stained automobile—one of the two or more cars the Dillinger mobsters apparently used in their dash for liberty in the little Bohemia resort near Mercer, Wis., spurred the concentration.

The blood stains gave rise to the belief that one of the Dillinger men had been badly hurt at one time or another after fighting from the resort near where a federal agent and a civil officer were shot to death.

Work on the Greenville swimming pool, which was suspended when the CWA was disbanded March 31, will resume tomorrow. The announcement came from K. T. Futrell, Federal Emergency relief director in the county.

Futrell also announced the approval of two other projects, a swimming pool in Farmville and street paving in Fountain.

Bar Agnew From Practicing Law

By DAVID GOELLER
Associated Press Writer
ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Calling Spiro T. Agnew morally obtuse, the Maryland Court of Appeals has prohibited the former vice president from practicing law.

"It is difficult to feel compassion for an attorney who is so morally obtuse that he consciously cheats for his own pecuniary gain that government he has sworn to serve, completely disregards the words of the oath he uttered when first admitted to the bar and absolutely fails to perceive his professional duty to act honestly in all matters," the court said.

The state's highest court disbarred Agnew on Thursday because he pleaded no contest last October to a charge he evaded about $13,500 in federal taxes when he was governor of Maryland in 1967.

Agnew was not a member of the federal bar, and his disbarment in Maryland prevents his practicing law elsewhere.

The ruling affirmed a recommendation in January by a three-judge circuit court panel which heard the case brought against Agnew by the Maryland Bar Association.

Agnew, who was unavailable for comment, cannot appeal the decision but could petition the court for reinstatement as a lawyer at any time, officials of the court of appeals said.

In a unanimous 13-page opinion from the seven judges, the court said it considered tax evasion a crime involving moral turpitude, fraud and deceit and as such required disbarment under state law, court rulings and the ethical rules of the American Bar Association.

The judges said they found no mitigating circumstances to grant requests by Agnew and his lawyer, Leon H.A. Pierson, that the former public official merely be suspended from practicing law, his profession before entering politics full time in 1962.

The judges said failure to disbar Agnew would be a travesty of their responsibility to uphold the integrity of the legal profession and prevent individual lawyers from hurting its image.

Agnew, who was fined $10,000 and placed on three years probation by the U.S. District Court in Baltimore, had asked the circuit court panel last December to leave him with the means to earn a living.

Since then, he has announced he is writing a novel about the vice presidency. Persons in the publishing industry have predicted the book should earn Agnew $100,000 or more.

Settlements In Golan Are A Defiant Symbol

By JONATHAN BRODER
Associated Press Writer
TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The string of settlements Israel has planted on the Golan Heights is a defiant symbol of the Jewish nation's will for survival—and a major hurdle in Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger's quest for peace in the Middle East.

Israel is committed not to abandon any of the 17 settlements. But unless it compromises, prospects for a troop disengagement agreement with Syria seem sparse. Israeli public opinion sides with the Golan settlers.

Syria has threatened to escalate the fighting on the Heights unless Israel agrees to withdraw from the entire Golan plateau. Israel is willing to return the 300-square-mile bulge at the northeast end of the Heights which it captured in the October war. But Israeli leaders have said repeatedly they never would allow Syrian forces to return to the western rim of the plateau from which they shelled Israeli farmers and fishermen at will until Israel's 1967 conquest.

While Kissinger conferred Thursday with Israeli leaders, a group of young immigrants from America opened the newest of the frontier communities on the southern Heights within earshot of roaring planes and artillery.

Most Golan settlers spent the day in concrete bomb shelters. But 1,100 others protested to the government that if it agreed to the Syrian demand for the return of Kuneitra, a ghost town one mile inside the 1967 cease-fire line, three of the settlements would have to be abandoned as unsafe.

A correspondent for the newspaper Maariv reported the young settlers were "distressed" and felt a withdrawal behind the 1967 line of even "a half-mile is dangerous for their future."

Israel Galilee, one of Premier Golda Meir's top advisers, assured them the government would not allow a return of the 1967 peril.

"One cannot easily forget the years of danger and problems we had to face then," he told a group of leaders from the settlements.

There are archeological remnants of Jewish communities on the Golan dating back to the 1st century rule of King Herod. But the communities dotting the Heights today sprang up after the 1967 war from a plan by Defense Minister Moshe Dayan.

He said Israel must "create facts" to protect its northern frontier against Syrian attack, and the civilian and para-military communities tightened Israel's grip on the 444 square miles of territory.

During last October's war, the Syrians overran several of the settlements, but the Israelis retook them.

Kissinger has emphasized he is not exerting pressure to extract territorial concessions from Israel. But the U.S. government as far back as 1971 Jerusalem it considered the construction of permanent facilities in occupied Arab territory a violation of international law.

pigs" at Beit, and accused him of exploiting the working class.

This, the experts believe, indicated the raiders were probably motivated by something more than just personal gain.

In the last three or four years, according to police estimates, art treasures worth $3 billion have been stolen.

Most law enforcement agencies agree the thieves these days are far more organized internationally and more knowledgeable about art than ever before.

And they are convinced that a lot of major works that vanish after they are stolen are sold to wealthy collectors who in the words of one dealer "lust" after paintings, their riches can never buy legitimately.

However, some detectives suspect, no thief would be able to dispose of 19 famous masterpieces, even to shady collectors. This reasoning tends to back up the theory the Irish robbery was politically motivated.

"I'm running for the United States Senate because I believe we can do something in Washington about inflation, crime, drug abuse and health care. I believe the Federal Government has spent too much time looking for blame and not enough time looking for solutions to these problems. I would be proud to serve as your Senator and would appreciate your support."

Drs. Burden And Lawrence Share Research Prize

University chancellor Leo W. Jenkins for their recognition for outstanding scientific research at ECU during the past year. (ECU News Bureau Photo).

Drs. Hubert W. Burden and Irvin E. Lawrence, Jr., both of the East Carolina University School of Medicine faculty, are co-winners of the 1974 Bisplinghoff Award presented annually to ECU faculty members for outstanding research in scientific fields. Dr. Burden, winner of the 1973

Bisplinghoff Award, and Dr. Lawrence co-authored a research work entitled "Catecholamines and Morphogenesis of the Chick Neural Tube and Notochord," published in the American Journal of Anatomy, Vol 137, No. 2, June, 1973. Their research conducted on chick embryos deals with neuro transmitter in development of the brain and spinal cord. Dr. Burden, a native of Hartford received his PhD from Tulane University Medical School in 1971 and joined the ECU faculty in 1972, as assistant professor of Anatomy. Dr. Lawrence, a native of Raleigh, received his PhD from Kansas University and joined the ECU faculty in 1964. He is associate professor of Histology in the School of Medicine.

Lawrence also is president of the ECU chapter of Sigma Xi, the Scientific Research Society of North America, which sponsored the banquet at which the annual awards were announced Thursday night. The ECU Sigma Xi organization was elevated from club to chapter status in formal ceremonies Thursday. Dr. Linton E. Grinter of the University of Florida, national president of Sigma Xi, installed the local unit as a chapter following an academic procession.

Elder Edwards Talks Saturday

Elder Ed Edwards of Washington, D. C., will speak Saturday night at the Oak Grove Holiness Church at 7:30.

Fellowship day will be held Sunday and special services have been planned. Elder Iota Ruffin will speak at 11 a.m. and Elder Jesse Keys will be the guest speaker at 2 p.m.

The Rock Islanders and the Consolators of Greenville will present a musical program beginning at 3:30 p.m. The Glory Light Singers of Oak City will be present Sunday night at 7:30 for a singing program.

TERMITES OR ANTS?

Don't be half sure. Call a professional pest control operator for an inspection today.

The potential damage to property from termites can exceed the damage from tornadoes, hurricanes and fire. This is why termite protection is as important as a homeowner's insurance policy.

Big-Spending Rackets Man Was Secret Agent

DETROIT (AP) — During his eight months in the dope racket, Vincent Mazzara was known to his drug friends as a fast wheeler-dealer who spent thousands of dollars on heroin and cocaine.

That image was shattered when federal and local authorities broke a dope ring and confiscated an estimated $6 million in drugs on information supplied by Mazzara—a Detroit police officer.

Mazzara's role in the recovery of 13½ pounds of heroin and four pounds of cocaine—largest in the city's history—was told Thursday by The Detroit News.

"It's hard to think that it's over," Mazzara, 24, said of an undercover life during which he was threatened with death several times. He refused to carry a gun because it might have revealed his true role.

"I wanted to stay as far removed from being identified as a police officer as I possibly could," he said.

Mazzara, on the Detroit force just three years, said he learned to change his character roles and attitudes as he rapidly moved up in the drug world during his assignment.

He first pretended to be a hippie, sporting a woolly hairdo and a pierced ear. Then to show his drug associates he was improving his life style, he traded in his faded jeans and earring for expensive clothes, styled coiffure, trimmed mustache and flashy sports car.

His ruse was so convincing that one dealer Mazzara worked with cried in disbelief when he was arrested during a roundup of suspects Tuesday night, the newspaper said.

Mazzara said he had himself arrested last August during a raid on a drug hangout and then began to work his way up the ladder as a drug dealer. He said he increased his drug buys from $200 a shot to $1,000 and once flashed $50,000 in cash to make a $6,000 purchase.

