

All 78 Units In Newtown Accepted For Occupancy

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

All 78 units in Newtown have been accepted for occupancy and as of the first of the month, 62 units were rented, it was reported at Monday night's Housing Authority meeting.

Joe Laney, executive director, told commissioners that the 47 units on the east side of 14th Street in Newtown (N.C. 22-6) were inspected and accepted for occupancy on May 13.

The 31 west side units in Newtown were accepted in March and the Authority began moving families into the new structures soon after they were ready for occupancy.

The Authority anticipates having all 78 units rented by June 4, it was pointed out.

Laney said that rainy weather in recent weeks has hampered the landscaping phase of the project and although the site is ready to be brought up to finished grade, several days of good weather are needed to accomplish the work.

He said that both the east and west areas have had rough grading work done and the finished grade phase is expected to be completed soon, weather permitting.

Mrs. Sallye C. Streeter, director of tenant affairs, reported that the 62 units rented in Newtown brought an average rent during May of $49.28.

She reported that all but five of the Authority's 453 units here were occupied during the month with rent in N.C. 22-1 (Meadowbrook) averaging $36.55, in N.C. 22-2 (Kearney Park) $41.99, in N.C. 22-3 (Moyewood) $43.82, and in N.C. 22-4 (Moyewood) $44.53.

Laney told board members that architect Cameron Dudley of Dudley & Shoe is in the process of completing schematic drawings for the proposed 122 new units of public housing tentatively planned in the vicinity of the present Meadowbrook site.

He said that following approval of the schematics by architects of the Department of Housing and Urban Development, a development plan will be determined and the Housing Authority will enter into an annual contributions contract which will allow for bidding for construction.

Laney pointed out that it is anticipated that the development plan will take some six months since working drawings and specifications have to be developed and bid documents must be prepared. Unit construction would take approximately one year, it is anticipated.

The Authority is having an appraisal of the tentative site done now by an independent appraiser and following receipt of the appraisal, and offer will be made to the property owner.

Colson To Reveal 'All He Knows' On Watergate Issues

By JOHN BECKLER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former White House counsel Charles W. Colson's desire to "tell everything I know" could make him a key figure in the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment inquiry.

Colson's conversations with President Nixon on subjects involved in the inquiry are among those tapes the committee has subpoenaed and Nixon has refused to provide.

He also has played a leading role in White House dealings with the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp., dairy co-ops, and in the activities of the White House plumbers. The committee begins looking into ITT matters today.

Colson pleaded guilty Monday to a single count of obstructing justice in the trial of Daniel Ellsberg, accused of leaking the Pentagon papers. Under an arrangement with special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski, Colson will not be prosecuted on three other charges in the Ellsberg case and in the Watergate cover-up.

Colson said he agreed to the arrangement so he would be free "to tell everything I know about the Watergate and Watergate-related matters."

The 42-year-old lawyer will be sentenced June 21 on a charge that he carried out a plan to "defame and destroy the public image and credibility" of Ellsberg. A felony, it carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $5,000 fine.

His arrangement with Jaworski is designed to make him available as a prosecution witness in the various trials the special prosecutor is preparing. But William Merrill, assistant special prosecutor, said Colson would be free to testify before the Judiciary Committee if he wants to.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., who hopes to speed up the inquiry by limiting the number of witnesses, would not comment about the possibility that Colson would be called. No decision will be made on witnesses, he said, until all documentary evidence has been presented in about three weeks.

Other committee members, however, said they hoped Colson would be called.

Nixon Leaves Monday

By GAYLORD SHAW
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will tour five Middle East countries June 12-18 "to consolidate what has been achieved on the road to peace," the White House said today.

Simultaneous announcement were made by the White House and each of the five Middle East governments involved in Nixon's plans for the most extensive tour of the region ever undertaken by a U.S. president.

A White House spokesman said Nixon would depart Monday morning for Salzburg, Austria, where he will spend two nights before heading to the Middle East.

Nixon's Middle East itinerary: June 12-14, Egypt; June 14-15, Saudi Arabia; June 15-16, Syria; June 16-17, Israel; and June 17-18, Jordan.

Deputy Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren, who made the White House announcement, said the President will be accompanied by Mrs. Nixon and by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, whose successful negotiation of an Israeli-Syria disengagement agreement last week cleared the way for the journey.

Administration sources said the trip is intended also to underscore administration belief that Nixon remains a world leader despite impeachment moves at home.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said that despite Watergate, Nixon has bipartisan congressional support on foreign policy.

Mansfield said in Helena, Mont., that he applauded Kissinger's successes in the Middle East:

Not since Franklin D. Roosevelt's journeys to Cairo in 1943 and 1945 has an American president visited the region.

Kissinger, secretary of state as well as Nixon's national security adviser, paved the way for the trip when he negotiated a Syrian-Israeli disengagement agreement last week.

Colson's conversations with President Nixon on subjects involved in the inquiry are among those tapes the committee has subpoenaed and Nixon has refused to provide.

He also has played a leading role in White House dealings with the International Telephone & Telegraph Corp., dairy co-ops, and in the activities of the White House plumbers. The committee begins looking into ITT matters today.

Lines In Store?

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — A state agricultural official warns that flue cured tobacco farmers in North Carolina may have to stand in long lines next week if they don't designate warehouses for the sale of their crop this week.

"The warehouse designation sign-up has been slow and over half the time already has expired," said Pemberton Slade, chief of the production adjustment division of the state Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service.

Slade said warehouse designations have been made for only one-third of the state's flue-cured tobacco farms.

Flue-cured leaf growers began designating on May 20 the warehouses where they will sell their 1974 crop. The final date for the designation is June 14.

Quotas that are not designated will not be eligible for price support under this year's new marketing program.

Jones To Seek Chairmanship

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Floyd Lupton, longtime aide to U.S. Rep. Walter Jones of Farmville, said here this morning that the veteran congressman plans to seek the chairmanship of the House subcommittee on tobacco.

Lupton said that Jones "does plan to actively seek the chairmanship" of the important subcommittee, citing its importance to the tobacco oriented eastern part of the state.

With the defeat of current subcommittee chairman Frank A. Stubblefield, K-Ky., who lost in his reelection bid, Jones becomes the ranking member of the subcommittee of the House Agriculture Committee.

Reorganization of the committee will be undertaken by the 1975 Congress and Lupton pointed out that the majority party in the House will control top committee post. He added that committee chairmen are normally selected on the basis of the seniority system.

Lupton explained that Jones, who is currently chairman of the House subcommittee on oilseeds and rice, would give up his post in order to assume the chairmanship of the tobacco subcommittee.

Jones, who won his Democratic primary bid for reelection on May 7, will face Harry McMullan III, a Washington Republican, in the November election.

CONFRONTATION ENDS... Officers struggle with Ludin Brown, 76, seconds after he was disarmed following a confrontation with police for more than an hour before down today.

Pistol-Wielding Man Disarmed By Police; Gun Failed To Fire

A pistol-wielding 76-year-old Greenville man held police off for more than an hour early today before one officer, wearing a bullet proof vest, rushed in and disarmed the man.

Chief Glenn Cannon said Ludin Brown of 301 Elizabeth St. was charged with two counts of assault with a deadly weapon and one count of assaulting law enforcement officers with a deadly weapon as a result of the early morning incident.

Police, the chief said, were called to the Brown home about 3:53 a.m. At that time they were told that Brown had shot his wife and chased two of her relatives from the home at gunpoint.

When they arrived, officers found Brown standing on the porch of his home with a pistol. He allegedly pointed the weapon at officers and pulled the trigger, but the gun failed to fire. Brown then concealed himself behind a post on the front porch and for more than an hour continued threatening the officers and snapping the weapon at intervals as police attempted to persuade him to surrender.

During this time, officers entered the rear of the dwelling, found that his wife had not been shot and locked the front door of the home so Brown could not re-enter the dwelling.

About 5:10 a.m., after officers sprayed tear gas in the area of the porch, Brown moved from behind the post and started toward the front door.

It was at this time, Chief Cannon said, that Lt. Paul Jewette, wearing a bullet proof vest, dashed some 30 feet from where he had been standing, toward the front door.

It was at this time, Chief Cannon said, that Lt. Paul Jewette, wearing a bullet proof vest, dashed some 30 feet from where he had been standing, toward Brown, grabbed the pistol and was able to disarm him.

Placed under a $5,000 bond, Brown was taken later this morning to Cherry Hospital in Goldsboro for examination and evaluation.

Chief Cannon praised the officers involved in the incident for their actions and said he was pleased that no one was injured in the confrontation.

Officers who examined the pistol taken from Brown said the weapon contained nine cartridges. One had been fired, they said, while the firing pin had struck seven other but they failed to fire. Only one of the cartridges in the gun had not been struck by the firing pin. Investigators said Brown's wife has been critically ill and returned home from the hospital yesterday, partially paralyzed from a reported stroke.

More Grads

RALEIGH (AP)—A total of 69,972 students are expected to graduate from North Carolina's 376 public high schools this year. This is an increase of 640 graduates over last year.

The state Department of Public Instruction reported the largest graduating class in the state is at R.J. Reynolds High School in Winston-Salem where 790 students are expected to receive diplomas. Stecoah School in Robbinsville reports the smallest graduating class in the state with eight expected to finish.

CLAIM 'MURDER'

LONDON (AP)—The Irish Republican Army charged the British government with "callous, brutal and premeditated murder" today after an IRA member on a hunger strike in a British prison died.

SHP Would Like To Talk To Driver Of Car

AYDEN—The North Carolina Highway Patrol would like to talk to the driver of a car Trooper Mark Johnson stopped just South of here last night on old N.C. 11.

Pt. Johnson said 178 gallons of non-tax-paid whiskey were found on the vehicle he stopped after a chase that began just North of the Ayden-Grifton High School on N.C. 11.

Trooper Johnson said when he attempted to stop the vehicle after he observed it traveling at a slow speed and with one tail light out, the car sped off.

The officer said the driver and sole occupant of the vehicle stopped just South of Ayden on old N.C. 11 and jumped from the car and ran.

Some 178 gallons of bootleg whiskey were found stacked in the trunk and the front and rear passenger compartments of the car.

According to Johnson the vehicle was registered to a Johnson County resident. Investigation of the case is continuing.

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day.

RUINED DRESS

I received a graduate degree and a ruined dress during graduation ceremonies at East Carolina University May 26. We had to sit in the rain and many of us had our clothing completely ruined because the dye from the gowns came off onto whatever we were wearing underneath. Mine was a brand new dress. I just got it back from the cleaners, and they said they couldn't do anything with it. I feel some resitution should be made. L.L.

Your new dress wasn't the only clothing attacked by the running dye on that rainy Sunday. Hotline spoke with the manager of the Students Supply Store at ECU, Joseph O. Clark. He indicated they have received word that others had the same experience as you and have already contacted the company about trying to get the problem solved. If you will contact Clark and present your garment with some statement from the store from which you purchased it as to its cost, or some other indication of its value, your claim will be filed, along with the others with the gown company. Clark asks that other individuals with the same problem contact the Students Supply Store as soon as possible so that the claim for the ruined garments can be sent to the company immediately.

MONITORS IN USE?

I have a great deal of concern for the students and faculty of the schools of Pitt County. There is a practice at North Pitt which I feel should be explained. I feel there should be a monitor outside the school when the buses unload to see that the students are directed into the building. Some students get off the buses and into cars and leave. I want to know if something can be done to cope with this situation. N.N.G.

