By BARRY SCHWEID Associated Press Writer CAIRO, Egypt (AP) — Henry A. Kissinger arrived here today en route home from his 33-day marathon peace mission, and a senior American official said the cease-fire agreement he mediated between Israel and Syria would take effect as soon as it is signed on Friday. Before leaving Jerusalem, the American secretary of state told newsmen the pact may become "a turning point in the history of the Middle East."

party flew here to report to President Anwar Sadat on the accord, said wounded prisoners of war would be exchanged within 24 hours of the signing in Geneva. As part of the agreement to separate Israeli and Syrian forces in the Golan Heights, the official said, Israel would give up the Golan city of Quneitra and six or seven villages taken in the 1967 war, as well as land gained last October. The U.S. official said Israel would retain possession of three strategic hills and all of its settlements, but will yield about "a field and a half" of cultivated land east of the disengagement line. The text of the accord distributed to newsmen gives Syrian and Israeli negotiators until Wednesday to work out details of the troop separation in the Golan Heights. Actual disengagement is to begin by next Thursday and completed by June 25. All of the remaining 73 Israeli and 408 Syrian, Moroccan and Iraqi prisoners are to be repatriated by Thursday. In a protocol accompanying the agreement, Israel and Syria agreed that the U.N. peacekeeping force will number about 1,250 men and will carry out regular inspections. But the force is not to hamper the Syrian civil administrators who will move into the demilitarized zone between the separated armies. Kissinger and Sadat are to lunch together during a six-hour stopover before the secretary continues to Washington. Announcement of the Syrian-Israeli agreement Wednesday did not halt fighting in the Golan Heights, and the Syrian command reported the 80th consecutive day of shelling there. Premier Golda Meir was presenting the pact to the Israeli parliament today, and Information Minister Shimon Peres said it was expected to pass despite opposition from the right-wing Likud bloc. Israeli officials said Mrs. Meir might resign immediately after a favorable vote, turning over the government to Premier-designate Yitzhak Rabin. The break-through in reaching agreement came Tuesday when Israel dropped its insistence that the pact incorporate written guarantees against Palestinian terrorist infiltrators from Syria. In exchange for the crucial concession, Israel reportedly got an American pledge that Israeli retaliation against terrorist attacks would be "understood" in Washington — interpreted to mean the United States would veto any U.N. Security Council resolutions condemning possible Israeli reprisal raids.

Warn Nixon Of 'Grounds'

By JOHN BECKLER Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — The House Judiciary Committee today warned President Nixon he may be providing grounds for impeachment by refusing to honor committee subpoenas for Watergate tapes.

Approval of a response to Nixon's letter was only one of several matters to be settled by the committee today after the completion of the preliminary presentation of Watergate evidence. "Very few prosecutors ever have this kind of evidence available," said Rep. Charles Rangel, D-N.Y., a former federal prosecutor, after the committee wound up the preliminary presentation of Watergate evidence Wednesday. White House lawyer James D. St. Clair said the committee's impeachment case does not amount to much, but some committee members disagreed Wednesday.

By a vote of 28 to 10, it authorized the sending of a letter to Nixon stating that his refusal will be weighed by the committee when it votes on whether to recommend his impeachment. "In meeting their constitutional responsibility," the letter says, "committee members will be free to consider whether your refusals warrant the drawing of adverse inferences concerning the substance of the material and whether your refusals in and of themselves constitute a ground for impeachment." An earlier draft had said members would be "obliged" to draw such an inference, but it was softened at the suggestion of Rep. Lawrence Hogan, R-Md. Eight Republicans joined with 20 Democrats in approving the letter, which was signed by Chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J. The letter was a response to Nixon's letter of May 22 saying no further Watergate matter would be provided. In his May 22 letter, Nixon based his refusal to supply 11 tapes subpoenaed by the committee on the grounds that it would lead to a never ending process of continuing requests. Nixon said, "Such a massive invasion into the confidentiality of presidential conversations" would fatally weaken the office of the presidency. Nixon also told the committee it already had "the full story of Watergate insofar as it relates to presidential knowledge and presidential actions." The committee will move next week into new areas in its inquiry, and will vote today on opening some of next week's hearings to the public. It also will decide on a response to Nixon's refusal to give it any more Watergate evidence. Sirica refused to meet the request because the tapes of the four conversations, two on June 20, 1972, and the others from June 30 and Sept. 15 of the same year, were delivered to him for rulings on claims of executive privilege by President Nixon. He said it is up to Nixon whether or not the tapes should be turned over to the committee. Citing this as a special case, Sirica said in a legal memo answering the Judiciary Committee, "The court does not in any way imply that the recordings sought are irrelevant to the impeachment investigation." Sirica said his decision "is based rather on the wholly unrelated ground that the court simply has no role to play in the matter." The judge said if the committee is turned down by the White House, then it must decide whether to pursue the tapes in the courts once again.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

AN OILY CAT

I need to know how to get motor oil off a kitten. I'm afraid using detergent would hurt him. Mrs. R.O.S.

Yes, detergent may burn his skin. He needs five or six baths with a mild soap and thorough rinses immediately, local veterinarian, Dr. Michael J. House said, both because of the burning to the skin and because he would ingest the stuff trying to clean himself with his tongue.

Local pathologist, Dr. Charles Gilbert, said he has seen pneumonia set in in children after such a petroleum-based substance is ingested. He suggested you watch your pet closely and take him to a vet immediately if this appears to be happening.

EATING DUST

We Cherry View citizens begged a long time to get our streets hard-topped because we were eating so much dust. And we paid our share of the bill.

Several weeks ago a pipe burst on Sheppard Street between Sixth Street and Douglas Avenue. They tore up part of the street and put sand and rock there, making it dustier than it was before. We'd like to know why they can't fix it back. J. H.

Greenville Public Works Director Mayo Allen said Greenville Utilities puts sand and rock on any portion of a street that must be broken for work to be done on water pipes or gas lines or whatever. Then it's left for some time to allow sufficient settling before a work order is issued for the Street division of Public Works to pour asphalt. "If this time is not allowed, then the asphalt will sink and either break or cause a dip in the street," Allen said. The paving on Sheppard Street was completed soon after your letter was received, however, as the work order had already been issued.

BEACH COTTAGES OFFERED

Three Hotline readers offered cottages to the residents of Massey Cottage at the Methodist Home for Children in Raleigh, in answer to Hotline's appeal Monday.

Those offering the use of their summer homes at Atlantic Beach and Emerald Isle were Joe Brown, Mrs. S. A. Sewall, and Fred James, all of Greenville. James T. Lester Sr., the cottage parent who made the request, said his children had been offered a cottage by a Raleigh resident the same night our Hotline item was published. Chances of any of the children in the nine other cottages at the Home's going to the beach have appeared slim because of the increased rental prices this summer, though, he said. He referred to us to Chaplain Waggoner at the Home, who was to make arrangements for other groups of eight to 10 children to use the cottages so generously offered by the Greenville people.

Sirica Refuses Tapes

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica today refused to turn over tapes of four White House conversations sought by the House Judiciary Committee for its impeachment inquiry. Sirica said he was legally powerless to meet the request because the tapes of the four conversations, two on June 20, 1972, and the others from June 30 and Sept. 15 of the same year, were delivered to him for rulings on claims of executive privilege by President Nixon. He said it is up to Nixon whether or not the tapes should be turned over to the committee. Citing this as a special case, Sirica said in a legal memo answering the Judiciary Committee, "The court does not in any way imply that the recordings sought are irrelevant to the impeachment investigation." Sirica said his decision "is based rather on the wholly unrelated ground that the court simply has no role to play in the matter." The judge said if the committee is turned down by the White House, then it must decide whether to pursue the tapes in the courts once again.

Senate Revives Foreign Aid Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has revived the administration's first foreign aid bill of the year. It passed 55 to 27 Wednesday a measure to authorize an additional $1.5 billion U.S. contribution to the International Development Association for lending over four years to the world's poorest nations. The House voted down a similar bill in January, 248 to 155, but the Senate couched it in different terms—$375 million a year for the next four years— to give the House opportunity for another vote.

Bids On Drilling

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — Oil companies headed by Mobil, which said it couldn't pass up the once-in-a-lifetime opportunity, submitted bids totaling $1.5 billion for new drilling space on the seabottom off the Texas coast. Department of Interior officials will study the high bids today and reach a decision soon on which ones to accept on the 123 Gulf of Mexico tracts involved. H. R. Hirsch of Houston, southern exploration manager for Mobil Oil Corp., said the tracts were the best of the Texas offshore area and the sale was an opportunity that won't knock again. Mobil headed a combine that was the big buyer, with high bids totaling $650 million. One fifth of each bid had to be in cash, and most companies took out bank loans to cover it. The most popular tract of the sale was 5,760 acres located about 100 miles off the beach south of Port Arthur in water 200 feet deep.

Suez Canal Partly Cleared For Ship

By AHMED SHAWKI Associated Press Writer LAKE TIMSAH, Egypt (AP) — Steaming "carefully and with a bit of worry," a British naval command ship has become the first large ship to transit as much as half the war-blocked Suez Canal since 1967. The 100-mile waterway, linking the Mediterranean Sea at Port Said with the Gulf of Suez and the Red Sea, and essentially east with west, still is a long way from commercial use. Work on rebuilding the canal began after Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger negotiated a disengagement of Egyptian and Israeli forces along the waterway.

With raucous toots from its siren, HMS Abdiel docked at Ismailia on Lake Timсах Wednesday to set up shop as the command ship for a Royal Navy mine-hunting team clearing mines and other relics of war from the canal. It was closed after the six-day Arab-Israeli war in June, 1967. "We crossed the waterway carefully and with a bit of worry," said Comdr. J.D.W. Husband, the 1,500-ton command support ship's skipper. The 50-mile voyage from Port Said took five hours. Under normal conditions it would have required three, officials said. United States and British naval teams have spearheaded the operation that began in early April to clear the waterway. Asked when the clearance operation will end, Husband replied that it might take a year at the present rate of progress. American minesweeping helicopters are to complete their work by early next week. The canal's commercial importance will be diminished by the advent in the last few years of so-called supertankers, which are too large to use it and still will have to sail around Africa on their journeys from the Middle Eastern oil fields to the West, principally Europe. Its principal significance is likely to be military, giving the Soviet Mediterranean fleet rapid access to the Indian Ocean.

Oil Export Cartel Is Talking Higher Taxes Instead Of Price Hike

By ERIC WAHA Associated Press Writer VIENNA, Austria (AP) — The chief executive officer of the cartel which handles 80 per cent of global oil exports said today his organization might hike oil taxes rather than prices when a freeze expires July 1. Abderrahman Khene, secretary-general of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries — OPEC — said that members might decide to step up their income by increased taxation to reap the windfall profits of the Western oil companies. In an exclusive interview, he made clear OPEC expected the oil companies to absorb this, and not make their customers pay for it by boosting oil prices. "Not long ago, the oil companies were making a profit of about 50 cents per barrel of crude oil while, starting in the last months, they were making $4 or more," he said. "Maybe we will try to reap the windfall profits of the oil companies without changing the posted prices" at the meeting of the OPEC oil ministers in Quito, Ecuador starting June 15. Stressing this was his personal opinion, he said this could be done by boosting the government take of the OPEC countries through higher taxation. OPEC, which includes the Persian Gulf producers, decided here March 16 to extend the freeze of oil prices until July 1, stating they were giving industrialized countries a chance to control their galloping inflation. The so-called posted price for Persian crude oil at the time was $11.65. The government take from it by the producing countries was about $7. The posted price is a tax reference price on which OPEC countries base their taxes and royalties. The actual market price the petroleum companies have been getting for oil has been hovering around $9 a barrel.

Funds-Handling Probe Revealed

RALEIGH (AP)—U.S. Atty. Thomas S. McNamara confirmed today that the FBI is investigating possible discrepancies in the handling of federal funds at Kittrell College and has made a preliminary report to him. McNamara said he had reached no determination in the matter and the FBI is continuing its investigation at the small, predominantly black institution near Henderson.

O'Berry Center Resident Charged In Murder

GOLDSBORO—A 27-year-old resident of O'Berry Center for the retarded was charged yesterday with murder in the death of a Greenville resident and social worker here April 29. Charged in connection with the death of 25-year-old Mary Carol

Faulkner Wray, Route 8, Greenville, was James Henry Bergerson of Wendell, an O'Berry resident since 1965. Mrs. Wray, married only two weeks before her death, was beaten and stabbed with a pencil. Her body was found about 4 p.m., partially wrapped in a blanket on the grounds of the O'Berry center. She had last been seen about lunchtime at a picnic area where she went for lunch and apparently to sunbathe. Bergerson, according to Dr.

Jose M. DeVarona, superintendent of O'Berry, can neither read nor write and has an intelligence quotient of 40. Given a hearing before Judge R. J. Lanier in Wayne County Superior Court yesterday, Bergerson was appointed an attorney and ordered sent to Dix Hospital in Raleigh for a 30-day evaluation period. The evaluation is to determine if Bergerson has sufficient mental capacity to understand his defense and any plea that may be entered in the case, and whether he is capable of standing trial on the charge. Mrs. Wray had been employed at O'Berry Center for about two months, commuting each day from Greenville where she was a graduate student at East Carolina University.

Fellow Drivers Given Credit By Woman Trucker

By PATRICIA FOOTE
The Seattle Times
SEATTLE (AP) — It's not hard to spot Sandy Moser in the crowd of drivers at the Atlantic Richfield Co. terminal on Harbor Island. She's the woman.

To the best of her knowledge, she's the only female driver of gasoline tanker trucks in the United States. But Sandy ("Don't use Mrs., Miss or Ms., just call me Sandy") refuses to get on a women's liberation soapbox about her job.

"I don't call myself a woman's liberationist. I call myself a woman's opportunist. I was an average housewife, before I got this job," said the 35-year-old mother of three.

She unexpectedly found herself on her own, with a mortgage to pay and children to support. Sandy wanted something "outside a woman's pay" so she wouldn't condemn her family to merely existing on a meager salary.

She saw an advertisement for a truck-driving school and applied, only to be told that "The Northwest wasn't ready for a woman truck driver." When Atlantic Richfield called the school looking for a woman driver, the company was given her name and called her for an interview.

Sandy was informed that if she took the school's course and passed she could have a job driving a truck. The tests included lifting a hose that weighed 180 pounds when filled.

"I barely could get it up on my shoulder, but I did," she said matter-of-factly.

Sandy has been with the company for more than eight months. Her six weeks of on-the-job training consisted of learning the business by riding with another driver. "The company practically had to train me all over again," Sandy said. "I wouldn't recommend the driving school. It didn't teach me enough."

Although some men at the terminal and at service stations resented her at first, Sandy gives her fellow workers all of the credit for her success. They went out of their way to help her, she said, and she never would have made it without them.

Backing the huge trucks is difficult. She occasionally has gotten stuck and had to have one of the men come get her out. Her learning experiences also include poking a hole in the cab when she hit a low overhang.

As a beginner, Sandy was not opening internal valves to compartments in the truck and trailer correctly, causing the hoses to become too heavy. "It almost killed me until they discovered what I was doing wrong," she said.

Sandy hurt her back and is still receiving treatment. But her male counterparts encouraged her to stick with the job.

Shower Given Miss Boyd

Miss Vickie Boyd, bride-elect of Grover McGlohon, was honored at a miscellaneous floating bridal shower Saturday night at the home of Mrs. Nelda Highsmith.

Hostesses were Mrs. Nelda Highsmith, Mrs. Marsha Tripp, Mrs. Millie Leblond, Miss Trudy McGlohon, Miss Robin Burnette and Miss Sandra L. niels.

For the occasion the honoree was attired in a gold floral dress and was remembered with a corsage of gold mums.

A white linen cloth trimmed in lace was used on the refreshment table which was centered with pink and white floral arrangement.

As gifts were opened they were displayed on the gift table. Good-byes were said by the hostesses.

saying, "You're going to hang in there, aren't you? You aren't going to quit?"

"I've never been a determined person," she admitted, "but for some reason I was determined to do this." Her determination has paid off in both satisfaction and money.

Her probation period is nearly up, and she's earning more than $1,000 a month. "It's not fantastic," Sandy said, "but it's pretty good money for a woman."

When passing out credit to others for helping her, Sandy speaks warmly of her parents and her children, Taffy, 17; Cindy, 16; and Rick, 14.

"They really encouraged me," Sandy said. "Sometimes I'm embarrassed for the kids to have to say, 'My mother is a trucker,' but they seem kind of proud."

When she's not working, Sandy spends her time on the family's three-acre farm in North Bend. She is enrolled in a tile painting class, enjoys sewing and is planning on a big vegetable garden this year. Remodeling the house also is high on her list.

The contrast between her view of herself as a woman and herself as a trucker is exemplified by the soft, blue, tucked blouse she wore with jeans and heavy work boots on the job.

"I was standing in front of a mirror the other day, and when I raised my arms to comb my hair I noticed that I'm starting to get big muscles in my arms," she said.

"I work especially hard at retaining my femininity. You don't have to be masculine to be a truck driver. All you ask for is an opportunity equal to any man's."

She pulled herself easily into the cab of the truck and grinned as she gave her carefully rehearsed truckdriver's wave. Blue blouse or not, she looked right at home.