He said that at one point, a contact told him: "You're moving too fast now, man. I wouldn't give you a nickel that you'll live six months."

Asked why he took the assignment, Mazzara said, "I guess it's just a lot of ambition. I wanted to be the best."

Two Nights Of Youth Services

GRIFTON—Special youth services will be held tonight and tomorrow night at the New Covenant Holy Church here.

The speaker tonight will be the Rev. Flowers of Rocky Run Church and Mrs. D. Garrett of Holy Trinity Church, Greenville, will speak Saturday.

Services will begin nightly at 7:30.

Choral Group Program Sunday

The "Now Generation Singers" of Rocky Mount will be presented during the morning hour of worship at 11 o'clock in the Holy Trinity United Methodist Church, located on Red Banks Road.

The choral group of 30 young voices consists of representatives of the public schools of Rocky Mount and come from a variety of churches in the area. They are concluding their sixth year of organization, having been formed in 1968 following a Young America Crusade in the city.

Kenneth H. Davis, District Scout executive, serves as adult counselor for the "Now Generation Singers" and will be in charge of the program Sunday.

The public is invited.

Male Chorus In Concert Sunday

The M. R. Wilson Singers of Greenville will sponsor the All Male Chorus of Holly Hill in concert Sunday at 6 p.m. at Triumph Missionary Baptist Church, Washington Hwy.

The group will perform under the direction of Raymond Earl Fleming.

The pastor of Triumph is the Rev. C. B. Gray.

Homecoming At Church Sunday

Homecoming services at the Hollywood Presbyterian Church will be held Sunday at 11 a.m. with the Rev. William Forbes officiating.

The public is invited to attend. Lunch will be served on the grounds following the morning service and a nursery will be provided.

Plan Baptismal Rites Saturday

FOUNTAIN—A baptismal service for 16 persons will be held Saturday at 5 p.m. at Ried Chapel Church, Fountain.

The service follows a week's revival at St. James Church here, which was conducted by the Rev. Tyrone Turnage.

The pastor is the Rev. W.H. Joyner.

Press Meeting Begins Tonight

ROCKY MOUNT, N.C. (AP)—Registration this afternoon and a banquet tonight begin the two-day annual meeting of the Eastern North Carolina Press Association. State Rep. Sam Bundy, Pitt County Democrat, will be the banquet speaker.

A board breakfast meeting will be held Saturday, with a panel session following, with Jack Whichard of the Greenville Reflector moderator.

An 11 a.m. business session Saturday winds up the meeting.

Tom Boney, Alamance News publisher, is president of the association.

Petersen Angrily Defends Investigation-Handling

By MARGARET GENTRY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Assistant Atty. Gen. Henry E. Petersen angrily has defended his handling of the initial Watergate investigation amid fresh doubts inspired by the White House transcripts.

"I am not a whore," he belittled to reporters questioning him Thursday. "You newspaper people are disappointed that I'm not a whore! And you can print that! I walked through a minefield and came out clean."

His volatile temper calmed by the outburst, Petersen struggled against a confessed temptation to speak his mind about the doubts raised by the White House-edited transcripts, which showed in more detail than ever his efforts to keep President Nixon informed about the early investigation.

For 20 minutes, the urge to speak triumphed.

The exchange took place when the reporters visited his office to request a full-fledged interview. Petersen, head of the Justice Department's criminal division, refused.

"I'm not going to talk about it. It's a no-win situation," he declared, explaining that he felt bound by judicial restraints imposed upon those involved in the case.

Nevertheless, he discussed some limited aspects of the disclosures contained in transcripts of tape-recorded White House conversations.

They showed that Petersen, who headed the investigation before appointment of a special prosecutor in May 1973, regularly informed Nixon about the grand jury proceedings.

At times, he also advised the President about ways to deal with the top White House aides implicated in the scandal.

Sources told The Associated Press today that the original Watergate prosecutors stopped giving Petersen information for a time because Petersen was passing it on to the White House.

The sources emphasized that no one believed Petersen was a part of any conspiracy, but instead was being used by then-White House Counsel John W. Dean III, who they said apparently passed the information on to potential Watergate defendants.

During a conversation April 17, 1973, Petersen told the President, "If I thought you were trying to protect somebody, I would have walked out." Moments later, he said to Nixon, "Damn, I admire your strength, I tell you."

That transcript also showed that Petersen told of instructing his subordinates not to question convicted dirty trickster Donald Segretti about the fund-raising activities of Nixon's personal lawyer, Herbert Kalmbach.

As Petersen recounted it for Nixon, he had told the subordinates, "We are investigating Watergate. We are not investigating the whole damn realm of politics and I don't want you questioning him about the President's lawyer."

Recalling it Thursday, Petersen said that so far as he can tell, the transcripts accurately report the conversations.

He kept Nixon informed, he said, because "we thought he had a right to know."

He said the decisions he made in the case were no different than a prosecutor makes in judging the strength of evidence in any case.

He said that early in the investigation, he saw no reason to distrust White House counsel John W. Dean III, then deeply involved in the cover-up.

As the cover-up began to unravel, Nixon insisted on sharing the authority for deciding whether Dean was to be granted immunity from prosecution.

Asked whether he was disturbed that Nixon did not leave that decision to the prosecutors, Petersen replied that "the record is clear" about his position in his testimony before the Senate Watergate committee.

The transcripts disclosed that Nixon on March 21, 1973, suggested appointing Petersen "as special counsel to the White House for the purpose of conducting the investigation."

Petersen said the offer never was presented to him in connection with the Watergate case.

"But it was mentioned in an offhand way during the subsequent investigation of former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew," he revealed.

"I didn't take it seriously. I never pursued it," he said. The suggestion was broached "by an overworked lawyer" after an argument, he added.

Asked if the lawyer was White House attorney J. Fred Buzhardt, who played a key role in the Agnew negotiations, Petersen shook his head but then said he did not mean to indicate yes or no.

Rejoins City Police Dept

ARTHUR FONSECA
Arthur C. Fonseca, a Falmouth, Mass. native and former member of the Greenville Police Department has rejoined the department and will be assigned to the Uniformed Division.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Fonseca first became a police officer here in February 1970 after serving four years in the U. S. Marine Corps, then resigned in April 1972 and returned to Massachusetts where he was engaged in law enforcement work.

Fonseca, who re-joined the department here April 1, is married to the former Claudette Wilson of Greenville. The couple has two sons, ages 3 and 13.

Minimum Wage Impact Delayed

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — The U. S. Labor Department says the new minimum wage law which went into effect earlier this week has brought 1.23 million more workers under minimum wage regulations in eight Southeastern states.

There are now 8.9 million workers covered by the minimum wage law in Georgia, Alabama, Florida, Kentucky, Mississippi, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee.

according to James E. Patching Jr., assistant regional director for employment standards in the department's Atlanta regional office.

The new minimum wage for some workers was brought up to $2 an hour Wednesday under new amendments to the Fair Labor Standards Act.

However "not all newly affected workers will see immediate improvements from the recent amendments," said Patching Thursday.

Only those covered by the act before 1967 now receive at least $2 an hour, he said. Those covered by amendments which took effect in 1967 were raised to at least $1.90 per hour.

Large farmers—those who employ more than 500 man-hours of labor during any quarter of 1973—must pay employees at least $1.60 per hour now.

On Jan. 1, 1978 all workers now covered by the minimum wage law must receive at least $2.30 an hour.

In Georgia, some 200,000 more workers have been brought under the minimum wage law by the new state amendments, bringing the total to 1,323,000 in the state, Patching said.

Mrs. Clyde To LWV Convention

Mrs. Kay Clyde of the Greenville-Pitt County League of Women Voters will be attending the League's national convention in San Francisco Monday through Friday of next week.

More than 1,400 delegates are expected at the meeting to elect new officers and determine national issue on which the 155,000 member organization will concentrate during the next two years.

EXPLORER DIES
COPENHAGEN, Denmark (AP) — Ebbe Munck, veteran Arctic explorer, journalist and diplomat who became Nazi-occupied Denmark's chief spokesman during World War II, died Thursday. He was 69.

Woman Injured In Collision

Mary Martin Beverly of Bethel was reported injured in a 1:50 p.m. mishap here Wednesday at the intersection of Fifth Street and Memorial Drive.

Police said the Beverly car collided with a vehicle driven by Ralph Eugene Savage of Goldsboro, causing an estimated $2,500 damage to the Beverly car and $250 damage to the Savage vehicle.

Savage was charged with failing to stop for a red light following investigation of the incident.

Deserter Is Surrendering

CHARLOTTE (AP) — After four years in exile in Sweden as a deserter from the U.S. Army, Thomas Mack Hartis of Charlotte has given himself up and is coming home.

The 25-year-old decorated veteran is to be flown back to the United States today.

The Army says that Hartis, a specialist 5th class, the equivalent of a sergeant, will be sent to a military installation, probably Ft. Dix, N.J., to await judgment of his case.

Hartis won the Bronze Star and the Army Commendation Medal in Vietnam. He deserted from his unit in Germany in December 1969 because of what he says was harassment from his superiors, and not for political reasons.

He said in a telephone interview from Sweden that in surrendering, "I might be making as big a mistake as when I left Germany, or I might be doing the right thing—at least I hope I am."

