Resignation Threat Raised By Kissinger

Two Die In A Swimming Pool

TWO TEENAGERS DIED . . . Two Pitt County youths drowned in a swimming pool yesterday. They were visiting residents of the Country Club Apartments when the accident occurred according to officials. (Reflector Photo by Tommy Forrest)

Two Winterville teenagers drowned early last night in a swimming pool at Country Club Apartments, just off Memorial Drive here.

Greenville Police Chief E. G. Cannon identified the two as Craig Eugene Ebron, 18 and Junie Henry Jackson, 17.

According to Cannon, Ebron and Jackson were visiting residents of the apartment complex and had been swimming in the pool.

He quoted 16-year-old Ricky Bount of Winterville, who was visiting his sister as saying he left the two swimming in the pool about 6:40 to return to his sister's apartment. Some 20 minutes later, according to Cannon, Bount returned to the unguarded pool and found the two at the bottom of the deep end.

Jerry Lee of Greenway Apartments pulled Ebron and Jackson from the water but the two were dead.

Pitt County Coroner and Medical Examiner E. W. Harvey ruled the deaths as accidental drowning.

Investigators theorize that one of the two may have gotten into trouble in the water and pulled the other under during a rescue attempt.

The drownings were reported at 7:05 p.m.

SALZBURG, Austria (AP)

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said today he would resign unless the controversy over his role in national security wire tapping was cleared up.

His voice breaking with emotion, Kissinger said the controversy is hurting America's foreign policy.

"I do not believe it is possible to conduct the foreign policy of the United States under these circumstances," he told a news conference. "If it is not cleared up I will resign."

Kissinger, his eyes glistening with tears, claimed that leaks to the news media defamed his honor and reputation.

"It is not possible to conduct national policy under this sort of attack," he said in delivering his threat to quit.

The Nobel Prize-winning diplomat, again denying he ordered wiretaps on his subordinates, called upon the Senate Foreign Relations Committee to reopen its hearings to investigate the controversy.

Kissinger is here en route with President Nixon to the Middle East. It was there earlier this month that Kissinger, working as a mediator, helped bring about the Israeli-Syrian military disengagement pact that has cleared the way for a full-scale Mideast peace conference in Geneva.

At his news conference, Kissinger was referring to allegations stemming from reports that he had ordered wiretaps on administration officials who had access to national security documents that were leaked to the press.

In his confirmation hearings before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee Sept. 15-17, Kissinger denied ordering the taps.

He said then he had provided the names of officials who had access to the documents, but had not suggested the taps nor did he ever order them used.

He also said he had received only infrequent reports of the taps and then only for 10 months. This all took place when he was President Nixon's national security adviser.

Tapes of conversations between Nixon and other officials recently heard in the House Judiciary Committee supposedly quoted the President as saying Kissinger had initiated some wiretaps.

Kissinger told a news conference last week the President must have been under some "misapprehension" or the tape was unclear.

However, at that news conference he changed his version slightly by saying he had never "directly" ordered any wiretaps.

City Sketches Projects For Capital Improvement

City Manager W. H. Carstarphen announced that the city plans to spend the expected $773,043 in General Revenue Sharing Funds allocated to it for the year beginning July 1 on a combination of capital projects and operating items within the recommended 1974-75 city budget.

Carstarphen said that planned use of shared revenue for operating costs include $151,084 for the Recreation Department, and $126,404 for Sheppard Memorial Library.

Capital projects, for which the use of shared revenue funds is planned, include: fire station construction, $175,000; street resurfacing program, $120,000; park and recreation improvements, $119,000; and finance and general government equipment purchase, $81,555.

He reported that specific park and recreation improvements include swimming pool construction, mini-park playlots, Green Springs Park development, maintenance shop shelter construction, and bikeway system development.

Carstarphen noted that a complete copy of the report that the city is required to submit to the U.S. Treasury Department's Office of Revenue Sharing concerning the plans will appear in the Daily Reflector this Sunday. Records documenting the plan are open for public inspection at the city manager's office from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on weekdays. Public notice and availability of revenue sharing expenditure plans is required by the State and Local Fiscal Assistance Act of 1972 which authorized revenue sharing, the official reported.

He also suggested that citizens or groups wishing to make their views known about the proposed expenditures should attend the June 20 public hearing on the city's proposed 1974-75 budget, scheduled for 8 p.m.

at city hall.

Carstarphen observed that "General Revenue Sharing is a $30.2 billion, five-year program which returns a portion of federal taxes to state and local governments to decide how their jurisdiction's share of the funds are to be spent within broad federal guidelines."

752-1336

Hotline gets things done for you. Call 752-1336 and tell your problem or your sound-off or mail it to Hotline, The Daily Reflector, Box 1967, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

Because of the large numbers received, Hotline can answer and publish only those items considered most pertinent to our readers. Names must be given, but only initials will be used. Transcribing is done once a day, but the phone service is available 24 hours a day.

TWO COPIES THREE TIMES

I have taken the "Ladies' Home Journal" for more than 20 years. I renewed my subscription about three months before it expired this time. Immediately I began to get two copies. Twice I sent both mail tags and asked them to straighten it out, so they wouldn't take the extra copies off the end of the newer subscription. Yet, yesterday I got two copies for the third time. I wonder why they ignore my letters. Mrs. E.D.

Hotline learned that subscriptions are handled for the Ladies' Home Journal by a computer service in Des Moines Iowa, yet a New York address is given in the magazine's masthead as the place to write for subscription service. Anyway, Maribeth Dutler at the computer service promised to take care of your problem and send you an acknowledging letter. She said to address any problems with subscriptions to the Ladies' Home Journal, or McFadden, Century, or American Home publications to (name of magazine), 1112 Tenth St., Des Moines, Iowa, 50309, Attn: Maribeth Dutler. Look out, Maribeth!

SANG THE JINGLE, NO SOUP

I received a call from a representative of the Campbell Soup Company, asking me to sing their jingle. I did and was promised a case of alphabet soup. That was over a month ago and I haven't heard anything from them. B.S.

Mrs. Elaine Pritchett in the office of Campbell Soup's advertising manager, Dean Bair, said she is deluged with letters and calls from people who apparently have received prank calls they believe to be legitimate. She said only Ted Brown of WNEW Radio Station in New York makes these sing-the-jingle calls and that he has made none since March 6, 7, and 8. She promised to write you a letter expressing their regret at your disappointment, even through the Campbell Company isn't responsible.

DOUBLE-CHARGED FOR X-RAYS?

I feel we are being double-charged for x-rays done at Pitt Memorial Hospital. Besides paying the doctor who rendered treatment and the emergency room and hospital charges, I recently found I had to pay a doctor I never saw—Eastern Radiological Associates, the bill said. I inquired and found out one of the associates read my x-rays. I can see calling a radiologist in on a difficult case, but why should it be standard practice for him to read and collect every time the hospital x-ray machine is used? D.E.C.

According to Pitt Memorial Hospital Administrator Jack Richardson, every x-ray study done at the hospital must be interpreted and written up by a radiologist who is then responsible for his interpretation. This a rule of the Joint Committee on Accreditation of Hospitals and has applied to every accredited hospital in the nation for a number of years, he said. Up until a little more than a year ago, the radiologist's bill was included in the hospital's charge and a check was written the radiologists once a month. Now the billing for professional services is done by the physician himself, and the hospital charges for use of the machine and supplies.

Guidelines For Certification Are Adopted

By BLANCHE HARDEE
Reflector Staff Writer

The Pitt County Board of Education last night adopted guidelines for the certification of county teachers.

It was pointed out that during the past eight years of reorganization resulting from consolidation and desegregation that several teachers were assigned in areas they were not trained in.

A set of guidelines adopted by the board to be used by the central school office and school administrators in eliminating the certificate deficiencies are as follows:

—Teachers should choose either to gain certificates if they are available; be assigned by school administrators to openings within the individual school in keeping with the certificates presently held by personnel; or be transferred to other schools where openings exist in their area of certification.

—Under the direction of the superintendent and his staff, there should be planned a continuous program of inservice education, including college work when necessary so that skills and competencies are developed in the area of curriculum appropriate to the organization of the school served.

—Planned program of inservice education for all para professional personnel such as tutors, resource or reading lab aides, library aides, teacher aides, of whom certification is not required otherwise by the State and Southern Association standards;

—Personnel employed after the effective date of the adoption of this resolution shall be certified in the area of their assignment. If certified personnel are not available, personnel employed to fill a position for which they are not certified will be required to take nine quarter hours of appropriate college work. To be eligible for continued employment, such personnel will be required to take a minimum of nine quarter hours annually until certified or may choose transfer to an opening for which they are certified. This rule applies to persons serving as teachers' instructional specialists, assistant principals, principals' associate and assistant superintendents and superintendents;

—All personnel, regardless of the source of their salary, shall be covered by these guidelines; —Every effort should be made to accomplish the objectives of this resolution—certified personnel working in their area of training—by no later than Aug. 15, 1977.

In other business, the board agreed to join with other property owners in requesting that Perry Street in Farmville be paved and curbed. The board owns 98 frontage feet along the

Screamer

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP)

Nerves are ragged, headaches abound and children are crying in Charlotte's Garden City neighborhood. Joyce Jones went off on a visit and left her burglar alarm hooked up.

The burglar alarm in Mrs. Jones' house tripped, apparently accidentally, last Sunday. Since then the alarm has been doing its job, emitting a continuous scream.

Neighbors described the sound as something akin to the cries of a wounded owl.

Charlotte police have answered call after call complaining about the noise but, so far, have done nothing. "We'd get in all sorts of hassle if we went in and something was missing after we left," Police Sgt. Johnny Helms said.

Mrs. Jones reportedly was in Baltimore visiting a sister—whose telephone is unlisted.

SALZBURG, Austria (AP) — President Nixon met more than 1½ hours today with Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky to discuss the American chief executive's trips to the Middle East and Moscow.

Nixon leaves this medieval city Wednesday for Egypt on the first stop of a five-nation Middle East tour.

The talks also touched on European matters, presidential spokesman Ronald Ziegler said, particularly the European security conference that includes Russia and other eastern European nations.

Ziegler raised the possibility that Nixon will hold a summit meeting with Western European leaders before he gets to Moscow.

A final determination probably will depend on whether a new declaration of principles for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization is initiated by NATO foreign ministers in Canada later this month.

Ziegler also defended Nixon against criticism by Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., who said that the President "is screwing it up," in reference to the Middle East achievements by Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger.

"That view is not shared by the majority of the Senate," Ziegler said, and not "by the majority of the American people, in my view."

Jackson told a labor convention Monday in Atlantic City, N.J., that he thought Kissinger had brought some stability to the Middle East and he fears the President's trip might bungle the cease-fire agreements.

Nixon appeared to be counting on medieval Salzburg to be something of a good luck talisman for his trip to the Middle East.

Separate Trial For Ehrlichman

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge today severed the conspiracy trial of John D. Ehrlichman from that of three other defendants in the Ellsberg break-in case.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell said President Nixon's refusal to allow Ehrlichman and his lawyers access to the files he needs for his defense "makes it impossible for the court to do its duty" to conduct a fair trial.

James D. St. Clair, President Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer, told Gesell on Monday that the President still reserved the final say over what materials from Ehrlichman's own files the former domestic aide could use.

"The proposal is unacceptable," Gesell said, "It denies him the right of counsel."

Gesell has said that he, not Nixon, would be the final judge of what material could be admitted as evidence at Ehrlichman's trial.

Gesell had threatened to dismiss the case against Ehrlichman entirely unless Nixon agreed to release the material sought by Ehrlichman for his defense.

Instead he severed Ehrlich-man's case and said Ehrlichman would be tried later.

The other three defendants go on trial Monday.

The three who will be tried Monday are G. Gordon Liddy, Bernard L. Barker and Eugenio Martinez, who were convicted previously in connection with the Watergate break-in.

Ehrlichman, Liddy, Barker and Martinez are charged with conspiracy to violate the rights of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, Dr. Lewis Fielding, by sending White House agents into Fielding's office.

Ehrlichman is also charged with three counts of lying to a grand jury and one of lying to the FBI.

There was no indication when Ehrlichman will go to trial.

PRINCE GEORGE, B.C. (AP) — The mail says "Merry Christmas." All Canadian postal authorities can say is that they're sorry.

A sack containing about 2,000 pieces of Christmas mail destined for Prince George has turned up in an empty mailbag depository in Scarborough, Ont.

More Developers Qualified For Property Bids

By TOM BAINES
Reflector Staff Writer

The Redevelopment Commission qualified two private developers as bidders on disposal parcels and recommended to the city that a firm be approved as a developer for a parcel in Shore Drive.

Meeting on Monday night, commissioners qualified Ed Rawl as a bidder and developer for Parcel F-5, a 25-foot section of the property at the intersection of Reade Circle and Cotanche Street adjoining the present Georgetowne Shoppes parking lot, in the Central Business District.

Rawl told commissioners that, in bidding on the 2,480 square foot tract, he plans to expand the Georgetowne parking lot, improve access to the parking facility, and beautify the area. He reported that he hopes to increase the parking capacity from 19 to 25.

Commissioners qualified Rawl as a bidder on the parcel, subject to the filing of necessary documents.

Sale of the 25-foot section will leave a small triangular parcel at the corner of Reade and Cotanche which will be landscaped by the Redevelopment Commission. David Evans was qualified as a bidder on Parcel D-1, the last disposal parcel in Newtown, located on Ridgeway Street across from Garris-Evans Lumber Co.

Evans indicated that he plans to utilize the property, which has a 220-foot frontage on Ridgeway Street with a 120-foot depth, for outside storage of building materials. He reported that a fence would be constructed around the property.

Commissioners approved Evans as a bidder on the parcel, subject to the filing of the proper development documents.

The Commission's approval of the State Employees Credit Union as a qualified developer for Parcel 2 on the northwest corner of First and Greene Streets in Shore Drive was given with a recommendation that the City Council give the matter final approval. The Credit Union qualified as a bidder for the parcel in April and was the successful bidder on the property following its advertisement.

Credit Union officials reported at the April meeting that the firm proposes to construct an office building on the 2.25 acre parcel. The structure would contain from 8,000 to 12,000 square feet and

Miss Linda Marie Vincent Weds

In a formal candlelight service at the Reedy Branch Free Will Baptist Church Sunday at 3:00 p.m., Miss Linda Marie Vincent became the bride of Donald Richard Hines.

The Rev. Willis Wilson, pastor of bride and bridegroom, officiated at the double ring ceremony. A program of wedding music was presented by Tommy Manning of Ayden, organist, and Mrs. Deborah King, soloist, who sang "A Time For Us," "Whither Thou Goest," and while the couple knelt on the prie-dieu at the altar for the closing prayer she sang "The Lord's Prayer."

Parents of the couple are Mr. and Mrs. Gurrass Vincent of Winterville, and Mr. and Mrs. George S. Hines of Rt. 1, Greenville.

miniature ivy and white ribbon streamers.

