North Carolinians Warned

Gas Lines By August?

By ROBERT H. REID
Associated Press Writer

North Carolinians could find themselves back in the gasoline lines by August unless they practice fuel conservation, a state energy official warns.

Fowler Martin, of the Energy Crisis Commission says "If we don't exercise a reasonable degree of restraint, we could find ourselves in the same position as in February."

Martin also told The Associated Press that gasoline supplies should average about 10 per cent below demand statewide this summer. With energy conservation, that should be sufficient to avoid major shortages, he said.

A late summer squeeze could develop, he warned, when refiners shift from producing gasoline to home heating oil. An increased demand for gasoline could overtax diminishing supplies, he forecast.

"It's possible we could be back in that fix," he said. "I think there is a very delicate balance on this. Each time they (the Federal Energy Office) have given states an increase, it is coming out of inventory. That can't last forever."

Martin said the lifting of the Arab oil embargo prompted the federal government to release domestic reserves for sale to the public. That accounted for the rapid increase in supplies at the service station, despite predictions that relief would not come for several weeks, he added.

However, Martin said the United States still lacks sufficient refining capacity to allow for sharp, continued increases in consumption. A severe winter, he added, could sharply accelerate the demand for heating oil at the expense of gasoline.

On an optimistic note, Martin said the tourist areas at the coast and in the mountains can expect increased gasoline supplies this summer. He also predicted that more service stations would resume Sunday sales in the resort areas.

"I believe in the first place more gasoline stations are closed on Sunday because the owner-operator found it more profitable and convenient not to stay open, but since they can count on more sales, I expect to see more open on Sunday in tourist areas," he said.

Some resort operators have complained that the virtual elimination of Sunday sales cut deeply into their weekend business.

Martin cited the increase in highway traffic and an apparent return to fast driving as examples of the lack of conservation awareness.

Meanwhile, state recreation officials are hoping that the end of public school sessions will bring more tourists to North Carolina. Publicly, most downplay the effects of the fuel crisis and economic jitters.

"We have gasoline now," said Mrs. Edith Alley of the Maggie Valley Chamber of Commerce. "That affected us greatly several months ago, but we're all right now. We don't hear anything about it."

REFLECTOR HOTLINE

752-1336

Hotline is a public service provided by The Daily Reflector to solve problems and get things done for you. Hotline would like to be able to address itself to all inquiries, but because of the number received, will answer and publish only those considered most pertinent to our readers. Questions or sound-offs may be phoned in to the Hotline number, 752-1336 or mailed to The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

The Hotline tape is transcribed once each 24-hour recording period. For this reason persons phoning in items accepted for use may not be contacted until the day following their call. Names must be given, but only initials will be used.

RIGHT ON RED?

What happened to the law that passed the House and was sent to the Senate that would allow right turns on red lights in North Carolina towns, unless the towns disapproved? My wife and I, though we're N. C. natives, have lived in Arizona where this was law and we thought it was great. Traffic moves so much faster when the right lane can go ahead and be cleared of cars turning right. J. H. S.

The law is to go into effect July 1, says Ted Harrison, director of public information of the N. C. Department of Transportation. If a town wishes for a certain intersection not to be a "right on red" one, there must be a sign posted to this effect.

The driver will treat the red light like a stop sign, coming to a complete stop before the right turn is begun.

There's a possibility, though, that there'll be a lapse in the law, because a revision of Rules of the Road to go into effect Jan 1, 1975 does not contain the "right on red" provision. It probably would be up to the 1975 General Assembly to put the law back into effect, if they and the people they represent see fit, Harrison says.

TOO LATE FOR PLANTING

I ordered some shrubbery from your "Family Weekly" magazine on March 21, 1974 and sent a check for $15.90. I have never received the shrubbery from the company, Rock Wood Gardens in Grand Rapids, Mich., although they did deposit my check. I have the cancelled check from the company. Can you help me get my shrubbery? J. G.

Hotline contacted the Rock Wood Co. and spoke with Charlotte King in customer relations. She explained to Hotline that they ship their shrubbery on a priority basis, according to when they receive each order. When the shrubbery has grown to the point that it can be shipped, they send it out. Presently, they are working on shipping their orders received in March, and yours would be shipped within the next few days. Miss King also told Hotline that, if you are not satisfied with your order, you may return the merchandise and they would refund your money. When Hotline explained this to you, you indicated you didn't want the shrubbery now because it was too late to plant, and would contact the company for a refund.

PICNIC AREAS NEED TO BE RESERVED

On Mother's Day my family had a reunion of between 40 and 50 people at the Jaycee Picnic Shelter at Elm Street Park. Some of our men went about 11 and started our meal, but the women got there only after church. Another family came up about 1 o'clock and said they had reserved the shelter and couldn't use any other because they had 150 or more people coming. We took their word for it and dragged our eight barbecue grills, chickens still cooking, across the park to the Optimist Shelter.

We didn't know that we had to sign up. And shouldn't the persons who reserved the shelter have posted something on it to indicate it had been reserved? I was wondering if the Recreation Department couldn't publicize this policy. Also, shouldn't there be some picnic areas in a public park that are never reserved so spur-of-the-moment picnickers and visitors to Greenville may use them. J. P. T.

Mrs. Eleanor Schiepers of the Greenville Recreation Department said that reserving of the picnic areas in any of Greenville's parks is encouraged. It can be done by a quick phone call to 752-2355.

She said there is no charge for use of any of the areas and that the Department does not take the responsibility for posting notices at the shelters or tables. However, the Recreation Department worker taking the call does suggest to the reserver that he leave a note at the reserved place.

She said there are usually any number of tables free, with no hard and fast rule for reserving, so spontaneously planned picnics and those of stoppers-by can be held. Mother's Day is just a particularly busy day for the park, of course. Again, however, reserving and posting a notice of the reservation is encouraged.

Secrets Are Leaked

By DONALD M. ROTHBERG
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secret House Judiciary Committee impeachment evidence has been made public for the second time in as many days, suggesting a crack in the committee's tight security that before this week had not been breached.

The latest disclosure was published in The Washington Post. It was the committee's transcript of a key Watergate conversation — that of Sept. 15, 1972, between President Nixon, then White House Counsel John W. Dean III and former presidential Chief of Staff H.R. Haldeman.

As a result of yet another leak, the Post also reported today on the contents of a tape the committee heard Wednesday. The tape was of a short conversation June 30, 1972, between Nixon, Haldeman and former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell.

The Post did not reveal how it obtained the two transcripts, but the story on the June 30 meeting referred to comments by committee sources on why that transcript was included in the evidence.

Reporters Carl Bernstein and Bob Woodward quoted one source as saying " ... it shows part of a pattern to keep the lid on ... and the President is in on it early."

In an introductory paragraph to the side-by-side comparison of the Sept. 15 conversation, the Post said the Judiciary Committee's transcript was compiled by the committee's staff from a tape recording received by the special Watergate prosecutor's office.

Post reporter Lawrence Meyer said the committee's version and the White House version of the Sept. 15 conversations showed significant differences and that "lengthy passages were omitted in the White House version without any indication that material was excised.

In releasing the 1,254 pages of Nixon trancripts April 30, the White House said it was an edited version, from which national security information and conversations irrelevant to Watergate were deleted.

Meyer said that one of the differences between the two versions of the Sept. 15 conversation occurred when Nixon was speaking to Dean about U.S. District Judge Charles R. Richey. He had been assigned to the civil suit by the Democrats against the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

Meyer said the White House version of that conversation did not include, as did the committee version, Nixon saying "good" when Dean told him Richey had discussed the case off the bench.

The committee's version of that part of the conversation was reported to be:

Dean: Well, he's (Richey) been thoroughly candid in his dealing with people about the case. He's made several entrees, uh off the bench, to uh, one to Kleindienst, two to, uh, his old friend Roemer McPhee, to keep abreast of what his thinking is. He told Roemer he thought that Maury ought to file a libel action.

Nixon: Did he?

After laughter by Haldeman, the President was quoted again as saying: "Good."

Meyer said the Judiciary Committee version of the conversation also differs in numerous instances on specific words used by the participants, as well as, in at least one instance, the identity of the speaker.

In the story on the June 30 conversation, Bernstein and Woodward wrote that Nixon discussed the risk of future disclosures about the break-in and what to do about them

Charge Killed

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — A county court judge today dismissed an indictment charging Sen. Edward Gurney, R-Fla, with an election law violation.

Leon County Judge Charles McClure ruled the indictment was "fatally defective."

Defense attorney C. Harris Dittmar of Jacksonville sought the dismissal of the misdemeanor charge against Gurney, a member of the Senate Watergate Committee.

Lifting A Limit

WASHINGTON (AP) — A congressional committee is drawing a new national debt-limit line of just under $500 billion.

Under a bill approved Thursday by the House Ways and Means Committee, the temporary $475.7 billion legal lid on the national debt would be lifted to $495 billion through next March. The Nixon administration had requested $505 billion to carry the Treasury halfway through 1975.

The idea of voting in an election year to crack the half-a-trillion dollar mark was rejected outright. "If we put that recommendation to the Rules Committee (which clears bills for House action) we'd get clobbered," said Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., acting Ways and Means chairman.

"We'd not only get clobbered in the Rules Committee, we'd get the hell beat out of us on the (House) floor and, come November, we'd get the hell beat out of us someplace else,"

Israeli Again Hit Terrorist Centers

By The Associated Press

The Israeli command said its jets strafed and bombed Arab guerrilla targets in southern Lebanon again today barely 24 hours after its devastating retaliatory attack there. It said all aircraft returned safely after a 30-minute raid.

At the same time, six thunderous explosions shook the Lebanese capital of Beirut in quick succession. One unconfirmed report said anti-aircraft batteries in the port area opened fire on Israeli warplanes.

But Israel said its jets attacked "terrorist objectives" on the western slopes of Mt. Hermon, far south of Beirut.

Radio Damascus said Syrian jets clashed with the Israeli planes and shot one down. The broadcast said the Syrian jets prevented the other Israeli planes from bombing new targets and "drove them off."

The Israeli raiders bombed and rocketed at least five Palestinian camps and three border villages Thursday in retaliation for the Arab terrorist attack Wednesday in which 24 Israelis were killed and 74 were wounded. The Israeli bombs and rockets also hit a block of apartment houses in Sidon adjoining a refugee camp, leveling one three-story building and causing heavy casualties.

"This new Israeli crime will not pass without punishment. Israel will pay very dearly for the price of our children," declared the Palestinian news agency WAFA.

The Israeli strikes increased the possibility that Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger would return to Washington soon without an agreement between Israel and Syria for a separation of their forces on the Golan Heights. But Kissinger made another trip to Damascus Thursday and maintained on his return to Jerusalem that "progress was made."

"Tell Kissinger to come see what the Israelis have done with American Phantoms," said one guerrilla. "Even if all the Arabs sign a peace agreement with Israel, we will still continue to fight."

Egyptian Foreign Minister Ismail Fahmy warned that the Arab states could not stand idly by in the face of "Israeli acts of aggression."

In Washington, the White House condemned both the guerrilla attack into Israel and the retaliatory raids.

Still Trying

JERUSALEM (AP) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger began a new round of disengagement talks today although his aides acknowledge he will be unable to work out a full troop disengagement between Israel and Syria this weekend.

Kissinger was said to be ready to return to Washington soon, but his aides said he was making one more stab to salvage a partial agreement. Kissinger met early today with Premier Golda Meir and during the afternoon with the Israeli negotiating team, and meets Saturday with Syrian President Hafez Assad.

Kissinger also issued a statement deploring the deaths of civilians from Israeli air attacks in Lebanon on Thursday, saying the U.S. government "deeply deplores the loss of innocent life wherever it occurs in the tragic conflict."

The statement appeared softer in tone than his condemnation of the Arab terrorist assaslt Wednesday on the Israeli village of Maalot. Kissinger described the Israeli air strikes as "retaliation for the massacre at Maalot."

Shoplifting Triggered Shootout And Manhunt

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A massive manhunt was under way today for a reputed Symbionese Liberation Army member after a shootout triggered by the shoplifting of a pair of socks, authorities said.

FBI Special Agent William A. Sullivan said authorities were seeking William Taylor Harris, 29, for questioning. Sullivan said a woman who accompanied the gunman during the incident in suburban Inglewood on Thursday matched a description of Harris' wife, Emily, 27, who also has been identified as an SLA member.

A pistol wrested from the man's hands was purchased by Mrs. Harris last Oct. 13, Sullivan said.

He said no warrants had been issued for either Harris or his wife.

The SLA, believed to be a heavily armed multiracial group of about 25 persons, claims it kidnaped newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst from her Berkeley apartment Feb. 4.

Police said the gunman and the woman sped away from a sporting goods store Thursday after a third person, possibly another woman, sprayed the store-front with bullets.

The getaway car was abandoned and the trio stole two other vehicles at gunpoint, police said.

"We're from the SLA, we need your car!" a man and woman told the driver of the second vehicle, according to Inglewood policeman Gerald Taylor.

The Harrises disappeared from their Oakland apartment Jan. 10, the day alleged SLA members Joseph Remiro and Russell Little were arrested on charges of fatally shooting Oakland School Supt. Marcus Foster.

The shootout at the Inglewood sporting goods store followed a scuffle between the man and a clerk who noticed that the man had attempted to shoplift a pair of socks.

Mac Davis Honored As Pitt Boy-Of-The-Year

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

Mac Davis, a junior at Rose High School, was named Boy of The Year of the Boys' Club of Pitt County. The event took place Thursday night during the Sixth Annual Boys' Club Awards Banquet held at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

Mac, son of Mrs. Essie Davis and the late Mr. Davis, received the award established to honor the memory of the late David Wilcox, former executive director of the Greenville Boys' Club. Miss Glenda Swisher, of Virginia Beach, Va., sister of the late director, presented the award to Mac.

The Boy of the Year Award is given for outstanding achievement in home, church, school and community affairs, for work done at the Boys' Club and for personal character.

Mac is an active member of the Sunday School class at Mt. Calvary Baptist Church, where he also attends worship services. As a member of Rose High's Key Club, Mac is active in school service club work and with the Greenville Police Department in their human relations program.

A karate student, he has attained the rank of Brown Belt and won the 1973 Southeastern Junior Mens Championship during competition held in Atlanta.

Two sports personalities were guests of the annual banquet—Les Strayhorn of the Dallas Cowboys, and Lanny Norris, assistant football coach at East Carolina University. Norris was keynote speaker for the evening.

Among guests attending the banquet were County Com-

The Marriage Business Is 'Good' Business

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Family Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Credit the love bug, Cupid or plain old hormones.

Those wedding bells touched off by love —and followed by bills —are great for the national economy.

No less than Ben J. Wattenberg, co-author of two books on the American society and former aide and speech writer to the late President Johnson, described the good business that lies in the marriage business.

At the American Marketing Association (AMA) convention in Montreal recently and speaking of the formation of new families (which is what happens when people marry), he said;

"Never before and probably never again, will one age group and one social group wield such disproportionate and newly found economic potency in the marketplace.

Income Will Increase

"That group, viewed in its broadest sense, is the newly forming family."

When a young man and young woman decide to get married, they trigger a vast chain of intense economic activity unmatched in the human life cycle.

Wattenberg said from 1972 to 1985, the real aggregate personal income of the prime marriage age group (20 to 24) will increase by 95 per cent compared with 53 per cent for the rest of the population.

In a study he did for Modern Bride magazine, Wattenberg cited several factors that are resulting in more numerous and affluent young families.

First and foremost there is the love factor. As he put it:

"A decision is made. Two people, usually young, having decided that love is supreme, agree to get married. It is a passionate, emotional, intensely personal decision—perhaps and probably the most important decision either of the parties will ever make.