His mother, Mrs. Margaret Hartis Simpson, who sews bedspreads in a plant in Matthews near Charlotte, said she had been pleading with him to come home ever since he deserted almost four and one-half years ago. Mrs. Simpson, who will meet him at the airport in New York City, said Thursday, "It's so great—God has answered my prayers."

Cycling Group Outing Sunday

The Pitt Peloton Cyclists plan rides to Black Jack or the vicinity Sunday morning. Anyone interested in riding with the group is invited to meet at Wright Circle on the ECU campus at 10:15.

The first organized rides of the group took 10 bicycle riders on a 24-mile ride to Stokes while three others rode to Burroughs Wellcome via the new northeastern bypass.

NEW YORK (AP) — Signs of continuing upward pressure on interest rates turned the stock market downward today in light trading.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was off 4.09 at 846.37, and losers outpaced gainers by 7-to-3 on the New York Stock Exchange.

British Petroleum was the Big Board's most-active issue, down ¼ at 12½.

International Telephone, which said late Thursday its first quarter earnings were about the same as in the comparable period last year, fell ¾ to 20½, the stock's lowest price, adjusted for splits, in more than 10 years.

On the American Stock Exchange, Buttes Gas & Oil was up ¾ at 22¾ in active trading. The company said it expected its first-quarter results to show a substantial gain.

The Amex' 11 a.m. market value index was .33 lower at 90.36. The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks slipped .37 to 48.50.

Criticism Of Media Grows

NEW YORK (AP) — The news media are suffering a "constant battering" of their credibility, according to the National News Council. It reported receiving 160 complaints in eight months.

The council was founded Aug. 1, 1973, to investigate complaints of inaccuracy or unfairness in print or broadcast news. Its members include representatives of the media, government, law and education.

After weeding out most of the charges as too broad or unfounded, the council said Thursday it has under study 13 complaints on topics ranging from coverage of Vietnam and the oil crisis to a report that carrot juice can be fatal.

"Criticism of the media has succeeded in creating in large segments of the public mind a feeling that media performance is irresponsible," William B. Arthur, executive director of the council, said. "And the success of such criticism is creating an atmosphere in which repression of the media is becoming a harsh reality."

Pending before the panel are: —President Nixon's accusation last Oct. 26 that television networks give "vicious, distorted coverage of the administration." The council said the White House has since declined to document the charge.

—A complaint by Mobil Oil Corp. against an ABC-TV special program last March on the oil crisis. The council report said particulars were being prepared.

—A request by Rep. John Ashbrook, R-Ohio, that the council follow up a complaint of the U.S. ambassador to South Vietnam, Graham Martin, that an article distributed in February by the New York Times News Service was propaganda that contained inaccuracies and half truths.

—A charge by Accuracy in Media, another media watchdog, that Newsweek magazine erred when it said 2,796 bodies were processed by the morgue in Santiago, Chile, in the weeks following the military overthrow last September of the leftist Salvador Allende government.

—Another Accuracy in Media complaint that the New York Times ran a misleading story Feb. 22 on possible lasting effects of herbicides the United States used in Vietnam.

—A charge that NBC-TV erroneously reported that local federal workers got the day off to see the President when he visited Huntsville, Ala., on "Honor America Day" last Feb. 18.

The council said it found NBC was wrong about the day off and asked the network what action it has taken. It dismissed as within NBC's editorial discretion a charge that the network attempted to deflate the positive aspects of Nixon's Huntsville trip by making the following item on the broadcast a call for Nixon's impeachment by labor leader George Meany.

Another complaint was that the Mutual Broadcasting System's announcement of a "Black College All-American Football Team for 1973" was simply a promotional effort of Mutual and the Chevrolet Division of General Motors.

And a New Jersey man, C.T. Budny of Woodbury, complained that a French news agency story in the Philadelphia Inquirer said a man died of drinking too much carrot juice." Budny wrote: "I have been drinking one, two or three or even as much as four quarts of carrot juice at times daily and I have never had any but beneficial health."

Two Accidents Here Yesterday

Two accidents here yesterday resulted in an estimated $1,400 property damage, Greenville Police Department investigators reported.

Officers said heaviest damage resulted when a mobile home, being pulled by a truck driven by Tom Sam Ward of Route 5, Haleyville, Ala. collided with a metal awning at Brody's at 422 Evans St. about 7:30 p.m.

Officers estimated damage to the mobile home at $600 and set damage to the store at $500.

No charges were made. Cars driven by Sylvia Alexander Gardner of Ayden and Bobby Truman Williams of Roper collided about 10:05 a.m. on Greenville Boulevard about 530 feet West of the Evans Street intersection.

Officers, who made no charges, estimated damage at $150 to each of the two cars.

Instructional Meet Saturday For Registrars

Miss Margaret Register, executive secretary of the Pitt Board of Elections, reported that an instructional meeting for precinct officials is set for 9 a.m. Saturday at the courthouse.

Miss Register said that the meeting, to be held in the Superior Courtroom, is for the registrar and judges of each of the county's 27 voting precincts.

She said that following the meeting, all poll supplies and registration books will be distributed from the Board of Elections office on Second Street.

The meeting will be conducted by board chairman James C. Lanier Jr. and Miss Register.

Saturday Is The Deadline For Art Entries

Artists and craftsmen are reminded that tomorrow at 9:30 a.m. is the deadline for entry of items in the annual Sidewalk Art Show at the Greenville Art Center, 802 Evans Street. The show opens officially at 10:00 a.m.

Mrs. Edith Walker, director of the Art Center, is issuing an appeal for assistance, especially for young men or students to help in setting up the screens to hold art work submitted. Anyone who can volunteer for helping, even for a short time, is asked to come to the Art Center at 4:00 p.m. this afternoon and or at 8:00 a.m. tomorrow morning.

A Greenville artist, Becky Steila, will be on hand to draw charcoal portrait sketches of people.

Bertie Outpaces Rose For Track Title

RELAY EFFORT—Rose High School's William Joyner, second from right, makes the handoff to Lindberg Morris, right, as the Rampants gain a victory in the 880-yard relay during yesterday's Division I meet at Aycock. Northeastern in the second lane, and

Rocky Mount, in the third, were both later disqualified, while Bertie, far left, finished third and Northern Nash, out of the picture, was second. Bertie took the overall team title. (Reflector Photo)

Purple-Gold Game Is Set Saturday Night

East Carolina University will put on its annual spring football game, the Purple-Gold affair Saturday at 7:30 p.m. in Ficklen Stadium.

The contest is the first official showing of Coach Pat Dye's wishbone offense. Dye, who is completing his first spring practice with the game, will be missing some of his top performers, however, out with injuries because of the hard hitting throughout the spring.

Among those who will not be playing are Kenny Strayhorn, who underwent knee surgery Wednesday; quarterback Mike Weaver, and linebacker Gary Niklason.

Wednesday evening, following practice, the coach picked out six players, who then chose up sides for the game.

Named Purple team captains were Buddy Lowery, Niklason and Don Schink.

They picked the following players: wide receivers, Theodore Ashford, Will Williamson and Bill Sherman; tackles, Ricky Bennett, Joe Reutter, Chip Post; guards, Greg Harbaugh and Joe Rusinowski; centers, Tim Hightower and John Shaloross; quarterbacks, Tom Chipok and Jonathan Deming; fullback, Don Schink; halfbacks, Jesse Ingram, Kent Ganzert and Jimmy Howe; and kicker Jim Woody.

Danny Kepley, Kenny Moore and Vic Wilfore were selected as Gold team captains.

Their offense includes: wide receivers, Vic Wilfore and Wayne Smith; tackles, Willie Bryant, Dave Dadisman, Jake Dove and Chuck Eller; guards, Jimbo Walker and Randy Parrish; centers, Ted O'Neill and John Grinnel; quarterbacks, Bob Bailey and Stuart Halthcock; fullbacks, Tom Daub and Don Hughes; halfbacks, Raymond Jones and Bobby Myrick.

The Gold defense includes: linebackers, Steve Mulder, Butch Strauderman, Danny Kepley and Billy Hibbs; tackles, Kenny Moore, Robert Brandon and Mike Stanley; nose guard Nick Bullock; defensive backs, Ron Stewart, Gill Job, Glynn Loftin and Ernest Madison; and kickers Tiny Bullard and Mike Roper.

The Gold team has been rated a slight favorite in the game.

Frank Orgel will head the Purple coaching staff, while Watson Brown and Jim Fuller will assist him. Henry Trevathan will coach the Gold, with Ben Grieb, Wright Anderson and Lanny Norris assisting.

"The squad breakdown is interesting," Coach Dye said. He will observe the game from the press box. "It represents a different collection of players who should match up in an interesting way."

"On paper, I can see which one could or should win. But then 'on paper,' doesn't usually happen. We will find some football players in the Purple-Gold game."

Dye emphasized that the players made their own selections. "I can honestly say that the players were picking the best ones and not just friends. For a minute, I thought they were Bertie Senior High School captured its first Division I, 4-A Track Championship yesterday, easily beating out the other five schools in the conference. The meet, the first for the conference, was held at the E. B. Aycock Junior High School track here. Since it was the first, all marks represented conference records.

Bertie finished the afternoon's work with a total of 85½ points, nearly 20 ahead of second place Rose High School, which had 66½.

Wilson Fike finished a distant third with 33 points, while Northern Nash was fourth with 26. Northeastern had 23, while Rocky Mount trailed with 18.