Hotline contacted Walter Latham, principal at North Pitt and was told that a monitor system is already in use, and has been all year. In fact, two monitors are used, one each for the north and south ends of the school. One of the monitors is the assistant principal, who watches students unloading from the buses at the north end of the building.

FULL CANS

I would like to know if the City of Greenville requires all household garbage to be put in bags before it is picked up. We receive city service, and the men collecting have refused to empty my two cans because the garbage isn't in bags. Mrs. K.B.

According to City Manager Bill Carstarphen, the city ordinance does not require that garbage be placed in bags, just enclosed in a container that has a tight fitting lid. Carstarphen told Hotline that you should contact Mayo Allen at the Public Works Department if your cans fit this description and the collectors refuse to empty them.

Fossil Fuel Charge Apparently Has Levelled Off

The fossil fuel charge, which is added to local electric bills each billing period, appears to have leveled off, according to Charles Horne, director of Greenville Utilities.

Horne said that the rate GUCO will pay Virginia Electric Power Co. for energy consumed in June is $0.00632 per kilowatt-hour and is actually a fraction less than the May fuel adjustment charge of $0.00636 per kilowatt-hour.

"The future trend of the fossil fuel adjustment charge was discussed with representatives from the Veeco office in Richmond," the director reported. "They indicated that the charge would possibly level off at around six mills per kilowatt-hour," Horne said, "but they cautioned that the charge is entirely dependent upon their cost of coal and oil and that these costs may continue to increase."

He explained that the fossil fuel charge applied to local electric bills is the same amount being paid by Greenville Utilities to Veeco. During the month of June it will amount to $6.32 per thousand kilowatt-hours.

The greatest impact of the high fossil fuel charge, he asserted, will be felt during the summer months when the fuel charge, plus a higher base rate, plus higher consumption due to air conditioning all come together.

Even with conservative use of air conditioning, and hopefully mild weather, Horne observed, "electric bills will be very high."

He continued, "A monthly use of 1000 kilowatt-hours billed in June will cost $26.66. If the fossil fuel charge in July is the same as the June charge, then 1000 kilowatt-hours billed in July will cost $29.69. And if a consumer used 3000 kilowatt-hours, which is more likely, his monthly bill in July will be $86.33."

Booklets are available at the Greenville Utilities office with many suggestions on how to save on the use of electric energy. These booklets are available at no cost and will be mailed to customers upon request, it was pointed out.

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

There are families who take vacations with their children.

There are families who prefer to stay at home with their children. The sniveling cowards!

Sure, it's easy to spend time with your kids when you have a stove to cook on... a washing machine that doesn't eat quarters... and a freezer you can run to for a gin popsize anytime you want.

But out there on the road... in a leaky tent, a sandy bed, and mildewed marshmallows... it's a jungle.

Our neighbors, Wanda and Duward, have never taken a vacation in their lives. When their children were infants, do you know what her excuse was for not traveling? "What fun would it be for me to wash diapers in a saucepan and sit in a mosquito-infested cabin while my husband fished?" So, who promised her a rose garden?

When their children were toddlers, she again stayed home saying, "All our children can do now is fall in a lake, upset a boat, or drool chocolate all over their clothes." So what are kids for?

When their kids were 9 and 11, she informed me they were staying home because other parents told them all their children cared about was putting quarters in the magic fingers vibrating bed.

But there were other chances for them to be one of the gang. One year they rejected a vacation because their daughter had a boyfriend who threatened to turn to crime if she left him. Another year, their son had a job and they would have had to plan their vacation between 9 p.m. Sunday and 4:30 p.m. Monday.

It's hard to love people like Wanda and Duward... people who are practical, sensible, and perceptive. I had just about given up on our having any kind of a relationship when she informed me this year she and Duward were going on a vacation... without the children.

"I think they're old enough to be trusted and mature enough to be left at home alone," she said. "I have a freezer full of food for them, notes all over the refrigerator, and emergency numbers in case they need us."

Last night, Wanda and Duward arrived home. There were 123 lights burning. The dog was on the roof. Stereoes were blazing. Her china service for 12 was soaking in the sink. Their son was wearing the same clothes as when they left. There were car tracks on the front porch. There were phone messages from 18 neighbors... some of them as far as 50 miles away.

Poor Wanda and Duward. A couple of summer vacations would have conditioned them for this.

Dear Abby

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My 16-year-old granddaughter is pregnant. The boy is a high school kid with no way of supporting himself, let alone a wife and child, so marriage is out of the question. His folks have thrown him out, and a neighbor has taken him in.

My son and daughter-in-law are going to see their daughter through this, and they're keeping the baby.

My problem: How should a 75-year-old grandmother act? Should I act like nothing out of the ordinary has happened, and accept the baby as a legitimate great-grandchild? Or should I show my contempt and disgust and turn away? I guess I was born 75 years too soon because I don't seem able to accept this situation.

So far I've managed to keep my mouth shut, but I'll have to take a stand soon. I've always had a good relationship with my son and his wife and don't want to spoil it now.

Please help me set my thinking straight. GRANDMA

DEAR GRANDMA: If your family ever needed your compassion and understanding, it's now! You can accept the new baby without condoning the unfortunate circumstances. The last thing your granddaughter needs now is a show of "contempt and disgust." [She's suffered enough.]

DEAR ABBY: I'll bet you've never run into a problem like mine: I am being married in a formal church wedding. My fiancé and I have known each other for two years, and the only name I've ever known him by is "Beaver." His parents have called him "Beaver" ever since they brought him home from the hospital, and everyone has called him "Beaver" ever since.

His real name is Steven, but hardly anyone knows it. When we say our marriage vows, it will seem so unnatural for me to say: "I, Mona, take thee, Steven," because I've never in all my life called him Steven. But I'm afraid it would sound funny if I were to say: "I, Mona, take thee, Beaver!" So, what do you advise? MONA

DEAR MONA: Say: "I, Mona, take thee, Steven." Nicknames are a no-no in a traditional marriage ceremony.

DEAR ABBY: I don't want to brag, but I would be very good-looking if it weren't for the bags under my eyes. I'm only 27, and I've had these miserable pouches since I was in high school, but they've gotten much more noticeable in the last few years.

I work in a large office and I'm constantly being accused of having been up all night or hung over because I always look so dissipated.

Abby, I get plenty of sleep and I am no big drinker. I'm too young for a face-lift. Can you help me? BAGGY

DEAR BAGGY: My consultants advise me that the condition you describe is called "Blepharochalasis." It's fairly common, and tends to run in families. [Some children have it.]

It's not necessary to have a complete face-lift to get rid of the bags.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "FRENCHIE": Please don't call all those escapades "love." Nothing plays a smaller part in philandering than love. [Credit another Frenchman, La Rochefoucauld, with that.]

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

Will Remove Some N.C. Billboards

By NOEL YANCEY
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP)—Some of the billboards along North Carolina highways are going to be removed under a program which the state Highway Division is just getting under way. But the average motorist will hardly be able to tell the difference. The program will call for the removal of about 200 billboards a year out of more than 12,000 which line the highways—about 50 from the interstate system and about 150 from the primary system.

The federal government is putting up $500,000 a year which will be matched by $167,000 in state funds to finance the removal program. The money will be used to compensate outdoor advertising firms and landowners for the removal of the signs which is expected to require from $3,000 to $3,500 per sign.

"It's just a drop in the bucket," said Henry C. Clegg, assistant to the state highway administrator, as he told of the program.

Clegg said letters will be sent out this week to major outdoor advertising firms asking them to designate a certain number of signs for removal.

"We are getting the paper work ready so we can start negotiating in July and August to get the signs removed," Clegg said.

He estimated that upwards of $20 million would be required to finance the removal of all of the 6,000 non-conforming billboards along the North Carolina interstate and primary highway systems.

Non-conforming signs which were erected prior to Oct. 22, 1965 are the ones that are subject to removal under the present program. Non-conforming signs are those which were legal when they were erected but which now fail to comply because of changes in the law or changed conditions. Non-conforming signs are those within 660 feet of the right-of-way of interstate and federal-aid primary highways and located in commercial or industrial areas.

Of the 6,000 non-conforming signs in the state, about 2,200 of them were erected prior to Oct. 22, 1965. About 1,600 of these are on the primary system and 600 of them are on the interstate system.

The billboards are to be removed under the outdoor advertising control act which the General Assembly passed in 1967 to comply with the federal highway beautification act. The state law provided that it would not become effective until federal funds were made available.

Under this provision, the law became effective in late 1972. Then it became illegal to erect highway signs within 660 feet of interstate or primary highways except for industrial or commercial areas—in these areas erection of signs was regulated. Exempted from regulation and control were signs which advertise activities conducted on the property on which the sign is located or which advertises the sale or lease of the property on which it is located.

Clegg said legislation is now pending in Congress that would permit the removal of any non-conforming sign regardless of when it was erected.

If and when this law is enacted, Clegg noted that it would enable the High Division to "go into an area and clean it up and the public will be able to see the effect of the control of outdoor advertising."

"I think they will be disappointed," he said. Clegg explained that some persons had the impression that the once the law went into effect "all the signs would be coming down which is not the case."

Nun Is Running For House Seat

By MARIAN FOX
Associated Press Writer
MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP)—A Roman Catholic nun who says her political and religious lives are closely related has announced as a Democratic candidate for the U.S. House of Representatives.

Sister Mary Anne Guthrie claimed in announcing her candidacy Monday to be the first nun ever to seek a congressional seat.

She is one of five Democrats bidding for the 8th District seat now held by Rep. Dan H. Kuykendall, a Republican who has no opposition in Tennessee's Aug. 1 primary election.

Sister Mary Anne, 47, is director of health and welfare for the Catholic diocese of Memphis. She said Bishop Carroll T. Dozier of the Memphis diocese supports her candidacy.

She told a news conference she supported busing, amnesty for draft evaders and cuts in defense spending, and said she would not hesitate to vote for impeachment of President Nixon if the evidence supported such action. She termed impeachment the most pressing issue facing the country, and she said part of the problem has been that Congress has not been an effective branch of government.

Calling for amnesty for draft evaders, she said, "I would say to them, 'America is a big, warm, forgiving country. Come home.'"

She said busing was the only alternative now to integrating the schools, but that there would be no need for busing if there were effective open housing.

Sister Mary Anne said she believed in a strong public school system.

"If parents choose to send their children to parochial or private schools, they should be prepared to finance it," she said.

The Responsibility Is Shared

We are certain that Gov. Holshouser, judges, and law enforcement officials, throughout North Carolina are as concerned about the rising crime rate in many communities as were the demonstrators who greeted the governor several days ago in Gastonia.

The governor was on one of his "peoples' day" visits to Gaston County. The demonstrators wanted the governor to do something about the rising crime rate.

It is easy enough for us as citizens to place the blame for unacceptable conditions in our society at the feet of officials at various levels in government. In many instances, however, the officials are limited in their power to alleviate the unacceptable conditions without the full support and active assistance from the very citizens who want them to take action.

Those concerned about the rising crime rate are quick to point to leniency of the courts as a source of the problem. Yet it is rank and file citizens who sit on the juries and determine whether the accused should or should not be punished.

Citizens are quick to blame law enforcement agencies for not stemming the growing tide of major and minor crimes, but all too often the officers are thwarted in their efforts by rank and file citizens who "do not want to get involved."

In most communities of North Carolina many of the conditions which contribute to growing crime and delinquency, especially among the young, could be improved with the volunteer help from a large number of citizens. But most of us, unfortunately, are too busy with our "own responsibilities" to lend a helping hand. Too often those conditions which breed crime get worse rather than better simply out of sheer apathy on the part of too many citizens.