"It is a decision that has been described in excruciating detail in every mode of literature and music known to man —from Shakespeare to country western."

Family Affair

Last year, more than 2.2 million couples —nearly five million persons —made that momentous decision. That's up from 1.8 million couples in 1965, around 10 years ago.

The number of marriages is going to keep going up and will reach better than 2.7 million by 1985.

All of this will keep the cash registers chiming, the church bells ringing and merchants as well as the happy couple in a blissful state.

Till parted by death, divorce or separation, all those millions saying "I do" become families.

The spurt of economic activity triggered by the formation of a family —starting at the moment of betrothal —is hefty indeed.

Projections from a 1972 study by Trendex and dealing with a six-month period involving a new marriage —three months before and three months after —give some of the dimensions. To wit:

Persons involved in the frenetic family-forming ritual comprise only 2.5 per cent of all households. Yet they represent sales amounting to 5 per cent of the total for sterling flatware, 25 per cent of all bedroom furniture sales, 41 per cent of stereo and hi-fi equipment, 11 per cent of hard surface floor coverings, 27 per cent of sewing machines, 12 per cent of refrigerators.

Also —16 per cent of vacuum cleaners, 13 per cent of electric blankets, nine per cent of clothes dryers. And, of course, 100 per cent of wedding gowns.

Some Recipes Remain Popular

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

As an inveterate cookbook collector, I am fascinated by the recipe compilations published by groups of women all over the country, the proceeds going to a local organization. This kind of good work has been with us for a long time.

According to "America's Charitable Cooks: A Bibliography of Fund-raising Cook Books Published in the United States (1861-1915) by Margaret Cook, "the first fund-raising 'receipt books' were compiled and sold in the United States during the Civil War at the Sanitary Fairs held to raise money for military casualties and their families. After the war was over, the ladies' aid societies formed during the war turned to the local charities, and published their recipe collections to benefit hospitals, homes for the friendless, schools and churches in every part of the country."

Mrs. Cook goes on to say that these early locally published books "reflect the cooking fashions of the period in various parts of the country more accurately than the standard works by professional authors." This holds true for the good-works cookbooks published today.

One fashion remains steadfast: the use, since its appearance at the end of the last century, of commercially prepared fruit-flavored gelatin. The modern ladies' aid cookbook that does not give recipes using this product is rare. Sometimes it is used in abundance; witness a collection called "Favorite Foods," compiled by the ladies of the First Presbyterian Church of Whippany, N.J. Here there are 31 recipes for salads and more than half of them call for fruit-flavor gelatin!

To please devotees of the product, here is a new recipe calling for it. We've given it as a dessert but it may also be used as a molded salad.

APRICOT CREAM

16-ounce can unpeeled apricot halves in heavy syrup
3-ounce package orange-pineapple flavor gelatin
¼ cup sugar
1 cup boiling water
8-ounce container sour cream, whipped (see below)

Drain apricots and slice. Measure apricot syrup — there should be ¾ cup; if not, add enough water to make that amount. Dissolve gelatin and sugar in boiling water; stir in apricot syrup; chill until slightly thickened; fold in whipped sour cream and then apricots; chill again, if necessary, until mixture will mound. Turn into individual dessert dishes or sherbet glasses. Chill until set before serving. Makes 4½ cups or 8 servings (a little over ½ cup each.)

To whip sour cream use an electric beater at high speed; the cream will thin during the early part of the whipping, but with continued whipping (about 5 minutes) it will thicken and double in volume. However, it will never become as thick as whipped heavy sweet cream.

400 recipes are given in "Cecily Brownstone's Associated Press Cookbook" available by sending $4.95 (check or money order made payable to "The Associated Press") to this newspaper in care of AP COOKBOOK, Box G4, Teaneck, N.J. 07666.

APRICOT CREAM—It uses a fruit-flavor gelatin, is simple to make and comparatively inexpensive.

MISS KATHY KEEL. . .is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William A. Keel of Rt. 3, Tarboro, who announce her engagement to J. B. Bullock, son of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Bullock of Rt. 6, Greenville. The wedding will take place June 8.

Sister Says There's Woman Power

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sister Elizabeth's eyes flash fire when someone says nuns should be meek and docile and belong in a convent.

"The public image of women in religious vocations is in very bad shape," she says.

Elizabeth, 30, like many of today's nuns doesn't wear religious garb or live in a convent. She believes the sisterhood is an "attractive, viable lifestyle in which a young person can use her creativity and talents to serve God in society."

Nuns — usually thought of as teachers or nurses — can work in politics, prison reform or help the aged, she says.

"Sisters are usually stereotyped — a la Audrey Hepburn in 'The Nun's Story,' now being replayed eternally on the late, late show," she said.

"Or put on saintly pedestals — a carryover from immigrant grandparents — ignored as 'out of it,' patronized as the 'good sisters,' or, more recently, looked upon in dismay and confusion as communities tried desperately to integrate contemporary renewal into traditional forms."

But, she added in an interview in her modest apartment-office here, "I think there is real hope for improving the image of sisters."

Noting that there are 140,000 women in American Catholic orders, she argued, "That's a lot of womanpower. I'd like to make their work more visible and believable. If people can look to them as leaders in the community then it becomes more possible for them to have some impact both in the church and in society."

She practices what she preaches.

Elizabeth is the founder of Rainbow Word and Picture Co., the only advertising and public relations agency for Catholic religious communities.

She was named Outstanding Young Woman of America for 1973 for her work.

She is also editor of "Women in Love ... With Life," the publication of her order, the Congregation of the Humility of Mary, based in Ottumwa, Iowa.

Explain Living Arrangements To Japanese Pen Pal

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I have always wanted to make up a problem and send it in just to see if it would get printed, but now I have a real one.

About two years ago I started a pen pal correspondence with a girl in Japan. We are both 18 now. [I'm also a girl.] We exchanged pictures and became very friendly. I just got a letter from her which nearly knocked me over. She says she wants to come over here and spend A YEAR with me and my family! Abby, I would love to have her here for a month maybe, but I can't have her here for a year.

I live with my parents in a crowded apartment, and it's out of the question.

She says it's her lifelong dream to come to America, and I hate to disappoint her, but I need advice on how to tell her.

STUMPED

DEAR STUMPED: Tell her, just as you've told me, that you live in a small apartment, and much as you'd like to have her visit for a year, you're able to extend your parents' hospitality for only one month.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old guy with a problem. I was married for less than one year, and it was a disaster. My divorce will be final in three weeks.

I am presently in pretty deep with a chick who is hot to get married as soon as my divorce is final. She's okay to go with, but there is no way I could ever marry this gal. Besides, I want to play the field a while before tying myself down again.

I've tried to explain this to her, but she says: "Don't be afraid of marriage because you had one bad experience. If a person falls off a horse, the way to overcome his fear is to get back on the horse and ride."

Abby, this may be true with riding, but does it apply to marriage?

TEX

DEAR TEX: No. Marriage is a horse of a different color. If you want to horse around a while longer, tell that chick to cool it. And don't restrict yourself to one gal. There's safety in numbers.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 16-year-old boy who is living at home—but I may not be by the time you get this letter if things don't improve at my house.

I have a friend [another guy] who is studying to be a hairdresser. I asked him to bleach my hair and make it a golden blond. My natural color is a dull, uninteresting light brown. I repeat—I ASKED my friend to do this. Nobody talked me into it.

I like my hair this way, but my parents don't. You would think I had committed some kind of crime. My mother said I would have to let it grow out. [As you know, this would look terrible.] My father says I look like a guy who likes guys.

I think it's my hair and I should be able to have it the color I like. My mom dyes her hair, and I'm not crazy about HER color, but I don't hassle her about it. I figure, if she likes it, that's her business. So why can't I have my hair the way I like it?

GOLDEN BOY

DEAR GOLDEN: For my part, you can.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "NOT FOOLED": Don't rely on appearances. The guy you peg as the early bird may have been up all night.

After Two Months Letter Received

WOLVERHAMPTON, England (WNS)—The manager of the local department store here worte a note of commendation to Gwen James, saleswoman at the china counter. He put the note into an envelope, addressed it to "Mrs. James in China," and dropped it into his outgoing tray. The lady did not receive the message until two months and 10,000 miles later. The note had travelled all the way to China, was postmarked Peking and marked "Return to Sender."

Don't use mayonnaise or mayonnaise-type salad dressing in sandwiches that you plan to store in the freezer.

Birth

Hardison

Born to Mr. and Mrs. John Ben Hardison Jr., Williamston, a son, John Ben III, on May 5, 1974. Mrs. Hardison is the former Miss Eleanor Weeks of Bethel.

Household Hints

You can wrap turkey legs in foil and cook in a moderate oven (350 degrees) for about two hours. The meat, cut from the bone and diced, will make good salads and sandwich fillings and may also be used in casseroles.

When you cook new potatoes in their skin, do so in about an inch of boiling salted water. Use about one-quarter teaspoon salt for each half-cup of water.

Heated Start For VEPCO Rate-Increase Hearing

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Hearings on Virginia Electric & Power Co.'s $50 million rate hike request have gotten off to a heated start with representatives of a labor action group tossing verbal brickbats at Vepco and the State Corporation Commission.

The opening portion of the hearing Thursday was devoted to public testimony and the leadoff witness was Ms. Diane Mathiowetz of Norfolk, a spokeswoman for the Center for United Labor Action.

Ms. Mathiowetz demanded an explanation of why the SCC was not aceding to her group's request that the hearings be held at night and at various locations around the state in order to permit ordinary citizens to attend.

SCC Chairman Preston Shannon responded only by saying the hearing was being conducted in accordance with standard procedures.

Ms. Mathiowetz called Vepco's rates "high-rate robbery" and "money pilfered from Virginia consumers" merely to appease investors, most of whom are major banks and financial houses in New York.

The $50 million additional revenue Vepco is asking would be derived from making permanent an $18.5 million surcharge approved by the SCC last January and stacking another $31.5 million on top of it.

Vepco insists it needs the additional income mainly to attract investment capital necessary to finance a proposed $3 billion construction program over the next five years.

Ms. Mathiowetz urged the SCC to tell the company to tighten its belt like consumers have to and suggested it might start with what she said was the over $100,000 annual salary paid John McGurn, Vepco board chairman.

James Harlow of Norfolk, another member of the labor action group, described the SCC commissioners as "gubernatorial appointees who sit in padded chairs in plush chambers and have the gall to say they represent the people of Virginia."

When Ms. Mathiowetz and Harlow made repeated requests to add to their previous testimony an obviously irritated Shannon said, "We're not playing a ping pong game here."

After the first 1½ hours, the scheduled 8-day hearing, which resumes Monday, reverted to the usual litany of facts and figures that tends to be virtually incomprehensible to anyone but lawyers and accountants.

George D. Gibson, Vepco general counsel, said the evidence would show that the utility has never been able to generate the 8.56 per cent rate of return allowed by the SCC in 1972. In 1973, he said, the actual rate of return was only 8.04 per cent and it dipped to 7.73 per cent in 1974.

He said that increased operational and investment costs since the company filed its rate increase request in March have made the granting of the rate increase "imperative."

New MIGs For Arabs

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. intelligence sources say Russia may be preparing to ship some of its advanced MIG23 jet fighters to Arab air forces.

This could spell trouble for the Israeli Air Force if the MIG23 "flogger" appears in numbers on the Syrian front.

More than that, it would suggest that Russia is prepared to stiffen Syria's ability and will to fight while the United States is trying to restore a truce between the Syrians and Israelis.

U.S. analysts say the MIG23, with a top speed of nearly 2,000 miles an hour, would significantly boost the power of Arab air forces now equipped with earlier model fighters.

Intelligence sources say crated MIG23s have been seen near a Black Sea port from which the Russians ship military equipment by sea to Syria and other Arab nations.

Israeli Defense Minister Moshe Dayan claimed early last month that MIG23s were in Syria. A Pentagon spokesman said at the time that "there is no evidence that the MIG23 has appeared in Syria."

About two weeks later, Syrian President Hafez Assad returned home from Moscow with a promise of additional arms from the Soviet Union. Beirut newspapers said Russia had pledged early delivery of advanced jet fighters and surface-to-surface missiles.

About that time, U.S. intelligence reported, Soviet merchant ships unloaded 12 crated MIG21 jets at the Syrian port of Latakia.

Class Conducts Mini-Playschool

FARMVILLE—Miss Linda Morgan's Home Economics I class at Farmville Central High School held a mini-playschool last Tuesday.

The students, who were studying child development, planned the playschool as an opportunity to observe preschool children and put into practice what they have learned about toys, games, and food for children. They followed an organized schedule which let them observe the social, intellectual, emotional, and physical differences in children of various ages. The five children played with toys brought by the students, participated in outdoor games, and were served ice cream. They were Timmy Joyner, two; Vicki Baker, three; Alexander Newton, three; Quincy Williams, four; and Denna Owen, four.

Offer Revision Of Mail Rates

WASHINGTON (AP) — The cost of mailing a first-class letter would be trimmed by a penny while rates for second, third and fourth-class mail would go up under a proposal by the staff of the Postal Rate Commission.

The rate for mailing a first-class letter recently was raised by two cents to 10 cents. The commission staff now thinks it should be nine cents.

Post cards, which were raised two cents to eight cents in March, would be cut back to six cents under the proposal, but airmail would retain its two-cent increase to 13 cents.

Costs of second class, third class bulk, parcel post and special rate fourth class mail would be increased.

Ignoring Problem No Answer

Apparently the County Commissioners have abandoned the idea of establishing a refuse collection service for the non-municipal areas of Pitt County.

Bids had been called for on a franchise for collecting garbage through a bag sale system, but before the contracts could be awarded opposition developed in areas where private contractors have already been retained for the service.

The Pitt Planning Board held a public hearing Wednesday night and apparently most of the people who showed up were opposed to the county wide franchise. The meeting was closed virtually before any one was heard and it appears that the county commissioners have washed their hands of the entire rural garbage collection problem.

That could end the matter, but regrettably the problem of rural refuse collection is not going to go away. While the heavily populated areas may hire a refuse collection service, the average rural family is still going to have to pack up the garbage and haul it for miles to the new county land fill southwest of Greenville. In this time of energy shortage, this may mean thousands of vehicles running to the land fill periodically rather than an orderly method of pick up by trucks. Worse, it can mean that garbage will simply continue to be dumped in the woods as it has been for many years.

The County commissioners have come up with no solution at all to the problem, other than to provide the central land fill.

There should be a new study of methods of providing a countywide refuse collection system. Perhaps the present independent collectors' areas could be exempted. Or perhaps the countywide franchise could be phased in over a period of years to give everyone concerned a chance to adjust to the change. It could be stipulated in the franchise that back door garbage pick up could be provided in subdivisions and mobile home parks.

There must be a better answer than simply to ignore the problem. The county commissioners are elected to provide the solutions.

"And believe me, you WILL have Dick Nixon to kick around for three more years!"

Pennies In Big Demand

By R. GREGORY NOKES
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U.S. Mint is planning a nationwide get-out-the-penny campaign in an effort to ease a penny shortage that is daily growing worse.

Pennies are in such short supply that some supermarket chains have asked for permission to use paper script in place of pennies in their stores.

The mint has not responded to these requests, although it promises an opinion soon on whether use of script in such a way would be legal.

Mint director Mary Brooks said the government also has started a study of the nation's coinage, including whether there is need for a two and one-half cent piece to help relieve the pressure on the penny.

The penny shortage is nationwide. Because demand was exceeding supply, federal reserve banks started a month ago to ration pennies to commercial banks.

But the big federal reserve bank in Chicago still ran completely out of pennies earlier this month. A spokesman for the National Association of Food Chains said the shortage is causing problems since pennies are absolutely essential in daily food store operations.