Overall, Bertie won nine events, three times as many as any other school. Northeastern had three individual champions, while Rose won two events. Northern Nash and Wilson each won one, while Rocky Mount failed to enter the championship circle.

The meet produced three double winners, two of them from Bertie and one from Northeastern.

Marvin Rankins of Bertie won both the high and low hurdles, with times of 14.9 and 19.9 seconds, respectively. The other Falcon double winner was Keith Uguhart, who took the mile (4:37.4) and the 880 (1:59.9).

Delbert Powell of Northeastern won the 100 in 9.8 seconds and the 220 in 22.1 seconds.

Other individual winners for Bertie included Milton Ryan in the shot put, Tony Ward in the discus, Armstead Gilliam in the high jump; Willie Stancil in the 440, and the team of Elbert Lee, John Heckstall, Terry Holley and Stancil in the mile relay.

Buddy Hilburn of Wilson won the pole vault, while Roderick Williams of Northeastern was the other Eagle winner, taking the triple jump.

Three Claim Second Wins

Oakmont, Grace and People's Bible recorded their second victories in the Church Softball League last night.

In the opening game at Evans Field One, Immanuel rolled to a 23-1 win over Arlington Street. Immanuel pushed over two in the first inning, then added four in the second and six more in the third. They finished up with five in the fifth and six in the sixth. The lone Arlington run came in the fifth frame.

Grace took a 14-5 win over University-Mt. Pleasant in the second game. Grace got three in the first then scored two more in the second. They wrapped it up with six in the fourth, then added three more in the sixth. U-MP rallied for four in the fourth, then got their final one in the seventh.

People's gained a 6-1 victory over Black Jack in the finale. People's scored five runs in the first, the got their other run in the fifth. The lone Black Jack run was batted in in the seventh. St. James romped to a 17-2 win going to fight right here in my office. Everyone seems excited. The coaches have already started scheming. I can assure you that the staff and players will be going all out in the game.

"It should be interesting and fun and above all, fun for everybody—all the area fans."

Buddy Hilburn of Wilson won the pole vault, while Roderick Williams of Northeastern was the other Eagle winner, taking the triple jump.

Rose winners included the 880-relay team of Ernest Fleming, William Joyner, Lindberg Morris and Keith Joyner; and A. J. Tyson, who won the two-mile run with a school record time of 10:25.8.

Thomas Eley won the long jump for Northern Nash.

The teams will join in to participate in the Northeastern Sectional Meet to be held at East Carolina University next week. That meet is a preliminary to the Regionals, also to be held at East Carolina, which picks entrants for the State Meet.

Summary:

ECU Time Changed

East Carolina University's Southern Conference baseball champs will play host to the University of North Carolina-Wilmington this afternoon at 4:30 p.m. at Harrington Field.

The contest had originally been set for 3 p.m. but was moved back because of travel problems experienced by Wilmington.

The Bucs will be seeking revenge for a no-hitter tossed against them during the Easter holidays.

Sunday, the Bucs will host Pembroke State University at 3 p.m. with the possibility of hot-hurling Ron Norman facing East Carolina's ace, Dave LaRussa.

Tuesday, the Bucs close out their season against Campbell, also at Harrington Field.

SHORT TERM LOAN—LONG TERM INTEREST

Right now there are opportunities for you in the Army Reserve. It's kind of a swap: You lend us YOU for a short term of active duty, and we teach you one of several available skills that'll pay dividends for years to come.

HOW IT WORKS—After you join a local Army Reserve Unit and complete your basic training, you'll get specialty training in the skill that you specialty from those available. Here are some:

ADMINISTRATION

PERSONNEL MANAGEMENT

FINANCE

AUTO MECHANICS

HEAVY EQUIPMENT MECHANIC

After you serve a minimum of 4 months of active duty for training, you return home and you can apply for further specialty training depending upon the specific skill requirements of your local unit.

HOW IT PAYS—There are lots of ways. While on active duty training, you get about $356.00 a month. Plus room, board, medical care, PX and commissary use. When you come back home, you get about $48.44 per month. There is one week-end meeting per month (16 hours) and one 15-day summer camp per year. Raises: Periodic pay raises, early ones, are based on your efforts to earn them. Still, most important, don't forget that specialty training—it'll be valuable the rest of your life.

HOW IT HELPS—You can help build a better society. First, you get to work with the Army Reserve on projects that improve the community environment and contribute to the welfare of all citizens. Second, in becoming a skilled citizen, you automatically make a contribution to that better society. And while you're doing it you help your country.

FOR MORE INFORMATION ABOUT THE ARMY RESERVE, CONTACT ANY ONE OF THE EMPLOYEES AT THE US ARMY RESERVE CENTER AT 1301 N. Memorial Dr., Greenville, N.C., ACROSS FROM THE PITT COUNTY FAIR GROUNDS OR CALL 752-2482.

Bucs Chase 2nd In S.C. Track

East Carolina University's track team will take up the annual chase of William & Mary this afternoon in Richmond in the Southern Conference Track and Field Championships.

The University of Richmond is hosting this year's meet, billed as another championship year for the Indians, who have had a strange hold on the title for years.

Coach Bill Carson is hopeful that his Pirates can pull out another second place finish, but notes that a lot of events the Bucs can score in are "iffy" ones.

"We are healthy," Carson said, "and we should score well."

One of the big things the Bucs are going to shoot for is a victory in the 440-yard relay in record time. The current Southern Conference mark is 41.4 seconds, and the Buc coach feels his group of Larry Malone, Palmer Lisane, Sammy Phillips and Maurice Huntley can time this by a couple of tenths. "We'll have to get good baton passes and have good weather too," Carson said. "But I do believe that we have the leg power for it."

Furman will offer the Pirates the toughest competition for second place, Carson believes. "They'll score well in some events, but I think we can scatter our points around more. If we can come out of Friday's events with about 40 points, I think we'll be all right."

Carson looks for Maurice Huntley to win both the 100 and 220-yard dashes. "He could qualify for the nationals with his times in these," he said. "I just can't see anyone beating him." Carson expects tough competition for the long jump title, but feels that either Larry Malone or Willie Harvey can win it.

"Tom Watson should win the shot, and Ivey Peacock could repeat as the hammer champion."

In what he hopes will be a strategy move, Carson plans to run Gerald Klas in the steeplechase this afternoon, then in the three-mile Saturday. Klas has turned in good mile times, but not good enough to win. He also feels that Lisane will challenge in the 440, and that Huntley, Charlie Lovelace, Lisane and Phillips will all be strong in the 220. "Bill McRee could score in the high hurdles, and maybe in the intermediates, but we're not sure."

There are also several other events in which Carson feels the Bucs could score, but would need an upset to gain victories.

"If the weather is nice, it should be an outstanding meet. Richmond has a fine facility, and if the competition is good, I look for several records to fall."

The Buc track team carries on its back the school's hopes for winning the Commissioner's Cup, a symbolic of overall sports excellence. Currently, with all sports over now except for track, Appalachian State leads East Carolina by one point, while William & Mary is practically assured of eight points for winning the title.

That would mean the Bucs would have to pick up five points by finishing no worse than fourth in the meet, while Appalachian must finish two or more places behind the Bucs.

The meet, which began today with some events, will conclude Saturday afternoon.

Walton Said Ready To Sign With Blazers

PORTLAND (AP) — Bill Walton, UCLA's basketball superstar with an inclination toward gardening, will sign to play with the Portland Trail Blazers of the National Basketball Association, says the red-haired All-American's lawyer.

It is estimated Walton will receive at least $2 million in the multiyear agreement.

"He wants to buy acreage in a secluded area and raise vegetables," said Sam Gilbert, Walton's business adviser.

Walton will travel to Portland Saturday after signing a contract to play for the Trail Blazers, Herman Sarkowsky, president of the team, said Thursday.

The 6-foot-11, 220-pound center has kept his intentions a mystery since finishing his college career and indicated at one time he might not even play professional basketball if it meant he had to move from the West Coast.

The San Diego Conquistadors hold the American Basketball Association rights to Walton but were unsuccessful in trying to woo him to play for the ABA in his hometown.

Two groups hoping to establish ABA franchises in Los Angeles also wanted Walton, who in three seasons at UCLA became the most accurate shooter in National Collegiate Athletic Association basketball history, making 65 per cent of his shots.

The ABA offers may have exceeded Portland's in terms of cash, but Gilbert said variables other than economics influenced Walton's decision. The Encino, Calif., businessman was reached by phone in California.

Portland picked Walton as its first draft choice after a coin flip with Philadelphia, which shared last-place with the Trail Blazers in the final NBA standings.

Gilbert said Walton would notify the losers personally in the bidding for his services.

"I told him I would notify everyone, but he said 'No, it's my responsibility to call them up. They were nice enough to make offers.'"

"The man has made a choice and I have to abide by it," said Conquistadors General Manager Alex Groza. "He'd have been good for the league."

He said any offer to Walton would have come from San Diego owner Leonard Bloom, who was unavailable for comment.

Sarkowsky said at a news conference that Walton, who is shy of newsmen, would be unavailable until he gets to Portland on Saturday. Then, he said, if Walton likes what he finds, he may decide to change his address before the weekend is through.

Walton, who will be 22 on Nov. 5, was UCLA's all-time leading rebounder with a career total of 1,370, and was the second leading scorer in its history with 1,767 points, averaging 20.3 a game.