Miss Saunders Entertained

Miss Mary Jo Saunders, bride-elect of Ens. Hugo Granger Blackwood, USN, was honored at a linen shower given by Mrs. Roy R. Beck and Miss Mary Jo Beck.

Upon arrival, the honoree and her mother were presented corsages of white carnations. Guests were greeted by Miss Beck.

The table was decorated in a color scheme of yellow and white with a floral arrangement of spring flowers.

Gifts were presented to the honoree. Good-byes were later said by the hostesses.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

For the last ten years I've worked from my home and if there's one thing I've missed it's that great American tribal custom called, "The Lunch Hour."

At home, it's nothing. You open up the refrigerator door and if it doesn't attack you, repulse you, run from you, or multiply before your eyes, you eat it and get back to work.

In an office, The Lunch Hour dominates the entire day beginning from the moment you arrive until you leave. Important decisions like "What time are your eating lunch?"

"Where are you eating lunch?" "With whom are you eating lunch?"

I once worked in an office where we arrived at 10 and immediately reported for a "Lunch Hour briefing." There was a makeshift ward room containing a map equivalent to the one the English used in World War II to keep track of their ships. Only we used small plastic people representing the office force on a map of the city.

When we were all assembled, I asked for a show of personnel. "All right, how many are eating lunch today?"

The two on diets and the one who was going to have something brought in to make a late afternoon dental appointment were eliminated faster than a croupier who won for the house at Las Vegas.

"All right, that leaves five of you..."

"I want to go at 11:30 and avoid the rush at a new place called, 'Sammy's,'" said Ruth.

I checked my map. "Sammy's is a 35-minute ride. That means you won't be back in time for your coffee break."

"Then I'll go at 11." "So, I'll go at 12:30," said Jean. "Marcia and I will go together."

"You can't go together. That leaves the phones unmanned." "What about Sarah who is having something brought in?"

"If Ruth is bringing me lunch and arrives in time for her coffee break, I'll be in the restroom eating."

"That leaves newcomer Debbie. Could you eat in the company cafeteria at 10:30?" "It's 10:35 now."

"So, take an extra five minutes."

These briefings went on every day for three years when one morning the editor came in and said, "Will you knock it off with the lunch hour plans. We have a paper to get out!"

It was the first time any of us knew what they produced in the building.

Greenville Club Receives Award

A state award was presented to Greenville Credit Women International at the 33rd annual convention held Sunday and Monday in Charlotte.

Receiving the attendance award, the club received a silver bowl and certificate for placing first in competition. Representing the club were Clara Seago, Pearl Hartsell, Ina Wingate, Mary Roberson and Angelene Venters, president.

Highlights of the event included an awards breakfast and the installation of state officers. Mrs. Venters was installed as state treasurer and also won the award presented to the "Outstanding Local Club President." The award, a silver goblet, is presented to a local club president of the N.C. State Association of Credit Women International by Miss Mildred Richardson of Greensboro.

The award goes to the president who cooperates with the state president, enters into all of the state association programs and attends state meetings. Mrs. Venters resides with her husband, Wilson, and son, Todd, in Ayden. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T.J. Haddock Sr. of Rt. 5, Greenville.

She is currently employed by the Small Business Administration of Greenville. Mrs. Venters was named "Credit Woman of the Year" for two consecutive years by the Greenville club.

Mrs. Carol Hardee of Chapel Hill, formerly of Pitt County, was named president of the state organization and succeeds Mrs. Nancy Bigger of Salisbury. Mrs. Hardee announced that the President's Project for the year will be "Human Relations—The Key To Growth."

At the present time there are 15 CW-I Clubs in North Carolina. The convention was held jointly with the N.C. Merchants Association.

Unless He's Convincing, Keep At Job

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N. Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I do volunteer work at my child's school three mornings a week, and I enjoy it. I do not gossip, I mind my own business, and I am not better acquainted with my child's teachers than any other parent.

I felt quite satisfied with myself until my husband asked me to find some other kind of volunteer work. He says he "knows" our child resents Mother "nosing around" school.

Our child is an average student with no problems, and I was of the opinion that he enjoyed seeing me in school. All the mothers I know do some volunteer work involving their children. [Scouting, Sunday school, etc.] I am at a loss to figure this out. Can you? CONCERNED

DEAR CONCERNED: No. Ask your husband how he "knows" what he claims to know, and if he doesn't come up with something convincing, just keep on doing what you're doing.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 33-year-old married woman with three children. At school I was called "Pinocchio" because my nose was so long. I also was teased because I was flat-chested. This gave me a very bad inferiority complex.

Last summer I decided to see a plastic surgeon, so I looked in the yellow pages and picked out a name I liked and made an appointment. He charged me $25 just to tell me he wanted $1,500 to do my nose, and $3,000 for silicone implants, cash in advance! I don't have that much money now.

I was so desperate I wrote to President Nixon and asked if he knew of a plastic surgeon who would do it for less. I told him that life wasn't worth living without those operations.

He forwarded my letter to the Mental Health Department, and they suggested I call "Suicide Prevention" if I felt the need to talk to somebody.

Abby, I hate to go anywhere because I always see women with little noses and big bosoms and I feel like crawling into a hole.

Please, please help me.

A MISERABLE MESS

DEAR MISERABLE: You can't be as big a mess as you say because at least one man thought you were appealing enough to marry.

Start with your nose. Call your county medical society for the names of plastic surgeons who would let you pay on time. Also, try a university medical school.

Nobody has everything, dear. Write to Frederick's of Hollywood for their lingerie catalogue. Their padded bras are so realistic, they could fool a nursing baby. And, good luck.

DEAR ABBY: A man in prison for murder wrote and asked you if murder was a forgivable sin. He said he could find no reference to it in the Bible. All he could find were references to "an eye for an eye."

Your reply, "There is no sin that will not be forgiven by sincere repentance," was beautiful. Perhaps it would be useful to further point out that three of the most admired persons in the Bible were also murderers—Moses, David and Paul. So surely if these men could rise to such heights after having committed such an act, it shows the way for anyone to do so. W. T. McI.: WASHINGTON, D. C.

Brakes On Class Action Suits

The U.S. Supreme Court decision which limits class action suits may hamper such cases in the future; still it would be difficult to argue that the decision was not soundly based.

The court ruled in a split decision that class actions taken on behalf of large groups of people should not be allowed unless the people have been notified of the suit, and the persons bringing the suit pay the cost.

Class action suits are something of recent origin and they have been used in consumer and environmental cases. While the purpose of such are often justifiable, those who bring the suits have no assurance that those embraced in the "class" are entirely sympathetic to the cause.

A "class" can include dozens, hundreds, thousands or even millions of people and it is always possible that some of those included have other thoughts on the matter under consideration.

There will still be ways to bring class action suits, of course. Those who bring them can simply make every effort to notify those in a class who are included. It may be that the class can be limited so that all can easily be notified in order to establish the legal point. Once a decision has been rendered the way will be open for others who feel they are affected.

Classes of people can be very broad and very indefinite and the U.S. Supreme Court has acted properly in this matter.

Nobody Talks Of Marriages

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Unlike the weather, which everybody talks about, nobody likes to talk about their own marriage—what's good and what's bad.

Dr. David Mace would like to change that attitude.

"In every other field, people with common interests get together to share experiences and talk about how things can be improved. Photographers get together, stamp collectors have meetings.

"But it's just taboo in our society to talk about how you are getting on in your marriage. . . and that very taboo imperils the institution of marriage which is the very foundation of our community.

Marriages are breaking up at a record rate in North Carolina as elsewhere in the nation, and this trend is a major factor in soaring crime statistics, emotional problems, and mental illnesses, Mace believes.

Kids Respond

Children, especially, are the victims of this new pressure on the home, "but two people can't be good parents if they are bad marriage partners," says the professor of family sociology at Bowman Gray School of Medicine's behavioral sciences center.

"We have been so furtive and secretive about our married happiness that many people have grown cynical about marriage altogether. It has been said and written that marriage is an over-rated and outmoded institution; and the tens of thousands of gloriously happy married people have never raised their voices to deny it. . . Why . . . are the best married people hiding their light under a bushel? Is it not time that some emerged from the seclusion of their happy, peaceful homes, and began to 'sell' marriage to a generation rapidly becoming cynical and disillusioned about it?"—Dr. David Mace.

But when the marriage is made right and two people are practicing love and warmth and shared growth, "then the first thing that happens is the kids become aware of this, and they respond in new and positive ways, improving the entire home atmosphere."

Things are not going at all well with marriage these days, says the world noted family life expert in his soft British accent. His studies and work in 60 nations—and for the past seven years in North Carolina—led Mace to two major new conclusions:

—We must shift emphasis from trying to patch up broken marriages and broken homes, to preventing the breakup in the first place by trying to define the rules and teaching people to make marriage work;

—Married couples themselves must get into the act since they have the most to gain from saving the institution, and from making their own marriages fuller and more enjoyable.

When marriages explode, Mace said, those in counseling "see that this trouble did not just develop yesterday. It grew over a long period of time. If steps had been taken earlier, there might have been no need to get into this mess.

"It's crazy to let people go into such a complicated thing as marriage and get deeper and deeper into trouble, and only when they are down, to offer any help," Mace said.

Last July, on their 40th wedding anniversary, Dr. Mace and his wife Vera launched a new national organization called the Association of Couples for Marriage Enrichment (ACME). The organization is headquartered at the Bowman Gray campus, and Dr. Clark Vincent and his wife are among the 60 Winston-Salem couples who are members.

Groups Formed

Groups are already formed in 25 other states, and moving into still more as the Maces quietly push their new idea. "The whole point is, it takes married couples to reach other married couples. We don't have anything to sell; it goes by word of mouth," Mace explained.

Working with family experts, mental health officials, churches, and other organizations, the Maces fully expect ACME to spring into national attention shortly.

The purpose is not to provide professional counseling, but to keep ACME an association of married couples who meet periodically in discussion groups and who occasionally participate in weekend retreats to explore marriage, obstacles to growth and happiness, and paths toward success.

"People find it is just wonderful to be able to talk about marriage and begin to identify things that could be better. . . it is a sharing of experiences—not an exchange of opinions—in which people can learn about themselves and about others. And surprisingly, they find that other married couples have shared the same experiences and what they thought were unique problems aren't unique at all," Mace said.

"Someday, perhaps neighbors can learn to share, and couples can sit down together and realistically talk about what goes on inside their marriages.

"They could discover a whole new realm for understanding and growth," Mace said.

If so, he believes, the institution of marriage could be saved.

Advantage To N.C. In Bald Head Island Plan

Carolina Cape Fear Corp. has announced that it will donate approximately 75 percent of Bald Head Island to the state for use as a nature preserve.

It has also been announced that the firm has received permission to build a marina for the area it plans to develop.

There is still controversy about development of this North Carolina Island, but at this point in the development the donation of part of the area seems to be to North Carolina's advantage.

Party Harmony Pleases Sugg

By JOHN KILGO

Jim Sugg, chairman of the North Carolina Democratic Party, was worried a couple of months ago that the congressional campaigns and the primary for the U. S. Senate would badly split his party in North Carolina.

But today Sugg is smiling and saying: "I'm delighted at the way the candidates conducted themselves in the primaries."

Democrats gathered in Raleigh last Saturday to bury the hatchet and talk about being united in November. Sugg says the session was a huge success.

"Most of the candidates, winners and losers, were in Raleigh," Sugg said. "They pledged to support the Democrats in November and our one goal is to win."

Sugg says Nick Galifianakis and Henry Hall Wilson, the top vote getters behind Robert Morgan in the Senate primary, were there and pledged to support Morgan in November against Republican William Stevens.

"Our candidates talked issues during the primaries," Sugg said. "Some people complained that the campaigns were too low key, but I'm pleased with the way the candidates acted. We will have absolutely no problems uniting for the fall elections. Galifianakis and Wilson were right there in Raleigh Saturday and made it plain that they plan to work for Morgan in the fall. This has to help us."

There were some complaints two years ago that Tar Heel Democrats ran their campaigns separate and apart from other party candidates and the result was damaging to the party and to the individual candidates.

Sugg says the Democrats don't want this to happen in the fall.

"We're not about to sit at headquarters and tell the candidates how they should conduct every detail of the campaign," Sugg said. "But we want the Democratic headquarters to be a coordinating agency. We want to know what they're doing so we can help them plan rallies and other things that go along with successful campaigns. Headquarters will do anything in the world it can to help the Democratic candidates win. We've told the candidates that and they understand we're there to help them."

Sugg was prepared to admonish candidates during the primary if they did things he felt would hurt the party in the fall. He says he never once considered asking a candidate to change his style or watch his step.

Sugg feels "the whole sordid Watergate affair" will help Tar Heel Democrats in November, but it won't he says, replace hard work.

Public Forum

To the editor:

On April 12 James J. Kilpatrick said in his column that Dr. William Shockley was shouted down or "disinvited" at Princeton, among other places.

Dr. Shockley was not "disinvited," and he spoke at Princeton University on December 4, 1973, not only without being shouted down but with no shouting in the hall. Therefore, it was frustrating, to say the least, to read the error and Mr. Kilpatrick's characterization of this University as one which prided itself as a citadel of free speech "in the past."

Incidentally, just before the debate was scheduled to begin, Roy Innis disinvited himself, and so Dr. Shockley debated a substitute, Anthropologist Ashley Montagu.

I would appreciate your printing this letter to correct the mistake.

Sincerely,
William H. Weathersby

Strength For Today

TO PICK UP FORTUNE

"Fortune lies in the gutter," declared James Monroe, fifth president of the United States. "Anybody who takes the trouble to bend down can pick it up."

One may say, of course, that it was easy enough for James Monroe to make such a declaration. He was gifted, and came from a background of affluence and social prominence. Twice he had been governor of Virginia and had represented the United States abroad on important diplomatic missions. He capped his career by two

United States.

But history shows that more often than not those who have come to fame have not been the highly endowed, but those of ordinary ability who would take the trouble to bend down and pick up fortune. Great service in the world is generally rendered by people who above all have energy, abundant common sense, and a sacrificial spirit. As a purely practical matter, then, there is a great deal of truth in Monroe's statement about the easy availability of fortune.

A Gusher Of Statistics

The reporter who spends a couple of hours talking with Vincent P. Barabba, director of the Bureau of the Census, is likely to come away from the interview with mixed impressions. The reporter may find himself simultaneously impressed, overwhelmed, and still skeptical. The bureau manifestly is doing a great deal. The question is, is it doing too much?

The question arises with some frequency in an age of computers and data processing equipment. The machines are quite simply marvelous. They are vast, accommodating cows: Properly fed, they can be milked for tons of information. Their multiple stomachs can digest incredible cuds, and transform raw fodder into facts.

Barabba and his associates are especially enchanted these days with a new science of computer graphics. Using techniques that did not even exist a few years ago, they can plot onto maps a bewildering array of statistical material. On the morning I trooped down to Southeast Washington for a visit, Barabba was modestly showing off some sample maps of census tracts in the city of Des Moines. At a glance it was possible to tell how many children, old folks, poor people, rich people, or college graduates live within a given area. How many bathtubs in Boston? Before long Barabba may have them mapped out, block by block.

A large part of the bureau's work is concerned with the gathering of economic statistics. In recent years, a number of businessmen, especially small businessmen, have complained bitterly at the time-consuming demands imposed upon them. Life has become one durned questionnaire after another. Senator Thomas McIntire of New Hampshire has taken up their fight against the paperwork pollution. Though the senator does not put it so bluntly, he plainly feels that much of this paperwork is useless. He doubts that the information is worth the trouble and the expense required to collect it.

Barabba quite naturally takes an opposing view. He observes, reasonably, that the more information decision-makers have to work with, the more likely they are to make wise decisions. This applies in both the public and the private sectors. The city council thinking of expanding the gas works wants to know (and not merely guess) how many prospective customers may be found in a given area. The businessman thinking of launching a new restaurant is more likely to succeed, and less likely to go broke, if he knows exactly how many competitors he has to cope with.

To provide these and ten billion other answers, the bureau regularly demands data from the business community. Some 2.5 million companies are required to fill out one or more of the 288 business forms now in use. Another three million companies are sampled. Meanwhile, these same companies are feeding forms and information to Social Security, the Internal Revenue Service, and other agencies. As Senator McIntire has remarked, many businessmen cannot tend to their business because of the incessant forms. The senator cherishes a conviction that only the largest companies engage in any significant mining of the mountains of data that result.

Barabba believes the senator and other critics are mistaken, but he is agreeable to one more questionnaire to find out. The bureau is now embarking on a massive study of its own output. If the study indicates that some statistical nuggets are more trouble than they're worth, some reporting forms may be abolished. A skeptical reporter notes that in the past three years, the bureau has abolished only five forms while it was devising 25 new ones. But hope springs eternal: Perhaps the study will turn up ways in which the bureau can make its data more useful and more quickly comprehensible.

The dazzling proliferation of social, economic, and old-fashioned demographic statistics is a far cry from the mere "enumeration of free persons" which the Constitution requires of the government every ten years. How much is too much? I don't know, but Senator McIntire probably is on the right track when he com-

Fragile Peace Accord

By WILLIAM L. RYAN

AP Special Correspondent
The Syrian-Israeli military disengagement accord dramatically improves chances for Middle East stability. And so Syria's anxious ally, President Anwar Sadat of Egypt, can begin breathing a little easier.