Ironically, the U.S. Mint takes some responsibility for helping create the shortage.

"It all started when we asked for the aluminum legislation..." Miss Brooks said in an interview.

"It's a phenomena that when the American people hear there may be a shortage, they create one," Miss Brooks said.

Miss Brooks said there is no real shortage of pennies, they are just not being circulated.

"We estimate there are 30 billion pennies just languishing away in people's dressers, pickle jars, coffee cans, unloved and unwanted and unused, and they should be back in circulation," she said.

New Political Dynasty Seen

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Back in the 1940s, there was a lot of talk around North Carolina about the Shelby Dynasty—a concentration of political decision making in a group of leaders centered in that Cleveland County Town.

There may be a new dynasty growing—this time in the Wake County Town of Garner, a suburban community near Raleigh.

At least public service and politics appear to be a way of life to residents of one street in Garner.

The newly hired executive director of the North Carolina Democratic Party lives on Park Avenue. So do the mayor of Garner, two town aldermen, the town manager, and Kay Daughtry, secretary of the state's Democratic Party.

To Ben Utley, the new full-time, salaried director of the political organization, public service is something he wants very much, and holding down the political job is one way of satisfying his urge to be in politics—without the expense of running for office.

"Monetarily, I'd never be able to run for public office. But this is a way I can contribute something. . .a way to serve.

Wants To Serve

"I wanted to get into the political arena, and to stay in some service statewide, and fortunately this job came open," says the 37-year-old family man who left his post as assistant director of admissions at N. C. State University for the new post.

Utley is a native of Kinston who brings an education background to the political job—he coached, taught school, or worked as a guidance counselor in schools at Goldsboro, Aberdeen, and Rocky Mount along the way, following graduation from the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill with a degree in religion, and from East Carolina University with a masters degree in counseling.

Did that college degree in religion mean he was aiming for the ministry? Not that so much as a life of some service to people, Utley says, and besides, religion provided a forum for study in the historical and literary areas which appealed to him.

Utley worked his way through the ranks of Democratic Party leadership, starting off as advisor to the Teen Dems organization in Wake County, graduating to leader of the statewide teens group, and serving on the committee which has just completed a new plan of organization for the party.

To the new executive director, his job offers "excitement and a chance to meet a lot of people—and North Carolina is fortunate to have some fantastic people in all walks of life."

Two Reasons

Utley said two things that influenced him in deciding to take on the political job were, candidly, some ego involvement in serving in a leadership role, and the chance to be involved in projects to "get things done" across the state.

He hopes to see the Democratic Party in a growing role of reflecting the composition of the state—east, west, and Piedmont.

"We can achieve the best balanced state in the nation in terms of rural-agricultural interests and industrial development," Utley believes.

He sees a diminishing of the traditional battles between east and west in North Carolina, and a trend toward a coalition of conservative to moderate interests in the east and west pitched against a more "diversified collection of people with more liberal and progressive tendencies in the Piedmont Crescent."

From that different geography and people must emerge a Democratic Party which is a "party of the people, and it must stay in the middle of the political strata. It can flow to the edges of the middle, but we just can't afford to go to either extreme," Utley said.

That extreme movement, he feels, caused the party some problems in 1972, and particularly on the local level put some conservative Republicans into office.

"My chief concern is the inclusion as an objective of the party to put more interest into local offices. It is there that Republicans have begun to move and made the greatest inroads.

"Democrats must reassert themselves and provide local leadership, for this shapes the whole state's political philosophy."

The Stand-Off Option Looms

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON—Operating under secret but intense White House pressure, the Pentagon is now moving cautiously into a new strategic weapons system that may prove to be a lever against Moscow's menacing drive to MIRV its entire long-range missile force.

The contemplated new system is called the stand-off option: a fleet of U. S. bombers or wide-bodied commercial aircraft armed with long-range missiles and capable of circling the Soviet Union at a distance of 1,500 to 3,000 miles.

Since Moscow could not begin to match this new system in the foreseeable future, it hopefully would be compelled to agree to the real aim of President Nixon's quest for a new strategic arms limitation (SALT) agreement with Moscow. That goal: Soviet agreement to limit MIRVing its missiles—that is, putting from 3 to 8 independently-targeted warheads on a single missile.

What makes this so important is the vastly superior thrust or power (throw-weight) of Soviet missile launchers. Once Moscow catches up with U. S. MIR-Ving technology, this throw-weight advantage could make the land-based Soviet long-range missile force far superior to the U. S. force—a dangerous new element in super-power politics.

There is today no arms expert in the administration, including Secretary of State Henry Kissinger's closest advisers, still nourishing the illusion that Moscow will agree to any meaningful MIRV limitation without something new added to U. S. bargaining power. That something new is the stand-off option.

When Elliot Richardson was ending his brief stint as Secretary of Defense one year ago, he ordered Air Force studies on converting the wide-bodied Lockheed 1011, the Douglas DC-10 and the Boeing 747 into flying launching platforms, each armed with a single ballistic missile. But intense resistance from the Air Force and the civilian high command, including Deputy Secretary of Defense William P. Clements, Jr., prevailed. In the words of one high-level presidential adviser, the Air Force was "scared to death this might doom their new B-1 bomber program."

Resisting White House pressure, not a cent was put into the Pentagon budget, even for technical studies. This was true despite deep Russian anxiety over the stand-off option. They lack the missile technology, the exotic fuels and most important the aircraft. Indeed, Moscow is now trying to obtain licensing rights to build their own version of the Lockheed 1011 and other wide-bodied civilian aircraft.

This impasse now is being broken. Clements and the Pentagon's civilian command have persuaded Air Force and Navy brass to ask Congress for $125 million in research funds to begin studies of a revised stand-off system: bombers armed with strategic, nuclear-tipped "cruise" missiles containing their own power supply which would drop from high altitudes, then start their attack at extremely low levels. The same system could also be used for launching from submarines.

The Air Force generals who rejected the commercial-carrier system feel differently about the cruise missile. Instead of raising questions about the need for the vastly more expensive new B-1 bomber, it might well strengthen the B-1 case in Congress, which is now more suspicious about defense spending than at any time in the past 20 years.

Given today's nuclear-defense technology, cruise missiles and their bomber carriers—operating no closer than 1,500 miles from target—would be as invulnerable to Soviet defense as it is possible to get.

Some Pentagon strategists now foresee a real possibility of flight-testing a strategic cruise missile within the next two years. Yet, the Soviet Union is believed to be more than 10 years away from developing even the fuel technology needed to propel the cruise missile. Thus, Moscow would be unable to respond to this significant upset in the present palance of nuclear power.

The situation might then be roughly comparable to 1972 when the Russians finally agreed to limit their own anti-missile defense system when convinced that the U. S. was ready to build its own, far-superios anti-missile missile. Fearing the U. S. stand-off option, the Kremlin could be induced to do what it will not consider today—agree to a mutual limitation on dangerous, unlimited MIRVing of long-range missiles.

'Alice In Washington'

WASHINGTON—Alice was walking down Pennsylvania Avenue when the March Hare asked her, "How would you like to go to a White House press briefing?"

"What's a White House press briefing?" Alice asked.

"That is where they deny what they have already told you, which is the only reason it could be true," the March Hare said.

"It sounds like fun," Alice said.

The March Hare brought Alice into the press room. A chess pawn was standing at a podium.

"Who is that?" Alice asked.

"That is the press secretary. He talks in riddles. Listen."

"Why are transcripts better than tapes?" the press secretary asked.

"I don't know the answer to that one," Alice said to the March Hare. "Why are transcripts better than tapes?" she shouted to everyone's surprise.

The press secretary looked at her with cold blue eyes. "I refuse to comment on that."

Alice looked confused. "Why did he ask us a riddle if he can't give an answer to it?"

The March Hare said, "They don't tell him the answers; they just give him the riddles."

"What a stupid thing," Alice said. "Why is everyone writing in their notebooks?"

"They write down everything he says even though they don't believe him."

"Why don't they believe him?" Alice asked.

"Because he makes things up. He has to or there would be no reason to have a briefing."

The press secretary spoke again. "All the evidence is in and it proves beyond a reasonable doubt that the king is innocent of all crimes, ergo, ergo, ergo, et cetera."

"But what about evidence the king refuses to turn over to the committee?" a dormouse asked.

"That is not evidence," the press secretary replied. "If there was further evidence to prove the king guilty, he would have gladly given it to the committee. The fact that he hasn't turned it over means regretfully there is none. It's as simple as that."

"It doesn't sound very simple to me," Alice said.

"Why can't we hear all the tapes," the Mock Turtle asked, "so we can decide for ourselves who is innocent and who is guilty?"

The press secretary replied, "If you heard the tapes it would only prove the innocent are guilty and the guilty are innocent and it would serve no purpose but to confuse you. Besides what you would hear is not what you have read and what you have read is not what you would hear, so it's better not to hear what cannot be read. Isn't that perfectly clear?"

"I feel I'm back at the Mad Hatter's tea party," Alice said.

"Now I will give you some important news today," the press secretary said. "This is on the record. 'Twas brillig and the slithy toves did gyre and gimble in the wabe: All mimsy were the borogoves, and the mome raths out grabe."

Everyone wrote it down.

"What did he say?" Alice asked.

"Nothing," the March Hare replied. "He's just stalling until he can go to lunch."

Public Forum

To the editor:

I recently made an appointment with a gynecologist for my yearly physical checkup and Pap Smear. I tried to squeeze my appointment in before my family has to leave for Chapel Hill for the summer. But because of a conflict, I had to cancel when it was too late to get another appointment before our return here next fall. This would have made my checkup several months late.

A friend advised me to go for my checkup to the Pitt County Community Health Department, located near Pitt Memorial Hospital. I found I needed no appointment. I needed only to go in on Wednesday.

I was so happy with the results I felt I should tell other people about the service.

A nurse gives the examination. She is very considerate, personable, and gentle. She showed me how to examine myself for breast cancer, something I had wanted to know for some time to help eliminate worry between yearly checkups. The examination was very thorough and even included a blood test for diabetes.

An added help was the price—it was absolutely free.

This examination can save many women from cancer and give many others peace of mind, if they will only take a few minutes and take advantage of this free service offered by the County Health Department.

40 Years Ago Today

May 17, 1934

The rain in Pitt County during the last two days is worth millions to the farmers, agricultural leaders said today.

It enabled farmers who had not finished putting out tobacco plants to complete the work with the assumption that the crops are safe from dry weather.

Small streams in the area were reported near the overflowing point and will probably go over their banks if the precipitation continues through today.

The last of county school commencement exercises will be held tonight with the awarding of diplomas to graduates of Chicod high school.

Donald Conley, director of the Department of Education, said today that no literary address will be made at the school, and the exercises will be in the charge of the senior class.

One other school in the county remains to be closed. Greenville high school's commencement will take place during the latter part of this month.

Strength For Today

FRANKLIN'S RELIGION

Benjamin Franklin was by reputation an agnostic. Actually, although his belief's were unorthodox, they were well-formulated, and can even be helpful today. For example, on one occasion he wrote, "I think vital religion has always suffered when orthodoxy is more regarded than virtue; and the scriptures assure me that at the last day we shall not be examined for what we thought, but for what we did; and our recommendation will not be that we said Lord, Lord, but that we did good to our fellow creatures."

Urging that the Constitutional Convention of 1787 be opened with prayer, he remarked cogently, "The longer I live the more convincing proofs I see of this truth, that God governs in the affairs of men. And if a sparrow cannot fall to the ground without his notice, is it probable that an empire can rise without his aid?"

A good question, Mr. Franklin, which deserves to be asked more often.

Interest Rates Cause Distress

By JOHN CUNNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite interest rates so high they haven't been exceeded in this century, corporations seem undeterred in their plans to borrow record amounts of money.

The confrontation of tall spending plans and a short money supply is being blamed for:

—Raising business costs, at least temporarily, which then are passed on as higher prices.

—Drawing funds from the savings or thrift institutions, which reduces the amount of money available for mortgage loans.

—Threatening the economy with a money crunch that could bring some corporations to the brink of disaster and badly impact the expected upturn in the second half of the year.

The latest survey by economists at McGraw-Hill, Inc., indicates that industry intends to spend 19 per cent more than a year ago on improvements to plant and equipment. That would mean a record increase of $19.4 billion to $119.1 billion.

Explained one corporate treasurer, "Any business that has to borrow is convinced it must do so without regard to cost. When you borrow later on, inevitably the dollar is worth less than you have to borrow more for the same results."

Donald Miller, executive vice president of Continental Illinois National Bank, offered this explanation, "Businessmen feel inflation isn't licked. They don't see a recession; orders are good." And so they borrow to expand.

"We're having a veritable explosion of business loans," commented Arthur F. Burns, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, which has been restraining the money supply in an effort to discourage borrowing. In his view, it must be slowed.

Speaking at a news conference in late April, Burns said:

"We aren't going to sit back and prepare a monetary path to continuation of rapid inflation. On the contrary, we hope to do our part in subduing it. Let there be no mistaking our determination in doing this."

While industry seemingly does mistake that determination, Burns and the Federal Reserve have done little to suggest any change of mind. As they see it, the remarkably high rate of business spending is forcing the economy beyond its ability. It is inflationary; it must be restrained by making spending more difficult.

As business plans for expansion and the Fed's restraint plans appear more and more to be like two express trains racing toward each other, some bankers, economists and businessmen are becoming uneasy. They see a crunch ahead.

Rehearsals Bore Beauty Entries

By THOMAS S. BROWN
Associated Press Writer

NIAGARA FALLS, N.Y. (AP) — Rehearsal time at the Miss U.S.A. Beauty Pageant — hated by the contestants but accepted as a necessary evil.

The 51 young women sat in the cavernous Niagara Falls Convention Center and listened for the umpteenth time to instructions on walking the runway.

"Girls, look at the camera with the red light on it, not at the judges," boomed an anonymous producer through a public-address system. "Don't walk diagonally. Walk down the middle of the ramp...First, look at camera three, then turn and look at camera four."

The contestants already had been drilling for a week and faced 12 more hours of practice for Saturday night's televised coronation. The strain was starting to show.

"I like everything in the pageant except the rehearsals," complained Lorraine Breckenridge, Miss Kansas. "I decided to quit dressing up — it's not worth it. Yesterday I wore six-inch heels and at the end of the day I was just about crippled."

Miss Wisconsin—Mary Cook—had trouble walking, too. Practicing her bathing-suit entrance, she gracefully approached the cameras upstage but then stumbled at her pause spot.

"Miss Wisconsin, winner of the Miss Awkward award," quipped emcee Bob Barker as the red-faced Miss Cook continued her way down the ramp.

Miss South Carolina—Carol Hollis—got tired of waiting for her walk-on cue and went into a silent Charleston. Other contestants made faces, waved to friends or daydreamed.

"Rehearsal is very boring, but with 51 girls, it's a necessity," conceded Miss Delaware, Cheryl Fetkenher. "It's a very tough production, and a lot of these girls are sharp. They've had modeling experience and know just how to walk. This is my first pageant, so I'm up against some stiff competition."

The preparation continues up to Saturday night when the 1973 winner, Amanda Jones, will crown her successor. The title carries the right to represent the United States in the Miss Universe Pageant in Manila this summer.

Nixons Fly To Florida Home

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — In a move reminiscent of the late Lyndon B. Johnson, President Nixon is here for a long weekend stay that he kept secret until two hours before departure.

Nixon flew to his bayside compound Thursday afternoon with wife Pat, daughter Tricia Cox, staff chief Alexander M Haig Jr., Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler and Appointments Secretary Stephen B. Bull. He is expected to remain here until at least Sunday.