Mrs. Debbie Vincent of Winterville, sister-in-law of the bride, was matron of honor. She chose a formal length sleeveless gown of apricot floral organza designed with a flared capelot collar of floral fabric. The natural waistline was accentuated with a sash of orange organza with long streamers enhancing the gown back. The flared skirt was edged at the hemline in a ruffled flounce of the organza print. She wore an apricot colored wide brim straw hat with matching ribbon.

Bridesmaids were Miss Lorraine Decuzzi of Winterville, Miss April Harris and Miss Diana Harris of New Bern, all cousins of the bride.

The bridesmaids wore dresses like that of the honor attendant. They wore apricot braid Camelot headpieces with a matching illusion veil. They carried a bouquet of white gladioli flowers, orange pom poms and yellow statice with matching streamers.

Michelle Harris, cousin of the bride, of Vandemere was flower girl. She carried a white wicker basket with a spray of yellow pom poms with orange and yellow streamers, filled with rose petals.

George Hines, father of the bridegroom, was best man. Ushers were Steve Boswell of Greenville, Larry Vincent of Winterville, brother of bride, Ronald Hines of Ayden and Stancil Hines of Greenville, brothers of the bridegroom.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Vincent chose a mint green silk organza formal length gown with a fitted bodice and a V-neckline.

The bridegroom's mother wore a yellow knit formal length gown with a V-neckline and long sleeves. Each of the mothers wore a corsage of white roses and baby's breath. The grandmothers were remembered with white caranton corsages.

Mrs. Lloyd Vincent, aunt of the bride, directed the wedding. Miss Fannette Hines, sister of the bridegroom, presided at the guest register.

After the wedding, the reception was given in honor of the couple by the bride's parents. Guests were greeted by Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Boyd. Mrs. Lester Branch cut and served the cake after the couple cut the traditional first slice. Miss Deborah Reese poured punch.

Good-byes were said by Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hunsucker.

Following a wedding trip to Shenandoah Valley, Va., the couple will reside in Winterville.

The bride and bridegroom are both graduates of D.H. Conley High School. The bridegroom is now attending Carolina School of Broadcasting.

Following the rehearsal the Hines-Vincent wedding party, out-of-town guests and friends were entertained by the bridegroom's parents at the Reedy Branch educational building. The brides table was covered with white satin and was centered with mixed summer flowers.

Household Hints

Two bath towels equal one beach poncho: sew one end of one towel to the side of the other to make an L shape. It's as easy as that.

Ballpoint machine needles are best for sewing knits. They push the yarn aside instead of piercing (and sometimes breaking) it.

A water repellent finish makes a fabric resist wetting but does not waterproof it.

Polyester fabrics have sharp pleat and crease retention qualities and are especially resistant to wrinkles.

Sheer double knit polyester chiffon fabrics are forecast for spring next year.

If your office washroom soap is harsh or irritating to the skin, use a liquid skin cleanser instead—the kind that comes in an unbreakable bottle small enough to store in your desk.

Stephenson-Mozingo Vows Solemnized

FARMVILLE—Miss Margaret Anne Mozingo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mark W. Mozingo of Farmville, became the bride of Irving Wayne Stephenson Sunday, at the Farmville United Methodist Church at 4:00 p.m.

The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Holsonback of Raleigh.

The Rev. Kermit Wheeler performed the double ring ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a classic long sleeved gown of white matte jersey. The bodice was fashioned with a self-ruffled deep V-neck which ended in a large white flower and a crushed cummerbund of the jersey encircled the waistline. A circulet of jersey fell to the hands and a deep flounce edged the hem and modified chapel train.

The bride wore a white picture hat encircled with white French net, caught in a pouf in the back by a flower matching that on the dress. She carried a single long-stemmed red rose.

The matron of honor was Mrs. Anne B. Cannon. She wore a floor length gown of mint green matte jersey. The bodice had cap sleeves and a scooped neckline. Long sashes of the fabric crossed around the waistline and terminated in bows in the back which fell midway the long flowing skirt. Her picture hat was the same color as the dress and she carried a single long-stemmed rose.

The mother of the bride wore a maize yellow dress of peau de soie which featured a high-waistline with an A-line skirt centered with a deep pleat. She chose matching accessories and wore a corsage of yellow and white roses.

The mother of the bridegroom wore an aqua A-line dress of crepe textured knit. The V-neckline and bodice of the dress were accented with matching lace. Both wore corsages of white and yellow roses.

The paternal grandmother, Mrs. Vernon Mozingo, wore a corsage of white carnations.

Miss Barbara Long, organist, and Mrs. R.E. Deans Jr., soloist, presented a program of wedding music.

Bridesmaids were Miss Jean Whitley of Birmingham, Ala., Miss Carolyn Mozingo of Raleigh, and Miss Donna Mozingo, sisters of the bride, of Farmville, and Mrs. Garland Stephenson, sister-in-law, of Farmville. Their attire was the same as that of the matron of honor.

Ushers were Emmett Smith, Vernon Johnson, Gerald Whitfield, all of Raleigh, and Garland Mozingo, brother of the bride, from Farmville.

After the wedding, a reception was held in the reception room of the church, given by the parents of the bride. The reception room was decorated with a large candelabra and flower arrangement.

After a wedding trip to unannounced points, the couple will reside in Garner.

The bride is a psychiatric social worker at Dorothea Dix Hospital, Raleigh. The bridegroom is a supervisor of investigators with Pinkerton's of Raleigh. The bride is a graduate of the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and the bridegroom graduated from North Carolina State University.

Mrs. Chester Little of Greenville presided at the register.

SATURDAY REFRESHER Virginia Henkart's Wafers Iced Tea

VIRGINIA HENKART'S WAFERS
Fine recipe from a Port Washington, N.Y., hostess.

2 large egg whites
Pinch of salt
1-3rd cup sugar
2 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons butter, melted and cooled
1 teaspoon vanilla
1-3rd cup packaged thinly sliced blanched or natural almonds

Beat the egg whites and salt until frothy. Gradually beat in the sugar a little at a time and continue to beat until mixture holds stiff peaks. Sprinkle the flour over the mixture, folding it in as you do so. Add the butter and vanilla and fold in until blended. Fold in the almonds. Drop rounded teaspoonfuls of the batter at least 3 inches apart onto a buttered and floured cookie sheet; with a small metal spatula flatten each mound into a 2 1/2-inch round; bake only 4 to 6 wafers on a large cookie sheet at one time, otherwise there will be too many to handle before they harden. With a wide metal spatula remove a wafer and at once roll it up with your fingers and place seam side down on a wire rack; quickly treat other wafers the same way. Makes about 32.

SUNDAY SUPPER Cold Cucumber Soup Pasta Plus Salad

Strawberry Cake
PASTA PLUS
Delicious combination!
8-ounce package medium "seashell" macaroni
1/4 cup butter
1 cup diced cooked ham
8-ounce can small green peas, drained
1/2 cup freshly grated Parmesan cheese
Cook macaroni according to package directions; drain. Heat butter, ham and peas; add macaroni and mix well. Mix in Parmesan. Serve at once. Makes 4 servings.

INNSBRUCK, Austria (WNS)—The Slimmers Club fined members one dollar a week if they failed to lose weight. "We didn't take off many pounds, but we collected enough money to give a party that attracted single males," said treasurer Irma Meier, 27. "Now we have boy friends, which was the idea of slimming."

At Wit's End

By Erma Bombeck

A couple of years ago, one of our children announced, "I'm taking the summer off to find myself."

He didn't seem to look too hard.

I found him everywhere. Sprawled in front of the TV set, padding around the refrigerator in his bare feet, plugged into a stereo, hanging on the phone and tooting around in my car.

Late one afternoon when I went into his room to air his blanket out of the window, he fell out. That's when I confronted him. "Look," I said. "I did not go through 18 hours of labor to give you life just to sit around the house and suck ice cubes all day long. There's a new rule in this house...either get a job or go to summer school."

To date, he has taken such provocative summer subjects as History of the U. S. Frisbee Open, the Wit and Humor of Jane Fonda, Speed Talking (for people who have nothing to say), Worming Horses For Fun, Advanced Wig Styling, Stalking Euell Gibbons, How to Get Out of a Record Club, and Taking Dictation From a Man Who Mumbles.

A neighbor-psychologist said to me, "I don't want to frighten you but I think you're in the process of turning out what we call the perennial schoolboy. He's the boy who never grows up but just keeps taking course after course all through his lifetime to put off the reality of work."

My mind immediately recalled a cheerleader we had in college called Stan Helwig. He was 31 years old, had been attending school for the past 13 years and was only a second semester Freshman. He had switched his major eight times and gone through four university presidents. When the dorms went coed, he was the only one who could wander around without a robe and no one cared.

The very thought of raising a Stan Helwig depressed me.

"What are you doing this summer?" I asked my son.

He whipped out a summer school bulletin. "I don't know. It's a close choice between Foreign Policy of Millard Fillmore, Ethnic Obscenities or Advanced Party Piano."

"Get a job," I said. "It will open doors for you."

"What doors?"

"The front door, the refrigerator door and my car door for openers."

"I'll never find myself!" he sighed.

"Yeah, but this way you'll have money to hire someone to look for you."

I turned to the dog. Alone at last.

Couple Exchanges Vows In Ceremony On Sunday

GARDNERVILLE—The Timothy Church here was the scene of the Sunday afternoon wedding of Miss Jannette Estelle Humbles and Robert R. Lane Harris.

Officiating at the three o'clock, double ring ceremony was the Rev. Charles Triehart. Beverly Smith of Winterville sang "Because" and the "Wedding Prayer." Mrs. Paul Braxton of Winterville was organist.

Daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lee Humbles of Rt. 2, Ayden, the bride was given in marriage by her father. She wore a formal length gown of white sata peau designed with an empire bodice of Venice lace. Venice lace daisies accentuated the portrait neckline and edged the lace cuffs of the full shepherdess sleeves. The modified A-line skirt featured appliques of floral Venice lace with a deep ruffle flounce trimmed in lace edging the hemline.

She wore a chapel length mantilla edged in lace attached to a satin bow headpiece. The bride carried a nosegay bouquet of yellow roses, baby's breath and fuji mums with long yellow and green streamers.

The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Earline Brewer of Falkland, and the late Mr. Russell Harris.

The bride is a graduate of D.H. Conley High School and is a junior at East Carolina University. The bridegroom is a graduate of North Pitt High School.

MRS. ROBERT RLANE HARRIS

Mrs. Wilene Loftin of Rt. 2, Ayden, was the matron of honor.

Housewife Proudly Says 'Oikologist'

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1974 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd., Inc.

DEAR ABBY: My career is my home and family, and I am proud of it. But for some strange reason, when a housewife is asked what she does, she very apologetically says: "I'm ONLY a housewife." This irritates me no end.

When I am asked what I do, I proudly say: "I am an oikologist." The word comes from the Greek words "oikos," which means house, and "ologist" which means "one who studies" or "is an expert in."

Please pass this on to other housewives. Perhaps they will feel more important if they use it, too. OIKOLOGIST

DEAR OIK: I wouldn't recommend springing that on the average Joe without defining it. The "oikologist" might be mistaken for an expert on pigs.

DEAR ABBY: Judy, our 22-year-old daughter, is a graduate student, living out of state. She's pretty and popular and always has been a leader and an honor student.

Judy had written us about a very fine black girl she had become friendly with at college. We live in a small mid-western town and never had anything to do with the few black families who live on the highway.

Judy phoned a few days ago and asked if she could bring a young man home for a visit. I said: "Certainly."

Then she said: "He's black."

I asked: "HOW black?"

She said: "About as black as black can get." Then she went on to tell me that he was the brother of her college friend, also a graduate student, and an outstanding person, etc.

I managed to control my emotions, and asked whether she was serious about him. She said: "Possibly, but I don't think I'm lucky enough to get him." [My stomach turned over!]

Abby, no one in her father's family or mine would ever understand it if Judy were to marry a black man. I can see nothing but heartaches and problems ahead for her if she married him. I'm not a bigot, but we just aren't ready for something like this. I told her not to bring him home until I could prepare her father for the shock, so she said: "Unless you will treat him properly, I'd rather not subject him to any humiliation." That's where we left it.

Now, what do we do, Abby? SLEEPLESS NIGHTS

DEAR SLEEPLESS: Unless you and your husband can treat your daughter's friend as though he were a Caucasian with a suntan, tell her not to bring him home. But don't be surprised if Judy doesn't come either. She's old enough to choose her own friends. And by the way, what is your definition of a bigot?

DEAR ABBY: I hope you'll put this in your column for those nice people who are guilty, but are not aware of it.

Two months ago I had a breast removed, also the lymph glands under my arm. [Cancer.] I am doing fine, and I look fine, so I started to go to my club meetings and to church.

Just about every other person I meet is so happy to see me up and around again that they slap or grip my sore arm. I'm sure they don't realize how painful this is because they don't connect my operation with my arm.

They are dear people, and I wouldn't hurt them for the world, but, Abby, my arm is still swollen, has fever in it, and when it's gripped it hurts like mad. It's getting so I hate to go anywhere because I'm afraid of this painful greeting I'm sure to get.

Maybe some of those nice but slap-happy people will read this and take note. ACHING ARM

DEAR ACHING: Consider it done.

Author Says Book Best Understood By Women

By SANDRA GITTENS
NEW YORK (AP) — Ruth Klugman, author of "Love Affair," says she has given the world an intimate look into her relationship with famed American artist Jackson Pollock "in order to communicate to people."

She describes her six-months relationship with Pollock as one most often understood by women because "most of them have had somewhere in their lives a similar experience."

"Not necessarily with someone famous or with someone who died, or with someone who was married, but some kind of love that they went all the way with."

In the book, which took nearly three years to complete, she re-lives her 1956 affair with Pollock, which took place during the last six months of his life. She recounts the intense attraction between the two artists — he rich and famous, she aspiring to recognition; his neurotic need for love; the opposition she felt toward further involvement with him; and his death in an automobile accident which also claimed the life of one of Ruth's girl friends, while Ruth herself survived.

"I wrote the book," she said in an interview here, "to communicate to men what this particular man was like. And that even though he was a genius and a famous artist, he was very human, and in being very human, very feeling, which made him more and more real as far as I'm concerned."

"I wrote the book also to communicate to women, young women, all women, the experience that I had. The attraction was so magnetic."

"I wrote the book for the people who would be interested in exactly what the circumstances were about his death, because it has been kept rather secret. Perhaps people felt that if the truth were better known it would affect his prices, which is, of course, what our country is based upon — power and money. The fact that one innocent young girl died and another lived — I think that they'll do almost anything to pretend that it's just not true. The circumstances of his death were very unpleasant."

Miss Klugman is a petite and attractive woman in her late 30s with dark hair and dark eyes. Sitting in her Manhattan apartment filled with works of art, she recalled that one woman who came to interview her thought that she would be "a rather retiring lady who was still pining over a lost love."