But his relief must be diluted by an acute awareness of how fragile such an agreement can be.

Bringing Syria under the disengagement tent with Israel and Egypt not only was a breakthrough of incalculable importance: it was another minor miracle of the sort that is becoming a specialty of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger. Having produced this wonder, however, Kissinger now must apply his legerdemain to the even more impossible-looking job of turning truce into peace.

Syria long has been the enfant terrible of the Arab world. Her political leaders are invariably under severe pressures generated by the highly emotional Palestine issue. When Kissinger set out to bring Syria into an agreement of any description with the arch-enemy, it seemed he had taken on a hopeless task.

Meantime, Egypt's President Sadat, eager to get his nation on the road to economic health, must have had many an uneasy moment. All alone in his military disengagement pact with Israel, he was out on a long limb and looking uncomfortable.

Had Syria continued to hold out for long, Sadat could have been subject to the same sort of difficulty that plagued him before the October war, when intellectuals demanded an end, one way or another, to the situation of "no war, no peace."

When Arab terrorists burst into the picture so bloodily at a critical moment in the Syria-Israel negotiations, it had seemed all Kissinger's patient labor would go down the drain.

Now the scene shifts to the Geneva conference, and if the Syria-Israel phase had looked tough, the Geneva one can be much tougher. Peace, in fact, is a long way off.

The terror situation still can threaten the fragile agreement, since that can hardly be a se-

40 Years Ago Today

May 30, 1934

Flags waved from scores of flagpoles along the streets in the business district today as the city honored American soldiers.

Memorial Day was being observed by the closing of all banks and the Post Office, but stores and other businesses remained open as usual.

The American Legion last Sunday decorated the graves of fallen soldiers of the World War. The Legionnaires decorated the graves throughout the county and their Auxiliary placed flags and flowers on those in the two cemeteries in Greenville.

Effective June 1, the interest rate on loans made to member institutions by the Winston-Salem Federal Home Loan Bank will be reduced from five to four percent. President Thomas W. Ellett announced today. Decision to lower the rate was reached by the directors last week.

Beyond Governmental Control?

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP)—There is very little comfort to be distilled from the latest report of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, which contains forecasts that instead might contribute to financial insecurity.

"The rise in the cost of living should slow somewhat in the final quarter of the year, it states, but still will be at an unacceptable 7 per cent rate. Unemployment might rise from 5 per cent now to nearly 6 per cent then.

But maybe even more significant than these numbers is the greater uncertainty with which economic advisers seem to assess the future. Continued failures have undermined assurance.

Herbert Stein, the chief economic adviser, had been talking about a 6 per cent inflation rate by the end of the year, but apparently he now goes along with the 7 per cent forecast. Once pragmatically optimistic, he sounds less so now.

The President himself referred to "signs of improvement," which hardly has the starch of those old pronouncements that seemed to say the future is ours. He talked of "a special danger" that inflation might escape restraints.

Slowly the realization seems to be descending on makers of economic policy that they do not get the same response to their actions as they did a decade ago. It may be only that the ailments are so extreme, but it might be more than that.

The fact is that the federal budget as an instrument of economic change is not the flexible instrument it once was. The President's authority over the budget is restricted more each year; his spending is done for him.

As more of the budget becomes precommitted to social and defense and income maintenance programs, the nation's ability to hold down federal spending is reduced. It cannot exert the same anti-inflation pressures.

Inflation control becomes less effective also as economies become more influenced by world events. U.S. food prices, for instance, have been influenced by a poor Soviet harvest and by attempts everywhere to raise living standards.

A more obvious example is the changing oil market, which affects so many other industries. It wasn't an increase in U.S. demand nearly so much as a changed attitude by supplier nations that led to price increases.

To a much greater extent than even a few years ago, therefore, prices are beyond the effective control of domestic governments. In that respect, economic advisers probably feel as inadequate, as helpless as any householder.

For Israel, security is the name of the game. For Syria, it is "the legitimate rights of the Palestine people," a rhetorical demand that can mean many things, even up to dismantlement of the Israeli state. Some Israelis think the Syrians mean just that.

Syria will continue demanding back all the Golan Heights area it lost in 1967, but Israel will be far from eager to give up a security bird-in-hand for a promise in the bush.

Withdrawal from the Golan Heights could make Upper Galilee once again an easy target. Withdrawal from Mt. Hermon would deprive Israel of a clear view to Damascus, a warranty against surprise.

The Geneva phase will last a long time, but the outlook seems a lot more hopeful this month than it did last.

Kilgo . . .

(Continued from page 4) some people off politically," Sugg says. "Maybe it was the reason for the light vote in the primary. But we have to remember that as bad as Watergate is, we must elect honest, capable people to public office who won't resort to Watergate tactics. The Democrats have a great chance in North Carolina. We seem to be more united than we've been in a long time. Now we've got to be winning to put in the hard work that it's going to take to win."

BETHEL—John L. Watson of Bethel, in a talk to the Bethel Rotary Club Tuesday night on the value of first aid training for the general public said "If the State Department of Public Instruction would include first aid instruction and certification in the required curriculum of the public schools, and if the State Department of Motor Vehicles would require every new driver to pass a test on life-saving, eventually there would be someone trained in emergency life-saving on the scene of nearly every accident occurring in this state.

Watson pointed out that often there is a critical time element of minutes, or even seconds, in which definitive action may be taken which will mean the difference between life or death for the victim of the accident, and only someone trained in first aid at the scene, will be able to make the difference between temporary and permanent disability, or between a quick recovery and a long stay in the hospital.

"It is often too late when the rescue squad arrives, or the patient reaches the hospital. A person can bleed to death in one minute from a large artery, but one finger placed in the right place can often stop that bleeding. A person will suffer permanent brain damage after more than six minutes without oxygen but the first aid student can learn to open the airway of an unconscious patient, or start mouth-to-mouth resuscitation to an asphyxiated patient in less than 60 minutes of training," Watson, head of the Ambulance service at Pitt Memorial Hospital said.

First aid training is of value in being able to distinguish between what to do and what not to do for an injured person, according to Watson. Through first aid training, a person is prepared to help others, to help himself, and his family. Even though he may be too badly injured to help himself, he can often direct others in the proper care of his own injuries. There is no greater reward than that that comes from relieving the suffering, of reducing the disability, or of saving the life of a fellow human."

In addition to his ambulance service post, Watson is a first aid instructor and is course coordinator for the Emergency Medical Services training program at Pitt Technical Institute in the training of ambulance and rescue personnel

Ralph A. Gardner, President and General Manager of Greenville Broadcasting Company announced that Radio Station WPXY will go off the air effective Thursday, May 30, at 8 p.m.

WPXY's frequency was recently purchased by new owners and will soon become WGNL. According to Gardner, WGNL plans to commence broadcasting on or about June 9th with a complete format change and a new staff.

Vice President for Operations, Johnny West indicated that the new radio station will be programmed for Greenville's large young adult and adult market with a big emphasis on local in-depth news coverage. WGNL has acquired Bill Allen from WNYN Radio in Canton, Ohio as full time News Director.

In addition to Johnny West, WGNL's on-the-air personalities will include Les Coffee from WNIB, Chicago and the syndicated Bill Balance Show from KGBS, Los Angeles.

Votes To Retain OEO Programs

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House has voted to keep the Office of Economic Opportunity's remaining major programs alive, sidestepping President Nixon's attempts to do away with the antipoverty agency.

By a vote of 331 to 53 on Wednesday, the House disbanded OEO but created a new administration within the Department of Health, Education and Welfare to run its community action programs at a cost of $380 million.

Nixon had transferred away most of the antipoverty agency's programs before his final moves were blocked by a court decision last year.

Nixon left OEO and community action out of his January budget, saying the program's costs should be shouldered by state and local governments if the 932 action agencies around the country were to stay in business.

Nixon's budget action will have the effect of killing the program unless the Senate acts and both houses agree on fresh legislation by June 30.

In effect, the House voted to kill OEO in name, but not in spirit, 10 years after it was established as a keystone in former President Lyndon B. Johnson's Great Society.

Community action was one of the main, controversial cutting edges of OEO in the mid-1960s. But it has developed into a largely favored local institution for providing a variety of assistance and services to the poor.

Supporters for keeping community action included Gov. George C. Wallace of Alabama, Republican Mayor Richard Lugar of Indianapolis, the AFL-CIO, antipoverty organizations and the Congressional Black Caucus.

Another key aspect of community action is that its local agencies employ 185,000 persons, mostly poor, who would add to the welfare rolls if the program ended.

The House legislation created a Community Action Administration within HEW with a director to be appointed by the President and confirmed by the Senate.

Will Fight For Center

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C. (AP)—The owner of a mansion used as a center for emotionally disturbed children says she is going to court in an effort to stop eviction of the children.

Mrs. Constance Baker of Stuart, Fla., said Wednesday she has asked an attorney to start court action over Southern Pines zoning ordinances which, among other things, prohibit any property use not specifically permitted.

The town council earlier this month upheld a planning board decision to deny use of the mansion as the state approved Children's Treatment Center.

Use of the mansion as the children's center began last September. The 29-room mansion, Duncraig Manor, is located on 17 acres in an exclusive residential neighborhood.

Seven children currently live at the center, which is operated by the Rev. Cecil Brown of Fayetteville.

In March, the town council gave the center 10 days to submit a request for a zoning amendment. The planning board denied the request this month and the town council gave the center until Friday to vacate the premises.

Mrs. Baker said she wants the matter to be settled in the courts and does not want it to become a political issue.

Town attorney W. Lamont Brown said, "We are just trying to preserve the integrity of our zoning laws."

Nat King Cole croons "Rambler's Rose" on the juke box. Ten men are seated at the bar at 4 o'clock on a Thursday afternoon. Six salt shakers on the 13-stool bar testify that this is primarily a beer-drinker's place — a healthy pitcher of which goes for a buck.

A mural of America's fighting men serves as the bar's backdrop, testimony that this is the American Legion in Oskaloosa.

Largest of the veterans' associations, with 2.7 million members, the American Legion is alive and well in middle America. Its lobbyists in Washington and in state capitals across the land say they've got more political clout than ever.

The national commander says increasing numbers of Vietnam veterans are joining up and that Legion-supported baseball teams, oratorical contests and Scout troops are still American institutions. And they hope they'll even get Veteran's Day changed back to Nov. 11.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars, second largest of the vets' groups, with 1.8 million members, reports an even rosier picture in 1974, the year after soldiers came home from an unpopular war to face disapproval at worst, a White House reception at best and a ho-hum greeting from their countrymen in general.

In the years after World War II, the Legion hit its all-time high of 3.3 million members in 1946. The VFW climbed from a prewar 100,000 to over a million in the middle '40s.

VFW membership is growing faster now than the Legion's. The VFW says it increased its roles by 28,000 in 1973. Legion membership, for the first time in almost a decade, declined in 1973: a drop of 18,000 because deaths of older legionnaires exceeded new membership.

There's an American Legion or a VFW post to serve everyone. One in New York is composed of advertising men; there's a post of FBI agents in Washington, a post of telephone workers, and a post whose main attraction is an annual rodeo. In some communities, the hall is a dingy, smoke-filled room. In others it's more or less a country club.

Even in a state like Iowa, strong for both organizations, it's hard to figure out what "average" is.

Gordon Miller, Iowa Legion commander, ponders the question.

"Average?" asks Miller. "That's hard to say. I mean if you put one foot in a bucket of cold water and the other in a bucket of hot water, well, I guess you might say your rear end is about average."

The Legion post in Oskaloosa, for instance, opens every afternoon at 3 and the regulars drop by. M. L. Curry, a 52-year-old World War II vet, comes just about every afternoon.

Why? "They've got a good group here," says Curry. "I think it's a good organization and they've done a lot for the boys."

Curry says he brought his son and another young man into the organization. "But they don't come in like they used to."

Wayne Keefe, the commander, says attracting the Vietnam veteran is a problem. "He's a new breed of cat, more highly educated. You've got to sit him down and tell him what the Legion can do for him. He wants his money's worth if he's going to join."

And join he apparently does.

No Inquest For Six SLA Dead

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A spokesman for Los Angeles County Coroner Thomas Noguchi says no inquest is planned, despite a request for one, into the deaths of six know who they had killed, they didn't know who was in the house, they didn't know who they were trying to kill." Identities of the victims were not learned until the day after the gunbattle.

There was no immediate comment from police. They have said before that when they gave occupants in the house a chance to surrender, the response from the SLA was protracted gunfire.

Meanwhile, today's Chicago Tribune reported that authorities believe on the basis of a notebook found near the shootout site that newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst was so fully trusted by her onetime SLA kidnapers that they permitted her to stand solitary guard against police raids through the night.

Dr. L.S. Wolfe had asked for an inquest into the death of his son, William, and the five other SLA members who died in a more than hour-long gunbattle with Los Angeles police almost two weeks ago.

Wolfe, of Emmaus, Pa., arrived here Wednesday to press his demand and to seek help from the American Civil Liberties Union in forcing the issue. The local ACLU, which has criticized the shootout, said it was considering Wolfe's request.

The coroner's spokesman said, "We know of no reason to have an inquest. Nothing in our research has shown up anything irregular."

In an interview with television station KNXT here, Wolfe said Los Angeles police assured him before the raid on the SLA hideout that "the last thing we will do is go in with our guns blazing."

But Wolfe said: "They didn't

Shot Down In Police Station

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police say William Allen Norman, 43, walked into a Hollywood police station, pointed a frontier-style pistol at officers and said: "Okay, here I am."

He was shot dead on the spot. Police said it was only afterward they discovered the Los Angeles man was carrying a pellet gun, designed to look like a Western weapon.

Police declined any further details on the Wednesday incident.

Mother Won't Run From Her Tormenters

HARASSED MOTHER—Maytroit Richard, a mother of six, surveys damage at her West Side Detroit home that has been the target of vandalism. (AP Wirephoto)

By JOE LAPOINTE
Associated Press Writer
DETROIT (AP) — Maytroit Richard sat behind her boarded living room window reading her hate mail. A member of the black Vietnam veterans group which has pledged to protect her family stood by.

"I'm afraid of my own shadow," said the black mother of six, whose West Side home has been the target of rocks, garbage and harassment since she moved into the previously all-white neighborhood last summer.

At first uncertain about whether to flee from the violence, Mrs. Richard, whose children range from 9 months to 19 years old, now says she is determined to stay.

"I've lived with white people all my life," she said. "My parents were the second family in an East Side neighborhood they used to call 'Polish Town.'"

Two of the Richard boys played basketball nearby with several neighbors in sight of an unmarked police car.

Police have been guarding her modest home around the clock since last week. Mrs. Richard finally sought their help after a brick was thrown in her basement window. An inscription tied to the brick read: "Go home nigger—can you dig it?"

The Interested Veterans for Economic and Social Progress moved in Wednesday with a pledge of long-term protection.

"We are trained in the arts and crafts of warfare," said Robert Jones, a spokesman for the group, which claims 2,500 Michigan members. "We fought for this country and we should be able to live wherever we please."

Earlier this month the home was patrolled by union groups working with the NAACP. Detroit Police Commissioner Philip Tannian visited the home last week and told Mrs. Richard to "hold on."

Since she moved into the neighborhood last July, her windows have been broken and fish and wine bottles have been thrown in her backyard. Last November a car roared across her front lawn. One of the hate letters was decorated with a large American flag sticker and urged Mrs. Richard to move "with your own kind, where you are wanted."

Another letter called Mrs. Richard, who recently separated from her husband, a "cotton-pickin' kinky-haired ADC (a form of welfare) woman."

"I've worked hard, I worked two jobs for four years," said Mrs. Richard, a booking agent. "My mother used to tell me you can't do it all at once, you have to crawl before you walk. Well, I got callouses from crawling."

Arrest Trio In Shootout

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — More than 100 policemen wearing bullet-proof vests fired on robbery suspects in an East Cleveland home in a gunbattle that lasted 90 minutes. Two residents and three policemen were wounded, one critically.

Three men were arrested, police said.

They were believed to be the same three police were hunting for in an earlier robbery attempt that started the shootout Wednesday night.

They remained unidentified early today and charges had not yet been filed.

Police said the three forced Andrew Jackson, 39, to take them to his East Cleveland home. Mrs. Jackson said the men tied up several residents of the home and were looting the house when police arrived.

The three escaped, but police traced them to the home of William O'Brien several blocks away. East Cleveland and Cleveland police, carrying automatic weapons, converged on the O'Brien home, lobbed tear gas into the house and began shooting, authorities said.

Two men in the home, using Muslim names, told a Cleveland radio station during the siege that they were holding seven hostages.

One man told the station, "We're dying as warriors ... We're fighting the police. We're taking as many with us as we can."

Seniority Lacks Old Strength

By WALTER R. MEARS
AP Political Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Seniority isn't what it used to be. It remains, as is traditional, the route to committee power in Congress. But that is subject to challenge, and to persistent demands for reform.

And now, voters in at least one state have turned out the old argument that a man with long congressional tenure is a man with clout, who ought to be returned to Washington so he and his state can keep it.

That contention didn't work for Sen. J. William Fulbright of Arkansas, denied Democratic renomination after 30 years in the Senate, 15 as chairman of the Foreign Relations Committee.

