

Prison Ordered For Magruder

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) —
Jeb Stuart Magruder, the No. 2 man in President Nixon's reelection campaign was sentenced today to serve at least 10 months in prison for helping plan the Watergate break-in, bugging and cover-up.

U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ordered that Magruder serve a 10-month to four-year term in a minimum security institution and gave him until June 4 to surrender himself.

Magruder was the first Nixon insider to publicly admit his own involvement in the Watergate case and the first to publicly accuse others in the cover-up.

"My ambition obscured my judgement," Magruder told Sirica in a brief statement. He said he still doesn't know he surrendered "my moral precepts."

"I know what I have done," Magruder told the judge, "I'm confident the country will survive its Watergates and its Jeb Magruders."

Outside the courthouse, Magruder told reporters:

"I can't say I'm looking forward to going to prison but I accept it. Hopefully, the public will accept the fact that I've paid a penalty for my part in Watergate."

Magruder's lawyer, James E. Sharp, told the judge that Magruder has already been punished in the 13 months since he first told of his role in Watergate to federal prosecutors.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon is facing a new subpoena threat from the House Judiciary Committee unless he agrees to turn over tapes and other material relating to the dairy fund and ITT matters.

The White House promised to reply Monday to the committee's April 19 request for the material, but sent word last night it would respond today. Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., has said he will seek a subpoena if the evidence is not forthcoming.

Nixon also must reply Wednesday to an earlier committee subpoena for 11 Watergate tapes.

Nixon's deepening tape troubles overshadowed today's resumption of the Judiciary Committee's impeachment hearings, now zeroing in on the crucial March 1973 stage of the Watergate cover-up.

The committee, continuing in closed session despite White House demands that hearings be opened, is expected to hear today a tape of a March 13, 1973, presidential conversation with John W. Dean III and one-time White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman.

The panel will then hear — today if time permits or otherwise on Wednesday — a tape of

Nixon Promises Reply Today Poise Another Subpoena

Nixon's March 21, 1973, conversation with Dean, his former White House counsel.

The March 21 conversation, during which Nixon and Dean discussed the payment of money to convicted Watergate burglar E. Howard Hunt to keep him quiet, is regarded by some members as the key to whether Nixon will be linked to the cover-up.

Also important to Nixon's chances of avoiding impeachment, however, is his response to the committee's subpoena on Wednesday, and any new ones that may be issued.

"It is going to be difficult for anyone to vote to exonerate him if he doesn't produce what we think is necessary," Rep. Tom Railsback of Illinois, an influential GOP member, told newsmen. "I've been trying to get that message through."

Nixon notified the committee two weeks ago he would not give it any more Watergate material. The committee has requested 76 Watergate tapes and is expected to issue subpoenas for the others as the need arises during the presentation of evidence.

Rep. Charles Wiggins, R-Calif., who keeps close ties to the White House, said he thought Nixon again might offer the committee edited transcripts instead of tapes, a course he followed April 29 in response to a committee subpoena for 42 Watergate conversations.

Wiggins added, however, that he hoped Nixon also would supply tapes of key parts of any conversation to help the committee understand them. He said tapes the committee has heard of conversations covered in the White House transcripts benefit Nixon.

The explosives deleted are much milder than anyone imagined and the general tone conveys an impression of casual, off-hand conversation, not the seemingly intense ones indicated by the transcripts, he said.

Strikers Open Fire On Police

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Protestant strikers opened fire with automatic weapons today on police who tried to dismantle street barricades blocking the flow of traffic into the city.

No injuries were reported in the incident on Connswater street in East Belfast, the first armed confrontation between police and strikers in a Protestant-led general strike now in its seventh day.

City Schools And PTI Link Raised

By JERRY RAYNOR
Reflector Staff Writer

The possibility of the development in the future of a joint Greenville City Schools-Pitt Technical Institute occupational program may be in the making. Superintendent of City Schools Glenn Cox reported on this matter to school board members Monday night.

Such an effort, Dr. William E. Fulford, Jr., president of Pitt Tech noted in a recent letter to Cox, "seems a very feasible concept."

Dr. Fulford wrote that he and some of his staff have been in communication with Mrs. Ann Harrison, who is director of the city's Optional School Program. This program provides academic and occupational training for drop-outs from both junior and senior high school level.

"It is our opinion that if the Third Street facility were designated as a vocational center a very productive and beneficial joint program could be implemented," Dr. Fulford wrote.

"This is really a big step forward," Cox told the board members.

On the current Optional School program, Mrs. Harrison reported that enrollment is now at a maximum capacity of 43 with additional students having been contacted. Also, 15 students have been placed in jobs, and 19 businesses have been contacted and job placements arranged.

Another program, the Autistic Program conducted in a mobile unit at Elmhurst with funds financed by the University of North Carolina through a 1971 N.C. Sessions Law, was discussed. Board member Dr. James Beardean, while praising the program, raised the question of the use of a Greenville mobile unit for the six students in the Autistic Program in relation to the shortage of classroom space in the school system. Cox said he would have the representative of the program present at the June meeting to provide additional information for the board.

The state furnishes funding for the teacher and the teacher aide, who are also authorized to assist the city schools in other special programs during times when they are not actively involved with the six autistic students. There are only two such programs in the eastern area of the state. The other one is at Wilmington.

During the time allotted for non-agenda public expressions, Dr. Thomas H. Johnson, an associate professor of Health and Physical Education, East Carolina University, spoke about two matters he said were of grave concern. One related to plans outlined in the Greenville Thoroughfare Plan relative to extending Overlook Drive through Elmhurst playground and the university's mural field.

The second subject Dr. Johnson spoke on was the crowded conditions at Aycock Junior High School. "There's too many students for the principal and all the assistants you could hire to properly administer," Dr.

Johnson said.

Saying he was the father of two children in the junior high age group, Dr. Johnson commented: "This is an unbelievably difficult age group. There's no other age group to compare with this one. They're seeking so many things at one time."

Dr. Johnson called on the school board to "give vigorous thought" to "making a change before next fall."

Cox reported that the budget had been presented to the Pitt County Commissioners, and that the commissioners had asked for a date to meet with school board members. Board members opted for a meeting to be held at 8:00 p.m. on Thursday, May 30.

Two board workshops were set for school planning and for curriculum matters. These are scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday, May 28 and 29.

On the use of Ficklen Stadium by Rose High during the coming school year, Cox reported that approval had been received for the team to use the stadium for four Friday night games and one Saturday night game.

Steve Norwood, an ECU student teacher and also an administrative intern at Elmhurst Elementary School, presented a color slide study of students and staff of the school entitled "School Sweet School," with a music score selected by David Steele. The presentation encompassed close up and group shots of students and teachers in a wide spectrum of school activities.

Cox presented a break down of the 1974-75 budget proposal for the Driver Training and Safety Education program. The total of $38,868.77 reflects two full time all year driver-teachers and eight summer time instructors, at a salary budget of $30,389.17. The amount for car operation expense has been adjusted upwards to $1,285 to com-

REFLECTOR HOTLINE

752-1336

Hotline is a public service provided by The Daily Reflector to solve problems and get things done for you. Hotline would like to be able to address itself to all inquiries, but because of the number received, will answer and publish only those considered most pertinent to our readers. Questions or sound-offs may be phoned in to the Hotline number, 752-1336 or mailed to The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

The Hotline tape is transcribed once each 24-hour recording period. For this reason persons phoning in items accepted for use may not be contacted until the day following their call. Names must be given, but only initials will be used.

RESERVATIONS HONORED

Last summer we went to Philadelphia to attend a convention. We had confirmed reservations with a Holiday Inn there, but when we arrived the Holiday Inn said they were completely booked and could not give us a room for the night. We were traveling with a party of five adults and one child. I have stayed in Holiday Inns many times before and have never had a problem like this. We are planning another trip and would like to make reservations with Holiday Inn, but can we be sure the reservations will be honored? M.A.

Hotline contacted the local Holiday Inn manager John Jones and Holiday Inn's main office in Memphis, Tenn. Jones told Hotline the policy is for the Inn booking a reservation to make all attempts to get the customer in at that particular Inn. However, if this cannot be done, the Inn should book the customer into the nearest motel with accommodations similar to Holiday Inn. If the price is higher, Holiday Inn should pay the difference. Robert Jones, customer relations director in Memphis told Hotline the person can also contact him personally when a situation like this arises at 901-362-4595. He or his office will take care of the matter immediately he said. He told Hotline all reservations are to be honored.

WHY ADULT PRICES FOR OVER 12's?

My son recently asked a good question—why are children 12 and over required to pay adult prices to get into movies when they cannot go to R- and X-rated movies? While I don't want him going to these pictures, I feel, since he is not treated by the theaters as an adult, he shouldn't have to pay adult prices. It seems like some sort of junior high and high school student ID card could be issued by the theaters, allowing a reduced rate for G and GP pictures. We have been told there were abuses of such systems in the past, but if a picture of the student were attached, that should solve the problem. E. C. P.

Plaza Cinema and Park Theater Manager Roy Griffin said the age limit has nothing to do with adulthood, as he sees it. "It's been the cutoff for price differentiation since before I started going to movies and that was a long time ago," he said. "The rules of the rating system of movie content were set up by the Motion Picture Association of America, and as a member of this organization, we try to abide by their rules."

James Jennings, manager of the Pitt Theater agreed with Griffin, adding, "Now if a parent wants his child under 17 to see an R- or X-rated movie, all he has to do is come with him and we'll be glad to let him go right in."

Both managers said their student ID systems tried in the past were not successful. Griffin said he had to deal with many abusers—suddenly everybody was a student at one institution or another. Jennings said he has and still will consign the sale of bulk tickets—usually $400 worth—to a school or institution if they want to afford their members or students a reduced rate or even make a profit for the organization, depending on how much they want to charge.

ACCOUNT ACCOUNTED FOR

A friend and I once had a joint checking account at Wachovia Bank. The friend has long since moved away, though she does stay with me when she comes back to Greenville to visit. I have wondered whether this account is still open, but have lost the account number. E.B.

Wachovia could find no record of this account, but once told that it was more than 15 years ago, the search for it was turned over to Wanda Hathaway in the bank's research department. She found that the account was closed out by the bank in November, 1968, following the policy of eliminating accounts not used for more than a year which hold less than $5. You may go to the bank's main office and be given the balance that was in your account—$2.09, and you may open a new account if you wish, a Wachovia spokesman said.

Richard Hudson lettered in four sports at Tarboro High School, and went on to be a member of both the track and football teams at N. C. State University.

Now he's turned his enthusiasm to weight-lifting—and he works out everyday—in his wheelchair. Or else he uses his powerful arms and upper torso to drag his paralyzed legs into position for a bench press. He can then raise more than 300 pounds into the air.

Richard's paraplegia began when he sustained a fractured spine in an automobile accident near his hometown of Tarboro. Instead of entering his junior year at State last September, he had a three-month stay at Pitt Memorial Hospital, and then went to the Rehabilitation Hospital in Winston-Salem.

"Richard is a Vocational Rehabilitation worker's dream," his VR counselor, Horace Lawrence said. "We

Summer Programs At City Schools Announced

The summer programs for the Greenville City Schools was announced at the school board meeting on Monday night.

There will be both an elementary and a secondary program, as well as the annual summer driver training program.

Dates and other details are:

—Secondary Summer School: For students in grades 7 through 12, Rose High School. Beginning date June 19, closing date July 31. July 4-5 will be holidays. The secondary summer school program will be a basically remedial program.

—Elementary Summer School: For students grades 1 through 6, Wahl-Coates School. Beginning date June 17, closing date July 26. This program is designed for both remedial and enrichment courses. Preference will be given to students in the Wahl-Coates area. However, in the event of an overflow of students, an additional teacher will be added.