Certainly Gov. Holshouser, the courts and the law enforcement officials may be able to do many things to stem the rising crime rate in North Carolina. But whatever they attempt to do will be much more effective with the wholehearted support and active help of thousands of citizens in hundreds of communities.

We as citizens must share the responsibility with our officials.

The Non-Legacy Of Gov. Reagan

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK
LOS ANGELES—An intense backstage dispute over California Republican fundraising points up an unpleasant fact of life for Gov. Ronald Reagan of California: after today's primary election, his last hurrah attempt for the presidency will have a shaky political home base.

David Packard, the millionaire industrialist from San Francisco and former Deputy Secretary of Defense, privately complains that Reagan's fund-raising is undercutting the Republican campaign for governor by state Comptroller Houston I. Flournoy. That means Packard, an increasingly important Republican figure here, is by no means solidly in the Reagan-for-President group. Nor is Flournoy a moderate liberal who will point up ideological differences with Reagan conservatism once he wins today's primary.

Thus, the political and ideological legacy of Reagan's two terms as governor is threadbare. Not only will the preponderant substance and tone of the Flournoy-led state political ticket be to Reagan's left but the emerging new political state Republican power structure is not locked into his 1976 presidential ambitions.

Packard has been atop that new power structure since returning from the Pentagon to the Hewlett-Packard Co. in 1972 and becoming deeply involved in Republican politics for the first time. Reagan insiders have expected Packard's towering reputation, safe counsel and luxuriant bankroll in their 1976 presidential campaign. Indeed, presidential politics was involved when Packard convinced Republican money men to back Flournoy for governor against erratic Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke, darling of the right-wing precinct workers and now under federal indictment for perjury, a Republican governor would help Reagan's presidential campaign, and independent, scandal-proof Flournoy was the best bet.

But Packard has become committed to Flournoy in his own right, as witness his reaction when the Reagan-controlled Republican state committee scheduled a $250-a-plate dinner for June 26. The purpose was to reassert Reagan's political authority and enrich his own political warchest with the usual 20 percent off the top. Packard was bitter that, with Republican money so scarce in post-Watergate California, Reagan was siphoning money from the campaign for governor.

Packard's unpublicized criticism buttresses belief that he may have thought himself committed to Reagan last fall but is not now. If Packard is uncommitted that is one less reason for Flournoy as governor to back Reagan. Contrary to rumors, Flournoy made no commitment about the 1976 presidential nomination in return for getting his fat cats.

To win the Republican primary, Flournoy has papered over old ideological differences with Reagan and flinches when Eastern columnists correctly identify him with the Hiram Johnson-Earl Warren tradition of progressive California Republicanism. Over television recently, Flournoy adviser standing nearby grimaced and whispered: "Wait until June 4."

After June 4, his advisers confide, Flournoy must point up past disagreements with Reagan over such matters as mental health and educational policy to woo independent and Democratic voters and organized labor support.

Those plans show that Flournoy has not converted to Reaganism. He now praises Reagan to escape the fate of former Sen. Thomas Kuchel, who lost the 1968 Republican primary for failing to make peace with Reagan. In fact, Reagan and Flournoy have not conferred personally in nine months.

Nor is the rest of the ticket clearly Reaganite. Packard recently raised money for the state comptroller campaign of Assemblyman William Bagley, who years ago buried his feud with Reagan but still takes civil rights and civil liberties positions far more liberal than the governor's.

The Reagan inner circle can live with Flournoy and Bagley but cannot accept the possibility that John Veneman—a sharp critic of Reagan both as a liberal state assemblyman and as the hard-charging Under Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare in Washington—could win the nomination as lieutenant-governor against heavily favored conservative state Sen. John Harmer.

Flournoy promised the money men not to support his old friend Veneman (after having decided on neutrality anyway). Packard recently turned down the hard-pressed Veneman's plea for funds because of a similar commitment. Although Reagan is officially neutral, Harmer's friends say the governor has personally assured Harmer of his private support.

Even if Veneman does not score an upset, the primary will end eight years of a California Republican party monolithically devoted to Ronald Reagan's interests. But a far greater obstacle facing Reagan's higher ambitions is the presidential crisis of Richard M. Nixon, a subject for our final report from California.

The Country-Style War

SCRABBLE, Va.—It is not surprising, when you come to think about it, that farmers have had a melancholy press. Country living is one constant, unending, altogether maddening struggle for survival. The only reason that farmers stick to the land is that they're too durned stubborn to quit.

Virgil had some dreamy things to say about farming, but Virgil was a poet, and poets are daydreamers, anyhow. Thomas Jefferson used to get lyrical about the lush fields of Monticello, but Mr. Jefferson had somebody else to do the work. Otherwise the literature is mostly gloomy. Thoreau once remarked that "It makes little difference whether you are committed to a farm or a county jail," and Shakespeare, speaking through the drunken porter of MacBeth, once got in a dig at the farmer "who hangs himself on the expectation of plenty." Emerson wrote of the "embattled" farmers of Concord, and though he was talking of the historic shot heard round-the-world, the adjective will do for everyday use.

'Dirty Trick' Related

By MICHAEL PUTZEL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Jeb Stuart Magruder says he was told that President Nixon approved at least one campaign dirty trick in 1972—a phony write-in campaign for Sen. Edward M. Kennedy in the New Hampshire Democratic primary.

Magruder, who goes to prison today for his part in the Watergate scandal, recounts the incident in his book, "An American Life—One Man's Road to Watergate," scheduled for publication June 26.

Most of the first-person account retraces with some new detail the Watergate events spelled out in his dramatic Senate testimony last summer, but Magruder discloses a few new incidents.

He said the write-in was conceived by former special presidential counsel Charles W. Colson "to create confusion among the Democrats" and "sow ill will between Kennedy and (Sen. Edmund S.) Muskie," who was considered the front-runner in the Democratic presidential race.

Magruder, who was deputy director of President Nixon's re-election campaign, said he opposed the multi-thousand-dollar plan because "it seemed like a large outlay for a dubious result."

"Then, one day in February, I was in the White House and encountered Colson just outside the President's office," Magruder wrote. "We've got to get that mailing going," he told me. "I've just come from talking to the President, and he thinks it's crucial."

Magruder said White House chief of staff H.R. Haldeman "told me that what Colson said was true, the President did want the pro-Kennedy mailing in New Hampshire."

The mailing seeking Kennedy write-in votes did go out but netted fewer than 1,000 votes. Magruder termed it "a waste of time and money."

The Senate Watergate committee investigated the incident last year but apparently was unable to trace the mailing to its source.

Magruder implicated former Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell in the decision approving the break-in and bugging of Democratic headquarters in the Watergate complex and recounted the careful plans to cover up high-level involvement in the abortive scheme.

He wrote that shortly after the June 17, 1972 break-in, he played tennis with then-Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, who

Young Inmates Turn To Paint

By BILL NOBLITT

RALEIGH—Prison doesn't have much going for it in the way of inspiration to a budding, young artist—except time.

That, at least, is the way two young men, students in an inmate art class at Polk Youth Center, feel about it.

"I never did really take an interest in drawing till I came to prison. But here, I figure if you're gonna waste time, you might as well waste it on something good," says Ronnie Earl Smith, 18, a Gaston County lad serving a term on an assault conviction.

Smith's thing is flowers. "It's just my thing. I like flowers. Sure, the other guys in here give me a hard time about my flowers, saying things like you must be ready to die so you can see some more flowers."

Smith doesn't see many flowers inside the prison unit on the outskirts of Raleigh, and he doesn't use his time to draw pictures of the things he does see. "I like to draw things that make people happy, and there's not much inside here to be happy about," he said.

Might Sell

He plans to "do a little painting when I get back on the street," figures he might sell some paintings, but at any rate will enjoy it as a hobby.

His release may be a little bit delayed since Smith can't seem to make honor grade—a condition for parole. He keeps skipping classes. "But I never did skip art class. I skipped all the rest sometime, but every Wednesday I'll be sitting right here in class."

Every Wednesday is when Mrs. Nell Chadwick puts here Palette Art Studio in the small town of Cary behind her for the drive to Polk Youth Center. A happy lover of art, Mrs. Chadwick is a happy lover of her class at Polk.

She and a teacher at the school, Harvey Jackson, put together a class show recently. Like all such shows, the final days were a rush to get everything ready. Smith, with his delicate wildflower portraits, took in best in the show using all medium.

It's surprising, inside those bleak walls, to find such colorful and delicate paintings. Smith does many of them from memory, but now and then Mrs. Chadwick brings him a fistful of flowers which he sneaks into his dormitory to paint at night. "Painting is just a good friend. Someone to turn to when there's nobody else to talk to. Man, I can be feeling so blue, and pick up a pencil and start drawing, then everything's all right."

The art show wouldn't have been nearly as big if it hadn't been for a 19-year-old Winston-Salem man, Elbert L. Haley Jr. Haley put 12 pictures in the exhibit, copping a first for water colors, a third for pencil drawing, and three honorable mentions.

Turned Out

Haley, an eighth grade dropout who has learned welding while in prison, said he has been drawing all his life, but has really gotten turned on to it while in prison. "It helps get your mind off this," he said, glancing around the concrete block interior of a classroom.

Haley will get out in late June after serving 26 months on a breaking, entering, and larceny count. The one thing he figures prison has done for him is to provide "time to think about art, time to draw... and that's what I want to do now."

He hopes to get a welding job for eating money, and "Keep on with my drawing."

Haley's favorite subject is wildlife, and his amazingly detailed sketches of squirrels and birds show an appreciation for nature. The drawings are done from other pictures, and Haley is looking forward to a chance to "stay out in the woods a lot and draw firsthand."

Nowhere in the art exhibit by the 25 Polk inmates were there any prison-life pictures. There are plenty of flowers and streams and animals, normal life settings.

FACING THE STORM

The great British painter, Joseph William Turner, once told the writer, Charles Kingsley, that in order to paint a storm at sea he engaged a Dutch fisherman to bind him to the mast of his boat and then take the boat out to sea in the face of a storm. As Turner said later of the experience, "That storm blew itself into me until I came back a part of it. Only then could I paint it as it deserved to be painted."

An English bishop, commenting later on this incident, wrote: "Life is a great mingling of happiness and tragic storm. He who comes out of it rich in living is he who dares to accept it all, to face it all, to let it blow its power and its mystery and its tragedy into the innermost recesses of his soul."

All men cannot paint like Turner, but they can live gloriously if they are willing to be tied to the mast and face the storms of life through to the end.

Other Editors Say Price Supports

(Washington Daily News)

We have a right to expect higher tobacco prices this year, 1974, than were paid last year, 1973.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has announced that government price supports for the 1974 crop will be raised 8.7 per cent above last year's level.

For all practical purposes, this means that flue-cured tobacco will be supported this year at 83.3 cents per pound as compared with 76.6 cents per pound last year. Burley tobacco will be supported this year at 85.6 cents per pound as compared with 78.9 cents per pound last year.

Thus, we can figure that tobacco support prices will be 6.7 cents per pound higher this year than last year.

Now it is so very easy for one who knows very little about the tobacco story to look at the figures and to say that the increase will mean that tobacco farmers will reap much greater profits this year than last.

Those who might say this just do not realize how much more it is costing to produce this crop. They do not know about the cost of machinery, the cost of fertilizer, the cost of labor, and the costs of getting the crop to market.