Fulbright, 69, lost by a landslide to Gov. Dale Bumpers, who is 48 and says seniority rule is one thing that keeps Congress from being responsive to the people.

Fulbright said his defeat was in part a reflection of voter dissatisfaction with everybody in Washington these days. That may have been a factor, although it has not been evident in other primaries so far. But Bumpers is immensely popular in Arkansas, and Fulbright's long tenure was no defense this time.

Arkansas has been a particular beneficiary of the seniority system Bumpers criticized. Fulbright has Foreign Relations; Sen. John L. McClellan, who is 78 and has served 32 years in the Senate, is chairman of the Appropriations Committee; Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, a 34-year House veteran, heads the Ways and Means Committee.

McClellan was re-elected two years ago, after a campaign in which he stressed his three decades of seniority and influence. He did not win without a contest; former Rep. David Pryor, who said he was tired of the state being first in seniority and last in everything else, forced a run-off before losing. Pryor now is running for governor.

Bumpers, in a joint ABC-TV interview with Fulbright Sunday, said the seniority system is "a breach of faith with the young people of this country and I would work to change the system because I don't think it has served us well."

To which Fulbright, No. 4 in Senate seniority, replied, "... I am quite certain the seniority system has served Arkansas very well and continues to and will always when it is a small state ..."

There also are the amenities. For example, Sen. John Sparkman of Alabama, who will become in January the senior Democratic member of the Foreign Relations Committee, is not saying now whether he will take the chairmanship, noting that the Democratic steering committee will make a choice.

But if the choice is not the senior Democratic member of the committee, it will be the first time. The Senate itself votes on chairmanships, but there, too, the process is one of ratifying the senior majority member who wants the job.

In the House, committee chairmanships are subject to challenge in the Democratic caucus. But there, too, seniority remains the system.

Congressional reformers want change, some proposing that committees elect their chairmen, others that the selection be by secret ballot in party caucus.

KIDNAPED—Mrs. Deborah Dartzbach of Freehold, N.J., was abducted from a missionary hospital in northern Ethiopia by members of an anti-government guerrilla group, church sources in Melrose Park, Pa., reported Wednesday. Mrs. Dartzbach was kidnapped by armed men seeking medical aid, according to church officials. (AP Wirephoto)

Training Seminar For Alcoholism Field Set

A three-day education and training seminar for alcoholism program coordinators and alcoholism counselors from across North Carolina will be held June 3-5, in Greenville, on the campus of ECU.

The event is being cooperatively sponsored by Pitt Technical Institute, ECU School of Allied Health and Social Professions, and the North Carolina Division of Mental Health Services.

Subject of the three-day seminar will be Occupational Programs (or Employee Health or Assistance Programs) that are designed to be established within private and public industry.

The seminar is being developed and conducted by the Alcoholism Training Program for North Carolina (ATPNC), which is based at East Carolina University and is directed by Jerry Lotterhos.

Other than Lotterhos, among those appearing on the program are: Wade H. Williams, Jr., Eastern Regional Alcoholism Program Director and Consultant to the Occupational Branch of NIAAA; William Hale, Director of Occupational Services, Florida Mental Health Program; Den Dixon, Assistant Director of the Alcohol and Drug Abuse Section, N. C. Division of Mental Health Services.

Dick Rhyne, Occupational Branch Consultant, Alcohol and Drug Abuse Section, N. C. Division of Mental Health Services; William C. Byrd, Assistant Dean, School of Allied Health and Social Professions, ECU; James Wrich, Occupational Program Consultant, Hazelden Rehabilitation Center, St. Paul, Minnesota; and Dr. Robert R. Ratcliffe, Director, Eastern Regional Division of Mental Health Services.

David T. Flaherty, Secretary, N. C. Department of Human Resources, will be the featured speaker Tuesday night at a banquet at the Ramada Inn. He will be speaking on the topic: "The Future of the North Carolina Occupational Program Effort."

Sees Aid Cut As Tempting

WASHINGTON (AP) — South Vietnamese Ambassador Tran Kim Phuong says a deep cut in military aid by Congress would encourage North Vietnam and possibly tempt Hanoi into wider military adventures.

Reacting to a recent House cutback of $474 million in military aid to South Vietnam, the envoy said the Saigon government is in a difficult position, mainly because North Vietnam is pressing a policy of violence while the one-for-one replacement allowed under the Paris agreement for expended ammunition and equipment is not being maintained for South Vietnamese forces, he said.

Phuong said recent North Vietnamese attacks show that Hanoi has started what he called a generalized strategic offensive.

"During the last three weeks North Vietnam has been using tanks and artillery to overrun many outposts which have been held by us for a long time. They are making intensive use of heavy artillery," he added.

At the same time Phuong said that North Vietnam has broken off meetings in Paris with representatives of the South and the meeting of the two-party joint commission in Saigon.

The House of Representatives last week reduced an administration request for military aid to South Vietnam from $1.6 billion in the fiscal year starting July 1 to $1.126 billion—the same level as for the current fiscal year. The Senate Armed Services Committee has recommended an even deeper cut to $900 million.

Friends Joined Potomac Cruise

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has taken a second batch of congressmen on a Potomac cruise aboard the presidential yacht "Sequoia."

The House members are "a group of friends the President wanted to have dinner with," a White House spokesman said. A similar cruise with Congressmen took place earlier this month.

A $20,000 gift has been contributed by Michael L. Bunting to the East Carolina University Alumni Loyalty Fund. The gift is to be used to establish a series of scholarships at East Carolina University. Announcement of the gift was made by Don Leggett, Director of Alumni Affairs and Foundations.

Recipients of the scholarships will be selected by the ECU Scholarships, Fellowships, and Financial Aid Committee. The scholarships are of various amounts and will be named for Michael and his wife, the former Victoria Stewart of Greensboro. Chancellor Leo W. Jenkins said that "Bunting's gift is indicative of Mike's outstanding loyalty and dedication to his Alma Mater. He has long been one of our most loyal alumni and avid supporters of all of our programs. We are deeply appreciative for this expression of his interest in the progress of the University."

Don Leggett commented: "This gift is one of the largest single gifts ever received from an individual for the Alumni Loyalty Fund. Mike's loyalty is indeed outstanding, and we are extremely fortunate to have the privilege of claiming him as an alumnus of East Carolina University. His gift will be a tremendous boost to the Alumni Association and to the overall scholarship program of the University."

Bunting, in presenting the gift, said, "The growth of our University is dependent upon its alumni, not only through their financial contributions, but also through their active and vocal participation. It is my hope that all of our alumni take an interest in East Carolina and that a proud alumni results in an even prouder University."

Mike is vice-president of Carolina Gasket and Rubber Company, Inc., of Greensboro and is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Bunting of Kernersville. He and Victoria have a daughter Heidi, age eight. A graduate of Greensboro Senior High School, Bunting studied at Wilmington College as well as East Carolina.

Claims Secret Of Two Galleons And Treasures

GEORGETOWN, S.C. (AP)—The man who claims he knows the location of two Spanish galleons and their hoard of gold worth $87 million refuses to disclose their location in Winyah Bay unless the state builds a museum to preserve the artifacts.

Wade Quattlebaum of Vance in Orangeburg County told a news conference Wednesday he discovered the vessels in 1967 and later found they had valuables aboard.

Such finds are property of the state. He said he is "bound and determined to wait these people out," a reference to the University of South Carolina Institute of Archeology and Anthropology search for the vessels believed to be of 1530 vintage.

Robert L. Stephenson, state archaeologist, says the find, if proved, would rank as one of the great marine archaeological discoveries of all time.

"Until I get the commitment that they'll keep the artifacts in the state, I'm not going to budge," Quattlebaum said.

Quattlebaum's claim that his firm, Santee Dock Builders, is qualified to recover the ships is disputed by John Combes, assistant director of the institute.

The institute has engaged Expeditions Unlimited of Pompano Beach, Fla., to search for the vessels.

Quattlebaum said the vessels are well preserved, with one on its side in about 15 feet of water, the other keel up with a hole in the stern. He said he weighed 312 pounds of gold coin and silver aboard the one on its side.

"I'm skeptical of just how much gold, if any, there is aboard the vessel," Stephenson said. "He has told us a lot of things and then again nothing."

Combes said efforts to negotiate with Quattlebaum have proved fruitless.

"I want my rights — salvage, media and 90 per cent of the find," Quattlebaum said, estimating media rights alone as being worth $3.5 million.

Chief Fred Shelley of Georgetown's police said Quattlebaum had come to him for protection, declaring he might be threatened or kidnapped to make him reveal the location of the ships.

No Signs Verdict Near In Glenn Turner's Case

By F.T. MACFEELY
Associated Press Writer
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — After a week of deliberations, there was no sign today that a jury was near a verdict in the nine-month-old mail fraud trial of Glenn W. Turner and seven business associates.

The jurors apparently settled down to working out their differences Wednesday afternoon after an earlier flurry of notes to U.S. District Court Judge Gerald B. Tjoflat and several trips back to the courtroom.

They sent only one note to the judge in more than four straight hours of deliberations before recessing until this morning. So far, the jurors have rejected night sessions.

Since the jury received the case a week ago today, the seven women and five men have come back to the courtroom on four different days.

They heard some testimony given last October and a repeat of the judge's instruction on how mail fraud charges apply under federal law.

As a court clerk read the testimony of Larry W. Toler, former secretary-treasurer of Turner's Koscot Interplanetary Inc. cosmetics firm, several jurors struggled to keep awake in their padded swivel chairs. Only three or four appeared to listen intently to the testimony about the cosmetics firm's financial operations in 1969.

Toler said he opposed Turner's land purchases in Tennessee, operation of a minor league professional football team at Orlando and contributions to charity. He said the cash flow was too low to support such activities.

"The distributors needed the charity," said Toler, a government witness and now a real estate broker at Maitland, Fla. He referred to about 7,000 persons who at that time had paid $4,500 each to be distributors for the firm.

The government's case is based on charges that the defendants enticed people into buying distributorships in Koscot and the Dare to be Great Inc. motivational course company while failing to provide enough products for them to sell at retail.

Turner is charged with 26 counts of mail fraud and one of conspiracy, as are Harry B. Atkinson, W. Leroy Beale, Clyde C. Cobb, Jess O. Hickman, Malcolm A. Julian and Hobart Wilder.

Shrine Days Proclaimed

Greenville Mayor S. Eugene West has proclaimed Friday and Saturday Shrine Days in the City of Greenville.

The Greenville Mayor made the proclamation in reference to the Shrine of the Holy Family of the Shrine of North America which will be held on the campus of East Carolina University this weekend.

The ceremonial being held here is the second for Greenville. The first ceremonial was held here 20 years ago also on the campus of then East Carolina College.

In proclaiming May 31 and June 1 Shrine Days, Mayor West cited the work of the Shrine in aid of crippled and burned children and other philanthropic work performed by the fraternal group.

Mayor West also cited the fact that this year's Spring Ceremonial is being held in honor of a late Pitt County distinguished resident, Judge William J. "Dick" Bundy.

In making his proclamation Mayor West stated that "members of the Sudan Temple be welcomed to our city and extended all the rights, honors and privileges of esteemed and welcomed guests."

Dr. Pei-lin Tien, assistant professor of geology at East Carolina University, was one of four speakers invited to address the Carolinas Section of the American Institute of Mining, Metallurgical and Petroleum Engineers, Inc., meeting in Charlotte last weekend.

Dr. Tien spoke on "Quantitative Mineralogical Analyses by X-ray Diffraction, Differential Thermal and Infrared Techniques."

A window on the north side of the store was broken out last night with a bottle, the sheriff reported, and two windows and screens on the rear and side doors were damaged in the May 25 break-in.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that the juvenile was charged with breaking into the store owned by Lillian Gray last night and also with a May 25 break-in at the business.

Graduate At Martin Tech

WILLIAMSTON—Two Pitt County students were among the graduates receiving their degrees from Martin Technical Institute Friday.

The graduates are David Jan Williams and Clark Nicholas Bainbridge.

Williams received the associate in applied science degree in fish and wildlife management. He also received an award from Who's Who in American Junior Colleges and a Fish and Wildlife Award for his outstanding work in the field of wildlife. He is married to Jamie G. Williams.

Clark received the associate in applied science degree in forest management. He received the Forest Management Award and was given recognition in Who's Who in American Junior Colleges.

He and his wife, Maxine, reside in Shady Knoll Trailer Park.

Boy Arrested, Charged With Two Break-Ins

A 14-year-old juvenile was arrested Wednesday night by Pitt deputies and charged with two break-ins at Gray's Store on Rt. 2, Greenville.

Sheriff Ralph Tyson said that the juvenile was charged with breaking into the store owned by Lillian Gray last night and also with a May 25 break-in at the business.

Sheriff Tyson said that the owner reported nothing missing following either incident but damage to the store was estimated at $25 last night and $15 in the Saturday night incident.

A window on the north side of the store was broken out last night with a bottle, the sheriff reported, and two windows and screens on the rear and side doors were damaged in the May 25 break-in.

Islamic Roots In Western World

CHICAGO (UPI) — Fazlur Rahman, professor of Near Eastern Languages and Civilizations at the University of Chicago, says that Islamic philosophy had strong influence on the west in the Middle Ages, some contemporary words are derived from Islamic words, such as alcohol, from al-kuhl, a finely ground powder; algebra, from al-jabr, the binding together of disorganized parts; admiral, from amir al-bahr, commander of the ocean.

Y NOT? WINNSBORO, Tex. (UPI) — This Texas town was named for an early settler, J.E. Wynn, but the local newspaper editor changed the spelling because he did not have the letter "y."

Warehouse fixture liquidation!

- No merchandise involved.
- Cash or check only.
- All sales final.
- No returns accepted.
- Bring your own truck.

This is a first time and only time thing for us. After living for 8 years in our Pitt Plaza Store we've improved a lot of things. During all of this time we have had an "Outside Warehouse"...and, frankly, it has been used as our "attic". Wow! What a collection of Junque has accumulated. When someone didn't know what to do with something, it appears their decision was to "send it to the warehouse". This stuff is not needed by any of our nearby stores, and recent space improvements in our Pitt Plaza store have eliminated our need for an outside Warehouse. We're moving out, and we can't devote store space to this conglomeration of indescribables. It's got to go. You might be surprised to see what is there...We might be surprised to find out what you can do with a little imagination. Come on down.

BB&T is now twice as convenient.

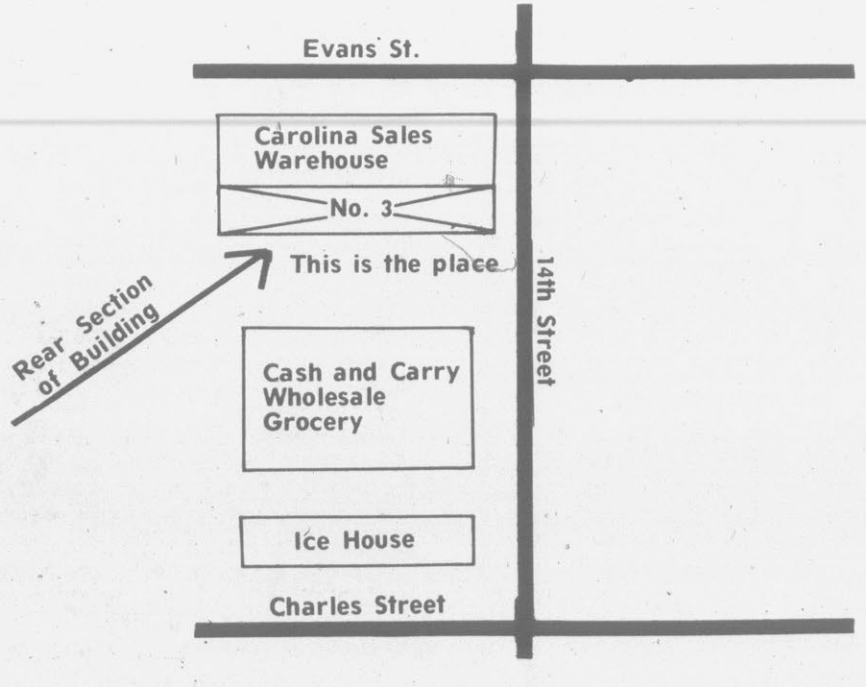

Branch Banking and Trust Company first came to Greenville about three months ago.

We're very happy to say that our reception was tremendous. So tremendous, in fact, BB&T has opened a second office in Greenville.

It's conveniently located on Memorial Drive at West End Circle. There's plenty of parking. And plenty of fast, friendly BB&T service.

Which is something that has only come to Greenville once.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina egg markets were steady Wednesday. Supplies fully adequate, demand fair. Weighted average prices for small lot sales of consumer grade eggs in cartons delivered nearby outlets: Grade A large whites 50.73, medium whites 43.19, small whites 35.54.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina hog prices were steady today. Tops of 27.25-28.25 at Kinston and Lumberton; 26.50-27.00 Rocky Mount; 26.50 Salisbury; 26.00 Wilson and High Falls.

RALEIGH (AP) (NCDA)—North Carolina f.o.b. dock broilers: Market unsettled to firm for next week. Supplies adequate, demand good and weights desirable. Estimated slaughter of broilers and fryers 1,199,000.

North Carolina hens: Market unchanged. Supplies of heavy type remain ample and demand slow. Heavy hens, at farm, 10 cents per pound.