—Driver Training Summer Program: Rose High School, beginning June 17 and continuing through August 9. Some classroom instruction, but predominantly behind the wheel training.

Applications for enrollment in the summer programs are being taken now, and all interested students or parents are urged to make arrangements at an early date.

Musical Program Given At Meet

Members of the Arts Department of the Greenville Woman's Club heard a program of music at their last meeting of the year.

Vickie Lyn Spargo, of East Carolina University and recipient of the Woman's Club scholarship, said a medley of songs. She was accompanied by Barry Robinson, also of ECU. They were introduced by Mrs. W. E. Roseveare.

Mrs. George Clapp, chairman, conducted the meeting and appointed a nominating committee, Mrs. George Snyder, Mrs. J. Con Lanier and Mrs. W. E. Avery.

For the devotional, Mrs. R. P. Rogers read an address given by Billy Graham at the Honor America Day in Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Etta Gill and Mrs. J. C. Galloway were hostesses for the meeting.

Reader Concerned About Word Usages

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Concerning the expression "to gyp" someone having come from the word "gypsy": My personal pet peeve is the phrase "he Jewed me down." And in this day of auctions, thrift shops, flea markets, etc., it is distressingly frequent.

My technique is to ask the "Jew-er downer" to teach me his bargaining technique because I'd like to know how to "Gentile" somebody down. All but the most thickheaded clods seem to get the message.

Let's hear it for good old Christian charity!

NANCY SENTER, L. A., CAL.

DEAR ABBY: I nearly weep every time I read a letter from a pregnant teen-ager pleading for help. So few people know that the sex act need not be completed in order to impregnate a female.

I was a medic in the service. When I got married, my ward doctor loaned me a medical book that he'd used in counseling young people. From that book I learned that when a man starts to get excited, a few drops of neutralizing fluid is released to neutralize any uric acid in the male urinary canal. It is nature's way of clearing a safe path for the delicate sperm cells to pass through at termination of the sex act.

Lab tests have shown that occasionally a few sperm cells are present in this fluid. It occurs most frequently in teen-agers, since this is when the male is at his peak of fertility.

Abby, please tell young people, if they plan to go beyond kissing and holding hands, they should take all the necessary measures a couple would for should take in preventing pregnancy. "Fooling around a little" can be just as dangerous as "going all the way."

I am a father and grandfather who is concerned about our youth, so if this information can help someone, you have my permission to change it any way you like so as not to offend anyone.

UNCLE STANLEY

DEAR UNCLE: I'll not change a word. I've written to thousands of frightened teen-agers personally advising them of this fact. Thank you for giving me the opportunity to publicize this valuable—but little known—information more broadly. Of course the ideal means of preventing pregnancy is abstinence, but realistic people know that the flesh is weak. I am not advocating "fooling around" but the punishment of unwanted pregnancies far outweighs the "crime."

Bridal Couple Honored At Dance-Breakfast

Thirty eight couples honored Miss Susan Hill and Todd Pair at a dance and breakfast Friday night at the Greenville Moose Lodge.

Host couples were Dr. and Mrs. Henry Aldridge, Mr. and Mrs. Garland Anderson, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Brody, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Byrd Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Edwin Clement, Mr. and Mrs. Riley Cox, Dr. and Mrs. Charles De Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. William Ellington III, Mr. and Mrs. John Farley, Mr. and Mrs. James Finch, Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Harris, Dr. and Mrs. William Hoots Jr., Mr. and Mrs. John Howard, Mr. and Mrs. Craven Hughes, Mr. and Mrs. Cletus Jackson Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Johnston, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Kavanaugh, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Laughinghouse, Mr. and Mrs. James Lee, Dr. and Mrs. Ray Martinez, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mattox, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Messner, Mr. and Mrs. Ford McGowan, Mr. and Mrs. Connor Merritt Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Charles Moye, Dr. and Mrs. Joseph Murad, Dr. and Mrs. Herbert Paschal Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Joe Pou, Judge and Mrs. J.W.H. Roberts, Dr. and Mrs. Charles Stevens, Mr. and Mrs. William Taft Jr., Dr. and Mrs. Allen Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Tipton Sr., Mr. and Mrs.

William Watson, Mr. and Mrs. Charles White Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wilkerson, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. Richard Worsley.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Trent Hill. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Percy Lee Pair. The high noon wedding of the couple is scheduled for Saturday, May 25, at Hooker Memorial Christian Church.

Upon arrival, the bride-elect was given a nosegay of mixed daisies with white satin streamers.

Two three-branched candelabra holding lighted rose tapers accented the arrangement of pink roses and other mixed spring flowers on the buffet table. Two floor baskets filled with boxwood, ivy and loquat provided the focal point in the foyer and ballroom. Wicker baskets holding summer flowers complemented the individual tables, where soft lighting was provided by burning lanterns.

About 325 friends of the bridal couple were invited to the dance-breakfast. Music was provided by the Band of Oz.

Special guests were Mrs. Percy Rook and Mrs. Doris Harrelson of Southport, grandmother and aunt respectively of the bridegroom.

2 medium-large zucchini, 1 pound
2 large carrots
1/2 cup water
1/4 cup butter
1/2 teaspoon salt
Scrub zucchini in cold water and cut off and discard ends; coarsely grate zucchini — there should be 4 cups not packed down. Pare carrots and coarsely grate — there should be 2 1/2 cups not packed down. Into a 10-inch skillet turn carrots and water; simmer, covered, until tender-crisp and water evaporates — 5 to 10 minutes. Add zucchini, butter (cut up) and salt; mix well. Cook rapidly, stirring often, just until zucchini is tender-crisp (it may not look transparent) and extremely hot — about 5 minutes; keep heat high so zucchini does not exude water.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

I'll call them Andy and Dot. Last year, they sent out invitations to a "Boring Party." A boring party is not unique. Everyone has been to a lot of them. But this one was planned.

Guests were asked to come prepared to bore everyone in a humorous way and were to be given ten minutes to brag about their pets, their outstanding children, their fabulous vacation and their diet.

Andy and Dot agreed to provide the movie projector slide projector and screen so that you could visually bore everyone to death if you wanted to.

Is that a terrific idea? What a far better world this would be if everyone in the nation gave a "Boring Party" and everyone got it all out of their systems in one night.

I know who I'd invite to my party. First, the lady I didn't know who sent me a four-page mimeographed Christmas Newsletter (single spaced) describing in intimate detail her dog who had had hemorrhoid surgery.

Next, the dentist who nailed me at a dinner party and drew me a diagram of a root canal on the blotter of my checkbook.

The treasurer of our university who wanted to read into the minutes the fiscal report for 1972-73, including the donors of $1 or more to the building fund.

The couple who invited us over for dinner and offered as entertainment their son, who played the Marine's Hymn on the drums. The new parents who urged us to follow their baby to the bathroom to "tinkle" and reward him with a no-crumble cookie.

Any child telling you about a double-feature movie he has just seen.

The neighbor who handed me 435 pictures of his vacation one at a time and with each one explained his camera and setting and why the picture was over- or under-exposed.

A dieter who told me what she had to eat yesterday and felt wonderful for not eating.

An over-achiever who told me any idiot can make macrame and tried to tell me how to do it... over the phone.

The relative with a new car who wants you to stand in the scorching sun and watch his engine turn over.

Andy and Dot wrote that this year instead of a Boring Party, they're having an Erma Bombeck party where each guest will read his favorite column to the group in an amusing way.

I hope they're able to tell the difference.

Senate's $24 Billion Education Bill To Conferees

STRUCK BY LIGHTNING—Greg Lehrer displays his baseball cap that he was wearing when struck by lightning last Tuesday while playing baseball. Two policemen coaching another baseball team in an adjoining field immediately began mouth-to-mouth resuscitation and heart massage. Avers Terror Raid Encouraged By UN

ASHEVILLE, N.C. (AP)—An Israeli official charged Monday night that the United Nations Security Council encouraged the terrorist raid at Maalot by refusing to include Arab acts in a condemnation resolution last April.

That resolution condemned Israel for a raid into south Lebanon, which the Israelis made following an Arab terrorist attack on the village of Qiryat Shmona April 11. The council defeated a U.S. amendment which would have included the Arab attack in the condemnation.

Failure to include the Arab attack, said Shlomo Levy, "encouraged, without a doubt, the terrorists to carry on with their inhuman slaying, massacre and murder," at Maalot Saturday.

Levy, Israeli consul general for the Southeast, said the Israeli reprisal attacks into Lebanon, which followed the Maalot incident, were justified.

"There is no retaliation for innocent children's blood," he said. "The Israeli government reacted by attacking the terrorist camps in Lebanon where they are preparing themselves to murder and massacre innocent people."

He was sharply critical of the governments of Syria and Lebanon for their handling of the terrorists.

Levy called the reprisals a response "through our legal armed forces to illegal actions which are not only tolerated by the above mentioned Arab governments, but fully encouraged and supported."

The dead at Maalot included school children held hostage by three terrorists, who were themselves killed.

Levy was in Asheville for a speech to a Jewish women's organization.

Car Overturns, Driver Injured

Chase Barnes, 21, of Greenville, was reported injured early this morning when the car he was driving went out of control and overturned in a field about nine miles West of Greenville on U. S. 264.

Highway Patrolman S. F. Padgett said the Barnes car went out of control at the Contentnea Creek Bridge, traveled for 186 feet before leaving the roadway, flew through the air for 60 feet after running off an embankment then traveled another 171 feet in a plowed field and overturned, before coming to a halt.

Barnes, who was treated at Pitt Memorial Hospital for his injuries then released, was charged with careless and reckless driving.

The mishap occurred, according to Trooper Padgett, about 12:55 a.m.

The big issue in the conference will be how far Congress should go in trying to restrict busing for school desegregation purposes.

The House measure passed in March virtually would end such busing. The Senate bill passed 81 to 5 Monday contains the same limitations as the House version, but it adds language continuing the authority of federal courts to order busing if necessary to meet equal rights requirements of the Constitution.

President Nixon views the Senate antibusing provision as much too weak, deprecates the failure to lump together most of the education aid money in a revenue-sharing package and assails as a "bureaucratic nightmare" provisions on how the money must be spent. He has said these objections would cause him to veto it.

The principal limitation on busing in both the House and Senate bills is a policy declaration that no child should be bused beyond the next closest school from his home. The added Senate language would permit the courts to disregard this limitation.

The House bill also contains a provision, deleted in the Senate, that would permit reopening of all previously decided busing cases and their redetermination in line with the new restrictions.

Nixon has endorsed the House busing provisions strongly.

The Senate bill would continue for four years the 1965 Elementary and Secondary Act, the biggest federal education program, and several other types of grants.

The impacted areas program of aid to districts crowded because of federal installations, such as military bases, would be continued but cut back in some respects. However, it would not be reduced nearly as much as Nixon recommended.

Also extended would be the program of aid for handicapped children, with sharply increased funds, and the adult education program.

Magruder Says He Told Spiro Agnew

BALTIMORE, Md. (AP) — Jeb Stuart Magruder says he told former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew two days after the Watergate break-in that the operation was engineered by President Nixon's campaign committee.

The statement was made in excerpts from a book by Magruder to be published next month, which were quoted by the Baltimore Sun in a story in today's editions. In the excerpts, Agnew's response was that he didn't want to discuss the matter again.

According to the published excerpts from "An American Life: One Man's Road to Watergate," the exchange between Agnew and Magruder came after a tennis match on June 19, 1972.

Magruder, then deputy director of the Committee to Re-Elect the President, recounted: "When we finished, around 11 at night, Agnew called me aside. 'Jeb, what the hell is going on?'"