Cites Value Of Planning

WINTERVILLE—Wes Hankins, ECU professor of Regional and Urban Planning, was guest speaker at the Winterville Ruritan Club Tuesday night.

Hankins explained that the purpose of planning is to avoid undesirable effects of development. He stressed the importance of clean air, pure water, good transportation facilities and everything that goes to make a wholesome environment.

Professor Hankins stated that his student planners are studying all phases of regional and urban planning. Since this kind of training dates back but a few year, jobs are readily available for the graduate.

Hankins recommended that small towns take advantage of all the federal, state and local help they can get in the field of planned development.

President H.D. "Buck" Weaver announced that the Winterville club is assisting two nearby communities in Pitt County in their efforts to organize Ruritan Clubs. District Governor J. L. "Leck" Keeter is leading the organizational drive.

A Stronger FPC Urged

WASHINGTON, D.C.—In testimony Wednesday to the U.S. Senate Appropriations Committee, a North Carolina association called for major strengthening of the Federal Power Commission.

Marshall Lancaster, executive director of ElectriCities in North Carolina, testified that "the FPC today is not staffed enough even to keep pace with its own backlog."

ElectriCities represents 73 cities in the state which own their electric systems and buy power at wholesale under rates set by the Federal Power Commission.

Lancaster said that few citizens realize the extent of rate increases in recent years. "During the entire decade of the 60's, the nation's private power companies combined asked for $9.6 million in wholesale rate increases. Now the Duke Power Co. is asking for more than that amount is one case alone."

Charles Horne, director of Greenville Utilities Commission, is a member of the board of directors of the ElectriCities in North Carolina.

Americans Hated By Guerrillas

By ALEX EFTY
Associated Press Writer

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — They live in shantytown slums on United Nations handouts, hoping to return to lands lost 26 years ago.

Their children have never seen Palestine. They are the angry young men, guerrillas in camouflage fatigues armed with AK47 rifles.

When the state of Israel was created in 1948, 400,000 Palestinians fled to neighboring Arab territories. Now there are 1.5 million refugees — the result of a high birth rate and periodic wars in which Israel has punched ever deeper into Arab territory.

The relief rolls of the United Nations list 187,000 Palestinian refugees in Lebanon, 173,000 in Syria, 327,000 in the Gaza Strip and 852,000 on the east and west banks of the Jordan River.

Fifteen refugee camps in Lebanon house almost 100,000 Palestinians. The rest of Lebanon's refugee population live outside the camps in dismal, squalid warrens.

Their homes are one-room huts made of cement blocks, or leantos of corrugated iron, strung along unpaved tracks thick with mud in the winter and swirling with dust in summer. Women crowd around widely spaced community water taps, patiently waiting to fill old gasoline cans.

The refugees receive meager monthly rations from the U.N. Relief and Works Agency — 22 pounds of flour, 1.3 pounds of sugar, an equal amount of dried beans, a pound of rice and 13 ounces of cooking oil. There is a high death rate, but the dead often are not reported. To do so is to lose the extra ration.

There are no recreation outlets for the ragged hordes of children — families of 13 are common — and schools and parents discourage assimilation in Lebanese society. Camp life is "temporary," the older generation stresses, until the homeland is "liberated."

That attitude has made vegetables of the fathers living with their memories. It has made guerrillas of their sons.

The refugee camps are fertile recruiting grounds for terrorists, and the armed strength of the guerrilla organizations is said to be about 14,000. They have more freedom of operation in Lebanon than in any other country, but disagreements with the reluctant host government frequently erupt in gunfights with the Lebanese army.

At one time the Palestinians were eager to welcome Western visitors to their camps, to show the conditions in which they live.

Now they are wary. Israeli raiders have demonstrated detailed knowledge of guerrilla concentrations in the camps, and each foreign visitor is a potential spy.

"Before we used to hate the devil first, then Israel and then the Americans," said one Al Fatah fighter in Sidon.

"Now we hate the Americans first," he added as he surveyed the destruction wrought by Israel's American Phantom jets in Thursday's air raid.

Jas. Rodgers Is Honored

James E. Rodgers, band director at Rose High School, was honored by the Band Boosters Club last night for 25-years service in Greenville.

The director was presented a desk pen set at the conclusion of the band's annual concert. And a dozen local residents, members of the high school band when Rodgers first came to Greenville in 1949, attended the concert to pay tribute to their former band leader.

Tommy Smith of Greenville, a trombone player in Rodgers' first band has a son Tom playing in the high school music group. The younger Smith, a senior this year and also a trombonest, played "Papaya", a trombone solo once played by his father in a high school concert, at last night's musical event.

Another coincidence about last night's 25th year performance of one of Rodgers' bands is the fact that Rodgers' own son, Jimmy, is a senior trumpet player in the band and played a trumpet solo "Ode For Trumpet" last night.

Orbits Too Low

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) — A $15 million storm-hunting satellite soared into space today but fell into a low orbit after its Delta rocket engines shut off too soon.

An hour after liftoff, space agency officials said the 1,379-pound satellite was orbiting too low for its planned role of international weather forecasting.

Delta project manager William Schlinder said, "We still do not know the exact nature of the problem."

Space agency spokesman John Clark said the satellite's eliptical orbit was about 3,000 miles too low for a successful mission.

"It will take some time to decide on our strategy," Clark said. "We have about three times the amount of fuel needed to accomplish this maneuver and make the corrections needed."

Agency officials said they would try to correct the satellite's orbit with another burst of rocket engines in midafternoon.

Whether the engines could be burned long enough to reach the 22,300-mile-high orbit was not yet known, they said.

The Synchronous Meterological Satellite was one of a new series designed to photograph storms and weather patterns throughout the Western Hemisphere. Data was to be sent every 30 minutes to weather stations.

How you face tomorrow depends on how you save today.

It's easy to put off saving money. But you can't put off the future.

So maybe you'd better make sure tomorrow doesn't catch you with your savings down.

One of the easiest ways to get the edge on saving is to join the Payroll Savings Plan.

Just sign up where you work. An amount you specify will be set aside from your paycheck and used to buy U.S. Savings Bonds.

By the time the future catches up with you, you'll have a solid stockpile of Bonds to fall back on.

Join now. So you can face tomorrow.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4½% the first year). Bonds are replaced if lost, stolen or destroyed. When needed, they can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

Torment Since FCC Complaint

By CHARLES CHAMBERLAIN
Associated Press Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — A Chicago woman's life has turned into a torment of telephone threats and vandalism since she reported to authorities that a stream of obscenities was coming across her citizens' band radio.

Ruth Guardi's nightmare began last year after she complained to the Federal Communications Commission, which pinpointed the source of the obscenities as radio operators near her South Side home.

An FCC spokesman said no charges were filed because the agency gets too many obscenity complaints to follow up each one. But after her complaint, Mrs. Guardi was threatened and was the victim of vandalism.

Mrs. Guardi subsequently went to state authorities, and on her complaint they charged radio operators Ronald Talone, 26, and George Witzcak, 28, with disorderly conduct and criminal damage to property in connection with the threats and vandalism.

They are scheduled to appear in court today, and Mrs. Guardi is to be a witness. Prosecutors said they will ask that Talone and Witzcak be held on bonds of $150,000 each.

State prosecutors described Mrs. Guardi's situation as "one of the worst incidents of harassment of a witness we have encountered."

"Mrs. Guardi is afraid to talk to anyone and has had to use sedation," officials said.

Mrs. Guardi's torment started slowly — her dog was killed, a brick was hurled through her window, constant phone calls at night threatened her with rape and mutilation. The calls halted for two weeks after she obtained an unlisted number, then resumed.

Last month the terror increased.

She reported that an unidentified man pummeled her on a bus, grabbed her purse and stole her car keys. Her car was taken from in front of her home and was later found smashed and vandalized.

She opened the door of her home to a man claiming to have a telegram. She was smashed in the face with a brick.

On May 7, anonymous phone callers told her she never would live to testify in court.

And then came an unbelievable Mother's Day weekend.

During nine hours Sunday night, she had at her door two pizza deliveries for $18.45, five electricians reporting for emergency service at double-time rates, a plumber on double overtime, two taxi cabs, two ambulances and six fire trucks.

"On Monday she received a funeral wreath C.O.D.," said prosecutors. "These people are sick."

Eighteen Honored By Music Society

Eighteen students and faculty members of the East Carolina University School of Music have been recognized by ECU's Beta Zeta chapter of Pi Kappa Lambda honor society in music.

Formal recognition will be given 16 new members and two honor certificate recipients at the society's annual spring banquet May 20.

New members include faculty members Antonia Dalapas, Rosalie Haritun and George Broussard, and four graduate students, four senior students, and five juniors.

Freshman Karen Campbell and sophomore Susan Hill will be given honor certificates for outstanding academic and musical performance.

Speaker for the banquet will be Grace Rohrer, Secretary of the N. C. Department of Cultural Resources.

Officers of the ECU chapter are Joseph Distefano, president; Robert Hause, vice president; Ruth Boxberger, secretary; and Gladys White, treasurer.

Among the honored students were Susan Reid Hill, Virginia Karen Helms and Catherine Maccubbin, all of Greenville.

Environmental Grant Approved

A grant of $157,616 has been approved and funded by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare for the Environmental Health Program in the East Carolina University School of Allied Health and Social Professions.

The grant will provide a major portion of the funds needed for faculty, equipment, and other approved expenses related to training BS level envioronmental health practitioners.

According to Dr. Trenton G. Davis, Chairman of the Department of Environmental Health, 51 students are currently majoring in the program and the first eight graduates will receive their degrees on May 26.

It is anticipated that the program will be accreditied by the National Environmental Health Association Accreditation Council in June which would make it the seventh such program to receive such professional accreditation.

In addition to academic training activities, the Department conducted over 450 official milk and water laboratory analyses for local county Health Departments last year.

Two Are Jailed For Refusing Answers

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A young man and woman were jailed for refusing to answer questions before a federal grand jury probing charges that the Symbionese Liberation Army robbed a bank and the kidnaped newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst.

U.S. District Judge Alfonso Zirpoli denied bail Thursday to Paul L. Halverson, 29, a graduate philosophy student at San Francisco State University, and Cynthia Garvey, 27, of Oakland. He also refused to stay their sentence pending appeal.

The two were sentenced until they agree to testify or for the life of the grand jury, which could extend for more than two years.

Their refusal to testify came despite the fact they had been granted immunity from prosecution.

Halverson asserted he was "making the same arbitrary decision" as President Nixon, who Halverson said "has set a precedent by continually refusing to comply with subpoenas."

Miss Garvey said she did not "look at the grand jury as a legal institution," and regarded it as aimed at silencing political views "contrary to those of the government."

Halverson's wife, Joyce, 24, who has a 21-month-old son, also refused to answer questions for the grand jury, but no action was taken against her and her subpoena was dismissed.

Church Holding Singspiration

The Young World Singers of Vanceboro will be featured at a singspiration Sunday at 7 p.m. at Hollywood Presbyterian Church.

In the group are Wesley Morris, Philip McCandless, Leon Page, Howard Duzan, Vass Mitchell, Sandra Morris, Cindy Morris, and Brenda Morris.

The public is invited, the pastor, the Rev. William S. Forbes, said.

Homecoming At Church Sunday

Homecoming will be held at Carson Memorial Pentecostal Holiness Church Sunday.

The guest speaker will be the Rev. Ralph Lambert.

A singing following the homecoming will feature The Singing Ormonds. The pastor, the Rev. Frank Blalock, invites the public.

Lt. Gov. Hunt MTI Speaker

James B. Hunt, Jr., Lieutenant Governor of North Carolina, is to make the principal address at the 6th annual Martin Technical Institute graduation ceremony, at 8:00 p.m., Friday, May 24, in the foyer of the Main Campus building at Martin Technical Institute near Kehukee Park in Williamston.

Hunt received his bachelor's degree in agricultural education from N.C. State University, and then received a master's degree in economics. He also holds a law degree from the University of North Carolina.

Raised on a tobacco and dairy farm in the Rock Ridge Community of Wilson County, he has for many years been active in fields relating to agriculture and its impact on North Carolina's economy.

In 1964, he went to Nepal and served for two years as an economic advisor helping that country work out a development plan based on the free-enterprise system.

Dr. E. M. Hunt, President of Martin Technical Institute, has issued an invitation to citizens of Martin and surrounding counties to attend the graduation ceremony. About 70 curriculum students and 75 GED students are scheduled to graduate.

Church Opening Planned Sunday

The opening of the New Hope Fellowship Tabernacle Holiness will be held Sunday at 4 p.m.

The church is located about two miles west of Greenville on Highway 43 in an old school building. The public is invited, according to the pastor, Elder Bobby R. Barnhill.

Given Green Light On Nuclear Station

CHARLOTTE (AP)—Duke Power Co. says it has been given authority to begin preliminary work on its Catawba nuclear station.

A full construction permit must be approved later by an atomic safety and licensing board.

The $760 million plant will be built on the South Carolina side of lower Lake Wylie, five miles from Rock Hill and 12 miles south of Charlotte.

The utility, which operates in the Carolina Piedmont, announced Thursday it had received a limited work authorization from the Atomic Energy Commission.

A Duke spokesman said the authorization would permit the start of such work as clearing, grading, road building, construction of warehouses and shop facilities, and excavation for the nuclear structures.

The Catawba station is planned as a two-unit facility, with each unit producing 1,153,000 kilowatts of electricity.

The first unit is scheduled for operation in 1979 and the second a year later.

Pugh Sisters In Sunday Concert

The Pugh Sisters will appear in concert Sunday at 5 p.m. at Rock Spring FWB Church.

The group is directed by Roger Ingram of Ayden. Dr. A. A. Best of Greenville will be master of ceremonies. Proceeds will be used for the church building fund.

FRICTION-THEN RUIN

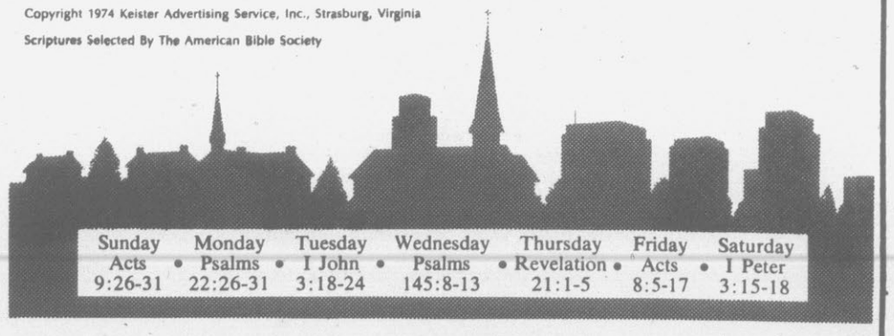

Packed into every watch are cogs and wheels, levers and springs. Varying in size and shape, each helps keep time. But look more closely. A thin film of oil adheres to many of the moving parts. Without it there is friction —then wear and . . . damage.

Within most towns, you'll find banks and shops, supermarkets and churches. They vary in size and purpose, yet each contributes to an orderly society.

Faith in God is essential to society. Without it there is friction — then distrust and . . . ruin.

In church people find faith that gives greater meaning to life in a complex and rapidly changing world. Is your life running smoothly? Why not attend church this Sunday?

Says Beliefs 'Endangered'

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
AP Religion Writer

NEW YORK (AP — Sizing up the impact of popular contemporary attitudes on religion, a Lutheran theologian says they have "endangered three species of Biblical thought," including belief in the permanent significance of world history itself.

In the present swing of modern consciousness toward personal "inwardness," the Rev. Dr. Lee Snook says there is tendency to hold that "real life is somewhere else," rather than finding meaning in the struggles of this world toward a promised fulfillment.