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market was mixed today, leveling off at its lowest point of the year.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 70 at 796.07, but losers maintained about a 5-to-4 lead over gainers on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers said high interest rates and the Federal Reserve's avowed tight-money stance against inflation continued to subdue the market.

Analysts said fading hopes for an early downturn in interest rates were a key factor in the sharp slide of stock prices Wednesday, which carried the Dow to a close below 800 for the first time since last Dec. 5.

Reliance Group, the NYSE volume leader, was down 1/4 at 9% in trading that included a 100,000-share block at that price.

Polaroid, also active, fell 3 to 40 1/4 on top of a 12 1/2-point plunge Wednesday. Selling in the issue was attributed to a report from White, Weld & Co. that early indications of sales of Polaroid's SX-70 film were below expectations.

Gold stocks rallied as bullion prices rebounded in Europe. ASA, Ltd., was up 1 1/4 at 76 1/2, Homestake Mining rose 2 1/2 to 76 1/2, and Dome Mines was up 1 at 47 1/2.

Silver issues also shone. Hecla Mining advanced 1 1/2 to 22 1/2; Sunshine Mining, 1 1/2 to 15 1/2; and Callahan Mining, 1 to 13.

On the American Stock Exchange, Sntex was the volume leader, down 1 1/4 at 45 1/2.

The Amex' 11 a.m. market-value index was down 27 at 81.14. The NYSE's composite index of all its listed common stocks, meanwhile, was down .05 at 45.69.

King and Mrs. Roscoe King, both of Greenville; Mrs. Bobby Stephenson of Willow Springs, and Mrs. Franklin Keen of Mount Olive; two sons, Clyde and Graddy Bradshaw, both of Clinton; 25 grandchildren; nine great grandchildren.

The family will be at the funeral home tonight from 7 p.m. to 9 p.m.

Milk Stolen By 'Missing Girl'

LONDON (AP)—A South Carolina girl, missing in Europe since early April, has turned up in a London court charged with stealing three bottles of milk.

The U.S. Embassy identified her as Leslie Vincent Walker, 17, of Greenville.

Several London newspapers said she was from a millionaire South Carolina family, but this could not be confirmed.

Miss Walker, who pleaded guilty to stealing the milk Wednesday, told the court she had not eaten for several days. Her lawyer said she had been forced to steal by the leader of a commune of young people where she lived.

She was taken to Holloway Prison for Women and was expected to appear at another court hearing in two weeks.

The embassy said it was trying to contact the girl's parents, who are divorced, but so far had been unsuccessful.

An embassy spokesman named the father as Hugh Walker and the mother as Mrs. Robert Nance.

Miss Walker had been attending a language school in Munich, West Germany, and left by train March 28 for London, where she was to join her parents April 8, the embassy said.

It said Miss Walker failed to turn up in London and was listed as missing.

To Speak At Award Trophies Homecoming During Banquet

REV. WILEY CLARK

Rev. Wiley T. Clark will be guest speaker for Homecoming at the St. Paul Pentecostal Holiness Church this Sunday morning at 11 a.m.

Rev. Clark is Christian Education Director for the North Carolina Conference of the Pentecostal Holiness Church. He is a member of the Lifeline General Executive Board in Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

The public is invited to attend.

Trophies for Pitt County championships in junior high boys football and junior girls basketball were awarded during a banquet last week at Parkers Restaurant.

The awards were presented by Pitt County Superintendent Ott Alford.

The Grifton teams came in first in the nine-school conference and the baseball team was named second in the conference.

Certificates of participation, letters, emblems and bars were presented to baseball, football and basketball team members.

The following trophies were awarded:

Football: best offensive lineman, Tony Eubanks; best defensive lineman, Mike Teachey; best offensive back, Eddie Ricciarelli; best defensive back, Randy Jones; most valuable player, Terry Morris;

Boys basketball: best defensive player and leading rebounder, Mike Teachey; most valuable player, Scott Rivenbark;

Girls basketball: co-captains, leadership, Sandy Pait and Karen Haseley; best defensive player, Amy Kilpatrick; most valuable player, Cindy Potter;

Baseball: best defensive player and most reliable fielder, Curtis Moye; leading hitter, Ed Coley;

Cheerleaders: best football cheerleaders, Cindy Potter and Brenda Pate; best basketball cheerleader, Pam Fleming;

Tony Eubanks and Brian

Edwards received the David Patrick Award for diligence, effort and hard work.

Managers and concession stand workers were recognized.

Coaches Mitchell Nicholson and Richard McLawhorn were presented special trophies by the teams in recognition of their championship coaching.

Keynote speaker for the banquet was Coach Lanny Norris of East Carolina University.

Satellite For The Isolated

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A $180 million satellite which will beam televised educational and health programs to isolated areas of the world was launched today.

The Titan 3C rocket blasted away from its Kennedy Space Center moorings, lifting the Applications Technology Satellite 6 into orbit.

Initially, ATS6 will be positioned in stationary orbit 22,300 miles above the Galapagos Islands in the eastern Pacific. From there, it will be able to view the entire continental United States and Alaska.

National Aeronautics and Space Administration officials said the satellite, which costs about half as much as a manned moon mission, will be used by the United States for a year and then loaned for a year to India.

"The ATS and its successors may eradicate illiteracy from the face of the earth," said Werner von Braun, vice president of Fairchild Industries, which built the satellite.

He said the spacecraft could be used to televise classroom subjects to students and teachers or carry programs on subjects such as how to plow a field.

It could be used by doctors to examine and diagnose patients thousands of miles away, said von Braun.

Patrolman Is Assigned

MARK JOHNSON

Highway Patrol Troop A Commander, Capt. J. T. Jenkins, has announced the assignment of Highway Patrolman Mark Johnson to Pitt County. Trooper Johnson will be stationed in Ayden.

A Dunn native and graduate of Dunn High School, Johnson attended Fayetteville Technical Institute and Campbell College. He joined the Highway Patrol January 12 and completed the Patrol's Basic Training School at the Institute of Government at Chapel Hill April 12.

The newly assigned officer is a veteran of four years in the U.S. Navy, including a tour of duty in Vietnam, where he was stationed at Da Nang. His state-side duty posts included stations at San Diego and Coronado, California and at Norfolk, Virginia.

He is married to the former Deborah Jackson of Midway, and the couple have no children.

ECU Is Conducting Anatomy Workshop

Eighteen dentists, oral surgeons, medical professors and physicians are participating in the Fourth Annual Postgraduate Course in Head and Neck Anatomy at ECU this week.

The participants include professionals from Florida, Louisiana, Maryland, Missouri, Massachusetts, Texas, Washington, D.C. and Wisconsin as well as the Carolinas.

Dr. Michael R. Schweisthal, chairman of the anatomy department in the ECU School of Medicine, is directing the course, which includes lectures, laboratory sessions and clinical sessions.

Prime emphasis is on informal conferences between participants and the staff, said Dr. Schweisthal.

Instructional staff members are Dr. H.R. Seibel of the Medical College of Virginia; Dr.

Ira Hardy, ECU associate clinical professor of surgery and neurosurgery; Dr. W. R. Secosky, ECU assistant clinical professor of anatomy;

Dr. J.M. Gregg of the UNC-Chapel Hill School of Dentistry; Dr. H.J. Daniel, ECU associate professor of speech, language and auditory pathology; Dr. W.S. Bost, ECU associate clinical professor of surgery and otolaryngology; and Dr. Schweisthal.

Newsprint Cost Hike Expected

VANCOUVER (AP)—British Columbia pulp and paper producers expect increases in prices for their newsprint and pulp, but when and how much is not known.

A survey of a number of B.C. pulp producers indicate the price for bleached kraft, their major product, will rise July 1 to the area of $325 or $330 a ton, and possibly higher. The last increase, effective April 1, was a boost of $30 to between $290 and $295, a ton depending on grade.

The price of newsprint, one executive said, will likely be $250 a ton within six to eight months. It was increased March 1 to $209 a ton in the B.C. lower mainland and $213.50 in the western United States.

SCHOOL FIGHT

DETROIT (AP)—A Detroit public high school remained closed today after a racial fight at Cody High School in which two students were injured and nine arrested.

Falkland School Honor Pupils

FALKLAND—The honor roll and principal's list for the past marking period at Falkland Elementary School have been announced.

Students named to the honor roll include: Lora Manning, Gwendolyn Ellis, Edwin Ellis and Terry Farmer.

The following students were named to the principal's list: Lynette Bullock, Lisa Cobb, Sonja Dunn, Denise Frizzelle, Linda Hardy, William Foreman, Danny Dunn, Donna Garris, James Little; Johnnie Parker, Maria Streeter, Allen Corbett, Becky Williams and Jo-Ann Gorham.

$30 Million Settlement

WASHINGTON (AP)—The American Telephone & Telegraph Co. today signed a $30 million sex discrimination agreement providing back pay and wage adjustments for several thousand Bell System management employees.

The pact with the Departments of Labor and Justice and the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission is the latest in a series of job discrimination suits brought by the government and the second in 16 months against AT&T.

It provides that AT&T—the nation's largest employer—pay an estimated $7 million in back pay to some 7,000 management employees who the government claimed were discriminated against under the Equal Pay Act of 1963.

Another $23 million per year will go into wage adjustments aimed at equalizing pay rates for men and women employees in the company's first two management levels.

A similar agreement was reached Jan. 1973 between the government and AT&T or nonmanagement employees. The cost during the first year of that agreement, including back pay and wage adjustments—was $45 million.

Calley Appeal Hearing Set

NEW ORLEANS, La. (AP)—The 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals has set June 12 as the date to hear a Justice Department appeal that former Lt. William L. Calley Jr., be returned to prison.

Last February, a federal court in Georgia ordered Calley, 30, released on bail pending an appeal of his conviction for the murder of Vietnamese villagers at My Lai.

The Justice Department, arguing that Calley's freedom has a disruptive effect on the armed forces, has asked the appeals court here to overturn the ruling that let Calley post bail.

Shooting Ruled Self-Defense

FAYETTEVILLE, N. C. (AP)—A Cumberland County coroner's jury has found no probable cause for a grand jury to investigate the fatal shooting of a Fort Bragg soldier by a deputy sheriff last weekend.

The ruling came Wednesday after Deputy Willie Brown testified he fired at 21-year-old Kenneth Allen Robinson in self-defense.

The officer said he found Robinson hiding behind a pawn shop early Sunday and he fired after Robinson threw a chisel and a sledgehammer at him.

LIVING-COST CLAUSE

NEW YORK (AP)—An 11-day strike against the U.S. bureaus of the Reuters news agency has ended with union ratification of a new contract including a cost of living clause.

Kissinger Kiss Golda's Joke

JERUSALEM (AP)—Seal it with a kiss, they say.

And that's what Secretary of State Henry Kissinger did Wednesday, bussing a stunned Golda Meir after the announcement of a Syrian-Israeli troop disengagement.

"I didn't know you kissed women," the 76-year-old Israeli premier responded, referring to photographs of Kissinger embracing Arab leaders.

"This is to a very great extent your day," Mrs. Meir told the secretary of state. "It has been a pleasure and a joy to work together."

Carolina Dairy Topples NCNB

Mike Williams cracked out a two-run double to spark Carolina Dairy to a five-run fifth inning and a 5-2 victory over North Carolina National Bank yesterday in Babe Ruth League play.

The victory left Carolina Dairy still atop the league with a 4-0 record, while NCNB fell into fifth place with a 1-5 record.

John Coffman tossed the victory, allowing only one hit by NCNB. He struck out 10 batters and walked only four. Dave Middleton took the loss, fanning six and walking three.

Both teams had threats in the third inning. The Dairymen put a man on third when Ricky Robinson singled, stole second and took third on an out. NCNB did the same when Joey Mattheis walked, moved up on a passed ball and took third on an out.

NCNB also threatened in the fourth as Middleton got the only hit, a high-hopper to short, and stole second.

But the Dairymen struck first and for five runs in the fifth to break the deadlock. Darrel Roebuck led off with a slow roller down the line at third, beating it out. He moved on to second when the relay was overthrown. He was sacrificed to third and Robinson walked. Williams then slapped a double into left center, scoring both runners. Randy Hodges walked as did Steve McClanahan, loading the bases. Coffman's grounder to second was errored, clearing the bases. He moved all the way to third before the ball was finally chased down.

Both of the NCNB runs came in the sixth. Middleton reached on a fielder's choice and moved up on an error on the play. He stole third as Joey Cherry walked. Joel Clark also walked, loading them up. Jerome Ross hit into a fielder's choice that let Middleton score. Cherry then scored on a balk.

Exchange Gets 9-1 Victory

Exchange picked up a game on the rest of the Tar Heel League yesterday as they dumped the Moose, 9-1.

Exchange picked up all they needed in the first on a three run homer by Charles Daise. Mark Douglas and Gordon Douglas had singled to open the inning and Daise added the third straight hit to bring them both in.

The Moose scored in the top of the third getting their only run. David Carroll singled with two out and took second on an error on the play. Ricky West singled him to third and Carroll scored on a passed ball.

The Exchange rallied for four runs in the third to almost insure the win. Mark Douglas led off with a walk and Daise singled. Al Shackleford got a hit filling the bases and an error scored Douglas. Steve Irwin walked as the bases remained full. John Williams sacrificed to score Daise and Eric Deal got a hit driving in Shackleford and Irwin.

Douglas led off the fourth reaching on an error and took second on a passed ball. Two outs later, Shackleford singled him across. Shackleford went to second and third on a passed ball and scored on a hit by Irwin.

The Moose put men on in every inning leaving eight stranded. They could only get the single run in the third.

BOOSTING THE FORCE—Pirates second baseman Rennie Stennett (6) holds the ball as he heaps above the outstretched hands of San Diego Padres relief pitcher Dave Tomlin on a force at second during the fifth inning in Pittsburgh Wednesday night. Tomlin was forced when Derrell Thomas grounded to shortstop Frank Taveras, who flipped to Stennett. The Buc won it, 13-3. (AP Wirephoto)

Pirates Grind Padres Into Hamburger, 13-3

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON
AP Sports Writer
Bob Robertson really knows how to hurt a guy.

First, Pittsburgh's slump-ridden first baseman helped destroy hamburger king Ray Kroc's San Diego Padres Wednesday night by driving in five runs with a pair of two-run homers and a single in the Pirates' 13-3 romp. And then he delivered the unkindest cut of all.

"For a while," he said, "I thought my wife and baby would have to start eating hamburgers."

Elsewhere in the National League, the Los Angeles Dodgers turned back the St. Louis Cardinals 5-2, the Cincinnati Reds edged the New York Mets 3-2 on Tony Perez's 10th-inning homer, the Atlanta Braves nipped the Philadelphia Phillies 1-0 in 11 innings, the Houston Astros downed the Montreal Expos 5-3 and the San Francisco Giants shaded the Chicago Cubs 5-4.

Robertson, who hit 27 home runs in 1970 and 26 in 1971, apparently is back to taking choice cuts—on the field and at the dinner table—after slumping to .193 and 12 homers in 1972 and .239 with 14 homers last season.

Dodgers 5, Cardinals 2
Ron Cey brought Los Angeles from behind with a three-run homer off Bob Gibson in the sixth inning and Bill Russell collected four hits, including an RBI single in the seventh. The Dodgers' Tommy John, 8-1, permitted seven hits before giving way to Mike Marshall in the seventh.

Reds 3, Mets 2
Tony Perez hit his ninth home run of the season with two-out in the 10th off reliever Harry Parker. It was the sixth win in a row for the Reds and the Mets' third straight loss.

Braves 1, Phillies 0
Pinch hitter Vic Correll, who had only two hits in 21 previous trips this season, singled home Ralph Garr from second base in the 11th inning against Steve Carlton.

Astros 5, Expos 3
Bob Watson delivered a tie-breaking two-run single with the bases loaded in the ninth inning after reliever Tom Walker walked Greg Gross and Cesar Cedeno with two out around a single by Roger Metzger. Gross tripled in the first two Houston runs and starting pitcher Claude Osteen singled home the third.

Giants 5, Cubs 4
The Giants scored four times in the first inning on Gary Thomasson's two-run double and Dave Rader's two-run single, but needed Bobby Bonds' homer in the seventh to beat Chicago.

American League scores:
Minnesota 5, Boston 4 in 13 innings; Baltimore 10, Kansas City 3; Texas 3, Cleveland 0; Oakland 4, Detroit 1 and Milwaukee 7, California 5. Chicago and New York were rained out.

Lions In 9-2 Win

The Lions pulled within a game of North State Little League leaders, the Optimists, yesterday with a 9-2 decision over Kiwanis.

The Lions are 6-1 in second place behind the Optimists who are 7-0. Kiwanis falls off to 1-6. The Lions got started in the first as Roger Williams reached on an error and scored on Peter Pace's home run.

Kiwanis tied it up in the third. Jay Whitehurst, Howard Moyer and Grant Stackhouse all walked. Skip Hill singled to score Whitehurst and a wild pitch let Moyer score.

The Lions came back with a rally in the bottom of the third pushing over the winning run. Krage Gardiner reached on a fielder's choice and Pace singled. Both scored on an error. Arthur Fletcher singled and scored on a double by Allen Collier. Collier scored when Shelton Wilson was safe on an outfield error.