"My instinct was to be candid. 'It was our operation,' I said. 'It got screwed up. We're trying to take care of it.'"

"Agnew frowned and looked away. 'I don't think we ought to discuss it again, in that case.'"

Magruder, 39, pleaded guilty to a one-count indictment charging him with conspiracy to obstruct justice, defraud the United States and eavesdrop on Democratic national headquarters in Washington's Watergate complex. He was to be sentenced today.

Agnew resigned the vice presidency last October after pleading no contest to a charge of federal income tax evasion.

Local Students Are Graduated

ROCKY MOUNT—Two students graduated from North Carolina Wesleyan College Sunday.

They are: Michael Wayne Roope and Marshall Lorenzo Evans III. J. Phil Carlton, chief district judge of the Seventh Judicial District of North Carolina and a vice chairman of Wesleyan's Board of Trustees, delivered the commencement address.

Evans, son of Mr. and Mrs. Marshall L. Evans Jr. of 104 Pineview St., Greenville, received a bachelor of science degree in police science.

Roope, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas G. Clifton of Roanoke Rapids, received a bachelor of science degree in police science. He resides at 103 Abbe Rd., Colonial Park, Greenville.

Mark Men's Day At Local Church

The annual men's day observance was held Sunday at Cornerstone Missionary Baptist Church.

The morning speaker was Dr. J. Ray Butler, pastor of Shiloh Baptist Church, Winston-Salem, and the evening speaker was Farney Matthew Moore, assistant principal at North Pitt High School and clerk of Cornerstone Baptist Church.

Highlight of the two services was the naming of the senior man of the year and the young man of the year. Winners of the awards were U. Grant Bell Jr. and Ray Parker, respectively.

Nursery School Seeks Director

The Nursery School Committee of Immanuel Baptist Church is accepting applications for director of Immanuel Baptist Nursery School.

Interested persons should submit a resume of qualifications to the committee at the church office on or before May 28.

A Disastrous Syndrome Seen

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
WASHINGTON—The dangerous myopia of many Republican party officials in viewing the Nixon crisis is typified by the Republican state chairman of Maine, who is privately spreading the wholly erroneous word through the national party channels that Rep. William Cohen's independent stance on the impeachment proceedings has cost him dearly in his district.

State chairman Harold L. Jones has somewhat gleefully informed colleagues in other states that Maine Republicans have reacted sharply against Cohen for casting the only Republican vote on the Judiciary Committee declaring President Nixon in noncompliance with the committee's subpoena. Moreover, Jones added, Cohen is now apologizing. In truth, private polls show Cohen amazingly popular. He wins standing ovations in the state and has no intention of apologizing.

Jones reflects a potentially disastrous Republican syndrome: party leaders who mistake the blind pro-Nixon loyalty of precinct workers for popular opinion. What's more, they press this misconception on Congressmen who would be far better off politically to follow an independent course.

The syndrome is particularly dangerous in Maine, no longer rock-ribbed Republican but now Democratic dominated. As Maine's only major Republican officeholder and the party's hope for the future, freshman Congressman Cohen, 33, takes a moderate ideological course (a 52 per cent liberal rating by the Americans for Democratic Action). But Jones, an Augusta banker, and other conservatives holding party office grumble that Cohen is too "liberal."

In a telephone interview with us, Jones was guarded and declined to assess Cohen's popularity in Maine. He did comment that Cohen "sort of stuck out like a sore thumb" on the Judiciary Committee vote. Since Cohen won with only 3 per cent in 1972, Jones added, he ought to try harder to please Republicans in 1974.

However, Jones was considerably harsher in a telephone call he himself placed to another conservative state chairman following the release of the Nixon transcripts. As they tried to reassure each other that the Nixon hard core was holding firm, Jones said Cohen had slipped in the Maine polls and had backtracked in an apologetic newsletter.

Even worse, Jones last week told a Cohen lieutenant that the Congressman is in bad favor with prominent Republicans outside of Maine. He also mentioned the negative poll, taken for a Maine gubernatorial candidate. Actually, it measured only Republican statewide awareness of Cohen and showed a drop from 30 per cent to 20 per cent (improbable, considering his present national publicity). Jones neglected to mention that the same poll showed 25 per cent of the Republicans had changed their opinion for the worse about Mr. Nixon.

A more accurate survey in Cohen's own congressional district by the respected national pollster Robert Teeter, taken March 2 through 18, showed a phenomenal Republican approval rating of 81 per cent (with only 3 per cent disapproval). The same poll gives Cohen a mammoth lead over his Democratic challenger, ex-POW Mark Gartley. Cohen's mail immediately following his rebuke to Mr. Nixon ran 10 to 1 in his favor. Nor has he backtracked. His weekly column for Maine newspapers has not even referred to the vote. Defending his position before partisan Republican audiences in Maine, Cohen has won standing ovations—most recently in the conservative town of Norway.

Although Gov. George Wallace finally decided against naming a prominent Jewish lawyer in Birmingham to a vacancy on the Jefferson County (Birmingham) circuit court, he has quietly opened long-closed channels to the Jewish community in keeping with his overall move toward the center.

The Jewish lawyer passed over in Wallace's selection this week to fill the circuit court vacancy is Marvin Cherner, one of three nominees given Wallace by the Jefferson County Bar Assn. The Jewish community, in Birmingham, powerful and highly respected by legal and business circles, had hoped Cherner would get Wallace's nod as his first and only major Jewish appointment.

But more significant is the fact that Wallace telephoned a liberal Birmingham lawyer, one of the city's most prestigious Jewish leaders, one evening in mid-April. After a five-minute conversation, Wallace told him the talk had helped his "morale."

The 9 p.m. call to the lawyer's home had no stated purpose. But Wallace recalled that the lawyer had backed him in his losing 1958 campaign, with his vote and a campaign contribution. After that defeat, Wallace became an all-out segregationist. The lawyer had never spoken to him again.

In his successful renomination campaign recently, Wallace moved steadily toward the center, particularly courting black political leaders. The tentative opening of communications with Alabama's Jewish community is a further step in Wallace's courtship of minorities that up to now have feared and hated him.

state's Energy Crisis Commission.

"If we don't exercise a reasonable degree of restraint, we could find ourselves in the same position as in February."

He said gas supplies are about 10 per cent below demand in this state for the summer, but that this should be sufficient for the summer.

There could be a squeeze in late summer, however, when refiners shift to heating oil production and away from gas.

Martin says there is a delicate balance. "Each time they have given states an increase, it is coming out of inventory. That can't last forever."

Even though Arab oil is now coming in, we still lack the refinery capacity to take care of sharply rising demand.

It would seem that the sharply higher gas prices would mean some curtailment of gas consumption, but it doesn't appear to be working out that way.

If we continue to waste gas, we will likely see another gas crunch and this in turn, will lead to still higher prices.

It will not take much to avoid another shortage such as we experienced in February. Each motorist only has to curtail gas consumption to a moderate degree and there should be enough for everyone. It remains to be seen whether we can voluntarily bring about this restraint.

Libraries Drop A Musty Image

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—From ballet to belly dancing and back to blue grass music, public libraries across North Carolina are opening up the doors for some refreshing breezes of change.

The musty lady librarian shushing a noisy youngster is fading.

"The Silence signs are gone. Libraries used to be so quiet and forbidding. We went because momma made us go," recalls Philip S. Ogilvie, director of the North Carolina State Library.

In place of the signs, librarians now have hard rock concerts, circulating libraries of fine art, films, records, and at the Raleigh library, demonstrations in belly dancing and blue grass music.

In Spruce Pine's regional library, women browse through a dress pattern lending department; High Point Public Library offered a 12-week course in income tax preparation.

Not Just Gimmicks

"Sure, these are gimmicks, designed to get people into a library. These things cause some raised eyebrows...but, it's perfectly legitimate.

"People come to see some of these things out of curiosity, stay around to gain some better understanding, and get involved eventually in some learning," Ogilvie said.

All of this activity, sweeping out the mildewed image, leads somewhere. "This is what libraries are designed to do. It gives people a chance to be exposed, to see something new, to be in the presence of live people doing things...exposing them to the riches of the library," Ogilvie said.

New libraries across the state reflect this new mood: public meeting rooms are required, and local groups of all sorts urged to use the space; areas for open art exhibits are encouraged and many now have circulating libraries of art.

Circulation of books—particularly the light reading fiction which was the stronghold of the past—has fairly leveled off in North Carolina. Last year circulation was just over 15 million books, including those loaned out through 78 mobile units.

The big increase in library activity is the "in-house" things such as research, question answering by staff, public activities.

All of which is designed to overturn the traditional image of libraries which Ogilvie characterizes as "middle-class institutions which did not appeal to the broad spectrum...now, local libraries are urged to become aware of their clients, to know what kind of population they serve. Now, they must know where pockets of poverty exist, and what kind of service the people need.

Some Resistance
"Certainly there is some resistance. A few librarians are still relatively traditional...but the numbers are fewer and fewer," the state's chief librarian said.

"We are constantly reminding librarians that this is their role, now, and behind much of the local success is the public response to the changes."

Today, even the smallest public library in North Carolina has access to any book or research material available, through the state's exchange network. Ogilvie said this system makes any library in the state "as good as any you can find in any major city."

This service will soon be expanded through SOLINET, a Southeastern Library Network; and plans are now on the drawing boards for a national exchange network.

More and more, local libraries are seeing themselves as the question answerers, regardless of the question: from space research to help for a welfare recipient who doesn't know where else to go for assistance.

Ahead for local libraries is a growing realization that the public library should be a force in the cultural life of a community, and more and

Strength For Today

PENN'S TREATY

When William Penn founded the colony in America which is today the state which bears his name, he made a treaty of peace with the Indians and purchased land from them—one of the very few times in which the early promoters of settlement recognized Indian rights to the land.