The other two "endangered species" of Biblical ideology, as enumerated by Dr. Snook of Lutheran Seminary in St. Paul, Minn., are:

—That people are personally responsible for their acts, a Biblical concept being eroded by behavioral psychology lith its views that individuals, rather than making their own decisions, are dominated by conditioning.

—That the universe derives from God, a conviction being undermined by modern nontheistic theories of the universe which regard its resources as valuable only as they are useful to society.

"It's that kind of view that is killing us, that is choking us with our own waste," he said in a recent lecture series. "The Biblical view of creation and consummation inspires a more responsible stewardship of the world and its resources."

He said behavioral psychology has some valid insights, but its views denying that people are accountable for their choices in managing the world run counter to the Biblical "covenant" between God and human beings.

"The language of the covenant is inconvenient for those who want to control society," he said. "People of the covenant don't fit because they are committed to a promise."

As for the current discrediting of the meaning of history itself, Dr. Snook said this is typified by a modern attitude expressed in the popular, fable-style book, "Jonathan Livingston Seagull."

It "is a call to believe in one's own inwardness," he said. "It suggests that you release yourself from the contingencies of time and space," that "history is useless," that "your future is on the other side of humanity."

In contrast, he said, "the Biblical motif holds that salvation comes through suffering with others in this world."

Dedicating New Church Facility

DEDICATORY SERVICES. . .will be held Sunday for the new facility of the First Free Will Baptist Church, located on the New Bern Highway.

The dedication of the newly constructed building of the First Free Will Baptist Church of Greenville has been scheduled for Sunday.

During the 11 a.m. worship service, the Rev. Charles Crisp, pastor, will deliver the dedicatory sermon. Open house will be held from 2-4 p.m. and tours of the building will be conducted by the youth of the church.

J. H. Hudson, Inc., engineers and constractors, pointed out that the exterior design of the sanctuary and education facilities is contemporary in style. The facade of the sanctuary features a steep-sloped roof above stained pilasters.

The focal point of the facade is a large stained glass window which allows light to filter in on the baptistry area and choir. A white steeple spire rises 70 feet above the floor level.

The sanctuary, contemporary in design, has upholstered pew seating for 312 persons and 48 in the choir area. Folding partitions open an expansion area which provides seating for an additional 90 persons. The sanctuary floor is covered with a gold, orange and green tweed carpet. Two robing and changing rooms and the baptistry are included behind the choir area.

A 15 classroom education wing accommodates 220 persons. A study, kitchen and two bath rooms are included in the wing. Folding partitions open to provide a dining and fellowship area next to the kitchen.

Paved drives and parking areas provide space for approximately 100 cars. The building provides 7,483 square feet of heated and air conditioned floor space.

The congregation moved into the new church sanctuary on May 17. The old facility was located at the corner of 11th and Forbes Street.

The public is invited to attend the services.

Printer Stuck With Stickers

RALEIGH (AP)—A Raleigh company apparently is stuck with 200,000 bumper stickers it printed for the state earlier this year.

Capital Communications Inc. printed the "50 Drive 55"bumper stickers in February under an order placed by Ted Harrison, public information officer for the state Department of Transportation.

However, the state's Purchase and Contract Division would not approve payment of the $10,806 bill because Harrison bought the stickers without going through a bid process required by law.

Secretary of Administration William L. Bondurant solved the problem by asking for bids.

Capital Communications Inc., owned by Jerry Louchheim, who handled the advertising for Gov. Jim Holshouser's 1972 gubernatorial campaign, came in ninth in a field of 12 firms when bids were opened Thursday. Capital bid $53 a thousand, or $10,600 for 200,000. The apparent low bidder, National Decal of Ardmore, Pa., bid $34 a thousand, $6,800.

"That proved the validity of the bid process," Bondurant said Thursday.

He said some stickers had already been returned to Capital and the rest will be returned after the state receives a shipment of the same stickers from the low bidder.

The "50 Drive 55" slogan referred to the fact 50 states enforce the 55 mile speed limit. The stickers were ordered at the height of the energy crisis.

Louchheim was not immediately available for comment.

Troopers Suspended In Shooting Affair

RALEIGH (AP)—State Highway Patrol Cmdr. E. W. Jones says a shooting incident last month has resulted in the suspension and transfer of two state troopers who were placed on probation for one year.

Jones said W. T. Evans was transferred from Randolph County to Fayetteville and suspended for 20 working days. T. J. Evelyn, also stationed in Randolph, was given a 10-day suspension and transferred to Gastonia.

Jones said Randolph officers went to a house April 26 to serve a warrant on a man and a gun battle ensued. He said two officers were wounded, one by a fellow officer in an accident.

The man they were attenpting to arrest slipped out of the house under cover of darkness and fled in a truck. Jones said the patrol became involved in assisting officers in the search. Roadblocks were set up. Officers went to a house about 4 a.m. where they saw a truck resembling the one in which the man had made a getaway, Jones said. A car was parked in the yard and the dome light was on. A man was in the car.

The patrol commander said officers assumed it was the man being sought and fired on the car. The man jumped out, ran to the house and telephoned officers. Jones said it simply was a case of mistaken identify. The man was preparing to go on a hunting trip.

"We're happy that it didn't turn out worse," Jones said. "We've taken steps to see that such a thing won't happen again."

Indict Four As 'Zebras'

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A grand jury has returned murder indictments against four black men in three of the random "Zebra" slayings of whites here since last October.

Three of the men indicted Thursday by the San Francisco County Grand Jury previously had pleaded innocent to the slayings in Municipal Court and are being held in city jail. They are Manuel Moore, 29, J.C. Simon, 29, and Larry C. Green, 22.

The three were among seven black men arrested in a police raid on an apartment building May 1. The other four men were released for lack of evidence.

The fourth man indicted, Jessie Cooks, 29, is serving a life sentence in Folsom State Prison for murdering a woman here last year in a slaying unrelated to the Zebra killings, so-named because of the radio channel being used by police on the case.

Superior Court Judge Clayton Horn set bail at $300,000 each.

Earns Degree At Ferrum College

FERRUM, Va.—Dr. Joseph T. Hart, President of Ferrum College, presented a diploma for the Associate Degree to Karen Wolcott Rhodes, Sunday, at the college's 58th annual graduation ceremonies.

Ms. Rhodes is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edwin M. Wolcott, 1720 Forest Hills Drive, Greenville.

In commencement service, the Ferrum graduates heard an address by Kenneth W. Goodson, Bishop of the United Methodist Church, Virgina Conference.

SUNDAY SINGING

There will be a singing at the United Church of God Sunday at 2:30 p.m.

Featured will be the Apostolic Echoes, as well as local singers. The public is invited, the pastor, the Rev. Woodrow Tew, said.

Foreclosing 2 Motel Projects

WINSTON-SALEM (AP)—Wachovia Realty Investment announced Thursday it has begun foreclosure proceedings against two North Carolina motel projects and will begin proceedings immediately against two Connecticut projects.

A spokesmen identified the motel projects as one in Boone and another in Greenville, involving two loans amounting to $2 million.

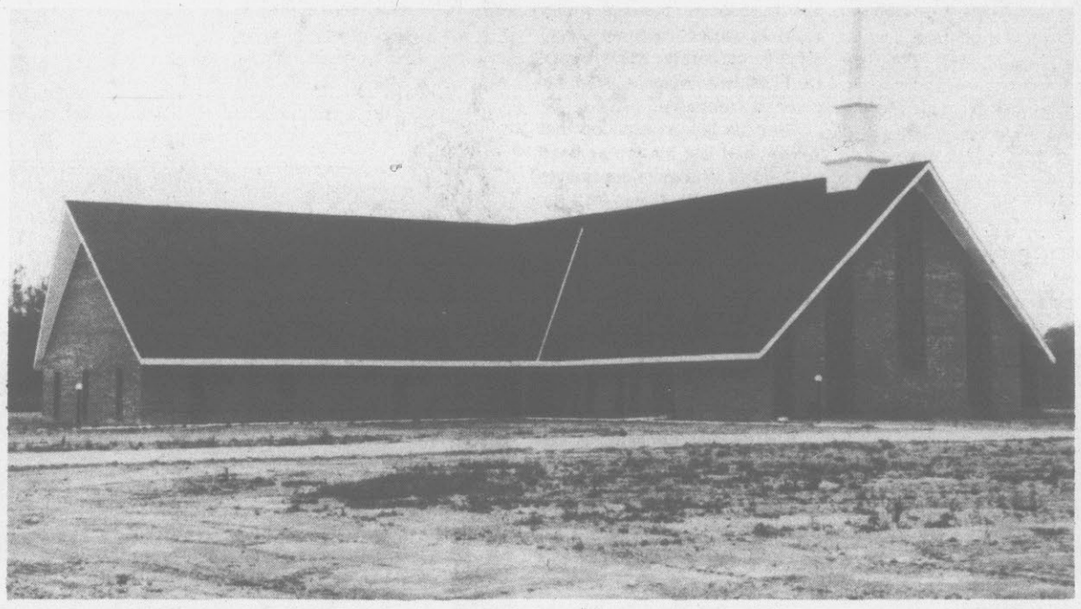

The announcement said the Connecticut properties, both in Farmington, involve the Talcott Village shopping center and apartment complex, with two loans amounting to $9.3 million.

The trust was reported previously to have foreclosed on six other loans amounting to $9.8 million.

Mental Health TV Program

A special 30-minute program on mental health will be shown on WNCT, Channel 9, Greenville, Sunday at noon.

The question-and-answer session was produced by WFMY-TV in Greensboro "to unveil some basic mental health information while bringing out several misconceptions held by the public," according to Jerry Blackwelder of the N. C. Department of Human Resources.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) — (NCDA) — North Carolina egg markets steady on large and mediums, weaker on smalls Thursday. Supplies adequate, demand only fair. Weighted average prices for small lots sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 50.75, medium whites 41.66, small whites 35.54.

RALEIGH (AP)—(NCDA)—Corn and soybeans were stronger on the leading grain markets in North Carolina Thursday. No. 2 yellow shelled corn was quoted at 2.60-2.85, mostly 2.72-2.81 per bushel. No. 1 yellow soybeans were 5.48-5.57½ per bushel.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) —NCDA—North Carolina hog markets today are .50 to $1.00 higher. 27.75-28.75 at Kinston and Lumberton; 27.00-27.50 at Rocky Mount; 26.00 to 26.50 at Tarboro and Bethel; 26.00 at Salisbury.

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) —NCDA—F.O.B. Dock broilers market weaker, supplies fully adequate and demand fair. Weights mostly desirable. F.O.B. Dock weighted average price for less than cut lot loads of sized-plant grade broilers to be picked up at docks next week at 39.94 a pound. Estimated slaughter 1,055,000.

Hens market steady with supplies ample and demand slow. Heavies at farm 9-10.50 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — A burst of selling at the opening carried stock market prices sharply lower today as several major banks posted another increase in the prime lending rate.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 9.46 at 825.88, showing a slight recovery from a drop of more than 11 points in the first hour.

Declines overwhelmed advances by about 5-to-1 in relatively active trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

New York's First National City and Chase Manhattan banks, along with several others, boosted their prime rates from 11¼ to 11½ per cent while trading was getting under way.

Aluminum stocks remained under pressure as a result of Jamaica's move to increase sharply its tax and royalty charges on bauxite, the principal source of aluminum.

Alcan Aluminium, the Big Board volume leader, was down 1¼ at 28½ in trading marked by a 100,000-share block at 28⅝. Alcoa dropped ⅞ to 44⅛.

United Gas Pipeline was down ¼ to 4⅝ in active trading. The Federal Power Commission, which earlier this week said it was investigating the spinoff of the company by Pennzoil, today suspended a rate increase sought by United.

On the American Stock Exchange, Diamond M Drilling was up 1½ at 20. The company said another concern had expressed interest in a possible tender offer for Diamond M stock.

The Amex' 11 a.m. market-value index was down .93 at 82.84. The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was down .55 at 46.83.

Guilty Plea By Milkman

WASHINGTON (AP) — The former president of a Pennsylvania dairy cooperative, Richard L. Allison, pleaded guilty today to consenting to an illegal $50,000 corporate contribution to President Nixon's 1972 re-election campaign.

After his lawyer pleaded that Allison had lost his job as head of Lehigh Valley Cooperative Farmers of Allentown, Pa., because of the contribution, U.S. District Judge George L. Hart Jr. suspended a $1,000 fine and placed Allison on a month's unsupervised probation.

It was the first time in 10 illegal corporate contributions cases that a defendant has gotten off without paying a fine.

"He throws himself on the mercy and understanding of this court," said Allison's attorney, Richard Stevens of Philadelphia. He said Allison lost his job, lost his company car and still is unemployed.

Allison and his wife left the courtroom tearfully. The couple has five children.

The cooperative pleaded guilty before Judge Hart on May 6 to making the $50,000 contribution and was fined $5,000.

Lehigh Valley is a dairy cooperative but not one of the three giant cooperatives frequently mentioned in connection with milk fund contributions and a boost in dairy price supports in 1971.

Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski said the contribution was made between April 19 and April 27, 1972.

Allison said a year ago, while still president of the cooperative, that the money went to a lobbyist to buy "prestige speakers" for a planned banquet. At the time, he denied allegations that the cooperative's money went to buy silence for the Watergate conspirators.

Miss Brenda Tyson Is 1974 Pageant Winner

Miss Brenda Tyson was crowned "Miss Greenville of 1974" in a beauty pageant sponsored by Les Gaylenettes last Friday at St. Gabriel's School.

Miss Fannie Johnson was named first runner-up and Miss Veronica Shields was selected as second runner-up.

The granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Tyson of Greenville, the new Miss Greenville is a senior at J.H. Rose High School.

In addition to a trophy and a bouquet of long-stemmed red carnations, she received a trip to New York, a wardrobe, and a scholarship to the school of her choice. She was crowned by Miss Patricia Williams, "Miss Greenville of 1973."

Miss Johnson and Miss Shields each received a trophy and a gift certificate. They are the daughters of Mrs. Josephine Johnson Brown of Greenville and Mrs. Lucy Richardson, also of Greenville.

For her talent, Miss Tyson did a creative dance.

Winner in the talent division was Miss Fannie Johnson, who did a "Henry" skit. Runner-up were Miss Brenda Stuart, dramatizing and reciting "Let My People Go" and Miss Cynthia Roberts doing a medley of spirituals.

Judges for the contest were Mrs. Lillian Powell, Mrs. Agnes Jones, and Mrs. Rebecca Norcott. Trophies, plaques, and gifts were presented by Mrs. Thelma R. Jones of Greenville.

Mrs. Rosa Harris, chairman of the program, welcomed the capacity audience and Mrs. Lizzie Williams presented gifts of appreciation. Mrs. Everlena Rogers was mistress of ceremonies.

Vice President Visits Hawaii

HONOLULU (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford is in Hawaii, the 27th state he has visited since assuming office.

His schedule today includes three speeches, two receptions, a news conference and a visit to the Arizona Memorial, which commemorates the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941.

"We're looking forward to just one of those working and vacationing weekends," Ford said after his arrival Thursday night.

The vice president was accompanied by Mrs. Ford and Hawaii's Republican Sen. Hiram L. Fong and Democratic Rep. Spark Matsunaga.

Ford plans to fly to the island of Hawaii tonight for two days of relaxation.

Dickens Helped Elon To Title

ELON COLLEGE—Byron Dickens, the son of Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Dickens, helped Elon College to the Carolinas Conference championship last week, and gained honors for himself along the way.

Dickens, a junior Elon, hurled a 12-0 shutout against Catawba College in the finals of the league's tournament, and was selected as one of the All-Tournament pitchers. Only two hurlers were selected to the team.