Unless a substantial increase had been offered, what it would inevitably mean is that many tobacco farmers would be put out of business.

There is another factor right now which is ever so important. This 1974 crop is yet to be made. Weather conditions between now and time to pull tobacco will tell a big story. This story is that of quality. No one in all the world right now can tell what the 1974 tobacco quality will be. We could very well have an 8.7 percent increase in support prices and if we have a low quality crop, then we are hurt badly regardless of support prices.

Last year the Washington Tobacco Market averaged $88.87 per 100 pounds. If we have a crop in 1974 commensurate in quality with the 1973 crop, then with 8.7 percent increase in support prices, we might expect somewhere around an average of $96.60 per 100 pounds in Washington. But we can never know, and again the quality and poundage will tell a very big story. If quality is low, then we also can expect lower poundage.

Let us make it clear in simple terms that the price support increase will not automatically mean that tobacco farmers will get rich. This cannot be the case under circumstances which surround the growing of this crop.

But the increase does offer us a measure of encouragement.

Incredibly Complex Questions

By JOHN CUNIFF

AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — The anchovy, a major source of protein meal for livestock feed, disappeared from the waters off Peru. It forced cattle raisers to depend more on soybeans, which rose in price, forcing up beef prices.

Belatedly recognizing their enormous marketing power, the nations of the Mideast arbitrarily raised their oil prices, thus driving up the prices of countless products whose manufacture depends on energy.

Crop failures developed in the Soviet Union, Australia, China and Southeast Asia, and drought plagued huge portions of Africa. Enormous demands for U.S. grains resulted, and prices for food rose everywhere.

The world's underprivileged nations sought to raise their living standards by introducing greater variety and more protein into their diets. This added to demands on available food supplies. In response, prices rose.

These factors are part of the incredibly complex inflation problem that every American must deal with today. It's not only individual citizens who are appalled by the immensity of the problem; government are too.

What can Washington do about anchovies that change their living habits, perhaps in response to little understood changes in ocean currents? Can it prevent drought or excessive rain? Or keep the underprivileged deprived?

The futility of the inflation battle is found in the statistics gathered by the Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, made up of more than 20 of the world's leading trading nations.

They show an annual rate of inflation in Greece of 33.4 per cent through March. In the same period, Portugal and Iceland also had an inflation rate of at least 30 per cent. In Japan, prices rose 24 per cent; in the United States, 10.2.

Assuming that 1970 prices equal 100, the spot price of wool at Sydney, Australia reached an index of 344 in 1973 and is only slightly below that figure now. Caribbean sugar at the Port of New York was at an index of 530 in April.

U.S. wheat at Kansas City reached 242 in 1973 and was 280 in mid-April. Ghana cocoa reached 187 at New York last year and was 345 in mid-April. London zinc leaped to 287 last year and almost doubled that, to 535, in April.

Are there other factors involved in such increases? The OECD maintains that the prices surges are "exacerbated by speculation," by the philosophy of buy now because you'll have to pay more tomorrow.

While recognizing the growing dangers of inflationary imbalances, there isn't one of the world's trading nations that can implement a master plan to protect itself. That, at least, has been the record.

Told States More Responsive To Political Reform

Budget Hearing Held By Winterville's Aldermen

WINTERVILLE—The Winterville Board of Aldermen Monday night held a public hearing to review the town budget for the 1974-75 fiscal year.

A tentative budget of $430,410 has been adopted by the town board and final adoption will come in 10 days after the budget has been available for public inspection.

A tax rate of 70 cents per $100 valuation has been adopted by the board.

In other business, the board approved the land use map for the Contentnea Metropolitan Sewage District. The proposed land use coincides with current zoning in the extraterritorial zoning limits now regulated by the Town of Winterville.

The board received a letter from the N.C. League of Municipalities stating that the delivery date for the town tags would be March 1. In the past, the tags have been received by the town by Dec. 15 but due to the new state permanent five year plan and the fact that the Department of Corrections personnel will begin producing the license plates, the delivery date has been delayed three months.

The board agreed to hire the firm of Worsley, Farley and Prescott, to audit the 1973-74 books.

Board members agreed to present all retiring firemen with certificates of appreciation for their faithful and unselfish service to the Winterville Volunteer Fire Department. Receiving certificates are W.A. Dail, David Buck, J.H. Mobley, Alva Cayton, Burney Tucker, Cecil Worthington and Lloyd Worthington. Certificates will be presented to the widows of Vernon Cox and O.G. Forlines.

The town's policies on annexation were discussed with the property owners in the Lara Lane Subdivision. All property owners but one signed a petition to be annexed into the town of Winterville. The petition was circulated by the town board to see how many property owners in that area desired to have their property annexed.

The property was not annexed into the town limits at Monday's meeting.

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF

AP Political Writer

SEATTLE (AP) — A leading advocate of political reform told the nation's governors today that amidst the Watergate scandals "the states have been far more responsive than Congress to the citizen's concern for a housecleaning in politics."

John W. Gardner said in a speech prepared for a discussion of governmental ethics at the National Governors Conference that governors "have provided state leadership at a time when leadership has been totally absent at the national level."

Gardner, president of the self-styled citizens' lobby, Common Cause, said that in the last 18 months at least 40 states have passed political reform measures, while on the federal level "the executive branch has been totally unresponsive and the Congress equally so."

He urged all states to enact measures providing for campaign financing reform and broader disclosure by public officials and lobbyists, the central points in a Common Cause-backed resolution sponsored here by Govs. William G. Milliken, R-Mich., and Patrick J. Lucey, D-Wis.

Milliken, in remarks prepared for the same discussion, said "one of the primary tasks facing all of us in public life today is to assure that there is an ethical compass not only for the nation—but also for every state."

Lucey, moderator of the discussion, said each governor "has a personal stake in restoring the confidence of the American people in our institutions and our system of government."

Approved unanimously by the conference's executive committee Sunday, the resolution is scheduled for action Wednesday when the conference adopts policy positions for the coming year.

The governors also will consider recommendations calling for an end to year-round Daylight Saving Time, congressional action next year to make the revenue-sharing program permanent and stepped-up federal efforts against inflation, including "wage and price controls as appropriate."

Though the ethics proposal is the closest the governors are likely to come to tackling the problems related to Watergate, the scandal afflicting the Nixon administration and its impact on government has been an underlying theme at conference sessions.

At a panel discussion Monday, Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., said "it will be essential" for congressional Democrats to fill the void caused by a breakdown in White House leadership.

Brademas' prediction that the November elections will produce a veto-proof Congress drew statements of alarm from House GOP leaders.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., said in another discussion he sees "a new sense of enthusiasm" for passing national health insurance legislation, but Gov. Ronald Reagan, R-Cal., agreed with Dr. Russell M. Roth, president of the American Medical Association, who declared "there is no current enthusiasm in Congress" for a major health insurance program.

Did you ever make war on a vole? A vole is a kind of mouse. He is almost a big as a chipmunk and mean as a snake. Two divisions of voles have been chewing up the junipers. We have laid traps, baited with gumdrops, peanut butter, ham biscuits and my granddaughter's cookies, but the voles are hungry for junipers only.

Some animal has excavated a tremendous hole in the herb garden, just south of the thyme and north of the sage. The hole is too big for a chipmunk, and not big enough for a ground hog, and there's no evidence that the critter is a rat. When we get up the nerve we will salt the hole with poisoned grain. By that time the whole place will look like the Catacombs of Rome.

These mild observations haven't touched upon trees that fall across power lines, or sows that suffocate their pigs, or turkeys that come down with hysterics. From my office window, I perceive that three black angus heifers have escaped from somebody's pasture. They are now munching a few hor d'oeuvres of newly planted pines, and shortly will try the juniper hash. I also perceive that the rabbits are back at the lettuce, and a chipmunk named Mervyn has swiped all the sunflower seeds put out for the birds. Country living? Try it. You may like it. We love it.

Young Terrorists Say Were Ordered To Kill

By DAVID LANCASHIRE

Associated Press Writer

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) —

Security forces captured two young Arab terrorists on a death mission into Israel and seized a cache of hand grenades and Kalashnikov submachine guns hidden near the Lebanese border, the police reported today.

"We were ordered to kill," the police said the 19-year-olds told them. They said they were ordered to murder people at random in Haifa, Israel's chief port.

The Israeli military command said the terrorists were Israeli citizens who left their village near Acre, in northern Galilee, a year ago to join the Fatah guerrillas. The youths slipped across the Lebanese border before dawn Monday, the command reported, but it said three other gunmen with them abandoned the mission and escaped back into Lebanon.

The teen-agers ate in a restaurant near the heavily guarded border, hailed a taxi, asked the fare to a nearby village and offered to overpay the driver by $2.50. The driver—an Arab—became suspicious, drove the pair to a security roadblock and winked frantically to tip off the police.

The command said security troops have killed nine terrorists and captured five in the three weeks since frontier patrols were strengthened after terrorists killed 22 children in the Maalot schoolhouse.

The police also reported that somebody sent a booby-trapped package to Israel's chief rabbi, Shlomo Goren, and explosives were planted under the car of the high priest of the Samaritans.

The newspaper said Agnew and General Services Administrator Arthur W. Sampson signed an agreement April 12 under which the former vice president pledged to pay $700 for air-conditioning and $400 for carpeting in the home.

A GSA analysis earlier showed the government had spent $175,569 on the suburban home before Agnew resigned last October and pleaded no contest to income tax evasion.

Agnew bought the suburban home early last year for $190,000. He recently sold it for a reported, $300,000.

Both attempts were discovered and the explosives defused.

The police said the rabbi's wife became suspicious Monday while opening a bulky envelope. It was found to contain an explosive charge with a note saying the religious leader would be "gathered unto his fathers."

Goren frequently has been threatened with violence by Jewish fanatics who charge he is too moderate in ritual matters.

In the Israeli-occupied Jordanian town of Nablus, army experts defused a bomb left beneath the car of Amram Ben-Yitzhak, religious leader of the tiny Samaritan community, an ancient sect with a religion similar to Judaism.

Flaherty To Speak Here

David T. Flaherty, Secretary of the N. C. Department of Human Resources, will be the featured speaker tonight at a speech prepared for a discussion of governmental ethics at the National Governors Conference that governors "have provided state leadership at a time when leadership has been totally absent at the national level."

Gardner, president of the self-styled citizens' lobby, Common Cause, said that in the last 18 months at least 40 states have passed political reform measures, while on the federal level "the executive branch has been totally unresponsive and the Congress equally so."

He urged all states to enact measures providing for campaign financing reform and broader disclosure by public officials and lobbyists, the central points in a Common Cause-backed resolution sponsored here by Govs. William G. Milliken, R-Mich., and Patrick J. Lucey, D-Wis.

Milliken, in remarks prepared for the same discussion, said "one of the primary tasks facing all of us in public life today is to assure that there is an ethical compass not only for the nation—but also for every state."

Lucey, moderator of the discussion, said each governor "has a personal stake in restoring the confidence of the American people in our institutions and our system of government."

Approved unanimously by the conference's executive committee Sunday, the resolution is scheduled for action Wednesday when the conference adopts policy positions for the coming year.

The governors also will consider recommendations calling for an end to year-round Daylight Saving Time, congressional action next year to make the revenue-sharing program permanent and stepped-up federal efforts against inflation, including "wage and price controls as appropriate."

Though the ethics proposal is the closest the governors are likely to come to tackling the problems related to Watergate, the scandal afflicting the Nixon administration and its impact on government has been an underlying theme at conference sessions.