Sarkowsky said Walton's contract contains no unusual contingency clause regarding the center's knees or back, which have troubled him while playing at UCLA.

Walton began using acupuncture during his senior year to treat his injured back and tendinitis in his knees. He puts hot pads on his knees for 30 minutes before games and ice on them for 30 minutes after games.

He also fell in a scramble for a loose ball Jan. 7 at Washington State, breaking parts of two vertebrae.

He stayed off the court for more than a week and finally returned in a game Jan. 19 against Notre Dame at South Bend, where the Bruins lost 71-70 and saw a record-setting winning streak ended at 88 games.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, then known as Lew Alcindor, left UCLA in 1969 for $1.4 million from the Milwaukee Bucks, an NBA expansion team. They were NBA champions two years later.

Sidney Wicks, another former UCLA player who was All-American, joined the Trail Blazers in 1971 and has talked with Walton about the team.

Walton established his UCLA career rebounding record by bettering Jabbar's old record by three rebounds, and he ended Jabbar's all-time NCAA accuracy record by going him one percentage point better. Jabbar still holds the Bruins' scoring mark with 2,325 points.

Walton led the Bruins to their sixth and seventh consecutive NCAA championships in succession and was The Associated Press' college Player of the Year as a sophomore and junior.

His team lost to North Carolina State in this year's NCAA semifinal playoffs. He was runner-up to David Thompson of North Carolina State as college player of the year for 1973-74.

Walton practices transcendental meditation, hitchhiked across Canada one summer and enjoys camping. He was arrested and fined during his sophomore year and placed on one year probation by the school for participating in a campus antiwar demonstration.

A scout for the Trail Blazers said Portland will have too many centers with Walton, and while not trying to deal away any of them, "we would naturally be open to any deal that could improve the team," which is weak at the guards.

Angered Petty Fails To Make It First Day

By BLOYS BRITT
AP Auto Racing Writer
TALLADEGA, Ala. (AP)—"It hurts, it really does," super star racer Richard Petty moaned Thursday. He had missed making the lineup for Sunday's Winston 500 stock car race on the first day of trials and he was mad.

At least 20 other cars will start ahead of him in the lineup.

"The last time I failed to make the lineup was 10 or 12 years ago," he said.

"It really hurts." Petty, stock car racing's all-time money and events winner, had watched helplessly as a bunch of cars mounted with small engines dominated the initial trials, with more of the same in prospect for today's second round.

Petty, one of three top-name drivers who failed to gain a berth on the first day, was the victim of new rules imposed recently by the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing (NASCAR).

Simply stated, the rules allow small engines of 366 cubic inches displacement and under to use carburetors with bigger bore openings. Engines like Petty's 426 cubic inch Dodge engine must use smaller carburetors. It's sort of a handicap system to bring the smaller, and cheaper, engines closer to the extremely expensive big bore jobs.

Ladies Openers

Piggly Wiggly, Little Mint and Beltone captured opening victories in the Ladies Softball League last night.

In the opening game, Piggly Wiggly took a 5-3 win over Dixie Sales. Piggly Wiggly scored one in the first, then got one more in the second. Dixie Sales came up with three in the fourth to take the lead but Piggly Wiggly tied it up with one in the fifth. They added two more in the sixth winning it.

Beltone romped to a 4-9-1 victory over The Daily Reflector in the second game. Beltone pushed over 13 runs in the first inning, then came back to crash over 36 in the second inning. The lone Reflector run came in the third.

In the final game, Little Mint took a 25-5 blitz over Pitt County Hospital. The Little Mint put it away with 10 runs in the first. They added four in the second, two in the third, three in the fourth and six in the fifth. Pitt got one each in the second and third and three in the fourth.

Petty said his problem on the super-fast Alabama International Speedway was horsepower—or the lack of it.

"Loss of horsepower," he said. "It's as simple as that. And, I don't think it's fair to the fans to handicap the big engines so they won't run at all."

David Pearson, stock car racing's other million career winner, captured the pole position with a speed of 180.086 miles per hour in a Mercury equipped with a 351 cubic inch plant.

The other front row spot went to Gary Bettenhausen, wheeling Roger Penske's Matador rating 366 cubic inches. His speed was 184.929 m.p.h.

Third and fourth places went to small-engined Fords driven by George Follmer and Dan Daughtry, the latter a newcomer making only his third start of the year.

Cale Yarborough, the circuit's leading money winner, was fifth best in a Chevrolet that has a massive 427 cubic inch engine. His effort was the best of the day for the big-engine class, but Yarborough was almost seven miles per hour off Pearson's speed.

Twenty additional spots were at stake in today's second round of trials, with Petty, Buddy Baker and Charlie Glotzbach among the top candidates.

Biggest Field For The Derby

By ED SCHUYLER Jr.
AP Sports Writer

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — A mixture of 3-year-olds, including graduates of small track racing and major stakes winners such as Judger, was set to battle for glory and gold Saturday in the 100th Kentucky Derby.

The added prestige of this centennial Derby, the general inconsistency of this year's 3-year-olds and a record purse drew the most contenders ever for the famed 1 1/4-mile race at Churchill Downs.

If all 23 start, which would break the record of 22 in 1928 when Reigh Count won, the purse will be $326,500, with $274,000 to the winner. The big pot—the old record was $198,800 last year when Secretariat won—was due to a record 290 nominations at $100 each and increases from $2,500 to $4,000 to enter and from $1,500 to $3,500 to start.

The Woody Stephens-trained entry of Seth Hanock's Judger and John M. Olin's Cannonade was made the early 8-5 favorite Thursday while the Sigmond Sommer pair of Rube The Great and Accipiter was second at 9-2.

"He's gonna be taken back anyway," Stephens said after the stretch-running Judger drew the No. 22 post position. The Blue Grass Stakes and Florida Derby winner will be ridden by Laffit Pincay Jr.

"The other horse can get a position fast," said Stephens of Stepping Stone winner Cannonade, who will start under Angel Cordero from the No. 2 post. In the No. 1 spot is Meekeken Stable's Agitate, winner of five of six starts including the California Derby. Agitate is the third choice, at 5-1, and will be ridden by Bill Shoemaker.

"As long as I don't lose my jockey on the break, it doesn't matter what my position is," said Frank "Pancho" Martin, who trains Rube The Great and Accipiter. He was referring to Miguel A. Rivera, who fell off Accipiter shortly after the start of the Stepping Stone.

When the field goes to the post at 5:30 p.m., EDT, Saturday, Rivera will be on Rube The Great, winner of divisions of the Gotham and Wood Memorial, in the No. 12 slot. Angel Santiago will start Accipiter from the No. 4 post.

Other trainers seemed to be more interested in the weather than the post positions. It rained Thursday, but no rain was forecast for Derby Day.

Monte Sims said Kenneth Op-tein's Destroyer, upset winner of the Santa Anita Derby, would not go on a muddy track.

"Everything is fine and it will even be better if it keeps raining," said Preston King, trainer of Samuel Lehrman's Triple Crown, a doubles stakes winner.

CBS television coverage is set for 5 p.m. to 6 p.m., EDT.

Trainer Joe Di Angelo's problem was in finding a rider. He still didn't have one for the doubles stakes winner Sharp Gary at the time the entries closed.

Sharp Gary was the only gelding entered and he will try to become the eighth gelding to win the Derby and the first since Clyde Van Dusen in 1929. Sharp Gary also will be in the mutual field.

For Charles Milbank, trainer of English-bred Sir Tristram, the Derby is "an experiment. I'm interested to see what he does on this track, but I'm sure he'll do well."

Sir Tristram, owned by American Raymond Guest, has raced only four times and his only start in this country came when he finished out of the money in the seven-furlong Stepping Stone. He will be ridden by Bill Hartack, who will be trying for a record sixth Derby win. Hartack currently is tied with the retired Eddie Arcaro.

Two others entered have done most of their racing in Venezuela. They are Set N' Go and Lexico, who will be ridden by Gustavo Avila who rode Cananero II to victory in the 1971 Derby. He is owned by Vincenta Baptista, whose husband owned Cananero.

Set N' Go finished second against older horses at 1 1/4 miles in Venezuela, and Lexico won by seven lengths at 1 3/8 miles, also in Venezuela. None of the other Derby contenders have raced farther than 1 1/8 miles.

Others entered included Consigliere, sixth in the Blue Grass; Bold Clarion, 15th in the Arkansas Derby; Crimson Ruler, a veteran of Jefferson and Evangeline Downs; Bay Shore winner Hudson County; Gold And Myrrh, third in the Blue Grass; Pat McGroder; Flip Sal, J.R.'s Pet, Little Current, Ga Hai and Buck's Bid.

Rampants Delayed

ROCKY MOUNT—Rose High School's game with Rocky Mount High School was postponed last night because of wet grounds.

The game was rescheduled for Monday night at 7:30 p.m. at Leaf Stadium. At stake is second place in the Division I standings. Rocky Mount currently holds a one-game lead over the Rampants for the position, while the Gryphons are also a game behind first place Wilson.

Houk: Tigers Can Win Flag

By ROBERT MOORE
AP Sports Writer

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Detroit Manager Ralph Houk is loaded with late spring optimism.

The reason is obvious: The Tigers completed a sweep of a three-game series with the Kansas City Royals with Thursday night's 9-7 victory—their fifth consecutive triumph.