The Lions added three more in the fourth. Scott Galloway singled as did Williams. Pace singled to drive in Galloway and a hit by Fletcher scored Williams. Pace scored on a throwing error.

Daniel Captures Its First Win Of Season

Daniel Construction won its first game of the season last night, highlighting the City Softball League's six-game slate.

In the opening game on Field Two, Daniel got the win, downing Carolina Dairy, 7-3. Daniel came up with four runs in the first, then pushed over three more in the third, with Payton hitting a homer. Carolina Dairy got two runs in the second and added a third in the fourth.

The second game saw White's Insulation take a 12-9 win over the Jaycees. White pushed over three in the first inning, then added two in the second. But the Jaycees, after getting a pair in the first, came back with four in the second for a 6-5 lead. White's pushed back ahead in the third with four runs, this time to stay.

Shrine To Play Golf

Activities for Sudan Temple's Spring Ceremonial will be kicked off tomorrow morning when some 100 golfers will take part in a tournament being held at the Brook Valley Golf and Country Club.

Tea off time for the first group of golfers will be at 8:32. Trophies are being awarded for individual winners.

They added two in the fourth and one in the fifth on T. Green's homer. The Jaycees picked up three more on P. Breetman's homer in the fifth.

Parker's Barbecue downed University Seaford, 10-6, in the last game on Field Two. Parker's got three runs in the first then got one in the third. They added two in the fourth and four more in the sixth. Carraway hit a homer for the winners. University got two in the third, one in the fourth, one in the fifth and two in the seventh, with Joyner hitting a homer for them.

Hallow's rolled to a 14-10 win over Grady-White in the first game on Field One. Hallow's got four runs in the top of the first, but Grady-White came back with four to tie it up. Hallow's pushed over four more in the second, to regain the lead, but again fell behind as G-W pushed over two in the third and four in the fourth on a grand-slam homer by Brown, making it 10-8. But Hallow's came back with three in the fifth with Nicholson homering, then added three more in the seventh with Stewart and Mann homering to take the win.

The Little Sluggers nipped Pier 5 by a 9-8 score in the second game. Pier 5 came up with five runs in the first inning and added the other three in the second. Barwick had a homer for them in the first. But the Sluggers got three in the fifth, and two more in the sixth before coming up with four in the seventh, including a two-run homer by Cox and that was enough to win.

In the final game, Shirley's gained a 16-7 win over The Daily Reflector. Shirley's pushed over three in the first and two in the second on Haddock's homer. They came back with four more in the third with Angle homering. Four more scored in the fourth, one in the fifth and two in the sixth. The Reflector got all seven of its runs in a third-inning outburst.

Chicod Is LL Victor

CHICOD—Chicod picked up its first victory of the year in the Southern Pitt Little League last night with a 13-7 win over the Hornets.

Scotty Dixon hurled the victory striking out nine. Jesse Carmon was the loser, despite 10 strikeouts.

Chicod's hitting was led by Mike Edens with three hits, including a homer. Carl Arnold and Joey Weatherington each had two, with Weatherington getting a homer. Dixon also added a round-tripper for the Chicod team.

Joel Brown and Carmon each had two hits for the Hornets, with Carmon having a double.

Chips and putts from area golf courses:
Ayden

A Super-Super Ball Tournament was held this weekend at the Ayden Golf and Country Club. The team of Brooks Barwick, Allen Moye, Lloyd Foley and Ray Harrell took first place in the event.

Second place went to the team of Ralph Wingate, J. C. Pollard, Allen Lawson and Janet Cobb. Third was Sidney Roberson, Orren Babcock, Ray Lenco, Brenda Hasty, while fourth place went to the team of Dean Wingate, Peewee Jones, Vito Abene and Judy Garris.

John Patrick recently had his first eagle, holing out a nine iron shot on the par-five second hole. Jim Wright recorded his best score of 74, while Leroy Merritt had his best nine, a 37.

Brook Valley

Jan Woodworth recently had her best 18-hole score, a 94, while playing in the Ladies Club Championship.

Jane Suave won the title, taking it for the third time in the last seven years. Sandra Smith was the runner-up.

In the Brook Valley Member-Member Tournament, first place went to the team of Paul McMahon and Tom Hicks, who recorded a net 122. Jay Collie and Ben Harrison were second with a 124, while Willard Wilson and Gene Ward took a playoff from Jack Wall and Lawton Nisbet for third. Both teams carded a 125.

Fred Webb recently had his best nine score on the front side, shooting a 39.

Farmville

Farmville Golf and Country Club will play host to the annual Pitt County Golf Tournament on Saturday and Sunday, June 8-9. The 36-hole tournament is open to all members of country clubs in Pitt County. Details are available at their local pro shops.

Greenville

A Member-Guest Tournament is planned for the Greenville Golf and Country Club on June 15-16. For the guests, practice rounds are allowed on June 13 and 14. On the days of the tournament, the course will be closed until 3 p.m., at which time the front side will open.

A College Day Event is planned for June 17 at the club, starting at 4 p.m. A Captain's Choice tournament for college age sons and daughters of members will be held. Those wishing to play may call the pro shop.

Junior members are made aware of the Carolinas Section PGA Boys Junior Championship, to be held at Pinehurst Country Club on July 30-31. The tournament includes 36 holes of play in three divisions 12-13, 14-15, and 16-17 age groups. An entry fee of $10 is charged and the deadline for entries is July 17 at noon.

Pro Gordon Fulp plans a series of clinics for those from the club who wish to participate in the tournament, and he will accompany them to Pinehurst for a practice round on July 29 and for the two days of play.

The team of Connor Merritt, Cathy Collie, Jule White and Beth Mann took first place in a Teenage Captain's Choice Tournament last week. They had a net nine-hole score of 34. Second place went to Cameron Dudley Jr., Jennifer Woolees, Elizabeth Whitehurst and James Goes with a 35. They beat out Karl Thurber, Helen Whitehurst, Keith and Ray Brewer in a sudden-death playoff. Fourth went to Scott Hill, Dave Evans, Valerie Good and Henry Wooten who beat Molt Massey, Muriel Flanagan, Virgil Clark and Teresa Simonowich in another playoff.

In a putting event held with it, Ann Middleton, Cathy Collie and Connor Merritt were winners.

Grifton

The Grifton Golf Club is starting its annual President's Cup Tournament. Members may sign up and play their 36-hole rounds anytime during the month of June.

A Couples Tournament is planned for this weekend at the club. It will be played Saturday and Sunday. Interested couples may sign up in the pro shop.

Miami Team Is JUCO Champion

GRAND JUNCTION, Colo. (AP) — Sophomore pitcher John Whitaker held Miami Dade North of Florida to three hits as undefeated Meramec of St. Louis, Mo., defeated the Floridians 6-4 Wednesday night to win the National Junior College Baseball Tournament.

It was the first championship for Meramec in four trips to the annual tourney.

Meramec jumped off to a three-run lead in the third inning on an error and two singles, one of them by shortstop Steve Viehhaus, who was voted the tournament's most valuable player. Viehhaus, who scored one run and had one RBI in Wednesday's game, set a new tournament record with four home runs in five games.

Miami came back in the bottom of the third, scoring two runs on a homer by Carl Gardner. They took over the lead with two more runs in the fourth, one on an error and the other on a single.

If the fifth inning, Meramec scored two runs on a double by Mike Murphy and a single by Tony Barylski. Viehhaus scored the final run of the game in the ninth on a single by John Franz.

Miller Doesn't Rank Self Among The Best

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Johnny Miller is the reigning U.S. Open champion, winner of five tournaments this season and the leading money winner with almost $200,000. But he won't rank himself among the world's best four golfers.

"Right now," the slim, blond young man said, "the four best players in the world are Gary Player, Jack Nicklaus, Lee Trevino and Tom Weiskopf."

"I'm not in the same category with them," Miller said before teeing off today in the first round of the $250,000 Kemper Open. The tournament is the second of three events designated by the PGA as "must" tournaments, meaning all of the game's leading players are required to compete.

"My game has come a long, long way in the last year," Miller said. "I'm playing now the way I'd dreamed of playing."

"My game has reached the point now that when I get in position to win, I can go ahead and do it. I don't worry about choking. If I get in position to win, I have confidence that I can go ahead and do it.

"I feel confident that I'm capable of making the shots I have to make."

"But that's not to say I'm in the same class with Nicklaus, Player, Trevino and guys like that. They're where I hope to be."

Even though he classed himself behind four players, and has played only one competitive round in four weeks, Miller ranked as the man to beat for the $50,000 first prize in the 72-hole test on the 7,085-yard, par-72 Quail Hollow Country Club course.

With all of the game's top names required to play or face stiff penalties, including possible loss of their playing rights, the field of 150 is one of the strongest of the year.

The field includes millionaires Arnold Palmer, Billy Casper and Australian Bruce Crampton; 62-year-old Sam Snead; Rod Curl, surprise winner of the Colonial National, the first designated tournament; Hubert Green and Buddy Allin, with two victories apiece so far this season; and young standouts Ben Crenshaw and John Mahaffey.

Jipcho Happy In Pro Track Year

By BERT ROSENTHAL
AP Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Yes, track fans, there will be another pro tour in 1975, and it will be run with Ben Jipcho but not John Carlos.

Jipcho, perhaps the world's leading distance runner, was enthusiastic in his praise of pro track after he climaxed the 1974 International Track Association season Wednesday night with a scintillating 3:56.6 clocking in the mile.

Carlos, on the other hand, was highly critical of the ITA after winning the 300-yard dash and finishing second in the 60.

"I am very thankful to the ITA for having brought pro track to the whole world," said Jipcho after running the fourth fastest indoor mile in history and the first sub-four minute performance on the pro tour this year. "I was thinking of leaving running until they came up with the money."

The slender but durable prison guard from Kenya was the leading money winner in his first year as a pro with earnings of $16,700. He won 18 of 20 races over one and two miles.

"This is my last race as a pro," snapped the angry Carlos after his triumph in the 300, the second of his two races. "The only people making money out of this are those in the ITA. I'm sick and tired of running for promoters. That's why I'm going to play football."

Earlier Wednesday, the New York Stars of the World Football League had announced the signing of the 6-foot-3, 195-pounder. Carlos flunked a previous tryout as a pro football player with the National Football League's Philadelphia Eagles in 1970.

However, in 1971 and 1972, he was a wide receiver with the Montreal Alouettes of the Canadian Football League.

Meanwhile, Michael O'Hara, ITA president, assured followers of the pro sport there would be a third season.

Coach Receives Phoned Threats

HOUSTON (AP) — Texas Southern University track Coach Dave Bethany says several threatening phone calls he has received this year are proof enough to him that there is prejudice in NCAA track and field circles.

Bethany, whose highly touted Tigers are competing in the NCAA's University Division for the first time this year, said Wednesday night four or five phone calls warned him not to enter the NCAA championships at Austin, Tex., next week.

"I thought we had come a long way (in race relations) but I don't see any light at the end of the tunnel," said Bethany, whose Tigers have won the all-black Southwestern Athletic Conference title the past three years.

"But all this has made me realize that there is still a lot of prejudice and discrimination," Bethany said he has always received letters and phone calls, both complimentary and derogatory, but he usually laughs them off. The threats are something else.

"I remember one of them said, 'Don't go to the University Division championships if you value your welfare,'" he said.

"Another guy congratulated us on a fine year at TSU and then added, 'Now we're asking you not to go to the NCAA.'"

"They (major universities) want to recruit the black boys but they don't want to see the small black school do good and have to compete against them."

Bethany said 13 of his Tigers qualified for the NCAA championships, scheduled next weekend at the University of Texas' Memorial Stadium.

Asked if the threats made him hesitate about competing, Bethany said, "We qualified for the NCAA and we're going to go and do our best. If everything went just right we could win it, and we should finish at least in the top five."

Angels Won The Fight But Lost The Contest

By KEN RAPPOPORT

AP Sports Writer
California's baseball players were no Angels Wednesday night.

Outfielder Bobby Valentine started a fight that ignited a melee with the Milwaukee Brewers.

Valentine won the battle but the Angels eventually lost the ballgame, 7-5, when George Scott delivered the final blow with his bat in the ninth inning.

Sitting on the trainer's table with an ice bag on his dislocated left shoulder, Valentine talked grimly about the first-inning free-for-all that resulted in his ejection along with Milwaukee's Clyde Wright.

Wright had thrown at Valentine, provoking the wild incident.

Valentine dropped his bat and walked toward the mound with both fists clenched. After a brief exchange of words, Valentine threw a couple of punches, hitting Wright in the eye and the jaw. Then they wrestled to the ground, with Valentine gripping Wright in a vise-like headlock.

Players poured from both dugouts.

Valentine will be lost to the Angels for two to three weeks because of his injury.

In the other American League games, the Texas Rangers blanked the Cleveland Indians 3-0; the Baltimore Orioles blasted the Kansas City Royals 10-3; the Minnesota Twins nipped the Boston Red Sox 5-4 in 13 innings and the Oakland A's stopped the Detroit Tigers 4-1. Chicago and New York were rained out.

Rangers 3, Indians 0
Jackie Brown, making only his second start of the season, pitched a three-hitter to lead Texas Rangers over Cleveland in another baseball game spiced with a brawl.

The brawl in this game started when Texas' Lenny Randle laid down a bunt and threw an elbow at Cleveland pitcher Milt Wilcox along the first base line. Cleveland first baseman John Ellis tackled Randle and a fight ensued between the teams as both benches emptied. Texas Manager Billy Martin charged into the fray and was knocked on the seat of his pants before law and order was restored.

Orioles 10, Royals 3
Baltimore jumped on Steve Busby for four runs in the first inning and exploded for six more in the seventh, breaking a four-game losing streak by beating Kansas City.

Twins 5, Red Sox 4

Rod Carew scored from third on Diego Segui's one-out balk in the 13th inning, giving Minnesota its victory over Boston.

A's 4, Tigers 1

Sal Bando rapped three singles and drove in two runs, leading Oakland over Detroit.

The Tigers took a 1-0 lead in the second inning on a double by Ron Cash and a single by Aurelio Rodriguez.

National League scores:
Houston 5, Montreal 3; Pittsburgh 13, San Diego 3; San Francisco 5, Chicago 4; Atlanta 1, Philadelphia 0 in 11 innings; Los Angeles 5, St. Louis 2 and Cincinnati 3, New York 2 in 10 innings.

Butkus To Sue Bears

CHICAGO (AP) — The owner of the Chicago Bears says he is surprised and puzzled by the $1.6 million lawsuit filed against his team by star linebacker Dick Butkus.

"It looks as though all of their dialogue with us was a sham," said George S. Halas in a statement issued shortly after the suit was filed Wednesday. "It also is eminently clear that all Dick is interested in is sitting in Florida and collecting his paychecks for the next four years."

According to documents supplied by Halas, Butkus and the team management seemed on the verge of an agreement for surgery and rehabilitation expenses for his knee.

"Dick said he was going to have the surgery done by Dr. Don O'Donoghue of Oklahoma City and that was agreeable with me," he said.

"I am puzzled by this latest action particularly in light of my harmonious conversation with Dick Butkus last Thursday," Halas said. "He said he would have surgery within a week or as soon as the lawyers could work out the language of a stipulation concerning his surgery."

Filed in Circuit Court, the suit said the Bears' management did not provide medical and hospital care promised him in a contract Butkus signed July 13.

It also said the Bears refused to play Butkus this year and the remaining four years of his contract.

According to the suit, orthopedic surgeons and the team physician examined Butkus' knee and said he is unable to perform the contract's requirements.

Butkus "may well never again be in the necessary physical condition to play professional football," the suit quoted the doctors as saying.

Injections of cortisone and other drugs caused irreparable damage to Butkus' knee and treatments were given without advising him of the long-term effects of the medications, according to the suit, which asked for $1 million in punitive damages and $600,000 in salary.

The suit says Butkus' annual salary is $115,000.

Phil Esposito of the Boston Bruins led National Hockey League scorers with 145 points during the 1973-74 campaign. He scored 68 goals.

The Chicago Black Hawks lost the least games — 14 — during the National Hockey League season. But they finished second to Philadelphia in the West Division. Chicago led in tie games with 23.

Skepticism Over Mid-East Pact

By The Associated Press
President Nixon, Western European leaders and young Israelis welcomed the Israel-Syria disengagement agreement. But the Soviet Union was cautious, Syria and most other Arab countries were silent and some older Israelis were skeptical whether the pact will succeed.

President Nixon said the agreement was "obviously a major diplomatic achievement and Secretary Kissinger deserves enormous credit for the work that he has done" He said in a televised speech that as a result of the pact, "the prospects for reaching agreement on a permanent basis, I think now, are better than they have been at any time over the past 25 years." A British Foreign Office spokesman said, "We congratulate the governments concerned in this achievement. We salute Dr. Kissinger, whose unremitting efforts have done so much to bring it about."

schler, said the agreement reached by the German-born Kissinger is "a good sign for progress at the Geneva peace conference on the Middle East."

Most Arab countries said little about the accord, and Syrian broadcasts only quoted President Nixon's announcement that a settlement had been reached. There was no official Syrian confirmation of the pact, and some citizens doubted it was settled.

A highly placed source in Damascus said Syria might not make an announcement until Friday, when the agreement is to be signed in Geneva. Palestinian guerrilla sources were not commenting, apparently waiting for Syria to take the lead.