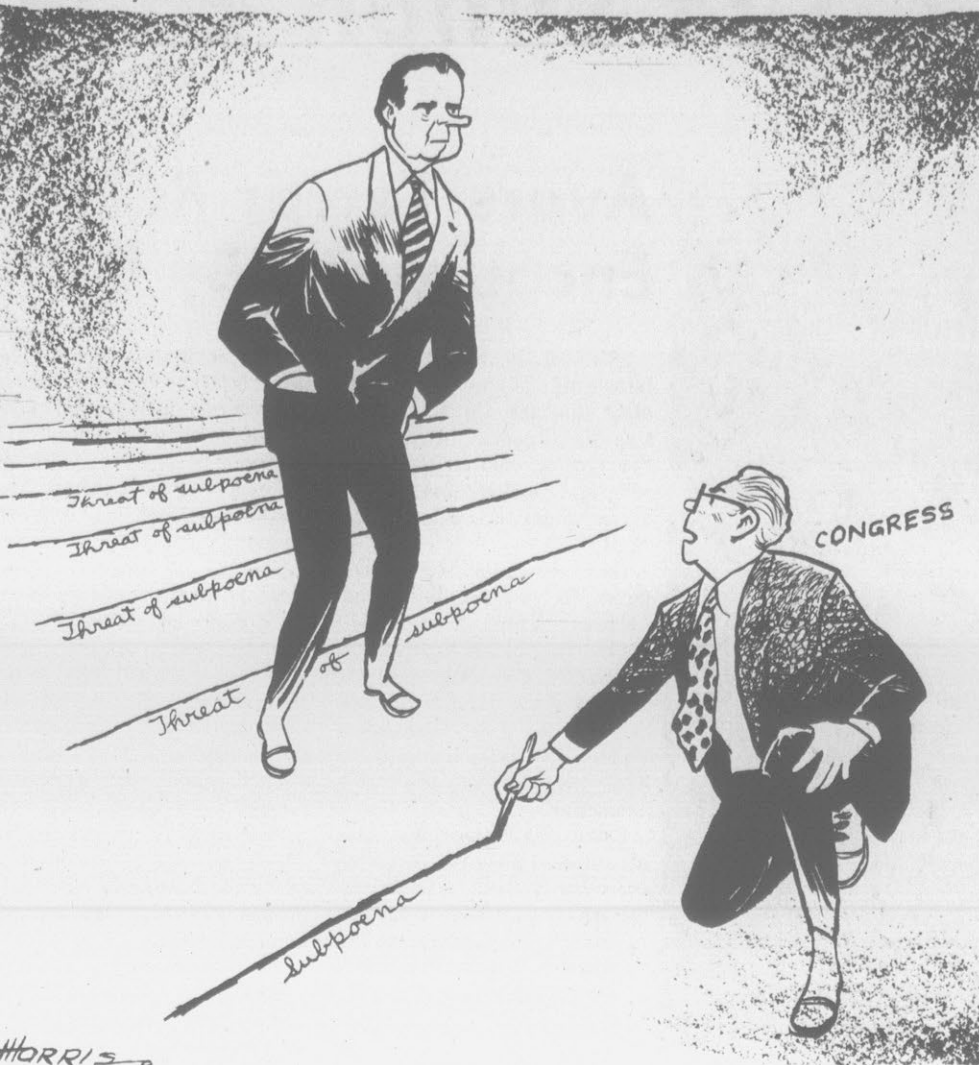

It has been said that this was the only treaty that was not written, not sealed by an oath, and never broken. The Indians were deeply impressed with Penn's openness and candor, and throughout his life had a trust in him in marked conflict with the suspicions with which Indians usually regarded white men—and with good reason.

As a sincere Quaker, Penn had a deep-seated conviction that men can always be won by love. As a result, while other areas in the English colonies were being drenched in blood as a result of Indian wars, Penn and the Indians with whom he had made the treaty demonstrated that when love and fidelity are instruments, they can effect peace.

Mr. Nixon On The Press

In an interview with this correspondent a week ago, President Nixon several times spoke critically of the press. A couple of days after that interview, the two Washington papers carried a "leaked" story that once again cast the President in a contemptuous light. The conjunction of events merits reflection.

In our interview, Mr. Nixon complained of one-sided coverage of illegal or improper campaign activities in the past. He said, "we never were able to get your colleagues to understand" the difference between mere heckling and actual violence.

The President also spoke bitterly of the failure of the press to cover the bugging of his own offices and campaign plane in 1968. He said he had pointed out this misuse of the FBI, "but none of the press has directed any attention to it." The President said, "I understand why, because there is a double standard here."

The President several times spoke acidly of "leaked" news. He denounced the publication by columnist Jack Anderson of highly secret minutes of a top security meeting on India and Pakistan. He deplored the hero-worship accorded Daniel Ellsberg in the matter of the Pentagon Papers.

"Those who will not leak material are pilloried or paid no attention to; those who do leak material are praised. It's turned topsy-turvy. That's wrong. And one day some of your colleagues in the press—it will take time, maybe ten years from now—they will look back on these times, and they will say, 'I wonder: Did we have a double standard? I wonder, was it good for the country to say that confidential material should be leaked and those who did it should be rewarded rather than punished?'"

Mr. Nixon said that "90 per cent" of the Washington press corps is philosophically opposed to his position: "Basically, they're ultra-liberal and I am conservative...The reasons for their attitudes toward the President go back many years, but they're basically ideological, and I respect that. If I would pander to their liberal views, I could be infinitely popular with some of our friends out here, and a lot of the heat would go out of Watergate, too. But I will never do that."

The President emphasized that he feels no "hate" for the press. He never has. "I'm perhaps the only President who never has called a publisher or editor complaining about a story. I have never called a reporter to complain about one. And I never will. That's your job to call it as you see it."

On the morning of Thursday, May 16, the Washington Post broke a page-one story based upon the leak of a confidential transcript from the House Judiciary Committee. The Star-News followed with its own story a few hours later. It appeared from the transcript that on Sept. 15, 1972, the President had remarked to H. R. Haldeman and John W. Dean III that the Post "is going to have damnable, damnable problems...They have a television station...And they're going to have to get it renewed."

When Haldeman mentioned that the Post owned a radio station, too, the President asked if its license also were coming up for renewal. "The game," he said, "has to be played awfully rough." Of the Post's attorney, Edward Bennett Williams, the President said: "I think we are going to fix the son of a bitch. Believe me. We are going to. We've got to, because he's a bad man."

A few observations: Mr. Nixon is on sound ground when he denounced the "double standard" applied by major instruments of the

Cheap Food Is Gone

By JOSEPH R. TYBOR
Associated Press Writer
CHICAGO (AP) — One way to slow the skyrocketing price of food may be to give butchers laser beams instead of knives, says a marketing professor at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

"The era of cheap food in America is at an end," Dr. Gordon F. Bloom of MIT said in an interview after addressing a conference on world hunger.

He said innovative measures such as cutting meat with laser beams rather than knives may be a few years away, but that such moves designed to increase efficiency in the food industry are among the few remaining ways to stem rising food costs.

He said attempts to unionize what used to be low-paid, migratory field hands, 15 to 20 per cent increases in retail labor costs and consumer and environmental legislation had combined with increased marketing costs and higher farm income to drive food prices up 20 per cent in 1973.

Bloom said supermarkets in particular have been slow to develop new technology to lower labor costs which, he said, take 50 cents of every food dollar spent after the product leaves the farm.

Supermarket operations, except for the self-service aspect, are essentially unchanged from the corner grocery store that they began to replace 25 years ago, he said.

The average wage rate among employees from cashiers and stockboys to managers is more than $4 an hour in the supermarket, Bloom said.

"People don't realize this is a high-wage industry. In a few years, it's going to be $6. Yet where is the change in technology? The young grocery clerk still loads shelves by hand."

Bloom suggested that the industry make a cooperative effort to eliminate inefficiencies such as those he said exist in packaging and shipping. He also suggested new ways of cooperation to stimulate innovative cost-saving ideas.

"For example," he said, "Why is it necessary to cut meat from a bone with a knife

40 Years Ago Today

May 21, 1934

D. M. (Reddy) Clark of Greenville, Solicitor of the Fifth Judicial District, announced today his candidacy for re-election in the State-wide primary scheduled for June 2. He is opposed by T. O. Moore of New Bern.

Clark has been prominent in the prosecution of numbers of important cases in the district during his eight years of service.

A meeting of law enforcement officers from several towns and cities in this area will be held in the City Hall at Greenville at 7 p.m. next Thursday.

The meeting was called several days ago by George Clark, head of the police department here and is being held to bring about a better understanding between the various law enforcement agencies.

Mayor R. C. Flanagan has been chosen to deliver the principal address.

Quality Of Credit Deteriorates

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — The latest signal of a deterioration in the quality of credit comes from the New York Stock Exchange, where margin customers increased their debt to brokers by $40 million in April.

This figure in itself may have only minor significance to all but those involved, but when placed in context the point is quickly understood: It is the fourth straight monthly rise and it brings to at least $5.4 billion the amount of borrowed money supporting stock prices.

It is hardly safe to assume that the total amount of money owed on corporate shares isn't even higher, because margin customers sometimes borrow from other lenders too and are known even to mortgage their homes.

Margin in the stock market is like a down payment in the automobile or housing market. At the moment it takes 50 per cent down to become a margin customer of a broker, who lends the buyer the remaining funds.

However, as anyone knows who has ever played the stock market game, the price per share of a company can fall as well as rise, and the former has been the case for hundreds of stocks in the past few months.

The effective margin rate, therefore, often drops below 50 per cent.

In April, the exchange noted that "the quality of security credit deteriorated noticeably." Margin debt in accounts under 40 per cent equity rose to $1.98 billion. And the percentage of such accounts rose to 16 per cent from 12 per cent of all margined portfolios.

As the prices of many stocks continued to decline, the collateral left in margin accounts shrank, of course, by about $680 million, to a total of $13.2 billion.

The signal that flashes from such statistics is the likelihood of more margin calls, or demands by brokers for customers to put up more funds in order to maintain a certain level of equity.

If, for instance, a customer has $10,000 credit on $20,000 worth of stock, he has 50 per cent margin and 50 per cent equity. But if the market value shrinks to $15,000, he now has 67 per cent margin, 33 per cent equity.

To safeguard his loan, the broker sends off a telegram to his customer, notifying him that if he doesn't produce a certain additional amount of collateral by a certain date he will sell some of the securities.

Nobody is ringing the alarm bells about the condition of stock market credit at the moment, but concern is rising, just as it is in other credit areas where deterioration is showing up. If the trend continues, the alarms will go off.

Pollution Control Office Moving To Washington

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer
The Department of Natural and Economic Resources has disclosed plans to relocate the Division of Water Pollution Control office here to Washington and to merge the

Greenville and Washington facilities into a regional office.
According to Steve Meehan,
NER director of public affairs,
the move is part of an overall reorganization of the department and regrouping of regional offices.

Meehan explained that the lease on the Greenville office runs through the fall of 1976 but the move to Washington will be made prior to that time. He said that the merger is designed to improve the operation and coordination of the two offices.

The air quality personnel here will probably begin moving to Washington sometime this fall,
Meehan noted, while the water quality staff and laboratory will remain in Greenville until they can be moved within the limitations of the lease.

The official reported that NER plans no cutback in personnel or service functions of the agencies and he noted that the regional office created by the merger will be the largest in the state in terms of the area covered. The Washington office will be one of seven regional groupings.

Counties served under the proposed Washington concept
will include Wayne, Greene,

Lenoir, Craven, Jones, Pamlico,
Hyde, Beaufort, Pitt, Martin,
Washington, Tyrrell, Dare,
Bertie, Chowan, Perquimans, Pasquotank, Camden,
Currituck, Gates and Hertford.

The Greenville facility, a division of the Water & Air Resources section, employs at full capacity a staff of 23 and is located at 209 Cotanche Street in offices above The Daily Reflector.

Meehan said that the Washington office has been involved with three basic functions; commerce and industry, community services, and recreation.

He said that a regional agency has already been established in Asheville and a merger of the Salisbury and Concord offices into a regional facility at Mooreville is planned as part of the reorganization. He added that an office will be located in Winston-Salem and "we hope to have an office in Wilmington to serve the southeastern part of the state.

Meehan said that the last session of the General Assembly took the second step in a four-year process of reorganization of state government. He pointed out that legislation passed by the General Assembly gave the NER secretary "more flexibility in coordinating the various services to better serve the people."

Medals Earned By Handicapped

Thirty five young handicapped athletes from Greenville returned home from Raleigh this past week end bringing with them a total of 20 medals from the North Carolina Special Olympics.

In the all-day Saturday event in which 1,334 participants from 65 units across the state vied for honors, the contingent from Greenville won six gold medals,
eight silver and six bronze medals.

Gold medal winners from Greenville were: (Boys eight-nine year old division)—Will Bridges, two medals, the softball throw and the running long jump; Douglas Moye, 50 yard dash; and Felix Nobles, running long jump. (Girls eight-nine year old division)—Heidi Overton, softball throw. (Girls 13-15 year old division)—Nancy

Carter, standing broad jump.
Silver medal winners: (Boys
eight-nine year old division)—
Chris Close, softball throw.
(Boys 10-12 year old division)—
Charlie Brown, running long jump. (Girls 13-15 year old division)—Beverly Harris, two medals, 50 yard dash and softball throw; and Shirley Weldon, running long jump. (Boys 19 and over)—Val Latham, two medals, 25 yard freestyle swimming and 50 yard dash; and Lester
Burroughs, wheelchair obstacle course.