At a panel discussion Monday, Rep. John Brademas, D-Ind., said "it will be essential" for congressional Democrats to fill the void caused by a breakdown in White House leadership.

Paying $1,100 For $175,000 Govn't Outlay

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Washington Post reported today that Spiro T. Agnew has agreed to pay the government $1,100 in settlement for $175,000 in improvements made to his Kenwood, Md., home while he was vice president.

The newspaper said Agnew and General Services Administrator Arthur W. Sampson signed an agreement April 12 under which the former vice president pledged to pay $700 for air-conditioning and $400 for carpeting in the home.

A GSA analysis earlier showed the government had spent $175,569 on the suburban home before Agnew resigned last October and pleaded no contest to income tax evasion.

Agnew bought the suburban home early last year for $190,000. He recently sold it for a reported, $300,000.

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market added to Monday's gains in active trading today as hopes continued on Wall Street that interest rates at last were turning downward.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was up 8.61 at 829.87, and gainers led losers by close to 6 to 1 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Brokers noted a carry-over of the enthusiasm with which the market greeted cuts in the prime lending rate by banks in Chicago and St. Louis Monday.

But they also noted that many investors wanted to see further evidence that money rates were moving into a lasting downturn before making any full scale moves into stocks.

Most of today's gain, as measured by the Dow, came in the first half-hour of trading. After that the widely watched average, which rose more than 19 points on Monday, leveled off.

Tandy Corp. was the most active NYSE issue, down ¼ at 23¼. A 134,400-share block was traded at 23.

Glamour issues gaining in active trading included American Home Products, up ½ at 42¾; Xerox, up ¾ at 118½; and MGIC Investment, up ¼ at 17¾.

Lockheed jumped 1½ to 5½, and Textron was unchanged at 18. The boards of the two companies approved a plan for the financial restructuring of Lockheed in which Textron would play a major role.

Carter-Wallace, which posted higher quarterly earnings, gained 7/8 to 7¼.

On the American Stock Exchange, the volume leader was Syntex, up ¾ at 46½. The Amex 11 a.m. market value index was up .76 at 82.80. The Nyse's composite index of all its listed common stocks stood at 47.35, up .54.

Penny Candy Soon To Go

CHICAGO (AP) — Penny candy apparently is going the way of copper pennies. Out. Higher prices are the reason. Peter F. Norton, a member of board of the National Confectioners Association, predicted in an interview Monday that penny candies will soon be a thing of the past.

And Norton also said the 15-cent candy bar is fast becoming the 20-cent candy bar or a smaller 15-cent bar.

Norton, executive vice president of Ludens Inc., Reading, Pa., manufacturer of candy as well as cough drops, is in Chicago for the association's annual convention and exposition. He said the price of candy has been slow to rise in relation to the price of a cup of coffee or a soft drink but that lately the cost of candy ingredients has increased sharply, forcing the price of candy up.

He said sugar, for example, has gone up 250 per cent since January and that in two years the price of cocoa beans has increased from 21 cents to $1.10 a pound.

Production costs—electricity, transportation, labor and the like—also have risen sharply, Norton said.

Norton said that if penny candy were made smaller it would be too small to sell, so the price will probably be 2 cents a candy kiss.

President Signs LBJ Tributes

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has signed legislation naming two federal facilities for his predecessor, the late Lyndon B. Johnson.

Under the measure, the Arrowood Civilian Conservation Corps Center near Franklin, N.C., is being designated the Lyndon B. Johnson Conservation Corps Center and the Cross Timbers National Grasslands in Wise and Montague Counties, Tex., is being renamed the Lyndon B. Johnson National Grasslands.

Bishop Thomas J. Welsh, 52, an auxiliary bishop of Philadelphia since 1970, was named bishop of the diocese.

Creation of the Arlington Diocese involves the realignment of three existing dioceses, the announcement said. The Richmond Diocese will cover the rest of the state of Virginia.

Meeting Today On Telephone Strike

TARBORO, N.C. (AP) — A meeting was scheduled today between representatives of Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Co. and the Communications Workers of America. The discussions were aimed at ending a strike by plant and traffic employees that began last Friday.

Representatives from the federal Mediation and Conciliation Service and the state Department of Conciliation were to sit in on the meeting.

The strike began after employees represented by the CWA rejected a proposed three-year contract that included a 9 per cent increase in wage and benefits the first year and a 7 per cent hike in each of the next two years.

The workers said they wanted improvements in the pension plan and a cost-of-living clause included in a new contract. J.F. Havens, company president, said Monday that "a large group" of the CWA members remained off their jobs. About 3,200 of the utility's 4,500 workers are represented by the union. A company spokesman said last week about 1,800 workers joined the walkout. Management and supervisory personnel have filled many of the jobs left vacant by the strikers in an effort to maintain services.

Havens also announced a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrest and felony conviction of persons responsible for damage to company equipment. He said damage to telephone cables and other facilities had occurred since the strike began.

The company serves about 370,000 workers in 38 eastern North Carolina counties.

Martin School Board OKs 1974-75 Calendar

WILLIAMSTON—The 1974-75 school calendar for Martin County Schools was given the stamp of approval at the monthly meeting of the Martin County School Board on Monday. The first student day will be August 26, 1974 with a last day of school set for June 6, 1975.

An architectural contract was signed for the proposed auditorium addition to the new Williamston High School. The auditorium was not part of the original plans for the new high school.

Approval was given to the proposed ESEA Title I project outlined for the coming school year. Funds for the federally funded project amount to about $500,000. Also, the firm of Pittard and Perry received the audit contract for Martin County school funds.

The matter of a ten cents county wide supplemental school tax, which has been a subject of discussion at several board meetings, was concluded and a request for consideration is being sent to the County Commissioners. The supplemental levy would be distributed on a pro-rata basis to all county schools.

Among items discussed, but with no final action taken at Monday's meeting, were insurance for non-school use of school activity buses, and school board liability insurance.

An extension was granted to the town of Hamilton in plans for use of the Hamilton Elementary school property. The town already has a contract to develop the property as a recreation site. The extension gives more time to developmental plans.

In keeping with a policy to involve educators more with school board meetings, two principals and two teachers were present at Monday's meeting and were invited to provide input on various items.

Pepsi Hands Dairy 2nd Loss

Pepsi-Cola scored four runs in the first inning and coasted to an 8-0 victory to hand Carolina Dairy their second consecutive defeat in the lone Babe Ruth Baseball game played yesterday.

Henry Baker started and got the win for Pepsi, allowing just two hits the entire game. He struck out six and walked three. John Coffman was the losing pitcher for the Dairymen.

Pepsi scored enough for the win in the first inning. Marty Worthington reached on an error, moved up on Billy Ellington's walk and reached third on Baker's walk to load the bases. Derek Brewington slapped an opposite field single to right to score Worthington and Ellington. When the catcher attempted to nail Baker, he threw the ball away and Baker scored from third, allowing Brewington to reach third. Brewington later scored on an infield out.

Pepsi added two more in third. Brewington led off with a two-base throwing error, and got to third on another infield out. Greg Lee walked, stole second, and both men came home when Worth Albea smacked into an eventual two-base throwing error.

The seventh run came in the fourth inning. Ellington singled in the hole at short, and went to third on Baker's single to right. Brewington's infield out scored Ellington from third. Baker was thrown out on the play at second.

Pepsi's final run came in the sixth. Kevin Haut singled to left, reached second on a wild pitch, and scored on Bobby Key's double to right. Keys was picked off second before he could advance.

Sluggers Hold Division Lead

The Little Sluggers maintained their hold on first place in the Purple Division of the City Softball League with a victory last night, and a couple of teams, Grady-White and Carolina Dairy, found themselves already eliminated from a mathematical chance at the title.

In the first game on Evans One, the Sluggers took a 12-9 win over Talbott. The Sluggers pushed over six runs in the first inning, then added one each in the second and third. Talbott scored four in the second and five in the fourth to push ahead, 9-8, but the Sluggers came up with three on homers by Kuyhendall and Craft. They added another run in the sixth.

The second game saw Daniel Construction take a forfeit win over Grady-White.

In the final game on that field, the Daily Reflector took an 11-4 win over the Jaycees. The Reflector got the lead with two in the second on W. Eakes homer. They added two more in the second on Atkinson's round-tripper, then added two in the fourth, two in the fifth on homers by Owens and Carroll, and three more crossed in the sixth. The Jaycees got one each in the fourth and fifth, and two in the sixth.

Hallow's took a 9-4 decision over Sunnyside Eggs in the first game on Field Two. Hallow's got three in the first, and added another in the third. They got five more in the fifth. Sunnyside got two in the third and two in the fifth to briefly tie it, 4-4.

Morgan Printers downed White's Insulation, 11-6, in the second game. White's got a run in the first and two in the third with P. Ross homering. But Morgan came up with four in the fourth, then got three in the sixth with W. Jackson homering. They added four more in the seventh. White's got three in their half of the seventh.

In the final game, University Seafood romped to a 24-10 win over Carolina Dairy. The Dairymen got two in the first, but University came back with four in their half of the frame. They added five in the second with Ward homering, then scored two in the fourth and finished up with 13 in the fifth, including homers by Norfleet and Mayo, and a pair by Vines. Carolina Dairy got one in the second, three in the fourth and four in the fifth.

Palmer Missed Last Rounds

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Notes from the pro golf tournament trail:

No one was more unhappy than Chi Chi Rodriguez when Arnold Palmer failed to qualify for the final two rounds of the Kemper Open last week. It was the third consecutive tournament in which the legendary Palmer had missed the cut, and the first time in his career that he'd missed three in a row.

Chi Chi winced when he heard the news.

"It's too bad that his game has gone bad," Chi Chi said.

"He's done so much for golf and for the tour and for everyone who plays on the tour. We need him. We need the magic of his name on the tour."

"I just love the guy."

J.C. Sneed's explanation of the broad-brimmed player's hat he wears on the course:

"I've got a big nose. I need a big hat to keep the sun off it."

John Jacobs, a big, casual, fun-loving bachelor, has had more fun than success in his six years on the pro tour. Now, however, he's gone on the wagon and has knuckled down to some serious action on the course.

"I've reached the age (29) where I'm either gonna have to play golf or pack it in."

Plans are underway for a mini-tour national championship to be held in Southern California late this year. It will consist of five, 54-hole tournaments with the winner of the overall series to be recognized as the mini-tour champion. The series is called the American Open. "We intend that the American Open will be recognized as the secondary tour championship similar to the U.S. Open," said promoter Ted Vallas.

Entries will be limited to players who have won less than $15,000 on the major tour.

Gary Player and the Elders, Lee and Rose, were musing over old times recently and the subject turned to the Elder's visit to Player's home in South Africa.

"He had us out to his house one night when we were over there a couple of years ago," said Rose, whose husband is the first black to become eligible for the Masters. "When we got to the door his daughter greeted us and asked us what we wanted to drink. I was kind of flustered and I couldn't think and I said, 'Oh, just whatever everybody else is drinking.'"

"So she brought us a glass of orange juice."

"She thinks," said Player, a non-drinker, "that just because her daddy's a square everybody else is too."

Gary Player says he and wife Vivienne are making plans to host a day in the country for 1,000 black children at their ranch in racially segregated South Africa late this year.

The plans call for a tour of the ranch, horse barns, buildings and fields and a picnic lunch on the ground.

Clowns Will Appear Here

The Indianapolis Clowns, "the Globetrotters of Baseball," will play the Grifton Indians in Guy Smith Stadium Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

The comedy team will play the same Grifton team Wednesday, June 12 at 5 p.m. in the Grifton Park, according to Leslie Thorbes, Grifton Indians managers.