This is not quite the case, although her memories of Pollock seem very much alive and compelling. She says that "even though a painting of his was sold for $2 million, which is the highest price ever paid for a painting by an American artist, people still don't know who he is."

"Maybe I lived to tell the story of Jackson Pollock" she says. "I mean, there are people in Ohio who don't know who Jackson is. He's not a household word yet. Maybe I lived to tell the world who Jackson Pollock is."

In hopes of furthering such knowledge of the artist, Miss Klugman is now trying to interest producers in making a film from the book. She wants Marlon Brando to play Jackson, but says she doesn't know whom she wants to play her.

"Just someone who understands the character. I would not like to hide my own disturbance."

After that, she has given herself a lifetime goal — that of writing film vehicles for women. To bring women back in films the way they were in the '30s and '40 and even parts of the '50s "where," she says, "they were glorious and glistening and feminine and not afraid to be strong and not afraid to scream and cry and to be tough."

"Not the little nasty anti-woman girl that we've been presented with on the screen who's a cutie-pie younger version of Doris Day," she adds. "That's not what women are."

"Women are like what Bette Davis used to be — screaming and crying and carrying on. And Barbara Stanwick and Joan Crawford and Greta Garbo. More women are like that than are like Doris Day, smiling all the time. More women want money and power and are ambitious, especially nowadays."

"I don't know why they cut that part of the female off from society. Why are women either whores or mothers in films? Women are very exciting creatures and always have been," she says.

Having been told she's going to live a very long life, Miss Klugman says she has a master plan: At least 10 books and a screen play over a long period of time.

"I feel I have something to say," she declares firmly.

Working On Doctor Shortage

A survey by the American Medical Association shows 85 counties in our state have an inadequate supply of doctors.

The study's indication was that distribution of the physicians was the problem in delivering adequate health care.

Caswell County was in the worst shape with .05 doctors per 1,000 persons. Orange County had 6.2 doctors and Durham County 5.4 physicians per 1,000 persons. These two counties, however, have the Chapel Hill and Duke Medical schools.

The study, based on statistics gathered two years ago, shows that 1,547 physicians would be needed in the 85 counties which do not now have an adequate number of physicians.

The shortage of physicians is a very real problem to the people of the counties which fall in the inadequately supplied category.

Fortunately North Carolina is attacking the problem of bringing better medical care to the more rural areas of our state.

As we know, health care was the overriding issue in this year's Legislature and expansion of the ECU medical school resulted from study of this critical problem. The Chapel Hill school is also in the midst of an expansion and state payments are being made to Duke and Bowman Gray for instate students. The AHEC program of establishing medical training centers throughout the state was funded and is under way and planning is getting under way on rural health centers.

North Carolina is a unique state in that it has a dispersed population. With planning, we can continue this ideal situation, but providing health care for the people in small towns and rural areas will be essential.

Our state doesn't have all the answers at present, but we are moving in the right direction. Hopefully the ECU school can fulfill its role of steering its graduates to family practice in smaller cities and towns. For the near future we can hope that some of the other programs spawned by the ECU medical school fight will be helpful in alleviating the problem.

The important thing is that our state is aware of its medical care problems and we are clearly committed to doing something about them. With that kind of determination the problems will be solved.

Steady Influx Of Arms, Men

By ROWLAND EVANS and ROBERT NOVAK

WASHINGTON — While Congress slashes away at President Nixon's new Vietnam budget covering both arms and aid, Hanoi is illegally sending more combat equipment and troops south of the old demilitarized zone (DMZ) than ever before in the 20-year war.

Intelligence available here puts infiltration of fresh, regular North Vietnamese troops into the South at 120,000 since the Jan. 28, 1973, ceasefire. This brings the North Vietnamese troop level to its strongest point. One reason for troop infiltration (flatly prohibited by the ceasefire accord): lack of Communist recruits available in the South.

Hanoi's recently expanding military operations in the South include an almost wanton use of ammunition. In the last 36 hours of fighting before the Communists captured the small South Vietnamese ranger outpost at Dak Pek May 16, nearly 10,000 shells and rockets were lobbed on the past manned by only 683 rangers.

Moreover, Hanoi has embraced strong anti-aircraft positions at strategic points in the highlands south of the DMZ, including 1,000 anti-aircraft guns and 16 surface-to-air missile launchers with a half-dozen missiles each.

Against this display of continuing support from Moscow and Peking for North Vietnam, the House reduced Mr. Nixon's arms-aid authorization request from $1.4 billion to $1.1 billion and the Senate seems certain to slash that further to $900 million. Even at last year's level of military aid, the U.S. was unable to replace South Vietnamese aircraft losses on the one-for-one basis agreed to in the ceasefire document.

A footnote: Despite the steady influx of Communist arms and men, the major offensive against the South long predicted for sometime in 1974 shows little sign of materializing. One reason may be Moscow-Peking pressure against it; but another clearly is the fact that Saigon's army is performing better than expected.

Chose Revelation By agreeing to surrender the additional tape recordings subpoenaed by special prosecutor Leon Jaworski, President Nixon could have kept secret the terribly damaging information that a federal grand jury wanted to brand him a Watergate conspirator.

What's more, the President was fully aware that his giving up the tapes might have kept the grand jury action secret until after House impeachment proceedings were completed.

Thus, the fact that Mr. Nixon instead adopted the stonewall strategy in refusing all additional tapes seems still more inexplicable and self-destructive. It suggests that either the additional tapes are too incriminating to surrender or that the White House legal defense is based on a wooden-headed stubbornness.

On Sunday, May 5, Jaworski informed Nixon defense lawyer James St. Clair what had been widely rumored but never firmly pinned down: the grand jury early this year voted unanimously to list Mr. Nixon as an unindicted co-conspirator in the Watergate cover-up but had been dissuaded by Jaworski from actually taking that step.

On that Sunday, Jaworski and St. Clair were negotiating over tapes of 64 additional Watergate-related conversations with high hopes by the prosecution that the White House would cooperate.

If Jaworski did not have to press his subpoena in court, there would be no immediate need to list all unindicted co-conspirators or reveal the grand jury vote on Mr. Nixon. Such information need not be given to defense lawyers for Watergate cover-up defendants until just before their trials began many months from now. By that time, House impeachment proceedings would probably be concluded. Furthermore, there was a chance that the information might be kept sealed indefinitely.

But late on the afternoon of Monday, May 6, St. Clair passed the surprising news to Jaworski that Mr. Nixon was going to stonewall on the latest tape requests after all. That forced a hearing on the subpoena behind closed doors May 10 in Judge John Sirica's court with all defense lawyers present. At that hearing, Jaworski revealed the unanimous grand jury vote against Mr. Nixon.

The wonder is that the news did not seep out to the public for another full month. A defense lawyer last week finally passed it on to the Los (Continued on page 5)

Strength For Today

ACCEPTING RESPONSIBILITY

The artist Leonardo da Vinci was said to have come to greatness through a very reluctant acceptance of responsibility. His teacher, Verrochio, was compelled to stop work on an epic picture hewas painting by the infirmities of old age. He therefore asked his young apprentice, da Vinci, to finish it for him. When the young man at first shrank back from the responsibility of completing a major work commissioned by a prince which would be on public display, his teacher said to him in great earnestness, "Do your best, da Vinci, and do it for my sake."

When the picture was completed it turned out to be finer than anything Verrochio had ever done, and started the young artist on the road to greatness.

Many of us shrink back from some task we feel unequal to perform but which may be a great opportunity if we would but try it. Life is the great chance which we all get and get but once. With courage and responsibility we can make the most of it. By Elisha Douglass

A HAND IN THIS YEAR'S VACATION PLANNING!

HORRIS

By JAMES J. KILPATRICK

The Milk Fund Muddle

The latest charge against President Nixon, churned up by a staff report from the Senate Watergate committee, is that the President accepted a bribe—that in return for a large pledge to his 1972 campaign, he granted the nation's dairymen in 1971 an increase in milk price supports.

The charge strikes me as spurious, but this should be said: If convincing evidence can be adduced under oath, proving that the President's action was directly conditioned upon the campaign pledge, we can forget all the other charges. If the bribery charge is true, Mr. Nixon ought to be impeached, tried, and ousted by sundown tonight. Let the scoundrel go.

But I have returned to Mr. Nixon's own statement on the milk affair, released by the White House on January 8, and that statement still strikes me with the bell-like ring of truth. The events of late 1970 and early 1971 cannot be viewed in a vacuum. When the political wheeling-and-dealing of the milk producers is considered in sum, and when account is given to the whole nature of political contributions, the case against Mr. Nixon collapses.

Consider for a moment a couple of not-so-hypothetical cases. Let us suppose that a major aircraft company, through its executives, makes large contributions to the campaign of a United States senator. On a crucial vote, involving millions of dollars in contracts, the senator votes with the company's position. In a certain House district where organized labor controls a potent vote, the AFL-CIO makes large contributions to the campaign of the congressman. The congressman subsequently votes for repeal of Section 14-b of Taft-Hartley, a vote worth millions to organized labor.

Are these "bribes"? Are the contributions and the votes directly linked? Or would the senator and the congressman have acted as they did out of personal conviction, or from sheer political self-interest?

In his January statement, Mr. Nixon made no bones about his own motivation. He overruled his secretary of agriculture, and granted the higher price support, for largely political reasons. He feared a Democrat-controlled Congress would vote the price increase if he failed to grant it by executive order. The Democrats would thus gain favor with the milk producers, and Mr. Nixon would offend a "vital political constituency."

The President also believed—correctly, as it turned out—that the public interest would be well served by the higher support price. The Senate staff aides who prepared the recent leaked report said the higher price was "worth hundreds of millions of dollars to the industry—and costing the same amount to the government and consumers."

That statement is a nice combination of demagoguery and falsehood. Outlays for milk supports actually dropped after Mr. Nixon's action—from $214 million in fiscal 1971 to $174 million in 1972.

The milk producers contributed $427,000 to the Nixon campaign. It was a fat sum. But the milk producers were buttering up everyone. One of the cartoonists recently depicted the milk lobby as a cow with 200 tits. In the last nine months of 1972, the milk producers gave away $1.5 million in political con-

Other Editors Say Crime Doesn't Pay?

(Raleigh News and Observer)

The late J. Edgar Hoover used to tell us that crime doesn't pay so it must be frustrating to his followers to see how his maxim has taken a beating these past few weeks.

The latest person to thumb his nose at Hoover's ghost is Jeb Stuart Magruder, the former Republican bigshot and now confessed Watergate criminal who faces 10 months in prison. Sunday, he was signing autographs and giving interviews like a movie star. He must have felt like one since his book, "An American Life, One Man's Road to Watergate," is bringing him a reported $100,000 in advance fees. The book is selling briskly.

His case is just one of several: John W. Dean III, former Nixon counsel and the mastermind of Watergate if one believes his ex-boss, recently purchased a $110,000 home in sunny southern California. Considering his disbarment and status as confessed crook, Dean's creditors must be terribly understanding people.

Not so understandable is the reception of such people by the public they bilked. Former Vice President Spiro Agnew is given ovations at concerts and is bankrolled for junkets to Greece. He too is getting a hefty sum for writing though he is attempting fiction. Not bad, cynics might say, for a fellow who couldn't tell the truth and stole from the taxpayers.

Then, there was the send-off given to Donald DeFreeze, the Symbionese Liberation Army general in charge of bank robbing and kidnapping. He was killed in a shootout with police, and watching television, one might have mistaken his funeral for the wake of a martyred peacemaker than a California terrorist.

Swindler Clifford Irving is out of prison and is beginning to reap a publishing bonanza likely to follow the extravagant publicity given his 1972 Howard Hughes hoax. Irving's wife, also out on probation, is recuperating in their home on Ibiza, a Mediterranean isle beyond the pocketbooks of most Americans. Looking at these cases, it would seem that crime does pay, if, as N. C. Supreme Court Justice Susie Sharp has ruefully observed, the offense attains a sufficient degree of notoriety.

No Letup In Credit Explosion

By JOHN CUNIFF AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — In the years from 1967 to 1973 there occurred what often is called an explosion of credit, amounting to $600 billion. And what are the projections for the next six years? Somewhere around $1.5 trillion.

This is the amount that government, business and households are expected to need if other projections are to be fulfilled, mainly those that call for a continued expansion of the economy and an upgrading of the quality of life.

Tremendous plans are on the agenda. Corporations hope to enlarge and make their plants more productive in order to reduce the shortages of goods. And they are being compelled by law to make their plants more ecologically acceptable and more wholesome for workers.

The federal government seems bent on providing more and more services and may be unable or unwilling to cut its increasing demands for financing. That means all other borrowers will have stiff competition for funds.

Individuals and households have learned to rely on credit to finance the life styles they have been led to believe are rightfully theirs, even if they haven't the cold cash in hand.

All these plans would seem reason for great excitement among financiers, but the truth is they are producing apprehension instead. Nobody really knows how all the money is going to be raised.

Speaking at a Conference Board meeting a few days ago, Dimitri N. Balatos, economist and vice president of Manufacturers Hanover Trust Co., listed some of the problem areas that worry some financial men.

Corporate profits could continue under pressure for the entire period, lessening the appeal of stock investments. High interest rates and labor costs, and demands for greater social responsibility, might cut into earnings.

The alternative to equity financing through the stock market is to borrow. But during this period some $25 billion of maturing bonds must be refinanced. That is, old bills must be paid before taking on new ones.

Russia No. 1: Teller

By LAWRENCE L. KNUTSON Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON — Soviet research and not spying has boosted Russia ahead of the United States in the nuclear arms race, the man commonly regarded as the father of the hydrogen bomb has told a Senate Committee.

Dr. Edward Teller used this testimony Monday to argue for an end to most secrecy surrounding nuclear technology. He said secrecy impedes the work of American scientists and fails to halt Russian nuclear progress.

The Soviets, Teller told the Senate Government Operations Committee, "are moving ahead at a rapid rate while we are practically standing still. There is no doubt, Russia is No. 1," he said.

Teller said he believes word of any major scientific breakthrough in the United States will reach the Soviet Union in a year or less.

"The number of people to whom the main lines of relevant information about nuclear weapons is available is probably between 100,000 and one million," Teller said.

"Under these conditions one must accept the conclusion that nuclear secrets, as a general rule, are secrets in name only," he said.

Teller proposed that Congress legislate declassification of most basic scientific information immediately and create a two-year classification for some details.

Little information deserves to be held longer or more securely, Teller said.

"I believe that only essential details, blueprints and descriptions on how to make nuclear weapons effective can continue to be safeguarded on the relatively informal basis of U.S. proprietary information," he said.

While novel ideas and plans for such weapons can be classified for the two-year period, he said, "the general ideas concerning nuclear weapons should be made available to the public."

Teller said he has concluded reluctantly that scientific in-

Prison Term For Trio In 'Contract' Slaying

GREENSBORO (AP) — Three Ft. Bragg area residents pleaded guilty Monday in the "contract" slaying of Pvt. Michael Alan Griffin last Dec. 31 and were given prison terms in U.S. District Court.