Houk, aware that most baseball experts wrote the Tigers off before the season even started, said after the triumph:

"I see no reason why we can't do it. We've got a pretty good club. We've got good young pitchers, a good defense. We can score runs. We don't have much speed but we've got the hitting to get the runs in, and that's what counts in baseball."

Detroit's victory in the only game played in the major leagues Thursday night left the Tigers only 1 1/2 games behind the American League East Division-leading New York Yankees. Cincinnati's game at Pittsburgh and Atlanta's game at St. Louis in the National League were rained out. All other clubs had open dates.

"I don't know why most people thought we'd be so bad," said Houk. "You know, we've added nine players who weren't here last year. There's not a better left side of the infield in the league ... we've got the hitting."

"We're most improved in young pitching like Lerrin LaGrow and Bill Slayback. If our pitching holds up and I think it will, I see no reason why we can't go all the way."

Houk looked up and smiled as he suddenly remembered something.

"It got a little shaky there at the end tonight, didn't it? Joe Coleman was going so good and then he got wild."

The Royals, trailing 8-0, erupted for two runs in the seventh on Hal McRae's fourth home run of the season and

The Tigers lost little time jumping on Al Fitzmorris, 2-1, getting three runs in the second and three more in the third.

Mickey Stanley, Jim Northrup and Aurelio Rodriguez did combined for eight of Detroit's 12 hits and drove in five runs. After the Royals pulled up to 8-7, Northrup homered in the ninth.

Father Accused Of Penn Central Exposing Youth To Fraud Charged Radioactive Pellets

HOUSTON (AP) — A petroleum engineer has been charged with castrating his 13-year-old son by exposing him to radioactive material.

A five-count indictment returned by a Harris County grand jury Thursday charged Kerry Andrus Crocker, 43, with castration and assault to murder, maim and disfigure his son, Kirk.

Crocker, who denied the charges, was jailed in lieu of $50,000 bond.

The indictment was served on Crocker at the end of a child support hearing Thursday at which Crocker's former wife is asking for increased payments to meet the boy's doctor bills.

Kirk, who got out of a wheelchair and used a crutch to make his way to the witness stand, testified for 90 minutes at a hearing in Juvenile Judge

Robert Lowry's courtroom.

The boy testified that beginning in mid-1972 his father had placed some strange, metal, cylindrical-shaped pellets near his body while he slept at Crocker's townhouse during visitation periods.

He said the pellets were found in such places as his pillow, under the sofa where he slept and in headphones connected to a television set. He said he always tried to move away from the pellets when he found them.

Barbara Smith, 42, the boy's mother, had testified earlier in the hearing that large sores appeared on the boy's ankle, right thumb and inner thighs. The sores would break open and appear to eat away at the skin and muscle tissue.

John Bible, an attorney, said the boy's testicles had deteriorated. He also said the boy needed a crutch or a wheelchair to get around and can walk by himself only 10 or 15 minutes at a time.

By AY PERKINS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Securities and Exchange Commission has accused the Penn Central Co. and two of its former officers of scheming in 1968 and 1969 to defraud investors in the then-newly-formed Penn Central railroad.

The SEC complaint, filed in U.S. District Court in Philadelphia, alleges the defendants sought to inflate earnings and hide losses to disguise the critical financial condition of the railroad. It claims the defendants even borrowed money to pay cash dividends as part of the scheme.

Named in the civil complaint—no criminal charges are involved—are the Penn Central Co., Stuart T. Saunders of Ardmore, Pa., former chief executive officer of the company; and David C. Bevan of Gladwyne, Pa., a former top financial officer of Penn Central.

Fourteen other defendants also are named, among them the New York accounting firm of Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Co., which the SEC said aided in preparing false and misleading financial statements for the company.

The Penn Central railroad collapsed in 1970—two years after it was formed through the merger of the Pennsylvania Railroad and the New York Central. It has been run since 1970 by trustees while undergoing reorganization under federal bankruptcy laws.

The SEC complaint alleges that collapse of the railroad cost shareholders and investors billions of dollars.

In addition to the fraud complaint, the SEC charged Bevan and three others with diverting $4 million in corporate funds to private bank accounts in the tiny European country of Lichtenstein.

It also alleged that Bevan violated federal securities laws by selling 15,000 shares in the railroad in 1969 at a time he was aware of the company's

Now obviously R. A. (Fred) Hedrick didn't begin his career with the expectation of becoming a Justice of the Supreme Court of North Carolina. He just wanted to serve the law -- to pursue his chosen profession to the best of his ability.

Over the years, Fred Hedrick has proved his ability as a practicing lawyer, as a prosecuting attorney, as a trial judge, as a judge of the North Carolina Court of Appeals, our state's second highest court.

When you look back over that 25-year period, you have to realize that Judge Hedrick's career has been leading him directly to the Supreme Court of North Carolina. After all, he is the only candidate with judicial experience at both trial and appellate court levels.

Our State's highest court demands experience, proven ability and the wisdom that comes only with true maturity. Because he has these qualities, Judge Hedrick will serve the people of North Carolina with unique distinction.

Because he has these qualities, you can vote for him with complete confidence on May 7.

Parking...

1983 parking space supply. He said that the current parking demand for the 17-block study area is shown to be 1,427.

Based on current levels, he continued, a net study area deficiency of 36 spaces exists now and the deficiency is projected to increase to 283 spaces by 1983. Ingold asserted that the addition of some 300 to 350 spaces by 1983 is a "desirable objective."

The study calls for the development of nine separate facilities, he asserted, and basically, the program involves public purchase and enlargement of the several facilities which are now privately-owned but operated by the city as parking lots.

Describing the facilities, Ingold pointed out that three would involve enlargement of present facilities which are now privately-owned but operated by the city as parking lots.

Describing the facilities, Ingold pointed out that three would involve enlargement of present facilities while new facilities are forecast at three locations. Two of the three would involve two-level parking facilities. The combined capacity of the nine recommended facilities is 814 spaces, he said, and since most of the sites are currently either partially or totally used for parking, the net increase will be only about 335 spaces.

The representative explained that the cost of operating the proposed system is estimated to be $11,000 per year with a first-year gross income projection of $60,000. The gross income figure is expected to increase to $66,000 by the third year of operation, he said.

Ingold said that the study analyses make it apparent that "potential parking income is not sufficient to support a marketable revenue bond issue."

He contended that the "amount of cash contributed required to allow revenue bonds to be used to partially fund the program is relatively high; the cost of revenue bond funding, together with the types and degree of restrictions which such a bond issue would entail, render this method of funding highly undesirable."

Ingold said that the study indicates that there are a number of factors which suggest that the city could feasibly undertake the recommended parking development program in a series of stages. He noted that while some of the sites are available for purchase by the city, other parcels are not scheduled for acquisition by the Redevelopment Commission until late 1976. The lack of feasibility of revenue bond funding of the program suggest spreading the necessary capital expenditures over a period of several years, it was explained.

The program is envisioned in five stages, he reported, going through fiscal year 1978-79.

The study found that since current revenues appear to be the most practical source of funds for the program, it is suggested that all parking receipts should be considered and devoted as income to the system. Ingold said that this would include revenues derived from fines and penalties from lot and curb meter violations as well as curb meter collections.

Gross receipts under the staged system, including lot revenue, curb revenue, and fines and penalties would amount to $26,200 and operating expenses would be $11,000, he continued, reflecting a net income of $15,200 for the first year.

No School While Awaiting Trial

SALISBURY, N.C. (AP)—A judge has denied a request from 17-year-old Roger Wetmore that he be allowed to attend school while awaiting trial on a murder charge in the decapitation of his father last February.

A bond would have been needed to allow Wetmore to return to his senior classes at West Stanly High School. Judge Robert Warren of state District Court refused to allow bond Thursday. He ordered the youth held for trial in Superior Court. No trial date has been set.

Wetmore was returned to Rowan County Jail in Salisbury six days ago from a state hospital, where he was found mentally fit to stand trial.

Agree Allocation Is Ineffective

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission says it endorses its staff's earlier conclusion that the government's petroleum allocation program has been of limited effectiveness.

The commission monitors performance of the petroleum act under a congressional directive. The staff report was made public and submitted to Congress March 15.

The staff and the commission agreed that the Federal Energy Office, which administers the act, has improved its performance and continues to do so. But as of February, when the period covered by the FTC review ended, the government "had yet to develop an enduring and effective means of managing short-term shortages of petroleum supplies."

Vote Increased Disability Aid

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed and sent to the House a bill increasing benefit payments to disabled veterans and their survivors.

Sen. Vance Hartke, D-Ind., chairman of the Senate Veterans Affairs Committee, placed the first-year cost at $566.9 million.

Veterans with a disability rating of 50 per cent or less would receive a 15 per cent increase in benefits and those with a higher disability rating an increase of 18 per cent.

Agree Morgan Is 'Man To Beat'

By The Associated Press

Both Nick Galifianakis and Henry Hall Wilson agree that state Atty. Gen. Robert Morgan is the candidate to beat for the Democratic senatorial nomination in the May 7 primary.

And each predicted Thursday that he would face Morgan in a runoff.

Meanwhile Morgan, who says he is tired of newsmen asking about his role in the I. Beverly Lake gubernatorial campaigns, huddled with Charlotte blacks Thursday night to try and win their support.