In Egypt, however, news of the settlement was flashed on Cairo radio. Particular attention was paid to President Nixon's statement that the prospects for a lasting peace now are better than ever.

The Soviet news agency Tass reported the agreement but said it must be accompanied by other measures to really pacify the Middle East. It said "appropriate measures should immediately be taken to achieve an all-encompassing and just settlement."

That viewpoint was echoed in a communique issued in Damascus by President Hafez Assad and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko.

"The Syrian and Soviet viewpoints converged that a just and lasting peace cannot be achieved in the Middle East except through complete Israeli withdrawal from all occupied Arab territories and the restoration of the legitimate rights of the Palestinian people," the communique said.

Set Motorcycle Safety Courses

Two courses in motorcycle safety will be offered at East Carolina University this summer to high school driver education teachers.

According to Dr. Alfred King of the ECU Department of Health and Physical Education, course participants will include 30 eastern North Carolina driver educators who hope to find the need for motorcycle safety instruction in their local high schools.

Dr. King is director of the ECU Traffic Safety Center.

The Motorcycle Safety Foundation is supporting the program with a grant of $4,158. Motorcycles will be provided by Stan's Sports Center of Greenville in cooperation with the Honda International Co.

Fall Off Truck Fatal To Man

Joel Fogleman, 23, of 806 Heath St. died in Pitt Memorial Hospital Tuesday night of injuries he received when he fell from a pickup truck on Ellsworth Drive in Lake Ellsworth Subdivision just West of the city limits off U. S. 264 about noon Tuesday.

Pitt County Coroner E. W. Harvey, who ruled the death accidental, said Fogleman died about 9 p.m. from head injuries he received in the fall.

Highway Patrolman A. G. Wright said Fogleman and two other men, Jessie Woods, 27, of Route 2, Farnville and William Henry Harper, 27, of Route 6, Greenville, fell from a vehicle being operated by Gary Horton Bostic of Stratford Arms Apts.

According to Trooper Wright, the three men were sitting on the tail gate of the truck when the vehicle hit a bump in the road. The tailgate collapsed, throwing the three to the pavement.

Harper was admitted to Pitt Memorial Hospital for treatment of injuries he received in the mishap, while Woods was treated for his injuries and released.

No charges were made, according to Trooper Wright, who noted that no other vehicle was involved in the incident.

New President Of Association

Peggy Wood, chairman of the Department of Medical Records Science in the East Carolina University School of Allied Health and Social Professions, is the new president of the North Carolina Medical Record Association.

She was elected at the association's recent annual meeting in Wilmington.

Members of the NCMRA include medical record personnel from hospitals and other health care facilities, rehabilitation centers, state agencies and educational institutions.

Arrest Boy For Bike-Larceny

Greenville police last night arrested a 14-year-old local youth on charges of bicycle larceny.

Chief Glenn Cannon said the juvenile allegedly took a bicycle from 2000 Fairview Way on May 15. The boy was taken into custody and charged with the theft about 7:30 p.m. yesterday.

Series Of Ice-Skating Lessons To Be Offered

The Greenville Recreation Department, in conjunction with the Ice House of Greenville, is announcing a reduced rate program for learning to ice skate.

Under this arrangement, a total of 30 hours of instruction, made up of 10 sessions of three hours each, will be held twice weekly on Tuesdays and Thursdays from 9 a.m. until noon for a period of five weeks.

The reduced cost rate through the Recreation Department-Ice House joint arrangement will be $15.00 per person for the 30 hours. The first lesson begins on June 18.

Included in the cost of lessons is one imprinted cotton "T" shirt.

Walter Stasavich, coordinator of the Recreation Department's Summer Programs, explained that an ID card will be issued to each registrant. "This card can be shared by more than one person," Stasavich said. "For example, a family with two kids can let each child get in 15 hours of training on the same 30 hour ticket."

There is no age limit for registrants—except as Stasavich pointed out "a child should be old enough to coordinate himself."

Persons interested in this joint program must register at the Recreation Department prior to 5:00 p.m. on Wednesday, June 5. Payment of the $15.00 fee is required in full at the time of registration. Two make up sessions will be held, on July 23 and 25.

Stasavich pointed out "this reduced rate applies only to the five week period sponsored by the Recreation Department. After the termination of this joint effort, or at other times other than the hours set aside for the Recreation Department, the regular $31.00 fee charged by the Ice House will apply."

MIA Tar Heel Declared Dead

WASHINGTON (AP)—A North Carolina airman who had been listed as missing in action in Southeast Asia has been declared dead by the Pentagon.

CM. Sgt. Fred L. Clarke, husband of Mrs. Lois R. Clarke of Rt. 1, Troutman, was reclassified Wednesday. He was among 10 Air Force personnel now declared dead.

The latest announcement reduces the number of men still listed as missing to 1,059. There were 1,363 on the missing roster when the Vietnam War officially ended last year.

Increase Your Chance At Job

Halsey sent out 10 letters of application and got 3 requests for immediate interviews. He landed a splendid job on his first call. So use the advice below to shortcut a lot of futile pounding of pavements. Scrapbook this case, too!

By GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D., M.D.
CASE A-644: Halsey D., aged 21, is soon to graduate from college.

"Dr. Crane," he began, "I understand jobs are no longer served up to college students on a silver platter.

"But I must go to work fast, for I owe my parents $10,000 on my college education.

"And they need the money, so how can I increase my chances of landing a good position?"

How Get Jobs
Survey the various trades and occupations so you can narrow down the field.
Then adopt the experienced duck hunter's policy.

He doesn't shoot blindly at the flock overhead but focusses on just one duck.

So study the advertisements in your local newspaper or the trade journals in the special field you wish to enter.

Those journals are usually available in either your public or the college libraries.

If you live in a large city where you may wish to link up with a factory or some other industry, try to get the name of the Employment Manager (Personnel Director) or other top official.

Then send a brief, businesslike letter, addressing it to this man by name.

If you are replying to a blind ad in the newspaper or a trade journal, where only a return box number is listed, then start out your salutation with "Gentlemen" instead of personalized "Dear Mr. Ford."

Remember, too, that the primary purpose of your first letter is just to get an appointment for a personal interview!

So don't fill it with much detail but stress major points.

And unless the advertisement specifically requested a handwritten letter, you better have it typewritten.

Employers also are more receptive to people who already have jobs, so don't start out by flaunting the fact you are unemployed.

Instead, use this sample first paragraph as your opening and pattern after the "Specimen Letter on Page 759 of my college textbook "Psychology Applied."

"Since I am looking for a position with a company which holds out a future for a person of my experience, I wish to cite the following qualifications:"

Then indent rather deeply and tabulate 4 major headings, as:

1. Business Experience
2. School and Technical Training
3. Personal Data
4. References

Under the latter, list 3 or 4 people with "handles" on their names, such as "Judge" or "Advertising Manager" or "President" (as of a bank or corporation) and "Reverend." Briefly outline your major past business experience, listing your major job first.

The goal of this letter is to obtain an interview for you; not get a job, so keep that definitely in mind!

Then dress like an executive, not a long-haired hippie, for long hair on men connotes dirt and inefficiency.

For further advice, consult my textbook at your local library or send for my booklet "Vocational Guidance," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: It would be wise not to make any binding commitments today, especially early in the day for later a surprising invitation or meeting with another person could take up time you had planned for another matter.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Ideal morning to see what allies want from you. Later someone you hadn't expected takes up your time, but for a worthwhile cause.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Show loyalty to allies and co-workers and much is then accomplished. Spare time is best utilized improving surroundings at home.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are able to unexpectedly have a good time at a new type of amusement. Don't get yourself worried over something worthless.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) A family affair can now develop into something very worthwhile, so keep attuned to it. Listen to a plan someone offers.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) Handle those duties in a more up-to-date fashion so that you derive more benefits from them. Opportunity is at your fingertips.

PCA Officials At Meeting In Atlanta

Officials of the Pitt-Greene Production Credit Association will attend the annual conference for directors and presidents of Production Credit Associations and Federal Land Bank Associations at the Hyatt

Regency Atlanta in Atlanta, Georgia, June 9-11, according to F.L. Little, Jr., president of the association. The theme of the conference will be "Serving a New Era of Agriculture."

Little said the conference has been announced by R.A. Darr, President of the Federal Land Bank and Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Columbia, S.C. and approximately 1,700 farmer-directors, presidents and guests of the 59 Production Credit Associations and 46 Land Bank Associations in Florida, Georgia and the Carolinas are expected to attend.

The Credit Bank provides leadership, supervision and loan funds for PCAs which serve nearly 55,000 farmers, growers, ranchers and rural homeowners with over $1.1 billion of operating credit, capital investment credit on an intermediate-term basis and rural housing credit through 204 complete service offices.

The farmer-owned and operated Pitt-Greene PCA serves Pitt and Greene Counties and is extending over $22 million to farmer members and rural homeowners in these counties.

Other officials of the Pitt-Greene PCA attending the conference will be Alton Gardner of Rt. 2, Ayden, chairman; W.F. Welfare, Jr. of Snow Hill, vice chairman; Chester Don Worthington, Jr. of Rt. 1, Greenville, director; David Harold Smith of Rt. 2, Ayden, director; and Charles H. Harper of Rt. 2, Snow Hill, director, and Arnold B. Parris of Snow Hill, Branch Office Manager.

The bidding:

2 ♠ Pass 3 ♣ Pass
4 ♠ Pass Pass Pass

Opening lead: Queen of ♠ "Second hand low" is a sound general rule of card play. On today's hand, two players elected to ignore this advice. Both were right, but brilliant defense alone could not prevent declarer from scoring a well-played game.

Despite the fact that he held a good five-card major, South had a balanced hand, so his choice of one no trump as an opening bid was eminently sound, since it averted later rebid problems. North checked on major suits, and when he learned that his partner had a spade suit, he invited game by raising to three spades. Since South was close to maximum and had a five-card suit in the bargain, he accepted gladly.

West led the queen of hearts, won by the ace. Declarer had to lose two diamonds, so the fate of the contract appeared to rest on the location of the king of clubs. However, declarer could set up a diamond for one club discard, and perhaps make the contract even if the king of clubs were in the West hand.

Declarer drew two rounds of trumps, ending in dummy, and led the three of diamonds. Had East played low routinely, it would have been all over — West would have been forced to win the jack with the king and declarer's clubs would have been safe from attack. South would have had time to knock out the ace of diamonds and discard a club on dummy's fourth diamond.

However, East made a superior defensive play by going up with his ace of diamonds and shifting to a club. Now it was declarer's turn to demonstrate his skill. Had he carelessly covered with the queen, West would have taken the king and continued the suit, and when he gained the lead with the king of diamonds the defenders would have cashed the setting trick in clubs. But declarer realized that, if East held the king of clubs, he did not need to take an immediate finesse. Pursuing his original plan of establishing the diamond suit, he rose with the ace of clubs and played the jack of diamonds to West's king. The defenders were helpless. West could not get East on lead for another club play through the queen, and dummy's fourth diamond took care of South's second club loser.

Warn Parents Complacency Could Bring Epidemics

By KATHRYN JOHNSON
Associated Press Writer
ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Despite effective vaccines, epidemics of childhood diseases still could erupt nationwide partly because of the complacency of parents, warns a health official.

"The ho-hum attitude of parents that immunization can be put off until a child enrolls in school is part of the reason for the problem," said Dr. John J. Witte, chief of the immunization branch of the Center for Disease Control.

"We've come a good way down the road because of our recent massive immunization program, but we're not up to the level where we feel successful," he said.

"Last fall, many preschool age children got protection that they had not had before, but we need another peak effort to alert parents to the problem," Witte added.

Epidemics of childhood diseases such as measles, rubella, mumps, diphtheria, whooping cough and polio used to be as predictable as losing baby teeth.

Despite the fact that these contagious diseases can now be prevented, a federal survey last year showed as many as five million preschool youngsters faced the threat of these debilitating and sometimes fatal diseases.

"About one case of measles in a thousand results in death," said the health official. "Before the days of vaccine, we had about 400 to 500 deaths a year."

Parents have always underestimated the effects of measles, said Witte.

from measles which can result in brain damage," he said. "Usually if a child survives encephalitis, it is left with a residual problem such as mental retardation. Measles also can result in pneumonia or middle ear infections."

The survey also showed that 37 per cent of the nation's preschoolers needed polio immunization — the worst rates since the epidemics of the early 1960s.

The immunization levels for measles showed 38 per cent of infants had not received the vaccine while 43 per cent had not had a rubella vaccination.

The CDC, in cooperation with state health departments and medical associations, went into action with a massive immunization program last fall.

Although all data is not in, Witte said, enough is to show that polio vaccinations are now up at least 20 per cent over a comparable period in 1973.

"We're very fortunate we've had no epidemic or outbreak," he said.

million doses of polio vaccines were distributed, according to health officials. Ten years earlier, polio claimed 1,400 lives and paralyzed 21,300.

"This generation of young parents does not have the fear of polio that parents did 10 years ago," said Witte.

"They're not as strongly motivated." Since the introduction of a vaccine, measles cases in the United States fell from 385,000 in 1963 to 22,000 in 1968. The death toll dropped from 364 to 24 in the same period.

But an epidemic in 1971 raised the toll to 75,000 cases with 75 deaths, according to federal figures.

Rebella, sometimes called "German measles," is relatively harmless to children but can lead to devastating effects in unborn children — particularly if the mother contracts the disease in her first three months of pregnancy.

The defects can include blindness, mental retardation, heart ailments and deafness.

"We're doing two things with rubella," said Witte. "We're immunizing young children because most of the spread and transmission to pregnant women is from the young child."

Young women whose blood tests show they are susceptible to rubella also are being immunized, he said.

The vaccination for chicken pox, another childhood disease, is still experimental, said Witte, but others that now threaten are preventable.

Rush Sworn As Nixon Counselor

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former deputy secretary of state Kenneth Rush became a special counselor to President Nixon when he was sworn in as chief of economic policy.

Nixon said Wednesday that Rush, 64, will bring new ideas into battle against inflation. Rush taught Nixon when the President was attending Duke University law school.

Ford Doubts Country Has Lost Sense Of Morality

By ROBERT H. REID
Associated Press Writer
CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)—Vice President Gerald R. Ford says he does not think the country has lost its sense of morality although "we're going through a very difficult period in Washington."

"It's my judgement that we're fortunate that the institutions we have, both in the courts and in Congress, are strong enough to take care of any of the problems that have arisen and I have great faith in the basic morality of the American people," Ford said.

The vice president was here for two days of golf before flying later Wednesday to Birmingham, Ala. for a speech before the Salvation Army.

He joined pro Tom Weiskopf, Evangelist Billy Graham, and North Carolina Gov. Jim Holshouser Wednesday afternoon in the pro-am which preceded the Kemper Open Golf Tournament.

Ford's remarks followed a statement Tuesday by Graham, in which the longtime friend of President Nixon deplored the moral tone of the Watergate tapes. He said Wednesday that the country "is in need of a spiritual awakening."

Ford told a news conference that he did not know what im-act Graham's statement might have on members of the House of Representatives.

Rummage Sale Set Saturday

St. Gabriel's Church will conduct a rummage sale of good used clothing and household goods on Saturday morning, June 1st, from 9:00 a.m. to 12:30 p.m.

The sale will be held in the school and on the grounds of St. Gabriel's which is located on West Fifth and Tyson Streets.

Proceeds of this sale will be used to support the summer school program. The public is invited to attend.

On the course, Ford and Graham smiled as they walked together, chatting frequently and calling one another by their first names.

Ford was well-received by the fairway crowds. On No. 17, however, one spectator shouted "Watch out for Watergate" as the Vice President fired his shot over the water hazard.

During the news conference, Ford said he did not believe that Sen. J. William Fulbright's loss to Gov. Dale Bumpers in the Arkansas primary Tuesday was a signal that all incumbents are in trouble.

"It appears to me that the governor was a very, very popular and attractive candidate and Sen. Fulbright, after a period of 30 years, had lost contact perhaps with many of the voters.

"And when you have that kind of a situation, it seems to me that the results are almost inevitable," Ford said.

Ford also said the White House should withhold additional tapes and documents until the House Judiciary Committee finished studying material already provided.

"I have said from the outset that the 19 tapes and the transcripts of 23 more was enough evidence for the committee to proceed on, to get moving on," Ford said.

"But until they are all through with the transcripts and the witnesses, I don't think there ought to be further delivery. It's possible they'll have all the evidence when they get through with what they have," he said.

However, Ford said he hoped a compromise could be arranged if the committee desired more information after it had studied all available material and interrogated witnesses.

Ford probably played the best golf of the three amateurs. However, it is difficult to tell what an amateur shoots because the team score is based on the best ball of the foursome and only the pro must play through.

The vice president got off to a bad start on the back nine, hooking a low shot into the woods and nearly striking two girl spectators. He lost the ball on the follow shot. For Holshouser, it was a day mixed with an occasional brilliant putt and several trips to the woods.

"I hope you folks think I'm doing a better job running state government," he quipped on one hole.

"Well, at least we know you're not spending all your time on the golf course," yelled back one spectator. Holshouser's next shot chipped out of the trap, but then rolled back to his feet. He laughed, picked up the ball, and threw it to the green.

No. 13 was a lucky one, however, as his 20-foot putt rolled from the rough to the cup for a par. "Nice going, James," the vice president called.