Bronze medal winners: (Boys
eight-nine year old division)—
Jerry Edwards, running long jump. (Boys 10-12 year old division)—Kenny Nobles, running long jump; and Jeffrey
Murphy, running long jump.
(Boys 13-15 year old division)—
Tim Harper, running long jump;
and Bruce Brown, softball throw. (Girls 19 years old and over)—Alice Quiggins, 50 yard dash.

The 1974 North Carolina State Games were sponsored by the N.C. Special Olympics, Inc., and the Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr.
Foundation. The young people were hosted by the Capital City Jaycees.

The big day for the handicapped athletes began at 9:00 a.m. Saturday with Olympic opening ceremonies and a parade of athletes. Competitive events began at 9:30 a.m. and lasted until 6:00 p.m. A Victory Banquet and dance was held Saturday night.

On Sunday morning participants attended a church service in the amphitheater at resist it. There is no denying an ideological bias at top

leaking of confidential

But what of the public in-contemptible. It implies a tonight at 8 in the Redevelopment Commission's Central Business District office at 319 S.

Evans Street.

Guest speaker for the meeting,
Mrs. Shirley Peel, guidance counselor for Greenville Elementary Schools, will speak on the elementary child and guidance.

The Council invited the public to attend.

Participated In Bahai Session

Two Greenville persons participated in the 65th annual National Bahai Convention in Wilamette, Ill. recently.

Ludi Johnson was a delegate and Alvin Wilson was a visitor.

Bahais are followers of Bahayllah, prophet-founder of the Bahai Faith, whose purpose is to achieve the oneness of mankind, Mrs. Johnson said.
She is secretary of the Local Spiritual Assembly.

Aid Offered Farm Youth

THOMPSONVILLE, Ill. (AP) —
"I didn't realize there were so many kind and helpful
people in the United States," Angus Gaither, 18, says.

Valedictorian of the class of 1974 in this rural southern Illinois town, Gaither managed to study and tend the family's 400-acre farm. He's the sole support of his widowed, invalid mother and his partially paral-yzed brother.

But he wanted to attend Harvard University without neglecting his family, and he had until Monday to tell Harvard officials whether he'd accept a $5,250-a-year scholarship or remain at home.

His quandary became public through news accounts, and within 24 hours, he'd received about 35 phone calls. "Some are just wishing well, some are offering financial contributions," he said Monday.

The money will go into a trust fund to support his mother and brother and to hire a nurse or housekeeper while Angus is away at Harvard.
He'll lease the farm to a neighbor.

NEW YORK (AP) — Some comparatively good news on inflation sparked a mild advance in the stock market today.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 3.68 at 816.10, and gainers took a narrow lead over losers on the New York Stock Exchange. The pace of trading remained unhurried, however.

As the market opened, the Labor Department issued figures showing a slowing in the rise of consumer prices last month. The consumer price index climbed at a 7.2 per cent seasonally adjusted annual rate, down from 13.2 per cent in March.

American Electric Power, down ¼ at 20, was the most-active issue on the Big Board.

Deere & Co. fell 2½ to 34 in active trading. The company reported lower earnings for the quarter ended April 30.

Central Soya, recommended by an advisory service, rose ¾ to 16.

Glamour stocks mostly shared in the advance. Bausch & Lomb was up 1½ to 23½, Digital Equipment 2½ to 117½, IBM 1½ to 220, and Upjohn 1 to 79½.

Golds were lower, with Dome Mines down 2½ to 155½, Campbell Red Lake 1½ to 75½, and ASA, Ltd., 1½ to 76½.

On the American Stock Exchange, Research-Cottrell led the active list, unchanged at 7½. The issue fell sharply last Friday after the company's report of a $3.07 million quarterly loss.

The Amex' 11 a.m. market-value index was down .02 at 81.14.

The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks was up .16 at 46.52.

expect persons severely limited by injury to go through a period of depression and even hostility. But if Richard ever did, we didn't know it. He just came out fighting, determined to go on and make something of himself.

"I don't know why I didn't get low," Richard said, "but I'm glad. I think my parents were really surprised. I just knew my life wasn't ended."

While still in the VR hospital, he began practicing with weights, something he'd enjoyed in high school and college as a means of increasing strength for other sports. He had excelled in football, basketball, baseball, and track at Tarboro and had gone to State on a football scholarship. "I never did make the varsity team, but I did letter in track," he said. His specialties were the shot put and the discus throw, sports in which he plans to compete later from his wheelchair.

Once home from the hospital, he continued to put himself through his weight-lifting paces. He said he practices the bench press flat on the floor. "This could be a little hard on the elbows," he said. "But I can't get onto a bench without help and I can manage fine sliding up under the bar on the floor."

He has been taking correspondence courses from State, and he and his VR counselors, Lawrence and Clem Williams, went today to St. Andrews College in Laurinburg to make sure all is in order for him to enter summer school. "I chose St. Andrews because they have courses in adapted driver education and adapted physical education, and no architectural barriers for my wheelchair," he said.

He was a recreation major at State, but Richard says his experiences during the past year have steered him into recreational therapy, he believes. "I think I'd like to be a vocational rehabilitation counselor specializing in helping others with handicaps to develop physical skill and function. I'd never be happy out of the sports field completely."

He has not withdrawn from competitive sports even during this first year after his accident. He finished first in the Virginia Regional Wheelchair Games middleweight bench press competition, lifting 280 pounds. He is eligible for the National Wheelchair Finals in Cheney, Wash. next month, and feels he can surpass 300 pounds there, a feat he's accomplished many times in practice.

The Bethel Rotary Club is accepting contributions to help pay for Richard's trip to Washington State. Approximately $400 is needed.

The address is Bethel Rotary Club, Box 701, Greenville, N. C. 27834.

Pistols Are Stolen Here

Greenville police today are pressing their investigation into an early-morning break-in at H. L. Hodges Co. at 210 East Fifth St. during which seven pistols were reported stolen.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the thieves broke out a front window by throwing cement blocks through it to gain entrance to the store, then took the seven pistols—including two .22 caliber weapons and five .38 caliber pistols—from a show case.

Value of the guns was set at about $900, Chief Cannon noted. The break-in was discovered by police at 3:53 a.m.

Cannon noted that a burglar alarm, designed to notify police of intruders, failed to operate.

Last night's gun theft was the third such incident at the firm in as many years.

A number of weapons were taken from the Hodges company on March 22, 1972 during a break-in, while more pistols were taken in an April 13, 1973 larceny.

Favor Biennial Sessions Return

CHAPEL HILL (AP)—Directors of the North Carolina Conservative Union today endorsed a return to biennial sessions by the North Carolina General Assembly. In opposing annual sessions of the legislature, the directors said they encourage representation by professional politicians instead of by average citizens.

Bosses' Week Observed Here

This week is the week that secretaries in the city school office, principals offices and other school offices are observing "Educational Bosses' Week."

To mark the event, secretaries in the various offices have decorated bulletin boards featuring the high points of their boss' life, including photos, clippings and other items appropriate to the occasion.

Local observances are in keeping with a proclamation by the National President of Educational Secretaries proclaiming the week of May 19-25 as "Educational Bosses' Week."

Toy Cannon Is Booming Again

By FRANK BROWN
AP Sports Writer

The Dodgers' "Toy Cannon" isn't shooting blanks this year. Jimmy Wynn, admitting to "the best start I've ever had," continued to live up to his nickname Monday night—just as he's been doing since the baseball season began.

Wynn blasted two more home runs and drove in four more runs to spark the 5-3 Los Angeles victory over the Cincinnati Reds, raising his major league-leading homer total to 14. The runs batted in boosted his total to 41—tying him with Jeff Burroughs of the Texas Rangers for the major-league lead. In other National League games, the Chicago Cubs edged the New York Mets 2-1; the Montreal Expos trimmed the Pittsburgh Pirates 4-2; the San Diego Padres clipped the Houston Astros 8-6, and the Philadelphia Phillies downed the St. Louis Cardinals 2-1.

Elks Nip Moose, 2-1

The Elks gained a 2-1 victory over the Moose in yesterday's Tar Heel Little League action. The win boosted the Elks to a league-leading 4-1 record, while the Moose are now 1-4 on the year.

The Moose got only three hits off Gavin Ray, who struck out 10 and walked two. At the same time, the Elks got only five off Ricky West, but that was enough.

The game was scoreless until the third, when the Elks got their first run. Chris Ross reached on a fielder's choice and moved to third on William Sneed's single. Lynn Jackson got another base hit, scoring Ross.

In the fifth, the Moose came up with a run to tie it up. David Vaughn reached on an error and Curt Lorimer walked. Dwayne Allgood singled him to third and Ashley Taylor got a hit to score Vaughn with the tying run.

But the Elks came right back to push back ahead, this time for good. Sneed singled and a balk put him on second. Jackson then doubled, driving him in for the 2-1 lead.

Moose 000 010—1 3 1
Elks 001 01x—2 5 2

Cubs 2, Mets 1

Burt Hooton pitched a four-hitter and Billy Williams drove in both Chicago runs with a sixth-inning single to lead the Cubs past the Mets.

Expos 4, Pirates 2

Bob Bailey scored two runs and drove in another to pace the Montreal triumph over Pittsburgh.

Starter Mike Torrez got relief help from Chuck Taylor, but picked up his first victory over the Pirates since Sept. 10, 1972.

Willie Stargell singled in both of Pittsburgh's runs in the eighth inning. The other Montreal run scored on a wild pitch by Jim Rooker.

Padres 8, Astros 6

Willie McCovey drove in four runs with three hits, helping San Diego hand Houston its 10th consecutive loss.

Houston sped to a 4-0 lead in the second inning, but the Padres came back and pulled ahead 6-4 on McCovey's three-run double in the fourth. The Astros tied it on Cliff Johnson's two-run homer, but Fred Kendall broke the deadlock with a seventh-inning double and added insurance in the eighth.

Phillies 2, Cards 1

Left-hander Steve Carlton pitched an eight-hitter and singled in one of Philadelphia's runs to carry the Phillies past St. Louis for his fourth straight victory.

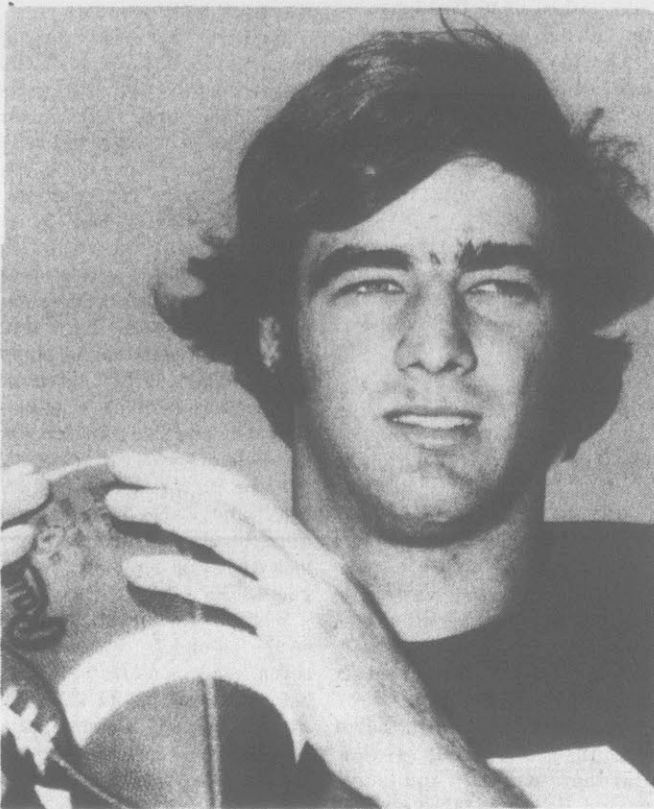

Black Out Of Meet

DURHAM, N.C. (AP)—N.C. Central sprinter Larry Black, plagued with a strained leg muscle, will miss the National Association of Intercollegiate Athletics championships this weekend.