Tickets will be $2 apiece. The Indianapolis Clowns claim to be the world's only remaining traveling baseball club. They ham it up even as they play superb baseball. Team members include Steve Anderson, a one-armed first baseman; Bobo Small, their "stringbean" pitcher; and Birmingham Sam, their star infielder.

West: Blazers Made Good Deal

PORTLAND, Ore. (AP) — "I've read some stories which made it sound as though I was Bill's father," Jerry West said with a grin.

"I know Bill and he's one of the nicest people that I have met involved with basketball...." said the longtime backcourt star for the Los Angeles Lakers.

Bill is Bill Walton, the 6-foot-11 UCLA All-American who has signed a five-year contract with the Portland Trail Blazers of the National Basketball Association.

"What I like about him most as a player," West said of Walton, "is that he's very unselfish. He has always been a winner and that is contagious."

West was in Portland briefly Monday to purchase a foreign car from an auto dealer. In a nearby hospital, Walton was recovering from minor knee surgery.

"Portland has done two very positive things since the end of the season," West said. "One was signing Walton. The other was hiring Lenny Wilkens as coach. Wilkens, I think, has one of the fine basketball minds in the game."

"In this game you can't get dominated in the middle," West continued. "And with Walton, the Blazers won't get dominated in the middle."

West, still referring to Walton, said he thought the Blazers picked up the player "who will make the other players play as a unit ... Portland's big problem," he said, "is to feel it can beat anyone."

"I think Portland will be right there in the Western Division next year," he said.

But, he added that the Lakers are going to be improved, predicting a story shortly to that effect.

Williamston Rallies To Hand Greenville Legion 6-5 Defeat

Williamston scored three runs in the top of the sixth inning Monday with Berwyn Barnhill driving in two as Williamston went ahead and hung on to hand the Greenville American Legion Team its second straight loss, 6-5.

Williamston had gone ahead, 1-0, in the first but Greenville rallied for four in the second. Williamston pulled within one, 4-3, in the top of the fourth and then took the lead in the sixth. Greenville pushed over a single run in the seventh but could not score again in the last two innings.

Both teams slapped five hits. Greenville left 12 men on base as they could not generate a consistent offense. Williamston left 11, as they, too, had trouble moving men around.

A passed ball got the first Williamston run. Phil Selby had reached on an error opening the first. He took second on the play and Kent Williford moved him to third with a base hit. Selby scored on the passed ball.

Doug Warren got on by an error on the second and Hubert Smith reached by the same method. Selby walked to load the bases but Williamston left them filled.

In the bottom of the inning, Greenville got their only lead of the game. Al Heath and Keith Jones both walked and Gil Whitford beat out what had been intended as a sacrifice for a hit to load the bases.

Eddie Connelly singled driving in Heath and Jones. Singles by Kelly Heath and Grif Garner brought in Whitford and Connelly.

Williamston began to catch up in the fourth with two runs. With one out, Danny Robertson singled, Doug Warren walked. Singles by Selby, and Smith brought the two runners.

Williamston moved in front in the sixth as Selby walked and stole second. An error moved him to third and Williford brought him in with a hit.

Keith Brown singled Williford to third and Brown stole second.

Both scored on a hit by Berwyn Barnhill.

Garner scored for Greenville in the seventh after reaching on an error. He was forced in when Jones walked.

Kelly Heath singled in the eighth for Greenville and stole second but he was left stranded. Jones got to second in the ninth on a walk and an error but could not score either.

Exchange In Rally To Win

Al Shackleford's three-run homer let the Exchange overcome a three-run Elks lead yesterday, and they went on to take a 4-3 victory and hold onto first place in the Tar Heel Little League.

The victory boosted the Exchange record to 8-1, while the Elks fell to 5-4.

The Elks scored first, pushing over two runs in the first inning. Chris Ross led off with a single and William Sneed reached on a walk. Both advanced on a passed ball, and Gavin Ray reached on an error, scoring Ross. A balk let Sneed cross for the 2-0 lead.

After threatening in the second, the Elks got their other run in the fifth. Ray walked, stole second and took third on a wild pitch. Don White singled him over, making it 3-0.

Only one other Elk got as far as second, however, as White singled and Terry Skinner walked in the seventh.

The Exchange, meanwhile, got off threats in the third and fourth, but it was the fifth before they finally broke the ice. Mark Douglas reached on an error with one out, and with two gone, Charles Daise also reached on a miscue. Shackleford then blasted the ball out of the park, quickly tying it at 3-3.

The winning run came in the seventh. Douglas reached on an error and came around to score when Daise reached on another Elk misplay.

They are followed by David Carroll of the Moose, .450; Al Shackleford of the Exchange, .428; Terry Skinner, Elks, .409; Mickey McGrath, Pepsi, and John Williams, Exchange, both .391; Mont Carter, Integon, .381, and Rickey West, Moose, .364.

Lions Defeat Optimists, 1-0

Krage Gardiner scored on a ground out in the bottom of the first and that one run stood up as the Lions handed the Optimists their first loss of the season, yesterday, 1-0 in the North State league.

By winning, the Lions picked up a game on the loop-leading Optimists who are 8-1. The Lions are 7-2.

The Optimists, who have four of the leagues top ten hitters were tied down to just two hits by Peter Pace. Pace struck out 12 and walked four going all the way. The Lions were also held to just a pair of hits by the Optimist's Glenn Moore. Moore fanned 10 Lions.

Gardiner got one of the two hits as he doubled with one out in the Lions first. He took third on a passed ball and scored as Arthur Fletcher grounded out.

Pace had a no-hitter going until the fourth when Moore ironically broke it with a two-out single. The Optimists started a rally in the fifth getting the first two batters on. David O'Brien walked and Liles Stott singled.

Both stole up but Pace struck out the side getting out of the fire. The Lions had threatened to score in the second as Herman King singled and Scott Galloway walked but two strike outs ended the inning. Galloway walked again in the fourth and Don McGlohon reached on an error but a grounder prevented a score.

Moore is leading the league in hitting through the first half of the season with a .660 average. Pace is right behind him batting at a .521 clip.

Other in the top ten of the NS league are O'Brien, .518; John Winstead, Jaycees .454; Marion Crisp, Jaycees .434; Jeff Worthington, R.C. .416; John Hendricks, Optimist .409; J.R. Hardee, R.C. .391; Jim Kearnan, Optimist .350.

Woody's Ramblin's

By WOODY REELE

When you get your tickets to the N. C. State-East Carolina football game, to be played in Raleigh on October 5, you might note that the game time has been left off with a note: time to be announced.

Reportedly, the State-ECU game has already been picked by the American Broadcasting Company as one of the possibilities for the first of their regional telecasts. The reason the time is to be announced is that this is also World Series Weekend, and the network tries to avoid a head-to-head clash of the two for obvious reasons.

The contest could turn out to be one of the best of the year for the state. The Wolfpack is reported to be loaded for bear this year, and of course, the Bucs expect to field one of the tougher defensive teams in the country. Should the two teams come to that first Saturday in October unbeaten, as they have a good chance to do, then the game would almost certainly be televised.

The season is still three months away, and already the rumors are starting on the future of former ECU coach Mike McGee at Duke. McGee, you will recall, left East Carolina after only one year to take over at Duke. His original four-year contract expires at the end of the 1974 season, and he's been on shaky ground during the past few years.

He took over from Tom Harp, who was fired after posting a 6-5 record, his best in the five years he coached at Duke. McGee had a 6-5 record the first year, then fell to 5-6 the second year. Last season, he posted only a 2-9 year, the worst since Duke began modern football.

Some people have said that the only thing that saved McGee from being dispatched after last season was his victory over North Carolina. But the alumni reportedly are still very unhappy, and some would like to see McGee dumped this summer.

We feel that isn't likely, but in view of what happened in basketball, it's still a possibility. Should McGee survive the summer however, we would expect to see someone new at Duke next year unless the Blue Devils post at least a 7-4 mark this fall.

East Carolina University Athletic Director Clarence Stasavich says that he was wrong in one thing he told us in the column concerning the Title IX effects.

"I said first that it would mean the end of college athletics," Stasavich said. "But I think I wasn't quite accurate. I wouldn't mean the end of athletics, but it would mean the end as we now know it."

"Quite probably, nearly every school would have to quit giving scholarships. If a one-to-one basis is established, most schools wouldn't be able to afford it. This would end recruiting and would mean a lot of the poorer kids wouldn't get a chance to go to college," he said.

"We get a lot of the athletes from this financial group, so the quality of athletics would drop, and this would probably lead to the end of television contracts and the like. There probably wouldn't be much support at the gate either."

Girl Coxswain Enjoys Sport

By JULIE DUNLAP
Associated Press Writer
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Karen Brunke became a coxswain on the University of Pennsylvania's rowing team by virtue of her height and weight—both small. It also helped to endure a winter on the Schuylkill River with icicles hanging off her eyelashes.

Karen, 21, a senior from Portland, Ore., guided Penn's crew to a heat victory over Cornell and fourth place overall at last weekend's Intercollegiate Rowing Association Regatta in Syracuse, N.Y.

But two years ago, when Karen and her roommate Lori Bennett both applied to be coxswains, their services were not nearly so valued. "The boys were sure we would quit with the cold weather," she said.

"They finally accepted us after that first winter. There were times when we wore five or six sweatshirts and the icicles hung off our eyelashes."

Karen, Lori and dormitory neighbor Tish Murphy decided as sophomores to answer the university paper's advertisement for crew managers. "I didn't think they'd take girls," Karen said, "but we could type, arrange trips and do their office work."

"Then they needed more coxswains. We were the right height and weight, so we got stuck in the boats all the time. We became what they call regular spares."

This season the women outnumbered the men in the coxswain category, four to two.

Karen, with cheeks sunburned and hair lightened by long days of practice on the river, said the job is a lot different than the stereotype image. "Everyone thinks we say 'Stroke, stroke,' but we don't," she said with a grin.

"Our essential job is to keep the boats on a straight course and to make any corrections or changes in strategy. But sometimes we shout, because that's good for the excitement."

Karen said her parents knew nothing about rowing when she tucked into her new sport. But now her younger sister, a freshman at the University of Oregon, has also become a coxswain, and Karen says she thinks her parents are "beginning to understand what I've been writing and talking about so enthusiastically."

Karen spends a lot of time now looking through a microscope at mutant strains of fungus in her work in the Penn microbiology department. A recent graduate in biochemistry, she hopes to complete a Ph. D. in microbiology in "four or five more years."

Briefs

By The Associated Press
PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Team captain Bobby Clarke of the National Hockey League champion Philadelphia Flyers was honored Monday as the 1974 recipient of the Wanamaker Award.

Mayor Frank Rizzo and other dignitaries were present for the ceremonies honoring the athlete who during the past year reflected the greatest credit upon Philadelphia.

AIR FORCE ACADEMY, Colo. (AP) — Rich Haynie, who lettered in football and baseball, received the Air Force Academy's Most Valuable Athlete award Monday night.

Haynie, of Florissant, Mo., was co-captain of the football team as a quarterback and captain of the baseball team as a pitcher. He lettered three years in football and four in baseball.

Teenagers Dominate Italian Net Finals

ROME (AP) — Winning titles at the Rome tennis open turned out to be child's play. Or at least the work of teen-agers.

Chris Evert, 19, won the women's crown for her first major international triumph and Bjorn Borg, 17-year-old Swedish star, breezed past Ilie Nastase to take the men's title.