Graham, who grew up a few miles from the course, seemed the most relaxed and was a crowd favorite. He received nearly as many requests for autographs as the vice president, and he frequently stopped to shake hands with old acquaintances.

On No. 17, where a large, noisy crowd jovially heckled the three amateurs, someone called out: "How about a beer, Billy?" Graham turned and said, "You sound like a Baptist crowd."

Before the news conference, officials of the Kemper Insurance Company, sponsors of the tournament, presented a check for $35,000 in the vice president's name to the Boys Clubs of America.

$200,000 COIN — This 1907 ultrahigh relief U.S. double eagle $20 gold piece was sold for a record $200,000 in an auction in New York Tuesday.

Only 13 or 16 specimens were made. The last one to be auctioned was sold for $3,280 in 1944. The coin is about the size of a silver dollar. (AP Wirephoto)

Handed Down 2 Sentences

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A Charlotte youth convicted of first degree murder in the ambush slaying of two young restaurant workers has received two death sentences.

The sentences were imposed by Superior Court Judge Sam Ervin III Wednesday on Richard Gordon, 20, and set his execution for Aug. 5. However, state law provides for an automatic appeal in cases involving the death penalty.

A Mecklenburg County jury of 10 men and two women deliberated 30 minutes in returning the verdict against Gordon, first of three persons to be tried in the slaying last Aug. 17 of Steve Helton, 21, and Sharon Williams, 17, both of Charlotte.

The two had closed the restaurant where they worked and were preparing to leave in Helton's car when they were shot to death.

Two others charged with first degree murder in the case, Ronnie Young and Charles McCain, will be tried later in separate trials.

Streaker Fined $100 For Feat

RALEIGH (AP) — Bruce Ross Rufty, 25, of Salisbury, a student at North Carolina State University, has been fined $100 plus court costs and handed a six months suspended jail sentence in connection with a streaking incident.

Rufty was arrested and charged with indecent exposure March 23 during a celebration which followed N.C. State's basketball victory over UCLA.

According to testimony in Wake County District Court, Rufty was running up and down the 1900 block of Hillsborough Street in front of the campus clad only in a pair of shoes. At one time he was seen standing nude on top of a building.

Nominated For U.S. Treasurer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Francine Neff, former New Mexico Republican national committee woman and a member of the GOP executive committee since 1972, has been nominated to be Treasurer of the United States.

Mrs. Neff, 48, was nominated Wednesday by President Nixon to succeed Romana Banuelos, who resigned.

The treasurer's job has gone to a woman for many years.

Mrs. Young Is Hurting, But Alive; Near-Miracle

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP)—Joan Crosby Young has a severe abrasion on her forehead, a broken right collarbone and massive bruises all down her right side.

But she's alive and that in itself, she feels, is something short of a miracle, due to "a strange, mystic power..."

Mrs. Young is the lone survivor of a tragic boating accident on the Inland Waterway Sunday night that took not only the life of her husband, James Edwin Young, but the lives of five other family members.

The victims included her first cousin Don W. Harrelson; his wife Sarah Lee; and the three Harrelson children, Gina, 10; Karen, 7; and Tracey, 13. Mrs. Young was able to swim to shore from the middle of the Waccamaw River link of the waterway after an apparent tornado had capsized their 20-foot boat as the two-family party was returning to Wacca Wache Marina after dinner at Bucksport Marina, some five miles away.

"We had the motors (a pair of 135 horsepower inboards) shut down somewhat so we weren't cruising very fast at the time," Mrs. Young recalled Wednesday. "God, how I wish we had been going under full speed — we would have missed the whole thing."

As it was, however, the Youngs boating party didn't miss the deadly blow. Minutes later, the boat was capsized by a violent wind current that

Mrs. Young described as a tornado. All seven aboard were dumped into the murky waters of the Waccamaw River.

Seconds before the mishap, Mrs. Young and the youngest Harrelson child, Karen, had sought protective covering under the bow-top of the boat. Mrs. Young said that she was huddled up in a prone position with the youngster when the boat went over.

"I remember Karen being pulled from my arms by some force and the next thing I knew I was in the water," the attractive 31-year-old widow said in an interview.

She doesn't remember how, but said she managed to dive to get out from under the sinking vessel, then to cling to a mooring line on the front of the craft.

"Every boating instruction I've ever had has taught me to stay with the boat in a capsizing accident, and that was the first thing on my mind at the time," she said.

"I called for the rest of the group but got no answer whatsoever, so when the boat started to sink I had to make up my mind whether to hang on to the mooring line or try and get to shore," she recalled.

When the boat sank out of sight and she no longer could stand on the hull and still keep her head above water, Mrs. Young took the alternative of swimming for shore some 100 yards away.

An expert swimmer and boater, Mrs. Young told how she reached the shoreline and managed to drag herself up into the fork of a tree on the eastern bank of the river — a swampy, marshy area normally infested with snakes and alligators.

Recalling the incident, Mrs. Young said, "I would have never thought I had it within myself to do what had to be done to survive, but when you're faced with the realization that you've just lost or are about to lose everything in your life, there's a strange, mystic power that takes over and provides the strength you need. Under normal circumstances I would never have been able to muster that power."

For 3½ agonizing hours Mrs. Young clung to the tree until she was rescued by her husband's brother, Randy Young, who had gone looking for the party when they were overdue at Myrtle Beach.

"I thought about a lot of things during those 3½ hours," she recalled. "Mostly I tried to convince myself not to think about the alligators and the snakes, but to dwell instead on the beautiful animals of the forest and swamp like deer, squirrels and racoons."

Before her rescue in the early hours of the morning, she said that one boat came down the river but apparently the drone of the craft's engine drowned out her calls for help. Periodically she cried out the names of her husband and others in the party, but each cry was met with only muted silence.

"It was the most excruciating experience of my life," she said.

Even after her rescue early Monday morning, Mrs. Young, whose husband was a contractor and restaurant owner, refused to leave the scene of the tragedy until mid afternoon Monday. Then pain from her injuries forced her to allow rescuers to take her to a hospital.

Completely composed in the wake of the tragedy, Mrs. Young said "I'm not a religious person but while clinging to that tree out there for more than three hours I became aware of the fact that there was someone providing me with the strength I needed to do what had to be done."

Public Asked Curb Trend To Violence

GASTONIA, N.C. (AP)—Following a demonstration Tuesday against Gaston County's rising crime rate, officials have called for public support to curb the trend toward violence.

Some 150 women carried placards deploring the crime rate when Gov. Jim Holshouser arrived at the Gaston County Courthouse for a "People's Day" meeting.

Some of the signs read: "Down With All These Dirty Judges and Lawyers," and "Do Your Share, Permit Capital Punishment."

During the past year, the trend to violence here has led to 15 murders in the largely rural county. Among the latest victims was an Atlanta teenager, whose mutilated body was found wired to a tree last month. Two suspects have been charged in her death.

"I hope the demonstration may have served to focus the spotlight on the situation and will make the community aware of it," said Gastonia Police Chief Don Roseman on Wednesday. "No department can function without community support."

Roseman said the city needs more police, but industry lures away many applicants. Gastonia has vacancies for eight patrolmen, he said, and most slots have been unfilled for months.

Gaston County Police Chief J. C. Sanford also urged more community support for law enforcement, saying too many persons ignore crime.

"It's a usual thing that someone sees a crime being committed, such as a house-breaking, where household goods are being taken," he said. "Too often, the person doesn't want to get involved and doesn't do anything until it's too late."

The demonstrators said they were concerned about laxity of the courts, too many suspended sentences, prison escapes, inadequate sentences and too few parole and probation officers.

"We teach good citizenship as part of our club work and I think to be a good citizen, we must be against crime," said Mrs. John Owensby, a leader of the demonstrators. "I think citizens should stand up for what they believe in."

Presidential Scholars Named

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon has named four students from the Carolinas to be 1974 presidential scholars.

The four are among 121 high school seniors chosen for the honor. They will come to Washington June 16 for a three-day visit to meet government officials and be honored in a White House ceremony June 18.

The four are W. Alexander Dallis of Columbia, Margaret Goud of Camden, S.C., Candace H. Haigler of Matthews, N.C., and Jonathan D. Sasser of Indian Trail, N.C.

No Insurance In TV Log 2 Emmy Awards

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — One would think that the kid TV series called "Zoom," having won its second Emmy award in two years, would be on Easy Street now. But one would be very wrong, says David Ives. He's president of Boston's WGBH, the station that has produced "Zoom" since January 1971, and he says he's worried whether the series will survive public TV's version of the auction block.

"This is one of those odd stories in the whole Emmy business," he says. "Some people have said the Emmy award is the kiss of death. I just hope to God it isn't this time." The source of his concern is the Public Broadcasting Service's new national program cooperative, in which stations are now asked to pay a percentage of some national shows they once got gratis.

"Zoom" is one of those shows. It's getting no federal funds next season from the Corporation for Public Broadcasting. CPB says it no longer will finance public TV series beyond two years.

Under the new cooperative plan, now undergoing a series of initial price rounds, the final per-station price of each show involved rises or falls, depending on the number of stations willing to pay.

What worries Ives is that many stations may decide the "Zoom" price is too high and drop out of the early bidding, thereby increasing the tab for those still interested.

And those stations in turn may subsequently decide the new price is too high and that they'd rather put their money into series that'll offer them more programs next season than "Zoom" will.

"And if the price is roughly the same," Ives says, "there's going to be a tendency—and it's showing up already—for the stations to want more programming for the dollars they put up."

"So that's the ironic situation," says Ives. "Here is 'Zoom,' winning its second Emmy in a row against the best competition the commercial boys could put up, then facing this situation."

"The economics of public broadcasting this year are raising some questions about whether it's going to make it or not. And it's got us worried at the moment."

The series, one of seven children's shows offered by the corporation, isn't cheap. The tab is more than $1.4 million for 32 new half-hour shows for next season.

TVA Region Gained Jobs

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP)—The Tennessee Valley region gained nearly 100,000 additional non-farm jobs last year, the Tennessee Valley Authority reports.

TVA's Economic Research Staff also said average personal income levels in the region kept pace with the rising cost of living. Non-farm employment in the region reached an estimated 2.35 million jobs in 1973, TVA said. This was an increase of 4.3 per cent over the previous year, slightly more than the national increase.

Over the past 10 years, TVA said, non-farm employment has increased 51 per cent in the region and 33 per cent nationally. TVA said personal income in 1973 averaged $3,666 for each man, woman and child — an increase of just under 9 per cent from 1972.

The figure is slightly more than the increase for the year in the national Consumer Price Index, TVA said. The region's unemployment rate fell to 3.5 per cent last year from 4.1 per cent in 1972. The national unemployment rate in 1973 was about 5 per cent.

RECORD FLIGHT—Hot air balloon manned by Swiss aeronauts Kurt Ruenzi and Ernst Amman passes close to Glarner Massiv of central Switzerland at an altitude of 10,000 feet—the first Alpine crossing by such a craft. The two pilots took off last week from Mollis in northeastern Switzerland and came down three and one-half hours later at Mesocco, some 61 miles away on the southern Alpine slopes. The aeronauts claimed a hot air altitude record of 17,816 feet. (AP Wirephoto)

Galbraith May Quit Teaching

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Economist John Kenneth Galbraith says he may not return to the teaching job he has held at Harvard for the past 25 years.

"Everything is in the realm of interior speculation," he told the Harvard Crimson Wednesday. "I'm contemplating the whole future."

Galbraith, who will be 66 in October, said he plans to produce a British television series in England next year.

Pollution Slowly Poisons Japan

By NICHOLAS DANILOFF

United Press International
Did you ever wonder what it would be like if one day there was too much pollution, too many people, too few resources in the world?

Take a close look at Japan. Since World War II, Japan has been growing at a phenomenal rate. Japanese products are high class and famous. Japanese businessmen are everywhere. But in the process of developing—so envied by the less developed nations—Japan has literally been poisoning itself.

The Japanese Environment Agency has produced documentation to show that serious and persistent pollutants have entered Japan's air, rivers, streams, bays, land—and even some mothers' milk. There are new diseases in Japan, caused by pollution and known nowhere else. Government figures list 8,737 officially recognized air pollution victims in 1972, and 728 water pollution victims.

The Japanese government today is waging what could turn out to be a life-and-death struggle to clean up the environment, and it is warning the rest of the world to take heed.

Crucial Role

In a major, 298-page report issued in 1973 and titled "Quality of the Environment in Japan," the Environment Agency stated:

"Crucial (in fighting pollution) will be the role played by those countries which, in effect, have themselves spawned the environmental problem in the name of 'development.' They will have to both guarantee the protection of the environment of the entire globe and simultaneously make it possible for the underdeveloped nations to share the benefits of 'development.' Failing this, it is highly doubtful whether the world's environmental problems can be resolved in time."

The pollution problem—and the Japanese government effort to clean up—is the deepest impression brought back by this correspondent from a 12-day study tour of Japan. The tour was organized by the Japanese Foreign Ministry for five newsmen currently studying at Harvard University as Nieman Fellows.

The pollution problem is made all the more acute by the grim realities of Japan's geographic and demographic peculiarities. Japan's population is 108 million, approximately half that of the United States. Yet the Japanese live on an island chain whose territory is slightly less than that of the state of California.

Trade, Trade, Trade
To make matters worse, those islands are 76 per cent hilly or mountainous. Only 16 per cent of the land is arable, and natural resources are relatively poor, consisting mainly of lumber, fisheries, and water which can be converted to hydroelectric power.

To survive, Japan must import other nations' raw materials, and transform them into first class goods. Japan must produce aggressively. Then it must trade, trade, trade.

Any newcomer to Japan becomes quickly aware of the pollution problem, to which long-time residents and foreign diplomats often are inured. When you land at Tokyo International Airport, you come face-to-face with the problem of too many people. To leave the airport, or almost any other major terminal in Japan, you just can't walk blithely across the hall. You must move slowly along with masses of people shuffling in the direction you wish to go.

When you visit Tokyo, it is not unusual to feel the acrid smog stinging at your eyes, or irritating your throat. If you fly, or travel by train, you may notice a thin veil of greyish smog which obliterates some of those famous views of Mount Fuji.

"Bullet Train"
If you take a high-speed "Bullet Train" you feel at home immediately in the American-style coaches with their wide picture windows. But the view of the countryside is sobering: you see hills being carved up and covered with brutish gashes; land being terraced desperately to provide more growing and living space; wetlands drained to provide more farmland, upsetting the local ecological system; tiny houses in the Tokyo metropolitan area sitting cheek-by-jowl with hardly any space between them.

You are not particularly aware of the noise the "Bullet Train" makes as it glides smoothly and effortlessly along at 130 miles-an-hour—noise that has forced the government to provide assistance for moving homes away from the tracks, or funds for sound-proofing rooms.

But these first-hand observations are only a hint of the over-all problem which conscientious government officials conceive in the broadest possible scope, and not necessarily in the most optimistic terms.

"Thanks to an unprecedented high level of economic growth during the post-war period," says the Environment Agency's official report, "Japan has enjoyed a phenomenal expansion of its economic power and a substantial rise in its material standard of living. Behind this aura of prosperity, however, lies a land whose former beauty and wealth are being ravaged by the effects of environmental pollution, new types of injury to human health, deterioration of the living environment, and destruction of the natural environment."

Dr. Michio Hashimoto, one of the agency's leading officials, gave visiting journalists a detailed briefing of Japan's environmental problems. Besides pollution of rivers, streams, bays, and air, he called attention to noise pollution at airports and along railway lines, traffic strangulation in cities, and ground subsidence resulting from the overzealous tapping of the underground water table.

Pessimistic About Future
"I think we probably have the technical means to control this pollution," said Dr. Hashimoto, who took a Masters Degree in Public Health at Harvard University in 1955. "There is a strict social climate now in Japan for cleaning up. But I am pessimistic about the future. Not so much about the environment, as about the possibility of social catastrophe."

Indeed, the pollution crisis poses a number of tough questions for Japan—as for many other nations. What is the effect of industrial pollution on human health? What kind of government determination and social cooperation will it take to clean up? Perhaps more importantly, what will it cost, and will other crises along the way—such as the oil shortage—shake the country's determination?

It is certain now that industrial pollution has produced new illnesses in Japan and may produce others.

In one sense, the A-bombing of Hiroshima and Nagasaki in August, 1945 initiated the new era of pollution disease. During this writer's visit to Japan, at least one woman was reported to have died of the after-effects of the Nagasaki bombing.

"Weird" Diseases
Two so-called "weird" diseases have sprung up from mercury poisoning in Minamata Bay, and from cadmium poisoning in the Toyama area. "Minamata Disease produces neurological disorders such as deafness, speech impairment, narrowing of the field of vision. The other, called the "Itai-itai Disease," causes bones to become so brittle that they break when a victim moves around.

Large Pay-Off In Bond Lottery

LONDON (UPI) — Britain's "premium savings bonds" scheme, in which people hold non-interest-bearing government bonds gambling that their bond will be picked for a tax-free prize, has paid out more than 10 million prizes since the first draw in June, 1957, the Department for National Savings reported.

It said more than 1.6 billion pounds ($3.9 billion) of the bonds had been sold. A total of 3,788,550 pounds ($9,281,947) is allocated in prize money for each monthly draw.