Central coach Dr. Leroy Walker said Monday he will scratch Black from the sprints and two relay teams he anchored. Black was the silver medalist at 200 meters in Munich in 1972.

Walker said Central would still enter a team for the meet in Arkadelphia, Ark. But Central, without Black, will no longer be the team favorite.

Walker said Black should be ready to run again in time for the NCAA championships in early June.

ECU's Carl Summerell

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Carl Summerell of East Carolina said, "I think it's awful tough to single me out," but that's just what happened today as he was named Southern Conference athlete of the year.

The 6-3, 209-pounder from Virginia Beach, Va., who was an integral part of the Pirates' league football and baseball championship teams, received 33 votes in balloting by members of the Southern Conference Media Association.

Trailing Summerell, who last fall was named football player of the year, were third-team

All-American football fullback Barty Smith of Richmond with 16 votes and basketball player of the year Clyde Mayes of Furman with 12.

Three votes each were cast for football-track star Gene Williams of Virginia Military and tennis star Keith Richardson of Appalachian State and one each for basketball player Aron Stewart of Richmond, football player Walt Walker of Davidson and track star Ron Martin of William and Mary.

"I feel very honored, but I'm a little bit stunned," said Summerell, who quarterbacked

East Carolina to 13 consecutive league victories in football in the last two years and hit .326 this spring for the Pirates' baseball team, which went 12-2 in league play.

A two-time All-Southern selection in football, Summerell holds East Carolina career records with 198 pass completions and 2,859 passing yards. He threw for 26 touchdowns and was intercepted 26 times in his 427 passing attempts.

Summerell also ran 219 times for 785 yards and 11 touchdowns and had 3,644 yards in total offense during his career. He holds the East Carolina single-season record for 1,700 yards in total offense, set in 1972, and hit 12 of 14 passes for 87.5 per cent in one game.

During his last two varsity football seasons, the Pirates were 18-4 over-all and he was voted East Carolina's most valuable player both years by his teammates.

Summerell was the starting quarterback for the Gray in last winter's Blue-Gray all-star game and will play in the coaches' all-star game June 22 in Lubbock, Tex.

He collected 30 hits in 92 times at bat as East Carolina compiled a 17-11 over-all record in baseball this spring. He tied for the top batting average on the team and tied for fifth in the conference.

"A lot of people told me I could be athlete of the year, but I really never thought I would be the one selected out of the entire conference," Summerell said, adding:

"In my career at East Carolina I have been very fortunate, mainly because of the players and coaches I have played with and for. They deserve the award more than I do because they helped me the most."

East Carolina fullback Carlester Crumpler won both the football and athlete of the year awards in 1973, and Summerell said, "When Carlester won the award last year, I remember thinking how much it meant. Now I don't quite know what to say."

Optimists Rip Kiwanis, 14-1

The Optimists rolled to a 14-1 victory over the Kiwanis yesterday behind the two hit pitching of Glenn Moore and Jeff Porter.

The victory left the Optimists with a 5-0 league record in the North State loop, while the Kiwanis are now 1-4.

Moore went the first five innings for the Optimists, allowing no runs and just one hit. Porter came in for the final frame, allowing the run and one hit.

That run came when Sterling Ashby singled and stole second, then came around on a pair of errors.

The Optimists, by then, however, had put it out of reach. They scored four in the first inning. Jim O'Brien reached on an error and came around on passed balls. John Hendricks walked and stole second. He took third on a passed ball and scored on Glenn Moore's single. Moore moved up on an error and scored on Patrick Wilson's hit. He also advanced on an error and Sammy Hodges doubled him in.

Five more crossed in the second. Billy Dough reached on a fielder's choice. O'Brien got the run parade going with a homer. Moore singled and came around when Wilson reached on a two-base error. Liles Stott singled and an error on the play let Wilson score. Hodges then singled in Stott.

They got three more in the third. Dough walked and O'Brien singled. Hendricks reached on an error. Moore reached on a fielder's choice, scoring both Dough and O'Brien. Wilson then sacrificed in Hendricks.

The final two came in the fifth. O'Brien singled and stole second. He took third on an out and scored on an error. Moore finished it off with a home run.

Cash's Furor Gets Ejection

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

Norm Cash lost his glove, an argument and a ballgame all in one shot Monday night.

Incensed over a "fair" call on Dave May's double down the right field line in the eighth inning, the Detroit Tigers' first baseman threw down his glove in disgust and let umpire Bill Kunkel have it.

It did the Tigers no good, though—they dropped a 6-4 decision to the Milwaukee Brewers.

"I don't usually blow my cool out there, but this was too much," said Cash. "That ball was foul by six or eight inches. Kunkel was too close to the play. It skipped behind him before he could turn around."

May's hit drove in the Brewers' winning runs—and it was fair, insisted Kunkel.

Cash's temper display got him an early shower. Kunkel threw him out.

In the only other American League game Monday night, the Oakland A's trimmed the Minnesota Twins 5-4.

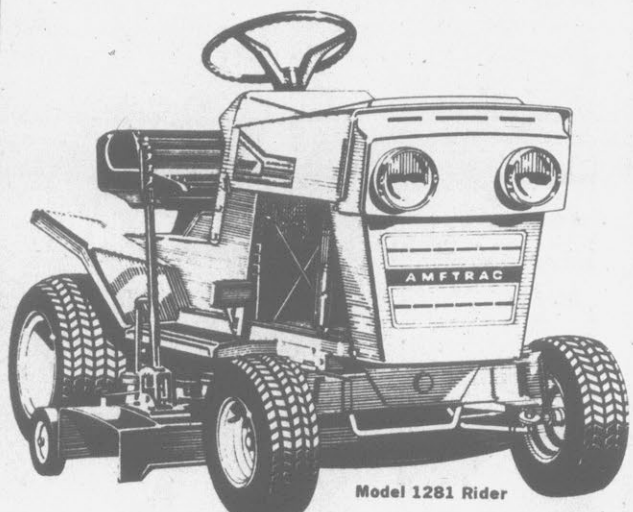

Charlie Moore opened the Brewers' winning rally in the eighth with a walk and moved to second on a bouncer. Pedro Garcia was intentionally walked and Tim Johnson singled to load the bases.

May then delivered his two-run double off Tiger reliever John Hiller, 5-3, and Cash delivered his heated words to Kunkel.

A's 5, Twins 0
Hot-hitting Angel Mangual slugged a run-scoring triple and added two singles, then Oakland held off a late Minnesota rally to beat the Twins.

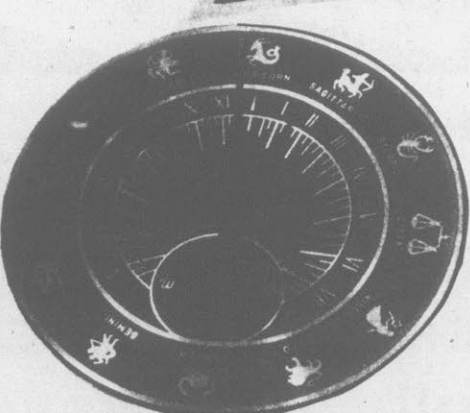

The A's led 5-0 at one point, but Minnesota scored a run in the seventh on a single.

Pirates Add Third Signee

Robert (Dean) Hartley, a 6-foot-9, 210 center prospect from Moundsville, West Virginia has signed a basketball grant-in-aid with East Carolina University, Head Coach Dave Patton announced Tuesday.

Hartley is the third East Carolina signee and the tallest. Earl Garner, a 6-6 forward, from Catonsville Junior College (Md.) was the first to sign. Wade Henkel, a 6-7 forward from Vienna, Va., became the second signee. And now Hartley, who brings more important size to East Carolina's program.

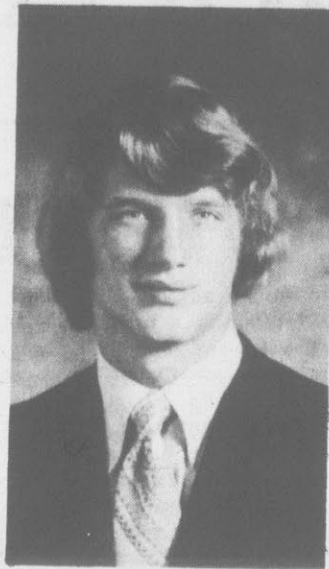

Hartley, who played at John Marshall High School in Glen Dale, W. Va., averaged 11 points per game, 11 rebounds and four blocked shots in 1973-74. At East Carolina, he will join sophomore 6-8 big man Larry Hunt to give the Pirates a young, inexperienced but potentially very strong front line combination.

"Dean is the type of young man that we feel has all his basketball ahead of him," Patton said. "He is big, strong and is a good shooter. He has some things that he needs to work on, but he is enthusiastic and has a willingness to improve. The willingness is the big thing that will make Dean a good player in our program."

East Carolina, in its first recruiting season under Coach Patton, will return 10 of 12 varsity players from 1973-74 and three of five starters. The two losses were forward Roger Atkinson and center Nicky White, the team's leading scorer and rebounder. Hunt and Hartley, both young players, will be counted on to carry the load at center while Garner, a good scorer and rebounder and Henkel, a consistent 22 ppg. scorer and 15 rebound per game player, will join forwards Robert Geter, Gregg Ashorn, Tom Marsh, transfer Ken Kellstrom, Al Edwards and Chuck Mohn in the battle for two starting positions.

The Pirates' 1974-75 cage slate is not complete, but the opening games are set. They include North Carolina State, Duke and Alabama, all on the road.

Carolina Dairy Gets First Win

Kentucky Fried Chicken remained unbeaten through seven games last night, while Carolina Dairy picked up its first victory of the year in the City Softball League.

In the opener on Evans One, the Little Sluggers nipped Morgan Printers, 9-8. Morgan jumped into an early lead, pushing over seven runs in the first, including a grand slam home run by Arnold. The Sluggers came back with six in the second, then scored two more in the third to take the lead. They got what proved to be the winning run in the sixth with a homer by Cox. Morgan added one in the seventh, but failed to catch up.

Carolina Dairy got its first win over winless Union Carbide, 17-12, in the second game. The Dairy men pushed over five runs in the first, then came back with four in the second. They added one in the fourth and got two more in the fifth. They finished up with five in the sixth. Union Carbide picked up three in the second, five in the fifth, and two each in the sixth and seventh, with Roach homering.

The final game saw Sunnyside Eggs take a 27-2 win over Grady-White. Sunnyside got two in the first on Knight's homer. They added four in the second, two in the third, six in the fifth, five in the sixth with Rose homering.

and eight in the seventh with Lopez and Knight homering. Grady-White got one each in the fourth and sixth.

In the opener on Field Two, University Seaford nipped The Daily Reflector, 14-13. University got four runs in the first on homers by Galton and Jones. The Reflector came back with three in the bottom of the first and one in the second on P. Owens homer to tie it up. University went back out with four in the third, then added two in the fourth. They got two more in the sixth on homers by Norfleet and Vines, then finished up with two in the seventh. The Reflector got three more in the third, one in the fourth, three in the sixth and two in the seventh, but never caught up again.