Borg was the youngest player ever to win a major tournament.

Miss Evert, from Fort Lauderdale, Fla., and Borg have both won bigger prize money than in Rome—$16,000 for Borg and $5,000 for Miss Evert—but their performances here were cornerstones in their careers.

Miss Evert beat another teenage star, Martina Navratilova of Czechoslovakia, 6-3, 6-3 in the women's final. Miss Evert was a finalist in Wimbledon, Paris and Rome last year and a semifinalist for three years running at Forest Hills.

She was a finalist in the Australian Open this year.

Miss Evert teamed with Olga Morozova of the Soviet Union to win the women's doubles title as Helga Masthoff and Heide Orth of West Germany defaulted because of injury.

Borg beat the top-seeded Nastase, considered one of the best players in the world, in straight sets 6-3, 6-4, 6-2 in Monday's final.

It took Borg just an hour and a half to upset the Romanian, who won here in 1970 and last year.

Raul Ramirez of Mexico and Brian Gottfried of Fort Lauderdale won the men's doubles defeating Nastase and Juan Gisbert of Spain 6-3, 6-2, 6-3.

The tournament was marred by two controversies.

Jimmy Connors of Belleville, Ill., who shares the No. 1 ranking in the United States, was banned from the tournament because he had played for World Team Tennis in the United States. The dispute over relations with the WTT has led to a feud within the International Lawn Tennis Federation. Many European countries have banned WTT players.

Wimbledon champion Jan Kodes of Czechoslovakia was thrown out of the tournament for pushing several officials during a second-round match against Tonino Zugarelli of Italy.

Snead Makes Field For Open

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — David Graham tied the course record with an afternoon round of 65, but Chi Chi Rodriguez led a field of 45 U.S. Open qualifiers Monday at Charlotte Country Club with a two-round score of six-under-par 136.

Rodriguez warmed up with a morning round of 69 over the 6,700-yard par 71 course, and turned in an afternoon 67.

Veteran Sam Snead, 62, also made the field for the June 13-16 Open at Winged Foot Country Club in Mamaroneck, N.Y., carding a 68-72-140.

Others who qualified included former Open champs Ken Venturi and Gene Littler, both with 74-71-145; former PGA titleholders Bobby Nichols, 69-69-138, and Lionel Hebert, 70-70-140; and former Masters champ Charles Coody, 74-70-144. David Strawn of Charlotte, with a respectable 74-70-144, was the only amateur who qualified.

A seven-way tie developed at 146, and a sudden death playoff that went two holes determined the final four qualifying spots, with the other three named alternates.

Rose Hears Boos In New York Appearance

By HERSCHEL NISSESON
AP Sports Writer
While public enemy Pete Rose was under heavy surveillance in New York Monday night, Larry Bowa had Carl Morton all staked out in Philadelphia.

Rose returned to the scene of the crime—i.e., his playoff scrap with New York's Bud Harrelson last season—for the first time and was serenaded with a chorus of boos during the Cincinnati Reds' 5-2 triumph over the Mets.

Meanwhile in the only other National League game, Bowa learned something while watching Atlanta pitcher Morton and turned his knowledge into a stolen base that set up the tie-breaking run in the Philadelphia Phillies' 5-2 victory over the Braves.

In the only American League games, the Minnesota Twins edged the Boston Red Sox 5-4 in 12 innings and the Baltimore Orioles nipped the Kansas City Royals 4-3.

The Mets had extra security guards on hand at Shea Stadium and they didn't sell any seats in the left field stands, so left fielder Rose had a quiet evening except for the boos and a first-inning, first-pitch single off Jon Matlack.

"Oh, I heard a few remarks," Rose said. "You know, the stuff like, 'Ya bum, ya.' But I hear the same stuff around the rest of the league."

"Those were good fans out there tonight. I didn't hear one bad thing out there and not a single thing was thrown. They were noisy, but that's their privilege."

Center fielder Foster doubled and singled, driving in one run and scoring another, and made a run-saving throw from center field to support Clay Kirby's seven-hit pitching.

Phillies 5, Braves 2
Del Unser squeezed Bowa home from third base with the tie-breaking run in the eighth inning and Willie Montanez followed with a two-run double. Meanwhile, Steve Carlton held the Braves to six hits and struck out 11.

Bowa opened the eighth with a single off Morton and went to second on Greg Luzinski's one-out single. Having run a make on Morton's modus operandi, Bowa then stole third—his 16th consecutive theft and 17th in 18 attempts this season—and beat Morton's desperate throw to the plate on Unser's bunt.

Twins 5, Red Sox 4
Larry Hisle singled home the winning run with the bases loaded in the 12th inning and Bill Hands contributed a brilliant relief stint to notch his 100th major league victory.

Orioles 4, Royals 3
Grant Jackson, Baltimore's third pitcher of the seventh inning, choked off a Kansas City rally and preserved Baltimore's victory. Doyle Alexander, making only his third start, entered the inning with a 4-1 lead but was replaced by A. B. Reynolds with two on and two out.

New Hirings May Be Boost

DENVER (AP) — Splitting Alex Hannum's former duties between new General Manager Carl Scheer and new Coach Larry Brown may give the Denver Rockets of the American Basketball Association more than just another staff member.

It may give Denver a whole new roster.

Scheer and Brown were named to their new positions with Denver Monday.

Scheer, coming from the Carolina Cougars, brings with him negotiation rights to two of the nation's top collegiate players, John Shumate of Notre Dame, a junior who may turn

Russians Bomb Girls

ELON COLLEGE, N.C. (AP) — The national women's basketball team from the Soviet Union has completed its American tour undefeated by trouncing a group of collegiate all-stars from the Carolinas and Tennessee 114-41.

The USSR team led at the half 53-13, as the near capacity crowd of 4,000 had little to cheer about after the National Anthem.

Scoring leaders for the Russians, who won seven games on their tour through the United States and boast five players over 6-foot-2, were 5-foot-8 Olga Ovechkina and 6-foot-0 Raisa Kurvyakovina. They had 17 and 16 points respectively.

Ulyama Semenova, 6-foot-11, played less than 10 minutes and scored only six points.

The U.S. team, coached by Kay Tow of Elon College, had no one in double figures.

Rita Wiggs of the University of North Carolina at Greensboro was high with eight points, followed by Sherri Picard and Susan Yow of Elon with six apiece.

UCLA's basketball team has been ranked first or second in the annual Associated Press team poll eight of the past nine years.

The Worry Clinic Be Careful In Naming A Baby

How'd you modern girls like to be called Mehetabel? Yet that was a good Biblical name and rather common in pioneer days. Notice the consumer survey I conducted to obtain the name for our only daughter.

BY GEORGE W. CRANE
Ph.D. M.D.

CASE A-647: Mehetabel J., aged 20, was one of my psychology students while I taught at George Washington University.

"Dr. Crane," she spoke miserably, "what do you think of my name?"

"Frankly, I regard it as simply AWFUL!"

"My parents were poor sharecroppers in the South when I was born."

"But they were devout church folks, so they gave me this Bible name of Mehetabel, partly because that was also the name of my father's sister."

"We children called her Aunt Het, but I hate to be called Het. So can't I have my name legally changed?"

"And why won't parents look far ahead when christening their babies, thus selecting names that will be more modern and popular?"

Consumer Surveys
Consumer surveys have come into vogue in recent years, just to learn precisely what are the likes and dislikes of potential customers.

So I decided to do the same when our daughter was born.

That very night I was teaching a couple of large classes in "General Psychology" and also "Advertising Psychology" on our downtown campus at Northwestern University.

On the blackboard I thus wrote 12 names for girls, among which were these:

- Rachel Susan
- Miram Judith
- Ruth Cynthia
- Nancy Sylvia

"Our new daughter," I announced to all my 250 students that night, "may complain in later years about her name."

"So I ask all of you to help Mrs. Crane and me make our selection."

"Please list your first 3 choices from the 12 names I have just written on the blackboard."

"Thus if she grumbles in later years, I can defend myself by saying I invoked the aid of 250 young people in selecting her name."

"The students eagerly voted and we tallied the results from both classes."

And in each class the winning name was Judith!

Yet Mrs. Crane and I had never known anybody personally during our own childhood who held that name.

And among the 5,000 students I taught both at Northwestern and George Washington Universities, only one had ever been named Judith.

But we liked the name, partly because its nickname of Judy was also pleasant.

And that's how our daughter, Judith Anne Crane, was christened back in 1934. About the same time the comic strip "Gasoline Alley" also introduced a baby named Judy, so within a few months it seemed that parents were selecting Judy all over the land.

But Mehetabel is a long 4-syllable monicker, and people seem to prefer shorter names that are also musical or reminiscent of notable figures in history.

We thus christened our four sons George Washington, Philip, Daniel and David, for we usually favor Biblical names that have endured favorably for thousands of years.

Send for my "Tests for Good Parents," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 25 cents, and use them at PTA or Women's Club discussions.

Astaire Denies Acting Ability

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP)—"The main thing I want to do is make good. The only way I can be satisfied is if I'm not letting anyone down — either the audience, or my fellow performers, or myself."

The words may sound like those of a young star of a new television series, but they came from Fred Astaire, who is marking his 68th year in show business at the age of 75. He is back at work, not dancing this time out, but conveying the Astaire grace to the role of a con man in the all-star "The Towering Inferno."

The eyes have a slight glint, and the face is more sharply angled, but Astaire remains impeccably slim and thoroughly ageless.

Even though he wasn't working, he came to 20th Century-Fox studio for an interview and to witness the first scene between Paul Newman and Steve McQueen. Astaire was eager to watch McQueen's praxn of wearing three-inch platform shoes so he would tower over Newman.

"I don't call myself an actor," said Astaire with his customary modesty, "but I've had some practice at it. I did a few things as a kid; if you'd read my autobiography, you'd know that I played Roxanne to his sister Adele's Cyrano de Bergerac."

He recalled some of his non-musicals: "Notorious Landlady," "On The Beach," "Midas Run" plus his television work in "It Takes a Thief," "The Over the Hill Gang" and his Alcoa series—"I took it so I could get training in straight roles."

Will he dance again? "Not in a full-scale musical film nor the kind of TV special that used to win him a cartload of Emmies."

"That's not for Mr. 75-year-old Astaire," he said emphatically. "I did the last special when I was 70 or so, and I had to run a four-minute mile. It's a helluva strenuous life, the

North East South West
1 ♠ Pass 1 ♥ Pass
2 ♥ Pass 4 ♥ Pass
Pass Pass
Opening lead: Four of ♠
An extra trick presented to him on opening lead blinded declarer to the ultimate object of the game—fulfilling the contract.
North's hand was a minimum opening bid, and once he elected to open one diamond his side could not stay out of the heart game. As the cards lie, a club lead would have spelled immediate defeat, but the game stood a reasonable chance of success with any other lead.
No blame attaches to West for his choice of his fourth-best spade as the opening lead. East played the king and declarer, impressed by the fact that he now had two tricks in the suit, won the ace. He drew trumps in three rounds and ran the jack of diamonds to East's king. East put his partner on lead with a spade to the queen, and a club return enabled the defenders to score two tricks in that suit for a one-trick set.