Pvt. Patrick Dean Wills, 22, of Ft. Bragg and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Marlene Martino, 42, were given life sentences by Judge Hiram H. Ward. Wills was charged with murder and Mrs. Martino was accused of conspiracy to commit murder.

Griffin's widow, Mrs. Dorit Lynn Griffin, 25, charged with second degree murder, was sentenced to 24 years in prison.

An FBI agent testified his investigation showed that Griffin, also stationed at Ft. Bragg, was killed by shotgun blasts in the chest and back. The agent said Mrs. Griffin had confessed she entered a $1,000 "contract" with Mrs. Martino and Wills for the slaying of her husband.

Mrs. Griffin, choking back sobs, took the stand after Mrs. Martino and Wills were sentenced. She testified that she and Griffin were married in July, 1973, in Missouri where they both were serving in the Army. She said her husband was transferred to Ft. Bragg and that she joined him there two months later.

She said after she arrived, her husband asked for a divorce on four occasions. Mrs. Griffin said she had met Mrs. Martino, Wills and his wife, and that "a mother-daughter relationship" had developed between her and Mrs. Martino.

Mrs. Griffin said Mrs. Martino and Wills suggested to her that she should get rid of her husband. She said that after she found him in their mobile home with a topless dancer, he threatened to have her killed.

Mrs. Griffin testified that she wrote the "contract" in her own handwriting as dictated by Mrs. Martino and then she, Mrs. Martino and Wills signed it.

The FBI agent said Mrs. Griffin told him that she received her husband's "severance pay" a few days after his death, amounting to $1,956, and that she used $1,000 of the sum to pay off the contract.

Mrs. Griffin said that once when she said she loved her husband and could not go through with the contract, Mrs. Martino and Wills told her if she did not she would suffer a slow death by torture. She said she was afraid of them to the point that she did not reveal the plot.

Mrs. Griffin said that when Mrs. Martino told her at a New Year's eve party that the job had been done she began crying. Mrs. Martino, she said, told her "to shape up."

Mrs. Martino, shaking and sobbing, told the judge that she pleaded with Wills not to shoot Griffin. "I didn't want them to do it," she said.

Wills made no statement to the court.

CHICAGO (AP) — The Boy Scouts of America faces charges by some paid staff members that it padded membership rolls and possibly cheated to gain additional federal money.

"If we were in the business of covering it up, it could be the Watergate of the Boy Scouts," responds Alden G. Barber, chief executive of the Boy Scouts.

"Some of our people cheat—quite frankly" on membership rolls, Barber added. "While we always felt that scouting should expand and grow, we never condoned or encouraged less than ethical practices or conduct."

But Barber said Monday he hadn't heard of possible cheating to gain federal funds until a two-part series that began Sunday in the Chicago Tribune.

The problem apparently lies in the $65 million "Boypower '76" recruitment campaign that began in 1968 to add two million boys to scouting ranks by 1976. The program, designed to push total Scout membership to six million, is nearly two years behind schedule.

Barber said some staff members apparently created fictitious members and troops to reach membership quotas.

He said the organization has known about the abuses since August and that national Boy Scout headquarters in North Brunswick, N.J., has investigated 10 local councils. He said disciplinary actions are expected shortly in three cities. He declined to name them.

Barber said the number of phantom scouts isn't known but that the cheating seems confined mainly to the professional organization.

The Tribune said additional federal money was obtained through the padding procedures.

The Tribune reported that some staff members said difficulties seem particularly critical in Chicago, home of the Boy Scouts' largest council. Some Scout executives estimated that only about 25 to 50 per cent of the city's 87,000 registered Scouts actually exist.

Under the Model Cities program in which the federal government pays the dues of inner-city blacks and Latin Americans, the Chicago council received $341,000 in federal funds during the last four years for more than 40,000 poor youngsters.

Joseph J. Klein, executive head of the Chicago area council, said the charges would be investigated but added: "Our contracts with government agencies have been audited annually, approved and refunded for six years. I doubt that if anything was drastically wrong, we would have been refinanced."

Advices No Isolation

NEW YORK (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford says the United States should not withdraw into a shell of isolationism by unilaterally reducing its military troops overseas.

"I strongly favor a mutual reduction in forces," Ford told 1,600 persons attending a Monday night banquet sponsored by the United Nations Association of the United States of America.

But he stressed that "unilateral U.S. troop cutbacks would be foolhardy. It would undermine our negotiations with the Soviet Union directed at mutual force reductions in Central Europe."

He praised the Senate for defeating proposals last week to unilaterally cut American ground troops and airmen stationed abroad.

"The Senate action is a healthy rebuff to those who would push us in the direction of neo-isolationism," said Ford.

He also lauded Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and President Nixon for the Middle East truce.

Firemen Picket In Charlotte

CHARLOTTE (AP) — A spokesman for the Charlotte chapter of the International Firefighters Association (IFA) says off-duty firemen will picket City Hall again today to back up demands for a 16.5 per cent pay raise.

More than 50 firemen began parading in front of City Hall Monday and the spokesman said they would return during city business hours for an indefinite time.

The firemen, who are not on strike, say a 7.5 per cent pay boost in the proposed city budget is not sufficient.

The city council is currently holding hearings on 1974-75 budget.

Saudis To Take Aramco Control

NEW YORK (AP) — Saudi Arabia plans to take over majority ownership of Arabian American Oil Co., the world's largest oil producer with an estimated 8.5 million barrels a day.

Aramco's announcement on the takeover Monday said the Saudis will increase their ownership of the company from 25 to 60 per cent. No financial details were disclosed.

The move confirmed expectations that Saudi Arabia, which has the world's largest known oil reserves, would seek greater control. Some industry experts had suggested the Saudis might demand 100 per cent control.

Aramco was founded in 1933 by the Standard Oil Co. of California. In later years, its ownership was expanded to include Texaco, Inc., Exxon Corp. and Mobil.

Saudi Arabia took a 25 per cent share two years ago. This was scheduled to increase gradually to 51 per cent by 1983.

An Aramco spokesman said the four U.S. owners would meet in July with Saudi Arabian representatives to work details.

He said the oil companies would have a contractual arrangement to buy most of the oil produced from the government's share of the company's operations.

Rawleigh Warner Jr., chairman of Mobil, has said he hoped the final agreement with Saudi Arabia would be similar to the recent one in which Kuwait assumed 60 per cent ownership of oil company operations.

Aramco produces 96 per cent of Saudi Arabia's oil. Two other firms operating in the country produce a combined 260,000 barrels a day.

Democrat Wins House Seat

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Democrat John Burton has won election to the congressional seat recently vacated by GOP Rep. William S. Mailliard, the new U.S. ambassador to the Organization of American States.

San Francisco and Marin County voter registrars said Monday a canvass gave Burton 73,114 votes, or just 40 votes more than the 50 per cent he needed to avoid a runoff. He was one of eight candidates seeking the post. His victory was the fifth by Democrats this year in special congressional elections for seats Republicans formerly held.

Republican Thomas D. Caylor, who ran second to Burton with 30,908, will oppose him in November in the new 5th Congressional District.

He said the oil companies would have a contractual arrangement to buy most of the oil produced from the government's share of the company's operations.

Gets Wish To Be 'Flying Nun'

ST. MARYS, Pa. (AP) — Sister Luitgard, who's 97, finally got her wish to be a flying nun.

To celebrate her 75th year as a nun, the Roman Catholic sisters at St. Joseph's convent in this northeastern Pennsylvania community gave Sister Luitgard her first plane ride.

She left Bradford Airport Monday morning in a propjet and arrived in Pittsburgh an hour later. She plans a return flight sometime later this week.

N.C. Justice Dept. Control Given High Importance

By ROBERT B. CULLEN
Associated Press Writer
RALEIGH (AP)—The announcement that James H. Carson will be North Carolina's next attorney general underscores the importance both parties are placing on control of the Justice Department this year.

Gov. Jim Holshouser normally takes his time with appointments. But he called a news conference Monday to state that Carson, a judge on the state Court of Appeals, will be his choice to succeed Robert Morgan.

Holshouser will be able to appoint Carson to the position when Morgan resigns in mid-September. Carson will have to run against the Democratic nominee in November but he will be able, by virtue of Holshouser's announcement, to start campaigning almost immediately.

The attractiveness of the attorney general's job goes beyond its salary.

Morgan has demonstrated in the past five years that an aggressive attorney general can turn the Department of Justice into much more than the passive "legal firm for the state" that it once was.

Morgan fought the utilities companies in their rate increase hearings with Justice Department personnel. His consumer protection division, while it concentrated primarily on fly-by-night shysters, made an impression with the voters.

Morgan demonstrated that the office can be a stepping stone to greater things by giving its holder a commodity more precious in politics than gold: favorable news exposure.

A little noticed action of the 1973 legislature has made the past even more important to both Holshouser and to the Democrats.

There are, depending on when, where and by whom the count is taken, about eight other contenders.

H. M. "Mickey" Michaux of Durham is a state legislator whose role in the race is likely to be as a gathering point for blacks. Michaux's support will likely go to the candidate who gives the best promise of dispensing some of his patronage to blacks.

Wake County District Attorney Burley Mitchell and Superior Court Judge Dennis Winner of Asheville appear to be dark horses who might emerge as compromise candidates.

The picture might be clear if some of the established leaders in the party — Morgan, Lt. Gov. Jim Hunt, Duke University President Terry Sanford, etc. — would give one of the candidates an endorsement.

They are not about to do so because they fear alienating a sector of the party and hampering their own political futures.

But they will undoubtedly be working behind the scene to try to nominate a candidate who will be amenable to them, electable in November, and who will not emerge as a rival at some future date.

Direct-Dial In Phoning Urged

Customers of Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company are being urged to use Direct Distance Dialing station-to-station in placing long distance calls.

According to Don A. Collier, District Commercial Manager for the company, calls placed by Direct Distance Dialing will go through faster and with less inconvenience to the customer than those calls placed through the operator.

Collier encouraged telephone users to dial their own long distance calls whenever possible since there is less operator handling time on those calls.

"Contrary to rumors in some areas, the company's business offices are open during the regular hours," Collier said. He also reminded customers that payments can be made by mail without going to the business office or an authorized collecting agent.

Collier said that a meeting of the company and CWA Union bargaining teams as well as a representative of both the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service and the N. C. Department of Conciliation Services was scheduled at 1:00 today.

He expressed appreciation for the public's understanding of the present situation and encouraged continued use of Direct Distance Dialing on a station-to-station basis. Collier concluded by stating that unfortunately local telephone installations must be limited to emergency needs because of the employee walk-out.

Quiz IRS On Talk Of Quota System

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Internal Revenue Service faces questioning by a Senate panel on charges that it works with a quota system that can victimize taxpayers and reward agents for harshness.

IRS Commissioner Donald Alexander was scheduled to appear today before an appropriations subcommittee holding hearings on IRS operations.

Sen. Joseph Montoya, D-N.M., chairman of the panel, said among topics to be discussed with IRS are a taxpayer bill of rights, jeopardy assessments, quota production pressure and proposals to audit the tax collecting agency.

Today's session is a continuation of hearings that started in April when witnesses accused IRS of violating peoples' rights, defying federal law and operating with a system that stresses numbers of cases closed instead of the manner in which they were handled.

One earlier witness, Vincent L. Connery, president of the National Treasury Employees Union, said initiatives to meet taxpayer needs and ease discontent have been announced by IRS but "no matter how highly they may trumpet these initiatives, they are no more than cosmetic reforms."

Another witness during the April hearings, Joseph N. Ingolia, a U.S. tax court commissioner, said IRS fails to tell taxpayers their rights at the beginning of a tax dispute and often misinforms when it does.

Asks State Bd. Rule On Winner

HENDERSON, N. C. (AP) — John Adcox, chairman of the Vance County Board of Elections, said Monday he had asked the State Board of Elections to settle the outcome of the recent second primary for sheriff.

The county board met Monday and was unable to reach a decision in the matter.

Adcox voted against a recount sought by Willie J. Curin and board member John Mundy voted for a recount.

The third member of the board, Ries Finch, missed the meeting because of illness.

Incumbent Lynwood Falkner was a 14-vote winner over Curin.

Wilbur Mills Wants Controls

By EDMOND LeBRETON
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Wilbur D. Mills says that even though wage-price curbs may be "anathema to many," the controls should be reimposed to help combat inflation.

The Arkansas Democrat, chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee, sounded the appeal Monday as concern over inflation was voiced on both sides of Capitol Hill and both chambers wrestled with various tax reform and tax cut proposals.

Mills suggested the controls should be similar to those in effect in 1972 under Phase 2 of the now discontinued Nixon economic program, but should be mandatory rather than left to presidential discretion. He ruled out price rollbacks.

Mills said the lawmakers cannot blame failure of leadership on the problems Nixon is having—an apparent reference to Watergate and the impeachment inquiry.

The Treasury had no immediate comment.

However, Chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex., of the House Banking Committee, which has jurisdiction over controls legislation, said: "It is a fact of life that the continuation of wage-price controls was defeated overwhelmingly earlier this year in the Banking and Currency Committee and I know of no change in that sentiment."

He said the committee might consider reopening the issue "if the administration makes a sincere promise to carry out a wage-price law," but that he sees no indication of this.

Senate sources said they know of no move there to consider reimposing controls.

Tax reform proponents in the Senate continued laying the groundwork for an effort to make their proposals riders to a minor House-passed bill. However, its consideration was delayed, at least until Thursday.

Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., told the Senate Finance Committee Monday that loophole-closing legislation could bring in an extra $10 billion annually and that $6.5 billion of the gain should be used to give relief and provide more buying power to consumers. He struck out especially at what he called syndicated tax shelters, arranged by middlemen to help high-income persons invest in farming and other operations where special tax advantages are available.

Meanwhile, the House Ways and Means Committee, which is working on a tax reform bill, received but took no immediate action on a Treasury proposal to limit farm tax advantages more nearly to working farmers.

Final Senate Vote On Weapons Bill Is Near

By HARRISON HUMPHRIES
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — A further cut in military aid to South Vietnam was proposed today as the Senate neared a final vote on a $21.8 billion military weapons procurement bill.

A $750 million ceiling on military assistance furnished through the Defense Department was advocated in an amendment by Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., Alan Cranston, D-Calif., and Stuart Symington, D-Mo.

The Nixon administration is requesting $1.6 billion in South Vietnamese military assistance for the 12 months beginning July 1, compared with $1.126 billion allowed by Congress for the current fiscal year.

The House last month voted to set the ceiling for next year at this year's level. The Senate Armed Services Committee is recommending a reduction to $900 million.

Other amendments to be considered before a final vote late this afternoon would allow funds to begin development of a new nuclear ballistic missile submarine smaller than the new Trident, and to set an over-all ceiling on military procurement and research and development expenses for the coming year.