This year, while experiencing some bad moments, Dickens has put together a 3-3 record for the Christians, as they have moved into the District 26 playoffs, now underway in Greensboro. The winner of that tournament will qualify for the area competition, to be held in Greenwood, S. C., and the winner of that goes into national competition at St. Joseph, Mo.

"Byron has real good stuff in his victory over Catawba," Elon News Bureau Director Melvin Shreeves said. "He has been a little unsteady in some of his games, but he really did the job for us when we needed it."

Dickens has appeared in seven games so far this year, and only in one did he fail to take part in the decision. "Several of his losses were tough ones," Shreeves said, "that could have gone either way."

Following his last outing Saturday, Dickens has hurled a total of 44 1-3rd innings, striking out 38, walking 22 and allowing only 35 hits. He has an earned run average of 2.23, good in any league.

"We have a real good pitching staff," the news director said, "and we are hoping that it will carry us to the nationals. Our top man is Mike Osborne (8-0), while Kent Smith is 5-2. Byron is our number three man, and we have a freshman who is 3-0, William Woolard. We also have several good relief pitchers, but we're always hopeful that we won't need them."

Osborne pitched Elon to a 6-4 victory over High Point College Wednesday night in the District 26 Tournament's first round of play. Smith was slated to hurl Thursday afternoon, and Dickens was to pitch the next game. That would have been yesterday if Elon lost, and this afternoon, if they won.

Junior Olympics Set For East Carolina

The annual Junior Olympics will be held at East Carolina University's track on May 25 and June 1.

This year's competition will divide the age groups into two different days of competition.

The trials each day will begin at 10 a.m., with the finals starting at 1:30 p.m. A participant's age as of May 1 determines which age group he will compete in.

No contestant may enter more than three events, including relays. Ribbons will be awarded to the first four places in each event, and the first three qualify for the state meet to be held in Raleigh on June 9.

A $1 entry fee is charged each participant.

The 13 and under age groups will compete on May 25, while the 14 and over groups will hold their meet on June 1.

Events for boys and girls, nine and under, include high jump, long jump, 100-yard dash, 440-yard dash, 880-yard run, mile run, 440-yard relay, 220-yard dash and the one mile race walk.

For boys and girls 10 and 11, events are high jump, long jump, 100, 220, 440 880, mile, 440 relay and one mile race walk.

The junior division, 12 and 13-year-olds, will have competition in the high jump, the long jump, the 100, 220, 440, 880, mile, 440 relay, shot put, discus, and the one mile race walk.

Intermediates, 14 and 15, will have the long jump, high jump, pole vault, discus, shot put, triple jump (boys only), 100, 220, 440, 880, mile, two mile (boys only), low hurdles (girls only), high hurdles, 440 relay, 880 relay, and mile relay.

For the seniors, 16 and 17, competition will be held in the high jump, the long jump, shot put, discus, pole vault, triple jump (boys only), 100, 220, 440, 880, mile, two mile, low hurdles, high hurdles, 440 relay, 880 relay, mile relay, and the mile race walk.

The event is fully sanctioned by the North Carolina AAU and is sponsored by East Carolina University and the Bethel Track Club.

Bold Ruler's Presence Felt In Preakness Run

By GORDON BEARD
AP Sports Writerv

BALTIMORE (AP) — Bold Ruler has been dead almost three years, but the great sire remains a dominant figure in the Preakness Stakes, a race he won at Pimlico in 1957.

Six entries in Saturday's 99th Preakness, which will gross a record $209,000 if 13 start as expected, are grandsons of Bold Ruler—who also sired Secretariat, the Triple Crown champion of 1973.

They include Cannonade, the Kentucky Derby winner who is the favorite in the 1 3-16 mile Preakness, and three of the 22 horses who trailed him at Churchill Downs—Destroyer, Buck's Bid and Rube the Great.

Cannonade and Buck's Bid both were sired by Bold Bidder, Destroyer by Vitriolic, and Rube the Great by Bold Lad.

Bold Lad also sired Preakness starter Neapolitan Way, a gelding who has won two consecutive grass races at Pimlico including a division of the Woodlawn Stakes. Heir to the Line, winner of last Saturday's Preakness Prep, is by the Bold Ruler mare Borderline.

In addition to the starters with Bold Ruler connections, other Preakness entries include Derby runner-up Hudson County; J.R.'s Pet, No. 4 finisher at Churchill Downs, and Little Current, the fifth-place finisher.

Rounding out the 13-horse field, which was two shy of the maximum which could be handled at Pimlico without running two divisions, are Jolly Johu, All Game, Kin Run, and Silver Florin, who was made a supplementary entry for $10,000 after failing to be nominated for $100 by his owners.

Television coverage by CBS is scheduled for 5 p.m.-6 p.m. EDT.

Oran Battles, the trainer of Silver Florin, viewed the Preakness as "a wide open race. There is no outstanding horse, no Secretariat or Citation."

"Cannonade is the champion now, and a picture of health," said Skip Shapoff, the trainer of Hudson County. "I'm not predicting we'll beat him, but my horse has had more seasoning now and we may turn the tables."

Stephens, asked about his chances for the Triple Crown, cracked: "I like my chances. In fact, I'm the only one with a chance."

Oakmont, Grace Lead Divisions

Oakmont and Grace continued to roll along in the Church Softball League last night. They lead their respective divisions with 5-0 records.

In the opener on one field, Oakmont took an 8-4 win over First Presbyterian. Oakmont got two in the first, then added three in the third. They scored one each in the fourth and fifth with D. Singleton homering. One more crossed in the sixth. Presbyterian got three in the fourth and one in the seventh.

St. Gabriel handed St. James a 7-5 defeat in the second game. St. Gabriel pushed over five runs in the first inning, with Jenkins hitting a homer. St. James came back to tie it up with one in the first, two in the fourth and two more in the fifth. But St. Gabriel got two in the seventh to take the win.

In the final game, Memorial Baptist downed Trinity, 11-9. Memorial pushed over six runs in the first inning, but Trinity got two in the first and five in the third for a 7-6 lead. Memorial went back ahead with two in the fourth, then put it out of reach with three more in the fifth. Trinity got two more in the seventh.

In the opener on the other field, Grace nipped Black Jack, 12-11 in one extra inning. Grace got two in the first, then another scored in the second. Black Jack got one in the third, and one in the fourth. Grace scored another in the fifth, but Black Jack came up with four in the bottom of the fifth with H. Hardee homering. Grace got three in the sixth, while Black Jack came up with five, as B. Elks homered. Grace then rallied for four in the seventh to tie it at 11-11. Grace pushed over the winning run in the eighth.

In the second game, First Free Will Baptist rolled to an 18-2 win over Arlington Street. First FWB got 10 runs in the second, with Barker homering. They added five in the third and three in the fifth. Arlington got both of its runs in the seventh.

In the last game, People's Bible got a 16-11 win over Immanuel Baptist. People's scored three in the first and two in the second to take the lead. Immanuel came back with two each in the first three innings to push into a 6-5 lead. People's went into a tie with one in the fourth, then pushed over 10 in the fifth to take the lead for good. N. Pollard homered to finish off the frame after J. Blair had earlier hit a round-tripper. Immanuel added three in the fifth and two in the sixth.

Optimists Get Win Over Lions

The Optimists pushed into sole possession of first place in the North State Little League yesterday with an 8-7 victory over previously unbeaten Lions.

The victory gave the Optimists a 4-0 record while the Lions are now 3-1.

The Lions pushed over three in the first inning. Peter Pace singled and moved to third on a passed ball and a wild pitch. Allen Collier was hit by a pitch and Arthur Fletcher doubled both runners in. He took third on a fielder's choice and scored on Shelton Wilson's errored grounder.

But the Optimists came right back with four of their own in the bottom of the first. Billy Dough singled and Jim O'Brien doubled. Jim Kernen singled both of them in, and moved up on the relay. Glen Moore doubled to score Kernen and also moved up on the relay. Sammy Hodges singled to score Moore for the 4-3 lead.

In the third, the Optimists added another run. That came on a home run by Moore.

In the fourth, the Lions came back with two, tieing it at 5-5. Herman King singled and Roger Williams slapped a two-run homer.

In the bottom of the frame, the Optimists pushed out again. Liles Stott singled and Kenny Kirkland reached on a fielder's choice. An error then let both runners come around to score, giving the Optimists a 7-5 lead.

They got what proved to be the winning run in the fifth. And that came on a second home run by Moore.

The Lions tried to rally in the sixth, closing the gap to one run. Williams walked and moved up on a passed ball. Krage Gardiner reached on a fielder's choice and an error let Williams score, and also moved Gardiner all the way around with the seventh run. But the Optimists closed the rally there to get the win.

Beltone Is Alone

Beltone stands alone as the leader of the Ladies Softball League after last night's action. Beltone won its fifth game against no losses while previously unbeaten Coca-Cola was losing its first to Little Mint.

In the opener, Beltone rolled to a 27-5 win over Pitt County Memorial Hospital. Beltone pushed over three in the first inning, then added eight more in the second with Barnhill homering. They added five more in the third with Taylor getting a homer. Four more crossed in the fourth with Dempsey homering, and they closed out with seven in the fifth with Barnhill again homering. The Hospital got two in the third and three in the fifth with B. Blount homering.

Little Mint took a 5-1 win over Coca-Cola in the second game. Each team scored a run in the second, but the Little Mint pushed ahead for good and with another in the third They added two more in the fourth and one in the seventh.

In the final game, Piggly-Wiggly beat the Daily Reflector, 17-0. Piggy-Wiggly got four runs in the second, and added four more in the third with L. Whitehurst homering. Six more crossed in the fourth, and they closed out with three in the sixth.

Elks Win To Share Lead

The Elks handed the Exchange their first defeat of the season yesterday in the Tar Heel Little League, 10-3. But the game was played under protest by the Exchange following a call in the fourth inning.

The defeat left the two teams tied for first place in the league standings. Both have 3-1 records.

The Exchange pushed into the lead in the first inning, scoring a run. Mark Douglas reached on an error and Charles Daise singled. Al Shackleford reached on a fielder's choice and so did Steve Irwin, with Douglas scoring on the play.

The Elks tied it up with one in the second. Gavin Ray walked and took second on a passed ball. Don White singled him in.

The Exchange moved back into the lead in the third. Gordon Douglas singled and moved to third on an error on the play. Shackleford doubled to drive him in.

The Elks again tied it up with one in the bottom of the frame. Mike Lemmond walked, moved up when Chris Ross reached on a fielder's choice, then took third on a passed ball. He then scored on a balk.

In the fourth, the Elks pushed over eight runs to wrap it up. Terry Skinner singled and Don White was hit by a pitch. Bert Singleton reached on an error and Lemmond walked to score Skinner. Ross was hit by a pitch, scoring White, and Lenn Jackson singled in Singleton, but Lemmond was thrown out. Ray reached on a three-base error, scoring Ross and Jackson. Emmett Walsh walked and stole second, with Ray stealing home. Skinner finished it off with a home run.

The Exchange got one more in the fifth. Gordon Douglas reached on an error, took second on a passed ball and scored on a double by Shackleford.

Irwin Scorches Colonial Course

By MIKE COCHRAN
Associated Press Writer

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — "Every time I turned around Hale was making the flagstick quiver," said Hubert Green, shaking his head in disbelief.

"I think it was one of the finest rounds of golf I've ever seen played," added Tom Weiskopf in unabashed admiration. "Had he putted exceptionally well, I think he could have shot 60."

Such were the comments Thursday after Hale Irwin scorched the windswept Colonial Country Club course with a five-under-par 65 and seized a three-stroke lead in the first round of the $250,000 Colonial National Open.

Battling gusty winds and an outstanding field, Irwin bagged three birdies on the final four holes and swept away from a cluster of challengers with a stunning 32-36—65 on the par 70 Trinity River layout.

"There was not very much I did poorly," admitted Irwin, a non-winner this year but 10th on the money winning list with more than $75,000.

Rolling in birdie putts of three, one, 35, 10, three and 25 feet, Irwin, who has the habit of playing tough courses extremely well, struck a resounding blow in his bid to capture the first designated tournament title in the history of pro golf.

A bunker on the par-three, fourth hole cost him his only bogey.

Two Chase NAIA Title

GREENSBORO, N. C. (AP)—High Point, a one-time loser, goes against still undefeated Pfeiffer tonight for the championship of the NAIA District 26 baseball tournament, with a berth in the national event going to the winner.

If Pfeiffer wins, it will claim the district title and a place in the NAIA tournament starting May 30 at St. Joseph, Mo. If Pfeiffer loses, a second game will follow immediately to determine the champion.

Danny Goins collected three home runs Thursday as he helped High Point to an 8-1 victory eliminating Gardner-Webb and a 4-3 victory in 10 innings, eliminating Elon. Pfeiffer handed Elon its first loss, 7-6.

Pfeiffer's winning run over Elon came in the bottom of the ninth inning on Tommy Raines' single.

High Point had a four-run first inning over Gardner-Webb, with Goins' first homer of the day accounting for the first three runs, followed by Otis Foster's solo homer.

Runners Going On Bench Now

By NORM CLARKE
Associated Press Writer

CINCINNATI (AP) — The once-feared golden arm of Cincinnati catcher Johnny Bench is being tarnished "but there's nothing I can do about it," says baseball's premier receiver.

While Reds opponents are suddenly swiping bases at an unprecedented pace, Bench bristles at the mention his defensive skills have eroded.

The bazooka-like arm that once kept would-be base thieves at bay has been neutralized.

How?

"For one thing, everybody's loading up with speed now. And I don't think we emphasize pickoff plays that much. The balk rule hasn't had anything to do with it," said Bench as the Reds prepared to depart on a 10-game road trip west today.

"I've really noticed it in the last three years. It used to be the Dodgers had two or three guys who would try to steal. Now they send everybody. It's adding a new dimension to the game.

With the season little over a month old, opposing teams have successfully stolen 18 bases in 26 attempts against the Reds. That's almost half the total allowed last year when Cincinnati managed to mow down only 30 of 72 base runners.

In 1972, Bench and his backup allowed only 25 stolen bases in 60 attempts.

In 1970, he turned in a sensational performance that prompted ex-Dodger catcher Rube Walker to rave: "No doubt about it, he has the best arm in baseball, maybe the best ever." Bench cut down 29 of the 59 base runners who tested him.

The 26-year-old Oklahoman denies he's lost any zing as a result of off-season chest surgery of 1972.

Manager Sparky Anderson supports Bench loudly. Even to Bench's recent revival with the bat, Anderson predicted: "Johnny will win the Most Valuable Player in 1974."

Five Top Drivers To Try For Indy Field

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Five of American auto racing's big men are awaiting Saturday's second round of qualifications for the Indianapolis 500-mile race in an unusual position.

Those drivers—Mario Andretti, Al Unser, Gordon Johncock, Johnny Rutherford and Roger McCluskey—are usually solidly in the field and well on their way to having cars set up for the race by this time.

And, under the new shortened qualifying setup for the Indy classic, they could end up on the outside looking in on race day, May 26.

The five represent 49 years of Speedway participation, four victories, four poles and five national driving titles.

Unser and Rutherford lost out in the opening session of qualifying last Saturday when they blew engines in the morning practice period and failed to get into line for the time trials before the 11 a.m. start.

Johncock, the defending Indianapolis champion, and Andretti were left waiting in line when rain ended the first session nearly two hours early and defending national champion McCluskey wasn't anywhere near ready to put his new Riley-Offenhauser in the field.

In the past, the top drivers who experienced trouble the first day could come back Sunday and slip into the field. And, when that failed on occasion, they could qualify during one of the two sessions the next week.

But now, after a time cutback because of the energy crisis, there are only seven hours of time left. A blown engine or other serious mechanical problems could knock one of the five veterans out of the 33-car field.