It is always pleasant to receive a free trick in a suit, but declarer should have realized that an extra spade trick did his cause little good. Far more important was to keep West—the danger hand—off lead, in case both the ace of clubs and the king of diamonds were wrong.
Observe what happens if declarer allows East to win the first trick with the king of spades. The king of clubs is now safe from attack, and East can do no better than return a spade. Declarer wins the ace and draws trumps, and now runs the jack of diamonds.
If the finesse wins, well and good. But if the finesse loses, as is the actual case, East is again on lead and the club king remains invulnerable. In fact, if East does not take his ace of clubs, declarer can win any return and cash dummy's diamonds, discarding three clubs from his hand and so making an overtrick.
By playing the hand in this manner, declarer limits his losers to a maximum of one trick in each side suit.

CARROLL RIGHTER'S HOROSCOPE

from the Carroll Righter Institute

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Daytime, especially early morning, is excellent for putting in motion some special talent you have through an unusual opportunity. Later, the good aspects gradually decrease in force, so do everyday things then.

ARIES (Mar 21 to Apr 19) Plan some amusement that will be pleasing, or do something unusual with a partner. Then get busy on important routine work.

TAURUS (Apr 20 to May 20) Keep promises made with more speed than heretofore. Talk over practical affairs with mate and come to a better understanding.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Partners will gladly go along with your ideas early if you clarify them and then carry through with whatever work is necessary.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Plan work early and you get much done. Take co-workers into your confidence and you can work better together. Avoid a borrower.

LEO (July 22 to Aug 21) Try to be more willing to go along with the ideas of good friends where recreation is concerned. More courtesy with mate brings finer rapport.

VIRGO (Aug 22 to Sept 22) Instead of fretting about those home tasks, roll up your sleeves and get them done. Not a good day or p.m. for entertaining at home.

LIBRA (Sept 23 to Oct 22) Keep out of any argument between a fellow worker and an associate, or you become the fall guy. Assist others. Don't fall for tricks of troublemakers.

SCORPIO (Oct 23 to Nov 21) Although it may be a bother, be sure you get that money matter handled with real care, since it is important. Revise budget.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 22 to Dec 21) You want to handle personal conditions better. Wait an early start on them. Avoid a grumpy group. Avoit a better time to get together.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22 to Jan 20) Clear the decks for more important activities. You can solve a friend's problem easily, so be willing to do so when asked.

AQUARIUS (Jan 21 to Feb 19) Help good pals who come to you for assistance. You need some social life in p.m., so get right into it. Be poised when others are excited.

PISCES (Feb 20 to Mar 20) Get into those civic matters that are your particular cup of tea and add to present prestige. Pay bills. Use your real ability.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she should be given the finest courses of education since the mind will absorb everything like a sponge. Don't be afraid to give a heavy schedule, but make sure sports are also indulged in to build up the body and strengthen the voice, since your youngster is very articulate. Teach early to stay on the positive side of life and avoid the negative. Pay attention to diet.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Precinct Meetings

Democratic precinct meetings will be held at the precinct polling places on June 18, at 8 p.m.

The precinct chairman or the officer next in line will preside at the meeting. All registered Democrats are urged to be present.

The meetings will be held as provided by the newly created "Plan of Organization" of the Democratic Party of North Carolina. At all precinct meetings, new officers and members of the precinct committee are to be elected as well as delegates to the County Convention.

According to Henry Oglesby, Chairman of the Pitt County Democratic Executive Committee, there must be a quorum of at least ten active Democrats present before business can be conducted. In the event that a quorum is not present a second meeting of the precinct shall be held on the Tuesday night following the date of the first meeting.

East Carolina University's popular non-credit evening course in SCUBA (Self-contained underwater breathing apparatus) Diving will be offered twice this summer, according to the ECU Division of Continuing Education.

The first session is scheduled from June 6 to July 2. The second class will begin July 16 and run through August 8.

Both sessions will meet at Minges Coliseum on Tuesday and Thursday nights from 7 p.m. until 10:30 p.m.

The 27-hour course includes both classroom sessions and practical experience in the pool and is designed to train the student in the sport of Skin and SCUBA Diving to react favorably under both normal and adverse conditions on the surface and under water.

The first class session will be an introductory session and will include a swimming test. The last session will consist of a deep dive test to be arranged by the student and instructor. Most deep dives will take place near Morehead City.

Each student must supply his own flippers, mask and snorkel. All other equipment, including air, may be rented from the instructor.

Robert Eastep, a Los Angeles County certified instructor will instruct the ECU course. He is recognized as one of the outstanding SCUBA instructors in the southeastern United States.

Class size is limited to 20 persons and tuition is $40 per student.

Holding Workshop In Physical Therapy

The Department of Physical Therapy of the School of Allied Health and Social Professions of East Carolina University will hold an electro-neuromyography workshop Friday through Sunday.

Aimed at beginning- and intermediate-level electro-neuromyographers, the workshop will be attended by physical therapists from throughout the United States. The program is sponsored by the N.C. Regional Medical Continuing Education project for Eastern North Carolina, in conjunction with the ECU Department of Physical Therapy.

Participants will learn various electromyography and nerve conduction techniques used in the diagnostic evaluation of persons with nerve and muscle dysfunction, such as peripheral nerve injuries and cervical and lumbar disc injuries.

Workshop faculty members from this region are Thomas Sayette, Ph. D. of the ECU Physics Department; John Brittle, chief physical therapist of the Craven County Memorial Hospital; Ens. Hugh Bolston of Camp LeJeune; and George F. Hamilton and Dennis C. Davis of the ECU Department of Physical Therapy.

Milk Co-Op Funds Said Given Rodino's Probers

By BROOKS JACKSON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — At least 16 members of the House Judiciary Committee accepted political donations ranging from $100 to $11,000 from the same three dairy farmer cooperatives the panel is investigating as part of its impeachment probe.

Two members, Democrat Charles B. Rangel of New York and Republican Thomas F. Rainsback of Illinois, decided to return the money after being questioned about it by The Associated Press.

Rangel got $100 from Associated Milk Producers, Inc. last March, and sent it back Monday with a letter saying it would be improper for him to accept it.

An aide to Rainsback said he would give back $500 that he received from the same group in 1972 "because he wants to be free of any conflict of interest."

The others, including committee chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., who got $4,100, said they saw no conflict.

The biggest recorded donation went to Rep. Edward Mezvinsky, a first-term Democrat from Iowa, who got $11,000.

According to public records going back to April 7, 1972, these committee members were given money by one or more of the co-ops, Associated Milk Producers, Inc., Dairymen, Inc., and Mid-America Dairy-men, Inc.:

M. Caldwell Butler, R-Va., $1,500; William S. Cohen, R-Maine, $3,000; John Conyers Jr., D-Mich. $100; David W. Dennis, R-Ind., $500; Walter Flowers, D-Ala., $1,000; Harold V. Froehlich, R-Wis., $100; William L. Hungate, D-Mo., $2,300; Robert W. Kastenmeier, D-Wis., $2,650; Trent Lott, R-Miss., $2,500; Robert McClory, R-Ill., $500; Mezvinsky, $11,000; Wayne Owens, D-Utah, $2,600; Rainsback, $500; Rangel, $100; Rodino, $4,100 and Jerome R. Waldie, D-Calif., $200.

Kastenmeier, Hungate and Flowers were among sponsors of legislation to raise the federal support price for milk in 1971. The White House has cited this legislation, sponsored eventually by 121 House members, as a key reason President Nixon overruled the Agriculture Department and raised milk price supports in March 1971.

The Judiciary Committee is scheduled to begin soon a formal inquiry into allegations that Nixon raised prices because of a promise of $2 million in political donations from the dairy cooperatives. The White House has said Nixon knew about the promise of money but wasn't influenced by it.

Public records show that members of the Judiciary Committee received $32,650 after April 7, 1972, $24,050 of it to nine Democrats, $8,600 to seven Republicans. Records of congressional donations before that date are no longer available for public view.

Rep. Hungate summed up what many of his colleagues said:

"If Mr. Nixon received and reported a legitimate campaign donation, as I did, he's in no trouble. If he sought and received a bribe, as I did not, he is in deep trouble."

Ordinations Feature Day

FAYETTEVILLE, N.C. (AP) — The ordination of 44 new ministers and the appointment of four new district superintendents highlighted the opening session of the North Carolina United Methodist Conference in Fayetteville Monday.

The conference represents more than 800 United Methodist congregations in the 56 eastern and Piedmont parts of the state.

The report of district superintendents showed a net gain in membership of 1,597 for the year. A total $10.6 million was given by the conference's 212,000 Methodists during the first seven months of this financial year.

Ministers were ordained by Blackburn and by the 12 district superintendents Monday night. Dr. Major Jones of Atlanta gave the ordination sermon.

N.C. Holding Runoff Elections

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — Voters went to the polls today to cast ballots in three North Carolina state Senate primary runoff elections. A light turnout was predicted.

Five district court runoffs, two superior court runoffs and one district court solicitor runoff also were being held. Voters in about 40 counties were casting ballots for county and local races for school boards, county commissions, sheriffs and other posts.

Alex Brock, state elections director, predicted the absence of any statewide race would keep the voter turnout below the 34.2 per cent registered voters who cast ballots in the first primary May 7.

In the 11th Senatorial District of Bladen, Brunswick and Columbus counties, Democrats Frank T. Grady and Ed Nye, both of Elizabethtown, were running for the seat left vacant by retiring Sen. Arthur Williams of Chadbourn. The runoff winner will face Republican Mitchell Mercer of Chadbourn in the November election.

Three Democrats are in a runoff for two seats in the 16th Senatorial District—Chatham, Moore, Orange and Randolph counties. Charles E. Vickery and Carl M. Smith, both of Chapel Hill, and Russell Walker of Asheboro, are running for the seats being vacated by retiring Sens. William P. Saunders of Southern Pines and A.B. Coleman Jr. of Hillsborough.

The two Democratic winners will face Republicans Michael Buss of Siler City and Ed Tenney of Chapel Hill in November.

In the 23rd Senatorial District—Alexander, Catawba, Iredell and Yadkin counties—Robert C. Crissman of Jonesville and Pleas Lackey of Hiddenite are vying for the second Democratic nomination for the two seats. Bobby Lee Combs of Hickory won the other Democratic nomination with a majority vote in the May primary. Combs and the winner of today's runoff will face incumbents J. Reid Poovey of Hickory and Kennedy H. Sharpe of Mooresville in November.

Family Reunion During Weekend

The 58th annual reunion of the family of the late Lewis Nashville Edwards and Sarah Jane Cox Edwards was held at the Eastern Pines Community Building in Greenville this past weekend.

Among the members of the family present were Rev. and Mrs. Richard Orno and his sons, Ricky and Jason, of Simpson, Vernon Hockaday of Roanoke Rapids, Mrs. Letha Cherry of Monroe, Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Haddock of Orlando, Fla., and approximately 75 other members of the family.

The hostess for the occasion was Mrs. Thelma E. Hardee.

Budget Matters Chiefly Before Martin Board

WILLIAMSTON—Martin County Commissioners in their June meeting Monday dealt mostly with budget items in a brief session.

A total of $72,492 in budget funds for the county Recreation Department was carried over from the 1973-74 budget to the 1974-75 budget; and a resolution was passed by commissioners to assure $30,000 for Martin Technical Institute. The $30,000, plus interest, is "bond money in fact" to be allocated the institute in event the N. C. legislature does not appropriate sufficient funds for operation next year.

Also, commissioners approved a transfer of line items in the institute's budgets.

Approval was made for an access road to Eastern Farms, just west of Williamston off McGaskey Road.

In a final action, relief orders for taxes were approved totaling about $75.00.

Ireland now has 35 wildfowl sanctuaries where no shooting is permitted, compared to only three in 1969.