The Senate gave the go-ahead Monday to new research programs to increase the accuracy and yield of U.S. Minuteman III intercontinental ballistic missiles and develop a new terminally guided maneuverable re-entry vehicle for both land-based and submarine-launched strategic missiles.

An amendment to defer the programs until the President certified that SALT II arms limitation talks with the Soviet Union had failed to produce agreement on MIRV (multiple independently targeted re-entry vehicles) control was defeated 48 to 37.

Sens. Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., and Edward W. Brooke, R-Mass., sponsors of the amendment, said accuracy-yield improvements might appear to the Soviets to threaten their offensive weapons and possibly provoke them to strike first before their missiles were destroyed.

Accept Candy

GREENSBORO (AP) — Kevin McAuley of High Point got a quarter and three penny pieces of peppermint candy in change after he bought $3.72 worth of merchandise at a Greensboro department store Sunday.

The store, K-Mart, was short of pennies.

Later, Mrs. McAuley and her mother decided to find out if the candy was really worth a penny. They went back to the store and gave the cashier 82 cents in coins and two pieces of peppermint candy for an 84 cent purchase.

The cashier didn't know what to do.

Seems, the store had been giving candy, but not accepting it.

"The manager sort of threw up his hands," Mrs. Simons said. "But, he approved the transaction."

Winter Wheat Crop Estimate Is Reduced

WASHINGTON (AP) — Drought and disease has reduced the nation's expected harvest of winter wheat, a crop which normally provides three-fourths of the nation's consumer bread grain.

The Agriculture Department said Monday that winter wheat prospects declined 5 per cent last month. As of June 1, production for 1974 was estimated at 1.53 billion bushels, the Crop Reporting Board said.

Although it would still be a record crop, the new estimate was down 81 million bushels from the government's forecast one month earlier. It means less wheat will be on tap for U.S. consumers and foreign customers than thought previously.

Officials said most of the decline during the month occurred in the southern Great Plains, Kansas, which normally produces the largest harvest, was estimated at 384.2 million bushels. That was down 22.6 million bushels, or 6 per cent from May's estimate.

The board said "lack of moisture and disease" contributed to the decline of the crop in Kansas and elsewhere.

Despite the drought since May, the new winter wheat estimate still could be a record, up 21 per cent from 1973 output as farmers—responding to higher prices—stepped up planting sharply. The crop, however, is sorely needed to replenish dwindling U.S. stockpiles, smallest in 27 years.

But Kansas wheat authorities say the state crop estimate by the USDA is still too high and that it is more likely to total around 300 million bushels.

Meanwhile, according to USDA, the reserve of old-crop wheat on July 1 will dip to 170 million bushels, the lowest level since 1947. Huge export demands have accounted for the shrinkage. Out of a then-record crop last year of 1.7 billion bushels, the most recent USDA figures show some 1.2 billion were exported.

Officials have projected, strictly on probability, that the spring wheat crop will yield 560 million bushels. But Monday's report indicated farmers on June 1 were far behind in spring planting, raising questions that spring wheat output will reach the projected mark. If it does, total wheat production this year still could be more than 2 billion bushels and supply more than enough for domestic use and expected exports in the year beginning July 1.

When Schmidt Hit The Roof, He Really Did

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

One of these days someone is really going to hit the roof at the Houston Astrodome. Mike Schmidt did Monday night ... in a matter of speaking.

The Philadelphia Phillies' infielder hit a ball in the first inning that appeared headed for home run territory in center field before it bounced off a speaker hanging from the roof of the chic glass house.

The ball fell back on the field and Schmidt got only a distinguished single out of it. Was he mad—even though the Phillies won the game, 12-0.

"If I'm one short of winning the National League home run title, I'll think back to this one that I didn't get," said Schmidt. "There's no doubt in my mind that it would have been a home run except for that speaker."

Houston centerfielder Cesar Cedeno thought so, too: "That ball might have hit the flag above the electronic scoreboard in centerfield if it hadn't hit the speaker."

As it was, the base hit was beneficial to the Philadelphia cause. It loaded the bases and set the stage for Bill Robinson's two-run double. A sacrifice fly by Mike Anderson staked Jim Lonborg to an early, three-run lead. It was all downhill after that.

In the other National League games Monday night, the Montreal Expos trimmed the Cincinnati Reds 3-1 in a rain-shortened, eight-inning game; the St. Louis Cardinals beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-2 in 11 innings and the San Diego Padres stopped the Pittsburgh Pirates 9-8.

Expos 3, Reds 1
Pitcher Steve Renko tripled home one run and scored another to lead Montreal over Cincinnati in a game called after eight innings because of rain.

Cardinals 4, Dodgers 2
Joe Torre led off the 11th inning with a home run into the left field pavilion at Dodger Stadium, helping St. Louis beat Los Angeles.

After Torre's blast off reliever Charlie Hough, 6-2, the Cardinals eventually added an insurance run on Jack Heide-mann's single. Cardinal reliever Orlando Pena, 4-0, was the winner.

Padres 9, Pirates 8
Horace Clarke delivered a run-scoring single with two out in the ninth inning, capping a wild five-run rally that lifted San Diego over Pittsburgh.

Pittsburgh built an 8-0 lead through 7½ innings, but starter Jim Rooker and a string of four relief pitchers could not save off the Padres, who rallied for four runs in the bottom of the eighth and five in the ninth.

American League scores:
Texas 6, Detroit 3; New York 7, California 5; Boston 4, Oakland 1 and Minnesota 9, Baltimore 1.

Elks Nip Pepsi, 6-5

Terry Skinner, Don White and Emmett Walsh provided key blasts yesterday as the Elks took a 6-5 victory over Pepsi-Cola in the Tar Heel Little League.

Skinner and Walsh both hit homers, the latter one providing the winning margin.

The Elks scored first, getting two runs in the second. William Sneed reached on a fielder's choice and Skinner followed with his home run, making it 2-0.

Pepsi-Cola came up with three in the third to push ahead. Mark Shank singled and Mickey McGrath got a hit. David McClanahan singled, driving in Shank. Mike Campbell got a hit to score McGrath and another single, by Rickey Sutton, scored McClanahan.

In the fourth, Pepsi picked up two more for a 5-2 lead. Jeff Wilson walked and with two down, McGrath slapped a home run.

But the Elks charged back with three in the fifth to tie it up. Tony Burroughs walked and Chris Ross singled. Both moved up on a passed ball and Lenn Jackson's hit brought in Burroughs. White followed with a triple, scoring Ross and Jackson to knot it at 5-5.

Then, in the sixth, with two down, Walsh unloaded another home run, pushing the Elks out 6-5, and they held that for the win.

USC, Miami In Showdown Game

By DAN EVEN
AP Sports Writer

OMAHA, Neb. (AP) — Who's really No. 1 in college baseball?

Southern California Coach Rod Dedeaux is one person who would like to know, and he has a good candidate for the top spot—his own Trojans.

"We've beat one team that was rated No. 1, now we have a chance to see if Miami is the best," said Dedeaux after his team scored a 5-3 victory over Southern Illinois in the 28th College World Series Monday night.

That earned Southern California a Wednesday night game against Miami, 50-9, the only other unbeaten team still remaining in the double-elimination showdown for the national crown.

Southern California came to the series with a 45-19 record—poorest by a Dedeaux-coached team in 22 years—and rated no better than fifth in the poll conducted by Collegiate Baseball newspaper.

Texas, which shares the No. 1 poll spot with Miami, was Southern California's first-round victim, and No. 4 Southern Illinois could do no better in stalling the Trojans' bid for a fifth straight title.

"We never lost our poise," said Dedeaux about the comeback victory. "It was another excellent example of what I call 'Trojan spirit.'"

Miami used a superb clutch pitching performance to topple Oklahoma 5-1, Southern Illinois downed Seton Hall 5-1 and Texas eliminated Seton Hall 12-2 in other games on Monday's four-game card.

Texas, 53-7, faces Oklahoma, 43-7, and Northern Colorado, 32-12, battles Southern Illinois, 48-11, in losers' bracket elimination games tonight.

Southern Illinois took a 3-0 lead in the second inning against Southern California without hitting the ball out of the infield.

And the inning also saw home plate umpire Al Alford first call a Southern Illinois runner out at the plate, but later reverse his decision after a lengthy discussion.

The unusual play saw Southern Cal catcher Ed Putnam tag the runner out, although there was no force out.

"It was a judgement play," said Dedeaux, who argued for 15 minutes, but to no avail. "The umpire obviously judged the runner out. He made the decision, and he should have stuck by it."

Two Southern Illinois errors helped the Trojans score two runs in the fourth and they took the lead in the sixth on a double, a fielder's choice, Ken Huizenga's run-scoring single and a double by freshman Bobby Mitchell.

Mark Barr, younger brother of the San Francisco Giants' Jim, was the winning pitcher, tossing a five-hitter and striking out eight to run his record to 10-1.

Builders Take Lead; College View In Win

Home Builders moved into sole possession of first place in the Babe Ruth League last night with a 6-4 win over Pepsi-Cola. College View took over second by downing last place Planters Bank, 7-1, in the second game.

The Builders are now 6-2, while Pepsi is 5-3. College View moved past Pepsi with a 5-2 mark, while Planters is 0-7.

Home Builders picked up a pair of runs in the second inning. Ken Kuntz reached on an error and was safe at second on Lance Wetherington's fielder's choice. An error on that let both advance, and a passed ball scored Kuntz. A wild pitch then let Wetherington score for the 2-0 lead.

They added another in the third. Wright Hooks reached on a two-base error and moved up when Joe Godette reached on an error. Wetherington singled to score Hooks.

Another scored in the fifth. Godette doubled and came around on another double by Kuntz.

The final pair scored in the sixth. Ronnie Chapman was hit by a pitch and took second on a passed ball. He stole third and Mark Conway walked. A passed ball scored Chapman and let Conway race all the way to third. He scored on Godette's hit.

All four Pepsi runs came over in the seventh. Hooks had been floating along with a three-hitter until that point, but Pepsi finally got to him. Derek Brewington led off with a single and moved up on a passed ball. Worth Albra singled and a hit by Kevin Haut scored Brewington. Mickey Finn singled in Albra and Marthy Worthington's single scored Haut. Finn took third on a passed ball and scored on Billy Ellington's hit.

College View pushed into the lead in the first inning with a run. Jay Chenier doubled, took third on an error and scored on Ross Hawkins' sacrifice fly.

They added another in the second. Chenier singled and stole second, moving to third on an error. Hawkins doubled to drive him in.

College View added two more in the fifth. Chenier doubled and stole second, scoring on Mike Sutton's double. Sutton took third on an out and scored on an error.

Planters got its only run in the sixth. Freager Sanders doubled and was wild pitched the rest of the way around.

Three more College View runs scored in the seventh. Bubber Rowlette walked and Chenier singled. Both moved up on a wild pitch and Gene Pitt man singled to score both of them. Hawkins reached on an error and Michael Shank was safe on a fielder's choice. Pittman and Shank then pulled a double steal, with Pittman scoring the final run.

Jeff Aldridge tossed a three-hitter in the contest for College View, fanning 10 and walking only three.

Martin Happy At Homecoming

By ALEX SACHARE
AP Sports Writer

Billy Martin learned Monday night that yes, you can go home again.

Martin, a crowd pleaser in Detroit during his three years as manager of the Tigers, made his first appearance in Detroit as skipper of the Texas Rangers Monday night and walked away with a 6-3 victory.

He received an ovation from the Tiger Stadium crowd of 22,696 when he took the lineup card to home plate before the game, and also was cheered loudly when he argued a pick-off call in the third inning. But in the eighth, when he went out to the mound to make a pitching change, there were a few boos mixed in with the cheers.

Martin said he was very pleased by the reaction he received from the Tiger fans: "I don't know how other managers would feel but when you come back to the town you managed in and they cheer you like that, it really made me feel good."

Elsewhere in the American League, the Boston Red Sox beat the Oakland A's 4-1, the New York Yankees trimmed the California Angels 7-5 and the Minnesota Twins routed the Baltimore Orioles 9-1.

After leading the Tigers to the American League East pennant in 1972, the mercurial Martin was fired by Detroit general manager Jim Campbell last September. Shortly after he signed a five-year contract to manage the Rangers, a young team which he has spurred into second place in the AL West, just two games behind Oakland.

Red Sox 4, A's 1
Dwight Evans' three-run homer and Luis Tiant's stand-out pitching carried the Red Sox past the A's in a battle of division leaders.

Evans lofted a fastball from Vida Blue down the right field line in the fifth inning and it just curled inside the foul pole for the homer, capping the decisive four-run inning.

Yankees 7, Angels 5
Lou Piniella drove in the winning run with an eighth inning double and then scored an insurance tally in the Yankees' triumph over California.

Twins 9, Orioles 1
The Minnesota Twins erupted for five runs in the seventh inning and coasted to victory over the Orioles. Tony Oliva laced a two-run single and Bobby Darwin smacked a two-run triple in the inning.

Minnesota starting pitcher Ray Corbin was removed from the game in the first inning after being struck on the pitching hand by a line drive. X rays revealed a bruise at the base of the right thumb.

National League scores:
Philadelphia 12, Houston 0; Houston 3, Cincinnati 1; San Diego 9, Pittsburgh 8, and St. Louis 4, Los Angeles 2 in 11 innings.

Williams Hasn't Missed Finley, But Does Miss Game Of Baseball

By WICK TEMPLE
AP Sports Editor
NEW YORK (AP) — Won't somebody please hire Dick Williams? The manager who was fished out of baseball by Charles O. Finley belongs to the game like peanuts and resin.

Williams made a vicarious comeback Monday night as a commentator on the NBC telecast of the Red Sox-Oakland A's game, which Boston won 4-1.

It was painfully obvious he would rather have been down on the field. Williams managed both the Sox and the A's to World Series victories, and he knows the teams and the game better than he knows the whiskeys in his gray mustache.

But if there is no managerial spot open to the gregarious Williams, he should land a TV contract. He could contribute a great deal to the troubled sport with his easy expertise and his natural ability to speak lucidly.

Except for the onerous chore of reading the lineups, Williams came across like an old pro on the tube. At times, you couldn't tell the amateur from the regulars.

Williams behaved himself.

Despite nudging from NBC announcers Curt Gowdy and Tony Kubek, he did not put the bite on Finley.

Asked if he missed the A's, Williams answered carefully, "I miss the ball players. We met before the game and it was enjoyable."

In an interview before the game, Williams told The AP, "I miss baseball, but not Mr. Finley. I haven't missed Mr. Finley since last Oct. 22—the day I resigned."

Williams quit the A's after winning the World Series last year. He said during the winter that the final straw was Finley's attempt to replace infielder Mike Andrews on the roster after Andrews made two errors in a Series game.

"Mr. Finley said in March I was free to manage any club except the New York Yankees," Williams said. Asked if he had contacted any teams or had been contacted, he responded, "Negative, both ways. I've been busy doing a lot of traveling for Mr. MacArthur."