Unser, who won here in 1970 and 1971, said, "There's nothing you can do about it but just hope it doesn't happen. If you have any problems the morning of qualifications, you are just out of luck."

Johncock and Andretti set the pace in Thursday's surprisingly light practice session. In all, 26 drivers made practice runs, but most of them were running in the 170s.

Johncock could do no better than 184.049 miles an hour, leaving him more than seven miles off A.J. Foyt's 191.632 m.p.h. that currently sits on the pole.

Brett Really Does His Job In Victory

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Hitting against Ken Brett may not be as tough as pitching against him.

The Pittsburgh Pirate lefthander can throw a baseball as hard as most pitchers in the big leagues—but he also hits as hard as most hitters.

Brett raised his batting average to .538 and his pitching average to .500 Thursday night while helping the Pirates beat the Chicago Cubs 5-2.

"Hitting has helped me get where I am," Brett said after collecting two singles and knocking in two runs. "I'm not the kind of pitcher that's going to have a 1.09 earned run average. I've got to help myself anyway I can and hitting does it for me. I take pride in my hitting."

Brett, who didn't stick around to pitch a complete game, stayed around long enough to get the victory—his third in six decisions.

In the other National League games, the New York Mets stopped the St. Louis Cardinals 6-4; the Philadelphia Phillies trimmed the Montreal Expos 63 and the Atlanta Braves bombed the San Diego Padres 11-1.

In the American League, the Kansas City Royals defeated the Texas Rangers 5-3 and the Chicago White Sox nipped the Oakland A's 4-3.

Shortstop Mario Mendoza collected the first three hits of his major league career, combining with Brett to lead the Pittsburgh victory.

The Pirates forged a 2-0 lead in the second inning off loser Ken Frailing, 2-3. Richie Hebner and Mendoza triggered the rally with two-out singles.

A single by Brett knocked in Hebner and Mendoza came home with the second run when Brett was momentarily caught in a rundown play before first and second base. Brett made it safely to second.

Hebner and Mendoza also ignited a two-run rally in the fourth. Brett drove in one of the runs with a bloop single to center and another one scored on Al Oliver's single.

Mendoza singled in the sixth and scored another Pirate run with the help of sloppy Chicago infield play.

Mets 6, Cardinals 4

Don Hahn hit a two-run homer and Teddy Martinez pounded a two-run double, rallying New York past St. Louis. Losing 2-0, the Mets were ignited by Hahn's homer in the second inning. Martinez followed with a two-run double in the fifth, when the Mets chased St. Louis starter John Curtis with a four-run explosion.

Phillies 6, Expos 3

Tommy Hutton drove in five runs with two homers and a single, leading Philadelphia past Montreal.

Hutton gave the Phillies their first run with a single following Del Unser's double in the first inning. The first baseman then hit a three-run homer in the third and a bases-empty shot in the fifth.

Hutton's performance, the best run-producing effort of his major league baseball career, helped Steve Carlton win his fourth game in seven decisions.

Braves 11, Padres 1

Marty Perez drove in six runs with a single, double and home run and Carl Morton pitched a six-hitter, leading Atlanta past San Diego. The Braves shelled Rich Troedson and three other San Diego pitchers for 16 hits.

Royals 5, Rangers 3

John Mayberry hit a mammoth, two-run homer and Hal McRae slammed a bases-empty shot, powering Kansas City over Texas.

The defeat was the third in a row for the Rangers' Ferguson Jenkins, 6-4, who was relieved for the first time this season after Mayberry's 440-foot blast in the sixth inning.

White Sox 4, A's 3

Home runs by Buddy Bradford and Ken Henderson carried Chicago over Oakland in a game shortened to seven innings by rain.

Dodger Trades Are Paying Off

By RON ROACH
AP Sports Writer

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The trades that brought Jim Wynn and Mike Marshall to the Los Angeles Dodgers last winter stand out as two of the best moves Al Campanis ever made.

And some of the players he didn't trade as general manager of the Dodgers are paying dividends for the hottest team in major league baseball.

Wynn, who has slugged 12 home runs and driven in 35 runs, and Marshall, who has already pitched in 20 of the Dodgers 36 games, are two prominent reasons for the Dodgers' sensational getaway of 26-9.

They led second-place San Francisco by 7½ games Thursday and take a nine-game winning streak into tonight's game against Atlanta at Dodger Stadium.

"It's a combination of everything," Campanis said.

"These things are part of anybody's job," he said, refusing to stand in the spotlight for the trades that sent centerfielder Willie Davis to Montreal for Marshall and pitcher Claude Osteen to Houston for centerfielder Wynn. "A lot of people are involved."

But when Campanis discusses Dodger power, infield stability, bench strength, he also brings up names of players who wanted —or still want—to be traded but are still Dodgers.

"Last year, Steve Garvey and Tom Paciorek came to me and indicated they were not playing. In a gentlemanly fashion, they asked if I could find them better situations in other organizations. Our response was, 'just be patient.' And sure enough, both started playing more and making contributions."

Catcher Steve Yeager also yearned for a place to play, but he has caught 14 games this season as Joe Ferguson fought a batting slump. The Dodgers won all 14.

Campanis isn't ruling out more trades this season because "you never know when someone will come up and overwhelm you with an offer." But he's had a pat hand since last winter's Marshall-Davis deal.

Jack Nicklaus has won the Masters golf tournament four times.

Sauve Is Champion

Jane Sauve captured first place in the Brook Valley Women's Golf Championship, completed yesterday.

Mrs. Sauve also was the winner of the handicap tournament, making her the first to win these two major women's tournaments back-to-back at the club.

Sandra Smith was the runner-up for the championship flight.

Jan Woodworth took first place in the first flight, while Maxine Hawley finished second. In the second flight, Evelyn Ward beat out Mary Meade Powell for first place.

The third flight went to Mary Frances Edgerley, while Vertie King was the runner-up. Peggy Hallow on the fourth flight, over Janet McGlohon.

Following a luncheon, new officers for the coming year were named for the Ladies Golf Association. Jan Woodworth will serve as president, while Ann Moon was elected vice-president and Ruth Billica will serve as secretary-treasurer.

The ladies also set up two further events. On May 23, starting at 9 p.m., a tournament will be held for the winners of the Ace of Aces Tournaments that took place during the past year.

Then, on May 30, at 1 p.m., a covered dish luncheon for all golfers who participated in the Ladies Championship tournament will be held at the home of Jeanette Thomas. Trophies for the tournament will be awarded at that time.

Briefs

ITHACA, N.Y. (AP) — Larry Ballinger was named Thursday as defensive line coach at Cornell University under head football coach Jack Musick.

Ballinger, 36, has been a defensive aide on the Notre Dame football staff for the past six years. He will replace Paul Pawlak, who was named head coach at Tufts University last month.

AKRON, Ohio (AP) — The $75,000 Professional Bowling Association National Championship at Downey, Calif., will inaugurate the PBA 12-city summer tour on June 2.

First prize is $9,000, and the finals will be carried on national televison (CBS), the PBA announced Thursday.

National Tournament Director Harry Golden said that total prize money on the summer tour will be more than $600,000. The tour winds up in Detroit on Sept. 3.

White In Golf Win

The Greenville Golf and Country Club held its Ladies Club Championship Tournament on Tuesday and Thursday.

Harriette White captured first place in the championship flight, firing a 36-hole total of 168. Second place went to Mrs. White's daughter, Mary Dale White, who finished with a 174.

Dardie Longino took the first flight with a 186, while Julia Painter took second place with a 192.

In the second flight, Pell Fulp fired a 202 to take the title. Eleanor Ruffin finished second with a 208.

The third flight championship went to Jane Joyner, who carded a 205. Kay Whichard finished second with a 229.

Patsy Ward won the fourth flight with a 229, while Betty Kittrell was second with a 231.

Different Views After Game Tied

By JOE MOOSHIL
AP Sports Writer

CHICAGO (AP) — It all depends on which side of the score you're on when a game is finally called because of rain.

"We could have played the last 45 minutes," said Manager Alvin Dark of the Oakland A's after the rain had washed out a 4-4 tie and the game reverted to seven innings giving the Chicago White Sox a 4-3 victory.

"They waited long enough," said Manager Chuck Tanner of the White Sox. "The outfield was a quagmire and in addition to a continuous rain there was the lightning."

The White Sox had a 4-3 lead going into the top of the eighth when Angel Mangual opened with a single and pinch runner Herb Washington promptly stole second base. Galen Pitts then singled to left sending Washington home with the tying run just as a rottential rain hit.

Play was halted and the umpires waited one hour and 26 minutes before finally calling the contest.

"They were waiting just to make it look good," said Dark. "That's an artificial turf in the infield and they didn't even bother to look at it. I can understand it if the score were lopsided but here we have two teams fighting for the league lead."

The circumstances enabled Wilbur Wood to post his first victory over the A's since September of 1972 after seven straight losses but Wood, boosting his record to 6-5.

Ken Holtzman started for the A's and was the loser as his record dipped to 3-5.

The victory gave the first-place Sox a one-game lead over the A's in the American League West.

McGEE WAS FIRST

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Max McGee racked up the first touchdown in Super Bowl history, crossing the goal line on a 37-yard pass from Bart Starr in the first period of Super Bowl I against the Kansas City Chiefs in 1967.

AWARD PRESENTED—Nan Lancaster Battle, Jr. is the recipient of the annual William L. Putnam Mathematical Competition conducted each year by the ECU Mathematics Dept. The award was presented to Ms. Battle by Dr. Lokenath Debanth, professor of mathematics and director of the ECU Competition, at a meeting of the Mathematics Dept. on May 13. (Pictured L to R: Dr. Tullio J. Pignani, Chairman of the Mathematics Dept., Mrs. Mildred H. Derrick, Chairperson of the Mathematics Awards Committee, and Chairperson of the University Scholarship and Financial Aid Committee.)

Three Math Students Honored By ECU Dept.

Three senior students have been selected for recognition by the East Carolina University Department of Mathematics.

They are Debra Lynn Stocks of Greenville, Linda Vann Lassister of Smithfield and Nan Lancaster Battle Jr. of Rocky Mount.

Miss Stocks and Mrs. Lassiter are co-recipients of the annual departmental "Outstanding Senior" Award. Both have perfect 4.0 averages in mathematics and better than 3.9 averages overall.

Miss Stocks was also recognized by the department as most outstanding woman mathematics student during the campus Women's Awareness Week earlier this spring and by the area Phi Beta Kappa alumni for outstanding scholarship.

She is a member of Phi Mu Epsilon, Chi Beta Phi, Psi Chi and Phi Kappa Phi honor societies and is a performer in the campus marching band, the Marching Pirates.

Her parents are Mr. and Mrs. L. D. Stocks of Greenville.

Mrs. Lassiter has been a four-year recipient of an ECU Academic Scholarship and is a student member of the campus Scholarship and Financial Aid Committee. She is cited in "Who's Who Among Students in American Colleges and Universities," and has been recognized by local Phi Beta Kappa alumni.

Ms. Battle is the 1974 ECU recipient of the annual William L. Putnam Mathematical Competition.

The competition consists of a six-hour test in all areas of mathematics which is administered each year to recognize superior ability in mathematics among college students.

$45,600 Grant

Congressman Walter B. Jones announced today the approval of a grant of $45,600 to the Mideast Economic Development Commission to continue a program of planning for long-range economic growth and new jobs in a five county area of North Carolina.

These counties include Beaufort, Bertie, Hertford, Martin and Pitt. Local county interests will provide $15,200 to complete the $60,800 total cost of the program.

Pre-Publication Experience Told

Dean Painter, currently chairman of the Air and Water Resources Department at Pitt Technical Institute, is the author of a recently published textbook.

In January of this year, Reston Publishing Company (a Prentice-Hall Company) published Painter's book, Air Pollution Technology.

In recognition of the honor of having the book published, the Pitt Tech library staff has prepared a display case containing early drafts, galley proofs, author-publisher correspondence, and an article relating to pre-publication experiences—An Interesting Thing Happened On The Way To The Printer.

It is the concensus of the library staff that the display of Painter's material would be of interest to any who may have reached the "Think I will write a book stage."

Air Pollution Technology was written to provide a basic introduction to the fundamentals of air pollution technology for students enrolled in health and envioronmental science programs. (The book is available from Reston Publishing Company, Inc., c-o Prentice-Hall, Inc., Englewood Cliffs, N. J. 07632 at a cost of $13.95.)

Painter came to Pitt Technical Institute in 1971 as Administrative Assistant to Dr. William E. Fulford, the institute's president. His major duty was that of staff planning which resulted in the establishment of the Air and Water Resources Technology Department in 1972.

Although this is Painter's first published textbook, he has written a number of articles for various education and technical publications.

Mansion For The Prince

LONDON (AP) — Prince Charles, the 25-year-old heir to the British throne, is getting a 17th century mansion with 115 rooms and 3,000 acres of grounds for his bachelor pad.

"Most young men would expect to have their own home by the time they are his age. He will appreciate a place of his own," said an official at Buckingham Palace.

"Marriage rumors surrounding the prince have nothing to do with his decision to take the place," the spokesman added, referring to press speculation that Charles is planning to marry Lady Jane Wellesley, the 23-year-old daughter of the Duke of Wellington.

The mansion is Chevening House, near Sevenoaks, 25 miles southeast of London. It was willed to the nation by the Earl of Stanhope, who died without an heir in 1967. He asked in his will that Charles be invited to live there.

Would Ban All Coal Exports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Ken Hechler, D-W.Va. has urged Congress to ban all exports of U.S. coal except to Canada "at a time when coal is critically in demand to meet the nation's energy needs."

Hechler said he was dismayed at recent National Coal Association figures showing that total U.S. exports of bituminous coal in the first three months of 1974 increased 18 per cent from shipments in the same period of 1973.

"Did you ever hear of anything so crazy as stepping up the exports of coal at a time when we are suffering more and more damage from strip-mining?" Hechler asked.

SAT Results Please Academy Headmaster

Pace Academy today released results of the Stanford Achievement Tests (SAT) given to students in grades 1-9 in March of this year.

The test results which included scores in mathematics, reading, language, social studies and science showed that average grade scores for Pace Academy far exceeded national test score averages.

"To say the least, I'm very pleased with the test results," Headmaster William Lee stated. "They affirm that we have a first rate educational program. The proof of any program is the results it produces."

Lee noted that the Stanford Achievement Tests are highly regarded by educators and are used in the testing programs of the better public and private schools. Lee also explained that scores on the tests are expressed for grades 2-8 in grade equivalents for the grade level on which the student is achieving and for high school students in percentile rank, with 50 as a national mean.

An especially impressive showing was made in reading, that area of academics which Mr. Lee considers to be most important. Scores for grades 2-6, the grades for which reading tests were given, showed an average grade equivalent of about one year above the national average.

In mathematics grades 2-8 scored up to a year and a half ahead of the national average in grade equivalent, with the average for all grades at Pace scoring seven months above the national average.

In science grade averages for the school overall were almost a year above the national averages for equivalent grades. For example, the average grade equivalent for the Pace eighth graders was 9th grade fifth month in science. Social studies scores ranged up to a year and a quarter ahead of the national grade equivalent average, with the average Pace grade being better than six months ahead of the national man.

Pace Academy gives the SAT each fall and each spring for the purpose of evaluating the achievement progress of its students.

Trio Sentenced In Bank Holdup

WILSON, N.C. (AP)—Three Washington, D.C., men have been sentenced to prison terms in connection with the $7,670 robbery of a branch of the First Citizens Bank and Trust Co. in Goldsboro last Jan. 25.

U. S. Eastern District Court Judge John Larkins sentenced Larry Darnell Massey, 20, to 20 years on a bank robbery charge Thursday after a jury found him guilty.