"I've found that blacks are interested mainly in a candidate that speaks plainly and sincerely," said Morgan. "They're not interested so much in the Lake campaign. It's the newspapers that are trying to stir that up."

Morgan managed Lake's bids for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination in 1960 and 1964. During both campaigns, Lake ran on a conservative platform.

With the primary only five days away, the three major Senate candidates continued their whirlwind tours through the voter-rich Piedmont Thursday.

Wilson appeared in Durham and Chapel Hill, Morgan visited Charlotte and Raleigh, and Galifianakis spoke in Charlotte, Raleigh and Fayetteville.

Galifianakis said he detected increased voter interest in the Senate race, which until this week had attracted little statewide attention. He predicted that voters would turn out to register their disgust over high prices.

In the Cumberland County town of Hope Mills, Galifianakis found out that inflation had even touched the pulpit. One man told him that a local church had a hard enough time meeting its budget without paying the preacher any more.

In Chapel Hill, Wilson said he would vote to convict President Nixon of obstructing justice for failure to respond to the House Judiciary Committee's subpoena of White House tapes.

"In my opinion, this amounts to an obstruction of justice," Wilson said. Like Galifianakis, Wilson forecast that he would face Morgan in a runoff.

Wilson charged that Morgan had ducked the impeachment issue. "Robert Morgan is not performing his function as a candidate by not taking a stand on impeachment," he claimed. "People want to know."

In Charlotte Morgan said the impeachment issue has detracted attention and newspaper space from more important topics, such as government aid to the elderly.

"I've stopped reading the Washington columnists," he said. "It's just a rehash of the same Old Watergate news."

During his stops, Galifianakis plugged away at his proposal to raise the personal income tax exemption from $750 to $1,200 dollars.

"Americans are learning that our tax system and our economic policies are of the rich, by the rich and for the rich," he said. "It seems like everytime someone suggests a policy that would help the average guy, the politicians speaking for the special interests say it's inflationary."

"But whenever someone suggests preferential tax treatment for the rich, we don't hear talk of inflation," he claimed.

Meanwhile, a group of the other seven senatorial candidates said they were in the race to the end.

Charles Riddle of Goldsboro said he was in the race "right down to the wire," and that several others had told him they would not pull out either.

One of the seven, William Hare, had suggested that they rally behind one of their number and push for victory in a second primary.

SUSPECTED SLA HIDEOUT—Agents of the FBI raided a four-story apartment building on Golden Gate Ave. in San Francisco last night and found materials and items believed to belong to the Simbionese Liberation Army, the kidnappers of heiress Patricia Hearst. The material was found in a third floor apartment in the building shown, and FBI spokesmen declined to give any information about the search. (AP Wirephoto)

Collision Kills Two Teenagers

RALEIGH (AP)—A 17-year-old Raleigh youth and a young girl riding with him were killed late Thursday in a head-on collision involving two cars in Raleigh.

Police said Charles W. (Chuck) Wilkerson and Catherine Proctor, 17, were riding in Wilkerson's sports car when it skidded into the path of a car driven by John Garland Mills of Raleigh. Mills and a passenger with him received minor injuries.

Miss Proctor, a St. Mary's College student, was killed instantly. Wilkerson, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles B. Wilkerson Jr., died about 30 minutes later.

The University of Rhode Island was established in 1892.

Year Of Sequels Alaska Scents Profits From Reindeer Appears In Store

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — One hit movie deserves another, the film studios agree hopefully, and they seem bent on making 1975 the Year of the Sequel.

Paramount is completing "The Godfather Part II," says Marlon Brando. Disney is preparing release of "Herbie Rides Again," another caper of "The Love Bug." Hal Wallis plans to patch up John Wayne for a sequel to "True Grit."

Twentieth Century-Fox has followups to "The French Connection" and "The Poseidon Adventure" in the works. MGM is working on a redo of "Westworld." Columbia is graduating from "Funny Girl" to "Funny Lady."

At Universal City, MCA moguls hope for a repeat of the company's all-time high grosser, "Airport." The new one is "Airport 1975," and it will have a thrill for nervous air travelers: a collision between a Boeing 747 and a twin-engine plane.

It didn't start out as a sequel. Screen writer Don Ingalls submitted the script as a possible television movie. Production boss Sid Scheinberg saw its possibilities as a theatrical feature and assigned it to producer Bill Frye and director Jack Smight.

The cast so far: Charlton Heston, Karen Black, George Kennedy, Linda Blair (her first film since "The Exorcist"), Don Rickles, Gloria Swanson (her first film since 1952).

"This film will be different from the first 'Airport,'" explained Frye. "This one starts just 15 minutes before departure time, so there isn't much character development of the various passengers."

"Most of the action takes place during the four or five hours the 747 is in flight. There are 56 speaking parts, but really the plane is the star."

Because of the fear of frightening passengers, airlines were standoffish toward helping the first "Airport." Not so now, reports Frye. A major airline, which doesn't want to be identified, is providing facilities, and the company will use a Pan American 747 mockup on the Universal lot for commercials.

"The picture will actually be very good for the airlines," remarked director Jack Smight. "It will demonstrate that even with a hole in its roof, the 747 can fly. The accident happens at 11,000 to 12,000 feet, and the passengers don't even need oxygen masks, although they demand them."

The pilot and copilot are conked out in the collision, leaving the 747 with no one to run it. The solution? Pilot Charlton Heston is lowered through the gaping hole from a helicopter. Frye and Smight admit that it sounds fantastic but it can be done.

"Airport 1975" will cost $4 million, which is about half of the original film. The only recurring character is Kennedy.

By ROBERT C. MILLER
JUNEAU, Alaska (UPI) — State economists report that Alaska has the potential to build itself a highly profitable world market through export of reindeer meat, antlers, hides and other byproducts of the animal. First, the state's badly depleted herds would have to be increased.

Many countries like and want reindeer meat, and there is a strong demand from Oriental countries for deer horns which are reputed there to have aphrodisiac qualities for jaded males.

Hides and other reindeer byproducts also are seen as possibly money-making export items.

The Department of Economic Development believes the demand could be the spur for Alaska's problem-plagued reindeer industry.

The Division of Economic Enterprise reports that processed deer antlers are selling for $80 to $100 a pound with the market in short supply. A Korean company is already buying green reindeer horn from Alaskan herders at $3.80 a pound, and other companies in Taiwan, Japan and Hong Kong have written asking if the horn is available.

Can't Meet The Demand
A department spokesman said the expanding market for deer horn is "far above that of present production capacity."

The state's Economic Enterprise Division (EED) believes there is an annual market for some 2 1/2 to three million pounds of reindeer meat, mostly in West Germany and Scandinavia.

"In all the queries we've received on reindeer meat, the interested parties said they would purchase any amount at any price," said EED Director Richard Eakins. "We've also had inquiries from Japan, Korea and Taiwan about possible large sales of reindeer meat."

Eakins also thinks there is a

Alaska."

Herds Too Small

The optimistic reindeer experts in the department also see large market for reindeer specialty products in the lower 48 states that has not really been explored or examined.

A study completed for the legislature last year showed the Department of Economic Development that there appeared to be a market demand for reindeer meat of "such dimensions that it would support a viable meat industry...and there exists an economic opportunity in the reindeer industry to create an agriculture based economy in western see money-making opportunities in deer hide clothing, reindeer specialty meats—smoked, sausages, etc.—reindeer hide boot manufacturing, reindeer furs, and the use of reindeer byproducts for manufacturing handicraft items and using the offal as feed for fur ranching.

The big cloud in this rosy dawn of a new era for reindeer is that Alaska herds have been depleted to the point there is not enough venison available to meet the market demand in Alaska itself, let alone the rest of the world.

Poor management, disease, predators and native disinterest have almost wiped out the giant herds that roamed northern and western Alaska in the 1930s.

Eakins said that despite a quarter of a million dollars that the Bureau of Indian Affairs has lavished on the reindeer industry, there is not enough venison to meet the market demand in the larger native communities of Bethel, Nome, Kotzebue and Barrow, or in the urban communities of Alaska.

The original herd was brought in from Siberia in 1892 as the special brainchild of Sheldon Jackson, general agent for the Territorial Department of Education. It was Jackson's vision that the reindeer would provide a constant food supply for the Eskimos who were perpetually faced with the prospect of starvation if the hunting was bad.

Laplanders Started It

Seven Laplanders were brought along with the original herd of 1,280 reindeer, and the herds were split up among the mission stations and native communities. By 1932 the reindeer population had grown to 641,000 under the careful management of the missions and the Lapp-trained native herders.

Today nobody knows just exactly how many reindeer are left. Most of the herds have been allowed to run wild, some are privately owned, others are owned by villages and communities. Some are managed indifferently and some not at all. In their wild state the reindeer have contracted diseases such as brucellosis and warble fly infestation, and have been decimated by predators. Whole herds have been lost when enticed off by caribou.

The Department of Economic Development thinks all this can be changed by creation of a reindeer policy board supported by the native corporations. The board would attempt to increase the reindeer population through careful management and animal husbandry, and then develop a sound marketing program for antler, venison and the various byproducts.

The seven-member board would consist of the president of the Reindeer Herders Association and six other representatives from the native regional corporations.