Williams works now as a public relations executive for Florida real estate tycoon John MacArthur.

The Yankees wanted Williams and they had an opening. Finley at first gave his consent to Williams' leaving the A's with two years left on his contract. Then Finley demanded players from the Yankees and when they refused, he went to the league and then to court to enforce Williams' contract. Williams couldn't manage for two years.

But he says he is keeping up with baseball.

Asked if he would like to manage the American League All-Star team, Williams said, "(American League President) Lee MacPhail and (Baltimore Orioles Manager) Earl Weaver said on the banquet circuit that I should. I would like to manage the All-Star team. But I think they have a manager and I wouldn't know what uniform to wear."

As for his TV commentary, it was crisp and authoritative.

Williams explained the half-concrete, half-metal left-field wall in Boston's Fenway Park; the books managers keep on opposing players; Vida Blue ("he's riding that fast ball ..."); the qualities of a good umpire, and how to tell when a pitcher is tiring.

It added something.

NFL Owners, Players Go Back To Bargaining Tables Again Today

NEW YORK (AP) — National Football League owners and players, having played to standoffs in their earlier meetings, will scrimmage across the bargaining table again today in an attempt to settle their differences and prevent a strike on July 1.

They meet here today, Wednesday and Thursday, with nine more meetings scheduled through July 3, if necessary.

If there is no resolution by the end of Thursday's meeting, sessions are scheduled for Washington June 18, 19 and 20, in New York June 25, 26 and 27, with a return to Washington for meetings July 1, 2 and 3.

Ed Garvey, executive director of the NFL Players Association, has called July 1 as the deadline for the strike, however, saying the walkout would include rookies and could force partial arbitration. Last week, the NFL Management Council—the owners' version of a players association—released figures which claimed that the average profit per club last season was $472,500. Garvey and the NFLPA dispute those figures, although the only team to make their financial statement public was the Houston Oilers, who claimed they lost $459,000. Bill Curry, who plays for the Oilers and is president of the players' association, said: "It's important to me the public realizes we're not just a bunch of greedy slob trying to steal the owners' money and ruin the game."

"We're willing to work and meet around the clock to get a settlement."

City Leaders Post Victories

The leaders in both divisions of the City Softball League picked up victories last night. Gold leader Kentucky Fried Chicken is now 12-0 on the year, while Purple Division leader Little Sluggers is 10-2, but has eliminated all but two of the teams in its division from any chance at the title.

In the opening game on Field Two, the Jaycees rolled to a 21-7 win over Grady-White. The Jaycees got three in the first on Goldfarb's homer. They added three more in the second, and pushed over four more in the third. Four scored in the fourth, three in the fifth and four in the seventh on homers by Rivenbark and Joyner. Grady-White picked up three in the third, one in the fourth and three in the seventh.

Kentucky Fried Chicken scored a 4-1 win over Hallow's in the second game. KFC scored three runs in the first, with J. Clark homering. The other run came in the sixth. The lone Hallow's run was scored in the seventh.

In the final game, Talbott took a 15-5 win over The Daily Reflector. The Reflector scored once in the top of the first, but Talbott matched that, then added two in the second on S. McDonald's round-tripper. Talbott pushed in eight in the third with V. Boseman homering, then added three in the fourth. The Reflector added four in the fourth with R. Harris hitting a homer. In the opener on Field One, Sunnyside Eggs romped to a 34-2 win over Carolina Dairy. Carolina got both of its runs in the first for a brief lead. Sunnyside scored six in the bottom of the first, then came up with 19 in the second. They added seven in the third, and two in the fourth.

The Little Sluggers took a 9-3 win over Parker's in the second game. Parker's got one in the first, but the Sluggers tied it up with one in the third. Parker's went back out with one in the fifth, but the Sluggers pushed in eight in their half of the inning to take a 9-2 lead. Parker's got one more in the seventh.

In the final game, White's Insulation nipped University Seaford, 10-9. University scored four in the first, while White's got two, then added one in the second. University pushed in three more in the fourth, while White's got three with D. Ross and Bates homering. White's got three more in the fifth, then added what proved to be the winning run in the sixth on Bowles' homer. University tried to rally, coming up with two in the seventh, but fell short.

Open Jinx Isn't Going To Worry Sam Snead

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
MAMARONECK, N.Y. (AP) — If the miserable, unshakable old character known as the "U. S. Open Jinx" is hanging around locker No. 538 at the Winged Foot Golf Club this week, Sam Snead is paying him no mind.

"It don't bother me none," the 62-year-old, sweet-swinging hillbilly from Hot Springs, Va., drawled. "As somebody once said, if it's not your life and not your wife, what difference does it make?"

Snead launches his 31st try for the U.S. Open crown, starting Thursday, and he insists he is not lying awake at night grieving over the half-dozen or so of the big championships that got away.

"If I've got a shot, it's a long one," Snead said. "All my life, it seems I get a sinking spell about this time every year—Open time, in June. I'm not putting good."

"People always say I get tight and press too hard in the Open and that's why I've never won. That's not so. Whether it's the Open, the Masters or any other tournament I give it a run."

"If it's my turn to win, I win. If it's somebody else's turn, I don't win. I think there's some unseen force that decides these things, and I believe it's been willed that I never win the Open, just as it looks like it's willed that Arnold Palmer will never win the PGA."

Snead, elevated to the list of Golf Immortals at the National Awards Dinner in New York Monday night, is one of the game's phenomenons. In a 41-year pro career, he has won 134 tournaments, including three Masters, three PGAs and the British Open—but never the U. S. Open.

"It looked like I was jinxed from the very first Open I played in 1937," he said. "I was in the club house with 283. Everybody was congratulating me. Then Ralph Guldahl had to sink 10-foot putts for bogeys on the 10th and 11th. On the 15th, he hit a ball which would have been almost unplayable and a spectator stopped it with his foot."

"He got a par when he would have been lucky to get a six. He won by two shots. Everything that happened bad after that."

Similar mishaps confounded him in later years.

"You can't let it bug you," Sam said. "You gotta remember all you can do is play it free and easy. Some invisible force is calling the shots."

'Sportscaster' Bites The Dust

By ERIC PREWITT
AP Sports Writer
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Just before the ax fell, Milt Kahn joined television's Bloopers Hall of Fame.

"Babe Ruth hit his 715th home run tonight," he told an audience which had come to expect almost anything from the sportscaster San Francisco station KPIX-TV virtually signed off the streets.

On the next night's newscast, anchorman Gene Tuck said, "As you've probably noticed, Milt Kahn isn't with us anymore."

The station, owned by Westinghouse Broadcasting Co., had decided to fire Kahn even before he garbled one of baseball's most momentous events—Hank Aaron's homer which broke the Babe Ruth record. In 14 weeks he had become a cause celebre.

Everyone you met on the streets of San Francisco seemed to be either offended or delighted by Milt Kahn.

"I'm not a professional sportscaster, just a fan," he said his first night before the cameras, sometimes stuttering and often flipping his hands nervously.

The 40-year-old bachelor let it be known he considered ballplayers "mostly booring," sportswriters as boozing freeloaders and that he really didn't care too much about reporting scores, sometimes commenting, "Who really cares?"

He had never worked in broadcasting before, having been a publicist in Los Angeles and creator of a sports newsletter called "Milt's Mirror."

Seeking Tourney

MYRTLE BEACH, S.C. (AP)—The Southern Conference Basketball Committee heard proposals today for next season's championship tournament from representatives of Asheville, N.C.; Greenville, S.C., and Richmond, Va.

The committee of four athletic directors, headed by Lyles Alley of Furman was given authority several weeks ago to make a choice after listening to the proposals.

The conference has decided to play the four first-round games on the courts of the top four teams in the regular-season standings. The semifinals will be played in the city selected this week.

During their meeting which began Sunday night the athletic directors of the eight schools have discussed schedules and reviewed rules and regulations for the coming season.

But KPIX-TV signed him to a contract calling for $46,300 his first year, with options for two more years.

"At the time, we thought he would be great," said George Resing Jr., station director. "He put on a great act in the office."

The station, with the lowest 11 p.m. news show ratings in town, was looking for something different and, according to Kahn, "the real reason I was hired was that Win Baker, president of the Westinghouse stations, flipped over a test I did."

But Resing said, "I'm basically responsible," for the 14-week experiment and concluded, "It just didn't work out."

Press comment was almost unanimously critical, starting with San Francisco Chronicle columnist Herb Caen's appraisal of Kahn as a Woody Allen look-alike masquerading as a sportscaster.

Resing said the station offered Kahn the opportunity to resign, "but he said you'll have to fire me, so we did."

Kahn said he received "a super settlement," but Resing said it was basically the same money offered if Kahn had resigned. The settlement was less than the 38 weeks' pay called for under the firm one-year contract, both said.

Kahn would like to try a talk show format as his next venture into broadcasting. He says he believes, "Someone will be bright enough to cash in on me."

The new KPIX-TV sportscaster is former Detroit Lion football star Wayne Walker.

"Wayne's a nice guy," says Kahn. "But all he's going to do is read scores. He won't have any opinions on anything."

Russell Reason For His Choice

SEATTLE (AP) — Former North Carolina State center Tom Burleson says he has chosen to play for the Seattle SuperSonics of the National Basketball Association because he was impressed with Coach Bill Russell and the Sonics' management.

The Sonics said Monday they were signing the 7-foot-2 Burleson, 22, the team's first-round draft choice.

The five-year contract, was said to be in the neighborhood of $1.5 million.

Burleson also said in a news conference Monday he thought the NBA was "much more sound" than the American Basketball Association and he was looking forward to playing against such starters as Bill Walton, who has signed with the Portland Trail Blazers.

The new Sonic, was instrumental in North Carolina State's National Collegiate Athletic Association championship victory this spring.

The Sonics gave up starting guard Dick Snyder and an undisclosed amount of money to Cleveland for the right to draft Burleson in the No. 3 spot of the first round.

Burleson told the news conference there was little difference in the contract offers made by Seattle and the Indiana Pacers of the American Basketball Association.

Russell said, "We went out of our way to get Tommy. We think he has a tremendous future in pro basketball."

"It's the first time I've been associated with a team that had a player taller than me," Russell said. "Tom has deceptive stamina, and a mean streak, which always helps."

"We are doing everything we can to bring a winner (to Seattle)," he said. The coach said Burleson had "almost unlimited potential," and added "we are going to bring him along at his own pace."

LET'S TALK PRICE ON CAPRI!

CAPRI 2000

Some people have the idea that Capri's more car than they can afford. Not necessarily so. In fact, we think that it's one of the best values around... and we think we can prove that to you. # Bitter Teacher Strike Left Scars That Will Last

By TIMOTHY HARPER
Associated Press Writer
HORTONVILLE, Wis. (AP) — Along Hortonville's mile-long Main Street, from the gravel pit to the animal hospital, the big issues are dimmed by small outrages.

Those who have participated in the bitter confrontation remember specific incidents, not great philosophies. At McHugh's Tap and Parker's Hardware Store they talk not of the right of teachers to strike for better pay, but of the good hunting dog found hanged by its own chain from a porch railing.

Kevin Quinn, owner of the beagle, and others admit that the dog may have hanged itself, but it doesn't matter to them.

"Those striking teachers did it," they agree.

Long after the stirring rhetoric about labor and management and quality education is forgotten, the people of Hortonville remember merchandise missing from their store shelves, slashes in their truck tires, paint splashed on their homes and the teachers who called them "dumb farmers."

For Hortonville, nestled in east central Wisconsin's lush rolling dairyland, is the site of a bitter teacher strike, one of the longest in the history of U.S. education.

From an innocuous birth during the 1972-73 school year when the teachers asked that the starting pay for those with a master's degree be raised from $7,850 to $8,100 and the board would go no higher than $7,900, the dispute mushroomed into a statewide tempest after 84 of the 88 teachers went on strike March 18 and were fired.

Friends now walk out of their way to avoid meeting, and acquaintances mutter curses instead of cheery greetings.

The teachers angrily chose to work that year without a contract, banking on community support for their 1973-74 demands.

But the support never materialized, and the teachers began talking about what they said was Hortonville's backward attitude toward labor and education, about how their union was the only collective-bargaining unit in town and how hardly any of the few Hortonville graduates who went to college ever returned to live in the area.

This didn't sit well with Hortonville's 1,500 residents, who are outnumbered by the 1,900 students at the sprawling one-story red-brick district school on the edge of town.

Nor did it set well with other Outagamie County residents. They are the dirt and dairy farmers, the paper mill workers and farm implement salesmen whose children spend an hour each day in a school bus bouncing along U.S. 45 before it becomes Hortonville's Main Street.

Most of the residents of the far-flung district attended the Hortonville school, which runs from kindergarten through senior high. Many had no other education before they married and settled down in large clean farm homes or ramshackle houses in the shadow of paper mills and canneries.

In January, when the teachers staged a "mini-strike," refused overtime and counseled students to make trouble for substitutes in case there was a strike, parents became irate.

"This one teacher told me I could do anything I wanted if they went on strike and we had a substitute," said Rick Greisbach, 18, a high school senior. "He said that anything that happened while he was on strike didn't matter because he was coming back."

"That mini-strike is what really turned everybody against the teachers," said dairy farmer Roger Wehling, 41, a 1950 graduate and president of the school board. "The kids came home and told their parents what was going on. We got the idea they weren't putting forth an honest effort."

By mid-March, only $900 annually separated the teachers and the school board. But negotiations broke down and the teachers decided to strike.

They apparently expected their walkout to follow the precedent of other public employ strikes in recent years, although such strikes are illegal in Wisconsin. The normal pattern would have the school board obtain a court order requiring the teachers to return to their classrooms; an order the teachers would ignore. Within days, a settlement would be reached and the teachers would return to their jobs. The strike would be forgotten.

But the school board refused to follow the script. Instead of going to court to have the teachers ordered back to work, it hired 40 substitutes to reopen the high school.

A week later, the situation became a statewide issue when the board fired the 84 strikers and signed the 40 substitutes and 40 other new teachers to contracts for the rest of the school year.

"We are management, and we are upholding the principles of management," declared Board President Wehling, waving a stack of congratulatory letters from Midwestern businessmen. "The people are the bosses, not the teachers. We represent the people."

Rallying to the strident protests of the Wisconsin Education Association, 500 teachers and public employes from across the state came to Hortonville to join the picket lines during the traditional Easter recess in April.

More than 200 law officers from surrounding communities followed them to back up Hortonville's lone policeman. Seventy-five arrests were made on charges of obstructing police as demonstrators tried to block streets, sidewalks and school doorways.

Six of those arrested were parents, but that was the only visible show of support for the strikers from the community. About two dozen parents pulled 42 children out of the school and demanded an immediate end to the furor. But they took neither side.

Quite a few area residents, however, found in the Easter uproar new reasons to hate school teachers.

"I want to buy a new silo," said farmer Dave Becker, class of '68, "but I won't be able to if the teachers get what they want and taxes go up again."