Two men who had entered guilty pleas earlier were sentenced on armed bank robbery charges. They were Walter Lee Evans, 24, sentenced to 20 years; and Anthony Charles Artis, 21, given an 18-year sentence.

Charged With Mule Larceny

Greenville Police yesterday charged Henry Johnson of 502 West 12th St. with larceny of a mule.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the 23-year-old Johnson allegedly took the animal, owned by William Chance of 310 Tyson St. from a North Railroad Street lot about 12:30 p.m.

Johnson was taken into custody and the mule recovered on Fleming Street about 5:30 p.m.

The Worry Clinic

'Antidote' For Our Cynicism

George was an escapee from the Turkish massacre of Armenia and fled to this Mecca of Freedom as a modern Horatio Alger hero, he offers an inspiring antidote to the Watergate nausea and cynicism regarding politicians. Heed Prof. Barber's comments!

By GEORGE W. CRANE, Ph.D., M.D.

CASE A-635: George Mardikian should be familiar to every high school and college student.

For he came to America as a teen-ager in 1922, with tremendous admiration for this great Republic and its superb "Free Enterprise" system.

"He is truly the modern Horatio Alger," Prof. Margaret Barber told me recently at lunch.

"For he believes in Woodrow Wilson's motto, namely, that all any American should desire is a free field and no favors.

"So he started doing any honest manual work that he could find, including washing dishes at a restaurant.

"He married a wonderful wife when he was 26, and she helped him found his famous Omar Khayyam's Restaurant at San Fransicso.

"Dr. Crane, I made a 60-minute movie of Mr. Mardikian which I show to my students here at El Camino College.

"And they are fascinated by his comments, as well as inspired by his rugged defense of 'Free Enterprise.'

"So please urge all teachers to cite Mr. Mardikian as the symbol of this great country, which is the Mecca for oppressed people all over the rest of this planet."

George Mardikian offers you a tonic for your soul when you hear his staunch defense of this country or read his inspiring book, titled "Song of America."

Heidi Hirschman, talented Hoosier book reviewer, has thrilled audiences of over 2,000 women when she has portrayed that "Song of America."

It alternated laughter with tears and leaves every audience enthralled.

For it is the saga of an immigrant boy who escaped death in Armenia and arrived in America as a devout worshiper of our freedoms so tersely codified in the U.S. Constitution.

You readers are familiar with the fact that most of us native Americans fail to appreciate the paradise into which we have been born.

So a talented newcomer like George Mardikian can wake up and combat the insidious erosion of patriotism that has been occuring in this liberal, permissive generation.,

If you thrill when you hear "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," you will likewise experience a tonic to your soul when you see Prof. Barber's movie or read George Mardikian's "Song of America."

As superb vaccination against the Watergate nausea and growing cynicism for Washington politicians, I prescribe George Mardikian.

He is now an orator for Americanism, donating his speaking fees to the Boy Scouts, which he considers a splendid organization for building respect for this Republic.

Every high school might very properly show Prof. Barber's splendid movie of George Mardikian, as an antidote for the negative carping and criticisms that are sabotaging this country.

George Markikian advocates positive thinking and hard work (elbow grease), plus honesty and intelligent patriotism.

As an escapee of Turkish massacres in Armenia, this immigrant boy's saga of success in our wonderful country is as inspiring as a Billy Graham evangelistic sermon!

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Opening lead: King of ♡

Declarer took full advantage of a slight defensive lapse to bring home a doubled contract that seemed headed for defeat.

South's rebid of two spades is fully in keeping with modern theory. Had he passed instead, he would have indicated a willingness to punish the opponents in their escape suit, but his highly distributional opening hand was really unsuited to anything but play in spades. North made a move towards game, and East felt it was time to show where his values were.

West led the king of hearts and, after a look at dummy, elected to shift to a club. While this was not unreasonable, a shift to the diamond king would have led inexorably to a one-trick defeat no matter how declarer wriggled. South won the queen of clubs, and it was tempting to cash the king of clubs, cross to the ace of spades and try to get a diamond discard on the ace of clubs. This line would not have succeeded, for East would ruff the ace of clubs and declarer would have to lose two trumps and two diamonds.

However, declarer found an alternative method that did not depend on a 4-3 club break. He overtook the king of clubs with the ace and led the queen of hearts, discarding a diamond from his hand. West won the ace of hearts and shifted to the king of diamonds, but it was too late. Declarer took the ace, entered dummy with the ace of trumps and discarded his remaining diamond on the jack of hearts. It was now a simple matter to lead a trump from dummy, and the only other tricks for the defense were two tricks in the trump suit. Declarer thus limited his losses to two trumps and two hearts, and made his contract.

FORECAST FOR SATURDAY, MAY 18, 1974

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: The very early part of the day is excellent for whatever requires attention to the lighter side of life and for shopping and doing errands. Later you find a decided likelihood of separations between congenial persons

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) You are so very emotional today that you could stir up a hornet's nest of indecision, so take it easy and cool off Be poised

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) Don't permit some secret annoyance to keep you out of business or social activity that is important to you Don't lose your temper

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Plan your hours properly so that you can visit friends and handle business matters wisely. Try not to spend more than you can afford

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Making sure you keep ethical where career matters are concerned is important now Don't neglect to pay a pressing bill

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) Be sure to use good judgment in handling a civic matter Keep a promise you have made. Look into a new project that pleases you

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) Forget business matters now and be more interested in the recreational side of life. Show more affection for mate and avoid a rift.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) Avoid a fracas between an official and a friend, otherwise you could get the brunt of the quarrel Know what others expect of you

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) You have a problem that requires the advice of an expert in order to solve it properly. Don't trust your hunches in the morning

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) Difficulties could arise that will stand in the way of your wishes so get rid of them early. An expert can give you good advice

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) There is much confusion at home and you can't get a clear picture of it, so wait until tomorrow before doing anything about it.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) Use extreme care in motion and avoid a possible accident Find a new system for handling household chores. Take it easy tonight

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) You want to increase your income but it's wise to study new methods before going ahead with your plans. Spend less money on pleasure.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY he or she will want to be active in the outside world as well as at home, so teach early to make a plan whereby both desires can be satisfied. As parents you need to give praise where it is deserved. Musical studies can please the emotional side of this nature. Religious training brings happiness into this life

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Driving Test Law Revised

RALEIGH (AP)—State Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Boyd Miller Junior pointed out today that the 1974 General Assembly amended the Driver's License Law to eliminate both written and road tests for most persons applying for renewal of their driver's licenses.

Miller noted that the tests have been eliminated except for drivers convicted of a traffic violation or receiving a prayer for judgment continued verdict in a traffic case during the previous four years.

Miller said that the law does not change the medical evaluation program and that anyone with a physical or mental handicap which impairs his ability to drive will still be tested.

Inside the ears of the cats are tiny hairs that catch the most minute vibrations in the air, alerting the animal to movements even before it sees them.

Howard received training in fundamental military subjects, chemical, biological and radiological defense, and in the servicing, maintenance and operation of the flamethrower and smoke generating equipment.

LITTLE BOY, BIG TURNIP. . .Remember the old children's tale about the man who found a turnip so big he had to line up people and animals behind him to get enough manpower to pull it up? This is not exactly the case here, but two year old Michael Pilgreen of Pactolus, who weighs in at 35 pounds, thinks he has a mighty big specimen in this three and a quarter pound turnip. It grew to this unusual size in the tobacco plant bed of his grandfather, Clifton Pilgreen of Pactolus. (Reflector photo by Tommy Forrest).

Pvt. Willie L. Roach, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gus Roach of Rt. 1, Vanceboro, participated in a yearly tank gunnery qualification test at Ft. Stewart, Ga. Tar Heel Tells 6-Week Ordeal In Spanish Prison

By JOE BROWN
Editor, High Point Enterprise
Copyright by The Enterprise

HIGH POINT, N.C. (AP)—For Thomas Braxton McKenzie, 22, member of a prominent High Point family, six weeks in a provincial Spanish prison after hashish had been found on a traveling companion was a mental hell.

While he lost 20 pounds on a starchy, meager prison diet, he agonized over a Spanish system of justice that took six weeks for a judge to decide–on the same evidence that was available immediately–that no charge should be made against him and he should be released.

For the Davidson College senior, brought up under the United States system of democratic justice, there had been no hearing, no right to legal counsel or to swift arraignment, no opportunity to testify in his own behalf.

He arrived home this week determined that his story must be told to young Americans. He brought with him an oral agreement with cellmates--Belgian, French, English and South American--to share with the world the facts of the Spanish system of justice and the dangers of traveling in that country.

His thoughts during his weeks of waiting are summed up in a note he wrote and stuck in his pocket: "We sit and anticipate the watching of our future uncontrollably leaving our grasps; and in agony we can do nothing."

McKenzie is grateful for the kindness and compassion of the few nongovernmental Spaniards he met. But he is bitter toward a system in which he says charges are trumped up or misstated and presented as fact by border guards whose professional standing rises and falls with their "catches."

Most of all, he recoils from a judicial system which he feels is oriented toward the conclusion of guilty until proven innocent.

He will go back to school in the fall, and perhaps soon he will be ready to travel some more. However, he is resolved never to cross Spanish soil again. "The risks are simply too great," he says.

Meanwhile, the traveling companion, for whom the fictional name of Steve Hanford will be used in this account until he can return home and tell his own story, is still in the provincial prison at Gerona.

McKenzie believes that because of the very small amount of hashish found on Hanford, and no real evidence that he was trafficking in drugs, the order from the judge indicates that Hanford will be turned over to a Court of Social Rehabilitation. He also believes the probable penalty will be expulsion from the country, and perhaps a fine.

How long this process will take is anybody's guess.

Last October, McKenzie and Hanford won permission from their parents to put off their final year of college to "do Europe." McKenzie had been on a guided tour of the Continent, and was ready to try it on his own.

They traveled and worked in Europe for five months. Finally they were on the last leg of their journey, driving across Spain into France and then on to Luxembourg, where they would use the rest of their round-trip tickets for an Icelandic Airlines journey back to the United States.

On March 27 they had breakfast in a small cafe on the edge of Barcelona. They struck up a conversation with several English-speaking young people. From that chance meeting came the disastrous ending to their season of fun.

McKenzie relates the crucial events which followed:

"I went on out to see about getting the car serviced, and left Steve talking to the boys we'd met. When he came out a few minutes later, he showed me a small block of hashish wrapped in a piece of plastic. He stuck it into his coat pocket."

Hashish is a drug product from the same plant which produces marijuana. It is several times stronger than marijuana, and its possession and use are illegal in most of the world.

"I knew what the risks were," McKenzie continues. "And my first impuse was to tell Steve to ditch the 'hash' or go on alone. I have spent every hour of every day since asking myself over and over why I remained in the car. But the fact is, I did. We were on the way home after a really fabulous trip in which we had no previous trouble and only good fortune. Besides, I reasoned to myself that it was his and in his possession, the car was in his name and he was driving, and if he got caught I was in no way involved. It was his cookie and he could eat it."

For the first time since their travels had begun, the check at La Junguera at the border between Spain and France was anything but a simple wave-through with a cursory glance at passports. Long-haired and bearded, the two travelers seemed to raise instant belligerance from the Spanish border guards.

They were ordered out of their car and thoroughly searched. The hashish was found immediately. The guards also took several watches that McKenzie had bought in Switzerland. He had a bill of sale for them, and they had been passed through at other borders, including the one into Spain.

He never did get the watches back, and before his release a fine of $180 had to be paid for them.

McKenzie speaks no Spanish, the border guards no English. Hanford's sketchy Spanish provided what little understanding there was.

A half-hour's tortured conversation produced a guard's written statement in Spanish which McKenzie and Hanford reluctantly and uncomprehendingly signed.

They were later to learn that the paper described, among other things, a fictional stay of several months in Spain buying and selling drugs and smuggled watches. About the only truthful item, as McKenzie understood it, was a statement that he had had no drugs in his possession and had nothing to do with the hashish found in Hanford's pocket.

Within a day or two a United States vice consul from Barcelona visited them in jail and got off a message to Hanford's parents.

However, McKenzie, in the belief that he would be freed quickly, chose to keep his plight from his parents. It was three weeks later, after his regular cards and letters had stopped, and after his parents had been in touch with the Hanfords and had made a telephone call to the American consulate in Barcelona, that they learned what had happened to him.

His father arrived in Gerona on May 1 to help him. On May 8 the judge signed the release order. More waiting for functionaries to perform their paper work delayed his release one more day.

Coming Demo Events Listed

Henry Oglesby of Grifton, chairman of the Pitt Democratic Executive Committee, announced a schedule of upcoming Democratic Party events.

Oglesby said that the party's Down East'er fund raising dinner is scheduled for June 8 in Wilmington and persons who wish to secure tickets should call him or county treasurer Charles McLawhorn. Pitt's ticket quota for the dinner is $1,000 he reported.

On June 18 (Tuesday) at 8 p.m., precinct conventions will be held at each of the county's 27 voting precincts. Oglesby said that the June 18 sessions are required by party regulations and all precincts in the state will be meeting at the same hour.

The Pitt biennial county convention is scheduled for June 29 at 2 p.m. as delegates and alternates to the district and state conventions, will be elected.

The county's authorized four members on the state executive committee, it was pointed out, and those four seats will be filled by vote at the county convention. Some 280 members serve on the committee, statewide.

The district convention will be held on July 20, Oglesby reported, but a definite site for the meeting has not been set. District delegates will select two persons to attend the Democratic Mini Convention in Kansas City early in December and district officers will also be elected, the chairman added. Lorimer Midgett of Elizabeth City is serving as temporary chairman of the district convention.

The state convention will be held Aug. 3 in Raleigh, beginning at 11 a.m. Oglesby said that the convention will probably be held at Dorton Arena but the site has not been verified at this time.

Pitt County will be expected to select a chairman to head the county's participation in the 1974 national Democratic Telethon, Oglesby added. The telethon will be held sometime around July 1.

AFROTC Awards Ceremonies Held

Senior cadet Thomas W. Shubert was awarded the Daughters of the American Revolution Medal Tuesday in awards ceremonies for the 600th Air Force ROTC Cadet Group at East Carolina University.

The medal to Cadet Col. Shubert was presented by Mrs. Howard A. I. Sugg, Regent of the Major Benjamin May Chapter, DAR. The award is based on good character and dependability, adherence to all military discipline, leadership and ability, and a fundamental and patriotic understanding of the importance of ROTC training.

Schubert, a graduating senior at ECU, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Shubert, 174 Cottage Blvd., Hicksville, N. Y.

American Legion ROTC General Military Excellence Awards were presented to Cadet William P. Peterson of the senior class and Cadet Benjamin G. Hilburn of the junior class. These awards were presented by Owen Kingsbury of the Pitt County American Legion Post 39. The awards are based on ranking in the upper 25 per cent of the Cadet Aerospace Studies Class, and demonstrated qualities of military leadership, discipline, character and citizenship.

The Military Order of the World War Medal was presented to Cadet Charles R. Lipe of the senior class by Maj. Gen. John A. Lang Jr., Vice Chancellor for External Affairs, ECU.

The Military Order of the World Wars Ribbons were presented by Gen. Lang to Cadets Harry K. Birch of the junior class, Ronald C. Stewart of the sophomore class and John M. McAllister of the freshman class.

The following awards will be presented by Colonel Earl D. Bruton Jr., Professor of Aerospace Studies, AFROTC Detachment 600, East Carolina University:

Daughters of the Founders and Patriots of America Award - Cadet Kerry D. Bowers;

Reserve Officer's Association Medal - Cadet William L. Spivey;

Reserve Officer's Association Certificate - Cadet Patrick E. Oren;

Sons of the American Revolution Medal - Cadet Charles G. Duke;