Eakins said the first task would be to remove the Bureau of Indian Affairs as program directors and turn the management of the program over to the state. He felt certain that a centrally-managed program would soon revive the herds to the point where the antler and venison could be supplied to world markets.

Will Fence-In Entire Town

VILLAGE OF GOLF, Fla. (AP) — Residents of this tiny golf course community have decided that good fences make good neighbors. So they plan to build a chain link fence around the entire town.

"It should stop some of the unauthorized traffic around here," said village manager Mark Gantar.

The wealthy residents of this Palm Beach County town had considered the fence for several years but a recent crime wave made up their minds, Gantar said. The fence will cost about $200,000.

The village consists of 67 homes, 13 cottages and a golf course.

The 1974 World Team Championship will be played in Venice, Italy, during the last two weeks of May. The Aces, world champions in 1970 and 1971, and strengthened by Canadians Eric Murray and Sammy Kehela, generally regarded as one of the world's great pairs, will be trying to avenge last year's defeat at the hands of the Italians.

Kehela first attracted attention in British bridge circles some 20 years ago as a mere stripling. Since then he has developed into one of the game's great card players, as this deal illustrates.

Against four hearts, West led the king of clubs and continued with the ace, which Kehela ruffed. It seemed that the contract hinged on the location of the ace of spades, but West's vulnerable overcall made him a favorite to hold that card. Unless the ace was singleton or doubleton, which would permit declarer to establish his king by leading low spades twice from his hand, there was considerable danger of losing three spade tricks as well as a club. However, Kehela unearthed a better line that guaranteed the contract provided West held at least one diamond honor.

After drawing the outstanding trumps, he ruffed dummy's remaining club. He crossed back to dummy with a trump and led a diamond. East played low and, despite the fact that the diamond was singleton in dummy, declarer did not play the ace—he finessed the ten!

This highly unusual play had strange repercussions. West won the king of diamonds but was caught in a rare endplay. If he returned a diamond, it would be into declarer's ace-jack, allowing him to discard two spades from dummy; a spade return would limit the defenders to one trick in the suit, for one of dummy's spades would go on the ace of diamonds, while a club would give declarer a ruff-and-sluff.

Served Above Call Of Duty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Although there are hundreds of notations in the transcripts of the White House tapes that a part of a conversation was inaudible or unintelligible, the secretaries who did the transcribing served above and beyond the call of duty.

One transcript begins with the notation "Band Music."

At a point in another transcript, a dutiful secretary noted "dishes rattling."

And at the outset of a third conversation there is the notation, "Somebody leaves."

Central Question Unanswered By The Transcripts

By WALTER R. MEARS
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — For all the pages of the White House diaries, all the 33 hours of Watergate conversations they cover, nowhere is there a simple answer to the central question of President Nixon's knowledge and motives when the scandal burst.

The edited transcripts are, instead, like evidence in a trial, raw material to be weighed in seeking a verdict. In yielding them, Nixon made public evidence sure to be used by his accusers as well as his defenders.

Through the 1,308 pages recounting their tape-recorded discussions, Nixon and the men who served him thus could become star witnesses for both the prosecution and the defense of the President.

The White House maintains that the transcripts prove Nixon is innocent, that he knew nothing of the Watergate burglary engineered by men who worked in his 1972 campaign organization, and that he learned of the cover-up only on March 21, 1973.

They reflect Nixon's apparent surprise at disclosures about the burglary and high-level involvement, information that came from

John W. Dean III, his former counsel now turned accuser, at that March 21 meeting.

They also record Dean's statement that he had worked on "a theory of containment" to keep the Watergate stain from spreading during the 1972 campaign.

"Sure," said Nixon.

"To try to hold it right where it was," Dean added.

"Right," the President said.

In those transcripts, the President at some points talked of complete disclosure; at others about keeping the cap on the scandal, isolating the presidency from the problem.

The White House said the President at that March 21 session rejected any hush money payments to hide Watergate, but the transcript reflects no flat veto — and shows that he questioned whether Dean had any choice but to make one such payoff.

It recounts also Nixon's lengthy conversation with Dean about how money could be raised in cash, how it can be delivered; the drawbacks and dangers, and whether it would work.

The published transcript is what Nixon long ago said it would be: inconclusive. In refusing to release the tape recordings to the Senate Watergate Committee last July 23, Nixon wrote:

"The fact is that the tapes would not finally settle the central issues before your committee ... as in any verbatim recording of informal conversations, they contain comments that persons with different perspectives and motivations would invariably interpret in different ways"

Now, delivering the transcripts in lieu of tapes demanded by House impeachment investigators, Nixon has said that they do contain evidence to show that he tried to find and do what was right.

"I am confident that for the overwhelming majority of those who are willing to study the evidence ... those who are willing to look at it fully, fairly and objectively, the evidence will be persuasive," he said.

James D. St. Clair, Nixon's lawyer, said the transcripts need to be studied in full: "The danger of this is to pick out a phrase here or a sentence there," he said.

That is a risk for those who would demonstrate Nixon's innocence as well as those who would allege his guilt.

It is a problem illustrated by the White House brief St. Clair drafted using quotations from the transcripts as evidence of his innocence.

The White House brief quotes the President as saying to Dean Sept. 15, 1972, the day the original Watergate defendants were indicted:

"But the way you have handled all this seems to me has been very skillful putting your fingers in the leaks that have sprung here and sprung there."

The document goes on to say that the statement was made not in the context of a Watergate cover-up as Dean later asserted, but about the politics of the situation.

The transcript shows that Nixon's remark continued: "The grand jury is dismissed now?"

And Dean replied: "That is correct. They have completed and they have let them go so there will be no continued investigation prompted by the grand jury's inquiry."

The White House also noted that at the March 21, 1973, meeting, Nixon tentatively decided to have another grand jury investigation of Watergate with his aides to appear and testify. In context, the transcripts show that discussion involves a way to avoid testimony before the Senate committee. Nixon aides eventually testified there anyway.

The White House brief quotes this exchange:

Nixon: "... I think I want another grand jury proceeding and we will have the White House appear before them. Is that right, John?"

Dean: "Uh huh."

At that point the White House quotation ends but the transcript continues.

Nixon: "That is the point, see. Of course. That would make the difference. I want everybody in the White House called. And that gives you a reason not to have to go before the Ervin and Baker committee. It puts it in an executive session, in a sense."

St. Clair said the transcripts will provide grist for arguments for weeks, months and even years. Nixon said his transcripts are all the evidence needed "to get Watergate behind us and get it behind us now."

The juries are out, in Congress with its impeachment inquiry, and in the nation, among the citizens to whom Nixon really addressed his words.

Organist Giving Recital Sunday

Organ music of the 18th, 19th and 20th centuries will be featured in an organ recital to be given by Dr. E. Robert Irwin on Sunday at 3:15 p.m. in Memorial Baptist Church.

DR. E. ROBERT IRWIN

Dr. Irwin, Associate Professor of Music and Chairman of the Department of Church Music and Organ at East Carolina University, has been at the university for ten years and has performed in numerous local recitals, state, national recitals, as well as in Europe.

The organ at Memorial Baptist Church was built to specifications needed to provide an instrument giving a wide range of sounds and tones. Dr. Irwin served as consultant in designing the organ.

His program opens with two prelude music selections—Couperin's Chaconne and Pachelbel's Fantasia in E flat Major. This will be followed by four compositions from the 18th century—J. G. Walther's Lob den Herren; the Prelude and Fugue in E minor, by Bruhns; the "Elevation" from Couperin's Messe pour les convents; and Stanley's Trumpet Voluntary, with Jesse Nelson of the ECU School of music performing the trumpet solo.

Nineteenth century music will be represented by the "Allegro maestoso vivace" from Mendelssohn's Sonata II; Franck's Choral in B Minor; and Brahms's Es ist ein Ros' entsprungen.

Three selections comprise the 20th century section of the recital. The first is Ernest Bloch's Prelude for Organ; to be followed by Ernst Pepping's Wie soll ich dich empfangen; and

Searle Wright's Prelude on "Brother James's Air."

The program will conclude with a J. S. Bach's postlude composition, the Fugue in E flat Major.

There is no admission charge and the pastor, Rev. Norman Bennett, Jr. invites the public to attend this recital at Memorial Baptist Church.

Officers Of Soc. Chosen

The East Carolina University chapter of Phi Upsilon Omicron honor society in home economics has elected new officers for the academic year 1974-75 and has initiated 26 new members.

Membership in the society is extended to men and women students with superior academic records and who demonstrate outstanding leadership, character and service.

Nationally, Phi Upsilon Omicron has about 30,000 members.

Elected to office in ECU's Beta Eta chapter were:

Ann Parsley of Statesville, president; Marilyn Bottoms of Wilson, vice president; Susan Wood of Marners, professional vice president;

Wanda Jackson of Roseboro, treasurer; Janice Burroughs of Charlotte, recording secretary; Donna Davidson of Statesville, historian; Mary Ellen Carawan of Greenville, reporter;

Yvonne Martindale of Greensboro, chaplain; Constance Laskowski of Livingston, N. J., librarian; and Cathy Bryan of Virginia Beach, Va., corresponding secretary.

New initiates included students from 16 North Carolina counties and from five other states.

Names and parents' names of new officers and initiates include:

PITT COUNTY, Greenville—Mary Ellen Carawan, reporter, daughter of C. Eugene Carawan.