"I don't care if they never come in here again," said a distraught merchant after a group of teachers stood around in his store for several minutes. "I probably only made $10 from teachers last year. They only come around here to take our tax money."

A group of about 30 men, most of them post-1960 Hortonville graduates, dubbed themselves the Hortonville Vigilantes. They followed groups of teachers on foot and in cars, including a pickup with "Vigilantes" painted across the side. They said they were making sure that replacement teachers got to work and back and that marchants weren't harassed.

A group of black teachers from out of town moved door to door, asking for support for the strikers.

"This really frightened us," said one housewife. "Before the strike the teachers said they would be replaced by niggers from Milwaukee. People around here didn't like that because most of them have never seen or talked to black people."

The teachers, meanwhile, went to court to have the firings overturned, but instead got an order limiting their strike activities.

"The people here are dead set against organized labor," said seventh and eighth grade

Disciplined Life Is Underlined

By ROBERT H. REID
Associated Press Writer
GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Bob Jones University, which prides itself on taking the revival spirit from tent meetings to the classroom, holds onto a religious fundamentalism that is diminishing in the South.

The university strives to train young men and women in its philosophy of life, which includes a literal interpretation of the Bible and a rejection of liberal church doctrine.

To that end, the university has created an environment where opera and fine arts are respected, but where smoking, dancing, card-playing and movies are forbidden.

It is also a university that boasts a cosmopolitan student body from 20 countries, but where unmarried blacks are not admitted.

Because single blacks are excluded, the Justice Department considers the admissions policy racially discriminatory. Since the university receives no federal funds, lifting its tax exempt status is the government's only means of forcing change, the department says.

On that issue, the U.S. Supreme Court recently ruled in favor of the Internal Revenue Service, a decision which will in effect strip Bob Jones University of its tax exempt status.

Learning has a special flavor at Bob Jones, which calls itself "The World's Most Unusual University." Liberal arts and sciences are mixed with a heavy dose of old-time religion.

Regular attendance at a fundamentalist church, one that adheres to conservative Protestant beliefs and militantly rejects liberalism is expected of every student. Applicants must name their church and pastor on the admissions form.

University officials refrain from talking to newsmen, claiming the press has distorted the image of the school over the years.

"The press has sometimes compared us to the snake eaters in the mountains, and made fun of our rules," a spokesman said. "They don't talk about the positive things. This is a high quality, Christian school."

According to the student handbook, students are encouraged to refrain from listening to contemporary, pop, rock or country and Western music in favor of classical or church music.

To make sure they have access to acceptable music, the school operates an AM-FM radio station, which broadcasts opera and other serious music along with conservative political commentary.

The school's racial policy, which set it on the collision course with the federal courts, stems from what it interprets as a Biblical admonition against interracial marriage. According to a spokesman, the university accepts Orientals and married blacks.

He did not say whether any blacks are now enrolled.

"We will accept Orientals," he said, "but they must not date out of their race."

Candidates for admission must state their race on the application and, if admitted, must refrain from any involvement in civil rights activity. The rule is stated broadly, and presumably would apply to participation in rallies, marches or any overt activity.

The university was founded in 1927 by the Rev. Bob Jones Sr., a widely known conservative evangelist. In 1933 it was moved from northwestern Florida to Cleveland, Tenn., and in 1947 to Greenville, a textile-manufacturing city in the state's northwest Bible Belt.

The founder died in 1968. His son, Bob Jones Jr., is the chancellor, and his grandson, Dr. Bob Jones III, is the president.

The university makes no apologies for its unabashed fundamentalism. "We think the Scripture has not changed and the Christ of the Bible has not changed," the spokesman said. "So we have not changed."

As a bulwark of fundamentalism, BJU hires only fundamentalists for its faculty.

MODERNISTIC SETTING—The name of the university is emblazoned in huge letters on a post at the main gate of Bob Jones University in Greenville, S.C. The school offers fundamentalist Bible teaching in a controlled campus atmosphere.

Weyerhaeuser will grow in North Carolina this year.

A new forest.
27 million seedlings big.
We take the loblolly pine seedlings from a Weyerhaeuser nursery like the one at Washington, North Carolina, and plant them in our forests near Plymouth and New Bern.

They'll be taller than a man in just four years. And ready to meet the demand for wood around the year 2000.

We're planting seedlings in other states, too. More than 157 million this year. The biggest effort yet by anybody in the world. Ever.

And because we'll give the trees a lot of care and attention over the next 20-30 years, the forest will produce at least twice the wood volume that nature would have provided on the same land.

We call it High Yield Forestry — growing more wood faster for America.

Yamashita Trial Poorly Handled

By JAY SHARBUTT
AP Television Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Twenty-eight years ago, the U.S. Army hanged a top Japanese general, Tomoyuki Yamashita, for atrocities his troops committed in the Philippines toward the end of World War II.

ennial one, was the extent of a military commander's responsibility for his troops' conduct in wartime.

Tonight, ABC-TV is offering a 90-minute dramatization of the controversial military trial of Yamashita, convicted and sentenced to death on Dec. 7, 1945, the fourth anniversary of Pearl Harbor.

The program's intent is admirable, but its content is weak. It tackles a profound, complex matter with all the subtlety of a howitzer crew firing for effect and drawing only light return fire.

The show's producer, director and narrator is film maker Stanley Kramer.

In tonight's case, Kramer, armed with a script by Norman Corwin, has taken the stuff of exciting reality and turned it into portentous docu-drama that feigns life only now and then.

A major issue in the Yamashita case was whether his trial ever could have been fair when the court and its rules of law were created by the man's victorious opponent, Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Another key question, a per-

Whether he could have prevented them, had he known of them, is studied and covered in his largely unrebuted assertions of innocence.

He emerges as a veritable saint, yet little question is made of his claim heavy U.S. military pressure severed his lines of communication and left him a demoralized army he could barely control.

There was no evidence he knew of or ordered any atrocity, but the military tribunal that convicted him held he "failed to provide effective control of his troops as required by the circumstances."

The U.S. Supreme Court upheld the conviction, though not, as Kramer notes, without a strong dissent by Associate Justice Frank Murphy, who warned of "dangerous implications" in the decision.

Indeed, Murphy added, "the fate of some future president of the United States and his chiefs of staff and military advisers may well have been sealed by this decision."

District Honor Is Conferred Home Ec Agent

Mrs. Evelyn L. Spangler, associate home economics extension agent in Pitt County, has been named outstanding home economics agent with less than 10 years service in the northeastern district.

Mrs. Spangler was cited especially for her work with baby sitter training, parents of preschoolers, clothing and family resources management programs, and the Gritton Resource Improvement Program (GRIP).

The award was presented in Cherokee at the annual meeting of the North Carolina Association of Extension Home Economists.

A 1968 honor graduate of the School of Home Economics, ECU, Mrs. Spangler began work with the Pitt County Agricultural Extension Service in September, 1968. She has done post-graduate work at both ECU, and North Carolina State University at Raleigh.

State's New Maps Ready

The North Carolina State Highway map for 1974-75 is off the press and over 280,000 were delivered to the Highway Building in Raleigh last week. This was the first shipment of some 1,250,000 maps that will be ready.

Ted Harrison, Director of Information Services for the Department of Transportation, said that distribution will be made through the Transportation Department and the Travel and Promotion Unit of the Department of Natural and Economic Resources. They will be placed at North Carolina Welcome Centers, state ferry offices, and other designated places. Individuals desiring maps may write to: Office of Information Services, Department of Transportation, P.O. box 25201, Raleigh, North Carolina 27611.

Harrison said that maps will be mailed to individuals who write for them, but said that policy prevents their being used for commercial purposes. Individuals writing for maps were asked to do so on post-cards, rather than by letter.

Now, A Biography From Bette Davis

By BOB THOMAS
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP)—Long one of Hollywood's ablest conversationalists, Bette Davis has usually managed to get the last word. Now she has done the same in her own biography.

The new book bears the rather arch title of "Mother Goddam," taken from the lusty character of "The Shanghai Gesture." Time magazine called Miss Davis that, and she admits that she often so designates herself to her children.

In any guise, Bette Davis has been a vital force in films since the early 1930s, and her flinty New England personality creates sparks on the screen and off. In "Mother Goddam" she is afforded the rare opportunity of reviewing her own life and work.

Whitney Stine has written the biography, drawing mostly from previously published material. Whenever Miss Davis wishes to interject, she does so, her comments being printed in red type.

It becomes a lively exercise, like a strong-minded monarch making corrections in a court biography.

Here are some of the Davis comments: Erroll Flynn: "He had no respect for me as an actress because I was a worker at my profession and he wasn't."

Her looks: "The real reason for never seeing rushes was that I never liked my face on the screen — or off. I still spend my life wishing I looked like Katharine Hepburn."

Losing the Oscar for "Of Human Bondage": "...I was heartbroken ... not that I honestly ever have approved of my performance as Mildred ... But due to the reviews and the acclaim given me by friends in my profession I just took it for granted I would win."

"One must never taken anything for granted, especially Academy Awards. I made the same mistake three more times. Shame on me — never will again."

"I am truly fortunate that I have my work. I have decided that work is the great hope, the one anchor for a satisfying life."

The Worry Clinic All Respond To Sign Language

Jill's question is intriguing! What language did Adam use? God apparently spoke that tongue, too. But the most common form of communication is revealed by a baby at about 3 months of age. Dogs employ it in reverse!

By GEORGE W. CRANE Ph.D., M.D.
CASE A-654: Jill D., aged 17, is a high school senior. "Dr. Crane," she asked, "what was the language that Adam and Eve used in the Garden of Eden?"

"And what is the most widely used language today on this planet Earth?"

For I am to write a theme on languages and wondered about those two questions?"

Adam's Language
The first form of communication ever used on this earth is still the most popular language of modern human beings.

What is it?
Sign language, especially a smile!

That is also the first form of communication today when a new baby begins to grow aware of its surroundings.

For at about the age of 3 months, the infant will respond to his mother's smile by smiling back at her.

And a smile is one of the 3 basic symbols that are even now recognized among all civilized nations.

Those 3 are understood by Russians, Germans, Japanese, Europeans, Chinese and Americans.

They are (1) A smile; (2) Arabic numbers; (3) Notes on the musical scale.

Dogs also smile gleefully but by wagging their tails.

But they, like human babies, soon learn the meaning of a smile and especially a cordial tone of voice.

Several times I have tested our dogs at our summer home on an Indiana farm.

They may be quietly lying of sign language, understood by all peoples on this earth.

And probably by any other intelligent creatures that may inhabit distant planets revolving around other suns in the universe.

Nobody knows the actual spoken language that Adam and Eve may have used, but it must have been a cosmic language, employed by God, for they conversed with the Almighty in the same tongue He employed.

And at the Tower of Babel, according to Scripture, the use of this cosmic tongue was replaced by multiple languages, so the workers couldn't understand each other.

Modern language experts (philologists) are now finding that the same root sounds pervade many nations and thus suggest our different tongues all go back to a single source.

Thus, mater, mother, modor, mamma, mutter, etc., suggest a common root origin.

As for Jill's second query, English is the most widely used language on this planet.

For the Chinese, though outnumbering the English nations, employ several dialects that are not understood between one province and another.

Same is true of the 250 million people in the U.S.S.R.

But all people respond to basic signs, starting with the facial ones listed above.

And spoken language probably evolved via onomatopoeia, as buzz, hiss, bang, ow, ugh, etc. (Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 25 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

FORECAST FOR WEDNESDAY, JUNE 12, 1974

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Except for a tendency to be careless where your health is concerned, and expecting more from an influential person than is practical, the day otherwise is excellent for thinking out your most important plan of action.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) You had better plan for entertainment you want early so that it doesn't interfere with other things you have to do. Keep poised.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Be more concerned with home affairs that are important instead of running off on a tangent. Do some entertaining tonight.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Make appointments with persons who have the data you need and forget money for the time being. Improve regular routines.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Concern yourself with the practical side of life and know which business experts should be consulted for best results.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You want favors from others now, but you have to show that you are willing to work for them, and give favors back in return.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Private talks with associates concerning a special project bring excellent results now. Don't argue with others. Be wise.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) Gain the goodwill of one in power by showing you are an excellent citizen. Take no chances with one who is irate at this time.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have inspired ideas and should do something about them right away. Change your attitude and get things done right.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Follow your hunches and know how to establish more harmony at home. Try to please loved one. Sidestep any arguments.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) Come to a fine understanding with associates and be happier in your future dealings. Handle your routines with accuracy.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Take care of financial affairs that are pressing. Talk matters over with co-workers and gain their full cooperation.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Talk with associates and plan just what must be done to have greater happiness in the future. Show more devotion to mate.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY... he or she will have much warmth and kindness for others and will be highly attuned to the feelings of others. Teach how to ward off any possible danger that could come to your progeny by being too trusting. The field of finance is especially fine here. Give ethical training early in life.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

Pass Pass

Opening lead: Jack of ♣
If I had a penny for every hand lost thru careless play at the first trick, I would not have to support myself by writing a bridge column—I could retire a very wealthy man indeed.

Altho he held four spades, North elected to make the more descriptive response of one no trump over South's one diamond opening bid, rather than introduce such a scrawny suit. When South showed his strength by jump-shifting and then bidding his heart fragment over his partner's preference, North realized that the spade suit was wide open. Therefore, he eschewed a no trump contract and indicated that he had a good minimum by jumping to five diamonds, which ended the auction.

The opening lead of the jack of hearts was won by the ace. The ace and king of diamonds were cashed, and declarer exhibited good technique when he left the remaining trump outstanding to test the club suit. He cashed the ace of clubs, crossed to dummy's king of clubs and led a low club towards his queen. East ruffed and South followed with his low club. The queen of hearts forced the king, and declarer suddenly realized that he had no entry to his hand to cash the queen of clubs on which he would discard dummy's heart loser. He tried a spade, but the defenders were on their toes. They won the spade and cashed a heart for down one.

It did not require any high-level technical play to bring home the contract, just a bit of care at the first trick. Observe the difference if declarer wins the opening lead in dummy, and plays the hand in exactly the same fashion. Now, when East ruffs the third club and returns a heart, declarer wins in his hand with the ace and can play the queen of clubs, cuffing a heart from dummy. A heart ruff is the eleventh trick.

It does not help East to refuse to ruff the third club. South would win the queen and ruff his remaining club with the queen of trumps, thus losing only a trick in each major suit.

Borgnine Wants A 'Desk Job'

NEW YORK (AP) — When someone mentioned there was an opening for a film coordinator at City Hall, actor Carroll O'Connor quickly shot back, "Give it to me. Give me a desk job. I need a desk job."

O'Connor and Ernest Borgnine, decked out in the uniforms of New York City's finest, were shooting a new film in Monday's heat on Manhattan's Lower East Side when the question came up.

Mayor Abraham Beame, who visited the makeshift set for the film "Grand Street," said that 15 movies will be shot here in 1974, each producing about $750,000 in economic benefits for the city.