Kentucky Fried Chicken romped to a 27-4 win over Daniel Construction. KFC picked up three in the first with R. Vincent homering. They added seven in the second, and seven more in the third, with L. Wells getting a four-bagger. One crossed in the fourth, and eight came over in the fifth, with Vincent, T. Jordan and J. Childers homering. They added one more on a homer by Wells in the sixth. Daniel got one in the third and three in the fourth.

In the final game, Talbott took a 10-6 win over Shirley's. Talbott got four in the first, then added one in the second, with B. Bowles homering. They got five more in the fourth to wrap it up. Shirley's got two in the second, one in the fifth and three in the sixth.

HAVELOCK—At first they were just trying to get five innings in but Farmville Central and Havelock got going and could not quit until they had played an 11 inning baseball game.

Only after Farmville Central had outlasted the Rams and pushed over three runs in the 11th did the game finally end.

The sky had threatened for most of the day and during the second inning there was a little bit of drizzle. It started out as a hurry-up type of game but turned into a monster of a marathon.

The Jaguars scored three runs in the deciding inning after beating on a soon worn-out door for the previous 10. They met little resistance in the bottom of the inning and took a 3-0 shut-out win over Havelock in the first round of the state 3-A playoffs, yesterday.

Both teams left an army of men on base. The Rams put ten on but could not even bring in one. Farmville Central put men on in every frame but two leaving a total of 13 on.

The Rams had almost as many opportunities to score as did the Jaguars but they fell apart in the 11th committing three errors that helped the Jags get their runs. Until then, the Rams had played almost perfect ball only having muffed two balls in the third and a ball in the fourth. The Jaguars, however, were perfect. Not only did they not have any miscues but twice they came through with game saving plays.

In the fifth, second baseman, Marty Hobgood made a lunging stab at a grounder to his left and was able to throw the batter out to end a Ram rally. Then in the last frame, Barry Johnson made a spectacular running catch of a long fly ball to center ending the game.

Johnson had started the game on the mound for FC and went seven and one-third innings before bowing out to Ed Wells who got the win. Johnson gave up only four Ram hits, struck out 10 and walked four. Wells fanned two, walked one and held Havelock hitless in the remaining three and two-thirds innings.

Rusty Nelson went all the way for Havelock and there was an obvious change in his delivery as the game wore on. He struck out 13 Jaguars, walked three but gave up 11 hits. He had good stuff for the better part of the game but began to tire in the late innings.

Both teams got the men on rather easily but when it came time to bring them in, they found the going tough. Both put two runners on in the first. Farmville Central got singles from Wells and Tommy Cobb but could not score them. Jim Hodge and Terry Giles both walked in the Ram first. They failed to come in, too.

Both rallied again in the third. Jeff Cobb led off for FC reaching on an error. He stole second and Tommy Cobb singled. Jeff reached third on a throwing error and Tommy stole second but they died there.

Darrell Johnson got the first hit off Johnson in the third and Eric Stoddard walked but the Rams were held off the boards again.

Tony Oakley singled in the Jaguar fourth as did Mike Jenkins. Jenkins had hit a shot over the left field fence a few pitches earlier but it was a foul by ten feet. Wells and Tommy Cobb got hits in the fifth for Farmville Central but the next three Jags were retired.

Jim Dunn beat out an infield hit for the Rams in the bottom of the fifth and slid under the tag as Ray Toler bunted his way on. A wild pitch moved them both up but Dunn was picked off third cooling the threat and Hobgood ended it.

Jeff Cobb moved around to third in the seventh for Farmville Central on a sacrifice and a ground-out but the inning ended on a strike out. Oakley got a hit in the eighth and was sacrificed up only to remain standing on second as the inning ended. Hodge walked, stole second and took third on a wild pitch in the bottom of the eighth for Havelock. His teammates could not help him out.

After Wells came on in the eighth, only one Ram reached base. That was in the 11th.

The Jaguars finally opened the door with a run. Eddie Horne led off the fateful 11th with a bloop double to short left and scored on a hit by Jenkins. Jenkins moved around to third as a result of an error on the play. Hobgood bunted back to the mound and the ball was played home but Jenkins avoided the tag of Ram catcher Bob Shelton to score the second run.

The Jags were not satisfied—they wanted more. Jeff Cobb reached on a throwing error moving Hobgood to second. Hobgood stole third but was picked off a few minutes later. An error moved Cobb to third and he scored on a sacrifice by Wells.

Wells struck out the first Ram up in the bottom of the 11th but walked the next. Shelton popped up back to Wells for the second out and Nelson, trying to help himself out, smashed a long fly to left center. Johnson however, raced through the mucky out-field to make the grab and end the game.

The Jaguars will meet the winner of tonight's C. B. Aycock-Williamston game, later this week.

Tommy Cobb led the Jaguars with four hits in five trips. Wells, Oakley, and Jenkins each had two hits. Stoddard had a pair for the Rams.

The Worry Clinic Psychology Is For Mothers

Cora and her dedicated young mothers desired to be "active" (not "passive") child psychologists. Which means you must do more than merely nod assent when you see the surefire prescriptions outlined in this column. Get into constructive action!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
CASE A-620: Cora Kerr, of Findlay, Ohio, was president of the Ohio Child Conservation League.

She invited me to address its annual convention in Toledo.

At 10 a.m., I spent an hour with 300 of these attractive young mothers, handling a "Workshop on Child Rearing."

But my main address was for the banquet session, attended by 800 unusually beautiful young mothers, each attired in a distinctive evening gown.

"Ladies," I began, "I wish you had taken a movie of your procession into this banquet hall."

"For children enjoy realizing that their mothers are pretty and dressed in stylish gowns."

"Besides, most of you are only in the 25 to 35 age bracket, so it would be a revelation to your children to see what beautiful women are dedicated to child conservation in your Buckeye State."

And that was no flattery, for except at dental conventions, I have never seen such a large group of women who rated so high in feminine pulchritude.

Perhaps the reason dental surgeons routinely pick charming wives, is the fact they are trained to focus on pretty teeth.

And sparkling white teeth are the major cosmetic charm of every beautiful woman!

In the morning Workshop, here are three of the typical queries:

(1) "Dr. Crane, what can we do to lessen the constant arguments among our children?"

Don't stop them!
For youngsters whet their wits on each other, thus boosting their I.Q.

And I reminded these young mothers that Dr. William James, our greatest American psychologist, said the reason he and his siblings were so outstanding, was the fact:

"Father encouraged us to argue and debate, even at the dinner table.

"So when one of us made a positive statement, the others forced him to defend his stand."

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, MAY 22, 1974

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: If you keep promises you've made and are not upset when others break appointments due to matters beyond their control, you will be able to see conditions as they are in logical perspective. Then you can get the ideas and cooperation from others that makes this a successful day, p.m.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You are associated with those who can now help you have a more fascinating, affluent life. Forget worries and act on opportunities.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Consult financiers, then delve into money matters successfully. The social could be fraught with trouble, so avoid at this time. Think cleverly.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Now you can get pretty much what you desire of a personal nature, so avoid higher-ups who're irate. Evening is fine for socials.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Much secret activity is important if you want to handle those problems you have in a wise way. Prepare carefully for some new project.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Contact good pals who really like you and can see your problems objectively. They will give right suggestions for greater success.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) A project requires the aid of a bigwig for success. An associate can be helpful physically, but not materially. Steer clear of an obstructionist in p.m.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Step out of that rocking chair, study conditions and make new associates who can be of real assistance. You have been in a rut too long.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Put good ideas to work with speed. Don't run out to fun places and drop work at hand. Stop getting off on tangents.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) An outsider can now give you the answers you need to improve your position in life. Don't permit a jealous home tie to stop you from activity.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Get at work vigorously, efficiently. Forget other interests that can interfere with your work. Dine with good friend in p.m.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take time for recreation, but don't spend too much money. Don't permit a higher-up to keep you working when you need relaxation. Avoid a gossip.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Your ideas are not very good today or tonight, so spend some time making yourself more charming. Make necessary corrections in business or personal life.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will be clever and intelligent, but there are moments of depression and dark forebodings, so teach early to quickly get out of such moods, since they can be highly destructive. Then this life becomes promising if the focus is high and in harmony with the favorable planetary positions. A good chart for the salesman, who can make much money. Give good musical training, too.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

"Thus, we whetted our wits on each other's."

(2) "Dr. Crane, why does a child suck his thumb chiefly at bedtime or when he is upset?" Because that is a form of natural tranquilizer.

It resurrects the happy, relaxing mood linked with his bottle and Mother's goodnight kiss.

Besides, many babies, even under 9 months of age, have peptic ulcers!

And the act of sucking on his thumb generates more saliva, which dilutes the acid in his stomach as he keeps swallowing it.

Give such a tense child a bedfellow in the form of a wooly lamb or cloth puppy, and he will occupy his hands with fondling them and thus feel more reassured.

As his hands are thus involved above the covers, he is less likely to accidentally hit upon masturbation.

(3) "Dr. Crane, how can a shy, sensitive child win friends?" Launch your entire family on my "Compliment Club" project.

Have a reporting session each night at the dinner table, for his will extrovert this shy person's attention from himself and make him a social detective, looking for merits in his companions.

When he then phrases a sincere compliment, his comrades will begin to like him and soon he will generate many friendships.

Solving child problems will be much easier if you parents will place these practical solutions from this column, into effect.

So send for my 200-point "Tests for Good Parents," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

Holding Peoples Day In Gastonia

RALEIGH (AP)—Gov. Jim Holshouser announced today he will hold his monthly People's Day at Gastonia next Tuesday.

From 10 a.m. to noon and from 1 to 4 p.m. the governor will be available on the third floor of the Gaston County Courthouse to meet with citizens with problems they wish to take to the governor. The interviews are limited to five minutes and are on a first-come, first serve basis.

Senate Democratic leaders are said to be pushing for quick action on health insurance, and Nixon on Monday repeated his similar call. He cautioned that with the end of wage-price controls, doctor bills threaten to increase by as much as 22 per cent this year.

The President's health plan would rely more on private insurance companies than would rival Democratic proposals.

Even some of the strongest backers of health-insurance reform are expressing doubts that a bill can be passed this year. The House Ways and Means Committee, which must originate such legislation, is holding hearings on health insurance and thus has not begun work on drawing a bill.

But Rep. Wilber D. Mills, D-Ark., Ways and Means chairman, is a chief sponsor of the broadest health bill with Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass.

Basically, the Kennedy-Mills plan would set up a national health insurance program as part of the Social Security system. Persons under 65 would be covered through higher payroll taxes; an expanded Medicare program would protect the elderly and disabled.

The Nixon plan would operate mainly through private insurance companies. All employers would have to offer basic insurance to their employees, although the employees could opt not to participate. The states would be required to contract with insurance companies to cover low-income persons. The Medicare program for the elderly would be continued.

Basic benefits of the two plans generally would be the same, although deductibles and cost-sharing features would differ.

The Spare Tire May Become Obsolete CLASSIFIED

By EDWARD S. LECHTZN
UPI Auto Writer
DETROIT (UPI) — New developments from the tire industry could make the spare tire about as necessary as the hand crank.

Whether the tire and auto manufacturers will be able to convince motorists they don't need a spare is another story altogether. Thousands of tubes are sold each year although tubeless tires have been on the market since the 1950's.

The B. F. Goodrich Co. has developed a tire that will seal most punctures while the Firestone Tire & Rubber Co. has followed a different route with a tire that can be driven 50 miles after going flat. Both could eliminate the need for a fifth tire.

The energy crisis has pushed Americans toward smaller and more economical cars and, at the same time, has left automakers looking for ways to cut down the weight of their cars. Automotive engineers would love to be able to eliminate the space and weight taken up by a spare tire, its wheel and jack.