He said, "we're still looking" for someone to fill that vacant coordinator's job at City Hall.

Stock And Market Reports

RALEIGH (AP NCDA)—North Carolina's hog prices today were 75 cents to 11 lower. Tops of 23.50 at Wilson and High Falls; 25.00-26.00 at Kinston and Lumberton, 24.50-25.00 at Rocky Mount; 24.50 at Salisbury.

RALEIGH (AP NCDA)—North Carolina f.o.b. dock broilers: Market steady today with this week's average price at 34.87 cents per pound. Supplies ample, demand fair, and weights desirable. Estimated slaughter 1,162,000.

N.C. hens: Market unchanged on heavy types. Supplies of live heavy types plentiful, demand slow. Heavy, at farm, 10 cents.

NEW YORK (AP) — Profit taking halted the stock market's recent surge today, pushing prices moderately lower in slow trading.

The 11:30 a.m. Dow Jones average of 30 industrials was down 5.32 at 854.35, and declines outnumbered advances by 5-to-3 on the New York Stock Exchange.

Analysts said the sharp advance of the past six sessions appeared to have lost its momentum, largely because no other major banks had followed the lead of New York's First National City Bank in lowering the prime rate from 11 1/2 to 11 1/4 per cent.

Citibank's move, announced last Friday, helped stimulate a strong advance in stock prices by raising hopes that the cost of borrowing generally was headed into a downtrend.

Most oils with interests in the Arabian American Oil Co. lost ground. On Monday Aramco announced that an interim agreement had been reached increasing Saudi Arabia's stake in the oil-producing consortium from 25 to 60 per cent.

Exxon was down 1/4 at 77 3/4; Texaco, 3/4 to 26 3/4; and Standard Oil of California, 1 1/4 to 28. Mobil, which has a smaller position in Aramco, was unchanged at 43 3/4.

Declines continued in semiconductor issues. Analysts have traced steady drops in the stocks over the past two weeks to concern that the industry might be entering a down phase after last year's boom.

National Semiconductor, down 1 1/4 at 13 3/4, was the Big Board volume leader in trading that included a 49,900-share block at 13 1/2; Texas Instruments lost 1 1/4 to 94 1/4, and Fairchild Camera was off 1 1/4 at 43 3/4.

EG&G, Inc., which said it was named a major supplier of components for a new Xerox Corp. duplicator, gained 7/8 to 12 3/4. Xerox was off 1 1/4 at 125 3/4 in a general decline in the glamour sector.

The American Stock Exchange's most-active issue, Airwick Industries, was unchanged at 12 1/4. The Amex market-value index slipped .32 to 86.27 in the first hour of trading.

The NYSE composite, meanwhile, was down .39 at 48.60.

would cost an estimated $300,000. Deputy Director and CBD project manager T. I. Wagner reported that the CBD Project Advisory Committee, meeting in May, unanimously approved a floor plan for the development of the Evans Street Mall and requested that the Commission proceed, if possible, with plans to award bids in December so that construction can begin in January of 1975.

The mall development plans, submitted and discussed with PAC members by Bob Anderson of City Planning & Architectural Associates of Chapel Hill, tie in with the plans for improvement of the CBD alleyways, it was pointed out. The mall plans are designed for development of either a semi-enclosed or enclosed structure.

Commission executive director Joe Laney said that plans now call for the alleyway construction bids to be awarded in July with the city undertaking preliminary utility work in early August. Following that timetable, actual alleyway resurfacing could begin in mid August.

Wagner said that since the May meeting of the Commission, five individuals and one business were relocated in the CBD area.

Real Estate Officer Kirby Boyd reported that four parcels were acquired in CBD since the May meeting and two houses and one building were removed. He said that 13 houses and commercial buildings are ready for demolition in CBD.

No acquisitions were made in Southside during the month, Boyd said, while two structures were removed and options obtained on several others.

Mrs. Faye Brewington, Southside project manager, said that 16 relocations, including eight families, seven tenants, and one homeowner, were handled in Southside since the May meeting.

street (location of the H. B. Sugg School). It was announced that the cost to the board would be between $400 and $500.

The board turned down a request from John B. Lewis Jr., president of the Farmville Child Development Center, for financial assistance for the facility since one or more of the students being served in the center are of school age. The board explained they could not legally offer financial assistance to a non public school.

Board members approved the appointment of Ott Alford, county superintendent to a four year term on the Board of Controls of the North Carolina High School Athletic Association.

The board approved the transfer of teachers in the kindergarten program for the coming year so that the money allotted for the program will be sufficient to meet the needs.

Tom. Craft, associate superintendent, told the board that the state has allotted 15 kindergarten teachers and $290,000 for the program.

"With the split shift of kindergarten such as the county offers, there will be a need to transfer teachers so that the money will be used to the best advantage of the program. The county will have to fund the remainder of the program," Craft said.

The state only funds one kindergarten session per day while the county has worked with both a morning and afternoon class so that all kindergarten-age children can participate in the program.

"This coming year will be the most crucial year the kindergarten program has had," Craft said. "Hopefully, the following year, the state will allocate enough teachers and money for the program."

Craft also reported on the sewage line problem on the

Obituaries

Barnes
Mrs. Rosetta Barnes of near Pinetops died early Monday morning in Edgecombe General Hospital.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Hemby Funeral Home, Fountain.

Carraway
Mrs. Reba Haddock Carraway, 49, wife of Charles H. Carraway, died in Wilson County Memorial Hospital Monday.

Funeral services will be conducted at the Marlboro Free Will Baptist Church by the pastor, the Rev. Bruce Barrow, and the Rev. William N. Gordon, pastor of the Farmville Presbyterian Church. Burial will be in the Hollywood Cemetery in Farmville. The body will be taken from the Wilkerson Funeral Home to the Church one hour prior to the time of services.

Mrs. Carraway was born and reared in Pitt County in the Grimesland Community and attended the Chicod and Chocowiny Schools. She was a member of the Marlboro Free Will Baptist Church and had lived in Farmville for the past 15 years.

Surviving are her husband, Charles H. Carraway; five sons, Samuel B., Randy A., James G. Blalock Jr., and Wyatt L. Parker III, all of the home, and Terry Wade Blalock of Farmville; two daughters, Mrs. William E. Byrd III of Hillsboro and Miss Shirley Jean Blalock of the home; her mother, Mrs. Ethel Brock of the home; five sisters, Mrs. Hubert Wiggins and Mrs. Annie H. WINTERVILLE—Craig Ebron died Monday. Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Phillips Brothers Mortuary.

Herrin
Mr. Daniel Jefferson Herrin, 94, died in the Greenville Nursing Home Monday night. He resided at 204 Pineview Dr.

Graveside services will be conducted at two o'clock Wednesday afternoon in Oakdale Cemetery in Wilmington by the Rev. Mortimer Glover, Episcopal Minister of Wilmington.

Mr. Herrin, a native of Georgia, spent most of his life in Wilmington and was president of the Wilmington Naval Stores for a number of years. He was a past President and honorary member of the Wilmington Rotary Club and a former Mayor of Wrightsville Beach.

He is survived by a daughter, Dr. Virginia Herrin, a Professor of English at East Carolina University.

The family requests that flowers be omitted.

Grifton School campus. He explained that a committee was studying the site and that an investigation of the safety of the school building is still under way.

Board members approved maternity leave for two teachers.

Action on a request from Ayden Mayor Ross Persinger that the board sell the South Ayden School property to the town of Ayden for recreational purposes was delayed until the regular meeting in July. Action on a request from the Winterville Advisory Council seeking reinstatement of $175,000 to the kindergarten program in that area was also postponed until the next meeting.

Jackson
Junie Henry Jackson, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Junie Jackson of Winterville, died Monday afternoon.

Funeral arrangements are incomplete at Flanagan and Parker Funeral Home.

O'Quinn
FARMVILLE—Mr. Jessie Vance O'Quinn, 63, of Rt. 1 Farmville, died early Monday in Wilson Memorial Hospital.

Funeral services will be conducted Wednesday at 2 p.m. from the Church Street Chapel of the Farmville Funeral Home by the Rev. Walter Sutton Jr. Interment will follow in the Walstonburg Cemetery, Walstonburg.

Mr. O'Quinn, a lifelong resident of North Carolina, was a member of Friendship F.W.B. Church. He was a retired maintenance man for A. C. Monk Co.

Some Greenville Utilities customers experienced a small "brown out" or reduction in electricity supply yesterday, but they probably did not notice it.

According to Malcolm Green, assistant superintendent for Greenville Utilities, VEPCO asked the local utilities to cut back power consumption five per cent when VEPCO experienced problems with two power units.

Green stated VEPCO was replacing a transformer at one of its substations when two generators were accidentally tripped off the line.

Along with these two units accidentally going out of service at Surry, another generating unit at Chesterfield, Va., was down for emergency repairs causing a supply problem.

VEPCO contacted Greenville Utilities at 10 a.m. Monday morning asking it to reduce power consumption by five per cent. This reduction request was made of all of VEPCO's subscribers, according to a VEPCO spokesman at the Roanoke Rapids division.

VEPCO cancelled its five per cent reduction request this morning when the two units were restored to service.

GUCO went into its power consumption reduction plan when it received the VEPCO request, according to Green.

"We went to phase one of the second step yesterday," states Green, which was to ask large consumers to cut back in their consumption as much as possible. Phase two of step two was not implemented, which is a public appeal over the news media to cut back unnecessary power consumption.

Consumers of this type include Burroughs Wellcome, Carolina Leaf Tobacco Co., Grady White Boats, Pitt Memorial Hospital and others.

Step three sees actual circuits being cut off by GUCO on a rotating basis, putting some subscribers completely out of power. Steps one and two were the only actions implemented by GUCO yesterday.

The Surry unit affected yesterday is a nuclear generating unit, according to the Roanoke Rapids spokesman, but the accident did not affect the generating unit itself and no danger was caused by the accidental "trip out" of the power supplier.

Things were back to normal this morning, according to Green and he expressed appreciation to their large consumers who cooperated so well with the request yesterday.

The implementing of the reduction plan by GUCO yesterday was the first time the plan was put into action, according to Green.

Italy's Economic Woes Deepen As Rumor Quits

By VICTOR L. SIMPSON
Associated Press Writer
ROME (AP) — The resignation of Premier Mariano Rumor plunged Italy into a political vacuum today, compounding the nation's worst economic crisis since World War II.

"Italy is deeply sick," said Transport Minister Luigi Preti, a Democratic Socialist. "It is clear that this is the most serious of the government crises since the war."

With no party having a majority in Parliament and no majority possible without the participation of the Christian Democrats, the largest and dominant party, Leone has few options.

He could ask Rumor or another Christian Democrat to try to form another coalition with the Socialists. Or he could call for new elections, a prospect that doesn't appeal to the Christian Democrats because of the beating they took in last month's referendum on divorce. The Communists, the country's second largest party, have been pushing for a "historic compromise" government uniting them with the Christian Democrats. But some political observers believe the Communists now have doubts about taking on official responsibility for an apparently unmanageable economy while they have already achieved a hand in power through their influence with the powerful leftist labor unions.

Guido Carli, governor of the Bank of Italy, said recently that only shock treatment in the form of strict credit, higher taxes and a curb on wage increases could rescue the economy. The Socialists and the unions maintained that any cooling of the economy would result in a sharp rise in unemployment and deterioration in the buying power of the workers.

Information on the number of children families plan to have within the next five years will be collected here the week of June 17-21 from a sample of households by Mrs. Jean C. Wilson of Rt. 1, Grimesland. Response from the nationwide survey will provide data on the future growth rate and composition of the U. S. population, data needed by planners in government and private business. Facts supplied by the participants are kept confidential by law, and the results are used only to compile statistical totals.

President Giovanni Leone asked Rumor and his cabinet to continue in office as a caretaker regime until a new government is formed. The president was expected to start consultations with political leaders today in search of a new premier.

The government fell at Italy's darkest hour in its 28 years as a republic. Inflation is soaring at the rate of 20 per cent a year. The government's foreign credit is exhausted. The lira has dropped 18 per cent in a year. The foreign trade deficit is more than a billion dollars a month. Crime is up, and political terrorism is plaguing the country.

MARIANO RUMOR
Rumor quit Monday night after the Socialist party, the No. 2 faction in his coalition government, and the trade unions refused to go along with his proposals for an austerity program of tight credit and higher taxes to stave off national bankruptcy. It was the second center-left coalition headed by Rumor to collapse in 11 months.

Italy's 36th government since World War II lasted only three months.

Attacked On His 1st Day

EAST NAPLES, Fla. (AP) — "I was lucky. Don't make me a hero for this," says jail guard David Johnson, whose first day on the job was almost the last of his life.

Officials said Johnson, the first 18-year-old ever hired at the prison, was almost stabbed while thwarting an attempted jail break.

He reported to work at the Collier County jail Saturday, three days after being graduated from Naples High School. Several hours later, inmate James Callahan, given permission to use a telephone, lunged at Johnson with a crude knife, officials said.

As the young guard struggled with Callahan, several other prisoners armed with pieces of pipe rushed toward an unlocked cell door, officials said.

They said Johnson managed to hold off Callahan long enough to lock the door and then subdued the inmate.

The opening of the Operation Sunshine program has been postponed from Wednesday to Friday.

There will be two sessions each day—one from 8:30 to 11:30 a.m.; the other from 1:30 to 4:30 p.m. The bus schedule will be the same as was published in Sunday's Daily Reflector, Director Barbara Whitehead said.

Letters By 'Crackpots'

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A rash of letters claiming to be from the Symbionese Liberation Army has been sent by "crackpots and mental cases" and should not be given wide publicity, a top FBI official says.

"All the crackpots and mental cases between Canada and Mexico who can hold a pen are drawing seven-headed cobras (the SLA symbol) and writing 'kill the pigs' and 'death to the fascist insect,'" the official, who asked that his name be withheld, said Monday.

"There has been nothing, with the exception of tape recordings in which Miss Hearst's voice has been identified, that we consider to be genuine in this case," he said.

In a letter delivered Monday to a local radio station, "Colonel De" and "Captain Cha" claimed fugitive newspaper heiress Patricia Hearst had been killed by police. The letter, sent last Friday, was post-marked Victorville, a small Southern California desert town.

Another letter received by a local television station was signed the "Symbionese Group of Quebec" and bore a Montreal postmark. It pledged to help fight the "fascist pigs."

"As far as we know, she (Miss Hearst) is very much alive," the FBI official said. "If she had died, can anyone really believe the SLA would have announced it in a memo that starts, 'Symbionese Liberation Army Medical Communication—To all units and forces, subject, death of valiant soldier?'"

The state only funds one kindergarten session per day while the county has worked with both a morning and afternoon class so that all kindergarten-age children can participate in the program.

"This coming year will be the most crucial year the kindergarten program has had," Craft said. "Hopefully, the following year, the state will allocate enough teachers and money for the program."