Test Drive Made
"It's a kind of emotional subject trying to get motorists to rely on just the four tires on their car," observed one Firestone official during a display of the company's Steel Radial 500 ACT (Advanced Concept Tire).

Firestone engineers said tests have shown that a flat ACT tire can be driven about 50 miles at about 40 miles per hour, depending on what caused the tire damage and added there was an even greater margin built into the tire. A conventional tire would be ruined if driven only a fraction of a mile at that speed.

To prove the capability of the tire to run while it's flat, a crew drove 245 miles in a Ford

Pinto on which the front tire was punctured and the air valve stem removed to make sure the tire was flat.

The demonstration for newsmen covered the distance between Firestone headquarters in Akron, Ohio, to a ski lodge at Clarkston, north of Detroit, over turnpikes, freeways and city streets. They maintained a legal speed limit of 55 miles per hour on the turnpikes and freeways.

Bump Designed
The tire runs so smoothly while flat that engineers have decided to design in a "bump" that will cause a slight vibration while it's running flat. The "bump" would warn the driver that the tire needs attention, but would not affect the steering or handling of the car.

While company officials say no price has been set for the tire when it is finally introduced during the 1976 model year, it probably will be more expensive than conventional steel radial tires. One objective, however, is to make four cheaper than five of the present tires.

The ACT steel radial tire is constructed in such a way that should a flat occur the tire would settle down onto the wheel rim. The tire would not flop on the rim, as does a conventional tire when air pressure is lost. It is the flopping that results in steering control difficulty and damage to both the tire and the wheel.

Richard A. Riley, Firestone president, said that flat tires are becoming less common with the increased use of belted tires.

"But our surveys show that one-third of car-owning households had a flat tire during the past year," Riley said.

Punctures Sealed
He added that 72 per cent of these occurred within two miles of a service station, while 5 per cent were more than 10 miles from a service facility. The survey also showed that 38 per cent of the tires which went flat were well worn at the time.

While Firestone looks for a way to let a driver keep going even though he has a flat tire, Goodrich would rather design a tire that probably won't go flat in most cases.

Goodrich put its self-sealing Golden Lifesaver steel radial tire on the replacement market in January. It has a cellular liner system that has successfully sealed punctures up to one-quarter inch in diameter. The idea of mending tire punctures through the use of a built-in puncture sealant isn't new.

Technical Problems
In 1891, a patent application filed with the U.S. Patent Office described an air-cushioned tire with a "lining or partial lining of viscous or plastic rubber, which will provide for the closing up of holes made in the air-cell of the tire...will close up the pierced opening when the piercing object is withdrawn."

Goodrich marketed a self-sealing tubeless tire in the early 1950s, but by the end of the decade only a few brands of tubeless tires with a sealant feature remained on the market, mainly because of technical problems with the sealant. The superior quality of tubeless tires themselves made the extra-cost feature uneconomical.

In the new Goodrich tire, the sealing liquid has been replaced by an elastomeric cellular liner which is an integral part of the tire.

When the tire is punctured, the individual cells that contain the same pressure as the tire itself expand to seal around the puncturing object. This is a mechanical reaction, entirely different from the behavior of soft, sticky sealants that depend on fluidity for their sealing properties.

When the puncturing object—such as a large nail—is pulled out, a coating on the interior of the tire casing helps in the hole-plugging operation and the tire can continue to provide normal service with no repairs.

VEPCO Argues For Rate Boost

RICHMOND, Va. (AP)—Virginia Electric & Power Co. officials resumed testifying today in their efforts to convince the State Corporation Commission to approve a $50 million rate hike.

Even that increase to Virginia power customers apparently won't be sufficient, Vepco President T. Justin Moore told the commissioners Monday.

He said the $50 million will be inadequate because of a sharp drop in Vepco stock value, rising interest rates and other factors, including a decline of investor interest in utilities at this time.

In supplemental testimony filed with the SCC as he walked to the witness chair, Moore said, "We do not now enlarge our application, but we emphasize the increasing urgency for the company and its customers of prompt approval of the full amount of the rate relief requested."

Vepco is seeking a two-part rate hike package. It asks the SCC to make permanent an $18.6 million surcharge the SCC permitted to be imposed last January, plus a $31.4 million general increase. This package would bring the utility's rate of return of investment up to the 8.56 per cent authorized by the commission in 1972. Vepco received a $41 million rate increase in 1972.

The SCC voted Monday to reject a motion by intervenors to set the rate-making formula it would use in deciding how much, if any, of Vepco's request to grant.

The commission action was based on the 1972 rate hike application hearing, when the commission determined that rate-making must be flexible and not locked to any rigid formula. The SCC said at that time that it would consider both the company's financial experience of the preceding year and projected future costs.

Vepco has based much of its case on that 1972 decision.

Ex-Nixon Aide Ends Sentence

LOMPOC, Calif. (AP) — Herbert Porter, a former presidential aide, has been released from the Federal Correctional Institution after serving 27 days of a 30-day sentence, a prison spokesman said Monday.

The former scheduling director of the Committee to Re-elect the President was released Friday with his term reduced by three days for good behavior, the spokesman said.

Parents Pray Their SLA Children Will Surrender

By LYLE W. PRICE
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — As lawmen continued their search for Patricia Hearst and William and Emily Harris, the distraught parents of the suspected Symbionese Liberation Army members pleaded with their children to surrender rather than face possible violent death.

With the memory of last Friday's flaming deaths of six SLA members vivid in her mind, Mrs. Betty Bunnell, Harris' mother, said: "All of us just can't bear the thought of seeing anything on film like we saw this past weekend, and to think that it might happen to my son is almost unbearable and I do wish he would give himself up."

Mrs. Harris' father, Frederic Schwartz, flew to Los Angeles from Chicago Monday night to plead with his daughter to surrender to him. In a statement aimed at Emily, 27, Schwartz said, "You have only two choices open now: You may elect to die an equally horrible and totally useless death ... Your other choice is to come forth and live." He offered to meet her and take her to law officers.

And in Hillsborough, Calif.,

Catherine Hearst, mother of the 20-year-old coed whose kidnapping on Feb. 4 set off the series of events, said, "I hope she will give herself up and come home."

But there was no sign that Miss Hearst or the Harrises, a white couple, were about to give up voluntarily. And more than 100 local, state and federal law officers remained on full-time duty in search of the three, who are described as "armed and extremely dangerous" and possibly the last remnants of the small band of terrorists.

Law officers said their search for Miss Hearst and the Harrises was still centered in Southern California, although Los Angeles Police Cmdr. Pete Hegan declared, "If they've got any sense, they'd have left. Things are getting hot here."

The three are wanted on FBI complaints, filed Monday, for investigation of illegal use and possession of automatic weapons.

The FBI decision to classify Miss Hearst as an SLA participant capped a wild weekend in which six members of the SLA, including its top leader, Cinque, died after an hour-long gun battle with 500 police at a south Los Angeles hideout.

The FBI said it concluded that Miss Hearst had joined the revolutionary clique which violently kidnapped her 3½ months ago after an 18-year-old youth identified her and the Harrises as the persons who kidnapped him for 12 hours and stole his truck in a getaway from a sporting goods store last Thursday. The FBI said it believed Miss Hearst fired 30 rounds of automatic rifle slugs into the store after Harris allegedly bungled an attempt to shoplift a 49-cent pair of socks.

William Sullivan, an FBI official in Los Angeles, said the bungled shoplifting started police into the rapid series of weekend developments in which they began to close in on the SLA for the first time. "If these people didn't make mistakes, it would be hard as hell to catch them," he said Monday.

Miss Hearst, who had been studying art history at the University of California and planning a summer wedding when she was kidnaped, "will be given the opportunity to surrender," Sullivan said. But he added solemnly: "If she opens fire on FBI agents or police, the fire will be returned."

The FBI said it has received numerous reports on the possible whereabouts of the three and was checking them out."

Among the leads was a report from a landlady in Los Angeles who said two black men and a white woman whom she said looked like Miss Hearst had tried to rent an apartment Sunday night—offering $500.

She said when she told them there was no room, one of the men nicked her dress with a knife.

And Emmy Brubach, the Hearst family cook for eight years, said she was sure she saw Miss Hearst driving a red Volkswagen on Sunday on U.S. 101 south of San Francisco. The time would have been about the same as the Los Angeles "sighting."

In Hillsborough, Miss Hearst's father, Randolph A. Hearst, who vainly sponsored a $2 million food-giveaway in a ransom effort, said he did not believe his daughter would give herself up, but clung to his belief that she has been brainwashed or coerced.

Hearst, editor and president of the San Francisco Examiner, said he thought Patty "honestly believes that she's a member of the group. This sort of brainwashing is not an unheard of thing ..."

Hearst emphasized that "so far, she hasn't done anything, really. She's fired a gun. She's been at a bank; she didn't fire anything in the bank and, at that point in time, it was quite debatable whether she was in this thing of her own free will." U.S. Atty. James Browning Jr. said Monday it is "entirely possible" that Miss Hearst now will be indicted for her part in a San Francisco bank robbery last month. Currently, she is sought only as a material witness in the holdup. The four persons originally charged with the bank robbery were among the six who died in the Los Angeles shootout Friday when their hideout house burned.

Browning said a grand jury will listen to new testimony from Thomas Matthews, 18, of Los Angeles, who claims a woman he identified as Miss Hearst told him she willingly took part in the robbery. In a tape recording in April, Miss Hearst said she had taken part in the robbery of her own free will.

More Today Believe Dean

NEW YORK (AP) — Pollster Louis Harris says a nationwide survey of 1,555 adults shows 52 per cent of the nation believes charges by John W. Dean III that President Nixon knew about the Watergate cover-up.

Thirty per cent of those queried on May 7 and 8 did not believe the former White House counsel's allegations, Harris said Monday.

Harris said the respondents felt Dean "has been more truthful about the Watergate cover-up than President Nixon" by a 45 to 32 per cent margin, with 23 per cent undecided.

Dean was a government witness at the criminal conspiracy trial of former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and ex-Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans.

Fifty-two per cent of Harris' sample said they were "unshaken in their estimate of Dean's veracity" after Mitchell and Stans were acquitted. Twenty-six per cent felt Dean's credibility declined and 22 per cent were not sure.

Only 28 per cent of those polled accepted Nixon's claim that edited White House tapes prove Dean was guilty of improper and illegal acts. Forty-six per cent said they did not believe Nixon and 26 per cent were unsure.

Preventive Care Urged

PINEHURST, N.C. (AP)—Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt has proposed that North Carolina doctors join state and local governments in a massive program of preventive health care for pre-school children.

Hunt spoke Monday to the banquet of the state medical society's political fund-raising agency, MEDPAC.

He said too many North Carolina children never see a doctor from their birth until they enter school. Many of them are found to have physical problems that cause them to fall behind their classmates.

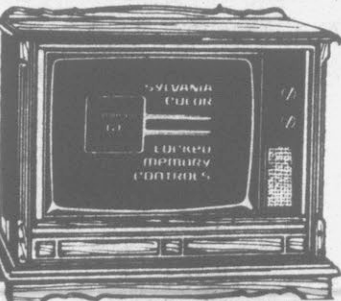

In addition, Hunt said, their problems have often advanced beyond the stage where they could be easily cured when the children reach the age of 5 or 6.

Hunt said he would like local governments to take a census of all pre-school children in their areas and check to see whether each had seen a doctor in the previous year.

He said private physicians should handle the diagnoses and treatment of the children with problems, with the state providing needed financial assistance.

FOUND DEAD
GREENSBORO (AP)—Sidney W. Lancaster, 59, a lawyer from Raleigh, was found shot to death in a Greensboro motel room Monday.
